You speak of the need for damage control. Please place yourself in Danny's shoes for just one day and try to imagine how you would respond. Then imagine being the source of bombardment day after day, seemingly unendingly. It has not been easy. Danny is a fighter. Without his determination and resiliency, this ministry would have been taken down long ago. I have no doubt that God chose Danny for this task, recognizing that all of our greatest strengths are sometimes also our greatest weaknesses. Yes, I know he sometimes would be better off to keep quiet, let the Lord fight his battles and relax, but that is not always easy. Most of all is the difficulty of knowing when to speak and when to be silent. God told ancient Israel that they should wait upon the Lord and He would fight their battles, but I find it interesting that they still had to go into battle and fight - Gideon is the classic example. While God took the battle into His own hands, Israel was called to do it's part before God could do His thing. Rather than faulting Danny for his tendencies to defend himself, I find I must lift him up in prayer.

You propse to me "that folks who have a few questions would not be called 'accusers." This would ordinarily be true, but when in battle for long periods of time, even good soldiers sometimes develop shell shock. When "friends" turn out to be enemies over and over again, one soon "learns" that he can trust no one. A number of e mails and letters that I have written as private responses have appeared on the Internet forums, "spun" to fit the desire of the "friend" who placed them there.

Thanks for your interest,

walt
Walter Thompson MD

Posted by: calvin Jan 7 2007, 02:30 AM

Was this letter it Bob? Do you have a letter from Dr. Thompson where he actually said Danny lied to him as you have repeatly been saying?

Posted by: fallible humanbeing Jan 7 2007, 02:47 AM

> QUOTE(calvin @ Jan 7 2007, 04:30 AM) ☐
>
> Was this letter it Bob? Do you have a letter from Dr. Thompson where he actually said Danny lied to him as you have repeatly been saying?

Calvin,

Here is the only other email Bob Pickle has posted that would fit within the time frame he references (both postings I have provided are completely unedited and appear in their entirety so that readers can arrive at their own reasoned conclusions. The only difference is that I bolded the lines -in this posting- that substantiate my claims in my earlier post about Dr. Thompson's comments).

------- Original Message --------
Subject: Re: Possible way to win 3ABN critics.
Date: Mon, 27 Nov 2006 09:04:53 -0600
From: Walt Thompson

Dear Bob,

Thank you for you attempt to understand my sensitivity and that of 3abn administratin and board. We believe we have acted responsibly and wisely, appropriate to the circumstances. While one can always be criticized after the fact and without all of the evidence then available for consideration, often those same critics would have made similar judgments had they been there.

As I recall the events of 2003, I received a call from Brad Thorp from the General Conference telling me of Pastor Dryden's accusations. Brad appropriately told me that it was not his concern, and that it was ours to handle. As I recall, I contacted pastor Dryden and heard his side of the story following which I received the letter that is circulating. I was at 3abn at the time and spoke at length with Danny about the matter. He shared with me the details as he understood them. Whether or not I was aware of what generated the letter at that time, I do not remember. Based upon my understanding that Dryden had had a long standing feud with Tommy over factors unrelated to the above accusations, it did not seem indicated to approach the boys in question directly, having been informed that no case had ever been filed with the courts or legal disposition made. We then discussed the situation with the full board. Given the alleged events had occured many years before, attempts had been made to make things right, and no legal action had been taken, we did not see any reason to pursue the issue further nor to follow through with his recommendations. In my reply to pastor Dryden I merely thanked him for fulfilling his obligation to us. (I will make this one further comment. Whereas there are many accusations on the Internet alledging that Danny cannot be trusted, I disagree. I have known Danny now since the beginning of the ministry. Now more than 23 years. I have been fully appraised of many of the difficulties that he has faced during that time. While Danny sees things from his perspective, as we all do, he is honest and trustworthy. I have found no reason to distrust his reports to me. Yes, there are occasions when after having spoken with both sides of an issue it has been a matter of he said vs she said, but in all situations where I could know the facts, Danny has proven true.)

Subsequently, after this issue has been brought back to the forefront (I think there is only one person who could have known about this and brought it to world wide attentionm, and that person was then on the board and voted with the concensus) I contacted the only person from the Chruch of God that I could find that knew about the situation, and who had been present and witness to the events. (Accept for pastor Dryden's personal accounts, there are apparently no other records of the allegations) The picture that was painted by that leader of the Church was exactly as portrayed earlier by Danny. Dryden was jealous of Tommy and was out to get him - a jealousy that has continued to the present. I was again informed that the DA knew about the allegations and not finding a basis, refused to act against Tommy. I have been informed that the Church of God is a congregational type or organization with different jurisdictions in different states and that there was no higher authority that I could speak with to resolve the issue further. It was not entirely clear to me how that worked. I was also told that one leader pestered Tommy over and over again until Tommy voluntarily gave up his ministerial license. These are the facts as I have been able to sort them out.

I will not comment regarding  except to say that good people sometimes see things from differing perspectives. We . We continue to have communication with  and consider  a friend of 3ABN.

Since you have not described the other allegations against Danny, I am unable to know what you are referring and therefore unable to comment on them.

I hope this is helpful to you.

I would like to request that you not circulate this letter, but that you merely summarize and varify its contents.

Sincerely,

Walt

Posted by: Green Cochoa Jan 7 2007, 06:30 AM

Calvin,

I believe I see this from your point of view, Fallible's, and Pickle's. You have a point in calling Pickle on it, because Fallible makes a credible case here. And yet Pickle has a good case too. From what I have picked up in the back-and-forth exchanges between Pickle and Thompson & Danny, Pickle has made a solid case for showing that Thomson admits to some things which in turn demonstrate his negligence in adhering only to what Danny has fed him, and trusting it, blindly, to be factual, when it can be proven false from outside evidence. Therefore, by 1) showing Danny's information to be false, and 2) showing that Thompson had only Danny's say-so, we can make a clear case for 3) Danny lied to Thompson, and Thompson basically admits so, by testifying to his source of the misinformation.

However, as Fallible has pointed out, Thompson admits no fault in the process, nor does he ever say he was lied to in so many words. Therefore, it becomes a classic case of the blind men and the elephant, where no one is really incorrect, and yet the apparent contradiction still exists. Fallible, perhaps, is good at creating the illusion of discrepancy. Or perhaps Pickle has not established the links with such clear force of wording as to prevent such a misinterpretation.

It seems a bit like the Bible puzzle of how old Noah was when Shem was born. The Bible says Noah was 500 and had Shem, Ham and Japheth. But were they triplets? Then the Bible says Noah was 600 when the flood came. Then later it says that Shem was 100 when he had Arphaxad, two years after the flood. Now, I do the math, and I discover that Noah was 502 when Shem was born. But does the Bible say this? Not in so many words. And yet it is there, for those who take the time to reason it out.

Just my three pennies...

Posted by: Pickle Jan 7 2007, 07:27 AM

Calvin,

Green Cochoa has put it quite well.

In my opinion, since FHB already pounded me pretty hard in PM's over on Maritime about this very thing, he is being totally unreasonable. I have explained myself to him over and over again, and yet he still harps on the same point again and again.

Notice also a sentence you did not quote:

> QUOTE(Fallible)
>
> I have done my own calling and discovered that many of the lies that are presented as truth here originate from Linda herself. I am not going to share my sources with you as they have asked that I not reveal their contact information because they don't want to be harassed by constant phone calling and emailing. They are aware of the information here and are clear that there is little if any truth to the stories here. They are also clear that because of the specificity of detail in many of these posts they know for certain that it originates with Linda herself.

I won't go so far as to call these comments "deceit," but I will say that by not getting specific about which issues and storries he is talking about, Fallible opens himself up to that charge.

- Hal Steenson told me about the recording, not Linda.
- John Lomacang told me about the phone card phone records, not Linda.
- Danny told me he wasn't going to disclose what his royalties were on the TCTR book, not Linda.
- Walt told me that Danny had given him certain information about Tommy, not Linda, and that information is clearly bogus.
- Roger Clem testified that Danny and 3ABN attorney Mike Riva threatened and pressured people into silence, not Linda.
- Mike Riva's letter tells me what Riva actually wrote, not Linda.
- Danny, not Linda as far as I know, told Gailon that his name was on Linda's car title, and the title faxed directly from the bank proves that Danny's claim was false.
- Joe Smith was the one who told me that Linda lives in a mansion with a huge pool that is worth almost as much as Danny's house is worth, not Linda, and that he knows about certain things because he was there. Joe, not Linda, was the one who then later told me that any pool is huge and that a $200,000 house is a mansion, and implied that Danny's house is worth a lot more than Linda's and that he's never seen her house and pool.
- Roger Clem, Brad Dunning, Glenn Dryden, the seventh alleged victim, and the letter from the CoG ministerial credentials committee were the ones who told me what Tommy did, not Linda.

So if Fallible wants to push his point, he really needs to get specific about what stories he's talking about, for I don't have a clue what he means on that one.

Posted by: IMM Jan 7 2007, 09:46 AM

I've followed your line of reasoning, Pickle, and I concur. I have not interpreted your posts as twisting anything, just logical conclusions drawn.

> QUOTE
>
> QUOTE(Pickle @ Jan 6 2007, 08:12 AM) http://www.blacksda.com/forums/index.php?act=findpost&pid=167920
> I got a lengthy reply from Fallible. here's just a tad from it:
> Walt admitted he got that information from Danny, and that information is clearly bogus.

Perhaps those who do not pay attention to punctuation have misconstrued your words here, but it seems pretty clear to me. Walt admitted his info was from Danny. We have first-hand testimony of several people that what Danny told Walt was not the truth. "Not the truth" in Pickle's words was "bogus."

Come on people, children have been put at risk due to seemingly obvious negligence on the part of the 3ABN Board, and we're nit-picking over commas????? What gives?????

Excerpts from http://dictionary.reference.com/

log·i·cal Based on earlier or otherwise known statements, events, or conditions; reasonable con·clu·sion a reasoned deduction or inference mis·con·strue to misunderstand the meaning of; take in a wrong sense; misinterpret neg·li·gence neglect; the failure to exercise that degree of care that, in the circumstances, the law requires for the protection of other persons or those interests of other persons that may be injuriously affected by the want of such care.

bo·gus not genuine; counterfeit; spurious; sham —Synonyms 1. fraudulent, pseudo, fake, phony.

Posted by: Johann Jan 7 2007, 10:29 AM

> QUOTE(calvin @ Jan 7 2007, 06:29 AM)
>
> Pickle,
>
> FHB has call you out on your claim that Dr. Thompson admitted that Danny lied to him in an email he sent to you around Thanksgiving.. You have continued to make this claim in many of your post. Would you be so kind as to post this letter from the Dr. Thompson so I can see who is telling the truth between you and FHB?
>
> thank you

Calvin,

This was your question. You have already given some comments later on. I see that you are online now. Any more comments?

Posted by: Aletheia Jan 7 2007, 12:03 PM

> QUOTE(Pickle @ Jan 7 2007, 08:27 AM) ☐
>
> Calvin,
>
> Green Cochoa has put it quite well.
>
> In my opinion, since FHB already pounded me pretty hard in PM's over on Maritime about this very thing, he is being totally unreasonable. I have explained myself to him over and over again, and yet he still harps on the same point again and again.
>
> Notice also a sentence you did not quote:
> I won't go so far as to call these comments "deceit," but I will say that by not getting specific about which issues and storries he is talking about, Fallible opens himself up to that charge.
>
> - Hal Steenson told me about the recording, not Linda.
> - John Lomacang told me about the phone card phone records, not Linda.
> - Danny told me he wasn't going to disclose what his royalties were on the TCTR book, not Linda.
> - Walt told me that Danny had given him certain information about Tommy, not Linda, and that information is clearly bogus.
> - Roger Clem testified that Danny and 3ABN attorney Mike Riva threatened and pressured people into silence, not Linda.
> - Mike Riva's letter tells me what Riva actually wrote, not Linda.
> - Danny, not Linda as far as I know, told Gailon that his name was on Linda's car title, and the title faxed directly from the bank proves that Danny's claim was false.
> - Joe Smith was the one who told me that Linda lives in a mansion with a huge pool that is worth almost as much as Danny's house is worth, not Linda, and that he knows about certain things because he was there. Joe, not Linda, was the one who then later told me that any pool is huge and that a $200,000 house is a mansion, and implied that Danny's house is worth a lot more than Linda's and that he's never seen her house and pool.
> - Roger Clem, Brad Dunning, Glenn Dryden, the seventh alleged victim, and the letter from the CoG ministerial credentials committee were the ones who told me what Tommy did, not Linda.
>
> So if Fallible wants to push his point, he really needs to get specific about what stories he's talking about, for I don't have a clue what he means on that one.

Bob,

That wasn't the issue. This seems to be the way you handle questions, which is to change the subject by bringing up other issues, and (or) changing the subject, and demanding the other person answer your questions to avoid doing that yourself. I say that for that is what you have done with me also. But it does not bury the original point or question for me.

I also have brought up my concerns on Maritime, as you are a moderator there and have this claim about Walt Thompson admitting Danny misled him pinned under the Public forum "3ABN Issues Factual Information" .while any disagreement and questions regarding this can only be brought up in private.

I reccomended that you post that it is your conclusion that Danny misled Walt Thompson, rather then putting those words in his mouth which he did not say, as that is false witness. I wrote"In viewing all that has been written regarding this; I think it would be more charitable, and prudent for you to say

"Based on my investigation and evaluation of the e-mails "I" believe the facts are Danny Shelton misled Walt Thompson".

You declined to do that writing:

I chose not to do that ..

"I gave Danny the opportunity to explain the discrepancies, which couldn't have happened in a meaningful way if I had already arrived at the conclusion that Danny misled Walt. Thus I had to stick with the language, "According to Walt, ..."

What if Walt ended up being wrong? Then would I not have been open to the accusation of falsely accusing Danny?"

The Problem here is that You are accusing Danny of lying, you are just putting that accusation in Walt Thompsons mouth and then repeating it everywhere, rather then being accountable for it yourself, and by doing so, I'm sorry but you are being dishonest.

~ Aletheia

Posted by: Pickle Jan 7 2007, 12:16 PM

I respect your opinion, but I disagree.

Posted by: calvin Jan 7 2007, 12:37 PM

> QUOTE
> So if Fallible wants to push his point, he really needs to get specific about what stories he's talking about, for I don't have a clue what he means on that one.

Bob, I am being specific.

Since I am not going to get a straight forward yes or no answer to this question from Bob I will assume that the answer is "no"; Dr Thompson did not admit that Danny lied to him about Tommy in any letter. Bob you are making two claims here: (1) Danny lied about Tommy's most recent alleged molestation charges. Well, maybe Danny did. You have brought much out into the open with your probing and investigation. Danny himself may not have been aware of all of this. I don't know (2) You accurse Dr Thompson of admitting that Danny lied. Well, no where in these letters did the Doctor make that claim or even remotely imply it. The Doctor gives some details in the second letter FHB posted of the action he took to investigate the molestation charges. Now, one can come to a conclusion that 3abn/Dr Thompson did a cursory or incomplete investigation, but hardly that the Doctor admits that Danny lied to him on anything.

Posted by: inga Jan 7 2007, 01:13 PM

> QUOTE(Green Cochoa @ Jan 7 2007, 07:30 AM)
>
> Calvin,
> From what I have picked up in the back-and-forth exchanges between Pickle and Thompson & Danny, Pickle has made a solid case for showing that Thomson admits to some things which in turn demonstrate his negligence in adhering only to what Danny has fed him, and trusting it, blindly, to be factual, when it can be proven false from outside evidence. Therefore, by 1) showing Danny's information to be false, and 2) showing that Thompson had only Danny's say-so, we can make a clear case for 3) Danny lied to Thompson, and Thompson basically admits so, by testifying to his source of the misinformation.
>
> However, as Fallible has pointed out, Thompson admits no fault in the process, nor does he ever say he was lied to in so many words.

That is precisely how I have understood things all along.

I doubt that anyone who has read the exchanges believes that Walt Thompson willingly admitted that Danny lied to him. However, he inadvertently did just that in his reponses to Bob Pickle.

There are shades of meaning to the word "admit." The first one that apparently came to Calvin's mind was the meaning of a specific admission. Of course, that is not what Walt provided. However there are other shades of meaning that allow the use that Bob made of it.

Posted by: Pickle Jan 7 2007, 01:26 PM

> QUOTE(calvin @ Jan 7 2007, 12:37 PM)
>
> Bob, I am being specific.
>
> Since I am not going to get a straight forward yes or no answer to this question from Bob I will assume that the answer is "no"; Dr Thompson did not admit that Danny lied to him about Tommy in any letter. Bob you are making two claims here: (1) Danny lied about Tommy's most recent alleged molestation charges. Well, maybe Danny did. You have brought much out into the open with your probing and investigation. Danny himself may not have been aware of all of this. I don't know (2) You accurse Dr Thompson of admitting that Danny lied. Well, no where in these letters did the Doctor make that claim or even remotely imply it. The Doctor gives some details in the second letter FHB posted of the action he took to investigate the molestation charges. Now, one can come to a conclusion that 3abn/Dr Thompson did a cursory or incomplete investigation, but hardly that the Doctor admits that Danny lied to him on anything.

Hi Calvin.

If I have not done so here, I have done so elsewhere, and Fallible, if he chooses, can confirm this. I have point blank said that Walt never said, "Danny lied to me." But by admitting that Danny was the source of the clearly bogus information, he did essentially admit that Danny misled him, even though he never said, "Danny misled me."

Misleading is not necessarily lying, in my mind. Lying to me suggests an act of the will rather than merely passing on information that just happens to be false. This is why when I have raised this issue I acknowledged the possibility that Danny had unintentionally misled Walt, since it is possible Danny was misled himself by someone else.

Since this thread suggests that I have said that Walt admitted that Danny "lied" to him, it might be helpful, Calvin, if someone provided quotes where I did this. It's possible that I did put it that way, but it would still be helpful to provide some quotes from where I did.

If that level of precision seems picky, please accept my apology in advance.

Perhaps more precision in my wording would have been helpful. I maybe should have said, "Walt admitted that Danny told him that the allegations were 30 years old, but the letter that Walt received in 2003 around the time that conversation took place proves that Danny misled Walt." But I have no regrets about my wording.

Did Danny know? According to Gailon's sources, he most certainly did. And if he didn't, his actions were still reprehensible. When you have child molestation allegations against one of your workers, you don't just cover it up with threats and without investigating it thoroughly unless you're really wanting to be in the limelight like certain bishops are.

==============================

Ah, Inga, an English teacher speaks out!

Posted by: Ralph Jan 7 2007, 09:28 PM

> QUOTE(Pickle @ Jan 7 2007, 12:26 PM)
>
> Perhaps more precision in my wording would have been helpful. I maybe should have said, "Walt admitted that Danny told him that the allegations were 30 years old, but the letter that Walt received in 2003 around the time that conversation took place proves that Danny misled Walt." But I have no regrets about my wording.

Mr. Pickle, I notice that you have been given a hard time today and I just want to thank you for your work. The poll shows that people believe what you are saying.

When someone chooses to defend the "dark side" they will often divert the discussion by concentrating on technicalities, thus hoping to divert people's attention from the main issues. In the mass of data flowing back and forth, I hope no one falls into this trap.

Posted by: fallible humanbeing Jan 7 2007, 10:23 PM

> QUOTE(Pickle @ Jan 7 2007, 03:26 PM)
>
> Hi Calvin.
>
> If I have not done so here, I have done so elsewhere, and Fallible, if he chooses, can confirm this. I have point blank said that Walt never said, "Danny lied to me." But by admitting that Danny was the source of the clearly bogus information, he did essentially admit that Danny misled him, even though he never said, "Danny misled me."

> . . . .
>
> Since this thread suggests that I have said that Walt admitted that Danny "lied" to him, it might be helpful, Calvin, if someone provided quotes where I did this.

(Significant revision focusing on the addition of quotes from Bob Pickle's posts here on BSDA took place on Sunday, January 7 just prior to midnight and after your response PB. Also, when Bystanders posts were collected and moved a post I had made in this thread and is connected to the points are was moved along with it. You can find that one http://www.blacksda.com/forums/index.php?s=&showtopic=12025&view=findpost&p=168157.)

Bob Pickle,

Quotes have been supplied and there are more. Yes, we did talk at length about this over on Maritime. But, while you may have offered cursory recognition of your inaccurate words, you still play them out here on BSDA.

(Additional quotes by you appearing here on BSDA)

"I've got in writing from Walt Thompson that Danny gave him information in 2003 that is clearly bogus."

"I came across a discrepancy yesterday, and was wondering if you could help me out with it. I'll write this as if I'm tacking it on to the four emails I sent at Dr. Walt Thompson's suggestion (he had written me and said, "I would like to request ... that you ... verify [this letter's] contents"), even though the topic is a little different."

In the above quote you edit Dr. Thompson's words interestingly, as they originally appeared this way (as posted over on Maritime):

Quoted from Dr. Thompson's email: "I would like to request that you not circulate this letter, but that you merely summarize and varify its contents."

Quoted from your posts:

"Walt Thompson admitted that Danny Shelton had essentially misled him regarding the serious nature, wide extent, and recent timing of those allegations, and he also admitted that both he and the 3ABN board had taken Danny's word for it without doing their own independent investigation."

"I am not sure what to make of this. Since our current discussion began Wednesday a week ago because of Dr. Walt Thompson's written statement that Danny had essentially misled him regarding the serious nature, wide extent, and recent timing of the Tommy Shelton child molestation allegations, are you trying to say that Danny's trusted board chairman and staunch defender was lying to me?"

"In my opinion, Danny's persistent refusal to allow ASI to review all the allegations, including the elaborate fabrication Dr. Thompson indicated that Danny told him in 2003 in order to cover up the serious nature, wide extent, and recent timing of his brother's child molestation allegations, that persistent refusal is a fatal mistake."

"And of course, anyone who finds out that Danny's own board chairman has essentially admitted that Danny misled him regarding the serious nature, wide extent, and recent timing of the Tommy Shelton child molestation allegations would likely hesitate to continue financially supporting 3ABN, until these extremely serious issues are resolved. Most folks probably do not want to contribute to a ministry if they think their contribution just might possibly get diverted from the Lord's work and be used instead to defend and settle cases of alleged child molestation. And with the apparent negligence that Danny has shown in this matter, one can only dream of the amount of punitive damages a jury just might award."

"Dr. Thompson said in writing that Danny had essentially lied to him. Danny has had 10 days now to explain the discrepancies, and he has declined to do so."

"Dr. Thompson, on the other hand, is very credible since he is on Danny's side. And we have him in writing that Danny misled him, intentionally or unintentionally."

Each and everyone of the above quotes from you is a misrepresentation or outright false presentation of Dr. Thompson's words to you. How are we to believe you when you say you post the truth, the facts? Why should anyone - other than those who merely "want" things to be the way you protray them - take your "investigation" seriously?

No, we settled nothing over on Maritime. You continue to attribute words to individuals that they never said! In the beginning, your emails tried to convince Danny, Dr. Thompson, and others that you were completely devoted to "vindicating Danny" and saving 3ABN. But, the truth became evident as you continued to focus your personal investigation (which by the way is sponsered by no one, and supported only by Linda's camp) on proving that "Tommy was guilty" and that "Danny lied." It was also evident that you had a "side" before you, according to your own admission, began to communicate with Linda in early December 2006.

You used the title to a vehicle you claim belongs to Linda as a tool to present to your readership that Danny is a liar. You crafted a defense of your thesis based on a partial title that you presented claiming that you were doing us all a service by not posting the title - front and back - in its entirety. You constantly claim to do us a "service" by editing your communications and the documents you secure because the unpublished portion is "of no concern" according to you. If you want to post factual evidence either here or on Maritime then do just that, post the entire title, include front and back images, and provide us an explanation of how you came by the title. If you called the bank and requested the title did you collect the name of the individual you spoke with so I can call them and verify that you called and they immediately faxed you a copy of the title. Or, did they need to have approval of Linda before they faxed it? It seems rather odd that in an age of hypersensativity in the area of privacy that just any individual out of the blue, can call a bank and secure a copy of a vehicle title "just because." I wonder if Linda had to approve this or if truly you just picked up the phone, called, and bingo you have a copy of the title.

The quotes I posted are only the bare minimum of how you take the email communications you recieve and twist them to blend nicely with your own "reading between the lines" and speculation. I do have to give you credit for posting them, though sometimes they are edited which for my 2 cents means they can not be accepted as legitimate information. If you want them to be accepted - don't edit. And, more importantly don't tell us that you are doing us a favor by editing them so we don't have to slog through the lengthy ones - those here who want truth want the whole thing and are not satisfied with you doing our thinking for us!

Additionally, exchanges like this are evidence of how you begin the process of attributing words into the mouths of others:

Quoted from gracetoyou on December 31: Danny just announced on 3ABN that Tommy is "retiring" from his duties at 3ABN. The reasons given were 1) that the "stress" of his duties at 3ABN was aggravating his "health" problems (high cholesterol, etc.) of which he has a history and ..."

Quoted from Bob Pickle's response to gracetoyou: "Are you absolutely positive that Danny said this? If so, does anyone have a recording or a transcript?

I can't imagine Danny telling the world that allegedly molesting children in Virginia and Illinois while pastoring non-Adventist churches was part of Tommy's duties at 3ABN. No, I can't accept as a fact that he really said such unless I can see the evidence for myself. Recording or transcript please."

I anticipate that your defense will be that this was merely sarcasim. However, you followed the same pattern previously and the next step is to begin to attribute words, claims, phrases, to individuals that they never said. It is becoming obvious that this is your modus operendi in an effort to validate yourself with your readership.

I do question your "invetigation" methods because you are willing to draw conclusions and then attirbute your own conclusions to those who communicate with you and pass them off as the words of those individuals. It is obvious that in no way do the two emails you use to claim that Dr. Thompson either "admitted" or "essentially admitted" (which is merely a grammatical game that you are playing and adds no legitimacy to your words) that Danny lied support your claims.

Here are some definitions to consider:

ad·mit /æd☐m☐t/

6. to acknowledge; confess: He admitted his guilt.
7. to grant in argument; concede: The fact is admitted.

And the basic definition that applies to your work in terns of the word essentially is the synonym "basically," which does not qualify your claim at all! The addition of the word "essentially" as an adverb merely means the same thing as if you had said, "Basically, Dr. Thompson admitted that Danny lied to him." There is nothing defensible in the addition of the word "essentially." You still are attributing to Dr. Thompson, and in the other instance Danny, words that obviously they never would have spoken!

The fact here remains that on a minimum of two occassions you have arrived at a conclusion - a personal opinion if you will, that something is true. Then you have crafted your interpretation of the communications you have been engaged in in such a way as to place words into someones mouth that were never said, nor implied, nor evident between the lines. You have simply taken your position and tried to use other names to push it on your readership in an effort to position yourself as a major player who others may "think" can have an influential place in running individuals out of 3ABN and restructuring it in a way as you see fit.

I question your entire "investigation" based on your deceptive methods of presenting your "findings." I have offered limited evidence of how you have done this and you have yet to address it in any significant way. If you want to be taken seriously by anyone other than the faithful few here, then be honest in the presentation of your "investigation." Don't try and do our thinking for us!

- fhb

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Jan 7 2007, 11:48 PM

> QUOTE(fallible humanbeing @ Jan 7 2007, 09:23 PM) ☐
>
> I question your entire "investigation" based on your deceptive methods of presenting your "findings." I have offered limited evidence of how you have done this and you have yet to address it in any significant way. If you want to be taken seriously by anyone other than the faithful few here, then be honest in the presentation of your "investigation." Don't try and do our thinking for us!
>
> - fhb

FHB

I understand the point you are making but I'm not sure it merits the depth and breadth of the scrutiny you are devoting to it. Some, certainly - but to this extend, I don't think so. While the way Bob Pickle "spins" the information he has collected might prove puzzling, confusing or even less than honest to some readers, I believe most have the intelligence to draw the same conclusions on their own. Green Cochoa posted a brilliant opinion on this earlier. I would prefer that Bob would refrain from the type of spin that you find objectionable because I fear it can divert attention away from the valuable information he is posting. However I think it is also important for him to state conclusions he has personally reached in weighing the evidence. They can be most thought provoking and I value his opinions.

I personally doubt that Bob Pickle has any hidden agenda by posting some material in an edited manner. I do agree, however, that evidence would best be presented in its entirety so that there is no hint of suspicion as to the reason for the missing content. This forum has an unlimited amount of digital space so it will not be in danger of filling up without careful use. No matter the length of the submission, most are willing to plow through the information on their own.

As for questioning his entire investigation because of his method of presentation, I think that's a bit of a stretch. To discredit this important information that often verifies itself just because you don't approve of Bob's style is careless and dangerous in my opinion. You don't like Bob's presentation, fine. Let the information stand or fall on its own merits.

I look forward to reading your thoughts and opinions of the information the investigation is producing because I value your opinion as well.

PB

Posted by: Clay Jan 8 2007, 09:13 AM

> QUOTE(fallible humanbeing @ Jan 7 2007, 10:23 PM) ☐
>
> I question your entire "investigation" based on your deceptive methods of presenting your "findings." I have offered limited evidence of how you have done this and you have yet to address it in any significant way. If you want to be taken seriously by anyone other than the faithful few here, then be honest in the presentation of your "investigation." Don't try and do our thinking for us!
>
> - fhb

I question your logic (using the term loosely) and you have offered nothing but smoke and mirrors.... likewise you don't try to do our thinking for us..... as for being taken seriously, FHB most see you for what you are, a defender of Danny.... you answer the question that Re' has asked multiple times.....

Would you want Tommy Shelton babysitting your children? Especially your male children?

Posted by: Lee Jan 9 2007, 11:19 AM

I don't believe FHB is trying to do your thinking. He is bringing up valid points that intelligent people would bring up in trying to sort out the truth. If what is said here is truthful, then there should be no problem in checking it out more thoroughly.

Truth can stand to be scrutinized carefully.

Posted by: awesumtenor Jan 9 2007, 11:38 AM

> QUOTE(Lee @ Jan 9 2007, 12:19 PM)
>
> Truth can stand to be scrutinized carefully.

Then kwitcherbeefin' about people's scrutinizing what has come out of Danny's camp as purported truth.

If it is truth, it will stand and there is no need for you and others to attempt to prevent others from scrutinizing it.

If it is not truth, no amount of obfuscation, cajolings or threats will change that.

In His service,
Mr. J

Posted by: Pickle Jan 9 2007, 12:27 PM

> QUOTE(Lee @ Jan 9 2007, 11:19 AM)
>
> ... points that intelligent people would bring up in trying to sort out the truth.

I'd still like to get your reply about my comments about your suggestion that if Tommy's alleged victims who were minors were "consenting," that would somehow affect whther he should have one of the most important positions at 3ABN.

Posted by: PrincessDrRe Jan 9 2007, 03:23 PM

> QUOTE(Pickle @ Jan 9 2007, 02:27 PM)
>
> I'd still like to get your reply about my comments about your suggestion that if Tommy's alleged victims who were minors were "consenting," that would somehow affect whther he should have one of the most important positions at 3ABN.

Me too.

I also would like to know since they were "consenting" children - would you allow your own children to consent?

Posted by: Fran Jan 9 2007, 11:33 PM

]

> QUOTE(PrincessDrRe @ Jan 9 2007, 03:23 PM)
>
> Me too.
>
> I also would like to know since they were "consenting" children - would you allow your own children to consent?
>
> sn

NO WAY!

Printable Version of Topic

128

Click here to view this topic in its original format

BlackSDA _ 3ABN _ Tommy "retires"

Posted by: gracetoyou Dec 31 2006, 10:11 PM

Danny just announced on 3ABN that Tommy is "retiring" from his duties at 3ABN. The reasons given were 1) that the "stress" of his duties at 3ABN was aggravating his "health" problems (high cholesterol, etc.) of which he has a history and 2) the fact that he was nearing retirement age anyway.

Could this be one of the "changes" that were predicted?

A 3ABN employee gave a testimonial of the wonderful experiences of working under Tommy which was very touching.

Posted by: Pickle Dec 31 2006, 10:40 PM

> QUOTE(gracetoyou @ Dec 31 2006, 10:11 PM) ☐
>
> Danny just announced on 3ABN that Tommy is "retiring" from his duties at 3ABN. The reasons given were 1) that the "stress" of his duties at 3ABN was aggravating his "health" problems (high cholesterol, etc.) of which he has a history and 2) the fact that he was nearing retirement age anyway.
>
> Could this be one of the "changes" that were predicted?
>
> A 3ABN employee gave a testimonial of the wonderful experiences of working under Tommy which was very touching.

As pointed out at http://www.blacksda.com/forums/index.php?s=&showtopic=11955&view=findpost&p=166852, it would be helpful to find out what sort of retirement package he will receive, if any. According to Gailon, the decision of the board to terminate Tommy was circumvented in the early 1990's by hiring Tommy on a contract basis.

Also, I think it would be helpful to get a transcript of the actual remarks made.

If these were the reasons given, I have a problem with that. If Danny wants to make such remarks in a meeting of his employees, that's fine. But to trumpet such things over the airwaves around the globe, what's the point?

Why send off an alleged child molester with such a glorious fanfare when not three years ago there was no such glorious fanfare for an alleged adultress?

Sin is sin. All sin is despicable. But how can the remnant that keeps the commandments of God, as the 3rd angel's message that 3ABN stands for and is named for puts it, how can the remnant applaud an alleged child molester and condemn an alleged adultress? Would that not be remotely akin to sending a shoplifter to death row while putting a bank robber in charge of company finances?

Posted by: Grace Jan 1 2007, 03:22 AM

> QUOTE(Pickle @ Jan 1 2007, 05:40 AM)
>
> As pointed out at http://www.blacksda.com/forums/index.php?s=&showtopic=11955&view=findpost&p=166852, it would be helpful to find out what sort of retirement package he will receive, if any. According to Gailon, the decision of the board to terminate Tommy was circumvented in the early 1990's by hiring Tommy on a contract basis.
>
> Also, I think it would be helpful to get a transcript of the actual remarks made.
>
> If these were the reasons given, I have a problem with that. If Danny wants to make such remarks in a meeting of his employees, that's fine. But to trumpet such things over the airwaves around the globe, what's the point?
>
> Why send off an alleged child molester with such a glorious fanfare when not three years ago there was no such glorious fanfare for an alleged adultress?
>
> Sin is sin. All sin is despicable. But how can the remnant that keeps the commandments of God, as the 3rd angel's message that 3ABN stands for and is named for puts it, how can the remnant applaud an alleged child molester and condemn an alleged adultress? Would that not be remotely akin to sending a shoplifter to death row while putting a bank robber in charge of company finances?

Those are also my feelings and thoughts. I have a problem with the lack of fairness here.

Blessings to all for this new year!

Posted by: Ed White Jan 1 2007, 09:00 AM

Well with Tommy "retireing" it appears as if " the sinners in Zion are afraid" Isaiah 33:14
Of all the sermons & bible texts read on 3ABN I never heard anyone mention these 6 condition to escape "the everlasting burnings". I will list these 6 conditions in brackets so that those remaining on the 3ABN board can make proper decisions from here on out before the lame take the prey and divide the spoils.
"Hear, ye that are afar off, what I have done; and, ye that are near, acknowledge my might. The sinners in Zion are afraid; fearfulness hath surprised the hypocrites. Who among us shall dwell with the devouring fire? who among us shall dwell with everlasting burnings? [#1.Right doing] He that walketh righteously, and [2. tell the truth] speaketh uprightly; [3.] he that despiseth the gain of oppressions, that [4.No gag orders & such] shaketh his hands from holding of bribes, that [5.] stoppeth his ears from hearing of blood, and [6.] shutteth his eyes from seeing evil; he shall dwell on high; his place of defense shall be the munitions of rocks; bread shall be given him; his waters shall be sure. Thine eyes shall see the King in his beauty; they shall behold the land that is very far off." "But there the glorious Lord will be unto us a place of broad rivers and streams; wherein shall go no galley with oars, neither shall gallant ship pass thereby. For the Lord is our Judge, the Lord is our Lawgiver, the Lord is our King; he will save us. Thy tacklings are loosed; they could not well strengthen their mast; they could not spread the sail: then is the prey of a great spoil divided; the lame take the prey. And the inhabitant shall not say, I am sick; the people that dwell therein shall be forgiven their iniquity." Isaiah 33
==========

There are two ships above trying to reach a safe harbor, the one that fails to meet those 6 conditions above will break up sooner or later.

Posted by: Pickle Jan 1 2007, 09:13 AM

> QUOTE(gracetoyou @ Dec 31 2006, 10:11 PM)
>
> Danny just announced on 3ABN that Tommy is "retiring" from his duties at 3ABN. The reasons given were 1) that the "stress" of his duties at 3ABN was aggravating his "health" problems (high cholesterol, etc.) of which he has a history and ...

Are you absolutely positive that Danny said this? If so, does anyone have a recording or a transcript?

I can't imagine Danny telling the world that allegedly molesting children in Virginia and Illinois while pastoring non-Adventist churches was part of Tommy's duties at 3ABN. No, I can't accept as a fact that he really said such unless I can see the evidence for myself. Recording or transcript please.

Posted by: gardener Jan 1 2007, 01:54 PM

> QUOTE(Pickle @ Jan 1 2007, 10:13 AM)
>
> Are you absolutely positive that Danny said this? If so, does anyone have a recording or a transcript?
>
> I can't imagine Danny telling the world that allegedly molesting children in Virginia and Illinois while pastoring non-Adventist churches was part of Tommy's duties at 3ABN. No, I can't accept as a fact that he really said such unless I can see the evidence for myself. Recording or transcript please.

From what I understood from the program Tommy has been working in capacity of Production Manager for the past few years. Tommy was on the show also and after everyone gave their testimony about how wonderful Tommy was they all gathered around him and gave him a plaque of his 11 years of service at 3ABN. He said he was going to go to Black Hills to get back to better health. Moses, Dee, Molly and someone else gave their testimony. I thought for a moment they were all going to gather around and sing kum by a (or how ever you spell it).

Posted by: gracetoyou Jan 1 2007, 02:31 PM

> QUOTE(Pickle @ Jan 1 2007, 11:13 AM)
>
> Are you absolutely positive that Danny said this? If so, does anyone have a recording or a transcript?
>
> I can't imagine Danny telling the world that allegedly molesting children in Virginia and Illinois while pastoring non-Adventist churches was part of Tommy's duties at 3ABN. No, I can't accept as a fact > that he really said such unless I can see the evidence for myself. Recording or transcript please.

Danny didn't mention anything about molesting children. He did say that Tommy's production duties were stressful (he definitely used the word "stress", I believe several times) and that the stress wasn't good for his health condition (high cholesterol). Danny mentioned that Tommy had previously been to the Black Hills medical center for treatment for his heart condition. He was also nearing retirement age so they were going to use this opportunity to announce his retirement.

I was going in and out of my living room doing housework, so I didn't catch the whole program.
I did see a male employee telling about how Tommy allowed employees who couldn't eat their lunch during their allotted 30 minute lunch break to combine their "break" time with their lunch time so that they would have 45 minutes to eat their lunch. Tommy is, apparently, all heart. He also mentioned something about employees being paid minimum wage, but I didn't catch what that was in reference to.

The program was a "special" New Year's Eve program that was broadcast after 9:00 P.M. EST. I didn't watch the entire broadcast, so I can't tell you exactly when that segment came on. I believe it was fairly early in the broadcast.

Danny also mentioned that just because Tommy was retiring, it did not mean that Tommy would not come back from time to time in a volunteer capacity.

There was also a promo about Tommy and another musician (Donna Klein, I think) in a musical collaboration. Mention was made of the fact that they both have been using their musical talents for the Lord from childhood.

Also Danny mentioned that since Tommy took over production about 2 1/2 years ago (that would be about the time Linda was given the boot, wouldn't it), 3ABN programming had increased to a great degree.

Posted by: Joe Smith Jan 1 2007, 02:52 PM

> QUOTE(Pickle @ Jan 1 2007, 09:13 AM) ☐
>
> Are you absolutely positive that Danny said this? If so, does anyone have a recording or a transcript?
>
> I can't imagine Danny telling the world that allegedly molesting children in Virginia and Illinois while pastoring non-Adventist churches was part of Tommy's duties at 3ABN. No, I can't accept as a fact that he really said such unless I can see the evidence for myself. Recording or transcript please.

Pickle, you must be having comprehension problems today.... You need to read the above quote again. Danny said NOTHING about Tommy molesting children in any state! Let's get back on tract here. BY the way, as far as I know, and I could be wrong, 3ABN does not have a retirement plan for any of their workers. At least that is the way it was when I was there. There's only one person that left there with any real money,

Joe

Posted by: Skyhook Jan 1 2007, 03:34 PM

Not to speak for pickle or state the obvious, but I think pickle was being facetious.
No doubt Tommy is under stress, but I suspect that it is hoped that his leaving will relieve Danny's stress and the stress of Dr. Thompson and the board members.

Posted by: gardener Jan 1 2007, 03:37 PM

Tommys retirement program is on right now

Posted by: Grace Jan 1 2007, 03:48 PM

> QUOTE(gardener @ Jan 1 2007, 10:37 PM) ☐
> Tommys retirement program is on right now

So it is!

Posted by: Daryl Fawcett Jan 1 2007, 04:05 PM

Is it still on?

Posted by: Grace Jan 1 2007, 04:13 PM

> QUOTE(Daryl Fawcett @ Jan 1 2007, 11:05 PM) ☐
> Is it still on?

I don't think so, Daryl, there's somebody preaching.

Posted by: Pickle Jan 1 2007, 04:34 PM

> QUOTE(Skyhook @ Jan 1 2007, 03:34 PM) ☐
>
> Not to speak for pickle or state the obvious, but I think pickle was being facetious.

Skyhook,

No, I wasn't being facetious. I was dead serious.

> QUOTE(Joe Smith @ Jan 1 2007, 02:52 PM) ☐
>
> Pickle, you must be having comprehension problems today.... You need to read the above quote again. Danny said NOTHING about Tommy molesting children in any state!

Hi Joe.

What the quote in question said was that Tommy was retiring because of health problems caused by stress related to his duties at 3ABN. Correct? If that were really the case, why did a Shelton family member write the following:

> QUOTE(Shelton family member)
>
> -------- Original Message --------
> Subject: RE: Looks like a good address
> Date: Sat, December 09, 2006 8:04 pm
>
> ...
>
> I do know that Tommy is in very, very, bad health. His blood pressure is way out of control way past stroke stage and its not coming down. Whomever is causing him grief will have his blood on their hands if he passes. ... no one wants to loose their loved one. Gossip, we both know how the pressure from that can be. ... Then, I don't see why people want to murder others with their tongues.

Now Joe, if you are who Gailon thinks you are, there is a possibility that you might know about this email from this concerned Shelton family member. And if that be so, then it is absolutely certain that you know full well that when Danny referred to stress from duties at 3ABN, he really meant stress coming from new and old revelations of allegations of child molestation from Virginia and Illinois.

You see, there are only two ways to take Danny's words, if that is really what he said. (I would be overjoyed for someone to tell me that that is not what he said.)

- Danny was lying through his teeth when he said that Tommy was having health problems because of on-the-job stress, since he full well knew that the stress was coming from another source.
- Danny was saying that part of Tommy's 3ABN duties was creating allegations of child molestation in Virginia and Illinois while pastoring non-Adventist churches while not being employed by 3ABN.

Joe, do you see any other possibilities? If you can't think of any other possibilities, which of these two choices do you prefer?

> QUOTE(Joe Smith @ Jan 1 2007, 02:52 PM) ☐
>
> BY the way, as far as I know, and I could be wrong, 3ABN does not have a retirement plan for any of their workers.

See if you can get a signed affidavit that, unlike what Gailon says happened in the 1990's, Tommy has not received and is not going to be receiving any compensation whatsoever.

Okay, I answered your questions and/or addressed your concerns. Could you be so kind as to return the favor?

- How much is Danny's house currently appraised for?
- How much more than the appraised value did Danny pay Linda for her half?
- How much is the oustanding loan, and how did that affect Danny's payment to Linda?

Thanks in advance for your answers.

Posted by: PrincessDrRe Jan 1 2007, 05:55 PM

> QUOTE(Joe Smith @ Jan 1 2007, 04:52 PM)
>
> Pickle, you must be having comprehension problems today.... You need to read the above quote again. Danny said NOTHING about Tommy molesting children in any state! Let's get back on tract here. BY the way, as far as I know, and I could be wrong, 3ABN does not have a retirement plan for any of their workers. At least that is the way it was when I was there. There's only one person that left there with any real money,

> QUOTE(Skyhook @ Jan 1 2007, 05:34 PM)
>
> Not to speak for pickle or state the obvious, but I think pickle was being facetious.
> No doubt Tommy is under stress, but I suspect that it is hoped that his leaving will relieve Danny's stress and the stress of Dr. Thompson and the board members.

Pickle stated she was being serious...and I get it. He wouldn't dare mention the "true reason" - (molestation and non-denominational preaching) - but he could use another excuse....

That's what I was seeing....

sn

Posted by: Pickle Jan 1 2007, 06:14 PM

Someone told me they're getting a copy of this program sent to me. In the meantime, I would really appreciate it if someone could transcribe from a recording the actual comments Danny made about the reasons why Tommy was retiring, and send post them or PM or email them to me.

Thanks.

Posted by: SandyColorado Jan 1 2007, 06:56 PM

> QUOTE(Pickle @ Jan 1 2007, 07:14 PM)
>
> Someone told me they're getting a copy of this program sent to me. In the meantime, I would really appreciate it if someone could transcribe from a recording the actual comments Danny made about the reasons why Tommy was retiring, and send post them or PM or email them to me.
>
> Thanks.

I saw the program myself, this afternoon. Danny said early on in the program that he has asked Tommy to be there for the special program. He then said that Tommy will turn retirement age in March, and was having problems with stress and high colesterol. He had been to Black Hills 3 years ago, and the problems had returned. Apparently he had one heart attack, and was "hours away from another one" and had a stint put in.

Danny also said that the programs in the last 2 1/2 years had gotten better.

The people who gave testimonials about Tommy were" Larry Ewing (Accountant), Dee Hilderbrand, C.A Murray and Mollie. They all think he was wonderful. Dee mentioned that he was a mentor to her.

It was an intereting program.

Posted by: Daryl Fawcett Jan 1 2007, 06:59 PM

I guess I should have tuned into 3ABN more often than I did today.

Posted by: Pickle Jan 1 2007, 07:11 PM

> QUOTE(SandyColorado @ Jan 1 2007, 06:56 PM)
>
> I saw the program myself, this afternoon. Danny said early on in the program that he has asked Tommy to be there for the special program. He then said that Tommy will turn retirement age in March, and was having problems with stress and high colesterol. He had been to Black Hills 3 years ago, and the problems had returned. Apparently he had one heart attack, and was "hours away from another one" and had a stint put in.
>
> Danny also said that the programs in the last 2 1/2 years had gotten better.

Did he specifically say that Tommy's trouble was due to job-related stress at 3ABN, or did he hint at anything like that?

Why in the world would he slam his allegedly adultery-committing ex-wife in this way by saying that an alleged child molestor had improved things so wonderfully? Was this just for spite?

Would various ministries that have had their programs axed by Tommy be of the same opinion that the programs have improved? I only ask that because a ministry that currently broadcasts on 3ABN wondered about that kind of thing months ago before all this recent stuff about Tommy came out.

Posted by: Joe Smith Jan 1 2007, 07:44 PM

> QUOTE(Pickle @ Jan 1 2007, 04:34 PM)
>
> Skyhook,
>
> No, I wasn't being facetious. I was dead serious. You are highly delusional my friend? If you can make Danny's statement say what you claim it says.... you need to join up with David Copperfield, the master illusionist.

Hi Joe.

What the quote in question said was that Tommy was retiring because of health problems caused by stress related to his duties at 3ABN. Correct? If that were really the case, why did a Shelton family member write the following: How am I suppose to know what you are talking about? It is common knowledge that Tommy has had 2 near death experiences with his heart, even Linda knows about that. So do you and Gailon, as you both are the investigators. You also know he had these health issues before any of your allogations were made. You wanted him out of 3ABN, now he's out. Why not let the official authorities handle it now? If you have evidence, turn it over to them. If it's true, they will get to the bottom of it.

Now Joe, if you are who Gailon thinks you are, there is a possibility that you might know about this email from this concerned Shelton family member. And if that be so, then it is absolutely certain that you know full well that when Danny referred to stress from duties at 3ABN, he really meant stress coming from new and old revelations of allegations of child molestation from Virginia and Illinois.

You see, there are only two ways to take Danny's words, if that is really what he said. (I would be overjoyed for someone to tell me that that is not what he said.)

- Danny was lying through his teeth when he said that Tommy was having health problems because of on-the-job stress, since he full well knew that the stress was coming from another source.
- Danny was saying that part of Tommy's 3ABN duties was creating allegations of child molestation in Virginia and Illinois while pastoring non-Adventist churches while not being employed by 3ABN.

Joe, do you see any other possibilities? If you can't think of any other possibilities, which of these two choices do you prefer?
See if you can get a signed affidavit that, unlike what Gailon says happened in the 1990's, Tommy has not received and is not going to be receiving any compensation whatsoever.
You have got to be kidding! Why would I give you anything else so you can TWIST and TURN it to suit your own agenda, like you did the previous statement...I might have accepted it if you had said it was, facetiously said. But, you didn't! You said you were serious! Unbelievable!

Okay, I answered your questions and/or addressed your concerns. Could you be so kind as to return the favor?

- How much is Danny's house currently appraised for?
- How much more than the appraised value did Danny pay Linda for her half?
- How much is the oustanding loan, and how did that affect Danny's payment to Linda?

  Again, why would I give you anything else to turn against Danny and 3ABN, as I am obviously for them, and you, by your posting, are against them.. Joe

Thanks in advance for your answers.

Posted by: awesumtenor Jan 1 2007, 08:48 PM

QUOTE

> ...why would I give you anything else to turn against Danny and 3ABN, as I am obviously for them, and you, by your posting, are against them..

Before you bring your oh so (self) righteous indignation to bear on another thread, perhaps you should ask a very similar question to yourself..."why should any give you anything to turn FOR Danny and 3ABN"...seeing you've come in here all inquisitorial and stuff...and seeing, in light of your admission here, you have already picked a side to believe no matter how much evidence against that side is presented...

In His service,
Mr. J

Posted by: Pickle Jan 1 2007, 10:02 PM

> QUOTE(Joe Smith)
>
> You are highly delusional my friend? If you can make Danny's statement say what you claim it says....

So are you agreeing with the previous poster that Danny did say that Tommy's stress was job-related when it most certainly is not? That's definitely not good.

> QUOTE(Joe Smith)
>
> How am I suppose to know what you are talking about?

Because if you're  like Gailon thinks you are, then I would think you'd know what your wife wrote, that's why.

[Name above edited out in order to avoid being accused of playing the name game.]

> QUOTE(Joe Smith)
>
> It is common knowledge that Tommy has had 2 near death experiences with his heart, even Linda knows about that.

First I've heard of that. But I do know that Roger Clem claimed in his 2004 letter to Tommy that Tommy suddenly has health problems like this when it all comes out, and then suddenly is better when everything has blown over.

I also know that people who truly are pedophiles and the like are highly manipulative.

> QUOTE(Joe Smith)
>
> Why not let the official authorities handle it now? If you have evidence, turn it over to them. If it's true, they will get to the bottom of it.

Joe, don't allow yourself to be diverted from the main issue. The main issue is Danny, not Tommy. According to Walt Thompson's information, Danny lied to him about the Tommy Shelton child molestation allegations. If it wasn't for how Danny has handled all of this, we wouldn't be talking about Tommy.

Please inform us which authorities we are supposed to turn over the Danny Shelton fabrication and cover up allegations to.

> QUOTE(Joe Smith)
>
> You have got to be kidding! Why would I give you anything else ...

Refusal to provide any kind of tangible evidence to support statements made will be taken by many to be simply more evasion, stonewalling, and circumstantial evidence of corruption.

> QUOTE(Joe Smith)
>
> Again, why would I give you anything else to turn against Danny and 3ABN, as I am obviously for them, and you, by your posting, are against them.

I am not "against" 3ABN. I am for truth and against sin, lies, corruption, and evil. Is there no way to separate Danny and 3ABN from such? If you say there isn't, I beg to differ.

On December 29, you wrote:

> QUOTE(Joe Smith)
>
> We are just trying to get to the truth, right?

If you really meant this, then you would have no problem whatsoever answering the questions you are trying to avoid answering, namely, what Danny's house is currently appraised at, how much he actually paid Linda, and how much the outstanding loan affected that payment.

Posted by: PrincessDrRe Jan 1 2007, 11:05 PM

....and that's that in a nutshell.

Thoughts anyone?

Thoughts?

Posted by: Panama_Pete Jan 1 2007, 11:13 PM

> QUOTE(gardener @ Jan 1 2007, 01:54 PM)
>
> From what I understood from the program Tommy has been working in capacity of Production Manager for the past few years. Tommy was on the show also and after everyone gave their testimony about how wonderful Tommy was they all gathered around him and gave him a plaque of his 11 years of service at 3ABN. He said he was going to go to Black Hills to get back to better health. Moses, Dee, Molly and someone else gave their testimony. I thought for a moment they were all going to gather around and sing kum by a (or how ever you spell it).

These employees may have had no choice: Either pay homage to Danny's brother, or else.

I was reminded of this Bible story when I was reading the accounts of the "Tommy Shelton Retirement Program."

"A proclamation was issued calling upon all the officers of the kingdom to assemble at the dedication of the image, and at the sound of the musical instruments, to bow down and worship it. Should any fail to do this, they were immediately to be cast into the midst of a burning fiery furnace.

The appointed day has come, and the vast company is assembled, when word is brought to the king that the three Hebrews whom he has set over the province of Babylon have refused to worship the image. These are Daniel's three companions, who had been called by the king, Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego...."

"As in the days of Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego, so in the closing period of earth's history the Lord will work mightily in behalf of those who stand steadfastly for the right"

Prophets and Kings, Page 513

Read the rest of the story here:

http://www.nisbett.com/reference2/sl/sl04.htm

Table of Contents here:

http://www.nisbett.com/reference2/contents.htm

Posted by: Pickle Jan 1 2007, 11:20 PM

Joe, you asked why you should answer those questions about Danny's house. A simple reason why is that you'd want to save your own reputation. Consider how things look at present in these quotes from your previous posts:

> QUOTE(Joe Smith)
>
> I also know that she lives in a mansion herself... with a huge pool now...Again I was there when these things were happening.

Really? A mansion and a huge pool? You "know" that?

> QUOTE(Joe Smith)
>
> $200,000 buys a mansion compared to what I live in and ANY pool is huge compared to us who have none.

So mansion doesn't mean mansion, and huge doesn't mean huge after all.

And you were there?

> QUOTE(Joe Smith)
>
> Danny also told me about her pool.

Okay, then when you said you were there, you weren't talking about the house and pool.

How does Linda's house compare to Danny's as far as worth goes?

> QUOTE(Joe Smith)
>
> Also, $200,000.00 is nearly as much as Danny's house is worth...

So how much is Danny's house worth?

> QUOTE(Joe Smith)
>
> I am certain that the figure [the house's worth when it was first built, or its worth now?] was a high estimate of $400,000 from one of the other posts, not mine. Again I need to say the loan was not based upon only one salary of 50k per year, but two .... The value or current apprasial of the house is considerably more now than when it was built several years ago.

I am still wondering if you thus mean that his house now is worth $500,000 or $600,000, or whether you were trying to say that $400,000 might be a high estimate of what it is worth now. I asked you about this, and I don't think you've answered yet.

Either way we have a problem. Is a $200,000 house in a major city like Springfield worth almost as much as a $500,000 house or so in a rural area like around West Frankfort? Not at all.

How about a house that is worth only a "mere" $300,000 or $400,000, would that make Linda's $200,000 house be worth "nearly as much as Danny's"? Hardly.

So regardless of what you were really trying to say, I think your statement about her house being worth nearly as much as his cannot possibly be correct.

Posted by: calvin Jan 1 2007, 11:38 PM

Pickle, why don't you just give it up. This guy is not going to answer your questions....and he has no obligation too.

Posted by: awesumtenor Jan 2 2007, 12:14 AM

> QUOTE(calvin @ Jan 2 2007, 12:38 AM) ☐
>
> Pickle, why don't you just give it up. This guy is not going to answer your questions....and he has no obligation too.

This door swings both ways... joe Smith (and FHB, and Aletheia, and Lee among others) came in questioning and demanding answers... and now he wants to get indignant when someone requires and answer of him? All posts are under glass and all things stated as fact can be examined. Joe stated things as facts and Pickle called him on them. While it is Joe's prerogative to not respond, it remains Pickle's prerogative to ask and it is the reader's prerogative to believe one or the other, both or neither.

The fact that joe (and others) are falling back on recalcitrance and obfuscation when they are asked to explain something they fully expect all to accept as truth, sight unseen speaks volumes...

In His service,
Mr. J

Posted by: roxe Jan 2 2007, 12:31 AM

> QUOTE(awesumtenor @ Jan 1 2007, 11:14 PM) ☐
>
> The fact that joe (and others) are falling back on recalcitrance and obfuscation when they are asked to explain something they fully expect all to accept as truth, sight unseen, speaks volumes... (added comma)

yep, got that right...

Posted by: Johann Jan 2 2007, 07:29 AM

This appears to be the place where Tommy is going:

You may watch Dick Nunez, BHHEC's Wellness Director, on 3ABN each day. He leads out on the Body & Spirit and Body & Spirit Aerobics programs. These exercise programs illustrate exercises ordinary people can do without the need for fancy equipment. 3ABN is a station that may be received with the appropriate satellite dish, and which also may be viewed live on the internet for free at 3ABN.ORG. Check the 3ABN Broadcast Schedule to see when you may view Body & Spirit online (high-speed internet connection needed).

http://www.bhhec.org/

Posted by: Chez Jan 2 2007, 10:28 AM

> QUOTE(Johann @ Jan 2 2007, 08:29 AM) ☐
>
> This appears to be the place where Tommy is going:
> You may watch Dick Nunez, BHHEC's Wellness Director, on 3ABN each day. He leads out on the Body & Spirit and Body & Spirit Aerobics programs. These exercise programs illustrate exercises ordinary people can do without the need for fancy equipment. 3ABN is a station that may be received with the appropriate satellite dish, and which also may be viewed live on the internet for free at 3ABN.ORG. Check the 3ABN Broadcast Schedule to see when you may view Body & Spirit online (high-speed internet connection needed).
>
> http://www.bhhec.org/

Has Tommy gotten help for his pedophilic activities and tendencies? Do they have psychologists or psychiatrists assigned to this wellness center?

Posted by: inga Jan 2 2007, 03:22 PM

> QUOTE(Johann @ Jan 2 2007, 08:29 AM)
>
> This appears to be the place where Tommy is going:
> You may watch Dick Nunez, BHHEC's Wellness Director, on 3ABN each day. He leads out on the Body & Spirit and Body & Spirit Aerobics programs. These exercise programs illustrate exercises ordinary people can do without the need for fancy equipment. 3ABN is a station that may be received with the appropriate satellite dish, and which also may be viewed live on the internet for free at 3ABN.ORG. Check the 3ABN Broadcast Schedule to see when you may view Body & Spirit online (high-speed internet connection needed).
>
> http://www.bhhec.org/

Dick's Body and Spirit programs (mainly exercise, with educational comments and explanations) are really excellent.

I always assumed 3ABN broadcasts his program for free, since I doubt that he could afford paying for the air time. That would explain the detailed recommendation of 3ABN and how to receive it.

Posted by: Ed White Jan 2 2007, 03:32 PM

> QUOTE(Chez @ Jan 2 2007, 10:28 AM)
>
> Has Tommy gotten help for his pedophilic activities and tendencies? Do they have psychologists or psychiatrists assigned to this wellness center?

I hope not, this man need real help, he doesn't need to be confused.

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Jan 2 2007, 04:37 PM

If Christian psychologists or psychiatrists are not appropriate treatment for an alleged pedophile what would you suggest?

Posted by: Observer Jan 2 2007, 05:12 PM

> QUOTE(PeacefullyBewildered @ Jan 2 2007, 03:37 PM)
>
> If Christian psychologists or psychiatrists are not appropriate treatment for an alleged pedophile what would you suggest?

In Ed's view, "Christian psychologist," and "Christian psychiatrist" are oxymorons.

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Jan 2 2007, 05:38 PM

> QUOTE(Observer @ Jan 2 2007, 04:12 PM)
>
> In Ed's view, "Christian psychologist," and "Christian psychiatrist" are oxymorons.

So the gift of healing spoken of in 1Corinthians12:9 only refers to physical and spiritual, not mental? Hmmmm.

Posted by: watchbird Jan 2 2007, 06:25 PM

> QUOTE(PeacefullyBewildered @ Jan 2 2007, 06:38 PM)
>
> So the gift of healing spoken of in 1Corinthians12:9 only refers to physical and spiritual, not mental? Hmmmm.

Oh, this is just typical Ed. He's against almost anything. Don't pay him no "nevermind". OTOH, I don't know that I would classify Tommy's problem as "mental" either.... sin is sin and the remedy for sin is confession, repentance, and reparation. None of which I have seen any evidence of in anything that has been said so far about Tommy's elaborate "retirement" party. Just more coverup and make believe that everything is AOK in Dannyland.... as contrasted with some honest confession and the putting away of sin in the camp.

Not exactly on the subject.... though it struck me as having some relationship.... the sermon, "Of Dancing Elephants & Painted Tombs", preached last Sabbath, December 30, 2006, by Calvin Thompson in the Loma Linda University church. You can listen on-line or download the MP3 file from their http://www.lluc.org/index.php?option=com_sermon&gid=3.

I highly recommend it.

Posted by: PrincessDrRe Jan 2 2007, 06:33 PM

I'm sorry. Sin is sin - however some "sins" are not just done by the person - per se. I think some "sins" are influenced by ....well.....

See my signature line.

Some "sins" are influenced by some problem in the main/upper quadrant of the body....

That is all...

☒ sn

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Jan 2 2007, 08:23 PM

> QUOTE(watchbird @ Jan 2 2007, 05:25 PM) ☐
>
> Oh, this is just typical Ed. He's against almost anything. Don't pay him no "nevermind". OTOH, I don't know that I would classify Tommy's problem as "mental" either.... sin is sin and the remedy for sin is confession, repentance, and reparation. None of which I have seen any evidence of in anything that has been said so far about Tommy's elaborate "retirement" party. Just more coverup and make believe that everything is AOK in Dannyland.... as contrasted with some honest confession and the putting away of sin in the camp.
> ------
>
> Not exactly on the subject.... though it struck me as having some relationship.... the sermon, "Of Dancing Elephants & Painted Tombs", preached last Sabbath, December 30, 2006, by Calvin Thompson in the Loma Linda University church. You can listen on-line or download the MP3 file from their http://www.lluc.org/index.php?option=com_sermon&gid=3.
>
> I highly recommend it.

WB, excellent points!

Posted by: PrincessDrRe Jan 2 2007, 09:22 PM

> QUOTE(PeacefullyBewildered @ Jan 2 2007, 06:37 PM) ☐
>
> If Christian psychologists or psychiatrists are not appropriate treatment for an alleged pedophile what would you suggest?

> QUOTE(Observer @ Jan 2 2007, 07:12 PM) ☐
>
> In Ed's view, "Christian psychologist," and "Christian psychiatrist" are oxymorons.

BTW:
They are not interchangable Ed and to think so is off.....

☒ sn

Posted by: daylily Jan 3 2007, 06:40 AM

I heard that sermon too. It was excellent.

Posted by: Clay Jan 3 2007, 08:10 AM

success rate for "curing" pedophiles is poor... very poor.....

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Jan 3 2007, 08:15 AM

> QUOTE(Clay @ Jan 3 2007, 07:10 AM) ☐
>
> success rate for "curing" pedophiles is poor... very poor.....

Very poor, indeed...

Posted by: Pickle Jan 3 2007, 08:33 AM

> QUOTE(PeacefullyBewildered @ Jan 3 2007, 08:15 AM) ☐
>
> Very poor, indeed...

And since Tommy, to all appearances, gets absolutely no support from his family, zippo, zero, what motivation would he have to change?

If they reward his evil behavior with high positions, fabulous farewells, and the like, with no support at all coming from those that are closest to him, why would he think he needs to change?

Posted by: Ed White Jan 3 2007, 08:43 AM

> QUOTE(PeacefullyBewildered @ Jan 3 2007, 08:15 AM) ☐
>
> Very poor, indeed...

I would take it a step futher, nearly impossible with mans solutions, they only flame the suffers problems, but with heaven's solutions all things are possible. There is nothing wrong to identify a problem to a friend/pastor/counselor, but never go into detail as it will only weaken the one listening to this filth and it brings no strength to the sufferer, you tell it to the One that understands & you cannot werrie. If the Lords hand is shortened that it cannot save to the uttermost we might just as well throw in the towel. When I was teaching in the junior SS class a hundred years ago we had a motto in big letters on the wall with words life this. Sin comes in many/many different containers, but the lie is the handle to them all.

Posted by: Clay Jan 3 2007, 08:47 AM

> QUOTE(Ed White @ Jan 3 2007, 08:43 AM) ☐
>
> I would take it a step futher, nearly impossible with mans solutions, they only flame the suffers problems, but with heaven's solutions all things are possible. There is nothing wrong to identify a > problem to a friend/pastor/counselor, but never go into detail as it will only weaken the one listening to this filth and it brings no strength to the sufferer, you tell it to the One that understands & you cannot werrie. If the Lords hand is shortened that it cannot save to the uttermost we might just as well throw in the towel. When I was teaching in the junior SS class a hundred years ago we had a motto in big letters on the wall with words life this. Sin comes in many/many different containers, but the lie is the handle to them all.

perhaps.... I would respectfully beg to differ given the children who have been harmed by pedophiles who have opted not to use man's solutions, but to pray.... which works right up until they molest the next child.....

Posted by: Ed White Jan 3 2007, 09:06 AM

> QUOTE(Clay @ Jan 3 2007, 08:47 AM)
>
> perhaps.... I would respectfully beg to differ given the children who have been harmed by pedophiles who have opted not to use man's solutions, but to pray.... which works right up until they molest the next child.....

Clay tell me three things that "man's solutions" might include? Does one of them come in a bottle? I submit to you that this sufferer there at 3ABN has probably tried the first three items on the list a number of times. He needs not a band-aid or talcum power this time around, he needs some lasting results so he could go back to this encampment & show & tell others that also have trouble telling the truth. Even be a missionary to his brothers & 3ABN board and sing that song "mending broken people" and know why he is singing it this time.

Posted by: Clay Jan 3 2007, 09:08 AM

> QUOTE(Ed White @ Jan 3 2007, 09:06 AM)
>
> Clay tell me three things that "man's solutions" might include? Does one of them come in a bottle? I submit to you that this sufferer there at 3ABN has probably tried the first three items on the list a number of times. He needs not a band-aid or talcum power this time around, he needs some lasting results so he could go back to this encampment & show & tell others that also have trouble telling the truth. Even be a missionary to his brothers & 3ABN board and sing that song "mending broken people" and know why he is singing it this time.

Ed, I am opting not to tell you anything.... and I know of a couple of things that fall in the category of "man's solutions" that indeed would work...

Posted by: HUGGINS130 Jan 3 2007, 09:21 AM

> QUOTE(Clay @ Jan 3 2007, 10:08 AM)
>
> Ed, I am opting not to tell you anything.... and I know of a couple of things that fall in the category of "man's solutions" that indeed would work...

ouch

Posted by: watchbird Jan 3 2007, 10:33 AM

> QUOTE(Ed White @ Jan 3 2007, 10:06 AM)
>
> Clay tell me three things that "man's solutions" might include? Does one of them come in a bottle? I submit to you that this sufferer there at 3ABN has probably tried the first three items on the list a number of times. He needs not a band-aid or talcum power this time around, he needs some lasting results so he could go back to this encampment & show & tell others that also have trouble telling the truth. Even be a missionary to his brothers & 3ABN board and sing that song "mending broken people" and know why he is singing it this time.

You have absolutely no evidence upon which to base your judgement that he can rightfully be called a "sufferer" or that he "has probably tried the first three items on the list a number of times". And it is as errant to judge a man better than he deserves as it is to judge him worse.

My information comes from sources very close to Tommy, and it indicates that he is quite content with his orientation and activity and has convinced himself that it is perfectly OK for a man to satisfy himself no matter what his desire may be. The very first "step" towards healing of any kind by any means is the recognition that one has a problem and confessing that it is so and making the decision that one wants to change. When there is absolutely zero indication that Tommy is anywhere near making such a confession or expressing a desire to change, it is useless to speculate on what would cause him to do so. For even God Himself does not cut across a man's will. So the only thing left is to protect potential victims by amply warning them and isolating or incarcerating the offender.

One thing is sure... there should have been no such triumphant farewell such as took place on world-wide television. If there was any mention of Tommy at all, it should have been with sadness and regret and apology for putting children and young men at risk all around the world as he traveled as part of the immoral family trio for the past few years! With the exposure that he has been given, it is only right that parents the world around should be made aware of the problem and informed that if their children were ever alone with Tommy Shelton that they should listen carefully to anything their child might have said about any experience with him.

Posted by: Pickle Jan 3 2007, 11:14 AM

He needs to very quickly fall on the Rock and be broken, before the Rock falls on him and grinds him to powder.

Posted by: sister Jan 3 2007, 11:16 AM

It seems that no one has addressed the fact that Danny has left the door open for Tommy to return to 3ABN at any time.

Posted by: husbandoftheyear Jan 3 2007, 11:23 AM

> QUOTE(sister @ Jan 3 2007, 12:16 PM)
>
> It seems that no one has addressed the fact that Danny has left the door open for Tommy to return > to 3ABN at any time.

He has done more than leave the door open - the employees have been told that he WILL be back to do a variety of things.

Posted by: Pickle Jan 3 2007, 11:38 AM

> QUOTE(husbandoftheyear @ Jan 3 2007, 11:23 AM) ☐
>
> He has done more than leave the door open - the employees have been told that he WILL be back to do a variety of things.

Can you get specific as to how, when, and where the employees were told this?

Posted by: husbandoftheyear Jan 3 2007, 07:26 PM

> QUOTE(Pickle @ Jan 3 2007, 12:38 PM) ☐
>
> Can you get specific as to how, when, and where the employees were told this?

As you know, I am still employed there. It was information told to me as well as others.

Posted by: Pickle Jan 3 2007, 07:51 PM

> QUOTE(husbandoftheyear @ Jan 3 2007, 07:26 PM) ☐
>
> As you know, I am still employed there. It was information told to me as well as others.

Told by Danny? By department heads? In a meeting of everyone? In departments? In a newsletter or just verbally?

Just asking.

Posted by: husbandoftheyear Jan 3 2007, 08:15 PM

> QUOTE(Pickle @ Jan 3 2007, 08:51 PM) ☐
>
> Told by Danny? By department heads? In a meeting of everyone? In departments? In a newsletter or just verbally?

> Just asking.

Verbally by administration. Not a formal meeting.

129

Printable Version of Topic

Click here to view this topic in its original format

BlackSDA _ 3ABN _ A New Sda Face For 3abn....

Posted by: simplysaved Jul 7 2006, 02:01 PM

What are some programatic (not personality or people) changes that would make 3ABN more 21st century and meet more needs of the current Adventist viewership and those that it needs to target in the United States?

I'll start: One of my youth at church suggested that the Drill Team Competitons need to aired....in her opinion, that would stimulate more interest among the youth....I would also add the United Youth Congress. We both agree that "Teen Pathways" (I think that is the right name) is and needs to be 2n and placed out of it's misery (good intentions though). We also agree that Tiny Tots is one of the best and current shows that they have. che

What do you think would make it more effective in it's target population in the U.S. (since it does very well, I understand, in providing the needs outside of the U.S.)?

Posted by: simplysaved Jul 7 2006, 02:59 PM

I would like to see more recent/current broadcasts of Breath of Life!!!!

Posted by: Clay Jul 7 2006, 03:02 PM

can I wish it would go away? rofl

Posted by: simplysaved Jul 7 2006, 03:16 PM

Behave, Steve...and Be nice!!!

> QUOTE(Clay @ Jul 7 2006, 04:02 PM) ☐
>
> can I wish it would go away? rofl

Posted by: Clay Jul 7 2006, 03:21 PM

> QUOTE(simplysaved @ Jul 7 2006, 03:16 PM) ☐

> Behave, Steve...and Be nice!!!

just thought I would ask.....

Posted by: watchbird Jul 7 2006, 03:24 PM

> QUOTE(Clay @ Jul 7 2006, 03:21 PM)
>
> just thought I would ask.....

Best idea I've heard so far.

Posted by: 4reneyonly Jul 7 2006, 03:39 PM

The patient is TERMINAL.

Pull the plug!

Posted by: watchbird Jul 8 2006, 09:12 AM

Getting serious again and returning to the original question--

> QUOTE(simplysaved @ Jul 7 2006, 02:01 PM)
>
> What are some programatic (not personality or people) changes that would make 3ABN more 21st century and meet more needs of the current Adventist viewership and those that it needs to target in the United States?
>
> I'll start: One of my youth at church suggested that the Drill Team Competitons need to aired....in her opinion, that would stimulate more interest among the youth....I would also add the United Youth Congress. We both agree that "Teen Pathways" (I think that is the right name) is and needs to be and placed out of it's misery (good intentions though). We also agree that Tiny Tots is one of the best and current shows that they have.
> What do you think would make it more effective in it's target population in the U.S. (since it does very well, I understand, in providing the needs outside of the U.S.)?

I'm sure that you meant for this to be a positive thread and you must be quite frustrated over the way things have gone.

But don't you see the point? We don't want our young people more attracted to 3ABN given the moral, fiscal, ethical, doctrinal, and personal relationship turpitude of its present owners and leading personalities. What we want is to see the corruption cleaned away, the guilty and their willing accomplices not only replaced but appropriately "brought to justice", the funds which have been diverted to personal gain recovered for use as their donors intended, and a whole new governing structure put in its place.

What needs doing is very comparable to that expressed by the "old saw" back in the days when automobiles had identifying ornamental but actual radiator caps on the outside of the hood. The standard answer to "Can it be fixed?" was, "Sure, but only if we jack up the radiator cap and drive a new car under it." Likewise, 3ABN as an identifying "radiator cap" is great. Everything else needs to be replaced!

IOW when you say:

> QUOTE(simplysaved @ Jul 7 2006, 02:59 PM)
>
> I would like to see more recent/current broadcasts of Breath of Life!!!!

What I think is NO!!!

What I'd like to see is Breath of Life tell 3ABN that due to the moral turpitude of its leadership they are withdrawing their contract with them and are forbidding 3ABN to ever show them again--ever--including repeats of old programs.

I'd like to see every truly SDA program who is now using 3ABN do the same.

I'd like to see every SDA recording artist do the same--especially those black artists like Wintley Phipps, whom 3ABN is using to bolster their credibility.

None of these NEED 3ABN to get to their audience. They can go on SAFE TV, HOPETV, and Loma Linda Broadcasting Net, all of which are more truly SDA channels than what 3ABN is. And with 3ABN now off of Sky Angel, it is quite possible that these other channels have wider coverage than does 3ABN, at least in the US. And if one buys the new 36" dish to access 3ABN from that, it is still not necessary to use 3ABN, since the same dish will bring HOPETV and LLBN. And besides these, there are other Adventist TV networks which have more limited coverage, but who are nonetheless valuable in their own areas, and who, as they grow, will have an increasingly healthy impact upon not only their local areas, but Adventist TV programming in general as they share their locally produced programming.

What we want is to attract our members, old and young alike, to these other TV channels. This will not only expose them to a better selection of programming but it will protect them from the emotional appeals for both sympathy and funds currently on 3ABN, and it will give support to HOPETV and LLBN, which, as fairly new organizations very much need.

I'd like to see every SDA pastor, teacher, SS leader, and every other person of large or small influence immediatly cease recommending 3ABN to anyone for any reason.

I'd like to see every SDA pastor and member say "NO" when contacted about having a 3ABN rally at their church.

As 4reneyonly put it: "Pull the plug". To live, 3ABN has to have three "lifelines"--programming, funds, and viewers. I echo her call and expand it. Pull the plugs--all of them.

Then you can direct your suggestions as to what should be aired so as to attract the broad spectrum of Adventists--including the youth--to these other channels, where there is some hope of your suggestions being looked upon favorably and where your youth will have much better role models than those who run 3ABN.

Posted by: simplysaved Jul 10 2006, 12:55 PM

Actually, this is to be a pro-active thread....focusing specifically on what from a programatic vantage point would make 3ABN more able to meet the needs of those who watch in the U.S. ...nothing more. God is able to handle whatever may or not be of Him...

One of the things that I see as a BIG turnoff is when I turn on any SDA program on whatever channel and it is clear that all you see is "recycled shows". IMO it is a disgrace when we only have dated programs to air representing our church.

> QUOTE(watchbird @ Jul 8 2006, 09:12 AM)
>
> Getting serious again and returning to the original question--
>
> I'm sure that you meant for this to be a positive thread and you must be quite frustrated over the way things have gone.
>
> But don't you see the point? We don't want our young people more attracted to 3ABN given the moral, fiscal, ethical, doctrinal, and personal relationship turpitude of its present owners and leading personalities. What we want is to see the corruption cleaned away, the guilty and their willing accomplices not only replaced but appropriately "brought to justice", the funds which have been diverted to personal gain recovered for use as their donors intended, and a whole new governing structure put in its place.
>
> What needs doing is very comparable to that expressed by the "old saw" back in the days when automobiles had identifying ornamental but actual radiator caps on the outside of the hood. The standard answer to "Can it be fixed?" was, "Sure, but only if we jack up the radiator cap and drive a new car under it." Likewise, 3ABN as an identifying "radiator cap" is great. Everything else needs to be replaced!
>
> IOW when you say:
>
> What I think is NO!!!
>
> What I'd like to see is Breath of Life tell 3ABN that due to the moral turpitude of its leadership they are withdrawing their contract with them and are forbidding 3ABN to ever show them again--ever--including repeats of old programs.
>
> I'd like to see every truly SDA program who is now using 3ABN do the same.
>
> I'd like to see every SDA recording artist do the same--especially those black artists like Wintley Phipps, whom 3ABN is using to bolster their credibility.
>
> None of these NEED 3ABN to get to their audience. They can go on SAFE TV, HOPETV, and Loma Linda Broadcasting Net, all of which are more truly SDA channels than what 3ABN is. And with 3ABN now off of Sky Angel, it is quite possible that these other channels have wider coverage than does 3ABN, at least in the US. And if one buys the new 36" dish to access 3ABN from that, it is still not necessary to use 3ABN, since the same dish will bring HOPETV and LLBN. And besides these, there are other Adventist TV networks which have more limited coverage, but who are nonetheless valuable in their own areas, and who, as they grow, will have an increasingly healthy impact upon not only their local areas, but Adventist TV programming in general as they share their locally produced programming.
>
> What we want is to attract our members, old and young alike, to these other TV channels. This will > not only expose them to a better selection of programming but it will protect them from the emotional appeals for both sympathy and funds currently on 3ABN, and it will give support to HOPETV and LLBN, which, as fairly new organizations very much need.

>
> I'd like to see every SDA pastor, teacher, SS leader, and every other person of large or small influence immediatly cease recommending 3ABN to anyone for any reason.
>
> I'd like to see every SDA pastor and member say "NO" when contacted about having a 3ABN rally at their church.
>
> As 4reneyonly put it: "Pull the plug". To live, 3ABN has to have three "lifelines"--programming, funds, and viewers. I echo her call and expand it. Pull the plugs--all of them.
>
> Then you can direct your suggestions as to what should be aired so as to attract the broad spectrum of Adventists--including the youth--to these other channels, where there is some hope of your suggestions being looked upon favorably and where your youth will have much better role models than those who run 3ABN.

Posted by: Nuggie Jul 10 2006, 01:01 PM

> QUOTE(simplysaved @ Jul 10 2006, 12:55 PM)
>
> Actually, this is to be a pro-active thread....focusing specifically on what from a programatic vantage point would make 3ABN more able to meet the needs of those who watch in the U.S. ...nothing more. God is able to handle whatever may or not be of Him...
>
> One of the things that I see as a BIG turnoff is when I turn on any SDA program on whatever channel and it is clear that all you see is "recycled shows". IMO it is a disgrace when we only have dated programs to air representing our church.

What if God's way of handling this mess is that 3ABN no longer exist? Clearly He doesn't need 3ABN...so maybe instead of focusing on how to change 3ABN we should just pray for God's will to be done...whatever that may be. . Maybe sometimes God allows things to happen for our own good...the question is what will we learn from this whole 3ABN debacle?

Posted by: Clay Jul 10 2006, 01:09 PM

I ummmm had a comment but simplysarah told me to hursh and behave..... so imma sit over there -----> in the corner.....quietly..... for now....maybe...

Posted by: simplysaved Jul 10 2006, 01:25 PM

That discussion is not the purpose of this thread.....the focus is what would make the station programming more in tune with the needs of SDA Christians and Christians in the U.S.

We should be able (in general) to look at situation objectively and focus on what would make it better....

> QUOTE(Nuggie @ Jul 10 2006, 01:01 PM)
>
> What if God's way of handling this mess is that 3ABN no longer exist? Clearly He doesn't need 3ABN...so maybe instead of focusing on how to change 3ABN we should just pray for God's will to be done...whatever that may be. . Maybe sometimes God allows things to happen for our own good...the question is what will we learn from this whole 3ABN debacle?

Posted by: Nuggie Jul 10 2006, 01:36 PM

> QUOTE(Nuggie @ Jul 10 2006, 01:01 PM)
>
> What if God's way of handling this mess is that 3ABN no longer exist? Clearly He doesn't need 3ABN...so maybe instead of focusing on how to change 3ABN we should just pray for God's will to be done...whatever that may be. . Maybe sometimes God allows things to happen for our own good...the question is what will we learn from this whole 3ABN debacle?

> QUOTE(simplysaved @ Jul 10 2006, 01:25 PM)
>
> That discussion is not the purpose of this thread.....the focus is what would make the station programming more in tune with the needs of SDA Christians and Christians in the U.S.
>
> We should be able (in general) to look at situation objectively and focus on what would make it better....

Nevermind...

Posted by: statrei Jul 10 2006, 01:42 PM

> QUOTE(simplysaved @ Jul 10 2006, 02:25 PM)
>
> We should be able (in general) to look at situation objectively and focus on what would make it better....

That's like asking, "How can we make the Russian government better?"

Posted by: missthg Jul 10 2006, 02:59 PM

sounds good to me!

> QUOTE(Clay @ Jul 7 2006, 02:02 PM) ☐
>
> can I wish it would go away? rofl

Start your own channel....and you can have all of those things...

> QUOTE(simplysaved @ Jul 7 2006, 01:01 PM) ☐
>
> What are some programatic (not personality or people) changes that would make 3ABN more 21st century and meet more needs of the current Adventist viewership and those that it needs to target in the United States?
>
> I'll start: One of my youth at church suggested that the Drill Team Competitons need to aired....in her opinion, that would stimulate more interest among the youth....I would also add the United Youth Congress. We both agree that "Teen Pathways" (I think that is the right name) is and needs to be and placed out of it's misery (good intentions though). We also agree that Tiny Tots is one of the best and current shows that they have. che
>
> What do you think would make it more effective in it's target population in the U.S. (since it does very well, I understand, in providing the needs outside of the U.S.)?

Posted by: beartrap Jul 10 2006, 08:01 PM

How about we just say it like it is. We seem to be very good at that here on BSDA.

More programs, different programs, pathfinder drills, more Breath of Life... it all comes down to more breath of death. It is nothing more than a fresh coat of paint on a whited sepulchre. No matter how you guild and decorate it, it is still nothing more than a house for the dead. It is an ostuary loaded with the skeletons of 3ABN's victims.

I will no longer amuse those who say that it does a good work in spite of some administrative issues. Danny Shelton is nothing more than the evil emperor of an evil empire that was built the mutilated carcasses of human victims. In fueling supposed good deeds with the torment and misery of others is worse than than the brutal gangster who commits his atrocities in his own name. 3ABN and Danny Shelton give God the credit for their vicious behaviour. They say that it is God, not them.

Posted by: sonshineonme Jul 10 2006, 11:05 PM

> QUOTE(statrei @ Jul 10 2006, 12:42 PM) ☐

> That's like asking, "How can we make the Russian government better?"

Right on! well put! best thing said so far. That is the point...nice idea, but, use the energy on something else - maybe "TLC" ("The Lord is Coming" network or something). You can't change the stripes on a zebra. So, find another animal to ride. It's time for 3ABN to go, and if we don't make something better and sincere, someone else will. When the mountains can't or won't cry out, the rocks will.

Posted by: simplysaved Jul 11 2006, 04:20 AM

Since this is the "best thing said so far", what are you called to do replace such an entity? To repeat a well-known phrase here at BSDA penned by Delance....yada, yada, yada...where's the stigmata?

Until then, for the purpose of this thread--and back on topic, more lifestyle-based application of scripture (i.e. something around the lines of a Joyce Meyers broadcast).

> QUOTE(sonshineonme @ Jul 11 2006, 12:05 AM)
>
> Right on! well put! best thing said so far. That is the point...nice idea, but, use the energy on something else - maybe "TLC" ("The Lord is Coming" network or something). You can't change the stripes on a zebra. So, find another animal to ride. It's time for 3ABN to go, and if we don't make something better and sincere, someone else will. When the mountains can't or won't cry out, the rocks will.

Posted by: Clay Jul 11 2006, 05:02 AM

> QUOTE(simplysaved @ Jul 11 2006, 05:20 AM)
>
> Since this is the "best thing said so far", what are you called to do replace such an entity? To repeat a well-known phrase here at BSDA penned by Delance....yada, yada, yada...where's the stigmata?
>
> Until then, for the purpose of this thread--and back on topic, more lifestyle-based application of scripture (i.e. something around the lines of a Joyce Meyers broadcast).

they may be doing it..... that is getting the word out.... suggesting other venues, and not putting stock into a system that has been corrupt and damaging......

Sometimes an "entity" cannot be saved, its gotta be discarded..... if you haven't seen the "stigmata" of damaging things perpetrated by the .org in question..... maybe we need to ask, have you been payin attention?

Posted by: seraph|m Jul 11 2006, 08:04 AM

> QUOTE(Clay @ Jul 11 2006, 07:02 AM)
>
> they may be doing it..... that is getting the word out.... suggesting other venues, and not putting stock into a system that has been corrupt and damaging......
>
> Sometimes an "entity" cannot be saved, its gotta be discarded..... if you haven't seen the "stigmata" of damaging things perpetrated by the .org in question..... maybe we need to ask, have you been payin attention?

Posted by: watchbird Jul 11 2006, 08:55 AM

> QUOTE(beartrap @ Jul 10 2006, 08:01 PM)
>
> How about we just say it like it is. We seem to be very good at that here on BSDA.
>
> More programs, different programs, pathfinder drills, more Breath of Life... it all comes down to more breath of death. It is nothing more than a fresh coat of paint on a whited sepulchre. No matter how you guild and decorate it, it is still nothing more than a house for the dead. It is an ostuary loaded with the skeletons of 3ABN's victims.
>
> I will no longer amuse those who say that it does a good work in spite of some administrative issues. Danny Shelton is nothing more than the evil emperor of an evil empire that was built the mutilated carcasses of human victims. In fueling supposed good deeds with the torment and misery of others is worse than than the brutal gangster who commits his atrocities in his own name. 3ABN and Danny Shelton give God the credit for their vicious behaviour. They say that it is God, not them.

"And all the people said" ---

Trust Bear to say it like it is...and to say it the best.

Three cheers and a round of applause for Bear.

Posted by: awesumtenor Jul 11 2006, 09:00 AM

> QUOTE(simplysaved @ Jul 10 2006, 03:25 PM)

> That discussion is not the purpose of this thread.....the focus is what would make the station programming more in tune with the needs of SDA Christians and Christians in the U.S.
>
> We should be able (in general) to look at situation objectively and focus on what would make it better....

If you are unwilling to consider the total deconstruction of 3ABN for the good of the church then you are the one who is not able to look at the situation objectively.

Some things cant be repaired; they can only be replaced.

In His service,
Mr. J

Posted by: awesumtenor Jul 11 2006, 09:19 AM

> QUOTE(simplysaved @ Jul 10 2006, 02:55 PM)
>
> Actually, this is to be a pro-active thread....focusing specifically on what from a programatic vantage point would make 3ABN more able to meet the needs of those who watch in the U.S. ...nothing more. God is able to handle whatever may or not be of Him...
>
> One of the things that I see as a BIG turnoff is when I turn on any SDA program on whatever channel and it is clear that all you see is "recycled shows". IMO it is a disgrace when we only have dated programs to air representing our church.

You asked people what changes they felt needed to be made. Shutting the whole thing down or taking it off the air is a programming change; ask the people who have SkyAngel. Just because you don't like the opinions given does not make those opinions off topic. The truth is, as children of the living God, we should not settle for dated programming from a corrupt network that claims to represent the God we serve.

3ABN was not given by divine fiat and Danny Shelton was not anointed to lead it by Zadok the priest and Nathan the prophet. There would be no sin in kicking his personal slush fund to the proverbial curb... preferably sooner rather than later. Your thinking is representative of the mindset that prevented Eli from admonishing his sons... consider then, if you will, what Sis White says in Patriarchs and Prophets chapter 56:

> QUOTE
>
> "The example of those who minister in holy things should be such as to impress the people with reverence for God and with fear to offend Him. When men, standing "in Christ's stead" (2 Corinthians 5:20) to speak to the people God's message of mercy and reconciliation, use their sacred calling as a cloak for selfish or sensual gratification, they make themselves the most effective agents of Satan. Like Hophni and Phinehas, they cause men to "abhor the offering of the Lord." They may pursue their evil course in secret for a time; but when at last their true character is exposed, the faith of the people receives a shock that often results in destroying their confidence in religion. There is left upon the mind a distrust of all who profess to teach the word of God. The message of the true servant of Christ is doubtfully received. The question constantly arises, "Will not this man prove to be like the one we thought so holy, and found so corrupt?" Thus the word of > God loses its power upon the souls of men. {PP 580.1} "

That's why people feel the patient is beyond saving.

In His service,
Mr. J

Posted by: sonshineonme Jul 11 2006, 09:24 AM

> QUOTE(awesumtenor @ Jul 11 2006, 08:19 AM)
>
> You asked people what changes they felt needed to be made. Shutting the whole thing down or taking it off the air is a programming change; ask the people who have SkyAngel. Just because you don't like the opinions given does not make those opinions off topic. The truth is, as children of the living God, we should not settle for dated programming from a corrupt network that claims to represent the God we serve.
>
> 3ABN was not given by divine fiat and Danny Shelton was not anointed to lead it by Zadok the priest and Nathan the prophet. There would be no sin in kicking his personal slush fund to the proverbial curb... preferably sooner rather than later. Your thinking is representative of the mindset that prevented Eli from admonishing his sons... consider then, if you will, what Sis White says in Patriarchs and Prophets chapter 56:
> That's why people feel the patient is beyond saving.
>
> In His service,
> Mr. J

Ok, I changed my mind....THIS WAS the best thing said so far. The end.

Posted by: simplysaved Jul 11 2006, 09:41 AM

> QUOTE(simplysaved @ Jul 7 2006, 03:01 PM)
>
> What are some programatic (not personality or people) changes that would make 3ABN more 21st century and meet more needs of the current Adventist viewership and those that it needs to target in the United States?
>
> I'll start: One of my youth at church suggested that the Drill Team Competitons need to aired....in her opinion, that would stimulate more interest among the youth....I would also add the United Youth Congress. We both agree that "Teen Pathways" (I think that is the right name) is and needs to be and placed out of it's misery (good intentions though). We also agree that Tiny Tots is one of the best and current shows that they have.
>
> What do you think would make it more effective in it's target population in the U.S. (since it does very well, I understand, in providing the needs outside of the U.S.)?

Did it ever occur to the nay sayers that it would have to have a viable alternative that would be able to reach all of the markets and have the "overall" positive influence for people in coming to Christ before God would remove or replace it? And for the record, there is currently none available when it comes to over package, influence and world-wide recognition.

No vision....only murmuring....

Posted by: awesumtenor Jul 11 2006, 09:44 AM

Repeating yourself does not change the issue...you asked for opinions; you are receiving them... you are operating on a flawed assumption; people's pointing that out to you is not off topic; they are far more on topic than you are willing to face, it appears.

In His service,
Mr. J

Posted by: simplysaved Jul 11 2006, 09:48 AM

Then you like those who can't see beyond the "sanctified soapbox" can choose not to post here....the previous post has been revised.

> QUOTE(awesumtenor @ Jul 11 2006, 10:44 AM)
>
> Repeating yourself does not change the issue...you asked for opinions; you are receiving them... you are operating on a flawed assumption; people's pointing that out to you is not off topic; they are far more on topic than you are willing to face, it appears.
>
> In His service,
> Mr. J

Posted by: awesumtenor Jul 11 2006, 09:52 AM

> QUOTE(simplysaved @ Jul 11 2006, 11:48 AM)
>
> Then you like those who can't see beyond the "sanctified soapbox" can choose not to post here....the previous post has been revised.

The beauty of a public forum is that anyone can reply to anything posted... so whether or not I or any other chooses to post in any thread aint your call... you were the one calling for 'objectivity'... yet you are unwilling to consider all possible solutions...

There is a word for that... several, as a matter of fact which come to mind off hand...

In His service,
Mr. J

Posted by: Clay Jul 11 2006, 09:56 AM

> QUOTE(simplysaved @ Jul 11 2006, 10:41 AM)
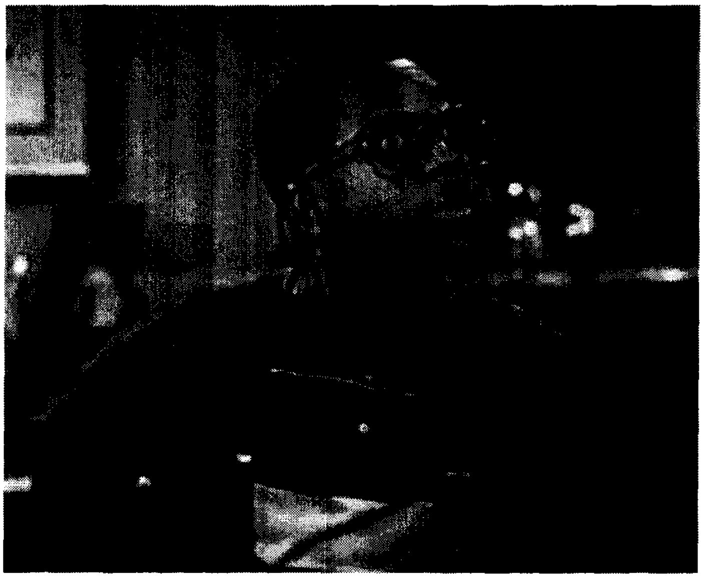
>
> Did it ever occur to the nay sayers that it would have to have a viable alternative that would be able to reach all of the markets and have the "overall" positive influence for people in coming to Christ before God would remove or replace it? And for the record, there is currently none available when it comes to over package, influence and world-wide recognition.
>
> No vision....only murmuring....

Being the heathen that I tend to be and minus a sanctified soapbox (heathens don't need those), you have stated a couple of assumptions.... as its been pointed out, the start of 3abn was based on a lie... I don't think God would start a ministry based on a lie, thus he would not have to wait for a equal alternative to be available before 3abn met its demise....

as for your no vision comment.... I am personally offended that you would attack, yes attack those of us who are visionally challenged and have to wear glasses....



thats a new low for you simplysarah....

Posted by: simplysaved Jul 11 2006, 09:59 AM

rofl rofl rofl

> QUOTE(Clay @ Jul 11 2006, 09:56 AM)
>
> Being the heathen that I tend to be and minus a sanctified soapbox (heathens don't need those), you have stated a couple of assumptions.... as its been pointed out, the start of 3abn was based on a lie... I don't think God would start a ministry based on a lie, thus he would not have to wait for a equal alternative to be available before 3abn met its demise....
>
> as for your no vision comment.... I am personally offended that you would attack, yes attack those of us who are visionally challenged and have to wear glasses....
>
> >
> thats a new low for you simplysarah....

Posted by: Clay Jul 11 2006, 10:05 AM

> QUOTE(simplysaved @ Jul 11 2006, 09:48 AM)
>
> Then you like those who can't see beyond the "sanctified soapbox" can choose not to post here....the previous post has been revised.

ummmmm there are a lot of heathen here.... and ummmm they wouldn't know a sanctified soapbox if it hit them in the head.... so ummm people will post where ever it suits them..... I think that's how the rules go....

Posted by: statrei Jul 11 2006, 10:06 AM

> QUOTE(simplysaved @ Jul 11 2006, 10:41 AM)
>
> Did it ever occur to the nay sayers that it would have to have a viable alternative that would be able to reach all of the markets and have the "overall" positive influence for people in coming to Christ before God would remove or replace it? And for the record, there is currently none available when it comes to over package, influence and world-wide recognition.
>
> No vision....only murmuring....

That is like a husband who buys something he should not have and when the wife asks him to return it he says, "You have to provide a viable alternative before I return it."

Posted by: simplysaved Jul 11 2006, 10:13 AM

No attack....the parameters were set in the OP...there are plenty threads here that openly attack, criticize, and defame the founders, their presentation of the facts regarding the onset, and personal items about their lives, which in all fairness may or may not be true...I am not here to challenge that or to say that a persons "feelings or experience is or is not valid"....

What I am challenging people to do is accept the fact that God has allowed 3ABN to have the influence world-wide that it has...more so than (keeping it real) Hope TV may ever be able to reach---an independent ministry has the ability to do things (good and bad) that cannot be done in an direct organizational relationship (i.e. BSDA is a perfect example).

In "replacing 3ABN", one would still have to address the following concerns:

1. Who do you replace it with, that will carry the weight and influence and yet still not directly under the guise of the church.

2. What does the structure look like?

3. Back to the OP, what does the direct shows, programming, and focus need to look like to better minister to the SDA's in the U.S. (adding for clarity) as a viable alternative to other Christian channels such as TBN?

So what was that when people were asked not to post in the "3ABN threads" if they thought it was bogus...? That does not seem equitable... or fair....

> QUOTE(Clay @ Jul 11 2006, 10:05 AM)
>
> ummmmm there are a lot of heathen here.... and ummmm they wouldn't know a sanctified soapbox if it hit them in the head.... so ummm people will post where ever it suits them..... I think that's how the rules go....

Posted by: Nuggie Jul 11 2006, 10:16 AM

> QUOTE(simplysaved @ Jul 11 2006, 09:41 AM)
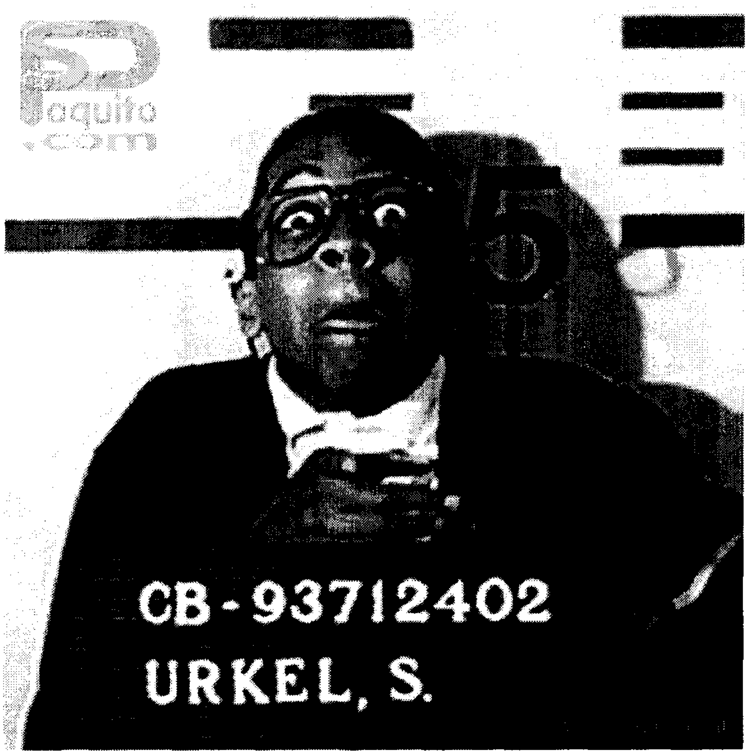
>
> Did it ever occur to the nay sayers that it would have to have a [u]viable alternative that would be able to reach all of the markets and have the "overall" positive influence for people in coming to Christ before God would remove or replace it? [/u] And for the record, there is currently none available when it comes to over package, influence and world-wide recognition.
>
> No vision....only murmuring....

And you base this on what exactly? Why does God need anything manmade to reach people? He does us a favor by letting us use are feeble efforts to spread the gospel, not the other way around.

Posted by: Clay Jul 11 2006, 10:18 AM

you attacked me and my visionally challenged comrades....

you're going down....



Posted by: Nuggie Jul 11 2006, 10:19 AM

> QUOTE(simplysaved @ Jul 11 2006, 09:48 AM)
>
> Then you like those who can't see beyond the "sanctified soapbox" can choose not to post here....the previous post has been revised.

☒ ofl I'm really curious here, Sarah...why do you always feel compelled to let people know they "can choose not to post" in a specific thread? Isn't this a free and open forum, or am I missing something? Really curious...

Posted by: simplysaved Jul 11 2006, 10:20 AM

☒ ☒ rofl O.K. Urkel...you are SO WRONG for this...

> QUOTE(Clay @ Jul 11 2006, 11:18 AM)

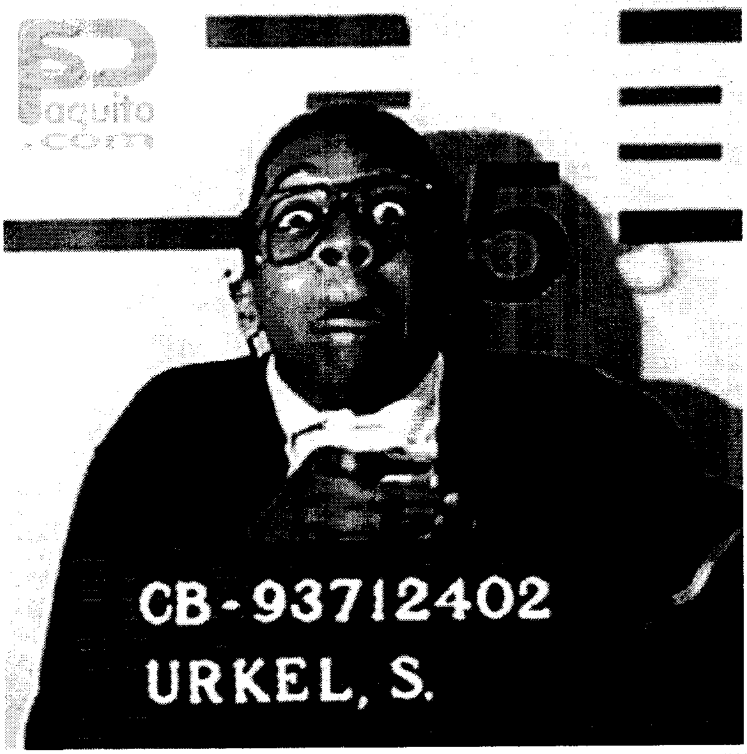
you attacked me and my visionally challenged comrades....

you're going down....



Posted by: princessdi Jul 11 2006, 10:20 AM

Sarah, I think they have told in the the last few pages of posts exactly what you have aksed, but you just don't like the answers. They are not off topic just because they didn't agree that televising drill teams and Youth Congress will "fix" what is wrong there. What you are proposing is as Awesumtenor, has ssid before, "Using the devil's tools to do The Lord's work", and it won't fly. If the ministry started with a lie and continues on lies, then as Bear says, it needs more than "dressing up", and he is someone who should know. So, you just might want ot let this one go. Too many know dyfunction when they see it.

> QUOTE(simplysaved @ Jul 11 2006, 09:13 AM)
>
> No attack....the parameters were set in the OP...there are plenty threads here that openly attack, criticize, and defame the founders, their presentation of the facts regarding the onset, and personal items about their lives, which in all fairness may or may not be true...I am not here to challenge that or to say that a persons "feelings or experience is or is not valid"....
>
> What I am challenging people to do is accept the fact that God has allowed 3ABN to have the influence world-wide that it has...more so than (keeping it real) Hope TV may ever be able to reach---an independent ministry has the ability to do things (good and bad) that cannot be done in an direct organizational relationship (i.e. BSDA is a perfect example).
>
> In "replacing 3ABN", one would still have to address the following concerns:
>
> 1. Who do you replace it with, that will carry the weight and influence and yet still not directly under the guise of the church.
>
> 2. What does the structure look like?
>
> 3. Back to the OP, what does the direct shows, programming, and focus need to look like to better minister to the SDA's in the U.S. (adding for clarity) as a viable alternative to other Christian channels such as TBN?
>
> So what was that when people were asked not to post in the "3ABN threads" if they thought it was bogus...? That does not seem equitable... or fair....

Posted by: simplysaved Jul 11 2006, 10:23 AM

I am curious here, why is it that some feel compelled to use the ofl when it is in a thread that they have initiated or believe is important/relavent, but disregard that when it is in another thread by someone else?

> QUOTE(Nuggie @ Jul 11 2006, 11:19 AM)
>
> ofl I'm really curious here, Sarah...why do you always feel compelled to let people know they "can choose not to post" in a specific thread? Isn't this a free and open forum, or am I missing something? Really curious...

Posted by: LadyTenor Jul 11 2006, 10:24 AM

> QUOTE(simplysaved @ Jul 11 2006, 12:11 PM)
>
> No attack....the parameters were set in the OP...there are plenty threads here that openly attack, criticize, and defame the founders, their presentation of the facts regarding the onset, and personal items about their lives, which in all fairness may or may not be true...I am not here to challenge that or to say that a persons "feelings or experience is or is not valid"....
>
> What I am challenging people to do is accept the fact that God has allowed 3ABN to have the influence world-wide that it has...more so than (keeping it real) Hope TV may ever be able to reach---an independent ministry has the ability to do things (good and bad) that cannot be done in an direct organizational relationship (i.e. BSDA is a perfect example).
>
> In "replacing 3ABN", one would still have to address the following concerns:
>
> 1. Who do you replace it with, that will carry the weight and influence and yet still not directly under the guise of the church.
>
> 2. What does the structure look like?
>
> 3. Back to the OP, what does the direct shows, programming, and focus need to look like to better minister to the SDA's in the U.S. (adding for clarity) as a viable alternative to other Christian channels such as TBN?

> QUOTE(simplysaved @ Jul 11 2006, 12:23 PM)
>
> I am curious here, why is it that some feel compelled to use the ofl when it is in a thread that they have initiated or believe is important/relavent, but disregard that when it is in another thread by someone else?

And addressing those concerns is not necessarily ofl ...

You've been very territorial in your threads, more so, recently...I'm wondering if it is personal or something else...not jumping to any conclusions, but I have observed a few folks on BSDA getting territorial in their threads, and even moderators behaving like this in their forums. Now I respect everyone here, regardless of status, but I am wondering if folks are getting caught up in a power struggle...we all tend to go off topic here...sometimes that leads to more interesting discussion, sometimes not...it is just like a party or gathering, especially when you get a bunch of gregarious folk in one room, just like ourselves...it happens. I don't think there is a need for the territorial nature that I've seen as of late...

Posted by: Nuggie Jul 11 2006, 10:26 AM

> QUOTE(simplysaved @ Jul 11 2006, 10:23 AM)
>
> I am curious here, why is it that some feel compelled to use the ofl when it is in a thread that they have initiated or believe is important/relavent, but disregard that when it is in another thread by someone else?

Carry on, Sarah...I have no desire to go round and round in circles and I don't understand your question...this is your thread so have at it.

Posted by: simplysaved Jul 11 2006, 10:27 AM

I would rather repond to this in another thread....so let's do it.....

> QUOTE(LadyTenor @ Jul 11 2006, 11:24 AM)
>
> And addressing those concerns is not necessarily ofl ...
>
> You've been very territorial in your threads, more so, recently...I'm wondering if it is personal or something else...not jumping to any conclusions, but I have observed a few folks on BSDA getting territorial in their threads, and even moderators behaving like this in their forums. Now I respect everyone here, regardless of status, but I am wondering if folks are getting caught up in a power struggle...we all tend to go off topic here...sometimes that leads to more interesting discussion, sometimes not...it is just like a party or gathering, especially when you get a bunch of gregarious folk in one room, just like ourselves...it happens. I don't think there is a need for the territorial nature that I've seen as of late...
>
> ...I won't say any more, because I am definately now ofl !!!!
>
> I apologize for hijacking this thread....

Posted by: awesumtenor Jul 11 2006, 10:37 AM

> QUOTE(simplysaved @ Jul 11 2006, 12:13 PM)
>
> No attack....the parameters were set in the OP...there are plenty threads here that openly attack, criticize, and defame the founders, their presentation of the facts regarding the onset, and personal items about their lives, which in all fairness may or may not be true...I am not here to challenge that or to say that a persons "feelings or experience is or is not valid"....
>
> What I am challenging people to do is accept the fact that God has allowed 3ABN to have the influence world-wide that it has...more so than (keeping it real) Hope TV may ever be able to reach---an independent ministry has the ability to do things (good and bad) that cannot be done in an direct organizational relationship (i.e. BSDA is a perfect example).

If we attribute to God 3ABN's existence then we also have to attribute to God it's no longer being on SkyAngel, which was the vehicle through which it obtained and maintained it's wide-scale footprint. Because it is no longer on SkyAngel, it has little more visibility than any of the networks watchbird noted in her initial reply to you. If they are, because of their size, so easily dismissed, then 3ABN is just as easily dismissed... for all of it's wannabe-itis, 3ABN was not TBN; it wasn't even the 700Club and was NEVER going to attain either the name recognition or the following of either... even if every Adventist on the planet had it... there just arent enough of us.

Fine; God allowed 3ABN to have the influence it does... and in response they screwed the pooch... which brings us back to the quote I posted earlier from Patriarchs and prophets:

"The example of those who minister in holy things should be such as to impress the people with reverence for God and with fear to offend Him. When men, standing "in Christ's stead" (2 Corinthians 5:20) to speak to the people God's message of mercy and reconciliation, use their sacred calling as a cloak for selfish or sensual gratification, they make themselves the most effective agents of Satan. Like Hophni and Phinehas, they cause men to "abhor the offering of the Lord." They may pursue their evil course in secret for a time; but when at last their true character is exposed, the faith of the people receives a shock that often results in destroying their confidence in religion. There is left upon the mind a distrust of all who profess to teach the word of God. The message of the true servant of Christ is doubtfully received. The question constantly arises, "Will not this man prove to be like the one we thought so holy, and found so corrupt?" Thus the word of God loses its power upon the souls of men...Of all sinners, those are most guilty who cast contempt upon the means that Heaven has provided for man's redemption--who "crucify to themselves the Son of God afresh, and put Him to an open shame." Hebrews 6:6."

If you recall, in 1Samuel, because of the sin of Hophni and Phineas and the unwillingness of Eli toaddress that sin Israel as a whole suffered; the ark was taken by the Philistines and the glory of the Lord departed. and now we have the same scenario playing out again with 3ABN... where the stench of the excess and corruption has made it all the way to heaven to the very nostrils of God and those like you who could rebuke it by ceasing to help perpetuate it are now sitting in the very balance in which Eli was found wanting.

If you also recall in 1Samuel... God did not revise, repair or reform the house of Eli.

He destroyed it and raised up another.

> QUOTE
>
> In "replacing 3ABN", one would still have to address the following concerns:
>
> 1. Who do you replace it with, that will carry the weight and influence and yet still not directly under the guise of the church.
>
> 2. What does the structure look like?

> 3. Back to the OP, what does the direct shows, programming, and focus need to look like to better minister to the SDA's in the U.S. (adding for clarity) as a viable alternative to other Christian channels such as TBN?

Since you claim that God raised it up in the first place, these questions are His concern... not ours...so your argument has no merit. The only way we have to worry about answering these questions is if it was men operating alone who stood 3ABN up in the first place...

> QUOTE
>
> So what was that when people were asked not to post in the "3ABN threads" if they thought it was bogus...? That does not seem equitable... or fair.... [/color]

Go back and re-read; you've obviously missed a lot.

In His service,
Mr. J

Posted by: statrei Jul 11 2006, 10:40 AM

> QUOTE(awesumtenor @ Jul 11 2006, 11:37 AM)
>
> Fine; God allowed 3ABN to have the influence it does... and in response they screwed the pooch...

We ought to spare a thought for that poor pooch.

Posted by: Clay Jul 11 2006, 11:21 AM

> QUOTE(statrei @ Jul 11 2006, 10:40 AM)
>
> We ought to spare a thought for that poor pooch.

okay.... a 10 second moment of silence for the violated pooch.....

To the unknown, but known pooch.....

IPB Image

Posted by: statrei Jul 11 2006, 11:49 AM

lol

Posted by: LadyTenor Jul 11 2006, 12:05 PM

> QUOTE(simplysaved @ Jul 11 2006, 12:27 PM) ☐
>
> I would rather repond to this in another thread....so let's do it.....

Just pointing out that I edited my post to include another relevant comment and then removed my apology for hijacking the thread because as I read further along, I realized the thread had moved in another direction before my comment. Apparently I was editing while Sarah was simultaneously quoting me so I just wanted to clarify for anyone who might notice the discrepancy...

...also after re-reading my thread, I also wanted to point out that there are many instances of this territorial behavior that I described all over BSDA...my post appears that I have singled out Sarah and I want to clarify and point out that that is NOT the case...after I re-read my post, I realized that it might be construed that way. My apologizes if that is how it was taken, by Sarah or by anyone else...

Posted by: watchbird Jul 11 2006, 01:07 PM

> QUOTE(simplysaved @ Jul 11 2006, 10:13 AM) ☐
>
> . . . .
> What I am challenging people to do is accept the fact that God has allowed 3ABN to have the influence world-wide that it has...

OK ... let's take your challenge and examine it carefully. First of all, for what purpose does God "allow" things to happen--particularly, for what purpose does God allow a person to have prosperity, success, and influence? We can extrapolate from some scriptural examples, but Ellen White tells us the answer directly. According to her, it is for the purpose of testing them to see how they will handle wealth and influence. There is a very interesting little "testimony" back in one of the early books in which Ellen starts out by praising a certain woman for her strength and steadfastness through a number of serious and trying circumstances. Then she goes on to describe how her circumstances have now changed and as the result of the change in circumstances her temptations will be of a different nature than before. And somewhere along there she says something like, God tested you with adversity and you passed the test wonderfully well. Now He will test you with prosperity to see how you will handle that.

As we have seen from the stories of Danny's early life, Danny had actually not done very well in the tests that God had given him up until the time of the founding of 3ABN. And yet, seemingly, God took Danny at his word (that this was something he was doing for God) and tested him by allowing great success to come and great wealth to pass through his hands. Did Danny "pass the test"? Did he handle that success, influence, and wealth in way that would bring honor to God's name? Either you do not believe the testimonies of those who have posted what they have seen, or you know that he did not.

> QUOTE
>
> more so than (keeping it real) Hope TV may ever be able to reach---an independent ministry has the ability to do things (good and bad) that cannot be done in an direct organizational relationship (i.e. BSDA is a perfect example).

I am not good at number recall, so I don't remember the statistics given regarding the growth of HOPETV as compared with the growth rate of 3ABN. But I suspect that if you did a projected rate of growth that you would find HOPETV well ahead of the curve in playing "catch-up" in ability and world-wide coverage.

Howver, that is not the real question. There is still the fact that "power corrupts", which in this case means that all TV programming should not be funneled through just one channel. Never again should Adventists have only one choice of TV stations. In truth, we already have a variety. When one buys the dish which gets HOPE TV, at least in the US, one also has access to Loma Linda Broadcasting Net (an independent organization though closely linked to a denominational entity). We also have SAFE TV, which is a sole proprietership owned by an Adventist layman. And there are others "in the wings", which are currently only broadcasting locally, but will doubtless become better known as time goes by. So as to your questions:

> QUOTE
>
> In "replacing 3ABN", one would still have to address the following concerns:
>
> 1. Who do you replace it with, that will carry the weight and influence and yet still not directly under the guise of the church.
>
> 2. What does the structure look like?

We will not replace it with any one thing. It will be replaced by many entities which will have various degrees of weight and influence and have different degrees of linkage to the church. While no one of them may ever come to match the power and influence of 3ABN, taken together, they will be more influential, for their aggragate programming can be at the same time more diverse and more speciallized than can any one entity. These will most likely start out as small part time and local efforts--churches, for example, will develop facilities for broadcasting their sermons to their local viewing area, and once the have the facilities they will add other programming besides the local church service. Some of these will find wider distribution to nation or world wide entities such as LLBN, HOPE, or BlueMountain, and some will develop their own facilities so as to extend their broadcast range.

There will be a lot more emphasis on "programming on demand" as contrasted with scheduled programming. Programs will be stored on web to be available for viewing at the viewers' convenience--either by computer or on TV. Once these entities become more secure in the marketplace, they will doubtless offer their archived programs for downloading, much as we can download MP3 files for listening from our own computer whether connected to the net or not.

There is the start of this now, in fact, and finding the sources might be a function that someone on BSDA might want to undertake and post on BSDA--that is, the urls where such archived programming can be viewed. Perhaps you might even want to make a list of such programming with direct clickable links from BSDA. The same could be done for MP3 files, which are at this point, much more numerous, and in which one can find not only music but sermon and seminar presentations. There are also video seminar presentations which can be accessed on-line. So this concept is not something far-fetched and way in the future. It is already here. It will grow. And as it does, each interest group will be able to pick their own programming, rather than needing to influence some central programming committee so as to include the things that they want somewhere in their lineup.

> QUOTE
>
> 3. Back to the OP, what does the direct shows, programming, and focus need to look like to better minister to the SDA's in the U.S. (adding for clarity) as a viable alternative to other Christian channels such as TBN?[/color]

Perhaps I answered this to some extent above. But there will still be TV Networks which minister not only to SDAs but which reach out to those of all faiths and of no (Christian) faith at all. Our church has a really active group which is studying how to reach the "post-modern" mind, for example. I think we can expect programming to come from this group which will be attempting to reach this segment of our society. I'm not sure that we really want to have any channel which is directly comparable to TBN--or most of the other Christian stations, from Catholic to Pentecostal. I would hope that we would have what I would call "light watching" segments, comparable to the nature/music videos of the Worship Channel, for those who live with their TV on, but mostly want it for background. But when you get into music, whose style do you play? And making a mixture of all styles doesn't "work"--for that only increases the number that don't like what they hear. On one channel, the best one could do would be to have different hours for different styles. That would certainly be an improvement over a steady diet of bland bluegrass. But with multiple channels, one channel could speciallize in one style--or range of styles--while another took another segment of the range.

Once we break out of the mold of thinking of only one channel to do it all, then the possibilities widen exponentially with the addition of more channels. But while it may be nice to dream about what kind of things we would want to see, in reality, we seldom know what we want till after we see it. And it is, as others have pointed out here, quite a fruitless effort to make remodeling suggestions for a house that has shown that it is built on a termite ridden foundation.

Posted by: calvin Jul 11 2006, 11:04 PM

3abn is more than Danny Shelton. Could not God use 3abn despite Danny? I see many are being blessed by the ministry, It is Written, the Net series, etc. Are we so intend on riding Danny from 3abn that we see only 3aqbn producing evil? That is taking a rather myopic view IMO.

Posted by: Panama_Pete Jul 11 2006, 11:33 PM

> QUOTE(calvin @ Jul 11 2006, 11:04 PM) ☐
>
> 3abn is more than Danny Shelton. Could not God use 3abn despite Danny? I see many are being blessed by the ministry, It is Written, the Net series, etc. Are we so intend on riding Danny from 3abn that we see only 3aqbn producing evil? That is taking a rather myopic view IMO.

And every six-pack of Coors could come with a complimentary copy of Steps to Christ. Then we could all say, "Thank you, Joseph Coors, for your blessed ministry."

Posted by: calvin Jul 11 2006, 11:45 PM

> QUOTE(Panama_Pete @ Jul 11 2006, 11:33 PM) ☐

> And every six-pack of Coors could come with a complimentary copy of Steps to Christ. Then we could all say, "Thank you, Joseph Coors, for your blessed ministry."

...and your point is?

Posted by: beartrap Jul 11 2006, 11:52 PM

> QUOTE(calvin @ Jul 12 2006, 12:04 AM) ☐
>
> 3abn is more than Danny Shelton. Could not God use 3abn despite Danny? I see many are being blessed by the ministry, It is Written, the Net series, etc. Are we so intend on riding Danny from 3abn that we see only 3aqbn producing evil? That is taking a rather myopic view IMO.

Adolph Hitler did wonderful things for the average German citizen. Did the good things that the Nazi party did somehow justify the atrocities that they performed under Hitler? Could you somehow seperate Hitler from his party, vilify the man, and sanctify the party?

How about Saddam Hussein and the Baath party. Could you seperate the two, damning Hussein and canonizing the party? They ran a secular government (an anomoly in the middle east), and had the third largest standing army in the world (providing many jobs), and they also had a tremendous educational system. They did many good things.

Hitler founded and ran the Nazi party. Saddam established the fundamental oeration of the Baath party and ran it. Danny Shelton founded and runs 3ABN. Under the facade of the things that Adventists want to see and support financially, 3ABN is Danny Shelton, and Danny Shelton is 3ABN. Many times he has told me and others that 3ABN is Danny Shelton and Danny Shelton is 3ABN. This is his words. If he is evil, then it is evil. If he has maliciously sought to hurt and destroy people, then it has maliciously sought to hurt and destroy people. If He needs to be replaced, then it needs to be replaced.

Posted by: statrei Jul 12 2006, 05:54 AM

> QUOTE(calvin @ Jul 12 2006, 01:04 AM) ☐
>
> 3abn is more than Danny Shelton. Could not God use 3abn despite Danny? I see many are being blessed by the ministry, It is Written, the Net series, etc. Are we so intend on riding Danny from 3abn that we see only 3aqbn producing evil? That is taking a rather myopic view IMO.

OK, let's broaden the view, Calvin. Do you believe that Danny would allow anyone to take 3ABN from him?

Posted by: awesumtenor Jul 12 2006, 07:34 AM

> QUOTE(statrei @ Jul 12 2006, 06:54 AM) ☐

> OK, let's broaden the view, Calvin. Do you believe that Danny would allow anyone to take 3ABN from him?

About as quickly as that Dr in NYC who blew up his home rather than let it be sold in a divorce settlement... spite and megalomania would not allow him to let it exist without him.

In His service,
Mr. J

Posted by: simplysaved Jul 12 2006, 12:24 PM

> QUOTE(calvin @ Jul 12 2006, 12:04 AM)
>
> 3abn is more than Danny Shelton. Could not God use 3abn despite Danny? I see many are being blessed by the ministry, It is Written, the Net series, etc. Are we so intend on riding Danny from 3abn that we see only 3aqbn producing evil? That is taking a rather myopic view IMO.

Exactly! God uses things and us--in spite of us...and I would agree that it is a very myopic view.

Posted by: statrei Jul 12 2006, 12:34 PM

Let me see if I understand this. No one on this forum has ever seen the Creator nor the devil yet we have a lot of folk claiming to know whta the devil is doing and what the Creator is doing. Is that presumption or what? All you have done is decide in your mind what you think God will do and what you think the devil will do then you proclaim with a loud voice your great discovery.

Posted by: simplysaved Jul 12 2006, 12:37 PM

I agree...on both sides of the paradigm...which is precisely why focusing on possible to improve the line-up makes more sense.

> QUOTE(statrei @ Jul 12 2006, 12:34 PM)
>
> Let me see if I understand this. No one on this forum has ever seen the Creator nor the devil yet we have a lot of folk claiming to know whta the devil is doing and what the Creator is doing. Is that presumption or what. All you have done is decide in your mind what you think God will do and what you think the devil will do then you proclaim with a loud voice your great discovery.

Posted by: statrei Jul 12 2006, 12:40 PM

> QUOTE(simplysaved @ Jul 12 2006, 01:37 PM)

> I agree...on both sides of the paradigm...which is precisely why focusing on possible to improve the line-up makes more sense.

The reason your suggestion does not make more sense is because Danny is the owner of 3ABN. You cannot change it without him -- unless you are planning on taking Brandy's place.

Posted by: Hersheys99 Jul 12 2006, 12:43 PM

> QUOTE
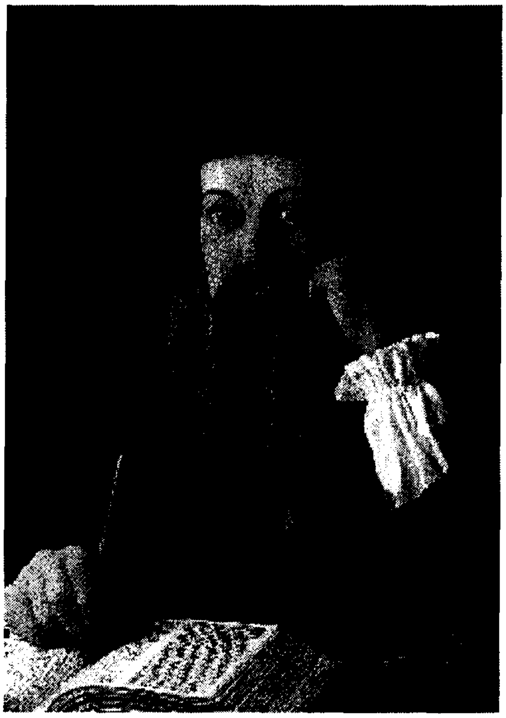
> I agree...on both sides of the paradigm...which is precisely why focusing on possible to improve the line-up makes more sense.

I understand what you are saying but in the case of 3ABN its isn't just the line up that makes it bad. It is the person behind it all & like Bear has stated Danny is 3ABN & 3ABN is Danny so in order to keep 3ABN you keep Danny cause I think he would let it completely crumble before he stepped down. IF he really wanted to keep it for the right reasons he would have stepped down instead of sacrificing Linda.

Posted by: Clay Jul 12 2006, 01:00 PM

bottomline.... things don't change at 3abn unless Mr. Shelton gives a green light to those changes..... one does not have to be "visionary" to "see" that...



☒ IPB Image

Posted by: princessdi Jul 12 2006, 01:45 PM

I think the problem is that the board are really the only ones who can take Danny down, but he has stacked it in his favor. The others on the pastorial staff have shown that they are spineless at best when they did not stand to him or quit from the manya nd varied "appearances of evil". This means that the even if Danny got a conscience and left, it would be more of the same, because those left would only continue to do as they were doing all along, in spite of Danny's absence.

Now, 3ABN may indeed have some programming issues when it comes to being relevant, but that is the least of their problems. It is unlikely that Danny, the board, and the present pastorial staff will all be replaced, and the station revamped. I dont' see any of them leaving quietly or otherwise.

Also, God IS using 3ABN inspite of Danny at this point. however as said before, how much sacrficing needs to be done "for the sake fo the ministry? Then there is my continueing concern that some rogue reporter will see some merit in taking down another crooked televangelist, no matter what denom(SDA may make a bigger story at that, we are one of the stranger ones)? The news mamgazine LOVE stuff like that!

The suggestion to revamp the shows instead of fixing the real problems sounds par for the course for us, though. Aren't we the one who move pastors in stead of removing them, when they have "issues"(when it is warranted, somethings can be worked out)? We never face the issues straight on. When cracks start to show, we get some super glue and paint and make it "look" better. Doesn't the Bible say something about pots with cracks and how they appear? I think there is something to being too optimistic, you know Pollyanna, burying ones head in the sand, and all that.

> QUOTE(calvin @ Jul 11 2006, 09:04 PM)
>
> 3abn is more than Danny Shelton. Could not God use 3abn despite Danny? I see many are being blessed by the ministry, It is Written, the Net series, etc. Are we so intend on riding Danny from 3abn that we see only 3aqbn producing evil? That is taking a rather myopic view IMO.

Posted by: awesumtenor Jul 12 2006, 02:08 PM

> QUOTE(statrei @ Jul 12 2006, 01:40 PM)
>
> The reason your suggestion does not make more sense is because Danny is the owner of 3ABN. You cannot change it without him -- unless you are planning on taking Brandy's place.

She's not young enough... and probably the wrong color... for Brandy's job at any rate...

In His service,
Mr. J

Posted by: Johann Jul 12 2006, 02:45 PM

> QUOTE(awesumtenor @ Jul 12 2006, 10:08 PM) ☐
>
> She's not young enough... and probably the wrong color... for Brandy's job at any rate...
>
> In His service,
> Mr. J

Ya ain't kiddin' my friend, ain't ya?

Posted by: calvin Jul 12 2006, 03:55 PM

> QUOTE(beartrap @ Jul 12 2006, 12:52 AM) ☐
>
> Adolph Hitler did wonderful things for the average German citizen. Did the good things that the Nazi party did somehow justify the atrocities that they performed under Hitler? Could you somehow seperate Hitler from his party, vilify the man, and sanctify the party?
>
> How about Saddam Hussein and the Baath party. Could you seperate the two, damning Hussein and canonizing the party? They ran a secular government (an anomoly in the middle east), and had the third largest standing army in the world (providing many jobs), and they also had a tremendous educational system. They did many good things.
>
> Hitler founded and ran the Nazi party. Saddam established the fundamental oeration of the Baath party and ran it. Danny Shelton founded and runs 3ABN. Under the facade of the things that Adventists want to see and support financially, 3ABN is Danny Shelton, and Danny Shelton is 3ABN. Many times he has told me and others that 3ABN is Danny Shelton and Danny Shelton is 3ABN. This is his words. If he is evil, then it is evil. If he has maliciously sought to hurt and destroy people, then it has maliciously sought to hurt and destroy people. If He needs to be replaced, then it needs to be replaced.

So now a guy who (alleged) dumps his wife without biblical grounds, flies around in a company jet, (alleged) skims funds off the top, (alleged) mistreats employees is now somehow equated to mass murders and dictators that have committed crimes against humane? As Clay often says "interesting".

I say alleged because I remain skeptical of much of what I have read here in the 3ABN threads. So let me start with the premise that I am not convinced Danny is this evil agent of the devil and needs to be removed as it appears that nearly 100% of you that post in these topics believe. All of the allegations can easily be dismissed the grumblings of formerly employees, an ex-son-in-law, and Linda Shelton sympathizers with an axe to grind. You have the COB letter explaining the divorce, maybe true and maybe not. I suspect the truth of this whole saga is somewhere in between, and we will probably never really know.

No doubt that Danny runs 3ABN, it is his private company and he is not really answerable to anyone but his handpicked board. But this is the case for most private businesses. 3ABN is still more than Danny, it is the programs more that the man that defined 3ABN. Despite what is said about Danny and his faults his ministry continues to remain Bible based, Christ-centered and mainstream or right of mainstream Adventist.

From this quarter's first Sabbath School lesson we learn that there are good and evil forces on the earth. But none of us can say with certainly which forces are leading 3ABN now, I know I can't. I know that the Lord has a thousand whys to finish his work, and He can accomplish it with or without Danny Shelton or 3ABN. I don't put any limits on what He can use or won't use. I know from my own family experiences. Had it not been for a drunken, lowdown uncle of mind who by accident introduced my grandmother to Message Magazine we may never have learned of the Advent message that all the precious truth associated with it. My grandmother who will be 99yo next month, has witnessed 4 generations of Seventh-day Adventist in her family.

Posted by: Johann Jul 12 2006, 04:03 PM

> QUOTE(calvin @ Jul 12 2006, 11:55 PM)
>
> So now a guy who (alleged) dumps his wife without biblical grounds, flies around in a company jet, (alleged) skims funds off the top, (alleged) mistreats employees is now somehow equated to mass murders and dictators that have committed crimes against humane? As Clay often says "interesting".
>
> I say alleged because I remain skeptical of much of what I have read here in the 3ABN threads. So let me start with the premise that I am not convinced Danny is this evil agent of the devil and needs to be removed as it appears that nearly 100% of you that post in these topics believe. All of the allegations can easily be dismissed the grumblings of formerly employees, an ex-son-in-law, and Linda Shelton sympathizers with an axe to grind. You have the COB letter explaining the divorce, maybe true and maybe not. I suspect the truth of this whole saga is somewhere in between, and we will probably never really know.
>
> No doubt that Danny runs 3ABN, it is his private company and he is not really answerable to anyone but his handpicked board. But this is the case for most private businesses. 3ABN is still more than Danny, it is the programs more that the man that defined 3ABN. Despite what is said about Danny and his faults his ministry continues to remain Bible based, Christ-centered and mainstream or right of mainstream Adventist.
>
> From this quarter's first Sabbath School lesson we learn that there are good and evil forces on the earth. But none of us can say with certainly which forces are leading 3ABN now, I know I can't. I know that the Lord has a thousand whys to finish his work, and He can accomplish it with or without Danny Shelton or 3ABN. I don't put any limits on what He can use or won't use. I know from my own family experiences. Had it not been for a drunken, lowdown uncle of mind who by accident introduced my grandmother to Message Magazine we may never have learned of the Advent message that all the precious truth associated with it. My grandmother who will be 99yo next month, has witnessed 4 generations of Seventh-day Adventist in her family.

My comments disappeared, but now I see that others have made some good comments.

Posted by: summertime Jul 12 2006, 04:50 PM

As far as I can tell, anyone who has relatives working at 3ABN had better hold up the faith of 3ABN or the relative may find himself in line for the same thing that happened to Linda. If I had relatives working for 3ABN I would not hesitate to defend as long as my relative is connected with Danny in any way. Sometimes we do not fear for ourselves as quickly as we fear for those we love. who could be in harm's way. I do believe that is what is holding a lot of definite stories about the problems at 3ABN under cover---to protect friends and loved ones. Can't blame them really, can we?

Posted by: Nuggie Jul 12 2006, 05:54 PM

> QUOTE(calvin @ Jul 12 2006, 03:55 PM)
>
> So now a guy who (alleged) dumps his wife without biblical grounds, flies around in a company jet, (alleged) skims funds off the top, (alleged) mistreats employees is now somehow equated to mass murders and dictators that have committed crimes against humane? As Clay often says "interesting".
>
> I say alleged because I remain skeptical of much of what I have read here in the 3ABN threads. So let me start with the premise that I am not convinced Danny is this evil agent of the devil and needs to be removed as it appears that nearly 100% of you that post in these topics believe. All of the allegations can easily be dismissed the grumblings of formerly employees, an ex-son-in-law, and Linda Shelton sympathizers with an axe to grind. You have the COB letter explaining the divorce, maybe true and maybe not. I suspect the truth of this whole saga is somewhere in between, and we will probably never really know.
>
> No doubt that Danny runs 3ABN, it is his private company and he is not really answerable to anyone but his handpicked board. But this is the case for most private businesses. 3ABN is still more than Danny, it is the programs more that the man that defined 3ABN. Despite what is said about Danny and his faults his ministry continues to remain Bible based, Christ-centered and mainstream or right of mainstream Adventist.
>
> From this quarter's first Sabbath School lesson we learn that there are good and evil forces on the earth. But none of us can say with certainly which forces are leading 3ABN now, I know I can't. I know that the Lord has a thousand whys to finish his work, and He can accomplish it with or without Danny Shelton or 3ABN. I don't put any limits on what He can use or won't use. I know from my own family experiences. Had it not been for a drunken, lowdown uncle of mind who by accident introduced my grandmother to Message Magazine we may never have learned of the Advent message that all the precious truth associated with it. My grandmother who will be 99yo next month, has witnessed 4 generations of Seventh-day Adventist in her family.

Calvin,

I hear what you're saying and I agree that the Lord can use anyone or anything to finish His work...but I'm wondering if Danny's reputation isn't so damaged that he just can't be effective in ministry anymore (at least not at 3ABN), even on the off chance that he is innocent of all these accusations. Where there's smoke, there's usually fire, so it makes me believe that something rotten went down at 3ABN. I remember when a pastor who I really thought highly of was accused of having an affair with a church member. I talked with my Dad about it quite a bit because I was really devastated by the whole situation and he said that one of the things pastors, elders, and anybody in a leadership or visible position in church ministry has to do is always avoid the appearance of evil. Perception is reality, and if people perceive (rightly or wrongly) that 3ABN is a den of iniquity then it becomes their reality. In this case perception and reality are so blurred I doubt that 3ABN could ever emerge from this scandal unscathed .

Posted by: Clay Jul 12 2006, 06:13 PM

the grounds for divorce.... "spiritual adultery." Let's start there.... there is NO SUCH animal.... so while thats the hook he hung his hat on, it is a weak excuse.....

Think of Mr. Shelton what you may, but there is no such thing as spiritual adultery....

Additionally if he didnt have anything to hide, if he were on the up and up, then he wouldn't have to hide behind a gag order....

Posted by: Panama_Pete Jul 12 2006, 06:37 PM

> QUOTE(calvin @ Jul 12 2006, 03:55 PM)
>
> Despite what is said about Danny and his faults his ministry continues to remain Bible based, Christ-centered and mainstream or right of mainstream Adventist.

If you believe this statement, are you going to help Danny pay for the jet fuel expenses so that he can visit his dentist on the West Coast or fly to a basketball game in Salt Lake City?

Maybe 3ABN is Christ-centered, but not that Christ-centered that you would want to pick up the tab?

Posted by: statrei Jul 12 2006, 06:44 PM

> QUOTE(calvin @ Jul 12 2006, 04:55 PM)
>
> Despite what is said about Danny and his faults his ministry continues to remain Bible based, Christ-centered and mainstream or right of mainstream Adventist.

The question is whether his ministry represents what the Creator represents.

> QUOTE(calvin @ Jul 12 2006, 04:55 PM)
>
> I don't put any limits on what He can use or won't use. I know from my own family experiences. Had it not been for a drunken, lowdown uncle of mind who by accident introduced my grandmother to Message Magazine we may never have learned of the Advent message that all the precious truth associated with it. My grandmother who will be 99yo next month, has witnessed 4 generations of Seventh-day Adventist in her family.

By that reasoning you should be advocating drunkenness.

Posted by: Johann Jul 12 2006, 09:38 PM

> QUOTE(Nuggie @ Jul 13 2006, 01:54 AM)
>
> Calvin,
>
> I hear what you're saying and I agree that the Lord can use anyone or anything to finish His work...but I'm wondering if Danny's reputation isn't so damaged that he just can't be effective in ministry anymore (at least not at 3ABN), even on the off chance that he is innocent of all these accusations. Where there's smoke, there's usually fire, so it makes me believe that something rotten went down at 3ABN. I remember when a pastor who I really thought highly of was accused of having an affair with a church member. I talked with my Dad about it quite a bit because I was really devastated by the whole situation and he said that one of the things pastors, elders, and anybody in a leadership or visible position in church ministry has to do is always avoid the appearance of evil. Perception is reality, and if people perceive (rightly or wrongly) that 3ABN is a den of iniquity then it becomes their reality. In this case perception and reality are so blurred I doubt that 3ABN could ever emerge from this scandal unscathed .

One of our early General Conference presidents resigned when his unmaried daughter got pregnant. Would that be applicable today?

Posted by: beartrap Jul 12 2006, 10:34 PM

> QUOTE(calvin @ Jul 12 2006, 04:55 PM)
>
> So now a guy who (alleged) dumps his wife without biblical grounds, flies around in a company jet, (alleged) skims funds off the top, (alleged) mistreats employees is now somehow equated to mass murders and dictators that have committed crimes against humane? As Clay often says "interesting".
>
> I say alleged because I remain skeptical of much of what I have read here in the 3ABN threads. So let me start with the premise that I am not convinced Danny is this evil agent of the devil and needs to be removed as it appears that nearly 100% of you that post in these topics believe. All of the allegations can easily be dismissed the grumblings of formerly employees, an ex-son-in-law, and Linda Shelton sympathizers with an axe to grind. You have the COB letter explaining the divorce, maybe true and maybe not. I suspect the truth of this whole saga is somewhere in between, and we will probably never really know.
>
> No doubt that Danny runs 3ABN, it is his private company and he is not really answerable to anyone but his handpicked board. But this is the case for most private businesses. 3ABN is still more than Danny, it is the programs more that the man that defined 3ABN. Despite what is said about Danny and his faults his ministry continues to remain Bible based, Christ-centered and mainstream or right of mainstream Adventist.
>
> From this quarter's first Sabbath School lesson we learn that there are good and evil forces on the earth. But none of us can say with certainly which forces are leading 3ABN now, I know I can't. I know that the Lord has a thousand whys to finish his work, and He can accomplish it with or without Danny Shelton or 3ABN. I don't put any limits on what He can use or won't use. I know from my own family experiences. Had it not been for a drunken, lowdown uncle of mind who by accident introduced my grandmother to Message Magazine we may never have learned of the Advent message that all the precious truth associated with it. My grandmother who will be 99yo next month, has witnessed 4 generations of Seventh-day Adventist in her family.

Dumping his wife, using the jet, and the other stuff you mention has very little to do with it. What I know is from years of up close, personal observation and experience, and the malicious side of Danny Shelton and his 3ABN is beyond what most people could believe without experiencing it themselves.

Yes, Danny is an evil man, and yes I equate him with Hitler, Saddam Hussein, and other mass murderers. Understanding that no person on this forum knows him as well as I do on a very close personal level, I don't expect you or anyone else to grasp what I am saying, but yes, Danny Shelton is fundamentally the same thing as many of the most vicious dictators in the history of mankind, and no matter what justification you may try to give to the evil empire that he created, it is a whited sepuchre. No change of programming will be anything more than a new coat of white paint. You say that no one can know which force is leading 3ABN? Well I know. The god of 3ABN is nothing that I care to worship and I will not promote or further that god in any way. Any god that requires human sacrifice is my enemy. The god of 3ABN may hide under the name of Jehovah pretending to be the great last hope for the end time that so many adventists blindly wonder after, but his real name is Danny Shelton. Not Jesus, God, or the Great I Am, just Danny Shelton... the real god of 3ABN.

Posted by: beartrap Jul 12 2006, 10:53 PM

> QUOTE(princessdi @ Jul 12 2006, 02:45 PM)
>
> Also, God IS using 3ABN inspite of Danny at this point. however as said before, how much sacrficing needs to be done "for the sake fo the ministry? Then there is my continueing concern that some rogue reporter will see some merit in taking down another crooked televangelist, no matter what denom(SDA may make a bigger story at that, we are one of the stranger ones)? The news mamgazine LOVE stuff like that!

It is my continueing concern that some good reporter is not taking down another rogue televangelist.

Posted by: LadyTenor Jul 12 2006, 11:48 PM

> QUOTE(Clay @ Jul 12 2006, 07:13 PM)
>
> the grounds for divorce.... "spiritual adultery." Let's start there.... there is NO SUCH animal.... so while thats the hook he hung his hat on, it is a weak excuse.....
>
> Think of Mr. Shelton what you may, but there is no such thing as spiritual adultery....
>
> Additionally if he didnt have anything to hide, if he were on the up and up, then he wouldn't have to hide behind a gag order....

> QUOTE(Johann @ Jul 12 2006, 10:38 PM)
>
> One of our early General Conference presidents resigned when his unmaried daughter got pregnant. Would that be applicable today?

When my friend got pregnant out of wedlock, her father, an elder, resigned as PM leader, but the pastor and elders convinced him that stepping down as elder was not necessary...

...as far as pastors go, I've seen pastors have affairs with church members, mismanage funds (in conference positions) and the like, but none of them were fired...they were "reassigned"...that is not the same thing as getting fired to me..."no"...

...let us remember my friend whose now wife got pregnant before their wedding...she was a teacher in an SDA school...she was fired when she announced she was pregnant because they were engaged and not yet married...we discussed that in a thread here on BSDA...

Posted by: simplysaved Jul 13 2006, 12:38 AM

I would like to see the Word of Praise Network finally come to fruition....the perspective of Pastor Whintley Phipps, who is responsible for the implementation, will bring some balance and "center" to the way in which Seventh-day Adventists are portrayed and their spiritual concerns, lifestyle, worship services, etc.

Posted by: Johann Jul 13 2006, 01:13 AM

> QUOTE(simplysaved @ Jul 13 2006, 08:38 AM)
>
> I would like to see the Word of Praise Network finally come to fruition....the perspective of Pastor Whintley Phipps, who is responsible for the implementation, will bring some balance and "center" to the way in which Seventh-day Adventists are portrayed and their spiritual concerns, lifestyle, worship services, etc.

We trust that he will not be unduely inluenced by the million dollars Danny Shelton gave him.

Posted by: beartrap Jul 13 2006, 08:07 AM

> QUOTE(simplysaved @ Jul 13 2006, 01:38 AM)
>
> I would like to see the Word of Praise Network finally come to fruition....the perspective of Pastor Whintley Phipps, who is responsible for the implementation, will bring some balance and "center" to the way in which Seventh-day Adventists are portrayed and their spiritual concerns, lifestyle, worship services, etc.

What makes you think that another 3ABN network will be any different than the others. Phipps is another facade... another coat of paint on the sepulchre. World of Praise falls directly under Danny Shelton, who gave Phipps a job just like he has given many other people jobs. They come, and they go at the whim of Danny.

Posted by: Clay Jul 13 2006, 08:09 AM

> QUOTE(beartrap @ Jul 13 2006, 09:07 AM) ☐
>
> What makes you think that another 3ABN network will be any different than the others. Phipps is another facade... another coat of paint on the sepulchre. World of Praise falls directly under Danny Shelton, who gave Phipps a job just like he has given many other people jobs. They come, and they go at the whim of Danny.

let me requote myself.....

> QUOTE
>
> bottomline.... things don't change at 3abn unless Mr. Shelton gives a green light to those changes..... one does not have to be "visionary" to "see" that...

Posted by: seraph|m Jul 13 2006, 08:36 AM

> QUOTE(Clay @ Jul 13 2006, 10:09 AM) ☐
>
> let me requote myself.....

> QUOTE
>
> bottomline.... things don't change at 3abn unless Mr. Shelton gives a green light to those changes..... one does not have to be "visionary" to "see" that...

What vision... with the blind leading the blind?

Posted by: Panama_Pete Jul 13 2006, 09:49 AM

> QUOTE(Johann @ Jul 13 2006, 01:13 AM) ☐
>
> We trust that he will not be unduely inluenced by the million dollars Danny Shelton gave him.

United State Dream Academy
EIN 59-3514841
Form 990 for Year 2003

I think Mr. Wintley Phipps and Mr. Danny Shelton function, or attempt to function, in a world to which most of you will have no access. You will be able to peer into it only on rare occasions.

http://tfcny.fdncenter.org/990s/990search/990.php?ein=593514841&yr=200312&rt=990

Wintley Phipps salary is listed at $130,000 and is listed on page 19. There's more information to interpret here, but I don't have the time at the moment.

The board members are listed.

http://tfcny.fdncenter.org/990s/990search/990.php?ein=593514841&yr=200212&rt=990
United States Dream Academy
EIN 59-2514841
Form 990 for Year 2002

In 2002 , Form 990 for United States Dream Academy has Mr. Phipps at a salary of $170,142 on page 23.

In 2004 , Mr. Phipps is a salary listed at $130,000 on page 14.

http://204.203.220.33/EINS/593514841/593514841_2004_01eada24.PDF

Posted by: watchbird Jul 13 2006, 09:49 AM

> QUOTE(simplysaved @ Jul 13 2006, 12:38 AM) ☐
>
> I would like to see the Word of Praise Network finally come to fruition....the perspective of Pastor Whintley Phipps, who is responsible for the implementation, will bring some balance and "center" to the way in which Seventh-day Adventists are portrayed and their spiritual concerns, lifestyle, worship services, etc.

> QUOTE(beartrap @ Jul 13 2006, 08:07 AM) ☐
>
> What makes you think that another 3ABN network will be any different than the others. Phipps is another facade... another coat of paint on the sepulchre. World of Praise falls directly under Danny Shelton, who gave Phipps a job just like he has given many other people jobs. They come, and they go at the whim of Danny.

I would like to hear more about this proposed Word of Praise Network. I had heard that Phipps was thinking of some such thing, but I had not realized that it would be only another one of 3ABN's affiliated networks. Please explicate further. What are the plans? How far along are they? Who is involved? And anything else anyone knows (or has heard) about it.

Posted by: watchbird Jul 13 2006, 10:08 AM

Well--there goes my illusions that Wintley Phipps was an ordinary SDA minister who was using his extra-ordinary gift of song for the Lord. blc

Do tell us more. I'm not particularly gifted in interpreting finances, but "full time position" as president of this organization doesn't exactly seem like something a minister could do "on the side". Is he then no longer in denominational employ as a minister?

> QUOTE(Panama_Pete @ Jul 13 2006, 09:49 AM) ☐
>
> United State Dream Academy
> EIN 59-3514841
> Form 990 for Year 2003
>
> I think Mr. Wintley Phipps and Mr. Danny Shelton function, or attempt to function, in a world to which must of you will have no access. You will be able to peer into it only on rare occasions.
>
> http://tfcny.fdncenter.org/990s/990search/990.php?ein=593514841&yr=200312&rt=990
>
> Wintley Phipps salary is listed at $130,000 and is listed on page 19. There's more information to interpret here, but I don't have the time at the moment.
>
> The board members are listed.
>
> http://tfcny.fdncenter.org/990s/990search/990.php?ein=593514841&yr=200212&rt=990
> United States Dream Academy
> EIN 59-2514841
> Form 990 for Year 2002
>
> In 2002 , Form 990 for United States Dream Academy has Mr. Phipps at a salary of $170,142 on page 23.
>
> In 2004 , Mr. Phipps is a salary listed at $130,000 on page 14.
>
> http://204.203.220.33/EINS/593514841/593514841_2004_01eada24.PDF

Posted by: Panama_Pete Jul 13 2006, 10:21 AM

> QUOTE(watchbird @ Jul 13 2006, 10:08 AM) ☐
>
> Well--there goes my illusions that Wintley Phipps was an ordinary SDA minister who was using his extra-ordinary gift of song for the Lord. ☒ blc
>
> Do tell us more. I'm not particularly gifted in interpreting finances, but "full time position" as president of this organization doesn't exactly seem like something a minister could do "on the side". Is he then no longer in denominational employ as a minister?

Page 6, 3ABN World, August 2005

"Summary of Expansion Goals" (note: 25 pages take time to download in PDF format).

http://www.3abn.org/pdf/3ABN-World-2005-08.pdf

"Pastor Wintley Phipps, the visionary president of the U.S. Dream Academy, leads the team who are developing the new 3ABN World of Praise Network. Plans call for studios in Florida that will provide 24-hour programming for urban audiences."

Posted by: Panama_Pete Jul 13 2006, 10:32 AM

> QUOTE(watchbird @ Jul 13 2006, 10:08 AM)
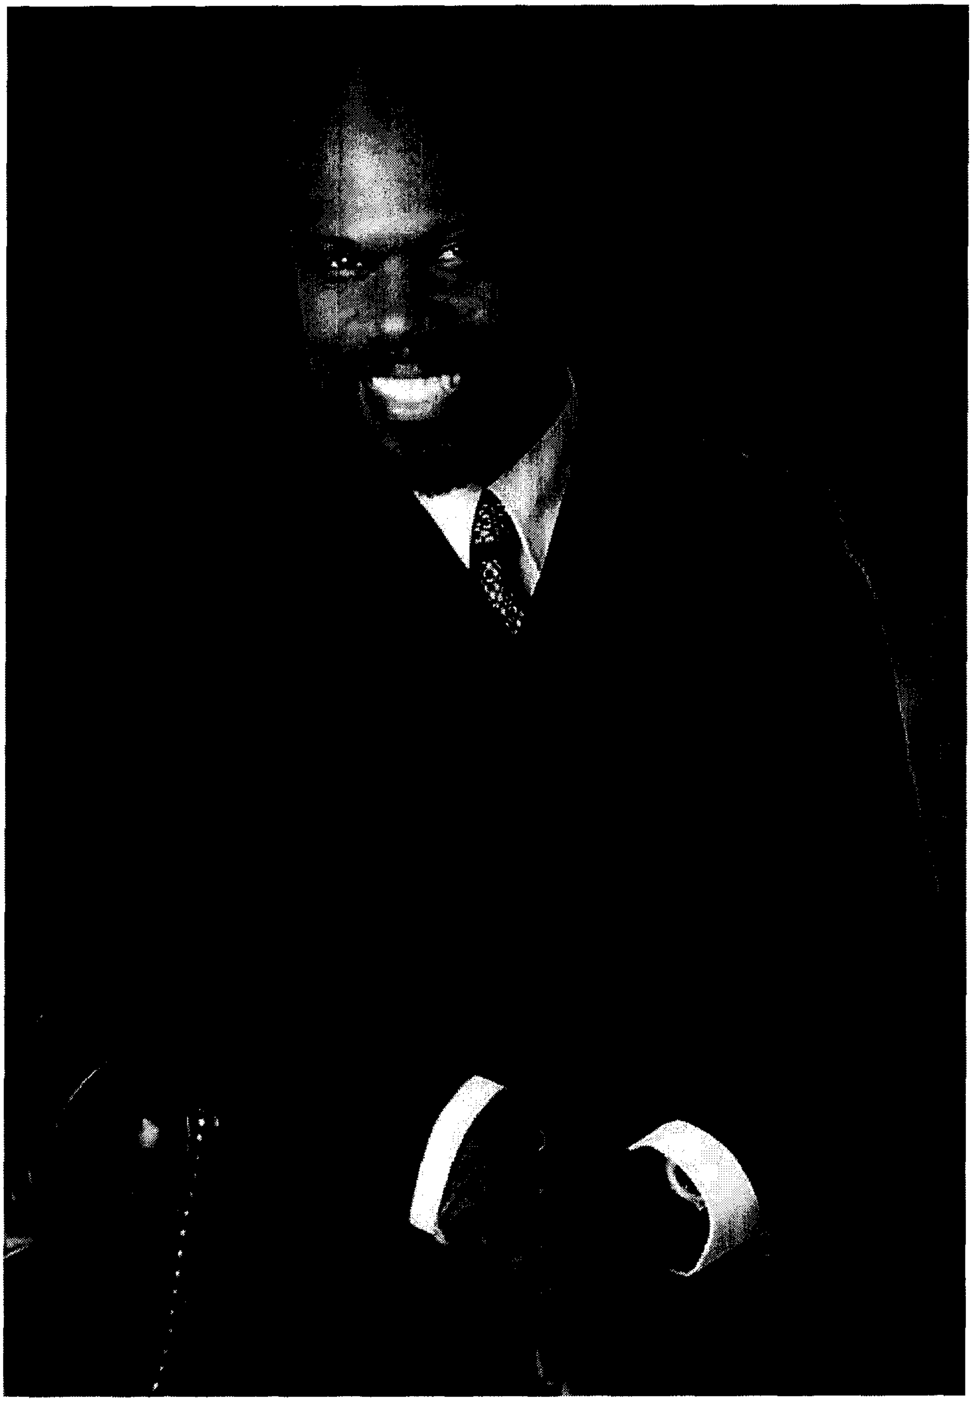
>
> Well--there goes my illusions that Wintley Phipps was an ordinary SDA minister who was using his extra-ordinary gift of song for the Lord. ☒ blc
>
> Do tell us more. I'm not particularly gifted in interpreting finances, but "full time position" as president of this organization doesn't exactly seem like something a minister could do "on the side". Is he then no longer in denominational employ as a minister?



http://www.pcsda.org/pc_campmeeting/CampMeetingMusic.asp

Quote:
"He currently serves as the senior pastor of the Palm Bay Seventh-day Adventist Church in Florida."

I suspect, therefore, he's also earning a full-time salary as an Adventist pastor.

Posted by: Clay Jul 13 2006, 11:29 AM

everyone is trying to "get paid" as we say.... I'm not hatin per se.... I hope he scrutinizes the alliances he makes or has to make....

Posted by: seraph|m Jul 13 2006, 11:44 AM

> QUOTE(Clay @ Jul 13 2006, 01:29 PM)
>
> everyone is trying to "get paid" as we say.... I'm not hatin per se.... I hope he scrutinizes the alliances he makes or has to make....

"Has to" or chooses to?

Posted by: calvin Jul 13 2006, 11:59 AM

> QUOTE(Nuggie @ Jul 12 2006, 06:54 PM)
>
> Calvin,
>
> I hear what you're saying and I agree that the Lord can use anyone or anything to finish His work...but I'm wondering if Danny's reputation isn't so damaged that he just can't be effective in ministry anymore (at least not at 3ABN), even on the off chance that he is innocent of all these accusations. Where there's smoke, there's usually fire, so it makes me believe that something rotten went down at 3ABN. I remember when a pastor who I really thought highly of was accused of having an affair with a church member. I talked with my Dad about it quite a bit because I was really devastated by the whole situation and he said that one of the things pastors, elders, and anybody in a leadership or visible position in church ministry has to do is always avoid the appearance of evil. Perception is reality, and if people perceive (rightly or wrongly) that 3ABN is a den of iniquity then it becomes their reality. In this case perception and reality are so blurred I doubt that 3ABN could ever emerge from this scandal unscathed .

I don't think Danny's reputation has been tarnished much. The divorce and re-marriage is old news. The COB letter explained it away. People have brought the explanation and moved on. All the other stuff written about him is well, hearsay that most people don't know about or care. I would say most BSDAers don't care much about this story. We have a few hundred people following these threads at best...and although the most vocal of those posting believe Danny must go, I don't believe they represent the opinion of the Adventist church at-large.

The 10 Commandment Day production received rave reviews. He is given much gratitude for giving away millions of the 10 Commandment books. People still flocked to his campmeeting. I send my mother some money so she could attend. The Mark Finley, Doug Batcheror, Walter Perison's of the Adventist world have not abandoned him with their ministries. In the scheme of things, what a few vocal folks say on BSDA does not carry much influence.

> QUOTE(statrei @ Jul 12 2006, 07:44 PM)
>
> The question is whether his ministry represents what the Creator represents.
>
> By that reasoning you should be advocating drunkenness.

Darius A. Lecointe, J.D., Ph.D, you are a very well educated and smart man. You knew exactly was I meant in the context of how the statement was made and so did everyone else.

Posted by: statrei Jul 13 2006, 12:23 PM

> QUOTE(calvin @ Jul 13 2006, 12:59 PM)
>
> Darius A. Lecointe, J.D., Ph.D, you are a very well educated and smart man. You knew exactly was I meant in the context of how the statement was made and so did everyone else.

And by virtue of these very alphabetical fragments that seem to get your goat I am qualified to expose the flaw in your reasoning. You can learn or you can remain where you are. The choice is yours.

Posted by: calvin Jul 13 2006, 04:07 PM

> QUOTE(statrei @ Jul 13 2006, 12:23 PM)
>
> And by virtue of these very alphabetical fragments that seem to get your goat I am qualified to expose the flaw in your reasoning. You can learn or you can remain where you are. The choice is yours.

NEGRO PLEASE!!

Pit. You are so full of yourself that you don't recognize when someone is mocking you, not envious of you.

Posted by: statrei Jul 13 2006, 04:17 PM

> QUOTE(calvin @ Jul 13 2006, 06:07 PM)
>
> NEGRO PLEASE!!
>
> Pit. You are so full of yourself that you don't recognize when someone is mocking you, not envious of you.

It is physically impossible for any of us to be filled with anything else than ourselves. That you would admit to such puerile behavior is astounding.

Posted by: calvin Jul 13 2006, 04:35 PM

> QUOTE(statrei @ Jul 13 2006, 05:17 PM)
>
> It is physically impossible for any of us to be filled with anything else than ourselves. That you would admit to such puerile behavior is astounding.

You're done here.

Posted by: watchbird Jul 14 2006, 07:46 AM

h Hey ... Calvin removed the padlock. sig

OK. Now we can go back to my questions about Wintley Phipps that Panama Pete merely began to answer. And I've got a ton of them. I'm trying to get things straightened out in my mind.

What we know is that Wintley received a million dollars from Danny Shelton for his charitable non-profit educational organization. (Well, so what, he received a million dollars from Oprah Winfrey. That doesn't imply that he agrees with everything that Oprah says or does.) But we also know that he is on 3ABN's board. That makes him somewhat responsible for the decisions that are made by that board, and if the COB's latest letters are to be believed, the board has sanctioned everything from the firing of Linda to Danny's most recent marriage as well as the way monies are allocated and used.

We've heard that Wintley wanted to build a TV network of his own. I've heard some here who have dreams of a Black TV network. Do these mesh at all? How is Wintley regarded in this community? Is the TV network that he envisions (or is working on) going to be truly his own? Or will it be no more than one more 3ABN affiliate, with Danny Shelton the mind/hand behind the curtain pulling the strings? And finally, on Pete's information below. What does it all mean? Surely no-one can execute the responsibilities of being senior pastor while having another "full-time" job. Is the pastoral position only for the purpose of allowing him to keep his ordinations credentials current? But if so, then why does he not have a lesser title, so as to clearly indicate that he had few if any responsibilities at the church which were time conflicting with another paid full time position elsewhere?

Surely someone here must have information on some or many of these questions.

> QUOTE(Panama_Pete @ Jul 13 2006, 10:32 AM)
>
> http://www.pcsda.org/pc_campmeeting/CampMeetingMusic.asp
>
> Quote:
> "He currently serves as the senior pastor of the Palm Bay Seventh-day Adventist Church in Florida."
>
> I suspect, therefore, he's also earning a full-time salary as an Adventist pastor.

Posted by: LadyTenor Jul 14 2006, 03:24 PM

> QUOTE(Johann @ Jul 13 2006, 02:13 AM)
>
> We trust that he will not be unduely inluenced by the million dollars Danny Shelton gave him.

I don't know the man personally, but I am currently attending the church he pastors with the intent of initiation a membership transfer...he does not strike me as being influenced by $$$ but I do know he has big plans for the church...perhaps he is being influenced by DS's $$$? Who knows?

> QUOTE(Panama_Pete @ Jul 13 2006, 11:21 AM)
>
> Page 6, 3ABN World, August 2005
>
> "Summary of Expansion Goals" (note: 25 pages take time to download in PDF format).
>
> http://www.3abn.org/pdf/3ABN-World-2005-08.pdf
>
> "Pastor Wintley Phipps, the visionary president of the U.S. Dream Academy, leads the team who are developing the new 3ABN World of Praise Network. Plans call for studios in Florida that will provide 24-hour programming for urban audiences."

A close friend of mine has been hired by Pastor Phipps in this effort...

> QUOTE(Panama_Pete @ Jul 13 2006, 11:32 AM)

> http://www.pcsda.org/pc_campmeeting/CampMeetingMusic.asp
>
> Quote:
> "He currently serves as the senior pastor of the Palm Bay Seventh-day Adventist Church in Florida."
>
> I suspect, therefore, he's also earning a full-time salary as an Adventist pastor.

I attend the Palm Bay SDA Church, as I mentioned earlier...and yes, he is the pastor of that church...and yes, I would probably conclude that he is on the payroll of the Southeastern Conference of SDAs...the conference under which the Palm Bay church falls...

> QUOTE(calvin @ Jul 13 2006, 12:59 PM)
>
> I don't think Danny's reputation has been tarnished much. The divorce and re-marriage is old news. The COB letter explained it away. People have brought the explanation and moved on. All the other stuff written about him is well, hearsay that most people don't know about or care. I would say most BSDAers don't care much about this story. We have a few hundred people following these threads at best...and although the most vocal of those posting believe Danny must go, I don't believe they represent the opinion of the Adventist church at-large.
>
> The 10 Commandment Day production received rave reviews. He is given much gratitude for giving away millions of the 10 Commandment books. People still flocked to his campmeeting. I send my mother some money so she could attend. The Mark Finley, Doug Batcheror, Walter Perison's of the Adventist world have not abandoned him with their ministries. In the scheme of things, what a few vocal folks say on BSDA does not carry much influence.

Calvin has a point here...

Posted by: watchbird Jul 14 2006, 03:32 PM

> QUOTE(LadyTenor @ Jul 14 2006, 03:24 PM)
>
> I don't know the man personally, but I am currently attending the church he pastors with the intent of initiation a membership transfer...he does not strike me as being influenced by $$$ but I do know he has big plans for the church...perhaps he is being influenced by DS's $$$? Who knows?
> A close friend of mine has been hired by Pastor Phipps in this effort...
>
> I attend the Palm Bay SDA Church, as I mentioned earlier...and yes, he is the pastor of that church...and yes, I would probably conclude that he is on the payroll of the Southeastern Conference of SDAs...the conference under which the Palm Bay church falls...
> Calvin has a point here...

Well, obviously it is a 3ABN affiliate then--which means it is under Danny's control. So I surely hope that you could make sure that Phipps and your friend read the BSDApostings on 3ABN.

Posted by: LadyTenor Jul 14 2006, 03:48 PM

> QUOTE(watchbird @ Jul 14 2006, 08:46 AM)
>
> Is the pastoral position only for the purpose of allowing him to keep his ordinations credentials current? But if so, then why does he not have a lesser title, so as to clearly indicate that he had few if any responsibilities at the church which were time conflicting with another paid full time position elsewhere?

Why is Pastor Phipps' position with any ministry an issue? Many SDA pastors do this...Doug Batchelor is one example...he has a church and he has his own Amazing Facts ministry....is that any difference between Wintley Phipps and the U.S. Dream Academy?

Moreover, there are a number of lesser known SDA pastors who pastor churches and have their own ministries also. Paul Graham had a church at one time and also ran Full Circle Ministries. I don't know if he presently has a church but last I heard Full Circle was going strong.

Now, why the question about whether Pastor Phipps' pastoral position is only for the "purpose of allowing him to keep is ordinations credentials current"? He has been pastoring churches for years! He was in the DC/MD area when I was living there (I was not a member of any of his churches), and a few years ago relocated to Florida and is now currently at Palm Bay...a not so well known church until he became its pastor...I don't know what the reasoning is behind this question. Can you shed some light, watchbird, since you asked it?

> QUOTE(watchbird @ Jul 14 2006, 04:32 PM) ☐
>
> Well, obviously it is a 3ABN affiliate then--which means it is under Danny's control. So I surely hope that you could make sure that Phipps and your friend read the BSDApostings on 3ABN.

I am not personally acquainted with Pastor Phipps so I will not all of a sudden put this information in his hands...I am sure I would come off as a lunatic...especially since Phipps just finished preaching during the 10 Commandments Broadcast (which aired from the Palm Bay Church).

I suspect that even if I put the information in his hand it would make no difference, but that is pure speculation on my part...

Posted by: watchbird Jul 14 2006, 04:34 PM

> QUOTE(LadyTenor @ Jul 14 2006, 03:48 PM) ☐
>
> Why is Pastor Phipps' position with any ministry an issue? Many SDA pastors do this...Doug Batchelor is one example...he has a church and he has his own Amazing Facts ministry....is that any difference between Wintley Phipps and the U.S. Dream Academy?

I don't know. That is why I asked the question. Please don't read any selective hostility into my question. I would hope that members of Doug Batchelor's church would also try and get him to read our information and discussions here. And likewise with other SDA pastors and evangelists who are supporting Danny by their presence on 3ABN as well as by their overt and explicit recommendation of 3ABN.

One difference that I am especially interested in is the way their salaries are handled. I have not kept up with the financial accounting for such ministries as Amazing Facts. However, in my previous experience two things stand out. First is the extremely low salaries and operating budgets that are taken out by administrators of independent mnistries. Those that I have known personally in the past have taken a mere stipend from the ministry. Second, for ministers who were paid full salary by the church and who also operated some kind of ministry on the side, those that I had any knowledge of lived entirely off of their conference salary and had well defined understandings with the conference on how much of their time was to be spent directly on their "conference job" and how much on their side-line "ministry". As I say, I have not kept up with things of this nature in many years, so I really don't know how things are handled now.

> QUOTE
>
> Moreover, there are a number of lesser known SDA pastors who pastor churches and have their own ministries also. Paul Graham had a church at one time and also ran Full Circle Ministries. I don't know if he presently has a church but last I heard Full Circle was going strong.

Yes, this is what I referred to above. As I said, I don't have detailed information on any of them, but so far as I know, the old "policies" against conference employees holding second jobs are still in place. Yet when the "second jobs" are ministry oriented, the conference sometimes willingly "picks up the tab" in the sense of paying the salary and allowing the person the time for the ministry.

> QUOTE
>
> Now, why the question about whether Pastor Phipps' pastoral position is only for the "purpose of allowing him to keep is ordinations credentials current"? He has been pastoring churches for years! He was in the DC/MD area when I was living there (I was not a member of any of his churches), and a few years ago relocated to Florida and is now currently at Palm Bay...a not so well known church until he became its pastor...I don't know what the reasoning is behind this question. Can you shed some light, watchbird, since you asked it?

Yes, I think I can. And it relates in a way to what I said above, but to a different way of handling what could be seen as a conflict of interest between a full time minister and a full time ministry employee.

The basic policy that is involved has to do with the renewal of ministerial credentials--which I think must be done every 5 years, though the time interval is not important to our discussion here. The real point here is that in order to renew their credentials, the person must be actively connected to a church in the position of a pastor--or whatever job he holds that entitles him to ministerial credentials, which could be teacher or administrator, etc.

Now another way of handling the person with a full time ministry other than the conference position is for the conference to contract with him for a discreet amount of his time, give him ministerial credentials for this, but allow him to support himself by his personal, independent ministry activities. I know of some musician/seminarists who have this kind of contractual arrangement with their local conference. They are listed on the Conference rolls as the minister, they are assigned a particular church as their responsibility , they are even, if they otherwise qualify, issued ministerial credentials and have access to all ministerial materials, conventions, etc. But the Conference does not have them on their payrolls.

So my question was not a challenging one, but one asking for information, whether or not Phipps might have this kind of arrangement. If he does, it makes the 130,000 per year salary as president of his education ministry much more palatable than as if he is being paid for full time work by both Conference and his ministry--at least in my opinion.

> QUOTE
>
> I am not personally acquainted with Pastor Phipps so I will not all of a sudden put this information in his hands...I am sure I would come off as a lunatic...especially since Phipps just finished preaching during the 10 Commandments Broadcast (which aired from the Palm Bay Church).
>
> I suspect that even if I put the information in his hand it would make no difference, but that is pure speculation on my part.

I would hope that it would. As Bear has noted, there is really almost no opportunity for board members or others who are currently in Danny's favor to learn anything other than what Danny or the Chairman of the Board tell them. But I understand your reticence. Just keep it in mind and watch for the leading of the Lord in the matter.

Posted by: sonshineonme Jul 15 2006, 09:13 AM

Watching 3ABN right now, while Danny and the troops (and I mean all of them, John, Mollie and Hal is doing the sermon today in PA ralley) and Danny has Brandy close at his side....makes me think all kinds of things, like WHY he has her right there...could he be feeling a bit insecure at the moment? It'a incredible to hear the words from his mouth as he self-condems himself - he should listen to his own words. After all, he does like to hear himself talk (and likes getting the laughs, probably to make himself feel better too).

I decided to tune in (I rarely watch him now) to check his behavior...I hope all those who know him well are observing. It's interesting to say the least.

Posted by: beartrap Jul 15 2006, 12:36 PM

QUOTE(sonshineonme @ Jul 15 2006, 10:13 AM)

> Watching 3ABN right now, while Danny and the troops (and I mean all of them, John, Mollie and Hal is doing the sermon today in PA ralley) and Danny has Brandy close at his side....makes me think all kinds of things, like WHY he has her right there...could he be feeling a bit insecure at the moment? It'a incredible to hear the words from his mouth as he self-condems himself - he should listen to his own words. After all, he does like to hear himself talk (and likes getting the laughs, probably to make himself feel better too).
>
> I decided to tune in (I rarely watch him now) to check his behavior...I hope all those who know him well are observing. It's interesting to say the least.

Sorry. Some of us who know him well know better than to watch, because we know that we will soon be regurgitating our breakfasts. Coffee is really bad coming back up. Perhaps we could distribute videos of the program as the healthy replacement for ipecac (spelling?... a drug that causes one to puke). We could put it on the ABC shelves and cause a mass movement of reversal in the Adventist church. The cure to the problems caused by swallowing all the poisonous doodoo he has fed the church for so long.

Posted by: Hersheys99 Jul 15 2006, 01:51 PM

QUOTE

> Sorry. Some of us who know him well know better than to watch, because we that we will soon be regurgitating our breakfasts. Coffee is really bad coming back up. Perhaps we could distribute videos of the program as the healthy replacement for ipecac (spelling?... a drug that causes one to puke). We could put it on the ABC shelves and cause a mass movement of reversal in the Adventist church. The cure to the problems caused by swallowing all the poisonous doodoo he has fed the church for so long.

PRICELESS!!

I personally can't hardly stand to watch him & I definitely had to turn it off when Kenny & Chris were on too. After reading some of the things from the letters being shared here I have a feeling there are going to be even less of them I care to see.

Posted by: PaperTigers Jul 15 2006, 06:36 PM

> QUOTE(Hersheys99 @ Jul 15 2006, 02:51 PM)
>
> PRICELESS!!
>
> I personally can't hardly stand to watch him & I definitely had to turn it off when Kenny & Chris were on too. After reading some of the things from the letters being shared here I have a feeling there are going to be even less of them I care to see.

It's about time !!!
I can't even stand to here his voice anymore ... it's sad, it really is.

Posted by: Uncle Sam Jul 15 2006, 07:28 PM

> QUOTE(sonshineonme @ Jul 15 2006, 08:13 AM)
>
> Watching 3ABN right now, while Danny and the troops (and I mean all of them, John, Mollie and Hal is doing the sermon today in PA ralley) and Danny has Brandy close at his side....makes me think all kinds of things, like WHY he has her right there...could he be feeling a bit insecure at the moment? It'a incredible to hear the words from his mouth as he self-condems himself - he should listen to his own words. After all, he does like to hear himself talk (and likes getting the laughs, probably to make himself feel better too).
>
> I decided to tune in (I rarely watch him now) to check his behavior...I hope all those who know him well are observing. It's interesting to say the least.

Did Danny say anything about "the letter" today? Or make a reference to it?

Posted by: sonshineonme Jul 15 2006, 07:33 PM

> QUOTE(Uncle Sam @ Jul 15 2006, 06:28 PM)
>
> Did Danny say anything about "the letter" today? Or make a reference to it?

NOPE! At least not in the afternoon program that we watched (we are on the west coast, so when they started their afteroon program in PA, it was morning here. I just happened to tune it in on the website - we do not have the satelite/reveicer set up). But you can bet he's thinking about it - he did have a BUSY week this week....I am sure this is why Brandy was glued to his left side, silent and smiling.

Posted by: LadyTenor Jul 15 2006, 10:30 PM

> QUOTE(watchbird @ Jul 14 2006, 06:34 PM)
>
> Please don't read any selective hostility into my question.

There is no hostility, selective or otherwise. This is a discussion board, isn't it?

> QUOTE(watchbird @ Jul 14 2006, 06:34 PM)
>
> One difference that I am especially interested in is the way their salaries are handled. I have not kept up with the financial accounting for such ministries as Amazing Facts. However, in my previous experience two things stand out. First is the extremely low salaries and operating budgets that are taken out by administrators of independent mnistries. Those that I have known personally in the past have taken a mere stipend from the ministry. Second, for ministers who were paid full salary by the church and who also operated some kind of ministry on the side, those that I had any knowledge of lived entirely off of their conference salary and had well defined understandings with the conference on how much of their time was to be spent directly on their "conference job" and how much on their side-line "ministry". As I say, I have not kept up with things of this nature in many years, so I really don't know how things are handled now.

I know less than you about these things, but there are some people I could ask, if you are interested...

> QUOTE(watchbird @ Jul 14 2006, 06:34 PM)
>
> As I said, I don't have detailed information on any of them, but so far as I know, the old "policies" against conference employees holding second jobs are still in place. Yet when the "second jobs" are ministry oriented, the conference sometimes willingly "picks up the tab" in the sense of paying the salary and allowing the person the time for the ministry.

> QUOTE(watchbird @ Jul 14 2006, 06:34 PM)
>
> And it relates in a way to what I said above, but to a different way of handling what could be seen as a conflict of interest between a full time minister and a full time ministry employee.
>
> The basic policy that is involved has to do with the renewal of ministerial credentials--which I think must be done every 5 years, though the time interval is not important to our discussion here. The real point here is that in order to renew their credentials, the person must be actively connected to a church in the position of a pastor--or whatever job he holds that entitles him to ministerial > credentials, which could be teacher or administrator, etc.

>
> Now another way of handling the person with a full time ministry other than the conference position is for the conference to contract with him for a discreet amount of his time, give him ministerial credentials for this, but allow him to support himself by his personal, independent ministry activities. I know of some musician/seminarists who have this kind of contractual arrangement with their local conference. They are listed on the Conference rolls as the minister, they are assigned a particular church as their responsibility , they are even, if they otherwise qualify, issued ministerial credentials and have access to all ministerial materials, conventions, etc. But the Conference does not have them on their payrolls.

I know nothing about renewal of ministerial credentials, but I will state, in my opinion, that I don't believe Pastor Phipps is pastoring my church just to keep his credentials...he is a very involved minister, from what others at the church tell me, so I don't think he is there just for the sake of his credentials...

> QUOTE(watchbird @ Jul 14 2006, 06:34 PM)
>
> So my question was not a challenging one, but one asking for information, whether or not Phipps might have this kind of arrangement. If he does, it makes the 130,000 per year salary as president of his education ministry much more palatable than as if he is being paid for full time work by both Conference and his ministry--at least in my opinion.

In my opinion, one has nothing to do with the other...so what if a minister is pulling good money? So long as s/he is doing his/her job and doing it properly without compromise, I don't see the problem...

...I will have to respectfully disagree with you that your question was not a challenging one. I think it was...but that is entirely appropriate here, as this is a discussion community known for getting deep into issues and not just scratching the surface...so your question was indeed challenging and equally appropriate.

> QUOTE(watchbird @ Jul 14 2006, 06:34 PM)
>
> As Bear has noted, there is really almost no opportunity for board members or others who are currently in Danny's favor to learn anything other than what Danny or the Chairman of the Board tell them. But I understand your reticence. Just keep it in mind and watch for the leading of the Lord in the matter.

I'd never put that kind of information in anyone's hand...what I am capable of, OTOH, is telling someone to visit BlackSDA.com and read for themselves...

> QUOTE(sonshineonme @ Jul 15 2006, 11:13 AM)
>
> Watching 3ABN right now, while Danny and the troops (and I mean all of them, John, Mollie and Hal is doing the sermon today in PA ralley) and Danny has Brandy close at his side....makes me think all kinds of things, like WHY he has her right there...could he be feeling a bit insecure at the moment? It'a incredible to hear the words from his mouth as he self-condems himself - he should listen to his own words. After all, he does like to hear himself talk (and likes getting the laughs, probably to make himself feel better too).
>
> I decided to tune in (I rarely watch him now) to check his behavior...I hope all those who know him > well are observing. It's interesting to say the least.

> QUOTE(beartrap @ Jul 15 2006, 02:36 PM)
>
> Sorry. Some of us who know him well know better than to watch, because we know that we will soon be regurgitating our breakfasts. Coffee is really bad coming back up. Perhaps we could distribute videos of the program as the healthy replacement for ipecac (spelling?... a drug that causes one to puke). We could put it on the ABC shelves and cause a mass movement of reversal in the Adventist church. The cure to the problems caused by swallowing all the poisonous doodoo he has fed the church for so long.

In light of the "Call to Action" thread that Calvin started, perhaps another action would be to stop paying for 3ABN service and watching it. If enough folks did that, would it hit Danny's pocketbook??

And even if it didn't, you have the personal satisfaction of knowing you are not supporting a man who is not on the up and up...

Posted by: sonshineonme Jul 15 2006, 10:47 PM

> QUOTE(LadyTenor @ Jul 15 2006, 09:30 PM)
>
> There is no hostility, selective or otherwise. This is a discussion board, isn't it?
> I know less than you about these things, but there are some people I could ask, if you are interested...
> I know nothing about renewal of ministerial credentials, but I will state, in my opinion, that I don't believe Pastor Phipps is pastoring my church just to keep his credentials...he is a very involved minister, from what others at the church tell me, so I don't think he is there just for the sake of his credentials...
> In my opinion, one has nothing to do with the other...so what if a minister is pulling good money? So long as s/he is doing his/her job and doing it properly without compromise, I don't see the problem...
>
> ...I will have to respectfully disagree with you that your question was not a challenging one. I think it was...but that is entirely appropriate here, as this is a discussion community known for getting deep into issues and not just scratching the surface...so your question was indeed challenging and equally appropriate.
> I'd never put that kind of information in anyone's hand...what I am capable of, OTOH, is telling someone to visit BlackSDA.com and read for themselves...
> In light of the "Call to Action" thread that Calvin started, perhaps another action would be to stop paying for 3ABN service and watching it. If enough folks did that, would it hit Danny's pocketbook??
>
> And even if it didn't, you have the personal satisfaction of knowing you are not supporting a man who is not on the up and up...

I officially announce, I will not watch him again. I could hardly stand it today for the short time I had it on. Between Danny and his trophy wife, and then Hal's preaching, it was all I could do to leave it on while I got ready for church.

Posted by: LadyTenor Jul 15 2006, 10:54 PM

> QUOTE(watchbird @ Jul 14 2006, 05:32 PM)
>
> Well, obviously it is a 3ABN affiliate then--which means it is under Danny's control. So I surely hope that you could make sure that Phipps and your friend read the BSDApostings on 3ABN.

> QUOTE(LadyTenor @ Jul 14 2006, 05:48 PM)
>
> I am not personally acquainted with Pastor Phipps so I will not all of a sudden put this information in his hands...I am sure I would come off as a lunatic...especially since Phipps just finished preaching during the 10 Commandments Broadcast (which aired from the Palm Bay Church).
>
> I suspect that even if I put the information in his hand it would make no difference, but that is pure speculation on my part...

I wanted to clarify and expound upon this comment I made. I am not suggesting that Danny is paying off Pastor Phipps, or that he is even available for payoff. But Pastor Phipps, or any reasonable person in his position, is probably weighing breaking ties with 3ABN against assistance furthering a ministry. I'm not judging him or anyone in his position, but obviously each person will not make the same decision if in this situation. Now, while I don't know what Pastor Phipps knows, I will hesitate to belive he knows nothing about this situation, given the fact he is on 3ABN's board of directors...but, like many have said here, perhaps most of the board knows only one side of the story--Danny's...

Posted by: beartrap Jul 15 2006, 11:30 PM

> QUOTE(LadyTenor @ Jul 15 2006, 11:54 PM)
>
> I wanted to clarify and expound upon this comment I made. I am not suggesting that Danny is paying off Pastor Phipps, or that he is even available for payoff. But Pastor Phipps, or any reasonable person in his position, is probably weighing breaking ties with 3ABN against assistance furthering a ministry. I'm not judging him or anyone in his position, but obviously each person will not make the same decision if in this situation. Now, while I don't know what Pastor Phipps knows, I will hesitate to belive he knows nothing about this situation, given the fact he is on 3ABN's board of directors...but, like many have said here, perhaps most of the board knows only one side of the story--Danny's...

There have been board members like Owen Troy, his daughter Carmelita Troy, and Wintley Phipps who seem to be good, honourable people. I would not state that Phipps is a scoundrel, but I will say that he is a part of the problem, even if unkowing. The 3ABN board continues to operate in a very suspect manner, and consistently makes those unanynous votes on everything that Danny proposes.

Posted by: LadyTenor Jul 16 2006, 12:05 AM

> QUOTE(beartrap @ Jul 16 2006, 01:30 AM)
>
> There have been board members like Owen Troy, his daughter Carmelita Troy, and Wintley Phipps who seem to be good, honourable people. I would not state that Phipps is a scoundrel, but I will say that he is a part of the problem, even if unkowing. The 3ABN board continues to operate in a very suspect manner, and consistently makes those unanynous votes on everything that Danny proposes.

This was a question in my head that I had no answer to..these Board decisions...I wondered if any board members ever dissented to anything that Danny proposed...but according to your post above this is a rarity....

Posted by: beartrap Jul 16 2006, 12:15 AM

> QUOTE(LadyTenor @ Jul 16 2006, 01:05 AM)
>
> This was a question in my head that I had no answer to..these Board decisions...I wondered if any board members ever dissented to anything that Danny proposed...but according to your post above this is a rarity....

Not having ever been a board member at 3ABN, I must rely on what Danny has often told me and others. He says that his board always votes unanymously for him. He uses the word "always."

Posted by: LadyTenor Jul 16 2006, 12:32 AM

> QUOTE(beartrap @ Jul 16 2006, 02:15 AM)
>
> Not having ever been a board member at 3ABN, I must rely on what Danny has often told me and others. He says that his board always votes unanymously for him. He uses the word "always."

Danny is a piece of work, isn't he?

Posted by: Clay Jul 16 2006, 12:45 AM

> QUOTE(LadyTenor @ Jul 16 2006, 12:32 AM)
>
> Danny is a piece of work, isn't he?

not only that he is courting unsuspecting black folk to add to his programming or staff.... so while it may appear that he is embracing diversity, I suspect that many have not been aware of what he has been up to in the way of his personal life.....

Posted by: alramwill Jul 16 2006, 12:50 AM

> QUOTE(LadyTenor @ Jul 16 2006, 12:32 AM)
>
> Danny is a piece of work, isn't he?

Some would say that he is a piece of something else...

Posted by: LadyTenor Jul 16 2006, 01:29 AM

> QUOTE(alramwill @ Jul 16 2006, 02:50 AM)
>
> Some would say that he is a piece of something else...

And I would be one of those people, but I didn't want to violate BSDA policies by replacing the word "work" with what I really wanted to say...

Posted by: beartrap Jul 16 2006, 01:32 AM

> QUOTE(alramwill @ Jul 16 2006, 01:50 AM)
>
> Some would say that he is a piece of something else...

rofl rofl Tears I tell you... tears trickling down my legs.

Posted by: Nuggie Jul 16 2006, 08:01 AM

> QUOTE(alramwill @ Jul 16 2006, 12:50 AM) ☐
>
> Some would say that he is a piece of something else...

rofl rofl Now I think this smiley is appropriate right here... bot !

Posted by: PrincessDrRe Jul 16 2006, 10:58 AM

> QUOTE(LadyTenor @ Jul 16 2006, 02:32 AM) ☐
>
> Danny is a piece of work, isn't he?

> QUOTE(alramwill @ Jul 16 2006, 02:50 AM) ☐
>
> Some would say that he is a piece of something else...

I guess I'll jes go 'head and take mines too.... bot cuz I wuz thinkin the exact same thing....

Posted by: västergötland Jul 18 2006, 08:10 AM

Replying to the original thread question, I have almost from the first time I saw a 3abn show been of the oppinion that they make TV that I do not wish to see. And that oppinion is entierly independent of anything that is done off camera by anyone at 3abn. Good thing HopeTV makes a better job.

/Thomas

Posted by: princessdi Jul 18 2006, 09:39 AM

I like how you phrased that comment Thomas! BTW Welcome!!!

> QUOTE(västergötland @ Jul 18 2006, 06:10 AM) ☐
>
> Replying to the original thread question, I have almost from the first time I saw a 3abn show been of the oppinion that they make TV that I do not wish to see. And that oppinion is entierly independent of anything that is done off camera by anyone at 3abn. Good thing HopeTV makes a better job.
>
> /Thomas

Posted by: simplysaved Nov 27 2006, 09:53 PM

How many other people here at BSDA share this perspective?

> QUOTE(beartrap @ Jul 16 2006, 12:30 AM)
>
> There have been board members like Owen Troy, his daughter Carmelita Troy, and Wintley Phipps who seem to be good, honourable people. I would not state that Phipps is a scoundrel, but I will say that he is a part of the problem, even if unkowing. The 3ABN board continues to operate in a very suspect manner, and consistently makes those unanynous votes on everything that Danny proposes.

Posted by: roxe Dec 31 2006, 10:34 PM

> QUOTE(västergötland @ Jul 18 2006, 07:10 AM)
>
> Replying to the original thread question, I have almost from the first time I saw a 3abn show been of the oppinion that they make TV that I do not wish to see. <snip>

i would have to agree... i could never put my finger on anything - except it seems they glorifying themselves - but always this little niggling uncertainty and uneasiness that was almost too faint to notice but still there.

i no longer wonder why.

Posted by: inga Jan 1 2007, 02:14 AM

> QUOTE(roxe @ Dec 31 2006, 11:34 PM)
>
> i would have to agree... i could never put my finger on anything - except it seems they glorifying themselves - but always this little niggling uncertainty and uneasiness that was almost too faint to notice but still there.
>
> i no longer wonder why.

I know of quite a number of people with the same "niggling uncertainty and uneasiness," myself included.

I questioned my young daughter-in-law who said she had always had a "bad feeling" about Danny. (this was in response of seeing a video recording of one of Dan's interviews.) I asked her what she meant -- what kind of feeling. (She knew nothing of what has been discusse don BlackSDA or anywhere else, for that matter, re the Shelton history.) She replied that he seemed "fake" to her and that he gave off bad "sexual" vibes.

I suggested that she should always trust her instincts regarding men and not let anyone override her gut reaction, considering how accurate she was on this one.

Posted by: howdy Jan 1 2007, 12:40 PM

> QUOTE(västergötland @ Jul 18 2006, 09:10 AM) ☐
>
> Replying to the original thread question, I have almost from the first time I saw a 3abn show been of the oppinion that they make TV that I do not wish to see. And that oppinion is entierly independent of anything that is done off camera by anyone at 3abn. Good thing HopeTV makes a better job.
>
> /Thomas

Exactly!!!!!!

howdy

Posted by: Johann Jan 1 2007, 03:56 PM

> QUOTE(västergötland @ Jul 18 2006, 04:10 PM) ☐
>
> Replying to the original thread question, I have almost from the first time I saw a 3abn show been of the oppinion that they make TV that I do not wish to see. And that oppinion is entierly independent of anything that is done off camera by anyone at 3abn. Good thing HopeTV makes a better job.
>
> /Thomas

A few days ago I met people who were members of a 3ABN fan club. At first they were certain Danny was a great martyr when Linda left. They had been told by 3ABN that Linda had left and was married to someone else, something they later discovered was not true.

Now I was told that 3ABN has gradually gone downhill from the time Linda left 3ABN. They specially missed her spritual devotions which no one else has been able to make up for. Seems like 3ABN is so busy covering up that their spirituality has disappeared, if you are to believe the present opinion of certain former fans.

130

Printable Version of Topic

Click here to view this topic in its original format

BlackSDA _ 3ABN _ Danny Steps Down?

Posted by: icedragon Aug 14 2006, 02:35 PM

I have heard that danny is stepping down for 3 months. Is it my imagnation or is the investigation working???

Posted by: Clay Aug 14 2006, 02:39 PM

> QUOTE(icedragon @ Aug 14 2006, 02:35 PM) ☐
>
> I have heard that danny is stepping down for 3 months. Is it my imagnation or is the investigation working???

it may be your imagination, or he may be going to regroup and try to reinvent himself as some t.v. personalities do after a scandal.... OR... it could just be a vacation.... given the stuff that happened over the weekend I am inclined to believe it may be both....

Posted by: husbandoftheyear Aug 14 2006, 09:29 PM

I'm not sure if he's down for the count just yet. Think back in history as to the repentant ministers or godly men, if you prefer, having confessed to sexual or other sins and risen even higher than before. I believe we'll all be shocked at the cards he'll flip out on the table.

Posted by: September Aug 15 2006, 09:40 AM

I found this on the 3ABN website this morning...doesn't look like Danny is stepping down or taking a break--whatever he calls it.

Special Program
Please Join Danny & Tommy Shelton and Steve Darmondy

Sabbath, September 9, 2006

Palm Springs SDA Church
620 South Sunrise Way
Palm Springs, CA 92264

Contact Person: Pastor Charles Mitchell
Church Phone: 760-327-5112

Services:
Sabbath School 10:00 AM PST
Morning Worship 10:45 AM PST

Sabbath Afternoon With Danny 2:00 - 3:30 PM PST

Posted by: princessdi Aug 15 2006, 10:43 AM

September, Palm Springs is a very wealthy area. I believe Danny is just getting less "visual" by not appearing on the program. They still need funds, very badly. Palm Springs is exactly the well heeled, conservative place he needs to take his story of being victimized. I assume he will be making person al appearance at several areas like this during his "vacation".

> QUOTE(September @ Aug 15 2006, 07:40 AM)
>
> I found this on the 3ABN website this morning...doesn't look like Danny is stepping down or taking a break--whatever he calls it.
>
> Special Program
> Please Join Danny & Tommy Shelton and Steve Darmondy
>
> Sabbath, September 9, 2006
>
> Palm Springs SDA Church
> 620 South Sunrise Way
> Palm Springs, CA 92264
>
> Contact Person: Pastor Charles Mitchell
> Church Phone: 760-327-5112
>
> Services:
> Sabbath School 10:00 AM PST
> Morning Worship 10:45 AM PST
> Sabbath Afternoon With Danny 2:00 - 3:30 PM PST

Posted by: September Aug 15 2006, 11:01 AM

> QUOTE(princessdi @ Aug 15 2006, 12:43 PM)
>
> September, Palm Springs is a very wealthy area. I believe Danny is just getting less "visual" by not appearing on the program. They still need funds, very badly. Palm Springs is exactly the well heeled, conservative place he needs to take his story of being victimized. I assume he will be making person al appearance at several areas like this during his "vacation".

It just gets sicker and sicker as time goes on. I watched part of the re-run this morning on the internet and heard John L's sermon basically equating Danny with Moses. It made me sick...basically we're all going to hell if we don't side with "God's annointed". Wow.

But you know what, it is Jesus who will have the last word at 3ABN...He is the Vindicator. All that we see--and don't see going on at 3ABN is not hidden from God's eyes. While we do all we can with the information that we've been given to help expose Danny's 'activities', God is watching and keeping tabs too. What I saw this morning on 3ABN online was a group of desperate people trying to hang on, using guilt trips, scare tactics--whatever--to hopefully bring in more money. Both my husband and I could plainly see that they are desperate.

Anyway, I'll step off my lil soapbox

Posted by: watchbird Aug 15 2006, 11:12 AM

> QUOTE(September @ Aug 15 2006, 11:01 AM)
>
> It just gets sicker and sicker as time goes on. I watched part of the re-run this morning on the internet and heard John L's sermon basically equating Danny with Moses. It made me sick...basically we're all going to hell if we don't side with "God's annointed". Wow.
>
> But you know what, it is Jesus who will have the last word at 3ABN...He is the Vindicator. All that we see--and don't see going on at 3ABN is not hidden from God's eyes. While we do all we can with the information that we've been given to help expose Danny's 'activities', God is watching and keeping tabs too. What I saw this morning on 3ABN online was a group of desperate people trying to hang on, using guilt trips, scare tactics--whatever--to hopefully bring in more money. Both my husband and I could plainly see that they are desperate.
>
> Anyway, I'll step off my lil soapbox

Why? You look so graceful and speak so eloquent there.

Do you think there is a chance that others will see what you see also? This appointment will have been made months ago. Do you suppose that maybe there might be a chance to get it cancelled? Or at least a bunch of people in that area encouraged to visit BSDA before they get on "the wagon" with Danny and his crew.

What REALLY bothers me is to see people like Steve Darmody sharing billing with Danny and Tommy on this "honey wagon." Surely he is not their "equal"! I wonder if he knows? Could he not? But if he does, how could he do what he do?

Posted by: paleface Aug 15 2006, 11:12 AM

Right on! September!
Go girl go!

Posted by: September Aug 15 2006, 11:26 AM

> QUOTE(watchbird @ Aug 15 2006, 01:12 PM)
>
> Why? You look so graceful and speak so eloquent there.

> Do you think there is a chance that others will see what you see also? This appointment will have been made months ago. Do you suppose that maybe there might be a chance to get it cancelled? Or at least a bunch of people in that area encouraged to visit BSDA before they get on "the wagon" with Danny and his crew.
> What REALLY bothers me is to see people like Steve Darmody sharing billing with Danny and Tommy on this "honey wagon." Surely he is not their "equal"! I wonder if he knows? Could he not? But if he does, how could he do what he do?

Yes those thoughts have crossed my mind many many times...I have no idea--no answers either. The only thing I can say is that once again God does know...I think I'm going to change the way I pray. I have been praying that God would make things right in 3ABN land--that somehow Danny's 'cover' can be blown, etc., etc., But I think I need to pray that God will open the eyes and ears of those that Danny preaches too--perhaps God will go before Danny and speak to the pastors of the churches where he's scheduled. Who knows. I mean, we can talk here about it until we're blue in the face, pastors may or may not come on this site but God can open eyes and ears ahead of time--or even during one of Danny's prolonged dialogues--and in that case, Danny would in effect sink his own ship.

Now please believe me when I say that I'm not one who says 'oh, let's just let things run their course, God will take care of it.' I believe He will take care of it, but we have to do all we can within our power to stand up for truth--and stand against blatant evil. That is our duty. But where we cannot do anything God can and does work with those who are sincere in bringing truth to light and He also picks up the slack

Gee, I'm talkative today!

Posted by: paleface Aug 15 2006, 11:42 AM

Keep talking, I hear ya, keep talking. than

Posted by: Ralph Aug 15 2006, 01:39 PM

> QUOTE(September @ Aug 15 2006, 10:01 AM)
>
> What I saw this morning on 3ABN online was a group of desperate people trying to hang on, using guilt trips, scare tactics--whatever--to hopefully bring in more money. Both my husband and I could plainly see that they are desperate.
>
> Anyway, I'll step off my lil soapbox

What amazed me is how smoothly Danny wove in the announcement of his "time off" within the first 45 seconds of the second part, just after saying, "I'm looking in my life for revival and reformation and I want to tell you that I want that earnestly."

He even put up an extra fire guard for those who have heard negative comments by saying, "I'm not afraid to say we're all sinners saved by grace -- that we all make mistakes and sometimes we just have to set back and say, 'Lord help me.'"

The implication is that when Danny comes back, anything that happened in the past will not be of any importance for he will now be be a holy man who has experienced revival and reformation.

Posted by: PaperTigers Aug 15 2006, 01:45 PM

sometimes this whole thing just makes me furious.gif

Posted by: Clay Aug 15 2006, 01:46 PM

ohhhh that's slick... yes it is....

Posted by: sonshineonme Aug 15 2006, 01:56 PM

> QUOTE(PaperTigers @ Aug 15 2006, 12:45 PM)
>
> sometimes this whole thing just makes me furious.gif

I have been sitting here the past 3 hours feeling it more then ever - sick of this whole thing, sick of the mess of Dan Shelton. Its EXTREMELY frustrating to have to sit and watch, and know the money raising goes on, the ploys are out, the plans are down on paper, the lies continue, the hardness of heart of those who are abusing everyone that will willingly be abused. But, I keep coming back to the FACT that the Holy Spirit is at work too. Not just the devil. That God is working and carrying out His will.

There are many that are on the brink of breaking free in one way or another. By-standers on the "bench" - if you will, if everyone does their honest part, can you imagine what could happen? Big things - it's a test for many who have to depend totally on God to take their next steps because of this situation. Pray for everyone involved in this. I truely feel it's going to be getting much worse and much bigger then we can see with our human eyes at this moment.

Posted by: PaperTigers Aug 15 2006, 02:02 PM

i completely agree... sometimes it just gets the best of me...
i keep asking myself how i could have worked there for so long...
praise god i finally got out... now i'm just praying that those that i still care about that are there can get out, before it's too late..

Posted by: Daryl Fawcett Aug 15 2006, 02:51 PM

Get out? or make a difference by remaining there.

for example, what would happen to corrupt leadership in your local church, if all the concerned ones left?

Posted by: sonshineonme Aug 15 2006, 03:16 PM

> QUOTE(Daryl Fawcett @ Aug 15 2006, 01:51 PM)
>
> Get out? or make a difference by remaining there.
>
> for example, what would happen to corrupt leadership in your local church, if all the concerned ones left?

If the leadership in my church was corrupt, you bet I would leave. There is no reason to stay where it is obviously being led by something or someone other then God. If I know this, I leave.

I guess it depends on how you look at it. If Danny S. = 3abn, and you removed him and his gang (board members and other leadership), what you have left is the people that literally run the place - the "little people". The programming more or less is already on or headed to Hope Tv, as well as other places. The people working there now, may have left already or wanted to leave, etc. if it wasn't for fear of one sort or another, should ask God if it's time to go in spite of their fears. Those that are kept in the dark on things, told to disregard this or that, and some have felt uncomfortable with things for some time, will all have to make a decision; to be part of something corrupt or not. It's always a free will choice. Can I contribute to something that is run with selfish self-serving motives and know it? NO. If I am put in that place at some time in the future, I hope I will stand and say so...come to think of it, I have been put in that place, in a smaller way recently, and I said NO. I can't support anything when it has been revealed to me it is not what it wants to appear to be.

Sometimes it does require disbanding and beginning again. Lets not hang our hat on 3abn as the only way to get the job done - or to minister to the dying world around us. 3abn is a tool. If the tool is used wrong, then truely in effect, it is not being used to it's fullest. God's ways are mysterious. I can't begin to try to understand how and why some things are allowed to continue at times, but mostsly I have learned it's because he gives us the power of choice and common sense, a BRAIN to use, and lessons to learn, often THE HARD WAY. He wastes nothing. He will use many things to reach His children. They will come to Him where they hear His voice.

Ok, passing the soap box to someone more worthy....

Posted by: justme Aug 15 2006, 04:27 PM

> QUOTE(PaperTigers @ Aug 15 2006, 03:02 PM)
>
> i completely agree... sometimes it just gets the best of me...
> i keep asking myself how i could have worked there for so long...
> praise god i finally got out... now i'm just praying that those that i still care about that are there can get out, before it's too late..

By any chance did you work there during the times when Linda and Barbara Kerr were doing those cooking programs? That's one thing we miss most, bedside Linda giving her talks on the porch.
Did you work in production under Dee, or in the office under Mollie?

Posted by: inga Aug 15 2006, 05:31 PM

> QUOTE(September @ Aug 15 2006, 12:26 PM)
>
> I think I'm going to change the way I pray. I have been praying that God would make things right in 3ABN land--that somehow Danny's 'cover' can be blown, etc., etc., But I think I need to pray that God will open the eyes and ears of those that Danny preaches too--perhaps God will go before Danny and speak to the pastors of the churches where he's scheduled. Who knows. I mean, we can talk here about it until we're blue in the face, pastors may or may not come on this site but God can open eyes and ears ahead of time--or even during one of Danny's prolonged dialogues--and in that case, Danny would in effect sink his own ship.

September, I'll join you in that prayer, and I hope others will too.

It's a much more desirable result to have Danny hang himself with his own tongue than to have others try to do it for him. That means we'll have to pray a lot and have a lot of patience.

Of course that doesn't mean that we should not do what we can to give folks opportunity to see what goes on behind the scenes ...

Posted by: sonshineonme Aug 15 2006, 05:41 PM

QUOTE(September @ Aug 15 2006, 12:26 PM)

I think I'm going to change the way I pray. I have been praying that God would make things right in 3ABN land--that somehow Danny's 'cover' can be blown, etc., etc., But I think I need to pray that God will open the eyes and ears of those that Danny preaches too--perhaps God will go before Danny and speak to the pastors of the churches where he's scheduled. Who knows. I mean, we can talk here about it until we're blue in the face, pastors may or may not come on this site but God can open eyes and ears ahead of time--or even during one of Danny's prolonged dialogues--and in that case, Danny would in effect sink his own ship.

> QUOTE(inga @ Aug 15 2006, 04:31 PM)
>
> September, I'll join yo

Amen. This is how I will be praying too. I've just decided.

Posted by: princessdi Aug 15 2006, 06:02 PM

> QUOTE(Ralph @ Aug 15 2006, 12:39 PM)
>
> What amazed me is how smoothly Danny wove in the announcement of his "time off" within the first 45 seconds of the second part, just after saying, "I'm looking in my life for revival and reformation and I want to tell you that I want that earnestly."

> Yeah, I got that, too. This is about as close to an admission of guilt from Danny that we will get., and much "discipline" he will do. Who said it first? Jimmy Swaggart all the way!! At lwwst Jimmy had the guts to admit he had sinned. Danny is still in the "we all sin" phase, as if he just told a little white lie. Even if he ends up going to prison, he will say nor conduct himself any differently.
>
> He even put up an extra fire guard for those who have heard negative comments by saying, "I'm not afraid to say we're all sinners saved by grace -- that we all make mistakes and sometimes we just have to set back and say, 'Lord help me.'"
>
> The implication is that when Danny comes back, anything that happened in the past will not be of any importance for he will now be be a holy man who has experienced revival and reformation.
>
> ...And those who bring up those sins will be label as "accusers of the bretheren" doing their father's satan buisness.

Posted by: Daryl Fawcett Aug 15 2006, 06:12 PM

This type of praying sounds like a good action plan to me!

Posted by: inga Aug 15 2006, 06:34 PM

> QUOTE(sonshineonme @ Aug 15 2006, 04:16 PM)
>
> If the leadership in my church was corrupt, you bet I would leave. There is no reason to stay where it is obviously being led by something or someone other then God. If I know this, I leave.

What??!! I would hope you have more guts than that!

Your local church is run more or less like a democracy. It depends very much on how the local congregation chooses to exercise its mandate. If the leadershp is "corrupt," vote it out. Get into a leadership role yourself. Make yourself visible and useful and get yourself elected to the "leadership," i.e. the local church board.

Now the situation at 3ABN is totally different. It is not a democracy, and the testimony of former workers at 3ABN makes it clear that it's quite impossible to "stay and make a difference" there, because the "little people" have no voice but are being exploited for whatever they can contritube to make the 3ABN business take in more money. The only option those folks have is to leave.

But our options at the local church level are vastly more open!

> QUOTE
>
> Sometimes it does require disbanding and beginning again. Lets not hang our hat on 3abn as the only way to get the job done - or to minister to the dying world around us. 3abn is a tool. If the tool is used wrong, then truely in effect, it is not being used to it's fullest. God's ways are mysterious. I can't begin to try to understand how and why some things are allowed to continue at times, but mostsly I have learned it's because he gives us the power of choice and common sense, a BRAIN to use, and lessons to learn, often THE HARD WAY. He wastes nothing. He will use many things to > reach His children. They will come to Him where they hear His voice.

If the "tool is used wrong," it can easily become an agency of Satan.

There are times that even a local church needs to be disbanded when the whole membership has become too corrupt. Certainly a business like 3ABN might need to be disbanded before it can be re-invented as a true ministry.

Posted by: sonshineonme Aug 15 2006, 06:50 PM

> QUOTE(inga @ Aug 15 2006, 05:34 PM)
>
> What??!! I would hope you have more guts than that! gi
>
> Your local church is run more or less like a democracy. It depends very much on how the local congregation chooses to exercise its mandate. If the leadershp is "corrupt," vote it out. Get into a leadership role yourself. Make yourself visible and useful and get yourself elected to the "leadership," i.e. the local church board.
>
> But our options at the local church level are vastly more open!
> If the "tool is used wrong," it can easily become an agency of Satan.

Actually, in my church, there is NO church board. The WHOLE body is the church board. So anyone that comes, votes and knows everything that is going on.

And, as nice as your suggestions sound, it is not that easy at all. ofl That would be a good thread to start, if it would be fruitful to those that read it.

Posted by: Sapphire Aug 15 2006, 08:00 PM

> QUOTE(September @ Aug 15 2006, 12:01 PM)
>
> It just gets sicker and sicker as time goes on. I watched part of the re-run this morning on the internet and heard John L's sermon basically equating Danny with Moses. It made me sick...basically we're all going to hell if we don't side with "God's annointed". Wow.
>
> But you know what, it is Jesus who will have the last word at 3ABN...He is the Vindicator. All that we see--and don't see going on at 3ABN is not hidden from God's eyes. While we do all we can with the information that we've been given to help expose Danny's 'activities', God is watching and keeping tabs too. What I saw this morning on 3ABN online was a group of desperate people trying to hang on, using guilt trips, scare tactics--whatever--to hopefully bring in more money. Both my husband and I could plainly see that they are desperate.

> Anyway, I'll step off my lil soapbox

September,

I think it's nausiating the way John Lomacang (and others) keep referring to Danny as "the annointed one" and sending guilt trips to anyone that would dare to hold Danny accountable. DOES 3ABN NOT REMEMBER THAT LINDA SHELTON WAS "ALSO" AN ANNOINTED ONE?????

I guess it's okay if they trash the annointed one, but the rest of the gentiles aren't allowed to touch them.

Posted by: PaperTigers Aug 15 2006, 08:08 PM

> QUOTE(justme @ Aug 15 2006, 06:27 PM)
>
> By any chance did you work there during the times when Linda and Barbara Kerr were doing those cooking programs? That's one thing we miss most, bedside Linda giving her talks on the porch. Did you work in production under Dee, or in the office under Mollie?

i worked in production, and yes i worked on a couple of the cooking programs

---

Posted by: September Aug 15 2006, 08:15 PM

> QUOTE(Sapphire @ Aug 15 2006, 09:00 PM)
>
> September,
>
> I think it's nausiating the way John Lomacang (and others) keep referring to Danny as "the annointed one" and sending guilt trips to anyone that would dare to hold Danny accountable. DOES 3ABN NOT REMEMBER THAT LINDA SHELTON WAS "ALSO" AN ANNOINTED ONE?????
>
> I guess it's okay if they trash the annointed one, but the rest of the gentiles aren't allowed to touch them.

Oh I know! It was kinda weird how their chairs were all around Danny--like they were all proclaiming that he was the annointed one--the chosen one, etc., I realize the set is made like that--to have the chairs all around and whatnot, but today seeing them all gathered there made me ill. I've said it before, and I'll say it again--Jesus has got their number--nothing is getting past Him! Keep praying for viewers, church members, pastors, etc., to have their eyes opened. It sounds like their donations are down (??)...a good sign that an impression is being made?? I hope and pray so!

Posted by: sonshineonme Aug 15 2006, 08:30 PM

> QUOTE(Sapphire @ Aug 15 2006, 07:00 PM)
>
> September,
>
> I think it's nausiating the way John Lomacang (and others) keep referring to Danny as "the annointed one" and sending guilt trips to anyone that would dare to hold Danny accountable. DOES 3ABN NOT REMEMBER THAT LINDA SHELTON WAS "ALSO" AN ANNOINTED ONE?????I guess it's okay if they trash the annointed one, but the rest of the gentiles aren't allowed to touch them.

Do you really want to go there? I had a conversation with a male person once about that very thing, I said that God called Linda and Danny to this ministry, that it was THEIR ministry and he actually said to me (now hang on everyone) something along these lines:
- God was blessing Danny still, so it can't be Danny. And God called DAN, not Linda - Dan is the MAN. I just about passed out from SHOCK. My next thought was oh my goodness - people are WORSHIPING THIS MAN!!! It was a wake up call for me....I realized this was much more then just what happened to Linda (you all have heard me say this over and over....). Sometimes this makes me 'think-ith that 'man-ith has not come 'far-ith. The most scary thing was that people are willingly wantingly choosingly to LOOK THE OTHER WAY AND JUSTIFY IT!

Posted by: Sapphire Aug 15 2006, 09:26 PM

> QUOTE(sonshineonme @ Aug 15 2006, 09:30 PM)
>
> Do you really want to go there? I had a conversation with a male person once about that very thing, I said that God called Linda and Danny to this ministry, that it was THEIR ministry and he actually said to me (now hang on everyone) something along these lines:
> - God was blessing Danny still, so it can't be Danny. And God called DAN, not Linda - Dan is the MAN. I just about passed out from SHOCK. My next thought was oh my goodness - people are WORSHIPING THIS MAN!!! It was a wake up call for me....I realized this was much more then just what happened to Linda (you all have heard me say this over and over....). Sometimes this makes me 'think-ith that 'man-ith has not come 'far-ith. The most scary thing was that people are willingly wantingly choosingly to LOOK THE OTHER WAY AND JUSTIFY IT!

Hi Sonshine,

I DO want to go there. I recently had a conversation with a woman that had called Brenda Walsh to discuss the "happenings" at 3ABN. Brenda told this woman, "Well, Linda Shelton and Barbara Kerr are NOT at 3ABN anymore. I think that clearly shows that WE are in the RIGHT, and THEY are in the WRONG." I thought Brenda's answer was awfully brazen and self righteous. She may have a rude awakening one of these days. SOON!

I wonder if Brenda ever thought about the story of Joseph. Did it mean that while Joseph was chained up and behind bars in a dank and smelly prison that he was also in the wrong? It seems to me that God often allows His chosen servants to suffer rejection and hardship in order to refine them into polished gold.

My heart cries for Linda, but I also feel sad about those that have sold their souls for 15 minutes worth of fame. May God have mercy on their souls.

Posted by: sonshineonme Aug 15 2006, 09:52 PM

> QUOTE(Sapphire @ Aug 15 2006, 08:26 PM)
>
> Hi Sonshine,
>
> I DO want to go there. I recently had a conversation with a woman that had called Brenda Walsh to discuss the "happenings" at 3ABN. Brenda told this woman, "Well, Linda Shelton and Barbara Kerr are NOT at 3ABN anymore. I think that clearly shows that WE are in the RIGHT, and THEY are in the WRONG." I thought Brenda's answer was awfully brazen and self righteous. She may have a rude awakening one of these days. SOON!
>
> I wonder if Brenda ever thought about the story of Joseph. Did it mean that while Joseph was chained up and behind bars in a dank and smelly prison that he was also in the wrong? It seems to me that God often allows His chosen servants to suffer rejection and hardship in order to refine them into polished gold.
>
> My heart cries for Linda, but I also feel sad about those that have sold their souls for 15 minutes worth of fame. May God have mercy on their souls.

It is clear to me that Brenda doesn't THINK. She must not listen to the stories that come from her mouth. Remember, she has much to "protect" herself. This is a sad state of affairs

Many many times I have told Linda "I think this is a good thing! I think this happened for a reason! I think God SAVED you from that place". The more that time passes, the more times I tell her this. I hurt for her as well. But God is bigger then anyone - ANYONE - at 3abn - the place where they break mended hearts.

Posted by: Chez Aug 15 2006, 11:31 PM

> QUOTE(Sapphire @ Aug 15 2006, 09:26 PM)
>
> Hi Sonshine,
>
> I DO want to go there. I recently had a conversation with a woman that had called Brenda Walsh to discuss the "happenings" at 3ABN. Brenda told this woman, "Well, Linda Shelton and Barbara Kerr are NOT at 3ABN anymore. I think that clearly shows that WE are in the RIGHT, and THEY are in the WRONG." I thought Brenda's answer was awfully brazen and self righteous. She may have a rude awakening one of these days. SOON!
>
> I wonder if Brenda ever thought about the story of Joseph. Did it mean that while Joseph was chained up and behind bars in a dank and smelly prison that he was also in the wrong? It seems to me that God often allows His chosen servants to suffer rejection and hardship in order to refine them into polished gold.
>
> My heart cries for Linda, but I also feel sad about those that have sold their souls for 15 minutes > worth of fame. May God have mercy on their souls.

Good point!

Posted by: inga Aug 15 2006, 11:45 PM

> QUOTE(sonshineonme @ Aug 15 2006, 10:52 PM)
>
> Many many times I have told Linda "I think this is a good thing! I think this happened for a reason! I think God SAVED you from that place". The more that time passes, the more times I tell her this. I hurt for her as well. But God is bigger then anyone - ANYONE - at 3abn - the place where they break mended hearts.

I'm glad you're talking to her and are telling her this.

I first mentioned this thought on ClubAdventist and in a about two years ago. Linda was likely not able to appreciate it at the time.

It's a long ways to come from seeing Danny as her husband and "anointed of God" (how else could she tell people that he was "like God" to them?!) to seeing him as the con man he has revealed himself to be. She may not be there yet ..

Being out of that environment is preparing her for a ministry that is not dependent on TV stardom. She'll be much better for it.

Posted by: Fran Aug 16 2006, 12:40 AM

Inga;

My heart warms at the thought of Linda being Free! Truly free!. I think she may be there by now. I pray that she will find a man of God to Love and who will love her with all his heart. Someone she can trust and also be her, and she his, soul mate for the rest of their lifes.

I want her to have a marriage that was put together by God. I want this so she can have that experience in her life.

Her past spouse has scarred her so badly that she may never remarry. It is my prayer that she will find that someone that can make her the queen of their home. She has never experienced that before. She just thought she did.

Linda;

God really has done you a favor! Rejoice and be glad! It has taken a long time, but everyone who comes into your life in the last few years could be that one special person that God has prepared for you. You deserve such a life. What I really want is your complete happiness in the Lord.

Time will heal the holes in your heart left by him that was supposed to be your husband, lover, friend and spiritual leader. The things you are now learning about Danny have to hurt deeply. I am so sorry!

But, God has done a great favor for you because you are now free indeed! I am so proud of that fact. I know the battle has just begun, but look up for your deliverer is coming soon.

So come Lord Jesus! Maranatha!

> QUOTE(inga @ Aug 16 2006, 12:45 AM)
>
> I'm glad you're talking to her and are telling her this.
>
> I first mentioned this thought on ClubAdventist and in a about two years ago. Linda was likely not able to appreciate it at the time.
>
> It's a long ways to come from seeing Danny as her husband and "anointed of God" (how else could she tell people that he was "like God" to them?!) to seeing him as the con man he has revealed himself to be. She may not be there yet ..
>
> Being out of that environment is preparing her for a ministry that is not dependent on TV stardom. She'll be much better for it.

Posted by: Johann Aug 16 2006, 04:45 PM

> QUOTE(inga @ Aug 16 2006, 07:45 AM)
>
> I'm glad you're talking to her and are telling her this.
>
> I first mentioned this thought on ClubAdventist and in a about two years ago. Linda was likely not able to appreciate it at the time.
>
> It's a long ways to come from seeing Danny as her husband and "anointed of God" (how else could she tell people that he was "like God" to them?!) to seeing him as the con man he has revealed himself to be. She may not be there yet ..
>
> Being out of that environment is preparing her for a ministry that is not dependent on TV stardom. She'll be much better for it.

Just a slight correction. I don't believe Linda ever told people that Danny was like God to them. It was Mollie who did that, and Linda objected to her "preaching" since she found it inappropriate.

> QUOTE(inga @ Aug 16 2006, 07:45 AM)
>
> I'm glad you're talking to her and are telling her this.
>
> I first mentioned this thought on ClubAdventist and in a about two years ago. Linda was likely not able to appreciate it at the time.
>
> It's a long ways to come from seeing Danny as her husband and "anointed of God" (how else could she tell people that he was "like God" to them?!) to seeing him as the con man he has revealed himself to be. She may not be there yet ..

> Being out of that environment is preparing her for a ministry that is not dependent on TV stardom. She'll be much better for it.

Just a slight correction. I don't believe Linda ever told people that Danny was like God to them. It was Mollie who did that, and Linda objected to her "preaching" since she found it inappropriate.

Posted by: sonshineonme Aug 16 2006, 04:50 PM

Yes you are correct Johann, Linda has expressed the same thing to me, that she felt Dan should not accept that kind of reference to himself as Mollie was starting this type of "thinking" of Danny to every one there. Linda was not comfortable with that language or idea, nor did she see him that way, and tried to talk to Danny about that.

I think Dan liked(s) it, and I think Mollie knew he liked it. It was a seed planted in Danny, that has obviously grown into a monster.

Posted by: PrincessDrRe Aug 16 2006, 09:45 PM

☒ sn

Posted by: inga Aug 17 2006, 12:55 AM

> QUOTE(Johann @ Aug 16 2006, 05:45 PM) ☐
>
> Just a slight correction. I don't believe Linda ever told people that Danny was like God to them. It was Mollie who did that, and Linda objected to her "preaching" since she found it inappropriate. Just a slight correction. I don't believe Linda ever told people that Danny was like God to them. It was Mollie who did that, and Linda objected to her "preaching" since she found it inappropriate.

Thank you, Johann and Sonshineonme for this correction. I used the statement because it appeared several times in apparently credible testimonies regarding 3ABN happenings. I don't have time to research it right now, so I'm no longer sure who wrote it, but it shouldn't be hard to find ...

Posted by: Daryl Fawcett Aug 20 2006, 03:05 PM

This topic is about Danny Steps Down?

Is Danny stepping down? It seems to me that the answer is no.

Is Danny taking a leave of absence from a few weeks to a few months as was clearly announced on 3ABN? If yes, then when is it supposed to begin? We are still seeing him on live programs.

Posted by: graceful Aug 20 2006, 05:14 PM

> QUOTE(PaperTigers @ Aug 15 2006, 08:08 PM) ☐
>
> i worked in production, and yes i worked on a couple of the cooking programs

PT, I really miss Pastor Samuel Thomas and his wife Karen Thomas - she was the host for "Issues and Answers" and I have not seen them in ages. Do you know if they stopped working at 3ABN?

I really love Shelly Quinn and I think that we should pray for her specially. She is such a wonderful christian lady. With all the mess going on there I pray that she will continue to keep her focus on God and not get caught up.

I am still in shock and disbelief over the things I read about Brenda Walsh on the thread "name the person".

Posted by: Clay Aug 20 2006, 05:25 PM

> QUOTE(graceful @ Aug 20 2006, 05:14 PM) ☐
>
> PT, I really miss Pastor Samuel Thomas and his wife Karen Thomas - she was the host for "Issues and Answers" and I have not seen them in ages. Do you know if they stopped working at 3ABN?
>
> I really love Shelly Quinn and I think that we should pray for her specially. She is such a wonderful christian lady. With all the mess going on there I pray that she will continue to keep her focus on God and not get caught up.
>
> I am still in shock and disbelief over the things I read about Brenda Walsh on the thread "name the person".

the Thomas' are not working for 3abn... he is pastoring in TN, and they are having some personal problems....

Posted by: Uncle Sam Dec 24 2006, 09:49 PM

A friend of mine called today to say Danny is stepping down as president of 3ABN. They will gradually phase him out of the programming. Has anyone else heard this? Her source has always been reliable in the past....

Posted by: Richard Sherwin Dec 24 2006, 10:03 PM

A Christmas present to his critics perhaps?

> QUOTE(Uncle Sam @ Dec 24 2006, 10:49 PM) ☐
>
> A friend of mine called today to say Danny is stepping down as president of 3ABN. They will > gradually phase him out of the programming. Has anyone else heard this? Her source has always been reliable in the past....

Posted by: sonshineonme Dec 24 2006, 10:09 PM

> QUOTE(Richard Sherwin @ Dec 24 2006, 08:03 PM)
>
> A Christmas present to his critics perhaps?

That's what I was thinking...but, be cautious as Mollie would like to keep the ship floating to keep the money coming, and since DS see's some of the writing on the wall, it only makes sense to get him out of there without taking the ship down too - as if they think they can stop anything at this point.

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Dec 24 2006, 11:13 PM

> QUOTE(Uncle Sam @ Dec 24 2006, 08:49 PM)
>
> A friend of mine called today to say Danny is stepping down as president of 3ABN. They will gradually phase him out of the programming. Has anyone else heard this? Her source has always been reliable in the past....

Over on the "Unauthorized" thread earlier this evening Pickle posted the following:

> QUOTE
>
> Sure, they may all be sincere, but isn't that beside the point? Isn't the point that Dr. Walt Thompson admitted that he never contacted any of the six alleged victims, their families, or the two ordaining associations that had revoked Tommy's credentials when invited to do so, and instead replied solely on the bogus information Danny gave him? Isn't a mistake like this really serious when it could potentially cost both 3ABN and the IL Conf. millions of dollars down the road?

And Joe Smith answered him with:

> QUOTE
>
> That's a fair question. Keep watching 3ABN. I think you will see some positive steps just ahead.
> Joe

If Danny possibly being phased out of 3abn is what Joe was refering to how will that remedy the pressing situation with the alleged molester and the alleged victims?

Posted by: sonshineonme Dec 24 2006, 11:22 PM

> QUOTE(PeacefullyBewildered @ Dec 24 2006, 09:13 PM)
>
> Over on the "Unauthorized" thread earlier this evening Pickle posted the following:
> And Joe Smith answered him with:
> If Danny possibly being phased out of 3abn is what Joe was refering to how will that remedy the pressing situation with the alleged molester and the alleged victims?

It won't be enough for just Danny to go - in fact, it won't be enough unless they ALL go. I have a feeling there is much coming and we shall have to wait to see just how it plays out. I'm sure it will be more then we can imagine at this point....but, I have a vivid imagination

---

Posted by: roxe Dec 25 2006, 02:09 AM

> QUOTE(Uncle Sam @ Dec 24 2006, 08:49 PM)
>
> A friend of mine called today to say Danny is stepping down as president of 3ABN. They will gradually phase him out of the programming. Has anyone else heard this? Her source has always been reliable in the past....

Maybe the Swiss bank account(s) has enough in it by now ??

Wonder if the wrongs will be righted... or if the clan is planning to leave the country?

Wonder who will take his place?

Posted by: Ed White Dec 25 2006, 05:48 AM

> QUOTE(roxe @ Dec 25 2006, 02:09 AM)
>
> Maybe the Swiss bank account(s) has enough in it by now ??
>
> Wonder if the wrongs will be righted... or if the clan is planning to leave the country?
>
> Wonder who will take his place?

"The Hills are Alive with the Sound of Music"
I wonder who will drive the get away car in this generation of singers? As I remembered the get away car last time had about 9 cars chasing it to the border.

Posted by: HUGGINS130 Dec 25 2006, 08:24 AM tis almost 2007 and yes I am still lurking and still sna this is getting deeper by the day!

TVsnack.

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Dec 25 2006, 12:05 PM

If I could just throw some cold water on this "celebration", there is only speculation that Danny is going to step down. Panama_Pete heard something from a usually reliable contact and Joe Smith hinted at steps being taken.

Also, it is my prayer that the changes at 3abn involve God's power and truth reforming the lives of the people that need it, chasing cherished sins out of all hearts, and healing the surrounding communities/victims so that all hearts and minds are open to the Gospel. JMO.

Posted by: roxe Dec 25 2006, 12:09 PM

> QUOTE(Ed White @ Dec 25 2006, 04:48 AM)
>
> "The Hills are Alive with the Sound of Music"
> I wonder who will drive the get away car in this generation of singers? As I remembered the get away car last time had about 9 cars chasing it to the border.

don't need cars... maybe "planning ahead" factored into the jet being on stand-by... using UPS to ship stuff anywhere... the "trip to a rally" would look like normal...

Posted by: Clay Dec 25 2006, 12:11 PM

> QUOTE(PeacefullyBewildered @ Dec 25 2006, 12:05 PM)
>
> If I could just throw some cold water on this "celebration", there is only speculation that Danny is going to step down. Panama_Pete heard something from a usually reliable contact and Joe Smith hinted at steps being taken.
>
> Also, it is my prayer that the changes at 3abn involve God's power and truth reforming the lives of the people that need it, chasing cherished sins out of all hearts, and healing the surrounding communities/victims so that all hearts and minds are open to the Gospel. JMO.

good points.... won't believe it till I see it....

Posted by: roxe Dec 25 2006, 12:21 PM

> QUOTE(PeacefullyBewildered @ Dec 25 2006, 11:05 AM)
>
> If I could just throw some cold water on this "celebration", there is only speculation that Danny is going to step down. Panama_Pete heard something from a usually reliable contact and Joe Smith hinted at steps being taken.
>
> Also, it is my prayer that the changes at 3abn involve God's power and truth reforming the lives of the people that need it, chasing cherished sins out of all hearts, and healing the surrounding communities/victims so that all hearts and minds are open to the Gospel. JMO.

i agree, PeacefullyBewildered. i too pray that God's will be done... in life-changing repentance and reformation.

my imagination gets carried away at times.

Posted by: HUGGINS130 Dec 25 2006, 01:33 PM

> QUOTE(Clay @ Dec 25 2006, 12:11 PM)
>
> good points.... won't believe it till I see it....

same here but while we wait...u know i'll be... sna

Posted by: Panama_Pete Dec 25 2006, 06:33 PM

> QUOTE(PeacefullyBewildered @ Dec 25 2006, 12:05 PM)
>
> If I could just throw some cold water on this "celebration", there is only speculation that Danny is going to step down. Panama_Pete heard something from a usually reliable contact and Joe Smith hinted at steps being taken.
>
> Also, it is my prayer that the changes at 3abn involve God's power and truth reforming the lives of the people that need it, chasing cherished sins out of all hearts, and healing the surrounding communities/victims so that all hearts and minds are open to the Gospel. JMO.

I know it's just a technical slip, but I think it was Uncle Sam who received the phone call from the usually reliable contact.

Pete.

Posted by: Daryl Fawcett Dec 25 2006, 08:43 PM

I received this response from a reliable friend:

> QUOTE
>
> No-one connected with 3ABN has confirmed this story and in fact the Chairman states they are still intending to work through ASI.

I suggest we be very cautious over this unconfirmed piece of information about Danny Shelton stepping down.

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Dec 25 2006, 09:29 PM

> QUOTE(Panama_Pete @ Dec 25 2006, 05:33 PM)
>
> I know it's just a technical slip, but I think it was Uncle Sam who received the phone call from the usually reliable contact.
>
> Pete.

Oops, sorry Pete! BTW, that's a sweet way to characterize an error.

> QUOTE(Daryl Fawcett @ Dec 25 2006, 07:43 PM)
>
> I received this response from a reliable friend:
> I suggest we be very cautious over this unconfirmed piece of information about Danny Shelton stepping down.

Wise words, Daryl.

Posted by: lurker Dec 25 2006, 09:32 PM

Danny is on right now with Melody and her husband and children. He said that Brandy and her daughter Jody couldn't be there for some reason. He didn't say anything about Trinity, Brandy's youngest but she wasn't on either.

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Dec 25 2006, 09:47 PM

> QUOTE(lurker @ Dec 25 2006, 08:32 PM)
>
> Danny is on right now with Melody and her husband and children. He said that Brandy and her daughter Jody couldn't be there for some reason. He didn't say anything about Trinity, Brandy's youngest but she wasn't on either.

Their schedule says it is the Christmas program. Haley has sure grown a lot.

Posted by: lurker Dec 25 2006, 10:52 PM

Yes, it was a Christmas program. Nothing was said about stepping down.

Posted by: Observer Dec 26 2006, 06:58 AM

To all:

We need to be very careful about any unconfirmed statement that Danny has (will step) stepped down. IF we are not, we will end up looking like fools.

Posted by: Aletheia Dec 26 2006, 07:38 AM

> QUOTE(Observer @ Dec 26 2006, 07:58 AM) ☐
>
> To all:
>
> We need to be very careful about any unconfirmed statement that Danny has (will step) stepped down. IF we are not, we will end up looking like fools.

Or worse...

Pro 10:18 He that hideth hatred with lying lips, and he that uttereth a slander, is a fool.

Yes, caution is needed. For it's not only liars but those who love the lies who won't enter the city.

These six things doth the LORD hate: yea, seven are an abomination unto him:
A proud look,
a lying tongue,
and hands that shed innocent blood,
An heart that deviseth wicked imaginations,
feet that be swift in running to mischief,
A false witness that speaketh lies,
and he that soweth discord among brethren.
Pro 6:16-19

Rom 1:29-32
And even as they did not like to retain God in [their] knowledge, God gave them over to a reprobate mind, to do those things which are not convenient; Being filled with all unrighteousness, fornication, wickedness, covetousness, maliciousness; full of envy, murder, debate, deceit, malignity; whisperers, Backbiters, haters of God, despiteful, proud, boasters, inventors of evil things, disobedient to parents, Without understanding, covenantbreakers, without natural affection, implacable, unmerciful: Who knowing the judgment of God, that they which commit such things are worthy of death, not only do the same, but have pleasure in them that do them.

Examine yourselves, for I am not talking about anyone specifically here, this caution applies to myself as well.

Posted by: Daryl Fawcett Dec 26 2006, 09:25 AM

Yes, we heard Danny Shelton say a few months ago on a 3ABN Live program that he would be going on a leave of absence, which hasn't happened yet, therefore, I would strongly question something like this that wasn't heard from the lips of Danny Shelton on either a live or taped 3ABN program.

Posted by: Uncle Sam Dec 26 2006, 09:28 AM

I have mixed emotions about this whole mess. What is done is done, Danny and Linda are not getting back together, he has moved on....as I have said to Danny you need to let all of this go, 3ABN needs to quit "defending" themselves and get back to spreading the gospel.

I feel they need to clean house. John Lomacang needs to go, Shelly Quinn, Molly etc. They were all there throughout the "breakup" and have too much resentment to do anyone any good. I use to really enjoy JL's singing now I cannot stand to see or hear him.

I have issues with some things that I have seen first hand. I called John Lomacang on a couple things I have heard him say. All he said was he didn't mean it the way it sounded. I have issues with Melody getting pregnant out of wedlock and that was never addressed, I feel if she wanted to continue on TV maybe she should have apologized or something. That happened to our neighbors who were in the ministry it destroyed their ministry.

I have seen some of the housing at 3ABN that is less than desirable. We had thought about going to work up there at one time. Until we saw the housing and other things. We could have afforded our own house but I just couldn't get it out of my mind that the "higher ups" knew how the employees were living. I understand Linda was also part of this, but she is not there anymore. The issue is what should happen now? I do not think she was innocent in all of this either. I think bad choices were made by both parties. I don't know if she had an affair I think we are past that.

It has always been for me anyway, did they act like Christians? Are they now? One thing I don't understand, if there is proof of sexual misconduct towards children, why does Danny's ex son inlaw allow his children to still live in this mess? If I had proof I would expose them all to protect my children...

Posted by: Grace Dec 26 2006, 09:51 AM

QUOTE(Uncle Sam @ Dec 26 2006, 04:28 PM)

> I have mixed emotions about this whole mess. What is done is done, Danny and Linda are not getting back together, he has moved on....as I have said to Danny you need to let all of this go, 3ABN needs to quit "defending" themselves and get back to spreading the gospel.
>
> I feel they need to clean house. John Lomacang needs to go, Shelly Quinn, Molly etc. They were all there throughout the "breakup" and have too much resentment to do anyone any good. I use to really enjoy JL's singing now I cannot stand to see or hear him.
>
> I have issues with some things that I have seen first hand. I called John Lomacang on a couple things I have heard him say. All he said was he didn't mean it the way it sounded. I have issues > with Melody getting pregnant out of wedlock and that was never addressed, I feel if she wanted to continue on TV maybe she should have apologized or something. That happened to our neighbors who were in the ministry it destroyed their ministry.

>
> I have seen some of the housing at 3ABN that is less than desirable. We had thought about going to work up there at one time. Until we saw the housing and other things. We could have afforded our own house but I just couldn't get it out of my mind that the "higher ups" knew how the employees were living. I understand Linda was also part of this, but she is not there anymore. The issue is what should happen now? I do not think she was innocent in all of this either. I think bad choices were made by both parties. I don't know if she had an affair I think we are past that.
>
> It has always been for me anyway, did they act like Christians? Are they now? One thing I don't understand, if there is proof of sexual misconduct towards children, why does Danny's ex son inlaw allow his children to still live in this mess? If I had proof I would expose them all to protect my children...

Uncle Sam, I don't think Linda is guilty of an affair. I still agree that she might have done a few things wrong. Don't we all? That doesn't justify bashing her and making her look like an adulterous woman, as Danny and his "friends" have done. To me, that's totally unchristian. And I feel offended by what Danny and his "friends" did to her, as well as them not addressing Danny's, Melody's, her new husband's and Tommy's misconducts. How can the Lord bless the ministry of 3ABN if there's not repentance, confession and cleanning up on the part of the people leading it? Look at what happened in ancient Israel!

About your last question, it didn't occur to me, but now that you say it, yeah, I find myself making the same reflexions.

Posted by: Joe Smith Dec 26 2006, 10:24 AM

> QUOTE(Uncle Sam @ Dec 26 2006, 09:28 AM)
>
> I have mixed emotions about this whole mess. What is done is done, Danny and Linda are not getting back together, he has moved on....as I have said to Danny you need to let all of this go, 3ABN needs to quit "defending" themselves and get back to spreading the gospel.
>
> Danny has expressed to me MANY times how he would love to move on, people won't let him. Charges of incest, wife beating, embezlement, misuse of funds, > misuse of the plane, liar, deceiver and many others, dating way back for 30 years. Do you suppose that GOd would have called a man such as that to start 3ABN in the first place if those charges were correct? God knew the kind of man He was calling for this work. It seems people don't want to hear positive things.
>
> I feel they need to clean house. John Lomacang needs to go, Shelly Quinn, Molly etc. They were all there throughout the "breakup" and have too much resentment to do anyone any good. I use to really enjoy JL's singing now I cannot stand to see or hear him.
> I can agree, there needs to be some changes made to the staff. I don't have all the facts so I can't say exactly who.
>
> I have issues with some things that I have seen first hand. I called John Lomacang on a couple things I have heard him say. All he said was he didn't mean it the way it sounded. I have issues with Melody getting pregnant out of wedlock and that was never addressed, I feel if she wanted to continue on TV maybe she should have apologized or something. That happened to our neighbors who were in the ministry it destroyed their ministry.

> I have seen some of the housing at 3ABN that is less than desirable. We had thought about going to work up there at one time. Until we saw the housing and other things. We could have afforded our own house but I just couldn't get it out of my mind that the "higher ups" knew how the employees were living. I understand Linda was also part of this, but she is not there anymore. The issue is what should happen now? I do not think she was innocent in all of this either. I think bad choices were made by both parties. I don't know if she had an affair I think we are past that.
>
> It has always been for me anyway, did they act like Christians? Are they now? One thing I don't understand, if there is proof of sexual misconduct towards children, why does Danny's ex son inlaw allow his children to still live in this mess? If I had proof I would expose them all to protect my children...

Again, I agree. If these are true... then Daryl (Danny's ex son-in-law) why are your kids still in the area? Is there a reason you don't want to bring this to the aurthorities??

Joe

post edited for content by staff

Posted by: Clay Dec 26 2006, 10:27 AM

God can use anyone to do what needs to be done.... the question is did God call or did Danny just decide that 3abn was what he wanted to do?

Posted by: watchbird Dec 26 2006, 10:47 AM

> QUOTE(Joe Smith @ Dec 26 2006, 11:24 AM)
>
> Again, I agree. If these are true... then Daryl (Danny's ex son-in-law) why are your kids still in the area? Is there a reason you don't want to bring this to the aurthorities??
>
> Joe

Well now isn't this interesting.... Joe supposedly knows the family so well he knows what can be known of Danny's private life .... yet he doesn't know Danny's ex son-in-law or how to spell his name. And the implications behind this comment about "authorities".... ....

Posted by: Aletheia Dec 26 2006, 11:06 AM

> QUOTE(watchbird @ Dec 26 2006, 11:47 AM)
>
> Well now isn't this interesting.... Joe supposedly knows the family so well he knows what can be known of Danny's private life .... yet he doesn't know Danny's ex son-in-law or how to spell his name. And the implications behind this comment about "authorities".... ....

Let's find fault with people who don't spell people's name correctly?

Is it worth asking why, if this is important; you didn't find fault with "Sister for mispelling Joseph's/Josef's name also?

> QUOTE
>
> QUOTE(Joe Smith @ Dec 21 2006, 10:13 PM)
>
> Well, that will be easy for anyone who wants to check that out. I know the man who lived there very well. He is from Romania and has lived there for about 8 years. His name is Joesph. You will see his name on the program credits after many programs. He still works there, by the way and anyone can call there and talk to him on 3ABN's dime. Joesph just recently moved to Carbondale where his 2 daughter take music lessons... as they have for years. He makes enough money to support his wife, who doesn't work outside and his 2 kids who are now teenagers and driving and all on that 3ABN salary. Joesph chose to live there because it was handy. Maybe he had already moved out when you saw the place if it looked run down.
>
> Joe
>
> sister Dec 21 2006, 10:36 PM Post #144:
> You failed to mention that Joseph P. and his family came to the USA on a tourist visa and never left, he has been working and living illegally in Illinois for many years, with the full knowledge of Danny Shelton and 3ABN. Under the circumstances, where else could he and his family live, but in a shack on 3ABN property. I wonder how Joseph was paid by 3ABN since he had no "green card".

Poor, Joseef has he been arrested by immigration now? and again, how did Linda avod accusation or blaming or finding fault, while Danny again is appointed to take the fall?

BUT-- Here's the REAL point, for any parent.

If your child was around someone that you thought was a child molester...

What would you do? Seek to expose the pervert, or his employer?

Would you. Investigate, try to prove this, by talking to all involved and bringing that evidence forward so that no doubt remains, and verify it with child protection services and law enforcement, OR --- go on the internet and accuse another of sheltering and hiring that child molester, while not doing proving to those who could do something about it that the man was a child molester, while your children remain in danger?

I, personally, would take my children, and insist possession is 9/10's of the law and demand an investigation and that people answer before leaving my children in that position.

Posted by: Pickle Dec 26 2006, 11:14 AM

> QUOTE(Joe Smith @ Dec 26 2006, 10:24 AM) ☐

> Do you suppose that GOd would have called a man such as that to start 3ABN in the first place if those charges were correct?

That's a good question, Joe. What do you think?

- Would God call a man who says that his name is on the title of Linda's Toyota Sequoia till now when it never has been?
- Would God call a man who misleads his own board chairman about the serious nature, wide extent, and recent timing of the Tommy Shelton child molestation allegations, thus potentially involving 3ABN and the IL Conf. in future liability amounting to millions of dollars?
- Would God call a man who writes such ugly replies to those who have questions?
- Would God call a man who threatens people with lawsuits in order to silence their concerns about child molestation?

I think at this point we need to SEE rather than hear solid evidence that God did indeed call Danny Shelton to start 3ABN.

At any rate, let's hear your thoughts: Would God call a man who has been proven to have done these things to start a ministry like 3ABN? Tell us what you think.

Posted by: watchbird Dec 26 2006, 11:34 AM

> QUOTE(Aletheia @ Dec 26 2006, 12:06 PM)
>
> Let's find fault with people who don't spell people's name correctly?
>
> Is it worth asking why if this is important; Why didn't you find fault with "Sister for mispelling Joseph's/Josef's name also
>
> Here's the point, for any parent.
>
> If your child was around someone that you thought was a child molester...
>
> What would you do? Seek to expose the pervert, or his employer?
>
> Investigate, try to prove this, by talking to all involved and bringing that evidence forward so that no doubt remains, and verify it with child protection services and law enforcement, or go on the internet and accuse another of sheltering and hiring that child molester, while not doing so, while your children remain in danger?
>
> I, personally, would take my children, and insist possession is 9/10's of the law and demand an investigation and that people answer before leaving my children in that position.

Just maybe you should do more of the kind of investigation you keep insisting that others do before you are so quick to make rash statements about what YOU would or would not do in such a situation. Keeping in mind that taking one's children and running is in itself a Federal crime and that while women occasionally get away with it, men seldom do... you also might be a little realistic and try to imagine where one would "run to" under those circumstances... and how one would manage to accomplish it.... with no financial resources and when the one you would be running from has unlimited finances to hire as many PIs as he wishes.

Posted by: Pickle Dec 26 2006, 11:37 AM

Joe, feel free to provide us with concrete, irrefutable proof regarding what you allude to about Danny's ex-son-in-law.

Do consider that since Danny has misled his board chairman about the Tommy Shelton child molestation allegations and falsely stated that his name is on the title of Linda's Toyota Sequoia, if Danny is the sole source of your information, it is possibly suspect from the start.

What is the source of your info? If not Danny, where did your source get their info? Who has firsthand information, and can they substantiate it with something concrete?

Beware, though, one of the signs of unrepentance is an unwillingness to acknowledge errors contrasted with an eagerness to attack and blame others. See Gen. 3.

Posted by: Lee Dec 26 2006, 11:55 AM

Solid evidence? What about Matthew 28:19-20.

Do any of you have ANY inkling of WHAT it takes to start something like what Danny did in starting 3ABN? Anyone could do it since the promise is right there in the Bible. But it takes FAITH and Danny believed God would help him which He did. God has blessed His work.

Now you people are wanting "solid evidence" that Danny was "called." What a bunch of crock. God HAS "called" all of us to do a work for Him! We are all a part of the "body" He has called to work for Him. But you people are trying to kill off a big chunk of "that body."

What we don't understand is that in trying to kill off that part of the body, we kill ourselves in the process.

Posted by: Clay Dec 26 2006, 12:01 PM

QUOTE(Lee @ Dec 26 2006, 11:55 AM)

> Solid evidence? What about Matthew 28:19-20.
>
> Do any of you have ANY inkling of WHAT it takes to start something like what Danny did in starting 3ABN? Anyone could do it since the promise is right there in the Bible. But it takes FAITH and Danny believed God would help him which He did. God has blessed His work.
>
> Now you people are wanting "solid evidence" that Danny was "called." What a bunch of crock. God HAS "called" all of us to do a work for Him! We are all a part of the "body" He has called to work for Him. But you people are trying to kill off a big chunk of "that body."
>
> What we don't understand is that in trying to kill off that part of the body, we kill ourselves in the process.

you people? who is the you people you are referring to? Are you related to Ross Perot? He seemed to like that phrase...

Posted by: Pickle Dec 26 2006, 12:17 PM

Lee,

Surely you understand that one of the chief excuses for not doing anything is that Danny was called by God.

To my knowledge, the fact that an average church member up for church discipline over some horrendous sin was called by God like all of us have been, to my knowledge that fact is never used as an excuse for not doing anything.

Danny's case is different in both the nature of the alleged call and the way that call is being used. He claims to have been called like Moses. And others support that claim, like John Lomacang when he essentially stated on August 10 over 3ABN that it is wrong to disagree with Danny, and explicitly compared Danny to Moses.

When it comes to my being able to prove the claim, an excuse for not doing anything, I have no proof at this point. So there isn't any problem with my asking for proof. To the contrary, there is a serious problem with those who want to beg the question on this one, and then use it to justify not doing anything.

Posted by: Clay Dec 26 2006, 12:21 PM

thanks for the clarification Pickle.... why would anyone want to compare themselves to Moses? That is a tall order to fill....

Posted by: lurker Dec 26 2006, 03:27 PM

God called King Saul too but he doesn't think too kindly of leaders who get too big for their britches.

I couldn't find Linda's house but this one is in her neighborhood http://www.springfieldsbesthomes.com/featuredhome_2029Renwick.php and in her price range. I then did a search - I think it was in virtual earth local live on both addresses and checked out an aerial view of both her home in Springfield and Danny and Brandy's home in West Frankfort. If you do this it is apparant that her home is in some sort of subdivision with row after row of homes and Danny and Brandy are in what I would call a "country estate". But you can do a search and find out for yourself.

Posted by: Johann Dec 26 2006, 05:37 PM

> QUOTE(lurker @ Dec 26 2006, 11:27 PM)
>
> I then did a search - I think it was in virtual earth local live on both addresses and checked out an aerial view of both her home in Springfield and Danny and Brandy's home in West Frankfort. If you do this it is apparant that her home is in some sort of subdivision with row after row of homes and Danny and Brandy are in what I would call a "country estate". But you can do a search and find out for yourself.

Those of us who have been to both places will verify that this evaluation is right on target.

Posted by: paleface Dec 26 2006, 07:48 PM

As long as picture assigmments are being handed out, how about taking a couple photos of that leased Jet of Danny's also.

Vi computer, we found the neighborhood that Linda's home is persume to be located. It is the only one in this particular culdesac that has a swimming pool?

Now let us go to 3ABN. As we leave 3ABN, I wish to go by Danny's home. Do I turn left and then turn left again on road 429? at the "T"? Is John L. home first then Danny's? Is all of Danyy's land holdings connected or joined or do other people have land holdings that split up the total amount of Dan's ground?

I do not plan to travel nor visit Ill. I am just curious and no! I do not have a cat.

Posted by: daylily Dec 26 2006, 08:15 PM

This is my first post to blacksda and I don't yet know how to post a quote but someone asked why Danny's son-in-law didn't take his children if the allegations against Tommy are true.

If Melody has custody, how can Derrel take the children away?

Posted by: princessdi Dec 26 2006, 09:05 PM

I do know this. When darryl first came here, Melody came, also in answer to same things said about her. She was still pregnant. The one thing they both agreed on is that they would give each other respect as the mother/father to their children. I admired that about them both.

> QUOTE(daylily @ Dec 26 2006, 06:15 PM)
>
> This is my first post to blacksda and I don't yet know how to post a quote but someone asked why Danny's son-in-law didn't take his children if the allegations against Tommy are true.
>
> If Melody has custody, how can Derrel take the children away?

Posted by: Aletheia Dec 26 2006, 09:48 PM

> QUOTE(princessdi @ Dec 26 2006, 10:05 PM)
>
> I do know this. When darryl first came here, Melody came, also in answer to same things said about her. She was still pregnant. The one thing they both agreed on is that they would give each other > respect as the mother/father to their children. I admired that about them both.

I admire that also, as a divorced parent I also tried and still try to do that for both of our sons' sakes, but I can appreciate that it is not always easy, in fact it's downright hard at times.

Children do need to come first. It was me who said take the children, if that's what was needed to keep them safe, but in light of this I am wondering... what is Melody's take on Tommy, the actual allegations and the additional unconfirmed rumors about him, and her children being around them?

Posted by: Johann Dec 27 2006, 02:33 AM

> QUOTE(princessdi @ Dec 27 2006, 05:05 AM) ☐
>
> I do know this. When darryl first came here, Melody came, also in answer to same things said about her. She was still pregnant. The one thing they both agreed on is that they would give each other respect as the mother/father to their children. I admired that about them both.

I have not seen it myselfa, but I understand that these children appeared on the 3ABN Christmas program, and that their names were listed as Firestone and not Mundall. Was that a nice thing to do? Or legal?

Posted by: Observer Dec 27 2006, 04:41 AM

> QUOTE(Johann @ Dec 27 2006, 01:33 AM) ☐
>
> I have not seen it myselfa, but I understand that these children appeared on the 3ABN Christmas program, and that their names were listed as Firestone and not Mundall. Was that a nice thing to do? Or legal?

No doubt about it. Under US law, it was legal.

> QUOTE(Observer @ Dec 27 2006, 03:36 AM) ☐
>
> No doubt about it. Under US law, it was legal.

As an interesting point of information:

I personally know a woman, I shall call her Smith. She divorced Mr. Smith, and became one I shall call a Wilson. After she divorced Mr. Wilson, she returned to being Ms. Smith, as she took back the name of her prior, but divorced, husband. So, Mr. Smith, who has remarried has both a present and a former wife who is a Smith.

Yes, the above is legal in the USA.

Posted by: Pickle Dec 27 2006, 07:24 AM

> QUOTE(Observer @ Dec 27 2006, 04:41 AM)
>
> No doubt about it. Under US law, it was legal.

I think the question was, Was it legal to refer to the children as so-and-so Firestone when they really have the last name Mundall, unless they have been adopted?

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Dec 27 2006, 07:48 AM

> QUOTE(Pickle @ Dec 27 2006, 06:24 AM)
>
> I think the question was, Was it legal to refer to the children as so-and-so Firestone when they really have the last name Mundall, unless they have been adopted?

I don't know if it was legal to refer to Derrell Mundall's children as "Firestone" when their last names are "Mundall". I think the larger questions are:

1. What was the motivation? (Perhaps a stab at rewriting history or building a case of denial?)
2. What does it say about the adults involved?
3. What is the effect of this on Derrell Mundall?

And the largest question, in my mind

4. What is the effect of this on those four children who have already been through such trauma with the fracturing of the family they once knew?

In my opinion it is child abuse and is having a detrimental effect on these children. If they have not been legally adopted by the new husband, and I don't think they have, it is also a blatant lie! I wonder how God feels about that?

Posted by: daylily Dec 27 2006, 07:57 AM

Since Derrel is devoted to his children I doubt they've been adopted.

PB, perhaps not a stab at rewriting history but a stab at Derrell? He has not been well-treated by Danny or Melody

---

Posted by: Uncle Sam Dec 27 2006, 09:01 AM

Two things, I found out Danny denies that he is stepping down...

Also, are you saying when the grandchildren were announced they said the last name was Firestone?

Posted by: Johann Dec 27 2006, 05:50 PM

> QUOTE(Uncle Sam @ Dec 27 2006, 05:01 PM)
>
> Two things, I found out Danny denies that he is stepping down...
>
> Also, are you saying when the grandchildren were announced they said the last name was Firestone?

I am told their individual names were listed in the graphics following the program as . . . Firestone. It is questioned if this is legal as long as Derrell Mundall has not given his consent to it.

A person involved is writing to 3ABN questioning if they cannot be truthful in a minor thing like this, how can 3ABN be trusted as telling the truth in major areas?

Posted by: Daryl Fawcett Dec 27 2006, 07:20 PM

> QUOTE(Uncle Sam @ Dec 27 2006, 11:01 AM)
>
> Two things, I found out Danny denies that he is stepping down...

Well, I guess that answers the question in the title of this topic, therefore, we can now move on to other topics.

Posted by: Ed White Dec 28 2006, 08:44 AM

Speaking of "moving on" in our quest to follow the money trail that motivates most everyone in their decisions to tell the truth or not in fear of loosing the goose that is laying all those golden eggs. Just before Berlin fell & Hitler was already reported dead, all the gold that Germany had stored up was still in its storage place. So history will record that the power that financed this war & most all the world wars before and since then made a move to get this gold before the allied forces did. So here came a train up through the Swiss mountains with a big sign on front with a deceptive title, supposedly having medical supply for the sick & wounded, but in reality it had Spain's finest fighting troops that knew what building the gold was stored. They shot their way to their goal & loaded the gold back on the train and headed south with another deceptive sign in order to get through all the check points. Not sure any of the Spanish troops survived after their services were not need any more.
There's now another train on the tracks [a fast moving one]... & guess who the conductor happens to be? No need to guess as inspiration has already told us.

Posted by: Observer Dec 28 2006, 09:16 AM

> QUOTE(Johann @ Dec 27 2006, 04:50 PM) ☐
>
> I am told their individual names were listed in the graphics following the program as . . . Firestone. It is questioned if this is legal as long as Derrell Mundall has not given his consent to it.
>
> A person involved is writing to 3ABN questioning if they cannot be truthful in a minor thing like this, how can 3ABN be trusted as telling the truth in major areas?

Johann, yes, in the US, it is legal. There is not need to write to 3-ABN. No crime has been committed.

Posted by: Green Cochoa Dec 28 2006, 09:27 AM

Yes, television programs are free to put whatever names to people they so desire; real, pseudonym, or otherwise. However, if the name given to someone is incorrect, they won't generate good will this way. If the name on screen in some way belittled or defamed the individual, then I suppose a lawsuit might ensue.

FCC rules govern profanity (at least they used to enforce this--times are changing). They do not dictate names, or even anything about credits at all. BMI and ASCAP have their own rules for music rights and anything else which is copyright might need to be properly disclosed, but there is no requirement for the individuals on the program to be named, much less with their correct or real names. (This is all based on my limited knowledge of FCC rules for broadcast from some years ago, but I do not know the current rules.)

Posted by: awesumtenor Dec 28 2006, 09:54 AM

> QUOTE(Uncle Sam @ Dec 27 2006, 10:01 AM) ☐
>
> Two things, I found out Danny denies that he is stepping down...

This is not unexpected; anytime it has been suggested or rumored, the first visual in my mind is that of an aged and infirm Charlton Heston at an NRA podium holding a rifle and saying "you wont get [it] unless you pry it from my cold, dead hands"

In His service,
Mr. J

Posted by: Ed White Dec 28 2006, 10:23 AM

> QUOTE(awesumtenor @ Dec 28 2006, 09:54 AM)
>
> This is not unexpected; anytime it has been suggested or rumored, the first visual in my mind is that of an aged and infirm Charlton Heston at an NRA podium holding a rifle and saying "you wont get [it] unless you pry it from my cold, dead hands"
>
> In His service,
> Mr. J

Don't you think the only ones that really truely reconize Danny as a Moses or a Ben Hur is those driving matching baby blue Cad. & their nest is not fully feather yet? But the bible says telling of the eagle mother as she stirs up her soft comfortable nest exposing sharp objects beneath to to inform her brood it's time to be moving on out, they will! As mother always gets her way, just having just a few on the 3ABN board is not enough.

Posted by: Daryl Fawcett Dec 28 2006, 04:02 PM

Isn't this interesting!

We now have two topics about Danny stepping down.

One wasn't enough?

Posted by: daylily Dec 28 2006, 05:07 PM

Ed, that's an interesting tidbit of history that I have never heard before. Thanks for sharing it.

So if Danny isn't stepping down, I wonder what the positive news is that Joe Smith hinted at??

Posted by: Clay Dec 28 2006, 06:21 PM

> QUOTE(Daryl Fawcett @ Dec 28 2006, 04:02 PM)
>
> Isn't this interesting!
>
> We now have two topics about Danny stepping down.
>
> One wasn't enough?

gonna merge them.....

Posted by: Johann Dec 30 2006, 05:11 PM

> QUOTE(Observer @ Dec 28 2006, 05:16 PM)

> Johann, yes, in the US, it is legal. There is not need to write to 3-ABN. No crime has been committed.

The question of naming Darell Mundall's children "Firestone" by 3ABN.

I have been told that at least one Federal Court Case has ruled that it might be illegal because this is an official "forum" and done without the consent of the father -- according to the legal experts.

Johann

Posted by: fallible humanbeing Dec 30 2006, 06:21 PM

> QUOTE(Johann @ Dec 30 2006, 07:11 PM) ☐
>
> The question of naming Darell Mundall's children "Firestone" by 3ABN.
>
> I have been told that at least one Federal Court Case has ruled that it might be illegal because this is an official "forum" and done without the consent of the father -- according to the legal experts.
>
> Johann

I would be interested in this, can you cite case law in regards to it? What level was the case tried at?

- fhb

Posted by: Johann Dec 30 2006, 06:51 PM

> QUOTE(fallible humanbeing @ Dec 31 2006, 02:21 AM) ☐
>
> I would be interested in this, can you cite case law in regards to it? What level was the case tried at?
>
> - fhb

I understand lawyers are investigating.

Posted by: Panama_Pete Dec 30 2006, 08:23 PM

> QUOTE(Johann @ Dec 30 2006, 06:51 PM) ☐
>
> I understand lawyers are investigating.

Johann,

A number of state courts have sited the Presson decision handed down by the Illinois Supreme Court.

The court held that a change in a minor's surname:

"shall be allowed only when the court finds that change is in the best interest of the minor."

The Court added:

"we cannot prevent [the mother] from calling her son [by his stepfather's surname] or by any other name or nickname within her own living room, and no order should be directed towards enjoining her from referring to him by a name other than [that of the father] within the family confines.[[Fn. 15]]

In accordance with these observations, the Illinois Supreme Court directed that the injunction be narrowed so that it merely prevented the mother from using any name other than the child's legal name "in any official records, including school, medical or hospital records or membership applications." [Fn. 16]

Posted by: fallible humanbeing Dec 30 2006, 08:56 PM

QUOTE(Panama_Pete @ Dec 30 2006, 10:23 PM)

Johann,

A number of state courts have sited the Presson decision handed down by the Illinois Supreme Court.

The court held that a change in a minor's surname:

"shall be allowed only when the court finds that change is in the best interest of the minor."

The Court added:

"we cannot prevent [the mother] from calling her son [by his stepfather's surname] or by any other name or nickname within her own living room, and no order should be directed towards enjoining her from referring to him by a name other than [that of the father] within the family confines.[[Fn. 15]]

In accordance with these observations, the Illinois Supreme Court directed that the injunction be narrowed so that it merely prevented the mother from using any name other than the child's legal name "in any official records, including school, medical or hospital records or membership

> applications." [Fn. 16]

So then the question would be, is a credit scroll on a telelvision program "official" in any sort of way? And, what if the biological father has in any way not meet his legal obligations in regards to the children? Are there any qualifiers, any additions in the case or any cases that have built on or added to this decision?

I am not sure that if I were the father that I wouldn't be a bit more than a little upset by this - but, if I hadn't met my obligations do I have the grounds to pursue any legal avenues available to me?

I am not making any claims about the children in questions father - I am very curious.

- fhb

Posted by: Johann Dec 30 2006, 09:02 PM

> QUOTE(Panama_Pete @ Dec 31 2006, 04:23 AM) ☐
>
> Johann,
>
> A number of state courts have sited the Presson decision handed down by the Illinois Supreme Court.
>
> --
>
> The court held that a change in a minor's surname:
>
> "shall be allowed only when the court finds that change is in the best interest of the minor."
>
> The Court added:
>
> "we cannot prevent [the mother] from calling her son [by his stepfather's surname] or by any other name or nickname within her own living room, and no order should be directed towards enjoining her from referring to him by a name other than [that of the father] within the family confines.[[Fn. 15]]
>
> In accordance with these observations, the Illinois Supreme Court directed that the injunction be narrowed so that it merely prevented the mother from using any name other than the child's legal name "in any official records, including school, medical or hospital records or membership applications." [Fn. 16]
>
> --

Thank you. I did not have access to this. So the question then remains if the mother - or anyone else - is permitted to use another name for the children on the 3ABN screen - if that is an official record. Or will 3ABN here claim it hs the right because it is a religious organization?

131

Printable Version of Topic

Click here to view this topic in its original format

BlackSDA _ 3ABN _ 3abn Produce The Evidence

Posted by: calvin Aug 4 2006, 08:56 AM

Below are just a few places In Dr Thompson's letter where "evidence" is noted that 3ABN has that confirms the relationship with Dr. A in Norway was less than professional. So what is the evidence? I have heard it is taped conversations. Why not end this craziness that has been going on for two years? Produce the evidence that you are so reluctant to expose. You have given the evidence to a select few but still questions and rumors abound.

Send the evidence to me at: calvin@blacksda.com I will post it here. I will keep your identity anonymous.

> QUOTE
>
> The relationship Linda had with the Norwegian Dr. was not a normal doctor-patient relationship as she claims. It is true. Linda was very concerned about her son Nathan. He was the vehicle through which the Dr. reached Linda. Our evidence leaves no question that this became much more than a doctor-patient relationship. We know that the long hours on the phone together were not about Nathan and have hard evidence to support this knowledge - nor were times spent together on both sides of the Atlantic. Furthermore, she refused to break it off, even after weeks of pleading with her to do so. We, the board believe the evidence we have clearly justifies the divorce and gives Danny the moral and legal right to remarry. Those in church leadership with whom we have shared some of this evidence agree with us. Out of concern for Linda we have been reluctant to make details public.

Posted by: Rand856 Aug 4 2006, 10:50 AM

Calvin, Good Post......but don't hold your breath. 3ABN can't produce something that don't exist.

Posted by: calvin Aug 4 2006, 11:10 AM

Well, somebody has seen something that is convincing enough for the 3ABN BOD and church leaders to continue to support 3ABN. So what is it?

Posted by: Observer Aug 4 2006, 11:52 AM

> QUOTE(Rand856 @ Aug 4 2006, 09:50 AM)
>
> Calvin, Good Post......but don't hold your breath. 3ABN can't produce something that don't exist.

A major piece of evidence, I believe, is supposed to be a taped telephone conversation in which only one participant in the conversation was taped.

One side is supposed to be evidence? Astounding!

Posted by: lurker Aug 4 2006, 11:59 AM

Someone said and I believe it was Johann who said it - that emails were sent claiming to be from Linda but they didn't fool her friends. Why were they sent when it would be so obvious to her friends that they were faked and not from Linda? Don't you think they were to leave "evidence". Who else had access to Linda's computer, especially during the time she was kept from visiting 3ABN. Now they have the hard drive etc.

Posted by: watchbird Aug 4 2006, 01:54 PM

> QUOTE(calvin @ Aug 4 2006, 11:10 AM)
>
> Well, somebody has seen something that is convincing enough for the 3ABN BOD and church leaders to continue to support 3ABN. So what is it?

Oh that's an easy one..... "Danny says........Danny wants........."
What is more convincing that hearing the voice of "God"?

Strike up the band .... ☒ band.gif ....

"Dan said it, I believe it, and that good enough for me."

Posted by: Panama_Pete Aug 4 2006, 02:49 PM

> QUOTE(calvin @ Aug 4 2006, 12:10 PM)
>
> Well, somebody has seen something that is convincing enough for the 3ABN BOD and church leaders to continue to support 3ABN. So what is it?

It was apparently the Illinois Conference President who moved the 3ABN pastor to Springfield to subjugate Linda Shelton and bring her to heel as the wicked adulterer in the minds of the other Springfield church members.

And the Illinois Conference President sits on the 3ABN Board.

The biggest problem is the one Watchbird mentioned. 3ABN has the Adventist Church's Seal of Approval.

Metaphorically speaking, because the Adventist Church is involved, I think the fast-moving iceberg will be found to have deliberately struck the SS Vasectomy . In other words, the captain of the SS Vasectomy -- with the seal of approval -- can do no wrong.

They're already planning 3ABN satellite seminars in September featuring Dwight Nelson and Doug Batchelor. 3ABN is mentioned as a partner. The spots are running on 3ABN. I think this photo represents the official Adventist Church's "ONE WAY" position:

☒ IPB Image

I think the verdict is already in, it's just that the trial hasn't happened.

Posted by: sonshineonme Aug 4 2006, 04:37 PM

> QUOTE(calvin @ Aug 4 2006, 10:10 AM) ☐
>
> Well, somebody has seen something that is convincing enough for the 3ABN BOD and church leaders to continue to support 3ABN. So what is it?

Well Calvin, you're forgetting the real problem. NO ONE saw ANYTHING. THEY only HEARD Danny. They HEARD what John and others were to SAY to them - all of it 2nd hand, and NO ONE WAS WILLING to HEAR LINDA or anyone else BEFORE they made their judgement. And if you keep in mind, the board there at 3abn is not like a "normal" board. They are for appearances only. They play a literal roll, a figurement. They are not like the board in your church, or other independant ministries such as Amazing facts. They are structured for a total different purpose. If you only visited your mother once or twice a year, and she talked to you for 1 hour, had you sign papers you had to sign, and you left, really how much would you know after that about what was going on in her neighborhood? Nothing. You would only be interested in what she had to say and what she needed you to sign, and you are on your way, you did your good deed as a figurehead. That was your only task. Nothing more. You are only a necessary party for "legal" reasons where your face and sig are needed. And besides, he's God's chosen, who are we to question??? Good'ole SDA thinking???

It was VERY clear to MANY that the only reason it was happening the way it was with Linda and Danny, was because "the president doesn't want his vice-president any more, period". I am quoting. Church leaders didn't want to get involved - their tendency is not to till they HAVE to. Well, they are having to now, like it or not, and now we shall see just how they hold their responsiblity to the rest of the church. Keep your eyes open...it's happening.

Posted by: Freedom Aug 4 2006, 06:11 PM

Isn't it ILLEGAL to tape a phone conversation without the consent of both parties?
My understanding is that it is illegal.

Freedom

> QUOTE(Observer @ Aug 4 2006, 10:52 AM) ☐
>
> A major piece of evidence, I believe, is supposed to be a taped telephone conversation in which only one participant in the conversation was taped.
>
> One side is supposed to be evidence? Astounding!

Posted by: Panama_Pete Aug 4 2006, 06:44 PM

> QUOTE(Freedom @ Aug 4 2006, 07:11 PM) ☐
>
> Isn't it ILLEGAL to tape a phone conversation without the consent of both parties?
> My understanding is that it is illegal.
>
> Freedom

You could tape my phone calls until the cows come home and never hear anything of interest. However, you could make a transcript and include explanations of every comment that sound very damning.

Pete: "Hey Fred, I'm leaving for Wal-Mart now."

(That late-nite trip to Wal-Mart, that's where Pete meets the drug dealer, everybody.)

Pete: I've got to pick up some Claritin-D.

(This is an important ingredient for people with meth labs.)

Pete: I'm feeling a little under the weather, Fred.

(Fred is one of the other dealers downline.)

Pete: I've got a big day tomorrow and I need some sleep.

(A "big day" is code for when drugs are being smuggled into the country.)

This is sort of what I understand happened to Linda. "Explanatory comments" were apparently added to her phone call, prepared as a transcript, and then sent out.

Posted by: watchbird Aug 4 2006, 06:54 PM

> QUOTE(Freedom @ Aug 4 2006, 06:11 PM)
>
> Isn't it ILLEGAL to tape a phone conversation without the consent of both parties?
> My understanding is that it is illegal.
>
> Freedom

Don't really understand the applications of your question. I mean .... look at it this way .... why would someone who itotally focused on finding something that will give him the "legal right" to marry his sweet little cutie pie, care about whether taping a phone conversation is "illegal" or not? Pu-lease! Don't confuse us with such "legal" technicalities.

Posted by: sonshineonme Aug 4 2006, 07:04 PM

> QUOTE(Panama_Pete @ Aug 4 2006, 05:44 PM)
>
> You could tape my phone calls until the cows come home and never hear anything of interest. However, you could make a transcript and include explanations of every comment that sound very damning.
>
> Pete: "Hey Fred, I'm leaving for Wal-Mart now."
>
> (That late-nite trip to Wal-Mart, that's where Pete meets the drug dealer, everybody.)
>
> Pete: I've got to pick up some Claritin-D.
>
> (This is an important ingredient for people with meth labs.)
>
> Pete: I'm feeling a little under the weather, Fred.
>
> (Fred is one of the other dealers downline.)
>
> Pete: I've got a big day tomorrow and I need some sleep.
>
> (A "big day" is code for when drugs are being smuggled into the country.)
>
> This is sort of what I understand happened to Linda. "Explanatory comments" were apparently added to her phone call, prepared as a transcript, and then sent out.

PEERRRRRFECT analogy. I love analogies...they just seem to cut to the chase, don't they?

Posted by: LadyTenor Aug 6 2006, 11:34 AM

> QUOTE(Freedom @ Aug 4 2006, 07:11 PM)
>
> Isn't it ILLEGAL to tape a phone conversation without the consent of both parties?
> My understanding is that it is illegal.
>
> Freedom

Only in certain states is that illegal...and it is ALWAYS illegal if the gov't is doing it ABSENT A LEGALLY SUFFICIENT WARRANT...

Posted by: watchbird Aug 8 2006, 04:45 PM

> QUOTE(LadyTenor @ Aug 6 2006, 11:34 AM)
>
> Only in certain states is that illegal...and it is ALWAYS illegal if the gov't is doing it ABSENT A LEGALLY SUFFICIENT WARRANT...

An interesting comment, LadyT. Maybe you could push this a little further so as to answer a nagging little question that's been sitting on a stool in the corner of my mind for a long long time ....

OK ... you have made a distinction between legal and illegal in two different ways..... what state one is in, and whether itis the "gov't" vs (I suppose) an ordinary citizen.

Now here's another "distinction" I'd like you to address. I had always thought that taping a phone conversation was, by definition, a recording of both sides of the conversation, that which is coming over the phone line as well as what can be heard in the room. It has also been my understanding that to place such a recording device on your own phone, was not illegal.

But if there is no recording device picking up the incoming voice, then I really don't see how it has anything to do wih legal vs illegal. It is not illegal to record what is being said in your own home, is it?

Posted by: Freedom Aug 8 2006, 07:36 PM

But after Linda moved and was in her OWN trailer, didn't Danny planted listening devices and still record phone conversations?

The trailer wasn't his so......

Freedom

> QUOTE(watchbird @ Aug 8 2006, 02:45 PM) ☐
>
> An interesting comment, LadyT. Maybe you could push this a little further so as to answer a nagging little question that's been sitting on a stool in the corner of my mind for a long long time ....
>
> OK ... you have made a distinction between legal and illegal in two different ways..... what state one is in, and whether itis the "gov't" vs (I suppose) an ordinary citizen.
>
> Now here's another "distinction" I'd like you to address. I had always thought that taping a phone conversation was, by definition, a recording of both sides of the conversation, that which is coming over the phone line as well as what can be heard in the room. It has also been my understanding that to place such a recording device on your own phone, was not illegal.
>
> But if there is no recording device picking up the incoming voice, then I really don't see how it has anything to do wih legal vs illegal. It is not illegal to record what is being said in your own home, is it?

Posted by: fallible humanbeing Aug 11 2006, 09:19 PM

Calvin,

I hope you will forgive the reference to the first post in this thread. I started reading this discussion board months ago and just recently decided to dig in here and see if there is any truth here.

Let's presuppose for a minute that there is hard evidence (and you can't say just because it hasn't been provided to you that it doesn't exist - faulty logic) what if it would leave Linda in a heap, revealing more than has been projected to this point. Do you want to be part of that? Do you want to be part of an even more devestating experience for Linda?

Is it possible (and I only ask the question, this is not a statement) that what you have been told by Linda and her closest allies is not completely accurate, not completely the truth, but was spun and couched before it was presented to you? Is this possible - or have you unequivocably removed any possiblity for inaccuracies? Have you sat across the table from both Danny and Linda in order to arrive at this conclusion? I think this would be important. I haven't so I can't say one way or the other. But I sure would like the chance - which of course I don't think I will ever be privy to.

- fallible

> QUOTE(calvin @ Aug 4 2006, 09:56 AM) ☐

> Below are just a few places In Dr Thompson's letter where "evidence" is noted that 3ABN has that confirms the relationship with Dr. A in Norway was less than professional. So what is the evidence? I have heard it is taped conversations. Why not end this craziness that has been going on for two years? Produce the evidence that you are so reluctant to expose. You have given the evidence to a select few but still questions and rumors abound.
>
> Send the evidence to me at: calvin@blacksda.com I will post it here. I will keep your identity anonymous.

Posted by: PrincessDrRe Aug 11 2006, 09:36 PM

> QUOTE(sonshineonme @ Aug 4 2006, 08:04 PM)
>
> PEERRRRRFECT analogy. I love analogies...they just seem to cut to the chase, don't they?

Analogies are de bomb!

> QUOTE(Freedom @ Aug 4 2006, 07:11 PM)
>
> Isn't it ILLEGAL to tape a phone conversation without the consent of both parties?
> My understanding is that it is illegal.
>
> Freedom

> QUOTE(LadyTenor @ Aug 6 2006, 12:34 PM)
>
> Only in certain states is that illegal...and it is ALWAYS illegal if the gov't is doing it ABSENT A LEGALLY SUFFICIENT WARRANT...

She be de ler-yer!

> QUOTE(fallible humanbeing @ Aug 11 2006, 10:19 PM)
>
> ...I hope you will forgive the reference to the first post in this thread. I started reading this discussion board months ago and just recently decided to dig in here and see if there is any truth here.
>
> Let's presuppose for a minute that there is hard evidence (and you can't say just because it hasn't been provided to you that it doesn't exist - faulty logic) what if it would leave Linda in a heap, revealing more than has been projected to this point. Do you want to be part of that? Do you want to be part of an even more devestating experience for Linda?
>
> Is it possible (and I only ask the question, this is not a statement) that what you have been told by > Linda and her closest allies is not completely accurate, not completely the truth, but was spun and couched before it was presented to you? Is this possible - or have you unequivocably removed any possiblity for inaccuracies? Have you sat across the table from both Danny and Linda in order to arrive at this conclusion? I think this would be important. I haven't so I can't say one way or the other. But I sure would like the chance - which of course I don't think I will ever be privy to.

>
> - fallible

Fallible - (interesting name choice)

I want the truth. At the rate it is going thus far - there is nothing....NOTHING that can be said that will hurt Linda worse. Now....let's flip your script....

What if it comes out that everything that Danny has said "is not completely accurate, not completely the truth, but was spun and couched before it was presented to"....um...the world?

You say that you haven't sat across from the table from Danny and Linda - neither have I...but I wasn't bern (born) yesterday...and one thing I know.....

Boo-Boo stanks. I don't have to take a "big inhale" to see if it "still stanks"....

If something doesn't sound quite right, or looks a bit cock-eyed chances are there is some hot mess on toast ("inaccuracies")....

☒ sn

Posted by: sonshineonme Aug 11 2006, 10:03 PM

> QUOTE(PrincessDrRe @ Aug 11 2006, 08:36 PM)
>
> Analogies are de bomb!
>
> ☒
>
> She be de ler-yer!

> Fallible - (interesting name choice)
>
> I want the truth. At the rate it is going thus far - there is nothing....NOTHING that can be said that will hurt Linda worse. Now....let's flip your script....
>
> What if it comes out that everything that Danny has said "is not completely accurate, not completely the truth, but was spun and couched before it was presented to"....um...the world?
>
> You say that you haven't sat across from the table from Danny and Linda - neither have I...but I wasn't bern (born) yesterday...and one thing I know.....
>
> Boo-Boo stanks. I don't have to take a "big inhale" to see if it "still stanks"....
>
> If something doesn't sound quite right, or looks a bit cock-eyed chances are there is some hot mess on toast ("inaccuracies")....

Well put 'PrincessDrRe! and thanks for the laugh too (boo-boo stanks!! - I smell plenty of it round these parts lately).

Posted by: calvin Aug 11 2006, 10:06 PM

> QUOTE(fallible humanbeing @ Aug 11 2006, 09:19 PM)
>
> Calvin,
>
> I hope you will forgive the reference to the first post in this thread. I started reading this discussion board months ago and just recently decided to dig in here and see if there is any truth here.
>
> Let's presuppose for a minute that there is hard evidence (and you can't say just because it hasn't been provided to you that it doesn't exist - faulty logic) what if it would leave Linda in a heap, revealing more than has been projected to this point. Do you want to be part of that? Do you want to be part of an even more devestating experience for Linda?
>
> Is it possible (and I only ask the question, this is not a statement) that what you have been told by Linda and her closest allies is not completely accurate, not completely the truth, but was spun and couched before it was presented to you? Is this possible - or have you unequivocably removed any possiblity for inaccuracies? Have you sat across the table from both Danny and Linda in order to arrive at this conclusion? I think this would be important. I haven't so I can't say one way or the other. But I sure would like the chance - which of course I don't think I will ever be privy to.
>
> - fallible

Look, I am willing to follow truth wherever it may lead, it that leaves Linda in a heap of trouble, then so be it. I have been told this too by those close to 3abn (not anyone here) they want to spare Linda from embarrassment, as you have alluded to. That is a pretty weak argument. Considering that 3abn is in full damage control mode, salvaging what is can from the ministry, blatantly begging for money and calling out Danny's accusers as liars. They could end much of this craziness now by coming forward with the evidence of Linda cheating. Instead we heard that Danny is taking a leave of absent, uh vacation for three months that only leaves to more speculation.

Too your second paragraph: All this is possible and I continue to ask questions of everyone involved.

Posted by: fallible humanbeing Aug 11 2006, 10:07 PM

PDR,

So true, the question runs both ways - however, this venue has made it's choice clear so not having been able to find what I feel is the "whole truth and nothing but the truth" I show up here to gleen what I can and add to what I have here-to-fore.

I sure hope that my moniker isn't an impedement to my engaging you in discussion - it just seems an obvious choice for any human being on the face of this earth.

I have heard some tough stuff about Linda - reiterated here (in a defensive posture), but I can imagine worse. I have heard the cloak room rumors and there is still worse that could be leveled. Not that there is something - but one can imagine worse.

But, I would have to flip your coin and say that over the past two years the same could be said of some of the things I have heard coming from the Linda camp. Doesn't sit right - the gut reacts with a bit of queasiness. Sorry if that doesn't put me "on the team" - but this is the truth as I know it, I have heard things that do not sit right.

So let me know when I am "in the club" and can actually begin to ask questions regardless of whether I side with you or not. I want to know just as much as anyone else.

- fallible

> QUOTE(PrincessDrRe @ Aug 11 2006, 10:36 PM)
>
> Fallible - (interesting name choice)
>
> I want the truth. At the rate it is going thus far - there is nothing....NOTHING that can be said that will hurt Linda worse. Now....let's flip your script....
>
> What if it comes out that everything that Danny has said "is not completely accurate, not completely the truth, but was spun and couched before it was presented to"....um...the world?
>
> You say that you haven't sat across from the table from Danny and Linda - neither have I...but I wasn't bern (born) yesterday...and one thing I know.....
>
> Boo-Boo stanks. I don't have to take a "big inhale" to see if it "still stanks"....
>
> If something doesn't sound quite right, or looks a bit cock-eyed chances are there is some hot mess on toast ("inaccuracies")....

Posted by: fallible humanbeing Aug 11 2006, 10:20 PM

Calvin,

Thank you again. Is it possible that those at 3ABN who have shared this with you may truly want to spare Linda any more grief and stress? How is that a weak argument? It may very well leave them open for speculation, but what if they truly do want to spare her?

As far as 3ABN being in damage control - I can't imagine that there aren't those who are in fear for the ministry of God being brought down. Is there any way to deny the truth that this ministy has truly lead many to the feet of the cross and introduced them to the truth of the love of our Saviour?

It is human nature to be defensive - isn't this section of this discussion board an exercise of defensive in Linda's behalf? Is there a balance - even an admission that nothing ever happens in a relationship in a one sided manner. Is there always one person who has been perfect and one who has not when divorce becomes the course of the relationship?

Why is it so unimaginable that Danny is taking a vacation? What if you (suspend for a moment whether he is guilty or not) had had to deal with this perpetual attack on your character and your lifes ministry for two years, do you think you would want to take a breather, a rest, to meet with your God in the solitude that can only be found out of the limelight? He could have stayed and avoided the potential speculation and innuendo that would follow making that decision, but he decided to take a break - does that convict, certainly not in any court of common sense. Why make a statement (bolded/underlined below) like this, wait, hold the judgement and lets see if he comes back and if he does what his spirit is - let's let the Holy Spirit comfort and lead him (just as we hope the same for Linda).

- fallible

> QUOTE(calvin @ Aug 11 2006, 11:06 PM)
>
> Look, I am willing to follow truth wherever it may lead, it that leaves Linda in a heap of trouble, then so be it. I have been told this too by those close to 3abn (not anyone here) they want to spare Linda from embarrassment, as you have alluded to. That is a pretty weak argument. Considering that 3abn is in full damage control mode, salvaging what is can from the ministry, blatantly begging for money and calling out Danny's accusers as liars. They could end much of this craziness now by coming forward with the evidence of Linda cheating. Instead we heard that Danny is taking a leave of absent, uh vacation for three months that only leaves to more speculation.
>
> Too your second paragraph: All this is possible and I continue to ask questions of everyone involved.

Posted by: awesumtenor Aug 11 2006, 10:20 PM

> QUOTE(fallible humanbeing @ Aug 11 2006, 11:07 PM)
>
> So let me know when I am "in the club" and can actually begin to ask questions regardless of whether I side with you or not. I want to know just as much as anyone else.
>
> - fallible

If you arent seeing anyone about this persecution complex you continue to manifest, there are several mental health professionals on the forum who could help you with that...

Ask nicely and you might even get a discount.

In His service,
Mr. J

Posted by: fallible humanbeing Aug 11 2006, 10:24 PM

AT,

Thank you so much for supporting my point so clearly for me. Maybe we can have a dialogue now.

- fallible

> QUOTE(awesumtenor @ Aug 11 2006, 11:20 PM) ☐
>
> If you arent seeing anyone about this persecution complex you continue to manifest, there are several mental health professionals on the forum who could help you with that...
>
> Ask nicely and you might even get a discount.
>
> In His service,
> Mr. J

Posted by: awesumtenor Aug 11 2006, 11:05 PM

> QUOTE(fallible humanbeing @ Aug 12 2006, 12:24 AM) ☐
>
> AT,
>
> Thank you so much for supporting my point so clearly for me. Maybe we can have a dialogue now.
>
> - fallible

Only if you omit the whine; I gave up drinking that stuff a long time ago...

No, I'm not drinking the kool-aid you're trying to cook up either, Mr. Jones... no matter how hot it gets in the Guyana sun...

In His service,
Mr. J

Posted by: awesumtenor Aug 11 2006, 11:17 PM

> QUOTE(fallible humanbeing @ Aug 12 2006, 12:20 AM) ☐
>
> Is there any way to deny the truth that this ministy has truly lead many to the feet of the cross and introduced them to the truth of the love of our Saviour?

That does not in the least make 3ABN God-ordained in any wise:

Mat 7:22 Many will say to me in that day, Lord, Lord, have we not prophesied in thy name and in thy name have cast out devils? and in thy name done many wonderful works? 23 And then will I profess unto them, I never knew you: depart from me, ye that work iniquity.

Even Judas healed the sick and cast out devils... didn't stop him from betraying Christ, however... nor did his having done it grant him any special dispensation...Paul admonishes us in 1Cor 9 to maintain discipline in the practice of our faith " lest that by any means, when I have preached to others, I myself should be a castaway. "

There's a lesson in that for those who have ears to hear...

In His service,
Mr. J

Posted by: PrincessDrRe Aug 11 2006, 11:18 PM

> QUOTE(fallible humanbeing @ Aug 11 2006, 11:07 PM)
>
> PDR,
>
> So true, the question runs both ways - however, this venue has made it's choice clear so not having been able to find what I feel is the "whole truth and nothing but the truth" I show up here to gleen what I can and add to what I have here-to-fore.
>
> I sure hope that my moniker isn't an impedement to my engaging you in discussion - it just seems an obvious choice for any human being on the face of this earth.
>
> I have heard some tough stuff about Linda - reiterated here (in a defensive posture), but I can imagine worse. I have heard the cloak room rumors and there is still worse that could be leveled. Not that there is something - but one can imagine worse.
>
> But, I would have to flip your coin and say that over the past two years the same could be said of some of the things I have heard coming from the Linda camp. Doesn't sit right - the gut reacts with a bit of queasiness. Sorry if that doesn't put me "on the team" - but this is the truth as I know it, I have heard things that do not sit right.
>
> So let me know when I am "in the club" and can actually begin to ask questions regardless of whether I side with you or not. I want to know just as much as anyone else.
>
> - fallible

1st point - Both sides have been presented here....those that are "for" Danny - those that are "for" Linda. This is actually one of the few places that has the extensive (free) view of both sides. However the difference is that LINDA HERSELF has never came here and said one bad thing about DANNY. Now - since I can honestly take it that you haven't read ALL the 3ABN threads - you would not know that....

You may have heard something coming from the "camp" - but from the actual person? Only Danny been having the "runnin' off of de mouth." Just as my Mother told me long ago - "The truth don't have to yell....." Why is Danny yelling?

2nd point - As for "the club"...... You can ask a question. Just be prepared to get an answer you may not like.

3rd point - Now - your name....

Hey - you pick what you want for a name...
http://education.yahoo.com/reference/dictionary/entry/fallible<<---Click Here!
...but this says that you could be "wrong" - yet when people tell you that you could be "wrong" you get upset..... maybe you should change your moniker to "slightly infallible" or "somewhat infallible in a sense at times".....

Posted by: sonshineonme Aug 11 2006, 11:31 PM

> QUOTE(fallible humanbeing @ Aug 11 2006, 09:07 PM)
>
> PDR,
>
> So true, the question runs both ways - however, this venue has made it's choice clear so not having been able to find what I feel is the "whole truth and nothing but the truth" I show up here to gleen what I can and add to what I have here-to-fore.
>
> I sure hope that my moniker isn't an impedement to my engaging you in discussion - it just seems an obvious choice for any human being on the face of this earth.
>
> I have heard some tough stuff about Linda - reiterated here (in a defensive posture), but I can imagine worse. I have heard the cloak room rumors and there is still worse that could be leveled. Not that there is something - but one can imagine worse.
>
> But, I would have to flip your coin and say that over the past two years the same could be said of some of the things I have heard coming from the Linda camp. Doesn't sit right - the gut reacts with a bit of queasiness. Sorry if that doesn't put me "on the team" - but this is the truth as I know it, I have heard things that do not sit right.
>
> So let me know when I am "in the club" and can actually begin to ask questions regardless of whether I side with you or not. I want to know just as much as anyone else.
>
> - fallible

It's obvious, this aint about asking questions....

Posted by: fallible humanbeing Aug 11 2006, 11:48 PM

Okay, point 1: If what we are going to claim as balance is evidenced by the pinned material what do we have?

- Dr. Abrahamsen letter
- Dr Thompson letter

- The Unauthorized 3ABN History
- The Televangalist

Now, I know there are purported emails form various individuals (including Danny and Kay Kuzma), but if what is official here are the above documents that doesn't strike me as balance. Show me the balance - direct me where I will find it and I will re-read anything you send me to.

So then Danny has come here and defamed Linda (<- seeking insight, knowledge, information, proof)? How is what is here not yelling from the Linda camp?

Point 2: My dad taught me to ask questions of anyone, God included, but be prepared for the answer. I have no problem with that - but I reserve the right to weigh it in the balance against all I have heard thus far and see what happens.

Point 3: in the spiritual sense I am fallible - according to The American Heritage® Dictionary of the English Language, Fourth Edition the word is defined as: "Capable of making an error" and Princeton University's Wordnet defines it this way: "having the attributes of man as opposed to e.g. divine beings; "I'm only human"; "frail humanity". Seems to fit humankind.

- fallible

> QUOTE(PrincessDrRe @ Aug 12 2006, 12:18 AM)
>
> 1st point - Both sides have been presented here....those that are "for" Danny - those that are "for" Linda. This is actually one of the few places that has the extensive (free) view of both sides. However the difference is that LINDA HERSELF has never came here and said one bad thing about DANNY. Now - since I can honestly take it that you haven't read ALL the 3ABN threads - you would not know that....
>
> You may have heard something coming from the "camp" - but from the actual person? Only Danny been having the "runnin' off of de mouth." Just as my Mother told me long ago - "The truth don't have to yell....." Why is Danny yelling?
>
> 2nd point - As for "the club"...... You can ask a question. Just be prepared to get an answer you may not like.
>
> 3rd point - Now - your name....
>
> Hey - you pick what you want for a name...
> http://education.yahoo.com/reference/dictionary/entry/fallible<<---Click Here!
> ...but this says that you could be "wrong" - yet when people tell you that you could be "wrong" you get upset..... maybe you should change your moniker to "slightly infallible" or "somewhat infallible in a sense at times".....

Posted by: princessdi Aug 11 2006, 11:49 PM

No, it is not, Sonshine. It is about "getting" information, and a desperate, last resort attempt at that. We need to shut down this ride, also.

> QUOTE(sonshineonme @ Aug 11 2006, 10:31 PM)
>
> It's obvious, this aint about asking questions....

Posted by: Hersheys99 Aug 11 2006, 11:55 PM

> QUOTE
>
> No, it is not, Sonshine. It is about "getting" information, and a desperate, last resort attempt at that. We need to shut down this ride, also.

Right on pernt Di!!

Posted by: inga Aug 12 2006, 12:34 AM

> QUOTE(PrincessDrRe @ Aug 12 2006, 12:18 AM)
>
> 3rd point - Now - your name....
>
> Hey - you pick what you want for a name...
> http://education.yahoo.com/reference/dictionary/entry/fallible<<---Click Here!
> ...but this says that you could be "wrong" - yet when people tell you that you could be "wrong" you get upset..... maybe you should change your moniker to "slightly infallible" or "somewhat infallible in a sense at times".....

You said it, PrincessDrRe!

Or maybe "quite infallible human being."

Posted by: Clay Aug 12 2006, 01:10 AM

> QUOTE(fallible humanbeing @ Aug 11 2006, 11:48 PM) ☐
>
> Okay, point 1: If what we are going to claim as balance is evidenced by the pinned material what do we have?
>
> - Dr. Abrahamsen letter
> - Dr Thompson letter
> - The Unauthorized 3ABN History
> - The Televangalist
>
> Now, I know there are purported emails form various individuals (including Danny and Kay Kuzma), but if what is official here are the above documents that doesn't strike me as balance. Show me the balance - direct me where I will find it and I will re-read anything you send me to.
>
> So then Danny has come here and defamed Linda (<- seeking insight, knowledge, information, proof)? How is what is here not yelling from the Linda camp?
>
> Point 2: My dad taught me to ask questions of anyone, God included, but be prepared for the answer. I have no problem with that - but I reserve the right to weigh it in the balance against all I have heard thus far and see what happens.
>
> Point 3: in the spiritual sense I am fallible - according to The American Heritage® Dictionary of the English Language, Fourth Edition the word is defined as: "Capable of making an error" and Princeton University's Wordnet defines it this way: "having the attributes of man as opposed to e.g. divine beings; "I'm only human"; "frail humanity". Seems to fit humankind.
>
> - fallible

well I emailed Kay Kuzma myself and posted the response.... so either you don't believe I did that, or you do.... there is no reason for me to lie, so if you think it didnt happen you believe I am lying, then I guess there is not much more I need to say to you.... the stuff from Danny was sent to Calvin, either you believe it or you don't....

Again let's start at the beginning.... you answer this question, is there such a thing as spiritual adultery? Should spiritual adultery be used as grounds for divorce?

With all your reading you still have missed the basic fact, even IF Linda did everything she was accused of doing, she should NOT have been treated as she was.... that is the bottom line...

As for your other issues.... hope they get resolved....

Posted by: watchbird Aug 12 2006, 06:20 AM

> QUOTE(fallible humanbeing @ Aug 11 2006, 11:48 PM) ☐
>
> Okay, point 1: If what we are going to claim as balance is evidenced by the pinned material what do we have?
>
> - Dr. Abrahamsen letter
> - Dr Thompson letter
> - The Unauthorized 3ABN History

> - The Televangalist
>
> Now, I know there are purported emails form various individuals (including Danny and Kay Kuzma), but if what is official here are the above documents that doesn't strike me as balance. Show me the balance - direct me where I will find it and I will re-read anything you send me to. ......

- Dr. Abrahamsen letter
- Dr Thompson letter

Two letters ... written about the same time, covering approximately the same period of history, from obviously two sides. Perfect balance.

- The Unauthorized 3ABN History

A very long thread that was cut into 10 chapters, the post that is pinned is nothing more than a collection of urls to the beginning piont of each chapter. Ample opportunity for anyone to post anything on either side ... thus balanced.

- The Televangalist

A document written in a "fictionalized" style (as contrasted with its contents being fiction in the sense of untrue). But it is not pinned ... which rather points out that you are indeed "fallible".... in very obvious ways. So don't be surprised if no one here takes you very seriously.

Posted by: Panama_Pete Dec 29 2006, 09:12 AM

> QUOTE(watchbird @ Aug 8 2006, 04:45 PM)
>
> Now here's another "distinction" I'd like you to address. I had always thought that taping a phone conversation was, by definition, a recording of both sides of the conversation, that which is coming over the phone line as well as what can be heard in the room. It has also been my understanding that to place such a recording device on your own phone, was not illegal.
>
> But if there is no recording device picking up the incoming voice, then I really don't see how it has anything to do wih legal vs illegal. It is not illegal to record what is being said in your own home, is it?

I'm not sure if this item was addressed, as requested.

I understand there is a transcript of a phone call.

Looking at a prepared transcript of one-half of a phone call, how could a third party, know how the evidence was collected? Lawyers shun suspect evidence because their malpractice insurance doesn't cover illegal wiretapping.

More at this link on one and two-party consent:

http://www.pimall.com/nais/n.recordlaw.html

"The question is often asked by clients if they can record the telephone conversations of their spouse in a domestic case or the conversations of their children concerning drug usage. In both of these cases, the answer is it's unlawful. Many clients will complain that they own the telephone and pay the telephone bill so they should therefore have a right to record what they want. However, the law doesn't address who owns the phone nor who pays the phone bill. It only addresses the use of one party and all party consent. Anything outside of that is a violation of state law and federal wiretapping law."

"The Federal Communications Commission goes further into details on recording telephone conversations and states that the party recording must give verbal notification before the recording and that there must be a beep tone on the line to indicate that the line is being recorded ."

Posted by: Pickle Dec 29 2006, 11:11 AM

Please note that in Illinois recordings cannot legally be made without permission of any type of conversation, not just phone conversations.

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Dec 29 2006, 01:23 PM

FHB,
Dear, you have been "in the club" since August 10, 2006. This 3abn Forum on BlackSDA.com has been set aside by Calvin, a self-professed neutral party in the matter as I recall, for open discussion of 3abn by those who wish to dialogue about the varied matters of this ministry.

There are many sides represented here and each one has voice. Just listen and question and verify with that sharp mind of yours. I believe we will all eventually get to the truth of the matter.

132

Printable Version of Topic

Click here to view this topic in its original format

BlackSDA _ 3ABN _ An Unauthorized History of 3ABN

Posted by: sister May 22 2006, 05:17 PM

The Dollar Store and the Legend of Plungie...

For the 3ABN workers and the other impoverished residents of Franklin County, even a trip with your kids to the Dollar Store can be a rare treat. This emporium of astonishing merchandise, gathered from unknown locations, is a shopping paradise for the working poor. Located in a strip mall in West Frankfort, anchored at one end by K-Mart and the other end by Krogers supermarket, many have walked its aisles seeking both bargains and treasures among it's innumerable items.

Today the cashier looks up to see what is obviously a father and his four children. No suggestion can be seriously entertained as to the paternity of these children, you see his physical characteristics reflected dominantly in each one of them. Upon closer inspection of this chief and his little tribe, the countenance of the father's face and his demeanor as he interacts with his children, makes his love for them quite evident.

Slipping a dollar bill into each of their small hands and following close behind, he has instructed them to choose a special toy for themselves. As a scurry of small feet makes a beeline directly to the toy aisle, with a look of amusement on his face he observes them searching, as if for hidden treasure. One by one, they come up to him their faces beaming as they proudly present before him the results of their painstaking search. He smiles and comments on each purchase and then as the last of the four approaches him, his expression changes immediately from pleasure to surprise. Clutched majestically in his son's hand is a toilet plunger. Kneeling down next to his child, he gently lays his hand on his shoulder and says, "Son, the dollar was meant as a gift for you to choose a special toy." Searching his son's face, he asks him, "Do you know what this is for? Ah, well, it is used for the potty..." An interesting discussion ensues between father and son, resulting in his son marching proudly up to the cashier, handing her his dollar and walking out of the store with his Daddy, sister and two brothers in tow. Like a conductor skillfully brandishing his baton before a philharmonic orchestra, this boy proudly leads his family through the parking lot, to the enthusiastic maneuvers of his newest toy: a bathroom toilet plunger.

Before their arrival at their father's modest abode, the unusual new "toy" had already been christened "Plungie". Now to the amazement of the rest of the family, Plungie has become the constant companion of Justin. With the expert movements that are usually reserved only for swordsmen of the caliber of Robin Hood or Zorro; Justin thrusts and parries, bringing Plungie into contact with every available surface: all areas of the car, windows, doors, the TV set, and the computer monitor. No flat, concave or convex surface is safe from the Plungie invasion.

At the end of their visit the children return to their mother's home. Alighting from the car, Justin runs up to his mother, excited to show her all the things he has learned to do with his new toy. He has already realized that it is an excellent way to open the refrigerator door and to pick up certain selected objects from the floor.

Probably the greatest exploit in the history of Plungie, to date, was when Justin took his toy and constant companion to a Thompsonville function at the 3ABN school gym. Brandishing Plungie before him as he entered the crowded room, like Moses raising his staff and parting the red sea, a path was instantly cleared before Justin. Being ignorant of the facts, the good folks of the Thompsonville SDA church kept telling him to take that "germy, dirty thing" back to the gym's mens room where he had found it. But laughing and running around the gym together, Justin and Plungie were having too good of a time to be insulted by these callous remarks. In pure joy, to the extreme displeasure of the good folk assembled at that event, Plungie accompanied Justin for the entire evening.

Postscript: The father of these four children lost his job at 3ABN because, when God opened his eyes and gave him insight to see what was really happening and the corruption he had become involved in supporting, he was no longer willing to participate in doing Danny's bidding "behind the scenes" at 3ABN. This resulted in him quitting his job on moral grounds. Hoping that would be the end of Danny Shelton's intrigues in his life, instead he found out that it was only the beginning. By Danny's word he was branded a "pathological liar" and other labels were applied, equally untrue, each more heinous than the last. You might think that being the father of Danny Shelton's beloved grandchildren would afford some favorable consideration, wouldn't you? If you believe that, then you haven't been paying very close attention as we look "behind the scenes" at 3ABN...

Stay tuned...

Posted by: Clay May 22 2006, 06:43 PM

> QUOTE(vonessa @ May 22 2006, 03:38 PM)
>
> Obviously what is happening is of satanic origin and is being promoted by Satan's servant Danny Shelton. If it is this evil, then it must be stopped. We cannot let Satan have free reign over something that is done in the name of our Lord.

Vonessa..... stop with the accusations of what Mr. Shelton may or may not be..... evil is done everyday in the name of God... probably right in the neighborhood in which you live.... perhaps you might start your crusade there...

> QUOTE(vonessa @ May 22 2006, 04:21 PM)
>
> The conglomeration of the situation with which we are dealing is most certainly not of God. If what has been said by those who know (and not just those who claim to know) is true, then we have a satanic agency at work at 3ABN. That is the bottom line, pure and simple.
>
> If you would prefer to dance all over it and pretend not to know who is behind the constant evil clouds described by Sister, Johann, Fran, and others, then so be it. If we want to do this right we must call it like it is. Evil like this does not come from God - it comes from Satan. Cooperating with this type of evil does not come from God - it comes from Satan.
>
> I do not need to see the books of Satan to know that we are dealing with supernatural evil here based on the statements of our brothers and sisters. If you want to pretend that it's God doing this, then go ahead. But that is ignorant. Until we understand where all this comes from, everything we do is irrelevant.
>
> The place to stop a poisoned stream is not at the faucet - it's at the source. Evil is as evil does.

Until it is proven it is a person or person's perspective of what they experienced at 3BN.... since we have not heard the other side of all of this and yes most stories have at least two sides, we cannot rush to judgement.....While you may think Mr. Shelton is evil incarnate based on the stories shared so far, please note that those telling the stories could have an agenda to turn public opinion against him.... To not consider other possibilities is also ignorant....

Posted by: beartrap May 22 2006, 07:41 PM

> QUOTE(sister @ May 22 2006, 06:17 PM)
>
> The Dollar Store and the Legend of Plungie...
> For the 3ABN workers and the other impoverished residents of Franklin County, even a trip with your kids to the Dollar Store can be a rare treat. This emporium of astonishing merchandise, gathered from unknown locations, is a shopping paradise for the working poor. Located in a strip mall in West Frankfort, anchored at one end by K-Mart and the other end by Krogers supermarket, many have walked its aisles seeking both bargains and treasures among it's innumerable items.
>
> Today the cashier looks up to see what is obviously a father and his four children. No suggestion can be seriously entertained as to the paternity of these children, you see his physical characteristics reflected dominantly in each one of them. Upon closer inspection of this chief and his little tribe, the countenance of the father's face and his demeanor as he interacts with his children, makes his love for them quite evident.
>
> Slipping a dollar bill into each of their small hands and following close behind, he has instructed them to choose a special toy for themselves. As a scurry of small feet makes a beeline directly to the toy aisle, with a look of amusement on his face he observes them searching, as if for hidden treasure. One by one, they come up to him their faces beaming as they proudly present before him the results of their painstaking search. He smiles and comments on each purchase and then as the last of the four approaches him, his expression changes immediately from pleasure to surprise. Clutched majestically in his son's hand is a toilet plunger. Kneeling down next to his child, he gently lays his hand on his shoulder and says, "Son, the dollar was meant as a gift for you to choose a special toy." Searching his son's face, he asks him, "Do you know what this is for? Ah, well, it is used for the potty..." An interesting discussion ensues between father and son, resulting in his son marching proudly up to the cashier, handing her his dollar and walking out of the store with his Daddy, sister and two brothers in tow. Like a conductor skillfully brandishing his baton before a philharmonic orchestra, this boy proudly leads his family through the parking lot, to the enthusiastic maneuvers of his newest toy: a bathroom toilet plunger.
>
> Before their arrival at their father's modest abode, the unusual new "toy" had already been christened "Plungie". Now to the amazement of the rest of the family, Plungie has become the constant companion of Justin. With the expert movements that are usually reserved only for swordsmen of the caliber of Robin Hood or Zorro; Justin thrusts and parries, bringing Plungie into contact with every available surface: all areas of the car, windows, doors, the TV set, and the computer monitor. No flat, concave or convex surface is safe from the Plungie invasion.
>
> At the end of their visit the children return to their mother's home. Alighting from the car, Justin runs up to his mother, excited to show her all the things he has learned to do with his new toy. He has already realized that it is an excellent way to open the refrigerator door and to pick up certain selected objects from the floor.
>
> Probably the greatest exploit in the history of Plungie, to date, was when Justin took his toy and constant companion to a Thompsonville function at the 3ABN school gym. Brandishing Plungie before him as he entered the crowded room, like Moses raising his staff and parting the red sea, a path was instantly cleared before Justin. Being ignorant of the facts, the good folks of the Thompsonville SDA church kept telling him to take that "germy, dirty thing" back to the gym's mens room where he had found it. But laughing and running around the gym together, Justin and Plungie were having too good of a time to be insulted by these callous remarks. In pure joy, to the extreme displeasure of the good folk assembled at that event, Plungie accompanied Justin for the entire evening.
>
> Postscript: The father of these four children lost his job at 3ABN because, when God opened his eyes and gave him insight to see what was really happening and the corruption he had become > involved in supporting, he was no longer willing to participate in doing Danny's bidding "behind the scenes" at 3ABN. This resulted in him quitting his job on moral grounds. Hoping that would be the end of Danny Shelton's intrigues in his life, instead he found out that it was only the beginning. By Danny's word he was branded a "pathological liar" and other labels were applied, equally untrue, each more heinous than the last. You might think that being the father of Danny Shelton's beloved grandchildren would afford some favorable consideration, wouldn't you? If you believe that, then you haven't been paying very close attention as we look "behind the scenes" at 3ABN...

> Stay tuned...

rofl rofl

Posted by: PaperTigers May 22 2006, 08:23 PM

> QUOTE(beartrap @ May 22 2006, 09:41 PM)
>
> rofl rofl

I can just see Justin playing with a plunger and of course I can imagine people's reaction!!!

Posted by: beartrap May 22 2006, 08:29 PM

You should have seen when we walked into the gymn. Like Sister said, it was like Moses and the Red Sea. Justin stuck plungie to the back of an elderly lady's seat and cleared the table. rofl

There was food at that event. rofl

Posted by: AmeliaLD May 22 2006, 08:31 PM

Why was it assumed it came from the mens room?

Posted by: beartrap May 22 2006, 08:37 PM

> QUOTE(AmeliaLD @ May 22 2006, 08:31 PM)
>
> Why was it assumed it came from the mens room?

Justin is a boy, and its a toilet plunger.

They fled in terror and disgust.

Posted by: inga May 22 2006, 08:59 PM

> QUOTE(beartrap @ May 22 2006, 09:29 PM)
>
> You should have seen when we walked into the gymn. Like Sister said, it was like Moses and the Red Sea. Justin stuck plungie to the back of an elderly lady's seat and cleared the table. rofl
>
> There was food at that event. rofl

Thanks for a good laugh, sister & beartrap.

I understand that's "good medicine."

I'm sure there are more such diversionary tales from 3ABN which would provide a good change of pace. Let's hear them.

Posted by: beartrap May 22 2006, 09:48 PM

Hey Paper Tiger, were you there when the piglet peed on a couple of kids during a Tiny Tots program? Or when the turtle did its thing on one of the kids?

Another one on the kids. I told the kids that somebody had set me up with a blind date, and my youngest one said, "Oh no, dad. Don't get married to her, we don't want a blind step-mamma."

Posted by: summertime May 22 2006, 10:28 PM

> QUOTE(inga @ May 22 2006, 09:59 PM)
>
> Thanks for a good laugh, sister & beartrap.
>
> I understand that's "good medicine."
>
> I'm sure there are more such diversionary tales from 3ABN which would provide a good change of pace. Let's hear them.

Beartrap, stay as close to your kids as you can----if all daddies spent that much time with their kids, I think that Satan would be out of work.

Posted by: PaperTigers May 23 2006, 12:16 AM

> QUOTE(beartrap @ May 22 2006, 11:48 PM)
>
> Hey Paper Tiger, were you there when the piglet peed on a couple of kids during a Tiny Tots program? Or when the turtle did its thing on one of the kids?
>
> Another one on the kids. I told the kids that somebody had set me up with a blind date, and my youngest one said, "Oh no, dad. Don't get married to her, we don't want a blind step-mamma."

Yeah I was there for everyone one of the Tiny Tots programs, as well as the Kids Time programs...
but the funniest was when, I think it was a turtle, peed on Auntie Linda!!! It was hilarious the whole set bust up laughing (and poor farmer Mike was trying to keep going!!!)
Of course then there were just the comical things animals do.. have you ever seen a goat try and walk on painted concrete? The poor thing was slipping and sliding all over the place...
If you want laughs, just try working with animals and kids!!
It's also enough to try your patience, but they are so cute you can't help but love it!!

Posted by: Hersheys99 May 23 2006, 12:38 AM

> QUOTE
>
> QUOTE(beartrap @ May 22 2006, 09:29 PM) *
>
> You should have seen when we walked into the gymn. Like Sister said, it was like Moses and the Red Sea. rofl1.gif Justin stuck plungie to the back of an elderly lady's seat and cleared the table. roflmao.gif
>
> There was food at that event. rofl1.gif roflmao.gif

That would have been too cute!! rofl

Thanks Beartrap & Papertigers for sharing some of those "funnies" with us. rofl

---

Posted by: Uncle Sam May 23 2006, 05:16 AM

> QUOTE(PaperTigers @ May 22 2006, 11:16 PM)
>
> Yeah I was there for everyone one of the Tiny Tots programs, as well as the Kids Time programs... > but the funniest was when, I think it was a turtle, peed on Auntie Linda!!! It was hilarious the whole set bust up laughing (and poor farmer Mike was trying to keep going!!!)
> Of course then there were just the comical things animals do.. have you ever seen a goat try and walk on painted concrete? The poor thing was slipping and sliding all over the place...
> If you want laughs, just try working with animals and kids!!

> It's also enough to try your patience, but they are so cute you can't help but love it!!

Speaking of "Farmer Mike", I haven't seen him in quite a while, what happened to him?

Posted by: beartrap May 23 2006, 08:40 AM

> QUOTE(Uncle Sam @ May 23 2006, 05:16 AM)
>
> Speaking of "Farmer Mike", I haven't seen him in quite a while, what happened to him?

I smell a packrat. Farmer Mike mysteriously disappeared one night and the in the morning there was an inaccurate replica in his place.

No big dramatic soap opera there, he was simply replaced... leastwise thats what the boss told me.

Oh... it was auntie Linda the turtle peed on.

I also remember a time back when I worked in production that we were doing a Presents Live, and there was a wasp on the set. It flew around and finally landed on Danny's shoulder, but he didn't let on that he knew. He was leaning forward in his chair and it crawled down his back and the floor director wrote him a message on the white board. It said "Don't lean back! Wasp behind you." During the break, he flew out of that chair and somebody killed the wasp.

Posted by: summertime May 23 2006, 11:08 AM

> QUOTE(beartrap @ May 23 2006, 08:40 AM)
>
> I smell a packrat. Farmer Mike mysteriously disappeared one night and the in the morning there was an inaccurate replica in his place.
>
> No big dramatic soap opera there, he was simply replaced... leastwise thats what the boss told me.
>
> Oh... it was auntie Linda the turtle peed on.
>
> I also remember a time back when I worked in production that we were doing a Presents Live, and there was a wasp on the set. It flew around and finally landed on Danny's shoulder, but he didn't let on that he knew. He was leaning forward in his chair and it crawled down his back and the floor director wrote him a message on the white board. It said "Don't lean back! Wasp behind you." During the break, he flew out of that chair and somebody killed the wasp.

How sad---the wasp only wanted to be a part of the show!!! His death was to prevent the sting!!!

Posted by: seeshell May 23 2006, 01:06 PM

The Plungie story is priceless. ☒ I can just feel the horror in the room...iIf I had been there, I would have been one of those people cringing and praying "Please, God, don't let that kid near me with that thing!!!!!" And shooting murderous glances at the parent. ☒ rofl

---

Posted by: PaperTigers May 23 2006, 02:02 PM

Man one could seriously go on and on about the things that happen during taping, that the viewing audience is completely unaware of..
I remember on a Today LIVE, I was doing audio because the regular guy was gone... and one of the guests microphones started cutting out...
I had on high heels, so I had to kick my shoes off, grab a mic and literaly crawl on the floor to get to the guest and keep out of sight... swap out the microphones, and then crawl back and run into the control room... all the while we were still taping and broadcasting LIVE!!
Great Fun!!

Posted by: Clay May 23 2006, 02:09 PM

so in the midst of being mistreated there were good times..... interesting.....

Posted by: vonessa May 23 2006, 02:22 PM

> QUOTE(Clay @ May 23 2006, 03:09 PM) ☐
>
> so in the midst of being mistreated there were good times..... interesting.....

Just because you may be in the midst of a bad situation does not mean that the Lord does not open up a window to let you catch a glimpse of glory. Just as Paul and Silas could sing in a dungeon, so these brave souls who worked at 3ABN had musical moments. That is what gave them the power to continue to work there, and some who still work there.

"Yea though I go through the valley of the shadow of death, I shall fear NO evil, for thou art with me."

Posted by: sonshineonme May 23 2006, 02:35 PM

> QUOTE(Clay @ May 23 2006, 01:09 PM) ☐
>
> so in the midst of being mistreated there were good times..... interesting.....

I've been thinking about what you said here....from my earliest childhood years, losing a father, having horrible stepfathers, neglect I felt in the home, and many other situations that I found myself in my life that were miserable and almost unbareable, there were always things that happend that were good - and I thank God for those periods of relief from stress. What would we do without those things? Is any situation any different? Stress all around, the times we get away or breaks in the situations that break it up are good for our blood pressure among other things! Those are the little blessing you begin to see and look for to get you through, or you might find yourself losing your mind totally.

Posted by: PaperTigers May 23 2006, 03:29 PM

> QUOTE(Clay @ May 23 2006, 04:09 PM)
>
> so in the midst of being mistreated there were good times..... interesting.....

Yeah there were good times, and to be completely honest I loved my job.. but I left because the bad started outweighing the good... even at it's worst there were still good times, but just because there are good times does not mean that you stay in a bad situation.
That would be like saying "Yeah my husband beats me, but when he's not beating me he is the sweetest guy!! So I'm just going to stay and stick it out.. because he can be such a sweetheart!!"
You would tell someone in that situation that they needed to leave, it's the same way at 3ABN, there were definitely good times, and a lot of GREAT people... but that stopped making up for all the crap that I had to wade through to get to those good times!

Posted by: inga May 23 2006, 03:35 PM

> QUOTE(Clay @ May 23 2006, 03:09 PM)
>
> so in the midst of being mistreated there were good times..... interesting.....

H'mm ... what's so "interesting" about that?

It sounds to me like the way life usually works:

Into each life some rain must fall, and there's some sunshine even in the worst seasons.

Posted by: beartrap May 23 2006, 05:48 PM

I was on the set being interviewed on a live program one time when my pager went off. It was my wife. Danny shot me a murderous glance, and while I was busy stuffing the pager down as far into the couch cushions as I could get it (without looking like I was doing anything), the audio guy had the presence of mind to cut my mic. She kept calling back! After the program I got a good chewing.

Oh, here is one of the best ones yet! Paper Tiger, were you ever in on the taping of May Chung's programs? She is the only person I have ever known to fall asleep on the set in the middle of an interview. rofl When her guest started talking, she got bored and fell asleep. rofl

The director had to stop the program and instruct the floor director to wake her up. rofl

> QUOTE(seeshell @ May 23 2006, 02:06 PM)
>
> The Plungie story is priceless. I can just feel the horror in the room...If I had been there, I would have been one of those people cringing and praying "Please, God, don't let that kid near me with that thing!!!!!" And shooting murderous glances at the parent. rofl

Yes, there were many murderous glances... but then Justin's dad is used to that. 2o crutch.gi

---

Posted by: PaperTigers May 23 2006, 07:34 PM

> QUOTE(beartrap @ May 23 2006, 06:48 PM)
>
> I was on the set being interviewed on a live program one time when my pager went off. It was my wife. Danny shot me a murderous glance, and while I was busy stuffing the pager down as far into the couch cushions as I could get it (without looking like I was doing anything), the audio guy had the presence of mind to cut my mic. She kept calling back! After the program I got a good chewing.
>
> Oh, here is one of the best ones yet! Paper Tiger, were you ever in on the taping of May Chung's programs? She is the only person I have ever known to fall asleep on the set in the middle of an interview. rofl When her guest started talking, she got bored and fell asleep. rofl
>
> The director had to stop the program and instruct the floor director to wake her up. rofl

Yeah, it happened on more than one occasion too!! We finally tied a string to her ankle and the guest had the other end, so that when she would nod off they would just tug at it to wake her up!!!
rofl

Posted by: seeshell May 23 2006, 08:15 PM

Oh dear, why did they let her keep interviewing people? I'd have been like, "Wow, am I THAT boring?"

As for the pager going off, well, yes, of course it is the wife's prerogative to page the husband at ANY time... AND be mad if he doesn't respond fairly instantly! (Just ask my husband.)

Posted by: PaperTigers May 23 2006, 08:28 PM

> QUOTE(seeshell @ May 23 2006, 09:15 PM)
>
> Oh dear, why did they let her keep interviewing people? I'd have been like, "Wow, am I THAT boring?"

Let's just say that money talks!!

Posted by: summertime May 23 2006, 10:37 PM

> QUOTE(seeshell @ May 23 2006, 09:15 PM)
>
> Oh dear, why did they let her keep interviewing people? I'd have been like, "Wow, am I THAT boring?"
>
> As for the pager going off, well, yes, of course it is the wife's prerogative to page the husband at ANY time... AND be mad if he doesn't respond fairly instantly! (Just ask my husband.)

But if the wife is the bosses daughter, there may be extenuating circumstances

---

Posted by: sister May 24 2006, 12:56 AM

> QUOTE(PaperTigers @ May 23 2006, 09:28 PM)
>
> Let's just say that money talks!!

Do you remember the story about May Chung on CNN? When she was named as the most prominent slumlord in a major Texas city. Is May still on the 3ABN board?

Posted by: beartrap May 24 2006, 01:50 AM

> QUOTE(sister @ May 24 2006, 12:56 AM) ☐
>
> Do you remember the story about May Chung on CNN? When she was named as the most prominent slumlord in a major Texas city. Is May still on the 3ABN board?

Yes, I remember that. Poor May was called "the Dallas slum lord." I don't remember why. Yes, she is still on the board.

Posted by: summertime May 24 2006, 07:00 AM

> QUOTE(beartrap @ May 24 2006, 02:50 AM) ☐
>
> Yes, I remember that. Poor May was called "the Dallas slum lord." I don't remember why. Yes, she is still on the board.

Maybe I am dumb, but what is a slumlord? Sounds like somebody who rented a lot of rundown rental properties and expected the renters to live there---And that is how she got her money?

I also wonder how many of the board members go to sleep during the infrequest board meetings--maybe there are others who sleep -thus making the board's votes unanimous--one nudge and the 'yeas' are spoken.

Posted by: Panama_Pete May 24 2006, 07:32 AM

> QUOTE(summertime @ May 24 2006, 08:00 AM) ☐
>
> ....but what is a slumlord? Sounds like somebody who rented a lot of rundown rental properties and expected the renters to live there....

This is the general, legal dictionary definition of a slumlord for the person who asked. It is just a general definition and doesn't apply to any case in particular. I did not see the CNN story, so those that did see it will have to decide if this definition is the right or wrong one to apply to that CNN story.

http://www.uslegalforms.com/legaldefinitions/slumlord/

Slumlord Law and Legal Definition

"A slumlord is an unscrupulous landlord who milks a property without concern for tenants, neighborhoods or their own long term interests. Slumlords overcharge for property in poor neighborhoods that is kept in poor repair and allowed to deteriorate. Some indicators of property run by a slumlord include number of police calls, and city and county code violations on the properties."

Posted by: watchbird May 24 2006, 09:13 AM

> QUOTE(summertime @ May 24 2006, 07:00 AM) ☐
>
> I also wonder how many of the board members go to sleep during the infrequest board meetings--maybe there are others who sleep -thus making the board's votes unanimous--one nudge and the 'yeas' are spoken.

Speaking of board members: I think it would be interesting to have a complete list of the current boardmembers. And even better if we could have a little information about each one, including how long they have been on the board, why they are on the board, how often they attend board meetings, and how active they are in meetings, whether they ever oppose Danny on anything, or even inquire around about anything, etc.

It would also be interesting to have a list of board members who have left or resigned over the years (especially recent years) and their reasons for doing so.

Posted by: beartrap May 24 2006, 10:12 AM

3ABN Board Members

1. Danny Shelton - 3ABN founder, and board member since 1985
2. Walter Thompson - Board member for around 17 years. Board Chairman. Retired surgeon, and producer of several programs on 3ABN
3. May Chung - Board member for around 20 years. Wealthy philanthropist, financial supporter of 3ABN and Danny Shelton, and host of a program on 3ABN
4. Bill Hulsey - Board member for close to 20 years. Wealthy businessman and financial supporter of 3ABN
5. Ellsworth McKee - Board member for close to 20 years. Former board chairman. Wealthy philanthropist and financial supporter of 3ABN
6. Larry Welch - Board member for close to 20 years. 3ABN employee, former lay pastor and drywall worker.
7. G. Ralph Thompson - Board member for close to 15 years. Retired undersecretary of the GC.
8. Kenneth Denslow - Board member since he became president of the Illinois Conference. His parents both work for 3ABN
9. Merlin Fjarli - Board member since 2004. Wealthy philanthropist and financial supporter of 3ABN
10. Nicholas Miller - Board member since 2004. 3ABN attorney.
11. Mollie Steenson - Board member since 2004. 3ABN General Manager, and has programs on 3ABN
12. Carmelita Troy - Board member since 2004. Daughter of former board member, Owen Troy. Teaches accounting at the U.S. Naval Academy Post Graduate School
13. Larry Ewing - Board member since 2004/2005. 3ABN Finacial Director
14. Wintley Phipps - Board member since 2005. Singer and pastor. Recipient of 1 million dollars from 3ABN, and proposed director of a proposed new network.

Posted by: beartrap May 24 2006, 10:33 AM

Former 3ABN Board Members

1. Kenny Shelton - Co-founder of 3ABN, and Danny Shelton's brother. Fired by Danny.

2. Emma Lou Shelton - Kenny Shelton's wife. Left with her husband.
3. Goldie Seddon - Danny Shelton's mother. Left with Kenny.
4. Stan Smith - Wealthy businessman/financial supporter. Resigned.
5. Bob Ford - Wealthy businessman/financial supporter. Resigned.
6. Donna McNielus - Wealthy philanthropist/financial supporter. Had a program on 3ABN. Resigned.
7. Owen Troy - Former Communications Director of the NAD. Had a stroke and resigned.
8. Linda Shelton - Co-founder of 3ABN and ex-wife of Danny Shelton. Fired over accusation of marital infidelity.
9. All of the Illinois conference presidents since the founding of 3ABN... up to the current one.

This list is to the best of my memory. It is possible that I forgot some.

Posted by: sister May 24 2006, 01:59 PM

"The Televangelist", Part 7...

Walking into my darkened office, I turn on the desk lamp. The beam of light illuminates my keyboard, as the rest of the room remains hidden in the depths of shadows. The hour is late and silence is my only companion. With no distraction from "life in the world", again I return to the file of "The Televangelist". The following passage triggers a memory:

"Arriving home, the televangelist starts thinking about his upcoming board meeting. The church that supports his ministry is made up of a World Conference, and various other levels of conferences, each falling under the other. The President of the Local Conference where his ministry is based is on his board of directors. This Conference president's parents both work for the televangelist. His personal assistant, his financial director, his chief legal advisor, and his facilities manager are all board members. Two of the board members, including the chairman, have programs that air on the television network. He has a new board member to whom he has just donated one million dollars, and appointed to head a new ethnic television network. He is comfortable that he owns the board."

Walking down the hallway Danny is conversing with the guest for tonight's 3ABN Presents Live, unaware of any witnesses they speak freely. "How do you keep complete control of your ministry when it is governed by a board?", John asks Danny. I could see a smile slowly lighting up Danny's face as he pats his jacket pocket and replies with a quiet chuckle, "That's no problem for me, John, I have them in my pocket and they will go along with anything I say." An unnoticed individual quietly slips back down the corridor, but what was heard was not soon forgotten. Only later would the full impact of that statement be understood.

The preceding incident took place between Danny Shelton and John Osborne. John had just recently returned to the SDA church after years of angry criticism against the church he once loved. These two men shared many things in common: both have held the position of televangelist in an independent ministry and both have been critical, in varying degrees, of the established church. If memory serves me correctly, Osborne was either in the process or had just recently published his experiences in, Back on Track - The John Osborne Story.

How could Danny's so confidently state he had the board in his pocket? A few facts from that time follows, many of the procedures still remain the same today. All department reports intended for the board first had to pass muster through Mollie Steenson's inspection. Any report that was not in line with Danny's spin of the facts was returned to the department head in question for revision. There was no contact between the workers and the board members. All the meetings were held at the home of Mom Ford, the current home of Pastor John Lomacang, and scheduled for Sundays. Luncheon was a catered affair, so there was no opportunity for employees "accidently" interacting with board members. Additionally, there has always been "selected workers" on the board who were both willing and able to testify to the accuracy of Danny's statements in regard to operations and employee conditions. And remember, Danny has hand picked all his board members and is quite adept at discovering what he could do to secure their cooperation: any thing from giving them their own programing, to donating one million dollars to a project that they have spearheaded, and pitching them a dream. Like a seasoned carnival pitchmen, you learn to read your mark and make your appeal based on what he or she would find most intriguing. Then as an avid fishermen Danny knows, you always wait until the hook is set, before you start reeling them in.

Stayed tuned...

Posted by: sonshineonme May 24 2006, 02:10 PM

> QUOTE(beartrap @ May 24 2006, 08:33 AM) ☐
>
> Former 3ABN Board Members
>
> 1. Kenny Shelton - Co-founder of 3ABN, and Danny Shelton's brother. Fired by Danny.
> 2. Emma Lou Shelton - Kenny Shelton's wife. Left with her husband.
> 3. Goldie Seddon - Danny Shelton's mother. Left with Kenny.
> 4. Stan Smith - Wealthy businessman/financial supporter. Resigned.
> 5. Bob Ford - Wealthy businessman/financial supporter. Resigned.
> 6. Donna McNielus - Wealthy philanthropist/financial supporter. Had a program on 3ABN. Resigned.7. Owen Troy - Former Communications Director of the NAD. Had a stroke and resigned.
> 8. Linda Shelton - Co-founder of 3ABN and ex-wife of Danny Shelton. Fired over accusation of marital infidelity.
> 9. All of the Illinois conference presidents since the founding of 3ABN... up to the current one.
>
> This list is to the best of my memory. It is possible that I forgot some.

Is she related to Garwin? And if so, how? Do you know the dates of each resignation?

Posted by: sister May 24 2006, 04:04 PM

> QUOTE(sonshineonme @ May 24 2006, 03:10 PM) ☐
>
> Is she related to Garwin? And if so, how? Do you know the dates of each resignation?

Donna McNeilus is the wife of Garwin McNeilus' son, Denzil McNeilus.

Posted by: beartrap May 24 2006, 07:18 PM

> QUOTE(sonshineonme @ May 24 2006, 02:10 PM) ☐
>
> Do you know the dates of each resignation?

To the best of my recollection Kenny, Emma lou, and Goldie left in 1989 (when I arrived); Stan Smith, and Bob Ford quit somwhere around 2003-2004; Owen Troy, and Linda Shelton left in 2004 (when I left); I have no idea when Donna McNielus quite; and the various Illinois Conference Presidents quite at the end of their terms. The IL Conference President's seat on the board is only for the sitting president.

Posted by: PaperTigers May 24 2006, 07:28 PM

I have a question.
If 3ABN is not affiliated with the SDA church, then why is there a seat on the board reserved for the Illinois Conference President??

Posted by: Clay May 24 2006, 07:35 PM

> QUOTE(PaperTigers @ May 24 2006, 07:28 PM)
>
> I have a question.
> If 3ABN is not affiliated with the SDA church, then why is there a seat on the board reserved for the Illinois Conference President??

to compromise the prez? to cause the prez to think about the money floating all around and maybe thinking about how to get some... or maybe as Don Coreleone said in "The Godfather," "keep your friends close, and your enemies closer...."

Posted by: sonshineonme May 24 2006, 07:38 PM

> QUOTE(Clay @ May 24 2006, 05:35 PM)
>
> to compromise the prez? to cause the prez to think about the money floating all around and maybe thinking about how to get some... or maybe as Don Coreleone said in "The Godfather," "keep your friends close, and your enemies closer...."

I like that answer! You are most like right in your assumption....but you never know, maybe the "prez" is a double agent and Danny doesn't know it! rofl

Posted by: beartrap May 24 2006, 07:52 PM

I will take this opportunity to say a few nice things about some of the current and former board members.

Emma Lou is a fine and beautiful woman who has lived through much turmoil. She always has a smile and laugh, even when things are rough, and she has always been a bright spot for me when I just needed to see one friendly face.

Owen Troy and his wife, Anne, have worked dilligently for the Lord. Even when they had something to lose, and everyone else ran the other way, they went out of their way to be friendly. Owen had a stroke that affected his language skills, but his mind is as brilliant as ever. Like many of us, I believe Owen chose to see and believe only the best, and I know that there is much he never had the opportunity to see.

Six years ago I went through a terrible ordeal and ended up living in a broken down hovel with very little to eat, and even less of the things that make a house a home. Linda Shelton visited me one day for a few minutes, and several hours later she returned from Sams Club with a vehicle load of food and other things. She was the only person from work or the church who ever contacted me at all during that year-long nightmare. This was and is Linda.

Carmelita Troy stepped in to fill her dad's shoes when he resigned. I know very little about her, but what I do know tells me that the apple doesn't fall far from the tree.

Bill Hulsey and Ellsworth McKee seem to do the best they can with what little they know.

> QUOTE(PaperTigers @ May 24 2006, 07:28 PM)
>
> I have a question.
> If 3ABN is not affiliated with the SDA church, then why is there a seat on the board reserved for the Illinois Conference President??

As any good politician knows, one must extend the hand of... well... the hand anyway, across the aisle sometimes.

Posted by: sonshineonme May 24 2006, 07:59 PM

> QUOTE(beartrap @ May 24 2006, 05:52 PM)
>
> I will take this opportunity to say a few nice things about some of the current and former board members.
>
> Emma Lou is a fine and beautiful woman who has lived through much turmoil. She always has a smile and laugh, even when things are rough, and she has always been a bright spot for me when I just needed to see one friendly face.
>
> Owen Troy and his wife, Anne, have worked dilligently for the Lord. Even when they had something to lose, and everyone else ran the other way, they went out of their way to be friendly. Owen had a stroke that affected his language skills, but his mind is as brilliant as ever. Like many of us, I believe Owen chose to see and believe only the best, and I know that there is much he never had the opportunity to see.
>
> Six years ago I went through a terrible ordeal and ended up living in a broken down hovel with very little to eat, and even less of the things that make a house a home. Linda Shelton visited me one day for a few minutes, and several hours later she returned from Sams Club with a vehicle load of food and other things. She was the only person from work or the church who ever contacted me at all during that year-long nightmare. This was and is Linda.
>
> Carmelita Troy stepped in to fill her dad's shoes when he resigned. I know very little about her, but what I do know tells me that the apple doesn't fall far from the tree.
>
> Bill Hulsey and Ellsworth McKee seem to do the best they can with what little they know.

> As any good politician knows, one must extend the hand of... well... the hand anyway, across the aisle sometimes.

What can be done to "educate" the board members that are being used to fulfill a mission that is not what they think they are filling? What can be presented to them so they see the big and real picture? Wouldn't that wake up some people? I know there are members that probably like the position in spite of what they see, but if so many are basically clueless, would it do any good for them to have more accurate "information" then they are spoon fed by Danny? Has someone thought of sending letters to them filled with "testimony" to things?

Posted by: beartrap May 24 2006, 08:07 PM

Some excerpts from a Washington Post article

> QUOTE
>
> Groups Tout Ten Commandments Event
> By Michelle Boorstein
> Washington Post Staff Writer
> Saturday, May 6, 2006; Page B05
>
> Are you one of the 135,000-plus people who were handed a free book about the Ten Commandments this week at a Washington Metro stop or street corner?
> If so, you were part of a $3.2 million campaign by an Illinois-based radio and television ministry that calls itself a "mending broken people network." You also got a glimpse into what religious people across the spectrum are calling the Ten Commandments movement, a patchwork of groups who agree that America needs to focus on Old Testament morals -- but not much else.
>
> {Talks about the 10C movement and its adherents}...It also includes the Three Angels Broadcasting Network, the organization that started giving away 270,000 copies of the book "Ten Commandments Twice Removed" on Thursday. The ministry, a growing offshoot of the Adventist church, said it hoped to draw 10,000 people last night and today to "Ten Commandments Weekend," an event at the D.C. Armory featuring music and sermons about the commandments.
>
> ...The Three Angels network says on its Web site that it does not support the Wexler group's "political agenda." In its book, however, the network decries the "purging of the Ten Commandments from public institutions."
> And although Three Angels' followers are primarily Seventh-day Adventists, a spokesman for the denomination said it would not be participating in the weekend events.

Posted by: beartrap May 24 2006, 08:18 PM

> QUOTE
>
> The ministry, a growing offshoot of the Adventist church...

An interesting observation. Especially in light of the fact that the wrap-up sermon was done by an open offshoot and bitterly antagonistic anti-Adventist, Kenny Shelton.

Posted by: sonshineonme May 24 2006, 08:22 PM

> QUOTE(beartrap @ May 24 2006, 06:07 PM) ☐
>
> Some excerpts from a Washington Post article

Is this possibly accurate?
1. "....you also get a glimpse into what religious people across the spectrum are calling the commandments movement, a patchwork of groups who agree that America needs to focus on Old Testiment morals - but not much else" (give me a break?? is that what we say? or what am i missing?)

2. "...the ministry, a growing OFFSHOOT (?) of the Adventist church...." interesting....

3. "....although the Three angles followers (again?) are primarily Seventh Day Adventists, a spokesman for the demonination said it would not be participating in the weekends events..." Who was this spokesman? And, didn't many "official" SDA churches and conferences "participate"?

Is this a poorly written article, or the truth as it is?

Posted by: Clay May 24 2006, 08:24 PM

> QUOTE(sonshineonme @ May 24 2006, 09:22 PM) ☐
>
> Is this possibly accurate?
> 1. "....you also get a glimpse into what religious people across the spectrum are calling the cammadments movement, a patchwork of groups who agree that america needs to focus on Old Testiment morals - but not much else" (give me a break??)
>
> 2. "...the ministry, a growing OFFSHOOT (?) of the Adventist church...."
> 3. "....although the Three angles followers (again?) are primarily Seventh Day Adventists, a spokesman for the demonination said it would not be participating in the weekends events..." Who was this spokesman? And, didn't many "official" SDA churches and conferences "participate"?
> Is this a poorly written article, or the trust as it is?

I kinda like it.... shows the perception.... and the perception aint that great....

Posted by: sonshineonme May 24 2006, 08:29 PM

> QUOTE(Clay @ May 24 2006, 06:24 PM) ☐
>
> I kinda like it.... shows the perception.... and the perception aint that great....

Wonder if 3abn'rs (owners and contributers) have seen this? Some one send it off to them....

Posted by: beartrap May 24 2006, 08:42 PM

> QUOTE
>
> focus on Old Testiment morals - but not much else

- That would not be very accurate as there is deffinitely a focus on money.

> QUOTE
>
> "...the ministry, a growing OFFSHOOT (?) of the Adventist church...."

- Yes, I believe that would be accurate.

> QUOTE
>
> "....although the Three angles followers (again?) are primarily Seventh Day Adventists, a spokesman for the demonination said it would not be participating in the weekends events..."

- They were talking about Washington DC. No, the Seventh-day Adventist church did not participate in 3ABN's festivities there. Some individuals and individual churches did, but the Church as a denomination based on Old Columbia Pike did not.

> QUOTE(sonshineonme @ May 24 2006, 09:29 PM)
>
> Wonder if 3abn'rs (owners and contributers) have seen this? Some one send it off to them....

Yes, last week Danny spoke about it.

Posted by: sonshineonme May 24 2006, 08:50 PM

So, 3ABN is seen by us as an "offshoot" - this does not have a good connotation to it....as we see offshoots as "gone astray" and I didn't think the denomination had declared them as an offshoot? Maybe I am just hearing this wrong....

Also, the "old testament morals" part is what bothers me - as though the 10 commandments are something Christians don't see anymore? I thought it was just the 4th commandment that was considered "old testament" to them? Guess I am lost a bit here....long day maybe...

Posted by: inga May 24 2006, 09:01 PM

> QUOTE(beartrap @ May 24 2006, 09:18 PM)
>
> > QUOTE

> > The ministry, a growing offshoot of the Adventist church...
>
> An interesting observation. Especially in light of the fact that the wrap-up sermon was done by an open offshoot and bitterly antagonistic anti-Adventist, Kenny Shelton.

Yes -- interesting and downright refreshing to see a major newspaper "getting it right." As a matter of fact that reporter got it more "right" than a significant number of naive church members.

Posted by: beartrap May 24 2006, 09:08 PM

> QUOTE(sonshineonme @ May 24 2006, 08:50 PM)
>
> So, 3ABN is seen by us as an "offshoot" - this does not have a good connotation to it....as we see offshoots as "gone astray" and I didn't think the denomination had declared them as an offshoot? Maybe I am just hearing this wrong....
>
> Also, the "old testament morals" part is what bothers me - as though the 10 commandments are something Christians don't see anymore? I thought it was just the 4th commandment that was considered "old testament" to them? Guess I am lost a bit here....long day maybe...

1. Offshoot - Connotations, perceptions, semantics... to some the "offshoot" is the real church. Many thousands of people no longer give their tithe to the church, sending it to 3ABN instead. Could this mean that to them 3ABN is the real church?

2. Old Testament Morals - I don't think the reporter expressed an issue with Old Testament morals. She used the term "focus" followed by "and little else." Those terms seemed to reflect the issue she saw.

Posted by: sonshineonme May 24 2006, 09:17 PM

[quote name='beartrap' date='May 24 2006, 07:08 PM' post='132148']
1. Offshoot - Connotations, perceptions, semantics... to some the "offshoot" is the real church. Many thousands of people no longer give their tithe to the church, sending it to 3ABN instead. Could this mean that to them 3ABN is the real church?

This a revelation (no pun intended) to me....I know that Danny may belive and carry on a particular way, but, on the programming end of it, I assumed he was dead on for SDA beliefs? Has he come out and subtly shown things that differ from the organized church? Is this clear to people? I really don't watch 3abn anymore...I guess I was "assuming" it was still SDA based...but, I can see that there is more to this then I understood - I have never heard anyone I know that watches this (and I know many) seem to think there was a difference - but mostly a ministry separate from but still SDA. Hmmm.....this will have me thinking even more...some more "new light" to me!

Posted by: Panama_Pete May 24 2006, 09:27 PM

> QUOTE(beartrap @ May 24 2006, 09:07 PM)
>
> Some excerpts from a Washington Post article

I don't know how long this link will last until the story goes into the archives. However, tonight, you can read the entire story at this link:

http://www.washingtonpost.com/wp-dyn/content/article/2006/05/05/AR2006050501748_pf.html

---

Posted by: sonshineonme May 24 2006, 09:35 PM

> QUOTE(Panama_Pete @ May 24 2006, 07:27 PM)
>
> I don't know how long this link will last until the story goes into the archives. However, tonight, you can read the entire story at this link:
>
> http://www.washingtonpost.com/wp-dyn/content/article/2006/05/05/AR2006050501748_pf.html

Thank you. Very interesting.

Posted by: inga May 24 2006, 09:36 PM

> QUOTE(sonshineonme @ May 24 2006, 09:22 PM)
>
> Is this possibly accurate?
> ...
> 3. "....although the Three angles followers (again?) are primarily Seventh Day Adventists

The word "followers" implies a cult. Perhaps the reporter called folks in 3ABN's home town to get that idea?

Posted by: Clay May 25 2006, 07:34 AM

> QUOTE(inga @ May 24 2006, 09:36 PM)
>
> The word "followers" implies a cult. Perhaps the reporter called folks in 3ABN's home town to get that idea?

if a group is following anything or anyone other than Christ... then it tends to be cult-like.....

From what you all have described here about life at 3abn, IMO cult seems to be the best description...

Posted by: beartrap May 25 2006, 09:01 AM

> QUOTE(inga @ May 24 2006, 10:36 PM) ☐
>
> The word "followers" implies a cult. Perhaps the reporter called folks in 3ABN's home town to get that idea?

I am sure that the reporter would have received an earful had she contacted my fellow townsfolk here in Thompsonville. I fact, the mayor would likely have shared a copy of a threatening letter he received from 3ABN stating that he would suffer personal consequences for having been a signatory on the documentation requesting that 3ABN pay property taxes. He, and many other people were reminded of the cult of the Baghwan Shree Rahjneesh in Antelope, OR.

Posted by: sister May 25 2006, 09:07 AM

> QUOTE(beartrap @ May 25 2006, 10:01 AM) ☐
>
> I am sure that the reporter would have received an earful had she contacted my fellow townsfolk here in Thompsonville. I fact, the mayor would likely have shared a copy of a threatening letter he received from 3ABN stating that he would suffer personal consequences for having been a signatory on the documentation requesting that 3ABN pay property taxes. He, and many other people were reminded of the cult of the Baghwan Shree Rahjneesh in Antelope, OR.

Perhaps the mayor of T'ville would be willing to share the entire contents of that letter with us?

Posted by: lurker May 25 2006, 09:38 AM

I can't find a mayor listed on the intenet for Thompsonville, IL. Maybe it was the mayor of another nearby city such as West Frankfort or Benton who got the letter?

Or did the mayor of Thompsonville go into the witness protection program? Couldn't resist that one. Sorry folks.

Posted by: beartrap May 25 2006, 10:06 AM

> QUOTE(lurker @ May 25 2006, 10:38 AM) ☐
>
> I can't find a mayor listed on the intenet for Thompsonville, IL. Maybe it was the mayor of another nearby city such as West Frankfort or Benton who got the letter?

> Or did the mayor of Thompsonville go into the witness protection program? Couldn't resist that one. Sorry folks.

His name is Ralph Sprague.

Posted by: Nuggie May 25 2006, 10:14 AM

> QUOTE(lurker @ May 25 2006, 09:38 AM)
>
> I can't find a mayor listed on the intenet for Thompsonville, IL. Maybe it was the mayor of another nearby city such as West Frankfort or Benton who got the letter?
>
> Or did the mayor of Thompsonville go into the witness protection program? Couldn't resist that one. Sorry folks.

After reading this saga seems like he wouldn't be the only one who is or should be in the witness protection program.

Posted by: sister May 25 2006, 02:55 PM

> QUOTE(beartrap @ May 25 2006, 11:06 AM)
>
> His name is Ralph Sprague.

To the best of my knowledge Ralph Sprague doesn't need to go into the witness protection program, I assume that like most good old southern boys he has enough family locally willing to watch his back. And like most of the citizens of Thompsonville he has time to "chew the fat" concerning his experiences with Danny, the Shelton Gang and 3ABN.

If anyone is interested, just Google: "Ralph Sprague" Thompsonville. His address and phone number is the first listing.

Just be aware, folks can be pretty friendly in these parts and you just might get invited over to share some barbecue. It is not some "wham meaty fried bits" that will be placed on your plate, but southern Illinois prime pork ribs. Remember this is the "South", not Chicago.

pe sn

Posted by: beartrap May 25 2006, 04:45 PM

Also you'uns might get invited to go do breakfast at the Thompsonville Cafe, known only as "the restaurant (pronounced "rest runt")"

Posted by: sister May 25 2006, 07:57 PM

"The fresh scent of Glade..."

Working in a salaried position at 3ABN and wearing many "hats", requires the equilibrium of an acrobat combined with the patience of a saint. When this does not suffice, only comic relief can stave the imminent onslaught of certifiable insanity or a nervous breakdown.

Follow me back in time, as we ascend the stairway to the second floor above the 3ABN Presents studio. On our immediate left is the office of Doug: head of graphics, he also doubles as an on air announcer, in addition to other numerous responsibilities. Glancing inside the open door, he is completely absorbed in his current project on the "state of the dead".

As we leave Doug's office directly on our right is the restroom and adjacent to that a combination conference room/dining area with a small kitchen attached for employees. Across the hall is a second graphic department office, and following that on our left are the two pastoral departments offices. The pastoral offices both have windows facing the interior hallway. The first of these two offices is "the scene of the crime". Working alone in the first office is the only female member of the pastoral team, Venita. She is the intended victim.

After remaining seated for a long stint on the prayer line, she takes a deep breath through her mouth and stretches. Picking up the box fan and placing it in the open doorway, carefully directing the stream of air from the hallway toward her desk, she reaches up and tucks a loose strand of curly black hair back into her neatly arranged hair. Seeing her reflection in the window, the sprinkling of gray hairs give evidence of approaching age. She was much younger when she and her husband Jan Marcussen first came to southern Illinois. Like Kenny Shelton, Jan holds a Historical SDA viewpoint and both have been disfellowshiped from the SDA church.

Like the proverbial fly on the wall, we observe Doug pacing to and fro in his office, like a marathon runner that has hit the wall at mile twenty-three, he has reached a creative block in his current project: too much stress and too many deadlines have finally taken their toll. Now he heads to the restroom. Leaning his head against the wall, his eyes fix upon the spray can of Glade air freshener. Returning to the hallway the sound of a fan catches his attention. He stops in mid-stride realizing it's fluttering whiz is coming from Venita's doorway. Instantaneously, a light bulb explodes in his head and it is as if the name GLADE has been etched upon his brain. In a pivot, worthy of a prima ballerina, he returns to the toilet, picks up the spray can, gives a brief squeeze of pressure to the button and the heavy fragrance of an indiscernible floral scent fills the room. As a smile curls his lips, stealthily he makes his way down the short distance that separates him from his intended victim...

Approaching Venita's office window he begins to crouch down, quickly turning his head in both directions, checking if the coast is clear. Soon he is on his knees, his chubby physique resembling a bear cub on his ways to stir up some mischief. Almost there, ducking his head to avoid observation from the office window, he reaches the fan. Peeking through it's swiftly rotating blades, he sees Venita is occupied with the phone. Lifting the aerosol can into position, like a sharpshooter preparing his shot, he takes careful aim. Almost instinctively judging wind speed and possible drift he place his finger on the push button and prepares to take one intense shot and flee. Readying himself, with a final glance to insure he is free from detection, he fires. With an agility that denies his bulk, he darts back from behind the box fan and holds his breath as he waits for the projectile of highly scented air to reach it's intended target. Nothing happens... There is not a single reaction to the heady scent that is now returning to it's point of origin. Cautiously he again peeks out from behind the fan. No indication that he has achieved his goal exsists.

Sitting down in the hallway outside her window a puzzled looks is etched upon his face. Like a skunk poised to release another attack, he assumes the position and fires! This continues for at least six to eight more rounds. Still no response... By now Doug is having difficulty breathing in the heavily scented air and the hunter has become the victim. Standing, he saunters dejectedly toward his office, as other employees start coming out of their offices and wondering what in the world has been going on in the corridor. It smells like skunk season in a cheap perfumery. Wondering what the commotion is all about, Venita starts to leave her desk, but first she stops to apply some nose drops. She has a severely stuffed up nose and has not been able to smell a single thing all day...

Epilogue: Doug's project on the "state of the dead" was never finished. After investing in excess of a year of his life occupied in writing the script, producing and directing the project, designing and constructing sets, scouting out locations on his day off and searching for talent; in addition to his already massive work load, the nearly finished project was scrapped. Why? It was decided that his time was needed elsewhere. From reading the first draft of the script, to seeing most of the work completed, I had witness a project that could have made a great impact put aside on the brink of completion.

Doug now works at Amazing Facts. His first project there: The Final Events of Bible Prophecy DVD. Many Adventists know the impact this project has made as an evangelistic tool. 3ABN's loss is Amazing Facts gain. And what became of Doug's project for 3ABN? Before leaving he packed all of his work together and handed over the box to Mollie, where it still sits collecting dust...over three years later.

Stay tuned...

Posted by: beartrap May 25 2006, 09:19 PM

☒ ☒ rofl ☒ ☒ rofl Doug was over the top! One day I had just bounded up the stairs, trotted past Doug's office, and was just about to my own office when I heard an absolutely blood curdling scream come down the hall from behind me... and it was loud! I froze, and my already pale skin paled another few shades. I turned around and no one was there. Cautiously I made my way back down the hall and another terrified scream stopped me again. This time I ran for the closest office, Doug's, and cried, "What's going on?" Smirking, he clicked play on one of his editors, and on seeing Saul entering her cave, the witch of Endor drew back and screamed in terror.

After a cup of tea, my blood pressure went back to normal. Doug's state of the dead project! Sheesh!

Posted by: Fran May 25 2006, 10:12 PM

http://www.atoday.com/6.0.html?&tx_ttnews[tt_news]=60&tx_ttnews[backPid]=1&cHash=7410d7a570

http://www.atoday.com/6.0.html?&tx_ttnews[tt_news]=59&tx_ttnews[backPid]=1&cHash=0a95ab7929

http://www.atoday.com/6.0.html?&tx_ttnews[tt_news]=57&tx_ttnews[backPid]=1&cHash=8a01792fdf

---

Posted by: sonshineonme May 25 2006, 10:24 PM

> QUOTE(Fran @ May 25 2006, 08:12 PM) ☐
>
> http://www.atoday.com/6.0.html?&tx_ttnews[tt_news]=60&tx_ttnews[backPid]=1&cHash=7410d7a570

I'm not sure it is as it appears. Someone knows. Smells fishy to me...

Posted by: Panama_Pete May 25 2006, 10:46 PM

> QUOTE(sonshineonme @ May 25 2006, 10:24 PM) ☐
>
> I'm not sure it is as it appears. Someone knows. Smells fishy to me...

That's a safe bet. I think you printed the link to the piano story. So, you're hinting there is a possibility that the expensive piano could have been returned during the night from wherever it possibly went? I thought of that. Most people probably did, too. And then they could say, "Here it is is, men." Whether that happened or not, we'll never know.

I believe the 3ABN Chairman's most recent letter published in Adventist Today was first distributed about April 5 by e-mail.

Linda Shelton began speaking at churches about four days previous to that letter being circulated. (The weekend of March 30 to April 1 Linda spoke in Spokane, Washington).

Some will say the timing of the lastest letter from the 3ABN Chairman, regarding divorce and remarriage, is an emotional, sour-grapes reaction to learning that Linda's launch of her ministry in Spokane was a success the previous weekend.

More recently, Linda ministered in Thayer, Kansas.

If anyone would like to have Linda minister at their church, they can contact her at her Web site which is:

http://www.lindashelton.org

Posted by: vonessa May 26 2006, 09:56 AM

Dr. Thompson's letter on the AToday site was strange. Why go on like that talking about somebody else's divorce and all the allegations of cheating and things? If it wasn't for the country bumpkins at 3ABN, we wouldn't have heard word one about what happened. But they keep leaking these strange stories and then saying that they are "reluctant to make details public."

He says stuff like this, "The relationship Linda had with the Norwegian Dr. was not a normal doctor-patient relationship as she claims. It is true. Linda was very concerned about her son Nathan. He was the vehicle through which the Dr. reached Linda. Our evidence leaves no question that this became much more than a doctor-patient relationship. We know that the long hours on the phone together were not about Nathan and have hard evidence to support this knowledge - nor were times spent together on both sides of the Atlantic. Furthermore, she refused to break it off, even after weeks of pleading with her to do so. We, the board believe the evidence we have clearly justifies the divorce and gives Danny the moral and legal right to remarry. Those in church leadership with whom we have shared some of this evidence agree with us. Out of concern for Linda we have been reluctant to make details public."

Now what kind of marriage is that public that everybody you work with has to know about all the little details? This sounds like my teenage daughter. And how do they know the talk wasn't about Nathan? What were they listening for?

If I was Linda, I would of told them to get out of being up in my business. And what kind of affair goes on in the telephone?

Sorry I am talking so long, but this bugs me! And then this Thompson guy says this, "I have had an interesting thought this week that I will share with you. It is this. God lost one of his closest companions when Lucifer went astray. More than that, myriads more angels left with him when he left heaven. Talk about grief or emotional pain. Experiences such as this with Linda, I think, help us to understand the pain of loss, and the reality of the war between God and Satan. Some have claimed it takes two to divorce. I don't think that is categorically true!"

Now that don't make any sense unless it's trying to say that Linda is just like Lucifer and that Danny is like God. Talk about taking the "high road." Perhaps Thompson should get off his meds before he writes his next excuse letter. Can't believe that nobody told him that he would sound like an idiot. He's like one of those old southern hicks who thinks he's so high and mighty that people will just listen to whatever he says because he's the one saying it.

Well, let me close this long message with this caterogical statement: "Walter Thompson is a moron."

Posted by: beartrap May 26 2006, 10:43 AM

> QUOTE(vonessa @ May 26 2006, 10:56 AM)
>
> Dr. Thompson's letter on the AToday site was strange. Why go on like that talking about somebody else's divorce and all the allegations of cheating and things? If it wasn't for the country bumpkins at 3ABN, we wouldn't have heard word one about what happened. But they keep leaking these strange stories and then saying that they are "reluctant to make details public."
>
> He says stuff like this, "The relationship Linda had with the Norwegian Dr. was not a normal doctor-patient relationship as she claims. It is true. Linda was very concerned about her son Nathan. He was the vehicle through which the Dr. reached Linda. Our evidence leaves no question that this became much more than a doctor-patient relationship. We know that the long hours on the phone together were not about Nathan and have hard evidence to support this knowledge - nor were times spent together on both sides of the Atlantic. Furthermore, she refused to break it off, even after weeks of pleading with her to do so. We, the board believe the evidence we have clearly justifies the divorce and gives Danny the moral and legal right to remarry. Those in church leadership with whom we have shared some of this evidence agree with us. Out of concern for Linda we have been reluctant to make details public."
>
> Now what kind of marriage is that public that everybody you work with has to know about all the little details? This sounds like my teenage daughter. And how do they know the talk wasn't about Nathan? What were they listening for?
>
> If I was Linda, I would of told them to get out of being up in my business. And what kind of affair goes on in the telephone?

> Sorry I am talking so long, but this bugs me! And then this Thompson guy says this, "I have had an interesting thought this week that I will share with you. It is this. God lost one of his closest companions when Lucifer went astray. More than that, myriads more angels left with him when he left heaven. Talk about grief or emotional pain. Experiences such as this with Linda, I think, help us to understand the pain of loss, and the reality of the war between God and Satan. Some have claimed it takes two to divorce. I don't think that is categorically true!"
>
> Now that don't make any sense unless it's trying to say that Linda is just like Lucifer and that Danny is like God. Talk about taking the "high road." Perhaps Thompson should get off his meds before he writes his next excuse letter. Can't believe that nobody told him that he would sound like an idiot. He's like one of those old southern hicks who thinks he's so high and mighty that people will just listen to whatever he says because he's the one saying it.
>
> Well, let me close this long message with this caterogical statement: "Walter Thompson is a moron."

☒

According to Danny, the next in this line of letters is coming from John Lomacang. IF he proceeds with it, I'm afraid the same will be appropriately said of him.

Posted by: lurker May 26 2006, 10:45 AM

> QUOTE(vonessa @ May 26 2006, 10:56 AM) ☐
>
> Dr. Thompson's letter on the AToday site was strange. Why go on like that talking about somebody else's divorce and all the allegations of cheating and things? If it wasn't for the country bumpkins at 3ABN, we wouldn't have heard word one about what happened. But they keep leaking these strange stories and then saying that they are "reluctant to make details public."
>
> He says stuff like this, "The relationship Linda had with the Norwegian Dr. was not a normal doctor-patient relationship as she claims. It is true. Linda was very concerned about her son Nathan. He was the vehicle through which the Dr. reached Linda. Our evidence leaves no question that this became much more than a doctor-patient relationship. We know that the long hours on the phone together were not about Nathan and have hard evidence to support this knowledge - nor were times spent together on both sides of the Atlantic. Furthermore, she refused to break it off, even after weeks of pleading with her to do so. We, the board believe the evidence we have clearly justifies the divorce and gives Danny the moral and legal right to remarry. Those in church leadership with whom we have shared some of this evidence agree with us. Out of concern for Linda we have been reluctant to make details public."
>
> Now what kind of marriage is that public that everybody you work with has to know about all the little details? This sounds like my teenage daughter. And how do they know the talk wasn't about Nathan? What were they listening for?
>
> If I was Linda, I would of told them to get out of being up in my business. And what kind of affair goes on in the telephone?
>
> Sorry I am talking so long, but this bugs me! And then this Thompson guy says this, "I have had an interesting thought this week that I will share with you. It is this. God lost one of his closest companions when Lucifer went astray. More than that, myriads more angels left with him when he left heaven. Talk about grief or emotional pain. Experiences such as this with Linda, I think, help us > to understand the pain of loss, and the reality of the war between God and Satan. Some have claimed it takes two to divorce. I don't think that is categorically true!"

>
> Now that don't make any sense unless it's trying to say that Linda is just like Lucifer and that Danny is like God. Talk about taking the "high road." Perhaps Thompson should get off his meds before he writes his next excuse letter. Can't believe that nobody told him that he would sound like an idiot. He's like one of those old southern hicks who thinks he's so high and mighty that people will just listen to whatever he says because he's the one saying it.
>
> Well, let me close this long message with this caterogical statement: "Walter Thompson is a moron."

Was Linda able to go with Danny to Tampa? Did Danny go? What happened on that trip?
http://web.archive.org/web/20040208170940/http://www.3abn.org/

Posted by: Panama_Pete May 26 2006, 11:02 AM

> QUOTE(vonessa @ May 26 2006, 09:56 AM)
>
> Dr. Thompson's letter on the AToday site was strange. Why go on like that talking about somebody else's divorce and all the allegations of cheating and things? If it wasn't for the country bumpkins at 3ABN, we wouldn't have heard word one about what happened. But they keep leaking these strange stories and then saying that they are "reluctant to make details public."
>
> He says stuff like this, "The relationship Linda had with the Norwegian Dr. was not a normal doctor-patient relationship as she claims. It is true. Linda was very concerned about her son Nathan. He was the vehicle through which the Dr. reached Linda. Our evidence leaves no question that this became much more than a doctor-patient relationship. We know that the long hours on the phone together were not about Nathan and have hard evidence to support this knowledge - nor were times spent together on both sides of the Atlantic. Furthermore, she refused to break it off, even after weeks of pleading with her to do so. We, the board believe the evidence we have clearly justifies the divorce and gives Danny the moral and legal right to remarry. Those in church leadership with whom we have shared some of this evidence agree with us. Out of concern for Linda we have been reluctant to make details public."
>
> Now what kind of marriage is that public that everybody you work with has to know about all the little details? This sounds like my teenage daughter. And how do they know the talk wasn't about Nathan? What were they listening for?
>
> If I was Linda, I would of told them to get out of being up in my business. And what kind of affair goes on in the telephone?
>
> Sorry I am talking so long, but this bugs me! And then this Thompson guy says this, "I have had an interesting thought this week that I will share with you. It is this. God lost one of his closest companions when Lucifer went astray. More than that, myriads more angels left with him when he left heaven. Talk about grief or emotional pain. Experiences such as this with Linda, I think, help us to understand the pain of loss, and the reality of the war between God and Satan. Some have claimed it takes two to divorce. I don't think that is categorically true!"
>
> Now that don't make any sense unless it's trying to say that Linda is just like Lucifer and that Danny is like God. Talk about taking the "high road." Perhaps Thompson should get off his meds before he writes his next excuse letter. Can't believe that nobody told him that he would sound like an idiot. He's like one of those old southern hicks who thinks he's so high and mighty that people will just listen to whatever he says because he's the one saying it.

> Well, let me close this long message with this caterogical statement: "Walter Thompson is a moron."

The letter you mentioned stated: "Lucifer went astray. More than that, myriads more angels left with him when he left heaven. Talk about grief or emotional pain. Experiences such as this with Linda...."

My family and I just laughed when we (the evil angels?) read that part.

Posted by: Fran May 26 2006, 11:34 AM

> QUOTE(lurker @ May 26 2006, 11:45 AM) ☐
>
> Was Linda able to go with Danny to Tampa? Did Danny go? What happened on that trip?
> http://web.archive.org/web/20040208170940/http://www.3abn.org/

Lurker;

My guess? She found out about Brandy and thier child? March 7, she is accused of Spiritual Adultery!

Hope TV;

Hire Linda; she is the clean one.

Posted by: beartrap May 26 2006, 11:45 AM

> QUOTE(Fran @ May 26 2006, 12:34 PM) ☐
>
> Hope TV;
>
> Hire Linda; she is the clean one.

She may technically be clean, but realistically she is tarnished; damaged goods. I have spoken with media organizations in the church who say they believe her, and say they would like to use her, but it would split their base.

Posted by: Panama_Pete May 26 2006, 12:25 PM

> QUOTE(beartrap @ May 26 2006, 11:45 AM) ☐
>
> She may technically be clean, but realistically she is tarnished; damaged goods. I have spoken with > media organizations in the church who say they believe her, and say they would like to use her, but it would split their base.

They may have said that about the "damaged goods," but I don't believe those sentiments for one New York second. They are wrong. Pure and simple. If they truly believe what they said, then they are unworthy. They are chaff in the wind.

Beartrap, you are hearing political, "Cultural Adventism" in practice. The truth is this: Every market is segmented.

If you go to any Wal-Mart music department, one person heads for the Spanish-language "musica," others head for Country." Some go for Jazz. Some buy Southern Gospel.

Do we expect media organizations to be any different? The only way they can avoid "splitting a base" is if they have no base in the first place.

Linda will continue her ministry and establish her own base. Her base may end up being larger than the ones who are worried about "splitting" theirs.

Don't make the mistake of internalizing those negative comments. You have nothing to fear but fear itself.

Posted by: beartrap May 26 2006, 12:46 PM

> QUOTE(Panama_Pete @ May 26 2006, 01:25 PM)

> They may have said that about the "damaged goods," but I don't believe those sentiments for one New York second. They are wrong. Pure and simple. If they truly believe what they said, then they are unworthy. They are chaff in the wind.
>
> Beartrap, you are hearing political, "Cultural Adventism" in practice. The truth is this: Every market is segmented.
>
> If you go to any Wal-Mart music department, one person heads for the Spanish-language "musica," others head for Country." Some go for Jazz. Some buy Southern Gospel.
>
> Do we expect media organizations to be any different? The only way they can avoid "splitting a base" is if they have no base in the first place.
>
> Linda will continue her ministry and establish her own base. Her base may end up being larger than the ones who are worried about "splitting" theirs.
>
> Don't make the mistake of internalizing those negative comments. You have nothing to fear but fear itself.

Good point, Pete, and I don't disagree. Just saying that this is what the Adventist media .orgs I have spoken with have to say.

Posted by: Clay May 26 2006, 01:11 PM

> QUOTE(beartrap @ May 26 2006, 12:46 PM)
>
> Good point, Pete, and I don't disagree. Just saying that this is what the Adventist media .orgs I have spoken with have to say.

we give them too much power over our lives...

Posted by: gracetoyou May 26 2006, 01:56 PM

> QUOTE(beartrap @ May 26 2006, 12:45 PM)
>
> She may technically be clean, but realistically she is tarnished; damaged goods. I have spoken with media organizations in the church who say they believe her, and say they would like to use her, but it would split their base.

This reminds me of something that was predicted about Jesus Christ and could also be applied to Him as He is treated in His disciples (Linda) - "to be a sign that will be spoken against, so that the thoughts of many hearts will be revealed." Luke 2: 34, 35

The reactions of people to the Linda Shelton situation - supporting and defending her; not wanting to get involved for expediency, politics, financial support, etc.; or attacking her to further their own ambitions - reveal the caliber of Christianity of Christ's professed followers.

What specific media organizations are too wimpy to use her? The Hope Channel? I donate $100 per month to them, but if they are refusing to use Linda out of fear than they have received my last dollar. Are there any at all who are interested in using her? They would have my financial support.

Posted by: sonshineonme May 26 2006, 02:29 PM

> QUOTE(gracetoyou @ May 26 2006, 11:56 AM)
>
> This reminds me of something that was predicted about Jesus Christ and could also be applied to Him as He is treated in His disciples (Linda) - "to be a sign that will be spoken against, so that the thoughts of many hearts will be revealed." Luke 2: 34, 35
>
> The reactions of people to the Linda Shelton situation - supporting and defending her; not wanting to get involved for expediency, politics, financial support, etc.; or attacking her to further their own ambitions - reveal the caliber of Christianity of Christ's professed followers.
>
> What specific media organizations are too wimpy to use her? The Hope Channel? I donate $100 per month to them, but if they are refusing to use Linda out of fear than they have received my last dollar. Are there any at all who are interested in using her? They would have my financial > support.

I am with you 100%. Maybe we need to know these things, the dollar can speak when they won't listen to your voice.

Posted by: statrei May 26 2006, 03:19 PM

> QUOTE(gracetoyou @ May 26 2006, 03:56 PM)
>
> What specific media organizations are too wimpy to use her? The Hope Channel? I donate $100 per month to them, but if they are refusing to use Linda out of fear than they have received my last dollar. Are there any at all who are interested in using her? They would have my financial support.

Is Linda a new Messiah of some sort? I don't get this new twist.

Posted by: seeshell May 26 2006, 03:43 PM

Oops, posted in the wrong thread...sorry...carry on.

Posted by: beartrap May 26 2006, 05:03 PM

> QUOTE(statrei @ May 26 2006, 04:19 PM)
>
> Is Linda a new Messiah of some sort? I don't get this new twist.

rofl Messiah!!! rofl Come from Springfield to save us from the Romans rofl No, that would be Kenny Shelton come to save us from all the Roman Catholics who have insidiously been infiltrating our church and taking all the high positions. Didn't you know that they are all Jesuits? Yes, we should certainly make him our new messiah... oh and the co-messiah could be his brother who will save us from all that spare change accumulating in our miserly pockets.

No, she is nobody's messiah (LOL)

Posted by: gracetoyou May 26 2006, 05:15 PM

> QUOTE(statrei @ May 26 2006, 05:19 PM)

> Is Linda a new Messiah of some sort? I don't get this new twist.

Jesus said, "Inasmuch as you did it to one of the least of these My brethren, you did it to Me." Matt. 25:40. "In all who suffer for My name, said Jesus, you are to recognize Me. As you would minister to Me, so you are to minister to them. This is the evidence that you are My disciples." Desire of Ages, p. 638.

The point of using the verse from Luke is to show that people's treatment of Linda reveals what is in their hearts in terms of whether or not they are genuine Christians. Will they stand for what is just and right even though it may be unpopular and may cost them financially/socially or will they, like the priest and Levite in the Good Samaritan story, just look the other way and walk on because they don't want to risk getting involved.

For instance, if a media organization believes Linda is innocent, but won't put her on their programs due to fear of "splitting their base" and losing financial support, then that shows that they, like Caiaphas in John 11, are doing what is expedient and depending upon man, instead of doing what is right and depending upon God.

Posted by: inga May 26 2006, 07:33 PM

> QUOTE(gracetoyou @ May 26 2006, 02:56 PM)
>
> What specific media organizations are too wimpy to use her? The Hope Channel? I donate $100 per month to them, but if they are refusing to use Linda out of fear than they have received my last dollar. Are there any at all who are interested in using her? They would have my financial support.

Now what I see as a really useful activity would be for you to write to the Hope Channel and tell them exactly what you told us here.

To be fair, what Danny heard from the Adventist Media was most likely before Dan's remarriage. Things weren't nearly so clear then as they are now. But those folks are just ordinary humans like the rest of us, and they try to do what is best for the ministry. Sometimes their judgment is wrong.

So by all means, write to Hope Channel. Say you "heard that some of the Adventist media consider Linda Shelton 'damaged goods'" and you hope it isn't them because if it is, you wouldn't feel comfortable sending them their $100.00 a month. Ask them when they'll find a place for Linda.

H'mm ... now who else is sending money to Hope Channel? Who else is going to write a letter?? It would be great if this board could effect some positive change. And even less than a dozen letters like yours, spaced out, can make a real difference. Write directly to the attention of Brad Thorp. (I got the feeling several years ago when I compared HopeTV to 3ABN & said they had some catching up to do that Brad knew something about 3ABN that I didn't. He probably did .... and it wasn't good.)

And, incidentally, a real, snail mail letter would probably have the most impact. People don't get too many real letters nowadays, so they pack a real punch.

Posted by: gracetoyou May 26 2006, 07:44 PM

I'll write Brad Thorp and Gary Gibbs. I like Gary Gibbs' Winsome Witnessing book and video series and his series of Bible studies. I think he is an honest and sincere Christian.

I'm going to give Hope Channel a call, too. What would Linda want to do if Hope Channel gave her some air time - sing, do an interview, give a devotion, etc.?

Posted by: Panama_Pete May 26 2006, 07:48 PM

> QUOTE(inga @ May 26 2006, 07:33 PM)
>
> Now what I see as a really useful activity would be for you to write to the Hope Channel and tell them exactly what you told us here.
>
> And, incidentally, a real, snail mail letter would probably have the most impact. People don't get too many real letters nowadays, so they pack a real punch.

For that real snail mail, do we have a correct address for the people in management who run Hope Channel? Are Brad and Kandus Thorp located in Silver Spring, Maryland?

Posted by: inga May 26 2006, 10:43 PM

> QUOTE(Panama_Pete @ May 26 2006, 08:48 PM)
>
> For that real snail mail, do we have a correct address for the people in management who run Hope Channel? Are Brad and Kandus Thorp located in Silver Spring, Maryland?

Oh, dear ... maybe snail mail wasn't such a good idea, since the Thorp's are rather hard to pin down. HopeTV seems to have the opposite problem of 3ABN, I do believe. 3ABN is focused on media stars. At HopeTV, there's no mention of who's who, and it's hard to find any names attached to the programs!!

I suspect the first thing to do would be to use the contact form at HopeTV.org. And if you get HopeTV in your home, you'll also see a mailing address displayed now & then -- a place to send your donations. I'd use the same address with "Attention Brad Thorp." Writing to the attention of Kandus Thorp might be just as good. Including a letter with your check would be ideal. ;-)

I believe the Thorps still consider Oliver, British Columbia, their home -- when they can get there. They and their sons, Jonathan, Christopher and Stephen still own the family orchard Brad's parents started. Brad and Kandus attend the Kelowna church where Kandus plays the piano when she's there. They're not "home" much ...

I'll probably watch some HopeTV tomorrow at my mom's place & get the address myself. The North American production seems to be done at http://www.adventistmedia.com/ in Simi Valley, California. I suspect that Brad spends a lot more time there than he used to do.

Posted by: beartrap May 26 2006, 11:08 PM

Brad and Kandus are on the road most of the time. Gary Gibbs is the most stationary of the management and he is based in Silver Spring.

Posted by: watchbird May 27 2006, 02:41 AM

> QUOTE(gracetoyou @ May 26 2006, 01:56 PM)
>
> The reactions of people to the Linda Shelton situation - supporting and defending her; not wanting to get involved for expediency, politics, financial support, etc.; or attacking her to further their own ambitions - reveal the caliber of Christianity of Christ's professed followers.
>
> What specific media organizations are too wimpy to use her? The Hope Channel? I donate $100 per month to them, but if they are refusing to use Linda out of fear than they have received my last dollar. Are there any at all who are interested in using her? They would have my financial support.

> QUOTE(sonshineonme @ May 26 2006, 02:29 PM)
>
> I am with you 100%. Maybe we need to know these things, the dollar can speak when they won't listen to your voice.

How is this different in principle than Garwin with his millions seeking to control by the dollar?

Wouldn't it be better to continue to support HOPE realizing that as a beginning endeavor they are needing help just to keep going? With Danny putting all kinds of pressure on them in an attempt to control and destroy them, surely they don't need threats from other directions. If you want to see Linda included in their programing lineup, then put in a request for that. But it will not, in the long run, help her cause to play the "control by dollar" game.

And Linda is not the only ex-3ABN employee who is suffering because of Danny's harassment of prospective employers. If someone wants to help them financially, I'd suggest sending funds to Polly's Place. http://www.pollysplacenetwork.com Mable Dunbar, president of Polly's Place, has been very supportive of both Linda and Derrell and would hire them both if she only had the funds. But since it became known that she is supportive of Linda, her usual ASI yearly grant has been not renewed this year.

Coincidence?

Posted by: gracetoyou May 27 2006, 07:32 AM

> QUOTE(watchbird @ May 27 2006, 04:41 AM)
>
> How is this different in principle than Garwin with his millions seeking to control by the dollar?

> Wouldn't it be better to continue to support HOPE realizing that as a beginning endeavor they are needing help just to keep going? With Danny putting all kinds of pressure on them in an attempt to control and destroy them, surely they don't need threats from other directions. If you want to see Linda included in their programing lineup, then put in a request for that. But it will not, in the long run, help her cause to play the "control by dollar" game.
>
> And Linda is not the only ex-3ABN employee who is suffering because of Danny's harassment of prospective employers. If someone wants to help them financially, I'd suggest sending funds to Polly's Place. http://www.pollysplacenetwork.com Mable Dunbar, president of Polly's Place, has been very supportive of both Linda and Derrell and would hire them both if she only had the funds. But since it became known that she is supportive of Linda, her usual ASI yearly grant has been not renewed this year.
>
> Coincidence?

You're probably right about requesting that Linda be included in their programming without the dollar threat, but I still would be more supportive of organizations that are man enough to support the victims of 3abn. Thank-you for the information about Polly's Place. I'll send them a check. I'll ask Hope Channel if they would do a segment on Polly's Place also. This would give them publicity and, consequently, more funding from viewers.

Too bad about ASI not renewing their grant. But then, isn't Garwin McNeilus a member of ASI Missions, Inc.?

Posted by: Panama_Pete May 27 2006, 08:34 AM

> QUOTE(watchbird @ May 27 2006, 02:41 AM)
>
> How is this different in principle than Garwin with his millions seeking to control by the dollar?
>
> Wouldn't it be better to continue to support HOPE realizing that as a beginning endeavor they are needing help just to keep going? With Danny putting all kinds of pressure on them in an attempt to control and destroy them, surely they don't need threats from other directions. If you want to see Linda included in their programing lineup, then put in a request for that. But it will not, in the long run, help her cause to play the "control by dollar" game.
>
> And Linda is not the only ex-3ABN employee who is suffering because of Danny's harassment of prospective employers. If someone wants to help them financially, I'd suggest sending funds to Polly's Place. http://www.pollysplacenetwork.com Mable Dunbar, president of Polly's Place, has been very supportive of both Linda and Derrell and would hire them both if she only had the funds. But since it became known that she is supportive of Linda, her usual ASI yearly grant has been not renewed this year.
>
> Coincidence?

Some very good points, here.

There is a difference between being influential and being controlling. I would guess that $25 to $100 dollars would not make it into the controlling arena, but we need to be careful, anyway, so that we are not misunderstood.

I will tuck in a note with my contribution, but make sure it is done with no strings attached. The people who are at the http://www.hopetv.org/ are good people and probably have had their fill of any "control by dollar" situations.

Also, I was not aware of the political situation at http://www.pollysplacenetwork.com Can you hear my other shoe dropping? I hope it turns out to be a coincidence or some sort of clerical oversight at http://www.asiministries.org/.

> QUOTE(inga @ May 26 2006, 10:43 PM)
>
> Oh, dear ... maybe snail mail wasn't such a good idea, since the Thorp's are rather hard to pin down.

Actually, it was a very good idea.

Brad will see his mail whenever he returns to the office. Just be sure to use archival quality paper so the letter doesn't deteriorate.

Posted by: beartrap May 27 2006, 09:59 AM

Polly's Place Network is the organization that has stepped out to do the TV programs with Linda. These programs will be on the topic of domestic abuse. Last year, Danny Shelton made a point of meeting personally with Dr. Mable Dunbar to convince her not to associate with Linda or any of her friends. He warned her that if she continued her work with Linda, Polly's Place would have to suffer. Almost immediately some of Dr. Dunbar's associates let her know that Danny had spoken with them, and they were withdrawing their support. Then ASI let her know that she would not be recieving her annual grant either.

A few days ago, John Lomacang called her from 3ABN and proceeded to talk with her about her association with Linda. She let him know that this was inappropriate and got off the phone.

Polly's Place Network is an abuse prevention and recovery organization that operates under the Upper Columbia Conference in Spokane, WA. They operate a number of women's shelters in North America, and expanding now to other parts of the world. They have a strong educational program, used by a growing number of conferences, that provides seminars, materials, etc. for conference leadership, churches, community, schools, law enforcement agencies, and more.

The Pentecostal Church in Sierra Leone has asked Polly's Place to come in and open a facility in Freetown, and provide leadership and training for their pastors. An ecumenical group in Pakistan has requested the same for their organization.

In Salt Lake City, UT, the Mormons are starting their own abuse prevention and recovery organization and have asked Polly's Place to provide the training and structure for them. In North Carolina, a Baptist group has requested the same thing.

In Canada Native American tribal group is already working with Polly's Place as they seek to deal with the horrendous domestic issues they face on the reservations.

All of this is to say that any contribution you make to Polly's Place Network will go far beyond the situation with Linda, and Danny's attempts to delete her and her friends... it will make a difference in the lives of a lot of people who really need it.

Polly's Place Network
P.O. Box 19039
Spokane, WA 99219
509-838-2761

http://www.pollysplacenetwork.com

If you need help or counselling, you call toll-free 1-877-276-5597 to speak with Dr. Dunbar.

Posted by: gracetoyou May 27 2006, 10:26 AM

[quote name='beartrap' date='May 27 2006, 11:59 AM' post='132471']
Polly's Place Network is the organization that has stepped out to do the TV programs with Linda. These programs will be on the topic of domestic abuse. Last year, Danny Shelton made a point of meeting personally with Dr. Mable Dunbar to convince her not to associate with Linda or any of her friends. He warned her that if she continued her work with Linda, Polly's Place would have to suffer. Almost immediately some of Dr. Dunbar's associates let her know that Danny had spoken with them, and they were withdrawing their support. Then ASI let her know that she would not be recieving her annual grant either.

A few days ago, John Lomacang called her from 3ABN and proceeded to talk with her about her association with Linda. She let him know that this was inappropriate and got off the phone.

This vindictive behavior on the part of Danny and his associates shows more than anything else who is telling the truth in the he said/she said explanation of the Shelton divorce (if anyone still had doubts). If Danny, as claimed by Walt Thompson, was the grieving, innocent victim of Linda's adultery, why would he and his associates continue to harass her and threaten her supporters? This is not the behavior of godly people.

Kudos to Dr. Dunbar Shame on her wet noodle associates and ASI.

Posted by: Panama_Pete May 27 2006, 11:19 AM

> QUOTE(beartrap @ May 27 2006, 10:59 AM)
>
> Polly's Place Network is the organization that has stepped out to do the TV programs with Linda. These programs will be on the topic of domestic abuse. Last year, Danny Shelton made a point of meeting personally with Dr. Mable Dunbar to convince her not to associate with Linda or any of her friends. He warned her that if she continued her work with Linda, Polly's Place would have to suffer. Almost immediately some of Dr. Dunbar's associates let her know that Danny had spoken with them, and they were withdrawing their support. Then ASI let her know that she would not be recieving her annual grant either.

> A few days ago, John Lomacang called her from 3ABN and proceeded to talk with her about her association with Linda. She let him know that this was inappropriate and got off the phone.
>
> Polly's Place Network is an abuse prevention and recovery organization that operates under the Upper Columbia Conference in Spokane, WA. They operate a number of women's shelters in North America, and expanding now to other parts of the world. They have a strong educational program, used by a growing number of conferences, that provides seminars, materials, etc. for conference leadership, churches, community, schools, law enforcement agencies, and more.
>
> The Pentecostal Church in Sierra Leone has asked Polly's Place to come in and open a facility in Freetown, and provide leadership and training for their pastors. An ecumenical group in Pakistan has requested the same for their organization.
>
> In Salt Lake City, UT, the Mormons are starting their own abuse prevention and recovery organization and have asked Polly's Place to provide the training and structure for them. In North Carolina, a Baptist group has requested the same thing.
>
> In Canada Native American tribal group is already working with Polly's Place as they seek to deal with the horrendous domestic issues they face on the reservations.
>
> All of this is to say that any contribution you make to Polly's Place Network will go far beyond the situation with Linda, and Danny's attempts to delete her and her friends... it will make a difference in the lives of a lot of people who really need it.
>
> Polly's Place Network
> P.O. Box 19039
> Spokane, WA 99219
> 509-838-2761
>
> http://www.pollysplacenetwork.com
>
> If you need help or counselling, you call toll-free 1-877-276-5597 to speak with Dr. Dunbar.

Thank you for clarifying the situation.

It's too bad to hear that the members of http://www.asiministries.org/ http://www.asiministries.org/ have been influenced in that direction.

I understand that http://www.illinoisadventist.org/asi__business_prof__assn_.html, President of the http://www.illinoisadventist.org/, and a Board member of http://www.3abn.org is also the http://www.asiministries.org/ representative to http://www.illinoisadventist.org/asi__business_prof__assn_.html from the Illinois Conference.

If you're not familiar with http://www.kdenslow.blogspot.com/, he has a blog right here. There are some photos of Town Hall meetings, and their attendees.

http://www.kdenslow.blogspot.com/

Posted by: summertime May 28 2006, 08:17 AM

> QUOTE(Panama_Pete @ May 27 2006, 11:19 AM) ☐
>
> Thank you for clarifying the situation.
>
> It's too bad to hear that the members of http://www.asiministries.org/ http://www.asiministries.org/ have been influenced in that direction.
>
> I understand that http://www.illinoisadventist.org/asi__business_prof__assn_.html, President of the http://www.illinoisadventist.org/, and a Board member of http://www.3abn.org is also the http://www.asiministries.org/ representative to http://www.illinoisadventist.org/asi__business_prof__assn_.html from the Illinois Conference.
>
> If you're not familiar with http://www.kdenslow.blogspot.com/, he has a blog right here. There are some photos of Town Hall meetings, and their attendees.
>
> http://www.kdenslow.blogspot.com/

I was looking through the the Ken Denslow 'blog' and I could not help but notice the February picture of John Lomacang and his wife sitting there making sure that everything was in its place at the fellowship meeting'. He will pay a price, but he has certainly lost the respect of the members that I have spoken to in the Central St. Louis church where he was a humble (?) honorable(?) pastor for a short little while. Making the jump to 3ABN has put him in a descending position where certainly the angels are watching the things that he is doing. It sickens me to see the Illinois Conference President pushing forward the character who is trading his honor with God for the big house, the monetary benefits and his apparent willingness to do the destructive work promoted by Danny Shelton. The position where he has put himself into second line position to reinforce Danny's efforts to destroy a lady who is reaching to help the abused is worse than dishonorable.

Posted by: watchbird May 28 2006, 11:05 AM

> QUOTE(summertime @ May 28 2006, 08:17 AM) ☐
>
> I was looking through the the Ken Denslow 'blog' and I could not help but notice the February picture of John Lomacang and his wife sitting there making sure that everything was in its place at the fellowship meeting'. He will pay a price, but he has certainly lost the respect of the members that I have spoken to in the Central St. Louis church where he was a humble (?) honorable(?) pastor for a short little while. Making the jump to 3ABN has put him in a descending position where certainly the angels are watching the things that he is doing. It sickens me to see the Illinois Conference President pushing forward the character who is trading his honor with God for the big house, the monetary benefits and his apparent willingness to do the destructive work promoted by Danny Shelton.

Most of us live out our lives in the small circles of our family, friends, and local contacts at work or church. While we each have a sphere of influence and each are called to "make a difference" in the struggle between good and evil that goes on all around us, that "difference" may be only in a very small and circumscribed circle.

Our standing for the right is often done in quite unremarkable ways: smiling at a rambunctious child, showing sensitivity to a coworker who is having a bad day, choosing carefully the jokes we laugh at, the TV programs we watch, the videos we pick up from the store without thinking that the clerk might be taking mental note.

Only occasionally is someone put in a position where they have opportunity to stand as a hero and make a pronounced difference in the lives of people all around the globe. The rarity of the opportunity tends to magnify the tragedy when someone placed in that position chooses to aid evil rather than take a stand against it. We have no way of knowing the motivations of John Lomacang's heart. Is he driven merely by the desire for monetary and popularity benefits? Is he driven by fear of retaliation should he speak the truth? Is he living in fear that that some unknown to the world weakness of his will be exposed? Would it also expose him to dangers of which we have little knowledge? It would take real courage and character to step out at this point and have to confess his errancy for not doing so before. Does John Lomacang have that kind of courage and character?

One definition of a hero is one who can act for the right even in the face of his fears. Another way of saying this is that courage is not the absence of fear, but choosing to do the thing that needs to be done in spite of the fear, in spite of genuine danger.

Desmond Doss was that kind of hero.

Is John Lomacang able to be a hero?

Only time will tell.

> QUOTE
>
> The position where he has put himself into second line position to reinforce Danny's efforts to destroy a lady who is reaching to help the abused is worse than dishonorable.

Let us not let ourselves be focused so on Linda that we forget those others whom Danny attempts to destroy in the process, and also those whom he attempts to destroy who have no relationship to anything that has happened between him and Linda.

Look at the Polly's Place incident for example. Think of the hundreds of individuals who will not receive the help they need had Mabel's grant money from ASI not been cut out this year. And that is only one example. I'm sure that others could give many more.

Posted by: Panama_Pete May 28 2006, 11:17 AM

> QUOTE(summertime @ May 28 2006, 08:17 AM) ☐
>
> I was looking through the the Ken Denslow 'blog' and I could not help but notice the February picture of John Lomacang and his wife sitting there making sure that everything was in its place at the fellowship meeting'. He will pay a price, but he has certainly lost the respect of the members that I have spoken to in the Central St. Louis church where he was a humble (?) honorable(?) pastor for a short little while. Making the jump to 3ABN has put him in a descending position where certainly the angels are watching the things that he is doing. It sickens me to see the Illinois Conference President pushing forward the character who is trading his honor with God for the big house, the monetary benefits and his apparent willingness to do the destructive work promoted by Danny Shelton. The position where he has put himself into second line position to reinforce Danny's efforts to destroy a lady who is reaching to help the abused is worse than dishonorable.

It is timely and interesting that you would mention that the angels are watching. I feel exactly the same way.

Just this weekend, my visiting relatives said, "These Illinois people are behaving as though nobody is watching or taking note. Do they feel no Supreme Being watching them? Do these men feel they're walking the earth alone?

From my relatives' point of view, the lesson that these Illinois men are inadvertently teaching onlookers is that belief in a Higher Being is for the superstitious and that the real "power game" is played somewhere else.

You are ill about it because it cuts across your deepest core values.

Remember that Mr. Lomacang, most likely, does not act alone. Mr. Denslow is on the 3ABN Board. My guess is that Mr. Denslow and Mr. Shelton pre-approve most everything their employee, Mr. Lomacang does.

Posted by: sister May 28 2006, 01:05 PM

"Not My Business..."

For many that come to this thread and view it's contents, this is nothing more than a good read, interesting perhaps, but nothing more. Supposing they have no dog in this fight, they remain silent witnesses. But I beg to differ, whenever another human being has taken a stand against injustice, we all have a dog in that fight. The following is penned by Nigerian poet, Niyi Osundare. Although the excesses that he witnessed under a cruel dictatorship greatly exceeds anything in the experience of former 3ABN employees, the principles that undergird any organization where a man can be corrupted through the wielding of unrestricted power, remain the same.

Not my business

They picked Akanni up one morning
Beat him soft like clay
And stuffed him down the belly of a waiting jeep
What business of mine is it
So long they don't take the yam
From my savouring mouth?

They came one night
Booted the whole house awake
And dragged Danladi out,
Then off to a lengthy absence
What business of mine is it
So long they don't take the yam
From my savouring mouth?

Chinwe went to work one day
Only to find her job was gone:
No query, no warning, no probe-
Just one neat sack for a stainless record.
What business of mine is it
So long they don't take the yam
From my savouring mouth?

And then one evening
As I sat down to eat my yam

A knock on the door froze my hungry hand.
The jeep was waiting on my bewildered lawn
Waiting, waiting in its usual silence.

Not unlike Osundare, my chosen method against the abuses I have experienced and witnessed at 3ABN is to "stand upright, and attack with the tongue." It has been said that the pen is mightier than the sword. How can anyone who professes to be saved by the blood of the lamb, Jesus Christ, do anything less?

Posted by: meadbd May 28 2006, 02:51 PM

===
We have no way of knowing the motivations of John Lomacang's heart.
===

Actually, we do...For "Out of the abundance of the heart the mouth speaks" (Matt.12:34). What we think about most of the time always comes out of the mouth. Even an intimidating phone call.

Posted by: summertime May 28 2006, 04:25 PM

> QUOTE(watchbird @ May 28 2006, 11:05 AM) ☐
>
> Most of us live out our lives in the small circles of our family, friends, and local contacts at work or church. While we each have a sphere of influence and each are called to "make a difference" in the struggle between good and evil that goes on all around us, that "difference" may be only in a very small and circumscribed circle.
>
> Our standing for the right is often done in quite unremarkable ways: smiling at a rambunctious child, showing sensitivity to a coworker who is having a bad day, choosing carefully the jokes we laugh at, the TV programs we watch, the videos we pick up from the store without thinking that the clerk might be taking mental note.
>
> Only occasionally is someone put in a position where they have opportunity to stand as a hero and make a pronounced difference in the lives of people all around the globe. The rarity of the opportunity tends to magnify the tragedy when someone placed in that position chooses to aid evil rather than take a stand against it. We have no way of knowing the motivations of John Lomacang's heart. Is he driven merely by the desire for monetary and popularity benefits? Is he driven by fear of retaliation should he speak the truth? Is he living in fear that that some unknown to the world weakness of his will be exposed? Would it also expose him to dangers of which we have little knowledge? It would take real courage and character to step out at this point and have to confess his errancy for not doing so before. Does John Lomacang have that kind of courage and character?
>
> One definition of a hero is one who can act for the right even in the face of his fears. Another way of saying this is that courage is not the absence of fear, but choosing to do the thing that needs to be done in spite of the fear, in spite of genuine danger.
>
> Desmond Doss was that kind of hero.
>
> Is John Lomacang able to be a hero?
>
> Only time will tell.
> Let us not let ourselves be focused so on Linda that we forget those others whom Danny attempts to destroy in the process, and also those whom he attempts to destroy who have no relationship to anything that has happened between him and Linda.

> Look at the Polly's Place incident for example. Think of the hundreds of individuals who will not receive the help they need had Mabel's grant money from ASI not been cut out this year. And that is only one example. I'm sure that others could give many more.

I wrote to Polly's Place--I told them that few will stand up for what is right and that I am proud of them. I told them where I live and asked for ideas for helping their cause--remember the story of Dorcus?---and the truth that I am beginning to see is that many of the strong persons in our church and a great many of the leaders of our denomination weigh their own advantages against the losses that they will suffer if they stand for the right thing to do. It is true that the disappointment that we feel has actually little to do with Linda herself, it is the fact that so many battered and bashed are pushed into the corner because our 'base contributors' may be split. Last night I talked to a man from our church and I was telling him how I felt about Hope TV being afraid to take a stand in hiring the least, because they may lose a share of the supporters which they need at this time. The person that I was talking to is a very successful businessman himself and he assured me that if any entitiy is going to stand and be successful that they have to weigh the advantages and choose the larger group who could contribute more abundently. He told me that the church as a whole has to remember that in circumstances such as these that there is no right and wrong--there is only a division of opinions and that the group who offers the most will be the first to be considered. Suddenly I realized why the richest families in our church base are those chosen to be considered for positions which would place them on the church board. And I felt sad that many of my own family members are among them.

My question is what can those who post on Adventist Forums like the most of us do, who can not move mountains to make things right for Polly's Place and to be in a position to care for those who have lost their jobs at 3ABN or other places where like things has happened.? We may think 'not much' but as 'sister' said, "What if the yams were taken out of our own mouths?" Sometimes a little can amount to much if it is collectively counted, and if we really want to believe that God is in charge, we can pray. Have we seen miracles in answer to all these questions? If we have, then lets try in a collective way to make a difference. I am sure that Danny Shelton is not the only one who can receive miracles from God.

Posted by: gracetoyou May 28 2006, 08:14 PM

It would be most useful if the information about Danny Shelton and 3abn found on this website was rewritten in a concise form that we could print out, make copies and send to friends and thought leaders within the church. That would really get people talking. It would be interesting if Linda took a lie detector test that we could include in the info. A friend who watches 3abn told me today that Danny has been mentioning that "lies" are being circulated. Wonder what he's been reading.

I figure that the reason Danny does not want Polly's Place or any organization to use Linda is that they want her to be invisible to the public so that the public will believe their lies about Linda and her "relationship" with the doctor. People would assume that Linda is too ashamed and guilty to appear in public and/or is too involved with her illicit relationship. If Linda appears in public and on television in Christian ministry, that would get people to question the 3abn version of the story, and they may begin to investigate her side of the story. Now that Danny has remarried, that would be especially dangerous.

Posted by: Panama_Pete May 28 2006, 08:57 PM

> QUOTE(gracetoyou @ May 28 2006, 08:14 PM)

> A friend who watches 3abn told me today that Danny has been mentioning that "lies" are being circulated. r Wonder what he's been reading.
>
> I figure that the reason Danny does not want Polly's Place or any organization to use Linda is that they want her to be invisible to the public so that the public will believe their lies about Linda and her "relationship" with the doctor. People would assume that Linda is too ashamed and guilty to appear in public and/or is too involved with her illicit relationship. If Linda appears in public and on television in Christian ministry, that would get people to question the 3abn version of the story, and they may begin to investigate her side of the story. Now that Danny has remarried, that would be especially dangerous.

Of course, they do indeed want Linda Shelton to be invisible. The power brokers in coal country have decreed it. Now everybody fall into line, please. rofl

I wonder if the power brokers are planning the same invisibility for Trinity, the little girl Danny and Brandy introduced on the November 2005 Christmas program? Or, will we be seeing more of Trinity? This was the Christmas program where Danny and Brandy sang a duet, with a choir of 3ABN employees in the background. I remembered her name because it is the same as the network, http://www.tbn.org.

Posted by: watchbird May 28 2006, 09:07 PM

> QUOTE(summertime @ May 28 2006, 04:25 PM)
>
> I wrote to Polly's Place--I told them that few will stand up for what is right and that I am proud of them. I told them where I live and asked for ideas for helping their cause--remember the story of Dorcus?---
>
> [cut]
>
> My question is what can those who post on Adventist Forums like the most of us do, who can not move mountains to make things right for Polly's Place and to be in a position to care for those who have lost their jobs at 3ABN or other places where like things has happened.? We may think 'not much' but as 'sister' said, "What if the yams were taken out of our own mouths?" Sometimes a little can amount to much if it is collectively counted, and if we really want to believe that God is in charge, we can pray. Have we seen miracles in answer to all these questions? If we have, then lets try in a collective way to make a difference. I am sure that Danny Shelton is not the only one who can receive miracles from God.

"She hath done what she could". These words of commendation from Jesus are, I think, a possible goal for each of us.

What can we do? Just what we are doing. Tell our stories. Encourage others to tell theirs. Let the different personalities and viewpoints color our interpretations of the stories so this is a living tapestry woven by many word artists hung out here in public so all who pass may read.

What can we do? Just what you have done. Pick a place, offer a word of encouragement. Give a donation. Tell others of this "wonderful place called Polly's Place" which is in need of money to follow up on all the requests for help they are getting. Tell them that while it is directly connected to the church organization, so it has full lines of accountability in place, that it does not receive funds from the church, but is dependent upon independent sources for funds.

What can we do? That will vary with our circumstances. Let's just do something. Whatever we each can find to do.

Posted by: Fran May 29 2006, 12:57 AM

> QUOTE(watchbird @ May 28 2006, 10:07 PM) ☐
>
> What can we do? That will vary with our circumstances. Let's just do something. Whatever we each can find to do.

Thank you watchbird for your wonderful, accurate comments.

This is for Sister and all his/her other identities.

Sister gave me the go ahead to "sing"! By golly, I did, and then sister said some terrible things. Talk about a slap in the face! In fact she/he blamed me for a post that OTHERS made. People I do not know, or care to know. I find the "Story" rather boring and can clearly see sister has her/his own agenda. That is OK, because I have mine too.

Why? Because I do have a dog in this fight. I stand for those who cannot stand for themselves! You can take that anyway you want to.

When Jesus comes, He will ask me what I did to stop these crimes and sins done in the name of the Lord. I can reply that I did my best by even reporting it to authorities. Maybe I will do it again and again until someone listens. Now, Sister, you go ahead and forget about others and drag this out to fit real nice into YOUR agenda!

I feel I am talking to the now deceased "Margaret Gray" from CA in other personalities. Everyone is talking to themselves. Say something for a change. Answer me this. Why did you only tell about Dr Dunbar just now. You have known for months. You are waiting for your big reveal and that has to wait until the latter part of June. Now, tell me who is not controlled by that almighty dollar! I guess it is more important, and these thing could be continuing to happen to innocent people. Oops!

Yes, you do have an agenda! Can you face God when he asks why you allowed all this delay.

I think I will just wait until the latter part of June and hear Linda herself! You are getting boring as you are stalling. Count the cost! Not telling the truth is a lie. It might be good to understand the adgenda. Nothing should take two years to drag out for so long.

Just venting. Now back to the SLOW reveal with its delayed agenda.

Posted by: Clay May 29 2006, 01:12 AM

> QUOTE(Fran @ May 29 2006, 01:57 AM) ☐
>
> Thank you watchbird for your wonderful, accurate comments.

> This is for Sister and all his/her other identities.
>
> Sister gave me the go ahead to "sing"! By golly, I did, and then sister said some terrible things. Talk about a slap in the face! In fact she/he blamed me for a post that OTHERS made. People I do not know, or care to know. I find the "Story" rather boring and can clearly see sister has her/his own agenda. That is OK, because I have mine too.
>
> Why? Because I do have a dog in this fight. I stand for those who cannot stand for themselves! You can take that anyway you want to.
>
> When Jesus comes, He will ask me what I did to stop these crimes and sins done in the name of the Lord. I can reply that I did my best by even reporting it to authorities. Maybe I will do it again and again until someone listens. Now, Sister, you go ahead and forget about others and drag this out to fit real nice into YOUR agenda!
>
> I feel I am talking to the now deceased "Margaret Gray" from CA in other personalities. Everyone is talking to themselves. Say something for a change. Answer me this. Why did you only tell about Dr Dunbar just now. You have known for months. You are waiting for your big reveal and that has to wait until the latter part of June. Now, tell me who is not controlled by that almighty dollar! I guess it is more important, and these thing could be continuing to happen to innocent people. Oops!
>
> Yes, you do have an agenda! Can you face God when he asks why you allowed all this delay.
>
> I think I will just wait until the latter part of June and hear Linda herself! You are getting boring as you are stalling. Count the cost! Not telling the truth is a lie. It might be good to understand the adgenda. Nothing should take two years to drag out for so long.
> Just venting. Now back to the SLOW reveal with its delayed agenda.

Fran..... I feel the same way... that there is an agenda, and that it is taking forever to get to the punch line.... you obviously know more than I ever will, but I do know when someone is trying to yank my chain or pull my leg.... this is getting old.... one more time.... tinkle or get off the pot....

Posted by: Jvat May 29 2006, 01:36 AM

Fran is this the case of when one deals with mud, they get dirt on them?

Sister, maybe the time has come for you to show your true colors. I do not think that it is time to turn on others in the same fight. Clay, one of the administrators, wants to know what is your real motive here and looks like he has a point!

Speak up, Sister!

Posted by: gracetoyou May 29 2006, 06:39 AM

Curiouser and curiouser!

Posted by: watchbird May 29 2006, 08:22 AM

> QUOTE(Fran @ May 29 2006, 12:57 AM)

> Thank you watchbird for your wonderful, accurate comments.

You are welcome. It would have been much more of a compliment had you chosen to follow them rather than to exhibit your frustration for all the world to see.

And I can understand your frustration. Two years of solid and careful research have not yet apparently produced any real results. The place where most of that research is posted is off limits to everyone except the favored few who are granted entrance to it. Recently I also was added to the list of those not granted access, so I don't really even know if the threads are still there or if they were wiped out like many of them were previously. But whatever your frustration, the inaccurate reporting and demeaning attacks you have chosen to make in this post are such that I simply must respond to them in detail, though I hate to see them repeated even for this purpose.

> QUOTE
>
> This is for Sister and all his/her other identities.

While there are undoubtably others of us here who understand just how serious a defamation of character these statements of yours are in which you suggest that Sister could be a pseudonym for the infamous person who called himself "Margaret Gray", probably most reading this forum have no idea of just how demeaning such an insinuation/accusation really is. One would have to have been a member of CA for some time to have had the misfortune of seeing MG in all her infamy and feeling the bite of his caustic tongue. Talk about unfounded rumor without documentation! This post could be deleted by staff on that grounds alone. For if indeed such were to be the case, it would mean that that person (or persons as has been claimed by him/them) would have had to undergo not only conversion, but a complete change of character, writing style, employment history, and character. The only possible "circumstantial evidence" for you to build this speculation on is the one thing that this is a "female" pseudonym. That's all. Nothing else fits. Nothing!

> QUOTE
>
> Sister gave me the go ahead to "sing"!

May I remind you, Sister is not the master of this forum or this thread. Even if she recognized that you had valuable informtion gained by careful research that you could profitably share with this forum, and expressed it in her characteristically picturesque language, that should have had no influence over you to the extent of laying aside your previously exhibited discretion as to what should and what should not be said in a public forum.

> QUOTE
>
> By golly, I did, and then sister said some terrible things. Talk about a slap in the face! In fact she/he blamed me for a post that OTHERS made. People I do not know, or care to know. I find the "Story" rather boring and can clearly see sister has her/his own agenda. That is OK, because I have mine too.
>
> Why? Because I do have a dog in this fight. I stand for those who cannot stand for themselves! You can take that anyway you want to.
>
> When Jesus comes, He will ask me what I did to stop these crimes and sins done in the name of the Lord. I can reply that I did my best by even reporting it to authorities. Maybe I will do it again and again until someone listens. Now, Sister, you go ahead and forget about others and drag this out to fit real nice into YOUR agenda!

I think that Sister has made it quite clear what her "agenda" is, and that it is the same as that of the other serious researchers who do not think that Danny Shelton should be allowed to continue his unscrupulous and damaging ways while hiding behind the allegations of others that he both speaks directly for God and that he is "the face of Adventism to the world".

I rather think that she has a much larger "dog" in the fight than what either you or I do, and that she knows a lot more about the numbers and state of living of "those who cannot stand for themselves" than we do. So I'm suggesting very strongly that you apologize to her and to this forum for your unseemly and inaccurate burst of emotional accusations.

> QUOTE
>
> I feel I am talking to the now deceased "Margaret Gray" from CA in other personalities. Everyone is talking to themselves. Say something for a change. Answer me this. Why did you only tell about Dr Dunbar just now. You have known for months. You are waiting for your big reveal and that has to wait until the latter part of June. Now, tell me who is not controlled by that almighty dollar! I guess it is more important, and these thing could be continuing to happen to innocent people. Oops!

As a matter of fact, it was not Sister who posted about Mabel Dunbar. I believe that I was the first, though almost immediately after I posted I noticed that Beartrap had mentioned the name of Polly's Place in another thread, but I didn't compare the date time stamps to see who was first. When I mentioned it I did so only obliquely, not sure that Beartrap wanted the details revealed. It was he who revealed them, and actually revealed more details on them than I myself had been aware of until that moment. What the significance of "the latter part of June" is, I don't know. I do know that we are all waiting for the "wheels that grind slowly" to grind away. When it is time to reveal all, doubtless we will all know about it.

> QUOTE
>
> Yes, you do have an agenda! Can you face God when he asks why you allowed all this delay.
>
> I think I will just wait until the latter part of June and hear Linda herself! You are getting boring as you are stalling. Count the cost! Not telling the truth is a lie. It might be good to understand the adgenda. Nothing should take two years to drag out for so long.
> Just venting. Now back to the SLOW reveal with its delayed agenda.

I think it would have been better for you to restrict your venting to private individuals and go back to your normal character of patient thorough investigator and patient waiter.

> QUOTE(Clay @ May 29 2006, 01:12 AM) ☐
>
> Fran..... I feel the same way... that there is an agenda, and that it is taking forever to get to the punch line.... you obviously know more than I ever will, but I do know when someone is trying to yank my chain or pull my leg.... this is getting old.... one more time.... tinkle or get off the pot....

This is not toilet training time, and yes, it is getting old. Very old for those of us who have followed it for two years. Very, very, very very, old for those who have lived with it, whether trapped in it or excapees from it, for five, ten, or even twenty years. The "punch line" as you call it has not yet been written and cannot be written until it has happened. This is not completed history. This is history in progress. It is never easy to wait for history to happen. Sister can only tell what has happened. She is not a forteller of the future.

> QUOTE(Jvat @ May 29 2006, 01:36 AM) ☐
>
> Fran is this the case of when one deals with mud, they get dirt on them?

I wish you could know Fran as I have seen her in the past. Then you would understand without condemnation that when it is necessary to "deal with mud" it does happen that even the very best do not come out without at least losing their patience at times. But I remain strong in my confidence in Fran's integrity and character, and I am quite sure that once she has vented a bit that she will take a shower and change clothes and once more be her old cheerful, friendly, careful patient researcher that she had previously been.

> QUOTE
>
> Sister, maybe the time has come for you to show your true colors. I do not think that it is time to turn on others in the same fight. Clay, one of the administrators, wants to know what is your real motive here and looks like he has a point!
>
> Speak up, Sister!

You do not know what you ask. Please do not urge Sister to do what she cannot do for reasons that cannot be told. You have all been gracious to her and accepted her as one of your "family".
Most of the rest of you are only known to any other than close friends by some pseudonym. Please, I urge you, continue to allow Sister that same privilege without questioning her motives. It would seem to me that her work stands on its own merit and that her motives are crystal clear and consistent throughout her many installments of history as she lived and observed it.

> QUOTE(gracetoyou @ May 29 2006, 06:39 AM)
>
> Curiouser and curiouser!

Yes indeed.

Posted by: summertime May 29 2006, 08:33 AM

> QUOTE(watchbird @ May 28 2006, 09:07 PM)
>
> "She hath done what she could". These words of commendation from Jesus are, I think, a possible goal for each of us.
>
> What can we do? Just what we are doing. Tell our stories. Encourage others to tell theirs. Let the different personalities and viewpoints color our interpretations of the stories so this is a living tapestry woven by many word artists hung out here in public so all who pass may read.
>
> What can we do? Just what you have done. Pick a place, offer a word of encouragement. Give a donation. Tell others of this "wonderful place called Polly's Place" which is in need of money to follow up on all the requests for help they are getting. Tell them that while it is directly connected to the church organization, so it has full lines of accountability in place, that it does not receive funds from the church, but is dependent upon independent sources for funds.
>
> What can we do? That will vary with our circumstances. Let's just do something. Whatever we each can find to do.

I first got the idea to become a member of C/A by reading an advertisement about it in the "Outlook" MidAmerica which is sent out regularly to all Church Members in our area. I found out about BSDA quite by accident--googling, I think. But I was wondering if BSDA has ever run an ad to encourage people to read this forum in the Outlook--consequently they may be reading the things that we have posted. It might be noted that both C/A and BSDA has an open invitation to all religions, races, colors and creeds.. Also, I wonder if anyone has ever seen "Polly's Place" advertisted in the Outlook. If either of these entities have been advertised in the Outlook I may be simply uninformed. If more SDA knew about Polly's Place more people might be encouraged to contribute to Polly's Place. This is what I meant by collectively working together. By all means, having love for each other on this forum is going to go a long way with our prayers being answered,.

Friends, I have been following the postings of Fran for a very long time on C/A and I am positive that she is one of the most endeavering 'tell the truth and nothing but the truth' person. She has no personal agenda but to protect the efforts of those who have given, including me, a previous monthly offering to a ministry which we believed was built for God. She has spent long hours trying to make sure that our sacrifices were not given in vain. It must seem fruitless to her when she continues to see the wicked use of the funds that we have all given. I believe that her purpose in donating so much of her time is to better the honest work of God. Her consistant efforts should be appreciated by all of us

I also believe that every word that 'sister' has written is the truth. I do not know her personally,--not who she really is or where she is, or even if she has personally felt the wrath of Danny Shelton. But I do believe that she knows more than anyone else about the harm that has been done to many co-workers at 3ABN. SHe does have a story to tell. And I pray that she will be able to save others, by her story, from Danny Shelton and his board's attacks on innocent people with lies and twisted truths. I admire her work greatly. And it is facetious to equate her or compare her with the horrible "Margaret Gray".

So we have many posters whose only purpose is to see the work of God pushed forward with honest, truthful efforts--not with the misrepresentations that we continue to see in the evilness of those who are still in control at 3ABN. Certainly, if we are on the right track here, God will answer our prayers in His own time. Maybe the authentation of who each of us really are would help this whole matter. We may be able to run for a while, but we can hold fast to the protection of Jesus.

Posted by: watchbird May 29 2006, 08:52 AM

> QUOTE(summertime @ May 29 2006, 08:33 AM)
>
> I first got the idea to become a member of C/A by reading an advertisement about it in the "Outlook" MidAmerica which is sent out regularly to all Church Members in our area. I found out about BSDA quite by accident--googling, I think. But I was wondering if BSDA has ever run an ad to encourage people to read this forum in the Outlook--consequently they may be reading the things that we have posted. It might be noted that both C/A and BSDA has an open invitation to all religions, races, colors and creeds..

Running an ad for BSDA in the various Union Papers would be a wonderful idea. Due to the pressure put upon denominational entities to maintain the official policy of neutrality towards 3ABN, however, such an ad should never mention 3ABN as being one of the topics of discussion. But that would not need to be anyhow. Once someone comes to read they will see this as well as all else that is here, and most likely they will be impressed by what they see so that they will want to become registered participants.

> QUOTE
>
> Also, I wonder if anyone has ever seen "Polly's Place" advertisted in the Outlook. If either of these entities have been advertised in the Outlook I may be simply uninformed. If more SDA knew about Polly's Place more people might be encouraged to contribute to Polly's Place. This is what I meant by collectively working together. By all means, having love for each other on this forum is going to go a long way with our prayers being answered,.

I think that most things advertised in the various Union papers require payment. Offering to defray the cost of a specific Union paper might be something positive that individuals here could do. OTOH, running a newsworthy story might only require a few requests for such a story topic from those within the particular Union. Doubtless Polly's Place has some standard publicity stories already written, or would be delighted to give an interview for this purpose.

Posted by: Jvat May 29 2006, 09:33 AM

Hey Watchbird, I have absolutely no beef with Fran. When I referred to the dirt getting on her, I was more concerned about her pain from the supposedly unexpected reaction that she received from Sister. And I was saying that this matter is so convoluted and messy that one could hardly avoid getting somewhat messed up as one is actively involved. So it is important that all keep tempers at bay in the circumstances so one does not get misunderstood.

Posted by: summertime May 29 2006, 09:43 AM

> QUOTE(watchbird @ May 29 2006, 08:52 AM) ☐
>
> Running an ad for BSDA in the various Union Papers would be a wonderful idea. Due to the pressure put upon denominational entities to maintain the official policy of neutrality towards 3ABN, however, such an ad should never mention 3ABN as being one of the topics of discussion. But that would not need to be anyhow. Once someone comes to read they will see this as well as all else that is here, and most likely they will be impressed by what they see so that they will want to become registered participants.
> I think that most things advertised in the various Union papers require payment. Offering to defray the cost of a specific Union paper might be something positive that individuals here could do. OTOH, running a newsworthy story might only require a few requests for such a story topic from those within the particular Union. Doubtless Polly's Place has some standard publicity stories already written, or would be delighted to give an interview for this purpose.

OK. Then how do we begin? Does anyone know how much payment is required for placing an ad. And do the moderators or owner really want BSDA advertised in which papers? Also, does anyone have suggestions on what Union Papers or magazines would be interested in a newsworthy story of Polly's Place?. And upon whose authority and decisions should this even be done? We need to do something positive instead of simply writing to each other about it. Any guidelines or suggestions, please?

Posted by: beartrap May 29 2006, 10:16 AM

Precipitous actions often result from goading and they usually end up with disastrous results. The tinkle or get off the pot thing sounds good spoken as so many words, but being goaded into turning one's hand when keeping it down is the intelligent thing to do, should be avoided.

People who had no grasp on the reality of the situation gave their cavalier advice that the government just take Al Capone down. How hard could it be? He was having people killed in broad daylight, some of his henchmen squealed, his illegal escapades were all over the news... It should have been as simple as walking into his hotel, arresting him, and sending him to the chair. Yet, it took years of chipping away and only the IRS was able to eventually do anything. That is reality.

In almost every mob case, happy little people who read the news are frustrated at how complicated such a simple thing is. All the guy on the witness stand has to do is tell the truth and the threat will go away because the big guy will be convicted. In their charming innocence, they don't see the big guy's henchmen holding guns to the heads of the witness's kids. Others see the guns and self-righteously say, "sometimes the right thing to do is hard, but it is still the right thing to do."

Posted by: inga May 29 2006, 11:05 AM

> QUOTE(watchbird @ May 28 2006, 12:05 PM)
>
> Most of us live out our lives in the small circles of our family, friends, and local contacts at work or church. While we each have a sphere of influence and each are called to "make a difference" in the struggle between good and evil that goes on all around us, that "difference" may be only in a very small and circumscribed circle.
>
> Our standing for the right is often done in quite unremarkable ways: smiling at a rambunctious child, showing sensitivity to a coworker who is having a bad day, choosing carefully the jokes we laugh at, the TV programs we watch, the videos we pick up from the store without thinking that the clerk might be taking mental note.
>
> Only occasionally is someone put in a position where they have opportunity to stand as a hero and make a pronounced difference in the lives of people all around the globe. The rarity of the opportunity tends to magnify the tragedy when someone placed in that position chooses to aid evil rather than take a stand against it. We have no way of knowing the motivations of John Lomacang's heart. Is he driven merely by the desire for monetary and popularity benefits? Is he driven by fear of retaliation should he speak the truth? Is he living in fear that that some unknown to the world weakness of his will be exposed? Would it also expose him to dangers of which we have little knowledge? It would take real courage and character to step out at this point and have to confess his errancy for not doing so before. Does John Lomacang have that kind of courage and character?
>
> One definition of a hero is one who can act for the right even in the face of his fears. Another way of saying this is that courage is not the absence of fear, but choosing to do the thing that needs to be done in spite of the fear, in spite of genuine danger.
>
> Desmond Doss was that kind of hero.
>
> Is John Lomacang able to be a hero?
>
> Only time will tell.

Thank you so much for that thoughtful post. It reminds me again of Ellen White's statement:
"The greatest want of the world is the want of men-- men who will not be bought or sold, men who in their inmost souls are true and honest, men who do not fear to call sin by its right name, men whose conscience is as true to duty as the needle to the pole, men who will stand for the right though the heavens fall." (Education p. 57)

Will John Lomacang yet rise up to be that kind of man, or will he sell his soul for the mess of pottage offered by 3ABN.

He can't have it both ways.

By the way, does anyone have an email address for John Lomacang that goes directly to him -- without being censored by Molly or Danny? If so, it would be good to let him know that he is being talked about here, and that he might want to take a look at this URL (this page, not the whole thread).

Posted by: Panama_Pete May 29 2006, 11:15 AM

> QUOTE(summertime @ May 29 2006, 09:43 AM) ☐
>
> OK. Then how do we begin? Any guidelines or suggestions, please?

I shall start by downloading the brochures from http://www.pollysplacenetwork.com/articles.asp. I shall print some copies either on my printer or at Kinkos, and then begin distributing them to those I talk to about Polly's Place.

I shall start the journey by taking one step forward. We all have about 100 people we can talk to on a regular basis. Barbers, car mechanics, the cable guy, etc. See how creative you can get.

If you see some people painting houses in the neighborhood, or walking their dogs, stop and give them a brochure.

http://www.pollysplacenetwork.com/articles.asp

We can share our stories about the people we gave the brochures to, etc.

This approach would be more productive and useful than talking about people who say they "mend broken people" but do not.

> QUOTE(inga @ May 29 2006, 11:05 AM) ☐
>
> By the way, does anyone have an email address for John Lomacang that goes directly to him -- without being censored by Polly [sic Mollie] or Danny? If so, it would be good to let him know that he is being talked about here, and that he might want to take a look at this URL (this page, not the whole thread).

John Lomacang
PO Box 477
West Frankfort, IL 62896-0477
Email: jplomacang@earthlink.net

(I still prefer your snail mail idea, though.)

Posted by: beartrap May 29 2006, 11:20 AM

> QUOTE(Panama_Pete @ May 29 2006, 11:15 AM) ☐
>
> I shall start by downloading the brochures from http://www.pollysplacenetwork.com/articles.asp. I shall print some copies either on my printer or at Kinkos, and then begin distributing them to those I talk to about Polly's Place.

Thats awesome, Pete! You don't need to print, just PM me an address and brochures and a DVD will be sent to you.

Posted by: watchbird May 29 2006, 11:45 AM

> QUOTE(summertime @ May 29 2006, 09:43 AM) ☐
>
> OK. Then how do we begin? Does anyone know how much payment is required for placing an ad. And do the moderators or owner really want BSDA advertised in which papers? Also, does anyone have suggestions on what Union Papers or magazines would be interested in a newsworthy story of Polly's Place?. And upon whose authority and decisions should this even be done? We need to do something positive instead of simply writing to each other about it. Any guidelines or suggestions, please?

Doing something does not have to be placed in an "instead of" context. Talking to each other is important, especially in this venue which is open for any who come by to read. In addition to that, however, there is real value in not only talking about what can be done, but in actually doing some of the things suggested, or some that are inspired by something said here.

As far as placing an ad for BSDA, that would have to come from Calvin, I would assume, unless he wanted to delegate the responsibility to someone else.

When it comes to the Union papers, it is my understanding that they have their own requirements for accepting ads, as well as their own pricing schedules. This information, or contact information for finding the information, would be available on your Union website or possibly in the Union paper itself. And probably the request for an ad would only be looked at seriously if it came from someone within that specific Union. So this is not something that someone can do for all Unions. You could, however, send your suggestion to Polly's Place itself and find out if this is something they themselves can initiate.

You could also write to specific Adventist papers and tell them about your interest in Polly's Place, give them the url of the website and that you would very much like to see an article done on this organization. Women of Spirit is one that might be specifically interested in it. OTOH, they may have already run such an article and you may not have noticed it. Be aware that most magazines have a very long planning cycle. Adventist Review, for example, has their feature stories planned out for three years in advance. Only late breaking news type items can get into it in shorter notice. Be aware also that magazines are normally looking for articles to evaluate for publication rather than for ideas for articles for which they would have to devote staff time or find an author.

As for authority, anyone can initiate a request on only their own desire. The editorial or marketing department of the magazine (depending on whether it is for a story or a public request for funds) would have the final say on the decisions. In the case of Adventist Review, the advertising for the magazine is handled by the Review and Herald Publishing Assn. Marketing Department, not by the editorial staff.

It would be well to contact Mabel Dunbar to learn what her desires are in this area before contacting any magazine. While we know that she needs operating funds, we do not know that she needs more publicity. It may be that until she has funds, she has more opportunities now than what she has funds for.

Posted by: beartrap May 29 2006, 03:56 PM

A few emails from Danny:

Please advise Linda that it is time to leave me and start a new life for herself. Anytime that our relationship would degrade to the point that she would listen to such foolish advice as hiding my gun, the relationship is over."
4/27/2004

You will get a chance to prove many of the things you have accused me and my family and some 3ABN friends of. You were dumb enough to put all those lies on paper. I don't need to sue you. The people that will sue you are not public figures but have money enough to bring you to justice... Get ready to dip into your saving to go to court.
5/19/2005

I never thought you would stoop to what Jorgan, Alias Johann and you, would write about the televangelist. Of course some of your so called friends sent me a copy of what you dictated to Johann. We know the whole story. I can tell you that there are more than one person who will be filing lawsuits against both you and Johann...

I believe that you are determined to lose what settlement you got and your house and anything else. I can tell you that several different lawsuits by different people will cost you a lot of money just for attorneys fees.

I hope Johann has lots of money to spend on attorneys also as he will need it if these people that I talked to tonight go through with their suits. I feel sorry for you but so far I don't for him. He is going to get what he deserves.
5/18/2005

Garwin knows law better than any attorney I know... He thinks nothing of spending whatever money it takes to defend truth no matter how long it takes. He is a very committed man to truth. He says you really tried to promote the Hope Channel to him. He already knows about some of the programs that Hope puts on, like the one where they promote the Catholic church for all the good they do in the city of Los Angeles. Claus called me from Europe some time ago to tell me that he just watched a special on the Hope Channel promoting the Lutheran Church. You see Johann, Garwin is smart enough to figure out that if you are really an SDA pastor that you wouldn't be happy with some of the programming that hope is showing which is not even SDA. He realizes that you hate me and the 3ABN leadership so much that you will twist the truth to try to convince him of something that is not true. He is an extremely brilliant man. He didn't make hundreds of millions of dollars by falling for the lines of people like you.
5/26/2005

Posted by: Clay May 29 2006, 04:58 PM

> QUOTE(beartrap @ May 29 2006, 03:56 PM) ☐
>
> A few emails from Danny:
>
> Please advise Linda that it is time to leave me and start a new life for herself. Anytime that our relationship would degrade to the point that she would listen to such foolish advice as hiding my gun, the relationship is over."
> 4/27/2004..................snip.............

and we know these are from Danny because?

> QUOTE(beartrap @ May 29 2006, 10:16 AM) ☐
>
> Precipitous actions often result from goading and they usually end up with disastrous results. The tinkle or get off the pot thing sounds good spoken as so many words, but being goaded into turning one's hand when keeping it down is the intelligent thing to do, should be avoided.
>
> People who had no grasp on the reality of the situation gave their cavalier advice that the government just take Al Capone down. How hard could it be? He was having people killed in broad daylight, some of his henchmen squealed, his illegal escapades were all over the news... It should have been as simple as walking into his hotel, arresting him, and sending him to the chair. Yet, it took years of chipping away and only the IRS was able to eventually do anything. That is reality.
>
> In almost every mob case, happy little people who read the news are frustrated at how complicated such a simple thing is. All the guy on the witness stand has to do is tell the truth and the threat will go away because the big guy will be convicted. In their charming innocence, they don't see the big guy's henchmen holding guns to the heads of the witness's kids. Others see the guns and self-righteously say, "sometimes the right thing to do is hard, but it is still the right thing to do."

so now Mr. Shelton is in the same company with Al Capone..... interesting....

Posted by: beartrap May 29 2006, 05:03 PM

Yes, interesting. In an unrelated bit of history... Many years ago Al Capone came down to Southern Illinois, encountered the Shelton and Birger gangs, and went back home to Chicago.

Posted by: Clay May 29 2006, 05:08 PM

> QUOTE(beartrap @ May 29 2006, 06:03 PM) ☐
>
> Yes, interesting. In an unrelated bit of history... Many years ago Al Capone came down to Southern Illinois, encountered the Shelton and Birger gangs, and went back home to Chicago.

and?

Posted by: beartrap May 29 2006, 05:13 PM

> QUOTE(Clay @ May 29 2006, 06:08 PM)
>
> and?

And thats all. As I said, an unrelated bit of history.

Posted by: Clay May 29 2006, 05:20 PM

> QUOTE(beartrap @ May 29 2006, 06:13 PM)
>
> And thats all. As I said, an unrelated bit of history.

well if Capone visited southern IL and he lived in Chi-town, it would make sense that at the conclusion of his visit that he would return home.... unless you would have us believe that Capone was afraid of what was going on in southern IL and decided to return home leave that portion of the state alone...

Posted by: beartrap May 29 2006, 05:29 PM

> QUOTE(Clay @ May 29 2006, 05:20 PM)
>
> well if Capone visited southern IL and he lived in Chi-town, it would make sense that at the conclusion of his visit that he would return home.... unless you would have us believe that Capone was afraid of what was going on in southern IL and decided to return home leave that portion of the state alone...

"Capone was afraid of what was going on in southern IL and decided to return home leave that portion of the state alone..." The locals like to think that this is what happened, but who knows.

Posted by: Clay May 29 2006, 05:44 PM

> QUOTE(beartrap @ May 29 2006, 06:29 PM)
>
> "Capone was afraid of what was going on in southern IL and decided to return home leave that portion of the state alone..." The locals like to think that this is what happened, but who knows.

who is telling the story? They would have us believe that this nefarious criminal, who allegedly had no problem murdering people, who had the chicago police on his payroll, who publicly beat up the mayor, who had an organization of over 1000 gunmen, that man was afraid of what he found in southern IL.....

alrighty then....

Posted by: vonessa May 29 2006, 05:47 PM

> QUOTE(Clay @ May 29 2006, 06:44 PM)
>
> who is telling the story? They would have us believe that this nefarious criminal, who allegedly had no problem murdering people, who had the chicago police on his payroll, who publicly beat up the mayor, who had an organization of over 1000 gunmen, that man was afraid of what he found in southern IL.....
>
> alrighty then....

Okaaay - I've believed a lot of what sister has said, but recently it seems her train went off the track. And saying that Capone left the area because the Shelton gangs were bigger and badder and then trying to relate that to the 3ABN story is crazy. The glove just doesn't fit.

Posted by: beartrap May 29 2006, 06:16 PM

> QUOTE(Clay @ May 29 2006, 05:44 PM)
>
> ...this nefarious criminal, who allegedly had no problem murdering people, who had the chicago police on his payroll, who publicly beat up the mayor, who had an organization of over 1000 gunmen...

Interesting that with all of the things you just stated about Capone, it still took years to do anything about him, and none of the things you mentioned are what brought him down. It is also interesting that with so many people afraid of him, and and with the public things like beating up the mayor, people still were unsuccessful at fingering him, and those who tried payed dearly. Of course, having the police on his payroll had much to do with that.

In other stories the people are different; the circumstances and times are different; instead of murdering people's bodies, characters are assasinated; rather than just police and politicians on the payroll, religious authorities are secured; instead of mayors being beat up in public, people who stand up to mistreatment of fellow humans are publically beaten with words on TV and in print; instead of gunmen who shoot bullets, there are organizations of henchmen who attack any who dare to disagree with the vicious treatment of others.

> QUOTE(vonessa @ May 29 2006, 05:47 PM)
>
> Okaaay - I've believed a lot of what sister has said, but recently it seems her train went off the track. And saying that Capone left the area because the Shelton gangs were bigger and badder and then trying to relate that to the 3ABN story is crazy. The glove just doesn't fit.

AS I SAID, "in an unrelated bit of history" Perhaps the word UNRELATED should be highlighted so that it can be noticed. When I use the term "unrelated" this means it is not a part of the story, and it has no bearing on it. It has no relation to what is being discussed. Someone wished to discuss that UNRELATED bit with me a little further in a debate on colloquial twists of history, but it was off topic and remains UNRELATED.

Posted by: Clay May 29 2006, 06:22 PM

> QUOTE(beartrap @ May 29 2006, 06:08 PM)
>
> Interesting that with all of the things you just stated about Capone, it still took years to do anything about him, and none of the things you mentioned are what brought him down. It is also interesting that with so many people afraid of him, and and with the public things like beating up the mayor, people still were unsuccessful at fingering him, and those who tried payed dearly. Of course, having the police on his payroll had much to do with that.
>
> In other stories the people are different; the circumstances and times are different; instead of murdering people's bodies, characters are assasinated; rather than just police and politicians on the payroll, religious authorities are secured; instead of mayors being beat up in public, people who stand up to mistreatment of fellow humans are publically beaten with words on TV and in print; instead of gunmen who shoot bullets, there are organizations of henchmen who attack any who dare to disagree with the vicious treatment of others.

the significant difference is no one (to my knowledge) was forced to work at 3abn were they? After they realized the mess 3abn was they left right? As for the church, it is a voluntary .org, people can leave whenever they choose, especially if the .org is not what they think it should be....

Capone was not taken down because people were getting paid... and probably paid well.... the government wanted Capone and got him...

> QUOTE
>
> AS I SAID, "in an unrelated bit of history" Perhaps the word UNRELATED should be highlighted so that it can be noticed. When I use the term "unrelated" this means it is not a part of the story, and it has no bearing on it. It has no relation to what is being discussed.

yet you mentioned it... was that for effect? give us something to think about? or lend credibility to the idea that Mr. Shelton is as bad as Capone?

Posted by: vonessa May 29 2006, 06:26 PM

> QUOTE(beartrap @ May 29 2006, 07:16 PM)
>
> AS I SAID, "in an unrelated bit of history" Perhaps the word UNRELATED should be highlighted so that it can be noticed. When I use the term "unrelated" this means it is not a part of the story, and it has no bearing on it. It has no relation to what is being discussed. Someone wished to discuss that UNRELATED bit with me a little further in a debate on colloquial twists of history, but it was off topic and remains UNRELATED.

Then why talk about it? Making that kind of comparison is like Hitler would do. ha ha ha . . . . now that is funny . . . . and it's UNRELATED to you. Not even thinking about you when i said it . . . it was just random . . .

Posted by: beartrap May 29 2006, 06:35 PM

> QUOTE(Clay @ May 29 2006, 06:22 PM)
>
> the significant difference is no one (to my knowledge) was forced to work at 3abn were they?
> Right. To my knowledge people join voluntarily.
>
> After they realized the mess 3abn was they left right?
> Some have, and others haven't.
>
> As for the church, it is a voluntary .org, people can leave whenever they choose, especially if the .org is not what they think it should be....
> Yes.
>
> Capone was not taken down because people were getting paid... and probably paid well.... the government wanted Capone and got him...
> I meant that he was probably not taken down sooner because people were paid.
>
> yet you mentioned it... was that for effect? give us something to think about? or lend credibility to the idea that Mr. Shelton is as bad as Capone?
> No, as I said, just a bit of unrelated history.

> QUOTE(vonessa @ May 29 2006, 06:26 PM)
>
> Then why talk about it? Making that kind of comparison is like Hitler would do. ha ha ha . . . . now that is funny . . . . and it's UNRELATED to you. Not even thinking about you when i said it . . . it was just random . . .

rofl rofl

Posted by: awesumtenor May 29 2006, 07:02 PM

> QUOTE(Clay @ May 29 2006, 07:44 PM)
>
> who is telling the story? They would have us believe that this nefarious criminal, who allegedly had no problem murdering people, who had the chicago police on his payroll, who publicly beat up the mayor, who had an organization of over 1000 gunmen, that man was afraid of what he found in southern IL.....
>
> alrighty then....

That's not unbelievable at all... he did not have an organization downstate, didn't have politicians and police on his payroll, didnt have informants and any intelligence gathering apparatus in place there. He could see that there was money to be made there but the resources needed to make said money were limited and often already loyal to someone else.

This being the case those who had all of those things in place would very easily have been able to ward off any advances towards another criminal enterprise making an inroads on their operation....even if it was Al Capone.

Capone was, when all is said and done, a business man. He would consider the costs of "investment" versus the return on said investment and often it is not worth going after a big fish in a small pond like he may have in downstate Illinois, especially in proximity to the Mississippi river. The demographics of small town america made organized crime largely unprofitable and markedly more risky than operating in Chicago or NY or LA.

In His service,
Mr. J

Posted by: gracetoyou May 29 2006, 07:15 PM

Meanwhile, back at the ranch......

> QUOTE
>
> You will get a chance to prove many of the things you have accused me and my family and some 3ABN friends of. You were dumb enough to put all those lies on paper. I don't need to sue you. The people that will sue you are not public figures but have money enough to bring you to justice... Get ready to dip into your saving to go to court.
> 5/19/2005

So, beartrap, were you ever sued? Do you think he ever really would sue and risk exposure?

Posted by: inga May 29 2006, 08:00 PM

> QUOTE(vonessa @ May 29 2006, 06:47 PM)
>
> Okaaay - I've believed a lot of what sister has said, but recently it seems her train went off the track. And saying that Capone left the area because the Shelton gangs were bigger and badder and then trying to relate that to the 3ABN story is crazy. The glove just doesn't fit.

Vonessa, it seems to me that you're blaming Sister for what Beartrap said.

That sort of thing makes for major confusion.

Besides that, it seems you're adding to what Beartrap said as well. More confusion!!

Posted by: inga May 29 2006, 08:15 PM

> QUOTE(Clay @ May 29 2006, 07:22 PM)

> Capone was not taken down because people were getting paid... and probably paid well.... the government wanted Capone and got him...

You demonstrated impatience some time back that, with all that was said about Dan Shelton, no one seems to be doing anything about it. Then beartrap suggested that with as bad as Al Capone was and as widely known as his "badness" was -- it still took years to "get him." And, as you pointed out, that was even with the government wanting him! It took years for the government to get him!

And you want these ex-employees and others "in the know" to do something about it or shut up?

The comparison was not between the behavior of Al Capone and Dan Shelton. The point was the difficulty of proving mis-doings in a court of law, even when the behavior is well known. It happens all the time. When I lived in the city of Abbotsford, British Columbia, "everyone," including the police" knew who was dealing in certain drugs. But the dealers walked free. Same thing happened in a little village in Nova Scotia. Everyone knew where certain individuals made their big bucks. But they walked free -- because no one could prove with hard evidence just what was going on. Like I said ... it happens all the time. But you figure that if Dan Shelton really did all the things related here -- and I figure he probably did -- that these folks ought to do something about it.

H'mm ...

> QUOTE
>
> yet you mentioned it... was that for effect? give us something to think about? or lend credibility to the idea that Mr. Shelton is as bad as Capone?

See above. You missed beartrap's point, I suspect. I didn't see him saying that Dan was "as bad as Al Capone."

Posted by: watchbird May 29 2006, 08:41 PM

> QUOTE(gracetoyou @ May 29 2006, 07:15 PM)
>
> Meanwhile, back at the ranch......
> So, beartrap, were you ever sued? Do you think he ever really would sue and risk exposure?

There may be some misunderstanding. The letters that beartrap posted excerpts from he indicated were from Danny. He did not say who they were written to. I am quite sure that I recognize these excerpts as being from letters that I have seen, and they were each written to either Johann or Linda. The most direct warning here was to Johann. And no, he did not sue, and the general consensus is that while Danny frequently threatens to take someone to court, actually going to court is something that he avoids. Recall the vingettes written by Sister in which two different men were not prosecuted even though there was proof that they had robbed Danny of considerable funds.

Posted by: Fran May 29 2006, 10:04 PM

> QUOTE(watchbird @ May 29 2006, 08:41 PM)

> There may be some misunderstanding. The letters that beartrap posted excerpts from he indicated were from Danny. He did not say who they were written to. I am quite sure that I recognize these excerpts as being from letters that I have seen, and they were each written to either Johann or Linda. The most direct warning here was to Johann. And no, he did not sue, and the general consensus is that while Danny frequently threatens to take someone to court, actually going to court is something that he avoids. Recall the vingettes written by Sister in which two different men were not prosecuted even though there was proof that they had robbed Danny of considerable funds.

To the best of my knowledge, those emails were from Danny. I have seen at least 1/2 of them if not more. I have copies of them with the tracking on them. Yes, they were from Danny. I am sure there are many more. Not all that I have were posted. I know to whom they were sent. It is up to them to post more.

The emails were sent by Danny Shelton. I will leave fuller sxposure of these emails to be posted by the person that received them.

Linda;

I would have hid the gun also. Smart move!

Posted by: Clay May 30 2006, 12:31 AM

> QUOTE(inga @ May 29 2006, 09:15 PM)
>
> You demonstrated impatience some time back that, with all that was said about Dan Shelton, no one seems to be doing anything about it. Then beartrap suggested that with as bad as Al Capone was and as widely known as his "badness" was -- it still took years to "get him." And, as you pointed out, that was even with the government wanting him! It took years for the government to get him!
>
> And you want these ex-employees and others "in the know" to do something about it or shut up?
>
> The comparison was not between the behavior of Al Capone and Dan Shelton. The point was the difficulty of proving mis-doings in a court of law, even when the behavior is well known. It happens all the time. When I lived in the city of Abbotsford, British Columbia, "everyone," including the police" knew who was dealing in certain drugs. But the dealers walked free. Same thing happened in a little village in Nova Scotia. Everyone knew where certain individuals made their big bucks. But they walked free -- because no one could prove with hard evidence just what was going on. Like I said ... it happens all the time. But you figure that if Dan Shelton really did all the things related here -- and I figure he probably did -- that these folks ought to do something about it.
>
> H'mm ...
> See above. You missed beartrap's point, I suspect. I didn't see him saying that Dan was "as bad as Al Capone."

If Shelton has many of the church's leaders in his pocket, has serious influence in the church's decision making processes, has in effect compromised the church because of their partnership with him, and some even suggesting he is the face of adventism, then it's time to leave the building.

The jews continued their rituals thinking God was still in it and he had left the building.... How do we know that God has not left this (the sda church) building?

Posted by: vonessa May 30 2006, 12:33 AM

> QUOTE(Clay @ May 30 2006, 01:31 AM)
>
> If Shelton has many of the church's leaders in his pocket, has serious influence in the church's decision making processes, has in effect compromised the church because of their partnership with him, and some even suggesting he is the face of adventism, then it's time to leave the building.
>
> The jews continued their rituals thinking God was still in it and he had left the building.... How do we know that God has not left this (the sda church) building?

I just got done reading your post Clay . . . it is number 666 . . . and I think that you might be onto something. Have we been abandoned by God? I dont think so.

Posted by: Clay May 30 2006, 12:38 AM

> QUOTE(vonessa @ May 30 2006, 12:33 AM)
>
> I just got done reading your post Clay . . . it is number 666 . . . and I think that you might be onto something. Have we been abandoned by God? I dont think so.

yeah, and the Jews didn't think that God's glory had left the temple either... I am not saying God has abandoned the church, he didn't abandon the Jews, but they were no longer the means by which he sent his message into the world... they were set aside....and it would be foolish to think that the sda church can't be set aside either.... God does not need the sda church...contrary to what we think....

Posted by: Clay May 30 2006, 12:50 AM

> QUOTE(awesumtenor @ May 29 2006, 07:02 PM)
>
> That's not unbelievable at all... he did not have an organization downstate, didn't have politicians and police on his payroll, didnt have informants and any intelligence gathering apparatus in place there. He could see that there was money to be made there but the resources needed to make said money were limited and often already loyal to someone else.
>
> This being the case those who had all of those things in place would very easily have been able to ward off any advances towards another criminal enterprise making an inroads on their operation....even if it was Al Capone.
>
> Capone was, when all is said and done, a business man. He would consider the costs of "investment" versus the return on said investment and often it is not worth going after a big fish in a small pond like he may have in downstate Illinois, especially in proximity to the Mississippi river. The demographics of small town america made organized crime largely unprofitable and markedly more risky than operating in Chicago or NY or LA.

> In His service,
> Mr. J

all that being said, it does not mean that he was "afraid" to set up shop as much as he didn't see any profitability in setting up shop in southern IL..... that is a significant difference... imo......

Posted by: watchbird May 30 2006, 05:23 AM

> QUOTE(Clay @ May 30 2006, 12:31 AM)
>
> If Shelton has many of the church's leaders in his pocket, has serious influence in the church's decision making processes, has in effect compromised the church because of their partnership with him, and some even suggesting he is the face of adventism, then it's time to leave the building.
>
> The jews continued their rituals thinking God was still in it and he had left the building.... How do we know that God has not left this (the sda church) building?

I'm confused.

We are learning that many of the church's leaders are being essentially held hostage by a "badguy" who has robbed them blind, thus making them extra dependent on the same deep pockets who support the "badguy", which further "compromises" them. And you seem to be saying that all of this is a sign that God has "left the (the sda church) building", so it's "time [for us] to leave the building". Where is the logic in that. Wouldn't it be more logical to think that it is time for all of us to withdraw our support for the "badguy" and band together to free the hostages?

Now if you had used your metaphor to say that it is time to abandon the notion that the Shelton empire either represents God or is the "face of adventism", then we'd be in synch.

And if you would move on from that to urge us all to redirect our available funds back to the church itself and to let our leaders know that we want to support them in cutting all ties to the "Absolom in the gate" that Danny Shelton has turned out to be, THEN

Posted by: statrei May 30 2006, 06:01 AM

> QUOTE(vonessa @ May 30 2006, 01:33 AM)
>
> Have we been abandoned by God? I dont think so.

Therein lies the key to Shelton's perceived hold or that of any other religious 'power.' You have as much evidence that the God has abandoned Adventism as you have that he/she has abandoned the Jews, yet you believe the one and not the other.

Posted by: Clay May 30 2006, 06:48 AM

> QUOTE(watchbird @ May 30 2006, 05:23 AM)
>
> I'm confused.
>
> We are learning that many of the church's leaders are being essentially held hostage by a "badguy" who has robbed them blind, thus making them extra dependent on the same deep pockets who support the "badguy", which further "compromises" them. And you seem to be saying that all of this is a sign that God has "left the (the sda church) building", so it's "time [for us] to leave the building". Where is the logic in that. Wouldn't it be more logical to think that it is time for all of us to withdraw our support for the "badguy" and band together to free the hostages?
>
> Now if you had used your metaphor to say that it is time to abandon the notion that the Shelton empire either represents God or is the "face of adventism", then we'd be in synch.
>
> And if you would move on from that to urge us all to redirect our available funds back to the church itself and to let our leaders know that we want to support them in cutting all ties to the "Absolom in the gate" that Danny Shelton has turned out to be, THEN no need to be confused.... when Jesus arrived on the scene the church was thoroughly corrupt... he chastised the leaders for misleading the common people... Ultimately in spite of his warnings Jesus left those leaders to do whatever they wanted to do and his followers started a new movement...

You all have said that Mr. Shelton has held the church hostage. If that were the only problem then yes your corrective would be effective. But we know that Mr. Shelton is not the only problem. We have the church editing, revising, rewording the words of EGW, continuing to publish books that she never wrote, to what end? We have throughout the NAD money mismanagment and various scandals that some have attempted to sweep under the rug... We have half the people who join the church leaving... lastly do we really know how the tithe dollars are being used? Oh and I almost forgot.... in certain areas of these United States the church is still practicing separate but equal in its organizational structure....

All those things together suggest to me that there are major issues... I am not a prophet, nor the son of one, but if you told me all of those things, I would say, it looks like God has left the building... btjm....

Posted by: watchbird May 30 2006, 07:29 AM

> QUOTE(Clay @ May 30 2006, 06:48 AM)
>
> All those things together suggest to me that there are major issues... I am not a prophet, nor the son of one, but if you told me all of those things, I would say, it looks like God has left the building... btjm....

Then I see that we have major disagreements in many areas. Major issues, yes, though I would not agree that all of them that you list are the way you describe them.

Giving problems as a reason for thinking that God has left the "building", rather than pressing together to help solve the problems. No. This is way outside of the boundaries of my thinking. No wonder we are having difficulty in agreeing that the problem of the having a Shelton empire which makes false claims about being the church should be exposed and resolved rather than ignored and placated.

I am saddened by this knowledge of your thought.

Posted by: Clay May 30 2006, 07:36 AM

> QUOTE(watchbird @ May 30 2006, 07:29 AM) ☐
>
> Then I see that we have major disagreements in many areas. Major issues, yes, though I would not agree that all of them that you list are the way you describe them.
>
> Giving problems as a reason for thinking that God has left the "building", rather than pressing together to help solve the problems. No. This is way outside of the boundaries of my thinking. No wonder we are having difficulty in agreeing that the problem of the having a Shelton empire which makes false claims about being the church should be exposed and resolved rather than ignored and placated.
>
> I am saddened by this knowledge of your thought.

no need to be sad... ask any of the regulars here, I have advocated for years (and they use to tease me about it) that the .org needs to be dismantled and reorganized from scratch.... the other option, home churches.... no organized structure at all....the more I read about 3abn, and how the tentacles of corruption seem to be everywhere, the better home churches look to me... the more you all share about leaders being in bed so to speak with Mr. Shelton the more it strengthens my position that this .org needs to be dismantled..... btjm....

Posted by: summertime May 30 2006, 08:22 AM

> QUOTE(watchbird @ May 29 2006, 11:45 AM) ☐
>
> Doing something does not have to be placed in an "instead of" context. Talking to each other is important, especially in this venue which is open for any who come by to read. In addition to that, however, there is real value in not only talking about what can be done, but in actually doing some of the things suggested, or some that are inspired by something said here.
>
> As far as placing an ad for BSDA, that would have to come from Calvin, I would assume, unless he wanted to delegate the responsibility to someone else.
>
> When it comes to the Union papers, it is my understanding that they have their own requirements for accepting ads, as well as their own pricing schedules. This information, or contact information for finding the information, would be available on your Union website or possibly in the Union paper itself. And probably the request for an ad would only be looked at seriously if it came from someone within that specific Union. So this is not something that someone can do for all Unions. You could, however, send your suggestion to Polly's Place itself and find out if this is something they > themselves can initiate.

>
> You could also write to specific Adventist papers and tell them about your interest in Polly's Place, give them the url of the website and that you would very much like to see an article done on this organization. Women of Spirit is one that might be specifically interested in it. OTOH, they may have already run such an article and you may not have noticed it. Be aware that most magazines have a very long planning cycle. Adventist Review, for example, has their feature stories planned out for three years in advance. Only late breaking news type items can get into it in shorter notice. Be aware also that magazines are normally looking for articles to evaluate for publication rather than for ideas for articles for which they would have to devote staff time or find an author.
>
> As for authority, anyone can initiate a request on only their own desire. The editorial or marketing department of the magazine (depending on whether it is for a story or a public request for funds) would have the final say on the decisions. In the case of Adventist Review, the advertising for the magazine is handled by the Review and Herald Publishing Assn. Marketing Department, not by the editorial staff.
>
> It would be well to contact Mabel Dunbar to learn what her desires are in this area before contacting any magazine. While we know that she needs operating funds, we do not know that she needs more publicity. It may be that until she has funds, she has more opportunities now than what she has funds for.

Well, I wrote to Mabel Dunbar and just this morning I received a warm e-mail encouraging others to help "Polly's Place" and she assured me that her network is excited to be working with Linda and said that they will not let Danny or John affect their relationship with Linda or discredit her. I have written to her asking for permission to post her complete e-mail on BSDA so that others will know how they can help "Polly's Place" I will do so if she ok's it. THis morning I will send a donation to Polly's Place @
Polly's Place Network
c/o Mable Dunbar
P.O. Box 19039
Spokane, WA 99219-9039

I would invite others to help them in anyway possible. I believe this is a positive way that BSDA can help those who are in need.

summertime

Posted by: Daryl Fawcett Jul 3 2006, 06:57 PM

> QUOTE(PaperTigers @ May 23 2006, 04:02 PM) ☐
>
> Man one could seriously go on and on about the things that happen during taping, that the viewing audience is completely unaware of..
> I remember on a Today LIVE, I was doing audio because the regular guy was gone... and one of the guests microphones started cutting out...
> I had on high heels, so I had to kick my shoes off, grab a mic and literaly crawl on the floor to get to the guest and keep out of sight... swap out the microphones, and then crawl back and run into the control room... all the while we were still taping and broadcasting LIVE!!
> Great Fun!!

Do you realize that telling these stories reveals your identity here to those who were also there, and maybe even Danny himself?

Posted by: sonshineonme Jul 3 2006, 07:13 PM

> QUOTE(Daryl Fawcett @ Jul 3 2006, 05:57 PM) ☐
>
> Do you realize that telling these stories reveals your identity here to those who were also there, and maybe even Danny himself?

In a way you are correct in what you observe Daryl - it helps the others that are afraid to post to be able to feel braver in doing so, seeing others have, and it is also a form of support because others went through similar things. Many have nothing more to lose in telling their situations either. I don't think there are too many that have posted that are in fear of Danny any further for various reasons. Some still watch their back - for now.

Posted by: statrei Jul 3 2006, 07:14 PM

> QUOTE(summertime @ May 30 2006, 10:22 AM) ☐
>
> I would invite others to help them in anyway possible. I believe this is a positive way that BSDA can help those who are in need.

This is commendable. The problem that the Creator has laid out a plan for us whereby we can bring into existence a world where such need will not exist and everyone is shying away from it. We much rather be known for our ability to remove the spyware than getting down and repairing the OS so that it is not susceptible to spyware. Who was it that said humans are the most intelligent form of life on this planet?

Posted by: PaperTigers Jul 3 2006, 10:33 PM

> QUOTE(Daryl Fawcett @ Jul 3 2006, 07:57 PM) ☐
>
> Do you realize that telling these stories reveals your identity here to those who were also there, and maybe even Danny himself?

Your right Daryl... but I have never tried to hide who I am... I just choose not to post my real name.

Posted by: Clay Jul 4 2006, 06:51 PM

> QUOTE(Daryl Fawcett @ Jul 3 2006, 06:57 PM) ☐
>
> Do you realize that telling these stories reveals your identity here to those who were also there, and > maybe even Danny himself?

and? perhaps that it the risk they are willing to take and it may or may not reveal one's identity... it does narrow down who it could be though...

Posted by: princessdi Jul 4 2006, 11:19 PM

...and this is a problem because?

> QUOTE(Daryl Fawcett @ Jul 3 2006, 04:57 PM) ☐
>
> Do you realize that telling these stories reveals your identity here to those who were also there, and maybe even Danny himself?

Posted by: watchbird Jul 5 2006, 07:15 AM

> QUOTE(Daryl Fawcett @ Jul 3 2006, 06:57 PM) ☐
>
> Do you realize that telling these stories reveals your identity here to those who were also there, and maybe even Danny himself?

> QUOTE(princessdi @ Jul 4 2006, 11:19 PM) ☐
>
> ...and this is a problem because?

princesdi, I'd like to direct your attention to the post by Sister that begins this chapter. And I'm including the whole story, even though the particular portion that is most relevant to your question comes only in the very last paragraph. But the story is a delightful, even amusing one, and therefore bears repeating. And so delightful and amusing in fact, that when told the first time we were all wrapped in gales of laughter, and since no one ever commented on the last paragraph, it may be that the implications of what was said there, especially when juxtopositioned against the story, may have been completely overlooked. For in the story itself, while Justin and Plungie are the obvious heros, it seems to me that the real hero of the story is the sensitive, gentle, and understanding father who allowed his son to purchase, play with, and even exhibit publicly, the toy of his choice, as "socially unacceptable" as it obviously was. Did we notice that as we went through it the first time?

> QUOTE(sister @ May 22 2006, 05:17 PM) ☐
>
> The Dollar Store and the Legend of Plungie...
> For the 3ABN workers and the other impoverished residents of Franklin County, even a trip with your kids to the Dollar Store can be a rare treat. This emporium of astonishing merchandise, gathered from unknown locations, is a shopping paradise for the working poor. Located in a strip mall in West Frankfort, anchored at one end by K-Mart and the other end by Krogers supermarket, many have walked its aisles seeking both bargains and treasures among it's innumerable items.

> Today the cashier looks up to see what is obviously a father and his four children. No suggestion can be seriously entertained as to the paternity of these children, you see his physical characteristics reflected dominantly in each one of them. Upon closer inspection of this chief and his little tribe, the countenance of the father's face and his demeanor as he interacts with his children, makes his love for them quite evident.
>
> Slipping a dollar bill into each of their small hands and following close behind, he has instructed them to choose a special toy for themselves. As a scurry of small feet makes a beeline directly to the toy aisle, with a look of amusement on his face he observes them searching, as if for hidden treasure. One by one, they come up to him their faces beaming as they proudly present before him the results of their painstaking search. He smiles and comments on each purchase and then as the last of the four approaches him, his expression changes immediately from pleasure to surprise. Clutched majestically in his son's hand is a toilet plunger. Kneeling down next to his child, he gently lays his hand on his shoulder and says, "Son, the dollar was meant as a gift for you to choose a special toy." Searching his son's face, he asks him, "Do you know what this is for? Ah, well, it is used for the potty..." An interesting discussion ensues between father and son, resulting in his son marching proudly up to the cashier, handing her his dollar and walking out of the store with his Daddy, sister and two brothers in tow. Like a conductor skillfully brandishing his baton before a philharmonic orchestra, this boy proudly leads his family through the parking lot, to the enthusiastic maneuvers of his newest toy: a bathroom toilet plunger.
>
> Before their arrival at their father's modest abode, the unusual new "toy" had already been christened "Plungie". Now to the amazement of the rest of the family, Plungie has become the constant companion of Justin. With the expert movements that are usually reserved only for swordsmen of the caliber of Robin Hood or Zorro; Justin thrusts and parries, bringing Plungie into contact with every available surface: all areas of the car, windows, doors, the TV set, and the computer monitor. No flat, concave or convex surface is safe from the Plungie invasion.
>
> At the end of their visit the children return to their mother's home. Alighting from the car, Justin runs up to his mother, excited to show her all the things he has learned to do with his new toy. He has already realized that it is an excellent way to open the refrigerator door and to pick up certain selected objects from the floor.
>
> Probably the greatest exploit in the history of Plungie, to date, was when Justin took his toy and constant companion to a Thompsonville function at the 3ABN school gym. Brandishing Plungie before him as he entered the crowded room, like Moses raising his staff and parting the red sea, a path was instantly cleared before Justin. Being ignorant of the facts, the good folks of the Thompsonville SDA church kept telling him to take that "germy, dirty thing" back to the gym's mens room where he had found it. But laughing and running around the gym together, Justin and Plungie were having too good of a time to be insulted by these callous remarks. In pure joy, to the extreme displeasure of the good folk assembled at that event, Plungie accompanied Justin for the entire evening.
>
> Postscript: The father of these four children lost his job at 3ABN because, when God opened his eyes and gave him insight to see what was really happening and the corruption he had become involved in supporting, he was no longer willing to participate in doing Danny's bidding "behind the scenes" at 3ABN. This resulted in him quitting his job on moral grounds. Hoping that would be the end of Danny Shelton's intrigues in his life, instead he found out that it was only the beginning. By Danny's word he was branded a "pathological liar" and other labels were applied, equally untrue, each more heinous than the last. You might think that being the father of Danny Shelton's beloved grandchildren would afford some favorable consideration, wouldn't you? If you believe that, then you haven't been paying very close attention as we look "behind the scenes" at 3ABN...
> Stay tuned...

Did you notice the "labels"--"pathological liar" and others "equally untrue, each more heinous than the last"? Did you spend any time speculating on what those labels might be--given only the hint that Sister seemed to think them too "heinous" to even mention on BSDA? Are you aware that these "labels" were spread to any and all prospective employers in an effort to cause them to refuse employment to "Justin's father"? And that in some cases Danny was successful in getting the persons involved to refuse employment on those grounds? And that even when "Justin's father" did get a contract job, that his employer was subjected to harrasment and bombarded with accusations from a number of individuals "warning" him of these "labels" and telling him that he really did not want to have that kind of individual associated with that organization? Fortunately, in this case, the employer knew what kinds of men he was dealing with and responded to each person that before he considered their accusation seriously they would have to provide documentation for their charges. Only one man responded to this. And his response was an apology for passing on hearsay nformation which he had not personally verified. And even yet, even without the labels being a consideration, I had occasion to suggest his name as a possibility for an open position, and the response was "No way. I wouldn't even think of touching that situation."

Now to return to the set of questions above. Does this shed light on your question?

> QUOTE(Daryl Fawcett @ Jul 3 2006, 06:57 PM)
>
> Do you realize that telling these stories reveals your identity here to those who were also there, and maybe even Danny himself?

> QUOTE(princessdi @ Jul 4 2006, 11:19 PM)
>
> ...and this is a problem because?

Posted by: Clay Jul 5 2006, 07:37 AM

The Creator is bigger and more powerful than Mr. Shelton... at some point the folks who have felt or are afraid of him will have to believe that... fear no man.... we have to get to the point that we do not care about what the Shelton's of the world may do, but believe that we are the children of a Creator who will always take care of us in spite of..... btjm.....

as for the stated behavior of the person spreading lies and trashing a reputation.... again, I say, we are to do whats right, to love compassion, and to walk humbly..... obviously that verse ain't in his bible.....

Posted by: statrei Jul 5 2006, 07:40 AM

If the founding fathers had allowed themselves to be cowed by what King George could do to them the US would never have been born. Of course, they all paid the price for their bold actions.

Posted by: Clay Jul 5 2006, 07:51 AM

> QUOTE(statrei @ Jul 5 2006, 08:40 AM)
>
> If the founding fathers had allowed themselves to be cowed by what King George could do to them the US would never have been born. Of course, they all paid the price for their bold actions.

as my grandfather use to tell me, "before you build a house, consider the cost....."

however as my childhood friend use to also tell me, "Clay, God has always taken care of you, and he always will, so don't give credit to a company for something God has done......"

Either we are going to believe that He can and will.... or we won't......

Posted by: sonshineonme Jul 6 2006, 09:09 PM

> QUOTE(Clay @ Jul 5 2006, 06:51 AM)
>
> as my grandfather use to tell me, "before you build a house, consider the cost....."
>
> however as my childhood friend use to also tell me, "Clay, God has always taken care of you, and he always will, so don't give credit to a company for something God has done......"
>
> Either we are going to believe that He can and will.... or we won't......

I believe what you are saying - your thinking. I have also learned along lifes path that you are also to be wise in your timing of things - not just acting on emotion, in any situation. You have to take a breath, think, plan, then speak (or quit, which ever the case may be) what should be said. If you live in fear of those that control you, then you are choosing to let them control you. But, you don't always let them know they have lost control - at least, not at first, because you can make things uncessarily worse on yourself (this is the control you have). God will choose a time to reveal something to you, and then it is up to you, and hopefully the connection you have with him, to know how to act in that situation. It's not always easy, and when fear is part of your thinking, you often won't do what you should do. I hate fear, don't you? It's stinks! It is of d' devil for sure! Learning to trust your own instincts can be hard too for some. But sometimes, you just gotta take that leap of faith and do it!

Posted by: Clay Jul 7 2006, 12:27 PM

> QUOTE(sonshineonme @ Jul 6 2006, 09:09 PM)
>
> I believe what you are saying - your thinking. I have also learned along lifes path that you are also to be wise in your timing of things - not just acting on emotion, in any situation. You have to take a breath, think, plan, then speak (or quit, which ever the case may be) what should be said. If you live in fear of those that control you, then you are choosing to let them control you. But, you don't always let them know they have lost control - at least, not at first, because you can make things uncessarily worse on yourself (this is the control you have). God will choose a time to reveal something to you, and then it is up to you, and hopefully the connection you have with him, to know how to act in that situation. It's not always easy, and when fear is part of your thinking, you often won't do what you should do. I hate fear, don't you? It's stinks! It is of d' devil for sure! Learning to trust your own instincts can be hard too for some. But sometimes, you just gotta take that leap of faith and do it!

F false

E evidence

A appearing to be

R reality

see it for what it is.....

Posted by: statrei Jul 7 2006, 12:49 PM

Unfortunately, Christians are naturally fearful because religion is based on fear. It is the only way it controls men's lives.

Posted by: Clay Jul 7 2006, 01:02 PM

> QUOTE(statrei @ Jul 7 2006, 12:49 PM)
>
> Unfortunately, Christians are naturally fearful because religion is based on fear. It is the only way it controls men's lives.

and so in this area too we must.... see it for what it is....

Posted by: beartrap Jul 9 2006, 06:10 PM

There may be some mistaken use of the term "fear", when "caution" might be more appropriate.

Posted by: sonshineonme Jul 10 2006, 06:47 PM

> QUOTE(statrei @ Jul 7 2006, 11:49 AM)
>
> Unfortunately, Christians are naturally fearful because religion is based on fear. It is the only way it controls men's lives.

If your religion is based on fear, then quit being in that religion, or worshiping that religion. My religion is based on my discovery of how Awesome God is, how much He loves me and His willingness to do most anything to helpe me find Him. That to me is real christianity - not fear. Fear is based on lies - and lies can be a religion - but, dump it all and start over, find the real stuff, not the garbage. It makes a world of difference.

To bear, good to see you - and you are right, I think the word caution might be better then fear for what I was trying to say - although, depending on your "religion" or how it has been taught to you, you may live in a "fear"-ful state till you get things straight.

Posted by: beartrap Jul 10 2006, 07:02 PM

> QUOTE(sonshineonme @ Jul 10 2006, 07:47 PM)

> If your religion is based on fear, then quit being in that religion, or worshiping that religion. My religion is based on my discovery of how Awesome God is, how much He loves me and His willingness to do most anything to helpe me find Him. That to me is real christianity - not fear. Fear is based on lies - and lies can be a religion - but, dump it all and start over, find the real stuff, not the garbage. It makes a world of difference.
>
> To bear, good to see you - and you are right, I think the word caution might be better then fear for what I was trying to say - although, depending on your "religion" or how it has been taught to you, you may live in a "fear"-ful state till you get things straight.

Yes, in regard to religion. Where folks like Danny are concerened, there are a number of people who wisely exercise caution.

Posted by: statrei Jul 10 2006, 07:26 PM

> QUOTE(sonshineonme @ Jul 10 2006, 08:47 PM)
>
> If your religion is based on fear, then quit being in that religion, or worshiping that religion. My religion is based on my discovery of how Awesome God is, how much He loves me and His willingness to do most anything to helpe me find Him. That to me is real christianity - not fear. Fear is based on lies - and lies can be a religion - but, dump it all and start over, find the real stuff, not the garbage. It makes a world of difference.

Sonshine, ALL religion is based on fear. Do you really think that the Creator directly communicated to men from different parts of the world that He existed in multiple configurations? Forget the Bible for a second and think about human history and prehistory and the journey of development we have been following from the very beginning. The history of the race does not lie.

Posted by: beartrap Jul 10 2006, 07:34 PM

> QUOTE(statrei @ Jul 10 2006, 08:26 PM)
>
> Sonshine, ALL religion is based on fear. Do you really think that the Creator directly communicated to men from different parts of the world that He existed in multiple configurations? Forget the Bible for a second and think about human history and prehistory and the journey of development we have been following from the very beginning. The history of the race does not lie.

Sometimes it seems that Nietzche was right when he said, "the last Christian died on the cross."

Posted by: statrei Jul 10 2006, 07:47 PM

> QUOTE(beartrap @ Jul 10 2006, 08:34 PM)
>
> Sometimes it seems that Nietzche was right when he said, "the last Christian died on the cross."

You should know that Jesus could not have been a Christian so who are you and Nietzche talking about? Just because is makes a good sound bite does not make it good.

Posted by: beartrap Jul 10 2006, 08:05 PM

> QUOTE(statrei @ Jul 10 2006, 08:47 PM)
>
> You should know that Jesus could not have been a Christian so who are you and Nietzche talking about. Just because is makes a good sound bite does not make it good.

rofl

Posted by: sonshineonme Jul 10 2006, 10:56 PM

> QUOTE(statrei @ Jul 10 2006, 06:26 PM)
>
> Sonshine, ALL religion is based on fear. Do you really think that the Creator directly communicated to men from different parts of the world that He existed in multiple configurations? Forget the Bible for a second and think about human history and prehistory and the journey of development we have been following from the very beginning. The history of the race does not lie.

I guess it would depend on what you call "religion" then. Why does fear have to have any part in it? It does not. If you would rather call it christianity, then we can redefine what you are calling "religion".

I am not clear on what you mean by "different configurations". I believe through all time God has communicated in some way (His choice of how) to make sure His children knew Him. Whether they accepted it or not has and will always be our choice. Even with no bible, which does not limit God by any means, I believe He would still reach or communicate to His children. He only takes us as far as we will go with Him. It matters not where in the development we are, time, history or prehistory as you say. I can't begin to know how or why He did things, but I can not overlook what He has provided for us now to know Him. I work with what I have.

> QUOTE(statrei @ Jul 10 2006, 06:47 PM)
>
> You should know that Jesus could not have been a Christian so who are you and Nietzche talking about? Just because is makes a good sound bite does not make it good.

Darius, you are too smart for your own good.

Jesus was not technically a Christian I suppose, but He did live to be an example and show us what the Father (his father) was about. So, he started christianity, if you will.
It's not even a good soundbite, it's the truth often times, and that of course is what bear is alluding to. You are a very intelligent being, God did good when it came to you.

Posted by: beartrap Jul 10 2006, 11:23 PM

Well, now wait a minute Darius and Sonshine. Isn't a Christian someone who is like Christ and believes in him? I contend that Christ was himself, acted like himself, and believed in himself, and must therefor be considered a Christian. Following that line of reason, could it not then be possible that the last Christian did die on the cross? After all, can it be shown definitively that anyone but Christ ever actually acted like Christ? By my definition, many people fulfil the second requirement, but who has ever filled the first, other than Christ? (LOL! Having too much fun here. Not serious enough. Must stretch face out and make it long again. Levity has overtaken me and must be overcome! Those who are not of sober mien, those who indulge in such depraved acts as... hilarity, jocularity, belly laughter, and all forms of entertainment must surely be marching resolutely down the broad avenue that leads to hell. We must control our humour, for it is thereby that the devil shall consume our chuckling souls. We must depart from cackling, for those who cackle ride broom sticks...)

Posted by: statrei Jul 11 2006, 05:46 AM

Sonshine, if the Creator was the founder of religion then He would not have told one civilization that He was one and another that He was an entire multitude, with many variations in between. Men created religion because they were afraid of a Being they could not know. They established their religions and appointed a few to stand as a buffer between them and somebody they feared. The Creator only founded government, not religion. "And the government shall be upon His shoulders."

Posted by: sonshineonme Jul 11 2006, 09:34 AM

> QUOTE(statrei @ Jul 11 2006, 04:46 AM)
>
> Sonshine, if the Creator was the founder of religion then He would not have told one civilization that He was one and another that He was an entire multitude, with many variations in between. Men created religion because they were afraid of a Being they could not know. They established their religions and appointed a few to stand as a buffer between them and somebody they feared. The Creator only founded government, not religion. "And the government shall be upon His shoulders."

I understand what you are saying. And yes, RELIGION could be seen as you describe - while Christianity is something more simple (or is it?). On the other hand, who is to say that God did not design us to make our own religions and that all roads will lead to Him in some way? If we are made in his image, this can't be too far off in theory - and it's not always fear that causes you to make something to worship. Religion to me (and I know I am not as smart as you are) is a set of beliefs that you arrive at by study of the bible. Now, I many be simple minded....but, if my religion is not based on my christianity (Christs example of living) that my religion is wrong.

Bear, I like what you said - I was not trying to say Jesus was not a christian - I agreed techinically with D'man - Jesus didn't worship himself. But He was a christian in His living (what I meant by example). And, since when is fun of the devil? Not in my "religion" rofl

---

Posted by: inga Jul 23 2006, 01:00 PM

> QUOTE(statrei @ Jul 11 2006, 06:46 AM) ☐
>
> Sonshine, if the Creator was the founder of religion then He would not have told one civilization that He was one and another that He was an entire multitude, with many variations in between. Men created religion because they were afraid of a Being they could not know. They established their religions and appointed a few to stand as a buffer between them and somebody they feared. The Creator only founded government, not religion. "And the government shall be upon His shoulders."

Darius, if we take the Bible at its word, the scenario goes like this:

God created this world and all that's in it, including the first man and woman. They learned who He is directly from Him. When they distrusted Him and lost their right to the Tree of Life, they could no longer see Him face to face. They knew the promise of a Savior, and God gave them an object lesson to remember it through time -- the sacrifice of an innocent lamb. (Cain's sacrifice of the product of his own work was not acceptable in the place of the demonstration of faith that Abel offered.)

From our first parents, two lineages developed -- the descendants of Cain and the descendants of Seth. The Cain lineage continued in the way of setting up their own religion, and the descendants of Seth were worshipers of God until the intermarried with the children of Cain. By the time of Noah, the line of Creator worshipers was in danger of becoming extinct, and God sent a great flood to cleanse the surface of the earth, saving only the eight people who were still worshiping the Creator.

After the Flood, the descendants of Noah made their own choices regarding whether to follow the way of Cain or the way of Seth. From the Tower of Babel they dispersed to various parts of the world, and current evidence indicates that the majority set up their own religions. Yet all these religions still have traces of true Creator worship in them, and wise missionaries use these traces as a point of contact. Furthermore, God is still able, as He always was, to communicate with persons in the depths of heathenism through the voice of the Holy Spirit, and I believe He does that. So many will be saved in the heavenly Kingdom who have never heard the name of Christ but listened to His Spirit nevertheless.

So, no God did NOT tell some He is One and others that He is many. He revealed Himself personally to Adam and Eve and He kept in touch with all who wished to hear His voice, in addition to the revelation of Himself in nature.

If you believe all religion is man-made, you have no Savior other than a man-made one. And I must pity you. In that case, Danny has the right to make his own religion, just like you have the right to make your own religion. May the "fittest" rise to the top!

On the other hand, perhaps you believe you are the only one in direct communication with the Creator, and you therefore know that all other religions are man-made? Please clarify ...

Posted by: Clay Jul 23 2006, 09:09 PM

Inga, Darius cannot reply but consider this, religion is man's attempt to make sense of his encounter with The Creator.... thus all religions from that standpoint are man made.... If we want to say that God established a religion that would have been Judaism and it was quickly perverted....

Posted by: inga Jul 24 2006, 01:52 AM

> QUOTE(Clay @ Jul 23 2006, 10:09 PM)
>
> Inga, Darius cannot reply but consider this, religion is man's attempt to make sense of his encounter with The Creator.... thus all religions from that standpoint are man made....

Since you say "encounter with The Creator," you are acknowledging that God takes the initiative?

[I believe the usual naturalistic explanation is that religion is man's attempt to fill a need for someone greater than himself, to make sense of things he can't understand, etc.]

> QUOTE
>
> If we want to say that God established a religion that would have been Judaism and it was quickly perverted....

It is evident that God instituted the sacrifices that demonstrated faith in the Savior at the gates of Eden, since it is there He clothed Adam and Eve with skins, and Abel demonstrated his faith with his sacrifice. I would say that God "established" the first "religion."

As I mentioned earlier, I believe that all the world's religions are perversions of the original worship of God which He encouraged. Later, God chose Abraham and his descendants as His special representatives on Planet Earth, and He gave them quite a sophisticated legal system, health instruction and a sanctuary service that included types of various aspects of the plan of salvation. Of course, the rebellious heart of man perverted this system into a "works" system. But during all this history, some remained faithful to God and worshiped Him in spirit and in truth. The shepherds of Bethlehem were some of these.

And, of course, Christ Himself established a church fellowship before He went back to heaven. A review of the seven churches of Revelation gives some indication of how the church through history failed, and how it fulfilled its mission.

God made us with a need that only He can fill. It has been Satan's studied purpose to cause humanity to think that they can fill this need in various other ways. It is for that purpose he also perverted the religions in this world. And he comes even into Christ's own church to pervert the truth. Yet there are still those who worship Him in spirit and in truth. May we each be in that number!

Posted by: Joe Smith Dec 24 2006, 11:29 AM

> QUOTE(beartrap @ May 24 2006, 10:12 AM)
>
> 3ABN Board Members
>
> 1. Danny Shelton - 3ABN founder, and board member since 1985
> 2. Walter Thompson - Board member for around 17 years. Board Chairman. Retired surgeon, and producer of several programs on 3ABN
> 3. May Chung - Board member for around 20 years. Wealthy philanthropist, financial supporter of 3ABN and Danny Shelton, and host of a program on 3ABN
> 4. Bill Hulsey - Board member for close to 20 years. Wealthy businessman and financial supporter of 3ABN
> 5. Ellsworth McKee - Board member for close to 20 years. Former board chairman. Wealthy philanthropist and financial supporter of 3ABN
> 6. Larry Welch - Board member for close to 20 years. 3ABN employee, former lay pastor and > drywall worker.

> 7. G. Ralph Thompson - Board member for close to 15 years. Retired undersecretary of the GC.
> 8. Kenneth Denslow - Board member since he became president of the Illinois Conference. His parents both work for 3ABN
> 9. Merlin Fjarli - Board member since 2004. Wealthy philanthropist and financial supporter of 3ABN
> 10. Nicholas Miller - Board member since 2004. 3ABN attorney.
> 11. Mollie Steenson - Board member since 2004. 3ABN General Manager, and has programs on 3ABN
> 12. Carmelita Troy - Board member since 2004. Daughter of former board member, Owen Troy. Teaches accounting at the U.S. Naval Academy Post Graduate School
> 13. Larry Ewing - Board member since 2004/2005. 3ABN Finacial Director
> 14. Wintley Phipps - Board member since 2005. Singer and pastor. Recipient of 1 million dollars from 3ABN, and proposed director of a proposed new network.

What's wrong with this picture??? All these people with millions and multi-millions are in Danny's pocket??
When did they get there.. and why would they want to play this game?? Don't they have other more important stuff to attend to. People like Ellsworth McKee, doesn't he have enought to keep him busy without being part of something that is bound to hurt his business, like being a part of 3ABN I mean.

It's funny to me that all these people were "well respected" people until Linda was fired. What happened to them all? Did they just happen to "go bad" about that time? Again... they don't need Danny or 3ABN, why do you suppose they are a part of it?? Maybe, because they know many more facts about what is really going on there.

Joe

Posted by: Chez Dec 24 2006, 12:21 PM

> QUOTE(Joe Smith @ Dec 24 2006, 12:29 PM) ☐
>
> What's wrong with this picture??? All these people with millions and multi-millions are in Danny's pocket??
> When did they get there.. and why would they want to play this game?? Don't they have other more important stuff to attend to. People like Ellsworth McKee, doesn't he have enought to keep him busy without being part of something that is bound to hurt his business, like being a part of 3ABN I mean.
>
> It's funny to me that all these people were "well respected" people until Linda was fired. What happened to them all? Did they just happen to "go bad" about that time? Again... they don't need Danny or 3ABN, why do you suppose they are a part of it?? Maybe, because they know many more facts about what is really going on there.
>
> Joe

Joe, Joe, Joe.

Did the Beartrap say that these were bad people? Someone inquired about the names of board members. Beartrap simply supplied the names and a little information about each member. People like Ellsworth McKee will participate on other boards. People like Ellsworth McKee are also risk takers. That's business.

Posted by: Joe Smith Dec 24 2006, 01:15 PM

> QUOTE(Chez @ Dec 24 2006, 12:21 PM) ☐
>
> Joe, Joe, Joe.
>
> Did the Beartrap say that these were bad people? Someone inquired about the names of board members. Beartrap simply supplied the names and a little information about each member. People like Ellsworth McKee will participate on other boards. People like Ellsworth McKee are also risk takers. That's business.

I'm sorry, I didn't make myself clear. I think all these people are GOOD people with an honest goal of serving God and supporting His ministries. I didn't mean that Beartrap was putting them down either. The pic I ment to paint was... there is a lot of people out there that think that these good people are in Danny's pocket. I say why would they be? What would they get out of that? Don't they have enough of a life without being Danny's puppet? IF they are, then when did it start? From the beginning OR when Linda was fired?
I know many of the board members and I think they are sincere.
Joe

Posted by: Pickle Dec 24 2006, 01:24 PM

> QUOTE(Joe Smith @ Dec 24 2006, 01:15 PM) ☐
>
> I know many of the board members and I think they are sincere.
> Joe

Sure, they may all be sincere, but isn't that beside the point? Isn't the point that Dr. Walt Thompson admitted that he never contacted any of the six alleged victims, their families, or the two ordaining associations that had revoked Tommy's credentials when invited to do so, and instead relied solely on the bogus information Danny gave him? Isn't a mistake like this really serious when it could potentially cost both 3ABN and the IL Conf. millions of dollars down the road?

I think I asked you about this already, and you haven't replied. Why not?

Posted by: Joe Smith Dec 24 2006, 01:33 PM

> QUOTE(Pickle @ Dec 24 2006, 01:24 PM) ☐
>
> Sure, they may all be sincere, but isn't that beside the point? Isn't the point that Dr. Walt

> Thompson admitted that he never contacted any of the six alleged victims, their families, or the two ordaining associations that had revoked Tommy's credentials when invited to do so, and instead replied solely on the bogus information Danny gave him? Isn't a mistake like this really serious when it could potentially cost both 3ABN and the IL Conf. millions of dollars down the road?
>
> That's a fair question. Keep watching 3ABN. I think you will see some positive steps just ahead.
> Joe
>
> I think I asked you about this already, and you haven't replied. Why not?

Posted by: Pickle Dec 24 2006, 01:46 PM

> QUOTE(Joe Smith)
>
> That's a fair question. Keep watching 3ABN. I think you will see some positive steps just ahead.
> Joe

Are you meaning to say that Walt and/or Danny will be issuing an official apology on the air, and/or tendering their resignation?

Fill us in. We are eager to hear.

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Dec 24 2006, 01:48 PM

> QUOTE
>
> That's a fair question. Keep watching 3ABN. I think you will see some positive steps just ahead.
> Joe

Can you let us in on what these positive steps will be? It is encouraging to hear that perhaps 3abn may finally be ready to handle the situation with the alleged molestations in a more Biblically correct manner. Or am I misreading what you said?

Posted by: Pickle Dec 24 2006, 01:57 PM

> QUOTE(PeacefullyBewildered @ Dec 24 2006, 01:48 PM) ☐
>
> Can you let us in on what these postitive steps will be? It is encouraging to hear that perhaps 3abn may finally be ready to handle the situation with the alleged molestations in a more Biblically correct manner. Or am I misreading what you said?

No, you read him right. He said there were positive steps in the works to rectify problems with the board blindly accepting Danny's bogus information about the Tommy Shelton child molestation allegations.

Joe,

Has 3ABN made any promises? If so, will they follow through on them this time?

Posted by: Panama_Pete Dec 24 2006, 05:59 PM

> QUOTE(Joe Smith @ Dec 24 2006, 11:29 AM) ☐
>
> People like Ellsworth McKee, doesn't he have enought to keep him busy without being part of something that is bound to hurt his business, like being a part of 3ABN I mean.
>
> Joe

Consider this just a Point and Counterpoint editorial for balance.

I will present the Counterpoint to Joe's premise that being part of 3ABN is " bound to hurt his business ."

My premise will be that Ellsworth McKee is reasonably shrewd and bright has no intention of hurting his own business. He is, literally, "Mr. Chairman."

What if being part of 3ABN and the Adventist Church helps Mr. McKee's business? How could that be, you ask?

Ellsworth McKee is the chairman of McKee Foods. They make those "Little Debbie" snack cakes that you see displayed in every discount and convenience store. Some say that McKee Foods is the nation's largest baking company. McKee Foods is located near an Adventist watering hole known as Southern Adventist University, in the vicinity of of Collegedale, Tennessee.

Now, are those oatmeal creme pies and Swiss cake rolls manufactured by McKee part of the Adventist health message? I think you immediately know the answer to that question without me saying anything.

If you were the chairman of McKee Foods, and you wanted to make sure there was no criticism of your product , you might seek to control those who produce health programming for Adventists.

In theory at least, a person could be on the board of 3ABN for censorship reasons that have little to do with preaching the gospel.

Remember that business-related phrase: "Control, control, control."

In addition, big business likes to hide under the skirt of the Adventist Church because Ellen White had her vision that was negative of labor unions. This view of labor unions fits the agenda of big business like a hand in a glove. Therefore, it might be to McKee Foods' benefit to maintain a symbiotic relationship with a workforce where labor unions are held in such low esteem.

In the past, Mr. McKee has donated money to an organization called http://www.stopunionpoliticalabuse.org/ (SUPA). (See item "C" on the form included below.) Below is Ellsworth McKee's donation to SUPA from the Federal Election Commission, if you think this point of view is not a possibility. SUPA fights to limit political influence by labor unions. There are two such receipts from Ellworth McKee at the Federal Election Commission.

Therefore, some will say that McKee Foods prefers an environment where labor unions have less influence and where fattening junk foods are never mentioned in association with the Adventist health message.

My point is that there may be another motivation to Ellsworth McKee's involvement at 3ABN that you have not considered.

Today, we in the United States are plagued with obesity. The Food and Drug Administration lists obesity as a disease of epidemic proportions. Rather than criticize McKee Foods' contributions to the serious problem of obesity in America, Adventists venerate McKee. Money talks.

McDonald's gets a lot of the publicity and credit for helping America "supersize" itself, but I think this is unfair. There are many others that contribute to the problem of obesity besides McDonald's, with McKee Foods being one of America's biggest offenders. And the Adventist Church and 3ABN remain silent by design.

This is one of the FEC receipts. You may need to enlarge it until it is legible. Refer to item "C" on that form.

☒ Attached Image

Posted by: Richard Sherwin Dec 25 2006, 12:42 AM

Having spent a few years making those Little Debbies, and being hired by Debbie herself I'd just like to say a couple of things. I've never met a family more dedicated to the SDA church than the McKee's, nor more humble. Yes they produce cakes, but anything in excess is bad for you, even water. Eating a Swiss Roll now and then will not make you obese.

Of course McKee Foods is against unions. How would you like it if someone were to come in and tell you how to run a company you own? Or how you should spend your household money. (Well the IRS does but that's another story) BTW the reason that McKee's do not have a union is that they pay wages higher than the unions would ask for, and those workers pay not a dime in union dues.

The family has always given to the church asking nothing in return. It's my understanding that when O.D. McKee gave money for the library at SMC they had to beg him to allow his name on it. My guess is that most people know very little about their giving because they keep it to themselves.

I have to wonder how much Ellsworth is even involved in the running of 3abn. If I were to venture a guess Danny asked him to be on the board to add to the legitimacy of Danny's "non-profit" company, er, ministry or whatever he might call it.

Merry Christmas ya'll,

Richard

> QUOTE(Panama_Pete @ Dec 24 2006, 06:59 PM)
>
> Consider this just a Point and Counterpoint editorial for balance.
>
> I will present the Counterpoint to Joe's premise that being part of 3ABN is " bound to hurt his business ."
>
> My premise will be that Ellsworth McKee is reasonably shrewd and bright has no intention of hurting his own business. He is, literally, "Mr. Chairman."
>
> --
>
> What if being part of 3ABN and the Adventist Church helps Mr. McKee's business? How could that be, you ask?
>
> Ellsworth McKee is the chairman of McKee Foods. They make those "Little Debbie" snack cakes that you see displayed in every discount and convenience store. Some say that McKee Foods is the nation's largest baking company. McKee Foods is located near an Adventist watering hole known as Southern Adventist University, in the vicinity of of Collegedale, Tennessee.
>
> Now, are those oatmeal creme pies and Swiss cake rolls manufactured by McKee part of the Adventist health message? I think you immediately know the answer to that question without me saying anything.
>
> If you were the chairman of McKee Foods, and you wanted to make sure there was no criticism of your product , you might seek to control those who produce health programming for Adventists.
>
> In theory at least, a person could be on the board of 3ABN for censorship reasons that have little to do with preaching the gospel.
>
> Remember that business-related phrase: "Control, control, control."
>
> In addition, big business likes to hide under the skirt of the Adventist Church because Ellen White had her vision that was negative of labor unions. This view of labor unions fits the agenda of big business like a hand in a glove. Therefore, it might be to McKee Foods' benefit to maintain a symbiotic relationship with a workforce where labor unions are held in such low esteem.
>
> In the past, Mr. McKee has donated money to an organization called http://www.stopunionpoliticalabuse.org/ (SUPA). (See item "C" on the form included below.) Below is Ellsworth McKee's donation to SUPA from the Federal Election Commission, if you think this point of view is not a possibility. SUPA fights to limit political influence by labor unions. There are two such receipts from Ellworth McKee at the Federal Election Commission.
>
> Therefore, some will say that McKee Foods prefers an environment where labor unions have less influence and where fattening junk foods are never mentioned in association with the Adventist health message.
>
> My point is that there may be another motivation to Ellsworth McKee's involvement at 3ABN that you have not considered.
>
> Today, we in the United States are plagued with obesity. The Food and Drug Administration lists obesity as a disease of epidemic proportions. Rather than criticize McKee Foods' contributions to the serious problem of obesity in America, Adventists venerate McKee. Money talks.

> McDonald's gets a lot of the publicity and credit for helping America "supersize" itself, but I think this is unfair. There are many others that contribute to the problem of obesity besides McDonald's, with McKee Foods being one of America's biggest offenders. And the Adventist Church and 3ABN remain silent by design.
>
> This is one of the FEC receipts. You may need to enlarge it until it is legible. Refer to item "C" on that form.
>
> ☒ Attached Image

Posted by: Panama_Pete Dec 25 2006, 01:45 AM

> QUOTE(Richard Sherwin @ Dec 25 2006, 12:42 AM)
>
> I have to wonder how much Ellsworth is even involved in the running of 3abn. If I were to venture a guess Danny asked him to be on the board to add to the legitimacy of Danny's "non-profit" company, er, ministry or whatever he might call it.
>
> Merry Christmas ya'll,
>
> Richard

Thank you for your first-hand account. I know there has always been pride among Adventists that "Little Debbie" is an Adventist-owned company. Various people have told me that. In fact, when my father visited McKee years ago, it was the highlight of his trip to Tennessee.

Nevertheless, I have grown a bit skeptical by the 3ABN board's apparent "winking" at what has been going on around 3ABN, and I began to theorize that, perhaps, birds of a feather flock together.

I know that McKee Foods is privately owned and has pension plans that do not exist at 3ABN. Therefore, your guess that Danny asked Ellsworth to serve on the 3ABN board, and that Ellsworth is not involved in providing much imput into the running of 3ABN is a good one. If that's the case, that's really too bad.

However, I am willing to give Ellsworth another chance to redeem himself.

Thank you, Richard, for your response.

Posted by: Richard Sherwin Dec 25 2006, 04:24 PM

There is a yacht company here in MI that's owned by an Adventist and I'm proud of that as well as companies like McKee Foods. To many Little Debbies and too many yachts are not good for anyone

It would be interesting to know how many times a year the 3abn board meets, and how many members actually attend.

Richard

> QUOTE(Panama_Pete @ Dec 25 2006, 02:45 AM)
>
> Thank you for your first-hand account. I know there has always been pride among Adventists that "Little Debbie" is an Adventist-owned company. Various people have told me that. In fact, when my father visited McKee years ago, it was the highlight of his trip to Tennessee.
>
> Nevertheless, I have grown a bit skeptical by the 3ABN board's apparent "winking" at what has been going on around 3ABN, and I began to theorize that, perhaps, birds of a feather flock together.
>
> I know that McKee Foods is privately owned and has pension plans that do not exist at 3ABN. Therefore, your guess that Danny asked Ellsworth to serve on the 3ABN board, and that Ellsworth is not involved in providing much imput into the running of 3ABN is a good one. If that's the case, that's really too bad.
>
> However, I am willing to give Ellsworth another chance to redeem himself.
>
> Thank you, Richard, for your response.

Printable Version of Topic

133

Click here to view this topic in its original format

BlackSDA _ 3ABN _ Hal Steenson And John Lomacang

Posted by: sister Dec 3 2006, 07:05 PM

It is no secret at 3ABN that there is no love lost between Hal Steenson and John Lomacang. Although the original date of this email is October 2005, it is still reflective of the division in the pastoral camp of 3ABN. At the time of this writing Hal requested that this information be "passed on to everyone". I know it is a little late in coming, but finally Hal your request has been granted.

A little background history: Hal Steenson is the husband of Mollie Steenson, General Manager of 3ABN. The only one that stands above her in the corperate hierarchy is Danny Shelton. Hal is also a member of the 3ABN Pastoral staff.

John Lomacang is the Pastor of the Thompsonville (3ABN) SDA Church, located on the property of 3ABN. In addition to his pastoral duties, he is often seen as a presenter on 3ABN programming.

At this point it is good to remember that Mollie believes that God has given her a vision of their intended place, together at the helm of 3ABN. Mollie has the business savvy and Hal is the Charismatic Preacher. Once Danny is out of the way, there will be no need for John to stand at the pulpit of the 3ABN church, Hal will comfortably fill that position. Heads up John, it is past time to read the writing on the wall...

Sister

----- Original Message -----
From: Hal Steenson
Sent: Monday, October 10, 2005 9:59 AM
Subject: Concerned

*Dear pastor ******* *******,*

Thank you for calling and asking our position on John Lomachang's presentation Friday night. Here is 3ABN's statement on this matter. Thank you for helping us pass this on to everyone. Once again we apologize for what happened. It was a total surprise to all of us.

Thank You,

Hal Steenson

This is the statement I sent to Dr. Thompson.

Dr Walt,

I'm hurt, and I'm mad about what John Lomachang preached Friday night. I came out of gross error and felt assured, until his series, that I was moving in the truth. I'm not a scholar on the trumpets, however, even I knew that was wrong. The sad thing is that so many people watching now think this is what we all believe. And all the new people in our church may now accept it as the gospel truth. John's arrogance Sabbath morning goes along with what I told him months ago, "he has become a law unto himself." He is neither answerable nor accountable to no one and as he put it Sabbath morning, he owes no one an apology. If he wants to cut his own throat, so be it, but he sliced 3ABN up by teaching his "Adventists futuristic" opinion on live worldwide television. What he did was not of God or from God.

I'm amazed,

Hal Steenson

Posted by: Clay Dec 3 2006, 07:32 PM

this is important because? I think you are dredging the bottom now Sister.... in the big picture this is a non-issue.... obviously this is a slow news day......

Posted by: Johann Dec 4 2006, 12:11 AM

> QUOTE(Clay @ Dec 4 2006, 03:32 AM)
>
> this is important because? . . .

Danny Shelton claims that HOPE is not teaching true Adventism. Only 3ABN does.

Posted by: watchbird Dec 4 2006, 05:52 AM

> QUOTE(Clay @ Dec 3 2006, 08:32 PM)
>
> this is important because? I think you are dredging the bottom now Sister.... in the big picture this is a non-issue.... obviously this is a slow news day......

If the only thing we are talking about here is Danny's personal problems, or even about the morals... or lack thereof... of the Shelton clan.... then this would be unimportant. But these are NOT the only things that are important. The goal is to clean up the mess at 3abn so that it can continue on as an integral part of Adventist life and mission. So anything which pertains to "life on the ranch".... which certainly includes divisions as well as liasons in top management and "pastors".... in doctrinal understandings as well as personal morals and behaviour... is indeed important in giving a full picture of why some of us at least think that 3abn definitely needs a thorough housecleaning.

Posted by: caribbean sda Dec 4 2006, 06:21 AM

> QUOTE(Johann @ Dec 4 2006, 02:11 AM)
>
> Danny Shelton claims that HOPE is not teaching true Adventism. Only 3ABN does.

hmm...so 3ABN has a monopoly on the teaching of true Adventism?

Posted by: Clay Dec 4 2006, 07:45 AM

> QUOTE(watchbird @ Dec 4 2006, 05:52 AM)
>
> If the only thing we are talking about here is Danny's personal problems, or even about the morals... or lack thereof... of the Shelton clan.... then this would be unimportant. But these are NOT the only things that are important. The goal is to clean up the mess at 3abn so that it can continue on as an integral part of Adventist life and mission. So anything which pertains to "life on the ranch".... which certainly includes divisions as well as liasons in top management and "pastors".... in doctrinal understandings as well as personal morals and behaviour... is indeed important in giving a full picture of why some of us at least think that 3abn definitely needs a thorough housecleaning.

after all the discussion in multiple threads about the Sheltons and their proclivities, it is clear that they have issues.... this is overkill.... if the picture is not clear now, it won't be.....

This thread should continue because?

Posted by: caribbean sda Dec 4 2006, 07:54 AM

It would be interesting to hear what John Lomacang said about trumpets that has Hal Steenson so hot under the collar. It certainly appears that there is turmoil in the 3ABN camp. Maybe instead of an explosion...there will be an implosion. blc oh well...and so it goes...on and on and on...

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Dec 4 2006, 07:55 AM

> QUOTE(Clay @ Dec 4 2006, 06:45 AM)
>
> after all the discussion in multiple threads about the Sheltons and their proclivities, it is clear that they have issues.... this is overkill.... if the picture is not clear now, it won't be.....
>
> This thread should continue because?

If this thread is going to challenge the claim that 3abn is preaching the "undiluted" truth and will actually bring up the tainted teachings in question I think it would serve a valuable purpose.

Posted by: Clay Dec 4 2006, 08:16 AM

> QUOTE(PeacefullyBewildered @ Dec 4 2006, 07:55 AM)

> If this thread is going to challenge the claim that 3abn is preaching the "undiluted" truth and will actually bring up the tainted teachings in question I think it would serve a valuable purpose.

fair enough.... if that is the direction of the thread.... then lets explore... if however it is more of the personal failings of those at 3abn... I will close this one....

Posted by: sister Dec 4 2006, 09:18 AM

> QUOTE(Clay @ Dec 4 2006, 09:16 AM) ☐
>
> fair enough.... if that is the direction of the thread.... then lets explore... if however it is more of the personal failings of those at 3abn... I will close this one....

An interesting point from Maritime in their discussion of this topic, I have bolded two points that need to be considered:

"I am also with Gregory in what he says about the deviant beliefs brought in by the Pentecostals as being more important to recognize than worrying ourselves about what John may be saying about prophetic interpretation. And we need also, IMO, to keep in mind the power struggle that some have pointed out that is going on between the Steenson's and Danny.... and note that it could be that Hal's condemnation of how John treats Adventist doctrine as part of a "divide and conquer" strategy... with this type of attack being the "smokescreen" behind which the Pentecostals can "take over" with their own brand of "Adventism"."

Posted by: Clay Dec 4 2006, 09:27 AM

> QUOTE(sister @ Dec 4 2006, 09:18 AM) ☐
>
> An interesting point from Maritime in their discussion of this topic, I have bolded two points that need to be considered:
>
> "I am also with Gregory in what he says about the deviant beliefs brought in by the Pentecostals as being more important to recognize than worrying ourselves about what John may be saying about prophetic interpretation. And we need also, IMO, to keep in mind the power struggle that some have pointed out that is going on between the Steenson's and Danny.... and note that it could be that Hal's condemnation of how John treats Adventist doctrine as part of a "divide and conquer" strategy... with this type of attack being the "smokescreen" behind which the Pentecostals can "take over" with their own brand of "Adventism"."

what are the issues.....

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Dec 4 2006, 09:58 AM

> QUOTE(sister @ Dec 4 2006, 08:18 AM) ☐
>
> An interesting point from Maritime in their discussion of this topic, I have bolded two points that need to be considered:
>
> "I am also with Gregory in what he says about the deviant beliefs brought in by the Pentecostals as being more important to recognize than worrying ourselves about what John may be saying about prophetic interpretation. And we need also, IMO, to keep in mind the power struggle that some have pointed out that is going on between the Steenson's and Danny.... and note that it could be that Hal's condemnation of how John treats Adventist doctrine as part of a "divide and conquer" strategy... with this type of attack being the "smokescreen" behind which the Pentecostals can "take over" with their own brand of "Adventism"."

Sister,

This claim of the infiltration of "deviant Pentacostal beliefs" has been stated and restated. However, I have personally never seen spelled out here what those deviant beliefs are.

Can you illuminate?

Additionally, for those not privy to the John Lomacang series in question, how can we support this statement that his prophetic interpretation isn't worth worrying about. For all we know at this point his interpretation could have been either doctrinally sound or blatantly flawed.

Posted by: sister Dec 4 2006, 10:00 AM

The following is taken from a thread on Maritime and is the personal experience of an individual with Shelly Quinn and her husband (a member of the 3ABN pastoral staff). I will preface it with an explanation of the term "rhema":

Rhema is a Greek term that is often translated "word" in English versions of the New Testament. In many Charismatic/Pentecostal circles, however, it takes on a special meaning. A rhema word is a special, modern "revelation" to someone. It may be in the form of a flash of insight into some spiritual matter that is not clearly covered in scripture. Or it may be an intuitive understanding that a particular scripture verse or passage has immediate application to a current circumstance, even though in context in the Bible it may have nothing at all to do with the topic of the circumstance. Such rhema words are sought after to give daily guidance to the life of the Christian.This comes straight from what is called the "Word of Faith" Movement.... which is extreme enough to even be condemned by other more conservative Pentecostals.Thus, when someone holding this belief tells you to take a text in the Bible, and repeat it with certainty, and you will get what those words promise.... this is NOT the same as what scripture talks about--having faith in the God who answers our prayers in His own time and out of His own wisdom and in the ways that He knows is for our best good. This is what Word of Faith people call "having faith in your faith"... that is, having faith "strong enough" so that God will HAVE to give you exactly what you ask for.... this is sometimes termed, "having power with God".

"she (Shelly Quinn)actually has chapters on the "rhema" (these books have been promoted on 3ABN, the book in question is Exalting His Word Workbook)... from what she states in the book, you are to take scriptures, rewrite them in your own words--making it a DEMAND, and then say it over and over, for months if needed, till it comes true.
(sounds like self-hypnosis, eh?)

in the home in which i was staying, at the time i ordered her book, there was some occult activity going on and i was under attack. i called the 3abn prayer line and her husband answered. when i told him what was happening, he started off on a 30 minute tirade of "how the Lord must want him to get into the deliverance ministry since he was answering the calls of so many who were under attack." as i recall, he never did address my request for help, just kept asking me what i thought of his different plans for getting into this "ministry." one really weird call.

after getting her book, i called and spoke with shelly. she emphasized over and over that "she wasn't supposed to pray with people over the phone;" but she made an exception in my case. when i emailed her telling her of having a calm day, she proceeded to "pronounce me cured and in no further need of her help." hmmm... the attacks were still going on.... on and on till the day i left that home.

i then began to realize that they are just people in need of a Saviour (like i am) and not to put too much stock in depending upon them in any way. (our dependance is on Jesus!!)

after reading the posts here at maritime, and thinking back on the limited contact i've had with 3abn, now i understand the "why" of the way they came across to me on the phone.

there is definitely "fundamental charismatic pentacostalism" going on there in a big way. wonder what CA (CA Murry) thinks of it all? i just remembered--i talked with him two or three times also. he always came across to me as a sincere friend of Jesus, a true christian and concerned. just hope they don't change him.

ps. ive joined the 3abn "prayer warrior" group. in their emails, their prayers never say "Thy will be done". it is always a DEMAND."

This helps explain from, a Pentacostal point of view, what Mollie Steenson, ET Everett and Shelly Quinn have attributed to Danny Shelton---in essense that Danny has "Rhema" and whatever he says, thinks or dreams comes from God.

Sister

Posted by: Clay Dec 4 2006, 10:28 AM

and how is what they do different from the old sermons we use to hear in adventism regarding the ABC's of prayer, i.e. Ask, Believe and Claim?

In fact isn't it possible that the church at large has been influenced by this concept and not just 3ABN?

Posted by: IMM Dec 4 2006, 10:40 AM

> QUOTE(sister @ Dec 4 2006, 09:18 AM) ☐
>
> An interesting point from Maritime in their discussion of this topic, I have bolded two points that need to be considered:
>
> "I am also with Gregory in what he says about the deviant beliefs brought in by the Pentecostals as being more important to recognize than worrying ourselves about what

> John may be saying about prophetic interpretation. And we need also, IMO, to keep in mind the power struggle that some have pointed out that is going on between the Steenson's and Danny.... and note that it could be that Hal's condemnation of how John treats Adventist doctrine as part of a "divide and conquer" strategy... with this type of attack being the "smokescreen" behind which the Pentecostals can "take over" with their own brand of "Adventism"."

I will preface my comments by admitting I have not heard Lomacang's "7 Trumpets" sermon, as I rarely watch 3ABN, but I know a number of people who did see it.

Jay Gallimore, Michigan Conference president, had to make a trip to one of his constiuent churches (a larger one) recently to settle things down as members became extremely hostile and divided after hearing Lomacang's sermon. Elder Gallimore is considered somewhat of a scholar in the matter of the 7 trumpets. He has studied scripture and Adventist beliefs in depth, and has produced a powerpoint presentation and even made tapes of his sermon explaining the trumpets in a clear, concise, and easy to follow manner. Gallimore told that Michigan congregation there are a lot of problems with Lomacang's interpretation, and it is definitely NOT the generally held teaching/understanding of the SDA denomination that he (Lomacang) is preaching, but his own "new light" and interpretation.

I also know a couple, dear friends of our family, who have heard Lomacang's "trumpets" explanations and are beginning to split with Adventism over it. They are pushy about it with all of their SDA friends, and Lomacang's "new light" has caused them to create some divides. I have personally asked them not to talk about this around my family, but I am told they follow up their support of Lomacang by passing out a book authored by someone who does not support Adventist prophetic interpretations. I don't know the author, but I will try to find out.

Again I will state, I have no first-hand knowledge of the sermon, but I do know that whatever Lomacang preaches on this topic has definitely stirred the pot in both the pews and SDA church leadership. The sad thing is, there are those who think that because they saw Lomacang's sermon on 3ABN it has to be true. It seems Hal is probably not at all wrong or out of line in this instance. He is actually the one who is supporting our traditional SDA beliefs.

Posted by: Clay Dec 4 2006, 10:43 AM

will someone be kind enough to share what Lomacang preached.... how can we explore what we do not know.....

Posted by: caribbean sda Dec 4 2006, 11:01 AM

> QUOTE(Clay @ Dec 4 2006, 12:43 PM) ☐
>
> will someone be kind enough to share what Lomacang preached.... how can we explore what we do not know.....

You're so right.

Posted by: princessdi Dec 4 2006, 11:24 AM

OK, so 3ABN goes down(as Adventist see it) in "penecostal" flames, and becomes a rival for TBN. Does this not accomplish the objective and remove 3ABN as the foremost broadcaster of Adventist programming? After while, if indeed, they are changing their doctrinal beliefs, they will naturally go with programming which shares that belief, and no longer broadcast those diametrically opposed. Or they will continue to sell time to Adventist programs, but change their own public declaration of doctrine. At which point I bleive the Adventist programs will leave on their own(as we are extremely fearful of "penecostoal" declarations of any kind). Either way, Danny is no longer the "face of Advnetism" anywhere. Voila!! Mission accomplished!

Posted by: Richard Sherwin Dec 4 2006, 11:28 AM

I'm just wondering at what point 3abn starts to slowly split with the church and become a de facto separate denomination, and how many people will follow them instead of the official SDA church?

Richard

Posted by: princessdi Dec 4 2006, 11:38 AM

Isn't part of our own doctrine about a "shaking time" and being able to stand? Everyone has to make that decision for themselves, right? All we have to do is to make our own "calling and election sure", right?

> QUOTE(Richard Sherwin @ Dec 4 2006, 09:28 AM)
>
> I'm just wondering at what point 3abn starts to slowly split with the church and become a de facto separate denomination, and how many people will follow them instead of the official SDA church?
>
> Richard

Posted by: watchbird Dec 4 2006, 11:39 AM

> QUOTE(Richard Sherwin @ Dec 4 2006, 12:28 PM)
>
> I'm just wondering at what point 3abn starts to slowly split with the church and become a de facto separate denomination, and how many people will follow them instead of the official SDA church?
>
> Richard

You have, IMO, good thoughts and good questions. I think, however, that a change of tense in the verbs might give a more profitable area for searching out the answers to your questions.

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Dec 4 2006, 01:32 PM

> QUOTE(Clay @ Dec 4 2006, 09:43 AM)
>
> will someone be kind enough to share what Lomacang preached.... how can we explore what we do not know.....

Apparently we are still being asked to explore unknown territory and the prophetic speculations of where this unknown territory is threatening to lead folks.

Sister's post sharing a woman's personal experience with Hal and also Shelly Quinn's workbook was interesting but was, after all, her personal experience. We aren't familiar enough with this unidentified woman to be able to securely take her word as a basis for drawing conclusions. Now, if WatchBird, Calvin, Panama_Pete, or a host of other BSDA regulars were relaying these experiences they would hold more weight with me. I believe I will look into getting Quinn's workbook so I can check the "rhema" idea out for myself.

IMM's post about Jay Gallimore was a little closer to what we need to hear to become educated in the area but still doesn't show John Lomacang's theology.

Posted by: Clay Dec 4 2006, 01:54 PM

before I will go out on a limb and say that Lomacang was off-base I need to know what Lomacang said... secondly, do all adventist theologians believe the same thing when it comes to the 7 trumpets... I bet they don't... so then what really are we dealing with?

Posted by: Richard Sherwin Dec 4 2006, 05:28 PM

> QUOTE(watchbird @ Dec 4 2006, 12:39 PM)
>
> You have, IMO, good thoughts and good questions. I think, however, that a change of tense in the verbs might give a more profitable area for searching out the answers to your questions.

I know what you are saying Watchbird, however I'm still trying to give 3abn the benefit of the doubt and hoping that it's future, if at all, not that it's already happening.

Richard

Posted by: princessdi Dec 4 2006, 05:32 PM

Yes, someone please at least give the Reader's Digest version of what he preaches about the seven trumpets please. Hard to make any determination if without a frame of reference.

> QUOTE(Clay @ Dec 4 2006, 11:54 AM)

> before I will go out on a limb and say that Lomacang was off-base I need to know what Lomacang said... secondly, do all adventist theologians believe the same thing when it comes to the 7 trumpets... I bet they don't... so then what really are we dealing with?

Posted by: IMM Dec 4 2006, 07:24 PM

> QUOTE(princessdi @ Dec 4 2006, 05:32 PM)
>
> Yes, someone please at least give the Reader's Digest version of what he preaches about the seven trumpets please. Hard to make any determination if without a frame of reference.

[I will state again that this is second-hand information, I have not heard Lomacang's sermon, nor Gallimore's, just several first-person reports from some who have heard it.]

I just called my mother who happened to be visiting the SDA church in MI when Gallimore preached his 7 trumpets sermon and went point-by-point through the errors of what Lomacang preached. She has the powerpoint presentation and the tapes Gallimore has made so that she could carefully research it herslf also. She is emailing me the PP presentation and will mail the tapes tomorrow.

In a nutshell, she said the accepted SDA version going back to Josiah Litch (pre-SDA) and AT Jones is that the 7 trumpets represent various time periods in history, culminating with the 7th trumpet which is the Second Coming of Jesus. Lomacang apparently rejects those views and has decided that new light shows him the trumpets still point to the future and a series of cataclysmic events that will soon take place including tsunamis, fire, earthquakes, etc., of an enormous magnitude, some including definite timelines, and that none of the trumpets' time periods has already occurred.

The second-hand stories I have heard regarding this are not clear, concise Bible-based explanations, but very grandiose Star Wars type scare tactic scenarios. Obviosuly one must realize when hearing things second- and third-hand that stories change, and the truth usually lies in the middle. However, these views are at the very least an obvious divergence from traditional SDA thinking, and thus the issue Hal Steenson and many others have had with Lomacang's new-found interpretation.

Posted by: howdy Dec 4 2006, 07:52 PM

> QUOTE(IMM @ Dec 4 2006, 08:24 PM)
>
> [I will state again that this is second-hand information, I have not heard Lomacang's sermon, nor Gallimore's, just several first-person reports from some who have heard it.]
>
> I just called my mother who happened to be visiting the SDA church in MI when Gallimore preached his 7 trumpets sermon and went point-by-point through the errors of what Lomacang preached. She has the powerpoint presentation and the tapes Gallimore has made so that she could carefully research it herslf also. She is emailing me the PP presentation and will mail the tapes tomorrow.
>
> In a nutshell, she said the accepted SDA version going back to Josiah Litch (pre-SDA) and AT Jones > is that the 7 trumpets represent various time periods in history, culminating with the 7th trumpet which is the Second Coming of Jesus. Lomacang apparently rejects those views and has decided that new light shows him the trumpets still point to the future and a series of cataclysmic events that will soon take place including tsunamis, fire, earthquakes, etc., of an enormous magnitude, some including definite timelines, and that none of the trumpets' time periods has already occurred.

>
> The second-hand stories I have heard regarding this are not clear, concise Bible-based explanations, but very grandiose Star Wars type scare tactic scenarios. Obviosuly one must realize when hearing things second- and third-hand that stories change, and the truth usually lies in the middle. However, these views are at the very least an obvious divergence from traditional SDA thinking, and thus the issue Hal Steenson and many others have had with Lomacang's new-found interpretation.

Interesting! The traditional "interpretation" of the trumpets is in my opinion rather strange. Maybe it is time to take a new look. From the little information that has been given here it is for sure that the idea of future fulfillment of the trumpets is not new. I have heard people talk of this for many years and I see the idea as reasonable since there are some similarities between the "trumpets" and the plagues. How about a new thread to study these things?

howdy

Posted by: princessdi Dec 4 2006, 08:14 PM

Thanks, IMM for trying. It is quite a bit clearer to me now. I would also still like to hear form someone who has heard the sermon, or maybe even both sermons, or even familiar with the church's teachingsand where Lomacang differs.

> QUOTE(IMM @ Dec 4 2006, 05:24 PM)
>
> [I will state again that this is second-hand information, I have not heard Lomacang's sermon, nor Gallimore's, just several first-person reports from some who have heard it.]
>
> I just called my mother who happened to be visiting the SDA church in MI when Gallimore preached his 7 trumpets sermon and went point-by-point through the errors of what Lomacang preached. She has the powerpoint presentation and the tapes Gallimore has made so that she could carefully research it herslf also. She is emailing me the PP presentation and will mail the tapes tomorrow.
>
> In a nutshell, she said the accepted SDA version going back to Josiah Litch (pre-SDA) and AT Jones is that the 7 trumpets represent various time periods in history, culminating with the 7th trumpet which is the Second Coming of Jesus. Lomacang apparently rejects those views and has decided that new light shows him the trumpets still point to the future and a series of cataclysmic events that will soon take place including tsunamis, fire, earthquakes, etc., of an enormous magnitude, some including definite timelines, and that none of the trumpets' time periods has already occurred.
>
> The second-hand stories I have heard regarding this are not clear, concise Bible-based explanations, but very grandiose Star Wars type scare tactic scenarios. Obviosuly one must realize when hearing things second- and third-hand that stories change, and the truth usually lies in the middle. However, these views are at the very least an obvious divergence from traditional SDA thinking, and thus the issue Hal Steenson and many others have had with Lomacang's new-found interpretation.

Posted by: roxe Dec 4 2006, 10:08 PM

> QUOTE(PeacefullyBewildered @ Dec 4 2006, 12:32 PM) ☐
>
> Sister's post sharing a woman's personal experience with Hal and also Shelly Quinn's workbook was interesting but was, after all, her personal experience. We aren't familiar enough with this unidentified woman to be able to securely take her word as a basis for drawing conclusions. Now, if WatchBird, Calvin, Panama_Pete, or a host of other BSDA regulars were relaying these experiences they would hold more weight with me. I believe I will look into getting Quinn's workbook so I can check the "rhema" idea out for myself.

hello all,
i'm the lady who sister quoted from at maritime; and it is OK with me that she shared it with you.

my experience was not with hal, but with jd quinn.

of course, you don't know me well enough to put ANY weight on what i said; it is after all, my own experience. but having these experiences, i was NOT shocked when i came here and read your threads on this topic. saddened yes, but not shocked. i had had too much uncomfortable "women's intuition" going on since first viewing 3abn and my limited dealings with the prayer team.

please, if you do get shelley's workbook, be very careful with it... it sounds so GOOD. i got sucked into its teaching for awhile; but then put it aside for some reason. when i read at maritime about what rhema really is, and why their "prayers" using it are made like demands and not "Thy will be done", i understood why i had been uncomfortable about reading and using it in the limited way i had.

after posting at maritime, i got the book out of my library and proceeded to tear it to little pieces and throw it away... and i've noticed that my home now has a much different and lighter atmosphere to it.

but... again, this is just my experience with 3abn, and jd and shelley quinn.

"oh God, spare thy people."

roxe

Posted by: watchbird Dec 4 2006, 10:14 PM

> QUOTE(IMM @ Dec 4 2006, 08:24 PM) ☐
>
> In a nutshell, she said the accepted SDA version going back to Josiah Litch (pre-SDA) and AT Jones is that the 7 trumpets represent various time periods in history, culminating with the 7th trumpet which is the Second Coming of Jesus. Lomacang apparently rejects those views and has decided that new light shows him the trumpets still point to the future and a series of cataclysmic events that will soon take place including tsunamis, fire, earthquakes, etc., of an enormous magnitude, some including definite timelines, and that none of the trumpets' time periods has already occurred.

It has been a long time since the preferred SDA teaching on the trumpets went "back to Josiah Litch".... though there are those who still use that, I'm sure. I'm not sure of Gallimore's qualifications as a scholar, but if he is going back to Litch and Jones, then he is certainly behind the times himself.

That is NOT to say that I would agree with any futuristic version of the trumpets... especially if they are being used to predict specific "cataclysmic events"... and if they are being used that way because they are seen as being the same as the seven last plagues.

> QUOTE(howdy @ Dec 4 2006, 08:52 PM)
>
> Interesting! The traditional "interpretation" of the trumpets is in my opinion rather strange. Maybe it is time to take a new look. From the little information that has been given here it is for sure that the idea of future fulfillment of the trumpets is not new. I have heard people talk of this for many years and I see the idea as reasonable since there are some similarities between the "trumpets" and the plagues. How about a new thread to study these things?
>
> howdy

Yes there are similarities between the trumpets and the plagues. But there are also differences... the chief of which is that the trumpets come in the historical section of Revelation and the plagues come in the eschatological section... and also that the trumpets are given as warning and for the purpose of turning men's hearts to God, while the plagues are "poured out unmixed with mercy" which we have understood to mean that they are not poured out until after the close of probation.

The main difference between our interpretations in the 19th century and those that are developing now is that then we were mainly looking at physical literal interpretations/applications... while now we are primarily looking at them for their symbolic and spiritual applications. I'm not sure who really started the move in that direction, but certainly Ellen White, while never speaking against the literal applications of her day, did give a gentle nudge in the direction of spiritual applications when she talked about the spiritual blessings that would come from a deeper study of Revelation.

Probably the most prominent scholars in this area that we have at present are Jon Paulien, who just recently moved from being the Chair of the New Testament Department at the Seminary at Andrews to being the Dean of the School of Religion at Loma Linda University, and Ranko Stefanovic, Chair of the Department of Religion at Andrews, who just recently published a very readable Commentary on the book of Revelation, entitled, Revelation of Jesus Christ copyright 2002 by Andrews University Press, where it can be purchased on-line. Jon Paulien has a set of tapes on Revelation and is currently working in cooperation with Graeme Bradford to produce a new Revelation Seminar Series. Paulien's doctoral thesis was in Revelation with focus on the trumpets. Hans LaRondelle is also an authority in the area of end time prophecies, and his section on the trumpets compares different views and explains why he holds some and disagrees with others. His book that covers this is entitled How to Understand the End-Time Prophecies of the Bible unfortunately this book seems to be out of print so you would have to find it in someone's library. Perhaps he has replaced this with another title, but that I do not know about.

> QUOTE(princessdi @ Dec 4 2006, 09:14 PM)
>
> Thanks, IMM for trying. It is quite a bit clearer to me now. I would also still like to hear form someone who has heard the sermon, or maybe even both sermons, or even familiar with the church's teachingsand where Lomacang differs.

It would probably be more helpful to become familiar with the authors above before you try to sort out what Galimore and Lomacang are saying.

Posted by: roxe Dec 4 2006, 10:35 PM

> QUOTE(Clay @ Dec 4 2006, 09:28 AM) ☐
>
> and how is what they do different from the old sermons we use to hear in adventism regarding the ABC's of prayer, i.e. Ask, Believe and Claim?
>
> In fact isn't it possible that the church at large has been influenced by this concept and not just 3ABN?

clay,

i've been thru three seminars in years past by glenn coon; and have his books.

(1) he does not advocate putting the promises into our own words.

(2) he does not advocate using the promises as DEMANDS.

(3) he does not say that while we are abc-ing the promises, that everything we think, or dream, or say, is coming from God.

one method DEMANDS, and then alleges that we are a "prophet"...

the other method shows faith and trust in God's word and His timing.

at least, this is how i see a BIG difference in the two methods.

roxe

Posted by: IMM Dec 5 2006, 07:46 AM

> QUOTE(watchbird @ Dec 4 2006, 10:14 PM) ☐
>
> It has been a long time since the preferred SDA teaching on the trumpets went "back to Josiah Litch".... though there are those who still use that, I'm sure. I'm not sure of Gallimore's qualifications as a scholar, but if he is going back to Litch and Jones, then he is certainly behind the times himself. That is NOT to say that I would agree with any futuristic version of the trumpets... especially if they are being used to predict specific "cataclysmic events"... and if they are being used that way because they are seen as being the same as the seven last plagues.
>
> Yes there are similarities between the trumpets and the plagues. But there are also differences... the chief of which is that the trumpets come in the historical section of Revelation and the plagues come in the eschatological section... and also that the trumpets are given as warning and for the purpose of turning men's hearts to God, while the plagues are "poured out unmixed with mercy" which we have understood to mean that they are not poured out until after the close of probation.
>
> The main difference between our interpretations in the 19th century and those that are developing now is that then we were mainly looking at physical literal interpretations/applications... while now we are primarily looking at them for their symbolic and spiritual applications. I'm not sure who really started the move in that direction, but certainly Ellen White, while never speaking against the literal applications of her day, did give a gentle nudge in the direction of spiritual applications when she talked about the spiritual blessings that would come from a deeper study of Revelation.

> Probably the most prominent scholars in this area that we have at present are Jon Paulien, who just recently moved from being the Chair of the New Testament Department at the Seminary at Andrews to being the Dean of the School of Religion at Loma Linda University, and Ranko Stefanovic, Chair of the Department of Religion at Andrews, who just recently published a very readable Commentary on the book of Revelation, entitled, Revelation of Jesus Christ copyright 2002 by Andrews University Press, where it can be purchased on-line. Jon Paulien has a set of tapes on Revelation and is currently working in cooperation with Graeme Bradford to produce a new Revelation Seminar Series. Paulien's doctoral thesis was in Revelation with focus on the trumpets. Hans LaRondelle is also an authority in the area of end time prophecies, and his section on the trumpets compares different views and explains why he holds some and disagrees with others. His book that covers this is entitled How to Understand the End-Time Prophecies of the Bible unfortunately this book seems to be out of print so you would have to find it in someone's library. Perhaps he has replaced this with another title, but that I do not know about.
>
> It would probably be more helpful to become familiar with the authors above before you try to sort out what Galimore and Lomacang are saying.

This thread has definitely encouraged me to go back and study things that I haven't studied for awhile. That said, I do not wish to take sides regarding the "rightness" or "wrongness" of anyone's views of the trumpets until I have done more personal studying.

Regarding Gallimore supporting Litch's and Jones' views of the trumpets--since I haven't yet heard his sermon I'm not sure that's what he said. My mother commented that the "traditional SDA views" began with studies by Litch and Jones, but she did not say whether or not that is what Gallimore teaches. He may or may not, I will know more after I listen to his tapes and read through the powerpoint.

I am concerned to see that you listed LaRondelle, whose book has been reviewed and seemingly endorsed by Desmond Ford http://www.atoday.com/magazine/archive/1998/julaug1998/departments/HowtoUnderstand.shtml , as an authority. Again, I have not read that book, but it is interesting to think that a prophetic view endorsed by Ford represents the currently held SDA views on prophecy.

Posted by: Clay Dec 5 2006, 08:15 AM

> QUOTE(roxe @ Dec 4 2006, 10:35 PM) ☐
>
> clay,
>
> i've been thru three seminars in years past by glenn coon; and have his books.
>
> (1) he does not advocate putting the promises into our own words.
>
> (2) he does not advocate using the promises as DEMANDS.
>
> (3) he does not say that while we are abc-ing the promises, that everything we think, or dream, or say, is coming from God.
> one method DEMANDS, and then alleges that we are a "prophet"...

> the other method shows faith and trust in God's word and His timing.
> at least, this is how i see a BIG difference in the two methods.
>
> roxe

Thanks for your two comments that have cleared up things a bit... I am familiar with the "word of faith" concept (there is a thread around here somewhere on it), and agree that the way it is used by those who practice it is wrong or at least arrogant.... it is like they have the "power" tp tell God what they want and he better do it no questions asked... that in my opinion is dangerous....

Posted by: watchbird Dec 5 2006, 08:21 AM

> QUOTE(IMM @ Dec 5 2006, 08:46 AM) ☐
>
> This thread has definitely encouraged me to go back and study things that I haven't studied for awhile. That said, I do not wish to take sides regarding the "rightness" or "wrongness" of anyone's views of the trumpets until I have done more personal studying.
>
> Regarding Gallimore supporting Litch's and Jones' views of the trumpets--since I haven't yet heard his sermon I'm not sure that's what he said. My mother commented that the "traditional SDA views" began with studies by Litch and Jones, but she did not say whether or not that is what Gallimore teaches. He may or may not, I will know more after I listen to his tapes and read through the powerpoint.
>
> I am concerned to see that you listed LaRondelle, whose book has been reviewed and seemingly endorsed by Desmond Ford http://www.atoday.com/magazine/archive/1998/julaug1998/departments/HowtoUnderstand.shtml , as an authority. Again, I have not read that book, but it is interesting to think that a prophetic view endorsed by Ford represents the currently held SDA views on prophecy.

Very good points you make... especially about Gallimore.... and what he really said about the topic. I will be very interested to hear more details once you have seen and heard his material.

As for your concern about LaRondelle... he is a Professor Emeritus of the SDA Theological Seminary at Andrews. There is no cloud over his name so far as I know. And the fact that Ford wrote approvingly of it should not be taken as a "cloud". In the disputes between Ford and the church there were only four points out of the 14 or so that were brought up at Glacier View that he and the church could not come to an agreement on. He is still one of the best defenders of the Sabbath around... especially in those areas where we are challenged by Evangelical arguments... which are somewhat different than those we have historically had to meet.

This book of LaRondelle's is focused on HOW TO understand Apocalyptic prophecy in the whole of scripture. But in actuallity nearly the whole book is devoted to Revelation. Nowhere that I could see does he even intersect with the positions that Ford took contrary to SDA views on a few verses in Daniel. So there would be no reason for either Ford or a mainline SDA to have any quarrels with LaRondelle in this book. Yes, Ford did play up the ways in which LaRondelle echoed his own views... but he had to stretch some to try and paint LaRondelle into the same corner he habitually paints himself into.

It is the best of the three for comparing and explaining the different views that are "out there". And along the way, as he gives his views of which is correct and which is incorrect, I think you will find all three books essentially in harmony.

Posted by: watchbird Dec 5 2006, 08:58 AM

> QUOTE(Clay @ Dec 4 2006, 11:28 AM) ☐
>
> and how is what they do different from the old sermons we use to hear in adventism regarding the ABC's of prayer, i.e. Ask, Believe and Claim?
>
> In fact isn't it possible that the church at large has been influenced by this concept and not just 3ABN?

These are very good questions, Clay. And yes, the "church at large" has definitely been influenced by "this concept"... and not only nor primarily from Glen Coon's seminars on "The ABC's of Prayer", though probably most devient teachings on prayer use the same "Ask, Believe, and Claim" formula that is developed from Matthew 21, Mark 11, and John 16.

Now it may not be intuitively obvious how one gets the "formula" from those chapters.... but when they present it, it sounds convincing and it is nearly impossible to listen and realize how much they are distorting the intended message of the passages.

But once the formula is developed... then all it takes is a little mixing together with New Thought concepts of the "intrinsic power" in our words and thoughts, Eastern concepts of "reality" (for lack of a better word at the moment), Theosophical world views, and various strains of "Name it and Claim it gospels". And once that is all stirred together, accepted and promulgated by Pentecostals so that it enters Adventism from a "Christian source".... then... given the same strains that have lurked in our own history.... they make for easy acceptance and further morphing into views that sound a lot like Adventism but in fact are from a whole different source and on a far different foundation.

Roxie did a very good job of putting her finger on some of the readily observable differences.

> QUOTE(roxe @ Dec 4 2006, 11:35 PM) ☐
>
> clay,
>
> i've been thru three seminars in years past by glenn coon; and have his books.
>
> (1) he does not advocate putting the promises into our own words.
>
> (2) he does not advocate using the promises as DEMANDS.
>
> (3) he does not say that while we are abc-ing the promises, that everything we think, or dream, or say, is coming from God.
> one method DEMANDS, and then alleges that we are a "prophet"...
>
> the other method shows faith and trust in God's word and His timing.
> at least, this is how i see a BIG difference in the two methods.
>
> roxe

Glenn Coon was a very popular "campmeeting speaker" for most of his active life... (he is dead now but his son carries on his same lectures, or so I am told, I have not examined them.) I recall hearing him in 1957... a year that had some specific traumas such that his messages should have been a very welcome thing.... and would have been had not I even then had the sense that it was not all that easy nor that predictable. So essentially, even that far back, I backed away from it.

In the late '70's it morphed into a seminar course called "The Positive Way"... which carried on from where Glenn left off, and inserted things that I was to learn later to recognize as coming straight from the "Positive Thinking" messages of many different groups... from the Crystal Cathedral, to Norman Vincent Peale, to various secular Success and Goal setting groups, to near occultic teaching from New Age materials, and back to Christian sources again with the various Word of Faith and Pentecostal groups.

That prepared the ground for the even more strident versions that Roxe notes as "demanding".... which quickly became "commanding" God to act... and along the way picked up the power concepts of "commanding" demons. It is not a pretty scene... but it is difficult to describe the differences between that and true Biblical Christianity because of the similarity of their terminology with truly Christian terms.

Posted by: watchbird Dec 5 2006, 09:11 AM

> QUOTE(Clay @ Dec 5 2006, 09:15 AM) ☐
>
> Thanks for your two comments that have cleared up things a bit... I am familiar with the "word of faith" concept (there is a thread around here somewhere on it), and agree that the way it is used by those who practice it is wrong or at least arrogant.... it is like they have the "power" tp tell God what they want and he better do it no questions asked... that in my opinion is dangerous....

Exactly. And it is "dangerous" for a variety of reasons. The most dangerous, of course, being that it does involve commanding not only God, but Satan as well.... and that opens the way for spirit communications that come from Satan... even though the spirit may appear as an "angel of light".

But besides this (and the facts are that God protects people who dabble in this much more than they or we realize) there are the immediate psychological and physical dangers inherent in "claiming" a promise as though it had already happened when in fact it hasn't. This becomes very obvious when utilized to the point of claiming "healings" from God rather than consulting with medical doctors. But it is equally dangerous when it involves things of the mind... habits that are denied rather than overcome, for example... to say nothing of the fact that it is essentially lying... and lying has it's own penalties.... not only from a moral standpoint, but also from the practical damage one does to oneself when doing whatever mental gymnastics are required to believe the lies that one is telling.

And when this is extended to "claiming the promise"... or the victory... or the healing... for someone ELSE...... then there is the potential for even more damage... not only to oneself, but for ones associates for whom one is "praying"..... in the stident (New Thought, New Age, Spiritistic) demanding sort of way.

As I said.... it ain't a pretty picture.... and the more one sees of it the more repulsive it becomes.

Posted by: Ed White Dec 5 2006, 04:59 PM

> QUOTE(caribbean sda @ Dec 4 2006, 11:01 AM) ☐
>
> You're so right.

Having heard only the last of a series of sermons on the 7 trumpets by John Lomacang I would say

John is biblical & SOP correct in stating that the 7 trumpets are in the future, he is following bible truth in quoting Revelation 9:4 where it tells of the 144,000 being sealed with the Fathers name in their forehead and they cannot be "hurt" by any of the 7 last plagues that will be falling as soon as Jesus throws down the censer in Revelation 8:5 which is the close of probation. If Jay Gallimore would have studied this subject out for himself as John is attempting to do instead of repeating the memory work of old material that Adventist inherited from the world his sermon could have been a benefit to the Adventist people/tongues/nations instead of a hindrance. It is reported on this thread that he used he the Josiah Litch factor in suggesting that his message was right & John's message was wrong. Many Adventist seem to think when this Sunday keeper made his prediction about the Ottoman Empire falling, he was in a prayer circle with Ellen White. Not so, she was only a child of about 12 years old. What Jay G. was doing in his sermon was "damage control" but it is impossible Jay to fight error with more error, especially what you have never studied for yourself as John is attempting to do. You listen to this last sermon of John's and give it as must thought and prayer as the time you spent preparing your damage control sermon & your knees would tremble like Belshazzar knees did the night when an unseen Watcher wrote on his palace walls.
John just may be wise enough to not allow this mans [or any man] interpretation of prophecy rob him of his conviction; at least that is my prayer.

> QUOTE(watchbird @ Dec 4 2006, 10:14 PM) ☐
>
> It has been a long time since the preferred SDA teaching on the trumpets went "back to Josiah Litch".... though there are those who still use that, I'm sure. I'm not sure of Gallimore's qualifications as a scholar, but if he is going back to Litch and Jones, then he is certainly behind the times himself. That is NOT to say that I would agree with any futuristic version of the trumpets... especially if they are being used to predict specific "cataclysmic events"... and if they are being used that way because they are seen as being the same as the seven last plagues.
> Yes there are similarities between the trumpets and the plagues. But there are also differences... the chief of which is that the trumpets come in the historical section of Revelation and the plagues come in the eschatological section... and also that the trumpets are given as warning and for the purpose of turning men's hearts to God, while the plagues are "poured out unmixed with mercy" which we have understood to mean that they are not poured out until after the close of probation.
>
> The main difference between our interpretations in the 19th century and those that are developing now is that then we were mainly looking at physical literal interpretations/applications... while now we are primarily looking at them for their symbolic and spiritual applications. I'm not sure who really started the move in that direction, but certainly Ellen White, while never speaking against the literal applications of her day, did give a gentle nudge in the direction of spiritual applications when she talked about the spiritual blessings that would come from a deeper study of Revelation.
>
> Probably the most prominent scholars in this area that we have at present are Jon Paulien, who just recently moved from being the Chair of the New Testament Department at the Seminary at Andrews to being the Dean of the School of Religion at Loma Linda University, and Ranko Stefanovic, Chair of the Department of Religion at Andrews, who just recently published a very readable Commentary on the book of Revelation, entitled, Revelation of Jesus Christ copyright 2002 by Andrews University Press, where it can be purchased on-line. Jon Paulien has a set of tapes on Revelation and is currently working in cooperation with Graeme Bradford to produce a new Revelation Seminar Series. Paulien's doctoral thesis was in Revelation with focus on the trumpets. Hans LaRondelle is also an authority in the area of end time prophecies, and his section on the trumpets compares different views and explains why he holds some and disagrees with others. His book that covers this is entitled How to Understand the End-Time Prophecies of the Bible unfortunately this book seems to be out of print so you would have to find it in someone's library. Perhaps he has replaced this with another title, but that I do not know about.
> It would probably be more helpful to become familiar with the authors above before you try to sort out what Galimore and Lomacang are saying.

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Dec 5 2006, 05:21 PM

> QUOTE(Ed White @ Dec 5 2006, 03:59 PM) ☐
>
> Having heard only the last of a series of sermons on the 7 trumpets by John Lomacang I would say John is biblical & SOP correct in stating that the 7 trumpets are in the future, he is following bible truth in quoting Revelation 9:4 where it tells of the 144,000 being sealed with the Fathers name in their forehead and they cannot be "hurt" by any of the 7 last plagues that will be falling as soon as Jesus throws down the censer in Revelation 8:5 which is the close of probation. If Jay Gallimore would have studied this subject out for himself as John is attempting to do instead of repeating the memory work of old material that Adventist inherited from the world his sermon could have been a benefit to the Adventist people/tongues/nations instead of a hindrance. It is reported on this thread that he used he the Josiah Litch factor in suggesting that his message was right & John's message was wrong. Many Adventist seem to think when this Sunday keeper made his prediction about the Ottoman Empire falling, he was in a prayer circle with Ellen White. Not so, she was only a child of about 12 years old. What Jay G. was doing in his sermon was "damage control" but it is impossible Jay to fight error with more error, especially what you have never studied for yourself as John is attempting to do. You listen to this last sermon of John's and give it as must thought and prayer as the time you spent preparing your damage control sermon & your knees would tremble like Belshazzar knees did the night when an unseen Watcher wrote on his palace walls.
> John just may be wise enough to not allow this mans [or any man] interpretation of prophecy rob him of his conviction; at least that is my prayer.

Was this series by John Lomacang titled something like "Revelation Revealed"? If so, I saw all but the Friday night episode and was very impressed with his presentations. As I recall, Shelly Quinn was the moderator for the programs and raved about the presentations. When my mother tried to order the Friday Night episode, she was told that they were not recorded would never be offered for sale. That raised our eyebrows a bit. This would explain that confusing development.

While I am not a Biblical scholar of any esteem, as I watched and wrote texts down I never noticed anything controversial. I did note some interesting takes on a few things. I will have to dig through my old recordings and see if I still can lay my hands on these.

My next observation is - if John Lomacang is presenting subjects that Hal would consider so wrong and controversial, why is he still one of the co-presenters of "House Calls" answering scriptural and spiritual questions that come in from viewers?

Posted by: Ed White Dec 5 2006, 05:47 PM

Peacefully
This must have been the same series that your mother tried to order & was told no. As soon as I saw this last program I knew that trouble was coming. Within days I received an email from one of their program directors asking for my bible position on the 7 trumpets in CDs done over the last 8 years, she mentioning of the "stink" this sermon of John caused to the entire church family. This is not the place to consider the 7 trumpets of Revelation 8 & 9 to know with any certainty, but this subject if John would have only known that many SDA ministers on the payroll have heard these words "You teach the 7 trumpets the way we do or find yourself another job".
But don't become bewildered truth can always stand investigation.

Posted by: Pickle Dec 5 2006, 07:04 PM

> QUOTE(Ed White @ Dec 5 2006, 05:47 PM)
>
> Peacefully
> This must have been the same series that your mother tried to order & was told no. As soon as I saw this last program I knew that trouble was coming. Within days I received an email from one of their program directors asking for my bible position on the 7 trumpets in CDs done over the last 8 years, she mentioning of the "stink" this sermon of John caused to the entire church family. This is not the place to consider the 7 trumpets of Revelation 8 & 9 to know with any certainty, but this subject if John would have only known that many SDA ministers on the payroll have heard these words "You teach the 7 trumpets the way we do or find yourself another job".
> But don't become bewildered truth can always stand investigation.

Ed, I see you've earlier claimed that this teaching is biblical and according to the SOP. Personally, I disagree, and I believe I have solid evidence to that effect.

I have not heard of any SDA ministers being told that. But if I were in a position where I would have opportunity to says such a thing, I would instead present the convincing evidence I have accumulated that supports what we have taught on this topic.

Part of the problem has been that we too often accept the positions of our pioneers without finding out why they taught what they did, and without seeking additional evidence in support of those positions. Another part of the problem is surface reading.

I have a relative who felt the trumpets were future, and we discussed it a bit. Unlike some, he still believed what Great Controversy says about Rev. 10 and 11. I therefore made two points:

- According to Rev. 10:7, six of the seven trumpets have already blown. Thus, if Rev. 10 refers to the Advent Awakening, those trumpets must have blown by 1844.
- According to Rev. 8:13; 9:12; and 11:14, the last three trumpets are called three woes, and Rev. 9:13-11:14 are all part of the timeframe of the sixth trumpet and second woe. Thus if Rev. 10-11:14 are past, the first six trumpets are past as well.

He thought awhile over both points and agreed that they were correct.

Posted by: Ed White Dec 5 2006, 07:54 PM

> QUOTE(Pickle @ Dec 5 2006, 07:04 PM)
>
> Ed, I see you've earlier claimed that this teaching is biblical and according to the SOP. Personally, I disagree, and I believe I have solid evidence to that effect.
>
> I have not heard of any SDA ministers being told that. But if I were in a position where I would have opportunity to says such a thing, I would instead present the convincing evidence I have accumulated that supports what we have taught on this topic.
>
> Part of the problem has been that we too often accept the positions of our pioneers without finding out why they taught what they did, and without seeking additional evidence in support of those positions. Another part of the problem is surface reading.
>
> I have a relative who felt the trumpets were future, and we discussed it a bit. Unlike some, he still > believed what Great Controversy says about Rev. 10 and 11. I therefore made two points:

>
> - According to Rev. 10:7, six of the seven trumpets have already blown. Thus, if Rev. 10 refers to the Advent Awakening, those trumpets must have blown by 1844.
> - According to Rev. 8:13; 9:12; and 11:14, the last three trumpets are called three woes, and Rev. 9:13-11:14 are all part of the timeframe of the sixth trumpet and second woe. Thus if Rev. 10-11:14 are past, the first six trumpets are past as well.
>
> He thought awhile over both points and agreed that they were correct.

Pickle then do you agree that Hal Steenson bible knoweledge is correct and the sayings an ordained SDA minister is wrong? You sound like one of the latter ministers to me, but let us not hyjack this thread & consider this subject elsewhere. So why don't you start a new subject on the 7 trumpets and invite me to the threads location? I maybe harder to convince than was your realtive which I think gave up to quickly without seeing all the evidence. It must be on the weight of evidence for us mortals to arrive at a decision on any of doctrines that Jesus hand delivered to John the Revelator.

Posted by: Pickle Dec 5 2006, 08:13 PM

> QUOTE(Ed White @ Dec 5 2006, 07:54 PM) ☐
>
> Pickle then do you agree that Hal Steenson bible knoweledge is correct and the sayings an ordained SDA minister is wrong? You sound like one of the latter ministers to me, but let us not hyjack this thread & consider this subject elsewhere. So why don't you start a new subject on the 7 trumpets and invite me to the threads location? I maybe harder to convince than was your realtive which I think gave up to quickly without seeing all the evidence. It must be on the weight of evidence for us mortals to arrive at a decision on any of doctrines that Jesus hand delivered to John the Revelator.

Hi Ed.

I enjoy this subject immensely and assure you that I have a lot of evidence on this. But you are correct that it should be taken up elsewhere. The problem is that my plate is too full at present, and the only reason I made comments here is that, given my convictions, I would not want this thread to promote those kind if ideas. That doesn't mean I can't respect people who hold differing views.

Until we do have time to discuss it, you might want to take a look at my paper, http://www.pickle-publishing.com/papers/seven-trumpets.htm It is by no means exhaustive, and does not address different points you might make, and thus there would be plenty for us to discuss whenever I get freed up.

Posted by: Ed White Dec 5 2006, 08:27 PM

> QUOTE(Pickle @ Dec 5 2006, 08:13 PM) ☐
>
> Hi Ed.
>
> I enjoy this subject immensely and assure you that I have a lot of evidence on this. But you are correct that it should be taken up elsewhere. The problem is that my plate is too full at present, and the

Pickle what a loss to this forum to not see the documentation you have in contrast to the truth/error I might provide. This reminds me of a boy in the 9th grade science class that NEVER did his homework when asked by the teacher "John what is electricity"? John said, "I once knew, but I forgot". The teacher than said "What a lost to mankind, the ONLY person in the entire world that could define electricity and he forgot!"

Posted by: Clay Dec 5 2006, 08:42 PM

> QUOTE(Ed White @ Dec 5 2006, 08:27 PM)
>
> Pickle what a loss to this forum to not see the documentation you have in contrast to the truth/error I might provide. This reminds me of a boy in the 9th grade science class that NEVER did his homework when asked by the teacher "John what is electricity"? John said, "I once knew, but I forgot". The teacher than said "What a lost to mankind, the ONLY person in the entire world that could define electricity and he forgot!"

Ed no need to attempt to bait or lure Pickle into a discussion... you have been a member here before you know how it works... you can post your info to your hearts content, so start a thread and share whatever if you are so inclined..... if it is on the 7 trumpets, I'd ask that you start it in the theology area....

Posted by: Ed White Dec 5 2006, 09:01 PM

> QUOTE(Clay @ Dec 5 2006, 08:42 PM)
>
> Ed no need to attempt to bait or lure Pickle into a discussion... you have been a member here before you know how it works... you can post your info to your hearts content, so start a thread and share whatever if you are so inclined..... if it is on the 7 trumpets, I'd ask that you start it in the theology area....

Clay I was hoping that you would have read the entire thread from the time I begin posting that way you would have see that my subject was about this thread & the reasoning for all my words. It was me that suggested to Pickle to start another thread in post # 41. Is this what you call "baiting"? If this is the case, then I am guilty, get on with your punishment/punishing, but in the mean time since this thread is about John L. sermon vs. a pentacostal pastors views, maybe you should ask John to give you a private bible study the next time he is in your area. He can defend his position a lot better than Hal S.

Posted by: roxe Dec 5 2006, 09:37 PM

> QUOTE(watchbird @ Dec 5 2006, 08:11 AM)
>
> Exactly. And it is "dangerous" for a variety of reasons. The most dangerous, of course, being that it does involve commanding not only God, but Satan as well.... and that opens the way for spirit communications that come from Satan... even though the spirit may appear as an "angel of > light".

> <snip>
> As I said.... it ain't a pretty picture.... and the more one sees of it the more repulsive it becomes.

hmmm.... no wonder JD Quinn seemed so excited on the phone with me about "being called into the deliverance ministry."

you know, it's so sad when you see people into this stuff. how in the world do you get their attention to try the spirits, when they have such strong feelings that this is from "God".

and this is exactly what satan wants them to think. he does a masterful job in "feelings convincing".

i know about those feelings myself... and as you say, it ain't a pretty picture. it is one of the most difficult things in the world to give those feelings to Jesus and mean it, cuz they are SO convincing, and such an ego trip.

no wonder Jesus said that if possible even the elect would be deceived.

i'll say it again... to me, this is the most heart-sickening aspect of all this entire mess at 3abn.... truly the roaring lion is seeking all he can devour.

"oh Father God, please please spare thy people."

roxe

Posted by: Clay Dec 5 2006, 09:40 PM

> QUOTE(Ed White @ Dec 5 2006, 09:01 PM)
>
> Clay I was hoping that you would have read the entire thread from the time I begin posting that way you would have see that my subject was about this thread & the reasoning for all my words. It was me that suggested to Pickle to start another thread in post # 41. Is this what you call "baiting"? If this is the case, then I am guilty, get on with your punishment/punishing, but in the mean time since this thread is about John L. sermon vs. a pentacostal pastors views, maybe you should ask John to give you a private bible study the next time he is in your area. He can defend his position a lot better than Hal S.

Ed I read everything..... no punishment needed, you indicated that you didn't want to hijack the thread, so don't... start a new one and share your beliefs...

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Dec 5 2006, 10:57 PM

> QUOTE(Pickle @ Dec 5 2006, 06:04 PM)
>
> Ed, I see you've earlier claimed that this teaching is biblical and according to the SOP. Personally, I disagree, and I believe I have solid evidence to that effect.
>
> I have not heard of any SDA ministers being told that. But if I were in a position where I would have opportunity to says such a thing, I would instead present the convincing evidence I have accumulated that supports what we have taught on this topic.

> Part of the problem has been that we too often accept the positions of our pioneers without finding out why they taught what they did, and without seeking additional evidence in support of those positions. Another part of the problem is surface reading.
>
> I have a relative who felt the trumpets were future, and we discussed it a bit. Unlike some, he still believed what Great Controversy says about Rev. 10 and 11. I therefore made two points:
>
> - According to Rev. 10:7, six of the seven trumpets have already blown. Thus, if Rev. 10 refers to the Advent Awakening, those trumpets must have blown by 1844.
> - According to Rev. 8:13; 9:12; and 11:14, the last three trumpets are called three woes, and Rev. 9:13-11:14 are all part of the timeframe of the sixth trumpet and second woe. Thus if Rev. 10-11:14 are past, the first six trumpets are past as well.
>
> He thought awhile over both points and agreed that they were correct.

While your plate may be too full to get into a thorough discussion about the trumpets, will you please take a moment and expand on the section of your quote that I have highlighted?

Is what the Great Controversy says about Rev. 10 and 11 incorrect? Please reference the passage(s) you refer to so that I can study them as well.

Posted by: Pickle Dec 6 2006, 01:09 PM

> QUOTE(PeacefullyBewildered @ Dec 5 2006, 10:57 PM) ☐
>
> While your plate may be too full to get into a thorough discussion about the trumpets, will you please take a moment and expand on the section of your quote that I have highlighted?
>
> Is what the Great Controversy says about Rev. 10 and 11 incorrect? Please reference the passage(s) you refer to so that I can study them as well.

No, it is not incorrect.

What I can find easily on Rev. 10 is instead in 2SM 107-108. For ch. 11 see GC ch. 15, which starts on p. 15.

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Dec 6 2006, 02:08 PM

> QUOTE(Pickle @ Dec 6 2006, 12:09 PM) ☐
>
> No, it is not incorrect.
>
> What I can find easily on Rev. 10 is instead in 2SM 107-108. For ch. 11 see GC ch. 15, which starts on p. 15.

Thank you for the clarification for I also still believe in the Great Controversy. I haven't studied much into the trumpets but I have read both of the selections you provided as well as a portion of your paper on them.

From what little I remember of Lomacang's series it seems to me that he was working with the premise that the trumpets' past fulfillment doesn't necessarily preclude them being future events as well. But since I really don't clearly remember much I'm not even sure about that. What I do remember is that his ideas were thought provoking but certainly not stinky. Obviously I need to study the trumpet subject more closely.

Posted by: Ed White Dec 6 2006, 03:22 PM

> QUOTE(PeacefullyBewildered @ Dec 6 2006, 02:08 PM)
>
> Thank you for the clarification for I also still believe in the Great Controversy. I haven't studied much into the trumpets but I have read both of the selections you provided as well as a portion of your paper on them.
>
> From what little I remember of Lomacang's series it seems to me that he was working with the premise that the trumpets' past fulfillment doesn't necessarily preclude them being future events as well. But since I really don't clearly remember much I'm not even sure about that. What I do remember is that his ideas were thought provoking but certainly not stinky. Obviously I need to study the trumpet subject more closely.

Peaceful you are on safe ground only as you hold God word in your hand & know for yourself about this subject that John Lomacang preached against established error. The link Pickle instructed you to click on will lead you astray sooner or later. He mentioned Revelation 11 as being in the past. But for your own information is this what the SOP teaches in this inspired quote? "read every verse of Revelation eleven, it is yet to take place..." Last Day Events 95. Look at Revelation eleven as John L. was doing in this light. First verse "And there was given unto me a reed like unto a rod: and the angel stood, saying, Rise, and measure the temple of God, and the altar, and them that worship therein." Revelation 11:1. Remember the professed people of God are now being judged under the 6th seal, so the word "measure" in this verse has the same Biblical meaning as the word judge. Many examples could be given, but one should be enough. "Every case is coming in review before God; He is measuring the temple and the worshipers therein." 7 219 (1902).
Verse 2. "But the court which is without the temple leave out, and measure it not..." Revelation 11:2
The court would be the wicked, those who never professed to serve God. Their judgment will take place during the 1000 years in heaven by the saints, Jesus is the judge during the 1000 years in heaven. God the Father is now the judge during the Investigative Judgment going on as we speak.
I believe that John was correct in saying the 7 trumpets are in the future as well as this chapter of Revelation eleven. Every verse is explainable this way [which I would be glad to do verse by verse to the end] once you start on the correct premise.

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Dec 6 2006, 04:07 PM

> QUOTE(roxe @ Dec 4 2006, 09:08 PM)
>
> hello all,
> i'm the lady who sister quoted from at maritime; and it is OK with me that she shared it with you.

> my experience was not with hal, but with jd quinn.
>
> of course, you don't know me well enough to put ANY weight on what i said; it is after all, my own experience. but having these experiences, i was NOT shocked when i came here and read your threads on this topic. saddened yes, but not shocked. i had had too much uncomfortable "women's intuition" going on since first viewing 3abn and my limited dealings with the prayer team.

Welcome to BSDA Roxe! Please don't be saddened or shocked by what you have read in the threads here. My post was merely to point out that since I don't "know" you from reading your thoughts in posts enough to get familiar with your credibility and thought process, there was no way I could take what you said with much weight. Now that you are here we will all start getting to know what Roxe is all about(as much as one can on a forum such as this anyway)

> QUOTE
>
> please, if you do get shelley's workbook, be very careful with it... it sounds so GOOD. i got sucked into its teaching for awhile; but then put it aside for some reason. when i read at maritime about what rhema really is, and why their "prayers" using it are made like demands and not "Thy will be done", i understood why i had been uncomfortable about reading and using it in the limited way i had.

I have been watching "Exalting His Word" (which I believe still bears the name of Linda Shelton in its credits) on 3abn over the last couple of years. It has been my experience that the point of the program is to immerse ones self into the Word of God as a hungry diner would dig into a banquet. I have never heard Shelly Quinn say to speak these words of scripture as "demands". She refers to them as affirmations. According to Wikipedia "An affirmation is a declaration that something is true." I know that some attribute this area to Theosophy where Wikipedia states that "Affirmation could be viewed positively as a mobilization of one's inner resources, or negatively as a kind of self-induced brainwashing". Until I receive the workbook and study her thoughts myself, I won't know if Shelly is promoting the in-depth study of the Word of God to strengthen ones spiritual experience or a clever method to brainwash ones self.

> QUOTE
>
> after posting at maritime, i got the book out of my library and proceeded to tear it to little pieces and throw it away... and i've noticed that my home now has a much different and lighter atmosphere to it.
>
> but... again, this is just my experience with 3abn, and jd and shelley quinn.
> "oh God, spare thy people."
>
> roxe

This section of your post concerns me just a bit. Sounds just a little superstitious but I also know that most human beings use magical thinking to some degree.

Posted by: Pickle Dec 6 2006, 06:52 PM

> QUOTE(Ed White @ Dec 6 2006, 03:22 PM)
>
> ... The link Pickle instructed you to click on will lead you astray sooner or later. He mentioned Revelation 11 as being in the past. But for your own information is this what the SOP teaches in this > inspired quote? "read every verse of Revelation eleven, it is yet to take place..." Last Day Events 95.

> ...

Quite interesting, Ed.

I've seen this kind of thing a number of times before. Folks quote the SOP to justify reinterpreting the prophecies, and then arrive at an interpretation that contradicts the SOP. Here you quote LDE 95 in order to justify saying that when GC puts certain verses of Rev. 11 in the past, GC is as wrong as I am.

Why not have it the other way around? Why not use GC ch. 15 to prove that LDE 95 is wrong rather than use LDE 95 to prove that GC ch. 15 is wrong?

Another real problem is when people take someone's word that LDE 95 really reads that way, for it most certainly does not. And thus this supposed contradiction is actually non-existent.

Herein lies the danger of having such views taught on 3ABN, as well as the problem of having someone at 3ABN who sends out emails that slice those individuals to bits who are teaching such things. Those who teach such views often have not thought through carefully either the basis for their views, or the logical conclusions of those views.

And thus seeds are planted in people's unsuspecting minds which can down the road bear the fruit of total rejection of the SOP, as well as the rejection of some very important teachings of our faith.

Posted by: Ed White Dec 6 2006, 07:15 PM

> QUOTE(Pickle @ Dec 6 2006, 06:52 PM)
>
> Quite interesting, Ed.
>
> I've seen this kind of thing a number of times before. Folks quote the SOP to justify reinterpreting the prophecies, and then arrive at an interpretation that contradicts the SOP. Here you quote LDE 95 in order to justify saying that when GC puts certain verses of Rev. 11 in the past, GC is as wrong as I am.
>
> Why not have it the other way around? Why not use GC ch. 15 to prove that LDE 95 is wrong rather than use LDE 95 to prove that GC ch. 15 is wrong?
>
> Another real problem is when people take someone's word that LDE 95 really reads that way, for it most certainly does not. And thus this supposed contradiction is actually non-existent.
>
> Herein lies the danger of having such views taught on 3ABN, as well as the problem of having someone at 3ABN who sends out emails that slice those individuals to bits who are teaching such things. Those who teach such views often have not thought through carefully either the basis for their views, or the logical conclusions of those views.
>
> And thus seeds are planted in people's unsuspecting minds which can down the road bear the fruit of total rejection of the SOP, as well as the rejection of some very important teachings of our faith.

Pickle I will be glad to answer all your questions you can muster up from any of the old or new Adventist authors studies/sermons/books in the thread Clay has provided in the Theology section on "The 7 Trumpets" but that which I have bolded above I should answer here but won't. Please ask again on the proper thread. I will state here for some that may not go to that link that I would never try and reinterpreting the prophecies so as to arrive at an interpretation that contradicts the SOP.

I leave the prophecies set in stone alone! As they can stand on their own without any propping up from any committee of mens suggestions that stepped off the platform of truth.

Posted by: Pickle Dec 6 2006, 09:16 PM

> QUOTE(Ed White @ Dec 6 2006, 07:15 PM)
>
> Pickle ... I leave the prophecies set in stone alone! As they can stand on their own without any propping up from any committee of mens suggestions that stepped off the platform of truth.

Your insinuations are entirely inappropriate.

Posted by: Ed White Dec 6 2006, 09:51 PM

> QUOTE(Pickle @ Dec 6 2006, 09:16 PM)
>
> Your insinuations are entirely inappropriate.

Please explain yourself, I need more words than those few to know what you are even talking. about

---

Posted by: princessdi Dec 6 2006, 09:58 PM

Gentlemen, take to PM, please.

Posted by: Ed White Dec 7 2006, 07:32 AM

Roxe said these words concering Shelly Q. book. "after posting at maritime, i got the book out of my library and proceeded to tear it to little pieces and throw it away... and i've noticed that my home now has a much different and lighter atmosphere to it."
==============
I have hear over the years of SDA ministers going to church academies to hold a week of prayer meeting and end up before leaving by having a bon-fire where all the rock music tapes, CDs & other Satanic articles were torched, but this lady could not wait for a week of prayer meeting to come to her town, she did what she could to make her home a place for peaceful habitation again with a different and lighter atmosphere to it. I would never doubt a much needed testimony like that.

Posted by: Jon Davis Dec 7 2006, 05:59 PM

I just signed on this forum.
But have been here before reading some threads during the Danny and Linda split.

After reading this thread I was interested in what John Lomacang had to say about the Trumpets.
I aslo belive them to be future.
I emailed 3ABN about them.

They said they were a Live Special and don't sell them.
If anyone gets a recording of these please let me know.

Thanks

Jon

Posted by: Ed White Dec 7 2006, 09:43 PM

> QUOTE(Jon Davis @ Dec 7 2006, 05:59 PM)
>
> I just signed on this forum.
> But have been here before reading some threads during the Danny and Linda split.
>
> After reading this thread I was interested in what John Lomacang had to say about the Trumpets.
> I aslo belive them to be future.
> I emailed 3ABN about them.
> They said they were a Live Special and don't sell them.
> If anyone gets a recording of these please let me know.
>
> Thanks
>
> Jon

Jon I have a copy of this sermon of John L. on video, somewhere! I walked into the room after the program was on for 5 min. so clicked the record button immediately. Give me about 3 days to find it then PM me & I will make you a copy. Are you aware that the 7 trumpets are being considered in the thelogy section leaving this thread free to the discuss Hal Steenson & John L. being at odds with one another. Come join in and show those reading there what the bible says to you personally about the 7 trumpets being in the future. Are you a long time Adventist?

Posted by: roxe Dec 8 2006, 11:20 AM

PeacefullyBewildered wrote:
Welcome to BSDA Roxe! Please don't be saddened or shocked by what you have read in the threads here. My post was merely to point out that since I don't "know" you from reading your thoughts in posts enough to get familiar with your credibility and thought process, there was no way I could take what you said with much weight. Now that you are here we will all start getting to know what Roxe is all about(as much as one can on a forum such as this anyway wink.gif)
<snip>
This section of your post concerns me just a bit. Sounds just a little superstitious but I also know that most human beings use magical thinking to some degree.

Thanks for your welcome, Peacefully h

i AM saddened by what i read concerning 3abn... or any other ministry who satan gets sidetracked. my heart has been "sick" for quite some time now. in a way i'm glad, since it only serves to add intense pleading to my prayers.

btw, i'm a 66yo nana who has been learning so much since surrendering to Jesus in 1991. without going into details, coming from an occult childhood my "straight and narrow" path has extra big boulders in it. So, yes, i'm rather sensitive to the fact of life that satan uses his "error" objects as permission to hang around and harass. this is the reason for the big bonfire told about in Acts: it stops the permissions.

and there is no superstition or magical thinking about it.
==============================

Ed White wrote:
Roxe said these words concering Shelly Q. book. "after posting at maritime, i got the book out of my library and proceeded to tear it to little pieces and throw it away... and i've noticed that my home now has a much different and lighter atmosphere to it."

I have hear over the years of SDA ministers going to church academies to hold a week of prayer meeting and end up before leaving by having a bon-fire where all the rock music tapes, CDs & other Satanic articles were torched, but this lady could not wait for a week of prayer meeting to come to her town, she did what she could to make her home a place for peaceful habitation again with a different and lighter atmosphere to it. I would never doubt a much needed testimony like that.

Ed, thank you so much for your nice words. they warm my heart. what a nice confirmation to read on this preparation day! sounds like you may understand from experience what i'm talking about.

wishing all ☒ happysabl

roxe

Posted by: Ed White Dec 8 2006, 02:12 PM

> QUOTE(roxe @ Dec 8 2006, 11:20 AM) ☐
>
> PeacefullyBewildered wrote:
> Welcome to BSDA Roxe! Please don't be saddened or shocked by what you have read in the threads here. My post was merely to point out that since I don't "know" you from reading your thoughts in posts enough to get familiar with your credibility and thought process, there was no way I could take what you said with much weight. Now that you are here we will all start getting to know what Roxe is all about(as much as one can on a forum such as this anyway wink.gif)
> <snip>
> This section of your post concerns me just a bit. Sounds just a little superstitious but I also know that most human beings use magical thinking to some degree.
> -------------------------
>
> Thanks for your welcome, Peacefully ☒ h
>
> i AM saddened by what i read concerning 3abn... or any other ministry who satan gets sidetracked. my heart has been "sick" for quite some time now. in a way i'm glad, since it only serves to add intense pleading to my prayers.
>
> btw, i'm a 66yo nana who has been learning so much since surrendering to Jesus in 1991. without going into details, coming from an occult childhood my "straight and narrow" path has extra big boulders in it. So, yes, i'm rather sensitive to the fact of life that satan uses his "error" objects as permission to hang around and harass. this is the reason for the big bonfire told about in Acts: it stops the permissions.
> and there is no superstition or magical thinking about it.

> ==============================
>
> Ed White wrote:
> Roxe said these words concering Shelly Q. book. "after posting at maritime, i got the book out of my library and proceeded to tear it to little pieces and throw it away... and i've noticed that my home now has a much different and lighter atmosphere to it."
> --------------
> I have hear over the years of SDA ministers going to church academies to hold a week of prayer meeting and end up before leaving by having a bon-fire where all the rock music tapes, CDs & other Satanic articles were torched, but this lady could not wait for a week of prayer meeting to come to her town, she did what she could to make her home a place for peaceful habitation again with a different and lighter atmosphere to it. I would never doubt a much needed testimony like that.
> ----------------------------
>
> Ed, thank you so much for your nice words. they warm my heart. what a nice confirmation to read on this preparation day! sounds like you may understand from experience what i'm talking about.
>
> wishing all ☒ happysabl
>
> roxe

Roxe glad to hear of you pressing forward around/over/through those "boulders" in your journey upward, I think often of these words as I plunder [even blunder at times] along. "The road may be rough and the ascent steep; there may be pitfalls upon the right hand and upon the left; we may have to endure toil in our journey; when weary, when longing for rest, we may have to toil on; when faint, we may have to fight; when discouraged, we must still hope; but with Christ as our guide we shall not fail of reaching the desired haven at last. Christ Himself has trodden the rough way before us and has smoothed the path for our feet."
Shelly Quinn & Danny may have authored a book together and circulated millions with sacred money from Gods professed people, but this one & all the ones she has authored alone I believe she had one of N.Hill books in her lap as she wrote each chapter. You do know that N. Hill tells that he was given a divine secret from a spirit flying overhead that spoke to him these words. "Whatever the mind can believe, it can achieve. Now you go give this to others".
But take courage everyone, the bible is correct at every step, why I even read words like this once in Proverbs 20:17 "Bread of deceit [margin "lying"] is sweet to a man but afterwards his mouth shall be filled with gravel."

Posted by: Just a Guy Dec 8 2006, 10:43 PM

> QUOTE(Ed White @ Dec 5 2006, 05:59 PM)
>
> Having heard only the last of a series of sermons on the 7 trumpets by John Lomacang I would say John is biblical & SOP correct in stating that the 7 trumpets are in the future

I was just thinking that ed white from the old VOAF forum was a proponent of futurism. What is your main forum these days?

Posted by: Ed White Dec 9 2006, 06:01 AM

> QUOTE(Just a Guy @ Dec 8 2006, 10:43 PM) ☐
>
> I was just thinking that ed white from the old VOAF forum was a proponent of futurism. What is your main forum these days?

Guy...I don't mind in being labeled a "futurist" as many seminary-trained ministers can say better than anyone, with a curl in their voice, to me it is a wonderful word. The Second Coming of Jesus is in the future. The Latter Rain which will give power to those that are clean & with a real message give the Loud Cry is in the future that John the Revelator & many of Old Testament authors wrote about. A few of my loved ones are sleeping in Jesus at the moment and in the future I expect to see them come to life. Are you trying to rob me of my convictions that I received from nothing other than believing Gods word? I could make a list longer than a wagon track of FUTURE events recorded in the bible & SOP, but I will spare you that account, if you are content in hearing the "futurist" word spewed forth and a giggle session to follow by men of the cloth, just "sleep on now and take your rest". But after the giggle session has died away & everyone goes their separate ways for the night with their new church supplied security blanket & rose-colored glasses, I suggest to you personally listen for that "still small voice that says, this is the way walk ye in it".
My prayer today is that John Lomacang will not be robbed of his conviction either by the giggle sessions, but his man inflicted burdens are greater than mine, those that sign his pay check can say "futurist" with a curl in their voice better than a new graduate.

Posted by: Just a Guy Dec 9 2006, 09:46 AM

Now that's the ed white I remember. Overreacting and putting his foot in his mouth in response to a completely neutral comment.

Posted by: Ed White Dec 9 2006, 10:41 AM

> QUOTE(Just a Guy @ Dec 9 2006, 09:46 AM) ☐
>
> Now that's the ed white I remember. Overreacting and putting his foot in his mouth in response to a completely neutral comment.

Guy
Please point out the words that was error in my response to you in your netural comment where the futurist word was used? I asked a few questions up there that I thought was valid, correct me and show me where I am mistaken so I can weed out that cursed thing. Glad you have a good memory and remember being exposed to much truth over the years. You are not hiding all that light under a bushel are you?

Posted by: Just a Guy Dec 9 2006, 07:16 PM

> QUOTE(Ed White @ Dec 9 2006, 11:41 AM) ☐
>
> Guy

> Please point out the words that was error in my response to you in your netural comment where the futurist word was used? I asked a few questions up there that I thought was valid, correct me and show me where I am mistaken so I can weed out that cursed thing. Glad you have a good memory and remember being exposed to much truth over the years. You are not hiding all that light under a bushel are you?

You were in error is assuming that I consider "futurist" to be a derogatory term. I'm actually open to the belief. I was just making a friendly comment and wondering where you've been hanging out.

Posted by: Ed White Dec 9 2006, 07:59 PM

> QUOTE(Just a Guy @ Dec 9 2006, 07:16 PM) ☐
>
> You were in error is assuming that I consider "futurist" to be a derogatory term. I'm actually open to the belief. I was just making a friendly comment and wondering where you've been hanging out.

Guy, now that I know that, I can say, I am truely sorry, I MUST read questions more carefully in the future and pray before engaging my keyboard.
Where I have been hanging out in the SDA forum world was on O'Ffills forum until about 6 months ago, but go to the theology section here and read about "A Drean & the interpertation" and you will read of another SDA forum where the owner there thinks if a doctrinal thought did come throught him it is of no value. This was HIS dream, not mine, I only interperted it due to seeing him on SDA forums for over 4 years. You will know who it is I'm sure.
I think I have found the video of John Lomacang preaching on the 7 trumpets in the future and will view it tomorrow night & make copies to 3 request & send off.

Posted by: Jon Davis Dec 10 2006, 12:38 PM

> QUOTE(Ed White)
>
> Jon I have a copy of this sermon of John L. on video, somewhere! I walked into the room after the program was on for 5 min. so clicked the record button immediately. Give me about 3 days to find it then PM me & I will make you a copy. Are you aware that the 7 trumpets are being considered in the thelogy section leaving this thread free to the discuss Hal Steenson & John L. being at odds with one another. Come join in and show those reading there what the bible says to you personally about the 7 trumpets being in the future. Are you a long time Adventist?

I'm just a few years into joining the church.
I came into the church through a Revelation Sceminar.
I was raised in a petacostal church.
Never did I hear so much truth when I came to those sceminars.
We are kinda left wandering around the judgement and 1844.
I was baptised for the first time then.
But still have lots to learn.
I posted what I believe on the seven trumpets in theology section:
http://www.blacksda.com/forums/index.php?showtopic=11710&st=0&gopid=162887&#entry162887

As for what Lomacang had to say on the trumpets, I think those in our church needs to see that not every SDA member believes these to be periods of time and there is much truth according to the Bible and SOP that these are future events.

Posted by: Ed White Dec 11 2006, 07:22 PM

> QUOTE(Jon Davis @ Dec 10 2006, 12:38 PM)
>
> As for what Lomacang had to say on the trumpets, I think those in our church needs to see that not every SDA member believes these to be periods of time and there is much truth according to the Bible and SOP that these are future events.

Jon I am sure John Lomacang & his wife still have the same convictions of the sermon he preached on the 7 trumpets being future that angered Hal Steenson and he is not asamed to tell this in some circles. Years ago I heard HMS Richards Sr. tell a true story the first year I was baptized in 1965 as he came to our little church in Roseville California of about 100 members. This true story may help John in dealing with this distance between him & Hal. Elder Richards told of a young couple that decided to run away and get married on a long week end. After about 4 days they had to return to their jobs & seperate homes. It was very quite riding back as they neared the outskirts of their city, finally one said to the other "you won't tell anyone about our marriage will you?" " No, I am just ashamed of it as you are". Then this great preacher asked a question to everyone. "What kind of marriage is that, to be ashamed of the one you are married to?" I think many people are like that with their belief system today in Adventism, ashamed to stand up and defend the vows they took in haste & not really knowing while the SDA evangelist was forcing from them a decision & to say, "Is that right YES or NO"?

Posted by: Ed White Dec 16 2006, 08:54 AM

Will there always be two opposing forces in the church as we see among the teachings of Lomacang & Steenson of God's professed people to the end of time? A close comparison with the bible open looking at the wheat & the tares it is hard to decide at times as to which is which, but there is always a THIRD group present in the church of "open sinners" that can be clearly seen and they must be dealt with if the church is to remain healthy. If the church fathers do not "check" the situation then the guilt of the open sinner is upon their minister just as though they had done the act of the open sinner. If any SDA ministers have been given preaching credentials without being taught this, then someone turn the signpost around before you even came to class study and you will still be held accountable what goes on during your watch.

Posted by: Richard Sherwin Dec 16 2006, 11:47 AM

How true Ed. If open sin is allowed in the church with no consequences then our church soon stands for nothing. One difficulty I see is how is it possible for a church to discipline it's members when the leaders can get away with un-Biblical divorces, teaching error (like a literal Creation) etc. We need to consistently take care of problems within the church so the whole church is not infected.

Richard

> QUOTE(Ed White @ Dec 16 2006, 09:54 AM) ☐
>
> Will there always be two opposing forces in the church as we see among the teachings of Lomacang & Steenson of God's professed people to the end of time? A close comparison with the bible open looking at the wheat & the tares it is hard to decide at times as to which is which, but there is always a THIRD group present in the church of "open sinners" that can be clearly seen and they must be dealt with if the church is to remain healthy. If the church fathers do not "check" the situation then the guilt of the open sinner is upon their minister just as though they had done the act of the open sinner. If any SDA ministers have been given preaching credentials without being taught this, then someone turn the signpost around before you even came to class study and you will still be held accountable what goes on during your watch.

Posted by: Ed White Dec 16 2006, 12:19 PM

> QUOTE(Richard Sherwin @ Dec 16 2006, 11:47 AM) ☐
>
> How true Ed. If open sin is allowed in the church with no consequences then our church soon stands for nothing. One difficulty I see is how is it possible for a church to discipline it's members when the leaders can get away with un-Biblical divorces, teaching error (like a literal Creation) etc. We need to consistently take care of problems within the church so the whole church is not infected.
>
> Richard

Richard your questions with few solutions could be over with in a hurry if things were done the way we do things in the electrical construction world where there are Codebooks, Electrical Safety Orders, Engineers & Inspectors. When an engineer or inspector arrives at a construction jobsite he has only one question to ask. "Have you followed the plans & specifications according to what you agreed to do?" Then he/she will look to see that you have! If not, STOP everything and get back on track or the entire job will be shut down. Adventist needs a few Inspectors with authority to fire on the spot an offender after one warning; even it takes the man on top down. Many of this nature should have been fired yesterday, especially the ones in gross error and always asking the flight attendants for a seat-belt extension when flying to distance citys to brush up on church growth seminars by the Sunday keeper's skills.
John Lomacang at the present should not be considered for one of these "inspectors" to assist Adventism. He is on the right track, but still needs much to unlearn as he is attempting to do. Stand strong John & don't let a committee of men rob you of your convictions.

Posted by: Ed White Dec 22 2006, 06:39 PM

As I remember the year 2000 was when Pastor Stephen Lewis came to 3ABN and preacherd his heart out to the staff looking them right in the eye and asking tough questions. Before he came, Danny Shelton was warned by most of the well known TV evangelist to not do it, "as his preaching will destroy our effectivness". I will say AMEN to that! But Danny stood his ground & here came Pastor Lewis anyway. As I read the account from Danny's step daughter she was home that year 2000 when Danny was giving "backrubs" after Linda had retired for the night. I was so impressed with the Pentacost 2000 series that I had a 3ABN dish installed on my mother home thinking that more good things were to come from 3ABN. But when light is rejected it's only down/down/ after that. Anyone remember the tough questions Pastor Lewis asked directly to 3ABN staff women?

Posted by: Clay Dec 22 2006, 06:45 PM

> QUOTE(Ed White @ Dec 22 2006, 06:39 PM)
>
> As I remember the year 2000 was when Pastor Stephen Lewis came to 3ABN and preacherd his heart out to the staff looking them right in the eye and asking tough questions. Before he came, Danny Shelton was warned by most of the well known TV evangelist to not do it, "as his preaching will destroy our effectivness". I will say AMEN to that! But Danny stood his ground & here came Pastor Lewis anyway. As I read the account from Danny's step daughter she was home that year 2000 when Danny was giving "backrubs" after Linda had retired for the night. I was so impressed with the Pentacost 2000 series that I had a 3ABN dish installed on my mother home thinking that more good things were to come from 3ABN. But when light is rejected it's only down/down/ after that. Anyone remember the tough questions Pastor Lewis asked directly to 3ABN staff women?

No Ed and if you believe that Stephen Lewis was bringing light to those at 3abn, you my friend have issues....

Posted by: Ed White Dec 22 2006, 07:12 PM

> QUOTE(Clay @ Dec 22 2006, 06:45 PM)
>
> No Ed and if you believe that Stephen Lewis was bringing light to those at 3abn, you my friend have issues....

Well Clay since you know of those not bringing light to 3ABN, then maybe you know who is. Could you provide a list of those sharing light there or anywhere as the Adventist people are fragmented today and searching for that which you may know.

Posted by: Clay Dec 22 2006, 07:18 PM

> QUOTE(Ed White @ Dec 22 2006, 07:12 PM)
>
> Well Clay since you know of those not bringing light to 3ABN, then maybe you know who is. Could you provide a list of those sharing light there or anywhere as the Adventist people are fragmented today and searching for that which you may know.

The Holy Spirit..... He always has and always will... in fact that is why he was promised.... to guide the believer into all truth... You Ed are not the Holy Spirit..... neither is Stephen Lewis.....

Posted by: Ed White Dec 23 2006, 06:58 PM

> QUOTE(Ed White @ Dec 22 2006, 06:39 PM)
>
> As I remember the year 2000 was when Pastor Stephen Lewis came to 3ABN and preacherd his heart out to the staff looking them right in the eye and asking tough questions. Before he came, Danny Shelton was warned by most of the well known TV evangelist to not do it, "as his preaching will destroy our effectivness". I will say AMEN to that! But Danny stood his ground & here came Pastor Lewis anyway. As I read the account from Danny's step daughter she was home that year 2000 when Danny was giving "backrubs" after Linda had retired for the night. I was so impressed with the Pentacost 2000 series that I had a 3ABN dish installed on my mother home thinking that more good things were to come from 3ABN. But when light is rejected it's only down/down/ after that. Anyone remember the tough questions Pastor Lewis asked directly to 3ABN staff women?

Since this question went unanswered and to save from getting email messages to answer, I will do so here to save time. One night Pastor Lewis got a show of hands from all the staff women & the wife's of staff. He said "Haven't I given you "a thus sayeth the Lord" for every doctrine that I have taught thus far?" They all agreed because they knew he had. Now he said, "since I have used the bible on every point, I want you women to bring with you tomorrow night "a thus sayeth the Lord" for you wearing those pants I see out here every night." That was it, fists were clenched & rebellion was in the air they were all breathing. He knew that certain women would never take them pants off; he must have thought however that surely, he could reach someone. Well 6 years have gone by since then that I have an idea that some on the staff would do differently if they had those days back. Maybe not, once on a downhill slope and running full speed back to Egypt it's only down/down. I am told the best thing to do when running down hill and can't stop when wanting to stop, is to fall down immediately. Yes but Danny told us years ago that "would be bad on the reputation".

Posted by: seeshell Dec 23 2006, 07:09 PM

Did he have a thus saith the Lord for women not wearing pants?

Posted by: Richard Sherwin Dec 23 2006, 07:13 PM

Ed there is nothing, not one word, in either Mrs. White writing or the Bible that prohibits women from wearing slacks. Good grief.

What is the most modest? A dress or slacks?

Richard

> QUOTE(Ed White @ Dec 23 2006, 07:58 PM)
>
> Since this question went unanswered and to save from getting email messages to answer, I will do so here to save time. One night Pastor Lewis got a show of hands from all the staff women & the wife's of staff. He said "Haven't I given you "a thus sayeth the Lord" for every doctrine that I have taught thus far?" They all agreed because they knew he had. Now he said, "since I have used the bible on every point, I want you women to bring with you tomorrow night "a thus sayeth the Lord" for you wearing those pants I see out here every night." That was it, fists were clenched & rebellion was in the air they were all breathing. He knew that certain women would never take them pants off; he must have thought however that surely, he could reach someone. Well 6 years have gone by since then that I have an idea that some on the staff would do differently if they had those days back. Maybe not, once on a downhill slope and running full speed back to Egypt it's only down/down. I am told the best thing to do when running down hill and can't stop when wanting to stop, is to fall down immediately. Yes but Danny told us years ago that "would be bad on the > reputation".

Posted by: Ed White Dec 23 2006, 07:34 PM

> QUOTE(Richard Sherwin @ Dec 23 2006, 07:13 PM) ☐
>
> What is the most modest? A dress or slacks?

Why a dress is if you are a lady.
==========
Seashell
I am sure this SDA preacher could have produced documentation for his belief concerning women wearing that which pertainth to a man. Surely on this forum this subject has been sawed & sawed, and then the sawdust sawed, and both sides will remain the same. But if danger is lurking and a minister fails to warn, then he/she is just as guilt as though the acts had been our/their own. When I said he/she for a minister, I mean that we all are "ministers", I don't want to confuse ministers with "pastors" as only men can be a pastor.

Posted by: Richard Sherwin Dec 23 2006, 07:52 PM

No Ed slacks are the most modest, especially for a women who sits in front of people facing them.

Again there is not one word in Mrs. White or the Bible that prohibits women from wearing slacks. Women and men are told not to wear clothes of the other's gender, and I agree with that. However there is no mistaking womens dress slacks for mens clothing. In our consevative church there are several women who wear slacks. They are more modest than a dress, are warmer, and quite frankly look better on some of those women than their bare legs.

BTW you and I have gone around with this issue before and you didn't have anything to prove your point then either.

In anycase we are way ☒ off

Unless you have something concrete to offer from devine inspiration on this I'm out of here ☐

Richard

Posted by: Clay Dec 23 2006, 07:57 PM

> QUOTE(Ed White @ Dec 23 2006, 07:34 PM) ☐
>
> Why a dress is if you are a lady.
> ==========

> Seashell
> I am sure this SDA preacher could have produced documentation for his belief concerning women wearing that which pertainth to a man. Surely on this forum this subject has been sawed & sawed, and then the sawdust sawed, and both sides will remain the same. But if danger is lurking and a minister fails to warn, then he/she is just as guilt as though the acts had been our/their own. When I said he/she for a minister, I mean that we all are "ministers", I don't want to confuse ministers with "pastors" as only men can be a pastor.

Ed.... are you married? cause you definitely sound chauvinistic to me... and uninformed.... as uniformed as S. Lewis.....

Posted by: seeshell Dec 23 2006, 08:15 PM

Well now, I've not heard S. Lewis preach that I recall, but I have heard from sources I view as very reliable that he is a good speaker.

I have wondered about the pants/no pants issue quite a lot. I agree that I would not go into the men's clothing section to fill my closet...and I do believe in modesty...but I am not quite sold on the dresses only thing. In part because sometimes it seems that pants are actually more modest and practical...out doing rough chores, riding horses and bicycles... and on windy days. (I know whereof I speak!) But if there is solid Scriptural evidence to support no-pants-for-ladies, I am open to hearing it.

Alas, I fear I am ☒ ofl

Posted by: Richard Sherwin Dec 23 2006, 08:45 PM

At the risk of the wrath of the powers that be on this forum for being ☒ ofl ☒ sorry.

In the Bible there were no pants that I know of, the men wore robes which look a lot like, believe it or not, dresses, ya hard to believe I know.

I'm a backpacker (somewhat fanatical), and in some areas of the US men are starting to wear kilts while hiking. I think I'll pass on that however.

There is no scriptural support for not wearing pants on women, nor from Mrs. White either. However she does say women should dress modestly, healthly, and inexpensivly.

Richard

> QUOTE(seeshell @ Dec 23 2006, 09:15 PM)
>
> Well now, I've not heard S. Lewis preach that I recall, but I have heard from sources I view as very reliable that he is a good speaker.
>
> I have wondered about the pants/no pants issue quite a lot. I agree that I would not go into the men's clothing section to fill my closet...and I do believe in modesty...but I am not quite sold on the dresses only thing. In part because sometimes it seems that pants are actually more modest and practical...out doing rough chores, riding horses and bicycles... and on windy days. (I know > whereof I speak!) But if there is solid Scriptural evidence to support no-pants-for-ladies, I am open to hearing it.

>
> Alas, I fear I am ofl

Posted by: Panama_Pete Dec 23 2006, 09:07 PM

> QUOTE(Ed White @ Dec 23 2006, 06:58 PM)
>
> One night Pastor Lewis got a show of hands from all the staff women & the wife's of staff. He said "Haven't I given you "a thus sayeth the Lord" for every doctrine that I have taught thus far?" They all agreed because they knew he had. Now he said, "since I have used the bible on every point, I want you women to bring with you tomorrow night "a thus sayeth the Lord" for you wearing those pants I see out here every night." That was it, fists were clenched & rebellion was in the air they were all breathing.

I mentioned this before on another forum, perhaps two years ago.

3ABN has female employees on platforms operating the cameras. You don't see the camera operators on the air. Now, how can women be up on camera platforms wearing dresses?

During the Stephen Lewis presentations the camera platforms in the Bos Auditorium were a full 7 feet off the floor.

I specifically remember one female camera operator on a platform wearing slacks, and thank goodness she was, because men and women were sitting directly under and behind her.

Danny and Linda were sitting in the far back near the main exit to the parking lot when this was happening. Everyone in the auditorium could see the camera women were wearing pants, and it was causing distraction

Also, female nurses and schoolbus drivers wear pants most of the day, and the Adventist Church has a large number of both. So the comments about dresses didn't seem to make practical sense to many watching.

Posted by: Observer Dec 23 2006, 09:23 PM

My understanding is that Ed is married. He can correct me if I am wroing, and he wants to right a wrong. NOTE: Have you ever failed to see Ed attempt to right a wrong?

By the way, people who know Ed personally have told me he actually is nice in person!

Posted by: Clay Dec 23 2006, 09:41 PM

> QUOTE(seeshell @ Dec 23 2006, 08:15 PM)
>
> Well now, I've not heard S. Lewis preach that I recall, but I have heard from sources I view as very reliable that he is a good speaker.
>
> I have wondered about the pants/no pants issue quite a lot. I agree that I would not go into the men's clothing section to fill my closet...and I do believe in modesty...but I am not quite sold on the dresses only thing. In part because sometimes it seems that pants are actually more modest and practical...out doing rough chores, riding horses and bicycles... and on windy days. (I know whereof I speak!) But if there is solid Scriptural evidence to support no-pants-for-ladies, I am open to hearing it.
>
> Alas, I fear I am ofl

he is a divisive speaker.... and not in a good way.... do a search cause we have discussed him here, or PM Di about what happened when he was in her area....

Posted by: seeshell Dec 23 2006, 11:06 PM

> QUOTE(Clay @ Dec 23 2006, 09:41 PM)
>
> he is a divisive speaker.... and not in a good way.... do a search cause we have discussed him here, or PM Di about what happened when he was in her area....

Thanks, it took me awhile to find the thread, but I think I finally got it.

Posted by: Johann Dec 24 2006, 12:02 AM

> QUOTE(Ed White @ Dec 24 2006, 03:34 AM) ☐
>
> Why a dress is if you are a lady.
> ==========

Did you ever read a discripyion or see a picture of the Reform Dress that Ellen G. Whte recommended? It consisted of long pants underneath a shorter skirt. Quite revolutionary in those days?

Posted by: awesumtenor Dec 24 2006, 12:34 AM

> QUOTE(Observer @ Dec 23 2006, 10:23 PM) ☐
>
> My understanding is that Ed is married. He can correct me if I am wroing, and he wants to right a wrong. NOTE: Have you ever failed to see Ed attempt to right a wrong?

Depends on whether he is the source of said wrong...when he is, he fails constantly in that regard...

> QUOTE
>
> By the way, people who know Ed personally have told me he actually is nice in person!

People who disagree with him?

In His service,
Mr. J

Posted by: Panama_Pete Dec 24 2006, 12:46 AM

> QUOTE(Johann @ Dec 24 2006, 12:02 AM) ☐
>
> Did you ever read a discripyion or see a picture of the Reform Dress that Ellen G. Whte recommended? It consisted of long pants underneath a shorter skirt. Quite revolutionary in those days?

Why didn't this work?

Posted by: awesumtenor Dec 24 2006, 12:50 AM

> QUOTE(Panama_Pete @ Dec 24 2006, 01:46 AM) ☐
>
> Why didn't this work?
>
>

For starters, all she lacks is a mustache to look like John Wilkes Booth in drag...

In His service,
Mr. J

Posted by: Ed White Dec 24 2006, 03:10 AM

> QUOTE(Clay @ Dec 23 2006, 09:41 PM) ☐
>
> he is a divisive speaker.... and not in a good way.... do a search cause we have discussed him here, or PM Di about what happened when he was in her area....

Clay since you and Di have vital information about S. Lewis, me or any church member of open wrongs/sins, by all means don't be found PM everyone of our open public sins start a thread about them like you did me in the Theology section and let everyone on the forum know. If we were on a church outing on a walk through the wood & YOU saw a rattlesnake, by all mean shout it out. "Rattlesnake!! But if our sins are of the private nature, by all means the good book should be followed and send the PM to us. Isn't that what Christianity is all about? If isn't it should be.
"Moreover if thy brother shall trespass against thee, go and tell him his fault between thee and him alone: if he shall hear thee, thou hast gained thy brother. But if he will not hear thee, then take with thee one or two more, that in the mouth of two or three witnesses every word may be established. And if he shall neglect to hear them, tell it unto the church: but if he neglect to hear the church, let him be unto thee as an heathen man and a publican." Matthew 18:15-17
Yes, I have posted words on this thread about John Lomacang & Hal Steenson and in other places and other names and not in the least am I ashamed to mention the error they teach because they teach openly subjecting innocient people to their error. Whatever they choose to do and teach behind closed doors is their business and not mine. I realize the SOP I quote from offends a lot of people on this forum, but the bible also equally offends these same people. And for that reason I will state that.
"Open rebuke is necessary, to prevent others from being ensnared.
To believe that evil must not be condemned because this would condemn those who practise the evil, is to act in favor of falsehood. If, after a man has been given many cautions and warnings, to save him from his hereditary and cultivated tendencies to wrong, he takes offense, and refuses to accept the message graciously sent him from heaven, and puts aside the reproof of the Holy Spirit, his heart and conscience become hardened, and he is in great darkness. {SpTB02 10.1}
I gave a link on another thread of a 1921 letter to the GC president, if anyone would just read this letter from start to finish, then those thinking on this forum to have already me figured out & those still waiting would be well equipped in doing so by reading this letter.

http://remnantprophecy.sdaglobal.org/Libra...39;s-Letter.pdf

Posted by: sister Dec 24 2006, 05:42 AM

I was there for the majority of Steven Lewis' meetings at 3ABN, a few of his messages were very good, but what I observed of his followers during the church services at Thompsonville, that were not televised, was quite disturbing. The young people who were with him would sit in the pews and read their Bibles during the entire service, not participating, ignoring all everything around them until Steven Lewis was on the pulpit. At that time they would close their Bibles and sit in rapt attention, their eyes fixed upon their leader.

Lewis called his ministry Present Truth Ministry and I once overheard him refer to those he baptized as Present Truth people. The majority of the baptisms that took place were re-baptisms of church members and those people became fiercely loyal to Lewis as an individual.

John Osborn told Steven Lewis once, that he was heading in the same direction that Osborn had when he left the SDA church. And where is Steven Lewis now?

During Lewis' meetings plans were made for Lewis to open a "school of the prophets" on land adjacent to existing 3ABN property. Later the plans were scraped, that is another story, and the land was donated to 3ABN.

By the way, Hal and Mollie Steenson were big fans of Steven Lewis. He was the one who baptized them. Of course that fact has never stopped Mollie from dressing in pants...

Posted by: Observer Dec 24 2006, 07:29 AM

Just to make certain that everyone understands: The woman in the Reform Dress photo was NOT Ellen White.

Posted by: Richard Sherwin Dec 24 2006, 07:46 AM

The people of the time were just not ready to accept it. It looked too strange and the idea at the time of pants on women was just too much. Mrs. White, in her writings was disapointed because it was a more healthy form of dressing.

Richard

> QUOTE(Panama_Pete @ Dec 24 2006, 01:46 AM)
>
> Why didn't this work?
>
>

Posted by: Ed White Dec 24 2006, 07:51 AM

> QUOTE(Ed White @ Dec 24 2006, 03:10 AM)

> Clay since you and Di have vital information about S. Lewis, me or any church member of open wrongs/sins, by all means don't be found PM everyone of our open public sins start a thread about them like you did me in the Theology section and let everyone on the forum know. If we were on a church outing on a walk through the wood & YOU saw a rattlesnake, by all mean shout it out. "Rattlesnake!! But if our sins are of the private nature, by all means the good book should be followed and send the PM to us. Isn't that what Christianity is all about? If isn't it should be.
> "Moreover if thy brother shall trespass against thee, go and tell him his fault between thee and him alone: if he shall hear thee, thou hast gained thy brother. But if he will not hear thee, then take with thee one or two more, that in the mouth of two or three witnesses every word may be established. And if he shall neglect to hear them, tell it unto the church: but if he neglect to hear the church, let him be unto thee as an heathen man and a publican." Matthew 18:15-17
> Yes, I have posted words on this thread about John Lomacang & Hal Steenson and in other places and other names and not in the least am I ashamed to mention the error they teach because they teach openly subjecting innocient people to their error. Whatever they choose to do and teach behind closed doors is their business and not mine. I realize the SOP I quote from offends a lot of people on this forum, but the bible also equally offends these same people. And for that reason I will state that.
> "Open rebuke is necessary, to prevent others from being ensnared.
> To believe that evil must not be condemned because this would condemn those who practise the evil, is to act in favor of falsehood. If, after a man has been given many cautions and warnings, to save him from his hereditary and cultivated tendencies to wrong, he takes offense, and refuses to accept the message graciously sent him from heaven, and puts aside the reproof of the Holy Spirit, his heart and conscience become hardened, and he is in great darkness. {SpTB02 10.1}
> I gave a link on another thread of a 1921 letter to the GC president, if anyone would just read this letter from start to finish, then those thinking on this forum to have already figured me out & those still waiting would be well equipped in doing so by reading this letter.
>
> http://remnantprophecy.sdaglobal.org/Librarypdf/Advent-History-1900s/Edson's-Letter.pdf

============

Sorry to bring this to the front again, I was only trying to edit the link & clicked the wrong button. But concerning this picture, please someone keep reminding me when to laugh as I don't want to laugh out of turn. I am not locked in by never laughing, I just refuse to at the expence of another.
Sister is right about those young minds exposed to S. Lewis & his control over them. Maybe he just doesn't know any different from his Adventist schooling.

Posted by: seeshell Dec 24 2006, 08:33 AM

:: OK, I am having a hard time believing that picture depicts what Sis. White meant by reform dress, because she also said to not go out of our way to be a "gazing-stock" ie, look ridiculous. The pattern she recommended at one point had a skirt that was 8 or 9 inches from the ground, and that monstrosity is not 8 or 9 inches from the ground, for one thing. I think what she had in mind was much more tasteful. That may have been someone else's distortion of "reform dress".

The pants under the dress thing... My apologies to anyone here who wears pants under dresses, but I just won't do it. One or the other, but not both at the same time! Unless I'm lost in the Rockies in the dead of winter. I'm no fashion maven, but I got my limits!

I believe Sis. White also gave instruction to the effect that if the fashion of the day is reasonable and modest, wear it, "and let not the dress question fill the mind". It's not our duty to look as weird as we can for Jesus. There are clothes for ladies available today that are reasonable and modest...they may be a bit harder to find, but you can locate them if you look.

At any rate, if Mr. Lewis is calling the church Babylon, I'm afraid he has destroyed any influence he might have had with me, though I might have agreed with some of the other things he said...can anyone document that he now claims this?

OK.

Posted by: Richard Sherwin Dec 24 2006, 08:44 AM

Ed give it up, we all know by now that you hate all things Adventist, even if they are not Adventist but you can somehow twist them around to be. Again I invite you to actually go to an SDA school, like the academy that's a mile from my home, go out with the students giving a Bible study, shed a tear at a play about the last days of Jesus taken from the Desire of Ages, or watch the tumbling team witnessing to the public schools. Observe the students leading out in an evangelistic series while giving up their free time and study time to do so. These kids are on fire for God like you can never imagine Ed, they love the Lord. They need our encouragement, not our bricks thrown at them. Forget the past wrongs of the church, which I freely admit are many, and look to a glorious future like these young people are doing. Be a part of the solution, not a part of the problem. More than dress reform you (and all of us) need mind reform. Constantly bashing the church is not from God.

Richard

> QUOTE(Ed White @ Dec 24 2006, 08:51 AM)
>
> ============
> Sorry to bring this to the front again, I was only trying to edit the link & clicked the wrong button. But concerning this picture, please someone keep reminding me when to laugh as I don't want to laugh out of turn. I am not locked in by never laughing, I just refuse to at the expence of another. Sister is right about those young minds exposed to S. Lewis & his control over them. Maybe he just doesn't know any different from his Adventist schooling.

Posted by: Richard Sherwin Dec 24 2006, 08:59 AM

I do believe she did say that, about modern fashion being fine as long as it meets certain criteria. Thanks for bringing that up. I agree that pants under dresses is not pretty, I would never wear them like that

Richard

> QUOTE(seeshell @ Dec 24 2006, 09:33 AM)
>
> :: OK, I am having a hard time believing that picture depicts what Sis. White meant by reform dress, because she also said to not go out of our way to be a "gazing-stock" ie, look ridiculous. The pattern she recommended at one point had a skirt that was 8 or 9 inches from the ground, and that monstrosity is not 8 or 9 inches from the ground, for one thing. I think what she had in mind was much more tasteful. That may have been someone else's distortion of "reform dress".
>
> The pants under the dress thing... My apologies to anyone here who wears pants under dresses, but I just won't do it. One or the other, but not both at the same time! Unless I'm lost in > the Rockies in the dead of winter. I'm no fashion maven, but I got my limits!

>
> I believe Sis. White also gave instruction to the effect that if the fashion of the day is reasonable and modest, wear it, "and let not the dress question fill the mind". It's not our duty to look as weird as we can for Jesus. There are clothes for ladies available today that are reasonable and modest...they may be a bit harder to find, but you can locate them if you look.
>
> At any rate, if Mr. Lewis is calling the church Babylon, I'm afraid he has destroyed any influence he might have had with me, though I might have agreed with some of the other things he said...can anyone document that he now claims this?
>
> OK.

Posted by: watchbird Dec 24 2006, 09:29 AM

> QUOTE(seeshell @ Dec 24 2006, 09:33 AM)
>
> :: OK, I am having a hard time believing that picture depicts what Sis. White meant by reform dress, because she also said to not go out of our way to be a "gazing-stock" ie, look ridiculous. The pattern she recommended at one point had a skirt that was 8 or 9 inches from the ground, and that monstrosity is not 8 or 9 inches from the ground, for one thing. I think what she had in mind was much more tasteful. That may have been someone else's distortion of "reform dress".
>
> The pants under the dress thing... My apologies to anyone here who wears pants under dresses, but I just won't do it. One or the other, but not both at the same time! Unless I'm lost in the Rockies in the dead of winter. I'm no fashion maven, but I got my limits!
>
> I believe Sis. White also gave instruction to the effect that if the fashion of the day is reasonable and modest, wear it, "and let not the dress question fill the mind". It's not our duty to look as weird as we can for Jesus. There are clothes for ladies available today that are reasonable and modest...they may be a bit harder to find, but you can locate them if you look.
>
> At any rate, if Mr. Lewis is calling the church Babylon, I'm afraid he has destroyed any influence he might have had with me, though I might have agreed with some of the other things he said...can anyone document that he now claims this?
>
> OK.

I agree. This picture looks to be the "Reform dress" introduced by public figures at the time, which Ellen spoke AGAINST. Her own idea of "dress reform" included such things as shortening skirts (which fashion at the time decreed should have "trains" on the back, which actually swept the streets as someone walked... unless they held them up in their hands) so they would NOT do this; allowing the waist to be a natural fit rather than having the waist cinched into a "wasp waist" by strong corsets reinforced by whalebones.... etc.

And yes, she also stated that our purpose in dressing "diferent from the world" was not to call attention to ourselves, but for practical purposes and modesty, and if "the world" introduced a fashion that met our criteria then there was nothing wrong in adopting it.

> QUOTE(Richard Sherwin @ Dec 24 2006, 09:59 AM)
>
> I do believe she did say that, about modern fashion being fine as long as it meets certain criteria. Thanks for bringing that up. I agree that pants under dresses is not pretty, I would never wear them like that
>
> Richard

I can think of several"good" responses to this.... but I think I shall refrain.....

Posted by: awesumtenor Dec 24 2006, 09:54 AM

> QUOTE(seeshell @ Dec 24 2006, 09:33 AM)
>
> ... she also said to not go out of our way to be a "gazing-stock" ie, look ridiculous.

Obviously, many in this church didn't get that memo, not only going out of their way to be a gazing-stock but often going completely beyond to being a laughing stock... and then rationalizing it by saying they are supposed to be a "peculiar people"... not realizing that it is not by anything we do or say that we are 'peculiar'; it is God's selection, election, affection and grace extended to us that makes us peculiar and not what we say or think or eat or drink or do etc.

In His service,
Mr. J

> QUOTE(Richard Sherwin @ Dec 24 2006, 09:44 AM)
>
> Constantly bashing the church is not from God.

It does bring to mind one who was known as the accuser of the brethren who accused them before God day and night, however...

Not saying that Ed is he... but he does have a propensity to emulate him where the church is concerned.

In His service,
Mr. J

Posted by: Ed White Dec 24 2006, 10:34 AM

> QUOTE(Richard Sherwin @ Dec 24 2006, 08:44 AM)

> Ed give it up, we all know by now that you hate all things Adventist...

Richard this "we" you tell about are you going to have those people by your side for support when really needed? Just because you were schooled into this bogus thought by others doesn't mean you need to stay in the shallow in of a wadeing pool with them, launch out into the deep, become informed! Click on that link I gave of Edson White above and print it out on paper and un plug your computer for a day and go read this letter with a hanky among your bee hives and return with something to say with substance instead of just shooting from the hip.

Posted by: Pickle Dec 24 2006, 10:42 AM

D. M. Canright wrote a book in which he blasted Ellen White over the reform dress. He stated that she condemned a dress that went halfway to the knee, with pants underneath, and claimed that she then a year later advocated the same style of dress slightly modified.

What Canright failed to tell his readers is that the dress condemned, according to Ellen White, went halfway from the hip to the knee, while the dress advocated went halfway from the floor to the knee, if 8 or 9 inches would be halfway.

Who in their right mind but Canright and close-minded, anti-Adventist critics would call a dress halfway from the hip to the knee the same dress slightly modified as one that went halfway from the floor to the knee? Is a long dress really a slightly modified mini skirt?

There is a non-Adventist professor at a university who teaches a class on the history of fashion and dress. She has her students read Canright and study Ellen White, though she knows next to nothing about Ellen White, as of several years ago.

Why? Because she wants all her feminist students to get the point that it wasn't just radical feminists that were pushing for dress reform in the 19th century. Even religious folks, who the average student just assumes would want everyone to stick with corsets, heavy street sweepers, etc., were into advocating reform.

And this professor claims that the type of reforms Ellen White called for went mainstream after the turn of the century, if I remember her email to me correctly.

Why does she have her students study Canright too? Because she wants them to see what senseless resistance and stupid arguments some folks came up with to battle the ideas of the likes of Ellen White.

Posted by: Chez Dec 24 2006, 10:45 AM

> QUOTE(Ed White @ Dec 24 2006, 11:34 AM)
>
> Richard this "we" you tell about are you going to have those people by your side for support when really needed? Just because you were schooled into this bogus thought by others doesn't mean you need to stay in the shallow in of a wadeing pool with them, launch out into the deep, become informed! Click on that link I gave of Edson White above and print it out on paper and un plug your computer for a day and go read this letter with a hanky among your bee hives and return with something to say with substance instead of just shooting from the hip.

Aren't you guys ofl ?

Posted by: Pickle Dec 24 2006, 10:58 AM

> QUOTE(Chez @ Dec 24 2006, 10:45 AM)
>
> Aren't you guys ofl ?

Let's see. What was the topic of this thread?

Ah, yes. Hal Steenson chopped John Lomacang up into little pieces with that email he asked to be circulated. That was because John had preached a sermon advocating a futuristic interpetation of the trumpets, and then after John had reportedly said he was going to apologize, he instead on the air said he had nothing to apologize for.

Posted by: watchbird Dec 24 2006, 11:09 AM

> QUOTE(Pickle @ Dec 24 2006, 11:58 AM)
>
> Let's see. What was the topic of this thread?
>
> Ah, yes. Hal Steenson chopped John Lomacang up into little pieces with that email he asked to be circulated. That was because John had preached a sermon advocating a futuristic interpetation of the trumpets, and then after John had reportedly said he was going to apologize, he instead on the air said he had nothing to apologize for.

Ah yes.... now I remember.... and someone else told of a sermon preached by somebody which had also "refuted" John.... and had promised to check out what was actually said by each and get back to us.... and while sitting around waiting for that to happen.... things wandered a bit far from the topic.... But I don't recall who it was.... Yoo Hoo..... Whoever..... are you ready with your report yet?

Posted by: Richard Sherwin Dec 24 2006, 11:34 AM

According to you all teaching in the SDA school system are bogus so I have no idea which one you might be referring to. I don't expect to have anyone by my side when it's really needed, other than the Creator.

Ed I fully admit our schools are far from perfect, I have tons of problems with what goes on in our schools, however I'm not so overcome by irrational hatred that I don't also see the good. Your hatred of our schools borders on pathologicaly scary.

Ed you are always bringing up past wrongs, especially when it comes to our schools. I prefer to live in the present to make the future better. Rehashing past wrongs and holding grudges accoumplishes nothing.

Becoming informed does not mean turning against the church as you seem to imply. Being informed does not meen thinking the way you do. I'm very informed, enough to know there are a lot of great thing happening in our school system. Are you informed enough to know about the people being Baptized as a result of our teenagers giving Bible studies? Or witnessing in the public schools? Or having an intense Love of the Creator?

Richard

> QUOTE(Ed White @ Dec 24 2006, 11:34 AM)
>
> Richard this "we" you tell about are you going to have those people by your side for support when really needed? Just because you were schooled into this bogus thought by others doesn't mean you need to stay in the shallow in of a wadeing pool with them, launch out into the deep, become informed! Click on that link I gave of Edson White above and print it out on paper and un plug your computer for a day and go read this letter with a hanky among your bee hives and return with something to say with substance instead of just shooting from the hip.

Oh maybe But, well I just get upset whenever anyone attacks something I love. What can I say? Sorry?

Richard

> QUOTE(Chez @ Dec 24 2006, 11:45 AM)
>
> Aren't you guys ofl ?

Posted by: Chez Dec 24 2006, 12:14 PM

You guys are too much and I love you all!!! rofl rofl rofl

Posted by: Ed White Dec 24 2006, 12:20 PM

> QUOTE(watchbird @ Dec 24 2006, 11:09 AM)
>
> Ah yes.... now I remember.... and someone else told of a sermon preached by somebody which had also "refuted" John.... and had promised to check out what was actually said by each and get back to us.... and while sitting around waiting for that to happen.... things wandered a bit far from the topic.... But I don't recall who it was.... Yoo Hoo..... Whoever..... are you ready with your report yet?

As I remember it was Jay Gallamore that came in to do damage control against a sermon that John & his wife must have prayed about as they were studying out the 7 trumpets in the future, heaven knows how to answer a sincere request like that. Also how to provide comfort from Jesus the Comforter when the big guns in leadership are brought out to suppress his spark of truth he was able to introduce on 3ABN network.
I have never heard this rebutal, but I am sure John has one even better thats being suppressed. Jay may somday learn himself that it is impossible to fight error with more error. Only truth can do that ! And it maybe a while yet until these words of Jesus have a complete fulfillment. "Every plant which my Father hath not planted shall be rooted up."

Posted by: Pickle Dec 24 2006, 01:19 PM

> QUOTE(Ed White @ Dec 24 2006, 12:20 PM) ☐
>
> I have never heard this rebutal, but I am sure John has one even better thats being suppressed.

Super. Then maybe he can come over to the http://www.blacksda.com/forums/index.php?showtopic=11710 and share it. You want to invite him?

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Dec 24 2006, 01:41 PM

> QUOTE(Ed White @ Dec 24 2006, 11:20 AM) ☐
>
> Snip...
> I have never heard this rebutal, but I am sure John has one even better thats being suppressed. Jay may somday learn himself that it is impossible to fight error with more error.

So now it appears that you are agreeing that John Lomacang was preaching error. It's hard for me to keep track of what you believe.

> QUOTE
>
> Only truth can do that ! And it maybe a while yet until these words of Jesus have a complete fulfillment. "Every plant which my Father hath not planted shall be rooted up."

I am patient enough to wait and see just which ones He roots up when He is ready.

As far as the issue of the 7 trumpets is concerned I will read what each of the sides here offers and then I will continue to study the Bible and SOP myself, praying that the Holy Spirit will help my mind discern the truth.

Posted by: Ed White Dec 24 2006, 02:59 PM

> QUOTE(Pickle @ Dec 24 2006, 01:19 PM) ☐

> Super. Then maybe he can come over to the http://www.blacksda.com/forums/index.php?showtopic=11710 and share it. You want to invite him?

Pickle you invite him and J. Gallamore also, surely they could find time to utter a few word here. John would have to utter his glimmer of truth in the dark recesses of the night however as his paycheck is on the line if his truth get out. I would sure like to read the email from Hal telling an Ordained SDA minister that he was wrong as though he would know the difference.

Posted by: Pickle Dec 24 2006, 03:03 PM

> QUOTE(Ed White @ Dec 24 2006, 02:59 PM) ☐
>
> Pickle you invite him ....

I think you had better do the inviting. John still hasn't replied to my emails of October 3, 10, 16, and 17.

Posted by: Ed White Dec 24 2006, 03:29 PM

> QUOTE(PeacefullyBewildered @ Dec 24 2006, 01:41 PM) ☐
>
> So now it appears that you are agreeing that John Lomacang was preaching error. It's hard for me to keep track of what you believe.
> I am patient enough to wait and see just which ones He roots up when He is ready.
>
> As far as the issue of the 7 trumpets is concerned I will read what each of the sides here offers and then I will continue to study the Bible and SOP myself, praying that the Holy Spirit will help my mind discern the truth.

Peaceful I like this healthy approach & glad you reminded us of our great need to the One that will lead us into all truth. As we walk in the light as an added bonus He will weed us of all error, because one day soon "all of God's people will see eye to eye..." Isaiah 52:8
Sound like you will be looking for that day as well.

Printable Version of Topic

134

Click here to view this topic in its original format

BlackSDA _ 3ABN _ An Unauthorized History of 3ABN

Posted by: sister May 12 2006, 12:56 PM

"The Televangelist", Part 3...

It is evening and I am tired. Walking into a darkened room, I switch on my desk lamp. Reaching over as I sit down, I push a button and the familiar sound of my computer booting up begins. As the screen lights up, my gaze passes through it... Leaving the present, like a time traveler observing their own past, my mind extends back a number of years...

...I need to speak with Danny this morning. Parking my car, I enter 3ABN through a side door. Passing Moses Primo's office, I stop to chat with Flo, his secretary. Checking the time, my pace accelerates as I turn right, passing the engineer's work room, an editing bay and finally before entering the lobby, I glance to the left and see Joe Sloan in the control booth. He is directing another segment with Linda seated on the porch. I greet the receptionist as I stride across the lobby and enter the administration wing. On my left Mollie is busy with a phone call, she looks up briefly and nods.

Glancing through the open door of the office to my right, I see Mom Ford seated with a large pile of envelopes stacked in front of her, today she is alone. Meticulously, she separates the piles of cash from checks. A wealthy woman in her own right, it is she whom Danny has entrusted with the duty of being in charge of counting the donations. Scrupulously she totals up the cash and checks, before it is given to Danny. After he has finished with it, the donations are taken across the lobby to the accounting department.

Leaning on the door frame I wait for Mom Ford to look up. An energetic little woman, in spite of her gray hair and obvious age, she still has the mind of a steel trap when it concerns her responsibilities. Sensing she is not alone and looking up, I meet her glance, a smile lights up my face and I greet her.

Mollie now informs me that Danny is expecting me. Saying good-bye to Mom Ford, I continue down the corridor. On my right is the kitchen, passing through Linda's empty office—she is still filming on the porch in the "Presents" studio, Danny greets me at his office door...

Returning to the present, I open the document entitled "The Televangelist" and continue reading:

"It is best that the paperwork demonstrate that the televangelist lives on a very low salary. The donors need to believe that their money is going strictly to further God's work. What they don't know won't hurt him. There are many ways other than salary for his ministry to provide for his earthly pleasures. He smiles over at his briefcase. He learned long ago that he could take large cash advances for various reasons and never return cash or receipts. Each day, when the mail comes in, certain people open it, count the donations, and send the money and the totals to his office. He goes over them and sends them on to the accounting department. The amount that arrives in accounting is often much less than the written totals... but then that could be because the people counting the money often make the mistake of counting donations that never happened."

Stay tuned for "The Televangelist", Part 4...

Posted by: beartrap May 12 2006, 02:02 PM

Well now, isn't that quite a walk down memory lane for a some of us! That was downright nostalgic. For some the nostalgic value would be years earlier, and in another setting. For others the setting would West of I-57 in both West Frankfort, and Herrin. But those are other stories for another time.

Posted by: Hersheys99 May 12 2006, 04:14 PM

Wow that sounds so familiar!

Posted by: princessdi May 12 2006, 04:23 PM

So this runs in the family...........Ok back to lurk mode....

> QUOTE(beartrap @ May 11 2006, 07:33 PM)
>
> Well now that just a scream. As a 3ABN employee back in 1989 when Kenny was fired, for a number of years we were forbidden from having any contact with Kenny (Danny's brother), Emma Lou (Kenny's wife), Goldie (Danny's mother), or Tammy (Danny's sister) because Kenny was was a sinner and the others had sided with him. and yes, Kenny dumped Emma Lou and ran off with Chris. (The short version)

Posted by: Hersheys99 May 12 2006, 04:33 PM

> QUOTE
>
> So this runs int he family...........Ok back to lurk mode....

More than you know! Very scary if you ask me!

Posted by: beartrap May 12 2006, 05:29 PM

Convoluted, isn't it? Kenny continues preaching and writing against the SDA church, dumps his wife and runs off with a younger model, and Now he is singing and preaching on 3ABN, Emma Lou works in the accounting office, and Chris... well, I suppose they'll find her something.

Posted by: PaperTigers May 12 2006, 06:00 PM

yup definitely runs in the family...
and it continues to younger generations too....

Posted by: Hersheys99 May 12 2006, 06:11 PM

> QUOTE
>
> Chris... well, I suppose they'll find her something. blink.gif rofl I am cracking up here Bear!! Thanks for the laugh I needed it tonight!!

> QUOTE
>
> yup definitely runs in the family...
> and it continues to younger generations too....

Sure does sad isn't it.

Posted by: Fran May 12 2006, 09:25 PM

> QUOTE(PaperTigers @ May 12 2006, 06:00 PM)
>
> yup definitely runs in the family...
> and it continues to younger generations too....

Well, finally someone else has had enough guts to say it and said it. It is about time some one came out with it. The Shelton's are very good at teaching the youngun's. The subject has been stated, but no one will pick up the ball and roll with it. Let's get this show on the road so it will go away and Linda and her family can be free at last, and hopefully Danny will be dethroned.

Danny teaches girls and Tommy teaches the boys. Take your pick as to which way you would like the youngun's to go.

Why is it I see another David Koresh.

"Yes, All in the Name of the Lord."

"But, it is for the Greater Good of the Ministry."

"Who cares anyway?"

"Kids are resilient, they get over it."

I stand, today, and say, "They Will Never Get Over It."

Come on folks, lets get it all out there.

1. Why is it that Tommy is not allowed to live in IL?

2 How many children does Danny have?

3. How do sexually abused children "Act Out" when they "Grow Up"?

Posted by: PaperTigers May 12 2006, 10:17 PM

> QUOTE(Fran @ May 12 2006, 10:25 PM)
>
> -----------------------------------
> Come on folks, lets get it all out there.
>
> 1. Why is it that Tommy is not allowed to live in IL?
>
> 2 How many children does Danny have?
>
> 3. How do sexually abused children "Act Out" when they "Grow Up"?

Thank you Fran for getting to the core of the issue!!!

1. I'm sure there are only a handful of people who know why Tommy isn't allowed to live in IL... I would love to comment on this one, but I only have second hand information and don't feel really comfortable going there not having first hand information (although I have ABSOLUTELY no reason to doubt the PEOPLE who told it to me).

2. I don't know how many kids Danny has... but the question would be how many does he know that he has versus how many he might actually have.

3. Sexually abused children generally act out in similiar ways that they were abused... it's a vicious cycle.. and one that is being allowed to continue in their circle...

Posted by: Fran May 12 2006, 11:04 PM

> QUOTE(PaperTigers @ May 12 2006, 10:17 PM)
>
> Thank you Fran for getting to the core of the issue!!!
>
> 1. I'm sure there are only a handful of people who know why Tommy isn't allowed to live in IL... I would love to comment on this one, but I only have second hand information and don't feel really comfortable going there not having first hand information (although I have ABSOLUTELY no reason to doubt the PEOPLE who told it to me).
>
> 2. I don't know how many kids Danny has... but the question would be how many does he know that he has versus how many he might actually have.
>
> 3. Sexually abused children generally act out in similiar ways that they were abused... it's a vicious cycle.. and one that is being allowed to continue in their circle...

What does a carpenter do, to remove a door where the door lock has been changed to protect the innocent person behind the door, and the carpenter figures out the lock is changed and he was not given a key?

They get angry, fetch a hammer and screw driver, removes the pegs from the door hinges and get in anyway so the uneducated carpenter can continue to accomplish those carpenter education lessons.

Posted by: sonshineonme May 12 2006, 11:33 PM

> QUOTE(Fran @ May 12 2006, 10:04 PM)
>
> What does a carpenter do, to remove a door where the door lock has been changed to protect the innocent person behind the door, and the carpenter figures out the lock is changed and he was not given a key?
>
> They get angry, fetch a hammer and screw driver, removes the pegs from the door hinges and get in anyway so the uneducated carpenter can continue to accomplish those carpenter education lessons.

I am trying to read between the lines here...help me out a bit more...

Posted by: Fran May 13 2006, 12:00 AM

> QUOTE(sonshineonme @ May 13 2006, 12:33 AM)
>
> I am trying to read between the lines here...help me out a bit more...

Think harder, and draw your own conclusions.

Posted by: inga May 13 2006, 01:05 AM

> QUOTE(Fran @ May 13 2006, 12:04 AM)
>
> What does a carpenter do, to remove a door where the door lock has been changed to protect the innocent person behind the door, and the carpenter figures out the lock is changed and he was not given a key?
>
> They get angry, fetch a hammer and screw driver, removes the pegs from the door hinges and get in anyway so the uneducated carpenter can continue to accomplish those carpenter education lessons.

For someone who's listened to the personal stories of persons sexually abused as children, this is just way too vivid!! <ouch!!>

If the implications are true, it's about time that someone be brought to justice and behind bars.

I remember a certain very "righteous" school teacher .... He "got away with it" for many years with his adopted daughters. Oh, yes, those ungrateful daughters turned "bad" -- sexually provocative & promiscuous (as is common for victims of sexual abuse). But finally, with help from friends, they got up the courage to testify against their dad. That's what's needed for the carpenter, I'm afraid.

The difficulty I've run into is that the abused often don't realize they've been abused. They just figured they were Daddy's special girl, or they figure they "asked for it" (because that's what they were told) or they figure they had an "affair" with their Bible teacher ... Spouses are often in denial about the abuse they know is going on ..

It's a sad, wicked world, and it's time for Jesus to put an end to it!!!

Inga

PS The usual understanding re psychopaths is that they are irredeemable because they are without conscience. Maybe that's what Paul meant re a "seared conscience"?

PPS Female victims of sexual abuse often "act out" in sexually provocative ways because they are searching for love, and the only way they have been "loved" has been sexually. They seem to feel empty and seem believe that their only value is in their bodies .. It takes a lot of the grace of God, many years and often much therapy to "get over" such a history, but, yes, you are right, Fran, they can never really "get over it."

Posted by: Johann May 13 2006, 08:39 AM

How to stop it?

Between Sabbath School and church service today a prominent member asked me to help him get the address and bank account number of a conference which does not support 3ABN or its affiliates. He wants to support such a conference with his tithe. I know others who do that. If a number of people do that it may make an impression, and some may reconsider their support of Danny Shelton.

Posted by: statrei May 13 2006, 09:17 AM

> QUOTE(inga @ May 13 2006, 03:05 AM) ☐
>
> It's a sad, wicked world, and it's time for Jesus to put an end to it!!!

It ultimately gets back to that. Christians have been blaming the Creator for the mess they are in for a long time now instead of using the tools He gave them for solving problems. If He had the authority to put an end to it He would have long ago.

Posted by: HUGGINS130 May 13 2006, 01:33 PM

> QUOTE(inga @ May 13 2006, 01:05 AM) ☐

> It's a sad, wicked world, and it's time for Jesus to put an end to it!!!

Jesus isn't sad, nor wicked, I don't believe He has to put an end to any of this sadness or wickedness...God has given the believer authority over the evil one, and all his wicked schemes...

> QUOTE(statrei @ May 13 2006, 09:17 AM)
>
> It ultimately gets back to that. Christians have been blaming the Creator for the mess they are in for a long time now instead of using the tools He gave them for solving problems. If He had the authority to put an end to it He would have long ago.

Yes we have, for too long, been blaming the Creator for all of our problems, asking that he comes back soon, so this "so called junk can end..." I am sure the Creator is like, they'll wake up from their sleep and slumber one day!!!

Posted by: sister May 13 2006, 02:38 PM

"The Televangelist", Part 4...

Ronnie and Becky... If you take the time to sit down with Ronnie, sifting through his stories with the eye of an "insider", it is amazing how much truth is revealed there. He can tell you about hearing "speaking in tongues" in the Administration wing of 3ABN (after everyone was professing conversion to Adventism), his knowledge extends to the location of doors in T'ville that open for secret rendevous with the President of 3ABN and as a convert to Adventism he knows both sides of the local religious scene.

Ronnie has been called upon to fulfill some rather unique "job descriptions" for Danny over the years. His part in the accounting scandal is just one example. Reading the following account from "The Televangelist" brings a slight chuckle to my lips as I think of Ronnie. In the midst of so much corruption and scandal, Ronnie cast in the role of "Private Eye" is a morsel of comic relief.

"As the years passed, financial directors came and went. One of them went under a dark cloud of scandal. It was discovered that he was diverting funds into his personal accounts, paying his bills with company checks, and walking away with enormous sums of money. To the surprise of those few people who knew what had happened, the televangelist chose to keep this story under wraps. The financial director was terminated, but not prosecuted. Nor was he required to pay anything back. Indeed, he was given a company vehicle as a gift."

"Not long after this, The United States Postal Service discovered that a mail carrier was opening letters addressed to the ministry and taking cash donations. The televangelist went to the federal prosecutors and begged them to drop the case. He did not want it pursued."

"In both of these situations, prosecution would have resulted in close scrutiny of the ministry's financial books."

It has been a number of years since he left 3ABN. Although a faint memory of this slender, medium height man—an accountant by trade—his well rounded red headed wife and their numerous carrot topped children still remained in my memory — like a crafty old coon being chased through the night by a pack of hunting dogs, his name has eluded me. Snapping my fingers, it finally comes to me — Pete! That was it! Almost as interesting as what he did, and the lack of consequences involved with the discovery of his actions, was how Danny attempted to catch him in the act of "stealing the golden eggs from the giant's own stash".

It is one of those typical southern Illinois nights: the gas station on the main drag in T'ville has already closed; the local cop just turned off his lights and soon the sound of snoring wafts through his open window, as a gentle breeze ruffles the curtains; most of the cows have settled down in the pastures, except a few still wandering lazily near the fences, munching on a middle of the night snack.

But in the stillness of the night one man remains awake, like a sentinel at his post, Ronnie keeps watch on the side entrances of 3ABN. Seated in his trucked, parked at the far edge of the employees parking lot, with his back toward Charlie Good Road, he has the perfect vantage point for watching two entrances: the main employee entrance with a single light above it giving a clear view, should anyone approach it and seek entry, and secondly the outside door that leads directly into the accounting department.

Ronnie, opens up his thermos and pouring the steaming liquid into a cup, holds it between his hands to warm them. Taking a sip, he starts rummaging through the Kroger sack on the floor of his truck. He was sure that Becky had put his favorite snack in there. The sound of an engine pierces the stillness of the night as a car turns off of Highway 50 onto Charlie Good Road. The contents of the Kroger bag are forgotten, as Ronnie slides down deeper in his seat, pulling his baseball cap down, shielding his face.

Holding his breath as the car comes closer, he waits. His pulse begins to race and reaching up he wipes a bead of sweat from his forehead, as it trickles toward his eyes. All he would need now is an Aloha shirt and red Ferrari and he could give Thomas Magnum a run for his money. Looking down at his protruding waist line, he realizes it might take a bit more to compete with Hawaii's most famous Private Investigator.

The revving of an engine, as the car changes gears, interrupts his imagination. Returning to reality—perhaps this will be the last night of his vigil and he could return to where he belongs, sleeping soundly in his own bed with his wife— he hears the care picking up speed, passing by 3ABN and with the red glow of it's tail lights fading into the distance, it disappears into the night.

Soon it will be dawn. Fighting the natural urge to sleep, Ronnie's eyes pop open and sitting up he pours another cup of coffee. Once the employees start arriving, he can go home and take a well deserved rest. As Becky's car pulls into the parking lot, to begin her workday in the 3ABN Call Center, Ronnie steps out of his truck and stretches. Limping, because his foot has fallen asleep, this short, rotund man in his fifties, walks over to his wife and gives her a hug and a kiss. Laughing she pushes him away and tells him to go home and sleep.

Driving home, Ronnie thinks over the night's events, like all the previous nights, it has been silent in the parking lot of 3ABN, but at least the hourly price he negotiated with Danny makes it worthwhile.

When the jig is finally up, those who know the full story realize that Pete will never be prosecuted: he knows too much and Danny can not allow the close scrutiny of the financial practices that would take place during a public trial...

And what about Ronnie's night vigils? Well, why would an accountant with a private office need to come in at night, when he was already there during regular office hours and could take care of "his business" in addition to Danny's?

Stay tuned for Part 5 of "The Televangelist"...

Posted by: PaperTigers May 13 2006, 03:00 PM

I remember when that happened... at the time I wondered why it was almost hush-hush... One day he was there and the next he wasn't, I found out by someone whispering it to me what had happened... I was a little confused until later things started to click and then I went... OH NOW I KNOW WHY!!!
It's sad to think that he'll go to that length to protect himself.

My mind just doesn't function that way I guess.

Posted by: beartrap May 13 2006, 06:55 PM

Interestingly, Pete was placed at 3ABN by the "independent" auditing firm that does 3ABN's annual audits. He was one of them.

Posted by: vonessa May 14 2006, 12:55 AM

> QUOTE
>
> Snapping my fingers, it finally comes to me — Pete! That was it!

Sister, you got a way with words. Can't wait for the next installment. This has me glued tighter than a bristle to a porcupine.

Posted by: sonshineonme May 14 2006, 11:29 AM

> QUOTE(vonessa @ May 13 2006, 11:55 PM)
>
> Sister, you got a way with words. Can't wait for the next installment. This has me glued tighter than a bristle to a porcupine.

"someone" should be shaking in their cowboy boots...

Posted by: Johann May 15 2006, 06:05 AM

> QUOTE(vonessa @ May 14 2006, 08:55 AM)
>
> Sister, you got a way with words. Can't wait for the next installment.

When do you expect it?

Posted by: gracetoyou May 15 2006, 07:33 AM

At the North Florida campmeeting in March, Danny Shelton introduced his new wife Brandy and her two cute little girls. If I am understanding what sister, Fran and others seem to be saying, then are Brandy's two girls in danger from living with Danny Shelton? If so, then those who have knowledge of Danny's past behavior have an obligation to protect these innocent girls from being harmed and scarred for life by contacting the authorities or whatever means it takes to prevent these girls or other children from possibly being abused.

The wheels that are grinding fine and slow may need to grind faster before damage is done.

What if these girls were your girls living with Danny? What would you do and how quickly would you do it?

Posted by: sister May 15 2006, 01:52 PM

"The Televangelist", Part 5...An ironic twist to the tale of Pete

Susan, proprietor of the T'ville "health food" store, like a knight upon a very dusty stead, wearing rusty armor, with a small chorus of mice singing in the corner, raised her voice in defense of Pete and his tribe. Standing upon her soap box, she decries the wickedness of Danny: poor Pete had been fired from his job, the reasons remaining obscured in a dense cloud of secret dealings. Not only had Danny tarnished this fine man's reputation; but in addition, there were rumors of possible prosecution and imprisonment. What would his resourceless wife do if left alone to raise their children? How would she sustain herself and their little ones? Winter was coming and they would surely freeze to death with no money for heat and no food for their table. Like the narrator of a soap opera, Susan continues to recount a finely detailed list of the dooms this family had to expect in the near future...

Excuse me while I pause for an ironic laugh. Perhaps you are shaking your head, too? Isn't this the same Pete who paid himself a double salary, ran many of his personal bills through the company account and bought his house with ministry money? And if that wasn't enough, received a "hush payment" of a van. Of course Pete lost access to the "goose that laid the golden eggs", but destitute? That is a leap of imagination that would shame the cow that jumped over the moon. But that was fine with Danny, as long as the "thief" was gone from his midst, Susan could say anything she wanted, it was just a local rumor and she had about as much credibility as a three dollar bill. Now Danny could continue milking the ministry funds, without fear of being found with his hand in the cookie jar, through the financial transparency that prosecuting Pete would bring.

But now back to Susan. At this point she steps down from her soap box and starts collecting donations from other 3ABN workers to help this "poor family" through the crisis they were experiencing...both food items (purchased from her store) and cash donations. Most of the people donating to this cause could barely keep food on their own table and there was never enough money to pay all the bills delivered each month.

As long as we are here, let's take a peek around Susan's store. The first thing you notice as you walk in are the dirty fingerprints on the glass door and that the front windows need washing. The carpeting on the floor is stained and dirty, the dusty shelves are loosely stacked with canned vegetarian food items and in the freezer are Rice Dream bars and a few assorted other items. There are bulk products that have been packaged on the premises, you definitely want to avoid these, and there are strange odors that no one who shops there wants to identify. As long as your purchases are restricted to prepackaged or frozen items, you are probably safe. Susan also bakes bread on site and makes and sells vegetarian lunches. Did I mention the insects and the mice droppings? Well, at least she was willing to run a tab for you until you received your pay check from 3ABN.

Before exiting Susan's store there is one more item to take note of, in addition to selling food, it is also the largest hotbed in the area of rumors, innuendo, speculation and just plain gossip about the on goings at 3ABN. Hushed voices pause and two pairs of eyes dart toward the door as the sound of it opening immediately stop a clandestine conversation. In a brief instant, it is ascertained whether the customer walking in is friend or foe. If the subject is especially delicate, you are ushered in to the cooking area in the back, free from prying eyes and eavesdropping. And the biggest gossip of all, the Thompsonville Church clerk, was also an administrative assistant at 3ABN. Though I must admit Susan gave Dee quite a run for the money.

This is Thompsonville. This is the life of the workers. Some live well: Pete, Moses, Mollie and Hal, ET and Dave, Pastor John and C.A. And at the top of the heap, Danny and his spouse. The majority merely hope to survive until the next pay check arrives...

Stay tuned for Part 6 of "The Televangelist"...

Posted by: beartrap May 15 2006, 02:48 PM

With all of the scandal currently surrounding Danny Shelton, is it possible that he is preparing to "step aside" (as opposed to stepping down) as a martyr for "the good of the ministry because of all the attacks that the devil is making on him through Linda, her supporters, and every other person who is trying their best to destroy God's work?" Is it possible that the 3ABN spin machine is currently working on the statement that will follow his move? Is it possible that, his successor is being prepared to function as his puppet? Is he being placed in a new position to pull the strings from behind the scenes? Has anyone seen the new "3ABN Today" open? How many strings are attached to Shelly Quinn? Would such a move be made to muddy the water? Was the Ten Commandments Day book donations a quick means of building a nest egg? Is the new 3ABN acreage that Kenny is being set up to develop in housing another means of keeping continued family income out of 3ABN? Could there be a motive that includes the option of saying that any accusations against Danny are now moot as he has stepped aside? Is this a means of clearing the slate without actually clearing the slate? Is it possible that to add to Danny's sainthood, John Lomacang is currently writing up a new 3ABN release justifying Danny's remarriage by demonizing Linda, as her former pastor and Danny's current pastor? Is it possible that many donors have dried up their funds, and many people are changing their will and trusts to exclude 3ABN and they feel that something has be done?

Posted by: calvin May 15 2006, 03:21 PM

> QUOTE
>
> Before exiting Susan's store there is one more item to take note of, in addition to selling food, it is also the largest hotbed in the area of rumors, innuendo, speculation and just plain gossip about the on goings at 3ABN.

NOT ANYMORE. BlackSDA is now the largest hotbed in the area of rumors, innuendo, speculation and just plain gossip about the on goings at 3ABN.

Posted by: Clay May 15 2006, 03:23 PM

> QUOTE(calvin @ May 15 2006, 03:21 PM)
>
> NOT ANYMORE. BlackSDA is now the largest hotbed in the area of rumors, innuendo, speculation and just plain gossip about the on goings at 3ABN.

but as your sig says Calvin.... its all been said before......

Posted by: simplysaved May 15 2006, 03:23 PM

> QUOTE(calvin @ May 15 2006, 04:21 PM)
>
> NOT ANYMORE. BlackSDA is now the largest hotbed in the area of rumors, innuendo, speculation and just plain gossip about the on goings at 3ABN.

rofl

Posted by: calvin May 15 2006, 03:38 PM

> QUOTE(calvin @ May 15 2006, 03:21 PM)
>
> NOT ANYMORE. BlackSDA is now the largest hotbed in the area of rumors, innuendo, speculation and just plain gossip about the on goings at 3ABN.

> QUOTE(simplysaved @ May 15 2006, 03:23 PM)
>
> rofl

Yeah, Sister walked into that one. I couldn't resist the jab.

In case you CAers hadn't noticed. We don't take ourselves too seriously here. You got to expect to be the butt of a few jokes every once in awhile.

Posted by: beartrap May 15 2006, 03:44 PM

> QUOTE

> Yeah, Sister walked into that one. I couldn't resist the jab.

Calvin, you're bad!

Posted by: sonshineonme May 15 2006, 03:49 PM

> QUOTE(calvin @ May 15 2006, 01:21 PM)
>
> NOT ANYMORE. BlackSDA is now the largest hotbed in the area of rumors, innuendo, speculation and just plain gossip about the on goings at 3ABN.

If only you were right Calvin......

Posted by: sister May 15 2006, 03:54 PM

> QUOTE(calvin @ May 15 2006, 04:38 PM)
>
> Yeah, Sister walked into that one. I couldn't resist the jab.
>
> In case you CAers hadn't noticed. We don't take ourselves too seriously here. You got to expect to be the butt of a few jokes every once in awhile.

pe sn

PrincessDrRe, pass me some fried meaty bits. I'll take the veggie wham.

Posted by: Clay May 15 2006, 04:15 PM

> QUOTE(sister @ May 15 2006, 04:54 PM)
>
> pe sn
>
> PrincessDrRe, pass me some fried meaty bits. I'll take the veggie wham.

way to take it in stride sister..... we like to mess with ya here too...

Posted by: statrei May 16 2006, 05:57 AM

> QUOTE(Clay @ May 15 2006, 05:15 PM)
>
> way to take it in stride sister..... we like to mess with ya here too...

Nobody can do "family" like us.

Posted by: Johann May 16 2006, 01:54 PM

> QUOTE(statrei @ May 16 2006, 01:57 PM)
>
> Nobody can do "family" like us.

nothin like family and here is one

Posted by: summertime May 16 2006, 02:01 PM

> QUOTE(Johann @ May 16 2006, 01:54 PM)
>
> nothin like family and here is one

Johann, if you are on line now, do you have anything new that you can tell to us? Just wondering?

Posted by: Johann May 16 2006, 02:05 PM

> QUOTE(summertime @ May 16 2006, 10:01 PM)
>
> Johann, if you are on line now, do you have anything new that you can tell to us? Just wondering?

You just have to wait, but keep the line aglow.

Posted by: sister May 16 2006, 07:08 PM

We will interrupt "The Televangelist" and return to a previous post, that has now become "present truth"...

To summarize "A Teaser or Previews of Coming Attractions...", we began with the scorecard, upon which only four of the five starting lineup were listed:

1. Danny Lee Shelton, still remains #1
Information from a reliable source suggests pressure has been placed upon Danny to "publically" stand down, but that doesn't mean that he will let loose of the strings that control his ministry. Why give away the "goose that lays the golden eggs". It is so easy to fool the donors...

2. Mollie Sue Steenson
She remains Danny's right hand and his "oracle of truth". Mollie/Truth? That has the distinct scent of an oxymoron. She has already demonstrated her loyalty as Danny's "muscle": intimidation and lies are the staple of this enforcer and she will continue to hold her boss' line.

3. Hal Steenson
Hal, a charismatic preacher, skillfully maneuvering the donors into turning cartwheels as he charms them with his "good old boy" southern humor and homespun wisdom. Like a master magician, Hal's verbal sight of hand is so persuasive that you could almost believe him...fortunately, we've revealed what lies behind the smoke and mirrors.

4. Dr. Walt Thompson
3ABN Defender, twisting the truth, as long as it is for the "good of the ministry" and if twisting does not suffice, than spreading Danny's falsehoods, "to save the ministry" is no longer a breach of his conscience.

5. To be announced...

As every basketball afficionado knows, there are always five players in the starting lineup. So who will now show up on center court?

Looking toward the sidelines we see a middle-aged woman, her short blond hair bouncing in unison with her feet as she bounds onto the floor, smile flashing at the crowd, she takes her place standing to the left of Danny. Mollie gives her a knowing look, a reminder that Mollie retains her position on Danny's right.

Who is this woman who sits upon Danny's knee? And why was she chosen to be Charlie McCarthy to Danny's Edger Bergen. For those of you below the age of seventy, which includes me, this last sentence might require an explanation: Edger Bergen was a very famous ventriloquist and Charlie McCarthy was the wooden dummy that sat upon his knee.

An envelope is passed to my hands, the contents of which are a well guarded secret. Will the next public face of 3ABN please stand up. Shelly Quinn, with a blush on her cheeks and a smile on her lips, leaps up and runs to the podium to accept her reward. She starts to speak, but I hear a familiar voice and ideas emanating from her lips. Is this nothing more than another ruse? As the world looks at the undefiled image of Shelly Quinn before them, in reality it is actually Danny Shelton, sitting on a chair with a wooden dummy on his lap, whose lips he manipulates as he remains in control of the empire that he has built.

Has Shelly Quinn bought into the lordship of Danny Shelton? Or was the on air fame and financial remuneration from the royalties with the publication of over five million copies of The Ten Commandments, Twice Removed enough of an incentive? We listen in as she writes her speech defending the ministry from the "attacks of Satan" that it has recently received, and how Danny has graciously stepped down to save the ministry he loves from the falsehoods that have been hurled upon him by pathological liars. Or on closer inspection is this only an artfully executed illusion, attempting to deceive the donors, in order that the rivers of money will again stream into the coffers of Danny Shelton/3ABN?

Returning to the bench, the 3ABN team discuss their strategy with the Coach, Danny's "secret" benefactor. The stakes are high and as the opposing team is introduced, Danny eyes them with obvious contempt. Who is this rag tag team of amateurs, who dare to act in opposition to "god's chosen and anointed man"? Danny rubs his eyes, there appears to be a mist that shrouds their identities. One of the players is almost completely obscured to him, all he can "see" is what appears to be the figure of a woman. Her back is turned to him, but her words demonstrate a degree of knowledge that makes him eager to know her true identity. Then he could set about destroying her reputation though the spreading of falsehoods and discredit her utterances that have revealed too much of the private conduct that he has keep hidden from public view for so long.

This has been a glimpse into the present and plans for the near future at 3ABN, watch and wait as the story unfolds further before your eyes...

Posted by: seeshell May 16 2006, 07:50 PM

For anyone with firsthand knowledge...in your estimation, would you say that leadership at 3ABN is deceived -- thinking they are somehow on a higher plain than the rest of us etc...and do they believe they are doing God's work, or do they know full well what they are doing and don't care?

Also, I'd like to chime in with gracetoyou and say that if some of the things mentioned here are so, there are some little girls in possible danger and shouldn't something be done quite quickly?

Posted by: PaperTigers May 16 2006, 07:51 PM

that's a shame about shelley quinn.. she is such a nice person.. what better person though. Someone who is still "innocent" to take the place on the throne until thinks blow over.

Posted by: watchbird May 16 2006, 08:29 PM

> QUOTE(seeshell @ May 16 2006, 07:50 PM) ☐
>
> For anyone with firsthand knowledge...in your estimation, would you say that leadership at 3ABN is deceived -- thinking they are somehow on a higher plain than the rest of us etc...and do they believe they are doing God's work, or do they know full well what they are doing and don't care?

While I can't lay claim to first hand "knowledge", from my "bird's eye view" and knowledge of human nature, I would say that the answer is "yes". One or another or a mixture of all possibilities you have mentioned. Different combinations in different persons. It is hard to see how anyone could be on site and not be aware of at least some of the unsavory things that are going on. But there is no deception quite so serious as self-deception. And each time one turns a blind eye to something wrong, the cataracts on the eyes of the soul grow a little denser, until finally one can live in the midst of evil and even partake of it and yet see nothing wrong.

> QUOTE
>
> Also, I'd like to chime in with gracetoyou and say that if some of the things mentioned here are so, there are some little girls in possible danger and shouldn't something be done quite quickly?

Maybe there already has been something done. Warnings. Special watchcare. Maybe even moving them out of harms way. Reminds me. Two distant cousins of mine. Never slept in their own room at night. They'd take their pillows and blankets, climb out the window, and make a little nest for the night in the haymow out in the barn. They moved away and lived with an aunt when they were about 14 or so. It's not a problem exclusive to this generation, you know. Hard to comprehend though. Pure love between father and daughter is such a precious thing to those of us who have known it. Makes one's heart ache for those who have known something else.

Posted by: seeshell May 17 2006, 12:26 PM

> QUOTE(watchbird @ May 16 2006, 09:29 PM)
>
> Maybe there already has been something done. Warnings. Special watchcare. Maybe even moving them out of harms way.

I sure hope so, watchbird.

Posted by: summertime May 17 2006, 01:00 PM

> QUOTE(seeshell @ May 17 2006, 12:26 PM)
>
> I sure hope so, watchbird.

Posted by: summertime May 17 2006, 01:11 PM

> QUOTE(seeshell @ May 17 2006, 12:26 PM)
>
> I sure hope so, watchbird.

Are we saying that in T'ville little girls could be treated with less respect than is due to little girls? Heaven help us. "I say unto you, the things that ye do unto these little ones (the least of these), ye have done it unto Me."

Posted by: Chez May 17 2006, 04:23 PM

> QUOTE(seeshell @ May 16 2006, 07:50 PM)
>
> For anyone with firsthand knowledge...in your estimation, would you say that leadership at 3ABN is > deceived -- thinking they are somehow on a higher plain than the rest of us etc...and do they believe they are doing God's work, or do they know full well what they are doing and don't care?

>
> Also, I'd like to chime in with gracetoyou and say that if some of the things mentioned here are so, there are some little girls in possible danger and shouldn't something be done quite quickly?

I am very concerned. I've begun praying for these vulnerable ones. I pray that God will put a hedge of protection around them physically, spiritually, mentally, and emotionally.

Posted by: sonshineonme May 17 2006, 05:21 PM

> QUOTE(summertime @ May 17 2006, 12:11 PM) ☐
>
> Are we saying that in T'ville little girls could be treated with less respect than is due to little girls? Heaven help us. "I say unto you, the things that ye do unto these little ones (the least of these), ye have done it unto Me."

....and I will finish that off with "better to have an anvil tied around your neck and ye be dropped into the bottom of the sea" (my little picturesque paraphrase). ☒

Posted by: beartrap May 17 2006, 05:22 PM

The older of the two little girls, she is twelve, has moved to Florida to live with her father. The other, six years old, still lives here in T'ville.

Posted by: sonshineonme May 17 2006, 05:23 PM

> QUOTE(beartrap @ May 17 2006, 04:22 PM) ☐
>
> The older of the two little girls, she is twelve, has moved to Florida to live with her father. The other, six years old, still lives here in T'ville.

one safely out, one to go ☒

Posted by: beartrap May 17 2006, 05:33 PM

> QUOTE(seeshell @ May 16 2006, 08:50 PM) ☐

> For anyone with firsthand knowledge...in your estimation, would you say that leadership at 3ABN is deceived -- thinking they are somehow on a higher plain than the rest of us etc...and do they believe they are doing God's work, or do they know full well what they are doing and don't care?

There isn't an "or," it is an "and."

Posted by: Fran May 17 2006, 05:36 PM

> QUOTE(summertime @ May 17 2006, 01:11 PM) ☐
>
> Are we saying that in T'ville little girls could be treated with less respect than is due to little girls? Heaven help us. "I say unto you, the things that ye do unto these little ones (the least of these), ye have done it unto Me."

Don't forget those boys too. They are in danger just as much as the girls. In fact, the brothers travel together, therefore boys and girls are in danger everywhere they travel or live. What better place to find new "Playgrounds" but in new churches. Beware of repeat visits to the same playground like they do in Florida, Texas, California and Oregon...

Posted by: sonshineonme May 17 2006, 05:42 PM

> QUOTE(Fran @ May 17 2006, 04:36 PM) ☐
>
> Don't forget those boys too. They are in danger just as much as the girls. In fact, the brothers travel together, therefore boys and girls are in danger everywhere they travel or live. What better place to find new "Playgrounds" but in new churches. Beware of repeat visits to the same playground like they do in Florida, Texas, California and Oregon...

WHERE in Oregon?

Posted by: beartrap May 17 2006, 05:45 PM

If you will recall the letter that Dr. thompson wrote regarding Linda, now John Lomacang is writing one. This is being done, presumably, because he has the authority of being the pastor of the church, rather than just another 3ABN employee. This letter is supposed to have the weght of the Seventh-day Adventist Church behind it.

Does he not know that we are aware that Danny pays half of his salary, and the rest is payed by a conference where the president's parents both work for Danny at 3ABN? Doesn't he know that we are aware that he lives in a several hundred thousand dollar house (next door to Danny) provided to him by 3ABN? Doesn't he know that we are aware that he has music CDs to sell on 3ABN, and that this is the largest free advertisement he has ever had? Doesn't he know that we are aware that his entire career is in Danny's hands? Doesn't he know that we are aware that he knows that Danny will destroy him if he doesn't play along, just like Danny has destroyed everyone else who hasn't played along? Doesn't he know that we are aware that he has daily programs on 3ABN, and that it was his stated dream that he would be on world-wide television, and Danny controls his future in this? Doesn't he know that in light of all of these facts, he has no credibility whatsoever in the matter of his attempts to destroy any of Danny's targets? Poor John!

Posted by: sonshineonme May 17 2006, 05:51 PM

> QUOTE(beartrap @ May 17 2006, 04:45 PM)
>
> If you will recall the letter that Dr. thompson wrote regarding Linda, now John Lomacang is writing one. This is being done, presumably, because he has the authority of being the pastor of the church, rather than just another 3ABN employee. This letter is supposed to have the weght of the Seventh-day Adventist Church behind it.
>
> Does he not know that we are aware that Danny pays half of his salary, and the rest is payed by a conference where the president's parents both work for Danny at 3ABN? Doesn't he know that we are aware that he lives in a several hundred thousand dollar house (next door to Danny) provided to him by 3ABN? Doesn't he know that we are aware that he has music CDs to sell on 3ABN, and that this is the largest free advertisement he has ever had? Doesn't he know that we are aware that his entire career is in Danny's hands? Doesn't he know that we are aware that he knows that Danny will destroy him if he doesn't play along, just like Danny has destroyed everyone else who hasn't played along? Doesn't he know that we are aware that he has daily programs on 3ABN, and that it was his stated dream that he would be on world-wide television, and Danny controls his future in this? Doesn't he know that in light of all of these facts, he has no credibility whatsoever in the matter of his attempts to destroy any of Danny's targets? Poor John!

The bigger question is this, how can he be so aware and yet SO SURE his letter will make a difference ANYWAY? After all, he has learned by example, hasn't he. Shame on him.

Posted by: beartrap May 17 2006, 05:53 PM

> QUOTE(sonshineonme @ May 17 2006, 06:42 PM)
>
> WHERE in Oregon?

Wherever the Shelton brothers travel in Oregon.

> QUOTE(sonshineonme @ May 17 2006, 06:51 PM)
>
> The bigger question is this, how can he be so aware and yet SO SURE his letter will make a difference ANYWAY? After all, he has learned by example, hasn't he. Shame on him.

I don't believe that John is sure of anything except that his future is in Danny's hands and he must do as he is told.

Posted by: sonshineonme May 17 2006, 05:53 PM

> QUOTE(beartrap @ May 17 2006, 04:51 PM) ☐
>
> Wherever the Shelton brothers travel in Oregon.

I had never heard of them coming to anywhere in Oregon - I was wondering if there were regular places they hit in Oregon.

Posted by: sister May 17 2006, 05:55 PM

The Heart and Mind of a Man...

"But there is no deception quite so serious as self-deception. And each time one turns a blind eye to something wrong, the cataracts on the eyes of the soul grow a little denser, until finally one can live in the midst of evil and even partake of it and yet see nothing wrong."

The above quote is an astute observation when applied to the character of Danny Shelton. In his eyes he has partaken of no evil. All that he has received is his well deserved reward as "God's anointed". Sexual favors from other men's wives, his employees and prostitutes; he is entitled to have his needs fulfilled, isn't he? Skimming enormous amounts of cash from the ministry and lining his own pockets; God would not want him to curtailed his desires from lack of adequate funds, would He? Spreading falsehoods and accusing his "enemies" of being pathological liars; a man has to protect his position, doesn't he? And the rest of The Ten Commandments? Nothing more than suggestions in his private life; what more can God expect, when as a "god" in his own ministry, he is above the law.

Was Danny's behavior always so evil? Did it begin long ago in his childhood, developing through his teenage years and into adulthood? Or was it a progression that evolved over the years of increasing power and wealth, since the founding of 3ABN?

In a letter to Johann, Danny wrote that since Moses and David could get away with adultery and murder, so can he, since God has given him such a great task to perform. How can the conscience of a man become so hardened and unyielding to truth of Scripture? How can a self-professed Christian ever believe that God condones adultery and murder for those whom He has given a "great task to perform"? How can Danny think that God, like Tetzel — in the time of Martin Luther — selling indulgences from the Catholic church for a fee, would give him a permit for unlimited sin in exchange for doing His bidding? Can God deny His own character? Will He make void the sacrifice of His Son for all sinners, allowing Danny Shelton to be saved in his sins and not from his sins. I am sure we can agree that this type of licence has not been written on stone by the finger of God, but more likely forged in the Devil's workshop.

I would suggest that we all pray for the salvation of Danny Shelton, Kenny Shelton, Tommy Shelton, Emma Lou Shelton, Tammy Chance and her husband, Hal and Mollie Steenson, ET Everett, Brenda Walsh, Walt Thompson and the others that have been involved in the falsehoods and the constant breaking of The Ten Commandments of God that have surrounded "the ministry" of 3ABN. As long as there is breath in their bodies, there is still the opportunity to repent and humble themselves before God, receiving the assurance of salvation through Jesus Christ our Lord. But each one will have to face the consequences of their actions. For many this may include incarceration for breaking both the laws of the nation and the Commandments of God. For others it will mean public humiliation.

"For what shall it profit a man, if he shall gain the whole world, and lose his own soul?" Mark 8:36

Stay tuned...

Posted by: sonshineonme May 17 2006, 05:57 PM

> QUOTE(beartrap @ May 17 2006, 04:53 PM) ☐
>
> Wherever the Shelton brothers travel in Oregon.
> I don't believe that John is sure of anything except that his future is in Danny's hands and he must do as he is told.

I suppose if what is more important to you then being honest, truthful and having integrity, you would rather have money, money and money, then I guess he has no choice...but, he never has to do anything he is "told" to do, unless he has sold his soul. He always has a choice.

Posted by: watchbird May 17 2006, 05:58 PM

> QUOTE(Fran @ May 17 2006, 05:36 PM) ☐
>
> Don't forget those boys too. They are in danger just as much as the girls. In fact, the brothers travel together, therefore boys and girls are in danger everywhere they travel or live. What better place to find new "Playgrounds" but in new churches. Beware of repeat visits to the same playground like they do in Florida, Texas, California and Oregon...

Were these states given just as examples? Or is there specific reason for identifying these? Are there not other places around the world where they return to the same church multiple times?

Posted by: Fran May 17 2006, 06:04 PM

> QUOTE(beartrap @ May 17 2006, 05:22 PM) ☐
>
> The older of the two little girls, she is twelve, has moved to Florida to live with her father. The other, six years old, still lives here in T'ville.

The six year old would be the one in greatest danger. She has no Daddy to be sent to, she lives with her Daddy right there at 3ABN. She is NOT safe with him in the house with her.

There is a Danny Shelton, Jr in IL. Wonder if he is related to Danny Shelton, Sr?

Posted by: sonshineonme May 17 2006, 06:10 PM

[quote name='Fran' date='May 17 2006, 05:04 PM' post='131154']
The six year old would be the one in greatest danger. She has no Daddy to be sent to, she lives with her Daddy right there at 3ABN. She is NOT safe with him in the house with her.

There must be someone, who can give enough reason to cause the authorities to go in and investigate? Get something on record somewhere, get "information" to Brandy, who has been hand-picked-naive enough to discount things that may be in front of her eyes at some point, never thinking it could be. Those that can do something need to step up and make a difference in this childs life. Or face the inevitable fact that she will be another statistic in just a matter of time....

Posted by: beartrap May 17 2006, 06:10 PM

> QUOTE(sonshineonme @ May 17 2006, 06:57 PM) ☐
>
> I suppose if what is more important to you then being honest, truthful and having integrity, you would rather have money, money and money, then I guess he has no choice...but, he never has to do anything he is "told" to do, unless he has sold his soul. He always has a choice.

Many of us have had that choice: live with Danny's blessing, or live with integrity. Some of us have chosen the path that Danny does not approve, and we are paying the price... and ohhh are we paying! John Knows this. We all choose that path we will take. John has chosen his.

Posted by: Clay May 17 2006, 06:14 PM

> QUOTE(Fran @ May 17 2006, 07:04 PM) ☐
>
> The six year old would be the one in greatest danger. She has no Daddy to be sent to, she lives with her Daddy right there at 3ABN. She is NOT safe with him in the house with her.
>
> There is a Danny Shelton, Jr in IL. Wonder if he is related to Danny Shelton, Sr?

so if the child is not safe, who is going to call child protective services? A rabbi once said that sometimes God answers prayer with a human voice... so while people are praying to God (who already knows what is really happening and the potential dangers), who will be the human used to answer the prayer?

Posted by: beartrap May 17 2006, 06:17 PM

> QUOTE(Clay @ May 17 2006, 07:14 PM) ☐
>
> so if the child is not safe, who is going to call child protective services? A rabbi once said that sometimes God answers prayer with a human voice... so while people are praying to God (who already knows what is really happening and the potential dangers), who will be the human used to > answer the prayer?

Here in Franklin county, things are not that simple when one is dealing with Danny. There are other factors I can't go into that also complicate this situation, rather incredibly.

Posted by: Clay May 17 2006, 06:26 PM

> QUOTE(beartrap @ May 17 2006, 07:17 PM) ☐
>
> Here in Franklin county, things are not that simple when one is dealing with Danny. There are other factors I can't go into that also complicate this situation, rather incredibly.

either someone believes the child is in danger and makes a call or not...

Posted by: beartrap May 17 2006, 06:31 PM

Clay, that has been done long ago. As I said, this is Franklin county and there are complications. There is money, politics, pleasure trips... "God save us from enemies who have something to gain, and friends who have something to lose."

Posted by: sonshineonme May 17 2006, 06:34 PM

> QUOTE(beartrap @ May 17 2006, 05:31 PM) ☐
>
> Clay, that has been done long ago. As I said, this is Franklin county and there are complications. There is money, politics, pleasure trips... "God save us from enemies who have something to gain, and friends who have something to lose."

Get Bill O'rielly involved! ☒

Posted by: beartrap May 17 2006, 06:41 PM

> QUOTE(sonshineonme @ May 17 2006, 06:34 PM) ☐
>
> Get Bill O'rielly involved! ☒

Never thought of that... but, not a bad idea.

> QUOTE(sister @ May 17 2006, 05:55 PM) ☐

> The Heart and Mind of a Man...
>
> "But there is no deception quite so serious as self-deception. And each time one turns a blind eye to something wrong, the cataracts on the eyes of the soul grow a little denser, until finally one can live in the midst of evil and even partake of it and yet see nothing wrong."
>
> The above quote is an astute observation when applied to the character of Danny Shelton. In his eyes he has partaken of no evil. All that he has received is his well deserved reward as "God's anointed". Sexual favors from other men's wives, his employees and prostitutes; he is entitled to have his needs fulfilled, isn't he? Skimming enormous amounts of cash from the ministry and lining his own pockets; God would not want him to curtailed his desires from lack of adequate funds, would He? Spreading falsehoods and accusing his "enemies" of being pathological liars; a man has to protect his position, doesn't he? And the rest of The Ten Commandments? Nothing more than suggestions in his private life; what more can God expect, when as a "god" in his own ministry, he is above the law.
>
> Was Danny's behavior always so evil? Did it begin long ago in his childhood, developing through his teenage years and into adulthood? Or was it a progression that evolved over the years of increasing power and wealth, since the founding of 3ABN?
>
> In a letter to Johann, Danny wrote that since Moses and David could get away with adultery and murder, so can he, since God has given him such a great task to perform. How can the conscience of a man become so hardened and unyielding to truth of Scripture? How can a self-professed Christian ever believe that God condones adultery and murder for those whom He has given a "great task to perform"? How can Danny think that God, like Tetzel — in the time of Martin Luther — selling indulgences from the Catholic church for a fee, would give him a permit for unlimited sin in exchange for doing His bidding? Can God deny His own character? Will He make void the sacrifice of His Son for all sinners, allowing Danny Shelton to be saved in his sins and not from his sins. I am sure we can agree that this type of licence has not been written on stone by the finger of God, but more likely forged in the Devil's workshop.
>
> I would suggest that we all pray for the salvation of Danny Shelton, Kenny Shelton, Tommy Shelton, Emma Lou Shelton, Tammy Chance and her husband, Hal and Mollie Steenson, ET Everett, Brenda Walsh, Walt Thompson and the others that have been involved in the falsehoods and the constant breaking of The Ten Commandments of God that have surrounded "the ministry" of 3ABN. As long as there is breath in their bodies, there is still the opportunity to repent and humble themselves before God, receiving the assurance of salvation through Jesus Christ our Lord. But each one will have to face the consequences of their actions. For many this may include incarceration for breaking both the laws of the nation and the Commandments of God. For others it will mean public humiliation.
>
> "For what shall it profit a man, if he shall gain the whole world, and lose his own soul?" Mark 8:36
> Stay tuned...

There is also the recently acquired replacement for Emma Lou Shelton to consider: Chris Shelton. As Kenny's new wife, I am sure that Chris also needs our prayers.

Posted by: Clay May 17 2006, 06:51 PM

> QUOTE(beartrap @ May 17 2006, 06:41 PM)
>
> Never thought of that... but, not a bad idea.
> There is also the recently acquired replacement for Emma Lou Shelton to consider: Chris Shelton.

> As Kenny's new wife, I am sure that Chris also needs our prayers.

Darius said something that is appropriate here.....

> QUOTE
>
> That is what they depend on, that you will just pray. They know that prayer does nothing because God does not need prayers to tell Him what is going on. As long as the people are praying the leaders can continue to prey, in whatever fashion they do it. Such corporate emotional abuse should not be tolerated in civilized society....

Posted by: Fran May 17 2006, 07:21 PM

> QUOTE(sister @ May 17 2006, 05:55 PM)
>
> The Heart and Mind of a Man...
>
> ...In a letter to Johann, Danny wrote that since Moses and David could get away with adultery and murder, so can he, since God has given him such a great task to perform. How can the conscience of a man become so hardened and unyielding to truth of Scripture? How can a self-professed Christian ever believe that God condones adultery and murder for those whom He has given a "great task to perform"? How can Danny think that God, like Tetzel — in the time of Martin Luther — selling indulgences from the Catholic church for a fee, would give him a permit for unlimited sin in exchange for doing His bidding? Can God deny His own character? Will He make void the sacrifice of His Son for all sinners, allowing Danny Shelton to be saved in his sins and not from his sins. I am sure we can agree that this type of licence has not been written on stone by the finger of God, but more likely forged in the Devil's workshop.
>
> I would suggest that we all pray for the salvation of Danny Shelton, Kenny Shelton, Tommy Shelton, Emma Lou Shelton, Tammy Chance and her husband, Hal and Mollie Steenson, ET Everett, Brenda Walsh, Walt Thompson and the others that have been involved in the falsehoods and the constant breaking of The Ten Commandments of God that have surrounded "the ministry" of 3ABN. As long as there is breath in their bodies, there is still the opportunity to repent and humble themselves before God, receiving the assurance of salvation through Jesus Christ our Lord. But each one will have to face the consequences of their actions. For many this may include incarceration for breaking both the laws of the nation and the Commandments of God. For others it will mean public humiliation.
>
> "For what shall it profit a man, if he shall gain the whole world, and lose his own soul?" Mark 8:36
> Stay tuned...

You mentioned murder. I have always wondered about the death of Kay, Danny's 1st wife, Melody's mother. Was she a hinderance to his "godly" motives. I heard she was secretly planning to leave him and Danny couldn't have that. I sure do hope that is not the case. It just makes me curious since he thought he was like David and Moses. Why would he mention Moses. Moses was specific to murder. Including the name of Moses makes me scared.

Posted by: Hersheys99 May 17 2006, 07:25 PM

> QUOTE
>
> There is also the recently acquired replacement for Emma Lou Shelton to consider: Chris Shelton. As Kenny's new wife, I am sure that Chris also needs our prayers.

Well she needs our prayers but she KNEW what she was getting into. She claimed to be a "prophetess from God" like Ellen White so she is just like them so she fits right in.

Posted by: beartrap May 17 2006, 07:37 PM

> QUOTE(Hersheys99 @ May 17 2006, 07:25 PM) ☐
>
> Well she needs our prayers but she KNEW what she was getting into. She claimed to be a "prophetess from God" like Ellen White so she is just like them so she fits right in.

You are right about that. She does fit in far too well. How sad.

> QUOTE
>
> That is what they depend on, that you will just pray. They know that prayer does nothing because God does not need prayers to tell Him what is going on. As long as the people are praying the leaders can continue to prey, in whatever fashion they do it. Such corporate emotional abuse should not be tolerated in civilized society....

Darius got it absolutely right!!!! The reliance on prayer alone is a fallacy. Amen to Darius' comment!!!

Posted by: 4reneyonly May 17 2006, 08:17 PM

RE: QUOTE: That is what they depend on, that you will just pray. They know that prayer does nothing because God does not need prayers to tell Him what is going on. As long as the people are praying the leaders can continue to prey, in whatever fashion they do it. Such corporate emotional abuse should not be tolerated in civilized society....

I agree with your point. In another posting where the addresses were given to write and complain, some of the very people calling for action claimed that writing these people would do no good. If everyone that responded to these post would even send a postcard or two stating their concerns in just a few words, then these folks will begin to see that we are serious about what we see happening. Ranting among ourselves serves no purpose. I am going to send mine tomorrow...You?

Finally, I still believe prayer CHANGES things. God knows all, the point is not to alert God. He's on His job. Are we on ours?

Posted by: beartrap May 17 2006, 08:23 PM

> QUOTE(4reneyonly @ May 17 2006, 09:17 PM)
>
> RE: QUOTE: I agree with your point. In another posting where the addresses were given to write and complain, some of the very people calling for action claimed that writing these people would do no good. If everyone that responded to these post would even send a postcard or two stating their concerns in just a few words, then these folks will begin to see that we are serious about what we see happening. Ranting among ourselves serves no purpose. I am going to send mine tomorrow...You?

Good on you! Send your card and have your say. Thats what its all about!

Posted by: 4reneyonly May 17 2006, 08:33 PM

I shall. The problem with people who claim to be be bothered by a situation like this and others in or out of the church is that no one wants to publically stand up and say STOP! It's easier to hide behind others in the pack and whine. This is why people like the 3ABN gang thrive, they know that no one will speak up directly, if at all. Their power comes from our silence. Pray that we get the courage to stand against this mess.

Posted by: seeshell May 17 2006, 08:38 PM

OK, I'll send 'em my line or two also.

Posted by: Johann May 17 2006, 08:49 PM

> QUOTE(seeshell @ May 18 2006, 03:38 AM)
>
> OK, I'll send 'em my line or two also.

See what happens if you write to danshelton@earthlink.net or

3abn@3abn.org

Posted by: seeshell May 17 2006, 09:22 PM

> QUOTE(Fran @ May 17 2006, 06:04 PM)
>
> The six year old would be the one in greatest danger. She has no Daddy to be sent to, she lives with her Daddy right there at 3ABN. She is NOT safe with him in the house with her.

Fran, I'm confused. Her daddy is at 3ABN? As in, her biological daddy? Have I missed something?

Posted by: princessdi May 17 2006, 10:52 PM

That is so very true.

> QUOTE(Clay @ May 17 2006, 05:51 PM) ☐
>
> Darius said something that is appropriate here.....
>
> That is what they depend on, that you will just pray. They know that prayer does nothing because God does not need prayers to tell Him what is going on. As long as the people are praying the leaders can continue to prey, in whatever fashion they do it. Such corporate emotional abuse should not be tolerated in civilized society....

Posted by: vonessa May 18 2006, 02:52 AM

> QUOTE(princessdi @ May 17 2006, 11:52 PM) ☐
>
> That is so very true.

I am horrified by how serious this situation is becoming. Moses did not commit adultery. He committed murder. Danny apparently said that if Moses can get away with it, so can he.

The sheer logic of that simple statement is enough to leave this girl shakin in her boots. If we are dealing with a murderer who killed his first wife as our sister Fran who knows more about this has clearly suggested, then this rises to a whole new level. We must pray for our brothers and sisters there, true, but has the time come to act? Should we call the police or are the Thompsonville finest in 3ABN's pockets too?

From our fine brothers and sisters who have risked a great deal to share their stories, I can tell that this situation goes a lot deeper than just 3ABN. Like they say, follow the money up the line. It's not too much of a stretch to look to that old gangland hideout just north of there. My stars - and I'm not just talking that redneck moonshine garbage. Like my mama always said, no matter how far a stream flows, it never cuts off from its source.

Posted by: Fran May 18 2006, 03:57 AM

> QUOTE(vonessa @ May 18 2006, 03:52 AM) ☐
>
> I am horrified by how serious this situation is becoming. Moses did not commit adultery. He > committed murder. Danny apparently said that if Moses can get away with it, so can he.

>
> The sheer logic of that simple statement is enough to leave this girl shakin in her boots. If we are dealing with a murderer who killed his first wife as our sister Fran who knows more about this has clearly suggested, then this rises to a whole new level. We must pray for our brothers and sisters there, true, but has the time come to act? Should we call the police or are the Thompsonville finest in 3ABN's pockets too?
>
> From our fine brothers and sisters who have risked a great deal to share their stories, I can tell that this situation goes a lot deeper than just 3ABN. Like they say, follow the money up the line. It's not too much of a stretch to look to that old gangland hideout just north of there. My stars - and I'm not just talking that redneck moonshine garbage. Like my mama always said, no matter how far a stream flows, it never cuts off from its source.

Please note: I did not say Danny killed his 1st wife. I just wonder why Moses was brought into the subject by Danny himself. Why would someone say something like that about murder? Does he feel he has the right to take a life and just walk away?.

I have not direct information as to the accident that killed Kay. Things just have me wondering.

Posted by: Johann May 18 2006, 03:59 AM

> QUOTE(vonessa @ May 18 2006, 10:52 AM)
>
> - - -
> We must pray for our brothers and sisters there, true, but has the time come to act? Should we call the police or are the Thompsonville finest in 3ABN's pockets too?
>
> - - - -

It is claimed that whatever was done in the past is outdated and forgotten. . . ?

Posted by: Fran May 18 2006, 04:07 AM

> QUOTE(seeshell @ May 17 2006, 10:22 PM)
>
> Fran, I'm confused. Her daddy is at 3ABN? As in, her biological daddy? Have I missed something?

Maybe she is living with her Daddy??????

Who knows?????? Danny??????

He's not talking. I wasn't there when she was conceived or when ahe was born, nor did I do a DNA test. However, when physical looks are passed around, you can usually see that the acorn doesn't fall far from the tree.

My information is that she could be the reason for the divorcing of Linda. You know, to keep things quiet. This could be what Linda was not to talk about??????

Posted by: Prisca May 18 2006, 04:33 AM

The Darius quote about prayer got me to thinking. Are we talking about ordinary prayer that simply lulls its prayer to sleep or imprecatory prayer? We are reading the Screwtape Letters in which such advice would fit in nicely. Just to pray and think that is all needed can be a lovely hallucination...but what about imprecatory prayer in which a story is told of a man who was trying to kill Christians. The Christians prayed, not for deliverance, but for God's righteousness to be revealed. The plane on which the man was traveling went down and he was killed. It was noted in the article that almost 90% of the Psalms were imprecatory prayers.

Posted by: Johann May 18 2006, 04:54 AM

> QUOTE(Fran @ May 18 2006, 11:57 AM) ☐
>
> Please note: I did not say Danny killed his 1st wife. I just wonder why Moses was brought into the subject by Danny himself. Why would someone say something like that about murder? Does he feel he has the right to take a life and just walk away?.
>
> I have not direct information as to the accident that killed Kay. Things just have me wondering.

It made me wonder when I got one message after another from Danny where he accused others of having done things it seemed clear he had done himself. It culminated when Danny wrote both to me and several others indicating that Dr. Arild Abrahamsen had killed his wife so he could be free to steal Linda from him.

Arild's wife, Solveig, died 4 months before he came to visit us at 3ABN. Ten years before she died she had a lung transplant, and she lived twice as long as the average lung transplant patient in Norway. Her parents have told me about the loving care with which he took care of Solveig through her final sufferings, and Arild tried all he could to save her life.

Then you could ask, how can a Danny Shelton suggest Arild killed his wife? Whose guilt is being transferred?

Why did Kay exclaim "Oh No!" the moment before she died? What was wrong with her car? Why does the police report seem to give false claims in connection with the accident?

While I am writing this I receive information that Linda has just received a warning from an authorative source indicating that she is in the same dangerous situation as Kay was more than 20 years ago.

Pray for Linda's safety and that the measures she takes are the right ones to protect her life.

I have warned Walt Thomson before, but he merely scorned.

Posted by: watchbird May 18 2006, 05:59 AM

> QUOTE(Johann @ May 18 2006, 04:54 AM) ☐
>
> It made me wonder when I got one message after another from Danny where he accused others of having done things it seemed clear he had done himself. It culminated when Danny wrote both to me and several others indicating that Dr. Arild Abrahamsen had killed his wife so he could be free to steal Linda from him.
>
> Arild's wife, Solveig, died 4 months before he came to visit us at 3ABN. Ten years before she died she had a lung transplant, and she lived twice as long as the average lung transplant patient in Norway. Her parents have told me about the loving care with which he took care of Solveig through her final sufferings, and Arild tried all he could to save her life.
>
> Then you could ask, how can a Danny Shelton suggest Arild killed his wife? Whose guilt is being transferred?
>
> Why did Kay exclaim "Oh No!" the moment before she died? What was wrong with her car? Why does the police report seem to give false claims in connection with the accident?
>
> While I am writing this I receive information that Linda has just received a warning from an authorative source indicating that she is in the same dangerous situation as Kay was more than 20 years ago.
>
> Pray for Linda's safety and that the measures she takes are the right ones to protect her life.
>
> I have warned Walt Thomson before, but he merely scorned.

Adding to your list of questions:

What about the police report? As I understand it, things that are usually noted in these reports include such things as skid marks on the pavement--for the natural impulse of any driver is to slam on the brakes so hard they tend to lock and do more skiding of the tires than stopping the car. If Kay had time to exclaim, "Oh No!" wouldn't she have had time to hit the brakes? Don't reflex actions work even faster than voice? Even if one only has seconds before impact there should have been some sign of such skid marks. Were any comments about this included on the official report?

And changing to another topic:

Why are so many in T'ville too afraid of Danny to be willing to tell the stories of their encounters with him for fear he would find out. What is the nature of the threats some have received from him? What do they know about how he has treated others who have talked? One can understand the timidity of those whose livelihood is dependent upon their employment at 3ABN and have no way of leaving. But what could it be that would be enough to cause such fear in the non-Adventist community which is closest to 3ABN?

And one final set:

What happened at St Louis in regard to Linda's car? Could there be any connection with this and the warning you say she has received now?

Posted by: gracetoyou May 18 2006, 07:00 AM

[quote name='Johann' date='May 18 2006, 05:54 AM' post='131222']
It made me wonder when I got one message after another from Danny where he accused others of having done things it seemed clear he had done himself. It culminated when Danny wrote both to me and several others indicating that Dr. Arild Abrahamsen had killed his wife so he could be free to steal Linda from him.

There is a quote in Thoughts from the Mount of Blessings, "He who is guilty of wrong is the first to suspect wrong. By condemning another, he is trying to conceal or excuse the evil of his own heart."
(I'm at work, so don't have the book in front of me to know the page number, but it is in the chapter on judging others.)

Posted by: Clay May 18 2006, 07:37 AM

> QUOTE(vonessa @ May 18 2006, 02:52 AM)
>
> I am horrified by how serious this situation is becoming. Moses did not commit adultery. He committed murder. Danny apparently said that if Moses can get away with it, so can he.
>
> The sheer logic of that simple statement is enough to leave this girl shakin in her boots. If we are dealing with a murderer who killed his first wife as our sister Fran who knows more about this has clearly suggested, then this rises to a whole new level. We must pray for our brothers and sisters there, true, but has the time come to act? Should we call the police or are the Thompsonville finest in 3ABN's pockets too?
>
> From our fine brothers and sisters who have risked a great deal to share their stories, I can tell that this situation goes a lot deeper than just 3ABN. Like they say, follow the money up the line. It's not too much of a stretch to look to that old gangland hideout just north of there. My stars - and I'm not just talking that redneck moonshine garbage. Like my mama always said, no matter how far a stream flows, it never cuts off from its source.

escalation based on speculation, what is happening here is similiar to the spin the Bush camp was saying about WMD. When they were done you thought that Saddam was ready to wipe out civilization as we knew it.... the thought that Mr. Shelton had something to do with the death of his first wife is speculation... if it was suspected that he did, then the police would have investigated it as such....

So now what I see happening is this discussion is speculation being treated as fact, when there are no facts to support the statements... It has been alluded that Mr. Shelton had dealing with prostitutes, molests children, had something to do with the death of his first wife, skims money from his ministry, is living like a king, and has said that if bible characters can get away with certain things, he can too.... what can you prove or is this just an attempt to build a case against Mr. Shelton....

Again... tinkle or get off the potty.... it didn't take this long to bring down President Nixon with watergate, and he was the president of the U.S., and could make you disappear if he wanted....

Posted by: Clay May 18 2006, 07:50 AM

DeNiro as Al Capone, talking to Ness (played by Costner) "You GOT Nothin!!!!"

I hope those three words are not prophetic....

Posted by: Uncle Sam May 18 2006, 08:06 AM

QUOTE(Clay @ May 18 2006, 06:50 AM)

DeNiro as Al Capone, talking to Ness (played by Costner) "You GOT Nothin!!!!"

I hope those three words are not prophetic....

I agree this seems to be getting out of hand. If anyone has proof about any of this lets get on with it.

If you do, I am sure there are some honest people that are in position to do something that you can go to. I don't have a dog in this fight. It is not about Danny or Linda, with all of this talk it is hurting the message of Christ getting out.

If Danny needs to step down than that is what needs to be done. This slandering Danny and Linda needs to stop. We are taking our sights off of Christ by getting involved with their mess. If legal things need to take place against Danny than do it! If not lets move on past this it is not helping anyone....

Posted by: Johann May 18 2006, 08:11 AM

> QUOTE(watchbird @ May 18 2006, 01:59 PM) ☐
>
> Adding to your list of questions:
>
> What about the police report? As I understand it, things that are usually noted in these reports include such things as skid marks on the pavement--for the natural impulse of any driver is to slam on the brakes so hard they tend to lock and do more skiding of the tires than stopping the car. If Kay had time to exclaim, "Oh No!" wouldn't she have had time to hit the brakes? Don't reflex actions work even faster than voice? Even if one only has seconds before impact there should have been some sign of such skid marks. Were any comments about this included on the official report?

Could there have been a mechanical failure? Why?

> QUOTE
>
> Why are so many in T'ville too afraid of Danny to be willing to tell the stories of their encounters with him for fear he would find out. What is the nature of the threats some have received from him? What do they know about how he has treated others who have talked? One can understand the timidity of those whose livelihood is dependent upon their employment at 3ABN and have no way of leaving. But what could it be that would be enough to cause such fear in the non-Adventist community which is closest to 3ABN?

As has been reported elsewhere anyone reporting is in danger of being fired. It is very difficult to sell a home at T'ville. Slander and threats make it difficult to get another job once you no longer are in accord with 3ABN.

I was quite impressed with 3ABN when I first arrived there. It was a surprise to me that I was told "They all hate us!" when I exclaimed that 3ABN must make an impact on the local community. Even Danny himself was fully aware of the hate towards him by the locals, but he expected persecution.

So I went out into the community to find the reason for this "hate." At some quarters I was told that if they all merely had the faith of Linda they would accept her religion. But it was difficult to swallow the falsehood and cheating that 3ABN was known for in the area.

I discovered the miracle stories is a joke among the locals. They seem to be the screen stories to cover up. . .

> QUOTE
>
> What happened at St Louis in regard to Linda's car? Could there be any connection with this and the warning you say she has received now?

One day as we were driving away from the General Conference meetings at St Louis last summer we noticed a fault in one of the tires. It seemed very strange that there could be such a cut in a new tire. Fortunately Linda stopped immediately and a female police came to our aid. We wondered who had done this to the tire while the car was parked very close to the convention center.

While we were there, Linda was being trailed by some women trying to get her to accept counselling at some remote mountain resort. Seems like the counselling sessions would last 4 hours a day. When Linda still did not accept their offer at the close of the second day, one of the ladies spilled the beans retorting if Linda did not realize that since Eve fell first it has always been the woman's fault when there is a breakup of a marriage. She needed counselling to understand this important truth! Was someone displeased at Linda for not accepting these "truths"? Was she being shown how dangerous life could be if she did not submit?

Another person could tell how his life has been in danger because the wheels on his car were tampered with. There seems to be some expert at tampering with cars following former 3ABN employees. Life can be dangerous. . . We must constantly depend on our Lord and Master for protection.

Posted by: Clay May 18 2006, 08:19 AM

> QUOTE(Johann @ May 18 2006, 08:11 AM) ☐
>
> Could there have been a mechanical failure? Why?
> As has been reported elsewhere anyone reporting is in danger of being fired. It is very difficult to sell a home at T'ville. Slander and threats make it difficult to get another job once you no longer are in accord with 3ABN.

Speculation? where is the proof? How do we know they were in danger of being fired?

> QUOTE
>
> I was quite impressed with 3ABN when I first arrived there. It was a surprise to me that I was told "They all hate us!" when I exclaimed that 3ABN must make an impact on the local community. Even Danny himself was fully aware of the hate towards him by the locals, but he expected persecution.
>
> So I went out into the community to find the reason for this "hate." At some quarters I was told that if they all merely had the faith of Linda they would accept her religion. But it was difficult to swallow the falsehood and cheating that 3ABN was known for in the area.

If that's the case, then there are many in that community who would not hesitate to do something about Mr. Shelton... have they been contacted?

> QUOTE
>
> I discovered the miracle stories is a joke among the locals. They seem to be the screen stories to cover up. . .

Some people laugh at adventists for following the writings of a woman who has been dead almost 100 yrs... so the point is what?

> QUOTE
>
> One day as we were driving away from the General Conference meetings at St Louis last summer we noticed a fault in one of the tires. It seemed very strange that there could be such a cut in a new tire. Fortunately Linda stopped immediately and a female police came to our aid. We wondered who had done this to the tire while the car was parked very close to the convention center.

If you didn't see anyone tampering you can't accuse someone of tampering.... escalation based on speculation.....

> QUOTE
>
> While we were there, Linda was being trailed by some women trying to get her to accept counselling at some remote mountain resort. Seems like the counselling sessions would last 4 hours a day. When Linda still did not accept their offer at the close of the second day, one of the ladies spilled the beans retorting if Linda did not realize that since Eve fell first it has always been the woman's fault when there is a breakup of a marriage. She needed counselling to understand this important truth! Was someone displeased at Linda for not accepting these "truths"? Was she being shown how dangerous life could be if she did not submit?

speculation.... is this a story that Linda has reported?

> QUOTE
>
> Another person could tell how his life has been in danger because the wheels on his car were tampered with. There seems to be some expert at tampering with cars following former 3ABN employees. Life can be dangerous. . . We must constantly depend on our Lord and Master for protection.

escalation based on speculation... can it be proven?

in the words of a member here that I think is appropriate.... "Show me the stigmata!"

Posted by: beartrap May 18 2006, 08:28 AM

Well now... heavy stuff! Pass me the fried meaty bits and a sodie pop. ☒ sn

Next week, campmeeting starts here at 3ABN. Any of you fine folk coming?

Posted by: Clay May 18 2006, 08:31 AM

> QUOTE(beartrap @ May 18 2006, 09:28 AM) ☐
>
> Well now... heavy stuff!
>
> Next week, campmeeting starts here at 3ABN. Any of you fine folk coming?

not at all.... it is escalation based on speculation... Show me the stigmata....

as for the 3abn campmeeting.... I don't do campmeetings...

Posted by: Johann May 18 2006, 08:37 AM

> QUOTE(Clay @ May 18 2006, 03:37 PM) ☐
>
> - - -
>
> Again... tinkle or get off the potty.... it didn't take this long to bring down President Nixon with watergate, and he was the president of the U.S., and could make you disappear if he wanted....

There is a vast difference. Those who brought Nixon down had great resources at their disposal. At the time when Danny Shelton brought Linda down he had worked for a long time preventing Linda from having any friends at close hand. I could tell you how that was manipulated. As soon as he got her down she was immediately offered help and friendship, but we discovered that every one of them had been conditioned to believe that Linda was a liar and a great sinner. At every turn of the road Linda discovered that Danny had been there before her preparing them for what he knew was coming. My wife and I discovered this had taken place before the doctor from Norway came anywhere near the picture. She was under such tremendous pressure that she had to come to us far away in Norway, but she did not come to us until after the divorce had taken place. This is why we knew, beyond doubt, that she was innocent, and that she was fighting a battle of devilish dimensions.

But you better stay on the safe side. Support the mighty against the weak. That is what the good old devil has been telling human beings for centuries.

Posted by: vonessa May 18 2006, 08:44 AM

> QUOTE(Clay @ May 18 2006, 09:31 AM) ☐
>
> not at all.... it is escalation based on speculation...

I might not be a smart woman but with an attempt to kill Johann by slashing his tires just enouf so he has an accident when he drives and following Linda and whatnot it is clear who the balanced people are and who the devil is with. With a campmeeting coming up for the 3ABN folk, might it not be wise to post a security detail and for all to inspect their cars very closely to insure that their deaths have not been planned?

I did not know what I was expecting when I came here but this conversation was so important that I became a member when I spotted it on a web search. Hopefully others will spot it and learn how to stop these bad things from happening. It is a sobering thought but as Fran said there is good reason to ask whether Danny murdered his former wife in cold blood. Maybe it was because she knew too much about the activities that sister and Johann have alluded to. Maybe sister or fran can write about what was like to see the long line of black cadillacs on a cold day carrying away the cold body of Danny's wife.

To say that this is as weak as the evidence Bush had for WMDs is to ignore the fact that the Holy Spirit is speaking through the warnings of sister, Johann, Fran, and the others who are dedicated Christians who would do nothing but tell the truth here today.

Escalation based on speculation indeed! They have said it is based on knowledge and that is what it is. I don't know about you but I take Fran and sister's warnings as gospel truth. We should all be very afriad. I know I had trouble sleeping last night.

Thank you to blacksda for the courage of alowing this important discusion without regard for anything but the truth. It has opened my eyes.

Posted by: Clay May 18 2006, 08:48 AM

> QUOTE(Johann @ May 18 2006, 09:37 AM)
>
> There is a vast difference. Those who brought Nixon down had great resources at their disposal. At the time when Danny Shelton brought Linda down he had worked for a long time preventing Linda from having any friends at close hand. I could tell you how that was manipulated. As soon as he got her down she was immediately offered help and friendship, but we discovered that every one of them had been conditioned to believe that Linda was a liar and a great sinner. At every turn of the road Linda discovered that Danny had been there before her preparing them for what he knew was coming. My wife and I discovered this had taken place before the doctor from Norway came anywhere near the picture. She was under such tremendous pressure that she had to come to us far away in Norway, but she did not come to us until after the divorce had taken place. This is why we knew, beyond doubt, that she was innocent, and that she was fighting a battle of devilish dimensions.
>
> But you better stay on the safe side. Support the mighty against the weak. That is what the good old devil has been telling human beings for centuries.

speculation.... we can assess facts, we cannot assess speculation.... It seems as though those who have an ax to grind with Mr. Shelton are being safe as opposed to taking the fight to him where he is....

I have listened to "the evidence" for weeks now, and all I see is innunedo and speculation.... show me the stigmata....

> QUOTE(vonessa @ May 18 2006, 09:44 AM)
>
> I might not be a smart woman but with an attempt to kill Johann by slashing his tires just enouf so he has an accident when he drives and following Linda and whatnot it is clear who the balanced people are and who the devil is with. With a campmeeting coming up for the 3ABN folk, might it not be wise to post a security detail and for all to inspect their cars very closely to insure that their deaths have not been planned?
>
> I did not know what I was expecting when I stumbled here but this conversation was so important that I became a member when I spotted it on a web search. Hopefully others will spot it and learn how to stop these bad things from happening. It is a sobering thought but as Fran said there is good reason to ask whether Danny murdered his former wife in cold blood. Maybe it was because she knew too much about the activities that sister and Johann have alluded to. We shall never know.
>
> To say that this is as weak as the evidence Bush had for WMDs is to ignore the fact that the Holy > Spirit is speaking through the warnings of sister, Johann, Fran, and the others who are dedicated Christians who would do nothing but tell the truth here today.

>
> Escalation based on speculation indeed! They have said it is based on knowledge and that is what it is. I don't know about you but I take Fran and sister's warnings as gospel truth. We should all be very afriad. I know I had trouble sleeping last night.

it is there testimony, we don't know that it is true, and if they did not see anyone tampering with their car, they cannot attribute it to someone at 3abn....

I do not know that the Holy Spirit is speaking through those that have written what they have, and that is a stretch to say the least...

Posted by: Denny May 18 2006, 08:48 AM

Since 'those in the know' cannot /will not produce evidence or are not prepared to do something about what you deem to be a bad situation then perhaps this sorry saga can come to a close? Its now turning into conspiracy theories the parties are not here to defend themselves and gossip about someone behind their back is till gossip

Posted by: beartrap May 18 2006, 08:49 AM

> QUOTE(Clay @ May 18 2006, 08:31 AM) ☐
>
> as for the 3abn campmeeting.... I don't do campmeetings...

Ahem! Don't do campmeetings? How distinctly unadventist of you. People will talk, Clay, they will say you are a heathen. The talk will escalate, and we will be passing fried meaty bits and sodie pop again. We will all be forced to sit around the cyber table and speculate as to your obvious hostility toward campmeetings.

Posted by: Clay May 18 2006, 08:59 AM

> QUOTE(beartrap @ May 18 2006, 09:49 AM) ☐
>
> Ahem! Don't do campmeetings? How distinctly unadventist of you. People will talk, Clay, they will say you are a heathen. The talk will escalate, and we will be passing fried meaty bits and sodie pop again. We will all be forced to sit around the cyber table and speculate as to your obvious hostility toward campmeetings.

its all been said before....lol and there are worse things in the world than being called a heathen.....

Posted by: beartrap May 18 2006, 09:02 AM

> QUOTE(Denny @ May 18 2006, 08:48 AM) ☐

> Since 'those in the know' cannot /will not produce evidence or are not prepared to do something about what you deem to be a bad situation then perhaps this sorry saga can come to a close? Its now turning into conspiracy theories the parties are not here to defend themselves and gossip about someone behind their back is till gossip

On the level where the facts support further investigation, there are things being done... not online in chat rooms, but in the areas of action where those actions can produce actual results... well, hopefully there will be results.

Posted by: vonessa May 18 2006, 09:02 AM

> QUOTE(Clay @ May 18 2006, 09:48 AM) ☐
>
> I do not know that the Holy Spirit is speaking through those that have written what they have, and that is a stretch to say the least...

Brother Clay, I do not know how old you are of what you may have experienced. All I know is that the truth is more simple than trying make up a story. There is no sane reason on God's green earth that Fran, Johann, and sister would blatantly lie about this. They have presented a conglamoration of evidence that cannot be dismissed.

They are in a position of weakness compared with the machinations of 3ABN, and until 3ABN comes and denies what has been written, then who should we believe? We have learned now that Danny has probably killed people, has stolen money, has cheated on his wife, and even now tries to silence people. No Christian people would just go around making that kind of stuff up because the Bible says not to bear false witness. If this stuff were not true, then these people would be just as guilty of breaking the commandments as they say Danny is and they might not make it to heaven.

Bottom line - nobody would risk heaven just to tell a good story. So they must be right about Danny.

Posted by: Clay May 18 2006, 09:05 AM

> QUOTE(vonessa @ May 18 2006, 10:02 AM) ☐
>
> Brother Clay, I do not know how old you are of what you may have experienced. All I know is that the truth is more simple than trying make up a story. There is no sane reason on God's green earth that Fran, Johann, and sister would blatantly lie about this. They have presented a conglamoration of evidence that cannot be dismissed.
>
> They are in a position of weakness compared with the machinations of 3ABN, and until 3ABN comes and denies what has been written, then who should we believe? We have learned now that Danny has probably killed people, has stolen money, has cheated on his wife, and even now tries to silence people. No Christian people would just go around making that kind of stuff up because the Bible says not to bear false witness. If this stuff were not true, then these people would be just as guilty of breaking the commandments as they say Danny is and they might not make it to heaven.
>
> Bottom line - nobody would risk heaven just to tell a good story. So they must be right about Danny.

I am 45 yrs old and I have learned not to believe everything I read... I have lived long enough to know everyone has an agenda.... and until it is proven, I do not know that Danny has killed anyone, nor molested anyone.... I do know that he divorced Linda on the grounds of spiritual adultery...and that there is no such animal.... thats all I know...

Now you may choose to believe all you read, thats your decision, but in the absence of evidence, I choose not to...

Posted by: Denny May 18 2006, 09:11 AM

> QUOTE(vonessa @ May 18 2006, 03:02 PM)
>
> Brother Clay, I do not know how old you are of what you may have experienced. All I know is that the truth is more simple than trying make up a story. There is no sane reason on God's green earth that Fran, Johann, and sister would blatantly lie about this. They have presented a conglamoration of evidence that cannot be dismissed.
>
> They are in a position of weakness compared with the machinations of 3ABN, and until 3ABN comes and denies what has been written, then who should we believe? We have learned now that Danny has probably killed people, has stolen money, has cheated on his wife, and even now tries to silence people. No Christian people would just go around making that kind of stuff up because the Bible says not to bear false witness. If this stuff were not true, then these people would be just as guilty of breaking the commandments as they say Danny is and they might not make it to heaven.
>
> Bottom line - nobody would risk heaven just to tell a good story. So they must be right about Danny.

Evidence is more than coming on here and making accusations anyone can do that. And just cos 3ABN or whoever chooses not to come on here - (there is no reason why they have to) does not give them carte blance to continue their writings. We have not learned anything about Danny beyond his divorce and new marriage which can be verified -all else is gossip. When one comes on here and writes it does not suddenly become Holy Writ when it hits the screen. They might be right about Danny and they might be wrong.

Posted by: Johann May 18 2006, 09:18 AM

> QUOTE(Clay @ May 18 2006, 04:19 PM)
>
> Speculation? where is the proof? How do we know they were in danger of being fired?

Because we have experienced it and those still at 3ABN have been told they'd be fired if they as much as talk with Linda.

> QUOTE
>
> If that's the case, then there are many in that community who would not hesitate to do something > about Mr. Shelton... have they been contacted?

The wheels are working, without the resources that opened Watergate. We are counting on you too, even if you loathe Camp Meetings!

> QUOTE
>
> Some people laugh at adventists for following the writings of a woman who has been dead almost 100 yrs... so the point is what?

Explain, I'm too greenn to get the comparison.

> QUOTE
>
> If you didn't see anyone tampering you can't accuse someone of tampering.... escalation based on speculation.....

You can take it or leave it. You are absolutely right. Escalation? Is is merely based on speculation if you discover another button has been cut off your shirt for several days in a row? Can you be certain it was done by ten different people who have no connection with each other?

> QUOTE
>
> speculation.... is this a story that Linda has reported?

No Linda has not reported this. I was there and of course we talked it over while it was going on. I saw those women and heard some of what they were saying. But I cannot prove it, if you want it in writing by someone else than me.

> QUOTE
>
> escalation based on speculation... can it be proven?

So, don't worry, if you feel your life has been in danger several times by driving in a car with the wheels wobbling. It could not be caused by the same person each time. That is mere escalation based on speculation, . . . and you cannot even prove it. It could be your hands are shaking from fear on the steering wheel.

> QUOTE
>
> in the words of a member here that I think is appropriate.... "Show me the stigmata!"

Absolutely right. To many stigmata stands for the wounds in the hands of Jesus Christ. If Christ has suffered, we must too, even if it escalates.

Posted by: watchbird May 18 2006, 09:24 AM

> QUOTE(beartrap @ May 18 2006, 09:02 AM) ☐
>
> On the level where the facts support further investigation, there are things being done... not online in chat rooms, but in the areas of action where those actions can produce actual results... well, hopefully there will be results.

This is a very key statement. And when things are "being done" there is only so much that can be said in public. At the same time it is necessary to say as much as possible in public for several reasons, not all of which can be revealed publicly.

> QUOTE(Clay @ May 18 2006, 09:05 AM) ☐
>
> I am 45 yrs old and I have learned not to believe everything I read... I have lived long enough to know everyone has an agenda.... and until it is proven, I do not know that Danny has killed anyone, nor molested anyone.... I do know that he divorced Linda on the grounds of spiritual adultery...and that there is no such animal.... thats all I know...
>
> Now you may choose to believe all you read, thats your decision, but in the absence of evidence, I choose not to...

You might be better advised to withhold judgement rather than choosing disbelief. "Evidence" is only useful in a court of law. If it is produced otherwise, it loses its value in a court of law when it is finally produced. And even if it were to be produced on BSDA, who would be able to know whether it was true or false? What you are hearing is testimony from first hand witnesses. What you are hearing in some cases in from actual participants. When Beartrap reports things that happens to someone who leaves 3ABN and seeks employment elsewhere. he is speaking as one who knows from first hand experience. First hand experience of two kinds--that which has happened to himself personally and that which he has personally witnessed happening to others. Those who call for quick action and for those involved to "do something" simply are not listening. Especially they are not listening to the sounds between the lines.

There is precious little "speculation" going on here. Even what is given in the form of speculation is seldom even close to that. What is being given is little glimpses through the cracks in the high board fence.

Those who are wise will listen well, not criticize those who don't "do something", and file everything away for future reference when at last the truth can be told.

Posted by: Clay May 18 2006, 09:30 AM

> QUOTE(watchbird @ May 18 2006, 10:24 AM) ☐
>
> This is a very key statement. And when things are "being done" there is only so much that can be said in public. At the same time it is necessary to say as much as possible in public for several reasons, not all of which can be revealed publicly.
> You might be better advised to withhold judgement rather than choosing disbelief. "Evidence" is only useful in a court of law. If it is produced otherwise, it loses its value in a court of law when it is finally produced. And even if it were to be produced on BSDA, who would be able to know whether it was true or false? What you are hearing is testimony from first hand witnesses. What you are hearing in some cases in from actual participants. When Beartrap reports things that happens to > someone who leaves 3ABN and seeks employment elsewhere. he is speaking as one who knows from first hand experience. First hand experience of two kinds--that which has happened to himself personally and that which he has personally witnessed happening to others. Those who call for quick action and for those involved to "do something" simply are not listening. Especially they are not listening to the sounds between the lines.

>
> There is precious little "speculation" going on here. Even what is given in the form of speculation is seldom even close to that. What is being given is little glimpses through the cracks in the high board fence.
>
> Those who are wise will listen well, not criticize those who don't "do something", and file everything away for future reference when at last the truth can be told.

so you say.... I have no way of knowing that anything that has been posted is "the truth." I do not know the players, and don't know if people are who they say they are.... this is the internet... You say its a glimpse, I say its a perception... and people's perceptions have been known to be flawed....

While this is not a court of law, there is no independent verification of any of this, save some of the info Fran posted about the finances... so until proven otherwise... it sounds like speculation....

show me the stigmata.....

Posted by: watchbird May 18 2006, 09:32 AM

> QUOTE(Denny @ May 18 2006, 09:11 AM)
>
> Evidence is more than coming on here and making accusations anyone can do that. And just cos 3ABN or whoever chooses not to come on here - (there is no reason why they have to) does not give them carte blance to continue their writings. We have not learned anything about Danny beyond his divorce and new marriage which can be verified -all else is gossip. When one comes on here and writes it does not suddenly become Holy Writ when it hits the screen. They might be right about Danny and they might be wrong.

I had thought that gossip involved a third or fourth party handling of information. When people come and tell their own stories--especially when they are verified by two or three or four witnesses--that would seem to me to have moved out of the realm of gossip and moved into the realm of personal testimony. Which is, as you know, even admissable as evidence in a court of law.

> QUOTE(Clay @ May 18 2006, 09:30 AM)
>
> so you say.... I have no way of knowing that anything that has been posted is "the truth." I do not know the players, and don't know if people are who they say they are.... this is the internet... You say its a glimpse, I say its a perception... and people's perceptions have been known to be flawed....
>
> While this is not a court of law, there is no independent verification of any of this, save some of the info Fran posted about the finances... so until proven otherwise... it sounds like speculation....
>
> show me the stigmata.....

Let's just hope that "the stigmata" doesn't turn out to be a body.

Posted by: PaperTigers May 18 2006, 09:34 AM

> QUOTE(Clay @ May 18 2006, 10:19 AM) ☐
>
> Speculation? where is the proof? How do we know they were in danger of being fired?

All I can say is that from personal experience.. We were STRONGLY encouraged to not speak to Linda, and even talking about Linda was something you did in hushed whispers.

Posted by: beartrap May 18 2006, 09:34 AM

I hate to see the waters muddied like this. There are legitimate concerns and issues, surrounding Danny, where there is ample evidence and immediate witness. Many of these matters walk the edge of what normal people can stomache, and I think that going beyond those in this type of forum can be counterproductive, even if one feels very strongly about them. For everything there is a time and a place. There are legitimate actions taking place to deal with legitimate issues, and sometimes going a little too deep, too soon can call into question the legitimacy of everything, reducing progress, and making it far more difficult to accomplish what needs to be accomplished.

Posted by: Clay May 18 2006, 09:34 AM

> QUOTE(watchbird @ May 18 2006, 10:32 AM) ☐
>
> I had thought that gossip involved a third or fourth party handling of information. When people come and tell their own stories--especially when they are verified by two or three or four witnesses--that would seem to me to have moved out of the realm of gossip and moved into the realm of personal testimony. Which is, as you know, even admissable as evidence in a court of law.
> Let's just hope that "the stigmata" doesn't turn out to be a body.

as I stated before... this is the internet... how do we know who we are really talking to? How do we know they are 1st hand testimony? How do we know that they themselves have not done what they have accused Mr. Shelton of? In the absence of full disclosure, we don't know.... so it falls into the area of speculation....

Posted by: Denny May 18 2006, 09:35 AM

> QUOTE(watchbird @ May 18 2006, 04:32 PM) ☐
>
> I had thought that gossip involved a third or fourth party handling of information. When people come and tell their own stories--especially when they are verified by two or three or four witnesses--that would seem to me to have moved out of the realm of gossip and moved into the realm of personal testimony. Which is, as you know, even admissable as evidence in a court of law.

> Let's just hope that "the stigmata" doesn't turn out to be a body.

But are these independant witnesses or people with an axe to grind against 3ABN? who knows I certainly don't. They could be Danny's mother it still does not make it Holy Writ when it hits my pc screen.

Posted by: beartrap May 18 2006, 09:36 AM

> QUOTE(PaperTigers @ May 18 2006, 09:34 AM)
>
> All I can say is that from personal experience.. We were STRONGLY encouraged to not speak to Linda, and even talking about Linda was something you did in hushed whispers.

Very true. Danny told me personally that anyone saying anything would be fired.

Posted by: Clay May 18 2006, 09:40 AM

> QUOTE(PaperTigers @ May 18 2006, 10:34 AM)
>
> All I can say is that from personal experience.. We were STRONGLY encouraged to not speak to Linda, and even talking about Linda was something you did in hushed whispers.

and you obeyed this recommendation why? Because of fear another child of God was mistreated... is that what you are saying?

> QUOTE(beartrap @ May 18 2006, 10:36 AM)
>
> Very true. Danny told me personally that anyone saying anything would be fired.

so rather than do the right thing, people opted to shun Linda? Is that what you are saying?

Posted by: Denny May 18 2006, 09:45 AM

If and I say if these stories are correct how do you feel doing nothing about such blatant wrong doing at the work place? We like to sing Stand like a brave (its in our hymnal) and Dare to be a Daniel but not saying its an easy thing to stand for what you believe is right but how you all feel now?

Posted by: beartrap May 18 2006, 09:45 AM

> QUOTE(Clay @ May 18 2006, 10:40 AM)

> and you obeyed this recommendation why? Because of fear another child of God was mistreated... is that what you are saying?
> so rather than do the right thing, people opted to shun Linda? Is that what you are saying?

Not all of us chose to obey and shun Linda.

Posted by: Johann May 18 2006, 09:52 AM

> QUOTE(Denny @ May 18 2006, 05:11 PM) ☐
>
> Evidence is more than coming on here and making accusations anyone can do that. And just cos 3ABN or whoever chooses not to come on here - (there is no reason why they have to) does not give them carte blance to continue their writings. We have not learned anything about Danny beyond his divorce and new marriage which can be verified -all else is gossip. When one comes on here and writes it does not suddenly become Holy Writ when it hits the screen. They might be right about Danny and they might be wrong.

Denny, when you hear someone insisting on you having robbed the bank in a town 50 miles away while you were still glued to you potty, will you believe every word that person says ever after as Holy Writ? Is nobody permitted to deffend you, stating they saw you on your potty?

Well, that was the wrong illustration I used, because I want to tell you something else. My wife and I were with Linda, partly in person, partly in constant communication by e-mail and phone, and also with several of those people who seem to have devoted their lives to make hers impossible just to please the man who tried to prove she had done things we knew from own experieced that she could never have done - because we were present. We followed how he has been trailing her ever since the divorce, making her life impossible, becaus he is using the same methods on her as he does with the rest of us. He calls people all over the world and tells them his lies to prevent her from getting anywhere ahead.

I have nothing to gain from this personally. I only want to follow in the footsteps of my Lord Jesus Christ so that I can be of help to those who are bruised and under threats. Just read the contract 3ABN forced Linda to sign. You will find it on her web page. She is not permitted to defend herself. Who, then, should do it? Why not an honest person, like yourself?

Posted by: beartrap May 18 2006, 09:54 AM

> QUOTE(Johann @ May 18 2006, 10:52 AM) ☐
>
> Denny, when you hear someone insisting on you having robbed the bank in a town 50 miles away while you were still glued to you potty, will you believe every word that person says ever after as Holy Writ? Is nobody permitted to deffend you, stating they saw you on your potty?

☒ ☒ ☒ ☒ rofl

Posted by: Clay May 18 2006, 09:57 AM

> QUOTE(Johann @ May 18 2006, 09:52 AM) ☐
>
> Denny, when you hear someone insisting on you having robbed the bank in a town 50 miles away while you were still glued to you potty, will you believe every word that person says ever after as Holy Writ? Is nobody permitted to deffend you, stating they saw you on your potty?
>
> Well, that was the wrong illustration I used, because I want to tell you something else. My wife and I were with Linda, partly in person, partly in constant communication by e-mail and phone, and also with several of those people who seem to have devoted their lives to make hers impossible just to please the man who tried to prove she had done things we knew from own experieced that she could never have done - because we were present. We followed how he has been trailing her ever since the divorce, making her life impossible, becaus he is using the same methods on her as he does with the rest of us. He calls people all over the world and tells them his lies to prevent her from getting anywhere ahead.
>
> I have nothing to gain from this personally. I only want to follow in the footsteps of my Lord Jesus Christ so that I can be of help to those who are bruised and under threats. Just read the contract 3ABN forced Linda to sign. You will find it on her web page. She is not permitted to defend herself. Who, then, should do it? Why not an honest person, like yourself?

being a supporter of Linda is significantly different than wanting to bring down Danny.... that is my issue.... we all agree that she was wronged, that the grounds for divorce were bogus, and the settlement she signed was unfair, but to suggest that Danny is a molester and a murderer.... that is a bit much..... Linda can be supported and affirmed without all the other....

Posted by: vonessa May 18 2006, 10:06 AM

> QUOTE(Johann @ May 18 2006, 10:52 AM) ☐
>
> I have nothing to gain from this personally. I only want to follow in the footsteps of my Lord Jesus Christ so that I can be of help to those who are bruised and under threats.

Thank you brother Johann for these words of wisdom. Your honesty and openness in coming here to talk about what has happened is shining the light on 3ABNs dungeons.

All this discusion which has beneath it a fear of being sued for slander or whatnot is irrelevant. Unless Danny can prove otherwise that he did not kill his first wife we should probably believe that Fran and Johann are correct that Danny is a murderer. They have also said that he is a child molestor, adulterer, liar, thief, conman, burglar, vandal, and almost every other crime in the book. Almost like Hitler, excpet Hitler did it a lot more times. If Danny has not done all this then obviously blacksda and the people who have provided this information can later apologize. But until then, we should take the safer route and warn as many people as possible.

Also the Bible says that where there are two Christian witnesses, then the fact is established. Here we have Fran, Johann, sister, and others who witnessed it. Therefore they have won in Heaven's courtroom, amen? When we see the wrongs that our brothers and sisters like Danny commit, we are to take them to heaven's courtroom (the church) and there prosecute them before God and the people. I know this may not be the popular way today when almost anything goes, but if we were to take it even more seriously, we would have to consider carrying out the Biblical penalties for crims against humanity and God. The formal organized Adventist church does not believe what the Bible says about how to punish evil, but we are called to do more about it than simply talk - we must walk the walk all the way and try him before the court of Christ and the church.

The Lord can speak through dreams or impressions and those should not be ignored. Neither should thoughts such as these individuals have expressed for they have deep significance and they are true. The fact that they actually witnessed these things, including murder attempts, with physicality adds another dimension for those who are weaker who require both faith and sight. But those who are pure can go based on faith that Danny did these things alone based on the word of testimony and without the need for worldly evidence.

Perhaps the ludicrosity of the spiritual adultery statement was good because it got the wheels turning so people could have the oppertunity to remember all of the other things Danny had done. If he had not divorced his wife, most likely his murdering tendansies would have been ignored. Most likely Danny will not be going to heaven unless he repents of his evil ways, and those who have brought his deeds to light will get stars in their crown for all the innocent souls they have saved through being right.

Posted by: beartrap May 18 2006, 10:11 AM

> QUOTE(Clay @ May 18 2006, 10:57 AM) ☐
>
> being a supporter of Linda is significantly different than wanting to bring down Danny.... that is my issue.... we all agree that she was wronged, that the grounds for divorce were bogus, and the settlement she signed was unfair, but to suggest that Danny is a molester and a murderer.... that is a bit much..... Linda can be supported and affirmed without all the other....

Linda is high profile and as such her situation attracts attention. There are many little people who fly under the public's radar who have been viciously mauled by the same person. Focussing on one situation, to the exclusion of all the others is wrong. I agree that there are lines we shouldn't be crossing in our discourse here, but to avoid any treatment for the bone cancer because it is not visible like the skin cancer is wrong. The invisible cancer is far more damaging than the kind you can see.

Posted by: Clay May 18 2006, 10:15 AM

> QUOTE(vonessa @ May 18 2006, 10:06 AM) ☐
>
> All this discusion which has beneath it a fear of being sued for slander or whatnot is irrelevant. Unless Danny can prove otherwise that he did not kill his first wife we should probably believe that Fran and Johann are correct that Danny is a murderer. They have also said that he is a child molestor, adulterer, liar, thief, conman, burglar, vandal, and almost every other crime in the book. Almost like Hitler, excpet Hitler did it a lot more times. If Danny has not done all this then obviously blacksda and the people who have provided this information can later apologize. But until then, we should take the safer route.
>
> Also the Bible says that where there are two Christian witnesses, then the fact is established. Here we have Fran, Johann, sister, and others who witnessed it. Therefore they have won in Heaven's > courtroom, amen? When we see the wrongs that our brothers and sisters like Danny commit, we are to take them to heaven's courtroom (the church) and there prosecute them before God and the people. I know this may not be the popular way today when almost anything goes, but if we were to take it even more seriously, we would have to consider carrying out the Biblical penalties for crims against humanity and God. The formal organized Adventist church does not believe what the Bible says about how to punish evil, but we are called to do more about it than simply talk - we must walk the walk all the way and try him before the court of Christ and the church.

>
> Perhaps the ludicrosity of the spiritual adultery statement was good because it got the wheels turning so people could have the oppertunity to remember all of the other things Danny had done. If he had not divorced his wife, most likely his murdering tendansies would have been ignored. Most likely Danny will not be going to heaven unless he repents of his evil ways, and those who have brought his deeds to light will get stars in their crown for all the innocent souls they have saved through being right.

are you serious? you cannot be serious? until Mr. Shelton proves that he is not a murderer then we are to believe he is? unbelievable....You have reached a conclusion that makes NO sense...and now Danny has murdering tendencies..... mercy....I don't know where you are from... but here in the U.S. a person is innocent until proven guilty... and the testimony here is NOT proof.....

Posted by: Denny May 18 2006, 10:18 AM

Vonessa in our society the onus is on the accuser to prove the accused did what he she did not the other way round. Coming on an internet site and typing words on a screen under an assumed identity does not constitue being a good witness one would need more evidence than that. For example I cannot go to my church with other church members and make accusations that another member is say a drug dealer without solid evidence, no matter how many of us say it.

Posted by: PaperTigers May 18 2006, 10:23 AM

> QUOTE(Clay @ May 18 2006, 11:40 AM)
>
> and you obeyed this recommendation why? Because of fear another child of God was mistreated... > is that what you are saying?
> so rather than do the right thing, people opted to shun Linda? Is that what you are saying?

No, I didn't really know Linda, nor did I really talk to her before it happened.. so I had no reason to stay in contact with her. But that doesn't mean that looking back I believe what was done to her was right.

Should I have contacted her anyway... probably I should have.. unfortunately hindsight is always 20/20, but you don't always have that clear vision when you are in the situation.

Posted by: Clay May 18 2006, 10:23 AM

> QUOTE(watchbird @ May 18 2006, 10:32 AM)
>
> I had thought that gossip involved a third or fourth party handling of information. When people come and tell their own stories--especially when they are verified by two or three or four witnesses--that would seem to me to have moved out of the realm of gossip and moved into the realm of personal testimony. Which is, as you know, even admissable as evidence in a court of law.

> Let's just hope that "the stigmata" doesn't turn out to be a body.

we don't know the identities of the players so we don't know how legit the testimony is.... "doesn't turn out to be a body?" are you serious? I think all this speculation about Danny being a murderer is really hurting the legitimate issues that need to be dealt with at 3abn.....

Posted by: beartrap May 18 2006, 10:25 AM

There are lots of reasons for people to be afraid of Danny, and I would know that more than most people ever will from personal experience. But, for God's sake we need to be careful with our words and attitudes to remain balanced. "Who fights monsters should beware lest they therby become a monster. And if you gaze long into the abyss, the abyss gazes also into you."

Posted by: Clay May 18 2006, 10:25 AM

> QUOTE(PaperTigers @ May 18 2006, 11:23 AM) ☐
>
> No, I didn't really know Linda, nor did I really talk to her before it happened.. so I had no reason to stay in contact with her. But that doesn't mean that looking back I believe what was done to her was right.
>
> Should I have contacted her anyway... probably I should have.. unfortunately hindsight is always 20/20, but you don't always have that clear vision when you are in the situation.

thank you for your honesty regarding that situation...

Posted by: beartrap May 18 2006, 10:27 AM

> QUOTE(Clay @ May 18 2006, 11:23 AM) ☐
>
> we don't know the identities of the players so we don't know how legit the testimony is.... "doesn't turn out to be a body?" are you serious? I think all this speculation about Danny being a murderer is really hurting the legitimate issues that need to be dealt with at 3abn.....

Posted by: Clay May 18 2006, 10:28 AM

> QUOTE(beartrap @ May 18 2006, 11:25 AM) ☐
>
> There are lots of reasons for people to be afraid of Danny, and I would know that more than most people ever will from personal experience. But, for God's sake we need to be careful with our words and attitudes to remain balanced. "Who fights monsters should beware lest they therby become a monster. And if you gaze long into the abyss, the abyss gazes also into you."

there is no reason to be afraid of Danny.... The Creator is bigger and badder than Danny ever will be... so who ya gonna trust? Jesus said dont worry about the one who can kill the body, you need to be worried about the one who can kill body and soul....

Posted by: calvin May 18 2006, 10:31 AM

The practices of 3ABN merit discuss because they are such a public institution in the Adventist church. But when you make allegations against Danny Shelton of murder, child molestations, etc that borders on slander. I have some personal problem with that and concerned that I am put myself and the management of BlackSDA at risk if this continues unabated. We are all going to take a break from this topic for awhile until I and the management staff decide what is the best course of action to take concerning this subject.

Posted by: calvin May 20 2006, 06:08 PM

Prostitution, murder, and child molestation are off limits. These are very serious allegations; I would rather error on the side of caution than for BSDA to be the conduit for falsely accusing Danny of these charges.

The principles in the 3ABN saga have agreed that before there are any further admissions of the off limit charges noted above that they will demonstrate the validity of it to me. In other words they got to show me their hand. Preferably, there should a public record or source to support the allegations. If your sources are private, you will still need to provide enough to overcome my reasonable doubt. This applies to any other allegations that I deem unwarranted or too sneaky for my taste.

Everyone will have to play nice and abide by these guidelines. They will be enforced. The consequences could be moderation/reviewing of members messages before posting, banning members, or permanently closing the 3ABN topics.

Posted by: sister May 20 2006, 10:15 PM

"The Televangelist", Part 6...

Turning on my computer, I scroll down through the pages of "The Televangelist". I have been reading about his wife, a certain paragraph catches my attention and I stop to read:

"The months went by, and the televangelist tenaciously kept up surveillance and harassment on his ex-wife and those who supported her. He spread stories about the foreign doctor, insinuating that he had murdered his wife who died following a lung transplant not long before the current fiasco began. He spread stories about the foreign pastor who had stood up for his wife. He claimed that this pastor's wife had engaged in many extramarital affairs, and that the pastor was a pathological liar. He called him a "spiritual idiot." He threatened his ex-wife, the pastor, and many others with litigation if they tried to say anything that would expose him. He had vast financial and legal resources that could withstand years of legal battle, whereas they did not. Guilt and innocence aside, in the end he could ruin them financially."

"Desperate times, demand desperate measures!" Danny looks up at Mollie inquisitively as she enters his office and wonders if she has spoken the preceding statement or if it is just the echoing of his own thoughts playing across his mind, like a leaf being snatched up by an invisible finger of wind, sent spinning and dancing in midair. Once more Danny looks up at Mollie...

* * * * *

Have you ever watched a cat that has captured a mouse continue to "play" with it? The cat proudly saunters in through the door way and deposits what appears to be a dead mouse, at your feet. If you resist the urge to jump up on the kitchen table and start screaming, you will notice that the mouse is still alive—if you consider being scared out of your wits, threatened and harassed being alive—and then cat begins to resume "play" with the mouse. A furry paw, with claws retracted, give the mouse a little push. In silence eyes glued on it's victim, the perpetrator watches for every indication of any possible movement that could lead to escape. The other paw gives a light tap that sends the mouse into a spin, with frenzied movement it desperately leaps aside in an attempt to escape its captors grasp. This activates the claws. The mouse is skillfully retrieved and the game begins again. This scenario continues until one of two things happen: overcome by fear the mouse dies, ending the game or you, willing to risk cat scratch fever, intervene rescuing the victim. From a human perspective this seems a cruel and devilish game. It is difficult to believe that your loving, beautiful kitty—who you were lovingly stroking as she lay purring in your lap—could be the same creature that is capable of such despicable actions. Now translate this same scenario to human beings.

"The standard clinical test for psychopathy, Robert Hare's PCL-R, evaluates 20 personality traits overall, but a subset of eight traits defines what he calls the "corporate psychopath" — the nonviolent person prone to the "selfish, callous, and remorseless use of others." What environment is conducive for the attributes of a "corporate psychopath" to combine with those of a "charismatic psychopath"? "Charismatic Psychopaths are charming, attractive liars. They are usually gifted at some talent or another, and they use it to their advantage in manipulating others. They are usually fast-talkers, and possess an almost demonic ability to persuade others out of everything they own, even their lives. Leaders of religious sects or cults, for example, might be psychopaths... often they come to believe in their own fictions. They are irresistible." Unfortunately, independent ministries, without external accountability, can become the ideal environment for this type of individual to prosper.

For God, the motives of a man's heart and the intent of his thoughts are as damning as the execution of his purposed actions. For most Christians, the very thought of certain acts is a foreign territory, upon whose borders they do not even allow ourselves to linger, let alone enter into habitation. This locality is within the realm of Satan and his minions. It is a strange and terrible world, shrouded in darkness and depravity of the soul. But to a psychopath, this is all too familiar territory and he has no fear or is he hindered by conscience when treading this path. To what depths must the human heart descend in order to convince oneself continual harassment, threats and remorseless use of others are a justifiable means to reach any goal?

* * * * *

A call goes forth for prayers for Linda and her children. Individuals kneel in prayer, beseeching the Lord to provide a hedge of protection about this woman of faith. They claim the promises of God and know in their hearts that His Word will not return to them void of His Power. Linda has already suffered greatly through the falsehoods and harassment heaped upon her by a controlling ex-husband. The past few years have been a living nightmare of trumped up accusations, threats and harassment. Like the mouse, she has been batted to and fro by the paws of the cat. But unlike the mouse, she has an advocate willing to step in and save her. Jesus Christ, who bears the scars that prove His right to claim her as his very own and stand with her, shielding her with his own body, in the midst of the abuse that she has suffered.

Stay tuned for Part 7 of "The Televangelist"...

Posted by: vonessa May 20 2006, 11:31 PM

I am so blessed to see that this has been opend up so sister can continue to write these words of grace. The facts involving forbidden areas have been established, cannot be gone against. They are sealed in ice. Each page view is a separate instance of truth being revealed 24/7. Thank you for giving us this information for free. You could probably make a lot of money if you charged a quarter for each issue of the story, or maybe 3abn would claim royalties. ha ha What a hot mess!

I told some people at potluck about the information here and they said i was crazy. Well, hopefully they will learn if they read back through these pages and don't just start with the latest.

As I have said before, I believe that what sister has written is the truth. I had a sister say to me this week taht she had a dream about something that was going to happen in her job and it came true. That was one kind of truth, but not as strong as this. I may or may not have believed what my sister had told me before it actually came true. It turned out to be true, so it was a word of truth coming to her in a dream. If a dream can be a righteous word, then how much more these posts by sister and others. Why should I not believe them? No, it is true and sealed. I need no so-called evidence that a jurie would need to believe words. I have their word, and that is good enough for me.

Posted by: HUGGINS130 May 21 2006, 01:09 AM lurk mode on!...

drama mode on! please resume our regularly scheduled programming!

Posted by: sister May 21 2006, 05:41 AM

> QUOTE(vonessa @ May 21 2006, 12:31 AM)
>
> I am so blessed to see that this has been opend up so sister can continue to write these words of grace. The facts involving forbidden areas have been established, cannot be gone against. They are sealed in ice. Each page view is a separate instance of truth being revealed 24/7. Thank you for giving us this information for free. You could probably make a lot of money if you charged a quarter for each issue of the story, or maybe 3abn would claim royalties. ha ha What a hot mess! I told some people at potluck about the information here and they said i was crazy. Well, hopefully they will learn if they read back through these pages and don't just start with the latest.
>
> As I have said before, I believe that what sister has written is the truth. I had a sister say to me this week taht she had a dream about something that was going to happen in her job and it came true. That was one kind of truth, but not as strong as this. I may or may not have believed what my sister had told me before it actually came true. It turned out to be true, so it was a word of truth coming to her in a dream. If a dream can be a righteous word, then how much more these posts by sister and others. Why should I not believe them? No, it is true and sealed. I need no so-called evidence that a jurie would need to believe words. I have their word, and that is good enough for me.

Vonessa, thank you for your encouragement, but my words are not written in stone by God nor do they come from direct inspiration. I only try to report what I know from experiences at 3ABN---no more no less. Please keep this in mind as a foundation as you read the posts in this or any other thread: No one posting here is a prophet, everyone has their own spin based upon their experience. This is just a small disclaimer as we proceed posting with the opening of this thread.

Sister

Posted by: vonessa May 21 2006, 09:15 AM

> QUOTE(sister @ May 21 2006, 06:41 AM) ☐
>
> For God, the motives of a man's heart and the intent of his thoughts are as damning as the execution of his purposed actions. For most Christians, the very thought of certain acts is a foreign territory, upon whose borders they do not even allow ourselves to linger, let alone enter into habitation. This locality is within the realm of Satan and his minions. It is a strange and terrible world, shrouded in darkness and depravity of the soul. But to a psychopath, this is all too familiar territory and he has no fear or is he hindered by conscience when treading this path. To what depths must the human heart descend in order to convince oneself continual harassment, threats and remorseless use of others are a justifiable means to reach any goal?

Thank you sister for clairifying. I do not believe that you are a prophet in the classical sense, but I do believe that you are providing us with vital truths for these times. You are telling forth about something very serious. Let those who have ears let them hear what you have to say because you are telling the truth in the conglomeration of things that you have set forth. There is no reason to doubt a single word you have said, so please do not minimize yourself in this way. As I review your words, it is sometimes painful, sometimes fascinating to read how the devil has been leading in the life of Danny but these are things that all should know and it has taken someone with your courage to make them known.

From what you have said in your most recent post, he has entered a very dark realm. Let us not forget to pray that he too might experience the joys of salvation before it is too late. Once he returns from the darkness and is restored with the light, what he tells us then might be a warning to prevent others from following his path. If he does not return, we might expect to read his story in its greater entirety as we inspect his record during the millennium.

But sister, please continue on so we can hear the additional truths that you will present to us.

Posted by: calvin May 21 2006, 12:55 PM

Okay, so we have all this stuff on Danny. So where is Linda in this saga? It is hard for me to believe she is as pure as the fresh driven snow. Didn't she know of the cash skimming? Did she not benefit from all the kingly trappings? Did she ever say a word to stand for right? Come on, can't be all about Danny, they where running the ministry together. Do all the Linda sympathizers have blinders on?

Posted by: gracetoyou May 21 2006, 02:07 PM

> QUOTE(calvin @ May 21 2006, 01:55 PM) ☐
>
> Okay, so we have all this stuff on Danny. So where is Linda in this saga? It is hard for me to believe she is as pure as the fresh driven snow. Didn't she know of the cash skimming? Did she not benefit from all the kingly trappings? Did she ever say a word to stand for right? Come on, can't be all about Danny, they where running the ministry together. Do all the Linda sympathizers have blinders on?

I've been wondering that myself about how much did Linda know about Danny's philandering, money skimming, etc. Was she totally in the dark and eventually found out before her ouster? Did she not know until after her dismissal? How long did she buy in to the "Danny is God's mouthpiece" line? Maybe she was so involved with her son Nathan and responsibilities at 3abn that much of Danny's shenanigans were not noticed.

I'm glad Calvin has reopened this thread to allow those in the know to enlighten the readers as to the true situation with Linda and at 3abn. I had heard the rumors about Linda and since I heard nothing from her side, I just assumed they were true. She really needs her side to be heard. Thank God for sister, beartrap, PaperTiger and others who are speaking out.

Just came across this quote in the Spirit of Prophecy, Manuscript Releases, vol. 16, p.1,3-
"Those who walk with God are prepared to call wrongdoing by its right name. ...Those who discern unChristlike traits in professed Christians occupying positions of responsibility must use great plainness of speech in pointing out these evils, instead of apparently continuing in fellowship with erring men because they are standing in high places...

Some will need to be watched lest their natural propensities overrule, causing them to manifest self instead of the Christlikeness that should always be prominent. When such persons labor not in accordance with the will and way of God, when in business transactions they fail of elevating the gospel standard, their associates are not to keep silent; they are to strive to change the evil lest they become co-workers in that which will do great injury to the cause and work of God....

To sustain by silence a work that God cannot approve is to abet Satan's work, and this results in the loss of souls. No one should be at ease until he has done all that it is possible for him to do to counterwork evil.

Posted by: summertime May 21 2006, 04:00 PM

> QUOTE(gracetoyou @ May 21 2006, 03:07 PM)
>
> I've been wondering that myself. How much did Linda know about Danny's philandering, money skimming, etc. Was she totally in the dark and eventually found out before her ouster? Did she not know until after her dismissal? How long did she buy in to the "Danny is God's mouthpiece" line? Maybe she was so involved with her son Nathan and responsibilities at 3abn that much of Danny's shenanigans were not noticed.

I will go along with the wonderings of whether Linda knew at least some of the dishonest things that have gone on over the years. How could she not have wondered why some of the extravagant spending was going on. I do remember that Danny said that his wife feared the horses and didn't want anything to do with them. But she must have lived in the big house, flown in the jet planes to the destinations where the 3ABN saga was going to be told over and over again. She did believe in some of the miracles that happened when 3ABN was just getting started. She told of at least one of them when she was interviewed on C/A. At times, on her cooking demonstrations she spoke of his likes and dislikes regarding onions and other things. So there was a husband/wife relationship. I did question some of these things before the firing of Linda occurred. And maybe she does know something about the 'cooking of the books' WHen I wrote to ask them both about these things, I was told that he handled the financial end and she was more into the production end of programming and never the twain met. Could it be (and I am surmising) that Linda wanted these things to stop and wanted to be more honest with God, and that was when her usefullness to Danny began to minimize. There is a reason why her mouth was shut by the contract. She had to know some of the things that he did not want told --they would only shut the mouths of the people/persons who have knowledge and could tell things that could harm the dishonest actions of Danny and 3ABN. So yes, Calvin, a smart lady like Linda must have been aware of something that was going on. I have been told that she was asking that some of the budding speakers and managers that were coming onto 3ABN be fired for some reason. This knowledge came from a meeting of minds where 'big contributors' of 3ABN and the church had gathered to attend a very important gathering of these persons. Instead of Lindaa's wishes being honored, the new 'arrivals' on 3ABN are advancing and Linda is out of the picture and her lips have been sealed so she can not speak about it. At this same meeting of the minds these 'contributors' agreed that his remarriage to another wife was a big mistake.

Maybe Linda has been left to suffer their demonic actions because she was a part of some of these things. --- when the devil went to work to further his evil work, perhaps she would have nothing to do with the continuance of the actions that were enveloping the whole of what had been a chosen work of God. I believe that she has stated that she has learned to trust in God the hard way--maybe God is not finished with her yet. Perhaps, at heart she is an honest lady, and wants to work for the Lord, He has allowed this great calamity to take place in her life because He wants to speak to her heart and give her a greater work to do for Him. I know that she has been a blessing to me. I believe that many people have suffered to polish their characters, so that the Lord can use them. Because of the contract, Linda may be aware of some of these improprieties, but until the contract is expired, she must be quiet. I hope that no harm comes to her and we really need to pray that whateever dealings are being carried forth anywhere where God has a work to be done, that the truth will all come out, and the slate marked clean for everybody's sake.

Posted by: Clay May 21 2006, 05:17 PM

> QUOTE(calvin @ May 21 2006, 12:55 PM) ☐
>
> Okay, so we have all this stuff on Danny. So where is Linda in this saga? It is hard for me to believe she is as pure as the fresh driven snow. Didn't she know of the cash skimming? Did she not benefit from all the kingly trappings? Did she ever say a word to stand for right? Come on, can't be all about Danny, they where running the ministry together. Do all the Linda sympathizers have blinders on?

good question Calvin.... I suspect she may have known about some of the things, ignorant of others.... but as you say, she was a part of the ministry and lived the lifestyle Mr. Shelton lived... that had to be financed by someone... Additionally what was the gag order for? To keep her from telling what?

Posted by: Fran May 21 2006, 07:59 PM

> QUOTE(Clay @ May 21 2006, 06:17 PM) ☐
>
> good question Calvin.... I suspect she may have known about some of the things, ignorant of others.... but as you say, she was a part of the ministry and lived the lifestyle Mr. Shelton lived... that had to be financed by someone... Additionally what was the gag order for? To keep her from telling what?

Hi, my real name is Fran, for real. I use that name wherever I go on any forum. WYSIWYG, period. I do not use stage names that hide my identity. I would like to see more of that myself, Clay and Calvin. This is not a game! It is real and should be treated as such.

If everyone would read the Lawsuit of IL vs. 3ABN, they would find that Linda had NOTHING to do with finances. Danny was the the one that made ALL of the financial decisions, he signed the checks. He counted the cash. He possessed the ubiquitous credit card and he had access to the cash that was less when it left his hands! He had unlimited "Petty Cash".

Danny touching any cash is a NO-NO! The Chief Finacial Officer (CFO) should have forbid that action from ever taking place. It is proof of severe flaws in Cash Control Management. In fact the CFO and Treasurer should not touch cash either. They may supervise, but not touch until AFTER it is accurately counted, receipted and passed on for deposit. Cash received should always match the deposit slip! Always. If it is not the same, a discrepancy report should be written to explain the problem. Names and signatures of all involved should be on the report naming everyone that touched the cash. Document every discrepancy and attach the original. Put a copy in a Cash Discrepancy file to be readily available to the auditors to review. The buck stops with Danny, he is the boss of the CFO! Ignorance is no excuse when you have been a business dealing with cash for over 20 years! If you don't understand, it would behove you to find out, to avoid going to jail.

Linda had no clue! I believe the Property Tax Lawsuit described the duties of Linda and Danny to what it exactly was at that time. Love is blind.. She was blind AND blindsided! From the documented evidence, I feel very confident that this was a real audit report! No firm hired by 3ABN would have written such a report.

Plus he has other people sell 3ABN goods for him. Where does that money go? Where does it end up? When I found SELLERS that had ties to 3ABN (Danny) and purchased something, they immediately shut down; Boom, Boom, Boom! Follow that money!

> QUOTE(Clay @ May 21 2006, 06:17 PM) ☐
>
> good question Calvin.... I suspect she may have known about some of the things, ignorant of others.... but as you say, she was a part of the ministry and lived the lifestyle Mr. Shelton lived... that had to be financed by someone... Additionally what was the gag order for? To keep her from telling what?

She is under the gag order to keep her mouth shut about the same thing we are under a gag order not to talk about.

Posted by: beartrap May 21 2006, 08:22 PM

> QUOTE(Fran @ May 21 2006, 08:59 PM) ☐
>
> Hi, my real name is Fran, for real. I use that name wherever I go on any forum. WYSIWYG, period. I do not use stage names that hide my identity. I would like to see more of that myself, Clay and Calvin. This is not a game! It is real and should be treated as such.
>
> If everyone would read the Lawsuit of IL vs. 3ABN, they would find that Linda had NOTHING to do with finances. Danny was the the one that made ALL of the financial decisions, he signed the checks. He counted the cash. He possessed the ubiquitous credit card and he had access to the cash that was less when it left his hands! He had unlimited "Petty Cash".
>
> Danny touching any cash is a NO-NO! The Chief Finacial Officer (CFO) should have forbid that action from ever taking place. It is proof of severe flaws in Cash Control Management. In fact the CFO and Treasurer should not touch cash either. They may supervise, but not touch until AFTER it is accurately counted, receipted and passed on for deposit. Cash received should always match the deposit slip! Always. If it is not the same, a discrepancy report should be written to explain the problem. Names and signatures of all involved should be on the report naming everyone that touched the cash. Document every discrepancy and attach the original. Put a copy in a Cash Discrepancy file to be readily available to the auditors to review. The buck stops with Danny, he is > the boss of the CFO! Ignorance is no excuse when you have been a business dealing with cash for over 20 years! If you don't understand, it would behove you to find out, to avoid going to jail.

>
> Linda had no clue! I believe the Property Tax Lawsuit described the duties of Linda and Danny to what it exactly was at that time. Love is blind.. She was blind AND blindsided! From the documented evidence, I feel very confident that this was a real audit report! No firm hired by 3ABN would have written such a report.
>
> Plus he has other people sell 3ABN goods for him. Where does that money go? Where does it end up? When I found SELLERS that had ties to 3ABN (Danny) and purchased something, they immediately shut down; Boom, Boom, Boom! Follow that money!
> She is under the gag order to keep her mouth shut about the same thing we are under a gag order not to talk about.

That would be correct. Those who wish to have documented evidence will find court records reflect that Linda had no part in the business end of 3ABN, and according to Nick Miller, 3ABN attorney and board member, she had no knowledge of the finances or business of 3ABN.

Although I am not able to speak for Linda, I will say that on the inside it is very easy to get caught up the spirit of what is being done and CHOOSE to avoid seeing what one does not wish to see. One also CHOOSES to see what is convient to see. I do not use the word "see" here exclusively in the literal sense.

Posted by: calvin May 21 2006, 09:06 PM

> QUOTE(Fran @ May 21 2006, 08:59 PM)
>
> Hi, my real name is Fran, for real. I use that name wherever I go on any forum. WYSIWYG, period. I do not use stage names that hide my identity. I would like to see more of that myself, Clay and Calvin. This is not a game! It is real and should be treated as such.

I don't care what your real name is or anybody else's. And you are Fran who? You have not told us anything about yourself, not one entry in your BSDA profile. So don't get all self-righteous because you use your first name. Read the BSDA Privacy Policy. You don't like it; leave.

No it is not that serious to me and probably not to most if the regular BSDAers. This is interesting stuff to read, but I could give a rats behind about the ongoing at 3ABN. I got no dog in this fight. If I don't like 3ABN I will turn it off and not send them my money. I can live with that.

Posted by: seeshell May 21 2006, 10:08 PM

Isn't there someone here who has a brother on 3ABN?

Posted by: sonshineonme May 21 2006, 10:19 PM

> QUOTE(calvin @ May 21 2006, 10:55 AM)
>
> Okay, so we have all this stuff on Danny. So where is Linda in this saga? It is hard for me to believe > she is as pure as the fresh driven snow. Didn't she know of the cash skimming? Did she not benefit from all the kingly trappings? Did she ever say a word to stand for right? Come on, can't be all about Danny, they where running the ministry together. Do all the Linda sympathizers have blinders on?

Calvin, that is exactly the catch 22 on this. Linda was not involved in financial areas of this business, she also supported her husband because she trusted him. She has a naive side to her that I think has protected her many many times. She had her focus on her ministry. Yes, she said MANY words to Danny about things that she didn't think were right or apppropirate, and she learned quickly and painfully, and finally to her demise that you don't tell Danny anything - ever. That is something he won't STAND for. Many people know this. For a wife, it's even worse. She has learned a great deal about things and people since being free of that place - and I think it was the grace of God that saved her inside that place and from that place. They did run the place "together", she had her responsibilies and went about them, while he took care of his "responsibilites" (i.e. many things he kept her in the dark on - which is exactly what he wanted for many obvious reasons.) She was as a child believing, trusting, and knowing to speak up would do no good. I think come December, she will have to decide if the Lord wants her to open her mouth and speak about things she has had to keep quiet, and has thought that the ministry would grately suffer, along with the watches across the world - and she may decide that He wants her too, but one thing I know about Linda, she won't do it unless the Lord gives her peace about it. I pray for her, no one really fully comprehends what it's like to live under a controlling dominate man than she does and is seeing to it's fullest now.

Posted by: summertime May 21 2006, 10:55 PM

> QUOTE(beartrap @ May 21 2006, 09:22 PM) ☐
>
> That would be correct. Those who wish to have documented evidence will find court records reflect that Linda had no part in the business end of 3ABN, and according to Nick Miller, 3ABN attorney and board member, she had no knowledge of the finances or business of 3ABN.
>
> Although I am not able to speak for Linda, I will say that on the inside it is very easy to get caught up the spirit of what is being done and CHOOSE to avoid seeing what one does not wish to see. One also CHOOSES to see what is convient to see. I do not use the word "see" here exclusively in the literal sense.

Thank you, Fran and Beartrap for your encouraging words about the fact that Linda did not know what Danny and others were keeping from Linda and probably a lot of other people who were working at 3ABN. I do not doubt for a moment that a cult-like atmosphoere is probably still surviving at 3ABN. I was so taken in by all the stories told that I was, at one time, hoping that my husband and I could take a large share of our retirement time and money and go to live there and spend a good share of our lives in volunteer work for the Lord.--How better, I thought, for us to honor the Lord and His message. Personally, I still wonder how anyone who spends time living in luxury and flying on jet planes, would not ask where that money is coming from. The same goes for Dr. T. and John L. On the other hand, many of the 3ABN donors still hear and believe that the men spoken to by God should enjoy these luxuries for the sake of convenience in telling others about the Lord's work. So they continue to give. I no longer donate, nor do I intend to ever volunteer at 3ABN. I still see that 3ABN is not aired by Sky Angel and I personally feel that the Lord is guiding. I appreciate the hard work of Fran, Beartrap and Sister in presenting this info to us. Someday, if the Lord gives the ability to Linda to tell how and why all these things have come about. -- Maybe then, many questions will be answered. But I am sure that the Lord will make plain to Linda the words she should give when that time comes.

Posted by: beartrap May 21 2006, 11:02 PM

As someone who does have a dog in the fight, I will say that although one might interpret Calvin's posts to mean that he has a weakness for what some of us consider an evil blight, I have entrusted him and his forum with safe guarding the innocent meanderings of one of the most precious things to me. He walks a very thin line here in maintaining open discussion and a family friendly atmosphere. Although I certainly disagree with my interpretation of some of the sentiments he has expressed regarding the topic at hand, I respect and appreciate the balance he is trying to hold.

It is expected that there will be collateral damage in any war. There is, however, the chance that one will inadvertently become what they are fighting, and where I see a person who has no compunction about destroying other people, and to whom all collateral casualties are acceptable sacrifices, I am trying hard to avoid becoming like that. It is very easy to justify certain things when one is fighting "such a just an holy war."

That being said, I claim no position as a paragon of virtue. I struggle with hatred as I live through the misery inflicted on me and many others. I sometimes say things that I later wish I could take back. I sometimes see an innocent person suffering because, in defense of someone, I fought dirty and considered it justified. Although I resolve daily to uphold my own integrity, I sometimes slip and fall. I think there is a balance in saying what must be said, and taking care in how we say it.

Posted by: Clay May 22 2006, 05:11 AM personal testimonies are an interesting read, though they tend to have a limited shelf life..... It is still my opinion that at some point the "survivors" of 3ABN will need to have a place on the web where they can vent and share how they were delivered from it. Either an online support group thing, or an ex-3ABN employee/member/supporter website.... it is apparent to me, that the healing process will take time, and it has changed the way some now view reality.....

Posted by: lurker May 22 2006, 09:16 AM

> QUOTE(Clay @ May 22 2006, 06:11 AM) ☐
>
> personal testimonies are an interesting read, though they tend to have a limited shelf life..... It is still my opinion that at some point the "survivors" of 3ABN will need to have a place on the web where they can vent and share how they were delivered from it. Either an online support group thing, or an ex-3ABN employee/member/supporter website.... it is apparent to me, that the healing process will take time, and it has changed the way some now view reality.....

[quote]
The problem is that not only do survivors (as a group) need healing from past abuse, a situation exists at 3ABN that needs reformation. When I do searches on the internet of Adventist or Seventh-day Adventist etc., 3ABN appears. 3ABN is not controlled by the Seventh-day Adventist Church but 3ABN presumes to speak for the Seventh-day Adventist church. And the Seventh-day Adventist church does not protest this presumption. If I as a member bask in the good PR given the SDA church because of 3ABN now, I must be prepared to bear shame if a public scandal later drags down the good name of my church. How much more disgrace will descend upon those men have whose names are closely linked 3ABN or who out of self interest neglected their duty when they could have done something. They will be ruined. They may not know, but they could have known.

Posted by: Observer May 22 2006, 10:35 AM

Lurker said: "They may not know, but they could have known."

When the time comes when all is revealed, and out in the open, it will be a time for the people who have guided the actions of 3ABN to resisgn from their posistions. You are correct, there are those who could have known, but have failed to discover the truth.

Until that time comes, it is premature to call for their resignation.

This is a time to wait for the leading of the Lord, and I believe that I see that happening.

Sometimes we should be careful that we do not rush ahead of God's leading.

Posted by: NormF May 22 2006, 10:54 AM

> QUOTE(beartrap @ May 22 2006, 12:02 AM) ☐
>
> ... in defense of someone, I fought dirty and considered it justified. Although I resolve daily to uphold my own integrity, I sometimes slip and fall. I think there is a balance in saying what must be said, and taking care in how we say it.

I think this quote's been posted a time or two before, but in case some have missed it, it bears repeating here:

> He who fights with monsters should be careful lest he thereby become a monster. And if thou gaze long into an abyss, the abyss will also gaze into thee.
>
> -- Friedrich Nietzsche

That may not come direct from the pages of the Good Book, but it's every bit as true as if it had. Calvin and Clay were and are are right on target with their recent efforts and current guidelines No one is saying "don't post; don't talk about these things." But we must also remember that the abyss is also gazing into us and not allow that baleful stare to transform us into monsters, too. I believe this is just what beartrap is trying to do and how he is trying to do it, and I think he should be saluted for his efforts.

May God bless beartrap's courage and honesty, and keep all of us on the side of truth and right.

Regards,
Norm

Posted by: Clay May 22 2006, 11:17 AM

> QUOTE(Observer @ May 22 2006, 10:35 AM) ☐
>
> Lurker said: "They may not know, but they could have known."

> When the time comes when all is revealed, and out in the open, it will be a time for the people who have guided the actions of 3ABN to resisgn from their posistions. You are correct, there are those who could have known, but have failed to discover the truth.
>
> Until that time comes, it is premature to call for their resignation.
>
> This is a time to wait for the leading of the Lord, and I believe that I see that happening.
>
> Sometimes we should be careful that we do not rush ahead of God's leading.

come on now... there have been folks for the 20 years 3ABN has been around noticing that things were not right and thinking that something should be done, and now as this thing approaches critical mass the suggestion is that people not rush ahead of God's leading? I think they have been dragging their feet... btjm...

Posted by: Observer May 22 2006, 12:14 PM

On a minor point, I happen to think that people have just recently, beginning with the IL tax case, began to understand that some things are not right.

But, I like your "critical mass" analogy. Perhaps that is where God is going. If that is true, God will bring 3ABN to the point of self-destruction, and it will be time to call for the resignation of those who have guided 3ABN on this path of self-destruction.

The satelite problems that have taken 3ABN off of Sky Angel may simply be a warning message. Is not that what the SDA Church believes God does--send a warning message just prior to a final destruction?

I think that I see God involved.

I am willing to wait to see the direction that God is leading.

Yes, there is a time and a place to publish what is known. In that time there are always those who cry that not enought is published, as well as those who claim that to little is published.

This is simply a time for thoughful prayer that God will lead, and we will follow.

Posted by: princessdi May 22 2006, 12:37 PM

This is exactly what I am talking about. Too many people are being led blindly into what may end up be a horrific mess. I ami not so much about "supporting or defending Linda, in that my interests lie in the unethical and ungodly deeds of 3ABN, which include offenses to Linda.

> QUOTE
>
> The problem is that not only do survivors (as a group) need healing from past abuse, a situation exists at 3ABN that needs reformation. When I do searches on the internet of Adventist or Seventh-day Adventist etc., 3ABN appears. 3ABN is not controlled by the Seventh-day Adventist Church but 3ABN presumes to speak for the Seventh-day Adventist church. And the Seventh-day Adventist church does not protest this presumption. If I as a member bask in the good PR given the SDA church because of 3ABN now, I must be prepared to bear shame if a public scandal later drags down the good name of my church. How much more disgrace will descend upon those men have whose > names are closely linked 3ABN or who out of self interest neglected their duty when they could have done something. They will be ruined. They may not know, but they could have known

---

Posted by: statrei May 22 2006, 12:55 PM

> QUOTE(Observer @ May 22 2006, 02:14 PM)
>
> I think that I see God involved.
>
> I am willing to wait to see the direction that God is leading.

There is nothing going on in the world in which He is not involved. This is His world and He is not an absentee landlord.

Posted by: vonessa May 22 2006, 02:38 PM

Obviously what is happening is of satanic origin and is being promoted by Satan's servant Danny Shelton. If it is this evil, then it must be stopped. We cannot let Satan have free reign over something that is done in the name of our Lord.

Posted by: statrei May 22 2006, 02:49 PM

> QUOTE(vonessa @ May 22 2006, 03:38 PM)
>
> Obviously what is happening is of satanic origin and is being promoted by Satan's servant Danny Shelton.

On what authority to you make this accusation against Danny? Did you see Satan's books to know who is in his employ? Why do we always have to overstate our case and lose all credibility?

Posted by: seraph|m May 22 2006, 02:49 PM

> QUOTE(vonessa @ May 22 2006, 05:38 PM)
>
> Obviously what is happening is of satanic origin and is being promoted by Satan's servant Danny Shelton. If it is this evil, then it must be stopped. We cannot let Satan have free reign over something that is done in the name of our Lord.

Your point is well taken.

Posted by: beartrap May 22 2006, 03:14 PM

Sometimes the most effective actions come unanticipated from the shadows. They are not colourful, can't really be seen, and most people are unaware of what happened or that anything happened at all. At other times those actions need to be coupled with a few flamboyant scenes in order to achieve maximum effectiveness. In either case, it is foolishness to lay all the cards on the table.

Posted by: vonessa May 22 2006, 03:21 PM

> QUOTE(statrei @ May 22 2006, 03:49 PM)
>
> On what authority to you make this accusation against Danny? Did you see Satan's books to know who is in his employ? Why do we always have to overstate our case and lose all credibility?

The conglomeration of the situation with which we are dealing is most certainly not of God. If what has been said by those who know (and not just those who claim to know) is true, then we have a satanic agency at work at 3ABN. That is the bottom line, pure and simple.

If you would prefer to dance all over it and pretend not to know who is behind the constant evil clouds described by Sister, Johann, Fran, and others, then so be it. If we want to do this right we must call it like it is. Evil like this does not come from God - it comes from Satan. Cooperating with this type of evil does not come from God - it comes from Satan.

I do not need to see the books of Satan to know that we are dealing with supernatural evil here based on the statements of our brothers and sisters. If you want to pretend that it's God doing this, then go ahead. But that is ignorant. Until we understand where all this comes from, everything we do is irrelevant.

The place to stop a poisoned stream is not at the faucet - it's at the source. Evil is as evil does.

Posted by: sonshineonme Jul 6 2006, 09:16 PM

> QUOTE(beartrap @ May 22 2006, 02:14 PM)
>
> Sometimes the most effective actions come unanticipated from the shadows. They are not colourful, can't really be seen, and most people are unaware of what happened or that anything happened at all. At other times those actions need to be coupled with a few flamboyant scenes in order to achieve maximum effectiveness. In either case, it is foolishness to lay all the cards on the table.

And never forget, even in this situation, unanticipated things are happening in the shadows still, Bear, then suddenly the big thing happens, and you can rest assured, it will happen, when the time is right. Never give up hope.

Posted by: Clay Jul 7 2006, 12:25 PM

> QUOTE(sonshineonme @ Jul 6 2006, 09:16 PM)
>
> And never forget, even in this situation, unanticipated things are happening in the shadows still, Bear, then suddenly the big thing happens, and you can rest assured, it will happen, when the time is right. Never give up hope.

is that your hope or your prediction?

Posted by: beartrap Jul 9 2006, 06:13 PM

Guess we'll see.

Posted by: sonshineonme Jul 10 2006, 06:32 PM

> QUOTE(Clay @ Jul 7 2006, 11:25 AM)
>
> is that your hope or your prediction?

both

Posted by: Joy N Dec 20 2006, 09:21 AM

> QUOTE(sister @ May 15 2006, 01:52 PM)
>
> "The Televangelist", Part 5...An ironic twist to the tale of Pete
>
> Susan, proprietor of the T'ville "health food" store, like a knight upon a very dusty stead, wearing rusty armor, with a small chorus of mice singing in the corner, raised her voice in defense of Pete and his tribe. Standing upon her soap box, she decries the wickedness of Danny: poor Pete had been fired from his job, the reasons remaining obscured in a dense cloud of secret dealings. Not only had Danny tarnished this fine man's reputation; but in addition, there were rumors of possible prosecution and imprisonment. What would his resourceless wife do if left alone to raise their children? How would she sustain herself and their little ones? Winter was coming and they would surely freeze to death with no money for heat and no food for their table. Like the narrator of a soap opera, Susan continues to recount a finely detailed list of the dooms this family had to expect in the near future...
>
> Excuse me while I pause for an ironic laugh. Perhaps you are shaking your head, too? Isn't this the same Pete who paid himself a double salary, ran many of his personal bills through the company account and bought his house with ministry money? And if that wasn't enough, received a "hush payment" of a van. Of course Pete lost access to the "goose that laid the golden eggs", but destitute? That is a leap of imagination that would shame the cow that jumped over the moon. But that was fine with Danny, as long as the "thief" was gone from his midst, Susan could say anything she wanted, it was just a local rumor and she had about as much credibility as a three dollar bill. Now Danny could continue milking the ministry funds, without fear of being found with his hand in the cookie jar, through the financial transparency that prosecuting Pete would bring.

> But now back to Susan. At this point she steps down from her soap box and starts collecting donations from other 3ABN workers to help this "poor family" through the crisis they were experiencing...both food items (purchased from her store) and cash donations. Most of the people donating to this cause could barely keep food on their own table and there was never enough money to pay all the bills delivered each month.
>
> As long as we are here, let's take a peek around Susan's store. The first thing you notice as you walk in are the dirty fingerprints on the glass door and that the front windows need washing. The carpeting on the floor is stained and dirty, the dusty shelves are loosely stacked with canned vegetarian food items and in the freezer are Rice Dream bars and a few assorted other items. There are bulk products that have been packaged on the premises, you definitely want to avoid these, and there are strange odors that no one who shops there wants to identify. As long as your purchases are restricted to prepackaged or frozen items, you are probably safe. Susan also bakes bread on site and makes and sells vegetarian lunches. Did I mention the insects and the mice droppings? Well, at least she was willing to run a tab for you until you received your pay check from 3ABN.
>
> Before exiting Susan's store there is one more item to take note of, in addition to selling food, it is also the largest hotbed in the area of rumors, innuendo, speculation and just plain gossip about the on goings at 3ABN. Hushed voices pause and two pairs of eyes dart toward the door as the sound of it opening immediately stop a clandestine conversation. In a brief instant, it is ascertained whether the customer walking in is friend or foe. If the subject is especially delicate, you are ushered in to the cooking area in the back, free from prying eyes and eavesdropping. And the biggest gossip of all, the Thompsonville Church clerk, was also an administrative assistant at 3ABN. Though I must admit Susan gave Dee quite a run for the money.
>
> This is Thompsonville. This is the life of the workers. Some live well: Pete, Moses, Mollie and Hal, ET and Dave, Pastor John and C.A. And at the top of the heap, Danny and his spouse. The majority merely hope to survive until the next pay check arrives...
>
> Stay tuned for Part 6 of "The Televangelist"...
>
> V seta

Well I must say Linda... If you never again grace a TV studio ministry set.... Not to worry! You are a terrific FICTION writer... I mean you keep people on the edge of their seats. This kind of Hollywood FICTION will certainly fill the theatre boxoffice... The only problelm is... it has no place in Christainity. To cast so many inuendoes and accusations that are not true... is bad. Why would you do such a thing? BY the way... I have been at 3ABN for many years... I know what I am talking about. Danny's leadership is not perfect.. I'm not saying that. What I am saying is that he has never stolen a penny from 3ABN. Other inuendoes you have made like prostitutes.... Rediculous!
If that were so... Why did you stay with him all those years... The money and perks perhaps??

YOu referred to his new wife as enjoying the perks.... What about you... You enjoyed them for 20 years... let's tell the "rest of the story" How many thousands of dollars were spent on your "Musical Video's" ???

Joy
Edited to better distinguish Joy's response to Sister post.

Posted by: Chez Dec 20 2006, 09:49 AM

Welcome Joy N. Did I miss something? When did Sister become Linda? Read all of the threads and you will know who Sister is not.

Posted by: Johann Dec 20 2006, 03:43 PM

> QUOTE(Joy N @ Dec 20 2006, 05:21 PM) ☐
>
> Well I must say Linda... If you never again grace a TV studio ministry set.... Not to worry! You are a terrific FICTION writer... I mean you keep people on the edge of their seats. This kind of Hollywood FICTION will certainly fill the theatre boxoffice... The only problelm is... it has no place in Christainity. To cast so many inuendoes and accusations that are not true... is bad. Why would you do such a thing? BY the way... I have been at 3ABN for many years... I know what I am talking about. Danny's leadership is not perfect.. I'm not saying that. What I am saying is that he has never stolen a penny from 3ABN. Other inuendoes you have made like prostitutes.... Rediculous!
> If that were so... Why did you stay with him all those years... The money and perks perhaps??
>
> YOu referred to his new wife as enjoying the perks.... What about you... You enjoyed them for 20 years... let's tell the "rest of the story" How many thousands of dollars were spent on your "Musical Video's" ???
>
> Joy
> Edited to better distinguish Joy's response to Sister post.

Interesting, Joy, you start out your writing with a gossip - that this was written by Linda. That must be because you believe more in the gossip-monger than in what is the truth.

If you insist Linda wrote this then give a verifiable reason why you think so.

Posted by: Aletheia Dec 20 2006, 05:27 PM

> QUOTE(Johann @ Dec 20 2006, 04:43 PM) ☐
>
> Interesting, Joy, you start out your writing with a gossip - that this was written by Linda. That must be because you believe more in the gossip-monger than in what is the truth.
>
> If you insist Linda wrote this then give a verifiable reason why you think so.

☒ wow.gif Do you really think people are so stupid?!?

I myself can't prove sister is Linda, and don't even feel it necessary to, but I am quite sure that if shes not, then Linda Has got her ear, and mouth.
WHO else could even possibly begin to claim to know all this?

Go ahead Johann tell us who. You can answer without naming names, cause I already learned from questions how you all feel about the cloak and dagger stuff.

~ Aletheia

Posted by: Panama_Pete Dec 20 2006, 05:32 PM

> QUOTE(Joy N @ Dec 20 2006, 09:21 AM) ☐
>
> I have been at 3ABN for many years... I know what I am talking about.

Welcome Joy,

I, too, would like to know how Sister became Linda. Has Danny been talking around the water cooler?

And you bought into it without checking?

> QUOTE(Aletheia @ Dec 20 2006, 05:27 PM) ☐
>
> Go ahead Johann tell us who.
> ~ Aletheia

Every lawyer's dream.

☒ rofl

Posted by: Johann Dec 20 2006, 06:12 PM

> QUOTE(Aletheia @ Dec 21 2006, 01:27 AM) ☐
>
> ☒ wow.gif Do you really think people are so stupid?!?
> I myself can't prove sister is Linda, and don't even feel it necessary to, but I am quite sure that if shes not, then Linda Has got her ear, and mouth.
> WHO else could even possibly begin to claim to know all this?
>
> Go ahead Johann tell us who. You can answer without naming names, cause I already learned from questions how you all feel about the cloak and dagger stuff.
>
> ~ Aletheia

Don't forget that Linda is not the only person who has spent years at 3ABN, and to whom the good Lord has given ears and a mouth.

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Dec 20 2006, 06:43 PM

> QUOTE(Aletheia @ Dec 20 2006, 04:27 PM) ☐
>
> ☒ wow.gif Do you really think people are so stupid?!?
>
> I myself can't prove sister is Linda, and don't even feel it necessary to, but I am quite sure that if shes not, then Linda Has got her ear, and mouth.
> WHO else could even possibly begin to claim to know all this?
>
> Go ahead Johann tell us who. You can answer without naming names, cause I already learned from questions how you all feel about the cloak and dagger stuff.
>
> ~ Aletheia

Aletheia,

I am not making any claims about who you really are because early in my membership here I asked a question somebody didn't like and was told I must be Danny Shelton himself. My response was to giggle and say something to the effect that it would come as a big surprise to my husband.

What I will say is that another member, fallible humanbeing, recently accused sister of being Linda and used almost the same exact wording as you have. If I was one of those folks here who likes to make such accusations I might be tempted to do so now. But I'm not one of those folksand I find the practice diversionary and quite annoying.

Posted by: Aletheia Dec 20 2006, 07:46 PM

> QUOTE(PeacefullyBewildered @ Dec 20 2006, 07:43 PM) ☐
>
> Aletheia,
>
> I am not making any claims about who you really are because early in my membership here I asked a question somebody didn't like and was told I must be Danny Shelton himself. My response was to giggle and say something to the effect that it would come as a big surprise to my husband.
>
> What I will say is that another member, fallible humanbeing, recently accused sister of being Linda and used almost the same exact wording as you have.

Maybe that was because as I said, people aren't stupid? However I didn't say sister was Linda, I don't know for sure.

> QUOTE
>
> If I was one of those folks here who likes to make such accusations I might be tempted to do so now. But I'm not one of those folksand I find the practice diversionary and quite annoying.

If you say so..

I've already been accused of being FHB. Ironically it was Sister who insinuated that.

I'm sure the forum here could clear things up if it was necessary because the way cookies are saved it's obvious that ISP#'s are recorded, but I don't think it's all that critical for the Owner to do so...

Don't you also find it kind of amusing in an ironic kind of way, that so many people claiming to be key players and truthful witnesses insist on being anonymous and yet constantly try to figure out who the other people are, and engage in conspiracy theories about it?

~ Aletheia

Posted by: sister Dec 20 2006, 07:56 PM

> QUOTE(Aletheia @ Dec 20 2006, 06:27 PM)
>
> wow.gif Do you really think people are so stupid?!?
>
> I myself can't prove sister is Linda, and don't even feel it necessary to, but I am quite sure that if shes not, then Linda Has got her ear, and mouth.
> WHO else could even possibly begin to claim to know all this?
>
> Go ahead Johann tell us who. You can answer without naming names, cause I already learned from questions how you all feel about the cloak and dagger stuff.
>
> ~ Aletheia

Well, I see it is the same old, same old, again. Do I really think people are so stupid? Yes, if they think I am Linda. And as a matter of fact, Linda has neither my ear or mouth: both are quite firmly attached, thank you. There are a select few who do know my identity, one of which is my husband. He can definitely testify that he does not now, nor has he ever shared his bed with Linda Shelton, but "Sister" happily sleeps at his side.

Who other than Linda could possibly claim to know all this? Myself and others who have spent a number of years in the company of 3ABN and members of the Shelton family. Actually, in some areas we have had more information than Linda. Certain facts concerning 3ABN and Danny's personal life were purposefully hidden from Linda by her ex-husband, or by his authority. Let's take a few "hypothetical" examples: A man does't usually tell his wife when he is having an affair with her best friend. But his lady friend is not always so careful in hiding their relationship... A man doesn't usually tell his wife when he or his relatives are skimming money from the family business, but there are others who know what is going on.

Aletheia, why do you assume that Johann knows my identity? Have you considered the possibly that with his close friendship with Linda, he has known from the beginning that Sister is not Linda, but it does not automatically follow that Sister contacted him with her identity? The reason I have had the freedom to post so freely about the inner workings of 3ABN is because I have so closely guarded my identity. Am I Linda? Thanks for the laugh... rofl rofl rofl Am I her puppet and she pulls the strings? rofl rofl rofl

> QUOTE(Aletheia @ Dec 20 2006, 08:46 PM)
>
> Maybe that was because as I said, people aren't stupid? However I didn't say sister was Linda, I don't know for sure.
>
> If you say so..
>
> I've already been accused of being FHB. Ironically it was Sister who insinuated that.
>
> I'm sure the forum here could clear things up if it was necessary because the way cookies are saved it's obvious that ISP#'s are recorded, but I don't think it's all that critical for the Owner to do so...
> Don't you also find it kind of amusing in an ironic kind of way, that so many people claiming to be key players and truthful witnesses insist on being anonymous and yet constantly try to figure out who the other people are, and engage in conspiracy theories about it?
>
> ~ Aletheia

To answer your statements that I have bolded above: I did not insinuate that you are FHB, only that you have both used similar tactics and, secondly in the question of ISP numbers, Calvin has already stated that mine and Linda's are not the same.

Good try Aletheia!

Posted by: Aletheia Dec 20 2006, 08:19 PM

> QUOTE(sister @ Dec 20 2006, 08:56 PM)
>
> Well, I see it is the same old, same old, again. Do I really think people are so stupid? Yes, if they think I am Linda. And as a matter of fact, Linda has neither my ear or mouth: both are quite firmly attached, thank you. There are a select few who do know my identity, one of which is my husband. He can definitely testify that he does not now, nor has he ever shared his bed with Linda Shelton, but "Sister" happily sleeps at his side.

> Who other than Linda could possibly claim to know all this? Myself and others who have spent a number of years in the company of 3ABN and members of the Shelton family. Actually, in some areas we have had more information than Linda. Certain facts concerning 3ABN and Danny's personal life were purposefully hidden from Linda by her ex-husband, or by his authority. Let's take a few "hypothetical" examples: A man does't usually tell his wife when he is having an affair with her best friend. But his lady friend is not always so careful in hiding their relationship... A man doesn't usually tell his wife when he or his relatives are skimming money from the family business, but there are others who know what is going on.
>
> Aletheia, why do you assume that Johann knows my identity? Have you considered the possibly that with his close friendship with Linda, he has known from the beginning that Sister is not Linda, but it does not automatically follow that Sister contacted him with her identity? The reason I have had the freedom to post so freely about the inner workings of 3ABN is because I have so closely guarded my identity. Am I Linda? Thanks for the laugh... ☒ rofl ☒ rofl ☒ rofl Am I her puppet and she pulls the strings? ☒ rofl ☒ rofl ☒ rofl
> To answer your statements that I have bolded above: I did not insinuate that you are FHB, only that you have both used similar tactics > and, secondly in the question of ISP numbers, Calvin has already stated that mine and Linda's are not the same.
>
>
> Good try Aletheia!

It seems to me if that's true, that you just keep narrowing things down by what you write, and they would certainly know who you are. Why would you then feel it was necessary to be anonymous with us, and why would they all think you are Linda? ☒

Also..

I think what was said is that Linda gave an interview once awhile back, and that number and yours don't match. There's lots of reasons why that could be true, and yet you could still be Linda, why not start thinking and give us some more of your what if's and a fictionalised version of events to explain how this could be?

☒ hug.gif

Posted by: princessdi Dec 20 2006, 08:49 PM

Well, now, over in the "Disgust" thread I just posted that you would be offended if someone accused you of trying to find out folks IDs, but I stand corrected. How many times are they going to try this? They must not know our motto: This ain't Sabbath School, we pay attention!". BTW, where be FHB.....? ☒

> QUOTE(Aletheia @ Dec 20 2006, 06:19 PM) ☐
>
> It seems to me if that's true, that you just keep narrowing things down by what you write, and they would certainly know who you are. Why would you then feel it was necessary to be anonymous with > us, and why would they all think you are Linda?

>
> Also..
>
> I think what was said is that Linda gave an interview once awhile back, and that number and yours don't match. There's lots of reasons why that could be true, and yet you could still be Linda, why not start thinking and give us some more of your what if's and a fictionalised version of events to explain how this could be?
>
> hug.gif

Posted by: sister Dec 20 2006, 08:49 PM

> QUOTE(Aletheia @ Dec 20 2006, 09:19 PM)
>
> I think what was said is that Linda gave an interview once awhile back, and that number and yours don't match. There's lots of reasons why that is the truth and yet you could still be Linda, why not start thinking and give us some more of your what if's and a fictionalised version of events to account for this
>
> hug.gif

Since you are so certain of your "facts", prove that I am Linda Shelton. There is no fictionalised version of events emanating from me...

Aletheia, have you worked at 3ABN? Do you know Danny or Linda Shelton personally? Upon what basis are you dividing truth from error? It is inconsistant to use me as an authority upon which to base your opinions in regard to 3ABN---you have cited me as your authority both here and at Maritime---and dismiss my personal testimony of my identity. If the basis of your accepting certain statements I have made concerning 3ABN is a belief that I am Linda Shelton or her mouthpiece, than the burden of proof lies in your corner.

Posted by: Aletheia Dec 20 2006, 09:24 PM

> QUOTE(sister @ Dec 20 2006, 09:49 PM)
>
> Since you are so certain of your "facts", prove that I am Linda Shelton. There is no fictionalised version of events emanating from me...
>
> Aletheia, have you worked at 3ABN? Do you know Danny or Linda Shelton personally? Upon what basis are you dividing truth from error? It is inconsistant to use me as an authority upon which to base your opinions in regard to 3ABN---you have cited me as your authority both here and at Maritime---and dismiss my personal testimony of my identity. If the basis of your accepting certain > statements I have made concerning 3ABN is a belief that I am Linda Shelton or her mouthpiece, than the burden of proof lies in your corner.

You are right. I have no reason to believe a word you say, nor have I seen you offer any.

You have an axe to grind, but never say why, or any thing that has happened to you personally or affected you personally, or even how you know the trash and garbage you spew and you claim is true.

For all I know you could be a Jesuit straight from the Vatican sent to bring 3ABN down, as a way of smearing the SDA Church. Maybe Linda and Danny are just Pawns. Linda was used to bring Danny down as Satan used Eve to get to Adam, it's an old story... then everybody joins sides and argues and fights and accuses each other and the unity we are supposed to have is destroyed from within, while bitterness anger and vengeance rule. And the world looks on and wants nothing to do with such people or their professed message from God, because their light is dim and their fruits are rotten to the core. Avoid their church like the plague and evn while amidst the plague! And 3ABN as a way to reach out to the world? it's destroyed, who wants to tune into a station even the Adventist constantly condemn and expose.

Who gains by all of this?

SATAN.

Why?

He knows his time is short and boy is he desparate and angry, and he's at war with those who keep the commandments of God and the testimony of Jesus, and expose his evil butt. He's not stupid, we are!

How's that for a conspiracy theory and drama? Doesn't sound a bit like yours tho-- does it?

yes I'm angry, at myself mostly.

it seems to me, we are so busy focussing on a tree or an offensive shrub, we've missed the entire forrest.

So long sister, and thanks for the wake up call.

I thinkI should wipe my feet of you, leave you to your mission and return to the one I was given.

~ Aletheia

Posted by: sister Dec 20 2006, 09:43 PM

> QUOTE(Aletheia @ Dec 20 2006, 10:24 PM) ☐
>
> You are right. I have no reason to believe a word you say, nor have I seen you offer any.
>
> You have an axe to grind, but never say why, or any thing that has happened to yoou personally or affected you personally.

> For all I know you could be a jesuit straight from the vatican sent to bring 3ABN down, as a way of smearing the SDA Church. Maybe Linda and Danny are just Pawns. Linda was used to bring Danny down as Satan used Eve to get to Adam, it's an old story... then everybody joins sides and argues and fights and accuses each other and the unity we are supposed to have is destroyed from within, while bitterness anger and vengeance rule. And the world looks on and wants nothing to do with such people or their proffessed message from God, because their light is dim and their fruits are rotten to the core.
>
> Who gains by all of this?
>
> SATAN.
>
> Why?
>
> He knows his time is short and boy is he desparate and angry, and he's at war with those who keep the commandments of God and the testimony of Jesus, and expose his evil butt. He's not stupid, we are!
> How's that for a conspiracy theory and drama? Doesn't sound a bit like yours does it?
> yes I'm angry, at myself too.
>
> it seems people are so busy focussing on a tree or an offensive shrub, they've missed the entire forrest. myself included.
> so long sister.
>
> ~ Aletheia

Come on Aletheia... why be angry? Don't worry, be happy! I find my joy in the Lord and that is a treasure that will never tarnish.

Posted by: Aletheia Dec 20 2006, 10:01 PM

> QUOTE(princessdi @ Dec 20 2006, 09:49 PM) ☐
>
> Well, now, over in the "Disgust" thread I just posted that you would be offended if someone accused you of trying to find out folks IDs, but I stand corrected. How many times are they going to try this? They must not know our motto: This ain't Sabbath School, we pay attention!". BTW, where be FHB.....?

Just so you know, we may have butted heads, and we may again, but please don't take it personally. I've kinda developed a liking for you since I got here based on all the other posts of yours I've read. Sometimes what people say does help you get to know that person. :-) Ok, that's it. I'm really not a mushy type person, so I have to go now.

~ Aletheia

P.S. sorry thst's not all --

Identities don't matter if you are not posting anything that could not be posted by any other person like I am doing. But when it comes to personal testimony about another which is not based on public knowledge available to all? It does matter. Anonymous identities and testimony are not admissable in any court of law, whether for the defense or for the prosecution. (Here say evidence in NEVER allowed) and God's standards and biblical principles via his civil and church laws? MUCH higher.

Posted by: calvin Dec 24 2006, 11:23 AM

> QUOTE(Joe Smith @ Dec 24 2006, 10:51 AM) ☐
>
> Thank you Clay. Next, Danny will have had something to do with the Assination of Lincoln... or MLK.,
>
> Please listen to the REAL TRUTH about the death of Kay Shelton... I can't believe someone hasn't written about it before.
> Gossip can be deadly.

It has not been written about here because I have not allowed it. BSDA has limited it's discussion of DS to 3ABN of with there is more than 20 years of stuff to talk about. Speculating on his prior 3ABN life will get you banned. This is where I have drawn the line.

135

Printable Version of Topic

Click here to view this topic in its original format

BlackSDA _ 3ABN _ Disgust!

Posted by: Joe Smith Dec 17 2006, 10:29 AM

This is my first time to enter the BlackSDA site. I must say I am appalled by all the allogations that are printed here... whether true or untrue.... It make no difference. I can't believe that Jesus would have anything to do with such as this. He was... and is.. about Love and fellowship and lifting up one another... sharing one another's burdens.... even the Shelton's burdens... not about destroying one another with the tongue. GOSSIP is a HUGE SIN! I request that the board of Black SDA reconsider what is slanderous and what is hurtful and take this stuff of its website.... God is not pleased with His Children partaking in a format similar to the "Jerry Springer" show.

I dont believe that God is happy with us... God forgive us!

Joe

Posted by: PrincessDrRe Dec 17 2006, 10:45 AM

QUOTE(Joe Smith @ Dec 17 2006, 12:29 PM) ☐

> This is my first time to enter the BlackSDA site. I must say I am appalled by all the allogations that are printed here... whether true or untrue.... It make no difference. I can't believe that Jesus would have anything to do with such as this. He was... and is.. about Love and fellowship and lifting up one another... sharing one another's burdens.... even the Shelton's burdens... not about destroying one another with the tongue. GOSSIP is a HUGE SIN! I request that the board of Black SDA reconsider what is slanderous and what is hurtful and take this stuff of its website.... God is not pleased with His Children partaking in a format similar to the "Jerry Springer" show.
>
> I dont believe that God is happy with us... God forgive us!
>
> Joe

Do you watch the news Mr. Smith? If so - then you also watch things that are true or untrue....the difference is here with the 3ABN saga/mess - it is closer to home.

JESUS called folks out for what they were. IF you had the characteristics of a Fox - JESUS called you a "FOX". GOD/JESUS doesn't want folks walking around "dumb" and making choices without knowing the full repercussion of said choice.

BlackSDA is just like Television. If you don't like what you are seeing/reading - then don't read it/turn it off....but if you watch the news or read a newspaper at any time - then you are a hypocrite.

http://www.m-w.com/dictionary/hypocrite<<<--Click Here!!!

Posted by: watchbird Dec 17 2006, 10:50 AM

> QUOTE(Joe Smith @ Dec 17 2006, 11:29 AM) ☐
>
> This is my first time to enter the BlackSDA site. I must say I am appalled by all the allogations that are printed here... whether true or untrue.... It make no difference. I can't believe that Jesus would have anything to do with such as this. He was... and is.. about Love and fellowship and lifting up one another... sharing one another's burdens.... even the Shelton's burdens... not about destroying one another with the tongue. GOSSIP is a HUGE SIN! I request that the board of Black SDA reconsider what is slanderous and what is hurtful and take this stuff of its website.... God is not pleased with His Children partaking in a format similar to the "Jerry Springer" show.
>
> I dont believe that God is happy with us... God forgive us!
>
> Joe

Welcome to BSDA, Joe.... it is quite obvious that you haven't read very far. As for "GOSSIP is a HUGE SIN".... yeah... it is at that. Almost as huge as judgmentalism. Maybe you should consider removing the plank in your eye before you go too far off the deep end here....

Just be patient. There are others who had the same reaction as you when they first came, but if you read the pinned items at the top, including taking the "guided tour" through the "Unauthorized History" threads, you will meet some very nice people, who have been hurt a very lot, and were still willing to do what they could to lift others burdens. Stay with it... you'll soon learn to recognize who has legitimate issues and who is just engaging in curiosity and judgemental comments on the hurts of others.

Posted by: missthg Dec 17 2006, 11:56 AM

here's a thought - if you dont like what you are reading....stop reading...JMHO

> QUOTE(Joe Smith @ Dec 17 2006, 08:29 AM) ☐
>
> This is my first time to enter the BlackSDA site. I must say I am appalled by all the allogations that are printed here... whether true or untrue.... It make no difference. I can't believe that Jesus would have anything to do with such as this. He was... and is.. about Love and fellowship and lifting up one another... sharing one another's burdens.... even the Shelton's burdens... not about destroying one another with the tongue. GOSSIP is a HUGE SIN! I request that the board of Black SDA reconsider what is slanderous and what is hurtful and take this stuff of its website.... God is not pleased with His Children partaking in a format similar to the "Jerry Springer" show.
>
> I dont believe that God is happy with us... God forgive us!
>
> Joe

Posted by: alramwill Dec 17 2006, 12:03 PM

> QUOTE(Joe Smith @ Dec 17 2006, 10:29 AM) ☐

> This is my first time to enter the BlackSDA site. I must say I am appalled by all the allogations that are printed here... whether true or untrue.... It make no difference. I can't believe that Jesus would have anything to do with such as this. He was... and is.. about Love and fellowship and lifting up one another... sharing one another's burdens.... even the Shelton's burdens... not about destroying one another with the tongue. GOSSIP is a HUGE SIN! I request that the board of Black SDA reconsider what is slanderous and what is hurtful and take this stuff of its website.... God is not pleased with His Children partaking in a format similar to the "Jerry Springer" show.
>
> I dont believe that God is happy with us... God forgive us!
>
> Joe

Dial 1-877-SNIFFLE.... ....they'll take care of you.

Posted by: lurker Dec 17 2006, 12:40 PM

I've just been reading Matthew 23. I'm not saying that this chapter applies to anyone just for having questions or a difference of opinion. It is directed elsewhere. And I wanted to remind everyone that Jesus was sometimes very blunt about respected leaders and the need for repentance and reform.

Posted by: Panama_Pete Dec 17 2006, 12:58 PM

> QUOTE(Joe Smith @ Dec 17 2006, 10:29 AM) ☐
>
> This is my first time to enter the BlackSDA site. I must say I am appalled by all the allogations that are printed here... whether true or untrue.... It make no difference. [Emphasis printed in red is mine: Pete]
>
> Joe

Welcome Joe,

Adventists believe that truth makes a difference. Many people join the SDA Church, at a loss of employment and familial ties, because they are seekers of truth.

I, for one, believe the truth does make a difference. So, please read those "pinned" items at the top, and then read other threads and ask questions. As some here may say: "You have a steep learning curve ahead of you."

As someone else has said, "If we refuse to look honestly at the truth, and/or if we deny or distort the truth, the only things left to form the foundation for our lives are lies, illusions, fantasies, and fairytales. Ignorance should not settle this issue for you- too much is at stake for it to be ignored or taken lightly."

Pete

Posted by: Freedom Dec 17 2006, 09:33 PM

> QUOTE(lurker @ Dec 17 2006, 01:40 PM) ☐
>
> I've just been reading Matthew 23. I'm not saying that this chapter applies to anyone just for having questions or a difference of opinion. It is directed elsewhere. And I wanted to remind everyone that Jesus was sometimes very blunt about respected leaders and the need for repentance and reform.

Lurker,

umm, Matthew 23:14

Posted by: princessdi Dec 17 2006, 10:04 PM

Welcome to BSDA, Joe. At this point, 3ABN is one of our "less" pleasant forums. God gives us all gifts, and some have the gift to sort through the unfortunate facts when the less than pleasant business needs to be dealt with. Make no mistake, is does have to be dealt with. Good news for you is that there are many other forums here, including a joke forum and a game arcade. I hope you will stay and check out our other forums. 3ABN is only one of many.

> QUOTE(Joe Smith @ Dec 17 2006, 08:29 AM) ☐
>
> This is my first time to enter the BlackSDA site. I must say I am appalled by all the allogations that are printed here... whether true or untrue.... It make no difference. I can't believe that Jesus would have anything to do with such as this. He was... and is.. about Love and fellowship and lifting up one another... sharing one another's burdens.... even the Shelton's burdens... not about destroying one another with the tongue. GOSSIP is a HUGE SIN! I request that the board of Black SDA reconsider what is slanderous and what is hurtful and take this stuff of its website.... God is not pleased with His Children partaking in a format similar to the "Jerry Springer" show.
>
> I dont believe that God is happy with us... God forgive us!
>
> Joe

Posted by: mystery- man Dec 17 2006, 11:24 PM

I often wonder if the people that post like this are not sent to try and stop what is being written by simply faining to have ourtrage. Where is that same outrage when children are molested and it is kept silent for years and years while they suffer the abuse. Cults and people that abuse people maintain their control of individuals by keeping them silent in a suppose air of silence being golden and Godley.

But at least rape victims have been taught and learn that the way to stop the perpetrator of the crime is to scream it to the highest mountain. Do you know how the child molester gets away with it he tells the child not to tell anyone because of the shame and hurt it will cause. These are men and women who have a sacred trust and that being to lead people to Jesus who will lead them to the kingdom of heaven. If in their lives they have known and open sin and refuse to repeant then by all means tell it. By the way the lord told David you did this thing in secret but I will do this before all Israel and will give your wife to what turned out to be his son in front of everyone. The prophet came before David in an open forum before all the people and revealed his sin. John the Baptist told Herod in open forum about him taking his brothers wife.

I dont know how many countless times people have been silent in the name of being God like when innocent people have been hurt.

You know what I find funny to the highest__--__--__ For years we have been teaching the investigative judgement and letting everyone know that everything done in secret will be laid open. But individuals will start telling people what God likes and does not like. It has been my experience that God out of mercy will give individuals time to repeant in private but if they try and cover their sins he lays them bare for all to see.

Posted by: Whitey Dec 18 2006, 04:38 AM

For those of you reading at the other SDA Forum dealing with the Sheldon drama, doesn't the new member Joe Smith write in the same vein as

....Weetabix ?

One and the same or just coincidence?

Posted by: Richard Sherwin Dec 18 2006, 06:07 AM

Hey now that you mention it....

> QUOTE(Whitey @ Dec 18 2006, 05:38 AM) ☐
>
> For those of you reading at the other SDA Forum dealing with the Sheldon drama, doesn't the new member Joe Smith write in the same vein as
>
> ....Weetabix ?
>
> One and the same or just coincidence?

Posted by: Pickle Dec 18 2006, 08:32 AM

> QUOTE(Whitey @ Dec 18 2006, 04:38 AM) ☐
>
> For those of you reading at the other SDA Forum dealing with the Sheldon drama, doesn't the new member Joe Smith write in the same vein as
>
> ....Weetabix ?

> One and the same or just coincidence?

I think it's just a coincidence. There are a lot of honest people who initially feel the same way.

Weetabix disappeared around Dec. 5. I'd be surprised if he came back and posted the same, exact way he did before.

Posted by: simplysaved Dec 18 2006, 08:54 AM

Re', it's NOT television....

> QUOTE(PrincessDrRe @ Dec 17 2006, 11:45 AM)
>
> Do you watch the news Mr. Smith? If so - then you also watch things that are true or untrue....the difference is here with the 3ABN saga/mess - it is closer to home.
>
> JESUS called folks out for what they were. IF you had the characteristics of a Fox - JESUS called you a "FOX". GOD/JESUS doesn't want folks walking around "dumb" and making choices without knowing the full repercussion of said choice.
>
> BlackSDA is just like Television. If you don't like what you are seeing/reading - then don't read it/turn it off....but if you watch the news or read a newspaper at any time - then you are a hypocrite.
>
> http://www.m-w.com/dictionary/hypocrite<<<--Click Here!!!

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Dec 18 2006, 09:02 AM

> QUOTE(Joe Smith @ Dec 17 2006, 09:29 AM)
>
> This is my first time to enter the BlackSDA site. I must say I am appalled by all the allogations that are printed here... whether true or untrue.... It make no difference. I can't believe that Jesus would have anything to do with such as this. He was... and is.. about Love and fellowship and lifting up one another... sharing one another's burdens.... even the Shelton's burdens... not about destroying one another with the tongue. GOSSIP is a HUGE SIN! I request that the board of Black SDA reconsider what is slanderous and what is hurtful and take this stuff of its website.... God is not pleased with His Children partaking in a format similar to the "Jerry Springer" show.
>
> I dont believe that God is happy with us... God forgive us!
>
> Joe

It is true that - Gossip is wrong!
It is true that - Molesting children is wrong!
It is true that - Silence and cover-up of molestation is wrong and allows victimization of children to continue!

If there are...

1. Strong indications that a person working at 3abn could be a victimizer of young people

2. Strong indications that people in positions of power are aware of numerous allegations but have inadequately investigated the allegations

3. Strong indications that these powerful people have worked to keep these allegations hidden

...doesn't it become a matter of principle that Christians who discover these allegations should bring the situation to light and urge people in power to seek the truth and bring justice?

If Jesus knew that a man in a position of power was molesting children would He keep silent? Would He hold accountable only the molester or also those who kept silent or helped cover up the crimes?

Posted by: simplysaved Dec 18 2006, 09:07 AM

Bro. Joe:

I agree with you, partially. It is gossip that way that some of the posters are presenting information--and in a different way I say that in response to some of those posts. There are some 3ABN threads that God himself told me not to ever read....not because I am an ostrich, but because some of them are pure gossip and people who have been hurt allowing the devil to take over.

Where I disagree with you is that this is relevant news--relevant to us a Seventh-day Adventist Christians and as a church. If injustice is occuring, we have to take a stand. To do anything less would be sin.

I don't read most of the posts, but it does have a spiritual right to exist.

> QUOTE(Joe Smith @ Dec 17 2006, 11:29 AM)
>
> This is my first time to enter the BlackSDA site. I must say I am appalled by all the allogations that are printed here... whether true or untrue.... It make no difference. I can't believe that Jesus would have anything to do with such as this. He was... and is.. about Love and fellowship and lifting up one another... sharing one another's burdens.... even the Shelton's burdens... not about destroying one another with the tongue. GOSSIP is a HUGE SIN! I request that the board of Black SDA reconsider what is slanderous and what is hurtful and take this stuff of its website.... God is not pleased with His Children partaking in a format similar to the "Jerry Springer" show.
>
> I dont believe that God is happy with us... God forgive us!
>
> Joe

.....and ☒ welcome.gif Look forward to reading your postings in other threads!!!

Posted by: Lee Dec 18 2006, 10:42 AM

5 T p. 51-53: "I wish my position to be clearly understood. I have no sympathy with the course that has been pursued toward Bro. -------. The enemy has encouraged feelings of hatred in the hearts of many. The errors committed by him have been reported from one person to another, constantly growing in magnitude, as busy, gossiping tongues added fuel to the fire....Some have taken advantage of this, and faults of minor consequence have been made to appear like grave sins."

"Whatever may be Bro. -------'s faults, your course is unjustifiable and unchristian. You have gone back over his history for years, and have searched out everything that was unfavorable, every shadow of evil, and have made him an offender for a word. You have brought all the powers you could command to sustain yourselves in your course as accusers. Remember, God will deal in the same manner with every one of you. 'With what judgment ye judge, ye shall be judged; and with what measure ye mete, it shall be measured to you again.' Those who have taken part in this disgraceful proceeding will meet their work again."

Posted by: simplysaved Dec 18 2006, 10:53 AM

http://www.blacksda.com/forums/index.php?s=&showtopic=11633&view=findpost&p=163516

I agree...and it has been said! Just confirmation that it is from God through His messengers! This is the judgement that God tell us as Christians that we cannot do, because as humans, it is very easy for us to develop a spirit of unforgiveness and hatred to BOTH the sin and the sinner--that and because some of us have much worse going on in our private lives.

QUOTE(Lee @ Dec 18 2006, 11:42 AM) ☐

5 T p. 51-53: "I wish my position to be clearly understood. I have no sympathy with the course that has been pursued toward Bro. -------. The enemy has encouraged feelings of hatred in the hearts of many. The errors committed by him have been reported from one person to another, constantly growing in magnitude, as busy, gossiping tongues added fuel to the fire....Some have taken advantage of this, and faults of minor consequence have been made to appear like grave sins."

"Whatever may be Bro. -------'s faults, your course is unjustifiable and unchristian. You have gone back over his history for years, and have searched out everything that was unfavorable, every shadow of evil, and have made him an offender for a word. You have brought all the powers you could command to sustain yourselves in your course as accusers. Remember, God will deal in the same manner with every one of you. 'With what judgment ye judge, ye shall be judged; and with what measure ye mete, it shall be measured to you again.' Those who have taken part in this disgraceful proceeding will meet their work again."

Posted by: Joe Smith Dec 18 2006, 10:55 AM

OUCH... the attackes from the brethern hurt... and just for expressing a different opinion. The difference, I believe in Jesus judging a man, and you and I judging a man, is that He is God. He has all the facts correct, He never made a mis-judgment. He reads the heart... we cannot. If even one of those allogations about the Sheltons...is wrong... the damage has been done... people have been scared and the message of Christ has suffered. What is being posted is 2nd & 3rd & 4th hand gossip...

Posted by: simplysaved Dec 18 2006, 10:57 AM

Agreed! All I am saying Brother Joe is that the discussion about why injustice is not being addressed is not gossip....telling ALL of their personal business is.

> QUOTE(Joe Smith @ Dec 18 2006, 11:55 AM)
>
> OUCH... the attackes from the brethern hurt... and just for expressing a different opinion. The difference, I believe in Jesus judging a man, and you and I judging a man, is that He is God. He has all the facts correct, He never made a mis-judgment. He reads the heart... we cannot. If even one of those allogations about the Sheltons...is wrong... the damage has been done... people have been scared and the message of Christ has suffered. What is being posted is 2nd & 3rd & 4th hand gossip...

Posted by: Denny Dec 18 2006, 11:04 AM

> QUOTE(Joe Smith @ Dec 18 2006, 04:55 PM)
>
> OUCH... the attackes from the brethern hurt... and just for expressing a different opinion. The difference, I believe in Jesus judging a man, and you and I judging a man, is that He is God. He has all the facts correct, He never made a mis-judgment. He reads the heart... we cannot. If even one of those allogations about the Sheltons...is wrong... the damage has been done... people have been scared and the message of Christ has suffered. What is being posted is 2nd & 3rd & 4th hand gossip...

Joe you are not being attacked for having an opinion your opinion is being challenged this is a discussion board sometimes views differ.

Posted by: simplysaved Dec 18 2006, 11:13 AM

Joe:

I think that you have misunderstood. There are more who agree with you than disagree--at least for now.

> QUOTE(Joe Smith @ Dec 18 2006, 11:55 AM)

> OUCH... the attackes from the brethern hurt... and just for expressing a different opinion. The difference, I believe in Jesus judging a man, and you and I judging a man, is that He is God. He has all the facts correct, He never made a mis-judgment. He reads the heart... we cannot. If even one of those allogations about the Sheltons...is wrong... the damage has been done... people have been scared and the message of Christ has suffered. What is being posted is 2nd & 3rd & 4th hand gossip...

> QUOTE(Denny @ Dec 18 2006, 12:04 PM) ☐
>
> Joe you are not being attacked for having an opinion your opinion is being challenged this is a discussion board sometimes views differ.

Posted by: watchbird Dec 18 2006, 11:18 AM

> QUOTE(Joe Smith @ Dec 18 2006, 11:55 AM) ☐
>
> OUCH... the attackes from the brethern hurt... and just for expressing a different opinion. The difference, I believe in Jesus judging a man, and you and I judging a man, is that He is God. He has all the facts correct, He never made a mis-judgment. He reads the heart... we cannot. If even one of those allogations about the Sheltons...is wrong... the damage has been done... people have been scared and the message of Christ has suffered. What is being posted is 2nd & 3rd & 4th hand gossip...

No Joe.... you were not "attacked" for having a different opinion. You were confronted for attacking others and painting everyone here with the black brush of "gossipers". If you want to express a different opinion, then pick one item at a time and tell why you disagree with it.... but you had better be sure you have at least as good a reason for your disagreement as what you expect others to have for posting their experience or their opinion or the results of their research.

The things that have been posted here range all the way from snide remarks to first hand experience. You will not find much of the latter in recent posts, that is true... and the reason for that is that those who have told have no interest in repeating themselves time after time. If you will do as several of us have suggested.... go and read ALL the pinned items, including taking the link by link "guided tour", you will find for yourself which ones are speaking from their own personal experience and which are passing on information about what they have witnessed or learned through careful research.

And yes... the cause of Christ has had reproach put upon it. But at what point did that reproach occur? When someone exposed it to the light of day? Or when people were hurt in the first place? If you will come down off of your "high and mighty horse" and settle down to studying the evidence that is here for all to see..... then perhaps you won't be so "appalled" at what as being said here... and you will be a lot more "appalled" at what happened to cause people to say what they have said here.

Posted by: princessdi Dec 18 2006, 11:36 AM

Ok, but Bro. Joe, when you posted, you came out with guns blazing, comparing BSDA, at least in the 3ABN forum with the "Jerry Springer Show"(your own words). bedisdes other requests, accusations and judgements I don't know how much you have read, but a lot of it is first hand knowledge. It is easier to try to dismiss it because the information is distasteful and, therefore, hurtful for us to hear. However, just consider how hurtful it is to some of those relating their own experiences. I know it is easier to invalidate their pain, then to think that these things are happening within out church, committed by those who are not just church members but church leaders. As Watchbird says, if you have specific areas of disagreement, then it is best that you post that with your support or reasoning/opinion, but you started by making a judgement on a group of people. Did you really think they would not respond in kind?

Once again, I hope you stay to enjoy the rest of our Community!

> QUOTE(Joe Smith @ Dec 18 2006, 08:55 AM) ☐
>
> OUCH... the attackes from the brethern hurt... and just for expressing a different opinion. The difference, I believe in Jesus judging a man, and you and I judging a man, is that He is God. He has all the facts correct, He never made a mis-judgment. He reads the heart... we cannot. If even one of those allogations about the Sheltons...is wrong... the damage has been done... people have been scared and the message of Christ has suffered. What is being posted is 2nd & 3rd & 4th hand gossip...

Posted by: summertime Dec 18 2006, 11:39 AM

> QUOTE(missthg @ Dec 17 2006, 11:56 AM) ☐
>
> here's a thought - if you dont like what you are reading....stop reading...JMHO

Just an interesting note--The name Joe Smith is so commonly used that there are 40,800,000 hits on Google for people who are using the entitity or name of Joe or the name of Smith. Easy to choose--- hard to find. Combine the 2 and you come up with the anonamously used name of Joe Smith.

Posted by: simplysaved Dec 18 2006, 12:08 PM

WB:

I would appreciate your perspective on the EGW quote in clear context, if you please:

> QUOTE(Lee @ Dec 18 2006, 11:42 AM) ☐
>
> 5 T p. 51-53: "I wish my position to be clearly understood. I have no sympathy with the course that has been pursued toward Bro. -------. The enemy has encouraged feelings of hatred in the hearts of many. The errors committed by him have been reported from one person to another, constantly growing in magnitude, as busy, gossiping tongues added fuel to the fire....Some have taken advantage of this, and faults of minor consequence have been made to appear like grave sins."
>
> "Whatever may be Bro. -------'s faults, your course is unjustifiable and unchristian. You have gone back over his history for years, and have searched out everything that was unfavorable, every > shadow of evil, and have made him an offender for a word. You have brought all the powers you could command to sustain yourselves in your course as accusers. Remember, God will deal in the same manner with every one of you. 'With what judgment ye judge, ye shall be judged; and with what measure ye mete, it shall be measured to you again.' Those who have taken part in this disgraceful proceeding will meet their work again."

> QUOTE(watchbird @ Dec 18 2006, 12:18 PM)
>
> No Joe.... you were not "attacked" for having a different opinion. You were confronted for attacking others and painting everyone here with the black brush of "gossipers". If you want to express a different opinion, then pick one item at a time and tell why you disagree with it.... but you had better be sure you have at least as good a reason for your disagreement as what you expect others to have for posting their experience or their opinion or the results of their research.
>
> The things that have been posted here range all the way from snide remarks to first hand experience. You will not find much of the latter in recent posts, that is true... and the reason for that is that those who have told have no interest in repeating themselves time after time. If you will do as several of us have suggested.... go and read ALL the pinned items, including taking the link by link "guided tour", you will find for yourself which ones are speaking from their own personal experience and which are passing on information about what they have witnessed or learned through careful research.
>
> And yes... the cause of Christ has had reproach put upon it. But at what point did that reproach occur? When someone exposed it to the light of day? Or when people were hurt in the first place? If you will come down off of your "high and mighty horse" and settle down to studying the evidence that is here for all to see..... then perhaps you won't be so "appalled" at what as being said here... and you will be a lot more "appalled" at what happened to cause people to say what they have said here.

Summertime:

People have a right to choose whatever username they want (as long as it isn't "cussing" or "vulgar") at BSDA...

> QUOTE(summertime @ Dec 18 2006, 12:39 PM)
>
> Just an interesting note--The name Joe Smith is so commonly used that there are 40,800,000 hits on Google for people who are using the entitity or name of Joe or the name of Smith. Easy to choose---hard to find. Combine the 2 and you come up with the anonamously used name of Joe Smith.

Posted by: Eddy Dec 18 2006, 12:10 PM

> QUOTE(Joe Smith @ Dec 17 2006, 11:29 AM)
>
> This is my first time to enter the BlackSDA site. I must say I am appalled by all the allogations that > are printed here... whether true or untrue.... It make no difference. I can't believe that Jesus would have anything to do with such as this. He was... and is.. about Love and fellowship and lifting up one another... sharing one another's burdens.... even the Shelton's burdens... not about destroying one another with the tongue. GOSSIP is a HUGE SIN! I request that the board of Black SDA reconsider what is slanderous and what is hurtful and take this stuff of its website.... God is not pleased with His Children partaking in a format similar to the "Jerry Springer" show.

>
> I dont believe that God is happy with us... God forgive us!
>
> Joe

If you don't like the site, then why bother to continue posting?

To the left, to the left... everything you own in a box to the left.

Posted by: simplysaved Dec 18 2006, 12:17 PM

No Eddy, that is not fair....he makes valid points and belongs here just as much as all of us.

> QUOTE(Eddy @ Dec 18 2006, 01:10 PM)
>
> If you don't like the site, then why bother to continue posting?
>
> To the left, to the left... everything you own in a box to the left.

Posted by: Eddy Dec 18 2006, 12:36 PM

> QUOTE(simplysaved @ Dec 18 2006, 01:17 PM)
>
> No Eddy, that is not fair....he makes valid points and belongs here just as much as all of us.

I guess... ... But usually when I visit a site that I don't like... I leave and look for another.
But that was mean and I'm sorry Joe.

Posted by: awesumtenor Dec 18 2006, 01:02 PM

> QUOTE(Joe Smith @ Dec 17 2006, 11:29 AM)
>
> This is my first time to enter the BlackSDA site. I must say I am appalled by all the allogations that > are printed here... whether true or untrue.... It make no difference. I can't believe that Jesus would have anything to do with such as this. He was... and is.. about Love and fellowship and lifting up one another... sharing one another's burdens.... even the Shelton's burdens... not about destroying one another with the tongue. GOSSIP is a HUGE SIN! I request that the board of Black SDA reconsider what is slanderous and what is hurtful and take this stuff of its website.... God is not pleased with His Children partaking in a format similar to the "Jerry Springer" show.

>
> I dont believe that God is happy with us... God forgive us!
>
> Joe

And yet you read it anyway... which says a lot about you... and that opthalmic lumber yard you seem to be missing when you look in the mirror...

In His service,
Mr. J

Posted by: simplysaved Dec 18 2006, 01:09 PM

I am sure that he will appreciate it.

> QUOTE(Eddy @ Dec 18 2006, 01:36 PM)
>
> I guess... ... But usually when I visit a site that I don't like... I leave and look for another. But that was mean and I'm sorry Joe.

Posted by: awesumtenor Dec 18 2006, 01:15 PM

> QUOTE(alramwill @ Dec 17 2006, 01:03 PM)
>
> Dial 1-877-SNIFFLE.... ....they'll take care of you.

He's past the SNIFFLE stage... he needs an urgent intervention from 1-800-WAA-AAAH....toll free so he wont even need a quarter to call someone who cares...

In His service,
Mr. J

Posted by: Observer Dec 18 2006, 01:18 PM

Re: "What is being posted is 2nd & 3rd & 4th hand gossip..."

That statement is false, even if partly true. There may be individual posts to which you are accurate. But, it is false as it relates to much that has been posted. There are people who have posted many first-hand experiences.

You have painted with a broad brush many to whom the application is false.

You are also being challenged on your view of God, and what God expects people to do in response to percieved sin and wrong doing.

Posted by: simplysaved Dec 18 2006, 01:24 PM

Question: Can the truth be presented in a way that it becomes gossip IYHO?

> QUOTE(Observer @ Dec 18 2006, 02:18 PM)
>
> Re: "What is being posted is 2nd & 3rd & 4th hand gossip..."
>
> That statement is false, even if partly true. There may be individual posts to which you are accurate. But, it is false as it relates to much that has been posted. There are people who have posted many first-hand experiences.
>
> You have painted with a broad brush many to whom the application is false.
>
> You are also being challenged on your view of God, and what God expects people to do in response to percieved sin and wrong doing.

....even if it is first hand account information?

Posted by: princessdi Dec 18 2006, 01:36 PM

I believe the problem is that it does include the sordid details of people's personal lives. Therefore, it "looks" like gossip. I bleive we are mostly talking about the reasons most beliee that several members fromt he Shelton Family should have been disciplined for the violation of many and varied laws regarding marriage, etc Once again, it sounds bad, they sound worse than ascript from Y&R, but we also know a good portion of it is true, and that no disciplinary action has been taken. People are appalled at the charges being levelled at Linda without proof to this day, but with success BTW, by people who are getting away with their dirt.

Also, like I said, it is very painful to those who love the church, and especially those who have come to love 3ABN, it's ministry, and the leaders there. Anything that is contradictory to what they seem to represent is going to sound hardsh, and be painful to hear. But one thing we all must understnad, God does not need 3ABN, Danny, Tommy, or even Linda to finish His work. It is a blessing for each of us to able to serve Him. We get awfully attached to man{general}, especially if they present themselves as God's representatives.

> QUOTE(simplysaved @ Dec 18 2006, 11:24 AM)
>
> Question: Can the truth be presented in a way that it becomes gossip IYHO?
> ....even if it is first hand account information?

Posted by: Eddy Dec 18 2006, 02:01 PM

Some call it gossip, and others see it as a discussion on current events in the SDA Church. If you don't agree, don't read it, don't post it. It should be simple as that. What's the problem?

Posted by: princessdi Dec 18 2006, 02:23 PM

Well, you know some folks don't see it like that, and it is true that they do have a right to express their "righteous" indignation. However, they can't be surprised or hurt when folks respond in kind. Joe levelled some pretty rough accusations of those posting in 3ABN, and used pretty strong language. My favorite pastor always says ,"If you want friends, you must present yourself as as friend. Joe came here are no friend, he came to rebuke, without having all the facts, BTW.

He is still very much welcome here as a member to post where and what he pleases, as long as it is not against the board rules. Just realize he will get as good as he gives.

> QUOTE(Eddy @ Dec 18 2006, 12:01 PM)
>
> Some call it gossip, and others see it as a discussion on current events in the SDA Church. If you don't agree, don't read it, don't post it. It should be simple as that. What's the problem?

Posted by: Johann Dec 18 2006, 02:27 PM

> QUOTE(Lee @ Dec 18 2006, 06:42 PM)
>
> 5 T p. 51-53: "I wish my position to be clearly understood. I have no sympathy with the course that has been pursued toward Bro. -------. The enemy has encouraged feelings of hatred in the hearts of many. The errors committed by him have been reported from one person to another, constantly growing in magnitude, as busy, gossiping tongues added fuel to the fire....Some have taken advantage of this, and faults of minor consequence have been made to appear like grave sins."
>
> "Whatever may be Bro. -------'s faults, your course is unjustifiable and unchristian. You have gone back over his history for years, and have searched out everything that was unfavorable, every shadow of evil, and have made him an offender for a word. You have brought all the powers you could command to sustain yourselves in your course as accusers. Remember, God will deal in the > same manner with every one of you. 'With what judgment ye judge, ye shall be judged; and with what measure ye mete, it shall be measured to you again.' Those who have taken part in this disgraceful proceeding will meet their work again."

Lee, you have picked out select quotations from this chapter. I would encourage people to rerad the whole chapter, and also a book where your find all of Ellen White testimonies regarding Battle Creek. Here you can read the background of these testimonies and under what situation they were given.

These are powerful words, but don't forget, they can be turned either way. How about what evil lies 3ABN has used against Linda Shelton just so that Danny could marry another girlfriend and get away with it?

Posted by: Clay Dec 18 2006, 02:33 PM

> QUOTE(Joe Smith @ Dec 18 2006, 10:55 AM) ☐
>
> OUCH... the attackes from the brethern hurt... and just for expressing a different opinion. The difference, I believe in Jesus judging a man, and you and I judging a man, is that He is God. He has all the facts correct, He never made a mis-judgment. He reads the heart... we cannot. If even one of those allogations about the Sheltons...is wrong... the damage has been done... people have been scared and the message of Christ has suffered. What is being posted is 2nd & 3rd & 4th hand gossip...

welcome to the forum... if you felt compelled to make your first post here, then we must assume you are big enough to handle the fallout from that post....

No one has judged anyone yet.... we have discussed in sordid detail various events in the lives of those involved.... judging to me would be saying that because the Sheltons have done this they are going to hell.... that hasn't happened yet I don't think.....

Posted by: simplysaved Dec 18 2006, 02:50 PM

Now Steve, you know that is not true... ☐

> QUOTE(Clay @ Dec 18 2006, 03:33 PM) ☐
>
> welcome to the forum... if you felt compelled to make your first post here, then we must assume you are big enough to handle the fallout from that post....
>
> No one has judged anyone yet.... we have discussed in sordid detail various events in the lives of those involved.... judging to me would be saying that because the Sheltons have done this they are going to hell.... that hasn't happened yet I don't think.....

Posted by: princessdi Dec 18 2006, 03:03 PM

You are correct Sarah, Joe did judge people when he called them gossips, etc. All other posts are in presonse to his judgements.

> QUOTE
>
> This is my first time to enter the BlackSDA site. I must say I am appalled by all the allogations that are printed here... whether true or untrue.... It make no difference. I can't believe that Jesus would have anything to do with such as this. He was... and is.. about Love and fellowship and lifting up one another... sharing one another's burdens.... even the Shelton's burdens... not about destroying one another with the tongue. GOSSIP is a HUGE SIN! I request that the board of Black SDA reconsider what is slanderous and what is hurtful and take this stuff of its website....God is not pleased with His Children partaking in a format similar to the "Jerry Springer" show.
> I dont believe that God is happy with us... God forgive us!

Sounds like he pronounced quite a judgement to me!

> QUOTE(simplysaved @ Dec 18 2006, 12:50 PM)
>
> Now Steve, you know that is not true...

Posted by: simplysaved Dec 18 2006, 03:44 PM

Joe is not the only that has passed judgement....however, the judgement I refer to is that one that has 3ABN administration found guilty of charges and complaints even to the post that I asked Sister "why" post it...

> QUOTE(princessdi @ Dec 18 2006, 04:03 PM)
>
> You are correct Sarah, Joe did judge people when he called them gossips, etc. All other posts are in presonse to his judgements.
> Sounds like he pronounced quite a judgement to me!

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Dec 18 2006, 05:05 PM

> QUOTE(Lee @ Dec 18 2006, 09:42 AM)
>
> 5 T p. 51-53: "I wish my position to be clearly understood. I have no sympathy with the course that has been pursued toward Bro. -------. The enemy has encouraged feelings of hatred in the hearts of many. The errors committed by him have been reported from one person to another, constantly growing in magnitude, as busy, gossiping tongues added fuel to the fire....Some have taken advantage of this, and faults of minor consequence have been made to appear like grave sins."

> "Whatever may be Bro. -------'s faults, your course is unjustifiable and unchristian. You have gone back over his history for years, and have searched out everything that was unfavorable, every shadow of evil, and have made him an offender for a word. You have brought all the powers you could command to sustain yourselves in your course as accusers. Remember, God will deal in the same manner with every one of you. 'With what judgment ye judge, ye shall be judged; and with what measure ye mete, it shall be measured to you again.' Those who have taken part in this disgraceful proceeding will meet their work again."

Lee,
It is quite obvious that Sister White is NOT talking about sins as greivous as the victimization of young people in this quote. She is directly speaking about gossiping up "faults of minor consequence" and making them appear major. Surely you can see that there is a HUGE difference.

As Johann suggested, all should read the whole chapter and the background material.

Brother Smith,
If the allegations against Tommy Shelton are true, what would you suggest we as a church do about it? Should we pray that justice will one day be done? Should we gather around a campfire and sing pretty songs? Should we leave it as it is and hope that no other child falls victim?

Posted by: PrincessDrRe Dec 18 2006, 06:13 PM

> QUOTE(Joe Smith @ Dec 18 2006, 12:55 PM)
>
> OUCH... the attackes from the brethern hurt... and just for expressing a different opinion. The difference, I believe in Jesus judging a man, and you and I judging a man, is that He is God. He has all the facts correct, He never made a mis-judgment. He reads the heart... we cannot. If even one of those allogations about the Sheltons...is wrong... the damage has been done... people have been scared and the message of Christ has suffered. What is being posted is 2nd & 3rd & 4th hand gossip...

Now truthfully speaking - this may be true for some of the posts - however for those that first-hand experienced it this is an outright lie and discredits their experiences and their emotional connection to such.

> QUOTE(Denny @ Dec 18 2006, 01:04 PM)
>
> Joe you are not being attacked for having an opinion your opinion is being challenged this is a discussion board sometimes views differ.

ITA! I have had "disagreements" with folks on this board. Folks I know face-to-face even....but you know the difference in those "disagreements" and the "differing of opinions" (yours)? They do it with love and have not "accused" me of anything they cannot back up.

You did.

We all are not gossipers.... that is what you said. That is a lie.

> QUOTE(watchbird @ Dec 18 2006, 01:18 PM)
>
> No Joe.... you were not "attacked" for having a different opinion. You were confronted for attacking others and painting everyone here with the black brush of "gossipers". If you want to express a different opinion, then pick one item at a time and tell why you disagree with it.... but you had > better be sure you have at least as good a reason for your disagreement as what you expect others to have for posting their experience or their opinion or the results of their research.

>
> The things that have been posted here range all the way from snide remarks to first hand experience. You will not find much of the latter in recent posts, that is true... and the reason for that is that those who have told have no interest in repeating themselves time after time. If you will do as several of us have suggested.... go and read ALL the pinned items, including taking the link by link "guided tour", you will find for yourself which ones are speaking from their own personal experience and which are passing on information about what they have witnessed or learned through careful research.
>
> And yes... the cause of Christ has had reproach put upon it. But at what point did that reproach occur? When someone exposed it to the light of day? Or when people were hurt in the first place? If you will come down off of your "high and mighty horse" and settle down to studying the evidence that is here for all to see..... then perhaps you won't be so "appalled" at what as being said here... and you will be a lot more "appalled" at what happened to cause people to say what they have said here.

What's even sadder is that of all the "gossip" that was posted (per Joe) there is information posted about sexual molestation of a child! Would you allow that to pass if it was your child? If so this is definately not the board for you....

> QUOTE(princessdi @ Dec 18 2006, 01:36 PM)
>
> [color=#006600]
> As Watchbird says, if you have specific areas of disagreement, then it is best that you post that with your support or reasoning/opinion, but you started by making a judgement on a group of people. Did you really think they would not respond in kind?
> [color]

> QUOTE(Observer @ Dec 18 2006, 03:18 PM)
>
> ....You have painted with a broad brush many to whom the application is false.
>
> You are also being challenged on your view of God, and what God expects people to do in response to percieved sin and wrong doing.

We have a quote here.....
"This isn't Sabbath School - we pay attention here...." What this means is that many go to Sabbath School and really (in all honesty) don't pay any attention. We read here. We research here. We post facts to back our posts. Whether or not you believe what is posted - you best believe you better have proof it is a lie before calling it a lie.

> QUOTE(Eddy @ Dec 18 2006, 04:01 PM)
>
> Some call it gossip, and others see it as a discussion on current events in the SDA Church. If you don't agree, don't read it, don't post it. It should be simple as that. What's the problem?

> QUOTE(PeacefullyBewildered @ Dec 18 2006, 07:05 PM)
>
> ...As Johann suggested, all should read the whole chapter and the background material.
>
> Brother Smith,

> If the allegations against Tommy Shelton are true, what would you suggest we as a church do about it? Should we pray that justice will one day be done? Should we gather around a campfire and sing pretty songs? Should we leave it as it is and hope that no other child falls victim?

...but what is sad is that if you don't read it; that doesn't mean it's going to go away. If you expose your child or the child of someone you know to someone that is a molestor - and you had the time and information in front of you to make an informed decision; and you do not "read it"/see it as gossip.

That is on your head.

Sing pretty songs? We already are notorious for doing this....

Posted by: Clay Dec 18 2006, 06:25 PM

> QUOTE(simplysaved @ Dec 18 2006, 02:50 PM)
>
> Now Steve, you know that is not true...

I know no such thing.... has Danny Shelton been judged? Or any of the other players in this mess? I think their actions have been called into question, but judged, I don't think so.....

Posted by: PrincessDrRe Dec 18 2006, 06:27 PM

> QUOTE(Clay @ Dec 18 2006, 08:25 PM)
>
> I know no such thing.... has Danny Shelton been judged? Or any of the other players in this mess? I think their actions have been called into question, but judged, I don't think so.....

The true fact remains that no one has been actually "judged" per se.

That's why a molestor is still on the loose.

JMO.

Posted by: Eddy Dec 18 2006, 06:34 PM

> QUOTE(PrincessDrRe @ Dec 18 2006, 07:27 PM)
>
> The true fact remains that no one has been actually "judged" per se.

> That's why a molestor is still on the loose.
>
> JMO.

I'm still not getting the molestor comparisons.

Posted by: seraph|m Dec 18 2006, 09:24 PM

> QUOTE(summertime @ Dec 18 2006, 12:39 PM)
>
> Just an interesting note--The name Joe Smith is so commonly used that there are 40,800,000 hits on Google for people who are using the entitity or name of Joe or the name of Smith. Easy to choose---hard to find. Combine the 2 and you come up with the anonamously used name of Joe Smith.

Not that it really matters, but yes it is easy to use... however it is not as hard to find, as one might think

---

Posted by: watchbird Dec 18 2006, 11:18 PM

> QUOTE(simplysaved @ Dec 18 2006, 01:08 PM)
>
> WB:
>
> I would appreciate your perspective on the EGW quote in clear context, if you please:

I'll be glad to give it, SS, but it won't be for a day or two .... got a couple projects that have to be finished first..... rattle my chain if I don't have it done by Sabbath.

Posted by: Johann Dec 19 2006, 03:51 AM

> QUOTE(Joe Smith @ Dec 18 2006, 06:55 PM)
>
> OUCH... the attackes from the brethern hurt... and just for expressing a different opinion. The difference, I believe in Jesus judging a man, and you and I judging a man, is that He is God. He has all the facts correct, He never made a mis-judgment. He reads the heart... we cannot. If even one of those allogations about the Sheltons...is wrong... the damage has been done... people have been scared and the message of Christ has suffered. What is being posted is 2nd & 3rd & 4th hand gossip...

Tell me, "Joe Smith", since you are so close to the other Sheltons, were you also present at the birthday party Brenda held for Danny Shelton in 2004? Even though Linda was still Danny's wife, she was not invited to the party. Do you know why?

Posted by: simplysaved Dec 19 2006, 10:29 AM

Will do!

> QUOTE(watchbird @ Dec 19 2006, 12:18 AM)
>
> I'll be glad to give it, SS, but it won't be for a day or two .... got a couple projects that have to be finished first..... rattle my chain if I don't have it done by Sabbath.

Posted by: PrincessDrRe Dec 19 2006, 03:31 PM

> QUOTE(Eddy @ Dec 18 2006, 08:34 PM)
>
> I'm still not getting the molestor comparisons.

Hit your PM......

I got you.....

Posted by: LadyTenor Dec 19 2006, 03:44 PM

> QUOTE(Johann @ Dec 19 2006, 04:51 AM)
>
> Tell me, "Joe Smith", since you are so close to the other Sheltons, were you also present at the birthday party Brenda held for Danny Shelton in 2004? Even though Linda was still Danny's wife, she was not invited to the party. Do you know why?

That does not sound proper nor does it sound appropriate!

Posted by: PrincessDrRe Dec 19 2006, 06:44 PM

> QUOTE(LadyTenor @ Dec 19 2006, 05:44 PM)

> That does not sound proper nor does it sound appropriate!

STANK!!!

Posted by: Brother Sam Dec 19 2006, 06:51 PM

I am seeing posts regarding how bad and unchristian comments are being made about 3ABN leadership. How many of these do-gooders have actually worked there and/or experienced what is really going on - can they not handle reading and hearing the truth - even though it is not what they want to hear or choose to believe. What upsets employees and their families is that there is a totally different standard expected of them than what is pemitted of the Shelton family and the top management of 3ABN. Do people really know what is going on there???

Why do so many employees leave there disgusted with how things really are?

When Yolanda Innocent got a divorce, her singing and programming was pulled from the air and 3ABN no longer sold or promoted her music. However, when a Shelton gets a divorce, it is business as usual - is there anything wrong with this picture??? Are we experiencing a blatant double standard???

When a male employee stayed overnight with a female employee, they were told that if this behavior was repeated, they would be terminated. Yet a Shelton employee can have a live in or repeated overnight opposite sex visitor and nobody asks questions. Is their behavior of any type above reproach???

When a Shelton uses profanity on the premises, there is no consequence. Would anybody else have such latitude???

The Sheltons openly say that nobody can sing like a Shelton, nobody can manage like a Shelton and nobody can speak like a Shelton - I am saying thank goodness!!!

If you are not a Shelton, you are considered a second or third class person. A Shelton has such high self esteeem that they act as though they have a direct line to God and everything they do is santioned by God - do they really??? Or is it all in their over inflated heads???

Posted by: PrincessDrRe Dec 19 2006, 07:28 PM

Come here Brother Sam.... I got a hug for you. I feel your anger and understand your pain (in my own way).....

☒ hug.gif

Posted by: Joe Smith Dec 19 2006, 08:59 PM

> QUOTE(simplysaved @ Dec 18 2006, 12:08 PM)
>
> WB:
>
> I would appreciate your perspective on the EGW quote in clear context, if you please:

> I couldn't agree more with the quote from EGW. I have been silent about many things because I do not want to come under attack again. But as some have said... speak up or stick your head in the sand. I will say this... What I know is not from 2nd hand information. I was there. I have known the Shelton family personally for many years and have been around 3ABN nearly from the start. There are huge amounts of twisted information. Don't be sooo quick to believe the threads are correct... Many of the perks mentioned there.. were completely accepted and wanted by Linda. She drew the same salary and benefits as Danny ... the house , the pool, the sona, the Horses... don't forget.. 1/2 of horses are Linda's still yet... I also know that she lives in a mansion herself... with a huge pool now...Again I was there when these things were happening.
> Joe
>
> Summertime:
>
> People have a right to choose whatever username they want (as long as it isn't "cussing" or "vulgar") at BSDA...

Posted by: Clay Dec 19 2006, 09:04 PM

Then tell us Joe in the divorce settlement why Linda didn't get half of the marital assets? Twisted info? such as?

Posted by: Aletheia Dec 19 2006, 09:38 PM

> QUOTE(Clay @ Dec 19 2006, 10:04 PM)
>
> Then tell us Joe in the divorce settlement why Linda didn't get half of the marital assets? Twisted info? such as?

Guam has community property laws so all settlements there are supposed to be equal.
Apparently from your question you are aquainted with the divorce settlement and know that it wasn't?

How twisted could the info have been? Wouldn't she have known? wasn't she aquainted with her and Danny's personal finances, and also the vice president of 3 ABN?

Why then did she agree and sign her name?

Adventist Today as well as 3ABN both announced the Sheltons got a "uncontested divorce" from Guam in 06/04.

Even that much quoted separation agreement which she signed on leaving 3 ABN contains a clause for arbitration regarding the terms. I don't know how they could have layed out a fairer way for things to be resolved, but she never availed herself of that option. Why not, if that agreement was so unfair?

Maybe she'll answer now as the much used "gag order" excuse used everytime somebody wanted to amake accusations without backing it up with evidence, disappeared at the beginning of this month when she received the last of her 250,000 from 3ABN.

~ Aletheia

Posted by: Joe Smith Dec 19 2006, 09:54 PM

> QUOTE(Clay @ Dec 19 2006, 09:04 PM) ☐
>
> Then tell us Joe in the divorce settlement why Linda didn't get half of the marital assets? Twisted info? such as?
>
> Clay... First of all I want to appologize for by first 2 posts. I am sorry for calling so many good people, gossips. It was my first time seeing the BSDA site and I was blown away. That's not a good excuse so I'll just say, PLease everyone that I have affended. please forgive me. I don't want to lump you all in one group when I talk about gossip. Thanks for the wake up call!
>
> About the divorce settlement... yes I know about it. It wasn't financially fair. Danny got the short end of the stick on the house, on the furniture... he took responsibility for their depts, credit cards etc. He paid her ABOVE the market appraizal for her half of the house.. She cannot disprove anything that I have writen here.
>
> Joe

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Dec 19 2006, 10:08 PM

While this selection of quotes from a Review and Herald article is somewhat lengthy, I think they show just how important speaking out against evil doing is. The quotes are in response to a visit to a church service in Fresno, California just after Ellen White visited my great-great-grandfather, James Driver, on his deathbed.

"The messengers, as the ambassadors of God, must bear a living testimony to rebuke sin, which will cut through the soul, whether men will hear, or whether they will forbear. There are many who close their eyes that they may not see, and their ears that they may not hear. They think that there has been a mistake made, that all these plain, pointed testimonies cannot come from God, but are from human agencies alone. They wrap themselves up in their self-righteousness, and fight every inch of the way, that they may stand where they imagine they should stand,--in defiance of the warnings of God's servants. They cling with desperate grasp to the garments of their own self-righteousness, lest they should be torn away from them. {RH, July 3, 1888 par. 5}

What shall we do? Shall we bear the message God gives us, or shall we refrain, for fear of offending our brethren? as God's messengers, we can not falter in the path of duty. Impelled by the Spirit of God, words are spoken, warnings and counsels are given. All unexpectedly the lips were opened, and there was no refraining from speaking the message of God. Reproofs were uttered that we would naturally shrink from giving. A zeal, prompted by the Spirit of God, led us to declare the dangers that threatened the children of God. The servant of the Lord must pursue his work, losing sight of self, without thought of the consequences, exhorting to faithfulness, and urging to repentance. He must show the people their transgression, and the house of Jacob their sins. The Lord has given the word; who can forbear to publish it? The love of Christ has a constraining power; who shall withstand its influence? It is the greatest evidence that God loves his people, that he sends them messages of warning. {RH, July 3, 1888 par. 7}

Will these souls who have a knowledge of the truth, detest sin in themselves, as they consider how Jesus suffered to save them from its penalty, and to cleanse them from all iniquity? If we would be happy and consistent Christians, we must be watchful. It is not enough that we do not willfully run into apparent and decided dangers, but we must keep our souls to the rays of light that are shining from Jesus, that we may not walk in darkness. We must be quick to distinguish between error and perversity, between obedience and truth. We must be ready to resist hasty and unexpected attacks. Will the church at Fresno cherish the light? Will the professed servants of God walk in the light? or will they choose to walk in the sparks of their own kindling? Said Christ, "Walk while ye have the light, lest darkness come upon you." Let us all pray that our eyes may be anointed with divine eyesalve, that we may no longer walk in darkness and uncertainty, but in the light which God has flashed athwart our pathway. {RH, July 3, 1888 par. 10}

There is need of watchmen on the walls of Zion, who will not hold their peace day or night. They should look to God, and free themselves from every earthly entanglement, that they may have power with God, and influence with the people. There is constant danger of the church's becoming cold, and conforming to the habits and practices of the world. Christians are not watchful. They yield to the baleful influences that surround them. They are led captive by Satan at his will. Unless the people of God watch and pray, spirituality will go out of the heart as water out of a leaky vessel. From the watch-tower of Zion, let us sound a note of alarm. I have wept in secret places over the existing difficulties in the church of Christ. Many are thoughtless, and they disregard the warnings that have been given, and their feet stumble on the dark mountains of unbelief. I have passed many sleepless hours at night, offering prayer to God, crying, "Spare thy people, O Lord, and give not thine heritage to reproach. . . .Wherefore should they say among the people, Where is their God?" When souls in the darkness of error shall call, "Watchman, what of the night?" is there one who sees with heaven-inspired accuracy, the dangers that threaten the souls of men? Can they answer with firm faith, "The morning cometh, and also the night"? {RH, July 3, 1888 par. 12}"

This article clearly shows that it is the duty of every servant of the Lord to exhort to faithfulness and urge to repentance. This is far from gossip.

To read the whole Review and Herald article you can click on the link below.

http://egwdatabase.whiteestate.org/nxt/gateway.dll?f=templates$fn=default.htm$vid=default

Joe, I'd like to remind you that the EGW quote posted earlier by Lee was speaking of "faults of minor consequence" that gossip had made "appear like grave sins." I am reposting this quote below to enable you to read it carefully and weigh the differences between her clear call to a duty to warn as opposed to her exhortation against gossip.

5 T p. 51-53: "I wish my position to be clearly understood. I have no sympathy with the course that has been pursued toward Bro. -------. The enemy has encouraged feelings of hatred in the hearts of many. The errors committed by him have been reported from one person to another, constantly growing in magnitude, as busy, gossiping tongues added fuel to the fire....Some have taken advantage of this, and faults of minor consequence have been made to appear like grave sins."

(any bolding of quotes provided by me)

Posted by: calvin Dec 19 2006, 10:34 PM

> QUOTE(Clay @ Dec 19 2006, 09:04 PM) ☐
>
> Then tell us Joe in the divorce settlement why Linda didn't get half of the marital assets? Twisted info? such as?

Maybe she should have had a better divorce attorney. Divorces are negotiable. And you know the terms of the divorce to determine Linda did not get a fair settlement?

Posted by: Johann Dec 20 2006, 03:43 AM

Mr. Joe Smith,

Since you know the Sheltons so well, perhaps you can help clear up some questions I have. Danny and others claim that he has paid off Linda's car a long time ago. Can you tell me why the bank still retains the title to the car, and also why Linda has been making the payments on this car, and still is?

Posted by: Observer Dec 20 2006, 04:45 AM

Re: "Guam has community property laws so all settlements there are supposed to be equal."

Alethia, just about every time you open your mouth on a question of law you demonstrate that you do not understand the law.

States with Community Property laws do not require that "all settlements" be equal.

First, they only require that marital property be equally divided. They all do not require that property that is not marital property be equally divided. They all allow such property to remain with one of the parties to the divorce.

Second, all community property states require a full disclosure of property, so that the Court can determine what property is marital property, and what is not marital property. You will not find that such was done in the Shelton divorce. Due to this requirement of full disclosure, litigation following the divorce may take place either because no such disclosure was done at the time of the divorce, or that it was fraudulently done. There are also other reasons under which future litigation may take place.

Third, yes, Guam has a community property law. But, the law in effect at the time of the Shelton divorce did not require that property issues and child support issues be settled in order to obtain a divorce. The law in Guam clearly allowed for a divorce to be granted, with such issues to be settled by courts in other venues.

As applied to Guam, an uncontested divorce only means that the parties did not contest the dissolution of the legal marriage. It does not mean that all issues of property, and other issues, be agreed upon, and settled.

You tell us that Linda signed an agreement that contained an arbitration clause, and you asked why she did not comply with the provisions of such an agreement. If you take that agreement to a competent attorney, you will quickly be informed as to why that never happened.

First it contained clauses that would never be enforced by a U.S. court.

Second, that agreement is deficient in the meeting a legal requirement for enforcement that mandates that Linda was fully informed in regard to the implications of what she was signing. You may respond that it was incumbent upon her attorney to inform her of the full implications of what she signed, and of the legal rights that she was giving up. In litigation, such a defense is commonly rejected. In order to be enforced in a court of law, that agreement should have laid out in detail the legal rights that she had, and was giving up. It should have warned her of the implications of giving up such rights, in detail.

In short, if you take that agreement to a competent attorney, you will be told that is is subject to challenge in a number of areas. U.S. law commonly does not require that people who sign legal agreements be held to the terms of those agreements if they have not understood them.

A case in point: I was once asked to sign a legal agreement written in a language other than English, and in a language that I did not read. Yes I was given an English translation. But, the document clearly stated that the English translation was not binding, and that the binding document would be the one written in the other language. I correctly forced a binding English document upon the other party.

Posted by: Joe Smith Dec 20 2006, 08:01 AM

> QUOTE(Johann @ Dec 19 2006, 03:51 AM) ☐
>
> Tell me, "Joe Smith", since you are so close to the other Sheltons, were you also present at the birthday party Brenda held for Danny Shelton in 2004? Even though Linda was still Danny's wife, she was not invited to the party. Do you know why?

I do know about that. It was a "get together" of close family friends.... the house was so full of people... including the ordained SDA pastor Lomacang and his wife.. Angie that people had to eat in the living room because there wasn't enough room in the kitchen and dining room. This wasn't inappropriate at all... it wasn't a private party of Danny and Brenda as it is portrayed to be. As far as where was Linda?... She was off on one of her 3 day adventures... Yes, she didn't care enough for Danny to stay home that day to be part of ... his birthday ..

Joe

> QUOTE(PeacefullyBewildered @ Dec 19 2006, 10:08 PM) ☐
>
> While this selection of quotes from a Review and Herald article is somewhat lengthy, I think they show just how important speaking out against evil doing is. The quotes are in response to a visit to a church service in Fresno, California just after Ellen White visited my great-great-grandfather, James Driver, on his deathbed.
>
> "The messengers, as the ambassadors of God, must bear a living testimony to rebuke sin, which will cut through the soul, whether men will hear, or whether they will forbear. There are many who close their eyes that they may not see, and their ears that they may not hear. They think that there has been a mistake made, that all these plain, pointed testimonies cannot come from God, but are from human agencies alone. They wrap themselves up in their self-righteousness, and fight every inch of the way, that they may stand where they imagine they should stand,--in defiance of the warnings of God's servants. They cling with desperate grasp to the garments of their own self-righteousness, lest they should be torn away from them. {RH, July 3, 1888 par. 5}
>
> What shall we do? Shall we bear the message God gives us, or shall we refrain, for fear of offending our brethren? as God's messengers, we can not falter in the path of duty. Impelled by the Spirit of God, words are spoken, warnings and counsels are given. All unexpectedly the lips were opened, and there was no refraining from speaking the message of God. Reproofs were uttered that we would naturally shrink from giving. A zeal, prompted by the Spirit of God, led us to declare the dangers that threatened the children of God. The servant of the Lord must pursue his work, losing sight of self, without thought of the consequences, exhorting to faithfulness, and urging to repentance. He must show the people their transgression, and the house of Jacob their sins. The Lord has given the word; who can forbear to publish it? The love of Christ has a constraining power; who shall withstand its influence? It is the greatest evidence that God loves his people, that he sends them messages of warning. {RH, July 3, 1888 par. 7}

Will these souls who have a knowledge of the truth, detest sin in themselves, as they consider how Jesus suffered to save them from its penalty, and to cleanse them from all iniquity? If we would be happy and consistent Christians, we must be watchful. It is not enough that we do not willfully run into apparent and decided dangers, but we must keep our souls to the rays of light that are shining from Jesus, that we may not walk in darkness. We must be quick to distinguish between error and perversity, between obedience and truth. We must be ready to resist hasty and unexpected attacks. Will the church at Fresno cherish the light? Will the professed servants of God walk in the light? or will they choose to walk in the sparks of their own kindling? Said Christ, "Walk while ye have the light, lest darkness come upon you." Let us all pray that our eyes may be anointed with divine eyesalve, that we may no longer walk in darkness and uncertainty, but in the light which God has flashed athwart our pathway. {RH, July 3, 1888 par. 10}

There is need of watchmen on the walls of Zion, who will not hold their peace day or night. They should look to God, and free themselves from every earthly entanglement, that they may have power with God, and influence with the people. There is constant danger of the church's becoming cold, and conforming to the habits and practices of the world. Christians are not watchful. They yield to the baleful influences that surround them. They are led captive by Satan at his will. Unless the people of God watch and pray, spirituality will go out of the heart as water out of a leaky vessel. From the watch-tower of Zion, let us sound a note of alarm. I have wept in secret places over the existing difficulties in the church of Christ. Many are thoughtless, and they disregard the warnings that have been given, and their feet stumble on the dark mountains of unbelief. I have passed many sleepless hours at night, offering prayer to God, crying, "Spare thy people, O Lord, and give not thine heritage to reproach. . . .Wherefore should they say among the people, Where is their God?" When souls in the darkness of error shall call, "Watchman, what of the night?" is there one who sees with heaven-inspired accuracy, the dangers that threaten the souls of men? Can they answer with firm faith, "The morning cometh, and also the night"? {RH, July 3, 1888 par. 12}"
This article clearly shows that it is the duty of every servant of the Lord to exhort to faithfulness and urge to repentance. This is far from gossip.

To read the whole Review and Herald article you can click on the link below.

http://egwdatabase.whiteestate.org/nxt/gateway.dll?f=templates$fn=default.htm$vid=default
Joe, I'd like to remind you that the EGW quote posted earlier by Lee was speaking of "faults of minor consequence" that gossip had made "appear like grave sins." I am reposting this quote below to enable you to read it carefully and weigh the differences between her clear call to a duty to warn as opposed to her exhortation against gossip.

5 T p. 51-53: "I wish my position to be clearly understood. I have no sympathy with the course that has been pursued toward Bro. -------. The enemy has encouraged feelings of hatred in the hearts of many. The errors committed by him have been reported from one person to another, constantly growing in magnitude, as busy, gossiping tongues added fuel to the fire....Some have taken advantage of this, and faults of minor consequence have been made to appear like grave sins."

(any bolding of quotes provided by me)

> I thank you for the clarification... I think you are right. We need watchman on the wall. However, we must be ABSOLUTELY SURE... that we have ALL the facts correct when we "sound the Alarm".. Just who the offending party is. I don't think we can every sort out ALL the truth and errors.
> I'm glad that God will be the Judge.
>
> Joe

> QUOTE(Johann @ Dec 20 2006, 03:43 AM) ☐
>
> Mr. Joe Smith,
>
> Since you know the Sheltons so well, perhaps you can help clear up some questions I have. Danny and others claim that he has paid off Linda's car a long time ago. Can you tell me why the bank still retains the title to the car, and also why Linda has been making the payments on this car, and still is?

About this matter... I have no information.

Joe

Posted by: Chez Dec 20 2006, 09:57 AM

> QUOTE(Joe Smith @ Dec 20 2006, 09:01 AM) ☐
>
> I do know about that. It was a "get together" of close family friends.... the house was so full of people... including the ordained SDA pastor Lomacang and his wife.. Angie that people had to eat in the living room because there wasn't enough room in the kitchen and dining room. This wasn't inappropriate at all... it wasn't a private party of Danny and Brenda as it is portrayed to be. As far as where was Linda?... She was off on one of her 3 day adventures... Yes, she didn't care enough for Danny to stay home that day to be part of ... his birthday ..
>
> Joe
> About this matter... I have no information.
>
> Joe

Joe, did Brandy attend the party? When was the party held? Was Linda invited to the party? Was Brenda's husband there? Oh by the way, when is Danny's birthday?

Posted by: Aletheia Dec 20 2006, 10:37 AM

> QUOTE
>
> Alethia, just about every time you open your mouth on a question of law you demonstrate that you do not understand the law.

Why do I have to wear the dunce cap everytime you disagree with me just about everytime I open my mouth? Can't we at least take turns?

Something to consider: The reason I don't just accept what you say, is that so far, everytime I've asked you to prove what you claim, you don't do so. I'm trying to be patient, but why do you just keep repeating the same arguments without supplying any facts or evidence to support them.

> QUOTE
>
> States with Community Property laws do not require that "all settlements" be equal...they only require that marital property be equally divided.

Yes. That"s what was being asked about, and that's all I was responding to.

> QUOTE
>
> Clay:
> Then tell us Joe in the divorce settlement why Linda didn't get half of the marital assets?
>
> Aletheia:
> "Guam has community property laws so all settlements there are supposed to be equal."

> QUOTE
>
> yes, Guam has a community property law. But, the law in effect at the time of the Shelton divorce did not require that property issues and child support issues be settled in order to obtain a divorce. The law in Guam clearly allowed for a divorce to be granted, with such issues to be settled by courts in other venues.

That is the same law in effect now. That type of divorce is called a "contested divorce". as I have quoted to you 3 times now.(it is included again below), The only change in the Guam law is that now if 2 non-residents wish to get a "uncontested divorce" in Guam, one of them has to be there seven days before filing, that wasn't required for the last 20 years. That is also stated in the news article which you yourself supplied when arguing about a change in the law...

But regardless the bottom line and the facts are that the Sheltons did NOT do as you say.. There was a marital property settlement included in their "uncontested divorce" which they both agreed to and signed.

Now answer plainly please so everyone can see what you are actually saying, instead of burying me in all these fascitious arguments.

Did Danny and Linda Shelton receive a uncontested divorce which included a settlement for division of marital property, and designate what was personal property apart from this to be retained by each, in Guam of June 2004?

YES_______ NO_________

> QUOTE
>
> As applied to Guam, an uncontested divorce only means that the parties did not contest the dissolution of the legal marriage. It does not mean that all issues of property, and other issues, be agreed upon, and settled.

Wrong. I asked you to cite this law (or anything)calling such an uncontested divorce and you have yet to do so. Repeating your opinions as you keep doing doesn't prove anything.

I on the other hand, have posted this three times now from the link to Guam laws at www.guamdivorces.com, what don't you understand about it?
Contested Divorce for Non Residents.
http://expatdivorces.com/contested_divorce.htm
"Contested Divorces. A contested divorce is where the parties are not in agreement as to how custody or support should be set, or how the property should be divided."

Here is more:
Guam was ceded to the United States as a territory in accordance with the provisions of the Treaty of Peace with Spain , signed at Paris , December 10, 1898 , and proclaimed April 11, 1899 . 48 U.S.C.A. § 1421. The are under U.S. law and have the same leagl definitions we do.

28 U.S.C.A. § 1738 states:
"The records and judicial proceedings of any court of any such State, Territory or Possession, or copies thereof, shall be proved or admitted in other courts within the United States and its Territories and Possessions by the attestation of the clerk and seal of the court annexed, if a seal exists, together with a certificate of a judge of the court that the said attestation is in proper form."

"Such Acts, records and judicial proceedings or copies thereof, so authenticated, shall have the same full faith and credit in every court within the United States and its Territories and Possessions as they have by law or usage in the courts of such State, Territory or Possession from which they are taken. June 25, 1948 , c. 646, 62 Stat. 947."

http://www.uslegalforms.com/legaldefinitions/c/contested-and-uncontested-divorce.php

> QUOTE
>
> ---
>
> In contested divorces, the parties are adversarial and unable to agree on the terms of divorce. Common areas of disagreement include, but are not limited to: grounds for divorce, custody of the children, visitation rights, division of the assets of the marriage, child support, maintenance (alimony), payment of family debts, contribution toward educational expenses (college or parochial), payment of health insurance for the dependent spouse, income tax structuring, etc. Both parties may desire a divorce, but cannot agree on important issues like, but not limited to, property distribution, debt allocation, child support, custody, and alimony. In a contested divorce, the couple seeks to let the court system decide the matters related to the divorce.

> In uncontested divorces, the parties are in agreement on all matters, and the court serves to approve their divorce agreement. In some states, expedited procedures exist for uncontested divorce, sometimes referred to as a dissolution. Such a dissolution may be a faster and less expensive alternative, as the parties may file the papers without hiring an attorney.

> QUOTE
>
> all community property states require a full disclosure of property, so that the Court can determine what property is marital property, and what is not marital property. You will not find that such was done in the Shelton divorce. Due to this requirement of full disclosure, litigation following the divorce may take place either because no such disclosure was done at the time of the divorce, or that it was fraudulently done. There are also other reasons under which future litigation may take place.

That may be your opinion, but you are stating things which aren't proven as if they are facts, they are not. What i think you are talking about is that some 8 months later in Illinois, which is not a community property state, Linda the "Litigant" filed a civil law suit against Danny the "Defendant" related to the Shelton divorce in an attempt to receive more using those arguments??? That I will agree to:
http://www.judici.com/courts/cases/case_information.jsp?court=IL028015J&ocl=IL028015J,2005D30,IL028015JL2005D30P1

~ Aletheia

"Prove ALL THINGS, and hold fast that which is good"

Posted by: Joy N Dec 20 2006, 12:08 PM

> QUOTE(Chez @ Dec 20 2006, 09:57 AM) ☐
>
> Joe, did Brandy attend the party? When was the party held? Was Linda invited to the party? Was Brenda's husband there? Oh by the way, when is Danny's birthday?

I am familiar with this birthday party was well... Brandy had not even moved to S. Illinois at that time... so she could not have been there..

Joy (Ps. 3ABN worker for several years)

Posted by: simplysaved Dec 20 2006, 12:15 PM

What is disappointing, Joy? By the way, thanks for the info/clarification.

> QUOTE(Joy N @ Dec 20 2006, 01:08 PM) ☐

> I am familiar with this birthday party was well... Brandy had not even moved to S. Illinois at that time... so she could not have been there..
>
> Joy (Ps. 3ABN worker for several years)

Posted by: Eddy Dec 20 2006, 12:17 PM

> QUOTE(PrincessDrRe @ Dec 19 2006, 04:31 PM)
>
> Hit your PM......
>
> I got you.....

cool beans. Thank ya

Posted by: Uncle Sam Dec 20 2006, 12:17 PM

> QUOTE(Joy N @ Dec 20 2006, 11:08 AM)
>
> I am familiar with this birthday party was well... Brandy had not even moved to S. Illinois at that time... so she could not have been there..
>
> Joy (Ps. 3ABN worker for several years)

Joy,

I have been to 3ABN on occasion. I do not want to believe all of this that I have read. Where I have a problem is, I have seen some very bad living conditions for the employees. What is the deal with that? I have seen Danny's house and been to the Lomacang's house. They are not living in poverty.....

Posted by: Joy N Dec 20 2006, 12:35 PM

[color=#FF0000][/color][color=#3366FF]

> QUOTE(Brother Sam @ Dec 19 2006, 06:51 PM)
>
> I am seeing posts regarding how bad and unchristian comments are being made about 3ABN > leadership. How many of these do-gooders have actually worked there and/or experienced what is really going on - can they not handle reading and hearing the truth - even though it is not what they want to hear or choose to believe. What upsets employees and their families is that there is a totally different standard expected of them than what is pemitted of the Shelton family and the top management of 3ABN. Do people really know what is going on there???

>
> Why do so many employees leave there disgusted with how things really are?
>
> When Yolanda Innocent got a divorce, her singing and programming was pulled from the air and 3ABN no longer sold or promoted her music. However, when a Shelton gets a divorce, it is business as usual - is there anything wrong with this picture??? Are we experiencing a blatant double standard???
>
> When a male employee stayed overnight with a female employee, they were told that if this behavior was repeated, they would be terminated. Yet a Shelton employee can have a live in or repeated overnight opposite sex visitor and nobody asks questions. Is their behavior of any type above reproach???
>
> When a Shelton uses profanity on the premises, there is no consequence. Would anybody else have such latitude???
>
> The Sheltons openly say that nobody can sing like a Shelton, nobody can manage like a Shelton and nobody can speak like a Shelton - I am saying thank goodness!!!
>
> If you are not a Shelton, you are considered a second or third class person. A Shelton has such high self esteeem that they act as though they have a direct line to God and everything they do is santioned by God - do they really??? Or is it all in their over inflated heads???

I have worked at 3ABN several years and know of some of the things around there... For instance: I know that the divorce situations there are not caused by 3ABN.. but by satan. Each one has been looked at for the individual situation and based upon Biblical grounds... acted upon or not acted upon. Acted on accordingly as is humanly possible. If not, then that might be considered a double standard.

There was also a Shelton that did "lose it" with an outburst of profanity. You are right about that.. However you may not know 2 things about that situation. #1 is... the Shelton is not a CLOSE relative of Danny.. but distant. #2 is: This relative was called "upon the carpet" by Danny himself and told straight out... this would not be tolerated at 3ABN and should it EVER happen... his employment there.. would be history... It hadn't happened before... or since.. He was given "Grace" that time

Joy N

Posted by: simplysaved Dec 20 2006, 12:43 PM

Hmmm...thank you for that bit of info....

Posted by: awesumtenor Dec 20 2006, 12:46 PM

> QUOTE(Joy N @ Dec 20 2006, 01:35 PM) ☐
>
> It hadn't happened before... or since.. He was given "Grace" that time

How do you know?

On what basis can you definitively state that it never happened before... ever... at any time under any circumstances... or that such words have never again proceeded from that person?

Had you spent all day, every day with this person for his entire life up to the point where that profanity laden tirade occurred? Have you spent all day, every day, with him since, constantly monitoring his every statement or utterance?

If the answer to either is "NO"... and I'd wager that the answer to both is "NO"... then the best you can attest to is that this person has not done so in your presence, within the range of your ability to hear...

But your not having heard his doing it is not nearly the same as his not having done it at all.

In His service,
Mr. J

Posted by: Joy N Dec 20 2006, 12:53 PM

> QUOTE(Uncle Sam @ Dec 20 2006, 12:17 PM) ☐
>
> Joy,
>
> I have been to 3ABN on occasion. I do not want to believe all of this that I have read. Where I have a problem is, I have seen some very bad living conditions for the employees. What is the deal with that? I have seen Danny's house and been to the Lomacang's house. They are not living in poverty.....

I'm glad you brought that up Sam. It stands to reason that Danny AND Linda worked hard at continuous employment for the past 22 years for Danny and 20 years for Linda. What you see is what they been able to aquire in those years.
Suppose that you and your wife, worked at a coal mine Company for 20- 22 years... both of you... with an income of say... $49,000 per year. Don't you think that in 20-22 years.. with you both working... that you would be able to have bought a new home and drive late model cars?

I would think so.

The other workers that you are talking about... many have been kind of transitory workers... not staying for very long in any one place. It make since to me that they would not live as Danny and Linda. Most came there with hardly nothing. If they had something... they bought a nice place or rented one .. just like Pastor Lomacang. He is an ordained ministered which means that he has been working for years... he should have something to show...

Hope that helps.

Joy

Posted by: Uncle Sam Dec 20 2006, 01:02 PM

> QUOTE(Joy N @ Dec 20 2006, 11:53 AM) ☐
>
> I'm glad you brought that up Sam. It stands to reason that Danny AND Linda worked hard at continuous employment for the past 22 years for Danny and 20 years for Linda. What you see is what they been able to aquire in those years.
> Suppose that you and your wife, worked at a coal mine Company for 20- 22 years... both of you... with an income of say... $49,000 per year. Don't you think that in 20-22 years.. with you both working... that you would be able to have bought a new home and drive late model cars?
>
> I would think so.
>
> The other workers that you are talking about... many have been kind of transitory workers... not staying for very long in any one place. It make since to me that they would not live as Danny and Linda. Most came there with hardly nothing. If they had something... they bought a nice place or rented one .. just like Pastor Lomacang. He is an ordained ministered which means that he has been working for years... he should have something to show...
> Hope that helps.
>
> Joy

I understand the issue of people coming there with money but, the housing I am talking about belonged to 3ABN. I have stayed in some of the apartments and they were nice. Than I saw where one of the employees lived which I was surprised that 3ABN owned it...I am not saying that Danny souldn't have nice things but I do believe the employees should be above poverty level. My spouse works for a company owned by SDAs and they make sure their employees are taken care of, now if the employees don't know how to handle the money there is not much the boss can do.

When I saw where this employee lived it gave some credibility to some of this that I have read here...Like I said I would expect more from a Christian busness.

Posted by: Joy N Dec 20 2006, 01:02 PM

> QUOTE(awesumtenor @ Dec 20 2006, 12:46 PM) ☐
>
> How do you know?
>
> On what basis can you definitively state that it never happened before... ever... at any time under any circumstances... or that such words have never again proceeded from that person?

> Had you spent all day, every day with this person for his entire life up to the point where that profanity laden tirade occurred? Have you spent all day, every day, with him since, constantly monitoring his every statement or utterance?
>
> If the answer to either is "NO"... and I'd wager that the answer to both is "NO"... then the best you can attest to is that this person has not done so in your presence, within the range of your ability to hear...
>
> But your not having heard his doing it is not nearly the same as his not having done it at all.
>
> In His service,
> Mr. J

You are absolutely correct... I have not been in his presents day and night. I just meant that the problem has not cropped up again at work. Sorry

Joy

Posted by: princessdi Dec 20 2006, 01:19 PM

Joy, I can understand about working for 20 years, and accumulated things, even luxuries(my only red flag in this area was the private jet). However, transitory or not, the workers may not live like Danny, and Brandy at this point, but there still should be "decent" housing. As 3ABN promotes themselves as a leading (SDA)Christian organization, such inequalities should be none existant. it should not be the case that Danny passes housing for his employees that are barely livable to go to his own luxurious home. Modest, I can understand, but fromt he outside it should not be iommediately recignizable that they housing of any employee is less than any of us require for ourselves, especially Danny. As these folks have heeded the call to servce God at 3ABN.

BTW, Joy, Welcome to BSDA. I am sure we will get an "interesting" perspectives on things at 3ABN.

Posted by: Aletheia Dec 20 2006, 01:49 PM

> QUOTE(Observer @ Dec 20 2006, 05:45 AM) ☐
>
> You tell us that Linda signed an agreement that contained an arbitration clause, and you asked why she did not comply with the provisions of such an agreement. If you take that agreement to a competent attorney, you will quickly be informed as to why that never happened.
>
> First it contained clauses that would never be enforced by a U.S. court.
>
> Second, that agreement is deficient in the meeting a legal requirement for enforcement that mandates that Linda was fully informed in regard to the implications of what she was signing. You may respond that it was incumbent upon her attorney to inform her of the full implications of what she signed, and of the legal rights that she was giving up. In litigation, such a defense is commonly rejected. In order to be enforced in a court of law, that agreement should have laid out in detail the legal rights that she had, and was giving up. It should have warned her of the implications of giving up such rights, in detail.

> In short, if you take that agreement to a competent attorney, you will be told that is is subject to challenge in a number of areas. U.S. law commonly does not require that people who sign legal agreements be held to the terms of those agreements if they have not understood them.

Again you are just rendering legal opinions and judgments without support. I'm one of those who doesn't buy the claim Linda makes that she wasn't allowed to let a lawyer look at the agreement before she signed. She is a free woman, and that is her right.

It seems like a standard separation agreement between and Employer and Employee to me, except

1.) that any dispute about ANY OF THE TERMS of the agreement EVEN AFTER it is signed are not to be taken up in a civil court of law, but instead are to be resolved with Binding Christian Arbitration, clause 7

That probably isn't how a civil court would handle it, or a non-Christian lawyer would advise, but as A Seventh-day Adventist Christian, I believe that is in accord with how Christians are to settle legal disputes or arguments, and entirely biblical. I also believe how the Panel was to be picked was as fair as is humanly possible.

1 Cor 6:
1 Dare any of you, having a matter against another, go to law before the unjust, and not before the saints?
2 Do ye not know that the saints shall judge the world? and if the world shall be judged by you, are ye unworthy to judge the smallest matters?
3 Know ye not that we shall judge angels? how much more things that pertain to this life?
4 If then ye have judgments of things pertaining to this life, set them to judge who are least esteemed in the church.
5 I speak to your shame. Is it so, that there is not a wise man among you? no, not one that shall be able to judge between his brethren?
6 But brother goeth to law with brother, and that before the unbelievers.

EGW has a mouthful to say about this...

and 2. Being that the Sheltons were married, it makes specific reference to the fact that nothing in it or the so called "gag order" has anything to do with the divorce, which does by law have to be done in a civil court, and specifically states that the money she is to receive is her personal property and not marital property.

It does not in fact say Linda can't defend herself against accusations of adultery, which have to do with her marriage, and her husband. She is just not to speak against him as an employee or about 3ABN in order to not destroy the ministry.

People talk about the separation agreement between 3ABN and Linda Shelton alot, but I can't seem to find it posted anywhere except on her website. http://www.lindashelton.org/contract.html I wonder if all the people referring to it, and protesting about it and offering it as an excuse for saying things they claim they aren''t allowed to prove, even know what it says? Going by what you posted above, it really doesn't look like you've read it.

If I can figure out how to post it, here I will try to do that next.

~ Aletheia

Posted by: Aletheia Dec 20 2006, 02:18 PM

> QUOTE(princessdi @ Dec 20 2006, 02:19 PM) ☐
>
> from the outside it should not be iommediately recignizable that they housing of any employee is less than any of us require for ourselves,

I don't know about that, I've been a single Mom and lived in some seriously sad places, one my boys called "the bomb shelter" but it contained our things and our love and was home sweet home to us, till we could move our home elsewhere.

Now all of 3ABN management are like Simon Legree? : for certainly the whole board, at the least, has to be complicit in this?

TVsnack.

Everything is always so dramatic here. Even this sounds like a European Novel from the dark ages, or the new form of slavery that was perpetrated on others after the old kind was outlawed in the South following the American civil war.

Are the 3ABN employees serfs, or sharecroppers and not able to leave the land and live or rent elsewhere? I am very curious here, and wondering does anybody have pictures of these hovels and (or) tar paper shacks??

~ Aletheia

Posted by: Aletheia Dec 20 2006, 02:35 PM

> QUOTE(Aletheia @ Dec 20 2006, 02:49 PM) ☐
>
> People talk about the separation agreement between 3ABN and Linda Shelton alot, but I can't seem to find it posted anywhere except on her website. http://www.lindashelton.org/contract.html I wonder if all the people referring to it, and protesting about it and offering it as an excuse for saying things they claim they aren''t allowed to prove, even know what it says? Going by what you posted above, it really doesn't look like you've read it.
>
> If I can figure out how to post it, here I will try to do that next.
>
> ~ Aletheia

Here you go:

Separation Agreement Between

Three Angels Broadcasting Network, Inc.

and

Linda Shelton

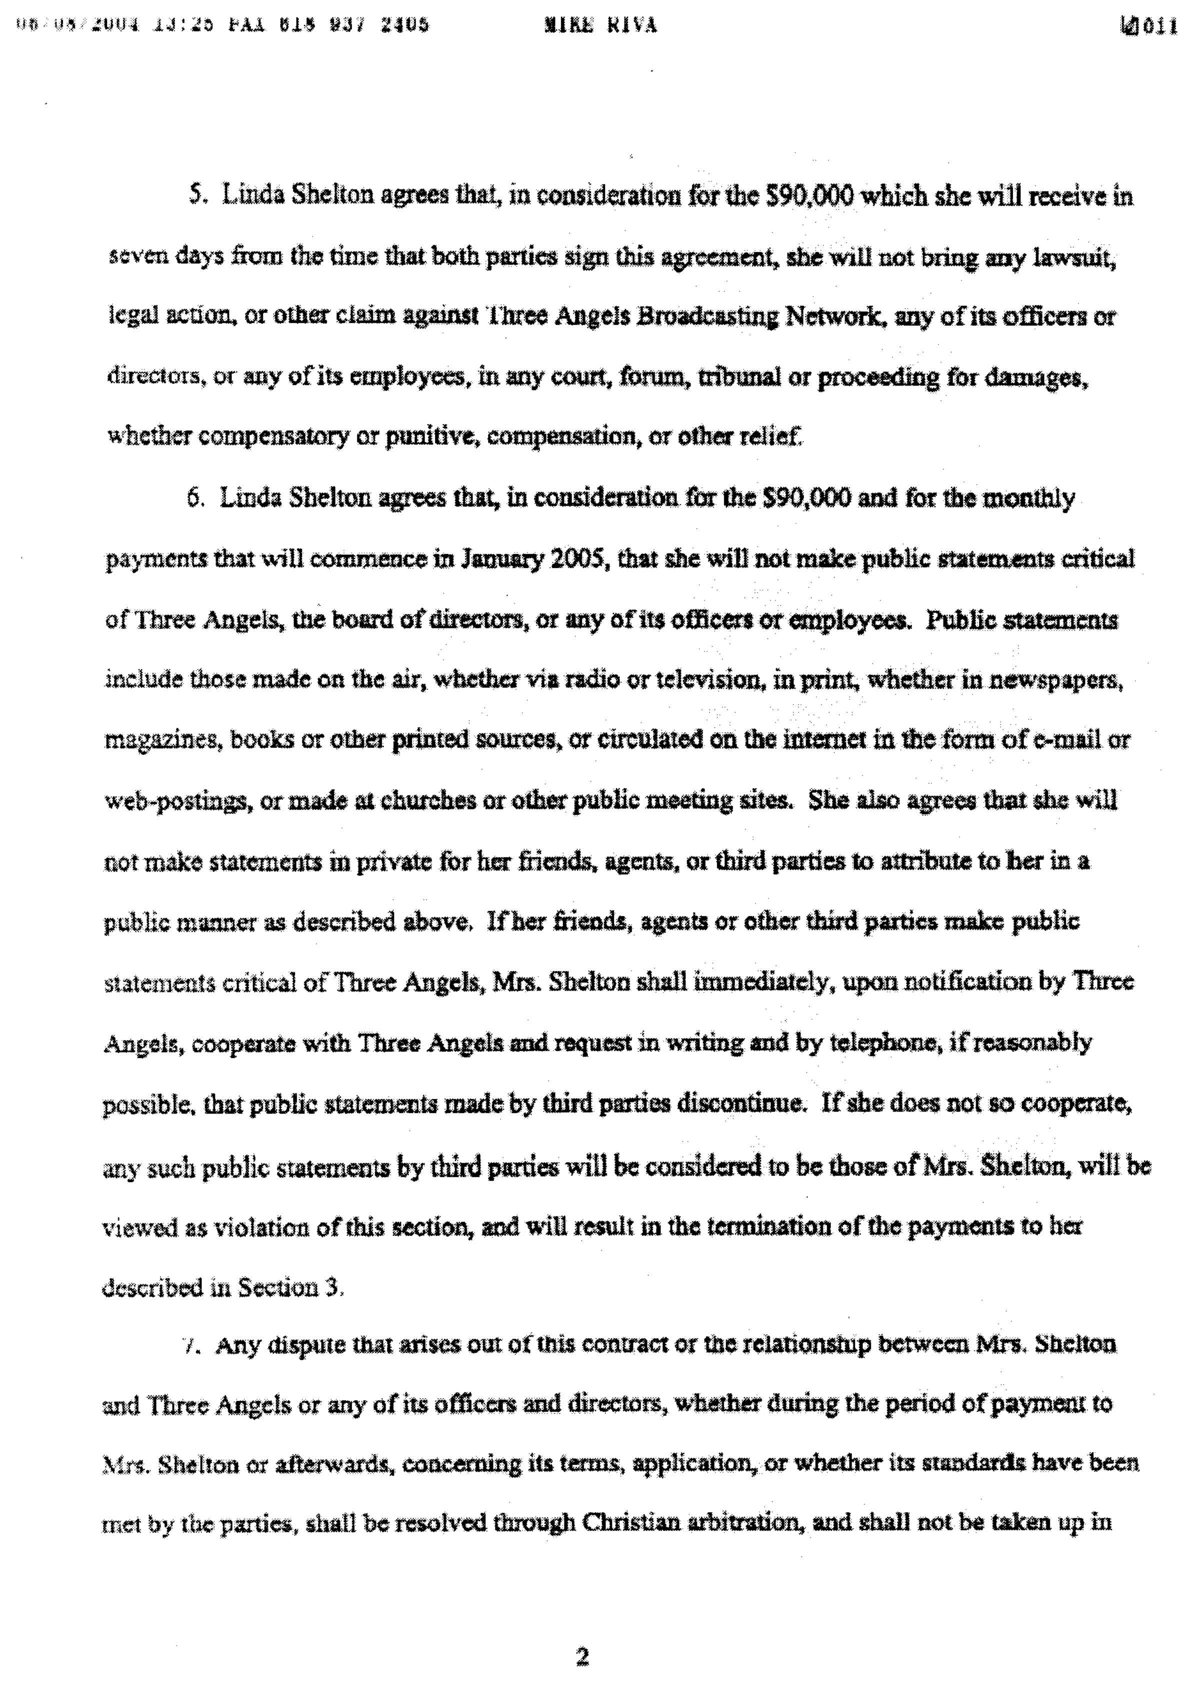
Three Angels Broadcasting Network, Inc. ("Three Angels") and Linda Shelton ("Mrs. Shelton"), hereby agree to the following terms and conditions:

1. Three Angels agrees to pay Linda Shelton, within seven days of the signing of this document by both parties, the sum of $45,000. Three Angels agrees to transfer to Linda the rights, including the masters, to the five musical CD projects that she has had a primary role in (two solo projects and three duet projects with Danny and Linda) and the eight musical songs on video from the I Think About Grace album.

2. Three Angels agrees to pay Linda Shelton, within seven days of the signing of this agreement by both parties, a further sum of $45,000.

3. Three Angels also agrees to pay Linda Shelton $75,000 for each of the years 2005 and 2006. This money will be paid out in 24 equal installments ($6,250.00) beginning the first Monday of January, 2005, and continuing to be paid on the first Monday of each month for the next 23 months, ending with the payment on the first Monday of December 2006. These payments shall continue to be made only insofar as Mrs. Shelton complies with the conditions specified below.

4. All the above payment amounts represent gross severance pay and settlement figures, and the actual amount given to Mrs. Shelton will be reduced by the amount that employers are required to withhold by law for state and federal income taxes and other mandatory withholdings.



5. Linda Shelton agrees that, in consideration for the $90,000 which she will receive in seven days from the time that both parties sign this agreement, she will not bring any lawsuit, legal action, or other claim against Three Angels Broadcasting Network, any of its officers or directors, or any of its employees, in any court, forum, tribunal or proceeding for damages, whether compensatory or punitive, compensation, or other relief.

6. Linda Shelton agrees that, in consideration for the $90,000 and for the monthly payments that will commence in January 2005, that she will not make public statements critical of Three Angels, the board of directors, or any of its officers or employees. Public statements include those made on the air, whether via radio or television, in print, whether in newspapers, magazines, books or other printed sources, or circulated on the internet in the form of e-mail or web-postings, or made at churches or other public meeting sites. She also agrees that she will not make statements in private for her friends, agents, or third parties to attribute to her in a public manner as described above. If her friends, agents or other third parties make public statements critical of Three Angels, Mrs. Shelton shall immediately, upon notification by Three Angels, cooperate with Three Angels and request in writing and by telephone, if reasonably possible, that public statements made by third parties discontinue. If she does not so cooperate, any such public statements by third parties will be considered to be those of Mrs. Shelton, will be viewed as violation of this section, and will result in the termination of the payments to her described in Section 3.

7. Any dispute that arises out of this contract or the relationship between Mrs. Shelton and Three Angels or any of its officers and directors, whether during the period of payment to Mrs. Shelton or afterwards, concerning its terms, application, or whether its standards have been met by the parties, shall be resolved through Christian arbitration, and shall not be taken up in any court system, whether judicial or administrative. Both parties hereby waive any legal recourse, and agree that they will submit to binding arbitration, with no appeal, by a panel of three Seventh-day Adventist Christians. This panel will be chosen in the following manner: Each side shall choose one Adventist Elder or Pastor in the North American Division. Those two persons shall then choose one other person that they can mutually agree on to chair the panel to arbitrate the dispute. The panel will hear testimony from both sides, consider any necessary evidence, and render a written decision that will be binding on the parties, with no further appeal allowed.

8. Nothing in the above shall prevent Mrs. Shelton from seeking a fair and equitable split of her marital property, which shall not include any property owned by Three Angels Broadcasting Network, in or out of court, in any separation or divorce proceeding. Any moneys received by Mrs. Shelton under this agreement shall be considered her separate and personal property, and not marital property.

AGREED TO:

Linda Shelton June 4, 2004
Linda Shelton Date

Three Angels Broadcasting Network, Inc. Date
Dr. Walter Thompson, Chairman

Danny Shelton 6-04-04
Three Angels Broadcasting Network, Inc. Date
Danny Shelton, President

Posted by: Panama_Pete Dec 20 2006, 02:39 PM

> QUOTE(Joy N @ Dec 20 2006, 12:53 PM) ☐
>
> If they had something... they bought a nice place or rented one .. just like Pastor Lomacang. He is an ordained ministered which means that he has been working for years... he should have something to show...
> Hope that helps.
>
> Joy

This refers to the phrase "just like Pastor Lomacang."

Remember that Pastor Lomacang is an employee of the Seventh-day Adventist Church, not 3ABN.

We understand that Danny reimburses the Illinois Conference for half of Lomacang's salary, so Lomacang has the salary and perks of the Adventist pastors that come through the Conference, as well as the Conference retirement system.

However, Pastor Lomacang's wife does work at 3ABN, and will benefit from the Adventist Church retirement system when her husband eventually retires.

Posted by: princessdi Dec 20 2006, 02:52 PM

Aletheia,

You might really want to take the time to read the wealth of information with the 3ABN forum. This document was posted here months ago, if not longer.

> QUOTE(Aletheia @ Dec 20 2006, 12:35 PM) ☐
>
> Here you go:

Posted by: Johann Dec 20 2006, 02:53 PM

> QUOTE(Joe Smith @ Dec 20 2006, 04:01 PM)
>
> I do know about that. It was a "get together" of close family friends.... the house was so full of people... including the ordained SDA pastor Lomacang and his wife.. Angie that people had to eat in the living room because there wasn't enough room in the kitchen and dining room. This wasn't inappropriate at all... it wasn't a private party of Danny and Brenda as it is portrayed to be. As far as where was Linda?... She was off on one of her 3 day adventures... Yes, she didn't care enough for Danny to stay home that day to be part of ... his birthday ..
>
> Joe

You say that you know. I was also in contact with Linda at that time, and she was home. She was not on any such 3 day adventure as you insist. She was very much surprised that she was not permitted to be in on that party. I know because I talked to her then.

You talk about that party as if you were there. Were you told that Linda had gone somewhere else, or did you verify yourself that she had disappeared, as you say? Are you merely quoting 2nd or 3rd hand evidence? Evil gossip?

On another occasion Danny grabbed the phone from her when she was talking to me. He probably denies it now, but he certainly sounded so angry that I could easily understand why she diappeared for a couple of days to stay with her daughter. Did you witness when he grabbed the phone from her? Or did he tell you she had been talking to her boyfriend? More second hand gossip?

Posted by: simplysaved Dec 20 2006, 02:56 PM

Thank you for sharing this...it clarifies many things for me.

In reading item #6, does this Forum then represent a breech in the agreement that was signed?

> QUOTE(Aletheia @ Dec 20 2006, 03:35 PM)
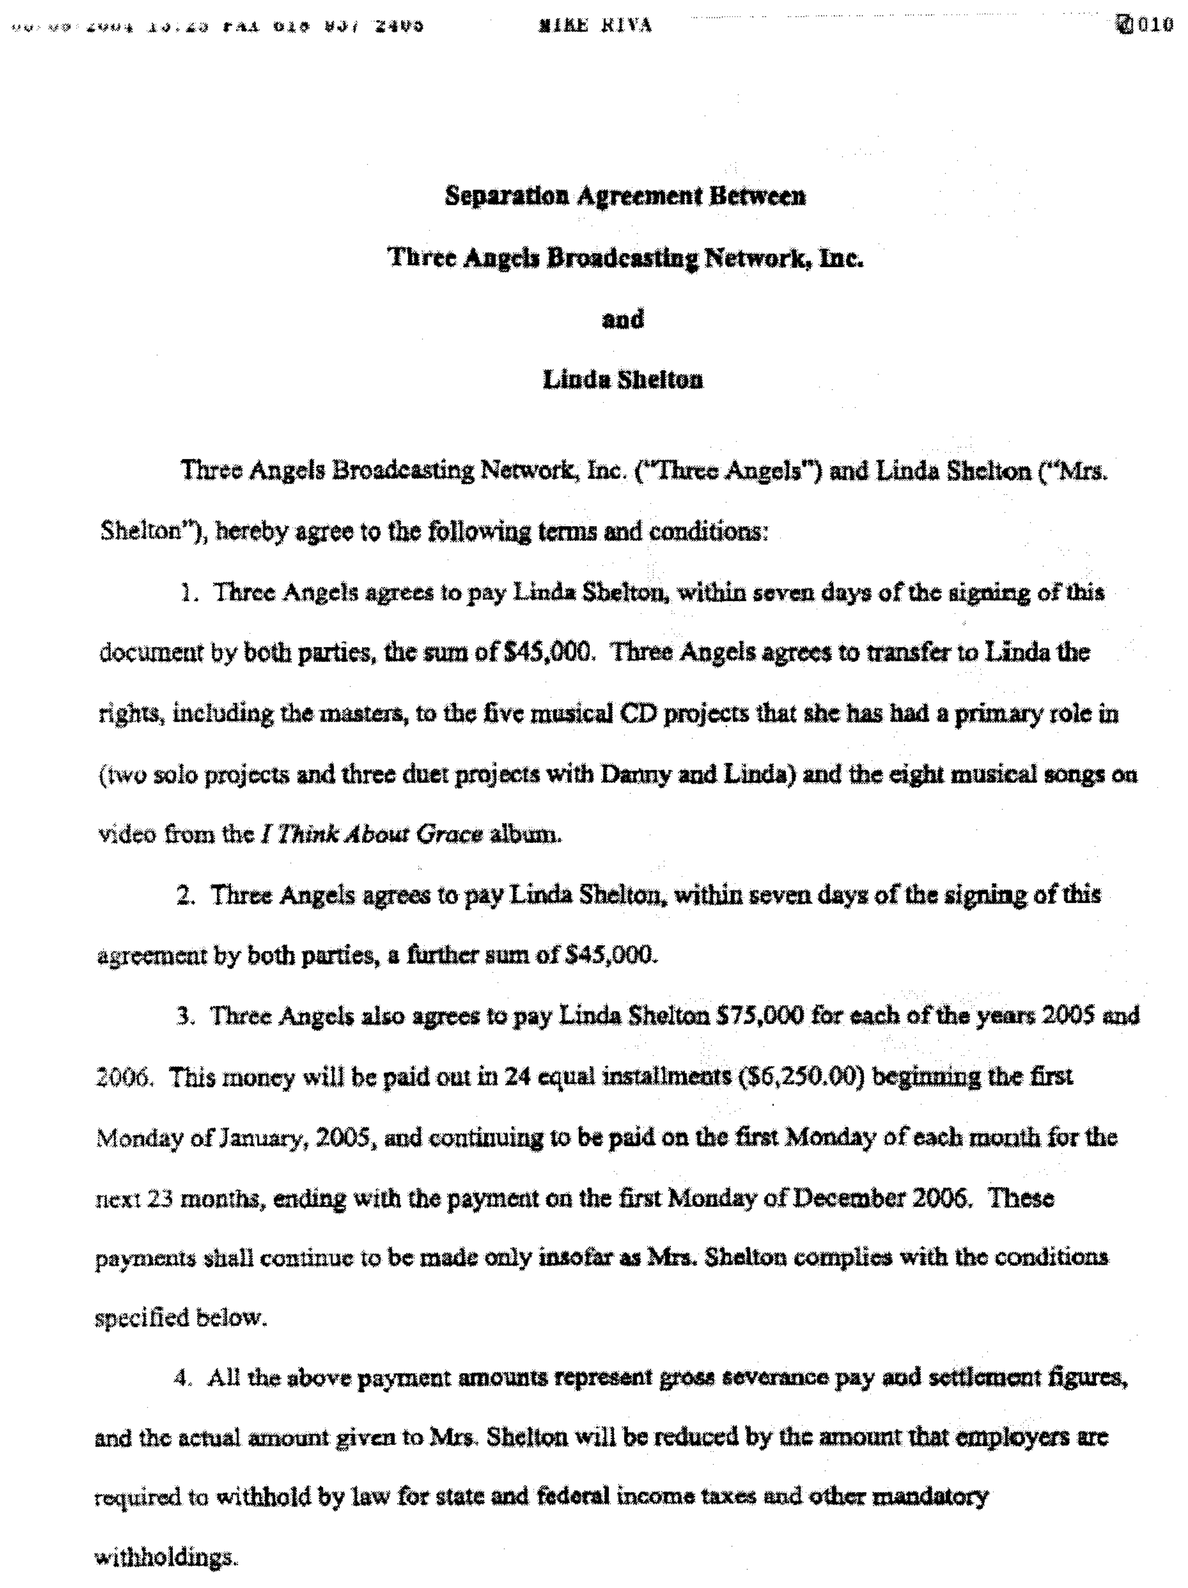
>
> Here you go:



Separation Agreement Between

Three Angels Broadcasting Network, Inc.

and

Linda Shelton

Three Angels Broadcasting Network, Inc. ("Three Angels") and Linda Shelton ("Mrs. Shelton"), hereby agree to the following terms and conditions:

1. Three Angels agrees to pay Linda Shelton, within seven days of the signing of this document by both parties, the sum of $45,000. Three Angels agrees to transfer to Linda the rights, including the masters, to the five musical CD projects that she has had a primary role in (two solo projects and three duet projects with Danny and Linda) and the eight musical songs on video from the I Think About Grace album.

2. Three Angels agrees to pay Linda Shelton, within seven days of the signing of this agreement by both parties, a further sum of $45,000.

3. Three Angels also agrees to pay Linda Shelton $75,000 for each of the years 2005 and 2006. This money will be paid out in 24 equal installments ($6,250.00) beginning the first Monday of January, 2005, and continuing to be paid on the first Monday of each month for the next 23 months, ending with the payment on the first Monday of December 2006. These payments shall continue to be made only insofar as Mrs. Shelton complies with the conditions specified below.

4. All the above payment amounts represent gross severance pay and settlement figures, and the actual amount given to Mrs. Shelton will be reduced by the amount that employers are required to withhold by law for state and federal income taxes and other mandatory withholdings.

5. Linda Shelton agrees that, in consideration for the $90,000 which she will receive in seven days from the time that both parties sign this agreement, she will not bring any lawsuit, legal action, or other claim against Three Angels Broadcasting Network, any of its officers or directors, or any of its employees, in any court, forum, tribunal or proceeding for damages, whether compensatory or punitive, compensation, or other relief.

6. Linda Shelton agrees that, in consideration for the $90,000 and for the monthly payments that will commence in January 2005, that she will not make public statements critical of Three Angels, the board of directors, or any of its officers or employees. Public statements include those made on the air, whether via radio or television, in print, whether in newspapers, magazines, books or other printed sources, or circulated on the internet in the form of e-mail or web-postings, or made at churches or other public meeting sites. She also agrees that she will not make statements in private for her friends, agents, or third parties to attribute to her in a public manner as described above. If her friends, agents or other third parties make public statements critical of Three Angels, Mrs. Shelton shall immediately, upon notification by Three Angels, cooperate with Three Angels and request in writing and by telephone, if reasonably possible, that public statements made by third parties discontinue. If she does not so cooperate, any such public statements by third parties will be considered to be those of Mrs. Shelton, will be viewed as violation of this section, and will result in the termination of the payments to her described in Section 3.

7. Any dispute that arises out of this contract or the relationship between Mrs. Shelton and Three Angels or any of its officers and directors, whether during the period of payment to Mrs. Shelton or afterwards, concerning its terms, application, or whether its standards have been met by the parties, shall be resolved through Christian arbitration, and shall not be taken up in any court system, whether judicial or administrative. Both parties hereby waive any legal recourse, and agree that they will submit to binding arbitration, with no appeal, by a panel of three Seventh-day Adventist Christians. This panel will be chosen in the following manner: Each side shall choose one Adventist Elder or Pastor in the North American Division. Those two persons shall then choose one other person that they can mutually agree on to chair the panel to arbitrate the dispute. The panel will hear testimony from both sides, consider any necessary evidence, and render a written decision that will be binding on the parties, with no further appeal allowed.

8. Nothing in the above shall prevent Mrs. Shelton from seeking a fair and equitable split of her marital property, which shall not include any property owned by Three Angels Broadcasting Network, in or out of court, in any separation or divorce proceeding. Any moneys received by Mrs. Shelton under this agreement shall be considered her separate and personal property, and not marital property.

AGREED TO:

Linda Shelton June 4, 2004
Linda Shelton Date

Three Angels Broadcasting Network, Inc. Date
Dr. Walter Thompson, Chairman

Danny Shelton 6-04-04
Three Angels Broadcasting Network, Inc. Date
Danny Shelton, President

Posted by: Aletheia Dec 20 2006, 03:02 PM

> QUOTE(princessdi @ Dec 20 2006, 03:52 PM) ☐
>
> Aletheia,
>
> You might really want to take the time to read the wealth of information with the 3ABN forum. This document was posted here months ago, if not longer.

Certainly, I have no objection to that, I've tried to do so, and have also done alot of searchiiing, but couldn't find it, I was hoping to post there rather then here regarding mr matthews disagreement with me..

There's lots here, so I am sure there has to be things I've missed.

Can you maybe supply a link to it?

Thanks, ☐
Aletheia

Posted by: Johann Dec 20 2006, 03:06 PM

> QUOTE(Aletheia @ Dec 20 2006, 10:35 PM) ☐

Did you read it yourself, Aletheia? I have read it many times. I know that people at 3ABN have threatened Linda on occasions that she is not abiding by that contract because of information I have given from my own experience. Danny has even threatened me that I was hurting Linda, and that he was considering not honoring this contract with Linda because I was proclaiming ALETHEIA - the truth of what we experienced!

Posted by: princessdi Dec 20 2006, 03:09 PM

Are they paid enough to leave the land and live else where? Also, that does not take the responsibility from 3ABN to provide "decent" housing, if they are offering housing to their employee. That is not dramatic, just common courtesy to provide others with nothing less than you would accept for yourself. I don't know if the housing is part of their salary package or what, but I know a house can be modest, clean, and in good repair. Nobody said anything about luxurious, just decent. You did not hear me bashing Danny or PL for their standard of living, I thought in that respect Joy has a point. However, a slum lord is a slum lord whether in the inner city NYC, SF, or T'ville. I am sure it would not take that much for Danny to buy some cans a paint and hire a maintenance person to make sure employee housing he is offereing is livable.

I am really troubled that your response was that they should just go somewhere else. As a single mom you should remember that you were in the "bomb shelter" because you had no other choice, and when you could do better you did.

> QUOTE(Aletheia @ Dec 20 2006, 12:18 PM)
>
> I don't know about that, I've been a single Mom and lived in some seriously sad places, one my boys called "the bomb shelter" but it contained our things and our love and was home sweet home to us, till we could move our home elsewhere.
>
> Now all of 3ABN management are like Simon Legree? : for certainly the whole board, at the least, has to be complicit in this?
>
> TVsnack.
>
> Everything is always so dramatic here. Even this sounds like a European Novel from the dark ages, or the new form of slavery that was perpetrated on others after the old kind was outlawed in the South following the American civil war.
>
> Are the 3ABN employees serfs, or sharecroppers and not able to leave the land and live or rent elsewhere? I am very curious here, and wondering does anybody have pictures of these hovels and (or) tar paper shacks??
>
> ~ Aletheia

Posted by: simplysaved Dec 20 2006, 03:10 PM

And again, I ask:

> QUOTE(simplysaved @ Dec 20 2006, 03:56 PM)
>
> Thank you for sharing this...it clarifies many things for me.
> In reading item #6, does this Forum then represent a breech in the agreement that was signed?

Posted by: princessdi Dec 20 2006, 03:42 PM

Apparently, not. I am thinking that if Danny thought he could recoup what he has paid her so far on that stipulation, he would have, in spades. Plus, I am not sure how the last part of that about her friends is enforceable. That is an agreement between 3ABN and Linda, no friends signed off on it. Once again, I think if it was enforceable, Danny would definitely be enforcing it now.

Now, I don't know Aletheia's purpose for posting this, but re reading this again(as I read it at least four times the first time I saw it. Could NOT believe girlfriend signed that thing. Wait! that a Christian organization would even produce such a document, and then what would make her sign it.), it makes 3ABN look even worse. They were not only trying to control Linda, but anyone calling themselves her friends. If they have all this truth and evidence on their side, they would first want to produce it (something they have not done within the past 2 1/2 years), and then why would they be worried about what her friends would have to say? Then why knowing that Linda had signed such an agreement did Danny not show her the at least the same respect? He is yet and still making inferences to her being "seduced" on the internet, etc., whatever....each and every time he finds opportunity on national TV.

> QUOTE(simplysaved @ Dec 20 2006, 01:10 PM) ☐
>
> And again, I ask:

Posted by: Aletheia Dec 20 2006, 03:52 PM

> QUOTE(princessdi @ Dec 20 2006, 04:09 PM) ☐
>
> Are they paid enough to leave the land and live else where? Also, that does not take the responsibility from 3ABN to provide "decent" housing, if they are offering housing to their employee. That is not dramatic, just common courtesy to provide others with nothing less than you would accept for yourself. I don't know if the housing is part of their salary package or what, but I know a house can be modest, clean, and in good repair. Nobody said anything about luxurious, just decent. You did not hear me bashing Danny or PL for their standard of living, I thought in that respect Joy has a point. However, a slum lord is a slum lord whether in the inner city NYC, SF, or T'ville. I am sure it would not take that much for Danny to buy some cans a paint and hire a maintenance person to make sure employee housing he is offereing is livable.
>
> I am really troubled that your response was that they should just go somewhere else. As a single mom you should remember that you were in the "bomb shelter" because you had no other choice, and when you could do better you did.

I'm sorry you are troubled, but I don't know what the employess are paid or what the houses even look like, or if they are happy or unhappy to live there, or if they can or cannot go elsewhere. Why ask me those questions I was responding to what you wrote, surely you already know the answers to those things or you wouldn't be posting about it?

Nobody has provided evidence regarding any of this as far as I know, including yourself who is upset at this injustice, what are you basing your words on?

Surely this is something, if true which cannot be layed at Danny Shelton's feet alone.
How for instance, could Linda as Vice President of 3ABN living in that beautiful house with Danny have countenanced these alleged workers being in such poverty and living in substandard housing while doing so?. You do know she received a quarter of a million dollars as a settlement don't you? And that she contributed $100,000 dolars with either a gift or loan of another 100,000 dollars from Her Norwegian friend towards purchasing the house she lives in now don't you?

Also:

I didn't think 3ABN was owned by Danny Shelton.

It's my understanding Danny Shelton can be voted out as president or fired for misconduct just like Linda was. and another President voted in even if he's not fired. And that the term of President is only for three years.

I got most of this from Sister's posts along with the rest of the Linda supporters.

If any of this is wrong, and someone has proof otherwise I'd like to hear it.

But in the meantime this constant bashing of 3ABN because of Danny is wrong wrong wrong to me. He cannot possibly be as powerful as people keep claiming.

If the man is in sin and error certainly something needs to be done, but why bash everything to do with the ministry? No one needed to bash 3 ABN to fire Linda. I've heard no one blaming any of the problems at 3ABN on her although she was equally accountable for 20 years and as i said the vice President for the last 12 years.

That just seems really one-sided and partial to me.

As far as the divorce and all the he said she said involving that goes, well i don't really know enough to take a side yet, but 3ABN the ministry can continue with or without Danny Shelton, and I really believe that the two shoould be kept separate lest we be found fighting God and the spread of his message.

My two cents, because your response troubles me also.

~ Aletheia

> QUOTE(simplysaved @ Dec 20 2006, 03:56 PM)
>
> Thank you for sharing this...it clarifies many things for me.
> In reading item #6, does this Forum then represent a breech in the agreement that was signed?

No problem , It clarified things for me also. It does sound like Linda could have been held accountable for what was posted here, according to how I understnd what was writen, but if so apparently they chose not to do anything, as somebody on Maritime posted she received her last payment at the beginning of December.

~ Aletheia

Posted by: Panama_Pete Dec 20 2006, 03:55 PM

> QUOTE(simplysaved @ Dec 20 2006, 02:56 PM)
>
> In reading item #6, does this Forum then represent a breech in the agreement that was signed?
> [/color]

This forum, itself, is a form of publishing, and protected by the First Amendment.

As for the parties, themselves, that breech would have to be proven, since one party's idea of a breech might not be the other party's idea of a breech.

Posted by: simplysaved Dec 20 2006, 04:04 PM

This is how I am convicted on this as well....

> QUOTE(Aletheia @ Dec 20 2006, 04:52 PM)
>
> I'm sorry you are troubled, but I don't know what the employess are paid or what the houses even look like, or if they are happy or unhappy to live there, or if they can or cannot go elsewhere. Why ask me those questions I was responding to what you wrote, surely you already know the answers to those things or you wouldn't be posting about it?
> Nobody has provided evidence regarding any of this as far as I know, including yourself who is upset at this injustice, what are you basing your words on?
> Surely this is something, if true which cannot be layed at Danny Shelton's feet alone.
> How for instance, could Linda as Vice President of 3ABN living in that beautiful house with Danny have countenanced these alleged workers being in such poverty and living in substandard housing while doing so?. You do know she received a quarter of a million dollars as a settlement don't you? And that she contributed $100,000 dolars with either a gift or loan of another 100,000 dollars from Her Norwegian friend towards purchasing the house she lives in now don't you?
> Also:
>
> I didn't think 3ABN was owned by Danny Shelton.
>
> It's my understanding Danny Shelton can be voted out as president or fired for misconduct just like Linda was. and another President voted in even if he's not fired. And that the term of President is only for three years.
>
> I got most of this from Sister's posts along with the rest of the Linda supporters.
>
> If any of this is wrong, and someone has proof otherwise I'd like to hear it.
>
> But in the meantime this constant bashing of 3ABN because of Danny is wrong wrong wrong to me. He cannot possibly be as powerful as people keep claiming.
>
> If the man is in sin and error certainly something needs to be done, but why bash everything to do with the ministry? No one needed to bash 3 ABN to fire Linda. I've heard no one blaming any of the problems at 3ABN on her although she was equally accountable for 20 years and as i said the vice President for the last 12 years.
>
> That just seems really one-sided and partial to me.
>
> As far as the divorce and all the he said she said involving that goes, well i don't really know enough to take a side yet, but 3ABN the ministry can continue with or without Danny Shelton, and I > really believe that the two shoould be kept separate lest we be found fighting God and the spread of his message.

>
> My two cents, because your response troubles me also.
>
> ~ Aletheia
> No problem , It clarified things for me also. It does sound like Linda could have been held accountable for what was posted here, according to how I understnd what was writen, but if so apparently they chose not to do anything, as somebody on Maritime posted she received her last payment at the beginning of December.
>
> ~ Aletheia

^
^

...that was all I wanted to have someone say....So then WHY because the agreement covers the past, present, and FUTURE? The bottomline is it WAS signed by Linda.

...AND cashed the checks.....I do not have a side other than if one is at fault BOTH are at fault.

Posted by: Johann Dec 20 2006, 04:44 PM

> QUOTE(Panama_Pete @ Dec 20 2006, 11:55 PM)
>
> This forum, itself, is a form of publishing, and protected by the First Amendment.
>
> As for the parties, themselves, that breech would have to be proven, since one party's idea of a breech might not be the other party's idea of a breech.

Here is how Danny Shelton has been trying to keep me from presenting the TRUTH in this matter, as I have experienced it:

> QUOTE
>
> -----Original Message-----
> From: Danny Shelton [mailto:danshelton@earthlink.net]
> Sent: 1. október 2004 07:17
> To: Johann Thorvaldsson
> Subject:
>
> Johann, if you care anything about Linda please quit writing all this garbage as it is only hurting her.
> I just read Nick and your correspondence and of course, once again, you are out of your league.
> Don't you understand that you can cost her$150,000 that she has coming to her in the next 2 1/2 years.
> Nick is not bluffing. What a shame you pretend to care about her but because of selfish pride are willing jepardize her small fortune.
> Whether you like it or not she signed an agreement. She is obligated to abide by this agreement if she wants her $150,000.

> The agreement states that if she or those close to her, and of course you claim to be her close friend, try to hurt the ministry, as you are now doing you jepardize her money.
> You just don't get it Johann, the bible says no one can do anything against the gospel, but for the gospel. No one, even you cannot stop 3ABN because it is giving the gospel into all the world.
> 3ABN can use this $150,000 to help it reach even farther into the world, maybe even to help build a new studio in Scandinavia. So think about it, you're trying to help Linda by trying to turn people against 3ABN because you think she was treated unfairly, is only going to help 3ABN because now instead of all this money going to Linda, if quite possibly is going to stay within 3ABN.
> I know you won't understand one word of this but maybe someone close to you will read this to you and explain to you the damage you are doing to Linda. Your son seems very sharp, maybe he could help you understand, what your foolish pride won't allow you to see.
> Once again, if you don't stop, 3ABN's coffers will be $150,000 better off. I want this money to go to Linda! We the board and Linda have an agreement. If you mess it up I hope you are willing to support her to the tune of $150,000 in the next 2 1/2 years.
> With all the work you are doing to hurt this ministry by sending out your lies in a letter only 11 people have written me that were upset at me because of what you wrote. I looked up their numbers and either called them or emailed them. So far 10 have written me back and apologized for jumping to conclusions about what you had written. So far you may have affected one of the 11. But she is not listed as a donar in our computor anyway.
> Our finances, are at an all time high for this time of year. Our donors have risen 33% in the last 4 months. That's the biggest increase in the history of 3ABN. They see your letter and Linda's Web page as an assault against God's ministry. Not against me or the board. They are rallying to help 3ABN like never before. Remember the bible says you cannot hurt the gospel only help it. The only problem is your own soul and what this desire to destroy God's work has done to you. It's made you cover up truth and distort truth. You can't win, but please don't take Linda's money down the tube with you.
> Danny

The "garbage" Danny refers to shouls be my letter that was posted on BSDA and which Calvin has pinned at the top of this section. Don't say that Danny has not tried! Has he succeeded now two years later? Why have I kept on? Not for selfish purposes. I was wondering if I should not quit and leave the results to the Lord. I had nothing to gain. I prayed about it, and the Lord gave me a clear sign that if I quit then I would be held accountable for the crimes committed in this case. It is great to know that there are so many honest people world wide that are eager to see the TRUTH prevail. Thank you, and God bless you all!

Posted by: princessdi Dec 20 2006, 05:32 PM

I'm sorry you are troubled, but I don't know what the employess are paid or what the houses even look like, or if they are happy or unhappy to live there, or if they can or cannot go elsewhere. Why ask me those questions I was responding to what you wrote, surely you already know the answers to those things or you wouldn't be posting about it?

Actually, it is fine that you don't have an answer, but it does tend to tie your hands as far as a defense. I am asking you because you responded to this situation by saying if they are not happy with their accommodations, then they should just move, basically. Also, by using your own experience as a simgle mother, which I also referenced. IOW, you started answering, why stop now? No, I don't know the answers, because as I keep saying, it is beyond me why Danny would offer substandard housing to his workers.

Nobody has provided evidence regarding any of this as far as I know, including yourself who is upset at this injustice, what are you basing your words on?

We have Uncle Sam's first-hand account of the housing situation i Posts #71 and #79. Also, this is not the first time I had heard this, but I don't know that the account is as credible as Uncle Sam's first hand account. I think this type of ifnormation you have been asking for all long, Correct? Yet you still don't believe......

Surely this is something, if true which cannot be layed at Danny Shelton's feet alone.
How for instance, could Linda as Vice President of 3ABN living in that beautiful house with Danny have countenanced these alleged workers being in such poverty and living in substandard housing while doing so?. You do know she received a quarter of a million dollars as a settlement don't you? And that she contributed $100,000 dolars with either a gift or loan of another 100,000 dollars from Her Norwegian friend towards purchasing the house she lives in now don't you?

She was co-owner, a quarter of a million dallars is not her portion of the company. She was cheated, unless 3ABN is only worth $500,000.00. I would have mentioned her had she still been there.
Also:

I didn't think 3ABN was owned by Danny Shelton.

It's my understanding Danny Shelton can be voted out as president or fired for misconduct just like Linda was. and another President voted in even if he's not fired. And that the term of President is only for three years.

Donald Trump owns his company, but he has a board that can fire him if it is for the good of the company. That has nothing to do with ownership, it is just business. Danny still owns 3ABN.
I got most of this from Sister's posts along with the rest of the Linda supporters.

Then you also read that Danny has stacked the deck with the board. It IS his buisness and stacking the board is common practice in the corporate world. The board has the power to fire the owner/CEO, then you stack to board with people who will never vote to have you fired. Simple enough. Crooked as all get out, but simple.

If any of this is wrong, and someone has proof otherwise I'd like to hear it.

But in the meantime this constant bashing of 3ABN because of Danny is wrong wrong wrong to me. He cannot possibly be as powerful as people keep claiming.

If the man is in sin and error certainly something needs to be done, but why bash everything to do with the ministry? No one needed to bash 3ABN to fire Linda. I've heard no one blaming any of the problems at 3ABN on her although she was equally accountable for 20 years and as i said the vice President for the last 12 years.

You need to keep reading................If he is still doing wrong, and somebody knows about it.........the Bible says what you do in the dark........right? I might be wrong, but ai think the lack of action in the face of evidence that warrants at the very least a thorough investigation, is what fuels people to keep this subject in the fore front.
That just seems really one-sided and partial to me.

It will be, remember, the agreement you just posted says that Linda cannot speak for herself. Danny has been speaking all the time, every chance he gets. That does not seem one sided to you? So Danny has the audience of millions with which to voice his side, and Linda has a couple of message boards. You are right, it is really one sided.
As far as the divorce and all the he said she said involving that goes, well i don't really know enough to take a side yet, but 3ABN the ministry can continue with or without Danny Shelton, and I really believe that the two shoould be kept separate lest we be found fighting God and the spread of his message.

My two cents, because your response troubles me also.

It should, but not for the reason it is. It really should trouble you that someone who claims to represent Christ and your denomination is so unChrist-like to his fellow laborers in His vineyard. However, it troubles you more that I voiced my concern about the inequality. Everyone has a right to live as comfortably as they can afford. I am one who not against folks being blessed of God to be rich and even wealthy, we have president for this in the Bible. However, here again, I am disturbed by Danny's claims to be of God, and his actions. You see my concern is not to vindicate Linda or even be pro Linda. I am just concerned about the constant unChristlike behavior of Danny, Pastor Lomacang, Dr. Thomspon and others in leadership at 3ABN and the 3ABN board. Makes no difference who they wrong, they are wrong, and they need to live up to their claims. Simple!

Posted by: Aletheia Dec 20 2006, 07:10 PM

[quote name='princessdi' date='Dec 20 2006, 06:32 PM' post='164536']
I'm sorry you are troubled, but I don't know what the employess are paid or what the houses even look like, or if they are happy or unhappy to live there, or if they can or cannot go elsewhere. Why ask me those questions I was responding to what you wrote, surely you already know the answers to those things or you wouldn't be posting about it?

[quote]Actually, it is fine that you don't have an answer, but it does tend to tie your hands as far as a defense. I am asking you because you responded to this situation by saying if they are not happy with their accommodations, then they should just move, basically. Also, by using your own experience as a simgle mother, which I also referenced. IOW, you started answering, why stop now? No, I don't know the answers, because as I keep saying, it is beyond me why Danny would offer substandard housing to his workers. [/quote]

Nobody has provided evidence regarding any of this as far as I know, including yourself who is upset at this injustice, what are you basing your words on?

[quote]We have Uncle Sam's first-hand account of the housing situation i Posts #71 and #79. Also, this is not the first time I had heard this, but I don't know that the account is as credible as Uncle Sam's first hand account. I think this type of ifnormation you have been asking for all long, Correct? Yet you still don't believe......
----------------------[/quote]

I looked at the posts you are talking about, and saw Uncle Sam's questions and Joys answers it was post 71 - 77, and honestly. I still don't know what the houses are like from that, or as compared to what and who's standards? Nor do I know Uncle Sam or anything about him. I don't just accept what people say as fact, neither do I assume they are lying. I just wait to see which it is.

I don't mean to be offensive here, and I am sorry if I came across that way. I really do think we all have the right to make choices.

And I think too many opinions seam to be based on here say from people we don't even know or know anything about. Or at least I don't.

So for myself, I choose not to repeat this, because I am not sure it's the truth or not., and I do think you were wrong to refer to Danny Shelton as a slumlord based on what I have seen written here and what you referred me to. But then that's your choice also..

As far as ownership of 3ABN goes, I guess I just don't understand how non-profit ministries and organizations opperate. I thought they supported themselves and weren't actually owned per se.

I thought there was a difference between founders and owners, but I don't know a whole lot about it, I just know Both Danny and Linda were constantly referred to as the founders and I can't find anything listing them as owners, but I have too many things on the burner to pursue it more.

~ Aletheia

Posted by: princessdi Dec 20 2006, 08:38 PM

Then why come here, and ask for first hand evidence if you are going to turn around and just say that you then don't know who the people are? This is the world wide web. Are you kidding? at this point you would be really offended if someone accused of of trying to find out members true names, but at this point, by you rown words that willb e the only way to satisfy you.

I don't mean to be offensive either, however you need to stop asking for something no one can provide you. Just continue to believe as you do and leave it as that. Don't worry about trying to save Danny's or 3ABNs reputation. just let it go. Do as you said at first.

> QUOTE
>
> Nobody has provided evidence regarding any of this as far as I know, including yourself who is upset at this injustice, what are you basing your words on?
> I looked at the posts you are talking about, and saw Uncle Sam's questions and Joys answers it was post 71 - 77, and honestly. I still don't know what the houses are like from that, or as compared to what and who's standards? Nor do I know Uncle Sam or anything about him. I don't just accept what people say as fact, neither do I assume they are lying. I just wait to see which it is.
>
> I don't mean to be offensive here, and I am sorry if I came across that way. I really do think we all have the right to make choices.
>
> And I think too many opinions seam to be based on here say from people we don't even know or know anything about. Or at least I don't.
>
> So for myself, I choose not to repeat this, because I am not sure it's the truth or not., and I do think you were wrong to refer to Danny Shelton as a slumlord based on what I have seen written here and what you referred me to. But then that's your choice also..
> As far as ownership of 3ABN goes, I guess I just don't understand how non-profit ministries and organizations opperate. I thought they supported themselves and weren't actually owned per se.
>
> I thought there was a difference between founders and owners, but I don't know a whole lot about it, I just know Both Danny and Linda were constantly referred to as the founders and I can't find anything listing them as owners, but I have too many things on the burner to pursue it more.
> ~ Aletheia

Posted by: Aletheia Dec 20 2006, 08:50 PM

> QUOTE(princessdi @ Dec 20 2006, 09:38 PM) ☐
>
> Then why come here, and ask for first hand evidence if you are going to turn around and just say that you then don't know who the people are? This is the world wide web. Are you kidding? at this > point you would be really offended if someone accused of of trying to find out members true names, but at this point, by you rown words that willb e the only way to satisfy you.

>
> I don't mean to be offensive either, however you need to stop asking for something no one can provide you. Just continue to believe as you do and leave it as that. Don't worry about trying to save Danny's or 3ABNs reputation. just let it go. Do as you said at first.

1. I didn't come here asking for people to just say things, anybody can say anything, even liars and deceivers. I have only been looking for verifiable facts and evidence. My questions have been concerned with getting to that.

2. I am not trying to defend Danny personally, for I don't know him, but I can't help but notice there is an awful lot about him on this forum which hasn't been proven.

3. I am concerned about the truth and I am concerned about 3ABN's ministry and outreach, it is a wonderful tool to reach millions all over the world and I hope to see it continue to be so, to the glory Of God, and help reach his people and prepare them.

4. If people can't understand that, then I guess that's their problem, not mine.

~ Aletheia

Posted by: PrincessDrRe Dec 20 2006, 09:10 PM

> QUOTE(princessdi @ Dec 20 2006, 07:32 PM)
>
> ...It should, but not for the reason it is. It really should trouble you that someone who claims to represent Christ and your denomination is so unChrist-like to his fellow laborers in His vineyard. However, it troubles you more that I voiced my concern about the inequality. Everyone has a right to live as comfortably as they can afford. I am one who not against folks being blessed of God to be rich and even wealthy, we have president for this in the Bible. However, here again, I am disturbed by Danny's claims to be of God, and his actions. You see my concern is not to vindicate Linda or even be pro Linda. I am just concerned about the constant unChristlike behavior of Danny, Pastor Lomacang, Dr. Thomspon and others in leadership at 3ABN and the 3ABN board. Makes no difference who they wrong, they are wrong, and they need to live up to their claims. Simple!

IA!

My whole take is this....

If it's true - (and from what I've read here, investigated, and also discussed w/ others IT IS)....then in the end - with the LORD's help - IT WILL COME TO LIGHT.

If you don't believe that any of what you are reading is true - even when it is coming from FIRST HAND KNOWLEDGE/EXPERIENCE then let it go. Float on.

However I do have a question....

How many of you would want Danny as your son-in-law (should he "divorce" again)?

Posted by: Joe Smith Dec 20 2006, 09:50 PM

> QUOTE(princessdi @ Dec 20 2006, 01:19 PM) ☐
>
> Joy, I can understand about working for 20 years, and accumulated things, even luxuries(my only red flag in this area was the private jet). However, transitory or not, the workers may not live like Danny, and Brandy at this point, but there still should be "decent" housing. As 3ABN promotes themselves as a leading (SDA)Christian organization, such inequalities should be none existant. it should not be the case that Danny passes housing for his employees that are barely livable to go to his own luxurious home. Modest, I can understand, but fromt he outside it should not be iommediately recignizable that they housing of any employee is less than any of us require for ourselves, especially Danny. As these folks have heeded the call to servce God at 3ABN.
> BTW, Joy, Welcome to BSDA. I am sure we will get an "interesting" perspectives on things at 3ABN.

I have info on this subject....3ABN does NOT OWN that jet... they only lease it.. They couldn't afford to own it. As far as housing goes... As a rule, the employees rent local housing from whomever. Some of the 3ABN apartments are very nice and was built new less than 10 years ago. 3ABN owns VERY few houses. The old 1 or 2 ones they do own just happened to be on a peice of property that was bought for the land... not the house. Some pay rent for the house... I know I did when I worked there. I could have found something else in the community for the same money... but it was handy to rent from them. They are there by choice..

Joe

Posted by: princessdi Dec 20 2006, 09:52 PM

1. I didn't come here asking for people to just say things, anybody can say anything, even liars and deceivers. I have only been looking for verifiable facts and evidence. My questions have been concerned with getting to that.

You came here asking for first hand accounts who what was posted here, Today, Uncle Sam gave you a first ahnd account including stating that he stayed in some very nice apartments and then visited some he was surprised tha 3ABN owned they were so bad, but that first hand account was not good en ough for you. Now, you don't know who Uncle Sam is, so he must be lying. So unless he gives you his rine,r ank and serial number, you will not belive him. You are asking for something, including yourself, that nobody is going to give here. All we know of you is Aletheia/Cindy. First hand accounts are good enough for for courts, but not for you.

2. I am not trying to defend Danny personally, for I don't know him, but I can't help but notice there is an awful lot about him on this forum which hasn't been proven.

That's what you say, we don't know you either.

3. I am concerned about the truth and I am concerned about 3ABN's ministry and outreach, it is a wonderful tool to reach millions all over the world and I hope to see it continue to be so, to the glory Of God, and help reach his people and prepare them.

Good you be concnerned, but truth is God does not need 3ABN to do His work.

4. If people can't understand that, then I guess that's their problem, not mine.

"People" here understand more than you realize. Send in the next team, this time train 'em better. I'll even give you a hint. tell them not to be concerned with the IDs of who is posting.

Posted by: PrincessDrRe Dec 20 2006, 09:58 PM

Dead on pernt! So many folks are concerned with the id of people. Why? So they can have more "problems"/issues at work or in their life!

That's sad.

Posted by: princessdi Dec 20 2006, 09:58 PM

Ok, I can accept most of this from you. However, I still say if there is housing that 3ABN is renting, it needs to be in decent repair, be it one or twelve. If they are not livable, don't rent them.

Respectfully, you can speak for your individual situation, but you can't speak for everyone. You honestly dont' know if they are there by choice or not.

> QUOTE(Joe Smith @ Dec 20 2006, 07:50 PM)
>
> I have info on this subject....3ABN does NOT OWN that jet... they only lease it.. They couldn't afford to own it. As far as housing goes... As a rule, the employees rent local housing from whomever. Some of the 3ABN apartments are very nice and was built new less than 10 years ago. 3ABN owns VERY few houses. The old 1 or 2 ones they do own just happened to be on a peice of property that was bought for the land... not the house. Some pay rent for the house... I know I did when I worked there. I could have found something else in the community for the same money... but it was handy to rent from them. They are there by choice..
> Joe

Posted by: Fran Dec 20 2006, 10:50 PM

~ Open Mouth Insert Foot ~

So 3ABN charges rent? Well, Well! The IL vs. 3ABN Property Tax Lawsuit said that 3ABN did not declare any Rental/Lease Income. Oop's.

I just love when puzzles come together in greater detail. All we have to do is listen and read it for ourselves.

Now, where, oh where, did all that rent/lease income go?

Posted by: Panama_Pete Dec 20 2006, 11:13 PM

> QUOTE(Joe Smith @ Dec 20 2006, 09:50 PM)
>
> I have info on this subject....3ABN does NOT OWN that jet... they only lease it.. They couldn't afford to own it.

> Joe

There was a time when I would just let a statement like this pass through my "filters" unmentioned. I'm talking about the part that says "They couldn't afford to own it."

However, it is important to mention that nobody from the "outside" gets into the 3ABN accounting system. It's just the word of one person saying things. While it is true that an outside firm may audit the 3ABN accounts, that auditing is not being done for us.

So, when you say, "They couldn't afford it," just realize that this is the type of information that gets implanted deep inside our brains - yours and mine - without us having any access to the books, unless we are working in the accounting department and the Loma Linda trust department and have some knowledge of the cash flow."

Personally, I'm not convinced leasing a private jet at $40,000 a month, not including all the other things, such as paying to keep pilots on 24-hour standby, fuel, landing fees, etc., really is a practice in frugality or is so much more affordable than buying a jet.

The above could, possibly, also apply to DLS Publications, Inc. DLS = Danny Lee Shelton. All we know is that we don't know.

Posted by: Johann Dec 21 2006, 05:57 AM

> QUOTE(Joe Smith @ Dec 21 2006, 05:50 AM)
>
> I have info on this subject....3ABN does NOT OWN that jet... they only lease it.. They couldn't afford to own it.
> Joe

Then you also know what the monthly lease expenses are, don't you? How much is it? What about the salary of the pilots, fuel and aurport fees?

Posted by: Pickle Dec 21 2006, 07:03 AM

I recently chatted with someone who took great offense that anyone would think that maybe just perhaps a membership transfer into an Adventist church of someone with ties to Adventism spanning decades should not be accepted if the prospective transferee claims that they speak in charismatic tongues and has no intention of stopping regardless of what anyone says or shows them.

That individual who took offense maintained that a case of someone living with someone out of wedlock would, however, be cut and dried. I responded that there would still be churches out there containing individuals that would get all bent out of shape over that sort of position, and would cause that individual all kind of grief if he or she took such a stand.

I know it's so, because I've seen it.

It's the same old story whenever serious matters need to be dealt with in the area of church discipline. It's highly appropriate to remember that God is a God of mercy, but if we forget that He is a God of justice too, we do so at our peril.

What we fail to realize is that not kindly dealing with blatant sin is anything but merciful. It is one of the most unloving and unmerciful things we can do in such situations.

Posted by: Pickle Dec 21 2006, 08:31 AM

I hope we all realize the extreme disadvantage Danny finds himself at right now.

Because Linda consented to signing a http://www.lindashelton.org/contract.html that forbids her to speak critically of her ex-husband in public, via email, or even in empty church buildings, if I read the http://www.lindashelton.org/contract.html correctly, and because Danny did not have the courtesy to enter into a similar agreement regarding speaking critically about his ex-wife, there is an abundance of written material to examine for discrepancies coming from Danny, and a paucity of such material coming from Linda.

Take for example the following email which Johann posted in its entirety just a little earlier in this thread:

> QUOTE(Danny Shelton)
>
> -----Original Message-----
> From: Danny Shelton [mailto:danshelton@earthlink.net]
> Sent: 1. október 2004 07:17
> To: Johann Thorvaldsson
> Subject:
>
> Johann, if you care anything about Linda please quit writing all this garbage as it is only hurting her.
>
> ...
>
> Don't you understand that you can cost her $150,000 that she has coming to her in the next 2 1/2 years.
>
> Nick is not bluffing. What a shame you pretend to care about her but because of selfish pride are willing jepardize her small fortune.
>
> Whether you like it or not she signed an agreement. She is obligated to abide by this agreement if she wants her $150,000.
>
> The agreement states that if she or those close to her, and of course you claim to be her close friend, try to hurt the ministry, as you are now doing you jepardize her money.
>
> ... So think about it, you're trying to help Linda by trying to turn people against 3ABN because you think she was treated unfairly, is only going to help 3ABN because now instead of all this money going to Linda, if quite possibly is going to stay within 3ABN.
>
> I know you won't understand one word of this but maybe someone close to you will read this to you and explain to you the damage you are doing to Linda. Your son seems very sharp, maybe he could help you understand, what your foolish pride won't allow you to see.
>
> Once again, if you don't stop, 3ABN's coffers will be $150,000 better off. I want this money to go to Linda! We the board and Linda have an agreement. If you mess it up I hope you are willing to > support her to the tune of $150,000 in the next 2 1/2 years.

>
> ... You can't win, but please don't take Linda's money down the tube with you.
>
> Danny

My comments are based on the assumption that the above email is genuine.

Did you notice how many times Danny threatened Pastor Thorvaldsson with the loss of Linda's money? Did you notice the basis he gave for this threat? Here it is again:

> QUOTE(Danny Shelton)
>
> The agreement states that if she or those close to her, and of course you claim to be her close friend, try to hurt the ministry, as you are now doing you jepardize her money.

Is this a truth or a distortion of the truth?

Danny did use the word "jeopardize," but the entire letter gives the impression that what Pastor Thorvaldsson is doing would do more than merely "jeopardize."

The http://www.lindashelton.org/contract.html very clearly says that Linda cannot make certain statements in certain ways. This includes not making private statements to be publicly used by others and attributed to her. The http://www.lindashelton.org/contract.html says nothing about prohibiting others from making their own statements.

The http://www.lindashelton.org/contract.html also states that if others are making statements critical of 3ABN (statements critical of Linda's ex-husband rather than of 3ABN are not explicitly included in that part of the http://www.lindashelton.org/contract.html), Linda, upon request of 3ABN, must phone or write, if possible, and ask those others that they cease doing so.

Nothing in the http://www.lindashelton.org/contract.html says that she is penalized if either 3ABN doesn't ask her to do the above, if it isn't "reasonably possible" to do the above, or if those others refuse to comply with her request.

Now remember, I'm not an attorney, but it does seem to me that all that threatening language to Pastor Thorvaldsson is but a bluff with no real substance to back it up. And some folks out there just might call it a lie, since as long as Linda asks Pastor Thorvaldsson to cease from being critical of only 3ABN only when 3ABN requests her to, she's totally and absolutely in the clear.

Am I correct in this?

If someone wants to, they can write Danny and ask him about this discrepancy. I'll pass for now since he's behind in responding to what I have already sent him.

Posted by: Chez Dec 21 2006, 10:56 AM

> QUOTE(Pickle @ Dec 21 2006, 09:31 AM) ☐
>
> I hope we all realize the extreme disadvantage Danny finds himself at right now.
>
> Because Linda consented to signing a http://www.lindashelton.org/contract.html that forbids her to speak critically of her ex-husband in public, via email, or even in empty church buildings, if I read the http://www.lindashelton.org/contract.html correctly, and because Danny did not have the > courtesy to enter into a similar agreement regarding speaking critically about his ex-wife, there is an abundance of written material to examine for discrepancies coming from Danny, and a paucity of such material coming from Linda.

>
> Take for example the following email which Johann posted in its entirety just a little earlier in this thread:
> My comments are based on the assumption that the above email is genuine.
>
> Did you notice how many times Danny threatened Pastor Thorvaldsson with the loss of Linda's money? Did you notice the basis he gave for this threat? Here it is again:
> Is this a truth or a distortion of the truth?
>
> Danny did use the word "jeopardize," but the entire letter gives the impression that what Pastor Thorvaldsson is doing would do more than merely "jeopardize."
>
> The http://www.lindashelton.org/contract.html very clearly says that Linda cannot make certain statements in certain ways. This includes not making private statements to be publicly used by others and attributed to her. The http://www.lindashelton.org/contract.html says nothing about prohibiting others from making their own statements.
>
> The http://www.lindashelton.org/contract.html also states that if others are making statements critical of 3ABN (statements critical of Linda's ex-husband rather than of 3ABN are not explicitly included in that part of the http://www.lindashelton.org/contract.html), Linda, upon request of 3ABN, must phone or write, if possible, and ask those others that they cease doing so.
>
> Nothing in the http://www.lindashelton.org/contract.html says that she is penalized if either 3ABN doesn't ask her to do the above, if it isn't "reasonably possible" to do the above, or if those others refuse to comply with her request.
>
> Now remember, I'm not an attorney, but it does seem to me that all that threatening language to Pastor Thorvaldsson is but a bluff with no real substance to back it up. And some folks out there just might call it a lie, since as long as Linda asks Pastor Thorvaldsson to cease from being critical of only 3ABN only when 3ABN requests her to, she's totally and absolutely in the clear.
>
> Am I correct in this?
>
> If someone wants to, they can write Danny and ask him about this discrepancy. I'll pass for now since he's behind in responding to what I have already sent him.

Pickle,
I don't think Danny will reply to you. If he was smart, he shouldn't respond because he keeps putting his foot in his mouth.

Posted by: sister Dec 21 2006, 11:14 AM

> QUOTE(Chez @ Dec 21 2006, 11:56 AM)
>
> Pickle,
> I don't think Danny will reply to you. If he was smart, he shouldn't respond because he keeps putting his foot in his mouth.

Unfortunately, for Danny, smart has never been an accusation that has been made nor will ever be proven against him. I wonder what Brandy has been applying on his chapped toes recently (his foot is soooo often in his mouth)?

Posted by: simplysaved Dec 21 2006, 11:53 AM

According to item #6 of the contract, it specifically includes "friends", "agents", or "third parties" are also not to speak negatively.....publically.

http://www.lindashelton.org/contract.html

> QUOTE(Pickle @ Dec 21 2006, 09:31 AM)
>
> I hope we all realize the extreme disadvantage Danny finds himself at right now.
>
> Because Linda consented to signing a http://www.lindashelton.org/contract.html that forbids her to speak critically of her ex-husband in public, via email, or even in empty church buildings, if I read the http://www.lindashelton.org/contract.html correctly, and because Danny did not have the courtesy to enter into a similar agreement regarding speaking critically about his ex-wife, there is an abundance of written material to examine for discrepancies coming from Danny, and a paucity of such material coming from Linda.
>
> Take for example the following email which Johann posted in its entirety just a little earlier in this thread:
> My comments are based on the assumption that the above email is genuine.
>
> Did you notice how many times Danny threatened Pastor Thorvaldsson with the loss of Linda's money? Did you notice the basis he gave for this threat? Here it is again:
> Is this a truth or a distortion of the truth?
>
> Danny did use the word "jeopardize," but the entire letter gives the impression that what Pastor Thorvaldsson is doing would do more than merely "jeopardize."
>
> The http://www.lindashelton.org/contract.html very clearly says that Linda cannot make certain statements in certain ways. This includes not making private statements to be publicly used by others and attributed to her. The http://www.lindashelton.org/contract.html says nothing about prohibiting others from making their own statements.
>
> The http://www.lindashelton.org/contract.html also states that if others are making statements critical of 3ABN (statements critical of Linda's ex-husband rather than of 3ABN are not explicitly included in that part of the http://www.lindashelton.org/contract.html), Linda, upon request of 3ABN, must phone or write, if possible, and ask those others that they cease doing so.
>
> Nothing in the http://www.lindashelton.org/contract.html says that she is penalized if either 3ABN doesn't ask her to do the above, if it isn't "reasonably possible" to do the above, or if those others refuse to comply with her request.
>
> Now remember, I'm not an attorney, but it does seem to me that all that threatening language to Pastor Thorvaldsson is but a bluff with no real substance to back it up. And some folks out there just might call it a lie, since as long as Linda asks Pastor Thorvaldsson to cease from being critical of only 3ABN only when 3ABN requests her to, she's totally and absolutely in the clear.
>
> Am I correct in this?

> If someone wants to, they can write Danny and ask him about this discrepancy. I'll pass for now since he's behind in responding to what I have already sent him.

Posted by: princessdi Dec 21 2006, 12:26 PM

Apparently as early as Oct. of 2004 Danny had threaten Johann with being responsible for Linda not getting the money agreed upon in the contract. Now, I think if is was really enforceable, she would not have gotten the last payment earlier this month.

Thank God!! Linda is not me. Cuz at this pernt I would be telling it to Oprah, the Enquirer, 20/20, Primetime, writing, "Healing Hurting People(or what ever the name of that book is): The Real Story, for at least $500,000.00, and handing Danny back his $250,000.00 and keep steppin'!

Posted by: Panama_Pete Dec 21 2006, 12:33 PM

> QUOTE(simplysaved @ Dec 21 2006, 11:53 AM) ☐
>
> According to item #6, it specifically includes "friends" are also not to speak negatively.....

Not everyone at 3ABN is familiar with the word "friend."

They should stick to words they understand.

Was Brenda Walsh ever Linda's friend?

Posted by: seeshell Dec 21 2006, 12:43 PM

> QUOTE(princessdi @ Dec 21 2006, 12:26 PM) ☐
>
> Thank God!! Linda is not me. Cuz at this pernt I would be telling it to Oprah, the Enquirer, 20/20, Primetime, writing, "Healing Hurting People(or what ever the name of that book is): The Real Story, > for at least $500,000.00, and handing Danny back his $250,000.00 and keep steppin'!

Note to self: Don't mess with Auntie Di!

Posted by: Panama_Pete Dec 21 2006, 01:08 PM

> QUOTE(princessdi @ Dec 21 2006, 12:26 PM)
>
> Apparently as early as Oct. of 2004 Danny had threaten Johann with being responsible for Linda not getting the money agreed upon in the contract. Now, I think if is was really enforceable, she would not have gotten the last payment earlier this month.
>
> Thank God!! Linda is not me. Cuz at this pernt I would be telling it to Oprah, the Enquirer, 20/20, Primetime, writing, "Healing Hurting People(or what ever the name of that book is): The Real Story, for at least $500,000.00, and handing Danny back his $250,000.00 and keep steppin'!

This is what I would do, too. The parties probably had no "meeting of the minds" with that contract, anyway.

Posted by: Pickle Dec 21 2006, 01:09 PM

> QUOTE(simplysaved @ Dec 21 2006, 11:53 AM)
>
> According to item #6 of the contract, it specifically includes "friends", "agents", or "third parties" are also not to speak negatively.....publically.
>
> http://www.lindashelton.org/contract.html

Read it again. The way I described it is accurate.

Think about it: For the contract to prohibit anyone out there from saying anything negative or else Linda loses her money would make as much sense as saying that she can't get her money if the moon ever fulls. She has about as much control over every person on the planet that has a gripe as she has over the way the moon revolves around the earth.

Whoever the attorney was that drew that contract up would not be that irrational as to require of her the impossible. That's why the contract doesn't read as Danny claims.

In summary: Anyone and everyone can say publicly whatever they want to, and Linda is totally and absolutely in the clear as long as 1) she asks them to stop whenever 3ABN chooses to ask her to ask them, and 2) as long as she did not say something critical privately that is then both a) used publicly by someone else and b) attributed to her.

Disgust is the title of this thread, and I certainly find it disgusting that anyone would be so unfair, unjust, and unrighteous as to require their ex to sign a contract that prevents them from saying anything negative (in the ways specified) about them personally while at the same time not signing a similar contract, and in fact doing the exact opposite of what that contract required.

I am fairly certain that my Boss feels the same way, since He inspired so many Bible prophets to write out just exactly how He feels about oppression of the weak, vulnerable, poor, and such, and what He intends to do about it when He steps in and sets the record straight. We would all do well to repent before that time comes.

Let all the earth keep silent before Him.

Posted by: simplysaved Dec 21 2006, 01:14 PM

You signed the contract. You took the money and spent it. Don't sign anything you have not read with an attorney. Don't sign anything if you do not want to be accounable for the contents.

> QUOTE(Panama_Pete @ Dec 21 2006, 02:08 PM) ☐
>
> This is what I would do, too. The parties probably had no "meeting of the minds" with that contract, anyway.

You missed my edit which included "agents" or "third parties"....

Can't speak about Brenda Walsh....

> QUOTE(Panama_Pete @ Dec 21 2006, 01:33 PM) ☐
>
> Not everyone at 3ABN is familiar with the word "friend."
>
> They should stick to words they understand.
>
> Was Brenda Walsh ever Linda's friend?

Posted by: PrincessDrRe Dec 21 2006, 01:29 PM

> QUOTE(princessdi @ Dec 21 2006, 02:26 PM) ☐

> Thank God!! Linda is not me. Cuz at this pernt I would be telling it to Oprah, the Enquirer, 20/20, Primetime, writing, "Healing Hurting People(or what ever the name of that book is): The Real Story, for at least $500,000.00, and handing Danny back his $250,000.00 and keep steppin'!

Globe, World Weekly, Inside Edition, "E", Vh1 Behind the Scenes, Nightline, and the Evening News too. Also note: I don't know any "LEGAL" document that can actually stand up in court that states that "OTHERS" that didn't sign a THANG can have their hands tied (or mouths silenced).

Where is LT when you need legal expertise? All I know is you can sign a contract. However ain't nobody on this berd that can control my mouth, cuz I ain't signed a thang.

> QUOTE(seeshell @ Dec 21 2006, 02:43 PM)
>
> Note to self: Don't mess with Auntie Di!

PDR either.

Danny would be rockin' in a konah with a straight jacket on.

I don't play either.

Posted by: Lee Dec 21 2006, 01:34 PM

To go public with this information against 3ABN would be bringing dishonor the God's Name before the world.

God has told us not to go to the world with our "in church" problems. Read 3 SM beginning with p. 299 concerning lawsuits. We are not to sue our brother and take him to worldly courts. The principle behind this is airing our "dirty laundry" before the world. Too bad it is done on here anyway. A private forum would be better for the exchange of words on this whole subject.

It says when we go ahead and go to worldly courts against fellow SDA's that God does not hear our prayers.

Of course all of the above depends on whether you believe in the SOP or not.

Posted by: PrincessDrRe Dec 21 2006, 01:39 PM

> QUOTE(Lee @ Dec 21 2006, 03:34 PM)
>
> To go public with this information against 3ABN would be bringing dishonor the God's Name before the world.
>
> God has told us not to go to the world with our "in church" problems. Read 3 SM beginning with p. 299 concerning lawsuits. We are not to sue our brother and take him to worldly courts. The principle behind this is airing our "dirty laundry" before the world. Too bad it is done on here anyway. A private forum would be better for the exchange of words on this whole subject.
>
> It says when we go ahead and go to worldly courts against fellow SDA's that God does not hear our prayers.

> Of course all of the above depends on whether you believe in the SOP or not.

It also depends on if you believe in equality or not..... I guess you don't...

Posted by: princessdi Dec 21 2006, 02:06 PM

Yes, Lee, I was about to say, your statement should read "EGW counseled" us not to go the the world........ However, if Danny thought Linda broke that agreement, do you really think that passage would stop him form suing her? Going public would be bringing dishonor to Danny and 3ABN, not God. They are not one in the same. This passive state is why evil grows and festers in the dark within our churches. The perpetraters count on passages like this one to get away with their dirty deeds. Wake up people!!! it is not "our" dirty laundry. I am not owning Danny and 3ABN dirt.

Also, are you bringing this up to Danny, because he is the one yet and still bringing it up on his show each and every time he gets a chance?

> QUOTE(Lee @ Dec 21 2006, 11:34 AM)
>
> To go public with this information against 3ABN would be bringing dishonor the God's Name before the world.
>
> God has told us not to go to the world with our "in church" problems. Read 3 SM beginning with p. 299 concerning lawsuits. We are not to sue our brother and take him to worldly courts. The principle behind this is airing our "dirty laundry" before the world. Too bad it is done on here anyway. A private forum would be better for the exchange of words on this whole subject.
>
> It says when we go ahead and go to worldly courts against fellow SDA's that God does not hear our prayers.
>
> Of course all of the above depends on whether you believe in the SOP or not.

Posted by: Clay Dec 21 2006, 02:42 PM

> QUOTE(Lee @ Dec 21 2006, 01:34 PM)
>
> To go public with this information against 3ABN would be bringing dishonor the God's Name before the world.
>
> God has told us not to go to the world with our "in church" problems. Read 3 SM beginning with p. 299 concerning lawsuits. We are not to sue our brother and take him to worldly courts. The principle behind this is airing our "dirty laundry" before the world. Too bad it is done on here anyway. A private forum would be better for the exchange of words on this whole subject.
>
> It says when we go ahead and go to worldly courts against fellow SDA's that God does not hear our prayers.

> Of course all of the above depends on whether you believe in the SOP or not.

and that is why the church is still dealing with mess, kids being molested, incest, homosexuality, among other things... people have kept quiet for far to long in my opinion.....

Posted by: watchbird Dec 21 2006, 02:45 PM

> QUOTE(Lee @ Dec 21 2006, 02:34 PM)
>
> To go public with this information against 3ABN would be bringing dishonor the God's Name before the world.
>
> God has told us not to go to the world with our "in church" problems. Read 3 SM beginning with p. 299 concerning lawsuits. We are not to sue our brother and take him to worldly courts. The principle behind this is airing our "dirty laundry" before the world. Too bad it is done on here anyway. A private forum would be better for the exchange of words on this whole subject.
>
> It says when we go ahead and go to worldly courts against fellow SDA's that God does not hear our prayers.
>
> Of course all of the above depends on whether you believe in the SOP or not.

NO it doesn't... it depends on whether we go looking for things to excuse or condemn others or whether we go looking for principles as expressed in concrete situations in her day.

Posted by: Joy N Dec 21 2006, 03:22 PM

> QUOTE(PrincessDrRe @ Dec 21 2006, 01:29 PM)
>
> Globe, World Weekly, Inside Edition, "E", Vh1 Behind the Scenes, Nightline, and the Evening News too. Also note: I don't know any "LEGAL" document that can actually stand up in court that states that "OTHERS" that didn't sign a THANG can have their hands tied (or mouths silenced).
>
> Where is LT when you need legal expertise? All I know is you can sign a contract. However ain't nobody on this berd that can control my mouth, cuz I ain't signed a thang.
> PDR either.
> Danny would be rockin' in a konah with a straight jacket on.
> I don't play either

I can tell you why Linda doesn't tell her story to Oprah, Globe, Inside Edition. World Weekly. Nightline..Evening News..Behind the Senes ... and many others.... NOw think about this... Why Not tell to the world on TV, Magazines. Radio.... Now think about this a minute... Because She can't prove a thing and she knows it .. because she made it up... just like she did in her FICTIONAL DRAMA... of 10 threads on 3ABN and the Shelton family history...

Think about this.. IF the Shelton Family was sooo bad... why did she stay in it for 20 years... all the accusations that she has made.... if true... then she was a part of the problem.. right?? It seems that she only developed a problem when she was "taken out of the pictiure" and then and then only...she started manufacturing ... the dirt... Again, she can't go to the world and make her claims....

BECAUSE THEY ARE FALSE ACCUSATIONS...AND SHE KNOWS IT.

Joy N

Posted by: Richard Sherwin Dec 21 2006, 03:22 PM

Joe if they can afford to lease the jet they can afford to own it, unless it is a shared lease with another organization, and I don't think it is. The main reasons people lease planes is for tax write offs, another reason might be so that they can say to the world that they don't own a jet, thus making them look not so greedy. Remember when you lease somthing you are paying someone else the money so that they can own it, and make money off of you as well. At the end of the lease you have nothing, and the owners still have the jet which you've been paying for.

Richard

> QUOTE(Joe Smith @ Dec 20 2006, 10:50 PM) ☐
>
> I have info on this subject....3ABN does NOT OWN that jet... they only lease it.. They couldn't afford to own it. As far as housing goes... As a rule, the employees rent local housing from whomever. Some of the 3ABN apartments are very nice and was built new less than 10 years ago. 3ABN owns VERY few houses. The old 1 or 2 ones they do own just happened to be on a peice of property that was bought for the land... not the house. Some pay rent for the house... I know I did when I worked there. I could have found something else in the community for the same money... but it was handy to rent from them. They are there by choice..
> Joe

Posted by: Joy N Dec 21 2006, 03:38 PM

> QUOTE(Aletheia @ Dec 20 2006, 03:52 PM) ☐
>
> I'm sorry you are troubled, but I don't know what the employess are paid or what the houses even look like, or if they are happy or unhappy to live there, or if they can or cannot go elsewhere. Why ask me those questions I was responding to what you wrote, surely you already know the answers to those things or you wouldn't be posting about it?
> Nobody has provided evidence regarding any of this as far as I know, including yourself who is upset at this injustice, what are you basing your words on?
> Surely this is something, if true which cannot be layed at Danny Shelton's feet alone.
> How for instance, could Linda as Vice President of 3ABN living in that beautiful house with Danny have countenanced these alleged workers being in such poverty and living in substandard housing while doing so?. You do know she received a quarter of a million dollars as a settlement don't you? And that she contributed $100,000 dolars with either a gift or loan of another 100,000 dollars from

> Her Norwegian friend towards purchasing the house she lives in now don't you?
>
> Also:
>
> I didn't think 3ABN was owned by Danny Shelton.
>
> It's my understanding Danny Shelton can be voted out as president or fired for misconduct just like Linda was. and another President voted in even if he's not fired. And that the term of President is only for three years.
>
> I got most of this from Sister's posts along with the rest of the Linda supporters.
>
> If any of this is wrong, and someone has proof otherwise I'd like to hear it.
>
> But in the meantime this constant bashing of 3ABN because of Danny is wrong wrong wrong to me. He cannot possibly be as powerful as people keep claiming.
>
> If the man is in sin and error certainly something needs to be done, but why bash everything to do with the ministry? No one needed to bash 3 ABN to fire Linda. I've heard no one blaming any of the problems at 3ABN on her although she was equally accountable for 20 years and as i said the vice President for the last 12 years.
>
> That just seems really one-sided and partial to me.
>
> As far as the divorce and all the he said she said involving that goes, well i don't really know enough to take a side yet, but 3ABN the ministry can continue with or without Danny Shelton, and I really believe that the two shoould be kept separate lest we be found fighting God and the spread of his message.
>
> My two cents, because your response troubles me also.
>
> ~ Aletheia
> No problem , It clarified things for me also. It does sound like Linda could have been held accountable for what was posted here, according to how I understnd what was writen, but if so apparently they chose not to do anything, as somebody on Maritime posted she received her last payment at the beginning of December.
>
> ~ Aletheia

I have worked.. and been around 3ABN for many years and I can honestly tell you what I have seen about housing. 3ABN does not have ANY housing that was not presentable and in good repair when the renter moved into it. IF you think about it.. would 3ABN let something like this marr their face to the world?? THis world wide ministry.. raised up by God Himself.. would allow itself to be tarnished by something so insignificant as a little paint or repairs.... I don't think so.

Now I know someone said that they saw a certain situation there... But there are some people that could turn a palace into a city dump in a very short time YOu all have seen how some people prefer to live.... when a little soap and water would do wonders... I don't need to say any more..

Joy

Posted by: princessdi Dec 21 2006, 03:52 PM

Uh Joy, I think you have that backwards. I was sying for her to tell her story of being falsely accused, etc. Linda has not accused anyone of anything, she can't. Remember?

> QUOTE(Joy N @ Dec 21 2006, 01:22 PM) ☐
>
> I can tell you why Linda doesn't tell her story to Oprah, Globe, Inside Edition. World Weekly. Nightline..Evening News..Behind the Senes ... and many others.... NOw think about this... Why Not tell to the world on TV, Magazines. Radio.... Now think about this a minute... Because She can't prove a thing and she knows it .. because she made it up... just like she did in her FICTIONAL DRAMA... of 10 threads on 3ABN and the Shelton family history...
> Think about this.. IF the Shelton Family was sooo bad... why did she stay in it for 20 years... all the accusations that she has made.... if true... then she was a part of the problem.. right?? It seems that she only developed a problem when she was "taken out of the pictiure" and then and then only...she started manufacturing ... the dirt... Again, she can't go to the world and make her claims....
>
> BECAUSE THEY ARE FALSE ACCUSATIONS...AND SHE KNOWS IT.
>
> Joy N

Posted by: Joy N Dec 21 2006, 04:00 PM

> QUOTE(PeacefullyBewildered @ Dec 19 2006, 10:08 PM) ☐
>
> While this selection of quotes from a Review and Herald article is somewhat lengthy, I think they show just how important speaking out against evil doing is. The quotes are in response to a visit to a church service in Fresno, California just after Ellen White visited my great-great-grandfather, James Driver, on his deathbed.
>
> "The messengers, as the ambassadors of God, must bear a living testimony to rebuke sin, which will cut through the soul, whether men will hear, or whether they will forbear. There are many who close their eyes that they may not see, and their ears that they may not hear. They think that there has been a mistake made, that all these plain, pointed testimonies cannot come from God, but are from human agencies alone. They wrap themselves up in their self-righteousness, and fight every inch of the way, that they may stand where they imagine they should stand,--in defiance of the warnings of God's servants. They cling with desperate grasp to the garments of their own self-righteousness, lest they should be torn away from them. {RH, July 3, 1888 par. 5}
>
> What shall we do? Shall we bear the message God gives us, or shall we refrain, for fear of offending our brethren? as God's messengers, we can not falter in the path of duty. Impelled by the Spirit of God, words are spoken, warnings and counsels are given. All unexpectedly the lips were opened, and there was no refraining from speaking the message of God. Reproofs were uttered that we would naturally shrink from giving. A zeal, prompted by the Spirit of God, led us to declare the dangers that threatened the children of God. The servant of the Lord must pursue his work, losing sight of self, without thought of the consequences, exhorting to faithfulness, and urging to repentance. He must show the people their transgression, and the house of Jacob their sins. The Lord has given the word; who can forbear to publish it? The love of Christ has a constraining power; who shall withstand its influence? It is the greatest evidence that God loves his people, that he sends them messages of warning. {RH, July 3, 1888 par. 7}

> Will these souls who have a knowledge of the truth, detest sin in themselves, as they consider how Jesus suffered to save them from its penalty, and to cleanse them from all iniquity? If we would be happy and consistent Christians, we must be watchful. It is not enough that we do not willfully run into apparent and decided dangers, but we must keep our souls to the rays of light that are shining from Jesus, that we may not walk in darkness. We must be quick to distinguish between error and perversity, between obedience and truth. We must be ready to resist hasty and unexpected attacks. Will the church at Fresno cherish the light? Will the professed servants of God walk in the light? or will they choose to walk in the sparks of their own kindling? Said Christ, "Walk while ye have the light, lest darkness come upon you." Let us all pray that our eyes may be anointed with divine eyesalve, that we may no longer walk in darkness and uncertainty, but in the light which God has flashed athwart our pathway. {RH, July 3, 1888 par. 10}
>
> There is need of watchmen on the walls of Zion, who will not hold their peace day or night. They should look to God, and free themselves from every earthly entanglement, that they may have power with God, and influence with the people. There is constant danger of the church's becoming cold, and conforming to the habits and practices of the world. Christians are not watchful. They yield to the baleful influences that surround them. They are led captive by Satan at his will. Unless the people of God watch and pray, spirituality will go out of the heart as water out of a leaky vessel. From the watch-tower of Zion, let us sound a note of alarm. I have wept in secret places over the existing difficulties in the church of Christ. Many are thoughtless, and they disregard the warnings that have been given, and their feet stumble on the dark mountains of unbelief. I have passed many sleepless hours at night, offering prayer to God, crying, "Spare thy people, O Lord, and give not thine heritage to reproach. . . .Wherefore should they say among the people, Where is their God?" When souls in the darkness of error shall call, "Watchman, what of the night?" is there one who sees with heaven-inspired accuracy, the dangers that threaten the souls of men? Can they answer with firm faith, "The morning cometh, and also the night"? {RH, July 3, 1888 par. 12}"
> This article clearly shows that it is the duty of every servant of the Lord to exhort to faithfulness and urge to repentance. This is far from gossip.
>
> To read the whole Review and Herald article you can click on the link below.
>
> http://egwdatabase.whiteestate.org/nxt/gateway.dll?f=templates$fn=default.htm$vid=default
> Joe, I'd like to remind you that the EGW quote posted earlier by Lee was speaking of "faults of minor consequence" that gossip had made "appear like grave sins." I am reposting this quote below to enable you to read it carefully and weigh the differences between her clear call to a duty to warn as opposed to her exhortation against gossip.
>
> 5 T p. 51-53: "I wish my position to be clearly understood. I have no sympathy with the course that has been pursued toward Bro. -------. The enemy has encouraged feelings of hatred in the hearts of many. The errors committed by him have been reported from one person to another, constantly growing in magnitude, as busy, gossiping tongues added fuel to the fire....Some have taken advantage of this, and faults of minor consequence have been made to appear like grave sins."
>
> (any bolding of quotes provided by me)

I am absolutely in agreement with you. We need watchman on the walls. My Pastor was just taking about it last night at services. (I hope you all went to services last night). We studied Eze. 3 and chapter 33 about that very thing. The only thing that I am confused about is .... how many watchmen is enough for the same cause against the same man? The scripture says that the man should be warned.. And if her doesn't heed the warning, then he will pay for his sins... and you will be guiltless. Danny and 3ABN has been warned.. and warned.. and warned. the trumpet has been sounded and sounded and sounded. How many times is enough? Once, 20, 50, 1000. or maybe in the case of a world wide leader... do we think we have to continue until Jesus comes?? NO. the Bible says... sound the alarm... your done. the decision is on them now... you're free of it.

Maybe you say.. well I didn't sound the alarm about this one certain area... I believe SOMEBODY did..

You shouldn't have to take all the responsibillity on yourself. The way I look at it .. is if somebody has sounded the alarm on a certain subject.... the job has been done. I and 3000 others shouldn't have to sound the same alarm... He has been warned and the consequences are on him now..
Anything beyond this.. can we considered it just personal ???

Joy

Posted by: PrincessDrRe Dec 21 2006, 04:37 PM

> QUOTE(Joy N @ Dec 21 2006, 05:22 PM)
>
> I can tell you why Linda doesn't tell her story to Oprah, Globe, Inside Edition. World Weekly. Nightline..Evening News..Behind the Senes ... and many others.... NOw think about this... Why Not tell to the world on TV, Magazines. Radio.... Now think about this a minute... Because She can't prove a thing and she knows it .. because she made it up... just like she did in her FICTIONAL DRAMA... of 10 threads on 3ABN and the Shelton family history...
> Think about this.. IF the Shelton Family was sooo bad... why did she stay in it for 20 years... all the accusations that she has made.... if true... then she was a part of the problem.. right?? It seems that she only developed a problem when she was "taken out of the pictiure" and then and then only...she started manufacturing ... the dirt... Again, she can't go to the world and make her claims....
>
> BECAUSE THEY ARE FALSE ACCUSATIONS...AND SHE KNOWS IT.
>
> Joy N

If they are "false accusations" why "gag" her on them? It would come out - be proven "false" and die - just like Carol Burnett back in the day being called a "drunk" in the Enquirer. They had to pay because it was a LIE. If Linda was lying - then it would die.....then again - Di said it best below.....

> QUOTE(princessdi @ Dec 21 2006, 05:52 PM)
>
> Uh Joy, I think you have that backwards. I was sying for her to tell her story of being falsely accused, etc. Linda has not accused anyone of anything, she can't. Remember?

Linda can't say anything and has not said anything...this is other people that are saying things that they witnessed, experienced and know of first-hand.

If you had it good with the Sheltons' maybe it could be said that you were "close" to them (Danny) and have not incurred his "wrath" yet. You however cannot discredit others, their experiences, and their first-hand knowledge.

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Dec 21 2006, 04:59 PM

> QUOTE(Lee @ Dec 21 2006, 12:34 PM)

> To go public with this information against 3ABN would be bringing dishonor the God's Name before the world.
>
> God has told us not to go to the world with our "in church" problems. Read 3 SM beginning with p. 299 concerning lawsuits. We are not to sue our brother and take him to worldly courts. The principle behind this is airing our "dirty laundry" before the world. Too bad it is done on here anyway. A private forum would be better for the exchange of words on this whole subject.
>
> It says when we go ahead and go to worldly courts against fellow SDA's that God does not hear our prayers.
>
> Of course all of the above depends on whether you believe in the SOP or not.

Lee, you painted EGW's statements with a brush that was too broad, IMO. Carefully read the following, taken from the very passages you directed us to:

"The Very Thing God Told Them Not to Do.--I have written largely in regard to Christians who believe the truth placing their cases in courts of law to obtain redress. In doing this, they are biting and devouring one another in every sense of the word, "to be consumed one of another." They cast aside the inspired counsel God has given, and in the face of the message He gives they do the very thing He has told them not to do. Such men may as well stop praying to God, for He will not hear their prayers. They insult Jehovah, and He will leave them to become the subjects of Satan until they shall see their folly and seek the Lord by confession of their sins. . . . {3SM 302.2}"

This passage clearly speaks against Christians going to worldly courts to sue for monetary compensation from other Christians - redress.

If you can find me an SOP passage that counsels against bringing allegations of molestation into the light of day I will gladly read it carefully and take the message to heart.

Posted by: PrincessDrRe Dec 21 2006, 05:07 PM

> QUOTE(PeacefullyBewildered @ Dec 21 2006, 06:59 PM)
>
> Lee, you painted EGW's statements with a brush that was too broad, IMO. Carefully read the following, taken from the very passages you directed us to:
>
> "The Very Thing God Told Them Not to Do.--I have written largely in regard to Christians who believe the truth placing their cases in courts of law to obtain redress. In doing this, they are biting and devouring one another in every sense of the word, "to be consumed one of another." They cast aside the inspired counsel God has given, and in the face of the message He gives they do the very thing He has told them not to do. Such men may as well stop praying to God, for He will not hear their prayers. They insult Jehovah, and He will leave them to become the subjects of Satan until they shall see their folly and seek the Lord by confession of their sins. . . . {3SM 302.2}"
>
> This passage clearly speaks against Christians going to worldly courts to sue for monetary compensation from other Christians - redress.
>
> If you can find me an SOP passage that counsels against bringing allegations of molestation into the light of day I will gladly read it carefully and take the message to heart.

I keep asking but no one will answer the (rhetorical) question of #1 - How many people would want Danny Shelton as their son-in-law? #2 - How many folks would let "Chester" (the molester) babysit their children?

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Dec 21 2006, 05:15 PM

> QUOTE(Clay @ Dec 21 2006, 01:42 PM)
>
> and that is why the church is still dealing with mess, kids being molested, incest, homosexuality, among other things... people have kept quiet for far to long in my opinion.....

Clay, you hit the nail on the head! How many lives are needlessly shattered by the silence and denial.

Matthew 18:6 is pretty clear:

But if anyone causes one of these little ones who believe in me to sin, it would be better for him to have a large millstone hung around his neck and to be drowned in the depths of the sea.
When children are abused it changes their lives dramatically. Trust and security are gone. Pain and anger become the center of their souls making them easy prey for Satan's temptations. This is what rings in my heart when I read the letter from Roger Clem and what I have seen in my own prior life, before I could finally turn the pain and anger over to my Savior.

Unfortunately, many of these victims never find this healing and go on to lead tragic lives - some even becoming predators themselves.

Posted by: PrincessDrRe Dec 21 2006, 05:16 PM

> QUOTE(PeacefullyBewildered @ Dec 21 2006, 07:15 PM)
>
> ...Matthew 18:6 is pretty clear:
>
> But if anyone causes one of these little ones who believe in me to sin, it would be better for him to have a large millstone hung around his neck and to be drowned in the depths of the sea.
> When children are abused it changes their lives dramatically. Trust and security are gone. Pain and anger become the center of their souls making them easy prey for Satan's temptations. This is what rings in my heart when I read the letter from Roger Clem and what I have seen in my own prior life, before I could finally turn the pain and anger over to my Savior.
>
> Unfortunately, many of these victims never find this healing and go on to lead tragic lives - some even becoming predators themselves.

....and if you knew better and didn't "help" by telling and saving a child.... you're just as bad as the molester IMO. If you allow it to happen - it's as if you "helped" it happen....

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Dec 21 2006, 05:18 PM

> QUOTE(PrincessDrRe @ Dec 21 2006, 04:07 PM)
>
> I keep asking but no one will answer the (rhetorical) question of #1 - How many people would want Danny Shelton as their son-in-law? #2 - How many folks would let "Chester" (the molester) babysit their children?

#1, don't know
#2 If Chester is clothed in the garments of religion - quite a few, especially if the "molester" part is carefully kept hidden from view.

> QUOTE(PrincessDrRe @ Dec 21 2006, 04:16 PM)
>
> ....and if you knew better and didn't "help" by telling and saving a child.... you're just as bad as the molester IMO. If you allow it to happen - it's as if you "helped" it happen....

Exactly!

Posted by: Pickle Dec 21 2006, 05:58 PM

> QUOTE(Joy N @ Dec 21 2006, 03:22 PM)
>
> I can tell you why Linda doesn't tell her story to Oprah, Globe, Inside Edition. World Weekly. Nightline..Evening News..Behind the Senes ... and many others.... NOw think about this... Why Not tell to the world on TV, Magazines. Radio.... Now think about this a minute... Because She can't prove a thing and she knows it .. because she made it up... just like she did in her FICTIONAL DRAMA... of 10 threads on 3ABN and the Shelton family history...
> Think about this.. IF the Shelton Family was sooo bad... why did she stay in it for 20 years... all the accusations that she has made.... if true... then she was a part of the problem.. right?? It seems that she only developed a problem when she was "taken out of the pictiure" and then and then only...she started manufacturing ... the dirt... Again, she can't go to the world and make her claims....
>
> BECAUSE THEY ARE FALSE ACCUSATIONS...AND SHE KNOWS IT.
>
> Joy N

Excuse me? Where have you been, Joy N?

Since when did Linda a year before all this started concoct the whole Pastor Glenn Dryden/Roger Clem/Walt Thompson/Danny Shelton/Mike Riva/Tommy Shelton fiasco?

On September 1 John Lomacang told me that all this stuff, all these rumors, was all due to Linda and "her boyfriend," the doctor. I told him I can't buy that since the Tommy Shelton child molestation allegations were resurrected a year before Linda's alleged affair.

I've talked to Pastor Dryden. I've talked to Roger Clem. I've talked with a board member of the Dunn Loring Church of God. I've got in writing from Walt Thompson that Danny gave him information in 2003 that is clearly bogus.

When I started looking into this garbage in August, I could have cared less about whether Linda was innocent or guilty, and it isn't till just now that I've started looking into that issue.

On Oct. 8 this year, Danny claimed in writing that, contrary to Linda's claim, his name is on Linda's 2003 Toyota Sequoia title till now. Guess what? I got the title straight from the lending bank, not from Linda, it was issued on Feb. 11, 2003, it remains the valid title, and his name has not been on it since then.

I've asked Danny to give me any lies Linda has told, lies that can be proven to be lies without using someone's testimony, like this title thing, and he hasn't sent me a thing yet.

Obviously, you can't be talking about the Tommy Shelton child molestation allegations cover up or the name on title fabrication/discrepancy when you blame everything on Linda. Please be extremely specific about exactly what you think is all Linda's fault.

Posted by: Uncle Sam Dec 21 2006, 06:31 PM

> QUOTE(Joy N @ Dec 21 2006, 02:38 PM)
>
> I have worked.. and been around 3ABN for many years and I can honestly tell you what I have seen about housing. 3ABN does not have ANY housing that was not presentable and in good repair when the renter moved into it. IF you think about it.. would 3ABN let something like this marr their face to the world?? THis world wide ministry.. raised up by God Himself.. would allow itself to be tarnished by something so insignificant as a little paint or repairs.... I don't think so.
>
> Now I know someone said that they saw a certain situation there... But there are some people that could turn a palace into a city dump in a very short time YOu all have seen how some people prefer to live.... when a little soap and water would do wonders... I don't need to say any more..
>
> Joy

The "house" I am talking about needed much more than soap and water! It is next to the old building next to the radio station....I thought it was a storage shed.....

Posted by: PrincessDrRe Dec 21 2006, 07:01 PM

☒ sn

Posted by: calvin Dec 21 2006, 07:21 PM

> QUOTE(PrincessDrRe @ Dec 21 2006, 07:01 PM) ☐
>
> ☒ sn

☒ sn I'm with you. Gonna sit back and enjoy the fireworks!

Posted by: sister Dec 21 2006, 07:44 PM

> QUOTE(Joy N @ Dec 21 2006, 04:22 PM) ☐
>
> I can tell you why Linda doesn't tell her story to Oprah, Globe, Inside Edition. World Weekly. Nightline..Evening News..Behind the Senes ... and many others.... NOw think about this... Why Not tell to the world on TV, Magazines. Radio.... Now think about this a minute... Because She can't prove a thing and she knows it .. because she made it up... just like she did in her FICTIONAL DRAMA... of 10 threads on 3ABN and the Shelton family history...
> Think about this.. IF the Shelton Family was sooo bad... why did she stay in it for 20 years... all the accusations that she has made.... if true... then she was a part of the problem.. right?? It seems that she only developed a problem when she was "taken out of the pictiure" and then and then only...she started manufacturing ... the dirt... Again, she can't go to the world and make her claims....
>
> BECAUSE THEY ARE FALSE ACCUSATIONS...AND SHE KNOWS IT.
>
> Joy N

Now, now, Joy... If you had really been around 3ABN for such a long time, you would know the information about Danny Shelton and the Shelton Clan, as narrated in my Unauthorized History of 3ABN, is true. You may not know all the details, but you would at least be familiar with the general outline.

Like so many others sent out before you, you make the same old tired claims that I am Linda Shelton. Sorry, but you are so wrong on this point, but speak it with such conviction, it makes me wonder why. What is your evidence? Each time I ask this question the only answer I receive is silence on the part of my accuser. So, Joy, what is your evidence that I am Linda Shelton? As PrincessDi said, "This is not Sabbath School, we pay attention here!"

Have I made any false accusations in regard to Danny Shelton, his extended family or the management of 3ABN? As God is my witness, NO. I have merely been a watchman on the wall, reporting the facts. And Joy, God knows there is much more that could be told... Does Danny really want me to contine my history of 3ABN?

Sister

Posted by: Joe Smith Dec 21 2006, 09:00 PM

> QUOTE(sister @ Dec 21 2006, 11:14 AM) ☐

> Unfortunately, for Danny, smart has never been an accusation that has been made nor will ever be proven against him. I wonder what Brandy has been applying on his chapped toes recently (his foot is soooo often in his mouth)? ☐

You thought he was smart those 20 years that you were married to him! Oops, I forgot, you're not Linda.

Posted by: awesumtenor Dec 21 2006, 09:11 PM

> QUOTE(Joe Smith @ Dec 21 2006, 10:00 PM) ☐
>
> You thought he was smart those 20 years that you were married to him! Oops, I forgot, you're not Linda.

For one who claims to be so disgusted by smearing, you seem to have no aversion to using it as a tactic when it suits you...

If you get any more lumber in your eye, you'll be able to open your own Home Depot...

In His service,
Mr. J

Posted by: Joe Smith Dec 21 2006, 09:13 PM

> QUOTE(Uncle Sam @ Dec 21 2006, 06:31 PM) ☐
>
> The "house" I am talking about needed much more than soap and water! It is next to the old building next to the radio station....I thought it was a storage shed.....

Well, that will be easy for anyone who wants to check that out. I know the man who lived there very well. He is from Romania and has lived there for about 8 years. His name is Joesph. You will see his name on the program credits after many programs. He still works there, by the way and anyone can call there and talk to him on 3ABN's dime. Joesph just recently moved to Carbondale where his 2 daughter take music lessons... as they have for years. He makes enough money to support his wife, who doesn't work outside and his 2 kids who are now teenagers and driving and all on that 3ABN salary. Joesph chose to live there because it was handy. Maybe he had already moved out when you saw the place if it looked run down.

Joe

Posted by: Joe Smith Dec 21 2006, 09:26 PM

> QUOTE(sister @ Dec 21 2006, 07:44 PM) ☐
>
> Now, now, Joy... If you had really been around 3ABN for such a long time, you would know the information about Danny Shelton and the Shelton Clan, as narrated in my Unauthorized History of 3ABN, is true. You may not know all the details, but you would at least be familiar with the general outline.
>
> Like so many others sent out before you, you make the same old tired claims that I am Linda Shelton. Sorry, but you are so wrong on this point, but speak it with such conviction, it makes me wonder why. What is your evidence? Each time I ask this question the only answer I receive is silence on the part of my accuser. So, Joy, what is your evidence that I am Linda Shelton? As PrincessDi said, "This is not Sabbath School, we pay attention here!"
>
> Have I made any false accusations in regard to Danny Shelton, his extended family or the management of 3ABN? As God is my witness, NO. I have merely been a watchman on the wall, reporting the facts. And Joy, God knows there is much more that could be told... Does Danny really want me to contine my history of 3ABN?
>
> Sister

Sister, you have painted yourself into a corner. You have made statements that either 1 of 2 things are true. Either you are a great inventer of events OR you are Linda Shelton because only she would know some of the things that you are telling about Danny. Only his wife would know.

So many of your statements cannot be verified such as your tale about Ronnie (The night watchman) and Susan, the health food store lady. Some don't know that they BOTH passed away just a few months ago.

Joe

Posted by: sister Dec 21 2006, 09:36 PM

> QUOTE(Joe Smith @ Dec 21 2006, 10:13 PM) ☐
>
> Well, that will be easy for anyone who wants to check that out. I know the man who lived there very well. He is from Romania and has lived there for about 8 years. His name is Joesph. You will see his name on the program credits after many programs. He still works there, by the way and anyone can call there and talk to him on 3ABN's dime. Joesph just recently moved to Carbondale where his 2 daughter take music lessons... as they have for years. He makes enough money to support his wife, who doesn't work outside and his 2 kids who are now teenagers and driving and all on that 3ABN salary. Joesph chose to live there because it was handy. Maybe he had already moved out when you saw the place if it looked run down.
>
> Joe

You failed to mention that Joseph P. and his family came to the USA on a tourist visa and never left, he has been working and living illegally in Illinois for many years, with the full knowledge of Danny Shelton and 3ABN. Under the circumstances, where else could he and his family live, but in a shack on 3ABN property. I wonder how Joseph was paid by 3ABN since he had no "green card".

> QUOTE(Joe Smith @ Dec 21 2006, 10:00 PM)
>
> You thought he was smart those 20 years that you were married to him! Oops, I forgot, you're not Linda.

Sorry, buddy, wrong woman. So, is this the newest ploy to misdirect the attention of the reader from the real issues by claiming Sister is Linda? IS THAT THE BEST YOU CAN COME UP WITH, JOE? Well, Danny's camp is Danny's camp.

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Dec 21 2006, 09:41 PM

> QUOTE(Joe Smith @ Dec 21 2006, 08:26 PM)
>
> Sister, you have painted yourself into a corner. You have made statements that either 1 of 2 things are true. Either you are a great inventer of events OR you are Linda Shelton because only she would know some of the things that you are telling about Danny. Only his wife would know.
>
> Joe

As one searching for the truth, I would love to know what things sister is saying that only Danny's wife would know.

Posted by: sister Dec 21 2006, 09:54 PM

> QUOTE(PeacefullyBewildered @ Dec 21 2006, 10:41 PM)
>
> As one searching for the truth, I would love to know what things sister is saying that only Danny's wife would know.

You and me both, PB!

Okay, Joe, bring on the list and lets see who else can varify those statements. PB and I are both asking you not only to make accusations, but to show your evidence before you start sounding too much like Danny, "Yes, I have evidence, but no I won't show it to you." If that is all you have well, I am not sure that either PB or Sister will be satisfied.

Oh, in the case of Ronnie, his wife Becky is still alive and anyone who chooses can check with her, but of course you know that Joe. Susan and her store, I told no secrets there. Almost anyone who worked at 3ABN and went there can confirm what I have written. But of course, Joe, you know that also. Right?

Posted by: Chez Dec 21 2006, 10:28 PM

> QUOTE(Lee @ Dec 21 2006, 02:34 PM) ☐
>
> To go public with this information against 3ABN would be bringing dishonor the God's Name before the world.
>
> God has told us not to go to the world with our "in church" problems. Read 3 SM beginning with p. 299 concerning lawsuits. We are not to sue our brother and take him to worldly courts. The principle behind this is airing our "dirty laundry" before the world. Too bad it is done on here anyway. A private forum would be better for the exchange of words on this whole subject.
>
> It says when we go ahead and go to worldly courts against fellow SDA's that God does not hear our prayers.
>
> Of course all of the above depends on whether you believe in the SOP or not.

Danny went public. Walt Thompson and the board went public. Most of us didn't have a clue about what was going on. Your boy, Danny, got on international television talking against Linda and the Dr. and anyone else who sympathized with her. It is too late for a private forum. Danny went public; so everything is open. Tell Danny to keep his mouth shut. Oops, Too late. He has already spilled the beans.

Posted by: Panama_Pete Dec 21 2006, 10:36 PM

> QUOTE(Uncle Sam @ Dec 21 2006, 06:31 PM) ☐
>
> The "house" I am talking about needed much more than soap and water! It is next to the old building next to the radio station....I thought it was a storage shed.....

I have seen the house near the older production studios. Fire departments use houses like that one for practice.

Posted by: Chez Dec 21 2006, 10:44 PM

> QUOTE(PrincessDrRe @ Dec 21 2006, 06:07 PM) ☐
>
> I keep asking but no one will answer the (rhetorical) question of #1 - How many people would want Danny Shelton as their son-in-law? #2 - How many folks would let "Chester" (the molester) babysit their children?

You couldn't PAY ME TO HAVE DANNY AS MY SON-IN-LAW!!! I WOULDN'T WANT TO BE IN THE SAME STATE (let alone the same church) WITH AN "UNREPENTENT" CHILD MOLESTER!!!!!!

Note: Unrepentent includes one who has not repented, who has not sought and received psychological help, who has voluntarily removed themselves from close contact with children, who has not apologized to the victims and admitted culpability, etc. Should I continue?

Posted by: lurker Dec 21 2006, 10:54 PM

I would like to know how Joe knows what he thinks only Danny and his wife would know?

Posted by: lookin4truth Dec 21 2006, 11:42 PM

Many have made clear their views, that the sins which have been committed should be kept quiet, and private.

The Apostle Paul did not seem to agree. Yes, when one is confronted with their sin, and is repentant, and willing to make right their wrongs, then discretion is in order.

But, when those in error continued in their behavior, it seems Paul had no problem with making it public. He wrote about them in letters, which would be read before the churches, and ultimately become part of the bible, which we are obligated to use as our example.

(1Ti 5:20) Them that sin rebuke before all, that others also may fear.

(1Ti 1:19-20) Holding faith, and a good conscience; which some having put away concerning faith have made shipwreck: Of whom is Hymenaeus and Alexander; whom I have delivered unto Satan, that they may learn not to blaspheme.

(2Ti 4:14-15) Alexander the coppersmith did me much evil: the Lord reward him according to his works: Of whom be thou ware also; for he hath greatly withstood our words.

(3 Jo 1:9) I wrote unto the church: but Diotrephes, who loveth to have the preeminence among them, receiveth us not.

You may remember how Peter handled Ananias and Sapphira. Check out Acts, chapters four and five.

The leadership of the SDA Church, and 3ABN, would be well advised to pick up a broom and clean their own house. Ted Haggard and Christopher Beard, of the New Life Church, in Colorado Springs, ought to serve as a good example of the outcome of letting the world get hold of the broom first.

Although it is disturbing that there are those that preach strongly against divorce, and hold others to a high standard, and then set all new rules for themselves, there are much greater sins to be dealt with.

When a known pedophile, who has left victims in different states, is allowed to continue to be shown on TV, and lifted up as an example of the SDA Church, it is not only biblically wrong, it is CRIMINAL.

The victims in Illinois and the victims in Virginia are not acquainted, and happened years apart. Those who keep denying the truth are allowing the threat of more victims, and compounding the damage to those who have already been victimized.

To those who are involved in the sin, and those who refuse to deal with it, keep the following verse in mind.

(Num 32:23) But if ye will not do so, behold, ye have sinned against the LORD: and be sure your sin will find you out.

Posted by: Johann Dec 22 2006, 12:48 AM

> QUOTE(Panama_Pete @ Dec 22 2006, 06:36 AM) ☐
>
> I have seen the house near the older production studios. Fire departments use houses like that one for practice.

I was right there too when Joseph told me his story. He was still there shortly before Linda got fired by 3ABN.

Posted by: Denny Dec 22 2006, 05:40 AM

> QUOTE(Lee @ Dec 21 2006, 07:34 PM) ☐
>
> To go public with this information against 3ABN would be bringing dishonor the God's Name before the world.
>
> God has told us not to go to the world with our "in church" problems. Read 3 SM beginning with p. 299 concerning lawsuits. We are not to sue our brother and take him to worldly courts. The principle behind this is airing our "dirty laundry" before the world. Too bad it is done on here anyway. A private forum would be better for the exchange of words on this whole subject.
>
> It says when we go ahead and go to worldly courts against fellow SDA's that God does not hear our prayers.
>
> Of course all of the above depends on whether you believe in the SOP or not.

So where Adventists gonna get their divorces from? etc

Posted by: sister Dec 22 2006, 06:49 AM

> QUOTE(Joe Smith @ Dec 21 2006, 10:26 PM) ☐
>
> Sister, you have painted yourself into a corner. You have made statements that either 1 of 2 things > are true. Either you are a great inventer of events OR you are Linda Shelton because only she would know some of the things that you are telling about Danny. Only his wife would know.

>
> So many of your statements cannot be verified such as your tale about Ronnie (The night watchman) and Susan, the health food store lady. Some don't know that they BOTH passed away just a few months ago.
>
> Joe

Joe, PB and Sister are still waiting for your evidence that I have written statements in an Unauthorized History of 3ABN that only Linda could know. I think the proper expression for this is: "put up or shut up". We are still waiting on you Joe, where is the evidence?

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Dec 22 2006, 06:51 AM

> QUOTE(lookin4truth @ Dec 21 2006, 10:42 PM) ☐
>
> Many have made clear their views, that the sins which have been committed should be kept quiet, and private.
>
> The Apostle Paul did not seem to agree. Yes, when one is confronted with their sin, and is repentant, and willing to make right their wrongs, then discretion is in order.
>
> But, when those in error continued in their behavior, it seems Paul had no problem with making it public. He wrote about them in letters, which would be read before the churches, and ultimately become part of the bible, which we are obligated to use as our example.
>
> (1Ti 5:20) Them that sin rebuke before all, that others also may fear.
>
> (1Ti 1:19-20) Holding faith, and a good conscience; which some having put away concerning faith have made shipwreck: Of whom is Hymenaeus and Alexander; whom I have delivered unto Satan, that they may learn not to blaspheme.
>
> (2Ti 4:14-15) Alexander the coppersmith did me much evil: the Lord reward him according to his works: Of whom be thou ware also; for he hath greatly withstood our words.
>
> (3 Jo 1:9) I wrote unto the church: but Diotrephes, who loveth to have the preeminence among them, receiveth us not.
>
> You may remember how Peter handled Ananias and Sapphira. Check out Acts, chapters four and five.
>
> The leadership of the SDA Church, and 3ABN, would be well advised to pick up a broom and clean their own house. Ted Haggard and Christopher Beard, of the New Life Church, in Colorado Springs, ought to serve as a good example of the outcome of letting the world get hold of the broom first.
>
> Although it is disturbing that there are those that preach strongly against divorce, and hold others to a high standard, and then set all new rules for themselves, there are much greater sins to be dealt with.
>
> When a known pedophile, who has left victims in different states, is allowed to continue to be shown on TV, and lifted up as an example of the SDA Church, it is not only biblically wrong, it is CRIMINAL.

> The victims in Illinois and the victims in Virginia are not acquainted, and happened years apart. Those who keep denying the truth are allowing the threat of more victims, and compounding the damage to those who have already been victimized.
>
> To those who are involved in the sin, and those who refuse to deal with it, keep the following verse in mind.
>
> (Num 32:23) But if ye will not do so, behold, ye have sinned against the LORD: and be sure your sin will find you out.

Looking4truth - you have stated truth eloquently! Welcome!

To those who have chosen to minimize sin and hide the truth, please study Looking4truth's post carefully.

Posted by: sister Dec 22 2006, 06:52 AM

> QUOTE(lurker @ Dec 21 2006, 11:54 PM) ☐
>
> I would like to know how Joe knows what he thinks only Danny and his wife would know?

Joe, and while you are answering the other question. Please answer the above from Lurker, "How do you know what only Danny and his wife would know?"

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Dec 22 2006, 07:01 AM

Sister, I have done searches and can't find the posts about "the night watchman" and "Susan, the health store" woman. Could you provide me a link or direct me to the appropriate area?

Posted by: Aletheia Dec 22 2006, 07:33 AM

> QUOTE(Clay @ Dec 21 2006, 03:42 PM) ☐
>
> and that is why the church is still dealing with mess, kids being molested, incest, homosexuality, among other things... people have kept quiet for far to long in my opinion.....

Someone very wise once said render unto God the things that are God's and unto Caesar the things that are Caesars.

There's been a division of Church and State according to God's plan ever since probation on the Nation of Israel closed. The Vatican with it's pedophile priest problem is due in part because they are a Church and a State who still thinks they have precident over any other.

Now the Church of Israel which continued on as Spiritual Israel, is all over the world and the individuals in it are subject to the civil laws in their respective Nations and countries.

What does that mean practically?

A Child molester, a rapist , etc. need to be prosecuted by the state IMMEDIATLY.

Then that person can be disciplined by the church accordingly.

A church can not take the place of the civil authorities nor flout the law.

But sins and erors which are Church business outside of that type of criminal behavior is nobodies business and is what is supposed to be dealt with promptly and privately.

e civil laws have changed over the years, it wasn't so long ago men could beat anf rape both their wives and children and get away with it. So how did they handle such before the laws regarding child abuse?

Since what Ellen White wrote was being discussed I thought this might be of interest. It's a letter to a man who apparently is being dealt with as repentant one, which admittedly is not what the story is regarding Tommy, but still I found it interesting, because she is not in favor of it being made public:

> QUOTE
>
> Child Abuse
> Dear Brother: I have just read your letter dated April 26. May the Lord help me to write you the very words that will be for your restoration and not for your destruction. {TSB 124.3}
>
> I feel sorry, very sorry, for you. Sin, my brother, is sin; it is the transgression of the law, and should I try to lessen that sin before you I would not be doing you any good. You as a Christian receive harm to your own soul. Your whole religious experience is cheapened, and you cannot have faith and trust in God while you have unclean thoughts and defiled hands. The work needs to begin at the soul, and then it will work out in the character. Your mind and heart are polluted, else all such actions would be loathsome. It is a great sin, especially for one who professes to be preaching the gospel of Christ. {TSB 124.4}
>
> I have had this class of sins presented to me as producing moral defilement. What can the impression be upon those youth whose bodies you degrade by your actions? How can you be a shepherd of the sheep and lambs while corrupting their minds, and tainting and polluting their moral sense? Would you consider this matter as lightly as you have done should a minister of the gospel, as Elder W, do such things to your sisters or to your children? This is a crime in the sight of God and I cannot cover it over as a light matter. It is a Sodomitish sin. It is tainting and polluting in all its tendencies, and an abomination in the sight of a holy God. It is practicing iniquity. {TSB 125.1}
>
> Any youth who would submit her body to be handled by a man is in no way fit for the kingdom of heaven. All this vile practice and commonness is what is ruining our youth. Would you practice this upon the body of your own child? Would you not consider it incest, discovering her nakedness? All who do such things are leading young women into abominable practices. I know what these things lead to. To lewdness, lustful practices. Consider how you must dishonor and degrade the truth. Oh, God hates all such sins. How could you do this and at the same time be preaching the Word to sinners--yourself a sinner? {TSB 125.2}
>
> I know how God regards these sins. A married man, a minister of the gospel, leading the lambs of the flock into Sodomitish practices. Now for Christ's sake do not again practice this wicked work and destroy your own soul and the souls of others. It is well that you have not been permitted to continue this awful polluting practice. It is no light sin. The effect upon the mind of the one who submits herself to your touch cannot be measured. Human beings are the Lord's property, and to do any action to corrupt them is a terrible insult to Jesus Christ, who gave His life for these precious souls, that they should not perish in their sins, but have everlasting life, and such actions may ruin the souls for whom Christ has died. Will you continue this work to ruin souls? {TSB 125.3}

Looking unto Jesus who is the Author and Finisher of your faith, you will be of good courage in the Lord. We cannot but know that the end of all things is at hand. I come to you as a physician of souls; I tell you that it is not possible for you to act as a minister. What are you doing? Leading young women to the tree of knowledge of evil practices and teaching them to pluck the fruit which is only evil. This is doing Satan's work most effectually. It is poisoning minds and filling them with unholy imaginings. {TSB 126.1}

These are the very sins which corrupted Sodom. Their evil practices did not come all at once. First one man and woman stupefied themselves by unholy, polluted habits. Then as inhabitants settled in Sodom, they did as you are doing, educating others in a line that is forbidden of God. And so as the inhabitants continued to multiply, these ministers of sin continued in educating them in their own defiling practices until if any person came into their midst their first thoughts were to educate them in their evil work, until Sodom became renowned for its pollutions. Their sins reached unto heaven, and the Lord would bear with them no longer. He destroyed them and all that was beautiful, that made it as a second Eden, for the earth was defiled under the inhabitants thereof. {TSB 126.2}

These bodies that you tamper with are the purchased property of Jesus Christ. I knew this was your sin, but I knew also that if the truth was enthroned in your heart it would make this sin appear to you in its true enormity, for truth brought into the soul temple will expel lust and defilement from the heart. . . . {TSB 126.3}

You say you did not commit adultery. God charges adultery against everyone who doeth these things, and all who will communicate these vile practices to another are polluting that soul with vile imaginations. Can you not see, can you not understand by your own experience, that you are leading youth into this habit of self abuse? You have given them the fruit of the tree of knowledge [of good and evil], and every evil communicated is causing them to partake of the fruit of the tree of knowledge [of good and evil], which God has forbidden to be eaten. . . . {TSB 127.1}

How can I frame words to express the enormity of this awful sin? How can I present it in such a manner that you will no longer look upon it, as you have done, as no great wrong? I have granddaughters, the children of my son, W. C. White. If I were forced to choose whether these children should be exposed to these temptations, educated in these evil practices, or be cut down by death, I would say, Let them die in their innocency. Let them not be corrupted by eating the apples of Sodom. . . . {TSB 127.2}

If you will take hold of Christ by living faith, and humble your soul before Him, He will undertake your case and angels will guard you. But you must resist the devil. You must educate yourself to a different train of thought. Put no confidence in yourself. Never seek the companionship of women or girls. Keep away from them. Your moral taste is so perverted that you will ruin yourself and ruin many souls if you do not turn square about. Educate your mind to study the Word of God. Study it with your whole heart and pray much. Everlasting life is worth a lifelong, persevering, untiring effort. Educate that mind which you have misused and directed in wrong channels of thought.Educate it to dwell on the life, the character, and the lessons of Christ. . . . {TSB 127.3}

Do not feel that the worst thing for you is to lose your credentials. You are not worthy to be entrusted with the care of the flock. You must know this without my telling you. A little time of probation is still granted you; make the most of it in searching the Word. Every lost blessing is a great loss to you, but if you come into a right position before God you may now receive forgiveness for the past, but do not let your future life have the dark blot of the past. . . . {TSB 128.1}

You ask me if you shall make a public confession. I say, No. Do not dishonor the Master by making public the fact that one ministering in the Word could be guilty of such sin as you have committed. It would be a disgrace to the ministry. Do not give publicity to this matter by any means. It would do injustice to the whole cause of God. It would create impure thoughts in the minds of many even to hear these things repeated. Defile not the lips even by communicating > this to your wife, to make her ashamed and bow her head in sorrow. Go to God and to the brethren who know this terrible chapter in your experience and say what you have to say, then let prayer be offered to God in your behalf. Cultivate sobriety. Walk carefully and prayerfully before God. Acquire moral stamina by saying, "I will not dishonor my Redeemer {TSB 128.2}

>
> Transmitting Messages of Reproof. I am sorry that you feel injured because I let Brother A have a copy of the letter I sent to you. I did not do this to injure you in any way. You had yourself written me that you had made matters known to him concerning yourself and he thought you should confess the whole matter to the church. I thought that letter would prevent any such movement and keep the matter as private as possible. {TSB 128.3}
>
> I do not in any way favor his reading the matter to your mother. She has an abundance of sorrows to carry. I did not sanction any public exposure. I thought that the letter, which condemned the sin, also encouraged you to hope and trust in God. I supposed that it would help Brother A to help you. If it has added to your affliction, making matters any worse for you, I am sincerely sorry. {TSB 129.1}
>
> Whenever I have written a message of reproof, I have always sent one copy to the minister who is officiating in the church, that he may have wisdom to recover such ones as are in danger through temptation, giving them such advice as they need. I also knew, under existing circumstances, that it would not be possible to give you credentials as a shepherd, recommending you to the confidence of the people, because knowing your course of action, if you should in any way be overcome, the Lord would make the conference guilty of the sin of which you are guilty.--Letter 120, 1897. {TSB 129.2}

Posted by: watchbird Dec 22 2006, 07:38 AM

> QUOTE(PeacefullyBewildered @ Dec 22 2006, 08:01 AM)
>
> Sister, I have done searches and can't find the posts about "the night watchman" and "Susan, the health store" woman. Could you provide me a link or direct me to the appropriate area?

PB, Instead of giving you the direct link to each, I'll provide detailed information on how to find it for the benefit of both you and others who may not be acquainted with the way the search function works here.

In order to do a search you need to go to the Search function listed at the top of the page so you can change one of the options before searching.

When you get to the Search Options page, go to the lower right corner where you will see "Search Type". It will have a dot before "Show results as topics". Click on the other option, "Show results as posts" and the dot will move to that selection.

Now insert your keyword in the box provided. Choose something short and distinctive. In this case, use just Susan for one search, and just Ronnie for the other. The posts you are looking for will be found in the Unauthorized History thread, so you can quickly scroll down the results hits until you come to ones from that thread.

You will find something rather interesting there when you compare it with Joe's accusation against Sister.

Posted by: summertime Dec 22 2006, 08:26 AM

> QUOTE(Chez @ Dec 21 2006, 10:44 PM)
>
> You couldn't PAY ME TO HAVE DANNY AS MY SON-IN-LAW!!! I WOULDN'T WANT TO BE IN THE SAME STATE (let alone the same church) WITH AN "UNREPENTENT" CHILD MOLESTER!!!!!!
>
> Note: Unrepentent includes one who has not repented, who has not sought and received psychological help, who has voluntarily removed themselves from close contact with children, who has not apologized to the victims and admitted culpability, etc. Should I continue?

I would not want Danny to be my son-in-law. Nor my grandson-in-law. This pretty lady that he married is about the same age as my grandaughter. She married an older man also, and has lived to regret it. I think that will be true in this case also---given a little time. I have not heard for a long time if Brandy has both of her girls with her. Anybody know? I would not trust my girls in the Shelton clan.--not even if she was a biological daughter.

Posted by: Pickle Dec 22 2006, 08:29 AM

> QUOTE(Joy N @ Dec 21 2006, 04:00 PM)
>
> I am absolutely in agreement with you. We need watchman on the walls....
>
> Joy

Joy,

A pastor called me today and suggested that you and Joe just might be Mollie and Hal, and that Danny, who has said that these forums amount to little, must be scared if he is having folks like you come and do battle here.

Such speculation may or may not prove to be true, but you might be able to help me out on the following. John Lomacang promised me on Sept. 1 that I and whoever came with me could see the very same phone card phone records he had personally seen, amounting to hundreds of hours of phone calls by Linda to Norway, if we came down to 3ABN. He said that wasn't his decision.

I wrote John on Sept. 8 and told him I might be able to take him up on that on Oct. 23. It took 3 1/2 weeks and another email before I heard anything back from him at all. It took an additional 2 weeks and 4 emails to him and 3 emails to Mollie to get no reply from John and a single reply from Mollie informing me that they had chosen to break their promise. I then wrote Mollie the following email, and have yet to receive any reply whatsoever:

> QUOTE
>
> -------- Original Message --------
> Subject: RE: Appointment to see phone records
> Date: Tue, 17 Oct 2006 09:33:21 -0500
> From: Mollie Steenson

> Hi Bob,
>
> ... we have turned this matter over to a group of respected church leaders who will be looking at all the evidence, not just portions of it, and they will publicly give their findings in the near future.
>
> ...
>
> Have a great day,
>
> Mollie Steenson
> 3ABN GM
>
> -------- Original Message --------
> Subject: RE: Appointment to see phone records
> Date: Tue, 17 Oct 2006 20:22:06 -0500
> To: Mollie Steenson
>
> Hi Mollie.
>
> Thanks for your reply. Here are three short, follow-up questions.
>
> 1) Has there been a change of policy since September 1, when Pastor Lomacang promised that we could see the phone card phone records if we came by? He indicated that that wasn't his decision. Or was he somehow totally mistaken?
>
> 2) Pastor Lomacang indicated that these records showed hundreds of hours of phone calls, but I have thus far been unable to confirm from him that these hundreds of hours are actual time spent on the phone rather than billed phone card units. Can you confirm this?
>
> 3) What group of respected church leaders has the matter been turned over to? Who are they?
>
> 4) Will they be making public the evidence that supports their findings, or will they only make public their findings?
>
> I ask this last question because from a damage control and apologetic perspective, the only real way to put all the rumors to rest once and for all is to come across as if 3ABN has nothing to hide.
>
> Take for example these phone records, which Pastor Lomacang stated emphatically that he had personally seen. After he promised that we could see them if we stopped by, it has taken more than five weeks to discover that 3ABN will not allow this, and that gives the impression that they either do not exist or that they do not say what he claimed they say.
>
> This is even more so the case since I asked him on September 8 and October 2 and October 3 and October 10 and October 16 whether the hundreds of hours were actual minutes or billed minutes, and though I did get a short reply from him on October 2, he has yet to answer that simple question. The definite impression being given is that there never were hundreds of hours spent on the phone.
>
> I think a lot of these rumors could have been easily avoided or dispelled if 3ABN had handled these PR matters differently. Along these lines, I would suggest that great care be taken in the selection of which respected church leaders examine all the evidence. If it is perceived that the panel is stacked in favor of 3ABN from the very beginning, it will not settle the questions in people's minds, especially if none of the evidence is ever made public. Whether the panel is stacked or not is not as important at this point as how it is all perceived if the goal is to dispel all the rumors, in my opinion.
>
> God bless.
>
> Bob

Would you be so kind as to answer the four questions above?

Doing so will make it clear to everyone here that there are indeed workers at 3ABN who know how to perform their duties in a prompt, competent, professional, courteous, and Christian manner, and that you aren't merely trying to distract people from the main issues by concentrating on trivia and taking people down rabbit trails.

Posted by: Aletheia Dec 22 2006, 09:15 AM

> QUOTE
> 'lookin4truth' date='Dec 22 2006, 12:42 AM' post='164804'
> Many have made clear their views, that the sins which have been committed should be kept quiet, and private.
>
> The Apostle Paul did not seem to agree. Yes, when one is confronted with their sin, and is repentant, and willing to make right their wrongs, then discretion is in order.
>
> But, when those in error continued in their behavior, it seems Paul had no problem with making it public. He wrote about them in letters, which would be read before the churches, and ultimately become part of the bible, which we are obligated to use as our example.
>
> (1Ti 5:20) Them that sin rebuke before all, that others also may fear

You left out the part before that, and after it:
1Ti 5:19 Against an elder receive not an accusation, but before two or three witnesses.
20 Them that sin rebuke before all, that others also may fear.
21 I charge [thee] before God, and the Lord Jesus Christ, and the elect angels, that thou observe these things without preferring one before another, doing nothing by partiality.
22 Lay hands suddenly on no man, neither be partaker of other men's sins: keep thyself pure.

Here is what he was talking about:
One witness shall not rise up against a man for any iniquity, or for any sin, in any sin that he sinneth: at the mouth of two witnesses, or at the mouth of three witnesses, shall the matter be established.

If a false witness rise up against any man to testify against him [that which is] wrong;
Then both the men, between whom the controversy [is], shall stand before the LORD, before the priests and the judges, which shall be in those days;And the judges shall make diligent inquisition: and, behold, [if] the witness [be] a false witness, [and] hath testified falsely against his brother;
Then shall ye do unto him, as he had thought to have done unto his brother: so shalt thou put the evil away from among you.

And those which remain shall hear, and fear, and shall henceforth commit no more any such evil among you. Deut 19

Mat 18:15 Moreover if thy brother shall trespass against thee, go and tell him his fault between thee and him alone: if he shall hear thee, thou hast gained thy brother.
16 But if he will not hear thee, then take with thee one or two more, that in the mouth of two or three witnesses every word may be established.

17 And if he shall neglect to hear them, tell it unto the church: but if he neglect to hear the church, let him be unto thee as an heathen man and a publican.

QUOTE

Matthew Henry on Deut 19
II. A law against perjuries, which enacts two things:-1. That a single witness should never be admitted to give evidence in a criminal cause, so as that sentence should be passed upon his testimony, v. 15. This law we had before, Num. 35:30, and in this book, ch. 17:6. This was enacted in favour to the prisoner, whose life and honour should not lie at the mercy of a particular person that had a pique against him, and for caution to the accuser not to say that which he could not corroborate by the testimony of another. It is a just shame which this law puts upon mankind as false and not to be trusted; every man is by it suspected: and it is the honour of God's grace that the record he has given concerning his Son is confirmed both in heaven and in earth by three witnesses, 1 Jn. 5:7. Let God be true and every man a liar, Rom. 3:4. 2. That a false witness should incur the same punishment which was to have been inflicted upon the person he accused. If two, or three, or many witnesses, concurred in a false testimony, they were all liable to be prosecuted upon this law. (2.) The person wronged or brought into peril by the false testimony is supposed to be the appellant, v. 17. And yet if the person were put to death upon the evidence, and afterwards it appeared to be false, any other person, or the judges themselves, ex officio—by virtue of their office, might call the false witness to account. (3.) Causes of this kind, having more than ordinary difficulty in them, were to be brought before the supreme court, The priests and judges, who are said to be before the Lord, because, as other judges sat in the gates of their cities, so these at the gate of the sanctuary, ch. 17:12. (4.) There must be great care in the trial, v. 18. A diligent inquisition must be made into the characters of the persons, and all the circumstances of the case, which must be compared, that the truth might be found out, which, where it is thus faithfully and impartially enquired into, Providence, it may be hoped, will particularly advance the discovery of. (5.) If it appeared that a man had knowingly and maliciously borne false witness against his neighbour, though the mischief he designed him thereby was not effected, he must undergo the same penalty which his evidence would have brought his neighbour under, v. 19. Nec lex est justior ulla—Nor could any law be more just. If the crime he accused his neighbour of was to be punished with death, the false witness must be put to death; if with stripes, he must be beaten; if with a pecuniary mulct, he was to be fined the sum. And because to those who considered not the heinousness of the crime, and the necessity of making this provision against it, it might seem hard to punish a man so severely for a few words' speaking, especially when no mischief did actually follow, it is added: Thy eye shall not pity, v. 21. No man needs to be more merciful than God. The benefit that will accrue to the public from this severity will abundantly recompense it: Those that remain shall hear and fear, v. 20. Such exemplary punishments will be warnings to others not to attempt any such mischief, when they see how he that made the pit and digged it has fallen into the ditch which he made.

QUOTE

We greatly need to fall on the Rock and be broken; then the melting, subduing love of Jesus will be in our hearts. We shall then follow the example of Jesus, the Majesty of heaven, and work in co-operation with the angels, and not be like the Pharisees, who were unsympathetic, proud, and hardhearted. God is not willing that even the lowest and most degraded soul should perish. In what light, then, can you regard the neglect of those who need your help? {RH, April 16, 1895 par. 6}

Many of you are self-willed, proud, hardhearted, and condemnatory, when on the contrary your whole heart should be aroused to devise ways and means for saving souls. You draw apart from your brethren because they do not speak and act in a way that is pleasing to you, when in the sight of God your course is more displeasing than theirs. You do not seek to establish that unity which Christ desires should exist among brethren. What impression do these variances, this emulation and strife, make upon your families and your neighbors, upon those who do not believe the truth? And yet Jesus says, "By this shall all men know that ye are my disciples, if ye have love one to another." {RH, April 16, 1895 par. 7}

How many of you are unsanctified in heart, and while sensitive yourselves to any reproof, you make another an offender for a word! How many of you speak words which cannot produce union, but only heartache and discouragement! How many give cause for anger and are themselves angry without a cause! Jesus, the world's Redeemer, has laid down a rule to prevent such unhappy conditions, but how many of you in our churches and in our institutions have followed the directions of Christ? "If thy brother shall trespass against thee [tell it to every one you meet?], go and tell him his fault between thee and him alone; if he shall hear thee, thou hast gained thy brother. But if he will not hear thee, then take with thee one or two more, that in the mouth of two or three witnesses every word may be established. And if he shall neglect to hear them, tell it unto the church; but if he neglect to hear the church, let him be unto thee as a heathen man and a publican." {RH, April 16, 1895 par. 8}

When a person comes to a minister or to men in positions of trust with complaints against a brother or a sister, let the minister ask, "Have you complied with the rules our Saviour has given?" And if he has failed to carry out any particular of this instruction, do not listen to a word of his complaint. In the name and Spirit of Jesus, refuse to take up a report against your brother or your sister in the faith. If members of the church go contrary to these rules, they make themselves subjects for church discipline, and should be under the censure of the church. This matter, so plainly taught in the lessons of Christ, has been treated with strange indifference. The church has either neglected her work entirely in the matter of correcting evil, or has done it with harshness and severity, thus wounding and bruising souls. Measures should be taken to correct this cruel spirit of criticism, of judging the motives of others, as though Christ had revealed to men the hearts of their brethren. The neglect of doing aright, with wisdom and grace, the work that ought to have been done, has left churches and institutions almost inefficient and Christless. {RH, April 16, 1895 par. 9}

Jesus adds to the lesson these words: "Verily I say unto you, Whatsoever ye shall bind on earth shall be bound in heaven; and whatsoever ye shall loose on earth shall be loosed in heaven." After the rules of Christ have been followed out to the letter, the assurance is given that the decisions of the church will be ratified in heaven. This gives a solemn significance to the action of the church. No hasty action from impulse should be taken to cut off names from the church books or to place a member under censure, until the case has been investigated according to the Bible rule in every particular. The word of God shows that it is necessary for church officers to be free from prejudice and selfish motives, and that they should have the sympathy and the love of Jesus. Human minds and hearts, unless wholly sanctified, purified, and refined from partiality and prejudice, are liable to commit grave errors, to misjudge, and to deal unkindly and unjustly with souls that are the purchase of Christ's blood. The decisions of unjust judges will be of no account in the court of heaven. They will not make an innocent man guilty nor change his character in the least before God. As surely as men in responsible positions become lifted up in their own esteem, and act as though they were to lord it over their brethren, they will render decisions which Heaven cannot ratify.

{RH, April 16, 1895 par. 10}

QUOTE

Chap. 4 - Evilspeaking

Brother has had the cause of God at heart, but he has felt too deeply, and has taken on many burdens which he should not have borne. He has suffered in health in this way. He has sometimes viewed matters in a strong light, and has been too earnest and anxious to have all see them just as he did; and because they were backward in doing so, he has felt nearly crushed. He feels to the depths, and is in danger of urging his views of things too strongly. {2T 50.1}

Sister wants to be a Christian, but she has not cultivated discretion and true courtesy. She is of a very sanguine turn of mind, ardent and self-confident. She shows the rough part of her character, and has not appeared to advantage. She has moved from impulse, acting just as she felt, and sometimes her feelings have been much excited and strong. She has strong likes and dislikes, and has permitted this unfortunate trait in her character to develop itself, greatly to the detriment of her own spiritual advancement and to the injury of the church. She has talked too much and unwisely, just as she felt. This has had a strong influence upon her husband, and has at times led him to move from excitement of feeling, when if he had waited and looked at matters calmly and weighed them properly, it would have been better for himself and for the church. Nothing is gained by moving hurriedly, moving from impulse, or from strong feeling. {2T 50.2}

Sister moves from impulse, and finds fault, and has had too much to say against her brethren and sisters. This will cause confusion in any church. If she could control her own spirit, a great victory would be gained. If she would seek the heavenly adorning, even the ornament of a meek and quiet spirit, which God, the Creator of the heavens and the earth, calls of great price, she would then be a real help to the church. If she would cherish the spirit of Christ, and become a peacemaker, her own soul would flourish, and she would be a blessing to the church wherever she might be located. Unless she is converted and an entire change is wrought in her, unless she educates herself to be slow to speak and slow to wrath, and cultivates true Christian courtesy, her influence will prove injurious, and the happiness of others connected with her will suffer. She manifests an independence which is a damage to her and alienates her friends. This independence has caused her much trouble and has wounded her best friends. {2T 51.1}

If those who had means were close in their deal with her husband, and did not favor him more than worldlings in business transactions, she has felt and talked, and aroused feelings of dissatisfaction where none previously existed. This is a selfish world at best. Many of those who profess the truth are not sanctified by it, and may not have a heart to make even a trifling variation in the prices of produce when dealing with a poor brother, sooner than they would with an able worldling. They do not love their neighbors as themselves. It would be more pleasing to God were there less selfishness and more disinterested benevolence. {2T 51.2}

As Sister has seen a selfish spirit manifest in deal, she has committed a greater sin by feeling and talking in regard to the matter as she has. She has erred in expecting too much. The tongue has been truly an unruly member, a world of iniquity, set on fire of hell, untamed and untamable. Sister F has had a spirit of retaliation, manifesting by her deportment that she was offended. This was all wrong. She has cherished bitter feelings, which are foreign to the spirit of Christ. Anger, resentment, and all kinds of unkind tempers are indulged by speaking against those with whom we are displeased, and by reciting the errors and failings and sins of neighbors. The lustful desires are gratified. {2T 51.3}

Sister , if you are grieved because your neighbors or friends are doing wrong to their own hurt, if they are overtaken in fault, follow the Bible rule. "Tell him his fault between thee and him alone." As you go to the one you suppose to be in error, see that you speak in a meek and lowly spirit; for the wrath of man worketh not the righteousness of God. The erring can be restored in no other way than in the spirit of meekness, gentleness, and tender love. Be careful in your manner. Avoid anything in look or gesture, word or tone, that savors of pride or self-sufficiency. Guard yourself against a word or look that would exalt yourself, or place your goodness and righteousness in contrast with their failings. Beware of the most distant approach to disdain, overbearing, or contempt. With care avoid every appearance of anger; and though you use plainness of speech, let there be no reproach, no railing accusation, no token of warmth but that of earnest love. Above all, let there be no shadow of hate or ill will, no bitterness or sourness of expression. Nothing but kindness and gentleness can flow from a heart of love. Yet all these precious fruits need not hinder you from speaking in the most serious, solemn manner, as though angels were directing their eyes upon you, and you were acting in reference to the coming judgment. Bear in mind that the success of reproof depends greatly upon the spirit in which it is given. Do not neglect earnest prayer that you may possess a lowly mind, and that angels of God may go before you to work upon the hearts you are trying to reach, and so soften them by heavenly impressions that your efforts may avail. If any good is accomplished, take no credit to yourself. God alone should be exalted. God alone has done it all. {2T 52.1}

You have excused yourself for speaking evil of your brother or sister or neighbor to others before going to him and taking the steps which God has absolutely commanded. You say: "Why, I did not speak to anyone until I was so burdened that I could not refrain." What burdened you? Was it not a plain neglect of your own duty, of a thus saith the Lord? You were under the guilt of sin because you did not go and tell the offender his fault between you and him alone. If you did not do this, if you disobeyed God, how could you be otherwise than burdened unless your heart was hardened while you were trampling the command of God underfoot, and in your heart hating your brother or neighbor? And what way have you found to unburden yourself? God reproves you for a sin of omission in not telling your brother his fault, and you excuse and comfort yourself by a sin of commission by telling your brother's faults to another person! Is this the right way to purchase ease--by committing sin? {2T 53.1}

All your efforts to save the erring may be unavailing. They may repay you evil for good. They may be enraged rather than convinced. What if they hear to no good purpose, and pursue the evil course they have begun? This will frequently occur. Sometimes the mildest and tenderest reproof will have no good effect. In that case the blessing you wanted another to receive by pursuing a course of righteousness, ceasing to do evil and learning to do well, will return into your own bosom.
If the erring persist in sin, treat them kindly, and leave them with your heavenly Father. You have delivered your soul; their sin no longer rests upon you; you are not now partaker of their sin. But if they perish, their blood is upon their own head. {2T 53.2}

Dear friend, an entire transformation must take place in you, or you will be weighed in the balance and found wanting. The church at -----, especially talking women, have a lesson to learn. "If any man [or woman] among you seem to be religious, and bridleth not his tongue, but deceiveth his own heart, this man's religion is vain." Many will be weighed in the balance and found wanting in this matter of so great importance. Where are the Christians who walk by this rule? who will take God's part against the evilspeaker? who will please God, and set a watch, a continual watch, before the mouth, and keep the door of the lips? Speak evil of no man. Hear evil of no man. If there be no hearers, there will be no speakers of evil. If anyone speaks evil in your presence, check him. Refuse to hear him, though his manner be ever so soft and his accents mild. He may profess attachment, and yet throw out covert hints and stab the character in the dark. {2T 54.1}

Resolutely refuse to hear, though the whisperer complains of being burdened till he speak. Burdened indeed! with a cursed secret which separateth very friends. Go, burdened ones, and free yourselves from your burden in God's appointed way. First go tell your brother his fault between you and him alone. If this fail, next take with you one or two friends, and tell him in their presence. If these steps fail, then tell it to the church. Not an unbeliever is to be made acquainted with the slightest particular of the matter. Telling it to the church is the last step to be taken. Publish it not to the enemies of our faith. They have no right to the knowledge of church matters, lest the weakness and errors of Christ's followers be exposed. {2T 54.2}

Those who are preparing for the coming of Christ should be sober and watch unto prayer, for our adversary, the devil, goeth about like a roaring lion, seeking whom he may devour; whom we are to resist steadfast in the faith. "He that will love life, and see good days, let him refrain his tongue from evil, and his lips that they speak no guile: let him eschew evil, and do good; let him seek peace, and ensue it. For the eyes of the Lord are over the righteous, and His ears are open unto their prayers." {2T 54.3]

Posted by: calvin Dec 22 2006, 09:22 AM

QUOTE(Pickle @ Dec 22 2006, 08:29 AM) ☐

> Joy,
>
> A pastor called me today and suggested that you and Joe just might be Mollie and Hal, and that Danny, who has said that these forums amount to little, must be scared if he is having folks like you come and do battle here.

Hmm, now here's a thought. I wonder what I would find if I did a IP address trace on Joe and Joy? We already did that with Linda (Linda is a member, did an interview here) and Sister and concluded that they are not using the same computer or computers in the same household or even city for that matter.

But the results of the search from Joe and Joy, now that is interesting.

Posted by: Aletheia Dec 22 2006, 09:46 AM

> QUOTE(calvin @ Dec 22 2006, 10:22 AM)
>
> Hmm, now here's a thought. I wonder what I would find if I did a IP address trace on Joe and Joy? We already did that with Linda (Linda is a member, did an interview here) and Sister and concluded that they are not using the same computer or computers in the same household or even city for that matter.
>
> But the results of the search from Joe and Joy, now that is interesting.

Hey sorry to bother you but is there a problem with the code for quotes etc? I can't get the bold, the italics or font etc to work by either clicking on then or typing them in manually, and don't know enough about this all to even know if this might be due to my computer. I wasn't having this problem before????

anybody can answer :help:

and thanks

Posted by: awesumtenor Dec 22 2006, 09:55 AM

> QUOTE(Aletheia @ Dec 22 2006, 10:46 AM)
>
> Hey sorry to bother you but is there a problem with the code for quotes etc? I can't get the bold, the italics or font etc to work by either clicking on then or typing them in manually, and don't know enough about this all to even know if this might be due to my computer. I wasn't having this problem before????
>
> anybody can answer :help:
>
> and thanks

You have an unmatched tag somewhere in your post. Any time you quote text, or use any special formatting for each opening tag there has to be a closing tag... so if you use [quote], there has to be a [/ quote] at the end of the block of quoted text; if you use [B] to bold something, you have to make sure you have a [/ B] at the end of the block of bolded text, etc.

Look at the link for BB code help at the bottom of the smiley window in the compose screen; that will give you concrete examples.

HTH.

In His service,
Mr. J

Posted by: Joe Smith Dec 22 2006, 10:12 AM

> QUOTE(Aletheia @ Dec 22 2006, 07:33 AM) ☐
>
> Someone very wise once said render unto God the things that are God's and unto Caesar the things that are Caesars.
>
> There's been a division of Church and State according to God's plan ever since probation on the Nation of Israel closed. The Vatican with it's pedophile priest problem is due in part because they are a Church and a State who still thinks they have precident over any other.
>
> Now the Church of Israel which continued on as Spiritual Israel, is all over the world and the individuals in it are subject to the civil laws in their respective Nations and countries.
>
> What does that mean practically?
>
> A Child molester, a rapist , etc. need to be prosecuted by the state IMMEDIATLY.
>
> Then that person can be disciplined by the church accordingly.
>
> A church can not take the place of the civil authorities nor flout the law.
>
> But sins and erors which are Church business outside of that type of criminal behavior is nobodies business and is what is supposed to be dealt with promptly and privately.
>
> e civil laws have changed over the years, it wasn't so long ago men could beat anf rape both their wives and children and get away with it. So how did they handle such before the laws regarding child abuse?
>
> Since what Ellen White wrote was being discussed I thought this might be of interest. It's a letter to a man who apparently is being dealt with as repentant one, which admittedly is not what the story is regarding Tommy, but still I found it interesting, because she is not in favor of it being made public:

Praise God for you Aletheia... I couldn't have said it any better. Those Bold Quotes are just that BOLD. I am just as against the ruination of children as anyone. The alarm trumpet has been sounded and resounded again and again. The blood is off our hands already. Mrs white says it should be kept to a low profile now as not to hurt the cause of our God any more than it already has. The alleged perpurtrator has been confronted. It's not up to us to execute him in the media or anywhere else.

Joe

Posted by: watchbird Dec 22 2006, 10:26 AM

> QUOTE(calvin @ Dec 22 2006, 10:22 AM) ☐
>
> Hmm, now here's a thought. I wonder what I would find if I did a IP address trace on Joe and Joy? We already did that with Linda (Linda is a member, did an interview here) and Sister and concluded that they are not using the same computer or computers in the same household or even city for that matter.
>
> But the results of the search from Joe and Joy, now that is interesting.

Maybe you could share with us what you found "interesting".

Posted by: Aletheia Dec 22 2006, 10:38 AM

> QUOTE(watchbird @ Dec 22 2006, 11:26 AM) ☐
>
> Maybe you could share with us what you found "interesting".

Maybe we could have the same standards for all anonymous people?

http://www.blacksda.com/forums/index.php?s=&showtopic=9767&view=findpost&p=164552
☒ rofl

Posted by: Chez Dec 22 2006, 11:05 AM

JOE and ALETHEIA,
You don't get it. Danny made the Linda issue public. When Tommy molested the first boy, it became public. "Mess" smells; it stinks. No matter how hard one tries to conceal it, it STINKS! What Tommy allegedly did (according to Roger Clem, the victim, and others) to those boys STINKS! HE MADE IT PUBLIC.

I highly respect EGW, but she isn't God and never has professed to be God. Therefore, what the Lord says supersedes what EGW says. People have taken and are still taking 3ABN to the Lord in prayer. The Lord has said for some to speak (Let the Redeemed of the Lord say so) and others to be silent. As Christians, we are bound to do what God says.

3ABN is a good ministry that is being contaminated from within rather than from without. 3ABN should thoroughly clean up its own house for the sake of the GOSPEL!

Posted by: awesumtenor Dec 22 2006, 11:08 AM

> QUOTE(Aletheia @ Dec 22 2006, 11:38 AM)
>
> Maybe we could have the same standards for all anonymous people?
> http://www.blacksda.com/forums/index.php?s=&showtopic=9767&view=findpost&p=164552
> rofl

Having the same standard means you don't get to come in here and accuse/cajole/browbeat others into divulging who they are while at the same time doing all you can to remain anonymous yourself.

The bible says you have to take the log out of your own eye FIRST before you attempt to remove the sawdust speck in your brother's eye.

So when you have done so and revealed yourself to all concerned, then and only then will you be in a position to require that of others; until such time, however it's notworkir ... your continued indignation notwithstanding.

In His service,
Mr. J (who doesn't hide behind anonymity)

Posted by: Aletheia Dec 22 2006, 11:35 AM

> QUOTE(awesumtenor @ Dec 22 2006, 12:08 PM)
>
> Having the same standard means you don't get to come in here and accuse/cajole/browbeat others into divulging who they are while at the same time doing all you can to remain anonymous yourself.
>
> The bible says you have to take the log out of your own eye FIRST before you attempt to remove the sawdust speck in your brother's eye.
>
> So when you have done so and revealed yourself to all concerned, then and only then will you be in a position to require that of others; until such time, however it's notworkir ... your continued indignation notwithstanding.
>
> In His service,
> Mr. J (who doesn't hide behind anonymity)

My real name is Cindy and I live in Indiana and have my home church listed in the town of lafayette. What's so anonymous about that?

And it's not me who insists on privacy while bearing personal witness either against or in defense of another. The people who do so should allow the others the same priveledge, or they are the hypocrites.

I follow my own standards which I have already posted, if I violate that PLEASE come talking about the beam in my eye, until then, this is just another accusation without merit.

"Identities don't matter if you are not posting anything that could not be posted by any other person like I am doing. But when it comes to personal testimony about another which is not based on public knowledge available to all? It does matter. Anonymous identities and testimony are not admissable in any court of law, whether for the defense or for the prosecution. (Here say evidence in NEVER allowed) and God's standards and biblical principles via his civil and church laws? MUCH higher."

Posted by: princessdi Dec 22 2006, 11:41 AM

Well said, Chez! All these things were public knowledge somewhere, but available to all before now.

> QUOTE(Chez @ Dec 22 2006, 09:05 AM) ☐
>
> JOE and ALETHEIA,
> You don't get it. Danny made the Linda issue public. When Tommy molested the first boy, it became public. "Mess" smells; it stinks. No matter how hard one tries to conceal it, it STINKS! What Tommy allegedly did (according to Roger Clem, the victim, and others) to those boys STINKS! HE MADE IT PUBLIC.
>
> I highly respect EGW, but she isn't God and never has professed to be God. Therefore, what the Lord says supersedes what EGW says. People have taken and are still taking 3ABN to the Lord in prayer. The Lord has said for some to speak (Let the Redeemed of the Lord say so) and others to be silent. As Christians, we are bound to do what God says.
>
> 3ABN is a good ministry that is being contaminated from within rather than from without. 3ABN should thoroughly clean up its own house for the sake of the GOSPEL!

Posted by: sister Dec 22 2006, 11:48 AM

Joe,

PB and I are still waiting for your evidence in regard to your accusations toward me. Come on Joe, you claim to have evidence that I have written things that only Danny's wife could know. So, where is it? Or is it just another attempt to take the spotlight off Danny and Tommy Shelton?

PB hopefully WatchBird's directions lead you to the posts you were searching for, but if not PM me.

Joe, you might want to go back and read those posts yourself and tell me what the secret information is that only Linda would know.

Posted by: awesumtenor Dec 22 2006, 11:54 AM

> QUOTE(Aletheia @ Dec 22 2006, 12:35 PM) ☐
>
> My real name is Cindy and I live in Indiana and have my home church listed in the town of lafayette. What's so anonymous about that?

Nothing... but it took this exchange for you to put that out there.

> QUOTE
>
> And it's not me who insists on privacy while bearing personal witness either against or in defense of another. The people who do so should allow the others the same priveledge, or they are the hypocrites.

If you have read the things in the various threads, you will see that opportunity has been abd continues to be given to all parties concerned to refute everything said.... which is consideration that at least one side of this issue has not been willing to extend to the other. And, if you have read the things in the various threads, none of those who call themselves defending Danny have declared their identity and have been adamant in maintaining their anonymity... even as they make the same argument you are trying to put forth.

So for you to imply that just one side of this has done that demonstrates at best a failure to pay attention...

> QUOTE
>
> I follow my own standards which I have already posted, if I violate that PLEASE come talking about the beam in my eye, until then, this is just another accusation without merit.

You follow your own standard? Is that anything like your doing what is right in your own eyes? If so, I 'd just like to point out to you that another way of saying that is "all we, like sheep, have gone astray; we have turned every one to his own way..."

There is a lesson in there, Cindy from Lafayette, IN, if you have ears to hear...

In His service,
Mr. J from Brooklyn by way of DC and a host of other places...

Posted by: Lee Dec 22 2006, 11:57 AM

It is all about taking the high road here, no matter what roads others chose to take. Ellen White was used by God to communicate to us, His people. To not agree with what she said is not to agree with God Himself. God chose her to be of help to us, even in these end times. To reject her is to reject God.

Aletheia--you are to be commended in taking the high road on this subject. The quotes by Mrs. White are applicable for today just as they were then--just as the Holy Bible is applicable to us today. The principles never go away but are wisdom to those who believe and follow them.

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Dec 22 2006, 12:00 PM

> QUOTE(Aletheia @ Dec 22 2006, 06:33 AM) ☐
>
> Someone very wise once said render unto God the things that are God's and unto Caesar the things that are Caesars.
>
> There's been a division of Church and State according to God's plan ever since probation on the Nation of Israel closed. The Vatican with it's pedophile priest problem is due in part because they are a Church and a State who still thinks they have precident over any other.
>
> Now the Church of Israel which continued on as Spiritual Israel, is all over the world and the individuals in it are subject to the civil laws in their respective Nations and countries.
>
> What does that mean practically?
>
> A Child molester, a rapist , etc. need to be prosecuted by the state IMMEDIATLY.
>
> Then that person can be disciplined by the church accordingly.
>
> A church can not take the place of the civil authorities nor flout the law.
>
> But sins and erors which are Church business outside of that type of criminal behavior is nobodies business and is what is supposed to be dealt with promptly and privately.
>
> e civil laws have changed over the years, it wasn't so long ago men could beat anf rape both their wives and children and get away with it. So how did they handle such before the laws regarding child abuse?

Alethia, I agree with you wholeheartedly here. Allegations of molestation cannot be swept under the rug or hidden in the closet. They need to be dealt with by civil authorities. That is "rendering to Caesar" as Christ Himself counseled us to do.

Anything less puts more children at risk of becoming victims.

One has to wonder what the true motivation is in attempting to cover up the true nature and extent of the allegations and have the appearance of minimizing the whole issue.

> QUOTE
>
> Since what Ellen White wrote was being discussed I thought this might be of interest. It's a letter to a man who apparently is being dealt with as repentant one, which admittedly is not what the story is regarding Tommy, but still I found it interesting, because she is not in favor of it being made public:

Thank you for finding and posting the SOP statements. They were very illuminating. While, as you pointed out, this wasn't a situation identical to the allegations against Tommy Shelton, there were many wise counsels.

> QUOTE
>
> If you will take hold of Christ by living faith, and humble your soul before Him, He will undertake your case and angels will guard you. But you must resist the devil. You must educate yourself to a different train of thought. Put no confidence in yourself. Never seek the companionship of women or girls. Keep away from them. Your moral taste is so perverted that you will ruin yourself and ruin many souls if you do not turn square about. Educate your mind to study the Word of God. Study it with your whole heart and pray much. Everlasting life is worth a lifelong, persevering, untiring effort. Educate that mind which you have misused and directed in wrong channels of thought.Educate it to dwell on the life, the character, and the lessons of Christ. . . . {TSB 127.3}
>
> Do not feel that the worst thing for you is to lose your credentials. You are not worthy to be entrusted with the care of the flock.

Is this wisdom being used at 3abn? From what I have read that doesn't appear to be the case.

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Dec 22 2006, 12:16 PM

> QUOTE
>
> Praise God for you Aletheia... I couldn't have said it any better. Those Bold Quotes are just that BOLD. I am just as against the ruination of children as anyone. The alarm trumpet has been sounded and resounded again and again. The blood is off our hands already. Mrs white says it should be kept to a low profile now as not to hurt the cause of our God any more than it already has. The alleged perpurtrator has been confronted. It's not up to us to execute him in the media or anywhere else.
>
> Joe

Can you tell us that the alarm trumpet has been sounded through the halls of 3abn and the surrounding areas making certain that everyone knows there is an alleged child predator employed there? How can the blood be off your hands if the potential still exists for further victims to be created?

And what of the existing alleged victims? Has Biblical restitution been made to them or just denials and threats of lawsuits? Is this keeping a low profile? What do you think Jesus would want done for them? After all, He purchased each one of these precious ones with His blood.

Posted by: inga Dec 22 2006, 12:24 PM

> QUOTE(Aletheia @ Dec 22 2006, 10:15 AM) ☐

> You left out the part before that, and after it:
> 1Ti 5:19 Against an elder receive not an accusation, but before two or three witnesses.
> 20 Them that sin rebuke before all, that others also may fear.
> 21 I charge [thee] before God, and the Lord Jesus Christ, and the elect angels, that thou observe these things without preferring one before another, doing nothing by partiality.
> 22 Lay hands suddenly on no man, neither be partaker of other men's sins: keep thyself pure.
> Here is what he was talking about:
> One witness shall not rise up against a man for any iniquity, or for any sin, in any sin that he sinneth: at the mouth of two witnesses, or at the mouth of three witnesses, shall the matter be established.
>
> If a false witness rise up against any man to testify against him [that which is] wrong;
> Then both the men, between whom the controversy [is], shall stand before the LORD, before the priests and the judges, which shall be in those days;And the judges shall make diligent inquisition: and, behold, [if] the witness [be] a false witness, [and] hath testified falsely against his brother;
> Then shall ye do unto him, as he had thought to have done unto his brother: so shalt thou put the evil away from among you.
>
> And those which remain shall hear, and fear, and shall henceforth commit no more any such evil among you. Deut 19
> Mat 18:15 Moreover if thy brother shall trespass against thee, go and tell him his fault between thee and him alone: if he shall hear thee, thou hast gained thy brother.
> 16 But if he will not hear thee, then take with thee one or two more, that in the mouth of two or three witnesses every word may be established.
> 17 And if he shall neglect to hear them, tell it unto the church: but if he neglect to hear the church, let him be unto thee as an heathen man and a publican.

Ah, of cource, Aletheia! That's exactly where this forum has proven useful. A great many details have, indeed, been verified by two or more witnesses. Those that were afraid to speak up because they thought they were alone (abusers isolate their victims) have discovered that others had the same or similar experiences. Some of the details about Danny's activities have been verified not only by eye witnesses but by written documentation.

Note that the text does not say that no one can mention a sin to anyone until someone else mentions it first. That would be an excellent formula for a cover-up! However, it takes two or more witnesses to condemn a man before an arbitrator/judge.

As for following the counsel of Christ ... It's quite evident that numerous individuals have spoken with Danny directly, including high-profile ministers of the gospel. But Danny has not seen fit to confess and repent.

Those who aid and abet wrong-doers like to cloak themselves in SOP quoatations to makes themselves appear virtuous. But Ellen White has a few things to say about them too:

" I was pointed back, and saw that in every important move, every decision made or point gained by God's people, some have arisen to carry matters to extremes, and to move in an extravagant manner, which has disgusted unbelievers, distressed God's people, and brought the cause of God into disrepute. The people whom God is leading out in these last days, will be troubled with just such things. But much evil will be avoided if the ministers of Christ will be of one mind, united in their plans of action, and united in effort. If they will stand together, sustain one another, and faithfully reprove and rebuke wrong, they will soon cause it to wither. But Satan has controlled these matters very much. Private members and even preachers have sympathized with disaffected ones who have been reproved for their wrongs, and division of feeling has been the result. The one who has ventured out and discharged his disagreeable duty by faithfully meeting error and wrong, is grieved and wounded that he receives not the fullest sympathy of his preaching brethren. He becomes discouraged in discharging these painful duties, lays down the cross, and withholds the pointed testimony. His soul is shut up in darkness, and the church suffer for the lack of the very testimony which God designed should live among His people. Satan's object is gained when the faithful testimony is suppressed. Those who so readily sympathize with the wrong consider it a virtue; but they realize not that they are exerting a scattering influence, and that they themselves help to carry out Satan's plans. " Vol 1, Testimonies to the Church , p. 122

Note that she is here referring to those who "carry matters to extremes" -- which could certainly be applied to Danny & cohorts. Do you suppose God looks more kindly on those "who so readily sympathize with the wrong and consider it a virtue" when the wrong is even more blatant (e.g. adultery, abuse. child molestation, not to mention misuse of entrusted funds)? I suppose I could hunt up more quotes on sympathizing with wrong-doers because I know they exist, but those who have an agenda to sympathize with wrong-doers are unlikely to be convinced by more quotes if they aren't convinced by one. Just remember that the SOP "sword" cuts both ways!

Lord, we need the eye salve you have promised!!

Inga (not a pseudonym)

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Dec 22 2006, 12:49 PM

> QUOTE(watchbird @ Dec 22 2006, 06:38 AM)
>
> PB, Instead of giving you the direct link to each, I'll provide detailed information on how to find it for the benefit of both you and others who may not be acquainted with the way the search function works here.
>
> In order to do a search you need to go to the Search function listed at the top of the page so you can change one of the options before searching.
>
> When you get to the Search Options page, go to the lower right corner where you will see "Search Type". It will have a dot before "Show results as topics". Click on the other option, "Show results as posts" and the dot will move to that selection.
>
> Now insert your keyword in the box provided. Choose something short and distinctive. In this case, use just Susan for one search, and just Ronnie for the other. The posts you are looking for will be found in the Unauthorized History thread, so you can quickly scroll down the results hits until you come to ones from that thread.
>
> You will find something rather interesting there when you compare it with Joe's accusation against Sister.

Watchbird,
Thanks for the Search primer! I followed it and found the information.

Yep, some rather interesting similarities in the words from both Joe and Joy.

Posted by: Pickle Dec 22 2006, 02:12 PM

My suggestion, folks, is to remember the days of Gore vs. Bush in Florida. No matter what the question or point raised, Pataki said, "We've had a count, a recount of the count, a recount of the recount of the count. Enough is enough." Something like that. A broken record. "The children of this world are wiser than the children of light."

Shall I demonstrate, with a few sentences that may catch the eye amidst the mass of words and topics and distractions?

Joe, could you please explain for us:

- Why did Danny, according to Walt, tell Walt in 2003 that the Tommy Shelton child molestation allegations were 30 years old, when he knew that that could not be the case?
- Why did Danny allow Walt to think that Dryden had the only accounts of such allegations, when Roger Clem had come forward in that little community before the Dryden letter was ever written?
- Why in the world would Danny allow the financial security of both 3ABN and the IL Conf. to be jeopardized by thus putting church school and conference academy students at potential risk?
- Why would Danny not inform conference Pastor John Lomacang, who presumably would have some interest in the safety of these students, of the existence of these allegations, since as of September 1, 2006, he told me that he had never heard of the Dryden letter and/or these allegations?

He who writes least gets read most.

Posted by: princessdi Dec 22 2006, 02:30 PM

Cindy............Bear? You still annonymous. Are you all so desperate that you don't even see what you are doing? Let it go! Send in Team 4, 5, 6,........you have failed in your mission.

QUOTE(Aletheia @ Dec 22 2006, 09:35 AM) ☐

> My real name is Cindy and I live in Indiana and have my home church listed in the town of lafayette. What's so anonymous about that?
>
> And it's not me who insists on privacy while bearing personal witness either against or in defense of another. The people who do so should allow the others the same priveledge, or they are the hypocrites.
>
> I follow my own standards which I have already posted, if I violate that PLEASE come talking about the beam in my eye, until then, this is just another accusation without merit.
>
> "Identities don't matter if you are not posting anything that could not be posted by any other person like I am doing. But when it comes to personal testimony about another which is not based on public knowledge available to all? It does matter. Anonymous identities and testimony are not admissable in any court of law, whether for the defense or for the prosecution. (Here say evidence in NEVER allowed) and God's standards and biblical principles via his civil and church laws? MUCH higher."

Posted by: Observer Dec 22 2006, 03:39 PM

Food for thought, I think:

Dietrich Bonhoeffer: ". . . when we confess our sins to God alone we can easily delude ourselves into thinking we have adequately dealt with them. Only when we confess our sins to another brother or sister in the presence of God are the hidden secrets of our lives brought into the liaght of day."

See : THE CHRISTIAN CENTRUY, "Off the pedestal," November 28, 2006. p. 5

Posted by: Pickle Dec 22 2006, 03:44 PM

> QUOTE(princessdi @ Dec 22 2006, 02:30 PM) ☐
>
> Cindy............Bear? You still annonymous. Are you all so desperate that you don't even see what you are doing? Let it go! Send in Team 4, 5, 6,........you have failed in your mission.

She's not anonymous as far as I'm concerned. She told me her last name quite some time ago, and her middle initial, as well as a bunch of others.

Now FHB, that's a different story.

Posted by: princessdi Dec 22 2006, 04:11 PM

But she is to the other 2,000 members of BSDA. She revealed herself to you(and you only so far), not to th entire community. She, FHB, and Joe and Joy and the rest aare asking for other to reveal themselves to everyone, so that they can "believe" what they are saying.

> QUOTE(Pickle @ Dec 22 2006, 01:44 PM) ☐
>
> She's not anonymous as far as I'm concerned. She told me her last name quite some time ago, and her middle initial, as well as a bunch of others.
>
> Now FHB, that's a different story.

Posted by: Pickle Dec 22 2006, 04:22 PM

> QUOTE(princessdi @ Dec 22 2006, 04:11 PM) ☐
>
> But she is to the other 2,000 members of BSDA. She revealed herself to you(and you only so far), not to th entire community. She, FHB, and Joe and Joy and the rest aare asking for other to reveal themselves to everyone, so that they can "believe" what they are saying.

Point well made. But she did reveal her identity to an entire Yahoo group.

Posted by: Pickle Dec 22 2006, 04:32 PM

FHB a.k.a. fallibile human being pounded me so hard in PM's over at Maritime, that I decided to get other people's input.

Feel free, if you've registered and are an Adventist, to vote in the poll at http://www.maritime-sda-online.org/forums/ubbthreads.php?ubb=showflat&Number=82962&page=0&fpart=1#Post82936

Posted by: princessdi Dec 22 2006, 04:36 PM

Great! Once again, here is where Cindy is asking people to reveal their identities, yet not revealing her own. In fact, their statements are almost a side issue now in her quest to find out exactly who is speaking.

> QUOTE(Pickle @ Dec 22 2006, 02:22 PM) ☐
>
> Point well made. But she did reveal her identity to an entire Yahoo group.

Posted by: Aletheia Dec 22 2006, 06:46 PM

> QUOTE
>
> Pickle @ Dec 22 2006, 02:22 PM
> Point well made. But she did reveal her identity to an entire Yahoo group
>
> princessdi' date='Dec 22 2006, 05:36 PM' post='164925':
> Great! Once again, here is where Cindy is asking people to reveal their identities, yet not revealing her own. In fact, their statements are almost a side issue now in her quest to find out exactly who is speaking.

☐ Excuse me, but what are you talking about?

The only person I've ever said a thing about was sister...
And here's exactly what I said:

In answer to Johann posting to somebody else
"If you insist Linda wrote this then give a verifiable reason why you think sister is Linda"

ME:
Do you really think people are so stupid?!?

I myself can't prove sister is Linda, and don't even feel it necessary to,
but I am quite sure that if shes not, then Linda Has got her ear, and mouth.
WHO else could even possibly begin to claim to know all this?

Go ahead Johann tell us who. You can answer without naming names, cause I already learned from questions how you all feel about the cloak and dagger stuff.

QUOTE(PeacefullyBewildered @ Dec 20 2006, 07:43 PM)
Aletheia,

I am not making any claims about who you really are because early in my membership here I asked a question somebody didn't like and was told I must be Danny Shelton himself. My response was to giggle and say something to the effect that it would come as a big surprise to my husband.

What I will say is that another member, fallible humanbeing, recently accused sister of being Linda and used almost the same exact wording as you have.

Me:
Maybe that was because as I said, people aren't stupid? However I didn't say sister was Linda, I don't know for sure.

PB:
If I was one of those folks here who likes to make such accusations I might be tempted to do so now. But I'm not one of those folksand I find the practice diversionary and quite annoying.

Me:
If you say so..

I've already been accused of being FHB. Ironically it was Sister who insinuated that.

I'm sure the forum here could clear things up if it was necessary because the way cookies are saved it's obvious that ISP#'s are recorded, but I don't think it's all that critical for the Owner to do so...
Don't you also find it kind of amusing in an ironic kind of way, that so many people claiming to be key players and truthful witnesses insist on being anonymous and yet constantly try to figure out who the other people are, and engage in conspiracy theories about it?

~ Aletheia

And here's the reaction ever since:
http://www.blacksda.com/forums/index.php?s=&showtopic=9767&view=findpost&p=164554

ofl rofl se araue

Sorry, but the truth is I find all this paranoia and suspician and subterfuge extremely sad and yet ridiculous.

But I am curious, if I'm the 3rd team who would the 1st , 2nd, 4th, 5th & 6th team be?
let me guess?

(scroll to bottom)

ofl

Posted by: sister Dec 22 2006, 07:43 PM

Aletheia, I find it a bit strange that in your last post concerning my identity and/or your assumption that my information is supplied by Linda Shelton, you neglected to include my comments. Why?

I would be willing to swear in a court of law, with my right hand raised and my left hand on a Bible, that I am neither Linda Shelton nor anything I have written was supplied by Linda to me, or to me from Linda through a third party. As God is my witness, everything I have posted on BSDA is true.

Aletheia, if you actually read through An Unauthorized History of 3ABN, you will notice that conformation is made by other former or current employees of 3ABN of what I have written. Why would I need information from Linda, when I already know so much? Also, please notice that Joe made similar accusations, repeatly, and now is unwilling to provide evidence to prove his allegations.

Let's be adults and continue on with the topic at hand. It is much more interesting than discussing me, which has become quite tiresome.

Posted by: Aletheia Dec 22 2006, 07:52 PM

> QUOTE(princessdi @ Dec 20 2006, 10:52 PM)
>
> You came here asking for first hand accounts who what was posted here, Today, Uncle Sam gave you a first ahnd account including stating that he stayed in some very nice apartments and then visited some he was surprised tha 3ABN owned they were so bad, but that first hand account was not good en ough for you. Now, you don't know who Uncle Sam is, so he must be lying. So unless he gives you his rine,r ank and serial number, you will not belive him. You are asking for something, including yourself, that nobody is going to give here. All we know of you is Aletheia/Cindy. First hand accounts are good enough for for courts, but not for you.

I just saw this and would like to correct what I have bold texted above by reposting what you were referring to, and clarify what I really said:

> QUOTE
>
> I looked at the posts you are talking about, and saw Uncle Sam's questions and Joys answers it was post 71 - 77, and honestly. I still don't know what the houses are like from that, or as compared to what and who's standards? Nor do I know Uncle Sam or anything about him. I don't just accept what people say as fact, neither do I assume they are lying. I just wait to see which it is.I don't mean to be offensive here, and I am sorry if I came across that way. I really do think we all have the right to make choices.
>
> And I think too many opinions seam to be based on here say from people we don't even know or know anything about. Or at least I don't.
>
> So for myself, I choose not to repeat this, because I am not sure it's the truth or not., and I do think you were wrong to refer to Danny Shelton as a slumlord based on what I have seen written here and what you referred me to. But then that's your choice also..

Peace--

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Dec 22 2006, 07:57 PM

> QUOTE(Aletheia @ Dec 22 2006, 05:46 PM) ☐
>
> I myself can't prove sister is Linda, and don't even feel it necessary to, but I am quite sure that if shes not, then Linda Has got her ear, and mouth.
> WHO else could even possibly begin to claim to know all this?
> Don't you also find it kind of amusing in an ironic kind of way, that so many people claiming to be key players and truthful witnesses insist on being anonymous and yet constantly try to figure out who the other people are, and engage in conspiracy theories about it?
>
> ~ Aletheia[/color]

Aletheia,
Sister addressed your questions quite clearly on another thread. Have you read her response yet?

Sister wrote:

> QUOTE
>
> Who other than Linda could possibly claim to know all this? Myself and others who have spent a number of years in the company of 3ABN and members of the Shelton family. Actually, in some areas we have had more information than Linda. Certain facts concerning 3ABN and Danny's personal life were purposefully hidden from Linda by her ex-husband, or by his authority. Let's take a few "hypothetical" examples: A man does't usually tell his wife when he is having an affair with her best friend. But his lady friend is not always so careful in hiding their relationship... A man doesn't usually tell his wife when he or his relatives are skimming money from the family business, but there are others who know what is going on.
>
> Aletheia, why do you assume that Johann knows my identity? Have you considered the possibly that with his close friendship with Linda, he has known from the beginning that Sister is not Linda, > but it does not automatically follow that Sister contacted him with her identity? The reason I have had the freedom to post so freely about the inner workings of 3ABN is because I have so closely guarded my identity. Am I Linda? Thanks for the laugh... Am I her puppet and she pulls the strings?

Isn't it possible that sister has access to information because she has or has had access to the workings of 3abn perhaps in her own employment or that of a friend or relative. Why does everyone assume that Linda could be the only source of information when there are lots of past and present employees/volunteers with eyes, ears and brains?

Joe Smith has made numerous posts about things he has seen at 3abn. Does that mean he is Linda or that Linda has his ear?

Just some thoughts.
PB

Posted by: Observer Dec 22 2006, 07:57 PM

Re: "Do you really think people are so stupid?!?

I myself can't prove sister is Linda, and don't even feel it necessary to, but I am quite sure that if shes not, then Linda Has got her ear, and mouth.
WHO else could even possibly begin to claim to know all this?"

Answer: There are several people close enough to the situation that could write what Sister posts, and are not Linda.

No, Sister is not Linda.

Also, Linda is not sponsoring Sister''s posts.

No, you are not stupid. Your simply are not informed as to the complexities of the situation, the facts, and the personnel invovled who could write what Sister posts. And, you reveal your lack of information by what you post. But, that is NOT stupidity, as you said.

Posted by: Aletheia Dec 22 2006, 08:07 PM

> QUOTE(sister @ Dec 22 2006, 08:43 PM)
>
> Aletheia, I find it a bit strange that in your last post concerning my identity and/or your assumption that my information is supplied by Linda Shelton, you neglected to include my comments. Why?

A. Because you didn't see the link following "and here's the reaction ever since".and click on it and go there to go read your comments.
B. Discussing you has become quite tiresome
C .both A & B

> QUOTE
>
> I would be willing to swear in a court of law, with my right hand raised and my left hand on a Bible, that I am neither Linda Shelton nor anything I have written was supplied by Linda to me, or to me from Linda through a third party. As God is my witness, everything I have posted on BSDA is true.

> [/b]
>
> Aletheia, if you actually read through An Unauthorized History of 3ABN, you will notice that conformation is made by other former or current employees of 3ABN of what I have written. Why would I need information from Linda, when I already know so much? Also, please notice that Joe made similar accusations, repeatly, and now is unwilling to provide evidence to prove his allegations.
>
> Let's be adults and continue on with the topic at hand. It is much more interesting than discussing me, which has become quite tiresome.

☒ rofl Please feel free to lead by example..

Posted by: calvin Dec 22 2006, 08:59 PM

> QUOTE(sister @ Dec 22 2006, 07:43 PM) ☐
>
> Let's be adults and continue on with the topic at hand. It is much more interesting than discussing me, which has become quite tiresome.

I agree this whole identity game is tiresome and gone on far enough. I found it amusing at first but not anymore. So everybody STOP the accusing and implying the identity of someone no matter how subtle or boldly done. I am beginning to think that some of you have an agenda to seek the identity of other, I will ban you from BSDA if I continue to suspect you of this.

Everyone here can be as private or open with their identify as they want to be. My only requirement upon registration is that you identify your gender, THAT IS ALL and it will have to be good enough for everyone else too.

Now back to the topic at hand, what ever it was, but I know it was not this.

Clay and Di please take notice done....

Posted by: Clay Dec 22 2006, 09:13 PM

The topic was something about someone being digusted by all that has been written here.... even though they are reading it....

Posted by: husbandoftheyear Dec 22 2006, 10:55 PM

> QUOTE(PrincessDrRe @ Dec 21 2006, 06:07 PM) ☐
>
> I keep asking but no one will answer the (rhetorical) question of #1 - How many people would want Danny Shelton as their son-in-law? #2 - How many folks would let "Chester" (the molester) babysit > their children?

Personally, I wouldn't want Dan Shelton as son-in-law, third-cousin, or grocery bagger.

It makes me ill to think of Brad & Valerie Walker's (Tommy's son-in-law and daughter) children being left alone with him.

> QUOTE(Joe Smith @ Dec 21 2006, 10:13 PM) ☐
>
> Well, that will be easy for anyone who wants to check that out. I know the man who lived there very well. He is from Romania and has lived there for about 8 years. His name is Joesph. You will see his name on the program credits after many programs. He still works there, by the way and anyone can call there and talk to him on 3ABN's dime. Joesph just recently moved to Carbondale where his 2 daughter take music lessons... as they have for years. He makes enough money to support his wife, who doesn't work outside and his 2 kids who are now teenagers and driving and all on that 3ABN salary. Joesph chose to live there because it was handy. Maybe he had already moved out when you saw the place if it looked run down.
>
> Joe

If you knew "Jozsef" very well - you would know how to spell his name!
And you would know that he and his family have to budget and cut every single corner they can just to make ends meet.

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Dec 22 2006, 11:23 PM

> QUOTE(husbandoftheyear @ Dec 22 2006, 09:55 PM) ☐
>
> Personally, I wouldn't want Dan Shelton as son-in-law, third-cousin, or grocery bagger.
>
> It makes me ill to think of Brad & Valerie Walker's (Tommy's son-in-law and daughter) children being left alone with him.
> If you knew "Jozsef" very well - you would know how to spell his name!
> And you would know that he and his family have to budget and cut every single corner they can just to make ends meet.

If the allegations against Tommy are true, how can the denial run that deep in the family? I am familiar with the consequences of this type of denial. It hurt me and some of my brothers for years!

Posted by: sister Dec 23 2006, 12:07 AM

> QUOTE(PeacefullyBewildered @ Dec 23 2006, 12:23 AM) ☐

> If the allegations against Tommy are true, how can the denial run that deep in the family? I am familiar with the consequences of this type of denial. It hurt me and some of my brothers for years!

On the generational level of Danny and his siblings, the Shelton family is extremely disfunctional. Since the majority of them now work at 3ABN it is important to understand this fact and consider how this factor effects the ministry at large.

Not all the Shelton's who work at 3ABN are SDA Christians. The majority have had multiple marriages and divorces. There have been many affairs, including homosexual and lesbian. Children have been molested, both from within the family and outside the family. And the list continues...

The Bible says that by beholding we become changed. When Biblical principle is upheld within a family the opportunity to grow in the grace of the Lord is greater. When personal pleasure and desire is placed above the laws of both God and man the results can be degrading upon every level. The Bible also says that the sins of the fathers are visited upon the third and fourth generation. If one has knowledge of both the previous generation of Sheltons and the generation that follows it is not difficult to see what seeds have been sown.

Posted by: caribbean sda Dec 23 2006, 04:57 AM

> QUOTE(calvin @ Dec 22 2006, 10:59 PM) ☐
>
> I agree this whole identity game is tiresome and gone on far enough. I found it amusing at first but not anymore. So everybody STOP the accusing and implying the identity of someone no matter how subtle or boldly done. I am beginning to think that some of you have an agenda to seek the identity of other, I will ban you from BSDA if I continue to suspect you of this.
>
> Everyone here can be as private or open with their identify as they want to be. My only requirement upon registration is that you identify your gender, THAT IS ALL and it will have to be good enough for everyone else too.
>
> Now back to the topic at hand, what ever it was, but I know it was not this.
>
> Clay and Di please take notice

Well said...now let's take a yuletide minute, join hands around the campfire...er table ☒ tableta and sing...Kumbaya my Lord, Kumbaya... ☒ hug.gif

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Dec 23 2006, 09:30 AM

> QUOTE(calvin @ Dec 22 2006, 07:59 PM) ☐

> I agree this whole identity game is tiresome and gone on far enough. I found it amusing at first but not anymore. So everybody STOP the accusing and implying the identity of someone no matter how subtle or boldly done. I am beginning to think that some of you have an agenda to seek the identity of other, I will ban you from BSDA if I continue to suspect you of this.
>
> Everyone here can be as private or open with their identify as they want to be. My only requirement upon registration is that you identify your gender, THAT IS ALL and it will have to be good enough for everyone else too.
>
> Now back to the topic at hand, what ever it was, but I know it was not this.
>
> Clay and Di please take notice

Thank you, Calvin. I think it is a wise move. I apologize for my own subtle remark in this area because I do believe the identity search is diversionary, irritating and pretty much a waste of time.

Of course, now the minor sleuths in many of us will have to look for other avenues of exercise.

Posted by: summertime Dec 23 2006, 10:12 AM

> QUOTE(sister @ Dec 22 2006, 07:43 PM) ☐
>
> I would be willing to swear in a court of law, with my right hand raised and my left hand on a Bible, that I am neither Linda Shelton nor anything I have written was supplied by Linda to me, or to me from Linda through a third party. As God is my witness, everything I have posted on BSDA is true.

As an onlooker, I have thought that if anyone thinks that Sister is Linda, then in essance, when you say that only Linda would know so much, that 'anyone' is accepting the things that have been written by Sister as the absolute truth when they say that 'only Linda would know so much'.

It does sound to me that 'knowing so much' means 'knowing the truth' that is being told. Or do I misunderstand what 'knowing so much' really means?

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Dec 23 2006, 02:09 PM

> QUOTE(sister @ Dec 22 2006, 11:07 PM) ☐
>
> On the generational level of Danny and his siblings, the Shelton family is extremely disfunctional. Since the majority of them now work at 3ABN it is important to understand this fact and consider how this factor effects the ministry at large.
>
> Not all the Shelton's who work at 3ABN are SDA Christians. The majority have had multiple marriages and divorces. There have been many affairs, including homosexual and lesbian. Children have been molested, both from within the family and outside the family. And the list continues...
>
> The Bible says that by beholding we become changed. When Biblical principle is upheld within a > family the opportunity to grow in the grace of the Lord is greater. When personal pleasure and desire is placed above the laws of both God and man the results can be degrading upon every level. The Bible also says that the sins of the fathers are visited upon the third and fourth generation. If one has knowledge of both the previous generation of Sheltons and the generation that follows it is not difficult to see what seeds have been sown.

Sadly, I am far too familiar with dysfunctional family systems. I know how generational the effects of abuse can be.

Alethiea's post of Ellen White's counsel yesterday, taken from Testimonies on Sexual Behavior, Adultry and Divorce was astounding! What clear counsel God has blessed us with on these matters! The following paragraphs are so fitting for the situation you speak about:

"These are the very sins which corrupted Sodom. Their evil practices did not come all at once. First one man and woman stupefied themselves by unholy, polluted habits. Then as inhabitants settled in Sodom, they did as you are doing, educating others in a line that is forbidden of God. And so as the inhabitants continued to multiply, these ministers of sin continued in educating them in their own defiling practices until if any person came into their midst their first thoughts were to educate them in their evil work, until Sodom became renowned for its pollutions. Their sins reached unto heaven, and the Lord would bear with them no longer. He destroyed them and all that was beautiful, that made it as a second Eden, for the earth was defiled under the inhabitants thereof. {TSB 126.2}"

Satan's device of lust can have such a pervasive impact once it takes hold of a family. This type of behavior does not fit for those who truly claim the name of Christ. If it continues it speaks to the true condition of the heart.

"These bodies that you tamper with are the purchased property of Jesus Christ. I knew this was your sin, but I knew also that if the truth was enthroned in your heart it would make this sin appear to you in its true enormity, for truth brought into the soul temple will expel lust and defilement from the heart. . . . {TSB 126.3}"

I was struck by these further words of counsel:

"If man is to become immortal, his mind must be in harmony with God's mind. The true disciple in the school of Christ, whose mind is in harmony with the mind of God, will be not only constantly learning, but teaching as well as learning, constantly reflecting light, teaching upward and away from the common, prevailing errors of this perverse and adulterous generation. . . . {TSB 116.1}"

How we live our lives is a testimony to those around us. If we allow God to call us out of darkness and into His wonderful light many unbelievers will be prepared for Jesus when He returns.

1Peter 2:9 - 17
"9 But you are a chosen people, a royal priesthood, a holy nation, a people belonging to God, that you may declare the praises of him who called you out of darkness into his wonderful light. 10 Once you were not a people, but now you are the people of God; once you had not received mercy, but now you have received mercy.
11 Dear friends, I urge you, as aliens and strangers in the world, to abstain from sinful desires, which war against your soul. 12 Live such good lives among the pagans that, though they accuse you of doing wrong, they may see your good deeds and glorify God on the day he visits us.

13 Submit yourselves for the Lord's sake to every authority instituted among men: whether to the king, as the supreme authority, 14 or to governors, who are sent by him to punish those who do wrong and to commend those who do right. 15 For it is God's will that by doing good you should silence the ignorant talk of foolish men. 16 Live as free men, but do not use your freedom as a cover-up for evil; live as servants of God. 17 Show proper respect to everyone: Love the brotherhood of believers, fear God, honor the king."

Of course, if those who purport to be followers of Christ actually continue to walk in darkness, denying the power of the Light, how many souls will be lost to Satan by their false testimony?

I just have to repeat once more "for truth brought into the soul temple will expel lust and defilement from the heart. . . . "

Printable Version of Topic

(136)

Click here to view this topic in its original format

BlackSDA _ 3ABN _ Asi And Resolution.

Posted by: Observer Dec 10 2006, 06:45 AM

It has been published a number of times that ASI is considering whether or not to attempt to find some kind of resolution to what I call this 3-ABN mess. Numerous comments have been made regarding this in this forum, and in others. So, I thought that I would start this thread so that the comments that will continue to come could be made in one place.

My personal position is that that during this process, the discussions must be conducted in private, and outside of publicity. Once some decisions have been made, public announcements may be made, and posted here and elsewhere.

Because I believe that privacy is essential at this time, I am not going to post specifics.

However, I do believe that there are general comments that may be made, and may be helpful to be posted at this time. So, I will do that.

As a first post, I will make some comments on what is involved if an outside party (ASI, the SDA Church, or any other non-civil organization) is to effect a resolution either in whole, or in part. Most, if not all, will be simple common sense.

As a first stage in this, the respective parties, in my opinion must agree on two major points:

A. Do the respective parties agree that they will allow another party to mediate a resolution to their issues?

Outside of the civil realm, none of the parties to these issues can be forced into an attempt to resolve the issues. 3-ABN is an independent organization. It is not tied to any other organization in a manner that would force it to do anything. The other parties are all individuals. None of them can be forced into an attempted resolution against their wills. In short, resolution may only be achieved between parties who agree to attempts to resolve issues.

Yes, it is true that if any issues enter the civil realm, which it appears has already happened, some parties may be forced to comply with orders from the judicial system.

B. Do the respective parties agree on the process by which this attempt to mediate a resolution will take place?

All parties to this mess must agree on the process by which it takes place. This is much more involved in simply determining that it is fair. This process cannot be imposed upon the parties by an outside agency. Without this agreement on the process, parties will refuse to be involved, and resolution will not take place. In my personal opinion, there are three (3) aspects upon which the parties must agree:

1) They must agree upon the issues to be considered for resolution.

As this mess has developed, multiple issues and people have become involved. In the minds of many people, it is no longer a case of the marital issues between Danny and Linda, a divorce, and a remarriage. In fact, some believe that those are minor compared to other issues. Some believe that some of the issues can only be resolved with fairness to all involved, in the civil realm. So, the issue now becomes: What can be considered by any body that attempts to resolve issues?

With multiple people involved, it can be expected that there are various thoughts as to what is appropriate. But, some agreement must take place before the attempt to resolve begins. If some issues are not addressed by a group that is attempting to resolve issues, what is to be done in regard to the issues that remain? That is where the second aspect becomes a factor.

2) They must agree upon the goal of this process.

Here are some of the potential goals:

Make a statement of findings of facts.

Make a recommendation for action in regard to specific facts.

Make a decision that is binding on all parties: Folks that can only work if the body has the authority to enforce the binding decision. Some believe that there are decisions that need to be made that can only be enforced by civil authorities.

Make a statement that the respective parties are free to pursue their concerns in the civil realm as that is the proper realm to take such issues, and this body does not have the ability to resolve such issues. Folks, civil governments are established by God. They have their proper realm. It is not a violation of Biblical standards to take to civil government issues that lie in their realm. One such issue would be a criminal issue. Another might be issues involving taxation, and the public accounting that is required by a 501c organization. There are certainly other such issues.

If the respective parties do not agree on the aim of the attempted resolution, none such can take place.

3) They must agree on the process by which this attempt at resolution takes place.

Of course, the process must be fair to all parties, and it must have the appearance of fairness. All must be satisfied that they will be treated in fairness.

There must be agreement as to what will be released about the process, and the decisions made, to the public. Will some information be kept private? Yes, it may be appropriate to keep some information private. If Gloria X testifies that Sam Y had inappropriate sexual contact with her, should Gloria's name be published, along with the details for the world to see?

It has been said in a post made by another that it appears that this process is developing along the lines of a legal process. O.K. There may be some value in this approach. Yet, it may be that a strictly legal process may not be appropriate for this situation. Some aspects of a legal approach may only be appropriate in a civil venue?

Folks, I have been speaking in general terms. In this third aspect the discussions must take place with much specificity. Much is at stake. The decisions made in these aspects are critical to any end result of resolution. These critical discussions will probably require some time for the respective parties to come to agreement.

It may be that no agreement can be achieved? If that is the case, the only avenue left is the civil one.

Where am I in all of this? Do I think that anything can be accomplished? Again, at this point in time, I must speak in generalities, and I cannot be specific in this public statement.

I believe, in theory, that an outside investigative body can be helpful, and bring about some resolution of the issues. I believe that this can be done in a manner that is fair to all involved parties, and to the public at large. Whether or not this will happen, I do not know.

I will simply tell you, as I have done in the past: Honest, and sincere people, from more than one side of these issues, and people who are independent of the issues, are working very hard to come to an agreement. As individuals, they do not agree on every point. But, they are attempting to come to some sort of a common agreement that will be helpful.

If they can achieve this, then the next step will be for the process to take place.

Following that, there must be some sort of a public statement.

At this point in time, what is happening must take place behind closed doors.

NOTE: I have posted in general terms, and I have not revealed anything confidential.

Posted by: Richard Sherwin Dec 10 2006, 10:12 AM

Here is a thought that might have been made before. Lets say that Danny agrees to have ASI do a formal investigation of his divorce. Maybe Danny knows they will find him guilty, he can then make a huge public apology, complete with tears, rebaptism, gnashing of teeth, sack clothes and ashes, the whole nine yards so to speak. And will be give Mandy the old heave? Of course not, why should he if he has confessed his sins? What better way of diverting attention away from the bigger issues? Everyone will be awed by his performance, will send him millions of dollars and forgive him of everything. I think he just might be manipulating all of us.

Richard

Posted by: watchbird Dec 10 2006, 10:51 AM

> QUOTE(Richard Sherwin @ Dec 10 2006, 11:12 AM)
>
> Here is a thought that might have been made before. Lets say that Danny agrees to have ASI do a formal investigation of his divorce. Maybe Danny knows they will find him guilty, he can then make a huge public apology, complete with tears, rebaptism, gnashing of teeth, sack clothes and ashes, the whole nine yards so to speak. And will be give Mandy the old heave? Of course not, why should he if he has confessed his sins? What better way of diverting attention away from the bigger issues? Everyone will be awed by his performance, will send him millions of dollars and forgive him of everything. I think he just might be manipulating all of us.
>
> Richard

This is, IMO, only one of many possible negative scenarios which make the whole idea of having ASI conduct any kind of "hearing" an extremely poor idea.

Fortunately there is little to suggest that any of the parties involved actually want to have this happen. And I think if we read between the lines on Gregory's explanatory post we can see this unlikelyhood very clearly.

As he said... the issues which involve illegal activities can only be settled by a court of law. The issues which involve immoral actions have been sufficiently exposed in public... and even more thoroughly to church officials.... and it is only the church itself which can act to 1) give the appropriate church disciplinary action, and 2) to cut all church ties with 3ABN, and 3) to give public notice that this is true and warn other church entities that they will be in danger of church discipline themselves if they persist in promoting or funding 3AN... either directly by donations or buying airtime, or indirectly by allowing Danny to continue to use church facilities for his "rallies".

There is a significant amount of evidence that in fact, church leaders and entities ARE making some moves in this latter action, but it is being done much too quietly for all victims or potential victims to be aware of their activities. There is also evidence that the reason for not moving more forcefully or publicly is that there are tremendous political pressures and/or fears, such that those who make such decisions are afraid for their future in Adventist leadership were they to come out more openly and state their positions.

That being the case, there needs to be continued efforts to warn the public so as to create a wave of public opinion strong enough to nullify those pressures and fears and untie the hands of those who could put pen to paper and send out public communiques which would in turn strengthen the hands of local entities who would be willing to act locally if they only had permission from their superiors.

Gailon has been promising a web page that would hold the pages of evidence he claims to hold ever since last August, when his first stated target date for "going public" was the US Labor Day... which this year was September 4. He advanced that to later in September... then to November 1. Those dates have come and gone and still no web page. The last date I saw him giving was January 2007. Will that happen? We shall have to wait and see.

Posted by: Ed White Dec 10 2006, 10:57 AM

> QUOTE(Richard Sherwin @ Dec 10 2006, 10:12 AM)
>
> Here is a thought that might have been made before. Lets say that Danny agrees to have ASI do a formal investigation of his divorce. Maybe Danny knows they will find him guilty, he can then make a huge public apology, complete with tears, rebaptism, gnashing of teeth, sack clothes and ashes, the whole nine yards so to speak. And will be give Mandy the old heave? Of course not, why should he if he has confessed his sins? What better way of diverting attention away from the bigger issues? Everyone will be awed by his performance, will send him millions of dollars and forgive him of everything. I think he just might be manipulating all of us.
>
> Richard

I agree, this is sound reasoning Richard but someday as we all know, "manipulating" & gag orders will be a thing of the past. Can't we all see now why the bible prnounces a "woe" directly to lawyers? Anyone remember that verse over in the book of Amos where a man is running from a bear & runs right straight into a lion, be makes it home where he thinks there's safety and put his arm upon a shelf and a snake bites him? ASI may be the bear.

Posted by: Clay Dec 10 2006, 10:59 AM

> QUOTE(Ed White @ Dec 10 2006, 10:57 AM)
>
> I agree, this is sound reasoning Richard but someday as we all know, "manipulating" & gag orders will be a thing of the past. Can't we all see now why the bible prnounces a "woe" directly to lawyers? Anyone remember that verse over in the book of Amos where a man is running from a bear & runs right straight into a lion, be makes it home where he thinks there's safety and put his arm upon a shelf and a snake bites him? ASI may be the bear.

ofl safe to say you have never needed the services of a lawyer......

Posted by: Observer Dec 10 2006, 11:47 AM

Re: "Gailon has been promising a web page that would hold the pages of evidence he claims to hold ever since last August, when his first stated target date for "going public" was the US Labor Day... which this year was September 4. He advanced that to later in September... then to November 1. Those dates have come and gone and still no web page. The last date I saw him giving was January 2007. Will that happen? We shall have to wait and see."

There have been good reasons for the postponements.

The latest January date is an attempt to give the ASI process time to work out an agreement between the parties to resolve the issues. If such an agreement can be reached in December, more time will probably be given for the actual process to take place. But, if December closes with no such agreement, it is likely that this mess will become very public.

It should be noted that this situation may break open without any help from Mr. Joy. The issues are already more public than some realize. Some of us are surprised that more has not already been published in the secular media.

Posted by: Pickle Dec 10 2006, 12:03 PM

> QUOTE(Observer @ Dec 10 2006, 11:47 AM)
>
> Re: "Gailon has been promising a web page that would hold the pages of evidence he claims to hold ever since last August, when his first stated target date for "going public" was the US Labor Day... which this year was September 4. He advanced that to later in September... then to November 1. Those dates have come and gone and still no web page. The last date I saw him giving was January 2007. Will that happen? We shall have to wait and see."
>
> There have been good reasons for the postponements.
>
> The latest January date is an attempt to give the ASI process time to work out an agreement between the parties to resolve the issues. If such an agreement can be reached in December, more time will probably be given for the actual process to take place. But, if December closes with no such agreement, it is likely that this mess will become very public.
>
> It should be noted that this situation may break open without any help from Mr. Joy. The issues are already more public than some realize. Some of us are surprised that more has not already been published in the secular media.

Observer is exactly correct on this one. That's been the delay.

Posted by: lurker Dec 10 2006, 01:35 PM

Frankly I do not believe ASI can give a fair "trial" because they can not subpoena evidence such as bank records and tax returns that Danny has hidden and which are necessary to open eyes and to document the whole truth. Now, bank records etc may come out later in the divorce settlement proceedings but that will not help the ASI investigation now and there are other needfull records that by law are closed but which could be ordered to be opened or presented to a court of law. How sad it would be if ASI makes a judgement which is based on false testimony and half truths. When the truth comes out later, will anyone hear about it or will the 3ABN spin machine continue to point to the ASI findings as the final word on the matter?

I think that even if ASI is open minded and fair, Danny may be very convincing unless all the needed information is available to prove whether he is telling the truth or whether he just hoping that no one will question him and dig deep enough to learn what is beneath the surface.

Posted by: Observer Dec 10 2006, 03:23 PM

> QUOTE(lurker @ Dec 10 2006, 12:35 PM) ☐
>
> Frankly I do not believe ASI can give a fair "trial" because they can not subpoena evidence such as bank records and tax returns that Danny has hidden and which are necessary to open eyes and to document the whole truth. Now, bank records etc may come out later in the divorce settlement proceedings but that will not help the ASI investigation now and there are other needfull records that by law are closed but which could be ordered to be opened or presented to a court of law. How sad it would be if ASI makes a judgement which is based on false testimony and half truths. When the truth comes out later, will anyone hear about it or will the 3ABN spin machine continue to point to the ASI findings as the final word on the matter?
>
> I think that even if ASI is open minded and fair, Danny may be very convincing unless all the needed information is available to prove whether he is telling the truth or whether he just hoping that no one will question him and dig deep enough to learn what is beneath the surface.

Lurker, go back to my first post:

What are the issues that will beconsidered?

What is the aim for consideration of those issues?

There are clearly those who believe that some issues are beyond consideration by any group, and must be dwelt wiith by the civil authorities, if at all.

Don't sell ASI, or anyone else short, until the basics, as I mentioned in my first post are decided.

If the process is not fair, it will be recognized by the parties, and likely not take place. Folks, a process that is not fair to one party will not be take place with the cooperation of that party, and possibley others. Under such conditions the process will not take place.

Posted by: lurker Dec 11 2006, 09:16 AM

You are right, of course. My point, however, is that the legal inability to get at some records in a mediation process as opposed to being in a court of law is something that some may not have given enough consideration.

> QUOTE(Observer @ Dec 10 2006, 04:23 PM) ☐
>
> Lurker, go back to my first post:
>
> What are the issues that will beconsidered?

> What is the aim for consideration of those issues?
>
> There are clearly those who believe that some issues are beyond consideration by any group, and must be dwelt wiith by the civil authorities, if at all.
>
> Don't sell ASI, or anyone else short, until the basics, as I mentioned in my first post are decided.
>
> If the process is not fair, it will be recognized by the parties, and likely not take place. Folks, a process that is not fair to one party will not be take place with the cooperation of that party, and possibley others. Under such conditions the process will not take place.

Posted by: Observer Dec 11 2006, 11:21 AM

> QUOTE(lurker @ Dec 11 2006, 08:16 AM) ☐
>
> You are right, of course. My point, however, is that the legal inability to get at some records in a mediation process as opposed to being in a court of law is something that some may not have given enough consideration.

Well, there are those who clearly believe that some issues cannot be resolved by ASI, or anything outside of the civil authorities.

But, if this is true, this does not mean that nothing helpful can be accomplished by this proposed process. Again, the criticial element will be: Will the respective parties agree?

Posted by: calvin Dec 11 2006, 01:16 PM

It is hard for me to believe that 3abn/Danny Shelton on its own would agree to ASI or anybody else poking around in his ex-marriage. He has little to gain by exposing himself in this investigation. I know I would not. It's no ones business why I divorced my spouse (if I had an ex.), even if I was a public figure or for that matter how I run my private business.

I can't believe this blow-hard Joy character is any threat or what a few hundred folks think on message boards. Most people I talk to outside of these forums, 3abn is a non-issues. So what is bringing Danny to the table? Has his board of directors suddenly got some backbone and demanding it? Are major contributors or ministries that broadcast on 3abn putting the pressure on? What gives?

As for Linda, I think the best advice anybody can give her is to get on with her life. Rack up her marriage to Danny as a bad experience and move on. After all she got two years severance. Better that most if us when we get let go from a job.

Posted by: Pickle Dec 11 2006, 02:16 PM

> QUOTE(calvin @ Dec 11 2006, 01:16 PM) ☐

> It is hard for me to believe that 3abn/Danny Shelton on its own would agree to ASI or anybody else poking around in his ex-marriage. He has little to gain by exposing himself in this investigation. I know I would not. It's no ones business why I divorced my spouse (if I had an ex.), even if I was a public figure or for that matter how I run my private business.
>
> I can't believe this blow-hard Joy character is any threat or what a few hundred folks think on message boards. Most people I talk to outside of these forums, 3abn is a non-issues. So what is bringing Danny to the table? Has his board of directors suddenly got some backbone and demanding it? Are major contributors or ministries that broadcast on 3abn putting the pressure on? What gives?

Calvin, here's the scoop.

Back in mid-August Gailon discovered the Tommy Shelton child molestation allegations. He thought they were a hoax and then discovered that they were credible. He began interviewing lots of people and discovered all kinds of things both related and unrelated to Linda.

He then began sending out emails about the situation, and that caught some people's attention. 3ABN was then strongly urged to bring about some sort of resolution through an independent review of the allegations, and involving ASI was a logical choice.

I heard that Danny objected to that, but his board voted to do it anyway. I don't know if that is true. Maybe it isn't. (Gailon said he got that from someone within 3ABN.) But we do know that 3ABN did indeed request ASI to perform a review.

But Danny has made it crystal clear in his correspondence with me that he does not intend ASI to review anything but he and Linda's situation.

Thus, even the very allegations that got all this started to begin with, namely, the Tommy Shelton child molestation allegations, Danny indicates in his correspondence with me that ASI will not be allowed to look into. He hopes to be exonerated by the rview, and then use the ASI decision to make all the rest of the allegations go away.

He's dreaming.

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Dec 11 2006, 02:50 PM

Calvin,
It's good to see you expressing your opinion and I'm so thankful that you have allowed this area of BSDA so that we can express ours as it relates to 3abn topics.

I hear what you are saying regarding chalking some things up to experience. There are things in my own life that have been bitter to swallow but I know eventually I will be vindicated. As far as 3abn goes, some issues will have to wait until Heaven for resolution - other issues just might get handled before then. We'll see how it all plays out.

Posted by: Clay Dec 11 2006, 03:29 PM

> QUOTE(calvin @ Dec 11 2006, 01:16 PM)
>
> It is hard for me to believe that 3abn/Danny Shelton on its own would agree to ASI or anybody else poking around in his ex-marriage. He has little to gain by exposing himself in this investigation. I know I would not. It's no ones business why I divorced my spouse (if I had an ex.), even if I was a > public figure or for that matter how I run my private business.

>
> I can't believe this blow-hard Joy character is any threat or what a few hundred folks think on message boards. Most people I talk to outside of these forums, 3abn is a non-issues. So what is bringing Danny to the table? Has his board of directors suddenly got some backbone and demanding it? Are major contributors or ministries that broadcast on 3abn putting the pressure on? What gives?
>
> As for Linda, I think the best advice anybody can give her is to get on with her life. Rack up her marriage to Danny as a bad experience and move on. After all she got two years severance. Better that most if us when we get let go from a job.

and that is the rub for me.... in a divorce exspouses usually get significantly more unless there is a pre-nup... so instead of 2 years we should be talking half of the marital assets....

Posted by: calvin Dec 11 2006, 04:55 PM

> QUOTE(Pickle @ Dec 11 2006, 02:16 PM) ☐
>
> Calvin, here's the scoop.
>
> Back in mid-August Gailon discovered the Tommy Shelton child molestation allegations. He thought they were a hoax and then discovered that they were credible. He began interviewing lots of people and discovered all kinds of things both related and unrelated to Linda.
>
> He then began sending out emails about the situation, and that caught some people's attention. 3ABN was then strongly urged to bring about some sort of resolution through an independent review of the allegations, and involving ASI was a logical choice.
>
> I heard that Danny objected to that, but his board voted to do it anyway. I don't know if that is true. Maybe it isn't. (Gailon said he got that from someone within 3ABN.) But we do know that 3ABN did indeed request ASI to perform a review.
>
> But Danny has made it crystal clear in his correspondence with me that he does not intend ASI to review anything but he and Linda's situation.
>
> Thus, even the very allegations that got all this started to begin with, namely, the Tommy Shelton child molestation allegations, Danny indicates in his correspondence with me that ASI will not be allowed to look into. He hopes to be exonerated by the rview, and then use the ASI decision to make all the rest of the allegations go away.
>
> He's dreaming.

Ah, so it was the Board. Thank you! I hope the Board will demand that the other mess be investigated as well.

Posted by: Pickle Dec 11 2006, 05:10 PM

> QUOTE(calvin @ Dec 11 2006, 04:55 PM) ☐
>
> Ah, so it was the Board. Thank you! I hope the Board will demand that the other mess be > investigated as well.

If we ignore the Linda issue, there are at least two other major issues, one being the Tommy Shelton allegations, that the board never investigated themselves. So if ASI investigated them, that would be the first time they got investigated.

Posted by: summertime Dec 11 2006, 06:40 PM

> QUOTE(Clay @ Dec 11 2006, 03:29 PM)
>
> and that is the rub for me.... in a divorce exspouses usually get significantly more unless there is a pre-nup... so instead of 2 years we should be talking half of the marital assets....

I just want to say that I have so much enjoyed these Christmas backgrounds on BSDA. Thank you, Calvin for brightening a very dreary Xmas for me. But I also want to say that Linda did not have a 'job'. I believe that the Illinois courts have said that 3ABN is a family business of which Linda was the co-founder. Danny thinks that 3ABN is his baby--so Linda is the co-owner of the baby, (so to speak) She should have half of all marital assets. I have heard Danny say that when 3ABN was started he was a poor country boy. If he had nothing when they were married and started 3ABN, then Linda should have received 1/2 of everything of which they were co-owners.

Posted by: Fran Dec 11 2006, 10:03 PM

> QUOTE(summertime @ Dec 11 2006, 07:40 PM)
>
> I just want to say that I have so much enjoyed these Christmas backgrounds on BSDA. Thank you, Calvin for brightening a very dreary Xmas for me. But I also want to say that Linda did not have a 'job'. I believe that the Illinois courts have said that 3ABN is a family business of which Linda was the co-founder. Danny thinks that 3ABN is his baby--so Linda is the co-owner of the baby, (so to speak) She should have half of all marital assets. I have heard Danny say that when 3ABN was started he was a poor country boy. If he had nothing when they were married and started 3ABN, then Linda should have received 1/2 of everything of which they were co-owners.

Yes, I agree! She deserves much more.

I hear so much about the marriage. That is what Danny wants so people will forget about all the other major problems.

To Everyone;

FOLLOW THE MONEY!

There is where the answers are. I am starting to be very concerned for the safety of people at 3ABN. It is becoming very clear that Danny has some very real issues. Danny is not going to be a fall guy. He will find someone to go down for him or he will loose it and blame it all on someone else and may cause harm to that person. It has become clear to me that Danny is not balanced in his thoughts.

I am reading a book titled, "Why Does He Do That?" by Lundy Bancroft. It is a wonderful read! I think every woman/man should read this book, whether she/he has been abused or not, to become acquainted with how an abuser thinks. It is a real eye opener. From Danny's emails I believer Linda was abused in several ways.

Posted by: roxe Dec 12 2006, 10:42 PM

> QUOTE(Fran @ Dec 11 2006, 09:03 PM) ☐
>
> It is becoming very clear that Danny has some very real issues... <snip> It has become clear to me that Danny is not balanced in his thoughts.

from what I've read here, since Molly and ET have Danny convinced that he is a prophet and everything he thinks, dreams, says and does is straight from God, he is opening himself wide for satan to take control... except it would be almost impossible to convince Danny of that, since satan knows how to make people think that it REALLY is God.

Danny needs strong intercessory prayer for the Holy Spirit to remove satan's hold on him, surround him with holy angels, open his eyes to what is really happening to him, put a strong desire for repentance and new birth, and to turn his life and this entire mess over to God to straighten up to His glory.

wonder what would happen if all of us reading these threads would pick one day a week to fast and pray for this...

where is the Lord God of Elijah?

let's start asking Him for Danny's soul... to mend this broken person.

roxe

137

Printable Version of Topic

Click here to view this topic in its original format

BlackSDA _ 3ABN _ Elder Johann Thorvaldsson Letter To Florida Pastor

---

Posted by: Aletheia Dec 8 2006, 03:44 PM

Hey,

Being that I am newbie I don't know how to go about this.

Seems some items are pinned and others not. I am not quite sure of the standards to determine this. I tried to post in the pinned topics and as a member found out that's beyond me, as it didn't work.

Nor do I know how, or who or where to submit items. So if I err here, I'm sincerely sorry, move it to the appropriate place, let me know how, and why, so I know what to do in the future.

For what it's worth ... I think the following should be pinned.

[edited for content]

If this is an acceptable avenue , maybe this topic can be used in the future for submitting items??

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Dec 8 2006, 04:01 PM

> QUOTE(Aletheia @ Dec 8 2006, 02:44 PM)
>
> Hey,
>
> Being that I am newbie I don't know how to go about this.
>
> Seems some items are pinned and others not. I am not quite sure of the standards to determine this. I tried to post in the pinned topics and as a member found out that's beyond me, as it didn't work.
>
> Nor do I know how, or who or where to submit items. So if I err here, I'm sincerely sorry, move it to the appropriate place, let me know how, and why, so I know what to do in the future.
>
> For what it's worth ... I think the following should be pinned.
>
> Posted on 12/08/06
> At: http://www.maritime-sda-online.org/forums/ubbthreads.php?ubb=postlist&Board=107&page=1
> Re: Live 3ABN Rallies
> By: Johann Thorvaldsson
> Loc: Iceland
>
> If this is an acceptable avenue , maybe this topic can be used in the future for submitting items??

That is an interesting letter, Cindy. Thank you for posting it. It is nice to see that some people are putting their muscles behind their convictions.

Posted by: Chez Dec 8 2006, 06:23 PM

> QUOTE(PeacefullyBewildered @ Dec 8 2006, 05:01 PM) ☐
>
> That is an interesting letter, Cindy. Thank you for posting it. It is nice to see that some people are putting their muscles behind their convictions.

Danny and Tommy are "no shows" in Lauderhill according the CA Murray. He said that they are ill with a bug and little or no voice.

Posted by: Ed White Dec 8 2006, 07:31 PM

> QUOTE(Chez @ Dec 8 2006, 06:23 PM) ☐
>
> Danny and Tommy are "no shows" in Lauderhill according the CA Murray. He said that they are ill with a bug and little or no voice.

There are persons who believe that they are right, when they are wrong. While claiming Christ as their Lord, and professedly doing great works in His name, they are workers of iniquity. "With their mouth they show much love, but their heart goeth after their covetousness." He who declares God's word is to them "as a very lovely song of one that hath a pleasant voice, and can play well on an instrument: for they hear Thy words, but they do them not." Ezekiel 33:31, 32. {MB 146.1}

Posted by: Aletheia Dec 8 2006, 07:50 PM

Can we pin this letter which was to Summertime from Walt Thompson as well?

It used to be on the 3 ABN forum on the "Damage control" thread and was subtitled: " Danny And Walt's E-mails To Me--september". I read it back when it was posted in September, then had a hard time finding it again. When I did and emailed it to others, I gave this link:http://www.blacksda.com/forums/index.php?showtopic=10836&st=0&p=151446&#entry151446 and identified it as post # 2 in that topic, which it was. It doesn't seem to be there anymore... Luckily I made a copy... Since it's hard to locate ... Maybe if it's posted here, people can read it here and ask questions in reference to it???

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Dec 8 2006, 08:01 PM

> QUOTE(Aletheia @ Dec 8 2006, 06:50 PM) ☐
>
> Can we pin this letter which was to Summertime from Walt Thompson as well?

> It used to be on the 3 ABN forum on the "Damage control" thread and was subtitled: " Danny And Walt's E-mails To Me--september". I read it back when it was posted in September, then had a hard time finding it again. When I did and emailed it to others, I gave this link:http://www.blacksda.com/forums/index.php?showtopic=10836&st=0&p=151446&#entry151446 and identified it as post # 2 in that topic, which it was. It doesn't seem to be there anymore... Luckily I made a copy... Since it's hard to locate ... Maybe if it's posted here, people can read it here and ask questions in reference to it???
> Thanks ;-)

The letter you speak of and posted was not a part of the "Damage Control" thread.

It is still on the 3abn forum and was started September 11, 2006. You can find it on page 4, at least at the present time. Here is the link to that page:

http://www.blacksda.com/forums/index.php?showforum=48&prune_day=100&sort_by=Z-A&sort_key=last_post&topicfilter=all&st=45

The longer you are a seeker here at BSDA, the more you will understand about its workings. I have noticed that Calvin has rarely removed anything since I became a member here in August. It's just not the way he works. There are pages and pages of threads on the 3abn forum. The opening page holds the most current, active topics and are listed in order.

Posted by: calvin Dec 8 2006, 08:19 PM

> QUOTE(PeacefullyBewildered @ Dec 8 2006, 08:01 PM) ☐
>
> The letter you speak of and posted was not a part of the "Damage Control" thread.
>
> It is still on the 3abn forum and was started September 11, 2006. You can find it on page 4, at least at the present time. Here is the link to that page:
>
> http://www.blacksda.com/forums/index.php?showforum=48&prune_day=100&sort_by=Z-A&sort_key=last_post&topicfilter=all&st=45
>
> The longer you are a seeker here at BSDA, the more you will understand about its workings. I have noticed that Calvin has rarely removed anything since I became a member here in August. It's just not the way he works. There are pages and pages of threads on the 3abn forum. The opening page holds the most current, active topics and are listed in order.

Thank you PB for helping out our newbie friend.

We (administrators of BSDA) have pinned a few letters in the 3ABN forum with the purpose of giving people the "Readers Digest" version of this sad saga because the amount of information here can be overwhelming. We don't plan to pin anymore topics.

Posted by: Aletheia Dec 8 2006, 08:42 PM

> QUOTE(calvin @ Dec 8 2006, 09:19 PM) ☐
>
> Thank you PB for helping out our newbie friend.

> We (administrators of BSDA) have pinned a few letters in the 3ABN forum with the purpose of giving people the "Readers Digest" version of this sad saga because the amount of information here can be overwhelming. We don't plan to pin anymore topics.

Can I get a exact link to the letter from Walt thompson to Summertime?

the link peacefully bewildered posted doesn't go to it, and the letter I posted was removed.
It seems the old one was removed as well???

If you don't want to pin it, I don't understand, but that's ok, but if it's somewhere else on this forum, can you just tell me where?

Thank you
Aletheia

Posted by: Pickle Dec 8 2006, 08:48 PM

> QUOTE(calvin @ Dec 8 2006, 08:19 PM) ☐
>
> Thank you PB for helping out our newbie friend.
>
> We (administrators of BSDA) have pinned a few letters in the 3ABN forum with the purpose of giving people the "Readers Digest" version of this sad saga because the amount of information here can be overwhelming. We don't plan to pin anymore topics.

Calvin,

Hopefully we are reaching the conclusion of this sordid mess, but if not, I would suggest that, if possible, a single thread be created and pinned for a particular class of documents, with only comments (from the original threads from which the documents come) that are absolutely critical and pertinent to understanding what has transpired.

Thus certain types of letters or other documents could be included in a single thread, and then folks reading through them would have an easier time finding the info they are looking for. That would allow for more critical information to be pinned without increasing the number of threads that are pinned.

The apologetic comments of FHB, and all the bantering back and forth, if that is all there too, it makes it more difficult for the newbies to locate what they need to in order to understand the situation.

Of course, any comments from FHB that actually refute with documentation an allegation in a letter or other document has to be included, in all fairness and honesty. But if he ever did that, I'm unaware of it.

What we have here is an internal sting operation. Better that we do it than that the world do it.

Posted by: calvin Dec 8 2006, 09:13 PM

> QUOTE(Pickle @ Dec 8 2006, 08:48 PM) ☐

> Calvin,
>
> Hopefully we are reaching the conclusion of this sordid mess, but if not, I would suggest that, if possible, a single thread be created and pinned for a particular class of documents, with only comments (from the original threads from which the documents come) that are absolutely critical and pertinent to understanding what has transpired.

Don't quite follow what you are asking. But is sounds like more work than I am will to do and then I just don't have much interest. I don't like pinning topics because it has the appearance of a bias for one side or the other. I run a message board, I do have opinions but I have always strived for BSDA to be an open forum where opposing and unpopular views are welcome.

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Dec 8 2006, 09:16 PM

> QUOTE(Aletheia @ Dec 8 2006, 07:42 PM) ☐
>
> Can I get a exact link to the letter from Walt thompson to Summertime?
>
> the link peacefully bewildered posted doesn't go to it, and the letter I posted was removed.
> It seems the old one was removed as well???
>
> If you don't want to pin it, I don't understand, but that's ok, but if it's somewhere else on this forum, can you just tell me where?
>
> Thank you
> Aletheia

The link I posted for you still works for me, takes me right to the page with the thread that summertime posted. Perhaps it is your computer. Since you can't seem to follow the link, just go to the bottom (or top) of the opening page of the 3abn forum and click on page 4. You will be taken right there.

I believe the reason your post of the letter disappeared is that Calvin frowns on duplicate posting. It gets clunky and confusing when the same information is posted in multiple places.

Posted by: Johann Dec 8 2006, 09:56 PM

> QUOTE(Aletheia @ Dec 8 2006, 11:44 PM) ☐
>
> Hey,
>
> Being that I am newbie I don't know how to go about this.

Dear Aletheia,

Your name is so beautiful and appropriate! It struck me immediately when I first noticed it, because Altetheia is what we all need. It is a word often found in Scripture and Jesus said, I am the Aletheia!

(John 14:6.)

So give us Aletheia, and nothing but Aletheia!

God bless you,

Johann

Posted by: Aletheia Dec 9 2006, 09:24 AM

> QUOTE(PeacefullyBewildered @ Dec 8 2006, 09:01 PM)
>
> The letter you speak of and posted was not a part of the "Damage Control" thread.
>
> It is still on the 3abn forum and was started September 11, 2006. You can find it on page 4, at least at the present time. Here is the link to that page:
>
> http://www.blacksda.com/forums/index.php?showforum=48&prune_day=100&sort_by=Z-A&sort_key=last_post&topicfilter=all&st=45
>
> The longer you are a seeker here at BSDA, the more you will understand about its workings. I have noticed that Calvin has rarely removed anything since I became a member here in August. It's just not the way he works. There are pages and pages of threads on the 3abn forum. The opening page holds the most current, active topics and are listed in order.

Well I guess I am just going to look like an idiot.. I also said "summertime" when I meant "September" Maybe I am dyslexic when it comes to seasons?

But in any case the letter I was actually referring to and posted here, is also posted here:
http://www.blacksda.com/forums/index.php?showtopic=10845&st=0

So as it's already on the board elsewhere, I guess this whole thing doesn't matter.

I do want to thank you for the link tho-- I thought I'd read all, and found out I haven't as there's much more.

I'm home sick today, so will probably read some of the bible topics first though. :-)

Happy Sabbath.

Posted by: Aletheia Dec 9 2006, 10:07 AM

> QUOTE(Johann @ Dec 8 2006, 10:56 PM)
>
> Dear Aletheia,
>
> Your name is so beautiful and appropriate! It struck me immediately when I first noticed it, because Altetheia is what we all need. It is a word often found in Scripture and Jesus said, I am the

> Aletheia! (John 14:6.)
>
> So give us Aletheia, and nothing but Aletheia!
>
> God bless you,
>
> Johann

Now that's refreshing. Someone who looks up the Greek words and meanings when studying their bible. So many Christians including Adventists have said to me over the years "that's a beautiful name, what does it mean and where does it come from?

Of course it's not my real name. Years ago when I first came online, I didn't quite understand the whole anonymous identity thing, but wanted to protect my privacy. I didn't want a silly name, but it seemed kinda dishonest at first to use another common first name, so then I figured if I posted under the name of "Truth" and in the name of "Truth" that I wouldn't be lying. Silly maybe, but I've used the name on various forums and e-lists ever since.

May God bless you too this Sabbath day. :-)

~ Cindy

138

Printable Version of Topic

Click here to view this topic in its original format

BlackSDA _ 3ABN _ Paula Eakins

Posted by: Uncle Sam Nov 19 2006, 05:05 PM

I heard a rumor that Paula has/had breast cancer? Does anyone have any information on this?

Posted by: Daryl Fawcett Nov 19 2006, 05:08 PM

Who is Paula Eakins?

Posted by: Uncle Sam Nov 19 2006, 05:09 PM

Her and her husband have a health/cooking show on 3ABN.

Posted by: lurker Nov 19 2006, 06:05 PM

Calvin's sister in law I think. I believe Curtis Eakins is her husband. Calvin if this news is so, please tell her we are praying for her.

Posted by: calvin Nov 19 2006, 06:06 PM

Paula Eakins is my sister-in-law, Curtis is my brother. Yes, it is true, Paula has breast cancer. Keep them in your prayers.

Posted by: Servant Nov 19 2006, 08:57 PM

I cannot adequately convey my sadness over this news. I have been very blessed by Curtis and Paula Eakins' ministry.

I will pray earnestly for them both and look forward to confirmation my - and others' prayers, have been answered. Please keep us posted.

Posted by: princessdi Nov 19 2006, 09:54 PM

Calvin Paula and Curtis are in my prayers.

Posted by: caribbean sda Nov 19 2006, 11:47 PM

> QUOTE(calvin @ Nov 19 2006, 08:06 PM) ☐
>
> Paula Eakins is my sister-in-law, Curtis is my brother. Yes, it is true, Paula has breast cancer. Keep them in your prayers.

I will be sure to keep them in my prayers. I especially enjoy watching their show. The interaction between Curtis and Paula is just so real and loving. God bless them...

Posted by: Jvat Nov 20 2006, 08:00 AM

I am really sorry to hear about Paula and am also praying for her. So there is really no preventative action against cancer? Right? I say that knowing how Paula has been very careful about her health.

Posted by: summertime Nov 20 2006, 08:48 AM

> QUOTE(Jvat @ Nov 20 2006, 08:00 AM) ☐
>
> I am really sorry to hear about Paula and am also praying for her. So there is really no preventative action against cancer? Right? I say that knowing how Paula has been very careful about her health.

Sometimes other factors cause cancer--geneology, happenchance and many others. But I, too, have found Curtis and Paula Eakins to be the best of the best. My brother-in-law who is a retired pastor, has always lived according to the health message and has always depended on the Lord to give him 'work for the Lord' has recently begun chemo for lymphatic cancer--one thing that we know for sure is that these 2 precious people who work for the Lord are under His wings and the purpose for all this is known only to God. I offer prayers for the Eakins family---I feel in my heart that Paula will be blessed by God.

Posted by: Chez Nov 20 2006, 08:54 AM

Will you tell Paula and Curtis that we are praying for them? Would anyone like to set up a time of fasting and praying for God's will (I'm going to ask for healing) in this situation with Paula? Please let me know.

Chez

Posted by: Servant Nov 20 2006, 09:42 AM

Chez,

I wholeheartedly support your proposal. Please let me know when too.

Posted by: calvin Nov 20 2006, 09:46 AM

I will tell Curtis and Paula of your warm thoughts and prayers. Curtis is a member here, I will encourage him to come online and read your responses. I will leave it to them for sharing more information on Pauls's condition.

FYI, Curtis id here is: hseminar. You can send them a private email from here by doing a members search and selecting "send email".

Posted by: Johann Nov 20 2006, 02:18 PM

> QUOTE(calvin @ Nov 20 2006, 05:46 PM)
>
> I will tell Curtis and Paula of your warm thoughts and prayers. Curtis is a member here, I will encourage him to come online and read your responses. I will leave it to them for sharing more information on Pauls's condition.
>
> FYI, Curtis id here is: hseminar. You can send them a private email from here by doing a members search and selecting "send email".

Curtis and Paula have had one of the finest programs ever shown on 3ABN. Let's pray they will both gain health and strength to continue their ministry and be a blessing to many.

Posted by: Truly Blonde Nov 20 2006, 02:21 PM

While I havn't seen Paula & Curtis on 3abn, I do print out all their recipes. They have blessed me by that. I will keep her in my prayers.

The devil likes to work overtime and if he can get people who are really trying to live according to God's plan in Edan the happier he is. After all if someone is really trying to eat right and then gets cancer many people will look at them and say, See it doesn't work, God doesn't know what He is talking about and they will go on their merry way. Satan must be really happy now. God is STILL the stronger and He can overcome anything that Satan can throw at us and turn it into something REALLY GOOD!!!!! Let me know about the fast and praying.

Posted by: Johann Nov 20 2006, 02:55 PM

> QUOTE(Truly Blonde @ Nov 20 2006, 10:21 PM)
>
> While I havn't seen Paula & Curtis on 3abn, I do print out all their recipes. They have blessed me by that. I will keep her in my prayers.
>
> The devil likes to work overtime and if he can get people who are really trying to live according to God's plan in Edan the happier he is. After all if someone is really trying to eat right and then gets cancer many people will look at them and say, See it doesn't work, God doesn't know what He is talking about and they will go on their merry way. Satan must be really happy now. God is STILL the stronger and He can overcome anything that Satan can throw at us and turn it into something REALLY GOOD!!!!! Let me know about the fast and praying.

I feel especially with Paula and Curtis because my wife suffered from the same malady some years back. It was then Linda ordered us to come to 3ABN for help and healing. We had never gone if we had known that Danny would make our stay there an occasion to get rid of our beloved Linda. I pray that a similar curse will not befall anyone else.

Posted by: seraph|m Nov 20 2006, 11:03 PM

> QUOTE(summertime @ Nov 20 2006, 09:48 AM)

> Sometimes other factors cause cancer--geneology, happenchance and many others. But I, too, have found Curtis and Paula Eakins to be the best of the best. My brother-in-law who is a retired pastor, has always lived according to the health message and has always depended on the Lord to give him 'work for the Lord' has recently begun chemo for lymphatic cancer--one thing that we know for sure is that these 2 precious people who work for the Lord are under His wings and the purpose for all this is known only to God. I offer prayers for the Eakins family---I feel in my heart that Paula will be blessed by God.

Amen and We will also be in prayer.

Posted by: hseminar Nov 21 2006, 12:41 AM

Greetings everyone,

This is Curtis Eakins, Paula's main (and only) squeeze! I was compelled to log on after receiving several personal email messages of your concern and prayers for us. Praise God. Paula is doing EXCEPTIONALLY well! Our Dr. has called her a "walking miracle"; too numerous to mention all the blessings.

In fact, we're going to share our story on "3ABN TODAY" telecast next week of God's wonderful working power and how He rules over every move He allows Satan to make for His purpose!

Posted by: husbandoftheyear Nov 21 2006, 01:37 AM

Curtis and Paula will be at 3ABN to tape a 3ABN Today program about this issue and will also be on 3ABN Today LIVE...

Posted by: simplysaved Nov 27 2006, 09:54 PM

How was it? Is Paula undergoing chemo...or is she choosing to use only holistic treatments?

> QUOTE(husbandoftheyear @ Nov 21 2006, 02:37 AM)
>
> Curtis and Paula will be at 3ABN to tape a 3ABN Today program about this issue and will also be on 3ABN Today LIVE...

Posted by: calvin Nov 29 2006, 10:49 AM

> QUOTE(simplysaved @ Nov 27 2006, 10:54 PM)
>
> How was it? Is Paula undergoing chemo...or is she choosing to use only holistic treatments?

Using only holistic treatments.

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Nov 29 2006, 12:20 PM

> QUOTE(calvin @ Nov 29 2006, 09:49 AM) ☐
>
> Using only holistic treatments.

I know that prayer can be more powerful than anything man can treat with and holistic treatments can sometimes bring cures for some things.

I also know that a friend of mine died a year ago of breast cancer after prayer, annointing and holistic treatments did not cure her.

I hope Paula keeps her options open if the holistic treatments begin to fail.

Posted by: Observer Nov 30 2006, 08:21 AM

I work in health care, at a hospital, and have access to patient records.

Several years ago, an individual who also worked in health care was diagnosed with cancer. She/he decided to seek alternative cancer treatment, and from that point one never accepted any traditional cancer treatment. Over the next three years, she/he traveled to alternative cancer treatment centers, to include those outside of the United States.

I became personally aquainted with her/him when she/he was in transit from an alternative treatment center in another country, to her home in another State. She/he had to be taken off of the airplaine, and brought to our hospital in an ambulance. The hospital where I work does not charge patients for care. We provide it free, and cost is not an objective in providing medical care to our patients. We do not provide to the public at large, but to an eligibe sub-set of the population in the U. S. This person was eligible for our care. Our staff went all out to provide for this person's care.

We brought in top cancer experts to review the origonal medical records. We determined that the origonal cancer could have been cured, as much as any cancer is cured. It was of a type, and at a state that traditional medical science had the answer, as much as it ever does for cancer.

At the point where the cancer was when this patient had reached us, it had invaded the spine, and other areas. This person's dying wish was to return to the area where her/his family lived, and die with family present. We manufactured a custom made, full-torso brace. But, that only allowed the patient to sit upright for short periods of time. We were not able to bring the patient to the place where she/he could be flown to a place where she/he could die with family.

NOTE: We were willing, and had obtained financial approval to charter an air ambulance to fly her/him home.

The result was that this patient died in our hospital seperated from the people she/he wished to be near.

This case was a traumatic case for our medical and nursing staff. All of us took it very hard. My writing this today has triggered emotional feelings in me. Why was this so? Simply, we who had access to her/his medical records knew that this was a death that did not have to be. The patient would be alive today, if she/he had accepted traditional medical treatmenet.

Yes, one might say that the cancer might have returned. But, that would clearly have been years later. The patient would have had many years of life added to her/his life if she/he had not gone for alternative medical treatment.

Well, as a medical ethicist, I support the right of a comptetent adult to make their own decision regarding thier medical care. That right incudes the right to reject specific care, and the right to accept other care.

But, it is sometimes emotionally hard on medical providers when they witness the consequences of those choices. This was one of those times. This patient was a person who had a lot to contribute. Her/his death was needless, at that time, even if she/he had a right to make those choices.

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Nov 30 2006, 08:32 PM

Gregory,
It appears to me that some nowdays seem to think that making use of traditional medicine shows a lack of faith. Of course you are correct that each individual has the right to choose how they are going to have illness treated.

I just hope that all remember that one of the Gifts of the Spirit is Healing and I am certain that this gift is not reserved for the holistic doctors alone but also for many of those in mainstream medicine.

Posted by: fallible humanbeing Nov 30 2006, 08:57 PM

> QUOTE(PeacefullyBewildered @ Nov 30 2006, 10:32 PM) ☐
>
> Gregory,
> It appears to me that some nowdays seem to think that making use of traditional medicine shows a lack of faith. Of course you are correct that each individual has the right to choose how they are going to have illness treated.
>
> I just hope that all remember that one of the Gifts of the Spirit is Healing and I am certain that this gift is not reserved for the holistic doctors alone but also for many of those in mainstream medicine.

It was truly enjoyable listening to this couple talk tonight, albeit briefly, about the health concern and then talk about numerous aspects of healthy eating, healthful living.

- fhb

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Nov 30 2006, 09:53 PM

> QUOTE(fallible humanbeing @ Nov 30 2006, 07:57 PM) ☐
>
> It was truely enjoyable listening to this couple talk tonight, albeit briefly, about the health concern and then talk about numerous aspects of healthy eating, healthful living.
>
> - fhb

I always enjoy watching their cooking shows on 3abn. They have such fun together! As a CHIPPER I know the importance of the plant based diet they promote.

Posted by: Chez Dec 1 2006, 12:16 AM

Would anyone like to join me in fasting and praying for Paula (and Curtis and family) on Sabbath, December 2? We can always fast and pray anytime, but I have set aside this day for special prayer for Paula's healing and for her family.

Chez

Posted by: jene Dec 3 2006, 06:47 PM

I wish I had a chance to watch the Eakins tell their story on 3ABN, but I missed it. I am watching to see how God unfolds a miracle for all of us to witness. Although a couple of you have given some doomsday scenarios, I have heard of just as many success stories of people being healed by God's touch through the avenue of natural healing. Remember even health professionals acknowledge how destructive and poisonous chemotherapy and radiation are.

Paula and Curtis I am praying for you. May God richly bless you as he works a miracle for all the world to witness.

Jene'

139

Printable Version of Topic

Click here to view this topic in its original format

BlackSDA _ 3ABN _ Asi Hearings Re: 3abn

Posted by: sister Nov 29 2006, 01:37 PM

At the suggestion of a member of Maritime, who requested not to be named, I am posting the following topic here at BSDA. It should prove to be quite an interesting read.

Gailon gave his permission for this to be posted. (at Maritime)

-------- Original Message --------
Subject: Proposed Foundation for hearings in re: 3ABN.
Date: Mon, 27 Nov 2006 00:59:31 +0000
From: (G. Arthur Joy)
To: (Harold Lance, Esq)
CC: (Linda Shelton), (Gregory Matthews)

Harold Lance, Esq:

This is Linda's response to Gloria's initial inquiry. It is Linda's position that certainly some issues would be best addressed by a fair and honest panel, to achieve clarity and an open understanding by those who continue to wonder just what was the story? The process should be conclusive and cathartic and therefore available for all to SDA's everywhere to see, hear and read. Only this open process will bring closure to this festering issue.

This is to begin discussions...any thoughts, concerns, additions or just observations are clearly welcome. Linda's team and I have serious concerns regarding your neutrality and need clarification regarding your position, particularly as you have served as a past ASI President during the history of support for 3ABN.

There have also been certain representation by Danny and Walt that would suggest ASI and yourself are not as "neutral" as we would prefer you to be. This should be addressed and clarified for the record. If this process is a waste of time then we need to move on.

We are certain that the record will exonerate Linda and indict Danny, in some cases 3ABN as an entity, other cases 3ABN's board, and in at least two cases, ASI policy relating to the governance and accountability as well as the taking of tithes by ASI members. These issues need to be resolved for the best benefit of the church, ASI and SDA members everywhere. To pretentiously close the door to continued discovery and the open provision of certain documentation is an "obstruction of due process" and in some cases is a violation of their 501©3 Non-profit status as an entity that solicits funds from the public. Therefore, we would request that some items, such as board minutes and financial data are available for immediate viewing. Other information and inquiries should continue to be simply answered.

Also, the "purported evidence" that is the basis for 3ABN allegations nearly three years ago should be made fully available as quickly as possible in the process for the defender to prepare a proper defense. I am certain you understand the need for this fairness doctrine as a matter of due process. And it is the minimum requirement for the process to go forward. I just don't know what it is they are finding so essential to hold under lock and key, but perhaps you could act as an "in camera" magistrate on this "purported evidence" that has so mystified so many for so long and Mollie Steenson purportedly controls.

3ABN and Linda both have claimed to be proponents of openness and transparency and the hearings should meet this fundamental standard or there is simply no purpose to the process. Every SDA has a vital interest in the outcome, as does ASI and it's membership. They are entitled to have access to the record, the findings, the recommendations and to know the implementation of those recommendations, particularly as it affects the "stock-holders in the pews" and the future of SDA Media ministries.

We await your responses with baited breathe in anticipation of an ecclesiastical process that will work for all the party's in interest. If you have any inquiry of Linda, her e-mail address is listed above and feel free to communicate any questions directly to Linda. You will find her hospitable and a woman of great faith. Worthy of communication!!!

Legend: Red is the proposed additions by Linda's team;
Blue are the recommended deletions by Linda's team;
Black italics were the recommended changes by Gloria
The other is apparently transcriptions of Gloria to Linda on behalf of ASI or yourself.

Gloria's proposal with Linda's proposed changes is presented below:

The italics part was my [Gloria's] suggestion, but in talking to Harold the second time, he said that he felt my suggestions could be incorporated without stating them as I did. He especially felt that if any non-Christians were interviewed, they might not want prayer. That seems reasonable to me. If God wants the prayer times spelled out, He can intervene. I've seen that for sure.

ASI has been asked to develop a process for addressing issues between 3ABN and some of its personnel, past and present, specifically including, but not limited to, the appropriateness of the divorce of Danny Shelton and Linda Shelton and the remarriage of Danny Shelton. The matter has been addressed by the ASI Executive Committee who has authorized the further exploration of the possibility for its involvement in the process. The Committee has asked that Harold Lance explore further and report back (by what date?) with recommendations. What do you envision the timeline for this process, what additional issues will be included, and how much time do you intend to set aside for this tribunal?

The following are some preliminary proposed considerations for a process of inquiry to be discussed by the ASI Executive Committee and later to be submitted to 3ABN, Danny and Linda Shelton (and what other parties?) for their consideration:

1. A five person panel shall be selected from a pool of qualified panelists to be presented by the ASI panel to the parties for consideration and background inquiry (voir dire questions) regarding potential conflicts or bias (group of five persons to consider the issues will be selected by ASI, with input from the parties,) and will not include the current or past officers, directors or leadership past or present of ASI.

The gender representation of the group will have no more than 3 men and no less than two. The same is true for women. The persons chosen will be selected for their reputation of fairness, integrity, spirituality and their lack of any stake in the outcome. When first selected, each person of said group will be set aside in a prayer of anointing for wisdom, discernment and power over evil, in full measure by the Holy Spirit. Each person is to verbally and in writing accept the responsibility (and confidentiality) as outlined herein. He/She will pledge to pray daily until the meeting takes place for personal purification and baptism of the Holy Spirit.

2. The place of the meetings to be at a neutral site in the "area." (we need a definition of "the area")

3. The costs associated with the process will be paid by 3ABN.

4. 3ABN, Linda Shelton, and Danny Shelton and other parties will be contacted for their input on the process and on basic ground rules prior to selecting a panel for the issues to be addressed; Also need clarity regarding what issues the panel will be allowed to hear, who will be defining the complaints to be discussed and for what period of time?

5. Each side will state in writing what they consider the complaints to be addressed, (issues are) and that need resolution and a brief (their belief) as to the facts related to those charges, allegations, concerns or issues and the damages or proposals to be considered, and will self discover and make available any evidence to be brought into the tribunal with an explanation of it's import or relevance to the specific issue being addressed with the brief or as discovered thereafter but not more than fifteen days prior to the hearing on the matter?.

6. Each side will state in writing what they think would be a proper outcome on the issues.

7. The meetings will start with a group prayer of all persons involved: each party, witnesses and ASI (Group) PANEL members. The meetings will be conducted in a closed door session when appropriate under the executive session rules, however, in keeping with the rule of openness and transparency a written report of the issues, evidence, facts established and findings with recommendations and actions taken to implement those proposals or ecommendations within 30 days of the completion of the hearing on an issue or issues and shall be made available for public review. A transcription by recordation shall be available to each party upon completion of the hearings. (The meetings will be private, not recorded nor open to the public.) The members of the (Group) Panel may take notes. (Said notes will be purged after completion of the process.) The parties will not be involved in a process of public discussion, through email messages, news releases or announcements on matters related to the process during the hearings. Only the entire report, findings and recommendations of the panel can be referenced after the hearings by any party. A copy of report of the issues, evidence, facts established and findings with recommendations and actions taken to implement those proposals or recommendations and the transcript by recordation, shall be available to each SDA college / university heritage room 30 days after the completion of the hearings. This is essential to guarantee the objectivity and fairness of the panel, it's findings, its recommendations and that the church may be satisfied or clearly dissatisfied that the recommendations were properly implemented and can carry forward whatever discipline is deemed necessary based upon the actual record. This is in keeping with the principal of openness and transparency and is vital as the entire SDA church has a substantial interest in the matters being considered.

8. Each side may have a representative(s) present during the taking of information. Only panel members may be present (but not) during the Panel's (group's) deliberations. The representative will not be a lawyer or one acting as an advocate but as presenters, counselors and a facilitator(s) of the various issues and the process and will be identified to ASI in advance in writing by the party. The person selected will be the person who will work with Harold Lance, on behalf of ASI, in arranging the details of the process. (No volunteers orintermeddlers will participate in the meeting processes involved in making arrangements.)

9. There will be prepared in advance a defined schedule for the proceedings and the sequence of the process with input from the parties.

10.The questionings of persons or witnesses brought in for information on issues will be done first by the representative, party or presenter to introduce the matter at issue, the testimony of the witness and the supporting evidence, then can be questioned by the other representative or party to the issue and then by the panel by the ASI Group moderated by its Chairperson, (not by the parties or their representatives). Clarification rebuttal questions may be asked by the presenter and the respondent in that order following completion of the panel's questions.

The panel can then ask questions relating to the clarification questions raised. The parties or their representatives will have opportunity to submit to the ASI group written suggestion areas of inquiry. (And what if the panel has no idea what to ask or decides not to ask the questions proposed by a party? Just what appellate process would preserve the integrity of the process?)

11. Any party wishing to furnish written documentation for consideration should do so with the delivery of their written statements. Any additional information should be made available as soon as practicable for each issue to be considered but must be presented not less than fifteen (will have seven) days in advance of the meeting to furnish a copy to ASI for distribution to each party. (Is any other information treated as In Limine evidence? And what if an issue is raised by surprise at the hearing, by what process is the right to challenge the surprise to be preserved?)

12. Before the scheduled meeting, each party will submit to the Group a list of persons they plan to present and a factual summary of expected information. The Group will pray with each party and "witness" for clarity of mind, pureness of heart and openness to God before his testimony is heard. (Will witnesses be "sworn in" and under oath?)

13. The purpose of the process will be to bring clarity and truth founded upon the principal of openness and transparency based upon factually accurate information, to publish findings of facts, to make recommendations and to preserve the record of the hearings and do so with perceived guidance from the Holy Spirit. The meetings will not be as a court trial.

When all parties are done presenting their information, the Panel (Group) will have prayer for the guidance of the Holy Spirit and begin deliberations. Upon completion of the process, the Panel will promptly issue a written statement to ASI and the parties as to its factual findings and upon those findings define suggested recommendations for the "parties," as ASI recognizes it does not have authority to order or award anything. The value of the process for the parties will be that an independent, fair-minded panel will give its best judgment as to the truth of the matters under consideration and recommendations for resolution of the issues.

(So we are avoiding binding arbitration on the issues here? Again, what is the purpose and value of this process if there is to be no change based upon the "recommendations" and the respective parties do not need to comply with the findings? Is this a wise process if it is not to be final and binding upon the parties? Don't we already have a load of "statements" "recommendations", including "ecclesiastical" declarations that are completely out of order!!! And why would 3ABN waste the time and money upon such a process that is not binding and how is it of value to the SDA Church body?)

Frankly, I am concerned with the value of this process and would like real clarity of just what the 3ABN board has specifically authorized -- i.e.: I would like to see the actual request from the 3ABN board to determine their purpose and intention, including actual intention regarding recommendations and breadth of topics to be considered.

I am also not certain you have any grasp of the number of issues we had requested that ASI take into consideration. It would probably be wise to brief you regarding the issues we intend to address, and you could better consider the value of the process and to what issues you feel it would appropriate for the ASI Panel.

Gailon Arthur Joy on behalf of Linda Shelton

BE IT KNOWN TO ALL INVOLVED that God alone is the "Restorer of the Breach." By accepting this assignment as "liaison," ASI is but a tool in the hand of God to accomplish His purpose. May His name be exalted as a result of this process

======

Post reformatted for easier reading. Also changed the colour from light blue to blue, also for easier reading. - Daryl

Edited by Daryl Fawcett (Yesterday at 09:34 PM)

Posted by: Brenda Nov 29 2006, 08:10 PM

"We are certain that the record will exonerate Linda and indict Danny, in some cases 3ABN as an entity, other cases 3ABN's board, and in at least two cases, ASI policy relating to the governance and accountability as well as the taking of tithes by ASI members. These issues need to be resolved for the best benefit of the church, ASI and SDA members everywhere. "

Is it wise to state the anticipated outcome of an enquiry before it has run its course?

Just wondering, I have no vested interest either way and considerable sympathy for Linda and all she has gone through.

Posted by: sister Nov 29 2006, 09:43 PM

> QUOTE(Brenda @ Nov 29 2006, 09:10 PM)
>
> "We are certain that the record will exonerate Linda and indict Danny, in some cases 3ABN as an entity, other cases 3ABN's board, and in at least two cases, ASI policy relating to the governance and accountability as well as the taking of tithes by ASI members. These issues need to be resolved for the best benefit of the church, ASI and SDA members everywhere. "
>
> Is it wise to state the anticipated outcome of an enquiry before it has run its course?
>
> Just wondering, I have no vested interest either way and considerable sympathy for Linda and all she has gone through.

I have had contact with the Invesgative team and in my opinion, the above supposition is based upon evidence that has been gathered from a number of sources and the lack of evidence provided by Danny Shelton to support his allegations.

Posted by: Johann Nov 29 2006, 10:15 PM

> QUOTE(Brenda @ Nov 30 2006, 04:10 AM)
>
> "We are certain that the record will exonerate Linda and indict Danny, in some cases 3ABN as an entity, other cases 3ABN's board, and in at least two cases, ASI policy relating to the governance and accountability as well as the taking of tithes by ASI members. These issues need to be resolved for the best benefit of the church, ASI and SDA members everywhere. "
>
> Is it wise to state the anticipated outcome of an enquiry before it has run its course?
>
> Just wondering, I have no vested interest either way and considerable sympathy for Linda and all she has gone through.

These are merely the base issues that need to be dealt with. Why go around the bush?

Posted by: Brenda Nov 30 2006, 02:18 AM

> QUOTE(Johann @ Nov 30 2006, 03:15 PM) ☐
>
> These are merely the base issues that need to be dealt with. Why go around the bush?

I have no problems with stating the issues explicitly. I just wondered whether the outcome should be presumed before the process is complete - whether or not the opinion is based on perusal of the evidence.

Posted by: awesumtenor Nov 30 2006, 09:01 AM

> QUOTE(Brenda @ Nov 30 2006, 03:18 AM) ☐
>
> I have no problems with stating the issues explicitly. I just wondered whether the outcome should be presumed before the process is complete - whether or not the opinion is based on perusal of the evidence.

I don't believe the outcome has been presumed so much as confidence has been expressed that an objective examination of the record will lead to the conclusion noted...

BTJM.

In His service,
Mr. J

Posted by: Johann Nov 30 2006, 12:31 PM

> QUOTE(Brenda @ Nov 30 2006, 10:18 AM) ☐
>
> I have no problems with stating the issues explicitly. I just wondered whether the outcome should be presumed before the process is complete - whether or not the opinion is based on perusal of the evidence.

Would you prefer a diffuse opinion? All secret? No report - like some have suggsted?

Posted by: Brenda Nov 30 2006, 02:15 PM

> QUOTE(Johann @ Dec 1 2006, 05:31 AM) ☐
>
> Would you prefer a diffuse opinion? All secret? No report - like some have suggsted?

In a hypothetical situation, if I heard someone with knowledge expressing a strong opinion about the outcome of an investigation, I would have some queries about the impartiality of the process. If J Bloggs on the street with no inside knowledge states an opinion, clearly that is just it - his opinion.

I believe the aim in this investigation is to reveal facts and end -in so far as possible - the mudslinging and such behaviour, and to let 3ABN get on with its work, and to let Linda get on with her life.

My statement is just my opinion - but I would not like to see the credibility of the findings of this group/panel/tribunal reduced because there are purported reasons to doubt its impartiality. And if the findings are favourable to Linda and less than flattering to the other parties, there will not be any shortage of persons wanting to denigrate the integrity of the investigation.

That is how I read it - not trying to be alarmist, just realistic.

Posted by: inga Dec 1 2006, 07:13 AM

> QUOTE(Brenda @ Nov 30 2006, 03:15 PM)
>
> In a hypothetical situation, if I heard someone with knowledge expressing a strong opinion about the outcome of an investigation, I would have some queries about the impartiality of the process.

I believe you are not understanding this post:

Gailon Joy is not acting as an impartial party but as an advocate of reform and an advocate of Linda. He stated his opinion of the outcome of the investigation, based upon the evidence he has gathered. Note that the remarks you quote are in the introduction to the proposal, not the proposal itself.

> QUOTE
>
> I believe the aim in this investigation is to reveal facts and end -in so far as possible - the mudslinging and such behaviour, and to let 3ABN get on with its work, and to let Linda get on with her life.
>
> My statement is just my opinion - but I would not like to see the credibility of the findings of this group/panel/tribunal reduced because there are purported reasons to doubt its impartiality.

The proposal is intended to insure the impartiality of the investigation and full disclosure. Please read the proposal itself, noting that it is a separate document from the introductory remarks of Gailon Joy who is not now impartial, any more than Danny is. That neither Danny and his advocates nor Linda and her advocates are "impartial" has nothing to do with the impartiality of the investigation. If both Linda and Danny were "impartial," no investigation would be required.

Posted by: simplysaved Dec 1 2006, 08:42 AM

What you have posted is a contradiction to impartiality and fairness....Brenda has spoken well; in order for there to be fairness and impartiality one has to be open to hearing all of the facts without a bias--much the same as jury duty.

Gailon Joy can be a reporter and have a bias, but not IMO be a true objective investigator to the facts, based on what you have stated in your post.

> QUOTE(inga @ Dec 1 2006, 08:13 AM)
>
> I believe you are not understanding this post:
>
> Gailon Joy is not acting as an impartial party but as an advocate of reform and an advocate of Linda. He stated his opinion of the outcome of the investigation, based upon the evidence he has gathered. Note that the remarks you quote are in the introduction to the proposal, not the proposal itself.
> The proposal is intended to insure the impartiality of the investigation and full disclosure. Please read the proposal itself, noting that it is a separate document from the introductory remarks of Gailon Joy who is not now impartial, any more than Danny is. That neither Danny and his advocates nor Linda and her advocates are "impartial" has nothing to do with the impartiality of the investigation. If both Linda and Danny were "impartial," no investigation would be required.

Posted by: awesumtenor Dec 1 2006, 08:49 AM

> QUOTE(simplysaved @ Dec 1 2006, 09:42 AM)
>
> What you have posted is a contradiction to impartiality and fairness....Brenda has spoken well; in order for there to be fairness and impartiality one has to be open to hearing all of the facts without a bias--much the same as jury duty.
>
> Gailon Joy can be a reporter and have a bias, but not IMO be a true objective investigator to the facts, based on what you have stated in your post.

This from one who has consistently demonstrated being either unwilling or unable to look at any of this situation objectively.... to such an extent that you've advocated ignoring the allegations, even if true...where, exactly, was the impartiality and fairness in that?

In His service,
Mr. J

Posted by: awesumtenor Dec 1 2006, 09:03 AM

> QUOTE(Brenda @ Nov 30 2006, 03:15 PM)
>
> In a hypothetical situation, if I heard someone with knowledge expressing a strong opinion about the outcome of an investigation, I would have some queries about the impartiality of the process. If J Bloggs on the street with no inside knowledge states an opinion, clearly that is just it - his opinion.

You've obviously never listend to the opening arguments for a jury trial in America then... where both sides express strong opinions about the outcome of an investigation... that is, ultimately, what juries do... they examine and investigate the evidence presented before them and attempt to come up with a collective conclusion... would you say, then, that by both the plaintiff and the defense's stating for the record what they believe the evidence will show and what conclusion they believe the jury should come to based on the evidence that will be presented that the process is irrevocably made subjective?

If you have read the letters from Walt Thompson and the emails from Danny, both have stated unequivocally that if one knew what they knew, he would believe what they were saying... how is that any different that what Gailon Joy has stated? Have not both sides made the same claim... just as one would find in a jury trial?

In His service,
Mr. J

Posted by: Observer Dec 1 2006, 09:23 AM

My comments are not in response to one post, but to several that have been made:

1) GAJ began his search for truth believing that Linda was guilty, at least to some degree, and that Danny was Biblically correct in divorcing her. In his search for truth, he changed his mind. He now takes a different position. Because he has clearly taken a position, as have I, and others, it can be truthfully said that he (we) may not be objective, and may have a bias. I understand that position, and I do not debate it. But, in this mess that are a lot of people, on both sides, who are in the same situation. But, it should be remembered that if we are not objective, and if we do have a bias, we still may be on a search for truth, and we may very well be willing to follow in whatever direction that truth leads us.

NOTE: The dictionary does not define "bias" in a manner that says it is inflexable, and not subject to change.

2) I think sometimes we underestimate the effort that is required to bring the various sides to this mess to a common meeting where progress can be made in resolving the isseus. Here are some of what all involved parties must agree upon:

a) The issues to be considered.

The several parties have differing ideas as to what would be proper for any resolution panel to consider. On the simplist of illustrations: Should it be limited to marital issues, or expand beyond those? Actually this issue is much more complicated than I have mentioned here.

The aim.

Is the aim to establish facts, and issue recommendations, or is it to issue a binding decision as to how reconcillation may be accomplished? Part of this is a second question as to whether or not the parties should be allowed to take their issues to other bodies to include civil authorities. This issue is critical, and one aspect of it is whether or not there are issues that need resolution that can be resolved by this process. Actually there are parties on several sides of this mess who believe that some issues can only be resolved by civil autlhorites.

c) The process.

In simplicy, this is simply the question as to how any body would conduct its business as it fulfills its aim, whatever that may be.

NOTE: I believe that there are honest and sincre people on all sides of this mess. I believe that I cannot automaticly assume that one who objects to something in this discussion is simply attempting to obstruct the process. The above three questions are critical, and honest people may differ on the answers to those questions. It issue simply is: Can a process be crafted in which all parties can agree?

The discussions as to how to impliment a process to resolve issues must go on in private, and cannot become a public discussion. I do not intend to get into such. I am only speaking here in generalities in an attempt to help you to see that it is exceedingly complex. In my personal relitationship to the process (I am involved.) I have gone through the following stages:

1) I have beleived that an agreement could be reached by which some benefit could be gained. However, I did not believe that everyghing could be resolved. I have questioned as to whether or not agreement could be obtained by all involved parties.

2) I have been cynical in regard to anything being accomplished.

3) I have been encouraged to see people, on all sides of the issues, continue to work very hard to come up with some kind of an agreement that would be of some benefit. As a result, I have not given up hope that good may be accomplished, and I wait to see how it developes.

Folks, people are working very hard with people who differ with them to come into an agreement.

Posted by: Brenda Dec 1 2006, 12:40 PM

OK, each has a different take on this. And I have not listened to the opening addresses in American trials - or Australian for that matter, I was just writing from my perception. If these posts represent the way the majority reads this issue, so be it.

The important thing is for an investigation seen as fair and impartial to proceed.

(And where is that little guy retiring behind the couch with his blankey, when I need him?)

Posted by: simplysaved Dec 1 2006, 01:02 PM

Agreed.

☒ sofa1.gif

> QUOTE(Brenda @ Dec 1 2006, 01:40 PM)
>
> OK, each has a different take on this. And I have not listened to the opening addresses in American trials - or Australian for that matter, I was just writing from my perception. If these posts represent the way the majority reads this issue, so be it.
>
> The important thing is for an investigation seen as fair and impartial to proceed.
> (And where is that little guy retiring behind the couch with his blankey, when I need him?)

Printable Version of Topic

140

Click here to view this topic in its original format

BlackSDA _ 3ABN _ The Latest On 3abn

Posted by: claborn Jul 29 2004, 03:05 PM

I CANNOT vouch for the letter other than it was posted on another forum (you all have the address cause I posted it...), and I wanted to share it here..... eyeopening......

posted July 29, 2004 09:33 Message What happened at 3ABN?

THE STORY OF LINDA SHELTON

By Johann Thorvaldsson

Former 3ABN liaison for Europe It is a fact that Linda Shelton has been fired - and Danny Shelton has told his version of events to the World audience. He warned us not to listen to rumors, so what are the facts of this heart-breaking experience? Unfortunately Linda Shelton has been judged and dismissed from the establishment she loved and helped build up - on the basis of rumors. Facts that have been twisted, embroidered and presented as real. This is quite a complicated matter. A few weeks ago I was in Southern Illinois, wanting to attend the camp meeting at 3ABN, together with a Norwegian medical doctor - the one Linda has been accused of committing spiritual adultery with. We went there in an attempt to clear up misunderstandings, all caused because my wife and I introduced this doctor to Danny and Linda Shelton. This doctor is also the head elder of the most flourishing conservative SDA church in Norway - and has for several years been a financial supporter of 3ABN. Some of the problems were caused because the 3ABN archives had misspelled the name of this supporter, so Danny was convinced he was an impostor. Later Danny has named him a devil, a demon, or evil spirit, or bad counselor - like he did during the transmission to the whole world on Thursday evening at Camp Meeting. Also during that meeting we were requested to leave the premises of 3ABN, and if we ever showed up again at the meetings the police would be requested to remove us as trespassing private property - and this at meetings where all are invited.

What is our crime? While my wife, Irmgard, and I were staying at 3ABN in December 2003, this doctor came to visit us, both to check Irmgard's illness and to see the studios of the ministry he was supporting and was a great fan of. Linda came to see us, and later she brought her son along, who had problems with drugs and related things. Nathan had been reluctant to see any other doctor, but a lasting friendship between the doctor and this young man was kindled. Many of his patients are young athletes, so he is used todealing with young people. The doctor invited Nathan to come and stay in Norway and receive treatments at his clinic for a month. Nathan brought his girlfriend along, and later Linda and Brenda Walsh spent 3 days there to check on things - and I had a visit with them too while they were there. At that time Nathan had merely been there for 10 days, and I did not recognize him when I saw him. He was a completely transformed person.

So after Linda returned to the States she'd call to find out how it was going with her son. Danny told me himself that he considered that if a married woman talks for more than 10 or 12 minutes with another man on the phone she'd be committing spiritual adultery - so these phone calls first branded Linda as an adulteress. And from there the ball has kept rolling with more and more accusations. Mark Finlay was willing to assist in coming to an understanding, but his offer was unacceptable to the 3ABN lawyer. Both the lawyer and the pastor urged me to stay out of this case and not support Linda. They claimed I'd soon be left out in the cold with no friends at all if I'd continue supporting Linda in her plight.

Can you imagine our Lord Jesus Christ telling me not to come to the aid of this frail woman because I'd be left out in the cold without friends?
I have never heard such a statement before coming from people who are supposed to be the spiritual leaders of this great ministry. Is it any wonder that the support of 3ABN is dwindling?

With such men at the helm who make it their business and main concern to condemn Linda, is it any wonder that Linda seeks the support of her close friends - and also calls the doctor who was so kind to her son?
Of course it might have avoided some misunderstandings and confusions if that doctor had been a woman. But what does the Apostle tell us? "There is neither Jew nor Greek, there is neither bond nor free, there is neither male nor female: for ye are all one in Christ Jesus." Those two people have been branded before the whole world as adulterers, and you name it. I never dreamt such atrocities could take place at my favorite ministry, 3ABN

Now the woes of Linda Shelton are not hers alone any more. I was fired too, because I supported Linda. Officially it was because I refused to obey orders from my superiors at 3ABN. But I am fortunate that I get my sustentation from the church where I started my ministry more than 50 years ago. Even though I love the ministry of 3ABN, I serve the God of heaven and the God of Truth. Derrell Mundall, the father of Danny Shelton's grandchildren, who has served 3ABN faithfully for many years, has also been fired. What is his crime? He was too close and he knows the truth, and shared his knowledge with others. He supports Linda. He had no other employment when he was dismissed from 3ABN, so pray that he may soon find another fruitful ministry where he can use his talents. He chose truth instead of a steady employment, as so many other believers have done in the past.
Before Derrell was fired he was told that he must remember it was Danny who received the vision from God to build this TV station. Therefore, he was told, he must regard the words of Danny Shelton as being the words of God. Long before Linda's dismissal, Dr. Kay Kuzma was assigned to help Linda manage after being fired. She was also supposed to interview staff members to find a good reason to fire her, so one wonders what really is behind this upheaval?

Danny mentioned a number of counselors who had helped the board come to the conclusion that she should be dismissed. You can ask Linda, but I don't think she ever talked to most of those counselors. In fact even before her dismissal she felt treated like a criminal when she approached the premises of 3ABN and was not permitted to enter without close supervision. The present general staff at 3ABN is probably not permitted to ask Linda any question. If anyone wants a contact to keep up their close friendship with Linda they have to write their note on a postcard, submit it to the leaders who will forward it to Linda. Such are the present premises of this woman whose ministry has meant so much to thousands of viewers, and who will not see her any more on the screen - as long as the present leadership has it their way.

Pray for 3ABN. Pray for justice. Pray for justice also for Linda.
Miracles still take place.
Christian regards

Posted by: dmizzle06 Jul 29 2004, 03:08 PM

Hmmm....

Posted by: claborn Jul 29 2004, 03:12 PM

I think it's deep myself..... I suspect there will be more....

Posted by: claborn Jul 29 2004, 03:27 PM

Here is what someone wrote after they read the letter.....

"So sad! So very, very sad! Satan is indeed very busy and every day we are feeling the effect of his lashes as he works so wickedly. Let us keep covered under the blood!

Thank you Cyberman for that information. It shows much light on many things! Now I better understand why Danny Shelton said on the opening night of Camp Meeting on the 27th May " They are here but she is not here" when I viewed 3ABN after a very rough day, only to bounce on the woes of 3ABN themselves.

Lord have mercy on us! "

Posted by: princessdi Jul 29 2004, 03:37 PM

WOW!!!!!! This is a mess!!!!

Posted by: princessdi Jul 29 2004, 03:41 PM

QUOTE (claborn1960 @ Jul 29 2004, 01:27 PM)

> Here is what someone wrote after they read the letter.....
>
> "So sad! So very, very sad! Satan is indeed very busy and every day we are feeling the effect of his lashes as he works so wickedly. Let us keep covered under the blood!
>
> Thank you Cyberman for that information. It shows much light on many things! Now I better understand why Danny Shelton said on the opening night of Camp Meeting on the 27th May " They are here but she is not here" when I viewed 3ABN after a very rough day, only to bounce on the woes of 3ABN themselves.

> Lord have mercy on us! "

So what was that mess he posted here about us being a tabloid whatever? I said before and I say it again. 3ABN and Danny Shelton's actions casued this mess. I really believe he posted that mess to us because he thought we didn't know any better.

Danny since you lurk, I am asking what do you have to say for yourself?

Posted by: zaklynn Jul 29 2004, 03:43 PM

QUOTE (princessdi @ Jul 29 2004, 03:37 PM)

> WOW!!!!!! This is a mess!!!!

That's exactly what I was just thinking. The situation seems so out of control.

Posted by: pmorris68 Jul 29 2004, 04:17 PM

WOW!!! Is all I got to say. I imagine this will NOT be the last of this story. But there are 3 sides to every story HIS, HERS and the TRUTH!!

Posted by: tarduke Jul 29 2004, 04:23 PM

I must admit I have a prurient curiosity to know the juicy tidbits, brought on by the many oblique remarks and zig zag refrences by Danny, John Lomacang and others on 3ABN. But I know dragging the details of a private agonising experience for two and more) of God's children profits no one. There is a public side to this--accountability in ministry-- that needs airing, but the details and allegations of personal sin are not our business and should be left alone.

However I wonder what is meant by "spiritual adultery" in the above letter?

On closer reading of this letter I conclude that it is mean-spirited and not done from Christian motives. One statement in there is just too outrageous to have any basis for truth. The writer says that Danny told his son in law that Danny's words must be considered as God's word because Danny had the founding vision for the ministry.

I just cannot believe Danny or anyone would say such a thing. That and the general tone of the letter lowers brother J in my estimation.

Posted by: statrei Jul 29 2004, 04:44 PM

It is not that far-fetched for one who believes he received a revelation from God to build a ministry to also believe that God gives the guidance necessary to maintain selfsame ministry. If God gives the guidance then human rendering of that guidance will naturally be considered to be the voice of God. It is essentially the same reasoning on which our church insists that the General Conference in session is the voice of God. Toronto put the lie to that when the institution of marriage was almost destroyed when we adopted a resolution allowing divorce from "an unbelieving spouse" but the belief remains all the same.

Posted by: claborn Jul 29 2004, 04:45 PM

I do not or cannot ascertain the motives of the person who may have authored the letter, but let me say that very few people I know can sit quietly while their names are being besmirched... If he is being linked unfairly, and Mr. Shelton is using 3ABN and other places he is able to speak as the medium to spread his version of the truth, what can the others who are involved do? Who hears their side or does it matter?

Posted by: princessdi Jul 29 2004, 05:02 PM

QUOTE (tarduke @ Jul 29 2004, 02:23 PM)

> I must admit I have a prurient curiosity to know the juicy tidbits, brought on by the many oblique remarks and zig zag refrences by Danny, John Lomacang and others on 3ABN. But I know dragging the details of a private agonising experience for two and more) of God's children profits no one. There is a public side to this--accountability in ministry-- that needs airing, but the details and allegations of personal sin are not our business and should be left alone.
>
> However I wonder what is meant by "spiritual adultery" in the above letter?
> ---
>
> On closer reading of this letter I conclude that it is mean-spirited and not done from Christian motives. One statement in there is just too outrageous to have any basis for truth. The writer says that Danny told his son in law that Danny's words must be considered as God's word because Danny had the founding vision for the ministry.
>
> I just cannot believe Danny or anyone would say such a thing. That and the general tone of the letter lowers brother J in my estimation.

Tarduke, If you go back and read the posts on this subject, you may get a fuller understanding as to why this man is so irritated.

Posted by: claborn Jul 29 2004, 05:09 PM

Tarduke,
Go and read what Mr. Shelton wrote to this group.... and most of the comments here were neutral and nonjudgemental.....

Posted by: tarduke Jul 29 2004, 05:28 PM

QUOTE (princessdi @ Jul 29 2004, 05:02 PM)

> Tarduke, If you go back and read the posts on this subject, you may get a fuller understanding as to why this man is so irritated.

Yes in his letter he does not claim that Danny is besmirching his name. he addresses intra-3abn management issues that we have no way of judging one way or another.

In the supposed Danny letter to this forum, nowhere does the author mention Brother J.

This sounds like sour grapes. Danny fires me for whatever reason, I must try to bring him down even while protesting that i love the 3abn ministry. Notice this has nothingt to do with the merits of the disagreement between Brother J and Danny. danny may well be in the wrong but that is another matter that cannot be settled in this forum.

3ABN is a valuable ministry to the church and the world. We should not allow personal grievances to derail this ministry.

Pray for Danny and Linda and the others and the 3ABN ministry and leave the rest to God.

Posted by: princessdi Jul 29 2004, 05:40 PM

QUOTE (tarduke @ Jul 29 2004, 03:28 PM)

> Yes in his letter he does not claim that Danny is besmirching his name. he addresses intra-3abn management issues that we have no way of judging one way or another.
>
> In the supposed Danny letter to this forum, nowhere does the author mention Brother J.
>
> This sounds like sour grapes. Danny fires me for whatever reason, I must try to bring him down even while protesting that i love the 3abn ministry. Notice this has nothingt to do with the merits of the disagreement between Brother J and Danny. danny may well be in the wrong but that is another matter that cannot be settled in this forum.
>
> 3ABN is a valuable ministry to the church and the world. We should not allow personal grievances to derail this ministry.
>
> Pray for Danny and Linda and the others and the 3ABN ministry and leave the rest to God.

What you don't realize is that Danny has been all over the place as late as last Sabbath making vague remarks about the situation. If you have not already done so, go back and read posts from "This should not be news - Continuation, Letter From Danny Shelton to BlackSDA". Especially the ones from this week. You can't comprehend what we are saying without reading the posts.

Posted by: princessdi Jul 29 2004, 05:41 PM

Also, we have been praying the Danny and Linda all along, and said so in our posts.

Posted by: claborn Jul 29 2004, 05:45 PM

I don't know the particulars... my point is that something happened between Danny and Linda. Danny seems to have gone on the offensive and portrayed himself as the righteous victim.... now there is another side to the story, Linda's.... she was fired, shunned and silenced.... she created a website perhaps to tell her side.... there is something wrong with the picture.

Yes we can leave it up to God and the Sheltons, except Danny seems to use every opportunity he has to take swipes at his wife, making it public.... that's my take.... Now as for the letter, it may be a disgruntled fired employee, HOWEVER if he is telling the truth why discount it. As the saying goes, "just because I am paranoid doesn't mean people aren't out to get me..."

Posted by: claborn Jul 29 2004, 05:48 PM

Here is Linda's letter from her website.....

www.lindashelton.org

A LETTER FROM LINDA:

Hello my friends,

May God's richest blessings be yours today! I have missed the times I have had sharing with you, sitting on the front porch with Fluffy and Sheltie. (They send their greetings!) But some very unfortunate events have occurred. Many of you are asking "what happened??" In a nutshell, God's Word says it best. "I hold not Your peace, O God of my praise; for the mouth of the wicked and the mouth of the deceitful are opened against me; they have spoken against me with a lying tongue; they compassed me about also with words of hatred; and fought against me without a cause. For my love they are my adversaries; but I give myself unto prayer. And they have rewarded me evil for good and hatred for my love." (Psalm 109:1-5) This has been undoubtedly the most trying experience of my lifetime. Yet I want you to know that for three difficult months I stayed, I prayed and I fought this spiritual battle. I wanted to have the assurance that when the time came to lay down the sword, that I had given it my best. This does not mean I made perfect decisions in every circumstance of this crisis. But it does mean that by His grace, I did the best that I could. This is something I cherish right now, and it gives me peace. For whatever reason, God has allowed this. I don't question Him, I thank Him. He's still holding the steering wheel of my ship, so wherever we go, we go together. He has led me into the wilderness, I've faced the "terrors of the night," but right now He is my peace, my safety net and my Friend. And as always, He is teaching me lessons that are "out of this world!"

Let me be frank and honest with you concerning the rumors. Have I been unfaithful to my husband of 19 years? Absolutely not. Did I do something immoral? No way!! Weren't there many, many people that I counseled with concerning this problem? The only formal counsel I ever received during this entire episode was that of my local pastor, a husband and wife team of counselors and the Chairman of the 3ABN Board. That's all. But the problem was bigger than the counsel could relieve. But... "All my bones will say, "Lord, who is like You, Who delivers the afflicted from him who is too strong for him, and the afflicted and the needy from him who robs him?" (Psalm 35:10)

I truly believe that sometimes we get to be like greenhouse Christians. Our environment is controlled, our needs are provided and our future is secure ... perhaps too secure. Then our loving heavenly Father shakes things up a bit to help us realize once again what it feels like to be vulnerable, desperate and even ... condemned. He helps us to feel exactly like those we are trying to reach for Him. And oh, what a valuable lesson it is. So although things have been shaken up a bit at 3ABN, let's pray for God's ordained ministry, let's support it and let's learn the lessons God wants us to learn right now. We need to remember that "the enemy is the enemy," not each other.

When I first saw the rumblings of these rumors taking off like a rocket, I was devastated. I could almost literally see the foundations of my 19 year ministry crumbling to the ground. I wanted to work for Jesus but it seemed as if this tidal wave of rumors had finished me. So I considered other options like going back to school (yuck) and even starting my own business. But the Lord has clearly shown me that He's not finished with me yet. He has a plan. So right now I am in my "listening mode" waiting on the Lord's instructions. I'd like to THANK you so much for the warm blanket of prayer that surrounds me now, and that has surrounded me throughout this crisis. Your prayers make all the difference in the world. THANK YOU!! Stay tuned to my website for updates, and thank you also for your support of my "sprouting" new ministry through the CD's, cassettes and songbooks. May God bless you abundantly more than you can ever ask or think!

His love & mine,

Linda Shelton

Posted by: claborn Jul 29 2004, 05:51 PM

My point for posting Linda's letter is to show that there were/are rumors about her committing adultery. In her letter she states that she has not been unfaithful to her husband, now why would she say that? That accusation came from somewhere? Where? and why?

Posted by: tarduke Jul 29 2004, 05:59 PM

QUOTE (princessdi @ Jul 29 2004, 05:40 PM)

> What you don't realize is that Danny has been all over the place as late as last Sabbath making vague remarks about the situation. If you have not already done so, go back and read posts from "This should not be news - Continuation, Letter From Danny Shelton to BlackSDA". Especially the ones from this week. You can't comprehend what we are saying without reading the posts.

I saw most of the program with Danny last Sabbath (if you mean the Patmos broadcast). Danny did speak of Linda normally and fondly, although he made "vague remarks" about 3ABN's problems, as you said, he did not attack any individual.

Now I am getting the impression that because Danny supposedly wrote a not- so-friendly letter to BlackSDA forum, with all the baggage that the racial differences bring to play, some here tend to see the entire 3ABN issue through a Danny versus Us lens.

My beef is with those like the author of the letter, Bro J, who are trying to hurt Danny by exposing Dannya nd all the details of 3ABN inner dealings. That cannot be right. This is sour grapes.

Posted by: claborn Jul 29 2004, 06:06 PM

QUOTE (tarduke @ Jul 29 2004, 06:59 PM)

> I saw most of the program with Danny last Sabbath (if you mean the Patmos broadcast). Danny did speak of Linda normally and fondly, although he made "vague remarks" about 3ABN's problems, as you said, he did not attack any individual.
>
> Now I am getting the impression that because Danny supposedly wrote a not- so-friendly letter to BlackSDA forum, with all the baggage that the racial differences bring to play, some here tend to see the entire 3ABN issue through a Danny versus Us lens.
>
> My beef is with those like the author of the letter, Bro J, who are trying to hurt Danny by exposing Dannya nd all the details of 3ABN inner dealings. That cannot be right. This is sour grapes.

No Trevor that is not the case at all... Danny opted to write here, when there is another sda forum that engaged in bashing, gossip and judging motives. Sour grapes for whom? None of us have a dog in this fight, however there is a sense of unfairness as I see it when Danny can use his medium to tell his side of the story without being challenged... If he wanted it private, then he should not have said anything, he should have not had Linda fired until there was a resolution be it reconciliation or divorce.... that's what I think is unfair....

Posted by: tarduke Jul 30 2004, 06:43 AM

QUOTE (claborn1960 @ Jul 29 2004, 06:06 PM)

> If he [Danny] wanted it private, then he should not have said anything, he should have not had Linda fired until there was a resolution be it reconciliation or divorce.... that's what I think is unfair....

I agree there is apparent unfairness on many sides, including Danny's.
What I don't understand is why others are making more claims against Danny than Linda herself is willing to make.

I read Linda's website soon after it came online . She is teasingly but appropriately oblique about the substance of her fallout with 3ABN. Yet others are running with all the details as if they have a personal axe to grind, which it appears they do.

Now again I don't see this as Danny versus anyone in this great forum. I am referring to the messengers and peddlers of rumors, writing letters all over the place. God can repair the breach, but by putting out more garbage out there, it might make it so much more difficult for biblical reconciliation to take place among the various parties.

Having said this, I also do believe that the subject of 3ABN, its issues and its principals are appropriate for public discussion, especially on the question of accountability in ministry.

Posted by: claborn Jul 30 2004, 12:22 PM

Trevor wrote, "Having said this, I also do believe that the subject of 3ABN, its issues and its principals are appropriate for public discussion, especially on the question of accountability in ministry."

And that my friend Trevor is what we have been doing... any snippet of info that comes to light though has to be evaluated on it's merits as well as how it fits into the big picture.... Again, I believe it is unfair that one party gets to use a public medium to broadcast their position and the other party cannot..... just my opinion.....

Posted by: awesumtenor Jul 30 2004, 01:06 PM

QUOTE (tarduke @ Jul 29 2004, 07:59 PM)

> My beef is with those like the author of the letter, Bro J, who are trying to hurt Danny by exposing Dannya nd all the details of 3ABN inner dealings. That cannot be right. This is sour grapes.

I know the brother in question; I have worked with him closely as a co-moderator of another forum and I have discussed numerous things at length with him. To do something spitefully and capriciously as you suggest is not consistent with the the man I know.

Even before his letter was posted this entire situation smelled to me of 'spin' from the 3ABN side and of insecurity, pride and ego from Bro. Shelton. As more and more reports come out, the reports only reinforce that idea. The preemptive strike to smear Linda's character, actions and motives was not in the least Godly and it is disingenuous for he and the 3ABN management to try to paint this as a spiritual issue on the one hand and try to defeat it using carnal weapons on the other... surely they are aware that the weapons of our warfare are not carnal... God doesn't work out of the world's toolbox.

If Bro. Shelton has the truth on his side, he should not be so concerned with silencing dissenting voices... and if he does not have truth on his side, then even if he is able to silence everyone who knows the truth, the rocks themselves would cry out.

In His service,
Kevin Josey

Posted by: awesumtenor Jul 30 2004, 01:12 PM

QUOTE (tarduke @ Jul 30 2004, 08:43 AM)

> What I don't understand is why others are making more claims against Danny than Linda herself is willing to make.

Psa 109:1 Hold not thy peace, O God of my praise; 2 For the mouth of the wicked and the mouth of the deceitful are opened against me: they have spoken against me with a lying tongue. 3 They compassed me about also with words of hatred; and fought against me without a cause. 4 For my love they are my adversaries: but I [give myself unto] prayer. 5 And they have rewarded me evil for good, and hatred for my love.

What more need she say than this? The multitude of words is coming from 3ABN; it would be a good place to start to determine what they are trying to conceal by them.

In His service,
Kevin Josey

Posted by: friends Aug 26 2004, 10:07 PM

I know Linda as a personal friend. She has been devastated by this mess, but she realizes that the devil is responsible. She also realizes that the devil is using this circumstance to try to bring 3ABN to the ground, a ministry which she labored in for 19 years. Although she did not participate in all the "counsel" that is mentioned by others, and she is not guilty of committing "spiritual adultery," she IS WILLING to be "burned at the stake" for 3ABN, a ministry she loves with all of her heart. That's why you will never hear the story behind the "story" of what really happened to her at 3ABN. In my opinion, the woman is a saint. Her biggest heartache right now is that she fears many are completely and totally devastated by what "they think" she did. She wants everyone to know she is still full of faith and holding on with both hands to the hand of Jesus.

Posted by: claborn Aug 27 2004, 05:59 AM

Be sure to convey to Linda that not everyone believes the hype..... she has friends here at BSDA and she (as well as the others in this fiasco) have been in our prayers.....

Posted by: tarduke Aug 27 2004, 06:24 AM

QUOTE (friends @ Aug 26 2004, 10:07 PM)

> I know Linda as a personal friend. She has been devastated by this mess, but she realizes that the devil is responsible. She also realizes that the devil is using this circumstance to try to bring 3ABN to the ground, a ministry which she labored in for 19 years. ...she IS WILLING to be "burned at the stake" for 3ABN, a ministry she loves with all of her heart.

Friends, welcome and thank you for that post.

As I observed in previous discussions on this subject, Linda may well be the innocent party in this mess. She certainly is a sympathetic character and I enjoyed her ministry and miss her tremendously.

What disturbs me is the kind of pious language used to describe Linda and the halo with which she and others (like your post) dress her. "Willing to be 'burned at the stake'"? Isn't that really taking things too far? The woman is collecting a fat check every month in severance/hush money.

Remember if you overstate your case, reasonable people might start to think your case might have more holes in it than it really has. Simple facts and the truth will vindicate Linda if she is the saint you say she is. Stretching it only makes her look bad.

Posted by: statrei Aug 27 2004, 06:37 AM

QUOTE (tarduke @ Aug 27 2004, 07:24 AM)

> What disturbs me is the kind of pious language used to describe Linda and the halo with which she and others (like your post) dress her. "Willing to be 'burned at the stake'"? Isn't that really taking things too far? The woman is collecting a fat check every month in severance/hush money.
>
> Remember if you overstate your case, reasonable people might start to think your case might have more holes in it than it really has. Simple facts and the truth will vindicate Linda if she is the saint you say she is. Stretching it only makes her look bad.

Now you have me totally confused. You characterize her as a woman collecting a fat check in severance/hush money, then appear to be appalled by pious language used to describe her though you agree that she has not been the source of this language. This is hardly an objective journalistic approach.

Posted by: tarduke Aug 27 2004, 07:24 AM

> QUOTE (statrei @ Aug 27 2004, 06:37 AM)
>
> Now you have me totally confused. You characterize her as a woman collecting a fat check in severance/hush money, then appear to be appalled by pious language used to describe her though you agree that she has not been the source of this language. This is hardly an objective journalistic approach.

Lol. The difference is that since I don't have a case to make, ie I am not an advocate foir either side, my little bit of hyperbole (grounded in fact, by the way) doesn't overstate anything of consequence.

By the way I did indicate that Linda's own language was part of the overkill.

Posted by: Jvat Aug 27 2004, 08:33 AM

Interesting twist, guys and worthy counsel, Tarduke.

Posted by: Clay Apr 30 2006, 07:37 PM

bum thought I would bring this one back to the top as it gave us some initial info..... and confirms some of what sister has said.... i.e. what Mr. Shelton believes re God telling him things... etc....

Posted by: Johann May 1 2006, 09:19 AM

> QUOTE(Clay @ May 1 2006, 03:37 AM)
>
> bum thought I would bring this one back to the top as it gave us some initial info..... and confirms some of what sister has said.... i.e. what Mr. Shelton believes re God telling him things... etc....

Welcome back!

Posted by: beartrap May 1 2006, 09:25 AM

And a big welcome to you, Johann!

Posted by: awesumtenor May 1 2006, 01:56 PM

> QUOTE(Clay @ Apr 30 2006, 08:37 PM)
>
> bum thought I would bring this one back to the top as it gave us some initial info..... and confirms some of what sister has said.... i.e. what Mr. Shelton believes re God telling him things... etc....

More info for inquiring minds... This article ran in the February 2006 issue of AToday and speaks on financial irregularities discovered at 3ABN during their recent tax case against the state of Illinois... thanks goes to Fran for getting it into .pdf format for upload.

Just click the link and your browser should load it; most browsers should be able to load and display the file but you may need to install Adobe Acrobat Reader which you can do http://www.adobe.com/products/acrobat/readstep2.html

AToday__3ABN_Financial_Irregularities.pdf (418.62k) Number of downloads: 71

In His service,
Mr. J

Posted by: beartrap May 1 2006, 05:48 PM

Danny has often said, "I don't answer to anyone."

Posted by: PrincessDrRe May 2 2006, 09:31 PM

> QUOTE(Clay @ May 1 2006, 07:06 PM)
>
> ...It is unfortunate that some people will not be convinced even with this evidence...

My LERD.

Jesus is comin.... and he ain't amused no....

Have folks forgot this?

Posted by: Zephyr May 3 2006, 05:10 PM

In case you want to contact 3ABN or Danny L Shelton:

Three Angels Broadcasting Network
P.O. Box 220
West Frankfort, IL 62896
USA

Phone: 618-627-4651

Fax: 618-627-2726

Office Hours
8:00 a.m. - 5:30 p.m. Central Time, Monday-Thursday
8:00 a.m. - 12:00 p.m. Central Time, Friday

To contact Danny himself:
Danny L. Shelton:
3391 CHARLIE GOOD RD POB 220, West frankfort, Il 62896-0000.

Posted by: Clay May 5 2006, 10:35 AM

Thanks for that info..... some who need to might already know how to reach him.... for me, there is no need.... why would I seek to communicate with someone with whom I know manipulates "the truth?"

Let him stay in his little corner of the world, and hope that he can learn something from the fallout from this ever growing mess..... somehow I don't think so.....

Posted by: LadyTenor May 6 2006, 11:00 PM

THESE 3ABN THREADS ARE TIRED....AND ALL THE THREADS SAY ESSENTIALLY THE SAME THING...I REFER ALL OF YOU TO CLAY'S "http://www.blacksda.com/forums/index.php?showtopic=9148"....

Posted by: awesumtenor May 6 2006, 11:06 PM

> QUOTE(LadyTenor @ May 7 2006, 12:00 AM)
>
> THESE 3ABN THREADS ARE TIRED....AND ALL THE THREADS SAY ESSENTIALLY THE SAME THING...I REFER ALL OF YOU TO CLAY'S "SUMMARY"....

No one is holding a gun to your head to make you read them... by the standard you've made here... how many frivolous and insignificant threads have there been that have been equally 'tired'? Too many to count... and all of which say essentially the same thing... namely... nothing... When the 3ABN threads have been exhausted, they will die like all threads eventually do... but the topic continues to have legs... even if some are sick of it...

In His service,
Mr. J

Posted by: Panama_Pete May 7 2006, 12:01 AM

> QUOTE(LadyTenor @ May 6 2006, 11:00 PM)
>
> THESE 3ABN THREADS ARE TIRED....AND ALL THE THREADS SAY ESSENTIALLY THE SAME THING...I REFER ALL OF YOU TO CLAY'S "http://www.blacksda.com/forums/index.php?showtopic=9148"....

WE REPEAT OURSELVES BECAUSE WE NEED READING GLASSES, OBVIOUSLY rofl

---

Posted by: Nuggie May 7 2006, 09:24 AM

> QUOTE(LadyTenor @ May 6 2006, 11:00 PM)
>
> THESE 3ABN THREADS ARE TIRED....AND ALL THE THREADS SAY ESSENTIALLY THE SAME THING...I REFER ALL OF YOU TO CLAY'S "http://www.blacksda.com/forums/index.php?showtopic=9148"....

Are you just a little bit tired of all the 3ABN discussion, LT?

Posted by: Johann May 16 2006, 02:01 PM

> QUOTE(Nuggie @ May 7 2006, 05:24 PM)
>
> Are you just a little bit tired of all the 3ABN discussion, LT?

Time to fall asleep?

Posted by: Zephyr May 16 2006, 02:26 PM

It's called...hypocrisy....and..possibly...addiction...

Posted by: watchbird May 16 2006, 02:38 PM

> QUOTE(Johann @ May 16 2006, 02:01 PM)
>
> Time to fall asleep?

Or is it just an intermission. A "seventh-inning stretch" maybe?

> QUOTE(Zephyr @ May 16 2006, 02:26 PM)
>
> It's called...hypocrisy....and..possibly...addiction...

Hmmm....... I'm trying. But I'm not "getting it". What is "it"?
The sleep.
The tired of the topic.
The topic itself.
The wanting more news on the topic?
All of the above?
Other?

Posted by: 4reneyonly May 16 2006, 04:38 PM

> QUOTE(LadyTenor @ May 6 2006, 09:00 PM)
>
> THESE 3ABN THREADS ARE TIRED....AND ALL THE THREADS SAY ESSENTIALLY THE SAME THING...I REFER ALL OF YOU TO CLAY'S

> "http://www.blacksda.com/forums/index.php?showtopic=9148"....

So..Manybe you ought to go back to smacking the penquin

Posted by: Panama_Pete May 16 2006, 05:42 PM

> QUOTE(4reneyonly @ May 16 2006, 05:38 PM)
>
> So..Maybe you ought to go back to smacking the penquin

I see a smacker in the background - center right. Smacker has a pleasant smile. What's Smacker's shoe size?

Posted by: Johann May 17 2006, 08:41 PM

> QUOTE(Clay @ May 5 2006, 05:35 PM)
>
> Thanks for that info..... some who need to might already know how to reach him.... for me, there is no need.... why would I seek to communicate with someone with whom I know manipulates "the truth?"
>
> Let him stay in his little corner of the world, and hope that he can learn something from the fallout from this ever growing mess..... somehow I don't think so.....

Perhaps you need to find out for yourself what he tells you? Why not try?

<danshelton@earthlink.net>

You could give him some admonition, and give him the opportunty of giving you his?

Posted by: Clay May 17 2006, 08:44 PM

> QUOTE(Johann @ May 17 2006, 08:41 PM) ☐
>
> Perhaps you need to find out for yourself what he tells you? Why not try?
>
> <danshelton@earthlink.net>
>
> You might get his version

as I said.... there is no need for me to enter into a dialog with a person who fabricated the concept of "spiritual adultery" and then used that to divorce his wife.... I think I'll pass.....

Posted by: beartrap May 17 2006, 09:17 PM

> QUOTE(Clay @ May 17 2006, 08:44 PM) ☐
>
> as I said.... there is no need for me to enter into a dialog with a person who fabricated the concept of "spiritual adultery" and then used that to divorce his wife.... I think I'll pass.....

Thats right. No need for dialog. However, having your say in monologue format won't hurt.

Posted by: Clay May 18 2006, 10:39 AM closed for the moment.....

Posted by: Johann Jun 12 2006, 11:02 AM

> QUOTE(Panama_Pete @ May 17 2006, 01:42 AM) ☐

I see a smacker in the background - center right. Smacker has a pleasant smile. What's Smacker's shoe size?

Posted by: Clay Jul 8 2006, 01:11 PM

QUOTE(Panama_Pete @ May 16 2006, 06:42 PM) ☐

I see a smacker in the background - center right. Smacker has a pleasant smile. What's Smacker's shoe size?

you are sooo wrong...... rofl

Posted by: Johann Nov 29 2006, 10:51 PM

> QUOTE(Panama_Pete @ May 17 2006, 01:42 AM) ☐
>
>
>
>
> I see a smacker in the background - center right. Smacker has a pleasant smile. What's Smacker's shoe size?
>
> ☐

Are we home for Christmas? What will Christmas be for some this year?

141

Printable Version of Topic

Click here to view this topic in its original format

BlackSDA _ 3ABN _ We Should Start A B.a.n.

Posted by: TrulyBlessedOne Apr 20 2006, 10:19 AM

With all the talk about 3ABN lately. I think that we need to stop complaining and come together to offer an alternative. Given the fact that there are a number of black churches with television ministries and a number of Black SDA artists on the rise, I believe that it could be done with the proper planning and support. It could cater to the Black experience, while presenting the unique SDA message.

Plus, if set-up properly and not done in the spirit of exclusiveness, we could get the support of many non-Adventists who enjoy our ministries. If properly pitched, it could be carried on Sky Angel and reach a massive audience. Once the audience grows, it could be pitched to cable systems in areas like Huntsville who have high concentrations of BSDA's.

I am seriously thinking about this thing. Who is with me?

Pastor J

Posted by: calvin Apr 20 2006, 11:44 AM

Got any money?

Posted by: awesumtenor Apr 20 2006, 11:55 AM

> QUOTE(calvin @ Apr 20 2006, 01:44 PM) ☐
>
> Got any money?

There, my brother, is where the rubber meets the road, as J. Vernon McGee would say...

In His service,
Mr. J

Posted by: beartrap Apr 20 2006, 12:24 PM

The cost could be less than one might think. As Pastor J said, there are many black churches already producing their services, I believe Oakwood has some production facilities, and with the programs from outside the church, an initial investment in studios is probably not neccessary. Servers for master control, personell, satellite fees, and teleport usage (until a proprietary uplink could be established) should constitute the major startup expenses. (Of course this is all theoretical. There are always complications and surprises.)

Posted by: Clay Apr 20 2006, 12:44 PM

a major problem.... folks will not work together...

Posted by: beartrap Apr 20 2006, 01:20 PM

Clay is a pragmatic realist. Like I said, complications.

Posted by: calvin Apr 20 2006, 01:25 PM

> QUOTE(Clay @ Apr 20 2006, 01:44 PM)
>
> a major problem.... folks will not work together...

Oh, don't be so cynical Clay. It could work; I think there would be a market for it. 3ABN was always too conservative for most Black folks anyway. The Black work continues to grow, anybody pay attention to how Black and Brown General Conference was last year. About 25,000 of yall will be descending on Atlanta this weekend.

TBO, try putting together a comprehensive business plan and float it around to some investors. That is where I would start.

Posted by: Clay Apr 20 2006, 03:18 PM

> QUOTE(calvin @ Apr 20 2006, 02:25 PM)
>
> Oh, don't be so cynical Clay. It could work; I think there would be a market for it. 3ABN was always too conservative for most Black folks anyway. The Black work continues to grow, anybody pay attention to how Black and Brown General Conference was last year. About 25,000 of yall will be descending on Atlanta this weekend.
>
> TBO, try putting together a comprehensive business plan and float it around to some investors. That is where I would start.

Calvin I try not to, however I am watching the area in churches in Huntsville go back and forth about building a new school for the kids here... The academy is the same building that my wife attended 20+ years ago... they were talking about building a new school when she attended... so if 6 or 7 black churches in one city can't come to some agreement and build a church... then....

Posted by: Zephyr Apr 20 2006, 04:33 PM

> QUOTE(TrulyBlessedOne @ Apr 20 2006, 10:19 AM)
>
> With all the talk about 3ABN lately. I think that we need to stop complaining and come together to offer an alternative. Given the fact that there are a number of black churches with television ministries and a number of Black SDA artists on the rise, I believe that it could be done with the > proper planning and support. It could cater to the Black experience, while presenting the unique SDA message.

>
> Plus, if set-up properly and not done in the spirit of exclusiveness, we could get the support of many non-Adventists who enjoy our ministries. If properly pitched, it could be carried on Sky Angel and reach a massive audience. Once the audience grows, it could be pitched to cable systems in areas like Huntsville who have high concentrations of BSDA's.
>
> I am seriously thinking about this thing. Who is with me?
>
> Pastor J

If BAN can operate on all talk, no money and shoddy work and nepotism then it will become the number 1 TV network. To be truthful that's about all these SDA kneegrows have to offer.

Posted by: beartrap Apr 20 2006, 11:10 PM

Zephyr, I disagree. Several years ago I was in New York City trying to enthuse the Adventists into becoming active on behalf of 3ABN and nothing happened until I went to the black churches and the Northeastern Conference. They banded together enthusiastically in financial support and actual work and accomplished a lot. I was very impressed by how well those churches worked together on our behalf. C.A. Murray was the Communications Director at Northeastern, and I was so impressed with his skill and talent that I wrote memos and met with the leadership at 3ABN in a dilligent effort to get him employed there and I believe he has been a tremendous asset to that organization since being hired. The black Adventist community has some very qualified leaders for a television network, and I believe it can and should be done.

Posted by: Zephyr Apr 21 2006, 09:26 AM

Beartrap don't get me wrong. "We" can campaign, make noise and make a big to do. That is why "we" photocopied and sent out millions of petitions on behalf of 3ABN. Reuben was very instrumental in the Northeastern and greater NY areas.

Campaigning is great...delivering on quality, efficiency and providing a corruptiowords free working environment is a different matter...Y'all had a chance to do your thang with NET 2004 and you blew it big time. The word went out--these n... can shake their b...but they can't shake the money tree.

I wonder what CA is saying as the house of cards looks as if it is crumbling... CA is a top-notch pastor--one of the best and he left the pastoral ministry of the church to become a shill and flack for Danny and 3ABN.

Posted by: Clay Apr 21 2006, 10:09 AM

> QUOTE(Zephyr @ Apr 21 2006, 10:26 AM) ☐
>
> Beartrap don't get me wrong. "We" can campaign, make noise and make a big to do. That is why "we" photocopied and sent out millions of petitions on behalf of 3ABN. Reuben was very instrumental in the Northeastern and greater NY areas.
>
> Campaigning is great...delivering on quality, efficiency and providing a corruptiowords free working environment is a different matter...Y'all had a chance to do your thang with NET 2004 and you blew it big time. The word went out--these n... can shake their b...but they can't shake the money tree.

> I wonder what CA is saying as the house of cards looks as if it is crumbling... CA is a top-notch pastor--one of the best and he left the pastoral ministry of the church to become a shill and flack for Danny and 3ABN.

interesting.... you think that was the perception? That black folks can entertain but not raise money?

Posted by: silsbee_bee Apr 21 2006, 05:08 PM

It would be hard, not impossible, but not easy, to get and keep a television network like that going. IMO 3ABN has done a very good job of including preachers and artists from diverse backgrounds into their network ministry. I've been watching 3abn for awhile, and I've seen more black sda preachers there than I have anywhere else. I'm talking about scores of different preachers from the 4 corners of the country and the world. I've seen lots of asian and latino preachers also, and lots of culturally diverse singers and artists. Yet with all that they are criticized as being too white and conservative. The same could happen if a black adventist tv netwrk came into being. To keep such a network on the air would cost something like $300,000 a month. The more diverse the programming the more money that could come in.

DB

Posted by: PrincessDrRe Apr 21 2006, 05:14 PM

> QUOTE(TrulyBlessedOne @ Apr 20 2006, 12:19 PM)
>
> With all the talk about 3ABN lately. I think that we need to stop complaining and come together to offer an alternative. Given the fact that there are a number of black churches with television ministries and a number of Black SDA artists on the rise, I believe that it could be done with the proper planning and support. It could cater to the Black experience, while presenting the unique SDA message.
>
> Plus, if set-up properly and not done in the spirit of exclusiveness, we could get the support of many non-Adventists who enjoy our ministries. If properly pitched, it could be carried on Sky Angel and reach a massive audience. Once the audience grows, it could be pitched to cable systems in areas like Huntsville who have high concentrations of BSDA's.
>
> I am seriously thinking about this thing. Who is with me?
>
> Pastor J

I would love it. Can I be the resident Therapist?

Posted by: beartrap Apr 21 2006, 07:31 PM

Once again, I thoroughly disagree. Yes, in NY the petitions moved quickly, Ruben Carr became very prolific in his marketing, 3ABN grew, and the Atlantic Union ended up with a production truck. Yes, CA is a wonderful pastor, and he is also a great TV producer.

Of course BAN would be difficult to start and run, but I believe that with the right partnerships, some agressive mover and shakers, and LOTS of elbow grease, it is very possible. I agree with whoever said that a business plan should be formulated and passed around. Besides the black SDA, there are other people in the SDA denomination who I believe would contribute significantly if they saw something realistic with a good foundation to it.

Posted by: Zephyr Apr 23 2006, 02:51 PM

B.A.N
Someone whispered alternative names for the new network
Braying...A...Network!
Broke Adventists Network

Posted by: TrulyBlessedOne Apr 23 2006, 10:39 PM

> QUOTE(Zephyr @ Apr 23 2006, 02:51 PM) ☐
>
> B.A.N
> Someone whispered alternative names for the new network
> Braying...A...Network!
> Broke Adventists Network

See, why n*rs (yeah I said it and mean it in the original dictionary meaning of the word) gots to bring negativity to an idea that would promote our culture?

As far as having a diverse lineup of speakers on 3ABN, sure they have them on, but they all conform to the party line. I bet they wouldn't air Buddy Byrd's sermon from UYC on 3ABN. They don't show Madison Mission style Praise & Worship. I've not heard about them having any SDA Christian rap artists on. In fact, I have heard them demeaning those who listen to and/or perform urban music.

This is why there needs to be an alternative to 3ABN. So that the world can see that Adventism is more that conservative, eurocentric, peaceful, serene, boring religion that GC and all the old white members would like it to be. It is time to move into culturally authentic and relevent worship; mold our churches into service centers for the communities we are trying to reach and stop trying to change people into white conservatives, but rather bring Jesus to them the way Jesus presented Himself to the common folk of Galilee...where they are.

If they never come to enjoy hymns and organ music, it will be fine...as long as they come to love Jesus!

That's My 2 Lincolns

Pastor J

This post was edited by a member of BSDA moderation team

Posted by: higherground2003 Apr 24 2006, 08:41 AM

In my honest opinion, it would never work, but not for the reasons that most of you are suggesting. Getting the money, and setting up a lineup that blacks would enjoy would be relatively simple. I think the real problem would come in after the channel is up and going. Having a black adventist network would force us to look at the realization that we are not on the same page. When you look at the backbone doctrine of adventism and much of the work written by Ellen G. WHite, it really goes in line with much of what you are seeing on 3abn. In reality, they aren't doing anything wrong. The reason why many of us seem to have a problem with their programming is that we don't necessarily agree with all of the teaching. I think that much of what you would see on a black 3abn would be identical to what you see in the black conferences, which is also not lining up with what you see in the white conferences, which would make the 3abn and the black version of 3abn night and day. Once that happens, there will be an uproar from within the denomination and we will start hearing about how there is a "falling away" from the church.

Example. From what I have seen black sda churches tend to think more locally, while the white sda churches tend to think more globally. Neither is wrong, but the priorities are clearly different. Another example is that black sda churches are probably more likely to work with other denominations than our counterparts. I also don't think a black 3abn network would do as much denominational bashing, which would cause an uproar with some people. Some people actually want to see denominational bashing.

Posted by: Clay Apr 24 2006, 08:45 AM

good points Higherground.....

Posted by: statrei Apr 24 2006, 08:55 AM

> QUOTE(Clay @ Apr 24 2006, 10:45 AM)
>
> good points Higherground.....

But the big assumption is that Adventism is the God's chariot to heaven.

Posted by: Clay Apr 24 2006, 08:57 AM

> QUOTE(statrei @ Apr 24 2006, 09:55 AM)
>
> But the big assumption is that Adventism is the God's chariot to heaven.

I thought it was "The Old Ship of Zion"

Posted by: statrei Apr 24 2006, 09:03 AM

> QUOTE(Clay @ Apr 24 2006, 09:57 AM)
>
> I thought it was "The Old Ship of Zion"

Without replacement theology we have to admit that "The Old Ship of Zion" is Judaism.

Posted by: TrulyBlessedOne Apr 24 2006, 09:12 AM

> QUOTE(higherground2003 @ Apr 24 2006, 09:41 AM) ☐
>
> I think that much of what you would see on a black 3abn would be identical to what you see in the black conferences, which is also not lining up with what you see in the white conferences, which would make the 3abn and the black version of 3abn night and day. Once that happens, there will be an uproar from within the denomination and we will start hearing about how there is a "falling away" from the church.
>
> Example. From what I have seen black sda churches tend to think more locally, while the white sda churches tend to think more globally. Neither is wrong, but the priorities are clearly different. Another example is that black sda churches are probably more likely to work with other denominations than our counterparts. I also don't think a black 3abn network would do as much denominational bashing, which would cause an uproar with some people. Some people actually want to see denominational bashing.

In my opinion, I think the regional conferences do need to pull away from the "world church". That may sound like heresy, but my reasoning is just what higherground2003 stated above. The white church and the black church have totally different agendas. The white church is exclusive and is trying to "civilize" the world, much like the Catholic church in the dark ages. In America, they recruit the rich folk so that they can send money overseas to "spread the gospel" and make people just like them.

The black churches tend to be more locally minded in that they are working to see as many lost souls in their local community come to know Christ, regardless of their income or education level. Now I know that there are plenty of "gold diggers" in the black church as well, but most pastors are interested in the person.

Because we have to send 16% of the tithe money up the line to the unions, NAD, and GC, we are not in a position to do some of the things that we need to do. 16% may not seem like a lot, but we are talking about millions of dollars each year that could be used for local evangelism or other projects. There is also the issue of how the money flows in the white conferences vs. the black conferences. I don't have proof, but they always seem to have the money they need for evangelism, while we have to beg for it.

I point is that there needs to be a change in the way we operate as a church. We need to encourage the churches to engage in an industry that will help support the church locally and the conferences need to change the way they operate to make them more efficient (sp). Too much money is being wasted by our leaders because unskilled pastors are doign jobs they don't have a clue about. We should hire CPA's to be our treasurers rather than pastors. Our ABC's should be run by MBA's. Our youth congresses should be organized by experienced event coodinators. Each conference should have a marketing director and an IT department. We have to think of this thing as big business if the churches are going to have the support they need and deserve.

And as far as working with other churches, we should be working with other churches if we expect to make any headway in the communities we have churches. It has been our "exclusiveness" that has gotten us labeled as a cult. We have to show ourselves friendly if we want to win souls for Christ. Pastors should be a part of the ministrial alliances in the cities. We shoudl support other churches community activities, when they do not conflict with the Sabbath. And then, some of the things that they do on the Sabbath we can still support. "It is lawful to do good on the Sabbath".

My point is this, how can you expect someone to come to visit your church, if they don't know you or have prejudice against you. We must break down the walls of misunderstanding and open dialogue with other churches so that they can see that we are Christian; we do believe in the Trinity; we do believe in the Holy Spirit; we are not a cult. We can't accomplish that by first goign out and hitting them with dictrine and telling them that they are going to hell if they don't worship on the Sabbath and don't give up pork. We have to show love first and then show them the benefits of living like the Bible tells us. Then as they see how God has blessed us for our faithfulness, they will want to serve God as well. But, if we are mean and hateful and trying to beat them over the head with dotrine every time they see us or visit the church, we will continue to lose members in America.

I guess that's about 3 or 4 Lincolns there

Pastor J

Posted by: Clay Apr 24 2006, 09:16 AM and good Lincolns they were....

Posted by: beartrap Apr 24 2006, 09:39 AM

"Having a black adventist network would force us to look at the realization that we are not on the same page. When you look at the backbone doctrine of adventism and much of the work written by Ellen G. WHite, it really goes in line with much of what you are seeing on 3abn. In reality, they aren't doing anything wrong. The reason why many of us seem to have a problem with their programming is that we don't necessarily agree with all of the teaching. I think that much of what you would see on a black 3abn would be identical to what you see in the black conferences, which is also not lining up with what you see in the white conferences, which would make the 3abn and the black version of 3abn night and day. Once that happens, there will be an uproar from within the denomination and we will start hearing about how there is a "falling away" from the church."

What is the traditional backbone doctrine of our church? Most of my life I've been in traditional white churches and at 3ABN, and what I see being shown as the true pillars of Christianity are the Sabbath, the state of the dead, diet, and end-time events beast, dragons and images). Not saying that there is anything wrong with those doctrines, but where is the Biblical Jesus REALLY being taught? I don't recall that he said much on those subjects when he was on Earth. Have we made them the foundations of our faith simply because they are the differentiating point between "us and them?" And in the process are we losing sight of true Christianity and worship? I'm not asking rhetorical questions to be nasty toward the church, or anyone, these are genuine questions that I have.

Posted by: Clay Apr 24 2006, 09:42 AM

> QUOTE(beartrap @ Apr 24 2006, 10:39 AM)
>
> What is the traditional backbone doctrine of our church? Most of my life I've been in traditional white churches and at 3ABN, and what I see being shown as the true pillars of Christianity are the Sabbath, the state of the dead, diet, and end-time events beast, dragons and images). Not saying that there is anything wrong with those doctrines, but where is the Biblical Jesus REALLY being taught? I don't recall that he said much on those subjects when he was on Earth. Have we made them the foundations of our faith simply because they are the differentiating point between "us and them?" And in the process are we losing sight of true Christianity and worship? I'm not asking rhetorical questions to be nasty toward the church, or anyone, these are genuine questions that I > have.

those are the true pillars of adventism, not of Christianity.... you are correct we have made them our foundations because it does distinguish "us" from "them..."

Posted by: higherground2003 Apr 24 2006, 10:07 AM

> QUOTE(TrulyBlessedOne @ Apr 24 2006, 09:12 AM)
>
> And as far as working with other churches, we should be working with other churches if we expect to make any headway in the communities we have churches. It has been our "exclusiveness" that has gotten us labeled as a cult. We have to show ourselves friendly if we want to win souls for Christ. Pastors should be a part of the ministrial alliances in the cities. We shoudl support other churches community activities, when they do not conflict with the Sabbath. And then, some of the things that they do on the Sabbath we can still support. "It is lawful to do good on the Sabbath".
> Pastor J

I totally agree. With some of these people, they feel as if the only thing that matters in the world is our church and our beliefs. They see no need to ever have any dealings with anyone else unless you are trying to convert them. LOL. Oddly enough, people like that probably only make up about 25%, but that 25% tends to be the ones that are more than likely to go out into the community and knock on doors.

In my eyes the reasoning just doesn't line up. This small group feels as if you shouldn't associate with "sunday keepers" (as they say) because they don't keep all of the commandments. Oddly enough, when you point out that they aren't perfect themselves, there is always an excuse why their faults are ok, but the faults of others are totally unacceptable. Does joining the SDA church mean that you will no longer ever participate in a united way function again? Most organizations to charitable work on the sabbath. Why in the world should we be frowned upon if we participate?

Posted by: princessdi Apr 24 2006, 10:11 AM

Go on and preach, Pastor!!!!

> QUOTE(TrulyBlessedOne @ Apr 24 2006, 07:12 AM)
>
> In my opinion, I think the regional conferences do need to pull away from the "world church". That may sound like heresy, but my reasoning is just what higherground2003 stated above. The white church and the black church have totally different agendas. The white church is exclusive and is trying to "civilize" the world, much like the Catholic church in the dark ages. In America, they recruit the rich folk so that they can send money overseas to "spread the gospel" and make people just like them.
>
> The black churches tend to be more locally minded in that they are working to see as many lost souls in their local community come to know Christ, regardless of their income or education level. Now I know that there are plenty of "gold diggers" in the black church as well, but most pastors are interested in the person.

> Because we have to send 16% of the tithe money up the line to the unions, NAD, and GC, we are not in a position to do some of the things that we need to do. 16% may not seem like a lot, but we are talking about millions of dollars each year that could be used for local evangelism or other projects. There is also the issue of how the money flows in the white conferences vs. the black conferences. I don't have proof, but they always seem to have the money they need for evangelism, while we have to beg for it.
>
> I point is that there needs to be a change in the way we operate as a church. We need to encourage the churches to engage in an industry that will help support the church locally and the conferences need to change the way they operate to make them more efficient (sp). Too much money is being wasted by our leaders because unskilled pastors are doign jobs they don't have a clue about. We should hire CPA's to be our treasurers rather than pastors. Our ABC's should be run by MBA's. Our youth congresses should be organized by experienced event coodinators. Each conference should have a marketing director and an IT department. We have to think of this thing as big business if the churches are going to have the support they need and deserve.
>
> And as far as working with other churches, we should be working with other churches if we expect to make any headway in the communities we have churches. It has been our "exclusiveness" that has gotten us labeled as a cult. We have to show ourselves friendly if we want to win souls for Christ. Pastors should be a part of the ministrial alliances in the cities. We shoudl support other churches community activities, when they do not conflict with the Sabbath. And then, some of the things that they do on the Sabbath we can still support. "It is lawful to do good on the Sabbath".
>
> My point is this, how can you expect someone to come to visit your church, if they don't know you or have prejudice against you. We must break down the walls of misunderstanding and open dialogue with other churches so that they can see that we are Christian; we do believe in the Trinity; we do believe in the Holy Spirit; we are not a cult. We can't accomplish that by first goign out and hitting them with dictrine and telling them that they are going to hell if they don't worship on the Sabbath and don't give up pork. We have to show love first and then show them the benefits of living like the Bible tells us. Then as they see how God has blessed us for our faithfulness, they will want to serve God as well. But, if we are mean and hateful and trying to beat them over the head with dotrine every time they see us or visit the church, we will continue to lose members in America.
>
> I guess that's about 3 or 4 Lincolns there
>
> Pastor J

Posted by: simplysaved Apr 24 2006, 10:26 AM

What about the World of Praise Network that Whintley Phipps is heading up? While it is an 3ABN branch baby, it is also specifically geared for the American Urban Community (i.e. Black folks)....enough money, as I understand, is the holdup, but most of the equipment has already either been purchased or donated...

> QUOTE(TrulyBlessedOne @ Apr 20 2006, 11:19 AM)
>
> With all the talk about 3ABN lately. I think that we need to stop complaining and come together to offer an alternative. Given the fact that there are a number of black churches with television ministries and a number of Black SDA artists on the rise, I believe that it could be done with the > proper planning and support. It could cater to the Black experience, while presenting the unique SDA message.

>
> Plus, if set-up properly and not done in the spirit of exclusiveness, we could get the support of many non-Adventists who enjoy our ministries. If properly pitched, it could be carried on Sky Angel and reach a massive audience. Once the audience grows, it could be pitched to cable systems in areas like Huntsville who have high concentrations of BSDA's.
>
> I am seriously thinking about this thing. Who is with me?
>
> Pastor J

http://www.blacksda.com/forums/index.php?act=ST&f=45&t=7397

Posted by: caribbean sda Apr 24 2006, 01:59 PM

> QUOTE(TrulyBlessedOne @ Apr 24 2006, 12:39 AM) ☐
>
> See, why n*rs (yeah I said it and mean it in the original dictionary meaning of the word) gots to bring negativity to an idea that would promote our culture?
>
> As far as having a diverse lineup of speakers on 3ABN, sure they have them on, but they all conform to the party line. I bet they wouldn't air Buddy Byrd's sermon from UYC on 3ABN. They don't show Madison Mission style Praise & Worship. I've not heard about them having any SDA Christian rap artists on. In fact, I have heard them demeaning those who listen to and/or perform urban music.
>
> This is why there needs to be an alternative to 3ABN. So that the world can see that Adventism is more that conservative, eurocentric, peaceful, serene, boring religion that GC and all the old white members would like it to be. It is time to move into culturally authentic and relevent worship; mold our churches into service centers for the communities we are trying to reach and stop trying to change people into white conservatives, but rather bring Jesus to them the way Jesus presented Himself to the common folk of Galilee...where they are.
>
> If they never come to enjoy hymns and organ music, it will be fine...as long as they come to love Jesus!
>
> That's My 2 Lincolns
>
> Pastor J
>
> This post was edited by a member of BSDA moderation team

Buddy Byrd...is that Carlton Byrd? I remember him when he was a little fellow running around Miami Union Academy. What was his sermon about? It's so nice to see young men serving the Lord.

Posted by: TrulyBlessedOne Apr 25 2006, 05:25 PM

Yeah Buddy = Carlton

His sermon was dealing with the children of Israel and their fear at the size of the Canaanites. He did an excellent job with it, but for some it may have been a bit too "Pentacostal" for them. He actually...hooped (albeit briefly).

Pastor J

Posted by: silsbee_bee Apr 25 2006, 08:31 PM

We wanted to go to UYC, but just couldn't get the ways, means and motivation together on one page. There was a relatively sparse crowd at Bellfort church this past sabbath. Everyone was in the ATL supporting Pastor Byrd. It should be back to normal on the 29th, & even more so on May 6th.

DB

Posted by: Ephphatha May 1 2006, 09:50 PM

I offer as a caution....whether for 3abn or against...some of the Lord's work is being done through the broadcast and inevitably when the work of the Lord is being done the devil attacks...so if the "B.A.N." is successful I would hope that the people in charge would not fall into the false security that they would somehow avoid the temptations and more easily resist those that have come to visit 3abn.

I would pray that they consistently seek in prayer the best path to take and who and who not to allow on broadcast...and I would pray that, just as 3abn has done, not allow the devil to gain the victory and continue carrying forward the good news of the gospel to all the world so that the coming of our Saviour will be drawn even closer.

Posted by: simplysaved Nov 27 2006, 09:49 PM

Any progress made on B.A.N.????

Printable Version of Topic

142

Click here to view this topic in its original format

BlackSDA _ 3ABN _ The Investigator Of 3abn

Posted by: Loud Cry Oct 4 2006, 11:40 PM

Some think that Linda Shelton hired a Private Investigator to clear her name.....

This needs to be cleared up. As far as I know, Linda did not "hire" the "Private Investigator". The Investigator(s) are independently working on this for reasons that have not been discussed in this forum yet.

Just so ya know.....the Investigator(s),"he", is a "they".

They had been asked by several parties to investigate specific issues since July 2004. They opted out, other than a cursory e-mail inquiry or two. The heat began in earnest in March 2006, following the re-marriage and they again opted out. It was not until the arrival on August 21, 2006 at 4:30 pm on their fax machine of a signed copy of the Pastor Dryden letter that they began to informally investigate; And then someone else (a conference president) sent them a signed copy of the Allyssa letter.

(The Pastor Dryden letter is from the Pastor of the Ezra Church of God that brought the charges against Tommy Shelton for the molestation of young boys in four of five Church of God Pastorates that Tommy had served in.)

This was followed by witnesses of various issues contacting them and adding to the collage of information by the droves. The associates spoke about the findings and pointed out that with each contact and every leaf turned they were being over-run with allegations of inappropriate actions taken and financial issues of significant magnitude and felt compelled to pursue each and every allegation to it's most logical conclusion. The decision was made to proceed head-long in to the investigation and to establish minimum requirements for reform to disengage. They firmly believe that for some reason the Lord lead them to a very unusual run of information from the widest possible disbursement of sources and documents. It has been profound and certainly nothing close to what they had originally intended, however, in a month they have been absolutely amazed at the doors that have opened before them making it remarkably possible to move this entire bundle of issues to what they hope will be a speedy and equitable solution for Linda, Allyssa and the Remnant Church.

There will be a an announcement shortly regarding empanelling a tribunal under the auspices of ASI to which they will be able to give evidence and call witnesses. The specifics and dates are yet to be worked out, but it is another shocking development for the 3ABN board to agree to this. The 3ABN board has agreed in principal to empanel a tribunal under the auspices of ASI. ASI has tentatively agreed to sponsor such a panel, but the specifics are still unresolved and is yet to be fully formulated.

They (the Investigators) pray the Lord God to be with all the parties as they prepare for this very important event.

All you have read here is straight from the horses mouth, so to speak.

Posted by: Ralph Oct 5 2006, 01:24 AM

I was really excited until I read

> QUOTE(Loud Cry @ Oct 4 2006, 10:40 PM) ☐
>
> There will be a an announcement shortly regarding empanelling a tribunal under the auspices of ASI to which they will be able to give evidence and call witnesses. .

ASI? Garwin Mcneilus?? An impartial hearing before this panel???? You gotta be kidding!

> QUOTE
>
> Sitting in the spacious office of the President of the World Conference, the Contributor bluntly tells the President that if the Church takes any action against the Televangelist, or does anything that would damage, or undermine him, the Church will not receive another penny of his money for World Missions. Considering that the World Missions budget comes primarily from the Contributor, the President knows that the Church will be rocked to its foundations by the loss of this man's money. What will he do? What will the Church do?

http://www.blacksda.com/forums/index.php?s=&showtopic=10304&view=findpost&p=144101

Posted by: Loud Cry Oct 5 2006, 01:49 AM

> QUOTE(Ralph @ Oct 5 2006, 12:24 AM) ☐
>
> I was really excited until I read
>
> ASI? Garwin Mcneilus?? An impartial hearing before this panel???? You gotta be kidding!
> http://www.blacksda.com/forums/index.php?s=&showtopic=10304&view=findpost&p=144101

I have been told by the Investigator that, and I quote:

"If ASI cannot be counted to bring them into conformity with NAD working policy and Seventh Day Adventist standards, then the General Conference of Seventh Day dventists should act. If they both abbrogate their responsibility to the Remnant Church, then the laymen must take this into their own hands and end the perjury and eliminate access to our churches.

Some refer to this as the Adventist Jihad, and it may well be time for laymen to stand and be counted upon to stand shoulder to shoulder in the breach!!! If it is to be a Jihad, so be it, but reform must come for this church to prepare for the final conflict!!!

If we do our work with solemnity and faithfulness, taking on the whole armor of God and working appropriately as the Church Militant, then the Lord will manifest His power within the Remnant Church. And we will become the CHURCH VICTORIOUS!!!

That is our most solemn prayer as we form the lines of battle to challenge this most serious hypocracy!!!"

It is no secret to those investigating that there is more corruption than meets the eye.....God's got it covered. Wait and see...and let's start prayin' more!

Posted by: Observer Oct 5 2006, 03:55 AM

Folks, the devil is in the details. It is premature to say that a tribunal will be convened under ASI. Rather one can expect that the specifics will change quite rapidly. If it was accurate that ASI would handle it last week that does not mean that such is true today.

We can expect that both sides will object to aspects of the agreement that they do not agree are fair to them (or handicap them). We are probably in for a long haul until such a tribunal will actually meet. It may not be ASI.

We ought to wait for an official announcement.

Posted by: husbandoftheyear Oct 5 2006, 06:50 AM

> QUOTE(Observer @ Oct 5 2006, 04:55 AM)
>
> Folks, the devil is in the details. It is premature to say that a tribunal will be convened under ASI. Rather one can expect that the specifics will change quite rapidly. If it was accurate that ASI would handle it last week that does not mean that such is true today.
>
> We can expect that both sides will object to aspects of the agreement that they do not agree are fair to them (or handicap them). We are probably in for a long haul until such a tribunal will actually meet. It may not be ASI.
>
> We ought to wait for an official announcement.

Observer,
You should know by now that official announcements sometimes differ than the truth and especially so at 3ABN. You are correct in saying that it may not be ASI. It may never happen. But we can discuss the information presented.

BTW eveyone- What can ASI, NAD, GC, etc. do in this situation since 3ABN is not owned by them? I think I'm missing some point here.

Posted by: Truly Blonde Oct 5 2006, 08:48 AM

> QUOTE(Ralph @ Oct 4 2006, 11:24 PM)
>
> I was really excited until I read
>
> ASI? Garwin Mcneilus?? An impartial hearing before this panel???? You gotta be kidding!
> http://www.blacksda.com/forums/index.php?s=&showtopic=10304&view=findpost&p=144101

I agree Ralph. Why should 3abn have to agree to a tribunal if they are the ones being investigated? And be so willing to do so unless they feel they have ASI locked up in Garwin Mcneilus? I am wondering if this is another red herring. We wait patiently for a tribunal that never happens. It seems to me that in our country tribunals have no legal standing so whatever comes out in the tribunal, Danny and his gang or Linda and Alyssa could choose to accept or decline. We would be in the same place we are now. In the case of abuse and fraud, shouldn't the authorities be involved? These are criminal activities. How does a tribunal deal with that? Now if the reason for a tribunal is to disassociate the Adventist Church with 3 abn that is one thing. I firmly believe this should happen. When a man was putting up signs in Florida saying Rome was the Anti Christ the GC had no problem sueing him so he couldn't use the Seventh Day Adventist name. IMHO this is much more serious and yet we are talking tribunal? Where is the loud cry we should be hearing from the GC? Is this another tactic to sweep things under the rug?

ASI has every right to talk Jihad. I would expect that an awful lot of money is donated to 3abn by ASI. Also a lot to the GC. They are powerful enough that they should be able to make the GC listen to them. The fact still remains that Danny owns 3abn. How do we get rid of him and his cronies at 3abn? I havn't figured that out yet.

As I read the threads on 3abn, I am once again aware of the toenails we are living in. The time is so short and Jesus WILL return again. I need to make sure that I am not being changed by the things that are happening at 3abn and in our world church. I need to hold fast to my Jesus and make sure that my relationship with him is the most important thing in my life. I also need to be sure and search my own heart that it is not revenge I seek in this hot mess on toast but that all of this will in the end bring a renewal to everyone's heart that is involved and a renewed relationship with Jesus Christ. I pray that there will be sincere repentance because that is the only way God can change a person's heart.

COME LORD JESUS!!!!!

Posted by: September Oct 5 2006, 09:09 AM

> QUOTE(Truly Blonde @ Oct 5 2006, 10:48 AM) ☐
>
> As I read the threads on 3abn, I am once again aware of the toenails we are living in.

I'm sorry, color me clueless, but what does living in the toenails mean?

Your post was great, by the way. It's true that no matter what happens we need to keep our focus on Jesus. He has this whole thing with 3ABN all figured out already and the things that happen and have happend are within His time. This has also proven to me that we cannot look to people in this world--no matter who they are or what they do. We have to keep our focus on Jesus. I have heard Danny say many many times on 3ABN that our focus should be on Jesus because people will let us down. I wonder if he realizes how true--and how very close to home for him that statement is!

Posted by: Panama_Pete Oct 5 2006, 09:34 AM

> QUOTE(September @ Oct 5 2006, 09:09 AM) ☐

> I'm sorry, color me clueless, but what does living in the toenails mean?

These toenails:

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Oct 5 2006, 09:42 AM

> QUOTE(Truly Blonde @ Oct 5 2006, 07:48 AM) ☐
>
> As I read the threads on 3abn, I am once again aware of the toenails we are living in. The time is so short and Jesus WILL return again. I need to make sure that I am not being changed by the things that are happening at 3abn and in our world church. I need to hold fast to my Jesus and make sure that my relationship with him is the most important thing in my life. I also need to be sure and search my own heart that it is not revenge I seek in this hot mess on toast but that all of this will in the end bring a renewal to everyone's heart that is involved and a renewed relationship with Jesus Christ. I pray that there will be sincere repentance because that is the only way God can change a person's heart.
>
> COME LORD JESUS!!!!!

AMEN, TB!!!

Posted by: justme Oct 5 2006, 09:50 AM

> QUOTE(Truly Blonde @ Oct 5 2006, 10:48 AM) ☐
>
> I agree Ralph. Why should 3abn have to agree to a tribunal if they are the ones being investigated? And be so willing to do so unless they feel they have ASI locked up in Garwin Mcneilus? I am > wondering if this is another red herring. We wait patiently for a tribunal that never happens. It seems to me that in our country tribunals have no legal standing so whatever comes out in the tribunal, Danny and his gang or Linda and Alyssa could choose to accept or decline. We would be in the same place we are now. In the case of abuse and fraud, shouldn't the authorities be involved? These are criminal activities. How does a tribunal deal with that? Now if the reason for a tribunal is to disassociate the Adventist Church with 3 abn that is one thing. I firmly believe this should happen. When a man was putting up signs in Florida saying Rome was the Anti Christ the GC had no problem sueing him so he couldn't use the Seventh Day Adventist name. IMHO this is much more serious and yet we are talking tribunal? Where is the loud cry we should be hearing from the GC? Is this another tactic to sweep things under the rug?

>
> ASI has every right to talk Jihad. I would expect that an awful lot of money is donated to 3abn by ASI. Also a lot to the GC. They are powerful enough that they should be able to make the GC listen to them. The fact still remains that Danny owns 3abn. How do we get rid of him and his cronies at 3abn? I havn't figured that out yet.
>
> As I read the threads on 3abn, I am once again aware of the toenails we are living in. The time is so short and Jesus WILL return again. I need to make sure that I am not being changed by the things that are happening at 3abn and in our world church. I need to hold fast to my Jesus and make sure that my relationship with him is the most important thing in my life. I also need to be sure and search my own heart that it is not revenge I seek in this hot mess on toast but that all of this will in the end bring a renewal to everyone's heart that is involved and a renewed relationship with Jesus Christ. I pray that there will be sincere repentance because that is the only way God can change a person's heart.
>
> COME LORD JESUS!!!!!

TB ..."How do we get rid of him and his cronies at 3abn? I havn't figured that out yet."

That's why we are still praying for God's will AND God's "ways" and God's "timing". He can co it so much better than we could ever imagine.

I like this one, "Be still an know that I am GOD!" and, "MY Peace I give unto you. ...".
Cool, huh?!

Posted by: Green Cochoa Oct 5 2006, 10:14 AM

> QUOTE(September @ Oct 5 2006, 09:09 AM)
>
> I'm sorry, color me clueless, but what does living in the toenails mean?

September, pardon me if I'm explaining something you've figured out by now, but I just thought that in case you haven't understood that picture, I'd share a few more details.

That picture of the statue represents King Nebuchadnezzar's dream, found in Daniel chapter 2. God gave him the dream to show the future of the world. The head represented the current ruling kingdom, Babylon, followed by the chest/arms for Persia, and then the belly and thighs for Greece. The legs represented the long-lived kingdom of Rome, and the feet were made of iron and clay, showing that after Rome, many kingdoms would form. When we speak of "living in the toes" or the "toenails" we mean that we are down to the last inch of time in earth's history before Jesus comes--which was represented in the dream as a stone coming and grinding up the whole statue and setting up a new, eternal kingdom. Read Daniel chapter 2 for more details...

Posted by: September Oct 5 2006, 10:23 AM

> QUOTE(Green Cochoa @ Oct 5 2006, 12:14 PM)
>
> September, pardon me if I'm explaining something you've figured out by now, but I just thought that in case you haven't understood that picture, I'd share a few more details.
>
> That picture of the statue represents King Nebuchadnezzar's dream, found in Daniel chapter 2. God gave him the dream to show the future of the world. The head represented the current ruling kingdom, Babylon, followed by the chest/arms for Persia, and then the belly and thighs for Greece. The legs represented the long-lived kingdom of Rome, and the feet were made of iron and clay, showing that after Rome, many kingdoms would form. When we speak of "living in the toes" or the "toenails" we mean that we are down to the last inch of time in earth's history before Jesus comes--which was represented in the dream as a stone coming and grinding up the whole statue and setting up a new, eternal kingdom. Read Daniel chapter 2 for more details...

Thank you Green I have seen that picture--or a picture like it a time or two before, but never understood what it all meant. I'll have to read up on it Thanks for your explaination!

Posted by: fallible humanbeing Oct 5 2006, 12:31 PM

> QUOTE(Truly Blonde @ Oct 5 2006, 09:48 AM)
>
> . . . It seems to me that in our country tribunals have no legal standing so whatever comes out in the tribunal . . .

American Heritage Dictionary
tri·bu·nal (tr-bynl, tr-), n.
1. Law.
1. A seat or court of justice.
2. The bench on which a judge or other presiding officer sits in court.
2. A committee or board appointed to adjudicate in a particular matter.
3. Something that has the power to determine or judge: the tribunal of public opinion.
[Middle English, from Old French, from Latin tribnal, judge's platform, from tribnus, tribune. See tribune1.]

> QUOTE(Truly Blonde @ Oct 5 2006, 09:48 AM)
>
> ASI has every right to talk Jihad.

American Heritage Dictionary
ji·had also je·had (j-hd), n.
1. A Muslim holy war or spiritual struggle against infidels.
[Arabic jihd, from jahada, to strive. See ghd in Semitic Roots.]

Seems like a rather inflamatory word to be applied in a reasoned discussion (reason is the use of thinking without the subjectivity of emotions), don't you think? In our culture there is little, if any, positive or redemptive connotation to the word, "jihad". Infact the word more often is associated with hate, fear, and lack of understanding. While neither is evident in the above definition, within our current historical context this word can not effectively be used without the association to hate, fear, and lack of understanding. I know you didn't introduce this word into the discussion but since it is here I think this point needs to be raised.

Which of these definitions of rhetoric will we use here in our discourse?

American Heritage Dictionary - Cite This Source
rhet·o·ric (rtr-k), n.
1. a. The art or study of using language effectively and persuasively.
b. A treatise or book discussing this art.
2. Skill in using language effectively and persuasively.
3. a. A style of speaking or writing, especially the language of a particular subject
b. Language that is elaborate, pretentious, insincere, or intellectually vacuous
4. Verbal communication; discourse.
[Middle English rethorik, from Old French rethorique, from Latin rhtoric, rhtorica, from Greek rhtorik (tekhn), rhetorical (art), feminine of rhtorikos, rhetorical, from rhtr, rhetor. See rhetor.]

> QUOTE(Truly Blonde @ Oct 5 2006, 09:48 AM) ☐
>
> I need to hold fast to my Jesus and make sure that my relationship with him is the most important thing in my life.

The essence of the true Chrisitan experience. A growing relationship with God - a one-on-one, side-by-side experience.

I know I have been at times defensive, and possibly somewhat disingenuous in some of my comments, allowing emotion to carry my responses rather than reasoned thinking. As well, I have also been incorrect in a statement or two. But, I have attempted to be civil about my disagreement with much of what has been posted here and at times the way or spirit in which it is presented.

I have stated numerous times that I believe there is plenty of blame to go around in the events of the past few years - I would venture that of the principals involved there isn't a one that doesn't have some mud on their shoes. I would also qualify that with a suggestion that some have stepped in it innocently. Therein is a possible definition of the state of mankind. We all at times are intentional with our selfish deeds (arguing that we don't intend to hurt another, but our only concern is our desire which blinds us to the extenuating consequences), other times our actions are innocently conducted and most often misinterpreted by those around us. We are all selfish, this is the most visible of the "sins" we commit. Aristotle said, "I count him braver who overcomes his desires than him who conquers his enemies; for the hardest victory is over self." And, isn't this the plea God makes to each of us, deny self and follow Me, do as I do exemplified in the life of my Son? How much does that apply to each of us to the extent it has been projected onto the main individuals in this ongoing situation.

What about the admonition to "love thy neighbor as thy self?" No qualifications. Aristotle also said as much, "The best friend is the man who in wishing me well wishes it for my sake." It's cliche, but important when we consider the strife and struggles of others and ourselves: God loves the sinner, but hates sin. Rhetorically, I find myself presented with the question, "Where are we going with this?" When all is said and done, and everyones hand has been forced will there not still be a "Danny/3ABN" side and a "Linda" side? Can either side, or both, who has invested such heavy emotion into this situation step back and heal? Can either group of so heavily invested individuals move from the current acrimonious atmosphere and say, "God's will has been done, I am satisfied in that." and work toward embracing their adversaries? There is only one way to consider that question, as it applies to each of us individually. We can't say, "I will but they won't" that is the perpetuation of the spirit of the current situation.

What does it mean to leave it in God's hands? How do humans, "love the sinner, but hate the sin?"

- fhb

PS, my apologies in advance, I usually make it a habit of rereading at least twice what I write to insure correct spelling and integrity of thought - I don't have time right now to do that.

Posted by: justme Oct 5 2006, 01:27 PM

> QUOTE(fallible humanbeing @ Oct 5 2006, 02:31 PM) ☐
>
> American Heritage Dictionary
> tri·bu·nal (tr-bynl, tr-), n.
> 1. Law.
> 1. A seat or court of justice.
> 2. The bench on which a judge or other presiding officer sits in court.
> 2. A committee or board appointed to adjudicate in a particular matter.
> 3. Something that has the power to determine or judge: the tribunal of public opinion.
> [Middle English, from Old French, from Latin tribnal, judge's platform, from tribnus, tribune. See tribune1.]
> American Heritage Dictionary
> ji·had also je·had (j-hd), n.
> 1. A Muslim holy war or spiritual struggle against infidels.
> [Arabic jihd, from jahada, to strive. See ghd in Semitic Roots.]
>
> Seems like a rather inflamatory word to be applied in a reasoned discussion (reason is the use of thinking without the subjectivity of emotions), don't you think? In our culture there is little, if any, positive or redemptive connotation to the word, "jihad". Infact the word more often is associated with hate, fear, and lack of understanding. While neither is evident in the above definition, within our current historical context this word can not effectively be used without the association to hate, fear, and lack of understanding. I know you didn't introduce this word into the discussion but since it is here I think this point needs to be raised.
>
> Which of these definitions of rhetoric will we use here in our discourse?
>
> American Heritage Dictionary - Cite This Source
> rhet·o·ric (rtr-k), n.
> 1. a. The art or study of using language effectively and persuasively.
> b. A treatise or book discussing this art.
> 2. Skill in using language effectively and persuasively.
> 3. a. A style of speaking or writing, especially the language of a particular subject
> b. Language that is elaborate, pretentious, insincere, or intellectually vacuous
> 4. Verbal communication; discourse.
> [Middle English rethorik, from Old French rethorique, from Latin rhtoric, rhtorica, from Greek rhtorik (tekhn), rhetorical (art), feminine of rhtorikos, rhetorical, from rhtr, rhetor. See rhetor.]
> The essence of the true Chrisitan experience. A growing relationship with God - a one-on-one, side-by-side experience.
>
> I know I have been at times defensive, and possibly somewhat disingenuous in my comments, allowing emotion to carry my responses rather than reasoned thinking. As well, I have also been incorrect in a statement or two. But, I have attempted to be civil about my disagreement with much of what has been posted here and at times the way or spirit in which it is presented.

> I have stated numerous times that I believe there is plenty of blame to go around in the events of the past few years - I would venture that of the principals involved there isn't a one that doesn't have some mud on their shoes. I would also qualify that with a suggestion that some have stepped in it innocently. Therein is a possible definition of the state of mankind. We all at times are intentional with our selfish deeds (arguing that we don't intend to hurt another, but our only concern is our desire which blinds us to the extenuating consequences), other times our actions are innocently conducted and most often misinterpreted by those around us. We are all selfish, this is the most visible of the "sins" we commit. Aristotle said, "I count him braver who overcomes his desires than him who conquers his enemies; for the hardest victory is over self." And, isn't this the plea God makes to each of us, deny self and follow Me, do as I do exemplified in the life of my Son? How much does that apply to each of us to the extent it has been projected onto the main individuals in this ongoing situation.
>
> What about the admonition to "love thy neighbor as thy self?" No qualifications. Aristotle also said as much, "The best friend is the man who in wishing me well wishes it for my sake." It's cliche, but important when we consider the strife and struggles of others and ourselves: God loves the sinner, but hates sin. Rhetorically, I find myself presented with the question, "Where are we going with this?" When all is said and done, and everyones hand has been forced will there not still be a "Danny/3ABN" side and a "Linda" side? Can either side, or both, who has invested such heavy emotion into this situation step back and heal? Can either group of so heavily invested individuals move from the current acrimonious atmosphere and say, "God's will has been done, I am satisfied in that." and work toward embracing their adversaries? There is only one way to consider that question, as it applies to each of us individually. We can't say, "I will but they won't" that is the perpetuation of the spirit of the current situation.
>
> What does it mean to leave it in God's hands? How do humans, "love the sinner, but hate the sin?"
>
> - fhb
>
> PS, my apologies in advance, I usually make it a habit of rereading at least twice what I write to insure correct spelling and integrity of thought - I don't have time right now to do that.

. Thank you -fhb
-fhb, I thought I was only one of only a very few who is/are still trying to get this across. Love sinners/hate sin! Thank you again.

"Jihad"? Naw, it doesn't fit here. It's just a term with religious overtones that is bantered about in the news. Jesus said, "If my kingdom were of this world THEN would my servants fight". physically, here and now.

I notice that definitions may evolve/change from time to time because of "intent", "content", and "colloquialism usage" (did I say that right?) you get it, I'm sure. These days a word has more various meanings in the minds of men that it does in the dictionary. Miscommunication starts many a war.

Thank heaven God never changes! God speaks EVERY MAN'S LANGUAGE!
(if mankind will listen)
We are in a spiritual battle against Satan, and Jesus is our Commander. You and I are the ones THEY are fighting for. "Choose ye this day Whom ye will serve". (need I remind us all that the battle is already won. Guess Who won?"

Old "slippery foot" is trying to get us to fight amongst ourselves to draw our attention away from Jesus, and away from praying that God's will be done.

Justice is just around the corner .. (but, which corner?)

Our best Defender and the best Prosecutor is Jesus. And, guess Who Jesus'(s) Father is, ...the JUDGE! WOW! How can we lose!?!

"Be still and know that I AM GOD", God says.

"Love the sinner but hate the sin"?

You love your children, but you may HATE something they do.

Posted by: fallible humanbeing Oct 5 2006, 01:36 PM

> QUOTE(justme @ Oct 5 2006, 02:27 PM)
>
> You love your children, but you may HATE something they do.

Okay, I have to use one of these pesky things so true, so true, so true! And, at times on a daily basis.

Posted by: watchbird Oct 5 2006, 01:44 PM

> QUOTE(fallible humanbeing @ Oct 5 2006, 12:31 PM)
>
> American Heritage Dictionary
> tri·bu·nal (tr-bynl, tr-), n.
> 1. Law.
> 1. A seat or court of justice.
> 2. The bench on which a judge or other presiding officer sits in court.
> 2. A committee or board appointed to adjudicate in a particular matter.
> 3. Something that has the power to determine or judge: the tribunal of public opinion.

Well, thank you FHB for bringing this to our attention.... too bad you didn't stop and analyze what you said in the context from which it came rather than moving on to your usual muddling of the waters in sweet pious platitudes.... but ...

however you slice it, a tribunal has the power to "ajudicate". Now let's see how Mr. Gailon Arthur Joy [whom Loud Cry is quoting] uses the word in the layout of his "plans". As you begin to read the quote, be asking yourself the question: "WHO is going to be "empaneling a tribunal?"

"There will be a an announcement shortly regarding empanelling a tribunal under the auspices of ASI to which they will be able to give evidence and call witnesses. The specifics and dates are yet to be worked out, but it is another shocking development for the 3ABN board to agree to this. The 3ABN board has agreed in principal to empanel a tribunal under the auspices of ASI. ASI has tentatively agreed to sponsor such a panel, but the specifics are still unresolved and is yet to be fully formulated.

"They (the Investigators) pray the Lord God to be with all the parties as they prepare for this very important event. "

Now wait just a cotton-pickin' minnit! WHO is going to "empanel a tribunal?"

Answer: 3ABN Yeah.... sure.... got that.....

OK.......... for what purpose not so clear, but maybe this is it......

"to which they will be able to give evidence and call witnesses"..... Okayyyyy.... and "they" is.... "the investigators".

Next questions: Who is going to be brought before the "tribunal"?
Who is going to bring "charges" against whom?
Will this be a legal procedure?
Will each side have lawyers present?
Will the decision of the "tribunal" be final?

Or are all of these questions contained in the "specifics" that haven't been worked out yet?

Let's look at one more paragraph of this remarkable document that has been placed in our hands.

"It has been profound and certainly nothing close to what they had originally intended, however, in a month they have been absolutely amazed at the doors that have opened before them making it remarkably possible to move this entire bundle of issues to what they hope will be a speedy and equitable solution for Linda, Allyssa and the Remnant Church. "

OK .... maybe I confuse easily.... but I cannot see how anyone, however sanguine and self-confident, could have hope for a "speedy and equitable solution for Linda, Alyssa, and the Remnant Church" in a "tribunal" that is "empanelled" (doesn't that mean set up.... empowered.... created by) by the organization against which they have complaints (3ABN), which is "sponsored" by an organization holding a symbiotic relationship with 3ABN, against which "Linda, Alyssa, and the Remnant Church" also have complaints.

Sorry.... this sounds more like "Kangaroo Kort" to me.... but then.... I'm no legal expert.

HELP!!!! Where are our legal experts!

Please! Help!

Explain this in terms even I can understand. What is going on here? Or there? Or somewhere?

Posted by: simplysaved Oct 5 2006, 01:59 PM

They could pull the programming that the network counts on that is owned by the Seventh-day Adventist Church....

> QUOTE(husbandoftheyear @ Oct 5 2006, 06:50 AM)
>
> Observer,

> You should know by now that official announcements sometimes differ than the truth and especially so at 3ABN. You are correct in saying that it may not be ASI. It may never happen. But we can discuss the information presented.
>
> BTW eveyone- What can ASI, NAD, GC, etc. do in this situation since 3ABN is not owned by them? I think I'm missing some point here.

Posted by: justme Oct 5 2006, 02:05 PM

> QUOTE(simplysaved @ Oct 5 2006, 02:59 PM)
>
> They could pull the programming that the network counts on that is owned by the Seventh-day Adventist Church....

Do they PAY 3ABN to air their program$???

How much?

If the good shows withdraw then Danny wil have more time to criticize and beg for $$$. i'd rather see IIW, WOH, TP, AF, anything but him and his.

Posted by: simplysaved Oct 5 2006, 02:17 PM

Don't have that info...you would have to ask someone who either works for or used to work for 3ABN.

> QUOTE(justme @ Oct 5 2006, 02:05 PM)
>
> Do they PAY 3ABN to air their program$???
>
> How much?
>
> If the good shows withdraw then Danny wil have more time to criticize and beg for $$$. i'd rather see IIW, WOH, TP, AF, anything but him and his.

Posted by: princessdi Oct 5 2006, 02:23 PM

Exactly, Sarah!! That is what they can and should do> At this point, there are even too many questions surrounding 3ABN for them to do anything else.

> QUOTE(simplysaved @ Oct 5 2006, 12:59 PM)

> They could pull the programming that the network counts on that is owned by the Seventh-day Adventist Church....

Whether they pay or not, each and every netowrk relies on ratings. Sure they might have more time to beg and criticize, but who will watch them?

> QUOTE(justme @ Oct 5 2006, 01:05 PM) ☐
>
> Do they PAY 3ABN to air their program$???
>
> How much?
>
> If the good shows withdraw then Danny wil have more time to criticize and beg for $$$. i'd rather see IIW, WOH, TP, AF, anything but him and his.

Posted by: watchbird Oct 5 2006, 02:28 PM

> QUOTE(justme @ Oct 5 2006, 02:05 PM) ☐
>
> Do they PAY 3ABN to air their program$???
>
> How much?
>
> If the good shows withdraw then Danny wil have more time to criticize and beg for $$$. i'd rather see IIW, WOH, TP, AF, anything but him and his.

The amounts charged for programming can be found in the legal document the judge wrote at the time of the refusal of their appeal for getting property tax exempt status. I don't recall the figures, but they were as much or more for denominational programming as for other.

You can watch the "good shows" on other networks. If the church cut them off.... and also put out an order to the church at large so as to untie the hands of those pastors and other persons who would like to speak against the wrongs at 3abn but don't because they don't have a directive from above on which to base their stand, donor support WOULD dry up..... or else they would turn completely Pentecostal. I would not like that .... no one would. But it would be preferable to the mixed signals they send now..... where on their website they claim to not be connected with any denomination, but to their SDA mailing list and in SDA periodicals and advertisement they are called "the face of Adventism"... and acclaimed as"conservative" Adventism.

They would also lose their political clout, which is one of the most important ties they have to the church at the moment. Administrators afraid for their careers if they speak against 3abn.... or even against any of the wrongs going on at 3abn.

Posted by: Ralph Oct 5 2006, 02:47 PM

> QUOTE(Truly Blonde @ Oct 5 2006, 08:48 AM) ☐

> I agree Ralph. Why should 3abn have to agree to a tribunal if they are the ones being investigated? And be so willing to do so unless they feel they have ASI locked up in Garwin Mcneilus? I am wondering if this is another red herring. We wait patiently for a tribunal that never happens. It seems to me that in our country tribunals have no legal standing so whatever comes out in the tribunal, Danny and his gang or Linda and Alyssa could choose to accept or decline. We would be in the same place we are now. In the case of abuse and fraud, shouldn't the authorities be involved? These are criminal activities. How does a tribunal deal with that? Now if the reason for a tribunal is to disassociate the Adventist Church with 3 abn that is one thing. I firmly believe this should happen. When a man was putting up signs in Florida saying Rome was the Anti Christ the GC had no problem sueing him so he couldn't use the Seventh Day Adventist name. IMHO this is much more serious and yet we are talking tribunal? Where is the loud cry we should be hearing from the GC? Is this another tactic to sweep things under the rug?
>
> ASI has every right to talk Jihad. I would expect that an awful lot of money is donated to 3abn by ASI. Also a lot to the GC. They are powerful enough that they should be able to make the GC listen to them. The fact still remains that Danny owns 3abn. How do we get rid of him and his cronies at 3abn? I havn't figured that out yet.

Just knowing that 3abn agrees to a tribunal puts up a lot of red flags. They wouldn't do that unless they were sure, beyond a doubt, that they would come out smelling like a rose.

True, there are legal matters. But unless a case is taken to court (not a tribunal), nothing happens. The only value of a tribunal is the court of public opinion.

We sometimes are naive enough to think that a case depends upon what is right and what is wrong. I wish that was the way it worked, but it usually depends on how good the lawyers are, and 3abn would have the best in the land. My sis worked for a trial lawyer that rarely lost a case, and told of one exchange she had with her boss.

As he came in from a court, she asked, "Well, Don, did you get them off?
"Sure", he replied.
"But Don, they were guilty!!" she protested.
"Sure, guilty as h....., but I got them off."

He smirked, went into his office and closed the door. She told me, "I consider him as guilty as the person he defended."

Any church disciplinary measures follow a strict protocol that starts at the congregational level. And if the local church has gone askew, then it is up to the local conference to investigate.

Do you think that the local church is going to say anything about a 3abn employee when John Lomacang is pastor? Do you think that the Illinois conference is going to say anything when its president is on the 3abn board?

Danny is not an ordained pastor. He is a layman, the same as most of us. Although he is the "face of Adventism" to so many people, he is still just a layman. We gotta remember that. He does not even receive a conference salary. So the guidelines that apply to a conference employee do not apply to him.

Posted by: fallible humanbeing Oct 5 2006, 02:54 PM

> QUOTE(watchbird @ Oct 5 2006, 02:44 PM) ☐

> American Heritage Dictionary
> tri·bu·nal (tr-bynl, tr-), n.
> 1. Law.
> a. A seat or court of justice.
> b. The bench on which a judge or other presiding officer sits in court.
> 2. A committee or board appointed to adjudicate in a particular matter.
> 3. Something that has the power to determine or judge: the tribunal of public opinion.
>
> Well, thank you FHB for bringing this to our attention.... too bad you didn't stop and analyze what you said in the context from which it came rather than moving on to your usual muddling of the waters in sweet pious platitudes.... but ...

WB,

I said nothing in reference to this. TB had ventured a question about what a tribunal could possibly do. I merely presented the definition of tribunal for possible consideration. What type of tribunal, who convenes it, the selection process of its members are unknowns at the present time. I netiher advocated for, nor against such a thing.

Using definition #2 above (bolded) and adding this clarification using the V #2 definition in conjunction with VI definition below:

American Heritage Dictionary
ad·ju·di·cate (-jd-kt), v.
1. To hear and settle (a case) by judicial procedure.
2. To study and settle (a dispute or conflict): The principal adjudicated our quarrel.
v. intr.
To act as a judge.
[Latin adidicre, adidict-, to award to (judicially) : ad-, ad- + idicre, to judge (from idex, judge. See judge).]

Gives indication where a tribunal may very well be able to make a binding decision. Will they in this case, who knows? But if the endeavor is entered into this as though it were a binding arbitartion activity, with all particulars signing agreement prior indicating a promise to abide by any decision made by said tribunal - then you would have a situation where closure might be arrived at.

In the original post by LC there are some inconsitancies that need clarification in order to determine if infact such a thing will take place, for instance:

> QUOTE
>
> The 3ABN board has agreed in principal to empanel a tribunal under the auspices of ASI. ASI has tentatively agreed to sponsor such a panel, but the specifics are still unresolved and is yet to be fully formulated.

Who brought the possibility of such an event to the table? Did the 3ABN Board initiate the action? Were the board and Linda approached about such a possibility from a third party? The first sentence above seems to indicate the Board was approached with a proposal, while the second seems to allude to ASI being the one approached to take part in such an activity.

As for this statement:

> QUOTE
>
> The 3ABN board has agreed in principal to empanel a tribunal under the auspices of ASI.

It seems to me that, in context, LC probably meant "The 3ABN board has agreed in principal to the empaneling of[i] a tribunal under the auspices of ASI." He can speak to that, but that is how I read it contextually. This would then of course mean that the panel/tribunal/arbitrator would not be selected by 3ABN or it's representatives

It is my opinion that the post would be of greater impact if there were less hyperbole in the origianl post, for instance:

> QUOTE
>
> This was followed by witnesses of various issues contacting them and adding to the collage of information by the droves. The associates spoke about the findings and pointed out that with each contact and every leaf turned they were being over-run with allegations of inappropriate actions taken and financial issues of significant magnitude and felt compelled to pursue each and every allegation to it's most logical conclusion.

How many constitutes a drove (the dictionary defines it as a "large mass of people"), or are there actual numbers known and what (quantifiably) is meant by "over-run" with? I am genuinely interested in this and not picking at nits. If my interests of clarification don't match up with anyone elses, that doesn't make them any less important in seeking the truth. A closed mind is a dangerous thing, I would think the questions (open mind) would be welcomed and if evidence supports you can strengthen your case by providing answers.

- fhb

Posted by: Ralph Oct 5 2006, 03:08 PM

> QUOTE(justme @ Oct 5 2006, 02:05 PM) ☐
>
> i'd rather see IIW, WOH, TP, AF, anything but him and his.

Please write out the meaning for these abbreviations for those of us who are uninformed.

Posted by: watchbird Oct 5 2006, 03:08 PM

> QUOTE(fallible humanbeing @ Oct 5 2006, 02:54 PM) ☐
>
> WB,
>
> I said nothing in reference to this. TB had ventured a question about what a tribunal could possibly do. I merely presented the definition of tribunal for possible consideration. What type of tribunal, who convenes it, the selection process of its members are unknowns at the present time. I netiher advocated for, nor against such a thing.
>
> Using definition #2 above (bolded) and adding this clarification using the V #2 definition in > conjunction with VI definition below:

>
> American Heritage Dictionary
> ad·ju·di·cate (-jd-kt), v.
> 1. To hear and settle (a case) by judicial procedure.
> 2. To study and settle (a dispute or conflict): The principal adjudicated our quarrel.
> v. intr.
> To act as a judge.
> [Latin adidicre, adidict-, to award to (judicially) : ad-, ad- + idicre, to judge (from idex, judge. See judge).]
>
> Gives indication where a tribunal may very well be able to make a binding decision. Will they in this case, who knows? But if the endeavor is entered into this as though it were a binding arbitartion activity, with all particulars signing agreement prior indicating a promise to abide by any decision made by said tribunal - then you would have a situation where closure might be arrived at.
>
> In the original post by LC there are some inconsitancies that need clarification in order to determine if infact such a thing will take place, for instance:
> Who brought the possibility of such an event to the table? Did the 3ABN Board initiate the action? Were the board and Linda approached about such a possibility from a third party? The first sentence above seems to indicate the Board was approached with a proposal, while the second seems to allude to ASI being the one approached to take part in such an activity.
>
> As for this statement:
> It seems to me that, in context, LC probably meant "The 3ABN board has agreed in principal to the empaneling of[i] a tribunal under the auspices of ASI." He can speak to that, but that is how I read it contextually. This would then of course mean that the panel/tribunal/arbitrator would not be selected by 3ABN or it's representatives
>
> It is my opinion that the post would be of greater impact if there were less hyperbole in the origianl post, for instance:
> How many constitutes a drove (the dictionary defines it as a "large mass of people"), or are there actual numbers known and what (quantifiably) is meant by "over-run" with? I am genuinely interested in this and not picking at nits. If my interests of clarification don't match up with anyone elses, that doesn't make them any less important in seeking the truth. A closed mind is a dangerous thing, I would think the questions (open mind) would be welcomed and if evidence supports you can strengthen your case by providing answers.
>
> - fhb

Thank you for returning to this and addressing the same concerns as I expressed.... using both your posting of the definition of a tribunal and what I also consider to be the muddled and extravagant claims in the opening post of this thread.

I have not seen you and I on the same side of many issues here ... but on this one we seem to be in agreement..... that there are holes as big as barn doors in the "proposal" that has been presented here. Don't expect me to supply answers..... I'm just trying to call attention to the "tricks, traps, and pitfalls" that lurk behind the unanswered questions.

Posted by: Panama_Pete Oct 5 2006, 03:53 PM

> QUOTE(justme @ Oct 5 2006, 03:05 PM)

> If the good shows withdraw then Danny wil have more time to criticize and beg for $$$. i'd rather see IIW, WOH, TP, AF, anything but him and his.

OK, Ralph, I'll take a stab at the definitions:

IIW - It is Written, an Adventist TV program from the Adventist Media Center.

WOH - Windows of Hope, a TV program produced by The Quiet Hour, of Redlands, CA.

TP - Teen Pathways, a TV program that airs on 3ABN and is produced at 3ABN.

AF - Amazing Facts, both Radio and TV programs from Amazing Facts, Inc., Roseville, CA.

GC - General Conference [World Headquarters] of Seventh-day Adventists, located in Silver Spring, MD.

NAD - North American Division of Seventh-day Adventists, also in Silver Spring, MD

ASI - Adventist Laymen's Services and Industries - An organization of lay people who bring Christ to the marketplace.

Living in the Toenails - A reference to a statue in Nebuchadnezzar's dream. The story is located in the book of Daniel.

Tribunal - With the "tri" in it, it originally referred to three judges sitting in judgment of a case.

Jihad - The National Council of Churches weighed in by explaining that "jihad means struggle or exertion in the way of God. The 'greater jihad' is the struggle against temptation and evil within oneself. The 'lesser jihad' is working against injustice or oppression in society."

Posted by: justme Oct 5 2006, 04:50 PM

> QUOTE(Panama_Pete @ Oct 5 2006, 04:53 PM)
>
> OK, Ralph, I'll take a stab at the definitions:
>
> IIW - It is Written, an Adventist TV program from the Adventist Media Center.
>
> WOH - Windows of Hope, a TV program produced by The Quiet Hour, of Redlands, CA.
>
> TP - Teen Pathways, a TV program that airs on 3ABN and is produced at 3ABN.
>
> AF - Amazing Facts, both Radio and TV programs from Amazing Facts, Inc., Roseville, CA.
>
> GC - General Conference [World Headquarters] of Seventh-day Adventists, located in Silver Spring, MD.
>
> NAD - North American Division of Seventh-day Adventists, also in Silver Spring, MD
>
> ASI - Adventist Laymen's Services and Industries - An organization of lay people who bring Christ to the marketplace.

> Living in the Toenails - A reference to a statue in Nebuchadnezzar's dream. The story is located in the book of Daniel.
>
> Tribunal - With the "tri" in it, it originally referred to three judges sitting in judgment of a case.
>
> Jihad - The National Council of Churches weighed in by explaining that "jihad means struggle or exertion in the way of God. The 'greater jihad' is the struggle against temptation and evil within oneself. The 'lesser jihad' is working against injustice or oppression in society."

"BINGO O O O " etc, etc ,etc .. thanks , I was away ..

Posted by: Ralph Oct 5 2006, 05:01 PM

> QUOTE(Panama_Pete @ Oct 5 2006, 03:53 PM) ☐
>
> OK, Ralph, I'll take a stab at the definitions:
> WOH - Windows of Hope, a TV program produced by The Quiet Hour, of Redlands, CA.
>
> TP - Teen Pathways, a TV program that airs on 3ABN and is produced at 3ABN.

Thanks a lot! I knew what $$$ meant but was stumped on the two that I left in quotes.

Posted by: Ralph Oct 5 2006, 05:35 PM

> QUOTE(husbandoftheyear @ Oct 5 2006, 06:50 AM) ☐
>
> BTW eveyone- What can ASI, NAD, GC, etc. do in this situation since 3ABN is not owned by them? I think I'm missing some point here.

That's a good question (which usually means that I don't have the answer). At the moment, they seem to be tangled up together like hair in a wad of gum. Does this give any hint to the answer?

Posted by: Truly Blonde Oct 5 2006, 07:50 PM

> QUOTE(justme @ Oct 5 2006, 01:05 PM) ☐
>
> Do they PAY 3ABN to air their program$???
>
> How much?
>
> If the good shows withdraw then Danny wil have more time to criticize and beg for $$$. i'd rather see IIW, WOH, TP, AF, anything but him and his.

Elder Bohr told us they pay 3abn $400.00 everytime they put one of his programs on the air. Cracking the Genesis code has 52 sermons. That is $400.00 times 52

TB

Posted by: Truly Blonde Oct 5 2006, 08:11 PM

fhb

Thanks for the definition of tribunal. I guess what I am wondering is if a tribunal has any weight in our country. I know other countries have tribunals but you don't hear that term used much in the good ole USofA. I think if they could have all parties come to an agreement on what the tribunal can and cannot do and agree to abide by it in writing there could be healing and closure. If on the other hand it is all up to 3abn to empannal the tribunal then I think it would not work. The tribunal would have to be totally impartial to both sides. I also think they would need to have their lawyers working just like in a trial. I don't think that Linda and Alyssa could stand up to Danny if they had to do it on their own.

I guess we will just have to wait and see what transpires. One thing I do know and that is that GOD IS IN CONTROL . His will, will be done. I am so glad that we don't have to make these judgments.

I also hope that however it comes out that not only the people who have been hurt by all of this will find peace but that those of us who are posting and sometimes get quite testy with each other will be able to put it aside and love one another. If we can't do it here on earth how will we ever be able to do it in Heaven?

Keep praying
tb

Posted by: justme Oct 5 2006, 08:32 PM

> QUOTE(Truly Blonde @ Oct 5 2006, 09:50 PM) ☐
>
> Elder Bohr told us they pay 3abn $400.00 everytime they put one of his programs on the air. Cracking the Genesis code has 52 sermons. That is $400.00 times 52
>
> TB

Only $20,800.00 for 52 programs. I wonder how Elder Bohr covers the "production costs" to make the programs. That's a lot, too! Are they produced by 3ABN?

Does Doug Bachelor, in Sacremento, hire a contract crew or doe they own and run their own equipment and personnel?

PMC and LLUMC have their own equipt and crews, too, right?

Did anyone see Danny "Live" tonight?

Posted by: Truly Blonde Oct 5 2006, 08:43 PM

> QUOTE(justme @ Oct 5 2006, 06:32 PM) ☐
>
> Only $20,800.00 for 52 programs. I wonder how Elder Bohr covers the "production costs" to make the programs. That's a lot, too! Are they produced by 3ABN?
>
> Does Doug Bachelor, in Sacramento, hire a contract crew or doe they own and run their own equipment and personnel?
>
> PMC and LLUMC have their own equipt and crews, too, right?
>
> Did anyone see Danny "Live" tonight?

Elder Bohr told us his church decided that this would be their ministry. They film their own videos and then they make them into DVD's and CD's. When he goes around to churches and does seminars he sells the DVD's and CD's. He told us that all of the money goes back into the ministry. He doesn't receive a dime himself. When he came to our church we payed his transportation and his meals and lodging. He is very dedicated to getting the gospel out to any who will listen. Quite a contrast from someone else who shall remain nameless.

tb

Posted by: justme Oct 5 2006, 08:48 PM

> QUOTE(Truly Blonde @ Oct 5 2006, 10:43 PM) ☐
>
> Elder Bohr told us his church decided that this would be their ministry. They film their own videos and then they make them into DVD's and CD's. When he goes around to churches and does seminars he sells the DVD's and CD's. He told us that all of the money goes back into the ministry. He doesn't receive a dime himself. When he came to our church we payed his transportation and his meals and lodging. He is very dedicated to getting the gospel out to any who will listen. Quite a contrast from someone else who shall remain nameless.
>
> tb

AAAAAA AMEN!

Posted by: Skyhook Oct 5 2006, 09:19 PM

I saw Danny live tonight with David Ascherick and Nathan Renner. Danny kept making obvious allusions to his difficulties without being specific. Ascherick and Renner were ministering to him and encouraging him. I wonder how much they know about whats going on, or if they only have his story of being a victim of "people saying bad things about him." This past friday he was on with James Rafferty and it was a similar situation. Rafferty said things that made it clear that the things he was saying were for Danny's benefit as well as the audience. Danny also said something about people being against him and even contacting a sattelite network co. to keep 3abn off.
(obviously Dish Network)
Someone said on this forum awhile back that Danny is his own worst enemy. Everytime he makes references on the air about the situation, many more people get the idea that all is not well at 3abn, and of course, will want to know what is going on.

Posted by: justme Oct 5 2006, 10:13 PM

> QUOTE(Skyhook @ Oct 5 2006, 11:19 PM)
>
> I saw Danny live tonight with David Ascherick and Nathan Renner. Danny kept making obvious allusions to his difficulties without being specific. Ascherick and Renner were ministering to him and encouraging him. I wonder how much they know about whats going on, or if they only have his story of being a victim of "people saying bad things about him." This past friday he was on with James Rafferty and it was a similar situation. Rafferty said things that made it clear that the things he was saying were for Danny's benefit as well as the audience. Danny also said something about people being against him and even contacting a sattelite network co. to keep 3abn off. (obviously Dish Network)
> Someone said on this forum awhile back that Danny is his own worst enemy. Everytime he makes references on the air about the situation, many more people get the idea that all is not well at 3abn, and of course, will want to know what is going on.

He seems totally oblivious to the idea that he needs help. Can't someone get through to him, or would they rather keep "using" him as they do.

The most difficult thing in the world to do is to have a ministry. The ones I have known which are the most successful (results) do not have to spend time defending themselves. Whom God is leads He is also protects. "When a man's way please the Lord, He makes even his enemies to be at peace with him." someone with a concordance please find this quote, Proverbs, likey. It is good to remember!
Thanks SH

Posted by: Ralph Oct 5 2006, 10:38 PM

> QUOTE(justme @ Oct 5 2006, 10:13 PM)
>
> "When a man's way please the Lord, He makes even his enemies to be at peace with him." someone with a concordance please find this quote, Proverbs, likey. It is good to remember!
> Thanks SH

Proverbs 16:7

Posted by: västergötland Oct 6 2006, 03:13 AM

> QUOTE(Panama_Pete @ Oct 5 2006, 10:53 PM)
>
> Jihad - The National Council of Churches weighed in by explaining that "jihad means struggle or exertion in the way of God. The 'greater jihad' is the struggle against temptation and evil within oneself. The 'lesser jihad' is working against injustice or oppression in society."

There is a church definition of Jihad?

Posted by: Panama_Pete Oct 6 2006, 08:59 AM

> QUOTE(västergötland @ Oct 6 2006, 04:13 AM)
>
> There is a church definition of Jihad?

Yes

Posted by: watchbird Oct 6 2006, 12:01 PM

> QUOTE(västergötland @ Oct 6 2006, 03:13 AM)
>
> There is a church definition of Jihad?

> QUOTE(Panama_Pete @ Oct 6 2006, 08:59 AM)
>
> Yes

Why wouldn't there be. Words from all religions find their way into secular use... sometimes morphing somewhat in the journey.... where one or another of their original meanings in their original settings becomes part of the common vocabulary of persons from all, or no, religious background.

Jihad, to me has come to mean a "holy war" to which one commits himself ... even onto death. In the eyes of others, that specific "holy war" may be seen as holy or as very UNholy. But the basic concept of total committment remains the same.

Some other examples .... crusade, campaign, kamikaze ... all in someway expressing the same or similar thoughts behind the motto said to be used by American Revolutionaries when they broke away from the British Empire.... We "pledge our lives, our fortunes, and our sacred honor"....

Total committment to a cause that is perceived to be worthy ... even unto death .... Jihad and Crusade.... one term with Muslim background and one with Christian. Other than the intellectual content of the belief system they originally represented, are they really all that different?

Posted by: fallible humanbeing Oct 6 2006, 12:37 PM

> QUOTE(watchbird @ Oct 6 2006, 01:01 PM)
>
> .... Jihad and Crusade.... one term with Muslim background and one with Christian. Other than the intellectual content of the belief system they originally represented, are they really all that > different?

In a historical context, No. Both represented exercises in religious oppression to varying degrees. They grew out of a belief that their given religious dogma was "right" and needed to be spread, at times, by any means necessary. Both felt they had divine ordination to spread their faith and even at times require that those conqured converted. Other times no conversion was necessary but this resulted in societal isolation and a reduction of rights within the community.

- fhb

Posted by: västergötland Oct 6 2006, 12:57 PM

But that wasnt a redefined word. The definition given is the very one given by the Imams, at least when telling westerners what it means. Just supprised is all, never heard about it before.

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Oct 6 2006, 04:54 PM

My quick twopence on the current discourse:

> QUOTE(fallible humanbeing @ Oct 5 2006, 10:31 AM) ☐
>
> American Heritage Dictionary
> ji·had also je·had (j-hd), n.
> 1. A Muslim holy war or spiritual struggle against infidels.[Arabic jihd, from jahada, to strive. See ghd in Semitic Roots.]

This definition is certainly not Muslim-specific.

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Oct 6 2006, 05:08 PM

> QUOTE(watchbird @ Oct 6 2006, 10:01 AM) ☐
>
> Jihad, to me has come to mean a "holy war" to which one commits himself ... even onto death. In the eyes of others, that specific "holy war" may be seen as holy or as very UNholy. But the basic concept of total committment remains the same.

I agree.

Seems to me that if a cause is esteemed worthy of Jihad, of fighting for it even unto death, the battle plan and the armaments should be above reproach.

If we are willing to throw IEDs at those who don't see eye to eye with us I believe we devalue our credibility.

Posted by: sonshineonme Oct 6 2006, 11:02 PM

> QUOTE(Panama_Pete @ Oct 5 2006, 02:53 PM)
>
> OK, Ralph, I'll take a stab at the definitions:
>
> IIW - It is Written, an Adventist TV program from the Adventist Media Center.
>
> WOH - Windows of Hope, a TV program produced by The Quiet Hour, of Redlands, CA.
>
> TP - Teen Pathways, a TV program that airs on 3ABN and is produced at 3ABN.
>
> AF - Amazing Facts, both Radio and TV programs from Amazing Facts, Inc., Roseville, CA.
>
> GC - General Conference [World Headquarters] of Seventh-day Adventists, located in Silver Spring, MD.
>
> NAD - North American Division of Seventh-day Adventists, also in Silver Spring, MD
>
> ASI - Adventist Laymen's Services and Industries - An organization of lay people who bring Christ to the marketplace.
>
> Living in the Toenails - A reference to a statue in Nebuchadnezzar's dream. The story is located in the book of Daniel.
>
> Tribunal - With the "tri" in it, it originally referred to three judges sitting in judgment of a case.
>
> Jihad - The National Council of Churches weighed in by explaining that "jihad means struggle or exertion in the way of God. The 'greater jihad' is the struggle against temptation and evil within oneself. The 'lesser jihad' is working against injustice or oppression in society."

What would we do without you pete!

Posted by: Chez Oct 9 2006, 10:41 AM

Does anyone know about the EEOC investigation concerning the hiring practice at 3ABN? Someone told me that the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission(EEOC) is investigating 3ABN concerning discrimination issues.

Chez

Posted by: husbandoftheyear Oct 9 2006, 08:27 PM

I know that they ask whether or not the interviewees (sp?) are Christian or not. I thought that was a violation, but was told that it's different since they are NFP. Now looking back over many years, I realize they consider themselves above other laws as well - some we are seeing come out now. Boy there are pages of junk they've done to employees over the years. Perhaps we should start a new thread with stories...

What's really amazing is that when the administration sits down to figure out how much to pay you, they look a things that shouldn't matter - like - whether or not your are married (they consider the salaries of spouses), male/female (females usually make considerably less), have children, have a business, and so on.

Posted by: justme Oct 9 2006, 08:50 PM

> QUOTE(husbandoftheyear @ Oct 9 2006, 09:27 PM) ☐
>
> I know that they ask whether or not the interviewees (sp?) are Christian or not. I thought that was a violation, but was told that it's different since they are NFP. Now looking back over many years, I realize they consider themselves above other laws as well - some we are seeing come out now. Boy there are pages of junk they've done to employees over the years. Perhaps we should start a new thread with stories...
>
> What's really amazing is that when the administration sits down to figure out how much to pay you, they look a things that shouldn't matter - like - whether or not your are married (they consider the salaries of spouses), male/female (females usually make considerably less), have children, have a business, and so on.

Thats the way the "conferences" have done it for generations. It has been 'tested' in courts and for some reason it continues to this day. It has been and still is in stark contrast to EGW counsel on paying "gospel workers".

Posted by: Richard Sherwin Oct 9 2006, 10:21 PM

I don't know of any conference anymore that pays the women less or takes the other's spouses pay into consideration. It was my understanding that the chuch lost a lawsuit in WV over this very issue with teachers.

Richard

Posted by: Observer Oct 10 2006, 06:01 PM

> QUOTE(Richard Sherwin @ Oct 9 2006, 09:21 PM) ☐
>
> I don't know of any conference anymore that pays the women less or takes the other's spouses pay into consideration. It was my understanding that the chuch lost a lawsuit in WV over this very issue with teachers.
>
> Richard

I agree with Richard.

I suspect that 3-ABN may be able to get away with it, if they do that. But, I do not believe that any official part of the SDA Church pays women less than men, for the same job.

Posted by: watchbird Oct 10 2006, 07:35 PM

> QUOTE(Observer @ Oct 10 2006, 06:01 PM) ☐
>
> I agree with Richard.
>
> I suspect that 3-ABN may be able to get away with it, if they do that. But, I do not believe that any official part of the SDA Church pays women less than men, for the same job.

In general, the "Independent Ministries" are able to "get away with it" because they typically do not pay "salaries" nor "hour time", but only give "stipends".... in return for "volunteer" work. This may take the form of a quasi-commune, where the expenses of daily living ... housing, in some cases even dining... are taken care of by the "ministry", and their "stipend" is their only cash received. I have also heard of places where there is a dollar amount agreed to, but where the employee agrees to most of that being considered his "contribution" to the ministry.... so again, he only receives a small stipend in cash payment. So in a sense, they are not paying for the "job", nor for the value of the person's work.... and that leaves them essentially free to set their "perks" (or "sacrificial wages") any way they want to. Whether any of these methods of remuneration are applicable to 3abn, I know not.

As to Conference policy. I was under the impression for many years that the "MariKay lawsuit" had had precisely the effect that Observer notes. It was not until 1995 that I learned differently .... that this ONLY affected the NAD. Whether there are some other Divisions which also pay equal wages for equal work, I know not... but I did learn at that time that there were gross inequities in many world Divisions ...... and not only between men and women, but also between nationals and expatriot workers.

When several top GC officials were challenged directly, face to face, in an open "small group" meeting, with the question, "Do we, or do we not, believe in equality?" There was a very embarrased silence and much looking from one to the other, and the silence grew uncomfortably long, before one man finally took the mike and answered, "In principle, we do." When pressed with whether this extended to practice, the same man took a deep breath and answered honestly, "No, it does not."

I was there. I heard it with my own ears and saw the speakers (and the non-speakers) with my own eyes. I took notes. But I do not think I should name names as to who was there and did not answer, nor who finally answered.

Posted by: fallible humanbeing Oct 10 2006, 08:01 PM

> QUOTE(watchbird @ Oct 10 2006, 08:35 PM) ☐
>
> When several top GC officials were challenged directly, face to face, in an open "small group" meeting, with the question, "Do we, or do we not, believe in equality?" There was a very embarrased silence and much looking from one to the other, and the silence grew uncomfortably long, before one man finally took the mike and answered, "In principle, we do." When pressed with whether this extended to practice, the same man took a deep breath and answered honestly, "No, it > does not."

>
> I was there. I heard it with my own ears and saw the speakers (and the non-speakers) with my own eyes. I took notes. But I do not think I should name names as to who was there and did not answer, nor who finally answered.

WB,

This is an example of what I have found as disingenuous in these threads. If you don't think you should name names, then don't make that comment because it "titillates instead of illuminates."

I think, however, that the fact it was a public meeting means that anything that happened there, or was said is open for public discussion, including who said it since that gives the hearer context - you violate no "non-disclosure" agreements by sharing what happened at a public meeting.

As for the Alyssa disclosure, my understanding (from reading here) is that this was a quasi-public statement in that it was made public selectively. But, once one makes a statement like this and it begins the dissemination process you have to be prepared for it make a nonsanctioned public apperance - it is just going to happen eventually.

- fhb

Posted by: Observer Oct 10 2006, 08:36 PM

My comment only applied to the United States. I should have so stated.

Posted by: watchbird Oct 10 2006, 08:44 PM

> QUOTE(Observer @ Oct 10 2006, 08:36 PM)
>
> My comment only applied to the United States. I should have so stated.

Thank you for the clarification. Do you.... or anyone else ... have any indication that this has been extended to other parts of the world field in the last ten years?

Posted by: watchbird Oct 10 2006, 09:11 PM

> QUOTE(fallible humanbeing @ Oct 10 2006, 08:01 PM)
>
> WB,
>
> This is an example of what I have found as disingenuous in these threads. If you don't think you should name names, then don't make that comment because it "titillates instead of illuminates."

"Titillation" is an act of the hearing mind as it chooses its way to react to things it hears. If this is your chosen reaction... that is your problem and I am under no compunction to stimulate your mind any further by giving you more precise information.

> QUOTE
>
> I think, however, that the fact it was a public meeting means that anything that happened there, or was said is open for public discussion, including who said it since that gives the hearer context - you violate no "non-disclosure" agreements by sharing what happened at a public meeting.

You are correct. It was a public meeting, duly announced well ahead of time in a public place. I neither signed nor was I asked to sign any "non-disclosure" agreements. My choice of what I think is appropriate to say in this venue is strictly my decision.... and my decision is that the point of my comment would not be enhanced by giving more details than what I have given.

> QUOTE
>
> As for the Alyssa disclosure, my understanding (from reading here) is that this was a quasi-public statement in that it was made public selectively. But, once one makes a statement like this and it begins the dissemination process you have to be prepared for it make a nonsanctioned public apperance - it is just going to happen eventually.
>
> - fhb

The facts are that it was accompanied ... or was supposed to be accompanied..... by a letter that clearly stated the stipulations as to how it was to be circulated..... and among whom. It is true that this request had no legal standing, since no recipient was forced to sign a "non-disclosure" agreement before receiving the document.

It is also true that human nature being what it is, it was inevitable that eventually someone would step outside the bounds of the conditions that were stated. Once that has happened, it hardly adds anything of value to keep defending the actions of the person who did so in ways which in effect become yet another ....

For the facts of life are also that no matter how much one is "prepared for" it..... more still hurts.

Or, to put it another way ...

"But whoso shall offend one of these little ones which believe in me, it were better for him that a millstone were hanged about his neck, and that he were drowned in the depth of the sea.

"Woe unto the world because of offences! for it must needs be that offences come; but woe to that man by whom the offence cometh!" Matthew 18:6-8 (KJV)

Posted by: fallible humanbeing Oct 10 2006, 09:21 PM

> QUOTE(watchbird @ Oct 10 2006, 10:11 PM)
>
> "Titillation" is an act of the hearing mind as it chooses its way to react to things it hears. If this is > your chosen reaction...

I respectfully disagree. "Titillation" is a verb applied to the intent of the speaker not the hearer. One can listen for it, but it can only be given by the speaker. To suggest, as you do, that it is the hearer's "fault" means that the speaker bears no responsibility for their words or the effect of their words.

RE: the Alyssa comments, I merely made comment to them because they too were a disclosure of information and I thought it pertinent to make comment to them - not for the purpose of defending the poster but rather as a "by comparison" comment because you had referenced a public forum Q and A.

- fhb

Posted by: Observer Oct 10 2006, 09:31 PM

> QUOTE(watchbird @ Oct 10 2006, 07:44 PM)
>
> Thank you for the clarification. Do you.... or anyone else ... have any indication that this has been extended to other parts of the world field in the last ten years?

As to other parts of the world, I simply do not know.

I have lived in other parts of the world. But, I do not have inside knowledge as to their pay practices.

Posted by: watchbird Oct 10 2006, 09:51 PM

> QUOTE(fallible humanbeing @ Oct 10 2006, 09:21 PM)
>
> I respectfully disagree. "Titillation" is a verb applied to the intent of the speaker not the hearer. One can listen for it, but it can only be given by the speaker. To suggest, as you do, that it is the hearer's "fault" means that the speaker bears no responsibility for their words or the effect of their words.- fhb

Then you are presuming to judge my intent..... and you are judging wrongly, for it was not my intent to "tease" anyone .... in fact, quite the opposite...... anticipating that someone might ask who the speaker was, I gave my position as to whether I would identify them in advance. This, then, is not a "tease" at all.... but a shutting the door on such "teasing" challenges with which you and others are in the habit of confronting us who are giving information. If you persist in accusing us of that, then indeed, the only conclusion I can reach is that it is you who are doing the "teasing" .... the "titillating".... as you call it ... though with the sexual overtones usually associated with that word, I personally avoid and especially resent the use of it. Maybe it is commonly used in your world.... in mine it is seldom used and I consider it uncouth, unkind, improper, impolite, and inappropriately suggestive..... and those are only the milder words that express my feelings about it.

Now ... hopefully .... back to our regular programming.

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Oct 10 2006, 11:29 AM

> QUOTE(fallible humanbeing @ Oct 10 2006, 08:21 PM) ☐
>
> I respectfully disagree. "Titillation" is a verb applied to the intent of the speaker not the hearer. One can listen for it, but it can only be given by the speaker. To suggest, as you do, that it is the hearer's "fault" means that the speaker bears no responsibility for their words or the effect of their words.
>
> RE: the Alyssa comments, I merely made comment to them because they too were a disclosure of information and I thought it pertinent to make comment to them - not for the purpose of defending the poster but rather as a "by comparison" comment because you had referenced a public forum Q and A.
>
> - fhb

As you recently posted here, the Free Online dictionary contains the following:

v. tit·il·lat·ed, tit·il·lat·ing, tit·il·lates
v.tr.
1. To stimulate by touching lightly; tickle.
2. To excite (another) pleasurably, superficially or erotically.
v.intr.
To excite another, especially in a superficial, pleasurable manner: "Once you decide to titillate instead of illuminate . . . you create a climate of expectation that requires a higher and higher level of intensity" Bill Moyers.

So, while the wider use may be of an erotic nature, the word clearly has an application in the world of information sharing, of verbal communication.

Whether some are less than comfortable with its use here is a matter of personal choice.

Posted by: justme Oct 10 2006, 12:33 PM

> QUOTE(PeacefullyBewildered @ Oct 10 2006, 01:29 PM) ☐
>
> As you recently posted here, the Free Online dictionary contains the following:
>
> v. tit·il·lat·ed, tit·il·lat·ing, tit·il·lates
> v.tr.
> 1. To stimulate by touching lightly; tickle.
> 2. To excite (another) pleasurably, superficially or erotically.
> v.intr.
> To excite another, especially in a superficial, pleasurable manner: "Once you decide to titillate instead of illuminate . . . you create a climate of expectation that requires a higher and higher level of intensity" Bill Moyers.
>
> --

> So, while the wider use may be of an erotic nature, the word clearly has an application in the world of information sharing, of verbal communication.
>
> Whether some are less than comfortable with its use here is a matter of personal choice.

I am quite sure that any recipirnt of "T" will have the option of making the decision as to whether the "T" actions are "offensive' or "exciting". For many I have known, "T" attempts got them a slap in the face. Based upon the "interpretation" by the recipient.

Posted by: justme Oct 10 2006, 12:47 PM

> QUOTE(watchbird @ Oct 10 2006, 10:44 PM)
>
> Thank you for the clarification. Do you.... or anyone else ... have any indication that this has been extended to other parts of the world field in the last ten years?

YOU HAVE GREAT INSIGHTS!

Posted by: Green Cochoa Oct 10 2006, 01:12 PM

> QUOTE(Observer @ Oct 10 2006, 09:31 PM)
>
> As to other parts of the world, I simply do not know.
>
> I have lived in other parts of the world. But, I do not have inside knowledge as to their pay practices.

Living in other parts of the world, I can say that to attempt equal pay across the gender divide might, in some cultures, be to the detriment of marital harmony within the home, and would go strongly against local custom and culture. In some Asian countries, for example, the status system is very strong. A woman always has lower status than her husband, and her identity is tied to his. This can work two ways, either the husband's status can serve to elevate that of his wife, or the wife's status can influence that of her husband--but taken together, the his and her positions are clear. In one place I have lived, for example, status is determined by the following criteria: wealth, income, age, education, position, friends in high places (influence), and gender. It is not unusual for questions regarding one's age or birthday and one's income to be asked upon first acquaintance, to help establish one's identity in relationship to the new acquaintance! (BTW, women can have higher status than men, just not higher than their husbands.)

But if you want to get into a really heated topic on this, check out what the Bible says in passages like Leviticus 27.

I guess the question for me is, should our church regard the particular culture, and try to work in cooperation with it? Or should the church just follow "principle" as determined by vote or by the leadership, regardless? On the other hand, if we were to follow the Bible, is equal pay for men and for women indicated? For that matter, is equal pay for men indicated? (see Matthew 20)

For my part, the issue is far short of cut and dried, and I don't have a clear opinion one way or another on this. These are not easy questions. It's sometimes easy for those who are accustomed to one culture or thinking to presume that something would be fair and equitable in every part of the world. That is not always the case, however.

Posted by: Panama_Pete Oct 10 2006, 02:04 PM

> QUOTE(fallible humanbeing @ Oct 10 2006, 09:01 PM)
>
> WB,
>
> This is an example of what I have found as disingenuous in these threads. If you don't think you should name names, then don't make that comment because it "titillates instead of illuminates."
>
> - fhb

Dear Fallible,

Speaking of naming names, Samuele Bacchiocchi did provide his name. He wrote a letter which is posted here at BSDA. Correct me if I am wrong, but to date you have merely called his letter "interesting" and asked for the date of his letter.

Correct me if I am wrong, but didn't you claim to have had Professor Bacchiocchi as a professor? That's rather Spartan treatment for your former professor, isn't it? Your former professor being merely interesting? Nothing more? You must have found his letter much more than that.

Obviously, you have studied theology at the college level. Since the kind professor has, indeed, provided you with his name, why not analyze his letter for us, Fallible, and let us know if you agree with Bacchiocchi or not, and why.

Do you think Professor Sam is right when he says the only honorable thing for Danny to do is resign? Why or why not? What's your specific point of view? You must have had essay questions in college. You are clearly a bright person, so go for it. I would be interested in knowing what you think, not so much your analysis of the editorial capacities of the other posters.

Posted by: Lee Oct 10 2006, 07:59 PM

Wow Pete, you threw a lot of "stones" at fallible. Between you and watchbird, we have a sizable pile. argu

---

Posted by: Freedom Oct 10 2006, 08:27 PM

> QUOTE(Observer @ Oct 10 2006, 07:01 PM)
>
> I agree with Richard.
>
> I suspect that 3-ABN may be able to get away with it, if they do that. But, I do not believe that any official part of the SDA Church pays women less than men, for the same job.

Yes, 3ABN gets away with it and pays women less for doing the same job!

Posted by: Panama_Pete Oct 10 2006, 09:42 PM

> QUOTE(Lee @ Oct 10 2006, 07:59 PM) ☐
>
> Wow Pete, you threw a lot of "stones" at fallible. Between you and watchbird, we have a sizable pile. arouc

Not even one stone was thrown. I said:

"You are clearly a bright person, so go for it. I would be interested in knowing what you think, not so much your analysis of the editorial capacities of the other posters."

How is referring to someone as "clearly a bright person" throwing a stone?

Explain where you see stones in that?

Posted by: västergötland Oct 11 2006, 02:00 AM

If it is viewed as ironic...

Posted by: Panama_Pete Oct 11 2006, 05:59 AM

> QUOTE(västergötland @ Oct 11 2006, 02:00 AM) ☐
>
> If it is viewed as ironic...

According to Wikipedia:

'Verbal irony is traditionally defined as the use of words to convey something other than, and especially the opposite of the literal meaning of the words."

So, someone would be seeing the opposite of what is actually stated. Got it.

Posted by: watchbird Oct 11 2006, 06:40 AM

> QUOTE(Lee @ Oct 10 2006, 07:59 PM)
>
> Wow Pete, you threw a lot of "stones" at fallible. Between you and watchbird, we have a sizable pile.

Welllll....... if making the decision to stop evading stones and merely stepping aside and letting them pile up... and catching one, adding it to the pile and saying "Stop! No more. That is more than 'enough-already'." qualifies as "throwing" "stones"..... then so-be-it.... .... I bow before your personna.....

However.... I still say..... that is enough. My intents are mine, and not to be judged by others .... whether by four letter words or by four syllable ones. If someone really wonders about what my intents are, feel free to ask..... but then accept my clarification.... and let's move on to more profitable topics.

Posted by: justme Oct 11 2006, 11:59 AM

Welllllll, wellllll ...

ouch! everybody.
I thought we came here to discuss issues about 3ABN.

How did we get from DISCUSSING issues to BECOMING the issues?

Just a point I have observed with regard to Independent Ministries and payroll issues.

When an independent ministry has ministers who come from a conference and are on the conference payroll, their function in the independent ministry draws a salary for them. They are still keeping their payroll and benefits package with and from the conference, because it has health plans and other perks not available through the independent ministry (IM).

Because the conference is not going to pay for a non-productive conference employee there is this arrangement. That minister will usually say,"I have never drawn a salary from this ministry." True, but not accurate. The minister still gets all his salary, benefits and perks from the conference, BUT the IM in turn writes a check each month to the conference to REIMBURSE the conference for that minister's pay.

The remainder of the IM employees usually settle for meager pay because, says the ministry, "we are all missionaries here, and missionaries don't get paid much; Your pay is in the future, in heaven." Often even the employees don't have Social Security taxes witheld each month because it must be matched by the IM as employer. So the employee has no benefits from Social Security ever to draw upon. Disability, retirement, survivor benefits. It is a little-known tragedy swept under the proverbial rug.

Posted by: Clay Oct 11 2006, 12:39 PM

> QUOTE(justme @ Oct 11 2006, 12:59 PM)
>
> Welllllll, wellllll ...

> ouch! everybody.
> I thought we came here to discuss issues about 3ABN.
>
> How did we get from DISCUSSING issues to BECOMING the issues?

3abn is being discussed because some are the issue.... or to look at it another way, we have made the issue about us in the sense of how 3ABN does or does not fit into our idea of how things should be done....

At the moment that some have voiced that they should have a say in how a man should run the "private" business that he owns, at that point, it became about us....

Posted by: Green Cochoa Oct 13 2006, 09:40 AM

> QUOTE(Clay @ Oct 11 2006, 12:39 PM)
>
> 3abn is being discussed because some are the issue.... or to look at it another way, we have made the issue about us in the sense of how 3ABN does or does not fit into our idea of how things should be done....
>
> At the moment that some have voiced that they should have a say in how a man should run the "private" business that he owns, at that point, it became about us....

Is there such a thing as a "private" "public" business? Haha...I think you were looking for a reaction on that one! And the Bible is clear that when we see a brother....well, let me quote directly:

- And if a soul sin, and hear the voice of swearing, and is a witness, whether he hath seen or known of it; if he do not utter it, then he shall bear his iniquity. (Leviticus 5:1)
- Thou shalt not hate thy brother in thine heart: thou shalt in any wise rebuke thy neighbour, and not suffer sin upon him. (Leviticus 19:17)
- But if the watchman see the sword come, and blow not the trumpet, and the people be not warned; if the sword come, and take any person from among them, he is taken away in his iniquity; but his blood will I require at the watchman's hand. (Ezekiel 33:6)

Ya? Public sins are, after all, the responsibility of the witnesses to them to deal with--to sound the trumpet, figuratively. Now, where's that trumpet smiley!

Posted by: watchbird Oct 13 2006, 10:22 AM

> QUOTE(Green Cochoa @ Oct 13 2006, 09:40 AM)
>
> Is there such a thing as a "private" "public" business? Haha...I think you were looking for a reaction on that one! And the Bible is clear that when we see a brother....well, let me quote directly:
>
> - And if a soul sin, and hear the voice of swearing, and is a witness, whether he hath seen or known of it; if he do not utter it, then he shall bear his iniquity. (Leviticus 5:1)

> - Thou shalt not hate thy brother in thine heart: thou shalt in any wise rebuke thy neighbour, and not suffer sin upon him. (Leviticus 19:17)
> - But if the watchman see the sword come, and blow not the trumpet, and the people be not warned; if the sword come, and take any person from among them, he is taken away in his iniquity; but his blood will I require at the watchman's hand. (Ezekiel 33:6)

Seems to me the third is the most applicable to the present situation. The first will have application in some instances, but in context it seems to be speaking specifically of those who have been called to be a witness in a legal court situation. The second, in context is focused more on how one handles things between himself and another individual. But the third clearly states that the watchman who doesn't sound the warning when he sees danger will be held responsible for whoever gets harmed by the danger that he did not expose.

What about the New Testament? Are there similar principles expressed there? Or is the New Testament only sweetness and light ... love your brother and don't expose his sins?

> QUOTE
>
> Ya? Public sins are, after all, the responsibility of the witnesses to them to deal with--to sound the trumpet, figuratively. Now, where's that trumpet smiley!

We don't stand on the city wall and blow trumpets now. No one would hear if we did. Everyone is inside snackin and watchin................ TVsnack.

So we use electronic "trumpets"....... here's a couple ....

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Oct 13 2006, 07:58 PM

> QUOTE(watchbird @ Oct 13 2006, 08:22 AM)
>
> Seems to me the third is the most applicable to the present situation. The first will have application in some instances, but in context it seems to be speaking specifically of those who have been called to be a witness in a legal court situation. The second, in context is focused more on how one handles things between himself and another individual. But the third clearly states that the watchman who doesn't sound the warning when he sees danger will be held responsible for whoever gets harmed by the danger that he did not expose.
>
> What about the New Testament? Are there similar principles expressed there?

Matthew 18 is one such passage that deals with how to handle sin. You invoked this one recently.

Matthew 18:15-17" If your brother sins against you, go and show him his fault, just between the two of you. If he listens to you, you have won your brother over. 16 But if he will not listen, take one or two others along, so that 'every matter may be established by the testimony of two or three witnesses.' 17 If he refuses to listen to them, tell it to the church; and if he refuses to listen even to the church, treat him as you would a pagan or a tax collector. (I would imagine that this means praying diligently for him. Isn't that what we are supposed to do for pagans?)

> QUOTE
>
> Or is the New Testament only sweetness and light ... love your brother and don't expose his sins?

I know you must be using irony here. Certainly you don't seriously intend to characterize the New Testament as "only sweetness and light".

Matthew 27:45,46 From the sixth hour until the ninth hour darkness came over all the land. 46 About the ninth hour Jesus cried out in a loud voice, "Eloi, Eloi lama sabachthani?"—which means, "My God, my God, why have you forsaken me?"

Matthew 27:50,51 And when Jesus had cried out again in a loud voice, he gave up his spirit.
51 At that moment the curtain of the temple was torn in two from top to bottom.

As I understand it, in the Old Testament, mankind was under the Old Covenant of the law, still practicing the sacrificial system that pointed forward to the coming Redeemer. In the New Testament, the Old Covenant was replaced by the New Covenant of Grace.

The sacrificial system was finished. The price of grace and mercy was paid.

Yes, the New Testament is filled with sweetness and Light - and grace and mercy and exhortation and...

Posted by: Green Cochoa Oct 14 2006, 05:40 AM

This is a little bit deep, but for all those who are able to understand some legalese, consider this for a moment. The two "covenants" and the two "testaments" are one and the same, essentially. The word "testament" is a legal term, and represents a will, as in "will and testament." A will or testament does not take effect until the death of the testator. At that point, the testament becomes legally binding, and unchangeable. Figuratively speaking, it has been "signed" by the blood of the testator and can NO LONGER be changed.

Jesus' death on the cross sealed the old testament as truly as with any legal will. That we have a "New Testament" does not in any way remove that which was binding from the "Old Testament." It is IN ADDITION TO the old covenant law, which has now become binding through the death of the testator.

> QUOTE
>
> Hebrews
> 9:1 Then verily the first covenant had also ordinances of divine service, and a worldly sanctuary.
> 9:2 For there was a tabernacle made; the first, wherein was the candlestick, and the table, and the showbread; which is called the sanctuary.
> 9:3 And after the second veil, the tabernacle which is called the Holiest of all;
> 9:4 Which had the golden censer, and the ark of the covenant overlaid round about with gold, wherein was the golden pot that had manna, and Aaron's rod that budded, and the tables of the covenant;
> ...
> 9:14 How much more shall the blood of Christ, who through the eternal Spirit offered himself without spot to God, purge your conscience from dead works to serve the living God?
> 9:15 And for this cause he is the mediator of the new testament, that by means of death, for the redemption of the transgressions that were under the first testament, they which are called might > receive the promise of eternal inheritance.

> 9:16 For where a testament is, there must also of necessity be the death of the testator.
> 9:17 For a testament is of force after men are dead: otherwise it is of no strength at all while the testator liveth.
> 9:18 Whereupon neither the first testament was dedicated without blood.
> 9:19 For when Moses had spoken every precept to all the people according to the law, he took the blood of calves and of goats, with water, and scarlet wool, and hyssop, and sprinkled both the book, and all the people,
> 9:20 Saying, This is the blood of the testament which God hath enjoined unto you.
> 9:21 Moreover he sprinkled with blood both the tabernacle, and all the vessels of the ministry.
> 9:22 And almost all things are by the law purged with blood; and without shedding of blood is no remission.

The Old Covenant, or "Old Testament", was never to be "replaced" by the new. However, the symbolic blood of the animals which were a type of Christ, met their fulfillment in Christ's death. The faith-building exercise pointing toward a future event was no longer required, "future" having already been realized.

Posted by: watchbird Oct 14 2006, 08:28 AM

I had said:

> QUOTE(watchbird @ Oct 13 2006, 10:22 AM)
>
> Seems to me the third is the most applicable to the present situation. The first will have application in some instances, but in context it seems to be speaking specifically of those who have been called to be a witness in a legal court situation. The second, in context is focused more on how one handles things between himself and another individual. But the third clearly states that the watchman who doesn't sound the warning when he sees danger will be held responsible for whoever gets harmed by the danger that he did not expose.
>
> What about the New Testament? Are there similar principles expressed there? Or is the New Testament only sweetness and light ... love your brother and don't expose his sins?.......

To which you responded...

> QUOTE(PeacefullyBewildered @ Oct 13 2006, 07:58 PM)
>
> I know you must be using irony here. Certainly you don't seriously intend to characterize the New Testament as "only sweetness and light".

Excuse me for cutting to this one sentence of your post..... but by separating the "sweetness and light" sentence from its original context, you applied it in ways I had not intended it to apply... which then caused you to give texts that did not relate to my question.

So I have put it back into my original context in order to respond to what you said about "irony". For no... I was not being ironic. Obviously, however, I was unclear, so I'll attempt to clear up the misunderstanding.

The context (antecedent even) for the question about the New Testament is the specific teaching of the Old Testament that had been mentioned ... that of warning of dangers... including the sins of others.... in such a public fashion as illustrated by watchmen on the city walls blowing a trumpet. It did NOT ask for the whole Old Testament and New Testament approach to the plan of salvation to be compared.

So what I was asking was ... is this responsibility to make public the sins of others as described in the Old Testament repeated in the New Testament. Or does the New Testament focus ONLY on the "sweetness and light" attitude of "love your brother" "love covers a multitude of sins", etc.?

The background for my question was a very specific and recent personal experience.... which of course you would have known nothing about.... in which someone to whom I had recommended coming to BSDA to learn what is being said about 3abn, wrote me in critical fashion within an hour of receiving the recommendation (which shows how long she could have examined the site). Then a few days later wrote to tell me that she had been "praying about it", and was impressed to send me a list of texts which showed how Christ would handle such information.... all of which were from the New Testament and all of which were examples of "covering" (hiding), sins of others from public view.... all very much what I would describe as "sweetness and light".

Now I don't deny that those "sweet" texts are there.... and doubtless they could be found in the Old Testament as well. My question is ... what about the "other side".... the ones that give the responsibility of revealing sins... of being witnesses against someone's sins.... even going so far as witnessing in a formal court of law? Do we find THAT in the New Testament as well as the Old... and if so, how explicit is it? And what texts do others see that in?

Returning now to some of your comments:

> QUOTE
>
> Matthew 18 is one such passage that deals with how to handle sin. You invoked this one recently.
>
> Matthew 18:15-17" If your brother sins against you, go and show him his fault, just between the two of you. If he listens to you, you have won your brother over. 16 But if he will not listen, take one or two others along, so that 'every matter may be established by the testimony of two or three witnesses.' 17 If he refuses to listen to them, tell it to the church; and if he refuses to listen even to the church, treat him as you would a pagan or a tax collector. (I would imagine that this means praying diligently for him. Isn't that what we are supposed to do for pagans?)

Yes, I would consider this as one passage that gives the pattern for how to handle our knowledge of another's sin. However, I would have a little different view of what "treat him as you would a pagan or a tax collector" would mean than you have described.

While it is true that a Christian will always pray for "those who dispitefully use you", I think that has to do with salvation... which I don't think is the focus of this particular passage.

So I think that this text should be seen in relation to the text in which Paul advises brethren to not take brethren to the law court... and in view of that, here he is saying that when you have gone through the process of trying to straighten things out within the church, and he still does not "listen" (with the implication being that he would not only listen but would change his ways, making restitution and all that goes along with that), then it is time to "treat him as" though he were NOT a fellow church member.... which would be to take him to the civil court and allow it to exercise its power over him.

So yes, both in the "tell it to the church" and the "treat him as a pagan" clauses, I find this text echoing the Old Testament statements of the responsibility of believers to inform other believers.... and even unbelievers.... of the sins of those among them who have not been willing to change their ways after private confrontation.

Are there other texts that make this same point?

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Oct 14 2006, 08:28 AM

> QUOTE(Green Cochoa @ Oct 14 2006, 04:40 AM) ☐
>
> This is a little bit deep, but for all those who are able to understand some legalese, consider this for a moment. The two "covenants" and the two "testaments" are one and the same, essentially. The word "testament" is a legal term, and represents a will, as in "will and testament." A will or testament does not take effect until the death of the testator. At that point, the testament becomes legally binding, and unchangeable. Figuratively speaking, it has been "signed" by the blood of the testator and can NO LONGER be changed.
>
> Jesus' death on the cross sealed the old testament as truly as with any legal will. That we have a "New Testament" does not in any way remove that which was binding from the "Old Testament." It is IN ADDITION TO the old covenant law, which has now become binding through the death of the testator.
> The Old Covenant, or "Old Testament", was never to be "replaced" by the new. However, the symbolic blood of the animals which were a type of Christ, met their fulfillment in Christ's death. The faith-building exercise pointing toward a future event was no longer required, "future" having already been realized.

Thank you for this. I agree that the Old Testament was never replaced. What you wrote makes it clear.

So did the sacrificial system that was fulfilled at the Cross include the Mosaic law? We don't stone folks anymore, right?

Posted by: watchbird Oct 14 2006, 08:42 AM

> QUOTE(PeacefullyBewildered @ Oct 14 2006, 08:28 AM) ☐
>
> Thank you for this. I agree that the Old Testament was never replaced. What you wrote makes it clear.
>
> So did the sacrificial system that was fulfilled at the Cross include the Mosaic law? We don't stone folks anymore, right?

The sacrificial system has to do with how God handles sin.... IOW ... it has to do with salvation process.

The Mosaic law.... that part which can be separated from the sacrificial system.... has to do with civil law..... how to handle the effects of sins on onesself and ones fellow man.

In Old Testament times, for all practical purposes the church and the state were the same. In New Testament times that was still true to a limited sense, because in the Jewish nation the religious and civil authorities were invested in the same persons. But there was also a division of religious and civil authority and power because Rome's authority and power was greater than that of the Jewish leaders. So we have the beginnings there of the division of "church and state" that we today see as the "ideal".

We will confuse things if we don't sort out in our minds the difference between looking to scripture for the way of salvation and looking to scripture for ethical guidance in our relation to each other and to the civil governments of our particular nation.

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Oct 14 2006, 10:39 AM

> QUOTE(watchbird @ Oct 14 2006, 07:28 AM) ☐
>
> Excuse me for cutting to this one sentence of your post..... but by separating the "sweetness and light" sentence from its original context, you applied it in ways I had not intended it to apply... which then caused you to give texts that did not relate to my question.

Sorry, Watchbird, my bad.

> QUOTE
>
> So I have put it back into my original context in order to respond to what you said about "irony". For no... I was not being ironic. Obviously, however, I was unclear, so I'll attempt to clear up the misunderstanding.
>
> The context (antecedent even) for the question about the New Testament is the specific teaching of the Old Testament that had been mentioned ... that of warning of dangers... including the sins of others.... in such a public fashion as illustrated by watchmen on the city walls blowing a trumpet. It did NOT ask for the whole Old Testament and New Testament approach to the plan of salvation to be compared.
>
> So what I was asking was ... is this responsibility to make public the sins of others as described in the Old Testament repeated in the New Testament. Or does the New Testament focus ONLY on the "sweetness and light" attitude of "love your brother" "love covers a multitude of sins", etc.?

Of course, when one repents of their sins and asks the Lord for forgiveness, His love covers that multitude. As far as the responsibility of making public the sins of others, perhaps we could look at the letters Paul wrote to various churches. Many of them contain messages of warnings about the sins some were commiting.

> QUOTE
>
> The background for my question was a very specific and recent personal experience.... which of course you would have known nothing about.... in which someone to whom I had recommended coming to BSDA to learn what is being said about 3abn, wrote me in critical fashion within an hour of receiving the recommendation (which shows how long she could have examined the site). Then a few days later wrote to tell me that she had been "praying about it", and was impressed to send me a list of texts which showed how Christ would handle such information.... all of which were from the New Testament and all of which were examples of "covering" (hiding), sins of others from public view.... all very much what I would describe as "sweetness and light".
>
> Now I don't deny that those "sweet" texts are there.... and doubtless they could be found in the Old Testament as well. My question is ... what about the "other side".... the ones that give the responsibility of revealing sins... of being witnesses against someone's sins.... even going so far as > witnessing in a formal court of law? Do we find THAT in the New Testament as well as the Old... and if so, how explicit is it? And what texts do others see that in?

Dysfunctional systems need denial and the covering up of truth to survive. Some can even distort and misapply texts from the Bible to support this behavior. I guess it was your frustration over the situation with the person you referred here that I picked up on. As soon as I read your post, the image of Jesus in agony over the separation from His Father leapt to my mind. While filled with such hope for us, this image certainly isn't one of sweetness and light.

> QUOTE
>
> Returning now to some of your comments:
> Yes, I would consider this as one passage that gives the pattern for how to handle our knowledge of another's sin. However, I would have a little different view of what "treat him as you would a pagan or a tax collector" would mean than you have described.
>
> While it is true that a Christian will always pray for "those who dispitefully use you", I think that has to do with salvation... which I don't think is the focus of this particular passage.
>
> So I think that this text should be seen in relation to the text in which Paul advises brethren to not take brethren to the law court... and in view of that, here he is saying that when you have gone through the process of trying to straighten things out within the church, and he still does not "listen" (with the implication being that he would not only listen but would change his ways, making restitution and all that goes along with that), then it is time to "treat him as" though he were NOT a fellow church member.... which would be to take him to the civil court and allow it to exercise its power over him.
>
> So yes, both in the "tell it to the church" and the "treat him as a pagan" clauses, I find this text echoing the Old Testament statements of the responsibility of believers to inform other believers.... and even unbelievers.... of the sins of those among them who have not been willing to change their ways after private confrontation.
>
> Are there other texts that make this same point?

I agree with you that treating one who refuses to confront and change their sinful ways as a pagan or tax collector would be more appropriately interpreted be as you suggest. They have chosen to hold onto their sin and separate themselves from the bretheren in the process. This would open the way to biblically allow even civil proceedings.

However, 1John 5:16-20 says:
16 If anyone sees his brother commit a sin that does not lead to death, he should pray and God will give him life. I refer to those whose sin does not lead to death. There is a sin that leads to death. I am not saying that he should pray about that. 17 All wrongdoing is sin, and there is sin that does not lead to death.

18 We know that anyone born of God does not continue to sin; the one who was born of God keeps him safe, and the evil one cannot harm him. 19 We know that we are children of God, and that the whole world is under the control of the evil one. 20 We know also that the Son of God has come and has given us understanding, so that we may know him who is true. And we are in him who is true—even in his Son Jesus Christ. He is the true God and eternal life.

So, even when the person refuses to repent of his sin I believe we are to pray for him.

Of course there's Matthew 10:14 If anyone will not welcome you or listen to your words, shake the dust off your feet when you leave that home or town.

While I don't have at my fingertips any other NT texts that harken to the OT examples you posted I will certainly search for some.

Posted by: Fran Oct 14 2006, 11:06 PM

Found this from a blog about 3ABN and AToday. http://cafesda.blogspot.com/2006/08/atoday-on-latest-3abn-news_21.html

Atoday on Latest 3ABN News
From Adventist Today Website: Personal Lives and The Three Angels Broadcasting Network (3ABN): Statements by Adventist Today Editors, Dr. Arild Abrahamsen, Dr. Walter Thompson (Chair, 3ABN Board of Directors), and Mr. Danny Shelton

****
Please stop the repeat posting of these long letters here, I already have them pinned at the top for everyone to read.

Fran, you gave us the link, don't need to post every comment on their Blog here. Atoday may very well consider this copyrighted material.

Folks are really stretching to find something to talk with this story.

Posted by: Panama_Pete Oct 15 2006, 09:08 AM

> QUOTE(Calvin @ Oct 15 2006, 08:03 AM)
>
> Folks are really stretching to find something to talk with this story.

I prefer the way that our friend, Calvin Eakins, characterized it on the Spectrum Blog.

Calvin called it "the most comprehensive discussion on the saga of 3ABN." Where is this Calvin fellow when we need him? rofl

http://spectrummagazine.typepad.com/the_spectrum_blog/2006/08/the_means_and_e.html

I also thought Clifford Goldstein's comment was interesting where he says: "whenever anything is built around a single personality, the potential for trouble is immense, especially in ministry."

There are other interesting comments posted there as well.

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Oct 15 2006, 11:41 AM

> QUOTE(Panama_Pete @ Oct 15 2006, 07:08 AM)

> I prefer the way that our friend, Calvin Eakins, characterized it on the Spectrum Blog.
>
> Calvin called it "the most comprehensive discussion on the saga of 3ABN." Where is this Calvin fellow when we need him? rofl
> SNIP
> There are other interesting comments posted there as well.

I'll second that characterization, Calvin. It is so comprehensive that I've been here for almost two months and still have only touched the surface!!

PP, I briefly read the Spectrum link. Do you have a rundown of the doctrinal differences between 3abn and the SDA church? I have watched for several years and haven't seen any that were apparent to me. I have seen a guest say something quite questionable.
1. She learned in chaplain training that a vegetarian woman received the heart of a non-vegetarian, boozer biker. When she woke up she demanded beer and a big mac.
2. A young girl received the heart of a murdered young girl. When she woke up she was able to solve the crime by identifying the killer

The guest's biblical grounds...various texts refering to things being written on our hearts.

Posted by: Fran Oct 15 2006, 01:23 PM

> QUOTE(Fran @ Oct 15 2006, 12:06 AM)
>
> Please stop the repeat posting of these long letters here, I already have them pinned at the top for everyone to read.

OK

Posted by: calvin Oct 15 2006, 01:25 PM

Thank you Fran

Posted by: Panama_Pete Oct 15 2006, 02:36 PM

> QUOTE(PeacefullyBewildered @ Oct 15 2006, 12:41 PM)
>
> I'll second that characterization, Calvin. It is so comprehensive that I've been here for almost two months and still have only touched the surface!!
>
> PP, I briefly read the Spectrum link. Do you have a rundown of the doctrinal differences between 3abn and the SDA church? I have watched for several years and haven't seen any that were apparent to me. I have seen a guest say something quite questionable.
> 1. She learned in chaplain training that a vegetarian woman received the heart of a non-vegetarian, boozer biker. When she woke up she demanded beer and a big mac.
> 2. A young girl received the heart of a murdered young girl. When she woke up she was able to > solve the crime by identifying the killer

>
> The guest's biblical grounds...various texts refering to things being written on our hearts.

I wish those comments at Spectrum had been a bit more complete so we could get a better sense of where they were going with those doctrinal comments.

However, speaking of those organ transplants you mentioned, if the body rejects the heart, it means there was something substantially different about the heart.

I understand that the Adventist Church has producing programming that has been rejected by 3ABN. If 3ABN rejects Adventist-produced programming, is there something different about the rejected programming?

I remember watching Dwight Nelson on 3ABN one evening. He offered "The Evidence" to Danny Shelton. To my knowledge, Danny thanked Dwight for the offer, but did not air the series. The series is now airing on the Hope Channel. Here's the schedule:

http://www.theevidence.org/schedule2.php

Posted by: watchbird Oct 15 2006, 04:49 PM

Hmmm..... I'm seeing some rather confusing things here. Gonna give a try at sorting things out....

> QUOTE(Fran @ Oct 14 2006, 11:06 PM) ☐
>
> Found this from a blog about 3ABN and AToday. http://cafesda.blogspot.com/2006/08/atoday-on-latest-3abn-news_21.html
>
> Atoday on Latest 3ABN News
> From Adventist Today Website: Personal Lives and The Three Angels Broadcasting Network (3ABN): Statements by Adventist Today Editors, Dr. Arild Abrahamsen, Dr. Walter Thompson (Chair, 3ABN Board of Directors), and Mr. Danny Shelton
>
> **
> Please stop the repeat posting of these long letters here, I already have them pinned at the top for everyone to read.
>
> Fran, you gave us the link, don't need to post every comment on their Blog here. Atoday may very well consider this copyrighted material.
>
> Folks are really stretching to find something to talk with this story.

Not knowing what Fran's original post looked like, I can only guess at what was here before Calvin truncated it and substituted his comments.

But as it is now, the only link that is here is to the cafesda.blogsplot. This is NOT a link to the Adventist Today article which included the two letters from Arild Abrahamsen and Walt Thompson which are pinned at the top of the 3abn menu. This is a link to Ron Corson's blog, which just happened to comment on the Adventist Today article... and gave a link to it, which did not transfer to BSDA as a "hot link". (Ron Corson is a self-labeled "Progressinve Adventist" whose original home page (still available) was (and I quote from that page) "Dedicated to helping SDA's change the church for the better".... with Ron Corson, of course, being the one who defined both what the church "is".... and what "better" is.)

His comment on his blog was not primarily a comment on the Adventist Today article itself, although that is the backdrop against which Ron makes his comments, but the thing that Ron picks out to quote and comment upon is the letter which Danny Shelton wrote in response to AT's request for his comments.

BSDA previously published both Walt Thompson's and Danny Shelton's letters of comment, so we don't need to recopy them here either. They can be found at the beginning of the thread entitled "Adventist Today Write-up Of 3abn: Replies from Walt Thompson and Danny" at http://www.blacksda.com/forums/index.php?s=&showtopic=10562&view=findpost&p=146981

The Adventist Today article itself was, so far as I can find, never directly published on BSDA. That can be found at http://www.atoday.com/6.0.html?&tx_ttnews%5Btt_news%5D=321&tx_ttnews%5BbackPid%5D=1&cHash=b7534bfb09 where a short introductory article precedes the publication of all four letters.

> QUOTE(Panama_Pete @ Oct 15 2006, 09:08 AM)
>
> I prefer the way that our friend, Calvin Eakins, characterized it on the Spectrum Blog.
>
> Calvin called it "the most comprehensive discussion on the saga of 3ABN." Where is this Calvin fellow when we need him? rofl
>
> http://spectrummagazine.typepad.com/the_spectrum_blog/2006/08/the_means_and_e.html
>
> I also thought Clifford Goldstein's comment was interesting where he says: "whenever anything is built around a single personality, the potential for trouble is immense, especially in ministry."
>
> There are other interesting comments posted there as well.

I'd like to point out that this is a completely different blog than the one above, though since Ron Corson's blog is also referenced in this one, it may look a bit confusing at first glance.

One of the more interesting ones that I noted there was this one:

"I reject the idea that 3ABN is a cultural signifier of the Adventist faith. It is not now and has never been officially embraced by the Church. It is an independent ministry that seems to have a different set of doctrines than those presented in the 28 Fundamentals and certainly a different agenda from the Tell the World agenda recently adopted by the General Conference. We should not assign it too much importance, and the current personal troubles of the proprietor certainly indicate why." Posted by: Monte Sahlin | 26 August 2006 at 07:06

Posted by: justme Oct 24 2006, 09:36 AM

THE TIDE IS TURNING.....

As time passes, the hands of the clock move imperceptibly, .. the pendulum swings from one side to the other. On the face there are hands. As those hands, at any given moment, point in one direction, sooner or later, each hand will point in the opposite direction. At appointed times there will be a "sound" to alert us to take a look to see what time it is.

Now it is a time when thinking people are looking to see what time it is, again. The people, who were "alerted" when Danny "chimed" the lies about Linda, are now looking again. They are seeing that Danny has manufactured his own demise. The clock face has hands pointing at him this time. The same hands he tried to point at Linda with bad timing.

The chime is sounding again and it is chiming a new bright and sunny day for Linda. Those whom Danny told such convincing lies are now looking at Danny askance. The tide, the dial at the top of the dial, the moon dial, is beginning to moon Danny's tide and it getting deeper than he imagined.

There are those who actually are looking to this forum to reveal evidence and personal experiences with him. That's why there are such desperate people trying to attack with guilt. To make us feel guilty for telling truths. To discredit this forum.

Conferences, which, even a few months ago, were largely against Linda, are taking a new look at Danny! His credibility seriously is in question. When he rants and raves, talking loud and fast on his soapbox, he sounds more and more like a "used car salesman", or a "traveling medicine show".

"There's a New Day Dawning"

Posted by: September Oct 24 2006, 12:14 PM

Yesterday we got the 3ABN magazine...we haven't received one of those in about a year I think, so I thought it was 'strange' that we received this one. Danny is on the cover and his is the first article--complete with another photo of him, the board and someone in a control room. My dh said that what he wrote about himself, 3ABN, the attacks from satan toward him and 3ABN are going to be part of what hangs him in the end. I was nauseated after I read it. I'm believing in prayer that God is working things out in the way that He sees fit.

Posted by: lurker Oct 24 2006, 01:53 PM

This Sabbath there was an item in our church bulletin asking that if anyone had donations for 3ABN to send them direct to 3ABN and not put them in the tithe envelope as they will not be receipted through the church!

I don't know if this was our church/conference only but I thought maybe this was a good sign.

Posted by: calvin Oct 24 2006, 03:42 PM

> QUOTE(justme @ Oct 24 2006, 10:36 AM)
>
> THE TIDE IS TURNING.....
>
> As time passes, the hands of the clock move imperceptibly, .. the pendulum swings from one side to the other. On the face there are hands. As those hands, at any given moment, point in one direction, sooner or later, each hand will point in the opposite direction. At appointed times there will be a "sound" to alert us to take a look to see what time it is.
>
> Now it is a time when thinking people are looking to see what time it is, again. The people, who > were "alerted" when Danny "chimed" the lies about Linda, are now looking again. They are seeing that Danny has manufactured his own demise. The clock face has hands pointing at him this time. The same hands he tried to point at Linda with bad timing.

>
> The chime is sounding again and it is chiming a new bright and sunny day for Linda. Those whom Danny told such convincing lies are now looking at Danny askance. The tide, the dial at the top of the dial, the moon dial, is beginning to moon Danny's tide and it getting deeper than he imagined.
>
> There are those who actually are looking to this forum to reveal evidence and personal experiences with him. That's why there are such desperate people trying to attack with guilt. To make us feel guilty for telling truths. To discredit this forum.
>
> Conferences, which, even a few months ago, were largely against Linda, are taking a new look at Danny! His credibility seriously is in question. When he rants and raves, talking loud and fast on his soapbox, he sounds more and more like a "used car salesman", or a "traveling medicine show".
>
> "There's a New Day Dawning"

Very nice metaphor using the hands of the clock to describe Danny's imminent demise as so many here would like to have us believe...just any day now right?

Is anyone here considering that Danny may have just weathered the worst of the storm? Has the worse of his misdeeds alright come to light? If so, Danny is still standing. They just finished Net 2006, the major independent ministry have not abandoned 3ABN, neither has the official church. After all folks his divorce and remarriage is really old news now. All these letters going back and forward that we have pinned are really not much more than hearsay, all with questionable motives by the authors.

For all of you hoping for Danny's demise, that somehow this investigation will tip the scale and bring a quick end to this saga, well I suggest you pray that the investigator finds a smoking gun somewhere in there and not more of the same that we have here. Or else my prediction is that Danny will come of this a little beat up, but him and his ministry still intact. Oh, and whoever is doing this investigation better have a whole lot of creditability.

Posted by: husbandoftheyear Oct 24 2006, 04:55 PM

> QUOTE(calvin @ Oct 24 2006, 04:42 PM) ☐
>
> Oh, and whoever is doing this investigation better have a whole lot of creditability.

Well said...

Posted by: Panama_Pete Oct 24 2006, 05:17 PM

> QUOTE(calvin @ Oct 24 2006, 03:42 PM) ☐
>
> Is anyone here considering that Danny may have just weathered the worst of the storm? Has the worse of his misdeeds alright come to light? If so, Danny is still standing. They just finished Net 2006, the major independent ministry have not abandoned 3ABN, neither has the official church. After all folks his divorce and remarriage is really old news now. All these letters going back and > forward that we have pinned are really not much more than hearsay, all with questionable motives by the authors.

>
> For all of you hoping for Danny's demise, that somehow this investigation will tip the scale and bring a quick end to this saga, well I suggest you pray that the investigator finds a smoking gun somewhere in there and not more of the same that we have here. Or else my prediction is that Danny will come of this a little beat up, but him and his ministry still intact. Oh, and whoever is doing this investigation better have a whole lot of creditability.

The disintegration of the 3ABN ministry is not now, and never has been, the focus. I know there has been some speculation by some people about the facts possibly being capable of bringing down the ministry.

Notice that Danny is listed on the cover of the November 3ABN World as "President and Founder." In my book, Danny is a Co-founder, and can never be anything more than that. Historical facts are historical facts. I believe in complete honesty, not bending the truth. That's part of a different, but larger, focus than "bringing down" a ministry.

November issue in PDF here:

http://www.3abn.org/news.cfm

If anyone is expecting the walls of Jerico to come crumbling down - in reference to 3ABN - it probably isn't going to happen.

What you really will see is the slow marginalization of 3ABN in the Wikipedia sense of the word:

"Marginalisation or marginalization (US) refers to the overt or covert trends within societies whereby those perceived as lacking desirable traits or deviating from the group norms tend to be excluded by wider society and ostracized as undesirables."

http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Marginalization

Marginalization is why there is a photo of the entire "Board of Directors" in the November issue. They're trying to make the political statement: "Marginalization of 3ABN is not happening." Mr. Danny is shown, as best as possible, surrounded by their version of "the captains of industry," rather than Shelton being portrayed isolated and "cut out of the herd" like a diseased cow.

The November issue of 3ABN World goes on to mention Jim Gilley as crediting the growth of the SDA Church, in good part, to Danny Shelton.

The issue mentions 3ABN's working relationship with the General Conference, etc. When you read the magazine as a whole, the political statement being assembled is: "Yes, Danny and the Adventist Church are together as one."

But 3ABN and the Church are not one. I think the exact opposite is happening. I think the November issue of 3ABN World is trying to respond to that underlying question.

As for the MAP (Most Amazing Prophecies) Seminar:

http://www.amazingfacts.org/news/read_news.asp?ID=109

There were 2,025 sites and "more than 2,050 people have requested our free offers." That's about one "free offer" per site. And you know the sponsor at each site is likely to have requested an average of one. That leaves 25 requests unaccounted for.

So, this may have been a successful seminar, but a colossal failure as far as time, expense, and volunteer hours are measured.

Many of these MAP sites were in peoples' homes. The majority of SDA Churches did not sign up for the seminar that was sponsored, in part, by 3ABN. The vast majority of Adventists never saw Danny and Melody singing on the very last night of the seminar from the Berrien Springs Church. And, maybe, that's how it should be.

In my region, only one person (who set up shop in a coffee shop with free Internet access) participated.

If we wanted to talk about "old news," the whole idea of a 3ABN satellite seminar would be old news.

In conclusion, think marginalization, not "bring down."

Posted by: Lee Oct 24 2006, 06:40 PM

The investigator is Mr. Gaillon Joy.

Posted by: calvin Oct 24 2006, 06:52 PM

> QUOTE(Panama_Pete @ Oct 24 2006, 06:17 PM) ☐
>
> The disintegration of the 3ABN ministry is not now, and never has been, the focus. I know there has been some speculation by some people about the facts possibly being capable of bringing down the ministry.
>
> In conclusion, think marginalization, not "bring down."

I never did say or imply the disintegration of 3ABN or bring it down (I assume you where speaking to me since you quoted my post). Note "Danny" the demise of Danny is what I said. Is that not what you want Pete, Danny gone? I think you have given it your best shot and he is still in control of 3ABN. Better pray for a knockout with this investigator.

> QUOTE(Lee @ Oct 24 2006, 07:40 PM) ☐
>
> The investigator is Mr. Gaillon Joy.

and just who is he or who is he working for? No Google or Adventist yearbook search hit on his name.

Posted by: Observer Oct 24 2006, 08:28 PM

Mr. Joy is able to work independently. Yes, no search of Google, or of a SDA database will turn up any information on him.

He has a past history of exposing wrong doing in both the SDA Church, and in government, and has brought about the removal (resignation) persons in both the religious and secular world.

NOTE: My comments above are intended to give minimal information about him. They are not intended to imply anything about what will happen to 3-ABN as a result of his investigation.

Posted by: Panama_Pete Oct 25 2006, 02:12 AM

> QUOTE(calvin @ Oct 24 2006, 06:52 PM) ☐
>
> I never did say or imply the disintegration of 3ABN or bring it down (I assume you where speaking to me since you quoted my post). Note "Danny" the demise of Danny is what I said. Is that not what you want Pete, Danny gone? I think you have given it your best shot and he is still in control of 3ABN. Better pray for a knockout with this investigator.
> and just who is he or who is he working for? No Google or Adventist yearbook search hit on his name.

I said "there has been some speculation by some people." I didn't want to focus on any one poster's comments. However, since you scan many posts, I think that you, Calvin, are a good barometer of what a few other lurkers might also be thinking. Therefore, I tacked my comments onto your post just for the sake of continuity.

As participants in the experiment known as "free speech" we have been giving this topic our "best shot," as you say. And it has allowed others to present other points of view.

I know that Jimmy Swaggart, to this day, enjoys a loyal following, regardless of how many times his name has appeared in the newspapers (for whatever reason). In the case of Jimmy Swaggart and others like him, would a relevant newspaper article here or there sway the opinions of his followers in any way? I don't think so. I call this phenomenon the "Swaggart Effect."

In the case of 3ABN, will a "Swaggart Effect" hold sway? I can only wait and see.

Posted by: justme Oct 25 2006, 08:13 AM

Calvin, well put. Point well taken. I have also thought the things you mentioned. In point of fact I do not wish for the demise of Danny nor of 3ABN. I pray for reformation in whatever form God can achieve.

I do know that eventually (sooner or later) those who deny truth inside themselves will have a bitter harvest. It is also true that he brought it upon himself when he made allegations publicly and worldwide that were not only not necessary to make, but were "manufactured".

My hope is that he will submit completely, in all forms. If it is still true that God wants this ministry to be under Danny's leadership, it will stay that way. For only God knows what He wants to accomplish through this "saga".

Looking through the Old Testament, in particular, we can see "sagas" preserved for our perusal and for our edification. Most of them tragic examples of how God deals with those to whom He has given a particular task or responsibility. Some repented, some didn't. Ultimately it is not about people it is all about God! Are willing to learn from God the lessons He ha to teach us about our own ministries?

I do not enjoy seeing ANYONE suffer! For any reason! It is encouraging to see that some people who have heard lies can now also hear the truth and begin to follow truth.

And, Calvin, thank you for this forum. It has drawn me closer to God and to my fellow Christians.

> QUOTE(Panama_Pete @ Oct 25 2006, 03:12 AM)
>
> I said "there has been some speculation by some people." I didn't want to focus on any one poster's comments. However, since you scan many posts, I think that you, Calvin, are a good barometer of what a few other lurkers might also be thinking. Therefore, I tacked my comments onto your post just for the sake of continuity.
>
> As participants in the experiment known as "free speech" we have been giving this topic our "best shot," as you say. And it has allowed others to present other points of view.
>
> I know that Jimmy Swaggart, to this day, enjoys a loyal following, regardless of how many times his name has appeared in the newspapers (for whatever reason). In the case of Jimmy Swaggart and others like him, would a relevant newspaper article here or there sway the opinions of his followers in any way? I don't think so. I call this phenomenon the "Swaggart Effect."
>
> In the case of 3ABN, will a "Swaggart Effect" hold sway? I can only wait and see.

AS far as I can remember, only Jimmy Swaggert has publicly confessed and repented and has asked for forgiveness. Do you suppose that makes a difference in the "Jimmy Swaggert Effect"?

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Oct 25 2006, 10:27 AM

> QUOTE(Observer @ Oct 24 2006, 07:28 PM) ☐
>
> Mr. Joy is able to work independently. Yes, no search of Google, or of a SDA database will turn up any information on him.
> He has a past history of exposing wrong doing in both the SDA Church, and in government, and has brought about the removal (resignation) persons in both the religious and secular world.
> NOTE: My comments above are intended to give minimal information about him. They are not intended to imply anything about what will happen to 3-ABN as a result of his investigation.

Well, actually, I found one Google hit.

Posted by: Panama_Pete Oct 25 2006, 03:38 PM

> QUOTE(justme @ Oct 25 2006, 08:13 AM) ☐
>
> Calvin, well put. Point well taken. I have also thought the things you mentioned. In point of fact I do not wish for the demise of Danny nor of 3ABN. I pray for reformation in whatever form God can achieve.
>
> I do know that eventually (sooner or later) those who deny truth inside themselves will have a bitter harvest. It is also true that he brought it upon himself when he made allegations publicly and worldwide that were not only not necessary to make, but were "manufactured".
>
> My hope is that he will submit completely, in all forms. If it is still true that God wants this ministry to be under Danny's leadership, it will stay that way. For only God knows what He wants to accomplish through this "saga".
>
> And, Calvin, thank you for this forum. It has drawn me closer to God and to my fellow Christians. AS far as I can remember, only Jimmy Swaggert has publicly confessed and repented and has asked for forgiveness. Do you suppose that makes a difference in the "Jimmy Swaggert Effect"?

I don't know the answer to this last question, whether Swaggart's public confession has had an effect. I would have to think that, in 1988, that his request for forgiveness did have an effect for many of his followers. His problems did not seem to end at that time, (in 1988 according to these links posted below) and his ministry may have shrunken quite a bit, but it still continues.

As an aside, when you look at the links, notice how amazingly lucrative this televangelist business has become. For instance (last link) John Hagee's total compensation package was $1.25 million in 2001. Just imagine walking home one day with a sack of $1,250,000 in cash.

Money can be an instrument for good, but it can also lead a person down the wrong road. Too often it seems, a TV ministry becomes the televangelist's personal piggy bank, and the huge amount of money becomes a barrier to the conversion and repentance you mentioned.

http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Christian_televangelist_scandals

http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Jimmy_Swaggart http://www.rickross.com/reference/tv_preachers/tv_preachers7.html

---

Posted by: justme Oct 26 2006, 06:43 PM

Has anyone read a book by Patti Roberts, "From Ashes to Gold"?

"There is nothing covered that will not be revealed, and hidden that will not be known." (Matthew 10:26)
"But evil men and impostors will proceed from bad to worse, deceiving and being deceived." (2 Timothy 3:13)

"The past - man's past - is mainly a grim struggle for survival. But there have been moments when a few voices have spoken up . . . and these rare moments have made the history of man a glorious thing. I refuse to believe it's dead and gone. We've had our dark ages before and this is just another one of them. All it needs is for someone to show you the way out. I'm only a tinkering mechanic but I'm sure there must be this hidden spark in one of your people. If only I can kindle that spark . . . My coming here will have some meaning . . ."
(The Time Machine; 1960 motion picture based on the novel by H.G. Wells)

"Cry aloud, spare not, lift up thy voice like a trumpet, and show my people their transgression, and the house of Jacob their sins." (Isaiah 58:1; KJV)

"Agnus Dei, qui tollis peccata mundi, miserere nobis"

("Lamb of God, who takes away the sin of the world, have mercy on us")

Posted by: Johann Oct 26 2006, 08:58 PM

> QUOTE(justme @ Oct 27 2006, 02:43 AM) ☐

Thank you, justme, for those encouraging words. They show us that we must not give up in our prayers for justice and a church that is getting prepared for the final battle in the history of this sinful world.

Posted by: Ralph Oct 26 2006, 10:24 PM

> QUOTE(justme @ Oct 25 2006, 07:13 AM) ☐
>
> And, Calvin, thank you for this forum. It has drawn me closer to God and to my fellow Christians.

Praise God for your testimony.

Maybe what we see happening here is just a foretaste of bigger things to come. Events will unfold that will shake our timbers, and we will either draw closer to God and to each other or will get discouraged and lose out. So many have indicated that their spirituality is deepening.

Is this what Ellen White is describing when she wrote about being sealed? "...it is not any seal or mark that can be seen, but a settling into the truth, both intellectually and spiritually, so they cannot be moved,..."

Posted by: Panama_Pete Oct 27 2006, 04:25 PM

> QUOTE(justme @ Oct 26 2006, 07:43 PM) ☐
>
> Has anyone read a book by Patti Roberts, "From Ashes to Gold"?

Not yet, but Patti Roberts has some interesting things to say. I'll find a copy of her book and read it. Thanks, Justme, for the suggestion.

"A 1983 book by [Richard] Roberts' first wife Patti, Ashes to Gold, gave an interesting glimpse into the inner workings of the Roberts empire. A telling quote from that book:

"I know a lot of people were blessed and sincerely ministered to by what we sang on TV, and by what we said - but the overall picture, I'm afraid, seemed to say, 'If you follow our formula, you'll be like us,' rather than, 'If you do what Jesus says, you'll be like Him.' It was certainly more exciting to follow us, because to follow us was to identify with success, with glamor, with a theology that made everything good and clean and well-knit together. To identify with Jesus, however, meant to identify with the cross."

Posted by: Skyhook Oct 31 2006, 01:33 AM

Perhaps this is not exactly on topic, but someone said in Sabbath School that they heard on 3abn or read in thier magazine, that someone called in to 3abn and kept repeating in a growling, gutteral voice, "get off the air, get off the air, I want you off the air," then a normal sounding voice came on and said pleadingly, "help me, help me, I need help." Of course the implication is that the person is possessed by a demon and the Devil wants 3abn off the air. I'm not saying it didn't happen or that is was faked, but the timing is interesting and certainly convenient under the circumstances. Did anyone hear any thing about this?

Posted by: västergötland Oct 31 2006, 02:55 AM

http://www.3abn.org/pdf/world/3ABN-World-2006-11.pdf
Page 12.

Posted by: Brenda Oct 31 2006, 03:17 AM

> QUOTE(Skyhook @ Oct 31 2006, 05:33 PM) ☐
>
> Perhaps this is not exactly on topic, but someone said in Sabbath School that they heard on 3abn or read in thier magazine, that someone called in to 3abn and kept repeating in a growling, gutteral voice, "get off the air, get off the air, I want you off the air," then a normal sounding voice came on and said pleadingly, "help me, help me, I need help." Of course the implication is that the person is > possesed by a demon and the Devil wants 3abn off the air. I'm not saying it didn't happen or that is was faked, but the timing is interesting and certainly convenient under the circumstances. Did anyone hear any thing about this?

So it was the Latino channel in 1989 apparently.

Posted by: sister Oct 31 2006, 03:28 AM

> QUOTE(Brenda @ Oct 31 2006, 04:17 AM) ☐
>
> So it was the Latino channel in 1989 apparently.

3ABN Latino did not exsist in 1989. At that time Johnny D. worked in Master Control at 3ABN and in addition to their other duties they also answered the phone at certain times. Over the years they have gotten a lot of strange calls in the Pastoral department, so this was not that unusual.

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Oct 31 2006, 10:42 AM

> QUOTE(västergötland @ Oct 31 2006, 01:55 AM) ☐
>
> http://www.3abn.org/pdf/world/3ABN-World-2006-11.pdf
> Page 12.

Has anyone heard of a "demon" being so polite as to say "Please" before? This one apparently said it numerous times.

Posted by: lurker Oct 31 2006, 11:12 AM

Sounds like a prank phone call to me.

> QUOTE(PeacefullyBewildered @ Oct 31 2006, 11:42 AM) ☐
>
> Has anyone heard of a "demon" being so polite as to say "Please" before? This one apparently said it numerous times.

Posted by: watchbird Oct 31 2006, 11:43 AM

> QUOTE(Skyhook @ Oct 31 2006, 02:33 AM) ☐

> Perhaps this is not exactly on topic, but someone said in Sabbath School that they heard on 3abn or read in thier magazine, that someone called in to 3abn and kept repeating in a growling, gutteral voice, "get off the air, get off the air, I want you off the air," then a normal sounding voice came on and said pleadingly, "help me, help me, I need help." Of course the implication is that the person is possesed by a demon and the Devil wants 3abn off the air. I'm not saying it didn't happen or that is was faked, but the timing is interesting and certainly convenient under the circumstances. Did anyone hear any thing about this?

> QUOTE(västergötland @ Oct 31 2006, 03:55 AM)
>
> http://www.3abn.org/pdf/world/3ABN-World-2006-11.pdf
> Page 12.

> QUOTE(lurker @ Oct 31 2006, 12:12 PM)
>
> Sounds like a prank phone call to me.

If one is going to stimulate offerings, then one must offer a "service".
If one offers a "service", there must be a sense of need for that "service".
If that service is demon deliverance, then that sense of need is created by demon deliverance stories.

It's worked for Fundamentalist Pentacostal groups for years.

Adventists don't have much knowledge of this type of thing, since Adventist pulpits were "closed" to such teachings back in the mid 1980's. Of course no one has been paying much attention to it for the last 10 years or so.....

So...... look's to this ol' bird like Danny figgers there's a potential "cash crop" to be harvested if he jus does a little sowin', fertilizin', and waterin'. ... .

Posted by: Skyhook Oct 31 2006, 02:38 PM

Yes, a cash crop, and also planting a little propaganda seed that might be making an unspoken association.
He keeps talking on TV about being persecuted, people saying bad things about him etc. and the Devil says explicitly that he wants him off the air. It all fits together.

Posted by: howdy Oct 31 2006, 02:57 PM

Well fer cryin out loud read the link. That was in 1989 or sumthin! Hmmm

howdy

Posted by: watchbird Oct 31 2006, 03:39 PM

> QUOTE(howdy @ Oct 31 2006, 03:57 PM)

> Well fer cryin out loud read the link. That was in 1989 or sumthin! Hmmm
>
> howdy

But the story is being told NOW.

Posted by: Chez Nov 20 2006, 09:25 AM

I read this post over at Maritime. It is in reference to whether or not Linda Shelton will ever be exoneratered. Gailon Joy is the author of the following letter:

Linda and the team that has been investigating the entire 3ABN case has been conferring with a representative of ASI to determine if common ground and fair rules for a five person panel can be found to address at least some of the issues, including Linda's claims and rights.

If this does not work out, then in Janaury, 2007 we will launch a full scale and public effort to exonerate Linda, to indict Danny in the public eye and to put pressure on 3ABN to make certain changes to it's governance and accountability to be certain that this incredulous process cannot continue or repeat itself.

In the interim, think seriously of encouraging local affiliates and individual satellite viewers to switch to Hope Channel. They also offer online streaming video and I have begun watching it to avoid supporting hypocracy and to avoid what may be an unpleasant surprise as civil authority continues to probe as well.

I have done a very complete timeline and continue to interview dozens of witnesses, officers, directors (past and present), employees and conference emplyees.

I can safely argue that we have overwhelmingly concluded that there was no adultery on Linda's part during her marriage to Danny Shelton;
That Danny was in fact preparing for a divorce during 2003 and Linda trustingly and naively missed the roadsigns;
That Danny has had several "inappropriate" relationships that were in some cases public and known by staff and some directors throughout his marriage to Linda Shelton;
That at least one "inappropriate" relationship in fact betrayed Linda Shelton and has used her treachery to advance her career at 3ABN and continues to do so;
That Danny Shelton clearly conducted an "inappropriate" relationship with Brandy from August 2004 until they were married in 2006 and the officers and directors of 3ABN were well aware of the relationship;
That the marriage to Brandy is a clear adultery under the very clear rules established by the Lord of the Universe in Matthew; That the 3ABN board had no ecclesiastical authority to authorize the adulterous marriage to Brandy and continue to employ Danny Shelton at the head of Three Angels Broadcasting Network, Inc.;
That the board of Directors of 3ABN has failed in it's responsibility to oversee the assetts, governance and accountability to the "stockholders in the pews";
That 3ABN has to change it's constitution and bylaws to end the self perpetuation of the board of directors and leadership of 3ABN and to establish a real membership inclusive of all donors,
To establish representative form of government that will be accountable to the "stockholders in the pews", that will act responsibly to end the nepotism at 3ABN and prevent re-enactment of the Linda Shelton debacle and the retaliation against a whistleblower employee group from trust services following eggregious actions, including but not limited to grossly disgusting violations of the Federal Equal Employment Opportunity Act and some allegations of wrongful fiduciary responsibility by Westphal, et al.

As time progresses, either the tribunal will conduct a fair hearing and issue a report with recommendations or we will do it for them. Ours will most likely be far less tempered and far more direct in it's revelations and public documentation, but we are willing to grant some additional time for these discussions to prepare a foundation for a fair tribunal. But, our investigation is coming to a time certain waymark conclusion, albeit not an end as there are developing stories that will most certainly proceed well into the year 2007 and 2008.

While I am a firm believer in ecclesiatical authority, I am reasonably certain that no-one on this team, nor other 3ABN employees, past and present, will allow the issues to once again remain buried for another twenty years.

Rest assured that Linda will be exonerated publically in time!!! The handwriting is very nearly upon the wall and grace will end in the favor of justice. After all, Divine Love is a balance of mercy and justice and mercy has had it's way far too long at 3ABN. May Justice prevail and the Lord be honored in all that is done.

Gailon Arthur Joy
AUReporter

Posted by: fallible humanbeing Nov 20 2006, 12:12 PM

> QUOTE(Chez @ Nov 20 2006, 11:25 AM) ☐
>
> I read this post over at Maritime. It is in reference to whether or not Linda Shelton will ever be exonerated. Gailon Joy is the author of the following letter:
>
> Gailon Arthur Joy
> AUReporter

Is this the same Gailon A. Joy who was president and sole shareholder of Credit Management Services Corporation?

- fhb

Posted by: Johann Nov 20 2006, 12:44 PM

> QUOTE(fallible humanbeing @ Nov 20 2006, 08:12 PM) ☐
>
> Is this the same Gailon A. Joy who was president and sole shareholder of Credit Management Services Corporation?
>
> - fhb

Why don't you, fhb, start out by revealing who you are?

Posted by: Richard Sherwin Nov 20 2006, 07:49 PM

> QUOTE(Johann @ Nov 20 2006, 01:44 PM) ☐
>
> Why don't you, fhb, start out by revealing who you are?

Touche!

Posted by: calvin Nov 20 2006, 09:19 PM

For all of you with so much high hopes and waiting with baited breath for the mystery man Gailon A. Joy to come through, I just hope you won't be disappointed. I hope for your sake there is a smoking gun in there somewhere. This teaser letter is more of the he said/she said stuff that has already rehashed over and over again here, nothing new.

Well I guess one day we shall see

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Nov 20 2006, 09:35 PM

> QUOTE(fallible humanbeing @ Nov 20 2006, 11:12 AM) ☐
>
> Is this the same Gailon A. Joy who was president and sole shareholder of Credit Management Services Corporation?
>
> - fhb

Alright FHB - now that you have tittilated please illuminate. I Googled "Credit Management Services Corporation" and didn't get any hits. Where did you find this info?

Posted by: sister Nov 20 2006, 10:08 PM

> QUOTE(calvin @ Nov 20 2006, 10:19 PM) ☐
>
> For all of you with so much high hopes and waiting with baited breath for the mystery man Gailon A. Joy to come through, I just hope you won't be disappointed. I hope for your sake there is a smoking gun in there somewhere. This teaser letter is more of the he said/she said stuff that has already rehashed over and over again here, nothing new.
>
> Well I guess one day we shall see

Guns are smoking on many fronts... evdience is being gathered as I write.

There is something that Danny has forgotten... When there is more than one person involved in any unethical or illegal act it is almost impossible for it to remain secret. People talk, people copy documents to protect themselves. Copies of documents end up in the hands of civil authorities and other investigators... Sooner or later everything comes to the light of day. Patience Calvin, I have never set a date for further revelation of facts and evidence, but the day will come when it is no longer a matter of he said, she said. In time the muddy waters of 3ABN will become transparent and the truth will become visible. It is just a matter of time...

Posted by: calvin Nov 20 2006, 10:18 PM

Well Google Gailon A or Gailon Arthur Joy and you won't get any hits either. Strange, nobody can tell me who he is or what credentials he has to investigate anything. Investigation is probably all a sham.

Posted by: Johann Nov 21 2006, 01:03 AM

> QUOTE(calvin @ Nov 21 2006, 06:18 AM) ☐
>
> Well Google Gailon A or Gailon Arthur Joy and you won't get any hits either. Strange, nobody can tell me who he is or what credentials he has to investigate anything. Investigation is probably all a sham.

Is Google competing these cyberdays with Mammon in the field of who is more "almighty"?

Posted by: fallible humanbeing Nov 21 2006, 06:54 AM

> QUOTE(PeacefullyBewildered @ Nov 20 2006, 11:35 PM) ☐
>
> Alright FHB - now that you have tittilated please illuminate. I Googled "Credit Management Services Corporation" and didn't get any hits. Where did you find this info?

PB,

Do a Yahoo search and include the word Vermont along with Mr. Joy's name. The first link that comes up is a partial document (you can purchase the whole thing) but it raised some questions in my mind.

- fhb

Posted by: calvin Nov 21 2006, 08:57 AM

> QUOTE(Johann @ Nov 21 2006, 02:03 AM) ☐
>
> Is Google competing these cyberdays with Mammon in the field of who is more "almighty"?

No, but Google is about the best thing on earth to find out about any public figure or anybody that has ever published any document. Trying to establish this guys credentials as a hot shot investigative reporter. So it stands to reason that he ought to have some track record of doing this type of stuff. So who is he? What ties to Adventist does he have? What it his background, where can I find some of his work? Does he write for a some Christian publication? This Mr. Joy has a bad smell to it.

Posted by: Johann Nov 21 2006, 10:53 AM

> QUOTE(calvin @ Nov 21 2006, 04:57 PM)
>
> No, but Google is about the best thing on earth to find out about any public figure or anybody that has ever published any document. Trying to establish this guys credentials as a hot shot investigative reporter. So it stands to reason that he ought to have some track record of doing this type of stuff. So who is he? What ties to Adventist does he have? What it his background, where can I find of his work? Does he write for a some Christian publication he is? This Mr. Joy has a bad smell to it.

Well! I have found a lot of interresting things about you, Calvin, through Google, but nowhere do I find the slightest indication that you have a license to run a net like BSDA! Is this an unfortunate overisght? Neither do I find that I have any license to do investigative work, but if I find a good reason to make an investigation into some matter, I would not ask anybody for persmission to do that, any more than you need a special permission to run such a splendid net as BSDA, which is a great blessing to many. If Gailon has reached some wrong conclusions, let somebody prove it. He claims he is careful not to make a statement he cannot meet in court. Does he have to be a "public figure" in whose book?

Posted by: västergötland Nov 21 2006, 01:59 PM

Except of course that having some sort of license or verifiable experience is a great credibility help when investigating alleged crime, while running a net is verification of sufficient knowledge in itself.

Posted by: simplysaved Nov 21 2006, 03:43 PM

Johann, I understand your point....I also understand what Calvin is saying. If I needed counseling I prefer someone who has a liscense and is insured.....need a doctor--I would look for the same thing. If I needed an attorney, they would have to have passed the bar exam....

I would also look for referrals....

> QUOTE(Johann @ Nov 21 2006, 11:53 AM)
>
> Well! I have found a lot of interresting things about you, Calvin, through Google, but nowhere do I find the slightest indication that you have a license to run a net like BSDA! Is this an unfortunate overisght? Neither do I find that I have any license to do investigative work, but if I find a good reason to make an investigation into some matter, I would not ask anybody for persmission to do that, any more than you need a special permission to run such a splendid net as BSDA, which is a great blessing to many. If Gailon has reached some wrong conclusions, let somebody prove it. He claims he is careful not to make a statement he cannot meet in court. Does he have to be a "public > figure" in whose book?

They simply add to credibility and reliability, especially when the exchance of money (if applicable) is involved.

Posted by: calvin Nov 21 2006, 05:08 PM

> QUOTE(calvin @ Nov 21 2006, 09:57 AM)
>
> No, but Google is about the best thing on earth to find out about any public figure or anybody that has ever published any document. Trying to establish this guys credentials as a hot shot investigative reporter. So it stands to reason that he ought to have some track record of doing this type of stuff. So who is he? What ties to Adventist does he have? What it his background, where can I find some of his work? Does he write for a some Christian publication? This Mr. Joy has a bad smell to it.

Johann or anyone else, are you going to respond to my questions?

Posted by: fallible humanbeing Nov 21 2006, 06:22 PM

> QUOTE(simplysaved @ Nov 21 2006, 05:43 PM)
>
> Johann, I understand your point....I also understand what Calvin is saying. If I needed counseling I prefer someone who has a liscense and is insured.....need a doctor--I would look for the same thing. If I needed an attorney, they would have to have passed the bar exam....
>
> I would also look for referrals....
> They simply add to credibility and reliability, especially when the exchance of money (if applicable) is involved.

Yes, there is something to be said for the "done that before" aspect. If there is a track record that shows a high level of integrity then you can feel comfortable with the information presented. But this seems to be another case of - "just accept what we say as the truth without asking any questions."

Most investigations are one sided and you need to hear the investigations from both sides to be able to make an educated determination of where the truth really is. Mr. Joy is working for one side. If there truly will be a hearing before an impartial panel from the ASI ranks (a suggestion that came from the 3ABN Board of Directors, not from Linda) then we may arrive somewhere near the truth. But, as far as Mr. Joy goes - one must remember who is is working for (though the claim on his part is that he is independent, his writing belies his alligence). Additionally, there is the https://www.fastcase.com/Yahoo/Start.aspx?C=8ea2f08b9cfbe28debf051ad69a4935843abc28f79a8edd2&D=e8c987d58713eda9d402e73acb614b0783801994a61e0 of the Yahoo search I suggested to PB earlier - if the Gailon A. Joy in the legal brief is the same, one might wonder about his methods.

In any event, at this point it seems as if the only way to settle this fiasco is to play all the cards on the table and let a reliable panel suggest what action needs to be taken. However, one can only suggest - unless both parties enter into a binding arbitration agreement prior to any hearings.

-fhb

Posted by: fallible humanbeing Nov 21 2006, 06:34 PM

> QUOTE(Johann @ Nov 21 2006, 12:53 PM) ☐
>
> . . . If Gailon has reached some wrong conclusions, let somebody prove it.

No one can even comment on what hasn't been presented yet, much less prove him wrong. Once he makes his claims then, if anyone feels they can dispute it they will - but he actually has to say something of substance first.

> QUOTE(Johann @ Nov 21 2006, 12:53 PM) ☐
>
> He claims he is careful not to make a statement he cannot meet in court.

This remains to be seen.

- fhb

Posted by: calvin Nov 21 2006, 07:33 PM

> QUOTE(fallible humanbeing @ Nov 21 2006, 07:54 AM) ☐
>
> PB,
>
> Do a Yahoo search and include the word Vermont along with Mr. Joy's name. The first link that comes up is a partial document (you can purchase the whole thing) but it raised some questions in my mind.
>
> - fhb

Thanks for the info FHB, well a least now we know he is a real person. I hope for those of you that are putting your confidence in him that his claim to fame is more than that of an unscrupulous debt collector.

Posted by: sister Nov 21 2006, 08:13 PM

> QUOTE(fallible humanbeing @ Nov 21 2006, 07:54 AM) ☐
>
> PB,

> Do a Yahoo search and include the word Vermont along with Mr. Joy's name. The first link that comes up is a partial document (you can purchase the whole thing) but it raised some questions in my mind.
>
> - fhb

Fallible, looks like you prove your name again. I went to Yahoo and searched for the following:
Gailon A. Joy Vermont

The results: NOTHING

I tried Gailon Arthur Joy Vermont

The results: NOTHING

SO, PUT UP THE INFO, PLEASE...

Either provide the link or print the partial document and explain what questions it raised in your mind. Thank you. Otherwise we are just taking your word and accepting your authority...

Posted by: calvin Nov 21 2006, 08:21 PM

> QUOTE(sister @ Nov 21 2006, 09:13 PM)
>
> Fallible, looks like you prove your name again. I went to Yahoo and searched for the following:
> Gailon A. Joy Vermont
>
> The results: NOTHING
>
> I tried Gailon Arthur Joy Vermont
>
> The results: NOTHING
>
> SO, PUT UP THE INFO, PLEASE...
>
> Either provide the link or print the partial document and explain what questions it raised in your mind. Thank you. Otherwise we are just taking your word and accepting your authority...

Here's puting up for you. Gailon Joy vermont in Yahoo will get you this:
https://www.fastcase.com/Yahoo/Start.aspx?
C=8ea2f08b9cfbe28debf051ad69a4935843abc28f79a8edd2&D=e8c987d58713eda9d402e73acb614b0783801994a61e0

or here is the text:

549 A.2d 1033

149 Vt. 607

STATE of Vermont
v.
Gailon A. JOY.

No. 85-026.

Supreme Court of Vermont.

April 29, 1988.

Page 1034

Jeffrey L. Amestoy, Atty. Gen., Susan R. Harritt, Asst. Atty. Gen., and Robert Katims, Legal Intern, Montpelier, for plaintiff-appellee.

[149 Vt. 608] Walter M. Morris, Jr., Defender Gen., and William A. Nelson, Appellate Defender, Montpelier, for defendant-appellant.

Before ALLEN, C.J., PECK, DOOLEY and MAHADY, JJ., and BARNEY, C.J. (Ret.), Specially Assigned.

DOOLEY, Justice.

Following a jury trial in the Washington District Court, defendant Gailon Joy was convicted of one count of embezzlement in violation of 13 V.S.A. § 2531. Defendant appeals his conviction. We affirm.

Defendant Joy was president and sole shareholder of Credit Management Services Corporation (CMS), a debt collection agency. At all relevant times defendant had exclusive control over, and directed the activities of, CMS. CMS contracted with various businesses and credit institutions to collect delinquent accounts for a percentage of the amount collected. Once CMS contracted with a client, CMS was entitled to forty percent of any amount collected on a delinquent account. CMS was entitled to this percentage regardless of whether the debtor paid CMS or settled with the client directly.

As a matter of practice, when CMS received a payment from a debtor, it would deposit the money with a Barre bank and within a month an invoice detailing the transaction would be sent to the client. If monies were due the client, a check would accompany the invoice.

In addition to the bank account with the Barre bank (the Barre account) CMS maintained an account with a Montpelier bank (the Montpelier account). CMS drew on its account with the Montpelier bank to pay its operating expenses, including overhead and payroll expenses.

In late 1980 or early 1981 CMS, suffering financial difficulties, began transferring funds from the Barre account to the Montpelier account to cover its operating expenses. These transfers occurred under defendant's direction. Defendant instructed his bookkeeping personnel to credit client accounts when debts were collected, but not to prepare invoices if there were insufficient funds in the Barre bank account.

In June, 1981, CMS entered into a contract with Stacey Fuel and Lumber Company (Stacy) whereby CMS was to collect several delinquent accounts. On August 14, 1981, CMS received a check from one of Stacey's debtors in the amount of $1,920.25. CMS never forwarded any of this money to Stacey, nor did it inform Stacey that the money had been received. Stacey terminated its relationship with CMS in August, 1982. Subsequently, Stacey [149 Vt. 609] received notice...

Posted by: Richard Sherwin Nov 21 2006, 08:26 PM

The problem with getting both parties to agree to a truely independant investigation, much less binding arbitration, it that the party at fault will never agree to it, that is, unless the deck is somehow stacked in their favor, in which case the investigation would not be independant.

Richard

Posted by: calvin Nov 21 2006, 08:37 PM

> QUOTE(Richard Sherwin @ Nov 21 2006, 09:26 PM) ☐
>
> The problem with getting both parties to agree to a truely independant investigation, much less binding arbitration, it that the party at fault will never agree to it, that is, unless the deck is somehow stacked in their favor, in which case the investigation would not be independant.
>
> Richard

I agree Richard....and I doubt if 3ABN is paying Mr. Joy any mind at all. As for Mr Joy making these threats of exposure, is just a lot of hot air.

Posted by: fallible humanbeing Nov 21 2006, 08:39 PM

> QUOTE(sister @ Nov 21 2006, 10:13 PM) ☐
>
> Fallible, looks like you prove your name again. I went to Yahoo and searched for the following: Gailon A. Joy Vermont
>
> The results: NOTHING
>
> I tried Gailon Arthur Joy Vermont
>
> The results: NOTHING
>
> SO, PUT UP THE INFO, PLEASE...
>
> Either provide the link or print the partial document and explain what questions it raised in your mind. Thank you. Otherwise we are just taking your word and accepting your authority...

"sister",

It is an easy search, I ran it five times before posting the info and every time the first result was the same.

1. Go to www.yahoo.com

2. In the search box enter, Gailon A. Joy, Vermont (type it in exactly like that)

3. Tap the enter key

4. Click on the first link (State v. Joy)

I don't need to post what you can access yourself. It wasn't hard, just needed to run through a number of search engines. I started with Google, like most, because it is the most far reaching. In this case a secondary engine revealed this link. If this proves too difficult I will provide you the text of the legal brief (yes, I purchased it) as I thought it was important to see the State Supreme Court's decision in the case. It upheld the original jury decision.

- fhb

- fhb

Posted by: fallible humanbeing Nov 21 2006, 09:04 PM

> QUOTE(Richard Sherwin @ Nov 21 2006, 10:26 PM) ☐
>
> The problem with getting both parties to agree to a truely independant investigation, much less binding arbitration, it that the party at fault will never agree to it, that is, unless the deck is somehow stacked in their favor, in which case the investigation would not be independant.
>
> Richard

So then, if Danny refuses we can infer guilt. But, then the same would be true of Linda as well. What I hear at this point is that Linda is not comfortable with the independent review by ASI.

- fhb

Posted by: fallible humanbeing Nov 21 2006, 10:38 PM

> QUOTE(sister @ Nov 21 2006, 10:13 PM) ☐
>
> Fallible, looks like you prove your name again. I went to Yahoo and searched for the following:
> Gailon A. Joy Vermont
>
> The results: NOTHING
>
> I tried Gailon Arthur Joy Vermont
>
> The results: NOTHING
>
> SO, PUT UP THE INFO, PLEASE...
>
> Either provide the link or print the partial document and explain what questions it raised in your mind. Thank you. Otherwise we are just taking your word and accepting your authority...

I ran it your way. The first link is still the same each time.

- fhb

Posted by: Richard Sherwin Nov 21 2006, 11:46 PM

Would ASI be considered independant? They and their members have activly supported 3abn. To tell the truth I'm not real sure where you would find a completly independant panel to look into the allegations since nearly all church members have some opinion of 3abn, Danny and Linda. Maybe the investigation would have to come from outside the church?

Richard

Posted by: fallible humanbeing Nov 21 2006, 11:58 PM

> QUOTE(Richard Sherwin @ Nov 22 2006, 01:46 AM) ☐
>
> Would ASI be considered independant? They and their members have activly supported 3abn. To tell the truth I'm not real sure where you would find a completly independant panel to look into the allegations since nearly all church members have some opinion of 3abn, Danny and Linda. Maybe the investigation would have to come from outside the church?
>
> Richard

ASI is a rather powerful entity in-and-of itself. If you are looking for an internal investigation then this would be your best bet. If the postings here are to be believed there - is - a diversity of thought on the 3ABN issue and this very well could extend to ASI. I don't think they are beholden to to 3ABN. There may be intricate ties between members but you can't say that ASI is any more pro-Danny than it is pro-Linda.

So an impartial panel is convened and Linda/Mr. Joy present their case and Danny/the Board present theres. Is there any chance that the panels decision will be adhered to? If not then the only option seems to be a civil trial. Where Linda's claims of being unfairly treated and jilted will play out against Danny's evidence. If you are an honest individual you have to believe that what is now being presented as truth will undergo a drastic change - and that goes for Linda as much as it does Danny. Linda is not squeaky clean in all of this contrary to what has been presented. Has she been hurt? Absolutely! Has she had to deal with her share of change and upheavel? Absolutely! But, the truth is that she has some dark clouds hovering over her head as well. Does she want this information revealed - probably not. Does Danny want to have to answer his accusers, probably not. But the fact of the matter is this. If the powers on Linda's side of the equation want the demise of 3ABN then they are probably going to be disappointed. If the powers on Danny's side want this to all go away without review - they too will be disappointed.

So this all begs the question - what is accomplished by this? What will the end result be? More souls lead to the foot of the cross? I don't know - but I am skeptical.

- fhb

Posted by: västergötland Nov 22 2006, 02:27 AM

> QUOTE(calvin @ Nov 22 2006, 03:21 AM) ☐

> Here's puting up for you. Gailon Joy vermont in Yahoo will get you this:
> https://www.fastcase.com/Yahoo/Start.aspx?
> C=8ea2f08b9cfbe28debf051ad69a4935843abc28f79a8edd2&D=e8c987d58713eda9d402e73acb614b0783801994a61e
>
> or here is the text:
> [...]
>
> Following a jury trial in the Washington District Court, defendant Gailon Joy was convicted of one count of embezzlement in violation of 13 V.S.A. § 2531. Defendant appeals his conviction. We affirm.
> [...]

Provided this is the same guy and not just someone with the same name, then this doesnt seem the kind of endorsement that would be wished for.

Posted by: Observer Nov 22 2006, 05:25 AM

> QUOTE(fallible humanbeing @ Nov 21 2006, 08:04 PM) ☐
>
> So then, if Danny refuses we can infer guilt. But, then the same would be true of Linda as well. What I hear at this point is that Linda is not comfortable with the independent review by ASI.
>
> - fhb

No, I disagree with the above. Guilt should not be automatically attributed to any party due to that party objecting to the process. Such assumptions may clearly be invalid.

NOTE: There are actually more than two parties involved in this.

In order to obtain the agreement of both parties, the discussions between the parties must be made in private, and not a part of public discussion. As a result of this, I am not going to comment on details. But, speaking in general terms, I believe that all involved parties are likely to object to some of what is being proposed. The issue now is: Can an agreement be crafted that all involved parties will accept?

I will state a personal opinion: I believe that it is possible to craft an agreement that will be acceptable to Linda and those who support her. I believe that it is possible for such an agreement to be fair to all involved parties. I do not know if it would be acceptable to all parties. That will remain to be seen.

However, if it is impossible to craft such an agreement, due to one or more of the parties rejecting it, I do not believe that we should assume guilt on the part of that party.

Here are some of the critical issues.

NOTE: ASI is an involved party. ASI could decide not to become involved. Such should not be assumed to imply guilt by any party.

1) What is the purpose of the investigative panel?

The purpose could be to achieve a binding resolution of the issues. Or, the purpose could be to issue a statement of fact, and recommendations for action by others. There are also other purposes that could be.

2) What are the limits of the issues considered by the panel?

This mess has expanded well beyond marital issues. It has become extremely complex. The reality is that an ASI panel likely would be unable to fairly resolve some of the issues. With this in mind, is it worth the effort to convene such a panel?

I am aware of other major issues that I could list. But, I will not do so at this time.

The two issues listed above are extremely important to all parties, and to ASI. I can imagine that an examination of those two issues could result in any of the involved parties, to include ASI deciding that it was not worth the effort and expenditure of resources to convene such a panel.

Posted by: fallible humanbeing Nov 22 2006, 09:03 AM

> QUOTE(Observer @ Nov 22 2006, 07:25 AM) ☐
>
> No, I disagree with the above. Guilt should not be automatically attributed to any party due to that party objecting to the process. Such assumptions may clearly be invalid.

In looking at my original post I realize that I punctuated incorrectly. I should have put a question mark at the end of the first sentence as I was asking if that was the insinuation. I would agree with you Greg that you can not make those kind of assumptions - which was to be my point, save the fact I wrote poorly and punctuated incorrectly.

> QUOTE(Observer @ Nov 22 2006, 07:25 AM) ☐
>
> . . . The issue now is: Can an agreement be crafted that all involved parties will accept? I will state a personal opinion: I believe that it is possible to craft an agreement that will be acceptable to Linda and those who support her. I believe that it is possible for such an agreement to be fair to all involved parties. I do not know if it would be acceptable to all parties. That will remain to be seen.

One side of the issue can not dictate terms. It will not only have to be acceptable to Linda, et. al. but to Danny, the 3ABN Board, and the interested parties on that side of the table as well - which means there could be an extended period of time as everyone "wrangles" over the particulars. I think though, that to have a truly impartial hearing that the panel doing the questioning/investigating can not be limited in the scope of evidence to be considered.

> QUOTE(Observer @ Nov 22 2006, 07:25 AM) ☐
>
> 1) What is the purpose of the investigative panel?
>
> The purpose could be to achieve a binding resolution of the issues. Or, the purpose could be to issue a statement of fact, and recommendations for action by others. There are also other purposes that could be.
>
> 2) What are the limits of the issues considered by the panel?

> This mess has expanded well beyond marital issues. It has become extremely complex. The reality is that an ASI panel likely would be unable to fairly resolve some of the issues. With this in mind, is it worth the effort to convene such a panel?
>
> I am aware of other major issues that I could list. But, I will not do so at this time.
>
> The two issues listed above are extremely important to all parties, and to ASI. I can imagine that an examination of those two issues could result in any of the involved parties, to include ASI deciding that it was not worth the effort and expenditure of resources to convene such a panel.

I think the key issue is the agreement of all parties that the results be accepted as final. If the parties go in with the intent that a favorable decision is the only one they will abide by, then it will be an exercise in futility. If the side that recieves a less favorable outcome decides that they will then seek another avenue to achieve their goal this will drag on and continue to drag more people down. Resolution and closure is what is needed.

- fhb

Posted by: Observer Nov 22 2006, 09:09 AM

> QUOTE(västergötland @ Nov 22 2006, 01:27 AM)
>
> Provided this is the same guy and not just someone with the same name, then this doesnt seem the kind of endorsement that would be wished for.

In general terms, this issue is a serious one. However, it must be studied in depth to see if in the specifics it is as serious as it looks on the surface.

I have reviewed the entire ruling of the court. I have considered other comments on this case. I have come to the conclusion that it may be less than it first appears. I suggest that it may be less because it may lack any showing of an intent to take money that was not rightfully his. In short, it appears to me to be a case in which GAJ took funds that he was owed, but, he technically violated the law in the manner in which he took those funds. Let me illustrate with a simple illustration:

Paul, a businessperson, is owed a large sum of money by 100 customers. Paul, contracts with Saul to have Saul attempt to collect those 100 debts. In that contract, Paul agrees that Saul will be paid a fee of 40% of all money that comes to Paul during the time period of Januay 1, XXXX through December 31, XXXX. Saul will be assumed to have prompted the payment of such funds whether they come directly to Saul, or are paid directly to Paul. Forty per-cent of all payments on those debts are to be paid to Saul.

The process of debt collection begins. Some people pay Saul, directly, and others pay Paul.
When payments are made to Paul, he notifies Saul so that Saul will cease attempts to collect debts that have now been paid.

Periodicly, Saul sends Paul payments for what is owed to Paul. Saul deducts 40 % for payments made directly to him, and 40 % for payments made directly to Paul.

The above, in my mind would be a technical violation of the law, unless the agreement specificly specified that Saul could deduct 40% for payments made directly to Paul. Without that section of an agreement, technically the law could require Saul not to deduct amounts due him related to payments made directly to Paul, and Saul could be required to wait until Paul then sent him Sauls required 40 per-cent.

NOTE: I am giving an illustration based upon my current understanding of the case. However, in order to simplify my pont, I do not claim that every comment above is specificly accurate to the case. If you wish to persue the facts further, please obtain the full legal documentation, and consult with appropriate legal counsel to understand the case.

Posted by: Observer Nov 22 2006, 09:25 AM

1
Re: "One side of the issue can not dictate terms. It will not only have to be acceptable to Linda, et. al. but to Danny, the 3ABN Board, and the interested parties on that side of the table as well - which means there could be an extended period of time as everyone "wrangles" over the particulars. I think though, that to have a truly impartial hearing that the panel doing the questioning/investigating can not be limited in the scope of evidence to be considered.

I agree with the above. None of the parties can dictate terms. In the end the process must not only be fair, but it must have a transparent apparence of fairness. If it does not, it will fail.
Gregory Matthews

#2
Re: "I think the key issue is the agreement of all parties that the results be accepted as final. If the parties go in with the intent that a favorable decision is the only one they will abide by, then it will be an exercise in futility. If the side that recieves a less favorable outcome decides that they will then seek another avenue to achieve their goal this will drag on and continue to drag more people down. Resolution and closure is what is needed."

I understand the above post. But, I disagree with it. I believe that it is impossible for some of the issues to be resolved by any denominational agency, in a process that is fair to the involved parties. Specificly, I beleive that some of the issues can not be resolved in a manner that is fair to Danny by any denominational agency. As I stated above, if the process even appears to be unfair to any party, it will not bring resolution. Therefore, I do not believe that all of the issues can be resolved by ASI, or any other denominational agency.

From this perspective, all parties must be allowed to reject the results as final. All parties must be allowed to seek redress in another venue, and to cooperate in such, if other agencies, to include the civil authorities investigate. Gregory Matthews

---

Posted by: västergötland Nov 22 2006, 10:09 AM

> QUOTE(Observer @ Nov 22 2006, 04:09 PM) ☐
>
> I have reviewed the entire ruling of the court. I have considered other comments on this case. I have come to the conclusion that it may be less than it first appears. I suggest that it may be less because it may lack any showing of an intent to take money that was not rightfully his.

So you are basically saying that the supreme court of Vermont made this judgement over a technicallity, and that embezzlement isnt such a bad crime after all if you can explain why you ought to have the money? Ok then, carry on.

Posted by: Observer Nov 22 2006, 10:46 AM

> QUOTE(västergötland @ Nov 22 2006, 09:09 AM) ☐
>
> So you are basically saying that the supreme court of Vermont made this judgement over a technicallity, and that embezzlement isnt such a bad crime after all if you can explain why you ought to have the money? Ok then, carry on.

I am saying, as I stated, that it appears to me that there was no intent to obtain money that did nto rightfully belong to him.

As I presently understand the case, the court did not rule that he was not entitled to the money.

It did find him in violation of the law.

On the surface your sarcastic statement ". . .embezzlement isnt such a bad crime after all if you can explain why you ought to have the money?" is simplly that, a sarcastic statement that goes well beyond what I have said, as you likely know, and presents you as intentionally distorting what I have said.

But, for any who may want clairfication: Embezzlement, in common thinking typically involved one attempting to obtain money that does not belong to them. This case differs in that it presently appears to me to simply involve the proceedures by which money was obtained. Yes, one should always comply withe the law. But, a lack of intent to obtain funds that do not belong to you mitigates the crime. Any student of law would know that. The court has clearly ruled that a violation of the law occured. It did not find an attempt to defraud, as I understand it.

As to technical issues: If you carefully read the ruling, the Court addressed many technical issues. In llitigation, responsible attornies will raise technical issues, as that is required for proper litigation. Such were raised, and the court ruled on each. You will note that the Court ruled that the prosecution made technical violation of defense rights. Then the Court disposed of such.

As to a ruling by the Court that GAJ was convicted on technical grounds: If you ever expect a Court to make such a ruling you misunderstand legal rulings.

The Court made it's ruling. You may call it what you will.

I simply point out that the intent to defraud was never determined by the Court. It simply found that GAJ failed to follow what was required under VT law in regard to the transfer of funds. It did not rule that GAJ was not entitled to an equivalent amount of money.

Posted by: fallible humanbeing Nov 22 2006, 11:14 AM

> QUOTE(Observer @ Nov 22 2006, 11:09 AM) ☐

> In general terms, this issue is a serious one. However, it must be studied in depth to see if in the specifics it is as serious as it looks on the surface.
>
> I have reviewed the entire ruling of the court. I have considered other comments on this case. I have come to the conclusion that it may be less than it first appears. I suggest that it may be less because it may lack any showing of an intent to take money that was not rightfully his. In short, it appears to me to be a case in which GAJ took funds that he was owed, but, he technically violated the law in the manner in which he took those funds.

Greg,

According to the brief it is GAJ who is focusing on technicalities in his appeal, qouting the ruling, "We find these arguments to be hypertechnical, without substance, and insufficient to warrant reversal."

The intent to embezzle was clearly evident to the jury considering the case. The idea of intent is brought up by the defendent in his appeal, claiming that his "intent" was to repay the money. But clearly the law states that regardless of intent to repay the monies, the act of embezzlement occurs when the money is taken by the accused - there is no way to retroactively wipe out the action of embezzlement as it is defined by law.

GAJ's argument on appeal did not challenge in any way the conviction but rather challenged technicalities that the court sufficiently answered as non-substantial to the ruling of the lower court. In all three of the challenges presented by GAJ the higher court effectively points out that none interfered with the proceedings or jury deliberations, citing solid case law in answering each of the defendents contentions.

The only thing that changed from the initial indictment was that 9 of the 10 ten counts of embezzlement were set aside and the conviction was on only one of the counts.

- fhb

Posted by: fallible humanbeing Nov 22 2006, 11:36 AM

[quote name='Observer' post='161083' date='Nov 22 2006, 12:46 PM']
But, for any who may want clairfication: Embezzlement, in common thinking typically involved one attempting to obtain money that does not belong to them. This case differs in that it presently appears to me to simply involve the proceedures by which money was obtained. Yes, one should always comply withe the law. But, a lack of intent to obtain funds that do not belong to you mitigates the crime. Any student of law would know that. The court has clearly ruled that a violation of the law occured. It did not find an attempt to defraud, as I understand it.
[/quote]

Direct citation form the Supreme Courts decision:

[quote]
The crime is consummated when the money is intentionally and wrongfully converted, temporarily or permanently, to the defendant's own use.

and

As an agent, rather than a debtor, of Stacey, defendant was obligated to hold and remit to Stacey its percentage of any amounts collected. State v. Thyfault, 121 N.J.Super. 487, 498, 297 A.2d 873, 879 (1972); see also restatement (Second) Agency § 13, at 58 (1958) ("An agent is a fiduciary with respect to matters within the scope of his agency."). In discussing the obligation of an agent to his principal, the Supreme Judicial Court of Massachusetts has noted that the money held by an agent to the account [149 Vt. 613] of his principal "always, and in every shape, belongs to [the principal]." Tuckerman, 76 Mass. at 196. The court also stressed that the agent "is at all times the keeper of [his principal's] property" and the agent can never "rightfully set up any claim of ownership to it in himself...." Id. Given the existence of an agency relationship--as found by the jury--defendant's conversion of the money credited to Stacey's account was precisely the activity prohibited by the embezzlement statute. See 13 V.S.A. § 2531.

[/quote]

So, it doesn't matter how it was appropriated. The agent (GAJ) is not to use the principals money as it always belongs to the principal until it is released from the principal to the agent.

[quote name='Observer' post='161083' date='Nov 22 2006, 12:46 PM']
As to technical issues: If you carefully read the ruling, the Court addressed many technical issues. In llitigation, responsible attornies will raise technical issues, as that is required for proper litigation. Such were raised, and the court ruled on each. You will note that the Court ruled that the prosecution made technical violation of defense rights. Then the Court disposed of such.
[/quote]

They were termed "hypertechnical" and they also ruled that on each of these issues it was the defense attorney's responsibility to raise an objection before trial. Failure to do so waived any right to argue these technicalities after the completion of the trial. They were also technicalities that have been deemed to be inconsequential.

[quote name='Observer' post='161083' date='Nov 22 2006, 12:46 PM']
As to a ruling by the Court that GAJ was convicted on technical grounds: If you ever expect a Court to make such a ruling you misunderstand legal rulings. The Court made it's ruling.
[/qoute]

And in making its ruling it indicates that the defendent received a fair trial and was summarily found guilty of embezzlement.

[quote name='Observer' post='161083' date='Nov 22 2006, 12:46 PM']
I simply point out that the intent to defraud was never determined by the Court. It simply found that GAJ failed to follow what was required under VT law in regard to the transfer of funds. It did not rule that GAJ was not entitled to an equivalent amount of money.
[/quote]

The issue was never that GAJ was entitled to funds. The issue was the appropriation of such funds via illegal means. The judge did charge the jury telling them that intent to defraud is evidenced in word AND action.

[quote]
[149 Vt. 612] The trial judge properly charged the elements of the offense of embezzlement. Regarding intent, the judge stressed that "there must be a fraudulent intent and the State must prove fraudulent intent beyond a reasonable doubt." And the court properly noted that "the intent to embezzle is a state of mind which can be shown by words or conduct."
[/quote]

It would seem than that the trial judge and jury did determine there was intent to defraud.

- fhb

Note: The quote tags did not work so I bolded my responses.

Posted by: Observer Nov 22 2006, 11:58 AM

FHB:

Actually I agree with the majority of what you have stated. I do not now, and have not intended to debate most of what you have said. Most of it is correct.

I acknowledge tha GAJ was conviced of the crime of embezzlement. Whether he was convicted of 10 counts or one count, one count makes for a conviction. That is a reallity. The conviction stands today because he chose not to appeal further.

I did not get the sense that the court (or jury) determined that GAJ attempted to obtain money that was not rightfully his. I did not get a sense that any determination of his right to the money was made.

Yes, I so far today have briefly reviewed the legal rulling. Perhaps I have missed the above, and it is in the document.

But, at this point the major issue on which we seem not to agree is whether or not GAJ attempted to obtain money that was not rightfully his. In any case, the Court has rulled that he used the wrong method to obtain it. It was for that reason that GAJ seemingly has been conviceted of a crime--a crime apparently committed 18 + years ago.

Posted by: fallible humanbeing Nov 22 2006, 12:29 PM

> QUOTE(Observer @ Nov 22 2006, 01:58 PM)
>
> But, at this point the major issue on which we seem not to agree is whether or not GAJ attempted to obtain money that was not rightfully his. In any case, the Court has rulled that he used the wrong method to obtain it. It was for that reason that GAJ seemingly has been conviceted of a crime--a crime apparently committed 18 + years ago.

I don't think we interpret the case the same way. I see the case not as one determining GAJ's legal right to funds due him, but rather the fact that he acted in violation of the law while executing his fudiciary responsibilities - thus the embezzlement charge and conviction.

(Disclaimer: We are all making an assumption here that this is the same Gailon A. Joy who is conducting his own private investigation of the charges against 3ABN. No one has stepped up to claim otherwise and I would have expected any challenge to have come by now. If in fact it is not Mr. Joy, then I guess we have just engaged in a healthy intellectual exercise.) That being said . . . .

Yes, this case was a few years back. But, the reason for the introduction of this information is that it speaks directly to the fact that this is the individual who has taken it upon himself to vindicate Linda and convict Danny/3ABN. He has claimed a rather morally superior position in his endeavor and this information, if it is him, calls his motive, method, and the results of is work into question. I think it also makes the potential for an ASI panel review of the situation all the more significant. Much has been made of the past actions of Danny, Linda, et al as a means to portray character and there by substantiate the charges that have been laid. This should then apply in this case as well.

- fhb

Posted by: Johann Nov 22 2006, 12:44 PM

Why should we make things easy when we can enjoy making them so thoroughly complicated and thereby find someone guilty? ☒ h

---

Posted by: västergötland Nov 22 2006, 01:11 PM

Gregory (observer)

I can say now that I have not bought the entire document and even if I did, I lack in training or experience to interpret the fine print of legalese. However, that is besides the point I tried to make in post 141, namely that the only things we know about Mr Joy is that he is involved in this 3abn situation as some kind of investigator and that he in 1988 was found guilty of this crime against a corporation that hired him/his company. If I was in need of help of a similar kind that Mr Joy is giving to Linda Shelton, I would be interested in the track record of said help and if all I knew about the person was of this unfavourable nature Id go look somewhere else. This is an opinion built from this here available information and might be invalidated by aditional information that I am unaware of.

Johann,

Aint that an appropriate question for this subforum?

Somehow the introduction of legal documents seemed a lot smoother when it placed Danny/3abn in a rough place...

I guess this all boils down to most of us having no idea about all this and those who know tell nothing and maybe its like Calvin says just a lot of hot air blowing around...

Posted by: Fran Nov 22 2006, 03:10 PM

> QUOTE(fallible humanbeing @ Nov 22 2006, 12:29 PM) ☐
>
> I don't think we interpret the case the same way. I see the case not as one determining GAJ's legal right to funds due him, but rather the fact that he acted in violation of the law while executing his fiduciary responsibilities - thus the embezzlement charge and conviction.
>
> - fhb

FHB;

I see you are at it again. It seems you are "making a mountain out of an mole hill". I recommend you take as much time to read the documents about 3ABN as you have on GA Joy.

The 3ABN 2001 990 should make your hair stand on end. In fact, it is court cases such as the one GA Joy lost, that cause me to pause and wonder about our judicial process!

I see one screw up in > 18 years, whereas on the other hand, we have 3ABN screwing up for over 20 years.

Now, let me think about this a minute; GA Joy's conviction was over what, less than $2,000; Yet, we find 3ABN, just in 2001 alone was, let me see, yep, it screwed up more than $2.45 MILLION. These are repeated offences. These are taking the money of many. GA Joy's conviction was over one transaction, with one client.

Hum; what is wrong with this picture? So, you say GA Joy did not appeal, whereas, I see 3ABN appears to appeal everything.

As I see it, GA Joy knew he was wrong in this one incident and decided not to fight the truth. On the other hand, 3ABN has not once seen the possibility that they may have been wrong in their fiduciary obligations. If the IL vs. 3ABN Property Tax auditor's reports is any indication at all of 3ABN's fiduciary responsibilities, they do not take them seriously at all.

Time will tell. I somehow do not believe that GA Joy is not the kind of person to be intimidated by someone calling himself FHB.

I will be more interested in what will be done about 3ABN in court. I wonder how many years the appeals will take on those convictions, should there be convictions.

Posted by: Observer Nov 22 2006, 03:21 PM

Re: "I don't think we interpret the case the same way. I see the case not as one determining GAJ's legal right to funds due him, but rather the fact that he acted in violation of the law while executing his fudiciary responsibilities - thus the embezzlement charge and conviction."

Actually I agree with your main thesis here. GAJ broke the law. He was convicted for doing so. I do not argue the conviction. Under my present understanding, the offense is of lesser magnitude due to my belief that it has not been shown that he attempted to obtain monies that were not not justly due him. That issue was not tried, as I understand it. No decision was made by the Court on that point.

O. K. But, let us leave that point for a minute. The issue now, as I see it is:

1) Should Linda have someone representing and advising her who has been convicted of the crime that GAJ was convicted?

2) In what way does the prior conviction of this crime relate to the investigation that GAJ is doing now in regard to Linda and 3-ABN.

My thinking on the above:

1: That is a decision that Linda will have to make after she is satified that she knows all the revelant facts. In an earlier post the suggestion was made that Danny and Linda had engaged in certain prior misconduct. I went on to suggest that we were not fair to either Danny or Linda in bringing that claim up. I came on strong in regard to that suggestion. I suggested that we could not automaticly assume that such, if it happened had any relationship to events of today. A prior conviction by GAJ may have an emotional impact upon people today. But, it may not be revelant in regard to what is happpening today. In any event, it is revelant to GAJ. It is not revelant to the issues regarding Linda, Danny, and 3-ABN.

Here are some of the things that we might assume for this prior conviction of GAJ:

a) Bad judgement.
'b) Sloppy business practices.
c) Lack of knowledge of what the law allowed.

Over the 18+ years that have transpired since the conviction, all of the above could have been rectified. We cannot automaticly assume that the GAJ we see today is the same as the GAJ that existed 18 years ago.

2: The alligations surrounding Linda, Danny, and 3-ABN will stand or fall on their own merit. They are not dependent upon the past of GAJ. However, there is a record that GAJ has that may be of some revelance to us. That is his prior record of doing "investigative" reporting. It should be noted that he has a track record that can be checked. That track record is a proven one in which he has accomplished major achievements.

His investigative reporting must be judged on its merits. It should not be judged on an event of 18 years ago.

Posted by: fallible humanbeing Nov 22 2006, 03:52 PM

> QUOTE(Observer @ Nov 22 2006, 05:21 PM) ☐
>
> Actually I agree with your main thesis here. GAJ broke the law. He was convicted for doing so. I do not argue the conviction. Under my present understanding, the offense is of lesser magnitude due to my belief that it has not been shown that he attempted to obtain monies that were not not justly due him. That issue was not tried, as I understand it. No decision was made by the Court on that point.

Maybe the transcripts of the original trial would answer this question. But let's not belabor (though we may have already) the point.

> QUOTE(Observer @ Nov 22 2006, 05:21 PM) ☐
>
> O. K. But, let us leave that point for a minute. The issue now, as I see it is:
>
> 1) Should Linda have someone representing and advising her who has been convicted of the crime that GAJ was convicted?
>
> # 1: That is a decision that Linda will have to make after she is satified that she knows all the revelant facts. In an earlier post the suggestion was made that Danny and Linda had engaged in certain prior misconduct. I went on to suggest that we were not fair to either Danny or Linda in bringing that claim up. I came on strong in regard to that suggestion. I suggested that we could not automaticly assume that such, if it happened had any relationship to events of today.
>
> A prior conviction by GAJ may have an emotional impact upon people today. But, it may not be revelant in regard to what is happpening today. In any event, it is revelant to GAJ. It is not revelant to the issues regarding Linda, Danny, and 3-ABN.

You are correct that the allegation of misconduct (assuming its truth) can not be identified as causal for recent behavior. However, when attempting to establish Danny's guilt here much has been said about past behavior as indicating weaknesses in character, judgment, morals, etc. If this method applies to making a case against Danny then it should also apply to Linda, Gailon, and others as well. It is about establishing a pattern of behavior. Does one incident indicate a continuance of that behavior to the present? No. However, it should cause one to question and to intensify the microscope a bit so as not to be lead astray. After all it is this man's report that so many are waiting on pins and needles over.

> QUOTE(Observer @ Nov 22 2006, 05:21 PM) ☐
>
> Here are some of the things that we might assume for this prior conviction of GAJ:
> a) Bad judgement.
> .b) Sloppy business practices.
> c) Lack of knowledge of what the law allowed.
> Over the 18+ years that have transpired since the conviction, all of the above could have been rectified. We cannot automaticly assume that the GAJ we see today is the same as the GAJ that existed 18 years ago.

You should also include that he may very well have intended to embezzle the money.

What effect does this have on the current state of things, one can't know at this point. But, with so many waiting for the report from this individual it seems only fair to consider that what eventually is presented may or may not be of the highest level of integrity. Obviously in the event of a hearing before a panel comprised of ASI individuals Linda will have to determine if she wants to avail herself of the work of this individual, and she may very well decide it isn't in her best interest.

> QUOTE(Observer @ Nov 22 2006, 05:21 PM) ☐
>
> 2) In what way does the prior conviction of this crime relate to the investigation that GAJ is doing now in regard to Linda and 3ABN.
>
> # 2: The alligations surrounding Linda, Danny, and 3-ABN will stand or fall on their own merit. They are not dependent upon the past of GAJ. However, there is a record that GAJ has that may be of some revelance to us. That is his prior record of doing "investigative" reporting. It should be noted that he has a track record that can be checked. That track record is a proven one in which he has accomplished major achievements.
>
> His investigative reporting must be judged on its merits. It should not be judged on an event of 18 years ago.

This is the question I think is of primary importance in your post. Calvin and others have asked for some sort of "track record" to be made evident and none has yet been offered. Until we all have the opportunity to see some of this, we can not put much credence or faith in the work of Mr. Joy.

I agree completely with you that a resolution, conclusion to the current situation between 3ABN and Linda, et al will rest on the merits of the evidence presented by each. One would have to consider that this factor (the conviction) though, will become a point of issue if his investigation is presented as evidence.

-fhb

Posted by: Daryl Fawcett Nov 22 2006, 03:57 PM

Another difference is that, if this is the same GAJ, then due process was done, and he already paid the penalty for what he did, therefore, that should remain in the past and not be a subject of discussion here.

Posted by: fallible humanbeing Nov 22 2006, 04:16 PM

> QUOTE(Fran @ Nov 22 2006, 05:10 PM)
>
> Hum; what is wrong with this picture? So, you say GA Joy did not appeal, whereas, I see 3ABN appears to appeal everything.

No, your statement is not correct. I did not say that Gailon Joy did not appeal. Gailon did appeal, this is what the brief is about. The points of his appeal were seen by the court as "hypertechnical" and not of consequence. What I did say was that the court found that these technicalities were issues that needed to be brought up prior to trial. They were not, there by waiving any right that Mr. Joy might have of bringing them before the court.

3ABN's appeal of the initial decision in their case v. the State of Illinois is not based on technicalities but on serious considerations of the law. These considerations have far reaching effects for all ministries in the State and ministries such as Moody Bible Institute are following this case with extreme interest. Should the courts find in favor of the State all ministries within the State will find themselves potentially with a sudden retroactive tax burden that they can not shoulder.

> QUOTE(Fran @ Nov 22 2006, 05:10 PM)
>
> As I see it, GA Joy knew he was wrong in this one incident and decided not to fight the truth. On the other hand, 3ABN has not once seen the possibility that they may have been wrong in their fiduciary obligations. If the IL vs. 3ABN Property Tax auditor's reports is any indication at all of 3ABN's fiduciary responsibilities, they do not take them seriously at all.

A blanket statement like this doesn't seem to be reasoned on your part. You seem to imply automatic malicious intent to anything that 3ABN's financial departments have done over the past 20 years. In a conversation I had a year or so ago with an individual close to the situation, there was admitance on their part that there were processes that needed refinement and needed oversight and that the necessary corrections had been made. But, they continued, the case the State brought was neither accurate, nor did they feel that on appeal it would stand.

> QUOTE(Fran @ Nov 22 2006, 05:10 PM)
>
> Time will tell. I somehow do not believe that GA Joy is not the kind of person to be intimidated by someone calling himself FHB.

Quite honestly I don't think Mr. Joy would see intimidation in my postings here as that wasn't even a consideration on my part. I have no intention of trying to badger or imitimidate anyone.

> QUOTE(Fran @ Nov 22 2006, 05:10 PM)
>
> I will be more interested in what will be done about 3ABN in court.

I am not surprised.

- fhb

Posted by: fallible humanbeing Nov 22 2006, 04:27 PM

> QUOTE(Daryl Fawcett @ Nov 22 2006, 05:57 PM) ☐
>
> Another difference is that, if this is the same GAJ, then due process was done, and he already paid the penalty for what he did, therefore, that should remain in the past and not be a subject of discussion here.

That seems a convinient approach since what is taking place here are accusations against Danny/3ABN that have not been adjudicated. However, if one is to consider character (which is at the core of a number of the arguments against Danny/3ABN) and character is cumulative over time, then this does have to be considered when evaluating Mr. Joy's final report.

There is an old phrase that is applicable here: "consider the source."

To date we have only this upon which to determine the merit of the work of Mr. Joy. We do not yet have any other material or activities with which to gauge his veracity.

- fhb

Posted by: Observer Nov 23 2006, 04:55 AM

In the interests of transparency, and openness, I am making the following brief statements:

1) The GAJ who was convicted of the crime of embezzlement in the VT, is the GAJ who is presently conducting an investigation into this 3-ABN mess.

2) Mr. Joy has advised several of us, to include Linda Shelton, of the details of that conviction that have not been publicly presented before.

3) Mr. Joy was charged under Title 13, part I, Chapter 57 "Larceny and Embezzlement, Subchapter II, and Section 2531. In my mind a critical part of that statute is the following: "[One may be convicted of embezzlement] notwithstanding [that] he may have an interest in such money or property,. . ." In simple language: One may be convicted even if one had a right to that money.

4) The above statue allows one convicted of the crime to be imprisoned for up to ten years, and fined up to $500.00. It should be noted that GAJ was not sentenced to prison.

5) The charge against Mr. Joy began in 1980, and continued through the end of 1984. It was brought by an organization which was essentially VT. Legal Aid (LSCVT).

6) LSCVT first brought the claim against Mr. Joy in the Vt. Superior Court. They lost.

7) The LSCVT then attempted to file in a Federal Court. They failed.

8) At that time the LSCVT attempted to settle with Mr. Joy for the payment of $1,500.00, which would be made to them, and an agreement to change certain collection rules.

NOTE: In all of the above, the charges were made against Credit Management Services Corporation (CMSC), and not Mr. Joy, personally.

9) Mr. Joy did not want CMSC to settle. As a result, he bought out the other owners of the corporation, and became a personal defendant in the litigation.

10) During this process, Mr. Joy obtained a $40,000 judgment against the LSCVT for misuse of process. That judgment was paid.

11) In the litigation that LSCVT had brought, there were 58 named plaintiffs. The Court dismissed 57 of those plaintiffs, and trial went forward with one plaintiff.

12) During this litigation, Mr. Joy controlled five different companies. He put all five of them on the line, so to speak, in order to defend his innocence. As a result, all five closed.

13) In the final end, he was convicted. He was required to pay the sum of $1,152.15 to the plaintiff.

14) Mr. Joy acknowledges his conviction. As he was the sole owner at the time of the conviction, he accepts responsibility for that conviction. He does not challenge his conviction. At the time the charges were first brought, he was not the sole owner of CMSC, and he owned less than 50 percent of the stock in that company. As he bought out all of the other owners under conditions where he released them from responsibility for the charges, he at the time of the conviction became solely responsible for the crime.

15) It would have been far easier to have settled the case for the required $1,500 payment when that offer was made. However, Mr. Joy believed that he was innocent. He chose not to buckle under to the pressure, and to defend his innocence. Of the 58, he stands convicted of one.

16) Yes, he exercised his legal right to defend himself. Once a definitive decision was made, he stopped the appeals, made the payment, and went on with his life. He accepted responsibility.

Folks, as I have stated from the beginning: Yes, he has been convicted of a crime. His conviction came about due to the fact that he, at the time of the conviction, was the sole owner of the corporation. It should be remembered that at the time of the commission of the crime, he was not. To me this appears to be more a crime of lack of attention to detail, and/or sloppy bookkeeping. Further, he may very well have had a right to the monies. That issues was not determined by the Court, as VT law ruled that out as a defense.

Folks, one cannot rightfully state that Mr. Joy intended to obtain monies that were not rightfully his.

All one can state is that he was convicted of a crime that was essentially inattention to detail. He paid a very large price for that omission.

Make the best of this, folks.

We believe in transparancy, and oppeness.

Let us move on to more important issues.

NOTE: In regard to item # 12: With the purchase of CMSC, and before the litigation was completed, he controlled five companies. When the litigation began he did not control that many.

Posted by: Chez Nov 23 2006, 08:19 AM

Thank you for that information. FHB, are you satisfied? Probably not. If a thorough investigation was conducted on all of us, I am sure that there are some "not so pretty" items/issues that one would find that we wouldn't want revealed. Everybody has a past including me. However, Mr. GA Joy paid for the problem and moved on to better things. I think that he is credible. Is Danny credible? Is Linda credible? What does that track record reveal about them? Let their record speak for them along with their willingness to admit wrong and ask forgiveness of God [and others who have been wronged by this individual(s)]. What do our records reveal about us? Let it speak of our willingness to acknowledge and rectify wrongs along with asking God [and others we have wronged] for forgiveness.

Posted by: Daryl Fawcett Nov 23 2006, 09:50 AM

Well said Chez.

Posted by: Observer Nov 23 2006, 09:54 AM

I often write brief explanations of complex subjects in a attempt to condense them into the major points, and from the perspective that some people prefer to read brief statements over long complex documents.

However, there are others, like I often do, who like to read the original documents.

Therefore, and due to request, I am posting here a statement that GAJ has made in regard to his conviction in 1988.

****

"13 V.S.A. Â§ 2531. Embezzlement generally

[b]

[b]

TITLE 13
Crimes and Criminal Procedure
PART I
Crimes
CHAPTER 57. LARCENY AND EMBEZZLEMENT
Subchapter II. Embezzlement

Â§ 2531. Embezzlement generally

An officer, agent, bailee for hire, clerk or servant of a banking association or an incorporated company, or a clerk, agent, bailee for hire, officer or servant of a private person, partnership, tradesunion, joint stock company, unincorporated association, fraternal or benevolent association, except apprentices and other persons under the age of sixteen years, who embezzles or fraudulently converts to his own use, or takes or secretes with intent to embezzle or fraudulently convert to his own use, money or other property which comes into his possession or is under his care by virtue of such employment, notwithstanding he may have an interest in such money or property, shall be guilty of embezzlement and shall be imprisoned not more than ten years or fined not more than $500.00, or both. (Amended 1971, No. 199 (Adj. Sess.), Â§ 15.)

That's right, it is not a text but a statute, one which has an unusual statement rarely seen in the embezzlement statutes of the various states (in Bold type). And one which I have become very familiar with, much to my chagrin. And one so infrequently charged, that, yes, I am the singular citation in the Northeast Reports, a legal research text of precedent setting cases.

It is in fact true...I was an officer and major stockholder of Credit Management Services Corporation starting in 1978. I believe I began as a secretary to the corporation and vice president for operations. Beginning in 1980 the firm became embroiled in a series of legal battles brought by clients of Legal Services Corporation of Vermont (Legal Aide) that continued until Dec 1984. The first claims were brought in Vermont Superior court and were defeated with rather unusual, but effective, legal tactics.

In 1981 LSC of Vt brought a seperate but far more extensive action in US District Court accusing CMS of violating the Federal Fair Debt Collection Practices Act, a class action case for injunctive relief and individual hearings on the merits for damages. Injunctive relief was not granted. The case was put on the docket for 58 seperate trials on the merits for damages.

Shortly after filing the action, at one of the first hearings, LSC of VT offered then corporate counsel, Atty Thomas Koch, to settle for $1500 in legal fees to LSC of Vt and a stipulated injunction for new collection rules that exceeded the US FDCPA. The management took the matter up and made a clear decision citing a standard that I fully supported, THEN and NOW: Millions for Defense, not a single farthing for tribute!!!

The President and CFO, also the other stockholders, did not have the stomach for the litigation and had wanted to accept the offer to settle. The other managers and I refused. The firm was bleeding badly financially and being a big fish in a little pond we were a constant source of news, deemed to be negative public relations associated with the process. I agreed to buy out the 60% I did not own and I also agreed to hold the sellers harmless of any and all litigation. After I bought out the other stock-holders in 1982 I was personally named a party by LSC of VT Atty's Benjamin and Sussman to intimidate and attempt to force a settlement by threatening personal assetts. I refused to negotiate and ordered interrogatories and depositons of the 58 named plaintiffs and counterclaimed one by one.

Frankly, I reveled at the opportunity to defend personally and entered an appearance "pro se" as I was not happy with the corporations lawyers. I had bought out the two other share-holders so I could have control of the entire litigation process and by being named a defendant, the insurance carrier could not over-ride my wishes and settle to avoid years of legal fees!!!

In the fall of 1982 Atty Sue Sussman became an asst AG. and shortly thereafter filed a civil suite by the AG. We also fought that action and it was settled and dismissed sometime in the Spring of 1984. In December 1984 the LSC of Vt made the very poor legal strategic decision of simply dismissing me personally in the hopes the insurance company would settle. We promptly brought an action for mis-use of process and our Atty, now Sen Vincent Illuzzi, received a settlement for $40,000 in legal fees. Touche'!!!

Sometime during the civil litigation battles, the AG's criminal division got into the fray and contacted clients we had ongoing disputes with regarding receivables for sums owed to CMS or vice versa. Several of these filed formal complaints and the AG upped the ante and brought a criminal complaint for embezzlement against myself, personally, in 1985. The basis was the highlighted portion of the statute listed above, which simply means that because we did not remit the net due to Stacey in a timely fashion and converted the sum payable to corporate use, not withstanding our interest in the sum collected, I had committed embezzlement. Legally correct!!! Even though I had not been on the payroll since 1980 and was living in Maine at the time, therefore did not personally benefit, except in the egotistical sense of keeping the firm going to defeat the legal allegations, and achieve vindication.The buck still stopped at my desk!! !

We were able to get all but one claim dismissed because they owed us more than we owed them. In Stacey Fuel's case, Stacey had accepted partial payments from the debtors and refused to pay fees for service on the direct to Stacey's payments and we did indeed withhold payment until we were properly notified of payments and they were credited to the balance. I don't recall if they ever verified reported payments to CMS, despite debtor notification to us. Stacey cancelled service before the payment arrangements were finished and CMS gave notice of intent to bill them for the entire commission due but, unfortunately, never did. Frankly, because we had with-held payment, we were in violation of 13 VSA sec 2531!!!

The AG decided to take the one claim to trial in the sum $1152.15 which we fought it all the way to the Vt Supreme Court (Decision was in 1988) and the personal conviction was affirmed on the basis that the Vt Embezzlement statute allows for a a charge against an individual rather than the corporation and could do so regardless of the charged person's interest in the balance due the offended party.

In any event, the sentence was easy enough: I was ordered to pay the account and did so. Regardless of the technicality the entire legal issue was clearly my responsibility. I did not, nor would I try, to blame another. The facts were the facts and the Vt Supreme Court affirmed the fact that it was illegal to do what was done. Therefore the buck stopped at my desk and I took responsibility.

The harsh reality is, at the beginning of 1982 I controlled five companies, National Businessmens Credit Association, the National Business Trust, Green Mountain Credit Bureau, Capital Funding Corporation, and acquired the balance of CMS mid year. I put it all on the line for what I felt were irreversible principals that I and my management would not compromise on. By 1985 I had to sell or close every single business and had to start all over again. And I did!!! Some would argue that discretion is the greater part of valor and we should have settled in 1982 and we would be here today, handcuffed and cowering to LSC of Vt...an unacceptable option. I believe in Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness and in the absolute right of conscience. I will not live with the alternative without a fight. SO, the question frequently comes up...would you do it all again?
Well, I would certainly handle invoicing differently and would be dis-inclined to own a collection agency today, but other than that, given the same circumstances and given hindsight, YES, I WOULD PUT IT ALL ON THE LINE AGAIN, UNQUESTIONABLY, AND BE WILLING TO LOOSE IT ALL AGAIN, UNCONDITIONALLY.

I will forever stand for principal at any cost, and believe me when I say I have paid dearly. From that experience I have only my wife and family, praise the Lord, and many, many friends and business associates that we have helped to launch careers or beat back challenges to their lives and businesses. White Knight or greivous ogre, I would suppose it would depend on which side of the battles you were on!!!

Others would argue that we won the battles but lost the war... perhaps, but I would rather fight for principals and the right of conscience and loose than live with the alternative. If that disqualifies me from offering my experience and perspective to help victims of an unfair system in the sight of some, so be it, but I will always be available to help slay dragons and I will NEVER GIVE UP!!!

In summary, I have felt the sting of Justice and the comfort of Mercy. Justice makes one more human and understand the issue of accountability. It also makes you look hard at yourself and realize just how easy it is to be a "fallible human being" and how hard it is to earn the Mercy of humanity and how little we deserve the mercy of our Lord Jesus Christ. And in the end, I know what it is to be willing to give up everything we have worked so hard for, to stand for principals, albeit human principals, and how much more important it is to stand for the principals of righteousness within the Church of God. May every "fallible human being" learn the same lesson, is my prayer as we move forward to clean up any stench in the nostrils of the Lord!!!

Gailon Arthur Joy"

****

For those of you who prefer longer statements, here it is.

We intend to operate oppenly.

Gregory Matthews

NOTE: In this message as GAJ sent it out he used Bold type on occasion. In copying to this post, that Bolding has been lost. I am reluctant to change what he said in any manner, to include restoring the Bold type.

NOTE: I have attempted to restore the Bold and the centering.

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Nov 23 2006, 01:53 PM

I have hesitated to get involved much in this discussion but, on principle, I must put in a little comment.

All of us have sinned and come short of the glory of God. Sin, in any degree, separates us from God. When we repent (turn away) from that sin and reconnect with Him we can fully experience His mercy. That goes for every one of us.

My little comment is on a partial sentence at the end of G. A. Joy's statement:

"...is my prayer as we move forward to clean up any stench in the nostrils of the Lord!!!".

While I am not trying to be critical of anyone's mission, it just strikes me that it is a pretty bold conclusion to say that it falls to any of us humans to clean up any stench in the Lord's nostrils. Our filthy rags just don't have that kind of power IMO. It is our Lord and our Lord alone who has that cleansing power.

Posted by: Daryl Fawcett Nov 23 2006, 02:00 PM

Yes, I agree, however, as the Bible shows, the Lord often uses people to clean up the stench.

Posted by: fallible humanbeing Nov 23 2006, 02:11 PM

> QUOTE(Observer @ Nov 23 2006, 11:54 AM) ☐
>
> I often write brief explanations of complex subjects in a attempt to condense them into the major points, and from the perspective that some people prefer to read brief statements over long complex documents.
>
> However, there are others, like I often do, who like to read the original documents.
>
> Therefore, and due to request, I am posting here a statement that GAJ has made in regard to his conviction in 1988.
>
> ***************************
>
> . . . .
>
> In summary, I have felt the sting of Justice and the comfort of Mercy. Justice makes one more human and understand the issue of accountability. It also makes you look hard at yourself and realize just how easy it is to be a "fallible human being" and how hard it is to earn the Mercy of humanity and how little we deserve the mercy of our Lord Jesus Christ. And in the end, I know what it is to be willing to give up everything we have worked so hard for, to stand for principals, albeit human principals, and how much more important it is to stand for the principals of righteousness within the Church of God. May every "fallible human being" learn the same lesson, is my prayer as we move forward to clean up any stench in the nostrils of the Lord!!!
>
> Gailon Arthur Joy"

Thank you Greg for your work in making this clear, and please thank Mr. Joy for me for such a personal response.

Sarcasam aside, it is helpful to have a clear understanding of all the factors involved here. What we still do not know, though it has been requested a few times, is what sort of work Mr. Joy has engaged in that would set him apart to undertake the task of "investigating" this particular situation. What credibility does he have to offer that will make his report stand as difinitive in the situation?

His report, due out months ago, is now scheduled for 2007. One would think that by this point all relevent parties have been interviewed and a report of the situation would have already been forth coming. Knowing his credentials (and I do not necessarily mean a liscence, unless one is needed for what he has undertaken) would lend credence to his work. We know he isn't a private investigator. He must have some legal training, meaning he probably went to law school or worked in a firm long enough to have sufficient background to be able to represent himself in his embezzlement case. Is he a reporter (as might be assumed by his sign off earlier "AUReporter")? If he is and if he has significant work that can be referenced one could decide what weight a report offered by him might carry. But, to date nothing has been presented.

It is curious that while so much of what has been presented here appears to be making a case against the character of Danny, his family members, various employees and board members that when raising a character question about Mr. Joy this is just not acceptable.

Character is at the center of the claims against Danny, et. al. "They do not have the appropriate upright character to be doing the work of God." Over and over and over this comes through. If character is the issue then we need to address all concerend from the same aspect. What of Linda's character? One can be sympathetic to her pain and hard experiences while at the same time considering her character - doesn't God look on us similarly, with unconditional love, while at the same time leading us to realize the flaws in our character? What about the character of you and I - speaking for myself it certainly isn't a stellar picture. Yet Danny's has had his character impuned in so many ways (and there is yet to be evidence presented for most of the accusations.) The spiritual conversion of Mollie and Hal has been constantly called into question, and guilt by association has been flung around left and right. Looking at it from the middle I don't think my questioning the integrity of the report from Mr. Joy is inappropriate. If in fact there is no reason to question Mr. Joy's work one would think that Linda, et. al. would relish the chance to be transparent.

It is obvious in Mr. Joy's statement that he stood for what he felt was a worthy principle. He made restitution and from all indications hasn't had a similar experience since. But, as you pointed out, in a post yesterday, it could all have happend because he did not know ther law or engaged in some sloppy bookkeeping. Would either one of those cause you to wonder about the attention to detail in the report he is scheduled to deliver? Then again if there were a track record that one could look over that might be a moot question.

Greg, I appreciated the fair and even handed discussion we engaged in yesterday and your professional and respectful tone. I don't know if you solicited a response from Mr. Joy or came by it another way - but I do appreciate your efforts to keep all that can possiby be made known out in the open so those looking for the facts can make a reasoned decision in all of this.

-fhb

Posted by: howdy Nov 23 2006, 03:31 PM

HO HUm Ad infinitum. If Johan would just produce what was "imminent" weeks ago we could all forget 3ABN.

howdy

Posted by: Observer Nov 23 2006, 04:14 PM

FHB:

Thank you for your gracious comments about me personally.

I, like others, have formed an opinion. I have a bias, if you will. Much of my opinion is founded, not upon what others have said, but upon personal discovery. I have not stated my reasons for such as I think it is inappropriate to publicly do so.

While I have an opinion, or bias, I like others involved in this are committed to a search for truth, where that takes us. This incident regarding Mr. Joy's 1988 conviction is a set back that needed to be met immediately. All of us agree on that point. We agree that it has needed to be met with the truth, whatever that truth is. So, as soon as the charge against him was known, we consulted to discover what truth was present in the charge. In that process of consultation, Mr. Joy made his statement to us. He did so voluntarily, and with no pressure from us to do so. He did so because he agrees with us that the truth must come out. It cannot be swept under the rug, so to speak. Whatever that truth is, it must be made public.

The questions that you raise about Mr. Joy's background are valid questions of interest. Early on in his involvement, I contacted him and asked him some frank questions. People who know me know that I can do so. He responded with very specific answers to the questions that I had asked him. He has given me telephone number by which I can reach him, and when I feel a need to do so, I do contact him directly.

I will respond to your questions regarding his background. As is my custom, I will be brief, and if you wish more detailed answers they can come later or from someone else.

Legal background: Mr. Joy has an extensive background in law, but he is not a licensed attorney. He has a good background in helping attorneys prepare their cases for litigation.

Investigation: Mr. Joy has been involved in investigating, and discovery of facts in a number of cases in the secular (political) world, and within the SDA Church. In the secular world he has brought to light information that has resulted in political changes in the government. He has a past history of bringing to light information regarding denominationally related institutions that some had attempted to cover up.

Financial: Mr. Joy has the ability to fund his own efforts to discover the truth, to obtain the help that he needs to do such, and to do whatever is required of him, in his efforts to discover the truth.

Publishing: Mr. Joy is able to get his story out to the public a large, whenever he wishes to do so.

I believe that you mentioned that time-lines had been set for revelations of findings, and that such had never been met.

Correct, and there are a couple of good reasons for such:

1) The information available for discovery has exceeded expectations, and therefore time lines have needed to be extended.

2) Mr. Joy not only desires to work with interested people to resolve these issues, but he is willing to do so. When people in positions of influence have asked for time to attempt to resolve issues, we have all been willing to give them such time. But, as you can understand, such attempts must be conducted behind "closed doors," and cannot be conducted publicly. It is only after basic agreements are reached that announcements of such may be made. Mr. Joy has postponed promised publicity in an attempt to facilitate attempts that some have wanted to make to resolve the issues. We will continue to do so when there is some chance of resolution.

There are people on both (all) sides of this issue who are sincere, honest, and want to resolve issues in the best manner possible. Whether that is possible will remain to be seen.

My personal belief is that some can be accomplished, but that some issues will not lend themselves to such efforts.

That is all I can say at this point in time.

Posted by: Panama_Pete Nov 26 2006, 05:23 AM

> QUOTE(fallible humanbeing @ Nov 22 2006, 04:16 PM) ☐
>
> 3ABN's appeal of the initial decision in their case v. the State of Illinois is not based on technicalities but on serious considerations of the law. These considerations have far reaching effects for all ministries in the State and ministries such as Moody Bible Institute are following this case with extreme interest. Should the courts find in favor of the State all ministries within the State will find themselves potentially with a sudden retroactive tax burden that they can not shoulder.
>
> - fhb

Here's something people seem to be missing:

3ABN was organized as " a general not-for-profit corporation." The confusion is that you are referring to the 3ABN corporation as a "ministry."

According to the tax case, 3ABN was not organized as an Illinois religious corporation, but as as general not-for-profit corporation.

General not-for-profit corporations can solicit for donations, but, unlike religious organizations, they are not automatically entitled to real estate tax exemptions.

Danny Shelton simply set up a private business for himself. That's all it is.
Read it all on page 23.

http://www.revenue.state.il.us/legalinformation/hearings/pt/pt04-1.pdf

"As a preliminary matter, applicant [3ABN] is not organized and operated as a religious corporation under the Illinois Religious Corporation Act, found at 805 ILCS 110/0.01 et seq. Rather, applicant is incorporated under the General Not for Profit Corporation Act. 805 ILCS105/101.01 et seq. The Illinois General Assembly has recognized organizational and operational differences between the two types of organizations and has established different and separate statutory schemes to govern those differences. Implicit in such legislative action is the recognition that religious corporations and general not for profit corporations are separate, distinct, and different legal entities. Therefore, as a matter of law, applicant [3ABN] is not a religious corporation. "

Posted by: Johann Nov 26 2006, 05:07 PM

> QUOTE(howdy @ Nov 23 2006, 11:31 PM) ☐
>
> HO HUm Ad infinitum. If Johan would just produce what was "imminent" weeks ago we could all forget 3ABN.
>
> howdy

There was much more evidence than expected. Here is the latest from the investigation:

Linda and the team that has been investigating the entire 3ABN case has been conferring with a representative of ASI to determine if common ground and fair rules for a five person panel can be found to address at least some of the issues, including Linda's claims and rights.

If this does not work out, then in Janaury, 2007 we will launch a full scale and public effort to exonerate Linda, to indict Danny in the public eye and to put pressure on 3ABN to make certain changes to it's governance and accountability to be certain that this incredulous process cannot continue or repeat itself.
In the interim, think seriously of encouraging local affiliates and individual satellite viewers to switch to Hope Channel. They also offer online streaming video and I have begun watching it to avoid supporting hypocracy and to avoid what may be an unpleasant surprise as civil authority continues to probe as well.
I have done a very complete timeline and continue to interview dozens of witnesses, officers, directors (past and present), employees and conference emplyees.

I can safely argue that we have overwhelmingly concluded that there was no adultery on Linda's part during her marriage to Danny Shelton;
That Danny was in fact preparing for a divorce during 2003 and Linda trustingly and naively missed the roadsigns;
That Danny has had several "inappropriate" relationships that were in some cases public and known by staff and some directors throughout his marriage to Linda Shelton;
That at least one "inappropriate" relationship in fact betrayed Linda Shelton and has used her treachery to advance her career at 3ABN and continues to do so;
That Danny Shelton clearly conducted an "inappropriate" relationship with Brandy from August 2004 until they were married in 2006 and the officers and directors of 3ABN were well aware of the relationship;
That the marriage to Brandy is a clear adultery under the very clear rules established by the Lord of the Universe in Matthew; That the 3ABN board had no ecclesiastical authority ! to auth orize the adulterous marriage to Brandy and continue to employ Danny Shelton at the head of Three Angels Broadcasting Network, Inc.;
That the board of Directors of 3ABN has failed in it's responsibility to oversee the assetts, governance and accountability to the "stockholders in the pews";
That 3ABN has to change it's constitution and bylaws to end the self perpetuation of the board of directors and leadership of 3ABN and to establish a real membership inclusive of all donors;
To establish representative form of government that will be accountable to the "stockholders in the pews", that will act responsibly to end the nepotism at 3ABN and prevent re-enactment of the Linda Shelton debacle and the retaliation against a whistleblower employee group from trust services following eggregious actions, including but not limited to grossly disgusting violations of the Federal Equal Employment Opportunity Act and some allegations of wrongful fiduciary responsibility by West! phal , et al.

As time progresses, either the tribunal will conduct a fair hearing and issue a report with recommendations or we will do it for them. Ours will most likely be far less tempered and far more direct in it's revelations and public documentation, but we are willing to grant some additional time for these discussions to prepare a foundation for a fair tribunal. But, our investigation is coming to a time certain waymark conclusion, albeit not an end as there are developing stories that will most certainly proceed well into the year 2007 and 2008.

While I am a firm believer in ecclesiatical authority, I am reasonably certain that no-one on this team, nor other 3ABN employees, past and present, will allow the issues to once again remain buried for another twenty years.

Rest assured that Linda will be exonerated publically in time!!!

The handwriting is very nearly upon the wall and grace will end in the favor of justice. After all, Divine Love is a balance of mercy and justice and mercy has had it's way far too long at 3ABN. May Justice prevail and the Lord be honored in all that is done.

Gailon Arthur Joy
AUReporter

Posted by: simplysaved Nov 26 2006, 05:19 PM

The church you attend is a not-for-profit organization and is listed as such.

> QUOTE(Panama_Pete @ Nov 26 2006, 06:23 AM) ☐
>
> Here's something people seem to be missing:
>
> 3ABN was organized as " a general not-for-profit corporation." The confusion is that you are referring to the 3ABN corporation as a "ministry."
>
> According to the tax case, 3ABN was not organized as an Illinois religious corporation, but as as general not-for-profit corporation.
>
> General not-for-profit corporations can solicit for donations, but, unlike religious organizations, they are not automatically entitled to real estate tax exemptions.
>
> Danny Shelton simply set up a private business for himself. That's all it is.
> Read it all on page 23.
>
> http://www.revenue.state.il.us/legalinformation/hearings/pt/pt04-1.pdf
>
> "As a preliminary matter, applicant [3ABN] is not organized and operated as a religious corporation under the Illinois Religious Corporation Act, found at 805 ILCS 110/0.01 et seq. Rather, applicant is incorporated under the General Not for Profit Corporation Act. 805 ILCS105/101.01 et seq. The Illinois General Assembly has recognized organizational and operational differences between the two types of organizations and has established different and separate statutory schemes to govern those differences. Implicit in such legislative action is the recognition that religious corporations and general not for profit corporations are separate, distinct, and different legal entities. Therefore, as a matter of law, applicant [3ABN] is not a religious corporation. "

Johann:

I personally read from Linda's website that she has put this behind her and has moved on.....has God now given her a "new" vision/light or is she being pressured to?

> QUOTE(Johann @ Nov 26 2006, 06:07 PM) ☐
>
> There was much more evidence than expected. Here is the latest from the investigation:
>
> Linda and the team that has been investigating the entire 3ABN case has been conferring with a representative of ASI to determine if common ground and fair rules for a five person panel can be found to address at least some of the issues, including Linda's claims and rights.
>
> If this does not work out, then in Janaury, 2007 we will launch a full scale and public effort to exonerate Linda, to indict Danny in the public eye and to put pressure on 3ABN to make certain changes to it's governance and accountability to be certain that this incredulous process cannot continue or repeat itself.
> In the interim, think seriously of encouraging local affiliates and individual satellite viewers to switch to Hope Channel. They also offer online streaming video and I have begun watching it to avoid supporting hypocracy and to avoid what may be an unpleasant surprise as civil authority continues to probe as well.
> I have done a very complete timeline and continue to interview dozens of witnesses, officers, directors (past and present), employees and conference emplyees.
>
> I can safely argue that we have overwhelmingly concluded that there was no adultery on Linda's part during her marriage to Danny Shelton;
> That Danny was in fact preparing for a divorce during 2003 and Linda trustingly and naively missed the roadsigns;
> That Danny has had several "inappropriate" relationships that were in some cases public and known by staff and some directors throughout his marriage to Linda Shelton;
> That at least one "inappropriate" relationship in fact betrayed Linda Shelton and has used her treachery to advance her career at 3ABN and continues to do so;
> That Danny Shelton clearly conducted an "inappropriate" relationship with Brandy from August 2004 until they were married in 2006 and the officers and directors of 3ABN were well aware of the relationship;
> That the marriage to Brandy is a clear adultery under the very clear rules established by the Lord of the Universe in Matthew; That the 3ABN board had no ecclesiastical authority ! to auth orize the adulterous marriage to Brandy and continue to employ Danny Shelton at the head of Three Angels Broadcasting Network, Inc.;
> That the board of Directors of 3ABN has failed in it's responsibility to oversee the assetts, governance and accountability to the "stockholders in the pews";
> That 3ABN has to change it's constitution and bylaws to end the self perpetuation of the board of directors and leadership of 3ABN and to establish a real membership inclusive of all donors;
> To establish representative form of government that will be accountable to the "stockholders in the pews", that will act responsibly to end the nepotism at 3ABN and prevent re-enactment of the Linda Shelton debacle and the retaliation against a whistleblower employee group from trust services following eggregious actions, including but not limited to grossly disgusting violations of the Federal Equal Employment Opportunity Act and some allegations of wrongful fiduciary responsibility by West! phal , et al.
>
> As time progresses, either the tribunal will conduct a fair hearing and issue a report with recommendations or we will do it for them. Ours will most likely be far less tempered and far more direct in it's revelations and public documentation, but we are willing to grant some additional time for these discussions to prepare a foundation for a fair tribunal. But, our investigation is coming to a time certain waymark conclusion, albeit not an end as there are developing stories that will most certainly proceed well into the year 2007 and 2008.
>
> While I am a firm believer in ecclesiatical authority, I am reasonably certain that no-one on this team, nor other 3ABN employees, past and present, will allow the issues to once again remain buried for another twenty years.

> Rest assured that Linda will be exonerated publically in time!!!
>
> The handwriting is very nearly upon the wall and grace will end in the favor of justice. After all, Divine Love is a balance of mercy and justice and mercy has had it's way far too long at 3ABN. May Justice prevail and the Lord be honored in all that is done.
>
> Gailon Arthur Joy
> AUReporter

Posted by: Johann Nov 26 2006, 05:54 PM

> QUOTE(simplysaved @ Nov 27 2006, 01:19 AM)
>
> Johann:
>
> I personally read from Linda's website that she has put this behind her and has moved on.....has God now given her a "new" vision/light or is she being pressured to?

Linda is not being pressured into anything. She did not ask for this investigation. Gailon Arthur did not want to have anything to do with an investigation of the divorce for the first two years. He started investigating on his own without even talking to Linda, and was greatly surpriced what he discovered. Numerous first person witnesses have contacted him and given him what they have experienced.

Linda did not ask for this, neither did Dr. Arild Abrahamsen, nor I.

Last year Gailon Arthur made close to a million dollars available to 3ABN, in which he still believes.

Posted by: summertime Nov 27 2006, 08:59 AM

> QUOTE(Johann @ Nov 26 2006, 05:54 PM)
>
> Linda is not being pressured into anything. She did not ask for this investigation. Gailon Arthur did not want to have anything to do with an investigation of the divorce for the first two years. He started investigating on his own without even talking to Linda, and was greatly surpriced what he discovered. Numerous first person witnesses have contacted him and given him what they have experienced.
>
> Linda did not ask for this, neither did Dr. Arild Abrahamsen, nor I.
>
> Last year Gailon Arthur made close to a million dollars available to 3ABN, in which he still believes.

Johann, I am having trouble understanding why Gailon Arthur, with the understanding of what is going on at 3ABN, did not make this 'close to a million' availability to HOPE TV instead of to 3ABN. Why would he continue to line Danny Shelton's pockets when he understands what has happened.?

Posted by: Denny Nov 27 2006, 10:21 AM

> QUOTE(PeacefullyBewildered @ Nov 23 2006, 07:53 PM) ☐
>
> I have hesitated to get involved much in this discussion but, on principle, I must put in a little comment.
>
> All of us have sinned and come short of the glory of God. Sin, in any degree, separates us from God. When we repent (turn away) from that sin and reconnect with Him we can fully experience His mercy. That goes for every one of us.
>
> My little comment is on a partial sentence at the end of G. A. Joy's statement:
>
> "...is my prayer as we move forward to clean up any stench in the nostrils of the Lord!!!".
>
> While I am not trying to be critical of anyone's mission, it just strikes me that it is a pretty bold conclusion to say that it falls to any of us humans to clean up any stench in the Lord's nostrils. Our filthy rags just don't have that kind of power IMO. It is our Lord and our Lord alone who has that cleansing power.

So can I come round and steal from your offering plate on a regular basis and expect no reprisals? [i]

Posted by: Johann Nov 27 2006, 10:53 AM

> QUOTE(summertime @ Nov 27 2006, 04:59 PM) ☐
>
> Johann, I am having trouble understanding why Gailon Arthur, with the understanding of what is going on at 3ABN, did not make this 'close to a million' availability to HOPE TV instead of to 3ABN. Why would he continue to line Danny Shelton's pockets when he understands what has happened.?

Mr. Gailon Arthur Joy and his team are conservative Seventh-day Adventists, and it seems a general understanding that 3ABN is the TV of conservative Adventists, while they claim HOPE is a liberal station. At the time GAJ sent close to a million dollars to 3ABN he was still convinced Danny Shelton was the man advocating the right SDA principles. It was only after he discovered there was something wrong with Danny Shelton's explanations that he started investigating. His team discovered that 3ABN does not have one single valid proof against Linda. They merely hide themselves behind fiction they have created, in an attempt to justify Danny's affair with another woman, and so that he could still remain the president of 3ABN after he remarried. Someone sent me this quote today:

"... churches are filled with fornication and adultery. . . but these things are kept covered up. Ministers in high places are guilty; yet a cloak of godliness covers their dark deeds, and they pass on from year to year in their course of hypocracy." Testimonies vol. 2, p. 449.

Does this contain a warning for us today?

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Nov 27 2006, 11:02 AM

> QUOTE(Denny @ Nov 27 2006, 09:21 AM) ☐
>
> So can I come round and steal from your offering plate on a regular basis and expect no reprisals?[i]

IMO there is a huge difference between bringing issues forward that need to be dealt with by conference or civil authorites - such as stealing from an offering plate or blatant doctrinal violations - and supposing that any of us has the power to actually > move forward to clean up any stench in the nostrils of the Lord!!!.

> QUOTE

Who really has the power or even the commission to cleanse the nostrils of the God of all the universe? I believe that only when He makes a final end to everything sinful and creates the Earth anew will that stench be gone. In the meantime our personal prayers and supplications to our Father in heaven can certainly bring to Him a fragrance that He finds pleasing.

That being said, I would be happy to entertain scripture that shows differently.

Posted by: howdy Nov 27 2006, 12:22 PM

> QUOTE(simplysaved @ Nov 26 2006, 06:19 PM) ☐
>
> The church you attend is a not-for-profit organization and is listed as such.
>
> Johann:
>
> I personally read from Linda's website that she has put this behind her and has moved on.....has God now given her a "new" vision/light or is she being pressured to?

I really appreciate this explanation of where this situation stands at the present time. I believe it is important to keep folks informed of what is going on rather than keep us all hanging on waiting for some future revelation. Thank you.

howdy

Posted by: fallible humanbeing Nov 27 2006, 02:50 PM

> QUOTE(Panama_Pete @ Nov 26 2006, 07:23 AM) ☐

> Here's something people seem to be missing:
>
> 3ABN was organized as " a general not-for-profit corporation." The confusion is that you are referring to the 3ABN corporation as a "ministry."
>
> According to the tax case, 3ABN was not organized as an Illinois religious corporation, but as as general not-for-profit corporation.
>
> General not-for-profit corporations can solicit for donations, but, unlike religious organizations, they are not automatically entitled to real estate tax exemptions.
>
> Danny Shelton simply set up a private business for himself. That's all it is.
> Read it all on page 23.
>
> http://www.revenue.state.il.us/legalinformation/hearings/pt/pt04-1.pdf
>
> "As a preliminary matter, applicant [3ABN] is not organized and operated as a religious corporation under the Illinois Religious Corporation Act, found at 805 ILCS 110/0.01 et seq. Rather, applicant is incorporated under the General Not for Profit Corporation Act. 805 ILCS105/101.01 et seq. The Illinois General Assembly has recognized organizational and operational differences between the two types of organizations and has established different and separate statutory schemes to govern those differences. Implicit in such legislative action is the recognition that religious corporations and general not for profit corporations are separate, distinct, and different legal entities. Therefore, as a matter of law, applicant [3ABN] is not a religious corporation. "

PP,

Okay, this is in fact the primary issue here. Thompsonville Community High School District No. 112, Thompsonville School District No. 62, Franklin County Board of Review, and The Department of Revenue of the State of Illinois are attempting to establish precedent with this case. If they are successful all entities that have organized as GNFP can come under review for past and future property tax collection. This case is entirely about property taxes and the windfall that some local entity, such as the school district, may incur by stripping GNFPs like 3ABN and Moody Bible Institute of their tax-exempt status.

As you stated, being a GNFP neither insures nor disallows the property tax exempt status. The defining point is the endeavor of the entity. In this case, just as with Tri-State Christian TV, the issue is, are the entity's endeavors religious in nature. Tri-State Christian TV (WTCT) is a non-Adventist television ministry that organized as a GNFP and was granted property tax exempt status by the Sate of Illinois (WTCT is a comparable entity). The trial court would not allow 3ABN to enter into evidence information about Tri-State and thwarted efforts by 3ABN attorneys to gather additional information about Tri-State by quashing a subpoena to depose the president of WTCT. The allowance of this evidence would have made it unquestionably clear that there was a double standard applied to 3ABN by the State of Illinois. The trial judge couched her decision by claiming that this was addressing a "constitutional challenge" and this trial was not the proper "forum" for this evidence. Additionally, she supported her decision by citing case law that stands for the opposite of the way in which she used it.

The trial judge, in her decision makes the following statements in regards to the question of what is 3ABN's primary purpose.

" 3ABN has not established that it has officers deeply involved in religious teaching that serve to accomplish the promotion of Christian education."

"[nor] is there any indication in the record that Danny Shelton is traveling to advocate the Seventh-day Adventist doctrine or faith."

"the evidence shows that 3ABN directly engaged in little or no specific religious activity and use the property in question for no such purpose"

The central part of the judge's decision (that 3ABN was not a religious ministry) was that 3ABN's programming and operation were not religious in nature and did not support the religious endeavors of the Seventh-day Adventist Church. She cited that the programming contained health, gardening, cooking, music programs, family, and health and lifestyle topics, claiming these were not religious in nature. Her argument was that 3ABN was "advocating a way of life, but it was a lifestyle that applicants favor, not a religion."

According to Illinois law, to qualify under law for the property tax exemption two questions have to be satisfied:

1. Does the entity have primarily religious or charitable purposes?
2. Is the property used for the religious purposes of the entity?

In essence the trial judge ignored and in some cases refused to hear, evidence and testimony that established 3ABN as an entity whose primary purpose was religious, and that its property was used to achieve such ends. Her decision flies the face of Illinois law.

This is merely a snapshot of the case, but it is the core of the case. It is obvious that what the trial judge was focusing on has nothing to do with many of the financial issues that much of the material presented here (BSDA) has identified as being the reason(s) for the case between 3ABN and the Sate of Illinois. The case is about whether or not the local government, on behalf of the school district, can collect taxes on the 3ABN property. And, as stated before, this has far reaching ramifications for all GNFPs that are primarily religious or charitable in the endeavors.

- fhb

Posted by: Panama_Pete Nov 27 2006, 03:28 PM

> QUOTE(fallible humanbeing @ Nov 27 2006, 02:50 PM) ☐
>
> PP,
>
> Okay, this is in fact the primary issue here. Thompsonville Community High School District No. 112, Thompsonville School District No. 62, Franklin County Board of Review, and The Department of Revenue of the State of Illinois are attempting to establish precedent with this case. If they are successful all entities that have organized as GNFP can come under review for past and future property tax collection. This case is entirely about property taxes and the windfall that some local entity, such as the school district, may incur by stripping GNFPs like 3ABN and Moody Bible Institute of their tax-exempt status.
>
> As you stated, being a GNFP neither insures nor disallows the property tax exempt status. The defining point is the endeavor of the entity. In this case, just as with Tri-State Christian TV, the issue is, are the entity's endeavors religious in nature. Tri-State Christian TV (WTCT) is a non-Adventist television ministry that organized as a GNFP and was granted property tax exempt status by the Sate of Illinois (WTCT is a comparable entity). The trial court would not allow 3ABN to enter into evidence information about Tri-State and thwarted efforts by 3ABN attorneys to gather additional information about Tri-State by quashing a subpoena to depose the president of WTCT. The allowance of this evidence would have made it unquestionably clear that there was a double standard applied to 3ABN by the State of Illinois. The trial judge couched her decision by claiming that this was addressing a "constitutional challenge" and this trial was not the proper "forum" for this evidence. Additionally, she supported her decision by citing case law that stands for the > opposite of the way in which she used it.

>
> The trial judge, in her decision makes the following statements in regards to the question of what is 3ABN's primary purpose.
>
> " 3ABN has not established that it has officers deeply involved in religious teaching that serve to accomplish the promotion of Christian education."
>
> "[nor] is there any indication in the record that Danny Shelton is traveling to advocate the Seventh-day Adventist doctrine or faith."
>
> "the evidence shows that 3ABN directly engaged in little or no specific religious activity and use the property in question for no such purpose"
>
> The central part of the judge's decision (that 3ABN was not a religious ministry) was that 3ABN's programming and operation were not religious in nature and did not support the religious endeavors of the Seventh-day Adventist Church. She cited that the programming contained health, gardening, cooking, music programs, family, and health and lifestyle topics, claiming these were not religious in nature. Her argument was that 3ABN was "advocating a way of life, but it was a lifestyle that applicants favor, not a religion."
>
> According to Illinois law, to qualify under law for the property tax exemption two questions have to be satisfied:
>
> 1. Does the entity have primarily religious or charitable purposes?
> 2. Is the property used for the religious purposes of the entity?
>
> In essence the trial judge ignored and in some cases refused to hear, evidence and testimony that established 3ABN as an entity whose primary purpose was religious, and that its property was used to achieve such ends. Her decision flies the face of Illinois law.
>
> This is merely a snapshot of the case, but it is the core of the case. It is obvious that what the trial judge was focusing on has nothing to do with many of the financial issues that much of the material presented here (BSDA) has identified as being the reason(s) for the case between 3ABN and the Sate of Illinois. The case is about whether or not the local government, on behalf of the school district, can collect taxes on the 3ABN property. And, as stated before, this has far reaching ramifications for all GNFPs that are primarily religious or charitable in the endeavors.
>
> - fhb

Posted by: Panama_Pete Nov 27 2006, 04:31 PM

> QUOTE(fallible humanbeing @ Nov 27 2006, 02:50 PM)
>
> PP,
>
> As you stated, being a GNFP neither insures nor disallows the property tax exempt status. The defining point is the endeavor of the entity. In this case, just as with Tri-State Christian TV, the issue is, are the entity's endeavors religious in nature.
>
> - fhb

Isn't it true that TCT Television in Marion could have volunteered testimony, even without a subpoena? If Garth Coonce, the president of TCT, felt his future tax exemption was in jeopardy, why would he want to avoid speaking up?

Is there enough bad blood between these two Christian broadcasting gentlemen, Garth Coonce and Danny Shelton, that a subpoena was actually needed? Just asking.

I understand that TCT is the older of the two local broadcasting organizations and that TCT had a dream to operate a Christian Television station that would reach the world, and that 3ABN came along a bit later with a similar vision.

Printable Version of Topic

143

Click here to view this topic in its original format

BlackSDA _ 3ABN _ Danny's Vision Of Nov. 14/15, 1984

Posted by: sister Nov 13 2006, 08:06 PM

Danny's Vision of Nov. 14/15, 1984:fact or fiction

The following discussion was presented on Daryl's Fawcett's forum and Bob, who started the thread, was hoping some of the members here might be able to help with some information. I will post the discussion in two parts.

Part One:

Bob:
I could use some help on this one, and so could Danny.

Some of the accusations being leveled against Danny today don't jive with something that I heard said about him in New Orleans in 1984, and that fact has seemed like a discordant note amidst all if this. (I won't say what was said at this point.) What is the explanation for it?

That discordant note has made me ponder the events of 1984 a bit more than I would otherwise have, concentrating on the date of Danny's impression to build a TV station. He has said on numerous occasions that this occurred on the night of November 14/15, 1984, and that he wrestled with God over the matter.

Now we essentially have two choices:

1. He and Melody came to my home church to do a concert between November 14/15 and Thanksgiving that year, a time requirement mandated by reasons mentioned below, and we were among the very first to hear about the idea; or

2. If the allegations about conjuring up miracles of donated TV equipment and such be true, and if the need of such miracles was first suggested by Hal, then perhaps Danny was talking about building a TV station prior to Nov. 14/15, and after needing to come up with miracles he fixed on Nov. 14/15 as being the date for the miracle of the impression.

As you can imagine, I would prefer that the first possibility be correct, but I am in a quandry over this one and need some assistance, which I will describe below.

Email from Bob:

-------- Original Message --------
Subject: Question on Nov. 14/15, 1984 date
Date: Thu, 09 Nov 2006 12:45:33 -0600
To: Danny Shelton

Hi Danny. Here's a question that I would think even those who have recommended that you not answer questions wouldn't mind you answering.

You've stated that the impression to build 3ABN came on the night of Nov. 14/15, and that you wrestled all night about that. My sister just called me, having found some items from 1984. It looks like the evangelistic meetings in New Orleans where Oscar Lane either gave you money or took up an offering on your behalf to launch your TV work actually began on September 9, 1984, and that he preached on the mark of the beast during the fourth week of meetings. The meeting where he got you the money was the night he preached on Babylon and jewelry, or a night very shortly thereafter. His publication that came out soon after the meetings closed called for offerings for three television cameras.

Could you clarify this a little for me? If you were not impressed to build the station until mid-November, why would you have been raising funds a month or so before that?

I trust there is an easy explanation.

Bob

-------- Original Message --------
Subject: RE: Question on Nov. 14/15, 1984 date
Date: Thu, 9 Nov 2006 18:02:03 -0600
From: Danny Shelton

Please send me copies of any information you may have concerning Oscar Lane helping get 3ABN started by raising funds for cameras for 3ABN. Plus, I would like to see the date of the publications and the article in which this is all explained. You should want to see them yourself as I'm sure they will answer any questions about when the "idea" came to start 3ABN.

Danny

Email from Bob:

-------- Original Message --------
Subject: RE: Question on Nov. 14/15, 1984 date
Date: Thu, 09 Nov 2006 18:26:31 -0600
To: Danny Shelton

Hi Danny.

I could send a copy of the publication to you, but I don't think it would be all that helpful, since a number of the details I sent didn't come from it. The biggest help the publication was that my sister found was pinning down the dates of Oscar Lane's meetings.

Given the fact that evangelists usually like to have their meetings wrapped up by Thanksgiving, and that there wouldn't be much time between between Nov. 14/15 and Thanksgiving that year, I was just a little puzzled. My sister was helping me out by trying to find the poem she wrote for Lane so that we could get a date from it, since she dates her poems. She finally came across it and found that publication too which said his meetings started September 9, the mark of the beast was presented in the fourth week, and that the new church in New Orleans was organized in October.

I only got to go to three nights of Lane's meetings. The first two were in his big red tent, and on the third they were all in the new church. The first of the two nights I heard him in the tent he preached on Babylon and jewelry, and the second he shook everyone's hand rather than preach. It was in one of those two meetings in the tent that you and Melody were there, and Oscar Lane gave you at least $1000 toward your TV venture, because in the next meeting I was there he told everyone how you had come to see him in the morning before you left town.

My sister read me the plea Oscar Lane made for funds for the TV cameras in his publication. He was on your board at one time, wasn't he?

At any rate, I think we can probably find quite a few people that will remember your promotion of your TV venture during that concert trip. Just at Lane's meetings there were 400 baptized, with many more attending, and that wasn't your only stop on that trip.

So do you have any thoughts on where the mix up might be?

Bob

Bob:

I recall at least three families from our church and the church in Covington/Mandeville making the drive into New Orleans to Lane's meetings: the G's, the P's, and the Q's. I think Lane referred to us at some point as a little salt amidst all the pepper. As such we should have been quite noticeable to Danny the night he was there.

Young Matthew Q. actually went forward and asked for the mike and gave his own altar call and/or sang a song at one of Lane's meetings. The effect upon the crowd was quite dramatic and helped bring the people forward to make decisions. I wasn't there that night.

My grandparents were visiting from Ohio and they went at least one night too. We weren't sure what Grandpa would think of being in a black meeting, but he enjoyed it from what we could tell.

End of Part 1.

Posted by: sister Nov 13 2006, 08:19 PM

Part 2:

-------- Original Message --------
Subject: RE: Question on Nov. 14/15, 1984 date
Date: Thu, 9 Nov 2006 21:33:25 -0600
From: Danny Shelton

Bob, I have no earthly reasons to give wrong beginning dates of 3ABN. If the idea would have come in Oct. of that Year I/we, Linda and me would have always said that it came in Oct. But it didn't.

We were married approx. 10 days after the idea to build a tv station came to me. I think this is even one thing she would agree with me on.

Please show me otherwise.

Email from Bob:

----- Original Message -----
To: Danny Shelton
Sent: 11/9/2006 6:43:18 PM
Subject: RE: Question on Nov. 14/15, 1984 date

P.S. My apologies, Danny, I didn't word my original question in the best way possible.

When I asked, "... why would you have been raising funds a month or so before that?" I should have said instead, "... why would you have been promoting the idea a month or so before that?" While I remember Oscar Lane giving you money in the meeting toward your venture, I do not remember you asking for it.

Hal Steenson several months ago told me that he married you and Linda 23 years ago. That being so, is it at all possible that you got the impression in 1983 instead of 1984? Or did Hal just get his dates wrong?

Bob

-------- Original Message --------
Subject: RE: Question on Nov. 14/15, 1984 date
Date: Thu, 9 Nov 2006 21:24:13 -0600
From: Danny Shelton

We were married on Nov. 25, 1984.

If you check your notes you will find nothing about 3ABN before Nov. 14, 15 1984.

Bob:

The problem is that my mental notes most certainly have Danny promoting a TV venture at Oscar Lane's meetings and probably at my home church too.
And Lane's/Last Days Revival's publication, Word of Truth, vol. 1, no. 1, 4th quarter 1984, dates his crusade in new Orleans from Sept. 9 through October.

----- Original Message -----
To: Danny Shelton
Sent: 11/9/2006 9:58:24 PM
Subject: RE: Question on Nov. 14/15, 1984 date

Thanks so much for your replies, Danny.

What then do you think happened? Why would Oscar Lane have gotten that much money for you in October for a TV venture if you weren't working on any sort of TV venture whatsoever until the last half of November?

Wasn't Lane on your board at some point, or involved in some way?

I'll be honest with you about something: It was what Oscar Lane said that you told him in the morning before you left town that has really stuck in my mind all these years. What he said you said just doesn't jive with some of the things your critics have said about you, and I've told a number of them that.

Bob

Bob:

I wish Danny would comment just a little on the question of Oscar Lane being on the board. We all wondered why, once 3ABN got rolling, Oscar Lane was never mentioned. I think we enquired more than once, and the reply I remember was that they didn't know where he was, that he had just disappeared.

-------- Original Message --------
Subject: RE: Question on Nov. 14/15, 1984 date
Date: Thu, 9 Nov 2006 22:23:10 -0600
From: Danny Shelton

Bob, honestly, this is very taxing for me to continue to talk about something that didn't happen in Oct. Please do your homework and it will all make sense to you. You cannot put a puzzle together unless you have all the parts. What you need to show me is proof that something happened in Oct. instead of Nov. in a statement from some one written back then. Maybe Oscar's newsletter or something. But I can't see me wasting anymore time on something that never happened.

Tell you what you show me some solid proof that 3ABN started in Oct. and I'll talk some more about it.

Thanks,

Danny

Email from Bob:

-------- Original Message --------
Subject: RE: Question on Nov. 14/15, 1984 date
Date: Fri, 10 Nov 2006 07:14:28 -0600
To: Danny Shelton

Hi Danny.

Well, what do you remember about your visit to his tent that night? Do you remember him giving you any money whatsoever? Do you think you were at his tent in late November instead?

Was he on your board at some point?

What is the earliest written or recorded account that you have of the 3ABN story?

I'll see if I can collect some signed statements from folks who were at some of the places you stopped at on that trip.

God bless.

Bob

Bob's plea for assistance:

So here is the help that Danny and I need: We need statements coming from people with real names who were at Oscar Lane's meetings when Danny was there, or who were at other churches where Danny stopped on that concert trip.

These statements need to affirm or deny:

1. Lane's claimed dates for his meetings, or dates for any other stops Danny made on that trip. Danny's promotion of a TV venture on that trip.

2. The offering of at least $1000 given to Danny for his TV venture by Oscar Lane.

3.That Lane was to have some sort of major involvement with 3ABN.

4. And I continue to be interested, after all these years, in knowing why Lane disappeared and was never associated with 3ABN after it got rolling.

Given the fact that we are talking about an event tied to an African-American evangelistic campaign, someone may want to copy this over to BSDA.

If you know anyone who was in the greater New Orleans area in 1984, or who had a Danny and Melody concert that year, feel free to ask them about it, and get them to contact me.

Please make any comments in this thread. Daryl Fawcett is a member here and I am sure that he will pass on any information to Bob. Can anyone help? Does anyone have contact with Oscar Lane? Thanks... Sister

---

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Nov 13 2006, 10:18 PM

A search of Google only brings up this information as far as I can find. I copied the following paragraph from "The Bible Sabbath Association" web site (link below). It appears that his Last Days Revival Ministries is based in Atlanta, Georgia so one of you folks near there can break out your phone books and get the contact info if still around. If he is still there he should, as the source, have records of his crusades on file.

OSCAR LANE, JR -- "Proclaiming The Sabbath More Fully" (1 Tape)
Sabbath Conference keynote speaker -- Founder and lead evangelist of Last Days Revival Ministries based in Atlanta, Georgia. Dr. Lane has been preaching for 41 years and is considered by many as one of the most powerful and dynamic speakers among SDA evangelists. Since accepting the Sabbath truth he has been preaching as a Seventh-day Adventist evangelist for 18 years. The Lord has used him through his international evangelistic crusades to raise 15 churches and to lead over 50,000 souls to the truths of the Three Angels message. He is author of 13 books and over 100 audio and video sermons. The Sabbath Conference was blessed to have Dr. Lane as one who gave "power and force" to the his proclamation of "The Sabbath More Fully."

http://www.biblesabbath.org/sabbathmorefully.html

Posted by: husbandoftheyear Nov 13 2006, 11:34 PM

If anyone watched the 3ABN Anniversary special - Dan made a couple of statements VERY slowly about it being a misunderstanding that Hal and Mollie donated the first equipment to 3ABN. He thanked them for their WILLINGNESS to give, but it was in fact, Joe Crews from Amazing Facts who donated the said equipment.

Also -
If I remember correctly, and please correct me if I am wrong, but I believe that Dan and Linda were married quickly (10 days after the idead came to him to build the station) to escape the scandal of their adultery and to make their newfound ministry more appealing and wholesome.

I'm not bashing - just trying to remember that far back. Any help?

Posted by: Lee Nov 14 2006, 08:56 AM

Wow! This is a new bit of juicy gossip! HOTY-why would you want to work at such a place? I'd be looking for another job elsewhere!!

Posted by: Clay Nov 14 2006, 09:04 AM

Dan and Linda adultery? How so?

Posted by: watchbird Nov 14 2006, 10:23 AM

> QUOTE(husbandoftheyear @ Nov 14 2006, 12:34 AM)
>
> If anyone watched the 3ABN Anniversary special - Dan made a couple of statements VERY slowly about it being a misunderstanding that Hal and Mollie donated the first equipment to 3ABN. He thanked them for their WILLINGNESS to give, but it was in fact, Joe Crews from Amazing Facts who donated the said equipment.
> Also -
> If I remember correctly, and please correct me if I am wrong, but I believe that Dan and Linda were married quickly (10 days after the idead came to him to build the station) to escape the scandal of their adultery and to make their newfound ministry more appealing and wholesome.
>
> I'm not bashing - just trying to remember that far back. Any help?

On your first point.... I did notice that in their most recent book, Dan had backed away from the original "miracle story" as it has generally been told, and spoken of it in terms of just the offer of it as being a "sign from the Lord". That is, he still tells of Hal's offer, and of his confirming that Hal really was planning to give it to him, but then he ends up that section by saying, "But, interestingly, by the time the studio was built, God provided newer and better television equipment from another source, and Pastor Hal's equipment wasn't needed. God merely used this gift as the sign Danny needed to move forward."

As to the second point.... this is a pretty serious allegation.... so I hope you are going to give us some indication as to how you know this and how sure you are it is correct information. But if true, it does help to explain some other things that have at times bewildered some of us.

Posted by: Clay Nov 14 2006, 11:43 AM

> QUOTE(husbandoftheyear @ Nov 13 2006, 11:34 PM)
>
> If I remember correctly, and please correct me if I am wrong, but I believe that Dan and Linda were married quickly (10 days after the idead came to him to build the station) to escape the scandal of their adultery and to make their newfound ministry more appealing and wholesome.
>
> I'm not bashing - just trying to remember that far back. Any help?

If Danny's wife was deceased and Linda was divorced then that would make it fornication would it not? Unless you are suggesting that Linda didn't have grounds biblically for a divorce....

Posted by: fallible humanbeing Nov 14 2006, 12:35 PM

> QUOTE(Clay @ Nov 14 2006, 01:43 PM)
>
> If Danny's wife was deceased and Linda was divorced then that would make it fornication would it not? Unless you are suggesting that Linda didn't have grounds biblically for a divorce....

I would like to ask, additionally, what were the circumstances of Danny and Linda's meeting? What brought them together, how did they meet? I have wondered this for some time. I have heard stories or rather bits and pieces, but never the whole story of their meeting.

- fhb

Posted by: husbandoftheyear Nov 15 2006, 12:07 AM

> QUOTE(Clay @ Nov 14 2006, 12:43 PM)
>
> If Danny's wife was deceased and Linda was divorced then that would make it fornication would it not? Unless you are suggesting that Linda didn't have grounds biblically for a divorce....

Apparently I caused blood pressures to raise when I brought up an adulterous relationship between Dan and Linda. At Watchbird's "request" I am going to talk to some of the people who were around before 3ABN to verify everything. If you read my statement carefully, it was meant to be addressed as more of a question than a statement. However, let me rephrase - I had been told by people who knew Dan and Linda long before they got together and those people knew that they had an affair. I belive that it was Linda who was married at the time that she and Dan began a relationship.

Many of you may have heard the story about how they met as Dan has mentioned it on air.
Linda needed a car and somehow Dan met her through a family member or friend when they took pity on her having just come out of a bad relationship. Come to think of it, I believe it was Tommy Shelton. (Please don't ask about the car business, I will have to find out the details. It's been too long ago.) Like most of Dan's stories, they have a measure of truth and a measure of falsehood and as I remember, Linda did need a car and met Dan that way, but it was before her divorce.

I should not have thrown out that information without more specifics. I was hoping that someone else would fill in the details.

To cool everyone off, I will do some digging and find more details.

> QUOTE(watchbird @ Nov 14 2006, 11:23 AM)
>
> As to the second point.... this is a pretty serious allegation.... so I hope you are going to give us some indication as to how you know this and how sure you are it is correct information. But if true, it does help to explain some other things that have at times bewildered some of us.

I believe, Watchbird, that there have been many serious allegations on this board.

This, however, was not meant as an allegation, but as a request for more information as the details have gotten somewhat blurred over the past 20 years.

By the way - what other things does it explain?

Posted by: Fran Nov 15 2006, 02:29 AM

> QUOTE(husbandoftheyear @ Nov 15 2006, 12:07 AM) ☐
>
> By the way - what other things does it explain?

That Danny was not called by God to start 3ABN. No matter if it was October or November of 1984, or any other date.

God would have used a non-adulter, a non-fornicator, a non-molestor, or a non-rapist. That boat just don't float. Excuse me while I get sick!

This morning I got up a member of the World Seventh-day Adventist, but this mess has me ashamed of my world church and ASI. I think I will have to re-think just what I am again! I have to re-think what I stand for.

I do not believe I have any more faith in our church leadership, and I don't trust ASI or 3ABN. How can I listen to preachers in my church any longer? ☒ notworkir

Today began as the worst day of my life. It has ended that way too. May God help me!

Posted by: Johann Nov 15 2006, 03:33 AM

> QUOTE(Fran @ Nov 15 2006, 10:29 AM) ☐
>
> Today began as the worst day of my life. It has ended that way too. May God help me!

Dear Fran,

I understand how you feel. Remember that we are in this together, and the Lord is right by your side.

Elijah felt that he was alone in doing what was right when God told him there were many others who had never bowed their knees to Baal. This process of cleansing the church reveals victims and villains, and all may seem bleak for the moment, but God is still there. At the moment there are indications the work you have initiated could be one of the strongest tools in finding justice.

I am rediscovering more and more comfort in the Psalms of David. Let such words of Scripture be your source of comfort in days like these.

Johann

Posted by: Brenda Nov 15 2006, 03:54 AM

> QUOTE(Johann @ Nov 15 2006, 08:33 PM) ☐
>
> Dear Fran,
>
> I understand how you feel. Remember that we are in this together, and the Lord is right by your side.
>
> Elijah felt that he was alone in doing what was right when God told him there were many others who had never bowed their knees to Baal. This process of cleansing the church reveals victims and villains, and all may seem bleak for the moment, but God is still there. At the moment there are indications the work you have initiated could be one of the strongest tools in finding justice.
>
> I am rediscovering more and more comfort in the Psalms of David. Let such words of Scripture be your source of comfort in days like these.
>
> Johann

The leaders are no less sinners than the people they lead. We expect more from them but we often get disappointed. (This is a generic statement). I can cope most of the time, but failures of leaders do give my children more cause to be cynical of the SDA church.

Posted by: sister Nov 15 2006, 05:07 AM

☒ plea While what is being discussed can be of interest to a number of people, it was not the intent of this thread. I ask again: can anyone help Brother Bob? Is there anyone here that was at the evangelistic meetings held by Oscar Lane in 1984 who recalls the incident he refers to here? Brother Bob has contacted Oscar Lane, but he does not personally recall the situation that took place over 20 years ago, he does not deny it, he just does not recall it specifically. ☒ sig

---

Posted by: Clay Nov 15 2006, 07:06 AM

> QUOTE(husbandoftheyear @ Nov 15 2006, 12:07 AM) ☐
>
> Apparently I caused blood pressures to raise when I brought up an adulterous relationship between Dan and Linda. At Watchbird's "request" I am going to talk to some of the people who were around before 3ABN to verify everything. If you read my statement carefully, it was meant to be addressed as more of a question than a statement. However, let me rephrase - I had been told by people who knew Dan and Linda long before they got together and those people knew that they had an affair. I > belive that it was Linda who was married at the time that she and Dan began a relationship.

>
> Many of you may have heard the story about how they met as Dan has mentioned it on air.
> Linda needed a car and somehow Dan met her through a family member or friend when they took pity on her having just come out of a bad relationship. Come to think of it, I believe it was Tommy Shelton. (Please don't ask about the car business, I will have to find out the details. It's been too long ago.) Like most of Dan's stories, they have a measure of truth and a measure of falsehood and as I remember, Linda did need a car and met Dan that way, but it was before her divorce.
>
> I should not have thrown out that information without more specifics. I was hoping that someone else would fill in the details.
>
> To cool everyone off, I will do some digging and find more details.
> I believe, Watchbird, that there have been many serious allegations on this board.
> This, however, was not meant as an allegation, but as a request for more information as the details have gotten somewhat blurred over the past 20 years.
>
> By the way - what other things does it explain?

Thanks HOTY for the clarification..... I await the results of your research into how Danny and Linda met, and when.... it does shed light on a number of things....

Posted by: husbandoftheyear Nov 15 2006, 07:50 AM

> QUOTE(Fran @ Nov 15 2006, 03:29 AM)
>
> That Danny was not called by God to start 3ABN. No matter if it was October or November of 1984, or any other date.
>
> God would have used a non-adulter, a non-fornicator, a non-molestor, or a non-rapist. That boat just don't float. Excuse me while I get sick!
>
> This morning I got up a member of the World Seventh-day Adventist, but this mess has me ashamed of my world church and ASI. I think I will have to re-think just what I am again! I have to re-think what I stand for.
>
> I do not believe I have any more faith in our church leadership, and I don't trust ASI or 3ABN. How can I listen to preachers in my church any longer? notworkir
>
> Today began as the worst day of my life. It has ended that way too. May God help me!

Fran - first - you know that God uses us all, murderers, adulterers, etc. Does it make us sick - yes, but that is our human side thinking.

You CANNOT allow for the mess with 3ABN to interfere in your walk with Christ! Please, please consider the fact that you are allowing this to affect your life and quite possibly your health. Take a few moments to step back and evaluate just how threaded Dan Shelton is in your life...and realize that none of us should give any one person that power over us.

I'm worried and praying for you, Fran.

Posted by: watchbird Nov 15 2006, 11:13 AM

> QUOTE(PeacefullyBewildered @ Nov 13 2006, 11:18 PM) ☐
>
> A search of Google only brings up this information as far as I can find. I copied the following paragraph from "The Bible Sabbath Association" web site (link below). It appears that his Last Days Revival Ministries is based in Atlanta, Georgia so one of you folks near there can break out your phone books and get the contact info if still around. If he is still there he should, as the source, have records of his crusades on file.
> OSCAR LANE, JR -- "Proclaiming The Sabbath More Fully" (1 Tape)
> Sabbath Conference keynote speaker -- Founder and lead evangelist of Last Days Revival Ministries based in Atlanta, Georgia. Dr. Lane has been preaching for 41 years and is considered by many as one of the most powerful and dynamic speakers among SDA evangelists. Since accepting the Sabbath truth he has been preaching as a Seventh-day Adventist evangelist for 18 years. The Lord has used him through his international evangelistic crusades to raise 15 churches and to lead over 50,000 souls to the truths of the Three Angels message. He is author of 13 books and over 100 audio and video sermons. The Sabbath Conference was blessed to have Dr. Lane as one who gave "power and force" to the his proclamation of "The Sabbath More Fully."
>
> http://www.biblesabbath.org/sabbathmorefully.html

Thanks PB.... and it is interesting that this is the ONLY google hit that comes up for "Last Days Revival Ministries." One might be tempted to ask where the writer of this advertising note got his information.

At any rate, it is a simple thing to compare the time line between this and the date about which Bob is questioning. Some questions arise.... like....

What kind of church was he associated with at the time mentioned by Bob?

Was he ever recognized as a Seventh-day Adventist minister by the Adventist church?

Does his "Last Days Revival Ministries" still exist?

Since he was/is? a black "evangelist", perhaps we are in the best place in the world to ask these questions.... and any other that might be appropriate.

For starters, it would be a good idea to read what this group has already had to say about this person.... assuming, of course, that there are not two men by the same name..... Check out the thread entitled "Who Is This Oscar Lane Character?" for starters, at http://www.blacksda.com/forums/index.php?s=&showtopic=9395&view=findpost&p=132613 , though this is a spin off from another thread. You can find more on Oscar Lane by using the search engine.

Posted by: fallible humanbeing Nov 15 2006, 01:02 PM

> QUOTE(watchbird @ Nov 15 2006, 01:13 PM) ☐

> Thanks PB.... and it is interesting that this is the ONLY google hit that comes up for "Last Danys Revival Ministries." One might be tempted to ask where the writer of this advertising note got his information.

Yesterday I came a cross a Google hit that awesumtenor also provided in the thread you linked to. Here is the http://www.blacksda.com/forums/index.php?s=&showtopic=9395&view=findpost&p=132642.

And the external link to the story, http://www.aliciapatterson.org/APF001976/Masterson/Masterson05/Masterson05.html (the article is circa 1976).

- fhb

Posted by: Lee Nov 15 2006, 01:43 PM

I am wondering something. If HOTY is correct in what he said about Linda and Danny committing "adultery" as he called it before they were married and while Linda was yet married--if Linda would do this with Danny, then why not with the doctor or anyone else?

Some may say that she was separated from her husband and in the process of getting a divorce but did she have Biblical grounds then to marry Danny?

Posted by: Johann Nov 15 2006, 04:27 PM

> QUOTE(Lee @ Nov 15 2006, 09:43 PM)
>
> Some may say that she was separated from her husband and in the process of getting a divorce but did she have Biblical grounds then to marry Danny?

Some time ago I met Linda's first husband's sister. She told me that her brother attended church with Linda for a short while. When their mother discovered this she demanded her son throw Linda out and he moved in with another woman. The mother would not have her son entangled with such a herecy as what her neighbors, the Shelton's, were promotiing. She did not evaluate Adventist by their doctrines, but by their behavior. Nobody should, should they?

Posted by: Nuggie Nov 15 2006, 04:29 PM

There's no end to the twists and turns in this saga...

Posted by: princessdi Nov 15 2006, 04:44 PM

OK?!!! So now if Danny and Linda was kickin' it(slang for "having an affair") before they got married, and she or he ws still maurried, it doesnt' excuse how he handled things, but it sure makes sense. For me, it now places Linda, also in the "What goes around, comes around" category...........

> QUOTE(Nuggie @ Nov 15 2006, 02:29 PM)
>
> There's no end to the twists and turns in this saga... sn

Posted by: Nuggie Nov 15 2006, 04:46 PM

> QUOTE(princessdi @ Nov 15 2006, 04:44 PM)
>
> OK?!!! So now if Danny and Linda was kickin' it(slang for "having an affair") before they got married, and she or he ws still maurried, it doesnt' excuse how he handled things, but it sure makes sense. For me, it now places Linda, also in the "What goes around, comes around" category...........

Yep, yep, yep...my pastor used to say if you sow the wind, you'll reap the whirlwind...

Posted by: Johann Nov 15 2006, 06:14 PM

> QUOTE(Nuggie @ Nov 16 2006, 12:29 AM)
>
> There's no end to the twists and turns in this saga... sn

Danny Shelton has maintained through this ordeal that we cannot judge him for what he did many years ago. Is he right?

Posted by: husbandoftheyear Nov 15 2006, 06:43 PM

> QUOTE(Johann @ Nov 15 2006, 07:14 PM)
>
> Danny Shelton has maintained through this ordeal that we cannot judge him for what he did many years ago. Is he right?

Has he said this publicly? I'm curious...

Posted by: Johann Nov 15 2006, 07:13 PM

> QUOTE(husbandoftheyear @ Nov 16 2006, 02:43 AM)
>
> Has he said this publicly? I'm curious...

He has written this to me and said it to others. How many makes it public?

Posted by: husbandoftheyear Nov 15 2006, 07:39 PM

> QUOTE(Johann @ Nov 15 2006, 08:13 PM)
>
> He has written this to me and said it to others. How many makes it public?

I guess I should have asked if you heard this on the air. I have never heard this - but it sounds like something he would say - and then deny of course.

Posted by: princessdi Nov 15 2006, 11:38 PM

> QUOTE(husbandoftheyear @ Nov 15 2006, 05:39 PM)
>
> I guess I should have asked if you heard this on the air. I have never heard this - but it sounds like something he would say - and then deny of course.

People who offend NEVER want you to remember what they did, and the past is an hour ago according to them. They convince themselves of "how" things happened, and they stick to it. When they get finished there is something wrong with you for ever bringing it up. According to them, they did do it as you say, or they got away that long time ago, why are you still talking about it. Danny will never admit to anything that happened outside of an hour ago, and you didn't see him do.

Posted by: Ralph Nov 16 2006, 12:50 AM

> QUOTE(Lee @ Nov 15 2006, 01:43 PM)
>
> if Linda would do this with Danny, then why not with the doctor or anyone else?

Compare the track record of Danny Shelton and that of Dr. Arild Abrahamsen. If a woman gets into trouble it is usually because of pressure put on by the man and yet the blame is often unfairly put on the woman.

Posted by: Ralph Nov 16 2006, 04:17 AM

> QUOTE(Johann @ Nov 15 2006, 06:14 PM) ☐
>
> Danny Shelton has maintained through this ordeal that we cannot judge him for what he did many years ago. Is he right?

Yes, he is right. Not very many of us have a past so squeaky clean that we do not wish to draw a curtain over some past incident(s). And people who have lived a "perfect" life can be hard to live around.

I have no problem of leaving the past in the past providing it stays there. Some people learn from past mistakes; others don't. If allegations that have been made by more than one person are correct, we are looking at some pretty serious stuff that isn't that far in the past. Let's not lose our focus.

Posted by: Observer Nov 16 2006, 06:22 AM

> QUOTE(Johann @ Nov 15 2006, 05:14 PM) ☐
>
> Danny Shelton has maintained through this ordeal that we cannot judge him for what he did many years ago. Is he right?

I am dumbfounded at the turn this has taken. The marital issues are the least of my concern. There are much more important issues at stake here.

Danny and Linda married 20 years ago, or so. How in the world can either Danny or Linda respond to an alligation that they were sexually involved prior to their marriage? Thay can't. Such alligations are not fair to either of them. Twenty years of water, so to speak has passed under the bridge (Yes, I am mixing metaphores.). What is the value to us today of this focus?

Posted by: västergötland Nov 16 2006, 07:42 AM

> QUOTE(Johann @ Nov 15 2006, 11:27 PM) ☐
>
> Some time ago I met Linda's first husband's sister. She told me that her brother attended church with Linda for a short while. When their mother discovered this she demanded her son throw Linda > out and he moved in with another woman. The mother would not have her son entangled with such a herecy as what her neighbors, the Shelton's, were promotiing. She did not evaluate Adventist by their doctrines, but by their behavior. Nobody should, should they?

Seems to be a classic case of "Do as I say, not as I do". And equally classically what ends up being remembered is the actions rather than the words.

Posted by: Clay Nov 16 2006, 08:33 AM

> QUOTE(Observer @ Nov 16 2006, 06:22 AM)
>
> I am dumbfounded at the turn this has taken. The marital issues are the least of my concern. There are much more important issues at stake here.
>
> Danny and Linda married 20 years ago, or so. How in the world can either Danny or Linda respond to an alligation that they were sexually involved prior to their marriage? Thay can't. Such alligations are not fair to either of them. Twenty years of water, so to speak has passed under the bridge (Yes, I am mixing metaphores.). What is the value to us today of this focus?

yes they could.... its simple... either Linda and Danny had sex before they were married to each other, or they didn't... they may be older, but most people remember when they first had sex with their spouse before the official "I do" or after it...

It is not a matter of fairness, it is a matter of context.... If the allegation is that Danny may have known his current wife before he was divorced from Linda, perhaps this is not the first time he entered into a relationship that was complicated by a marriage (either his or his intended)......

Posted by: Observer Nov 16 2006, 12:31 PM

Re: " . . . perhaps this is not the first time he entered into a relationship that was complicated by a marriage (either his or his intended)......"

Yes, as the word "perhaps" has suggested, this is all speculation. There is no evidene to suggest that sex, even a single event, prior to marriage, will 20 years later make it more likely that those two will have sexual intercourse outside of their marriage.

If Danny and Linda were sexually active prior to thier marriage, even once, it is not revelent to the issues that we face today. It is not fair to either. How can you defend aganist a 20 year-old alleged event? You cannot.

Here is what is revelant today:

Linda:

1) Did she, or did she not with Dr. A?
2) Did she have any inappropriate relationships with others while married to Danny?

Danny:

1) What relationships did Danny have, if any, while married to Linda, with other women?
2) What relationship did Danny have with Brandi while married to Linda, and prior to his marriage to Brandi?

The above questions are even-handed on both sides. They are appropriate to the issues we face today. Questions from 20 years ago are not.

Posted by: nick Nov 16 2006, 01:45 PM

... conversation between Nick and Nick.

Nick: Why does this entire 3abn thing seem like justifiable gossip among christians who claim that they want to see wongs made right?

Nick: dunno Nick. But the way I see it going.... jus nawt sure Jesus is too happy about it.... i jus

Ps ... oh.... don't mind me guys, I'm just having a lil talk with myself

---

Posted by: watchbird Nov 16 2006, 01:59 PM

> QUOTE(Observer @ Nov 16 2006, 01:31 PM)
>
> Re: " . . . perhaps this is not the first time he entered into a relationship that was complicated by a marriage (either his or his intended)......"
>
> Yes, as the word "perhaps" has suggested, this is all speculation. There is no evidene to suggest that sex, even a single event, prior to marriage, will 20 years later make it more likely that those two will have sexual intercourse outside of their marriage.
>
> If Danny and Linda were sexually active prior to thier marriage, even once, it is not revelent to the issues that we face today. It is not fair to either. How can you defend aganist a 20 year-old alleged event? You cannot.
>
> Here is what is revelant today:
>
> Linda:
>
> 1) Did she, or did she not with Dr. A?
> 2) Did she have any inappropriate relationships with others while married to Danny?
>
> Danny:
>
> 1) What relationships did Danny have, if any, while married to Linda, with other women?
> 2) What relationship did Danny have with Brandi while married to Linda, and prior to his marriage to Brandi?
>
> The above questions are even-handed on both sides. They are appropriate to the issues we face > today. Questions from 20 years ago are not.

When the issues we face today have to do with questions as to what kind of people founded the ministry some 20 years ago... then anything that was done then is relevent today. But frankly, I think your prior post on this was more to the point.... let's take another look at that...

> QUOTE(Observer @ Nov 16 2006, 07:22 AM) ☐
>
> I am dumbfounded at the turn this has taken. The marital issues are the least of my concern. There are much more important issues at stake here .
>
> Danny and Linda married 20 years ago, or so. How in the world can either Danny or Linda respond to an alligation that they were sexually involved prior to their marriage? Thay can't. Such alligations are not fair to either of them. Twenty years of water, so to speak has passed under the bridge (Yes, I am mixing metaphores.). What is the value to us today of this focus?

When I was first introduced to the problems at 3abn, almost the first thing that was told to me by someone who had been at 3abn for long years was.... "This is NOT about Linda and Danny's relationship". This was the refrain that you, yourself, echoed repeatedly on the Club Adventist website throughout the years that it was open to discussion on the woes of 3abn. This was also the refrain spoken often by some of us throughout the years here on BSDA.

And with that refrain have come the other issues.... the other areas of concern. The Televangelist, for example, pulled many of these concerns together, back in May of 2005. It was circulated fairly widely, but not until Sister brought it to BSDA, first in excerpts, and then in its entirety, was it ever published on a website where all could see. But even when it was, the individual areas it covered never drew the attention that they warrented and needed. (Even yet it is not included in the pinned items at the top of the menu, so newcomers only meet it if they dig deep into either the "Unauthorized History threads" or into the back pages of the thread menus.) And always someone has found a way to turn the focus back onto Linda and how Danny had treated her.... or onto Danny and whether he had the legalistic "biblical right" to remarry.

What it has seemed to me from Day One is that Linda was used as a "red herring" to draw attention away from whatever other problems there was that the Shelton empire did not want anyone to see. As time went on, it began looking as though both Linda and Danny's private "affairs" were being used ... by all sides .... notice I said "all" not merely "both".... for the same purpose. The question is still..... WHY?

And the greater question we who trust that God is leading in all of this may need to ask is a more thoughtful (as contrasted with emotional) "Why?".... that is to say..... what purpose might there be from God's viewpoint in allowing these distractions from what many of us see as the real task of doing a complete "house-cleaning" of 3abn so that it no longer casts a dark shadow on the name of the Adventist church... and even on God Himself?

I have, for months, suggested that one answer to that question is that all has not yet been revealed that needs to be revealed. Not all of the conspirators have been identified. Not all of the corruption has been uncovered. If any of us were to be given the power right today to "clean house", do any of us really know who to depose and who to retain.... and who are the supporters in all "high places" that also need to be flushed out and down the drain? I don't think we do. And I am not at all sure that even those in the highest places in our church structure know that either.... though I'm sure there are many who know much more than I do.

I have also stated for months that for most of us, this is now a time of waiting to see what develops from things that are being done "behind the scenes".... not only by our church leaders, but also by civil authorities. But waiting is one of the most difficult things in life to do.... especially for those of us who are "activists" at heart.

I have also stated from the very beginning that the reason for these discussions is that of becoming informed, of spreading information so others could be informed... and all for the purpose of understanding.... not for the purpose of passing judgement on individuals... whether those individuals be victims, perpetrators, informers, or some of all these and more.

And it is in this area that I believe the answer to your question, "What is the value to us today of this focus? " can find an answer that gives legitimacy to this area of Danny and Linda's life being brought before us.

In order to rightly relate to all that is going on.... and to form personal opinions as to what needs to be done in order to clean out the mess at 3abn and see who should go and who should stay and who should be brought in.... we need very much to have some very comprehensive and accurate understandings of the individuals who have been invovled.

We justified looking at events in Danny's past life on the basis of how it affected his present decisions and actions and by comparing the past with the present, asking whether there was a discontinuity between them, or a continuity and even perhaps an escalation of the same traits? By this understanding we can justifiably develop expectations for the future. And when it comes to the continuation of his ownership and operation of 3abn.... those questions are not restricted to his moral behavior--though they do include it.... neither are morals and ethics restricted to sexual issues..... and we are amiss in not spending more time proportionately on other areas of misconduct than what we have. Though we can be somewhat excused for that.... considering that these are areas in which legalities prevent us from even posting all of what is known, much less discussing it in any detail.

We have not often allowed anything negative to be said about Linda.... out of compassion for the hurts she has suffered from Danny.... particularly in the last few years of her marriage and in the years since the divorce..... and the desire to not bring greater distress to her. That protectiveness has been good and right, IMO.... at least in the area where she is clearly innocent.... that of her relationship with Arild Abrahmsen. But that has also meant that we have a very one-sided picture of Linda, and we have very little basis of understanding her person, her role, her inner feeling towards her roles, her relationships..... or the reactions of others towards her .... or objective views of these roles and reactions. Maybe it is time that we enlarged our understanding by looking at some other facets of Linda's life than merely the way she has been treated by Danny for the last few years. And perhaps this little glimpse into the past ... showing the shaky ground on which they established their marriage can serve as a beginning of learning more about who Linda really is.

We would, however, be falling into the same tunnel vision trap and using the same "red herring" technique, if we focus unduly upon this single aspect of her life. There are still all of the other problems of 3abn..... what really was her role in all of those.... was she really only an ineffective bystander with no ability to turn the tide of evil as it grew larger and larger? What about her role in her various positions at 3abn? How did she handle those responsibilities?

And the reasons for asking these questions are not merely for coming to personal understandings or conclusions. There are two reasons why I feel it is vital for these things to be examined.

1) If, as we have reason to believe, there will be a legal examination of the "irregularities" of the money handling aspects of Danny's "regime".... then Linda WILL be a part of what is examined. There is no way that a distraction to marital matters will enter into that examination. A question that I have is.... is there any evidence that Linda is even yet either aware of or making preparations to meet the accusations that she will have to meet at that time?

2) In some of the informational material that I receive, it would seem as though either Linda or those who are advising her, are still seriously entertaining the hopes of her being reinstated at 3abn in her original role as half owner, including salary.... which presumably would entail her resuming some of her previous responsibilities, though that detail has not been mentioned. My question here has to do not only with the seemingly impossible psychological position that would put her and everyone else concerned in... but also the more practical one as to whether she is.... on the basis of how she ran the departments under her in the past..... capable of taking on such a position and job responsibilities?

And finally.... can she maintain both a position of innocent inability to deal with things in the past and project the capability of wisely overseeing such things in the future simultaneously?

I continue to care deeply for Linda. I fear that she is walking into a trap. One that will be much more damaging than anything she has experienced thus far..... and one that will make it even more difficult for the mess at 3abn... and where ever else it extends.... to be cleaned out.

Information and understanding are the only tools and safeguards that I know of. I suggest we keep sharing them.... ranging as far and wide as our sources of information happen to know, rather than continuing to focus so closely upon Linda and Danny alone.

Posted by: Clay Nov 16 2006, 03:30 PM

> QUOTE(Observer @ Nov 16 2006, 12:31 PM)
>
> Re: " . . . perhaps this is not the first time he entered into a relationship that was complicated by a marriage (either his or his intended)......"
>
> Yes, as the word "perhaps" has suggested, this is all speculation. There is no evidene to suggest that sex, even a single event, prior to marriage, will 20 years later make it more likely that those two will have sexual intercourse outside of their marriage.
>
> If Danny and Linda were sexually active prior to thier marriage, even once, it is not revelent to the issues that we face today. It is not fair to either. How can you defend aganist a 20 year-old alleged event? You cannot.
>
> Here is what is revelant today:
>
> Linda:
>
> 1) Did she, or did she not with Dr. A?
> 2) Did she have any inappropriate relationships with others while married to Danny?
>
> Danny:
>
> 1) What relationships did Danny have, if any, while married to Linda, with other women?
> 2) What relationship did Danny have with Brandi while married to Linda, and prior to his marriage to Brandi?
>
> The above questions are even-handed on both sides. They are appropriate to the issues we face today. Questions from 20 years ago are not.

in your opinion.... sometimes... more than often past behavior may be indicative of future behavior..... so for me, I want to know...

> QUOTE(nick @ Nov 16 2006, 01:45 PM)
>
> ... conversation between Nick and Nick.
> Nick: Why does this entire 3abn thing seem like justifiable gossip among christians who claim that they want to see wongs made right?

> Nick: dunno Nick. But the way I see it going.... jus nawt sure Jesus is too happy about it.... i jus
>
> Ps ... oh.... don't mind me guys, I'm just having a lil talk with myself

no one is forcing Nick to read a word in this forum.... as for what it seems like to Nick, Nick has been mistaken before.... if Nick has a problem with the content in this area, Nick can play in other areas of the forum... then again, Nick knows this....

Posted by: Jvat Nov 16 2006, 03:59 PM

Watchird, deep and thoughtprovoking musings indeed!

Posted by: nick Nov 16 2006, 04:01 PM

> QUOTE(Clay @ Nov 16 2006, 09:30 PM)
>
> in your opinion.... sometimes... more than often past behavior may be indicative of future behavior..... so for me, I want to know...
> no one is forcing Nick to read a word in this forum.... as for what it seems like to Nick, Nick has been mistaken before.... if Nick has a problem with the content in this area, Nick can play in other areas of the forum... then again, Nick knows this....

Nick: you know Nick, the thought that Nick is right!!! Kills!!!!

Nick:

Nick: I mean, some folks may be here genuinely, but the majority seem to be here for the saucy news.

Nick: Point taken. It really amazed me how this 'saga' grew so fast here... even getting it's own forum an all that .

Nick: yea... and... have you noticed the amount of peeps who came running to bsda jus' fo' this story.

Nick: mmmmmmm... scary Nick

Posted by: simplysaved Nov 16 2006, 04:39 PM

rofl

> QUOTE(nick @ Nov 16 2006, 05:01 PM)
>
> Nick: you know Nick, the thought that Nick is right!!! Kills!!!!

> Nick:
>
> --
>
> Nick: I mean, some folks may be here genuinely, but the majority seem to be here for the saucy news.
>
> Nick: Point taken. It really amazed me how this 'saga' grew so fast here... even getting it's own forum an all that .
>
> Nick: yea... and... have you noticed the amount of peeps who came running to bsda jus' fo' this story.
>
> Nick: mmmmmmm... scary Nick

> QUOTE(nick @ Nov 16 2006, 02:45 PM)
>
> ... conversation between Nick and Nick.
> Nick: Why does this entire 3abn thing seem like justifiable gossip among christians who claim that they want to see wongs made right?
>
> Nick: dunno Nick. But the way I see it going.... jus nawt sure Jesus is too happy about it.... i jus
>
> Ps ... oh.... don't mind me guys, I'm just having a lil talk with myself

---

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Nov 16 2006, 05:19 PM

> QUOTE(fallible humanbeing @ Nov 15 2006, 12:02 PM)
>
> Yesterday I came a cross a Google hit that awesumtenor also provided in the thread you linked to.
> Here is the http://www.blacksda.com/forums/index.php?s=&showtopic=9395&view=findpost&p=132642.
>
> And the external link to the story, > http://www.aliciapatterson.org/APF001976/Masterson/Masterson05/Masterson05.html (the article is circa 1976).
>
> - fhb

FHB,
When I was Googling Oscar Lane's name, I did come up with several hits on this article. I got as far as the San Francisco portion and then, after a brief and fruitless scan of the rest, had to leave without reading further and finding the part about this fellow. I wish I had read it then! There are some interesting similarities to the financial dealings of another fundraiser who is discussed on this very forum from time to time. It is a good read and I would suggest that others follow your link to the "Los Angeles" entry in this interesting piece of last century history.

I particularly enjoyed the author's description of Petaluma, an agricultural city just south of my own stomping grounds as "a giant cow pasture".

PB

Posted by: Clay Nov 16 2006, 07:31 PM

> QUOTE(nick @ Nov 16 2006, 04:01 PM)
>
> Nick: you know Nick, the thought that Nick is right!!! Kills!!!!
>
> Nick:
>
> ---
>
> Nick: I mean, some folks may be here genuinely, but the majority seem to be here for the saucy news.
>
> Nick: Point taken. It really amazed me how this 'saga' grew so fast here... even getting it's own forum an all that .
>
> Nick: yea... and... have you noticed the amount of peeps who came running to bsda jus' fo' this story.
>
> Nick: mmmmmmm... scary Nick

for all of Nick's protesting, it is noticed that Nick is still here reading to Nick's heart's content... says something about Nick.....

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Nov 16 2006, 08:39 PM

> QUOTE(Fran @ Nov 15 2006, 01:29 AM)
>
> That Danny was not called by God to start 3ABN. No matter if it was October or November of 1984, or any other date.
>
> God would have used a non-adulter, a non-fornicator, a non-molestor, or a non-rapist. That boat just don't float. Excuse me while I get sick!
>
> This morning I got up a member of the World Seventh-day Adventist, but this mess has me ashamed of my world church and ASI. I think I will have to re-think just what I am again! I have to re-think what I stand for.
>
> I do not believe I have any more faith in our church leadership, and I don't trust ASI or 3ABN. How can I listen to preachers in my church any longer? notworkir
>
> Today began as the worst day of my life. It has ended that way too. May God help me!

Fran,
While we are here on this old world there is only one Person that we can count on and safely put our faith in 100% of the time - our God. Human beings always have the potential to fail, to do wrong things. It is never safe for us to look at them as anything more than fellow pilgrims on this journey.

The SDA church we are a part of, the Body of Christ, is made up of the same fallible human beings. Sometimes this body has viruses, bacterial infections and even cancers. When we allow it, the illnesses can be healed by the Great Physician but sometimes a malignancy needs to be removed. While the Holy Spirit provides fruits and gifts to the Body of Christ so that by using them the body's members are strengthened, our ultimate focus has to be on the LORD.

"Finally, be strong in the Lord, and in His mighty power!" Eph. 6:10

Posted by: nick Nov 17 2006, 01:33 AM

> QUOTE(Clay @ Nov 17 2006, 01:31 AM)
>
> for all of Nick's protesting, it is noticed that Nick is still here reading to Nick's heart's content... > says something about Nick.....

Nick: they're just not getting it are they Nick

Nick:

Nick: they're looking past the issue raised (wonder if they have even thought about it) and go straight into justifying their actions, by trying to take you on a guilt trip . You rolling Nick?

Nick: Not on that trip I am!! Truth is truth and I will keep speaking about it. MOST FOLK HERE COME FOR THE ILL TALK, HAVING ITCHING EARS. They don't come so much with genuine christian concern.

Nick: As if saying 'If the laundry is dirty, we want to go through it', 'we'll just say that we long to see it clean and that'll justify our 'dirty laundry searching''. You do realise that there is a subconcious admittance of 'reading to one's hearts content'?

Nick: Well put Nick, the motive is scattered throughout the posts here .... what can I say, great minds do think alike

Nick: Well you know me better than anyone Nick

Nick and Nick : Let's hope they get it this time, we're not against this forum or any other - just calling for folk to clean up thier act, like they profess to be doing in Danny's case.

Posted by: Clay Nov 17 2006, 06:22 AM

Nick, there are meds for what you have...... you may need to avail yourself.....

Posted by: awesumtenor Nov 17 2006, 08:14 AM

> QUOTE(nick @ Nov 16 2006, 02:45 PM)
>
> ... conversation between Nick and Nick.
> Nick: Why does this entire 3abn thing seem like justifiable gossip among christians who claim that they want to see wongs made right?
>
> Nick: dunno Nick. But the way I see it going.... jus nawt sure Jesus is too happy about it.... i jus
>
> Ps ... oh.... don't mind me guys, I'm just having a lil talk with myself

I bet that holier-than-thou gets real heavy to carry sometimes...

In His service,
Mr. J

Posted by: simplysaved Nov 17 2006, 08:33 AM

Amen!!!! Well said...at the end of the day, that is how it is for ALL of us...

> QUOTE(PeacefullyBewildered @ Nov 16 2006, 09:39 PM)
>
> Fran,
> While we are here on this old world there is only one Person that we can count on and safely put our faith in 100% of the time - our God. Human beings always have the potential to fail, to do wrong things. It is never safe for us to look at them as anything more than fellow pilgrims on this journey.
>
> The SDA church we are a part of, the Body of Christ, is made up of the same fallible human beings. Sometimes this body has viruses, bacterial infections and even cancers. When we allow it, the illnesses can be healed by the Great Physician but sometimes a malignancy needs to be removed. While the Holy Spirit provides fruits and gifts to the Body of Christ so that by using them the body's members are strengthened, our ultimate focus has to be on the LORD.
>
> "Finally, be strong in the Lord, and in His mighty power!" Eph. 6:10

Posted by: watchbird Nov 17 2006, 08:42 AM

> QUOTE(nick @ Nov 16 2006, 02:45 PM)
>
> ... conversation between Nick and Nick.
> Nick: Why does this entire 3abn thing seem like justifiable gossip among christians who claim that > they want to see wongs made right?

>
> Nick: dunno Nick. But the way I see it going.... jus nawt sure Jesus is too happy about it.... i jus
>
> Ps ... oh.... don't mind me guys, I'm just having a lil talk with myself

I've heard that it is nothing to worry about if one talks to himself.... but if one finds himself ANSWERING himself .... then it is time to start worrying.....

Seriously... it might be a great deal more profitable if you were to talk with Jesus about it .... following his instruction to "enter into your closet" to do so rather than standing on the street corner where you can be heard by all.

As for "the entire 3abn thing".... the time to speak up on that is AFTER you have read everything that has been written here.... take your time.... we can wait for you.....

Posted by: awesumtenor Nov 17 2006, 09:13 AM

> QUOTE(nick @ Nov 17 2006, 02:33 AM)
>
> Nick: they're just not getting it are they Nick
>
> Nick:
>
> Nick: they're looking past the issue raised (wonder if they have even thought about it) and go straight into justifying their actions, by trying to take you on a guilt trip . You rolling Nick?
>
> Nick: Not on that trip I am!! Truth is truth and I will keep speaking about it. MOST FOLK HERE COME FOR THE ILL TALK, HAVING ITCHING EARS. They don't come so much with genuine christian concern.
>
> Nick: As if saying 'If the laundry is dirty, we want to go through it', 'we'll just say that we long to see it clean and that'll justify our 'dirty laundry searching''. You do realise that there is a subconcious admittance of 'reading to one's hearts content'?
>
> Nick: Well put Nick, the motive is scattered throughout the posts here .... what can I say, great minds do think alike
>
> Nick: Well you know me better than anyone Nick
>
> Nick and Nick : Let's hope they get it this time, we're not against this forum or any other - just calling for folk to clean up thier act, like they profess to be doing in Danny's case.

You omitted this part:

"God, I thank thee, that I am not as other men are, extortioners, unjust, adulterers, or even as these unfortunate sinners posting in the 3ABN thread..."

In His service,
Mr. J

Posted by: nick Nov 17 2006, 10:19 AM

> QUOTE(awesumtenor @ Nov 17 2006, 03:13 PM) ☐
>
> You omitted this part:
>
> "God, I thank thee, that I am not as other men are, extortioners, unjust, adulterers, or even as these unfortunate sinners posting in the 3ABN thread..."
>
> In His service,
> Mr. J

And you seemed to have missed this part:

"we're not against this forum or any other - just calling for folk to clean up thier act, like they profess to be doing in Danny's case"

... and this part:

"some folks may be here genuinely, but the majority seem to be here for the saucy news."

Here's my bone of contention Bro. Kev;

I have read and do understand the concerns and injustices viewed about this saga. But some of us are starting to go too far... way too far. I have felt very uncomfortable with some of the posts on this issue. They have gone from simple concern and truth seeking to condemnation, wishing ill etc.

I can pull up a few posts and show you but nah. Don't want to put folks in the spot light.

Two wrongs don't make a right. Danny's guilt and secret issues should not be taken and become gossip for us.

If that makes me 'holier-than-thou, then...

Posted by: mystery- man Nov 17 2006, 12:26 PM

Nick, I am sure that you dont understand the countless amount of human suffering and the many souls that will be lost because things kept in secret by men in position of authority never are exposed for what they are. That is why John the Baptist exposed Herod. That is why the Prophet was sent to David in open forum to expose the sin to everyone. Danny has chosen to stay in the position of authority despite the apparent misgivings. Look at what I have posted previously and you will see where I stand. Before the internet Pastors were allowed to continue in secret their lives of sin even tho countless individuals were eventually hurt. I PERSONALLY KNOW OF MANY CASES WHERE THE EFFECT OF PERSONAL SINS HAVE LEFT A LASTING DAMAGING LEGACY ON UNTOLL NUMBERS OF MY FRIENDS. BUT HOPEFULLY BY THE GRACE OF GOD THESE INDIVIDUALS WILL GET OVER THEIR PAIN. I dont know the actual reason for your supposed indignation because of what you have read I can only guess. But by in large the things posted have been appropriate. But as in anything you can always find people who in almost anything do something wrong. BUT YOU SEEM TO FORGET THAT IF YOU WERE ACCUSED OF THE SAME THINGS DANNY WAS ACCUSED OF YOUR CHURCH WOULD INVESTIGATE THE ALLEGATIONS TO THE FULLEST. BY THE WAY AND IF YOU REFUSED TO LEAVE YOU WOULD BE FORCEFULLY REMOVED AND THESE SAME INDIVIDUALS WOULD DO WHAT EVER THEY NEEDED TO REMOVE YOU EVEN TO THE EXTREME OF POLICE ARREST IN PUBLIC.

Posted by: princessdi Nov 17 2006, 01:08 PM

I am going to assume, MysteryMann that you do not realie that the use of all caps is a signe of shouting out here in cyberspace. We can disagree, but I ask that you use you "inside voice" please.

> QUOTE(mystery- man @ Nov 17 2006, 10:26 AM)
>
> Nick, I am sure that you dont understand the countless amount of human suffering and the many souls that will be lost because things kept in secret by men in position of authority never are exposed for what they are. That is why John the Baptist exposed Herod. That is why the Prophet was sent to David in open forum to expose the sin to everyone. Danny has chosen to stay in the position of authority despite the apparent misgivings. Look at what I have posted previously and you will see where I stand. Before the internet Pastors were allowed to continue in secret their lives of sin even tho countless individuals were eventually hurt. I PERSONALLY KNOW OF MANY CASES WHERE THE EFFECT OF PERSONAL SINS HAVE LEFT A LASTING DAMAGING LEGACY ON UNTOLL NUMBERS OF MY FRIENDS. BUT HOPEFULLY BY THE GRACE OF GOD THESE INDIVIDUALS WILL GET OVER THEIR PAIN. I dont know the actual reason for your supposed indignation because of what you have read I can only guess. But by in large the things posted have been appropriate. But as in anything you can always find people who in almost anything do something wrong. BUT YOU SEEM TO FORGET THAT IF YOU WERE ACCUSED OF THE SAME THINGS DANNY WAS ACCUSED OF YOUR CHURCH WOULD INVESTIGATE THE ALLEGATIONS TO THE FULLEST. BY THE WAY AND IF YOU REFUSED TO LEAVE YOU WOULD BE FORCEFULLY REMOVED AND THESE SAME INDIVIDUALS WOULD DO WHAT EVER THEY NEEDED TO REMOVE YOU EVEN TO THE EXTREME OF POLICE ARREST IN PUBLIC.

Posted by: nick Nov 17 2006, 01:37 PM

> QUOTE(mystery- man @ Nov 17 2006, 06:26 PM)
>
> Nick, I am sure that you dont understand the countless amount of human suffering and the many souls that will be lost because things kept in secret by men in position of authority never are exposed for what they are. That is why John the Baptist exposed Herod. That is why the Prophet was sent to David in open forum to expose the sin to everyone. Danny has chosen to stay in the position of authority despite the apparent misgivings. Look at what I have posted previously and you will see where I stand. Before the internet Pastors were allowed to continue in secret their lives of sin even tho countless individuals were eventually hurt. I PERSONALLY KNOW OF MANY CASES WHERE THE EFFECT OF PERSONAL SINS HAVE LEFT A LASTING DAMAGING LEGACY ON UNTOLL NUMBERS OF MY FRIENDS. BUT HOPEFULLY BY THE GRACE OF GOD THESE INDIVIDUALS WILL GET OVER THEIR PAIN. I dont know the actual reason for your supposed indignation because of what you have read I can only guess. But by in large the things posted have been appropriate. But as in anything you can always find people who in almost anything do something wrong. BUT YOU

> SEEM TO FORGET THAT IF YOU WERE ACCUSED OF THE SAME THINGS DANNY WAS ACCUSED OF YOUR CHURCH WOULD INVESTIGATE THE ALLEGATIONS TO THE FULLEST. BY THE WAY AND IF YOU REFUSED TO LEAVE YOU WOULD BE FORCEFULLY REMOVED AND THESE SAME INDIVIDUALS WOULD DO WHAT EVER THEY NEEDED TO REMOVE YOU EVEN TO THE EXTREME OF POLICE ARREST IN PUBLIC.

I understand fully your point and do sympathise with the victims.

I am not saying that the truth should not be persued and for folk to be revealed for what they really are. Jesus himself did it.

The concern that I have is the extreme that some of us have gone to in this.

If as a result of my previous posts anyone took offense - I apologise. I am not being insentsitive to the issue at hand. Again...

Posted by: mystery- man Nov 17 2006, 04:15 PM

I AM SORRY FOR THE UPPER CASE DID NOT MEAN TO BE SCREAMING And Nick I am sorry if I appeared to be reading motive into what you have said. I do not know you personally so I dont, as I have stated, know the reason for your apparent problems with the post. If it is that some have posted inappropriate things you would be, in my opinion, correct. But with almost everything in this world you have to take the good with the bad. For the most part, I believe, the things posted here serve a needed function, that being to alert the masses to the corruption of the individuals in charge. The blind leading the blind will fall into a ditch. While I know God is very forgiving and loving towards his people still there is a limit. I am not saying that I know what that limit is either but what I do know is that the people in responsible positions have a responsibility to act responsible, and that resposibility greatly multiplies when the individual claims to be the carpenter representing the great carpenter Jesus Christ.

Posted by: nick Nov 17 2006, 05:39 PM

> QUOTE(mystery- man @ Nov 17 2006, 10:15 PM)
>
> I AM SORRY FOR THE UPPER CASE DID NOT MEAN TO BE SCREAMING And Nick I am sorry if I appeared to be reading motive into what you have said. I do not know you personally so I dont, as I have stated, know the reason for your apparent problems with the post. If it is that some have posted inappropriate things you would be, in my opinion, correct. But with almost everything in this world you have to take the good with the bad. For the most part, I believe, the things posted here serve a needed function, that being to alert the masses to the corruption of the individuals in charge. The blind leading the blind will fall into a ditch. While I know God is very forgiving and loving towards his people still there is a limit. I am not saying that I know what that limit is either but what I do know is that the people in responsible positions have a responsibility to act responsible, and that resposibility greatly multiplies when the individual claims to be the carpenter representing the great carpenter Jesus Christ.

No sweat Mystery, we cool

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Nov 17 2006, 09:05 PM

> QUOTE(nick @ Nov 17 2006, 12:33 AM)
>
> Nick: Not on that trip I am!! Truth is truth and I will keep speaking about it. MOST FOLK HERE COME FOR THE ILL TALK, HAVING ITCHING EARS. They don't come so much with genuine christian concern.

Note to Self: Ask Nick what the truth is from his point of view.
Self: Nick, could you please fill me in on what Truth is here?

> QUOTE
>
> Nick: As if saying 'If the laundry is dirty, we want to go through it', 'we'll just say that we long to see it clean and that'll justify our 'dirty laundry searching''. You do realise that there is a subconcious admittance of 'reading to one's hearts content'?

Additional note to Self: Fill Nick in on my own opinion about the spirits at work here on BSDA.

Self: Hey Nick, way back in August 2006 I became a member here in hopes to find morsels of truth about the "situation" at 3abn, a ministry that has often been a blessing to me and has enhanced my spiritual experience. Right away I became aware of some who were honest truth seekers and others who seemed to be salivating over the tasty tidbits on the dirty laundry.

Being that I prefer a plant-based diet, the laundry tidbits are not what I choose to ingest, unless they are true morsels that need to be plated and served up.

> QUOTE
>
> Nick and Nick : Let's hope they get it this time, we're not against this forum or any other - just calling for folk to clean up thier act, like they profess to be doing in Danny's case.

Thankfully, when some patrons (NOT A MAJORITY, IMO) of this establishment get to gnawing to the point of eviscerating, the Maitre' Ds adeptly step in and point out the rules of courteous dining.

Final note to Self: Pass the antacids and please choose an easier metaphor next time.

Posted by: husbandoftheyear Nov 18 2006, 01:17 PM

> QUOTE(Observer @ Nov 16 2006, 07:22 AM)
>
> Danny and Linda married 20 years ago, or so. How in the world can either Danny or Linda respond to an alligation that they were sexually involved prior to their marriage? Thay can't. Such alligations are not fair to either of them. Twenty years of water, so to speak has passed under the bridge (Yes,

> I am mixing metaphores.). What is the value to us today of this focus?

If this is the case then everything discussed about 3ABN is off limits considering many of the lies started arond the same time.

I don't believe that there is a statute of limitations on sin...

Posted by: calvin Nov 18 2006, 02:34 PM

I have drawn the line on this discussion to limit it to the ministry of 3ABN, NOT what happened in these folks lives prior to its formation. Yall, got enough stuff with over 20 years of 3ABN to muddle through without speculating on whether Danny and Linda where having sex before they got married and before they started 3ABN...that's nobodies business.

Posted by: PrincessDrRe Nov 18 2006, 02:42 PM

> QUOTE(watchbird @ Nov 17 2006, 10:42 AM)
>
> I've heard that it is nothing to worry about if one talks to himself.... but if one finds himself ANSWERING himself .... then it is time to start worrying.....

You are correct - when you start answering yourself.... you have some "other stuff" goin' on.....

Posted by: nick Nov 18 2006, 04:19 PM

> QUOTE(calvin @ Nov 18 2006, 08:34 PM)
>
> I have drawn the line on this discussion to limit it to the ministry of 3ABN, NOT what happened in these folks lives prior to its formation. Yall, got enough stuff with over 20 years of 3ABN to muddle through without speculating on whether Danny and Linda where having sex before they got married and before they started 3ABN...that's nobodies business.

> QUOTE(PeacefullyBewildered @ Nov 18 2006, 03:05 AM)
>
> Note to Self: Ask Nick what the truth is from his point of view.
> Self: Nick, could you please fill me in on what Truth is here?
> Additional note to Self: Fill Nick in on my own opinion about the spirits at work here on BSDA.
>
> Self: Hey Nick, way back in August 2006 I became a member here in hopes to find morsels of truth > about the "situation" at 3abn, a ministry that has often been a blessing to me and has enhanced my spiritual experience. Right away I became aware of some who were honest truth seekers and others who seemed to be salivating over the tasty tidbits on the dirty laundry.

>
> Being that I prefer a plant-based diet, the laundry tidbits are not what I choose to ingest, unless they are true morsels that need to be plated and served up.
> Thankfully, when some patrons (NOT A MAJORITY, IMO) of this establishment get to gnawing to the point of eviscerating, the Maitre' Ds adeptly step in and point out the rules of courteous dining.
> Final note to Self: Pass the antacids and please choose an easier metaphor next time.

Please read my posts in detail. Some folk here have understood my concern by doing just that. Then, if you still need clearer answers to the issues that you have raised, I will gladly respond...

Posted by: Fran Nov 18 2006, 05:35 PM

> QUOTE(calvin @ Nov 18 2006, 02:34 PM)
>
> I have drawn the line on this discussion to limit it to the ministry of 3ABN, NOT what happened in these folks lives prior to its formation. Yall, got enough stuff with over 20 years of 3ABN to muddle through without speculating on whether Danny and Linda where having sex before they got married and before they started 3ABN...that's nobodies business.

Thank you.

That comment made me think of all the rape victims in court. The defense will stop at nothing to get the guilt shifted to the victim so the guilty can roam the streets to rape again!

The victims seem to get victomized all over again! It broke my heart. God help us all!

Posted by: Observer Nov 18 2006, 06:47 PM

Re: "If, as we have reason to believe, there will be a legal examination of the "irregularities" of the money handling aspects of Danny's "regime".... then Linda WILL be a part of what is examined. "

The above statement is correct. It's truth is recognized by informed people who understand the issues, and advise Linda.

Linda was a coroprate officer in 3-ABN. Any examination of financial irregularities during the time that she was a corporate officer would subject her to an examination to see what part she played in those irregularities, if any.

NOTE: Such an examination would not make her a target, in itself. It is the examination that would determine who, if any, would be a target.

Posted by: Observer Nov 18 2006, 07:02 PM

Re: " In some of the informational material that I receive, it would seem as though either Linda or those who are advising her, are still seriously entertaining the hopes of her being reinstated at 3abn in her original role as half owner, including salary.... which presumably would entail her resuming some of her previous responsibilities, though that detail has not been mentioned. My question here has to do not only with the seemingly impossible psychological position that would put her and everyone else concerned in... but also the more practical one as to whether she is.... on the basis of how she ran the departments under her in the past..... capable of taking on such a position and job responsibilities?"

I do not challenge the validity of the questions.

At the moment all such is speculation. I do not consider it appropriate to comment on such speculation.

I can only say that time will likely reveal whether the above is accurate, or if it is not. Further, it just may be that as events begin to unfold, as denominational officials contact various people to see if some hypothetical resolutions could bring resolution to issues that these attempts to build bridges with people will be reported as fact, when in fact they are far less than their report.

There are people who are attempting to discover resolution. Some of these are denominational officials. Others come from both sides. They are going to have to work in privacy, behind closed doors so to speak to see if they can come together. I have hope that some basis for an agreement to accomplish something positive, even if limited, will happen. However, the obstacles are great. Any tidbits of information that will leak out about this process will likely be a mixture of truth and error. In many cases the error will likely be much more than the truth.

Posted by: Observer Nov 18 2006, 07:21 PM

Re: ". . . is there any evidence that Linda is even yet either aware of . . ." and it would seem as though either Linda or those who are advising her,. . .."

Yes, I know that I have ripped the above all out of context. But, allow me to comment for a minute.

Linda has collected a group of advisers, that is well known. Her directive to them is to charge them to tell her the truth, as they see it. I.e. to advise her as they believe her to be appropriate. Her advisers do not always give her the same advice. They do not always see things exactly the same.

Linda does not always accept what they tell her. She may challenge them. She may demand that they defend their advice. She has been known to make a decision.

Furthermore, contrary to what many may believe, her advisers generally do not tell her what to do. They facilitate her in making her decisions. This differs considerably from telling her to do something. Linda makes decisions at her own pace, and when she is ready.

However, she is informed, and involved.

However, it should be clearly understood that people who defend her in public act independently in what they post. They post what they think without checking in with her.

Whatever Linda does in the future will be her decision. She has collected a group of people who work with her in helping her to decide, not to tell her what to do.

Posted by: Skyhook Nov 19 2006, 01:47 AM

On another forum where 3abn has not been a topic of discussion someone posted that the pastor of thier local church informed a group in his church yesterday that a civil action may be brought against 3abn for misappropriation of millions of dollars.

It appears that some pastors are becoming informed and are not afraid to speak publicly about it.

Posted by: Observer Nov 19 2006, 05:23 AM

> QUOTE(Skyhook @ Nov 19 2006, 12:47 AM) ☐
>
> On another forum where 3abn has not been a topic of discussion someone posted that the pastor of thier local church informed a group in his church yesterday that a civil action may be brought against 3abn for misappropriation of millions of dollars.
>
> It appears that some pastors are becoming informed and are not afraid to speak publicly about it.

Many here would probably appreciate it if you would cite a reference to that forum so people could check it out.

Posted by: Skyhook Nov 19 2006, 12:34 PM

Observer, I'll be happy to. www.revivalsermons.org Go to "forums" then scroll down to "town hall," then clik on "another questionable ministry". The posting I mentioned was made yesterday by "Colporteur." This is a fairly conservative website run by Richard O'Ffill.

Posted by: Observer Nov 19 2006, 01:12 PM

The othre forum is run by Richard O'Ffill. Here is the entire quotation that I think that your referenced:

"colporteur
Hero Member

Posts: 3,363

View Profile Re: Another Questionable Minisitry ....
« Reply #53 on: November 18, 2006, 08:11:26 PM »

Not to dredge up all the garbage about 3ABN but tonight at vespars a pastor that does not run down ministries expressed his concern that 3ABN is headed for big trouble and will probably end up in civil court. He didn't give details but said that this is what happens when boards are hand picked an when a single person is more or less allowed to control the whole ministry. The accusation agaisnt 3ABN is abuse of use of funds by the millions.This will surely come back to bite the church when the SDA name is pushed to the forefront.
I have not been outspoken on this until know but Danny should have been removed when he remarried with out being biblically divorced. If for no other reason he should have been removed from the minstry on that count. If Linda comitted "physical" adultery then he should have claimed such but never did he or anyone claim this. This is the problem when at the GC the rules were changed and a new man made rule was made that spiritual adultery is grounds for divorce even when there is not physical adultery. Now we see the fruit and frankly it does not surprise me. Pretty hard for the church leadership to condemn something that they have approved. It is sad when people so love Danny that they were willing to ignore this and let it escalate into whatever we have at 3ABN today. I was noticing a change with Linda and her wardrobe and makeup shrtly before the scandle. I wonder if an of the key figures at 3ABN have clean hands. This blight will be irrepairable. "

****

I will make a couple of comments:

1) I see an accusation that 3-ABN has abused millions of dollars of funds. There is also speculation that this will result in civil action against 3-ABN. I Beleive that such is speculative, and premature. Yes, I am aware that investigations are ongoing. But, such does not mean that anything other than an investigation will take place. Such an investigation could lead to either civil or criminal action. But, it is premature to speculation on there being results of investigation that will lead to either.

2) The General Conference has never authorized "spiritual adultery" as Biblical grounds for a divorce. This issue came into play in regard to discussions of Linda's conduct and guilt. I will briefly summarize. One individual brought up the issue of "spiritual adultery" based upon a book written by a non-SDA. The idea of "spiritual adultery" was so blown out of the water, so to speak, that it was soon dropped. Supporters of 3-ABN do not presently claim that spiriutal adultery is a Biblical ground for divorce. Also, they do not claim that Linda committed physical adultery. Rather, they claim that she had an inappropriate relationship with a male (Dr. A.) not her husband, while married to Danny.

Posted by: Skyhook Nov 19 2006, 02:28 PM

Observer, I appreciate your comments. My only point was not in the details, but the fact that it is apparantly starting to be discussed openly by a pastor in a local church. We can wait and see if this is a trend.

Posted by: Observer Nov 19 2006, 04:28 PM

> QUOTE(Skyhook @ Nov 19 2006, 01:28 PM) ☐
>
> Observer, I appreciate your comments. My only point was not in the details, but the fact that it is apparantly starting to be discussed openly by a pastor in a local church. We can wait and see if this is a trend.

I understand that. Supporters of 3-ABN regularly read these posts. when they pick up some minor, uncorrected deatail that is in error they trumpet it all over that we cannot get it right. On that basis I attempt to stop such comments as quickly as possible by correcting even minor errors. And, sometimes I have to be corrected myself.

Peace,

Posted by: Daryl Fawcett Nov 19 2006, 05:07 PM

Whether his vision was fact or fiction, it became fact.

Posted by: Skyhook Nov 19 2006, 05:14 PM

Observer, Thanks. Got it.

Posted by: Skyhook Nov 19 2006, 05:39 PM

Just so there is no misunderstanding, the problems at 3abn are a forbidden topic at Richard O'Ffill's website, and have been since the subject first came there up a few months ago.

Posted by: Daryl Fawcett Nov 19 2006, 05:42 PM

I wonder why he has forbidden them there?

Of course, after being discussed at CA for quite some time, they are also forbidden there.

Posted by: Panama_Pete Nov 20 2006, 02:41 AM

> QUOTE(Daryl Fawcett @ Nov 19 2006, 05:42 PM)
>
> I wonder why he has forbidden them there?

Ruth said, "Don't entreat me to leave you, and to return from following after you, for where you go, I will go; and where you lodge, I will lodge; your people shall be my people, and your God my God;" Ruth 1:16

Pastor O'Ffill chose to be part of 3ABN.

Review and Herald Speakers Bureau:

http://www.reviewandherald.com/speakerbureau/display.asp?id=54&speaker=yes

"He is often seen on 3ABN television and is host of a weekly interview program for 3ABN radio."

Posted by: lurker Nov 20 2006, 04:20 AM

I assume that he like many others has yet to be convinced. There are still a lot of people who just do not want to believe that a problem needs to be dealt with.

Posted by: summertime Nov 20 2006, 08:58 AM

> QUOTE(lurker @ Nov 20 2006, 04:20 AM) ☐
>
> I assume that he like many others has yet to be convinced. There are still a lot of people who just do not want to believe that a problem needs to be dealt with.

I have found out within my own family that there are advantageous reasons that many pastors in our church will stand by 3ABN and who will not listen otherwise.

Posted by: lurker Nov 20 2006, 09:35 AM

Summertime, can you say what these advantages are? Are they material or do you mean that there is peer pressure to conform?

Posted by: Skyhook Nov 20 2006, 03:27 PM

Do all the people that are still seen and heard on 3abn have some selfish or ulterior motive? I don't think so. I believe that there are some who God is using not because of but in spite of the corruption that is there. We must pray that no more innocent people will be hurt in the process of resolving the mess.

Posted by: Johann Nov 21 2006, 06:53 AM

> QUOTE(Skyhook @ Nov 20 2006, 11:27 PM) ☐
>
> Do all the people that are still seen and heard on 3abn have some selfish or ulterior motive? I don't think so. I believe that there are some who God is using not because of but in spite of the corruption that is there. We must pray that no more innocent people will be hurt in the process of resolving the mess.

What about the innocent people who are still being persecuted, or who are still sufferening from the persecution during the past 3 years? Should this be permitted to go on?

Posted by: summertime Nov 21 2006, 08:47 AM

> QUOTE(lurker @ Nov 20 2006, 09:35 AM) ☐
>
> Summertime, can you say what these advantages are? Are they material or do you mean that there is peer pressure to conform?

lurker, I have three members of the SDA clergy whom I have tried to talk to who belong to my own family. One is the ministerial secretary of a state not far from Missouri--Within the last three years he appeared on 3ABN to talk about a project which he was interested in and which Danny Shelton (on the air) acted to encourage people to help him with his project. To tell the truth I have forgotten what they were talking about but there he was on 3ABN getting his story out. When I had information about all that was happening at 3ABN I e-mailed it to him and his wife, and had a quick response that I was a mudslinger. I have a brother-in-law (retired pastor) who I tried to talk to about this whole thing and he responded that a few years ago the GC had tried to manage 3ABN and that he did not blame Danny for not allowing it to happen (whatever that means) He told me that he had no good feelings about Danny Shelton personally but he thought that the airing of the problems should be dropped for the good of the church. And then a brother-in-law who is a retired SDA minister. I took the letter from Dr. A. (defending himself and Linda) for him to read. He asked me how far I was going to spread the letter. I told him that as many people as possible needed to know what is happening at 3ABN. He folded the letter and told me to pray about what we were doing. He told me that he was going to stop by 3ABN and talk to Danny. I asked him if he was also going to talk to Linda and he looked at me like he thought I was wrong in asking. I have given up trying to say anymore about it to any one because they either do not want to believe (or feel afraid that the work would be hindered by criticism of 3ABN.) Personally, I am thankful if I hear of any of our leaders understanding what is happening at 3ABN. I do not know if they have peer pressure, advice from the GC about abiding by 3ABN or if they fear that the members of their church would be aghast to learn that the pastor understands and cares what is really going on at 3ABN. Until the GC openly stands against the hurtful things that are happening at 3ABN why should our leaders bite the hand that feeds them?

Posted by: Richard Sherwin Nov 21 2006, 05:36 PM

When I questioned a pastor about Danny being at our conference campmeeting he dismissed my concerns by saying the conference leadership would not invite anyone if there were any problems.

Richard

Posted by: summertime Nov 22 2006, 08:41 AM

> QUOTE(Richard Sherwin @ Nov 21 2006, 05:36 PM) ☐
>
> When I questioned a pastor about Danny being at our conference campmeeting he dismissed my concerns by saying the conference leadership would not invite anyone if there were any problems.
>
> Richard

See what I mean? The problems are that Danny has divorced and remarried without biblical grounds, 3ABN legal dealngs are being reviewed by the state of Illinois, people have been mistreated and abused for the sake of preserving a squeaky clean image of 3ABN. No problems? It leads us back to wondering what 'no problems' means to the conference leadership. My hold on all this is that Jesus knows our problems and if 3ABN problems are not of any consequence then we have to decide where our hearts and loyalty should remain. I do not want to lose my soul over Danny Shelton's dishonesty so I simply opt out and wait for the answers to be made known by God---someday.

Posted by: Panama_Pete Nov 26 2006, 06:49 AM

> QUOTE(summertime @ Nov 22 2006, 08:41 AM) ☐
>
> See what I mean? The problems are that Danny has divorced and remarried without biblical > grounds, 3ABN legal dealngs are being reviewed by the state of Illinois, people have been mistreated and abused for the sake of preserving a squeaky clean image of 3ABN. No problems? It leads us back to wondering what 'no problems' means to the conference leadership. My hold on all this is that Jesus knows our problems and if 3ABN problems are not of any consequence then we have to decide where our hearts and loyalty should remain. I do not want to lose my soul over Danny Shelton's dishonesty so I simply opt out and wait for the answers to be made known by God---someday.

No, we don't have to opt out. Here's what we do:

We approach pastors and relatives the same way we would approach strangers about our "Stop Smoking" clinics. We don't walk up to smokers, hand them a brochure, and then pull the cigarettes right out of their mouths, do we?

We have to be subtle and discrete.

Basically, you are an evangelist dealing with members of the public (even if they are relatives) when you bring up a painful subject that is new to them. In this instance, you are the torchbearer. You are the keeper of the flame. Your friends and relatives are unenlightened. They do not know what you know. So you have to start out very slowly.

Pete

Posted by: summertime Nov 27 2006, 09:58 AM

> QUOTE(Panama_Pete @ Nov 26 2006, 06:49 AM) ☐
>
> No, we don't have to opt out. Here's what we do:
>
> We approach pastors and relatives the same way we would approach strangers about our "Stop Smoking" clinics. We don't walk up to smokers, hand them a brochure, and then pull the cigarettes right out of their mouths, do we?
>
> We have to be subtle and discrete.
>
> Basically, you are an evangelist dealing with members of the public (even if they are relatives) when you bring up a painful subject that is new to them. In this instance, you are the torchbearer. You are the keeper of the flame. Your friends and relatives are unenlightened. They do not know what you know. So you have to start out very slowly.
>
> Pete

Hi, Pete, The problem is that this is not new to the pastors of which I speak. They know. They simply do not want to be bothered about it. Or for some reason they are afraid to talk about it. If I talk to friends about this subject, they either tell me they have no use for 3ABN and don't want to hear about it, or they are are so devoted to the message that they feel that we border on heresy if we speak against an entity which has been blessed by God with so many miracles. That is why I have taken the position to just 'wait and see' or 'surely God will not allow this to go on any longer than he chooses.' When I do talk to someone about it I am subtle and discrete. Sabbath someone asked me why the people that work at 3ABN continue to be so abused. Most people do not understand the quandry these people are in if they speak against Danny Shelton. People I talk to just do not understand how one man could be so powerful. He may be powerful but so was Hitler.

Posted by: Johann Nov 27 2006, 11:18 AM

This is a story about four people named Everybody, Somebody, Anybody, and Nobody.

There was an important job to be done and Everybody was sure that Somebody would do it.

Anybody could have done it, but nobody did it.

Somebody got angry about that because it was Everybody's job.

Everybody thought Anybody could do it, but Nobody realized that Everybody wouldn't do it.

It ended up that Everybody blamed Somebody when Nobody did what Anybody could have done.

- I received this in a package from USA today. Is this what has happened?

Printable Version of Topic

144

Click here to view this topic in its original format

BlackSDA _ 3ABN _ Polly Place-linda Shelton

Posted by: summertime Jun 2 2006, 08:26 AM

Dear Friend:

I believe in Linda Shelton's innocence of the allegations that have been hurled against her. My concern however is this, if she were guility of what she is being accused of, who should reach out and help her, and reclaim her for the Lord? How should we as a church provide healing and safety for her? Where and to whom should she go for help? In His time God will reveal the truth of Linda's innoncence and then there will be no doubt that He is in control. An individual, regardless of his/her influence, wealth, or education is not as powerful as God. Something is dreadfully wrong with us as Christians if we prefer to protect an institution rather than a person who is made in the image of God. Individuals who stand by and see injustice being done to another human being and refuse to take a stand against the injustice and those who purport the injustice will have to give an account to God. "Therefore to him that knowleth to do good, and doeth it not, to him it is sin." James 4:17. God will vindicate Linda in His time, and in His own way. When this happens His name will be glorifed and it will be obvious that He is the One who orchestrated and ordained it. Polly's Place Network is seeking to glorify Him by helping to fulfill His mission as He declares in Luke 4:18.

In answer to your question, here are some ways in which your SDA church can help Pollly's Place Network: distribute our literature, engage in fundraising activities for the Network, provide support for abused individuals who might be in your church, and sponsor events that will raise the awareness of abuse in our homes, schools, churches and communities. Linda and I will be happy to participate in a community awareness program that your church might sponsor. We are very passionate about helping our hurting members find healing so that they can break the intergenerational cycle of domestic violence and abuse in its many forms. (As I travel I am amazed at how many individuals dealing with domestic violence and abuse keep quiet because they are too ashamed to talk about it. Or are fearful that they will not be believed, or they might be ostracized from the church. But when someone addresses it from the pulpit, they feel that they have permission to get help.)

So we provide ongoing education for pastors and church leaders. We have a team of Christian professionals who put on these educational programs. If you have the opportunity to share our information with your local conference, we could conduct workshops for their pastors and church leaders. The problem of domestic violence, sexual abuse, religious abuse, etc. occurring in our homes, schools and churches is real. Jesus Christ is real, and our profession of true Godliness must also be real as we demonstrate practical help for the wounded.

Thank you very much for your donation. We appreciate your willingness to support this ministry. Most of all we solicit your prayers.

Polly's Place Network is a ministry that is governed by the Upper Columbia Conference Corporation, but financially supported by individuals like you who want to Help Empower Abused Lives. Our headquarters are located in the Upper Columbia Conference. I praise God for Max Torkelson and the other administrators who have welcomed this ministry with open arms.

You can contact me (509) 838-2761 if you have additional questions and/or comments. Blessings to you and your family.

Sincererely,

Mable Dunbar, President
Polly's Place Network

Posted by: simplysaved Jun 2 2006, 08:44 AM

I hope that this is ofl ....there are many women, men, individuals in our local churches and community that are hurting and in need of healing.

As Linda has repeatedly asked that people move forward, and it is clear that she has a strong support system, would it not be a wonderful way to use her experience as a motivation to help others and become aggressively involved in starting a ministry to help those in pain in the local community and church for Christ?

Posted by: summertime Jun 2 2006, 10:33 AM

> QUOTE(simplysaved @ Jun 2 2006, 09:44 AM) ☐
>
> I hope that this is ofl ....there are many women, men, individuals in our local churches and community that are hurting and in need of healing.
>
> As Linda has repeatedly asked that people move forward, and it is clear that she has a strong support system, would it not be a wonderful way to use her experience as a motivation to help others and become aggressively involved in starting a ministry to help those in pain in the local community and church for Christ?

No, simply saved, this is not off topic. This is why we have started a new topic. Polly's Place and Mable Dunbar is simply expressing the hope that we will contribute by our prayers, distributing information and supporting with help for abused individuals in your vicinity--at home and abroad. Linda's name came into the letter written by Mable Dunbar simply as a suggestion that she is now working to help abused and neglected people in your community and far beyond. Do not believe that Mable Dunbar was asking for a stronger support system for Linda, she was just expressing her pleasure at having Linda now working in a direction that will help abused and neglected people everywhere. If anyone reading this posting is interested in helping financially, fine, but her most earnest request was that we pray for the work that is being done for the unfortunate people who are hurting in your community and mine.. She is asking that if, in anyway we can, we can influence church leaders everywhere to be more sensitive to the fact that people are being abused and neglected , and with the help of understanding this by our Union leaders, the helpless people, who would not have the support of their churces, could know where they could go to for help.This topic is not to help Linda, it is to ask for the support and prayers of anyone who want to help those around us who need it.

I personally have sent a very modest contribution to help Polly's Place. This is not to help Linda,--it is to help people around us who are being hurt and have no place to go. Mentioning Linda's name is secondary to the whole reason that I, with the OK of Calvin, have started this forum. If anyone wants to help Polly's Place, that is good. If you want to consider this off topic to our community, I want to thank you for just reading Mable Dunbar's letter. If anyone is interested in helping in their own Union or township, send a copy of Mable Dunbar's letter to them and ask them to become involved, if they care, in promoting Polly's Place in the Union in which you live.

I sent my contribution to:
Polly's Place Network
C/O Mable Dunbar
PO Box 19039
Spokane, Washington 99219-9039

summertime

Posted by: princessdi Jun 2 2006, 10:42 AM

Is your comment to assume that people are not engaged in this ministry already? How could you know that?

Also, it is apparent since you have expressed your weariness of this 3ABN/Danny/Linda scenarion on a whole, that you have not kept up. While that is consistent, you might want to update your info before posting to this subject matter. Some are trying support her in her attempt to move forward with her life.

> QUOTE(simplysaved @ Jun 2 2006, 07:44 AM) ☐
>
> I hope that this is ☒ off ....there are many women, men, individuals in our local churches and community that are hurting and in need of healing.
>
> As Linda has repeatedly asked that people move forward, and it is clear that she has a strong support system, would it not be a wonderful way to use her experience as a motivation to help others and become aggressively involved in starting a ministry to help those in pain in the local community and church for Christ?

Posted by: simplysaved Jun 2 2006, 10:46 AM

Thank you for your Christian response!

> QUOTE(summertime @ Jun 2 2006, 11:33 AM) ☐

> No, simply saved, this is not off topic. This is why we have started a new topic. Polly's Place and Dr. Dunbar is simply expressing the hope that we will contribute by our prayers, supporting with help for abused individuals in your vicinity--at home and abroad. Linda came into the letter written by Dr. Dunbar simply as a suggestion that she is now working to help abused and neglected people in your community and far beyond. Do not believe that Dr. Dunbar was asking for a stronger support system for Linda, she was just expressing her pleasure at having Linda now working in a direction that will help abused and neglected people everywhere. If anyone reading this posting is interested in helping financially, fine, but her most earnest request was that we pray for the work that is being done for the unfortunate people who are hurting in your community and mine.. She is asking that if, in anyway we can, we can influence church leaders everywhere to be more sensitive to the fact that people are being abused and neglected , and with the help of understanding this by our Union leaders, the helpless people, who would not have the support of their churces.could know where they could go to for help.This topic is not to help Linda, it is to ask for the support and prayers of anyone who want to help those around us who need it.
>
> I personally have sent a very modest contribution to help Polly's Place. This is not to help Linda,--it is to help people around us who are being hurt and have no place to go. Mentioning Linda's name is secondary to the whole reason that I, with the OK of Calvin, have started this forum. If anyone wants to help Polly's Place, that is good. If you want to consider this off topic to our community, I want to thank you for just reading Dr. Dunbar's letter.
>
> summertime

Posted by: Hersheys99 Jun 2 2006, 08:13 PM

I think its a good thing & I plan on sending them some money as well. I think we need more places like this.

Posted by: summertime Jun 3 2006, 11:11 AM

> QUOTE(Hersheys99 @ Jun 2 2006, 09:13 PM)
>
> I think its a good thing & I plan on sending them some money as well. I think we need more places like this.

I suspect that Polly's Place is a very worthy cause, but nevertheless solicitations are not allowed regardless of how noteworthy the ministry. This is clearly stated in the BSDA board rules. If we can not discuss Polly's Place without asking for donations, this topic will be closed.

Posted by: summertime Jun 3 2006, 09:09 PM

> QUOTE(summertime @ Jun 3 2006, 12:11 PM)
>
> I suspect that Polly's Place is a very worthy cause, but nevertheless solicitations are not allowed regardless of how noteworthy the ministry. This is clearly stated in the BSDA board rules. If we can > not discuss Polly's Place without asking for donations, this topic will be closed.

Thank you, Calvin for the editing of this topic. I have not in any way meant to overstep the bonds on the rules for the BSDA Forum. I appreciate your help. Summertime

---

Posted by: Johann Nov 21 2006, 01:41 AM

> QUOTE(summertime @ Jun 4 2006, 05:09 AM) ☐
>
> Thank you, Calvin for the editing of this topic. I have not in any way meant to overstep the bonds on the rules for the BSDA Forum. I appreciate your help. Summertime

Polly's Place is still alive and doing a great work for abused women. I have recently met a woman who was greatly helped by PP. Even if not all cases are brought to an immediate happy ending, PP keeps on helping women in great need. Thank God for women like Dr. Mable Dunbar who show stamina and courage in face of great obstacles. Although 3ABN banning support of Polly's Place seemed like a temporary setback, PP is succeding. Pray that it will get more coverage and exposure in the future.

Posted by: Johann Nov 26 2006, 04:56 PM

> QUOTE(Johann @ Nov 21 2006, 09:41 AM) ☐
>
> Polly's Place is still alive. . . .

Dr. Mabel Dunbar has finally found time to read what you have all said on this thread. She has asked me to express her special appreciation to you, summertime, for posting her letter, and she also wants you all to know that summertime "accurately clarified what I was trying to say." She also wants "to thank everyone who continues to and will support this ministry."

Blessings,

Johann

Posted by: summertime Nov 27 2006, 09:30 AM

> QUOTE(Johann @ Nov 26 2006, 04:56 PM) ☐
>
> Dr. Mabel Dunbar has finally found time to read what you have all said on this thread. She has asked me to express her special appreciation to you, summertime, for posting her letter, and she also wants you all to know that summertime "accurately clarified what I was trying to say." She also wants "to thank everyone who continues to and will support this ministry."

> Blessings,
>
> Johann

Upon my request for a way to distribute information concerning Polly's Place, they have sent to me an array of interesting information to use in a way that would inform those who have not heard of Polly's Place. Our pastor allowed all of the informaiton to be placed on a table in the foyer of our church to make our church members more aware of the work that Dr. Dunbar and her group are doing. Much of it has been taken and read by those who can help them with prayers and anyway they find feasible. I am sure that they will provide the same info to anyone else who is willing to have it placed in their church distribution center. I continue to pray and work for Polly's Place--many people are interested if they only have someone tell them about it. As Christmas nears, there are many abused and helpless people who need to be in our prayers 'summertime'

Printable Version of Topic

Click here to view this topic in its original format

BlackSDA _ 3ABN _ Assault On Danny Shelton

Posted by: sister Oct 17 2006, 10:16 PM

It seems that one of Danny's horses kicked him in the head twice the other day. It is not the first time he has been assaulted by one of his horses, but it is the first time on the head. He appears to be okay, at least judging by the number of emails he has written to the investigators since the incident took place. Maybe the poor beast was just trying to knock some good, old fashioned, horse sense into him? In the past God has even used a donkey to catch a man's attention, why not a horse now?

Dan, hopefully by now you are recovering well from the collision with your horse's hooves and we are all praying for you, each in his own way and with his own purpose.

Posted by: sonshineonme Oct 17 2006, 11:15 PM

> QUOTE(sister @ Oct 17 2006, 09:16 PM)
>
> It seems that one of Danny's horses kicked him in the head twice the other day. It is not the first time he has been assaulted by one of his horses, but it is the first time on the head. He appears to be okay, at least judging by the number of emails he has written to the investigators since the incident took place. Maybe the poor beast was just trying to knock some good, old fashioned, horse sense into him? In the past God has even used a donkey to catch a man's attention, why not a horse now?
>
> Dan, hopefully by now you are recovering well from the collision with your horse's hooves and we are all praying for you, each in his own way and with his own purpose.

I think the horse was initiating payback

Posted by: Lee Oct 18 2006, 10:38 AM

I am thankful he wasn't hurt seriously. People get killed with these kinds of things.

Posted by: caribbean sda Oct 18 2006, 01:28 PM

Regardless of how we feel about Danny Shelton, it is quite serious when a person gets kicked in the head by a horse. I hope all will be well with him in this regard. That must have hurt something fierce...

Posted by: nick Oct 18 2006, 01:47 PM

I have never posted before to any of the 3abn threads.

But I ask these simple questions. They are simply for consideration. This may just be my first and last post to the 3abn poof.

Questions....
1. Do we ponder our lives before the almighty God in all this?
2. Who are we glorifying in all this?
3. Are we what we say we are?

Oh... don't let me stop you. Just pause for a while abd be honest with yourselves to the answers to these questions.

Your brother in Christ

Nick.

Posted by: Chez Oct 18 2006, 02:29 PM

> QUOTE(nick @ Oct 18 2006, 01:47 PM) ☐
>
> I have never posted before to any of the 3abn threads.
>
> But I ask these simple questions. They are simply for consideration. This may just be my first and last post to the 3abn poof.
>
> Questions....
> 1. Do we ponder our lives before the almighty God in all this?
> 2. Who are we glorifying in all this?
> 3. Are we what we say we are?
>
> Oh... don't let me stop you. Just pause for a while abd be honest with yourselves to the answers to these questions.
>
> Your brother in Christ
>
> Nick.

Nick,
I do. The Bible says, "Let the redeemed of the Lord say so." Sometimes, the Lord says we must be quiet and sometimes the Lord says we must speak. I am so glad that someone spoke against the injustices in society along with the racism. If not, I would probably still live in Newman's Quarters, which was located in my town's city dump area. Sometimes we have a tendency to equate speaking out against injustices we see as not living in harmony with God. One of the most vocal critics of injustices and wrongs along with other sinful acts was Jesus. Reread his parables; not only did they contain lessons of life, but they also addressed injustices and other social issues. When the Lord says "speak", we must speak. When he says "be quiet", we must be quiet. There are people here who truly love the Lord. We are not against 3ABN; we are against the alleged injustices that have occurred along with the alleged misrepresentation of God. We do not glory in the possibility that people are living in abusive situations under the guise of Chrisitian spirituality. I can't speak for the rest of the people, but I know who I am and in whom I believe. I am a Child of the King (Jesus). I owe to others not to stand back and watch them drown in the sea of humility, abuse, and utter despair. Nick, I am sure that you have asked yourself the same three questions. What are the answers? We have people who in the face of professional and personal harm to themselves and their families have spoken out against the negative issues at 3ABN. These negativies are hindering the work of the Lord. God's people cannot be silent unless God says so!

Posted by: princessdi Oct 18 2006, 02:53 PM

Yes, CSDA, that is quite serious. I am all for holding Danny responsible for his actions, hoever, I do not wish him ill will. I pray that he is well.

> QUOTE(caribbean sda @ Oct 18 2006, 12:28 PM)
>
> Regardless of how we feel about Danny Shelton, it is quite serious when a person gets kicked in the head by a horse. I hope all will be well with him in this regard. That must have hurt something fierce...

Posted by: Uncle Sam Oct 18 2006, 03:39 PM

Questions....
1. Do we ponder our lives before the almighty God in all this?
2. Who are we glorifying in all this?
3. Are we what we say we are?

I believe that some of the post have crossed the line. With that said, I believe our church turns a blind eye to situations such as these. There are many abuses going on in our churches and schools. Although, 3ABN is not "part of the church" they do claim to be SDA so they have a standard to uphold among our people. I believe 3ABN has done thier share of mud slinging. Does that make it right? No, but the internet it is just one outlet that people feel they can share with others. Sometimes people throw around "if you are a Christian" you wouldn't act like that that is not a fair assumption. Maybe we don't always act in a Christ like manner, maybe we say and do things we regret later but when we are hurt we don't always react in the best way. We all need to pray for each other instead of condemning, but we also need to hold our "leader" accountable. Maybe some day the church will have the courage to deal with these unjustices, not just with 3ABN but our schools and churches....

Posted by: PrincessDrRe Oct 18 2006, 05:58 PM

No one would dare question the donkey in the BIBLE - but you can best believe someone will question a horse on earth today.

I wish Danny the best and a full recovery. I also wonder why his horses keep attacking him....

Posted by: paleface Oct 18 2006, 06:31 PM

Some horses are very intelligent and they know how to use their "horse sense" to even the score when the need arises. I am not saying this may be the case, just been around horses most of my life. I have a great love and respect for them "four legged critters."

They have personalities like humans do, and a great big heart to match. A great education tool in love, trust, responsibility, and most devoted friend. They will not tell your most private secrets on you either.

(Now, Where can I find a pony or a rocking horse smilie when I need one?)

Posted by: Brother Sam Oct 18 2006, 08:01 PM

Interesting paleface

You have heard how Danny treats people.

What you haven't heard and only a few know is how cruel he is to his horses-maybe they are also starting to fight back.

Posted by: rwelchcrs Oct 18 2006, 08:09 PM

Nick,
Did you have the same questions for 3ABN when they were sending out negative information about Linda? Did that bother you?

Posted by: sister Oct 18 2006, 08:16 PM

> QUOTE(rwelchcrs @ Oct 18 2006, 09:09 PM)
>
> Nick,
> Did you have the same questions for 3ABN when they were sending out negative information about Linda? Did that bother you?

Excellent question, rwelchers.

So, Nick, what is your answer?

Posted by: sonshineonme Oct 18 2006, 08:20 PM

> QUOTE(Brother Sam @ Oct 18 2006, 07:01 PM)
>
> Interesting paleface
>
> You have heard how Danny treats people.
>
> What you haven't heard and only a few know is how cruel he is to his horses-maybe they are also starting to fight back.

This is why I said in my earlier post - the horse is initiating payback!

Posted by: paleface Oct 18 2006, 08:44 PM

Does Mr. Shelton know how to "shoe horses" or "trim their feet"? To be in a position to be kicked in the head is plausable. In other words what was Dan doing to the horse? If he had been standing up he would have gotten kicked "some place else."

I do not know about southern Ill. but, in these parts "The Humane Society" can remove all animals from the premises plus a heafty fine plus all abuse goes on your future record that you can not or limit the number of animals of ownership. 2n

Do horses have Guarding Angels too? I like to think they do.

Posted by: sonshineonme Oct 18 2006, 08:56 PM

> QUOTE(paleface @ Oct 18 2006, 07:44 PM)
>
> Does Mr. Shelton know how to "shoe horses" or "trim their feet"? To be in a position to be kicked in the head is plausable. In other words what was Dan doing to the horse? If he had been standing up he would have gotten kicked "some place else."
>
> I do not know about southern Ill. but, in these parts "The Humane Society" can remove all animals from the premises plus a heafty fine plus all abuse goes on your future record that you can not or limit the number of animals of ownership. 2n
>
> Do horses have Guarding Angels too? rofl rofl

Ok, Paleface...you seem to know some things I do. I know from a couple witness' that Dan has been hard on his horses, and that this is not the first time he has been injured by one of his horses. I mentioned to one of these witness about contacting the human society so they can "look into things" and it was quickly explained to me that in Franklin County, things are done a little differently...in other words, it would do no good. Now, I would still like to make the attempt to get things checked out, I'm sure that any marks on horses that shouldn't be there would certainly tell a tale of some kind....and of course, there are witnesses who could also testify to what they have seen Danny do to his horses (especially when he is mad). It's called NO MERCY.

Posted by: Uncle Sam Oct 18 2006, 09:10 PM

Come on, I am an animal person and own a horse, so I do have compassion for the animals if he is abusing them. But is this something that needs to be discussed here? It seems like "we" have run out of ligitimate things to discuss about him. I realize if a person abuses an animal it shows their character, but we have no proof that he is abusing the horses. If he got kicked in the head, it doesn't have to be an abusive situation.....accidents happen. Once again there are allegations with no proof. When if ever is there going to be proof of any of these allegations????

Posted by: sonshineonme Oct 18 2006, 09:17 PM

> QUOTE(Uncle Sam @ Oct 18 2006, 08:10 PM)
>
> Come on, I am an animal person and own a horse, so I do have compassion for the animals if he is abusing them. But is this something that needs to be discussed here? It seems like "we" have run out of ligitimate things to discuss about him. I realize if a person abuses an animal it shows their character, but we have no proof that he is abusing the horses. If he got kicked in the head, it doesn't have to be an abusive situation.....accidents happen. Once again there are allegations with no proof. When if ever is there going to be proof of any of these allegations????

We haven't run out of ligitimate things I'm afraid, it just happens that this is another case in point that's come about...and I can swear that when Sister posted her link about Dan's accident, she did not know about his "way" with animals...we see once again, once something is told, there are more sides to it then what appears....and if we want to find someone from the humane society to go out and look over the horses, then we can know if this occurance happend d/t some harsh treatment or not. We do have people and children who can tell what they have seen in the past....I would like to see that happen. I have no clue at this time how this accident happend, only what has happend in the past.

Posted by: Uncle Sam Oct 18 2006, 09:26 PM

If Danny is an animal abuser, is it only towards his horses? Fluffy didn't seem to be afraid of him?

Posted by: paleface Oct 18 2006, 09:26 PM

The abuse marks would be good evidence. I don't know if videoing with private video cameras is legal or not but on news TV, I notice the video can be used in a court room. Check with the "Investigators" for their input. They would know the "Points of Law" in a case like this. I do not.

Is Dan scared of the animals or is he ignorant on how to handle them by heavy handed abuse? Does he starve them by lac of feed or water? Hide his spurs!!!

I don't want to give anyone ideas, but I knew an old boy with a short fuse who was riding his horse out in the pasture. The horse did something that poped the old boys cork. The guy took out his 22 rifle out of the scabbord and shot that poor horse down between the ears. The guy had to walk a long ways back to the house to get his jeep to go drag the dead horse off of the saddle cinch and the bridle and go horse shopping the next sale day. That is the truth, I swear!

Posted by: sonshineonme Oct 18 2006, 09:38 PM

> QUOTE(Uncle Sam @ Oct 18 2006, 08:26 PM)
>
> If Danny is an animal abuser, is it only towards his horses? Fluffy didn't seem to be afraid of him?

I'll have to check, but seems I was told Fluffy went to live at the neighbors? I will double check on that....

> QUOTE(paleface @ Oct 18 2006, 08:26 PM)
>
> ....I don't want to give anyone ideas, but I knew an old boy with a short fuse who was riding his horse out in the pasture. The horse did something that poped the old boys cork. The guy took out his 22 rifle out of the scabbord and shot that poor horse down between the ears. The guy had to walk a long ways back to the house to get his jeep to go drag the dead horse off of the saddle cinch and the bridle and go horse shopping the next sale day. That is the truth, I swear!

This infuriates me.

Posted by: paleface Oct 18 2006, 09:48 PM

On my post #16 I misused the smiles with Guarding Angels and that was poor judgment on my part. I am sorry. I tried to Edit and it did not work for me. You may judge me as you seem fit.

> QUOTE(paleface @ Oct 18 2006, 08:44 PM)
>
> On my post #16 I misused the smiles with Guarding Angels and that was poor judgment on my part. I am sorry. I tried to Edit and it did not work for me. You may judge me as you seem fit.

I am sorry I offended you with my story.

Posted by: sonshineonme Oct 18 2006, 10:01 PM

[quote name='paleface' post='157400' date='Oct 18 2006, 08:48 PM']
On my post #16 I misused the smiles with Guarding Angels and that was poor judgment on my part. I am sorry. I tried to Edit and it did not work for me. You may judge me as you seem fit.
I am sorry I offended you with my story.
[/quote]

If you are speaking to me, you didn't offend me at all! I was speaking only to the way the man treated his horse out of anger....it's an awful story, but one that I'm sure has happened more times then then people know....

...and I see now which post you were referring too, and you did not offend me still - not sure why you might think you did, but no worries. I was noting that you mentioned about how horses act when possibly abused, etc.
[/quote]

Posted by: paleface Oct 18 2006, 10:33 PM

Thank you Sonshineonme for your reply.

I must realize my culture is different than most peoples. The reason for the story was to show the foolishness of 'the guy" for getting so angry at the horse in the first palce and especially so far from home. He had to walk all they way back needlessly in cowboy boots. OK

I have found in Num. 22:22-40 about Balaam and his donkey. I do remeber a verse or two about not to muzzel your Ox while harvesting? I am looking for other Bible scripture concerning the proper care of animals. I understand about the Red Heifer, the sheep or goat for a peace or fellowship offering and what they signify pointing to "The Lamb of GOD." How were the animals cared for in the High Priest's carrol and pastures? Were they treated like they belong to GOD or were they treated like common everyday animals?

Are these scriptures to be used as guidlines of how we, today should take care of our animals in our care?

Yes; No;

Posted by: Ralph Oct 19 2006, 12:08 PM

> QUOTE(Lee @ Oct 18 2006, 10:38 AM)
>
> I am thankful he wasn't hurt seriously. People get killed with these kinds of things.

Working with big animals has its downside. A vet in our county got kicked in the face and it was serious.

Posted by: Lee Oct 19 2006, 07:15 PM

DS is on tonight on 3ABN and has a neck brace on. He has bruises and looks quite beat up. He is fortunate to be alive. He told the story of how it happened.

Posted by: watchbird Oct 19 2006, 07:21 PM

> QUOTE(Lee @ Oct 19 2006, 09:15 PM)
>
> DS is on tonight on 3ABN and has a neck brace on. He has bruises and looks quite beat up. He is fortunate to be alive. He told the story of how it happened.

And that is?......

Posted by: summertime Oct 19 2006, 07:37 PM

> QUOTE(Uncle Sam @ Oct 18 2006, 09:26 PM) ☐
>
> If Danny is an animal abuser, is it only towards his horses? Fluffy didn't seem to be afraid of him?

Linda explained that when she had to leave, she moved to a trailer park where they only allowed for her to take one small dog. So Fluffy stayed with the people who had taken care of her when they had previously traveled. Danny had said on the set once (that I heard him) that he didn't like dogs because of the fleas. WHen they sat together on the front porch he would not sit by Fluffy. He did show up with her on the set once after Linda was gone and showed her off as a prop and said that she lived with a good family who had always loved her. He made it quite clear that he did not like animals who could possibly have fleas.

Posted by: Uncle Sam Oct 19 2006, 08:14 PM

He made it quite clear that he did not like animals who could possibly have fleas.
[/quote]

That is a stretch to say because you do not like fleas you are an animal abuser. Or even that you don't like animals. I know lots of people that prefer their pets to be outside.

Posted by: PrincessDrRe Oct 19 2006, 09:14 PM

> QUOTE(Uncle Sam @ Oct 19 2006, 09:14 PM) ☐
>
> He made it quite clear that he did not like animals who could possibly have fleas.
> That is a stretch to say because you do not like fleas you are an animal abuser. Or even that you don't like animals. I know lots of people that prefer their pets to be outside.

Okay - let's put it bluntly.

Danny has lied.
Danny has stretched the truth.

Why can't it be seen that he could have abused his horse?

Sorry - I don't know that many folks that have got kicked in the head/face that didn't have it somewhat coming.....

JMO. (raised in LA Country around horses, donkeys, and such....)

Posted by: sister Oct 19 2006, 10:02 PM

Tonight Mollie said that God spared Danny's life because of prayer and because Danny has a vision for 3ABN. But interestingly, she also said that 3ABN could go on without Danny. I, too, believe that God spared Danny's life, but perhaps for quite a different reason. If Danny had died he would have not have had to face the consequences of his actions in this life, of course, like each one of us he would still face God's judgement. In sparing his life, the Lord still allows Danny's victims the opportunity to face him in a court of law. Perhaps time served in a six by eight foot cell is what Danny requires in order to see his need to humble himself before the Lord, repent and make restitution. Incarceration is but a fleeting moment compared to eternal life with God...

Posted by: Lee Oct 19 2006, 11:10 PM

DS said he was shoeing the horse. It was tied up in such a way that it could not back up but only go forward. As it went forward, its foot hit DS on the left side of his face, the gash looked about 5 inches long. It just missed his left eye. The gash was vertical.

Then the horses foot moved back again and its foot hit him in the back of the neck area, hence the neck brace. His nose was swollen, his eyes were black and blue and he was really sore, he said. He said there was blood in his mouth also. It seemed to happen very fast. He said he was scheduled for an MRI tomorrow.

I've known several people who shoe horses for a living and there have been accidents such as this. Some animals are more lively than others.

Posted by: husbandoftheyear Oct 20 2006, 09:10 PM

> QUOTE(Uncle Sam @ Oct 18 2006, 10:26 PM)
>
> If Danny is an animal abuser, is it only towards his horses? Fluffy didn't seem to be afraid of him?

Dan Shelton HATED Fluffy and Fluffy knew it.

Posted by: sonshineonme Oct 20 2006, 10:33 PM

> QUOTE(husbandoftheyear @ Oct 20 2006, 08:10 PM)
>
> Dan Shelton HATED Fluffy and Fluffy knew it.

I have been told as much too.
Wonder what the horses think of him........

Posted by: Johann Oct 21 2006, 09:36 AM

> QUOTE(husbandoftheyear @ Oct 21 2006, 05:10 AM)
>
> Dan Shelton HATED Fluffy and Fluffy knew it.

Shelty also knew how DS hated him. It took me quite a while before Shelty would accept me when I visited Linda. DS called Shelty Wally.

Posted by: sonshineonme Oct 21 2006, 12:19 PM

> QUOTE(Johann @ Oct 21 2006, 08:36 AM) ☐
>
> Shelty also knew how DS hated him. It took me quite a while before Shelty would accept me when I visited Linda. DS called Shelty Wally.

Yes, that's right, Shelty became afraid because he did not like the loud tone of voice shouting at Linda. I have shelties too, and they are very sensitive dogs.

Posted by: husbandoftheyear Oct 21 2006, 08:29 PM

> QUOTE(Johann @ Oct 21 2006, 10:36 AM) ☐
>
> Shelty also knew how DS hated him. It took me quite a while before Shelty would accept me when I visited Linda. DS called Shelty Wally.

I believe that he called him Wally because they got the dog while in Walla Walla.

I also believe that Fluffy has since died and was buried by Larry Welch...I think.

Posted by: sister Oct 21 2006, 09:21 PM

> QUOTE(husbandoftheyear @ Oct 21 2006, 09:29 PM) ☐
>
> I believe that he called him Wally because they got the dog while in Walla Walla.
>
> I also believe that Fluffy has since died and was buried by Larry Welch...I think.

Larry Welch? Is that the same Larry Welch that is on the Board of 3ABN? Works in the pastoral department? His wife, Linda, works in the accounting department? And at times she has been known to stand at her desk all day rather than sitting because of a "bad back"? I believe that Danny knows the real reason for her pain... And he still has Larry on the 3ABN board? Which commandment deals with wife beaters?

Posted by: sonshineonme Oct 21 2006, 09:22 PM

> QUOTE(husbandoftheyear @ Oct 21 2006, 07:29 PM) ☐
>
> I believe that he called him Wally because they got the dog while in Walla Walla.
>
> I also believe that Fluffy has since died and was buried by Larry Welch...I think.

Yes, to be more specific, Linda's friend Joy found Shelty for her from a groomer in Cashmere and met up with Linda in Walla Walla right before a rally (this way Shelty didn't have to take that plane ride to IL) - Shelty was 10 weeks old and handed over to Linda in time to be on stage! Danny didn't like the name Shelty that Linda wanted, so he called him Wally. At least Shelty was allowed to be in the house (while Fluffy was still in the garage). Fluffy did pass, she was 16 and not well.

Posted by: husbandoftheyear Oct 24 2006, 06:25 AM

> QUOTE(sister @ Oct 21 2006, 10:21 PM) ☐
>
> Larry Welch? Is that the same Larry Welch that is on the Board of 3ABN? Works in the pastoral department? His wife, Linda, works in the accounting department? And at times she has been known to stand at her desk all day rather than sitting because of a "bad back"? I believe that Danny knows the real reason for her pain... And he still has Larry on the 3ABN board? Which commandment deals with wife beaters?

Yep - same one...

> QUOTE(sonshineonme @ Oct 21 2006, 10:22 PM) ☐
>
> Yes, to be more specific, Linda's friend Joy found Shelty for her from a groomer in Cashmere and met up with Linda in Walla Walla right before a rally (this way Shelty didn't have to take that plane ride to IL) - Shelty was 10 weeks old and handed over to Linda in time to be on stage! Danny didn't like the name Shelty that Linda wanted, so he called him Wally. At least Shelty was allowed to be in the house (while Fluffy was still in the garage). Fluffy did pass, she was 16 and not well.

Thanks for filling in the story. I knew it was something like this, but couldn't remember all the details.

Posted by: Johann Oct 26 2006, 09:03 PM

-----Original Message-----
From: Johann Thorvaldsson [mailto:Johann@direkte.org]
Sent: 26. október 2006 20:38
To: danshelton@earthlink.net
Subject: Horse sense

Danny, looks like one of your stallions tried to knock some horse sense into your head. Plain truth will soon hit you straight in the face much harder than that. Pray for mercy.

With compassion,

Johann

Posted by: SandyColorado Oct 27 2006, 08:17 AM

> QUOTE(Johann @ Oct 26 2006, 10:03 PM)
>
> -----Original Message-----
> From: Johann Thorvaldsson [mailto:Johann@direkte.org]
> Sent: 26. október 2006 20:38
> To: danshelton@earthlink.net
> Subject: Horse sense
>
> Danny, looks like one of your stallions tried to knock some horse sense into your head. Plain truth will soon hit you straight in the face much harder than that. Pray for mercy.
>
> With compassion,
>
> Johann

Whoa!!! You hit it right in the head where it hurts...

You are so right - let's pray that Danny is praying to the Lord for mercy and forgiveness for all of the pain that he has caused many people.

Posted by: nick Oct 27 2006, 02:58 PM

My point exactly!!!

I don't know Danny or Linda personally.

I have read both sides of the story here, with a strong lean towards Danny's guilt.

That strong lean have lead me to conclude that there may be some truth to the story, after some analysis.

But my three questions earlier, are a result of the non-christlike comments that over shadows almost every 3abn thread.

I understand that some of us have been personally affected by the events and I do understand the disgust that most of us sense toward Danny - professing to be a man of God;

but these are no reason for our comments here to reflect more of the devil than it does Christ.

Re-read your individual posts and ask yourself, wether it was God who prompted them or the dragon himself.

Am I saying that we should stick our head in the sand? Ofcourse not. I am simply saying that we may be no better than Danny.

In Christ.
Nick.

Posted by: justme Oct 27 2006, 09:21 PM

Hi nick,
I haven't seen you here before. Welcome! This forum is a "conversation" about many subjects and issues. This one is about 3ABN and how it has apparently changed since it's beginning.
Just a little background that may help ...

Due to the fact that 3ABN has had virtually total control over it's own publicity what we have known about the Sheltons and 3ABN have come to us from those involved in the leadership.

Another point is that Adventists have held dear the commission to "go into all the world and then the end shall come". We have looked forward to going home with Jesus and taking as many as possible with us.

During the months leading to the end of 2003 and in early 2004, we began to notice certain subtle changes in the programs coming from 3ABN. We also saw changes in the "structure" and leadership of 3ABN. Then when 3ABN held the Spring Camp Meeting we saw it played out quite dramatically.

At one point during a program Danny saw two men coming in the back of the auditorium and pointed his finger at them, called them "demons" and told "security" to get them off the premises. Then Danny became very agitated and turned to Mark Finley and told Mark to come and have a special prayer for God's protection.

Danny soon announced that Linda has decided to go another direction other than stay at 3ABN.

People in the know, people who had witnessed "Danny at work" around 3ABN knew that he has been planning to get rid of Linda during the previous year, but needed a "story" to justify it. Danny doesn't like people who have strong foreign accents and the two men who came in the back door did have such accents.

Many of us began to ask questions about what was going on at 3ABN, and what about Linda? We learned that Danny had been "seeing" another woman (Brandy), and Danny came up with the story that Linda had an affair with one of the two men, who happens to live in Norway, and who was the doctor who treated Linda's son for chemical addiction. Danny seized the opportunity to blame him.

As time went by, other individuals came forward to give their own personal accounts of abuse by Danny. Some of them have included offenses against children and employees by Danny's brothers, who are on the payroll at 3ABN.

Time marches on. More first-hand experiences come forth. The story widens in scope, includes "cover-ups" taking place in town, in the county, and in the local SDA "church", and then leads up to the local conference office.

Some of the posts in here have been from some of the victims who cannot hold back any longer, and who want 'justice' "swift and sure". Others realize the power that satellite broadcasting has and want to preserve the tool for further use by God. As more details are revealed about the Shelton Family and about 3ABN management and board, it becomes quite obvious that there are serious problems in the management and operation of 3ABN, and in the personal lives of the management and board.

3ABN is nothing more than a business that produces programs and plays over the satellite uplink other programs that buy time to have their programs sent by satellite and by certain localized Low-Power UHF stations. But because SDA's have a reputation for having a little extra money and they give it liberally for spreading the gospel, they have become easy targets for drawing funds from the SDA membership. Even to include tithe, which they make no excuses for, as 3ABN "thumbs their noses" at the disdain expressed by the SDA Church organization.

3ABN was a good source of Christian broadcasting as an "independent ministry" when it began. It really took off and became more popular and a great source of inspiration when the Vice President and Co-Founder of 3ABN started a new program called "Live". The best part of the program was when Linda sat at the "Porch" of the 3ABN "house" and fed and inspired us all with her "Gems of truth and inspiration".

Linda became the most popular part of 3ABN and it made certain people jealous. Danny became determined to get rid of her and manufactures the story about Linda and Dr. Abrahamsen having "Spiritual Adultery". That's when Danny struck a fatal blow at his own roots. Too many folks didn't 'buy it" and the investigation began. Many, many individuals who cannot tolerate deception and cover-up have begun their own research and investigations.

Some people are furious ad are willing to express it openly, under cover of anonymity. Danny has hurt may faithful souls by getting them fired from 3ABN and or fired from their next jobs by telling lies against them. Apparently Danny will stop at nothing to have his own way. He justifies all his own actions and ideas while calling himself a victim when truth is told about him.

Each one who posts on this or any other forum is an individual, with individual experiences with God. Some have been through the "valley of the shadow" and have survived. Some are still in the "valley", really hurting! We all know that Jesus died for every man, woman, and child. And we pray that God can reach those who have behaved so badly with children, with employees, and with God's holy funds. We have to be angry at what is happening but we must intercede for those who are blind to their own evil ways.

In this forum you will read that we do pray for Danny and his family that they will learn to trust God instead of "human inventions". AND we pray that God will have such a tool as the satellites to spread the "Good News".

Now we can see satellites being used without the "garbage" that surrounds its use. WE can see humble souls who are not trying to make their own families famous around the world.

The conversations will continue .. read the "PINNED" items at the top of "The SAGA of 3ABN" page. Read the "letters", the "The Evangelist", and you will see why so many are deeply concerned about the effect all this is having and will have upon Media Evangelism and its relationship to the General Conference of Seventh Day Adventists.

I hope we can keep in perspective the need to let some xepress their own hurts and for others to see the need for all of us to pray sincerely for the salvation of each soul everywhere, including those leading out at 3ABN.

Whether God continues to use 3ABN or not is beside the point. There other satellites program uplinks God can use. 3ABN is not indispensible.

There souls at 3ABN who are blind to themselves and they need Jesus in their lives as a personal Savior.

That's our job ... Pray, pray, pray ... for God's will to be done.

Posted by: Chez Oct 28 2006, 07:31 AM

> QUOTE(justme @ Oct 27 2006, 10:21 PM) ☐
>
> Hi nick,
> I haven't seen you here before. Welcome! This forum is a "conversation" about many subjects and issues. This one is about 3ABN and how it has apparently changed since it's beginning.
> Just a little background that may help ...
>
> Due to the fact that 3ABN has had virtually total control over it's own publicity what we have known about the Sheltons and 3ABN have come to us from those involved in the leadership.
>
> Another point is that Adventists have held dear the commission to "go into all the world and then the end shall come". We have looked forward to going home with Jesus and taking as many as possible with us.
>
> During the months leading to the end of 2003 and in early 2004, we began to notice certain subtle changes in the programs coming from 3ABN. We also saw changes in the "structure" and leadership of 3ABN. Then when 3ABN held the Spring Camp Meeting we saw it played out quite dramatically.
>
> At one point during a program Danny saw two men coming in the back of the auditorium and pointed his finger at them, called them "demons" and told "security" to get them off the premises. Then Danny became very agitated and turned to Mark Finley and told Mark to come and have a special prayer for God's protection.
>
> Danny soon announced that Linda has decided to go another direction other than stay at 3ABN.
>
> People in the know, people who had witnessed "Danny at work" around 3ABN knew that he has been planning to get rid of Linda during the previous year, but needed a "story" to justify it. Danny doesn't like people who have strong foreign accents and the two men who came in the back door did have such accents.
>
> Many of us began to ask questions about what was going on at 3ABN, and what about Linda? We learned that Danny had been "seeing" another woman (Brandy), and Danny came up with the story that Linda had an affair with one of the two men, who happens to live in Norway, and who was the doctor who treated Linda's son for chemical addiction. Danny seized the opportunity to blame him.
>
> As time went by, other individuals came forward to give their own personal accounts of abuse by Danny. Some of them have included offenses against children and employees by Danny's brothers, who are on the payroll at 3ABN.
>
> Time marches on. More first-hand experiences come forth. The story widens in scope, includes "cover-ups" taking place in town, in the county, and in the local SDA "church", and then leads up to the local conference office.
>
> Some of the posts in here have been from some of the victims who cannot hold back any longer, and who want 'justice' "swift and sure". Others realize the power that satellite broadcasting has and want to preserve the tool for further use by God. As more details are revealed about the Shelton Family and about 3ABN management and board, it becomes quite obvious that there are serious problems in the management and operation of 3ABN, and in the personal lives of the management and board.
>
> 3ABN is nothing more than a business that produces programs and plays over the satellite uplink other programs that buy time to have their programs sent by satellite and by certain localized Low-Power UHF stations. But because SDA's have a reputation for having a little extra money and they give it liberally for spreading the gospel, they have become easy targets for drawing funds from the > SDA membership. Even to include tithe, which they make no excuses for, as 3ABN "thumbs their noses" at the disdain expressed by the SDA Church organization.

>
> 3ABN was a good source of Christian broadcasting as an "independent ministry" when it began. It really took off and became more popular and a great source of inspiration when the Vice President and Co-Founder of 3ABN started a new program called "Live". The best part of the program was when Linda sat at the "Porch" of the 3ABN "house" and fed and inspired us all with her "Gems of truth and inspiration".
>
> Linda became the most popular part of 3ABN and it made certain people jealous. Danny became determined to get rid of her and manufactures the story about Linda and Dr. Abrahamsen having "Spiritual Adultery". That's when Danny struck a fatal blow at his own roots. Too many folks didn't 'buy it" and the investigation began. Many, many individuals who cannot tolerate deception and cover-up have begun their own research and investigations.
>
> Some people are furious ad are willing to express it openly, under cover of anonymity. Danny has hurt may faithful souls by getting them fired from 3ABN and or fired from their next jobs by telling lies against them. Apparently Danny will stop at nothing to have his own way. He justifies all his own actions and ideas while calling himself a victim when truth is told about him.
>
> Each one who posts on this or any other forum is an individual, with individual experiences with God. Some have been through the "valley of the shadow" and have survived. Some are still in the "valley", really hurting! We all know that Jesus died for every man, woman, and child. And we pray that God can reach those who have behaved so badly with children, with employees, and with God's holy funds. We have to be angry at what is happening but we must intercede for those who are blind to their own evil ways.
>
> In this forum you will read that we do pray for Danny and his family that they will learn to trust God instead of "human inventions". AND we pray that God will have such a tool as the satellites to spread the "Good News".
>
> Now we can see satellites being used without the "garbage" that surrounds its use. WE can see humble souls who are not trying to make their own families famous around the world.
>
> The conversations will continue .. read the "PINNED" items at the top of "The SAGA of 3ABN" page. Read the "letters", the "The Evangelist", and you will see why so many are deeply concerned about the effect all this is having and will have upon Media Evangelism and its relationship to the General Conference of Seventh Day Adventists.
>
> I hope we can keep in perspective the need to let some xepress their own hurts and for others to see the need for all of us to pray sincerely for the salvation of each soul everywhere, including those leading out at 3ABN.
>
> Whether God continues to use 3ABN or not is beside the point. There other satellites program uplinks God can use. 3ABN is not indispensible.
>
> There souls at 3ABN who are blind to themselves and they need Jesus in their lives as a personal Savior.
>
> That's our job ... Pray, pray, pray ... for God's will to be done.

Justme,

Excellent! Well said and well summarized. Thanks.

Chez

Posted by: nick Oct 28 2006, 11:05 AM

> QUOTE(justme @ Oct 28 2006, 03:21 AM) ☐
>
> Hi nick,
> I haven't seen you here before. Welcome! This forum is a "conversation" about many subjects and issues. This one is about 3ABN and how it has apparently changed since it's beginning.
> Just a little background that may help ...
>
> Due to the fact that 3ABN has had virtually total control over it's own publicity what we have known about the Sheltons and 3ABN have come to us from those involved in the leadership.
>
> Another point is that Adventists have held dear the commission to "go into all the world and then the end shall come". We have looked forward to going home with Jesus and taking as many as possible with us.
>
> During the months leading to the end of 2003 and in early 2004, we began to notice certain subtle changes in the programs coming from 3ABN. We also saw changes in the "structure" and leadership of 3ABN. Then when 3ABN held the Spring Camp Meeting we saw it played out quite dramatically.
>
> At one point during a program Danny saw two men coming in the back of the auditorium and pointed his finger at them, called them "demons" and told "security" to get them off the premises. Then Danny became very agitated and turned to Mark Finley and told Mark to come and have a special prayer for God's protection.
>
> Danny soon announced that Linda has decided to go another direction other than stay at 3ABN.
>
> People in the know, people who had witnessed "Danny at work" around 3ABN knew that he has been planning to get rid of Linda during the previous year, but needed a "story" to justify it. Danny doesn't like people who have strong foreign accents and the two men who came in the back door did have such accents.
>
> Many of us began to ask questions about what was going on at 3ABN, and what about Linda? We learned that Danny had been "seeing" another woman (Brandy), and Danny came up with the story that Linda had an affair with one of the two men, who happens to live in Norway, and who was the doctor who treated Linda's son for chemical addiction. Danny seized the opportunity to blame him.
>
> As time went by, other individuals came forward to give their own personal accounts of abuse by Danny. Some of them have included offenses against children and employees by Danny's brothers, who are on the payroll at 3ABN.
>
> Time marches on. More first-hand experiences come forth. The story widens in scope, includes "cover-ups" taking place in town, in the county, and in the local SDA "church", and then leads up to the local conference office.
>
> Some of the posts in here have been from some of the victims who cannot hold back any longer, and who want 'justice' "swift and sure". Others realize the power that satellite broadcasting has and want to preserve the tool for further use by God. As more details are revealed about the Shelton Family and about 3ABN management and board, it becomes quite obvious that there are serious problems in the management and operation of 3ABN, and in the personal lives of the management and board.
>
> 3ABN is nothing more than a business that produces programs and plays over the satellite uplink other programs that buy time to have their programs sent by satellite and by certain localized Low-Power UHF stations. But because SDA's have a reputation for having a little extra money and they > give it liberally for spreading the gospel, they have become easy targets for drawing funds from the SDA membership. Even to include tithe, which they make no excuses for, as 3ABN "thumbs their noses" at the disdain expressed by the SDA Church organization.

>
> 3ABN was a good source of Christian broadcasting as an "independent ministry" when it began. It really took off and became more popular and a great source of inspiration when the Vice President and Co-Founder of 3ABN started a new program called "Live". The best part of the program was when Linda sat at the "Porch" of the 3ABN "house" and fed and inspired us all with her "Gems of truth and inspiration".
>
> Linda became the most popular part of 3ABN and it made certain people jealous. Danny became determined to get rid of her and manufactures the story about Linda and Dr. Abrahamsen having "Spiritual Adultery". That's when Danny struck a fatal blow at his own roots. Too many folks didn't 'buy it" and the investigation began. Many, many individuals who cannot tolerate deception and cover-up have begun their own research and investigations.
>
> Some people are furious ad are willing to express it openly, under cover of anonymity. Danny has hurt may faithful souls by getting them fired from 3ABN and or fired from their next jobs by telling lies against them. Apparently Danny will stop at nothing to have his own way. He justifies all his own actions and ideas while calling himself a victim when truth is told about him.
>
> Each one who posts on this or any other forum is an individual, with individual experiences with God. Some have been through the "valley of the shadow" and have survived. Some are still in the "valley", really hurting! We all know that Jesus died for every man, woman, and child. And we pray that God can reach those who have behaved so badly with children, with employees, and with God's holy funds. We have to be angry at what is happening but we must intercede for those who are blind to their own evil ways.
>
> In this forum you will read that we do pray for Danny and his family that they will learn to trust God instead of "human inventions". AND we pray that God will have such a tool as the satellites to spread the "Good News".
>
> Now we can see satellites being used without the "garbage" that surrounds its use. WE can see humble souls who are not trying to make their own families famous around the world.
>
> The conversations will continue .. read the "PINNED" items at the top of "The SAGA of 3ABN" page. Read the "letters", the "The Evangelist", and you will see why so many are deeply concerned about the effect all this is having and will have upon Media Evangelism and its relationship to the General Conference of Seventh Day Adventists.
>
> I hope we can keep in perspective the need to let some xepress their own hurts and for others to see the need for all of us to pray sincerely for the salvation of each soul everywhere, including those leading out at 3ABN.
>
> Whether God continues to use 3ABN or not is beside the point. There other satellites program uplinks God can use. 3ABN is not indispensible.
>
> There souls at 3ABN who are blind to themselves and they need Jesus in their lives as a personal Savior.
>
> That's our job ... Pray, pray, pray ... for God's will to be done.

Thanx for the summary.
I am not new to bsda. Just haven't posted too much on the 3abn threads. I have done a fair amount of reading to have an idea of what is going on and as I said in my earlier posts I do understand the anguish and longing for wrongs to be made right.

My gripe is with the maliciousness appearances that peer through our posts. Some, even with comments that we ought to be ashamed of. 'Be angry and sin not', I believe that's what the good book says.

We need to be mindful that we are not the only ones who frequent this website; it leaves an impression on the minds of others of what we really are (which may very well be wrong).

In Christ

Nick.

Posted by: no_cults Oct 28 2006, 11:25 AM

> QUOTE(nick @ Oct 27 2006, 03:58 PM)
>
> My point exactly!!!
>
> I don't know Danny or Linda personally.
>
> I have read both sides of the story here, with a strong lean towards Danny's guilt.
>
> That strong lean have lead me to conclude that there may be some truth to the story, after some analysis.
>
> But my three questions earlier, are a result of the non-christlike comments that over shadows almost every 3abn thread.
>
> I understand that some of us have been personally affected by the events and I do understand the disgust that most of us sense toward Danny - professing to be a man of God;
>
> but these are no reason for our comments here to reflect more of the devil than it does Christ.
>
> Re-read your individual posts and ask yourself, wether it was God who prompted them or the dragon himself.
>
> Am I saying that we should stick our head in the sand? Ofcourse not. I am simply saying that we may be no better than Danny.
>
> In Christ.
> Nick.

In case you didn't know -- None of us are "better" than Danny.

Posted by: Just a Guy Oct 28 2006, 01:02 PM

> QUOTE(sister @ Oct 21 2006, 10:21 PM)

> Larry Welch? Is that the same Larry Welch that is on the Board of 3ABN? Works in the pastoral department? His wife, Linda, works in the accounting department? And at times she has been known to stand at her desk all day rather than sitting because of a "bad back"? I believe that Danny knows the real reason for her pain... And he still has Larry on the 3ABN board? Which commandment deals with wife beaters?

That is a really strong accusation you have made there. Unless Linda Welch herself has confided in you, anything you say is just conjecture and in extremely poor taste. It makes me question the truth of anything you have said.

Posted by: Clay Oct 28 2006, 01:37 PM

as Calvin said earlier somewhere.... he has taken the most damaging shots and is still standing.... 3ABN is still rolling along... it will be interesting to see what happens now....

Posted by: sister Oct 28 2006, 04:02 PM

> QUOTE(Just a Guy @ Oct 28 2006, 02:02 PM) ☐
>
> That is a really strong accusation you have made there. Unless Linda Welch herself has confided in you, anything you say is just conjecture and in extremely poor taste. It makes me question the truth of anything you have said.

It is not conjecture...

Posted by: fallible humanbeing Oct 29 2006, 09:48 PM

> QUOTE(sister @ Oct 28 2006, 06:02 PM) ☐
>
> It is not conjecture...

Linda, sister

What proof do you have to offer that it is not conjecture? Again, as was pointed out a few posts ago, these are strong charges for which no one has offered anything resembling any kind of proof of fact.

- fhb

Posted by: sonshineonme Oct 29 2006, 09:53 PM

> QUOTE(fallible humanbeing @ Oct 29 2006, 08:48 PM) ☐

> Linda, sister
>
> What proof do you have to offer that it is not conjecture? Again, as was pointed out a few posts ago, these are strong charges for which no one has offered anything resembling any kind of proof of fact.
>
> - fhb

Linda???

Posted by: watchbird Oct 29 2006, 10:02 PM

> QUOTE(Just a Guy @ Oct 28 2006, 02:02 PM)
>
> That is a really strong accusation you have made there. Unless Linda Welch herself has confided in you, anything you say is just conjecture and in extremely poor taste. It makes me question the truth of anything you have said.

> QUOTE(sister @ Oct 28 2006, 05:02 PM)
>
> It is not conjecture...

> QUOTE(fallible humanbeing @ Oct 29 2006, 10:48 PM)
>
> Linda, sister
>
> What proof do you have to offer that it is not conjecture? Again, as was pointed out a few posts ago, these are strong charges for which no one has offered anything resembling any kind of proof of fact.
>
> - fhb

Your statements do not make sense in the light of the dialogue which preceded your statement.

Just a Guy stated "Unless Linda Welch herself has confided in you anything you say is just conjecture."

When Sister responded as she did, I understood her to be stating that Linda W had confided in her. Now you are asking for "proof"? Are you then accusing Sister of lying as to what was "confided in her"? Or are you accusing Linda W as lying when she "confided in Sister"? Either one seems to me to be out of bounds in this venue.

And btw ... why did you address your note to "Linda, sister"? THAT makes no sense at all!

Posted by: watchbird Oct 29 2006, 10:15 PM

> QUOTE(Clay @ Oct 28 2006, 02:37 PM)
>
> as Calvin said earlier somewhere.... he has taken the most damaging shots and is still standing.... 3ABN is still rolling along... it will be interesting to see what happens now....

OTOH..... maybe the most damaging shots are still to come. Or possibly he will be "cut down without [human] hands"..... God has not yet exhausted all of his arsenal against evil-doers....

Posted by: fallible humanbeing Oct 29 2006, 10:17 PM

> QUOTE(watchbird @ Oct 30 2006, 12:02 AM)
>
> Your statements do not make sense in the light of the dialogue which preceded your statement.
>
> Just a Guy stated "Unless Linda Welch herself has confided in you anything you say is just conjecture."
>
> When Sister responded as she did, I understood her to be stating that Linda W had confided in her. Now you are asking for "proof"? Are you then accusing Sister of lying as to what was "confided in her"? Or are you accusing Linda W as lying when she "confided in Sister"? Either one seems to me to be out of bounds in this venue.
>
> And btw ... why did you address your note to "Linda, sister"? THAT makes no sense at all!

First, my "Linda" greeting was based on the fact I believe "sister" to be either Linda Shelton herself, or the mouthpiece for Linda Shelton. My belief after reading these threads for a few months and seeing consistencies in her syntax and colloquialisms that appeared during her years on 3ABN is that there are too much similarity to believe there isn't a very close and direct connnection between "sister" and Linda S. Simply my opinon don't bother trying to prove me wrong.

Secondly, the fact that "sister" says it "isn't" conjecture is proof of absolutely nothing - it is no more than a statement by a third party. Additionally, the fact that "sister" makes a statement doesn't mean that Linda W. confided in her - for you to jump to that conclusion isn't logical. Why would you assume that simply because "sister" says something, this means that Linda W. did actually confide in her? Unless, maybe Linda Shelton is "sister" in which case Linda W. might very well have had a chance to confide in her. So to continue in that vein, if Linda S. is "sister" and Linda W. did confide in her then you have something that really matters. But, none of this connects so as it stands the posts are all conjecture about any malicious behavior on Larry W. part. Which very well may be slanderous.

I didn't say any where that Linda W. lied because I don't believe Linda W. ever spoke with "sister." And, yes, I do not believe "sister" has been confided in by Linda W. - I have nothing to base such a belief on at this point.

However, I am sure you will claim that there is no connection between "sister" and Linda S, so we are back to this being conjecture and everyone having to take the word of "sister" that she speaks the truth.

- fhb

Posted by: princessdi Oct 29 2006, 10:29 PM

FHB, if I am not mistaken tyou got quite huffy wirh folks who said you were Danny or were his mouthpiece. I just know you are not trying to acuse somebody else of the same thing?

> QUOTE(fallible humanbeing @ Oct 29 2006, 08:17 PM) ☐
>
> First, my "Linda" greeting was based on the fact I believe "sister" to be either Linda Shelton herself, or the mouthpiece for Linda Shelton. My belief after reading for a few months and seeing consistancies in her syntax and colloquialisms that appeared during her years on 3ABN. Simly my opinon don't bother trying to prove me wrong.
>
> Secondly, the fact that "sister" says it isn't conjecture is proof of absolutely nothing - it is no more than a statement by a third party. Additionally, the fact that "sister" makes a statement doesn't mean that Linda W. confided in her - for you to jump to that conclusion isn't logical. Why would you assume that simply because "sister" says something this means that Linda W. did actually confide in her? Unless, maybe Linda Shelton is "sister" in which case Linda W. might very well have had a chance to confide in her. So to continue in that vein, if Linda S. is "sister" and Linda W. did confide in her then you have something that really matters. But, none of this connects so as it stands the posts are all conjecture about any malicious behavior on Larry W. part.
>
> However, I am sure you will claim that there is no connection between "sister" and Linda S, so we are back to this being conjecture and everyone having to take the word of "sister" that she speaks the truth.
>
> - fhb

Posted by: sonshineonme Oct 29 2006, 10:30 PM

> QUOTE(fallible humanbeing @ Oct 29 2006, 09:17 PM) ☐
>
> First, my "Linda" greeting was based on the fact I believe "sister" to be either Linda Shelton herself, or the mouthpiece for Linda Shelton. My belief after reading for a few months and seeing consistancies in her syntax and colloquialisms that appeared during her years on 3ABN. Simly my opinon don't bother trying to prove me wrong.
>
> However, I am sure you will claim that there is no connection between "sister" and Linda S, so we are back to this being conjecture and everyone having to take the word of "sister" that she speaks the truth.
>
> - fhb

I will assume that you won't believe me, but as for Linda S = Sister, you could not be more wrong. Of course, Danny believes they are one in the same, but he is also DEAD WRONG. The only connection between them, because like many people who have been part of 3abn thru the years, is that sister know's both Linda and Danny. That is the only connection.

Posted by: fallible humanbeing Oct 29 2006, 10:39 PM

> QUOTE(princessdi @ Oct 30 2006, 12:29 AM) ☐
>
> FHB, if I am not mistaken tyou got quite huffy wirh folks who said you were Danny or were his mouthpiece. I just know you are not trying to acuse somebody else of the same thing?

Oh so true PD. I won't argue that there was a little smoke from my ear (I hope it is obvious I have calmed down since), but that was after one post. I have arrived at my thought - be it correct or incorrect - after reading MANY postings by "sister" and taking them en masse before making a decision on this. I think had those who rushed to judgement with me waited they would have seen much difference in my words from Danny, not to mention syntax, colloquialism, and structure - and though realizing that I do not pitch my tent in the Linda S. camp I am not Danny nor someone in his or 3ABN's employ.

- fhb

Posted by: princessdi Oct 29 2006, 10:56 PM

Naw, many posts later, I still think you are Danny's mouthpiece, but I "respected" your denials and let time tell.

> QUOTE(fallible humanbeing @ Oct 29 2006, 08:39 PM) ☐
>
> Oh so true PD. I won't argue that there was a little smoke from my ear (I hope it is obvious I have calmed down since), but that was after one post. I have arrived at my thought - be it correct or incorrect - after reading MANY postings by "sister" and taking them en masse before making a decision on this. I think had those who rushed to judgement with me waited they would have seen much difference in my words from Danny, not to mention syntax, colloquialism, and structure - and though realizing that I do not pitch my tent in the Linda S. camp I am not Danny nor someone in his or 3ABN's employ.
>
> - fhb

Posted by: fallible humanbeing Oct 29 2006, 11:06 PM

> QUOTE(princessdi @ Oct 30 2006, 12:56 AM) ☐
>
> Naw, many posts later, I still think you are Danny's mouthpiece, but I "respected" your denials and let time tell.

Then as wrong as I may be about sister, you are the same about me . . . thus we are equals. Oh yes, I show no disrespect - I simply exercise my right to make a determination as you have about me. BTW, it was the first reply to me that called me Danny and I followed with my denial.

But all this is nothing in terms of what matters - the outright accusation that an individual has committed assult agaianst his wife - with no substantiating proof, or proof of any kind at this point.

- fhb

Posted by: Ralph Oct 29 2006, 11:16 PM

> QUOTE(fallible humanbeing @ Oct 29 2006, 09:48 PM) ☐
>
> Linda, sister

Are you sure that the reason you wrote the above was not to try to get sister to give little hint as to her true identity? It is a shame to have to disappoint you again. Of course, you can try pairing another and then another set of names.

Posted by: princessdi Oct 29 2006, 11:24 PM

Wrong again, fhb. i, or to my knowledge nobody else, has yet to address a post to you, "Danny, FHB".

Now to the other issues. yourprovded the choices as to what you would exect her word,a nd that still was not good enough for you. So, I just think no matter what Danny adn his crew will be faultess opr their sins a necessary evil, in your eyes, as long as you think 3ABN is "reaching souls", and "spreading the Gospel".

> QUOTE(fallible humanbeing @ Oct 29 2006, 09:06 PM) ☐
>
> Then as wrong as I may be about sister, you are the same about me . . . thus we are equals. Oh yes, I show no disrespect - I simply exercise my right to make a determination as you have about me. BTW, it was the first reply to me that called me Danny and I followed with my denial.
>
> But all this is nothing in terms of what matters - the outright accusation that an individual has committed assult agaianst his wife - with no substantiating proof, or proof of any kind at this point.
>
> - fhb

Posted by: Ralph Oct 30 2006, 12:28 AM

> QUOTE(fallible humanbeing @ Oct 29 2006, 11:06 PM) ☐

> But all this is nothing in terms of what matters - the outright accusation that an individual has committed assult agaianst his wife - with no substantiating proof, or proof of any kind at this point.
>
> - fhb

Since you state that you do not work for 3abn, I do not consider your word as credible as the words of people who worked with Linda and Danny and actually saw and heard what was going on.

Unfortunately, when we think of assault, often we only think of a person being knocked around. Since I live thousands of miles away, I did not see that happen, but I can testify that there has been verbal assault by statements made on TV and assault heaped on Linda through the printed news letters. Maybe this wouldn't bother you, but I believe that many women who read these sentences will agree that verbal assault bruises the spirit and does incredible damage to a person's psyche. I challenge you to tell me that this did not happen.

Posted by: Fran Oct 30 2006, 12:35 AM

> QUOTE(Ralph @ Oct 30 2006, 12:28 AM) ☐
>
> Since you state that you do not work for 3abn, I do not consider your word as credible as the words of people who worked with Linda and Danny and actually saw and heard what was going on.
>
> Unfortunately, when we think of assault, often we only think of a person being knocked around. Since I live thousands of miles away, I did not see that happen, but I can testify that there has been verbal assault by statements made on TV and assault heaped on Linda through the printed news letters. Maybe this wouldn't bother you, but I believe that many women who read these sentences will agree that verbal assault bruises the spirit and does incredible damage to a person's psyche. I challenge you to tell me that this did not happen.

Thank you, Ralph. You do understand!

Posted by: sister Oct 30 2006, 01:20 AM

Danny Shelton has made the following statement to a number of individuals, "I know Sister is Linda and I have PROOF."

☒ ☒ rofl ☒ ☒ rofl ☒ ☒ rofl

Looking in my mirror and seeing my own face, I have only one comment: If Danny's "proof" in regard to other issues is of the same caliber as his "proof" that Sister is Linda, than he truly is factually challenged. Growing up in my parents home we would have gotten the switch for telling such whoppers.

☒ bot I can state with all honesty that the little pink bottom getting a whupping is definitely not mine...

Posted by: Clay Oct 30 2006, 02:03 AM

> QUOTE(watchbird @ Oct 29 2006, 10:15 PM)
>
> OTOH..... maybe the most damaging shots are still to come. Or possibly he will be "cut down without [human] hands"..... God has not yet exhausted all of his arsenal against evil-doers....

so you say..... time will tell.....

Posted by: Observer Oct 30 2006, 07:08 AM

Re: "Unfortunately, when we think of assault, often we only think of a person being knocked around."

What you describe, in the United States, is Battery. Assult is threatening someone.

That is why people are often charged with "assult and battery.

Pointing a knife, or a firearm, at someone in a threating manner, is assult. Using it is another crime. Criminal assult may be verbal, or by other means.

Posted by: Ralph Oct 30 2006, 10:50 AM

> QUOTE(Observer @ Oct 30 2006, 07:08 AM)
>
> Re: "Unfortunately, when we think of assault, often we only think of a person being knocked around."
>
> What you describe, in the United States, is Battery. Assult is threatening someone.
>
> That is why people are often charged with "assult and battery.
> Pointing a knife, or a firearm, at someone in a threating manner, is assult. Using it is another crime. Criminal assult may be verbal, or by other means.

Right on, Observer. I am glad that you clearly differentiated between the two words. When I wrote the previous note, I did so with the assumtion that FHB meant "battery" when he talked of "assault. It would be interesting to know how many other people were unaware of the difference.

Posted by: PrincessDrRe Oct 30 2006, 08:30 PM

> QUOTE(sister @ Oct 30 2006, 03:20 AM)
>
> Danny Shelton has made the following statement to a number of individuals, "I know Sister is Linda and I have PROOF."
>
> ☒ ☒ rofl ☒ ☒ rofl ☒ ☒ rofl

> Looking in my mirror and seeing my own face, I have only one comment: If Danny's "proof" in regard to other issues is of the same caliber as his "proof" that Sister is Linda, than he truly is factually challenged. Growing up in my parents home we would have gotten the switch for telling such whoppers.
>
> ☒ bot I can state with all honesty that the little pink bottom getting a whupping is definitely not mine...

I'm sure you know who you are - if Danny wanna make you ....um Linda - and you ain't "Linda" then don't fret none....

Posted by: husbandoftheyear Oct 31 2006, 05:57 PM

It's odd that FHB could study Linda's mannerisms while at the same time admitting that he doesn't watch 3ABN and doesn't know much about the programming...

Posted by: fallible humanbeing Oct 31 2006, 09:23 PM

> QUOTE(Ralph @ Oct 30 2006, 02:28 AM) ☐
>
> Since you state that you do not work for 3abn, I do not consider your word as credible as the words of people who worked with Linda and Danny and actually saw and heard what was going on.

This "rule" doesn't seem to apply universally here . . . hhhmmm.

-fhb

> QUOTE(sister @ Oct 30 2006, 03:20 AM) ☐
>
> Danny Shelton has made the following statement to a number of individuals, "I know Sister is Linda and I have PROOF."
>
> Looking in my mirror and seeing my own face, I have only one comment: If Danny's "proof" in regard to other issues is of the same caliber as his "proof" that Sister is Linda, than he truly is factually challenged. Growing up in my parents home we would have gotten the switch for telling such whoppers.

Okay so you claim not to be Linda S. Then you are by proxy Linda, taking the words she sends you and posting them. I have not found a notation in any of your postings where you indicate how you would know all of the information you have provided - including salaries.

But, I guess that really isn't of consequence - whether you are Linda, her proxy or not - the point is I asked if there is solid evidence (other than your declarative) that the charges were not "conjecture."

- fhb

Posted by: husbandoftheyear Oct 31 2006, 10:14 PM

> QUOTE(fallible humanbeing @ Oct 31 2006, 10:23 PM) ☐
>
> the point is I asked if there is solid evidence (other than your declarative) that the charges were not "conjecture."
>
> - fhb

What would serve as proof-enough for you? Would pictures suffice - because those can be created. What about a tape recorder of an admission by Lynda or Larry - I assume it could be considered a fake.

Unless there is a well-lit, well-shot, well-verified video filmed by professional outside sources of the actual abuse taking place, you aren't going to get "solid evidence" for the crime.

Posted by: fallible humanbeing Oct 31 2006, 10:36 PM

> QUOTE(husbandoftheyear @ Nov 1 2006, 12:14 AM) ☐
>
> What would serve as proof-enough for you? Would pictures suffice - because those can be created. What about a tape recorder of an admission by Lynda or Larry - I assume it could be considered a fake.
>
> Unless there is a well-lit, well-shot, well-verified video filmed by professional outside sources of the actual abuse taking place, you aren't going to get "solid evidence" for the crime.

Is there or isn't there? If there isn't then it is heresay and/or conjecture, possibly bordering on slander.

What about a sworn affidavit and coroborating testimony?

- fhb

Posted by: sister Oct 31 2006, 10:48 PM

> QUOTE(fallible humanbeing @ Oct 31 2006, 10:23 PM) ☐
>
> This "rule" doesn't seem to apply universally here . . . hhhmmm.
>
> -fhb
> Okay so you claim not to be Linda S. Then you are by proxy Linda, taking the words she sends you and posting them. I have not found a notation in any of your postings where you indicate how you > would know all of the information you have provided - including salaries.

>
> But, I guess that really isn't of consequence - whether you are Linda, her proxy or not - the point is I asked if there is solid evidence (other than your declarative) that the charges were not "conjecture."
>
> - fhb

Again you are fallible in your assumptions, as your name implies... I am neither Linda or Linda's proxy. Linda Shelton has never sent me anything to post on BSDA. Everything I have posted here are my own writings, completely, not influenced by Linda Shelton or a paraphrase of any writings received from Linda Shelton---for I have never received such as you contend. So, it is only your opinion based upon false reasoning.

As to how I know all the information I have provided, isn't it obvious? Like a few others who have posted here, I have first hand experience with 3ABN and Danny Shelton. But I believe that you have questioned me before about this subject, and if not you, others have asked before you. Read the threads... they will answer your questions.

To answer your latter question, the charges were not conjecture. I have already made that point clear. You may choose to believe me or not, it doesn't change the facts. Like HOTY, I do not believe that any evidence I could supply would satisfy you.

> QUOTE(fallible humanbeing @ Oct 31 2006, 11:36 PM) ☐
>
> Is there or isn't there? If there isn't then it is heresay and/or conjecture, possibly bordering on slander.
>
> What about a sworn affidavit and coroborating testimony?
>
> - fhb

I find the tenacity with which you pursue this particular topic to appear as a rather extreme response for someone without a vested interest. It makes one wonder... Could fallible humanbeing be Larry Welch? Why such interest? And why the desire to see the proof in this particular situation? Especially when you claim not to be familiar with the staff at 3ABN...

Posted by: fallible humanbeing Oct 31 2006, 11:02 PM

> QUOTE(sister @ Nov 1 2006, 12:40 AM) ☐
>
> Again you are fallible in your assumptions, as your name implies... I am neither Linda or Linda's proxy. Linda Shelton has never sent me anything to post on BSDA. Everything I have posted here are my own writings, completely, not influenced by Linda Shelton or a paraphrase of any writings received from Linda Shelton---for I have never received such as you contend. So, it is only your > opinion based upon false reasoning.

>
> As to how I know all the information I have provided, isn't it obvious? Like a few others who have posted here, I have first hand experience with 3ABN and Danny Shelton. But I believe that you have questioned me before about this subject, and if not you, others have asked before you. Read the threads... they will answer your questions.
>
> To answer your latter question, the charges were not conjecture. I have already made that point clear. You may choose to believe me or not, it doesn't change the facts. Like HOTY, I do not believe that any evidence I could supply would satisfy you.

So let me understand this, your statement that it isn't conjecture is all anyone needs - nothing else is necessary? "Sister" says it isn't conjecture - therefore it isn't. I can't see that holding much weight with other than the faithful here.

A request for supportive evidence - something that will make your word credible - is off limits, or so it would seem as you keep avoiding this.

- fhb

> QUOTE(sister @ Nov 1 2006, 12:48 AM) ☐
>
> I find the tenacity with which you pursue this particular topic to appear as a rather extreme response for someone without a vested interest. It makes one wonder... Could fallible humanbeing be Larry Welch? Why such interest? And why the desire to see the proof in this particular situation? Especially when you claim not to be familiar with the staff at 3ABN...

Shall I post a series of laughing smiley faces to make my point? Interesting how there is so much written to claim you are not Linda S. or her proxy and yet, as you did once before in suggesting I was Danny because I requested more than your word, you suggest I am Larry W. So for all the guests reading this - nope, I am not Danny, nor am I Larry. And, isn't Larry a member of the board as opposed to an employee of 3ABN (at least that is the way I find in print.)

Again, your word isn't substantial enough for me, and possibly more who read here - either there is a way to substantiate your word, or there isn't. If there is and your claim is supported and verifiable then there is a issue needing redress. However, if there isn't then it would seem another red herring in an attempt to continue casting aspersions on the people at 3ABN.

Can you or can you not substantiate your accusations? And if you can but choose to keep it reserved, for whatever reason, how is that different than 3ABN saying it has "evidence" but refusing to share it with everyone who requests it?

- fhb

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Nov 1 2006, 11:40 PM

> QUOTE(fallible humanbeing @ Oct 31 2006, 10:02 PM) ☐
>
> So let me understand this, your statement that it isn't conjecture is all anyone needs - nothing else is necessary? "Sister" says it isn't conjecture - therefore it isn't. I can't see that holding much weight with other than the faithful here.

> A request for supportive evidence - something that will make your word credible - is off limits, or so it would seem as you keep avoiding this.
>
> - fhb
> Shall I post a series of laughing smiley faces to make my point? Interesting how there is so much written to claim you are not Linda S. or her proxy and yet, as you did once before in suggesting I was Danny because I requested more than your word, you suggest I am Larry W. So for all the guests reading this - nope, I am not Danny, nor am I Larry. And, isn't Larry a member of the board as opposed to an employee of 3ABN (at least that is the way I find in print.)
>
> Again, your word isn't substantial enough for me, and possibly more who read here - either there is a way to substantiate your word, or there isn't. If there is and your claim is supported and verifiable then there is a issue needing redress. However, if there isn't then it would seem another red herring in an attempt to continue casting aspersions on the people at 3ABN.
>
> Can you or can you not substantiate your accusations? And if you can but choose to keep it reserved, for whatever reason, how is that different than 3ABN saying it has "evidence" but refusing to share it with everyone who requests it?
>
> - fhb

The lengthy silence after this back-and-forth is somewhat puzzling to me. FHB, you make some solid points here.

I believe that if there is not first-hand knowledge of an assault, reporting it is merely hearsay and would tend to make a thoughtful person wonder about motive. To ask others to accept it as fact without "substantiation" should only work with those who have a certain amount of gullability.

When I first started reading and posting here I innocently pushed somebody's paranoia button with a question and was swiftly accused of possibly being Danny Shelton. It caused me to giggle and brought a slightly more off-color reaction from my husband. It also caused me, as someone seriously and honestly looking for the truth in this situation, quite a bit of concern about the spirit that sometimes lashes out here.

The words we use are so important. Proverbs 19:9 says:

"A false witness will not go unpunished, and he who pours out lies will perish."

I'm not accusing anyone of lying or bearing false witness. I feel confident that some things I have learned here are truthful. There are other things I'm not sure of because there isn't any substantiation. There are conclusions that have been drawn that I don't think are supported by the evidence given. Thought is an individual process. What is wrong with that?

Posted by: sister Nov 2 2006, 11:48 AM

> QUOTE(fallible humanbeing @ Nov 1 2006, 12:02 AM)
>
> So let me understand this, your statement that it isn't conjecture is all anyone needs - nothing else is necessary? "Sister" says it isn't conjecture - therefore it isn't. I can't see that holding much weight with other than the faithful here.
>
> A request for supportive evidence - something that will make your word credible - is off limits, or so it would seem as you keep avoiding this.

> - fhb
> Shall I post a series of laughing smiley faces to make my point? Interesting how there is so much written to claim you are not Linda S. or her proxy and yet, as you did once before in suggesting I was Danny because I requested more than your word, you suggest I am Larry W. So for all the guests reading this - nope, I am not Danny, nor am I Larry. And, isn't Larry a member of the board as opposed to an employee of 3ABN (at least that is the way I find in print.)
>
> Again, your word isn't substantial enough for me, and possibly more who read here - either there is a way to substantiate your word, or there isn't. If there is and your claim is supported and verifiable then there is a issue needing redress. However, if there isn't then it would seem another red herring in an attempt to continue casting aspersions on the people at 3ABN.
>
> Can you or can you not substantiate your accusations? And if you can but choose to keep it reserved, for whatever reason, how is that different than 3ABN saying it has "evidence" but refusing to share it with everyone who requests it?
>
> - fhb

1. I do not believe that you are Danny, nor have I ever seriously entertained that as a possibility, I know Danny's writing style and it is not the same as yours.

2. You are incorrect about Larry Welch, he is both an employee at 3ABN for many years and a member of the 3ABN Board. His current position is in the pastoral department, which you can verify quite easily on the 3ABN website. His 3ABN salary for 2005 was $40,989.00 not including perks. His salary is greater than the salary of Johnny Dinzey, head of the pastoral department and manager of 3ABN Latino and Larry is merely a member of the pastoral department. Larry Welch's salary has been stable at around $40,000.00 for a number of years, which is far above that of the average 3ABN employee (circa $15,000.00 per year). Why?

3. As far as the information concerning spousal abuse that came directly from the victim. If she chooses to substantiate what she has said privately in a signed affidavit it is her choice. As fas as corroborating testimony goes, who invites a third person to witness the abuse of their spouse? That only leaves the abuser for corroboration. I am certain that those familiar with spousal abuse will agree that the abuser seldom, if ever, is willing to claim responsibility for their actions.

Posted by: Ralph Nov 2 2006, 01:31 PM

> QUOTE(Fran @ Oct 30 2006, 12:35 AM) ☐
>
> Thank you, Ralph. You do understand!

You are very welcome, Fran. I know a lot and I care a lot. I am one of the guys in the trenches who is often the primary responder when a woman looks for help. Just last night I had a call from a woman who had to leave home. I listened to her story through her sobs. I know the basic script for I have heard it told so often, but she needed to talk. She needed to know that I was a safe person and she needed affirmation that her decision to leave was correct. She will have emotional and financial support for she has grown children who are concerned and will be there for her. Many women are not that fortunate.

> QUOTE(sister @ Nov 2 2006, 11:48 AM)
>
> 3. As far as the information concerning spousal abuse that came directly from the victim. If she chooses to substantiate what she has said privately in a signed affidavit it is her choice. As fas as corroborating testimony goes, who invites a third person to witness the abuse of their spouse? That only leaves the abuser for corroboration. I am certain that those familiar with spousal abuse will agree that the abuser seldom, if ever, is willing to claim responsibility for their actions.

Right on, Sister! It burns me when FHB and others want first hand documented proof for everything that is said. They do not accept the testimony of people in the know. Doesn't he realize that some of us who have experience in this tragic area are the ones who know how to put the pieces of the puzzle together?

What is incomprehensible to some readers is that all forms of abuse are also present among the affluent and respected families in our society.

Posted by: Skyhook Nov 2 2006, 01:59 PM

I just figured that FHB must be a very important person with a tremendous amount of clout to be able to demand documentation and proof for what someone says as if he had a personal stake or responsibility in the situation. Otherwise in most situations he would be kindly but firmly and in a Christlike way to perhaps find something else to do. Or in another context, he would be told something similar in quite an unkindly and graphic way.

Posted by: caribbean sda Nov 2 2006, 02:24 PM

> QUOTE(Skyhook @ Nov 2 2006, 03:59 PM)
>
> I just figured that FHB must be a very important person with a tremendous amount of clout to be able to demand documentation and proof for what someone says as if he had a personal stake or responsibility in the situation.

...just a tremendous amount of doubt*...but that's his prerogative I would imagine...*

Posted by: princessdi Nov 2 2006, 02:27 PM

I agree, Skyhook. He is spending way too much time trying to get Sister to "show her hand". Somebody needs to know who Sister is and needs to know it now. I have had a bad feeling about him from the beginning, which I believed I voiced at the time. He came in trying to identify everyone. In the words of Han Solo/Indianan Jones, "I got a bad feeling about this."

> QUOTE(Skyhook @ Nov 2 2006, 11:59 AM)
>
> I just figured that FHB must be a very important person with a tremendous amount of clout to be > able to demand documentation and proof for what someone says as if he had a personal stake or responsibility in the situation. Otherwise in most situations he would be kindly but firmly and in a Christlike way to perhaps find something else to do. Or in another context, he would be told something similar in quite an unkindly and graphic way.

Posted by: Skyhook Nov 2 2006, 03:37 PM

Another thought I had is that in my experience on certain other forums, (although relatively limited) I have encountered people who seem to enjoy arguing and debating just for the sake of it. No matter what point or statement someone makes, they will come up with something contrary. If they cant, they demand chapter and verse, or specific SOP quote as if they were some kind of authority and people must comply with thier demands. I think some people join forums to pursue thier hobby of argumentation and debate.

Posted by: fallible humanbeing Nov 2 2006, 04:02 PM

> QUOTE(sister @ Nov 2 2006, 01:48 PM) ☐
>
> 1. I do not believe that you are Danny, nor have I ever seriously entertained that as a possibility, I know Danny's writing style and it is not the same as yours.

This may be true enough, and having seen many posts responding to my inquires it is entirely possible that you didn't, however others did as well as claim I was in 3ABN employ, or a plant, or the mouthpiece for Danny, yada, yada, yada. Now, Larry Welch, hhhmm, wish I still had that much hair.

> QUOTE(sister @ Nov 2 2006, 01:48 PM) ☐
>
> 2. You are incorrect about Larry Welch, he is both an employee at 3ABN for many years and a member of the 3ABN Board. His current position is in the pastoral department, which you can verify quite easily on the 3ABN website. His 3ABN salary for 2005 was $40,989.00 not including perks. His salary is greater than the salary of Johnny Dinzey, head of the pastoral department and manager of 3ABN Latino and Larry is merely a member of the pastoral department. Larry Welch's salary has been stable at around $40,000.00 for a number of years, which is far above that of the average 3ABN employee (circa $15,000.00 per year). Why?

I am not sure why you have made such a soap box of salaries of late, nor how you are privy to so much current financial information. I don't care what he makes. If he is employed there, then so be it.

> QUOTE(sister @ Nov 2 2006, 01:48 PM) ☐
>
> 3. As far as the information concerning spousal abuse that came directly from the victim. If she chooses to substantiate what she has said privately in a signed affidavit it is her choice. As fas as corroborating testimony goes, who invites a third person to witness the abuse of their spouse? That only leaves the abuser for corroboration. I am certain that those familiar with spousal abuse will agree that the abuser seldom, if ever, is willing to claim responsibility for their actions.

And now to the point of the matter. A poster, as I am sure was the reaction of other readers as well, sees an accusation that an employee and Board Member of 3ABN is a known wife abuser and voices concern over the severity of such a comment and wonders whether it is a truthful allegation or mere conjecture. You respond with, "It isn't conjecture." with all the assumption that nothing else is necessary than your pronouncement. Quite honestly that has a rather arrogant quality to it. Others chime in in your behalf that it is odd that another member of the forum is pursuing this, I must have a vested interest they speculate or I am trying to get you, "sister", to play a hand which will reveal your "true identity."

Quite honestly I can go to my grave never knowing who you truly are and be fine. Personally if you are not Linda S., then I do not believe that you are not getting your information from Linda S., at least through someone else enabling you to truthfully claim to not be communicating with her or getting your information from her - there is a disingenuousness in some of your postings that doesn't sit well with my skepticism which is why I continue to challenge you and others here. This doesn't mean I haven't found some things here to hold significant factual weight, instead it means I won't stop asking questions or challenging you until I am satisfied. I think this may be problematic however, because it seems to bother you that I just won't acquiesce and side with you accepting your ever word as gospel.

So my questions would continue this way. It seems as if you are claiming to have the word of the individual themselves, was this information shared with you first hand, or are you taking anthers word for it?

Were you given the authority to share such charges in a public forum?

If you have received it through a second, third, fourth party, have you corroborated it in any way?

- fhb

Posted by: Skyhook Nov 2 2006, 05:27 PM

FHB might just as well put Esq. after his name. Licensed to practice law in Illinois? Office in Chicago? Just guessing.

Posted by: husbandoftheyear Nov 2 2006, 05:36 PM

> QUOTE(fallible humanbeing @ Oct 31 2006, 11:36 PM) ☐
>
> Is there or isn't there? If there isn't then it is heresay and/or conjecture, possibly bordering on slander.
>
> What about a sworn affidavit and coroborating testimony?
>
> - fhb

blah, blah, blah

Posted by: sonshineonme Nov 2 2006, 06:24 PM

> QUOTE(husbandoftheyear @ Nov 2 2006, 03:36 PM) ☐
>
> blah, blah, blah

I love you HOTY!! LOL!! ☒

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Nov 2 2006, 06:44 PM

> QUOTE(Skyhook @ Nov 2 2006, 04:27 PM) ☐
>
> FHB might just as well put Esq. after his name. Licensed to practice law in Illinois? Office in Chicago? Just guessing.

If FHB is an attorney, what of it? Any thinking person should not accept what another says without being certain it is the truth.

> QUOTE(husbandoftheyear @ Nov 2 2006, 04:36 PM) ☐
>
> blah, blah, blah

Please, HOTY, don't devalue your credibility with folks anxious to find the truth by careless remarks. This is all very serious stuff and deserves to be carefully discussed and viewed from all angles. Right?

Posted by: Truly Blonde Nov 2 2006, 08:57 PM

☒ ofl I think-maybe. Don't know if this means anything and I am sure others have checked this out before. I went to members and looked up fallible humanbeing and the information there says he is a member of the Florida Hospital Church. I don't know if Calvin can tell if people are telling the truth when they give out information. However if it is the truth I think fhb is connected with the medical work. Maybe he is the pastor of the Florida Hospital Church. Just a thought. Maybe he is truly trying to find out the truth-or-again maybe he is connected to Danny some other way. Does anyone know if there are Shelton relatives in the Orlando area?

Now back to your scheduled program of Assault on Danny Shelton or Horses, Horses and more Horses.

Posted by: Skyhook Nov 2 2006, 11:25 PM

Whatever he is, he seems to be someone who trys to get what he wants by making demands, being aggressive and trying to intimidate. It seems to me to be a little beyond just seeking the truth.

Posted by: husbandoftheyear Nov 3 2006, 02:30 PM

> QUOTE(PeacefullyBewildered @ Nov 2 2006, 07:44 PM)
>
> Please, HOTY, don't devalue your credibility with folks anxious to find the truth by careless remarks. This is all very serious stuff and deserves to be carefully discussed and viewed from all angles. Right?

According to FHB, I would have no credibility without posting my picture, social security number, and income tax reports anyway!

FHB - like so many others on here - are asking for proof because they know that none can be given in many of these situations. He claims to be here to find the truth and ask questions. What he's really doing is trying to divide opinions and blow smoke up the rears of people who aren't close to the situation.

He claims to know writing styles of people he doesn't know and doesn't watch on television in the hopes of antagonizing Sister. He conveniently adds remarks about the inner workings of 3ABN while saying he hasn't been there and definitely hasn't worked there. I'm not saying he's Danny or a counterpart - like I said before - he's here to divide.

...and to contradict himself...

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Nov 3 2006, 05:32 PM

> QUOTE(husbandoftheyear @ Nov 3 2006, 01:30 PM)
>
> According to FHB, I would have no credibility without posting my picture, social security number, and income tax reports anyway!

He hasn't posted his...why would you think he would demand that in order to deem your personal testimony credible?

> QUOTE
>
> FHB - like so many others on here - are asking for proof because they know that none can be given in many of these situations. He claims to be here to find the truth and ask questions. What he's really doing is trying to divide opinions and blow smoke up the rears of people who aren't close to the situation.

I am more comfortable accepting first-hand personal testimony and things that have been documented as truth. I can see that it all hits a raw nerve with you, HOTY, since you live the situation. I have tried to follow each debate that arises and fail to see FHB trying to divide. What I have seen is him seeking to uncover the truth and suggesting that we all seek to follow principle. What I have also seen is those debates breaking down to the point where others begin to act paranoid and throw accusations at him rather than accept that he has his own opinion and is on his own journey.

> QUOTE
>
> He claims to know writing styles of people he doesn't know and doesn't watch on television in the hopes of antagonizing Sister. He conveniently adds remarks about the inner workings of 3ABN while saying he hasn't been there and definitely hasn't worked there. I'm not saying he's Danny or a counterpart - like I said before - he's here to divide.
>
> ...and to contradict himself...

In my own experience here even I have learned Danny's writing style just from reading the emails he has had posted. There is also a wealth of info that you present and former employees have submitted about the inner workings there at 3abn.

Regarding this present debate, if Sister got the information about the spousal abuse directly from the abused woman that makes it first-hand knowledge in my book. If the abused woman gave her permission for it to be made public it certainly would be proper to post it here. Whether one has the trust in Sister as a credible source is a matter of personal opinion and experience.

FHB, if you are here to find the truth about this situation like many of the rest of us, terrific. If you are here to divide please be up front about it.

I personally find the debates that go on here very edifying. They drive me to study to try to understand each point of view and check supporting data. I am disappointed when they break down to name-calling and accusations. I don't have the skill in this area like Watchbird, FHB, Sister and others do. In high school I was miserable at debating. I haven't improved with the years. hehe. But I do enjoy watching and learning from them.

Posted by: husbandoftheyear Nov 3 2006, 05:56 PM

> QUOTE(PeacefullyBewildered @ Nov 3 2006, 06:32 PM)
>
> He hasn't posted his...why would you think he would demand that in order to deem your personal testimony credible?

I was simply being sarcastic.

> QUOTE(PeacefullyBewildered @ Nov 3 2006, 06:32 PM)
>
> I am more comfortable accepting first-hand personal testimony and things that have been documented as truth. I can see that it all hits a raw nerve with you, HOTY, since you live the situation. I have tried to follow each debate that arises and fail to see FHB trying to divide. What I have seen is him seeking to uncover the truth and suggesting that we all seek to follow principle. What I have also seen is those debates breaking down to the point where others begin to act paranoid and throw accusations at him rather than accept that he has his own opinion and is on his own journey.

My point was that if proof is going to be required for every story here - it's going to be very short reading material. We all know that proof can be supplied for some - but not all things.

If you feel that FHB is simpy looking for answers - that's your opinion.
But it isn't mine.

> QUOTE(PeacefullyBewildered @ Nov 3 2006, 06:32 PM)
>
> In my own experience here even I have learned Danny's writing style just from reading the emails he has had posted. There is also a wealth of info that you present and former employees have submitted about the inner workings there at 3abn.

It was Linda's style that I was refering to - as FHB was accusing Sister to be - not Dan's.
Linda has never posted here - at least under name - and if FHB doesn't watch 3ABN much nor claim to know her - as he admitted - then how could he become such an expert on her habits?

FHB posted inside information before some of us employees...

> QUOTE(PeacefullyBewildered @ Nov 3 2006, 06:32 PM)
>
> Regarding this present debate, if Sister got the information about the spousal abuse directly from the abused woman that makes it first-hand knowledge in my book. If the abused woman gave her permission for it to be made public it certainly would be proper to post it here. Whether one has the trust in Sister as a credible source is a matter of personal opinion and experience.

I was not speaking directly to this present information about Larry Welch.

But what - exactly - is considered "proper" to post here? We have discussed prostitution, stealing, cheating, lying, molestation, and sexual harassment to name a few things. Not one of these things has been completely verified except to those "inside."
Now that Sister has added spousal abuse - it is taboo?

> QUOTE(PeacefullyBewildered @ Nov 3 2006, 06:32 PM)
>
> I personally find the debates that go on here very edifying. They drive me to study to try to understand each point of view and check supporting data. I am disappointed when they break down to name-calling and accusations. I don't have the skill in this area like Watchbird, FHB, Sister and others do. In high school I was miserable at debating. I haven't improved with the years. hehe. But I do enjoy watching and learning from them.

I have not been looking at this as a debate. As far as I am concerned BSDA is a place where a few people have chosen to tell what is really going on at 3ABN and others to believe or not.

Thank you for your comments though...

Posted by: fallible humanbeing Nov 3 2006, 06:26 PM

> QUOTE(PeacefullyBewildered @ Nov 2 2006, 08:44 PM)
>
> If FHB is an attorney, what of it? Any thinking person should not accept what another says without being certain it is the truth.

> Please, HOTY, don't devalue your credibility with folks anxious to find the truth by careless remarks. This is all very serious stuff and deserves to be carefully discussed and viewed from all angles. Right?

PB,

I was driving home from work today listening to a sports talk radio station. The two hosts were interviewing a young player who has been in the league for three years. He was asked if he thought he had "arrived" as a legitimate player in the NBA. He responded by saying that he had approached the process with an attitude that it would be hard work. He said that in order to be a legitimate presence on a basketball court you had to earn the respect of your peers and in turn you had to build your respect of them.

He didn't say that it was predicated on his beginning to play the game the way played it that would lead them to respect him, but insinuated that if he worked hard, played by the universally accepted rules, and most importantly with integrity and desire - he would receive that respect and develop a respect for those he was on the court with.

After the interview the hosts continued with this particular aspect of the interview. They commented that far too many of the rookies in the league come in with an attitude of expectation. They expect that the players in the league should automatically respect them because, after all they were drafted into the league as though that brings with it automatic respect. They then listed a number of players who have made it over the past three years, and those who have not and were easily able to identify that those who hadn't made it, had had this attitude of expectation. Those who did make it had put in the time and effort to convince their peers that they could in fact compete on that level.

I didn't come here seeking acceptance. I didn't come in looking to make converts to my point of view or any other point of view. I did come because I was lead to believe that there was an open discussion about the subject and I would be able to find information here that would enable me to understand the larger picture. But, when sorting through information here or anywhere one can only filter it as far as it goes. When we study history we ask a few initial, fundamental questions:

Who is the author? (meaning, where does their authority to speak come from)
What is the author's purpose?
What is the author's motivation?
Who is the audience?
What is the context? (setting and background)

Then you read and decide the integrity of the writing and the ideas based on your ability to corroborate the ideas, information, or point of view using multiple sources.

But it does take that up front knowledge in order to determine the veracity of a source and feel comfortable incorporating what they say into your decision making process. Historians must interpret in order to build a picture of history, after all they do not often have access to the individuals they are studying. If they have no idea who the writer is, or at least enough to answer the fundamental questions, they have to eliminate them as a reliable source.

Similarly, here, we must do without the aid of identity, body language, facial expression, volume, tone or any of the other things we all use daily to help interpret the dialogue we are part of. We are left to interpret the words on the screen with what amounts to a handicap - and interpret we must. We have to attempt, as best we can, to correctly interpret all the above as well as intent. Sometimes we are right some times we are not. But, in an cyberplace like this, we have to remember not to take things personally because we will lose the focus of accomplishing our goals.

It is interesting that I can't just be looking for information. I must obviously be an insurgent. Am I Danny, no. Larry W., no. Am I a lawyer, no. Am I a pastor, no. Have I ever worked at 3ABN, no. Have I ever been to the 3ABN facilities, no. Have I watched 3ABN, yes. Have I been to a live event, yes.

Have I heard Danny's "side", yes. Did I ask questions the same way, yes. Do I feel I got all my questions answered, no. Do I have a working point of view on the issue, yes. So what does that leave, me, a person who is looking for answers to the questions that arise for me as I read here.

- fhb

Posted by: sonshineonme Nov 3 2006, 06:51 PM

> QUOTE(fallible humanbeing @ Nov 3 2006, 04:26 PM)
>
> .....
>
> I didn't come here seeking acceptance. I didn't come in looking to make converts to my point of view or any other point of view. I did come because I was lead to believe that there was an open discussion about the subject and I would be able to find information here that would enable me to understand the larger picture. But, when sorting through information here or anywhere one can only filter it as far as it goes. When we study history we ask a few initial, fundamental questions:
>
> Who is the author? (meaning, where does their authority to speak come from)
> What is the author's purpose?
> What is the author's motivation?
> Who is the audience?
> What is the context? (setting and background)
>
> Then you read and decide the integrity of the writing and the ideas based on your ability to corroborate the ideas, information, or point of view using multiple sources.
>
> But it does take that up front knowledge in order to determine the veracity of a source and feel comfortable incorporating what they say into your decision making process. Historians must interpret in order to build a picture of history, after all they do not often have access to the individuals they are studying. If they have no idea who the writer is, or at least enough to answer the fundamental questions, they have to eliminate them as a reliable source.
>
> Similarly, here, we must do without the aid of identity, body language, facial expression, volume, tone or any of the other things we all use daily to help interpret the dialogue we are part of. We are left to interpret the words on the screen with what amounts to a handicap - and interpret we must. We have to attempt, as best we can, to correctly interpret all the above as well as intent. Sometimes we are right some times we are not. But, in an cyberplace like this, we have to remember not to take things personally because we will lose the focus of accomplishing our goals.
>
> It is interesting that I can't just be looking for information. I must be obviously be an insurgent. Am I Danny, no. Larry W., no. Am I a lawyer, no. Am I a pastor, no. Have I ever worked at 3ABN, no. Have I ever been to the 3ABN facilities, no. Have I watched 3ABN, yes. Have I been to a live event, yes. Have I heard Danny's "side", yes. Did I ask questions the same way, yes. Do I feel I got all my questions answered, no. Do I have a working point of view on the issue, yes. So what does that leave, me, a person who is looking for answers to the questions that arise for me as I read here.
>
> - fhb

You have just described the mass majority of people who have come here. You must keep in mind, though I understand why it might be something you might leave out of your thinking, the aspect that MANY people who have also come here have truth to tell, have told it, and of course are targets for all kinds of discrimination and and potential disbelief. That won't stop them, they have liberty here, for the FIRST time, to tell things. All these little things are parts of a large complicated and convoluted puzzle. Who could possible just read and know? It takes time, and more pieces of the puzzle to come out for completion - but you can put the basics together and see a picture of a serious problem, that too is complicated and convoluted. Like politics, who can just "fix" it now? Who can know all there is to know? You get enough to know there are serious issues, and SOMETHING should and has to be done, and ultimately will be done. There have been SERIOUS injustices for years against many people. Do we do nothing? Do we keep our mouths shut (still) and let it go on? Can you wait for more of the puzzle to come without getting impatient and hasty in your conclusions (not just asking you, generally speaking to anyone of us). There are always those thoughts of "well in that case I wasn't there" or "how can we really know how bad". We can't know someones heart, we can know someones fruits. There is a reason for that - character observations and testimony. You keep seeking, because you know there is something to seek, your heart won't let you rest because you understand the seriousness of this (I am assuming this all to be true). Will you keep seeking? Will you wait, let things take their course, share what you know, prepare others? Because the bigger picture here is that this is devastating in many ways - NOT just in figuring it out for yourself, but in the true evil affects it will have on all that come to see what has really been happening. Time marches on either way - facts are just that, facts. It is what it is. People (like in politics) can pick and chose to suit their own ideals and paradimes, but truth should always be the first priority, and to me, that shows real faith - faith that God will still be in control in spite of the deep seeded evil of sin.

And then there are the spin doctors, the ones that don't want truth, but revel in keeping the marry go round going round and round and round - causing confusion where ever they go....again, fruits.

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Nov 3 2006, 09:49 PM

> QUOTE(husbandoftheyear @ Nov 3 2006, 04:56 PM) ☐
>
> I was simply being sarcastic.

I figured...

> QUOTE
>
> My point was that if proof is going to be required for every story here - it's going to be very short reading material. We all know that proof can be supplied for some - but not all things.

If there are things posted here that have no proof, how do we know they are true? Do you have any examples of these type that spring to mind? It would be of interest to me to see what you mean.

> QUOTE
>
> If you feel that FHB is simpy looking for answers - that's your opinion.
> But it isn't mine.
> It was Linda's style that I was refering to - as FHB was accusing Sister to be - not Dan's.
> Linda has never posted here - at least under name - and if FHB doesn't watch 3ABN much nor claim to know her - as he admitted - then how could he become such an expert on her habits?

Oh. Guess I should break down and start wearing my glasses.

> QUOTE
>
> FHB posted inside information before some of us employees...
> I was not speaking directly to this present information about Larry Welch.

What information was that? Did you ask him what his source was?

> QUOTE
>
> But what - exactly - is considered "proper" to post here? We have discussed prostitution, stealing, cheating, lying, molestation, and sexual harassment to name a few things. Not one of these things has been completely verified except to those "inside."
> Now that Sister has added spousal abuse - it is taboo?
> I have not been looking at this as a debate. As far as I am concerned BSDA is a place where a few people have chosen to tell what is really going on at 3ABN and others to believe or not.
>
> Thank you for your comments though...

I believe Clay has dealt with this several times in the last few months. I think if it happened at 3abn since it began it is fair game. I also think he said it must be true. Perhaps the guidelines are listed in the "Board Rules".

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Nov 3 2006, 10:54 PM

> QUOTE(fallible humanbeing @ Nov 3 2006, 05:26 PM)
>
> It is interesting that I can't just be looking for information. I must obviously be an insurgent. Am I Danny, no. Larry W., no. Am I a lawyer, no. Am I a pastor, no. Have I ever worked at 3ABN, no. Have I ever been to the 3ABN facilities, no. Have I watched 3ABN, yes. Have I been to a live event, yes. Have I heard Danny's "side", yes. Did I ask questions the same way, yes. Do I feel I got all my questions answered, no. Do I have a working point of view on the issue, yes. So what does that leave, me, a person who is looking for answers to the questions that arise for me as I read here.
>
> - fhb

FHB,
Well stated! I applaud your entire post but didn't quote it all since sonshineonme left much in already. It is my opinion that you hit the nail squarely on the head, several times. There is much to consider when weighing the material posted here or anywhere.

I don't see how your last statement could be any more clear. I hope it will allay the concerns of some here. Of course, now I'm curious about what you actually do in the real world. If it isn't writing of some sort I would just wonder why not?

In defense of those close to the situation who sometimes get paranoid, this is a pretty inflamatory situation. I would hope that they would get to the point where they can comfortably allow others to have their own points of view without getting rumpled.

Posted by: husbandoftheyear Nov 3 2006, 11:24 PM

> QUOTE(PeacefullyBewildered @ Nov 3 2006, 11:54 PM)
>
> In defense of those close to the situation who sometimes get paranoid, this is a pretty inflamatory situation. I would hope that they would get to the point where they can comfortably allow others to > have their own points of view without getting rumpled.

As far as I am concerned, FHB's point of view is not causing the rumpling. I am very comfortable with the fact that much of this information is difficult to believe as well as the fact that many people will choose not to believe it. I defended 3ABN when local people would tell me some of the things they heard. It was only when I saw things first-hand that I believed. I don't hold someone's opinions against them as at one point in time I was skeptical of the situation myself.

However, I still stress that there is a difference between asking questions, having an opinion, and simply antagonizing.

As for the validity of accusations posted here, I would assume that as we are all christians, we would not slander, and instead, simply present the facts - as ugly as they are.

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Nov 4 2006, 02:10 PM

> QUOTE(husbandoftheyear @ Nov 3 2006, 10:24 PM) ☐
>
> As far as I am concerned, FHB's point of view is not causing the rumpling. I am very comfortable with the fact that much of this information is difficult to believe as well as the fact that many people will choose not to believe it. I defended 3ABN when local people would tell me some of the things they heard. It was only when I saw things first-hand that I believed. I don't hold someone's opinions against them as at one point in time I was skeptical of the situation myself.

Sometimes seeing is the only way to believe with things such as this. It is through your eyes and experience that others who are not as close to it all can get a glimpse.

> QUOTE
>
> However, I still stress that there is a difference between asking questions, having an opinion, and simply antagonizing.

I agree wholeheartedly, however I haven't really seen the antagonizing you speak of. I will go back and reread some of FHB's posts to see if I can. Sometimes when hard questions are asked or statements made it is not to antagonize but a call to think outside of the box - to see a larger picture.

> QUOTE
>
> As for the validity of accusations posted here, I would assume that as we are all christians, we would not slander, and instead, simply present the facts - as ugly as they are.

It would be so nice if only it were that black and white. Unfortunately, I don't believe that we can make such a blanket assumption. If even one or two of the folks posting here feel that the end justifies the means we could be buying bogus claims.

One thing I do believe is that a forum such as this can be used not only for interested folks to discuss the 3abn topic in all of its twists and turns but also as a place for those close to the situation to vent their feelings about it all. That is one reason I find it important for those reading not to take what is posted as the gospel without some sort of verification.

Posted by: Panama_Pete Nov 4 2006, 04:52 PM

> QUOTE(PeacefullyBewildered @ Nov 4 2006, 02:10 PM)
>
> Sometimes when hard questions are asked or statements made it is not to antagonize but a call to think outside of the box - to see a larger picture.

OK. Let's think "outside the box" on this one.

If you were a televangelist somewhere, why would you choose to not mention on the air that you travel in your own private jet? You're a good televangelist. You do everything by the book. You have nothing to hide. You are pleased with all of your expenditures.

And yet, you never seem to get around to mentioning to the donors the large amount of money you spend on a Gulfstream VI. You don't mention you have pilots on standby. None of this information makes it on the air to the donors. There is no video of the President climbing aboard Air Force One, so to speak. It's all hidden from view.

If you folks were televangelists, why would you choose to tell or not tell the donors that money goes to this item?

Also, suppose that your employees know that the airplane is on the "classified information" list never to be mentioned or be included in a camera shot.

Also, do we always need to have more and more "facts" before we reach our own conclusions on this question? Isn't there a point where wisdom and common sense sometimes supply answers? Why should we pray for wisdom if only facts are controlling?

Facts lead to Knowledge
Knowledge leads to Intelligence
Intelligence leads to Wisdom

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Nov 4 2006, 10:53 PM

> QUOTE(Panama_Pete @ Nov 4 2006, 03:52 PM)
>
> OK. Let's think "outside the box" on this one.
>
> If you were a televangelist somewhere, why would you choose to not mention on the air that you travel in your own private jet? You're a good televangelist. You do everything by the book. You have nothing to hide. You are pleased with all of your expenditures.
>
> And yet, you never seem to get around to mentioning to the donors the large amount of money you spend on a Gulfstream VI. You don't mention you have pilots on standby. None of this information makes it on the air to the donors. There is no video of the President climbing aboard Air Force One, so to speak. It's all hidden from view.
>
> If you folks were televangelists, why would you choose to tell or not tell the donors that money goes to this item?
>
> Also, suppose that your employees know that the airplane is on the "classified information" list > never to be mentioned or be included in a camera shot.

If I was a televangelist that intentionally hid the fact that a lot of donor money is spent on a Gulfstream VI and stand-by pilots I would feel like a poor steward of the money entrusted to me. If I went so far as to even have a "classified information" list of things never to be mentioned or photographed I would feel like a scam artist.

> QUOTE
>
> Also, do we always need to have more and more "facts" before we reach our own conclusions on this question? Isn't there a point where wisdom and common sense sometimes supply answers? Why should we pray for wisdom if only facts are controlling?
>
> Facts lead to Knowledge
> Knowledge leads to Intelligence
> Intelligence leads to Wisdom

Yes. Facts are the foundation, even of your own argument. If we based our conclusions on speculation and possibilites would we really have any true answers?

Posted by: husbandoftheyear Nov 5 2006, 11:05 AM

> QUOTE(PeacefullyBewildered @ Nov 4 2006, 11:53 PM) ☐
>
> If I went so far as to even have a "classified information" list of things never to be mentioned or photographed I would feel like a scam artist.

Well PB - you have definitely named this correctly.

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Nov 5 2006, 11:12 AM

> QUOTE(husbandoftheyear @ Nov 5 2006, 10:05 AM) ☐
>
> Well PB - you have definitely named this correctly.

So, besides the Gulfstream, do you know what else is on that list?

Posted by: Richard Sherwin Nov 5 2006, 11:54 AM

Gulfstream? I thought it was a Cessna Citation VI. Oh well, luxury jet in any case.

There are certain things that the general public would not be able to understand the cost of. I'm certain there is some camera equipment that cost 10's of thousands of dollars that most of us would consider a waste of money but really is essential to the operation of 3abn, and because of that you would not want the donors to know about. However I just don't see the jet in that category. Commercial flights take a bit longer but are much cheaper. Also if a plane is really needed then a light piston engine twin would cost a fraction of the jet and a regular employee could be the pilot, an employee who could in fact have other duties besides flying. There are many pilots out there with several hundred hours of flight time that would love to have a job like that, where they could fly a few hours a week and be involved in other things as well. (Hey I'm one of them, but I don't have twin time).

Richard

Posted by: Panama_Pete Nov 5 2006, 05:11 PM

> QUOTE(PeacefullyBewildered @ Nov 5 2006, 11:12 AM) ☐
>
> So, besides the Gulfstream, do you know what else is on that list?

As Richard Sherwin stated, the plane is a Citation jet, rather than a Gulfstream jet.

I was thinking about the late Herbert W. Armstrong, the founder of the Worldwide Church of God, who is said to have flown around the world on a Gulfstream jet as God's ambassador and the founder of Ambassador College. But notice how Armstrong did not feel a need to hide that fact.

Herbert W. Armstrong (note: not an Adventist):

"Let me give an illustration. I fly in a Gulfstream-II jet aircraft."

http://reluctant-messenger.com/HWA/Incredible/ihp6.html

(Since this time, Armstrong's church has been broken into many different factions. This can happen when your organization is built around the personality of one human being.)

I also understand that the Shelton employees are not to point out or even mention Danny's house to any visitors. People who see the Shelton house have been known to put their wallets back in their pockets.

Danny prefers to tell people how he was a lowly carpenter and picked tomatoes for the Amish. He likes to keep the image of the lowly, humble persona going. Anything that contradicts that image is eliminated from view.

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Nov 5 2006, 06:20 PM

> QUOTE(Panama_Pete @ Nov 5 2006, 04:11 PM) ☐
>
> As Richard Sherwin stated, the plane is a Citation jet, rather than a Gulfstream jet.
>
> I was thinking about the late Herbert W. Armstrong, the founder of the Worldwide Church of God, who is said to have flown around the world on a Gulfstream jet as God's ambassador and the founder of Ambassador College. But notice how Armstrong did not feel a need to hide that fact.
>
> Herbert W. Armstrong (note: not an Adventist):
>
> "Let me give an illustration. I fly in a Gulfstream-II jet aircraft."

> http://reluctant-messenger.com/HWA/Incredible/ihp6.html
>
> (Since this time, Armstrong's church has been broken into many different factions. This can happen when your organization is built around the personality of one human being.)
>
> I also understand that the Shelton employees are not to point out or even mention Danny's house to any visitors. People who see the Shelton house have been known to put their wallets back in their pockets.
>
> Danny prefers to tell people how he was a lowly carpenter and picked tomatoes for the Amish. He likes to keep the image of the lowly, humble persona going. Anything that contradicts that image is eliminated from view.

PP,
At the risk of sounding dense (I admit that I'm not the brightest bulb in the candelabra) are you a present or past employee? It is my recollection that you are/were.

Seems like a photo of the Shelton home that could be Googled on the internet would be nice for those wise folks who would like to get an idea of where their donations are being spent. Okay, maybe that's a little mean-spirited of me but it bothers me that he apparently feels the need to "hide" some very pertinent things from his donors. That raises red flags.

Posted by: sonshineonme Nov 5 2006, 06:23 PM

> QUOTE(PeacefullyBewildered @ Nov 5 2006, 04:20 PM)
>
> PP,
> At the risk of sounding dense (I admit that I'm not the brightest bulb in the candelabra) are you a present or past employee? It is my recollection that you are/were.
>
> Seems like a photo of the Shelton home on the internet would be nice for those wise folks who like to get an idea of where their donations are being spent. Okay, maybe that's a little mean-spirited of me but it bothers me that he apparently feels the need to "hide" some very pertinent things from his donors.

The same thought crossed my mind....

Posted by: mystery- man Nov 5 2006, 11:25 PM

I have read the post on this forum concering Danny and Linda for some time. And while the information that I see is usually informative, for me none of it would have mattered, HOMES,AIRPLANE, HORSES, MONEY, CARS ECT. ECT. ECT. Believe me even if Linda has done all that they claim she has, the most troubling and sad thing for me was that a ministry that was preaching Gods love and had the motto "MENDING BROKEN PEOPLE" would treat one of their own with such a lack of Gods love. They have done more to preach a false message than they know.I believe the proper way to approached the situation was to make them both step down (LINDA AND DANNY) and then on the air prayed for them both, not exposing either but rather offering support and prayer. It is a shame that Jesus was not exaulted as he could have been. I fault the guttless men and women on the board who did not have the spiritual eyesight to understand the work is not DANNY'S OR LINDA'S but Gods work and even though He does use us out of love for mankind He can use the rocks if need be.

It is sad that the leadership by in large (but not all) seem to have lost anykind of respect for the members. It would seem like trademarking the name ect. ect. ect. is a total lack of faith in God. 3ABN is just what I believe is a small view of a much larger problem (TOTAL LACK OF FAITH AND A LOVE FOR MONEY)

Posted by: Ralph Nov 6 2006, 12:48 AM

> QUOTE(mystery- man @ Nov 5 2006, 11:25 PM) ☐
>
> Believe me even if Linda has done all that they claim she has, the most troubling and sad thing for me was that a ministry that was preaching Gods love and had the motto "MENDING BROKEN PEOPLE" would treat one of their own with such a lack of Gods love.

In my mind, what you mentioned above is the key issue. Thank you for again brining this important point into focus. For one reason or another, some marriages just do not work out and I accept that as one of the sad realities of life. How a tragic situation like this is handled tells volumes about each of the people involved.

Posted by: Observer Nov 6 2006, 12:46 PM

Re: " . . . would treat one of their own with such a lack of Gods love. They have done more to preach a false message than they know."

I am convinced that we would not be here discussing this today, if Danny and the 3-ABN Board had done right.

Danny could have divorced Linda.

Danny could have remarried.

There would be no discussion today. But, Linda was not treated right. The discussion has gone beyond marital issues. Now 3-ABN faces issues much worse than they could ever have immagined.

They did it to themselves. And they did it in the name of the Lord that they claim to worship. B ut, for many of us, that Lord is not the Lord reflected in the Bible.

So, now we wait to see how it will turn out. The wheels are turning, and where this wagon will go remains to be seen.

Posted by: summertime Nov 7 2006, 09:31 AM

> QUOTE(Observer @ Nov 6 2006, 12:46 PM) ☐
>
> Re: " . . . would treat one of their own with such a lack of Gods love. They have done more to preach a false message than they know."

I am convinced that we would not be here discussing this today, if Danny and the 3-ABN Board had done right.

Danny could have divorced Linda.

Danny could have remarried.

There would be no discussion today. But, Linda was not treated right. The discussion has gone beyond marital issues. Now 3-ABN faces issues much worse than they could ever have immagined.

They did it to themselves. And they did it in the name of the Lord that they claim to worship. B ut, for many of us, that Lord is not the Lord reflected in the Bible.

So, now we wait to see how it will turn out. The wheels are turning, and where this wagon will go remains to be seen.

(Observer, you are so right about the way Linda has been treated. They (Danny and others at 3ABN) have treated many others that have dared to disagree with them as criminals and they have done much to injure them in any way possible. I just can not understand why the Lord has allowed this to go on for so long. It goes against so many of the promises that we have read in the Bible that those who have been faithful are under His protection. I would imagine that you yourself have been under their readiness to discredit and to dishonor. I pray that this will end soon.)

' summertime'

Posted by: Observer Nov 7 2006, 12:30 PM

Re: "I would imagine that you yourself have been under their readiness to discredit and to dishonor. I pray that this will end soon.)"

To set the record straight:

I have never been employed by 3-ABN.

I am a SDA minister, credentialed by the General Conference. However, I am employed by the Federal government, and by salary is paid by that agency.

I have no knowledge of 3-ABN ever attempting to discredit me. But, I do not know.

Posted by: Skyhook Nov 7 2006, 01:19 PM

Yesterday evening I caught the end of Danny talking with the couple who run his trust dept. and with the director of the trust dept. of the General Conference. Of course they were talking about setting up trusts so people's money can eventually go to "God's work." One of the points that was made at the end was that the program demonstrated the support GC has for 3abn and visa versa. Does that tell us what direction things are going in? I hope not.

Posted by: Daryl Fawcett Nov 7 2006, 01:59 PM

When was it first taped?

It could be an older one.

Posted by: Skyhook Nov 7 2006, 02:49 PM

Darryl, I only caught a bit at the end and I didn't catch whether it was new or an old taped program. I don't know the names of those people but it was the man in charge of 3abns trust Dept. along with his wife. If I recall correctly, his office has a Loma Linda address. The other person was identified as the director of trust services for the General Conference. Lets hope it was an old program. If it is an old one, it is interesting that they show that particular one with the statements of mutual support.

Posted by: SandyColorado Nov 7 2006, 02:59 PM

> QUOTE(Skyhook @ Nov 7 2006, 03:49 PM) ☐
>
> Darryl, I only caught a bit at the end and I didn't catch whether it was new or an old taped program. I don't know the names of those people but it was the man in charge of 3abns trust Dept. along with his wife. If I recall correctly, his office has a Loma Linda address. The other person was identified as the director of trust services for the General Conference. Lets hope it was an old program. If it is an old one, it is interesting that they show that particular one with the statements of mutual support.

The 3ABN man in trust is Leonard Westphal and his wife (can't remember her name.) I have seen their programs several times.

I wonder if they are showing lots of old reruns now because Danny was hit in the head, and they are keeping him in hiding...

Posted by: Skyhook Nov 7 2006, 06:35 PM

Sandy, you are probably right that it was an old tape. I didn't notice any signs of injuries on Danny.
Sorry if I created a false alarm.

Posted by: husbandoftheyear Nov 9 2006, 12:10 AM

I believe that program was taped about a month ago...

Posted by: caribbean sda Nov 9 2006, 07:09 AM

> QUOTE(Skyhook @ Nov 7 2006, 03:19 PM) ☐
>
> Yesterday evening I caught the end of Danny talking with the couple who run his trust dept. and with the director of the trust dept. of the General Conference. Of course they were talking about > setting up trusts so people's money can eventually go to "God's work." One of the points that was made at the end was that the program demonstrated the support GC has for 3abn and visa versa. Does that tell us what direction things are going in? I hope not.

I received a brochure in the mail today from 3ABN extolling the virtues of their Trust Program. Needless to say, it didn't leave the post office. I simply deposited it in the circular file. My mother also received one...but since she is now deceased, there was no point in even opening the envelope. It was left in the circular file as well.

Posted by: Lee Nov 9 2006, 10:29 AM

It might be prudent to ask for your name to be taken off their mailing list. No need to waste further the donors gifts.

Posted by: simplysaved Nov 9 2006, 11:38 AM

ITA...

> QUOTE(Lee @ Nov 9 2006, 11:29 AM)
>
> It might be prudent to ask for your name to be taken off their mailing list. No need to waste further the donors gifts.

Posted by: caribbean sda Nov 9 2006, 12:00 PM

> QUOTE(Lee @ Nov 9 2006, 12:29 PM)
>
> It might be prudent to ask for your name to be taken off their mailing list. No need to waste further the donors gifts.

well...to respond...my name is on the mailing list because I get the 3ABN world magazine which is akin to a monthly program guide. I may not hold Danny Shelton in high esteen, but there are some programs on the network that I do enjoy watching...OK?!

Posted by: Daryl Fawcett Nov 9 2006, 06:35 PM

> QUOTE(husbandoftheyear @ Nov 9 2006, 02:10 AM)
>
> I believe that program was taped about a month ago...

How do you know that it was taped about a month ago?

Posted by: Ralph Nov 10 2006, 11:20 AM

> QUOTE(Daryl Fawcett @ Nov 9 2006, 06:35 PM) ☐
>
> How do you know that it was taped about a month ago?

HOTY's statement is correct according to a phone call that I made to the office of Jeff Wilson. Jeff's picture is at http://www.willplan.org/general_conference__.html

---

Posted by: Johann Nov 10 2006, 01:45 PM

A good frined of mine has just sent me this report:

"I visited my sister in Santa , and guess who was invited to speak at the church that Sabbath. I'll give you a clue. This person was kicked in his face by a horse? How come animals are more astute than people.
I told my sister a little about this person and said Ina and I could not go to church that Sabbath. Several individuals were supposed to be joining him on the platform but did not. What is happening?"

Posted by: simplysaved Nov 10 2006, 02:18 PM

High profile people often distance themselves away from people that are a part of controversy....that may be all it is...

> QUOTE(Johann @ Nov 10 2006, 02:45 PM) ☐
>
> A good frined of mine has just sent me this report:
>
> "I visited my sister in Santa , and guess who was invited to speak at > the church that Sabbath. I'll give you a clue. This person was kicked > in his face by a horse? How come animals are more astute than people.
> I told my sister a little about this person and said Ina and I could > not go to church that Sabbath. Several individuals were supposed to be > joining him on the platform but did not. What is happening?"

Posted by: djean7 Nov 10 2006, 06:08 PM

Is it not written:" Treat others the way you want them to treat you." (?) And by the same token, we all would do well to speak of others the way we would be pleased to have them speak of us.

It is also written, "Judge not, that ye be not judged. For with what judgment ye judge, ye shall be judged: and with what measure ye mete, it shall be measured to you again. And why beholdest thou (we) the mote that is in thy (our) brother's eye, but considerest not the beam that is in thine (our) own eye(s).

Regardless how we may feel about someone, when we show pleasure at the mishap of another human being, we reveal the absolute influence of one the Bible calls "Satan." It brings on nothing less than sadness to read the gleeful taunts directed at someone who was injured by a horse. Where is Christ-like sympathy, compassion, and love?

Concerning Bro. Danny Shelton, we all would do well to pray to our Heavenly Father about any concerns, and indeed leave Danny with Jesus. It was sad to read that "someone got what he had coming to him," and that it was "pay back time."

Do we not realize what we are saying? Is it not true that shoud every last one of us got what was coming to us, we would all go up in smoke? We all need Jesus. We all are in the same boat. We all have sinned and come short of the glory of God and all desperately need Jesus.

Just as Jesus loves the one or ones who wrote the sad remarks, Jesus also loves Danny, Linda, and each of us.

Posted by: Lee Nov 10 2006, 08:33 PM

djean7 thank you for those thoughts to keep in mind.

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Nov 10 2006, 11:42 PM

> QUOTE(djean7 @ Nov 10 2006, 05:08 PM) ☐
>
> Do we not realize what we are saying? Is it not true that shoud every last one of us got what was coming to us, we would all go up in smoke? We all need Jesus. We all are in the same boat. We all have sinned and come short of the glory of God and all desperately need Jesus.
>
> Just as Jesus loves the one or ones who wrote the sad remarks, Jesus also loves Danny, Linda, and each of us.

Welcome djean7. If you have spent time reading various threads here on the 3abn forum before you will know that your sentiments have been echoed often by some. I count myself as one who is saddened when we forget that Jesus loves each sinner here on this old world so much that He would have died for just one of us! I can't see Him being amused at one of his beloved creations being kicked in the head. I can't see Him elbowing His Father and snickering that Danny was getting some well-deserved payback.

He wouldn't. Should we?

Sin is sin and it separates us from God. And yes, all have sinned and come short of the glory of God. One difference, though, is that the sins of some have hurt many more lives than the sins of others.

Posted by: Johann Nov 11 2006, 02:03 AM

My friend did not distance himself because Danny Shelton was kicked by a horse. He distanced himself from Danny Shelton several years ago when Danny preached in his home church - because of his preaching. He felt that Danny Shelton was not glorifying Christ but Danny Shelton. This was his reason for not wanting to hear him preach again. Others may not feel this way about his preaching?

To some of us this is close to the center of the whole issue, and to me it was highlighted when I recently spoke to a member of the 3ABN board. He told me that if it had been up to him and his wife they would much rather have Linda run the station than Danny, because she preached Christ and reached the hearts of people. Another prominent member of the board has stated that Danny's marriage was doomed long before the Norwegian doctor came around. Linda was not aware of this, and therefore she did not know what was happening when Danny suddenly used the fact that she had a number of talks with the doctor about her son, as a reason for getting rid of her. Now Danny and his gang use every opportunity to tell false stories about Linda to justify his remarriage.

So often we hear, Why do the leaders of the Seventh-day Adventist church not do anything? Do you realize they may be doing more than you think? I am told that Danny received several warnings from a prominent leader in the church that he had no Biblical mandate to get married again, but these warnings were completely ignored. I wonder if the 3ABN board ever heard of them?

Posted by: Clay Nov 11 2006, 02:04 AM

then shame on the board for knowing and not doing anything....

Posted by: Servant Nov 11 2006, 10:04 AM

Quote: Why do the leaders of the Seventh-day Adventist church not do anything? Do you realize they may be doing more than you think?

I'm glad to hear something is happening at the leadership level and need to know this situation is not being ignored. I would like to see greater response, i.e., in the form of a formal statement. Although pre-mature statements are counterproductive, something - anything, besides the profound silence would gladden my heart.

Posted by: rwelchcrs Nov 11 2006, 01:58 PM

> QUOTE(Servant @ Nov 11 2006, 11:04 AM)
>
> Quote: Why do the leaders of the Seventh-day Adventist church not do anything? Do you realize they may be doing more than you think?
>
> I'm glad to hear something is happening at the leadership level and need to know this situation is not being ignored. I would like to see greater response, i.e., in the form of a formal statement. Although pre-mature statements are counterproductive, something - anything, besides the profound silence would gladden my heart.

Posted by: rwelchcrs Nov 11 2006, 02:10 PM

Exactly right on Servant. To me, the silence seems to infer approval or unconcern. Would somebody in leadership please prove me wrong? I'm still paying tithe, but I find it more difficult each time the plate comes around to put in a few hundred dollars to support a church that seems indifferent to charges of injustice and scandal at the magnitude of the current 3ABN debacle.

I know, I know...you don't need to reply about tithe paying, how it's not our responsibility regarding how the funds are used...Jesus and the widows mite, etc. I'm just sharing how I FEEL, not how I actually believe. I'll still support the church with a faithfull tithe, but the current situation is taking some of the "joyfull" out of it for me.

Posted by: watchbird Nov 11 2006, 02:19 PM

> QUOTE(Servant @ Nov 11 2006, 11:04 AM) ☐
>
> Quote: Why do the leaders of the Seventh-day Adventist church not do anything? Do you realize they may be doing more than you think?
>
> I'm glad to hear something is happening at the leadership level and need to know this situation is not being ignored. I would like to see greater response, i.e., in the form of a formal statement. Although pre-mature statements are counterproductive, something - anything, besides the profound silence would gladden my heart.

Something that all successful hunters know.... Sometimes it is necessary to "Have ALL your ducks in a row before firing the first shot". Now I've never been a hunter and never fired a gun at anything. But one of the stories I recall from my teen years is one that W. E. Straw.... SDA college Bible for years..... a good many of which were spent as a missionary in Africa..... told more than once to us academy students where he taught in his retirement years after returning from Africa.

In those days there was not much in the way of food other than what was grown locally.... and "grown locally" included the animals .... including wild animals. At times the school table depended very heavily on his skill with a rifle.... and ammunition had to be hand carried from sources far away, so one did NOT waste any shots. He was therefore very careful with his aim and told us with some pride in his voice that he NEVER wasted a bullet.... he got his animal every time.... "In fact", said he, "as often as possible I lined up two animals and got two with only one bullet." Then in a more resigned tone he would finish.... "But I never managed to get three. I got three lined up several times, but never more than wounded the third one..... so it always managed to get away."

In the 3abn situation, there are a lot more than three "ducks" that must be lined up in a row before the real "shot" comes, if there are not going to be more that are either are merely scattered, or only "wounded" and make their escape.

In the meantime, rather than growing weary of patient working and waiting, we shall have to depend on whatever information bits are shared here and there..... and sometimes silence is a better indication than what we might think.

Let's summarize some of the information bits that we have seen......

BSDA is one such "bit".... and the increasing numbers of persons who could testify from personal experience that were encouraged to come forward with their stories by the opportunity this site afforded them AND the knowledge gained here that others likewise were speaking out.

GC 2005.... nothing seemed to happen. Nothing was said. BUT.... 3abn cameras were not allowed inside the convention halls. They were restricted to only that which they got from HOPETV feeds.

Autumn Council 2006..... conspicuous by its absence was any mention of 3abn.... not even in the reports having to do with media distribution.

While I have not been keeping a detailed statistical log.... I think I am seeing much less mention of 3abn in our regular magazines and news notices.

HOPETV just recently sent out a four page information and appeal for funds letter. In it were several points that could be seen as being intended to point out the differences between HOPETV and 3abn.... although of course 3abn was never mentioned. For example (and underlining is in the original):

"We are a donor dependent ministry. While our salaries are covered by other funds, all of our life-changing ministry comes from you and others who believe the church must use television to reach the masses of people who crowd our cities and countries. You can feel good knowing that every dollar you give goes directly to reaching lost people for Christ .

"You can also be assured we hold the highest ethical and financial standards. We consider it a sacred trust to work for God and to be entrusted with His people's resources. So we don't spend money on lavish expenditures and our financial books are faithfully audited by the General Conference of Seventh-day Adventists."

Is it possible that it is not just my overactive imagination that sees this as a "message" flashed through the cracks in the wall of silence around official activity?

A few other indications .... several who watch 3abn regularly tell us of an increase in the use of archived programs.... an increase in 3abn productions using their own personell..... and a lessening of new programming from other Adventist media sources. I have also heard privately of at least two individuals who have not only told 3abn they will not participate in programming in the future, but who have instructed 3abn to remove anything from archives that they have been featured in.... and that others have said the same at least about future programming.

In the meantime, the pressure from below is building as more individual church members gain more information, and various church entities right up to some Division levels also become aware of the problems and start asking "WHY?" in their own spheres of influence.

And so we continue, working as we have opportunity, waiting patiently, trusting God to bring things together in His own good time.

Posted by: rwelchcrs Nov 11 2006, 02:33 PM

Thank you Watchbird. That was illuminating and encouraging. But still, it would be nice to see some sort of official response from church leadership such as, "we are aware...we are concerned...we are looking into it".

Posted by: watchbird Nov 11 2006, 03:37 PM

> QUOTE(rwelchcrs @ Nov 11 2006, 03:33 PM)
>
> Thank you Watchbird. That was illuminating and encouraging. But still, it would be nice to see some sort of official response from church leadership such as, "we are aware...we are concerned...we are looking into it".

Unfortunately, "nice" is not an adjective we have had much opportunity to use in this whole affair.

Maybe someday it will be reinstated in our vocabulary again.

Posted by: Servant Nov 12 2006, 12:21 AM

I agree, thank you Watchbird for this very encouraging report. However I still have a hard time with the deafening silence.

What of the unknowing, trusting "sheep"? Who is going to warn them?

Posted by: watchbird Nov 12 2006, 01:19 PM

> QUOTE(Servant @ Nov 12 2006, 01:21 AM) ☐
>
> I agree, thank you Watchbird for this very encouraging report. However I still have a hard time with the deafening silence.
>
> What of the unknowing, trusting "sheep"? Who is going to warn them?

I understand the "hard time" with "silence".... I'm the curious type myself and like to know all that there is to know.

As for the "sheeple"..... each one tell one.... and then one more... and the circle of informed individuals will surely grow.

Posted by: Skyhook Nov 12 2006, 02:43 PM

Watchbird, I have tried to be prudent in who I talk to about the 3abn problem, but I have found that even those 3 or 4 I have shared with do not want to hear it and do not want to believe it, although they have apparantly told others. It took the form talking about me spreading lies about 3abn I got from the internet. I regret I said anything to anyone. It was not welcomed and as far as I can tell it has not helped anyone, least of all me. I'm afraid that Danny Shelton is a hero among Adventists in these parts, along with Rush Limbaugh and others of his ilk.

Posted by: watchbird Nov 12 2006, 03:05 PM

> QUOTE(Skyhook @ Nov 12 2006, 03:43 PM) ☐
>
> Watchbird, I have tried to be prudent in who I talk to about the 3abn problem, but I have found that even those 3 or 4 I have shared with do not want to hear it and do not want to believe it, although they have apparantly told others. It took the form talking about me spreading lies about 3abn I got from the internet. I regret I said anything to anyone. It was not welcomed and as far as I can tell it has not helped anyone, least of all me. I'm afraid that Danny Shelton is a hero among Adventists in these parts, along with Rush Limbaugh and others of his ilk.

I feel your regrets... but do not despair. God will watch over your words and they will be as seeds, perhaps lying dormant under the cold soil of hard hearts for a season... but the rains will fall and the Spring will come, and they will spring up and bear much fruit. Learn from the kinds of reactions you get to know better where your words will be welcome and fruitful. Ask more than you tell, and tell people where they can find information more than you hand them information on a platter. Sooner or later some will be in a questioning frame of mind. And occasionally even one who at first rebuked you will go looking for himself, and return to share his own questions and thank you for the warnings.

Things will get worse before they get better. Do not despair. Keep looking up. God will deliver us.

Posted by: husbandoftheyear Nov 12 2006, 03:23 PM

> QUOTE(Daryl Fawcett @ Nov 9 2006, 07:35 PM) ☐
>
> How do you know that it was taped about a month ago?

I currently work at 3ABN and was there when it was taped.

Posted by: Johann Nov 22 2006, 10:15 PM

> QUOTE(Skyhook @ Nov 12 2006, 10:43 PM) ☐
>
> Watchbird, I have tried to be prudent in who I talk to about the 3abn problem, but I have found that even those 3 or 4 I have shared with do not want to hear it and do not want to believe it, although they have apparantly told others. It took the form talking about me spreading lies about 3abn I got from the internet. I regret I said anything to anyone. It was not welcomed and as far as I can tell it has not helped anyone, least of all me. I'm afraid that Danny Shelton is a hero among Adventists in these parts, along with Rush Limbaugh and others of his ilk.

A number of people have printed out Dr. Aril Abrahamsen's statement that is found here in this section, and shown it to their friends. He makes it clear what really happened. and this has made quite an impression around the world, also among SDA leaders.

Posted by: Skyhook Nov 23 2006, 01:47 AM

Thanks Johann. I do have a copy of Dr. Abrahamsen's statement that someone emailed to me. That is how I discovered this website. When anyone shows the least bit of open minded interest I will definately share it with them.

Printable Version of Topic

146

Click here to view this topic in its original format

BlackSDA _ 3ABN _ Linda Travels This Weekend.

Posted by: Observer Nov 15 2006, 05:14 PM

A rumor has been circulated that Linda Shelton is being considered for a position on the staff of a Western Conference in their Women's Ministries department. It is said that Linda has flown to that Conference in connection with that offer. That story is totally groundless. No such offer has been made to Linda, nor is one presently being considered. Linda is traveling for personal reasons. She is traveling over the weekend, and is expected to attend services. She will likely meet some church leadership. But, she is not officially involved in any of the programs that she may attend. She is not being considered for denominational employment in the area where she is visiting.

Posted by: Clay Nov 15 2006, 05:22 PM

well it wasn't a rumor here.... however thanks for the heads up... ☒

Posted by: Johann Nov 15 2006, 06:20 PM

> QUOTE(Clay @ Nov 16 2006, 01:22 AM) ☐
>
> well it wasn't a rumor here.... however thanks for the heads up... ☒

Not much sense in downgrading a rumor nobody heard. But preventive medicine is often accepted - just in case such a rumor should be generated.

Powered by Invision Power Board (http://www.invisionboard.com)

Printable Version of Topic

147

Click here to view this topic in its original format

BlackSDA _ 3ABN _ Money, Money, Money

Posted by: sister Oct 18 2006, 08:49 PM

For the last few years Danny has made and continues to make the following statement, "I receive the same salary as a pastor."

Well, lets do some research on this subject. All of the following figures come from copies of IRS records that can be found on the internet for non-profit organizations.

In 2003 Danny received a salary of $53,695.00, not including perks.

In 2004 Danny received a salary of $59,294.00, not including perks.

In 2005 Danny's salary jumped to $70,944.00, not including perks. That is quite a substantial leap. At the time he was still stating that he receives the same salary as a pastor. I am sure we have pastors on BSDA who could confirm the facts about salary levels. What is the base salary for an SDA pastor?

Now taking into consideration Danny's salary history of 2003-2005, I wonder what he is paying himself in 2006 and which pastor's salary he is comparing his salary with at this time? Of course most pastors do not have company supplied private jets at their disposal...

Now I do not question the right of Danny to choose to give himself any salary he desires, but the facts do not correspond with his statement. I believe that could be considered an example of purposeful deceit or what some folks call a bold faced lie. If this is indeed purposeful deceit, than in what other areas is Danny willing to "bend" the truth to serve his own purposes?

Taking into consideration the president of the Illinois Conference is on the 3ABN board, I am sure that he could supply Danny with the facts concerning the current salary of a pastor. Or perhaps I am wrong? Are SDA pastor's receiving a base salary of $70,944.00 and raising each succeeding year?

Just a small point to chew on while waiting for PrincessDrRe to share some fried meaty bits...

Posted by: sister Oct 18 2006, 09:45 PM

The next highest paid salary at 3ABN is for Larry Ewing. His name is probably new for most of you, he is the head of the accounting department for 3ABN and is also a member of the board. His wife is also a paid employee of 3ABN.

In 2004 Larry Ewing's salary was $60,729.00

In 2005 Larry Ewing's salary was $68,365.00

I wonder what his salary is for 2006?

Posted by: sister Oct 19 2006, 11:35 AM

What about Mollie Steenson? Her husband Hal also works in the pastoral department of 3ABN.

Her salary for 2004 was $44,166.00 for secretarial work.

In 2005, after Linda was removed from 3ABN, Mollie received a substantial raise with a salary of $56,729.00

I wonder what she is getting paid in 2006?

Posted by: tall73 Oct 19 2006, 12:03 PM

I don't know what Danny made, or what he claimed.

But I can speak to the pastoral issue, being a pastor.

Some of the pay is actually mileage, which is reimbursing an expense.

At the upper end it can cost up to 60 k to keep a pastor in the field--that is the cost to the organization. It would include things like mileage, health insurance, retirement, help with tuition at schools, continuing education etc.

Those are just the figures we heard at one of our constituency sessions. There was no breakdown of the numbers.

If you count just salary (since this was comparing without perks) and take out the mileage, it is around 45-46 k gross salary or so looking at my pay statement.

It is also interesting that pastors are considered to be self employed by the IRS, even though in the case of Adventist pastors we are not really. So we pay both sides of the Social Security tax as well. So that takes out an additional 7.65 percent or so.

There is also adjustment to the base for cost of living in some areas, etc.

As to raising every year, the GC does vote cost of living raises around once a year. However, not all conferences have the money on hand to actually give the raise. So you may or may not get a regular raise, but usually there is a small percentage every year.

Posted by: Clay Oct 19 2006, 12:42 PM

I don't begrudge anyone their money... and I am surprised at how low that figure is for Danny and others.... had you listed 6 figures for Danny then maybe, but they aren't making a whole lot..... as Tall pointed out when you include taxes or whatever its not as much as you think.....

The perks are a different issue..... but again, its his business to run as he wishes.... if people don't like it then they need to speak with their actions....

Posted by: simplysaved Oct 19 2006, 01:10 PM

I agree here. People SHOULD get paid well in the ministry....I like the way Joyce Meyers put it when she began her ministry. She told God and then her employees that they would be paid salaries comparable to what they would make in Corporate America.

If you are Abraham's Seed because of accepting Christ, you may not be called to be a millionaire, but you certainly do not have to be "broke" either.

Posted by: watchbird Oct 19 2006, 01:34 PM

> QUOTE(simplysaved @ Oct 19 2006, 01:10 PM)
>
> I agree here. People SHOULD get paid well in the ministry....I like the way Joyce Meyers put it when she began her ministry. She told God and then her employees that they would be paid salaries comparable to what they would make in Corporate America.
>
> If you are Abraham's Seed because of accepting Christ, you may not be called to be a millionaire, but you certainly do not have to be "broke" either.

Perhaps the real question is not how 3abn executives' salaries compares to SDA ministers' salaries.... but how do the salaries of the rank and file workers at 3abn compare with those of the top executives.

Posted by: seeshell Oct 19 2006, 02:27 PM

Yes, if the employees are expected to work for "sacrificial" salaries, it would seem only fair that the top brass participate as well or else raise the employees' wages. $50,000 - $70,000 may not be extremely high, but it's not exactly "sacrificial" either. It's considerably more than my husband and I make.

I would be interested to know what the going wage is for a 3ABN employee not in the top echelons.

At the same time, I agree...if I were an employee unable to make it on 3ABN wages, I would be looking for other employment and let my feet do the talking!

Posted by: simplysaved Oct 19 2006, 03:16 PM

Believe it or not....the SDA Presidents of the LOCAL CONFERENCES make a SIGNIFICANTLY higher salary than the local pastor at your church.

The bigger issue is what do the employees AGREE to work for....if their paycheck says something different, then that is something to be about ready to (in the Spirit of course) about.

> QUOTE(watchbird @ Oct 19 2006, 01:34 PM)
>
> Perhaps the real question is not how 3abn executives' salaries compares to SDA ministers' salaries.... but how do the salaries of the rank and file workers at 3abn compare with those of the top executives.

Posted by: calvin Oct 19 2006, 03:40 PM

> QUOTE(watchbird @ Oct 19 2006, 02:34 PM)
>
> Perhaps the real question is not how 3abn executives' salaries compares to SDA ministers' salaries.... but how do the salaries of the rank and file workers at 3abn compare with those of the top executives.

I am chairperson of a nonprofit organization and serve on the Compensation Committee. We are members of the National Council of Nonprofit Associations. http://www.ncna.org/

We use the NCNA annual compensation survey results as a guide to ensure we are in line with the market. Below is from the 2006 Nonprofit Organizations Compensations Survey for the Midwest (Nebraska, Iowa, MN), for Executive Directors/ President / Chief Executive Officer

Category - Number of Employees:
51 to 160
Avg. Salary 112,499, Low Salary 68,681, Median Salary 110,000, High Salary 165,880

Category - 2007 Estimated Budget in Dollars
6,000,000 and greater
avg. Salary 113,583, Low Salary 65,000, Median Salary 105,000, High Salary 165,880

So Danny's salary is low, underpaid according to his peers but then most Nonprofit CEO's don't fly around in private jets either.

Posted by: tall73 Oct 19 2006, 04:45 PM

> QUOTE(simplysaved @ Oct 19 2006, 04:16 PM)
>
> Believe it or not....the SDA Presidents of the LOCAL CONFERENCES make a SIGNIFICANTLY higher salary than the local pastor at your church.
>
> The bigger issue is what do the employees AGREE to work for....if their paycheck says something different, then that is something to be about ready to (in the Spirit of course) about.

I know that their mileage is handled differently and there is a small raise, but I am wondering if you have some numbers on that. I don't recall it being that much higher.

Posted by: princessdi Oct 19 2006, 05:07 PM

Yeah, I have been watching this one. I ain't mad at all about Danny's salary. Whatever we think of his methods, he built the ministry from ground up. He talks about his salary because as Adventist, we really want our pastors and leaders to " receive their blessing in heaven" so to speak. So to say that he takes a meager salary, was inessence tickling our ears, it was pleasing. Fact is, he can and deserves a much higher salary. Even though he does it with little or intergrity, it takes a lot to build a ministry, and it is a more than fulltime position.

Yes, I was talking to an former conference President not long ago about this. I think it is a little higher, and they get a few more perks, but it is not that much higher. In a familed attempt to discourage those who are called from those who just came, we have " msodest" salaries.

> QUOTE(tall73 @ Oct 19 2006, 02:45 PM) ☐
>
> I know that their mileage is handled differently and there is a small raise, but I am wondering if you have some numbers on that. I don't recall it being that much higher.

Posted by: sister Oct 19 2006, 05:33 PM

> QUOTE(watchbird @ Oct 19 2006, 02:34 PM) ☐
>
> Perhaps the real question is not how 3abn executives' salaries compares to SDA ministers' salaries.... but how do the salaries of the rank and file workers at 3abn compare with those of the top executives.

Good question. Many of the 3ABN employees receive minimum wages or just slightly more. Danny also stated that he is disappointed that more of these employees do not donate more financially to 3ABN. If you compare the sacrificial salaries of the rank and file, to the privilaged few, it takes on a different perspective.

Posted by: watchbird Oct 19 2006, 05:50 PM

> QUOTE(sister @ Oct 19 2006, 07:33 PM) ☐
>
> Good question. Many of the 3ABN employees receive minimum wages or just slightly more. Danny also stated that he is disappointed that more of these employees do not donate more financially to 3ABN. If you compare the sacrificial salaries of the rank and file, to the privilaged few, it takes on a different perspective.

Do you have any figures in what "minimum wages" translates into in terms of the amount of their gross paychecks? I'm not even sure what minimum wage currently is, but I am sure it would be stated in amount per hour. Do employees actually punch a time clock? Or do they receive a stated amount per week or per month? And if the latter, about how many hours are they expected work per week?

Posted by: caribbean sda Oct 19 2006, 06:01 PM

The 3ABN Phoenix has arisen from the proverbial ashes... I now return you to your regularly scheduled program TVsnack.

Posted by: Freedom Oct 20 2006, 08:21 AM

> QUOTE(seeshell @ Oct 19 2006, 03:27 PM)
>
> Yes, if the employees are expected to work for "sacrificial" salaries, it would seem only fair that the top brass participate as well or else raise the employees' wages. $50,000 - $70,000 may not be extremely high, but it's not exactly "sacrificial" either. It's considerably more than my husband and I make.
>
> I would be interested to know what the going wage is for a 3ABN employee not in the top echelons.
>
> At the same time, I agree...if I were an employee unable to make it on 3ABN wages, I would be looking for other employment and let my feet do the talking!

The pay for other 3abn employees is low, very low for comparable work done in corporate America. Some employees are paid such low wages they qualify for WIC, reduced rates on telephone service and electrical bills!

Yet, 3ABN management can keep taking such huge pay raises each yr. and tell the other employees that it's "a ministry for the Lord". That 3abn doesn't have lots of money.

UMM, the figures speak for themselves!
Lets, throw out another pay issues at 3abn: what about not giving equal pay for the same position/job title because of ones gender?

> QUOTE(calvin @ Oct 19 2006, 04:40 PM)
>
> I am chairperson of a nonprofit organization and serve on the Compensation Committee. We are members of the National Council of Nonprofit Associations. http://www.ncna.org/
>
> We use the NCNA annual compensation survey results as a guide to ensure we are in line with the market. Below is from the 2006 Nonprofit Organizations Compensations Survey for the Midwest (Nebraska, Iowa, MN), for Executive Directors/ President / Chief Executive Officer
>
> Category - Number of Employees:
> 51 to 160
> Avg. Salary 112,499, Low Salary 68,681, Median Salary 110,000, High Salary 165,880
>
> Category - 2007 Estimated Budget in Dollars
> 6,000,000 and greater
> avg. Salary 113,583, Low Salary 65,000, Median Salary 105,000, High Salary 165,880
>
> So Danny's salary is low, underpaid according to his peers but then most Nonprofit CEO's don't fly around in private jets either.

Wow and to know that some 3abn employees were paid under $24,000.00 a yr!

Posted by: Brother Sam Oct 20 2006, 09:09 AM

Under $24,000!!!

How about under $15,000 a year!

Posted by: sister Oct 20 2006, 11:37 AM

> QUOTE(Brother Sam @ Oct 20 2006, 10:09 AM) ☐
>
> Under $24,000!!!
>
> How about under $15,000 a year!

Around $15,000 or less is closer to what the majority of 3ABN employees make per year.

Posted by: caribbean sda Oct 20 2006, 11:40 AM

> QUOTE(Brother Sam @ Oct 20 2006, 11:09 AM) ☐
>
> Under $24,000!!!
>
> How about under $15,000 a year!

How does one survive on $15,000 per annum...I imagine it's rather difficult...

Posted by: sister Oct 20 2006, 12:25 PM

> QUOTE(caribbean sda @ Oct 20 2006, 12:40 PM) ☐
>
> How does one survive on $15,000 per annum...I imagine it's rather difficult...

It is more than difficult, especially for those with kids, in fact it is impossible. That's why there are families at 3ABN on welfare programs, they shop at the Goodwill and the Dollar store; while Danny pays himself and his cronies well, including perks that the rank and file never get. Danny lives in luxury and flies around in his private jet, while his workers live in unnecessary poverty. The workers live sacrifically, so Danny, Mollie and selected others can live high on the hog. I do not think this is what God intended...or is there any way that Danny's excesses can be justified in the sight of Heaven. Sooner or later the gravy train will stop, once donors realize where so much of their money is ending up...in the deep pockets of Danny and his cronies.

Posted by: SandyColorado Oct 20 2006, 12:37 PM

Does anyone know if Brandy is still on the payroll and how much she makes a year? If so, what does she do to earn this money?

Posted by: Panama_Pete Oct 20 2006, 12:49 PM

> QUOTE(sister @ Oct 20 2006, 12:25 PM) ☐
>
> It is more than difficult, especially for those with kids, in fact it is impossible. That's why there are families at 3ABN on welfare programs, they shop at the Goodwill and the Dollar store; while Danny pays himself and his cronies well, including perks that the rank and file never get. Danny lives in luxury and flies around in his private jet, while his workers live in unnecessary poverty. The workers live sacrifically, so Danny, Mollie and selected others can live high on the hog. I do not think this is what God intended...or is there any way that Danny's excesses can be justified in the sight of Heaven. Sooner or later the gravy train will stop, once donors realize where so much of their money is ending up...in the deep pockets of Danny and his cronies.

This is the only place I've found that mentions an "hourly cost" for flying a private jet plane, like the one you mentioned here.

The following posting is about The Tulsa Airmen and Their Magnificent Flying Machines. They use the word "Tulsa" because the "private jet" phenomenon mentioned is part of the Pentecostal - Charismatic culture that seems to emanate from there.

http://wittenburgdoor.com/archives/airmen.html

"With the high cost of jet fuel and the cost of regular FAA inspections, typical operating cost runs between $2,000 and $3,500 per hour."

I would have to suspect this knowledge would have a crippling effect on the morale of the typical employee working for sacrificial wages.

Posted by: Panama_Pete Oct 20 2006, 01:03 PM

> QUOTE(sister @ Oct 20 2006, 11:37 AM) ☐
>
> Around $15,000 or less is closer to what the majority of 3ABN employees make per year.

Perhaps you could mention that 3ABN retirement plan for the employees' old age.

I heard there was none. Is that correct?

Posted by: Clay Oct 20 2006, 01:47 PM

you not paying me much, there is no reason for me to stay... especially when I see you living large and in charge.... where is the common sense? Rule one..... if a job is stressing you, quit, find something else.... don't complain, make a plan to escape....

Posted by: sister Oct 20 2006, 01:52 PM

> QUOTE(Panama_Pete @ Oct 20 2006, 02:03 PM)
>
> Perhaps you could mention that 3ABN retirement plan for the employees' old age.
>
> I heard there was none. Is that correct?

The retirement plan for 3ABN workers is as follows:

You work as hard as humanly possible to get out the good news of Jesus Christ and you get on your knees and pray whole heartedly that Jesus comes before you are old enough to retire, other wise you will have to depend upon the mercy of the Lord to deliver your daily food by raven as he did for a prophet or you are going to starve. There is no retirement plan for the average 3ABN worker.

Posted by: caribbean sda Oct 20 2006, 02:26 PM

> QUOTE(Clay @ Oct 20 2006, 03:47 PM)
>
> you not paying me much, there is no reason for me to stay... especially when I see you living large and in charge.... where is the common sense? Rule one..... if a job is stressing you, quit, find something else.... don't complain, make a plan to escape....

...that's what I'm trying to understand. If I am being paid next to nothing and my bosses are living well, what is the rationale for me to stay in the employ of 3ABN? We have a saying in the Virgin Islands and I do hope it's not the case at 3ABN. "We like it so." I cannot see anyone "liking it so." However, I could be wrong. Honestly speaking...exactly what is the magnet that draws these workers and I would imagine they would have to be faithful to work for those wages...and be on welfare programs...what keeps them there? Is it that they are so committed to 3ABN and it's charge in spreading the gospel or is it that there is nowhere else for them to go...just what is it?

Posted by: sister Oct 20 2006, 05:11 PM

> QUOTE(caribbean sda @ Oct 20 2006, 03:26 PM) ☐
>
> ...that's what I'm trying to understand. If I am being paid next to nothing and my bosses are living well, what is the rationale for me to stay in the employ of 3ABN? We have a saying in the Virgin Islands and I do hope it's not the case at 3ABN. "We like it so." I cannot see anyone "liking it so." However, I could be wrong. Honestly speaking...exactly what is the magnet that draws these workers and I would imagine they would have to be faithful to work for those wages...and be on welfare programs...what keeps them there? Is it that they are so committed to 3ABN and it's charge in spreading the gospel or is it that there is nowhere else for them to go...just what is it?

Let me try to explain...individuals that choose to work in supporting ministries of the church come in knowing that they probably will not be paid at the same rate as they would doing the same job elsewhere. But if necessary, they are willing to take a cut in pay in order to have a job where they can serve the Lord more directly and not just work 40+ hours a week before they can get involved in ministry. Many are very dedicated workers and when they join a particular ministry it is because they believe in spreading the gospel message through the type of program the ministry uses to accomplish these goals.

Until recently, the knowledge of what went on behind the scenes at 3ABN, was limited to an extremely small group of individuals. The majority of whom either choose not to speak, because they believed to air the dirty laundry of 3ABN would cut off an important route of taking the gospel to a large groups of people, or those that did choose to blow the whistle were hounded by Danny Shelton and his lawyers, finding it impossible to be employed by the organized church or in most supporting ministries. Many have had their reputations ruined to such a degree that it is difficult to recover from the experience. Unfortunately, there is seldom a paper trail left behind to prove what Danny and his minions have been doing, that is until now...

The average employee does not know what others individuals receive for hourly or salary wages, or all the perks included for "special employees" and the administration. In the beginning you believe everything you are told, and why not, this is a gospel ministry. No one comes up to you the first day and says, "By the way, things here are not as they appear and Danny is a liar." But in time one begins to see discrepancies and starts looking for answers to questions that they are told should never be asked. And remember there are many who have left over the years and a few that have been fired for standing up to Danny. Then there are the ones who love what they are doing and choose to bury there heads in the sand in order to remain. Like the three monkeys, "they hear no evil, see no evil and speak not evil." But at what cost to their conscience?

Posted by: lurker Oct 20 2006, 07:08 PM

I believe that I was told that 3ABN provided Danny and Linda with the use of new cars or trucks each year. I am wondering if this is still being done for Danny and/or Brandy? Has this changed? If I remember correctly, ET and her husband also had the use of an apartment for a very reduced amount. Does John Lomacang pay rent or does he get his housing provided? Which substantial contributors, trustees, directors, officers, creators, key employees or members of their families are provided with goods, services or facilities as well as higher wages than the less favored lower paid workers?

Posted by: husbandoftheyear Oct 20 2006, 09:03 PM

I was once behind a new employee when they were getting things situated with the accounting department when I heard the accounting person tell the new employee that they should go and get Public Aid since they would qualify. This was a person who had just started the job!

A couple of years ago Tommy Shelton did some research on 3ABN jobs compared to corporate America and began trying to even out the wages. That didn't last long. Now, to avoid paying more, administration won't give the "titles" to go with the responsibilities. The employees may do the work, but they don't have the title and therefore no pay...go figure.

Posted by: Johann Oct 21 2006, 10:23 AM

Is Psalm 52 appropriate in this context?

Why do you boast, O mighty man, of miscief done against the godly?
All the day you are plotting destruction,
Your tongue is like a sharp razor,
you worker of treachery.
You love evil more than good,
and lying more than speaking the truth. Selah
You love words that devour,
O deceitful tongue.

But God will break you down for ever;
he will snatch and tear you from the tenth;
he will uproot you from the land of the living. Selah

The righteous shall see, and fear, and shall laugh at him, saying,
"See the man who would not make God his refuge,
but trusted in the abundance of riches,
and sought refuge in his wealth!"

But I am like a green olive tree in the house of God.
I trust in the stadfast love of God for ever and ever.
I will thank thee for ever,
because thou hast done it.
I will procalim thy name, for it is good,
in the presence of the godly.

Posted by: Johann Nov 10 2006, 03:05 PM

Our Lord answered the great foe with words of Scripture.

Are there other words from the Bible that are appropriate?

Posted by: husbandoftheyear Nov 12 2006, 03:25 PM

QUOTE(Panama_Pete @ Oct 20 2006, 02:03 PM) ☐

> Perhaps you could mention that 3ABN retirement plan for the employees' old age.
>
> I heard there was none. Is that correct?

Absolutely correct.

Posted by: Ralph Nov 12 2006, 06:32 PM

> QUOTE(Clay @ Oct 20 2006, 01:47 PM)
>
> you not paying me much, there is no reason for me to stay... especially when I see you living large and in charge.... where is the common sense? Rule one..... if a job is stressing you, quit, find something else.... don't complain, make a plan to escape....

If a person happens to be young and single and has no sense of loyalty to the present employer, it may not be difficult to just up and leave, but consider this:

To find a new job, a person probably has to lose work while he is looking. It is seldom with the blessing of the employer. References will be needed and maybe there will be some phone calls made.

Assuming that a person is able to find an employment elsewhere, there are other considerations. Most apartment managers ask for a month's rent as a damage deposit plus the upcoming rent payment. If a person has a damage deposit returned from their previous landlord, it won't arrive until about the 15th of the following month. Besides this, there is the expense of closing accounts and then opening accounts at the new location for bank and utilities. Some utility companies require a down payment from a new customer. There is the expense of transporting household belongings from one place to another and the added expense of buying household goods where the old ones just don't fit the bill.

Then there are emotional ties. Both wife and husband are going to be torn away from close friends that they have made. The children will be torn away from their school friends. That is not easy.

I can only imagine that employees could feel that they are traitors to the ministry and may wonder if they are selling their souls by opting out of the Lord's work

---

Printable Version of Topic

(148)

Click here to view this topic in its original format

BlackSDA _ 3ABN _ 3ABN crucial documents

Posted by: sister Apr 30 2006, 04:13 PM

> QUOTE(sister @ Apr 19 2006, 06:49 PM) ☐
>
> This is the most recent letter that is circulating attributed to Dr. Walter Thompson:
>
> From Walter Thompson
> Chairman, 3ABN board of Directors
>
> Regarding Danny's marriage
>
> Dear Family and Friends of 3ABN,
>
> Two years ago 3ABN was challenged by the most difficult battle the ministry has ever faced. It was a battle that threatened the very existence of the ministry and the work of preaching the end time message of the Three Angel's to the world. It is only because of the grace and power of God Almighty, and the faithful support of you, the 3ABN family, that the ministry has survived to preach another day. Today, the ministry is stronger than it has ever been and its reach into the world even broader and more powerful for the cause of truth.
>
> As is always the case when in the public eye, questions arise,stories abound, and rumors spread. We thank God that you have trusted the leadership and board of 3ABN during this time and have stayed with us in ministry. More recently some of you have heard that Danny has found one to comfort him in his loneliness and sorrow. You may have also heard rumors about an allegedly illegal divorce occurring without Biblical grounds. This letter is an attempt to fill you in with the facts.
>
> As chairman of the board I have been in the midst of this long and drawn out ordeal from the beginning. I was there when we counseled with Linda over and over again. I was present during the pleas and prayers, seeking to get her to give up her relationship with the doctor. I have seen and heard the evidence upon which the board has taken the action that it has taken. I have been one that has plead with Linda to keep her marriage and her ministry and offered to provide counseling for them. I have known Danny and Linda almost from the beginning of the ministry and have been in their home many times. They had a good marriage. It was not until this third party got in the middle did things begin to fall apart. It is also true that Danny really did want to get back together again, but when it became obvious that couldn't happen, he correctly had to close the door on that part of his history lest it destroy him and the ministry.
>
> The divorce was a mutually agreed thing, even the choice to get it from Guam where there would be no long wait. Linda had originally planned to move to Las Vegas long enough to become a resident there so as to get a divorce there. They then discovered the possibility of a divorce from Guam, checked it out and found it to be legal, and decided to go that route. Though I believe Guam has now stopped the program, the legality of a Guam divorce had previously been taken to the U.S. Supreme Court where it was ruled legitimate. As chairman of the board, I did not try to influence the decision, but I will say that had they not obtained a quick divorce, the ministry would have been placed at much greater risk since the situation was causing so much dysfunction with leadership and staff. I believe time has verified the correctness of what was done then, both by Danny and by the board for the ministry.
>
> Linda's web site recently stated that she and Danny were not divorced. She wrote this after the judge made the decision in Danny's favor. She claims she did not know this when she wrote it. Her web site referred to an e mail I sent to Johann Thorvaldson a year earlier saying that I had never accused her of adultery. I believe that exchange with him was in response to an accusation by him that we had fired her because of adultery. I was merely saying that she was not fired for adultery, but because she had defied the board in not discontinuing a relationship that was threatening to destroy the ministry. (I might add that the doctor also told me he would not break off the relationship, even though I pled with him to do so.) That letter to Johann was correct, and it is true that I have never directly accused her of adultery. That does not mean that I believe Linda is innocent. If by adultery one must be caught in bed with another person, I cannot prove Linda has committed adultery. If, on the other hand, hard evidence indicates that Linda was involved in an unacceptable relationship with another man qualifies for adultery, then there is no question about Danny's moral right to marry again. As a board, we have chosen not to make the details of the evidence available to the public. I believe Satan is the accuser of the brethern. We have chosen to take the "high road" in this whole situation and say nothing more than we have been forced to say to try to quell rumors. We care about Linda and have tried not to do anything to hurt her more than she has already been hurt. I can tell you that I personally spent a great deal of time at 3ABN during those months when this was all happening. I spoke with Linda and Danny on numerous occasions. A sub committee of the board met and prayed with Danny and Linda and pled with Linda to call off the relationship. Danny and Linda spent an 8 hour session with a pair of Christian counselors (non-Adventist in an attempt to avoid bias) who had no doubts about the nature of Linda's conduct. We offered to provide Linda with the opportunity to go away for counseling with a counselor agreeable to both she and us. She did not respond to that offer or request. Finally, the full board met, reviewed Linda's letter of explanation, and voted unanimously to remove her from the ministry and her seat on the board. Other church leaders who have been privy to some of the evidence we have are in full agreement with our decision.

The relationship Linda had with the Norwegian Dr. was not a normal doctor-patient relationship as she claims. It is true. Linda was very concerned about her son Nathan. He was the vehicle through which the Dr. reached Linda. Our evidence leaves no question that this became much more than a doctor-patient relationship. We know that the long hours on the phone together were not about Nathan and have hard evidence to support this knowledge - nor were times spent together on both sides of the Atlantic. Furthermore, she refused to break it off, even after weeks of pleading with her to do so. We, the board believe the evidence we have clearly justifies the divorce and gives Danny the moral and legal right to remarry. Those in church leadership with whom we have shared some of this evidence agree with us. Out of concern for Linda we have been reluctant to make details public.

No, Danny is not to blame for what has happened here. On the contrary, he has bent over backwards trying to make things work and meeting her requests. Yet, she has never acknowledged that it was wrong for her to have another "friend". The things I have stated here are accurate and correct. As far as the lady Danny has married is concerned, I can only say I believe his new wife is a very good person and will be a real asset to him as he carries on his heavy responsibilities. Just to clarify any rumor you may have heard, this relationship began long after the divorce. I was at 3ABN when this lady came from Florida looking for work. There was nothing going on before that time, and Danny definitely was not trying to "dump" Linda. I was with him during much of the time he agonized and mourned her loss. It is one thing to lose a loved one in death. It is much different to lose one to another lover - like cutting a dog's tail off one inch at a time! As to the matter of age difference, I will say that I do not believe that is any of my business. I find nothing in the Bible, and I don't remember any thing in the SOP indicating age differences for married couples. If it is legal, and morally correct, and if entered into with honesty, sincerity and earnest prayer for God's guidance, as I know happened here, it is not for me to criticize. In my own musings about this, I have concluded that it was no accident that brought Brandy to 3ABN. Either the devil was behind it, or God was. There is no question in my mind which one it was.

(Archo Dart was for many years a family and marriage counselor in the Adventist church. When in his 80's, he married one of my patients, who was then in her 50's. She loved and admired him till death many years later.)

I have had an interesting thought this week that I will share with you. It is this. God lost one of his > closest companions when Lucifer went astray. More than that, myriads more angels left with him when he left heaven. Talk about grief or emotional pain. Experiences such as this with Linda, I think, help us to understand the pain of loss, and the reality of the war between God and Satan. Some have claimed it takes two to divorce. I don't think that is categorically true!

>
> This has been a terrible injury that has hit 3abn and Danny, and yes, Linda too, but it is one that I believe God understands - and He continues to bless his servants.
>
> We recognize that we live in a world at war, and are working with a ministry that the devil would like to see destroyed. The war is real, and as in any other war there are real casualties. War is never pleasant, and spiritual battles maybe some of the worst. Our hearts still ache for those who have been wounded. Our prayers continue to ascend on their behalf. Should acknowledgement of wrongdoing and penitence ever occur, we would be the first to forgive and forget. Unfortunately, that has not happened, and we must move on.
>
> Some who have been aware of the growing relationship and the possibility of marriage have thought they should wait for a longer period of time before marrying. In discussions before the event, the 3ABN board reviewed the events of the past couple years and have agreed that there was no moral or legal reason precluding marriage. Realizing the heavy burdens resting on Danny and of his need for companionship, we, the board did not see any reason not to give our blessing to their union. We hope you, our 3ABN family, will agree too, and with us, welcome Brandy with open arms.
>
> Should you have any questions that I might answer, please feel free to send them to me at 3ABN and I will do my best to try to answer them.
>
> Sincerely in the precious name of Jesus,
>
> Walter Thompson
> Chairman, 3ABN Board of Directors.
> Walter Thompson MD

This is the letter you were looking for from Dr. Walter Thompson, I posted it about a week ago.
Sister

Posted by: NormF Apr 30 2006, 05:38 PM

> QUOTE(sister @ Apr 30 2006, 05:13 PM)
>
> This is the letter you were looking for from Dr. Walter Thompson, I posted it about a week ago.
> Sister

Dear Sister,

Thank you for posting the Thompson Letter again, here where it's close at hand. Immediacy is always helpful.

However, for those interested in knowing more and willing to surf a bit, check out the thread on the same subject, http://clubadventist.com/adventist/showflat.php?Cat=0&Board=threeabn&Number=213458&page=0&fpart=all, found at Club Adventist. Moderator Gregory Matthews appended some thoughtful comments under it that I'd recommend reading. And of course, many additional posts follow up on that.

Regards,
Norm

Posted by: Clay Apr 30 2006, 06:53 PM

They may not be able to access it if they are not members of that forum (Club Adventist).....

Another thought is this.... since it is said that Mr. Shelton believes God speaks to him, I wonder why God didn't tell Mr. Shelton to do as he told Hosea to do with Gomer?

> QUOTE
>
> Hosea 3:1
> Then GOD ordered me, "Start all over: Love your wife again,
>
> your wife who's in bed with her latest boyfriend, your > cheating wife.
>
>
> Love her the way I, GOD, love the Israelite people,
>
> even as they flirt and party with every god that takes their fancy."

Posted by: summertime Apr 30 2006, 07:32 PM

> QUOTE(Clay @ Apr 30 2006, 07:53 PM) ☐
>
> They may not be able to access it if they are not members of that forum (Club Adventist).....
>
> Another thought is this.... since it is said that Mr. Shelton believes God speaks to him, I wonder why God didn't tell Mr. Shelton to do as he told Hosea to do with Gomer?

Because both God and Mr. Shelton knew that she had never been in bed with the doctor.

Posted by: sister Apr 30 2006, 07:39 PM

> QUOTE(Clay @ Apr 30 2006, 07:53 PM) ☐
>
> They may not be able to access it if they are not members of that forum (Club Adventist).....
>
> Another thought is this.... since it is said that Mr. Shelton believes God speaks to him, I wonder why God didn't tell Mr. Shelton to do as he told Hosea to do with Gomer?

Clay, the problem may be that Mr. Shelton has not read his Bible enough to know that we are supposed to "test the Spirits" and if the voice he hears does not agree with the Word of God, he best pick up his feet and compense to start a runnin'. That he attributes this voice to God, don't make it rightly so. And comparing the "good book" with the actions of Mr. Danny, they are not even in the same ballpark. Just a thought...

Posted by: Clay May 1 2006, 02:32 PM

> QUOTE(awesumtenor @ May 1 2006, 01:56 PM) ☐
>
> More info for inquiring minds... This article ran in the February 2006 issue of AToday and speaks on financial irregularities discovered at 3ABN during their recent tax case against the state of Illinois... thanks goes to Fran for getting it into .pdf format for upload.
>
> Just click the link and your browser should load it; most browsers should be able to load and display the file but you may need to install Adobe Acrobat Reader which you can do http://www.adobe.com/products/acrobat/readstep2.html
>
> [attachmentid=581]
>
> In His service,
> Mr. J

thanks Kevin and thanks Fran for the heads up....

Posted by: Hersheys99 May 1 2006, 03:47 PM

Thanks for sharing that with us. Very enlightening indeed.

Posted by: Fran May 1 2006, 05:24 PM

> QUOTE(Hersheys99 @ May 1 2006, 04:47 PM) ☐
>
> Thanks for sharing that with us. Very enlightening indeed.

Documented stuff:

The 2001 Form 990 has 5 pages of notes attached to the return. (You can request copies of these Form 990 returns from the IRS. They are available for the requesting)

Quote:

Page 1; Statement 2
Form 990, Part I, Line 20
Other Changes in net Assets or Fund Balances

supposed to "test the Spirits" and if the voice he hears does not agree with the Word of God, he best pick up his feet and compense to start a runnin'. That he attributes this voice to God, don't make it rightly so. And comparing the "good book" with the actions of Mr. Danny, they are not even in the same ballpark. Just a thought...

Posted by: Clay May 1 2006, 02:32 PM

> QUOTE(awesumtenor @ May 1 2006, 01:56 PM) ☐
>
> More info for inquiring minds... This article ran in the February 2006 issue of AToday and speaks on financial irregularities discovered at 3ABN during their recent tax case against the state of Illinois... thanks goes to Fran for getting it into .pdf format for upload.
>
> Just click the link and your browser should load it; most browsers should be able to load and display the file but you may need to install Adobe Acrobat Reader which you can do http://www.adobe.com/products/acrobat/readstep2.html
>
> [attachmentid=581]
>
> In His service,
> Mr. J

thanks Kevin and thanks Fran for the heads up....

Posted by: Hersheys99 May 1 2006, 03:47 PM

Thanks for sharing that with us. Very enlightening indeed.

Posted by: Fran May 1 2006, 05:24 PM

> QUOTE(Hersheys99 @ May 1 2006, 04:47 PM) ☐
>
> Thanks for sharing that with us. Very enlightening indeed.

Documented stuff:

The 2001 Form 990 has 5 pages of notes attached to the return. (You can request copies of these Form 990 returns from the IRS. They are available for the requesting)

Quote:

Page 1; Statement 2
Form 990, Part I, Line 20
Other Changes in net Assets or Fund Balances

supposed to "test the Spirits" and if the voice he hears does not agree with the Word of God, he best pick up his feet and compense to start a runnin'. That he attributes this voice to God, don't make it rightly so. And comparing the "good book" with the actions of Mr. Danny, they are not even in the same ballpark. Just a thought...

Posted by: Clay May 1 2006, 02:32 PM

> QUOTE(awesumtenor @ May 1 2006, 01:56 PM) ☐
>
> More info for inquiring minds... This article ran in the February 2006 issue of AToday and speaks on financial irregularities discovered at 3ABN during their recent tax case against the state of Illinois... thanks goes to Fran for getting it into .pdf format for upload.
>
> Just click the link and your browser should load it; most browsers should be able to load and display the file but you may need to install Adobe Acrobat Reader which you can do http://www.adobe.com/products/acrobat/readstep2.html
>
> [attachmentid=581]
>
> In His service,
> Mr. J

thanks Kevin and thanks Fran for the heads up....

Posted by: Hersheys99 May 1 2006, 03:47 PM

Thanks for sharing that with us. Very enlightening indeed.

Posted by: Fran May 1 2006, 05:24 PM

> QUOTE(Hersheys99 @ May 1 2006, 04:47 PM) ☐
>
> Thanks for sharing that with us. Very enlightening indeed.

Documented stuff:

The 2001 Form 990 has 5 pages of notes attached to the return. (You can request copies of these Form 990 returns from the IRS. They are available for the requesting)

Quote:

Page 1; Statement 2
Form 990, Part I, Line 20
Other Changes in net Assets or Fund Balances

Wise accountants run Income and Expense frequently and always benchmark their growth by comparing the current period to the same period over in the past few months/years. When this is done, there will be better control over expenses and tweaking of the budget to better follow the mission of the Corporation.

[b]The Chart of Accounts is vital. The account names should clearly describe what the account is in terms understood by all end user whoever they may be. Some entities hide things by using strange account names.[/b]

I have over simplified the meaning of Financial Statements. There are many more reports such as the Statement of Cash Flow and others. These are only the most basic required statements.

Back to the report from the form 990. What are "Split Interest Agreements"? I have never heard of an account under this title. However, the auditors clearly said this is in the IL vs. 3ABN Tax Lawsuit.

Quote:

Sorry, this is 46 pages. To read it in its entirety you will have to follow the link. It is a pdf file at:

http://www.revenue.state.il.us/legalinformation/hearings/pt/pt04-1.pdf
<hr /></blockquote>

Footnotes 14 & 15 on page 17

Quote:
----

14 The financial report for 2000 contains additional concerns found by the independent auditors.

15 Applicant's financial reports raise additional questions and concerns. For example, [/color[the unrecorded contribution revenue related to charitable gift annuity agreements were not recorded in conformance with generally accepted accounting principles. The "related party transactions" were acknowledged without identifying the parties.

The notes refer to "split interest agreements," where applicant received the assets funding the trusts and applicant is to pay certain amounts for specified periods of time to the donors. There is nothing in the record to identify the donors or the assets. None of the trust agreements were supplied. (Applicant's Ex. Nos. 14, 15)--

Wise accountants run Income and Expense frequently and always benchmark their growth by comparing the current period to the same period over in the past few months/years. When this is done, there will be better control over expenses and tweaking of the budget to better follow the mission of the Corporation.

[b]The Chart of Accounts is vital. The account names should clearly describe what the account is in terms understood by all end user whoever they may be. Some entities hide things by using strange account names.[/b]

I have over simplified the meaning of Financial Statements. There are many more reports such as the Statement of Cash Flow and others. These are only the most basic required statements.

Back to the report from the form 990. What are "Split Interest Agreements"? I have never heard of an account under this title. However, the auditors clearly said this is in the IL vs. 3ABN Tax Lawsuit.

Quote:

Sorry, this is 46 pages. To read it in its entirety you will have to follow the link. It is a pdf file at:

http://www.revenue.state.il.us/legalinformation/hearings/pt/pt04-1.pdf
<hr /></blockquote>

Footnotes 14 & 15 on page 17

Quote:
----

14 The financial report for 2000 contains additional concerns found by the independent auditors.

15 Applicant's financial reports raise additional questions and concerns. For example, [/color[the unrecorded contribution revenue related to charitable gift annuity agreements were not recorded in conformance with generally accepted accounting principles. The "related party transactions" were acknowledged without identifying the parties.

The notes refer to "split interest agreements," where applicant received the assets funding the trusts and applicant is to pay certain amounts for specified periods of time to the donors. There is nothing in the record to identify the donors or the assets. None of the trust agreements were supplied. (Applicant's Ex. Nos. 14, 15)--

Associates Degree should understand the importance of the Chart of Accounts and they should understand Income Statements and Balance Sheets. They also know the importance of listing assets and depreciation.

3ABN has been in business over 20 years. This, in itself should say that they have a CFO and more than one accountant. They should have policies and procedures to know what to do when things happen. They should understand the valuation of assets and they should KNOW that the TRUSTS are required to be available. Why did they refuse to give a list of the people on these TRUSTS?

Please reread the comments on the Form 990 and then read the comments from the IL vs. 3ABN Tax Lawsuit.

.

This problem repeats itself.

There is a correction on the 990 for 2002 in the amount of $1,705,916 as Split Interests (TRUSTS) well as an Adjustment of Cash Revocable Trusts in the amount of (- $25,000 negative) .

The 2003 Form 990 reports the there was a Change in the value of Split Interest Agreements in the amount of (-$775,816 negative).

It is clear to see the problem is not what IS on the statements, but what is NOT on the statements. Discrepancies are usually found by honest auditors that are truly independent. However, how can auditors find things if all the source documents are hidden from the auditors?

This brings the Lake Region Conference to mind. It is clearly apparent that 3ABN needs some oversight and direction to establish accountability.

My apologies to anyone currently having Trust Funds with 3ABN

Posted by: Fran May 1 2006, 05:43 PM

> QUOTE
>
> ---
>
> Post #196692 - Tue Nov 29 2005 02:54 PM (From a player, at the mostly Whitesda forum)
>
> ---
>
> Retirees are bigger, more consistent donors. A higher percentage of them have more disposable finances. They have reached an age when they are often thinking more > seriously about life and death, and they are often eager to make their remaining time and assets count for Christ in a bigger way. It is not difficult to make them believe that their assets will do more for Christ, when put to use by another organization, than they would in the Church. One can play on the perception that the church is continuously misusing money for extravagance and make them believe that every dollar will go directly to God's work when it is in another's hands.

>
> Furthermore, they are at the age when estate planning is appropriate. Many of the trusts give the holder immediate access to 40% of the principle and 60% is held for annual payout to the donor at rates that vary by age.
>
> In interesting side note on that topic is that the percentage-to-age ratio of return is generally set to national statistics on longevity. Seventh-day Adventists live about ten years longer. [b]Where this can be a problem is that during that extra ten years enjoyed by an Adventist donor, the 60% principle held for the donor can be used up as their percentage of return increases, potentially leaving the trust holder owing the donor money that isn't there.

What happens to all those trusts that never got posted? I have supplied font colors and bolding.

Posted by: Clay May 1 2006, 06:06 PM

Fran,
Thanks for the crash course in accounting. It is clear that 3abn is a hot mess from a financial standpoint also... again I am reminded of Robert Tilton, Pat Robertson, and other televangelists who have done some shaky financial things......

It is unfortunate that some people will not be convinced even with this evidence...

Posted by: NormF May 3 2006, 05:46 PM

Clay said of my post several pages back providing an outside link on some relevant comments:

> QUOTE(Clay @ Apr 30 2006, 07:53 PM) ☐
> They may not be able to access it if they are not members of that forum (Club Adventist).....

Dear Steve,

You are right; the link I provided only works if you are a C/A member and logged in. For the sake of non-members, let me reprise here. First, Dr. Thompson's letter with footnoting marks inserted, then Gregory Matthews' footnotes following that.

> From Walter Thompson
> Chairman, 3ABN board of Directors
>
> Regarding Danny's marriage
>
> Dear Family and Friends of 3ABN,
>
> Two years ago 3ABN was challenged by the most difficult battle the ministry has ever faced. It was a battle that threatened the very existence of the ministry and the work of > seriously about life and death, and they are often eager to make their remaining time and assets count for Christ in a bigger way. It is not difficult to make them believe that their assets will do more for Christ, when put to use by another organization, than they would in the Church. One can play on the perception that the church is continuously misusing money for extravagance and make them believe that every dollar will go directly to God's work when it is in another's hands.

>
> Furthermore, they are at the age when estate planning is appropriate. Many of the trusts give the holder immediate access to 40% of the principle and 60% is held for annual payout to the donor at rates that vary by age.
>
> In interesting side note on that topic is that the percentage-to-age ratio of return is generally set to national statistics on longevity. Seventh-day Adventists live about ten years longer. [b]Where this can be a problem is that during that extra ten years enjoyed by an Adventist donor, the 60% principle held for the donor can be used up as their percentage of return increases, potentially leaving the trust holder owing the donor money that isn't there.

What happens to all those trusts that never got posted? I have supplied font colors and bolding.

Posted by: Clay May 1 2006, 06:06 PM

Fran,
Thanks for the crash course in accounting. It is clear that 3abn is a hot mess from a financial standpoint also... again I am reminded of Robert Tilton, Pat Robertson, and other televangelists who have done some shaky financial things......

It is unfortunate that some people will not be convinced even with this evidence...

Posted by: NormF May 3 2006, 05:46 PM

Clay said of my post several pages back providing an outside link on some relevant comments:

> QUOTE(Clay @ Apr 30 2006, 07:53 PM) ☐
> They may not be able to access it if they are not members of that forum (Club Adventist).....

Dear Steve,

You are right; the link I provided only works if you are a C/A member and logged in. For the sake of non-members, let me reprise here. First, Dr. Thompson's letter with footnoting marks inserted, then Gregory Matthews' footnotes following that.

> From Walter Thompson
> Chairman, 3ABN board of Directors
>
> Regarding Danny's marriage
>
> Dear Family and Friends of 3ABN,
>
> Two years ago 3ABN was challenged by the most difficult battle the ministry has ever faced. It was a battle that threatened the very existence of the ministry and the work of acknowledged that it was wrong for her to have another "friend" Note 7. The things I have stated here are accurate and correct. As far as the lady Danny has married is concerned, I can only say I believe his new wife is a very good person and will be a real asset to him as he carries on his heavy responsibilities. Just to clarify any rumor you may have heard, this relationship began long after the divorce. I was at 3ABN when this lady came from Florida looking for work. There was nothing going on before that time, and Danny definitely was not trying to "dump" Linda. I was with him during much of the time he agonized and mourned her loss. It is one thing to lose a loved one in death. It is much different to lose one to another lover - like cutting a dog's tail off one inch at a time! As to the matter of age difference, I will say that I do not believe that is any of my business. I find nothing in the Bible, and I don't remember any thing in the SOP indicating age differences for married couples. If it is legal, and morally correct, and if entered into with honesty, sincerity and earnest prayer for God's guidance, as I know happened here, it is not for me to criticize. In my own musings about this, I have concluded that it was no accident that brought Brandy to 3ABN. Either the devil was behind it, or God was. There is no question in my mind which one it was Note 8.

(Archo Dart was for many years a family and marriage counselor in the Adventist church. When in his 80's, he married one of my patients, who was then in her 50's. She loved and admired him till death many years later.)

I have had an interesting thought this week that I will share with you. It is this. God lost one of his closest companions when Lucifer went astray. More than that, myriads more angels left with him when he left heaven. Talk about grief or emotional pain. Experiences such as this with Linda, I think, help us to understand the pain of loss, and the reality of the war between God and Satan. Some have claimed it takes two to divorce. I don't think that is categorically true!

This has been a terrible injury that has hit 3abn and Danny, and yes, Linda too, but it is one that I believe God understands - and He continues to bless his servants.

We recognize that we live in a world at war, and are working with a ministry that the devil would like to see destroyed. The war is real, and as in any other war there are real casualties. War is never pleasant, and spiritual battles maybe some of the worst. Our hearts still ache for those who have been wounded. Our prayers continue to ascend on their behalf. Should acknowledgement of wrongdoing and penitence ever occur, we would be the first to forgive and forget. Unfortunately, that has not happened, and we must move on.

Some who have been aware of the growing relationship and the possibility of marriage have thought they should wait for a longer period of time before marrying. In discussions before the event, the 3ABN board reviewed the events of the past couple years and have agreed that there was no moral or legal reason precluding marriage. Realizing the heavy burdens resting on Danny and of his need for companionship, we, the board did not see any reason not to give our blessing to their union. We hope you, our 3ABN family, will agree too, and with us, welcome Brandy with open arms Note 9.

Should you have any questions that I might answer, please feel free to send them to me at 3ABN and I will do my best to try to answer them.

Sincerely in the precious name of Jesus,

Walter Thompson
Chairman, 3ABN Board of Directors.
Walter Thompson MD

Now here are the footnoted comments of Gregory Matthews (an SDA chaplain by the way) to Thompson's public letter above:

Note 1: Those of us who may be considered critics are loyal supporters of the Seventh-day Adventist Church and of the work of God on planet Earth. We acknowledge that God led Danny and Linda Shelton to establish 3-ABN, a ministry that for many years has been led by God. We are thankful for what God has accomplished in the ministry of 3-ABN. To many people, 3-ABN is the face of the Seventh-day Adventist Church.

Now a scandal has tarred the face of that ministry. People are asking if God is still leading in the ministry of 3-ABN, and/or if God is using present leadership of 3-ABN to guide it in its ministry. These questions are sincere, and valid. Those who have supported 3-ABN in the past, have honest questions. We believe that God is still leading, not only in human life on this planet, but in the ministry of those whom God has called to leadership. But, we are reminded of times in the history of our denomination when human leaders made mistakes. God intervened, and in some cases, but not all, removed those leaders, and allowed old ministries to be replaced by new ones that were more receptive to the leading of the Holy Spirit.

We are waiting to see how God leads in the ministry of 3-ABN. We do not know what God has in mind for 3-ABN. But, we do know that if its leadership fails to follow the leading of the Holy Spirit, God will act in whatever manner God knows is best.

Note 2: None of us who know the law, have ever challenged the right of Guam to issue a divorce to citizens of the United States. We were aware that the U.S. Supreme Court had previously ruled on that question. However, even when divorces are obtained in one of the States of the United States, they may be subject to challenge. Some felt that the Guam divorce was subject to challenge. An [Illinois] State Court has dismissed that challenge. The Guam divorce is legal.

As to the issue of Biblical grounds for Danny to divorce Linda, and then to remarry another, that is a much more complex question. Some of the more liberal SDAs believe in multiple grounds for divorce and remarriage. But, in general, those who are the strongest supporters of 3-ABN believe that divorce followed by remarriage is only Biblical when the other has committed physical adultery. When those people hear ([or] read) 3-ABN say [ing] that Danny had Biblical grounds, they understand that to mean that Linda physically committed adultery. They simply do not understand "Biblical grounds" for divorce and remarriage in any other way.

Note 3: I find the last sentence very interesting. Here it is said that Danny faced a decision between his marriage and his ministry and he chose his ministry. No ministry is dependent upon one person. The ministry of 3-ABN could go on without it present leadership. God is involved, and God will both remove and provide.

Note 4: One might say that the divorce was mutually agreed upon. That does not mean that both parties wanted the divorce. Often in a divorce, one party wants the divorce, the other agrees to it due to the fact that that party sees no option for reconciliation. I have found that one can often understand some of the dynamics that are going on in a divorce by looking at who it is that filed the action to divorce.

Note 5: Court rulings are complex. Sometimes non-lawyers misunderstand what a court has decided. There was a period of time where Linda and others were misinformed as to the ruling of the [Illinois] Court. All who did so regret that misunderstanding.

I am not aware of any time in which anyone has officially accused Linda of physical adultery. But when one talks about Biblical grounds, moral rights, and inappropriate relationships, many of the 3-ABN supporters will hear adultery. From the practical standpoint, 3-ABN might just as well have claimed that Linda committed such. In many ways, I believe that such [a] lack of focus as to what Linda did has hurt her more than an actual charge of adultery would have damaged her. One can rebut a specific charge. It is very hard to rebut a non-specific charge.

> Note 6: Again, words and terms are used that communicate physical adultery to 3-ABN supporters. It is implied the Linda and the M.D. had a relationship that was more than professional. There is a clear implication that the 3-ABN Board has evidence that cannot be questioned. One of my questions regarding this is: to what extent was Linda allowed to present a defense? Accusations were made, and people testified before the Board. Was Linda allowed to present a defense in person? Was she allowed to bring witnesses to the Board to testify? If she was not granted all of the above, and more, the Board cannot say that they have evidence that cannot be questioned.
>
> I raise these questions because of what has been circulated by others, to include supporters of 3-ABN. It has been said that the Board once heard evidence that the previous night Linda had spent the night with an adult male, not a relative that was married to another woman. It is also said that because Linda was not allowed to be present, and to present witnesses, that the Board never heard that the previous night the referenced male, and his wife[], had spent the night with Linda, with both helping her to prepare her written defense, as she was not going to be allowed to be personally present.
>
> Note 7: This entire situation is a tragedy. I have not, and do not intend to criticize Danny for his remarriage. But, that is probably because I may be more liberal than are many of the 3-ABN supporters. If the Board is wrong about the relationship that Linda had with that Dr., then the Board is wrong to tell people that Danny had Biblical grounds.
>
> Note 8: I agree, so what if there is an age difference[?] Nothing should be made of that. Your second from the last sentence is interesting.
>
> Note 9: Brandy should not be the focus of this. Regardless of right or wrong, the issues do not lie with her. The rights or wrongs lie with others. I join you in hoping that people on all sides of this issue will welcome her and the children that she brings to this marriage with both open arms, and with the love of the Lord Jesus Christ.
>
> Let me insert this clarification in Gregory's comment above: Elder Johann Thorvaldsson, the former European liason for 3ABN, has publicly identified himself as this person, stating that he and his late wife were in fact the very persons in question here. -- Norm

I find Gregory's comments eye-opening. It is easy to get lost within a long document and lose one's overall perspective. Comments like these help one regain that perspective. If ever there were a need for seeing the big picture, this is such an instance.

Regards,
Norm

Posted by: watchbird May 6 2006, 08:52 AM

> QUOTE(Clay @ May 6 2006, 06:02 AM) ☐
>
> What will probably happen is what usually happens. If this 3ABN mess blows up and gets national > attention, the official church position will be to distance itself, saying that 3ABN was an independent ministry without church oversight, thus it cannot be held responsible for what happened there.

And an examination of historical documents, as well as of the observations of persons who observed and/or discussed them at the time, will show that this is not only the correct, but the only legitimate position that they CAN take. For not only was 3ABN an "independent ministry" in the sense of not being owned, directly operated by, or financed at least in part by the official Church entity, but they will show that 3ABN was also an "independent" ministry in the sense of refusing to sign an agreement which would have given the GC even a voice in the administration and program selection of 3ABN.

We saw the reaction of the 3ABN board to this document earlier in one of sister's history vignettes. But unless I missed something (and I do try to pay attention) the substance of this agreement has neither been posted or discussed. But seeing the documents for ouselves might give us more comprehension as to what is meant by "contol" in the 3ABN context.

While it is true that specific church leaders can be faulted for continuing to support and utilize 3ABN after they had ample opportunity to learn of the perfidous things that were going on there, that does not mean that the church as a legal entity had any legal ability to intervene in 3ABN affairs. So, with their hands securely tied not only legally but also by knowledge of the kinds of tactics that had been and were being used on those who did not bow at the Danny altar (as Beartrap and others have described), if they make every attempt to deny complicity that will be fairly close to being factual. (One can only hope that they will take this position rather than entering any legal battle that is involved on the side of support for 3ABN.)

That does not mean that I think they should not have made greater attempts that they did. But the history of the relationship between independent ministries (which used to be called "self-supporting" ministries) and what they call disparagingly the "organized work" is long and contorted and has resulted in the situations that we see today, of which 3ABN is only one example.

Posted by: beartrap May 6 2006, 08:12 PM

> QUOTE(watchbird @ May 6 2006, 09:52 AM) ☐
>
> And an examination of historical documents, as well as of the observations of persons who observed and/or discussed them at the time, will show that this is not only the correct, but the only legitimate position that they CAN take. For not only was 3ABN an "independent ministry" in the sense of not being owned, directly operated by, or financed at least in part by the official Church entity, but they will show that 3ABN was also an "independent" ministry in the sense of refusing to sign an agreement which would have given the GC even a voice in the administration and program selection of 3ABN.

From the G.C. President
April 28, 1997 Robert S. Folkenberg

3ABN Board Rejects Agreement: I am deeply disappointed to report that the Board of Directors of Three Angels Broadcasting Network voted not to sign an agreement with the General Conference for a mutually supportive global distribution of satellite programming.

The April 7 edition of "From the G.C. President" reported that the General Conference has been in dialogue with Three Angels Broadcasting Network attempting to document a working relationship. The draft agreement (recommended for approval by almost all of the 3ABN Board members on March 20), neither presumed or proposed change in 3ABNs governance or programming and it specifically excluded General Conference "control." But it did provide the members in each country a voice if they felt the programming distributed by 3ABN in their territory was detrimental to the work of the church. Even that "voice" was not unilateral. It proposed a five-step issues-resolution process which culminated with a three-person binding arbitration panel (one from 3ABN and one from the division involved plus a third party agreed upon by those two).
In addition to utilizing satellite technology to fulfill the task our Lord assigned to His church and to do so without duplicating expenses, another reason to reach an agreement with 3ABN was that several divisions voted that an agreement was vital to building a long-term relationship with 3ABN.
One division appealed "to the General Conference to facilitate future initiatives that will help each congregation fulfill their soul-winning and soul-retaining responsibility. Given the willingness and interest of Three Angels Broadcasting Network to support and expand a television ministry within the territory of the ___ Division, ... we request the General Conference to take such steps as may be necessary leading to formalizing and documenting the relationship between the General Conference (and) Three Angels Broadcasting Network ... in order to ensure that through the normal denominational representative process, the voice, interests, and ultimately the authority, of the members of our respective ... constituencies are protected, for of course, absent an approved record of such understandings we must reluctantly decline to accept, or otherwise participate in ..., the generous offers which have been or may be extended."
In addition to disappointment, I admit to some confusion. The tone of the 3ABN Board action was gracious and affirmed its support for "the work of the church" and "continued loyalty to the cause of the church" yet the stated reason for the rejection was that "3ABN, its staff, its board, and many of its viewers and supporters perceive a serious potential threat to the continuing effectiveness and operation of the ministry of 3ABN by entering into any type of contractual agreement with the church."
While denying the constituent authority of members in each country the right to be heard in an activity which directly affects their ability to fulfill the mission for which they are responsible, 3ABN affirms the "authority of its president," yet expresses its concern about the exercise of "kingly power" in the church.
While I am a confirmed optimist and pray the 3ABN Board may reconsider their decision, there are so many major evangelistic events already scheduled and we are committed to moving rapidly toward the objective of global coverage, that the General Conference has no option but to proceed to establish a global satellite delivery system and pray that 3ABN will subsequently agree to join the church in this initiative.

##

Official 3ABN Board Action

April 22, 1997

Elder Robert Folkenberg
President, General Conference SDA
12501 Old Columbia Pike
Silver Spring, MD 20904-6600

Dear Elder Folkenberg,

For many months the 3ABN board has struggled with the issues involved in coordinating our efforts with those of the organized church. We have prayed, consulted, studied, and discussed at length your invitation to work together in touching the world for Jesus. This Statement of Commitment is the final culmination of our work. Please accept it as our sincere expression of desire to support the work of the church around the world.

I recognize, as do each of the members of our board, that this is not the document that you had requested. I am sorry. Please do not interpret our statement to be anything but supportive of you as a person and as the president of God's special instrument, the church.

I am most appreciative of your initiative and of the time and energy that you have invested in this supportive ministry of the church. More than that , I am grateful for your active support of the concept of lay ministries and for the encouragement that you have given to them. I pray that this action will not in any way interfere with your efforts along this line.

I thank you too for your personal phone call to me recently and for your words of friendship and understanding. They were most appreciated.

Sincerely in the precious name of Jesus,

Walter Thompson

P.S. I am enclosing a copy of a recently letter from Bill Hulsey to our board. In it he expresses so clearly the sentiments of each one of us.

#################################

Statement of Commitment of 3ABN to the Work of the SDA Church

April 23, 1997

Whereas the 3ABN board desires to support the work of the church in spreading the everlasting gospel to the whole world

And

Whereas 3ABN has already demonstrated the sincerity of its desire by its positive actions in support of the work of the church in the past

And

Whereas 3ABN, its staff, its board, and many of its viewers and supporters perceive a serious potential threat to the continuing effectiveness and operation of the ministry of 3ABN by entering into any type of contractual agreement with the church,

Therefore

The 3ABN board reiterates its continued loyalty to the cause of the church as described in the Word of God and as formulated in the 27 fundamental beliefs and doctrines of the SDA Church

And

Offers its resources in accordance with 3ABN's operational policies to work with the SDA church organization in the proclamation of the everlasting gospel to the whole world.

Accordingly,

3ABN stands ready and available to dream, to discuss and to work with the church in such cooperative endeavors as the Spirit of God might inspire

And

3ABN seeks the counsel of church constituency and leadership regarding all matters of common interest, whether of technical, theological or of some other nature that impacts upon our common objectives and goals

And

3ABN seeks inspirational programming produced in keeping with commonly accepted traditional SDA standards by church supported entities for its viewing audience

And

3ABN reiterates its support in integrating new members into the body of Christ, which is the church, all around the world.

Therefore

In keeping with this statement of intent, the 3ABN board reaffirms the authority of its president, Danny Shelton, to work with the representatives of the church in planning, coordinating and executing our common objectives.

Walter Thompson, Chairman, 3ABN Board of Trustees

Posted by: beartrap May 6 2006, 08:23 PM

The above statement is the first in a back and forth mess that went on for another year. I am digging through my files for my copy of the final Agreement that was signed.

Posted by: watchbird May 6 2006, 10:14 PM

> QUOTE(beartrap @ May 6 2006, 08:23 PM) ☐
>
> The above statement is the first in a back and forth mess that went on for another year. I am digging through my files for my copy of the final Agreement that was signed.

Well maybe the first that 3ABN sent to Folkenberg. But this still is not the original document which was sent to 3ABN and was presumably the one which caused the reaction described by sister.

These that you posted was the public announcement that Folkenberg sent out after he received 3ABN's letter of rejection, that letter of rejection and their counter proposal.

What I thought we should have a look at was that original document so we could form our own opinion as to whether it deserved this type of histronics.

I'll post the version that I have, and possibly you can confirm whether this was the one that was referred to by both sister and the documents that you posted.

I also have the letter from Hulsey that is mentioned. That too, I think gives a revealing look at the independent attitude that was prevailing even then. I'll post them separately.

Posted by: watchbird May 6 2006, 10:20 PM

> QUOTE(watchbird @ May 6 2006, 10:14 PM) ☐
>
> Well maybe the first that 3ABN sent to Folkenberg. But this still is not the original document which was sent to 3ABN and was presumably the one which caused the reaction described by sister.
> . . . .
> I'll post the version that I have, and possibly you can confirm whether this was the one that was referred to by both sister and the documents that you posted.

INTERNATIONAL SATELLITE DISTRIBUTION AGREEMENT

This Satellite Distribution Agreement (Agreement) is made between the General Conference of Seventh-day Adventists (GC), 12501 Old Columbia Pike, Silver Spring, Maryland 20904-6600, and Three Angels Broadcasting Network, Inc. (3ABN), RR#3, Box 176A, Thompsonville, IL 62890.

1. PURPOSE:

This Agreement recognizes 3ABN as a non-exclusive interdivision satellite distributor of television programming produced by the GC and its affiliated entities and as a non-exclusive producer of television programming contracted for by the GC and affiliated entities, and setting forth the respective duties, obligations, and responsibilities of the parties. Nothing in this Agreement precludes 3ABN from producing and distributing by satellite other programs that do not otherwise violate the terms of this Agreement. Any additional cooperative communication initiatives will be the subject of future negotiations and written agreements.

2. RELATIONSHIP BETWEEN PARTIES:

A. The relationship between the parties shall be one of mutual cooperation in utilizing satellite distribution of television programming to proclaim the Gospel of our Lord to the whole world. The GC shall not be considered the agent or representative of 3ABN, and 3ABN shall not be considered the agent or representative of the GC, and neither shall hold itself out or otherwise represent itself as being the agent or representative of the other. Neither party shall have the right to bind the other contractually in any respect whatsoever.

B. In their promotional efforts, both 3ABN and GC will recognize the contributions of the other.

C. Financial appeals (other than regularly aired promotional programs and/or on-screen phone numbers) targeted for viewers outside of the North American Division, shall be undertaken only after consultation with the church governing bodies within the affected territory.

D. Any financial relationship between a Church entity and 3ABN for distribution of programming will be documented by written agreement and approved beforehand by the designated GC body.

3. PROGRAMMING:

A. Program production by Church: Church membership on all levels of the Church, through its elected representatives, may both provide programming to 3ABN for satellite distribution and may contract with 3ABN to produce programming for satellite distribution.

B. Program continuation: Church membership, through its elected representatives, may request through the Issues Resolution Procedure of this Agreement the discontinuation of programming that is distributed by satellite by 3ABN to the territory they represent and which the membership considers detrimental to the work of the Church.

C. Planning or other issues: All program production issues will be addressed by bodies designated by the General Conference Administrative Committee and which will include representatives of the affected world divisions, 3ABN, and the GC.

4. BROADCASTING AND DISTRIBUTION:

A. So that 3ABN's services can optimally support the worldwide mission of the Church, committees or boards appointed by the General Conference Administrative Committee will be the channel for interaction between 3ABN and the world field for developing and distributing television programming by satellite and addressing technical, equipment, financial, distribution, and other related issues affecting those territories.

B. Local or regional broadcast, cable, or other distribution systems for programs received from the 3ABN interdivision satellite distribution system will be either owned or contracted for as determined by the Church governing body in that territory or region. Should the Church governing body make no decision, 3ABN may initiate such contracts after receiving authorization by the church governing body, a request which shall not be unreasonably withheld. If the Church governing body refuses to respond to such a request 3ABN may initiate the issues resolution process.

5. ISSUES RESOLUTION:

Both GC and 3ABN agree that no civil court has jurisdiction over this Agreement and that any issue, controversy, disagreement, or claim arising out of or relating to the breach of this Agreement shall be settled by using this issues resolution procedure. Wherever an issue arises, GC and 3ABN agree to resolve the issue as follows through their designated representatives:

A. (Step 1) GC and 3ABN will communicate informally and attempt to resolve the issue.

B. (Step 2) If informal communication does not resolve an issue and if the issue is not of an urgent nature, then it shall be placed on the agenda for review by an annual consultation, chaired by a designee of GC, and including representatives of 3ABN, the GC, and the world territories using 3ABN satellite distribution services, to review 3ABN programming and distribution services and unresolved issues.

C. (Step 3) If informal communication and the annual meeting do not resolve an issue or if it is of an urgent nature, then the GC shall appoint and chair a special Issue Resolution Committee which shall include designated representatives of 3ABN and GC, and the affected territory or territories to consider and resolve the issue.

D. (Step 4) If Steps 1, 2 and 3 do not resolve the issue, the chairman of the board of 3ABN and the GC by mutual agreement shall select a mediator who shall work with the parties to resolve the issue. (This step may come earlier in the process if the parties agree).

E. (Step 5) If Steps 1 through 4 do not resolve the issue, the issue shall be referred to a three-member Binding Arbitration Committee (BAC) appointed by the General Conference Administrative Committee to review the issue and make a final determination. The General Conference Administrative Committee shall select members of the BAC as follows: (1) It shall request 3ABN and the affected division each to submit a list of three candidates for the BAC; (2) GC Administrative Committee will ask 3ABN to choose one name from the list of three submitted by the affected division and will ask the affected division to choose one name from the list of three submitted by 3ABN; (3) the two members thus selected will then choose any individual to be the third member of the BAC. The three members will choose the chairperson. Both parties agree to abide by the determination of the BAC.

6. TERM OF AGREEMENT:

It is intended that this Agreement serve as a long term agreement. Therefore, this Agreement shall remain in effect until terminated by either party as provided for in this Agreement. Each party has the right to terminate this Agreement without cause by written notice given to the other party no less than ninety (90) days prior to the effective date of the notice. Either 3ABN or GC may terminate this Agreement, either in its totality or as it affects satellite distribution in a specific territory, effective immediately, by written notice given to the other party in any of the following events:

A. if either party fails to fulfil or perform any one or more of the duties, obligations, or responsibilities it has undertaken under this Agreement;

B. if either party assigns or attempts to assign any interest in this Agreement without the other party's written consent;

C. if there is any transfer or relinquishment, voluntary or involuntary, by operation of law or otherwise of any material interest in the direct or indirect control or any change in management of 3ABN that the GC considers adverse to the interests of the Seventh-day Adventist Church or if 3ABN or any of its public personages or its board members become engaged in matters which the GC Administrative Committee considers adversely affects the interests or good name and good will or reputation of the Church.

Upon termination of this Agreement in its totality, 3ABN shall cease to be an authorized broadcaster, distributor, and producer of programming for the GC and will discontinue all services represented to be affiliated with or on behalf of the Church, and neither party shall be responsible to the other for any damages growing out of the termination of this Agreement for any reason whatsoever, including any claim for lost or anticipated income, expenditures, or any other damages. In addition, upon termination of this Agreement, both parties agree to immediately discontinue the use of the names, trademarks, sign, stationery, advertising, or anything else that might make it appear that they are still operating under this Agreement.

7. TRADEMARKS, COPYRIGHTS, AND ORGANIZATIONAL IDENTITY:

A. Both GC and 3ABN agree to refrain from any activity that leads to confusion, uncertainty, or misrepresentation regarding the use of their respective trademarks and trade names.

B. Both the GC and 3ABN will respect the legal bounds that separate the GC from the independent 3ABN ministry. Nothing in this Agreement should be held to mean that the GC has assumed any corporate control of 3ABN and its independent programming or that 3ABN has assumed corporate control of the television programming of the Seventh-day Adventist Church.

C. Copyrights of all 3ABN independent programming will continue to be owned and registered in the name of 3ABN, and copyrights of all programming produced by or for the GC and its affiliated entities will be owned and registered in the name of the GC and/or its affiliated entities.

8. UNCONTROLLABLE INTERFERENCE:

Neither party shall be liable to the other for failure to perform its obligations under this Agreement due to fire, flood, earthquakes, disturbances, accidents, war, or other causes beyond the reasonable control of the parties.

9. NO ASSIGNMENT:

Neither party of this Agreement may assign any right or interest in this Agreement without the prior written consent of the other party.

10. BINDING EFFECT & SEVERABILITY:

This Agreement shall benefit and be binding upon the successors and assigns of the parties. If any part of this Agreement is void, voidable, invalid, or unenforceable, for any reason, this Agreement shall then be considered divisible as to such part with the remainder of this Agreement remaining a valid and binding.

11. COMPLETE UNDERSTANDING:

This Agreement terminates and supersedes all prior agreements between the parties, if any. This Agreement sets forth the entire Agreement between the parties. This Agreement may be changed, altered, or amended only in writing signed by an authorized representative of each party.

Posted by: Zephyr May 7 2006, 06:03 PM

> QUOTE(watchbird @ May 6 2006, 10:20 PM) ☐
>
> INTERNATIONAL SATELLITE DISTRIBUTION AGREEMENT
> This Satellite Distribution Agreement (Agreement) is made between the General Conference of Seventh-day Adventists (GC), 12501 Old Columbia Pike, Silver Spring, Maryland 20904-6600, and Three Angels Broadcasting Network, Inc. (3ABN), RR#3, Box 176A, Thompsonville, IL 62890.
> 1. PURPOSE:
>
> ...

Thanks for that. The GC legal team did make sure that on paper the GC/SDA...3ABN lines are not blurred. However in practice and in the mind of viewers the distinctions might be lost.

Posted by: watchbird May 7 2006, 07:12 PM

> QUOTE(Zephyr @ May 7 2006, 06:03 PM) ☐
>
> Thanks for that. The GC legal team did make sure that on paper the GC/SDA...3ABN lines are not blurred. However in practice and in the mind of viewers the distinctions might be lost.

Be sure you sort these documents out carefully in your mind.

The contract that I posted was the one offered to 3ABN by the GC that 3ABN rejected and refused to sign. Sister gave a graphic description of the meeting and Beartrap posted Folkenberg's public announcement of the fact that 3ABN had refused to agree to the contract. In the same post, beartrap posted the 3ABN letter of rejection, and also a "Statement of Commitment of 3ABN to the Work of the SDA Church".

Both Beartrap and I mentioned a letter from Bill Hulsey, but so far neither of us have gotten around to posting it. Maybe I'll get it done tonight.

Thanks for your interest. And I'd be interested in yours, or anyone's, more detailed analysis or opinon on the document. Would you, as a neutral bystander have considered that this sounded like a "hostile takeover" as it has been said that those at 3ABN saw it?

Posted by: watchbird May 8 2006, 06:21 AM

For what it is worth, here is the letter mentioned in the material Beartrap posted previously.

A Letter From William J. Hulsey

April 16, 1997

To: The Board of Directors of 3ABN

Fellow Board Members,

The topic of signing an agreement with the General Conference has held top priority for many of us over a considerable period of time and has engaged us in seemingly endless hours of thought and discussion and prayer. Yet I respectfully request your audience once more by way of a few personal thoughts.

First I need to say that I have an abiding sense of loyalty to the Seventh-day Adventist church.

Secondly, I have tremendous respect for Elder Bob Folkenberg who has been commissioned with the heavy responsibilities of leadership of the world-wide Church.

Thirdly, as a member of the 3ABN Board for eleven years, I have witnessed the origins, the struggles, the victories and the unprecedented growth of this dedicated ministry, and I'm persuaded that God had His Hand in these affairs also that they might reflect His Glory. At this crucial point in time, I'm reminded of Mordecai's challenge to Queen Esther, "Who Knoweth whether though art come to the kingdom for such a time as this?" God has a plan for us and the consequences are of such gravity that no effort is too great to find assurance that we are aligned with His Will.

Elder Folkenberg has accorded distinct honor to 3ABN with an invitation to join hands with the world Church for the purpose of reaching the masses more expeditiously and we acknowledge the gesture with humility and gratitude. This is certainly a worthy common objective and one which 3ABN has devoted its every effort toward.

For years we have wrestled with matters involving how best to direct our programming so as to remain true to Church and Biblical principles while retaining our position as a supporting ministry. Our Board is composed of individuals from a variety of professional backgrounds, but we all agreed and were determined to see that such a course be outlined and followed. We have felt that the Lord has honored that commitment by granting success as measured by listener acceptance. We want to assure Elder Folkenberg and his colleagues that this determination has not moderated.

