Don't you think putting phone numbers out there is rather unethical? Yes, you did leave off the last two digits - but you drastically reduced the permutation so that someone who has a little time might work it out. Seems like, while not stepping over the line, you have your toes firmly on the other side.

Maybe it's just me, but he left off the last FOUR, that's 4 digits of the number...or am I seeing things wrong? I think I can count.... rofl and...do you need the last 4 of each to check?

QUOTE(Panama_Pete @ Sep 9 2006, 04:57 PM)

Beartrap was identifying exactly which phone numbers to check.

If he had gone the other way and not identified them, you would have said his argument was weak, because these folks might have several phones, etc., etc., etc., and someone might check the wrong telephones, etc.,etc., etc. And if they are unlisted, how would he even have those numbers, etc., etc., etc.

To your credit, you did skillfully avoid the context of the post, which is that Brenda and Danny most likely had quite a few of those "spiritual adultery" phone calls of their own.

So, when it comes to "the other side," you need look no further than your own front door.

PP,

Make you a deal Pete, when you go back and deal with the meat of the post I put up yesterday (or was it the day before) in regards to the paper thin exercise in trying to connect 3ABN or Danny to David Koresh then . . . shoot, no, here you go, because I don't expect you to deal with the meat of a post like that . . .

BT need not have put phone numbers out there, the were superfluous (unless of course he wanted someone to do the leg work and try to discover information about these phone bills so needed to make it as easy as possible without crossing and legal lines). The claims he made in the post were not new. That claim - which has no foundation other than perception - has been made before.

Now if you want to explain to me why they were necessary I am more than willing to listen - and if it makes sense accept your explanation.

Did you notice you avoided stating your part of your own "deal." Only my part is mentioned? That's quite some "deal" you offered.

As for me not responding, are you projecting your own system of posting on me?

First, we have to go back to your post which is:

"First, when checking the source material used by PP there is no suggestion that Pastor Gilley baptised Vernon Howell (aka David Koresh). There is no claim that he was baptised at the seminar or even as a result of the seminar, it is merely a statement that he came into contact with Biblical prophecy in 1979 and was baptised in 1979.

Additionally, Pastor Gilley was in Tyler, Texas to do an evangelistic series and did not "teach" Howell anything other than what is traditionally presented in any Daniel and Revelation seminar. There is no insinuation that Gilley had anything to do with Koresh's eventual delusions of grandeur in either source - it merely gives the name of the pastor giving the seminar.

Connecting Danny or anyone at 3ABN to the Branch Davidians (either Koresh or Schnieder) couldn't hold water in the ocean. This trial balloon/red herring needs to go the way of other unsubstantiated ideas in the process of this discussion. "

I can speak to that which I wrote.

Others who made several posts in the thread may want to anwer for themselves. For example, your reference to people named Schneider in Wisconsin was not mentioned by me. Therefore, there would be no way for me to respond to it. I am familiar with Wisconsin dairy products, but that's about it for Wisconsin.

Actually, the first two links I posted stated the Gilley's Revelation Seminar was held at Tyler and the David Howell baptism was held at Tyler - both in 1979. Those are just historical facts. They are what they are. If you look closely, you will notice that all of the information in the first two links I posted were historical sources. Historical facts are what they are. I posted them, but I did not write them.

The "trial balloon and red herring" mixed metaphors were your own and constitute your own opinion. I don't have to respond to your trial balloon idea because it is your theory, not mine.

The information in the third link is from the current 3ABN Web site. It, too, is what it is. I did not write that, either. I just posted it. In a printed book, these sources would come with appropriate footnotes, noting the source and giving credit to the authors.

I, do think -- and I said -- that those three links are interesting. That was and is my opinion. Interest is in the eye of the beholder.

I also said, "I can see why some here would sense shades of David Koresh." Others here, have indeed, mentioned David Koresh in several different places. They may choose to answer, giving their reasons, themselves, if they have not already done so.

So, what was your actual point? If you are talking about the relevancy of the standard "Revelation Seminar", that should go into another topical section because I don't believe in scaring people into the church with stories of hailstones the size of Volkswaggons. Please don't assume everyone endorses what you call Daniel and Revelation Seminars. Many people don't. Some believe using scare tactics is counterproductive. On some people, who are susceptible to those "delusions" you mentioned, scare tactics can be highly destructive. There could be an entire thread just on that subject.

First and foremost, I believe people need a personal relationship with Jesus Christ, rather than be frightened into the church by "End Time" events. People who enter the church for the wrong reasons, who find no relationship to Jesus, typically leave after a time.

If there is some other "meat" in my own post that I missed, you'll have to point it out, at the same time you respond to your part of the "deal" whatever you decide that part is going to be.

Here are those links, again, and my comment if you missed them.

[emphasis in red is mine]:

http://www.davekopel.com/Waco/Book/waprolog.htm

"In 1979, at the age of twenty, Howell began attending a Seventh-Day Adventist (SDA) church in Tyler, Texas . Howell attended a church-sponsored revival meeting featuring traveling evangelist Jim Gilley's "Revelation Seminars." Gilley's multimedia events warned that the fantastic, frightening Apocalypse foretold in the Book of Revelation could take place soon. Howell was fascinated."

Next, I shall quote from the following Web site of the Revised Waco Chronology:

http://www.skepticfiles.org/waco/batf.htm

"In 1979 Vernon Howell was baptised into the Tyler, Texas Seventh-day Adventist Church."

[Now quoting from the 3ABN Web site]

Thanks for your response Pete - the current pop psychology word du jour "projecting" aside, I really did appreciate it and will respond more fully (avoiding legal brief sized responses) later. But I do think it important to note that the second web site you referenced did contain this warning right at the very beginning . . .

Warning: Some of this material contains claims that will prove to be rumor and conjecture. In addition, some will find this material offensive.

BTW, I am not a fan of the "scare 'em in" method either. I grew up in a time when they were always called D & R semiars and they had those wonderful flyers with all the Star Wars looking beasts on the front.

As for my point, it was that what I observed in that thread was the development of a paper thin theory based on weak specualtion and conjecture - meaning the idea that some how there is a connection between Danny or Schnieder/Koresh is fantastical and there needs to be a move away from that to things that can be substantiated.

And you are right, I did not address the issue of the potential for perceived impropriety - and that would be my part of the deal, so give me the chance to come back to that later and fulfill my end of the deal.

It appears I am not getting my points across. My main premise is that we must have a true heart conversion. What exactly does that mean? It means that as Christians we are to have the heart (mind) of Christ. That means no hatred, anger, bitterness, resentment, impatience, irritation, jealousy and selfishness. That means that we must have all of the Fruit (singular) of the Spirit which are love, joy, peace, longsuffering, gentleness, goodness, faith, meekness, and temperance. Now maybe you know an abundance of individuals that in no way practice any of the first set and are such complete selfless people that they have all of the qualities of the second set. Well, I don't and in my opinion, only those that do, have the right to condemn Danny, because the rest of us are in the same boat as he is, no matter what he has done. We are a church of good people. We are a church of moral people, but are we a church of truly converted people? And, also in my opinion, anyone that does have a true heart conversion would not be out there trying to condemn anyone. They would be trying to redeem the lost, if not personally, because they have no contact, but at least through the power of prayer. It is amazing what God can do for his people when they ask.

Here is are a few quotes from the book,

Unless you accept in your own life the principle of self-sacrificing love, which is the principle of His character, you cannot know God. MB 25

Love is the basis of godliness. Whatever the profession, no man has pure love to God unless he has unselfish love for his brother. But we can never come into possession of this spirit by trying to love others. What is needed is the love of Christ in the heart. When self is merged in Christ, true love springs forth spontaneously. The completeness of Christian character is attained when the impulse to help and bless others springs constantly from within. COL 384

Many who profess to follow Christ have not genuine religion. They do not reveal in their lives the fruit of true conversion. They are controlled by the same habits, the same spirit of faultfinding and selfishness, which controlled them before they accepted Christ.

No one can enter the city of God who has not a knowledge of genuine conversion. In true conversion the soul is born again. A new spirit takes possession of the temple of the soul. A new life begins. Christ is revealed in the character. RH 7-30-1901

Now I am not trying to be judgmental, but I keep getting the feeling from Sonshineonme and others that if I don't bend to their pressure and admit that Danny is a hopeless soul that needs to be committed to the fires of hell to burn almost as long as Satan himself, that I am a deluded simpleton, not willing to accept the reality of the situation. Well, until I see the spirit of Christ shine through you, I will just be a deluded simpleton.

I would just like to add one thing. Christ was not an accuser but a redeemer.

Country,

P.S. The book has answers. It's called "What Shall I do to Inherit Eternal Life?"

A Little "Food For Thought"!

Evilspeaking is a twofold curse, falling more heavily upon the speaker than upon the hearer. He who scatters the seeds of dissension and strife reaps in his own soul the deadly fruits. How miserable is the talebearer, the surmiser of evil! He is a stranger to true happiness.--5T 176. {VSS 139.2}
Oh, how much time is worse than wasted by evilspeaking. Because of this sin, not half is accomplished that might be accomplished. Men and women become mischief makers for Satan, and, going to this one and that one, place in their minds the leaven of evil, prejudicing them against a brother or a sister who, they say, has done wrong. The thoughts of those thus influenced are disturbed, their peace is destroyed, and their confidence in their brethren is weakened. {18MR 198.1}
Those who do this evil work are departing from Christ to follow one who is teaching them to love and make a lie. Whatever their position in the service of God, they are dishonoring Him, and Christ says to them, "I have somewhat against thee, because thou hast left thy first love." All their qualifications and capabilities, however commendable they may apparently be, will not supply the deficiency resulting from the lack of Christ like love. {18MR 198.2}
I feel so saddened, so discouraged, by the thought that my brethren are willing to listen to and circulate hearsay. I know that the Spirit of God will not cooperate with those who, by their criticisms, their evil-surmising, and their hardheartedness are helping Satan. God says to them, "Thou hast left thy first love. . . . Repent, and do the first works; or else I will come unto thee quickly," that is, "I will not bear long with your perverse spirit, which leads you to cherish envy and evil-surmising." {18MR 198.3}
Seeds of Doubt a Service of Satan--Let us guard against speaking words that discourage. Let us resolve never to engage in evilspeaking and backbiting. Let us refuse to serve Satan by implanting seeds of doubt. Let us guard against cherishing unbelief, or expressing it to others. Many, many times I have wished that there might be circulated a pledge containing a solemn promise to speak only those words that are pleasing to God. There is as great need for such a pledge as there is for one against the use of intoxicating liquor. Let us begin to discipline the tongue, remembering always that we can do this only by disciplining the mind, for "out of the abundance of the heart the mouth speaketh." Matt. 12:34.--OHC 291. {VSS 158.2}

If you will notice, she did not qualify this by saying that it was alright if the things that were being said were true.

I heartily agree with all of the quotes. The tongue can certainly be mightier than the sword. I have seen some of this right here on BSDA but Calvin and Clay are pretty good at getting things back on track.

Sister White didn't pull any punches when the truth needed to be told. Of course her Source of Information was completely infallible and verifiable!

Peacefully,
My understanding of that quote is that those that participate in such practices are followers of him who is teaching them to love and make a lie. The only one I know who is the master teacher of them that love and make lies is Satan. So, if you are spreading malicious things that are true, you are still a follower of the enemy. That is just my understanding of the quote.

Not only was her source completely infallible and verifiable, but she made her statements to those involved and did not spend her time trying to convince others that the ones she had been called upon to rebuke were "hard hearted like Pharaoh". She delivered her message and left the condition of a person's heart in the Lord's hands.

The book does have quite a few quotes, but it is not a compilation. The author is telling her story of how she had been raised in a good Adventist Home and how she and her husband were both missionaries and had be workers for the Lord. One day, her father realized at the age of 78 that he hadn't overcome, and that having fought the good fight of faith all his life, he was not ready to meet his Savior in peace. She goes on to say that when he asked her for help, she had no answers for him. That shocked her so much that she and her husband went on a search and this is what they found.

and Clay generally come on and give some gentle words of rebuke to direct away from such statements. What I disagree with is your statement that she did not qualify these even if they were true. She is clearly speaking of hearsay, lies and evil surmisings that are intended to destroy someone's reputation. That's how I read these wonderful statements anyway.

Peacfully,
I can't dispute that as I am not an extensive reader of Sis White. What I have found though is that she has admonished us to go to the individual, the again with one or two others and then to the church. If that does not get the desired affect, we are to treat the person as a heathen and a publican, Matthew 18. She does not instruct us to broadcast their sins to all that will listen. I don't know if you noticed in the second quote what she said, but it seems to me that she is saying that not only does it do damage to the speaker, but to the hearer. The thoughts of those thus influenced are disturbed, their peace is destroyed...

Some of Sister White's rebukes were published and sent out so everyone could read them. We are supposed to learn from others' mistakes and not repeat them. She was very blunt about Kellogg and others. Was this evil speaking or bearing a straight testimony?

This is a public forum and Danny and his people are free to read what is here and to tell their side of things. It is hardly talking about them behind their backs. I frankly think she would use the internet and every other means to keep the church on course.

2. The man had a reputation for being promiscuous (a fact I was not privy to, tho I was later to find out that most Peace Corps of the era were doing the same thing)
3. Therefore, I must be having sex with the man.

I have to disagree here PB.

Your first point was the fact
Your second point was only fact to some who had more information about this man.
Your third point was an assumption.

Women have brown hair.
John has brown hair.
John must a woman

Seems that what applies to the goose should apply to the gander, shouldn't it?

How could you say such a thing, Bear. And here I thought you to be a logical man!

The implementation of said rules only applies to geese that fly with the flock, not those up on the mountain alone with God.

Vell, Lurker,
'm glad to know that Sonshineonme and the crew were call of God as his special messenger to expose he dirty linen in the 3ABN ministry. If I recall correctly, the only reason Sis White heavily exposed Dr. Kellogg was because he was spreading heresy. Correct me if I'm wrong, but she was not going into letails about his life or other aspects of his operations of the Sanitarium. She did warn him as to what vould happen if he did not downsize and have smaller institutions in multiple locations. I know she ılso gave that information to the leaders of the church, but to the best of my knowledge, she did not tart a letter writing campaign (internet) to combat anything he did. The only thing she openly fought vas his promoting pantheism.

Sister White did indeed give very intimate detail of the lives of some whom she gave testimonies to and their identities were not always hidden to protect them from embarrassment. I know you are bein cynical when you speak of Sunshineonme and crew being called to expose dirty linen in the 3ABN ministry but hey, if the dirty linen wasn't there, nobody could have exposed a thing. I too am glad to know they were at the call of God.

It was not just because of pantheism that Sister White struggled against Kellogg. He was on an ego trip and was intent on enlarging the San and the work at Battle Creek when this work was supposed to be spread instead into new areas. He wanted his large extravagant and grandiose projects to go forward. HIS PROJECTS. Lets see now, I believe that Danny wanted to find the ark of the covenant. I heard him say that he wanted to produce a hollywood type religious movie, to have an old folks home or retirement type community whose residents could do volunteer work at 3ABN, to set up a sanctuary etc, etc etc. Can anyone add another project that you have heard him mention?

And I believe watchbird is concerned about pentecostalism taking hold at 3ABN.

I firmly believe that Danny is the Omega of the thing of which Kellogg was the Alpha.

I don't know if you noticed in the second quote what she said, but it seems to me that she is saying that not only does it do damage to the speaker, but to the hearer. The thoughts of those thus influenced are disturbed, their peace is destroyed...

I found that happening to me. Not only that, I found my anxiety level increased when I say that certain people had posted to the site. It wasn't until I read the quote that I understood why.

If you are uncomfortable with knowing the details and happenings at an independant mininstry that affects us all in more negative ways by it's very existance then people realize, and it will get worse, then you should not stay and read here. Many people, and you may or may not be one of them, would rather not know things that are going on - I for one would not like to be one that was deceived and minipulated to give my hard earned money to them so they could mis-use it (that is putting it VERY nicely). I have very strong opinons about people being minipulated, lied too, and made to think through word pictures that certain things are true when they are clearly false. Do you like that? Would you be happy knowing that people KNEW and did nothing? Would you be happy knowing that not only people knew, but did nothing about it for the WRONG reasons? Some people are happier with their "head in the sand" thinking - they don't like their uptopia destroyed. They would rather make their "judgements" and be done with it. That to me makes you more of a target for deceiption then to openly talk and discuss very serious issues that are among us - and 3abn is one of those. You really have no idea how serious it is - but if you would put your concerns into prayer, and ask God to show you what you can learn from these times and situations, maybe you would find more them just "anxiety" from hearing things that aren't so pleasant. JMO, of course.

Well, Lurker,
I'm glad to know that Sonshineonme and the crew were call of God as his special messenger to expose the dirty linen in the 3ABN ministry. If I recall correctly, the only reason Sis White heavily exposed Dr. Kellogg was because he was spreading heresy. Correct me if I'm wrong, but she was not going into details about his life or other aspects of his operations of the Sanitarium. She did warn him as to what would happen if he did not downsize and have smaller institutions in multiple locations. I know she also gave that information to the leaders of the church, but to the best of my knowledge, she did not start a letter writing campaign (internet) to combat anything he did. The only thing she openly fought was his promoting pantheism.

If that is the case, God knows how to handle His business. If I recall correctly, when He told them not to build such large facilities, they refused to listen. He dealt with their hard-headedness by sending His angel and burned the places down. If God has issues with Danny, He has ways of handling His business. It should not even be something we need to worry about. In situations like this our job is to pray. God's job is to handle His business.

Clay you are so right, many times God works through people to get His work done. If the posters on this and other boards are telling the truth (and I believe they are) then it's my feeling that He is working through them to alert the world that Danny and 3abn are not what they seem and change must happen. On the other hand if there are any lies or exaggerations then the means do not justify the end and those posters will be held accountable for their sins.

Richard

A concerned pastor in the Nortwest USA has used his sabbatical to study this issue. He has come to the following conclusion:

The letter from Dr. Arild Abrahamsen, dated June 20, 2006, in which he sets forth to refute the charges of slander brought against himself and Linda Shelton, isn't the first information I have ever received about the stuff going on at 3ABN. I know other people who have been close to this situation. It is an unbelievable mess.

If there is even a shred of truth to the letter written by the doctor then there should be a way to get at what really happened back there at 3ABN. A very clear principle is apparently being ignored. The problem is that this principle is violated over and over and over again in the Adventist Church. So God waits. But how long will He continue to wait before He acts with merciful precision and terrifying certainty? When there is serious conflict in any church setting, all the parties involved should be given a "time out" until the issues and conflicts are cleared up completely or exposed for what they really are. This encourages the parties who are in conflict to see exactly how serious this matter is to the entire church. (Consider, by way of example, 2 Thess. 3:14-15; 1 Cor. 5:9-11). If the parties will not cooperate then whatever ministries they are the head of, or involved in, need to come to an end or their personal involvement with that particular ministry must be terminated. Since there seems to be no possible way to bring this kind of pressure on Danny then all individuals who use 3ABN should immediately stop putting programs on the air and should immediately stop attempting to get 3ABN on the air in any venue or location. They should begin a fasting and prayer vigil, pleading with God to do whatever He must do to bring the full truth of this dispute out into the True Light. They should confess and deal with the sins in their own lives so God can work uninhibited. The administrations of the Local Conference, Union Conference and Division need to convene a board of inquiry. This board must be made up of only those people who have no vested interest or conflict of interest with 3ABN. (If it is true that the local Conference President sits on the governing board at 3ABN and that his own parents actually work for 3ABN then I wonder if he ever stopped to think that he has created a huge conflict-of-interest for himself? How is he able to sit on the very board that hires and fires his own constituents? There is no possible way anyone can say that this is exactly the same situation as individuals being hired and fired from the Local Conference. The constituents of the Conference should insist that he immediately resign as Conference President or resign from the 3ABN board). Danny should be told that, until such time this board can hear and decide on this matter the world wide church cannot support 3ABN or use 3ABN for any purpose including any and all public evangelism. He should be told they will not promote it anywhere. (There is one huge item which has been grossly overlooked in all of the charges and character assassination that has taken place. Linda would almost certainly welcome, with open arms, a fair, unbiased hearing to clear the air on this entire matter). Further, they should go to their constituents and acquaintances, whoever they are, and plead with them to stop watching or promoting 3ABN immediately. They should explain the Biblical Principle to their people and begin the fasting and prayer vigil on that level as well. With nothing more than hearsay as charges against Linda, Danny's feet appear to be in a big, big fire, especially given the fact that nobody has ever caught Linda and the doctor in any compromised situation. To my understanding Danny doesn't even have a charge of literal adultery against her with clear evidence to back up such a charge. But he, Danny, has already gone off and remarried. Can't we see that the Bible addresses such issues? If the local church refuses to deal with this then where is the leadership at the Local Conference level? If the Local Conference refuses to deal with it then where is the leadership at the Union Conference, and so on up the line? We claim we are situated on the brink of the Second Coming. We think of ourselves as virtually standing on the boarders of the Heavenly Cana. If Israel had refused to deal with the Achan situation they would have been stuck at the ruins of Jericho. Why do we fail to see the parallel here? Yet unbelievably leaders are saying, "It just isn't our jurisdiction because 3ABN is not a denominationally owned entity." Question; where is 3ABN located? Question; at what churches are Danny and Linda members? Question; where are these churches located? Question; what entity/ies has/have jurisdiction over these churches? Question; what entity has jurisdiction over those lower entities, and so on up the line? Question; does the organized Seventh-day Adventist Church still use and promote 3ABN as though it is a legitimate Seventh-day Adventist organization? What about the upcoming series of meetings? Finally, how long will we remain stranded at the boarders?

churches continue to pour millions of dollars into 3ABN. Others continue to promote 3ABN and continue to try to get it on the air in their location so that its ministry can "bless" and "help" the local church "win" new converts! (When the new converts finally discover the black cloud what kind of geriatrics will the local church have to go through to "fix" the situation – and what too about the Local Conference and Etc.)?

People fail to see there is something very seriously wrong at 3ABN. By continuing to use this organization, they also fail to see that they have become party to its specific sins. Why? Because, it is a ministry that supposedly belongs to God and they themselves also claim to belong to God, all within the same remnant church! Why do they become party to its sins? Because, what they fail to cure, especially when God has outlined a way for them to cure it, they become party to themselves. How can a house divided against itself, continue to stand? This cannot be within God's kingdom. We claim to be preparing for heaven and the new earth, yet we know full well such behavior will not be allowed there. Those who carry on in this way or allow such behavior will not enter or else they will have to repent and be changed before they get there. So we see the need for prayer, fasting, confessing and pleading with God; and the need to place demands upon Danny and 3ABN. None of this is easy or pleasant.

This is not the way things should be. Money, power and influence, often hold sway over truth. There is a term for this. It's called politics. Sadly, there is a very good chance the steps outlined above will never be carried out. Such steps are just too drastic. As is often the case, the stench is rising and spreading everywhere. If we do nothing, eventually it will permeate heaven itself and God will take the reigns into His own hands. Because of the moral weakness and political corruption on the part of some of God's professed people, countless thousands, and in this case possibly hundreds of thousands may be seriously injured or possibly even destroyed. Such needless waste and destruction happens because we didn't have enough fortitude to take a stand at the beginning and deal with the problem in spite of the initial fallout. All along the way there are increasing levels of fallout, but all along the way God is testing each of us to see if we will now take a stand against what is wrong. Even though the hour is very late and the loss and destruction gets increasingly greater with each passing moment yet He still tests us to see if now we will finally stand. As time passes and the stakes get higher the fallout and loss becomes greater. Finally, because we failed to act, we ourselves get caught in the falling rubble of the building. We discover that now we too are suffering great loss because of our failure to take a stand. We discover that the part of the house divided did not stand. God swept it away and nothing is left.

Until this thing is cleared up I don't see how anyone can, with a clear conscience, have any connection what-so-ever with 3ABN.

God is waiting. What will His people do with this matter?

By His Grace,

[Johann,
This, I feel, is a reasonable man, especially if he is dealing primarily with the initial accusation relating to the break-up and remarriage. If he is also referring to the other accusations that are floating around, he needs to write another letter addressing the individuals who think it is their responsibility to spread un-substitutable accusations. As I have said it the past, I think that since Danny has already been approached by individuals as to his inappropriate behavior, that we need to pray and leave the rest in God's hands. He is better able then any of us to judge fairly and justly as he alone know the heart. I would like to add that the week Danny announced his remarriage, I wrote him personally and made it clear that he had no right to remarry. He did not bother to answer, I received the Walter Thompson Form Letter. I decided then and there that, not only would nothing I could say matter, but that it was not for me to worry about. I figured that if God went thorough so much trouble to get this station where it is today, then it is His responsibility to fix the mess it's in. Trust me, He can fix this mess and still glorify is name. Where as, I doubt, judging from past experience, if anyone else fixes this situation, anyone's name will be glorified.

Johann,
I have no problem with you all being around. As a matter of fact, when I first started reading on this site, I believed everything I read. Then I felt the accusations started going too far and I decided to post my original theory that I have had from the beginning. What shocked me was the venom I received at this site. So much so that I decide that this was not in any way the spirit of God, and that if Danny was guilty of what he was accused of, those that were posting malicious information on this site were also as guilty in the sight of God. If you have been given a commission by God to present a sin, it is not the responsibly of the messenger to trash all those that oppose that view. What amazed me was that I was not saying that Danny was innocent, but that "in my view" as to the initial break-up, Linda had become proud also. To be attacked as I was for such a statement was enough to let me see that God was the only one who had the sense, sincerity, or the justice to handle this situation. I just feel when the dust settles that more that Danny and his crew will get a spanking.

P.S. I am Praying, boy am I praying! Not only for the 3ABN Ministry, but for myself. I desperately need it!

Oh, by the way, maybe I'm reading something in here that was not intended, but I feel that it is being implied that I should be willing to accept the opposing views that are posted here without rebuttal. Well, as you know there are numerous sites on this 3ABN segment of this web page. I have made it a point not to post my views on any of those sites. As a matter of fact, it's rare that I even look at them. But I do make it a point to defend on this site. I do believe everyone has a right to have at least one location where another viewpoint expressed and defended. So, no, I don't mind you being around, you mustn't mind me being around either.

thing, and that we also must know what to pray about. We actually invite you to join us in prayer, especially these days when so much is happening. Pray that 3ABN will remain an SDA institution and not one who preaches the church is Babylon, like som of those in control of 3ABN are teaching now. Would you like this TV network to work against our God?

ohann, I am surprised by this as I haven't seen it myself. I'm not saying it isn't happening, just that 'm surprised. I would like to know who is preaching this, how and where! Do you have examples?

t would be awful to have this network working against our God!

Dearest Bumpkin,

Whereas you seem to have not lived through 3ABN, as we have, Your opinions are interesting, but don't carry the weight of experience and personal knowledge, as do ours. I am happy for you that you seem to not have personal acquiantance with Danny Shelton. May you forever avoid such a horrifying experience.

)ear Beartrap,
'hank you for the greeting, but how do I know that you are not of the same character, if given a :hance at such power? It's true that I don't know Danny, but I also don't know you. Would you be able o guarantee that there is no one in your life that would not talk about you in such a negative way if ;iven the chance? "Pride goes before destruction and a haughty spirit before the fall." If placed in the ;ame circumstances can you guarantee that your pride would not be exalted? I don't think so. As a natter of fact, it probably would have happened sooner. That's why Danny and Linda were "called" ınd we weren't. And yes, I do believe they was called. Why? Because I knew some of the old times vho were the original investors. And trust me, (if you dare) they were not the gullible types. They vere and are depression era folk who held on to their money and no one but the Lord would convince hem to part with as much of their funds as they did in order to get the ministry started.

;o I do believe Danny and Linda became proud and this is the result. But I also believe that, given the ;ame circumstance, we would have been worse.

Johann said, "Pray that 3ABN will remain an SDA institution and not one who preaches the church is Babylon, like som of those in control of 3ABN are teaching now. Would you like this TV network to work against our God?"

Johann, I am surprised by this as I haven't seen it myself. I'm not saying it isn't happening, just that I'm surprised. I would like to know who is preaching this, how and where! Do you have examples?

It would be awful to have this network working against our God!

'B, Even from the beginning 3abn has positioned itself as being the judge of the church rather than as he helper of the church. At times the influences Johann mentions above have been less, and ;ometimes more, but they have always been there. If you will read the "Unauthorized History" threads :arefully you will find references to some of this..... though here, as in every other area, all of us who ıre posting have been very selective and sparse in detail.

\s an aid to finding specific information I constructed a "Guided Tour" to the history threads .... and Calvin posted it as an additional post in the thread in the Pinned section, which Clay had begun earlier. Since that has brief notations on it, you can scan down that one post to find specific topics. In this :ase look for references to Kenny Shelton, since he is the Shelton brother who was defrocked by the \dventist church because of the way he was doing exactly what Johann described above (as well as)eing closely linked with other "Independent Ministries" of like mind). But even though his Adventist :redentials were removed, Kenny remained as pastor of his "offshoot" church, and was also on the)uts with Danny for several years. As of last August, he returned to 3abn and is now being featured)rominently as one of their speakers..... as well as traveling on some of their promotional tours. Both Beartrap and Sister posted specifically and descriptively of this, and perhaps others added to it. This is ıot to say that Kenny is the only one there who is of this ilk. But if you find posts about him, you will ikely find others that bear on these concerns in the same general vicinity.

\s to the present concerns that have been expressed that 3abn would be taken over..... or given)ver..... to one or more of the non-Adventist persons who hold high positions there (or to those who ıave but a thin veneer of Adventist doctrine on top of their previous Charismatic/Pentecostal belief ;ystems) thus gradually taking it further away from being truly "Adventist"..... these have also been voiced in the History threads as well as elsewhere on this site. Look especially for references to Mollie Steensen and Shelly Quinn. It would also be well for you to examine the 3ABN website (newly lesigned early summer 2005) and note that they do not identify themselves as a supporting ministry)f the Adventist church. They don't even identify themselves as an "Independent Ministry" of the \dventist church.

They plainly state there that. "3ABN is not owned, operated or funded by any church, denomination or)rganization, so people from all cultures and backgrounds appreciate 3ABN programming. Many of 3ABN's employees and volunteers are members of the Seventh-day Adventist Church."

\s you read the Unauthorized History threads, also note what has been said about the Pentecostal nfluences at 3ABN.... not only now, but from the very beginning. Adventists were largely ignorant of he facts that there were so many Pentecostals ..... even former Pentecostal ministers..... who have :xerted a great deal of influence on the thought patterns taught by 3ABN employees.

\nd on the other hand..... look for those things which give some glimpses of the contentions between 3ABN and Adventist church leaders. Some of those you will also find in the "Guided Tour".... in some :ases as links to specific posts in other threads.

Bear is not one to defend himself..... and while he calls himself a "beartrap"..... a moniker such as "Gentle Ben" would have been much more appropriate. When it comest to standing for truth, however, Bear does indeed have all the tenacity and unyeildingness of a beartrap's tempered steel when it comes to standing for what is right..... no matter what it may cost to do so.

But of course you don't know me either, so maybe my witness to his character traits will be meaningless to you. So what I would suggest that you do is to get better acquainted with him through his extensive posting here on BSDA. If you click on his name, you will be taken to his "Viewing Profile". Once there, look to the right of the screen, and click on "Profile Options", and then choose "Find member's posts". You will next be confronted by a number of post excerpts..... which are listed in the order of "most recent first". (I don't know if it is possible to change this order or not.) In Bear's case, there will be many pages of such posts. So to start from the beginning, you will need to go to the very last page and the very last post on the page and work your way from the beginning to the end. Read carefully. You will find some things that may surprise you..... and I think that surely, once you read through all of those you will realize that no one could post that much over that long a period of time unless they were genuinely what they seem to be.

The thing about Bear is that he seldom talks about what it has cost him to "stand for the right though the heavens fall". And search as you will, you will find no more than a faint glimmer of insight into what he has endured..... and still has to endure. But I think there is enough here so you can see why it is that "when Beartrap speaks..... we listen" .... to quote an old TV ad that you just might be too young to even remember.

As to your other comments .... it is very possible that you will feel the need to change some of your "beliefs" in the near future. So I'd suggest that you speak very cautiously of them and give more thought to what others on here "believe" and why we believe it. And perhaps you could give a little more weight to those who speak from experience, and a little less to opinions you have formed from watching some actors on a TV screen.

And if you want to speak privately about these matters, you are welcome to PM me.

[Watchbird,
I will not dispute the fact that 3ABN had some anti-church programs on in the beginning. My mother is an ultra-conservative and glories in these ideas. That is why, when Danny became so cozy with the church these last few years, he had, according to her, "apostatized" with the rest of the church. But that is not my issue. I have only 2 issues on this site.

1) Both Danny and Linda became proud and that was the reason for the fall
2) If our hearts are not right with God, we are no better then they are. We just look better. Recently I have added a third.
3) God is the only one who can fix this mess to his glory.

Aside from that, in my opinion, the rest is just speculation, hearsay, and endless accusations (founded or unfounded)

That's my opinion and I'm sticking to it.!

[quote name='watchbird' date='Sep 12 2006, 11:23 AM' post='151493']

Maybe my writing skills are not as clear as I think they are. My point was that I don't know Beartrap from Danny and that given the same circumstances; he may have succumbed to pride and done the same thing. He doesn't need to defend himself. No one does. It only adds validity to the accusation. As Danny said that Linda use to say, "We can either be garbage collectors or spread showers of blessings." I'm just grateful that God is able to clear up any circumstance to His glory.

My friend has done some edting in the last few lines. Here is the new article:

[quote name='Johann' date='Sep 12 2006, 01:06 AM' post='151354']

The letter from Dr. Arild Abrahamsen, dated June 20, 2006, in which he sets forth to refute the charges of slander brought against himself and Linda Shelton, isn't the first information I have ever received about the stuff going on at 3ABN. I know other people who have been close to this situation. It is an unbelievable mess.

If there is even a shred of truth to the letter written by the doctor then there should be a way to get at what really happened back there at 3ABN. A very clear principle is apparently being ignored. The problem is that this principle is violated over and over and over again in the Adventist Church. So God waits. But how long will He continue to wait before He acts with merciful precision and terrifying certainty? When there is serious conflict in any church setting, all the parties involved should be given a "time out" until the issues and conflicts are cleared up completely or exposed for what they really are. This encourages the parties who are in conflict to see exactly how serious this matter is to the entire church. (Consider, by way of example, 2 Thess. 3:14-15; 1 Cor. 5:9-11). If the parties will not cooperate then whatever ministries they are the head of, or involved in, need to come to an end or their personal involvement with that particular ministry must be terminated. Since there seems to be no possible way to bring this kind of pressure on Danny then all individuals who use 3ABN should immediately stop putting programs on the air and should immediately stop attempting to get 3ABN on the air in any venue or location. They should begin a fasting and prayer vigil, pleading with God to do whatever He must do to bring the full truth of this dispute out into the True Light. They should confess and deal with the sins in their own lives so God can work uninhibited. The administrations of the Local Conference, Union Conference and Division need to convene a board of inquiry. This board must be made up of only those people who have no vested interest or conflict of interest with 3ABN. (If it is true that the local Conference President sits on the governing board at 3ABN and that his own parents actually work for 3ABN then I wonder if he ever stopped to think that he has created a huge conflict-of-interest for himself? How is he able to sit on the very board that hires and fires his own constituents? There is no possible way anyone can say that this is exactly the same situation as individuals being hired and fired from the Local Conference. The constituents of the Conference should insist that he immediately resign as Conference President or resign from the 3ABN board). Danny should be told that, until such time this board can hear and decide on this matter the world wide church cannot support 3ABN or use 3ABN for any purpose including any and all public evangelism. He should be told they will not promote it anywhere. (There is one huge item which has been grossly overlooked in all of the charges and character assassination that has taken place. Linda would almost certainly welcome, with open arms, a fair, unbiased hearing to clear the air on this entire matter). Further, they should go to their constituents and acquaintances, whoever they are, and plead with them to stop watching or promoting 3ABN immediately. They should explain the Biblical Principle to their people and begin the fasting and prayer vigil on that level as well. With nothing more than hearsay as charges against Linda, Danny's feet appear to be in a big, big fire, especially given the fact that nobody has ever caught Linda and the doctor in any compromised situation. To my understanding Danny doesn't even have a charge of literal adultery against her with clear evidence to back up such a charge. But he, Danny, has already gone off and remarried. Can't we see that the Bible addresses such issues? If the local church refuses to deal with this then where is the leadership at the Local Conference level? If the Local Conference refuses to deal with it then where is the leadership at the Union Conference, and so on up the line? We claim we are situated on the brink of the Second Coming. We think of ourselves as virtually standing on the boarders of the Heavenly Cana. If Israel had refused to deal with the Achan situation they would have been stuck at the ruins of Jericho. Why do we fail to see the parallel here? Yet unbelievably leaders are saying, "It just isn't our jurisdiction because 3ABN is not a denominationally owned entity." Question; where is 3ABN located? Question; at what churches are Danny and Linda members? Question; where are these churches located? Question; what entity/ies has/have jurisdiction over these churches? Question; what entity has jurisdiction over those lower entities, and so on up the line? Question; does the organized Seventh-day Adventist Church still use and promote 3ABN as though it is a legitimate Seventh-day Adventist organization? What about the upcoming series of meetings? Finally, how long will we remain stranded at the boarders?

Now I hear that Danny affectionately speaks of his "new wife" right on the air by asking the viewers this rhetorical question: "Isn't she just the most beautiful thing you have ever seen?" It seems like only a short time ago he was saying very similar things about Linda! Wow! Do we honestly think this ministry is not tainted? A black cloud hangs over it. Who wants to let its darkness blind them? People think they, personally, are innocent yet they continue to use 3ABN to promote their ministries, all the while claiming that these ministries are the Lord's. Others, not just individuals but also entire churches continue to pour millions of dollars into 3ABN. Others continue to promote 3ABN and continue to try to get it on the air in their location so that its ministry can "bless" and "help" the local church "win" new converts! (When the new converts finally discover the black cloud what kind of geriatrics will the local church have to go through to "fix" the situation - and what too about the Local Conference and Etc.)?

People fail to see there is something very seriously wrong at 3ABN. By continuing to use this organization, they also fail to see that they have become party to its specific sins. Why? Because, it is a ministry that supposedly belongs to God and they themselves also claim to belong to God, all within the same remnant church! Why do they become party to its sins? Because, what they fail to cure, especially when God has outlined a way for them to cure it, they become party to themselves. How can a house divided against itself, continue to stand? This cannot be within God's kingdom. We claim to be preparing for heaven and the new earth, yet we know full well such behavior will not be allowed there. Those who carry on in this way or allow such behavior will not enter or else they will have to repent and be changed before they get there. So we see the need for prayer, fasting, confessing and pleading with God; and the need to place demands upon Danny and 3ABN. None of this is easy or pleasant.

This is not the way things should be. Money, power and influence, often hold sway over truth. There is a term for this. It's called politics. Sadly, there is a very good chance the steps outlined above will never be carried out. Such steps are just too drastic. As is often the case, the stench is rising and spreading everywhere. If we do nothing, eventually it will permeate heaven itself and God will take the reigns into His own hands. Because of the moral weakness and political corruption on the part of some of God's professed people, countless thousands, and in this case possibly hundreds of thousands may be seriously injured or possibly even destroyed. Such needless waste and destruction happens because we didn't have enough fortitude to take a stand at the beginning and deal with the problem in spite of the initial fallout. All along the way there are increasing levels of fallout, but all along the way God is testing each of us to see if we will now take a stand against what is wrong. Even though the hour is very late and the loss and destruction gets increasingly greater with each passing moment yet He still tests us to see if now we will finally stand. As time passes and the stakes get higher the fallout and loss becomes greater. Finally, because we failed to act, we ourselves get caught in the falling rubble of the building. We discover that now we too are suffering great loss because of our failure to take a stand. We discover that the part of the house divided did not stand. God swept it away and nothing is left.

Until this thing is cleared up I don't see how anyone can, with a clear conscience, have any connection what-so-ever with 3ABN.

God is waiting. What will His people do with this matter?

By His Grace,

ilr

Johann,
I have a question for you. Do you remember the O.J. Simpson trial? Well I learned a couple of lessons after watching that trial and listening to people as they discussed it. One of the lessons was that, people will believe what they want to believe, no matter what is said. Let me ask you this. Of all the people that you know that watched that trial, do you know of 1 person that changed his mind about O.J.'s guilt or innocence after the trial was over? I found that those that thought he was guilty before the trial also thought he was guilty afterward. And those who thought he was innocent before the trial thought he was innocent afterward.

The other lesson I learned was not far from it. "A man convinced against his will is of the same opinion still." You can send out letter after letter trying to convince people that Danny is the devil, and those that want to believe it will, no matter what I say and those that don't want to believe it won't, no matter what you say.

So we are at an impasse. As I have said in the past and continue to say, "Only God can fix this one."

Why, why , why, must we go through this time and again!

I must add that I had not donated to 3ABN in years, but the spirit of those that claim to be the advocates of truth are of such a nature that donating to 3ABN would be easier now than ever. I have seen for myself the nature of those that have attacked this ministry and have found it to be as un-Christ like as they claim Danny's attitude is. I think it is shameful to play on peoples consciences. God has given everyone a mind that is fully equipped to make rational decisions and if anyone wants to know whether or not they should donate to 3ABN it is an issue they need to take up with GOD! Not you ore me or ilr (who ever he is).

I know not where the truth is told, but I know how hold the answers. It's a secret known only to Him!

Well All,
This is my last post. I have found that though all of this bickering, I have lost that precious peace that I was discovering not so long ago, and I lost it because of my desire to fight this fight. This is not my fight. This is not my ministry. It is God's ministry and His fight. I am going to go back to my book and leave the rest of this to whoever wants it. I have decided to "Stand still and see the salvation of the LORD!"

There are many other topics on BSDA other than 3ABN. Why limit yourself? Perhaps if you read some of the other threads, I'm sure that you will find other topics and subjects for discussion that may be more palatable to you. The folks are nice too especially when I have never been on something like this before I regrested here. I have posted on the wrong site and thought I had read everything until I was guided to all the pages I had not covered. It has taken me a month and a half to read and print out 5 reams of information. I had paper clutter around me in piles until I have my topics organized and in a box.

I have been on a very interesting trip here on Saga of 3ABN.

I plan to remain an active member of BSDA after all the dust has settled on the 3ABN issues. Just the other day a few of us were in the Live Chat and a question was raised about this very issue. Dan's attorneys have been seeking to attest the validity of this divorce. This divorce was just recently validated by the court."

In an interview with Adventist Today, Mr. Shelton also stated that the divorce action is final. If it were not final, he stated that he would not have been able to secure a marriage license. According to a clerk in the Office of the County Clerk of Franklin County, Illinois, the county within which the 3ABN headquarters are located, the marriage license to Mr. Shelton and Ms. Elswick was issued on March 7, 2006, one day before the wedding. This is a third marriage for both. Ms. Elswick is a recent convert to the Seventh-day Adventist Church.

What her comments posted on the website seem to imply/confirm is:

1. Danny did recently marry
2. Their divorce is legal
3. He had no Biblical grounds for divorce

My prayers go up for them all....

"Q. What about phone calls? Did you talk to someone regularly of the opposite sex?
A.I met Dr. Abrahamsen, a 60 year old physician, elder and counselor, briefly at 3ABN the last week of December 2003. He began treating my son, Nathan, in January 2004. We began speaking on the phone in regards to Nathan's problems when "the problem" began. Since Dr. Abrahamsen lived 6,000 miles away, and "the problem" involved some high profile people, I felt this was the best option. Typically I do not believe it is proper to speak regularly to people of the opposite sex when one is married. However, I do believe in a crisis situation the rules change. One must get help where one can find it."

It sounds like she may have believed that there was something wrong here....While the quote does not call it that, there is an implied "this is wrong, but because it was a crisi situation, it can be excused"...

Whether in context of a crises or not it is not a sin to speak to someone on the phone who is helping you with a situation no matter the gender, and the fact it seems she could not involve her husband in this speaks volumes. Too me it still seems he divorced her at the drop of a hat. Perhaps there were cracks in the marriage anyway and this incident just exposed the crack.

I don't think she believe in spiritual adultery as much as the appearance of evil. No married woman should spend extended amounts of time in phone or face to face conversations with a man "just to talk".

I am with Den, I was appalled when I first realized that he told his whole side without even mentioning her son, that he had been raising all these years, nor that they were trying to get him help. So the fact that he was not a part of this family situation says whole lot about his character as a man, and Brandy would wan't to take note as to how he is treating a step child who didn't turn out "just right".

Old goat!!! This is one of the worst cases of middle crisis, I have ever seen. He should have just bought a sports car!

: appreciate what you are saying. We don't know but it is likely that she attempted to nvolve her husband but we have no idea if he was receptive. If she did not share nformation with DS then how did he know how often she spoke to the man or, for how ong? Yeah, yeah, I know phone bills. But even if I do believe in spiritual adultery, I will talk :o whomever can assist me with one of my children were seriously ill. Would the same ıttitude apply if she was in contact with a Dr. on DS's behalf. Even though they both believe :hat certain behavior gives the appearance of evil that does not, in any way, justify his ›ehavior toward her. To accuse her publicly then have the law prevent her from defending ıerself. To retape shows that had her in them etc. foolish and seems spiteful. In addition to :hreatening others who might have given her support, whether folks who were affiliated vith the show or not (BSDA). None of that was Christ like in any way.

:t seems fishy that he has a woman waiting in the wings, has gotten a quickie divorce and 'emarried before this business with his wife is settled. Any woman with children who would et herself get involved with someone so high profile in any organization should be seriously :onsidering the way he has treated his wife of so many years and how he has handled this ;ituation, should have been a big eye opener for her. But that is on her, IMO. I feel for her :hildren and pray they will be ok.

;ince Nathan, Linda's son, was in Norway at the doctor's clinic, the phone records to that clinic will ıever show who was actually on the other end of the phone line in Norway. Linda could have been alking to her own son who was in Norway at the exact, same location as the doctor. The phone ecords will never show who Linda was talking to most of the time.

Vhat if she's talking to her own child most of that time? That time would quickly add up. In fact, it vould be unusual if she wasn't calling her own son, Nathan, on the phone.

ust phone records to a clinic in Norway prove nothing, under the circumstances. If I were in that :linic, my mother would be calling me.

just wanted to point out that there could be a legitimate reason for some of those phone calls and for hem to end up being quite lengthy.

Posted by: princessdi Mar 24 2006, 05:15 PM

Exactly.

Half truths and innuendo are not tools we are to use. I hope Linda is well in the midst of all this. With this situation being so public it has to be very difficult for her. Not to mention having deal with her sons illness also. The strain on them both can not be helping his health or hers.

If it be His will may the Lord deal with those who would treat his beloved, just as they desire his beloved to be treated.

As I said before, there are so many many things that are not known...will probably never be known until, if we are faithful, we will see it in eternity. Did Danny want more children and Linda refused, thus causing spiritual adultery? This "convenience' of another marriage giving him this opportunity? Should Linda have been the one who filed for a divorce according to the misdeeds done to her? We don't know and will probably never know.

No. It is the conclusion that follows that is the problem. If he sees himself as head of the home as Christ is the head of the church, he would realize that coercion and absolute obedience doesn't follow.

So why sould the head (IF this happened) not want to initiate primary care for the well-being of your wife's biological son, "avoiding" the opportunity for evil to take place?

Ah. That would be a question. Of course, we are simply following a scenario, not knowing, but there are several reasons. One is, I didn't initiate it...you did! Another...there isn't anything wrong with that boy, you pamper him too much! There was a story in our church that lasted in it's review until I was born and thereafter where the mother wanted to take the child to the doctor because she was sick, and the father said he'd say when. The child died. For many us that would have been 'it' for us,but they were apparently a very loving and caring couple with several other children. Both are gone now, but I still remember that story. I thought it was sooooo horrible. Also in the same church a woman was told not to get pregnant because of some biological problem...she said she had to leave it up to her husband even if she had to die, God would honor her decision. And THAT wasn't 'old school'! I remember thinking, I wonder if she was slapped, would that help?

Posted by: princessdi Mar 27 2006, 11:14 AM

Also, Linda and Danny were married along time. Even if you want to doubt the scenario as it is present, a question still come to mind. What kind of man would spend that much time with a child and then disconnect so easily? By his own words here, Danny neglected to even mention the son or his issues, opting to feign ignorance as to why his wife was spending so much time on the phone with another man. The son was mentioned earlier by others, and eventually by Linda.

QUOTE(Prisca @ Mar 27 2006, 08:28 AM)

Ah. That would be a question. Of course, we are simply following a scenario, not knowing, but there are several reasons. One is, I didn't initiate it...you did! Another...there isn't anything wrong with that boy, you pamper him too much! There was a story in our church that lasted in it's review until I was born and thereafter where the mother wanted to take the child to the doctor because she was sick, and the father said he'd say when. The child died. For many us that would have been 'it' for us,but they were apparently a very loving and caring couple with several other children. Both are gone now, but I still remember that story. I thought it was sooooo horrible. Also in the same church a woman was told not to get pregnant because of some biological problem...she said she had to leave it up to her husband even if she had to die, God would honor her decision. And THAT wasn't 'old school'! I remember thinking, I wonder if she was slapped, would that help?

By his own words here, Danny neglected to even mention the son or his issues, opting to feign ignorance as to why his wife was spending so much time on the phone with another man. Gurl, makes you wonder. Now he has married a woman with two children. Maybe it is just me, but I would not have married a man who had done his wife and step child as Danny has. I don't even have children, but if a man approaches me who does, his treatment of his own children is a HUGE determining factor.

See, I am torn...I saw a genuine (IMO) heartfelt plea for reconcilitation with his wife (Linda) on 3 ABN--and I prayed for them...I cannot judge what I only see "through a glass darkly", but it came accross to me that perhaps he was not the one wanting the divorce--and perhaps this was a coup d' tat from the Board Room, as I think Linda has cautiously suggested in the past at her web-site...

Yeah, that was the intent in the announcement saying something like " Due to decisions made by Linda, she will no longer be a part of this ministry", while they knew full well, they had made it so she could not speak to defencd herself against anything that was said. Also, dont' be fooled, Danny used to 3ABN board to do his dirty work. It still is his ministry. Oh my, there are so many scenarios to the why for this one. Sometimes a 'bossy' man wants full control of the 'wife's' children. They want the woman, but really had only an idea about the children. Did the children like/love him? How did the oscillation between natural and step-father work out? What was Linda's response to his 'leadership'? Was he driven to a 'hands-off approach..and then perhaps expected to 'understand'? How about his own children? What was that relationship, if different? It ain't no joke to have children 'from a previous marriage' on either side.

The 'story' of the man is important in the ears of the woman. Depends on what he told her.
If she can see the reason and it looks 'Kosher' then it would be OK.

A "bunch o' folks" didn't go....

Posted by: Jvat Apr 1 2006, 10:56 PM

Dre, bully for you. Do you know that both Andreason and Dwight Nelson supported Danny in a major way making him seem like a golden boy at the AU Rally? Why do you think that that was their reaction? Was it because they are just concerned about the evangelistic outreach of 3ABN? And nothing else?

I also noticed too that Dwight made sure that he preached the midday sermon today, sabbath and not anyone from 3ABN. I found that interesting!

I noticed that the place was not as packed as it could have been. I suppose that the bunch of folks was missing. I noticed quite a few white heads in the audience.

Posted by: Zephyr Apr 2 2006, 06:39 AM

As goes TV so goes the church. Jvat I am glad you noticed that Dwight did not allow Danny to do his usual rambling. I founbd it shameful that Joh Lomacang, Danny's waterboy would further pamper Danny by calling him pastor Danny.

3ABN is going to be a major headache for the SDA church. I said as much in an earlier post. And Danny appears humble and nice on screen but it is clear to me that he likes and gets his way all the time (maybe the meek does inherit...).

Church missiologists have appeared to conclude that 3ABN is indeed the 3angels of Rev 14 and the place to put all the evangelistic eggs of the church. 3ABN is too important to "finishing the work" to allow petty issues like divorce and remarriage a la carte to get in the way.

3ABN locks hands with the crazies of the Religious Right for 10Commandments Day (hahaha) led by Danny and thechurch appears to be going along ...all the world wondered...

Posted by: Jvat Apr 2 2006, 07:48 AM

Zephyr, your thoughts make a lot of sense. What a pity that the SDA Church by and large from the leadership end is not sitting up and taking notice. Is it "My people are destroyed for lack of knowledge" or "Where there is no vision, the people perish"?

So if we do not care about following the Thus saith the Lord in all of our lifestyles and we say that we are winning souls for Jesus, what kind of souls or converts are we really making? What kind? Are we bringing in more problems into the church as a result of such Laodiceanism?

I referred to this as well. I think they are afraid that the 'work' will suffer if they do anything or make any decisions on a personal level. Let God be the judge seems to be the decision. Notice also that 3ABN has taken on two or three more blacks since the 'new' staff.
I'm wondering though. When Michael ...something (English/Card?) , I believe got a divorce the Christian radio station in Michigan stopped playing allll his music. They explained that he'd gotten a non-Biblical divorce and they weren't going to play his music anymore. We didn't hear much from him after that.

I believe that someone wants to know how old Danny's new wife is---she is 33, he is almost 55, I believe. Did he have Bible grounds for divorce? No. Is this a good example for our children and for older SDA who are tired of their wives and need direction on how to get a younger? Yes. Can Danny be forgiven if he admits his mistake to God and to the church? Yes, of course. Has he admited that he did anything wrong? No. Are your children being introduced to an adulterer if they are at Andrews? Yes God help them all think is quite interesting that people in a whole see what is going on but they just pretty much sit here. If we are gonna consider 3abn as our station then when something goes on it is our business to get involve whether the big shots like it or not. Just because a couple of people decided to stand behind his bad actions (probably cause they wanna do the same thing down the line) and call it a blessing doesn't make it one. Even if he was right (which i highly doubt it) as a christian he should have known to act better so should have known the rest of the clan. There are a lot of really good people at 3ABN, but there are things that need to be changed and we who are incapable of controlling the board can only decide, after much prayer, where our offerings should go. From what I have read on other forums Danny and his new family made their way, after the wedding, to Disney land in Florida for a 4 day honeymoon.--donor paid? Or since there was going to be a 3ABN rally held in Florida--scheduled undoubtably by convenience, perhaps he had to take his family that direction on 3ABN's new jet-powered personal plane. The point of all this is that we need to have our eyes open but also our hearts open to God and pray that not one soul will be lost because of this example. We need tp pray for Danny, Linda, and Danny's new family. I guess that most people know that Danny's daughter, Melody is not doing much traveling now because she has remarried---also without grounds of adultry for the divorce from her other children's father. We need to have prayers for one another--don't let Satan win in this battle.

I read something on Linda Shelton's website that did concern me regarding that...

"Q. What about phone calls? Did you talk to someone regularly of the opposite sex?
A.I met Dr. Abrahamsen, a 60 year old physician, elder and counselor, briefly at 3ABN the last week of December 2003. He began treating my son, Nathan, in January 2004. We began speaking on the phone in regards to Nathan's problems when "the problem" began. Since Dr. Abrahamsen lived 6,000 miles away, and "the problem" involved some high profile people, I felt this was the best option. Typically I do not believe it is proper to speak regularly to people of the opposite sex when one is married. However, I do believe in a crisis situation the rules change. One must get help where one can find it."

It sounds like she may have believed that there was something wrong here....While the quote does not call it that, there is an implied "this is wrong, but because it was a crisi situation, it can be excused"... :blink:

Hello, Everyone:

I too wondered about the part of the letter where she talked about the phone calls. This doctor was 6000 miles away and Linda's biggest concern (according to what I have read from her writings) was for her wayward son. This doctor was trained to help drug addicts which Linda will admit that her son once was. Halleluella! he has won the battle because of the love of God, his Mom and the help of the Doctor. She also was being hurled accusation from people at home who were supposed to be her friends but were afraid of losing their jobs at 3ABN. From where I sit, Linda needed counseling from a doctor who wanted to help her--not to carry on an affair or inappropriate activities. He was a Christian elder of the church as well as a doctor/counselor and his aim was to answer her questions about what was happening at home. THis is just my understanding of the phone calls---I have said that I do not know Linda personally, have never seen her, but anyone who wants to know what kind of a person she is (and this is from where I have gathered my opinions) should go to her most recent postings (and the previous ones) on www.lindashelton.org. Then make up your mind who in this whole mess is trying to follow the Ten laws of God.---also the fruits of the spirit. I still want everyone to pray for Danny and for his true conversion. It is a terrible thing to have been called by God and then disobey the commandments that has been given to all of us by God..

QUOTE

When Linda stated on her website that a "problem" began that involved some high profile people, she was not making reference to any improper behavior on her part in speaking with the doctor and counselor on the phone. It was understood that she was most definitely speaking of some particular "problem" that she felt not at liberty to reveal. Also, unless I misunderstood (and I don't believe I did), she was saying that her knowing about this "problem" involving these "high profile" people in the church had a lot to do with how both maliciously and unjustly she subsequently was treated at 3ABN shortly after knowledge of the hidden "problem" occurred. Allow your mind to put yourself in the place of this mother with a child (however old) who at a time in his life made choices that now could end his life. Would not your efforts be about doing whatever you could do to save him? And that includes talking on the phone to someone of the [/i]opposite gender about his care. I personally believe Linda shelton to be a woman with great integrity and faith in the God of Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob.

That's a smoking gun you got there Summertime (colored portion)...but you made me think of something for another new thread....

You also make some valid possible reasons for things and people's reactions....

Hello, I am a member ofClub Adventist or Adventist Club-the one with Amelia and Stan.
Yes, I seen this on her website, couldn't believe what I seen.....and still finding out more and more...From what I see and hear, I believe Linda is being vindicated by the Lord.....I believe what she says, that she is innocent. The more I look into it, the more I see her innocence.....

QUOTE(Prisca @ Mar 27 2006, 09:57 AM)

No. It is the conclusion that follows that is the problem. If he sees himself as head of the home as Christ is the head of the church, he would realize that coercion and absolute obedience doesn't follow.

Priscilla

God the Father and God the Son and God the Holy Spirit make up the trinity in heaven and on earth. God the Father gave His Son to die for us, God the Son gave His life for the people He loves, and the Holy Spirit was left to be our Comforter until Jesus comes again. The Bible tells us that a husband should love his wife in the way that God loves us and gave Himself for us. How can a man set about to force his wife to leave and then make it look like she has left God? From things that I have read from other forums and books, spiritual adultry is only adultry between God and man when he/she chooses to leave His church. A husband should be the head of his household, but he also must be willing to lay down his life to protect her---and his family. Never will he force her to leave and then sign legal papers that make it illegal for the whole story to be told. God wants us to spread the whole story of His creation, and the last 6000+ years have been an open book--the Bible. WHen the creation and story of the raising of a station which is surely for finishing the work of God is all kept a legal secret, then we should be wondering what the rest of the story is all about.

yep loopholes for the 'famous' unless they plan on putting 'spiritual adultery' in the church manual for 2010, it would not surprise me.

Loopholes will never save our souls. Only Jesus can do that and He has no loopholes.

I hope that we will all notice the legal contract between Linda and 3ABN is before taxes which will probably be a huge chunk of it. It really is a payoff for keeping quiet about Danny or anything or anyone else to have to do with 3ABN. If she talks about anything this contract is revoked. Read the contract and see if I am right or wrong about this.This is how they have treated the co-founder of 3ABN. Danny calls himself the founder of 3ABN but there is a co-founder, Linda. Remember, friends, I am only an observer, not an authority that can give advice. Once again, I do not know Linda or Danny, I have never talked to either one of them, I have never been to 3ABN and even though I live close to 3ABN I will never go there. But I have found great friendliness on your forum and I hope, if you will let me, to stay around for a long time. Thank you, Calvin.

Danny's foolishness and hypocrisy fits him perfectly in the Ten Commandments day crowd---people whose interest is not in hearing what God said and wrote but in imposing on others what they themselves do not live by.

Keep in mind 3ABN is very much a business. This type of contract is a standard business practice for employees, partners, co-owners, regardless of the relationship when they are severed from the company. You want the money? Got to keep you mouth shut for a period of time and can't sue us. Severance agreements for executives are usually negotiated upon initial employment or and some other time afterward. We can't say it is fair or not, it is what Linda agreed to. Having spent some time in corporate compensation, I say she got a pretty good deal. It is unheard of for someone to post their severance agreement on a public Internet site. Sounds like Linda are soliciting for a big pity party.

No... she is doing all that the agreement allows her to do; during the course of it she cannot defend herself overtly.

The interesting stuff will occur the day after she receives the last payment from the severance settlement; the gag comes off at that point...and neither Danny or 3ABN will be able to stop her from telling her side...given the lengths both have gone to to keep he silent on this, I'd say there is a story there that needs telling...

Well, she can't tell all until her agreement expires. Maybe she will then. People get fired for all types of reasons, it happens. When you take the emotion out of it and view as a business transaction (what did I get when fired) $90K lump sum and two yeas severance ain't a bad deal. At my company the standard is one week for each $10K in salary and one week pay for each year of service, capped at one year pay, that is unless you where able to negotiate something else when hired. .

As severance agreements go, it's decent... as divorce settlements go when she is the co-founder of a multimillion dollar television enterprise and there was no pre-nup... she got hosed. Add to it being dragged through the mud and accused of all kinds of things while being forbidden to give her side and it becomes clear that Danny's camp was playing the game by rules with which she was not remotely familiar...

Right Calvin this is an excellent agreement for an employee, as Kevin says it is the shaft for a co-founder. What is doesn't say is that they required Linda to sign away any rights she had to the profits of 3ABN, a ministry/business she helped to build, in order to get $225,000.00.

Danny is very fortunate it was Linda, I would have told it to Oprah and anybody else who would listen. There is a reason they want her quiet, and it is not because she was cheating, that was his story.

Hello, I wanted to post some events that took place during the weekend with Linda Shelton. This is a copy from Club Adventist from Friend:

The weekend was wonderful. On Friday night, Linda pretty well opened herself up, to the extent she could, and tried to get discussion on the last two years done and out of the way. There were several ladies there who are staying in a shelter for abused women, and they said that they were very blessed and encouraged by Linda's story.

The Sabbath sermon will have to speak for itself. It was taped and will become available. I'll let you know more as soon as I know. We both got the flu on Friday, but during the events we felt fine.

While there, Linda taped two pilots for a new television series. More on that later.
[size=5][color=#3333FF]

I am excited and will be one of the first to get those tapes! Also, I am happy to hear that she is going to do a television series! The Lord is blessing and vindicating!!! Praise God!!!

3ABN is supposed to be a non-profit organization. Somebody gave some money somewhere to pay $50,000.00 peryear to a vice president and I heard even more to the vice president. The penniless carpenter has become rich from somewhere--huge homes, group of expensive horses, jet powered plane at his service for work and play alike. Somewhere the money will be provided to feed, clothe and educate the children. ---Disneyland honeymoons were paid from somewhere---was it all paid by one person's $50,000 salary at this time and age?. Remember that Linda pays a lot of taxes and her income tax will show only herself as a dependent, unless her son was so ill that he had to depend on his Mom for help. Should Linda have stayed on the job when her son was dying? Even the government gives paid leave for family emergencies. Danny had known his new wife since she was 12 or 13 (he says) and he said that he knew her parents also, but I have not seen or heard their name given by the man she married. Was Danny counseling her during her problems with her first 2 husbands?. There are a lot of unanswered questions, but I hope that all the older SDA members will see the need for their money elsewhere until this whole thing is straightened out.
Linda's and Danny's personal belongings have not been settled, as far as the contract reads or by what Linda said on her website. Why the hurry to marry? This whole thing must be very hard on Brandi unless she just doesn't open her eyes.
Maybe the settlement would have not been so bad if it had been given generously and without restraints. But to tape a ladies mouth shut for 2 years while the husband has no bounderies on himself is absurd.

For example, how many of us follow the counsel of the Orthodox SDAs and refrain from contact with the opposite sex? That means no male hairdressers, no mixed swimming, no male doctors, dentists, anything. They can't come and repair anything in your home and definitely they can NOT counsel you on any subject. IF it is done, it must be done in the presence of the husband and with his consent.

This might bring some daylight into things:

Danny Shelton had no grounds, Biblically, to divorce Linda and remarry in the SDA church. But he did. Brandi was baptised at the same time as Melody's daughter---Fall 2005 3ABN Campmeeting.

Melody Shelton Mundall Firestone had no grounds, Biblically, to divorce, remarry and divorce again her first husband (which makes him her first and second husband and the father of 4 of her children) and marry Mr. Firestone in the SDA church. Before she married Mr. Firestone, she was carrying his child. Both are SDA. After they married they were rebaptised. By the way C. A. Murry, who should have known better, preformed the ceremony.

Biblical grounds...see what I mean? The discussion of whether they should or shouldn't divorce and the issues surround what a Biblical divorce is would wreck the strongest ship. And C.A. could say 'no' to his boss? Is it a touch of the Catholic to deny people a marriage? We baptize them time after time to 'get the numbers'.

Posted by: princessdi Apr 5 2006, 05:23 PM

Priscilla, only somebody with something to hide go to those lengths to keep somebody quiet. If truth is on your side, you don't have worry about how many sides there are. Like Jimmy Swaggart, this story is as plain as the nose on your face, there were no two sides to that story. Jimmy talked trashed about Jim Baker, left his pulpit, and went directly to get his freak on with a local "cheap"prostitute. The only thing missing is the answer to questions like:

Why Danny felt the rush to get a quickie divorce in Guam?
If she ws indeed unfaithful to him, all he had to do was prove it. But then again he never said she was phsically unfaithful or even emotionally. Just that she spent too much time on the phone with a man(more than 15 mins).

Why he felt is necessary to "pay" Linda for her silence while cheating her out of her rightful benefits of the ministry/busines she helped to build?
I know of a lady has started watching 3ABN post Linda, and she says she never has heard Danny mention a wife besides the first one who died. This is besides having all the programs with her on them retaped directly after their split.

Why the quickie wedding to Brandi? The girl is at the studio and not even in a decent wedding dress, married by someone on the 3ABN pastorial staff.

3ABN is considered the product of a vision from straight God to Danny. That is the treasure. How nany times have we heard that testimony when 3ABN is 'on the road'? What is his view on women? Have you seen the one's that get the attention? How do they behave toward him... He comes from a stern background of working class people...as he says so often. Remember the story of the brother who wanted to play the piano but the mother didn't want him to so she put the piano on the porch? Tough move, until she finally relented when he sat outside with gloves on playing the thing in the dead of winter? Authority is correct, always correct unless it tells you otherwise. Now nothing must stand in the way of the carrying out of that 'vision'. To be right...that is a privilege, isn't it? b

Danny Shelton was not the first one to receive that vision, there were at least 2 others that he knows of and has spoken of that received it before him. One of them went so far as doing the paperwork, it was dated a few years earlier, and the name for the project...Three Angels Broadcasting Network.

Being called by God to do a special work is not a once called, always called situation. One of the examples we have is Saul, the first king of Isreal. When he turned away from God and started following his own way, God called another to take his place. But the transfer of position did not happen right away. God allowed Saul to follow his own path of corruption, until it was evident what he had become. Only after many years of opportunities for repentence, did Saul finally seal his own fate. Than David became king of Isreal.

Over the years Danny has had opportunities to turn away from the path that has finally led to what is now beginning to be revealed.

Danny, himself, has publically said that he has already fulfilled the vision that the Lord gave him. Perhaps it is time that he steps aside, before too much is revealed and he is removed from his position in shame.

As long as we are on the topic of the miracle story, that Danny goes around telling, even that is not what we have been lead to believe:

Before 3ABN started, Danny met with the Steensons when they were charismatic pastors and they offered to put on paper that they were donating around $100,000.00 worth of television equipment to him. That was the first "miracle" story that started the money rolling in. No equipment was ever donated by the Steensons, other than an SM-58 microphone that didn't work. To this day that story is told as the miracle that started 3ABN, but it is false. The first camera equipment at 3ABN came from Joe Crews at Amazing Facts and was purchased on a barter deal for air time.

It is one thing being called by God and surrender self and allowing God to use us for his purposes. It is quite another "creating miracles" ourselves.

Now 22 years later, Hal Steenson is in the 3ABN pastoral department and Molly Steenson is the general manager of 3ABN and a member of the board. The only one above Molly in the chain of command at 3ABN is Danny Shelton. After Molly Steenson became a SDA she said that the reason she became an Adventist was not because of the Sabbath or Sister White, but because 3ABN is THE cutting edge ministry. She was Danny's secretary, his right hand, for a number of years before she made this choice to become an Adventist.

Interesting, the more you know of the story...

For example, how many of us follow the counsel of the Orthodox SDAs and refrain from contact with the opposite sex? That means no male hairdressers, no mixed swimming, no male doctors, dentists, anything. They can't come and repair anything in your home and definitely they can NOT counsel you on any subject. IF it is done, it must be done in the presence of the husband and with his consent.

The Woman of Samaria at the Well (John 4:27)

"And upon this came His disciples, and marvelled that He talked with the woman: yet no man said, "What seekest thou?" or, "Why talkest thou with her?"

So, it appears that Jesus talked to the opposite sex, alone, at times. Just an observation.

I hear you, not only was he alone but she was a woman of ill-repute! but in Orthodox SDAism, it is not permitted. Even as the ladies sit separately in church in the Jewish Orthodoxy.

Danny Shelton was not the first one to receive that vision, there were at least 2 others that he knows of and has spoken of that received it before him. One of them went so far as doing the paperwork, it was dated a few years earlier, and the name for the project...Three Angels Broadcasting Network.

I remember an African American fellow who sang across the US trying to raise money to start the 3ABN network. I assumed it was for Danny Shelton's program.

Prisca, I can well understand what you are saying except for one thing---why should they shush her?

I was trying to say that the view of women could have an even greater reason for shushng than fear of hearing 'her side'. He is the man. Now, you know you've met people like this. I remember one girl who was animated in her conversation with friends and church members. When her husband came into the room, the silence was deafening. She would almost, if not, stop talking mid-word!

DI,

Priscilla, only somebody with something to hide go to those lengths to keep somebody quiet. If truth is on your side, you don't have worry about how many sides there are.

Supposedly he is trying to say that he isn't really telling allll he knows, that what he did say was 'kind'. Oh, Di, I have found that sometimes the person with the 'truth' is the one who is least believed!

Why he felt is necessary to "pay" Linda for her silence while cheating her out of her rightful benefits of the ministry/busines she helped to build?

He probably would say that he gave her, her 'share' and that the money wasn't for silence..that was just a bonus. See? It's all in the words and the angle...aaah, perspective.

Summertime:

[quote name='summertime' post='125472' date='Apr 5 2006, 10:53 PM']
3ABN is supposed to be a non-profit organization. Somebody gave some money somewhere to pay $50,000.00 peryear to a vice president and I heard even more to the vice president. The penniless carpenter has become rich from somewhere--huge homes, group of expensive horses, jet powered plane at his service for work and play alike. Somewhere the money will be provided to feed, clothe and educate the children. ---Disneyland honeymoons were paid from somewhere---was it all paid by one person's $50,000 salary at this time and age?. Remember that Linda pays a lot of taxes and her income tax will show only herself as a dependent, unless her son was so ill that he had to depend on his Mom for help. Should Linda have stayed on the job when her son was dying? Even the government gives paid leave for family emergencies. [/quote]

Was her son dying? Again I ask, what was Danny's relationship to the son. What did he demand Linda's relationship to her son. That is whole 'nother can of worms for blended families. Now he has children he can control, perhaps? I have an urge to sing...Summertime...and the livin' is EEEEEZZZ... When I saw many similarities in our (SDA) as in others, I began to give less, to be sure. I just couldn't understand why the money was used in such frivilous ways...trips, etc. Being assured over and over that no one 'gets a salary' just wasn't enough for me. I couldn't go to Europe and tape 'on the scene' anything. Not even a postcard. Anyway. Back in Berrien Springs one couple on Grove Street gave their entire retirement package so that the down link could be purchased for the town. But, remember the blessings of giving are just that. Sure, we are to be responsible givers, but if we feel that the Lord can use the ministry...and He has brought many people with testimonies (the product) in 'the truth' as a result of 3ABN...for some people, that is all they really want to know.

This might bring some daylight into things:

Danny Shelton had no grounds, Biblically, to divorce Linda and remarry in the SDA church. But he did. Brandi was baptised at the same time as Melody's daughter---Fall 2005 3ABN Campmeeting.

Melody Shelton Mundall Firestone had no grounds, Biblically, to divorce, remarry and divorce again her first husband (which makes him her first and second husband and the father of 4 of her children) and marry Mr. Firestone in the SDA church. Before she married Mr. Firestone, she was carrying his child. Both are SDA. After they married they were rebaptised. By the way C. A. Murry, who should have known better, preformed the ceremony.

But this goes to back to the thread in Adventist Forum...IF she was re-baptized privately, then she IS a new creature like everyone else who sins, is baptized and FORGIVEN; C.A.Murray would then be well with his call as a pastor to perform the wedding....

As I do not know anything publically or privately about Melody (PTL.gif), there is nothing else I can say on that..... May God bless them all...

Melody and her current husband were not rebaptised until a while later after their marriage. I too wish them God's blessings and a new future together.

No, Priscilla, if 3ABN is business then it is all business. In business you give you employees owed severance and /or a bonus when they leave your employ, however, you "buy out" partners. Linda was a partner, they built 4ABN together. A "bonus' can't legally be a consideration. They knew they weren't giving her what she should have, and the proof is in the separation document. It says that she would get a certain amount of money only if she kept quiet and didn't sue them for more. Those are not my words, but theirs. It means she was owed more and they some how got her to settle for less. They got her to "settle" out of court for an amount that was less than she deserved, while trying to move post haste to ensure her silence. You dern tootin' Danny ain't telling all he knows, but it ain't about Linda. like I and others have said, he's been telling his side all the time.

Baptism is a public symbol/display. In this case, with the events as they have been presented, God has nothing to do with it. It was a public symbol used as damaged control. So if there are any questions about Meoldy situation, if anyone should decide to count the age of her youngest child, they could say it was taken care of, she was rebaptized.....quietly, no need to make a public spectabcle.It was done to get the exactly reaction you exhibited, " Oh well, if they got rebaptised, it's all good". Not!

IF that is true, it was still the BOARD's decision...period. They could have said "no"...

Calvin hit the nail on the head when he said 3ABN was a business and they run it just like all the others in this world. They are careful, however, that the public perception is that it is purely a minstry. In this they can ensure that members/viewers/supporters "assume" that buisness in conducted in a manner consistent with christian integrity. Once again, Not!

Over on CA, it has been revealed that all those miracles in Danny's Miracle book aren't so true. Kay Kuzma worked with Danny for 7 years collaborating on that book. (I wonder if they ever spent more than 10 minutes on the phone together?) On CA there is an email where Kay Kuzma says she interviewed Linda ONCE!

Could it be he had to keep Linda silent about the NON-miracles book?

Could it also be that in Feb. she found out about Brandy. March 7, is when he came up with Spiritual adultery.

Could it be both?

Could it be she agreed to keep silent to save the ministry she had built up and dearly loved?

I also believe her settlement was a shame. The truth is slowly seeping out.

Depending on the age of the granddaughter, that might not be a good idea, but that is the sequence in our church, isn't it? Rebaptizm reinstates. In some congregations the pastor will ask if the girl is pregnant and then disfellowship first and rebaptize. In some churches no questions are asked and rebaptism is administered. What a whole lot of people do is get married in a civil ceremony and change their membership to a church 'far away' or join on profession of faith.

If they repent as far as God is concerned that is the end of the matter however whatever consequences occur they will need to deal with it. i.e once the story is out about thier past they may lose the respect of thier fellow members, they should also ask for your daugther's forgiveness if they are truely repentant. He and the new wife are considered members in good standing in the church were they have attended all along. Where do you think that this man and his wife stand in the eyes of God?

You know, I've heard of this so often. Good and regular standing, yet many of the members feel they are not OK. The daughter is free to marry, in my opinion. During the last couple of years I've felt differently about divorce and good standing in church. We've had a pastor refuse to marry a couple because one of them did not have a 'Biblical divorce'. I think God is always displeased when people fail to love one another...whereever that failure leads. It could lead to divorce and that may be a good thing. When it leads to abuse, I think it is worse than divorce. The daughter had no marriage to restore. There wasn't one in the first place. It would take the spirit of Elijah to turn hearts. That is what she was trying to do. No human can do that.

Having said that, my hubby was watching a 'divorce court' scene and of course I wandered in. The wife had plenty of money while the husband stayed home on the receiving end. She told her story and it made him look pretty bad. Then he told his story and said she seduced him with her money and now wanted to change him into a responsible person, which he didn't feel was fair to him. That was a new twist.

If they repent as far as God is concerned that is the end of the matter however whatever consequences occur they will need to deal with it. i.e once the story is out about thier past they may lose the respect of thier fellow members, they should also ask for your daugther's forgiveness if they are truely repentant. IMO.

Don't you see incompatibility raising it's ugly head again, Den?

Thank you again, Priscilla, do I understand you to mean that it is OK with God if I plan ahead to do something against the commandment of God, then with premediated sin in my book in heaven, then do you think that God will forgive? Say, I plan to go next door, and sock my neighbor---I had planned on doing this for many days. OK, now the deed is done, and I go to my bed, kneel down, and ask God to forgive me. Do you understand what I am trying to say? A deliberated, planned ahead sin against my neighbor knowing full well that it is wrong, but also knowing that it is alright to go and sock my neighbor, if I immediately pray for forgiveness from God. This is a question that has been debated in my home with my family and I really want your opinion.

What was David's prayer? It is called presumptuous sinning. Only the person and God really knows if it s premeditated. They are the ones who 'tell somebody' about it. David did just that. It stayed on his conscious for the rest of his life. We can see it in the way he treated his wife, his children, he was morally paralyzed because of that sin, yet he was forgiven. There is NO sin that is confessed that does not get forgiveness. It is the heart of the repentent that is the deciding factor, not the sin.

There is another sin that is strange to me. I could call it the Peter syndrome. When you don't really want to sin at all, but somehow find yourself in Satan's hands and aren't really aware of the damage you are doing, until it is 'allll over' then you, like the prodigal 'come to yourself', get up and start home.

Hi, Priscilla, OK. my neighbor tells me that she wants to divorce her husband who has been loyal to her and marry the man next door because he is younger and has more money. Can I tell her to go ahead and afterward the Lord will forgive her . OK? Now do you see where I am coming from? I appreciate your talking to me.

loooove talking to you. You're my father's favorite song, did I tell you that? Fish are jumpin...etc. etc. But no, you can't tell a person to go ahead and commit a premediated sin. You try your best to show them 'from Scripture' that what they are doing is wrong, however, once they have gone ahead and 'dun dun it' you can't just turn your back and say, you're on your own with that sin, girl, I am SURE God will not forgive you. You stand the risk of having her forgiven by God in spite of her 'blackout' and your NOT being forgiven because of your anymosity toward her. Is that possible? Remember we are not responsible for the sin of others. This is why some ministers will marry almost anyone, at least if they are in the same religion. They don't want to be judges.

Priscilla, I don't know what your occupation is, but you would be a very nice, competent legal and Biblical advisor. So we have come around to the point that it was alright for Danny to plan ahead to blacken Linda's name, accuse her of something she did not do, hurt her in everyway that he possibly could, and then marry a young, newly baptized (Thank God for that) girl and then make it appear that it was right for him to do so. Then he goes to a college where many young, impressionable minds are sitting in the pews when he introduces his beautiful, new, young wife to all these college students--I have young relatives at Andrews, REmember that he had planned to do this all along. Of course, in the long run, if he really determines that what he did was wrong and he confesses it to God and to the world, God will forgive him. But what would that do to his young wife? And what could it do to all the young people, Married and unmarried who are influenced by 3ABN?. Even the senior pastor and I believe, that it ws the President of Andrews, stood beside him and glorified the marriage. How does God feel in the midst of all of this? A man stands at the head of 3ABN who is a liar, an adulterer, and a deceitful man---And our pastors and other highly advanced officers of our church seem to be accepting it as a good thing. We would expell a child from school for going that far to hurt other people, but the denominatiion as a whole, are thinking that it is a good thing and that Linda should sit in the corner and do the work of God wherever and whenever she can. When and how are we, as the body of the church who is sending God's word to the world, rectify this example to the young SDA youth of the future? It really worries me for the children who will be our future church.

'hank you for the compliment, many days I wish I had pursued that course instead of attempting ›rain surgery that tries to open the brains of children who don't want to learn...put the concept in and ›ull it out of their mouths, roll it down their arms and coax it onto paper. I love it , though, as you can ;ee.
Iow, I never said it was 'right'. I know of a couple right now. I met the distraught wife years ago and vondered who was the terrible monster that had torn up their happy home, ripping the father out of he home and sending him into the arms of sin. Then years later I met the 'other' couple. I realized hat there just isn't anything to do...they are married, if only after a sort. I have to deal with this type ›f relationship on a daily basis. What of the new wife, what of the old, what of the pain and heartache ›f all concerned. Sometimes we think of Danny as a monster. Think...deceived if all the facts are in. Misled even. We know he isn't supposed to be smart enough to have planned all the legal matters that ranspired. He can't go back to Linda. He can only go forward. Even if he realizes it was wrong. The leceived may be more dangerous than the planned sinner, don't you think?
\s for the young people, who watch. I know...I hear it everyday (I have a few teenagers as well) They hrive on a good example, deeds, deeds and undeeds are their fare. I try to express the concept that leeds..whether good or bad don't really save us. Motives are the most important things. They moan ıbout their parents and pastor and whoever..but it always comes back to some deed. What is wrong vith that focus?

'he Bible says that we will know a tree by the fruit it bears. There is an old childrens story about an :mporor that was walking down the street without his clothes. Like the tree all his fruit was there for :veryone to see, but because he was a the man in charge, they ignored his condition and acted as if vhat he was doing was perfect alright. Then a small voice spoke out from the crowd and said, he is ıaked. No one wanted to believe what the small voice had said, to acknowlege the truth of it was to ıdmit their own part in accepting the deception. Only when a few other brave voices joined in and the ruth was echoed again and again, did some begin to look and see the truth. Meanwhile the Emporor :ontinued his shameful parade in the midst of the people, not until the echos of that small voice)ecame a shout, did the "good people" choose to "see" the truth and the Emporor was publically :xposed for what he really was, for the fruit he bore that was there all the time.

So goes the "story" of Danny Shelton, he boldly parades his shameful behaviour through our churches ınd universities. And our presidents and pastors stand proudly beside him, ignoring the small voices of ruth that say, "Look he is shamefull and parades his nakedness publically before us." We say he is vhite and it is none of our business, some of our older folks may support 3ABN, but not us. The Bible ;ays that we are neither Greek or Jew, slave or free, males or female (and may I add black or white))ut we are all one in Christ Jesus. That makes it our responsibility, too. There may be more black aces on 3ABN, but it is not because Danny loves the race. He is still the same "good old boy from ;outhern Illinois" that he has always been. He is just looking to expend his platform of financial ;upporters. I still remember when he had some of the young folks from our college on his show and old them that of course there are no black angels, everyone knows that all the angels are white.

remember that, also. In that case, however, I am sure it was meant to be Danny's form of humor, :ven if it was misunderstood or fell flat.

The actual situation was like this, if my memory serves me correctly:

The 3ABN computer guy, Doug, had illustrated the three angels of Revelation 14 using another employee for the computer-generated model of these angels. Doug used one white guy for all three angels. At that time, Doug was using an Apple computer and various computer programs including http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Video_Toaster

As a result, all three angels that were displayed on the 3ABN screen for a few years, at the top of the hour, appeared as the same white guy dressed in an all-purpose bedsheet.

Therefore, I believe Danny said, "I have proof that angels are white," and he showed the Oakwood visitors Doug's computer-generated angels which, of course, were all white. 3ABN doesn't seem to be using that signature logotype animation today, so the story of the white angels probably loses something as the years go by.

I was in Doug's office at the time, for a brief visit, when these animations were created. I am absolutely certain there was nothing behind that particular story at all. Danny certainly has lots of problems right now, but belief in white angels isn't one of them.

Read the story of David and Bathsheba then read Psalm 51 (I am not Priscilla)

As far as we know there is a lot of injustice in the Danny and Linda saga, one can express their displeasure to the powers that be but at the end of the day God's forgivenss is not limited just cos the story involves Danny Shelton we need to be careful we are so righteously indignant that we act like he or whoever has no right to be forigven - read the Lord's prayer there are no exceptions to the rule.

No one has suggested (or at least I have not) that he is not forgiven or can't be forgiven... what has been said is that he shafted his ex-wife, sullied her reputation and then married a younger wife.....

Ah yes, the church of Pillows, Mattresses, and Covers. Oh yes, they see and hear and talk...boy do they talk! They are consumed with how the elders live. I remember one Sabbath in my youth, the elders were party folk and one Friday night one of the youth saw him at a party. Next day he was in church with dark glasses like someone with an allergy! She couldn't tell anybody 'cause her Mother thought she was somewhere else! OOO what a 'ting'.

Of course, Danny can be forgiven. I am only worried about the influence on all the young people who are watching and who have been taught by their parents that Danny is a man blessed by God (and in the early days I know that is true) and so will follow his example. Not just the younger students around the world but a lot of older admirer of Danny's honesty and who are getting tired of their wives and would chose to settle for a younger wife. I already know a couple of those who think that he is great and justified. The problem here is that it sounds like you--and maybe we all are presuming to know what REALLY went on....no matter what his past history, we don't know...and for what ever reasons even Linda has not treaded into this area of motive publically....

Whether people agree or not, whatever we ask God to forgive us for, with a sincere heart he does..."If we confess our sins, He is faithful and just to forgive us our sins, and cleanse us from all unrighteousness"--we tread on the lines of being Pharisees when we decide that just because (or not) he can't/hasn't been forgiven--that they can't/haven't been forgiven, and canot move on with their lives AS IF THEY NEVER SINNED.

What is interesting for this board is that we have had threads (one of which I am about to hunt for) where the arguement has been that to the opposite: that people in the church are not given the opportunity to be imperfect (including as leaders) and move forward.

Posted by: simplysaved Apr 10 2006, 08:58 AM

I wanted to post this directly from Linda's website....

http://www.lindashelton.org/

"An Open Letter to 3ABN and my Church Family,

I came to the conclusion this week that the only reason we get sad, depressed, upset, etc. is because our "world" is not heaven. We want our circumstances to be perfect, our homes to be perfect, our churches to be perfect and we want all the people in our lives to be perfect. But the realization must come that we're not in heaven yet and this world will never be perfect. And all the fussing, fighting and pointing fingers that emerges from our imperfect world only serves to demonstrate to the world that LOVE doesn't really work. Then our Christian witness flies out the window because people are typically drawn to things that work. But LOVE does work, because God is LOVE.

Inside every man, woman and child are two thought patterns. There is the higher elevated thought, and there is the lower thought patterns that stem from our carnal natures. The higher thoughts inspire us to love God and our fellow man. They inspire us to be the spirit of Christ on this earth. From the lower thought patterns come hatred, jealousy, and every destructive spirit that emerges from a human being. Sometimes even those who love God and His law fall into the trap of living in the lowlands of the lower thought patterns. We all have done this. The result is always tragic. The result always seems to say "LOVE doesn't work."

God's message for His world today is that LOVE REALLY WORKS! Although the evil one has concocted one of the most wicked, divisive schemes for the Seventh day Adventist Church, the way to deploy the time bomb is to STOP exercising that which is contrary to the spirit of LOVE.

We must remember that you, me and the rest of the human family, WE ARE ON THE SAME TEAM! The enemy is Satan, his angels and the forces of evil. We need to stand shoulder to shoulder, arm in arm and face the battles ahead together. We need to purposefully put away the hurts, prejudices and malice that we harbor. We need to climb to the highest places in our thoughts and think the best of one another. If we, as Seventh day Adventists, can at the peak of crisis choose LOVE, it is then we have won the battle! It is then we have presented a true picture of the character of Christ to the world. It is then we become God's GLORIOUS Church! The best reflection of the Potter often comes as a result of the white heat of suffering.

I want to be the first to do this. I acknowledge that I have been deeply hurt, but there is no hurt too big for God to heal... and we all must have a Gethsemane experience at one time or another. I choose LOVE, I choose forgiveness and I encourage YOU to do the same. Additionally I choose to have no enemies. ALL are brothers and sisters and friends. And yes, I am talking about you Dan, Walt, Nick, John, Mollie, Brenda and Kay, and others. This crisis can be transformed into a dynamic springboard of an awesome outpouring of God's Spirit on the earth if we all choose to do the same!

In the darkest hour of earth's history, Jesus chose to LOVE. And when we choose to LOVE in the darkest moments, miracles happen. We need a miracle right now. The right choice now will bring the balm of Gilead to our calamities. It will open the floodgates of heaven where we can receive all that we need to be united, strengthened and prepared for the battle just ahead. It is clear that the evil one is attempting to weaken our ranks now that we are at the end of time.

When we choose Love, we are choosing God. It's His nature, His character and it's all that He wants us to be. Jesus says to us today, "My little children, let us not love in word, neither in tongue, but in deed and in truth." In other words, a pretended love doesn't work. A love that looks good on the outside doesn't work. But a genuine love from God will help us to keep our thought patterns elevated. It will allow us to see no one as enemies, but the evil one and his angels. It will melt the callouses from our hearts and move us from being spectators of problems, to people who genuinely care enough to get involved in even the ugliest of problems.

Someone once said "Love easily loosens all our bonds. There is no discomfort that will not yield to its sovereign power. The sun compels the traveler to lay aside the cloak that wind and storm have failed to take from his grasp." In the same sense LOVE will cause us to throw off our pride, vanity and the desire to appear "right" in the eyes of the people, and instead we will be like Christ. We will get on our knees and wash each others feet. "Beloved if God so loved us (in our ugliest state), we ought also to LOVE one another." (1 John 4:11)

Perhaps this is a good example to remind us we should never put our leaders or anyone in the Adventist public eye on a pedestal. Why some of us present these men as an example to our youth I will never know. I was never brought up to believe our leaders were 'men blessed by God so will never mess up' heard too many stories including this one to confirm that some of them mess up big time and in public too. Yes its one hot mess and not a lovely story and thus we can remind our young people too put thier trust in Jesus and not church leaders cos humans will let you down everytime.

Too true!

These Pastors & Preachers become "like gods" to many SDA's..... and as soon as you make someone a "god" they will fall - and fall harder when they think of themselves as a "god" too....

I wonder too Sarah what people know or are we just fueling the flames of idle gossip. Danny has been accused here of dragging Linda's name through the mud, embarrassing her, etc. My wife has 3ABN on for 12 hours a day on Sabbath. I and my wife have never heard Dan address this publicly either. Even in his personal email to me that I published here he never lambasted Linda.

It appears that Linda and Danny have put this behind them and moved on with their lives, good for them.

Yes, Calvin, there is one lady at my church who watches 3ABN a lot, also. She says she has not heard anything either. Instead what he opted to do was, at lest ont he network from what I can see, it to act as if Linda never existed. the lady at my church started watching post linda, and had no idea she even existed. She said she only saw Danny with his daughter talking about how his ifrst wife died, and about him raising his daughter along, pretty much. So, apparently he kept the trashing to the visits to the churches to which a couple of members here have heard personally, but opted to act as if she didn't exist on the net work. I am not sure if that is better, though.

My only problem with this whole situation is that on it's face, it has many things for which our adminstration should have made Danny answerable, and they have not. Everyone knows the rules, and presenting himself as a leader, he should lead out in keeping the rules, especailly since 3ABN sees themselves as authority on Christian living. Not that he is perfect or can't fall, but then we don't act as if it is alright. Even with David, he paid the consequences, even though he was never removed as King. It is clear that God held him accountable for ALL of his actions, good and bad. We should do no less. It should at least been addressed. We don't move on until things are made right, as possible. He wrongly divorced Linda, and then married this younger women, none of that can be undone, but the inproprieties of the situaion need addressing.

Biblically speaking, is this "spiritual adultery" grounds for divorce? It's a good thing we are admonished to keep our eyes on Jesus, because sometimes we get mixed signals from those "in authority" of the church. Of course, keeping our eyes on Jesus does not excuse any of us from living according to the Scriptures.

Posted by: simplysaved Apr 10 2006, 12:11 PM

And how do you know that it has not? Just because we haven't seen or heard it does not mean it has not happened.....there was a period of time afterward where Danny was not even featured on 3ABN...John was...

Make no mistake, both Linda and Danny have caught hell from all of this....both have made mistakes and both have moved on.... If God has dealt with and forgiven them (and I believe He has), man/flesh would be wise to let it alone...

No...it is not an actual legal cause for divorce....However, the Bible states that if a person looks after a woman to lust, he has committed adultery with her already in his own heart. to divorce a person under these circumstances would be a stretch...

Posted by: princessdi Apr 10 2006, 12:12 PM

"Spiritual Adultery" is basically used in reference to what the Children of Israel did int he Bible, by always waundering after the gods of their neighboring heathen nations. Today it can be used to discribe as anything we make an idol or put before God. It doesn't apply to marriages, at all.

I have 3ABN and I have heard Danny make frequent oblique references to "the situation" in a way that people who knew about the divorce would think he was a victim and the other party and a villain. And yes he always refers to his first wife ("melod's mother) in glowing or neutral terms -- but Linda never existed... If that amounts to subtly trashing linda (and I think it is) then yes he has been taking jabs at Linda.

I am sure Mr Calvin know the cat better than I, but I do not believe Danny has moved on--the backstabbing still goes on, the playing victim still goes on...the Linda never existed goes on. The "isn't she cute" trophy wifing goes on.

The fact is Linda wanted to reconcile but Danny, aided and abetted, pampered and powedered by Pastor Long John, Doc K and the others who are living the good life on 3ABN fat, gave Danny comfort in putting away his wife who wanted to stay in the marriage. If that is biblical then Nathan should apologize to David and John the Baptist lost his head over nothing and Jesus did not know what he was talking about.

New theme song for 3ABN:
"I want to spend my life breaking God's Commandments.
I want to spend my life removing guilt..."

Posted by: simplysaved Apr 10 2006, 12:20 PM

The fact is BOTH probably wanted the marriage to reconcile but had to many people in their personal affairs...and for the record, Danny did specifically state many, many times on the air at 3ABN that HE wanted to--even after she left 3ABN....

What can one expect? If he talks about Linda (either positive or negative) it will become more of a mess....of course he is not going to mention Linda...and if he has sense, he will definitely speak well of his "baby's momma"....

I am sad that this mess happened to Linda--to the both of them...but love the fact that she has moved forward and is putting the past behind...as Danny appears to....

That is not spiritual adultery. That's not even virtual adultery. It's adultery and one's standing is no different than if he had actually slept with that woman.

That is not what this man accused his wife of... though it is what he has done in divorcing her without cause and marrying another.

The problem with this is he made these statements after "he" went to Guam for the quickie divorce.....He was saying those things for the folks who didn't know that. He also told us here in his posts that they were working on it.....Then we have him actually fighting in court for the legitmacy of said Guam divorce. Not the actions of a man who wants to save his marriage, BTJM.

We forget there are Danny's own actions that differ quite a bit from Danny's own words.

Awesum I am glad we have people who are not afraid to call it like it is. I wish the "spiritual" leaders around Danny had the guts or whatever to speak to danny like Nathan or John the Baptist. Shame on Lomacang and CA. And Pastor John had the temerity and gall to call Danny "Pastor Danny Shelton" at the Pioneer memorial Church.

No amount of TV dollars and facetime is worth selling ouit like that John and CA.

Princess you are correct. danny never wanted to reconcile. He was lying if he ever suggested that. You don't inventing a sin to accuse your wife of, telling it to everyone who will listen, running to guam to file dicorce and fighting tooth and nail to be loosed from your wife, and then claim you wanted to reconcile. it's a lie. Danny was fed up and wanted out...

Several errors in this statement:

1. Re-recording shows to make it seem like his wife never existed is not the act of a man who wants to reconcile with said wife. That is an act of spite. Getting a quickie divorce in Guam even while his wife was expressing hope in fixing their marriage is not the act of a man bent on reconciliation... it smacks of desperation... I suppose if his new wife has a miraculous 8lb 12 oz "preemie" in 6 or 7 months that will explain the drive-thru divorce...

2. Linda did not leave 3ABN; she was kicked out by Danny with the rubber stamp imprimitur of the board to have her fired.

3. He does not mention her by name; the allusions he makes to the circumstances surrounding her replacement cannot be construed by any reasonable person as 'speaking well of her'

Dead on Bro J!

If you don't speak of me at all - or act as if I never existed - it's just as bad.

To redo tapes.... OMG! You really are stretching to make it seem like the woman never existed aren't you?

Just know this.....

GOD knows she existed - and ain't no amount of retaping, ill-speaking at churches (like it was rumored he did at PMC), and sugar-coating can cover that.

Gas-a-lean drawers ....that's all I'm saying. Gas-a-lean drawers if he doesn't truly repent. And true repentance is not public...but we wouldn't ever hear another "bad" thing coming out of his mouth about Linda. Ever. Why? Because if he "truly repented" then it would be history and over - and not left open for discussion. As long as he is still discussing it...it's still in his heart....

BTW: if she has a baby earlier than 8 months - we all know the deal. A "fat" premie! That was hot....

Sarah, Maybe it is just me, but from the other posts I dont' think so. You see it was almost two years ago that Danny forced Linda out of 3ABN, had her signed a gag order, and then started going around the nation talking about how he had been done wrong. If, indeed, he was repentant for those sins, we would not have the marriage of him and Brandi. I am by no means saying aht if Danny has asked for forgiveness then God will forgive him, that is God's promise. But as you can see from the posts here, Danny is not through with this. Making references to an incident where you are still trying to play the victim and Linda the villian, is not moving on. Marrying Brandi could be considered moving on, because it is the usual move of men(or women) desparately trying to prove they have "moved" on, before things are actually settle from the last relationship. He got a quickie divorce, and then a quickie marriage. Like I said maybe it is just me, but something just aint' right about all this, yet.

Oh yes, I dont' know if you have read all of the threads here about this situation, but maybe you should. we know all about the time when Pastor Lomacane and his wife were on the show....basically while Danny was in Guam getting his quickie divorce.....

And when do you think Danny asked for forgiveness for his sins.....the day after he married Brandi? He had no right, biblically to marry her, especially, even by his own admission, Linda was not unfaithful to him. That is why he came up with the "spiritual adultery" there was no actual/sexual/ emtional adultery to speak of. So from the time he divorced Linda with no biblical grounds to the moment he married Brandi a month ago, again without biblical grounds, he was still commiting a sin. Now, where are those consequences for Danny? We do see Linda suffering, Danny has been on cruise control the whole time. The church, His Ichurch, nobody has even hinted at asking him to answer to any of the things he's done. He did them puclicly, they dont' have to tell all the buisness the th public needs to know something was said. That is all I am saying. Allwe got is pastors and conference officials welcoming Brandi to the family. All of them are going to be crispy! Ooops!! Sorry that one slipped!! LOL!!!

This is the problem we face when we don't call as we see them. There is no justifying. Danny look just like David before Nathan got to him, right about now.

That's true,

There are hidden messages that reach people who are sensitized to them, but they pass over the heads of the other good people. They are messages that have "deniability." The speaker can always say he meant something totally different, and it's just the listener's own imagination.

When 3ABN's "recent problems" were mentioned, I heard this oblique phrase:

"We shall counteract the counterfeit, not BE the counterfeit."

And when they spoke of the future of 3ABN after the storm passes, I heard this one:

"And the gates of HELL shall not prevail against it."

There was verbal emphasis on the words in CAPITALS.

That's why I think some posters are picking up on the slams and some are hearing absolutely nothing. Each group of listeners thinks the other group is mistaken. Each group is telling the truth, because we all filter language and feelings differently - just like we filter our e-mail.

It amazing the the Lord made each one of us as a unique human being.

(11) You trample on the poor and take their wheat from them for taxes. That is why you build houses from hand-cut stones, but you will not live in them. You plant beautiful vineyards, but you will not drink their wine.
(12) I know that your crimes are numerous and your sins are many. You oppress the righteous by taking bribes. You deny the needy access to the courts.
(13) That is why a wise person remains silent at such times, because those times are so evil.

God's chosen people were taking advantage of the poor, they were not being fair or just and God said I cannot STAND your worship, your sacrifices, or your music... instead show justice, fairness, and mercy.....

I've noticed little things like that, all passed off as 'jokes'. My English teacher in school years ago said she wanted to come to the kitchen to hear us sing. It's still alive and well today, that 'good ole doctrine'.

Priscilla

The Bible says that we are neither Greek or Jew, slave or free, males or female (and may I add black or white) but we are all one in Christ Jesus. That makes it our responsibility, too. There may be more black faces on 3ABN, but it is not because Danny loves the race. He is still the same "good old boy from southern Illinois" that he has always been. He is just looking to expend his platform of financial supporters. I still remember when he had some of the young folks from our college on his show and told them that of course there are no black angels, everyone knows that all the angels are white.

THe problem here is that according to Linda's letter, she has been trying to extend a hand of love and put it all behind her. But the Board Chairman, Dr. Thompson, released this letter condemning Linda in broadest terms when, according to the terms of her separation contract she can not reply in the same broadest terms. She cannot speak against 3ABN or its employees without losing her seperation monthly checks until next December. On the 5th of this month an open letter was written smearing her all over again. If you have not read it, look on Adventist Forum and the '3ABN topics' and go to 'Dr. Thompson's letter' and read it for yourselves. I do not know if you have posted it or not. They seem to be drudging up all the past accusations they have made against her--plus more. In my reasoning, this letter was written to defend Danny's recent marriage to Brandy. Please, again, Friends, do not blame Brandy for all this--Brandy and her children need our prayers--not our blame. Danny and his Board are responsible for all this latest 'drudging up' just when things were settling down and Linda was extending a hand of love.

3ABN must survive to spread the word of God, but it may not if this kind of activity continues to spread. Many have stop paying their donations alreaady. The replacement of the heads of 3ABN is the thing which may put all of this behind us. Remember that God is in charge. For yourselves, pray about it and God will guide you in what you do.

I agree, but I think that there are probably still enough loose threads to knit a lovely thick sweater for a huge man.

The questions about Danny and Linda are only the tip of the iceberg. A small visible formation to warn us that there are alot of other issues about Danny Shelton and 3ABN that "lie" below the surface and that is where the real danger is located. Any man who begins his ministry founded on "a first miracle" that can be easily proven to be nothing more than a lie, should be suspect. When two of the current top people in his ministry are the ones, Molly and Hal Steenson, who suggested the "miracle" and were willing to forge documents to substanciate it and over the years both they and Danny have continued to sell it to the people---there is a lot more going on "in the name of God" at 3ABN than you can imagine.

There are those of us who were there over the years and know the truth, but for the sake of the ministry we have remained silent, believing the greater good was served. Hoping and praying that Danny would be able to humble himself before the Lord and allow Him to lift him up. But that has not happened and now the ministry is strong enough that the truth can be told and know that the ministry can easily survive the removable of Danny, Molly and Hal. I pray that a wind of truth directed by the Holy Spirit will sweep through 3ABN and that all the deceit and self-serving that has been allowed to go on will be revealed in the light of day. There are also other "players" at 3ABN, the first place to begin looking is the chariman of the board...

QUOTE(summertime @ Apr 11 2006, 07:11 AM)

THe problem here is that according to Linda's letter, she has been trying to extend a hand of love and put it all behind her. But the Board Chairman, Dr. Thompson, released this letter condemning Linda in broadest terms when, according to the terms of her separation contract she can not reply in the same broadest terms. She cannot speak against 3ABN or its employees without losing her seperation monthly checks until next December. On the 5th of this month an open letter was written smearing her all over again. If you have not read it, look on Adventist Forum and the '3ABN topics' and go to 'Dr. Thompson's letter' and read it for yourselves. I do not know if you have posted it or not. They seem to be drudging up all the past accusations they have made against her--plus more. In my reasoning, this letter was written to defend Danny's recent marriage to Brandy. Please, again, Friends, do not blame Brandy for all this--Brandy and her children need our prayers--not our blame. Danny and his Board are responsible for all this latest 'drudging up' just when things were settling down and Linda was extending a hand of love.

3ABN must survive to spread the word of God, but it may not if this kind of activity continues to spread. Many have stop paying their donations alreaady. The replacement of the heads of 3ABN is the thing which may put all of this behind us. Remember that God is in charge. For yourselves, pray about it and God will guide you in what you do.

God is in charge. God will accomplish His will. But, that does not mean that 3ABN is required to accomplish God's will. God can remove, and God can replace. Some people think that Hope TV is being positioned to be a replacement.

I just thought about a saying from the 'old folks'. My mom would say, scaffolds! You know some people are going to be used by God, but not saved....nodding significantly. These remarks were usually reserved for those who were pronounced 'unsaved' but effective evangelists. But really, why do we lump the two together? Their private lives and their public lives, thinking or concluding that one supports the other or can not live independently of the other.

BTW I wonder if GC is still giving 3ABN the stipend since they now have HopeTV.

"Pronounced 'unsaved'"? By whom? Do they happen to have a copy of the Lamb's book of life?

There is a reason why scripture admonishes each of us to work out our own salvation with fear and trembling...remember the parable of the wheat and the tares; it is not our place to 'pronounce' anyone saved or unsaved because we are not discerning enough to do so without getting as many wrong as we get right... at best.

As for people and their 'private' versus their 'public' lives... there is no such thing. If it as artifical a delineation as 'sacred' versus 'secular'Some are just better at not allowing the things they keep private from manifesting publicly... whether it's bad habits, problems in their marriage, problems with their children or what have you. The world says 'leave my private life private'; God says 'be sure your sin will find you out'. A lot of addicts keep their addiction 'private' for a long time... but sooner or later, it will manifest itself publicly whether it's an overdose, a car accident, an arrest for possession, or the revealing of what they may be doing to maintain their habit.

We, as Christians, are a 'city on a hill'. Our lives are lived under a magnifying glass. As Christ's ambassadors, we are always under scrutiny from the moment people learn we are Christians.

In His service,
Mr. J

I agree, "it is not our place to 'pronounce' anyone saved or unsaved because we are not discerning enough to do so without getting as many wrong as we get right... at best." But we are told that we will recognize a tree by the fruit it bears. You can fool some of the people some of the time, some of the people all of the time, but you can not fool all of the people all of the time. Maybe for Danny Shelton "the time" is running out.

For a Christian ours lives should be transparant, but that is seldom the case for those who have the seat of power in high profile ministries. It is like an actor in a long running TV program, when they are so often on the screen in people's living rooms, people feel that they know them, that the character portrayed on the screen is the same as the person in their private life. When they are told otherwise they just can not believe it can be true...they "know" that person, they "see" them every day. That is just what someone who lives a very different "private life" counts upon. He says, "You know me, what you see is the real me, what others say are all lies, they are just trying to tear down what GOD has ordained." It can be a very convincing statement, it appeals to the emotions and that is just what it is intended to do...like a magician your attention is misdirected you that you will subconsciencely believe that when Danny is being "lied about" they are actually persecuting GOD. A good trick, but not a very honest one.

what is this "first miracle" some have referred to that started 3ABN? What have I missed?

I understand that one book or historical account lists a "first miracle" for 3ABN.

It has been alleged by another poster on another board that the "first miracle" involved the donation of $100,000 worth of television equipment.

Apparently, when the 3ABN blueprint was presented to a Pentecostal minister, the minister supposedly offered to donate the equipment, helping to make 3ABN a reality.

However, the poster has stated the possibility that this donation was on paper only, and that only a broken microphone was ever donated by that Pentecostal minister.

It was also mentioned that the first, good television equipment may have come from Joe Crews at Amazing Facts. It was supposedly a barter arrangement, where Joe gave TV equipment in return for air time on the network.

I didn't hear about the 'first miracle',but from the first I've heard of 3ABN it was promoted as God directed and that Danny was specifically chosen to do it. From poor carpenter, child of migrant workers, to an around the world ministry. What other explanation could there be?
(Except for the old folks who knew who the scaffolds were This is perhaps why some people subconsciously believe that he is an 'anointed' and shouldn't be 'touched'. You know that goes back to the story of Saul and David. Even when Saul was trying to murder David, he wouldn't 'touch' him. So we rationalize almost every spiritual project in this way.

Panama Pete,

Earlier in this thread I posted the following about "the first miracle"and it is true, it is neither alleged or a supposition:

"As long as we are on the topic of the miracle story, that Danny goes around telling, even that is not what we have been lead to believe:

Before 3ABN started, Danny met with the Steensons when they were charismatic pastors and they offered to put on paper that they were donating around $100,000.00 worth of television equipment to him. That was the first "miracle" story that started the money rolling in. No equipment was ever donated by the Steensons, other than an SM-58 microphone that didn't work. To this day that story is told as the miracle that started 3ABN, but it is false. The first camera equipment at 3ABN came from Joe Crews at Amazing Facts and was purchased on a barter deal for air time.

It is one thing being called by God and surrender self and allowing God to use us for his purposes. It is quite another "creating miracles" ourselves.

Now 22 years later, Hal Steenson is in the 3ABN pastoral department and Molly Steenson is the general manager of 3ABN and a member of the board. The only one above Molly in the chain of command at 3ABN is Danny Shelton. After Molly Steenson became a SDA she said that the reason she became an Adventist was not because of the Sabbath or Sister White, but because 3ABN is THE cutting edge ministry. She was Danny's secretary, his right hand, for a number of years before she made this choice to become an Adventist.

Interesting, the more you know of the story..."

Panama Pete, in an earlier post from you on this thread, you mentioned being in Doug Garcia's office. Since you claim to know Doug. You can easily check on this information with him, he can confirm the truth of it. And of course if you know Doug, you know that he is currently working for Amazing Facts. At one time I had asked him about "the miracle story" and he confirmed the above information that I have stated. The understanding at the time, was that this story would be changed to conform with the facts when the 3ABN story was written...obiviously the "first miracle story" was far more confirming of God's calling to Danny, than was the truth...

Clay, I hope this answers your question fully about what was the "first miracle" of 3ABN.

Yes,Clay, God can bless a mess. But God will not take a dishonest lying man and bless him because he went the wrong direction from where God would have led. You can not take a fradulant transaction and make it an honest one. Right now, perhaps 3ABN is serving a purpose for the official denomination. If the Word is being spread by 3ABN then perhaps God will let the message be told. Perhaps one man should not and can not think that he can do it all. If many souls are being saved by 3ABN that is wonderful. But it still does not make a lie the truth and it does not make a fraudulant act an honest one. The Word of God needs to be separated from the 'make believe' story of a miracle that was not a miracle at all. If the leaders of 3ABN would make the miracle story accurate, then the judge in heaven would acknowledge and forgive the charade that has been told for 20 years. Think then of how God could use 3ABN. The THird Angels Message will be told even if it is told by the rocks and the mountains.

The truth must be told that God has never needed 3ABN, Hope Television, The Church Channel, The Word Network, TBN, Daystar, or any other christian televison station to get people saved...the truth spoken, Jesus did it all on calvary, that was enough! In quotations I went and made your statement bold, because 3abn isn't saving anyone and we need to make sure that people know that it was Jesus that saved humanity... and that is the only way anyone is saved...they may be taking the message of the Gospel to people, but we need to be clear that it is only Jesus that saves...and we can take that message to the world without television! but I am sure you probably meant to say that many people are being brought the message of salvation by this network....

That is so true, Sister!

It is called "dramatic reality."

Are you old enough to remember this phrase?

"I'm not a doctor, but I play one on TV."

And then the TV doctor (usually an actor from a soap opera) would hold up a box of pain pills into the camera as part of a 30 second commercial.

The TV audience would think, "That's kindly Dr. Androgen, from All My Worlds."

Dr. Androgen (changed the name) was a total fiction. But people still appoached that actor seeking medical advice. Imagine seeking medical advice from the Screen Actors Guild. b

We have to ask ourselves, are we, as professing Christians, doing something similar?

Yes, Huggins, the focus needs to be on Jesus. Jesus did it all. We do, indeed, need to be clear about that. You have an important point that many people need to hear. So often we get caught up on the non-essentials that we leave Jesus out of the picture.

You were also correct to when you said, "they [electronic media] may be taking the message to the world."

I think you're right that Summertime meant to place emphasis on the message when using the word "saved." Electronic media can sometimes be part of a process, specifically the teaching part.

I think that in a few places, such as some of the Middle East hot spots, media seems to work the best right now.

First part:

Go ye therefore, and teach all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost" (Matthew 28:19).

And then:

He also told them that only those people who believed and were baptized would be saved (see Mark 16:16).

God Bless,

Panama Pete

You are right, Huggins--it is Jesus who died to save all these people and 3ABN and all the other entities are just carrying the story of salvation given to us by Jesus' sacrifice. Thank you for correcting the way that I quoted that truth. No one could have presented it better than you. All of the above things that have been told are true. However, in his open letter on April 5 the board chairman has tried to steer the whole conversation from the untruths of the 'miracles' back to the fact that all this is being written because of the 'friendliness' of Linda with the doctor in Norway. If he can make Linda look really bad, he seems to think that he can make Danny look really good. The story of Danny and Linda has been told over and over in Danny's favor while Linda was forced to quietly let the story be told while her apparent silence judged her as being quilty. It is true that Danny has remarried and Linda has put forth a hand of love. So let those things be unless you have a fact that has not yet been established. Then the truth should be told. In his letter Dr. Thompson did not even try to explain the 'first miracle story' or the other allegations that have been made to show how untruthful the stories of 'miracles' really are. I am sure that miracles have been given, but an embelishment of the story can not be pleasing to God. As was told on another forum, little children who have worked for things they really hoped for, have instead sent the money to 3ABN and the money may have been used in a way so that the leaders there can fly around in jet planes and stay in relatively expensive hotels. In the past, I have contributed money to 3ABN, but no more. I still give the money to the cause of God but to some degree we should know how the gifts to God are being used. Our tithe is God's to support the work of the ministers but the offerings that we give are to be given in a way that we best see fit. With new leadership clear down to the desired level known only to God, the Holy Spirit can direct the way that 3ABN can regain honesty and truthfulness. As long as the co-founder of 3ABN is standing at the helm telling a story full of half truths, the devil has won half of the battle. Tell your friends the 'truth' and let them pass it on. It is genuine and fair to God to do so.

Interesting you brought that up, I spoke with the treasuer of the Illinois Conference and asked about 3ABN and tithe, I asked what was the proceedure. He said that if 3ABN knowingly received tithe money, as a self-supporting ministry of the SDA church, they would send any tithe money on to the Conference. I asked if that ever occured, the answer was no. He asked me why, I said I just wanted to know what the understanding was between them.

I know for a fact that 3ABN knowingly accepts tithe money from SDAs as well as anyone else who wants to send it there. I know of someone in the pastoral department who was working on the prayerline when someone called and asked about giving their tithe to 3ABN, the answer given was no, 3ABN takes offerings, not tithe.and their tithe sould be given at their local church. The person called again and wanted to ask Danny personally, instead the call went to Molly Steenson. She told them that of course 3ABN takes tithe. She then instructed the people from the pastoral department that 3ABN takes tithe and NEVER give any other answer again.

Does 3ABN knowingly take tithe. Yes, in fact they encourage it. Is any of it ever turned over to the official church, as per agreement---NO. Just a little more information to chew on.

Many televangelist encourage their viewers to give tithe...many churches encourage their members to give tithe...If we believe the bible is God's final word on any matter, then if folks would start checking out the scriptures in the New Testament, they would see that what a person gives is from the heart...10 percent is a starting point for those churches who claim that a tithe is 10 percent of increase from earnings...we have a long way to go...I give what I want usually less than 10 percent and don't feel guilty...I know the word...it's just sad that if I would like to be involved in ministy that I have to pay to be a part of ministry like that...I can do without! no going on here... rofl

There are many lessons to learn from studying what corporate 'church' is like. I remember when I learned about 'washing the tithe'. I was soooo turned off. Of course, the pat solution is...you give and let the Lord take care of what the people who accept it do with it, but I disagree. We need to make them a little more responsible for its use. I like the United Prison Ministries, NAPS - out of Oakwood and Adventist World Radio. Something seems to happen to those who get on the tube...too much make up maybe?

Ok, so I am trying to figure out why the conference thinks an independent ministry would pass on the "tithe" to them, SDA or not. Especially since the people giving their tithe to 3ABN made conscious(sp) decision not to give it to a local church.

I asked if that ever occured, the answer was no. He asked me why, I said I just wanted to know what the understanding was between them.

I know for a fact that 3ABN knowingly accepts tithe money from SDAs as well as anyone else who wants to send it there. I know of someone in the pastoral department who was working on the prayerline when someone called and asked about giving their tithe to 3ABN, the answer given was no, 3ABN takes offerings, not tithe.and their tithe sould be given at their local church. The person called again and wanted to ask Danny personally, instead the call went to Molly Steenson. She told them that of course 3ABN takes tithe. She then instructed the people from the pastoral department that 3ABN takes tithe and NEVER give any other answer again.

Does 3ABN knowingly take tithe. Yes, in fact they encourage it. Is any of it ever turned over to the official church, as per agreement---NO. Just a little more information to chew on.

QUOTE(statrei @ Apr 14 2006, 06:15 PM)

Everyman has the right to keep money that people are generous enough to send to him.

But everyman also has the responsibility to use it for the purpose it was given.

An example: A lady gave money with the committment from Danny that it was to be used for a Sanctuary exhibition, actually for the building to house the exhibit. She would come quite often to visit, attending the Thompsonville SDA church (the 3ABN church) and to check on the progress of the project. She was really excited to think that she was able to help with this project. A SDA church in southern California donated it's life size portable Sanctuary exhibit to 3ABN to be housed in the building the lady had donated the money to construct. Well, the Sanctuary exhibit articles sat in the trailer (the size that had to be hauled ba an 18 wheeler) for years. With the humidity in southern Illinois, I can just imagine the damage that might have dome to it. Meanwhile, the shell of a huge building was constructed, the outside finished. Inside nothing much was done. There was no floor, only dirt, water and mud. Some insulation was hung up on the inside, but after a few years with nothing more done, it starting peeling off the inside walls. The lady that donated the money came less and less often. No further progress was made and the building remained in that condition for a number of years.

Then the big court case came with the state of Illinois investagating 3ABN right to claim property tax exemption came about and Danny had a large acreage parcel of land just down the road and across the street with only the 3ABN elementary school, some housing for guests, a nice area where he put in a double-wide trailer for his daughter, Melody, (but he did not allow any of the other workers to have their trailers there, and a pond where Danny like to take out his little boat and go fishing. Now there was a need quickly change the use of the property, so Danny took the shell of the Sanctuary Exhibit, added wings on two sides, beautifully finished the interior and there was the new worship center. Danny sold the exsisting Thompsonville church which was about a 8 minute drive away from 3ABN and a 5 minute drive from the West Franklin SDA church. Moved his congregation into the new worship center and could now prove that the land was used for ministry.

Now wait a minute, what about the Sanctuary exhibit and the elderly lady who had so lovingly donated enough money to construct the building where it could be housed? And what happened to all the articles for the exhibit that was donated by the church in California? *Well, Danny Shelton, [i]*while you are lurking here on this forum, why don't you just answer the questions for us?[/i] This is not the only example that I could give. Sadly, there are many more...how much ministry money has been used over the years to buy horses and how much money was spent on the huge parcel of land where the only use for it is a place for Danny's horses to run? What about the coporate jet? And the story goes on and on and on...

I agree with an earlier post by lurker, "Follow the money. Follow the money" It is probably the only trail that will lead to the truth behind the 3ABN story.

Not necessarily...libel includes truth used to hurt someone on purpose or to damage their ability to do what they do, which is why gag orders and yes even separation agreements from employment often can include language preventing a person from "speaking negatively" about the company they are leaving...even if it is factual...

Threatening letters are not a new thing to online board administrators. It's to be expected when you have various people with varied temperaments giving their 2 cents worth. It would not be the first time, nor will it be the last that Calvin will experience. It is, some would say, "the nature of the beast".

I am not a lawyer but truth is an absolute defense in defamation cases. Also keep in mind 3ABN and danny are public figures and if you live by taking money from the public you have to put up with a certain amount of scrutiny and endless chit chat.

Apart from whatever legal issues may arise, more importantly Sister is serving the goodof SDA viewers of 3ABN with her info. It is up to each of us to attach whatever level of credibility we want. What tipped you off? was it the little twitch and sniff that accompanies his conversation when he speaks? Seriously though, does truth really make a difference in the defense if the person is entitled by law to do the things they do, but not in the minds of certain people? For example, we might not be satisified with what is done, because we expect more from him?

do not personally know Sister, but from what I have read of Sister's postings on this forum and on others, and from what I have heard from others, he/she is speaking the truth. Why else, unless they have something to hide, would they have put such a seal on Linda's lips with the divorce settlement hey asked her to sign.? I personally wonder how much of the donor's dollars were spent for lawyers o prepare and legalize that contract. How much of the donor's dollars do you imagine was spent for Danny to fly his new family in the personal company jet to Disney Land in Florida for four days.? From vhat I gather, and this is a personal opinion, the wedding and honeymoon were planned at a time vhen I believe that Danny spoke soon after at a rally in Florida. And I surmise, that the rally was also fund raising experience. I do not want to hurt the Adventist three angel's message, folks, ---the nessage must be told because it is the message from heaven, but, perhaps we could have more nonest and less self serving messengers.

From his/her writings, I believe that Sister must have a lot of first hand experience--otherwise he/she vould not write the way that he/she does. I will pray for this poster---that wherever he may be, that he Lord will use him/ her in a way that will prove beneficial to His cause. Sister is, in my way of knowing, telling the truth. Sister has asked for prayers while he/she exposes the truth.

Clay, I have not forgotten our conversation about reading the 'urls' concerning the way that you feel about tithe. I am preparing for serious foot surgery, but I am studying what you have said. I ask all your prayers that the surgeons will be lead by God while they do their work. Thank you all for letting me ask this of you. Clay, in due time, I want to write more to you about the 'tithe' queston when I feel better qualified to do so.

There are a lot of really good people at 3ABN, but there are things that need to be changed and we who are incapable of controlling the board can only decide, after much prayer, where our offerings should go. From what I have read on other forums Danny and his new family made their way, after the wedding, to Disney land in Florida for a 4 day honeymoon.--donor paid? Or since there was going to be a 3ABN rally held in Florida--scheduled undoubtably by convenience, perhaps he had to take his family that direction on 3ABN's new jet-powered personal plane. The point of all this is that we need to have our eyes open but also our hearts open to God and pray that not one soul will be lost because of this example. We need tp pray for Danny, Linda, and Danny's new family. I guess that most people know that Danny's daughter, Melody is not doing much traveling now because she has remarried---also without grounds of adultry for the divorce from her other children's father. We need to have prayers for one another--don't let Satan win in this battle.

Priscilla, truth does make a difference. Actually, the law of the land does not prevent me from lying to you, unless I am under oath by the courts, but it still matters to God and it is still written in the books of heaven. God's messengers should always speak the truth. If donor's dollars are being used improperly, then truth does matter to God. When a penniless carpenter becomes rich in horses and lands and worldly goods, then it does matter to God. WHen goods offered for the work of God are donated and then allowed to waste, then it does matter to God. Legal does not make it right. A lot of legal things have been a terrible example to the young folks who will eventually hear this story. Actually, it is a bad example to you and to me. Breaking the commandments of God is often legal in today's world but it is written in the books of heaven. We should not be satisfied when we can speak against wrong. In my mind, I am still ferreting out truth from fiction, and the fearful thing about this is that what I believe is right, will reflect on the example that I live for my children.

I thought that the whole issue wasn't the actually divorcing some one, but remarrying someone else when one didn't have the proper grounds(adultery/widower) for the above divorce. Please correct me if I'm wrong.

Ok so why are you answering for her? There are plenty of posts to which you can respond, let this response(post #264) be your last on Steve's questions(post #260) that were posed "directly" to Melody.

If you have any concerns about this post, PM me.

I wish Melody and Greg all the best in their new marriage, and I hope that they can grow old together, and live out their lives in contentment. Greg is a good man, and he, Melody, and I all deserve happiness. Someday, I hope to also find happiness with another wife, and I don't doubt that Melody will wish me the best in that pursuit. When Melody and Greg were baptized, I went to their baptism to demonstrate to them, and to the world, my support for their desire to live out a good Christian marriage. Every one of us has a past, and that past should be allowed to be a past. They made a respectable decision in choosing to start their marriage with reconsecration in baptism. Melody is pregnant with a new little person who deserves a good start in life and a mother to be proud of. My children and their mother love each other as they should, and my children and I love each other as we should.

I am stating publicly that although there is a vast chasm of difference between us, and there are some fundamental things on which I doubt we will ever agree, I respect Melody as a woman and the mother of my four children, and she will always have a special place in my heart. We have been through terrible pain, and many long, sleepless nights through our divorces, and we know that the kids have endured alot of misery. None of us need any more. We will appreciate your prayers for us and the kids.

Sincerely,

I have noticed that those who do not have anyone to marry don't necessarily want a divorce. It is unnecessary, unless that person just wants a type of closure or if there are financial benefits.etc. Separation is what most of the older folk had...had it until they died. No remarriage. No dating, no nothing. IF the husband or wife was found in a compromising position THEN it was possible they would consider it, but only to someone who'd lost their mate to death was considered the safest situation and only if the persons involved were 'young'. Older people were also looked down upon when they remarried unless they could say sadly...it's just for companionship, ya know. Folk are really judgemental in this area.

Priscilla, truth does make a difference. Actually, the law of the land does not prevent me from lying to you, unless I am under oath by the courts, but it still matters to God and it is still written in the books of heaven. God's messengers should always speak the truth. If donor's dollars are being used improperly, then truth does matter to God. When a penniless carpenter becomes rich in horses and lands and worldly goods, then it does matter to God. WHen goods offered for the work of God are donated and then allowed to waste, then it does matter to God. Legal does not make it right. A lot of legal things have been a terrible example to the young folks who will eventually hear this story. Actually, it is a bad example to you and to me. Breaking the commandments of God is often legal in today's world but it is written in the books of heaven. We should not be satisfied when we can speak against wrong. In my mind, I am still ferreting out truth from fiction, and the fearful thing about this is that what I believe is right, will reflect on the example that I live for my children.
As I read your post I kept thinking...do radio programs have this much drama? I've been an SDA for a long time and perhaps have become accustomed to things not going right in the $$$ department because of greed. Should we be surprised? What direction would Jesus' ministry have taken had Judas been allowed to 'have his way'? Some good and some bad.
And you are sooo right, legal doesn't make it right. We have some of the best legal minds in the administration of our church and yet we still have to maintain a Christian example to be seen by the world. But I have a question... Rich in horses you say... I wondered why Linda began to dress the way she did. I mentioned it to hubby. Long dresses were replaced by pants.... I have never seen a disclosure statement from 3ABN as to what they do with the money. Do they really say that they give ALL the donations to the 'work of the gospel'? If not, and he is using his 'salary' for the horses, is that OK?

It's an issue of trust. People pay 3ABN to do what they don't want to take the time to do. 3ABN is their proxy and they trust 3ABN to do it. If you don't trust 3ABN or you don't like the way they spend the money you keep your money to yourself. I don't think Danny ever took a vow of poverty.

Don't take things personal, Denise. Everything is fair game here. None of us is perfect so we all have something to learn. If you take the position that what you say is above comment then you are walking a dangerous road. You won't be attacked personally, as a rule. It has been my experience that when a relationship ends sides are usually chosen, and battle lines are drawn... folks are either demonized or held up as saints.... so is that what we are seeing here? Two groups of people those that are either for or against what happened between Danny and Linda or is it something else?

How did you see that?

Folks, maybe I was the first to bring Melody's name into the morass by mentioning that she did not have biblical grounds for divorce. I still do not believe that she did---maybe I am wrong. and I do not know how long she has been divorced from Darrell. I am new to this whole story. But I did read from the other forum that Melody had to marry quickly for the sake of the coming child and that soon she and her husband were both rebaptized to make everything right. So I am sure that if there is true repentence, it is known by God and they are right in his eyes. If the baptism was to justify their actions to the world, then God will have toforgive them their wrong. I do not know Melody. I do not know Darrell. I don't know why this beautiful baby is being born too soon. But I do know that by their fruits you shall know them and that says a lot about the postings and impressions given by each of them in regards to one another. Darrell has not spoken badly about Melody--he just asked for you to pray for her and their children. She has tried to drag him straight into the mud as quickly as she could try to defend her own actions. Maybe she is speaking for her Dad and maybe he should speak for himself. We are all looking forward to that.

In fact we don't know you, or Melody, or anyone else who has recently shared info about 3ABN, we have extended the benefit of the doubt to all... Did a google and found this tidbit by Walter Thompson in defense of the divorce....

QUOTE

Likewise, the printing of claims regarding Linda's relationship with the Norwegian physician to be solely about her son's treatment is to promote a story which the facts do not support. Without going into detail, we have solid evidence that, prior to her divorce and termination, Linda spent considerable time with this physician, both on the telephone and in person, in a manner inappropriate for a leader of a Christian ministry, or for any married woman for that matter. These contacts, inappropriate in their length, subject matter, and subterfuge, continued despite requests by both Danny and other Three Angels leadership that they cease. It is also clear, even by Linda's own admission, that the vast majority of these interactions had nothing to do with medical treatments for her son. In the short time since her divorce, Linda has traveled to Europe twice for nearly five weeks to spend time with this physician. These recent trips, which were taken without her son, have caused many of Linda's formerly die-hard supporters to recognize the truth of the matter of Linda's inappropriate relationship, and to cease their efforts in defending her.

Summertime, Hi, this is Sister. For an example: see my name in bold print on the left side of the screen. Click on my name, this will bring up a new screen with information about me. Scroll down and on the right side is a section that says Communicate. One of the options listed is send a private message. Click on that and write your message. Hope that helps you!

This is the most recent letter that is circulating attributed to Dr. Walter Thompson:

From Walter Thompson
Chairman, 3ABN board of Directors

Regarding Danny's marriage

Dear Family and Friends of 3ABN,

Two years ago 3ABN was challenged by the most difficult battle the ministry has ever faced. It was a battle that threatened the very existence of the ministry and the work of preaching the end time message of the Three Angel's to the world. It is only because of the grace and power of God Almighty, and the faithful support of you, the 3ABN family, that the ministry has survived to preach another day. Today, the ministry is stronger than it has ever been and its reach into the world even broader and more powerful for the cause of truth.

As is always the case when in the public eye, questions arise,stories abound, and rumors spread. We thank God that you have trusted the leadership and board of 3ABN during this time and have stayed with us in ministry. More recently some of you have heard that Danny has found one to comfort him in his loneliness and sorrow. You may have also heard rumors about an allegedly illegal divorce occurring without Biblical grounds. This letter is an attempt to fill you in with the facts.

As chairman of the board I have been in the midst of this long and drawn out ordeal from the beginning. I was there when we counseled with Linda over and over again. I was present during the pleas and prayers, seeking to get her to give up her relationship with the doctor. I have seen and heard the evidence upon which the board has taken the action that it has taken. I have been one that has plead with Linda to keep her marriage and her ministry and offered to provide counseling for them. I have known Danny and Linda almost from the beginning of the ministry and have been in their home many times. They had a good marriage. It was not until this third party got in the middle did things begin to fall apart. It is also true that Danny really did want to get back together again, but when it became obvious that couldn't happen, he correctly had to close the door on that part of his history lest it destroy him and the ministry.

The divorce was a mutually agreed thing, even the choice to get it from Guam where there would be no long wait. Linda had originally planned to move to Las Vegas long enough to become a resident there so as to get a divorce there. They then discovered the possibility of a divorce from Guam, checked it out and found it to be legal, and decided to go that route. Though I believe Guam has now stopped the program, the legality of a Guam divorce had previously been taken to the U.S. Supreme Court where it was ruled legitimate. As chairman of the board, I did not try to influence the decision, but I will say that had they not obtained a quick divorce, the ministry would have been placed at much greater risk since the situation was causing so much dysfunction with leadership and staff. I believe time has verified the correctness of what was done then, both by Danny and by the board for the ministry.

Linda's web site recently stated that she and Danny were not divorced. She wrote this after the judge made the decision in Danny's favor. She claims she did not know this when she wrote it. Her web site referred to an e mail I sent to Johann Thorvaldson a year earlier saying that I had never accused her of adultery. I believe that exchange with him was in response to an accusation by him that we had fired her because of adultery. I was merely saying that she was not fired for adultery, but because she had defied the board in not discontinuing a relationship that was threatening to destroy the ministry. (I might add that the doctor also told me he would not break off the relationship, even though I pled with him to do so.) That letter to Johann was correct, and it is true that I have never directly accused her of adultery. That does not mean that I believe Linda is innocent. If by adultery one must be caught in bed with another person, I cannot prove Linda has committed adultery. If, on the other hand, hard evidence indicates that Linda was involved in an unacceptable relationship with another man qualifies for adultery, then there is no question about Danny's moral right to marry again. As a board, we have chosen not to make the details of the evidence available to the public. I believe Satan is the accuser of the brethern. We have chosen to take the "high road" in this whole situation and say nothing more than we have been forced to say to try to quell rumors. We care about Linda and have tried not to do anything to hurt her more than she has already been hurt. I can tell you that I personally spent a great deal of time at 3ABN during those months when this was all happening. I spoke with Linda and Danny on numerous occasions. A sub committee of the board met and prayed with Danny and Linda and pled with Linda to call off the relationship. Danny and Linda spent an 8 hour session with a pair of Christian counselors (non-Adventist in an attempt to avoid bias) who had no doubts about the nature of Linda's conduct. We offered to provide Linda with the opportunity to go away for counseling with a counselor agreeable to both she and us. She did not respond to that offer or request. Finally, the full board met, reviewed Linda's letter of explanation, and voted unanimously to remove her from the ministry and her seat on the board. Other church leaders who have been privy to some of the evidence we have are in full agreement with our decision.

The relationship Linda had with the Norwegian Dr. was not a normal doctor-patient relationship as she claims. It is true. Linda was very concerned about her son Nathan. He was the vehicle through which the Dr. reached Linda. Our evidence leaves no question that this became much more than a doctor-patient relationship. We know that the long hours on the phone together were not about Nathan and have hard evidence to support this knowledge - nor were times spent together on both sides of the Atlantic. Furthermore, she refused to break it off, even after weeks of pleading with her to do so. We, the board believe the evidence we have clearly justifies the divorce and gives Danny the moral and legal right to remarry. Those in church leadership with whom we have shared some of this evidence agree with us. Out of concern for Linda we have been reluctant to make details public.

No, Danny is not to blame for what has happened here. On the contrary, he has bent over backwards trying to make things work and meeting her requests. Yet, she has never acknowledged that it was wrong for her to have another "friend". The things I have stated here are accurate and correct. As far as the lady Danny has married is concerned, I can only say I believe his new wife is a very good person and will be a real asset to him as he carries on his heavy responsibilities. Just to clarify any rumor you may have heard, this relationship began long after the divorce. I was at 3ABN when this lady came from Florida looking for work. There was nothing going on before that time, and Danny definitely was not trying to "dump" Linda. I was with him during much of the time he agonized and mourned her loss. It is one thing to lose a loved one in death. It is much different to lose one to another lover - like cutting a dog's tail off one inch at a time! As to the matter of age difference, I will say that I do not believe that is any of my business. I find nothing in the Bible, and I don't remember any thing in the SOP indicating age differences for married couples. If it is legal, and morally correct, and if entered into with honesty, sincerity and earnest prayer for God's guidance, as I know happened here, it is not for me to criticize. In my own musings about this, I have concluded that it was no accident that brought Brandy to 3ABN. Either the devil was behind it, or God was. There is no question in my mind which one it was.

(Archo Dart was for many years a family and marriage counselor in the Adventist church. When in his 80's, he married one of my patients, who was then in her 50's. She loved and admired him till death many years later.)

I have had an interesting thought this week that I will share with you. It is this. God lost one of his closest companions when Lucifer went astray. More than that, myriads more angels left with him when he left heaven. Talk about grief or emotional pain. Experiences such as this with Linda, I think, help us to understand the pain of loss, and the reality of the war between God and Satan. Some have claimed it takes two to divorce. I don't think that is categorically true!

This has been a terrible injury that has hit 3abn and Danny, and yes, Linda too, but it is one that I believe God understands - and He continues to bless his servants.

We recognize that we live in a world at war, and are working with a ministry that the devil would like to see destroyed. The war is real, and as in any other war there are real casualties. War is never pleasant, and spiritual battles maybe some of the worst. Our hearts still ache for those who have been wounded. Our prayers continue to ascend on their behalf. Should acknowledgement of wrongdoing and penitence ever occur, we would be the first to forgive and forget. Unfortunately, that has not happened, and we must move on.

Some who have been aware of the growing relationship and the possibility of marriage have thought they should wait for a longer period of time before marrying. In discussions before the event, the 3ABN board reviewed the events of the past couple years and have agreed that there was no moral or legal reason precluding marriage. Realizing the heavy burdens resting on Danny and of his need for companionship, we, the board did not see any reason not to give our blessing to their union. We hope you, our 3ABN family, will agree too, and with us, welcome Brandy with open arms.

Should you have any questions that I might answer, please feel free to send them to me at 3ABN and I will do my best to try to answer them.

Sincerely in the precious name of Jesus,

Walter Thompson
Chairman, 3ABN Board of Directors.

Since Linda is gaged, maybe the rest of us that knows some truth ought to speak up.

First of all I must say, "Dat manz dew got a way with dem words". I am sure that PrincessDrRe would agree with me.

Next I would like to comment on who the audience is that the letter is intended for, people who have been donating their money to 3ABN. Since Danny's new bride came on the scene there have been a lot of conservative white folks with money calling 3ABN and asking what is oning on. When people who give 3ABN money start getting nervous about what Danny has got himself up to, the good Dr. Walt rushes in with his bed side manner and tries to soothe their closing wallets.

It has been a while since I opened a logics textbook, but there are definately a lot of arguments that reek of false reasoning in that letter. The one used most often is appealing to the emotions of the listeners. False logic, but a very useful and extremely effective way of pursueding someone to agree with you based upon their appeal to your emotional response rather than the facts.

I knew an old Professor who said that he always had some misgivings every time a new term began and he taught logics to another group of students. He said that what he taught could result in one of two things in a bright student, either they learned to recognize false logic and were able to expose those who twist the truth until it was unrecognizible or they became some of the most successful confidence men your would ever meet. Perhaps Dr. Walt knows my old professor friend?

Any way folks take the letter not only with a grain of salt, but go out in the field and get that big old salt lick they use for the cows in southern Illinois. On second thought, maybe you should get two...

Not sure if this goes in with this topic but 3ABN is no longer on sky angel. This is what is posted on 3ABN's web site. I just found it rather interesting to say the least.

QUOTE

Sky Angel does not have a channel available for 3ABN at this time. Please join us in prayer that this problem is resolved soon and 3ABN channel may be restored to the package of TV channels.

Please don't call them or us until we make any further announcements Thank you

Any other time they would be wanting everyone to clog their phone lines to get them back on the air. Something just don't set right with me on this or the whole other issues. I know the majority of what sister is saying is true as I personally know of some of the stuff she has stated on here.

BlackSDA _ 3ABN _ Letter From Dr. Mable Dunbar, President Of Polly's Place Network R

Posted by: sonshineonme Aug 15 2006, 02:15 PM

Dear BSDA friends and guests,
Johann posted this over at Maritime SDA on Thursday August 10th, 2006. I strongly felt the need to bring it here. It spoke to my heart in many ways. People, the battle is the Lords, and we are also soldiers for Christ. Mable and Johann, I hope you don't mind I brought it here to BSDA as well. I so appreciate both of you.
Sonshineme.

This letter contains a number of applicable EGW statement.

Dr. Mable Dunbar has given permission to have it posted.

Johann

Dear Friends:

I would like to thank you for your support of Polly's Place Network. Some of you have e-mailed me and others have made contributions to the ministry. We are definitely in need of your financial support, but of greater importance we solicit your prayers. God is in control of everything and He is the one that ultimately will bring about truth and justice if individuals are manipulated, controlled, abused or oppressed.

I would like to share the following quotation with you:

Organizations, institutions, unless kept by the power of God, will work under Satan's dictation to bring men under the control of men; and fraud and guile will bear the semblance of zeal for truth and for the advancement of the kingdom of God. Whatever in our practice is not as open as day belongs to the methods of the prince of evil. His methods are practiced even among Seventh-day Adventists, who claim to have advanced truth.

If men resist the warning the Lord sends them, they become even leaders in evil practices; such men assume to exercise the prerogatives of God; they presume to do that which God Himself will not do in seeking to control the minds of men. They introduce the truth, and bring in false principles that will work like leaven to taint and corrupt our institutions and churches. Anything that lowers man's conception of righteousness and equity and impartial judgment, any device or precept that brings God's human agents under the control of human minds, impairs their faith in God; it separates the soul from God; for it leads away from the path of strict integrity and righteousness. God will not vindicate any device whereby man shall in the slightest degree rule or oppress his fellowmen. The only hope for fallen man is to look to Jesus and receive Him as the only Saviour. As soon as man begins to make an iron rule for other men, as soon as he begins to harness up and drive men according to his own mind, he dishonors God and imperils his own soul and the souls of his brethren. Sinful man can find hope and righteousness only in God, and no human being is righteous any longer that he has faith and in God and maintains a vital connection with Him.'; Testimonies to Ministers and Workers, p. 366.

During this crucial time when allegations, rumors, gossip and slander seem to be circulating, we need to pray that God will intervene and show forth His power and His glory. Truth WILL ultimately prevail. We must keep in mind that we are in a controversy. No religious organization is exempt from Satan's tactics. He is seeking to destroy the image of God in every believing Christian, be it Seventh-day Adventist, Catholic, Presbyterian, etc.; Satan sees that his time is short. He has set all his agencies at work that men may be deceived, deluded, occupied, and entranced until the day of probation shall be ended, and the door of mercy forever shut.; - Southern Watchman, Oct. 3, 1905. .

Last night I prayed to God to help me keep focused on Him and His ministry as found in Luke 4:18, 19; The Spirit of the Lord is upon Me because He has anointed me to preach the gospel to the poor. He hath sent Me to heal the brokenhearted, to preach deliverance to the captives, and recovering of sight to the blind, to set at liberty them that are bruised, and THEN to preach the acceptable year of the Lord. and Luke 1.17 last part (to make ready a people prepared for the Lord) and He directed me to the above quotation from Testimonies to Ministers. He also impressed me to fast and pray. Therefore, I would like to encourage all of you to join with me on August 26 (This is the day set aside as Abuse Prevention Awareness Day by the North American Division) to pray The effectual, fervent prayer of a righteous man availeth much. James 5:16) specifically that God will reveal the truth regarding allegations against Linda. She is God's precious child. He died for her like everyone else and He wants her to minister for Him according to the gifts and talents He has given her. I admire her courage, faithfulness, commitment to ministry, and willingness to serve Him in spite of the emotional pain she has endured and continues to endure. Whatever the truth, we must be willing to accept it, demand accountability, foster healing and restoration as appropriate.

We are in the end time, 'So everything that can be shaken, will be shaken, that those things that cannot be shaken may remain.' Testimonies, vol. 9, pp. 15,16. With God's power in our lives, we will remain. 'It is not the capabilities you now possess, or ever will have, that will give you success. It is that which the Lord can do for you. We need to have far less confidence in what man can do, and far more confidence in what God can do for every believing soul.' Christ's Object Lessons, p. 146. God is giving and will continue to give us success, not only individually, but also collectively as a church body.

Sincerely,

Mable Dunbar, President

As you all know, I am a very new member, and have done much reading on your site before giving any opinions. But I do recall a verse which I apply to myself, and will share with you. Luke 21:15 "Jesus will give me an open mouth and wisdom, which all my adversaries shall not be able to contradict nor resist". As far as I am concerned, if one can be certain that his principles are right, he need not worry about the consequences. In other words....why run?

Posted by: Sapphire Aug 15 2006, 07:27 PM

Dr. Dunbar,
I loved your letter and words of encouragement. I especially appreciated the following sentence.

"He wants her (Linda) to minister for Him according to the gifts and talents He has given her"

I do not blieve that God called Linda into ministry and gave her 20 years experience running a network, just to let her go now. I really hope conference officials will not consider Linda as "damaged goods" and think that the people could not accept her back into her position. Nothing could be farther from the truth. I believe people would accept her back just fine! I know I will.

I really appreciated that letter from Ms. Dunbar. I will continue to pray--and especially on Aug. 26th.

You know, one of the most valuable tools for healing the wounds of someone who has been hurt, whether it be physical, emotional, or spiritual abuse, is to have someone who has 'been there, done that' in their own lives be able to relate to the victim, know what I mean? For example, when I had a miscarriage, I had a lot of well-meaning people show their sympathy and support--but it was the "I know what you're going through" from other women who had been through a miscarriage that was the most valuable to me and meant the most--because they could speak from their own experience. The way I see it, Linda has been through a whole gamut of abuse--a wide range, if you will. What an amazing help and comfort she is simply because she has been through the fires of so much abuse! I'm not saying that those who haven't been hurt in the same way as others can't help another hurting soul--for they can and often they are in the right place at the right time to help minister to someone! But I would venture to say that perhaps Linda went through what she did 'for such a time as this'.

I just wanted to bring this to the top once more - if were wanting to join her in prayer, the 26th is this coming Sabbath, this was a reminder if you needed one. Much is happening now, lets pray for God's hand in it all, as always. (see below)

BlackSDA _ 3ABN _ Linda: Letters Of Love And Support

Posted by: justme Sep 1 2006, 07:12 AM

Linda, you likely have little to no idea of the support and love going out to you.
God really, really loves you, and so do we!
We pray that God will lead you into your next ministry opportunity, in His time, in His ways.
We feel your pain and suffering, and we ask that God will use it to make you wiser and stronger.
God really, really loves you, and so do we!

God will open doors for you for you to minister like never before, when you remain faithful to Him in your heart of hearts. He will fill your loneliness in a very special way.

Let this be your theme song: by Margie Elzey,

"I Choose" ...

"I choose, for to-day,
Not to crawl off the altar, but to be faith-ful,
And I choose, for to-day,
To give up my control and let Jesus have his way,
And I choose, for to-day,
Not to crawl off the altar, but to be faith-ful,
And I choose, for to-day,
To give up my control and let Jesus have his way,

The path we take, will decide our final direc-tion,
We choose, each day, the hard way, or the easy way,
And I choose, for to-day,
Not to crawl off the altar, but to be faith-ful,
And I choose, for to-day,
To give up my control and let Jesus have his way,
And I choose, for today,
Not to crawl off the altar, but to be faith-ful,
And I choose, for to-day,
To give up my control and let Jesus have his way.

3)
The path He chose, took Him to the cross,
He said, "Sacrifice your life, and begin to live",
So I choose, for to-day,
Not to crawl off the altar, but to be faith-ful,
And I choose, for to-day,
To give up my control, and let Jesus have his way,

4)
"Sometimes it feels like You've left me all alone,
I won't doubt in the dark, what You showed me in the light",
So I choose, for to-day,
Not to crawl off the altar, but to be faith-ful,
And I choose, for to-day,

To give up my control and let Jesus have his way,
And I choose, for to-day,

BlackSDA _ 3ABN _ New Security At 3abn

Posted by: husbandoftheyear Sep 3 2006, 08:16 PM

3ABN has recently installed new security measures at the station including locks on the doors that only open with a little magnetic key. Did I mention that they require keys on both sides - meaning that you can't get OUT of the building without a key. Seems like a fire code violation to me!

They have also politely let the employees know that they have placed video/audio equipment throughout the building and it is set to record either by movement or by certain phrases.

Posted by: Hersheys99 Sep 3 2006, 08:22 PM

rofl Now that is priceless!! I am gonna say definitely paranoia setting in! Think they are fishing for a leak in the ranks if you ask me. The walls must be starting to move closer together.

Not only is it likely a fire code violation, but it is positively dangerous in case of fire. With a paranoid man in charge, who knows when a fire might conveniently start accidentally?

Is it possible to change the code on the locks electronically, so that employees won't know that their keys are no longer working? I know, I'd want to get out of there posthaste!

Verrry interesting!!

Of course, now all you folks here can dream up what to say to that recording equipment.

Seriously, though, it begins to sound rather Orwellian. Are thinking folks really going to stay there and put up with this?

It also appears to verify that Danny bugged Linda's house and had detectives following her around. Now Danny's determined to flush out "Sister" and "Husbandoftheyear" and others like them, I'm sure. The only difference is that he's trying to find evidence before firing them. Linda he fired/divorced before finding any evidence!!!

Considering that Danny has a habit of projecting his own thoughts/actions on others, what else do these "security measures say about him?

Shades of David Koresh!!!!

3ABN has recently installed new security measures at the station including locks on the doors that only open with a little magnetic key. Did I mention that they require keys on both sides - meaning that you can't get OUT of the building without a key. Seems like a fire code violation to me!

They have also politely let the employees know that they have placed video/audio equipment throughout the building and it is set to record either by movement or by certain phrases.

I wonder if one of those hot phrases will be "On BSDA..."

Isn't this like locking the barn after the horse is already gone... too little, too late?

The depositions have already been taken and the wheels are swiftly turning... but Danny already has this information and he is prepared to fight to the bitter end.

It is said that Nero fiddled while Rome burned. Will Danny be playing his guitar as the walls of his empire crumble?

He has already been saying that he isn't going anywhere. What a change from just a couple of weeks ago in which he was taking "some time off." What changed?

I suggest contacting OSHA Occupational Safety Health Association, that's government.

Inga, just like you, I thought that definitely sounded like shades of Koresh. Isn't it interesting that Danny's only seeming defense is that the information being disseminated about him is all lies? Very interesting! So if he has nothing to hide why all these seeming security measures and audio and video taping. Why?

To avoid any possible conflagration with the loss of lives, someone should indeed call the relevant government department.

How long have they had these security doors and what seems to be the general reaction to them? Probably the most important question, don't the doors have crash bars in case of fire?

Talking about locked doors and fires, maybe someone should find out who Danny went to high school with and died in the fire at Waco.

Could it be that Danny learned something from this schoolmate?

It interesting how many Schneiders attended Wisconsinn Academy.

I know of 2 different families with the last name of Schneider who attended WA in the latter 60's and early 70's. The 2 families I knew were not related. Steve Scheider who died in the Waco fire had 2 sisters, one in the class of 1969 and the other in the class of 1970. They were community students and Danny was a dorm student at that time. Steve S. graduated in 1968. Danny attended WA during the school year of 1967-68 and was in the junior class at the time, which was the class of '69. From my recollection (also a student at the time), DS did not stay at WA for that entire school year, leaving before second semester began and did not return for his senior year the following fall. So he may or may not have even known SS during his short stint at WA....especially since the juniors and seniors did not attend classes at the same time of the day. Who's to really know for certain if or how well they may have known eachother while at WA or even later in their lives, and if DS "learned something from this schoolmate?" as you asked in your post.

Seems to me to try to make a connection or correlation between the two men, because of their attendance at WA, is kinda a 'long shot' IMO.....

Contacting the fire department may not work since DS seems to own so much of the "town".

Regarding video equipment, that's nothing new. It's listed in the employee handbook as they may do that and have the "right" to do it.

HOTY, since the installation of this system you probably have had the opportunity to learn how it works. Would you please give us an accurate overview of the way it works.

I find the two posts I quoted above, along with others, to be an attempt to paint a rather stilted picture that is based on mere speculation and conjecture.

Now, I won't debate the installation of a new system. If HOTY works at 3ABN currently, it seems feasible that he would be able to attest to this. However, there is much speculation as to how the system works and it's potential for violating any kind of saftey codes.

It is not unheard of for buildings in need of high levels of security to require a "key" to get in and out of certain parts of a building. It may be due to the sensative nature of material held in certain sections or it could be a safety issue such as in a facility that handles deadly contagions. The building I work in has a lock system that requires us to use a little plastic teardrop shaped device (we call them fobs - why? I have no idea) to get in, and move from certain parts of the building to another. We wave it in front of a little box and the door is unlocked. There are five such doors in our building. We also have large metal fire doors at strategic points throughout the building. In the event of a fire the doors, held open by electomagnets, close as the magnets electrical current is cut. Likewise, the locks requiring the fobs are deactivated rendering the building fully escapable. To manipulate the system and insure that people would be trapped takes a very high level of expertise and experience with the system. With only the smidgen of information provided, and no follow up to more acurately define the system (installed at 3ABN) to point out its potential hazards, I am going to assume that the system is much like the one I experience every day at work. After talking with our building manager and maintainence man i discovered there are many safety fall backs built into the system to insure that no one gets locked in during an emergency. It seems to me that a similar system has been put in place at 3ABN and is completely safe for all of the employees.

The second quote was the first of many that attempts to weave together comments to paint a picture connecting Danny with a David Koresh follower. This whole discussion is thinner than tissue paper. As pointed out in another post the possibility that Danny and Steve S met was so remotely slim and since there is no video footage of such a meeting, no first hand observation of a meeting, to suggest there is a connection between Danny and a follower of David Koresh is simply fantastical. In a place that purports to have the facts of the case for people to come and investigate and make personal decisions - there should be no room for this kind of yarn spinning. As Calvin has mentioned in other threads in regards to speculative or fantastical claims the discussion should stick to only those things for which there is readily available evidence and information.

When I first entered this place (I suppose with both "both guns blazing" as Inga might say), it was posting of this nature that led me to completely question everything said here as a combination of fact, fiction, and myth woven into a picture that was only a pale shadow of the actual truth. It is also posting like this that keeps me in that same place as I continue to read and follow the discussions here.

Next, I shall quote from the following Web site of the Revised Waco Chronology: http://www.skepticfiles.org/waco/batf.htm

"In 1979 Vernon Howell was baptised into the Tyler, Texas Seventh-day Adventist Church."

First, when checking the source material used by PP there is no suggestion that Pastor Gilley baptised Vernon Howell (aka David Koresh). There is no claim that he was baptised at the seminar or even as a result of the seminar, it is merely a statement that he came into contact with Biblical prophecy in 1979 and was baptised in 1979.

Additionally, Pastor Gilley was in Tyler, Texas to do an evangalistic series and did not "teach" Howell anything other than what is traditionally presented in any Daniel and Revelation seminar. There is no insinuation that Gilley had anything to do with Koresh's eventual delusions of grandure in either source - it merely gives the name of the pastor giving the seminar.

Connecting Danny or anyone at 3ABN to the Branch Davidians (either Koresh or Schnieder) couldn't hold water in the ocean. This trial balloon/red herring needs to go the way of other unsubtantiated ideas in the process of this discussion.

Well, I live thousands of miles away from you there at 3ABN HOTY - but when you gave the brief description it sounded like my own situation where I work - and talking to a number of my colleagues around the country, this system is in place all over and very safe when it comes to emergency situations.

Also, a business with so much expensive equipment, regardless of it's president's situation, would want to have some sort of security in place should someone break in and try to abscond with some of that expensive equipment - and would be a rather smart thing to do. Now, to the conspiratorial mind these actions can spin into the next Big Brother action - but how about that there was always a plan to do such and finally it did. You can't possibly believe that everything is not coincidental.

Thanks for clarifying.

Now exactly how are you arriving at this conclusion. I lied to no one in any of my postings! How can you possibly believe that in all the world there is only ONE system that operates this way? I have seen many intelligent posts from you, but this, simply because I experience a similar system in my own work place - THOUSANDS - of miles from 3ABN . . . you are going to call me a liar?

HOTY,

You are right. I will say I am not there - and of course you will not believe me . . . impasse . . . you are more than welcome to jump to your conclusions. However, if you are as intelligent as I believe you to be, by some of your postings, then I would have to believe that if you took a minute you would admit that the system you experience probably exists in hundereds, if not thousands of buildings in this country or even the world. Realising this truth you would be able to accept that I do not, have never, and will not ever work at 3ABN.

Also, if you have read my previous posts in other threads I did say I had met Danny on one occassion. I have never meet Pastor Lomacang, or Shelly, or Hal, or Mollie, or Brenda. I have met Moses though because I was interested in the technology aspect of the broadcasts so I went and asked questions. Oh yea, I never met Linda either and she was in the same local as I was when I met Danny. Oh yea, never having been to 3ABN so I have never met you either.

BTW, I added one to many zeros to my other post . . . I live 100s (many 100s) of miles from 3ABN. But, then I don't expect you to accept this truth.

Posted by: beartrap Sep 8 2006, 07:59 PM

True, FHB, there are many facilities around the country with a similar level of perimeter security built to keep people out. As long as the 500 pound magnetic force that holds the 3ABN doors shut is released without the need to use any form of electronic or manual key from the inside, then there shouldn't be a problem. If it is built where there is any way that people can be locked in, I would view that as being distinctly cultish, and reflecting a dangerously criminal mentality of the sort that can lead to mass tragedy.

Perimeter security aside... how can that level of audio/visual monitoring of the employees be justified? Monitoring their conversations out in the parking lot? Sheesh!

Uh, I was responding to HOTY's post that you might, indeed, be acquainted with DS. If you notice, I said, "Say it ain't so".. Now you have clarified you position, demographically,a nd that is fine for me. But you might want to take it down a notch or two.

QUOTE(fallible humanbeing @ Sep 8 2006, 05:18 PM)

Now exactly how are you arriving at this conclusion. I lied to no one in any of my postings! How can you possibly believe that in all the world there is only ONE system that operates this way? I have seen many intelligent posts from you, but this, simply because I experience a similar system in my own work place - THOUSANDS - of miles from 3ABN . . . you are going to call me a liar?

It would seem you just can't abide someone seeking truth while being skeptical, and disagreeing with you on a few items.

My thoughts exactly, before I read your post, Beartrap.

It seems to me that the perimeter security and the audio/visual monitoring supposedly set off by key phrases (I don't see how that's possible. Maybe someone can enlighten me) sends a message greater than the sum of its parts. And that message is what folks here were responding to and fhb ignored.

How long have they had these security doors and what seems to be the general reaction to them? Probably the most important question, don't the doors have crash bars in case of fire?

Hey HOTY, did you ever tell us if there are crash bars on the doors? Did I miss that?

Key words/phrases are programmed into the security software that operates the servers recording the A/V and when the system recognizes one of those words/phrases it alerts on it and makes the administrator aware, giving her/him the opportunity to zero in on that conversation, live or recorded, and listen to it. This is something that 3ABN has been doing with the email and telephone systems for a couple of years.

hmm...Maybe George Orwell was not so far fetchced back in 1948 when he wrote the novel 1984. Big Brother is alive and well in West Frankfort. I know some companies who are concerned about industrial espionage employ security measures like those described above. I guess Danny is concerned about espionage as well. Do the rank and file employees know that they are being spied on in this way? I would be hard pressed to work for such an organization that "big brothered" me like that. Perish the thought...maybe I do and I am blissfully unaware of such a thing!

And has someone called OSHA about this? Here is the code for ANY building in the US. Also, one other thing, what happens if there is a fire? Do these doors open automatically? Have you thought about getting all the employees outside in the parking lot and refuse to go in untill the "security" system keeps people from getting in, but not out? With no windows in much of the place, that also breaks the egress code...read this:

Means of egress. - 1926.34

- Part Number: 1926
- Part Title: Safety and Health Regulations for Construction
- Subpart: C
- Subpart Title: General Safety and Health Provisions
- Standard Number: 1926.34
- Title: Means of egress.

1926.34(a)

"General." In every building or structure exits shall be so arranged and maintained as to provide free and unobstructed egress from all parts of the building or structure at all times when it is occupied. No lock or fastening to prevent free escape from the inside of any building shall be installed except in mental, penal, or corrective institutions where supervisory personnel is continually on duty and effective provisions are made to remove occupants in case of fire or other emergency.

BlackSDA _ 3ABN _ Message To The Readers

Posted by: Following The Son Aug 26 2006, 08:14 AM

To the viewers of the Black SDA web-site/3ABN Saga threads:

I stand in a unique position of having had my life turned upside down by the actions of the 3ABN administration AND the wagging tongues of employees slinging slanderous, untrue remarks. In the world's terms, I should be justified in having a revengeful spirit. And sadly, I have wasted years harboring this spirit and watching and hoping that the wicked will get their just reward. A few weeks ago I heard about the comments being made on this website, and became addicted to reading as the story unfolds.

Recently I have felt the need to spend time in Bible study and prayer, and as Micah 6:8 records, the Lord has shown me what is good, and what He requires of me. It's to do justly, to love mercy, and to walk humbly with my God. With His power, I am committed to doing just that. I have a burden on my heart to share a message with each of you reading this now: to those who have been hurt by the actions of others, to those of you who have caused the hurt, to those of you who are just waiting to catch up or add to the newest gossip, to those of you who think you have a responsibility to bring about justice, and finally to those of you who administer this site.

For those of you who have been hurt: Jesus said to love your enemies, to do good to them who hate you. He didn't say to retaliate and get even. I encourage you to spend time reading God's word for comfort. Psalms 37 is awesome. Verse 7 says "Rest in the Lord, and wait patiently for Him; do not fret because ... of the man who brings wicked schemes to pass. Cease from anger, and forsake wrath: Do not fret - it only causes harm." Verse 3 says, "Trust in the Lord, and DO GOOD; dwell in the land, and feed on His faithfulness. Delight yourself also in the Lord, and He shall give you the desires of your heart." 1 Peter 3:8 teaches "Be of one mind, having compassion for one another, love as brothers, be tenderhearted, be courteous; not returning evil for evil or reviling for reviling, but on the contrary blessing, knowing that you were called to this, that you may inherit a blessing." Time is so short, and Jesus is coming soon. Don't let grudges and hatred keep you from spending an eternity in a perfect universe.

For those of you who have hurt others, God's grace is sufficient for you. I read an analogy once in a book (sorry, I don't remember the author or the book, so I can't give credit!) that asked the question - what if you, like Rip Van Winkle, were to fall asleep for 1000 years and wake up to find yourselves on the wrong side of the Holy City? The Bible is clear that unconfessed and unforgiven sins will keep you out of the kingdom. Is your pride more important than your eternal life?

For those of you who are waiting to catch up or add to the latest piece of gossip: Go to your Bibles. God has provided us with a wealth of information on how He sees gossip. 1 Peter 4:11 admonishes us: "If anyone speaks [or writes!] let him speak as the oracles of God. If anyone ministers, let him do it as with the ability which God supplies, that in all things God may be glorified through Jesus Christ." I don't see where God is glorified in any of this recent writing. We are defaming the name of Jesus when we proclaim to the world such vile comments, even if it contains some shred of truth, and we do it in the name of Christian justice.

For those of you who think you have a responsibility to bring about justice, particularly for those of you writing the televangelist and/or other unauthorized 3ABN stories: don't think that you are going to receive jewels in your crown for each person you bring down. God has not authorized you to be the judge and the jury. That is HIS job. God is capable of taking care of His own ministries and reputation without your help. Go read the story of the woman caught in adultery. Were there any accusers left standing there that had no faults? How are you sitting there with your finger pointed any better than the Pharisees? Let Jesus take the wheel.

For those of you who are administering the website: Measure the content of this website against the counsel of Philippians 4:8 "Finally, brethren, whatever things are true, whatever things are noble, whatever things are just, whatever things are pure, whatever things are lovely, whatever things are of good report, if there is any virtue and it there is anything praiseworthy - meditate on these things." The contents of the threads in this particular website are not on this approved list, and yet this site claims to be managed by members of God's remnant church. Stick to your terms and rules that are posted on the registration page: "You agree, through your use of this service, that you will not use this bulletin board to post any material which is knowingly false and/or defamatory, inaccurate, abusive, vulgar, hateful, harassing, obscene, profane, sexually oriented, threatening, invasive of a person's privacy, or otherwise violative of any law". This website is being a stumbling block to many and is taking the focus off the purity and example of Jesus. I pray that you will seriously consider removing these comments from your site.

To all of you: recently I read a devotional thought that talked of a certain kind of jellyfish that live in a lake, and they travel from one side of the lake to the other following in the direct light of the sun. Unlike other jellyfish, they do not sting, or hurt other creatures. Why? Because they are too busy following the sun. I think we all need to get busy and follow the Son. I plan to do this starting now and will no longer be visiting Blacksda.com or commenting on things that should be left in God's capable hands. I pray that you'll do the same.

Dear "Following",
have a friend who is a fireman. He does not start fires. When he sees children in danger he rushes in o see what he can do to protect them They are not his children. He has nothing to lose by turning a leaf ear or turning his eyes away. So why does he rush in, in the face of personal danger? Because he knows what uncontrolled fire can do.

n this forum we have become aware of a fire raging out of control and there are children in danger. Sure we can pray about it, but so does the fireman pray before he engages the danger. He prays that he fire will go out. He prays he can help the children. He prays that all will turn out well in the end. But he HAS to offer whatever help he can. Even those not trained to fight fires will rush in to rescue he children. Does the name WACO bring back any thoughts of children?

have another friend who is a "First Responder". HE goes to the help of INDIVIDUALS. He prays before he answers the call. He is trained to observe particular signs of danger and life-threatening conditions. If all he does it to pray, how much help is he? He must act, often in "TEAM" efforts. It may ake more than one to save the life. He does all he can, then he delivers the "patient" to a more powerful entity, a hospital, a doctor, or maybe even a law enforcement agency. It depends on what happened who is in danger. Id a child has been endangered or violated the next agency will be "JUSTICE".

"All that evil needs to succeed is for good people to do nothing". Notice the word "DO". "Faith without works is dead".
Just DO IT!

You said: "For those of you who think you have a responsibility to bring about justice, . . . God has not authorized you to be the judge and the jury. That is HIS job."

Yes, God has not authorized us to be judge and jury. But, the people posting here believe that God has called upon them to speak for truth and justice. It may be that God has not called upon you to do the same. None of us can judge you as to whether or not that is your responsibility. But, neither are you called by God to tell us what God has called upon us to do.

You said: "God is capable of taking care of His own ministries and reputation without your help. "

Yes, God can. But, you clearly need to spend more time in a study of Scripture. God typically works through humans, and only steps in when humans are unable to finish the job. The plan of salvation has humans as an essential part of accomplishing the task of converting the world.

Vhile your sermonette sounds good on "ineternet", in reality, you have picked and chose what you vant to do inspite of what God says in whole to do. As observer and justme have stated, faith without vords is DEAD. Maybe you are afraid? Maybe you are afraid you might do the wrong thing in your actions"?? Maybe you should let God take you to the next step in your faith and ACT. Maybe He has een calling you to more then just the verses that give you the justification to do nothing but sit there. f you are not called to do anything, then don't. But beware - if others have, you have no right to UDGE them. You can not see the whole picture - and yet you have enough of your own personal xpirience you say, to understand? Get your religion straight. Either you are one like the bible stories we have heard so many times where ACTION was called out on the believer of God, and TRUST was there along side that God would make all things work together.

Don't give up or stop in your striving to deal with this situation. God isn't finished with you yet either, just like any of us - this situation has many ways of teaching us many things. Be flexible in God's hands. That's what He's trying to teach us all. Our problem is we think we know what God wants. How does that leave it open for Him to use us?

Posted by: justme Aug 26 2006, 09:39 AM

Dear "Following"
I applaud your desire to 'let it go" as far as it concerns your own situation. This is admirable and it is true that we do this. at the right time.
Arsonist and murderers and rapists can be forgiven, even by the very ones the violated. But they still need to stopped from hurting others. There are a number of "Job Openings listed on their website.
Don't you just want to warn all those prospective applicants of what they may face in the employment of this "family-owned business"?!!!
Do you want to help stop the hurt that comes from a runaway train?
What will you say to those children when they grow up and ask you why you didn't speak up when you KNEW?
Your point about being SO HURT and DEVASTATED is one I can relate to. I know that pain! I know it well. It has happened to me! I no longer go back over my own devastating experience because I have done what you admonish. Give it to God and study, and pray, and forgive. Yes I am all OK now because I have healed.
But I did go through my experience because no one warned me of what I was getting into. Now I am much the wiser and now I can help and guide because I have learned how recognize danger and warn of it's consequences. It can leave scars.
When God heals us we usually have a scar as a reminder of what happened. In the heart, scars may be invisible to the observer. The signs may not be visible, but the symptoms can be recognized by a trained eye, by an experienced eye.
When my doctor tells me I need treatment for cut, it is not just his opinion, it is not "judging me", it simply what needs to be done to prevent infection or death. But time is of the essence.

I was gone and now I'm back, but not for the purpose of defending myself or either side. "Following the Son" raised very important points that I have not practised with regard to my own behavior.

First, I must remove the beam from my eye before I make a big fuss about the speck of dust in my brother's (or sister's) eye(s). With that said, I hereby, without reservations, withdraw everything I wrote in my posts about this topic - both for and against.

Many things have been said on this site but I somehow do not see the spirit of Christ in posts like "The Guessing Game." To be fair, I do not see the spirit of Christ in my previous posts either.

Can "Sister" honestly state that she is directed by the Lord in writing what she has written in that thread? And encouraging others to come forward with their stories? Please note that I do not condemn, just that I'm asking a question that can be answered with a yes or a no. Could "Observer" be answering with a yes (as quoted above) ?

And for the record, I was not angry in my previous posts. Just cynically amused - which by itself is not Christian, I agree. However, I am neither angry nor cynical in this post.

Having been in "know" of some very ugly situations involving SDA leadership at the conference, union and division levels has led me to the conclusion that humans are _not_ meant to be meddling in situations like these. Each and every time, it was the Lord's doing in bringing those situations to a conclusion. Does that mean that this forum should stop discussing it and making plans to bring about a change? Not at all. I'm just pointing out that all your/their/his/her words and actions are irrelevant since God controls the final result - resulting in vindication for one side, or both, or none. The Lord will reveal and act in His own time, not yours, theirs or mine.

Have a good Sabbath

God bless all of you.

Following makes lots of good points, and so do the rest of you.

I am still bewildered about what to think and do in regards to many of the situations and accusations I have read here.

My position to this point has been to remind my family and friends that the wheat and the tares grow together and that it is God who will separate them in His own time. I have been so blessed by the ministry of 3abn in my own life and don't want to see anything happen to bring it down.

I also read in the Bible that when Satan proclaimed that Jesus was the Son of God through a possessed handmaiden, he was rebuked!

IF the accusations of molestation by the two brothers are true, that is something that cannot be kept secret. If it is not openly dealt with and the offenders charged, the parties who know about it and let it continue are committing a terrible injustice.

I still believe that prayer is our most powerful weapon.

3ABN wants DISH NETWORK!

3ABN has been broadcasting an announcement. Danny asks for 3ABN to be placed in the DISH

Network programming lineup.

Danny is speaking to all 3ABN viewers asking 3ABN viewers to write to DISH Network.

Mr. Eric Sahl, Senior Vice President for Programming
DISH Network
9601 South Meridian
Englewood, Colorado

You may want to write to Mr. Eric Sahl to express your thoughts on this idea.

God's will be done!

Can you be more specific?

Posted by: justme Aug 26 2006, 12:30 PM

Dear "Rough".
Have you jumped to conclusions? or maybe are you a practicing licensed diagnostician? Just kidding ... I wish I was, ...sometimes. Not worth it to me.
Yup! There is an infection. You might call it a "hunger" and thirst after righteousness.
I, for one, do NOT want to see 3ABN go off the air. I would like to see the gospel go into every home in the world as soon as possible. After they see the gospel on their TV's they will look for a church to attend, and someone to nurture them into all truth. When they ask about 3ABN, what will they learn about the organization?
Probably depends upon whom they ask. If they ask the conferences, the answers will vary. If they ask the local church, the answers will vary.
Believe it or not, I would like to see 3ABN on the DISH network. The God of Heaven can use ANYTHING to further his work, if it willing to let HIM lead it.
What I would like to see is this:
I would like to see everyone (former employees, only) who has ever worked at 3ABN to be able to say that working there was the very best experience of their life. I have not heard even one as yet.
I would like to see the Three Angels Messages presented and followed. Especially the Third Angel's Message. "Come out of her My people". and it should apply to the management and family at 3ABN first.
The "Her" spoken of is Babylon. "Babeling Confusion!".
I would like to see Danny and the entire board "retire". All who have participated in "destroying" former employees should resign.

3ABN should INVITE all former employees of 3ABN to testify to their experience as an employee of 3ABN. If 3ABN has been so wonderful to everybody then why does 3ABN forbid people to say anything about having worked there?
Let's have a post from Danny Shelton himself, identifying himself, and inviting all former employees and volunteers to relate their own personal experience. Let the employees tell who their supervisor was, the job they did at 3ABN and for how long they worked there.
Surely it can't all be so bad. ...can it?

QUOTE(Following The Son @ Aug 26 2006, 09:14 AM)

To the viewers of the Black SDA web-site/3ABN Saga threads:

I stand in a unique position of having had my life turned upside down by the actions of the 3ABN administration AND the wagging tongues of employees slinging slanderous, untrue remarks. In the world's terms, I should be justified in having a revengeful spirit. And sadly, I have wasted years harboring this spirit and watching and hoping that the wicked will get their just reward. A few weeks ago I heard about the comments being made on this website, and became addicted to reading as the story unfolds.

Recently I have felt the need to spend time in Bible study and prayer, and as Micah 6:8 records, the Lord has shown me what is good, and what He requires of me. It's to do justly, to love mercy, and to walk humbly with my God. With His power, I am committed to doing just that. I have a burden on my heart to share a message with each of you reading this now: to those who have been hurt by the actions of others, to those of you who have caused the hurt, to those of you who are just waiting to catch up or add to the newest gossip, to those of you who think you have a responsibility to bring about justice, and finally to those of you who administer this site.

For those of you who have been hurt: Jesus said to love your enemies, to do good to them who hate you. He didn't say to retaliate and get even. I encourage you to spend time reading God's word for comfort. Psalms 37 is awesome. Verse 7 says "Rest in the Lord, and wait patiently for Him; do not fret because ... of the man who brings wicked schemes to pass. Cease from anger, and forsake wrath: Do not fret - it only causes harm." Verse 3 says, "Trust in the Lord, and DO GOOD; dwell in the land, and feed on His faithfulness. Delight yourself also in the Lord, and He shall give you the desires of your heart." 1 Peter 3:8 teaches "Be of one mind, having compassion for one another, love as brothers, be tenderhearted, be courteous; not returning evil for evil or reviling for reviling, but on the contrary blessing, knowing that you were called to this, that you may inherit a blessing." Time is so short, and Jesus is coming soon. Don't let grudges and hatred keep you from spending an eternity in a perfect universe.

For those of you who have hurt others, God's grace is sufficient for you. I read an analogy once in a book (sorry, I don't remember the author or the book, so I can't give credit!) that asked the question - what if you, like Rip Van Winkle, were to fall asleep for 1000 years and wake up to find yourselves on the wrong side of the Holy City? The Bible is clear that unconfessed and unforgiven sins will keep you out of the kingdom. Is your pride more important than your eternal life?

For those of you who are waiting to catch up or add to the latest piece of gossip: Go to your Bibles. God has provided us with a wealth of information on how He sees gossip. 1 Peter 4:11 admonishes us: "If anyone speaks [or writes!] let him speak as the oracles of God. If anyone ministers, let him do it as with the ability which God supplies, that in all things God may be glorified through Jesus Christ." I don't see where God is glorified in any of this recent writing. We are defaming the name of Jesus when we proclaim to the world such vile comments, even if it contains some shred of truth, and we do it in the name of Christian justice.

you writing the televangelist and/or other unauthorized 3ABN stories: don't think that you are going to receive jewels in your crown for each person you bring down. God has not authorized you to be the judge and the jury. That is HIS job. God is capable of taking care of His own ministries and reputation without your help. Go read the story of the woman caught in adultery. Were there any accusers left standing there that had no faults? How are you sitting there with your finger pointed any better than the Pharisees? Let Jesus take the wheel.

For those of you who are administering the website: Measure the content of this website against the counsel of Philippians 4:8 "Finally, brethren, whatever things are true, whatever things are noble, whatever things are just, whatever things are pure, whatever things are lovely, whatever things are of good report, if there is any virtue and it there is anything praiseworthy - meditate on these things." The contents of the threads in this particular website are not on this approved list, and yet this site claims to be managed by members of God's remnant church. Stick to your terms and rules that are posted on the registration page: "You agree, through your use of this service, that you will not use this bulletin board to post any material which is knowingly false and/or defamatory, inaccurate, abusive, vulgar, hateful, harassing, obscene, profane, sexually oriented, threatening, invasive of a person's privacy, or otherwise violative of any law". This website is being a stumbling block to many and is taking the focus off the purity and example of Jesus. I pray that you will seriously consider removing these comments from your site.

To all of you: recently I read a devotional thought that talked of a certain kind of jellyfish that live in a lake, and they travel from one side of the lake to the other following in the direct light of the sun. Unlike other jellyfish, they do not sting, or hurt other creatures. Why? Because they are too busy following the sun. I think we all need to get busy and follow the Son. I plan to do this starting now and will no longer be visiting Blacksda.com or commenting on things that should be left in God's capable hands. I pray that you'll do the same.

When I first became aware of a problem with the leadership of 3ABN I was tempted to wait and see what the safe(popular) thing to do and say would be. What position would the leaders of our denomination take? If I spoke up and voiced my misgivings, would my family and my church family think I was evil for doing so? Why not continue to promote 3ABN? Why not continue to smugly enjoy the self satisfaction of seeing 3ABN become popular and well thought of? Why not just do my personal devotions and ignore injustice and immorality. It is an ugly and unpleasant thing to fight against. Why not just pretend that everything is sweetness and light? After all, that is what appears on the tv screens of my neighbors when they watch 3ABN.

cannot ignore it because of my conscience.

During the holocost years in Europe, many people took the position that the rumors of genocide were ust rumors. The Nazi Youth Rallies were glorious and inspiring. The propaganda was convincing. The nusic was wonderful. Everything seemed to be clean and right. Everything foreign and weak appeared o be dirty and wrong. Popular opinion was united. To be a dissenter was to be thought to be a traitor.

Sometimes what seems like gossip is truth. Sometimes thinking lovely and forgiving thoughts isn't enough.

The leaders of the Trans European Division of Seventh-day Adventist took this official position many years ago: Have nothing to do with 3ABN!

My wife's aunt was married to a SS officer in the German Army who was stationed in a Concentration Camp. When she visited him all was beautiful, clean, and the people seemed to be working in a good atmosphere. It was not until after the war she found out what was going on there.

QUOTE(justme @ Aug 26 2006, 09:53 AM)

Dear "Following",
I have a friend who is a fireman. He does not start fires. When he sees children in danger he rushes in to see what he can do to protect them They are not his children. He has nothing to lose by turning a deaf ear or turning his eyes away. So why does he rush in, in the face of personal danger? Because he knows what uncontrolled fire can do.

In this forum we have become aware of a fire raging out of control and there are children in danger. Sure we can pray about it, but so does the fireman pray before he engages the danger. He prays that the fire will go out. He prays he can help the children. He prays that all will turn out well in the end. But he HAS to offer whatever help he can. Even those not trained to fight fires will rush in to rescue the children. Does the name WACO bring back any thoughts of children?

I have another friend who is a "First Responder". HE goes to the help of INDIVIDUALS. He prays before he answers the call. He is trained to observe particular signs of danger and life-threatening conditions. If all he does it to pray, how much help is he? He must act, often in "TEAM" efforts. It may take more than one to save the life. He does all he can, then he delivers the "patient" to a more powerful entity, a hospital, a doctor, or maybe even a law enforcement agency. It depends on what happened who is in danger. Id a child has been endangered or violated the next agency will be "JUSTICE".

"All that evil needs to succeed is for good people to do nothing". Notice the word "DO". "Faith without works is dead".
Just DO IT!

Excellent post and I totally agree.
Normally - people who say - "Just let it go" haven't been....um..."hurt" enough by someone to feel the pain.....
don't know what "FollowingtheSon" has been through - but if their child, grandchild or their very own self has been molested - I doubt they would just want to "let go"....

Also - wouldn't GOD hold me accountable if I could have "protected" others - but didn't because I wanted to just "step aside" and "let it go"?

GOD works on earth through the works of others. If you are not "called" to do anything about the Shelton Mess then by all means - don't try to do anything. However I wouldn't "knock" anyone for trying to do something.

Yes, we all have "beams/toothpicks/sticks/pencils" in our eyes.... true - and if I recognize that, and know it.... and I am striving for removal.... won't you do the same?

I have seen documentaries where Germans were led through the Concentration Camps after the war and they cried and smote their own heads because they claimed to "not know".....

How would you feel if you "didn't know" and found out later that you could have been told (in regards to anything "secret" within your family [lifechanging])?

How would you feel if you "didn't know" and found out later that you could have been "saved" if someone had stepped in and "rescued" you?

How would you feel if you "didn't know" and found out years later that your child or granchild was molested by someone - yet people around you "knew" and did nothing.....

Put yourself in all of these scenarios..... that's all I ask

If all of the posts are deleted, as you suggest, what method do you think Dr. Arild Abrahamsen should use to tell people he is not -- and never was -- Linda Shelton's boyfriend? Wouldn't it be an even bigger stumbling block for a Sabbath School teacher, such as Dr. Abrahamsen, to let the students mistakenly think he was wandering around Europe with someone else's wife, when that was never the case? Isn't it best for people to know there is more than one opinion about that?

QUOTE

God is capable of taking care of His own ministries and reputation without your help.

Since neither God nor the General Conference stepped in (during 2004 or 2005) to correct that information for Abrahamsen, letting God fix everything (as you suggest) didn't happen. In the end, Abrahamsen had to write his letter, himself. Sometimes God helps those who help themselves.

But you don't want people to see Abrahamsen's letter, do you? Over the past two years, I've seen numerous people try to play the "gossip" card in an attempt to censor others. When you ask for the posts to be deleted, it is actually censorship that you are asking for, couched in a sprinkling of Bible verses here and there to make censorship look religious when it is not.

Following the son.... follow him then.... love mercy and DO JUSTICE..... if we were to follow your formula then alot injustice would persist.... I can almost hear some people saying during slavery, "yes its bad, but God will handle it...." Or while the church leadership deliberately chose to segregate the church by color, people saying, " no its not right but God will take care of it....." This happened in the late 1920s and 30s and again in the 1940s and it has not been "fixed" yet...

your public relations and image making.
I've had all I can take of your noisy ego-music.

I hear and read the "do gooders" spouting their mumbo jumbo regarding the "fact" that "God will take care of it"... yet, if somebody attacks them or their family, they get all exciting and want action on their behalf. God works through people, he does not send down lightening to strike out evil or directly punish the evil doers. People get sick, not just because of their sin, but due to other factors...if God is suppose to take care of everything, he would not have given any of us a brain - we would not have any laws or the law enforcement/prison system for the wrong does. Is not the law enforcement system based on laws given by God to Moses, via the 10 Commandments, which appear in many places all across this nation? If "God will take care of it", we would not need any laws - everyone could do as they pleased and according to their own rules - we have rules about how non-profts are to be run, and so called "christians" have an even more strict standard they should abide by so that the funds that God blesses them with is used in the most prudent manner. When we see something that is not right, we should say something, otherwise we become accessories to the wrong doing.

Clay, I often think of this when people say things like that. In fact, FollowingtheSon, has not been following along with the this thread very well, or else they would know that sever before them have already stated that they were going to take the " let go and let God route on this one. I have come to the understnading that this maybe their lot, to sit back and pray. This kind of fight does take courage and perserverance, many have no stomach for either. It takes a lot to go against all who seem right, especially if they are in leadership, church leadership As in the examples you gave, there were "christian-church-going" people who used Bible texts to justify the attrocities inflicted upon blacks in this country since slavery. They would go to church each and every Sunday/Saturday, serve as pastors, elders deacons, and attend their kaln meetings, cross burnings, and lynchings just as religiously. It seemed right even biblical to them, but some knew it was wrong all along.

People use the Bible in many different ways and come up with many different conclusions. You can play the gossip card, or the justice card, or something in-between. But I have a question--what about principle? What about doing the right thing because it is the right thing?

Deep down don't we know that we are to protect and defend those who cannot protect themselves? Do we not believe in accountability?

FollowingtheSon, if we put your "suggestions" into practice we would have to do away with conscience. You are asking us to surrender our God-given right to think, to ask questions, to appeal for answers. This cannot be done.

Professed Christianity can be extremely manipulative at times. Guilt is often employed to accomplish a certain end. But BSDA is a forum composed of many thinking individuals--people that will not simply buy the popular idea.

Our church professes to love the truth, but do we really? Perhaps we do when it comes to proving the Seventh-day Sabbath. Perhaps we do when we're talking about the three angel's messages. But when we come to the place where the rubber meets the road do we really want to know the truth? When it comes to more than what we say to actually how we live, does truth still matter to the Seventh-day Adventist church? Truth can be very painful at times, it isn't always easy to swallow. But in the long run which is better? How long do we want to live a lie?

too would like to know - I think this person needs the healing that many need that have experienced he dysfunction that goes on behind the scenes. My hope is the this person, who ever he/she is, if ie/she is really telling the truth, will find that this is a good place to get that freedom and heal - because there are many others here that can relate and can support him/her. As we often see, people such as FTS) have to work thru it to see that it's "OK" to take the next step and proclaim "that is not ok, this is not ok, and I am not going to allow myself to stay in this place anymore, I have choices, and I am worthy". Lets see if that growth takes place for FTS, and "others" in the same boat. FTS, you will find support here. No fear brother/sister!

Professed Christianity can be extremely manipulative at times. Guilt is often employed to accomplish a certain end. But BSDA is a forum composed of many thinking individuals--people that will not simply buy the popular idea.

Our church professes to love the truth, but do we really? Perhaps we do when it comes to proving the Seventh-day Sabbath. Perhaps we do when we're talking about the three angel's messages. But when we come to the place where the rubber meets the road do we really want to know the truth? When it comes to more than what we say to actually how we live, does truth still matter to the Seventh-day Adventist church? Truth can be very painful at times, it isn't always easy to swallow. But in the long run which is better? How long do we want to live a lie?

Good point. If we are to sit back and do nothing (as suggested by FollowingtheSon), then we should ignore the great commission. We should be like those in the story of the Good Samaritan--look but don't act. In fact these people were condemned by Jesus. They could have said, "I'm going to pray and let God fix the problem." Jesus praised the Good Samaritan for being a man of action, who partnered with God to fix the problem. Jesus stated that the Good Samaritan exemplified a good neighbor, a good follower of Christ.

If we were to follow your suggestion, FollowingtheSon, we wouldn't be following the Son of God, but the sons of man. Yes, we pray and ask God for guidance of if, how, and when we should act; nevertheless, we don't run and hide and we don't leave a wounded soldier on the battlefield to die. We have a responsibility to each other. We are here to glorify God and to serve others. To stand by and see injustice(s) occuring, we unwittingly affirm them. Christian people are people of action. The Seventh-day Adventist Church is a movement! We are not going to stand by and let a gang of bullies misrepresent who God really is and bully those who stand for truth. It is totally unacceptable.

But I have a question--what about principle? What about doing the right thing because it is the right thing?

What exactly is the right thing?

For some it is to speak up. For other it is to let God work.

I believe in both implementations, and I believe that both are being employed in this situation.

Don't ever forget that right and wrong, aside from being an age-old conflict) is nothing more than perception.

In other words there is not such a thing as absolutes? Is right and wrong simply based on our opinions, our perceptions, our feelings??

I simply cannot agree with this. In reality there are principles involved that are unchangable regardless of our perception of them.

I agree that there are different ways to do the right thing, but it only goes so far. Ignoring abuse and injustice simply does not fit into that category. Phrases such as "Let go and let God" simply do not apply here.

I honestly belive that many in "the world" see injustice for what it is, while many in "the church" choose to look the other way.

Quite frankly, a victim of abuse was never helped when someone ignored the situation. A person suffering injustice needs more than the cliche, "I'm letting God lead."

\s Christians, I would hope that we share some "absolute" principles. However, there are many people n the world who do not. Since absolutes are not embrace by the entire population, they cannot, bviously, be absolutes, can they? If you believe that humans live by "absolutes" try joinging an bortion debate. I promise there will be many different principles in the mix.

\s for acting or letting God act - I am not saying that we shouldn't step in. I'm saying that perhaps it s God working when someone chooses not to act.

f one sticks too rigidly to one's principles, one would hardly see anybody.

'ou mean many people do not live by your priniciples. They live by their own.

I don't think that principle is non-existent either and have not been supporting that. I have been writing to the fact that prinicple is different for different people. I'm sure that you and I share similar priniciples, but not everyone would share them.

And, of course, child molestation should be against everyone's prinicples...but you might be surprised.

When one is blinded there is not much one can see. The assumption has been made that if Danny 3ABN can be forced out of the market then HopeTV will suddenly rise up and fill the niche left vacant because all the money that used to go to 3ABN will have to be sent to HopeTV. "Oh, judgement thou art fled to brutish beasts and men have lost their reason." (Apologies to the bard).

Why do you seem to think that's an invalid assumption? People send money to 3ABN because they want to support Adventist televangelism. If 3ABN was discredited as a trustworthy ministry because of their leadership why would not these same finanacial supporters want to redirect their financial support to HOPE? I would.

As I stated before, I don't and I won't be looking for identities to steal.

However, it's also obvious that you attack anybody who does not toe your line. I'm sorry, I don't toe anybody's line.

And I'm guessing Gershon is also somebody who did not toe your line? And you think I am he/she? Since I have no idea who that is, I can only tell you that this is my first and only identity in this forum or any other.

Any one of the admins on this forum can very easily check to see where posts are coming from. They can compare IP addresses to see whether I have ever accessed BSDA from any other ip address other than the one I have. They can also check to see if any other identity has ever accessed this forum from my ip address.

The original post I replied to was made by DOG who said it came to him/her that a legal firm of investigators on the east coast had taken up the subject. All I wanted to know was whether this was verifiable. I don't see how that can be turned into phishing. Am I going to be stealing the identity of a legal firm to do credit card theft?

Perhaps the problem is not that folks are afraid you want to steal a law firm's identity but rather that if the name of the firm becomes public at this point that the fictional televangelist and his people will start a smear campaign against them - or something. Just an idea that popped into my head.

I agree with steffan on this issue. Asking for the name of a legal firm is not something that merits the responces that has been given. If a serious question only have scorn to gain... well, it aint helping your case a wee bit.
If there are good reasons not to reveal the name of the legal firm, just say so. You have nothing to gain from making fools out of yourselves.

BlackSDA _ 3ABN _ Is Danny Over Linda?

Posted by: Uncle Sam Aug 28 2006, 07:32 PM

I was talking to a friend of mine about this situation. She brought up some interesting ideas. She was saying it seems to her that Danny is not over Linda. If he were he would not have married someone so similar to Linda. Also, he would not be so obsessed about this whole situation. He would have just moved on and not thought anymore about Linda.

What do you all think about this theory?

Does anyone know how Brandi is handling all of this? I feel really bad for her to be in this situation...

All I can tell you, and this is from personal expirence as well; it's amazing what you can do for the sake of other people (the "ministry"). It's very easy to sacrifice when it's for the good of everyone else - all that needs to be done - work work work. So acting, no. I believe with all my heart, because I know Linda, that she loved her husband deeply. She is in more shock than most people will ever ever know over ALL OF THIS and more. Dan did treat her right at times, for who knows for what motive. Only God. There are many sad things in the world.

I once heard that great authority Dr Phil say that you know you are ready for divorce when you have NO feelings at all for the soon-to-be-ex. No love, no hate, no anger, no resentment, those things should be dealt with before going through a divorce.

Interesting advice - which would seem not to have been the way the Shelton divorce occurred.

She did not mean that they looked alike. They were both divorced with 2 small children, new to the faith, they both sing etc.....

Posted by: princessdi Aug 29 2006, 08:47 AM

Ahhhh yes Sam. That is a very troubling similarity. Not to minimize the recent charge of inappropriate behavior, we know for sure that Danny is able to "distance" himself from step children very easily, as he did with Linda's son. He basically acts as if he doesn't exist, and he was with this boy 20 years. As a older(not a word Steve or Kevin), how a man treats any family, especially any children he has sired and/or parented or not, is key to my involvement with him. It is a indication of his charater.

Why would you not believe Brandy is innocent? She met Danny after the divorce and subsequently married him.

Are you saying she is not innocent due to the fact that Danny may not have had Biblical Grounds for divorce?

Posted by: princessdi Aug 29 2006, 02:43 PM

Why would you not believe Brandy is innocent? She met Danny after the divorce and subsequently married him.

Because I truly believe she predates Linda's departure period. I think she came some years before her departure. In fact, since Danny even had teh nerve to accuse Linda of a fictional sin, I have been waiting for the other shoe to drop. I have said from the beginning, he was having a mid-life crisis and he should have just bought a sports car. Danny is no different than any other middle-aged man who wanted to toss his wife for a younger model. They rarely end the one relationship before beginning the next. They usually run concurrent, most often without the wife's knowledge. Danny had just one complication, he was the head of a telelvision network that claimed to be the leader in christian living and a member of a church who rules say the biblical grounds for divorce were adutlery ONLY. Brandy is no different from any other woman who got caught dating a married man. Now this is all from the Book of Princess, so I just put it out there as my opinion, and gut feeling.

Are you saying she is not innocent due to the fact that Danny may not have had Biblical Grounds for divorce?

You need to do some more digging in the posts...but I'll give you a heads up.

Dan knew Brandi years...and years...and years before.

Only after getting Brandi groomed - you know - new style of hair, clothing, makeup - was she put in the spotlight.

Come on now HOTY!!! Somebeody is actually there doing hair and makeup for those people?

No - let me rephrase -

Brandi was - how should I say it - less than what many would accept a modest lady married to Dan Shelton to look like. So, months before they were married, Brandi got a makeover - you know- to look more of the part. One could say she was whipped into shape.

You know - aside from everything else. Brandy is an extremely nice person.

I don't think she realized what she was getting into. Of her faults - naitivity is probably numero uno.

Posted by: princessdi Aug 29 2006, 07:29 PM

HOTY, some very nice women, just want a man.....and yes they do get caught up and don't make the best choices. Now, this may also account for one of the reasons Danny is insisting on pushing th adultery thing with Linda. You are not the first person who has said this about Brandy.

From what I've read about Brandy, I imagine her fitting the profile of a young woman I knew in my youth. She was fairly attractive, dressed provocatively, was nearly always surrounded by men, but was always sweet and nice to the girls as well as the boys, even though the girls looked at her a little askance. She always spoke very softly, fluttered her eye lashes a lot, no matter who she was talking to. ... I think she was looking for love but didn't know how to connect in a meaningful way with the girls. She also seemed naive. I have no idea what happened to her, but I can imagine her finding "love" with the wrong men. Seeing that Brandy was already divorced twice, that may be her story ...

Now that I have more experience in life, I tend to suspect something not quite right in the family history ... possibly even molestation ... and that reminds me ...

I still vividly remember a seminar in which a former victim of abuse was the featured speaker. Her chief point was that abusers know who to pick as victims. She used to draw abusers like a magnet, and she shared how it was still hard for her to speak in front of people. She had had to reinvent herself, learning how to walk differently, carry herself differently, look people in the eye, etc. Without such "reinvention," those who have been abused by one lover/husband, will likely be abused by the next one, because they will draw the wrong men. And I suspect that most of you who are a little older have actually observed such a pattern ...

HOTY's comment that naivete is probably Brandy's chief fault seems to indicate that she may be a "pleaser" (i.e. is "nice" to everyone and wants to make everyone happy/think well of her) and an abuser would see her as a suitable subject ...

I also wonder whether Linda was originally a bit of a "pleaser" but developed into a mature woman with a mind of her own ...

Just musings ...

Inga,
I must say that I hadn't thought of these things. But you definitely have a point. Brandy definitely fits into the pleaser category. It's difficult to say, and I may get some negative feedback, but she really seems genuine.

There's no reason Brandy should not be genuine -- even after two divorces.

Let's assume that she knew she was getting involved with a married man--something we do not know. In that case, she would be meeting his needs, as far as she felt -- needs his wife could not fulfill. (Poor Danny!) I think you probably know the spiel ...

Women who do not have a good foundation of a strong sense of self do not have the tools to cope with men like Danny.

Is Danny over Linda???
Consider this. When Danny kicked Linda our of 3ABN he was quoted as as saying "the president no longer wants the vice president". It doesn't mean he is over Linda.
Is it possible that he simply wanted to change "partners" and still keep control over Linda. To say he is OVER Linda would imply that he no longer lover her.
To some people who have so much power, it is impossible to truly love anyone else as we think of love. The many types of love could include the kind of love that you have when you love chocolate ice cream. The kind of love you feel when you feel loved. The kind of love that you have when you are feeling erotic. The kind of love you feel when you have just finished giving a great performance. The kind of love that one may feel when one has total control of another life.
Danny would not likely be "over Linda" in term of having lost his affection for her and having it replaced by Brandy's love. Most commonly people of power, men or women, love the feeling of having the attentions and affections of BOTH the current and the former interest.
When one of the no longer "bows to the power" or "surrenders to the dictator" that one is kicked aside. But the one in power never "gets over it".
To the one in power there is never an excuse for not surrendering to the power.
To be "Over Linda" in term of marital loyalty and Godly love" it has to first exist in reality before it can even qualify as something to be "Over".
The kind of love Jesus spoke of is "Husbands love you wives as God loves His church". Total single-minded love, self sacrificing love, love with an eye singly given to Hid bride, as if there is not another in the whole world. Did that exist in his heart for Linda?
What part of his love for Linda is Danny supposed to get over?
If he truly was over Linda, he would let her speak her mind. Open her heart. He would let have her very own ministry with his total blessing. By the very act of having slandered her he proved he is not over her.
What he lost when Linda was gone, he is trying to replace by using Brandy. Someone to submit, to yield, to bow in obeisance.
To get over Linda means that he is no longer bothered by the fact that he was called into question over her dismissal. Everything about Linda will haunt him continually.
Find someone just like Linda? Yup. If possible. He wants more of the same soft spirit, some musical ability, common interests, an attitude of submission, .. for as long as he can have it.
When she starts to think for herself, he feels threatened. If she doesn't cower under his temper she will be replaced as well. It is not the person he loves, it is the feeling of power that she makes him feel. He loves the feeling that he feels when someone makes him feel the fantasys he has inside.
When one cannot see himself as others see him he is called a "psychopath", I think...
When one thinks that he has no responsibility for other people, he is a "sociopath", right .. someone help me with this ..
When someone thinks the world is talking behind his back he is a "neurotic", right?
Do we see any of these things in the "Televangelist".

I expect that the flood gates will soon open and Linda will be seen as truthful all along the way.

Someone look at the latest CD by Linda and notice that it has an insert that says something to the effect that, "I dedicate this CD to my blessed husband, Danny, who has made this possible. Thank you my dear husband. I love you."
Does that sound like a woman in search of another? Not in the least.

Someone find it an give us the exact quote. (to think of the stories he made up about her during the time she was making this CD, dedicated to her husband, Danny). It'll send chills up your spine.

Heart breaking. Linda and I talked about this the other day - about if he ever really loved her. It is so sad. She has learned so many things about the man she thought she knew....her heart is truly broken, in many ways, and seems the more she learns, the more it breaks in shock and of feeling foolish at the same time. Things she says like "how could I have not known?" so many times over and over....

It makes me cry (really, I am teared up) to feel her pain. But, she is so much more then people know. She feels christs love and pity for him still - hoping that he will respond to God one day, repent and be forgiven. She has forgiven him, but also as she learns more (she has such a childlike naiveness to herself, I know, I have said this before, but it just amazes me), and feels the emotions of frustration and hurt, she also moves quickly to the stance of Jesus. As though Jesus is holding her hand and pulling her on down the path, for she doesn't resist His leading. She is very connected and I see Jesus living through her in each instance of 'love' she shows still with regard to Dan. Not the kind a wife has for a husband, for that is ruined and all trust is gone, but the kind the Jesus has for those that are lost and have hurt Him, meaning to and not meaning to. She is human, makes mistakes like we all do, but her walk with the Lord has inspired me so much, for I see it carry her through each step & each day of this mess. She has learned many things I think, we all can learn from this mess. But mostly, she is keeping her eye on the future and the saviors coming.

P.S. It will be interesting to see what her next CD is about, and who it's dedicated to.

h o y , thank you. I new it was something like that. I haven't seen it for along time. After I made my mp3's of it I lost track of it.

Sonshine you hit it right on the nose! Linda is a real person. Unsophisticated, humble, human, sweet as they come, kinda "precious". Last time I talked with her she had nothing bad to say about the man who she used to call "husband" (German for 'house-band'), the one whom God designates to "bind together the home". She felt sorry for his chronic neck pain all these years. She wants him to learn to know the real Jesus personally.
I have been rough an him sometimes, from a man's point of view. A man, a real man, protects his woman!
Linda is a one-of-a-kind in my book. She doesn't want to be elevated over anyone else because of her fame, or because of her music, or because of her teaching and sharing. She is who she IS! And she IS A Precious Lady!
EVeryone of us had been "duped" by someone before and i with the heavy schedules they had in their work, there was very little time to "be alone" and Together" as a couple in love. Most of what they did and who they were was wrapped up in travelling, speaking, producing, directing, busy busy busy. It's hard to be aware of all the nuances that are around them all the time.
Let's all pray that "he" will come to his senses and repent and ask for God's forgiveness and forsake his ways, surrender his will to God, become humble, and submissive to God.
Linda still loves him as God loves him. That's the least we can do for her sake.

Just a little food for thought....Brandi's second divorce was in 1999. She has two children, ages 12 and 6. Do the math~~~her second was out of wedlock and some have commented on how this child resembles Danny.

Danny and Linda have been divorced two years. It would seem that Danny and Brandi have been involved for some time, long before her 'employment' at 3ABN.

I was married to a man that had numerous affairs during our 16 year marriage and people like Danny don't give up one woman until they have another firmly in place!! The signs were there all along and I told Linda all she had to do was to wait and see who the woman was. It didn't take long, did it?

I don't believe for one moment that Brandi is innocent in all of this. Young and dumb maybe, but not innocent. Can't be, with two marriages and divorces in her history!!

Just a little food for thought....Brandi's second divorce was in 1999. She has two children, ages 12 and 6. Do the math~~~her second was out of wedlock and some have commented on how this child resembles Danny.

I know that I am not a mathmetician here, but it seems that if she were pregnant in 99, had the child in 2000, that it is not illogical for the child, in fact, to be 6 years old is it?

The divorce for her first marriage was in 1999. She remarried in 2000. I have pm'd Jodi and husbandoftheyear with more details.

Danny and Linda have been divorced two years. It would seem that Danny and Brandi have been involved for some time, long before her 'employment' at 3ABN.

How do you make this jump in logic? Danny and Linda have been apart for two years (I am assuming it is around this amount of time, maybe slightly longer). Brandy's chlidren are 12 and 6, meaning that at the time of the original seperation the youngest was 4. Now if your logic holds, that means that Danny and Brandy were in contact at least five years prior (at the least four years and nine months). Your logic doesn't stand. Simply because someone says that an individual looks like someone else is no way to go about presenting truth and fact.

The only way that this could be presented as anything other than mere speculaton based on not much at all would be a DNA test. So since that isn't going to happen this notion needs to "stricken from the record" in an effort to only present that which is provable.

Posted by: Denny Sep 7 2006, 09:27 AM

Just as we do not want to speculate about what happened to the first Mrs Shelton we should not speculate about who fathered Brandy's children. Unlike the Shelton marriage breakdown none of these things can be confirmed here. Looking like someone means nothing I look like plenty of people and are related to none of them.

First, two points about your statement:

1. Sometime back, someone stated that Brandy had been to 3ABN with her parents, as a child, and had sung at 3ABN. They said that Danny has known Brandy's family for many years.

2. I was just looking at the birth certificate of someone in my family. It lists both the father and the mother. Both parents of the baby were at the hospital when the baby was born and filled out the information for the birth certificate at that time. Since I can read, I did not need a DNA test to figure out who the parents were.

Now, on to something else that needs to be repeated.

With time, most things come out in the wash, one way or the other.

My personal opinion is that men dump their wives for younger women every day of the week. It is so commonplace that it doesn't even qualify for debate. Most people are not going to stop and analyze things every time they see a Grandpa with a Prom Queen and try to put it into terms of Predicate or Propositional Logic. Their day just isn't long enough for that.

The stories put out by 3ABN about "spiritual adultery" were just plain foolish. Naturally, this left everyone on their own to speculate as to what really happened. And that's what is logical.

By making serious charges, and then refusing to present their "unquestionable" evidence in any reasonable way, 3ABN clearly lost in the court of public opinion.

If 3ABN makes continuing commentary on television, they better be able to back it up. And 3ABN seems totally unable to do that. So, telling people that their "logic doesn't stand" is rather pointless at this late date. It's a public relations disaster for 3ABN, any way you look at it.

There are individuals that I have meet throughout the years who I have had no more contact with, accidentally ran into later on. Simply the meeting of the family is not substantial enough to speculate that because of the one time meeting there was a later intimate relationship. That is far to weak to stand on.

An adopted child's birth certificate has the names of the adoptive parents on it. There isn't a second one that contains the biological parents names on it for obvious legal reasons. You are correct that a DNA test isn't the only way to determine paternity - however it is rather definitive and carry's more wieght than a birth certificate that could be forged, altered after the fact, etc.

'he reason for making the statement that the logic doesn't cut it is based on my position that in a ituation like this if you have a "side", you stand a much greater chance of proving it's veracity if you tick to what "IS", meaning you have the evidence in hand and it is indisputable. The post I responded o was only speculative at best. Thus for those who have come into this flow of imformation late myself included) I think the point I make isn't pointless.

'our comment that 3ABN doesn't seem to be able to back up their claims does have a flip side. Maybe hey do have it and do not want to add to anyone elses pain or embarassment. (I know that this line vill get jumped on, so let me be proactive here and say I am not advocating one side over the other ust making the common sense observation that there is a plausible alternative) would agree that the continual defensive approach taken by some of the individuals at 3ABN does reate a perception that is damaging from a PR perspective. If in fact they do have "evidence to onvict" and are choosing to take the high road and not embarass Linda further - they should at the ery least ignore the opposition against them so as not to create the perception that they are trying to ide something - but to date they haven't.

know Dan & cohorts are arguing that they are taking the "high road." However, that argument tterly fails because the direct statements and continuing insinuations do more damage than revealing he worst that Linda could possibly have done.

What is the most incriminating evidence they possibly could have? Is it a video of Linda committing dultery? Is it a recording of Linda's confession of committing adultery? Is it someone else's onfession of committing adultery with Linda? Would the revealing of any of this evidence do Linda nore damage than what the statements and insinuations have done/are doing?

3ABN is definitely taking the lowest road by their practice! The "high road" would have been to make no statements re Linda's "guilt" in the matter and allow her to leave over "personal differences" or whatever ...

If Linda is so guilty, why was she coerced into signing a gag order? Is that a "high road"?

What is so damaging about the 3ABN approach is that, without concrete evidence, folks do imagine the worst. After all, Danny is "God's chosen messenger," right? And he can do no wrong. And it is likely that's precisel why we see no more specific statements from 3ABN than we have. They know that human nature will imagine the worst -- worse than anything Linda is likely to have done even if she is "guilty."

That "high-road" argument just doesn't hold water!

Okay, for arguments sake I will respond to this one. If Linda is/was guilty as charged it is entirely possible that she would have still wanted to stay a part of the organization. If she did want to stay and wouldn not "leave over personal/creative/spiritual differences" (which ever word you want to use) then she would be perceived as a potentially hostile/disgruntled employee who could spread slanderous lies and rumors about the organization. Kind of like, "If I can't have it, then I will make sure no one else does either." If this was the perception then any organization would have required a gag order, no compete clause, etc.

I have begun to ask individuals, those who would have some frame of reference (because there are those in the church who really do not know much more about 3ABN then it is a telelvision station), if they would classify Danny as "the face of Adventism" or "God's chosen messenger." Almost to a person they do not see either one as reflecting their perception of Danny. Needless to say they would not, then, think that he could "do no wrong." I think the perception here that Danny is the "grand pubah" of Adventism might only exist here. Most of the people I talked to reference shows other than 3ABN Live, which is the scheduling venue you would most like see Danny in. If I were to assign priority of importance of the individuals mentioned by those who shared their thoughts with me, Doug Bachelor and Shaun Boonstra (sp?) garner much more mention than Danny. Next would come many of the individuals who do the cooking shows.

There may very well have been intent to take a high road approach (again common sense has to admit this is plausible), imperfect humans who at times get exasperated and "hot under the collar" do not adhere to their original plan. It is tough to say since none of us were there when this was discussed and decided on. High road or not, there are two sides to the coin, the story, and to understand it one must allow for the possibility that what was once accepted as truth in the end may not be such.

I too have talked to individuals - not planning to, but more of a happen to have it come up type thing, and I think I have talked about this in another post - but very different types of people, both react to Dan the same "what? Are you kidding, he is choosen by God, after all, LOOK at him, he is there - HE started this minstry and HE is STILL there..." (yes in quote but mostly my paraphrase, as they were two diff people). I was in shock as the conversation in one was only about "what if's" as in, what if things are not as they appear to be - what if Dan is not being straight about things...what I have seen is people's knee-jerk reaction to DAN being "he's a saint" more or less. This disturbed me deeply, and has ever sense. I realize that I will have to have the court documents to put in front of their face and then HOPE they will accept what they see then, because what I see now is that people DO see him as a saint - choosen by God. Again, very different people, don't know each other, live in the same enviornments, or even the same age. It terrifed me to think that what I was seeing before my eyes was WORSHIP of a person. Like it or not, that is what it is. People have been set up and don't see it. Yes, there are others like Boonstra, Batchelor, and we should all be careful to keep it clear in our minds they are ONLY men. Human and sinful, as are we all. It's a striking lesson to learn that someone you have held up so high, realizing it or not, can and does fall now and again. It's life. It's sin. It's going to end one day, and I look very forward to that.

You're right, it will get jumped on, and here's why:

There is no "flip side" or "plausible alternative" because the accused parties have stated, for the record , that there is no such evidence.

And to date, no such evidence has been presented by 3ABN in any credible manner.

For 3ABN to say they have evidence, if it doesn't exist, is certainly not the high road. It's the very lowest, stagnant, swamp there is, but it is certainly no road.

So, if withholding evidence is meant to lessen pain and embarrassment, it certainly has been a gigantic failure on 3ABN's part.

That's the basic 3ABN dilemma: A charge with no evidence. There's really no way for 3ABN to get around that one except to say, "We have evidence, but nobody's ever going to see it." That's right up there with, "The dog ate my homework."

That would depend on when it had come to court. If it came to court now, and.....Voila!.....this evidence suddenly appears, then no(all that ocmputer generation and all). Had it appeared when they first went to court(when Linda was contesting the divorce) then yes. It is not like Danny has not had an opportunity to present whatever evidence he claims to have, but he hasn't. We are not going to even talk about his initial accusations were not os a sexual affiar, it was the now infamous "spiritual adultery". Something that he thought didn't need anymore evidence than his word about some phone calls that lasted longer than he thought they should.

'HERE IS NO EVIDENCE.

Vait, let me add, IF you call a one sided conversation that Dan transcripbed, EDITED and ALSO EXPLAINED WHAT THIS AND THAT MEANT, WITHOUT asking Linda (or anyone else asking Linda) if ;uch things meant or were to mean such and such...well, lets just say, that is still NOT EVIDENCE. It's :alled a MAGICAL ALLUSION that nobody took serious - but only TOOK THE WORD OF SOMEONE who ıad nothing to do with any conversation....hmm, if you were a duck hunter, would you go shoot a :hicken, dress it up to look like a duck, maybe get some little do-dad to stick in it's mouth so if you ;queexed it it make something like a duck sound, and then presented it to a group of people who ılready would believe anything you said and told them "by golly, this IS a duck!" Remember, the original charges were against Linda, and not against Danny Shelton. Linda is innocent ıntil proven guilty, the innocent party does not have to "plead" at all. She does not have to "claim" nnocence. You've got it completely backwards: 3ABN has to "claim" she is guilty and prove it. And hey, clearly, are unable to do that. 'our "what if" proposition about 3ABN's actions down the road is what you, yourself would call "weak" f used by anybody except yourself.

'What if" propositions include my favorite, "What if Julius Caesar had owned a Beechcraft Bonanza? ıow would world history be different? "

Considering a "what if" proposal is a pointless exercise in futility.

However, I will say this that is not "what if." When a person goes into court, their "gag" order does not hold up. If the judge says "speak," Linda speaks -- gag order or not. That information would likely end up in the hands of the public, whatever that information might be.

The bottom line is: 3ABN has presented no evidence to support the charges that originated with 3ABN. Very foolish, indeed.

Therefore, there is no need for Linda to "plead" against non-existent evidence.

And, no, 3ABN is not withholding evidence to "help" Linda. Based on reports of phone calls to Polly's Place and other individuals disparaging Linda Shelton, we know that the idea of "help" is absolutely ludicrous. Help for Linda Shelton is absolutely the opposite of 3ABN's intentions.

My inquiry was much less about the potential of evidence being presented in a court of law than it was to know if you were open to the possibility of being wrong. I am prepared to be wrong and admit it, I was curious if you were willing to do the same.

This isn't a claim of you being wrong, just wondering how set in your position you are.

That is true for a criminal case, with one exception: In criminal cases, there are three, not two, pleas that can be entered: Guilty, Not guilty, and "nolo contendre (No contest, which is not a plea of innocense).

However, in a civil case, one in not required to enter any plea. One may not have to prove that something is false.

When first I heard the phrase "spiritual adultry" I Googled it, both in the regular engine and in the scholar engine, and was shocked about the wealth of debate, dialogue, and exposition on the subject. With that many people, many of them highly educated and steeped in Biblical tradition, talking about it it is a concept to be grappled with. Does it apply here - I'll reserve judgement on that one until I understand it better and not dismiss it out of hand.

And how many of these scholars equated spiritul adultery to a phone conversation from a married person to a doctor or had it as a reason for divorce?

BSDA is hosted on a popular well established Internet Service Provider (ISP) that specializes in hosting bulletin boards, primarily Vbulletin and Invision (we use) forum software packages. The hacker found an exploit in Flashchat to gain entry into the ISP's servers. The hacker then installed a virus to search for forums with flashchat and then overwrote a few files. Many if not all of the forums running flashchat on our IPS where effected and their forums where compromised as we where. It is unlikely that BSDA was targeted specifically as I had initially thought. The hacker probably was not a registered member here.

The ISP is investigating.

Thank you for the update!

In my mind I was jokingly like "what did folks do to somebody?" (i.e. Why would anybody single out BSDA), but fianlly thought that it had to be random....I was also a bit disappointed at the inferences that may have been someone with a direct malicious intent to target BSDA....

BSDA is hosted on a popular well established Internet Service Provider (ISP) that specializes in hosting bulletin boards, primarily Vbulletin and Invision (we use) forum software packages. The hacker found an exploit in Flashchat to gain entry into the ISP's servers. The hacker then installed a virus to search for forums with flashchat and then overwrote a few files. Many if not all of the forums running flashchat on our IPS where effected and their forums where compromised as we where. It is unlikely that BSDA was targeted specifically as I had initially thought. The hacker probably was not a registered member here.

The ISP is investigating.

Nope, have not rectified anything. I deleted the last member to join with the handle of JasonWitch_. Google, jasonWitch_ and you will find that he has registered on hundreds if not thousands of boards. Bulletin boards just like email have become the target of spammers. About 3 months ago we started getting a rash of new members signing up many with strange names that you would not expect on a board of our kind. There is a market for bulletin board list and BSDA is on it. These list can be brought by spammers with automatic script to sign them up on thousand of boards at one time.

We have email validation turned on as a deterrent. Most will not bother to validate, too much work. But JasonWitch did. I don't know if he was the hacker.

If I suspect someone is a security thread or here to sell us boner pills I will take them out. Apologize later if I have too.

Regarding our new registrant "crestor----"

http://www.adrugrecall.com/news/crestor-dangerous.html

Despite New Info, Crestor Still Dangerous

March 15, 2006

The consumer advocacy group Public Citizen announced this week that despite new reports about the heart benefits of cholesterol drug Crestor, this drug is still dangerous and should not be prescribed to patients.

On March 13, 2006, professionals at the American College of Cardiology meeting presented findings indicating that the blockbuster statin Crestor may reverse the development of plaque build-up in the artery walls, which puts patients at high risk of a heart attack.

The study looked at 349 patients, a relatively small patient sample, and was conducted for a relatively short duration. Public Citizen has added criticism about the study, stating that the research was not randomized and did not refute any past evidence of the serious and unique risks associated with Crestor.

Despite new findings, there is still NO evidence that Crestor poses a unique benefit for heart patients. Rather, findings have only shown, thus far, that Crestor poses the unique risks of serious and possibly fatal muscle and kidney damage.

The authors of the recent study admit that the plaque-reducing benefit of Crestor is probably the same for other statin drugs, HOWEVER, those drugs have NOT been linked to serious life threatening side effects.

Public Citizen also points out that the dose used in the study-40 milligrams-is a dose the FDA recommends ONLY be prescribed after lower doses have failed to adequately reduce LDL cholesterol. Therefore, the group points out, it is unlikely that many of the lower risk patients in the study would have been a good candidate for this high, and more dangerous, dose.

The researchers, whose findings will appear in the April 5 th issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association, have also failed to assert that doctors should switch patients to Crestor in light of this new information.

Crestor, made by AstraZeneca, is a top selling cholesterol medication, which has been linked to a fatal muscle condition called rhabdomyolysis and severe kidney damage. Despite these serious risks, and pleading from groups like Public Citizen, the FDA and AstraZeneca have failed to protect patients by taking this dangerous drug off the market.

This drug should not be prescribed and should never have been approved by the FDA in the first place, according to Public Citizen. If you would like to learn more about the serious risks associated with Crestor or you have been injured by this drug, you may wish to contact a qualified attorney. For more information on Crestor danger, please contact us .

BlackSDA _ 3ABN _ The Repetition Of History

Posted by: husbandoftheyear Aug 29 2006, 08:12 PM

Some say that history has a way of repeating itself.

- The history -

A long time ago in England, there was a very spoiled king, Henry 8th to be precise. He got what he wanted, when he wanted it, unfortunately, and too often to the detriment of others. England prospered and Henry was happy except for the fact that after well over a decade of marriage to Queen Catherine of Aragon, and after many miscarriages and stillbirths, Henry realized that she would never give birth to a living son and heir. Some may say she "neglected to fulfill her duties" as his queen. Now, Henry was never what you would call a devoted husband. In fact, he had many mistresses (but none that kept his attention for very long) and actually had other children out of wedlock - including a son. But this son couldn't rule.

What could have been just another affair changed the course of history when he happened upon a young woman, Anne Boleyn, the sister of one of his mistresses. He was instantly taken with the young woman as she had spirit - and brains. Amazingly, she refused to be anything to him but his wife! After a couple of years of Henry trying to persuade Anne to be his mistress, he realized that she wouldn't give in. So, lusting after Anne and realizing she was young enough to produce an heir, he set about to dethrone his wife, Catherine, and usher in a new woman. Now - you may think that an all-powerful king would be able to just put aside one wife for another, but Henry didn't want to simply seek a divorce. No, no! That would imply that there could have been some wrongdoing or at the very least lead to a very displeased Pope. He set out to have it annulled - as if the last fifteen years had never happened! How did he suppose to do it? Ah - that is where the real irony comes in!

Henry was a second son, and therefore never to be king. As such, Henry was schooled in the teachings of the Bible. Amazingly, he was being groomed for the church! It should be noted that he was, in fact, very well educated in the Good Book. Henry's brother, Arthur, was the firstborn as well as the first husband of Catherine of Aragon. Yes, the same Catherine of Aragon that would marry Henry, her brother-in-law. Catherine was very briefly married to Arthur, but after the wedding, he soon fell ill and died. Henry 7th, Arthur and Henry's father (and king), was determined to keep Catherine in the family to ensure the alliance with Spain. So he pushed Henry to marry Catherine, several years his elder.

In order for Henry to marry Catherine, technically his sister, a formal hearing was held to determine whether or not Catherine's marriage to Arthur was consummated. After all the "evidence" was presented along with Catherine's adamant denial of copulation, it was found that Catherine was indeed a virgin, and therefore, free to marry Henry. How could this matter? Well, over 15 years later, Henry would use Catherine's marriage to Arthur as a way of escape.

Most likely thankful of his knowledge of the Bible, Henry found a way to put away his wife "in the name of God." You may be interested to know where he found his evidence. It is Leviticus 20:21 "If a man takes his brother's wife, it is an unclean thing...they shall be childless."

If Henry wanted to appear just as much a victim in this whole ordeal as the Queen, Henry obviously couldn't be the one to begin accusations of the sinful relationship. He sent his right-hand man to plead with the Pope that God had cursed the royal marriage on the grounds that Henry and Catherine were, in the eyes of God, brother and sister. His evidence - no children! (He overlooked Mary, their daughter, as she was, unfortunately, not a son.) With the wheels set into motion, Henry ran to Catherine all in a panic, tears streaming down his face, so distraught to tell his wife that "learned (intelligent) and pious" men were setting out to find their marriage invalid. Catherine was aghast and bewildered; remembering the embarrassing ordeal it had been to obtain the permission to marry Henry. Promising his love and support Henry bent on one knee as he forced more tears and told his wife, his "beloved wife", that if it was true, that their marriage was cursed by God, being the spirit-filled man that he was, that he would have to make amends and leave her lest the wrath of God continue. Cue more tears.

The battle was on! Catherine, not knowing that Henry was really at the heart of the matter hurriedly sent a note to the Holy Roman Emperor, who just happened to be her nephew, Charles, pleading for his help. He contacts the Pope, who has already told Henry's messenger that the marriage is legal, considering the dispensation for Henry to marry Catherine was signed and legitimized by none other than the Pope himself. Catherine learns that it is in fact, Henry behind the scandal and his reasoning. He wanted to marry another! He lovingly offers and pleads with her to retire to a nunnery and allow him to marry Anne. Catherine, being in love with her husband and refusing to be shamed, pleads her case when a Papal legate is sent to England to hear the trial. On June 21st, 3 weeks after the institution of the tribunal, Queen Catherine stood up from her throne, gracefully walked over to Henry's throne, and fell at Henry's feet. She kneeled and begged Henry not to divorce her and insisted she loved and served only him. Once again, she declared that she had never been intimate before they were married. Perhaps the next scene is even more powerful:

"When she had finished, Queen Catherine rose up, she swept her husband a low curtsey, and leaning on the arm of her gently-man usher, Griffeth Richards, moved slowly out of the court. The official court crier called after her - three times. At last her nervous usher ventured to say to her: 'Madam, ye be called again.' 'It matters not', replied the Queen, 'this is no indifferent [unprejudiced] court for me. I will not tarry.'

With all the grace and dignity as only a true queen could possess, she left the room as silence fell around her.

This committee refused to make a decision and submitted it to the Pope. He in turn finds the marriage entirely valid, and Henry is absolutely outraged. In a strange turn of events, or perhaps the last-ditch effort on Anne's part to be queen, she becomes Henry's mistress and quickly becomes pregnant. Knowing that the baby will be a boy, Henry had to think of a way to get the current wife out, the future wife in, and his coming son legitimized. He decides to split from the Holy Roman Church and begin a new church in which he is the leader. Not only would he become vastly wealthy by acquiring tithe, become a vessel of the deity on earth, he could do as he pleased with his wife and ignore the Pope's threats of excommunication. So, he divorced his wife of his own authority, was excommunicated, and married Anne.

Think we're done with Henry? Not yet! We're on to wife #2. This story is much, much shorter. Anne is pregnant. Henry is free of Catherine and the Pope. Life is good - that is - until Anne gives birth to a beautiful baby girl! Henry, not even allowing for the fact there would, in all likelihood be other children, is immediately outraged. He was so sure that the baby would be a son. The new marriage is on the rocks. Henry entertains mistresses. Anne pleads to be given another chance to which Henry does. She becomes pregnant again. The months that Anne was pregnant the second time were not nearly as happy as her first pregnancy, knowing that the King expects - or rather - demands a son this time. Unfortunately, Anne gives birth to a dead baby boy. The King, furious, that this is happening all over, decides it's time for a new wife.

So, how does one go about dethroning another queen? It was actually easier the second time around. Henry bribed and coerced men in the Queen's company to bear false witness and confess to having intimate relations with Anne. Those who didn't go along with Henry's plan were killed or exiled. Anne was tried in court for heresy and condemned to death. Henry begged her to admit her crimes so that he could pardon her and save her life. Being the proud woman she was, refused, and was beheaded. And Henry was again free to marry.

So what happened to Henry? He married again of course! Jane Seymour, his third wife, produced a living son. She died shortly after and would be known as his "true and loving wife", his wife of less than 18 months. Henry died knowing his son was there to rule after him, not knowing that his son was soon to die. So who ruled? First, Mary, Henry's daughter by Catherine. After her, Elizabeth, Henry's daughter by Anne. Elizabeth would reign for the next forty years during what would be called the Golden Age. England prospered under her care. Henry was buried with his beloved wife, Jane, mother of his son, not realizing that it would be his daughter, not his son that would sit on the throne of England and would be the last of the Tudor monarchs.

Henry ruled by the Divine right of kings so his behaivour was not a surpise, the king was never wrong here was no Parliament system to keep monarchs in check. Some countries still have absolute monarchy- one could pick a number of English monarchs who bumped people for for thier own gain- hey make Danny look like Mickey mouse Actually, considering what Danny has done and gotten away with without ruling by "divine right" of kings , I think he's definitely in the same category as the ... umhh .. 'more colorful' of the "divine right" kings ...

What would he have done/do if he did rule by "divine right"? Would you like to be within his line of sight?

And by the way, the end of the dynasty is here. Linda was vindicated two days ago. The details just haven't been made public yet. The next three weeks (or so) ought to be interesting! I WILL keep you posted as I'm allowed to share details.

have seen the movie a couple of times. The acting was pretty close to the attitudes of the characters...and if you're wondering - yes, they did call Anne, "Anne of a Thousand Days."

There are also a couple of really good books on the subject..."The other Boleyn Sister" (I think thats what it is called...Remember, Henry had a child with Mary Boleyn - Anne's older sister...) along with several from the same author I believe. I'll have to looke them up and get back to you.

Wow! What a cliff hanger! What do you mean when you said, "...the end of the dynasty is here"? And how and by whom was Linda vindicated?.....Will anxiously wait to hear more from you on this subject.....whenever you are 'free' to do so.

Yes, Barbara, I understand. But, some people go down fighting to the bitter end. I suspect that such is likely to happen. All is not over yet.

Will be praying that God works this all out to His glory.

I am hoping this will be enough for those who have heard these stories and yet chalk it up to quote, "yes I have heard these stories but just chalk it up to a bad divorce". Personally I did not hear this one associate pastor make that comment but it was told to me by someone else..who by the way I dont really think believes it either. So will it be a public announcement type of vindication do you think? It should be since Danny publically tried to ruin Linda and her reputation.

BlackSDA _ 3ABN _ Linda's employment post 3ABN

QUOTE(fallible humanbeing @ Aug 12 2006, 03:07 AM)

Also, your last point involved efforts to keep Linda from seeking employment (you did say seeking, but to clarify - do you mean seeking or gaining). Isn't she continuing with her musical ministry? Of course 3ABN claims they haven't stood in her way of pursuing her ministry or gaining employment. To date, what employment has she lost as a direct result of 3ABN stepping in the way and keeping her from seeking employment.

- fallible

She has been kept from speaking in a great number of Churches. In my own, our Pastor was told by the Conference that she could not speak. I don't know the specifics in the others as to why she was told she could not speak. The same is true for camp meetings.

QUOTE(BrotherBill @ Aug 12 2006, 04:51 PM)

Linda was not permitted legal counsel if she wanted any kind of severence package. It was handled differently. The gag order is not over. As to Linda's willingness to sign documents, she did. Were there extenuating circumstances? Yes. Remember, she was also being divorced at the time.

...and if she wanted any money to live on she had to sign.

I don't fully understand why she is not allowed to speak. What are some possible reasons that would explain this? As an outsider who has no access to any "inside" information into their thinking in this, other than on this forum, here are some possible reasons that I can think of right now:

1) They are afraid of what she might say when she has an audience that could be negative about them or at least not exactly positive.

2) They don't want her to build an "audience" of supporters and/or her sphere of influence by any means, and therefore don't want to give her a platform in which she could do it.

3) They feel that she should not be allowed to speak because she is a sinner (an adulterous) and at fault here, and they (sinners) should have no voice or power in the church.

4) They feel that as a part of, or a side effect of her gag order, that she shouldn't be allowed to speak up front...that this was included (of which it was not if I understand the "gag" order correctly).

Can't think of any other reason right now. What do you guys think could be some possible reasons?

And thanks for the welcome! I've been reading posts and posts and posts for almost 2 weeks now, trying to absorb all of it and make sense of it all. Some things have become clearer to me, but others are still in the process.

Excellent points - and again...that's all we want here - we want people to honestly read everything before formulating an opinion either here or there...then be able to discuss both sides.

You keep on a readin'...and any questions you ask will be answered - as long as you don't have a problem with others asking you questions too ..... We like to use a quote here...."This ain't Sabbath School - we listen here!" - and it is true. We (the collective of BSDA) do listen and enjoy dialogue, asking questions, and answering questions.

Sure I can think of a reason. If Linda is in a visible place of service in the church, it will become apparent that she is not "shacking up somewhere with the doctor" but is living a chaste christian life.

Another reason is that this is a routine business practice corporations require as a condition for a severance package with executives that are dismissed for cause or without cause. Corporations don't want the distraction of dealing with a possible disgruntled ex-employee that could have damaging or embarrassing truthful information but also out of vengeance can spread untruths. 3ABN is just using what leverage it has to protect its name and business interest, nothing unethical in that, I would expect any business to do the same.

Linda did not have to take the money. If she felt if was more important to talk, then she could have done what the rest of have to do when we loose a job. Go and get another one. Don't mean to make light of the situation. It is unfortunate for anyone to loose there job especially a business that you helped create. But that is business and those are always the risk. Can't feel too too sorry for somebody that walks away with two years of salary as severance payment.

I don't buy the story that Linda was prohibited to have an independent legal counsel. This is a free country, you can talk to anybody.

As I have said before about 1,000 post ago; Linda severance/gag order and the jet plane make for weak petty arguments against 3abn.

I don't understand why everybody is so against 3ABN and Danny's lifestyle and pro Linda. Did she not have the same perks that Danny has/had? Did she not have the jet, house, etc? I have issues with how things were handled with Linda and the divorce. Now that Danny is taking a some time off to "soul search" does that make a difference to anyone? What if anything can he do to make things right?

Good point Lurker! As recently as the last few months rumors have been circulated that Linda is vearing a large diamond ring given to her by "the Doctor". Of course this is easy to verify and has no shred of truth in it. Interesting, when the rumor mill is traced to it's original source, it is none other han Danny Shelton. As long as there is a gag order silencing Linda and she is kept from public ministry, the desired effect is for people to believe that every accusation Danny has made against Linda is true and that is why she is banned from speaking appointments within the SDA chruch. That of course is false reasoning, based upon the fact that both the accusations and the mandate to remove Linda from ministry in the SDA church comes from the same source: Danny Shelton.

A little background for this situation: When Linda moved to Springfield Illinois the man filling in as nterim pastor was Lee Grady, a retired SDA pastor in good standing. Lee Grady had also worked at 3ABN in the pastoral department and was a member of the Thompsonville church. The reason Pastor Grady originally came to 3ABN was to support the ministry where his son, Scott, worked as a director. Since leaving 3ABN Scott and his family are working in ministry with David Gates in South America, having grown up as the child of missionary parents, Scott is fluent in Spanish.) Pastor Grady took a stance against Danny Shelton on a certain issue and for refusing to acquiesce to Danny, that was the end of his service in the Pastoral Department. Sooner or later every SDA pastor with a conscience grounded in the Word of God has a similar experience with Danny.

When Linda arrived in Springfield Pastor Grady, a man of experience with both 3ABN and the SDA church, had no difficulty with Linda's involvement in the ministry of the church. Of course one can only imagine the result this had on Danny. This resulted in the associate pastor, John Stanton, from the Thompsonville church (Danny's 3ABN church) and also an on air personality, quickly being dispatched to replace Pastor Grady in Springfield. One of Stanton's first duties was to remove Linda Shelton from functioning in any position in the Springfield SDA church other than pew warming. He claimed the authority to do so came directly from Ken Denslow, the Illinois Conference President.

This is where the story become interesting: what possible reason would Ken Denslow have for this action? Linda was neither under church discipline or disfellowshiped from the church where her membership was held. She had caused no problems in the Springfield church and was accepted by the local congregation and the pastor where she now resided. Well, lets look a little closer at Ken Denslow's relationship with 3ABN: he is a member of their board, his parents are full-time volunteers who spend their time traveling around the country promoting 3ABN (recently Danny has given them a beautiful brand new RV for their travels. This does not exactly make him an independent observer in this situation.

I am sure, if contacted, Pastor Grady would be willing to confirm the situation in Springfield. And could give addtional first person tsetimony in regard to 3ABN.

Lurker you've hit the nail on the head. Considering this background, your explanation is by far the most plausible.

I long for the day Calvin, when you can know the why's of why things were done the way they were. I can tell you that you can't think in "normal" terms with regard to this situation. I know that if it were known, it would no longer be seen as "petty arguments".

I know, it's just my words, but, it's just isn't as simple as you state. Now, hind sight?? I'm sure she would go back and redo things - but then again, if you understand emotional abuse, pressure and more pressure and MORE PRESSURE, along with fear, control and more of same, you can see why a person would not think "normal" in an "abnormal" situation. Things happened VERY fast, and in a shocking manner. It's called "railroaded". When it's all happening, you are in shock as well as everything coming at you - shutting you out and closing you in all at once.

And Uncle Sam,
What people are against is the misleading way that things are "alluded" too from the 3abn menagerie. Though I am not God, and thank goodness for that, I have my SERIOUS doubts that Danny is doing soul searching. It's called, lay low, regroup, not show the stress to the whole world that your world is coming in on you and some serious change is about to occur. I'm sure he thinks, and probably got it on good "advice" that if you are out of the immediate picture, people will somehow stop thinking about you and your true deeds coming out. Out of sight, out of mind thinking. As if there are people that actually are minipulated this way (who'd of thought??!!).

3 ABN has been, and continues to minimize Linda because Danny has clearly defined the sides. You are either with him, or against him. The moment he decided he was done with Linda, she was the enemy and did not deserve to have a job. If Linda were able to speak, the truth might would come out while she still had the following she did. Now, the truth is coming out, but her supporters have been bombarded for 2 + years with one side of the story.

Her gag order did not prohibit Linda from speaking at any meeting, convention, or other function. She just was not allowed to speak negatively about 3ABN. However, she has been prohibited from speaking just the same, presumably because of the assumption of what she would say.

Frankly, I have not seen the documentation from the Conferences, but all of the Pastors in my conference got one that suggested she was too controversial to have speak at the Churches. Of course, probably more consequential is the number of average SDA's who get 3ABN, watch it all the time, and assume she is guilty of adultery. They just don't know any better, and they will not let her come to the Church either.

Not just because she might say something, but because she would be active. It's easier to keep a person under your thumb and out of sight and then carry on looking like the "good guy" in the situation. This has evolved as desperation grew - this is why the letters and attempts have gotten worse and worse against her. If you make a person feel helpless, and then they realize they are not helpless, because they are trusting God to make sense of it all and vindicate you, you continue to do what you love, or try to, in spite of the threats. This is where Dan has come ahead of her and made the calls to threaten people not to take her. There are many stories.

Also, Dan talks out of both sides of his mouth. He will tell one person "i love linda and want her back" and then tell another one the same day "she's this and this and such and such and I never want her in my life again". Tell me, what kind of SANE person would behave this way? A NON-sane one, that's who.

Did he control the money and if so then what recourse did she have save sign an agreement that would give her some money until she could get on her feet....

I agree completely. In my work we issue non-disclosures and non-competes. That is standard business practice. However, if I were to seek to prohibit that person from gaining employment, that is a competely different story. That is the problem I have.

Linda did not have to take the money. If she felt if was more important to talk, then she could have done what the rest of have to do when we loose a job. Go and get another one. Don't mean to make light of the situation. It is unfortunate for anyone to loose there job especially a business that you helped create. But that is business and those are always the risk. Can't feel too too sorry for somebody that walks away with two years of salary as severance payment.

Linda had VERY LIMITED CHOICES. This was a complicated time. She was accused of adultery, betrayed by some of her closest friends, dismissed by her husband, and dismissed by a ministry which she helped to create. She had very limited time to make major decisions, some of which were tied to other major decisions she had to make. It was not just the separation from 3ABN, it was also the separation from her husband. It is easy to second guess her now. I did then, and I sometimes still do now. But none of us will know what she really went through during this embarrassing, hurried, frustrating time.

I don't buy the story that Linda was prohibited to have an independent legal counsel. This is a free country, you can talk to anybody.

As in the case of my business and yours, any "deal" you strike is negotiable. If 3ABN made their deal contingent upon not seeking legal counsel, or at least not having a lawyer negotiate the deal, then in order to accept the deal, she could not have legal cousel. That, in fact, is what happened. Now people can judge whether that was a good deal or a bad one, but it IS what happened during this troubling time.

As I have said before about 1,000 post ago; Linda severance/gag order and the jet plane make for weak petty arguments against 3abn.

I long for the day Calvin, when you can know the why's of why things were done the way they were. I can tell you that you can't think in "normal" terms with regard to this situation. I know that if it were known, it would no longer be seen as "petty arguments".

I know, it's just my words, but, it's just isn't as simple as you state. Now, hind sight?? I'm sure she would go back and redo things - but then again, if you understand emotional abuse, pressure and more pressure and MORE PRESSURE, along with fear, control and more of same, you can see why a person would not think "normal" in an "abnormal" situation. Things happened VERY fast, and in a shocking manner. It's called "railroaded". When it's all happening, you are in shock as well as everything coming at you - shutting you out and closing you in all at once.

You hit it on the head. PRESSURE, MORE PRESSURE, MORE PRESSURE. Like none of us will know. That is the best word to describe that time

That is just it, 3abn is a business. 3abn did not owe Linda any severance nor was she entitled to one. All an employer owes you is a honest days pay for a honest days work. Are you maybe forgetting that supposedly she was joint owner of the business? And that there are laws that make it very difficult for an employer to terminate and employee without just reason? And I suspect that firing because a husband wanted to get rid of his wife would come under some gender discrimination categories that could make things rather sticky if the woman complained to the right agencies.

Everything you said above is absolutely correct. Just as I posted to your former message, your business analogy is spot on. However, after the employer terminates someone, the relationship should be over, subject to any binding agreements, which Linda clearly has. However 3ABN has no right to further limit her ability to work in her field by spreading gossip, half-truths, and down right lies. In this case, 3ABN has no right to, once they hear of a speaking engagement Linda has, pick up the phone and arrange for it to be cancelled.

Someone said earlier that Linda could work elsewhere. That is probably true. But if Linda wants to work in Christian Service in this Church, in Broadcast Network Management, it's just not possible for her given the environment created by 3ABN.

You probably recall the posts in another thread having to do with Linda doing a weekend in Oregon in connection with Polly's Place. Why don't you contact Mabel Dunbar, who is both president of Polly's Place Ministries and Women's Ministries Director for the Upper Columbia Conference, and ask her how much flack she has gotten for her association with and support of Linda? Be specific. Ask her if she has received any threats of loss of funding if she continued to support Linda.

You could also ask Max Torkelson, the President of Upper Columbia Conference, what kinds of reactions he has gotten in regard to Mabel's support and utilization of Linda.

And bring us word.

When Linda arrived in Springfield Pastor Grady, a man of experience with both 3ABN and the SDA church, had no difficulty with Linda's involvement in the ministry of the church. Of course one can > only imagine the result this had on Danny. This resulted in the associate pastor, John Stanton, from the Thompsonville church (Danny's 3ABN church) and also an on air personality, quickly being dispatched to replace Pastor Grady in Springfield. One of Stanton's first duties was to remove Linda Shelton from functioning in any position in the Springfield SDA church other than pew warming. He claimed the authority to do so came directly from Ken Denslow, the Illinois Conference President.

have a problem with this kind of thing whenever I hear of it. The members of the Springfield SDA Church are actually at fault for not knowing how the Adventist church is supposed to function -- he the local congregation in business session is the highest authority in the local church. It s not the pastor's business to dictate who can and cannot take part in local church services!

Jnfortunately too many folks follow any pastor like sheep, without thinking for themselves and without ıcquainting themselves with such sources of information as the Church Manual.

f the Springfield church members had been aware of how their rights and responsibilities, they could ıave/should have overruled the new pastor hastily brought in. Local congregations must understand hat if they allow mistreatment of any one person, any other person may be similarly mistreated.

Neither is the the conference president's business to dictate to the local church who shall hold offices. There is, of course, the possibility of an extreme situation in which the conference in business session (i.e. with delegates from the conference field) may actually disfellowship a whole church from he sisterhood of churches. But they normally have no say over functions of the local church. They may advise, they may counsel, but if they stay true to their mandate, they may not threaten, ınd they cannot force the church to do their bidding. Since the pastor is the liaison between the local church and the conference, he may advise and counsel, but he may not threaten or force the congregation to do what they don't wish to do.

f we would all learn to grasp this principle, we would, of course, have to take responsibility for our own decisions and quit belly-aching over what "the church" does. That would spoil many a whining session.

There, I've finally got that one off my chest ... been meaning to say it ever since I read of this action.

And, yes, I've sat on many a church board. And, yes, I'm not every pastor's favorite board member nor is my DH, I may add). I've opposed a few arbitrary decrees from pastors, to the consternation of he "old faithful" yea-sayers. But the pastors backed down hastily and acknowledged that my point vas correct. (Yeah ... maybe I've been lucky, or ...) All in all, though, I think pastors have and do espect us, and the church functions much better when pastors act as team members, rather than lictators. 3 ABN has been, and continues to minimize Linda because Danny has clearly defined the sides. You are either with him, or against him. The moment he decided he was done with Linda, she was the enemy and did not deserve to have a job. If Linda were able to speak, the truth might would come out while she still had the following she did. Now, the truth is coming out, but her supporters have been bombarded for 2 + years with one side of the story.

Her gag order did not prohibit Linda from speaking at any meeting, convention, or other function. She just was not allowed to speak negatively about 3ABN. However, she has been prohibited from speaking just the same, presumably because of the assumption of what she would say.
Frankly, I have not seen the documentation from the Conferences, but all of the Pastors in my conference got one that suggested she was too controversial to have speak at the Churches. Of course, probably more consequential is the number of average SDA's who get 3ABN, watch it all the time, and assume she is guilty of adultery. They just don't know any better, and they will not let her come to the Church either.

I am tired of pastors not knowing any better. What happened to the Holy Spirit who will lead us into all truth? What happened to the discernment that the Holy Spirit gives us? Are you telling me that our pastors are not praying and receiving guidance from God or are they just not listening and acting on what the Holy Spirit says? By prohibiting Linda from sharing the Word in a public forum, they unwittingly agree with Danny and his cronies along with his marriage to Brandy. Or do they not know any better?

Who are these people who have the nerve to prohibit a child of God from attending his Church or going to his house? This is dangerous. When God says enough, ... have mercy.

The thing that bothers me is that 3ABN is called a business. If what Danny has consistently said about the God above calling him to spread the message throughout the world is accurate, then would one say that God had called him to start a business?. Any man/woman can start a business. Is telling the world about the soon coming Saviour a business? Or is it a challange to do the work of the Lord?. Is the work of the General Conference a business? Or is it a God directed entity whose job it is to prepare the world with the 3 angels message? Was Sister White called by God to start a business, or was she called to further the work of God by sharing and writing the things that God revealed to her? I am deeply troubled by the fact that apparently the Illinois judge has called 3ABN a private Shelton family business (if I read it correctly). and our denomination still stands by the fact that Danny is the 'face of Adventism'

If Danny wants to run a business let him go out and build a profitable organization which will enable him to have all the amenities of a wealthy man. Maybe I am wrong. Of course any Godlike organization has to have structure and bylaws but can we really call it a business? I had always considered 3ABN as God's Network, perhaps founded by Danny and Linda Shelton, but the purpose was not to move, shove or get out of the way. The purpose of the Network was to let the world know that Jesus is coming. How much Gospel was spread by the things that were said these past few days by J. Lomacang and Shelly Quinn?. How many dollars have been spent--dollars which were donated by people who thought they were doing the Lord's work by sacrificing worldly pleasures to tell the world about Jesus? If by any chance new listeners were hearing recent discussions(?) by Lomacang and Quinn--how many of them heard the story of the 3angels message? If I turned that stuff on for the first time I would turn the channel quickly. Maybe they have been thrown off Sky Angel for a purpose at this time.

If 3ABN is a private family business, then it would seem to me that all the assets of the business (?) would have been split properly and Danny and Linda would have each gotten half of whatever the business (?) was worth. How much is this business (?) worth? If I had thought that my donations were being put into the family business I would have never sent them a dime.

Linda was not an employee of 3ABN. She was the co-founder of 3ABN. Do they call Shilling an employee of Enron? I think not. Otherwise he would not be heading for jail.

Here's an interesting revelation, at least it was to me. A while back I saw an appeal from Kay Kuzma referring to "those of us who are 3ABN SHAREHOLDERS". It set me to wondering how many SHAREHOLDERS" there are. And how does one get to become a "SHAREHOLDER"? Did these SHAREHOLDERS" perhaps "buy" each one, a "Position" at 3ABN? Perhaps they should be called CHAIR-HOLDERS" since so many of them sit on a chair in on an advisory board.

What would happen happen to these "CHAIR-HOLDERS" if their investments in 3ABN were to become threatened by "cleaning house". ow many of the BIG WIGS there have "bought" their way into a job of high influence?

How much is this business (?) worth? If I had thought that my donations were being put into the family business I would have never sent them a dime.

This is the key to me. First of all, what is it worth? It seems according to the document in 2000-2001 it was worth around 3.5 mil. How much of that was later used for re-investment in the business, etc. is unclear. Moreover, the designation of a business was partly a result of the particular laws of that state. But all the same, the bigger question is still valid. How many people thought their donation was going to "business-like" use?

How many people anticipated paying for Linda's settlement for instance? If she did commit adultery, why should ministry money go to her? And if not, why would she need a settlement or dismissal?

The other thing that bothers me (and I don't think it is a legal issue), is that they were charging around 600k a year for ministries to buy air time, while making around double that amount in profit. If they want to spread the message, why not cut Amazing Facts, etc. a break? Part of it could be saving for a rainy day, but overall it does look more like a business. That may not be scandal worthy in itself ,but it does bother me. And how many donors know they are doing that?

Again I say, so 3ABN is a business? Does a man have a right to come before millions of people and tell them that he was ordered by God for him to start a "business"? I thought that he has claimed that he was told to build a christian network that would spread an undiluted 3Angels Message to the world. Now, did God instruct him to build a business that would make himself and others rich or was he to spend donations from millions of people to spred the word of God?. Is that a 'business' or is that a 'ministry?" I know that the state of Illinois said that 3ABN is a SHelton family personal business. Then why aren't they paying income taxes to the government just like the rest of us?

Now, how much money is Danny and Brandy going to spend while they are on a break for restoration and revival? Three months--less or more. Who is going to pay while they take 'time out'---the donors of 3ABN or will he use the money that he has accumulated over the years while he was buying houses, horses and jet planes? Somebody is going to pay for the 'vacation'. How many people's savings are going to be sent to Danny so he can revive and reform?

Linda was not an employee--she was a co-founder---she should have been treated like one. Is Danny an employee of 3ABN? Look on the inside of your next program schedule that is sent out. There is a picture of Danny and his title is founder---he was a co-founder-just like Linda.

Good questions summertime .....

Here's another ..... how comes no one is saying anything about restitution? The way I was taught, true repentance brings forth fruit, not only "revival and reform" but restitution of what has been taken wrongly. It's real easy to say "I'm a sinner just like all sinners, and God washes away my sins when I repent and am baptized". But what is "repentence"? I think that is where the Zacchaeus story gives us valuable insights. True repentence is not only confession of sins.... but restitution of what has been taken. And not merely dollar for dollar, but restoring "four-fold". And that not only goes for Danny, but for all of the other "top eschelon" employees who have been paid premium wages and perks for encouraging Danny in his errant ways.

Any operations/organization that receives and disburse monies are businesses. That includes ministries, your local church, GC, etc. Don't get hung up on the type of business, be it a ministry (non-for-profit) or for-profit. 3ABN has employees and is required to withhold taxes, uses double entry accounting to record its transactions, pays bills, deposits funds, has a bank account, does sales and marketing, etc. These are all business functions.

Hi Watchbird,

I was always taught that there are consequences to our actions. At least that's what we spend the first several years of our childrens' lives teaching them.

In a church, if an offense is a public one, then the consequence and restitution needs to be public. It is my personal belief that Danny has gone to far down this road to humble himself in a way that is necessay to change this situation around and make it right. He is a very proud and stubborn man. I think he still believes he'll get away with it.

Considering the Zaccheus story, there is hope for everyone. Zaccheus being a corrupt leader of a corrupt organisation and publicly known for lining his pockets with stolen money could still be troubled over his life and be drawn to Jesus. And upon meeting Jesus melting compleately before Gods mercy. It does not appear that any of the contemporary characters is quite so infamous and perhaps not shameless enough to continue should he/she become widely infamous for it. There is hope for everyone till they curse God and die.

Yes, I noticed. I read that immediately after making my post. It is something that a number of us have discussed at length the last few years ... but it is still something that gets no where near the attention that IMO it deserves to have when people are discussing the situation publicly.

The questions, of course, once one "goes there" are..... What would it take for Danny to make restitution for all the monies he has misappropriated, wasted, or flat out stolen from the offering plates? What would it take in terms of unfair low paid employees just "back pay"? What would it take to replace the employee hour time that has gone into the building and maintaining of Danny's private stables and dwellings? What would it take to replace the months and years of unemployment caused by Danny's spreading of lies and threats to prospective employers of ex-employees? What would it take to replace the reputations tattered, the joy and hopes smashed to smithereens? What would it take? How could it be done ..... even if by some sudden miracle Danny were willing to do so?

And what of his gullible public. If he uses the difficulties and even, let's face it, the impossibilities of making restitution of all these things as an excuse for not giving up all he has..... including ownership of 3ABN and all he has acquired from there..... I say, if he uses all of these mixed with real tears of self-pity and pious proclamations that say on bottom line that these can all be washed away by a dip in the baptismal tank.....

What then. Will people be so confused that they do not see the difference between washing away the guilt of sin (which is possible for the worst sinner) and washing away all balance sheets and debts and obligations so that the debtor walks away exhonerated .... still clutching his ill gained riches in his varous banks?

These are questions that are still to be raised. Let's not let the seeming impossibilities of them keep us from thinking them through and bringing them out in the open.

Normally, I would agree with you because businesses are required to follow Generally Accepted Accounting Principles. (GAAP)

However, 3ABN has chosen not to follow Gaap. Reference the IL vs. 3ABN Property Tax lawsuit. It CLEARLY STATES that 3ABN, a 20 year old corporation, DID NOT follow GAAP.

Then if you compare the lawsuit with the yearly non-profit Income Tax form 990, you will find they have problems with valuation of Assets and with TRUST FUNDS.
Anyone can order copies of their yearly form 990's that have been filed. Anyone can read the 3ABN Tax Lawsuit at:

http://www.revenue.state.il.us/legalinformation/hearings/pt/pt04-1.pdf

Auditors found $2.45 million not even posted in one year and $1.7 in the next year. Yes, I have very STRONG issues about 3ABN TRUST FUNDS. By the way they call them Split Interest Transactions no less! They didn't list them with "TRUST FUNDS" until AFTER the Auditors found it.

Then the auditors said these assets, TRUST FUNDS, were not properly valued. Hummmmm.

Wake up viewers. This is the HABIT of 3ABN! Follow what Danny says. Forget those GAAP rules! They do not exist for Danny & LINDA'S 3ABN. Half is hers!

agree completely. I think that all of his cohorts think that if he steps out of the limelight for a few days or weeks, and then comes back professing to have had a "mountaintop experience" with God and that he sees that he was wrong in the way he handled his ex-wife's infidelity ... and gives a teary eyed confession for that "wrong" ... .then tops it off with a dip in the tank ... that he will be joyfully acclaimed, his "anointed" status will be not only returned but enhanced, and it will be "business" as usual for his Pentecostal league of 3ABN directors. (Did you notice that Mollie was already laying the groundwork for this in her announcement of their plans to have another gala "Ten Commandments weekend" next year?

Another point that goes along with this is the matter of trust once someone has proven himself to be untrustworthy. In the business world, once a man has been caught with his hand in the till, that man is never given a job that involves handling money again. Danny has proven, I think, beyond a shadow of a doubt that he has betrayed the trust that people have put in him. Notice Fran's information on finances. Therefore, I think the only acceptable solution is for Danny to be permanently separated from 3ABN.

Unless .....

He refuses to do that. And in that case I think the church should permanently and completely separate from him and let him and his Pentecostal partners to go on their own as a frankly Pentecostal network. If he tries too many shenanigans in that venue .... well, they have watchdog organizations that will catch up with him sooner or later.

Posted by: princessdi Aug 16 2006, 03:33 PM

Calvin, you are exactly right! It IS a business. However, the problem comes in that they only use that when it benefits them. Danny is really glad that you understand his position on this matter. In fact, I am sure he was counting on some level headed business people to help convince everyone else that what he did to Linda was "business as ususal", therefore not wrong.

This is, however, the problem, 99% of the time they are on TV they are promoting themselves as a ministry, knowing full well the common lay person will not connect business and ministry. We assign them both a certain set of values and behaviors. Now while, as an employee 3ABN has covered all of their legal bases, for now, with Linda. As a "ministry" which calls itself a leader in christian[and moral] living, what they did was deplorable. Christian living is based on the fact that we don't do things like the world. In particular in Adventism we worry folks to death about eating meat and their clothes, jewelry. How can we then retreat into acceptance to a less than ethical worldly business practice. Steve is right Donald Trump and Will Smith, and others, did a far better job of being 'Christian[moral]" in their treament of their ex wives than Danny has, and we don't really considered either of them to be christian. By law, they both could have done a lot less and still been within their legal rights, but they took the moral high ground. One who even did them one better is Bernie Mac, who divorced his wife in November 2005, let it be announced once this year and said that is all I am going to say. She is till the mother of my child.

Even if the 3ABN board(the true bsuiness end) wanted to treat Linda in such a manner, Danny should have been using his influence over them to discourage that. 3ABN is a buisness their marriage was not, at least to Linda.

If that is even good buisness as usual, I want to see Danny be booted out and take only $250,000.00. We will be back to "I am the founder" before we know it, we will hear nothing about Danny being an employee.

Some interesting reading in this document that Fran provided...

QUOTE

p28 First, the record in Inter-Varsity shows that the fellowship based the price of each publication that it sold strictly on its cost to the fellowship. Id. at 800, 803. The record contains absolutely no evidence proving how 3ABN determines the prices of the satellite dishes, videos, airtime, CD's and other items that it sells other than Danny Shelton's testimony that the pricing guide applicant uses for sales of its videos, CD's etc. is "that they are affordable." (Tr. pp. 168-170). Absent this evidence, I must resolve all failures of proof against the applicant and in favor of taxation. People ex rel. Norland v. Home for the Aged, 40 Ill.2d 91 (1968); Gas Research Institute v. Department of Revenue, 154 Ill.App.3d 430 (1st Dist. 1987). Therefore, I conclude that applicant employs a non-exempt commercial or retail pricing system unlike the Inter-Varsity Fellowship pricing method.

Second, the Inter-Varsity record specifically disclosed that the fellowship provided "a substantial amount of materials free or below cost to groups that are targeted for its message." Inter-Varsity, supra, at 803. Specifically, the fellowship gave away no less than 10% of its total publications free of charge and sold an unspecified amount of its literature "at half price to individuals with the idea that they would give the books away." Id. at 800.
Such is not the case here. Applicant did not establish that they gave anything away free except for the catalogues that list the merchandise that is for sale. In addition, absent evidence to the contrary, I conclude that at least one private individual, Linda Shelton, profits from the sale of items listed in the catalogue. Applicant's board has no written policy to give away or donate 29 its satellite systems, nor was a clear policy even articulated through oral testimony. Rather, if an individual were unable to pay the cost of the system, applicant's secretary would contact Danny Shelton who would determine, with the board's guidance, whether the product should be given away. "Applicant has no policy that says give away." (Tr. pp. 295-303).
In fact, applicant has no records of materials given away in 2000 or 2001. Applicant has no specific written policy that outlines what factors are used or what direction is given by applicant's board or president that allows applicant to distribute items at a reduced rate or free of charge. (Tr. pp. 586-589, 614-616). Applicant has, therefore, failed to establish that the facts relied upon by the Inter-Varsity court to grant the exemption therein are present in this case.

Hi, CJO:

Thanks for your note. How do you use the virgin coconut oil and where do you get it? Do you have to take it on a monitoring dosage or can you just take it when you need it? You may have answered these questions, but it looks like some of your message was lost . . . anyway, thanks for the suggestion. I will check on the possibilities. Blessings, Tana

Have I missed something? There is a lot of discussion that seems to imply that Danny is on his way out. (By the way - I'm not heartbroken over the possibility! Just curious.)

And IF Dan severs himself from 3ABN - do you honestly think there will be restitution? If that subject were given a moment's consideration by the board I'd be surprised. To pay restitution would imply wrongdoing now wouldn't it?! The pres is definity not going to admit to anything of the sort.

BlackSDA _ 3ABN _ Fallible's questions regarding 3ABN

Posted by: fallible humanbeing Aug 10 2006, 10:12 PM

"sister"

I have to wonder how God and His Son Jesus must feel sitting in heaven watching this kind of nonsense - and it truly is the epitome of the word since it is devoid of any Christian common sense.

Now if you and everyone involved here wants to sit back and have some "fun" at the expense of other human beings fine - but don't do it in the guise of The Lord's Work. Unless I have missed a chapter or verse I don't recall ever reading in the Bible that it is another human beings responsibility to defame, demean, or pass judgement against another child of God on this earth. God calls sin by it's name, that is His right and we are to call it by its name - but in our own lives! Have you extricated the plank from your own eye, any of you - I know I haven't and I pray daily to be able to remove my hands from it and let God's hands remove it permanently.

Quite honestly this (and the other threads in the 3ABN section) smack of the pious rich man thanking God that he wasn't like the poor sinner.

If your accusations are true - and based on reading all the posts in these threads over the past few months there is a significant lack of voracity for the truth here - then do not fear reprisal and make your identity known. You call for truth and evidence and a forthcoming spirit from the "other side" - I challenge you to make the first step! Post a picture, a real name, all the other information that would give credence to your claims. Lest anyone respond with a comment of "hypocrisy" here, if "sister" and all the other nameless souls here will come out of hiding - so will I.

If you are about God's work - then be about it. But if you are about your own - vengence, spite, anger, condemnation then move your vendeta somewhere else - only you know why you would take God's work and turn it into a trivialized game for which you are the master decision maker.

All of us - get off the computer, go to our neighbors, pray with them, show them the true love of God and hasten His return. What is accomplished here - nothing! What new soul is lead to the all ways forgiving love of the Father by your hours spent here - none. Come here - lift each other up, deepen your love relationship with your Saviour and take this glow to others - stop the hate, stop the false accusations, stop the salacious innuendo, stop being about the Devil's business. Be about God's - loving them that hate you, despise you, speak ill will of you, persecute you . . . Let God heal the pain in your soul that leads you here to wreak havoc on the lives of others and lead even more down the path of backbiting, gossip, and slander.

Lift God up, lift your fellow man up, lift your own soul up to Him who can heal you and make you whole! Lay your heart bare on the alter for His cleansing touch. Leave behind the work of the Dark One and lay hold to the light, the Light at the end of the world - Jesus. Be happy. Be assured that God IS in control - not me, not you, not any of the other posters here, not Danny, the Board, the Conferences or Unions or Divisions. God's people are in His hands - the world IS His and He will make all right.

My Hope is in Him - not myself,

PD,

Will update you on the neighbors as we grow. But, I am not a novice either to discussion boards or to this topic - if you are in the SDA church in the NAD you really can't have been immune to it (well, maybe, but I might be surprised).

I don't have problems with questions and the seeking of answers - my dad always taught me not to fear questioning - even God if I had to - but I had to be ready for the answer, especially if it is one I don't like.

This question, as honestly innocent as it may seem, with the context of all the hyperbole here could have been asked outside the board and then, if the evidence was substantial it could be brought here. It seems more an attempt to add fuel to an already raging inferno - and here in lies another pitfall of online dialogue, I don't know the poster. I don't know if he can be trusted to ask an innocent question, or if he is attempting to roil things up further. I don't know if he admits that we all have skeletons in our closets - none of us qualified to pass judgement on our fellow man. I know nothing of him - thus my original post was merely an attempt to ferret out motive, as this is the only thing, being new here, I can go on.

Sitting silently and watching doesn't seem to mesh with your point that he was merely asking a question because, quite frankly, so was I. Asking for some support that would lead to this being a viable discussion.

Thanks for the welcome - everyone loves the person who hugs you on the way into church.

You will see in subsequesnt posts that more research is suggested after no one had an answe to the question. You can't tell someone how to phrase their posts. BB Asked the question, and so far, you are the only one who misunderstood. You may consider observing for a while longer, so you can get a "feel" for the site. I see where you have been visiting and reading, but you may not have comprehended the gravity of the situation being discussed. I understand that it is a lot to take and hard to believe all at once. Take your time and consider the information here with a clear mind.

Also, if you have information to add or refute that which is already been posted, please share.

BTW, Welcome to BSDA! Glad to you decided to join our Family! See you when you get back from visitng your neighbors! Take care!

PP

I think that on a basic level the process of divorce, whether you are the one who wanted it or not is really not material here because the research shows that it is painful to all involved.

Losing ones job, again justifiable termination or being cut from the herd doesn't matter - it is all painful and tiresome to the spirit.

And, quite honestly I am admitting nothing - I can't, I haven't made a claim either direction until my first post to you, so there is no admitance here only a statement of my thoughts. To admit that Linda has been through much would insinuate I had made a claim other wise - which of course I have not.

Human suffering isn't unique to Linda or Danny or you or me. It is the reality of the fallen world we live in. People don't "do things to us." We choose our emotions, our reactions, our words - no one makes us swear at the individual who cuts us off dangerously in traffic, no one makes us think them ill will, no one makes us mad - we choose it - ALWAYS! Our words, our actions, our thoughts, our responses are always of our own creation and devise and never the fault of someone else. We are only responsible for our own thoughts and words and deeds - and accountable to God.

So, has Linda been through some hard times? Very hard. Has she seen her life change drastically? Absolutely. Has she lost favor in the sight of her God - who knows? God does and that is all that matters.

But if you were honest, you would have to admit that many of the others who have been involved whose names have been defamed and characters impuned have been through just as much. If you deny this - you place yourself in the seat of judgement, a place I can not join you.

His Will

PP,

Just an addendum to my recent post.

When I said people don't do things to us, I mean just that. People do things - usually with their own best interest at heart, sometimes without thinking - but never to us. Infact we are probably the last person on their mind when they do things.

We can hope and pray that people are driven of the Spirit - but we can not know (go ahead quote "by their fruits ye shall know them") - the human growing season is called a life time, and most of our fruits are never known until we are gone.

So, don't worry so much about what the other guy is doing - what are YOU doing to spread the love of God through all the earth so we can go home? Share because maybe I can learn something about bringing souls to Christ.

I am not "sister," and this is from one "fallible human being" to another ...

QUOTE(fallible humanbeing @ Aug 10 2006, 11:12 PM)

"sister"

I have to wonder how God and His Son Jesus must feel sitting in heaven watching this kind of nonsense - and it truly is the epitome of the word since it is devoid of any Christian common sense.

You would demonstrate considerably more "common sense" if you showed evidence of having read and understood what has been shared on this board by eye witnesses, including "sister." (As it is, you sound more like an alter ego of Danny and his cohorts ...)

Since we are all "fallible human beings," some posts on this board may not always demonstrate truth or the right spirit, but there is enough factual material here to demonstrate that the work of God is being dragged in the filth by those who are seeking to profit thereby.

\h, yes, indeed! But you clearly missed the very beginning of the current installment of the Shelton ;aga -- the defamation, demeaning and judgement passed on Linda Shelton by Danny and his cohorts. 'his wasn't just a matter of something that happened two years ago, but it has continued to this day ›y public (on camera) insinuations and asides by Dan Shelton himself.

'he Bible contains some of the best psychology around. When Paul asks, "Who are you, Oh man, who udges, when you are doing the same things?" he was referencing a law of the mind -- that we are nost likely to accuse others of what we are doing ourselves. And, of course, that's what Dan Shelton lid and continues to do. This wasn't so clear two years ago, but it's abundantly clear now that he has narried his 'young thing' after discarding his wife of 20 years and excluding her from the ministry she ıelped found and build. Except for fund raising (if you can call it that), Linda did more for 3ABN during ıer tenure there than Dan ever did, in my opinion. But, at his word, with the backing of deep pockets, .inda was simply ousted, demeaned, slandered and harassed. And the harassment has continued for hese two years ...

I see that "sister" has aroused your supreme ire by casting this review of salient facts into the form of a "game." You may not know that this is an excellent teaching method. And it's working. People are putting the pieces of the puzzle together. And I have a hunch that it's at a point where people who need to do something are actually "getting it." Further developments to follow ..

You also appear to be forgetting a few stories and counsels in the Bible. I suggest you review the story of Achan, for instance. The concept of sharing the guilt of sins we could prevent/expose is biblical. You might check out what Ezekiel has to say on the subject. Somewhere in this forum is a quote by Ellen White on the same subject as well, if that means anything to you.

Again, what you say may apply to you and your post. But you are assuming that the folks posting here are not sharing Jesus with their neighbors. And you are assuming that what is said here is simply a waste of time. You may be wrong on both counts.

Much of your advice below is good. However, I disagree with your assumption that the exposure of evil done in the name of the Lord is the devil's work. The Lord is looking for honest and true souls in His service -- men who in their inmost souls are true and honest, men who will stand for the truth though the heavens fall, men who do not fear to call sin by its right name. He doesn't need "great men" or TV stars who are more interested in power, prestige and money than in ministering. Sometimes He uses poor "fallible human beings" to bring down those who are using the truth of God for profit and personal aggrandizement.

My prayer is that somehow the Lord Almighty will use the testimony of these poor "fallible human beings" who know from experience the scandalous abuse hidden behind a veneer of "service" at 3ABN to root out the evil and bring honor to God rather than dishonor.

fallible,
if you would actually sit down and read all of the posts you would see that we are just people seeking answers.. some of us do have first hand experience. i will say that i worked there for a while... you may ask why we aren't more open with exactly who we are... and if you are asking this question than you don't know much about Danny or how he operates.. for safety reasons i think a lot of us have remained anonymous for the time being..
i am not ashamed of who i am nor am i deliberately trying to hide myself.. i hope that you will eventually see this board as i see it... a group of loving, caring people who are just seeking answers and the truth...

First of all,

Welcome to the BSDA.

As to your question:

In your original posting, you didn't call it "evidence." You called it "semblance of realistic weight ."

Therefore, my answer also used the phrase "semblance of realistic weight."

The "realistic weight" is that:

Danny Shelton has served as the main fund raiser and some will say that a three-month leave is rather long to go without your main fund-raising person.

Large, deferred, gifts go through the Trust Services department. So, we'lll know soon enough what happened to the Trust Services Department, if anything.

As for the speculation, this is a really a discussion board, not a court room. We're not here to submit "evidence" into court. So, please note that I never used the word "evidence."

Once again,

Welcome to BSDA

Do you live on the same planet I do? I can spread the word and love of Jesus AND also call wrong where I see it. There is evil all around us, some of it is disquised unless you look a bit closer, and there are most definitely times to say NO because that is FALSE teaching. How can you know what is true and false unless you look at it? It's not about "worrying", it's about using your brain.

Since your post appears to be directed toward me personally, I will answers some of your concerns. I will deal specifically with those that I have bolded from the quoted text above.

I. I don't recall ever reading in the Bible that it is another human beings responsibility to defame, demean, or pass judgement against another child of God on this earth.

Considering the charges you have made against me, I am surprised at this statement. For is this not exactly what you have chosen to do in regard to me? Am I not a child of God and you have passed judgement against me. If you refer to the posts I have written concerning 3ABN, I have become like the "watch man on the wall" who warns the camp of Spiritual Israel of those who claim to represent God, yet their behavior is diametrically opposed to the laws of God. We are not called to bear judgement upon the issue of an individuals salvation, but we are instructed that we can recognize a tree by the fruit it bears. It is not defamation of Danny Shelton's character when I warn others to beware for the safety of the female members of their families because a young woman has given a sworn, written testimony that he molested her. I have not committed slander nor libel against any of the individuals of whom I have written or spoken about because to do so I would have to bear false witness against them, I have only written the truth.

2. If your accusations are true - and based on reading all the posts in these threads over the past few months there is a significant lack of voracity for the truth here - then do not fear reprisal and make your identity known. You call for truth and evidence and a forthcoming spirit from the "other side" - I challenge you to make the first step! Post a picture, a real name, all the other information that would give credence to your claims. Lest anyone respond with a comment of "hypocrisy" here, if "sister" and all the other nameless souls here will come out of hiding - so will I.

First of all I have made no accusations, I have primarily written narratives recounting situations that have occurred at 3ABN or in the lives of individuals involved in leadership positions in order to enlighten the reader concerning what takes place behind the scenes at 3ABN. BSDA has given the "other side" an equal opportunity to present evidence in this situation. The fact there has been no response from the principle individuals involved is not my responsibility, but tends to lend credence to the truth of my presentations. You challenge me to reveal my identity, in order to know your identity, this is of no interest to me. My emphasis is on relating truth in regard to the situation at 3ABN, not in gaining notoriety for myself. It is the message that is important, not the messenger. What gives credence to my claims is not my identity, but the affirmation of other witnesses that have knowledge of the same facts.

3. What is accomplished here... stop the hate, stop the false accusations, stop the salacious innuendo, stop being about the Devil's business... Let God heal the pain in your soul that leads you here to wreak havoc on the lives of others and lead even more down the path of backbiting, gossip, and slander.

I will address the above comments as a group. Hopefully, what is accomplished here is giving the reader the opportunity to separate truth from error. And the desire to have further investigation and action emanating from the leadership of the Seventh-day Adventist Church in regard to a ministry that claims to represent it to the World. I have no hate in my heart, only sadness for the victims of these predators and for these abusers who continue down a path that can only lead to destruction. I pray for God's healing for all who have been involved in this situation. About the Devil's business? No, it is not I who has wreaked havoc upon the lives of others, nor have I lead others down the path of backbiting, gossip or slander. I have been an advocate for those who, through fear of reprisal, have not had the opportunityto tell their story publicly.

Fallible humanbeing, by your choice of persona you have implied that you are capable of error in judging others, as are we all. In the context of my writing on BSDA, rather than judge, I have chosen to present facts in a way that softens the impact of the information. For those of us who have worked or lived within the 3ABN compound there is the possibility of losing hope. Like the martyrs in the book of Revelation, we ask the Lord, "How long?" For some it is only the grace of God that gives them the courage to continue on. What damage has been done to Danny Shelton? Very little compared to the shame and memories that the girl he molested will carry with her the rest of her life.

A young lady walked along a path in the woods. The sun was shining, and the birds were singing. she saw where someone had diverged from the path and created a shortcut. "Aha!" she said to herself. "I will save a little time here." The shortcut was heavily flowered, and the way looked even better than the established path. "See?" she thought, "Somone has finally become smarter than the people who run this forest, and created something that really works better for the denizens of the woods.

She walked merrily down the shortcut path enjoying the many flowers that didn't seem to grow on the regular path. "Oh, every body really should start following this path" she thought, "It is so much more efficient and the way to the end is so much quicker." Suddenly she found herself sinking in a quicksand bog. As she started to sink, she noticed that past the bog, the flowers were thick with thorns. turning her head, she finally noticed that so were the flowers that she had passed along her way. Grabbing at a thorny vine which tore her hands to shreds, she slowly pulled herself out of the quicksand, and hurried back to the main path. "I must warn the others" she thought.

As many people came along the path and noticed, with delight, the shortcut, she cried out, "Please, don't take the shortcut. those flowers you see are covered with thorns, and there is a quicksand bog in which you will drown. Please! Stay on the path!"

"This horrible woman is telling a bunch of rumors!" many of the people groused. "She is trying to keep a great thing from happening. Yes, she may have thought she experienced something bad, but we can see that this path is strewn with flowers, and it is a faster route to the destination. She is a rumor-mongering, tale-spreading hussie for saying such things about something that is such a blessing. Look at all the happy people walking down that path. She should be stoned for trying to divert us from the true path."

Many people walked down that path, were torn by thorns, and fell into the bog. Some pulled themeselves out by the thorny vine, and others sunk to their demise, choosing to believe they were still on the better path, and still shouting back that the path was beautiful.

Tremendous abuse was heaped on the woman who chose to warn the people about the shortcut, but many lives were saved by her warnings, and this, to her, was worth the abuse she suffered day after day.

I think that on a basic level the process of divorce, whether you are the one who wanted it or not is really not material here because the research shows that it is painful to all involved.

I think it is material, if it comes along with a world-wide trashing of your name, reputation, and employability. This is what happened to Linda Shelton.

QUOTE

Losing ones job, again justifiable termination or being cut from the herd doesn't matter - it is all painful and tiresome to the spirit.

It would matter if it happened to you and you lost your employer's health insurance plan when you needed it, as did Linda Shelton. It would be painful to more than just your spirit to need medical care without insurance.

QUOTE

> And, quite honestly I am admitting nothing - I can't, I haven't made a claim either direction until my first post to you, so there is no admitance here only a statement of my thoughts. Not sure what you mean here, since you said, "Granted, Linda has been through much...."

Our words, our actions, our thoughts, our responses are always of our own creation and devise and never the fault of someone else. We are only responsible for our own thoughts and words and deeds - and accountable to God.

I think that the Church of Christ Scientist says something like that: "We choose it by our thoughts."

Personally, I think people do bad things to us all the time (as Sonshineonme has stated in the post just above this one). That's why we have jails and prison farms and why we must buy theft insurance.

Many other people are losing their reputations because people reap what they sow. Since Linda was defamed and her character impugned, I'm not surprised that Danny Shelton and his cohorts are now reaping what they sowed.

I just finished watching the two-hour "3ABN Live" program. I thought I heard Danny say, briefly, that he and Brandy were leaving 3ABN for an absence of two or three months.

This has the semblance of realistic weight when Mr. Shelton said it, himself, assuming I heard right.

My husband said that he thought that Danny and Brandy were taking three months leave of absence. I listened to most of "3ABN Live"; they sounded desparate or different. My husband who listens to 3ABN commented on something being wrong or some kind of problem. The truth is coming to the light. I have heard more (per capita) about funds for 3ABN today than ever before.

By the way, is Brandy on the program for training? They seem to be trying to encourage and/or include Brandy, but she does not seem to get it. [Something is missing.] There is trouble in paradise.

Now if you and everyone involved here wants to sit back and have some "fun" at the expense of other human beings fine - but don't do it in the guise of The Lord's Work. Unless I have missed a chapter or verse I don't recall ever reading in the Bible that it is another human beings responsibility to defame, demean, or pass judgement against another child of God on this earth. God calls sin by it's name, that is His right and we are to call it by its name - but in our own lives! Have you extricated the plank from your own eye, any of you - I know I haven't and I pray daily to be able to remove my hands from it and let God's hands remove it permanently.

Quite honestly this (and the other threads in the 3ABN section) smack of the pious rich man thanking God that he wasn't like the poor sinner.

Something is obviously happening that has pressured Danny Shelton into taking this leave of absence, which, hopefully, will end up being a permanent leave of absence.

Is this leave of absence like when President Bush takes a vacation? He is still "running the country" just not in the White House???

"sister"

I have to wonder how God and His Son Jesus must feel sitting in heaven watching this kind of nonsense - and it truly is the epitome of the word since it is devoid of any Christian common sense.

Now if you and everyone involved here wants to sit back and have some "fun" at the expense of other human beings fine - but don't do it in the guise of The Lord's Work. Unless I have missed a chapter or verse I don't recall ever reading in the Bible that it is another human beings responsibility to defame, demean, or pass judgement against another child of God on this earth. Quite honestly this (and the other threads in the 3ABN section) smack of the pious rich man thanking God that he wasn't like the poor sinner.

If your accusations are true - and based on reading all the posts in these threads over the past few months there is a significant lack of voracity for the truth here - then do not fear reprisal and make your identity known. You call for truth and evidence and a forthcoming spirit from the "other side" - I challenge you to make the first step! Post a picture, a real name, all the other information that would give credence to your claims. Lest anyone respond with a comment of "hypocrisy" here, if "sister" and all the other nameless souls here will come out of hiding - so will I.

If you are about God's work - then be about it. But if you are about your own - vengence, spite, anger, condemnation then move your vendeta somewhere else - only you know why you would take God's work and turn it into a trivialized game for which you are the master decision maker.

All of us - get off the computer, go to our neighbors, pray with them, show them the true love of God and hasten His return. What is accomplished here - nothing! What new soul is lead to the all ways forgiving love of the Father by your hours spent here - none. Come here - lift each other up, deepen your love relationship with your Saviour and take this glow to others - stop the hate, stop the false accusations, stop the salacious innuendo, stop being about the Devil's business. Be about God's - loving them that hate you, despise you, speak ill will of you, persecute you . . . Let God heal the pain in your soul that leads you here to wreak havoc on the lives of others and lead even more down the path of backbiting, gossip, and slander.

Lift God up, lift your fellow man up, lift your own soul up to Him who can heal you and make you whole! Lay your heart bare on the alter for His cleansing touch. Leave behind the work of the Dark One and lay hold to the light, the Light at the end of the world - Jesus. Be happy. Be assured that God IS in control - not me, not you, not any of the other posters here, not Danny, the Board, the Conferences or Unions or Divisions. God's people are in His hands - the world IS His and He will make all right.

My Hope is in Him - not myself,

Except possibly within an online discussion where not all posts are read, context is often absent, and tossing out something like that can be misconstrued as "truth" as a discussion starter.

For instance, what "IF" I posted here and claimed that I knew you were the wife of the Lake Region Conference President and you had a personal axe to grind with one of the employees of 3ABN. But - I began it this way:

"I heard that PrincessDi is the wife of the Lake Region Conference President, and she had a run in with so-and-so at 3ABN and THAT is why she is so vehemently against 3ABN and its ministry - can anyone tell me if this is true?"

Now, a wander in here who happens across it but doesn't bother to see if there is any support or denial of this statement might just very well head out the door with this tidbit in their minds as truth.

Online dialogue is dangerous.

- fallible

Only to those who don't know... but seeing that there are many here who know each other not just as names on a computer screen but in real life as well, those of us who know Di outside of BSDA would tell you to put down the crack pipe and slowly back away... and that would be enough folk that those who didnt know would realize that you were out of your tree for saying something like that.

The same applies to the 3ABN issue. This is just not a bunch of church folks gossiping at a potluck; the ones talking about things going on there are people who know Danny Shelton and who have worked with him for years... It's people who have been members of the 3ABN board... it's people who are in his family. If it was one or two people, you could credibly say maybe is a disgruntled ex-employee or what have you... but for you to say, in spite of the growing mountain of evidence that you see nothing credible, then you need to change the first part of your screen name from 'fallible' to 'gullible'... and while you're at it... I have a bridge to sell you in Brooklyn... cash please, in small bills...

In His service,
Mr. J

To all those who have so far made the assumption that this is Danny - or even in anyway connected to Danny, the board, or 3ABN - sorry to disappoint you.

I am not Danny, I am not a board member, I am not anyone who is in anyway attached to 3ABN. I am a simple lay person who has read all the posts here, the novella The Televangalist and the The Unofficial History of 3ABN, as well as listened to 3ABN for years, read threads on other forums, read the fund raising materials from Danny and Linda, and have listened to this discussed extensivly at potlucks and in the foyers of a number of churches. So my thoughts are based on much information. Here I see one side of the story and as far as I can tell only one side. The occassional email from Danny or Dr. Thompson or Kay Kuzma does not qualify as giving balance to the discussion.

The fact that all so far disagree with me doesn't matter. You can attack my character, my intellect, my position - but I still do not have to agree with you to be right. As a matter of fact I am not here to be right - just to partake in this discussion. I won't apologize for not agreeing with some of the things said here, the tactics taken, or the untruths presented. Are there truths here - my lifes experience tell me probably. Do the people here know the "whole" story - oncde again experience tells me No - unless you were in the pocket of Danny or Linda each and every day of their lives together and heard each and ever conversation, witnessed each and every action.

Humans easily leave out details - intentional or unintentional it still happens. I don't profess to know all the details - can't. But what I do know is that 3ABN as reached tens of thousands of souls for Christ (as have the programs coming out of California).

I will apologize in advance if I don't respond to each and every one of your posts individually - but with so many of you on that side of the aisle and myself over here, seemingly alone, I will do my best to respond to you - unless of course it is to tell me to go on vacation or some other nonsense.

I will ask you questions and seek to hear more from this one side of the story in an effort to make a decision for myself. If I don't buy what you're selling - you'll havce to deal with it, maybe don't bother answering or responding, but don't expect me to buy your wares lock, stock and barrel. Don't expect me to not ask questions or even challenge you because I want to know for myself and will not accept the thoguht of another as my own.

PT,

Just so you can rest easy know that I have read all the posts I can access here, read the novella The Telecvangalist and the lengthier Unofficial History of 3ABN as well as materials from 3ABN, the 3ABN website, mailings from 3ABN, listened to conversations at potlucks and in the foyers of churches. I have talked to pastors, church leaders and anyone I thought might be able to give me information.

I am sorry if this doesn't enable you to make it seem if I am uninformed, uneducated, and unable to take part in this conversation - but I am not lost here. So if I don't agree with you, that is something you will have to grapple with - I am going to ask questions, I am going to listen - but don't expect me to believe you just because you say something, just because you say it is from personal experience. I may give you the benefit of the doubt - but I may very well disagree with you outright. I will make my own decision on this issue and not be badgered, belittled or shouted out. I want to know the truth - and quite frankly don't feel I have gotten it fully from anywhere - including here.

I don't konw if I will see this space the way you described it - but I am open to that possiblity. Currently I don't. But, time can change things.

Clay,

Did any of the martyrs in this earths history stand behind a false identity. If what is spoken is the truth then speak that hard truth with your own mouth, and your face seen.

A few quotes from Emerson come to mind here:

"Whoso would be a man (and I would add - or a real woman), must be a nonconformist... It is easy in the world to live after the world's opinion; it is easy in solitude to live after our own; but the great man (or woman) is one who in the midst of the crowd keeps with perfect sweetness the independence of solitude."

"Speak what you think now in hard words and to-morrow speak what to-morrow thinks in hard words again, though it contradict every thing you said to-day... Your genuine action will explain itself and will explain your other genuine actions. Your conformity explains nothing."

There doesn't seem to be any openness here to a dissenting voice - even one who only claims to not be buying the entirety of either sides story. If this doesn't sit well here then this isn't a forum, but rather a closed discussion where you can only take part if you sign off on the dotted line of perscribed line of thought (not unlike todays political parties I might say).

In God I Trust

- falllible

(and yes I am, and not afraid to admit it, because - - - I have been made whole by my God)

Most of what you said, makes good sense. BUT, I must repeat again, God gave us a brain to decipher, tear apart and see and discover where things go terribly wrong. It is in our nature. This is why you will read, ask questions, etc., as I assume.

What I don't understand about you, and maybe time will take care of this, is why you are not willing to see that you don't have to be in the back pocket of Danny and Linda for 20 years to know what has happened here! There are things that don't and have not made sense for 2.5 years. The psyche tells you something is very wrong. You don't get to get answers to all your questions. You are forced, with the puzzle pieces given, to assess what has happened and go from there. It does not make sense, nor were we made that way, to ignore when your gut says "wait, that doesn't sound right". You pay attention to the signals, signs and "fruits" to know for yourself what has gone wrong.

There are indeed two sides to every story. No one is blameless to some degree. But in some cases, you have a MAJORITY, or a "conspiracy" working behind the scenes to fool those that would be fooled they are a target audience because they WANT to believe what they want to see, based on one side of the story, instead of accepting what they learn if they will take their head out of the sane and seek more information, along with evidence that can also be obtained. You don't have to know every detail. But many of us have been along for the ride for some time now, some WAY back, that have no axe to grind, only that they are appalled that people continue to look away SIMPLY because that is easier, more comfortable, and what happens is the deeds and acts are only perpetuated. In every case like this, time eventually stops and the ride has to end. The ride will end whether you and I agree or not. The truth always finds it's way to the top - for God is indeed in charge.

There are many many people that can give testimony to how things have been run at 3abn, people have been treated and manipulated, and deals made. Like it or not - they exist and my guess is that once fear is removed from the picture, more will be likely to speak up. It's too bad that they feel trapped in fear to speak, but my guess they will be encouraged more and more as time goes by. Keep looking. Get your head out of the "uptopia" sand pit that people want to believe exists, for if people are so easily fooled because they won't take time to know the real story of what happened to Linda, with all the witness', and also the stories of so many others, just think what they will fall for next.

You're right, I don't, and won't. This does make you wrong when people have expirienced things because of others deliberate intentions. You don't become a victim be admitting people have sought out to hurt you - you just learn that there are horrible mean people on the panet. Like I said, how you react is a total different thing. But if you walk around unaware of what people do to each other on this earth, I can see you are not of this planet. I choose not to be scared of you although my instinct tell me you are a provoker rather then a realist. You are indeed missing the point. The mere fact that you have been allowed to post your unedited and uncensored comments here for all to read speaks to the openness of this forum. The fact that many don't agree with you is another matter entirely.

Btw, many of us are not hiding. So spare us the self-righteous indignation. You can step out from behind the tree and show us your face anything, as I and many have done here.

Hey Watchbird,

I addressed this before and will again one more time. I have been part of Adventist forums all the way back to the very first one and am very familiar with the tactics employed to try and wear down those who do not agree with you - sorry they won't work. I want answers and the truth. So expect me to be here for awhile.

I have met Danny three times. I have met Linda just as many times. I have no need to support either one. In short I do not have a personal axe to grind.

If you are unable to accept that someone out there in this big wide world doesn't buy what your selling ad infinitum then just ignore my questions and my part in this discussion and focus on those who will not question you. I am surprised that you have a problem with a truth seeker and want to try and frame them so they can't raise pertinent issues and questions.

One last time, I am not Danny, do not communicate with Danny, have any personal stake in 3ABN or Linda's musical ministry. I want the truth and here I am to pick this source - like it or not you can't harang me out of here. I will leave when I feel my questions have been answered.

This is spot on, as is Calvin's post above. My question for fallible is, "If I, or anyone else here, were to reveal our identities would you believe what we say?" Surely many of the folks here have either worked at 3 ABN, work there now, or have personal knowledge of that organization, but you don't seem to want to accept anything that is being said.

I'm new to this forum too, so I don't really know the proper way to say this, but if you want my identity, and if that will REALLY make a difference, post one of those messages where I can answer off line and I will be happy to oblige.

If not, perhaps you should go and work for Danny (if he comes back from his extended absence), or better yet work for Mollie or Brenda. Then you can have your first hand experience.

Calvin and BB,

Calvin, as owner I would expect that you would be fully forthcoming with your identity. But, the players in this particular segment of this forum have set the "rules" they play by. Can I get answers to my questions better by giving my identity - who knows. My point about identity mirrors another post in a 3ABN thread - that when you accuse, when you present information as fact and don't reveal your identity your information automatically carries less weight for many.

Okay, a point here BB. You mention that many of the people posting here worked at 3ABN or are even currently working there. IF, all this is the truth and such egregious activities are taking place it seems there would be no fear of reprisal - at least in the long run. If it is true then step up and like the voice crying in the wilderness don't hide. I am not here to make a statement about anything. I said I was here to ask questions and that is what I havce done.

You say I am not accepting what is being said - should I? I don't think anyone seeking the truth should walk into the room and without asking all the necessary questions accept what is being said there as the truth. Do you do that? I doubt it. So don't expect me to - but to expect me to be here with an open mind because that is how I have arrived. Sure there is a defensive mechanisim that kicks in when everyone sitting in the room automatically discounts you because you don't buy in, but I try to temper that with the fact that there seems to be a vested interest in bringing down 3ABN - and anyone who questions the validity of what is said here is persona nongrata. And lest there be any doubt - my disbelief is because I am seeking.

I watched the same show last night that all of you did - or at least I think I did. Danny said he and Brandy were going on an extended vacation. This leaves two options to consider:

A. Danny and Brandy are exhuasted from all the personal attacks and the rancorous accusations that have been aimed at them.

B. He is guilty of one or more of the accusations that have been made - and come on be honest they are accusations at this point (innocent until proven guilty) - and he is seeking a quiet way out to exit.

Can you know which - no. Time will tell. Time will also tell where the truth is and who hasn't been presenting it.

I would love to converse with you Bill - don't know how that is possible but maybe we will find out one day.

QUOTE(BrotherBill @ Aug 11 2006, 08:36 PM)

This is spot on, as is Calvin's post above. My question for fallible is, "If I, or anyone else here, were to reveal our identities would you believe what we say?" Surely many of the folks here have either worked at 3 ABN, work there now, or have personal knowledge of that organization, but you don't seem to want to accept anything that is being said.

I'm new to this forum too, so I don't really know the proper way to say this, but if you want my identity, and if that will REALLY make a difference, post one of those messages where I can answer off line and I will be happy to oblige.

If not, perhaps you should go and work for Danny (if he comes back from his extended absence), or better yet work for Mollie or Brenda. Then you can have your first hand experience.

ustTana,

n order to make sure I understand your post let me ask, Are you making any connection between the roubles in Danny and Kay's marriage and her death in the accident? Are you in any way suggesting hat Danny killed his wife?

want to be clear and online communication can often leave to mucxh to the imagination.

QUOTE(JustTana @ Aug 11 2006, 08:57 PM)

Well, I'll try again to post to this thread. It is my humble opinion that whatever Danny may have said last night about him and Brandy taking a 'leave of absence' is more about trying to convince people that he knows he needs to make changes in his life. However, I think it is only a smoke screen to try to fool Brandy, first of all, and then those faithful followers in the audience. As I wrote to Don Schneider today, who is a very personal acquaintance of my sister, she has personal knowledge of much of the behavior described in 'The Televangelist.' She is also a former member of the Springfield, Illinois church where Linda went after her firing and in talking with friends from there, was told how upset the placement of John Stanton made the people, especially as it related to removing Linda from any place in the church doings. She also knew Danny personally when he tried to become a literature evangelist. Her husband was the top salesman in Illinois and it was obvious that Danny had no desire to follow any of the programs that were in place. It was also very obvious that there was great trouble in the marriage and it was shortly after his stint at book sales that she was killed in the accident. The document regarding Kay's making plans to leave Danny was very much true to what was being observed by my sister and others in the literature camp. My sister will be contacting Don Schneider as soon as she can and I will report to you what we find out, or not, from him. It is entirely possible that he will not be able to say much or will say things that must stay 'off the record' for now. In any case I will let you know the outcome.

DF,

I can't speak for anyone but myself. Yes, I am. Does that mean I agree with you, well it seems here that if I don't I am in line to be impuned. I don't come down on one side or the other - do I lean one way or the other, yes probably. At this point I will not take a stand either way.

It seems to me that if those here are desirous of me believing them they wouldn't resort to the tactics that always arise in discussion threads to drive out those who don't "agree."

There isn't a right or wrong way to seek the truth other than these two things:

A. Request the guidence of the Holy Spirit.

B. Ask questions until they are all answered.

Oh yes, and don't be afraid of the bravado.

I have made this clear before, so for the new members let me make it clear again. We are not going to discuss or speculate on Danny killing his ex-wife. That is gossip. You should have enough to talk about with 20 years of 3abn history without going there.

Thank you Calvin !

Falliable, who are you to judge what identiy people are using? Your not usiing your identiy. Obviously, you have not worked or are working in the 3ABN otherwise you wouldn't make the statement about using your true identity.

Personally, I don't think you have any idea what lengths the management at 3ABN will go to abuse, slander or hurt people.

Falliable, please read Matt. 7:1 and ponder on the text before you jump in here with some of the statements you've made.

AT,

As I mentioned before - this tired routine of trying to roust me because I don't agree isn't going to work. I want the truth - and if I don't believe you it isn't my job to tell you why. I have heard much from both sides and this area seems to feel they have a perponderance of the Linda side of the story - so here I am reading and asking questions. Why do you feel threatened because I refuse to jump when you ask.

Interesting that I have to go through the hazing in order to be given a chance to ask questions - but I will and I will ask the questions I seek answers to - don't bother responding if you are threatened my reticence to just accept as truth what is here - simply because it is here. If it the truth it will be come evident and I will add it to what I have heard other places.

I don't have to refute anything at this point because I haven't done anything other than say I am skeptical - and rightly so, as anyone should be in a he said/she said situation. I don't believe I will find the truth in one place - but will find what is available by going to each place it is being discussed and asking questions - then and only then making a decision for myself.

Sorry, the seat is mine - and if I lean over and ask you what the teacher just said, are you going to turn away from me becasue I didn't agree with you on some point? Is this a discussion, a place to seek truth, or a place only the "faithful believers" come and preach to the choir?

First of all, Fallible, nobody is trying to roust you out. YOU are the one who was talking about people not identifying themselves. BSDA existed long before this mess at 3ABN came to light and people were making decisions then about how much of themselves to reveal. Why? Because this is the 'World wide web"? Maybe?

You have not been hazed, trust me. However, you need to go ahead and ask your questions, and those who can will answer to the best of their ability. So far, you have only said you have read everything posted here, plus and still not come to the same conclusion most here have. There is no problem with that. Not everyone already here have come to the same conclusions. If you have been reading as you say you have, you will know that Calvin and Daryl amopng others were both skeptics not two months ago. In spite of that, Calvin still provided opportunity for information to be posted.

Also, if you have been reading this site, you will know that questions are not a problem. Some believe we question too much. So you accusations opf us being afraid of your questions are foundless. Try again, that dog won't hunt here.

Now, proceed with your questions. BTW, Happy Sabbath!

Those that know me know that one thing I can't stand is whiners. Get the chip off your shoulder. I am tired reading of you being tired of how you are treated because you are in the minority on this subject or being rousted as you put it. You knew the vocal members on this subject where pro Linda supports before you started posting here. If you don't think BSDA is open enough for you then leave. Freedom,

Isn't it the modus operendi to use a pseudonym when posting here? Okay, sarcasm aside . . .

I have not worked at 3ABN, that isn't a prerequisite to discovering the truth is it? I am not working there now.

I will allow you that personally you don't feel I am cognizant of what happens at 3ABN, that I am not privy to what goes on behind the scenes - but if I were in either camp I sure would be worried about Toto running up and pulling the curtain aside - IF what has been presented by both sides is anywhere near the truth. You are free to believe what you will about me - that isn't my concern.

Matthew 7:1 "Do not judge, or you too will be judged." but that is only a piece of the advice

M 7: 2 and 3 "2: For in the same way you judge others, you will be judgedm and with the measure you use, it will be measured to you. 3: Why do you look at the speck of sawdust in your brother's eye and pay no attention to the plank in your own eye?"

Have I passed judgement on an individual here? Please show me. I have said I don't believe some of what is presented here - and I am not sure about other information. If you feel judged by that, my apologizes - but I am not going to bail on my quest.

If you truly seek my identity I am sure you can find a way to reach me and we can talk. Oh yes, I jumped in already and I am not getting out of the pool.

Have I been disrespectful? I don't think so. Am I going to make it clear that I am hear not to take one side or the other - but rather to seek insight - sure.

How many posts have told me to leave thus far? And now you threaten to drop me because I will not be viewed as a "Danny supporter" and at the same time don't buy into Linda's story either.

Okay here is a question:

Does this area of your discussion board see itself as the heir aparent to the reign at 3ABN?

Another:

Has it ever been presented here that this forum will bring down 3ABN and replaced it with a Linda run entity? Or that it has the power to do so?

Another:

Where does this group derive it's authority to lay claim to the reigns at 3ABN?

One last question - don't you want this to be an open discussion? Or is this a one sided discussion board - meaing can no one come in and disagree or at least be skeptical?

You are not worth either the time or the effort to 'roust' you; I am making the point that your entire presentation has been essentially a string of logical fallacies and you have neither refuted anything that has been said nor have you made anything resembling a sequitur argument about this matter. You have basically come here and said " I read it and I am a sufficient authority that you all should believe me when i say it's a crock". We have said " oh really? Prove it's all false". That's not hazing... maybe it is for you up in Madison, WI... but the rest of us arent buying that. In this forum you are the equivalent of a man screaming bloody murder and saying his leg needs to be amputated because he stubbed his toe. Again... maybe you are used to being a big enough fish in a small pond that if you say it's rubbish, everyone agrees with you; if that's the case I'll have to get you one of those bumper stickers that say " a million dead lemmings can't be wrong..."

If it the truth it will be come evident and I will add it to what I have heard other places.

Again... what you are trying to label as hazing is simply our telling you no one here is named Dorothy or wearing ruby slippers... so just stop with the "PAY NO ATTENTION TO THE MAN BEHIND THE CURTAIN" act. In this forum we know the emperor is naked and we know the great wizard of Oz is a fraud... and no, we arent interested in going down any rabbit holes with you...yes, you have the right to make any statement you want and ask any question you desire... but the unofficial motto of the forum is "This aint Sabbath School; we pay attention around here..." which means if you choose to enter the fray, you can expect every and anything you choose to say to be questioned and challenged. That's not hazing; that's proving all things and holding fast what is good

The seat is yours? wake up Muttley; you're dreamin' again... you are allowed to occupy said seat as a privilege... not as a right... and nothing/no one in this forum belongs to you... and, as such, nothing is, in any wise, beholden to you. You declare your right to be skeptical... and that's kewl... but you need to be mindful of the fact that the other 1600+ denizens of this forum have the identical right to be equally skeptical about what you, me, or any other says...not to mention grilling you like a NY Strip if the things coming out of your mouth dont sit well with them.

As for your defiance regarding refuting anything... you dont have to; you're right... and Mark McGwire doesn't have to talk about the past where his steroid use is concerned... but given your credibility around here is zip point squat, what exactly is your raison d'etre ici? To declare the truth as you deem it to we po' colored folk since we so sorely stand in need of it by your estimation? Or maybe you are trying to let us know that everything goes better with whine... but either way if you exercise your right to give neither evidence nor argument for why you believe the things stated on the subject are errant, dont be surprised if anyone here exercises his right to presume that somewhere there's a village short one idiot.

Check, call or raise to you...

Thanks BB,

Okay let me start where I have started with others - How is this not a he said/she said situation? The rounds are fired from one side then the other, and back again. One side advances followed by the retaliation of the other. The waters were long ago muddied by both sides - so how do you see clearly to the bottom?

I keep reading comments from former employees (I haven't come across one yet that claims to be currently working there - but I may have missed that along the way) - if one enters into this without a side to support, it sounds rather like disgruntled employees. Do they have cause? Where they let go, terminated, fired unjustly - if so make it clear. For instance, the thread we are in was begun by your question about the validity of a rumor you heard in regards to Trust Services - the closest we have come is that four employees where let go earlier this year. No comment as to why (yes, from either side). Do organizations ever find themsleves in a financial pinch and they have to downsize (of course I was one of those individuals a couple of years ago). Do indivudals ever fail to perform up to their job description and are let go justly? I feel there is too much speculation at this point - too much guessing at individual motive to make the argument (s) here completely believeable.

Have you, in your search for truth, found anything untrue on this side of the table - anything embellished, anything with a touch of hyperbole added?

What do you base your belief that Linda was not involved in an inappropriate relationship with the Dr. on? Her word? His word? I want to know what hard evidence you have been privy to that has removed all doubt for you. If it is only the word of Linda and the Dr, and their closest allies - is this enough for you? Not a judgement, just a question.

- fallible

A last note - yes, if those who claim to have "been there" added their identity to their claims (either here in this board or outside of this board) it would add credence to their claims - as of now they still contain that hole of identity.

My identity - I am not making claims, not making accusations, not pointing fingers. I want some answers to the questions in my mind.

I respect your right to be skeptical, as I often am. In this case you can choose to believe what you want. I do not judge you. Do indivudals ever fail to perform up to their job description and are let go justly? I feel there is too much speculation at this point - too much guessing at individual motive to make the argument(s) here completely believeable.

Have you, in your search for truth, found anything untrue on this side of the table - anything embellished, anything with a touch of hyperbole added?

What do you base your belief that Linda was not involved in an inappropriate relationship with the Dr. on? Her word? His word? I want to know what hard evidence you have been privy to that has removed all doubt for you. If it is only the word of Linda and the Dr, and their closest allies - is this enough for you? Not a judgement, just a question.

A last note - yes, if those who claim to have "been there" added their identity to their claims (either here in this board or outside of this board) it would add credence to their claims - as of now they still contain that hole of identity.

My identity - I am not making claims, not making accusations, not pointing fingers. I want some answers to the questions in my mind.

I respect your right to be skeptical, as I often am. In this case you can choose to believe what you want. I do not judge you. I am quite comfortable saying that this is not a "he said/she said" situation because it absolutely is not. I don't expect you to believe me, as that is not my goal. Can you let us know what specific issues, point by point, you are having trouble with in this or other discussion threads?

QUOTE(fallible humanbeing @ Aug 11 2006, 10:07 PM)

Thanks BB,

Okay let me start where I have started with others - How is this not a he said/she said situation? The rounds are fired from one side then the other, and back again. One side advances followed by the retaliation of the other. The waters were long ago muddied by both sides - so how do you see clearly to the bottom?

I keep reading comments from former employees (I haven't come across one yet that claims to be currently working there - but I may have missed that along the way) - if one enters into this without a side to support, it sounds rather like disgruntled employees. Do they have cause? Where they let go, terminated, fired unjustly - if so make it clear. For instance, the thread we are in was begun by your question about the validity of a rumor you heard in regards to Trust Services - the closest we have come is that four employees where let go earlier this year. No comment as to why (yes, from either side). Do organizations ever find themsleves in a financial pinch and they have to downsize (of course I was one of those individuals a couple of years ago). Do indivudals ever fail to perform up to their job description and are let go justly? So it's do as you say, not as you do? BTW you have made a patently false statement above. By saying those who have not sufficiently revealed themselves cannot be credible or that their claims lack credence until they make what you deem to be sufficient revelation of who they are you have made a claim that your not knowing who they are makes their statements not to be believed that is a claim. Inherent and implicit in that claim is the accusation that they remain somewhat anonymous in an attempt to obfuscate... and you've pointed so many fingers since you came in that it is surprising you haven't put someone's eye out...

It seems to me that if those here are desirous of me believing them they wouldn't resort to the tactics that always arise in discussion threads to drive out those who don't "agree."

There isn't a right or wrong way to seek the truth other than these two things:

A. Request the guidence of the Holy Spirit.

B. Ask questions until they are all answered.

Oh yes, and don't be afraid of the bravado.

- fallible

no need to claim something that is not true... you can agree or disagree... there is no party line here, so discuss away.... perhaps you can begin at the beginning and answer this simple question.... does spiritual adultery exist and is it grounds for divorce?

Posted by: fallible humanbeing Aug 12 2006, 01:12 AM

Inga,

Have I been on a high horse - maybe so . . . but that could be a product of trying to convince many that I am not a lapdog of either side, and certainly not Danny or any of the other prominent individuals you mention. Defensive, yes. Out to defame, no.

Okay my first problem here is the novella "The Televangalist." Why is it that what Linda's camp claims is the truth has to be presented this way? If the truth is the truth then why is the author afraid to spell it out line by line with his own name and within the context of a forthright expose. I am not convinced by fiction - and though there may be truth buried in there, it is still fiction.

Don't you grow tired of the spin masters - from both sides of the issue? Yes, I want 3ABN to lay their evidence on the table. I believe it will be substantial and supported - a gut instinct. (and to be honest I find a need to defend myself in advance from those who will condescend because I don't have "fact" - while many have indicated rejecting me out of hand through comments like smelling a rat . . . should I just ignore that and let it go, maybe). I honestly believe that each party in the end of a marriage is "guilty." No situation like this is ever the fault of a single party. An affair, whether with a person, a job, alcohol, drugs, gambling is always a symptom of much deeper and more serious problems with in the relationship. One can leave a marriage long before they file the offical documents - this can be through any of the above or simply abject neglect of the responsibility they have to nurture the relationship - this would include (if it proves in the end to be true) spending lenghty hours on the phone to an individual not your spouse.

I had to smile when you said I am in the majority. Based on the past two days I can't say I agree with that while I am here. But I suspected that in advance.

I would like to know the exact citation where you claim Dr. Thompson equated Linda to Lucifer. In my book Danny is a man. Do I believe God has reached souls through him, absolutely. Do I believe that God reached souls through Linda, just as assuredly. But, I don't think He is having much success right now reaching any one through either of them. When I read the two documents here The Televangalist and The Unofficial History - I sense vindictiveness, this raises red flags. So, I find a skepticism about arguments based on these writings.

I do take issue with the quick run to see every action at 3ABN as rife with evil intent. For instance Danny's decision to take a break from the rigors of 3ABN. It seems to me that had I been in his shoes I would be emotionally, mentally, physically exhausted and my spiritual life stretched to the breaking point. Is it at all possible that he is just tired and needs a break? Yes, yes, yes, I know the other argument is just as possible - but why even speculate, why don't those of us on the outside sit back and see where things go. Personally I think he is exhasuted and needs a break. If solid, irrefutable evidence surfaces to contrary I will accept that.

What other evidence is there, solid, incontrivertable evidence that Danny was engaged in inapproprate behavior with a minor? Other than the words of an faceless, nameless few. Site me line and verse is all I am asking. Point me to a document gathered by an impartial party that substantiates this. Not, because so and so said it was true.

Can you clear the murky water?

Does this area of your discussion board see itself as the heir aparent to the reign at 3ABN?

Another:

Has it ever been presented here that this forum will bring down 3ABN and replaced it with a Linda run entity? Or that it has the power to do so?

Another:

Where does this group derive it's authority to lay claim to the reigns at 3ABN?

One last question - don't you want this to be an open discussion? Or is this a one sided discussion board - meaing can no one come in and disagree or at least be skeptical?

- fallible

allible change your name to clueless... in all the threads here about 3abn, not one (and I have read hem all, even started a few) no one has talked about bringing down 3abn and replacing it with something run by Linda..... alternatives to 3abn have been discussed, including having a black 3abn, did you see that thread?

Clay,

I have read with interest the discussion about this issue. When it first arose I looked for sources on the issue and ran a google search - and was amazed that the quantity of people talking about this very subject.

I am still working on this one, but the concept seems plausible. The idea of laying with the world instead of God is a metaphorical concept I can agree with. I think of the call to be in the world but not of it. If we lust after the world and the glitter it has to offer is our heart given to another that isn't our Savior? It isn't to much of a stretch to see the concept of spiritual adultery as having credence.

Now, the hard part of your question. Is it grounds for divorce? That seems to be a sticky wicket - from a hard and fast interpretation of the Scriptures there seems to be little if any reason to divorce. But, what about in situations of abuse or total neglect? Are there any reasons for divorce outside of the act of physical infidelity? What about lusting within your heart - you can make a claim (Biblically supported) that this is infidelity and viable cause for divorce. I don't know if spiritual adultery is cause or not - I haven't studied enough to make the decision.

Here is where we have a he said/she said moment. Who wanted the divorce and how do we truly know for sure. Who was there at each moment to know for sure who wanted it and who didn't. Who was truly fighting to save the marriage and who wasn't?

Once upon a time under the shadow of Mount St. Helens, there unfolded a tragedy. The mountain began to steam and a portion swelled. The US Geological Survey warned the governor of Washington state that a certain square mileage around the mountain should be manditorily evacuated as the mountain was soon going to blow. She consulted with the industries that operated within the recommended evacuation area, and they required the truth. All of these speculations and rumors being spread by the so-called "experts" were surely a bunch of self serving pronouncements that were meant to harm the industries that were the life life-blood of the local areas.

Certain experts said that there was no real proof that anything would happen that would affect those areas, and the "unbiased" people who wanted to know the "truth" had found their "truth." The truth that they had been seeking. The mountain exploded and caused damage far worse than even the most pesemistic USGS scientists had thought. Many people were killed as an enormous area was destroyed by the flood waters that resulted from the instant melting of the ice and snow on Mount St. Helens. The "truth" sought by the local industry people, and by the governor... the "truth" that that was found in the agreement of those who chose to disregard the USGS warning cost many lives. The "truth sought by the "unbiased" industry and government people was conveniently truthful intil the mountain blew.

Convenience truth-seekers see the truth where they know it will be, and where it will mean the most to them. The so-called experts are nothing more than people who are attempting to deprive the industry of its revenues, whether they be dollars, or an increase in church membership.

Clay,

Okay, the first item you mentioned. The "gag" order. Was this tied to the severance package she accepted? And, didn't it only cover the time during which the severance was being paid? I think that time is up - or at least close to it. Did Linda willingly of her own volition sign these documents? Did she have -any- legal council before she did, any at all? Did she avail herself of legal guidence?

I have heard from others the answers to these questions - I am looking for them to be answered here.

Additionally, is there factual, hard evidence that anyone from 3ABN has ever been on this site and disparged Linda? ANd if so, how was this determined?

QUOTE(fallible humanbeing @ Aug 12 2006, 01:50 AM)

Clay,

Okay, the first item you mentioned. The "gag" order. Was this tied to the severance package she accepted? And, didn't it only cover the time during which the severance was being paid? I think that time is up - or at least close to it. Did Linda willingly of her own volition sign these documents? Did she have -any- legal council before she did, any at all? Did she avail herself of legal guidence?

I have heard from others the answers to these questions - I am looking for them to be answered here.

Additionally, is there factual, hard evidence that anyone from 3ABN has ever been on this site and disparged Linda? ANd if so, how was this determined?

- fallible

you haven't addressed my issue at all.... deal with this statement first.... even IF she did everything she was accused of, she shouldn't have been treated as she was...

the logical question should be, how should she have been treated? you did not ask that but instead have chosen to go down the blame the victim road..... here's your sign....

Posted by: fallible humanbeing Aug 12 2006, 01:57 AM

Clay,

Point two. The trashing of Linda's reputation. If Danny or any other did this, does it justfy a like response? Let's say it is all true - every last bit of it from both sides. Who is more right in their attacks? Danny, Linda, neither?

No one deserves to have their reputation impuned. But didn't Gandhi say, "An eye for an eye making the whole world blind."? If Danny makes a claim against Linda, should she address it or ignore it? And, if Linda makes a claim against Danny should he address it or ignore it?

Am I to believe that Linda has never spoken ill of Danny to anyone, of significance or otherwise?

address this basic statement, which you have yet to do.... even IF she did everything she was accused of, she should not have been treated as she was... and how should she have been treated by her husband soon to be ex-husband?

Here is a clue....

QUOTE

Mat 5:38-46 "You have heard that it was said, 'An eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth.' (39) But I say to you not to resist an evil person. But whoever shall slap you on your right cheek, turn to him the other also. (40) And to the one desiring to sue you and to take your tunic, let him have your cloak also. (41) And whoever compels you to go one mile, go with him two. (42) Give to the one asking you, and to the one desiring to borrow from you, do not turn away. (43) "You have heard that it was said, 'You shall love your neighbor, and you shall hate your enemy.' (44) But I say to you, love your enemies, bless those who curse you, do good to those who hate you, and pray for those who mistreat you and persecute you, (45) so that you may prove to be sons of your Father in heaven; because He makes His sun rise on the evil and on the good, and He sends rain on the just and on the unjust. (46) For if you love those who love you, what reward have you? Do not even the tax collectors do the same?

she should not have been treated as she was.... bottomline.... now you can dance around that basic fact, but it remains... she should NOT have been treated as she was.... deal with that.... do you agree or not?

Clay,

I think you have mistaken my questions as statements - I am asking your take on this, your "side" if you will. I didn't blame the victim, I asked a series of questions I would like this side of the issue to answer for me from their perspective and sources of information.

If Linda was guilty of all she has been accused of this would include actions which are grounds for divorce. In this case could she really have stayed at 3ABN? Or would 3ABN have been divied up as part of the divorce settlement. If she did commit adultry then removal from 3ABN seems appropriate. Being attacked - certainly not, but then the attacks on Danny don't stand the test either.

Also, your last point involved efforts to keep Linda from seeking employment (you did say seeking, but to clarify - do you mean seeking or gaining). Isn't she continuing with her musical ministry? Of course 3ABN claims they haven't stood in her way of pursuing her ministry or gaining employment. To date, what employment has she lost as a direct result of 3ABN stepping in the way and keeping her from seeking employment.

Let me share with you why the first question I have posed to you, that you refuse to or choose not to answer is so crucial in the development of this story.....

It starts right here....

QUOTE

Eph 5:25 Husbands, love your own wives, just as Christ also loved the church and gave Himself for her,

Now if Mr. Shelton loved her, then what should his actions have been? How should he have treated Linda? answer that one question, in fact it has to be answered before we can continue or even if we continue....

To me, if he loved her, he would have found a way to handle this without everyone being all in their business... he would have arranged it so that even if they parted ways no one would think ill of her and that she would be gainfully employed even if she wasn't at 3abn....

So start there fallible.....

Posted by: fallible humanbeing Aug 12 2006, 02:51 AM

Pete,

I began my reading with the two letters as they were at the top of the forum.

I think that your claim that the letter insinuates or even directly associates Linda with Lucifer is weak. The quote makes a point of the pain God experience at the lose of Lucifer and then suggests that all those involved might understand lose like this a little more clearly because of what happened with Danny and Linda. He references directly the issue of pain and grief which the whole lot of them experienced during that upheaveal. The connection is not drawn between Lucifer and Linda, but rather between the pain God experienced and the pain Danny, Linda, their family and friends experienced as a result of the divorce.

"God lost one of his closest companions when Lucifer went astray. More than that, myriads more angels left with him when he left heaven. Talk about grief or emotional pain. Experiences such as this with Linda, I think, help us to understand the pain of loss, and the reality of the war between God and Satan. "

Thompson says, and I quote. "Experiences such as this with Linda." That's called equating.

This was your question: "I would like to know the exact citation where you claim Dr. Thompson equated Linda to Lucifer."

Dictionary definition of equate:

"To correspond."

You're just upset because the quote is actually there. You asked the question because you thought the quote was not around anywhere. And you thought wrong. Now you have to deny that it exists. So sad.

I had no doubt you would provide me with a quote. Not upset at all - just disagree with your interpretation.

The experience "such as this" refers to the expereince of the pain and grief from the ongoing upheaveal of the divorce. The correpsondence is between the pain of lose God expereinced when all those beings He loved dearly had to leave heaven and the pain everyone has felt from the ongoing experience of this situation at 3ABN.

I didn't deny its existance at all. I disagreed with your interpretation.

Vell, of course you had doubts there would be a quote. That's the only reason you asked for the exact" location in the first place.

\s for the quote, please read it again. It doesn't say "experience," as you say it says. Your eyes are ;eeing a word that is not there in order to find your interpretation that is not there.

t says "experiences such as this." Experiences is plural. That refers to the experiences -- or events -- ›f Lucifer and his evil angels leaving heaven and Linda Shelton and those who supported her leaving 3ABN. That's where the equating takes place.

'hompson says. "ExperienceS such as this with Linda, I think, help us to understand the pain of loss."

)r. Thompson does not say the experienceS are the pain. He clearly says the experiences "help us to ınderstand" the pain of loss. You're just plain wrong with your interpretation. And you need :yeglasses, too.

A last note - yes, if those who claim to have "been there" added their identity to their claims (either here in this board or outside of this board) it would add credence to their claims - as of now they still contain that hole of identity.

My identity - I am not making claims, not making accusations, not pointing fingers. I want some answers to the questions in my mind.

I respect your right to be skeptical, as I often am. In this case you can choose to believe what you want. I do not judge you. I am quite comfortable saying that this is not a "he said/she said" situation because it absolutely is not. I don't expect you to believe me, as that is not my goal. Can you let us know what specific issues, point by point, you are having trouble with in this or other discussion threads?

Definition of hypocrisy: 1 : a feigning to be what one is not or to believe what one does not; especially : the false assumption of an appearance of virtue or religion

You want others to identify themselves, but you won't. You said you're not making claimsk, accusations, or pointing fingers, but you are. Put up or shut up.

AT,

As I mentioned before - this tired routine of trying to roust me because I don't agree isn't going to work. I want the truth - and if I don't believe you it isn't my job to tell you why. I have heard much from both sides and this area seems to feel they have a perponderance of the Linda side of the story - so here I am reading and asking questions. Why do you feel threatened because I refuse to jump when you ask.

Interesting that I have to go through the hazing in order to be given a chance to ask questions - but I will and I will ask the questions I seek answers to - don't bother responding if you are threatened my reticence to just accept as truth what is here - simply because it is here. If it the truth it will be come evident and I will add it to what I have heard other places.

I don't have to refute anything at this point because I haven't done anything other than say I am skeptical - and rightly so, as anyone should be in a he said/she said situation. I don't believe I will find the truth in one place - but will find what is available by going to each place it is being discussed and asking questions - then and only then making a decision for myself.

Sorry, the seat is mine - and if I lean over and ask you what the teacher just said, are you going to turn away from me becasue I didn't agree with you on some point? Is this a discussion, a place to seek truth, or a place only the "faithful believers" come and preach to the choir?

In His Service,

Freedom,

Isn't it the modus operendi to use a pseudonym when posting here? Okay, sarcasm aside . . .

I have not worked at 3ABN, that isn't a prerequisite to discovering the truth is it? I am not working there now. yes, we us a pseudonym to protect our identity. Like I've said, and others if you know how 3ABN operates you'd understand the need for pseudonym identity. Also, with this day and age one needs to take safety precautions regarding posting identities online. Yes, even on christian sites!

I will allow you that personally you don't feel I am cognizant of what happens at 3ABN, that I am not privy to what goes on behind the scenes - but if I were in either camp I sure would be worried about Toto running up and pulling the curtain aside - IF what has been presented by both sides is anywhere near the truth. You are free to believe what you will about me - that isn't my concern. what past employees have posted here is correct and if you are truly seeking answers, that IS your conncern.
Matthew 7:1 "Do not judge, or you too will be judged." but that is only a piece of the advice
M 7: 2 and 3 "2: For in the same way you judge others, you will be judgedm and with the measure you use, it will be measured to you. 3: Why do you look at the speck of sawdust in your brother's eye and pay no attention to the plank in your own eye?"

Have I passed judgement on an individual here? Please show me. I have said I don't believe some of what is presented here - and I am not sure about other information. If you feel judged by that, my apologizes - but I am not going to bail on my quest.

If you truly seek my identity I am sure you can find a way to reach me and we can talk. Oh yes, I jumped in already and I am not getting out of the pool.

Calvin,

Have I been disrespectful? I don't think so. Am I going to make it clear that I am hear not to take one side or the other - but rather to seek insight - sure. How many posts have told me to leave thus far? And now you threaten to drop me because I will not be viewed as a "Danny supporter" and at the same time don't buy into Linda's story either.

Okay here is a question:

Does this area of your discussion board see itself as the heir aparent to the reign at 3ABN?

Another:

Has it ever been presented here that this forum will bring down 3ABN and replaced it with a Linda run entity? Or that it has the power to do so?Another:

Where does this group derive it's authority to lay claim to the reigns at 3ABN?

One last question - don't you want this to be an open discussion? Or is this a one sided discussion board - meaing can no one come in and disagree or at least be skeptical?

- fallible

have pasted some of your comments for you to reread and I HOPE that you will be able to see your udgemenal comments.

ly point about identity mirrors another post in a 3ABN thread - that when you accuse, when you resent information as fact and don't reveal your identity your information automatically carries less veight for many.
Okay, a point here BB. You mention that many of the people posting here worked at 3ABN or are even urrently working there. IF, all this is the truth and such egregious activities are taking place it seems here would be no fear of reprisal - at least in the long run. If it is true then step up and like the voice rying in the wilderness don't hide. I am not here to make a statement about anything. I said I was ere to ask questions and that is what I havce done.

ou say I am not accepting what is being said - should I? I don't think anyone seeking the truth hould walk into the room and without asking all the necessary questions accept what is being said here as the truth. Do you do that? I doubt it. So don't expect me to - but to expect me to be here vith an open mind because that is how I have arrived. Sure there is a defensive mechanisim that kicks n when everyone sitting in the room automatically discounts you because you don't buy in, but I try o temper that with the fact that there seems to be a vested interest in bringing down 3ABN - and nyone who questions the validity of what is said here is persona nongrata. And lest there be any loubt - my disbelief is because I am seeking.

I have been reading your rhetoric.

Are you trying to get names of those posting on BSDA so Danny can get their names and attack them personally and/or fire them?

If you are not Danny you are using the same logic as Danny, Mollie, and Dr Thompson.

I have heard this same twisted logic at worship and the yearly day of prayer(or what I understand was a day of prayer at one time) it then became a what you can do for Danny day as well as listening to his bragging.

For us who have been there and experienced Danny, Mollie, and Dr Thompson philosophy - If you are not Danny and if you aren't doing this for Danny you are a prevaricating, egotistical, egomanic, with the brain of a sheep(capable only of following regardless of who is leading).

This is America and we have the freedom to say anything true or false.

Remember if you you believe a lie long enough it becomes truth to you.

And if you listen to Danny and don't think for yourself you will believe anything.

Maybe each one that worked there should start telling every little dirty thing that Danny has done to them or others.

Maybe its time for that!!!

Actually, yes, I do think it is time for that .... though I think it should be in a new thead rather than tacked on the end of this lengthy one. And perhaps it should not be "every little dirty thing", but we certainly do need for people to understand that Linda was not the only person he ever did "dirty things" to. IOW, we need to change the spotlight that has been focused on Linda into a floodlight that illuminates all of the others that he has (and still is) abusing.

We also need to broaden the scope beyond a mere recital of "what Danny did". What about others there who either carried out his orders to abuse others, but did so on their own inititative? Some of the names we have already heard, but what about others? .....

But enough for here. Maybe Clay will begin a thread with a more appropriate title where we can carry on with this.

Two thoughts:

Fallible is TRYING reverse phycology to get EVERYTHING on the table (no, not all the real names yet) - he/she is provoking for all truth to come out - what's here is not enough, we want it all from everyone that has been there/done that.

Fallible is working for the other camp and is hijacking this - to feed the crowd that are coming here for TRUTH more SPIN. The more I read of fallible, the more fallible I see he/she is. Or very good at playing spin games (yes, I know, sounds familiar). Too many questions that have all the answers at his/her feet.

Everyone interested, do the reading. Read Linda's website too. Listen to the people that have worked there. THere is NO hate in ANYONES voice. They are WITNESS'S. You know what a witness is?

wit·ness

1. One who can give a firsthand account of something seen, heard, or experienced: a witness to the accident.
2. One who furnishes evidence.
Something that serves as evidence; a sign.
Law.
3. One who is called on to testify before a court.
4. One who is called on to be present at a transaction in order to attest to what takes place.
5. One who signs one's name to a document for the purpose of attesting to its authenticity.
6. An attestation to a fact, statement, or event; testimony.

Now, HUSH UP (I did say that with a smile on my face, sort of) and IF you REALLY want to KNOW, then USE YOUR BRAIN. There is more then enough information to give you a heads up to the basics of how people were treated, how the shelton game is played (which you would be good at). and the old saying "KISS" which means KEEP IT SIMPLE STUPID. Because if you don't, you are no different then many theologians (in our church and out) I know who can sit and spin on something for so long, they are no longer even hearing what anything really means. They just love hearing themselves TALK.

I must confess that, to me, the above statement could be taken (interpreted) more than one way. I does seem to give one the impression with that of equating Danny with God here in the analogy, and how God must have felt when He lost Lucifer, and therefore this is how Danny (and perhaps the rest of 3ABN staff) felt in losing Linda. This would seem to infer Linda with Lucifer to some extent, although perhaps (hopefully) it is not carrying the same weight of sin and grevious error that Satan has.

On the other hand, this statement could also perhaps be taken to simply refer to, as fallible has said, the emotional pain and the feeling of tremendous loss that individuals on BOTH sides have experienced through losing Linda and her ministry...the pain of a loss of someone you loved very dearly, and hopefully still do. The truth is that God has never stopped loving Lucifer, and will (not that He hasn't already) shed some tears of sorrow when Satan is gone, not because evil is eliminated, which is a blessed relief for all of us, but more because of the potential that Lucifer could have had, had he chosen to not throw away all of this, and the choice(s) he made when he went his own way. And also all of the pain that Lucifer has caused millions of others in his downfall. Our choices we make certainly do have a big impact on others.

I think that perhaps Dr. Thompson could have been a bit more clear in his analogy as to what exactly he meant by what he said, instead of leaving it open for different interpretations. I do perhaps sense that we may be carrying this a bit too far by saying that he is equating Linda with Lucifer in the strictest sense of the word. Please don't interpret this as an endorsement of his statement by any means. I am not!

However, I certainly could be way off base here.

Jeff

That's an interesting puzzle: Would 3ABN management actually compare people to Lucifer? Are they putting the words "Linda" and "Lucifer" into the same, small paragraph to keep them separate, independent thoughts?

Let's look at that.

First of all, we have seen over the past 2 years that Dr. Thompson is Danny's spokesperson. The magazine articles site Dr. Thompson as the author. Thompson repeats what he feels is on the mind of Danny Shelton, the President of 3ABN

Now, let's go to the Arild Abrahamsen letter of June 20, 2006 to find this:

"Linda was living in an impossible situation. Danny was "in her face" on a regular basis. At times he would say, "If you don't say you're a pathological liar, the marriage and 3ABN is over. If you don't say you're an adulterous woman the marriage and 3ABN is over for you. If you don't say you've given your heart to another man and that he is a demon the marriage and 3ABN is over..... etc."

The Lucifer and Linda paragraph isn't the only place where you will find the theme of "he is a demon."

When you wade through all of the documents and get a "feel" for them, the preponderance of the weight is that both the Norwegian doctor and Linda are being called or compared to either the Devil or a demon. It's a recurring 3ABN theme.

Therefore, I see absolutely no reason to believe that Dr. Thompson is being more restrained than the President of 3ABN, Danny Shelton, for whom Thompson speaks.

Is it carrying things way too far? Yes, of course. But that's another issue.

Okay, the first item you mentioned. The "gag" order. Was this tied to the severance package she accepted? And, didn't it only cover the time during which the severance was being paid? I think that time is up - or at least close to it. Did Linda willingly of her own volition sign these documents? Did she have -any- legal council before she did, any at all? Did she avail herself of legal guidence?

- fallible

Linda was not permitted legal counsel if she wanted any kind of severence package. It was handled differently. The gag order is not over. As to Linda's willingness to sign documents, she did. Were there extenuating circumstances? Yes. Remember, she was also being divorced at the time.

Panama_Pete gave one perspective on what Thompson might mean.... Fstpicker gave a different one. I'm not at all sure that we would need to choose between them. I think that it is for certain that Danny and his Pentecostal coherts at 3ABN use a LOT of "demon" language that goes beyond what most of us are used to or comfortable with or would believe if we understood it. Thompson, coming from an Adventist background may or may not pick up all of the doctrinal implications of their use of language. What is certain, however, is that he picks up Danny's and ET's and Mollie's terminology and buys into what he thinks they mean by it..... and if they use an analogy, he is almost certain to use it also whether or not he applies it in quite the same way that they do. IOW ..... when we "hear" Thompson's words, we are also hearing Danny's words. So for us to interpret them we need not only to ask what Thompson might have meant by them, but also what Danny or ET or Mollie would have meant by them.

Clay,

Being a historian and approaching this from a historical method I am inclined to give much more credence to primary source documentation than information that comes from second, third, even at times fourth level sources.

Of the materials you have available for people to read here that can qualify as primary sources are the letters and articles that appear in an established publication. The materials that appear in Adventist Today, for instance, qualify. There are some other items that may qualify as primary source documentation but are not here other than they are presented by someone who may or may not be known to be a reputable source of information and may or may not have been given the comunication first hand. There are in older threads pieces of information that do qualify, but may not even be read by a new observer because they are buried so deep in the older threads - for instance a communique from Elder Folkenberg that was readily available on the web.

One of the most difficult parts of the historical analysis of an event(s) is that so much of the available information has already been processed through someones personal bias/perspective resulting not in the rendering of fact, but rather understanding - which may or may not be totally accurate.

Very simplistic example. I have a son who is in his early teens and is given to spouting general statements as fact when in truth they are his own understanding/opinion. For instance, he makes the statement, "Sweet potatoes are disgusting!" and I tell him he can't possibly make this statement because it is not even close to being accurate or fact. I tell him if he qualifies it with, "I think . . ." or "It's my opinion that . . ." or "Because of my preferences, I think . . ." then he has made a truthful statement - one which I will disagree with him on as I happen to love sweet potatoes.

Much of the material in the 3ABN threads come from these sources:

- someone who knows an individual that worked/s at 3ABN
- someone who knows someone that is close to or related to someone who worked/s at 3ABN
- and many individuals even further removed from the actual events

Now, there are individuals who claim (and that isn't intended to be inflamatory, it is merely factual as there is no evidence offered to substantiate their claims other than their own word) to have worked at 3ABN and are offering an "inside perspective." The expectation here is that they will be unquestioned and unchallenged in their claims - anyone seeking the truth (as much as that is possible in a situation like this) can not honestly do this and feel they have arrived at a solid decision whose side they will align themselves with. Only the truly gullible are going to come to this set of threads, read them, and accept them unquestioned as being the complete truth - that isn't possible because of the filtering that has already happened in the minds of many of the posters here.

Okay, let me cite an example here. I am going to use the most extreme example because I feel it makes the point most strongly. I will preface it by saying that I am a strong advocate of harsh justice for people who are found guilty of molestation. There is a young woman claiming to have been molested - the accusation has been made. But, do we know beyond a shadow of a doubt that she is telling the truth (and again I am not saying in any way here that she isn't)? Are there scenerios one might project wherein it would be feasible that she could be lying for some form of personal gain - be that monetary, or safety from another entity not named in the situation. What we have here in this set of threads, is a least one indivudal who has presented this "as fact" without supportive evidence such as a copy of a sworn affidavit (sp?). Again, the expectation here is that I just accept the word of a second party that this is the truth. Not convincing at this point - could it be, yes with primary source documentation such as the actual legal documents, an actual unedited interview with an uninterested third party, or coroborating (sp?) testimony from another individual, this too verifiable through unbiased means.

Essentially what exists here are levels of heresay. Not that it isn't true in it's distilled form, we don't know because we were not present in person when these things happened. Now, you can't hope to be present at the events in question, but that doesn't make the requirement for substantial, documented, and verifiable evidence moot - it makes it all the more necessary.

As to the other documents here presented as evidence, The Televangalist, The Unauthorized History, The Contributor, and The Solution (not sure I got all of those correct, but I will assume you know what I am refering to), these can not be counted as more than someones understanding of the events. They are fictionalized, at times ambigous, and unsubstantiated in their claims. Therefore they can only be accepted as second or thrid source information at best. That is unless they are penned by Linda, in which case they would qualify as primary source documents and then would have to be analyzed for their veracity - because it is a fact that she could very well be lying at worst, painting a picture that skews reality in her favor at best. Her admission here that she did indeed pen this documents would cause the need to reevaluate them and instantly give them the potential for serious weight in evaluating the situation.

So, there you have it - why I can not and will not just accept what is here as being a completely truthful and accurate portrait of the events that occured at 3ABN. As for the larger question of the scope of influence that the station has and the work it is doing. Again, the multitude of evidence shows the amazing work it has done for the Lord. Posters can claim it is sliding into Pentacostalism, but as I read other threads here (esp in the theology sections) I see these same posters sliding away from the fundamental principles of Adventist Christianity on issues such as Sabbath observance and tithing, so I have to take their claims with a grain of salt and remember that each one works out their relationship with God in fear and trembling. Thus, their claims of Pentacostal influence at 3ABN again are drawn through their own perception and developed understanding and in truth may not be factual.

(fact - noun: something that has actual existence: a matter of objective reality. Merriam-Webster's Dictionary of Law, © 1996 Merriam-Webster, Inc.)

I stand firm that 3ABN has and continues to, amidst this strife, bring souls to the foot of the Cross where they can know the savior. The hue and cry here for its complete annilihation is misplaced and detrimental to the work of Christians called in the last days to do one thing - show the world the true nature of Christ, which is love, forgiveness, and filled with the ultimate hope.

Don't know if any of this raises your hackles - but then again I have been pegged by a so called "Dr" as "not quite right" . . . so take it with a grain of salt . . .

-fhb

- someone who knows someone that is close to or related to someone who worked/s at 3ABN
- and many individuals even further removed from the actual events

Now, there are individuals who claim (and that isn't intended to be inflamatory, it is merely factual as there is no evidence offered to substantiate their claims other than their own word) to have worked at 3ABN and are offering an "inside perspective." The expectation here is that they will be unquestioned and unchallenged in their claims - anyone seeking the truth (as much as that is possible in a situation like this) can not honestly do this and feel they have arrived at a solid decision whose side they will align themselves with. Only the truly gullible are going to come to this set of threads, read them, and accept them unquestioned as being the complete truth - that isn't possible because of the filtering that has already happened in the minds of many of the posters here.

Okay, let me cite an example here. I am going to use the most extreme example because I feel it makes the point most strongly. I will preface it by saying that I am a strong advocate of harsh justice for people who are found guilty of molestation. There is a young woman claiming to have been molested - the accusation has been made. But, do we know beyond a shadow of a doubt that she is telling the truth (and again I am not saying in any way here that she isn't)? Are there scenerios one might project wherein it would be feasible that she could be lying for some form of personal gain - be that monetary, or safety from another entity not named in the situation. What we have here in this set of threads, is a least one indivudal who has presented this "as fact" without supportive evidence such as a copy of a sworn affidavit (sp?). Again, the expectation here is that I just accept the word of a second party that this is the truth. Not convincing at this point - could it be, yes with primary source documentation such as the actual legal documents, an actual unedited interview with an uninterested third party, or coroborating (sp?) testimony from another individual, this too verifiable through unbiased means.

Essentially what exists here are levels of heresay. Not that it isn't true in it's distilled form, we don't know because we were not present in person when these things happened. Now, you can't hope to be present at the events in question, but that doesn't make the requirement for substantial, documented, and verifiable evidence moot - it makes it all the more necessary.

As to the other documents here presented as evidence, The Televangalist, The Unauthorized History, The Contributor, and The Solution (not sure I got all of those correct, but I will assume you know what I am refering to), these can not be counted as more than someones understanding of the events. They are fictionalized, at times ambigous, and unsubstantiated in their claims. Therefore they can only be accepted as second or thrid source information at best. That is unless they are penned by Linda, in which case they would qualify as primary source documents and then would have to be analyzed for their veracity - because it is a fact that she could very well be lying at worst, painting a picture that skews reality in her favor at best. Her admission here that she did indeed pen this documents would cause the need to reevaluate them and instantly give them the potential for serious weight in evaluating the situation.

So, there you have it - why I can not and will not just accept what is here as being a completely truthful and accurate portrait of the events that occured at 3ABN. As for the larger question of the scope of influence that the station has and the work it is doing. Again, the multitude of evidence shows the amazing work it has done for the Lord. Posters can claim it is sliding into Pentacostalism, but as I read other threads here (esp in the theology sections) I see these same posters sliding away from the fundamental principles of Adventist Christianity on issues such as Sabbath observance and tithing, so I have to take their claims with a grain of salt and remember that each one works out their relationship with God in fear and trembling. Thus, their claims of Pentacostal influence at 3ABN again are drawn through their own perception and developed understanding and in truth may not be factual.

(fact - noun: something that has actual existence: a matter of objective reality. Merriam-Webster's Dictionary of Law, © 1996 Merriam-Webster, Inc.)

I stand firm that 3ABN has and continues to, amidst this strife, bring souls to the foot of the Cross where they can know the savior. The hue and cry here for its complete annilihation is misplaced and detrimental to the work of Christians called in the last days to do one thing - show the world the true nature of Christ, which is love, forgiveness, and filled with the ultimate hope.

Don't know if any of this raises your hackles - but then again I have been pegged by a so called "Dr" as "not quite right" . . . so take it with a grain of salt . . .

Dear Mr."not quite right", act: No one wants to see 3ABN go down. No one questions the good that viewers can get from the gospel that is preached over the airways. No one wants the gospel to stop reaching the world. No one expects to swallow every fable that comes down the pike.

act: But a lot of people would like to see 3ABN run by people who are more than "not quite right".

act: It has been the practice at 3ABN to discredit and dismiss all who don't march in step to the great chosen one". But the "chosen one" stands in front of millions of viewers and lies through the teeth about the Vice President of 3ABN, and expects us to swallow those fables.

What makes the 3rd party and 4th party hogwash coming out of 3ABN easier to swallow than than what is found in these forums?

JM,

I would have to disagree that "no one wants to see 3ABN go down." There have been more than just subtle insinuations to that effect here. Here is one instance:

"If you are unwilling to consider the total deconstruction of 3ABN for the good of the church then you are the one who is not able to look at the situation objectively. Some things cant be repaired; they can only be replaced." - awesumetenor

http://www.blacksda.com/forums/index.php?s=&showtopic=9818&view=findpost&p=138641

This is not an isolated comment, there are others. Even your reply doesn't seem to support the idea that maintaining 3ABN is a good idea. You said, "No one questions the good that viewers can get from the gospel that is preached over the airways." Do you include the airwaves occupied by the 3ABN broadcasts?

Now, let's clear something up here - I am of sound mind and body regardless of what PDR pronounces - she has just been given to forgetting my forum moniker I think and calling me many other things.

Your claim that 3ABN seeks to discredit may be as valid as anothers claim that Linda's current exercise is to discredit 3ABN in order to bring down the house she help build so that neither her nor Danny can "have" it. Both of those are plausible - and not able to be substantiated in a significant way at this point. And, quite honestly if all the mircle stories about the rise of 3ABN are true - then it is no ones entity but Gods and if He sees a good work to be continued through it He will keep it going regardless of this ordeal.

Now, your last point. If you have actual footage of Danny standing in front of the camera and naming Linda by name and speaking against her. And you have factual, verfied truth of his lies then I don't see how you can call that third or fourth party "hogwash" from 3ABN. After all if you have videotape of Danny doing just that then you have primary source material - but again, unless he names Linda you are only interpreting his words through your perceptive point of view. Who knows maybe your POV is dead on correct - I don't know you so I have to take it with a grain of salt and not as gospel. Just as you do me.

- fallible humanbeing (fhb)

Oh yea - don't swallow anything from either side without chewing it up sufficiently first - you don't want to choke.

As to good sources for historians, personal writings such as diary entries or letters written close in time to the event described are also good sources. Some of the posts here qualify as such.

As to the example of the aledged abuse case. Since the person has apparently gone public to at least a number of chosen individuals with church influence, Id think the best thing would be to take the final step and bring it before a court of law. (Or does anyone here know of good reasons not to do so?) If that happends many things would be cleaned out from under that matt.

In the event that Nietzche's theory, "There is no fact, only interpretation" is applied, its application is universal. It applies to both sides in the debate, and to the person who used it as an argument.

Very true those are strong sources - again they must be meticulously verified and corroborated (sp?) in order to hold significant weight in the finally analysis.
I am not sure I would agree that some of the sources cited as such here would stand the test. First, identification of the author is crucial. Documents such as journal tend to lose viability when there is no way to effectively connect them close to the event. This is a significant consideration for a historical analysis.

True, this kind of historical sources should have a known author. This would disqualify the posts written under pseudonym till that day when the real person is revealed. However, some of the posters have identified themselves.

QUOTE

Your second point bears a lot of consideration. If the accusation is in fact a supported by significant merit, then yes a court of law, I imagine, will get to have the final say. But, there is much investigation that will go on before hand and it may very well turn out that in the end - the charges were trumped up and many people rushed to judgement and will have to back track.

In either case the questions will get satisfactory answeres. If the charges against 3abn are false or greately inflated(?), even then the truth will come out during such an official investigation.

QUOTE

It is unimaginable that if so "many" significant individuals are aware of this, and the fact that supposedly there is an offical sworn complaint, that it will disappear. If nothing comes of it - well then, there is some proof in that pudding isn't there.

You are right. If any of this ends up in court I imagine there will not be a linen in Danny and Linda's closet left untouched - and I would dare to say both will be the worse for it.

BT,

That might be true if one had applied that theory or used it as a basis for an argument. But, that hasn't been done here. However, central to Nietzsche's philosophy was the idea of "life-affirmation," which involves "an honest questioning of all doctrines" . . . let's replace doctrines with the phrase "all posts" and then apply historical method of analysis to it.

How was my post unfair to 3ABN? I was merely stating that I had seen a sentiment and was supporting with actual comments.

I don't know if I can buy your claim to "not care either way" about 3ABN. You have been ardent in your posts about what you think should happen. But, if that is the way you feel fine. You did say you would like to see it go away, right?

Mornin' Clay,

You are right, you pressed that question rather vigorously when last we chatted. I am pretty sure that I agreed with you, that IF Linda has been treated the way she has portrayed it, then yes she was treted in an unChristian way. But, in a full dialogue on the subject you have to ask - Has Danny been treated with any less an unChristian spirit in the past year? To answer no would indicate the the responder believes that in any relationship if something goes wrong it is only one persons "fault" therefore only one person should be made to "pay." They have BOTH paid dearly. In all reality if Danny's heart is still true to the mission presented to him in the beginning (and I believe it is) he may very well have to step back or step down to give 3ABN a firm enough footing to continue forward in spreading the message. God continues to bless 3ABN behind the scenes and He continues to reach many people through it's continued broadcasts. This will be a very difficult and heart breaking action - just as Linda's removal from the ministry she helped begin was heart breaking. For both it is like losing a loved one, losing a child - and there are very strong and deep emotions in both instances.

As to the relationship issue, I've been there, been through divorce and I know personally that there were the things I was responsible for and then things my Ex was responsible for. It was no less painful for either one of us. I remember watching 3ABN programming before the roof caved in and seeing a growing tension between Danny and Linda. It was obvious that both were seeking more influence and control and things were not right off the set. The visible aspects of the disintigration of a marriage are only symptoms of much deeper problems in the relationship. The true worm that is turning is hidden behind the closed doors of the home and that is what is never seen - but most needs to be cured. We can hear the alleged slanderous accusations flying from all sides but the truth of why the marriage fell apart is something only those two know - and I feel safe in saying, will not divulge.

Both sides are hurt and angry and have lashed out - it happens in most divorces. I said things that later I went back and made right and there were things said about me that so extremely spurious and hurtful. Unless you have been there you just can not understand.

So, given your feelings about the perceived treatment of Linda - does that justify crucifying Danny and rallying around a cry to end 3ABN? (I am not accusing you of this, but asking the question in a larger context as it applys to all of these threads.) If the people who need to know, do - and ultimately God knows and is in control - then why not let it play out in a less public way so that BOTH Linda and Danny can have some respite from the public floggings and begin the healing process they both so desperately need.

Another question, someone in another thread insinuated that 3ABN's drop from Skyangel was akin to an act of God - maybe even His sign that it should disappear. Could it be that it happened because God wanted to give everyone time to heal in a less visible way. The whole issue of dealing with the satellite provider was really a board issue to deal with since they approve contracts of that nature. This "down time" might very well have been necessary so that Danny and Linda could heal in a more private way - but here is the church body desperately seeking the public airing of everyones dirty linens. I dare say it is the church body is has kept this going and has not let them work through the grief process and begin to heal.

Again - my thoughts, take it all with a grain of salt.

Clay,

Very true. When I married I had no intention of ever speaking harshly against my wife. However in the pain of the divorce process I did say things I regreted saying and when the pain had subsided a bit and I could see more clearly I made ammends. Again, your desire is the desire of most men when they marry - but the reality of the end of a marriage is worse than one can imagine.

Belaboring the point of the divorce in Guam I don't think has merit in the overall discussion here. Not that I think your response isn't valid, I just think it was a knee jerk reaction to attempt to keep it as quiet and make it go as quickly as possible so as not to disrupt either of their lives more than was already the case. Now, if Linda says she didn't want it why didn't she make the extreme efforts to banish all potentially misconstrued happenings in her life? She could have had Brenda for instance handle communiques with her son's Dr. - yes, that would have been hard because it was her child, but sometimes we have to take the hard road in order to keep our lives in sync with God. My point here is not to get into a "point-counterpoint" dance with you, rather it is to balance it out by indicating that while Danny is not with blame - neither is Linda . . . and both have acted in a less than Christian manner at times since the divorce.

In western society is there anyway for any of these ministries to operate as anythign but a business? Tax law dictates that you have to some identity as a business of some sorts in oder for the government to get its cut of what you bring in - "for profit", not for profit", there is always a business classification for these entities.

And I agree, sometime stuff just happens, but even your insurance policy classfies a bunch of stuff as "acts of God."

However in the pain of the divorce process I did say things I regreted saying and when the pain had subsided a bit and I could see more clearly I made ammends. Again, your desire is the desire of most men when they marry - but the reality of the end of a marriage is worse than one can imagine.

Belaboring the point of the divorce in Guam I don't think has merit in the overall discussion here. Not that I think your response isn't valid, I just think it was a knee jerk reaction to attempt to keep it as quiet and make it go as quickly as possible so as not to disrupt either of their lives more than was already the case. Now, if Linda says she didn't want it why didn't she make the extreme efforts to banish all potentially misconstrued happenings in her life? She could have had Brenda for instance handle communiques with her son's Dr. - yes, that would have been hard because it was her child, but sometimes we have to take the hard road in order to keep our lives in sync with God.

My point here is not to get into a "point-counterpoint" dance with you, rather it is to balance it out by indicating that while Danny is not with blame - neither is Linda . . . and both have acted in a less than Christian manner at times since the divorce.

In western society is there anyway for any of these ministries to operate as anythign but a business? Tax law dictates that you have to some identity as a business of some sorts in oder for the government to get its cut of what you bring in - "for profit", not for profit", there is always a business classification for these entities.

And I agree, sometime stuff just happens, but even your insurance policy classfies a bunch of stuff as "acts of God."

Clay,

A very valid metaphor - the only promblem is this: You and I have the luxury of sitting in our comfy chairs at home and watching the slow motion replay on television. We see both fouls. We don't even have to be front row center court. On the other hand, as it pertains to the situations at 3ABN we don't have instant replay - we don't even have the luxury of seeing the events happen. We hear about them, far to often second and third person removed from the actual events.

As for a sports metaphor for this situation I like Babe Ruth's last World Series homerun in Chicago in '32. The lengend has it that he called his shot before hitting the homerun. However, after all was said and done and the interviews were printed here is what was said:

Yankee manager Joe McCarthy: "To tell the truth I didn't see him point anywhere at all. But, maybe I turned my head for a moment."

Yankee pitcher Geroge Pipgras: "The Babe pointed out to right field and that's where he hit the ball."

Babe Ruth: "I didn't point to any spot like the flagpole. I just sorta waved at the whole fence, but that was foolish enough."

Years later film footage of the game showed that Ruth was probably not signiallying to the bleachers at all, but was instead pointing to the Cubs bench.

So do we know what happened. No, not for sure. There was no television broadcast and even the film isnt clear enough to really see - not to mention the most important part, we don't have a clue what Ruth was thinking at the moment.

We can't know the truth in their (Linda and Danny) hearts - but we can find ways to ease their pain. We can allow them to work this out in private (as much as that is possible at this point) in their time AND encourage them to do just that. Make amends, heal the wounds, and rebuild their lives. This is my point all along - nothing is accomplished by medeing out kangaroo court justice - which is all everyone outside the situaton can do.

that's fine... its like a negotiated ceasefire.... it only lasts until one of the warring sides shoots again... I saw a piece of the live 3abn broadcast in which those employed by Mr. Shelton suggested that he is like Moses, and other annointed leaders found in the bible.... and that he had been seduced by a Salome like female....

I have no problem letting folks heal, however you have the issue of those who have been personally mistreated by Mr. Shelton.... where is their justice and what form will their healing take?

Another thing that comes to mind here, is that Fallible you keep saying that Danny is being mistreated in some say. Now, I don't see it that way. Danny is only being asked to make amends or at least acknowledge and apologize for the sins he has committed towards Linda, and others. It is my experience that those who offend and are intentionally or unintentionally clueless to the damaged they have caused, often play the victim. After they have decided that they have "moved on" from the situation, they genuinely feel attacked if they are asked acknowledge in some way their still unresolved offenses. Often leaving many, many emotionally bleeding victims in their wake.

Your reasoning makes Danny a victim in this tragedy also. This is not true, no more that we all falling victim to sin , most often intentionally. Danny and his people have done ALL of the talking and accusing. As late as two weeks ago Shelly Quinn was comparing Linda nd her daughter to Herodias and Salome, and Danny to John the Baptist. Point is, Fallible, Danny not being attacked is only being asked, as a leader iun SDA christian living(by his own admission) to answer for his un Christ-like behavior and the many offenses he has commited, especially in the last two years. He is palying the victim, because, he sees himeself as "moved on" and he has created a new reality for himself in which those unresolved offenses are highly rationalized or no longer exist.

Fallible, my issue with the speculation of Danny's victimization is that Danny publically, that is, globally called Linda and those associated with her less than Christian names. If he was hurt, why air the dirty laundry globally? Why set about persecuting not only her, but anyone who seemed to be friendly or civil toward her? I am happily married and I have had friends who have gone through a divorce. However, I have never received retribution from any of them when I showed friendliness to the exiting or ex-spouse. His public/global reaction that included getting his "people' to take care of (in a negative manner) Linda and her cohorts was/ is far from Christlike--far from civil behavior.

I don't see Danny as the victim; I do see him as the bully and his cronies who agreed with him are co-conspirators. It is sad that all of this is done in the name of Christ.

Di,

I don't intend for you to see it my way, I have no problem with the fact that we are on opposite sides here - that is the way it is in most dialogues. I realize that my words may be interpreted as being designed to prop Danny up as a victim, they are not. I have no doubts that Danny did things that were detrimental to the marriage, that he did things that were damaging during the divorce process, that he did things that have hurt Linda and others. My continued point is this - none of this is one sided. Now I have to make it clear that I do not constantly watch 3ABN and can not vouch for every moment Danny has been on since the divorce process began. I do find it hard to believe that he blatently singled Linda out, naming her by name and "trashed" her to the world.

There have been other times in its history, even while Linda was there, that 3ABN has come underfire for one reason or another - the Devil will continue to try new avenues until he finds one that will bring a person or an agency of God down (and we all have the Hope of Jesus to over come each one he tries with us).

The break of a marrige is ugly. As I mentioned before I have been there. To my hearts chagrin I slung arrows. At the same time I was pelted with many myself. I keep hearing over and over that Danny did this, and Danny did that - and though I feel far to many of the accusations that have been leveled here are unsubstantiated, I am not naive enough to fail to admit that I have no doubt there are some that are true. What I don't see present is an admission that Linda has slung her own set of arrows at individuals and though they may have flown a little more subtly, they none-the-less have. I understand your cry for acknowledgement and the making of amends, but who are we to demand it? We can want it, we can pray for it, we can counsel to the parties that that would be God's greatest desire. But, we can never make either one of them acknowledge their failings and apologize.

I know you want Linda to heal and to be able to move forward in her life and ministry, just as so many want the same for Danny. But the solution is ONLY in their hands. They can only, through the available strength of our God, take this and do something with it. We can't force someones hand - it's kind of like when a parent stops a fight between siblings, holding each by the arm and says, "Now apologize to each other." - we all know the sound of that "I'm sorry."

What might happen if everyone with a "position" on this for a moment set down their perspective and wrote to both Danny and Linda offering their prayers for a making of amends - and the healing process each needs. Nothing more than that - could God use that show of Christian love to soften hearts?

As for Danny moving on, I don't believe that he has truly moved on, it takes time and lots of it. As much as it is possible that he did just kick her out. It is just as plausible that the "unknown evidence" is true and that Linda was guilty of breaking her marriage commitment - thus Danny's very painful experience which caused him to give into those base emotions of getting even. Either one is possible. How do we know who is truthful? I recall something from CA where both Linda and Danny claimed the other filed for divorce. It really doesn't matter who filed or if one was going to but the other did. All that matters is two peoples lives were drastically and painfully changed. They were/are public people and because of this those on the outside have felt they need a detailed accounting of the events - in order to pass sentence and make a decision whose side they are on. What if we all were just on both of their sides and seeking, fervently in prayer that each be filled with the peace that passes understanding and this alone lead them to make their amends?

I agree with Clay. Danny handled a number of things poorly through the process - where I differ from many is that I do not believe it was from ill intent towards others, it was because of the pain and the Devil enjoys pain because for most of us he easily gets us to do what he wants when we are in it.

Actually, my concern is not either party(Danny and Linda) as they relate to each other. I, like Clay, have always said that even if Linda did each and everything she is accused of, Danny and 3ABN board took the low road in dealing with her. They are the one who claim to be the leaders in SDA Christian living, then they should live that no matter the circumstance. They were vindictive from the start. Danny even coming here to lie to us about he and Linda nd how they spent so much time together and still love each other, only to find out later, he was actually on his way to Guam for a quickie divorce. He had no intention of getting back together with Linda. Now he did not ever need to cme to BSDA to tell us they were receiving counselling, etc. together. That is the kind of actions I am talking about. Linda came here, also, and di d an interview. She was kind and gracious, and i have heard nothing, not even from her enemies to prove that she has ever been less than that, even through this mess. Even Danny doesn't say it, he claims she was seduced because she spent too much time on the internet and on the phone with this the Dr. I know that Danny and his gang have eluded to evidence for two years, and not one shread from that day to this one. So, the rest I am defintely concerned about as there seems to be some question of sexual abuse, and the eprsonal experiences of some here who were wronged in one way or another, or just observed behavior by Danny and th officers at 3ABN that were not at all Christ like. Those get added to the pot. My problem is I am not seeing Jesus in Dannyand the officers and pastors of 3ABN or their actions.

Did you say you read the acounts here? Linda cannot talk, let alone sling any arrows. The agreement/gag order is posted here also. However, in scuring Lindas silence about his part an any of this mess, Danny did not extend to her the same courtesy. We can confront a person about their actions, and ask that they make amends, but if they decide not acknowledge let alone repair any wrongs they have done, you will have to understand if people no longer place themselves in harm's way by extending trust to this person, after it has been betrayed and unacknowledged. Surely, you know that people who are not held accountable for their actions, continue to offend and are bolder with each offense. There are no consequences, why would they stop? this is not just about a break up of a marriage, it is about the intergrity of Danny and 3ABN. Danyy display a HUGE character flaw that is emotionally and spiritually damaging to those around him. There is nothing more dangerous that someone who is oblivious or just uncaring about the damage their actions and words inflict upon others.

understand your suspicion since you are merely lookinng in from the outside. You may not be willing o look at things from my perspective because you do not know me.

was in this from before it started. I was working for Danny and Linda and with them. Both were getting close to us when this visitor came to see us at 3ABN. He came to us as a friend and a physician to check my wife who had a serious case of cancer. He wanted to see and compare what inda's and Danny's medical friends could do for her, and what he could do for her back in Europe. So inda wondered what he might be able to do for her son, whom no other physician had been able to help. An immediate friendship started - right in our kitchen - between Nathan and Dr. Arild, and the doctor invited Nathan to come to his clinic in Norway without charging him for it.

Nathan's girlfriend came along and stayed about a week. Then Linda came for a 3-day visit to see the progress, and Brenda Walsh came along to check on Linda, as I was told at the time. I went there too while Linda and Brenda were there. The first person I saw near Arild's house was a charming young person I had never seen before, I thought. When I started talking to him I discovered it was a re-:reated version of Nathan.

have often wondered later why Dr. Walt Thompson and Danny Shelton have publically stated that his whole thing had nothing to do with Nathan, but then I recalled what extremely poor relationship here was between Danny and his foster son.

:rom this time on I was in close communication with the following three persons:

Danny Shelton
inda Shelton
Dr. Arild Abrahamsen

All three were telling me their thoughts and reporting what they were doing, either by e-mail or by phone. Danny and Linda were extrermely busy during the month of February 2004. Rallies in Florida and the Phillipines. Then they were back home in March, and that is when things started rolling.

So I also experienced first-hand most of the things you find in Dr. Arild Abrahamsen's letter here, and can verify it is the truth. I had also talked to Dr. Walt Thompson, Nick Miller and John Lomacang before the divorce. I could verify that my wife and I had been with Arild in Norway when Danny nsisted he and Linda had been together in Florida. Danny refused us to appear before the board to verify Linda's innosence.

I could go on telling how Danny told the worst tales about Linda. How he insinuated Arild had killed his wife, etc.

Read Arild Abrahamsen's account. If you have any questions feel free to ask. My e-mail is johann@direkte.org.

The only reason I can think of is that she wanted the fame and glory that comes with world wide reconition (sp). Also when she found out about Alyssa what kept her from going to the courts? Being afraid of Danny and his gang and going through a divorce does not let a mother off the hook when it comes to child molestation. I don't care what risks a person has to take. This is a serious crime and a mother who doesn't go to the authorities is just at much at fault as the pepetrator of the crime. Now we add Brandi to the mix and here is another chance for a crime to be committed. I think these are all sick sick people. We need to pray for them. We need to do something!!! If for no other reason then this Danny should not be

Chez,

You asked, "If he was hurt, why air the dirty laundry globally?" - I think you answered your own question there. When someone has wronged us, for most the instant reaction is how can I defend myself - by striking back. In most cases that is done with words, in others people actually physically strike out. Our sinful nature says, you hurt me so I will hurt you back. Danny's responses, in my mind, indicates that there was genuine emotional pain. If he wasn't hurt why bother with Linda, why even give her words and actions credence?

An acquaintance of mine has been involved in a divorce that has taken four years (so far) and for her personally almost 30K dollars in attorney fees. I listen to her talk about the situation and so much of it is a constant back and forth between them because they are both still in so much emotional pain that they can't stop trying to hurt the other one more than they hurt. Consider this for a moment, if you were in Danny's shoes wouldn't it come to mind that one way to certainly hurt Linda would be to try and cut her off from her friends?

I don't for a second condone that kind of action or any other that leads to causing another person loss or pain. My point here is not to defend Danny, but to point out that there is plenty of blame to go around and we really don't need to heap coals on the fire by aiding in continuing the strife.

You claim that Danny has been getting "his people" to "take care" of Linda. Do you have documented proof that he has done this. Have you heard him say it, are their emails with this directive? What is the evidence? Or are you simply making a generalized speculation that this is what has happened? Is it possible that some of the people that are working at 3ABN have taken it upon themselves to "send a message" through their time on air - sure that is possible. Can you prove it? I posit you can not, without a healthy dose of speculation and assuming you know the mind of the individual.

Just for the record, I do not believe Danny is a victim as he is responsible for his action - as is Linda responsible for hers.

QUOTE(Chez @ Aug 23 2006, 02:41 PM)

Fallible, my issue with the speculation of Danny's victimization is that Danny publically, that is, globally called Linda and those associated with her less than Christian names. If he was hurt, why air the dirty laundry globally? Why set about persecuting not only her, but anyone who seemed to be friendly or civil toward her? I am happily married and I have had friends who have gone through a divorce. However, I have never received retribution from any of them when I showed friendliness to the exiting or ex-spouse. His public/global reaction that included getting his "people' to take care of (in a negative manner) Linda and her cohorts was/ is far from Christlike--far from civil behavior.

I don't see Danny as the victim; I do see him as the bully and his cronies who agreed with him are co-conspirators. It is sad that all of this is done in the name of Christ.

Di,

QUOTE(princessdi @ Aug 23 2006, 02:07 PM)

. . . Danny and his people have done ALL of the talking and accusing . . .

Is this accurate? Has Linda truly not discussed her side of the story with no one? Now, what if when her severance ends (someone mentioned 4 more payments so I am guessing that means 4 more months) she "goes public" with her case against Danny - what will the end result be? Will that just be a new chapter of pain for both of them.

There has been much mention of Danny acknowledging his failings and making amends. Does this make him unloveable? Unforgivable? Jesus' admonition to Peter to forgive 70 x 7 doesn't come with a caveat that first the offending individual must apologize. Earlier today I made this point, who are we to demand Danny's or Linda's apology for anything they did - we can not hold them accountable, it is God's work to do this.

So then, if we look at the accusations here and for a moment consider that where the divorce and subsequent name calling and finger pointing are concerned, we can do no more than pray for each. Pray the holy Spirit works in their hearts and breaks them at the foot of the Cross so they can make the peace between them they both need.

What does that leave. The issues that have been raised about Danny and his behavior with certain employees and others outside the bounds of 3ABN. As I said a day or so ago - where is the documentation? Where are the primary sources? Without these there is only the word of a few former employees and those who feel they are providing a truthful witness. Are there just as many who have had interactions and dealings with Danny who bear witness to an entirely different reality? Who do we believe?

Is there an ongoing investigation in regards to the affidavit in regards to the molestation charge? If there is there should be something that can be provided to show this is an ongoing situation or not. The affidavit itself with the individuals name removed would lend credence to the charge.

I know that it seems as if I am defending Danny - again, I am not defending his poor choices and unChristian behavior. But neither am I going to defend Linda for hers either. Just admit that they both have erred occassionally in dealing with each other and with other people.

runk on "Brandy"?
as anyone noticed that, when "Danny's supporters", and Danny himself, posts comments, they equire EXACT emails, exactly "WHO" said what, and "Exactly when", "Specifically Where?" and so on .. But when they/he try to present their side, in spite of all the hundreds of hours of "undercover" pies they have hired, in spite of all the "tag-along-witnesses". (i.e. sending Brenda along with Linda to Europe to keep an eye on Linda and report something "juicy") that still they were able to produce nothing that qualifies as "evidence" according to the standards of evidence that they demand in here, day after day.

Obviously they are looking for someone to go after to smear, to destroy, to blackmail into silence. Is there anything they can :pin down right now?, early on?, to ease their fears of what may be coming?", something they can take to court, or to keep out of court.

Is there a sexual complaint case pending? Boy wouldn't they like to know? And as soon as possible. Maybe they could throw money in form of a "settlement towards silencing" the victim. They assume everybody has a price, because they do. What was Danny's price for betraying his commission before God?

Food for thought?

Truly Blonde, I'm afraid you're forgetting the time line!!

Linda married Dan more than 20 years ago. There was no 3ABN at that time! Linda was a co-founder of 3ABN! So there was no "world-wide recognition" to be gained by marrying Dan Shelton. You appear to have bought in to the lie that 3ABN was founded by Dan Shelton alone ...

You are also assuming that Dan must have told Linda that Melody slept with him, and I'm guessing that is an incorrect assumption.

As for when she found out about her daughter -- you are again assuming that she found out when it happened. If you had paid better attention, you would know that this is not so. (Read Barbara Kerr's letter.) You do not know whether things are being taken to the courts. It also depends on the wishes of the victim who is now legally an adult. Thus her mother can no longer decide for her.

Posted by: Truly Blonde Aug 24 2006, 04:53 PM

Sorry Inga I guess that is why I am Truly Blonde. I thought I read somewhere that The wife to be when she found out about Melody confronted Danny and he continued with the same behavior. I do not know when Linda found out about Alyssa. I was just wondering if anyone knew if legal action was being taken. To me this is worse then what Danny is doing to Linda. I agree that there has been a lot of mud slinging by Danny and his gang and I cringe when I hear people say he is the face of the church. I have watched 3abn for at least four years and I have to admit that I don't usually watch the programs that he is on. I watch Dr. Bohr, Dough Batchelor, The pastor from Moses Lake etc. I have watched house calls a few times but I really don't care for John Lomancang. I love his singing voice though. I watched a program with a group of people that Mollie was leading out in and to me it was just a fund raiser type program. They obviously pick and choose what e-mails they read as my husband asked a question about grace and they never even addressed it. I to would like to know if any of the former employees have any hard evidence of the things they are accusing Danny and his gang about. I don't need to know what the e-mails say just do you have anything or is all just hearsay? This is second party info. A lady in our church visited another church and Linda happened to be at that church. I don't know if she was speaking or just visiting but after church she talked to my friend and she went on and out about Danny and the things he had done to her. My friend said she was really shocked and thought she should get on with life. As far as I know my friend knows nothing about the things i have read here just the things she has heard from Danny and his gang. Don't know if she would have responded differently if she knew. The point being that Linda is talking maybe not like Danny but she is talking. Once again I think it is more important about the criminal things he is doing then if he has asked Linda for forgiveness for the way he has treated her. Also a question---the people on this thread who have worked for 3abn do any of them have any legal recourse in the handeling of their departurers or is it a case of they are too afraid of Danny to do anything? What about a class action suit. Maybe if everyone banded together they could get something done.

Just a thought Truly Blonde

I am directing this to anyone who can answer this question.

I have seen it many times in the past weeks, the reference to Danny being the "Face of Adventism" - I would agree this is a rather ridiculous claim as there really never was nor has there ever been a "Face of Adventism." There have been various prominent faces in all the years I have been an Adventist and there are the faces from the past - but at any given time I don't think there was a singular individual who would qualify as the "Face of Adventism."

SO my question is this, where exactly was this started? Does anyone know the first time it was used, who used it, what medium was used to float this phrase? Neither Danny nor Linda has ever been this "Face" and I do not think either would readily accept such a title.

Anger? Who said I was angry? I didn't post in anger. Are you angry?

Let's say someone replies and says so & so did it. What does that have to do with the topic being discussed? None. Why not find some facts?

How will finding out who said this help you decide anything about Danny or Linda? You, yourself, said Danny or Linda probably wouldn't accept that comment. I still cannot understand why the question.

I am not angry, just stating my opinion.

By the way, I noticed you have been investigating. Where, oh where, is the Babe word? Why did you leave half off? rofl

Franny,

In my search for answers you do not get to decide the questions I get to ask - you can provide answers for me, that is your choice. This is a question I am seeking an answer to. Either you can answer it or you can't.

As for the topic - I was banished to this space (that is tongue in cheek Clay), so this is where I decided to ask it - and since it didn't really fit anywhere else it makes sense.

You don't need to understand the question, you don't need to understand my process, you don't need to control it, "get it" or anything else. I asked a question stated what I thought about the whole concept and there you have it. Either you can answer it or you can not. First of all it isn't abot Danny or Linda - many others have been implicated here Bonnie, Shelly, Melody, Dr. Thompson, and other unnamed individuals - I am curious where this idea came from . . . if you pause a moment and realize that your answer (if you have one) can provide context in your favor you might answer.

Obviously your last statment is meant to draw something out of me because you have a suspicion of who I am - sorry - I have not a clue what you are talking about.

Hey Fally (tongue in cheek),

I spent thirteen years at 3ABN and during that time I heard countless times from church members around the globe, church leaders, and 3ABN leaders that 3ABN is the face of Adventism to millions of people and Danny is the face of 3ABN. A fewer number of people said that Danny, as the face of 3ABN, is the face of the church to many people. The statement you are asking about predates the current issue by many years. It is not new. I hope this helps in your quest for answers.

Thanks Bear,

I guess people need heros - someone "bigger" then they are. Hhhhmmm isn't that how we see God. In any event, it seemed as if the suggestion here was that someone recently had made this pronouncement and was attempting to instill it in the vernacular in order to create a perception.

I have had a few phone calls recently and things are growing clearer - phone calls from people I know and some that were out of the blue.

It seems that if the phrase predates the current situation that more than likely it was a comment that Danny and Linda were the face of Adventism - did that ever happen? Too bad we can't just say we are all the face of Adventism/Christianity . . . Danny and Linda were merely the most visible faces du jour (fr sp?) . . . 3ABN however, not the face, but the most far reaching voice for the faith we hold dear - it isn't to surprising that it has been seen as such.

Thanks for offering an answer.

Ideally only Christ would be the face of Christianity, and of the Seventh-day Adventist Church, however, we live in the real world and reality is that those who purport to reflect Christ, and those who need someone to be their little graven image have turned Danny, Linda, Finley, Bachelor, you, or whoever into their own tin god. When it really gets ugly is when that little tin god accepts, and requires that worship, faith , and adulation. Human nature is such that this is inevitable on both sides. There have always been cult followers and leaders that feed off of each other.

Hi Danny,
I imagine that you are receiving a lot of phone calls now. I'm sure you are making a lot of them too.

I'm not really sure why you are pursuing this "face of Adventism" thing, other than to try to draw Linda right back into the picture with you for some reason. Interesting.....

Yes, you are what I refer to as "the poster child" for the Adventist church. I've called you that for a long time now and as beartrap pointed out, the reference predates anything happening on this forum now.

Danny, if you're curious as to why your face is the most visible one out there, it's because you make it the most visible face out there. You are the only president of a major network that is continuously in front of the camera. Look around. You don't see the president of ABC, CBS & NBC in front of the cameras day and night. (I'll give you Pat Robertson though -- he's always there)

I do find it interesting that you don't like the title now. Why not? I would think that you would be flattered. Of course, I gave up a long time ago trying to figure out why you do the things you do.

Sorry for the delay. I've been in the hospital and did not know this thread had grown so much. Anyway, there was a great deal of speculation regarding Kay's death after it was reported that there were no skid marks on the pavement, even though it was also reported that Kay said, "OH, no!" just before impact. It only makes sense that that report would have come from Melody. What happened to the police reports and was there an examination of the brakes after the accident? I do not know the answers to these questions, but I know that police reports are sometimes changed if enough money exchanges hands. Was that done here? Again, I do not know but there are enough questions about the whole situation that I am really curious about the answers. Who knows? Only God.

BlackSDA _ 3ABN _ Why All The Sensationalism

Posted by: Daryl Fawcett Aug 23 2006, 07:59 AM

This question is being asked of me over at MSDAOL, therefore, I created a topic on it there, and thought I would also create a similar one here, as I too am now wondering, why all this sensationalism?

Why not present the facts of it all, instead of facts mixed with fiction, etc.???

Posted by: PrincessDrRe Aug 23 2006, 08:01 AM

Because what started this off was a big piece of fiction.

What starts something off normally ends up being sprinkled in it all....

Posted by: Daryl Fawcett Aug 23 2006, 08:04 AM

Fiction shouldn't be mingled with truth, just as truth shouldn't be mixed with error.

Fiction mixed with truth is the work of the devil, and do we want to be associated with the devil's tactics?

and you believe that you possess the total truth? About anything? Everything we have contains some error... the only person who has total unadulterated truth is The Creator.... everyone else is suspect.... so while you may believe its a black and white world, it is not...

Posted by: Daryl Fawcett Aug 23 2006, 08:11 AM

I am talking about known fiction that is being posted in the form of sensationalism.

To copy from somebody over at MSDAOL:

QUOTE

It just seems like we are straying away from facts and into the world of speculation and sensationalism with the following: "Back at the compound, the Televangelist leans back in a large couch. His eyes drift over to where a new step-daughter is playing and his lips curl in a slight smile. He reaches over and pats his new wife on the thigh, as he watches the little girl play. Memory takes him back over the years to another step-daughter."

To copy from somebody over at MSDAOL:

was that posted as "fact?" does not the narrative it comes from claim to be a work of fiction?

Posted by: Daryl Fawcett Aug 23 2006, 08:26 AM

To quote part of a post by watchbird:

QUOTE

"The Televangelist" is a very unique document in that it names no names, gives no dates, and claims to be a work of fiction. However, the lines which make that claim are the only purely fictional lines in the whole work, and were added after the work was completed at the advice of legal counsel. There are, to be sure, "fictionalized" lines within the document, that is lines where the story is told through the vehicle of the thoughts of the Televangelist as he supposedly reminisces or plans.

It's the last sentence in the above quote that concerns me, as this is stated as known fiction, which I am asking, why does it even need to be there?

QUOTE(Daryl Fawcett @ Aug 23 2006, 08:26 AM)

To quote part of a post by watchbird:
""The Televangelist" is a very unique document in that it names no names, gives no dates, and claims to be a work of fiction. However, the lines which make that claim are the only purely fictional lines in the whole work, and were added after the work was completed at the advice of legal counsel. There are, to be sure, "fictionalized" lines within the document, that is lines where the story is told through the vehicle of the thoughts of the Televangelist as he supposedly reminisces or plans. "

It's the last sentence in the above quote that concerns me, as this is stated as known fiction, which I am asking, why does it even need to be there?

As I have said before ..... there is a difference between "fiction" and "fictionalized". Fiction means something that is not true. Fictionalized means something that is true which is written in the STYLE of fiction, and for the purpose of giving depth of feeling and breadth of context to the facts which are being stated in this literary genre.

As to the general answer to the question of why it was written in this style: The facts had already been presented in staid prose and with names attached to various individuals .... especially to those in positions of church leadership. (According to Matt. 18 principles.) They were completely ignored, or worse, the facts were taken back to the principal persons involved, who claimed that all were lies ..... and those who were trying to inform were persecuted the more for their efforts, including threats of lawsuits of various kinds.

It was in this atmosphere .... and with the advice of Legal Counsel .... that the author of The Televangelist wrote out the facts of a wide variety of problems in a "fictionalized" manner, hoping to get more people to read, ask questions, and hopefully not quit asking questions until they found out the truths that were partially revealled by this method.

It is a matter of history ..... though largely an untold and untellable history .... that it did indeed accomplish its purpose. And the answers that were found when people started digging far overshadowed the pale "fictionalized" pictures that were sketched out in The Televangelist. More than one person since then has exclaimed, "The Truth is stranger than fiction."

That continues to this day ..... and if you think that The Televangelist is overly "sensational" and "dramatic", then I can only say that this is because you haven't yet found all the factual stories that are incompletely sketched so dimly and unemotionally by the author of The Televangelist.

Posted by: Clay Aug 23 2006, 10:06 AM the problem is that people will conclude that whatever is contained in a fictionalized style of writing is in essence true, but the names have been withheld or changed....

In the hyper-litigious atmosphere in which public discourse occurs in this society, sometimes the Jack Webb "just the facts, ma'am" style is not prudent. A lot of truth has been buried because the person wishing to bury it has deep enough pockets to keep court proceedings ongoing enough that the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth never sees the light of day.

LOL!!! See! Now I wasn't questioning the parables or even their use, but saying that actually, Televangelist is akin to them. As they couch the truth in fiction in order to make it better understood. I believe the disciples asked Jesus about why He used those stories, and didn't He say that the people would understand better if the message was put in everday terms they can in which they are familiar. I see nothing wrong with it.

At the end of June, we talked about what Watchbird coined as the Daryl Fawcett "fact book." I also mentioned at that time that I hoped you (Daryl Fawcett) would not be disappointed when the various parties did not produce "film at eleven."

However, now I see you have created a topic of facts versus sensationalism. Is some disappointment starting to set in?

Does Jesus say in John 8:32 "And you shall know the bare facts, and the bare facts shall make you free."?

Or does He speak of truth?

For instance, the overwhelming truth of this situation goes beyond whether we print the names of the private investigators who followed Arild Abrahamsen and Johann Thorvaldsson after they were expelled from the 3ABN Campmeeting.

Remember, since this campmeeting occurred on a weekend, these private investigators were most likely hired by Garwin McNeilus and Danny Shelton to work on the Sabbath. So, why not just fictionalize them?

However, we are in the process of collecting enough information to know what happened.

I can verify that what you are saying is no fiction, because Danny Shelton produced pictures taken by the one of the three PI who were following every step we took on the last Sabbath of May, 2004. Still on the Sabbath he phoned to let us know he had those pictures.

This came to mind:

They could rest little upon the Sabbath. Though they would not step over a Gentile's threshold for fear of defilement, yet they held a council concerning the body of Christ. Death and the grave must hold Him whom they had crucified. "The chief priests and Pharisees came together unto Pilate, saying, Sir, we remember that that deceiver said, while He was yet alive, After three days I will rise again. Command therefore that the sepulcher be made sure until the third day, lest His disciples come by night, and steal Him away, and say unto the people, He is risen from the dead: so the last error shall be worse than the first. Pilate said unto them, Ye have a watch: go your way, make it as sure as ye can." Matt. 27:62-65. {DA 777.3}

The first thing I noticed (which makes sense since it was the first thing in it!) about "The Televangelist" is the tendency to poison the well.

Anyone who plays the Hitler card had better have millions of body bags to back it up.

QUOTE

Adolph Hitler turned the failed German economy around and provided millions of jobs. He built a well disciplined society out of the anarchy resulting from World War One and the fall of the Austro-Hungarian Empire. As their savior, Hitler had the full support of the German people, and much of the world until his war of conquest became global, and his true intention shone through. His actions, both good and bad, were taken with the best intentions. He firmly believed that a global Third Reich was the only salvation of the world, yet the world he was trying to save turned on him with a vengeance. In the end, he felt that he had done no wrong.

Pol Pot closed the borders of Cambodia and launched an internal bloodbath almost unequaled in history. Using the "loving father who is cleansing and protecting his children" psychology, he decimated the population of his country. He believed that he was saving the true Cambodia by getting rid of all foreign influence, and eliminating those people who showed any sign of being tainted. He did not consider himself a monster, he was a savior.

certainly agree with that.

My question is not whether it is needed but whether it hurts the overall case.

Several have said we should direct people here to learn the truth. And I think the Illinois state document and some of the letters, etc. are important evidences in doing that. But I am less likely to send people here when there are also fictionalized works that have these kind of claims in them. Those that support 3ABN who are already inclined to think that Danny is right and these folks are just gossips are turned off by such accounts. It has a dampening effect on the whole argument.

Beyond that I still don't see how the fictionalized thing is helpful.

If you come on a message board and post a fictional story, then put names to it, and insist that is actually true, how does that make you any less liable then coming to a message board, putting out the actual facts, and attaching names?

perceive that your problem with this may be in not understanding its background.

irst of all, the author did not come on to this board and post a fictional story. The story was written in lay of 2005. It was distributed privately, by email only, with instructions that it was not to be posted n any website. This, as was the line about it being "fiction", was done because of instruction by "legal ounsel" that there were legal ramifications to "publishing" it on a web site that went beyond the "safe one" for distribution. The paper was, as I have said before, written for the purpose of letting people now, in as discreet and as safe a way as possible that there wre many problems at 3ABN. It was sent nostly to church leaders and other concerned individuals. It was NOT put on any forum until omparatively recently, when someone posted it in its entirety to BSDA. If you go to the thread where his was done as the first post, you can see the discussion that followed as to whether this was a iolation of copyright and whether the author approved. After giving a period of time for those who new the author to contact him and get his comments, it was concluded that the author was in armony with it being posted here. Recent posts by the author sent through Sister have confirmed hat he not only approves of this being here, but has sent other stories which are more focused than his for her to post for him.

recisely. And this is what we have done ... now that it is here, surrounded as it is by others who are elling parts of the story ... we point out that this gives a broad overview, and people who read the arious views can piece them together like the pieces of a jigsaw puzzle, so that each account gives a ittle more detail to the whole picture than any one of them would alone.

t has been necessary to tell things in these little bits and pieces for the past two years. Soon, very oon, the story will be told in its fullness. We who have come here and posted the "jots and tittles" ave done so hoping that by doing it in this way the shock that will hit some people will be somewhat nitigated by them having already learned things a little bit at a time.

agree fully with what watchbird is saying here. To this I could merely add that one of the rearsons he author wrote this as a fiction was to protect as many of the innocent as possble. It is difficult to ell a story like this without also giving some information on other people's activities, and it may be lifficult to tell the story without seemingly accusing them of being "guilty" too.

Ve could discuss till doomsday what is the proper way of doing this, but let's rather get on with the acts without involving more people than neccessary.

n the very latest response, Dr. Walt Thompson insists they had "defensible" evidence. In his last tatement, he didn't say his evidence was true, he said it was "defensible." That's different than true." Thompson is a wordsmith. Some will speed-read over everything, impatiently, thinking one vord means the same as another and miss the shading of those words.

lease also note that 3ABN has never presented this evidence. Have you noticed that? And it certainly as never been presented to any attorney representing the targeted people for a response. Evidence hat is never presented in a proper way counts as genuine "fiction" in my book.

o, if you "really insist that it is actually true" you must start by contacting Dr. Thompson and insisting hat he present this evidence to you. These are the people, after all, who made the original charges. o, you need to go to the source of the charges, and ask for the original evidence. In any problem, ou always go to the source. That's just common sense.

repeat, that "evidence" is controlled by Dr. Walt Thompson, Chairman of the Board of 3ABN.

But Thompson is not going to share anything. Therefore, his "evidence" counts as being the fiction. It might as well be evidence of Martians on the moon, if nobody's ever going to see it.

My point is that we have to realize that fictional writing may be taking place on the other side of the table, from the actual source of the controversy, itself, but it just isn't being recognized as such because some of the unwavering, diehard, faithful followers of 3ABN are giving 3ABN the "benefit of the doubt" which is highly unfair and irrational.

The biggest problem is 3ABN claims to have shown their secret evidence to people in "leadership." So, do we ask these people in "leadership" what they were shown? Do we demand that Don Schneider and/or anyone else who was presented with this data come clean and explain it to the rest of us?

Were any of the targeted parties, or their attorneys, present to see this presentation? I think not.

Therefore, the burden is squarely on the shoulders of the people who made the charges in the first place. It's their duty to come forward with their evidence.

If Hitler bombs London, do we criticize the British for the various ways they try to put out the fires? Of course, not. We cannot hold the people driving the fire trucks to a higher standard of expertise than the people who started the massive fires in the first place.

The people who started the current fires are all at 3ABN.

Well, speaking of bodybags, what about India? How many people are dying there every day? (It's one of the most populous countries on earth.) And yet, how many of them is 3ABN reaching? As can be read on the Wikipedia (http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/3ABN), currently none, since they were banned from the country. The next question is, Why? Is God doing damage control? Consider that 3ABN is representing God to millions, and God has an interest in preserving His name. Eternal death is much more to be feared than our mere departure from this life. It's too bad about those who never had a chance to hear the good news. May we never be responsible for such through our neglect.

It is God's responsibility to reach everyone. We have an opportunity to be a vessel, a tool, a vehicle, to be part of that. When a vessel, a tool, or a vehicle becomes of no more use, there are other of the same. God is always in control. He doesn't NEED man/woman to do it for him. If we are given the opportunity and we blow it, I know MY GOD has many more mysterious ways to get it done still. God may do damage control, but I think He probably does many things at once every minute of time. I have faith in God to always do what is needed and when, and that to me makes me remember that HE IS IN CONTROL, and we need not worry about all the "whys". When we start thinking and become obsessed with the idea that we have to take care of everything, we can get off track very easily. And if we blow it? Is He not big enough to handle that?

Remember, in heaven there will be people who never heard the name of Jesus. So, obviously, they will be there still.

BlackSDA _ 3ABN _ Sister's Credibility

Posted by: husbandoftheyear Aug 23 2006, 03:32 PM

My intention in writing about S.G. was not to prove Sister wrong. In fact, it may be me that has wrong information. I learned mine from Mollie. Sister learned hers from Danny. Obviously one was not telling the truth. Which one? I have no idea.

By what I read of Sister, I belive what she says, simply because I witnessed some of the very things that she posts. So please don't put her head in a noose because we have different information from sources that should have the same answer.

As to this incident, I will say that it would definitely NOT be in 3ABN's best interest to bring a legal proceeding against S.G. because it would force open a lot of books that prefer to remain closed. It wasn't the first time nor the last (as we well know) that things were kept quiet for the good of the ministry.

Anyway, for what it's worth Sister, I apologize if I inadvertantly brought doubt upon your posts. It was not my intention.

Posted by: msraccoon Aug 23 2006, 04:01 PM

In my opinion, yes, sister is very credible. Seems she has taken it from all sides today. I believe most of it has come from Maritime where they want Proof Positive. Well, Danny has done a very good job of covering his tracks. And convincing viewers he is a blameless victim.

Sister, I very much enjoy your posts, and I have learned much from you. I had researched for myself before I ever ran across BSDA. You sometimes fill in the blanks I had, and always seem truthful. Keep up the good work.

Well, I tried to give her the benefit of the doubt, but she got defensive. So that makes me wonder even more. I didn't like her tone. I've been observing here for a long time. And when I saw something that I know is inaccurate, I spoke up. Sorry Sister...you're not all-knowing.

I, also, believe Sister to be credible. I am aware that you all get your information from different people. It would be unusual if these sources all agreed with each other.

For instance, whether a person is fired or allowed to resign really doesn't speak to a person's credibility regardless of which of the two situations turns out to be true.

So, please don't beat yourselves up because you filter information differently. If we were all identical human beings, all but one of us would be redundant.

A "special" was done on the news once that had a "thief/assaulter" come into a classroom of college aged students and run in and out the classroom.

All of the students described him differently. Some of them left off stuff. Some of them remembered intricate details - no one had the same description.

As for Sister's tone.... if I knew that I had experienced something a particular way and someone tried to call me a lie - I would get "tart" with them too...

Moral: Not everyone sees the glass the same. Some see it half-empty....some see it half-full....some are mad with 1/2 - some are grateful....

I will also add my two cents and say that I knew a lot of what Sister has posted and some I had heard about... the information that she has said, that I didn't have prior knowledge about, I feel is credible... if she is dead on the money about the stuff that I know... she probably isn't off base on what I don't..

I trust Sister too. I have communicated with her on another forum. My experience here at BSDA wasn't so great. She set me up. However, that has nothing to do with truth. I believer her testimony here is truth. I know she was there and has been vouched for from one I trust. Yeah, I know, second Oh well, I believe her truth! I believe she knows what she is talking about. Go sister!

I will say that everything I've seen sister post has been accurate to the experiences that I have been part of and I admire her ability to research what's happened. You keep on posting sister.

Paper Tiger, I'm pretty sure I know who you are and I just want to say "thank you" for what you have added to this forum. I think you have a friend that needs a "nudge" to come forward with her own story. This is the time -- please encourage her.

As for husbandoftheyear, I suspect that he is Hal Steenson (Mollie's husband). Hal, if that IS you, I just want you to know that I never went to 3abn without looking forward to running into you in the hallway. You ALWAYS had 2 or 3 corny jokes to tell just to make me laugh and lift my spirits. I have enjoyed our conversations over the years and always look forward to the next one. I also heard you preach in Fletcher, NC, at the rally last Spring and I thought your sermon was inspiring. You can say negative things about me if you want to (I'm referring to another thread) but I love you like a brother and always will.

Hey Barbara,

I have to agree that Hal can keep a person laughing. The last one he told me in the halls of 3ABN was upstairs by the printers just outside my office.

"A guy took his blond girlfriend to a football game. She watched them flip the quarter to determine which team would start, and the game proceeded. When it was over, she said, 'it was alright, but why all the fuss over the quarter?' her boyfriend asked, 'What do you mean?' she replied, 'Well, through the whole game they went back and forth across the field and kept yelling 'Get the quarter back! Get the quarter back!'"

'm not at all comfortable with the latest efforts to play guessing games as to who people are .... vhichever side of the fence they seem to be coming from or going to. There are many different easons why people have chosen to not have their names appear in this very public place, and I think ve should honor those reasons without trying to find either the reason or the identity.

he witnesses and reporters here are not on trial. They bring their stories. Others speak up to confirm, leny, ammend, correct, or add to their stories. This is as it should be. And this should be enough for he readers .... and for those who dialogue. There are enough people here who are posting under their eal names to lend the weight of their identity to their testimonies.... and their witness to the realness of those who do not use real names should be enough. Beyond that, it is the words that count ..... not he identity of the person who moves the fingers on the keyboards.

Posted by: husbandoftheyear Aug 25 2006, 10:55 AM

It is human nature to be curious about those with whom we converse. For those who were or are currently inside 3ABN, it must be especially difficult to know they probably worked with some of the people here everyday.

BlackSDA _ 3ABN _ The 3abn Saga

Posted by: Clay Aug 24 2006, 08:36 AM

I have said it privately, and now I will put it out there for discussion...most of the discussion about 3abn has centered around Danny, his treatment of Linda, his management style, perceived wrongs he has done, his influence, his morality.... at times it has veered into those who have influenced Mr. Shelton or who has provided financial backing.....

Of late the discussion appears (to me) to be expanding into Mr. Shelton's extended family more and their deeds and misdeeds.... I don't think its right, nor fair to "expose" them..... to me when you go there it is akin to being a witch hunt... why would we need to know about extended family to understand what kind of person Mr. Shelton is?

thoughts?

Posted by: PrincessDrRe Aug 24 2006, 08:44 AM

We would only need to know about "extended" family if they are involved in the atrocious actions of Danny. If they ("extended" family) are directly involved, cover up for Danny, have been "in the area" when acts have taken place, or actually condone his actions - then sadly; they are fair in the discussion.

Now, along with this....

If the "extended" family is not directly involved and has no support of Danny - they would not be discussed now would they?

It's like when we were in Kindergarten - when one in the class got into trouble and all got the punishment. Sadly with Danny - he's gonna end up bringing all down in a sense.

My take!

Why not?

Are you in fact saying that it was the separation and divorce of Danny & Linda that was the key that opened up Pandora's Box?

Posted by: watchbird Aug 24 2006, 10:22 AM

QUOTE(Clay @ Aug 24 2006, 09:02 AM)

Another question.... IF Danny had never divorced Linda, would the people who have spoken out now, spoken out if the marriage was intact and ok?

That depends on whether enough of them had gotten together so as to feel somewhat safe in speaking out. The very first conversation that I had with someone who had worked at 3ABN for years started out with that person saying ..... this is NOT about Linda. The financial "irregularities" (to put it as kindly as possible) were an ongoing thing before Danny ever made his first move against Linda. His CFO had resigned because of what she described as "illegal" things she was being asked to do long before the "Danny vs Linda" battles began. The immoralities of those prominent in the ministry have a much longer history than merely the past two years. The problems caused by Directors of 3ABN who taught and encouraged Danny in his claims to being a special mouthpiece of God .... all of these existed prior to, and continue on to this very day, with these basic beliefs showing up ever more blatantly on TV as time goes on rather than being more or less confined to the 3ABN "compound".

All of these .... including the extensive moral abberations need to be fully known to the public. Otherwise, those that are coming to the point of recognizing that there must be a "Housecleaning" of major proportions at 3ABN will be all to liable to think that they will have done their job if they only sidline Danny and force him to stop speaking against Linda.

These things WILL come out. We have the choice whether to let them come out here, where we are all basically friendly..... or whether to wait and let people be shocked by them when they come out in more unfriendly places.

I don't think we need to chew too lustily on any "juicy bone". But I do think that the facts need to be revealed and the emphases need to be made, that ALL of those who have been assoicated with Danny in advisory or empowering positions must be removed ... and that ALL of those who have been involved with repetitious moral lapses should also be removed .... and that these must be permanent bans.

Somehow we must send a signal to our church leaders that we as Adventists are no longer willing to put up with the "save the surface"..... "sweep everything under the rug"..... mentality and polity. We want complete opennes, and complete disclosure. And this does not apply only to 3ABN, but to all other actions which require "settlement out of court" or EEOC actions, etc.

That response summarizes this whole fiasco. Everybody involved seems to have accepted 3ABN as the face of Adventism. This explains this overwhelming desire to "cleanse the sanctuary." That is a pity.

I guess I can only go from what I know/have heard.

I didn't hear anything negative at all about Danny Shelton PERIOD until the breakup of Danny & Linda. Not one negative word up to that point. The minute they broke up - the "stuff" hit the fan and was immediately spread....

JMO - from what I heard/saw....

QUOTE(Clay @ Aug 24 2006, 10:02 AM)

Another question.... IF Danny had never divorced Linda, would the people who have spoken out now, spoken out if the marriage was intact and ok?

Yes, I would have. The IL vs. 3ABN Property Tax Lawsuit came out BEFORE the divorce. It clearly states that financial dealing of 3ABN were not honest. How can a Corporation 20 years old, explain that they do not follow GAAP?

It says that the valuing of Trust funds was questionable. Their value was determined by 3ABN. They were never appraised by qualified people. Example: A non-cash gift is given to 3ABN. It would have appraised for say $500,000. Yet, 3ABN assess the value at say $20,000 and sells it to family or friends.

Many of their assets were never found! They were not reporting Lease/Rental income from the entities that are not 3ABN. Like Subway, a barber shop.....

In fact I would assess the rating of the audit to be an "F" for 3ABN.

Yes, I would have spoken up about this on its own. 3ABN's Financial Manager, that the lawsuit identified as Danny Shelton, needs to be removed on these points alone. Period.

Now that allegations include molestation, he needs charges brought against him and a court needs to put him behind bars for a very long time if a court finds these accusations are true.

If the courts decide otherwise, I would still keep my children and any other children I see around him, away from his presence. I base this on the problems that his daughter has exibited in her behavior. That is not to criticize his daughter in anyway because what happened to her was NOT her fault. She has enough to deal with without everyone condemning her. She probably needs more time to figure out how it all happened.

I would also make sure no male children were anywhere near Tommy Shelton! Too many people know what happened in that case!

YES, I would have spoken out.

When someone has been abused mentally, physically, spiritually, emotionally, sexually, ... this person cannot figure things out because the things are happening to them. They have a very distorted, clouded view of what AVERAGE is. What is normal, acceptable behavior. What is a normal acceptable family. How does a normal acceptable father act? They may even think maybe this happens to every child! They just don't know. They may even think maybe all kids get beat or molested! They do not know how a husband is supposed to act or behave. How does one break the mold?

The experience is life changing and getting it straight takes a lifetime.

Having a knowledge that this is not right while experiencing it is very confusing. In fact, it is learned behavior; taught by the father, mother, spouse or an outside party. Goodness knows there are many children that abuse their parents!

3ABN is a wonderful medium through which to spread the Gospel. However, the financial and deviant sexual behavior alone should demand that Danny Shelton be removed, along with any who cooperated with him in his behavior.

If those exposed are leaders who hold prominent positions in this ministry just happen to members of his family, then I don't think this constitutes a "witch-hunt".

More and more, 3ABN is looking to me like Danny's personal "piggy bank" to be used to benefit him and his family and co-horts. There are many who sacrificially have given their scarce resources to this "ministry" to spread God's word. I don't think that adding to Danny's wealth, hobbies, horses, and recreational activities fall into that category. Sorry, but the minute Danny accepts this money and uses it to create a luxury lifestyle for himself, his family and cronies.... he leaves himself and those he appoints as "exposed". Especially when those who are actively involved in the management are destroying innocent people with lies and innuendo. Is this the sort of ministry that we would even WANT to ask God's blessing upon? I don't think so.... until there is a largescale housecleaning with some sort of real over-sight established and financia matters are totally transparent. (I guess I am dreamin, huh?)

Any member who supports the church or who supports 3abn (or who has supported) not only have the right, but the responsibility to do what they can to make sure that "God's money" is used for God's business. This also falls into the category of stewardship.

to this ministry.

QUOTE(Clay @ Aug 24 2006, 09:36 AM)

Of late the discussion appears (to me) to be expanding into Mr. Shelton's extended family more and their deeds and misdeeds.... I don't think its right, nor fair to "expose" them..... to me when you go there it is akin to being a witch hunt... why would we need to know about extended family to understand what kind of person Mr. Shelton is?

thoughts?

It's important to know that Danny Shelton does all hiring and firing. He chooses who works at 3ABN and who does not.

Danny has been:

(1) hiring more of his relatives and has been featuring more of them on the network more often.

(2) the Shelton relatives that are appearing on TV are mentioned in the first-hand accounts. And there are two more first-hand accounts than there were in June.

a. Arild Abrahamsen's account made available to us about July 20.
b. Barbara Kerr's account made available to us within the last few days.

Tommy Shelton is mentioned in the Barbara Kerr letter as being in charge of programmming and telling Barbara that she wouldn't be needed any more.

Melody Shelton is mentioned in the Abrahamsen letter as being acceptable to appear on the network when Linda was not.

3ABN uses the phrase "Your 3ABN Family" over and over as a form of conditioning.

Subconsciously, some may feel that Kay Kuzma, Brenda Walsh, and John Lomacang are somehow members of that extended "3ABN Family" when such is not the case. As a result, the "expansion" into the rest of the "family" may seem bigger than it is. For an example of the non-related 3ABN Family, Kay Kuzma is mentioned as not including Barbara Kerr in the recent book.

To understand what is in the "pinned" letters, you would have to understand who the "on-air" network employees are and who comprises this extended 3ABN Family .

I do understand that as the story unfolds in any book, the characters get fleshed out chapter by chapter. It's part of the normal course of events in any story. At the beginning of every book there is a section journalists call the exposition. We're forced to add to our own exposition as more and more people gather the courage to come forward. That's why is seems like an expansion.

I would expect, however, that these first-hand accounts by Barbara Kerr and Arild Abrahamsen have resulted in outside "pressure" by the same people who were pressuring Stan Jensen at ClubAdventist. Would that be fair to say?

In reality, it's the people who hired the private investigators who have been doing the real "hunting." Our "expansion" has been, more often than not, a response to some event precipitated by those hunters.

That's my take on things,

Pete

The extended family that is not currently involved with Danny or 3ABN is none of our business. However, those that regularly appear with him as "the face of Adventism" on the TV shows and in the fundraising events at various churches should concern us. This includes, among others, the daughter that is regularly featured as a singer on the shows and appears with him at fundraisers.

I remember being a bit taken aback at the heavy exposure given this daughter right after Linda was kicked out. To me it almost appeared as though this daughter was being set up to be a replacement for Linda.

This situation is symbollic of a greater problem. Maybe the Lord lets things happen because He knew it would lead to a more expansive opening of things. His ultimate goal is to bring each person to Him - no matter what it takes.

All things work together - and His ways are mysterious.

I have felt all along, this was about the BIG picture. The church, leadership, organization. Many things are what they are because things have been left as they were, instead of people standing up and being used by God to bring things aright, because they should be right. After all, we are chrisians aren't we? Using HIS name?

I believe it's been a snowball in many forms, allowed to be rolling down the hill for years, pushed even by leaders and people with power who want their own selfish desires before God's desires.

Maybe it's the beginning of the sifting and shaking? I know God will use whatever He needs to / want's to, to bring us to our back, so we have to look up. Repentence, choices, restitution, healing, forgiveness, it's all there and available. Will we each of us get it (what's really being shown in all this)?

QUOTE

If the courts decide otherwise, I would still keep my children and any other children I see around him, away from his presence. I base this on the problems that his daughter has exibited in her behavior. That is not to criticize his daughter in anyway because what happened to her was NOT her fault. She has enough to deal with without everyone condemning her. She probably needs more time to figure out how it all happened.
<snip>
When someone has been abused mentally, physically, spiritually, emotionally, sexually, ... this person cannot figure things out because the things are happening to them. They have a very distorted, clouded view of what AVERAGE is. What is normal, acceptable behavior. What is a normal acceptable family. How does a normal acceptable father act? They may even think maybe this happens to every child! They just don't know. They may even think maybe all kids get beat or molested! They do not know how a husband is supposed to act or behave. How does one break the mold?

The experience is life changing and getting it straight takes a lifetime.

Having a knowledge that this is not right while experiencing it is very confusing. In fact, it is learned behavior; taught by the father, mother, spouse or an outside party.

The first step in healing after sexual molestation is to recognize the abuse. It is traumatic, to be sure, but it is also freeing and the beginning of healing. (I have witnessed more than one occasion of such a point of recognition of abuse long sealed off in the mind, and the trauma can hardly be underestimated.)

In the daughter's case what adds to the confusion is that she would surely like to be a singer, and the father is enabling that dream. Even if she is beginning to realize the wrong that has been done to her, how can a young woman whose self-image has been so distorted by molestation take the step to freedom without outside help? Add to that the fact that the abuser is likely the source of significant financial support.

Next to Dan Shelton's heartfelt confession and repentance, the best thing that could happen to Dan Shelton's daugher is that he be exposed for what he is. Then she will need a lot of support. We can only hope that the Mr. Firestone she married is a decent and stable man who can give her some of that support. I sure hope that he's not working for 3ABN!

It's not just to "prove" what kind of person somebody is or even to withhold financial support.

We understand that these 3ABN people -- not just Danny Shelton -- called Dr. Mable Dunbar on the phone and also Barbara Kerr's minister and/or scheduled participants. Who really knows how many other people they called and what they said?

Each of us has to ask, "What if they did that to me?"

Imagine watching a football or baseball game and having to watch a close-up of just one player, exclusively, for a few hours, with no other players in sight. How could we ever figure out what's going on?

3ABN's Stained Glass Watergate was and remains a team effort by the people associated with Mr. Shelton. If we limit ourselves to a close-up of one player, we won't be able to see the game they are playing.

A consensus will develop as to what needs to be done.

A consensus doesn't require that "everyone" be in agreement. You just need some sort of working quorum or majority.

We hope this will be sooner than later.

But, yes, there will be those who have no desire to see any changes.

That was clearly not enough for many people. The question is how much will they put up with in the name of "supporting the ministry"? At some point even the most "charitable" might get the idea that being involved in broadcasting Christian programs does not absolve one of moral responsibility. And perhaps they may even get the idea that having a morally bankrupt person as "the face of Adventism" is not a very good idea either?

Is there a way to get out a more positive messages -- that God is well able to get His message out without using immoral tactics?

What is the goal for the rest of the sections on this board?

The way I see it, this section of the board has served as a clearing house and a place for 3ABN folks to meet and tell their stories. It seems evident that those who go to work for/with 3ABN generally get brainwashed, and they quell their misgivings "for the good of the ministry," not knowing that many (maybe most?) of their co-workers have similar misgivings. When they leave because of their misgivings, they may still feel alone, not ever getting the "big picture." The varied stories on this board have filled out the picture, and the message has gone much farther than this board to the very people who need to hear and act. We shall see how much more it takes before they feel free to act ...

The quorem of the consumers of a product always make the determination of that product whether the business is privately run, publicly held, government of non profit... if, based on the quality of the product or the lack of same... or on the quality/ethics/moral turpitude of those who run the business or create/deliver the product, it is determined that the product or it's producer is no longer adequate they will take their business elsewhere and seek another source.

When that happens in sufficient numbers, the product/business ceases to be a viable entity.

That is because Adventist theology exalts "the truth" as all that is important. As long as you are fullfilling the three angels' message everything else is overlooked (until the smell becomes too offensive). By then, it is often much too late. I am willing to wager that 99% of those on this list still believe with all their hearts that the Adventist church has "the truth." Pardon me. I meant "the truth for these last days."

Perhaps this could be considered a witch hunt if Dan's extended family discussed here were honest, hardworking people not involved with 3ABN itself. When a business (note I didn't say ministry) is started as a family corporation and over the years it is that family that benefits and takes advantage of that business, it is open session as far as I am concerned.

Those such as Tommy & Melody may not be directly involved in the mismanagement at 3ABN, but take advantage of the situation and, therefore, are just extensions of the corrupt leadership.

QUOTE(Fran @ Aug 24 2006, 08:40 AM)

Yes, I would have. The IL vs. 3ABN Property Tax Lawsuit came out BEFORE the divorce. It clearly states that financial dealing of 3ABN were not honest. How can a Corporation 20 years old, explain that they do not follow GAAP?

It says that the valuing of Trust funds was questionable. Their value was determined by 3ABN. They were never appraised by qualified people. Example: A non-cash gift is given to 3ABN. It would have appraised for say $500,000. Yet, 3ABN assess the value at say $20,000 and sells it to family or friends.

Many of their assets were never found! They were not reporting Lease/Rental income from the entities that are not 3ABN. Like Subway, a barber shop.....

In fact I would assess the rating of the audit to be an "F" for 3ABN.

Yes, I would have spoken up about this on its own. 3ABN's Financial Manager, that the lawsuit identified as Danny Shelton, needs to be removed on these points alone. Period.

Now that allegations include molestation, he needs charges brought against him and a court needs to put him behind bars for a very long time if a court finds these accusations are true.

If the courts decide otherwise, I would still keep my children and any other children I see around him, away from his presence. She has enough to deal with without everyone condemning her. She probably needs more time to figure out how it all happened.

I would also make sure no male children were anywhere near Tommy Shelton! Too many people know what happened in that case!

YES, I would have spoken out.

When someone has been abused mentally, physically, spiritually, emotionally, sexually, ... this person cannot figure things out because the things are happening to them. 3ABN is a wonderful medium through which to spread the Gospel. However, the financial and deviant sexual behavior alone should demand that Danny Shelton be removed, along with any who cooperated with him in his behavior.

Sooooo sorry to misunderstand! I guess I'm quick to jump. That last part about "for the people who worked at 3abn and who knew what was going on" made it seem as though we allowed things to happen. Sometimes it is easy to read emotions into these plain letters and the original intent can be (as we have seen here) misunderstood. Now that I reread it - what a silly thing to mix up

As for the employees - they have the same choice that they've always had. Stay or leave. It's hard to understand that many of the employees don't know all of this is going on. Many of them didn't even know until after the 3ABN Campmeeting that Linda was being booted out.

In any organization, there are injustices being committed and someone has witnessed it. Some people stay quiet and give the benefit of the doubt. Some people raise a fuss. That depends on the witness, the crime, and the administration. When you're on the inside at 3ABN, there isn't anything to be done. Who do you go to when the boss is the one you'd like to see ousted?

I have been asked many times why I stay. So I'll answer here. I stay because I haven't been told that it's my time to leave yet. I prayed harder than I've ever prayed over the last couple of years about my employment, knowing that I really want out. But God hasn't opened the door for me yet. I stay because I know that somewhere there are people untouched by the actions of a select few and that they are being touched by the Master's hand. Those are the people I stay for. It isn't for Dan, or Mollie, or Tommy, or Melody. It is for those people who are transformed and made whole in Jesus that I go into my personal hell everday. And sometimes I get a call from a weeping person thanking me for showing them Jesus and I am refreshed.

You are not the only one (if you were referring to yourself there) - and I don't blame you at all (again, if you are referring to yourself). We all go through things, get through them and are very happy they are behind us - and if we are smart cookies, we learn all we can, and help others along the way. Don't waste anything I believe!

As for those that are still there, like Husband, it is refreshing when God gives us lifts in our current painful journeys. There does come a time when He will say, ENOUGH, lets move on. He can give us those "benefits" in whatever job we have - and even outside our jobs. It's just nice to have those things happen to us when everything else around us is somewhat negative and miserable, and barely tolerating. So, Husband, hang on, but be ready for a change.

They are doing some that here for you - it's called educating you. And, there are others doing other things. And there are those who are still too afraid to do anything, they are on the wait and watch mode - AND there are those that don't anything about anything, if you can believe that. Partly because they only see what they want, and discard the rest, thinking "it must just be me". And for those who have already been thru the fires there and are finally done....well, lets just say, some of them are doing a lot now that they can. Too bad things aren't so black and white simple. Some times it takes time for things to happen....I think the time is now.

Truly Blonde, There have been on this forum, in previous threads, answers to your question. SOme may have gone away by now and no longer appear. But you ask what can be done about the problems of people speaking up, people who have witnessed things and who worked there, hired by Danny. It was pointed out that it was the practice to call into his plush, oak-paneled walls, and beautiful desk, to be interviewed. During that interview questions were asked of the prospective employee. Personal, very personal questions were asked. Notes were taken and filed away. Among those questions were invitations to "confess" previously un-confessed "sins". Then weeping and close contact followed, and may have ended in prayer of confession and contrition. Thing confessed that had never been confessed to another soul. Things, that, if found out by the general public, would totally ruin ones' future, including future employment. When an employee "spoke up" as would be expected, they were "offered" to go quietly on their own , or risk becoming exposed publicly. It was also pointed out in an earlier thread, that very sheriff of the area is "in his hands" and under his control. Ask yourself how a CHristian man, claiming to be head of ministry, would plan that far ahead. Gathering files of "very damaging" information, from his own employees, for the purpose of keeping them quiet if they leave the organization. What kind of mind know that there is so much that is wrong going on that he needs to plan years ahead for some way to protect his tail. To this day there are many who will never speak up because of the information that could be devastating to them could arise. Who know how many copies of these files are duplicated and are being held somewhere, waiting for the opportunity to 'shush" someone who might speak up.

That's why you see certain people on these posts "demanding" certain peoples' names, specific proofs on tape, or emails, or letters, that have been sent out by 3ABN. When that information is provided he will go back to his files and draw out their personnel file and plaster it all over "hells half acre".

It was posted by people who witnessed it first hand. No! don't expect them to be identified either. Not after the way he has twisted and distorted every other bit of information he has gathered and disseminated.

Justme

Thank you so much for the enlightenment. You all know so much more then me. Up until I was directed to this site the only information I had was the letter I received from 3abn telling about Linda's sins. They make everything sound so plausible. I know for those employees who have chosen to stay it must be very discouraging at times but I know that the Lord is still choosing to use 3abn for the greater good. I will pray for those who have been hurt by Danny and for those who still go to work everyday wondering if today is the day his wrath falls on them. I must say, it is a very sick mind that would use personal sins as blackmail and then call himself the face of Adventism and a Christian. I pray that the Lord sees fit to end this saga soon and to His glory.

Dear Friends,

From my keen observations and discoveries regarding the atrocities and misunderstandings pertaining to our dear 3ABN, let me remind you all that God requires us to respect authority. It may be true the our dear brother may have made some misguided choices in some regards, and certainly may not be perfect in all respects; however, he is the appointed spokesman for the Face of Adventism, and much good has been accomplished thoughout the world.

We need not naysay those who feed the truth to hungry souls through the miracle of modern technology.

Just remember, after all is said and done, much is said and little done.

It is not easy to have such a grave responsibility as a spokesperson for such a respected ministry as 3ABN; however, let us appreciate, love, restore, respect and support those who are battling for souls.

velcome to the forum.... no one appointed Mr. Shelton as the face of adventism.... he took that nantle upon himself... and as my grandfather once said, if you hand a person a stick don't be ;urprised if they hit you in the head with it... Mr. Shelton has been handing out sticks... for some ime..... I guess he is getting his "spiritual beatdown...."

There is spiritualism in penecostoal chruches? This is new to me? Attending those services is no more dangerous than reading Kay Kuzma's columns which you admit contain errored teachings. You are either convicted of the truth or you are not. It is about your relationship with God, not making sure you get your weekly indoctrination shot. Come on people!

QUOTE(Skyhook @ Aug 19 2006, 07:14 AM)

Hi Jvat. Thanks for the welcome. Kay Kuzma's columns in the Review have given wrong messages. In one, she implicitly supported the situation in which kids were told by thier Sabbath School leaders to bring rakes to church. After church they went out in the neighborhood and raked leaves for people, thus teaching children that "doing good on the Sabbath" is OK. If I recall, someone had written in to ask if that was wrong. The question needed a clear and direct answer that Kuzma did not give.

Another time a new Adventist woman had written to complain that services were boring in the SDA church she was attending. She said she missed the services in Her previous denomination, which she described as having modern music and more upbeat, enthusiastic services. It sounded like a Pentecostal type church. The lady said she was thinking of attending her former Sunday church that she enjoyed so much. Kuzma encouraged her to do so as long as she didn't give up keeping the Sabbath. Kuzma said she also enjoyed a more charismatic (not her word) service as well.

My point is that it is dangerous to willingly and knowingly attend services where error is taught. Especially spiritualism as in the Pentecostal churches, and most of the Evangelicas for that matter.

No, he is not. The appointed face of Adventism remains a little old lady who died in 1915...which is problematic in it's own right... and last I checked her last name wasn't "Shelton". If guilty of all said, he should be incarcerated... and as for working "together for the better good of all" you havent shown how allowing one man to exercise his megalomania and line his pockets like a latter day Hophni and Phineas is "for the better good of all".

QUOTE(steffan @ Aug 19 2006, 03:01 PM)

Hmm... So you wait till there's 4 montly payments left for Linda and then start the business of serious slander.
>For two years now I, Barbara Kerr, have kept silent regarding the happenings surrounding...

It seems that only you and "sister" seem to have the inside scoop on the secret things. And God has now chosen you and "sister" to reveal it?
>I have kept my mouth shut to the public about the things that I have known for the past two years because I knew that God would reveal every secret thing in its time.

Not according to Dr. Kuzma, who I'd trust a lot more than what you and your "sister" say.
>It was also clear early on that Linda had a receptive spirit to being counseled Spoken like a true Christian!

>I did change my prayers the day that email arrived in my inbox. My prayer became, "Lord, scatter Danny Shelton and his family like chaff in the wind.

Amazing! This is more than indiscretion, it's outright immoral! And you make this statement in this rather obscure posting instead of publicising it as it should be?
>That particular day I wanted answers about his relationship with his step-daughter Alyssa.

Really? Read what you wrote.
>I'm not angry with Danny anymore when he attacks me. I don't hate him.

Ever since my wife expressed some doubt about the "adultery" of Linda, I've been reading all possible information to find out what is the truth.

Here's the truth I found. Every Linda Shelton supporter makes outrageous and slander-filled claims. Ok, let me restate it. Every Linda Shelton supporter writes in a way that is slanted to slander and sleaze.
None of Danny Shelton's (or 3ABN's) supporters make corresponding claims and, in fact, seem to go out of their way to not make anything sound sleazy or slanderous.

My conclusion?
I think Linda Shelton is a two-faced liar who writes so sweetly of wanting to support the 3ABN ministry and being its biggest prayer warrior and yet, at the same time, encourages so-called friends like Barbara Kerr writing these trash filled postings.

And yes, my name and email is out there. I don't hide like "sister" does.

Where have you been? You apparently don't watch 3ABN. Danny has slandered Linda's name before many of us knew what was going on. Have you been staying at the Space Station for the last two years? We've heard more slander against Linda from Danny and his camp than from Linda and people who know her. In addition, Danny has sabotaged or tried to sabotage the careers of anyone who disagrees with him. Have you heard that from Linda's supporters? It appears that Danny got rid of Linda to marry another woman. Has Linda remarried? What I hear is that she has no plans to remarry, but your boy, Danny, got remarried. My students would probably not agree with your analysis of the guilty one. The truth speaks for itself. Your boy is guilty. No matter how much lye soap that he uses, his character is smelling up the place. My sense of smell is excellent.

Chez

P.S. It is my perogative to give my full name and/or my nickname on this forum!

Even if he is guilty, he is the face of adventism. When a person from the remote villiage of Africa tunes in to 3ABN he sees Mr. Shelton - The face of adventism. He does not see you, me or the local pastor.

He does not see the conference president. He sees a face that is synonomous with our organization from a media that reaches more people in a week than all of the other ministries combined do in a year. The same scenario is true with at least 120 other countries worldwide.

This is just the fact of the matter. And since no one is perfect, we need to just work with what we have and realize that he needs our support and understanding. Since he felt the need to put away his wife, that is unfortunate and perhaps none of our business. Nonetheless, he is suffering daily with the responsibilities of his ministry. Why not unify and support our dear brother, Danny.

His ex-wife is being used of God as well, and that is the beauty of how God works all things together for His greater good. Don't you agree?

So to you, the ends justify the means? To you, all sin is excusable if it is made up for by "good works"? PLEEEZE! Anytime these people in remote parts of the world can tune in to see SOMEONE ELSE TOO and have the same blessing, and probably more of one, because it will be from someone that has the LOVE of Jesus in their hearts, which means that behind the scenes, he is treating people, HIS WIFE, FAMILY, you name it, LIKE A CHRISTIAN MAN SHOULD - and if it was a women, the same in her case. You are pushing buttons, for your sake I hope - to hear the COMMON SENSE come back to you like a mirror that you need in order to see the error in your thinking (rationalizing, that is).

And for the record, Danny did NOT put away his wife - he crucified her. Jesus NEVER treated people this way. EVER.

One more thing....which board member/payee will be next to come here to BSDA and sing this sorry sad delusional tune? "NEXT PLEASE".

No, another thing...your words
"Even if he is guilty, he is the face of adventism" caught my eye - you are seeing the real problem now, and you are trying to justify it. He is not the face of adventism. All of us are. Anyone who carries the name of Jesus reflect Jesus. I am a christian. I am not an SDA first. Danny should be a christian, that is what matters. No one gets much from him, it's the programs. Would you like to take a pole on that? Stop making excuses. It's over. No more of the craziness. Truth will prevail in spite of this continued cover up. God operates on truth - not on games or coverups, and He certainly doesn't need Dan or 3abn to get HIS everlasting gospel out to the farest reaches of this planet. Stop drinking that koolaid of yours. It's making you see crosseyed.

QUOTE(J. Fitzhume @ Aug 19 2006, 05:44 PM)

Dear Friends,

From my keen observations and discoveries regarding the atrocities and misunderstandings pertaining to our dear 3ABN, let me remind you all that God requires us to respect authority. It may be true the our dear brother may have made some misguided choices in some regards, and certainly may not be perfect in all respects; however, he is the appointed spokesman for the Face of Adventism, and much good has been accomplished thoughout the world.

We need not naysay those who feed the truth to hungry souls through the miracle of modern technology.

Just remember, after all is said and done, much is said and little done.

It is not easy to have such a grave responsibility as a spokesperson for such a respected ministry as 3ABN; however, let us appreciate, love, restore, respect and support those who are battling for souls.

You should ALWAYS respect authority?? I don't think so! And unless you've been in a situation where authority has been misused, you have no idea what you are saying... that would be like telling all the children out there that get molested by their parents that they should just lay there and do what they say, because they are the authority and need to be obeyed. I'm sorry, but that is ludicrous.

QUOTE(J. Fitzhume @ Aug 19 2006, 11:43 PM)

Even if he is guilty, he is the face of adventism. When a person from the remote villiage of Africa tunes in to 3ABN he sees Mr. Shelton - The face of adventism. He does not see you, me or the local pastor. He does not see the conference president. He sees a face that is synonomous with our organization from a media that reaches more people in a week than all of the other ministries combined do in a year. The same scenario is true with at least 120 other countries worldwide.

This is just the fact of the matter. And since no one is perfect, we need to just work with what we have and realize that he needs our support and understanding. Since he felt the need to put away his wife, that is unfortunate and perhaps none of our business. Nonetheless, he is suffering daily with the responsibilities of his ministry. Why not unify and support our dear brother, Danny.

His ex-wife is being used of God as well, and that is the beauty of how God works all things together for His greater good. Don't you agree?

f he is guilty, he needs to be pay for his crimes... even if he repents, his actions have consequences... hat is something that we are taught even as little kids... or every action there is an equal and opposite reaction... repenting and asking forgiveness from God sn't a get out of jail free card... sometimes our sins have real live repercussions, that have to be paid. \nd although you don't have to agree that he is guilty, or even think it's possible... the facts are all ›ut on the table. Open your eyes and read.
Would you honestly want someone who had commited these things representing you?? I know I lon't!!

Could be he is suffering daily because all his lies and deceitfulness and guilt is catching up with him....and the responsibilities of his ministry is the LAST thing he is thinking of right now...he's hinking of how to save his own butt! Things are closing in on him...and soon he will find himself ›ainted into a corner.

know you appreciate my mirth cause you obviously have been sipping on a Long Island tea or vorse....

'our comments suggest that you have not been following this sordid saga from its beginning.... You seem to have the mindset of 999,999 of your brother lemmings who think that those who share your view must be right.... What has happened at 3abn is a travesty, and at worse does not reflect Christ in any way, shape or form.... Of course you believe that the ends justify means and that as long as he is spreading "the message" its all good.... it does not...

Jnfortunately given your degree of denial you would not comprehend the extent of your perceptive problems not to mention your willingness to allow a man who has literally trashed all in his path to continue because as you put it, God can use a regular human being like you and I.....

Sounds to me like you are arguing with yourself, and you should be. I hope you listen to your own vords....God will use whatever He needs. He also gave us brains, and sometimes its a test to see if we rust HIM or the VESSEL. I trust Him, I do not trust this vessel, and if this vessel affects me, my church, and people that work for the vessel, I am to turn the other way and say "it's for the greater good"? I know, you didn't address me when you wrote this, but, I just can't help myself. BTW, when a plate or pot or glass or some other kind of "vessel" breaks in my kitchen, I toss it, for it is of no value yes, it may still hold some stuff in it - but it continues to leak, corrupt what it touches and get worse. t really does fail from what's original use was. I see Dan the same way, only he made deliberate choices to play with fire, now he is burned and will have to suffer the consequences. Forgiveness is His God knows if he will be willing to repent. But, the damage is done, and for that, he is best to surrender and get out of the way. As you say, many peoples christian experience may be at stake. Although, I sure hope they figure out someday that it's about Jesus, and not the "vessel".

QUOTE(sonshineonme @ Aug 19 2006, 09:58 PM)

So to you, the ends justify the means? To you, all sin is excusable if it is made up for by "good works"? PLEEEZE! Anytime these people in remote parts of the world can tune in to see SOMEONE ELSE TOO and have the same blessing, and probably more of one, because it will be from someone that has the LOVE of Jesus in their hearts, which means that behind the scenes, he is treating people, HIS WIFE, FAMILY, you name it, LIKE A CHRISTIAN MAN SHOULD - and if it was a women, the same in her case. You are pushing buttons, for your sake I hope - to hear the COMMON SENSE come back to you like a mirror that you need in order to see the error in your thinking (rationalizing, that is).

And for the record, Danny did NOT put away his wife - he crucified her. Jesus NEVER treated people this way. EVER.

One more thing....which board member/payee will be next to come here to BSDA and sing this sorry sad delusional tune? "NEXT PLEASE".

No, another thing...your words
"Even if he is guilty, he is the face of adventism" caught my eye - you are seeing the real problem now, and you are trying to justify it. He is not the face of adventism. All of us are. Anyone who carries the name of Jesus reflect Jesus. I am a christian. I am not an SDA first. Danny should be a christian, that is what matters. No one gets much from him, it's the programs. Would you like to take a pole on that? Stop making excuses. It's over. No more of the craziness. Truth will prevail in spite of this continued cover up. God operates on truth - not on games or coverups, and He certainly doesn't need Dan or 3abn to get HIS everlasting gospel out to the farest reaches of this planet. Stop drinking that koolaid of yours. It's making you see crosseyed.

To respond, I am not a member of 3ABN, but this lynching of our dear brother should cause some concern in all of us. What our brother Danny did or did not do is no worse than what we all do each day when we commit our misdeeds (whatever they may be). He may have made some mistakes in regards to his personal life, but he is doing is job as the face of adventism. The face which we have viewed and have grown to love over many over years.

Bro. Shelton is a talented, charismatic and highly effective personality, and we should see him to be an indispensible asset and a facilitator of hope for the hungry masses all over the world. Far more effective than other lesser ministries in your conferences and poor struggling regional churches I must add.

A true adventist church will do far more in retrospect to bring the message to the world. We should hasten to send 3ABN our monitary support and do so ungrudgingly and without discrimitation. We should not begrudge him his prosperity. His prosperity is even more indicative that he has the support and love of so many. So let us have the spirit of gladness and gentleness as we progress in this journey.

Are you serious?
We should give him our money no matter what he does with it? And if he is gaining money from it, than that is better and shows God is blessing??
How in the world does this make any sense?

Fitzhume,

Speaking of "dumb animals" it takes a real donkey to go around calling himself the "face of Adventism" and then act like it's no big deal that he dumps his wife (or like you say "put her away") to hook up with a younger one. He might be the smelly armpit of Adventism but he is certainly not the face of my church. And if Danny, bless his heart, is the "face" of Adventism, it's time for an EXTREME makeover!

Am I the only one seeing what's really going on here? I also detect a bit of that old "r" word in this line:

QUOTE

Bro. Shelton is a talented, charismatic and highly effective personality, and we should see him to be an indispensible asset and a facilitator of hope for the hungry masses all over the world. Far more effective than other lesser ministries in your conferences and poor struggling regional churches I must add.

It's the southern good ol' boy network at work brothers and sisters - give the folks dog poop wrapped in shiny paper and they'll all be happy. But don't let 'em get too educated about it! The "Lawd's work" wont go forward if the people know that it's really dog poop dished out by a man who "put away his wife" to get a new one.

If you want to play the race card and try to tell us that your man Dan in shiny wrapping paper is "far more effective" than the pastors all over this country in the regional churches who go to work each day to win souls one on one, then you've got another thing coming.

Go ahead and make this "indispensable assette" your pope or your Santa Claus. Maybe you cannot live without him, but do NOT call him the face of Adventism.

I thought these Fitzhume posts were all meant to be humorous.

I especially liked this one:

QUOTE

What our brother Danny did or did not do is no worse than what we all do each day when we commit our misdeeds (whatever they may be).

And the human being as the indispensable asset was really good, too.

QUOTE

Bro. Shelton is a talented, charismatic and highly effective personality, and we should see him to be an indispensible asset

Of course, it's an indispensible asset that is, elsewhere, a mere vessel, buy why quibble about the details? When you're on a roll, you're on a roll.

QUOTE

It may well nigh behoove us to remember that this is warfare, and we are attributing undue attention to a mere vessel.

And this really is a gem:

QUOTE

If God can use a dumb animal, either clean or defiled..... You have to admit, that's good. rofl

Would you have rallied around brother Adolf in 1939? He was the face of the Nazi Party. Should you have? NO, because he was WRONG.

If you were a Catholic, should you rally around the Pope who is the face of your religion, even after you have heard the truth? NO, because he would be WRONG.

Should I rally around Danny, though he is not acting in a Christian way? NO, because he is WRONG.

I do support the message of 3ABN. I think that it is SAD that Danny is at it's helm.

Oh, and as for his ex-wife being used for God and whether I agree; she absolutely is, DESPITE HIS BEST EFFORTS TO BLOCK HER EVERY ATTEMPT. BTW, his success in blocking her efforts to DO THE LORD'S WORK do not help convince me to support him.

I appreciate your post. You seem to be genuinely concerned with the message. I am too, and I believe almost everyone on this forum is too. I also believe no one who has your position could now, or ever have been, employed by 3ABN, or otherwise associated with them for long.

Danny is talented, charismatic and highly effective. However, as I mentioned in a previous reply, so was Adolf Hitler. For that matter, so is Osama Bin Laden. So was the last Pope. In each of these cases, their abilities should not affect our assessment of their character, or their moral authority to lead.

3 ABN has done a lot for the Church. I hope it does a lot more. God may continue to use this ministry despite the horrible actions Danny has chosen for himself. Because I know of many of those actions, I simply must disagree with you about the financial support. The Hope Channel and other avenues can be just as used by God, and they need our money too.

Finally, I don't agree (and I don't think you can support) that Danny's prosperity is indicative that he has the support and love of so many. He may be getting support from one very wealthy person who just has a passion for 3ABN. Historically, has one's prosperity been directly related to the love and support of many?

'Lynching'??? Have you no shame, sir??? You might want to consider where you are before you begin throwing around such terms. I, for one, find it offensive that you would use that term referring to how Danny has been examined. The closest thing to lynching in this whole matter is in how Linda Shelton was treated; your saying Danny has been lynched is as offensive as it would be if you went to a women's forum and categorized it as rape. This, in case you forgot, is Black SDA... Black as in African American and there are members of this forum who have had people in their family who were, in fact, lynched and for you to use that term in the midst of such,especially in applying it to how Danny has been portrayed is abominable.

QUOTE

I've never climbed in my stepdaughter's bed in the middle of the night to give her " back rubs"... have you? That and other things are far worse than "what we do each day".

QUOTE

Herein lies the crux of the flaw in your argument. Danny is expendable; as expendable as you or I. Even if I were to concede that he was preaching God's message (which I don't, BTW), if Danny were hit by a semi tomorrow, God's message still wouldn't go unpreached... as Jesus said... if need be, the rocks themselves would shout.

God doesn't need Danny Shelton.

Do you usually have a burnt offering when you do your Danny worship? Just wondering... here's a news flash for ya.... the non-caucasian membership of this church is growing in the NAD at a great rate... among people who 3ABN hasn't not even acknowledged as a targeted demographic and who 3ABN has not sought to preach to. Without any help from Danny Shelton and 3ABN, the Allegheny East Conference has surpassed the Potomac conference as the largest conference in the Columbia Union and has had consistent and continual growth in tithe received and membership for the last decade in the same geographic areas where the non-regional conferences have been declining in both in this union.

IOW, wake up, Muttley; you're dreamin' again. In the fastest growing sector of this church 3ABN is not even an afterthought where evangelistic effort is concerned... and the work prospers without them.

Indispensable? Hardly...

You should hasten to put down that crack pipe and slowly back away; that stuff is making you ign'ant. Prosperity is not indicative of God's blessing; I know drug dealers who are 'prosperous'. You want to continue to give to the Danny Shelton Jet Fuel fund, that's up to you... it's dumb... but still up to you... those of us with a clue will pass. I will not even consider giving to such a one as he who hold me and those of my ethnicity in such disdain. Don't be fooled by his partnership with Wintley Phipps; that is about money and I would hope Pastor Phipps, if not smart enough to avoid being bothered altogether, would be as least smart enough to know that if one is going to sup with the devil, he'd better use a long handled spoon. Danny has made more than a few overtyly racist statements and tried to pass them off as just his "aw shucks, I'm just a poor dumb country boy" persona; some of them witnessed and testified to first hand by members of this forum and in the dealings he has had with this forum, his contempt is plain to see.

Maybe it's his Shekinah GloryTM that blinds you (he got it on sale at Wal-Mart; really bright but needs a lot of batteries).... maybe you've become addicted to drinking the kool-aid.... maybe it was those rides home from school on that short bus... but whatever it is, one of the symptoms is a selective myopia that affects how you see things... but I hear they make a really good eyesalve in Laodicea...

In His service,
Mr. J

Constantly the Pharisees tried to lead Christ away from the principles of God's government. Making a great profession of piety, they sought to lead Him to swerve from His allegiance. Satan has persuaded many men to deviate from principle by telling them that the end will justify the means. Reasoning from a human standpoint, they excuse themselves for wrongdoing by saying that the cause of God would be the gainer in their unfaithful dealing. This deviation from the holy principles of heaven has placed them in the ranks of the great deceiver. . . .

QUOTE

The originator of all evil, Satan comes with stealthy tread, presenting plausible theories to the people of God, telling them that if they do this or that, even tho it may be questionable, they will gain great advantage, and the end will justify the means. He tries to persuade them that the eating of the forbidden fruit will be to them a source of great good. When men listen to him, the spiritual eyesight is dimmed, and the power of distinguishing between good and evil is lost. Mrs. E. G. White.

{Signs of the Times, November 6, 1901 par. 7}

This is the true way a person should be the "face of Adventism"

QUOTE

The Father knows how you represent him to the world. He knows just what impression you make upon those around you. Your words and actions are all written in the books of heaven, and in order to rightly represent Jesus to the world, the converting power of God must be felt upon your own heart from day to day. When you go forth to the people, in the market-place, as you walk the street, in whatever occupation you are engaged, you are to have a living connection with God, and represent the character of Christ to the world. Jesus said, "As the Father hath sent me, so have I sent you." As Christ was to represent the Father, so the followers of Christ are to represent their Lord to men. Your life is to be hid with Christ in God. {ST, February 22, 1892 par. 11}

QUOTE

Ye are my witnesses, saith the Lord, and my servant whom I have chosen. Isa. 43:10

The life that Christ lived in this world, men and women can live through His power and under His instruction. In their conflict with Satan they may have all the help that He had. . . . {Amazing Grace 247.2}

The lives of professing Christians who do not live the Christ life are a mockery to religion. Every one whose name is registered on the church roll is under obligation to represent Christ by revealing the inward adorning of a meek and quiet spirit. They are to be His witnesses, making known the advantages of walking and working as Christ has given them example. The truth for this time is to appear in its power in the lives of those who believe it, and is to be imparted to the world. Believers are to represent in their lives, its power to sanctify and ennoble. . . . They are to show forth the power of the grace that Christ died to give men. . . . They are to be men of faith, men of courage, whole-souled men, who, without questioning, trust in God and His promises. . . . {AG 247.3}

There must be no pretense in the lives of those who have so sacred and solemn a message as we have been called to bear. The world is watching Seventh-day Adventists because it knows something of their profession of faith and of their high standard, and when it sees those who do not live up to their profession, it points at them with scorn. {AG 247.4}

Those who love Jesus will bring all in their lives into harmony with His will. . . . Through the grace of God they are enabled to keep their purity of principle unsullied. Holy angels are close beside them, and Christ is revealed in their steadfast adherence to the truth. They are Christ's minutemen, bearing, as true witnesses, a decided testimony in favor of the truth. They show that there is a spiritual power that can enable men and women not to swerve an inch from truth and justice for all the gifts that men can bestow. Such ones, wherever they may be, will be honored of heaven because they have conformed their lives to the will of God, caring not what sacrifices they are called upon to make. {AG 247.5}

'Lynching'??? Have you no shame, sir??? You might want to consider where you are before you begin throwing around such terms. I, for one, find it offensive that you would use that term referring to how Danny has been examined. The closest thing to lynching in this whole matter is in how Linda Shelton was treated; your saying Danny has been lynched is as offensive as it would be if you went to a women's forum and categorized it as rape. This, in case you forgot, is Black SDA... Black as in African American and there are members of this forum who have had people in their family who were, in fact, lynched and for you to use that term in the midst of such,especially in applying it to how Danny has been portrayed is abominable.

I have been exactly where you've been. What channel is it that you watch where Danny "slandered" anyone? On one side I see Christian restraint, on the other, slander. Which side do you think I would believe?

Linda's supporters seem to be quite willing to make the most divisive and foul innuendos. I have yet to see anything that even comes close to that from Danny's "supporters"

Hey, if Linda remarried or even went to close to the doctor, don't you think it would prove whatever was said so far? What do you think any person with brains would do? Confirm the affair right away?

My boy is guilty of what? Saying almost nothing? Remember what happened to the former GC president? Do you really think that the _entire_ board of directors, at least one of whom would be Christian, could go along with this supposedly sleazy character?

I'm sorry that this forum seems to be more pro-slander and less pro-turth.

QUOTE(Chez @ Aug 19 2006, 10:25 PM)

Where have you been? You apparently don't watch 3ABN. Danny has slandered Linda's name before many of us knew what was going on. Have you been staying at the Space Station for the last two years? We've heard more slander against Linda from Danny and his camp than from Linda and people who know her. In addition, Danny has sabotaged or tried to sabotage the careers of anyone who disagrees with him. Have you heard that from Linda's supporters? It appears that Danny got rid of Linda to marry another woman. Has Linda remarried? What I hear is that she has no plans to remarry, but your boy, Danny, got remarried. My students would probably not agree with your analysis of the guilty one. The truth speaks for itself. Your boy is guilty. No matter how much lye soap that he uses, his character is smelling up the place. My sense of smell is excellent.

I can answer some of these questions for you:
*"What channel is it that you watch where Danny "slandered" anyone?"*It has been on the "Three Angels Broadcasting Network". Ever heard of that channel?

"I have yet to see anything that even comes close to that from Danny's "supporters"".

If the definition of Danny's supporters inludes his employees and operating board, then you can start with these people. Danny and the "operating bored" qualify. After all the letters that they sent out to pastors, to conferences, to churches, and to supporters that Linda had committed "spiritual Adultery", (not to mention HIS unbecoming behaviors) and that she "Chose to go a different way ...". Is it Christian-like to call the churches where Linda had appointments to sing and speak, and tell them things in order to get her appointment cancelled? pray tell, cancel her appointment for what reason??? Those reason given, ... were they not slanderous???

"Hey, if Linda remarried or even went to close to the doctor, don't you think it would prove whatever was said so far? What do you think any person with brains would do? Confirm the affair right away?"

Hey back to ya'. On this basis, "event went close"?, does that mean that DANNY, "who even went close" to his stepdaughter, is guilty in the eyes of "any person with brains would" confirm (what? "the affair right away", (are you suggesting: Adultery/molestation/incest?) If "guilt by proximity" is reasonable, then all "3ABN" is adulterous!

"My boy is guilty of what? Saying almost nothing? Remember what happened to the former GC president? Do you really think that the _entire_ board of directors, at least one of whom would be Christian, could go along with this supposedly sleazy character?"

One line at a time:
Who care how much one says about another person if what is being said coming rom the mouths of ones chosen representatives, at the request of the one who is so filled with hatred?.
Whatever happened to "mending broken people". If Danny truly believed in thios he would have "mended :Linda first". "Love and evangelism begins in the home!
"Support this sleazy character"? YUP! it happen every time one's job and ministry is threatened if you don't support the "sleazy charachter". You may lose all you have ever held dear, and your life savings, and your friends, to name a few of the reasons why "sleazy characters" get supported.

In reference to his being "misguided" in some of his deeds: With whomw does he surround himself?

Where does he get his guidance? from his "operating bored". If Danny is misguided then he needs a new "guiding light". Because the script you have been writing has been written for the likes of a "soap opera". And it has about as much reasoning in it.

I have only had to do this one other time on this board - but I feel the need to do it now. You Sir/Madam have some serious diagnosable mental issues to feel that we "should not care what Mr. Shelton has done."

To state that "he may be a child molester, who cares." States volumes for your sanity and you need some form of therapy immediately. Even if what you said prior made any inkling of sense this statement alone - (with 98% of Child Molesters "re-offending") makes everything you state questionable.

I wonder if you even considered the fact that other members on this site have been molested by folks just like Danny Shelton - men in powerful positions/in the church. Sadly...

To state that "he is the appointed leader, who perhaps needs to find his way" - in regards to such things as molestation and homosexual fetishes - "who perhaps"??? Are you stating that someone that has child molestation issues and homosexual fetishes just "may" need help to "find his way"....

You are so off. Bless your heart - you could say the sky is blue and that the son is hot and I wouldn't believe you.

Why?

Because you killed all you credibility.

Yes we should pray for him (Danny Shelton) but to state that we shouldn't "care" about the stank, hideous, crimes he has done? May you not have children/grandchildren/great-grandchildren that are molested by Danny Shelton himself or a man such as him with power within the church.

Right on! As far as I can see, Danny has successfully exploited God's message for this time for his own goals of power and financial success.

find it amazing how he has been able to hi-jack the Three Angels' Messages of Revelation by the simple expedient of naming his TV Network Three Angels Broadcasting network. That does not mean that that's what the vision of Revelation was all about!! It does not mean that Danny and his gang were appointed by God!!

It is a thousand time worse. As you said, and do agree, the church HAS made 3ABN the modern face of Adventism. I also agree that the ultimate face is EGW. It is worse because 3ABn has been set up as an authority and leader in daily christian living. If Danny daily walk is not anything resembling christian, and he is a leader, then he is responsible for those of God's children who are hurt or lead stray by his actions. Your suggestion to overlook everything and just concertrate on the surface, which always looks great, is about as silly as the suggestio nwe had a few weeks ago that revamping the programming will make it more relevant, and everythin will be just fine!

You really ought to be concerned that someone you see as the face of Adventism is not "walking in integrity"(sorry, I know that is too penecostal for some) in his personal or buisness dealings. it concerns me that you would dismiss everything for the fact that a village in Africa can see 3ABN.

J, you need to come over and dwell where the sky is blue!

QUOTE(J. Fitzhume @ Aug 19 2006, 09:59 PM)

To respond, I am not a member of 3ABN, but this lynching of our dear brother should cause some concern in all of us. What our brother Danny did or did not do is no worse than what we all do each day when we commit our misdeeds (whatever they may be). He may have made some mistakes in regards to his personal life, but he is doing is job as the face of adventism. The face which we have viewed and have grown to love over many over years.

Bro. Shelton is a talented, charismatic and highly effective personality, and we should see him to be an indispensible asset and a facilitator of hope for the hungry masses all over the world. Far more effective than other lesser ministries in your conferences and poor struggling regional churches I must add.

A true adventist church will do far more in retrospect to bring the message to the world. We should hasten to send 3ABN our monitary support and do so ungrudgingly and without discrimitation. We should not begrudge him his prosperity. His prosperity is even more indicative that he has the support and love of so many. So let us have the spirit of gladness and gentleness as we progress in this journey.

Now we have some evidence that would seem to support this discomfort.

Of course Danny would like to think that he's "charismatic," I'm sure ...

I find it utterly astounding that someone besides Danny and his cohorts can actually so accurately represent Danny's attitude and apparent wishes. It's mind-boggling ...

QUOTE(Ralph @ Aug 20 2006, 04:10 PM)

I shake my head in disbelief as I see many seemingly intelligent people at 3ABN backing Danny all the way. Is it possible that they are so manipulated into the belief that the words of "the anointed" are infallible, that they can't see -- or consciously overlook -- what is so obvious to the rest of us?

The evidence suggests that it is possible, Ralph. Unfortunately.

We should not care what Mr. Shelton has done. He may be a child molester, who cares. He may be a closet homosexual with fetishes, who cares.

You are no Christian. Matter of fact you are not even a good person. And if I could see you I would be slapping your face or worse. Have you ever been moldested? No..you know why..cause I do believe that YOU ARE a molestor. Maybe even THE molestor. Yes you have really riled me and you do not deserve to even be talked to. You are straight on your way to hell.

Folks, "Fitzhume's" postings have been of a nature to lead me to strongly suspect him to be the same individual known on ClubAdventist as "Mrs. Gray" -- a male lawyer but posted on CA as a woman. His role there was that of a provocateur. S/he tended to make extreme statements, with a particular predilection for sounding like an extremely conservative Adventist.

If this isn't "Mrs Gray," it's certainly her/his "double." As I suggested earlier, this poster goes beyond the pale of what one can reasonably expect even a strong supporter of Dan Shelton to promote. He went over the line -- where I doubt any real Shelton supporter would go -- whe he posted that Dan Shelton may be a child molester, but "who cares."

Clay has already done us all a favor by isolating these posts in a separate thread. Now we can safely ignore any outrageous statements made by this provocateur. It would be helpful if you could restrict his posting privileges to this one thread. sig

I rather think he's been daring/teasing us by making such obvious statements as saying he's not "hiding" behind anonymity, then not giving any information about himself. The child molester statement is another giveaway that this person is not "for real."

I could be wrong, of course. In that case I con only pity "Fitzhume."

Dear Friend, Why didn't you say this to Danny Shelton two years ago? He is the one who really needs this message, not us. If he had done what you are suggesting he would not have treated Linda the way he did and continues to do. His attitude and actions are is what really disappoints me in this whole ordeal. Remember that it is important not to hide our sins. Often we say we do not want to "air or dirty linen." The truth is everyone knows our dirty linen. When we act as though our "linen" isn't dirty, we become hypocrites. We become a laughing stock to the world. Thanks for reminding us how nice Danny Shelton should have been two years ago.

do regret to have ignited your ire to such a degree. That was certainly not my intention. The rustating thing about this exercise is that the questions I have raised have not been addressed to any legree of satisfaction, thus I have taken some rhetorical license to further exacerbate the issues at ıand.

In mostly all situations, we ıave either looked the other way or overlooked the individual to the ends of accommodating the greater good of the adventist movement.

So the million dollar question is: Why now the sudden righteousness, why now the calling to task, why now the singling out, why the inconsistency?. As a church we have for decades embranced hypocracy, courted double standards, capered with rationalizations and doctrinal truancy. You know what I consider Danny Sheldon? Nothing but a glorified MC...Just somone who introuduces people. Not the face of Adventism.

When I hear people at my church and on the internet talk about 3ABN no one mentions Danny. They all talk about Pastor Stephen Bohr, Pastor David Asscherick, Pastor Batchelor, Pastor Thompson, Pastor Branner, Pastor Wolburg, Pastor CD Brooks, and more. These are the ones who are speading the gospel on 3ABN. But never do I hear anyone mention Sheldon. Anyone can do what he does that has the talent to introduce the guests on the show.

It will not be hard for him to be replaced and the sooner the better. Amen!!!!! Then Danny will have the time get his life right with Christ before it is to late.

Sorry, Fitzhume, thank you for the compliment, but it is misplaced. I am not the author of The Televangelist. Alas, but only another area upon which you are misinformed... To answer your question, you are not giving money to a person. You are giving it to a cause, a ministry and lifeline for tens of thousands of people. What is it about that concept that people find so difficult to fathom.

The only cause that Danny Shelton knows is Danny Shelton. I know his "cause" all too well. Isn't it the houses, land, horses that aren't worth the food it takes to keep them alive, the new trucks, vans, vacations, prostitutes, and power? Yes, that is the cause I know all too well and I don't find it difficult to fathom it in the least.

And as for the ridiculous statement from earlier in the thread about Dan as the "face of adventism" and ignoring Dan's actions and behavior -

JESUS CHRIST WAS, IS, AND FOREVER WILL BE THE ONE AND ONLY FACE OF CHRISTIANITY, and even HE was removed from his position on this Earth when it was proved to be the best for all of us. If you carefully considered my remarks you would understand that I am in no wise condoning a molester. However, had my earlier points been properly deliberated it would not have come to this.

For decades, our denomination have openly and secretly supported individuals of high office whose personal conduct has been questionable at best and outrageous at worse. In mostly all situations, we have either looked the other way or overlooked the individual to the ends of accommodating the greater good of the adventist movement.

So the million dollar question is: Why now the sudden righteousness, why now the calling to task, why now the singling out, why the inconsistency?. As a church we have for decades embranced hypocracy, courted double standards, capered with rationalizations and doctrinal truancy. Oh no, this is not about Danny Sheltonk, this is about us finding ourselves a convenient punching bag and getting a good workout to detract from our own skeletons and the fact that the tea of our own faith has grown tepid.

We here in BSDA are not the people who faced decisions decades ago. We cannot right the wrongs of those years. We are probably not even aware of many that you cite.

What we are is people who have knowledge of an ongoing series of events today. Our responsibility to God is for what we do today, not what someone else did many years ago.

If wrongs were done in the past, does that commit us to repeating those wrongs today?

a remote village in Africa? has satellite t.v. you say? So let me get this straight, some folks are in a remote village in Africa watching 3abn on satellite t.v.....

Well, this is probably the most "nearly right" thing Fitzhume has written so far.

Kandace Thorp tells about negotiating with a satellite dish manufacturer so that HopeTV, in conjunction with local conferences, could provide inexpensive dishes to remote villages in Africa. They actually did it quite inexpensively. The way it works is that the whole village gests one dish, and the local people come to one place to view the programming. A lot of this was put in place for the various world-wide evangelistic crusades, some of them originating in Africa. I suspect, though, that the station gets set up for them, and they don't fiddle with it to see if they can get other programming, such as 3ABN.

I haven't heard of 3ABN doing anything similar. Have they?

So....
They'll get the village "one" dish - but won't assist in the spreading of the news about HIV and feeding the land.....

That, my Lady, is LLBN's job. They have partnered with Loma Linda University Medical Center to spread the practical side of Christianity, which is what the four Gospels depict as true Christianity. A century past the SDA church was at the forfront of healthcare in the world through Battle Creek, and today Loma Linda is set to carry the torch.

Princess,

We need to teach them about HIV and feed them---but they also need to learn about God. How better then by satellite? I guess the question is---Are they learning about God through 3abn. I would say probably yes if they are getting Elder Bohr and the other evangelists that are on 3abn. Are they learning about God from Danny Shelton? I doubt it. But then they probably don't know what is going on at 3abn. All they see are the programs. They may wonder if they were receiving 3abn by sky angel. Their screens are blank where 3abn is concerned. But that is another issue. Maybe they wern't given a lifetime membership when the dish was sent to them LOL

That's really quite unfar.

The Adventist church uses many means to reach the unreached. Satellite TV is but one of those means.

Have you ever heard of ADRA? I suggest you check out http://www.ADRA.org It is through ADRA that the kind of work you mention is done, but it's not the only way. There are many individual workers who teach people how to stay healthier through cleanliness, better diet, etc. And ADRA even teaches agricultural practices that result in better crops. ADRA builds wells, etc.

However even satellite TV can take care of the HIV crisis. Nobody gets HIV by obeying God's Law. (Of course, there are innocent children and spouses who are affected by the immoral behavior of their parents or spouses.)

The problem of those already infected takes larger financial resources than the church has. We can teach compassion, and there are those among us who do. After all, compassion is best displayed one on one.

I donate to ADRA & UNICEF - but still they starve. I'm glad you practice what you preach but you go on to create a false dichotomy re the two "dishes" -- it is not an either/or situation.

Following your logic, perhaps you should quit your doctoral program and give the money to the starving? Then sell the rest of your possessions & live under a bridge & beg. You'd still be better off than the starving in some parts of the world.

Why take it out on HopeTV when they work hard to ensure that some folks in backward areas have the chance to hear the gospel?

Of course that was my point -- how can they hear except they have a preacher -- even a preacher on satellite TV. My suggestion was that in the HIV crisis, following God's directives would put a halt to it. As a matter of fact, some African countries are successfully making virginity "cool," and it's making a real dent in the spread of HIV. That's the kind of thing for which satellite TV is also well suited.

The point is not whether or not God holds them "accountable," the point is that all of God's directives are meant for our good, and in the spread of HIV it's very apparent that ignoring His directives brings us harm.

Indeed! That was the method of Christ used -- He ministered to people's (felt) needs before He bade them follow Him. If we are to do His work, we must follow His pattern of ministry, both individually and corporately.

And that brings us back on topic! Is 3ABN following the pattern of Christ's ministry?

I think not.

BlackSDA _ 3ABN _ Shelton's Supporter....

Did we cover this guy? I can't remember what thread it was.... anyway, I am borrowing this from a new member from the maritime forum and it may give some more insight into Mr. Shelton's mindset.....

Garwin McNeilus

QUOTE

I know Garwin. (not up and close personallike, but I know enough of him). It's his way or the highway. He handpicks pastors and if they don't preach what he wants them to preach, if the unfortunate fellow doesnt support his ideas, then he has them removed. A pastor was selected from Amazing Facts to serve in "his" church. Things went along smoothly at first, had a few revival meetings but after a year or two this pastor was wanting to strike out on his own to do some other projects in the community. Garwin would have none of it. Soon afterwards, our pastor was gone. Garwin had recommended to the Mn. conference that he have a psychiatric exam done. (sounds a little like Danny's tactics)
Nominating committe was a treat. He and his family had already decided who should serve in what area. One of the persons put in a prominent place in leadership was a fellow who had allegations of "inappropriate behaviour" in a past church. But as you know, people who are suspected of such wrongdoing are shuffled to other churches, to let them deal with the problem. But I digress. Garwin picked him because he likes the way he teaches, and this fellow has been "chosen" to take our new pastor under his wing.
In short, Garwin is someone who likes to have "yes men" surround him. If you disagree with him, you may find your life made miserable.

Let me see if I understand the above statement:

1. The Minnesota pastor is gone.

2. A psychiatric "exam" for this Minnesota pastor was recommended to the Minnesota Conference of Seventh-day Adventists.

I read in the letters that 3ABN demanded that Linda Shelton go to a counselor of their choice. She was never told what type of "counselor" it was, was she? I'm just guessing that she was not.

I think she knew who the counselors primarily were. The problem was that she was expected to go to them to admit to a problem she did not have, which she did not want to do because she did not have that problem.

I don't know anything of the Garwin case, but in Linda's, Danny was actively in the process of convincing EVERYONE that Linda had committed "spiritual adultery", including the "counselors". Much has been said here about Danny, his personality, his authority, etc. But you really have to know him personally to know just how persistent he can be. His endurance to talk continually for hours and hours (literally) just wears people down. I think he has done this a lot to garner support regarding the issues we are discussing here.

Re-reading this thread I am not sure if we are speaking of the same incidents. There are two major occurences involving Garwin McNeilus and two different GC presidents which have been posted on this forum are as follows. The first incident related in the 3ABN history thread, chapter 4, and the Televangelist are the same incident which occurred during the tenure of Folkenberg as GC President. The second incident in the thread, Who is it, titled the Contributor, has just occurred in the last two weeks and of course the sitting GC president is Jan Paulsen. Hopefully, this clarifies the situation between the two incidents. This may have already been obvious to you, but I thought it was better to make sure we are all on the same page in regard to these situations.

That is correct Daryl. It is very important to note that the problems at 3ABN did not begin with what you call the "Danny-Linda incident", nor are they encompassed by things that are directly connected with the relationship between Danny and Linda. Many of us knew from the beginning that Danny's expulsion of Linda and his subsequent persecution of her were but the "red herring" that could be counted on to draw everyone's attention away from the problems that were already there and had been there right from the beginning.

Thus while some seem to think that it is inappropriate to bring things up which happened before the visible "D/L incident", these are, in fact, some of the most important things as they show the much wider depth and breadth and duration of the ongoing problems we are facing now.

Yes, at the time that this came up in Sister's thread, Beartrap posted one of the documents, and I posted two others, so we could see exactly what the document contained that caused Gawin to go into orbit over it being an attempt to "CONTROL". I think there may have been some early discussion of this lost when Clay split a thread and formed a new thread to which he moved various "crucial documents", and I have not been able to find that. But the documents themselves, as well as our dialogue about those are in the thread called .....

3ABN crucial documents, starting with Post #12 and running to about #30, where the discussion veered away from the documents themselves. The direct url for Post #12 is:

So, according to the "The Contributor" story, it sounds like this story actually took place very recently? Is that a correct assumption? Since it mentions a young woman has produced documented proof of being sexually assulted by the Televangelist which has been sent to many church leaders--it seems that this is a very recent encounter between The Contributor and the World Conference, which I am interpreting to be the GC headquarters. Am wondering which of the females who were sexually assulted by the "Televangelist" is actually coming forth with documentation? I have an educated guess based on other postings I've been reading on this topic. Wonder if this documentation is a legal filing/action that is being taken? Otherwise, why would The Contributor assume the World Church leaders would take action against or cause damage in any way to the Televangelist and thus threaten to withhold financial support from the World Missions if the World Church leaders undermine the Televangelist?? Or am I not interpreting this story of "The Contributor" correctly?? Just wondering and wanted to hear others thoughts on "The Contributor" story.....

Not exactly. For starters, we don't know how many times this scenario has been played out, we have mentioned two specific instances, and alluded to a third, without identifying Garwin as the individual referred to in that document, though other evidence would cause us to conclude that he was the one. Besides that we have evidence that would lead us to conclude that in the circles where such things are played out, this latest incident is neither uncommon nor unexpected.

But more precisely..... the incident which Sister described so graphically and which has to do with the documents mentioned, involved a meeting of the 3ABN board..... NOT a meeting with a GC President. The incident described by Jorgan VanBraun, which Sister posted in the "Who Is It?" describes a very recent incident, and she has given all the identifiers that can be given publicly at this time. I can add, however, that I have email which does identify the person who reported the incident, so I can attest to the validity of her description.

Welcome to BSDA. For someone who has only been here one day, you have read quite accurately....though perhaps you have been reading for more than one day.

As to what I thought of the Contributor story ... I thought it was a very skillful way of weaving together various facts (that I was already acquainted with) into a concise and coherent narrative.

As far as the identity of the victim referenced in that story, out of respect for her privacy and pain, we are attempting to honor her request that her name not be associated with this statement on any public forum. It may be circulated via private email to "church leaders and ministers", but our discussion on the forum is to be limited to the type of abuse rather than to the specific person who made the statement. Having said that, however, if you peruse the pages of BSDA carefully, you will be able to piece together the various parts of the story that have been alluded to in various places ... most often without giving her name.

As to why the Contribuor would assume World Church leaders would take some action unless he put pressure on them to not do so .... this present statement is only the latest in a two year attempt to get Church leaders to recognize the problems at 3ABN and to take what action they can to separate our church from 3ABN. And some very highly placed church leaders have been involved in putting increasingly urgent calls on GC leadership to "take action". So The Contributor was well aware that if he wanted to continue to protect Dan Shelton and 3ABN, he would have to take some direct and emphatic measures.

Since 3ABN is wholely owned by Danny Shelton, there is really nothing that the church can do of a legal nature against them. The church, however, DOES have the ability to "blacklist" any individual and organization. It has proven that in the past, and it could be applied to 3ABN and Dan Shelton as well. This ability includes such things and sending directives to churches that no 3ABN representatives are permitted to make presentations of any kind in church buildings or church owned facilities of any kind. They could also give directives to the Conferences, Media Center, and all Ministries.... whether church sponsored or independent .... that no entity calling themselves Seventh-day Adventist is to utilize 3ABN for broadcast purposes.

As it is, by the "three monkey" approach, the church is giving tacit approval to 3ABN and the churches have no reason to doubt the claims of 3ABN, that they are the "true" voice and face of Adventism.

Yes. Read the latest "story" by Jorden VanBraun, "The Contributor", in the thread "Behind The Scenes". It is based upon testimony of a high official in the SDA Church, who chooses to remain unnamed, but felt that the church at large needs access to this information.

Where is "The Contributor" story in "Behind The Scenes"? I only find "The Solution" story there.

Sorry, Bill. Too many threads to remember, as Watchbird stated correctly, it is in the "Who is it" thread. Hope that clears up the confusion.

Welcome to BSDA. For someone who has only been here one day, you have read quite accurately....though perhaps you have been reading for more than one day.

As to what I thought of the Contributor story ... I thought it was a very skillful way of weaving together various facts (that I was already acquainted with) into a concise and coherent narrative.

As far as the identity of the victim referenced in that story, out of respect for her privacy and pain, we are attempting to honor her request that her name not be associated with this statement on any public forum. It may be circulated via private email to "church leaders and ministers", but our discussion on the forum is to be limited to the type of abuse rather than to the specific person who made the statement. Having said that, however, if you peruse the pages of BSDA carefully, you will be able to piece together the various parts of the story that have been alluded to in various places ... most often without giving her name.

As to why the Contribuor would assume World Church leaders would take some action unless he put pressure on them to not do so .... this present statement is only the latest in a two year attempt to get Church leaders to recognize the problems at 3ABN and to take what action they can to separate our church from 3ABN. And some very highly placed church leaders have been involved in putting increasingly urgent calls on GC leadership to "take action". So The Contributor was well aware that if he wanted to continue to protect Dan Shelton and 3ABN, he would have to take some direct and emphatic measures.

Since 3ABN is wholely owned by Danny Shelton, there is really nothing that the church can do of a legal nature against them. The church, however, DOES have the ability to "blacklist" any individual and organization. It has proven that in the past, and it could be applied to 3ABN and Dan Shelton as well. This ability includes such things and sending directives to churches that no 3ABN representatives are permitted to make presentations of any kind in church buildings or church owned facilities of any kind. [color=#CC0000]Hi Wathcbird and thanks for the welcome!
I have been reading (sometimes invisibly and other times under my forum name) since last Thursday night (17th) when my brother first told me about this site. I've lost a lot of sleep because I couldn't pull myself away from all the postings. But I did want to acquaint myself with as many of the postings as possible, especially since I know a close family member of D.Mundall's, who first in June of 2004 and since, has told me a LOT of stuff about the questionable goings on at 3ABN. Until I started reading the BSDA re 3ABN, I had never heard from anyone else about these same things that were told me previously. So I have found it extremely informative..... (incidently, I have never met D. Mundall personally, but only know of him through this particular family member of his...) So in June 2004, when I first heard about Linda's being ousted, I could not blindly accept the reasonings given for such an action. So right away I was skeptical concerning the 'spiritual adultery' thing....So have kept my ears tuned for more info. Then I was recently directed to this forum and wow, it has been nearly TMI, but I am tasting and digesting slowly the additional info divulged by others on BSDA!

color=#CC0000] I also thought the aricle "The Contributor" was a skillfull way of letting some facts be known. Just like "The Televangelist" which I printed off for my husband to read!

[color=#CC0000]I totally agree with protecting the privacy of the victim who is now coming forward--and really didn't want or need to know the name--was just kinda 'thinking out-loud' when I wrote that I wondered who... But as I said I have pretty well pieced the 'who' part together in my mind. It takes a lot of courage to come forward with that type of testimony and I am praying for 'whomever' it is, that she will experience peace of mind and healing because of it.

[color=#CC0000]I also agree with you that there really is nothing 'the church' can do from a legal standpoint---- But maybe these persons who've been sexually abused will eventually be able to take legal action, and consequently DS may be forced out of the top leadership at 3ABN and its restructuring could then take place. But then again, the statutes of limitations may have long ago 'run out' for the victims' legal cases. Plus to actually come forward with any personal testimony, could only re-open their wounds and worst nightmares, forcing them to relive it all over again! Possibly not a viable option for them....It just makes me sick to think of those who were so abused--my heart goes out to them!

I know some people take practically everything DS says as 'the gospel truth' so they wouldn't be open to things that have been posted in BSDA. Some people I know are in "The Contributor's" inner circle of friends and family, (though I am not personally). That is how in 2004 I found out about the PI trailing Linda and that evidence was 'supposedly' found to prove to the 3ABN board she was 'unfaithful' to DS. But the details of the actual evidence were never shared with me, and thus I was skeptical (and still am) of the supposed evidence!

Although I am a newbie to BSDA, my mind was wide open to this topic before, and certainly is now that I have come to the BSDA forum. Its made for many hours of very intriguing reading for me!! (Since I am new to this, I am still learning the "how's" of replying. So hope it comes across okay.)

Welcome cottageK. Together with Linda I was also trailed by those three PIs. They do, of course, what they get paid for. They took the pictures called for as "evidence" and failed to show what would disprove it.

Linda needed desparetely help to provide the 3ABN with a letter for the meetng the following morning. Something went wrong with her software, but I was able to help her. Both Dr. Arild Abrahamsen and I went there to help her at her daughter's apartment.

Let me make it clear that both of us had come all the way from Norway to testify before the board of Linda's innosence, so we were stayng at a hotel near Thompsonville while Linda was in Springfield where her daughter lived. But Danny Shelton chased us away and said he'd have the police arrest us for trespassing private property.

Our testimony would have voided Danny's alibi to divorce Linda and marry Brandy, so you can understand he was desperate!

So we drove to Springfield to help Linda, trailed by the PI, and we knew they were there, because Danny had told us. It took us till about 3AM to get Linda's computter working. Then we left for our hotel, but spy cameras can do wonders. The PI managed to get a picture of Dr. Arild leaving the apartment without me getting into the picture, and this picture was presented the following morning at the board meeting as a proof that Linda was guilty of committing adultery. Can you see how desperate Danny Shelton was to get rid of Linda?

Danny volunteered a lot of information at that tiime. He told us his friend, Garvin MacNeilus had offered him to pay for a PI trailing Linda for the rest of her life. Later he also offered the information that Garvin was using up to 15 lawyers to prove that he was telling the truth, indicating that Garvin would make those available to him too. Some of us wonder what kind of statements need an army of 15 lawyers to prove they are true?

This is really incredible, the lengths to which he would go in order to "twist" the evidence his way!! I certainly does show how desperate he was to prove his case. Doesn't sound like he was trying to be reconciled, or "work things out" with Linda, contrary to what he has claimed, does it?! Sick minds truly act out in sick ways it seems. But I guess the end is supposed to justify the means. Hmm...

As you were...

Whew! Thanks Johann, for the details about the PI and how you all were trailed. Since DS and his cohorts were all after finding ANY incriminating 'evidence' they obviously were quick to jump to conclusions and didn't get the 'whole truth and nothing but the truth', and assumed they "had" their evidence to prove Linda was unfaithful. A family member did tell me that GM had seen the pictures/evidence proving she and the Dr were having an affair. So now I know what exactly those pictures consisted of and the true circumstances surrounding them. Glad to get it from you--the horse's mouth' so to speak!!

Well, as to the 15 lawyers.....People who know GM, know that whatever he does, he does it big!

One has to assume that Don Schneider and the others at the headquarters in Silver Spring, Maryland, have also had this garbage toted out in front of them. My guess is that they have.

And, of course, there would be no way for the vicitms to be present and to defend themselves.

Under those circumstances, the General Conference people would have been unfair to the victims, by their willingness to sit there in Silver Spring looking at and considering that garbage. The General Conference people, by their acquiescence to Danny Shelton and Garwin McNeilus, may have actually inflated the problem.

So, this is part of what Dr. Walt Thompson calls "unquestionable" evidence? What a hoot.

It's also rather bizarre that at the end of May, 2004, they've got private investigators trying to collect evidence after:

1. Brenda Walsh has, apparently, already ripped out Linda's new, blue carpeting in the new worship center and replaced it with $70,000 worth of whorehouse-red carpeting. Did Brenda intend for this to be a symbolic slap in the face for everyone to see? Some "friend."

2. Danny had already asked for a divorce, previously, on March 7, almost 3 months earlier.

3. Linda Shelton has already been put on involuntary leave from her job, humiliated and embarrassed, and told she cannot go to 3ABN without "supervision."

4. It's already in the "works" that Linda will be fired (with 24 hours) right after the campmeeting, which is already in progress.

5. All of the parties in question have already been threatened with arrest and kicked off the 3ABN premises.

6. Linda has already been "run off" and is staying with her daughter.

So, now -- after all of that -- 3ABN and its board members decide it's time to collect some needed "evidence." So, they hire investigators at that late date. Are these 3ABN board members totally nuts?

The time-line alone makes the PI evidence worthless because it comes far too late.

But, then again, maybe the 3ABN board doesn't care because, "The President no longer wants his Vice-President."

I want to begin by saying I have never been in Linda or Danny's position, but I do not believe either of them acted like christians, or that they wanted to work out their problems.

Once again I have never been in Linda's position but, if my spouse suspected me of having an affair I think I would stay away from the other person. I know we all need support but could she not find it somewhere else? It is almost like she was asking for trouble, the pregnancy test, having the Dr at her house almost all night. Even if they weren't "doing anything" why give the appearance, especially if you knew you were being watched?

I am not saying Danny didn't treat Linda terribly. I am not on "his side" at all. These are just questions I have in my mind. I understand her staying in contact with the Dr because of her son, but why have him in her home when things were so strained? It seems like she was giving Danny what he needed. I am sure this is not coming across like I would like it to.

I am disgusted about Danny marrying Brandy, but what proof do you have that he was making plans for her years ago?

I don't care that Danny and Linda couldn't work it out. But, I think if she would have handled some things differently Danny would not have had the ammunition that he has had.....Hindsights 20/20

I would like to believe Linda is innocent but I do have some questions....I would hope it is OK for me to ask them without being attacked....

Linda was staying at her daughter's apartment in Springfield. The Dr. was not at "her house almost all night." The Dr. was not in "her home." And he certainly wasn't in Alyssa's apartment alone.

The Thorvaldsson/Abrahamsen party was asked to leave the 3ABN campmeeting, and they drove from Thompsonville to Springfield, where Linda's daughter's apartment was located. Alyssa works as a Physician's Assistant in Springfield.

What did the Norwegians do in Springfield? They were going to help Linda write a letter to the 3ABN board for the board meeting on Sunday. Remember, the Norwegians were asked to leave the 3ABN campus and not return, under threat of arrest. So, a letter would be the next best idea.

As for the late night writing episode, have you ever been a student who sat up until the wee hours of the morning writing an important term paper on short notice to meet a deadline? I have.

Secondly, the doctor was in Norway and Linda was in the United States. From the time Linda left Norway to the weekend she was fired, the Dr. did not see Linda.

As for being watched, if you're not doing anything out of the ordinary, why should you hide? Why is the ultimate burden put on your shoulders just because you are being watched by hired goons? The last time I checked, this was still a free country.

In the end, I doubt it would have mattered who counseled Linda, who befriended her, or where she lived. What makes you think "someone else" (or anyone else) would have been more acceptable? Remember, Linda's friends were being asked not to talk to her. Apparently, they were all unacceptable. Every one.

If you were on the outside looking in and someone tells you that their spouse is cheating and than produces pictures. How are you to know that they are not what he says they are? What in Linda made it so easy for the board to believe Danny? I find it hard to believe she was there all of the time with all of those people and no one stood up to say this just doesn't sound like Linda????

I understand Danny's "people" backing him but Mark Finley and others were there. Did they just not want to get involved? Once again why was it so easy for most to believe Danny and not Linda??????

Who produced any pictures? As far as I know, they have photos of some Norwegians standing in front of Alyssa's apartment building after being evicted from the 3ABN campmeeting? Big deal.

Mark Finley had a program called "It is Written" which airs daily on 3ABN. Finley reportedly told Thorvaldsson, "If you defend Linda Shelton, you'll be left out in the cold, too."

Finley seems to have been too much of a coward to defend anyone Danny Shelton doesn't like. I think he had too much airtime on 3ABN to lose. That's blunt, but most likely the case.

Even now, I think the General Conference men are afraid of Danny Shelton and Danny's wealthy supporters. They want to pretend they're in control of things, but they've lost control of the Adventist Church, it seems.

Uncle Sam, Sorry if I hurt your feelings. I guess I can relate to Linda's plight all too well. To answer your question about the borard or staff could go without saying something in Linda's behalf..
When you have witnessed what happens to those who have raised a question "that doesn't sound like Linda". You see that those who DON'T take the bpsses side or point of view lose all their privileges. Including, the production of their own special ministries, the airing of your program, the job you thought was "working for the Lord", ... you quickly learn to keep you mouth shut. There are MANY who lost their ministries and their jobs by speaking up for Linda.

Linda is a soft-spoken LADY. Just the opposite from his personality. There is place for each in it's time and place.

If you have ever lost a job, or a friend, or whatever because you were lied about, then you can understand how it happens.

Danny takes all the credit for starting the ministry. So many, many people say they watched it because of her kind smiles, gentle manner, and great messages. Since she was forced off, they don't watch nearly so much! She was a great asset to 3ABN.

Danny hires, Danny fires, Danny signs all the checks, Danny , Danny , Danny. it is so sad it has gone so far that it can seen all the way from here.

You have good questions...! I apologize if I seemed to attack you, you sound sincere.

By the way, Uncle Sam, what becomes of all the money I send you every year.

Posted by: Uncle Sam Aug 22 2006, 08:46 PM

Thank you for the apology:) My parents went through something similiar as 3ABN but sadly it was true. It was at one of our colleges I know how ugly things can get. Adventist can be vicious!

Once the ministries were "lost" because of Danny, why didn't the people speak out? I really admire Barbara Kerr for speaking out. I know how hard that must have been.

I was one of those that enjoyed 3ABN because of Linda, I really enjoyed her music too. I rarely if ever watch now. I did write Danny a couple of letters. I told him he needed to just quit talking about the "rumors" it is a real turn off and embarassing for non SDAs to watch. The last couple of Live shows have made me sick, I couldn't watch more than a couple of minutes. He just said there are people that feel he should defend himself. More and more people in the church are questionings things because he cannot leave it alone. He will hang himself....

I was having serious questions throughout this mess, but when Danny got married that was it for me. I think he did everything so quietly, I mean most didn't even know he was "dating" anyone. When that happened and he wouldn't shut up about the rumors that is when I found this forum and it has been VERY eye opening. When he married that really made me see him differently. We have been up there to volunteer, he has never spoken to my family although he could have. Most of the people we met up there were very standoffish. There were some nice people but the "on air" people were not friendly at all, even when we were their "neighbors". I just really saw a different side of things and it made me sad.....I must say there were a couple of people that most would recognize that were nice.

Uncle Sam,

It sounds like you have been through a good bit of pain with this type of thing (or similar) before. It is good to hear from you and I enjoyed reading your posts.

Please keep posting. We can all learn something worthwhile together from this.

Yes, if he's given enough rope, and he will likely hang himself. That's much better than the GC trying to do it. Remember that's how God is dealing with Satan: He's given Him enough rope to hang himself -- He's given him the opportunity to reveal his real character to the universe. But it is taking a lot of time. Just so, it may still take a lot more time for the 3ABN situation to work itself out. We need to pray that the Lord will open they eyes of enough people so things will become clear sooner rather than later.

Well, Uncle Sam, why don't you share the names of the people at 3ABN "that were nice"? Surely there's no harm in that?!

Btw, I've enjoyed your posts here.

Thank you for the kind words:)

The nice people that we met were Shelly Quinns husband, extremely nice. Jay Christianson was also very nice. All of the people in the Latino department were nice, the Dinzeys were very friendly. Most of the behind the scenes people were friendly. We were there when the school was having a program so we went, most of the Sheltons were there Tommy's family etc. we sat right by them and they never even smiled at us.

Danny was talking to John Dinzey, and we needed to talk to John also, so we politely walked up to John. Waited for a break in the conversation, than asked John our question. Danny never even acknowlegded we were there. Never smiled never spoke. I just thought it was rude.....That is not to say he HAS to be say anything to us, but he wants our money and for volunteers to come up there. At least he could be polite, I am not asking for anymore than that...

US,

In any organization you are going to find the best and worst. In reading the conversations here about who was "naughty" and who was "nice" I have to wonder, is there a public Danny, a public Linda, an on-air Danny, an on-air Linda, a private Danny, a private Linda?

There are people that like Linda's quite, gentle ways on-air. Others are drawn to Danny's affiable, self-depricating charm. But when they walk off the set and are in business mode isn't it quite possible that they both could have been (still are) hard to work with and overbearing. We hear about this all the time about people on Hollywood sets. Given that both are not saints and are human like all of us - could they have weaknesses, such as a need to control, have their own way? I have heard (yes, secondary source) from individuals working with both that they were strong and determined individuals. Both have dominant personalities. Can we see problems coming, of course.

I am glad you met some of the more personalable people at 3ABN. I have had occassion to meet one or two myself and found them very Christian in their dealings and conversations with me.

However, when you deal with the issues of the top individuals on the broadcasting end - you are talking about two people have developed a strong cult of personality around themselves and the supporters of each are just as dogmatic in their adherence to the party line.

I understand that people can be/are different when they are "on". I did not expect Danny to be the same on/off camera but when you are in the position he is in there comes responsibility. He does not need to be anymore than polite. It was after church that I experienced his "rudeness".

I have been around other "leaders" in our church, and they are different when they are not "onstage" but most are at least cordial. Some are shy, one on one but they can at least say hello, otherwise it is bad manners....

If that is what happens to Christians when they get in these types of leadership roles maybe it is time to step down.....

I have a question. The thread I read this on has been closed and this is the closest thread I can find to my question. Two weeks ago the contributor was supposed to be at the GC making his threats about his donating to missions. What happened there, do we know? I am very concerned about our leadership of the church. If they don't take a stand who will? It is not about what is good for the church it is about what is the right thing to do as a christian. There is a big difference there. My father was a pastor and my uncle was a VP of the GC and I have a really hard time agreeing we should do something because it is for the good of the church. The church is made up of human beings that are fallible you can't rely on them for absolute truth You can only go to God and the Bible and ask for divine quidance. I fear that if the wrong decisions are made (for the good of the church) we may be in for a very big fall before this is all finished. It won't be just Danny & Linda it will be the Adventist church of which you and I are a part ıttp://www.ellengwhite.info/jewelry-contradiction-a.htm and see just which picture has been nodified (i.e. tampered with). The way I see it, the whole White Estate picture is much darker, not ust the "brooch." How do you know it was "air brushed"? Do you have the "real original" in your ›ossession that you write with such assurance that the "original" has been tampered with?

But I just couldn't let this off-repeated accusation stand as factual. Go to

ℓe, I very much appreciate your posts, especially when you write in dialiect. But why do you feel :ompelled to put down Ellen White and/or the Adventist church so frequently? While your put-downs :ould be answered much like this one -- where you choose to believe the worst possible interpretation - it usually takes the conversation off-topic.

BlackSDA _ 3ABN _ Adventist Today Write-up Of 3abn

Posted by: September Aug 21 2006, 12:47 PM

This came in my e-mail this afternoon...

Dr Abrahamson's letter preceeds the following statements.

Statement of Dr. Walter Thompson, Chairman, 3ABN Board of Directors

Thank you for the opportunity to respond to the article in Adventist Today that you are calling "Personal Lives and Three Angels Broadcasting Network (3ABN)."

I have carefully reviewed the article and have the following comments:

The Three ABN Board of Directors, a board that consists of dedicated business men, church leaders, and other dedicated laymen, have carefully and thoroughly studied the situations leading up to the dismissal of Linda Shelton from the ministry as well as the evidence indicating Danny's legal and moral rights to remarry. All decisions and actions taken have been by unanimous agreement based upon defensible evidence.

We live in a world dying without hope and are committed to doing our part in giving only that hope that may be found in the everlasting Good News of Jesus Christ and His soon return.

Walter Thompson MD

Chairman, 3ABN Board of Directors

Statement of Mr. Danny Shelton

Dear Editor:

This is my response to your offer to publish my unedited version of my reaction to the Adventist Today article.

I think it is a shame that the number reason people contact Adventist Today is to hear about Danny and Linda Shelton. I wish Adventist Today was spending as much time telling people about Jesus as they are exposing unsupported rhetoric about Danny and Linda. If that were the case, I suspect you would have conversion stories to share instead of unsubstantiated comments by those who are attempting to bring disgrace to the cause of God. I haven't heard of one conversion story from Adventist Today's printing all this "gossip" about us. I hear conversion stories almost daily at 3ABN because the focus of 3ABN is to take the Three Angel's messages into all the world.

I believe that we all need to consentrate on truth rather than to sort through all the testimonials and try to pick a side to support. As Christians we should all be on Jesus's side, and he says take the gospel into all the world. He does not say to take GOSSIP into all the world.

You mentioned that you do not have the ability to do "investigative reporting" in your search for truth, so in exchange, you are publishing the comments of the parties involved in the conflict which may or may not reflect truth. I might ask, how does this help to discover the truth of the matter or enhance the cause we all profess to want to serve-and which Adventist Today claims to want to do? The letters in this article that you asked me to respond to are made up of many errors. I won't try to point them all out at this time. I will say that Dr. Thompson's letter speaks for me and the board of 3ABN at this time.

There has been no cover ups on 3ABN's part and neither will there be on the latest letter. The gospel of Jesus Christ is all about taking His salvation message to the world. Jesus says,"Go" and the Devil says,"Stop. The Stop and Go principal has always helped me to make better decisions when it comes to whom I support. I support those who are giving the Gospel message into all the world, not those who are throwing stones and trying to Stop the Gospel through false accusations, no matter how convincing they may sound. The Bible says that we will know which side people are on "by their fruits."

God Bless!

Danny Shelton

Why does he refer to himself in third person? Sounds like a Mollie letter to me!

As Christians we should all be on Jesus's side, and he says take the gospel into all the world. He does not say to take GOSSIP into all the world.

Let's review what gossip is. Okay. Got it? Okay.
Now, Danny, where exactly is your proof for "spiritual adultery."
I rest my gossip case.

I might ask, how does this help to discover the truth of the matter or enhance the cause we all profess to want to serve-and which Adventist Today claims to want to do?

I don't think you ever tried to discover the truth nor would you want anyone else to discover truth about you.

As I studied his letter, I felt no rancor, no ill intent for the persecutors that have so ruthlessly dealt with him. As an eloquent writer once wrote: "The greatest need today is the want of men...who will stand true to duty as the needle to the pole."

Ah, let us heed those words and rise far up above the hissers and the shrill, the teeth-kisser and spiters of venom. I know that you are a good young man, Clayton. I believe there is yet hope for you.

BlackSDA _ 3ABN _ Integrity...

Posted by: Expression Aug 23 2006, 01:39 PM

There is an aspect of this whole situation that I personally feel needs greater emphasis. How our church deals with this issue will speak volumes to Adventist families all over the world.

In his letter to "Adventist Today" Danny speaks of those who are "...attempting to bring disgrace to the cause of God" and urges us instead to be on "Jesus's side". First of all, what defines "Jesus's side"? We serve a God who invites us to test Him and try Him. He tells us, "Come and let us reason together..." He knows that the more we learn about His character the more we will like Him. God has nothing to hide. He isn't afraid of questions.

Secondly, by asking questions are we really disgracing God? Or has He already been disgraced by those who profess to serve Him?

The guise of religion has served as a faithful cloak for many things throughout history. We cannot loose our focus when verses are quoted, texts cited, and prayers prayed. We must look at this situation for what it really is.

One thing of vital importance in discussing this situation is that we understand what we're dealing with. Knowledge is power. The Seventh-day Adventist church to a great extent does not understand the nature of abuse or the ideology of abusers. This has helped Danny immeasurably, because many Adventists have said, "Well, I don't know who to believe..." and therefore have sided with him. If we had really understood what we were seeing, things would not have gotten this far. We don't have to be in the dark if we're willing to step out of it

Abuse is a serious word.

One we don't like to use in Adventist circles.

However, Danny's actions have shown that he is a controlling and abusive person. Such as:
1. Verbally trashing Linda
2. Slandering her to the point that her closest friends backed away
3. Isolating her
4. Putting all the blame on her
5. Taking her personal belongings from her
6. Breaking the bathroom door to take away her keys (!!)

And on and on...

Lundy Bancroft was the co-director of "Emerge" which was the first program for abusive men in America. For over 17 years he has specialized in domestic violence and the behavior of abusive men. In his book, "Why Does He Do That?" Dr. Bancroft lists the warning signs of abuse (an abuser would exhibit some, not necessarily all of these):

He speaks disrespectfully about his former partners
He is disrespectful towards you
He does favors for you that you don't want or puts on such a show of generosity that it makes you uncomfortable
He is controlling
He is possessive

Nothing is ever his fault
He is self-centered
He abuses drugs and alcohol
He pressures you for sex
He gets serious too quickly about the relationship
He intimidates you when he's angry
He has double standards
He has negative attitudes toward women
He treats you differently around other people
He appears to be attracted to vulnerability
("Why Does He Do That?" pg. 121-122)

Dr. Bancroft lists the four critical characteristics of an abusive argument:
1. The abuser sees an argument as war
2. She is always wrong in his eyes
3. He has an array of control tactics
Sarcasm
Ridicule
Distorting what you say
Sulking
Using a tone of final authority--"defining reality"
Interrupting
Not listening, refusing to respond
Laughing out loud at your opinion or perspective
Turning your grievances around to use against you
Changing the subject to his grievances
Criticism that is harsh, undeserved, or frequent
Provoking guilt
Playing the victim
Smirking, rolling his eyes, contemptuous facial expression
Yelling, out-shouting
Swearing
Name-calling, insults, put-downs
Walking out
Towing over you
Walking toward you in an intimidating way
Blocking a doorway
Other forms of physical intimidation, such as getting too close when he's angry
Threatening to leave you
Threatening to harm you
4. He makes sure to get his way--by one means or another
(pg.144-147)

Dr. Bancroft addresses the issue of "neutrality" which has become the favorite response to this situation among Adventism. On page 287 he writes, "It is not possible to be truly balanced in one's views of an abuser and an abused woman. As Dr. Judith Herman explains eloquently in her masterwork "Trauma and Recovery", "neutrality" actually serves the interests of the perpetrator much more than those of the victim and so is not neutral. Although an abuser prefers to have you wholeheartedly on his side, he will settle contentedly for your decision to take a middle stance. To him, that means you see the couple's problems as partly her fault and partly his fault, which means it isn't abuse."

QUOTE(Expression @ Aug 23 2006, 02:39 PM)

There is an aspect of this whole situation that I personally feel needs greater emphasis. How our church deals with this issue will speak volumes to Adventist families all over the world.

In his letter to "Adventist Today" Danny speaks of those who are "...attempting to bring disgrace to the cause of God" and urges us instead to be on "Jesus's side". First of all, what defines "Jesus's side"? We serve a God who invites us to test Him and try Him. He tells us, "Come and let us reason together..." He knows that the more we learn about His character the more we will like Him. God has nothing to hide. He isn't afraid of questions.

Secondly, by asking questions are we really disgracing God? Or has He already been disgraced by those who profess to serve Him?

The guise of religion has served as a faithful cloak for many things throughout history. We cannot loose our focus when verses are quoted, texts cited, and prayers prayed. We must look at this situation for what it really is.

One thing of vital importance in discussing this situation is that we understand what we're dealing with. Knowledge is power. The Seventh-day Adventist church to a great extent does not understand the nature of abuse or the ideology of abusers. This has helped Danny immeasurably, because many Adventists have said, "Well, I don't know who to believe..." and therefore have sided with him. If we had really understood what we were seeing, things would not have gotten this far. We don't have to be in the dark if we're willing to step out of it
Abuse is a serious word.

One we don't like to use in Adventist circles.

However, Danny's actions have shown that he is a controlling and abusive person. Such as:
1. Verbally trashing Linda
2. Slandering her to the point that her closest friends backed away
3. Isolating her
4. Putting all the blame on her
5. Taking her personal belongings from her
6. Breaking the bathroom door to take away her keys (!!)

And on and on...

Lundy Bancroft was the co-director of "Emerge" which was the first program for abusive men in America. For over 17 years he has specialized in domestic violence and the behavior of abusive men. In his book, "Why Does He Do That?" Dr. Bancroft lists the warning signs of abuse (an abuser would exhibit some, not necessarily all of these):

He speaks disrespectfully about his former partners
He is disrespectful towards you

He does favors for you that you don't want or puts on such a show of generosity that it makes you uncomfortable
He is controlling
He is possessive
Nothing is ever his fault
He is self-centered
He abuses drugs and alcohol
He pressures you for sex
He gets serious too quickly about the relationship
He intimidates you when he's angry
He has double standards
He has negative attitudes toward women
He treats you differently around other people
He appears to be attracted to vulnerability
("Why Does He Do That?" pg. 121-122)
Dr. Bancroft lists the four critical characteristics of an abusive argument:
1. The abuser sees an argument as war
2. She is always wrong in his eyes
3. He has an array of control tactics
Sarcasm
Ridicule
Distorting what you say
Sulking
Using a tone of final authority--"defining reality"
Interrupting
Not listening, refusing to respond
Laughing out loud at your opinion or perspective
Turning your grievances around to use against you
Changing the subject to his grievances
Criticism that is harsh, undeserved, or frequent
Provoking guilt
Playing the victim
Smirking, rolling his eyes, contemptuous facial expression
Yelling, out-shouting
Swearing
Name-calling, insults, put-downs
Walking out
Towing over you
Walking toward you in an intimidating way
Blocking a doorway
Other forms of physical intimidation, such as getting too close when he's angry
Threatening to leave you
Threatening to harm you
4. He makes sure to get his way--by one means or another
(pg.144-147)

Dr. Bancroft addresses the issue of "neutrality" which has become the favorite response to this situation among Adventism. On page 287 he writes, "It is not possible to be truly balanced in one's views of an abuser and an abused woman. As Dr. Judith Herman explains eloquently in her masterwork "Trauma and Recovery", "neutrality" actually serves the interests of the perpetrator much more than those of the victim and so is not neutral. Although an abuser prefers to have you wholeheartedly on his side, he will settle contentedly for your decision to take a middle stance. To him, that means you see the couple's problems as partly her fault and partly his fault, which means it isn't abuse."
Abuse is destroying our homes and families--including those in leadership positions. We cannot afford to look the other way. We cannot afford to be "neutral". How much do we value integrity? Will we hold our leaders accountable?

> "The willingness to surrender one's independence, to barter the evidence of one's senses for the comfortable but reality-distorting satisfaction of feeling in harmony with a group is, of course, the stuff on which demagogues and dictators thrive."

Thank you for this thoughtful post.

very insightful, i think there is a lot more abuse going on that we just don't recognize (or choose to see) unfortunately, abuse isn't limited to the physical.. and effects of emotional abuse are just as real and long lasting...

BlackSDA _ 3ABN _ The Closing Of A Thread

Posted by: sister Aug 23 2006, 12:44 PM

Steve, this is not the first time that a thread has been closed concerning 3ABN and perhaps not the last. I respect your right as a moderator to choose to close a thread, but I respectfully protest the grounds upon which it was closed. There are certain areas, upon which I have agreed with Calvin, not to pursue. But the agreement did not include restricting the area of discourse to "issues between Danny and Linda or Danny's running of 3abn". The title of this forum is 3ABN, The saga of the 3ABN ministry. The saga of the 3ABN ministry includes much more than simply issues between Danny and Linda or only Danny's running of 3ABN. To fully understand a ministry like 3ABN, one must understand the dynamics that exist within it and to understand Danny's running of 3ABN it is necessary to see the relationships that exists between him and other staff members, a number of whom are directly related to him by blood or through marriage.

It is often said that the tone of a business, family or ministry is set by the values and actions of the people in charge. I believe this is also the case with 3ABN. In the thread, Who is it?, I attempted to lift the veil and encourage other witnesses to share their personal testimony of what they had experienced with key members of the 3ABN "family". All the individuals I have chosen to feature in this thread are either directly involved in the issues between Danny and Linda or through their relationship with Danny or their position in the 3ABN ministry, directly influence the running of 3ABN.

and in looking at the thread I think it is not appropriate to air the dirty laundry of all that may have been associated with 3abn, unless you start airing yours.... and others who have spoken out here..... if you wish to discuss this further, PM me....

BlackSDA _ 3ABN _ Who Is It?

Posted by: sister Aug 6 2006, 12:05 AM

If you have closely following the threads in the 3ABN forum, this should be an easy game to play. There are many characters involved in front of the camera and behind the scenes at 3ABN.

This is how the game operates. I will describe an individual and with the knowledge you have gained concerning 3ABN, you should be able to correctly ascertain who it is. So, lets try and see how it goes. The first one will be easy, if you have paid attention, all the clues can be found within The Unauthorized History of 3ABN and The Televangelist.

1. 3ABN has described her as a woman of integrity, but we know the character that the viewing public never sees. Over time she has risen up through the ranks of 3ABN, the only one above her in the organization is Danny Shelton himself. But if anything she is even more dangerous than Danny. Why? She is much smarter and doesn't allow her emotions to get in the way of attaining her goal. When Danny gets blown out of the water she is both ready and willing to take his place. But unfortunately that could mean jumping out of the frying pan and landing in the fire for 3ABN. Remember she told Danny that he is like "GOD" for the workers at 3ABN. Is that the kind of person who belongs in a Christian ministry?

Who is she?

This sounds like fun! Can we get "extra points" for giving the exact url of the post(s) in which the information in your clues is given?

what is this 3ABN Trivial Pursuit?
one word..... "obsession"

QUOTE

1. preoccupation: an idea or feeling that completely occupies the mind
His obsession with figures led him to make crucial economic mistakes.

2. state of being obsessed: the state of being obsessed by somebody or something
Their devotion to each other borders on obsession.

3. psychiatry uncontrollable persistence of idea: the uncontrollable persistence of an idea or emotion in the mind, sometimes associated with psychiatric disorder yep... obsession....

Posted by: sister Aug 6 2006, 08:13 AM

For those of you who answered Mollie, give yourself 10 points. And yes, Steve, this could be called 3ABN Trivial Pursuit, except the pursuit is not so trivial. The house that Danny built is beginning to crumble and it is important to know all the players, for soon the entire drama will unfold.

Now the toss up question for extra points. Using information from The Unauthorized History of 3ABN or any other source, state why Mollie should be removed form 3ABN. Answer this and you get 10 extra points, add the urls and get an additional 5 points. Relating a personal experience with Mollie at 3ABN will get you 25 points.

Mollie, won't stand up to Danny when she knows he wrong. When Mollie "investigates" something she is more concerned with personal things about the person she's talking to. Nothing that has to do with the investigation!!

When Mollie investigates something she doesn't take time to gather the facts, especially from the person that was wronged.

Okay this is personal experience.

Freedom, you obviously have experience with Mollie. 10 pts for knowing it is Mollie and 25 pts for a personal experience. With 35 pts., that puts you at the top of the game.

Remember, Mollie never needs "facts"...she makes up the "truth" as she goes along. In my Father's Book, He calls that a lie. And who is the father of liars? So why is Ken Denslow willing to have her on the Illinois Conference Board? An additional 10 pts. for anyone who can answer this question.

Posted by: sister Aug 6 2006, 06:58 PM

It seems that question was very easy. There is still the opportunity to earn additional bonus points by answering questions or relating experiences in regard to Mollie. I know there are many silent witnesses out there who could join in this not so trivial pursuit. Perhaps I will prime the pump a little and earn an additional 25 pts.

I was having a conversation with a 3ABN employee and commented how a visitor had just mistaken me for another staff member and were very excited about meeting "her". This person looked at me quizzically and asked, "What did you say to them?" I replied, "There I was looking into their expectant faces, so thrilled to meet one of their favorite 3ABN people and I had to disappoint them. I told them I was sorry but they had the wrong person." Then the other person said to me, "You know if it had been Mollie, she just would have said she was the person in question." I said, "I would not have been able to lie to them." The other person agreed and saw no purpose in deceiving people. Then we both agreed that lying was never a problem for Mollie...

Sorry, I've been extra rushed today, and your "toss up" question has so many possible answers. Is there still opportunity to tag back into that?

For example..... as to why she should be removed....

1) She, with her husband, wer the ones responsible for the bogus "miracle story" upon which 3ABN was founded, "It was Hal who advised Danny that by telling the story of Hal's purported "gift" of television equipment to Danny from a Pentecostal ministry, with Hal willing to sign a falsified document substantiating the "fact", it would "prime the financial pump" and the donations would stream in to Danny's pockets. The truth of the matter is that this $100,000.00 worth of equipment actually came from Joe Crews, the founder of Amazing Facts, in exchange for air time. "

See the thread, "An Unauthorized History of 3ABN chapter 4", http://www.blacksda.com/forums/index.php?s=&showtopic=9765&view=findpost&p=128534

2) She was first and foremost in leading Danny to think of himself as standing in the place of God to his employees (and to everyone else, for that matter).

See the above url, also see http://www.blacksda.com/forums/index.php?s=&showtopic=9765&view=findpost&p=128116

And there are more..... many more.

Answer:

Maybe they're stacking the deck with 3ABN people. Maybe they're quietly trying to control the Adventist Church in Illinois, as in "Control, control, control." Remember that quote about "control" from somewhere?

Mollie Steenson: General Manager of 3ABN
Ken Denslow: Board Member of 3ABN
John Stanton: Has co-hosted the "House Calls" program on 3ABN - (John was dispatched from the 3ABN Church in Thompsonville to Springfield to "squelch" Linda Shelton, and to give Linda the "not welcome" treatment as a new Springfield church member?)

Just look at the Executive Committee on page 2. The date given in this newsletter is April 30, 2005.

And then, as we move along to 2006, notice who the illustrious speaker is at the Illinois Women's Retreat, none other than Kay Kuzma, a participating member of what I call the "3ABN Dump Linda Committee" as in "the Board is only interested that the President no longer wants his Vice-President."

"Kay Kuzma is the featured speaker for the Illinois Women's Retreat on October 6 – 8. The theme for the weekend is Serendipity, The Joy of the Unexpected. Watch for registration information in future Updates."

Meanwhile, we read that Danny Shelton is greeting President George Bush, during the National Day of Prayer, along with the million dollar recipient of 3ABN money, Wintley Phipps, of the proposed 3ABN "World of Praise" channel. I imagine they flew to Washington on the private jet?

"Just last week, Danny Shelton, president of Three Angels Broadcasting Network, also had an opportunity to meet President Bush at the National Day of Prayer. Danny and Wintley Phipps visited briefly with Bush and shared with him the book 10 Commandments Twice Removed."

This appears to be a very entrenched rogue's gallery of characters who seem to have notches carved into their belts. I doubt the average Adventist in Illinois would be able to see what's going on under the table. It's pitiful, really.

Yes, I know what you're saying:

Danny interviewed Jim Gilley on 3ABN Today where Gilley mentioned his book.

Quote: "If you've ever been hurt, depressed, deathly ill, rejected, or grief-stricken, you need what Gilley is offering in this book—a new attitude and a life-grip on the Savior."

In return, Jim Gilley invited Danny Shelton to the First SDA Church of Dallas so that Danny could have access to the members there. The "back scratching" seems to take precedence over all other considerations, doesn't it?

Some posters here have mentioned writing to Mr. Gilley. However, I think that the concrete has already set on that back scratching arrangement between Jim Gilley and Dan Shelton.

There are a lot of "I'll scratch your back. You scratch my back relationships." Danny and Ken- John and Ken- Mollie and Ken - Kay and Danny- Wintley and Danny. Know what I'm sayin?

Lurker, 20 pts. for recognizing the way that Danny does "business". There is so much back scratching going on at 3ABN you would think those folks were continually outside rolling in poison ivy. In Jesus' day it was, "Beware the leaven of the Pharisees." Today it is, "Look out and pray before entering into mutually benefitting relationships with Danny Shelton. Like the Devil, he just might try to charm you into selling you soul for the fleeting fame of being associated with him.

And then, as we move along to 2006, notice who the illustrious speaker is at the Illinois Women's Retreat, none other than Kay Kuzma, a participating member of what I call the "3ABN Dump Linda Committee" as in "the Board is only interested that the President no longer wants his Vice-President."

"Kay Kuzma is the featured speaker for the Illinois Women's Retreat on October 6 – 8. The theme for the weekend is Serendipity, The Joy of the Unexpected. Watch for registration information in future Updates."

http://www.illinoisadventist.org/constituency_newsletter.pdf

Meanwhile, we read that Danny Shelton is greeting President George Bush, during the National Day of Prayer, along with the million dollar recipient of 3ABN money, Wintley Phipps, of the proposed 3ABN "World of Praise" channel. I imagine they flew to Washington on the private jet?

"Just last week, Danny Shelton, president of Three Angels Broadcasting Network, also had an opportunity to meet President Bush at the National Day of Prayer. Danny and Wintley Phipps visited briefly with Bush and shared with him the book 10 Commandments Twice Removed."

This appears to be a very entrenched rogue's gallery of characters who seem to have notches carved into their belts. I doubt the average Adventist in Illinois would be able to see what's going on under the table. It's pitiful, really.

Pete, I am glad that you didn't have to go to bed pointlessly like so many others. Give yourself another 5 pts. for the url and 15 pts. for the further information linking up 3ABN employees and the Illinois Conference. Later lets talk for about Kay, she and Danny sure have done alot of back scratching.

Concerning Shelton and Bush... depending upon your political position, that could just be one more deceiver being introduced to another. It seems Danny is trying to upgrade his image by being seen with the President. I hope they counted the silverware before and after Danny left the Whitehouse. Let's hope Danny didn't have the opportunity to see Air Force One or he will start thinking his jet is too small for an important president like himself and he will go shopping again. I wonder what the limit is on his credit card? At least he will not be able to suggest that Linda spent all those millions clothes shopping...

Why do I have the urge to call President Bush and try to warn and protect him??? I do like him and he might need a heads-up on the mighty DS or he may become another casualty.

As to the credit card issue [x] that is hilarious!! Danny can't blame it on Linda this time! mr. " just charge it"!!

Yes, I know what you're saying:

Danny interviewed Jim Gilley on 3ABN Today where Gilley mentioned his book.

Quote: "If you've ever been hurt, depressed, deathly ill, rejected, or grief-stricken, you need what Gilley is offering in this book—a new attitude and a life-grip on the Savior."

In return, Jim Gilley invited Danny Shelton to the First SDA Church of Dallas so that Danny could have access to the members there. The "back scratching" seems to take precedence over all other considerations, doesn't it?

Dallas First Seventh Day Adventist Church

Pastor: James Gilley

Some posters here have mentioned writing to Mr. Gilley. However, I think that the concrete has already set on that back scratching arrangement between Jim Gilley and Dan Shelton.

'ete, I saw the same program, that is the reason that I didn't address Gilly about the 3ABN Rally. It vould have been like bringing a bag of sand to the Sahara Desert---pointless. They say politics make ;trange bedfellows, it appears that 3ABN is making even stranger ones. I think there are a lot of folks n the SDA church who will find that you can not enter into partnership with Danny Shelton and come ıway with clean hands. The kind of dirt you pick up by that association can only be washed away by he blood of Jesus. Once all the truth comes out about Danny and the Shelton Gang, the appearance ›f evil is going to stick on a lot of folks like warts on a frog. Pete, give yourself 30 more points.

The reason Mollie has been able to move herself into the number two position at 3ABN is exactly for the reason you stated! It is because Danny knows that Mollie will get things done his way irregardless of what the truth is, how many lies she has to tell or who she has to trample on to reach their goal. This is also the reason she should be removed from any administrative role in 3ABN, terminated from any leading position in the local church, busted from her Conference Committee position and finally, put under church discipline. Her avorite expression, often quoted on 3ABN by her husband, Hal, is: "Make sure you get them smiling before you hit them in the teeth, that way you won't bruise their lips." Hal always says it with a smile, but too many employees at 3ABN have experienced her wrath. .... gotta process this a moment ....

"number two position"..... don't we have some indication that Mollie has her sights on a higher position that a mere "number two"?

"the reason she should be removed..... terminated..... ousted..... put under church discipline"..... fully agreed.

"bite, like the serpent"..... ....

Some random thoughts generating "in the background" .....

I'm remembering..... Mollie's been teaching Danny..... wouldn't it stand to reason that Mollie has also been learning from Danny? Danny has no regard for friend or family ties when it comes time to dump (or bite) someone... (don't have time to look up the urls, but I'm sure we've talked about some of the persons he has kicked out of his life at various times.....) Well, here we are. We all know what she really is. We all know what Danny really is. We all want to do something about it. We all know that he has enough money to do favors for and interview the very people who can keep things going his way. Letters to leaders do not help---they are to a large degree aware of what Danny is but to them apparently the end justifies the means. We can wait on God to do something but apparently it is not God's time to stop him yet.. So maybe He is waiting for us to do something. I can write to a hundred people but he can tell millions that it is all lies. He sits there like a buffalo with jet wings . I would like your game of obsession to go on and maybe you will strike with the right question that will be the answer to all our prayers. In the meantime we need all the help we can get. They need to go.!!! If two cats get put into the same cage, something or someone gets destroyed.

Round 2

Now that Mollie's character has been properly outed, it is time to turn our attention to another member of the "illustrious" 3ABN staff. This shouldn't be too difficult if you have paid attention to information supplied in the threads. But it may bring out some surprises to those new to behind the scenes at 3ABN. Let the game begin...

2. Instead of going the way of hair plugs, this man fancies another means of hiding a receding hairline. But loss of hair is not the only secret he is hiding. Lock up your sons when the 3ABN Rally comes to town, there is another predator posing as a sheep in Danny's entourage. Contrary to what many may assume neither he, nor his immediate family are members of the SDA church. He holds a prominent position in the organizational structure of 3ABN, but he didn't need prior experience in television production to secure this job.

10 pts for guessing the identity of the subject in question. The more information you provide the more points available. To quote Panama Pete, you wouldn't want to go to bed pointless tonight. If you have information of a confidential nature and would not choose to reveal your identity publicly, please PM the information to me and I will post it for you anonymously.

PaperTigers, 10 pts for identifying the wolf in sheep's clothing. An additional 30 pts for revealing the following:

1. Tommy is not allowed to live in the state of Illinois and currently resides in Kentucky.
2. His predatory behavior is a reoccurring situation: Illinois, Virginia, etc.
3. Family members have stepped in to extradite him from the situation before formal charges were filed, therefore no criminal record.

PaperTigers, an additional 30 pts if you can tell the part Goldie, Danny and Tommy's mother played in the Illinois incidents.

Additional information: Tommy was a minister in another denomination during the time these incidents occurred and also served as a school principal. So much for the old way of remembering principal from principle: the head of a school is p-r-i-n-c-i-p-a-l because he is your pal. A pal would never do that to a child.

The more witnesses, the more plausible the truth becomes. You both will receive equal points for answering. I am sure people need to hear the truth more than once. My understanding is the Goldie made the deal with the parents of the boys he molested, that if she were to get Tommy out of the state, not to return, that they would be willing not to press charges. Now, there may have been some money involved for their "pain and suffering" but I can not say for sure.

30 pts for correctly stating the part Goldie played in securing her son's freedom and allowing him further opportunities to "work" with children, first in Illinois, then in Virginia. Now he is back working in Illinois, but officially living in Kentucky. I do not think this is what the parents of his victims had in mind when they agreed not to press charges.

Now to top off this sorry saga, Tommy comes to work at 3ABN and of course Danny is fully aware of his brothers actions. What is one of Tommy's duties at 3ABN? He is in charge of music for Kid's Time, working with children again. Do the parents of the children who come to record at 3ABN know Tommy's background? No. He has never been convicted of his crime, his family has made sure of that, so he is not listed anywhere as having a history of this type of behavior.

PaperTigers, you worked on Kid's Time, what did you think of the situation?

NEWS FLASH

I have just received the following document from the author of "The Televangelist", Jorgen VanBraun.

I will make the following comments before you read this post: This situation is currently taking place at the General Conference of Seventh-day Adventists. The truth of the statements within the narrative has been verified by a reliable independent source who chooses to remain anonymous at this time. Send a copy of this document to your entire email list. Get the message out to the church at large. It is time for this "shadow man", who uses his vast wealth to sway the decisions of the church, to be revealed. Why does he continue to back Danny Shelton?

Okay People, time to name names. 100 pts a name, except the victim, this brave girl has suffered enough. Let us all pray for her protection, Danny knows who she is and there is no way to predict what he would be willing to do to try and stop her testimony.

The Contributor

Jorgen VanBraun

Along the hallowed halls of the headquarters of the World Conference of the Church, the atmosphere is hushed, yet alive with activity. Pastors, administrators, visitors, people from every part of the globe are here conducting the business of the Church. Also here today is a robust, energetic man from the central west. Today the Contributor, the Church's wealthiest donor, will be meeting with a number of top leaders.

Over the years the Contributor's donations to the Church have totaled more millions of dollars than we can imagine, and everyone here is anxious to take a larger piece of the pie. The World Missions department has always come out on top. Today the Contributor has something weighing on his mind.

His close friend and associate, the Televangelist, has a dark cloud hanging over his head. He has been exposed through various mediums for the charlatan that he is. His many years of lies and manipulation are catching up with him. Now, a young woman has produced documented proof that she was repeatedly sexually assaulted by the Televangelist during his second marriage. This documentation has been sent to many of the leaders in the Church, and the time has come that they can no longer turn a blind eye. The man who was once their poster child, and was considered the face of the Church by the Church's foremost evangelist, is now becoming a liability. If they continue to support him, and allow that he is the face of the church, this newest scandal of his will bring them down with him. The Contributor knows this, and has determined that he will force the Church into compliance with the Televangelist.

Sitting in the spacious office of the President of the World Conference, the Contributor bluntly tells the President that if the Church takes any action against the Televangelist, or does anything that would damage, or undermine him, the Church will not receive another penny of his money for World Missions. Considering that the World Missions budget comes primarily from the Contributor, the President knows that the Church will be rocked to its foundations by the loss of this man's money. What will he do? What will the Church do?

Back at the compound, the Televangelist leans back in a large couch. His eyes drift over to where a new step-daughter is playing and his lips curl in a slight smile. He reaches over and pats his new wife on the thigh, as he watches the little girl play. Memory takes him back over the years to another step-daughter.

What will the Church do? This question remains unanswered. The decision has yet to be made.

He sure is Panama Pete. But the real question is: why is Garwin McNeilus pimping a sexual predator to the GC with the threat of removing the vast amount of funds he would normally contribute to the World Missions Department, unless they back off and allow Danny Shelton to continue the evil practices that he has hidden for so long behind the scenes at 3ABN? Is all the hype about McNeilus and his heart for missions nothing more than PR? Are his contributions merely a tactic to control the church? What binds Garwin McNeilus to Danny Shelton?

QUOTE(sister @ Aug 9 2006, 09:37 PM)

He sure is Panama Pete. But the real question is: why is Garwin McNeilus pimping a sexual predator to the GC with the threat of removing the vast amount of funds he would normally contribute to the World Missions Department, unless they back off and allow Danny Shelton to continue the evil practices that he has hidden for so long behind the scenes at 3ABN? Is all the hype about McNeilus and his heart for missions nothing more than PR? Are his contributions merely a tactic to control the church? What binds Garwin McNeilus to Danny Shelton?

I wonder if the people who know the answer to this question would like to reveal it?
There's something very fishy about this.

NEWS FLASH

I have just received the following document from the author of "The Televangelist", Jorgen VanBraun.

I will make the following comments before you read this post: This situation is currently taking place at the General Conference of Seventh-day Adventists. The truth of the statements within the narrative has been verified by a reliable independent source who chooses to remain anonymous at this time. Send a copy of this document to your entire email list. Get the message out to the church at large. It is time for this "shadow man", who uses his vast wealth to sway the decisions of the church, to be revealed. Why does he continue to back Danny Shelton?

Okay People, time to name names. 100 pts a name, except the victim, this brave girl has suffered enough. Let us all pray for her protection, Danny knows who she is and there is no way to predict what he would be willing to do to try and stop her testimony.

The Contributor

Jorgen VanBraun

Along the hallowed halls of the headquarters of the World Conference of the Church, the atmosphere is hushed, yet alive with activity. Pastors, administrators, visitors, people from every part of the globe are here conducting the business of the Church. Also here today is a robust, energetic man from the central west. Today the Contributor, the Church's wealthiest donor, will be meeting with a number of top leaders.

Over the years the Contributor's donations to the Church have totaled more millions of dollars than we can imagine, and everyone here is anxious to take a larger piece of the pie. The World Missions department has always come out on top. Today the Contributor has something weighing on his mind. His close friend and associate, the Televangelist, has a dark cloud hanging over his head. He has been exposed through various mediums for the charlatan that he is. His many years of lies and manipulation are catching up with him. Now, a young woman has produced documented proof that she was repeatedly sexually assaulted by the Televangelist during his second marriage. This documentation has been sent to many of the leaders in the Church, and the time has come that they can no longer turn a blind eye. The man who was once their poster child, and was considered the face of the Church by the Church's foremost evangelist, is now becoming a liability. If they continue to support him, and allow that he is the face of the church, this newest scandal of his will bring them down with him. The Contributor knows this, and has determined that he will force the Church into compliance with the Televangelist.

Sitting in the spacious office of the President of the World Conference, the Contributor bluntly tells the President that if the Church takes any action against the Televangelist, or does anything that would damage, or undermine him, the Church will not receive another penny of his money for World Missions. Considering that the World Missions budget comes primarily from the Contributor, the President knows that the Church will be rocked to its foundations by the loss of this man's money. What will he do? What will the Church do?

Back at the compound, the Televangelist leans back in a large couch. His eyes drift over to where a new step-daughter is playing and his lips curl in a slight smile. He reaches over and pats his new wife on the thigh, as he watches the little girl play. Memory takes him back over the years to another step-daughter.

What will the Church do? This question remains unanswered. The decision has yet to be made.

So, two members of the Shelton Gang have been revealed to be sexual predators. The only difference s the gender of their victims. It is time for the entire administration of 3ABN, including the board to e swept clean. I pray the GC will remember that their Father in Heaven owns the cattle on a housand hills and ask "The Contributor" to close the door on his way out.

Early in the evangelistic ministry of Billy Graham, he faced a crisis. The ministry was in financial trouble. It looked like God's work was going to have to stop. Then Graham received a contribution that would keep it going for a while. But, it was from what Graham considered to be a tainted source. Graham called his staff together. He told them that they were going to take it to the Lord in prayer, leave the ministry in the hands of God, and then return the gift. As he said, if their work was of God, God would keep it financially afloat. If not, they were not going to ever accept tainted money.

The world knows what happened to the Billy Graham Evangelistic Association.

WOW!! it gets more and more interesting.. as far as Tommy working with KIDS TIME... when i found out he was going to be in charge of the music for the kids and play for them on the set and be very involved... i honestly threw up... it makes me sick just thinking about it... the poor parents have NO IDEA!!! what is working with their kids...
it's just not right

Thank you for your added information, PT. I don't want this to get lost in the excitement over the newsflash Sister just brought to us. And adding to this, two comments .....

1) When a friend of mine in Australia, who had been a church elder in his church for many years, and thus had been deeply involved with every aspect of dealing with more than one case of sexual abuse of minors that arose there during his terms of office, heard of Danny and Tommy and Melody traveling as a threesome to promote 3ABN in his country, his indignation reached literally unspeakable heights. But his sputtering as he contemplated these three visiting in the various churches in his country, thus having access to children of both genders, communicated to this opposite quadrant of the globe clearly and distinctly. It's too bad that those on this side of the globe could not have just a fraction of his clarity of perception... especially those in 3ABN's home conference.

2) Specifically, this needs very much to be kept in mind by the Illinois Conference constituency and leadership, especially those having to do with the proposed move of Broadview Academy from its present location, either closing it gradually by a program that would have instruction at two locations, one of which is the 3ABN school, or actually moving it to the 3ABN campus. This latter proposition (and I use the word deliberately) was laid aside about a year ago when one of the Conference Committee members raised questions about the moral fiber of the owner of 3ABN. But the current plan is just that, current, and it does involve linking 3ABN with the new broadview program. For verification of this, please see the newsnote on http://www.broadviewacademy.org/news.html.

Perhaps this could give at least a partial answer to sister's earlier question as to why Mollie was now on the Illinois Conference Committee. I'm not sure whether the member who raised questions last year is still on it or not. But since that time, Mollie has been added, we know that for sure.

That Web page you mentioned appears to be unchanged from the year 2000.

Here is a current roster of the "Church of God of Cumberland Valley"

http://www.churchofgodcv.org/addresses.aspx

On the roster, the address on the Web site (2458 Gallows Road) in Dun Loring now reads:

Dr. Edward N. Beck
2500 Gallows Rd.
Dunn Loring, VA 22027
Phone: (703) 573-3444
Email: servngsus@hotmail.com

3ABN's "BroTommy" Shelton is on the same Cumberland Valley roster, farther down:

Tommy Shelton
9090 SR 91 N
Marion, KY 42064
Phone: (270) 965-1698
Email: brotommy@freewwweb.com

All these years that Tommy has been on 3abn it was always assumed by the average watcher that he was an SDA and that is the impression that they gave. When I mention to people that he is not an SDA they are completely surprised. His music and web site are promoted on 3abn as if it were part of the SDA church.

I just can't imagine how Garwin McNeilus can be so blind, unless he also has an agenda of his own regarding Danny Shelton and 3ABN.

Where does the Everlasting Gospel fit into all of this?

That's the source of the problem, Daryl, the Everlasting Gospel really does not appear to fit into the motives of the two above named "gentlemen". And I think the words I bolded should start you thinking in the correct direction...

We seemed to have gotten sidetracked in our game...but the NEWSFLASH was, and continues to be, very important. As updates are available they will be posted.

Now we return to our regularly scheduled program, the 3ABN game show, Who is it?

3. She literally started in the basement— she and her sisters cleaned out the basement in the Shelton home — and made it to the pinnacle of stardom on 3ABN with her own program. 3ABN sells two books co-authored by her. At one time Linda believed her to be her best friend and at the same time she was spending late nights alone with Danny Shelton, unbeknownst to his wife, in her 3ABN guest apartment. She is wealthy on her own account, so other than a roll in the hay, what Danny could give her is fame. At one time she claimed Linda Shelton as her fourth sister, but now 3ABN has arranged for the three of them, who have spurned Linda Shelton, to have the women's ministry weekend at the Carolina Conference. The word on the street is that their theme will include clarifying some of the "junk" happening at 3ABN. I have no doubt that they have the 3ABN spin memorized to perfection.

10 points for naming this woman, an additional 5 points for the sisters and as always the more additional facts you contribute the more points are available. Let the game begin!

PT, 10 pts for naming Brenda, 5 pts each for her sisters and 5 pts more for programming info. That makes a grand total of 25 pts for this question!

Why don't you tell us what it was like working with them on the set...

well linda is actually a sweet heart and cinda can be too, but she can get really worked up about some stuff brenda on the other hand... omg you have to have a special knack to work with her... i know of 3 people who refused to work with her, and 2 more that she refused to have work for her...
if you got along with her it was all good, and i was pretty much a pacifist (sp?) so i got along with her pretty well, as long as you did what she wanted everything was hunky dorey... so for me that wasn't too hard, i was usually 2 steps ahead of her... which i think sometimes actually made her more mad then if i didn't have a friggin' clue...
parts of it were fun, and then parts of it were pure hell... if she wanted something done, she wanted it done right now... no excuses and it didn't matter if you had the time - or the energy... and she would in a heartbeat stab you in the back to make herself look goo
(and yes i have the battle wounds to prove it) not all fun and games

I don't know what it was like working with them on the set. However I will say that in 2004, just prior to the 3ABN campmeeting, Brenda had the entire carpet for the campmeeting, which was brand new, replaced because she didn't like the color Linda had picked out. (The old color was sort of purplish/Blue. The new color was red.) This was no small undertaking, and of course it was funded by the donations. This was about one week before Linda was fired.

This was the time Brenda and Danny were spending "late nights" together.

Thank you Sister. I just realized, if you put us together, we are Brother and Sister!

Since the posts are not coming fast and furious, I will relate another Brenda story. Someone earlier defined "hypocrite". Well in June 2002, Brenda, whose husband is a millionaire, was asked to give a small donation ($20.00) for a struggling ministry (not based in the U.S.) Brenda said they have a "very strict policy to not give to any ministries at all". At the next camp meeting, both she and Cinda were pleading for money from the pulpit for their new kid's program. In my mind, if you don't give, you have no business asking either. At the very least, it was hypocritical.

PT, you get your 50 pts. This experience says a lot about Brenda's character. She doesn't take responsibility for her own mistakes and she has no problem to throw someone else to the wolves to cover up her own errors. This is definitely not someone you would want for a best friend...

Did you hear about the run-in between Brenda and Dee? Brenda was unhappy about the way that Dee spoke to her and after that time Dee was banned from Brenda's presence, in addition to that Dee was secretly sent to St. Louis for a two day seminar to learn proper etiquette in order to retain her job. For those of you who do not know Dee was Linda Shelton's assistant.

Well ..... I never had any work contact with her as did PT, sister, and brotherbill ..... but I did go see her when she came to this area giving an "inspirational" Vespers meeting. Her theme was called "Witnessing out of your comfort zone" ... or something like that. Frankly, I cringed in my back row end seat as she pranced through her "dog and pony show", and the wonderful "miracles" that had happened because she was "brave enough to step out of her comfort zone" and be what I would consider downright intrusive and obnoxious. Sorry ... but I could not for the life of me picture Jesus using any of her techniques, including or maybe especially, bragging about them all over the church rostrum. To say nothing of her adoring comments about that perfectly wonderful Danny Shelton and John Lomacang.....

And yes, we got a very entertaining dramatic account of her role in "laying the carpet" .... crawling around taping even as the cameras started rolling ... or something like that .....

And she'll have a whole weekend at a Conference Women's Ministry retreat?!?

Words fail me.

It is three-quarters past pumpkin time..... time to retreat behind the sofa again .....

You would hink she could have funded the entire Kids Times and Tiny Tots programs and not even felt a pinch inancially. And people still wonder today why it is harder for a richman (woman) to enter the kingdom of Heaven, than for a camel to go through the eye of a needle. PT that's another 20 pts. Strange, this woman is married to a millionaire, independently wealthy, has the money to invest in extremely expensive artist paint brushes and then when she isn't pleased with the way her brushes are handled, she demands the price for new brushes should come out of the paychecks of people who earn less than twenty thousand dollars a year (some as little as fourteen thousand) before taxes. That certainly says a lot about her character...

Hey Bear, welcome to the game! 20 pts.

So perfectly functionally carpeting was changed, at the insistence of Miss Brenda, for a cost of over seventy thousand dollars to 3ABN donors...she sure is spendy with other peoples hard earned cash. I wonder how much other money she has wasted over other unnecessary changes?

Yes, Sister and Tiger, I certainly remember the time Dee was sent ettiquete classes over Brenda being offended. My (at that time) wife and I laughed ourselves to tears when Danny told us. (Brings back a few memories of things that I really miss)

The only interaction I have had with Brenda is that my daughter had wanted to be on Kids Time. Brenda was less than nice to us on the phone. I understand that they don't want just any child on but she was rude when she was telling me what they "expect" of the children. My daughter could have done it but after talking to Brenda I didn't want anything to do with it. Also, if you read Brenda's book, you can see what kind of person she is.

I didn't see it but my mother did, when Brenda was on talking about her book where they interviewed the Katrina victims. She was talking about how she was running around talking to people in her "designer" jeans and high heels.

Uncle Sam, 20 pts for each episode, that is a total of 40 pts!

I am sorry for what you and your daughter experienced, there is no excuse for rudeness and unkindness. I believe you made the best choice for your daughter in protecting her from further contact with someone whose attitude was so unchristian.

I haven't read either of Brenda's books, which one were you referring to and could you explain how what you read about her character in her book was confirmed in her offensive attitude on the telephone toward you and your daughter. An additional 50 pts for this answer.

The program your mother saw is very typical Brenda. She has more money then sense and is often more concerned with her appearance than the suffering of those around her. Does anyone remember an oldie from Hall and Oates, "Your a rich girl"? The only difference is the money does not come from a rich Daddy, but a millionaire husband...eventually it all come down to character.

I read the book about her life. She really made A LOT of stupid choices because she was worried about what others would think. She didn't seem to learn from any of her mistakes. I would have been embarassed to write what she wrote about herself. She seemed very self centered. The thing that really bothered me was when spoke of Linda she didn't mention her by name she called her the "Vice President".....

I let others read it and they couldn't believe how one person could be so stupid.....

Uncle Sam 50 pts!

I believe Brenda is still worried about what others think and is still making stupid choices because of this motivation. But the problem is that she needs to be in control and the center of attention.

Imagine what a huge leap it has been in such a short time span: going from buying identical shoes for herself, two sisters and Linda Shelton, presenting them on air and saying, "Linda is like our fourth sister", to only referring to her as the "Vice President". Of course a lot of water passed under the bridge during that time, she betrayed Linda a number of times: she lied about the relationship between Linda and the doctor, she had a "relationship" with Linda's husband, Danny, and she was willing to leave her husband to become Mrs. Shelton number three. Danny asked someone else to tell Brenda to stay with her husband, even though she had successfully played her part in the removal of Mrs. Shelton number two. But Danny already had a much younger woman in mind, one who would be easier to control than Brenda. So what did Brenda receive for all the late night trysts, lying and betraying her "best" friend? Fame is the name of the game and all her husband's money couldn't buy that for her, but Danny was willing to supply it for the right price. It is surprising how cheaply people are willing to sell their soul...

If you have closely following the threads in the 3ABN forum, this should be an easy game to play. There are many characters involved in front of the camera and behind the scenes at 3ABN.

This is how the game operates. I will describe an individual and with the knowledge you have gained concerning 3ABN, you should be able to correctly ascertain who it is. So, lets try and see how it goes. The first one will be easy, if you have paid attention, all the clues can be found within The Unauthorized History of 3ABN and The Televangelist.

1. 3ABN has described her as a woman of integrity, but we know the character that the viewing public never sees. Over time she has risen up through the ranks of 3ABN, the only one above her in the organization is Danny Shelton himself. But if anything she is even more dangerous than Danny. Why? She is much smarter and doesn't allow her emotions to get in the way of attaining her goal. When Danny gets blown out of the water she is both ready and willing to take his place. But unfortunately that could mean jumping out of the frying pan and landing in the fire for 3ABN. Remember she told Danny that he is like "GOD" for the workers at 3ABN. Is that the kind of person who belongs in a Christian ministry?

Who is she?

are you sure it is not Kay Kuzma. Man that sounds like her

Well ..... I never had any work contact with her as did PT, sister, and brotherbill ..... but I did go see her when she came to this area giving an "inspirational" Vespers meeting. Her theme was called "Witnessing out of your comfort zone" ... or something like that. Frankly, I cringed in my back row end seat as she pranced through her "dog and pony show", and the wonderful "miracles" that had happened because she was "brave enough to step out of her comfort zone" and be what I would consider downright intrusive and obnoxious. Sorry ... but I could not for the life of me picture Jesus using any of her techniques, including or maybe especially, bragging about them all over the church rostrum. To say nothing of her adoring comments about that perfectly wonderful Danny Shelton and John Lomacang.....

And yes, we got a very entertaining dramatic account of her role in "laying the carpet" .... crawling around taping even as the cameras started rolling ... or something like that .....

And she'll have a whole weekend at a Conference Women's Ministry retreat?!?

Words fail me.

It is three-quarters past pumpkin time..... time to retreat behind the sofa again .....

would also like to add something to the trivial pursuit game. It's not really a story, but always makes ne cringe when I see Brenda.

A few years back I saw a wedding picture of her and her current husband and saw what was closer to he "real" Brenda. Now that some of the hoopla in the other threads is beginning to die down it is time to resume our game. The next subject is not too difficult to guess, but the information that may be revealed could be surprising to many.

4. At a tender age, when a girl is facing the onslaught of puberty, her mother was removed by a tragic accident in which she was also injured. With no mother to teach her what was appropriate behavior, she was taught it was perfectly acceptable to sleep in the same bed with her father, at a time when she was already developing a feminine figure. He claimed it was only to give her comfort, but why then did he allow her to sleep in his bed clad only in panties and he only in briefs? And when his new girlfriend, whom would become his wife objected to this practice on moral grounds, why did he continue? Later in her life, when she was a young mother why did this practice still occur at times, unbeknownst to her husband?

Perhaps this early behavior could explain the illicit relationships she engaged in during her first two marriages to the same man. And the attitude of her father could explain the reason why the following occurred: when she was caught in the act and it was discovered that the "telephone relationship" had been ongoing for three years, while she was also engaged in a physically adulterous relationship with another man, rather then reprimand her, her father rewarded her with greater promotion of her singing? Meanwhile the 3ABN employee on the other end of the line, a married man, was fired. Are there two types of justice? One for the Shelton family and another for everyone else?

As always, 10 points for naming the individual. Additional points for personal experiences.

Melody Shelton-Mundall-Shelton-Mundall-Shelton-Firestone.

p.s. so for exact details, do i get 10pts for each name in her name? for example, 60 pts (if i added it right)

LOL rofl Sonshineonme, no you don't get 60 pts! But I will give you 10 pts for the right answer and 10 pts more for the correct history of Melody's name game. That is a total of 20 pts. If you want more, you are going to have to work for it...so, what do you have in your hand (sorry, that is Danny's line), rather what do you know? To receive 60 points, it will have to be new information for the general reading public and absolutely true!

As Sonshineonme has correctly stated, at the tender age of her mid thirties, Melody has been married three time---twice to the same man---divorced twice, has five children from two different husbands, has had a number of affairs and is older than her new step-mother. She is the product of the upbringing of her father, Danny Shelton. It is said that the seed doesn't fall far from the tree, in this case I would say it appears to be accurate.

How many points do I get for letting the whole world know THE WOMAN CAN'T SING?!?!? I wouldn't put her in front of the congregation at my local church to sing even if she met the moral qualifications to appear on the platform, which I'm not sure she does.

We have much reason to sympathize with Melody. Without the specific details Sister shared, I had wondered about the possibilty of an ins relationship because of other clues. Her behavior pattern appears to be typical of girls who have been molested, judging by the examples I know and by what I've read. It is sad! She needs a lot of healing, but it can't really happen while she is still under the influence of her father. She probably still has no real idea of a normal Father-daughter relationship.

I don't think we need to discuss Melody's failings any further. However, her training/exploitation by her father surely is relevant. And I'm not only thinking of the bedtime exploitation but also the exploitation of using her to draw sympathetic attention from an audience by having her sing immediately after her mother's death. Of course, he says it was her choice , but really now, how much "choice" does such a young girl have in the presence of Danny Shelton.

And I'm wondering even now how much real "choice" she has in traveling with her father.

Daryl, sadly this is really true and factual...unfortunately for a young girl who is now a mother herself and in turn has allowed her young daughter and sons to make unsupervised overnight visits in the home of their grandfather, including the time period between his divorce and remarriage. Currently the oldest child of Melody and her former husband Derrell Mundall is now about the same age that Melody was when Danny involved his daughter in behavior that at the very least has the appearance of extreme evil or perhaps to the extent that it became a heinous act against both the laws of God, the state of Illinois and his own child.

Unfortunately, your last question is not one I can answer publicly.

> Then why does she seemingly still have such a good relationship with her father, and why does she allow the potential of the same thing also happening to her own "young daughter and sons"?

To understand this appearance, one has to understand the psychology of abuse and molestation. One woman who had been molested wrote a book years ago entitled, "Daddy's girl." That title encapsulates the seductive power of such a relationship. Sexually exploited daughers are made to feel "special," with the father often confiding in them and telling them that, sadly, their mother simply doesn't understand him and his needs the way they do ... It's emotional rape that sets the stage for apparently "consensual" sexual favors. When the girls feel guilty, as they inevitably will, they believe it is largely their fault.

I'm thinking now of one woman (now in her 40's) who was molested as a child. It took a lot to finally convince her intellecually that it wasn't her fault. But emotinally she didn't "get it," and keeps falling back into a speech pattern that presumes her guilt. ... not to mention repeated suicide attempts...

The way I see it, the very first step towards healing by abused individuals is to understand they were abused. And that reminds me of one conversation with a dear friend some years back. She had been convinced for more than a decade that she was guilty of having an affair with her Bible teacher in academy. When I called it sexual abuse and laid out clearly why I thought it so, she had an aha! moment. She had never seen it that way before, though it's as obvious as the nose on your face to an onlooker -- he was older and a power/authority figure and she was an insecure teenager. Of course, teenagers also share moral responsibility for such actions, but the overwhelming weight of responsibility goes to the authority figure. I wonder whether Dan's daughter has even reached the first step of healing -- that of seeing her father as her abuser. If she hasn't, it would explain why she allows him unsupervised access to her children. Or maybe she still thinks she's so "special" that no one else -- certainly not her children -- could take her place. Unfortunately, records indicate that the father who molested a daugher will, without compunction, molest a grand-daughter as well ...

I'm sure there are others on this forum who understand the psychology of incest and/or molestation/abuse. It would be helpful to hear their testimony.

But what can anyone do for Dan's daughter and her children?

I have also read "Daddy's girl." It is definitely not a bed time story

You have done such a good job Inge. I'll add a couple thoughts. I am a trained volunteer and take calls from people in distress and then refer them to the appropriate source for help. But issues like this are hard to talk about, and often a person will feel more comfortable opening up to me because I am just a voice on the phone and they know that we will never meet.

There seems to be a natural wall in a person's psyche between fatherly love for a child and erotic love. As my daughter was growing up, I was very careful not to transgress that barrier. And that is probably why some of us, as fathers, appear to have been distant from our daughters as they entered their teens.

If that sacred wall is broken down between the those two kinds of love, it is very confusing to a young person. When I talk to adults who have been abused as children, I notice that they try to understand the "why" of what happened through an adult mind. That doesn't work. They knew it was wrong, and yet the experience felt good. I ask them to visualizef a child they know that is about the same age as they were, and then I try to get them to think through it with the mind of a child. Aha!

We used to assume that a male child who was sexually abused would grow up to be an abuser himself. That may happen, but I often find that their emotions are taken out in gut-level anger -- either at others in destructive behavior -- or on themselves -- often in high risk or suicidal behavior.

This is where I refer a person to a counselor. The big problem is to get a person to actually go for counseling. It is not an easy road. My job is to just listen, give them affirmation and direct them to a place. So often I say, "It's not your fault. It's NOT your fault."

Sister, you seem to be "in the know" and I would like one day to know who you are since we obviously were coworkers for some time. I witnessed many of the things that you post, but by all means, not all of them. However, I do want to add some details and comment on the married 3ABN employee that was fired for the relationship with Melody.

First, he was not fired. He was suspended and allowed to resign to go on to other unsupecting victims. I had several conversations with Mollie on this topic trying to find out why 3ABN wouldn't hold him accountable - to no avail.

Secondly, my wife was victimized by this man as were a number of ladies as the station. Whether or not he was involved in a reciprocated relationship with Melody does not excuse him from his behavior towards other innocent young women. Many people are still wondering about the S.G. incident(s) and I can assure you that the claims made by the multiple women who came forth were all true. He is a man who needs professional counseling because he is - or at least - was a sexual predator. It seems to be the 3ABN legacy.

I am not addressing the punishment - rather - wanting to bring to light the fact that the man in question was not sacked unjustly. After news of the relationship with Melody, many of the victims poured into Mollie's office with similar stories.

Sister, you seem to be "in the know" and I would like one day to know who you are since we obviously were coworkers for some time. I witnessed many of the things that you post, but by all means, not all of them. However, I do want to add some details and comment on the married 3ABN employee that was fired for the relationship with Melody.

First, he was not fired. He was suspended and allowed to resign to go on to other unsupecting victims. I had several conversations with Mollie on this topic trying to find out why 3ABN wouldn't hold him accountable - to no avail.

Secondly, my wife was victimized by this man as were a number of ladies as the station. Whether or not he was involved in a reciprocated relationship with Melody does not excuse him from his behavior towards other innocent young women. Many people are still wondering about the S.G. incident(s) and I can assure you that the claims made by the multiple women who came forth were all true. He is a man who needs professional counseling because he is - or at least - was a sexual predator. It seems to be the 3ABN legacy.

I am not addressing the punishment - rather - wanting to bring to light the fact that the man in question was not sacked unjustly. After news of the relationship with Melody, many of the victims poured into Mollie's office with similar stories.

I have to agree with husband on this one, one of my best friends was hit on repeatedly by this man... i'm just glad that i didn't have to work directly with him very much... but of course the actual guys who worked under him never saw it

My understanding was that S.G. was fired, not allowed to resign, that was what I was told, of course since the information came from Danny, it could have been a lie, he lied about the circumstances involving others leaving 3ABN.

I do know that a number of women refused to work with S.G. and others quit working at 3ABN because of him. Under the circumstances, why were there no official charges made against SG for sexual harassment? All these women went to Mollie with their information. As a separate issue, why wasn't SG charged and prosecuted? His relationship with Melody was consensual, but obviously that was not the case with the others.

The point I wanted to make was in the particular case of Melody and SG: it was an ongoing (three years), consensual telephone sex relationship; therefore, why was Melody rewarded for her behavior and S.G. "fired" for his? Both were married, in this case the relationship was consensual, both were adulterers, but the "punishment" each received was in direct opposition to the other. The point being, a member of the Shelton family is rewarded for adultery and the other person involved is removed from the ministry. I agree that something should have been done in the case of S.G. much sooner and his removal from the ministry was valid. But in this particular situation, shouldn't Melody also have been removed? She had had multiple affairs. Is there a different justice for Shelton family members and everyone else? Does the entire Shelton clan share the same "special dispensation" of Danny? Are they all above the law? Melody is a serial adulterer, Tommy is a pedophile and the list goes on...

Sister,

'm going to give you the benefit of the doubt and say that you were misinformed. I used to work here, too. It was not consentual. Melody reported it and then several others came forward who were afraid to report it before. And where did you get the "Three years"? She reported it after a few weeks. S.G. is a sexual preditor. I am giving you the benefit of the doubt, but it does make me wonder about some of the other "information" that you have.

'm also not sure on the "three years" but i know it was more than three weeks.. and i also find it hard o believe that it wasn't consentual.. i have seen her in the past come on to male employees, to the point where they didn't want to work with her, but couldn't say that they didn't want to work with her..

As far as being treated different, it happens everyday.. if you were a shelton (or related) you could come in late most days of the week, come in still drunk - or high, and do a crappy job... and yet amazingly still have your job...
while others who actually cared about their job, but didn't maybe have the best way of dealing with things.. were watched like a hawk just waiting for some slight mess up to fire them..
Somehow the scales don't seem quite even in my opinion

TLC, we appear to disagree upon certain points involved in this situation. I believe that upon certain points you have been misinformed in regard to Melody. My information comes from a direct, unimpeachable source. PaperTigers has also given a similar accounting of Melody's behavior in regard to male employees of 3ABN, which coincides with my own and can be further substantiated by other witnesses.

I see that you have just joined BSDA and if this is an attempt to put doubt into the minds of those who have been reading my posts concerning Danny Shelton and the 3ABN situation, the majority of what I have previously written has been substantiated by other witnesses. At this point your credibility would appear to be more suspect than mine. Recently there have been a number of "newbies" who have suddenly appeared attempting to mudding the waters in regard to the situation at 3ABN, some more subtlety and other less so. I look forward to following your future posts and seeing which way the wind is blowing from your direction...

BlackSDA _ 3ABN _ Testing The Spirits?

Posted by: inga Aug 20 2006, 05:02 PM

It appears to me that there's a bit of confusion over how to "test the spirits" or even what spirits to test ...

Did God give us the job of "testing the spirits" of individuals we know and then deciding whether they are "good Christians" whose words we should believe or agents of the devil whom we should disbelieve?

I'm uncomfortable with that suggestion. It appears to violate Christ's words that we are not to judge. Of course, His words must be taken in the context of Paul's words that we are to make judgments regarding open sin in the church. As he reasons, after all, we shall eventually judge angels. (That's also the reason to expose the evil of those who pretend to be godly in high posisions.) But, as I understand it, it is not our job to judge another person's relationship with God, whether positive or negative. We can judge their actions/fruits and determine wither or not they are good or evil.(Of course there come a point when the cumulative evidence of evil actions demonstrate that the profession of godliness is a sham ...)

It also appears to me that doing this sort of judging has created a lot of problems in regard to 3ABN. Folks have been encouraged to "judge" that Dan Shelton is God's mouthpiece -- no matter how ridiculous the statements he has made.

This sort of judging also creates a problem when we disagree with someone's opinion on a matter: The person with whom we disagree feels personally judged, even when we maintain love and respect.

I believe this ought not to be ..

God has given us the job of "testing the spirits," or rather the messages put out by "spirits" through whatever medium they might choose. If the messages conform to principles God has already supplied, we are on fairly safe ground in accepting the messages as valid, whether or not they were supernaturally given. (Of course, there's also the phenomenon of individuals claiming divine inspiration and just repeating what has already been revealed in Scripture. It usually take a while to discern that all the flurry is simply a means of gaining attention as a "spiritual" or "elect" or "anointed" individual, and that the claim is false.)

As I see it, we need to make a careful distinction between judging individuals and judging statements by these individuals. Good and honest folks don't always have complete insight on the matter, and rascals can tell the truth.

Of course, we need to be "wise as serpents and harmless as doves" and decide for ourselves whether or not a person's testimony is credible. That is the sort of judging we do in everyday life and is unrelated to their condition of being "saved" or "unsaved."

I trust that we can disagree without anyone feeling "judged" or "put down" as a result. And I hope we will maintain enough skepticism regarding supernatural phenomenon that we will not be too easy prey of the deceiver who prefers to cloak himself in garments of light ...

I'd appreciate some feed-back on the matter -- especially from those who feel Barbara Kerr has been "judged" or torn apart or put down by those of us who're not so sure that the dreams she related were supernaturally given by God. In my case that's far from the truth.

As the wise man said, mind sharpens mind as iron sharpens iron ..

I responded to someone's question on another thread, and I thought that part of my response would also fit in here. So I just quote that part. The question asked was about examples of false visions and dreams.

QUOTE

Concerning your other question, just go to Google and type in "Jeanine Sautron". She's one of the most striking examples of a recipient of "false dreams and visions" within our Adventist church of the last 20 years. She was an Adventist lady living in France who claimed to be the successor of Ellen White (as many others did before her) and supposedly received many visions. She had a lot of supporters and followers and did a lot of time-setting. She finally was disfellowshipped. Another example would be that famous guy from Waco, Texas.
However, there are plenty of additional lesser known examples. I would recommend you to take a look at the following website: http://www.ellenwhitedefend.com/Another-Prophet.htm

By the way, the GC receives every year plenty of reports of "visions and dreams" of Adventists who sincerely belive that God gave them a message for the church. I am not sure which department takes care of that and examines those claims but I would guess either the Biblical Research Institute or the White Estate or the Ministerial Assiciaton should at least know about it.

Last year there was the story of Soo that made the round, the Laotian sister who claims that she was miraculously heald of cancer and received several visions of an angel who gave her messages for several leading Adventist evangelists as well as unclear prophecy of future events. She predicted that "the whole world will be reached with the gospel, the Sunday Law will come 'after 2005' and Christ will come soon". Now, I honestly am not really sure what to think about her visions. I certainly do not doubt her love for the Savior and her Christian character. But I can imagine that Satan, the enemy of the true Spirit of Prophecy, is just trying to imitate this true gift as much as possible, "revealing" messages that either just repeat already well known Bible truths, or are not immediately and easily discerned as not being from God. By this, he wants to discredit and render non-effective any true prophetic gift like the testimonies of sister White as well as any possible future true prophets or "tue" visions and dreams that God might want to send us, including the final fulfillment of Joel 2:28-29.

I also want to recommend you to read the very interesting article by J. R. Spangler, "The Gift of Prophecy and 'Thought Voices,'" in Ministry magazine from June 1986. If you have already the DJVU browser plugin installed you can access it directly from:
http://www.adventistarchives.org/docs/MIN/MIN1986-06/index.djvu
If not, this link will lead you to the site were you can download the plugin and also access the Ministry issue: http://www.adventistarchives.org/doc_info.asp?DocID=6658

I am just briefly quoting two of his findings:

QUOTE

The phenomenon confronting the church
The current spate of messages seems to be characterized by the following:
1. The individuals I am acquainted with who have been connected with this phenomenon are not wild-eyed fanatics. This may not be true of all who claim to be messengers, but those whom I know are sincere, dedicated Christians.
2. The purported messages come via three major methods of communication: dreams, visions, and "thought voices." (Some claim to have received a message on only one occasion; others > claim multiple communications.)

> ...

By the way, in those quotations of Ellen White on "dreams & visions" that I posted before, there was a reference to "Anna Phillips" who had received visions that Ellen White declared as "false". Elder Spangler in his article states the following about her:

> The above quotations dealt with the Anna Phillips problem. Anna Phillips was sincerely misguided into believing she was having visions from God. Fortunately, when she received Ellen White's counsel, she accepted it, and her supposed visions immediately stopped. She became a faithful Bible worker and served the church well for many years.

I would assume the Holy Sprit plus common sense would give us a spirit of discernment but perhaps its not that easy, after all in hindsight we believe that Jonah was sent to Ninevah by God cos that is what is written but if we were living in his day how many of us would assume he was a false prophet cos he prediction did not come true? Or would be able to discern the conditional element in his prediction?

how do you know that God will not via the holy spirit enlighten a person letting them know that everything is not what it seems?

s far as I am concerned that IS the work of the Holy Spirit. Jesus said tha He had to go bacl to eaven so that the "Comforter" could come to us and to guide us into all truth.

: IS comforting to know there IS a better way than the one we are on.

"Test" the spirits means to "evaluate" according to God's Word. Measure the spirit by God's standard. Look in Galatians to see what the fruits of the spirit are. Love, Joy, Longsuffering, Patience, Kindness, Goodness, are these on the list?

Taste an see that the Lord is Good.

Seventh-day Adventist Bible teachers have generally agreed upon that there are at least four basic tests that according to the Bible have to be applied if someone claims to be a prophet or to have received a message from God for the church or for some of its members. I refer especially to the book "Seventh-day Adventists Believe... : A Biblical Exposition of 27 Fundamental Doctrines", Chapter 17, pp. 223-224.

These four fundamental tests of the prophetic gift are:

1) "Does the message agree with the Bible?" Isaiah 8:19-20; Deuteronomy 13:1-4. "This text implies that messages of any prophet ought to be in harmony with God's law and testimony throughout the Bible. A later prophet must not contradict earlier prophets. The Holy Spirit never contradicts His previously given testimony..."

2) "Do the predictions come true?" Deuteronomy 18:21-22; Jeremiah 28:9. However, we need to be aware of the possibility of a conditional prophecy, but in this case, the conditions must also be clearly given as integral part of the message.

3) "Is Christ's incarnation recognized?" 1 John 4:1-3; John 16:13-14. What does the prophet teach about Christ? "This test demands more than a simple acknowledgement that Jesus Christ lived on earth. The true prophet must confess the biblical teaching on Christ's incarnation--must believe in His deity and pre-existence, His virgin birth, true humanity, sinless life, atoning sacrifice, resurrection, ascension, intercessory ministry and second advent." Christ also has to be the center or basis of the message of the prophet.

4) "Does the prophet bear good or bad 'fruit'?" Matthew 7:15-20. The life and actions of the prophet and his influence on others have to be examined and to be compared to biblical standards. "Prophecy comes through the Holy Spirit's inspiring 'holy men of God' (2 Peter 1:21)".

"Any person claiming to have the prophetic gift should be subjected to these Biblical tests. If he or she measures up to these criteria we can have confidence that indeed the Holy Spirit has given that individual the gift of prophecy."

All four of these tests have to be applied, and all of them have to be passed before we can trust the prophetic message. They are all equaly important. If we now consider these four tests, we find that three of them deal only with the message of the prophet, with his teachings. Only one of them actually concerns the person receiving the message or vision himself! This should not be overlooked. Our main emphasis thus should not be on the "fruits" or "spiritual fruit" of the prophet, although certainly this point is essential, too. But it is only one of four. If this test is passed, there are still three more to be applied directly to the message in question, before we can accept it as being from God and the messenger as being a true prophet.

Already, I see that "b" is a problem. A lot of predictions/prophecies as time predictions/prophecices, and it maybe years before you know if they come to past. think of the 2300 day prophecy, Daniel was dead so long when that prophect came to an end. Some wanted to say that EGW perdiction the twin towers being blown up, she was dead 100 years when that happened. Adventist believed her tp be a prophet, made doctrine and whole denomination from her words a long time before a lot of her future predictions came to fruition.

I think it is much simpler than all of this. I just think it is within your own relationship with God, does what they say have the ring of truth? Jesus said His sheep know His voice, and I bleive they will be able to hear His voice t hrough which ever medium He chooses to speak. The only thing that is key is a personal relationship with Him. The test is on an individual basis, not corporate.

BlackSDA _ 3ABN _ An Unauthorized History of 3ABN

Posted by: sister May 2 2006, 04:22 PM

Our previously scheduled programming, Part 4 of " In the midst of the Garden", is interrupted for the following special presentation:

"History always repeats itself or there is nothing new under the sun..."

A man in his twenties, casually dressed, sits in a chair in a waiting room. He yawns, a sure sign that sleep is attempting to be his companion as he continues his lonely vigil. Impatiently, he stares at his watch again. Shaking his wrist, he holds the time piece up to his ear. Like the constant drip of a Chinese water torture, he hears the seconds steadily ticking away, indicating that is has really only been 3 minutes since the last time he checked. Thumbing through a magazine, his brow wrinkles in agitation, as a thought plays over and over again in his mind, "Why did he so often draw the proverbial short straw and have the misfortune of sharing the hotel room with this particular cousin? " Over the years he has been included, along with others, in a number of trips, traveling with his cousins. And in every city or town they frequented, the story remained the same..." Looking at his watch again, he discards the magazine he was browsing through. Nothing could grasp his attention, he there for what seemed like an eternity and waits. Feeling tired, soon his body began to slump in the uncomfortable hotel lobby chair.

At the sound of a familiar man's voice and a woman's high pitched laughter, he looks up. Standing before him is his cousin, pressing a few crumpled bills into a woman's hand. Giving her a casual slap on her bottom and grinning as she heads out the door. Finally the evenings "cavorting " was over. As he follows his cousin into the hotel room they are sharing, the rumpled sheets and the lingering scent of perfume give testimony of what had so recently transpired.

Sitting down on the edge of the bed, he hears the sound of water running in the bathroom and a voice lifted in song. Slowly unbuttoning his shirt and laying it on the bed, he shakes his head in unbelief, "How could his cousin continue availing himself of prostitutes services, when Kay and the girls were faithfully waiting at home?"

Mary Kay Kerleis-Shelton had two daughters from a previous marriage to a Mr. Leon Hammers. The first wife of Danny Shelton and the mother of Melody, she was known to everyone as "Kay". With the help of the elder of her two daughters, she was planning to escape from this controlling and abusive second marriage. With no barriers Biblically for divorce, it was finally time to end the nightmare she was reliving day after day. Was Kay actually aware that Danny was "coming on" to one of her daughters? I do not know the answer. Perhaps there are others that can speak for Kay. To my knowledge, no announcement was made, for fear of Danny's reaction.

The accident report stated that the stop sign was down at the intersection, and neither vehicle would have seen the other coming due to the high brush. Kay Shelton was broad-sided by a vehicle driven by a boy who was intoxicated. She was killed instantly. Melody was thrown through the windshield, out of the van and into a ditch. She sustained abrasions, lacerations, and a compound fracture in her right arm. This accident occurred less than two weeks after Kay and her eldest daughter began planning Kay's escape from the controlling and abusive marriage that held her prisoner in her own home.

As Historians are fond of saying, "There is one thing certain about history, it always repeats itself." And as is written in the book of Ecclesiastes, "Vanity, vanity, all is vanity...there is nothing new under the sun." The names may change, but the story remains the same. Why does a man, with a wife waiting for him at home, frequent prostitutes? And why does a self-professed Christian pay for sex and seek out illicit affairs with the wives of friends and his employees in a Christian ministry, supposedly dedicated to "Mending Broken People"? Is his the face that best represents the Seven-day Adventist Church to the world? How do you want to see your church represented? By a man who has "written" a book about the 10 Commandments and continues to proscribe to the false theology that he can be saved in his sins, not from them? As long as sin continues, and the sinner shows no interest in discontinuing his behavior...well answer these questions for yourself. Is there any doubt in your mind as to why a "gag order" was placed upon Linda?

Stay tuned as the truth behind the scenes at 3ABN is further revealed...

Stations aren't selected because of their morals, they are selected because of their popularity. If this information is brought to light, I predict that he will make even more money and become more popular than ever before.

First sentence is true with a little correction: stations are not chosen because of the morals of their principals or stars, but because of popularity and programming that meet needs. of viewers.

The 2nd sentence 8is wishful thinking. Danny is not going to get rich of this bad publicity because he has been blacked out!!

Ironically it took just 1 angel AngelOne (aka SkyAngel) to take the so-called 3 angels (3ABN) from their perch in the sky.

QUOTE(beartrap @ May 2 2006, 02:54 PM)

Having talked at some length with Danny, Dr. Thompson, Kay Kuzma, Mark Finley, John Lomacang, and Mollie Steenson, I found that the security in being idolized through public perception incentivized further heinous actions and statements. I concluded that as long as they felt in full control of public perception, they would really have no incentive to consider making any fundamental changes, or backing away from the misery they were inflicting on people. As Clay says, one-on-one verbal confrontation is not the only option, however, it is an option that several of us who are posting here have vigorously pursued, but in vain.

How many visits did Moses make to Pharoah? The Bible tells us that "Pharoah's heart was hardened." Nevertheless, that didn't mean Moses threw in the towel.

In other words, I don't think the one-one verbal communication has been in vane, regardless of the result. Not at all. There is a Higher Power and that is what matters.

I've written, too. Many have.

Some corporations (groups of people) have a position of "avoiding intellectual capture" as described by C. Wright Mills, the sociologist. There often comes a point, over time, where avoidance doesn't work any more.

That counsel is only applicable where the behavior is "secret." This is public behavior and susceptible to public comment, especially since it involves the person who made it all public.

But at some point, does it not become "gossip" if it is not addressed at/to the direct source...especially when there is opportunity?

I do not think that anyone is suggesting that people do not have a right to address the issues or ask probing questions....but rather for how long before it becomes obsessive or a type of idolatry in that is has become the constant center of attention?

Our previously scheduled programming, Part 4 of " In the midst of the Garden", is interrupted for the following special presentation:

"History always repeats itself or there is nothing new under the sun..."

A man in his twenties, casually dressed, sits in a chair in a waiting room. He yawns, a sure sign that sleep is attempting to be his companion as he continues his lonely vigil. Impatiently, he stares at his watch again. Shaking his wrist, he holds the time piece up to his ear. Like the constant drip of a Chinese water torture, he hears the seconds steadily ticking away, indicating that is has really only been 3 minutes since the last time he checked. Thumbing through a magazine, his brow wrinkles in agitation, as a thought plays over and over again in his mind, "Why did he so often draw the proverbial short straw and have the misfortune of sharing the hotel room with this particular cousin? " Over the years he has been included, along with others, in a number of trips, traveling with his cousins. And in every city or town they frequented, the story remained the same..." Looking at his watch again, he discards the magazine he was browsing through. Nothing could grasp his attention, he there for what seemed like an eternity and waits. Feeling tired, soon his body began to slump in the uncomfortable hotel lobby chair.

At the sound of a familiar man's voice and a woman's high pitched laughter, he looks up. Standing before him is his cousin, pressing a few crumpled bills into a woman's hand. Giving her a casual slap on her bottom and grinning as she heads out the door. Finally the evenings "cavorting " was over. As he follows his cousin into the hotel room they are sharing, the rumpled sheets and the lingering scent of perfume give testimony of what had so recently transpired.

Sitting down on the edge of the bed, he hears the sound of water running in the bathroom and a voice lifted in song. I did believe some of the things in .your last tabloid were over the topyour post that the Boss reacted to were indeed over the top and too directly exposing of Danny as an individual.

I know it's because you want to show that you have detailed info and I believe you do... But as others have said we want to hold 3ABN accountable not roast Danny alive. Calvin and moderators should delete some of the hotel/prostitutes stuff. That was way over the top.

I strongly disagree that the problem is with 3ABN, and not with Danny personally. Danny himself often says that he IS 3ABN. The problems under discussion relate directly to him, and their relevance to 3ABN is relevant only as he has made his very personal financial, marital, family, hatered, and control issues, 3ABN's issues.

I think that we should all keep in mind the fact that Danny's past hasn't just stayed in the past... If that were true than I would agree that we should drop it, but as recently as two years ago I know he was still doing the same things. He offered a fellow employee (and great friend of mine) money to help pay her bills if she would sleep with him. I'm sorry but unless a miracle of God happens a zebra can't change it's stripes.

My oh my . . . I was very interested in the things about our money we gave and all of that, but I am not sure I am comfortable with all of this about the prostitutes and what not. Not saying that Danny is a saint or anything. But tell me if I'm wrong for being a bit shocked by this and a bit freaked out about getting too involved in this salachious part of the story. I suppose I will probably be attacked for being all wrong about this but please let me be. I just want to make sure that me reading this and that others reading this is within the will of God.

It is interesting to see who our sister says is sitting where and what they say and that the bills were crumpled like so. It is like a word picture, and I would like to know from Sister whether she was there or is just guessing how it all went down. Maybe she heard a single rumor and then extrapolated it. If that is the case then there is a lot of fluff mixed in with a little of the truth and that is not good when we are dealing with the reputation of a man. If she is trying to sensationalize then she wants to pull us into this story just like some grocery line story and get us all into the sexy feelings so we will have a more emotional response than if we just saw the exact facts that she knows. Now don't be afraid to tell me I am wrong here today. I just want to know the truth, like the old movies say.

So before we continue, might we then remind ourselves of that commandment that says do not bear false witness against thy neighbor. This is a very serious discussion and one ought to consider whether they should go into it or tell others about htis story with fear and trembling before the Lord our God.

Sister, bless her heart, has gone through a lot of work to write this all out - and I do hope for her eternal sake that she is not herself breaking this precious commandment.

Well, now I see why Linda took the money and left. She knew that it would all be he said, she said---what chance does the lesser one have? I wonder what the word 'factual' means? After seeing what they did to Linda, I guess no one really wants to be 'factual'. My time here is up, I think.

Paper Tigers, you are no paper tiger, you are the real thing!

You and I both know very well the force and fury of what is headed your way. You are not standing alone. Over the past hour I have made a number of phone calls, and you have the full backing of local people here in the Frankfort area who are fully aware of Danny's indiscretions, some people who have been very high in the 3ABN circles, a psychologist who has been helping some of Danny's victims in their struggle to recover, and at least one highly placed conference official. If you get a letter from 3ABN threatening to sue you, and if they say that even if you win the case you still lose because they will keep you tied up in court for years running your finances dry in legal fees, don't worry. A number of us have recieved those letters. I threatened to send mine out to the media, or post it on the internet. They know that there is a media organization with an investigative reporter who is dying to get this info.

Posted by: vonessa May 3 2006, 05:27 PM

Bearing false witness in either direction is wrong. Just wanted to make that clear. And the false witness commandment is just as serious as the Sabbath commandment or the do not kill commandment or the stealing commandment.

Praise the Lord that He has not asked me to sit in judgment here today because I still have no clue about who is telling the truth. All I know from this point forward is that all things work together . . .

Oh it's not easy. It's hard to follow this. But I really want God to be the judge and I do not aspire to that calling in the least! It may be fun or even feel right to try to disect something, but there comes a time when I've just got to leave it to the Lord and pray for all who are involved because God only knows what is going on. Jesus said let the dead bury their own dead.

Again, I love sister's writings, but I feel guilty for reading them, just like I got a funny feeling when I read what they said about Linda. Is something wrong with me for seeing my feelings on this as a great big red flag waving in my face.

And what do we end up with when all the dust settles? We get another ministry's body laying dead in the dirt and demons whooping it up. Whether it kills itself, or is killed by the church or the media, these are sad days.

I'd call a place pure paradise where families are loyal and strangers are nice, where the music is jazz and the season is fall.
Promise me that or nothing at all.

I appreciate it... can you just make sure that the people there in Frankfort are safe too!!

Well, thats another matter. You know that the situation has deteriorated to the point where there can be no guarranties over here, although they might be surprised at who some of those people are. The one thing that remains a strong ace in the hole is the media. The reporter mentioned has contacted me again today. he has just enough info, and has followed BSDA through today, and if anyone tries anything, they will find any attack on a whistleblower will be catastrophic for them.

Paper Tigers, you are no paper tiger, you are the real thing!

You and I both know very well the force and fury of what is headed your way. You are not standing alone. Over the past hour I have made a number of phone calls, and you have the full backing of local people here in the Frankfort area who are fully aware of Danny's indiscretions, some people who have been very high in the 3ABN circles, a psychologist who has been helping some of Danny's victims in their struggle to recover, and at least one highly placed conference official. If you get a letter from 3ABN threatening to sue you, and if they say that even if you win the case you still lose because they will keep you tied up in court for years running your finances dry in legal fees, don't worry. A number of us have recieved those letters. I threatened to send mine out to the media, or post it on the internet. They know that there is a media organization with an investigative reporter who is dying to get this info.

And who will pay the lawyers who will file all the lawsuits that 3ABN chooses to persue?

If "the word network" is willing to telecast someone asking you to send him a letter and a check so that he can keep the check and put the letter in a pile and pray over it, what makes you think that 3abn should be pulled?

I am not thinking that 3ABN should be pulled. I hope the best for 3ABN and that everything will work out somehow.

However, since you mentioned Word Network. There are two articles about them, from 2002 and 2004, and their letters and checks.

Background: The Adell family is a wealthy white family that controls a black gospel channel. They have, in the past, gotten onto cable systems by, apparently, giving the impression that Word Network was a minority-owned network. Remember that Word is a "nonprofit" religious broadcaster. And notice, in the second article, where the money goes.

Another background note: People move to Florida because homestead exemptions in bankruptcy are high. Put all of your remaining assets into your principal Florida home, and the bankruptcy courts can't take it, even if the home is a mansion. But it must be shown to be your actual home. Not a vacation home.

There are two stories printed here.

Some of these themes will sound vaguely familiar to you.

Word Network exec leads flashy life, court records show

TV chief owns three homes, despite bankruptcy filing.

By Louis Aguilar / The Detroit News

The co-founder of the world's largest black gospel channel - Southfield-based The Word Network - still is living large even while trying to convince a bankruptcy judge that he's broke.

According to documents released Tuesday in U.S. District Court in Fort Myers, Fla., Kevin Adell owns three homes; drives a Bentley, Hummer and Porsche; purchased $15,000 worth of jewelry for his wife; and spends $14,000 a month.

The spending shows Kevin Adell, 37, should not be eligible for Chapter 11 bankruptcy protection, claims his largest creditor, John Richards Home Building Co. of Bingham Farms. The home builder also is claiming that Adell is attempting to shield his assets through The Word Network and other broadcast companies owned by his father, Frank Adell.

U.S. District Court Judge Alexander Paskay in Florida is expected to rule on Kevin Adell's bankruptcy petition in the coming weeks. He also will decide if a Michigan court can go after assets of the Adell Broadcasting and Satellite Television Network.

Frank Adell owns Mount Clemens-based WADL-TV, Adell Broadcasting Corp. and Satellite Television Network Inc. Kevin Adell is president of The Word Network and STN and vice president of WADL-TV, Channel 38.

A spokesperson for Kevin Adell and The Word Network disputed claims that any assets have been hidden. "The Word and STN are separate and distinct ... and have absolutely nothing to do with Mr. Adell's bankruptcy trial," Sam Riddle said. "We don't comment on (Kevin) Adell's lifestyle. But I remind you that Donald Trump has gone bankrupt before."

Four years ago, Kevin Adell co-founded The Word, which grew into one of the nation's most successful religious broadcast companies by beaming African-American church services to 34 million households.

But a bitter legal dispute between Kevin Adell and John Richards Home caused Adell to move to Florida and seek bankruptcy protection. The dispute arose over a $3 million home, owned by John Shekerjian, that John Richards was building for Adell. After the two sides disagreed on progress of construction of the home, Adell sued the home builder and later attempted to force him into involuntary bankruptcy. Adell also hired a public relations firm to publicize the bankruptcy claim, which the home builder claims devastated his reputation. A federal judge ordered Adell to pay $6.4 million, including $2 million in punitive damages.

In May 2003, shortly after the judgment, Adell took steps to protect his wealth. He cashed in $1.7 million in U.S. Treasury bills and sold 12 vehicles in one day - including a Porsche, two Bentleys, a Ferrari and a Lamborghini - according to court documents. Adell then moved to Florida, paying $2.8 million in cash for a home in Naples, where state laws make it difficult for creditors to seize a person's house.

Here's the Wall Street Journal story. It may be from 2002.

A Network's Tactic
For Getting on Air:
Protest Politics

Religious Channel Called In Prominent Blacks for Help;

White Family Benefited

By PETER GRANT

Staff Reporter of THE WALL STREET JOURNAL

On a rainy morning in March 2002, three buses of African-American protesters emptied in front of the headquarters of Charter Communications Inc., a cable-TV operator, in suburban St. Louis. Soon a limousine pulled up, and the Rev. Al Sharpton stepped out to lead the demonstrators in chants of "No Justice, No Peace."

Within a few weeks, Charter met the protest organizers' main demand: that the company begin carrying the Word Network, a three-year-old cable and satellite channel whose programming consists mainly of African-American church services.

Thanks to such tactics, the Word Network has become one of the nation's top five religious networks, beamed by satellite or cable operators into 32 million households, mostly in the U.S., according to Word officials. Some of the country's most-prominent black leaders -- including the Rev. Jesse Jackson, Dick Gregory, Martin Luther King III and Johnnie Cochran Jr. -- have interceded on Word's behalf.

In return, many of the organizations run by the activists have received donations from backers of Word, according to Rev. Sharpton, Rev. Jackson and other participants. Rev. Sharpton and Rev. Jackson declined to say how much they've received. Others familiar with the matter say that their customary fee was about $10,000 plus expenses per event. "It is not unusual for people that we help to help the organization," Rev. Jackson says. "That does not affect our integrity at all. It's the way we survive."

But Word is an unusual cause for African-American activists. The network, a nonprofit organization, is controlled by Kevin Adell and his father, Frank Adell, members of a white Detroit-area family that made a fortune in the auto and broadcasting businesses. A substantial portion of the network's revenue, which was $7.6 million in the year that ended May 31, 2002, has gone to pay other Adell companies for rent, satellite transmission and other services, according to court documents reviewed by The Wall Street Journal.

Neither Kevin, 37 years old, nor Frank Adell, 75, who serve as president and chief executive of the Word Network, responded to repeated requests for an interview.

African-American leaders have been using confrontational tactics with U.S. businesses for more than 20 years to increase minority hiring, funnel business to black vendors and cease discriminatory practices. Facing boycotts, lawsuits and protests, numerous large corporations have made concessions, including Texaco Inc., Coca-Cola Co. and the Denny's restaurant chain. For black leaders, the tactics were justified to overcome years of racism.

In the case of Word, backers say playing hardball was necessary to make up for the television industry's history of discrimination and negative portrayal of blacks in programming. "We were not in the shakedown business," says Sam Riddle, one of the protest's lead organizers. "We were in the shakeup business."

The Adells also have a history of receiving the support of African-American activists for business and personal legal battles with a tenuous connection to Word. But in recent years, they have met increasing skepticism. Four black clergymen who were involved in the initial discussions about the Word Network sued the Adells shortly after Word was formed, charging that they were not given the ownership stakes and other participation they were promised. That case was settled out of court for undisclosed terms.

Meanwhile Kevin Adell's personal legal battles, such as an effort to force a homebuilder into involuntary bankruptcy, have caused other black leaders, including Rev. Sharpton, to distance themselves from the family. "Does Kevin pimp racism for his own personal ends?" asks Mr. Riddle. "It could certainly be perceived that way."

Building a Fortune

Frank Adell and his brothers, Robert and Marvin, built the family fortune in the 1960s and 1970s. Their company, Adell Industries Inc., made the stainless-steel moldings that fit over the edge of car doors, a feature that Robert patented. The brothers had a falling out in the late 1980s and eventually went to court over the breakup of the company. Today Marvin, 68, still runs the enterprise and says he doesn't speak to Frank anymore. (Robert is deceased.)

In the early 1980s, Frank Adell became interested in broadcasting and aligned himself with a group of prominent African-Americans in the Detroit area to bid on Channel 38, the last full-time commercial television license available in the region. The group, which formed Adell Broadcasting Corp., eventually included Horace Sheffield Jr., a prominent labor and civil-rights organizer, who died in 1995. His son, the Rev. Horace Sheffield III, is head of the Detroit chapter of Rev. Sharpton's National Action Network.

James Panagos, who was Adell Broadcasting's original programming manager, says the Federal Communications Commission granted Adell the license partly because its stockholders included minorities. An FCC spokeswoman says that the agency used to weigh minority ownership when making licensing decisions but stopped the practice more than 10 years ago in response to court challenges.

Adell Broadcasting tailored much of Channel 38's programming to the Detroit region's large African-American audience. The station began selling time to black ministers, charging about $500 to $600 per half hour, Mr. Panagos says. Infomercials were a staple of the station's schedule, he says.

In 1999, the Adells devised a plan for a national network focusing on gospel music and black church services. They organized a group of five African-American clergymen in the Detroit area to travel to El Segundo, Calif., to meet with executives of DirecTV, the country's largest satellite-television company. Rev. Jackson also attended the meeting, which was intended to persuade DirecTV to carry the new Word Network.

The day before they met with DirecTV, the clergymen asked for a stake in the new network at a meeting with the Adells, according to Denise Johnson, a broker of religious media who helped the Adells arrange the participation of the five clergymen. She says the Adells agreed to give each clergyman a 3% stake.

DirecTV executives agreed to carry Word partly because officials believed that the ministers were owners and active participants, according to people with knowledge of the situation. As the launch date approached in early 2000, however, four of the clergymen had a falling out with the Adells and eventually filed a lawsuit alleging that the Adells weren't honoring their commitments. (Bishop Charles Ellis III, the fifth clergyman, is the only African-American serving on Word's board, according to its most recent tax filing.)

In legal papers responding to the four ministers' lawsuit, the Adells denied that they had promised to make the ministers partners in Word.

Fee Structure

Word's revenue comes primarily from the fees ministers pay to have their services carried, currently about $2,500 per half hour, according to Lewis Gibbs, the network's head of operations. The ministers typically earn a portion of that revenue back by using their programs to sell tapes, CDs and other material.

Much of Word's revenue is pumped back into other Adell companies. The Adells own Word's headquarters building in suburban Detroit. And in a 1999 document obtained by a division of Hughes Electronics Corp. in a separate Adell legal battle, Word agreed to pay an Adell entity called Satellite Television Network Inc. a fee equal to 95% of Word's net programming revenue or STN's costs, whichever is lower. The fee covers STN's legal fees, payments to contractors, supplies, and salaries and overhead expenses related to its transmission of Word's signal to DirecTV.

To sell time to ministers, the Word had to persuade other cable and satellite operators besides DirecTV to carry the network. It hired Betsy Kellman, a veteran cable executive, who began to pitch Word to the heads of programming of numerous operators. But heavy competition for available channels made Word a tough sell.

"When [Word] took a traditional approach, the result was zip," Mr. Riddle says. "When we started kicking down the door, carriage zoomed."

In the spring of 2000, Kevin Adell and Rev. Sharpton showed up unannounced at the headquarters of what was then AT&T Corp.'s cable operation. AT&T Broadband had been talking to Word about a possible deal, but nothing had been finalized.

Allan Singer, the No. 2 executive in charge of programming, ushered the two visitors into a conference room, and Rev. Sharpton soon began yelling at him, accusing the company of discrimination, according to someone familiar with the situation. Almost immediately after the meeting, AT&T Broadband agreed to carry Word. Rev. Sharpton says he doesn't recall the meeting. AT&T Broadband has since been sold to Comcast Corp., which declined to comment on the internal meetings of the prior owner.

At about that same time, Mr. Riddle says he began working on behalf of Word. Mr. Riddle, 57, has been a well-known activist since 1972, when he led a civil-rights demonstration that shut down a Big 10 basketball game between Michigan State University and the University of Iowa. "My history is one of confronting and then exacting concessions," he says.

Mr. Riddle, who lives in the Detroit area and makes his living as a political and media consultant, says he planned most of the demonstrations with Rev. Sheffield, keeping Kevin Adell apprised. When they targeted a cable or satellite company, they typically would first reach out to local civil-rights organizations to get them involved. In some cases, Mr. Riddle gathered protesters from homeless shelters, fed them breakfast and gave them about $50 each. "I like to refer to it as 'rent a demonstration,' " he says.

The pressure tactics wouldn't have been necessary if cable and satellite companies offered more positive programming about African-Americans, says Mr. Riddle, who argues that too many of the blacks seen on television are involved in sex, drugs or violence. "We gained carriage because we were right," he says.

Rev. Sharpton or other representatives of the National Action Network and its chapters attended protests at the headquarters of EchoStar Communications Corp., Charter, Mediacom Communications Corp., in Middletown, N.Y., and XM Satellite Radio, in Washington. Protesters called the homes of executives of Charter, EchoStar and Mediacom. A few also showed up at the home of EchoStar's chief executive, Charlie Ergen, and at a high-school basketball game in which his daughter was playing.

Rev. Sharpton, who is running for president, says his work for Word was limited to consulting and attending meetings with cable and satellite executives on the network's behalf. When he participated in demonstrations at cable and satellite companies, he says, it was only to protest hiring or other discriminatory practices. "It had nothing to do with whether they carried the Word," he says.

Mr. Riddle, who says he helped arrange for Rev. Sharpton to attend the protests and occasionally paid him, says the main purpose of the protests was to force the operator to carry Word. "The objective was to open up the satellite and cable industry to value positive programming like the Word, and Sharpton was a key player," he says.

Word initially approached Charter in 2000 soon after the network was launched. Ms. Kellman pitched the network to Patty McCaskill, who was then Charter's vice president of programming. Ms. McCaskill replied that Charter carried other religious networks that included black clergymen and that it would be prohibitively expensive for Charter to add the equipment necessary to pick up the Word's signal, according to people familiar with the situation

About nine months later, Mr. Adell visited Charter to try again. Ms. McCaskill told him the same thing. He responded by noting that Word has a lot of support in the African-American community, these people say.

A month or so later, Charter got a phone call from a National Action Network chapter saying that representatives wanted to meet to resolve a number of issues. When they came in a few weeks later with Mr. Adell, they began by raising concerns about Charter's minority-hiring practices and use of African-American vendors. Only after that did they bring up Word. They also maintained that they were operating independently of Word, people familiar with the situation say. A Charter spokesman declines to comment on the meeting. A spokesperson for Ms. McCaskill, who left Charter earlier this year, also declines to comment.

Once Charter agreed to carry Word, the protesters' demands for action on hiring practices and the use of minority suppliers virtually ceased, according to people familiar with the situation.

Soon after the Charter protest, African-American organizations came to Mr. Adell's help in a personal dispute: a legal fight over a $3.1 million home he was trying to build in Bloomfield Hills, a Detroit suburb. Mr. Adell filed suits accusing John Richards Homes Building Co., Birmingham, Mich., and a unit of Charter One Financial Inc., of conspiring to inflate the value of the land, among other things.

As the lawsuits were being filed, groups including the Michigan chapter of the National Action Network issued a news release accusing Charter One of discriminatory lending practices and other abuses, and organized several demonstrations in front of the bank's Cleveland headquarters. At a meeting with bank officials and Mr. Adell, protesters brought up Mr. Adell's lawsuit, alleging he was being treated unfairly because of his association with Word, according to people who were there.

Mr. Adell later tried to force John Richards into involuntary bankruptcy. A U.S. bankruptcy court quickly dismissed that effort and earlier this year awarded John Richards $6.4 million in damages, one of the largest judgments ever assessed against someone for a wrongful involuntary bankruptcy filing, bankruptcy attorneys say. "Adell's conduct was reprehensible and must be deterred and punished," wrote U.S. bankruptcy Judge Steven Rhodes in his ruling.

Partly because of the John Richards case, which is under appeal, Rev. Sharpton is rethinking his association with Mr. Adell. "My whole relationship with his organization is something I'm reviewing," he says.

John Richards principals have had a difficult time collecting because Mr. Adell has taken steps to shield his assets, including moving to Florida. There, he bought a $2.8 million home to take advantage of that state's homestead law, which makes it very difficult for creditors to seize residences. When marshals arrived to seize the contents of Mr. Adell's suburban Detroit home, the only thing left inside was a picture of a monkey with a note from Mr. Adell saying it should be saved for John Richards's lawyer, Norman Ankers.

In recent months, the protests on Word's behalf have slowed. Mr. Adell has been fighting to hold onto his home in Florida. In September, Judge Rhodes ruled that he can't use the state's homestead law to shelter the home from his creditors, partly because he failed to demonstrate that he intended to live in Florida permanently. On Nov. 14, three days before Mr. Adell's deadline for selling the house passed, Mr. Adell filed a petition in Florida seeking bankruptcy protection.

Meanwhile, Mr. Adell also has been busy trying to start a new network in Florida, Cubana One Network, which he also structured as a tax-exempt organization that is to feature programming targeted at Florida's large Cuban population.

In August, Cubana One issued a press release criticizing Bright House Networks, a major Florida cable operator, for not meeting with Mr. Adell and another network executive. It quotes Hilda Luisa Diaz, of the Jose Marti Educational Foundation Inc., as saying: "If there is space for six porno channels, there should be at least one channel available to disseminate ... uplifting family entertainment."

Soon after, Bright House executives agreed to meet, but a company spokeswoman says it has no plans to add the network at this time.

"Bearing False Witness... Part 1"

What does it mean to bear false witness? Does it mean knowingly providing information as fact that is nothing more than mere gossip? Is it reconstructing the truth in such a manner that it no longer represents the original? Perhaps it is telling just enough of the truth to appear plausible, while the addition of fabricated details are employed to deceive? Or is it the outright lie, unencumbered by not even a wisp of truth, applied to a situation in order to serve the purpose of the liar? It is all of those things...each with the same intent, to deceive the audience for which it was contrived.

I would like to reassure Vonessa, who has expressed her concern for my eternal salvation, that I have not broken that precious commandment and born false witness in my narrations. And to answer another concern she conveyed, am I the cousin of Danny Shelton who sat in the hotel lobby and if not, is it merely contrived for sensationalism? I must preface my answer with the following. It is not wise for me to provide any information concerning my identity. Anyone that has read Beartraps previous posts in this thread can understand my position. What I can say is that the information comes directly from a source that was present and it is sworn to be the truth. Is this a reliable source, personally speaking, yes, 100%. Are there others, members of this forum, that can verify that the same information was heard by them from the same source that was present at the event, yes.

The information contained in my unauthorized history of 3ABN is based upon the facts, as I know them. It is not derived from a "single rumor" upon which I have extrapolated, nor is it the case that the accounts are "a lot of fluff mixed in with a little of the truth". Sensationalism merely to pull the reader into buying the story, like the tabloids that scream their headlines while customers wait in the checkout line? No. "Am I aware that the reputation of a man is involved." Yes. But what about his ex-wife, what about the reputation of Linda Shelton and the suffering she has experienced? What about the damage that is being done to the reputation of 3ABN through the exploits of Danny Shelton, "the face of Adventism to the World"? And the future damage that can result to the Seventh-day Adventist Church, as a denomination, if Danny does not step down from the throne of power that he has built to glorify himself, while lining his pockets with donations intended for the proclamation of the Gospel of Jesus Christ?

It has been said, "This is a very serious discussion and one ought to consider whether they should go into it or tell others about this story with fear and trembling before the Lord our God." For those who have lived this story, the fear and trembling they have experienced has not come from the thought of facing God. For those who have experienced the loss of their reputation, employment, those whom they considered trusted friends, the fellowship of their church family and the support of their local pastor: God has been their only succor—his Holy Spirit their only comforter—the promises of their Lord and Savior, Jesus Christ, what keeps them getting out of bed every morning—that is what has sustained them in their distress and has given them the strength to have hope for a better future.

Stay tuned as the unauthorized history of 3ABN continues...

Then help me understand with all this info about the dark side of 3ABN why those who know are not scheduling press conferences, talking with churches and whoever will listen, putting up a 3ABN survivor website stating the facts and by so doing end the insanity? It has been brought to my attention that any board that had something to hide would want a gag order on Linda. Any ethical christian board would not ask someone to sign a gag order if they didn't have something to hide. What does Linda know, what are they afriad that will come out? They are exercising their freedom of speech to lie and slander or otherwise. She is saddled with a gag order and denied her freedom of speech to tell the truth and share facts.

It was posted by someone that the board wouldn't let Linda or her witness address the board. If this is true, my question is - what kind of a board is this? This is the United States of America where we pride ourselves on freedom and justice for all, not some third world country that is run by a dictator. Is the 3ABN board run by a dictator?

I also question what Danny and the board are trying to hide or cover up?

If they can't release Linda from the gag order, they need to resign and be replaced by ethical christian people. It appears the letters of slander about Linda are anything but christian or ethical.

It's time for them to publicly humble themselves, repent and ask God and the parties they have slandered for forgiveness.

Clay, its not just the money to pay people off. Any individual who would dare to do as you have suggested will be publicly torn to pieces on 3ABN, Danny and his lawyers etc. will call their friends and family telling stories and claiming to have evidence of stuff, and we all know that Danny NEVER lets go. years later he will still be hounding that persons steps. He has done it to so many of us already that it is a well known, established fact with the 3ABN insiders, and many of the top church leadership know the same thing. Talk to the local people in the Thompsonville/West Frankfort community. They will say the same thing and tell you that it goes back 4 or 5 decades. They will also tell you that 3ABN is a cult commune and that any contact with 3ABN is conspicuously avoided by most locals. They will tell you that 3ABN and Danny Shelton have demonstrated beyond a doubt that the Seventh-day Adventist Church is a cult.

Open invitation. Come to Thompsonville and eat dinner at the Thompsonville Cafe, and just ask the other diners about 3ABN and Danny. Go to West Frankfort and have dinner at Hungrys on W. Main, and ask. Go to the barbershops, the lodges, the local churches of any denomination, the library, and ask. Ask the Summers family who donated the first two acres of property to Danny for 3ABN what they think about that donation now. Come on out here and ask.

Having asked them personally you will gerenally get an ear full. But ask if they would be willing to go public with this info and see what their reaction is. Ask them why they are so afraid of Danny; too afraid to go public. Yes, ask that too.

Many people are asking the same question, and some of the top leaders of the Seventh-day Adventist Church will give you the answer - if you promise not to quote them, because they too are afraid of his unlimited power because some of the wealthiest men in the church back him up.

I have been asked by prominent Church Leaders to do all I can to curb the power of this self-appointed pope (Danny Shelton)who is ruling our Church today according to his own whims because he has access to seemingly an unlimited amount of dollars where millions are merely the residue of his pocket money. Consider that the monthly leasing fees on his private jet is more than what most of his viewers earn in a year - before taxes. One of these me said to me,

- Our Church must learn to trust in the Lord, and not let Mammon rule.

It is true that viewers who accept the Advent Message join the local SDA church, but an investigation has shown that a grat number keep sending their tithes and offerenings to 3ABN because they have been taught that the religion of 3ABN is much better than what the Seventh-day Adventist Church teaches.

Danny once told me that one of these men had offered to pay for a Pirivate Investigator to follow Linda for the rest of her life, and I have seem some of those Private Investigators at work. They trailed us everywhere when we were with Linda, and shortly thereafter Danny would call to let us know what we were doing and where, and he would even inform us that there were three of them following us in three different cars.

You have certainly heard of mighty men using Private Investigators on their wives when they wanted to find reasons for a divorce, but have you ever heard of a sane person using Private Investigators to help them save their marriage?

Then if this problem is as deep and as widespread as you say, it is time for the whole structure to be dismantled.... one human cannot be that important in the church.... and if they are, then the church is no longer following God.....

If it is not following God, then it is not the church to be in.....

does this problem fall along color lines? I ask because black adventists don't seem to be that concerned with this issue.....

Ask the Summers family who donated the first two acres of property to Danny for 3ABN what they think about that donation now. Come on out here and ask.

I believe you.... I think what you describe is disgusting... he did not accumulate all that power overnight.... when this first started didn't people see what was happening? Is the NAD so hard up for money that they would turn a blind eye? I am simply amazed the more I read.... it also points to the danger of allowing one man take over a little town.... everyone becomes beholden to him because its his money that pays the bills..... we sell ourselves cheap sometimes...

An interesting story that happened in 1980-81.

A manager was having an affair with his secretary, who worked on a different floor of the same office building. It was a very secret affair and nobody knew about it.

The manager's wife found out about it. I believe one of the couple's accounts had been debited.

The wife was furious when she learned from the bank that her own husand had taken the money. There was a paper trail leading to a jewelry store. Women's jewelry had been purchased.

To protect his girlfriend from being discovered, the husband decided to create a second trail that would lead his jilted wife to the wrong woman. The targeted woman would be a top saleswoman in the same industry. The manager didn't like competing with this top saleswoman, anyway, because she had managed to win accounts away from him.

Well, the jilted wife did, indeed, take the bait and she went after the wrong woman.

The wife spent her time and resources hiring lawyers, investigators, etc., fighting the wrong woman. In addition, the wrong woman was telling everyone the manager's wife was crazy.

In public, the manager would agree with the wrong woman, "Yep, my wife is crazy. If only there was something we could all do to help save my poor, confused wife."

And while the jilted wife and her investigators were focusing on that top saleswoman, the husband was able to continue his secret affair with his secretary in peace and comfort.

The manager eventually married his secretary.

That's a pretty fair characterization. 3ABN is a closely held, family company. It's privately owned. It's board is composed of carefully selected yes-men and nothing else. That board was created to be a rubber stamp, and it is ... nothing more, nothing less. They have no more power over Danny than the Man in the Moon. The horse does not tell the cart where to go; the driver does. 3ABN is Danny's baby. Considering how the board members got there and where they are, humbling themselves and repentence are about as far down their list as it's possible to get ... and as unlikely.

Sadly, most of the church's heirarchy is right down there with them. They are willing to cover their eyes and speak in mumbo jumbo no matter what goes on as long as as the prospect of huge audiences (SDAtalk: outreach) dangles before them. It is numbers mania, pure and simple. In their minds, an open-and-shut case of the end justifies the means ... in spades. If this does not change, this will be the SDA Watergate.

As a former reporter, I can tell you why. Any ethical reporter worth his salt knows that every word he puts in print must be fully verified. If you can't get people to talk and verify facts, you have no choice but to hold your story. However, I believe we are at last on the cusp of a breakthrough. Keep watching. (And when it does, Calvin, you will not be saying it was an un-newsworthy story ... trust me.)

As for why it's so hard to get people to talk and verify facts, see my post #32 in the "When Christians Go Bad ... a 3abn Spin-off" for a more in-depth look at some of the dynamics involved. It will give you insight to a part of it. People are not dumb. Sometimes the wife is the last to know.

She sees her husband through rose-colored glasses, and she believes that the other woman is "stealing" her husband.

The focus is, mistakenly, on the presumed "thief."

This was posted on Club Adventist. I believe it was the 6th of this April but I may be wrong.

"As long as the foundational pillars of the church are being spread to millions of people, around the clock, we can wink at the these little problems. As we all know, our great central doctrines are the Sabbath, the state of the dead, diet, and the end-time prophesies.

What are the books Danny has written? The Forgotten Commandment (The Sabbath), Does God

Love Sinners Forever? (State of the dead), Can We Eat Anything? (Diet), and Antichrist Agenda (End-time prophesies) That is what makes the conservative Adventist donors happy, and that is where the money is, and since Danny self-publishes his books and sells them to 3ABN at a profit, and then as the President of 3ABN authorizes them to be given away or sold at a loss , he controls a sizeable market. On this "Ten Commandents Day" thing 3ABN is preparing to give away around 5 million of Danny's books.

With the "Channel of Blessing" book, most publishers could have delivered it to 3ABN at under $4.00 per book, including author's royalty. 3ABN paid $12.00 per book.

You say that the church could wash its hands of Danny? He has said many times that "3ABN thrives on controversy." When the church, or anyone else, takes issue with him, he just says that they are attacking God's ministry that is just there to spread the word. He says that the devil is just spreading lies and trying to hamper God's work. He says that he is just a lowly carpenter who is only trying to follow God's direction, and the church he is supporting is attacking him, "so please support God's work in this time of crisis with your prayers, and whatever else the Lord is leading you to do." And the checkbooks open up, and the people get mad at the church. This already happened back in the Ninties."

The bolding is my own. I wonder if anyone but me was amazed at the potential for personal profit from the sale of 5 million of his ten commandments day books to 3ABN?

Clay, people of all colors seem not to be concerned with this issue. Even in my own home. My husband reads and believes these things are true, but he simply says that something should be done-no man is that powerful. He stops short of wanting to have anything to do with it. I believe that the problem is that those who know that this story is true, fear that in bringing the leaders of 3ABN down,we will bring the SDA church down, and then we become afraid of the wrath of God coming down on each of us personally. We say that we have faith that God will take care of this---but then we are told that faith without works is dead. It is like the man who walks down the street, sees a man starving, tells him that God will take care of him, and then goes his merry way. I believe that the leaders of Hope Channel are honest, but then why do they carry Danny and 3ABN on their network? Is it because 3ABN pays for the airtime and Hope Channel needs the money to survive? It discourages the average SDA member because if we have complete faith in the message and truth of our denomination, then that faith starts to fail because the church leaders will not bring the truth of this whole mess to their members, and with the preponderance of church members being more concerned with their own salvation, they are unwilling to step forward to help the victims of this mess. -- in actuality, they are willing to let the whole mess continue. Individually, many feel that they will fail God and in reality it is Danny and his legions who are failing God. Probably most of you are just like me. I would do something if I could. But I have no proof--I was not there. Danny could not hurt me--I don't care what people think -my reputation lies in the books of heaven and no one can touch those.-only where God leads. But I have no story to tell-I simply have full belief in what I have read here, and what has been done to Linda, and my own common sense. I believe that most of those who will read this are in the same position as me. Where does that leave us? Dwindling faiath in the leaders of 3ABN and our church leaders but willing to do what God would have us to do.

nope I am suggesting that there is a parallel.... we have discussed extensively here how the writings of egw have been edited significantly from how she wrote them originally, not to mention all the books that have been published in her name after her death.... The church did that... so it seems that they and Danny have something in common....

As for Mr. Shelton being a prophet, I have no idea... he sounds like a man with too much money and too much time on his hands... but I don't know him so I can't say....

Danny does not have the time, attention span or knowledge of anything to write about anything except serial marriages. However, ghost writing is a well-accepted practice for busy celebrities and public figures. It is a non-issue as far as I am concerned, as is how much money he makes from this.

I don't believe the church made any such bargain. 3ABN is privately owned and operated by people who identify with the SDA church. You and many Adventists may not, but 3ABN is on satellite, broadcast TV and cable around the world, available in many millions of homes 24/7. The Adventist Church to them is just a building on some corner where people meet every Saturday, and the general population doesn't go, and has no idea what is taught there. The only place most of them will ever see Seventh-day Adventism is 3ABN, which makes it the face of the church to them: the general public.

It seemed impossible prior to it happening, incomprehensible when it did, and so mind-numbing afterward that most wanted simply to forget it. But 100 and some years ago, the Adventist church was in the midst of a Faustian pact, underwritten, nay, some say in some ways created, by EGW no less. Despite that, today, historians say the fire at Battle Creek Sanitarium (1902) was the fall needed to take John Harvey Kellogg down. The San, however, was not the only building that fell. Ten months, the large R & H publishing house burned to the ground. The man was not the only problem, so was the church ghetto.

Fires in today's mediacentric, science-driven world may be different technologically (or maybe not?), today's problems different from those then; but remember that behind the tides of men that rise and fall, as surely now as then, moves the hand of God. Happily, when all was said and done then, the Adventist church ended up the better for it.

Fire may come again. If God can take someone down before, He can do it again. Will we (the corporate church) be better for it? Depends. He knows how to clean house. And He knows who are His and who are not.

"Except the Lord build the house, they that labour build in vain."

The Adventist Church to them is just a building on some corner where people meet every Saturday, and the general population doesn't go, and has no idea what is taught there. The only place most of them will ever see Seventh-day Adventism is 3ABN, which makes it the face of the church to them: the general public.

Vhat will probably happen is what usually happens. If this 3ABN mess blows up and gets national ıttention, the official church position will be to distance itself, saying that 3ABN was an independent ninistry without church oversight, thus it cannot be held responsible for what happened there.

John is as hypocritical as the others. He called Danny "Pastor Danny Shelton" at Pioneer when he had to know how uipset some faculty and many students were that Danny had the temerity to show up at Pioneer after his ceremomny with Brandy. John knew this wasn't a Bible-approved union between Danny and Brandy.

Another thing, to do the following,someone would have to have been there and be a brave warrior--If an employee (or ex-employee) who has been harrassed by any 3ABN employee or administrator in the past, would be prayerfully brave enough to find a lawyer who will instigate a suit for sexual harrassment against anyone at 3ABN who has been guilty of such action, then perhaps this behaviour would be stopped. It would take a very brave person to do this, but I do believe that is what the Lord would want him/her to do.

"Bearing False Witness... Part 2"

As of now, only briefly have I alluded to Linda Shelton in this story of the history of 3ABN. Perhaps now is the time to elaborate on my rationale for omitting her in much of this saga. Primarily, she has been removed from the hierarchy of 3ABN and the function she supplied in sustaining the current administration has ended. Secondly, she is a victim of the falsehoods perpetrated to ruin her reputation and silencing her witness, once and forever, in regard to the Danny Shelton of whom only she can speak.

What great threat does she pose to her ex-husband and his public persona, that he felt it necessary to have a two year "gag order" placed upon her? And why specifically two years? What information possessed by Linda would necessitate the need to secure her silence? What would the "spin machine" of 3ABN, fronted by Walt Thompson, need to accomplish during her silence, to ensure that any revelations made by her later would pose no threat to Danny's position and perceived reputation?

Danny relies on the ethical stance of those in a position to do so, not to reveal his more heinous acts—of which not even the surface has been scratched here—but to keep his secrets. Why? The motive behind the ethics is to protect the innocent victims: some are young people whose lives could be destroyed, if the acts perpetrated by Danny Shelton and his clan against them, were to be revealed. I, like others, choose to protect the innocent and allow them, if or when they are able, to tell their own stories.

With Linda, in addition to that stated in the paragraph above, other aspects are also counted upon, these in relation to time. Her love for the ministry that she co-founded over twenty years ago and her desire to see said ministry prosper in proclaiming the Gospel. The healing that would come from her deepening dependance upon God and with that healing, the desire to forgive and putting the past behind her, getting on with her life. But unfortunately, for 3ABN that is not enough of a safety net, and the reiteration of falsehoods resume. As the beginning of the last quarter of the two year "gag order" approaches, further public attacks are launched, with Linda's face painted squarely on the target. Verbal and written offensive measures are taken by order of the accuser—for as it has been discussed and generally accepted by the readers present, Danny has the Board in his pocket—to assure himself that the situation is still under his control. Witnessing the latest bombardment, the message could be deciphered as a warning: I have the power and resources to continue to discredit you, and prevent you from establishing a public ministry, I can persist in controlling your public life and guaranteeing your silence for as long as I choose.

In my mind's eye I picture Linda sitting in a comfortable chair, her flowing, curly, copper locks reflecting the warm glow of a reading lamp, an open Bible resting in her hands. In the background we hear the voices and laughter of a brother and sister engrossed in their conversation. Linda smiles as her mind is briefly drawn by the carefree sound of her children's laughter and the healing that God continues to bring in their lives, to make moments like these possible. Again her thoughts return to the eternal promises she is reading on the pages before her. Another smile lights up her face, this time it is the knowledge that her hope and future do not lay in the grasp of an earthly tyrant, but in the assurances she receives from her loving Savior. It is He that will remove the shame that the falsehoods of her accusers have heaped upon her and cover her with his robe of righteousness. Here in His Word is found the peace of mind and the safety for which she longs. With this knowledge she knows, as long as she keeps her eyes focused on Jesus Christ, a place in Heaven is prepared for her that no false witnessing can destroy. For now we leave Linda, but not without hope, for her eyes are fixed upon Jesus.

Stay tuned for the next installment of the 3ABN story...

No, I am right. Oprah's 1 million $ came later. It is true. Call him and ask. I got my information the day after it all happened. Whently's name on the board is worth much more than a million $ in my opinion. He is very busy being about his fathers business. He probably never has time for all those board meetings much less realize the truth about Danny Shelton.

Last I heard, the million from Danny had strings attached.

When you leave that place all you want to do is just forget about everything that has happened.. put it all behind you and move on. I wasted 5 years of my life there, and since I left I've just been trying to put it all behind me... but sometimes that's just not enough.

How true. It takes time to even be able to look at everything we have experienced. I think God maybe keeps a part of us sort of numb and only brings things to mind as we are able to handle them. I don't know all the formal names for the stages one has to go through for healing, but I do know that the feeling of needing to run away and forget everything comes early on and only when we are healed enough to handle them do the things we need to figure out and deal with come fully to mind. Then there is the bitter stage. That is a difficult one. In time that can be handled also. But as you say, the effects may always remain, and it's best, I think, to figure out what those effects are so one can guard against them or compensate for them consciously.

"The Televangelist, Part 1...

There is a document that, to my understanding, has never been published and distributed in printed form. The only known source of it's limited dispersion is through email. Recently it arrived to me, triggered by the following question, "Are you familiar with "The Televangelist"?" Upon replying that I had not read it and having been informed that there were people who assumed it to be the source for "An unauthorized history of 3ABN", which I can honestly declare to be a fallacious assumption—I requested a copy. Appearing on my screen is the title page:

"The Televangelist"
By: Jorgen VanBraun
Copyright 2005

"The characters and events portray in the following story are fictional. Any resemblance to any real event or person, living or dead, is coincidental."

* * * * *

Sitting in front of my computer, with the illumination from my desk reduced, I scrolled down to the next page and began reading. To say the least it is intriguing. With heightening interest I read the Introduction and then continue on through the Prologue, arriving at the end of the page, where the story began to take on a new twist:

"Now...
Five hundred years later, the world has moved on, and it is now the twenty-first century. Cries of anguish ring out as an accused soul is being ripped apart. The crowd roars its approval and the executioner pulls the rack a little tighter. It has been declared that there is evidence this person has committed grievous crimes against God and man. This time the rack is not a bloodstained wood structure, and the executioner doesn't wear a black hood. This time it is not the victim's body that is ripped apart; it is the soul. This time it is not the Inquisition who accuses, convicts, and executes the victim, but a televangelist. This time there is a different church."

Although no names are ever revealed, the apparent intent of the author shouts out to me, riveted, I continue to read on in a far too familiar story. Pausing for comparison between fact and "fiction" , I pick up my bottle of mineral water. Unscrewing the cap and setting it next to me, I pick up the bottle only to lay it down again, my thirst forgotten. The name of a member of BSDA flashes into my mind: Summertime. What I am now reading has the same savor as an experience she had in corresponding with Danny. Remembering the open water bottle, I watch the bubbles slowing escaping to the surface, taking a sip and screwing the cap on the bottle, I reread the last two paragraphs:

"The televangelist gets up and goes to his computer. The monitor casts a bluish glow on the face of the man who just switched on its power. The reflection in the monitor reveals a middle aged face peering intently over a pair of reading glasses. Opening up his email, the televangelist reads an email accusing him of wrong-doing. Baffled, he goes over it again. He leans back, his brow furrowed in concentration. What makes people think they have any moral standing to say that he has done any wrong? God called him to start this worldwide ministry, not them. Millions of people around the globe are blessed by him, not them. Many people have come into the Church through him, not them. Look how successful he is, as opposed to them. To thousands of people, he is God's vicar on earth, not them."

"He writes back to his accuser explaining all of these things to her. He tells her that his conscience is pure; he does no wrong. He tells her that when he stands before God in judgment, it will be clear that everything he has done has a higher purpose. If others have suffered, they deserved it. If they were foolish enough to cross him, they were crossing God and it was inevitable that they should pay a steep price. If their suffering serves to advance or please him, they should be grateful for the privilege. Sometimes people must be sacrificed for the greater good of the greater person chosen by God for the greater cause."

Why would a self-professed fictionalized account produce the following display of action by Danny Shelton: a 2 hour program on a Thursday evening hosted by Danny and his brother Tommy in regard to it, an intense search devoted to locating it's author, Danny making all kinds of lawsuit threats to everyone he thought was a potential author, and it is reported that Danny's benefactor even threw his legal team into action. WHY?

In the "Q. & A. Section" on Linda Shelton's website the question was asked if she were in fact the author of "The Televangelist". Her reply, "No." When Danny finally settled upon whom he perceived to be the author of this document, his assumption was incorrect, meanwhile, the real author has flown below radar, eluding detection.

Is "The Televangelist" a thinly disguised unauthorized biography of Danny Shelton? Or is it a fictionalized account as the author has stated in the disclaimer on the title page, "The characters and events portray in the following story are fictional. Any resemblance to any real event or person, living or dead, is coincidental." Could Danny's determined pursuit of the author be interpreted as suggesting that the truth contained in the story is much more than coincidental?

Stay tuned...

Having discovered Blacksda, I read the threads on 3ABN this weekend. I'm glad some of you are coming out with information on Danny Shelton. I can understand the desire to protect the innocent, but are the guilty being protected also? If Danny Shelton and any other corrupt leadership are exposed to the Adventist world, it would be a blessing to 3ABN, not its downfall. Any success of 3ABN is due to the truth that is being presented, not to any person. It appears that God has blessed 3ABN over the years in spite of Danny, et al., not because of him.

For those who want God's blessing to continue on 3ABN, they should not only pray but use their influence and knowledge to remove Danny and this cohorts from leadership of 3ABN.

"Achan's sin brought disaster upon the whole nation. For one man's sin, the displeasure of God will rest upon His church till the transgression is searched out and put away. The influence most to be feared by the church is not that of open opposers, infidels, and blasphemers, but of inconsistent professors of Christ. These are the ones that keep back the blessing of the God of Israel and bring weakness upon His people." Patriarchs and Prophets, 497

So Whintley Phipps is a "yes man"? I don't think so!

QUOTE(NormF @ May 5 2006, 01:33 AM)

Here are some replies to several posts in this thread ...
Excellent. Well-stated post, Johann. Thanks for stepping forward again.
That's a pretty fair characterization. 3ABN is a closely held, family company. It's privately owned. It's board is composed of carefully selected yes-men and nothing else. That board was created to be a rubber stamp, and it is ... nothing more, nothing less. They have no more power over Danny than the Man in the Moon. The horse does not tell the cart where to go; the driver does. 3ABN is Danny's baby. Considering how the board members got there and where they are, humbling themselves and repentence are about as far down their list as it's possible to get ... and as unlikely.

Sadly, most of the church's heirarchy is right down there with them. They are willing to cover their eyes and speak in mumbo jumbo no matter what goes on as long as as the prospect of huge audiences (SDAtalk: outreach) dangles before them. It is numbers mania, pure and simple. In their minds, an open-and-shut case of the end justifies the means ... in spades. If this does not change, this will be the SDA Watergate.

As a former reporter, I can tell you why. Any ethical reporter worth his salt knows that every word he puts in print must be fully verified. If you can't get people to talk and verify facts, you have no choice but to hold your story. However, I believe we are at last on the cusp of a breakthrough. Keep watching. (And when it does, Calvin, you will not be saying it was an un-newsworthy story ... trust me.)

As for why it's so hard to get people to talk and verify facts, see my post #32 in the "When Christians Go Bad ... a 3abn Spin-off" for a more in-depth look at some of the dynamics involved. It will give you insight to a part of it. People are not dumb. Look again at some of the things Bear and Paper Tigers (and Sister too) have said recently -- I will use the words here that they have shied away from: blackmail, coercion, back stabbing, various forms of threats, bribery .... That's why.

Regards,
Norm

To my knowledge Whintley Phipps is just a board member at this time. Yes, Danny asked him to head up a new black network that he was thinking about launching almost two years ago, but that doesn't appear to have materialized. The board members come to the board meeting four times each year, usually for one day, and they read reports written by the department heads, they are told how miraculous everything is around Danny, and when the Kumbaya session is over they all go home with a warm feeling in their tummy. The board members have no part in running 3ABN, they don't spend time going around the departments, talking with the employees and getting a real grasp on the operation. The reports they receive are all screened and approved by Mollie or Danny before the board members are allowed to see them. I believe that Pastor Phipps and others are just snowed. I have no reason to not believe that he is a Godly man.

Dr. Thompson has gone around and spoken with the employees, encouraging them to express questions they may have. Many an employee has gotten in really hot water over that, because after expressing a question about something, Dr Thompson took what they said straight to Danny and reported them as dissidents, whereupon they were dealt with rather harshly.

When the thing with Linda came up, it was starting to be known in the churches back in April of 2004. An employee was in those churches representing 3ABN at the time, and when people started coming up to him and asking about the affair Linda was having, he asked where they were getting this info. Many people told him that friends who were donors, pastors, etc, had been contacted by Danny and they got it straight from him. He told Dr. Thompson that this concerned him as it would be damaging to 3ABN having these rumours spreading around. Within hours Danny told this employee that if he ever heard of him speaking about this again, he would be fired.

Having discovered Blacksda, I read the threads on 3ABN this weekend. I'm glad some of you are coming out with information on Danny Shelton. I can understand the desire to protect the innocent, but are the guilty being protected also? If Danny Shelton and any other corrupt leadership are exposed to the Adventist world, it would be a blessing to 3ABN, not its downfall. Any success of 3ABN is due to the truth that is being presented, not to any person. It appears that God has blessed 3ABN over the years in spite of Danny, et al., not because of him.

For those who want God's blessing to continue on 3ABN, they should not only pray but use their influence and knowledge to remove Danny and this cohorts from leadership of 3ABN.

"Achan's sin brought disaster upon the whole nation. For one man's sin, the displeasure of God will rest upon His church till the transgression is searched out and put away. The influence most to be feared by the church is not that of open opposers, infidels, and blasphemers, but of inconsistent professors of Christ. These are the ones that keep back the blessing of the God of Israel and bring weakness upon His people." Patriarchs and Prophets, 497

" For those who want God's blessing to continue on 3ABN, they should not only pray but use their influence and knowledge to remove Danny and his cohorts from leadership of 3ABN"
This says a lot and still we, who have not worked and personally been involved with the harrassment of Danny, would like to do something to help, (besides praying) and in a way that would be in accordance with what GOd would want us to do. I guess that would be the key words, "What would God have us to do". If no one who has been involved personally wants to come forward and make known exactly when and where these abuses have taken place, then are we supposed to think that his behaviour is acceptable? Just what can the rest of us do?

"Danny and Linda presented an image that was supposed to depict how Christianity is supposed to be lived in the home atmosphere." Now we see, at least in the last few years, that it has been Danny's stage to make himself look good and to bring into the folds and coffers of 3ABN the folks in this country who believe in a loving and honest Christian relationship in our homes. So now we see his fradulant act of finding excuses to destroy his marriage and find a new wife. Don't people care? Don't the leaders of our church care? Or are too many of us looking for an excuse to do the same thing? Like Clay said, "We need to do what we can, or quit talking about it."

If we can do something, we should--if it is all about the Father's business, then we need to get to it if there is anything that can be done. Any ideas?

Just what you are doing here -- providing a place where the stories can be told and once told viewed by all -- is an extremely important "anything". As you have no doubt noticed, this encourages some to come forward and tell their stories, and as others see that they are received in kindly ways and with trust in their truthfulness, others also are encouraged to step forward. So in a very real way, keeping on "talking about it" IS to be doing "what we can".

Know also that there are some who are working quietly to find ways and means to accomplish what needs to be done for the good of the church -- for the good of all of us. And know that there are many besides those posting on this board who are taking courage from what they read here and contacting some of those "behind the scenes" workers.

Beyond your encouragement on this board, there is the "everyone win one" principle. With caution, love, and sensitivity, watch for ways to spread what you learn here to others who may not realize what is going on.

Mostly it is a time for exercising patience, for "waiting on the Lord" at the same time as we fill that waiting period with whatever "doing" that He points out to us and as He opens the doors of opportunity.

But caution and carefulness are still the order of the day. It is much too complex and difficult for any of us to step out in the "hero" role. I recall an old song from years ago -- "Side by side we stand, awaiting God's command". That seems to express ou present position well.

How does forgiveness comes into play?? Do I put it in God's hands or do I take care of it myself?

What do you mean by "forgiveness"? Are you speaking personally, as in how do you forgive something specific that was done to you? Or are you speaking in generalities? In either case, when you say "forgiveness" what does that word mean to you? Or, if you see it as having different meanings in different contexts, what are some of those different kinds of things?

Thnak you, Watchbird, for the encouraging words. Thank you also for toning me down a bit--I guess that I get overanxious to see justice for the 'younger than I' (which is probably everybody) who have been treated so badly at 3ABN while I have in the past given sacrificially to the cause of 3ABN . I thought that I was giving to the cause of God and for the sake of the younger generations that will grow up watching this 'escapade' of Danny and his board who at one time had my utmost allegiance

I know that our young folks need to have their role models before them in the persons of Mom and Dad, but not all young people have that privilege. I live in a community where we have one of our academies and the thing that has been told to me by the Principal there is that too many parents just don't care enough about their children to teach them right from wrong. They are satisfied to pay money to the school and let the influences fall where they may. So it falls to the teachers, the churches and to the ministers here who regularly take up 'goodwill offerings' for that wonderful entity who speaks for God---Danny Shelton and 3ABN. If the youth are listening at all, they are being told what a wonderful example is Danny, the man who is spoken to by God.

But I do know that God is in charge. As my grandaughter says to me, "Now, grandma, don't go praying me out of a situation until you know what it is all about.." As for forgiveness, we certainly can forgive even the sinners, but there is still room enough left for us to encourage or persuade them to quit doing whatever they are being forgiven for. I don't want to hurt anyone, but that is what I am all about.

Thanks for your interest. While Beartrap would be the only one (that I know of) who is posting here that could give you an "insiders" (at that time) view of the rationale given around 3ABN itself, I can give background information on the underlying reasons for the rejection of the contract.

In the packet of information sent out at the time from 3ABN, there was also a copy of an evaluation of the contract that was done by a 3ABN lawyer. I don't think I understand the legaleze enough to even be real sure as to what it said. It's lengthy, but I can post it here if anyone is interested in examining it. But that is of little value, since the real reasons they rejected the contract do not lie with the specific items, but with the idea of having a formal "signed contract" of any kind.

In partial "defense" of the rejection it is only fair to point out that at the time this came up, not only independent ministries, but official church institutions, especially educational institutions of higher learning, were also concerned about Folkenberg's efforts to get everyone in line with his thinking, even to the extent of trying to require "loyalty oaths" on key points of practice and doctrine. So from one angle 3ABN could be excused for resisting a contract on this basis.

However, that is not the whole story, nor does that account for 3ABN's resistance from the beginning to taking any guidance or to having any lines of accountability to the church they claimed to be serving. That the "reasons" do not lie in the specific stipulations of the contract itself, but in something much more basic than that, can be seen by a careful reading of the letter from Bill Hulsey, which I posted yesterday. If you will notice, he makes no complaints about specific language or requirements in the proposed contract. His objections are to the very notion of having any contract at all.

This may not be seen as significant by those not acquainted with the attitudes held in the old "self-supporting work" which are held as models for many (though not all) "Independent Ministries" today. The primary one being a deep distrust of what they call the "organized work", that is to say the Conference structures. The phrase "kingly powers", when applied to church leaders, comes straight from these sources. And the condemnation and fear of control by the "organized church" which this phrase indicates, follows recognized psychological functions of betraying their own desire for control, as can be clearly seen as one examines this type of Independent Ministry.

If you combine this with the principles (almost doctrines) held by these groups--that of the function of the "prophet, priest, and king" God assigned roles, then you have the solid, unshakable ground for resistance to any "signed contract" which deprives (or even limits) the power, control, and even leadership (of the church itself) function of the Independent Ministry. Thus the very idea of having a "signed contract" is anathema to them, as the letter from Hulsey indicates.

I believe the reasoning behind the item I have bolded above is of interest on a wider level. Perhaps it is the time to split this topic into another thread, Watchbird. I think it might be of interest to others who are not reading this thread. Thankyou.

would have no objection if the staff wish to split the thread. However I doubt that any who are not nterested in reading the 3ABN threads would be interested in this either. And the various connections vith other independent ministries, including that of a Shelton brother who started out as an SDA ninister but was defrocked for the way he was leading his church (but is now back at 3ABN), are an ntegral part of the history of 3ABN. As is the way that the teachings of "prophet, priest, and king" ıave merged with Pentecostal beliefs at 3ABN, making it a particular virulant strain of this "basic ›elief".

'ou may be right that it should be a separate thread, but I don't know how to do that, nor would I be ıble to move whatever posts should be moved to it, nor would I know how to label it so it would come ıp on a search of 3ABN threads in the future. "Deep Pockets..."

Lets turn again to Danny's benefactor. He was introduced earlier in, "A Man of Influence..." Retired, connected in the highest of Adventist circles, influential and powerful, many tremble at his slightest gesture of displeasure, when their decisions run contrary to his master plan. Why such a pronounced reaction? He that giveth and can taketh away the funding he has provided for so many official church and supporting ministries projects. To spurn his counsel, can mean "to cut off your nose, to spite your face" financially. How do you spell the respect and honor that is shown to him, M-O-N-E-Y. Compared to this man, Danny is merely small fish to fry.

But this is not his story, except for the part he has played in the past and continues to play in the present of 3ABN. And to attempt to throw any further light onto his dealings is a contest on the level of the young shepherd boy, David, facing off against the seasoned warrior and giant, Goliath. Only with the assurance of God's leading in that battle is it anything more than a single kamikaze pilot flying against the entirety of the wartime USA Pacific fleet. That is not the purpose for which we are here. But before I leave these shark infested waters, I pose some questions: Why would this man sustain and protect Danny Shelton, for what purpose? Is it just his philanthropic nature getting the best of him? Perhaps there is someone else who would like to elaborate on these questions?

Stay tuned...

can't read minds. Sometimes I don't even know why I do some things. I look at things I have done ınd shake my head. Why did I do this? Why did I do that? So how would I know why anyone does vhat they do? I do know by personal experience that the best works of the best of us all are :ontinually tainted with egotism and the will to "have things my way". We don't even admit to ›urselves how much we enjoy the admiration and approval of others and how much it influences our lecisions. In Jesus' day, he chastized men who wanted to be seen as pius, who wanted to get rid of ɨim because he wouldn't praise them and excuse their sin, the sin of pride.

)n the other hand, it doesn't bother the conscience of some people both inside and outside of the :hurch to butter people up (including the powerful) in order to get into their pockets and/or to get hem to do almost anything they suggest.

'here is no doubt this benefactor is regarded as the greatest philanthropist within the Seventh-day \dventist Church. There is an Adventist man who publishes a national newsletter (and website) which has reported numerous stories on apostasies, heresies and scandals in Adventistland (Folkenberg, David Dennis, Morris Venden, John Osborne, conference financial mismanagement, etc.) This is not his only subject matter, but he is about the only medium I know of that exposes things that you won't read about in the Review.

He is not afraid to take on the big boys.

If any of the forum members would like to give him first hand information about the Shelton situation, please state your interest so that he can get in touch with you. He may already be preparing a report about the Shelton saga. He has already stated to me that he believed Linda was innocent and was also dismayed about the purchase of Danny's jet (he seemed unaware of the other extravagances).

If you believe this is not the right time for public exposure, state that too so that if he is in the process of preparing a report, he can hold off on it until you think the time is right.

"The Televangelist", Part 2...

Again returning to my computer, I continue reading from the document known as "The Televangelist":

"He learned that if he had reason to worry that someone knew too much about him, he could preempt anything that person might do by discrediting them. He could concoct a nasty story; usually sex based, and spread it around to their friends, family, church leaders, civic leaders, employers, potential employers, business associates and others. He also applied the label, "pathological liar" to them. Then, if that person ever exposed anything it was said to just be the revenge of an angry liar."

The words that I have just read sadden me because they ring true in my mind. The concepts revealed are more befitting of advice on how to secure the downfall of a human and their entrance into the depths of despair, rather than the spin strategy in an independent ministry. In type it mirrors the letters written from a senior devil, Screwtape, to his subordinate Wormwood, a junior Tempter, on how to secure the damnation of a human, in "The Screwtape Letters" by C. S. Lewis. But instead it is the techniques employed by a televangelist, the head of a Christian ministry, in doing "damage control".

I would find this impossible to believe, had I not seen this concept executed, from the administrative wing of 3ABN. It is frightening to see the wheels being put into motion, to witness the sinister intent of a man who has set himself up as "god" within his ministry, played out before one's very eyes.

With a determined look on his face Danny walks out of his office, like a soldier in full field gear—arrayed for battle, his body language and the grim set of his lips speak volumes as he walks into Mollie's open office door... The time period of this event? The page turning into the new century has already past and time begins to accelerate toward the present.

For those who work in 3ABN's administration department, the consequences of crossing Danny is not just rumor, but something both seen, heard, and by some experienced. In addition to these privileged few, there are others that have also heard murmurings between Danny and Mollie. In the emotions of the minute, minds intent upon the subject under discussion; unnoticed, a silent witness overhear the hushed voices. And for a brief instant, like lightening illuminating the darkened landscape, everything is laid bare and sense can be made of secrets whispered in the hallways of 3ABN and the source of each utterance is the same: Danny.

Danny is known for using incidents in his own life or the experiences of his relatives as a fertile field for fabricating the falsehoods needed to insure the downfall of those whom he perceives as in opposition to him. This day is no different, the lies to discredit this individual involves the viewing of online pornography. Danny, himself, has both fabricated this falsehood and personally feeds the grist for the rumor mill. No shred of evidence exists, except as a ripe harvest from his fertile field of a twisted imagination.

As Danny leaves Mollies office, his step is lighter and a smug smile returns to his face, entering his office we can only imagine his satisfaction as he reviews his plan to annihilate his "enemy". The gossip and rumor mill will work overtime with this information. Unfortunately for Danny, he has forgotten that there are unseen eyes and ears at 3ABN and not all of them listen and report only to him....

Stayed tuned for Part 3...

QUOTE(sister @ May 10 2006, 02:01 PM)

"The Televangelist", Part 2...

Again returning to my computer, I continue reading from the document known as "The Televangelist":

"He learned that if he had reason to worry that someone knew too much about him, he could preempt anything that person might do by discrediting them. He could concoct a nasty story; usually sex based, and spread it around to their friends, family, church leaders, civic leaders, employers, potential employers, business associates and others. He also applied the label, "pathological liar" to them. Then, if that person ever exposed anything it was said to just be the revenge of an angry liar."

The words that I have just read sadden me because they ring true in my mind. The concepts revealed are more befitting of advice on how to secure the downfall of a human and their entrance into the depths of despair, rather than the spin strategy in an independent ministry. In type it mirrors the letters written from a senior devil, Screwtape, to his subordinate Wormwood, a junior Tempter, on how to secure the damnation of a human, in "The Screwtape Letters" by C. S. Lewis. But instead it is the techniques employed by a televangelist, the head of a Christian ministry, in doing "damage control".

I would find this impossible to believe, had I not seen this concept executed, from the administrative wing of 3ABN. It is frightening to see the wheels being put into motion, to witness the sinister intent of a man who has set himself up as "god" within his ministry, played out before one's very eyes.

With a determined look on his face Danny walks out of his office, like a soldier in full field gear—arrayed for battle, his body language and the grim set of his lips speak volumes as he walks into Mollie's open office door... )anny knows that he is being watched, not only by God and his angels, but, also by those he thinks ıe has quieted - or fear him enough to say anything. Paranoia has set in.
Numbers 32:23, "But if ye will not do so, behold, ye have sinned against the Lord: and be sure your sin will find you out." I once had a boss much like this - because he thought himself so high and nighty, he ASSUMED others did as well - therefore he carried himself around with this attitude, only, ıe was in his own world, we knew what he really was. He just didn't know we knew. Yet.

QUOTE(gracetoyou @ May 10 2006, 04:01 PM)

There is an Adventist man who publishes a national newsletter (and website) which has reported numerous stories on apostasies, heresies and scandals in Adventistland (Folkenberg, David Dennis, Morris Venden, John Osborne, conference financial mismanagement, etc.) This is not his only subject matter, but he is about the only medium I know of that exposes things that you won't read about in the Review.

He is not afraid to take on the big boys.

If any of the forum members would like to give him first hand information about the Shelton situation, please state your interest so that he can get in touch with you. He may already be preparing a report about the Shelton saga. He has already stated to me that he believed Linda was innocent and was also dismayed about the purchase of Danny's jet (he seemed unaware of the other extravagances).

If you believe this is not the right time for public exposure, state that too so that if he is in the process of preparing a report, he can hold off on it until you think the time is right.

"Have nothing to do with the fruitless deeds of darkness, but rather expose them." Eph. 5:11

ıow that's what I am talking about... get it in print... how do I get a copy of the newsletter? you have ı website link?

Posted by: gracetoyou May 11 2006, 08:48 AM

It's www.sdadefend.com by Vance Ferrell. The articles from his newsletter can be found on the website. The newsletter is free. He has been publishing his newletter for many years and is experienced at exposing wrongs both in and outside of the Adventist church. You may e-mail him on the website or call him (phone number is on the website). The more first hand information he can get, the better.

If he decides to write a report on Danny Shelton and his posse, then Linda Shelton supporters can make copies of the report and send them to their friends, relatives and Adventist leaders. When the light is turned on, the roaches run for cover.

"Speak up for those who cannot speak for themselves, for the rights of all who are destitute. Speak up and judge fairly; defend the rights of the poor and needy." Proverbs 31:8, 9

"As long as he (King Uzziah) sought the LORD, God gave him success..... His fame spread far and wide, for he was greatly helped until he became powerful. But after Uzziah became powerful, his pride led to his downfall. He was unfaithful to the LORD his God, and entered the temple of the LORD to burn incense on the altar of incense. Azariah the priest with eighty other COURAGEOUS priests of the LORD followed him in. They CONFRONTED him and said, 'It is not right for you, Uzziah, to burn incense to the LORD. That is for the priests, the descendants of Aaron, who have been consecrated to burn incense. Leave the sanctuary, for you will not be honored by the LORD God.'

"Uzziah, who had a censer in his hand ready to burn incense, became angry. While he was raging at the priests in their presence before the incense altar in the LORD's temple, leprosy broke out on his forehead. When Azariah the chief priest and all the other priests looked at him, they saw that he had leprosy on his forehead, so they hurried him out. Indeed, he himself was eager to leave, because the LORD had afflicted him. King Uzziah had leprosy until the day he died."
2 Chronicles 26:5, 15-21

Moral of the story: God's people need to do their part in confronting and dealing with open sin in the church (1 Corinthians 5) and God will do His part in dealing with the guilty if they do not repent and forsake their sin.

ıow would you describe sdadefend? The site to me would be described as views from the traditional or historic adventist view, would that be a fair characterization?

Yes, it's quite conservative. It does uphold traditional Seventh-day Adventist standards on morality.

thank you....the question is should avenues be utilized to get the word out even if you don't subscribe to that school of thought?

Posted by: gracetoyou May 11 2006, 10:23 AM

Why not? What difference does it make? Anyway, it is the conservative element of the church who believes that a person has to have Biblical grounds for divorce (adultery) to remarry. The liberal element would probably not care that Danny is divorced and remarried without Biblical grounds.

If Adventist Today or Spectrum published a reliable expose, I would still use it to inform people about the truth of the Shelton situation even though I am conservative in most areas of Adventist thought.

These sources mentioned along with other public sources are always at God's disposal - whether we see them as good ways or not is not what's important. His ways can be msyterious to us. That's what makes God God! And I love that.

Right now yer washing clothes without the spines. Now instead of a drive-by writing, put some meat on those bones.

What more specifics do you want? Do you want a greater exposure?

"Is Your Boss a Psychopath?"...

The following quiz, edited for length and application, appeared in issue 96 of Fast Company, a business magazine. Perhaps Johann, Beartrap, Brother Sam, PaperTigers and others would like to take the quiz and comment on it's applicability to the history of 3ABN...

Quiz: Is Your Boss a Psychopath? The standard clinical test for psychopathy, Robert Hare's PCL-R, evaluates 20 personality traits overall, but a subset of eight traits defines what he calls the "corporate psychopath" -- the nonviolent person prone to the "selfish, callous, and remorseless use of others." Does your boss fit the profile? Here's our do-it-yourself quiz drawing on the test manual and Hare's book Without Conscience. (Disclaimer: If you're not a psychologist or psychiatrist, this will be a strictly amateur exercise.)

For each question, score two points for "yes," one point for "somewhat" or "maybe,"

and zero points for "no."

[1] Is he glib and superficially charming?
Is he a likable personality and a terrific talker — entertaining, persuasive, but maybe a bit too smooth and slick? Can he pass himself off as a supposed expert even though he really doesn't know much about the topic? Is he a flatterer? Seductive, but insincere? Does he tell amusing but unlikely anecdotes celebrating his own past? Can he persuade his colleagues to support a certain position this week — and then argue with equal conviction and persuasiveness for the opposite position next week? Can he appear on TV and somehow get away without saying anything truly substantive?
SCORE__

[2] Does he have a grandiose sense of self-worth?
Does he brag? Is he arrogant? Superior? Domineering? Does he feel he's above the rules that apply to "little people"? Does he act as though everything revolves around him? Does he downplay his legal, financial, or personal problems, say they're just temporary, or blame them on others?
SCORE__

[3] Is he a pathological liar?
Has he reinvented his own past in a more positive light? Does he lie habitually even though he can easily be found out? When he's exposed, does he still act unconcerned because he thinks he can weasel out of it? Does he enjoy lying? Is he proud of his knack for deceit? Is it hard to tell whether he knows he's a liar or whether he deceives himself and believes his own bull?
SCORE__

[4] Is he a con artist or master manipulator?
Does he use his skill at lying to cheat or manipulate other people in his quest for money, power, status, and sex? Does he "use" people brilliantly? Does he engage in dishonest schemes such as cooking the books?
SCORE__

[5] When he harms other people, does he feel a lack of remorse or guilt?
Is he concerned about himself rather than the wreckage he inflicts on others or society at large? Does he say he feels bad but act as though he really doesn't? Does he blame others for the trouble he causes?
SCORE__

[6] Does he have a shallow affect?
Does he make brief, dramatic displays of emotion that are nothing more than putting on a theatrical mask and playacting for effect?
SCORE__

[7] Is he callous and lacking in empathy?
Does he not give a d--- about the feelings or well-being of other people? Is he profoundly selfish? Does he cruelly mock others? Is he emotionally or verbally abusive toward employees, "friends," and family members? Can he fire employees without concern for how they'll get by without the job? Can he profit from embezzlement without concern for the harm he's doing?
SCORE__

[8] Does he fail to accept responsibility for his own actions?
Does he always cook up some excuse? Does he blame others for what he's done? If he's under investigation for a corporate crime, like deceitful accounting, does he refuse to acknowledge wrongdoing even when the hard evidence is stacked against him?
SCORE__

Since August 2005 Danny Shelton has regularly featured his brother, Kenny Shelton (anti-Seventh Day Adventist dissident) on 3ABN. As of October 15, 2005 Kenny Shelton is representing 3ABN at Rallies in Seventh-day Adventist Churches, and at the Ten Commandments event. In the October 2005 issue of Land Marks, John Grosboll's radical anti-Adventist magazine, Kenny Shelton is a featured author encouraging the readers to leave the Seventh-day Adventist Church because it is not God's true church.

Not many years ago, Kenny was pastoring a Seventh-day Adventist Church in Herrin, Illinois. He partnered with several dissident former-Adventist leaders such as John and Marshall Grosboll, and Dr.Ralph Larson. Kenny was ordained by Dr. Larson in a ceremony that was not recognized by the Church, and was publicly condemned by the General Conference President.

As a result of Kenny's actions as part of the separationist "Historic Adventist" movement, he was disfellowshipped. Most of his congregation left the Seventh-day Adventist Church with him.

Kenny Shelton now runs his own offshoot anti-Adventist organization called Behold The Lamb Ministries. Also, for over a decade, Kenny has been very actively associated with John Grossbol of Steps To Life Ministries, and with Dr. Larson. Kenny is a featured speaker at their campmeetings, as well as a variety of other offshoot campmeetings. He is also a featured author in the Steps To Life Magazine, Land Marks.

In the February 1997 issue of Land Marks, Kenny Shelton encourages members to leave their churches, form "home churches," and not look back. He says, "Error is never harmless. Testimonies, vol. 5, 292. Therefore, because of so much error and apostasy, many have found it necessary to establish separate worship services apart from the structure."

"We must not return to Egypt. We must not return to a structure that is deep in apostasy, for God's counsel is always the same, in every situation, structure or independent. Separate from sin!"
Ibid

"Who would have thought that in Adventism the apostasy would become so great that in many places it would become spiritually dangerous to even attend the local Seventh- day Adventist Church because error was being "forced home to the people."
Ibid

In the May 1997 Issue, Kenny carefully lays a foundation demonstrating the Church is teaching error, and then he writes, "a warning is given to separate from those "which cause divisions and offenses contrary to the doctrine."

"Now, let me ask you a question. Is it not right for an individual (you) to choose to support or work with, or not to support and work with certain ministries? Each individual makes their decision based upon the teaching of each ministry. If their teaching does not line up with what you believe the truth is, you withdraw your support."
Ibid

"That is the way it should be conducted. But what is the difference when we, the ministries, must withdraw from another ministry because of differences of doctrine? I hope you are getting the point! Yes, there will be unity among God's true and faithful, and at the same time division because of those who will not come into line."
Ibid

In the October 2005 issue if Land Marks, Kenny writes, "I often hear it said, "The church is moving on." To what church does this refer? The true church of God will be moving on. It will go on through. But this does not mean the true church is a certain denomination. There are many who believe the Seventh-day Adventist denomination is God's true church. If it is God's church, it will speak as does God. If it does not speak as God speaks, it is not His church—regardless of its name or where it is located. God does not speak with a forked tongue"

On his website, www.beholdthelambministries.com , Kenny Shelton is featuring John Grosboll, and Dennis Crystal. Both of them are former Adventists who are outspoken critics of the Seventh-day Adventist Church.

John Grosboll claims that the Seventh-day Adventist Church has split into two groups: the "little group" and the "big group." In the June 2002 issue of Land Marks, he indicates that the "big group" is the organized Church structure. He says, "The larger of these groups, sometimes referred to as the "Professed Church," is destined to go to ruin and destruction—to fall. They profess to be the "True Church."

"The other group is destined to appear to fall, because it will seem that they are going to be annihilated. Since it appears that this group will be destroyed, we must face the reality that the majority of this smaller group could be martyred. (See Maranatha, 199.) But instead of falling, it will remain. This smaller group is referred to by Ellen White, in other places, as the "True Church.""
Ibid

"Dear Friend, if that still, small voice is telling you that you are in the large group of professed Adventists who are not really true Adventists, it is not yet too late for you to change sides, to change leaders."
Ibid

In an article on his website, www.steps2life.com ,entitled, "Issues: No New Organization," John Gosboll writes, "Those who do not uphold God's law are joining the new organization that was started by Satan."
"The awful possibility of the Seventh-day Adventist church organization starting a new organization independent from God is a matter of prophecy. Ellen White prophesied that what we are seeing today could happen. We will look at the 12 main points of the prophecy having to do with the new organization in Adventism. It was a conditional prophecy in her day. It is coming to pass in our day.
1. Principles of truth that God...has given to the remnant church would be discarded—our religion would be changed.
2. The fundamental principles that have sustained the work in the 19th century would be accounted as error.
3. A new organization would be established.
4. Books of a new order would be written.
5. A system of intellectual philosophy would be introduced.
6. The founders of this system would go into the cities to do a wonderful work.
7. The Sabbath would be lightly regarded (as the God who created it).
8. Nothing would be allowed to stand in the way of the new movement.
9. The leaders would teach that virtue is better than vice, but God being removed,
10. They would place their dependence on human power, which, without God, is worthless.
11. Their foundation would be built on the sand.
12. Storm and tempest would sweep away the structure."
Ibid

Following this he states that only number 12 has not been fulfilled. He goes on to say:
"Around the world there is a giant tidal wave taking place that many professed Adventist ministers are trying to stop. People are searching and finding historical Adventism—the same doctrines of the Bible that electrified our pioneers and made the Seventh-day Adventist church what it has been. These people are finding out that the present Seventh-day Adventist churches in their localities no longer believe and practice historic Adventism so they are assembling in home churches which are not recognized by "the conference."
Ibid

It is then claimed that they are not united with the church. But the question needs again to be asked, Who and what is the church? Since the remnant of the woman's seed consists of those who love God and keep His commandments and have the spirit of prophecy, if you are united with an organized body of historic Seventh-day Adventist believers, you are united with the church. (To have a church, you need to have two historic Seventh-day Adventists who are agreed and unified—see Matthew 18.)"
Ibid

Kenny Shelton travels with Dr. Ralph Larson, and they collude on speaking engagements at the various dissident former-Seventh-day Adventist events. In the November 2000 edition of Land Marks, Dr. Larson says, "...we believe the General Conference has launched an Inquisition, which may result in the separation from the church of several thousand believers,"

"They must simply accept the judgment of the Inquisitors as infallible—all of which reminds us of the Catholic Inquisition in Spain."
Ibid

"Inquisitions work with falsehoods and misrepresentations. This is their stock in trade. Unfortunately, the General Conference Inquisition is no exception to this rule."
"Many of the historic Adventists recognize these false doctrines as the very ones they left behind when they came out of Babylonish churches to join the Adventist church."
Ibid

"...we are confronted today with the appalling spectacle of a large group of high ranking church leaders sitting down together to concoct a list of totally false accusations against church members, whose only crime is that they will not accept the apostasy that is sweeping through the church. Thus the leaders align themselves with the apostasy. The grossly false accusations that the Inquisitors have prepared and published would compare favorably with the work of the Catholic Inquisitors in Spain."
Ibid

"...with the General Conference Inquisition moving in on us, what shall we do? Should we tremble in fear and agree to accept the false authority and the false doctrines if they will just let us stay in the church?"
Ibid

The Tithe Problem
by Ralph Larson
"As this heart- wrenching experience continues, the church member is eventually forced to recognize that Ellen White's predictions about the great Adventist apostasy are being fulfilled before his eyes. Then comes the agonizing question, "Does God require me to pay my tithe to support the great apostasy?"
Like many others before him, he decides that this line of reasoning just doesn't make sense. He then turns to an independent ministry holding the Seventh- day Adventist historic faith, preaching the message that he accepted when he joined the church. He now begins to send his tithe to that ministry.
Now the question for every fair- minded person to consider is, Who is responsible? Has the church member's problem been created by the independent ministry, or by the preaching of the false doctrines of Calvinism in his own church?"

"There is no biblical or Spirit of Prophecy evidence to support the view that all tithe must, regardless of circumstances, be paid through organizational channels. Such a position might in some cases require that outright apostasy be supported by tithe, which is far beyond the boundaries of reason."
Ibid

Does the Seventh-day Adventist Church support Danny Shelton and his promotion of Kenny Shelton and his continuous vitriolic attacks on the Church? The Church, through its approval of Danny Shelton as the representative of true Adventism to millions of Seventh-day Adventists, and the world at large, gives tacit approval of Kenny, his insurgent associates in their malicious attacks on Church doctrine, and their overt directives diverting millions and millions of tithe and offering dollars from thousands of deceived Seventh-day Adventists into their nefarious organizations.

How long can the Church tolerate its life blood being sucked away to feed the attack dogs, and support the luxury lifestyles and travel habits of those who legitimize their mission?

To me this is rather interesting in light of the fact that in its early years 3ABN was largely made up of enthusiastic right-wing dissidents like Kenny Shelton, John Grossboll, Marshall Grossboll, Ron Spear, Jan Marcussen, John Osborne, and others.

Could it be that the principle of independent leaders being more godly and mission minded than church leaders, and therefor more deserving of tithes and offerings, and more worthy of being followed as the only true spiritual leaders, is one that appeals to Danny?

Beartrap:

What is Historic Adventist? I throught Ellen white said our doctrines was to become more pure like Jesus's doctrines. I thought when Jesus appears in the sky, Gods people will have the true doctrines. I thought Righteous by Faith and pure love will be in the hearts of those who go throught the time of trouble. Its interesting they are not using all of Ellen White's statements when they talk about the church.

If you a historic adventist, before 1888 you probably don't believe in righteous by faith.

I am not saying the church doesn't have some problems but if you have been around some of the independences you will find they are not near the christian they think they are. I think you will find they are out to take the title away from the church because they know of better ways to spent it. Could it be on pleasures and jets?

As a former member of Kenny's church, you know what strikes me really funny in all this with Kenny rejoining forces with Danny is that we were told we were to have no association with 3ABN whatsoever as it wasn't good. Hmmmmmmmmmmm now he is joining forces with Danny once again. Wonder who changed sides? But birds of a feather flock together. Guess they can both get rid of their wives with no grounds & remarry whoever they choose & all is well. Member of his church none the less. Best stop before I get into a novel on this one. All I can say is Lord have mercy on us all.

Well now that just a scream. As a 3ABN employee back in 1989 when Kenny was fired, for a number of years we were forbidden from having any contact with Kenny (Danny's brother), Emma Lou (Kenny's wife), Goldie (Danny's mother), or Tammy (Danny's sister) because Kenny was was a sinner and the others had sided with him. and yes, Kenny dumped Emma Lou and ran off with Chris. (The short version)

Could you please remove the violent pictures with the comments regarding the suggestion of 'murders'? While I agree with the request to "stop stupid posts" the graphic is entirely unnecessary and inappropriate!!

Thanks, JustTana

I was just thinking this morning about how Danny is always saying that the Lord told him to start a ministry that would "counteract the counterfeit", etc. Know what I'm talking about? Now that the word is getting out that Danny himself is a counterfeit, it's kinda ironic, isn't it?

BlackSDA _ 3ABN _ Danny Shelton Court Case?

Has anyone heard of Danny Shelton being involved in another, serious, court case that is not directly related to his divorce? I do not want to say what I heard this was about, in case it is just another ugly rumor.

Whenever there is some legal action pending or even being thought about, there is a period of time when it is inappropriate (to put it mildly) for there to be any mention or speculation, or even questionings about it in a public venue such as this. I would highly recommend therefore, that if anyone here hears a rumor or an allegation ... or even if someone knows for sure that such an action is being taken or contemplated ... that rather than questioning about it on the forum that they should quietly PM one or another of us who have been posting knowlegeably about various aspects of the situation and handle all things of this nature behind the scenes, in private, until such a time as those who are either involved or who have been asked to release that information posts it in an affirmative way. Once something of this nature has been posted, then questions will be appropriate. Until then it is speculation that should not be indulged.

Calvin.... or whoever is authorized to do this .... would you please close this thread until someone contacts you saying that such a topic is appropriate?

Until that is done, will everyone please respect this topic by not responding further nor indulging in speculation about it?

What was interesting over at "Daryl's place" was what it was that got Stan all bent out of shape and caused him to throw a tantrum, stomp his feet, run away, and slam the door behind him. let's face it, some of us in the church don't like to discuss anything unpleasant and we don't want to believe that those in leadership positions could do anything wrong...

Posted by: Daryl Fawcett Aug 15 2006, 06:58 AM

Perhaps I shouldn't have posted what I posted about Stan here. I did it out of frustration of Stan trying to tell me what I can and can't do at MSDAOL to the extent that he has removed my access to the 3ABN Topics at Club Adventist and greatly limited my access and posting abilities elsewhere at Club Adventist, all because I was allowing thinngs at MSDAOL that he was then also allowing at Club Adventist. It's like the pot calling the kettle black.

don't think so. I think it was good that you posted that here, and it would be good for us to note the specific topic that he objected to. Some of us have wondered for a long time why there was so much resistance to anything being said on CA that was negative towards Danny and 3ABN, and only with a great deal of care and a lot of editing was it possible to put anything on there at all. So my question is, do we get a slight clue from the fact that he came to MSDAOL and posted right along with everyone else .... until the topic of Garwin's control of the church came up. Then it was tantrum time ..... Did it maybe hit too close to ..... some place marked out as "forbidden territory" in his world?

But in this case, we're not discussing "the church" nor even any sort of church entity! Calvin was spot on when he pointed out that 3ABN is a business. The Illinois state court judge concluded that 3ABN is a family business. Why don't we "get it" that 3ABN is a business?

It's business that just happens to exploit the Adventist message and the Adventist membership for profit. That makes if very far from being a "ministry" -- especially when you consider how they treat the folks who come to work in this "ministry."

Really now, if we take a look at the way Danny, Mollie, Walt & John L run the show, it's very clear that 3ABN is anything but a ministry. It's clearly a business. Once people "get that," the rest is much easier.

Again, let's join September in praying that God will open people's eyes. It's much better that Danny uses the rope he has to hang himself than for others to try to do it for him. And he can't seem to help himself from boasting sanctimoniously, accusing unspecified enemies and lying in such a manner that the thinking person can see -- certainly with the help of the Holy Spirit.

And just a word about Stan ...
Though I most thoroughly disagree with him, I really think that Stan would just like everyone to get along and play nice. In person, he's jolly and affable and makes everyone feel right at home. A couple of our boys and their wives, in discussing the personnell at the B.C. Conference office noted how unfriendly the whole staff seemed to be -- making visiting members feel like they're intruding in a private club. They pointed out that a business would never get away with such "service." However, they mentioned a couple notable exceptions -- Stan Jensen, who makes everyone feel welcome, and the Duane, the manager of the ABC. So, the way I figure it, Stan just can't believe that all this evil stuff about Danny can possibly be true. It is all just evil gossip, and he's closing his ears to this "gossip."

Like I said, I disagree, but I can understand ... sort of ...

t is nice to hear this things about Stan. I'm sure this has been an issue for him as well as the rest of ıs to work through, absorb and admit. My problem is this; I would not want to be deceived. I would ıot want to put my head in the sand, and I would not want to be responsible for helping others do ɜither of these things. I would want to know, as much as it might hurt, because when you stump ɟrowth (even when it hurts) in yourself and others, you also carry a wreight that is not necessary and ı pain that is eventually going to blow up in your face. I hope that Stan will be willing to REALLY look ıt this head on, and realize what is really going on here, it won't do any good to pretend otherwise. I ell you, it is a situation for all of us individually to deal with. Not just the big players, but all of us. 'his is far more about what happend to one or two people, etc. This is evil at work. We all better open ɔur eyes and let God teach us a thing or two, before it's too late. Stan owes nothing to anyone. Only o God and himself (in that order or course). 'es, I'm sure most folks on this board "get it." I was thinking of the larger Adventist community.

figure that one of the most useful things we can do is to help people understand that 3ABN is a ɔusiness. It will put all things re 3ABN in a totally different perspective for them.

bot "Run, Brandy Shelton, Run!" with your little girls, as far as you can get away.

As old-timers here will remember..... we learned that while both girls had moved to T'ville with their mom sometime ca July of 2004, by early this summer, the older girl had been sent to live with her natural father. When I checked with an authoritative source at that time, asking if this was just temporary or was to be permanent, I was told that it was permanent. Now recently, I hear that both girls were seen with Danny and their mom .... so I'm wondering if anyone has any information as to whether that was just a visit that she was making, or if she has returned to live with Brandi and Danny now?

As to your comment..... I agree with your "advice". But more in the form of wondering just how long it would be before Brandy would "cut and run"? By now she must be past the stage of needing the warning message. The atmosphere she is currently living in can hardly be what she would have imagined it would be like when she moved to 3ABN.

A history of mis-management and abuse, (in many forms) ...
The eyes of the world upon them ..

"Abused" former employees and volunteers speaking up ...
Church support falling off ...
Financial support falling off ...
"The fat lady" warming up her voice ...

I agree with you Jvat.

Consider this situation: if Danny could fool Linda all those years, how easy it is to fool a new bride. I don't know about the rest of you, but when I first married, if someone had come to me and made all sorts of acquisitions against my husband, who am I going to believe and where am I going for answers to my questions? My husband of course. And if that husband is Danny Shelton? He will reassure her that it is all lies, an attack by the devil against them and their ministry and that by attacking God's anointed prophet they are in fact crucifying Christ afresh. Now who do you think she is going to believe folks? The man she loves or the people he has told her are baring false witness against both him and God? I believe this is what is called a "no brainer".

This sounds bad. Does he really think that all these things are "attacks" and call himself "God's annointed prophet." This is delusional thinking in my book. No money from my pocket will reach 3abn as long as I have anything to do with it Run Brandi, run.

You know I agree with you. I do not know how Brandy could have come all the way from Florida to Illinois, looking for a job, been employed by Danny and married him so fast without knowing what is and was going on. I bet that she has been reading BSDA and C/A all these years and knew fully well what she was walking into. She is no little girl. She has been through 2 previous marriages, (maybe they were very traumatizing to her) but I think that she knew Danny long ago---at lest 5 years ago and she came to 3ABN for 'such a time as this'. Was she handpicked by Danny so quickly to be his new wife? If she can read, use the internet and think, she is no novice. She knows what is and has been going on.IMO

Think back to before Linda even knew there was a problem, Summertime.....there is more to this story that we don't know. Questions such as how long was she divorced, the second time, or was there any lag time at all. We know Danny was marrying Brandy before the ink could dry on the court papers, was there wet ink on Brandy's also?

She came to 3abn Sept. 2004 right and was baptized Oct 2004 at the Fall campmeeting. The way I had understood it from all the reading and Dr. Thompsons letter I thought she was an SDA before she came to 3abn. Does anyone know what kind of religious back ground she comes from .

I am in the midst of confirming what I have been told about Brandi's connection to Danny and 3abn. I have been told that she came to 3abn with her family to sing on 3abn when she was young. I have also been told of the places she has lived and that Danny has been to those places (before she came to 3abn). There is deep speculation that I don't want to be speculation, I want to find out the facts, and I know some who have facts on this. As I find out, I will confirm. There are things we may not be able to figure out. But in this case, I feel it's worth digging for - because if she is part of the reason Danny was getting rid of Linda (I did say "part"), this too is extremely important for people to know. Yes, she did come to 3abn officially in the early fall of '04 (Linda is ousted in June remember) and then is suddenly living in a house across from Danny, and she is working at 3abn. He does start to date her immediately. I'm sure many people around the compound were uncomfortable with this and had something new to negociate in their minds....so, I will let you all know what I can find out. I don't want to hurt Brandi if she is innocent with regard to allowing herself to be used by Danny's pre-ideas of getting rid of Linda, it may be coincidence, it may not. What a mess, isn't it?

Posted by: Daryl Fawcett Aug 14 2006, 06:47 PM

BlackSDA _ 3ABN _ 3abn Trust Services Group

Posted by: BrotherBill Aug 9 2006, 11:54 AM

I heard today that 3 ABN eliminated their entire Trust Services Group. Can anyone verify whether this is true?

Posted by: princessdi Aug 9 2006, 12:28 PM

What exactly was their purpose?

If you mean what is 3ABN's purpose in eliminating the Trust Services Group, I don't know. If you mean what is the purpose of the Trust Services Group, it is to help people write their wills, presumably leaving some money to 3ABN for providing the service.

Again, I don't know how true the rumor is. I have not had intimate dealings with 3ABN's formal organization for a couple of years now.

Although your question is fully legitimate I believe an answer might not come until a little later. We have members on this forum who will be able to give us all the details then. The Linda case is far from the only problem 3ABN is encountering these days. Pray the new leadership of 3ABN will be able to handle everything right. Some Church leaders belive 3ABN will have to be restructured within a month in order to save the Church a lot of problems.

According to information received from top-ranking church leaders, this is what they are working on right now. This is the only way they can save the reputation of the church.

Both the strength and the weakness of the church is its members. Its kind of sad that the reputation of the SDA would be linked in this way with the reputation of a subgroup within it.

As a sidenote, this among other things picking up speed, it seems that some major changes in the world we know are just waiting to happen soon.

What about the reputation of Linda? Why are they suddenly interested in "saving" 3abn, for the sake of the church, but would allow the crumpy irrisponsible board members, Danny and his groupies to stay when they are the ones responsible in whole for what is happening? They have their one chance to fix this, if they are going to do it, they better do it right, because that is what people are watching to see. I know I am.

I talk to Linda regularly, we have talked about this before. I will bring it up again.
And I'm fairly certain, she would take it ONLY if the majority of the admin there and leadership there were GONE.
But, we are really thinking hypothetical here....she would do what God told her to do. And I know she has forgiven people, but I don't think she would be able to trust these un-christian people to be her "co-workers" for God. It's a curious thought, isn't it?

I've not been able to verify anything about their entire Trust Services Group being eliminated. However, I do know that four emplyees were terminated in the April/May 2006 timeframe. Could this be the source of what you describe above? Or were there details in what you heard that would seem to indicate that there has been other and more recent action taken in addition to these four employees being dropped?

3ABN Scandinavia? I think everyone here who watches 3ABN directly do so either by streaming or from satelite.

The only other channel with adventist programing in sweden (besides 3abn and Hope on satelite) that I am aware of, http://www.ereach.se/resources/about.html, hmm... They initiated and participated in producing two good campmeeting events this year that they filmed, the first with David Assherick and team and the secound with Doug B as one of two main speakers. The focus on witnessing which was especially clear in the easter campmeeting with Assherick has been very well recieved around here. They carry 3abn produced programs, but hey, noone is perfect

I dont know anything about their relationships with 3abn beyond which can be read at the linked webpages. The reason I mention this channel in reply to your question is the connection made by http://www.adventist.se/econtent/3554/.htmls mentioning 3abn as the place where the founders of this channel learned how to produce tv (the article is entierly in swedish).

Brother Bill,

Exactly what is this rumor based on? To toss out a question like this and add more fuel to the devil's fire is not responsible. If you are going to make insinuations, accusations, or float a red herring then support it with something substantial, something that even gives your question a semblance of realistic weight.

I just finished watching the two-hour "3ABN Live" program. I thought I heard Danny say, briefly, that he and Brandy were leaving 3ABN for an absence of two or three months.

This has the semblance of realistic weight when Mr. Shelton said it, himself, assuming I heard right.

Please explain for me PP how a man taking a leave from what has obviously been a difficult time can be used as evidence that the Trust Services Dept. has been done away with?

Granted Linda has been through much - but can you name an individual who is REALLY involved in all of this who wouldn't need a rest after the past two years?

Speculation, innuendo, that is all I read here - not much substantiated truth.

PD,

Except possibly within an online discussion where not all posts are read, context is often absent, and tossing out something like that can be misconstrued as "truth" as a discussion starter.

For instance, what "IF" I posted here and claimed that I knew you were the wife of the Lake Region Conference President and you had a personal axe to grind with one of the employees of 3ABN. But - I began it this way:

"I heard that PrincessDi is the wife of the Lake Region Conference President, and she had a run in with so-and-so at 3ABN and THAT is why she is so vehemently against 3ABN and its ministry - can anyone tell me if this is true?"

Now, a wander in here who happens across it but doesn't bother to see if there is any support or denial of this statement might just very well head out the door with this tidbit in their minds as truth.

Online dialogue is dangerous.

I understand your concern, however, the only thing I can tell you is that you are one of the few who took it as you did. Most took it in the context that BB ws asking a question. You will see in subsequesnt posts that more research is suggested after no one had an answe to the question. You can't tell someone how to phrase their posts. BB Asked the question, and so far, you are the only one who misunderstood. You may consider observing for a while longer, so you can get a "feel" for the site. QUOTE(Siriss @ Aug 11 2006, 07:56 AM)

As has been stated here many times before ..... this is not a courtroom..... it is a bulletin board. And it is a bulletin board where any who want to do so may come and post.... and it is very easy to tell.... if one reads enough..... whether the person is a participant, a witness, a researcher, a reader who is trying to put things together, or a heckler who is trying to distract the readers.

But to your question more directly..... The "pull" that anyone here has is dependent on who they are in real life and what they do in the background. And when they are working in the background they are using their own names and have the full strength of their characters, service records, training, circles of influence, and all of the other accouterments that go with being a person of influence. Here they may or may not use their real names, and they may or may not ever put their words on the screen.

I repeat. This is a bulletin board. Many more are reading it than merely the names you see on your screen. Whatever they take from here finds its "verification" and its value in the use made of it. Not in the identity of the one who typed the words.

According to a post over at MSDAOL, it seems there is a question as to whether or not Danny Shelton actually announced that he will be taking a leave of absence. This is why a video-tape of this program and announcment is important, which I hope somebody has done. In any case, there will be another repeat of this live program.

Has anybody here verified this with a 3ABN official as to whether this is true or not?

QUOTE(Siriss @ Aug 11 2006, 09:56 AM)

How much pull does anyone on these forums have as most are posting under personas and cannot be verifiably reputable?

You assume that the only dialog ongoing about this situation is what you see posted here... and even with the personas and screen names, some people have identified who they are and what their connection is to 3ABN and/or Danny Shelton... and, as such their statements are verifiable and knowing the speaker behind the persona, credible and their credibility, where it corroborates the statements of those who feel divulging their identity would put them or others at risk, makes the whole credible...

Yes, it could be a coincidence that Danny is taking an extended leave of absence from 3ABN, despite the predictions of oncoming change that have been dropped here of late... but that would take almost as great a leap of faith as believing none of what has been stated has any truth to it whatsoever.

In His service,
Mr. J

I was watching the repeat online last night, had to get some sleep, told a buddy of mine to watch, he reported to me that he heard Danny himself say it. I'm sure he will verify it, as will others. I know I didn't see it, but I do have it from someone that SAW IT.

yeah, it will be on the repeat unless they edit it out... which is entirely possible...
I remember one LIVE where we had to stay an extra hour to a edit a 10 minute part where Danny didn't like what he said.

I've not been able to verify anything about their entire Trust Services Group being eliminated. However, I do know that four emplyees were terminated in the April/May 2006 timeframe. Could this be the source of what you describe above? Or were there details in what you heard that would seem to indicate that there has been other and more recent action taken in addition to these four employees being dropped?

What I heard referred to something more recent than the terminations in April/May. Again, it is just rumor I am trying to confirm.

QUOTE(fallible humanbeing @ Aug 10 2006, 10:37 PM)

Brother Bill,

Exactly what is this rumor based on? To toss out a question like this and add more fuel to the devil's fire is not responsible. If you are going to make insinuations, accusations, or float a red herring then support it with something substantial, something that even gives your question a semblance of realistic weight.

My goal is not to insinuate, accuse, or add fuel to any fire. I just asked a question to confirm something I heard while speaking with a colleague who used to work at 3ABN.

I heard it. And now we know others heard it, too, and interpreted the remark the same way.

In other words, nobody interpreted it as a "working vacation," they heard "leave of absence."

Yes, those tapes are edited, afterward. Sometimes people stay behind to tape a second person's "nodding head" that can be spliced into a lengthy monologue given by a speaker.

On later "rebroadcasts," we see the speaker, then someone nodding at those remarks, and then back to the speaker, and then someone nodding, and then back to the speaker, etc.

The re-run ends up looking more polished than the "live" program.

I saw the program live myself when it first came over last night. I observed that all the big guns in management of 3ABN were in the drawing room set with Brandy and Danny. Danny spoke about wanting revival and reformation in his life and taking some months break with Brandy in order to seek God's face. They did not make it sound like any major happening but placed in the context of what is being discussed here, it may have been a red herring to take people's mind off his real reason for going on vacation/ a break.

I wonder why he did not think of taking that break when the mess with Linda broke out? I wonder why?

Well, last night, basically 3ABN showed that they were ready to fight. Much talk about lies, insinuations, character assassinations and persecution. Danny really made himself sound like a victim. I suppose that that may bring in more sympathy funds. John Lomacang said unequivocally that 3ABN is not going anywhere. Rest assured! There were three devotional presentations to encourage them to hold on in this socalled crisis.

Yeah, so far, Brandy has been on the set a few times with Danny but not saying much.

> But to your question more directly..... The "pull" that anyone here has is dependent on who they are in real life and what they do in the background. And when they are working in the background they are using their own names and have the full strength of their characters, service records, training, circles of influence, and all of the other accouterments that go with being a person of influence. Here they may or may not use their real names, and they may or may not ever put their words on the screen.

So then, it is the pull of the individual when they are off the forum--not the pull of those "on" the forum. My misunderstanding. I thought the original poster of the idea was referring to the strength of the forum--not the strength of the individuals.

There are different kinds of strengths and values. The forum is not an activist group. That is, we do not expect any power action to come from this forum.

The forum DOES however, have a very important function in and of itself. It serves as a meeting place, a bulletin board, a way of persons who thought they were isolated and alone finding others like themselves. And the things that are posted here remain as silent witnesses and information packets in a place where all may come and read and be informed.

Without an open place like this, it is all too easy for those who have the ability to act should they choose to do so, to do whatever they do in secret or to do nothing at all.

For way too long our church has operated in secrecy. Abuse victims are bought off by "settling out of court" ... and no one knows that a predator was even in the land. Victims of discrimation are likewise bought off and go their way, without the church members even knowing that the discrimation happened, or that government authorities acted upon it. This secrecy should not be. We as church members have the right to know if a teacher is fired because she stood up for another teacher who was being discriminated against. But we don't. Only if we personally know the individual do we have any idea that legal action has even taken place. All we know is that two teachers who were there are not now there.

But how do we spread that information until such a time as the church itself sets new policies for itself .. policies that include not only accountability in ethical matters, but also policies for informing church members as a whole as to what has taken place, and what measures have been taken to correct the situation and to ensure that it not happen again?

Until then, places like this are our best tools and our most effective means of communication.

Well, I'll try again to post to this thread. It is my humble opinion that whatever Danny may have said last night about him and Brandy taking a 'leave of absence' is more about trying to convince people that he knows he needs to make changes in his life. However, I think it is only a smoke screen to try to fool Brandy, first of all, and then those faithful followers in the audience. As I wrote to Don Schneider today, who is a very personal acquaintance of my sister, she has personal knowledge of much of the behavior described in 'The Televangelist.' She is also a former member of the Springfield, Illinois church where Linda went after her firing and in talking with friends from there, was told how upset the placement of John Stanton made the people, especially as it related to removing Linda from any place in the church doings. She also knew Danny personally when he tried to become a literature evangelist. Her husband was the top salesman in Illinois and it was obvious that Danny had no desire to follow any of the programs that were in place. It was also very obvious that there was great trouble in the marriage and it was shortly after his stint at book sales that she was killed in the accident. The document regarding Kay's making plans to leave

Danny was very much true to what was being observed by my sister and others in the literature camp. My sister will be contacting Don Schneider as soon as she can and I will report to you what we find out, or not, from him. It is entirely possible that he will not be able to say much or will say things that must stay 'off the record' for now. In any case I will let you know the outcome.

If the allegations regarding molestation in the recent addition to the "televangelist" thread are true, then that is a far more likely cause of this departure than any trust department.

I think if someone with kids had just married someone who was alleged to have been molested they would want a break too.

Posted by: beartrap Aug 13 2006, 12:09 AM

I don't know Brandy well, but I do know her well enough to say that if she appears uncomfortable in public appearances, doesn't say much, and seems to try hiding behind her hair, she is not someone who seeks the limelight, or wants to be seen. Indeed, from my interaction with her, and what I know of her, Brandy is a fine person who, in trying to do the best she can for the futures of herself and her children, has become swept up in something that is far bigger than she can imagine. I will not go into detail, but I will say that she has demonstrated to me in very practical and personal ways that she has a big heart. I feel badly for her that she has fallen into the mess that currently engulfs her, but I would give Brandy a big hug any time, and let her know that I wish her and her children the very best.

BlackSDA _ 3ABN _ Found On The 3abn Website

Posted by: September Aug 11 2006, 10:24 AM

This was on the 3ABN website today....interesting in light of the events taking place there..

QUOTE

Moments with Dr. Richards

Keep At Your Work

"The Lord has given to every man his work. It is his business to do it and the devil's business to hinder him if he can. So surely as God has given you a work to do, Satan will try to hinder you. He may present other things more promising, He may allure you by worldly prospects, He may assault you with slander, torment you with false accusations, set you to work defending your character, employ pious persons to lie about you, editors to assail you, and excellent men to slander you. You may have Pilate and Herod, Annas and Caiaphas all combined against you, and Judas standing by ready to sell you for thirty pieces of silver; and you may wonder why all those things come upon you. Can you not see that the whole thing is brought about through the craft of the devil to draw you off from your work and hinder your obedience to God?

Keep about your work. Do not flinch because the lion roars; do not stop to stone the devil's dogs; do not fool away your time chasing the devil's rabbits. Do your work. Let liars lie, let sectarians quarrel, let corporations resolve, let editors publish, let the devil do his worst; but see to it that nothing hinders you from fulfilling the work that God has given you.

He has not sent you to make money. He has not commanded you to get rich.
He has never bidden you to defend your character. He has not set you at work to contradict falsehood which Satan and his servants may start to peddle. If you do these things, you will do nothing else; you will be at work for yourself and not for the Lord.

Keep about your work. Let your AIM be as steady as a star. Let the world brawl and bubble. You may be assaulted, wronged, insulted, slandered, wounded and rejected; you may be abused by foes, forsaken by friends, and despised and rejected of men, but see to it with steadfast determination, with unfaltering zeal, that you pursue the great purpose of your life and object of your being, until at last you can say, 'I have finished the work which Thou gavest me to do.'

Yes, isn't it. It's also interesting how differently the words come out when they are taken, as I'm sure Dr. Richards intended them, as applying to the poor struggling Christian who is genuinely being "persecuted for righteousness sake"..... as contrasted with how they sound when applied to a man who has been persecuting others and who is only beginning to get a small percentage of the punishment he deserves for that.

Please .. did ANYONE tape this program? If so, please transcribe Shelly Quinn's "sermonette" so we can all take a look at it. Tune in to 3ABN right now as Mollie continues the fight. She spoke again of 3ABN being God's work and that anyone who speaks against the ministry speaks against God. Also please note she is speaking of the vision of 3ABN and the needs for more money. She says that 3ABN are very good stewards of God's money. She is asking for people to join in the unfolding of the mission. They are relaying a re-run from the last Camp Meeting. Yeah, 3ABN is digging their heels in and getting very ready for the fight.

Is it yours, mine, Linda's, Johann's role to mete out punishment? What about NAD leadership, GC? Doesn't God handle this? And, would He handle it by employing one of us to do it?

Speaking for WB - but I don't think that "persecution" is the "GOD given work"....no more than it is a "GOD given work" to run a religion/religious affiliation as one sees fit and not by any real "rules" ("for self").....

BTW: if the case is that "GOD handles" all stuff as "this" then there is no need for laws right - I mean...after all "GOD will handle it"

I'm jes saying.....

This is rather condescending, isn't it, this " in order to understand the tone " nonsense?

Me thinks you understand everything quite well. That's probably the problem, isn't it?

How is a statement such as, "I want to know if you feel that persecution is your God given work" a serious attempt to understand anything? "And would He handle it by employing one of us?"

These are ad hominem missiles.

I know it was addressed to Watchbird, but I see no reason for her to respond to this.

Yup. Condescending and ad hominem -- like every post so far.

Fallible's posting pattern does not match his stated purpose. He says he wants "the truth" yet demonstrates no evidence of understanding anything that's been posted here while saying he's read it all.

Fallible, if you want "conversation," please be polite and converse instead of attacking folks who have had more than their share of attacks in this life. In the biblical parable, the priest and the scribe merely passed by on the other side. Methinks you are casting stones at the wounded while proclaiming that you are being attacked!

Posted by: beartrap Aug 12 2006, 01:13 AM

Casting stones at the wounded, and at the Samaritans seems to be all too common in the context of "Christianity."

Thanks .... but I do have something to say in this context.

I definitely think that standing up against persecution ... and against those who persecute ... is a "God given work", for we are all called to do Christ's work, and this certainly was Christ's work... note how he defines his own mission in Luke 4:18

"The Spirit of the Lord is upon me, because he hath anointed me to preach the gospel to the poor;
he hath sent me to heal the brokenhearted, to preach deliverance to the captives, and recovering of sight to the blind, to set at liberty them that are bruised,"

And I personally feel called to that task to the limit of my ability and opportunity ... both of which are, admittedly, very limited. But a long time ago in response to a question as what single Bible text would I most want others to apply to me, I instinctively knew that it was Mark 14:8a..... "She hath done what she could". So while I know that fallible intended this comment to be a sneer that implied I was being a persecutor..... in the sense that "persecution" is a class of things against which I fight ... I would have to say that "Yes. I believe that is my God given work".

"And would He handle it by employing one of us?"

How else does God handle his work here on earth? I don't know about fallible, but I grew up in a church that taught us to recite ..... "God hath no hands but our hands....to do His work today".... So yes, I think He would "handle it" by "employing" not "one of us", but each of us ... so that by binding ourselves together ... including all those who are weak and can only lift a little as well as those who have power and influence at their command and who could thus lift a lot ... we can finally accomplish God's will in our church, and erradicate evil wherever it may be found ... and not only in 3ABN, though that is the most urgent place to begin.

If you don't know what is true why perpetuate the problem by passing along gossip and hearsay when you yourself don't know what is true. Why would the 3ABN board ask Linda to leave and not Danny? Linda was the one who draws viewers to the show. Have you ever talked to Danny with tears in his voice? And he NEVER said a bad word about Linda. Every bit of it has been he said she said when Danny has not said a word! So stop it! Everyone just needs to stop it! Our church has been through far great tragedies, like the Great Disappointment when the whole world thought we were crazy. But we came through and are the fastest growing church in the world. So stop it. Don't you trust God to handle this without our help? If you don't trust God to handle it you need to read my book. He didn't need us at creation, He will not need us when He restores the earth, He don't need us to help run heaven and straighten it out. He doesn't need us on earth to straighten this out either. "Thou will be done on EARTH as it is done in heaven." We are the ones stopping His will from being done on EARTH because WE CAN FIX ANYTHING without Him.

welcome to the forum and thank you for your comments.... however, stopping our discussion about 3abn probably will not happen.... not today anyway..... Danny has said several bad words about Linda, maybe you missed them....

Just as you are stating that he "has never said a bad word about Linda...." we have letters directly from the man to this board/operators of this board.... that say much more.....

I advise reading all of the 3ABN threads here....reading all of the personal letters....and all the personal accounts of people that have worked right next to Danny & Linda particularly during the divorce saga.

After reading all of that and not seeing Danny as being a part of "something" fishy - then ..... my LERD!

You are right Debra that we should not perpetuate gossip. The problem is, I don't believe that is happening here. I WAS there counseling with Linda and Danny during their break-up and divorce. It is just not accurate to say that Danny never said a bad word about Linda. My wife and I were APPALLED and DISGUSTED by some of the things he said and actions he took. While I don't pretend to know everything that happened, I have not read anything on this forum that could not be true based on what I do know.

You are also right that this Church has been through far greater tragedies, but should that stop us from righting this one? The fact is that the truth is coming out, the Church will have to deal with it, and the Church will be stronger if they do what is right.

"On February 21, 1988, on his television show taped in Baton Rouge, Louisiana, Swaggart tearfully confessed that he was guilty of an unspecified sin and made comparisons to himself and King David. Because he would not submit to the authoritative discipline and rehabilitative policies of the Assemblies of God, his ordination was revoked. As a result, Swaggart spent a considerable amount of time, in church and on television, blasting the Assemblies of God for its "unforgiving" stances. Swaggart lost much of his audience after these events. Swaggart subsequently blamed his problems on "demons" and claimed that controversial evangelist Oral Roberts had "cast out the demons" over the phone, thus assuring Swaggart was now free of moral defect

On October 11, 1991, in Indio, California, police stopped Swaggart for driving on the wrong side of the road. In the car with him was yet another prostitute , named Rosemary Garcia. No sex-related charges were filed in that incident."

He warned his congregation afterwards that "God says it's none of your business! "

(Above from Wikipedia)

My point was that, even after the tears, Swaggart was found with yet another prostitute. In other words, the tears were indicative of nothing.

Posted by: princessdi Aug 10 2006, 05:03 PM

If I am not mistaken, he was caught more than once after this tearful performance.

The way I figure, there would still be "Danny Shelton" types - they are good for us really, they teach us the difference (by being them selves) between what is good and what is evil, what pain is, when to say NO, when to stand up and say ENOUGH LEADERSHIP FROM YOU THANK YOU, etc. They by their being, can make us stronger if they don't kill us first. It's definanitely the harder road, but, worth it in the end, especially since we can't get away from them on this planet and we might as well learn all we can and see if we can't learn to put them at the bottom of the food chain.

Also, if there was no DS, there would be no Melody, or grandchildren, maybe no great friend Derrel among us, or this great and mighty section on BSDA that is a source of education to the SDA and beyond world.

OK, this was probably not what you had in mind, but it's how my mind reacted. And, I'll probably be back.... you got it going now...

OK, this was probably not what you had in mind, but it's how my mind reacted. And, I'll probably be back.... you got it going now...

I took the question as being intended for the future, beginning now, not as being intended to ask the time travel question as to what the world would have been like had there never been a Danny Shelton.

We are where we are. And there is what there is and who there is -- including those who are hurting and living in fear because of what has been done and are haunted by thoughts (and threats) of what may yet be done. And this will continue so long as Danny Shelton is around with enough power and backing so that he can continue to do as he has done.

There is a long list of ways in which the world would be different if Danny were now removed from the scene. (Not all of them that could be told even then.) It will take much more than a "moment" to list only a few samples. But what we must not forget is that the evil that Danny has unleashed on the world is not sourced from Danny alone. He has trained others, and they have learned his lessons well, so removing Danny alone would not make all the changes that need to be made.

Will there "always be Danny Shelton types"? Perhaps there will. And perhaps we can learn from them what evil looks like close up and specific. But that does not mean that "they are good for us really". To say that is to make evil look like a necessity. And if it were, then it could hardly be called evil. But whatever the use of evil in God's plan for the universe, the Adventist church does not need to give it their "stamp of approval" nor advertise it as "the face of Adventism".

It is this that I resent more highly than anything else in this whole set of affairs. Danny would not be able to deceive any where near so many people, nor seduce so many, nor abuse so many, nor harass so many, nor control so many if it were not for that (IMO damnable) "SDA Seal of Approval" with which it enters homes and Adventist churches all around the world, stealing from the offering box of the very churches that promote it.

More later.....

stay tuned..... sna

you pot-stirring chain-yanker you! Now, you didn't want to be specific, so I went general. Now you are trying to get me to say I was specific ("entire world"). I don't think I said the entire world. You stated "the world" which means ANYONE in the WHOLE world that might KNOW the man in SOME way. (I like to use capitals to emphasize) and even those that may eventually (in the world) have a connection to him. Now, this is not to say that he doesn't ever do something good for someone....and many someones THINK he has, even when his motives were not pure, but, if we are talking gereralities, (you also just got me to place a judgement on his life worth, which I now feel I better ask forgiveness for!) it's good commen sense to think that a person of his "type" can hurt less people if he did not exist. Why do I feel like we are talking about Sadaam Hussein, or any of the other tyrant/control freaks in "the world"???

Posted by: Clay Aug 3 2006, 12:33 PM

you may be discussing Sadam like characters... somehow though I find it difficult to believe that the millions of people starving to death in the Sudan know about Mr. Shelton and could care less, unless of course he has sent them humanitarian aid...

I think that perhaps you have broadened your question a little too much. Everyone has "circles of influence". Those who are most affected.... for good or bad.... are those whose lives are touched most closely by Danny Shelton's actions. But, like the ever widening ripples of water, lives further from the center are also affected. And the cumulative effect goes on touching more and more lives as it moves outward.

Danny's stated goal is to have an effect on every person in the world, at least through the medium of television. That of course, is impossible, for millions of people will never see a television in their whole lifetime.

But there is another way of measuring the effects of a man's life on others than merely asking how his life now affects others and how would their lives be different if he were suddenly doing nothing.... and that is to ask how would "the world" be different if he were doing, and had been doing, something different than what he has and is.

In this vein, think for a moment what it might have meant to at least part of those people starving in Sudan if the money that Danny diverted to his own pockets and "toys" had been given instead to ADRA. That is not to suggest that all of the people in the world would suddenly have been well fed and housed had Danny inspired people to give to organizations which were actually living as well as spreading the gospel. Even Bill Gates with his billions only makes a dent in world hunger. Nor does it suggest that it is helpful to philosophize about "what might have been".

The point is not what effect Danny might have on those with whom he never came in contact. The point is what difference would it make to those with whom Danny DOES "make a difference". What kind of difference does Danny make in their lives? Would THEIR worlds be better if he (and all of his assistants) were suddenly to disappear?

The answer is, of course, is yes. A very resounding, YES.

How would their worlds be different? How would they be "better"? The answers will vary to the extent that their experiences vary.

Posted by: Clay Aug 3 2006, 01:05 PM

the question started off broadly, some of the responses attempted to narrow it... I asked how would the "world" be different... and I was speaking in global terms.... not our little necks of the woods per se....

While this is definitely true, it is also true that there are manyof those who "don't have a clue as to who he is who are affected by his presence (and would be affected by his absence).

I haven't seen him either, but I don't know why a tall man would build a house for a 6'4' man and make the ceiling on the second floor only 6' tall.....so I'm concluding that Danny is well under 6' tall.

OTOH..... It has been said that "a man is as tall as the shadow he casts". Danny casts a very long, very dark, shadow.

I'm gonna take an educated guess here as I have seen them both. I think Linda is around 5'7" & yes if memory serves me Danny is shorter than her.

The average member doesn't have a clue what is going on at 3ABN, other than the fact that Danny divorced Linda for being unfaithful to him. Some don't even know that he is also married again.

They were the same height when they married, and Linda always wore flats, Danny wore cowboy boots or something to give him some height, but he has been shrinking some over the past years, and he would be "blessed" to be at 5'7 now, but it probably shorter then that. I have that from a "credible" source

AND, his first wife was 4'10 - REALLY short! Melody is only 5' tall. I have this too from a credible source Ü

A strange thing about Danny. He can stand before an audience and try to cover his mistakes by stressing his lack of education and his inability to speak accordingly. He does it with a way of making the people feel attached to him because of it. He used to say that Linda kept him in line to keep him from saying the wrong thing. This kind of behaviour will always indear the speaker to his listeners. Never think that it comes from the heart--it is a way of charming the people to make them feel that he is bigger than he really is. Then he will say "God spoke to me and told me to say or do whatever." When he thinks that he has his arms securely wrapped around the ' grey hair' audience, then he starts talking about his need for money to keep 3ABN afloat. He is a very small complex salesman.

Posted by: BrotherBill Aug 9 2006, 12:36 PM

As someone who has met Danny on many occasions, I can assure you that he is of a small nature. As for his height, Danny is 5'7". By comparison, Linda is just over 5'8".

BlackSDA _ 3ABN _ 3abn Appeal

Posted by: LadyTenor Jul 22 2006, 06:05 PM

So today at church, TWO announcements were made, appealing to the congregants to write to Dish Network and request that they put 3ABN on their lineup...mind you, one of these requests came from Wintley Phipps himself.

Apparently, Danny Shelton made the appeal on 3ABN this past Thursday night because Sky Angel has released 3ABN from its contract. According to one of the elders in the church, it would be better for 3ABN to move to Dish Network because the network has 30 million suscribers and would reach far more people than when 3ABN was on Sky Angel.

Now I am all for the Gospel and the Word of God being spread to the far corners of the earth, and 3ABN is more than capable of helping in that endeavor. But as I saw the delight on the faces of people sitting around me at the prospect of 3ABN going to Dish Network, all I could think of is Danny Shelton and the nonsense and unChristianlike behavior that he has shown in the situation regarding his now ex-wife.

I told my husband I will not give 3ABN one red cent. He does not visit blacksda.com, but after hearing what I have told him about what is being discussed here, all he says is that Danny Shelton will be answerable to Someone much higher than any of us....and he is not inclined to donate any money to 3ABN, nor write to Dish Network. We were never interested in 3ABN for other reasons, but now that the Danny mess has come to our attention, we won't support it passively or otherwise...

Is it wrong of me to, in my heart, wish 3ABN fails because it is lining Danny's pocket when it just might expose millions of people to the Gospel (not that Danny should not have to account for his sins like any other church member who might have done what he did)?

Or is this a time when I should just let go and let God??

May I suggest some parallel questions?

s it wrong to wish that a thief "fails" to find more victims?
s it wrong to wish that an abuser fails to find respectability, giving him access to more victims?
When you see evil being done, is that a time "to let go and let God," or is it a time to do what you can o stop the evil?

f we fail to do what we can to stop evil from spreading and gaining respectability, are we innocent?

Of course, in answering those questions, we need to consider the counsel of Jesus to be "wise as serpents, harmless as doves." It is possible to do damage while trying to stop evil, and we need to be careful. But to stand by and do nothing .... ?

LadyTenor, you are now facing the dilemma that many current and former 3ABN employees have experienced. Is it possible to separate the actions of the administration of 3ABN, beginning with Danny Shelton and going on down the list, with the Christ centered programming that it airs? Those of us who have struggled with this quandary have also felt the pangs of indecision in regard to what at first sight appears an irreconcilable dichotomy. One the one hand, there is the carefully hidden corruption that has existed behind the scenes: the fraudulent claims upon which Danny has built up the ministry and his orchestrated campaigns of deceit designed to put into disrepute the reputations of those who choose to question his duplicitous actions. On the other hand there is the Christ centered programming...

There was a time when 3ABN had the monopoly on SDA programming, but it is no longer the only show in town. Now there is the Hope channel, SDA programming without a dictator. It has much of the same programming that 3ABN has from other SDA sources and it is producing more original programming all the time. In addition, if all the SDA's that are now donating to 3ABN would switch to Hope, it would continue to grow much faster than 3ABN did in the same number of years and there would be accountability for all donated funds. NO MORE SECRETS, which has become the downfall of the house that Danny built.

What if everyone started a write in campaign to get Hope on Dish Network, instead of 3ABN? Then the same 30 million subscribers would still have the same opportunity to have Christ centered programming. It might be much less embarrassing to the church when Danny Shelton's unchristlike behavior is finally revealed publically. So now you can actively support the spread of the Gospel and leave Danny behind in the dust.

No, it is not wrong to want to see injustice end. Millions of people can still be exposed to the Gospel without lining Danny Shelton's pockets. 3ABN is no longer the only show in town. And I am sure the day will come when Danny will have to account for his sins like any other church member who might have done what he did given the same lack of accountability.

Don't let go LadyTenor! Danny's victims need voices like yours that are willing to plead their case. Individuals like you who love the Lord and who are willing to speak for those whose voices have been silenced. Linda is not the only one under a gag order. For others it is not through signing a contract under duress, but through the circumstances of their current employment. I know of a certain individual who could loose their current position in another Adventist organization if that person where to become too involved publically in the situation involving Danny, Linda and 3ABN.
Like Christ, we can become the advocate of those who have suffered at the hands of Danny Shelton.

I got a letter in the mail from them today on that topic. I personally won't support it & I have to say under present leadership at 3ABN it would be in the best interest it don't air to that many people. Just think of those that once it all falls apart & the damage it could do to new converts.

Yes, YES!! That's something positive we can do to help HopeTV!

I note that a petition to add 3ABN to the Dish Network line-up is online, but I wonder how much good those online petitions do, because the signatures are pretty easy to forge. (Don't ask me how I know.) It probably can't hurt to mount such a petition, but email and snail mail directly to the Dish Network would be much more effective, I'm sure.

The online petition for 3ABN is here:
http://www.petitiononline.com/3abndish/petition.html Someone could draft a HopeTV petition and put it online at the same place. I wouldn't put my own email address in there, because such a site can easily be used to collect addresses for spamming.

Another idea for those not currently customers of the Dish Network would be to inquire whether you would be able to view HopeTV if you subscribed to their service, and give the URL to their web site. If they received a few thousand such inquiries, it will make an impression, I suspect.

In the words of an illustrious Evangelist, "3ABN is the face of the church to the world, and Danny Shelton is the face of 3ABN." So lets ask some more questions.

- Do you want Danny Shelton to represent you, your values, your morals, and your religion to 30 million more people?

- Are you comfortable that he is the true icon of the virtues and ideals that you embrace? To 30 million more people?

- Do you believe that the sacrifice of principle is a fair price to pay for numbers?

- Do you want to say to the world "Yes, Danny Shelton represents me. What he is, is what I am."

Because whoever writes that letter to Dishnetwork is saying that, whether they mean to or not.

Hmmmm... 80% scandal in the advertised lineup. I think I could make a fortune as an agent for guys like Jim Bakker, marketing them into the Adventist circles. How bout getting some of those Catholic priests like father Geigan, at this rate they would be a huge hit in our political and church circles. If I just took 2% off the top I'd be living on a golf course in Malibu.

How about those of you, who know personally about Danny Shelton, contacting this host pastor and telling him about all of this?

Should we abandon 3ABN because of its leader? The network has done much good in spreading the gospel to the far reaches of the Earth. Can God not still work through it? Was God not able to work in Israel when the king was wicked?

Well, I see things a little different, especially with all the info that has been coming out about 3ABN and even about HOW 3ABN got started in the first place - by basically telling lies and calling them "miracles".

Perhaps God doesn't look at 3ABN any different than He does any other denominations "ministry" that finally shows it's true colors? If the Lord didn't have His hand in it from the beginning and I don't see how He could, cause He doesn't use deception, I'm not so sure He'll have His hand in it's ending, either....

I believe that God works with honest minds, wherever they are....there are honest souls who are led to Christ even while in the Catholic faith, right? Is it because of the Catholic religion? I don't believe so - it is INSPITE OF the Catholic relgion, it is BECAUSE they are truly seeking for light, and God won't let anyone down who is truly seeking for light, will He?

That is how I see it with 3ABN...how else could it be? Do you really believe that God would give His blessing to a "Ministry" that is built on "miracles" that are really concocted lies for the purpose of getting people to send in their money????

God will reach people wherever they are - if they are truly seeking....INSPITE of the place they are.

I realize the thought that "3ABN perhaps was NEVER of God" is hard for many to accept...but, think about it - just because WE think some Church or Ministry is of the Lord doesn't make it "of the Lord". You can be sure there are many sincere Catholics who put their trust in their Church, just as many SDA's have put their trust in 3ABN...but no matter how sincere those Catholics are or how sincere we Adventists are, it doesn't make the Catholic church God's church or 3ABN God's Ministry.

Quote:

The Lord sets men in positions of responsibility to carry out not their own will, but God's will. He gives wisdom to those who seek Him and depend upon Him as their Counselor. So long as men represent the pure principles of His government, He will continue to bless and maintain them as His instrumentalities to carry out His purposes concerning His people. He cooperates with those who cooperate with Him.--Manuscript 81, 1900, p. 12 (Diary, "Solomon's Reign"). {ChL 60.1}

From what we have been reading does it sound like 3ABN has been operating on "pure principles"? Surely not!

Quote:

The Lord sets men in responsible places, not to act out their own wills, but His will. So long as they cherish His pure principles of government, He will bless and strengthen them, recognizing them as His instrumentalities. God never forsakes the one who is true to principle. {CC 188.6}

Quote:

"God never forsakes the one who is true to principle."

Obviously, He does forsake those who are NOT true to principle....and if and when they do that, He no longer recognizes them as His instrumentalities.

I think that I am saying something that is going to be a bit of a surprise to anyone who has been an SDA all their lives. Even though I went to church regularly and studied my SS lesson pretty regularly, I was what a lot of people would call a 'lukewarm Christian'.. I sacrificed to send my children through our schools and yes, I did without things that I wanted to pay my tithe. I thought that I could feel safe in my old age if I could be certain that I had not broken any of the ten commandments. Sometimes I woud repeat them over before I went to sleep at night to make sure that, just in case I had misstepped along the way, I could ask for forgiveness in case I would not wake up the next morning. Maybe you might call this 'legalism'. But in truth, I never had a personal relationship with Jesus.

THen 3ABN came along and I trusted Danny and Linda to the fullest and I felt that 3ABN had changed my life. For years I went along thinking that everytime I turned 3ABN on in my home, that I was inviting true Christians to share my day and bring Jesus farther into my home. FOr the first time I felt like I knew who Jesus was.

THen all this 3ABN trouble became public and I felt so sorry for Danny because I really believed everything that he and others said about Linda abandoning her mission to the world. I wondered "Where is Linda?" So I began to really read everything that I could about her departure and I realized that Danny not only was untruthful but he was downright dishonest. I personally wrote to him for an answer and his answer was meaningless. I became disallusioned, not only with 3ABN but with all the other speakers who I had trusted and really believed had been sent to the world via 3ABN. THey all seemed to hang on to the story that Danny had been wronged and Linda was an adulteress..To this day I am not sure what they all believe. I don't know who to trust.

The question is "How do we know that people will not fail to hear the message if 3ABN no longer exists?". With the realization that 3ABN had been dishonest all the time with their miracle stories, I began to distrust everything they all had to say. I had to hang on to Christ to keep me from combining my own lifelong faith with their dishonesty and I felt like walking away from it all. Now I believe that we can equate this story with the question that is asked, "What is going to happen to all these new believers when and if 3ABN tumbles and we may be responsible for a part of it?". Maybe it would be better if they were left with the honesty and truthfullness of other resources like Hope TV, Safe TV and LLTV and others. If they get the message from a dishonest messenger and then find it out, how disallusioned will they be when the truth is known.? They may not have a past lifetime in the SDA Church and our beliefs to hang on to until they separate 3ABN from the rest of our denomination. How many of them will fall along the wayside then?. And can we really blame them if they give, as many of us have given, to 3ABN and now find that we have helped to line Danny's pockets.? God works through our hands and we need to do what he would have us to do. I think that God is asking us to do the part that we feel that He would have us to do.

Posted by: Uncle Sam Jul 31 2006, 09:48 AM

I too wanted to believe Danny, he looked like a broken man. I couldn't believe what they said about Linda. I was so saddened by the whole mess. Than when Danny remarried, I lost all faith in him. I don't know if he had grounds to remarry but I felt the whole thing was so secretive. That it makes me wonder what else was done in secret.

I too wrote Danny and John Lomagang. John, I feel, lied to me. We were up there not too long ago, about 2 months ago. I saw many things I was not comfortable with. I have lost faith in 3ABN, which saddens me too. I hope all is resolved and the truth comes out soon. If needed the leadership be replaced or confess of any wrong doing.....

amen. me too. diddo on all of this. Most of what you said has been my journey too - only I was never a 3abn follower in any way. Never liked Danny. He always seemed very insincere to me (along with boring and blah). Linda was the one that seemed to be "connected" to Jesus, so listening to her when I did catch it in someones home or online, she always had something of meaning and value to say that was practical and useful. More of a relationship type message from her I think. Anyway, strange to know everything now, isn't it? I think it's reflective of who had what mission all along....

Hey, Uncle Sam, waiting for you. Thanks!

Sorry, I haven't had too much time lately. I saw where some of the employees live. 3Abn housing...it was REALLY bad. I had only seen the nice apartments before. Also, in the John Lomacang's sermon for the 10 Commandment weekend, it was on adultery. He said some things which I felt were "attacks" on Linda. I wrote him about it and I feel like he lied to me either that or the devil really has him snowed....

Thank you, Uncle Sam. Please add what ever more you remember later.

QUOTE(sister @ Jul 22 2006, 08:56 PM)

LadyTenor, you are now facing the dilemma that many current and former 3ABN employees have experienced. Is it possible to separate the actions of the administration of 3ABN, beginning with Danny Shelton and going on down the list, with the Christ centered programming that it airs? Those of us who have struggled with this quandary have also felt the pangs of indecision in regard to what at first sight appears an irreconcilable dichotomy. One the one hand, there is the carefully hidden corruption that has existed behind the scenes: the fraudulent claims upon which Danny has built up the ministry and his orchestrated campaigns of deceit designed to put into disrepute the reputations of those who choose to question his duplicitous actions. On the other hand there is the Christ centered programming...

There was a time when 3ABN had the monopoly on SDA programming, but it is no longer the only show in town. Now there is the Hope channel, SDA programming without a dictator. It has much of the same programming that 3ABN has from other SDA sources and it is producing more original programming all the time. In addition, if all the SDA's that are now donating to 3ABN would switch to Hope, it would continue to grow much faster than 3ABN did in the same number of years and there would be accountability for all donated funds. NO MORE SECRETS, which has become the downfall of the house that Danny built.

What if everyone started a write in campaign to get Hope on Dish Network, instead of 3ABN? Then the same 30 million subscribers would still have the same opportunity to have Christ centered programming. It might be much less embarrassing to the church when Danny Shelton's unchristlike behavior is finally revealed publically. So now you can actively support the spread of the Gospel and leave Danny behind in the dust.

No, it is not wrong to want to see injustice end. Millions of people can still be exposed to the Gospel without lining Danny Shelton's pockets. 3ABN is no longer the only show in town. And I am sure the day will come when Danny will have to account for his sins like any other church member who might have done what he did given the same lack of accountability.

Don't let go LadyTenor! Danny's victims need voices like yours that are willing to plead their case. Individuals like you who love the Lord and who are willing to speak for those whose voices have been silenced. Linda is not the only one under a gag order. For others it is not through signing a contract under duress, but through the circumstances of their current employment. I know of a certain individual who could loose their current position in another Adventist organization if that person where to become too involved publically in the situation involving Danny, Linda and 3ABN. Like Christ, we can become the advocate of those who have suffered at the hands of Danny Shelton.

think we'd probably have more luck with DirecTV adding the Hope Channel, because Dish Network ınd Sky Angel still have that contract in place between the two giving Sky Angel first choice over Dish ıetwork regarding all religious networks. Sky Angel recently released 3ABN from that contract ıllowing 3ABN to seek carriage on Dish Network have not heard that the Hope Channel has gotten Sky Angel to release Hope from the Sky Angel /)ish Network agreement.

'herefore, Hope Channel needs to ask Sky Angel what their plans are for "Hope Channel." Does Sky ıngel want Hope Channel or not? With their crippled Echostar III satellite, will Sky Angel even have ;pace for Hope Channel in the future? If not, Hope Channel should be allowed to approach Dish ıetwork in exactly the same way 3ABN is doing.

ıttp://www.directv.com/DTVAPP/global/contentPage.jsp?assetId=1100070

ınd why are the churches passing out 3ABN postcards to be mailed to Dish Network and not Hope :hannel postcards to DirecTV?

Hello Black SDA Friends:

I am new to the web site and became a member in order to comment on the Danny Shelton mess. I live in Berrien Springs, Michigan and am a member of the Village SDA Church. I am, however, considering making a change of membership to the new, Full Gospel Adventist Fellowship/Greater Works Ministry. This is a group being led by a wonderful black ministerial staff in the young ages of 21-30 years old. (I must confess that as a 'old white lady' I have a bit of trouble with their music but don't be too hard on me, okay?) These young people have become acquainted with the teachings of the 'heretical' charismatics who teach a living, breathing working faith which I have never seen in the SDA Church in the whole of my life. God began introducing me to these teachings several years ago by a book called "The Tongue, A Creative Force." I called my 'spiritual advisor' who is a staunch SDA teacher (adjunct professor at Seminary). He just chuckled and said, "Well now, you have run onto one of my sources!" That let me know that I was not being led down the wrong path and I have been examining this teaching since then. I had come to the conclusion that there needs to be a Full Gospel SDA Church which keeps our core doctrines and adds the living faith element of the charismatics. Do they teach the Sabbath, right state of the dead and correct prophetic understanding? No, but they do have a real handle on how to communicate with God in issues of healing, Godly prosperity, who we are in Christ, for a start. They need to understand our doctrines of absolute biblical facts and add to them the heart of Christ as we also need to understand exactly what Christ did for us at the Cross. We think we have the 'truth' but we fall far short of complete gospel truth as Jesus lived it while He was here on earth. ---When I saw the listing in the phone book for the Full Gospel Adventist Fellowship I immediately got in touch with them and am very happy with the direction they are going.

Now to the 3ABN Saga: Question? Does anyone know exactly whether there could have been any other place on the earth for 3ABN to be located? According to Danny there was not. If that is true, then I believe God used what He had in His Hand--And who of us knows but that for a period of time, Danny was listening to God, at least enough that God was able to set up 3ABN through him. It occurs to me that God is now waiting for Danny to 'fill his cup of iniquity' and that perhaps our own efforts to make a change in this situation is only muddying the the waters, keeping God on the sidelines. Perhaps, if we just spend our time in prayer asking God to clean up His work, in His way, it would free Him up to do what He wants to do. I believe Linda was the saving grace of the station for it's growth and influence. At the moment, I believe also that Shelly Quinn might also have been brought on board because of her Full Gospel background to learn all she can about running a project such as 3ABN so that she and Linda can take over the ministry when God has had enough of Danny.

As to Danny and his abusive behavior along with other family members who have not been prosecuted to date, this is the only area where I see that we as people who care about children have a responsibility to be watchful and follow through with the prosecution of the pedophilia and abuse of children. As to the board members they are only acting in the controlling manner in which they have always run their own lives - according to the 'checklist'.

I have more thought on the matter but this is a start. Thanks for listening and giving me your best thoughts on what I have said.

I have more thought on the matter but this is a start. Thanks for listening and giving me your best thoughts on what I have said.

Welcome to BSDA and I am so glad that you recognize that indeed there is a "mess" at Danny Shelton's 3ABN.

However, as to my "best thoughts" on what you have said..... I simply do not know any way to put his gently or tactfully. But yes, it is indeed, a real possibility that Shelly Quinn was "brought on board" because of her Pentacostal background, and that is, IMO, one of the strongest marks against her ... at least in "my book". I am not acquainted with the Full Gospel group in Berrien Springs... and this is a term that can be and is used in a variety of different ways, from ways that do indeed emphasize the gospel of Jesus Christ, to those which encompass even Third Wave Pentacostal beliefs. But Adventism and Pentacostalism are at their core, very different.

It is quite possible that someone fully grounded in scripture could read the book "The Tongue, A Creative Force." and retain the primacy of scripture as the source of information and retain the primary attitude of the Christian ... that God is God and I am not ... and when I pray to God, or when I quote His words as written in scripture, they have no "magical" power that is intrinsic to the words such as is indicated by this quotation from the on-line advertisement for this book..... "God's creative power is still just as it was in the beginning of time, when He stood there and said, "Light --be," and light was. His Word spoken from your mouth and conceived in your heart becomes a spiritual force releasing His ability within you."

This, my friend is very close to blasphemy. It is the natural extension.... or it is what leads to.... I am not sure which..... the very attitude that Sister and Bear and others have been telling us about when they describe the "God-complex" and how it has been introduced and how it has grown at 3ABN. It is calling for the lie....."you shall be like gods".... as Sister described in her segment of 3ABN history found at http://www.blacksda.com/forums/index.php?s=&showtopic=9765&view=findpost&p=128373

It is true that legalistic Adventism may lack a lot. And there may be much of the warmth and caring reflected in Charismatic churches which can set us a good example. And certainly, we need the full gospel of Jesus Christ.... when that phrase is understood in a doctrinally sound manner. But we do NOT need the mysticism of the underlying doctrines of the Pentecostal movement. They are a one-way road into the "docrines of devils" .... even though they may appear to be "angels of light".

Question one: Sometime several months ago, Danny was going on and on concerning going to court pertaining to paying taxes or avoiding paying taxes on the 3ABN property. What was the outcome?

Question two: How is Linda doing? Is she still able to attend church and have a dynamite good time loving our Lord Jesus Christ? I hope all of her congregation is loving her with Christian love.

Welcome Paleface. This is a forum, not a blog, so things are arranged in topics. Some of these topics have been going for more than two years. Some are of more recent origin. It is a really really good idea to do a LOT of reading before you start asking questions, since it is very likely that you will find that we have already discussed these things before. I would suggest reading though all the pages of the menu first, just to see what topics have been discussed. Then when you see one that seems to interest you, check it out. Somewhere along the way you'll find the most appropriate places to place your questions.

Welcome to BSDA Paleface!
To question one, if you can not find the answer inside the 3abn section here at BSDA, let me know. You can search in the search field and should find something.
To your second question, Linda is doing great. The Lord sustains her continuously because she has earned to trust Him in ALL things. She always needs our prayers. Her road has been rough, but God has been SO good to her.

. . . .
Now to the 3ABN Saga:

Question? Does anyone know exactly whether there could have been any other place on the earth for 3ABN to be located? According to Danny there was not. If that is true, then I believe God used what He had in His Hand--And who of us knows but that for a period of time, Danny was listening to God, at least enough that God was able to set up 3ABN through him.

And if it turns out to be false?..... Does that mean that God did not use him?

There is quite a difference between being "used by God" and claiming to have a special vision, special commission, and even a special dispensation from God..... pointing to 1) the success of one's endeavors, 2) the extent to which God "is using" them, and/or 3) "all the miracles" that God has wrought for or through them, and parading these as being both "signs" and proofs that this "vision" and special "godlike" status did/does in fact, exist.

This brings up several basic questions which really need to be answered in this regard.....

1) Is success and prosperity a "sign" of God's special favor/approval/commissioning? [hint..... check out the psalm where David says that when he saw the prosperity of the wicked, it almost made him stumble.]

2) Are miracles a "sign" of God's special favor? [hint.... check out scripture where it speaks of "lying miracles"..... and the proliferation of such in "the last days".]

3) Does God use only the righteous to accomplish his purposes? [hint.... scripture again, He makes even the wrath of men to praise Him".]

4) Should every coincidence be elevated to the level of "miracle"?

Now back to your specific question, " Does anyone know exactly whether there could have been any other place on the earth for 3ABN to be located? According to Danny there was not."

I have been informed by a professional who is knowledgeable in this specific area, and he said that while it is true that "it was the only place within a few square miles of where it is that it could have worked. There are billions of other places on earth that would have worked just as well. The issue was microwave interferance. This is not an issue hardly anywhere on earth."

So.... what are we to think? Is this "miracle story" all that Danny claims for it? Or is this one more case of an over-inflated helium balloon that has been used for support of Danny's claims of "divine mandate to rule"? In a poll, I would vote for the latter. And I am not the only one who thinks that when enough of these "miracle balloons" are punctured so the hot air, smoke, and fog escapes and the balloon collapses, we shall see the "fall of the house of Shelton", and "great will be the fall thereof.

The question that remains is..... will our church have cut all ties to it before that happens?

I agree with JusTana as she goes on to comment: "It occurs to me that God is now waiting for Danny to 'fill his cup of iniquity'"..... and I would add that I think God is waiting also for the revealing of who are partners with him in his "iniquities", who have been innocent collaborators with him, truly not knowing of his (nor his partners) "iniquities", and who are victims..... waiting for the victims to be moved to places of safety.... waiting for all who will to "come out and be separate" and cut all the "ties that bind".

But I strongly disagree as JusTana goes on to say, " and that perhaps our own efforts to make a change in this situation is only muddying the the waters, keeping God on the sidelines. Perhaps, if we just spend our time in prayer asking God to clean up His work, in His way, it would free Him up to do what He wants to do."

There have been many posts written both pro and con on issue, so I highly recommend that you read broadly so as to see what others have already said. For me, I see these efforts, not as "muddying the waters", but as digging out the things which are causing them to be "muddy". And I see all who are engaged in that work as working closely with God, seeking direction from Him constantly as to what He wants them to do in order to be his workman in accomplishing "what He wants to do".

What about the proper electrical voltage aspect of this? Was this a true happening where it wasn't necessary to expend extra dollars in this area?

QUOTE(Daryl Fawcett @ Aug 7 2006, 04:29 PM)

What about the proper electrical voltage aspect of this? Was this a true happening where it wasn't necessary to expend extra dollars in this area?

History of 3ABN

"As progress on the project continued, Shelton discovered three-phase power would be required to operate the station. Larson indicated that the cost to run lines from the nearest main road was prohibitive. But upon investigation he discovered three-phase power lines a few hundred feet (about a hundred meters) away from the property, simply following a country road. When Shelton contacted the power company, he asked why those lines ran through open fields away from any factories or heavy machinery. The power company responded, "We honestly have no idea."

I believe that Clarence Larson became one of Danny's employees. It's possible this may be a doctored story to impress the gullible. The 3ABN followers seem to like the "miracle stories." There is a three-phase power line at the N-NE side of the original piece of property.

Clarence and Danny never say they inspected the entire length of the power line to see if there were any other facilities using three-phase power. Notice (below) how the first three-phase alternating current line in the year 1891 was 175 kilometres long. 175 kilometres is 108.74 miles.

http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Electric_power_transmission

The first transmission of three-phase alternating current using high voltage took place in the year 1891 on the occasion of the international electricity exhibition in Frankfurt. In that year, a 25 kV transmission line, approximately 175 kilometres long, was built between Lauffen at the Neckar and Frankfurt.

Posted by: Daryl Fawcett Aug 7 2006, 05:56 PM

So what's the bottom line?

Another false miracle?

Is there any way to check out the three-phase story with the Power Company?

Discovering electric lines in Illinois isn't much of a "front page" story.

Electical power lines are such a typical and mundane part of the Illinois "rust belt" landscape that I doubt power companies would have "stories" about specific power poles. Illinois residents drive past thousands and thousands of power lines every day and I'm sure their minds just filter these lines out.

The combination of electric power lines and Illinois doesn't spell "miracle" in my book.
To me, that's the same as the "miracle" of finding hamburgers at McDonald's or trees in the national forest.

I just wouldn't place too much "weight" on a story like this one.

BlackSDA _ 3ABN _ Out With 3abn And In With Hope Tv

Posted by: sister Jul 28 2006, 08:06 PM

3ABN has started a letter writing campaign to have Danny and company as part of the basic package on Dish Network. Is it your desire to have 30,000,000 souls think Danny Shelton is the face of Adventism? Probably not or you wouldn't be reading this message. There is something you can do! Something that helps the official church bring the gospel directly into peoples homes through the medium of television and help save it from more embarressment once the whole 3ABN scandel makes the headlines.

The following quote is from the 3ABN website. Remember: the more people who watch 3ABN, the more opportunities Danny has to continue his charade of being the humble, holy man, blessed of God. And like the magician he has become, he will wave the false miracles in front of millions and while their attention is diverted, he will spin a tale garenteed to seperate them from their assets. This is what he has been waiting for all these years: the opportunity to move into the big time of television evangelism and reap the big rewards. More money, more power, but unfortunately no more conscience. It is time to isolate this cancer in the body of Christ before it become pandemic.

QUOTE

Once-in-a-lifetime opportunity 3ABN has what might be a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity to reach approximately 30,000,000 souls with the Gospel by getting Dish Network to add us to their channel lineup. But we can't do it without your help. We need you to enlist the help of your Church as well as friends, family and the local community in a letter writing campaign requesting Dish Network to carry 3ABN on their basic package. You may address your letters and postcards to:

Mr. Eric Sahl
Senior VP Programming
Dish Network
9601 S. Meridian
Englewood, CO 80112

Thank you for your help in this tremendous evangelistic opportunity!!

I would suggest the following positive course of action:

A letter writing campaign to have Hope TV put on Dish Network, instead of 3ABN. If everyone who reads this enlists the help of your local Church, SDA Conference, friends, family and the local community in a letter writing campaign requesting Dish Network to carry Hope TV on their basic package, something very positive can be accomplished.

Address your letters and postcards to:

Mr. Eric Sahl
Senior VP Programming
Dish Network

9601 S. Meridian
Englewood, CO 80112

A few hints: Make it simple. Let them know if you are already a subscriber to Dish Network or if you are not at this time, having Hope TV on there basic package would make a difference for you. Also, this only valid if you are living in the USA, you have to live in an area that is served by Dish Network. Sorry Johann, you will have to stand aside on this issue. But the rest of you can make a difference. Throw your support to the official SDA television network and let the Gospel of Jesus Christ be the face of the Adventist church to the world!

I guess that depends on why the Hope Channel exists.

Good question Daryl. What is their mission? It is to minister to Adventist? Then I guess that is the reason for them to promote everyone buying their own dish. Do they see their mission to spread the gospel to the world? If it is, then I would think they should be trying to get on every cable and satellite system.

Do they see their mission to spread the gospel to the world? If it is, then I would think they should be trying to get on every cable and satellite system.

The last information I had was that they were trying to do just that--"get on every cable and satellite system" in the world, or at least enough of them to cover the world. Take a look at the HOPETV website, http://www.hopetv.org/ -- specifically the questions, "How can I watch Hope Channel?" for a list of satellites carrying HOPETV world wide, and " How can my cable company carry Hope Channel?" for help in requesting that HOPETV be carried by one's local cable company. This may give some hints as to how to go about a request to DISH.

As far as Dish specifically, because of their policy of not accepting religious stations, HOPETV in North America has been focusing their attempts toward the cable systems and encouraging people to write to their cable providers requesting that they carry HOPETV. Now that there is a chance that DISH will take a religious station, I think it opens a window of opportunity for North American viewers that HOPE would love to be able to walk through. I hope that we all take a clue from the 3ABN campaign to get on DISH to mount our own campaign to get them to carry HOPETV instead.

My only question is whether we should work both ways--that is to not only ask for them to carry HOPETV but ask them NOT to carry 3ABN. Or would that "backfire" on us? Maybe those with more marketing knowledge than I have could give us some guidance in these areas.

Having said all this, there is still an advantage to those who are able for having the separate dish that accesses HOPETV--for with that one also gets Loma Linda Broadcasting, which is yet another 24/7 SDA Television Network.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Adventist Channel and 3ABN

Thursday, July 27, 2006

Dear Sir:

3ABN is not an Adventist channel. 3ABN is not owned, operated or funded by any church, denomination or organization, so people from all cultures and backgrounds appreciate 3ABN programming. Nevertheless many of 3ABN's employees and volunteers are members of the Seventh-day Adventist Church.

Even the fact that Dr Jeffrey Thompson, president, Cayman Islands Conference, Seventh-day Adventists was inspecting the new transmitter, the Channel has not become an Adventist channel. There are some cooperation agreements between 3ABN and the Adventists for using 3ABN facilities to spread the gospel. That's it.
Thank you for making this distinction.

Promoting HopeTV without speaking ill of the other station would be wise. In my estimation It may also be wise to note in any correspondence to Dish tv that Hope is an official arm of the church and not just affiliated with a number of independent Adventist ministries or individual churches within the Adventist church. It's just a thought.

It is generally best not to make any descriptive statement as they can be interpreted. Best to simply make your request and let the network provide its own descriptive marketing.

Our local church has started a letter writing campaining to put 3ABN on Dish NETWORK. and evenn went to the lengeth of passing out post cards with a prewritten letter on it. NOT me no way no how did I send in the one that was given to me.

This happened in my church and I started a thread about it called "3ABN Appeal" but the thread ran off during its course. I don't mind that the thread did so, except that it seems that all the threads end up regurgitating and rehashing much of the same info...I am finding the entire 3ABN forum difficult to navigate as a result...but I don't know how to improve it, really, so I can't suggest anything...

BlackSDA _ 3ABN _ Investigation Feasibility

Posted by: leakins Jul 25 2006, 09:11 AM

At the request of Calvin, I spent a portion of this past weekend reviewing the various letters and postings pertaining to the 3ABN situation to determine whether it would be feasible to initiate an investigation to prove or disprove the allegations that have been made. Based upon my review and 20+ years of experience in conducting investigations on individuals and entities for corporations, government agencies, financial institutions, and even the SDA church, I don't see the feasibility of conducting an investigation into this matter.

The situation, based upon my review of the postings, appears to be a denigratory scenario involving he-say, she-say and "who shot John?" allegations and innuendoes. In my professional opinion, retaining a private investigator to sort through the myriad of issues almost 2 years after the fact would constitute an effort in futility.

I'm sure there is a private investigator out there who will agree to take the case. However, as a Seventh-day Adventist Christian for over 50 years, my success and reputation has been built on being honest and forthright with potential clients.

It is my prayer that this situation will one day be resolved and finally put to rest.

am personally very disappointed in your decision made seemingly after only reading what has been posted on BSDA. And when you speak of "a myriad of issues almost 2 years after the fact" it would seem that you are seeing some "fact" as happening at a discreet period of time when in fact the things that need investigating not only began happening longer than 2 years ago and continue happening right down to the present day. I can understand, however, your reticence as an Adventist, a professional, and a member of ASI (which militantly supports Danny) to be involved in any such investigation. And it stands alongside of the same reticence to "get involved" as is felt by church officials as well as Adventists "in the pew". Whether or not they have felt the direct pressure put on by Danny's "warnings", they have heard enough to know that going in opposition to him could mean professional suicide ... and some "in high places" have even used that term.

am still disappointed--but not critical. But it does seem as though the only recourse will be to some organization with absolutely no ties to any part of the Adventist church in order to find and expose the facts that will finally bring not only justice for the guilty, but freedom from fear for the innocent.

Posted by: September Jul 25 2006, 09:38 AM

It seems to me that it would be more appropriate to have a NON SDA do the investigating into 3ABN--because in my opintion to have an SDA do it appears to be a conflict of interest.

I also have been wondering if Thompsonville's local news station should be contacted and what that would involve...I have no idea one way or another...just throwing out a suggestion for what it's worth.

Posted by: calvin Jul 25 2006, 09:47 AM

FYI, Lewis is my brother. Lewis and I discussed this morning that any findings by interviewing those involved will only led to more of the He said/She said. Those involved could submit to a lie detector test but those at 3abn would have no reason to participate. Even when Linda is free to speak, it will just add to the drama and won't resolve anything.

At this point I am not interested in pursing this any further.

'm sorry to hear this, and I don't mean to sound rude, but this sounds like a cop-out answer. This part bothers me the most:

f you are about "honest and forthright" , that is just what this needs. I know many people who would be just that, and though I can't speak for Linda, I would almost stake my paycheck on her being exactly that - I know her well enough to feel comfortable saying this. In any case, if you really don't want to be "the one" to be involved, maybe you should be honest about the real reasons - more of a conflict of interest maybe? Are you saying you wouldn't be able to do this with this situation? Are you really trying to tell us something else? or telling someone else something? Are you talking between the lines a bit?

You make it sound like it's just an "he said she said" thing, and it's so much more. Much fact along with a lot of circumstancial evidence can put the picture together - this is how it works in court - I have been on jurys and I know that you can't know every detail fact, but you get the big picture based on all very damning proven evidence with lots of testimony. What would you be pursuing here? Is it just about Danny and Linda to you? Can't you see she is another "person in the way" or are you also not ready to be another "person in the way"?

Lets not forget what this is really all about. Brothers, don't give up so easily! This is just what is wanted. Do you think it will resolve it's self suddenly without a continuing of control and stealing of the people? I think not. Or is this one of those, "let God do it" things? I'm dissapointed in people, again.

And, that contract (or gag order) that Linda was required to sign is factual evidence that something just ain't right with Danny--that in itself should be investigated--like what does 3ABN have to hide to make Linda sign the contract? That's not he-said, she-said. I believe that there are plenty of things to investigate that won't even involve a he-said/she-said type thing.

Please don't give up--that's exactly what 3ABN want us to do! I have sent copies of Dr. A's letters to several people SDA and non SDA alike and from the feedback I've been getting, they aren't surprised at this at all--there are people out there who haven't fallen for Danny's "spiritualality" and his whole speech about lies being told about him--and are doing what they can to get to the bottom of this and help the truth get out.

Posted by: calvin Jul 25 2006, 10:18 AM

He is being honest with you when he says "there is nothing there to investigate that would not result in more hearsay (paraphrasing)". Obliviously you did not like his answer. He could have took your money and given you a report of little or no value.

Unfortunately, I agree with Lewis' assessment of the situation, from his standpoint. However, if the information is being circulated, then i don't believe it will be the end. Because GC has avested interest they may do their own investigation, or just distance themselves(which is a desired result). The only thing that has been stopped here is the investigation by Lewis.

Because so much of the information he would have to investigate is out in the open and so much time has lapsed, there has been plenty of time for covering up, sheddings, etc. which would just lead the investigation back to the credibility of each side. I don't think Danny is stupid, just crooked as all get out. Unfortunately, this investigation is not the way to stop him.

Also, I suggest if anybody has a trump card they have not played, it would be wise to do so now, or very soon. Not here, just tell us about it later or just before it airs. I think part of the problem is that in trying to be good honest christians, you may have revealed too much of our hand.

I'm sure there is a private investigator out there who will agree to take the case.

Actually, I was never thinking "private investigator." I assumed we were talking about investigative journalists who are experts in their field.

I don't think a private investigator, working alone, is the right person for the job.

By the way, there are new books at Barnes and Noble on Abraham Lincoln, who has been dead for about 140 years. Therefore, 3ABN's "two year" episode would be a cake walk for a journalist, a much eaiser ontaking than trying to inverview Mr and Mrs. Lincoln and their White House staff.

Also, I think hiring an ASI member -- any ASI member --for this would be considered questionable (in journalistic circles). Some will say Danny Shelton has an untold influence on ASI and its membership. The journalists need to be non-Adventist outside parties uneasily influenced.

I am not a lawyer and am not attempting to give anyone legal advice.
My comments are based on experience and knowledge of how things work from a practical and common sense standpoint

It it said that this "mess" is basically a "he said/she said" situation.
Well, that is surely the case in many cases that juries have to decide.
Sure, when there are pictures and fingerprints and DNA evidence this makes the job easier, but the truth is, there is seldom pictures of infidelity. In our system, an accused party is innocent until proven guilty. So, at minimum..... It would appear to me that Linda should be considered innocent unless there is evidence. So far, her accusers have brought forth nada. Just enuendo and opinions. They "say" they have positive proof and then say they don't want to hurt Linda. Well, do they think we are that stupid????? Isn't that what they just tried to do by saying they had "proof"? Do they think that unthinking sheep will simply accept their words and think the worst? Only small children do that and we no longer children, but adults who think for ourselves.

OK..... absent any pictures & witnesses to Linda's great sin, we have absolutley NO choice but to listen to what her accusers say and then listen to what those who have DIRECT knowledge of the situation have to say.

Most trials do not have absolute proof and are left with nothing other than a jury basically listening to two sides tell "their story" and then deciding who is more likely telling the truth. Keep in mind..... in "our" system, an accused is and must be considered innocent unless there is proof. I know the standard is somewhat diff. in a civil case, and basically it will come down to things like credibility, character, believability and most important - motive..... and does what I hear pass the "smell test"???

In this case, from what I have read and from what I can see (gleaning from watching and reading Danny on TV), I do not believe Danny has provided any concrete evidence to support his claims. Further, using my unscientific BS barometer, I am getting a reading of at least 90% from the Shelton camp.

Therefore, I find Lind innocent unless he has more evidence. It's that simple.

I will stake my credibility and reputation on this. No doubt eventually, there will be people willing to step up in the near future who DO have direct and unimpeachable knowledge of this situation, who have a conscience and will be willing to risk their careers and financial gain in order to do the right thing. I hope I am not wrong.

I respect Lewis's assessment even though I wished it would have revealed a different outcome. However, Calvin suggested in another thread that this is a time for action. Since there will be no investigation from blacksda, why don't we call Direct Network and whatever satellite and cable stations and request Hope TV to be added instead of 3ABN.

'es, the lack of credible evidence coming from the Shelton camp, itself, is important -- for which a ›rivate investigator is not even needed. It doesn't take a genius to see that waving a pregnancy kit ıround the room - a stage prop which came from who knows where -- proves nothing.

What I said is what I said - no hidden message, no talking between the lines, no sublimal message, and I don't have a personal agenda in this saga. If you choose to pick-a-part my post then you have more time than I do.

As a point of clarification, I am not a member of ASI, and my statement relating to my Adventist Christian roots in no way infers that I would be partial towards 3ABN. But from my readings of the responses to my post, this probably is really not a relevant issue at this point.

I was hoping there would be an appreciation to my "honesty and integrity" in not taking on this assignment based upon it boiling down to taking money with little likelihood of developing any substantive results.

I have found that there are some clients who will never be pleased unless you tell them exactly what they want to hear, or give them information that will only confirm their beliefs. To take on such an assignment under these circumstances is a seasoned private investigator's worst nightmare. The fee that is charged never compensates for the ensuing drama. The responses to my post only confirms that this would be such a case.

I'm not going to be dishonest and take your money and I don't need the conflict of interest, sold us out, "in league with the devil," drama.

I have to get back to work.

...and also continue to send the information out to anyone who will listen. Even if a investgation was done, it would have had to been submitted to GC for any changes to occur. I believe there is enough information being sent to GC now, at least for them to ask a few questions. A formal independent investigation may have helped some, but as Lewis said too much time has elapsed. I think by now everything in question has been "answered" one way or another. GC will just have to decide to "avoid the appearance of evil". I think they have more than we know to make that decision.

My initial response was oh no they are giving up BUT after rereading it all & thinking about it an investigation won't do any good at this point. The only investigation that would make a lot of differenc would be like the IRS, Law Enforcement.. that kind of thing. That & if the GC, Amazing Facts, etc stop using him to put out their programs along with people pulling their funding from him.

So everyone just needs to keep giving out all the packets, etc. to those that support & can help make a difference.

Lewis, I do appreciate your response, even though I did not mention it right off - I was shocked and let down (knee jerk reaction) and should have waited to post....my problem, I'm sorry.

I have been thinking so much about this, my mind went right to "defeat" and I have since come up from that (same as described so well by Pete), I instantly have started trying to think just how something like this can be won. I understand the he said-she said idea - it would come from two sides only - those who support Danny and the rest of us. I have enough personal expirience to understand that if that is all that would come from a private investigation from a PI, then it would be pointless and wasted effort and time, so I totally respect that opinion.

I know (most know) that there is much much more to this then just a Danny-Linda thing. There are many other ways to get the job of truth done - and it will probably be mostly affected by the mighty dollar NOT going to support someone who is, like no-cults said, "my unscientific BS barometer, I am getting a reading of at least 90%". I still think that this situation is symptomatic of people having to open their eyes, make a choice and take a stand. If all would do that, think of the impact it could have. I won't give up on my part.

Common sense people. It's a gift from God too. Lets use it.

I did just that! I then added my justification by adding links to documentation, First and foremost, I detailed 3ABN's TRUST ISSUES and EVALUATION problems. I stressed that 3ABN DOES NOT FOLLOW GAAP and few more of the financial irregularities. I gave them links to follow for more documentation.

I told how he belongs to a Seventh-day Adventist church he invented to get around the property tax issue problems, but clearly does not understand what being a SDA means. I gave examples and sent them Dr A's letter, Danny's and Walt's also.

I told them my request was that 3ABN NOT be allowed on Dish Network, but that Hope TV should be their choice. Hope TV is an entity that is a SDA entity and 3ABN is not! Hope TV has channels of accountability, 3ABN does not! .....

I gave them links to BlackSDA and CA. I also told them about AToday. This is by far a financial matter.

My next letter goes to the State Department. They are the ones that investigate 3ABN on foreign soil.

My list is short and sweet because I am having vision difficulties. Please would someone pick up the rest of ASI? They are important and need to know.

Forget the he/said she/said! We need to get busy and let people know what has been said and done. Let the chips fall where they may.

Is there someone that can collect signatures with email addresses and send them to Dish Network, IRS, FBI, State Department, ASI. We need people on the band wagon!

Just a couple more comments before I leave this thread.

I think it would be well to consider that in any normal investigation, the "client" is not only the person who wants to know, or the person who foots the bill, but the person with the power and authority to use the information to achieve whatever results the client wants to achieve. If the client is merely a bystander, with no ability to use the information for any purpose other than sharing with others, then what has been the result, other than more information to share?

Now the facts are that we here on BSDA do NOT have any power or authority with which to utilize the information that Lewis might dig up. The facts are that we also do not yet know the extent of the penetration of the cancer into the whole church body. And because of that, we don't even know who, if anyone, would or could make use of the information to accomplish any real changes.

Some have spoken of being in "court". But we are not a court. And we do not have the power to execute judgement or pass sentence that a court would have. We are all, in a very real sense, investigators, and this is an on-going investigation. It would have been nice to have had the assistance of a professional investigator to add to the store of information that we are accumulating and that we have to share with others. But it is also a fact that information can become useless for court purposes if it is shared too widely publicly. Which is another reason that some have for holding their information close and not revealing it until such a time as a court which actually does have the power to execute judgment convenes--whether that be a civil court of the land, or the "court" of church administrators.

In the meantime, it would probably be better for us to move back to the thread Calvin started, A Time For Action", as we focus on what we can do to spread the information that we already have available.

And thanks again, Lewis, for your time and professional evaluation.

I agree with Lewis. Without the full cooperation of Danny Shelton and 3ABN, it is just a peyote dream. No private investigator has the authority to force anyone to do or say anything. Its all volluntary. And it still remains a "he said she said" thing.

Seems like a saaaad, saaaaad situATION. But, folks, this is not the time to give up. I know the Good Lord is on our side. So we must proceed and do His bidding.

I was wondering why the Lord had me go and work for 3ABN and Danny Shelton. It could only because the Lord wanted me to be a first person wtness to the false accusations which took place.

Time passes, but evil never becomes good. Such outragious misuse of power cannot remain and be associated with the proclamation of the Undiluted Three Angel's Messages!

QUOTE(sonshineonme @ Jul 25 2006, 10:56 AM)

I'm sorry to hear this, and I don't mean to sound rude, but this sounds like a cop-out answer. This part bothers me the most:

If you are about "honest and forthright" , that is just what this needs. I know many people who would be just that, and though I can't speak for Linda, I would almost stake my paycheck on her being exactly that - I know her well enough to feel comfortable saying this. In any case, if you really don't want to be "the one" to be involved, maybe you should be honest about the real reasons - more of a conflict of interest maybe? Are you saying you wouldn't be able to do this with this situation? Are you really trying to tell us something else? or telling someone else something? Are you talking between the lines a bit?

You make it sound like it's just an "he said she said" thing, and it's so much more. Much fact along with a lot of circumstancial evidence can put the picture together - this is how it works in court - I have been on jurys and I know that you can't know every detail fact, but you get the big picture based on all very damning proven evidence with lots of testimony. What would you be pursuing here? Is it just about Danny and Linda to you? Can't you see she is another "person in the way" or are you also not ready to be another "person in the way"?

Lets not forget what this is really all about. Brothers, don't give up so easily! This is just what is wanted. Do you think it will resolve it's self suddenly without a continuing of control and stealing of the people? I think not. Or is this one of those, "let God do it" things? I'm dissapointed in people, again.

I refuse to be a defeatist! Let's get back to moving ahead.

This is not about Linda and Danny's marriage. It is about Power and control.

Rape is not always a sex act. It is a power and control issue. However, what greater humiliation can one do to a victim to show their great power and control over their victim? The rapist gains even more confidence in their power and control.

Destroying people fits right in the rape category. Remember that rape is more than the sexual act. However, total power & control WILL usually include the sex act!

Does anyone blame Linda for moving far away from Danny's person? As Johann so aptly told Walt, "Get you time line straight".

Another point to make is that Linda did not commit adultery. If she actually had a pregnancy test, which I do not believe, it would have been because she HAD been raped in the sexual sense by her rapist to show total control and power. Who is the control freak here? You figure it out.

Re-reading my time line, Danny is over at Linda's with flowers and maybe even planting the pregnancy test. Then all of the sudden he takes Moses P with him to Linda's for protection, so SHE will not be able to accuse him of anything. Too late. What happened before that? Rape is not adultery.

No one has said if the Pregnancy test was used or not. Since her house was bugged right under Linda's nose, a pregnancy test could have been planted just as everything else has been done. I, like Johann, am of the opinion that there was no pregnancy test at Linda's. Since she moved to get away from Danny, I would suggest it was to get away from her abuser. Maybe Danny got the test for Brenda?

What was the date of the vasectomy? He did that, hoping he would never get caught again by a baby like he did a few years before! It also gives freedom to continue in his lifestyle.

The trashing of Linda was rape in the sense that he was showing his control and power over Linda.

He never dreamed all this would reach up and bite him in the rear end.

The real issue is the finances. It is the only thing that will damage Danny. Let us forget he/she said stuff and get serious.

In the next 48 hours I will try put together a financial/moral/spiritual package to sent out. I will post it. It will include sections so you can pick and choose what is your desire to say by cutting and pasting.

I will post it under the thread about calling for action. You may not like what I post. If not, don't use it. If it says what you feel you would like to say, use it and even customize to your words, or send it as is.

I have been debating with myself as to whether or not I should post the story of the pregnancy test as told to me on the phone by Linda herself. Now that Fran has speculated in ways that bear no resemblance to the story as Linda told it, I feel rather obligated to tell it. But, since it really belongs in the thread called, "Thompson Responds To Abrahamsen...., borrowed from Maritime", for we first heard about it from his letter, I will go there to tell the whole story.

Here I will just say that it does not belong with the flowers story--that was after Linda moved to Springfield. The pregnancy test was bought before the divorce while Linda and Danny were still living together. It was never used. It was never intended to be used. And yes, Linda bought it, Danny did not. But for the details on this please go to the other thread.

My initial response was oh no they are giving up BUT after rereading it all & thinking about it an investigation won't do any good at this point. The only investigation that would make a lot of differenc would be like the IRS, Law Enforcement.. that kind of thing. That & if the GC, Amazing Facts, etc stop using him to put out their programs along with people pulling their funding from him.

So everyone just needs to keep giving out all the packets, etc. to those that support & can help make a difference.

totally agree! Some get raped with out the sex ACT. Some do. It is always about Power and control. The physical rape is NOT about sex, I totally agree. Some victims will not suffer the rape sex ACT as part of the Rape. Other WILL suffer the sex ACT included in the rape process. I fully agree what your are saying. I was trying to show that some rapes do not include a sex ACT.

From reading CA and BSDA, it is my feeling that Linda was at least raped without a sex ACT. IMO, I believe it is highly likely that part of her RAPE did include a sex ACT. I wasn't there, so I don't know. I am sure watchbird knows.

Watchbird;

Nope. Didn't step on my toes at all. And Nope. I don't know more than you about "everything". I do, though, know a few things. But when it comes to financial understanding and research you are the expert and I really appreciate all the work you have put into the research. And I really appreciate the way you have not only researched, but explain things so even I can at least grasp the generalities.

I do hope that "outa here to do my own thing all by myself" only means out of this thread to one on the finances like you promised. I've been hoping and hoping that you would do that. This is, IMO, one of the most important areas of research and one that is very much needed for the information packets people are sending out. I know you have done a good job on that. At the request of Calvin, I spent a portion of this past weekend reviewing the various letters and postings pertaining to the 3ABN situation to determine whether it would be feasible to initiate an investigation to prove or disprove the allegations that have been made. Based upon my review and 20+ years of experience in conducting investigations on individuals and entities for corporations, government agencies, financial institutions, and even the SDA church, I don't see the feasibility of conducting an investigation into this matter.

The situation, based upon my review of the postings, appears to be a denigratory scenario involving he-say, she-say and "who shot John?" allegations and innuendoes. In my professional opinion, retaining a private investigator to sort through the myriad of issues almost 2 years after the fact would constitute an effort in futility.

I'm sure there is a private investigator out there who will agree to take the case. However, as a Seventh-day Adventist Christian for over 50 years, my success and reputation has been built on being honest and forthright with potential clients.

It is my prayer that this situation will one day be resolved and finally put to rest.

ᴿeally Living Premiering on Hope Channel

ᴺew show features noted Adventist Church Administrator

Silver Spring, MD, USA. On September 8, 2006, Really Living, an exciting new 60-minute show will be premiering on Hope Channel. The show is hosted by Don Schneider, president of the North American Division of Seventh-day Adventists, which includes the United States, Canada, and Bermuda.

Pastor Schneider is eager to host the program because of his personal passion and vision for it. With his gift for telling inspiring stories about Jesus, Pastor Schneider wants "to share with viewers that anyone can experience a state of really living, which is to know Jesus and living for Him."

"Hope Channel is grateful to have Pastor Schneider host a program that will significantly bless the lives of people today," said Brad Thorp, president of Hope Channel. "This new TV show will encourage viewers to discover a God of hope who can fill us with joy and peace even in a world torn by war and strife."

The premier episode of Really Living will air on the Hope Channel Friday, September 8, at 7:00 p.m. (Eastern and Pacific). It features an interview with a father who confronted his view of God following the death of his own son. Repeat airings can be seen on Saturday, September 9, at 5:00 p.m. (EDT); Monday, September 11, 7:00 a.m. (EDT); Thursday, September 14, at 11:00 a.m. (EDT). The show can be seen weekly at these same times. Really Living will also be broadcast at prime-viewing times on Hope Channel International and Hope Channel Europe.

Upcoming interviews include a couple sharing their passion for mission and building churches around the world, and how a dentist and his wife discover that planting a church in their local community brings a harvest they could never have imagined.

Pastor Schneider was elected in 2000 to lead the more than one million Seventh-day Adventists in North America. His pastoral and administrative ministry included positions in California, Michigan, Minnesota, Oklahoma, Oregon, Wyoming, and New Jersey.

Established in 2003, the Hope Channel network broadcasts to every continent via satellite and is also distributed by television stations, cable, internet, and direct-to-home satellite TV. For more information on Hope Channel's ministry, visit www.hopetv.org.

I am sure that, even if you were, that there are many really good honest Christians belonging to ASI. I was too quick to give an opinion, and then it seems it is too late to erase it. Lewis, I do appreciate the effort that you have made to help us realize that an investigation probably would be useless and unwise. I do think that we need to be about the business of letting other Adventists and Non-Adventists know the whole truth about the negative side of 3ABN. I intend to act accordingly in everyway that I can. Discouraged about things I am, but I do know that in the end, right will prevail.

BlackSDA _ 3ABN _ Porneia. Matthew 19 And Spiritual Adultery

Posted by: tall73 Jul 31 2006, 12:30 AM

Spiritual Adultery is the term that was applied in the 3ABN saga to justify Danny's remarriage. And it has raised an interesting question. Need there be physical adultery to apply Jesus' 'exception clause?'

Here is the text in question:

>
> Mat 19:8 He said to them, "Because of your hardness of heart Moses allowed you to divorce your wives, but from the beginning it was not so.
> Mat 19:9 And I say to you: whoever divorces his wife, except for sexual immorality, and marries another, commits adultery."

Jesus' statement suggests he was clarifying the law found in Deut. 24 in which they were permitted to divorce if "indecency" (uncleanness in KJV) was found in her.

>
> Deu 24:1 "When a man takes a wife and marries her, if then she finds no favor in his eyes because he has found some indecency in her, and he writes her a certificate of divorce and puts it in her hand and sends her out of his house, and she departs out of his house

(Strong's)
ערוה 'ervâh
er-vaw'
From H6168; nudity, literally (especially the pudenda) or figuratively (disgrace, blemish): - nakedness, shame, unclean (-ness).

Now the question is, what was entailed by this "indecency" (Deut) or sexual immorality/adultery/fornication (Matthew). The term used in the exception clause is the oft-debated term Porneia. You can look up all of its uses using Strongs etc. Here are some of the more interesting ones:

>
> Mat 15:19 For out of the heart come evil thoughts, murder, adultery, sexual immorality, theft, false witness, slander.
> Gal 5:19 Now the works of the flesh are evident: sexual immorality, impurity, sensuality

These texts use both Porneia and the more specific word, Moixeia which always means adultery. In fact, in Jesus' statement in Matthew 19 He uses both as well. The grounds for divorce and remarriage were "porneia" and the resulting sin if this was not present was causing them to commit adultery, "moichatai."

This indicates that either porneia was distinct from adultery or was a broader word that also included adultery.
(Strong's)
porneia
por-ni'-ah
from G4203; harlotry (including adultery and incest); figuratively idolatry: - fornication.

μοιχειά
moicheia
moy-khi'-ah
From G3431; adultery: - adultery.

The next text of interest is I Corinthians 7.

QUOTE

1Co 7:1 Now concerning the matters about which you wrote: "It is good for a man not to have sexual relations with a woman."
1Co 7:2 But because of the temptation to sexual immorality, each man should have his own wife and each woman her own husband.

Here is it is clear that marriage was intended partly as a means to help resist sexual immorality (porneia) by unmarried people. In other words, if you are lusting, get married. Here fornication is used of the unmarried probably in the sense of sex outside of marriage.

QUOTE

Act 15:20 but should write to them to abstain from the things polluted by idols, and from sexual immorality, and from what has been strangled, and from blood.

In the Acts council they enforced upon the gentiles the same requirements already made of "strangers" (ie. Gentiles) living among the Israelites in the law. The sexual immorality mentioned in Acts is spelled out in its various forms in Leviticus. The list includes acts done while married (wife's sister) which would be problematic both as adultery and as having sex with close relations.

QUOTE

Requirements of strangers
Eating blood:

LEV 17:10 " 'Any Israelite or any alien living among them who eats any blood--I will set my face against that person who eats blood and will cut him off from his people. 11 For the life of a creature is in the blood, and I have given it to you to make atonement for yourselves on the altar; it is the blood that makes atonement for one's life. 12 Therefore I say to the Israelites, "None of you may eat blood, nor may an alien living among you eat blood."

Sexual immorality:

LEV 18:6 " `No one is to approach any close relative to have sexual relations. I am the LORD.
LEV 18:7 " `Do not dishonor your father by having sexual relations with your mother. She is your mother; do not have relations with her.
LEV 18:8 " `Do not have sexual relations with your father's wife; that would dishonor your father.
LEV 18:9 " `Do not have sexual relations with your sister, either your father's daughter or your mother's daughter, whether she was born in the same home or elsewhere.
LEV 18:10 " `Do not have sexual relations with your son's daughter or your daughter's daughter; that would dishonor you.
LEV 18:11 " `Do not have sexual relations with the daughter of your father's wife, born to your father; she is your sister.
LEV 18:12 " `Do not have sexual relations with your father's sister; she is your father's close relative.
LEV 18:13 " `Do not have sexual relations with your mother's sister, because she is your mother's close relative.
LEV 18:14 " `Do not dishonor your father's brother by approaching his wife to have sexual relations; she is your aunt.
LEV 18:15 " `Do not have sexual relations with your daughter-in-law. She is your son's wife; do not have relations with her.
LEV 18:16 " `Do not have sexual relations with your brother's wife; that would dishonor your brother.
LEV 18:17 " `Do not have sexual relations with both a woman and her daughter. Do not have sexual relations with either her son's daughter or her daughter's daughter; they are her close relatives. That is wickedness.
LEV 18:18 " `Do not take your wife's sister as a rival wife and have sexual relations with her while your wife is living.
LEV 18:19 " `Do not approach a woman to have sexual relations during the uncleanness of her monthly period.
LEV 18:20 " `Do not have sexual relations with your neighbor's wife and defile yourself with her.
LEV 18:21 " `Do not give any of your children to be sacrificed to Molech, for you must not profane the name of your God. I am the LORD.
LEV 18:22 " `Do not lie with a man as one lies with a woman; that is detestable.
LEV 18:23 " `Do not have sexual relations with an animal and defile yourself with it. A woman must not present herself to an animal to have sexual relations with it; that is a perversion.
LEV 18:24 " `Do not defile yourselves in any of these ways, because this is how the nations that I am going to drive out before you became defiled. 25 Even the land was defiled; so I punished it for its sin, and the land vomited out its inhabitants. 26 But you must keep my decrees and my laws. The native-born and the aliens living among you must not do any of these detestable things, 27 for all these things were done by the people who lived in the land before you, and the land became defiled. 28 And if you defile the land, it will vomit you out as it vomited out the nations that were before you.

Idols

Lev 17:3 If any one of the house of Israel kills an ox or a lamb or a goat in the camp, or kills it outside the camp,
Lev 17:4 and does not bring it to the entrance of the tent of meeting to offer it as a gift to the LORD in front of the tabernacle of the LORD, bloodguilt shall be imputed to that man. He has shed blood, and that man shall be cut off from among his people.
Lev 17:5 This is to the end that the people of Israel may bring their sacrifices that they sacrifice in the open field, that they may bring them to the LORD, to the priest at the entrance of the tent of meeting, and sacrifice them as sacrifices of peace offerings to the LORD.
Lev 17:6 And the priest shall throw the blood on the altar of the LORD at the entrance of the tent of meeting and burn the fat for a pleasing aroma to the LORD.
Lev 17:7 So they shall no more sacrifice their sacrifices to goat demons, after whom they whore. This shall be a statute forever for them throughout their generations.
Lev 17:8 "And you shall say to them, Any one of the house of Israel, or of the strangers who sojourn among them, who offers a burnt offering or sacrifice

> Lev 17:9 and does not bring it to the entrance of the tent of meeting to offer it to the LORD, that man shall be cut off from his people.

t appears that porneia could carry a number of connotations. Adultery, incest, pre-marital sex, etc.

So with this information in mind the question comes up, what did Jesus mean by his exception clause? There are a few views.

1. Only literal, physical adultery would release someone from the marriage and allow for remarriage.
2. Fornication previous to the marriage that was later discovered would allow for divorce and subsequent remarriage. (Some would say that adultery would not allow for this but fornication before marriage would... (See Keith Burton's Ministry Magazine article http://www.lifeheritage.org/Divorce%20and%20Remarriage.pdf).
3. Any sexual uncleanness, not necessarily physical adultery (pornography, cyber sex, etc., emotional affairs, phone sex, etc.) would come under porneia and therefore qualify since porneia is much broader than the more limited term moicheia
4. There are no grounds for divorce except for an non-sacramental marriage in the first place, which would indicate pre-marital fornication, or a marriage based on incest (this would be the Catholic version, see this article for one exposition of it: http://members.aol.com/johnprh/marriage.html).

t seems that any type of inappropriate sexual activity could qualify as porneia. For that matter, Jesus spoke of lust as adultery. But the question seems to be more about what Jesus had in mind by the word porneia, and therefore what would qualify as an exception, than whether phone sex (if that is what Danny meant by these conversations that were taped) would count as porneia. Note, we haven't heard these conversations, so who knows what they really have on them.

To me phone sex would be porneia. It is "sexual immorality" or porneia in the broad sense. The only question though is whether Jesus really intended porneia in the broad sense, or whether he meant it as a synonym for adultery in this context, or whether he meant it specifically as pre-marital fornication as in Burton's view.

The Catholic view has some internal problems as porneia seems to be used for more than just pre-marital infidelity at times, and in the list in Leviticus it includes what would be adulterous relationships.

The physical adultery only view would be understandable due to the feelings of betrayal it causes. However, one must ask why it is that the word for adultery is not used when Jesus clearly uses it later in the text? If He wanted to make it specific He knew how. Others would say that perhaps Jesus was simply using variety of expression, and certainly we do see that at times in all languages.

Burton's view is somewhat compelling. Jesus stresses the one-ness that should not be put assunder and says that Mose's decree was in fact only for the hardness of their hearts. It was Moses' decree that permitted divorce at all. Moreover, as Burton notes if adultery were to free one from marriage, and Jesus had defined it as lust, then it would be very easy to be released!

On the other hand Paul does note that if a non-believer wants to leave, let them, you are not bound (which Burton also acknowledges) so the oneness is not without scriptural exception. Moreover Burton's view does not seem to account for the flexibility of the term porneia beyond pre-marital relations.

The any sexual uncleanness view would apply the term porneia broadly. Christians were told to avoid every hint of sexual immorality, so the standards were high.

However, taking it too broadly seems to mean that it would be quite easy to qualify. For instance does fantasy again qualify? Moreover, how many non-physical means did they have back then? There were no phones. There were letters I suppose and pornography existed at the time.

It is a difficult problem. And it is not completely clear that we have understood the exception clause to begin with, and even less clear that phone sex, if indeed such happened (so far it sounds more like accusations of emotional intimacy over the phone) would qualify.

For me personally I tend to lean toward the any sexual uncleanness view.

One thing that is quite clear though, no matter how you take porneia it does not include "spiritual adultery". That would seem to be a stretch even beyond porneia.

This is an interesting Bible study, however, IMO you are putting too much emphasis on this at this time, especially in view of the fact that this accusation was dropped very early on in the "saga".

As you conclude, and Clay keeps mentioning, this was indeed too much of a "stretch" for people to buy into, and thus early on was one of the clues that alerted thinking folk to the shallowness of Danny's claims against Linda. In fact, so many came to that conclusion that Danny himself dropped the term and moved to just "adultery", with his primary "proof" ending up being the unused pregancy test that has been cussed and discussed at some length here, and then moved on to the charge of "desertion", as you will see if you get into the accounts of the charges made against Linda in the letter that was sent to her at the time the 3ABN church was trying to put an official church "censure" on her.

As you continue to read more, you will doubtless realize that the big issue is not what Linda did or why she did it, but what Danny did and why he did it--and that the "what" extends far beyond merely his treatment of Linda -- though that is the thing that grabs everyone's attention and seems to be the topic which creates the most discussion. This is partly due to the fact that we are all concerned about Linda, whom we see as the victim of abuse. But it is even more due to the fact that this is the topic toward which the ongoing "information letters" from the Chairman of the Board directs us, in his ever more explicit and embroidered accounts of his view of "what has happened".

If you will read "The Televangelist" carefully, along with the other accounts of wrong-doing in the 3ABN camp that range from immoralities of almost every kind to persecution to ex-employees that rivals that which has been given to Linda (only with less publicity), to financial irregularities, to doctrinal deviations (especially as taught to the employees) -- even including both allowing and claiming to hear and speak "the voice of God" which approaches a "spirit guide" type of belief system. And don't forget their attitude to the tithe--which in other cases have been enough all by itself to call the condemnation of "the church" on the organization which both accepts tithe and encourages its "converts" to send their tithe to them instead of the church into which they are baptised.

Thus there are lots of questions much more discomforting than merely the question as to whether there is something called "spiritual adultery" which can free the other spouse to remarry with "biblical grounds".

"spiritual adultery"... divorce & remarriage. Leave it to man in general and to the jews in particular to be cunning and devious enough to seek their own will instead of God's will.

It says in the Bible (can't remember where) that it is wrong to divorce and to remarry one's wife. Do you know why?

Because the jews of old figured it would be just fine to bed the sweet 'tang just as long as they got their divorce on Friday nite and got married on Sunday nite. Cleaver manipulators. Always have and to this day also.

'sigh* Why do we, even after over 2000 years, find it so difficult to not incorporate anti-semitic stereotypes into our Christianity?

Manipulation is not a "jewish thing"; it's a "people thing". No ethnic group or nationality is the source or sole purveyors of this particular brand of inhumanity; we are all equal opportunity manipulators... for example when we use stereotypes...

Actually it doesn't support spiritual adultery. But the issue itself does get to the question of what exactly is needed to qualify for the exception indicated in Matthew 19.

And yes, it is long, not every issue is simple. And as you said, even the more traditional opinions on this question could be deemed as tenuous.

From what you have posted then, the emotional affair is spiritual adultery....which would then not only include lust (which Christ stated is committing adultery in one's own heart), but would also then include phone sex, pronography/masturbation, etc.?

QUOTE(tall73 @ Jul 31 2006, 01:30 AM)

Spiritual Adultery is the term that was applied in the 3ABN saga to justify Danny's remarriage. And it has raised an interesting question. Need there be physical adultery to apply Jesus' 'exception clause?'

Here is the text in question:
Jesus' statement suggests he was clarifying the law found in Deut. 24 in which they were permitted to divorce if "indecency" (uncleanness in KJV) was found in her.
(Strong's)
ערוה 'ervâh
er-vaw'
From H6168; nudity, literally (especially the pudenda) or figuratively (disgrace, blemish): -nakedness, shame, unclean (-ness).

Now the question is, what was entailed by this "indecency" (Deut) or sexual immorality/adultery/fornication (Matthew). The term used in the exception clause is the oft-debated term Porneia. You can look up all of its uses using Strongs etc. Here are some of the more interesting ones:
These texts use both Porneia and the more specific word, Moixeia which always means adultery. In fact, in Jesus' statement in Matthew 19 He uses both as well. The grounds for divorce and remarriage were "porneia" and the resulting sin if this was not present was causing them to commit adultery, "moichatai."

This indicates that either porneia was distinct from adultery or was a broader word that also included adultery.
(Strong's)
porneia
por-ni'-ah
from G4203; harlotry (including adultery and incest); figuratively idolatry: - fornication.

μοιχειά
moicheia
moy-khi'-ah
From G3431; adultery: - adultery.

The next text of interest is I Corinthians 7.
Here is it is clear that marriage was intended partly as a means to help resist sexual immorality (porneia) by unmarried people. In other words, if you are lusting, get married. Here fornication is used of the unmarried probably in the sense of sex outside of marriage.
In the Acts council they enforced upon the gentiles the same requirements already made of "strangers" (ie. Gentiles) living among the Israelites in the law. The sexual immorality mentioned in Acts is spelled out in its various forms in Leviticus. The list includes acts done while married (wife's sister) which would be problematic both as adultery and as having sex with close relations.
It appears that porneia could carry a number of connotations. Adultery, incest, pre-marital sex, etc.
So with this information in mind the question comes up, what did Jesus mean by his exception clause? There are a few views.

a. Only literal, physical adultery would release someone from the marriage and allow for remarriage.
b. Fornication previous to the marriage that was later discovered would allow for divorce and subsequent remarriage. (Some would say that adultery would not allow for this but fornication before marriage would... (See Keith Burton's Ministry Magazine article http://www.lifeheritage.org/Divorce%20and%20Remarriage.pdf).
c. Any sexual uncleanness, not necessarily physical adultery (pornography, cyber sex, etc., emotional affairs, phone sex, etc.) would come under porneia and therefore qualify since porneia is much broader than the more limited term moicheia
d. There are no grounds for divorce except for an non-sacramental marriage in the first place, which would indicate pre-marital fornication, or a marriage based on incest (this would be the Catholic version, see this article for one exposition of it:
http://members.aol.com/johnprh/marriage.html).
It seems that any type of inappropriate sexual activity could qualify as porneia. For that matter, Jesus spoke of lust as adultery. But the question seems to be more about what Jesus had in mind by the word porneia, and therefore what would qualify as an exception, than whether phone sex (if that is what Danny meant by these conversations that were taped) would count as porneia. Note, we haven't heard these conversations, so who knows what they really have on them.

On the other hand Paul does note that if a non-believer wants to leave, let them, you are not bound (which Burton also acknowledges) so the oneness is not without scriptural exception. Moreover Burton's view does not seem to account for the flexibility of the term porneia beyond pre-marital relations.

The any sexual uncleanness view would apply the term porneia broadly. Christians were told to avoid every hint of sexual immorality, so the standards were high.

Hmmm..... nor does it seem to mention father to his wife's daugther..... interesting. But..... question ime. If this is to be taken in the context of other threads in this forum ... are you suggesting that it is OK for a father to have "sexual relations" with his daughter? If so, did we just take a huge amount of sexual abuse out of the "sin" class? (I don't really think this is what you are saying.....but if not, then what is it that you mean for us to take from what you have said?)

And another thought (question) that just arose....how do we "define" "sexual relations" in this context? Do we completely equate this form of "sexual abuse" with "sexual relations"? If not. what distinction do we make, and how do we define "sexual abuse" as it applies to father with daughter?

Posted by: simplysaved Aug 1 2006, 07:36 AM

I think Bible history shows us what became of Lot's daughters getting him drunk and having sex with him "so the family name would not die"....

The following scripture would then seem to address this issue:

LEV 18:17 " 'Do not have sexual relations with both a woman and her daughter. Do not have sexual relations with either her son's daughter or her daughter's daughter; they are her close relatives. That is wickedness.

If a man is married to a woman she should not have sex with her daughter....and the converse would be true regarding having sex with one's son (also not included). It is reasonable and would appear that God was addressing some of the most common sins of the surrounding countries that were more, ahem, "appealing" or "tempting"---and also setting some boundaries in general as prior to this the call to be "fruitful and multiply" called for marriage with close relations.

We have to go with the premise that "close relatives" covers the Father/Daughter - Father to the Wife's Daughter (Step-Father) relationship. I mention this because - sometimes things are not mentioned - yet we have to read deeply and gain an understanding....

Yall know I don't agree with incest period....but I had to point this out as this scripture is used as an excuse by many biblical "scholars" as a means and motive to sexually assault their own daughters.

.....however still - regardless of what is posted - it does not mention the direct link of Father/Daughter or Father and Women's Daughter (Step-Father) directly. That cannot be denied if the scripture is read. Yes. "Close relatives" - but not the intricate breakdown that was done with "Aunts" and "Brother-in-laws"....

That being said - punishments have taken place throughout the Bible that can be used as a basis for law today - however the exact same scriptures are vastly ignored when they point internally to self. EX: Using all of the scriptures we are discussing; we are pointed toward the reasoning behind "spiritual adultery" and leaving one's spouse subsequently.

What of the scripture that says "husbands love your wives as yourself?" - Using the same hermeneutics one could interpret that a husband that doesn't show his wife affection, or better yet - blatently shows the same type of affection to another woman other than his wife - is also doing "spiritual adultery"..... correct?

Also note: many try to use the exact same story as one against "drinking wine"...now it is being used against "incest"...

Now one is wrong and we do know that - but the other.... GOD never commanded that you cannot drink wine.

Hermeneutics..... assumptions..... If it works/covers one - it has to work/cover all....and it cannot be selective.

'ou make some other good points also, but let's just focus on this one for a bit more. Might the reason his was not more explicit have to do with issues of paternity?

don't think that a man at that time who married a woman who already had children would have been :onsidered their "father", since blood lines were considered so important and blood lines went through he male. Thus I doubt that there was any designation such as we use today which would equal our step-father" label. If I am correct in this, then this text does indeed speak explicitly of not only the :hildren, but the grandchildren of any woman whom the man "has sexual relations with" and would hus be at the same time more explicit and more broad in its application than as if it had merely said step-father" or even had said a man's wife's children and grandchildren. Stated as it is, this text :overs every woman with whom he has had sexual relation -- including not only his legal wife (or vives) but any other woman with whom he had had sex, whether in the permitted categories or in any ınd all of these forbidden categories.

So, yes, I agree that using this text.... or rather the absence of the specific wording you note..... as ›eing an "excuse" for sexually "assaulting" or even "sexually fondling" their own "daughters" is :ompletely unexcusable and a gross twisting of scripture. Any scholar worth his "salt" should see nore, not fewer, implications in a text than a mere "straight read through" seems to indicate.

I like the direction your posts have gone in so far..and have found in more than one views in which I agree....

From what you have posted then, the emotional affair is spiritual adultery....which would then not only include lust (which Christ stated is committing adultery in one's own heart), but would also then include phone sex, pronography/masturbation, etc.?

Thanks for the compliment. Essentially I am saying porneia seems to be referring to sexual immorality in a broad sense. And yes, I think pornography addiction, phone sex, etc would figure in there.

Emotional affairs, I am not sure that would technically come under porneia. But it could lead to things that would. It is essentially a denial of the one flesh experience of marriage as the marriage partner is exchanged emotionally for someone else. And it is a serious sin in a marriage. I am not sure as it would come under porneia.

In any case, the story is best understood by saying that Jesus was saying what would NOT qualify rather than what would .In other words, you could not get divorce for any and every reason. It had to be something that was a serious issue of breach of trust apparently in a sexual way. Which is what leads many to the conclusion "physical adultery."

And likely that is chiefly what Jesus had in mind. My point is that in a modern age when there are adult bookstores and play boy channel and sex chat and porn sites, etc. The term could likely be applied there too.

QUOTE(watchbird @ Aug 1 2006, 10:10 AM)

You make some other good points also, but let's just focus on this one for a bit more. Might the reason this was not more explicit have to do with issues of paternity?

I don't think that a man at that time who married a woman who already had children would have been considered their "father", since blood lines were considered so important and blood lines went through the male. Thus I doubt that there was any designation such as we use today which would equal our "step-father" label. If I am correct in this, then this text does indeed speak explicitly of not only the children, but the grandchildren of any woman whom the man "has sexual relations with" and would thus be at the same time more explicit and more broad in its application than as if it had merely said "step-father" or even had said a man's wife's children and grandchildren. Stated as it is, this text covers every woman with whom he has had sexual relation -- including not only his legal wife (or wives) but any other woman with whom he had had sex, whether in the permitted categories or in any and all of these forbidden categories.

So, yes, I agree that using this text.... or rather the absence of the specific wording you note..... as being an "excuse" for sexually "assaulting" or even "sexually fondling" their own "daughters" is completely unexcusable and a gross twisting of scripture. Any scholar worth his "salt" should see more, not fewer, implications in a text than a mere "straight read through" seems to indicate.

Burton's view is somewhat compelling. Jesus stresses the one-ness that should not be put assunder and says that Mose's decree was in fact only for the hardness of their hearts. It was Moses' decree that permitted divorce at all. Moreover, as Burton notes if adultery were to free one from marriage, and Jesus had defined it as lust, then it would be very easy to be released!

Great word study, btw.

One thing I would add is the observation that of the gospel witnesses, Matthew alone includes the porneia exception. Mark 10 records the same statement of Jesus as in Matthew 19 as "Anyone who divorces his wife and marries another woman commits adultery against her. And if she divorces her husband and marries another man, she commits adultery." And Luke 16 records it as "Anyone who divorces his wife and marries another woman commits adultery, and the man who marries a divorced woman commits adultery."

This explains the disciples shocked reaction, "Well, if that is so, it would be better not to marry at all." This would also close the "Burton's view" loophole. And both of these witnesses' version are entirely consistent with His preliminary statement that what God has joined, no man is to take apart as well as the exceedingly high and humanly unattainable standard that even lustful thoughts are adultery.... I think it safe to say that we all flunked that test...

fact, in Jesus' statement in Matthew 19 He uses both as well. The grounds for divorce and remarriage were "porneia" and the resulting sin if this was not present was causing them to commit adultery, "moichatai."

This indicates that either porneia was distinct from adultery or was a broader word that also included adultery.
(Strong's)
porneia
por-ni'-ah
from G4203; harlotry (including adultery and incest); figuratively idolatry: - fornication.

μοιχειά
moicheia
moy-khi'-ah
From G3431; adultery: - adultery.

The next text of interest is I Corinthians 7.
Here is it is clear that marriage was intended partly as a means to help resist sexual immorality (porneia) by unmarried people. In other words, if you are lusting, get married. Here fornication is used of the unmarried probably in the sense of sex outside of marriage.
In the Acts council they enforced upon the gentiles the same requirements already made of "strangers" (ie. Gentiles) living among the Israelites in the law. The sexual immorality mentioned in Acts is spelled out in its various forms in Leviticus. The list includes acts done while married (wife's sister) which would be problematic both as adultery and as having sex with close relations.
It appears that porneia could carry a number of connotations. Adultery, incest, pre-marital sex, etc.
So with this information in mind the question comes up, what did Jesus mean by his exception clause? There are a few views.

a. Only literal, physical adultery would release someone from the marriage and allow for remarriage.
b. Fornication previous to the marriage that was later discovered would allow for divorce and subsequent remarriage. (Some would say that adultery would not allow for this but fornication before marriage would... (See Keith Burton's Ministry Magazine article http://www.lifeheritage.org/Divorce%20and%20Remarriage.pdf).
c. Any sexual uncleanness, not necessarily physical adultery (pornography, cyber sex, etc., emotional affairs, phone sex, etc.) would come under porneia and therefore qualify since porneia is much broader than the more limited term moicheia
d. There are no grounds for divorce except for an non-sacramental marriage in the first place, which would indicate pre-marital fornication, or a marriage based on incest (this would be the Catholic version, see this article for one exposition of it:
http://members.aol.com/johnprh/marriage.html).
It seems that any type of inappropriate sexual activity could qualify as porneia. For that matter, Jesus spoke of lust as adultery. But the question seems to be more about what Jesus had in mind by the word porneia, and therefore what would qualify as an exception, than whether phone sex (if that is what Danny meant by these conversations that were taped) would count as porneia. Note, we haven't heard these conversations, so who knows what they really have on them.

To me phone sex would be porneia. It is "sexual immorality" or porneia in the broad sense. The only question though is whether Jesus really intended porneia in the broad sense, or whether he meant it as a synonym for adultery in this context, or whether he meant it specifically as pre-marital fornication as in Burton's view.
The Catholic view has some internal problems as porneia seems to be used for more than just pre-marital infidelity at times, and in the list in Leviticus it includes what would be adulterous relationships.

The physical adultery only view would be understandable due to the feelings of betrayal it causes. However, one must ask why it is that the word for adultery is not used when Jesus clearly uses it later in the text? If He wanted to make it specific He knew how. Others would say that perhaps Jesus was simply using variety of expression, and certainly we do see that at times in all languages.

Your definition is correct Simp. However this should be taken into account whenever you look at someone and just wonder.... it don't even have to go as deep as sex. It could just be seeing some lips and wondering how they kiss....or seeing someone's hands and wondering how they would feel giving a hug....

Jimmy Carter was asked if he had ever committed adultery. He stated yes. There was a big uproar. He then stated something akin to this:

"I'm a man. I have looked at a pretty woman. I have wondered how it would be to kiss her. I have even wondered about sex a few times....but I have never physically done it. I love my wife...."

Now.

Using the definition I agree - It's adultery....but using the definition.....is there anyone that hasn't committed said offense - ever?

When a person makes a conscious decision to stay and or place himself/herself in a state of mind where they "linger" in thoughts of lust and/or sexual activity for someone who is not their spouse (whether married or single), then scripture states that this is adultery. Not the temptation, but staying there in the mind or acting on the emotive thoughts or feelings.

Jesus told Mary "Go and sin no more"....

Now with that stated, if a person engages in consistent behaviors (i.e. phone sex, internet cam video, pornographic web-sites) and does not want to stop--especially when caught, whether or not they have actually touched the other person physically, it would then appear that this is adultery.

Additional thoughts?

So should we look at it when folk are fixated on the sexual habits of others as that person's attempting to commit adultery?

You know when your man is "lusting after you or someone else" by the way he looks at you or them....while there are always exceptions to the rules, in general this is a fair beginning. Some other signs may include him calling you by another name, etc.

As a counselor, getting into people's minds and interpreting their thought is what you do....there is even in counseling a difference between jugdement and logical conclusion based on the information/evidence presented. As Children of God, He gives us the power to think and draw conclusions to help keep us safe as well.

Go deeper.....

I could be walking with my man...and his head turn. This does not mean that he is "lusting" in his heart (at that moment)

....unless you can read his mind. (and again - this is the exact "explanation" that is being used by folks to state they can "divorce" their spouse.) Claiming to know their "minds"...without having true evidence on record (a "name" stated in passion, connecting letters, taped phone conversation, DNA from a baby....)

He could be admiring her for her beauty.
He could think he knows her.
He could know her and it be a "relative".
He could turn and not even be looking at her - he could be looking at someone else and you get it twisted.

The "expletive" that he exclaims could be to admire (lust), it could be in disgust, it could be in jest, it could be in shock. Again - unless you have the power of JESUS and can read his mind.

If you know something is not "right" in the relationship - it was "wrong" long before you started to think about what you think they are thinking.....

I can always state what I know in my mind - but to assume what is in someone else's mind. I can "guess"...I can deduce. But to be assuredly right?

Nope.

I ain't GOD.

I accept the logical conclusion of scripture regarding the identity of the "woman taken in adultery"....I also accept EGW inspiration from God specifically stating that it was Mary Magdalene.

These two things are mutually exclusive; the "logical conclusion of scripture" is that the woman's name is not known and not divulged. The logical conclusion of scripture says the DOA is wrong because not only does DOA make this woman (along with the woman of Nain in Luke 7) out to be Mary Magdalene, it makes Mary Magdalene out to be Mary of Bethany, sister of Martha and Lazarus... which is not only altogether not consistent with scripture; it's plain and unadulterated doctrinal error.

DOA saying it's Mary Magdalene is not inspired; there are bible commentators who make the same speculation long before EGW... but if you study the origins of that position, it originated with Pope Gregory VII... and it is inconsistent with scripture. It's a popular error and many continue to subscribe to it... but so is saying that the sacredness of the Sabbath has been transferred to sunday.

Eisegetical thinking is the cause of most doctrinal error... and on this, you continue to think eisegetically. Rather than drawing conclusions and them trying to shoehorn scripture into them to make it fit what you already believe, try allowing what scripture say to determine what you should believe. EGW never desired that any view her as having ex cathedra infallibility and she knew she could and had occasionally erred and admitted such... why is it so hard for some to accept that part of what she says as being inspired (or that she even said it at all) ?

Relationships and the human psyche are much to complex to make a blanket statement that is 'the same for everyone"....no question about that. Proverbs and Matthew both focus on the importance for the individual to check himself spiritually and guard their thoughts and temptations they knowingly place themselves in.....I also believe that in more cases than not god allows us to know for ourselves---not to attempt to be god (little "g"), but so that we are not clueless and taken advantage of unnecessarily (acceptions to apply as God is sovereign), especially when you pray and ask God to make it clear.

No matter who we choose to call the woman caught in adultery, Jesus still told her to "go, and sin no more".

QUOTE(PrincessDrRe @ Aug 3 2006, 12:17 AM)

Go deeper.....

I could be walking with my man...and his head turn. This does not mean that he is "lusting" in his heart (at that moment)

....unless you can read his mind. (and again - this is the exact "explanation" that is being used by folks to state they can "divorce" their spouse.) Claiming to know their "minds"...without having true evidence on record (a "name" stated in passion, connecting letters, taped phone conversation, DNA from a baby....)

He could be admiring her for her beauty.
He could think he knows her.
He could know her and it be a "relative".
He could turn and not even be looking at her - he could be looking at someone else and you get it twisted.

The "expletive" that he exclaims could be to admire (lust), it could be in disgust, it could be in jest, it could be in shock. Again - unless you have the power of JESUS and can read his mind.

If you know something is not "right" in the relationship - it was "wrong" long before you started to think about what you think they are thinking.....

I can always state what I know in my mind - but to assume what is in someone else's mind. I can "guess"...I can deduce. But to be assuredly right?

Nope.

I ain't GOD.

That is all I was trying to say. One cannot make blanket statements that are all negatively based....when in fact it could be the total opposite.

I also agree that GOD allows us to "know for ourselves"...however this is also dependent on the psyche of the person.... *(Ever had a person tell you - "you had to have seen it coming? If you had seen it then their would be no reason for it!)

BlackSDA _ 3ABN _ Questions For 3abn Conservatives

Posted by: Clay Jul 26 2006, 05:52 PM

A great thread was started by Gregory Matthews on CA directed towards 3abn conservatives, but I am posting here because the questions are great... here they are....Bro Matthews said:

QUOTE

Introduction:

3-ABN appears to me to be a ministry dedicated to presenting the gospel from the standpoint of conservative Seventh-day Adventists. It speaks of it's mission as presenting the "undiluted" gospel. That clearly appears to me to be a conservative viewpoint that suggests that the gospel may have been diluted by some, and calls for a return to a purity in faith and proclamation.

It has been said that Linda Shelton got into trouble with her conservative SDA supporters due to the fact that they saw her as to liberal in her music. I know nothing as to the accuracy of that comment. But, it supports my view that 3-ABN is a ministry that derives major support from the conservative block within the Seventh-day Adventist Church.

If this is true, I consider that to be a positive rather than a negative. I am pleased to see that several blocks co-exist within the SDA Church. While I do think that some of the issues that seem to divide them will only be resolved by God, I am pleased that some diversity exists within the church that is my home. I am pleased that this conservative block can find a means to do the mission that they believe God has given them.

I personally hope for the time when the various blocks within the SDA Church can work more closely together in achieving a common goal, and/or mission.

As I have observed the unfold saga of events with 3-ABN I have been confused. I have had questions raised in my mind as to how certain events could unfold as they are doing, from a group of people that I see as conservative Seventh-day Adventists. Some aspects of this unfolding saga appear to me to lie outside of what I see as reflecting conservative SDA viewpoints.

Question # 1:

How does the position that 3-ABN seems to have taken in regard to divorce and remarriage coincide with the conservative SDA position?

As I have understood the conservative SDA position to be that divorce and re-marriage are only justified on the basis of actual adultery on the part of the other person. The conservatives that I have known have often decried the increasing liberalization that they see creeping into the SDA with a lowering of standards, as they see it, a denominational position that allows divorce and remarriage for just about any reason. I often hear them telling me that a recent General Conference is a good example of this increasing liberalization regarding divorce and remarriage.

In regard to Danny and Linda, official statements from 3-ABN have informed us that they have never had proof that Danny's wife committed physical adultery with another person. They have spoken about "spiritual adultery," which I am going to assume pertains to someone's thinking. Well, that seems to be a denial of the conservative position in regard to physical adultery being the only just cause. I am perplexed. This whole issue seems to be that of our conservatives now telling us that divorce and remarriage is justified on some ethereal basis that is not that of a previous rigid conservative standard. How is it that those who have formerly decried the liberalization of the denomination, now seem to have gone to a much more liberal position, which denies the previous conservative position?

Of course there is another position held by some conservatives that people in positions of spiritual leadership should not hold those positions if they have been married to more than one person. Some even say that a spiritual leader should not marry the second time if the first marriage ended by death. Others would allow that, but not in the case of divorce.

I ask again: How does the position that 3-ABN seems to have taken in regard to divorce and remarriage coincide with the conservative SDA position?

Question 2:

How does the position that 3-ABN seems to have taken relate to the conservative position that God calls us to stand for truth, and righteousness?

The claim has been made, and I do not know if the claim is accurate, that regardless of truth, Linda should be sacrificed for the "good" of 3-ABN. My focus will not be on those who are said to have stated such thoughts. Whether true or not, no statement from 3-ABN that I am aware of has ever denied such claims. That silence has indicated to me that whether the specifics of the claim are true, such an attitude exists—it may be appropriate to sacrifice the one for the better good of God's ministry.

That attitude, regardless of the specifics strikes at the heart of conservative Seventh-day Adventists who as I have understood them have proclaimed that God expects His followers to stand for truth, righteousness, and justice regardless of popular opinion. The conservative position, as I have understood it, is that when an organization stands for truth, righteousness, and justice, God will take care of the rest. People are not to worry about the effect of taking such a stand. It is in God's hands.

I cannot help but be reminded of a Biblical passage that speaks to this issue. You will find it in John 11:50. Here the popular thinking was that it was better for one to be sacrificed than for the whole to suffer injury. As I do not know the accuracy of the specifics in this claim, I do not apply this verse to anyone.

Rather I am speaking to the attitude expressed by those who tell us that it was better for Linda to be sacrificed than for 3-ABN, God's chosen agency, to suffer harm.

I ask my question again, to those conservative SDAs: Where is your call to stand for truth, righteousness, and justice, wherever it leads? I do not see that coming from you. How did you work to bring truth and justice to the investigation of the charges against Linda? How did you treat her fairly, and give her full freedom to disprove the charges against her? How did you act in a manner to treat her by common standards of ethics, and fairness?

Question # 3:

How does the record of the manner in which Linda has been treated coincide with the call of many conservatives to treat people with compassion?

Conservatives in all venues generally attempt to portray themselves as compassionate conservatives. This is born out by 3-ABN that talks about mending broken people. So, I assume that it is the claim of 3-ABN to treat people with compassion.

Recently I was watching a 3-ABN interview with a couple dedicated to that call to mend broken people. The conversation included discussion of clergy sex abuse. Twice, in the conversation, Danny Shelton referenced his marital situation, without naming Linda, in regard to a professional seducing his former wife. Regardless of the truth of those statements, they were unnecessary. Nothing in the conversation otherwise called for them to be made. They simply served to trash a woman to whom he was married for about two decades. This to me was not an example of compassion.

Danny and Linda Shelton are divorced, and Danny is remarried. Nothing can be done to restore a broken marriage. Compassion would allow those parties to get on with their lives. For Linda, that is assuming her carrier as a concert artist. As she has booked concerts, individuals have contacted the sponsors of those concerts, and provided them with negative information about her, that appears to be attempts to interfere with her occupation as a concert artist.

NOTE: I do not make any claims that this is being organized by 3-ABN. It is simply happening. Individuals are apparently doing such.

This has enraged many people. Women who have not taken the position that Linda is innocent are enraged at what seems to be efforts to interfere with her life. They state that regardless of her guilt or innocence, she should be allowed to move on, and support herself. Men are enraged at this also.

I ask again: How does conduct such as this coincide with the conservative call to treat people with compassion?

Question # 4:

How does the conservative call for truth coincide with a treatment of Linda that is often one-half of the story?

The truth can only be known, and justice can only be done, when the full story is known.

It is claimed that the 3-ABN Board acted at time when they refused to allow Linda and/or her supporters to attend and to personally respond to the charges. This places the Board in a situation where they may be perceived as only hearing one-half of the truth.

It is claimed that a recorded telephone conversation provides compelling evidence against Linda. Yet, it is acknowledged that the conversation only records Linda's comments, and not the other participant in the conversation. Fair people would most likely believe that little could be determined from such.

A certain pregnancy test kit is implied to be conclusive evidence of wrong doing. Possession, and/or purchase of such is not such evidence. I have purchased such a kit. Is that a presumption that I, a male, have become pregnant due to wrong doing? I can only be presumed to be pregnant by someone who follows the premise laid out in the movie THE RABBIT TEST.

According to posts recently made, Linda is said to acknowledge that she purchased that pregnancy kit. It is said that she purchased it during the time she was married to one Danny Shelton, and was living with him. Folks that was important information that should have been told to us by the person mentioning that kit. In the posts mentioned at the first of this paragraph, we are told why Linda purchased that kit. Folks, do we have to get into the personal details of the marital relations between Linda and Danny? I would hope not. Let us simply say here that the implied charge against Linda apparently did not contain all of the truth about the matter.

I ask again: How does the conservative call for truth and justice coincide with a treatment of Linda that appears to often be one-half of the story?

vhat do you all think?

Posted by: Uncle Sam Jul 26 2006, 08:28 PM

I think most would consider me a conservative SDA. I am sickened by the way this whole thing was handled. I cannot believe two "Christians" couldn't work this out. If they couldn't than I believe if one left they both should have. Linda should not have had a gag order on her unless Danny had the same. I am sick of hearing him make his "little" comments. I am unable to watch 3ABN since Danny remarried. I think it is a disgrace that he married a lady younger than his daughter.

I think it is a disgrace what they did to Linda and they let Danny's daughter on 3ABN. After her pregnancy and marriage. I am not sure what kindof place it is up there where marriage/divorce and remarriage seems to be normal. It is like a bad soap opera up there.

I personally loved Linda's music. I have heard from several people that they felt her music was questionable. And that all of 3ABN seemed to be getting too liberal. I rarely watched it except for Linda's talks on "the porch". If that is why they wanted her gone than why didn't they just say so instead of ruining her reputation?

I believe that we need to "demand" the proof that Danny says is there. The pregnancy test could be reasoned away, the phone call could have been twisted if there is only one side being heard. Walt says they never caught them in bed together, but he believes there was an affair. What other proof do they have? Danny wrote me and said Linda went on vacation with the Dr. How does he know? If you read Brenda's book you can see what stupid choices she made in her life, she seems to be continuing. I cannot imagine being married for 20+ years and give it up because he said/she said.

I would like for people to show something concrete once and for all what really happened. Why did Danny want Linda gone so bad? Where is the proof he had plans for him and Brandy? Why did all of 3ABN turn their back on Linda so easily? Where were her friends/co-workers when all of this was happening? I cannot believe that the people up there were so snowed by Danny. They had to know what kind of person Linda was, did they think she could fall so easily??????

Posted by: princessdi Jul 26 2006, 09:33 PM

I think those are excellent questions make the point I have made from the beginning. No matter what Linda actually did or did not do, I am really disturbed at 3ABN's handling of the whole situation. completely unCHRIST-like. All the while claiming to be leaders in christian living. And it is really disturbing that Danny sorry tail is yet and still running around like the victim! "a professional seduced his former wife"? Give me a break!!! He got his little young thing, give it a rest!!! Him and his friend are all going to be crispy critters!!

Ok, Sorry I just went there for a minute. I'm back now.....

Uncle Sam I consider myself a conservative. (at least I think I am) I have all the same questions as you. Ive watched 3abn off and on sense 1991 and I could hardly stand to listen to Danny speak let alone hear any of the Sheltons sing. (I'm not sure who told that family that they could sing but they must of had a good laugh at the time.) Most people that I've talked with have been saying from the beginning when they heard about Linda supposedly having an affair that they didn't believe it. Linda was the one who blessed others with her ministry and you could tell she had a relationship with Jesus where as Danny only babbled. It was the same questions, comments, pat answers for every show or person interviewed and it's been that way for 20 yrs.

It's been said that 3abn is the face of the SDA church, but they are not what I think of when I think of SDA's. It should be Jesus and Him only that we hold up, and when we start putting a person or ministry upon a pedestal (especially if it's not what everyone agrees with) then there is something wrong. I wish I had all the answers, but it tells me more then ever that if 3abn is the face of the SDA church then there must be something very wrong with our church.

As we say in St. Thomas..."the whole long and short of it" is that Linda was becoming more popular and likeable than Danny. She made a true connection with the audience and Danny was not going to stand for that.

I have to agree I think that is it in a nutshell along with my personal opinion that Brandy forced his hand as well so have to marry her now. That was one reason I think he had to let his brother Kenny go as well back in the beginning because he was the one everyone liked & was getting a bigger response from people. We all know that Danny has to be in complete control & charge of it all so we can't let anyone become bigger than us.

Posted by: Uncle Sam Jul 27 2006, 11:20 AM

I am not saying all that has been said about Danny is not true but, if he was/is all these things, why did God call him in the first place? Or do you all believe he wasn't called? From what I have read Danny has been like this from the beginning.....

Posted by: Jvat Jul 27 2006, 11:52 AM

Hey Uncle Sam, did God call Judas or did he just join the disciples? Did God really call Danny? And then there is also Saul whom God called as the King and yet he was a big disapointment!

Judas was called..... just like the others...

Joh 6:67-71
(67) Then said Jesus unto the twelve, Will ye also go away?
(68) Then Simon Peter answered him, Lord, to whom shall we go? thou hast the words of eternal life.
(69) And we believe and are sure that thou art that Christ, the Son of the living God.
(70) Jesus answered them, Have not I chosen you twelve, and one of you is a devil?
(71) He spake of Judas Iscariot the son of Simon: for he it was that should betray him, being one of the twelve.

I like this rendering better...

> QUOTE
>
> John 6:67-71
> (67) So Jesus asked the twelve apostles, "Do you want to leave me too?"
> (68) Simon Peter answered Jesus, "Lord, to what person could we go? Your words give eternal life.
> (69) Besides, we believe and know that you are the Holy One of God."
> (70) Jesus replied, "I chose all twelve of you. Yet, one of you is a devil."
> (71) Jesus meant Judas, son of Simon Iscariot. Judas, who was one of the twelve apostles, would later betray Jesus.

I am not trying to defend Danny at all. These are just questions that come up in my mind as I hear more and more about the 3ABN situation. It is hard to believe all that has gone on in the past couple of years. It is like you cannot believe anything any of them say. I wrote to John Lomacang about something he said and he, I believe, was less than honest about what I questioned. It is such a shame that what they are doing is in the name of Christianity.....

Posted by: simplysaved Jul 27 2006, 12:11 PM

I agree with your well-made points. My experience was that there was too much of ALL of them and not enough diversity to reflect the Seventh-day Adventist Church--in every area. I found it to be like watching Jim and Tammy Faye Baker---Paul and Jan Crouch....and for those that do watch TBN from time to time, you will notice that they are not seen no where near as much as they used to on "Praise the Lord". You see other people hosting and a more diversity representation of genres and shows---including It Is Written & Lifestyle Magazine.

There is a very real sense in which God calls everyone. That call is to leave their life of sin, follow Him, and become His representative. Not everyone responds to that call. And not everyone who claims to have had not only that general call, but some special call, is telling the truth.

Danny had a "track record" of being a con man, of looking for a way to make an easy buck, of taking advantage of others and "ripping them off" long before he claims to have had this "call of God" to this "special ministry". But it is "by their fruit ye shall know them". And one of the first "fruits" is that of repentance. And repentance always includes restitution. Looking back, where were the fruits of repentance and restitution at the time that Danny claims to have had this "vision" from God that appointed him, Danny, to this special work? If we look at the records, the official histories that have been written about Danny and 3ABN, do we find any mention of the kinds of repentance which bring forth restitution of the monies, goods, and reputations of those he had specifically "sinned against" in the past? I have found none. What we do find is a continuation of his same patterns of life that had earned him the reputation of being a "con man" in the past. And we find this great ministry that he claimed he was given in a vision by God being "validated" by "lying miracles"--that is to say by claiming "miracles" that in fact did not even happen, but were deliberately fabricated for the purpose of attracting the gullible.

I really don't think the question as to whether God called him in the first place is an appropriate one. The question is, if there was such a "call", how did Danny respond? Did he bring forth fruits--including those of conviction of specific sins in his own life, contrition for those, repentance from the harm he had brought to others, and restitution in so far as he was able for this harm? Were the old habits exchanged for new ones? Did he become a man of integrity and truthfulness? These and many more questions could and should be asked. And if the answer is always "no", then the answer is also "no" to question of whether he was "called of God" in the sense of being given any special "anointing" from God, and the answer is "no" to the question of whether he should continue to be considered a true representative of God and the one who "represents the SDA church to the world." The "face of Adventism" indeed. We may have those among us who exhibit the characteristics Danny has exhibited, but we are not as a whole group so degraded as to be fairly represented by Danny Shelton.

Did he bring forth fruits--including those of conviction of specific sins in his own life, contrition for those, repentance from the harm he had brought to others, and restitution in so far as he was able for this harm? Were the old habits exchanged for new ones? Did he become a man of integrity and truthfulness? These and many more questions could and should be asked. And if the answer is always "no", then the answer is also "no" to question of whether he was "called of God" in the sense of being given any special "anointing" from God, and the answer is "no" to the question of whether he should continue to be considered a true representative of God and the one who "represents the SDA church to the world." The "face of Adventism" indeed. We may have those among us who exhibit the characteristics Danny has exhibited, but we are not as a whole group so degraded as to be fairly represented by Danny Shelton.

Don't forget that Samuel (God's prophet and servant) anointed Saul to be the King of Israel. However, Saul conducted himself in a less than anointed manner which seemed to begin when he (in his mind) was upstaged by David. He convinced people that David was out to kill him, which was not true. These accusations were spread abroad and people deemed David to be a criminal and that he should be executed for treason. In addition, these false accusations dominated Saul's mind to the point that he blatantly disobeyed God by not waiting on Samuel and later he visited the Witch of Endor after Samuel died. David was a man after God's own heart. Linda is a woman who truly loves God.

In my mind, there seems to be a parallel between Saul's experience/demise and Danny's experience/demise. I believe that Danny will self-destruct. God will get tired of this mess and put an end to this foolishness.

Before you put to much weight on the Saul/Danny parallel, it would be a good idea to look at their lives previous to the time of Saul's anointing as compared to Danny's before his self-proclaimed "call".

QUOTE(Jvat @ Jul 27 2006, 12:52 PM)

Hey Uncle Sam, did God call Judas or did he just join the disciples? Did God really call Danny? And then there is also Saul whom God called as the King and yet he was a big disapointment!

This is what the Spirit of Prophecy says about Judas linking up with the disciples....

QUOTE

While Jesus was preparing the disciples for their ordination, one who had not been summoned urged his presence among them. It was Judas Iscariot, a man who professed to be a follower of Christ. He now came forward, soliciting a place in this inner circle of disciples. With great earnestness and apparent sincerity he declared, "Master, I will follow Thee whithersoever Thou goest." Jesus neither repulsed nor welcomed him, but uttered only the mournful words: "The foxes have holes, and the birds of the air have nests; but the Son of man hath not where to lay His head." Matt. 8:19, 20. Judas believed Jesus to be the Messiah; and by joining the apostles, he hoped to secure a high position in the new kingdom. This hope Jesus designed to cut off by the statement of His poverty. {DA 293.2}
The disciples were anxious that Judas should become one of their number. He was of commanding appearance, a man of keen discernment and executive ability, and they commended him to Jesus as one who would greatly assist Him in His work. They were surprised that Jesus received him so coolly. {DA 294.1} that is NOT what the bible says... Jesus said he called 12 and one was a devil....

I believe from reading this quote, that Judas just joined the disciples...."without being summoned."

QUOTE

John 6:67-71
(67) Then said Jesus unto the twelve, Will ye also go away?
(68) Then Simon Peter answered him, Lord, to whom shall we go? thou hast the words of eternal life.
(69) And we believe and are sure that thou art that Christ, the Son of the living God.
(70) Jesus answered them, Have not I chosen you twelve, and one of you is a devil?
(71) He spake of Judas Iscariot the son of Simon: for he it was that should betray him, being one of the twelve.

Now.... who you gonna trust? (the adventist conundrum rears its head...)

I don't think it has to be a "conundrum". I think they can be seen as complementary. Ellen can quite well mean that Jesus did not go out looking for Judas, nor "call" him to leave his place of employment as he did with some others. She also says that he did not "repluse" him. And he did accept him and ordain him as he did the others--which can, as you indicate scripture makes more clear, be interpreted as an official "call" to join the 12.

And his statement as recorded in scripture can be interpreted to mean that He knew Judas was a "devil" from the beginning and "ordained" him anyway, or that He really had hopes that Judas would change his character through his association with Himself and the other disciples.

Which ever way we take it, it still comes out meaning that it is not correct to assume that just because God once "calls" someone to a task, or even to ministry, that that guarantees that the man should continue to be regarded as one who "represents God" no matter what the fruits of his life show.

don't see it as complimentary at all... EGW fills in a lot of info that the bible is silent on.... When the ›ible says that Jesus "called" twelve, either he did or didn't.... the scenario painted in DA (one of my avs) is not found in scripture and while some are comfortable sharing that as the gospel truth, I am ıot...

Well, on face value, Clay, you seem to make sense.

But if you look at the text that you quoted again, we see that Jesus said that he CHOSE and not CALLED twelve. So with the difference in these words in mind, (that he could have chosen him, after his disciples recommended Judas, even after not intentionally calling him), we can give Watchbird's take some credence, can we not? And still get the message that "once chosen is not always chosen"?

'ou are reading DOA into the text...producing a position that is inherently eisegetical.

.uk 6:12-16 And it came to pass in those days, that he went out into a mountain to pray, and :ontinued all night in prayer to God. (13) And when it was day, he called unto him his disciples: ınd of them he chose twelve, whom also he named apostles*; (14) Simon, (whom he also* named Peter,) and Andrew his brother, James and John, Philip and Bartholomew, (15) Matthew and Thomas, James the son of Alphaeus, and Simon called Zelotes, (16) And Judas the brother of James, and Judas Iscariot, which also was the traitor.

Had Judas not been one of those counted his disciples, he would not have been present to be chosen. We are not informed how he came to be in that number... but he was called along with the rest when the time for choosing the 12 came to pass.

No getting around it, no explaining it away in order to reconcile DOA with the scriptural record... I suppose it begs the question of why it is so imprtant to Adventists that EGW be infallible when deemed to be speaking ex cathedra... but that is another topic altogether.

In His service,

Mar 3:9 And he spake to his disciples, that a small ship should wait on him because of the multitude, lest they should throng him.
Mar 3:10 For he had healed many; insomuch that they pressed upon him for to touch him, as many as had plagues.
Mar 3:11 And unclean spirits, when they saw him, fell down before him, and cried, saying, Thou art the Son of God.
Mar 3:12 And he straitly charged them that they should not make him known.
Mar 3:13 And he goeth up into a mountain, and calleth unto him whom he would: and they came unto him.
Mar 3:14 And he ordained twelve, that they should be with him, and that he might send them forth to preach,
Mar 3:15 And to have power to heal sicknesses, and to cast out devils:
Mar 3:16 And Simon he surnamed Peter;
Mar 3:17 And James the son of Zebedee, and John the brother of James; and he surnamed them Boanerges, which is, The sons of thunder:
Mar 3:18 And Andrew, and Philip, and Bartholomew, and Matthew, and Thomas, and James the son of Alphaeus, and Thaddaeus, and Simon the Canaanite, Mar 3:19 And Judas Iscariot, which also betrayed him: and they went into an house.

Luk 6:12 And it came to pass in those days, that he went out into a mountain to pray, and continued all night in prayer to God.
Luk 6:13 And when it was day, he called unto him his disciples: and of them he chose twelve, whom also he named apostles;
Luk 6:14 Simon, (whom he also named Peter,) and Andrew his brother, James and John, Philip and Bartholomew, Luk 6:15 Matthew and Thomas, James the son of Alphaeus, and Simon called Zelotes, Luk 6:16 And Judas the brother of James, and Judas Iscariot, which also was the traitor.
Luk 6:17 And he came down with them, and stood in the plain, and the company of his disciples, and a great multitude of people out of all Judaea and Jerusalem, and from the sea coast of Tyre and Sidon, which came to hear him, and to be healed of their diseases;

From these two accounts, it seems clear that being one of Jesus diciples and being one of the twelve is two different things. Thus Judas could have just quietly joined the diciples and then later when Jesus called the twelve out of his more numerous diciples, he was called aswell. Its a possibility which Mark and Luke open the door for.
