BlackSDA _ 3ABN _ Pictures Of Danny Shelton's House And Other Buildings At 3abn

Posted by: Rosyroi Feb 4 2007, 12:10 PM

There are some of us who have never been to the 3ABN compound. The only pictures most of us who don't live near T'Ville or have been to any campmeetings are those that are allowed by the staff. I am curious about Danny Shelton's house, horses and other staff homes and the apartment buildings and the school grounds and the outside of the T'Ville church. If someone within BSDA or others lurking have any pictures of any of the buildings and others I can't remember at this moment to ask about, I would love it if they could be posted in this forum for all to view. By my asking this publically Danny would be alerted. Taking pictures now, unless an awed visitor accidentally stumbled onto Danny's home, wouldn't be a good idea. Thank you in advance.

Will you also be asking for pictures of Linda's home & pool?

Since Danny finally admitted Linda did not commit adultery, and that we are now focusing more on Danny and Tommy Shelton alleged situations we are not really discussing Linda anymore but that is a good question. I would love to see that Huge pool of Linda's. wonder if she had to fold it up and put it in the garage for the winter. (just being silly... I have no idea how big it is). Also would love to see her house. I am not prejudice. One house or the other or both, doesn't make any difference to me.

Also I would like pictures of Linda's other places she lived. My memory is foggy... one of them was either a mobil home or a trailer. The one Danny helped her move into that she didn't live in very long.

Where in the world did you get the info that Dan finally "admitted" that Linda did not commit adultery? Whoever told you that is 100% wrong. He has never ever said that.

You are correct that she moved into a mobile home for a short period of time. Not only did danny help her move but he spent his own money (approx) 1,500.00 to build her a deck just because she wanted one. (I believe he has all the receipts.) If memory serves me, I believe (I could be wrong but don't think so) that during this time period he drove her to her botox appointment because she shouldn't drive afterward...Now does that sound like a man who set her up, kicked her out and laughed evilly the whole time????

Where in the world did you get the info that Dan finally "admitted" that Linda did not commit adultery? Whoever told you that is 100% wrong. He has never ever said that.

Dr. Thompson has stated publicly that they have no proof that Linda Shelton committed physical adultery.

Danny Shelton has stated that he has never publicly accused Linda Shelton of spiritual adultery.

I think but I am not 100 % positive that Danny Shelton has denied ever publicly stating that Linda Shelton committed physical adultery.

However, both have stated that Linda Shelton had an inappropriate relationship with Dr. A. And, they have made further statements that would lead one to think that they believe Linda Shelton may have committed physical adultery.

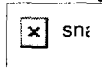

One should keep in mind the distinction that one can make between stating something PUBLICLY and stating it PRIVATELY. Think for a minute about that. One might not make a statement publicly (such as post it on the Internet) and yet say the same thing privately (that is in a letter that went to specific people).

If I am wrong, I invite anyone to correct me. Bystander, I also invite your comment. If I am wrong, tell me.

I would like to comment. The only way to have proof that someone committed adultery is if you are there and see the act being committed and/or have pictures of the act. I would say that 98% of people are not going to have that kind of "proof." A spouse usually "knows" what is going on eventually, by different things. Whether it be lots of "private" phone conversations that they are not privy to or overhearing "incriminating" words of love, lust, or bashing of the spouse, or catching the accused in lies, it all adds up. There might also be other evidence but not of the act itself. So, by Dr. Walt or Danny or anyone else saying they don't have 100% proof does not exonerate or "make innocent" the other party. How many people have divorced because the person knew that the spouse was having an affair but didn't have pics or any such thing to back it up. They knew in other ways. Now, that said, 3ABN was "required" by it's viewers and supporters to state the reasons that Linda was dismissed. They were "required" to give an accountability. It is my understanding that The statements had to be made, knowing that if they were ever forced to produce evidence, they could. Any organization would have that "accountability" and a legal statement can be released on the dismissal.

I don't have pictures, except one from a distance of Danny's house. I have been to all three houses mentioned here. I'd say that mobile home was like a doghouse in comparison with the home Linda moved away from, even after Danny "fixed" it up.

come on folks how are can it be for danny's supports to drive over to his house and take a picture of it.

for that matter i am not even sure why the whole house thing is stilling coming it seems to a side issue of tyhe two main questions?

1. what is going to be done to get Tommy s. the help he needs to aface his actions.?
2. Did danny lie about his grounds for divorce?

just my thoughts.

Really? If memory serves me correctly Linda had a huge hand in designing what is now Danny's house. He did not want to make it as big as she wanted to make it. She did all the decorating and picked out all the furniture. Regardless, what is the point because it appears that Linda was compensated well for her half of the house, furniture, ect. With that money and the money from 3ABN it would seem she made out tremendously well...

I know that she picked out the temporary mobile home to live in. Do you think she would have chosen a "dog house."

Danny likes to make houses according to his own size. Just see what he did to Owen Troy. Danny and Kenny did not follow the pattern and agreement, according to what Ann told me.

Seems like What Would Danny Do? can be quite different from What Would Jesus Do?

If anyone you don't like has no credibility, you live in a narrow little world. That would explain why you believe them to be credible. You like them. You all agree with each other. Trouble is, real life, outside of this forum, is not like that. I would guess you probably have a hard time in that world too.

don't particularly like you either.... likewise your credibility is zero... you don't need to tell me about real life, I live it daily.... as to whether or not I have difficulty in the real world, you don't know me, and that is fine with me..... you are also a provocateur, a tiresome one....

One might be better served having the information being sought sent to one personally rather than posted on BSDA proper. We would not want anyone accusing the membership here of making such information available to the world for reasons other than curiosity, would we?

There may be a few people interested in "seeing" where they live but, for the most part, I doubt the whole body of BSDA is as concerned about where they lives as some may be interested in the quality of life of those they care about.

It is my prayer that Linda is living in peace and receiving strength through Christ Jesus. It is also my prayer that she receives all that the Lord desires for her, as He continues to build a hedge of protection about her in the midst of the trials she is experiencing. She will come out of this experience refined as gold tried in the fire.

Due to the recent breakin of Linda' home I am requesting to have this site closed permanently. Too bad it can't be wiped clean. A woman living by herself is vurnable enough but linda is a world known personality. Originally I just wanted to have proof of shack/nice mobil home and Danny's home verified or at least the arguments on this subject stopped. So many want to prove their side is right. I would never wish anything bad like home break in happening to anyone. So sorry Linda your home was broken into. I also wish a hedge of protection about you as sara said.

Wrong again. Look at your own words. He is "supposed" to have caught her....Because somebody told somebody else and they told somebody else that he is SUPPOSED to have caught her in the act..that undoubtedly makes it true.

He has never said that he caught her in the act. Today, alone, this forum has been swimming in wrong information.

Posted by: princessdi Feb 7 2007, 04:26 PM

Bystander, let me rephrase that for you:

That means for the reation Danny gave to the situation, and the claims of evidence he claims to have, you would think he caught her in the act.

Now, the next time will you please ask for clarificiation? Nobody ever said, that I know of that he caught her in the act. I was saying his reactions and claims are those of a man who had caught his wife in the act. We know he didn't, we are trying to see what kind of proof he keeps talking about, but it seems to be about as "spirit"ual as that adultery he claimed she was committing.
