"I Can Say Anything I Want About Her!

"But She Better Not Say Anything About

"Including at Her Own Church Trial!"

Background to the Problem

On June 4, 2004, Linda Shelton signed an extremely unusual separation agreement that such separation agreements are in and of themselves unusual, but it is rare that agreement upon termination from a company also has the effect of preventing you : saying anything negative about your ex-spouse.

Of course, that would not constitute anything unethical, if both ex-spouses agreed t Yet in this situation we have only Linda making such an agreement, and 3ABN pre Shelton and his supporters remaining free to say anything they want about Linda in choose, unless the agreement implies more than what it states.

What is really problematic is that Danny Shelton used this separation agreement to from defending herself at her own church trial. The correspondence documenting tl considered on page two of this series.
