BlackSDA _ 3ABN _ A Rallying Of The Board?

Posted by: husbandoftheyear Jan 17 2007, 08:59 PM

There will soon be a new "Mending Broken People" program made in which Dan has decided that the entire 3ABN board will be on the stage with him. He's rallying his support group around him ready for the fight, I'd say.

The first time this was taped it was in a local church many, many years ago. Then it was some really lame "Behind the Scenes" program in which Dan didn't know what to do, so he just sat in that God-awful sunroom set and regurgitated the story once again. Now, they're pulling out all the stops! Can't wait to see this one. Of course, at the rate of production right now, it may be a year before anyone sees it! Wonder if the story will be..."altered?"

A person close to Thompsonville told me the other day what a weird explanation Danny Shelton was giving why 3ABN isn't functioning properly any more, but he made me promise not to reveal what Danny says - yet!

Do you have any official reason you are free to reveal why production is so slow now?

It will be most interesting to see this the content of this program.

Honestly, it is because Shelley Quinn is head of a new program department that is absolute chaos in there. They are trying to put so much together that it's all just a mass of confusion. Their job is to arrange all of these new programs so that they're ready when they go down into production. but that's not what's happening. They've had to retape a couple of series over again because of issues with name copyrights...go figure. Don't get me wrong, production is pushed to the absolute max.

I'd be interested to know the reason that Dan gave. If you don't want to post it, you could pm me...hint, hint!

It hasn't been taped yet that I know of. So after that, it will have to be edited. It could be a while before we see it on air.

Well, they were all praising one another this evening.

I didn't see the program last night, but I remember when we first started getting 3ABN in the late nineties, they were praising God. Now it seems that they do mostly praise each other on the "Thursday NighT Live" programs.

Daylily, you really didn't miss anything. It was not a Thursday night "live", but a Thursday night "dead", that means pre-recorded and no one can call in questions and get in the way of Danny's canned messege.

Oh, OK.

Where is that comment of John Lomacang about Jezebel? I though it was on this thread but I can't find it.

Hi Daylily, I mentioned Lomacang saying this comment in the "Letter to Calvin" thread. Find it? You really want to hear it with your own ears too....I had this feeling he was referring to someone specific, if ya know what i mean.

Posted by: daylily Jan 19 2007, 02:39 PM

Thanks sonshineonme! I found it. Yes, I suspect he was thinking about a particular person:) I'll have to watch the program Sunday.

sister, I've often wondered how the call in programs work. They are screened I sure! Seems like it could be "dangerous" to invite people to call in with their questions:)

Daylily, in earlier times the people in the call center or the pastoral department would answer the phones during the live program, then take the questions and encourage anyone who was willing to ask their question live on the program. That, of course, is no longer done. Now all the questions are written down and it is chosen which ones will be read on the live. In an event such as last night questions might have been very "uncomfortable", so the program was pre-recorded or a "dead" live.

Sister, thanks for the info. I had wondered if they still did the on-air questions. I hadn't seen any for a long time but I usually miss the live programs anyway.

Oh, but he prefaced the Jezebel comment with "...and I'm not trying to infer anything..."

Which we do know was a bunch of "who-eee"  b

Wonder if after they read the comments of those reporting what they saw, they will choose to edit out some of those "mistakes"??? Good thing we have a copy of the original! There's nothing like the real thing!

Could someone put the original program out on the Save 3ABN Website for everyone to see?
