"Danny Gave Her All of the Things in Their Home"

< Prev.

Dr. Walt Thompson's Claims

In May and June 2006, 3ABN board chairman Dr. Walt Thompson made certain claims about what 3ABN president Danny Shelton did for 3ABN ex-co-founder Linda Shelton after her divorce. We have previously discussed Dr. Thompson's claims regarding paying off Linda's car. On this page we discuss another point of trivia: Walt's claim that Danny gave Linda a new house.

The following two different letters contained identical wording regarding what Danny did for Linda after their divorce.

Dear *****,

Thanks for your interest in 3ABN and your willingness to share your questions and concerns and accompanying info.

Just to make this letter a bit more complete, let me tell you what I know about Danny's attempt to save Linda for himself - even after the divorce papers were signed. ... He bought her interest in the house, helped her move to South Carolina, build a porch on her home there, gave her all of the things in their home including things that were really his. ...

You have the choice of accepting this account that is written as carefully :
honestly as I know how, or of accepting the things Linda is telling people

Sincerely in Jesus' precious name,

Walter Thompson

A Month Later, Danny Shelton Contradicts Walt

Just one month latter, Danny's Financial Affidavit of July 13, 2006, counters Walt's that Danny did keep a number of major items in the house, major items that Linda claims to:

VI. ASSETS (CONT.)

HOUSEHOLD GOODS, APPLIANCES AND ALL OTHER PROPERTY NOT PREVIOUSLY LISTED:

DESCRIPTION	PURPOSE	PRESENT VALUE	H TITLE
Marital property Denny received:
Bowflex exercise machine
Stove
2 Refrigerators
Dishwasher
2 Freezers
Master bedroom set
Downstairs bedroom set
Old outside lawn furniture
10 Horses + 2 horses sold	West Frankfort, IL	$17,750.00	($4,50
1 Martin guitar	Same	$9,000.00
1 Dog	Same	$600.00

"Denny" is apparently a typo by Danny's attorney.

So who is telling the truth on this one? Is Walt Thompson correct when he says in 1 that Danny gave Linda everything in the house? Or is Danny correct when he testif possesses the above of list of items?

Linda Sells "All Household Furniture" to Danny

We first note a copy of the Bill of Sale signed on June 4, 2004, by which Linda sold furniture" to Danny:

BILL OF SALE

I, LINDA S. SHELTON, ... do hereby sell, assign, transfer and set over DANNY L SHELTON, his executors, administrators, and assigns, all r interest in the following, to-wit:

All outside lawn furniture, the sauna, the Bow-Flex exercise machine and household furniture, furnishings and appliances and all contents of residence 2954 New Lake Road, West Frankfort, Illinois, except two (2) glass case furniture Linda brought into the marriage before the marriage, two (2) tables and all antiques and knick-knacks currently in the basement and closets.

We are unable to find a comparable Bill of Sale by which Danny sold any items to technically speaking, everything excluded above is still owned by both Danny and Linda. She does claim ownership of everything excluded from the June 4, 2004, house agreement following email that Danny sent Linda on September 14, 2004:

Linda,

The big Ryder truck is in San Antonio Sunday. It won't be home until about Monday or Wednesday.

You will have had time to sign the agreement by then. If you don't sign the agreement I will be much better off financially.

We will split everything 50/50

We then would sell the assets including everything that you have packed up from the house already. The things at your trailer and well as your mini storage in Marion, as well as all the things in the 3ABN barn, and all the things at your parents storage facility.

The major things like the John Deere Gator and the Jacuzzi, we would sell for the money. The piano would go back to 3ABN since it really belongs to them.

According to our house agreement I bought every major thing in the house except the 6 items you listed and any of the old furniture you brought into the marriage.

Linda, I'm not too worried that you won't sign this agreement. Financially, it will be in my favor as compared to the way it stands now.

I'll let you take the things on the truck plus another load from your Marion:

place plus the things in the barn, But if you decide not to sign our agreement be your responsibility to bring everything back so we can split it up.

This email serves as official notice that if you use my truck to haul all the to Springfield and you decide not to sign the settlement agreement, that you responsible for bringing all the items that you have taken back to be split

... I've already told you the agreement as your attorney has it, stands. I'm not to modify it. It's a take it or leave it. I'm happy either way.

Who would have thought that all of this would have started over so called phone calls for hours at a time.

Love is forever

Dan

Linda Says, "Danny Is Correct"

Since we already covered Linda's counterclaims to Walt's statement in an earlier di here only that part which deals with the things in the house. Did Danny give Linda their home" as Walt claims, or did Linda sell "all [the] household furniture" to Dan after Walt's claims, Linda wrote:

... I will answer your questions.

9) No, he did not give me "all of the things in the home..." He has all of the furniture, the boat, the jacuzzi, the sauna, about 18 Gibson guitars, the horse trailer, etc...subject to divorce case which is pending.

I am still much in prayer about this "whole thing." The Church at large is big-time by all of this. This must be the first concern.

Blessings to you and yours,

Linda Shelton

Hey *****,

Having helped Linda with her move to Springfield in 2004, I can testify f that he is telling the truth in his financial affidavit where he lists assets th go with Linda. I helped move a bedroom set that had been in her family, t other items of furniture that had come from Danny's house. A number of that we moved were new. It was my understanding that Danny bought her furniture to replace some of the things that we did not move, such as the living room furniture and others.

Remaining Questions

How Did Walt Thompson Get It Wrong?

Where or how did Dr. Thompson come up with his list of things Danny did for Linda in divorce, and how did he end up with that list being so wrong? One might assume that the source of information, but how does one find out for sure? Who on Danny's side would comment on this question?

Where Are All the Guitars?

Danny lists one Martin guitar as a $9,000 asset in his July 13, 2006, financial affidavit. The affidavit refers to 18 guitars that Danny still possesses. Why aren't the other 17 or so guitars listed in the financial affidavit? Why does he list only one?

That there is more than one guitar involved is fairly certain from the June 4, 2004, affidavit which, while it doesn't say how many guitars are involved, it does say "guitars," let alone that there is more than one:

3. Linda agrees to sign a Bill of Sale to Danny (see attached Exhibit A incorporated herein by reference) for her entire interest in the contents of the marital residence including sauna, outside lawn furniture, except certain items listed on attached Exhibits B & C, incorporated herein by reference. The items listed and guitars and miscellaneous small items are not part of this agreement.
