Maybe so maybe not. As far as the allegations to the older brother, do you know for a fact that these letters were indeed written by "victims" and not forged? Could they have had an ax to grind for years against Tommy Shelton and or 3ABN and are using this as the greatest oppurtunity in the world to grind that ax? maybe so, maybe not. My point here is this, there are way too many unanswered questions and way too many involved details that we cannot possible come to a point of passing judgment on any of these people. That is why that only God is the judge and we have no right to be. Only he has the answers to all the unanswered questions and only he knows the motives of the heart for the people involved and the ones that are doing the crucifying here. Uh Bystander, that was a official request, from Admin staff. I am almost sure you don't want to challenge me in that area. Now unless you are Danny or someone close to him, I fail to see your problem. Besides no one has attacked anyone. People here have brought out facts, as they know them. some have been proven wrong, some right, some yet to be proven at all, but as I said before, I am sure you have not taken the time to read the vast amounts ofn info available in this forum. Might be best that you take the time to read at least a bit of it, then comment.

Just a recap:

You said:
Now unless I am mistaken you just asked for someone's identity, and more.

I totally meant Who you are As in what gives the right or authority to activate an investigation and put yourself in charge of it. As for your other comments, Please read my reply to Erik. It covers my indignation all the way around. As far as challenging your administrative position? I would never waste my time on any administrator that has let all of this garbage be printed on their site. Because I now have seen this site for myself(couldn't hardly believe it when I was told about it) and because I have had my say, I will not ever again waste the time that the good Lord has given me on nonsense such as this. You have all missed the point that it doesn't matter what side is right on these issues, this site has been wrong and how it has been handled. To see "3abn saga" among Bible studies, and family topics should be enough for anyone to say "what is wrong with this picture."

Bystander,

Can't be true, unless Danny issues idle threats. Danny made it crystal clear that he was considering suing Gailon, and his 3ABN attorney threatened Glenn Dryden in 2003, a year before Linda's alleged affair.

We posted that attorney's letter too. Think that is forged? It's been posted since December 5 now, and Mike Riva has yet to contact me asserting that the letter purportedly written by him is actually forged.

Come on, Bystander, do you really think an attorney would let Linda get by with forging a letter allegedly from him and allowing it to be posted?

That you would even suggest such ridiculous notions hurts Danny all the more, because it shows to what lengths one must go to defend him at all. Far better for Danny if you propose something valid.

so sorry you too, missed the point that it doesn't matter who is right or wrong it is the fact of how it is all handled. Also, such a shame that someone can't make that point without you thinking it must be someone "in the know" at 3ABN. There are others of us out here that don't need to know who has done what but that does know ,what we shouldn't be doing.

Only by what you have read on here and saw discussed. See my point? Do you know these people have you spent anytime around them have you been to their ministry? No, you have come to these judgments and conclusions because of what you have heard. How can anyone not see that?...

Hello Bystander, unlike you I have been a participent at 3ABN, so has "Husband of the Year" and Johann. THere are others involved in these discussions that have also been at 3ABN. We speak from experience, not based upon what we have heard and read here and seen discussed. So that flag doesn't fly here. We speak of what we know, you speak of what you know not. I am sure members here who have followed these discussions see that.

Much of what Pickle has revealed here I have already known, but I appreciate his desire to seek out the truth and share the evidence he has gathered which supports it.

Once again twist my words. I said alleged victims of the older brother. I never mentioned attorneys letters and I feel no need to try to vindicate Danny Shelton or to crucify him. But, I do know this, if someone had printed things that were not true about me and circulated them world wide, I would have my attorney threaten to sue. I don't know anybody that wouldn't. So, if somehow you think that little tidbit has some credibility, you are sadly mistaken. In fact as I think it over while I am writing this, it may make me think that maybe 3ABN is innocent of wrongdoing. If guilty, nobody in their right mind would want to get involved in a lawsuit for fear the truth would come out. The fact that they were willing, makes me give them more credibility.

Oh Puhleeeeze! If Linda wanted to take Danny down she probably could have a long time ago--like when all this first started! Instead, she keeps quiet and is waiting on God to vindicate her, while Danny sits on his TV chair and blasts her reputation to shreds. The Good Book says we can know people by their fruits...well, the "fruits" of Danny and Linda are miles apart.

No one is perfect in a marriage and I'm sure Linda would be the first to admit her faults. But it's a whole other thing to have your faults blasted every where. I realize that people think that this forum is doing that to the Shelton family. But you know what, if Danny had behaved in an honorable fashion as befitting a Christian man he would not be where he's at now--trying to dodge bullets so to speak. If he were honest and forthright his situation could be much different. I'm afraid that these investigations, discussions, etc., are simply a consequence of his behavior. He can either face up to these like a man, or be a coward and buy his time as much as he can.

Bystander,

By the same token you a better judge 3abn, How do we know what they have been saying is true?

Because they said it, and god has blessed them?

Well last time i checked Linda was part of that blessing until something happened you are correct to say at this time it is very hard to say 100% what happened, but on the other hand it is easy to see what has not happened and that is very clear indeed.

Plus the bible says to inspect the fruits, for that most part that is all that is happening and the truth be told the fruit has winey taste to so that brings up the question why does not not taste right.

Lets go back to the very start of this whole mess, Danny in very public and i would say reckless way choose to get rid of his wife maybe he grounds maybe he did not, but the manner that he choose to get rid of her is the first fruit that sits poorly in most peoples months.

bystander,

My name is Johann Thorvaldsson, 73 years of age. Most of my life I have been a pastor in the Seventh-day Adventist Church. I have the honor of having been associated with Danny and Linda Shelton, and my now deceased wife and I were so close to Linda that we have called her our daughter. We were at 3ABN when what led to the present problem arose, in fact it all hepened in the apartment we occupied, and later we were staying at the place of this Norwegian Doctor in Norway, at the time when Danny Shelton was publickly accusing him of being with Linda in Florida. . .

I have no reason to hide my identity and speak openly of what I know, since Danny Shelton and 3ABN has made all the false accusations of Linda public, in 180.000 letters, on TV, everywhere. Since all of this wickedness is made public, what reason can you find to make the real truth hidden?

As for Bob Pickle, I know that he is eagerly careful not to make a public statement before he has a first hand verification.

Now you enter this arena, mr. bystander, and since you seem people to want people to listen to you, I charge you by the living Lord, get out of your sham and give us at least an indication how you know so much about this issue, OK?

I have no reason to hide my identity, but you might have a good reason to? But at least give us a better impression of you credibility, like you demand of others.

sister, just because you worked there or whatever doesn't mean you were a witness to some of the ridiculous stuff written here. Someone had written somewhere that said they worked there that Danny shelton was a murderer, thief, a burglar ect....Because it was written doesn't mean I believe it. I would not believe that on him or Doug Batchlor or Mark Finley or any of our other media leaders. Anyone who would believe that is desperate for dirt. For eons of time companies have dealt with disgruntled employees who have been fired, or feel that I haven't gotten a fair shake and do what they can to tear down the place and anyone associated with it. In other words, ex employees don't hold any more validity than some of these people that have come out of the blue. Again, IT DOESN'T MATTER WHO DID WHAT ONLY HOW SUPPOSED CHRISTIANS ARE HANDLING WHAT THEY REALLY KNOW VERY LITTLE ABOUT.

everything that I have posted today has come from all the postings that I have read on this site. All I did was address some of what was being said. I personally do not care if Mrs. Shelton is right or Mr. Shelton is right . I only care about the denomination as a whole which at least on this site, appears to be a bunch of vultures ready to tar, feather and convict either of the 2 parties involved when they have nothing but gossip to go on. This is detrimental to our denomination as a whole. That is where my whole concern lies. As for who you are that you considered Linda a "daughter"well, that pretty much subtracts you as an objective bystander which means that to many people, you will have no validity either. Don't feel alone though. Most that have been posting for months have none either

I find it amazing that the people complaining the loudest about these threads continue to read them and post to them, thus perpetuating them. They continue asking questions that have been asked and answered long before, bringing them back to the surface and initiating even more discussion on those things.

You spew your holier-than-thou driven invective against the fact that these discussions exist and against those that participate in them... when you are a participant yourself.

That is called hypocrisy, BTW. No one made Danny broadcast his version of his divorce to the world. No one made him publicly state he was trying to save his marriage while he was filing for divorce in Guam.

As for "itching ears"... you and those like you are the ones who have come 2 years plus after this discussion began, desirous to read what has been here for months... that would make you the one with the itching ears...

The door by which you entered this forum allows you to exit just as readily. If you find these threads so reprehensible, don't read them. If you find the denizens of this forum so unpalatable, no one is holding a gun to your head to make you stay... and I doubt you'll be missed if you go. But you argument it laughable when you come with this foolishness about how reprehensible the discussion is one the one hand and yet you are hanging on every word on the other...

You want to show people how to be more 'righteous', then if you find the threads repugnant, stop reading them and stop posting in them.

You want to show people how to be more 'self-righteous' then keep doing what you've been doing.

Your move.

Thus far all of 3ABN's threats have been empty threats. Danny Shelton has also threatened to sue me. I told him I'd welcome it if he would. Because I know for certain that what he states is not true.

When you say that if you had something printed about you that is not true - and cirdulated around the world, then you'd sue.

This is exactly what 3ABN has been doing to Linda for the past almost 3 years. Have you read the GAG-order that 3ABN had Linda sign? It has just now expired, so now Linda is at the liberty to defend herself against all the lies and falshoods that 3ABN has issued against her.

Linda might soon be suing both an institution and a number of dishonest people who hide behind a claim of preaching the truth to many people.

"Erik what makes you think Linda shelton's web site should be believable anymore than anything else. Maybe it is credible, maybe it isn't. Do you know for a fact that "victim's" wrote letters or that they could have been forged?"

I mistakenly thought you were connecting Linda with the forging of victims' letters.

Your post only confirms what I have been saying all afternoon. That you have swallowed hook line and sinker whatever it is you have been reading the past 2 years. I would bet that you have absolutely no personal knowledge of the situation whatsoever. And like many of the members on this forum, you have totally bypassed the question "is what is being done and said on this forum Christlike." No one has answered that yet. I became a "temporary member" to state my case that if this is what the adventist people have lowered themselves too, that my heart is breaking.

Bystander,

In the old days of the adventist people someone or more then one someones would have gotten a letter from Sister white and they would have either listen or not listened, but sadly those days are long gone.

I guess i am confessed has to what has you so upset people talking about what they do not have personal knowledge of what has happened.(´for the record i thing that least one third of the people on this topic have some level of personal knowledge) Or that a great wrong has been done, and needs to addressed before things get even more out of hand then they all ready are.

We might disagree about what the great wrong(s) are, but It is my understanding that most here agree that something is wrong.

What I simply do not Get is why the Leadership of our church has allowed this mess to go on so long. THAT IS WHAT MAKES ME PERSONALLY the most upset, because if they can not stand for truth on this topic, how are they going lead out in standing for truth on prophetic issues, that our church will soon be facing?

Bystander - welcome to BSDA

Sometimes a good rant helps one feel better about things. I hope you got some relief.

I have a few comments on your statements.

> QUOTE
> I am a new addition to this forum. Not because I want to be but because I cannot keep silent. Someone told me about this websight but I couldn't comprehend it so checked it out myself. My first thoughts were that this was a nice SDA page. I began to scroll down to check out the headings. Beliefs of the Adventist church, activities, family topics, meetings being held and then shockingly "the 3ABN saga!!!

Many of those here on this particular forum are here because they can no longer be silent as well. In my own case I was also told about this website in August of 2006. I came here specifically to check out what was being discussed about 3abn and found, as you have, that the 3abn forum is only a small part of a large online gathering place for Seventh-day Adventists to chat and discuss a nearly endless number of topics.

> I cannot begin to explain my shock and shame as I began to read what has been written here. The accusations, arguments, name calling and gossip has made me ashamed to be a Seventh Day Adventist. That a supposedly christian web site would host this garbage, and some of these people's comments is without excuse. this "forum" goes against any and all biblical principles and moral ethics.

That is certainly a radical reaction to the discussions held here. I'm saddened to read that you would base your pride of being a Seventh-day Adventist on the behavior of fellow SDAs. While one should be concerned if fellow church members are doing something deemed inappropriate, to base your feelings about being a member of the church on the behavior of others seems a shaky practice.

I know that sometimes discussions can get to the point that they are inappropriate in attitude and spirit but someone usually jumps in corrects the direction. However, to characterize all of what goes on here as garbage and against all biblical principles and moral ethics is a faulty judgement on your part, in my opinion. Of course, you are entitled to that opinion.

I know that you will find, if you read further, that many of the discussions on these important topics are conducted properly and in a very Christian manner and from many points of view.

They have shown private emails, made info from private calls public, have insisted on answers from the president of the network, Danny Shelton, and have made statements that they would like to clear 3ABN if only they could get straight and clear answers. Well, I have some questions of my own. Who are Pickle and Gailon? What authority do they have to question and investigate anything or anybody? Who, if anyone, put them in charge and gave them the right to dig into anyone's personal lives? The old saying fits here, "who died and left them in charge." Do they have special credentials that I am ignorant of. I have seen even legal topics explained and assessed and told what this or that means in that instance like we were children and they were law proffessors. I have read continually their opinions on something they have read or heard and then stated as fact. As in, " Joe didn't answer Mary's question so obviously this means that Joe is trying to hide the fact that he did ect. ect...

The people you have mentioned have been asked to investigate and/or been drawn into the investigation for various reasons.

> QUOTE

> My second question would be " are we as a people that hungry for gossip and dirt that we would spend hours on end not only reading this drivel but adding our little 2 cent comments as to the guilt or innocence of people that we have never met and know nothing about except for the pictures that have been painted here. Worse than our comments is our judgements. We are making judgements here that are destroying people, families, and a world wide ministry on gossip, discussions and heresay by people that have no more power or authority that you or I.

Rather than hungry for gossip and dirt, I think you could better characterize many of the folks involved in this particular forum as so concerned about the effect that a supporting ministry to our denomination is having on the work and reputation of that denomination (if the allegations that have been made are true) that these folks are unable to stay silent. Their mission is to bring the truth to light. Sure, there are most likely some who visit here who want gossip and dirt. There are also those who are unconvinced that there is anything amiss with 3abn. There are those who, for whatever motivation, seem to be here to try to divert attention away from the topics by focusing on issues of semantics, etc.

Drivel? Hmmm. If the allegations of molestation by Tommy Shelton are true can you characterize this as drivel? If bringing the allegations to light protects even one child in the future, I'd say it was a very worthy endeavor by those at work here.

And speaking of judgements, you have made plenty of your own here and I'm sure you feel they are appropriate. Most "judgements" or conclusions that have been made here in our discussions have been made with ample evidence to support them.

> This divorce that I keep reading about between Danny & Linda Shelton means what..... Howmany of you readers out there have been divorced. How many of you have had a "bitter" divorce? How many of you that answered yes to those 2 questions would like it posted and publisized for all the world to see? Now add to that the rumors and "tall tales" that were told on you from your ex's side then combine that with the "tall tales" that came from your side against your ex then multiply that tenfold by the time it got retold 100 hundred times and what you will come up with is the "black sda web site of "the saga of 3ABN."

In regards to 3abn, when the often-made accusations against the "ex" are broadcast they go throughout the world. There are letters and emails with accusations that have gone out from the beginning of the divorce saga by the husband or his people. Claims and accusations against the wife have been made in rallies to entire churches before the wife was even fired and divorced. There has been plenty of "he said" so is it really a problem if there is a forum where "she said" type opinion are aired?

> Do the people involved headlong in this, not have lives of their own? Do they not have problems of their own that they should be working on? Obviously that have big problems or they wouldn't be wasting time destroying everything and everybody in their path.

This is quite an interesting deduction/judgement on your part. Are people with "big problems" the only ones who are so concerned with a desire for justice, truth, the protection of our denomination's reputation and liability and the protection of potential victims from an alleged molester to speak out?

> I have read several excerpts about accusations made by a church of God minister against one of the Shelton Brothers. According to this forum that makes it gospel. The irony of this is that normall we as Adventists turn up our nose at another denomination, especially the minister of another denomination and usually give them no credibility whatsoever. Now because statements from him give us the "supposed dirt" we long to hear, he has all the crediblity in the world. What a laugh on our own people.

Could I ask which Adventist Church you attend? If they are teaching that we should turn up our noses at another denomination they should be reported to your conference officials post haste! Last I heard our Lord values every living soul on this planet and purchased their right to choose His kingdom and eternal life with His very blood!

This is a sin against God. 3 or 4 people are relaying horrible things on the world wide internet and say that they got some info from someone else who heard it from someone else and so...it must be true and fact.The way I see it, these people that are in the limelight are victims not the enemy. Just as movie stars are attacked and lied and gossiped about in the secular world, so it is with the people that have been involved in the works of 3ABN. In our adventist denomination they were the "stars" and we, we are the writers of the "Enquirer" and "The Star" gossip magazines. We are starved for every little morsel on these > people's lives whether it be true or false. We have a secret jealous need to take them down because they had some popularity and were in the limelight. How sad that we overlook the fact that they were in the limelight because they were spreading the gospel to all the world.

Calvin has limited the discussions on this forum to events that have transpired during the history of 3abn. I haven't seen or read anything of harsh comments about the Shelton parents, at least none made by credible members here.

> QUOTE

> People on this forum,....how low have we fallen to be pulled into this blasphemous nonsense? If 3ABN is having problems my guess would be that most of it is from what is being written here and on other sites. The bible tells us that we are to turn a deaf ear to gossip, rumors and assumptions and instead pray for the people in question that may be going through a difficult time. Think dear people how many of these problems might have already been resolved if we would have spent as much time on our knees in behalf of all of these people as we have spent attacking, discussing and arguing over them on this web site.
> A Bystander

Contrary to the opinion of some, Danny is not a god so the discussions about his behavior on this forum is not blasphemy. If the investigation and subsequent revelations of what is going on at 3abn is causing trauma and discomfort to those responsible is that the fault of those investigating or those doing wrong?

Bystander, once again you have a right to your opinions. It is quite clear that you have not read in depth the information here or deemed truthful the first-hand accounts by many who are close to the 3abn situation. Are you aware that there are members here who are or have been 3abn employees and wish that reformation could be made to protect this ministry? There are those who were hearty supporters until they fell victim to un-Christian like treatment by those professing to represent Christ? There are members here who have seen first hand the adultery, fornication and immoral behavior that is accepted and covered up at the highest levels of 3abn.

Gossip? Rumors? Not when the information comes from 2 or 3 first hand witnesses!

I, for one, and many here have prayed for 3abn and continue to pray for 3abn. We just can't keep silent and go back to the status quo that has allowed such a culture of immorality to infect the ministry that is supposed to be spreading the Gospel.

And if you read my post, you will see I was responding to Lee, not to you... even though much of what I said to her would apply to you as well.

Your "temporary" membership is lame, BTW; as kids we used to play a similar game when we felt like being miscreants... it was called "ring and run". Fun stuff for nine year olds... but I'd wager you are far past nine. Seeing you have not been here for the last 2 plus years, you are not in a position to say who knows what or how they came to that knowledge. If you choose to believe it hearsay and gossip, that is your prerogative... but lacking any ability to prove that, as soon as you make that allegation the one whose feet are swift running to mischief are your own... because absent your providing 'proof' all you are spouting is... hearsay and gossip.

Again, I say to you what has been said to others who would rail against this forum and these threads... if you have facts... names, dates, places, etc... verfiable facts... that refute the things presented as fact by Pickle and others... then present them. Otherwise you are all noise and no signal; all sizzle and no steak.

Don't think you are going to dissuade any by attacking the persons who have posted as if you could discredit what is said by discrediting the one who said it. That may be a valid tactic in the private Idaho you inhabit... but it wont fly here.

In His service,
Mr. J

Bystander,

I will share with you why I have chosen to follow this topic for about a year now.

The reason is about three years ago my local church(of which i am an Elder) decided to put a AD in our local paper that we would give anyone how asked a free 3abn dish, all they had to do was agree to watch it.

So then i am sure you can understand that when a bout a year later the divorce popped up.

Then I Started hear rumblings that Maybe Linda was not the big cheat that she was made out to be, so i decide for the sake of the dishes we had placed in to non SDA homes. With the totally trust that God would fairly represented to those people, that i had better find out what was going in case i got questions from the people that watched those dishes.

So it is true i have no personal connection to the 3abn saga, but i do have a personal connection to those dishes we has a church placed out in to our town in good faith.

Just thought you might want to see were I am coming from on this. Because i personal dread the day when i find out this 3abn mess is on the 24 hour cable news circuit, and the phone calls i am going to get from so good people when that happens, and i firmly believe that is were this is headed if we as the greater body the SDA church do find out quickly the whole truth and nothing but the truth on this topic.

That is a very valid reason to be here! Thank you for sharing. I pray that, whatever the outcome, those who have dishes, both SDA and non-SDA, will have the discernment not to get discouraged if these allegations prove true and are exposed. After all, Judas, stealing from the treasury, filled with pride and betraying the Lord did not mean that those years that the Lord ministered here on Earth were tainted and of no good effect. It did not in any way devalue the Gospel!

Posted by: erik Jan 7 2007, 08:53 PM

PB,

I pray that when or if i have to answer questions that i can point those people to Jesus Christ and not to the mess at 3abn or anywhere else in this sinful world

The Gospel will go forward, i personal think that God has been long suffering with 3abn because of the good that it is doing, but at some point god will step in.

On the other hand I do not want to not be faithful in stand for truth. That is why i stopped lurking today and decide to answer Bystander.

i'm gonna put those people who got dishes on my prayer list, that the Holy Spirit will take care of them thru this mess.

as i've said over on maritime, the worst of this is the fundamentalist charismatic pentecostalism that is being dressed up in SDA clothing and spilled out to the world. we gotta pray about that too, for the Holy Spirit to keep those error seeds from taking root and sprouting.

Why o why do we spend so much of our time defending this board against newcomers?
Wouldn't it just be easier to let them rant on their own?

Posted by: daylily Jan 8 2007, 04:36 AM

When I read Bystander's posts, I see quite a few phrases that I rememeber reading in posted emails by Danny Shelton like, "you people", "swallowed..hook, line, and sinker".

Posted by: Observer Jan 8 2007, 06:34 AM

Re: "Who said someone's child was Raped? This Pickle person or Gailon somebody? You have made up your minds with absolutely no evidence of any kind. The very fact that you could make the statement that "somebody's child was raped" and make it as fact says it all about the influence that a few unimportant people have had on this site."

Let us talk about rape for a minute, and what that means under the law--rape is a legal term, which indicates a violation of the law.

1) In general terms, rape ocurs when a comptetent adult says "no" and the other person continues the sexual contact. The specifics of this will vary from place to place, and be prescribed by the governing law. Penetration may or may not be required. The age established for consent may vary. There may be differing factors in regard to competency. But, the above is a general statement.

2) Statutory rape simply means that the law has established specific bounds that make an act criminal. In other words, no other conditions justify the act. If the specifics of the law are met, then the criminal act of statutory rape has occured. If a person involved in a sexual act, has not reached the age of consent, and the specifics of the law on statutory rape are met, the act is criminal. A minor child, for example, can not consent to participation in certain sexual acts. Neither can a person who is incompetent, even if over the age of consent. Again, statutory rape is defined by local governming law. That law will differ from place to place. The age of consent may differ. In fact, the age of consent may depend upon the age of the one accused of violating the law. The specifics of the sexual contact may differ. So also may issues of competency.

I am speaking in general terms. I am not referencing anyone who may have been accused of rape. But, I want to make it clear: Children cannot consent to sexual contact. Sexual contact, as defined under any law relating to statutory rape is a crime. Penetration may or may not be required. Orgasm is likely not a requirement. Ejaculation is likely not a requirement.

Well, I imagine it is probably because if we don't meet the accusations and new members or visitors come by and see no defense they might get the idea that we agree with the charges or don't have answers for them. Instead of shaking the dust off our feet they might interpret it as us turning tail and running away.

I think it is a good exercise anyway, to a certain degree. What makes us think makes us stronger, IMO.

That's good to know, Calvin. Yes, it can be fun to play the guessing game - especially when there are clues galore(just wish I knew how folks check IPs but that kind of thing is waaay out of my cyber league). I totally agree with you on the badgering. It's petty and annoying, although sometimes amusing, and folks do deserve whatever privacy level they desire.

Now that you mention it, the overall style, typos & misspellings included, is a lot like Dan Shelton's. He never says anything of substance regarding the actual situation, but always attacks those who aren't on his side. The one thing missing in Bystander's posts was frequent reminders of how much good 3ABN is doing. That's what makes me think that Bystander isn't Dan himself.

Yes, that's good to know.

Regarding IPs, I've been wondering about Fallible. You know, he claims to be from Florida. At least that's the impression I've gotten. Yet he seems to be a lot closer to 3ABN than Florida Hospital.

Maybe he was just in  or  for business or something.

Newcomers like FHB and Bystander represent a group of people who take the "holier-than-though" attitude where they come in with guns blazing telling everyone that it's a shame and a huge sin to post on the board and all the while they are burning up the internet hours themselves. Go figure...

don't trouble yourself with all the who's who... just deal with the issues.... don't become sidetracked, its not that important........ as far as I am concerned I hope that the primary players do visit in various personas.... maybe they will learn something.... if not, no biggie....

It's the tone of voice and attitude... especially toward right and wrong.... that are the key things. Refresh your memory of how Dan sounds on TV if it's been a while since you have heard him. Then do a reread.... "The voice of Jacob" comes through loud and clear, no matter the absence of some of his habitual subject matter.

For me to reveal the IP addresses a member uses would be a violation of my privacy policy. You are going to have to guess with the information the member provides you.

Of course. No problem. It's just been something I've wondered about.

Hi Erik,

It is good to hear your personal testimony. Like you I have been here on lurk mode for many months. Although I registered awhile ago, I don't say much. I probably would have jumped into this thread yesterday when all the heat was on, but i just didn't have the time to sit down and read it all. Funny how the rantings of Bystander seem to be a case of the pot calling the kettle black...

I don't know Danny or Linda, and was never big on watching 3abn, but when the story was breaking about Linda, I just felt that it couldn't be the whole story. Wanting to know more, I went looking on the web, since I didn't know anyone personally to talk to.

I suppose that when I first found BSDA and all that was being said here I felt emotions similar to those expressed by others. The thing I would say to Bystander is that most people don't come here to gossip (if indeed that is what any of us are doing) but rather are here out of concern for the situation and those personally involved. Like Erik, I am concerned for the people who have come into the church because of 3abn. My home church in Green Bay has many members who have come in because of 3abn. I wonder how my church will be affected when whatever happens, happens... Rather than being morbid curriosity about Danny and Linda's divorce, it is about deep concern for all of us. All of us because we are all part of the body, and when one member hurts, we all hurt.

I don't see the interest in these threads as being "against" Danny, though some may feel that way. I see the passion for balance and fairness, which has not come from the 3abn camp. Actually the most loving thing one can do for Danny and company, if even only some of these allegations are true, is to expose them. People who think they have covered their sins feel no need of repentance. It is when confronted with one's sin, that the honest person confesses and repents. To all of those who keep trumpeting that Linda was wrong in some way too, I say this isn't about who was wrong and who was right. Obviously all have sinned. This is about who has been sorry for whatever they have done wrong, and has turned back to Jesus. It is not judging to observe the fruits in the lives of others.

Well, this has gotten quite lengthy for my first post in a controversial topic. I just want to say thank you to those of you who are investigating and posting. Not all of us are hanging on your every word to fault find.

A minor child, for example, can not consent to participation in certain sexual acts. Neither can a person who is incompetent, even if over the age of consent. Again, statutory rape is defined by local governming law. That law will differ from place to place. The age of consent may differ. In fact, the age of consent may depend upon the age of the one accused of violating the law. The specifics of the sexual contact may differ. So also may issues of competency.

Whether it is consensual or not matters not for the true "definition" of a child.

If an adult has sex with a child - per the age of "consent" in that state - it's the rape of a child. The term "Sexual Molestation" is the technical term for sexual relations w/ a minor. Even if the "child" is of legal consent (I believe 12-13 in Louisiana) COME ON PEOPLE! WOULDN'T YOU WANT TO CALL IT "RAPE" IF THE MAN HAD SEX WITH YOUR 13 YEAR OLD DAUGHTER AND HE WAS 36?

Adults are coming forward and admitting to Tommy Shelton having sexual relationships with them as children. Regardless if they were 12, 13, 16, or 8 - morally speaking it is sexual assault/rape of a child/sexual molestation. Now legally speaking he may be covered if the CHILD was of the "age of consent" - however I am still pondering and wondering....

"How many of you proponents/opponents would allow Tommy Shelton to babysit your children/grandchildren/nieces & nephews?"

Thank you Aunt B for saying it like it is!

I found Black SDA after a google search for Linda Shelton. Why did I do that? Because my mother told me about what she knew of the events at 3ABN and how Linda's behavior and departure had broken my mother's heart. The words my mother used made me uncomfortable and my personal experience as a professional female with the egos of SDA men in authority sent me on this quest.

After I first spent an entire day reading the posts and various threads on Black SDA in August, I tried to discuss my findings with my mother. What I discovered was she has what I consider an almost "cult-like" position in support of Danny and the 3ABN board. I sent her to this site to read for herself some of the things being discussed. That might have been a mistake but I do not think we could have had a discussion if I did not provide the source of my information. Her response at that time was one of horror to the things being said. Her reaction was not that different than that of Bystander.

I learned very quickly that there is absolutely nothing that will EVER convince my mother that Danny Shelton has done anything wrong. It is impossible to have a rationale conversation about this subject. After all, she KNOWS Danny and Dr. Thompson. When I try to point out that people think they know TV personalities like Rush Limbaugh and Howard Stern, they do not. She insists this is different.

I am not going to review the numerous bits and pieces of what has been discussed. Let me just say that when I read that Linda was presented with a contract that said she would be denied reasonable (or any) support if she did not sign without the benefit of seeking legal counsel, I wanted to howl in outrage. If those who gave her this option (the Board or with the Board's approval) felt the agreement was reasonable and fair to Linda, why not let it face the scrutiny of someone who was legally trained and thinking of Linda's interests? This was the first MAJOR red herring for me that immediately made me wonder what was going on at 3ABN.

I have seen a Navy Admiral believe that his meritorious 26 years of service would protect him from false accusations and it did not. I have no doubt Linda was just as naive.

I have come back to the board 4 or 5 times since August to update but never have again discussed things with my mother due to her over reaction the last time. However, I decided the other day after reading of the Tommy Shelton accusations and retirement and the ASI announcement, that I would try to talk to her again.

She is totally unwilling to keep an open mind as to the events at 3ABN. Letters from victims cannot be true. Letters from churches cannot be true. She does not care how much money Danny has made from the sale of his book. She does not care how young Danny's new wife is as he needed someone to help him and who are we to judge who God led him to. How can the Board be wrong if Wintley Phipps that I respect so much (he sang at AUC on sabbath when I attended in the 70s and he was at Julliard) in on the board. She insists that Linda was counseled and would not give up "her relationship" so as far as my mother is concerned that is enough to have Linda removed as it risked the work 3ABN was doing. As far as my mother is concerned, it is all an attack of the devil. If in fact, allegations are proven with facts that Danny was wrong or unethical in things he did or said, my mother will see it as a plot by the church "to get their hands on 3ABN to make up for their own failure to spread the gospel".

I have just read these new posts by and in reaction to Bystander's posts. They have prompted me also to post for the first time. My mother loves her church and believes the second coming is very near. I hate it that she is willing to see a woman cannibalized than even entertain the idea that Danny might have done something unethical.

My personality I think is like that of a couple others here. I have to follow things until the truth is known and especially where it appears to me injustice has been done. And I have to admit, especially if the injustice has been done to a woman who was probably pretty naive. Is any of this my business? No, of course not. I do not watch 3ABN but I did buy my parents their skyangel disc.

I would like to know what the Board knew before they took the actions that they did. I would love to see Linda do an interview if she is able to do so now. But, I also realize that there are so many things (like young earth theory vs. the findings of the Human Genome project as discussed in the book The Language of God) that I have questions about that I will never know the answers to. I have come to trust in God and accept that I do not have to know.

I was and still am thankful that this forum is here. It gets a little heated at times and sometimes because posts often don't come out sounding like people intend and words are misconstrued. This happens to me in emails to people no matter how hard I try. So thanks for letting me have my say.

Noahswife........

And yes, one more thing. My father-in-law was an SDA who molested his adopted daughters who were much younger than my now ex-husband. A few years after his conviction (with no jail time I might add as this happened in the early 90s), one of my sister-in-laws talked to me about the fact one of the girls was saying he was once again involved with another one of the adopted sisters (who was now no longer a minor). I could not get my husband to talk to him nor any of his brothers (one who was a SDA ordained minister and another who is a lay pastor now). I would bet that SDA men talking about this topic ......DON'T unless forced to. I would bet there is as much denial in the SDA leadership ranks as there was in the Catholic Church. So, I am not surprised that Dr. Thompson did not pursue checking the allegations out. Are you?

Posted by: Pickle Jan 10 2007, 10:57 PM

Yes, I am very surprised, after all the counsel we have, and after all the scary things Risk Management tells conference officials and pastors. yes, I am very surprised.

"His watchmen are blind: they are all ignorant, they are all dumb dogs, they cannot bark; sleeping, lying down, loving to slumber" (Is. 56:10).

Dr. Thompson and each board member are watchman on the walls. If they can't stay awake, if they are that tired, they need to let someone else take their place.

So your mother has a hard time even believing Walt Thompson when he admits that Danny essentially lied to him about the allegations being 30 years old?

Whether the Dryden letter is true or not, it still testifies to the fact that there were allegations as recent as 3 years at the time.

And does she believe Danny Shelton when he testifies against himself by claiming that his name was on the auto title when it never has been? Or does she think that the lending bank sent me a fraudulent title?

I know, it's tough. I recognize that this is what we face. But why? Do people have the same kind of blind loyalty to our church leaders? If not, why the difference?

Posted by: princessdi Jan 10 2007, 11:24 PM

I think her mother's reaction is the blind loyalty to the church. No man that would be in leadership would don anything wrong, according to them. Listen to her words. Whintely Phipps would not be involved if all that was going on. It is far easier fopr them to believe that lInda did something wrong that it is for them to believe a mand in leadership is doing wrong.

I know this, because I have seen it several times over. Women who leave abusive pastor/elder husbands, etc. She is always the bad "guy". Her reputation sacrificed for his career. Everything will be alright if she will just keep moving around with him when he cheats on her and it comes out in public. However, the minute she gets tired and divorces him, his cheating and/or abuse was her fault. The reason Danny got away with what he did to Linda is because it is business as usual.

Blind loyalty to dead and living religious leaders?
Blaming the devil when members ask uncomfortable questions?

Noahswife, welcome to BSDA!

You have beautifully summed up the hold that a man's televised words and personality can have over people who set aside common sense and allow it. You have also shown how surrounding himself with those who have reputations as men of integrity can strengthen this loyalty by appearing to add credence to the man.

How sad it is, if what has been presented here on BSDA is indeed true as it appears to be, that these men may unknowingly be helping to promote a scam.

And claiming special instruction straight from God
And making it next to impossible for people to leave
And persecuting those who do
And claiming special status with God such that leadership can sin with impugnity (... oh excuse me... they can do things which in others would be sin but not in them...)

BUT.....

While this can, IMO, rightfully be called a cult.... it is a cult that we have harbored in our midst, not realizing what it was behind the glass facade in our living rooms.... but believing the lie that it was indeed as has been claimed.... "the face of Adventism".

The really BIGGY question is... now that it has been exposed.... WHY is it that our leaders do not sever connections with it so that it can no longer claim to be an integral part of the SDA church....

Are there those that would follow this cult right out of the SDA church if leadership took that stand?

Quite possibly.

But doesn't church leadership owe it to themselves as well as to the church members to take that stand.... thus making it clear that there is a difference between the cult of 3ABN and the church of Seventh-day Adventists?

At this point it could well be that they see an even bigger picture than any one of us do.... and thus have reasons for their holding off on public action of which we are not fully aware.

And there ARE some indications that behind the scenes, there are some quiet actions that are being taken.

We doubtless need to remind ourselves occasionally of that which we noted near the beginning of this forum... that the wheels of justice grind slowly, but they do grind... and "exceeding small".

Evil may appear to be "on the throne"... but evil doers should not thereby sit comfortably upon their "throne"... for above it all the is ONE who rules over the affairs of men.... and He will not allow his name to be blackened by evil-doers who claim to be God's Anointed beyond some certain limit that only He knows. It may well be that there is still evil of which we know nothing that must be exposed before God will say "it is enough". It may be merely that there are more who need to learn the truth in a gradual way... as those do who come here to BSDA for the purpose of learning.

So we try... and learn... to wait patiently on the Lord.... each doing what "his hand finds to do" in the meantime.... so....

Carry on, all....

And I bet she's been sending money to 3ABN, right

Yes Inga, she still sends money and attends camp meetings there with her friends.

And yes, I could see her leaving the SDA church and following 3ABN if the church got involved in "outing Danny". And I do not think she would be alone. During our Tommy Shelton discussion, I commented that I had read that some of Danny's positions appeared to be more than a little pentecostal. She did not seem to think there was anything wrong with that but immediately made the comment that our local conference was taking "new age" positions and not staying with traditional SDA positions. But of course, she could not be specific.

As for facts proving this or that or what was said or not said, IT DOES NOT MATTER to my mother. All she focuses on is Linda was given counselling and she would not give up the relationship and that Linda traveled with the doctor (or so my mother continues to believe). She believes Danny's heartfelt claims that he wanted to stay in his marriage. As I stated before, she is convinced she knows these people even though she has never talked to them personally.

My skin crawled every time I saw Ted Haggard interviewed. I guarantee his evangelical followers believed they knew him. He prospered. His church grew. He boasted of being consulted by Bush and was interviewd on Sunday political talk shows. When his truth hit the news, I have no doubt many were certain he had been set up by the left in order to embarrass him. Even James Dobson after the Foley mess hit the news claimed in Dobson's first radio address to KNOW that it was all a prank by the pages. What facts did he check before telling tens of thousands not to believe what the press was reporting. I suspect most who heard him dismissed his error as meaningless or continued to see the Foley situation as another attack by the liberal media (and spent little time outraged by what Foley did and those who knew about his behavior did not do). Facts often do not matter as people cling to what they want to believe. SDAs have always been ready to defend their beliefs and in some ways, I think that is also what my mother is doing.

In response to the question as to why the men can do no wrong but the women are at fault, I would like to tell you about something that happened in the 70's at AUC.

My ex and his brother were both Theology students. About a dozen junior and senior theology students went to a conference at the expense of local SDA physicians. I think it was interdenominational and not just an SDA conference. I remember them coming home with the teaching that whatever the man did it was ok. He was the head of the household and God would honor the women if she respected that. EVEN IF IT WAS ABUSIVE!! If she held fast God would use her to make something good happen. I remember my shock and disbelief. My fellow students at that time are now the leaders of today. They might not go so far as to say they believe this but over the years we have all read and heard the stories that taught us that it was ok for a woman to suffer (and often in silence) because blessings would follow.

Also, both in the SDA world and in the real world, women turn on each other more often than not and usually for the approval of a man. It is sad but true. We do not support each other as we should. We were also taught not to question or think critically.

I just had a thought. Is there a female on the Board that is not an employee of 3ABN?

Sorry. I have once again waxed far too long.

Also, thanks to those who have welcomed me.

Welcome Noahswife! To answer your question, there is a female on the Board who does not work for 3ABN. Her name is Carmelita Troy and she is employed by the Navy. If you google her name, you will find her.

Posted by: princessdi Jan 11 2007, 12:25 PM

Welcome Noahswife! Go head and Preach!!! You are so right! The worst comments I have heard abo ut those pastor's wives who left, was from women. I took one lady to ask for her comments. The situation to which she was speaking was that of a pastor who "confessed" to physically abusing his wife, but only because he came home a and found out she was having a affair with another women. To this day people would rather to believe her a lesbian than to believe he abused her for years on end.

Also, I don't know when you went to AU, but the SDa men did n't have to that conference to learn that mess.

To this day people would rather to believe her a lesbian than to believe he abused her for years on end.

My best friend at boarding academy was a pastor's kid. When her dad wanted a divorce he claimed her mother was a lesbian so he could remarry and remain a pastor. There never was proof we could find and as adults she certainly has not lead a life to indicate this. She too never remarried although he did of course. It was terrible for my friend. The church was in another conference so I never knew what people in the church knew or really thought.

I actually went to AUC not AU. And I agree, they did not need the conference to learn that stuff. But what shocked me was the acceptance of it by almost all of them and the women as well. I was only a freshman so I was not someone who was given a chance to respond to it but thank goodness my ex did not accept it either.

Yes, it is quite shocking. Like we said sometimes the women are worse than the men.

Amen to your words of concern, & you are right, heavenly justice will win out, but inspired writings have already told "that those behind the scenes" that every transaction that is not as clear as direct sunlight belongs to the prince of darkness. If they choose to discount this fact and keep shoving thing under the rug their house of cards will fall. Those 6 condition in Isaiah 33:15 must be met to escape "the everlating burnings" told about in verse 14. Read of all 6, but the first item on heavens list is to tell the truth. This is no small matter to tell the truth, especially where bible doctrine is concern, one must study to be approved of God, not what brings in money and church growth.

Thanks for the information. Google her I did. She is obviously an accounting expert and skilled in fraud detection so if she is doing her financial fiduciary duty that should ease the minds of some of those who have expressed concerns on that point. I would think that one with her training would have an interesting mindset and question the possibility of fraud when facts were presented. However, I do not see any other information that tells me how she would respond to this topic. However, it is possible she sees her expertise as in the financial realm and would defer to the decisions of others on more personal matters. Even her amazon reviews are on personal care items and household goods and not books. That is not meant as criticism it is just a fact I find interesting.

In follow up to some of our discussions posted above, I thought I would post the following here and on the Tommy Shelton vindicated thread.

In December Pastor Jan Paulson said the following on Time to Talk,

Another topic that Pastor Paulsen spoke strongly about was that of abuse of women and children in the church. One woman wondered if the church's theology of forgiveness keeps women in abusive homes.

She said, "Women who have been abused and who are living in violent marriages and relationships are often told by the church to forgive, forget and remain in the position where they are. How are we as a world church addressing the theology of that in a God-honoring way?"

Pastor Paulsen responded, "The worse that can happen is for the church to side with the abuser and fail to give support and comfort and strength and help to the one who is being abused. Just simply to say to 'forgive and get on with life' is simply to drive that person into a much deeper emotional problem."

And like some of you I ask........

What about the children in these marriages?

I'm not a SDA but years ago I had a friend who was, and left the church basically because of the judgmental attitude that she felt prevailed there. I learned of 3ABN a long time ago, began watching some of the programming, and was blessed by the loving spirit among many and was encouraged because of their efforts to mend broken people. 3ABN caused me to view Adventist in a different light - a very favorable light.
Then I was shown this web site and was told it represents the SDA church. If it does, I am deeply grieved. I'm grieved for the Shelton family whose reputation has been slandered by those from their own church affiliation---as I said, I'm not a SDA but as a born again Christian, I could never do what many have done to this family, even if everything that has been said were true. I know sinners who would never think of doing such a thing. If the spirit on this web-site has affected me so drastically, I wonder how many hundreds or even thousands of others who aren't of your denomination but who watch 3ABN have also been affected. How many have been driven away from God or your church because of all this? I've prayed much about this situation and have asked God if there was anything He would have me to do—this is the answer He gave me through the night season.
WWJD? What would Jesus do? In talking to others who have put positive comments on this web-site, I've learned that their character too was attacked and seemed to incite fear of any further remarks. But in studying the Scriptures, I've found that it's Satan's business to put fear in God's people to keep them from doing all that God would require of them. Jesus said "whatever you do to the least of My children you have done it unto Me." I have no fear of what any man might choose to say of me, because I consider myself one of his least ones. He knows my heart is to love Him first, and love others as He does, and when one of his least ones is attacked, He takes it personal - and I am not alone.
Through hearing and seeing some of the material put on this web-site there's no doubt that these evil spirited attitudes need to change. It's the spirit of Satan who is the "accuser of the brethren". You've heard it said," Evil prevails when good men do nothing". Christians out there, don't you think it's time to give your fears to God and begin to do what Jesus would do concerning this web-site of character assassinations? I ask you all, WWJD?
How did Jesus handle Satan when He came to tempt and destroy Him in His wilderness time? He said, "It is written", and quoted Scripture to every attack. This web site will begin to get a different spirit if we will but ask ourselves what does God's word say about handling all of these situations concerning the accused and the accusers alike? Then, don't sit idly by and allow the devil's work of destruction to continue without giving the spirit of Christ a chance to work through His Word. God promised that His Word would not return void, so let's trust that promise.
I've wondered why the supporters of the 3ABN family haven't responded any more than they have---possibly because, like me, they didn't know what to do. Every answer to every situation is hidden somewhere in God's word, much of it is very plain. I believe Jesus summed it all up when He said ,"love the Lord God with all your heart and your neighbor as yourself." There are many wise sayings in the book of Proverbs---here are a few --"Whoever despises the Word and counsel of God brings destruction upon himself", Prov.13:13. Then in Prov. 14:15, it says, " the simpleton (one who lacks common sense or is easily deceived) believes every word he hears." This shows the power of the devil to deceive even the professed people of God and it appears that many are believing every thing on this web-site, just because it's written there. That's the mentality of a little child and the Word exhorts us to "put away childish things".

I have seen that there are those who say they are investigating information given on this site. In all fairness, where's the other side of the story? You know, in any disagreement or divorce there's always two sides, at least two ways to look at the situation---doesn't a good investigator examine all the facts from both sides? I really haven't seen that here. I've only seen one side investigated here.
I'm afraid the souls of many "could be" Christians are at stake here, and no telling how much damage has already been done. May God have mercy. He loves of fairness and restoration of relationships. you, Mr/Ms Investigator, and only asks that you see what you've done and turn to Him and change your direction. Don't let the devil deceive you any longer. Do you remember that the Scripture says our enemy is not flesh and blood, but principalities, powers, and rulers of darkness? Eph. 6:12. His motive is to deceive, and divide God's church through lies about what God's word says. Every day we all choose to believe Satan's lies or God's truth in His Word.
The degrading remarks that someone made about the Shelton's father only shows how low Satan can drag us if we allow it. It's unbelievable that anyone could allege wrong conduct about a man who I understand has been dead for over 30 years without one testimony, from anyone, to back it up. The writer admits that the statements were based on "rumor." How sad!
I've appreciated all of you who have taken a stand against the devil's trash written on this web-site, among the most recent being that written by the person called "Bystander". Thank God for people like that who aren't afraid to speak truth in defense of wrong doing.
To the 3ABN supporters, I would say, if you have been afraid of the devil twisting your comments, please re-consider and ask yourselves WWJD? I'm sure Jesus was pretty straight with people—He loved them, but confronted the wrong they did and was always for the under-dog. He loved and forgave the woman caught in the very act of adultery and said to her accusers, "you who have no sin, cast the first stone." Of course, we all know how they all went slinking away. The other side of Jesus was his disgust with the holier than thou Pharisee who said, "I thank God I'm not as other men." I believe Jesus would want fairness here on this web-site representing His name. We are told to be "wise as serpents and harmless as doves." Anything said , should not be vindictive, but should be for the purpose web-site representing His name. We are told to be "wise as serpents and harmless as doves." Anything said , should not be
So, I encourage every Christian out there to try the spirits of each one who writes anything on this web-site, ask yourself WWJD, then respond with Scripture to defeat the devil's plans. Jesus died for the accused and the accuser alike---give grace to all, but confront in love. If the spirit and attitude is to tear down someone rather than restore, then guess what spirit is behind the mask?
I leave the Shelton family with this Scripture: Phil.1:6 "being confident of this very thing, that He who has begun a good work in you, will complete it until the day of Jesus Christ." There's a great day coming---may we all be ready to meet God. Each day He sets before us life or death, blessing or cursing. I'm sure He says with a broken heart, "choose life, for why will you die?"
May we all ask ourselves many times daily--- WWJD?--- WWJD?--- WWJD? Let Him use all of us to restore-- not destroy. I pray for every one of you in the SDA church who have been hurt through all of this—just keep on mending broken people as Jesus did and defeat the devil through the Word
WWJD or say if He saw the next comment on this web-site?

Posted by: Pickle Jan 11 2007, 11:36 PM

Actually, WWJD, if you think about it, many people out there will appreciate it that Adventists are a people that stand for something, that have principles. We don't tolerate child molestation, and we don't tolerate deceit intended to cover up child molestation allegations.

When Jesus said, "He that is without sin, let him cast the first stone," He most certainly was not contradicting Himself, because elsewhere He told His church to deal with open sin.

A retired conference official called me the other day and said that that verse is one of the most abused texts in Scripture today. Carried to its logical conclusion, the way some use it, parents could never discipline their children, teachers could never correct their students, and juries could never convict criminals.

WWJD? He would cleanse the temple, and He would denounce the Pharisees and scribes as hypocrites. Of course, He would do it with tears in His voice, but He would do it nonetheless.

I remember reading something like that from a well-respected mainline Protestand author in approximately that time frame. It was "the teaching" of the time outside our denomination, but I had never heard of it officially within our church. But I shouldn't be surprised. Too often we have simply accepted what others taught, without thinking it through ...

Ellen White makes perfectly clear that women are not to tolerate abuse. While taking a very strong position on the sacredness and permanence of marriage, she actually counseled one woman to leave her husband because of his abusive behavior. (Tolerating abuse is actually dishonoring Christ, whose property we are.) Furthermore, she made clear that a woman's first loyalty is to be to Christ, not to her husband. And that message is directly contrary to the message in the book I referenced above (sorry I can't quite remember the author), because the author used Paul's writings to demonstrate that if the wife "obeyed" her husband -- even in not going to church, etc. -- that God would bless her and somehow make things turn out all right. That's a doctrine straight from the pit of hell, IMO, though in my youthful days I wouldn't have put it quite a strongly.

If we really want to know what would Jesus do, WWJD is the wrong question to ask. A better question would be WDJD? What DID Jesus do? As you say Pickle, he denounced the pharaisees and hypocrites and chased the the thieves from the temple. Thats what Jesus would do.

First of all, welc to the board, WWJD,

I appreciate what you are trying to do, but I'm afraid you aren't seeing the full picture and are thus not "rightly dividing the word of truth."

For one thing, you refer to "others who have put positive comments on this site" as being attacked. I'd like you to point me to such intances, because I haven't seen them myself, and I've followed the content on this board off and on for more than two years.

What I have seen are folks coming on here attacking those who posted evidence that Dan Shelton and some other members of his family are not what they appear to be on the 3ABN shows -- any more than soap opera stars are the same characters in real life as they portray on TV.

Yes, Jesus is very concerned with "the least of these." And that's precisely why these posts are appearing on this board. Dan Shelton and those associated with him have far too often abused "the least of these." They are not themselves, by any stretch, "the least of these," living rather well off the proceeds of donations to 3ABN and receiving the adulation of what often appears to be a cult-like following.

By supporting 3ABN in its activities folks are supporting abuse and character assassination of former employees, including the former VP, Linda Shelton. They are supporting the sexual abuse of children, and they are supporting a self-indulgent lifestyle by Dan and several select associates.

Jesus was not gentle with those in positions of power who abused "the least of these." He had some rather strong things to say to them. He even made a whip out of cords, and certain folks whose hearts could not stand His scrutiny fled in terror. I rather think He would do something similar at 3ABN if He should show up there tomorrow.

I'm convinced that evil prospers because good people keep silent. That's why I believe it is good for folks to speak up, rather than to keep silent.

In my own case, I have suffered my own instance of injustice. At the time I considered following through so that others would be spared what I had to go through, but I weighed the cost and decided I just wasn't strong enough. That's why I admire those (like Linda's daugher) who are willing to stand up and be counted, so that others will be spared the kind of abuse they endured.

Please re-consider how you apply the words of Jesus. Our God is a God of love and justice. He cannot be a God of love without also being a God of justice. And justice demands accountability.

Amen! Skyhook, As you remember at one time that Jesus referred to the temple as His Fathers house, but there came a time he walked away from the temple never to return saying, YOUR house [it wasn't His Fathers house anymore] is left unto you desolate. We must remember that a great body of Christ's true followers is still to be found in the churches, which constitute Babylon due to them not knowing anything as yet about the special truths for this time. When the Latter Rain or final warning of the Revelation 18 angel swell to the Loud Cry they will take their stand with the faithful. I believe that more than a few are dissatisfied with their present condition, and are longing for clearer light. They look in vain for the image of Christ in the churches with which they are connected. As these bodies depart farther and farther from the truth, and ally themselves more closely with the world, the difference between the two classes will widen, and it will finally result in separation. The time will come when those who love God supremely can no longer remain in connection with such as are 'lovers of pleasures more than lovers of God; having a form of godliness, but denying the power thereof. PS I might add that probation closes first for SDA. Once the Loud Cry commences which is when the "image beast" is set up in this country it is to late in the day to be found with any besetments!

WWJD, (as you put it), Have you ever considered how many of of us have been driven away from everything supposedly "christian" by 3ABN and the Shelton family? "Born again christian" are you? Born into what evil abuse against the children of the Creator? Do you believe that people should be abused, molested, and sinned against in the name of your vicious "god"? If the Sheltons represent the "god" who you worship, I promise that there are billions of us people who want nothing to do with what you call "god." Your "god" is everything that I, and the majority of humanity abhore! (been there, seen that, done that crime against humanity and God! And never again!!!) Mending broken people? Do you have any idea how many mended people have been broken by your version of "christianity"? Does that even matter to you? Does the expounding of doctrine mean more to you than the lives God's children? Do some meaningless baptisms mean more to you than the breakage of a family? Does your equinamity in religious, emotional, and social torment of the human soul mean more to you that the divine value of the human soul? Does the sexual/emotional/spiritual devastation of children mean so little to you? ...their happiness and life today and in eternity? Shame on you and everything like you!!!!

Some of those children leave the sda church because of how the "church" and Pastors support the abusers.

Personally, I didn't find the "church" supportive while reporting abusive behaviour and trying to leave the abusive situation. A person goes through enough without the "church" adding more emotional pain.

The "broken" should be able to reach out to the church for comfort and support.
Another issue that the churchs and GC need to address is the transferring of church memberships after a person leaves an abusive marriage. The way the system is set up, it is easy for the abuser to find out what church the membership was transferred to.

The church has a long ways to go with addressing this issue, as well as addressing child molestors. The church does have policies in place regarding child molestors in our churches. However, some as we know chose not to adhere to these policies!

wwjd,

Welcome to BSDA.

I have thoroughly read your post from last night and have a few questions.

When you complained about what you feel was "being done" to the Shelton family, you said:

> QUOTE
> even if everything that has been said were true

Let's take, for example, the allegations against Tommy Shelton.

1. If everything were true, what would you do to heal Tommy's alleged victims and make certain that no more young boys and men would become alleged victims?
2. If everything were true, how would you explain to the viewing world the secrecy, the threats of legal action against the alleged victims by Tommy's brother and his 3abn lawyer, and the cover-ups for decades of the alleged abuse by members of the Shelton family? This Shelton family who put on the appearance of being God's messengers.

In Matthew 18: 6 Jesus says:

"But if anyone causes one of these little ones who believe in me to sin, it would be better for him to have a large millstone hung around his neck and to be drowned in the depths of the sea."

When a pastor abuses the trust of his young flock by allegedly molesting them, their spiritual lives often suffer to the point of turning away from God. Their lives suffer from the effects of the abuse.

So, wwjd, what do you suppose Jesus would do?

WWJD: Thanks so much for your post! I hope you will not judge all SDA's by this forum. I really appreciated what you had to say on here and I know you will be attacked for it, in spite of the fact that you are not an SDA.

I want to encourage you to keep studying and reading your Bible and to check out other SDA websites that you will find more interested in learning truth rather than discussing rumors and scandals.

Lee your response is "typical" adventist.... lets not talk about it, lets hope it goes away, nobody could really do all those things.... and it is the response that those who perpetrate abuse love.... because it allows them to continue to victimize people....

I pray for every one of you in the SDA church who have been hurt through all of this—just keep on mending broken people as Jesus did and defeat the devil through the Word WWJD or say if He saw the next comment on this web-site?

Welcome WWJD! We may ask ourselves many times daily WWJD? However, I strongly suggest that we ask ourselves WDJD (What Did Jesus Do)? Jesus spoke against sin, hypocrisy, injustices, and anything that was contrary to the will of his father. Jesus clearly called people names that rightly fit their character as evidenced by their deeds or the lack thereof. What should we call a person(s) who prey on people for their own sense of power? What should we call a person who preys on children for sexual gratification? What should we call a person who puts away his wife under the guise of adultery or some other charge because he seeks another? [I could go on and on.] God loves these people, in spite of themselves; the same way he loves me and everyone else on and off this forum. However, Jesus would call them (that is, persons described in the previous interrogatory sentences) hypocrites, vipers, and other names, which are compatible with their actions. Therefore, speaking out against injustices and wrongs can be ugly and misconstrued as against God's will. There are people on this forum who have suffered and/or know others who have suffered because of the Shelton Family's misdeeds. Should they and the rest of us stand by and say nothing? In keeping silent, we affirm the improper actions of the Sheltons. Therefore, by keeping silent, we are not doing What Jesus Would Do and What Did Jesus Do(?)!

Yes, I agree that this has been a "typical" adventist response. Growing up in the SDA church though, I have recently witness a change in that "typical" behavior. Please consider these verses from 1 Corinthians. This is straight from Gods mouth what we are to do when one of our Brothers is sinning....

3-5I'll tell you what I would do. Even though I'm not there in person, consider me right there with you, because I can fully see what's going on. I'm telling you that this is wrong. You must not simply look the other way and hope it goes away on its own. Bring it out in the open and deal with it in the authority of Jesus our Master. Assemble the community—I'll be present in spirit with you and our Master Jesus will be present in power. Hold this man's conduct up to public scrutiny. Let him defend it if he can! But if he can't, then out with him! It will be totally devastating to him, of course, and embarrassing to you. But better devastation and embarrassment than damnation. You want him on his feet and forgiven before the Master on the Day of Judgment.

6-8Your flip and callous arrogance in these things bothers me. You pass it off as a small thing, but it's anything but that. Yeast, too, is a "small thing," but it works its way through a whole batch of bread dough pretty fast. So get rid of this "yeast." Our true identity is flat and plain, not puffed up with the wrong kind of ingredient. The Messiah, our Passover Lamb, has already been sacrificed for the Passover meal, and we are the Unraised Bread part of the Feast. So let's live out our part in the Feast, not as raised bread swollen with the yeast of evil, but as flat bread—simple, genuine, unpretentious.

I would also say that it is a "danger to our denomination" when a closely connected organization (such as 3ABN), suddenly fires one of it's co-founders, then sends out letters insinuating that this co-founder is guilty of sexual misconduct. These letters end up creating more questions than answers when some of the statements in these letters, frankly, just don't pass the "smell test". Does anyone really think that just because 3ABN happens to be a Christian based ministry, it should be exempted from close scrutiny when such an explosive event happens?

Sure, they and others would like for people to accept as gospel their explanation of the events, but people with common sense aren't easily fooled. Those who have supported the ministry of 3abn have the right and obligation to understand & know the truth. This is nothing less than good stewardship.

Freedom, everything you wrote is of import, but I wanted to focus on this problems of transfers. I just got off the phone with a conference man and we had a good discussion. Neither of us saw any reason in stating where the member is going if they wish to be silent about it.

The membership transfer is a pain as the system has been in place since the horse and buggy days. Unfortunately many of the church clerks are older people who are not up with modern technology. Whatever the case, we need to update the method of doing transfers.

In the Adventist church, someone knows someone, and it is pretty hard to be in a place without someone finding out, if they are bent on doing so. OTOH, I have seen that people are pretty supportive if they know of a potential problem.

Welcome to this forum, wwjd! You said that you're a born again Christian, so you're my brother.

As I read your post, I see concern on your part for the content of many of the posts dealing with the 3ABN problem.

You see, that problem has been a concern for many of us. Some, like me, are concerned by the unchristian and abusive way in which Linda has been treated, because leaders at 3ABN have trashed her reputation in front of millions of people. Only one side has been there, nobody has had the chance to express another opinion.

I personally feel grieved by that action on the part of people who speak the word of God in front of millions. I feel grieved for Linda, for the viewers, and for God's name. That's no way to mend broken people!

What I see is a leader, Danny Shelton, who treats his wife worse than dirt, gets a quick divorce and quickly marries a much younger woman. And then, there are many other immoral actions going on there. Yes, I am grieved and concerned. I don't believe the Word of God condemns people who grieve.

I'm thankful for this forum, that allows grieving and offended people to express themselves. Some have seen and suffered those things first hand. Here they have the opportunity to express the other side, the one that has been shut out by the 3ABN leaders.

Be blessed, my brother. I hope you realize that by saying these things I'm in no way attacking you. You have my love and respect.

Your sister from far away!

Welcome to BSDA redheadbeauty73!
This is a very appropriate scripture. I think the last verses of 1Corinthians 5 are also appropriate.

1Corinthians 5:9-13 NIV
9 I have written you in my letter not to associate with sexually immoral people— 10 not at all meaning the people of this world who are immoral, or the greedy and swindlers, or idolaters. In that case you would have to leave this world. 11 But now I am writing you that you must not associate with anyone who calls himself a brother but is sexually immoral or greedy, an idolater or a slanderer, a drunkard or a swindler. With such a man do not even eat.

12What business is it of mine to judge those outside the church? Are you not to judge those inside?
13God will judge those outside. "Expel the wicked man from among you."

These are pretty strong words of counsel about how to interact with our fellow Christians who have shown by their fruits that they have detached themselves from Christ. While we are to love them as Jesus does, to pray that they will repent and reconnect with Jesus, we should not "associate" with them. It seems that their influence is considered dangerous.

Thank you for adding that last part. Also very fitting to the subject. This discussion is not about slander, its about protecting our church, which is our responsibility. How can the message be sent to all ends of the earth when people see these sinfull actions, and what appears to be typical behavior for our brothers that are preaching this message? THATS what will cause them to turn away! Remember brothers and sisters, we can speed up Christ's return by working diligently to properly carry the message to all the people of the world!

Hey, Bear, we've missed you!! Good to see you again.

I think you may be a bit hard on WWJD. If one watches only the shows, there's no way of knowing what goes on behind the scenes. Dan Shelton still presents a good facade of devoted Christianity under attack by the devil (in the form of folks who know by experience what he's like off-camera). So we really can't blame WWJD for his/her perceptions.

However, your words are on target for anyone who has any inkling of things going on at 3ABN and wishes to cover things up/defend Dan Shelton & cohorts. You speak from the pain of your own experience, and our hearts go out to you.

I've been wondering how you were, and this post makes me a bit concerned -- especially since you write "how many of us have been driven away."

Last I knew, you were hanging in there, knowing that 3ABN does not represent God in this world but that the principal characters badly misrepresent God. And that misrepresentation of God is, of course, Satan's work.

Please, Bear, keep your focus on Jesus. In spite of evidence to the contrary (if you're still in the environs of 3ABN), God is still on His throne. And he will make things right sooner or later. In the meantime, the safest way to walk in the shadows is with your hand in His. I'll be praying for you, and I hope others here join me. May you sense His presence with you.

In the meantime, if you can share what you're going through, we'll listen. But I realize that you may not be able to share much because of legal issues.

May God bless you and keep you and make His face to shine upon you.

In His love,
Inga

I hope wwjd has the ears to hear what you are saying! Unfortunately it is more likely that he is entrenched in the dysfunctional culture that has been created at the 3abn compound. We can only pray that God's powerful light will someday break through the darkness of the thinly veiled sinful system and things will be put right.

As for you, young man, turn your eyes and trust back onto Jesus and let Him begin to heal you. Realize that He cares deeply for you and yours and that it tears His heart to see the trauma you and your children are going through. There will be a day when all will be made right and sin will reign no more. Prayer is powerful and lots of them are ascending to God on your behalf.

And I second everything that Inga said!

poor analogy.... and a distasteful one too....

however if Tommy was black and he did what they say he's done, in the black community he would have disappeared.... think not? Go read Maya Angelou's autobiography.... she talks about a man who molested her, she told her family, that man disappeared....

I know several other cases of men who molested kids in the church.... never heard from ever again.... not saying its right, but saying different groups handle things differently....

If someone ever messed with my kids... there are people I know I can call that would handle the perpetrator.... and I know others who have essentially said the same thing.....

I agree Clay - stank analogy is more like it.

There are certain "analogies" that you don't play with "lynching", "Easy-Bakes" (like the Jews in their persecution), "long walks" (Trail of Tears for Native Americans)......

Maybe you were just playing on the racist side. Maybe not on the racist side...maybe just on the crass/ill-mannered/duh side.....

Whetever side. The analogy stanks. I don't want Tommy Shelton killed. I want him away from children he may/can/has in the past [b]MOLESTED!!![/b]What is the problem with wanting someone to pay for the crime of having sex with a child? What is the problem with that? Then again.....

Question:
Lee: Are you a child molestor?

If so then this explains your reasoning, actions, and statements on this board. You have to protect "your own"....

If you are NOT then you just have a sick mind.

Clay and PrincessDrRe I agree with both of your sentiments on this lynching issue. There are places that should not be approached even in jest or in trying to make a point.

Is it to the glory of God that this dirty laundry is being aired out in public for the whole world to see?

Do not be overcome by evil, but overcome evil with good.

Love your enemies, do good to those who hate you.

If your railing accusations are true, how many of you have really prayed for Danny?

I do know that scripture, BUT, what about this one in 1 Corinthians 5? I posted this earlier, guess you didnt see this....

1-2*I also received a report of scandalous sex within your church family,* a kind that wouldn't be tolerated even outside the church: One of your men is sleeping with his stepmother. And you're so above it all that it doesn't even faze you! Shouldn't this break your hearts? Shouldn't it bring you to your knees in tears? Shouldn't this person and his conduct be confronted and dealt with?

3-5I'll tell you what I would do. Even though I'm not there in person, consider me right there with you, because I can fully see what's going on. I'm telling you that this is wrong. You must not simply look the other way and hope it goes away on its own. Bring it out in the open and deal with it in the authority of Jesus our Master. Assemble the community—I'll be present in spirit with you and our Master Jesus will be present in power. Hold this man's conduct up to public scrutiny. Let him defend it if he can! But if he can't, then out with him! It will be totally devastating to him, of course, and embarrassing to you. But better devastation and embarrassment than damnation. You want him on his feet and forgiven before the Master on the Day of Judgment.

I hope you will consider this text as well before judging what alot of people are trying to accomplish here which is trying to save the message of God from being ministered by men who have fallen from God! Bless you!

If the dirty laundry is held in the private parts of the church(where ever that is) How does that bring Glory and Honor to God, by making it easier a man to prey up young children, if i remember right there is a text about not keeping the small ones away from Christ.

Also how does bring honor to God when "Good" Christians seem more concerned about following rules then taking care of Kids?

Mat. 18 does not apply to public sins.

The problem at Corinth stayed at Corinth. Paul did not mention of it to any of the other churches, nor did he solicit the involvement of the 12 apostles in Jerusalem. This was not a matter of concern for anyone except for those immediately involved.

You claim that you are "trying to save the message of God from being ministered by men who have fallen from God!" Well consider this...

Even though God had rejected Saul and David was anointed king, David in no wise took it upon himself to speak a word against Saul. Instead he patiently followed God's will and demonstrated love towards Saul while he waited for God to work things out in God's own way and time. And after David had become king and sinned a great sin, it was still God's will that David should remain king. In either case, it wasn't for the people of Israel to speak up against God's chosen servants.

Like it or not Danny is the head of 3ABN and will remain as such until God removes him. The work Danny is doing through 3ABN is constructive to the building up of the church. On the other hand, it's impossible for the church to be edified by the gossip going on here.

If the problem stayed at Corinth, how'd we find out about it? And are you suggesting that the house of Chloe was wrong in "gossiping" and telling Paul about the serious problems that they saw going on?

Since when is Danny's recent threatening of the Dunn Loring congregation with a lawsuit over the new allegations of child molestation against Tommy Shelton supposed to be building up the work of the church?

And by asking that we wait for God to remove Danny, are you by saying this suggesting that you want God to remove him without any human participation at all? If so, would not that be rather unkind and uncharitable, considering how God has done that kind of thing in the past?

Most interesting comment. So, are your writing from Corinth?

It seems to me that you are making some huge assumptions not supported by the facts:

You assume that God chose and anointed Dan Shelton as a kind of king or leader like Saul or David. The fact is that Dan Shelton is not even a chosen leader within the Adventist church. He is not a minister, let a lone a "king" with a larger "kingdom." He and his supporters claim that he has been chosen and anointed.

The evidence indicates that Dan Shelton runs 3ABN like his private business, not that God "anointed" him!!

I rather think that Christ's warning against false Christs can be extended to cover the likes of Dan Shelton who use the truth of God for their own profit.

Or would you say that we should not believe those who claim they are Christ but should believe those who claim they are prophets or "anointed"?

Again, you are assuming some kind of divine appointment for Dan, with which I disagree. You are also assuming that we, as the body of Christ, have no responsibility for those in our midst who bring disgrace on His name.

The counsel to Paul to the Corinthians does not support your assumption. But then, I suppose you may be excused, since your Bible doesn't contain that letter -- seeing you claim that the matter was kept under wraps at Corinth.

We're clearly not reading from the same Bible!!

You are again making assumptions. You appear to credit Dan with the good results from the programs aired over the 3ABN network. Are you also willing to credit other networks with doing the work of God when they air some Adventist programming?

Frankly, I think that the work of Danny is destructive to the church. The greater one's profession of godliness, the greater is the damage done when that person betrays Christ. Sinning in the name of God does not transform sin into righteousness. We're not dealing with minor "private" sins here. We're dealing with major betrayal of trust and major abuse of persons who once worked for 3ABN. Linda is not the only one and perhaps not the one who has suffered the most. Her situation just got more publicity. (It is also evident that not a few of those baptized through 3ABN-sponsored events are joining the 3ABN/aka Dan Shelton church, rather than the Adventist church, sending their tithes and offerings to 3ABN, rather than contributing to any flesh-and-blood local church.)

I don't accept your assumptions, thus I can't accept your conclusions.

And I suspect that the same is true for many others on this board.

I have prayed for Danny. Can't lie....I have also prayed for his "family" (new wife/old wife), his "family" (the Molestor), and the VICTIMS. Have you prayed for them?

I agree Erik. Folks are bent on "protecting and doing right" by those that victimize CHILDREN.

"With men it's impossible - but with GOD all things are possible...."

Besides. If a VICTIM reads these threads, realizes they are not alone, and gains strength - THAT DOES EDIFY the CHURCH and the WORD OF GOD - (Be sure you sins will find you out!) Not claiming that I don't have any sins... (would you?)

However....

HAVE YOU EVER MOLESTED A CHILD? HAVE YOU EVER BEEN MOLESTED? Many of us here have shared our experiences with Molestors (being molested/knowing molestors in the church/having family members that have been molested) and for you to say that warning someone of possible danger of a SEXUAL PREDATOR is not edifying THE CHURCH? What about GOD BEING PLEASED THAT SOMEONE PROTECTED A CHILD?

WHAT ABOUT THE CHILDREN???

Ahhh, my first post. I will try not to be too stupid... but can you show me where God has corrected the Mormons, Catholics or the Jehovah Witnesses? Or does God only correct Adventists?

Don't you think all supposed gossip transpiring could just evaporate away if the 3ABN people who are in responsible positions would be merely clear and transparent instead of twisting this way, subterfuge, and lying that way? Can this be of God?

Please read Col. 4:16 where you discover that the epstles of Paul were not to remain in the church which his letters were originally sent to. History tells us that it was because his letters - and other such letters - were widely circulated among the existing churches that these letters were put together into what is our Scripture today. Thus even the problem at Corinth soon became a matter of concern for all of the Christian churches.

This was further evident when some time after Paul's death another letter was written to the church at Corinth dealing with their interal problems. This excellent letter was for a while circulated with the original Bible, but later dismissed together with several others because they were not written by people who had known Jesus themselves. Somehow Paul was counted among those who knew Jesus because he had met Him in a vision, and he knew the Apostles.

KS,
1 Corinthians 5:9-13 is pretty clear on how we are to deal with fellow Christians who are not following what God commands.
9 I have written you in my letter not to associate with sexually immoral people— 10not at all meaning the people of this world who are immoral, or the greedy and swindlers, or idolaters. In that case you would have to leave this world. 11But now I am writing you that you must not associate with anyone who calls himself a brother but is sexually immoral or greedy, an idolater or a slanderer, a drunkard or a swindler. With such a man do not even eat.
12 What business is it of mine to judge those outside the church? Are you not to judge those inside? 13 God will judge those outside. "Expel the wicked man from among you."

Are we being told here to let God remove a wicked professed believer in His own time, as you suggest? It doesn't sound that way to me. While this scripture is rather hard for me to read because I love those fellow church members who are allowing Satan to lead them away from God, it is obvious that we are being told their influence is dangerous.

Do you believe in the inspiration of Ellen White? She has an excellent statement on the treatment of our fellow Christian brethern:

"Never question the motives of your brethren; for as you judge them, God has declared you will be judged. Open your hearts to kindliness, to the cheering rays of the Sun of Righteousness. Encourage kindly thoughts and holy affections. Cultivate the habit of speaking well of your brethren. Let not pride or selfish righteousness prevent you from making a frank and full confession of your wrong-doings. If you do not love those for whom Christ has died, you have no genuine love for Christ, and your worship will be as a tainted offering before God. If you cherish unworthy thoughts, misjudging your brethren and surmising evil of them, God will not hear your self-sufficient, self-exalted prayers. When you go to those who you think are doing wrong, you must have the spirit of meekness, of kindness, and be full of mercy and good fruits. Do not show partiality to one or more, and neglect other of your brethren because they are not congenial to you. Beware lest you deal harshly with those who you think have made mistakes, while others, more guilty and more deserving of reproof, who should be severely rebuked for their unChristlike conduct, are sustained and treated as friends."--RH Mar. 12, 1895.

There is a time for rebuke. There is a time for removal. We have clear counsel here.

I'm thankful for this forum, that allows grieving and offended people to express themselves. Some have seen and suffered those things first hand. Here they have the opportunity to express the other side, the one that has been shut out by the 3ABN leaders.

Be blessed, my brother. I hope you realize that by saying these things I'm in no way attacking you. You have my love and respect.

Your sister from far away!
Grace, I must say, you have one of the only kind and christian spirits on this forum. I believe you do want what is best. Therefore, I will share what "I know" (in reality it is what I heard like most everyone on this forum says) There is a big difference between what one knows, what one has heard, and what one is led to believe through incriminating reports without hearing the other side of the story. We agree that there are 2 sides. I knew someone personally that worked at the 3 abn facility for many years. I considered this person, honest to a fault with a very christian spirit. As that person was around the family a lot they saw and heard a lot. I was told that, at that time, the general consensus with the people there was that Danny Shelton loved his wife to a fault. To a fault, meaning, he gave her, her way, most of the time even when he really shouldn't have. This person also said that he constantlybuilt her up and openly complimented her over and over simply because he cared so much. This person is no longer there but told me this: That when Linda Shelton left 3ABN it was like a huge load was lifted off of the employees since worker after worker said that she had acted "the queen bee" by not wanting the workers to make a decent wage, by showing them no respect in many ways, and countless other things that I promised my source, I would not repeat. I was also told that they had personally seen Danny S crushed almost to the point of breaking at the time of their seperation. My friend said that Linda S. could not possibly be saying that she was abused and kicked out, when my friend saw with their own eyes, Mr. Shelton helping her to move all of her things, trip after trip to a place about 45 miles from the 3abn facility. And after she was moved He went over to her residence and built a deck for her and while doing so, they even had several meals together. This ex employee said that everyone that heard about it was shocked and thought it ridiculous that he would do such a thing when he felt he had been betrayed. Now my own thoughts are that if I had a mate who abused and mistreated me, I wouldn't let them anywhere near me once I got out of there much less work on my home or take me to eat a meal. Also they said it was more than a year and 1/2 approx before he remarried to a woman that had lived in another state for many many years but after hearing of and watching 3abn relocated to be a part of spreading the gospel. I could go on since my friend and I have talked often by phone, emails, ect but I won't. Other than to ask, is all of this true? I believe so because I know the Godly nature of my friend who was actually there and observed with their own eyes, not to mention that being an employee, they heard these thoughts from many of the others there. But, the end result is My story has no more validity or proof than any of the stories on this site. Why? Again because it is what I heard. From a great source? I believe so but many of you will not want to believe because your minds are already made up.
One more thing I will say to all these comments I read about exposing someone who is a child molester, and calling sin by it's right name and how your church should handle this and quoting the scriptures. There is only one thing wrong here...the person you are accusing, from what I can see, has never been even tried, much less convicted. I would think any reasonable person on this forum that proffeses christianity of anykind would see the wrong in exposing the "sin" when there is no proof of the sin. Proof, trial & conviction has to have been done before any "exposing" and calling sin by its right name, can be done. Remember "innocent" until PROVEN guilty.

Grace, I hope you take this in the spirit that it has been given. Because you seemed to truly want to weigh the issues, and just tell you some of the things that " I heard" since the others have told you so much of the same
Thanks for hearing me out.

How much of this sob story did you confirm as fact before passing it on to others? How did you verify it? If you didn't, how are you convinced it is true? And by accepting it as true are you not equally guilty as those you call yourself castigating here...if not moreso?

BTW, the bulk of the things stated here are from first hand witnesses... not folk like you who have just "heard" things from someone else.

Neither you, nor anyone else, has refuted any of the first hand accounts here... and juxtaposed against those accounts is you recounting what you have heard... and yet you think we should give as much, if not more, weight to what you say second or third hand... versus what others have actually witnessed and experienced first hand...

While some of us were born at night... it wasn't last night... you're gonna have to do better than this.

In His service,
Mr. J

Therefore, by keeping silent, we are not doing What Jesus Would Do and What Did Jesus Do (?)!
[/quote]
Chez your point is well taken except everyone is leaving the most important fact out. There has to be absolute proof of alleged crimes then a fair trial and then a conviction before we can call sin by its right name. None of that has been accomplished here.

These are pretty strong words of counsel about how to interact with our fellow Christians who have shown by their fruits that they have detached themselves from Christ. While we are to love them as Jesus does, to pray that they will repent and reconnect with Jesus, we should not "associate" with them. It seems that their influence is considered dangerous.
[/quote]
But do you not also feel the danger of convicting someone without absolute proof or a fair trial. On this site, the accused has already been arrested, tried and convicted and now without any of those actions taken are taking up the chant of "expose and crucify him" Jesus never condemmed anyone on letters emails or heresay. We are all innocent until proven guilty and even then, if proven guilty, how can we on this forum, possibly know if the accused person has repented? We can't, which is why we can't judge, that is very dangerous

shame on you..thank God we have evolved into a "more civilized" culture where one is supposed to be offered a fair trial with dead to right proof before anyone can be convicted. So sorry you feel that way.

How true are your words. All I see on here is several of the accused should be exposed for safety reasons and for the safety of your church. But as I have said over and over tonight there has to be a "proven" beyond a shadow of a doubt sin before one can ever get to what or should be exposed. this has not happened. I say again THIS HAS NOT HAPPENED. I can say this with certainty. if I were on trial for anything, I would hate to see some of these people on the jury. By their standards I would be exposed, stoned and happily lynched in the public square on accusations alone. Frightening isn't it.

On this site, the accused has already been arrested, tried and convicted and now without any of those actions taken are taking up the chant of "expose and crucify him" Jesus never condemmed anyone on letters emails or heresay. We are all innocent until proven guilty and even then, if proven guilty, how can we on this forum, possibly know if the accused person has repented? We can't, which is why we can't judge, that is very dangerous > shame on you..thank God we have evolved into a "more civilized" culture where one is supposed to be offered a fair trial with dead to right proof before anyone can be convicted. So sorry you feel that way.

WWJD, how much proof do you need? Victims have stated that Tommy sexually abused them and the Danny and his lawyer have tried to shut them up. How many do you need? Do you need 100s of victims? These young men have been scarred for life and you want more proof? If I remember correctly, Tommy has not denied some molestation. He has stated that he himself was sexually abused. Thus, alluding to a type of justification for his actions.

I just don't buy the Danny story. I empathized with him at the very beginning until the quickie divorce, until I heard him ranting and raving on 3ABN about this marital ("poor me") situation, until he married Brandi, until I heard him indirectly and through inuendos put down Linda, until.... I know of persons who do not profess to be Christians who have not gone through such lengths to let people know how bad their "ex" was/is. Some of these people can be deemed as justified in their criticism; however, some have never stooped to that level, that is, not publically. Danny is no saint.

you don't accept assumptions? That is exactly what you are doing when you make all the accusations you just made toward mr. Shelton. You said he is running 3abn as a business you said he is in it for his own profit and that he is destructive. Where is your evidence? I can tell you where. In your mind. You have "assumed" everything you have read on here to be true. Shame on you. Many of us don't just automatically accept your assumptions, thus ,cannot accept your conclusions.

I watch a lot of their programming. I have never ever heard Danny S trash Linda on the air as some has said here. Also because of a friend I have that worked there at the time of the divorce, I have yet to understand this "quickie" thing. The employees there have said there were months of talking, and trying to work through problems until it was clear there was going to be no resolution. Then, the divorce. Also I traveled to the GC session in st. louis several years ago at the time this was happening and was told by someone in the GC that Linda was going to try to hand out a book that even though had fictitious names, was described extremely well enough that you knew she was talking about Danny S and the 3ABN ministry. The GC person said he had seen a little of it, whether online, in person, what, I don't know but said it was terrible trash and the GC would not allow it to be handed out in the confines of the stadium where they were holding the session. Then I was told that she had come onto this site as someone else to start if not all, a good portion of the accusations that have been made here.It was still much later before Danny S ever even made any kind of reference that things had not ended on a good note. Sounds like self defense to me. As far as the other accusations, I truly believe if someone was guilty of the awful things that have been said here and guilty of them for years and years with tons and tons of teenagers, they would have been convicted and be in jail by now. As is proven on this site, people love to gossip and throw dirt and something like that would have broke wide open and with evidence to prove it. Maybe someone should look into the background of some of the letter writers and accusers and they may find out some interesting things.

My point exactly, is that everyone can play that game. And I did say I heard it from an employee that was an eyewitness to several of the things mentioned. If you are going to believe the eye witness account of other employees to the detriment of that ministry then why not believe eye witness accounts that would benefit that ministry. I wasn't born last night either even though a toddler could see exactly how biased against them you are and how closed minded to anyone that gives 3abn and its leaders, the benefit of the doubt.
My eyewitness is just as good as your eyewitness. I think I've made my point

For someone who decries the use of "I heard," you surely seem to be using a lot of this type of language, yourself. Of course, maybe this is just more of the Danny Shelton "do as I say, not as I do" mentality which prevails with 3ABN management.

As for your other statement:

The General Conference Session in Saint Louis was held June 29 through July 8, 2005. That's not "several years ago." If you can't remember when you were there, how accurate could the rest of your recollections be?

Dear WWJD,

I mentioned the possibility of Linda writing a fictional book in my post of July 9, 2006. This is one year and one the day after the General Conference ended. The General Conference ended on July 8, 2005. Why are you off on your dates, WWJD?

Did you, by any chance, take the fictional book idea I posted at this forum in July, 2006 and turn it into an eyewitness account to a General Conference session that occurred, as you say, "several years ago"?

Re: "There is only one thing wrong here...the person you are accusing, from what I can see, has never been even tried, much less convicted. I would think any reasonable person on this forum that proffeses christianity of anykind would see the wrong in exposing the "sin" when there is no proof of the sin. Proof, trial & conviction has to have been done before any "exposing" and calling sin by its right name, can be done. Remember "innocent" until PROVEN guilty."

The phrase "innocent until proven guilty" applies to criminal law. The aspects of that application do not directly transfer over to what society expects us to do. Society in the USA expects children to be protected. As accused child molester, even if not convicted, does not have a legal right to be placed in contact with children. When that person is kept from contacting children, thee is no loss of a legal right.

Further society expects that parents will be informed, so that parents, who have the right to govern their children can make responsible choices. This means that parents should be informed that Mr. X has been accused of child molestation, so that parents can decide on whether or not Mr. X has contact with heir children.

I live in an area where a few years ago, under false pretenses, a local clergy person baptized children without the knowledge of the parents. When that became known, it was stopped. Parents govern their children. They need information.

Your statements regarding innocent until guilty, and no criminal conviction, are simply without foundation. If you want to know the denominational (SDA) position on this, search it out. You might write to the Upper Columbia Conference, or to the Walla Walla College Church and ask for a copy of their policy. The policy clearly provides for the protection of children without a criminal conviction. That is what society expects.

Re: "Also I traveled to the GC session in st. louis several years ago at the time this was happening and was told by someone in the GC that Linda was going to try to hand out a book that even though had fictitious names, was described extremely well enough that you knew she was talking about Danny S and the 3ABN ministry. Well you are clearly repeating multi-handed gossip. You heard from someone who heard form someone, who heard from someone. . ..

Your reference, of course, is to THE TELEVANGELIST. It may be that someone came to a General Conference (although your dates appear to be off to me), or to some other denominational meeting, with the intent to distribute THE TELEVANGELIST. I do not know.

But, I can definitively tell you that Linda Shelton did not intend to distribute that literary work. The implication that she did is clearly false.

Re: "Then I was told that she had come onto this site as someone else to start if not all, a good portion of the accusations that have been made here."

The above is also false.

You simply do not know what you are talking about.

Seventh-day Adventists have never believed that one has to be tried and convicted in a civil court before calling sin by its right name. Proof? For starters, read the church manual's instructions regarding church discipline.

"Willful and habitual falsehood" is one of the grounds for church discipline. Ever heard of a civil court trying an individual for that?

Lies are prosecuted, yes. perjury, false testimony, filing a false staement, interfering with a criminal investigation, slander...

What is not being made clear here is the division of Church and State, and criminal acts which are prosecuted by the state.

Jesus clearly defined the difference between the two when he said "Render unto Ceasar what is Ceasars and unto God what is God's"

Civil Laws in every Nation the world over have throughout history and even today reflected the law of God given in the second table of Stone.

The Church does not have the right to supercede the civil authorities and try members for Murder, rape, or robbery etc, or punish them as criminals, that is the duty of the govening powers and authorities.

The Church in it's discipline process, offers councelling, Censure, and or disfellowship, but only after diligent search inguiry and a consensus of it's members, the church is not to have lower standards in doing so then a civil court or tribunal would.

Something else we might do well to consider, is it doesn't matter if the tale being told is true or false. God said don't do it, he commanded how sin and error where to be taken care of and did NOT say take it upon yourselves to decide when to disregard what I have commanded. He is the Lord.

...Thou shalt not curse the deaf, nor put a stumblingblock before the blind, but shalt fear thy God:
I am the LORD.

Ye shall do no unrighteousness in judgment:
thou shalt not respect the person of the poor, nor honour the person of the mighty:
but in righteousness shalt thou judge thy neighbour.

Thou shalt not go up and down as a talebearer among thy people:
neither shalt thou stand against the blood of thy neighbour:
I am the LORD.

Thou shalt not hate thy brother in thine heart:
thou shalt in any wise rebuke thy neighbour, and not suffer sin upon him.

Thou shalt not avenge,
nor bear any grudge against the children of thy people, but thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself:
I am the LORD...
Lev 19

The end does NOT justify the means, EVER.

If you feel it doesn't glorify God to "air dirty laundry", why are you doing it? Again judged by the standard by which you choose to judge this forum you are equally guilty of that which you decry... which means the remainder of that passage from Matt 7 applies squarely to you:

Mat 7:3-5 And why beholdest thou the mote that is in thy brother's eye, but considerest not the beam that is in thine own eye? (4) Or how wilt thou say to thy brother, Let me pull out the mote out of thine eye; and, behold, a beam is in thine own eye? Your point is wrong... This forum is not "repeating" what has been told from former employees; Those former employees/3ABN board members/etc who have spoken out in this forum are speaking first hand of what they have seen and experienced and are giving testimony of conversations they personally had with the principals (whether by phone, by email or face to face) in this situation. That is far different from the foolishness you are trying to put forth.

Have the persons who have this alleged first hand knowledge come and testify of it themselves and then it might have merit. Tell them to provide facts that support their version and refute the version of others. Those who you feel are doing so wrong have done these things; we didnt just take their word for it. Their claims were scrutinized and those which were substantiated were allowed to stand. Those like yourself have the same opportunity to provide evidence, opportunity you have to date been unwilling or unable to utilize... choosing rather to go the route of ad hominem in an effort to disparage this forum and those who post in it... but not once providing a shred of evidence that refutes what has been posted here.

Only if your point is to show the level of ignorance you have regarding logic and your dependence upon logical fallacies and sensationalism... that point you have made loud and clear... but I was already convinced of it since you arrived here and began to speak.

You have made no other point, however.

Question 1 regarding "The phrase "innocent until proven guilty" applies to criminal law"
Does that mean when a Christian comes to you with a tale about one of your brethren, accusing them of sin, they are guilty till proven innocent?

Question 2, regarding "Apparently in your zeal to point out the flaw in others' pointing out the flaws in Danny/3ABN, you have become that which you decry. You proclaim how offended you are by all that has been said... yet you do so publicly and not "just between the two of you (alone, in private).

For with what judgment ye judge, ye shall be judged: and with what measure ye mete, it shall be measured to you again."

Is error and sin or wrong doing posted on a internet discussion forum private?
Should posters here be addressed publically on the board, or privately?

I think the arguments here are really childish. Yes, I can say that

The point is whoever you find fault, sin or error in, THAT is the person you are to rebuke or reprove, or address, whether privately, or before all.

YOU are NOT to go up and down among the people telling others about it instead nor make webpages to expose people, instead of dealing with them, that is gossip, slander and sin, and a SHAME.

Anybody here think the Ellen White hatesites like www.ellenwhite.org are loving and Christlike. They claim they are trying to save us poor cult members from a false prophet.

Anybody know anybody they have saved with their methods of reporting and the tactics they use?

Also,Fran, does your Bible say do unto others as you have found fault with them for doing. Or do unto others as they do to you?

Beware of the leaven of the Pharisses, which is _____?

Later...

Re: "Question 1 regarding "The phrase "innocent until proven guilty" applies to criminal law"
Does that mean when a Christian comes to you with a tale about one of your brethren, accusing them of sin, they are guilty till proven innocent?"

Alethia, here is what it means: Society expects us to take certain steps to protect children even if there has never been a criminal conviction. Criminal innocence or guilt is nto the question.

Re: "Question 2, regarding "Apparently in your zeal to point out the flaw in others' pointing out the flaws in Danny/3ABN, you have become that which you decry. You proclaim how offended you are by all that has been said... yet you do so publicly and not "just between the two of you (alone, in private)."

Alethia, anyone who comes here and posts publicly subjects themself to a public response, whatever that response may be.

Re: "For with what judgment ye judge, ye shall be judged: and with what measure ye mete, it shall be measured to you again."

Yes, when I post publicly, I subject myself to a public resposne.

Re: "Is error and sin or wrong doing posted on a internet discussion forum private?
Should posters here be addressed publically on the board, or privately?"

Again, a public post here allows a public response.

Re: "I think the arguments here are really childish. Yes, I can say that"

Alethia, of course you can say that. No one has prevented you from doing such. We in turn may respond by telling that you are uninformed, if and when that is accurate.

Re: "The point is whoever you find fault, sin or error in, THAT is the person you are to rebuke or reprove, or address, whether privately, or before all.

YOU are NOT to go up and down among the people telling others about it instead nor make webpages to expose people, instead of dealing with them, that is gossip, slander and sin, and a SHAME."

Alethia, if you have read Ellen White I am certain you know that she, at times publicly reproved people, and clearly told us that there were times when public sin must be publicly rebuked.

Re: "Anybody here think the Ellen White hatesites like www.ellenwhite.org are loving and Christlike.
They claim they are trying to save us poor cult members from a false prophet."

Alethia, <ellenwhite.org> is not the issue here. Why you posted that URL for people to access is beyond me. As a result, people are likely to visit it to see what it says. Was that what you wanted?

Re: "Anybody know anybody they have saved with their methods of reporting and the tactics they use?
Also,Fran, does your Bible say do unto others as you have found fault with them for doing. Or do unto others as they do to you?"

Alethia, we are all imperfect. I do not hold anybody, to include myself up as an example of perfection. But, the major players in this are doing what they are doing because they believe they are responding to the call of God. You may reject that. O.K. You are entitled to your thought. But, we will not "come down off the wall" [Read your Bible.] simply because we are imperfect. God choses to use imperfect people who are willing to respond to His call.

Those who are posting their experience in this forum are not the ones attempting to invoke Matt 18 as a rule to govern the conduct of others. It is you and others who are trying to invoke Matt 18 who miss your own hypocrisy in declaring your being offended publicly and not between "he and thee alone", even as you are admonishing others they should not do such publicly.

If anything posted here offended you, you had an obligation to make that offense known to that person privately... since that is the standard you are insisting others meet... and you havent done that.

If you are going to insist others should address their grievances privately, you too should not be addressing yours publicly. Anything short of that makes you a hypocrite.

Said arguments are merely meeting you where you are. If you want to have more mature discourse...

grow up.

If you truly believed this, you would not be posting in this forum. You continue to miss the log in your own eye, Cindy.

Rather than attacking people, Cindy, provide evidence that refutes their testimony. We keep coming back to this point and you keep trying to muddy the waters in an attempt to conceal the fact that you have no such evidence.

We're waiting. If what has been said is nothing more than gossip and slander, prove it.

Cindy,
Since others have made remarks on many portions of you post I will only respond to the specific parts I have left in your quote.

'You say that whoever you find fault, sin or error in, THAT is the person you are to rebuke or reprove, or address, whether privately, or before all." This, by the way, is Scripturally sound and can be found in Matthew 18:15-17 which says:

"15 If your brother sins against you, go and show him his fault, just between the two of you. If he listens to you, you have won your brother over. 16 But if he will not listen, take one or two others along, so that 'every matter may be established by the testimony of two or three witnesses.' 17 If he refuses to listen to them, tell it to the church; and if he refuses to listen even to the church, treat him as you would a pagan or a tax collector."

Unfortunately, in your very next sentence you rebut what you have just stated.

Please read my post in the link below. It has really specific counsel on how we are to deal with our Christian brethern.

And now for a little story...

Once upon a time in a pleasant country area in a land called Indiana, a young mother was raising two fine young boys on her own. She was deeply spriritual and wanted to make sure her children were raised understanding the Scriptures and enjoying the fellowship of her local Seventh-day Adventist church family.

This mother did everything she could to protect her charges. She fed them healthy food, made sure they got regular medical check-ups, had them in a nice school where they could get the best education possible. She was also very careful who she would let her sons associate with. She only left them with people she knew she could trust.

She got lots of support from her church family. She and her sons went to all the church services and got to know the the local congregation as if they were all close relatives. One man, obviously deeply spiritual himself, helped this young mother from time to time when she needed a jump for her car or help fixing things around her home. Her sons liked the man a lot and he liked them right back. He often acted like a big brother, helping them with their homework, telling them funny stories from his childhood. The young mother would often find herself smiling at the way her boys responded to this man.

From time to time she would allow the man to take her precious little boys to sports functions or even out for pizza. After one of these outings, her oldest boy was acting funny. He didn't seem like himself. As the days passed, the once cheerful boy began flying into rages, sometimes even lashing out at her or hitting his younger brother. What had happened?

She confided in her pastor and was stunned to find out that there were reports that the man who had befriended the family had allegedly abused several young boys in the last church family he had been a part of. Many in her own church family knew about the allegations but didn't want to spread gossip.

The mother smiled sweetly at those who had known and forgave them for not warning her about the man, for that was the right thing to do....

As that person was around the family a lot they saw and heard a lot. I was told that, at that time, the general consensus with the people there was that Danny Shelton loved his wife to a fault. To a fault, meaning, he gave her, her way, most of the time even when he really shouldn't have. This person also said that he constantlybuilt her up and openly complimented her over and over simply because he cared so much.

Well that is an interesting comment indeed!

I cannot claim to have been around Dan and Linda on the 3ABN compound.

However, they have been in my parents' living room via satellite while I visited there. And by about 2003 or so at least, we saw a very different picture. Dan often belittled Linda in subtle ways on the air and Linda would just sort of smile and take it in stride. (The belitting of Linda was generally disguised as humor, and most folks with life experience know that belittling "humor" is a signal of something wrong.)

Almost a year before Dan cast off Linda my husband remarked --just from observing them on the set --that there was something very wrong with that marriage. He figured something would happen ...

It is interesting how perceptions can differ.

Putting my perceptions and your friends together, we get a rather incongruous picture:

Dan built his wife up off the air and put her down on the air. H'mm ...

[By the way, my husband was not a great fan of Linda Shelton either.]

Let me add a true story, as I know the parties involved:

Sarah (not her real name) was a dedicated, SDA. She had worked at the Voice of Prophecy. She had worked in evangellism, and had married this fine man who shared her committment to doing the Lord's work, whom I shall call Ralph.

One day, Sarah's world was turned upside down. Ralph had been arrested on two counts of child molestation--the girls were 6 & 9 years old. Ralph pled guilty, and was sentenced to prison. Sarah ended the marriage and attempted to put her life together.

As she moved on, friends informed her that they had been worried about her marriage to Ralph from day one. You see, he had been accused of child molestation in the past. There had been no criminal charges. But, Ralph had had to leave the State where he live, and he had moved to the State where Sarah lived.

As Sarah told me: If only they had informed her prior to her marriage?

Perhaps we need to have conference-sponsored seminars on learning the difference between gossip and the responsibility to warn others when we have compelling evidence that needs to be shared. It might save some young people from a life of torment.

The GC person said he had seen a little of it....

H'mm ... that begins to sound like an interesting bit of fiction ...

In your post of Jan 12 you stated, "A am not SDA."

How, then, do you happen to have such a close relationship to "a GC person" who tells you all sorts of secrets that others don't know? (Of course, in this case, the secret information conveniently slanders Linda Shelton.)

And there was a GC session "at the time this was happening -- "this" presumably being the divorce and events leading up to it???

The events to which you refer, including the GC session are evidently super secret-- so secret that no one else knows about them.

It will be interesting to see how you explain this. Remember that, even in creative writing, you need to keep your story straight so that folks can follow your story line. (Of course, we all know that a certain Dan Shelton has a bit of difficulty in this area. When one story line doesn't fly, he simply spins another one ...)

Carry on ...

Clearly any attempt to help you see that the course of this website is wrong falls on deaf ears.

Anyone who dares to call the gossip going on here sin makes himself a target.

What an embarrassment BSDA is to the cause of God. Your slanderous words reek of pride and arrogance. You fail to understand that gossip is tantamount to the things you accuse others of. You think you are so righteous in your own conceit, boasting about problems within the church before the whole world.

You ought to know better! Gossip originated with Lucifer in heaven. It was his power tool to stir discontent among the angels. From this the whole great controversy was set into motion.

Instead of sighing and crying for the abominations done in Zion, you pour more into the cup. When somebody puts light from the plain word of God before you, you snuff it out. You think you are walking in the light, but my, how that light has become darkness! How can any God fearing Christian have fellowship with you while you walk in the darkness of gossip?

Thou shalt not go up and down as a talebearer among thy people. Lev 19:16

Speak not evil one of another. James 4:11

Let all bitterness...and evil speaking, be put away from you. Ephesians 4:31

BUT many of you not only continue to gossip - you take great pleasure in doing it. This is your witness before whole world - and you are so proud! Gossip has become your cherished idol:

For out of the abundance of the heart does the mouth speak. Matthew 12:34

For wherever you treasure is, there will you find your heart. Like 12:34

They deleted it and locked the thread because you claimed you were leaving never to return again and we dont play ring and run here.

Apparently, your intent was utilizing very very small values of never... seeing that 'never' has actually expired and you have returned.

BTW, dumping one's wife and remarrying fraudulently and molesting boys is not representative of Adventism either...

Imma say it one mo time.....

"What will ANY of you say if you find out from your ADULT CHILDREN that they were molested by a church official?"

Now.

Change it.

"What will ANY of you say if you find out from your LITTLE CHILD that they were molested by a church official?

Answer - should be the same.
YOU SHOULD BE APPALLED, YOU SHOULD WANT THIS PERSON OUT OF THE CHURCH, AND YOU SHOULD WANT THIS PERSON JUSTLY TRIED IN COURT AND THE EXPOSURE OF THE CRIME TO DETERMINE IF OTHER VICTIMS EXIST AND TO "HELP" YOUR CHILD (grown or not) TO HEAL!

I pray no one NO ONE HERE has to apologize to their child for remaining "silent" all under the guise of "I ain't gonna gossip" and then has to also apologize to their "best friend" for them going through the same thing......

Again. I HOPE THIS DOESN'T WASH ANYONE'S FACE....

Johann, Johannn, Johann, EGW points to one thing and it is to the Greater Light. Maybe you are so set that life is all about DS when actually Sir its about a Great Controversy. There are only two sides. 3ABN ministry is on the good side, they reach people with the loving kindness of God's word. Do you have any miracles story from this forum, here, to share of People being blessed by the word of the Lord? Please share them with me. I am finding ridicule toward the Word of God and scorn for posting EGW. Hum, does this mean there are some who are sheep dressed in wolves clothing.

You want us to take your word for it, it seems. But that claim is becoming more and more shaky when 3ABN knowingly hires a child molester to be in charge of children's programming. Note that, according to the law, the accusation of molestation alone is sufficient from barring such a person from being around children. And the testimonies of several first-hand witnesses (victims) corroborate each other -- not to mention the fact that said person lost his ministerial credentials because of inappropriate sexual conduct.

Dan knew all this but still chose to hire TS, all the while accepting praise as "God's anointed." On whose side does that count?

And 3ABN does not deal in truth when it represents Derrell Mundall's children with "Firestone" as their last names. That lie comes officially from the 3ABN ministry, broadcast to millions of viewers, according to such as you. (I don't know whether there are really that many viewers.)

Jesus told us that we would know them "by their fruits." God does not lie. Satan is the archdeceiver. So whose side is 3ABN really on when it broadcasts lies to the world?

Right, on, Eye Witness, you're getting it. 3ABN has been clearly invaded by wolves in sheep's clothing!

Right here, I have read the threads and the letters from "alleged" victims. No where, let me repeat, no where Have I read where the"alleged incidents" involved children. According to the alleged "victims" they were between 17 and 20 years of age when these supposed instances took place. First of all, because they wrote these letters does not make it fact. Secondly it is unfair, untrue and very insulting that so many on this forum refer to the little innocent children. If and I say IF any of these instances happened, there were NO CHILDREN involved. All of you that have raced to view these letters, know this, you just want to twist the "so called" facts to try to upset people as much as possible.

I discussed this with the person who accompanies victims of sexual assault to court. She pointed out that the key here is that TS was in a "position of power". She has known of convictions where the victim of sexual assault was 19 years old.

I am aware that laws differ from one place to another, but yet there seems to be an undergirding of right/wrong that is common in American law.

Regarding the letter written by Mr. Riva, she said that he is "blowing smoke". That is often the first tactic that is used in hopes of quieting the accused. I just hope that neither Pastor Dryden, nor The Church of God is cowered by this billow of smoke.

If anyone is reading who can relay the message, I want to say how proud I am of Pastor Dryden and each of the men who have been willing to come forward and open a very painful chapter of their lives. Kudos to the men who were willing to sign their names. I am hoping that this will give courage to others to come forward.

How about a 9-year-old? Does that qualify as a little child? And are there others in this age range who have yet to come forward?

http://www.save3abn.com/tommy-shelton-victims-family-mom-1.htm

How do you know that Brad Dunning was in the 17 - 20 year range? His statement doesn't specify his age other than state he was in high school. This can be the 14 - 18 year range. Is there really any age limit when a pastor betrays the trust young people have in him?

It must disappoint you, Mr. Bystander, but the youngest victim was about 8 and the next about 14 when the instances took place. Are you void of any sadness that these boys were sacrificed by their supposedly spiritual shepherd?

Now, see that is what I was thinking. and it is in every state of the Union. So he is still a pedophile.

Also, that Bystander and WWJD are majoring in minors, so to speak. As an "alleged" Man of God, and married man Tommy had no business approaching young men of any agein such manner. To do so is an abuse of his position of authority.

ummm... no... the side that has continually made uncorroborated claims is the one with which you are aligned... so the side with the burden of proof is the one with which you are aligned. I, not having a side, have nothing to prove to any... but seeing that prior allegations have presented proof and those denying them have not, the side making the allegations that the abuse happened are not the ones who need to be told to put up or shut up; they've put up so far and I believe they will continue to do so... you have not presented a single thing to refute anything that they have stated, OTOH...what would Jesus do? Not what you've been doing since you came into this forum.

Jesus would have called out your whited sepulchres act a long time ago.

I am trying to wrap my mind around what you are saying...

Bystander whether you wishes to accept it or not the fact is 17 is still a minor in ALL 50 states, VI and Puerto Rico. And no man is justified in approaching a child, period.

Are we to understand that you are saying it is ok for an adult married male pastor to approach another man?

Brad Dunning claims he was around 14 at the time.

The new victim claims he was 8.

What evidence do you have that can prove that these allegations are incorrect? I think it would be helpful to have that ASAP.

You are correct, Bystander. Just because a person writes something does not make it fact. We have seen that from what you have written.
BUT
The likelihood that people from different parts of the country would come up with similar stories is somewhere in the region of 1 in an 10^nth power.

I have listened to so many stories from people who have had absolutely no reason to tell me about abuse rather than that it was bothering them so much.

One of the key problems that I find with male-male assault is that the victim starts having doubts about his own sexuality. Why me? What did he see in me? Am I somehow different than the other guys? Can they see the difference? Am I gay? -- and on it goes.

Sometimes there is a misconception that an abused man will become an abuser. Although it has happened, it is more likely that the man will develop a gut-level anger that doesn't make sense to anyone. Many victims of sexual assault turn to drugs and alcohol for self medication.

In the past ten years, many victims of sexual assault have talked with me. I know that if there is an abused person, there was an abuser, yet never once has an abuser picked up the phone and talked with me on the crisis line.

Can an abuser be forgiven? Can God reach him? Most certainly. But forgiveness and the assurance of heaven does not indicate that there will not be any consequences in this life whether it be through guilt or from being exposed, or both.

Bystander, it absolutely burns me when a person doubts the testimony of the accused. The good book tells us that truth is established by the testimony of two or three witnesses. And it also has some very strong words about those who give false testimony. My assessment of what I have read is that we have to accept the testimony of those who have written here or on save3abn. Although lawyers may wish to imply that the pastors have committed perjury and that Tommy's "confession" was manufactured by someone, both you and I know the truth.

My apologies for yelling. However, with all due respect, now you are the one who is wrong. You don't know me from adam. You have no idea what my motivation is for being here. I have stated it several times in other posts that I am only here looking for the truth. Given that, I think I have a right to search for answers. And you know what I've found thus far? On the one hand, there are documents and open discussion - on the other hand, there are people like you spouting off about the authenticity of the documents and refusing to answer reasonable questions. Snoopy, this really mirrors my journey here as well. I am also very familiar with dysfunctional family systems that create the types of attitudes we have seen here from "the other hand". In my experience those scales are usually firmly affixed to the eyes and ears. In my own extended family many are still deep in denial for whatever reason. Some have stayed that way to the grave. It creates a culture that allows for the cycle of abuse to continue from generation to generation. Do I love those family members any less? Absolutely not! I also have not given up hoping and praying that God's light of truth will break through the darkness.

Bystander reflects ASI, 3ABN and the Shelton family very well.

The Catholic Church had it's scandal and they resolved it by settling with the victims of their priests. In the Adventist world the Adventists, ASI and the church support 3ABN which threatens to sue people and churches who try to stop child molestation. They attack anyone who dares to stand up against their own cherished sexual predator and attack his victims mercilessly. Yet, the millions pour in. And 3ABN regularly runs programs disparaging the Catholic Church for being the Beast of St. John's Apocalypse.

Hmmm.... an interesting news story that, methinks.

So, it's OK then, as long as they weren't 'children' (by your definition)?

Is a 'man of the cloth' OK to have sexual relations with other men? Seems like it's OK by you.

I believe that the Trust Department is a very important issue that has received very little attention up to now. Fran, do you have any information in regard to Leonard Westfahl and what goes on there. I do know that they bring in over ten million dollars a year into the 3ABN coffers. That includes homes, property and cash. I believe this issue is important enough to start a new thread. Fran are you willing? I do not have the accounting background that this issue requires.

I agree somewhat. Fran if you have hard proof of anyone lining their pockets from offerings that have come into the ministry then, by all means, show it. But not on here...make it known somewhere, where it counts. Oh, and spinning the what if's or what could have happened don't count. Oh and one more thing, don't hide the irrefutable proof in a lot of accounting and legal mumbo jumbo that no one understands. Lets bring on the pics, video and whatever that shows who is stealing what and the paperwork to prove it.

If PrincessDi has not witnessed the allegations she can go witness them at www.save3abn.com

It is not ok. But accusations need to be proved. Anyone is innocent till proven guilty and has a right to face his accusers. That is true of civil courts and in the Church. E-mails are not enough, especially when they aren't verified as to who wrote them and what the facts are.

BTW, in Illinois the age of consent is 17

Hawk reading letters is hardly witnessing the events. sounds like you need to take a valium and rest awhile

One thing I know, if I were to use the name wwjd I'd at least try to follow what Jesus really would do, which is not to tolerate and ignore sinful acts by so call men of the cloth.

(Does anyone else find that someone using the name wwjd to be slightly blasphemes? And should it not be wwJd?)

I agree, of course it is not OK. MY comments are directed to the ones who have said were the parents of the children on the kids time set warned, ect ect. I have said it before and I will say it again. According to my reading there are no "little children" involved period. that is the only point I am making.
Also, Sister said that Tommy's daughter and son in law would not let their son stay at Tommy's house. I called someone directly in their immediate family that I know casually through a friend. I first ask if they were aware of this website and the allegations they stated yes they were very aware. Before I even got to my question they said they had heard about the statement on the grandson not being allowed to stay at tommy's house and they could verify that the statement was 100% false. According to the family member he has been allowed to stay hundreds of times and for several days at a time. They stated that in 06 the mother and father had went on several work related trips and left their son and daughter with their grandparents. Sister you need to get your facts straight before you start dragging in kids and grandkids to this mess. Please, have some heart.

hoty, i am wondering if you have a split personality. One minute you are agreeing that it would be a terrible thing to have ones sins or alleged sins all over the internet and the next you are again, being mean and spiteful in your comments. When I say split I don't just mean 2. There is the you that seems to speak reasonably on this forum, then there is the you that has employment at 3ABN but lacks the courage to speak out against all the injustices you feel are there and then there is this you that calls people drunks and pokes fun at the disease of alcholism.

Which is the real you? Or haven't we seen him yet?

Come on WWJD. I know you read that post from Duane Clem.(not to mention the other victim letters) they experienced it first hand. Give this up. Tommy Shelton is guilty and walking around with no consequences of his actions while his victms suffer. Bystander stated that the alleged victims were 17-20. Like we said before 17 is stilla minor is ALL 50 states, PR, and VI. Once again, as a married pastor he had no business approaching any young man of any age.

Truth is Tommy is out of line and, like I said jes' nasty! He is, I am sorry. However, the sadest thing is he is yet unrepentent. He needs to make this right with his victims and with God, and then learn to forgive himself. this may require jail time or some kind of disciplinary action. All those steps need to be taken. Until he does, with this overwhleming evidence. I don't need to witness it.

And for the record, I won't out you, but I am surprised and disappointed with you also.

Once again, little child, big child, grown man makes no difference.....he is a married pastor, he should only be approaching his wife for sex. Period.

Interesting, Bystander... My information comes directly from a Shelton family member, also. The difference is that I know this family member personally and have no reason to believe the information I have is anything less than true. Perhaps you are the one who needs to get your facts straight.

Isn't it convenient that of all the testimony on BSDA regarding 3ABN, and there are thousands of posts with numerous topics and subtopics, allegedly, the one person you call immediately brings up this particular topic, even before you ask your question? It almost sounds as if the person you spoke with must have been a prophet, is that possible?

Another point: do you consider a child of eight no longer a "little child"? Tommy Shelton's latest victim to step forward was eight years old at the time. Bystander, where is your heart? Obviously not with Tommy Shelton's victims or potential victims, not with the children on the Kids Time set.

Sister

Is it not a fact that in many states it is illegal for a member of the clergy to have sex with a parishiner no matter what the age is? In other words there was no legal age of consent in this case?

That was special; wasn't it? Quoting the legal age of sexual consent. No one...WANTS TO DISCUSS...
1. sex outside of the marriage
2. sex with a child
3. sex with one of the same sex
4. sex with multiple people outside of the marriage
5. lying about the sex.

Mercy woman! You been reading every post in the 3ABN section, yet you pretended like you overlooked ex3ABNemployee identify himself as Duane Clem until he put it in your face. You have been given your first hand, first person proof from Duane. PM or email him from here if you wish to collaborate further.

You are not looking for truth. By the way if you check the rules of BSDA you will find that we have rules against trolling; that is when you made absurd posts for the purpose of creating and inciting drama.

You have been warned.

You can bold it any way you like. The last thought you spoke of was that of legal age. The only reason I would ever see a legal age is to try to defend or justify something.

What is the purpose for discussion of the legal age of consent? What purpose?

None!

Aletheia,

have you gone back and read the posts and topics from the very first ones way back in 2004, if not then i would humblely suggest that you do, because they speak the loudest about nature of the discussion here at BSDA. it did nto start has a witch hunt like you seem to think, and has just recently reread those topics it was mr. danny shelton himself how came here posting stuff that was trying to further his personal witch hunt agaist linda.

if you want all facts go read them.

Aletheia did not "pretend" to overlook Clems post. She apologized to him for not seeing it. Come on, give her the benefit of the doubt.

If Aletheia was a causal observe here and not an active participate I would give her the benefit of the doubt. She apologized when Duane confronted her and and it was obvious to everyone that she could not deny it anymore. There have been too many post here commending Duane for coming out for any active participate to overlook it.

She claimed she read ALL the posts when she first darkend BSDA's door. Yet, it is obvious she has not read all.

She also claims she is only seeking the "truth" yet seems shy about being truthfull. While at the same time demanding the truth from others

Note above, she claims to be seeking information, "maybe you all know something I don't and "wanting to "prove all things"." Now, that suggested, to me, that she had little or no information on the subject at all. Then she suggested, all on the same day, the following:

On this issue they have more complete and consecutive information than has been given here."

Because, according to her, they have more complete and consecutive information than has been given here. Seeing that this item has been discussed on and off, on BSDA, for well over a year., and there "for some months", according to her. Again, it is obvious, she has not been forthcoming about reading ALL there is to read on BSDA. But she "hate lies". ☒ plea

Well nothing makes you have to give me the benefit of the doubt, but the truth is, I never saw the post in this thread where he signed his name till the reaction of all here, caused me to go back and look, thus my apology.

Yesterday there was alot of posting, I was trying to play catchup on what I'd missed the previous day as well as trying to keep up with new posts. So I never read the thread where he "came out" till after my conversation with him here.

So now I am at fault for not reading all, am a troll and trying to incite drama? Look around you, Calvin, the drama here pre-existed my arrival, and continues whether I am here or not.

It's your forum, and your rules, and that I respect, but my thoughts and feelings are mine, and frankly I'm just flat out disapointed and disgusted at your reaction, and how those rules are applied so arbitrarily.

Eric,

My point was this. Here are the facts.

If you lived in Illinois,were married, and had sexual contact with a 17 yr old and a 19 yr old I think we could both agree that would be wrong and sin.

What it would not be is child molestation according to the law, nor would they register you as a sex offender.

BlackSDA _ 3ABN _ Questions For Linda?

Posted by: sonshineonme Feb 19 2007, 07:11 PM

After talking with Linda today, the idea came up that before she gets her new website changes uploaded, it might be nice to hear from anyone here that may have a question she may be able to address publicly on her website. She wants to address questions she feels are particularly pertinent.

Because of deadline constraints, you will have only until noon tomorrow (pacific time) to post your questions here. As you post them in this thread, I will copy them and get them off to her as soon as I can. We'll do the best we can do in this last minute effort!

I would like to know when Linda became aware of the allegations against Tommy Shelton and what her opinion of it all was.

It would interesting to hear linda speak to the charges of the wrong use of funds, what she was aware of and when, and if she needs to say any thing about her votes on the such matters?

Also the charge from her daughter that danny well was less the fatherly in actions, would like to her side of that.

Also the crazy PTK issue, would like to her thoughts on that these many years later, maybe hear what she wishes she might have done?

I would like to know Linda's version of the pregnancy test.

What was said on the tape recording that Danny says they have, the one sided tape?

Also, I want to know why Danny wasn't with Linda in Norway? I asked Danny and he said Linda didn't want him to go with her.

Posted by: Ralph Feb 20 2007, 08:55 AM

Did Linda find any bugging devices in any place where she lived?

If that is accurate, it may be because of the relationship that Danny is said to have had with Nathan, and the claimed lack of involvement in Nathan's life.

If it were me: I would be involved in my stepson's life. If my wife went to acrosss the ocean to visit a clinician, we would have had a discusison of the need for me to be involved. Substance abuse problems require involvement of family members.

Good points.... obviously someone ignored the counsel given in Child Guidance.....(emphasis mine)

An Errant Youth Who Needed Sympathy.--Your letters I have read with interest and sympathy. I would say your son now needs a father as he has never needed one before. He has erred; you know it, and he knows that you know it; and words that you would have spoken to him in his innocency with safety, and which would not have produced any bad results, would now seem like unkindness and be sharp as a knife. . . . I know that parents feel the shame of the wrongdoing of a child that has dishonored them very keenly, but does the erring one wound and bruise the heart of the earthly parent any more than we as the children of God bruise our heavenly Parent, who has given us and is still giving us His love, inviting us to return and repent of our sins and iniquities and He will pardon our transgression? {CG 266.1}

Do not withdraw your love now. That love and sympathy is needed now as never before. When others look with coldness and put the worst construction upon the misdeeds of your boy, should not the father and mother in pitying tenderness seek to guide his footsteps into safe paths? I do not know the character of your son's sins, but I am safe in saying, whatever they may be, Let no comments from human lips, no pressure from human actions, of those who think they are doing justice, lead you to pursue a course which can be interpreted by your son that you feel too much mortified and dishonored to ever take him back into confidence and to forget his transgressions. Let nothing cause you to lose hope, nothing to cut off your love and tenderness for the erring one. Just because he is erring, he needs you, and he wants a father and a mother to help him to recover himself from the snare of Satan. Hold him fast by faith and love, and cling to the all-pitying Redeemer, remembering that he has One who has an interest in him, even above your own. . . . {CG 266.2}

Do not talk discouragement and hopelessness. Talk courage. Tell him he can redeem himself, that you, his father and mother, will help him to take hold from above to plant his feet on the solid Rock, Christ Jesus, to find a sure support and unfailing strength in Jesus. If his fault be ever so grievous, it will not cure your son to press this constantly upon him. A right course of action is needed to save a soul from death and keep a soul from committing a multitude of sins. {CG 267.1}

Linda,
Was Danny abusive to you? If so, in what way(s)? Did you know about the rumors concerning Danny's relationships with Brenda and Brandy and also Tommy Shelton's relationships with boys? Was the Shelton family kind to you during your marriage to Danny? How was your relationship with Melody and Danny's other children? Why did you agree to a divorce? Were you coerced to consent to a divorce? How are you doing and when will the book be available to the public?

Greg it would seem that you have joined the crowd here with assumptions instead of fact. You used the "if that is accurate" "it may be". The truth is, other than your original source, you don't know Nathan or Danny and you have know idea what kind of relationship they had. That is what is so ridiculous about this forum. Those of you that listen to 1 person or her friends as your source believe what they say over lot's of people that know the ones involved and therefore, don't have to speculate or assume. Your source has all kind of axes to grind and reasons for doing what they do, when many others, here, that know the people involved, know the things that happened, know who was wrong and who was right, and have no reason to say otherwise, are dismissed because they are not saying what the Linda supporters want to hear. Truth is, none of the people from 3abn, discussed on this forum, are anything like you paint them to be. That is what happens when many painting the picture don't know anyone involved and are going on gossip, innuendo and allegations. Mr. J was a perfect example on his assessment of Carol Shelton. He knows absolutely nothing about her, but he had her all figured out. Greg, you are smart enough to see the truth in what I say. Think it over.

Yes, I put "if" and "it may be" in there for a reason. You are correct. I gave a possible reason.

I will remind you that when the work of Danny's divorce first came out I contacted Dr. Thompson and asked him if Danny had divorced Linda. Dr. Thompson replied to the effect that he was not going to comment on a personal issue with Danny. Latter he informed me that he was not going to comment on anything that I asked him.

I do not fault him for that. He had that right.

But, that is a good example of how this has been mishandled from day one. When 3-ABN, and its official spokesperson will not comment on a matter that is a public record, it leaves people to with no recourse who attempt to find the truth. (I guess I just did fault him.)

no need to follow you.... your path is predictable.... we know where you are going.... just like the mistress of the house knew where her slavemaster hubby was sneaking away to in the middle of the night....

Are you speaking of another thread? Sister has not been in this thread as of yet.
Greg answered you and then Clay followed with a "supporting" word.

What are you saying here?

Bystander,
You commented on my post about Carol to wwjd, why? Because this is an open forum. If you wish to address a comment to a specific person,(to the exclusion of all of the rest of us) Calvin has this nifty Personal Message feature built into this site that would allow you to do so without the need of a restraining order.

Posted by: Carmel Feb 20 2007, 02:21 PM

Linda,

I don't know you well, but I have seen you (and spoke with you) in person on a few occasions, and you have always looked and sounded just like Linda that we all know from watching 3ABN. I admire you for what you have been for many people around the globe, for handling the things with dignity now that you are still going through the hell on earth, and I wish you a peace that passes all understanding. I am sure God is watching over you, keeping you in His hand, and HE IS now your husband, comforter and friend.

I also have a few questions and hope you will have the wisdom and courage to answer them in the right way.

1. Why were Mollie and Hal Steenson so important to 3ABN from the begining that they (3abn) were willing to imply that the camera equipment was donated by them, and not tell the truth about Joe Crews and their arrangement with him?

2. Is it truth that Danny has paid his accumulated debt with the half of the first $50.000.00 of which 3abn loves to tell in their "miracle story"?

3. Have you had any contact with Bob Ellis lately, and did he change his opinion about the 3abn after he wrote "A Channel of Blessing" book.

Be of good courage, there are many of us praying for you.

Carmel

Wow, I hope she answers that one with proof of course. If she has none (which she doesn't because it didn't happen) then the liabilities just keep piling up. Also, if she said he did, she was married to him and would have been responsible also. Good thing it's a false allegation.

Wow! It only takes you 7 minutes to check on, type in and post your repy to Carmel's question/allegation. You DO have a direct line to Danny, don't you! I don't suppose you are willing to give out that number...

I thought the same thing! Then the second thing I thought was that this has gotta be Danny under another name.... why? Because "Bystander" straight came out and said that the "proof" doesn't exist... like he knows what exists or not....

10-4 on that! So, does 3ban have a T-3 or something to expedite participation?

A. Goto last unread
B. Type type type type...
C. Post

Yes, he knew. But because he was a big old stinker and didn't proudly make that fact known, Sally's kids are still trying to prove their DNA to this day. Sad.

BlackSDA _ 3ABN _ And Yet Another Newbie Critical of BSDA

Posted by: Watchman Feb 11 2007, 11:01 AM

There is nothing Christlike about this website. Not by the sensuous postings in the sidebars of some of the scantily-clad vainglorious, neither by the reprehensible "guillotines" by the mockers, (Psalms 1:1 Amplified reads"Blessed is the man who does not sit down to relax where the scornful and the mockers gather."), nor by the guile found in the mouths of the accusers. However guilty 3abn may or may not be, the guilt of those people defending this website, and professing to be Christians yet-- is far greater.
"Yet Michael the archangel, when contending with the devil he disputed about the body of Moses, DURST NOT BRING AGAINST HIM A RAILING ACCUSATION, but said, THE LORD REBUKE THEE. But THESE speak evil of those things which they KNOW NOT...(Remember, "man looketh on the outward appearance, but the Lord looketh on the heart." 1Sam. 16:7).
Woe unto them! For they have gone in the way of Cain, and ran greedily after the error of Balaam for reward (which in this case is self-importance)...clouds they are without water, carried about of winds (of being king or queen of the rap-session for a day); trees whose fruit withereth, without fruit, twice dead, plucked up by the roots.Raging waves of the sea, foaming out their own shame."

Oh why is sensationalism, such a delicate morsel! And why is gossisp, such a juicy tidbit to swallow for those wise in their own conceit?

Watchmen,

Ok then how do you go about driving the money changers out of the temple of 3abn.

Like it or the Facts remain that at least 3 victims have come forward and more willing the future that is how these things go, there is no way that church should look the other other way on this.

I fully agree that two wrongs do not make a right.

But for you to come on here and say this website is all wrong just is a bit over the top, because it makes it look like you are willing believe that the behavior that has happened is all just gossip which is more of a leap of faith then i can make.

Lets say that very thing about danny was just gossip lets further say that all the other charges against 3abn are false and all gossip. (which i think at this point is bit more then can be hoped for)

Watchman, we are still Talking about pastor that to average viewer is Sda, even though he is not has been accused (I would add based on the pile of witnesses and the silence of the 3abn crowd to defend against the charges, proof the wrongdoing having happened.) of the most trusting breaking act any pastor can do and that is using his office has means to please his personal sexual wants.

Watchman how can you who so clearly have high level of spiritual concern for what is right and wrong , even give the appearance of being willing to look the other way on tommy actions.

Please help to understand that one issue.

Erik

Watchman, am I reading you correctly to claim that the "smilies" in the sidebars of this website are "sensuous"?

It makes me concerned about the safety of the children in your church .... You see I've known certain individuals to claim that children "seduced" them.

Lord, please protect the children!!

Hi Watchman. Welcome from another Canuck. If you wish just dry-bones facts without any juice, check out http://www.save3abn.com or http://www.maritime-sda-online.org/. (You have to register.)

I have appreciated the fact that Calvin, Clay and Di have allowed these threads to continue. They have been very liberal in allowing Bystander et al to hijack so many of the discussions.

Watchman, I can understand how someone of your integrity could be shocked at the "scantily-clad vainglorious". You may even have a difficult time to stomach the fact that some of the allegations that have been brought forward have been verified by the mouth of two or three witnesses. You may feel more comfortable with other subjects. Some of them are great reading.

> However guilty 3abn may or may not be....

Watchman,

You have been very thrifty with your underlying opinion. Therefore, let me guess at your deeper meaning, and you correct me where I am dead wrong. I would gladly appreaciate being corrected here, Watchman.

I will use what other 3ABN defenders have said as a jumping off point.

Even though you say these eight words (quoted above), don't you really believe, deep down, that 3ABN can do no wrong? Deep down, would it be fair to say that you think the posters here have no right to even question 3ABN about anything? And, by chance, if there is some wrong somewhere, it should be overlooked and hidden from the internet, when weighed against all of the good things 3ABN does? Maybe you believe 3ABN's many good works trump anything else? Maybe you believe that good works are a salve; It's a salve that covers and heals any possible sin?

As a good, Christian person, maybe you believe you are doing the right thing by offering your defense of what you see is a Godly, upright organization, doing the Lord's work?

And maybe you believe that to preach the Gospel must be paramount to all other concerns? The "good fruits of 3ABN" exonerates 3ABN from any possible questions and allegations?

And, maybe, you watch 3ABN every day, and therefore, you know these 3ABN people, you like these 3ABN people, you follow these 3ABN people? They are, indeed, as they say on the air, "your 3ABN family." And now you want to save these 3ABN people -- you want to save your "family."

And, anyway, if there were some things wrong somewhere, your church, the Seventh-day Adventist Church, would certainly speak up and tell you, the loyal constituent? ASI would tell you? The ministries that buy time on 3ABN would tell you?

Therefore, because these other organizations have told you nothing, because these ministerial professionals, whom you trust, have not spoken up, many people here must be going down the wrong path?

And every month, when your Social Security and pension checks come, you set something aside for "your family"?

Am I close at all? Perhaps you could flesh this out a little further, Watchman, and put your quotes into context. Otherwise, I have to guess.

Pete

Watchman,
Danny Shelton and those who come here full of bluster, diversion and empty claims often say "Even if everything you say is true..." regarding the problems with some of the actions and attitudes of those in charge of 3abn. Does scripture or SOP counsel us to look the other way when we become aware of heinous sins being perpetrated or condoned? I think not.

Have you read any of the testimonies from the alleged victims of Tommy Shelton? Have you seen that this behavior was not dealt with properly by his brother Danny but instead supported by attempts to keep it secret by intimidation?

Duane Clem testimony:

http://www.blacksda.com/forums/index.php?s...mp;#entry171419

http://www.blacksda.com/forums/index.php?s...mp;#entry168297

Roger Clem letter to Tommy:

http://www.blacksda.com/forums/index.php?s...mp;#entry162245

Brad Dunning testimony:
http://www.blacksda.com/forums/index.php?s...mp;#entry167570

Ellen White counsels us, quite specifically, how we are to properly deal with our brethren.

"Never question the motives of your brethren; for as you judge them, God has declared you will be judged. Open your hearts to kindliness, to the cheering rays of the Sun of Righteousness. Encourage kindly thoughts and holy affections. Cultivate the habit of speaking well of your brethren. Let not pride or selfish righteousness prevent you from making a frank and full confession of your wrong-doings. If you do not love those for whom Christ has died, you have no genuine love for Christ, and your worship will be as a tainted offering before God. If you cherish unworthy thoughts, misjudging your brethren and surmising evil of them, God will not hear your self-sufficient, self-exalted prayers. When you go to those who you think are doing wrong, you must have the spirit of meekness, of kindness, and be full of mercy and good fruits. Do not show partiality to one or more, and neglect other of your brethren because they are not congenial to you. Beware lest you deal harshly with those who you think have made mistakes, while others, more guilty and more deserving of reproof, who should be severely rebuked for their unChristlike conduct, are sustained and treated as friends."--RH Mar. 12, 1895.

"I saw that many souls have been destroyed by their brethren unwisely sympathizing with them, when their only hope was to be left to see and realize the full extent of their wrongs. But as they eagerly accept the sympathy of unwise brethren, they receive the idea that they are abused; and if they attempt to retrace their steps, they make halfhearted work. They divide the matter to suit their natural feelings, lay blame upon the reprover, and so patch up the matter. It is not probed to the bottom, and is not healed, and they again fall into the same wrong, because they were not left to feel the extent of their wrong, and humble themselves before God, and let Him build them up. False sympathizers have worked in direct opposition to the mind of Christ and ministering angels." Testimonies 1 page 213

I would suggest that you take care in passing judgement on us and the burden we have to see truth revealed and the ministry of 3abn saved.

PB

Inga,

I think watchman was referring to what I think are call avatars (the pictures that people can put next there posts some of them are more interesting then others, and from what watchman said i think she found some of them to less then what she could handle.

Ah ... that makes a little more sense. ;-) I was looking for something in a "sidebars." ;-) (The implications aren't quite as bad if that's what s/he meant.

Thanks.

As noted by others, he must be talking about the avatars, like mine. If one doesn't like my avatar well, that's on them. I like it, my honey likes and outside of the two of us if none other likes it that's ok, cuz it ain't about them.

BTW, the haterade is being served outside, so don't feel obligated to stay, please.

It has been said that BSDA isn't for everybody. This may the case for "watchman".

Absolutely... you know what the sight of nekkid tires does to some people...

then get rid of the underlying issues, and the discussion will die out, so why not focus the fix instead saying to those trying to fix it are are wrong.

FRIEND:
WHY DO PEOPLE KEEP MISSING THE POINT? TRYING TO FIX A PROBLEM-- IF THERE IS ONE-- IS NOT THE ISSUE. THE REASON I SAY IF, IS THIS: WHEN I WAS YOUNGER I LEARNED, "DON'T BELIEVE EVERYTHING YOU READ AND ONLY HALF OF WHAT YOU SEE." I AM --NOT-- AN EYEWITNESS; AND ONLY GOD SEES THE HEART. BUT TO CONTINUE...IT IS THE METHOD I PROTEST--WHICH IS UNSCRIPTURAL, UNGODLY AND DAMAGING TO THE CAUSE OF CHRIST (EVIDENCED BY MY FORMER POST)-- FOR WHICH THOSE RESPONSIBLE WILL BE BROUGHT TO ACCOUNT. WHAT CAN YOU IMAGINE?? IF--A PERSON IS GUILTY OF A CRIME, --AND THEN SOMEONE WHO IS OUTRAGED GOES OUT AND COMMITS ANOTHER OFFENSE, IN AN EFFORT TO SOLVE THAT CRIME--WILL THE LAW SAY "OH WELL, IF WE HAD SOLVED THIS SOONER, THIS NEVER WOULD HAVE HAPPENED, SO WE'LL LET HIM GO THIS TIME?" I DON'T THINK SO. WELL, NEITHER WILL GOD. WE ARE TALKING ABOUT KEEPING THE MAIN THING THE MAIN THING. JESUS LEFT ALL OF HEAVEN --TO SAVE LOST SOULS. AND THE MORE SOULS THAT ARE LOST AS A RESULT OF THE FLIPPANT AND HIGHLY PUBLIC NATURE OF THIS WEBSITE, THE MORE JESUS WEEPS. YET BECAUSE HE WEEPS, AS HE DID OVER JERUSALEM, IT WILL NOT CHANGE THE CONSEQUENCES IN THE END.---- JUNE 27 TO JULY 7 ---IS "OPERATION GLOBAL RAIN." A WORLD WIDE EVENT TO PRAY AND FAST FOR THE LATTER RAIN. IS YOUR CHURCH INVOLVED? ARE YOU CONCERNED WHETHER IT WILL BE? WILL YOU BE? DOES THIS NOT SPEAK OF LAST DAY EVENTS? Email operationgloberain777@msn.com FINALLY,CAN ANYONE SAY FOR CERTAIN THEY WILL NEVER DENY THE NAME OF CHRIST? 1 COR. 10:12 "Wherefore let him that thinketh he standeth take heed lest he fall."

Even if it didn't denote yelling, all caps are very hard to read. Part of the way we recognize a word is by the shape of it. When I see something written in all caps, I just skip it. There are more interesting things to do.

Watchman,

I know you feel passionate about your position regarding what is taking place on this forum.

Many of us here also feel passionate about what we are doing. Many of us feel that God has put a burden on our hearts to bring truth to light so that resolution and healing can take place. Many of us believe that we, as Christians, have a duty to do just what we are doing since those who should have resolved these issues did not!

Dear Watchman,

Have you considered who it was that put everything into the "international broadcasting" sphere in the first place?

Did you ever share your deep convictions with Danny Shelton, an international broadcaster, about this situation when it first became public fodder more than two years ago?

Danny Shelton should be at the top of your list, not us. Consider sending Dan those Bible verses and telling him your premise about the public broadcasting of the situation if you have not already done so.

Feel free to tell him right now: danshelton (at) earthlink.net

Friend: As I stated previously. I was witness to none of the above. If I were to contact Danny it would be more circumstantial evidence, or hearsay, which is what this website is mainly composed of. I only recently even tuned in to 3abn and then your website-- and read all the postings thereon with hearbreak for the cause of God. I can understand why certain folk on this website are upset with my postings, and why they make their careless responses. Some comments I will not even dignify with a response. Truth hurts. And caps notwithstanding, better for you to find an excuse not to read it than be confronted with truth. But ignorance of truth is not always an excuse if you COULD avail yourself of the opportunity. I do not see ANY love or concern for the souls who are reading this website and who may be possibly losing their way-- out of the Adventist message, or never even finding their way in -- because of your misplaced "passion." The methodology is ALL wrong. "There is a way which seemeth right unto a man..." you know the rest.

yes there is a way that seems right Watchwoman..... perhaps that could apply to you too? Just a thought... unless of course you are ready to be translated and stopped by to correct the wayward before being taken up in your flaming chariot....

Watchman,

So I will ask you again how should this topic be handled????

Secondly, which is more likely to blow people out of the SDA church, covering up sin or exposing has carefully has possible.

Thirdly, if you do like this format, how are you going to like when the main line press gets hold of this topic, and makr no mistake about that is were this will end up if it is not dealt with inside of the church.

Watchwoman,

If you can clearly show what you think the proper methodology would be to handle the issue of Tommy Shelton's alleged pastoral sexual abuse, I will study it carefully and pray for wisdom to discern if it is the proper way.

How many "righteous" folk walked right past the battered victim on that New Testament road until the Good Samaritan stopped to help?

Practicing denial in the name of Christianity is an oxymoron.

Please read Matthew 25:31-46 and 1 Corinthians 5.

Watchman the truth is it's people like you that cause most of the postings on here. If no one was defending Danny on here there would be but a fraction of the posts against him, since most postings are replying to the Danny appologists. It's people like you who are Danny's own worse enemy. (So keep us the good work)

Richard, they just do not get it.

They refuse to credit any of us with the ability to distinguish between speculation and fact. I resent that implication.

After reading Alethia's posts at yahoo early this morning, I am convinced more than ever that she does not understand she only is driving more people here. Her sarcasm in her most recent posts does not help my understanding of anything but certainly colors my evaluation of anything she has to say.

They do not understand that their F in netiquette adds nothing to their cause either.

I sometimes wonder why they do not set up their own website or blog and state what they believe to be true. They can set their rules for posters and answer questions. Since it would reflect what they believe is accurate and they could direct people there for the truth, they should not have any problem answering questions or explaining when they can't and why not.

Anyone who has ever moderated discussion knows how hard it is.

PB can you really say that the rumors, slander, gossip, insinuation and the use of the words: I think, it seems, I hear, looks like, it appears, to be fact telling words? Do you think the mean and sly innuendos, and the smart alec remarks, towards 3 abn are going to bring healing? Not to mention the pattern established here, that when an I feel or It appears, comes on the site everyone runs with it until it becomes a fact ,which is then dissected, eaten and purged and then set aside as, one more fact dealt with. Let's move on. And the pattern continues. If you think that any of this mess on bsda can bring resolution and healing, then, maybe, you are the author of Naive.

You left "apparently" out of your list of words. You are welcome to state your opinion here on the 3abn Forum as I am welcome to state mine. That is the way Calvin has it set up. He gets pretty unhappy when anyone uses rumors, slander, gossip and insinuation, though. Did you know that doing so can get a member banned? It's right in the Forum rules.

I read and weigh the information brought here and prayerfully try to discern if it is true or not. The Bible gives us plenty of counsel to help in this regard. My brother wwjd, I wish with all of my heart that some of what I have found here were just lies and rumors. The evidence shows it, sadly, to be true.

I do wish some how that I could show you my heart. I look at each one of the folks on 3abn, each one of the Shelton family - Tommy included - as the precious people they are. I believe that Jesus shed His blood for each and every one and I pray for all of you. Yes, dear wwjd, it is my opinion that there is some denial going on in the 3abn family and desperation is setting in. I will continue to hope and pray that you will each heed the call to make things right. Of course, this is just my humble opinion.

Erik: I thought I answered your question on what I think is page 2. But I will restate it here again. That was when I was mistakenly using caps in my postings. If you go to the previous page it is under a rather lengthy statement by" Pete." There you will read the exact quote from the pen of inspiration. Briefly, we are advised that we must not take a course of of action that will expose the church to the ridicule of her enemies and cause Satan to triumph. Inspiration goes on to illustrate with Paul who wanted false teachers put out of the church. However, we are told that their influence had affected so many it would be hazardous to take action against them. Why? "There was danger of causing strife & division which would be ruinous to the spiritual interest of the church." Then the solution was given. "There was but one way to prevent these terrible evils & that was... by constant prayer seek the guidance of the Holy Spirit, which would lead them to love and unity....A house divided against itself cannot stand. Watchman, Ellen G. White says the following:

"The prejudice which has arisen against us because we have reproved the wrongs that God has shown me existed, and the cry that has been raised of harshness and severity, are unjust. God bids us speak, and we will not be silent. If wrongs are apparent among His people, and if the servants of God pass on indifferent to them, they virtually sustain and justify the sinner, and are alike guilty and will just as surely receive the displeasure of God; for they will be made responsible for the sins of the guilty. In vision I have been pointed to many instances where the displeasure of God has been incurred by a neglect on the part of His servants to deal with the wrongs and sins existing among them. Those who have excused these wrongs have been thought by the people to be very amiable and lovely in disposition, simply because they shunned to discharge a plain Scriptural duty. The task was not agreeable to their feelings; therefore they avoided it. {3T 265.2}"

Sounds pretty clear to me.

Watchwoman,

If you can clearly show what you think the proper methodology would be to handle the issue of Tommy Shelton's alleged pastoral sexual abuse, I will study it carefully and pray for wisdom to discern if it is the proper way.

How many "righteous" folk walked right past the battered victim on that New Testament road until the Good Samaritan stopped to help?

Practicing denial in the name of Christianity is an oxymoron.
Please read Matthew 25:31-46 and 1 Corinthians 5.
[/quo
Friend: Once again, the point is being missed. My premise all along has been ONLY that the court of public opinion is wrong and unscriptural. Those who are personally involved in this issue, ie the alleged victims, have the right to do as they think best. The role of others who are NOT directly involved would be to follow scriptural admonitions if we believe something to be true. Matt 17:21 "Howbeit, this kind goeth not out but by prayer and fasting." King David was an adulterer, a liar and a murderer. How did God deal with him? He dealt decisively. We seem to think that God is incapable today, & that He does not know what is going on. Thus, we take matters into our own hands. But Romans 12:19 tells us this: "Dearly beloved,avenge not yourselves, but rather give place unto wrath: for it is written, Vengeance is mine; I will repay, saith the Lord." Why do we want to run ahead of God? Psalms 11:4 --"The Lord is in His holy temple, the Lord's throne is in Heaven: His eyes behold,His eyelids try, the children of men." I am not denying anything. I have said all along and I say it again. If you were not there. If you have no first person experience. You have no valid opinion. Try going into a court of law with hearsay opinions. You will have no credibility. But IF you are concerned. Get down on your knees & pray. For the alleged victims, & the alleged abuser. Then pray for yourself that you do not fall into temptation. There but for the grace of God go you, or I. Remember, we are to love our enemies. To quote from T. Vol 4 p.163. "God will do marvellous things, for those who trust in Him. Faith is the living power that presses through every barrier, overrides all obstacles, and plants its banner in the heart of the enemy's camp. God will help His believing children in every emergency if they will place their entire confidence in Him and implicitly obey Him. God works mightily for a faithful people who obey His word without questioning and doubt."

Friend: Once again, there is a misunderstanding. I am not on this website for Danny or 3abn or anyone connected with it. I came upon this website accidentally and then after the initial shock, stayed because I am jealous for the honour of God, for His church and for the souls of men. Furthermore, since reading many of the posts, I have become deeply concerned about many of you. I am extremely busy and rarely have time to watch 3abn. It is all quite new to me. So I am not a Danny apologist. I do not know him anymore than I know you or anything personal about either one of you. I am human. I look on the outward appearance. All I know is this: if he is indeed guilty, God will deal with him as wisely as He did with King David. As He will deal with each one of us. Permit me to close with one more quote from T. Vol.6p.153 "The earnest prayer, of contrite souls,will be lodged by the throne and God will answer these prayers In His Own Time if we cling to His arm by faith." May God be with you.

Friend: I have no problem with what you quoted. I am in agreement with it. However, nowhere does she state to take out full page ads in the newspaper, which is essentially what this would have been tantamount to in her day. If you read my other posting from the previous page where she quotes the apostle Paul and the difficulty he was having with false teachers, you will quickly understand that what she means by speaking out does not mean spreading it abroad. Furthermore, how many people on this website are directly involved and know from firsthand experience what is going on at 3abn? Those who do have first hand experience absolutely must do their duty. God requires it. However,to the rest, prayer and fasting is our duty. Anything other than this is not seeking the will of God, but merely satisfying gossip.

Watchman, I have tried over and over to make this point but seemingly to no avail. This site is overflowing with the: I think, I heard, I believe, I assume, it appears, it seems, phrases. Watchman,

So it is not the duty of the church members to hold the leadership of the church, and the independent ministries accountable for there actions even if that layperson has not had direct contact with the the goings on?

I fully agree that fasting and prayer are needed at this time, but to say that is the sole duty i think not, the leadership of the sda church has already it appears taken some behind the sences actions. the laity has a duty to makes sure this topic is not just swept under the rug, like things like this have been done before.

FOR example, i personally know of pastor from the south that left his wife and ran off with a lady from the conference office, they moved to the state of Michigan and in a couple of years he was pastoring again, no repentance no going back his former wife and even saying sorry. PLease tell me how that is ok, things against 3abn are much worse and much bigger so no i do not think that the layity should be quiet given the track record of the leadership of the sda church on sexual sins.

plus despite what many think this is a small out of the way internet forum(no disrespect to calvin) it is not the same has publishing a full page newspaper ad in egw day.

Friends:

After reading the post under Calvin's Corner, --"Request from GC Legal" and the ensuing comments, particularly "Lady Tenor/Black SDA Faithful, and other offensive content on this website, I sincerely question the choice of language used. As Christians, we are called to a higher standard. People are entitled to their opinions, but how we express them, is the difference. Jesus said "that which cometh out of the mouth, this defileth a man." Matt. 15:11. Jesus also said in Mark 12:31 "Thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself." and "love your enemies" Matt. 5:44. We must speak the truth--in love-- or not at all. My prayer is that you will consider Jesus' words, and bear them in mind, as you continue to address these issues in the future. Let us never forget that Jesus Christ is our sinless example. "For we are made a spectacle unto the world, and to angels, and to men." 1 Cor. 4:9. If you have issues with what someone says, then take it up with that person... your blanket condemnation has been heard; some will agree and some will not... as the bible says, Let every man be persuaded in his own mind. With that in mind, your continuing to regurgitate the same thing like a cow chewing her cud is not particularly productive...

Dear Brothers and Sisters of the Faith:

I have been checking in on this website for about three or four months now, reading the allegations and inuendos that have been made against many of God's children. Until now, I have not felt it necessary to "jump in the pool" and throw in my two cents, but some things are weighing heavy on my heart, and I just can't help but share these comments.

I quote the "Signs of the Times", March 9,1882: "Hours are worse than wasted when spent in the society of those who are not seeking to improve in mind or morals. Idle gossip, frivolous chitchat, the cruel slander, the base innuendo, weaken the intellect and corrupt the heart. Time is precious. We have but a brief space in which to prepare for the future life. All who expect to dwell hereafter with the pure and holy, must here obtain a fitness for such society. Let the moments heretofore squandered in idleness and folly be henceforth devoted to prayer and the reading of God's word. This discipline every Christian may have, and, rightly improved, it will make him wise unto eternal life."

The threads and posts on this website go on and on; one would have to spend hours at the computer to just read it all, not counting the other websites that are along the same line? Is this the work that Christ has commissioned us to do, waste our time so frivolously? On any given day, one member may have four or five posts within a short time. This means that time was devoted to reading the posts beforehand, composing a rebuttal, and typing it in, then waiting for a response so that the process can start all over again.

While many of you think in vitally necessary to defend Danny Shelton OR Linda Shelton, what is the end of this work? God has said, "For God shall bring every work into judgment, with every secret thing, whether it be good, or whether it be evil." Ecc.12:14

This says to me that in the end, the judgement is all up to God, because he is the only one who knows it ALL. Danny, Linda, Tommy, Bob, Clay, Duane, Barbara, Dr. Arlid, Dr. Thompson and everyone else may talk until they are blue in the face and will never reveal half of what God already knows. Why not leave the work of judgement up to HIM? The fact is that all of the aforementioned people are nothing but dirty sinners, along with myself (at the top of the list); our righteousness is as filthy rags. (Ever study what is meant by filthy rags?) Anyway, why can't the users of this website follow the counsel given in Hebrews 3:13, "But exhort one another daily, while it is called To day; lest any of you be hardened through the deceitfulness of sin.", and spend our time in fruitful service to Christ instead of fruitless reading and typing. (Who know, I may have just done that myself.) We should all spend more time in building up the body of Christ, not tearing it down. That is the work of the enemy.

Many of you have been blessed with the gift of a sharp mind and a compassionate heart; why not use those gifts in serving your LORD and others? To all who are posting on a daily basis, remember this example of our LORD, Who, "when he was reviled, reviled not again; when he suffered, he threatened not; but committed himself to him that judgeth righteously:" 1 Peter 2:23
Remember who our example is and how he behaved. You and I have no control over anyone except ourselves, and in the end we will account for ourselves and how we spent our precious time.

With that being the case, slowly read the following letter from Barbara Kerr and tell us what you think. Here's the link:

http://www.blacksda.com/forums/index.php?showtopic=10489

More than that, find the 16th paragraph in that letter which starts out: "I prayed that God would show me the truth in the situation and I asked for wisdom to respond to each of them. Whenever Linda and I began to reconnect again, Danny became angry. His words were more than unkind as he spoke "ugliness" about his former wife."

Tell us, Watchman, if you "sincerely question" anything in that 16th paragraph.

Welcome to this forum. I had read for a few months before I started posting, and even at that, I didn't jump into the deep end of the pool with words of advice on how this forum should be run. I wonder if you have taken time to look over the other twenty-odd subjects mentioned. You may feel more comfortable with Praise and Testimonies, Devotional Thoughts, Sabbath School Lesson Study, etc. I am curious to know why you chose this particular forum for your first post unless you have a specific interest in what is being discussed.

I wouldn't want you to defile your mind by wasting precious time if you believe that this is, "Idle gossip, frivolous chitchat, the cruel slander, the base innuendo, [that] weaken the intellect and corrupt the heart."

How will you feel when this hits the press, and you find that much of what you read is fact rather than fiction. Will it shake your faith? Prepare yourself, for it could easily happen.

So welc And, unless you feel that it is "idle gossip", do join us in the chat room. That is where you will get to know about the writers.

By checking, are you thoroughly familiar with the subjects? How extensive has been your reading? Rather than a blanket statement such as this, please list the allegations and innuendos you are refering to so that we may see if it is a subject that needs to be addressed.

When heinous sin and injustice is brought before a disciple of Christ, is that not a call to get involved? What did the Good Samaritan do after many "pious" men, men who spent large blocks of time studying the scriptures, distanced themselves from that bloodied victim lying on that rocky road? Praise God that this lowly Samaritan tended to him, spent time transporting him to a place of safety and then used his precious means to see that he was taken care of properly!

Please read 1 Corinthians 5 and see Paul's commission to us. Pay extra close attention to verses 12 and 13. It is so clear that God will judge the outside world but we are to judge our brethren. Can you tell me who Duane is? How about Roger or Brad or a 25-year-old man whose pastor allegedly molested him when he was but 8-years-old. What does scripture and SOP counsel us to do when we find out that a person claiming the name of Christ has abused the trust of his lambs? I believe that it is our DUTY (yes, I'm speaking loudly here) to console and build up the victims as well as do all in our sphere of influence to prevent other young people from falling victim as well. Please show me anything in scripture or Ellen White that refutes this. Testimonies Volume 3 page 265 and on tells us we have a duty to reprove sin. If we don't, "the people of God, as a body, will be held responsible for those sins."

You are, quite obviously, a deeply spiritual and compassionate person. I pray that you will be able to see the important mission that many of us are on. I, for one, believe that the LORD has laid this burden on my heart. I would be wrong to turn away.

It's really unfortunate that, once again, others feel the need to pass judgement on what other poeple do. With all due respect brother4life, it's not your call how any person on this board spends their time. If someone wants to be here 24 hours a day, 7 days a week, that is their decision. Once Calvin has given us permission to be here without any time restrictions, how we spend our time is our responsibility. You have no idea whether or not a person is using their gifts to serve God or others, and, quite frankly, it's not your business. Nobody should have to justify why they spend time here. I find this to be so offensive. The real work of the enemy is to cause us to have divisive, judgmental attitudes towards each other and look down our collective noses on people who we consider to be "less holy" than we are. I'm so glad that God is the only being who will ultimately judge how I spend eternity...

> Many of us here believe that we are serving our LORD and others. Many of us here feel that we are about our Father's business. We may not have control over others but by this time that we spend bringing truth to light we are having an influence!

Many of us posting here believe that God uses inperfect people, of which we are, to accomplish God's will in Earth. We do not claim that we are doing everything perfectly. But God has never required perfection in His agents. We only know that we must respond to what we believe is the call of God, and that as we respond God will use us to accomplish His purpose.

We are told to "leave it to God." We are. But, leaving it to God does not mean to do nothing. It means to respond as God has called upon us, and the ultimate resolution willl rest in God's hands.

We who are responding to what we see as the calling of God know that we are placing much at risk. 3-ABN/Danny may litigate. If so that will place the defendants under financial and emotional stress. It will not be easy. But, we simply look to God to guide in this as He has guided in our lives in the past.

At this point in time, several of us believe that litigation is likely to soon begin. It may start with four people as defendents. If this does happen, it is likely to be only the beginning of media attention, as well as civil attention that may expand beyond the expectations of those who began this part of the process. But, however it develops, God is good. God will guide. God's will will be accomplished.

Stand-by folks to see how this develops.

Hello fellow brothers and sisters:

I am not here to judge anyone. The LORD has given us all a free will to do with as we choose. This is something that neither God nor satan can touch. We all have opinions and are free to voice them. I just want to quote Jesus from John 13:34, 35 - "A new commandment I give toyou, that you love one another; as I have loved you, that you also love one another. By this all will know that you are My disciples, if you have love for one another." Romans 14:8, 10 says: Owe no one anything except to love one another, for he who loves one another has fulfilled the law. Love does no harm to a neighbor; therefore love is the fulfillment of the law.

Brothers and sisters, we read in 1 Timothy 1:15 that "This is a faithful saying and worthy of all acceptance, that Charist Jesus came into the world to save sinners, of whom I am chief." Paul saw the degradation of sin and understood the sinfulness of human beings. This is why he placed himself first among sinners. I am certainly no better than Paul, and neither is anyone else. This includes anyone in the human race, including the Sheltons.

Romans 12:17-21 says "Repay no one evil for evil. Have regard for good things in the sight of all men. If it is possible, as much as depends on you, live peaceably with all men. Beloved, do not avenge yourselves, but rather ive place to wrath; for it is written "Vengeance is Mine, I will repay," says the Lord. Therefore "If your enemy is hungry, feed him; If he is thirsty, give him a drink; For in so doing you will heap coals of fire on his head." Do not be overcome by evil, but overcome evil with good.

We can only give account for ourselves, but we all know what the power of prayer can do for our loved ones and our enemies. We all have skeletons. In Matthew 19:17, the Lord tells us that no one is good but One, that is, God. No one has been translated for many years, so we all have some work to do. Our characters are the only thing we are taking to Heaven with us. My prayer is that, starting with me, we will show mercy and triumph over judgment (James 2:13).

Can you tell me who Duane is? How about Roger or Brad or a 25-year-old man whose pastor allegedly molested him when he was but 8-years-old.

Born and raised in or around West Frankfort, over 20 years now. I do personally know all three of the Clem boys, knew their sweet mother, and the rest of their family. Also personally know Danny, Tommy, Dr. Thompson, Linda, and several others for most of my life. Been following the situation from word of mouth of different individuals involved. Personally, I think WE all have beams in our eyes, so I won't try to remove the speck from my neighbor's eye.

Jesus said "that which cometh out of the mouth, this defileth a man." Matt. 15:11. Jesus also said in Mark 12:31 "Thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself." and "love your enemies" Matt. 5:44. brother4life, thank you for your reply. So, you are definitely in the thick of things there in Illinois.

What is your personal opinion about the charges against Tommy Shelton? Have you read his confession over on save3abn.com? I really am interested in your take on this. How about the article posted here yesterday from Adventist Today?

If Tommy is guilty of the allegations against him, do you think it is important to get that out into the open to protect other young people from falling prey to the same abuse? This type of behavior cannot flourish when eyes are open. It depends on secrecy and intimidation to thrive. When eyes are closed, for whatever motivation, children are at risk of becoming victims.

If Tommy is guilty of the allegations against him and his brother Danny and other family members are guilty of covering up this behavior by intimidation and secrecy, allowing more and more young people to become victims and have their lives devastated, do you think it is important to get that out into the open so that people can see the true character of the guilty parties? Is keeping a secret like this to the detriment of so many young people really the Christian thing to do?

Yes, we all have beams in our eyes but I believe we still have a duty to do the right thing.

Welcome, 2shine4him! Your sweet spirit shines through in your post. Thank you for that. I hope that you have read here enough to see that we, for the most part, are not a mindless crowd of vigilantes waving torches and pitchforks on our way to destroy a perceived monster. We are also not the Tuesday morning quilting club mindlessly spreading rumor and gossip as we sip our tea and stitch our comforters. These are certainly the ways some have characterized us, but they have missed the mark.

Because I know that Jesus spilled his precious blood for every person on this Earth, those that claim Him as Savior and those choosing to follow a different master alike, I feel duty-bound to look on each person with all of the love that is humanly possible for me to muster as well.

Let me ask you to ponder a few scenarios:

If a blind man was about to step out in front of a bus, would you drop to your knees and pray for him or rush to his side and pull him out of danger?

If a loved one was selling drugs to school children, would you quote "Vengence is mine saith the Lord" and pray for God to intervene in your loved one's life or would you see how your dear one's behavior was ruining more than his own life and go to the proper authorities?

If you were aware, from the testimony of multiple young men and the confession of the former pastor himself, that this former pastor betrayed the trust of the very lambs he was to guide and protect and used them for his own gratification, would you pray for him to gain victory over this destructive behavior while parents, not knowing about his predatory ways, continue to entrust him with their children? Would you entrust him with your own children? What would Jesus expect you to do?

Can, and should, you love a sinner and yet still demand accountability for sin? Absolutely!

Thank you for this PB.

Why is it so hard for christians to know where the healthy boundaries lie for personal actions/involvement? Why do we want to stand by (looking for good excuses and reasons at times) and do nothing? Has God called us to do nothing? It is clear in scripture that we are to do something other then just pray. Put all of the verses together (like any good SDA bible study) and you find we have a responsiblity to act where these is injustice and pain.

Prayer is the BEST thing I can do, for friends and enemies alike. Prayer is EVERYTHING, not nothing. Just because I choose not to slander people all over the web does not mean I am not doing anything. It seems to me no matter what is done, if it is posted where everyone can read it, someone has something negative to say. Therefore, I choose to lift my brother and sisters up instead of being a stumbling block. Prayer is powerful, and I believe it should come first before action. I choose to let the Lord lead in what action is being taken. I care about individuals, whether it be a the person selling drugs on the street where your child walks, or whether it is a Shelton. I never said nothing should be done. I think that God should be the one to lead in the situation, not just anyone blowing off steam on a website. And besides, you never know who your neighbor will be in heaven. Will it be you, sonshineonme? Will it be you, PB? Will it be Danny, Linda, John Doe? So, I will continue to pray. I will also continue to be greatful that the Lord is in control. By the way, I do hope that all of us will be neighbors in Heaven.

Posted by: SoulEspresso Feb 18 2007, 02:23 AM

I would say this instead: prayer is not everything, but without it, everything is nothing.

I think some of the people on these boards have been called by the Lord to expose these things. All of us have posted stuff we're not proud of later, even if they made us or others laugh at the time--but I think most people are here because they love the Lord and other people.

If Danny were my best friend or twin brother, I'd still tell him and his friends to step down and allow a free and open inquiry into these difficulties.

But I bet they're not brave enough. I bet the press does the inquiry in the long run. (Or they publish what they've already got.)

I am new here, and this is difficult to understand. It seem like Bystander is saying that God made Watchbird a judge over 3ABN. If this is his motion, I want to second his motion. It seem to me like Watchbird could handle that situation and thereby make an end of the mess.

Do you seek medical services from a physician? Why? God is powerful enough to cure all illness, without you telling your problems to another human.

The Bible is clear: God has chosen to use humans in accomplishing His work on earth. Sometimes those humans are other Chrsitians. Sometimes those humans are the civil authorities. Sometimes those humans are people who are not Christian. Sometimes those people do not act perfectly. In any case, God choses and uses.

Ida, could you clarify please?

As I said before, I seek God before taking any action, in this case and others going on in my life right now. So, yes, Observer, I am seeking the Great Physician in everything I do. Suffice it to say, if we ALL did that, the world would be a better place.

God has chosen us to accomplish His work. What is His primary work? Which did Jesus do more of? Did Jesus do more of pointing out sins of the leaders or bringing people to Himself? Was Paul's primary work to point out sin in the church? Or was it to introduce others to Christ?

If everyone is so upset over the sins of the leaders of 3ABN, the Bible says "Be sure your sins will find you out". This goes not only for the leaders of 3ABN, but also everyone posting on this website. I'm sure there is not one of us that would appreciate our sins posted on the web for everyone to read. When Jesus started writing out the sins of the church leaders in the sand, He was the only one that knew the heart of the sinners. He was the only one qualified to point out sin.

Christ does tell us to judge righteously. The question is, who has righteous judgment? Not me. Do you?

without getting too far off topic, I believe you are wrong... It is quite arrogant to believe that God has chosen us to accomplish his work? He has given us some work to do, but let's be clear He finishes his own work.... trust that.....

The problem is that Danny went out and put Linda's supposed sin in public view. How can that be countered if not also by public disclosure of his wrong doings in the matter. No I would not want my sins (not that I have any you understand) all over the internet, however I'm not a public figure making public accusations against another. Danny started this apparently with no thought that others would actually hold him, the "anointed one" accountable. "He done bit off a bit more than he could chew", as some would say.

Thank you all for your warmhearted welcome which makes me feel at home here on BSDA. There is so much which is difficult to understand. Why are some of the participants defending evil rather than praying for forgiveness? Is there something wrong with cleansing the church and insititutions which claim to present the Advent message?

I have been reading several posts here, and this is the most difficult for me to understand why several posters quote so many texts from the Bible. all in an efffort to roll a lot of evil under the rug.

I don't quite get it, but it seems to me like only a demon would use the Words of Scripture like that.

I belong to a wonderful local church, but if such things were happening here, I would soon look for a different church where I could worship. Christians do not permit such actions in their midsts. The suffering ones are constantly in my prayers, and my greatest desire is that this will soon be finished. I cannot see that Jesus would permit this to continue.

Ida,

This may be off topic but I hope you will answer. We speculate at times if actions taken or words said by 3ABN often drive/encourage people to pursue the facts for themselves rather than be the lemmings they are encouraged to be. Obviously, quite a different result than what 3ABN wanted. You are a newbie as of yesterday, why did you chose to come here now at this time to read this subforum?

Also, I hope you will take the time to explore the many other areas of BSDA where there is so much other positive, encouraging, uplifting, educational and sometimes downright amusing content (not that we don't have our share of downright amusing content in the 3ABN subforum)

Welcome to BSDA.

Did God tell you that anyone here does not pray before they take action? Suffice it to say you do not know what we ALL do, thus we advise that you keep praying and keep your assumptions to yourself.

I would rather my sins not be placed for all to see, but if that is what it takes for the truth in this whole matter to come then i would gladly write the list, so that it would be clear that we are all sinners and all must go to the cross and be healed but i know from sad and painful experience that when you deny the truth about yourself to yourself that your troubles just get worse and worse.

I would beg tommy and danny to think long and hard about that thought.

Isn't anyone close enough to this area to know the pastor... or influential church board member.... well enough to have a heart-to-heart chat with him about what he is imposing upon his church members?

Remember Palm Springs....... ...... it was only days before the "show was to go on" that it was canceled. It could happen again....... .....

There is an e-mail contact on the website. It appears to be the following:

http://milpitas.netadventist.org/index.php?option=com_na_feedback&Itemid=37

You will note that the website also has a telephone number for the pastor.

By the way, the pastor is; Rob Benardo.

WB,
There is a prayer request line. I left a carefully worded prayer request that those in attendence would see the true spirit of Danny Shelton and asked for prayer that their pastor would be aware that 3abn accepts tithes from donors instead of those funds going to the appropriate local conferences.

I would be curious to see if contacting the pastor and church works. I just found out last night that our church was contacted by 3ABN to possibly have a rally there. I made a few snide comments about 3ABN, and then went on to mind my own business.

I will watch this posting, and if need be, print it out for our pastor and elders to share with the membership. Why should they come here just for Danny to walk away with our hard earned money? It really put me in a bad mood just thinking about it - and how thrilled that I would have been if this had happened, even 3 years ago.

From the Adventist articles in print, it is my understanding that Rob Benardo came to Milpitas from Michigan.

Maybe their lawyer/s/s/s/s/s/s/s/s/s/s/s/s/s/s/ ... (14) put ..."THEM" ... under a "Gag Order" ? ? ? ? ? ?

Posted by: Richard Sherwin Feb 17 2007, 07:24 AM

Kinda makes you think that Danny/WWJD/Bystander/Tommy forgot to take along the laptop so they could post between songs in Milpitas. Maybe they left it sitting on the jet so their man servants (the pilots) would have something to do on the Sabbath.

Or maybe they finally wised up to the fact that the more they defend the deeper it gets for them (him).

Watchbird, so happy this particular post came from you. Even though others added to it, you specifically make the suggestion about talking to the pastor. See, in proving liability to someone's slanderous remarks, one must prove, (among other things) that the "slanderer" is trying to hurt the individual or organization financially. You, as well as others, prove this is your intent by calling, emailing, etc to try and "discourage" a pastor or church from hosting a 3abn event. Shame on you. Even though you hate Danny S. guts, even you, know of the thousands of lives that have been changed through the ministry. Your little campaign to get them cancelled shows that your "hate" seems to overcomes your "love" where souls are concerned.
When you and others go so far as trying to get churches to cancel 3abn, it speaks volumes as for your motive and intent on this site. (not to mention your liability) You especially have proven by your words that you are not interested in the business of healing, restoration or ministering to others, as long as the ministering is coming from 3abn airwaves. Because God knows better than we, the motives of your heart when you want to make these "special" little phone calls, he will not let you succeed to the detriment of a great ministry.
For those of you (if any) that sent your little emails or made your little phone calls, it had absolutely no effect on the pastor or his people. I understand that those who had heard of your "little campaigns" felt you were being used as tools of Satan to undermine, divide and destroy what God has done and continues to do through the 3abn ministry.
You can fight, defame, gossip and slander the administration all you want, but God and God alone will win this battle to keep the 3angels message traveling around the globe. How thankful you, as Adventists should be to know, that people in all parts of our globe can receive that message. Instead, you waste your own time and God's judging people and instances that you had no part in, and know not of. I now understand mrs. White's statement when she says there will be more persecution from within the church, than without.

Well, Birdy, it seems that you have now joined the privileged class of those who are being threatened with lawsuits. And on what authority does Bystander make his threats? Does he now speak officially for the great prophet of 3ABN? Actually, he sounds like the prophet himself: same pride, same self-righteousness, same posturing. Vanity, Vanity, all is Vanity. You have the audacity to slander another member of BSDA by accusing them of the very behavior you yourself are displaying with your own remarks. Accusing Watchbird, or any other member on BSDA, of hating Danny S. because they call sin by its right name and refuses to turn a blind eye to the misdeeds those, who proclaim themselves true representatives of the church, while their consistent, on and off air, behavior says otherwise, is foolishness in the extreme. Your attempts to deny anyone, who does not represent your brand of truth, their right to stand up and speak out against the things they know displeases their heavenly Father speaks volumes.

Bystander, you who speaks with a fork tongue, we strongly advise that you seal your lips. It is also our hope that you will fall to thy knees and beg the Lords forgiveness. It is our prayer that you will repent and seek the forgiveness of every brother and sister here that you have accused falsely, for all those you have betrayed, and all that you are being a stumbling block to, by spewing such venom from your lips. For your sake, wash the blood of fellow believers and any others from your hand.

Bystander please repent now before it is everlasting to late.

Ah well... there are a wide variety of kinds of varmits that are a danger to the inhabitants of the henhouse..... To all of them we should be giving a mighty corporate > Watchbird, so happy this particular post came from you. Even though others added to it, you specifically make the suggestion about talking to the pastor. See, in proving liability to someone's slanderous remarks, one must prove, (among other things) that the "slanderer" is trying to hurt the individual or organization financially. You, as well as others, prove this is your intent by calling, emailing, etc to try and "discourage" a pastor or church from hosting a 3abn event. Shame on you. Even though you hate Danny S. guts, even you, know of the thousands of lives that have been changed through the ministry. Your little campaign to get them cancelled shows that your "hate" seems to overcomes your "love" where souls are concerned.

Before you can prove liability for someone's slanderous remarks, you must first prove that those remarks are actually slanderous. Let's take a look at the definition of "slander" from The Free Dictionary: (bolding and emphasis supplied by yours truly)

1. Law Oral communication of false statements injurious to a person's reputation.
2. A false [i]and[i] malicious statement or report about someone.

BTW, congratulations on your correct spelling of "etc"!

I can't speak for WatchBird, but as for myself I don't hate Danny's guts. He is my brother in Christ and I love him as such. Tommy, too. The problem is that the Vine, our Lord, is good but sometimes the branches get rotten. While 3abn is producing fruit for the kingdom, which is glorious, the evidence shows that the ministry has not pruned out the disease within, allowing it to grow stronger and more pervasive until it may rot the whole branch. This is what has the potential to ruin this soul-winning ministry. I just wish you could step away from the denial and see that.

And what does it say when a Seventh-day Adventist pastor, John Lomacang, or the president of 3abn calls churches to urge them to cancel Linda Shelton's appearances? Or how about emails sent to churches and people to slander and discredit her name? I guess there will be a point when the true tools of Satan will be revealed.

What I would say to this, Bystander, is that you are entitled to your opinion even though it is wrong. Sure, there are some here who may fit this category but most are keenly interested in seeing this situation resolved properly and the cause of God strengthened instead of sullied by those who would cherish their sinful ways.

I, too, would like to have an answer from Bystander to these questions, especially since Bystander has raised the issue as it relates to the weekend 3ABN Rally at the Adventist Church in Milpitas, California.

PB, Again you insinuate that Bystander is Danny S. by your california comment. You are wrong. As for the other statement about JL and Danny S. calling churches. Show me evidence that Danny ever called a church where Linda was scheduled to try to have her canceled. Show me where JL did. Even if you were 100% right, (which you are not) would 2 wrongs make a right. Should the Linda supporters, here, do exactly what they are accusing DS team of doing? If so, then they have no right to gripe about it. PB where is your info coming from to make these allegations?

BlackSDA _ 3ABN _ Damage Control

Posted by: sister Nov 30 2006, 12:04 AM

It was suggested that I post some information in regard to damage control that has been featured on Maritime. I have chosen not to use Bob's last name. The following emails have been exchanged between Bob and Danny Shelton, and between Bob and Walt Thompson (Chairman of the Board of 3ABN). I will make a number of posts on this topic.

Hi Danny.

I don't really have any control over what he does, so I don't think I can "see that he abides by [your] following request."

I have been curious about something, though. You write below that "ASI had agreed to hear mine and Linda's situation." That is good. But I hope that they will deal with more than just that, since the rumors out there concern far more that just your and Linda's situation.

I noticed the 3ABN web site announced two rallies last weekend in Oregon. What I was curious about is why it advertised only you and Tommy being there. In your previous reply to Gailon you did not specifically deny that allegations of child molestation have been leveled against Tommy, and I understand that these allegations have been hanging over him for years. I would think it most unwise from a PR standpoint to push To mmy to the front of things until these allegations are resolved.

Is there anything in the works to resolve these allegations, demonstrating either Tommy's guilt or innocence?

Danny,

One thing I've noticed, and I think I mentioned this to you before, is that you seem to use a tactic in damage control which in the end can be quite detrimental to your cause. You wrote:

Quote:
"I already knew about you being a convicted embezzler and have more knowledge than you and your group would be comfortable with, of other personal and financial challenges that are open knowledge surrounding you."

Why would this sort of comment be necessary? How is it helpful? All it appears to do is distract from the issues being raised by attacking others. In my opinion, it would be far better to just deal with the issues raised in a transparent, straightforward way.

I realize that's not your gift. But then you really need to authorize and enable someone else to do that.

Of course, Gailon's email did not raise issues with 3ABN, but I have noticed this sort of problem with your previous replies to issues he has raised.

Hi Danny.

Think about it: If you'd only be willing to approach these questions transparently and straightforwardly, without attacking others, as if you don't have a thing to hide, ASI wouldn't need to be involved at all.

You have spent so many years building up 3ABN's ministry. Why jeopardize it all by continuing an approach that turns off supporters? In other words, what hinders you from answering transparently and straightforwardly the simple question, "Is there anything in the works to resolve these allegations, demonstrating either Tommy's guilt or innocence?"

Not answering that simple question gives the impression that you are engaging in evasion and stonewalling, and that the allegations really are true. And that impression is detrimental to the mission of 3ABN, and should be avoided at all costs.

But I do take it from your reply that the ASI panel will be investigating the allegations against Tommy as well, and that is good.

Hi Walt.

I thought I'd pass along our email interchange to you.

I really think that 3ABN and Danny need better damage control, and have felt that way since being told by a major 3ABN player in August, simply because I was asking questions, that I was "led of the pits of hell" and was "one sick puppy."

Danny's replies below illustrate yet again the need for better damage control. Tommy has had these allegations hanging over his head for years, and if he has ever been cleared, Danny won't say. And if anything is in the works to either prove or disprove these allegations, Danny won't say. "I will refrain from answering your questions at this time."

Yet while he can't bring himself to answer simple questions, he has no problem whatsoever digging up dirt and using it to attack others with, as he makes clear below.

This sort of PR and damage control approach, it's beyond me.

The whole situation comes across as if the more allegations there are, the more the one alleged to have done wrong ends up in the limelight. That's the appearance when Tommy is featured so prominently at rallies and at the MAP Seminar. And that appearance is not helpful to the mission and prosperity of 3ABN.

If 3ABN is going to prosper in the years to come, there needs to be a drastic change in PR and damage control.

God bless.

Bob, one last email to you.

Most of the rumors and accusations are based on lies. There are potentially millions of viewers. I nor anyone else can or will ever address all individual rumors with individual people asking the questions. It would be too time consuming.

If the biggest rumors or accusations are addressed by a reputable group like ASI, then people will have more info to base their decisions of whom are they going to believe.

There's a good chance that if ASI decides I have lied about my biblical grounds for divorce, then there is also a good chance that I am lying about other things. If on the other side of the coin ASI decides that Linda has lied about the reasons for our divorce then there is a good chance that the other info she and her friends are feeding the public, may be lies also.

I've been told that you cross one bridge at a time.

Hi Danny.

It just doesn't make sense to me, and I am sure you can understand why. ASI doesn't need to get involved in order for 3ABN to address the huge, mammoth allegation that Tommy molested children. Why pass the buck?

As far as ASI turning up evidence that you lied or didn't lie about the allegations against Tommy, I am unaware that you have said anything definitive about the matter that could be considered a lie. You certainly haven't said anything definitive in your replies below, which in my mind is a serious problem. Someone at 3ABN needs to be appointed to address these kinds of questions in a transparent, straightforward way.

I'll tell you the very real PR problem this all creates. These allegations against Tommy resurfaced in 2003. Linda had her alleged affair in 2004. Melody had an unwed pregnancy in 2005. Linda disappeared, and Tommy and Melody haven't. One is left to wonder what Linda did that was so far worse tha n child molestation and unwed pregnancy.

This type of question needs to be addressed in a professional, Christ-like way, and if ASI has to get involved in order for it to be answered, then something is dread wrong.

Who then at 3ABN would be a good one for me to ask my question of? Who is responsible for handling damage control regarding serious matters?

It doesn't bother me at all to ask someone else, since your time is valuable. I just need to know who I should be conversing with at 3ABN instead of yourself.

Hi Danny.

Just a quick question to make sure I understand you correctly. You are saying that ASI is dealing with all allegations concerning 3ABN and its board, officers, and employees? And that ASI has asked 3ABN not to reply to questions about any allegations, even questions as to why Tommy is being put so much into the limelight while the allegations of child molestation are still unresolved?

Your reply suggests such, but I just want to be sure that that is what you meant.

I should add this real quick: A conference official told me that we could all be in trouble with the authorities if the allegations against Tommy aren't reported. Has 3ABN or someone else reported them? If so, to whom and when? I certainly don't want to get into any legal trouble, and if waiting until ASI finally makes some sort of decision before it all gets reported makes me liable in some way, I think it would be better to make sure it has been reported sooner rather than later.

Bob

At this point I will break off in the email correspondence and end this first section with a comment from Bob:

Consider how powerful an organization ASI is that they can request what has been called the second largest Christian broadcaster in the world not to answer simple questions about anything, and they comply.

I suppose then, if this is really an accurate picture of the situation, that if ASI tells a ministry that they need to make certain drastic changes, that ministry will also comply.

Thus, if taken at face value, this appears on the part of Danny to be an admission that the recommendations of the ASI panel will be binding. But I'm unsure that we can take his comments at face value.

Hi Walt.

I would imagine that folks who have a few questions would not be called "accusers," and thus I wonder if you might have a few comments about the propriety of putting Tommy in the limelight before the allegations against him get resolved. It just doesn't seem wise to me.

I was talking to a conference official the other day, and they said that anyone who knows about the allegations regarding Tommy who doesn't report them to the proper authorities could be in trouble. I certainly don't want to get into any kind of legal trouble, and so I'm wondering if these allegations were ever reported to the authorities? To whom and when?

Hope your Thanksgiving is going well.

Bob

Bob prefaces the next email with the following comments: The following was Gailon's reply to my last email to Danny. Harold Lance is the one coordinating the ASI panel investigation process.

Gailon refers to Danny's statement that ASI had asked him not to answer anymore questions. Since ASI is supposed to be neutral in this process, Gailon is wondering why they would be advising Danny.

If you believe that Danny is correct that ASI really did advise him in this way, then you might agree that there is a problem. But as always, it is wisest to get both sides of the story before coming to a conclusion.

Who, at ASI, would be advising him not to answer questions? Am I all wet in assuming that ASI is completely neutral and would prefer the parties resolve as many issues as possible amongst themselves? Is ASI acting as counsel to 3ABN?

Yes, we have a serious problem...he is suggesting that Harold Lance is representing and counseling Danny and 3ABN. I hope that is not the facts in this case!!!

Also, why would 3ABN not deal with all the issues and avoid the need for a tribunal??? Would not this make much better sense??? And it would show some serious reform on the part of the board...which would avoid some other issues as well.

Dear Bob,

The allegations against Tommy were made about 30 years ago. They were reported to the proper authorities. No physical actions ever occured. Tommy appologized to the kids and offered recompence. The DA said there was no case. No restrictions were ever imposed. Tommy is employed by 3abn with full board approval, knowing the facts. The author of a book, "These kind don't change, do they?" was interviewed on 3abn recently. You may wish to purchase that book and read it! (The sad thing about this is that the ones who are loudest in spreading falsehood know this, yet continue to agitate and keep the fires burning.)

Jesus said, he that is without sin, let him cast the first stone. I would echo Jesus statements today. All of us at 3abn are human. All have sinned. But, thank God, He forgives and uses our fallings as stimulants to make us grow. 3ABN is in the work of healing broken people, but we too are still in a sense broken. Almost every employee has a record they would not be proud of. Yet, Got takes great pleasure in accomplishing His purposes on earth by people just such as us. No where in the Bible are there examples of people who have fallen who have suffered the wrath of God who have confessed their sins and learned from their mistakes. Yet, for the past almost 3 years 3abn has been bombarded with lies and insinuations. Of course, we know where they come from, and we know that no one ever wins when he enters argument with the devil. Therefore, we have tried to let the Lord fight our battles. We have resisted the temptation to take on the battle ourselves and I am sure have sometimes said too much or too little, but never the less, know in our hearts that we have taken the high road in this battle. Attorneys that have looked at the evidence agree full heartedly. While not everyone may agree with the decisions we have made, we have continued to rejoice with the blessing of our Lord.

Yes, it is wearing. I can only thank God for giving Danny the strength of faith and health to hang on as he has done. I am sure it is only by God's amazing grace that this has occured. And I must thank our faithful viewers and supporters who by their prayers of intercession have joined the powers of heaven in this battle.

You speak of the need for damage control. Please place yourself in Danny's shoes for just one day and try to imagine how you would respond. Then imagine being the source of bombardment day after day, seemingly unendingly. It has not been easy. Danny is a fighter. Without his determination and resiliency, this ministry would have been taken down long ago. I have no doubt that God chose Danny for this task, recognizing that all of our greatest strengths are sometimes also our greatest weaknesses. Yes, I know he sometimes would be better off to keep quiet, let the Lord fight his battles and relax, but that is not always easy. Most of all is the difficulty of knowing when to speak and when to be silent. God told ancient Israel that they should wait upon the Lord and He would fight their battles, but I find it interesting that they still had to go into battle and fight - Gideon is the classic example. While God took the battle into His own hands, Israel was called to do it's part before God could do His thing. Rather than faulting Danny for his tendencies to defend himself, I find I must lift him up in prayer.

You propse to me "that folks who have a few questions would not be called 'accusers." This would ordinarily be true, but when in battle for long periods of time, even good soldiers sometimes develop shell shock. When "friends" turn out to be enemies over and over again, one soon "learns" that he can trust no one. A number of e mails and letters that I have written as private responses have appeared on the Internet forums, "spun" to fit the desire of the "friend" who placed them there.

Thanks for your interest,

walt
Walter Thompson MD

A note from Bob:
Notice very carefully that Walt acknowledges that there were allegations, and that something was done to children that had to be apologized for. But what happened and when it occured is still not clear.

Since the above disagrees with the other side of the story, the question arises, what was the source of Walt's information?

Thanks very much for your reply, Walt.

[Note: I wrote the following reply before getting two emails from Gailon, and so I want to add this brief note to reassure you: Gailon is NOT getting a blind copy of my reply because, though it may correct false information he has, a few details need to be clarified before it will be effective, and my reply would best not be forwarded hither and yon without those clarifications. No one is getting a blind copy of this reply.]

It is the kind of information that you have provided that is most helpful. I first heard about these allegations around August, and this is the first I've heard that there have not been new allegations for the last 30 years, that no physical actions occurred, and that Tommy apologized. Of course, this puts things in a different light, and it is this kind of information that can go a long ways towards squelching rumors.

And squelching rumors and criticisms is what I like to do. For example, there was a rumor accusing Melody of getting married the day after her new husband's divorce was final, and I was able to verify that his divorce was actually final a year before, and was able to squelch that rumor.

I am a little puzzled about a couple inconsistencies I see. Why in 2003 was it recommended to Tommy by letter sent to you that he issue written apologies when he had already apologized? And if he apologized, how can it also be true that one of the Church of God churches he pastored became split over the issue, some folks taking his side and some folks taking the side of the alleged victims, and that after one of his staunchest supporters died, her son came forward and told his story?

It's possible that the person associated with that congregation was just pulling my leg in giving me these details that make it appear that Tommy did not apologize, and that possibility only appears in light of the information you have given. But on an issue as important as this one I just want to make sure I've got the correct picture. Do you have a suggestion on how to harmonize these two different accounts?

In that 2003 letter you were invited to make contact with some of the alleged victims, their families, and the two associations that had given Tommy his credentials. Of these individuals and parties, how many did you actually contact? I ask that just to verify that the source of your information regarding apologies and no physical actions was not just one-sided. If both sides told you that that was the way it was, then that has to be the way it was, and I can then better use this information to put a halt to some of the rumors circulating out there.

Another possible question might be, if there have not been any new allegations for 30 years, why would the 2003 letter ask Tommy to apologize to the congregation in Virginia where I think he was still pastoring in 1999?

One last, simple request. I can relate to your shell shocked analogy. I think everyone at some point must feel that way. After Hal Steenson told me I was "led of the pits of hell," was "one sick puppy," needed "to get a life," was "sick," and needed "to be born again," and then repeatedly threatened to call security at ASI simply because I was asking a few questions privately in a way that no one else could hear, I tried to excuse his unbecoming behavior by saying that he must have been having a bad day, and must be under strain because of all the attacks. But then when I've gotten no reply whatsoever to my emails asking respectfully and kindly for an apology, when I've gotten no apology whatsoever after asking for one via Joe O'Brien and John Lomacang, and after discussing the matter with Elder Denslow, every month that goes by it becomes increasingly difficult to justify his unbecoming behavior in this way.

It's this kind of thing that is a real problem. Jesus said, "Agree with your adversary quickly while you are in the way." By no stretch of the imagination could I be characterized as an adversary when I chatted with Hal at ASI. If we are to agree quickly with our adversaries, how much more readily with our friends?

So my simple request is that you ask Hal, when opportunity arises, to apologize to me for the insults and threats he gave at ASI.

I have two more issues that trouble me a bit, but this is long enough, and so I'll close for now.

God bless, and have a good Sabbath.

Bob

Hi Walt.

I've been thinking about this situation a bit, and I think I see an opportunity perhaps for you to gain some credibility in the eyes of the 3ABN critics. It's an approach I've tried a number of times in various situations, and I get to it near the end of this email.

I'll first say that I am holding off till Tuesday before passing on the information you gave earlier about Tommy so that you can clarify the few points I raised, in order to avoid anyone attacking what you wrote before you have a chance to explain it. In other words, no one is getting a blind copy of this email, and no one will see it till Tuesday.

You wrote:
"The allegations against Tommy were made about 30 years ago." This implies that there have been no new allegations since then.
"No physical actions ever occured."
"Tommy appologized to the kids and offered recompence."
The letter you received from the Church of God church in question in 2003 contained the following advice (I quote from the attached "Action Items"):
"Tommy should issue written apologies over his signature to all victims and to their parents," indicating that he had never apologized.
"Tommy also should issue written apologies over his signature for his deceit, as well as inappropriate behavior, etc., to ... the congregation of the Community Church of God, Dunn Loring, Virginia," indicating that he had had similar allegations at the church where he was pastoring as late as around 1999.
Some of your critics would likely jump on these discrepancies and use them to accuse you of dishonesty, which I think would be unwarranted and wrong, and which is why I haven't passed this on as of yet. Now since you wrote that "a number of e mails and letters that I have written" ended up being "spun" in a critical manner, I've tried to give some thought as to the best possible ways to spin these discrepancies. I see two other alternatives:
There is a massive, multi-state, Church of God conspiracy to malign the character of Tommy Shelton, or

You based your information on Tommy and/or Danny's word without contacting the other side, even though you were invited in that 2003 letter to contact the alleged victims, their families, and the two associations that apparently revoked the ministerial credentials they had given Tommy. Of these various possibilities, the only one that seems plausible and that puts you in the best light possible is this last one. And that possibility, if it be correct (and I would certainly welcome some other explanation more complimentary to yourself), opens up an opportunity to gain a little traction among the 3ABN critics.

If that's what happened, then it certainly was an error on your part. One can't rely solely on the word of an individual when the allegations being raised against that individual include "deceit," which was the word used in that 2003 letter, especially when the charges are as serious as child molestation. To do so opens up churches and supporting organizations to significant liability if a problem occurs.

What I've found is that if I apologize for whatever I can whenever I have made an error of some sort, folks cut me a lot more slack than they would otherwise. And I feel that if the above is what happened, and if you acknowledge that error and pledge to be more thorough in this and the other investigations, then the tone of some of the critics will soften and mellow a bit, and just might become complimentary.

And that would be a victory for 3ABN.

I sincerely welcome your telling me that you did indeed contact the victims, their families, and the associations referred to, or by giving me any alternative explanation that would better explain these discrepancies.

God bless.

Bob

A note from Bob:

Dr. Thompson is incorrect in his statements, and I have proved that conclusively.

He said that the allegations were 30 years old. But the allegations he received in 2003 referred to alleged problems where Tommy was pastoring just 4 years prior to that.

Where then did Dr. Thompson and the board get their information that the allegations were 30 years old?

Unfortunately, the answer which he gave me to that question has a bearing on the Danny/Linda question. And thus I do not see how we can't pursue this until we arrive at the truth of the matter.

I repeat: Dr. Thompson was led to believe by someone that the allegations were 30 years old when in fact the newest ones were clearly, from the very letter he received via registered or certified mail, roughly 4 years old. Who misled Dr. Thompson, intentionally or unintentionally?

A second note from Bob:

...just because there were no charges filed means next to nothing, since most fairly solid cases are that way. Family Services may remove a child from a home because they have enough evidence to do so, but they may not have enough evidence to bring about a conviction. It ahppens all the time.

That's why a pastor's wife who used to do social work told me that when you're doing a background check, you've got to contact social services as well as the court system.

And from what I read on a conference website, part of the conference academy operations is supposed to move to Thompsonville. So this topic is definitely important.

Dear Bob,

I am troubled by this whole affair. You claim to be a friend of 3abn and desiring to help, but at the same time you continue to assume that 3abn, its board and its administration are lying, incompetent and sporting a cover-up. That you are also in communication with persons who have already spread rumors and untruths around the world via the Internet bothers me and makes me wonder why I would feel the need to share more information with you. You alledge that by answering your questions I can gain credibility with our critics. This I have trouble believing since it hasn't happened yet. Nothing we have said until now has been accepted as fact, even though presented with ample evidence. Furthermore, it has been spun to suit the purpose of those who refuse to believe. I have been around this world for for a long time, and have often been held up as an example of honesty. You may check with colleagues, church leaders, fellow believers, family - anyone you wish - and though not all will agree with every decision I have ever had a part in making, none will accuse me of dishonesty (accept possibly Linda and Johann!). Likewise, the 3abn board is composed of people with unquestionable characters. The actions that we have taken through the years have not been taken without careful study and deliberation.

I do not understand the responsibility of 3abn to answer the questions of our critics. It is one thing to give answers to people who have honest questions and desire to know the truth, but quite something else to try to convince those who have no desire except to defend their preconceived opinions. If it should be that 3abn had made a mistake, Jesus outlined a path one ought to take in an attempt - privately, not to destroy - but to varify and assist in healing. Instead, a number of those who have come to us seeking information have spread it out on the Internet for the whole world to see and chew on. You see, I do not understand this type of "friend" not this variant of "justice." I may be naive, but this is not how my Bible tells me to do things.

Through the years we have had to make some difficult decisions, not the least of which was the one to let Linda go. Fortunately, most of our viewers and supporters have rallied behind us when we have brought our needs to public attention, and supported us with their earnest prayers and encouragement - doing as I understand all true Christians ought to do. Many, many of our supporters sensed a great loss with the loss of Linda - as all of us have, but they continued to support the ministry and its leadership, knowing that this was the right thing to do until they had ample reason to do otherwise. Fortunately, most or our viewers recognize the burdens carried by the leadership of this ministry, understand that all are human and falible, and love and support us in spite of that, just as God has done. While our "critics" have tried their best to undermine these by spreading lies and rumors, most have been able to "see through" these often vicious efforts and continue their support.

If I sound a bit defensive, please excuse me. I do not doubt your expressed statements to me about wanting to help the ministry. In fact, I appreciate you willingness to do so. But for the reasons mentioned, I fail to understand how your proposals might help the cause. Unless you can give me some very convincing reasons why I should do so, I prefer to merely state that we believe we have done things correctly and above board.

I suppose if I were "smart," I would assume that any and everything I wrote to you would be published for the world to read - even though I fail to understand the ethics of this. In this sense, yes, I am sometimes naive and too trusting. Yes, I know we are living in the age of information technology, but I refuse to believe that makes it right to make private conversations public.

Sincerely,

Walt

Subject: Re: Possible way to win 3ABN critics.

Hi Walt.

If you will re-read my communication, I specifically stated that I was assuming that you were not lying. And I will add that I have had no communication with Linda, except when I wrote her way back and told her I thought she was wrong when she was asking to have her membership dropped at Thompsonville.

We do have a definite problem in that allegations have been made publicly on the internet for far too long by far too many people, and they need to be put to rest in some way. The good of the cause demands it, and the allegations aren't going to disappear if we just ignore them. These public allegations must be met just as publicly, if it is possible to meet them.

As far as Matthew 18 is concerned, I am sure you are aware of the fact that Matthew 18 does not apply to public sins. The Spirit of Prophecy is quite clear about that. And since Tommy's conduct, whatever it was, involved at least six boys in two states, and since it split a church, Matthew 18 does not apply in his case. In other words, what I am trying to say is that your and my communications, which are attempting to resolve a publicly-aired and serious issue, for the good of the cause of God cannot be kept private.

I have not read and analyzed all the communications you have sent out, and thus I can't tell you why in each case people haven't accepted what you have said as fact, but I can state why I cannot yet accept as fact what you told me about Tommy: There are still unresolved discrepancies, and your statements disagree with just about the only evidence I have seen, namely, the letter you received in 2003 from the Church of God that made those allegations.

Now if you can assure me that you did talk to the alleged victims, their families, and the two associations that gave Tommy ministerial credentials, and that they stated that the allegations were 30 years old, that there was no physical actions, and that Tommy apologized, then that makes your statements extremely credible. And I would then endeavor to find out the source of what would have to be slanderous lies about Tommy.

However, if the sole source of your information was directly or ultimately Tommy rather than also the other side, then we definitely have a problem. If I were a pastor and I did something like that, getting my information from only an alleged pedophile when invited to do otherwise, I can imagine my conference president having a little talk with me about my needing to be a bit more competent in such matters.

But we all make mistakes, I sure have, and it behooves us all to be kind toward those who err.

But here is the potential problem as I see it: You have, as you likely know, been accused of listening only to Danny's side in the Danny/Linda issue. Whether that is the case or not, I don't know, and I have yet to see convincing evidence establishing either Linda's innocence or her guilt. Because of the situations I've been in, I've been skeptical of Linda's claims of innocence. But here is the problem: If since 2003 you haven't contacted any of the alleged victims, their families, or the licensing associations as invited to do so by that letter from the Church of God, and if you instead ultimately relied on Tommy's word when the information he provided disagrees with the statements as found in that 2003 letter, then that unfortunately makes the accusation that you have only listened to Danny's side more plausible.

In my opinion, if this is what happened, an acknowledgment of error of judgment and a pledge to do better will help the situation, for a refusal to acknowledge such an obvious error would not benefit 3ABN in the least.

But now let's turn away from you entirely and look at a totally different issue with similar implications as the above. You probably realize as I do that  is definitely not pro-Linda. I was put in contact with  during  because  was trying to locate a copy of the 2003 letter. In our conversation  told me that  because . Gailon told me that . I could harmonize those two statements without difficulty.

But then a friend of mine was talking to a 3ABN'er, and they said that . That was definitely a discrepancy, and so I asked  about it.  replied that when , Danny had threatened , and Danny's . These had then . The board decided to take Danny's word about it all without investigating , and ******.

 said I could share  side of the story with whomever had heard the  allegation , and since you obviously know it, I'm sharing  side with you. My guess is that Elder Denslow and you have already discussed this. Since these details are not public knowledge on the internet, unlike the allegations against Tommy, the details of this portion of our communications, given current circumstances, will not be made public.

Consider the implications: Danny is accused of conjuring up evidence against Linda. Someone who is not pro-Linda claims that Danny ordered  evidence to be manufactured against . What kind of defense can Danny make when a pattern of behavior is claimed by two different parties who aren't on the same page?

Danny is widely accused of financial and managerial improprieties. A non-pro-Linda  claims that , and was  because . Again, there is an unfortunate appearance of a pattern of unethical behavior regarding finances and operations.

. It is quite plain that Linda's side distrusts the board and ASI, and I particularly have been bothered by their distrust of ASI. But 's story does raise questions about the board's fairness and competence if it is true that no impartial investigation was made into ******.

It is possible that  is lying. Of course. It is possible that Danny never threatened  and that the board did do a thorough and impartial investigation. I would welcome evidence to that effect.

But when we line up the huge number of people who claim to have personally been affected by the same kind of financial and operational problems, not to mention the moral problems, even totally ignoring whatever Linda and Johann are claiming, it becomes a big stretch to assume that all these people are lying and only Danny and Tommy are telling the truth, especially when all claimed evidence in their favor is carefully kept under lock and key and cannot be seen by anyone, even when promises to the contrary are adamantly made.

There are still a couple issues that personally trouble me, and I guess I sort of started into one of those with the last part of that last sentence, but once again, this is long enough. I will just say that I do not covet your unenviable position, and my prayers and sympathies are with you. I hope that all these issues can be resolved in a way that is as redemptive as possible, and I pray that God will give you an abundant portion of His wisdom that you may best know just exactly how to proceed.

God bless.

Bob

P.S. Whatever clarifications you can make that would explain the discrepancies between your statements about Tommy and the 2003 letter you received would be most appreciated, as I will add your information to the mix come Tuesday. And do let me know if you contacted any of the alleged victims, their families, or the licensing associations in arriving at the information you gave.

And if the Holy Spirit impresses you, please speak with Hal for me when an opportunity arises.

Blessings.

Dear Bob,

Thank you for you attempt to understand my sensitivity and that of 3abn administratin and board. We believe we have acted responsibly and wisely, appropriate to the circumstances. While one can always be criticized after the fact and without all of the evidence then available for consideration, often those same critics would have made similar judgments had they been there.

As I recall the events of 2003, I received a call from Brad Thorp from the General Conference telling me of Pastor Dryden's accusations. Brad appropriately told me that it was not his concern, and that it was ours to handle. As I recall, I contacted pastor Dryden and heard his side of the story following which I received the letter that is circulating. I was at 3abn at the time and spoke at length with Danny about the matter. He shared with me the details as he understood them. Whether or not I was aware of what generated the letter at that time, I do not remember. Based upon my understanding that Dryden had had a long standing feud with Tommy over factors unrelated to the above accusations, it did not seem indicated to approach the boys in question directly, having been informed that no case had ever been filed with the courts or legal disposition made. We then discussed the situation with the full board. Given the alleged events had occured many years before, attempts had been made to make things right, and no legal action had been taken, we did not see any reason to pursue the issue further nor to follow through with his recommendations. In my reply to pastor Dryden I merely thanked him for fulfilling his obligation to us. (I will make this one further comment. Whereas there are many accusations on the Internet alledging that Danny cannot be trusted, I disagree. I have known Danny now since the beginning of the ministry. Now more than 23 years. I have been fully appraised of many of the difficulties that he has faced during that time. While Danny sees things from his perspective, as we all do, he is honest and trustworthy. I have found no reason to distrust his reports to me. Yes, there are occasions when after having spoken with both sides of an issue it has been a matter of he said vs she said, but in all situations where I could know the facts, Danny has proven true.)

Subsequently, after this issue has been brought back to the forefront (I think there is only one person who could have known about this and brought it to world wide attentionm, and that person was then on the board and voted with the concensus) I contacted the only person from the Chruch of God that I could find that knew about the situation, and who had been present and witness to the events. (Accept for pastor Dryden's personal accounts, there are apparently no other records of the allegations) The picture that was painted by that leader of the Church was exactly as portrayed earlier by Danny. Dryden was jealous of Tommy and was out to get him - a jealousy that has continued to the present. I was again informed that the DA knew about the allegations and not finding a basis, refused to act against Tommy. I have been informed that the Church of God is a congregational type or organization with different jurisdictions in different states and that there was no higher authority that I could speak with to resolve the issue further. It was not entirely clear to me how that worked. I was also told that one leader pestered Tommy over and over again until Tommy voluntarily gave up his ministerial license. These are the facts as I have been able to sort them out.

I will not comment regarding  except to say that good people sometimes see things from differing perspectives. We . We continue to have communication with  and consider  a friend of 3ABN.

Since you have not described the other allegations against Danny, I am unable to know what you are referring and therefore unable to comment on them.

I hope this is helpful to you.

I would like to request that you not circulate this letter, but that you merely summarize and varify its contents.

Sincerely,

Walt

Hi Walt.

Thanks very much for your clarifications. In hindsight, we can always see how we maybe could have done it a little differently, and learn from that. That's just life.

I'll see what I can come up with regarding an alleged long standing feud between Dryden and Tommy, a feud unrelated to molestation.

How did you get the name of the leader at the Church of God that you spoke to? It would be interesting to know why that person's story differs so radically from that of the alleged victims. If I had to guess, I'd say that maybe they were of the faction in the split church that believed Tommy (a split caused by his allegedly not admitting to the accusations), and that they were not of the faction that sided with the alleged victims. If that be the case, and if you got the name of that person from Danny or Tommy, who certainly would have known who agreed with his version of things, it would explain why that was the person you just happened to talk to, and why you came up with a version of the situation that differs so widely from that of the alleged victims.

If this is how it all happened, if it is true that the allegations are more recent than 30 years and that Tommy did not apologize, then I personally would consider you to be a victim too, but of a different sort. And I think that is a very charitable way to look at it.

How can I contact this person to get their side of the story, and thus verify what you have related?

Do you know who authorized Mike Riva to threaten Pastor Dryden with legal action?

On the other matters I referred to, I'll mention two briefly, and then if we need to discuss details, we can do that.

You referred to Matthew 18, which is a must when dealing with private issues. I'm wondering then why on August 10 on 3ABN Live Shelley Quinn over global television implied that Linda's daughter had lied in her confidential and private testimony about Danny's alleged sexual assault. I found that very troubling, even if Linda's daughter did lie, on two counts: 1) The matter was private and confidential, and 2) repeatedly during that program, the claim was made that they weren't going to defend themselves at all against the lies that were being told about Danny and 3ABN. Yet they did most certainly defend themselves.

In other words, if the matter is a public one, then it should be dealt with in a conclusive way that puts the matter to rest. But to publicly call a lady who asserts sexual assault a liar without providing any conclusive evidence to that effect, and while claiming to not be defending one's self, has the effect of stirring up more concerns in people's minds than what existed before. Such secrecy regarding the evidence while publicly making such insinuations is counterproductive, and gives people the idea that something isn't right.

Secondly, John Lomacang invited folks with questions to call him, so I did on September 1. In that conversation, during which I was listening for something concrete that wasn't based on he said, she said, he stated emphatically that there were phone card phone records of hundreds of hours of phone calls made to Norway by Linda, records of phone calls made prior to March 9, 2004, records he had personally seen. He promised me that if I came to 3ABN I could see them, and told me that wasn't his decision. Thus, it must have been the decision of the board or of management.

On September 8, October 2, 3, 10, 16, and 17 I emailed him concerning taking him up on his offer on my way back from my brother's wedding on October 23. The only reply I ever got from him was after my email of October 2 in which he briefly stated that I would have to contact Mollie who would decide whether the trip would take place. I accordingly wrote her on October 3, 10, 16, and 17, and finally got a reply from her after my email of the 16th stating that John's promise would not be kept after all.

I mention all these dates for a reason. On the first five dates on which I wrote John, I also asked him a super simple question: Were those hundreds of hours of phone calls actual time spent on the phone, or were they billed units. With phone cards it might cost quite a few minutes for every minute on the phone to Norway. I also asked Mollie this question on the 17th, and I asked them both if John had made a mistake when he made his promise, or, if not, why the sudden change in policy. It has been now more than a month since my last email to them, and I have heard nothing in reply to these questions.

I don't see how we can fault anyone if they think there is a cover-up going on, given such experiences as I have had with John, Mollie, and Hal. I really doubt that I am the only one who has been treated this way. 3ABN's damage control as it currently operates causes more damage than it controls.

Just two more thoughts, and I'll close. It might be good for me to get your side of the story regarding , since it is a crucial bit of information in trying to sort through everything. It clearly is evidence of fraud on the part of Danny, and something needs to be said to counter that if there is anything that can be said.

As far as passing on your reply, I don't see how I cannot do that and still achieve the goal of getting down to the bottom of things and putting these rumors to rest. If I were to summarize your reply, I would in essence have to quote most of it anyway.

God bless.

Bob

A not from Bob:

To summarize:

Dr. Thompson earlier said that the allegations were 30 years old, that there were no physical actions, and that Tommy apologized to the children.

This contradicts the facts as stated in the May 2003 letter he received via certified mail on Church of God letterhead. That letter says that Tommy needed to apologize for child molestation, including to the congregation he pastored as late as around 1999.

I then asked Dr. Thompson what the source of his information was, and whether he contacted the alleged victims, their families, and the two associations that issued Tommy's ministerial credentials as he was invited to do. He replied above that he had not, and that he relied on Danny for the information that he gave me.

Thus we have Dr. Thompson's testimony that it was Danny that apparently misled him in 2003. (I say apparently because we have to leave open the slim possibility that all these folks in two different states are lying.) Now we must, to be fair, consider the possibility that Danny was himself misled by someone else. And since Dr. Thompson invited me to verify what he has written, I will endeavor to do that in the only way I know how.

We have one key question that needs answering. Who gave Dr. Thompson the name of the individual that he contacted since August? Did Danny or Tommy?

Any encouragement or sympathy you can give Dr. Thompson I would personally appreciate. Since it appears that he was misled, he in some sense becomes one of the victims too, just of a different sort.

Dear Bob,

Your e mails have revealed your true colors and have convinced me that you do not have the interest of 3abn at heart. I am requesting that you do not post my recent communications ANYWHERE. These have been sent to you as private correspondence and were not intended to be for the public use. I will not be responding further to your inquiries.

Walt? Why would you respond this way? What's wrong?

Specifically, in what way did I write anything that would give you the idea that I don't have the interest of 3ABN at heart?

Walt, I was gearing up to defend you and your decisions all I could, but how can I do that if you react in this way?

As far as not posting your communications, how can I not do that without perpetuating this horrendous he said, she said situation we presently have? It's this super secrecy policy that has created the crisis 3ABN now finds itself in. Only by humbly acknowledging wrong wherever wrong has been done, which as you know is our Christian duty and is a requirement for divine forgiveness wherever sin is involved, can confidence in 3ABN be restored.

You acknowledged that you made the mistake of not contacting the alleged victims, their families, and the associations when invited to do so in 2003. It takes a real man to do that. And people need to see that you aren't afraid to do that. And if anyone is inclined to be harsh toward you for that mistake, then I will do what I can to stop their unkind criticisms.

In what way is that not having 3ABN's interest at heart? What specifically in your communications are you ashamed for people to see?

CC: Walt Thompson, Elder Ken Denslow

Greetings, Danny.

My apologies for bothering you, but Dr. Thompson suggested that I verify what he told me, and based on his communications I don't know of any other way to approach this than to ask you five questions.

You may remember that after you contacted me last Thursday I asked you a few questions. In answer to those questions Walt wrote:

Originally Posted By: Walt Thompson

This information was superb, for it was just the kind that could be used to answer the critics, especially if it came from both sides: No new allegations of child molestation in the last 30 years, and Tommy apologized for some unspecified thing that didn't involve physical actions.

The difficulty, though, is that according to the 2003 letter that Walt received, Tommy has not yet apologized, and there are additional allegations from as recent as the late 1990's in Virginia. These two points are clearly indicated by the Action Items attached to that letter. The question then arose: Did Walt contact the alleged victims, their families, and the two ministerial licensing associations as invited to do so in that 2003 letter to get their side of the story? His reply was as follows:

Originally Posted By: Walt Thompson

I was chatting with a pastor's wife Sabbath before last about this, and she told me something I had never heard before, based on her experience as a social worker. While social workers may be able to get enough evidence of molestation to warrant removing a child, the burden of proof for that is different than for criminal convictions, and thus many cases that social workers act on never have charges filed in them. It was her recommendation that whenever background checks are in order, that social services be contacted as well as the court system, since they know more. Thus it is a fallacy to think that just because no case was filed that there are no grounds for further investigation.

At any rate, according to the above, Walt did not contact the alleged victims, their families, or the licensing associations as invited to do so, and instead got his information about no new allegations for 30 years and Tommy's apologies solely from you. The difficulty is that, besides this information contradicting the 2003 letter, it also appears to conflict with the testimony of the alleged victims and the other parties.

This whole situation puts Walt in an awkward light, for he has repeatedly been accused of only getting your side of the story rather than of fairly weighing both sides of a given issue. On the face of it, just looking at appearances, it appears that he was misled on this one.

I will quickly add that I am more than willing to entertain the possibility that you were misled as well by your sources regarding how recent the most recent allegations really were, and whether Tommy apologized. Thus,

Question 1: Can you give me any information that would help me out on this, such as the specific sources of the information you gave Walt in 2003, and ways that I can verify that information in order to establish that all these alleged victims, their families, and the two associations are incorrect?

It appears fair to say that there was a serious error of judgment here when these other parties were not contacted as suggested. Since the 2003 letter specifically asked Tommy to apologize for "deceit," for Walt to put so much weight on his and his brother's side of the story was unwise, if nothing else, for appearance's sake. Plus, it lends support to the idea that Walt has on other issues not fairly weighed both sides of an issue. But I do not wish to criticize him too much, for we all make mistakes, even when we are doing our very best. I certainly have.

And it also appears unwise on your part to not insist that Walt make a thorough investigation of the matter, especially since you might be accused of having a conflict of interest, since Tommy is your brother. But like I said, we all make mistakes, and we just need to be willing to learn from them. We should be as tolerant of the mistakes of others as we want them to be tolerant of our mistakes. And I mean that sincerely.

At any rate,

Question 2: Do you know who asked and authorized Mike Riva to threaten Pastor Dryden with legal action?

When I first heard of that, it just sounded so foreign to the types of things I've heard Conference officials say about how these kinds of things need to be handled in order to avoid possible liability.

Walt also wrote:

Question 3: Was a copy of the 2003 letter, along with the suggested "Action Items," given to each board member?

Finally, here is one more bit of information that Walt provided, dealing with the further investigation he conducted recently:

"Subsequently, after this issue has been brought back to the forefront (I think there is only one person who could have known about this and brought it to world-wide attention, and that person was then on the board and voted with the consensus) I contacted the only person from the Church of God that I could find that knew about the situation, and who had been present and witness to the events. (Except for pastor Dryden's personal accounts, there are apparently no other records of the allegations.) The picture that was painted by that leader of the Church was exactly as portrayed earlier by Danny. Dryden was jealous of Tommy and was out to get him - a jealousy that has continued to the present. I was again informed that the DA knew about the allegations and not finding a basis, refused to act against Tommy. I have been informed that the Church of God is a congregational type or organization with different jurisdictions in different states and that there was no higher authority that I could speak with to resolve the issue further. It was not entirely clear to me how that worked. I was also told that one leader pestered Tommy over and over again until Tommy voluntarily gave up his ministerial license."

My understanding is that a church became split over this issue because Tommy denied the allegations, some siding with Tommy and some siding with the alleged victims. If the individual referred to above was of the faction that sided with Tommy, I can understand why his or her account would differ so drastically from that of the alleged victims, their families, and the two licensing associations that Tommy is not in good standing with.

Yet on the other side of the question, Gailon, who had not talked with Pastor Dryden as of yesterday sometime, says that he had no problem finding alleged victims and others who also were witnesses to the events and who tell quite a different story. Thus one is left to wonder why Walt just happened to be only able to locate this one individual who tells such a different story. And that leads up to,

Question 4: Who gave Walt the name of this individual to contact, or how did he get their name, and how can I contact that individual to get their side of the story?

Certainly Tommy would have known who sided with him in the church split, and thus I want to make sure that the reason Walt could only locate this single individual was not because that was the only name that either Tommy or you provided to Walt. And/or, by getting his or her side of the story, it is always possible that I might be able to get information that could be used to vindicate Tommy, such as that he really did apologize.

But as far as proving that there haven't been any allegations for 30 years, I just don't know what I can do about that, given what the 2003 letter plainly states. I welcome your suggestions.

Lastly,

Question 5: What exactly did Tommy apologize for?

I'm guessing that one possible explanation for the discrepancy might be that Tommy did apologize for something, but not for what certain ones wanted him to, and thus it might be helpful to know what he felt he did do wrong that did need apologizing for.

As I told Walt, I have been very concerned that such serious allegations have been on the internet for so long in such a public way. And I am firmly convicted that such public allegations have to be dealt with in a public way. So do think through your responses and try to come across as courteous as possible, so that I can use them to do that without embarrassing anyone connected with 3ABN.

I think it is such a blessing that we can get this one behind us now, if it is possible to do so. You certainly don't need these kind of unresolved issues as the ASI panel process gets in motion.

God bless.

Bob

A few notes from Bob:

1. I only was doing what Walt suggested I do. He suggested that I verify his information. And since the sole sources of his information were Danny and some unnamed person, I had no choice but to write Danny if I was going to do what he said to do.

This is a smoking gun. We have Walt essentially saying in writing that Danny misled him regarding a super serious issue. He said that Danny told him that the allegations were 30 years old when in fact the 2003 letter from a Church of God church to Walt in May 2003 indicated that the allegations at that time were as recent as 1999.

It's black and white, cut and dried, as far as I can tell.

Listen: If they had only been up front on this and many other issues instead of stonewalling, evading, digging up dirt, and attacking others, none of this would see the light of day. Resolution and reconciliation could all be done in private. And that would be ideal.

2. Danny has clearly indicated that he doesn't want ASI to look at everything, just his and Linda's situation. And he has stated in an email that that is the only issue anyone cares about.

This is one of his damage control tactics: Divert the attention to just Linda.

When I gave Danny plenty of opportunities to clearly assure me that ASI would be dealing with the Tommy Shelton case, he refused to do so. So we are left to speculate whether or not the 3ABN board will buck Danny and agree to let ASI look into everything.

As far as Dr. Thompson goes, you will note that I have given him the benefit of the doubt, and clearly I have done so. The problem we face is that others have accused him of lying. So how do we vindicate Dr. Thompson of these accusations?

The only way I know is to have asked him the questions I did, and now to ask Danny the questions that I did. The only way to clear Dr. Thompson is to conclusively show that someone else lied to him, intentionally or unintentionally, and thus that he didn't know that the information he was conveying was false.

If we can prove that he didn't know, that still doesn't excuse his gross error in not contacting the alleged victims of child molestation, their families, and the two licensing associations when invited to do so. But like I've said before, let's not be too hard on him. He made a serious, serious mistake, but we all have made mistakes. Let's just learn from them, acknowledge them, and move on.

Unfortunately, if the information Gailon has conveyed to me is correct, the situation is not as simple as I have stated it.

3. One more thing. As Gailon pointed out in the emails I posted earlier, ASI really has no authority to order Danny not to write.

ASI is supposed to be an impartial entity in order to hear this case. If they are acting as Danny's attorney, giving him counsel as to whether or not he should respond to questions, and if Danny is directing all questions to ASI, then ASI is no longer impartial and cannot hear the case.

They could then appropriately serve as counsel for the defense in a hearing arranged by some other entity.

End of Section 4.

Understood (though it wasn't neglect on my part but a decision). However, there seems to be a double standard as it is obvious that Dr. Thompson made it unquestionably clear that he was communicating with Bob  in a personal and private manner. He was more than generous in his communcations with Bob  and yet there seems to be a lack of respect or integrity there in what was done with those personal correspondences. At the very least it adds to the seemingly disingenuous nature of Bob  correspondence with Dr. Thompson. Gregory Matthews made it clear a week or so ago that the "Linda Camp" was going to be transparent in their public communcations - which is why he dealt quickly and effectively with the issues surrounding Galion A. Joy. How is this any different?

On a related note, http://www.blacksda.com/forums/index.php?s=&showtopic=11132&view=findpost&p=155131 was "outed" at a point a few months ago (to much anger and hand-wringging) and it wasn't edited out. Also, there is no indication that Bob  asked that his name not be posted. "Sister" merely states that she decided to leave it out - not at his request or requirement.

Fallible Human Being,

Rather than trying to side track the issue in an attempt to out the identity of Bob, why not discuss the main content of the emails? What comments do you have to make in regard to the issues involving Tommy Shelton? It is difficult for me to believe that your primary concern, after reading all the emails, is to know the family name of the individual involved in the correspondance...

I have had contact with Bob after posting his emails and he does prefer to protect his identity by not having his last name posted on an open internet forum.

Sister,

I will respond to your questions, as you are right the discussion should be about the main point, but they will take a little longer. I addressed what I saw as an immediate issue/concern that arose on the initial reading of the emails. I was not fishing for Bob  last name by throwing out what I thought it might be, but rather indicating that I was sure of who the author of the emails was as his name is readily available over on Maritime. It would seem that if Bob  would like his name kept from the open discussion taking place here then he should have honored Dr. Thompson's explicit request to not make private communications public. The same request did not occur in his exchanges with Danny Shelton.

My point was to preface things with the comment that there seems to be a bit of disingenuousness in publishing publicly what has been requested to remain private, while asking that your own name not be used. He is requesting chapter and verse in his requests of Dr. Thompson and Danny Shelton including names and dates. He hasn't recieved what he asked for, though the early exchanges between Dr. Thompson and himself did show that Dr. Thompson was willing to engage in a dialogue, so he went public with them in hopes that this would force someones hand into giving him what he wanted.

That being said I will engage in a discussion of the main concern presented in the email exchanges.

While I could see Dr. Thompson stating that he had been surprised when emails he thought were private showed up on forums, I also saw Bob lay out quite clearly that he planned on making them public. He also was quite clear in stating the reason he was going to make them public.

I have to say that the questions Bob has asked of both Danny and Dr. Thompson are ones that I would have liked to have asked them myself. I am hoping that full answers will be forthcoming.

I am also very glad that this issue is finally being discussed.

Morning PB,

In the sequence of communication presented (and I don't know if there was more than this) Dr. Thompson mentions twice his desire for the communications to remain private between Bob * and himself. It is only after his explicit request in the undated email (posted in the third section of the exchanges) that Mr.  indicates he will be passing along the emails. This was followed with a second more pointed request by Dr. Thompson on 27 November 2006.

My contention is that if, from the beginning Bob * had intended to share these communications he should have made it perfectly clear. That would have not only been a courtesy, but, I feel, the ethical thing to do. I know that I consider my emails to be part of an ongoing private conversation between myself and the recipient. I would need to indicate the acceptability of sharing or making public such communications before they would do either. I also would never share an email unless I first made a request to the sender to do so and recieved an "okay", or if they indicated from the beginning they did not care that it was shared.

I fear that the act of "forwarding" massive amounts of cute, interesting, or bizarre emails has created an atmosphere where many people consider email correspondence to carry with it no privacy expectations. This is simply not the case in reality as communication of that sort is assumed private from the start - thus my feeling that the actions of Bob * display a lack of integrity at worst or at the least an extreme inconsideration on his part.

But, that is enough on that point, as I promised "sister" I will not "beat this horse till dead."

Fallible, you have not only beaten this horse until dead, you have also skinned it, butchered it, cured it, put it over some hot coals, applied sauce to the ribs and served it up warm. When do you plan on discussing the content of the emails: the charges against Tommy Shelton? In the post prior to the one, of which I have quoted your "promise" to me, you stated your intention to move on to content. Well, it is time to start cooking or get out of the kitchen, only the French could dine on this much horse meat, otherwise people may begin to wonder if you are side-stepping the issues.

Yikes! Both of you guys seem to be going a little extreme here IMO.

Sister, perhaps you need to go grab some lunch or something. I know just reading your above quote made me hungry.

FHB, can we get past that Bob didn't have his surname revealed? I really want to see your thoughts on what I think is one of the most important subjects in this whole situation.

I think the problem is PB, that besides trying to reationlize or at least minimize Danny's actions (when he does address the issue(s), that is), FHB has been on a constant mission to ascertain the identities of Sister(to the point of actually calling her Linda, remember?) and others.....without revealing his own, of course. That is what she means about him beating a dead horse.

PB,

Yes, you will. When doing research and evaluating information in the process of forming an opinion one needs to use a heuristic. I ask a series of questions and seek the answers before analyzing the content.

1. Who is the author? (meaning what is their authority to write)
2. What is the author's purpose?
3. What is the author's motivation?
4. What is the author's proximity to the situation/event?
5. What is the background and setting of the author's writing and publishing?

This is where I run into trouble here. I will not simply accept whatever is published here as reliable or believable just because it is published here. So you see that my responses to the "meat" of the thread takes time. If the individuals providing information can not provide adequate answers to what I believe are essential questions for arriving at a reasonable understanding of the truth then I have to take that into consideration. Asking, "Who said it?", while not welcomed here, is none-the-less an essential question. I contend, PB, that because I have a slightly contrarian view to the majority here, I must work twice as hard to make even the smallest point. I am dismissed out of hand because I don't agree.

There are two questions that need to be addressed in terms of the content of the emails in this thread. First, what was the nature of the situation in Virginia? If it is identical to one from thirty years ago, then you must consider differently the employability of Mr. Shelton. If the situation is based on an entierly different set of concerns (and by that I mean not of the nature of the early accusations) then you can not connect the two.

While Mr. * continues to dog Dr. Thompson, there certainly are avenues he could have persued to discover some significant information. For instance:

1. Why did the DA determine there was no case to be pursued?
2. To what degree was the entire first situation exacerbated by the jealousy between the two men?

If, Mr. * wanted to access the public record to see why the DA refused to pursue the situation he needs no permission to do so, only to find out how to legally access the information. Additionally, as to the jealousy issue, he could easily contact members or former members of the congregation and build a picture for himself.

When I first heard of the conflict surrounding 3ABN, I went to as many first person (primary) sources as I could discover and sought to understand what there was to know. Initially, I was able to gain access to individuals on 3ABN's side of the situation. That is were my initial information came from. I was under the impression this (BSDA) was a dialogue about the subject so I came here as it was indicated this would be the other side of the story. I did not run into the same resistance on that side of the situation as I have on this side. Questions were welcomed, as were challenges to the information being presented.

My initial gut reaction to the question of Mr. T. Shelton is this; If his thirty-year-old situation was dealt with (and here I don't think any of us can set the expectation for what that means), and questions satisfied for entities that could have stepped in and mitigated the situation, and no further concerning occurances have taken place then I think this is all a red-herring used to try and cast a cloud over 3ABN that is unfair and unChristian.

However, if there is verifiable evidence (and Dr. Thompson, nor Danny need give Mr. * this information since he can go out and gleen it himself) that another identical situation occured more recently, then I would agree that a concern need be raised in regards the employability of Mr. T. Shelton.

There is an additional problem here. Those seeking information (read evidence) on Linda's side of the situation automatically dismiss out of hand anyone who does not give them the answer they want to have (meaning an answer that fits their defense). I find it excedingly difficult to believe that every member of administration at 3ABN and every board memeber have, from the start, uttered nothing but untruths. This isn't even reasonable to consider. So, I choose to believe that they DID spend much time in prayer and discussion of this issue. The exchanges above are also going to be less filled with detail as they are email correspondences which tend to be shorter than a "sit-down conversation."

The flow of the email exchange between Mr. * and Dr. Thompson strikes me as more of an attempt to talk in circles in an effort to "catch" Dr. Thompson in a lie than it is to be a facilitator in resolution.

It kind of puts us in a pickle, so to speak, between a side issue and the main issue.

I would like to ask that the moderator remove these letters from Mr. *. Dr. Thompson specifically asked that they not be published in a public setting. To go against this is rude, unethical and unchristian.

it is a board run by Christian people.... the board itself is neutral...... you can submit your request to Calvin via PM as he is the owner... the question is to whom did Thompson make his request? As a rule we do not delete anything, we may however close threads that are deemed inappropriate...

There were already at Maritime, and then they came here. So they were already public when they got here. Plus I really don't think Dr. thompson is that upset. By now everyone knows where everyone else stands. If he truly didn't want his email piblic, he would have answered Bob at all. Pretty much nothing has been spared. Dr. Thompson is smart enough not to waste an opportunity to play the victim.

I agree. Dr. Thompson should not have answered Bob via email (my opinion). If I remember (correct me if I'm wrong), Bob told Dr. Thompson that he would share this information or he never promised not to share this information.

Request denied....and this should be no surprise to most of you. First, the Dr. did not make the request of me and even if he did, I have no obligation to honor such request. Second as Di stated, it was already published elsewhere, that puts it in play.

It is always easier to welcome questions from someone you plan to lie to from the beginning. On that same token, it is difficult to answer questions from someone that doesn't believe you from the beginning.

Let me spell it out a little more clearly...

First side of the token...3ABN planned to lie to anyone and everyone from the beginnning. If you know Dan at all then you know that he rambles on and on...and on when he lies. He has never had any problem talking or answering questions...

Other side of the token...you came to this board already believing what you believe and it has shown. So, yes, I'm sure it is difficult for you to get answers here or avoid "resistance."

Initially, I was able to gain access to individuals on 3ABN's side of the situation. That is were my initial information came from. I was under the impression this (BSDA) was a dialogue about the subject so I came here as it was indicated this would be the other side of the story. I did not run into the same resistance on that side of the situation as I have on this side. Questions were welcomed, as were challenges to the information being presented.

whateva....... some of the info here will be 1st hand, some 2nd hand or hearsay..... Linda is not here, so you won't read her side at all..... and even if you had "all the truth" what difference would it make to you? Would it enhance and enrich your spiritual life? Help you financially? When it is all said and done, what difference will it make for your quality of life?

Lastly, are you operating under the delusion that people "must" tell you "the truth" when you ask for it?

In the sequence of communication presented (and I don't know if there was more than this) Dr. Thompson mentions twice his desire for the communications to remain private between Bob * and himself. It is only after his explicit request in the undated email (posted in the third section of the exchanges posted by "sister") that Mr.  indicates he will be passing along the emails. This was followed with a second more pointed request by Dr. Thompson on 27 November 2006.

Fallible, Fallible, Fallible...

Bob posted someone's email that documents that a lie was told in order to cover the tracks of an alleged pedophile.

Let's get real. Posting an email that he said up front would be made public is worse than lying and pedophilia? How do you fit that into the commandments of God?

Isn't it time to stop playing games and get to the real issues?

And exactly where is the lie? Dr. Thompson makes the admission that there was a incident thrity years ago. He indicates that restitution was made, that the DA found no merit to execute a case, that a jealous contemporary worked hard to keep the issue on the front burner for personal gain.

Here is what I see happening based on the minimal information in your series of emails.

Mr. T. Shelton is accused of behaving inappropriately with a minor (I do not know to what extend the accusations go - simply that the basic idea is that).

There is investigation and the DA determines that based on the evidence there is no case to be pursued.

Mr. Shelton makes his apologies and what ever else is needed to make the situation right.

He is out of church leadership for awhile and eventually enters it again in Virginia.

The jealous contemporary discovers this and attempts to dredge up the old accusations in hopes that it will lead to creating an aura of ill repute around Mr. Shelton and there by disrupt his life.

The church where he is working must address the issue (as one would hope they would).

The church experiences a split over this highly emotionally charged issue.

In an effort to not cause any more disruption in the church, Mr. Shelton leaves.

In other words there wasn't a secondary incident. This would be a fact readily discovered by contacting the church in VA, a task Mr. * could do for himself.

So then, we are back to a situation where an individual made an egregious error thirty years ago, repented, offered apology, and never again made that mistake. Yet, continues to pay for his mistake by having his life played out in public over and over.

I am not sure at what point I made any comparison of the wrong doings of either act. I wouldn't portend to put myself in a position to do so. I do unequivocablly agree that child abuse (of ANY kind) is immoral. Does the negate the fact that I think Mr. * acted unethically and disingenuously - absolutely not.

If the individuals providing information can not provide adequate answers to what I believe are essential questions for arriving at a reasonable understanding of the truth then I have to take that into consideration. Asking, "Who said it?", while not welcomed here, is none-the-less an essential question. I contend, PB, that because I have a slightly contrarian view to the majority here, I must work twice as hard to make even the smallest point. I am dismissed out of hand because I don't agree.

Sometimes we must indeed work backward to arrive at the truth of the matter. We also must be open-minded enough to not structure our methods to exclude the contrarian views of others. We all end up losing with that approach.

I certainly can't speak to this because this dialogue between Dr. Thompson and Mr. Bob is the first place I have heard of any feud between factions. In the limited amount of investigation I have personally done to glean further information I have met with some resistance because I am not in a position of leadership.

If there is verifiable evidence that other identical situation(s) occured more recently than "thirty years ago" I believe that more than "concern need be raised in regards the employability of Mr. T. Shelton". I believe concern needs to be raised about the integrity of the board and ruling parties of 3abn for if what Dr. Thompson asserts is untrue it is an unsavory cover-up at best and a crime against young people at the worst. Of course, as you might have guessed, I am quite passionate in my opinions of the abuse of the young or vulnerable by men in positions of power.

Those seeking information (read evidence) on Linda's side of the situation automatically dismiss out of hand anyone who does not give them the answer they want to have (meaning an answer that fits their defense). I find it excedingly difficult to believe that every member of administration at 3ABN and every board memeber have, from the start, uttered nothing but untruths. This isn't even reasonable to consider. So, I choose to believe that they DID spend much time in prayer and discussion of this issue. The exchanges above are also going to be less filled with detail as they are email correspondences which tend to be shorter than a "sit-down conversation."

From my read I have to disagree on this point. I believed Mr. Bob truly was trying to find a resolution but then saw claims that didn't match the evidence that he had gleaned elsewhere. In trying to get clarification he has opened an important dialogue that, when all of the loose/incongruous ends are tied up should help the truth - whatever that ends up to be - become clear.
PB

I just want to add that, as egregious a crime as molestation is, everyone has the opportunity to repent and find forgiveness from God. I also believe that there are Biblical standards of restitution that must be made in situations of molestation before one can truly be forgiven by God. I'm not necessarily talking monetary, just making it right with one's victims. If this isn't done, can there be true repentance?

Thank you for these points! I consider these things also. Maybe you can help me as I consider your posts.

1. Just who are you? (Meaning, by what authority do you write?)
2. What is your purpose when posting?
3. What is the motivation for your posts?
4. What is your proximity to the situation/event?
5. What is your background and the setting of your writings and publishing of your posts?

As you can see, this railroad runs both ways. This is the problem I have when I read your posts. I can only assume you have zero authority and you have only the purpose of damage control for Danny and Tommy Shelton.

Your motivation must be money. Danny has lots of that.

Your proximity must be smack dab right at the heart of 3ABN in my opinion.

Well, let me see, maybe you are a lawyer and you have had much practice in intimidation.

How is that for surmising?

If Tommy "COULD" be a pedophile, he should be put on administrative leave until the investigation is complete. PERIOD! This is not a subject to sweep under your damage control rug.

It is time to get real and step up to the plate so to speak. If my opinion makes me un-Christ like in your eyes, so be it. It is my opinion that the outside world needs to see all this mess. I am willing to say I am sorry if my opinions are wrong. Is Danny? Are you?

Lee.... you are the one who "does not make any sense". You have not been on here very long, but you have been here long enough to have read more than what it appears that you have read. I would suggest that you read a lot further back than merely those things that have been posted since you joined us. Especially it would be helpful if you were to read everything that Sister has posted AND everything that FHB has posted.

FHB makes himself "fair game for attack" because of the fact that he consistently goes into attack mode whenever something significant is posted on BSDA. He does NOT address the specific information that is being shared... but he instead attacks those who share the information. Those who have information to share.... whether on one side or the other, are treated respectfully and their viewpoints taken into consideration. Those who do nothing but attack the "messenger" will indeed find themselves the object of attack.

And I might add.... which of this kind are you. I just now went to your profile and read everything you have posted since you joined. It all suggests that you have not really come here for information .... or you would not be demonstrating such a lack of knowledge of what has been previously posted here as what you have and do.

Frankly, we consider these types of attacking the messenger rather than joining in the search for truth as diversionary rather than helpful. When one comes on and supports those who are the most diversionary rather than those who bring the most information.....

Well...... guess who gets classified with whom. ..... Yeah.... I'm sure you can figure that out.....

WB,

In the course, thus far, of this thread I think I am yet the only one to respond to the issues of "sister's" original series of posts beginning this thread. To claim I have never engaged in a discussion about "the topic" is simply disingenuous. Just prior to Thanksgiving I provided my thoughts on the tax property case that 3ABN has appealed, check it out at the end of the "Investigator of 3ABN" thread. There is simply no truth in your claim that I have -never- addressed specific information. As proof, read a few posts above where I talk about the specific point of the email exchange between Mr. *, Mr. D. Shelton, and Dr. Thompson.

As far as attacking the messenger, well, I don't see how scrutinizing the messenger should be considered an "attack." Do you really want everyone to come here and read your material and not be discerning? If so than only the naive will accept without questioning. The messenger should always be able to withstand scrutiny - otherwise it calls into question their information (old Bill said it this way, "me thinks thou doest protest too much.")

What it seems you would like is for no one to ever question the information that you, "sister", and others from Linda's camp provide here. If what you have said is the unadulterated truth then you should welcome the inspection and let others present alternative ideas and possibilities. If your truth is solid it will withstand the reasoned exploration.

I mentioned back when I first arrived that if in the end I find I am wrong, I will not fight that reality and will admit such.

The following post has been copied over from Maritime:

Two comments:

1) In my opinion, 3-ABN has potentially placed itself at grave financial risk in regard to a Shelton possibly molesting children, and whatever the other ramifications of this are.

It is clear to me that the explanations that Dr. T. has given are not satisfactory for the legal climate in which we live today. I can assure you that if any future charges came up, lawyers would make mincemeat of the defense that Dr. T. has posted.

2) Based upon the present relationship that 3-ABN has with the IL Conference, and the people who sit on the Boards of the Conference and on 3-ABN, this situation may potentially place the IL Conference at risk. In the case of a future problem, any good attorney would clearly attempt to entangle the IL Conference in liability on the basis that these charges have been currently brought to the attention of IL Conference officials and those officials, as (a) member of the 3-ABN Board failed to take effective action to re-visit them and to take steps to protect children.

3) This potential liability is enhanced due to any Conference sponsored school that is now or may later be associated with 3-ABN, should such be involved in any future problem.

E.G. I am acquainted with a case where a part-time teacher at a SDA School recruited victims of sexual molestation from that school.

4) On another point:

I have personally been involved with posting material that Dr. T. sent me. When I requested information from him, I clearly stated that I would post any answer that he made to me, or his lack of answer. I advised him not to respond if he did not want hes answer posted. But, if he did that, I would post that he had failed to respond to me.

Dr. T. responded, gave me permission to post, and then went on to say that he was telling me nothing that he had not already stated to others.

After I posted his response, exactly as he gave it to me, Dr. T. had a change of heart, and stated that he was disappointed that I had posted it without his permission.

When I sent him a copy of his written permission, he replied that he had forgotten that he had given me permission.

Based upon the above, in my experience with Dr. T. he does not always remember what he has said in regard to permission to post. This may lead to misunderstandings. All of us may do that at times. He may change his mind, which we also do. But, I believe that Bob was clear in his intent to post Dr. T's response. From his experience with me, Dr. T. should have learned that if he does not want something posted, he should not write it, and send it to us.

I am not making the accusation. Mr. * is and via "sister" is making his personal research public. This requires that it be evaluated. The mere fact that I say, "I am not sure that I buy that." makes me damage control? I have a job and children to raise, can't add damage control for 3ABN to my schedule.

Raising children and just trying to pay the cost of fuel these days, sure money could be a motivation. However, since no one at 3ABN knows where I live it would be tough to get me a payment. So Fran, have you checked to fully understand the original accusation? Have you checked to see if the second "instance" that Mr.  insinuates in the emails at the start of this thread is just a rehashing of the originial complaint or a new one?

And on last wondering outloud, if there was a incident thirty years ago, and nothing since should Mr. T. Shelton be banned from doing the Lord's work? How long does it take for forgiveness and a changed heart to occur? 20 years? 25? 30? 50?

To set the record straight, I wrote the piece posted in MSDAOL that sister has copied here.

To respond to the item that I have quoted above: Forgiveness is not the issue. Legal liability and the protection of children is the issue. Yes, anyone involved in child molestation, as an adult, should be banned from working with children forever. That person may be able to "do the Lord's work," but I will suggest that the Lord will call that person to work somewhere that does not involve children.

NOTE: I am not making any specific charge as to what Shelton may or may not have done.

In any case, 3-ABN, and potentially the IL Conference, is subjecting themselves to grave legal liability by not putting Shelton on administrative leave, investigating it throughly, and regardless of the determination of the facts, probably relieve him of all contact with children.

Those who advise our denominational institutions are telling us that we cannot afford to ignore such charges because there was not legal trial and conviction. They are telling us that in many cases the allegation is enough to forever remove the accused from all contact with children.

As I said in the quote that Sister copied from MSDAOL, in my opinion, both 3-ABN and the IL Conference has placed themselves in grave legal liability should any future incident arise.

Dear Pastor Dryden,
Since you are one who holds the information that could set much of the record straight on this matter, are you willing to state for us answers to any of the following questions:
1. How many children were alleged to be victims of Mr. T. Shelton?
2. IN what decade(s) did these incidents take place.
3. Has any district attorney considered filing charges in these matters?
4. Has any district attorney determined that charges are not appropriate in these matters?
5. Has Mr. T. Shelton asked for forgiveness from any of the alleged victims or made any apologies?
6. Has Mr. T. Shelton offered to reimburse or pay for counseling for any of his alleged victims?
7. Dr. Thompson has characterized the one incident from 30 years ago as one that did not involve touching. Is this an acurate characterization?
8. Is there a long-running feud between you and another of your church members that is behind the allegations of molestation, as Dr. Thompson suggests?

Any and all information you are willing to share with us will be appreciated.

The following is posted on Maritime. This email was sent to the receiver in August 2006. The original document that was attached was sent to Walt Thompson, Chairman of the Board of 3ABN in May 2003. At this time permission was given for the document to be posted publically. Sister

Following is the text of my letter on Ezra Church of God letterhead to Dr. Thompson as well as "Action Items" suggested for Tommy Shelton by the congregation I formerly served. These were sent to Dr. Thompson by certified mail and I suppose it was his wife who signed for the letter on May 16, 2003.

Pastor Glenn Dryden

May 14, 2003

Dr. Walter Thompson

*** ***, *** *****

Dear Dr. Thompson:

Greetings in the holy name of our Lord Jesus!

It is my understanding that you serve as chairman of the board of directors of Three Angels Broadcasting Network. From 3ABN's web site it appears an invitation to minister has been extended to this congregation's former pastor, Tommy Ray Shelton.

Constrained by an ethical, if not legal, obligation, I am compelled to advise you that Tommy Ray Shelton is not in good standing with either of the two associations by which he was first presented with ministerial credentials. At least six boys in our community were sexually abused by Tommy Ray Shelton during the periods he served as pastor of this congregation.

Some of these young men and some parents are willing to corroborate the information I am giving you, if necessary. Please contact me for their phone numbers that I may alert them to a pending call. I also will put you in touch with the two associations referenced above.

Either I or members of this congregation's leadership will answer any questions you may have regarding this correspondence.

In our Lord's service,

Pastor Glenn Dryden

ACTION ITEMS SUGGESTED FOR TOMMY SHELTON

Expediency recommended :
Senate Bill 1035 extending statute of limitations goes into effect as soon as signed by Governor Blagojevich. This could be within the next thirty days.
Note http://www.legis.state.il.us

Tommy should retain an attorney to represent him as well as to serve him in contacting victims and their families, all at Tommy's expense.

A full disclosure of all victims and details should be made to the Franklin County Sheriff's Office (Investigator Kevin Skurat, 618-435-8187). This disclosure should include pertinent incidences in other states as well as in other jurisdictions in Illinois in addition to Franklin County.

Tommy should cooperate in the placement of his name and pertinent information on appropriate sex offenders lists, as the law may require in the state of his residence or in Illinois.

Tommy should agree to reimburse any of the victims or their family members for the expenses of counseling they have received. He should further agree to pay for any future counseling required by any of the victims or their family members. Contact should be made by his attorney with the victims through their parents if necessary. Pastor Glenn Dryden of the Ezra Church of God (--*) should be consulted as to the victims of whom he is aware and as to which of these may be contacted directly. Other victims may wish to maintain anonymity. Apart from necessary contact by law enforcement personnel, their wishes should be respected.

Tommy should issue written apologies over his signature to all victims and to their parents. Again, contact with victims should be made through their parents if necessary.

Tommy also should issue written apologies over his signature for his deceit, as well as inappropriate behavior, etc., to the congregation of the Ezra Church of God, West Frankfort, Illinois, the congregation of the Community Church of God, Dunn Loring, Virginia, the state office of the General Assembly Of The Church Of God In Illinois and to the Ministerial Council of the Church of God headquartered in Virginia.

Please note that in the absence of an arrest and court trial, these are ALLEGED reports of molestation.......

If there was a conviction please share, otherwise let's call it what it is...... an allegation of abuse.....

Posted by: Observer Dec 3 2006, 12:50 PM

Exactly, these are allegations of abuse.

It should be noted that people who work in this area do not require a legal conviction to move them from allegations to confirmed abuse. One event that would do such would be a confession.

In addition, the legal experts who advice SDA agencies as to how to relate to people with such allegations, advise them that steps must be taken to protect children when there is no legal trial and conviction.

Therefore, in the legal climate in which we live today, I will say that both 3-ABN may assume some legal liability, even without a trail and conviction, if they do not follow accepted standards to protect children.

I do not pass judgment on the individual involved in these allegations. However, I am deeply concerned regarding legal liability for both 3-ABN and the IL Conference.

Pastor Dryden has offered to supply contact names of people who he says can verify the facts.

As a minimum, due to the potential liability of the IL Conference, denominational officials must convene a committee that will obtain those contact names, and that committee must interview those people. That is a minimum first start. Follow-up will come after such.

Denominational authorities have done this in the past. I am personally acquainted with one Conference that paid the travel expenses for an accuser and a support person for her, to travel to the Conference and be interviewed by such a committee.

In that case, the Conference acted on the matter that satisfied the accuser.

Thank you so much for your encouragement, Pastor Dryden.

...

Many Adventists will feel skittish about meeting this thing head on, because they fear that the cause of God will have reproach brought upon it, and thus there might be a negative effect upon evangelistic efforts. Of course, I share that concern, and thus I want to deal with this very carefully. It is a delicate balance. I covet your prayers for the wisdom of God in the days ahead. I know you must have wrestled with these very same thoughts, since it certainly was not good PR for your faith.

Having said that, ... I wonder if you would allow me the privilege of quoting what you wrote below, attributing it to either yourself explicitly, or perhaps better yet to simply a pastor of another faith. For our people to read such encouraging words from a pastor of another faith would help calm their fears.

...

Thanks so much for your prayers, and we will pray for you as you work further with the situation there.

Bob

A Note from Bob:

I will also add that Pastor Dryden has an interest in Tommy's well being. He encourages all of us to pray for him, especially that he act appropriately at this time.

Statement of Pastor Glenn Dryden

Three instances of misconduct on the part of Tommy Shelton while he served as pastor at the Community Church of God, Dunn Loring, Virginia, have been reported to me in the brief time I have served as pastor of this congregation.

The most egregious of these instances involved a male who was a minor at the time.

Note: Pastor Dryden has served from Dec. 2, 2005 to present as Senior Pastor of the Community Church of God, Dunn Loring, VA

The following email will give you a brief chronology of Pastor Dryden's duties and where he was serving as a pastor. Please note that he and Tommy Shelton both served as Pastors of the Community Church of GOd , Dunn Loring, VA and the Ezra Church of God, West Frankfort ,IL; but at different times.

1974 - first associated with Community Church of God, Dunn Loring, VA, while serving in the U.S. Army, Military District of Washington

1983-1993 - Assistant Pastor of the Community Church of God (bivocational - employed in the field of court administration, Fairfax County, Virginia, Circuit Court)

1993 - 2005 briefly associate pastor to Pastor Arnold Edmondson and then pastor of the Ezra Church of God, West Frankfort, IL

Dec. 2, 2005 to present - Senior Pastor of the Community Church of God, Dunn Loring, VA

I was here in Virginia when I first met Tommy in the early or mid-1980s. Ministerial relationship (most of the time from a distance) from that time until approximately late 2000.

Hope this helps.

Pastor Dryden,

I could use some clarification on these points:

1. What year did you first hear of any allegations of this nature regarding Tommy Shelton? After moving to Illinois or exactly (or about) when before?
2. When did you first hear of allegations of this nature arising from Tommy's time in Virginia? I presume prior to your 2003 letter? And can you specify, in a vague way if need be, how you heard about them while still living in Illinois?

I tried several times last night to get a hold of Roger and could not do so. You might want to give him a quick call .... I did leave a message Saturday night, and he hasn't returned my call at this point.

Thanks so much.

From: Glenn Dryden

Tommy vaguely alluded to the allegations in Illinois at times in his preaching when invited by our founding pastors to minister at the Community Church of God in the late 1980s. He did so by speaking not of the allegations but of the "persecution" he and his family suffered as a consequence. He was successful in drawing sympathy thereby as he spoke of hardship suffered by he and his family. Also in the late 1980s there was mention of "allegations" at the time of his receiving ministerial credentials from the Ministerial Council of the Church of God, Inc., but assurance was given by Council leadership that there was no substance to these allegations. No indication of their nature was given either - not to me at any rate. In the summer of 1993 as my wife and two teenage sons and I were preparing to relocate from Northern Virginia to West Frankfort, Illinois, Tommy Shelton again was visiting in Virginia and asked to meet with my wife and I. During this meeting he alerted us that we may "hear some things" when we got to Illinois. He also informed us at this meeting that he had been caught in a lie during his pastorate at the Ezra Church of God, intimated extenuating circumstances and said he had sought and received forgiveness. Indeed we did hear some things after arriving in West Frankfort, Illinois, in mid-1993, including the circumstances surrounding the lie (He was found alone with a young man in a home to which he had access and when challenged said the young man [who was out of view] was his son when in fact he was not. The individual who came upon him confirmed this by immediately driving to the church school Tommy's son attended and finding his son there.). It was not until another victim's mother spoke with me in early 1996 that I fully realized that not only was sexual abuse of adolescent boys the nature of the allegations but that there was substance to these allegations as well.

It was not until after Tommy Shelton left the pastorate here at the Community Church of God, Dunn Loring, Virginia, in 2000, that while vacationing my wife and I were spending some time with a former "confidant" of Tommy's in the congregation in Virginia and this individual informed us of misconduct on Tommy's part while serving at the Community Church of God. This alleged misconduct was believable but unsubstantiated and is unrelated to the three instances which have been brought to my attention in the past year.

Pastor Glenn Dryden

Note from Bob:

1. Dryden claims that Tommy claimed that he was being persecuted. This is exactly what Danny claimed was happening to him on the August 10, 2006, 3ABN Live broadcast. I find that troubling.

2. Roger Clem informed me of the very same allegation before I had a chance to read this email, namely, that a lady caught Tommy with some boy in a house other than Tommy's, that Tommy claimed it was his son, and that the woman then drove to the school and saw Tommy's son at the school.

The additional detail Clem added to the story is that the woman then returned to the house and saw a red-faced boy leaving the house, trying to cover his face.

Roger Clem gave me permission to use his name.

Dear Bob,

I am sure we share similar emotions regarding this matter. Perhaps an argument may be made for the criticism you have received regarding the e-mail postings, but I should tell you that they have served to make me comfortable communicating with both you and Mr. Joy and if they serve to put pressure on Danny and Tommy, you may carry the criticism as a badge of commendation.

You should know that I have FAXed to Mr. Joy a copy of Mr. Riva's letter to me dated June 13, 2003, along with excerpts from my reply to Mr. Riva.

As to the skittishness we all suffer, I find a remedy in a Biblical principle. That principle perhaps may be best expressed "The truth shall set you free!"

Too many for too long in too many venues have feared reproach and negative effects. The number of victims has increased as a consequence. Though a foul path, we should shod our feet appropriately and march forward and attack the issue head-on! Ultimately, less will be lost by a full disclosure and honesty than by cover-up and deceit. Not the path of least resistance, but does not this path seem more like the one Jesus would take?

You may make public my 2003 letter to Dr. Thompson and action items (which were compiled by the congregation of the Ezra Church of God) and may note that the action items were also sent to Mike Riva, Tommy's attorney, with my reply to his letter of June 13, 2003. You may note that I gave you my permission to do so.

In early 2003 Roger Clem first confided to me his victimization by Tommy Shelton. It was within a week or less that Tommy called me. Please give Roger the courtesy of a call and do not make public his name unless he gives you permission. If necessary, call me and I will call Roger ahead of you that he might feel comfortable speaking openly with you.

This is a divisive issue here and our Board of Trustees and I welcome your prayers in advance of our meeting tomorrow afternoon.

This is the letter that Pastor Dryden refers to in his last posted email as having received from D. Michael Riva, Tommy Shelton's Attorney. It is interesting to note that Mr. Riva that the same D. Michael Riva listed as appearing for 3ABN in the Illinois Tax case.

Pastor Dryden recently faxed this letter to Gailon A. Joy with the following cover page:

Fax from Pastor Glenn Dryden of the Church of God to G. Arthur Joy on December 2, 2006.

The following is from the cover sheet.

Bob

Mike Riva's letter to me dated June 13, 2003, follows. Below are the first three paragraphs and the closing paragraph of my reply dated June 20, 2003.

I received your letter dated June 13, 2003, upon my return last evening from a two week trip out of state. It is my prayer that you will assist Tommy Shelton in taking measures which will satisfy his victims, their families and the congregations involved and serve to bring some closure to him as well as them.

Your letter, particularly the next to last paragraph, serves better to incite rather than intimidate. Consider the scenario of three victims pressing charges in an environment of intense interest from news media with state-wide or national influence. Any State's Attorney anticipating re-election certainly would give serious attention to prosecution.

I urge you to counsel Tommy to take the initiative by making a full disclosure of all victims and details to the Franklin County Sheriff's Office and by pursuing the additional "Action Items" enclosed. Doing so would put him in a far better light and more advantageous position than would circumstances similar to the scenario contemplated above.

Finally, Mr. Riva, I am disappointed that you did not exercise due diligence to obtain the name and address of the chairman of our board of trustees or other board member. Sending a copy of your letter to one of our parishioners was entirely inappropriate.

Pastor Dryden
1345 Ezra Street
West Frankfort IL 62896

Dear Pastor Dryden:

Please be advised that I represent Tommy Ray Shelton and have been directed to contact you concerning actions you have taken against him which are slanderous and libelous and calculated to deprive him of his right to earn a living. We are aware that you have been talking to and sending letters to various individuals in which you state with certainty that he has committed certain felonious acts.

You are putting yourself and the Ezra Church of God in a position of legal jeopardy by your actions as you have used church letterhead in your attacks on my client.

Even if the actions occurred, there is no criminal jeopardy as the statute of limitations has long since passed. Senate Bill 1035 does not, nor could it constitutionally if it actually stated so, place a person in legal jeopardy after a statute of limitation had already run. The courts of Illinois have addressed this question. A few of those cases are: People of the State of Illinois v. Coleman, 1993 5th District, 245 Ill.App.3d 592, 615 N.E.2d 53, 185 Ill.Dec. 758; People v. Berg, 277 Ill.App.3d 549, 660 N.E.2d 1003, 214 Ill.Dec. 296; People v. Massarella, 80 Ill.App.3d 549, 660 N.E.2d 436, 36 Ill.Dec. 16.

These cases are enclosed for your review and to prove to you that no State's Attorney will charge my client with any criminal offense because the statute of limitations had already run and any new legislative bill cannot put him back in a position of criminal jeopardy.

I have discussed this legal point and cases with an attorney in the State of Illinois Appellate Prosecutor's office and an Illinois State's Attorney. There is no disagreement on this legal point.

Any action to encourage an individual to discuss any of the alleged acts with the State's Attorney's office will never result in a criminal prosecution for the alleged offense and will put the Ezra Church of God and yourself in further jeopardy.

You are best advised to cease all of your activity regarding Tommy Ray Shelton. To continue, will place your church, Ezra Church of God, and yourself in legal jeopardy for no good reason.

Very truly yours,

D.Michael Riva

DMR:pys

A note from Bob:

Three points may be considered:

1) He ended the letter with "Very truly yours," which sounds sort of friendly like.

2) The threat of legal action found in paragraphs 1, 2, 6, and 7 appear to my untrained, non-attorney brain to be based solely on:

Quote:
"Even if the actions occurred, there is no criminal jeopardy as the statute of limitations has long since passed."

Even if the actions occurred ...

Even if the actions occurred ...

Even if the actions occurred ...

Even if the actions occurred ...

I just question the wisdom of the attorney of the network that preaches the undiluted three angels' messages using this logic to threaten a non-Adventist minister with legal action in order to shut him up regarding his concerns over alleged child molestation.

3) I think a legitimate question is whether Mr. Riva performed his services for Tommy Shelton pro bono, or whether Tommy paid for them out of his own pocket, or whether Danny paid for them out of his own pocket, or whether 3ABN covered the cost.

It is possible that the statute of limitations has passed on the earliest allegation referenced by Mike Riva but are we certain that this is the case with any of the other allegations?

By current events do you mean allegations that occured since the forming of 3abn or do you mean events that are happening at this present time?

I believe that the posts that sister is providing are establishing a time line that is consistant with alleged events occuring during the period 3abn has been in operation. It is my understanding that this is the time frame we are to be working with on the 3abn forum, correct?

Allegations need to meet the following guidelines per the state of Illinois statutes.....

> QUOTE
> Illinois has a special statute of limitations for survivors of childhood sexual abuse. As amended in 2003, Illinois Statutes § 13--202.2(B) provides:
> An action for damages for personal injury based on childhood sexual abuse must be commenced within 10 years of the date the person abused discovers or through the use of reasonable diligence should discover that the act of childhood sexual abuse occurred and that the injury was caused by the childhood sexual abuse.
> The limitations period of section 13-202.2(B) does not begin to run until the alleged victim has attained the age of 18 years. The previous version of the statute has been applied to perpetrators and non-perpetrators. Hobert v. Covenant Children's Home, 309 Ill. App. 3d 640, 723 N.E.2d 384; 243 Ill. Dec. 352 (Ill. App. 3d 2000).
> The statute is a statutory codification of a judicially created common law rule. D.P. v. M.J.O., 266 Ill. App. 2d 1029, 1032 (1994). The common law discovery rule required both knowledge of the injury and of its wrongful cause before the statute of limitations began to run. Witherell v. Weimer, 85 Ill. 2d 146, 155-56 (1981). "Knowledge" means sufficient information to put the victim on notice and does not have to be actual or full knowledge.
> Several Illinois courts have held that the discovery rule applies to childhood sexual abuse cases where the plaintiff repressed her memory of the abuse. See, for example, Pedigo v. Pedigo, 292 Ill. App. 3d 831, 839 (1997); D.P. v. M.J.O., 266 Ill. App. 3d 1029, 1033-34 (1994); Phillips v. Johnson, 231 Ill. App. 3d 890, 893 (1992). While the Clay court recognized that the validity of repressed memories has been found to be "controversial and of suspect nature," Doe v. McKay, 286 Ill. App. 3d 1020, 1025 (1997); it nonetheless remanded the case for further proceedings, leaving it for the trial court to determine the legal and scientific sufficiency of the plaintiff's claims.
> Although by its language the statute appears to be a "realization" discovery type where the statute of limitation does not begin to accrue (run) until the victim realizes the connection between the abuse and the injury, the Illinois Supreme Court has not accepted a pure realization approach in the past. In a case where the victim was aware of the abuse but failed to make a connection between the abuse and her injuries and therefore failed to bring a timely action, the Supreme Court was unwilling to toll (extend) the statute of limitations. Clay v. Kuhl, 2000 Ill. LEXIS 6, *; 189 Ill. 2d 603;727 N.E.2d 217; 244 Ill. Dec. 91 (Ill. 2000). See also Benton v. Vonnahmen, 679 N.E.2d 1270 (Ill. App. [5 Dist.] 1997).
> In an eloquent decision, the Fifth District Appellate Court applied the doctrine of estoppel and legal disability to a childhood sexual abuse victim to extend the statute of limitations under a a compelling set of facts. Parks v. Kownacki, 305 Ill. App. 3d 449, 711 N.E.2d 1208; 238 Ill. Dec. 547 (Ill. App. 5th Dist. 1999)

My added thought is if the families are willing to cooperate in collaboration of their testimony here, why have they not pressed formal charges on behalf of their allegedly victimized children?

Posted by: sister Dec 5 2006, 09:13 AM

Internal evidence as well as Mr. Clem's recollection has this undated letter being written around the spring of 2004. Mr. Clem's mother was a staunch defender of Tommy, and it was only after she died in late 2001 that he felt he could come forward.

Tommy's ordination was revoked about 1985, but his defenders would not relent, and that portion of the congregation that sided with him left their denomination, the Church of God, Anderson, in consequence. Tommy remained their pastor until maybe 1990 or 1991, with a one-year absence to Kentucky, according to the recollections of several individuals.

Since Mr. Clem says that he was abused at the age of 16, he is placing the abuse around 1988, which would be after Tommy's ordination was revoked for similar allegations involving perhaps three alleged victims. In other words, according to Mr. Clem's account and chronology, it was because so many believed Tommy rather than the alleged victims and those who had caught him doing his misdeeds that Mr.Clem himself became an alleged victim.

Mr. Clem's testimony that Tommy Shelton's brother made threatening phone calls in order to hush things up is particularly disturbing.

Bob

Mr. Shelton,

I am writing this letter in regards to last year's phone conversation. I told you then I was confronting you about what you did to me so I could deal with my feelings about it. I did not then, nor will I now, make any apologies [to] anyone who might be upset with me. My attitude has changed towards this situation. I thought I could just handle this and go on with my life, but now I realize I cannot. You ruined the better part of 15 years of my life. I was afraid to date anyone, I let people walk all over me, and I felt lower than dirt. The years you destroyed should have been some of the best years of my life. While everyone was out doing what they enjoyed, I was constantly working to try to take my mind off what happened. You destroyed my self-esteem and that I'm still battling today. I have no confidence in myself to accomplish major tasks in life. It kind of makes me wonder about the other guys that you abused. All of the ones that I know about have had failed marriages. Doesn't it make YOU wonder what they are going through, or do you even care? You were supposed to be someone people could put their trust in and look up to, and here you were doing some of the most disgusting and immoral things you could do. While you were preaching to everyone how they should honor their marriage vows, you were cheating on your own wife, and with who, teenage boys. We had our whole lives ahead of us and you put us through hell on earth. I don't know how you could look yourself in the mirror, let alone get up and preach to people about how they ought to live. When someone would confront you about what you did, you would try to take the attention off of what you did by having some sort of health problem (loss of memory, heart problems, nervous breakdown). It seemed odd to me that you recovered quick when you realized that you were in the clear. You really disgust me. It makes me sick to realize how many lives you damaged and the only time that you feel the need to apologize is when it all comes back up again. Then you put on this POOR PITIFUL ME act (how you wish it didn't happen, the reason you do this is because you were abused as a child, you would take it all back if you could, and the all-time favorite, please don't put my family through this again). What about what you put all of us through? Then what makes me mad is when your brother calls to try to scare people into not saying anything or when the church receives a letter from Mike Riva telling us to stop saying anything. I heard (I don't know for sure) that the reason for the letter was to protect your livelihood. What about my livelihood? I feel like I don't have the confidence to achieve the things that I want to in life. I know this letter seems hateful, I Don't Care. I'm tired of not saying anything just so I won't upset people. Guess what, it gets better. I have been checking the laws on reporting sexual abuse. There was a new law passed that extends the age that you can report abuse to age 38, I'm 32. So here is what I'm going to do. I'm going to let you decide what you should do to make amends for what you did. I will tell you up front, if I get a letter or phone call from your brother or an attorney that in any way appears threatening, I will immediately go to the sheriff's office and file charges against you. This has gone on long enough with nothing being done. This is Not a threat. It all rests on you Tommy, let your conscience be your guide. I will not wait long before I will decide what action is best to resolve this.

Roger W. Clem

Did any of Tommy's alleged victim's parents come forward and press charges against Tommy? I know that according to the letter from R. Clem, his mother was a staunch supporter of Tommy. However, I do find it hard to understand that not one of these many boy's parents ever came forward and/or pressed charges--or did they and I'm missing something here?

> Did any of Tommy's alleged victim's parents come forward and press charges against Tommy? I know that according to the letter from R. Clem, his mother was a staunch supporter of Tommy. However, I do find it hard to understand that not one of these many boy's parents ever came forward and/or pressed charges--or did they and I'm missing something here?

I am hoping that Pastor Glenn Dryden can provide this information for us. Perhaps Bob or sister can ask him and fill us in if and when Clay reopens the thread.

My understanding is that there was a criminal investigation at some point prior to Tommy's departure to Dunn Loring, Virginia. So somewhere maybe between 1985 and 1995 these things were looked into, if I recall correctly what Pastor Dryden told me.

One trouble is that it is very embarassing for an alleged victim to come forward and admit that this kind of thing happened to them. And then to go further than that and press charges and testify, well, what do you expect? Would you have done differently in such a situation?

Why is the Catholic Church having so many cases resurrected after so long? Why did it take decades for some to approach the authorities? Why when it was brought to the attention of church authorities did the families consent to hush it up?

I can't relate to that kind of delay. But then, I was never vicitmized, so how can I judge.

And we must remember that when this initially came out, a sizable portion of the church sided with Tommy and in essence accused the kids of lying, even though on a number of occasions, I am told by Dryden and Clem, people caught Tommy doing what he shouldn't have been doing.

this thread has been reopened, and merged with the thread titled "Question." There are some valid points that should be made, and I hope that they will be made as opposed to wallowing in the specifics of the allegations.....in other words, someone give us the bigger picture and only detail if needed.....

Okay, Clay. Here it goes.

There have been been a lot of allegations made against Danny that are based on he said, she said, or the testimony of hostile witnesses, parties that are anything but neutral or positive toward Danny. And that makes what they say less credible.

Dr. Thompson, on the other hand, is very credible since he is on Danny's side. And we have him in writing that Danny misled him, intentionally or unintentionally. Hate to say it, but it is a possibility that we have caught Danny in an obvious lie, one that the average person can understand and feel repulsed about, and thus people that have a hard time believing that everything isn't right in Thompsonville are led to consider the possibility that that just might be the unfortunate case.

But in order for the argument to be convincing, the discrepancies between his account of things and reality must be adequately demonstrated, if they exist, as well as the claim that he pressured the alleged victims, their families, and their pastor into silence.

Here's where it gets rough: A conference secretary said that if this happened in his conference, his conference couldn't survive. I'm certain he meant financially. Imagine the lawsuits Danny has potentially opened up the Il. Conf. to if this is all true.

A retired conference secretary and pastor yesterday told me that this issue, if genuine, should be pushed all it can be pushed, for it will pave the way for all other issues to finally get resolved.

This is anything but fun.

thank you for that summary..... let's then unpack that..... what has been said by 3abn or the Sheltons that has been shown to be a lie?

If many teenagers feel like a pimple on the face is flashing their abnormality in neon, can you imagine how hard it would be for them to make public that they fell for the wiles of a predator?

Then weigh also how the crafty predator can misdirect adults with his superior sophistication and the implied sanctity of his position and easily get them to take his side over the testimony of immature adolecents.

In my own experiences:
1. At 4 I tried to tell my parents that a family member was doing things to me that scared and hurt me but they couldn't or wouldn't understand. So the abuse kept happening for 5 more years. It became "normal" to me and I didn't question if it was wrong until decades later. When I tried to address it in my 30's I was shocked by the denial that was still in play.
2. At 13, when a step-grandfather assaulted me I had a stronger voice and my parents believed me but the rest of the family got angry and called me a liar. That all changed when he nearly killed my grandmother then fled the country. The police told her that he was a wanted serial child molester that had victimized many children.
3. At 17, on a church youth campout when a married youth pastor isolated me in a beautiful valley, hugged and kissed me like he was my date I was embarrassed, scared and never said a word because I knew no one would believe me.

Perhaps these experiences can help some of you understand why these things sometimes go unreported. In recent years the victims are more likely to be listened to and believed but it is still an uphill battle especially where the predator is "a man of God" sometimes with a dauntingly large institution standing behind him.

The DA said there was no case. No restrictions were ever imposed. Tommy is employed by 3abn with full board approval, knowing the facts. The author of a book, "These kind don't change, do they?" was interviewed on 3abn recently. You may wish to purchase that book and read it! (The sad thing about this is that the ones who are loudest in spreading falsehood know this, yet continue to agitate and keep the fires burning.)

The author of the above-referenced book wrote of his journey into a life of homosexuality, how he was told he would never change and how he ultimately gained the victory over the lifestyle through the power of God. A person who has experienced conflict in his sexual identity is far different than a serial sexual predator. While sin is sin and any degree of it separates us from God, drawing comparisons between the two is apples and oranges.

Well, Clay, according to Walt Thompson, Danny told him the allegations were 30 years old, and yet Walt had received a letter claiming inappropriate behavior in a congregation Tommy pastored through about 2000. I think most people would call that a lie.

Thompson claimed that Danny told him that Dryden was to blame because of some unrelated feud. Blame for what? The 30-year-old allegations? The two men hadn't met yet.

My two letters to Danny outline such problems. I have now given him 15 questions regarding this affair in those letters, and he opted not to answer one in his reply today.

Anyone reading those letters can clearly see there are some problems with accuracy, and many have concluded that there are problems with honesty as well.

One thing that Walt claimed that Danny told him was that there was no physical action. Is that claim believable in light of the 2004 Roger Clem letter? I think not. And that is why people need to be able to read his letter and make their own judgment about who is telling the truth.

How's that for a brief unpacking?

PB thanks for having the courage to tell your story. It does shed relevent light on what goes on in the mind of a victim of sexual abuse.

I disagree, PB. As you said, sin, is isn, especialy in God's eyes. Are those not the eye through which we christians should view it? Aslo the reason this book gets so much attention is that just like pedaphiles, homosexual are seen as someone who con never,ever "overcome" their sin. The best they can do is not to "practice it".. In fact, they are often lumped in as one in the same, as we most often view homosexuals. especially men as taking every opportunity to "turn out" a young boy.

Excuse me Di... but you are confusing or conflating two separate ideas and/or conditions here.

Having a homosexual orientation is not sin. That is only a physical condition in which the electrical "wiring" having to do with sexual attractions has a reversed polarity. It is NOT sin to have such a reversed polarity. The attraction that comes from the same gender to the homosexual is no more sin than is the attraction between male and female who experience heterosexual attractions. The attraction sets up desire... but desire is not sin... check it out with James. Desire can become temptation.... but temptation is not sin either. Only when one yields to temptation does one commit sin. And the homosexual can overcome temptation in the same way that the heterosexual can overcome temptation.

One does not require a heterosexual to get to the place where he feels no attraction for the opposite sex before he can claim that he has overcome temptation. Neither should one require that a homosexual comes to the place where his orientation... the direction from which his sin comes... changes so that it comes from the other direction... or doesn't come at all. The homosexual is an overcomer when he ceases to allow temptation to lead him to sin.

Another mistake you are making here... and one which is extremely hurting to the homosexual who is not even tempted in THAT area... is that of equating homosexuality with pedaphilia. They are NOT the same... BOTH heterosexual males and homosexual males can be pedaphiles... the only difference is whether they molest and abuse little girls or little boys.

And experience has taught us that pedaphilia is not something which we can ever conclude has "gone away". And thus to protect our children the laws have been made which say that no matter how long a man stays "clean" he should NEVER be allowed around children. Period.

I understand your point, Di, however IMO homosexual men who take every opportunity to "turn out" young boys are sexual predators in homosexual clothing. I would be very interested to hear the author's view on this situation.

I grew up around a plethora of homosexual men. Many were kind and respectful members of society others were not. One who lived with us for awhile was booted out by my mom after she found a stack of child porn pictures on his bedroom desk.

But, taking your point a step further should a recovering homosexual frequent gay bars? Should a recovering sexual predator be unsupervised around his target demographic? Should a recovering alcoholic keep alcoholic beverages at home?

Not a problem, WB. I was only stated that which is commonly believed, not that which I believed. My only point is that they are both not given the benefit of a doubt to overcome their sin. they best they can do is to "manage" it with the help of God. I don't think I quite buy that, though. It seems to infer t hat there is some sin that is beyond God's forgiveness. I don't thinkthat pedsphelia or "practicing' homosexuality is beyond God's forgiving or restoration power. Just like it takes the power of God to over come sin, any sin, we also need the power of God to place in us His forgiveness.

I defnitely agree with the fact that anyone recovering from anything should avoid areas of great temptation.

Subject: Some additional verification needed for Walt Thompson's statements.
Date: Tue, 05 Dec 2006 06:14:06 -0600
To: Danny Shelton
CC: Walt Thompson, Elder Ken Denslow

Greetings, Danny.

I trust that you received my email attached at the end, which was sent six days ago as a follow-up to the suggestion of Dr. Walt Thompson, your board chairman, that I verify what he had told me. As I have pondered it all, I see some further questions that I need clarification on in order to do just that, and so I will add below to my original five questions what I wrote out over the weekend.

I'll first say that I really hope to hear from you soon, since there are many, many people eager and anxious to hear your side of the story, and see you and Tommy cleared of these allegations being brought by a pastor and members of the Church of God, by members of your own community, and, not maliciously and a bit indirectly, your own board chairman. It is highly critical that there be as little delay as possible.

Dr. Thompson wrote:

> QUOTE(Walt Thompson)
> "The allegations against Tommy were made about 30 years ago."

Frankly, this was the first time I had heard of any allegations of 30 years ago. The oldest allegations I have heard about were the ones that led to the revoking of Tommy's ordination in Illinois in or around 1985, which I have thought were therefore about 20 years ago rather than about 30. Thus,

Question 6: What exactly were these 30-year-old allegations that Walt referred to, and when and in what locality or localities did the alleged events take place?

I have one more chronology-related question. One of your employees, one of the O'Briens, informed me indirectly, maybe a month ago or so, that Pastor Dryden's May 2003 letter to Walt was a rehashing of something that had already been hashed around in the '90's. At the time I thought that someone must have gotten the dates mixed up somewhere, and that the '80's was really what was intended to be or what should have been said, but something Gailon told me last week makes me wonder if there might be another possibility. Gailon wrote:

> QUOTE(Gailon Joy)
> "Bad news...the 3ABN board in the mid 90's took up the issue of Tommy Shelton as he was working in production at the time. The board clearly determined it was best that Tommy not be working at 3ABN based upon an investigation of the allegations against Tommy at the Ezra COG. Shortly after this decision, Tommy received a call to the Dunn Loring COG and moved to Mannassas, finally into the parsonage."

I wouldn't even mention this at all since I have no evidence of myself to this effect, but since one of the O'Briens indicated, unless something got garbled in transmission or recollection, which is always possible, that there was some sort of discussion in the '90's, I'll ask the following:

Question 7: Did the 3ABN board determine in the mid-1990's that it was not best for Tommy to work at 3ABN; and if so, on what basis was there a later reversal of their position; and if not, how can I get copies of the board minutes leading up to Tommy's departure so that I can post them and put to rest once and for all this allegation?

You may be tempted to pick out some sort of trivial detail that isn't quite absolutely correct and concentrate on that to the exclusion of everything else, so I would simply suggest that, while you may need to correct some minor errors, you also ensure that you put to rest the major points of concern as well.

Walt wrote to me the following:

> QUOTE(Walt Thompson)
> "Based upon my understanding [obtained from Danny Shelton] that Dryden had had a long standing feud with Tommy over factors unrelated to the above accusations, it did not seem indicated to approach the boys in question directly, having been informed that no case had ever been filed with the courts or legal disposition made."

I think it would be extremely helpful to know more about Dryden's alleged feud with Tommy. This is especially true given the following facts:

- Walt said that the allegations were about 30 years old.
- Pastor Glenn Dryden says that he did not meet Tommy until somewhere around the early '80's or about 1985 when Tommy's ordination was revoked.
- Dryden says that he first became associated with the Dunn Loring, Virginia, church in 1974, served as an assistant pastor from 1983 until 1993, at which time he moved to Illinois.
- He claims that he had a good pastor-to-pastor relationship with Tommy after meeting him.

Question 8: Did Walt mean to say that Dryden was the cause of the original, 30-year-old allegations; is it true that Tommy did not meet Dryden until at the earliest the early '80's; and if both these points are correct, how is it that the allegations were caused by a feud between two men who had not yet met; or, if this is not what Walt meant, what exactly did he mean?

Since I have no evidence at this point that would indicate that either Tommy or Dryden had achieved celebrity status, I think the following question is in order.

Question 9: Are Dryden's details regarding his states of residence correct (as well as the date of the revoking of Tommy's ordination), and if so, what was the nature of their feud that would have motivated Dryden to promote allegations of child molestation against a pastor who lived 800 miles away from him?

Walt wrote:

> QUOTE(Walt Thompson)
> "The picture that was painted by that leader of the Church was exactly as portrayed earlier by Danny. Dryden was jealous of Tommy and was out to get him - a jealousy that has continued to the present."

Here is an area that becomes a little more nebulous, for it gets into the area of he said, she said, something I prefer to avoid. But it should be mentioned that Dryden denies that this was the case, and claims that there has been no opportunity for jealousy to arise. And frankly, since Dryden arrived in Illinois in 1993 and Tommy left for Virginia in 1995, according to Dryden's chronology, it would seem that there was precious little opportunity for jealousy to arise. Thus,

Question 10: What exactly about Tommy was Dryden jealous of, and during what periods of time and in what ways was this jealousy manifested?

Dryden also claims that Tommy has used this jealousy argument as a smokescreen, but with this variation: He claims that Tommy told the folks in Virginia that allegations had been raised against him because churches around him were jealous of both him and the success he was having. Thus,

Question 11: Is it true that Tommy told the folks in Virginia something even remotely akin to this and if so, what was the nature of the success that Tommy had that surrounding churches of his own denomination would make false accusations against him of such a serious thing as child molestation?

Dryden also claims that Tommy never informed the folks in Virginia regarding what the nature of the allegations against him were. Thus,

Question 12: Who specifically in Virginia did Tommy tell about the exact nature of the allegations against him, and how can I contact them to obtain a signed statement to this effect?

Walt wrote:

> QUOTE(Walt Thompson)
> "Except for pastor Dryden's personal accounts, there are apparently no other records of the allegations."

Dryden claims that in early 2003, Roger Clem of West Frankfort confided in him that he had been victimized by Tommy, and that Roger subsequently shared openly about this in his church and about the community.

Question 13: Is it true that a member of your small community did indeed share openly his claim that your own brother had victimized him, and if so, a) when did you first become aware of these new allegations, how did Walt arrive at the opinion that there are no other accounts of these allegations than Pastor Dryden's, and c) how is it that you never corrected Walt on this major discrepancy?

Dryden claims that after Roger came forward, that,

> QUOTE(Pastor Dryden)
> "It was within a week or less that Tommy called me."

In that conversation Tommy told Dryden, according to him, something along the lines of, "I have something to read to you. Maybe you don't want to even talk to me. It's difficult." Dryden, thinking this was part of Tommy's damage control efforts and that there might be an attempt at manipulation, told him their conversation would need to be face to face and in the presence of another member of the congregation. Dryden had prayer with him, and he claims the meeting never took place.

Dryden then claims that Tommy called up someone who was a pillar in the church and read his statement to them, which convinced them of his guilt.

Dryden says that Tommy has made statements like, "I made some mistakes," and "I have regrets," and has said such for damage control purposes, but has never made a meaningful apology to his knowledge, nothing like Ted Haggard's confession, and that Tommy has been unwilling to be subject to church discipline. Thus,

Question 14: Did Tommy in fact call Dryden and the other individual in the church in early 2003 and make statements to this effect, and if so, how can we get a copy of what he wrote and read at that time, and if not, what evidence or testimony to this effect can be produced?

Question 15: Is it true that Tommy was unwilling to be subject to church discipline even though Walt claims he did apologize for some unspecified thing; and if so, for what reasons was he unwilling; and if not, who can I contact to confirm that he indeed was subject to church discipline?

I would want nothing more than to see you personally vindicated, and to see some sort of plausible explanation for not just one or two or three of the perceived inconsistencies, but for every last one of them. This issue of the allegations against Tommy is only one of many swirling around you and/or 3ABN, and I would take great delight in seeing each one of those issues decided in favor of you.

But I think we clearly need to get the air cleared of this one as soon as possible. It is absolutely crucial that we demonstrate that your word is utterly dependable, or else the court of public opinion as well as that of ASI will be less inclined to accept solely your testimony and the testimony of the 3ABN board about Linda's alleged guilt of the sin of adultery.

And, as a loyal Seventh-day Adventist church member, a member in the middle of nowhere who is but a lone voice without any actual say-so, I must say that I am a bit concerned because of the potential liability issues that could arise if there ever was a problem in the future. I certainly hope that the apparent way this was all handled would never be used in a court of law as a justification for compromising the financial security of the Illinois Conference, which I understand, from websites affiliated with the church or its leadership, voted to move part of their Academy operations to Thompsonville.

Perhaps this is what concerns me most of all, that somehow in all of this God's cause and my church could be brought into reproach, and we as a people could be blamed for the very type of things that we so ardently oppose, through no fault of our own or because of innocent mistakes on the part of some, all because of the not-so-innocent mistakes on the part of others.

Danny, in all sincerity, I pray that God grant you clear discernment of what is right and what is wrong, and what He wants you to do at this hour. May you stand for the right though the heaven's fall, whether it be for the first time or the millionth time.

And may 3ABN and its ministry be truly blessed by the Spirit of God in the days ahead in proportion to its fulfillment of the conditions laid out by the Lord for the reception of the latter rain

Bob

P.S. I really need ASAP the name and contact info from the Church of God leader Walt referred to but did not name. I don't know who else to contact to hear another side of the story, and talking to him or her may help quite a bit.

Also, Pastor Dryden has expressed personal concern for Tommy, indicating that he wishes that we would all pray for his health during the stress of all this, and that he do the right and appropriate thing.

God bless.

Bob,

As you know we are letting ASI handle the situation regarding my divorce from Linda.

Did I have biblical grounds for my part in the divorce of Linda and me.

Many lies have been spread by Linda and others using people like Gailon Joy and others.

According to you and Gailon and several others, the 3ABN leadership including myself, have covered up my wrong doing by making Linda the scape goat.

Either this is true or it is not. Much has been said by Johann, Arild, Barbara K. and people who didn't even know Linda and me.

ASI will decide who is doing the cover up. Somebody is lying! After hearing the testimony and evidence from both sides ASI will make a decision. Should ASI decide that the 3ABN board and myself did not "scapegoat Linda" to cover up my sins, then, in my opinion it will become obvious to the public that maybe many of these other accusations are lies also.

If on the other hand ASI decides that me and the 3ABN board covered up my sins to scapegoat Linda, then I believe that it will become obvious that I am probably lying when I deny many of the other accusations coming from Linda and her group.

That's why I choose to wait until ASI handles this huge issue of mine and Linda's divorce before answering questions of all the other accusations manufactured byLinda, Gailon, Derrell Johann, Barbara Kerr and others who have or has had an ax to grind with 3ABN.

For every person accusing me and 3ABN of dong wrong I can show thousands who will testify of all the good that 3ABN in doing including nearly all of it's employees.

Hi Danny. Thanks so much for your initial reply, which appears below my reply to you.

I must say that I am a little surprised by your reply. I will point out in this email a few difficulties that I see, and why it is extremely difficult for me to use it to clear you of any of the allegations out there, as well as ask some additional questions.

First of all, you will recall that I initially wrote to you a week ago at the suggestion of your board chairman, Dr. Walt Thompson. On Monday, November 27, he gave me some information and said,

> QUOTE(Walt Thompson)
> "I would like to request ... that you ... verify [this letter's] contents."

Now Walt gave me only two sources for his information other than Pastor Glenn Dryden. The only one of those two that he named was yourself, and therefore the only way I can fulfill his request is to write to you. And yet you write:

> QUOTE(Danny Shelton)
> "That's why I choose to wait until ASI handles this huge issue of mine and Linda's divorce before answering questions of all the other accusations manufactured by Linda, Gailon, Derrell Johann, Barbara Kerr and others who have or has had an ax to grind with 3ABN."

As you know quite well, Walt has been accused of being a "lemming" and your "surrogate," language I disapprove of. Yet in light of the fact that you as president can so easily disregard the wishes of your own board chairman, I think it fair to ask,

Question 16: How can you demonstrate that Dr. Walt Thompson and/or your board have any definite, real, and actual authority within the 3ABN corporate structure as it currently operates, authority unrelated to whatever you may choose to delegate to them or what is merely described on paper?

I think this question is vital since it does indeed affect perceptions of how the divorce and remarriage were handled, as well as how the Tommy Shelton child molestation allegations were handled, and perhaps even the success or failure of the appeal of the tax case I understand 3ABN has pending.

In light of the fact that it is now one week since I requested the name of the other source so that I can verify Walt's information, I think it fair to ask,

Question 17: What might be the reason or reasons why there is such hesitancy to provide that name, as well as the name of the person who gave that name to Walt Thompson?

You write:

> QUOTE(Danny Shelton)
>
> "According to you and Gailon and several others, the 3ABN leadership including myself, have covered up my wrong doing by making Linda the scape goat."

I believe the term "smokescreen" would be more appropriate than "scapegoat."

You also write:

> QUOTE(Danny Shelton)
> "After hearing the testimony and evidence from both sides ASI will make a decision. Should ASI decide that the 3ABN board and myself did not 'scapegoat Linda' to cover up my sins, then, in my opinion it will become obvious to the public that maybe many of these other accusations are lies also."

By referring to only two "sides" when you full well know that there are many more parties than two, and by pitting ASI's conclusions regarding your divorce and remarriage against all the remaining allegations, you again demonstrate that you have chosen not to allow ASI to review all the allegations, a fatal mistake in my opinion.

In other words, while claiming to be false the perception that you are trying to use the Linda issue as a smokescreen, you then go on to prove that that perception of the situation is correct. Thus,

Question 18: Will you and/or the 3ABN board make a formal request in writing to ASI that they examine all allegations of financial, operational, and personal misconduct, and will you provide us a copy of that letter as soon as possible, and if not, could you please list whatever you are afraid of that you might lose from such a process, and why?

You write:

> QUOTE(Danny Shelton)
>
> "Much has been said by Johann, Arild, Barbara K. and people who didn't even know Linda and me.
> "...
> "That's why I choose to wait until ASI handles this huge issue of mine and Linda's divorce before answering questions of all the other accusations manufactured by Linda, Gailon, Derrell Johann, Barbara Kerr and others who have or has had an ax to grind with 3ABN."

John Lomacang on September 1 told me the same, that all these allegations were manufactured by or are the result of Linda and "her boyfriend," the doctor, and their allies. I told him I can't buy that, since the not-quite-most-recent Tommy Shelton allegations date from the first half of 2003, about a year before Linda's alleged affair. Thus,

Question 19: How did Linda, Derrell, Johann, and Barbara manufacture the Tommy Shelton child molestation allegations a year before Linda's alleged affair; what sort of ax to grind against 3ABN would Church of God member Roger Clem have in 2003 that he would come forward and accuse Tommy, not 3ABN, of child molestation; and what sort of ax to grind against 3ABN would motivate members/attendees of the Church of God congregation Tommy pastored in Virginia to accuse Tommy, not 3ABN, of sexual misconduct before he ever returned to Illinois around 2000 and began working at 3ABN again?

Lastly, you write:

> QUOTE(Danny Shelton)
> "That's why I choose to wait until ASI handles this huge issue of mine and Linda's divorce ...." (bold added)

As serious as the allegations are that you lied about Linda having an affair in order to justify divorcing her, it is fair to ask,

Question 20: By saying this, are you suggesting that being accused of intentionally lying about your wife being an adulteress is an extremely more serious issue than the allegation that you intentionally lied to your board chairman about the serious nature, wide extent, and recent timing of the Tommy Shelton child molestation allegations, and thus put innocent children at continued risk?

I think these are the only challenges I see in your reply, challenges that make it difficult to use to clear you of the allegations against you. And as I have expressed to you before, I think that if you truly have the best interest of 3ABN at heart, you will need to immediately alter the way you address these issues. There is a desperate need of greater transparency, straightforwardness, and openness if these issues are ever going to go away, and I am certain that you must realize that.

May God grant you special courage and wisdom at this time.

The following is what I can thus far come up with regarding some of the allegations against Tommy:

- Walt claims that there are allegations of some sort against Tommy regarding children that are 30 years old.
- Tommy's ordination with the Church of God, Anderson, was revoked around 1985 because of allegations of child molestation arising from his pastoring the Ezra congregation in West Frankfort, Illinois.
- Roger Clem claims that he was molested at the age of 16, which would be about 1988, while Tommy was pastoring the breakaway Ezra congregation that had sided with him and against the previous alleged victims.
- Tommy pastored a Church of God congregation in Dunn Loring, Virginia, from 1995 to about 2000, and then left apparently because of the surfacing of some sort of sexual misconduct allegations against him.
- Just now in late 2006 we have http://www.maritime-sda-online.org/forums/ubbthreads.php?ubb=showflat&Number=82082&page=1&fpart=1#Post82091 coming to light in Virginia at the Church of God congregation where he used to pastor.

Gailon has talked to quite a few individuals on this matter. As of this point, I have only spoken to Walt Thompson, Church of God pastor Glenn Dryden, a member of the board of the Dunn Loring congregation who wished to remain anonymous, and alleged victim Roger Clem.

Walt wrote:

> QUOTE(Walt Thompson)
> "Based upon my understanding that Dryden had had a long standing feud with Tommy over factors unrelated to the above accusations ...
> "Dryden was jealous of Tommy and was out to get him - a jealousy that has continued to the present."

Both Roger Clem and the Dunn Loring board member I spoke with made it very plain that there was no malice, no feud, and no jealousy between the two men. The board member said that they had known Dryden and his family since 1990, and that they first heard rumors two years ago, which was a year or more before Dryden returned to Virginia. (Why did they hear about it only two years ago? They said they had had a lesser position and thus would not have been privy to such allegations.)

Question 21: Do you believe that the above scenario(s) and time line painted by these four individuals is fairly accurate, and if so, why did you essentially tell Walt Thompson, http://www.maritime-sda-online.org/forums/ubbthreads.php?ubb=showflat&Number=82117&page=1&fpart=3#Post82139, that there were no new allegations for the last 30 years, and if not, how many more individuals do you think I should interview before concluding that the above time line is essentially correct?

Walt wrote:

> QUOTE(Walt Thompson)
> "No physical actions ever occured."

Pastor Dryden, based on what alleged victims have confided to him, and Roger Clem, based on his own experience, both declare that this is false. Thus,

Question 22: Do you personally believe that no physical action occurred, and if not, what way would you propose that we establish that none indeed occurred?

Soon after Clem came forward in 2003, Tommy phoned him. Clem says that it was somewhere around a year later when http://www.maritime-sda-online.org/forums/ubbthreads.php?ubb=showflat&Number=82082&page=1&fpart=2#Post82108. That letter ended with the following:

> QUOTE(Roger Clem)
> "I will tell you up front, if I get a letter or phone call from your brother or an attorney that in any way appears threatening, I will immediately go to the sheriff's office and file charges against you. This has gone on long enough with nothing being done. This is Not a threat. It all rests on you Tommy, let your conscience be your guide. I will not wait long before I will decide what action is best to resolve this."

Clem says that before Tommy had a chance to open and read the letter, Tommy's wife had opened it, even though it was addressed to Tommy, and read it to their daughters, and was calling Clem about it.

Question 23: Is there any tendency among Tommy's family to try to cover for him when these sort of allegations come up?

Clem had stated clearly, "I will not wait long before I will decide what action is best to resolve this," and he claims that Tommy called him the next day, this second phone call taking place a year or so after the previous one, and said,

> QUOTE(Tommy Shelton)
> "What do you want me to do?"

Clem replied,

> QUOTE(Roger Clem)
> "Register as a sex offender."

Clem claims that Tommy replied,

> QUOTE(Tommy Shelton)
> "Well, that's just not going to happen. I've dealt with it with my family. I've dealt with it in counseling. That's all I feel I should have to do."

Thus,

Question 24: Do you believe that Tommy did indeed make this much of an admission verbally and/or made anything akin to this kind of reply, and if so, a) do you agree that all that's necessary for someone to do who has had allegations of child molestation leveled against them for so many years is to deal with it in their family and in counseling, and can you please describe for us the nature, timing, and duration of the counseling Tommy obtained?

I touched on the next one previously. Walt wrote:

> QUOTE(Walt Thompson)
> "Accept for pastor Dryden's personal accounts, there are apparently no other records of the allegations."

Clem has two brothers. In one of the two calls Tommy made to Clem in 2003 and 2004, Clem asked Tommy,

> QUOTE(Roger Clem)
> "Did the same thing happen to my brother that happened to me?"

And, according to Clem, Tommy replied,

> QUOTE(Tommy Shelton)
> "Which one?"

Other things that Clem claimed were that people caught Tommy with boys doing things that he shouldn't have been doing on back roads and such. He claims that abuse happened at church, at Tommy's house and in his car, and right down the road from the first building of "3 Angels."

http://www.maritime-sda-online.org/forums/ubbthreads.php?ubb=showflat&Number=82082&page=1&fpart=1#Post82093:
Clem told the same story without being asked, and added this one detail: The lady from the congregation after seeing Tommy's son at the school drove back to the house and saw a red-faced boy leaving it, trying to cover his face.

After Clem came forward in early 2003, he claims that Tommy called him shortly thereafter. Clem was very open about everything in his church and community, and told me by name about two ministry leaders or pastors of two different faiths, individuals who had backed Tommy previously, whom he approached and informed that the allegations were true after all because it had happened to him. One of those men said, "You don't know how much that disturbs me."

Question 25: Would you consider that these accounts are essentially correct, and if so, why did Walt think there were no other accounts of allegations except for Dryden's, and if not, which precise points would you dispute and which ones would you not?

Clem claims, as Dryden did, that Tommy has never given a meaningful apology. He also says that Tommy has never apologized in writing and is manipulative. In http://www.maritime-sda-online.org/forums/ubbthreads.php?ubb=showflat&Number=82082&page=1&fpart=2#Post82108 to Tommy, Clem wrote, among other things,
Question 26: Is there any truth to the allegation that Tommy resorted to manipulative behavior, such as having transient health problems and/or trying to create sympathy in order to hush up the accusers; and can you give us examples of when and to whom Tommy apologized either before a big public spectacle took place, or when he apologized in writing, or both?

In http://www.maritime-sda-online.org/forums/ubbthreads.php?ubb=showflat&Number=82082&page=1&fpart=2#Post82108, Clem writes:
Similarly, the board member I spoke with from Dunn Loring, Virginia said that whenever allegations would arise, you would "execute a lot of pressure," and "make them go away."

Question 27: Is it true that you called people who were raising allegations, and what exactly did you say that might have given them the idea that you were trying to pressure them into silence?

Your Illinois Tax Case lists as one of the attorneys present,
On June 13, 2003, http://www.maritime-sda-online.org/forums/ubbthreads.php?ubb=showflat&Number=82082&page=1&fpart=2#Post82097 that appears to be a reply to http://www.maritime-sda-online.org/forums/ubbthreads.php?ubb=showflat&Number=82082&page=1&fpart=1#Post82083 of May 14, 2003. In that letter of seven paragraphs, paragraphs 1, 2, 6, and 7 contain language threatening legal action against both the Ezra Church of God and Pastor Dryden. From what I can tell, and I am not an attorney, the only legal basis he gives for such a potential lawsuit appears in paragraphs 3-5, and consists of supporting arguments after the following sentence:
Question 28: Do you think that it was wise for an attorney who does or has served the network that preaches the undiluted three angels' messages to use this sort of logic to threaten a non-Adventist minister with legal action in order to shut him up regarding his concerns over alleged child molestation?

Since the attorney who sent this threatening letter does or has served 3ABN, this question appears in order:

Question 29: Did Mr. Riva perform his services for Tommy Shelton pro bono, or did Tommy pay for them out of his own pocket, or did you pay for them out of your own pocket, or did 3ABN cover the cost, and what sort of documentation can you provide to substantiate your answer?

http://www.maritime-sda-online.org/forums/ubbthreads.php?ubb=showflat&Number=82082&page=1&fpart=1#Post82093:
Now let us consider the following facts:

- http://www.maritime-sda-online.org/forums/ubbthreads.php?ubb=showflat&Number=82200&page=0#Post82199, claimed that you and 3ABN were receiving "persecution" and that "lies" were being told about you.
- Shelley Quinn in that broadcast, to all appearances, compared you to John the Baptist, Linda to Herodias, and Salome to Linda's daughter.
- Before Shelley identified the daughter she was speaking of as being Salome, she described her as one who had become "entangled in the web of deceit," when the Bible story does not indicate that there was any deceit involved in regard to Herodias and Salome.
- Linda's daughter had previously issued a signed and confidential statement alleging that you had sexually assaulted her.

Thus it appears that that broadcast was particularly attempting to call Linda's daughter's allegations a lie and "persecution," even though throughout the broadcast the claim was repeatedly made that you and the others would not be defending yourselves.

Question 30: Would you have any comment to make about this apparent similarity between how Tommy (according to Dryden) and you have both related to allegations of sexual misconduct?

On November 4 http://www.maritime-sda-online.org/forums/ubbthreads.php?ubb=showflat&Number=82208&page=0#Post82213 and said, among other things,
According to what Hal Steenson and John Lomacang told me, I'm uncertain that this is true. But I won't go into that now.

I want to end by sharing with you a story from the Spirit of Prophecy, a story from a sermon given by Ellen White in Minneapolis in 1888 and from an 1888 letter, that is hard for me to read without getting choked up. I was talking to my family about it yesterday, and even though it's been a long time since I read it through, it still got to me. And while formatting it for this email, I could not refrain from weeping.

If any of the more serious allegations against you, Tommy, and anyone else are true, I invite you and them to consider following the example of the man she referred to, and just see if perchance there may be a possibility that you will reap similar results of blessings and good will, and that the cause of God will advance with much greater power.
May God grant you, Tommy, and the rest by His grace the courage to right every wrong, whether that wrong be small or great.

Bob

Bob,
Where is this powerful story found in Ellen White's writing(s)? This is a moving story and should be shared with others. Thanks, Bob.

Bob, the story from Ellen White shows the power of true, Biblical repentance and restitution! Not only does it transform the one who has sinned against others it can also transform those who have been victimized.

When one who has committed grievous sins against others opens his eyes and realizes just how those sins have separated him from God and damaged his victims, when pride and denial is set aside to allow God's power to work, just look at the healing that can take place!

[For the first part of this letter, see above at my last post.]

> QUOTE(Pastor Glenn Dryden)
> "In the summer of 1993 as my wife and two teenage sons and I were preparing to relocate from Northern Virginia to West Frankfort, Illinois, Tommy Shelton again was visiting in Virginia and asked to meet with my wife and I. During this meeting he alerted us that we may 'hear some things' when we got to Illinois. He also informed us at this meeting that he had been caught in a lie during his pastorate at the Ezra Church of God, intimated extenuating circumstances and said he had sought and received forgiveness. Indeed we did hear some things after arriving in West Frankfort, Illinois, in mid-1993, including the circumstances surrounding the lie (He was found alone with a young man in a home to which he had access and when challenged said the young man [who was out of view] was his son when in fact he was not. The individual who came upon him confirmed this by immediately driving to the church school Tommy's son attended and finding his son there.). It was not until another victim's mother spoke with me in early 1996 that I fully realized that not only was sexual abuse of adolescent boys the nature of the allegations but that there was substance to these allegations as well."

Clem told the same story without being asked, and added this one detail: The lady from the congregation after seeing Tommy's son at the school drove back to the house and saw a red-faced boy leaving it, trying to cover his face.

After Clem came forward in early 2003, he claims that Tommy called him shortly thereafter. Clem was very open about everything in his church and community, and told me by name about two ministry leaders or pastors of two different faiths, individuals who had backed Tommy previously, whom he approached and informed that the allegations were true after all because it had happened to him. One of those men said, "You don't know how much that disturbs me."

Question 25: Would you consider that these accounts are essentially correct, and if so, why did Walt think there were no other accounts of allegations except for Dryden's, and if not, which precise points would you dispute and which ones would you not?

Clem claims, as Dryden did, that Tommy has never given a meaningful apology. He also says that Tommy has never apologized in writing and is manipulative. In http://www.maritime-sda-online.org/forums/ubbthreads.php?ubb=showflat&Number=82082&page=1&fpart=2#Post82108 to Tommy, Clem wrote, among other things,

> "When someone would confront you about what you did, you would try to take the attention off of what you did by having some sort of health problem (loss of memory, heart problems, nervous breakdown). It seemed odd to me that you recovered quick when you realized that you were in the clear. You really disgust me. It makes me sick to realize how many lives you damaged and the only time that you feel the need to apologize is when it all comes back up again. Then you put on this POOR PITIFUL ME act (how you wish it didn't happen, the reason you do this is because you were abused as a child, you would take it all back if you could, and the all-time favorite, please don't put my family through this again). What about what you put all of us through?"

Question 26: Is there any truth to the allegation that Tommy resorted to manipulative behavior, such as having transient health problems and/or trying to create sympathy in order to hush up the accusers; and can you give us examples of when and to whom Tommy apologized either before a big public spectacle took place, or when he apologized in writing, or both?

In http://www.maritime-sda-online.org/forums/ubbthreads.php?

ubb=showflat&Number=82082&page=1&fpart=2#Post82108, Clem writes:

I will tell you up front, if I get a letter or phone call from your brother or an attorney that in any way appears threatening, I will immediately go to the sheriff's office and file charges against you."

Similarly, the board member I spoke with from Dunn Loring, Virginia said that whenever allegations would arise, you would "execute a lot of pressure," and "make them go away."

Question 27: Is it true that you called people who were raising allegations, and what exactly did you say that might have given them the idea that you were trying to pressure them into silence?

Your Illinois Tax Case lists as one of the attorneys present,

> QUOTE(3ABN v. Dept. of Rev. of the St. of Il.)

> "Mr. D. Michael Riva for 3 Angels Broadcasting Network."

On June 13, 2003, http://www.maritime-sda-online.org/forums/ubbthreads.php?ubb=showflat&Number=82082&page=1&fpart=2#Post82097 that appears to be a reply to http://www.maritime-sda-online.org/forums/ubbthreads.php?ubb=showflat&Number=82082&page=1&fpart=1#Post82083 of May 14, 2003. In that letter of seven paragraphs, paragraphs 1, 2, 6, and 7 contain language threatening legal action against both the Ezra Church of God and Pastor Dryden. From what I can tell, and I am not an attorney, the only legal basis he gives for such a potential lawsuit appears in paragraphs 3-5, and consists of supporting arguments after the following sentence:

> QUOTE(D. Michael Riva)
> "Even if the actions occurred, there is no criminal jeopardy as the statute of limitations has long since passed." (bold added)

Question 28: Do you think that it was wise for an attorney who does or has served the network that preaches the undiluted three angels' messages to use this sort of logic to threaten a non-Adventist minister with legal action in order to shut him up regarding his concerns over alleged child molestation?

Since the attorney who sent this threatening letter does or has served 3ABN, this question appears in order:

Question 29: Did Mr. Riva perform his services for Tommy Shelton pro bono, or did Tommy pay for them out of his own pocket, or did you pay for them out of your own pocket, or did 3ABN cover the cost, and what sort of documentation can you provide to substantiate your answer?

He did so by speaking not of the allegations but of the 'persecution' he and his family suffered as a consequence. He was successful in drawing sympathy thereby as he spoke of hardship suffered by he and his family." (bold added)

Now let us consider the following facts:

- http://www.maritime-sda-online.org/forums/ubbthreads.php?ubb=showflat&Number=82200&page=0#Post82199, claimed that you and 3ABN were receiving "persecution" and that "lies" were being told about you.

Thus it appears that that broadcast was particularly attempting to call Linda's daughter's allegations a lie and "persecution," even though throughout the broadcast the claim was repeatedly made that you and the others would not be defending yourselves.

Question 30: Would you have any comment to make about this apparent similarity between how Tommy (according to Dryden) and you have both related to allegations of sexual misconduct?

According to what Hal Steenson and John Lomacang told me, I'm uncertain that this is true. But I won't go into that now.

[I'm going to try to move the ending of the letter to another post in order to get the formatting to work correctly.]

> "We have seen of the grace of God since we met you last. ... I was at the Selma camp meeting. During my stay there I was introduced to a tall man--over six feet tall--and well proportioned. When he took my hand he seemed much affected and said, 'I am so glad to meet you; I am thankful that I can speak with you.' After going into the tent a brother came in and said, 'That man has a history.' Then he went on and told how a year before he had been converted; how he had once kept the Sabbath but had gone back, and how he claimed that he never had been converted. Then after he gave up the truth he went back into the company of hard cases, and Satan took complete possession of him. Two or three were linked with him in his wickedness--men who would not want it to be known that they were in such business. They stole and did wickedness in every way.

"He was not a licentious man; he had a wife and he respected her. She was a Sabbathkeeper, and he would not allow a word to be said against her. This was the position he took; he loved her, but not enough to stop his evil course. He did not care for the spoil of his robberies, but did it for the enjoyment he found in it. Well, Elder [E.P.] Daniels was holding meetings, and he was speaking on confession. What was said seemed to take hold of this man's mind, and he could not resist. He seemed to turn white, and then left the tent. He could not stand it. He went out and then he came back again. This he did three times; he looked as if he were going to faint away.

"After the meeting had closed he said, 'I must talk to you, sir.' He told Elder Daniels his condition and said, 'Is there any hope for me? I am a lost man; I am undone; I am a sinner. Will you pray for me? I dare not leave this place to go home for fear the Lord will cut me down in my sins.' He said he could not stay in the tent, and went out again and again, but did not dare remain outside for fear the power of the devil should fasten on him and that would be the last of him.

" 'They prayed for him, and the man was converted right there. The defiant look was gone; his countenance was changed. 'Now,' said he, 'I have a work to do. I stole thirty-one sheep from that man in Selma, and I must go and confess to him.' Elder Daniels was afraid to have it known for fear they would shut him up. He said he would rather go to prison and stay there than to think that Christ had not forgiven his sin. So he started, with a young man who before this was engaged with him in thefts, to go and see the man. He met the man on the road and stopped him. The man commenced to shake like an aspen leaf. He was an infidel. Well, he got on his knees before them in the road and begged to be forgiven. The man asked, 'Where did you get this? What has brought you into this state? I did not know that there was any such religion as this.' They told him that they had been down to the camp meeting, and heard it preached there. 'Well,' said he, 'I will go over to that meeting.'

"They confessed to having burned houses and barns. And they went to the grand jury and confessed to having stolen here and there. Mind, they confessed to the authorities. They said, 'We deliver ourselves up. Do with us as you see fit.' So the case was considered in court, and they had a council over the matter. One suggested that they better put those men through. The judge looked at him and said, 'What, put him through? Put a man through that God is putting through? Would you take hold of a man that God is taking hold of? Whom God's forgiving power has taken hold of? Would you do that? No, I would rather have my right arm cut off to the shoulder.' Something got hold of those men so that they all wept as children.

"The report of that experience went everywhere. People thought that there was a power in this truth that was in nothing else--a power that shows that Jesus lives. We have seen the power of His grace manifested in many cases in a remarkable manner." (1888 Materials, pp. 81, 82)

"Brother Will Smith is a man that was converted last year. He was in the truth years ago, but for some reason gave it up, and the devil took possession of him, and he became a desperado. His wife kept the Sabbath. He is a tall, well developed, powerfully built man. He went into all sorts of lawlessness, stealing, and tried to kill, but his victim did not come in just when he was prepared to kill him. Last year at Fresno under the labors of Elder [E.P.] Daniels he was powerfully wrought upon, and he repented with another backslider who had gone with him in all his wickedness. Then commenced the work of confession and restitution. One man they went to see and met him in the road and down they went in the very dust and dirt on their knees, weeping and confessing, and the infidel wept like a child. 'Now,' said they, 'We want you to forgive us, and we do not ask you to arrest us for stealing your sheep, but we ask pardon; we will pay every cent of the cost of the sheep.'

"The man who had been wronged said, 'What has wrought upon you to make this confession?' Said they, 'We have been attending the campmeeting, and the spirit and power of God and the religion of Jesus Christ have taken hold upon us.' 'Well,' said the man, 'If the work done there is of this order I must go there,' and he did go, and he did tremble under the sharp arrows of God. The influence of these confessions made to many others who have been wronged, is as far reaching as eternity. This man in his wickedness had nothing, but since his conversion the Lord has blessed him greatly with means, and he is using it in making restitution and in advancing the cause of truth. He is free, generous to a fault, he is humble as a child, sitting at the feet of Jesus, ready and willing to do > anything. He takes 150 Signs and distributes. He has done more missionary work alone the past year than the whole Fresno Church together." (Manuscript Releases, vol. 6, pp. 150, 151)

May God grant you, Tommy, and the rest by His grace the courage to right every wrong, whether that wrong be small or great.

Hi,

I'm new. Another SDA living in the midwest. I have been reading ALL these posts and trying to sort the facts and real evidence, from unsupported slander and inuendo and character assasination Boy, it's deep in here, at times. But I am sure most are interested in the truth of all this, rather then the drama, as I am.

Anyway there are alot of posts, and I can't find one which I previously read. And wonder if anyone can point me to it, or has a link to it.

I believe it was from Walter Thompson. The one where he goes into all the details regarding Danny and Linda, and how they both were councelled by a Non Adventist Christian marriage councellor (8 hrs) and claims she was removed not for adultery, but for not complying with the board or some such thing, and how she wouldn't agree to stop talking to this Dr,

Do you know the one I am talking about?

I'd like to compare it to the statements made by Linda on her website, Dr. Arild Abrahamsen's letter, and Barabra Kerr's.

Needless to say there are opposing claims being made and something really stinks. :-o

Thanks,
Aletheia

Aletheia,

At this point Danny and the 3ABN board have absolutely no credibility in the minds of the unbiased, so I would venture to suggest that you ask them for the name of the counsellor, and for a signed statement of release from Danny that you can give to the counsellor so that he can confirm that the counselling did ineed take place.

Then if Danny evades and stonewalls and claims that he's going to let ASI look into it all, it would be resonable to assume that the counselling never took place. And no one except someone whose integrity is compromised would fault you for arriving at that conclusion.

Welcome to the task of sorting and comparing.

If you are REALLY serious about this, you should probably print things out as you see ones that seem especially significant.

And definitely you will want to explore the capabilities of the search engine. As it is set now, it will only take you to the thread which contains your search criteria. But if you select "Search" from the top line menu and scroll down to the box which is called "Result Type", you will notice that "Show results as topics" is presently checked. The other choice is "Show results as posts". Check that and then enter your search criteria and perform the search and you will be taken directly to a list of individual posts that contain your criteria. Once in the list, you can click on the "Post Preview #" which will take you to that post live in the thread in which it occurs. With a little practice (and patience) you can usually find what you are looking for.

First, though, I would recommend that you read all of the pinned threads at the top.... including working your way through the "guided tour" included in "The Unauthorized 3abn History Threads, all 10 chapters linked here...". The Table of Contents style and the live links will help you navigate that very important and lengthy set of threads.... and a few other significant ones that are mentioned in those threads as well.

The bottom line is still that your printer is your best aid in preserving and comparing the various things you read.

The next 3ABN Rally:

3ABN LIVE Ralley: December 8-9, 2006
Please join Danny Shelton, Melody Firestone, Brenda Walsh, Tommy Shelton, C.A. Murray, Emily Felts-Jones, and Wintley Phipps for this special event!

Location:

Lauderhill Seventh day Adventist Church
4100 NW 11th Court
Lauderhill, FL 33313

Phone: 954-584-1734

December 8 7:00-8:30pm (Eastern) 6:00-7:30pm (Central) Friday Evening Program

December 9 9:30-10:45am (Eastern) 8:30-9:45am (Central)
Kids Time Sabbath School w/Brenda Walsh
11:00am-12:30pm (Eastern) 10:00-11:30pm (Central) Worship Service
2:30-4:00pm (Eastern) 1:30-3:00pm (Central) Afternoon Program

If you live in this area, this would be your opportunity to speak with Danny and Tommy personally and ask them some questions...

It is interesting to note that with all the allegations againt Tommy Shelton, Danny has him participating in a program that includes a "Kids Time" Sabbath School program. Is this wise?

After reading the letter of Roger W. Clem & his offer to Tommy to make things right while there is still time if appears as if Tommy legal bills will be more than all the money he has received over the years that by-passes the 3ABN coffers on this video 3ABN shows often asking for money to the people down a Haiti where the rats had ate up their supply of drugs. Anyone remeber the years & the giggle sessions of Danny and Rick O. saying with their hand to the mouth "Confession is good for the soul, but bad on the reputation"?

[Emphasis to Wintley Phipps name above added by WB.]

As long as Wintley Phipps and others of his reputation are willing to join with the Shelton gang in their venues which open the minds and pocketbooks of the attendees.... allowing the one to be filled with false doctrine and the other emptied of its contents..... just so long will the charade continue.

That's the real tragedy of this lineup.... for it is highly unlikely that Tommy will do anything untoward in his public appearances. But the very fact that the Shelton gang is being joined by Wintley Phipps so as to attract his fans to mind-altering pocketbook-picking Game Time may put one more coat of "whitewash" on the House of Shelton facade.... but at what expense to himself.... that of losing his own image as being a man of integrity!

I would hope and pray we all know allegations can be made against anyone, and can be true or false, and the bible says "Prove all things" and in the mouth of two or three witnesses" and even warns about gossip, slander, and evil surmising.

Certainly there are many allegations made against Linda, and yet I'm sure you would be the first to agree that is not proof of her guilt or sin.

In this case I don't even know what these allegations are, who's made them, or where when or how any of it took place.

With the exception of one name and letter here, from "one alleged victim" full of ire, but really no details, and heresay from a man who says "I heard" but also supplies no details, or concrete evidence.

There's enough to investigate but not enough to condemn anyone with.

Personally, I don't believe Tommy will molest the children right in front of a audience, nor do I think Danny has him as a children's teacher, or put him in charge of any children, or children's programs.

Correct me if I am wrong, please.

In His Grace,
Aletheia

No child molester, molests children in front of anyone. I am sure you know this. However, a major portion of pedophiles have been those who work with children. Thus, when they are caught the provisions that they are never alone or work with children.

Point is, until he is cleared of all allegations, precautions should be taken. It doesn't seem it has been settled one way or the other. He was just removed from the situation. If they are found to be untrue, he can go back to his duties with the children. If they are found to be true, however, they are opening themselves up another can of worms. People will not take kindly to their children being exposed to a child molester on or off camera.

You are not "wrong".... just still on a [steep] learning curve.

I'd suggest that you sign up for Maritime forum... http://www.maritime-sda-online.org/forums/ubbthreads.php?ubb=cfrm . and ask the moderator/owner, Daryl Fawcett, for permission to access the Independent Ministries forum where 3abn issues have been being discussed for some months. On this issue they have more complete and consecutive information than has been given here.

The "two or three" number of first hand witnesses has been passed a long time ago. Not many have agreed to let their names be made public however.

But the very fact that the Shelton gang is being joined by Wintley Phipps so as to attract his fans to mind-altering pocketbook-picking Game Time may put one more coat of "whitewash" on the House of Shelton facade.... but at what expense to himself.... that of losing his own image as being a man of integrity!

It's possible that they believe that they can continue to bulldoze and steamroll their way through the Adventist congregations and do what they like.

3ABN may be independent and have no formal connections to the Adventist Church, but these lucrative 3ABN "rallies" depend on Adventist pastors giving 3ABN access to their elderly, senior citizens in the congregation.

You and "amen" probably missed my questions. :-)

What are these recent allegations, and where can they be found? How can he be cleared if we don't even know there is anything to be cleared of? How can there be allegations if no one posts Who, what, where, when, why, and how? What are they?

I am not talking about this thing from 20 or however many years ago..

maybe you all know something I don't.

Let me clarify. I know none of the people involved. I have no bias except that the truth prevail, and that the glory go to God.

And I hate lies, the only way I know to avoid false witness is to prove all things.

That's an allegation that has just surfaced recently. Like this year, in my understanding. The conduct would have occurred prior to his departure there about 2000.

Bob,

That's Here say. Insubmitable in every court of the land, surely God's people can do better then that!

Has anything been verified?
If so, what.

Have you talked to anybody who was there, a witness, a victim, a member of that Church that actually dealt with this at the time, anyone except the Johnny come lately Pastor?

If so, who?

Thanks,
Aletheia (Cindy)

Thank you very much. I'm having fun already.

I would like to explore more here and hope to do so. I'm a little busy moderating and hosting on Beliefnet and Yahoo, so times a little short. Basically that's how I got here, following the trail...

So far I like the set up you have here.

It's always good to find more of the brethren.

Blessings,
Cindy

P.S. I'm having problems with quoting posts, as in the code appears around the words, but they aren't enclosed in a quote box. Does that have something to do with my computer or ignorance, and is there something I might not be doing right? So far it works only half the time???

Readers Digest version....there are allegations both past and recent against Tommy Shelton being inappropriate with children.... some of the past allegations were handled in a "hush hush" fashion and in one case lawyers associated with 3abn appeared to put pressure on one of the victims not to report....

In a nutshell Tommy Shelton appears to still have a problem with this issue, yet was hired by his brother and is working at 3abn around children..... There has been an attempt by some to cover up the true nature of T. Shelton's problem.... that is how it impacts the 3abn saga....

This I understand., having read all. I am trying to figure out, if anyone but Glen Dryden has said this, as far as the recent allegations go, and how do we know it's the truth? He wasn't even around when any of this happened, if it wasn't for him, and Bob talking to him. What else do we have to go on?

A victim? I do know that after Pastor Dryden persisted a Lawyer from 3ABN contacted him regarding slander.

It seems to me if this Pastor can prove what he claims, that lawyer, and 3ABN have egg on their face.

there are actual people making actual allegations... and its more than egg on their face.... the supplemental info in this thread and some of the others is the "proof." T. Shelton having to resign from positions because of his "problem." Keep reading...

Since you say you have read all of the pinned stuff... (including following all of the links in the "guided tour"?) then you know that we often refer to what can be posted as merely the "tip of the iceberg". Many before you have prodded and poked to try and get the rest up to the surface... but it is the nature of icebergs, that even if you chip away all that is above water level when you start, there is still the bulk of the berg left below.

There are reasons why this must be so... and they have been given over and over again, so I'm sure you'll run across them as you keep going. But briefly they fall under some distinctive categories.... some of which are legal, some sensitiveness to the personal lives of others, particularly those who have been in a victim category, and some because of the danger some would be put in if they spoke publicly.... or even privately.

It is hard for those of us with an inquisitive mind to stay patient while information comes out very slowly and incompletely. But if you stick with it here, you will find a LOT of pieces of the picture... and they will make more sense when you fit them together than they do separately and as you fit them together you will also get a feel for how to draw the lines between the dots... and also whose reports to give the most credence.

And along the way you will develop your own sensitivity as to what kinds of things can be (or should be) mentioned on the forums... and which should rightfully be held "off camera" as it were.

Welcome Aletheia. You've asked several questions about proof. How much proof do you want? There are people who have said that they have been victimized by Tommy Shelton. Should they reveal to you their physical and emotional scars? Do you want records from their psychiatrists along with the amount of medication that they are on because of this horiffic experience(s)? Tommy Shelton has not even apologized to some of his victims as stated by the victims themselves. Shouldn't you ask why hasn't he apologized for and/or acknowledged his predatory behavior?

I have seen how the possible revelation of sexual assault can affect a person (especially males) who has been vicitimized. I had a young man working for me who seemed to be somewhat normal until the revelation of sexual abuse by Catholic priests was in the media. He had been an altar boy and had close connection with his priests. His mother thought highly of their respective priests. However, this young man was so afraid that his mother would find out that he had been victimized. [He did not want to hurt or embarrass his family.] He tried to prolong his graduation because he knew that it was going to be painful to face his demon(s). I created a temporary position to buy him some time; however, the funding ceased for that position. Therefore, his departure was painful for him, my staff, and me. We wanted to heal him, but were powerless to face his situation for him. We were always and have continued to be a support mechanism for him and others.

When someone abuses/assaults an individual, the victim is scarred for life. It is an even greater insult when the perpetrator doesn't acknowledge or even apologize for their predatory act(s). When the predator states that he preys on children because he was a victim [I am not saying that he was not abused], but does that give him the right to ruin the lives of other people? He should get help. Remember Mark Foley. Mark Foley was not excused by the media or the American public for his inappropriate behavior toward boys (the pages on Capitol Hill); so why should Tommy be excused for his behavior?

I understand being abused, I have first hand experience, ☒ no but I don't assume and condemn those accused of being abusers when the only evidence is an empty or unsubstantiated accusation, because of that.

So ya all keep playing your games, and insinuating and acting mysterious and making stabs with the tip of your iceberg, and hinting at more, and expect that other's will just take your word for it, (obviously some will)but I never saw Jesus act like that, nor anybody honest.

I don't know you from Tommy Shelton. Anyone with an axe to grind can say anything on the internet, or pretend to be a legion, and do so. That proves nothing.

He may or may not be quilty, but it's obvious the truth isn't to be found in this anonymous he said-she said drama.

Thanks anyway. I'll look elsewhere.

I understand.

I do not expect you to be convinced.

These forums exist for a major reason where people involved in this situation can share. There is a tremendous lot going on behind the scenes, as it should, that you are not aware of. But, I am not attempting to convince you.

No one has forced you to come here. If you do not like what you read, you do not have to read it.

It is as simple as that.

Welcome Cindy!
Are you truly asking for someone to expose the names of the victims on the internet? I am almost positive, if as you say, you have firsthand knowledge with abuse, then you know this is information that needs to be given to the proper authorities as proof and evidence of a crime. I mean it goes both ways, we don't know you either. Why should that information be given to you just because you asked?

I don't know how your own particular situation played out, but I am sure that you wanted to be in control about how and when information about it was diseminated. You should also be familiar with the proper procedures. One being not to victimize the victims all over again by throwing their identites out onto the world wide web. I don't think that is something Jesus would do either.

Without my testimony, and the evidence there wasn't a case.

What I expected was that the Adventist people who are supposed to love truth, and glorify God, would not say anything or make any accusations without, or until, they had the proof and evidence to back up their words..

Yeah it's disapointing.

Exactly, but no one was aksing for it on the world wide web. It was the authorities to whom it was supplied. They are telling you there is further proof, but this is not the appropriiate time or place to disclose it. and that is true. You really should have more of an understanding of this process having been through it. I am almost positive you would not, even now, appreciate anyone suppling the details(including your name)of your own ordeal in this forum, as you said, you don't know us. Why is it so hard for you to understand that these victims(children at that) also deserve the same common respect?

You are correct. However, a child molester/predator very often will "groom" the intended victim(s) in many ways in full view of all. Also, just the fact that a person is holding a place of authority builds a sense of trust in that person by those who are vulnerable.

If you truly are in search of truth then carefully read this particular thread from the very beginning. I find it a little hard to believe you have done so as yet when I read your most recent comments.

The investigation that is going on here and behind the scenes, as Observer stated, is not about inventing slanderous things or slinging mud, it is about seeking to reveal the truth to protect those at risk, help those who have been victimized to heal, and salvage our very respect as a denomination who claim to follow the commandments of God.

When a ministry, such as 3abn, portrays its mission as taking the undiluted truth to all of the world but then appears to be lying about and covering up the past actions of an alleged child molester and putting other young people at risk in the process, someone needs to step up and demand accountability.

Aletheia is just asking questions, I don't think we need to accuse her of anything. When I was new to the 3abn saga I also was a skeptic of the misdeeds going on there so I asked questions as well. We need to be kind to each other.

My appologies Aletheia.

If you read enough over at Maritime you will see a letter from one of those molested. I don't think there can be much more proof than that.

There is an additional reason why we do not post all that we know. Believe it or not, there are people working very hard behind the scenes to bring some resolution to this mess. There are people on both sides of this issue who are so working. Of course one could never resolve issues if one did not talk to the so-called "other side."

Folks, such efforts would never succeed if they were done in private. Those discussions must be conducted in privacy, behind closed doors, in order to have any hope of success. Those who are engaged in such discussions cannot comment on them at this time. In fact, most will probably not acknowledge that they are engaged in such discussions.

IF those discussions succeed, the time will come for public comment on their success.

If those discussions fail, the time will come for some public comment on their failure.

What will be accomplished, and what will be posted is only speculative, and people must wait to see.

I agree with you. We don't need to accuse Cindy of anything.

The letter from the young man who alleges he was molested is on this thread as well. If one carefully reads and considers the other information posted here as well, one will be hard pressed to remain skeptical that the allegations are anything but true.

There are 100's of boards on *.. I'm not on all of them.

You don't have to believe me, either I am a bold faced liar and didn't spend the last couple of days reading every single post having to do with 3ABN, even the ones I had already read months ago, or I told the truth.

I think perhaps we just have different ways of proving things, and different standards of judgment??

If I submit a story from your sister saying how you lied, and are involved in a conspiracy to destroy another, will all here believe that? What if I go find three more to expose you even more and bear their witness against you. Will you confess and repent? Will all here join in to condemn you?

And for those who apologised. Thank you, but it's not necessary.

Roger Clem, author of http://www.maritime-sda-online.org/forums/ubbthreads.php?ubb=showflat&Number=82082&page=1&fpart=2#Post82108, a letter which also implicates Danny and a 3ABN attorney in a cover up, told me that Tommy would pick out kids who were quiet, so they wouldn't tell on him, and who liked music.

Is that letter here? Anyone can copy it to over here who wants to.

You read it. So, do you need the names and testimonies of all T. Shelton's victims or what? Isn't it enough that he allegedly molested one person, ruined one life, and still hasn't apologized for it? You stated earlier that you have first hand knowledge of the gravity of sexual assault [I'm paraphrasing]. Nevertheless, you still don't seem to believe the victims. [I find this utterly amazing. Victims and/or those acquainted with the pain that victims experience seem to have a little more empathy than the average "nonvictim".] Sometimes our "pop stars" disappoint us, but when they are wrong, they are just wrong. The fact that this young man came forth and allowed his name to be plastered all over the world as a victim of sexual abuse takes a lot of courage because he knows that he is going to experience extensive criticism and scrutiny.

Spare me the emotional appeal, and cool your jets please. I'm not in a rush to judge one way or another, and won't, until I can see the facts and evidence and weigh both sides.

There is enough to investigate, there is not enough to render a verdict. I have said all along He may be guilty, he may not be.

As far as "victims" plural goes, you have one letter, from one alleged victim. So please stop acting like I'm ignoring all the alleged victims. I don't even know that there actually are any. Dryden claims that, but also doesn't supply anything concrete. I asked for specifics, which I could verify, and was accused of wanting to expose and plaster the names of the victims all over the internet.

Actually there is one letter purporting to be from one victim, with nothing to verify it's authenticity, or anything that is claimed.

Therefore I don't give it much weight, yet...

I'm sure it's not a revelation to anyone that the posts here and the accusations are all partial and one-sided, all being Linda's friends, and supporters. That's fine, they need to be heard, but they aren't the whole story. They claim there are reasons they can't even tell what they do know for the most part. So what are we left with? A group claiming "believe what I say, cause i said it" The whole attitude that comes across very loud is "if you aren't for us , you're against us"

I don't have time for the paranoia and suspician and accusations of those who have that attitude. Seems to me it's much easier to answer a question, then to be coy, mysterious and attack anyone who dares to ask you to prove what you say, or claim.

I'm nether for or against either Danny or Linda. I don't know them, nor do I know all the facts. I'm quite sure the lord does, and the truth will prevail. That's enough for me.

Regarding these child abuse allegations, many of the members of BlackSDA have in this very thread asked some very good questions, looking for answers, (P.B.'s post earlier comes to mind, and even Bob's post asking for specifics) unfortunately none of those questions have been answered.

Has anyone noticed that when Fallible Human Being is silent, someone new comes in with the same approach: give us the names! One brave soul has steped forward and given his name and made a statement, but is that enough for the questioner? Obivously not, then their next step is to try and discredit the testimony: how do I know this is genuine? And the cycle repeats itself on and on and on...

Lets refresh our memories again:

1. Pastor Dryden did not only make a statement, but supplied Walt Thompson with a list of victims and how they could be contacted, in 2003. The decision to do this was made in concert with his church board. Walt Thompson and the 3ABN board choose not to investigate.

2. Based solely upon the word of Danny Shelton, no investigation was made.

3. An individual, Bob, was not satisified with only second hand information concerning the allegations of molestation against Tommy Shelton, but choose to investigate the situation personally. He contacted both side of the issue and investigated the situation for himself. He has shared the process (emails, letters, phone calls) and the results of that process here.

4. Anyone who is interested can contact Walt Thompson, Danny Shelton and the 3ABN Board and ask their own questions in regard to this issue.

Well Ms Aletheia from the mid-west, none of us really know much about any of us (well, I know a few of the members personally). You have not been personally attacked, not by BSDA standards. Members have been stating their views/opinions and giving much or as little support for them as they want. Opinions are always welcome here. Nobody is compelled to respond to any direct or indirect questions.

You are welcome like everyone else to state your opinions and ask your questions, but do it without whining about being under attack or inviting others to as you call it "continue attacking you". This is how flame wars get started and leads to off-topic personal attacks.

How do we know that your testimony was credible? You are only one person. How do we know that the evidence was solid? Did "two or three" people witness this abuse simultaneously?

[/quote] What I expected was that the Adventist people who are supposed to love truth, and glorify God, would not say anything or make any accusations without, or until, they had the proof and evidence to back up their words..
Yeah it's disapointing. [/quote]

You must not be an Adventist. The above statement is applicable to Danny Shelton and his cronies who made "accusations without proof and evidence to back up their words". They trashed a woman (Linda Shelton) before the world. They had no credible evidence and have not produced it when asked. They've tried to create evidence, but not evidence that unequivocally states that Linda Shelton and Dr. Aril Abrahamsen committed adultery.

I'm sure that you have communicated that with Danny Shelton and his 3ABN Board and staff. It is disappointing when men and women "profess godliness, but deny the power thereof".

Well this is new... here comes the big guns...

I certaininly wasn't trying to be a whiner.. nor do I want cheese to go with that wine...

I guess I'll just wait and see what being attacked according to'BSDA Standards" is... and when a halt is put on that. Then I'll know what's allowed and not alowed here, and know how to post accordingly.

This should be interesting...

In the meantime can I again say again to those who felt it was necessary to apologise to me, it's not necessary? mention, I'm not a "webmaster for Danny wearing silk & sleeping on satin sheets having Danny stoke up the fireplace for me" ? point out that many people(even SDA's- and others on this forum) live in the midwest? and if "anyone noticed that when Fallible Human Being is silent, someone new comes in with the same approach: give us the names! .. then their next step is .. how do I know this is genuine? I asked those same questions when I heard Linda was accused of adultery divorced, removed by 3ABN's board, and censored by her church???

For those of you with the popcorn and drinks, keep watching, either I'll be removed by the network, or this drama is going to play out. ???? for those with clinical and unbiased hats? Praise God! We need more of you!

And Calvin? I don't want a flame war. That's just not Christlike, neither is being partial...
I'm thinking you didn't really check this thread and my questions and points before responding to a complaint.

I believe you have a good website here and it shows your love for God's people and the truth, but sometimes we act and speak without considering all...

If I do so, don't hesitate to point that out. :-)

You are right. I wouldn't want anyone to say that we were negligent in protecting our children along with standing for truth even in the face of adversity. Read this latest piece of news: http://www.cnn.com/2006/POLITICS/12/08/foley.ethics/index.html. I don't want God to say that we didn't do our best to protect our people from predators.

Thanks, but I'm ok. You are right, the link does work,, it just doesn't go to the copy of the e-mail I'm talking about, anymore??? Possibly I'm an idiot...

But thank God, I made a copy of the e-mail (from Walt Thompson to to September as it was was posted by her), so I could e-mail it out with my questions to Thompson and others.

Because of that I had a copy and paste of both this forum and the letter, so I could repost it here with a request for it to be pinned.

You can find it on the "Topics And Letters To Be Pinned?, Submitted documentation and letters from all involved" thread:

I also sent a personal message to September, as I am sure she has the original.

"sister"

As tough as it must be to believe there just might be more than one person out there who doesn't buy the "believe us at the cost of your soul" approach.

There are many who are reading here who are waiting for some sort of support to your claims, who will bide there time until there is evidence, or will simply walk away because of the cloakroom secrecy. Contrary to Bob P. comments I am not an apologist, I am a skeptic who continues to wait and see. What I have seen so far doesn't mesh well with the limited facts that have been made available by both sides. I realize there have been many reasons given for why substantiated support has not been provided - but the time has come for more than just the endless recital of he said/she said.

I realize both sides have been admonished by ASI to draw a curtain around the process and say nothing at this point, but if the accusations are going to continue to fly without support from Linda's camp (and this, as well as Maritime is the safe respite her cadre has found to do so) then it seems as if you are making a mockery of your position. If the ASI process is to work, and they have indicated that a moritorium on accusations and defense is necessary then it seems as if BSDA and Maritime would fall silent - that is if Linda and her camp are invested in and have accepted the process.

And lest there be any wondering I have been silently reading not creating alternate egos to raise necessary questions. And if that isn't clear enough, I don't know who Altheia (sp?) is, though I envy the fact she is enjoying a wonderful snowfall now and again.

Could you cite examples where the limited facts that have been made available by both sides don't mesh well? From my read of this thread some very large holes have been poked in the email from Dr. Thompson stating the 3abn version of the date of occurence and the number of alleged victims of alleged predator Tommy Shelton. How is this merely he said/she said? Dr. Thompson said, Danny said, Bob said, Pastor Dryden said, Roger Clem said.

What would you consider "some sort of support to your claims"?

If the ASI process is to work, and they have indicated that a moritorium on accusations and defense is necessary then it seems as if BSDA and Maritime would fall silent - that is if Linda and her camp are invested in and have accepted the process.

Where has it been written that ASI has admonished a curtain to be drawn around the process? I know that Danny has been advised not to say anything. But, at this point I don't think anyone even knows what issues are going to be addressed by ASI.

The discussions in this thread will, hopefully, result in this issue being made public to the point that:
1. If the allegations are true the secrecy cycle can finally be broken, other young men will be protected and past victims will be given the assistance they need to heal as much as possible.

2. If the allegations are false Tommy Shelton can once and for all be vindicated and move on with his life.

Perhaps you could list for me what posts here have taken the form of accusations - other than the obvious one accusing Alethia of being your alter ego - sigh.

Contrary to Bob P. comments I am not an apologist, I am a skeptic who continues to wait and see.

Dr. Thompson said in writing that Danny had essentially lied to him. Danny has had 10 days now to explain the discrepancies, and he has declined to do so.

Walt said that Danny said that the allegations were 30 years old, when the 2003 letter Walt got at that same time indicates that new allegations had been made for misconduct that occurred during the time period 1995-2000. This isn't he said/she said at all. It's black and white, concrete, and crystal clear.

Couple that with Roger Clem's testimony that he had come forward in early 2003 and other things, and we have a case that we could prove in court that Danny told Walt an extensive fabriaction regarding the serious nature, wide extent, and recent timing of the Tommy Shelton child molestation allegations.

1) I am less in "Linda's camp" than you are in Danny's camp. In other words, if you aren't in Danny's camp, I definitely am not in Linda's camp.

2) Please state the source of your information regarding there being a curtain around the process. If there really is a curtain, then how would you know that there is a curtain? Who's leaking that information to you?

It is obvious that 3ABN has entered into the process that ASI is going to undertake. Both Dr. Thompson and Mr. D. Shelton have indicated that they were told not speak any further about the issues until they were speaking before the council. This is evolving into a quasi-legal event and it is only logical that if ASI told one side to remain quiet until the process was complete, then it told the other side the same thing.

Here is a question to Greg Matthews, Gailon Joy, Bob *, sister, or another individual inside Linda's ranks, "Has Linda agreed to submit (just as 3ABN has had to do) the ASI process and if so, has she (and there by her camp) too been counseled not to discuss any potential issues?"

Answering said question isn't giving away any valuable information but would indicate that, as Greg M. pointed out a few weeks ago, there may be -finally-some resolution.

So my source is common sense about a fairly held and effectively planned hearing process.

That seems reasonable to me. ASI is not representing either side, just investigating, right?

"Has Linda agreed to submit (just as 3ABN has had to do) the ASI process and if so, has she (and there by her camp) too been counseled not to discuss any potential issues?"

Good question.

I would think all agree, that a resolution would be an answer to prayer, and help end all this division and strife which certainly doesn't look good to those outside the SDA Church, nor actually to many of us within it.

there is no division.... there is a man who has done some questionable things, and chooses to run his business as he wishes... then there are those who are trying to tell that man how to run his business...

My only beef with Shelton was the manner in which he divorced Linda and then trashed her reputation afterwards making it hard for her to support herself..... as for what is happening to him now, its his wagon he gotta pull it, but as my grandfather use to say, God don't like ugly.... and to be sure much of what Shelton has done is ugly... IMO.....

I was actually referring to the unresolved difference between Linda and Danny and the groups which have rallied behind one or the other. Quite Obviously when both hold such differnt positions, and are claiming opposing things, then they aren't United or in unity.

I am trying my best to stay unbiased until I know more, as far as I can tell there's questionable things on both sides, and unanswered questions on both sides.

The only thing I'll say for sure, is I don't like it when people are put on a pedestal, and other's start giving glory to a man rather then God. I've thought that was ugly for a long time now.

It's not good for those who do so, and it's certainly not good for the one being lifted up. Men get big heads and lose that humbleness quite often when given that temptation.

Course I've been knocked off my high horse like Saul/Paul too many times to count. Actually I asked Jesus to do so, cause he and I both know sometimes that's the only way my hardheaded self can notice what he's saying.

Have a blessed Sabbath,

Unquestionable things on both sides? I disagree... when the divorce action was initiated what had Linda done.... or better yet look at it this way, even IF she had done every thing she was accused of doing, as a christian man Danny Shelton should NOT have responded as he did..... period... so to me he was wrong from the beginning for not taking the christian high road.... the only thing this other info has shown is that maybe Danny has no idea where the christian high road is..... or if he does he choses not to take it.....

Yes, they are the ones hearing the evidence. Here are the comments from both Mr. D. Shelton and Dr. Thompson from earlier in this thread:

I will refrain from answering your questions at this time. I'm willing for ASI to do it's work with the facts presented by both sides.

Bob, Please understand that we are letting ASI deal with this first. Whatever is left we will look at later.
ASI has asked us not to discuss this situation in detail with anyone at this time. We are respecting that request.
Hopefully you will understand, if not I'm sorry, but you'll just have to wait until ASI makes a decision.

No need to respond

Hi Bob,

ASI has advised us to discontinue communication with our accusers while they are working. I will wait for the process to occur before commenting futher.

So, if one believes that this process is formal (and there is every reason to do so), then it is simple logic that both sides have been given the same set of expectations. If 3ABN has been told not to talk during the process - which would be necessary for the highest level of integrity possible - then I have not a doubt that Linda and her camp have been directed the same way. I believe the individuals from ASI are working as hard as is humanly possible to insure the highest level of professionalism in this process.

One can read the material here and come to very logical conclusions that do not support the rancor or some of the accusations.

Enjoy your Sabbath experience!

I believe you.

In my own experience, I have now come to believe that my sisters (13 mo younger) were molested by our stepfather. To this day, they have not really dealt with it and I have not encouraged them to talk about it. I know it is very painful for them. I have read that THE most painful part of something like this is that the VICTIM will think that people will blame them and they have an overwhelming sense of guilt. A child 5 on up to even later teens does not question an adult that much. They trust them. Even in my own situation, I (at the time) did not see anything wrong with my 12-13 yr. old sister getting into bed with our stepfather at 5 am when our mother went to work. I clearly see this now as not normal, but at the time you really don't.

Once again. I do believe you.

As a brother, I hope that you can encourage your sisters to seek and find help to deal with the effects of what they went through with your stepfather. If it remains buried in their minds it will color their lives in a very negative way. There is help out there for them. Urge them, and your mother if possible, to go after it.

My response:

There are people on both sides of these issues, who are working very hard with others, in an attempt to determine how resolution may be achieved, ether in part, or in whole. These are honest and sincere people who are devoting a lot of energy to this effort.

At his point in time, nothing more may be said publicly. If this effort succeeds, that will be announced, and information will be given on further steps to be taken to resolve the issues. If this effort fails, that will also be announced. If something else is accomplished, that will also be announced.

In the mean-time, we shall just have to wait.

It seems to me that if ASI is advising people what not to say they are acting more the part of the persons lawyer than investigator. So unless they have truely told all parties to keep quiet, then ASI's so called investigation is a bit suspect IMO.

Cindy,

I'll reply to the above which at the same time will be a reply to FHB.

1) Bob * is not a member of "Linda's party."

2) I am unaware that ASI has requested all parties to not answer any questions.

If they really did advise Danny to not answer questions about the Tommy Shelton child molestation allegations, then they are acting sort of as legal counsel to Danny, and thus are negating their ability to facilitate an impartial review process.

If they really didn't advise Danny to not answer questions about the Tommy Shelton child molestation allegations, then we have another example of Danny lying.

3) The question has been asked whether Linda has agreed to the ASI review process. If one reads what has already been publicly posted regarding the proposed foundation for those hearings, one can easily discern or conclude a few facts:

a) Someone proposed initial rules which were then mosified by a Gloria Wilson.

b) Gailon Joy on behalf of Linda then proposed changes to that proposal.

c) In other words, neither side had, at the point Gailon's/Linda's counter proposal was made, agreed to the ASI review process because the ground rules had not yet been determined and agreed upon. At that point not even Danny had agreed to it.

d) Yet it is very clear from the initial proposal that 3ABN/Danny was endeavoring to narrow the scope of the review to just the question of Linda's guilt, and to shroud everything in permanent secrecy. I have repeatedly told Danny that both of these strategies are, in my opinion, horrendous mistakes.

Right on. They certainly haven't asked me not to answer questions about any of the allegations, I can vouch for that. And if they had asked Linda to not answer questions, I would think that someone would have told me that by now, especially since Gailon reacted so strongly over this issue about two weeks ago.

Two weeks ago he sent out two emails pointing out exactly what you did, and if they had advised Linda too to keep silent, then certainly Danny or someone would have corrected Gailon on that point.

So it is fairly certain that IF they asked anyone to keep silent, it was only Danny et. al.

Hi Danny.

This is more of a pastoral letter than anything else.

You know, before I sent that last email, I was really beginning to feel bad for you. It looks like such an impossible situation, with no good solutions, like a bad dream. I would not want to be in your shoes just now.

I've been in bad situations before (nothing like this, though), and it sure wasn't fun. It can be so devastating. And I truly do feel bad for you.

What do you think would bring the most glory to God, and be truly the best for 3ABN? Would it not be to step aside after doing what you can to facilitate the immediate implementation of some of the structural reforms Gailon has had in mind, where there are proper checks and balances to prevent this kind of thing from ever happening again?

I just thought I would try to reach out to you before, well, before whatever happens next.

Did you have opportunity to read that story from the SOP I attached to the end of my last letter? What did you think of that? I honestly could not read it without breaking down and crying. Praise God for His mercy, power, and grace!

Long ago I had a sermon entitled, "Mercy for Manasseh." Too many people think they have sinned too much to be pardoned, forgiven, cleansed, and saved. Well, Manasseh was a preacher's kid of sorts, offered his own kids up as sacrifices, sawed Isaiah in half, and filled Jerusalem with blood, and the Bible even says that God sent Judah into captivity because God couldn't forgive Manasseh's sins.

Yet in spite of all that, when Manasseh was in a dungeon in Babylon, he turned to God and prayed, and God forgave him personally even though He could not forgive the nation as a whole for those sins, and Manasseh was restored to his throne.

Then he immediately went about trying to undo all the damage he had done. Of course he couldn't succeed in that entirely, but he tried, and that's all that God is looking for.

Now if God could pardon Manasseh, he most certainly can pardon you and me. Praise His name!

Do you believe that? That's the first and biggest step, to believe. Would you take that step just now?

Bob

Bob,
If you really are a pastor I feel sorry for you. You should know better than to listen to rumors and false accusations and judge those are doing the work of God. It seems your time would be better spent winning souls than trying to destroy people.
Please don't feel sorry for me. I am very happy. I have spent the last 22 years of my life doing what God has called me to do.
God's word does not tell us that serving Jesus will be easy. Look what happened to the Son of God when he walked among people. They wrongly judged Jesus just as you and Gailon and others are doing with me and the 3ABN board and others as you see fit. You are a pawn in Linda's hand and you apparently don't even know it or maybe it's just that you don't care.
I don't know.
You might want to ask yourself how you would have stood had you lived on earth when Jesus was here. Would you have judged Him also and found Him wanting?

I feel sorry for you and Gailon and others who have fallen for lies. I am very confident that an unbiased ASI group will see truth when it is presented to them.
You and Gailon have judged me based on rumors and lies. The ASI group will judge me and Linda based on evidence. I have told you all along that I have evidence that I have not presented to you because I didn't need to. I was saving it for the right time if necessary. I believe that now is the time to present eye witnesses and evidence at the ASI hearing.

3ABN has always had check and balances. Our financial records are in perfect order. We have nothing to hide. It's just that we don't have to show every one who comes along all our records just because he thinks he is a Sherlock Holmes as you and Gailon seem to think you are.
You have bought Linda's lie hook line and sinker because you have believed a few people who claim to "know" certain things.
You will ultimately find you are wrong even tho you may never admit it.
Linda knows all the bad seeds she has planted about the management of 3ABN is not true. It is all a smoke screen. If all this wrong doing had been going on all these years then she would also be accountable as she was the VP of 3ABN. Yes, she was privy to all facets of this ministry. No secrets were kept from her.
Why is she now "spilling the beans". If she honestly saw such terrible mis management why didn't she do the right thing and bring glory to God by giving everyone a chance to correct wrong doing or as a last resort "spill the beans" to the right authorities. We are supposed to love God more than father mother sister or brother. I realize all this is going over your head, but for some reason I'm writing it anyway.

3ABN is God's ministry. He will take care of us as He has for the last 22 years.
I'm amazed that if those of us in leadership are so crooked and such awful liars as you and your group seem to think, that God would continue to bless us in every way.
This has been our best year ever financially. Our wills and trust department has brought in more money this year than ever before also.
Virtually every day I hear from or about people around the whole world who have given their life to Jesus by watching 3ABN and others who have already joined the SDA church because of the ministry of 3ABN.
The bible says we will know people by their fruits. The fruit of 3ABN's labor under the direction of our 3ABN board, with God's added blessings, has been wonderfully successful in the last 22 years. But the truth is we have never grown so fast as we have the last 2 1/2 years.

Bob, you are trying to look at the physical side of the controversy between good and evil. Satan is the prince of the flesh. Those who follow after flesh will/have been deceived. You will only make it through to the kingdom of God when you begin to live in the spiritual world
If I lived in the physical realm I might be troubled and discouraged and might even want to quit. But because the picture that God shows all of us when we look at the spiritual realm is,,, that God has us in the palm of His hand! He will never leave us or forsake us. In the spiritual realm one praises God for trials and tribulation thrown at him. This is the Jesus treatment. We all deserve this kind of treatment. It purifies us as gold in the fire.
No Bob, the last thing on my mind right now is resigning from 3ABN. I will resign when the Lord is ready for it.
Most of the complainers are not the prayer warriors and financial contributors to 3ABN. You have a few people following the deception road you are traveling, but for the most part, people support those who are giving them spiritual food.

You can believe Gailon and Linda if you choose. But I know first hand about their lies they have told. Barb Kerr just wrote me and told me that Gailon is voicing that he has uncovered at least 8-10 affairs that I have had since I married Linda. God knows and I know that is lie. There has never been one!
I have talked to church leaders who tell me that Gailon Joy could not be Christian. They judge him by his fruits, his emails he sends them. He is not making an impact on responsible SDA's for the good. Quite the contrary.
To the spiritually discerning Christian, it is easy to read Gailon's arrogance, his pride, his hatred towards me and any who oppose his views.
In the long run, I'm predicting that he will be no help to Linda's cause.
I shocked that you as a pastor, if you are one, would rally behind someone with so un Christian of a spirit. It seems it would be easy for you to see. Most people I have talked to that he has sent emails to them, say things like "This guy is a nut". Some have said he is obviously led by the Devil, ect, ect. When you wake up outside your little chatroom world you will find he has no credibility. People finding out that he is a convicted embezzler has helped your little group also.
You don't need to answer this email to you.
Ps. I didn't read the last two emails from you. I just deleted them so I don't know what story you are talking about, but you don't need to bother to re send it.

Thanks,

> I have talked to church leaders who tell me that Gailon Joy could not be Christian. They judge him by his fruits, his emails he sends them. He is not making an impact on responsible SDA's for the good. Quite the contrary. To the spiritually discerning Christian, it is easy to read Gailon's arrogance, his pride, his hatred towards me and any who oppose his views. In the long run, I'm predicting that he will be no help to Linda's cause. I shocked that you as a pastor, if you are one, would rally behind someone with so un Christian of a spirit. It seems it would be easy for you to see. Most people I have talked to that he has sent emails to them, say things like "This guy is a nut". Some have said he is obviously led by the Devil, ect, ect.

Know anyone on Danny's side that sends out emails that sound as if they are filled with arrogance, pride, and/or hatred, and that exhibit an unchristian spirit?

To: Danny Shelton
CC: Walt Thompson, Elder Ken Denslow

Greetings.

I hesitate to send a copy of this to Elder Denslow too, since some of the points seem less important than the major, major issues we have been discussing the last ten days, but since he is the conference president and a member of the 3ABN board, I do think I need to keep him abreast of all of this correspondence. Particularly, I think he needs to see the pastoral appeal I wrote to Danny late Wednesday, as well as your reply to it, both of which appear at the bottom of my reply to yours.

You'll have to pardon me, but I'm not exactly sure who to address this reply to. I can see at least five internal clues in your reply that Danny Shelton was not the author. And a couple others who have read it are likewise absolutely positive that Danny didn't write it. So I will address you as the author, but speak of Danny in third person.

You write:

> QUOTE(Unknown Author)

You will be happy to know that just last Sunday afternoon, I spent four and a half hours in a Bible study in a home of a family of ten. Wasn't sure what to expect since the idea was for them to share with me where Adventists could improve in their doctrines. We ended up covering the topics they chose such as the Spirit of Prophecy, the scapegoat, the investigative judgment, the perpetuity of the law of God and spiritual gifts, law and grace, Christ in the Old Testament, and the Sabbath. We parted with them asking for literature about the Sabbath.

We didn't discuss the state of the dead, though. My daughter had covered that last time we met.

You write:

> QUOTE(Unknown Author)
> "I feel sorry for you and Gailon and others who have fallen for lies. ... You and Gailon have judged me based on rumors and lies."

I am not sure what to make of this. Since our current discussion began Wednesday a week ago because of Dr. Walt Thompson's written statement that Danny had essentially misled him regarding the serious nature, wide extent, and recent timing of the Tommy Shelton child molestation allegations, are you trying to say that Danny's trusted board chairman and staunch defender was lying to me?

You write:

> QUOTE(Unknown Author)
> "I am very confident that an unbiased ASI group will see truth when it is presented to them. ... The ASI group will judge me and Linda based on evidence."

In my opinion, Danny's persistent refusal to allow ASI to review all the allegations, including the elaborate fabrication Dr. Thompson indicated that Danny told him in 2003 in order to cover up the serious nature, wide extent, and recent timing of his brother's child molestation allegations, that persistent refusal is a fatal mistake. And that fact is obvious to nearly everyone who knows about it.

You write:

It's just that we don't have to show every one who comes along all our records just because he thinks he is a Sherlock Holmes as you and Gailon seem to think you are. You have bought Linda's lie hook line and sinker because you have believed a few people who claim to 'know' certain things."

Maybe Danny didn't tell you that I didn't believe outright what Gailon wrote about his trying to hide during his distribution of marital assets case the amounts that he pocketed from the free distribution of Ten Commandments Twice Removed last spring. That's why I wrote Danny on Oct. 31 and asked him if he was indeed trying to hide that, and I also asked him how much royalty was paid by whom and to whom. Did he really get 11 cents a book x 4.5 million books = roughly $500,000?

Since in Danny's four replies he evaded all attempts to clarify that figure, he thus led me to believe that his personal profits from that free distribution must have been substantial. And on Nov. 3 he did say:

> QUOTE(Danny Shelton)
> "The info Galon or whomever, gave you about royalties and costs of books ect. is a lie also. ...
> "I will not at this time devulge any more info about this book at this time. I may when mine and her settlement case is over."

And as I made very clear in my next reply to Danny, I took these words to mean that he was indeed hiding how much he had profited from the free distribution of Ten Commandments Twice Removed during the distribution of marital assets proceedings. Correct me if I am wrong, but Danny did not correct my perception in his replies of November 4 and 5, and still today, I am at a loss to take his words in any other way.

In other words, I have come to believe that Danny did make a killing on the free distribution of Ten Commandments Twice Removed, and that he was trying to hide the amounts of those profits during his distribution of marital assets proceedings, I have come to believe that because of Danny's own testimony, not because of what Gailon or any of Danny's critics have said.

You write:

If all this wrong doing had been going on all these years then she would also be accountable as she was the VP of 3ABN. Yes, she was privy to all facets of this ministry. No secrets were kept from her."

This has been my concern almost from the beginning. I have been concerned that Danny might try to take anyone and everyone down with him, including the totally innocent and those who have simply made some innocent mistakes.

Whether Linda falls into that category, I cannot say and do not know. But I would advise Danny that it will not be good PR for his cause if he starts trying to drag a host of others into the midst of this.

This has been our best year ever financially. Our wills and trust department has brought in more money this year than ever before also."

I am a bit puzzled at this. The book of Job; Mat. 5:45; Luke 12:16-20; 16:23-25; Rev. 3:17; and other passages all tell us that material blessings are not necessarily evidence that we are in the Lord's will, and Seventh-day Adventists have always believed and taught that. Are you suggesting that Danny no longer believes this?

You write:

> QUOTE(Unknown Author)

I think any unbiased onlooker to our discussions the last ten days would say that the Lord is ready for it. Shall we take a poll?

> QUOTE(Unknown Author)
> "Most of the complainers are not the prayer warriors and financial contributors to 3ABN."

This may in part be due to the fact that Danny apparently ensures that those who don't personally agree with his course are removed from or prevented from being on 3ABN's email lists. I only suggest that because I signed up a long time ago and have yet to receive a thing.

And of course, anyone who finds out that Danny's own board chairman has essentially admitted that Danny misled him regarding the serious nature, wide extent, and recent timing of the Tommy Shelton child molestation allegations would likely hesitate to continue financially supporting 3ABN, until these extremely serious issues are resolved. Most folks probably do not want to contribute to a ministry if they think their contribution just might possibly get diverted from the Lord's work and be used instead to defend and settle cases of alleged child molestation. And with the apparent negligence that Danny has shown in this matter, one can only dream of the amount of punitive damages a jury just might award.

OK.... have done..... continue on.....

.... though you didn't really need someone else to reply before you continue. I have found that if you wait 20 - 30 minutes before making another send, the software stops adding your reply to the post you have just made, and begins a new post. Not sure of the exact moment this happens.... but it's in that neighborhood.

Good to know that, WB.

Here's the rest of my reply to Danny and whoever wrote the reply I received.

Barb Kerr just wrote me and told me that Gailon is voicing that he has uncovered at least 8-10 affairs that I have had since I married Linda. God knows and I know that is lie. There has never been one!"

For the record, I am basing what I believe to be fact upon what Danny, Dr. Thompson, Hal and Mollie Steenson, John Lomacang, Melody Firestone, and the O'Briens have said.

As far as how many affairs Gailon said that Danny has had, Gailon's actual wording in his email of Nov. 26 states that Danny has had "inappropriate relationships," not "affairs." I would very much appreciate Danny writing back and stating unequivocally that he has not had one single inappropriate relationship in the last 22 years.

Regarding Barb Kerr's main reason for writing Danny:

> QUOTE(Barb Kerr)
> "I am writing once again to ask you to donate the master copies of all of my cooking videos to my ministry. I now have my non-profit 501©(3) status and would be happy to give you a receipt for your donation. I would also like, in writing, a statement that gives me the rights to use the programs as I see fit. I appreciate so much your generosity towards my ministry since you are no longer airing the programs or selling them."

Will Danny be donating the master copies of and rights to Barbara Kerr's cooking programs that she put so much effort and time into, and if so, when, and if not, why not?

> QUOTE(Unknown Author)

> "I have talked to church leaders who tell me that Gailon Joy could not be Christian."

Which church leaders have told Danny that? How can we be sure that this statement is any more factual than the fabrication that the child molestation allegations against Tommy Shelton are all 30 years old?

> QUOTE(Unknown Author)
> "People finding out that he is a convicted embezzler has helped your little group also."

Yes, as he explained in detail to Danny, Gailon did convert to his own use money that he had an interest in, which according to Vermont statute constitutes embezzlement. In laymen's oversimplified, imprecise, and not quite accurate terms, he stole his own money. This sounds just a tad more serious than the charge that Ellen White plagiarized since she didn't use quotation marks and cite references in every instance where she copied from her own writings.

> QUOTE(Unknown Author)
> "Ps. I didn't read the last two emails from you. I just deleted them so I don't know what story you are talking about, but you don't need to bother to re send it."

Here is something which one of Danny's friends pointed out to me when he called the other day. Danny wrote on Tuesday:

> QUOTE(Danny Shelton)
> "According to you and Gailon and several others, the 3ABN leadership including myself, have covered up my wrong doing by making Linda the scape goat. ... Should ASI decide that the 3ABN board and myself did not 'scapegoat Linda' ...."

I replied in my next to last email:

> QUOTE(Bob)
> "I believe the term 'smokescreen' would be more appropriate than 'scapegoat.' "

And in this email you write:

> QUOTE(Unknown Author)
> "It is all a smoke screen."

Danny's friend thought that this indicated for sure that either you or Danny had indeed read my next to last email, contrary to your assertion. Or, as someone pointed out, instead of reading them, maybe Danny had someone read my last two emails to him. Thus, he could have known their contents without actually reading them.

Thanks so much for passing on this reply to Danny.

Bob

Sorry to bother you again, Danny's penman, but I think the following should be added to my reply to your reply.

Romans 2:1 says, "Therefore thou art inexcusable, O man, whosoever thou art that judgest: for wherein thou judgest another, thou condemnest thyself; for thou that judgest doest the same things."

Arrogance, pride, hatred toward anyone who opposes his views, an unchristian spirit. If that really is the correct way to characterize Gailon Joy's emails, then perhaps you[, Danny,] and he have a few things in common. Take, for example, the emails Danny sent Johann on May 31 and June 3, 2004, or some of the ones Danny has sent me. "It seems it would be easy for you to see."

Truly hoping that you both might surrender all to our Lord Jesus at this eleventh hour, Bob

I have friends who are members of ASI and are not involved in this investigation or privy to all of the presentations that Danny has made to them. Could someone tell me what part of ASI is involved in this discussion--does part or all of ASI have a voice in litigations between Danny and the opposing side? I know what ASI is all about but I do not know how they can have voice in judging the right or wrong of this 3ABN mess. Does ASI speak for Danny alone? Are they or their officers a judgemental group who can tell Danny and others when or when not to speak? Maybe there are others who read this panel who would like to know the exact part that ASI is playing in the decisions of these things. Are they a true Adventist group of sincere Adventist business people or are they a judgemental group who have so much sway?

I have a good friend who is an ASI member who asked someone high up if the ASI members were going to be informed of ASI's role in all of this. I don't think they had been informed as of Friday evening.

Based on what he has told me, I'd say that it must be the folks at the top who have been in the know up till now.

But remember, based on the publicly posted Proposed Foundation I referred to before, as of that being posted, no one, not even ASI, had committed themselves to a definite process since a definite process had not yet been decided upon.

ASI is a group of business people who are members of the Seventh-day Adventist Church, and have formed an association in which they can fellowship together, and support the work of the SDA Church through their business interests. 3-ABN is a major player in ASI.

An attempt is being made to see if ASI can play a role in bringing resolution in some manner to this mess.

This can only happen if the respective parties agree that it shall happen. It does not have the authority to compel any person or group. However, it is thought by some that it may have moral authority which can persuade.

The specifics as to who, what and how, can not be disclosed as those questions can not be answered prior to the parties agreeing on those questions. I.E. I do not know the answers to some parts of those questions as they have not been determined by an agreement of the parties.

Several of the people involved in these early discussions do not wish to have their identities revealed at this time.

Speaking in generalities, I will simply say: Major players on both sides of this issue are kept informed. They provide input to people who represent them in these discussions. This, as you might expect, is critical. Without agreement by the major players, there can be neither agreement nor resolution.

I am encouraged by the fact that those participating in the discussions are personally relating well, as I would phrase it, to each other. Dialog is taking place. At the same time the discussions are frank, and open. There are difficulties which must be overcome before resolution can be attempted. It remains to be seen if this can happen. I do not predict the final outcome.

I am posting these comments because:

1) I believe that even with the privacy that must take place during these discussions, the public can be told some things.

2) I believe that it is helpful for the public to be told that honest, sincere, people who do differ on some of the involved issues are working very hard to effect some kind of a resolution.

3) I think that it is helpful for people to know that the task is not easy. It may succeed. It may fail. That can not be predicted at this time.

4) If it fails, it may be due to complex issues, and fault can not be laid on specific people.

This past Sabbath Dr. Arild Abrahamsen went to worship in a black Seventh-day Adventist church where he had never been before. When they discovered the Norwegian doctor accused by Danny Shelton was in the audience, the whole congregation shouted and clapped and welcomed him as a dear friend. Arild told me he has never received such a warm welcome, and he felt so much at home with these dear people. They worshipped with divine love in their hearts.

Some members of that congregation must be reading BSDA. Arild wants me to express his gratitude to you all.

I feel a little bit guilty because it is very easy to sit back and arm chair quarterback. But it seems that the things going on at 3abn are a snapshot of the entire Conference as a whole. This whole thing could be ended if Danny and the board would simply step down but it is evident that like the Seventh-day Adventist Church to which I am a part of has long since lost respect for the members. This is not only Danny's battle but leaderships battle the Hierarchy against the little nobodies in the pew. Looking at this just from face value (man gets rid of wife marries lady younger than daughter) board pronounces it as a act of God is completely crazy or weird or cultic. And yet they sit there on television and smile like everything is okay, how sick. The circumstances surrounding this whole affair is statanic in nature. Mending broken people and yet the board removes the vic-president without even a public prayer. It is much bigger than linda having a affair it revealed the unkind unloving uncaring nature of the people at 3abn. Selfish, would be much to weak a word for the way they acted. And as I remember just before Linda was band I remember seeing Danny and Her holding hands looking toward the sky.

I Dont think that the leadership gets it they think it is all about who is quilty and who is not. But what they fail to remember is that we are all guilty and that no one in their right mind guilty or innocent would want to be treated the way they have treated Linda. They seem to think that if they prove Linda was in a affair that that justifies the things they have done. What they dont understand is that they had a responsibility to represent Jesus not themselves and their self righteousness. People dont want Love to cease when they have done wrong even if they deserve it (now that is the true gospel) For God soooooo Loved that He gave His only begotten Son. All of us are guilty of the same thing Linda is accused of and that includes the board members.

I can think of a many other ways to have solved the problem without doing it the way they did.

Danny step down and finally show the love for the people that Jesus would show, the gospel is not about the carpenter Danny but the real carpenter Jesus.

Claims and counterclaims, he said, she said, they said. How's anyone to sort it all out?

As we sift through all the stories, we want to isolate as many clear, indisputable, and provable facts as we can, facts based more on documents than on testimony.

The Tommy Shelton child molestation allegations show the importance of this. Walt Thompson admitted that Danny Shelton had essentially misled him regarding the serious nature, wide extent, and recent timing of those allegations, and he also admitted that both he and the 3ABN board had taken Danny's word for it without doing their own independent investigation.

Thus, we cannot simply rely on either Danny's or the board's word regarding Danny's divorce and remarriage. We need something more.

This thread will examine just such material, and we invite both sides to provide as much as possible for posting here.

The following consists of excerpts from an email intended for Gailon. We will just include the portions dealing with the fact we are examining, as well as portions claiming that Linda is a liar. Pertinent portions we have bolded.

The incident being described concerns a watch given by Dr. Arild Abrahamsen and/or Johann Thorvaldsson, which Danny found while rummaging through Linda's car. But since both sides give different accounts of the cost of the watch, the reason for the gift, and the circumstances of its discovery, we ignore those details and concentrate on just what is easily provable and indisputable.

Gailon,

Walt copied me your email to him.

...

Anyway, let me give you just a few things to think about,
You claim that Linda passed your truth test. Are you not aware that any one who is a polished liar will not wiggle or squirm when being questioned about their lies, ESPECIALLY if they are confident that the person who is questioning them has already bought their lies hook, line and sinker?

Linda also seemed to pass the lie test verbally about her relationship with Arild to me and the board for a while, but physical evidence showed up to disprove her smooth talk. I'll give you just a couple small examples.

...

She told me that she was going to go lay out by the swimming pool. I decided to go look in her car for any evidence to support the PI's claim that had not been mailed to me yet. Our car door was locked. Yes, I'm aware that she claims it was her car but I have proof that it is titled to both she and I even unto this day. She didn't apparently remember that I too had keys to this Toyota Sequoia. I opened the car door and opened the glove compartment. What did I see? Yes, I saw the same watch described to me by the PI.

...

I then pulled the picture of the watch from underneath my shirt and showed it to her at which point she yelled out, "I can't believe you broke into my car and got into my personal belongings! This is abuse!"

I said to her that rather than talk about abuse, I thought we should talk about the lie of the whole thing. A few minutes later she left the house.

I'm only giving you the tip of the iceberg. This is not my proof for adultery. I'm only telling you why your truth test on her has Zero credibility as she is apparently in a different league than you as you bought her stories hook line and sinker.

=================================

What we have below is a copy of the title to Linda's car. The VIN does indeed belong to a Toyota Sequoia. It was purchased on December 30, 2002, and the title was issued the following February 11.

It is titled only in Linda's name.

This discrepancy does not disprove the rest of Danny's story, but it does demonstrate that something more is needed than just his word.

Perhaps Danny has an explanation for this discrepancy.

Subject: Question on discrepancy regarding automobile title.
Date: Thu, 14 Dec 2006 09:44:17 -0600
To: Danny Shelton
CC: Walt Thompson, Elder Ken Denslow

Greetings, Danny.

I came across a discrepancy yesterday, and was wondering if you could help me out with it. I'll write this as if I'm tacking it on to the four emails I sent at Dr. Walt Thompson's suggestion (he had written me and said, http://www.maritime-sda-online.org/forums/ubbthreads.php?ubb=showflat&Number=82117&page=1&fpart=4#Post82149), even though the topic is a little different.

For the last four months I've tried to avoid digging through the details regarding your divorce and remarriage. It just hasn't interested me; I haven't been on a mission to exonerate Linda. But it does seem appropriate to finally look into the topic a little.

What I'm trying to do is avoid any and all details that are based merely on your or Linda's word, and stick with concrete facts that can be irrefutably proven using legal and other documents. Thus, your statements to Gailon in your email of October 8, 2006, caught my attention.

You will recall that in http://www.maritime-sda-online.org/forums/ubbthreads.php?ubb=showflat&Number=82487&page=1&fpart=1#Post82490 you went into a bit of detail about how good a "liar" Linda is, and then described the watch incident. Since you and she dispute the cost of the watch, the reason for the gift, and the precise circumstances of its discovery, I want to ignore that and just touch on the following:

> "She told me that she was going to go lay out by the swimming pool. I decided to go look in her car for any evidence to support the PI's claim that had not been mailed to me yet. Our car door was locked. Yes, I'm aware that she claims it was her car but I have proof that it is titled to both she and I even unto this day. She didn't apparently remember that I too had keys to this Toyota Sequoia. I opened the car door and opened the glove compartment. What did I see? Yes, I saw the same watch described to me by the PI.
> ...
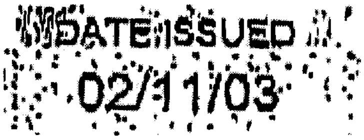
> "I then pulled the picture of the watch from underneath my shirt and showed it to her at which point she yelled out, "I can't believe you broke into my car and got into my personal belongings! This is abuse!' " (bold added)

I received a fax of Linda's automobile title from her bank yesterday. You can view the title's top half, the half that contains all the details, at http://www.maritime-sda-online.org/forums/ubbthreads.php?ubb=showflat&Number=82501&page=0&fpart=1#Post82491. The VIN on the title did check out as belonging to a Toyota Sequoia (4 dr. wagon/sport utility with a 4.7 V8), so you are correct about that. I'll put below the portions that concern the date of purchase, the date the title was issued, and the owner(s) listed on the title:

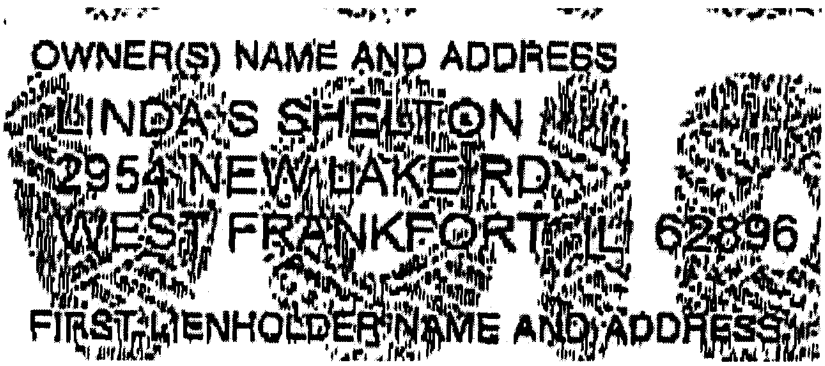
PURCHASE DATE

12/30/02



DATE ISSUED

02/11/03



OWNER(S) NAME AND ADDRESS

LINDA S SHELTON
2954 NEW LAKE RD
WEST FRANKFORT IL 62896

FIRST LIENHOLDER NAME AND ADDRESS

Question 31: Can you explain how Linda's title has had only her name on it since February 11, 2003, when you claimed that your name was also on the title, or do you have any other explanation for this discrepancy?

It would not surprise me if Linda has difficulty telling the truth, and so if you do have irrefutable, concrete evidence similar to the above that Linda has indeed lied, please send it to me at your earliest convenience.

Regarding my previous http://www.maritime-sda-online.org/forums/ubbthreads.php?ubb=showflat&Number=82114&page=1#Post82114 containing questions about the Tommy Shelton child molestation allegations, I do hope you can soon provide either some answers to explain the discrepancies or at least issue an apology for how those allegations were handled. I think it is absolutely vital that you give some sort of response as soon as possible that either directly addresses those discrepancies or makes an apology, for each day that goes by without this, it just seems that your credibility is called more and more into question.

Trusting that your day will be filled with the peace that passes understanding, peace that comes from the presence of the Spirit in a heart renewed and cleansed by divine grace,

Bob

Sorry, mistake in posting.

A Note of Interest:

Friday, December 15, schedule for 3ABN Today:

Holiday Musical Concert: Danny Shelton, Dave Lehman, Melody Shelton, Tommy Shelton

Danny Shelton: non-Biblical divorce from his Linda Shelton, adulterer, and too numerous other allegations to list

Dave Lehman: Dave had an ongoing affair with Melody while she was married to Darrell Mundall. He was her music producer.

Melody Shelton: divorced her first husband twice with no Biblical grounds, committed adultery with multiple partners during her mariages to Derrell Mundall, pregnant out of wedlock with her current husband.

Tommy Shelton: his ministrial credentials were recinded by the denomination of which he is still a member (not SDA), alleged molesester of young boys.

These are the people who are representing Adventism and the SDA church to the world? Interesting that they are all still at 3ABN, while Linda Shelton was fired without any real evidence of wrong doing.

Does anyone know if this is a rebroadcast or if it is a newly recorded show?

Uh Sarah, Sister staed her purpose quite clearly here:

.....bolded no less. Now, you can comment on whther this is an unacceptable or valid reason for you, but her intention is clear.

The point is that no evidence has been publicly shown that merits Linda, not only being fired from her position at 3ABN, but in addition to that any program in which she has appeared were eradicated from the archives of 3ABN and never shown again after June 2004. At 3ABN those who sin and have not repented are rewarded for their behavior and appear on screen representing Christ and the Seventh-day Adventist Church. At 3ABN the Shelton family are saved in their sins not from their sins. Is their example one that the Seventh-day Adventist Church wants to be associated with publically?

In other words, the cooking programs with both Linda Shelton and Barbara Kerr have all been eradicated from the archives, but Danny lets Barbara Kerr continue to ask for the master tapes of those cooking programs -- without Danny telling Barbara they have been destroyed?

Interesting.

Interestingly the website of a local European church still has a link to both 3ABN and Barbara's website.

3ABN has no obligation to show any evidence publicly or privately. It is a private company, they can hire and fire who ever they want to.

Pete,

I do not know for certain if the masters of Barbara Kerr's programs have been destroyed, but they do not exist in the files available for programming or distribution.

I think Sarah makes a good point with her question. Hey we have heard all this already and already. When is it ever going to be enough already? Nothing new here with these repeats of their transgressions. Is this really what Christ would do? Just seems so unChrislike to repeat over and over these folks sins/faults.

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Dec 15 2006, 07:35 PM

To answer my own earlier question, the program sister is refering to appears to have been from last year or before. I know this because it had the older style intro and Danny's hair was still reddish and not the more brunette color of recent times. Only the address roll appeared to have been updated with Melody's new last name.

Since we aren't onmiscient we can't know if any of these folks have truly repented of their sins so it's a bit risky to state otherwise, IMO.

Good point Ed. Most of us try to surround ourselves with people who have the same intrests as us.

Something worn out and tired? So are the effects of sin and evil in this ancient world of ours. Does that mean that we forget about it and reject the Balm in Gilead?

Posted by: lurker Dec 16 2006, 08:23 AM

I see this as a social justice issue within our church. Jesus called out the Pharisees and others who held power on their misuse of that power. And he called them on their own sins. Calvin, I know you have read some of the names he called them. Just read them again if you have forgotten. Look at how angry he was when he cleansed the temple. This wasn't "Sweet little Jesus meek and mild."

I don't care how much money Linda gets in a settlement as long as it is fairly arrived at. I really don't care if Linda gets a new ministry. What I care about is whether our church and its officials favor those with good p.r. and/or power over those who have less power or media resources. I care whether they impartially examine the claims and whether they block the wheels of justice or allow others to do so. I care how they treat those they "like" or don't "like". Jesus said "Inasmuch as you have done it unto the least of these my brethren, you have done it unto me."

When we won't just "roll over and play dead" it is annoying to say the least. I know that church officials may fear a division within the church. But to follow the example of Christ, they and we have to follow principle over policy. I have sent those who are investigating this the documented information I have, not because I think that Linda is perfect but because I think that those in power, especially Danny must judge and be judged by the facts not by propaganda.

Lurker: You are so right. It is hard to believe that they are putting fear of division of leadership in place of honesty and truthfulness. I have full faith in the foundation beliefs of the SDA Church but I have no faith in the honesty and Christianity of the leaders who know the truth and are willing to forfeit their own honesty and Christianity in regards to the whole 3ABN Saga. In other words, I don't go there anymore.

I don't know about these specific programs - but I'm sure the EPA would be interested to know about a "little" hole dug on the property used for discarded tapes...

Hi Danny.

I noticed that in your email to Gregory Matthews on Oct. 27, 2004, that you got very specific about the number, location, timing, and duration of vacations that Linda took with the doctor, and that you stated that you had proof of these things. If you do have such proof, I would definitely consider joining your camp. What sort of proof do you have?

It's been two and a half weeks since I wrote you at Dr. Walt Thompson's request. Have you been able to find any explanations for the discrepancies regarding your brother's child molestation allegations?

Did you get my last email about the automobile title discrepancy? If so, have you been able to find an explanation yet for that discrepancy?

Subject: Questions pertaining to conversation with Hal Steenson

Greetings, Danny.

In http://www.maritime-sda-online.org/forums/ubbthreads.php?ubb=showflat&Number=82912&page=0&fpart=1#Post82229, I left you hanging a bit at the end, and I don't think that's fair. So I thought I'd write you again and fill my comment in a little. In that email I wrote:

> QUOTE

It isn't fair to you to keep you hanging forever on that one, so I will touch on it now. On August 3 or 4 (most likely 4), 2006, at the ASI Convention, I had opportunity to privately ask Hal Steenson a few questions without anyone overhearing us. One of those questions was simply when your daughter Melody got married. Hal diverted the conversation to that of you and Linda, a topic I wasn't even going to touch, and gave me as proof of Linda's guilt three things:

- Since the only Bible grounds for divorce and remarriage is fornication, and since you got remarried, Linda has to be guilty.
- Since the board is composed of godly people and they went along with it, Linda has to be guilty.
- There is a recording that is so bad, conference presidents have listened to it and after 30 seconds they say, "Turn it off," it is that convincing.

As of late October, your conference president had not yet heard it. Thus,

Question 32: Who all has heard this recording, and which conference presidents have heard it, or did Hal get his details mixed up?

I found the following at http://www.rcfp.org/taping/consent.html and http://www.rcfp.org/taping/states/illinois.html, information that is particularly relevant to reporters. I would imagine that under the statutes individuals would be treated roughly similar, but I'm not an attorney, and so I do not know for sure. The actual state statute appears http://www.ilga.gov/legislation/ilcs/ilcs4.asp?DocName=072000050HArt%2E+14&ActID=1876&ChapAct=720%26nbsp%3BILCS%26nbsp%3B5%2F&ChapterID=53&ChapterName=CRIMINAL+OFFENSES&SectionID=60651&SeqStart=25300000&SeqEnd=26500000&
2E, and I'll quote just a little from it as well.

> QUOTE(Info on legal implications of recording conversations.)
> "Criminal purpose. Federal law requires only one-party consent to the recording and disclosure of a telephone conversation, but explicitly does not protect the taping if it is done for a criminal or tortious purpose." (http://www.rcfp.org/taping/consent.html)

> "720 Ill. Compiled Stat. Ann. 5/14-1, -2: An eavesdropping device cannot be used to record or overhear a conversation without the consent of all parties to the conversation under criminal statutes. >
> "In addition, it is criminally punishable to disclose information one knows or should know was obtained through an eavesdropping device. Civil liability for actual and punitive damages is authorized as well. 720 Ill. Compiled Stat. Ann. 5/14-6." (http://www.rcfp.org/taping/states/illinois.html)
> "Sec. 14-2. Elements of the offense; affirmative defense.

> "(3) Uses or divulges ... any information which he knows or reasonably should know was obtained through the use of an eavesdropping device." (http://www.ilga.gov/legislation/ilcs/ilcs4.asp?DocName=072000050HArt%2E+14&ActID=1876&ChapAct=720%26nbsp%3BILCS%26nbsp%3B5%

> 2F&ChapterID=53&ChapterName=CRIMINAL+OFFENSES&SectionID=60651&SeqStart=25300000&SeqEnd=265000008
> 2E)

You'll notice that Illinois law appears to cover the recording of any type of conversation, while federal law seems to specifically concern just telephone conversations.

Question 33: Is Hal correct that such a recording exists and/or was made, and if so, how many parties were there to the conversation and how many of those parties gave their consent to being recorded?

Question 34: Assuming that the recording does exist and/or was made, to whom, besides myself, and by whom was information from that recording divulged, and can you demonstrate that the taping was not done for a tortious purpose?

Out of everything that Hal told me, this recording was the one thing that was concrete, not merely based on someone's word. I therefore told him I wanted to hear it. At that point he proceeded to say, "You are led of the pits of hell." "You are one sick puppy." "You are sick." "You need to get a life." "You need to be born again." He then repeatedly threatened to call security. It was quite an unnerving experience.

Question 35: Do you have any explanation for the stark contrast between the relative ease at least one 3ABNer manifested when talking about evidence of Linda's infidelity, and the apparently extreme paranoia manifested when asked to actually give proof that such evidence really exists?

That's it for this one.

Have you found anything to explain the http://www.maritime-sda-online.org/forums/ubbthreads.php?ubb=showflat&Number=82875&page=0#Post82574 yet? Or anything that would explain http://www.maritime-sda-online.org/forums/ubbthreads.php?ubb=showflat&Number=82875&page=0&fpart=1#Post82114 that Walt said you told him regarding your brother's child molestations allegations, and which Walt wanted me to verify? Did you get http://www.maritime-sda-online.org/forums/ubbthreads.php?ubb=showflat&Number=82875&page=0#Post82875 I sent Sunday about the proof you said you have about Linda taking a number of vacations with the doctor in the U.S. and Europe between May and October 2004?

Hope to hear from you soon.

Bob

Bob,

We have to keep in mind that 3ABN has the ability to do more things to audio tapes than McDonald's can do to hamburgers.

3ABN has a complete recording studio, a radio network with 81 affiliates, and TV and Radio editing booths.

With skillful editing, I think 3ABN could turn the Pope into a Protestant if they wanted.

Pete,
If what you are implying is true, Danny and 3ABN have not thought about the consequences. God said that whatsoever a man soweth that shall he also reap. Think of the examples in the Bible. Look at David and God's response to his evil act. Consider God's response to others who have acted in a way contrary to his Word. In addition, consider the fall out. When God says enough, watch out!

What follows is the 1985 letter that was sent to Tommy Shelton alerting him to the fact that his ordination had been suspended.

Several points may be noted, which answer some questions people have had:

- This letter was sent to Tommy by an Illinois Church of God organization 8 years before Pastor Glenn Dryden moved to the state. Thus, the information it contains has nothing to do with Pastor Dryden.
- This letter was sent 17-18 years before Roger Clem came forward in West Frankfort, and thus the information it contains has nothing to do with Roger Clem.
- "In the mouth of two or three witnesses, every word shall be established." We thus have at least three witnesses.

Just to make it crystal clear, I did not receive this letter from Pastor Glenn Dryden, Roger Clem, or Gailon Joy. I was told that this letter received a wide circulation in southern Illinois because Tommy's supporters circulated it in order to generate letters of support in favor of Tommy.

If he wishes to address any of the allegations referred to in this letter, he would be most welcome to do so.

Dear Tommy :

On October 25, 1985, the Illinois Ministerial Credentials Committee of the General Assembly of the Church of God in Illinois met in regular session at the Church of God State Office building at 4225 South Camp Warren Lane, Decatur, Illinois at Camp Warren. In concern for your best interest and the Church of God, the following action was taken:

"The ordination of Tommy Shelton has been suspended immediately until further notice pending the results of the official police investigation concerning criminal sexual abuse charges against him. This action is effective this day, October 25, 1985."

This action was taken for the following reasons:

1. Improper counseling procedures followed by you and admitted by you.
2. Numerous charges of misconduct reported to this committee.
3. We have been advised that an investigation is underway by the West Frankfort Illinois Police Department concerning criminal sexual abuse charges against you.
4. Controversy surrounding your ministry and personal lifestyle.

Tommy, you are advised to surrender your Ordination Certificate to this office in the enclosed self addressed envelope and to cease all activities related to ministries of the Church of God until you are further advised by this committee.

Be assured this was not an easy decision for this committee to make. We will be praying for you and your family that God's complete purpose will be accomplished in your life.

If we can be of help in any way, please do not hesitate to call.

Sincerely,

On November 27, 2006, 3ABN Board chairman Dr. Walt Thompson http://www.maritime-sda-online.org/forums/ubbthreads.php?ubb=showflat&Number=82117&page=1&fpart=4#Post82149 and said:

> Subsequently, after this issue has been brought back to the forefront ... I contacted the only person from the Chruch of God that I could find that knew about the situation, and who had been present and witness to the events. ... The picture that was painted by that leader of the Church was exactly as portrayed earlier by Danny. ... I have been informed that the Church of God is a congregational type or organization with different jurisdictions in different states and that there was no higher authority that I could speak with to resolve the issue further. It was not entirely clear to me how that worked. I was also told that one leader pestered Tommy over and over again until Tommy voluntarily gave up his ministerial license. These are the facts as I have been able to sort them out.

The natural assumption is that everything in the above came from the unnamed source, not Danny, but that could be wrong.

Four questions remain:

- Who was this unnamed source, and how did Walt just happen to get that particular name?
- Did Walt contact the General Assembly of the Church of God in Illinois and get his information from them, something he was invited to do in http://www.maritime-sda-online.org/forums/ubbthreads.php?ubb=showflat&Number=82082&page=1#Post82083, or was this unnamed source not even a past or present officer of the General Assembly?
- Who led Walt to believe that "one leader pestered Tommy" when the letter announcing the suspending of Tommy's ordination was signed by two individuals, and was the result of an action taken by an entire committee?
- In what sense at all can these circumstances be considered a "voluntary" surrender of his ministerial license?

Of course, it is always possible that Walt was referring to a different revoking of Tommy's credentials, not the 1985 one. Yet even then, what he was led to believe would consititute a serious distortion of reality.

Tommy Shelton just resigned/retired from his job as production manager at 3ABN. He was praised by his coworkers for having done a good job and being pleasant to work with. He was invited to come back from time to time.

As pointed out at http://www.blacksda.com/forums/index.php?s=&showtopic=11955&view=findpost&p=166852, it would be helpful to find out what sort of retirement package he will receive, if any. According to Gailon, the decision of the board to terminate Tommy was circumvented in the early 1990's by hiring Tommy on a contract basis.

Also, I think it would be helpful to get a transcript of the actual remarks made.

Subject: Questions on John Lomacang's claims.
Date: Tue, 02 Jan 2007 14:09:31 -0600
To: Danny Shelton
CC: Walt Thompson, Elder Ken Denslow, Pastor Lomacang, Mollie Steenson

Hi Danny.

Before getting to the subject of Pastor Lomacang's claims, I'd like to review just a little bit. This series of communications was initiated by yourself when you wrote me on http://www.maritime-sda-online.org/forums/ubbthreads.php?ubb=showflat&Number=82117&page=1#Post82119. That email exchange led to Dr. Walt Thompson's emails to me of http://www.maritime-sda-online.org/forums/ubbthreads.php?ubb=showflat&Number=82117&page=1&fpart=3#Post82139 and http://www.maritime-sda-online.org/forums/ubbthreads.php?ubb=showflat&Number=82117&page=1&fpart=4#Post82149 in which he gave me information about the Tommy Shelton child molestation allegations, and your handling of those allegations, at the end of which Walt wrote:

> QUOTE(Dr. Walt Thompson)
> "I would like to request that you ... varify [this letter's] contents."

Since Dr. Thompson, your board chairman, had given me only one named source out of two sources for his information, and since you were that single named source, the only way I could fulfill this part of Dr. Thompson's request was to contact you further. I therefore wrote you on http://www.maritime-sda-online.org/forums/ubbthreads.php?ubb=showflat&Number=82114&page=1#Post82114, http://www.maritime-sda-online.org/forums/ubbthreads.php?ubb=showflat&Number=82114&page=1#Post82116, http://www.maritime-sda-online.org/forums/ubbthreads.php?ubb=showflat&Number=82114&page=1#Post82228, and a second time on http://www.maritime-sda-online.org/forums/ubbthreads.php?ubb=showflat&Number=82114&page=1#Post82229 seeking verification for the information Dr. Thompson had given.

Yet to date I have received nothing at all from you that makes any attempt whatsoever to verify Dr. Thompson's information. With that in mind, please note the following from Judge Rowe's opinion in http://www.revenue.state.il.us/legalinformation/hearings/pt/pt04-1.pdf:

> QUOTE(Judge Barbara S. Rowe)
> "I must conclude from the evidence of record, that applicant is controlled by Danny and Linda > Shelton, and all final decisions are made by them and not by a disinterested impartial board of directors" (p.36).

I think it very important to make some sort of reply to the questions raised as soon as possible, for each week that goes by just raises more questions: If the wishes of the 3ABN board chairman can so easily be ignored by yourself over such serious issues as the alleged mismanagement and cover up of child molestation allegations, is Judge Rowe correct in her assessment after all? And could that potentially be used to undermine a future appeal of her decision?

Toward the end of my http://www.maritime-sda-online.org/forums/ubbthreads.php?ubb=showflat&Number=82114&page=1#Post82229 of December 6, I wrote:

> QUOTE

In my email to you of http://www.maritime-sda-online.org/forums/ubbthreads.php?ubb=showflat&Number=82114&page=1&fpart=3#Post82913, I explained to you what Hal Steenson had told me, but I made no comment about what John Lomacang had told me. I will do that now.

On or before August 24, 2006, http://groups.yahoo.com/group/adventism_prophecy/message/7672 a gentleman named Jonathan the following, which was posted on the adventism_prophecy@yahoogroups.com email discussion list::

> QUOTE(John Lomacang)
> "If you honestly want to know the truth you can call me. Sorry for the misrepresentations that you have read and heard. When we talk on the phone you can ask me any questions that you wish. I am leaving my home number. Please call me. If there is anyone who is willing to hear what they are not being told you can have them call me there also."

Taking Pastor Lomacang up on his invitation, I called him on September 1. In that conversation he referred to a concrete piece of evidence against Linda, namely phone card phone records. According to him:

- These phone card phone records amounted to hundreds of hours of phone calls made by Linda to Norway.
- Regarding how these records were obtained, John stated that there is a phone number one can call to get them.
- When asked whether he had personally seen these records, John replied, "Yes."

I either was told by or got the impression from John that these phone cards were purchased from Wal-Mart. Linda agrees with this detail:

> QUOTE(Linda Shelton)
> "I do not remember everything precisely, but I do know I purchased phone cards from Walmart."

Wal-Mart's web site presently lists three Wal-Mart branded, AT&T prepaid phone cards. I therefore called AT&T and spoke to multiple customer service representatives to ensure that I was getting the correct information. These representatives told me:

- Anyone who has access to both the phone card and the PIN number can obtain the following information for 60 days after a call is made:
    - The called-from and called-to area codes and/or country codes, but not the actual called-from and called-to numbers.
    - The date and time of the call, the duration of the call, and the amount of total "minutes" or billed units the call cost.
- These records are available verbally over the phone. They are not available in writing or through the mail, a policy that has been in force for at least several years.
- The only way to obtain written records and actual called-to and called-from numbers is by subpoena.

In light of the recent Hewlett-Packard scandal, it seems appropriate to ask,

Question 36: Did you or anyone else obtain a subpoena to obtain these records, and if not, were these records either obtained illegally or forged, or was John being less than truthful when he said he had personally seen these phone card phone records, or is there any other explanation for this major discrepancy?

Since according to AT&T call-to and call-from numbers cannot legally be obtained without a subpoena, Question 37: How exactly did you determine which calls were made by Linda, and which calls were made to Dr. Abrahamsen, which ones to Pastor Thorvaldsson, which ones to Irmgard Thorvaldsson, and/or which ones to some other individual in Norway?

As far as phone card phone records actually existing, it would be nice to chalk this one up to an innocent mistake, but that does not appear possible, as will be seen later.

Here are a couple other details from Pastor Lomacang's conversation:

- John promised that I could see for myself the same phone card phone records that he had seen if I came to 3ABN.
- He promised that I could bring anyone I wanted to with me, and we could all see these phone card phone records.
- When I told him that it was unrealistic to ask someone to travel all that distance (there are less expensive ways to obtain such documentation), he said that that wasn't his decision, and that if it were up to him, he would have nailed the coffin shut a long time ago.

Thus, according to Pastor Lomacang, since it wasn't his decision and since if it were up to him these records would be more freely available, it must have been the decision of the 3ABN board or 3ABN management that this piece of evidence could be seen if one traveled to 3ABN. Therefore,

Question 38: Whose decision was it that these phone card phone records could be seen by whomever came to 3ABN and asked to see them?

This phone conversation with Pastor Lomacang was September 1. By September 8 it had dawned on me that if I went to my brother's wedding, I would be returning home right by 3ABN on October 23. That fact led me to pursue taking John up on his offer to see these phone card phone records. I accordingly communicated with him via email on the following dates:

> http://www.maritime-sda-online.org/forums/ubbthreads.php?ubb=showflat&Number=83368&page=0#Post83361.

Why I wrote that many times may be apparent shortly.

The only reply I ever got was on http://www.maritime-sda-online.org/forums/ubbthreads.php?ubb=showflat&Number=83368&page=0#Post83363:

> QUOTE(Pastor John Lomacang)
> "I received your email. You will need to contact the general manager of 3ABN to make an appointment. Her name is Mollie Steenson. If she approves then your trip will occur. She will determine the usefulness and necessity of your meeting."

It did sound a bit strange that Mollie would decide whether I could go to my brother's wedding, but it is likely that John just made a poor choice of wording.

I accordingly wrote Mollie on:

- http://www.maritime-sda-online.org/forums/ubbthreads.php?ubb=showflat&Number=83368&page=0#Post83366.
- http://www.maritime-sda-online.org/forums/ubbthreads.php?ubb=showflat&Number=83368&page=0#Post83368.

- http://www.maritime-sda-online.org/forums/ubbthreads.php?ubb=showflat&Number=83373&page=0#Post83372.

The only reply I have ever received came on http://www.maritime-sda-online.org/forums/ubbthreads.php?ubb=showflat&Number=83373&page=0#Post83371, before the final communication listed above:

Bob,

Considering the number of time's you have been asked by Danny Shelton to stop e-mailing him until the ASI process is complete, and yet you continue to do so.

And that you were told that ASI would be examining the phone records by Mollie Steenson:

At this point I believe what you are doing here is just flat out harassment.

My opinion.

[Here's the rest of the letter posted above.]

> QUOTE(Mollie Steenson)
> "Rather than making the evidence available to individuals, which 3ABN has that validate the basis for the actions we have had to take in this matter, we have turned this matter over to a group of respected church leaders who will be looking at all the evidence, not just portions of it, and they will publicly give their findings in the near future."

Out of the eleven emails I sent John and Mollie regarding seeing these phone card phone records as promised, the phrase "phone card(s)" occurs ten times, and that does not include when a previous email was attached to a new one for reference purposes. Not once in the two replies I got from John and Mollie did they indicate that there had been some mistake, and that these phone card phone records were really something else or did not exist after all. Thus it is difficult to assume that there has been some sort of misunderstanding.

I also mentioned in http://www.maritime-sda-online.org/forums/ubbthreads.php?ubb=showflat&Number=83368&page=0#Post83366 on October 3:

> QUOTE
> "[John] indicated that that wasn't his decision. So I assume that it was 3ABN's board or management that determined that those interested in seeing this evidence can indeed see it if they come to 3ABN."

Mollie thus far has made no correction to this conclusion that it was a decision by the 3ABN board or 3ABN management that anyone who wished could see these phone card phone records if they came to 3ABN.

Now for the next troubling discrepancy. John explicitly said on September 1 that these phone card phone records documented hundreds of hours of calls. I used the phrase "hundreds of hours" 15 times in my eleven emails to John and Mollie, not including the number of times that this phrase appeared in the previous emails I attached. Not once did John or Mollie indicate that John was mistaken in his claim.

But here is information from Wal-Mart and AT&T that raises questions about this claim:

- Wal-Mart currently sells Wal-Mart branded AT&T prepaid phone cards in denominations of 150, 500, and 1000 minutes.
- 1000 minutes would be the equivalent of 16 hours and 40 minutes if the calls were domestic calls that were billed at that flat rate with no surcharges, and thus "hundreds of hours" would require a minimum equivalent of 12 phone cards.
- Each minute of actual time to a land line in Norway currently costs 7 "minutes," and thus "hundreds of hours" using 1000-minute cards to a land line in Norway would require a minimum equivalent of 84 phone cards, assuming that there were no surcharges.
- Each minute of actual time to a cellphone in Norway currently costs 20 "minutes," and thus "hundreds of hours" to a cellphone in Norway using 1000-minute cards would require a minimum equivalent of 240 phone cards, assuming that there were no surcharges.

Since every phone card has different PIN numbers, in order to legally obtain information for "hundreds of hours" of calls, one would need to get a hold of a lot of Linda's phone cards, and she does admit that you did borrow one and refused to return it. Thus,

Question 39: How many of Linda's phone cards did you in actuality get a hold of, and how many hours of time do they really represent, including and not including recharges?

In my eleven emails to John and Mollie, I asked the following question a total of six times beginning with September 8, and though it is rapidly approaching four months later, neither of them has had the courtesy to give any sort of reply. Thus,

Question 40: Did John's statement that there were hundreds of hours of phone calls by Linda to Norway refer to a) actual time spent on the phone or b) billed units; in other words, did "hundreds of hours" really mean 10 to 30 hours of actual time spent on the phone, since we must divide the value of the phone card by a factor ranging from perhaps 7 to 20?

John also stated on September 1 in our phone conversation that his involvement in this whole matter began on March 9, 2004. In trying to figure out the details about these phone card phone records, I asked him whether these calls were made prior to March 9. He said that they were. Thus,

Question 41: Over how long a period of time do these phone card phone records cover, and over that period of time, how many days was Linda actually in the States and Dr. Abrahamsen actually in Norway, and according to these phone card phone records, what was the total amount of time Linda spent on the phone to Norway (allowing us to calculate an average amount of time per day and per week)?

To make it easy to follow everything, here is http://www.maritime-sda-online.org/forums/ubbthreads.php?ubb=showflat&Number=83373&page=0#Post83371 again from October 17:

> "Rather than making the evidence available to individuals, which 3ABN has that validate the basis for the actions we have had to take in this matter, we have turned this matter over to a group of respected church leaders who will be looking at all the evidence, not just portions of it, and they will publicly give their findings in the near future."

There were a total of four questions in http://www.maritime-sda-online.org/forums/ubbthreads.php?ubb=showflat&Number=83373&page=0#Post83372 of October 17 to the above:

> QUOTE
> "1) Has there been a change of policy since September 1, when Pastor Lomacang promised that we could see the phone card phone records if we came by? He indicated that that wasn't his decision. Or was he somehow totally mistaken?
> "2) Pastor Lomacang indicated that these records showed hundreds of hours of phone calls, but I have thus far been unable to confirm from him that these hundreds of hours are actual time spent on the phone rather than billed phone card units. Can you confirm this?
> "3) What group of respected church leaders has the matter been turned over to? Who are they?
> "4) Will they be making public the evidence that supports their findings, or will they only make public their findings?
> "I ask this last question because from a damage control and apologetic perspective, the only real way to put all the rumors to rest once and for all is to come across as if 3ABN has nothing to hide.
> "Take for example these phone records, which Pastor Lomacang stated emphatically that he had personally seen. After he promised that we could see them if we stopped by, it has taken more than five weeks to discover that 3ABN will not allow this, and that gives the impression that they either do not exist or that they do not say what he claimed they say.
> "This is even more so the case since I asked him on http://www.maritime-sda-online.org/forums/ubbthreads.php?ubb=showflat&Number=83368&page=0#Post83361 and http://www.maritime-sda-online.org/forums/ubbthreads.php?ubb=showflat&Number=83368&page=0#Post83362 and http://www.maritime-sda-online.org/forums/ubbthreads.php?ubb=showflat&Number=83368&page=0#Post83364 and http://www.maritime-sda-online.org/forums/ubbthreads.php?ubb=showflat&Number=83368&page=0#Post83367 and http://www.maritime-sda-online.org/forums/ubbthreads.php?ubb=showflat&Number=83368&page=0#Post83369 whether the hundreds of hours were actual minutes or billed minutes, and though I did get a short reply from him on http://www.maritime-sda-online.org/forums/ubbthreads.php?ubb=showflat&Number=83368&page=0#Post83363, he has yet to answer that simple question. The definite impression being given is that there never were hundreds of hours spent on the phone."

Since it is now two and a half months later and still no reply from Mollie, I will ask the following of you:

Question 42: Who made and authorized the dramatic change in policy between September 1 and October 17 regarding who could see these phone card phone records, and why did it take from September 8 (one week after John promised they could be seen) until October 17 to be informed that there had indeed been a change in policy?

Question 43: What group of respected "church leaders" has the matter been turned over to, have they agreed to investigate the matter and is it certain that they will do so, and if so, what specific issues have they agreed to investigate, and if not, why have they not agreed and/or why is it not certain?

Question 44: Have they agreed to examine the question of whether the phone card phone records or any other evidence, such as the recording http://www.maritime-sda-online.org/forums/ubbthreads.php?ubb=showflat&Number=82114&page=1&fpart=3#Post82913 exists, was legally or illegally obtained, and if not, will evidence of this sort even be allowed to be considered?

Question 45: Will both the findings of, and the evidence considered by, these respected "church leaders" be released, and if not, what sort of process is in the works to assure Seventh-day Adventists everywhere that the findings will not constitute yet another attempt at evasion, stonewalling, and/or cover up?

Trusting that this new year will be much more pleasant for you then last year has been,

Bob

Aletheia,

- This isn't the first time I've asked Question 44, and I've yet to get an answer. But then, given everything else, three weeks isn't all that long to wait for an acknowledgement that you even asked the question.
- I asked the question about billed units vs. actual time on September 8, and I was told that I could see the phone card phone records on September 1. ASI was not involved at that point, as far as I know.
- I think it was around November 12 that I first heard something definitive about ASI.

In other words, to claim "ASI" as an excuse for not answering legitimate questions when those questions were asked or in the works prior to ASI getting involved, if they really are getting involved, it really makes no sense.

Especially is this so when Danny has absolutely refused to give any assurance whatsoever that he will allow ASI to examine the question of the authenticity and legality of these alleged phone card phone records.

ex3ABNemployee,

Glad to lighten your load today.

The flow of the email exchange between Mr. * and Dr. Thompson strikes me as more of an attempt to talk in circles in an effort to "catch" Dr. Thompson in a lie than it is to be a facilitator in resolution.

[/quote] I find it excedingly difficult to believe that every member of administration at 3ABN and every board memeber have, from the start, uttered nothing but untruths. This isn't even reasonable to consider fhb This is the most fair, reasonable and common sense approach that I have read here. I raise the question that if these self appointed investigators are doing their self appointed job, are they investigating the backgrounds of some of these accusers and or victims as they are referred to on this site? That is how it is done in a court of law. When you have an accuser and or witness on the stand the first thing that happens is to establish that person's credibility or "unestablish" his credibility depending on what side you are on. Just a suggestion if these unamed, undercover persons want to be truly thorough and fair. You might be suprised at what you find.

It does indeed seem as though this is a "fair, reasonable, and common sense approach".... or at least a typical and expected response by WWJD.... .... if one considers the question of who WWJD is... and that the accronym most likely stands for "What Would Jacob Do"... rather than the usual, thus expected, Christian meaning of the letters.

In acutality, responsible organizations put people on adminstrative leave while the alelgations are being investigated. Thus far neither Danny nor Tommy have been put on investigative leave. Why not? Linda was, on far less evidence, or no evidence at all.

And for the record, I do not know for sure whether Linda was innocent or guilty of the charges against her, and am not on a mission to exonerate her.

Well said.

It is the obvious inconsistencies and allegations without demonstrable evidence that cause a person with an open mind to wonder what is going on.

Obviously, in a court of law credibility determinations are critical and outside the courtroom, it is wise to be cautious in evaluating such emotionally charged allegations as have been made against both Shelton brothers.

Here though what I find telling and supportive of the credibility of the accusers of Tommy is that the alleged events happen at different times and places and there seems to be no reason to think the accusers are in collusion or on a witch hunt. I suppose that one might argue that the accusers are after some type of payoff or secondary gain but I have seen nothing that would support that suggestion.

Although I have read comments that Tommy might now be headed for jail, is there any indication that any of these accusers have gone to a prosecutor with their allegations? IF they have not, I doubt any prosecutor has time to take up the cause on his own. IF they have not, it does not make me question the claims because of the number of people who have come forward from different places that could not know each other. These allegations together with the letters from the churches where he pastored appear to be consistent (and I assume that the letters were not manufactured and the people who signed them would be available to attest they signed the letters in question).

Did Linda's daughter ever file charges? Without action, in all fairness, I cannot find her allegations by themselves enough to condemn Danny on that point and are worth about as much as some of the things this forum finds objectionable in what has been said about Linda. Together with other accusions of misconduct the accusation might show a pattern of unethical or even illegal behavior but her allegations alone prove nothing. One could argue it would be his word against hers. I just don't believe in making statements without "putting your money where your mouth is" if you will allow me a cliche.

Lastly, does anyone know if Linda intends to make any statements prior to the conclusion of any current pending legal proceedings she is involved in with Danny (unless I have missed something I assume she currently has none pending against 3abn or its board of directors). If the only current issue is division of marital property, is there a reason why she should not make a statement or allow an interview instead of allowing some of the speculation to continue about certain issues. Does anyone know if she has ever listened to the alleged recording and considered legal action over its very existence?

noahswife

Addendum: I also realize that some causes of action are barred by the statutes of limitations in the states of Virginia and Illinois.

Well as far as background goes...

I am wondering who those pictures are of, on Pastor Dunning's website. Is that him? If so how old is the man?

Also didn't you tell me Clem's brother had claimed he had "relationship" with Tommy, and was defending Tommy? How old did he claim he was at the time?

I understand your point about age, especially if it concerns legal ramifications, but questions of age can be a red herring when it comes to Christian standards.

Ted Haggard's alleged companion, http://www.theage.com.au/news/world/preacher-admits-drugs-sex-shame/2006/11/04/1162340095912.html Jones apparently helped Haggard get a methamphetamine connection, among other things. So, as far as the 14,000 members of Haggard's New Life church were concerned, age was not a deciding factor in getting rid of Haggard.

It's also noteworthy to say that beyond the 14,000 members of his church, there were 30 thousand members of the National Association of Evangelicals fooled, where Haggard served as President. That's 44,000 Christians who looked and listened to Pastor Haggard and saw nothing that seemed aberrant to them.

However, many people think that their own powers of observation are keen when they watch television evangelists, and that they can safely judge the sincerity of those TV actors, and steer their own courses based on what they see, no questions asked. These TV viewers cannot learn from the mistakes of 44,000 other people? These viewers say, "This will never happen to me. The leaders I follow are cut from different cloth." And right off the narrow path these TV viewers all go, the blind having been lead by the blind.

This is Duane Clem. I am putting you on notice right now. If you decide you're going to twist my words and create suspicion about my motives or sexual orientation, you are facing legal action against yourselves. I will NOT tolerate it at all.

In addition, Bystander states:

What I have found so far is that some of the members here will be shocked if and when the agenda's of some of the letter writers are exposed. I wished that I had the authority and the OK to do that, but I do not.

I am one of the letter writers, and you have asked me NOTHING. I'm calling you out right now. What is my agenda? Furthermore, what is your real identity? You have mine, now I want yours. If you people aren't willing to discuss this with me personally, you had better stop the insinuations and accusations right now. I WILL NOT be intimidated or threatened into silence. The more of this kind of posting I see, the more it convinces me I haven't been vocal enough. You can ask Bob Pickle, I agonized over releasing my statement. Now that it's out, we have people who don't have the fortitude to identify themselves who are making statements that they cannot possibly back up, designed solely to damage the reputations of myself and others. It WILL NOT go unanswered. That's not a threat, it's a promise.

Duane, thank you for your post. I am still a newbie and trying to sort out the lies and insinuations from what is factual and alleged. Hiding behind pseudonyms makes it hard for those of us too new to guess who the players are to weigh the evidence properly.

I commend you for your courage.

It is so easy for some here to make comments but then never be held accountable for them despite requests to do so by moderators as well as the general posters.

Have you received any recent threats from Mr. Riva?

I would love to be able to give you a big Mom hug and tell you how proud I am that you took the risk to allow your testimony to be shared and now to confront the statements you know to be lies. Thanks to all of you for your support. Yes, it has been and still is hard, but with Christian friends such as yourselves and others who have been writing and calling, it makes it bearable at least.

Noahswife: No, I haven't been threatened by Mr. Riva or anyone else. I'm not ruling it out, but it hasn't happened as of yet.

Now let me attempt to encourage YOU! I know beyond a shadow of a doubt that the SDA church is better represented by folks such as yourselves than some of what we've seen previously. I've been around enough SDAs to know that the church as a whole doesn't tolerate this kind of foolishness, and I'll be sure to let people know that when the need arises.

Thanks again to all of you!

Duane, I too want to commend you for coming forward. May God bless you and continue to heal your heart of your wounds.

I too was molested--by my father in law. Reading what TS has done has brought back some painful memories for me. Then, when Bystander was picking at age of consent, how old TS's victims were, I was like I was 20 when my father in law took advantage of me when my husband was not in the room. I didn't tell mother in law because I knew she'd never believe me. It wasn't until 2 years ago that two other of his victims came forward that I felt I could share what happened to me. Thank GOD she believed me and the other two and divorced him immediately.

Bystander has nit picked about age of consent ad nauseum. Well, I'm here to tell you that I was 20 years old--past the age of consent but I DID NOT CONSENT to what happened to me!! I do not care if you're 8 or 88--it doesn't matter when someone has been perpetrated upon. Why Bystander even makes that an issue is beyond me. The Good Samaratin of the Bible stopped to help the wounded man on the side of the road, who had been taken advantage of. But there were others who walked away or were BYSTANDERS and the Lord doesn't have much to say about them in any kind of positive light.

Once again Duane, I am greatful that you came forward--perhaps it will pave the way for others as well. I didn't mean to make this post about me...just wanted you to know that there are folks out there who understand--who can lift you up and help bear your burden.

Your sister in Christ.

Duane, I am so proud of you and your courage! I admire your spirit and your fight to stand up against those that would try to discount you! God will not fail you, He will give you all the strength you could possibly need! Truth can not be buried! God will use you (and I'm sure He has already) to help others who have been down the same path you have and to be an encouragement to those that need liberation and justice! Consider yourself safe here! These people are awesome, aren't they!

Keep your head high and your eyes on Jesus! Keep speaking out! It's time to shut the lions mouth!! God bless you brother!!

Think about this Duane. On average, less than 10% of the victims of sexual predators ever come forward. You have spoken with Bob Pickle and you attended Ezra. Multiply what you know by ten. That is a minimum number.

Dear Duane,

God bless you my brother! I'm so sorry for what you went through, for all your suffering. I'm also very angry at that man, Tommy Shelton, and at all the people around him, whom I see as accomplices, for covering his crimes.

Being a mother myself, my heart bleeds for you and all the other victims. May that stop!!!

Good for you to have broken the silence. You'll be in my prayers from now on.

Your sister from France

Duane,

Such actions by a "man of God" are repugnant. They would have merited the death penalty in God's government in Israel. Considering the damage it causes to others, I, for one, would fully support the idea of you pressing charges. If I were you, I think I would ask him for a public, ON-AIR confession of his evil deeds (with certain criteria to ensure he didn't just gloss it over, and paint it in a different light), or I WOULD press charges, no second chances. He's had already too many of those. He's had opportunities to confess and repent, but his greatest problem right now is in not seeing that he has a problem. The Bible is clear that those who try to cover their sins will not prosper.

I know someone quite well who, as an adult, was confronted with Tommy's repulsive behavior in propositioning him. Danny's response was something like "Shhh! Just don't tell anyone!"

With that mentality, no healing will ever take place. It would be a BLESSING to all involved, including Tommy, to expose his sin and allow him the opportunity of realizing that he DOES have a problem. Unrecognized problems don't usually fix themselves.

(Then again, maybe the public confession would not be such a good idea....just press the charges--then he will have a police record and others will not so easily fall victim, since he would have to register as an offender, and be unable to get jobs with children, etc. in the future. Think of all the others this might save.)

I will pray God gives you wisdom to do the right thing. Take courage! God is always there for you.

First of all, Duane, I want to join others in appreciation for your coming forward and identifying yourself in such a public manner. I know that was not easy to do, but with others, I think that it will be an important step in your own inner healing.

I just now took time to read again the full accounts of your correspondence with Pickle over this matter, that begins at http://www.save3abn.com/tommy-shelton-victim-duane-clem-background.htm, and it was of interest to see how your initial reaction gradually changed in a relatively short time once you faced the things that you had kept buried all of these years.

I believe that you will find yourself going through even more changes as you come to realize that you are only one of many.... and that your obligation as a minister yourself is to warn others to the full extent of your capability, without any shred of defense of Tommy in it. Tommy MUST be brought to justice... he MUST live with the stigma that he has created... and that stigma MUST be a matter of public record so the power and authority of the civil government is on the side of protecting all of those who come in contact with him... or who might put him in contact with the type of persons he has previously stalked like the predator that he is.

Private forgiveness, and a releasing of him to God so far as salvation is concerned, is one thing, but it should never color our spoken attitudes to him in such a way as to lessen by one iota the wall that MUST be erected around this man for the protection of the innocents... whether they be young or old.

I think one of the things that was most shocking to me as I read this with increasing attention to details, was the implications that Tommy is still a minister... having received credentials from "another church group" after his original ordination was revoked. Is that correct? Or did you mean by ""It is my opinion that he needs to be out of the ministry right now..." only his role in the "ministry" of 3abn... rather than the inference I have made of what you meant by "the ministry"... that it was to be taken in the context of holding ministerial credential and being "the minister" in some church?

I have often, in the past two and a half years since I have been cognizant of the problems at 3abn, wondered why God did not step in and bring closure to the evils that we had learned about. Each time that my patience with God seems strained to the breaking point, some other evil was newly exposed. So finally I learned to assume that God was waiting until all had been revealed before He stepped in to say, "Closing time". I think you, Clem, are an important part of these revelations. I am sure God will richly reward you and give you not only wisdom to discern but courage to continue to call evil by its right name and thus be an instrument in God's hands who will help to clean up the mess that currently dominates the scene at 3abn.

And now to comment on Greenie's post....

This is not the place for either/or actions, Greenie. There needs to be BOTH/AND civil prosecution... civil registration of a type that follows him WHERE EVER he might move... AND public acknowledgement of his evil ways. Not an on-air confession.... a forced confession is never a genuine one... and not only is it nobody's business, really, whether Tommy is repentant or not, but there would be no way of knowing whether a "confession" was from genuine repentance, or whether it was just one more day in the life of a TV actor. But I agree that he does need to make a written statement acknowledging the truth of the allegations against him. No frills. Just a one paragraph statment is sufficient. This needs to be read on the air... by someone who is NOT or HAS NOT BEEN a party to the cover-up and shielding of Tommy through the years. And along with that statement, there needs to be written statements of from EACH of those who HAVE publicly supported Tommy... acknowledging that their protection of him... and especially that their utilizing him in public minstry as though he were a pure man at heart was a grievous error on their part and an affront to the listeners of 3abn.

I also know someone with an experience which could be described in the same way.... we shall not indulge in speculation as to whether or not it might be the same person.... but rather it would be more appropriate to apply the "one in ten" rule to this circumstance and conclude that if we each know one, then that means there were many others who would fit the same description.

Agreed.... see above.

And I will also pray that others whom Tommy has molested through the years... whether such molestation took the form of pedophilia or of pastoral abuse... will take courage from your stand and join with you.... for where many stand together they are stronger than the sum of their strength standing individually. Until now the "strength in numbers and solidarity" has been on the side of the concealers and protecters of perversity. Hopefully, as the victims find each other and band together with such support as we who hear of them can give, that ratio will change, and truth and righteousness will prevail.

Duane, I applaud you for your courage in making what must have been an agonizing decision to come forward with your testimony. I suspect it still isn't easy, but I also suspect that it gets a bit easier with time, since evil withers in the presence of light. And exposure is light. Your testimony gives others courage to come forward, and that will, in the end, ease their burden too!

Thanks again, Brother, and may God bless you.

And I believe what "Hawk" said below is true.

The sad thing is that many abused feel it is their fault that they were abused. They feel they asked for it! I know, because I have a good friend who was abused by her Bible teacher when she was 17. She simply thought she "had an affair" with the Bible teacher. It did not occur to her that his position of authority and her vulnerability in coming from a home in which she was physically abused (not sexually) did not provide the equal footing to equate "an affair." I still remember the day I told, her "Katie, that was sexual abuse." And she looked at me with big eyes and was quiet for a long time before saying, "I guess you're right, but I never thought of it that way." (Katie is not her real name.) Many victims only feel the shame. However, when they start understanding the situation and confront it, realizing that they were abused, they can start to heal and let go of the shame. And that healing often starts with anger.

It's okay to be angry with your abuser! Only after some genuine, cathartic anger is it possible to forgive. After all, can you "forgive" someone for something he didn't do?

So thanks, again, Duane. Your testimony may help set other victims free. And we hope that it may prevent others from being abused as well.

This does not answer the question about any additional ordination after 1985, but proves that Tommy was still preaching in October 2006. Very disturbing.

Welcome on board, WH!

So here we have Reverend Tommy Shelton, revivalist preacher in a Baptist church in October 2006. No wonder he was indispensable at 3ABN!!!

I seriously pray that this does not open another denomination's youth to Tommy's own alleged brand of medical ministry! What should be done to protect them?

Subject: 3abn developments Tuesday night
Date: Fri, 05 Jan 2007 13:52:55 -0600
From: Bob
To: Mollie Steenson
CC: Elder Ken Denslow

Hello Mollie.

Some interesting developments occurred on Tuesday night that I think I need to alert you to, as it could have an impact on 3ABN.

Now that ASI has decided last night that "it is not appropriate for ASI to be involved" in the various issues surrounding 3ABN, it might make it easier for 3ABN management and personnel to deal with some of these things, since everything was on hold until after the ASI review process was completed.

No one, if they have any Christian experience at all, enjoys seeing anyone connected with 3ABN being embarrassed. I certainly don't. It would be wonderful if this could all be brought to a swift conclusion. Many are praying to this end.

A former conference official called me today. He intends to speak up publicly now, for the first time. He was outraged, he calmly said, by the fanfare given to alleged pedophile Tommy Shelton as his alleged retirement was announced for alleged health problems due to alleged stress arising from his duties at 3ABN. He called it despicable.

If folks did not hear correctly what was said in that broadcast, I would appreciate knowing the truth of what was said so that I can correct their error on this. We certainly don't need anymore misunderstandings to complicate things further.

That broadcast did indeed come across as despicable. If Danny wanted to give Tommy a lot of fanfare, he could easily have done so privately among the employees of 3ABN, but to do it publicly over global TV just seemed so brazen given the fact that it hasn't even been one month since brand new allegations of child molestation in Virginia were publicly announced.

Now for the developments on Tuesday, just one and two days after the broadcasted tribute to Tommy was shown and re-shown. A seventh victim of Tommy in Illinois came forward for the first time that night, and is getting his thoughts together to put down on paper.

What we have here, unfortunately, is a situation in which people are outraged and are becoming unafraid to stand up and speak out, unafraid to be known by name, unafraid of any intimidation or threats Danny might bring to bear upon the situation. The political risk of speaking up has become nil. For the sake of the cause of God, this really needs to be brought to a swift conclusion before the chorus becomes louder than it already is.

Now for why I am writing you. I want to do what I can to save the reputations of anyone and everyone possible. Anyone connected with this sordid affair is in danger of having their reputation utterly destroyed, and it is so sad and unnecessary. I would hate to see you, the 3ABN General Manager and a member of the board of directors, become a casualty in all of this.

You were one of the ones who paid glowing tribute to alleged pedophile Tommy Shelton on that broadcast. Did you do that willing or did Danny force you to do it? Not that it matters a huge amount, for regardless, God is able to forgive if we turn to Him.

If by the grace of God you can take a stand just now, a stand for morality and decency, for obedience to the 10 Commandments, if you ask for pardon for your mistake to those who foot the bills, mercy should and must abound in the hearts of all, even as mercy fills the heart of our heavenly Father.

Danny's favorite distraction whenever any criticism has been brought up is Linda's alleged affair. But whereas we have a growing list of documents supporting the child molestation allegations against Tommy, we have yet to see any evidence supporting the adultery allegations against Linda. There may be some evidence out there, but if there is, it thus far has been kept secret, despite Linda's expressed desire more than a month ago to see all the evidence brought forward.

If 3ABN can send an alleged pedophile off with such fanfare after roughly a decade of service, making it clear that he would be back, why would 3ABN send an alleged adulteress off in such disgrace after roughly two decades of service, making it clear that her name would never be heard again over the airwaves? It makes no sense. It raises questions about what the real reasons were for her demise.

What we need just now for the good of the cause of God, for the good of 3ABN, for the good of our eternal destiny, is for you, the 3ABN General Manager, and each of the members of the 3ABN board, including Danny, to stand up for righteousness and truth, lest the name of God be brought into any additional reproach.

Would you feel free to respond and share your thoughts? I think a lot of people out there would be encouraged to hear that the 3ABN General Manager has taken a stand for right.

> QUOTE(Ellen White)
> "The greatest want of the world is the want of men--men who will not be bought or sold, men who in their inmost souls are true and honest, men who do not fear to call sin by its right name, men whose conscience is as true to duty as the needle to the pole, men who will stand for the right though the heavens fall." (Education, p. 57)

We will lift you up in prayer that God will give you courage, strength, fortitude, and determination to do His will in this hour of crisis.

I think she has already responded... very publicly... and more than once.... the latest being last night when she looked directly at the camera and addressed the very issues that Bob mentioned.... each time affirming her solidarity and support of Danny and all other directors and board members of 3abn.

There is no doubt but what in court, the transcripts of these public verbal affirmations will be laid alongside the letters and emails that have been sent to a much smaller group of people than the verbal and visual messages have been sent. And the results of that could be very interesting.... interesting and surprising to some.... and interesting and expected by others.

In the meantime.... we wait patiently on the Lord.... ☒ .....

BlackSDA _ 3ABN _ Our Posts From Bsda Are Showing Up On Save3abn

People, several posts that have been made here have shown up on Gailon's site. Bystander, Lee, Altheia, Hoty, PB and possibly others. This is wrong!!! When we joined here, I think most of us expected our comments here, to stay ,here. How has this happened? As I know of, none of these people have given permission for their comments to be taken over there. If 3 abn is taking Gailon to court over his site, do you want your comments on there to be drug in along with Gailons? Who knows what all that could mean.
I must insist that Calvin contact GJ and stop this practice and more over, to remove what he has already used there.

What do you expect? If 3-ABN takes Mr. Joy to court, you can expect for your posts to be drug along into the battle, if the lawsuit develops as it might, along, of course with a lot of other people's posts.

Calvin has stated that Internet forums have a lot of freedom in regard to what they post. I was reading yesterday the law in regard to posting on the Internet, while it is complex, it does have protections written into it in regard to protecting the people who run these Internet Forums against litigation. If you post here in this public forum, be prepared for others to copy your posts elsewhere.

By the way, Calvin does not have the legal right to require Mr. Joy to remove those posts. If you want a post of yours removed, you need to contact Mr. Joy and if he refuses, you need to avail yourself of any legal remedies that you believe you have.

Posted by: Richard Sherwin Feb 13 2007, 06:42 AM

Welcome to the internet. If you don't want your posts all over the net then don't post. Pretty simple. There is nothing private about public forums, nor should there be, that is just the nature of tbe beast.

This is a public bulletin board. What "most of us expected" when we posted here was for our comments to stay on public record for as long as time and the internet shall last. Perhaps it is time for you to come out of your make-believe world (where one man can control everything and everyone) and start posting responsibly rather than putting out junk that you think will go away as soon as the cameras go off and the "credits" start to roll.

.... TVsnack. ......

and your problem is? Just what do you want me to do about it? As others have said, BSDA is a public open forum, you knew that when you started posting here. I would think if you are really speaking your convictions here that you would stand behind what you say anywhere it appears.

Go tell it to save3abn internet 101: if you don't want to see it all over the internet, don't post it...

internet 101a: put in an email anything you wouldn't mind seeing in a daily newspaper....

internet 101b: unless the person can be verified never assume that who you are talking to is actually who they say they are....

that last one really applies to the danny apologists....

It's interesting that a Danny apologist doesn't want his or her comments on that site. Doesn't Danny need defending there too? Or is there something you'd like to go back and delete?

Better be careful what you say on here.

It is all being recorded and you will be meeting up with it again.

No, this is not a threat. Nor is it a "whine." It is a promise.

Why record it? It's being stored on the server. That just seems like extra work to me.

I stand behind every word I write. That's why I sign my name to every post.

I notice YOU don't seem to be comfortable doing that. Drop the tough act, it's not working.

Clay, you can ridicule me all you want. I couldn't care less.

But will you ridicule God also? In my post I was speaking of the judgment day when everyone will have to meet every word they have spoken with all its motives and intents of the heart.

Yes, it is a promise that everyone will meet their words again. Heavenly records do not lie.

Yes, the BSDA handles [names] of Danny's apologists appear on the www.Save3abn.com page, including your's, WWJD.

Did the Danny Shelton apologists ever understand how Linda Shelton could be upset that parts of her phone calls, along with added commentary by her ex-husband, may have been turned into printed transcripts and shared with others? I don't think so.

However, when your's or Bystander's handles are printed and shared elsewhere, WWJD, it feels a little different, doesn't it? Suddenly, it's happening to you, and that's so much different than if it happens to someone else you don't care about?

Suddenly, you "must insist" that these comments be removed. Suddenly, you feel a sense of outrage.

Maybe that's God's plan, WWJD; He's trying to teach you in the only way you will understand. My interpretation is that God is knocking on door of your heart, WWJD, and all you need to do is open the door.

Just a thought.

WWJD,

I do not want to assume how much internet chat or posting experience you have. However, I disagree with your statement that "when WE joined here, I think most of us expected....." I do not know who you believe "we" are but if you are speaking on behalf of anyone other than yourself, you can only be speaking for a few uninformed individuals who failed to exercise the judgement of a reasonable (and informed) person IMO.

Please refer to my post last night wondering why you have not created your own site where you can try to set the rules.

This site is not a commercial for Las Vegas.

You're right; they dont... and you and others will have to give an answer for why you put loyalty to a man in his sin almost to the point of idolatry above justice and righteous judgement... your continued enabling of another's sin makes you guilty of that sin... ask Eli... or the family of Achan.

And as you have correctly noted here... God is indeed watching... as MLK once said:

Truth crushed to earth will rise again. How long? Not long! Because no lie can live forever. How long? Not long!...Truth forever on the scaffold, wrong forever on the throne. Yet that scaffold sways the future and behind the dim unknown standeth God within the shadow, keeping watch over his own. How long? Not long! Because the arc of the moral universe is long but it bends toward justice.

You have chosen to serve unrighteous mammon and prop up the oppressor and said the devil take the oppressed... and God is watching... and the day is coming when He will say to you "in as much as ye have done it unto the least of these my brethren ye have done it unto me...

Remember therefore from whence thou art fallen and repent...

In His service,

Clay, I wasn't making an "empty threat." If you will open your bible, you can read it for yourself. Will you say God was making an "empty threat" when He wrote it in the Bible?

Mr. J--are you also ready to meet God in the judgment day who has a complete record of your words? You don't need to worry about me because I know I must meet my words again!

Mat 12:35-37 A good man out of the good treasure of the heart bringeth forth good things: and an evil man out of the evil treasure bringeth forth evil things. But I say unto you, That every idle word that men shall speak, they shall give account thereof in the day of judgment. For by thy words thou shalt be justified, and by thy words thou shalt be condemned.

"I did not give permission for my post to go elsewhere. "

As was stated by Observer above,

You should seek legal advise on whether your permission is necessary for your posts here at BlackSDA to be reposted elsewhere on the internet.

You and you alone are responsible for knowing what an informed and reasonable poster should know about posting in a public forum.

There is no point in rehashing your complaint.

And, please do not complain that those of us who believe your permission was and is not necessary are attacking you.

nw

Also, isn't the topic of this thread whether a poster has to give permission to allow his/her post to be posted elsewhere on the internet and whether it is reasonable to have that expectation?

WWJD: Any rights to what is posted here come under copyright law. Calvin, as the Administrator of this forum, does not gain any copyright rights due to someone posting here. Calvin has no legal authority to prevent someone from copying from this public forum and posting elsewere.

Whatever copyright rights exist belong to the author of the post. Frankly, in my opinion, none of you have done what is required of you to be able to assert such rights.

My comments aren't slander, thank you.

Lawsuits have been threatened over and over again. I think those who are supposedly being "slandered" know better than to drag this into court. They might have to cough up information that they don't want anyone to know about.

I'll say it one more time. Intimidation and scare tactics won't work anymore. It's over. Deal with it.

I am indeed ready to meet God in the judgement, unworthy though I be... because I know in whom I have believed... and His name aint Danny... and I am persuaded that He is able to keep that which I have committed unto him... the very saving of my soul... against that day. God is not finished with me yet... and He is the one who is able to keep me from falling and present me faultless before the presence of His glory with exceeding joy

And it matters not what you think about my walk with Christ... not one iota... Because you aint Jesus...so save your phariseeism for someone impressed and/or cowed by it... because I got a new name, over in Zion, written on a white stone...

In His service,
Mr. J

I'm not sure your last statement is correct.

"According to U.S. law, at least, an author's original works are covered by copyright, even without a formal notice incorporated into the work . . . Technically, any Internet posting (such as blogs or emails) could be considered copyrighted material unless explicitly stated otherwise." (http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Public_domain#Public_domain_and_the_Internet)

It can be argued that each post is an original piece of work by the writer of that post or that the authors of the many emails posted here, Maritime, save3abn are also original works protected under copyright law. The fact of the matter is that most copyright law was written for the printed word that was NOT digital. The digital world has created a situation where these laws are going under tremendous scrutiny and redefinement.

It is rather simple to establish copyright, simply include the symbol for copyright - © - at the end of each post and include the date. Don't use parenthesis as that could technically be argued away as not an indication of copyright ownership.

The Fair Use Doctrine, which might be used as a defense for taking material from this BBS and using it on another website probably wouldn't apply since it general applies to "use for scholarship or review" as opposed to expose or fictional writing.

The truth of the matter is, in my opinion, that Mr. Joy and Mr. Pickle are intentionally using postings by those they classify as "Danny Apologists" (a term coined by, I think, our very own Clay). They use them to begin a particular rant knowing that it will probably not sit well with the individual who made the post over here and the fact that it saves them from having to do substantive writing to introduce said rant themselves. There really is no legal precedent that I can find for someone to sue Mr. Joy and Mr. Pickle over the "cut and paste" use of their posts. It may be unethical, for which I think a strong arguement can be made, but it probably isn't illegal - or not to any degree that should lead someone to waste time filing a law suit.

Now, you can make a plea with Mr. Joy and Mr. Pickle to have your words removed. However, they will demand some sort of identity verification which will mean you need to prove you are the person who posts under a pseudonym. At that point they will have your identity and will not hesitate, I believe, to go after your personal life and bare it to the world. They will use your identity in an attempt to discredit anything you say and paint you in an unfavorable light.

So, the choice would be yours, do you care if they know who you are? If not make a case and have your words removed. If you want to remain anonymous then just chalk it up as an unsurprising lack of ethical behavior on their part. After all, how hard would it be for Mr. Pickle to PM you here and ask if you minded if they used your post. If you said yes they could say so on their site. If you said no, they would probably still use it and indicate that you hadn't given permission for it's use (though that wouldn't look so good now would it?)

I agree with your statement above. As I understand U.S. copyright law:

1) An author's origonal works are protected from the moment of their birth.

2) There is no requirement that the author place either the copyright symbol, or a statement of copyright, in that intellectual work. e.g. Copyright protection exists without such.

I did not state that copyright protection did not exist for people posting in this Internet forum. I stated that I questioned whether or not the people posting had complied with the requirements of the law in regard to asserting their copyright rights. There is a big difference between what I stated, and what you reference.

As I understand the U.S. law, once the holder of a copyright does what is required by the law, that person may assert those rights against furture infringements, but not for infringements prior to compliance with the law. Prior to doing what the law requires, the holder of those rights may not seek protection from a U.S. court.

There are potentially other issues that may come into play here, that make the quetions of whether or not one can copy and post. I am not getting into those.

As I am neither a licensed attorney, nor an expert in the law, anyone seeking specific advice in this area should see the advice of an attorney competent in copyright law. It is quite complex.

Gregory,

My understanding is that if Danny et. al. can prove that their BSDA postings have declined in profitability because of Gailon's site posting them, then they could collect on damages. However, if those particular postings have little or no commercial value, I'm not sure they would have a case, even without the fair use doctrine.

As far as fair use goes, if the copying and excerpts are done for the purpose of comment and criticism, then it could be permissible even if those postings could be proven to have commercial value.

I say "could be" because when the courts decide whether something is fair use or not, there are four factors that they consider, and they apply them on a case by case basis. There is no hard and fast rule.

This is an understatement at best. Most attorneys who are competent in other areas would never give you legal advise in this area of intellectual property law and refer you to someone who devotes their practice to and has experience in litigating these issues.

It is a legal practice area where you are going to get what you pay for......caveat emptor....

> QUOTE
> How to Secure a Copyright
> Copyright Secured Automatically upon Creation
> The way in which copyright protection is secured is frequently misunderstood. No publication or registration or other action in the Copyright Office is required to secure copyright. (See following note.) There are, however, certain definite advantages to registration. See "Copyright Registration."
> Copyright is secured automatically when the work is created, and a work is "created" when it is fixed in a copy or phonorecord for the first time. "Copies" are material objects from which a work can be read or visually perceived either directly or with the aid of a machine or device, such as books, manuscripts, sheet music, film, videotape, or microfilm. "Phonorecords" are material objects embodying fixations of sounds (excluding, by statutory definition, motion picture soundtracks), such as cassette tapes, CDs, or LPs. Thus, for example, a song (the "work") can be fixed in sheet music ("copies") or in phonograph disks ("phonorecords"), or both. If a work is prepared over a period of time, the part of the work that is fixed on a particular date constitutes the created work as of that date.

Additionally from the same site in regards to "registration":

> QUOTE
>
> Copyright Registration
> In general, copyright registration is a legal formality intended to make a public record of the basic facts of a particular copyright. However, registration is not a condition of copyright protection. Even though registration is not a requirement for protection, the copyright law provides several inducements or advantages to encourage copyright owners to make registration. Among these advantages are the following:
> * Registration establishes a public record of the copyright claim.
> * Before an infringement suit may be filed in court, registration is necessary for works of U.S. origin.
> * If made before or within 5 years of publication, registration will establish prima facie evidence in court of the validity of the copyright and of the facts stated in the certificate.
> * If registration is made within 3 months after publication of the work or prior to an infringement of the work, statutory damages and attorney's fees will be available to the copyright owner in court > actions. Otherwise, only an award of actual damages and profits is available to the copyright owner.

> * Registration allows the owner of the copyright to record the registration with the U. S. Customs Service for protection against the importation of infringing copies. For additional information, go to the U.S. Customs and Border Protection website at www.cbp.gov/xp/cgov/import. Click on "Intellectual Property Rights."
> Registration may be made at any time within the life of the copyright. Unlike the law before 1978, when a work has been registered in unpublished form, it is not necessary to make another registration when the work becomes published, although the copyright owner may register the published edition, if desired.

While copyright law is akin to a foriegn language, there are two facts that are rather simple:

1. Copyright exists as soon as you write it.

2. If you register a copyright within 3 months (or prior to an infringement), your potential monetary compensation in a legal case is greater than if you register it within five years from its inception or after an infringement.

So it is the actual legal case where things get tremendously complicated because of things such as the Fair Use Doctrine.

So, if you want what you say here to be protected you have to run get it registered and then proceed with a potentially protracted legal case. As for me - too much work and wasted time involved.

The quick fix/solution is that if you don't want your words repeated - then don't say them in the first place...

This still leads one to wonder if you are so "FOR" what you are saying to be truth - why not want it screamed all over the land....

Post it where you want - I don't care. Why? If it's truth here at BSDA it will be truth in a newspaper, magazine, other internet site, written on a piece of scrap paper, toilet paper, (mock) cocktail napkin, in Japanese, German, w/ spray paint on the side of a bus, w/ gravy on a large spread of mashed potatoes.....

It won't matter where it is said - as long as it's truth.

I'm not sure how much difference it makes that comments from here are on Gailon's site as well, since this is an open forum available to search engines. It it were a private forum, publicizing posts from here would be unethical. As it is, it's more like copying anonymous excerpts from a newspaper.

At any rate, it isn't Calvin's responsibility to ask Gailon to remove your posts. It's yours. Of course, you'll may have to prove to Gailon that the person writing to him to remove the post is the same one that actually posted the post here in the first place. That might prove to be an interesting exercise.

And I believe that would include proving in court that one has lost profits by someone else publishing their posts on another site. Correct?

Personally, after reading what http://www.Save3ABN.com/ has posted, I would be embarassed to claim in court that some of those posts were mine, and that I had intended to profit later from those posts.

HOTY,

These are probably not unique hits. How many times have you been to the site, maybe 10? Each on of those drove the counter up by one. I have been there a number of times as well so deduct mine from the total because I am not buying the veracity of the site. While some truth may exist there it is buried deep in the moreas of untruth.

30,000 more realistically might be 18,000 unique hits.

Usually 'counters' like that don't count more than one hit from each ISP number, if I'm not misaken. So, it is probably 30,000 unique hits.

Yes, I thought the same thing at first and then did a little experiment by noting the number and then leaving and coming back. The number didn't changed. I believe counters log addresses, right? If so, then all 30,000 are unique. However, 18,000 or 30,000, it's still being viewed by many, and the number is rising.

There are a variey of counters each behaves a little differently and not knowing what type it is I can't say one way or the other. Maybe Bob can answer that question for you.

FHB,

By "moreas" are you referring to an area of low-lying soggy ground, a quagmire? Or are you invoking the French/Greek symbolist poet Jean Moreas? ie,"While some truth may exist there, it is buried deep in the" symbolist verses "of untruth". Moreas, as a quagmire, would make sense if you are Dutch either in your heritage or influence as your spelling is close, with the "r" and "e" transposed.

Or did you just misspell "morass"?

PB,

I knew I spelled it wrong when I hit submit - but didn't go back to correct it. Of course I meant morass: something that hinders, engulfs, or overwhelms. Oh well . . . now I am going to be paranoid and go back and check every post to make sure I haven't made any other delightfully entertaining mistakes.

BlackSDA _ 3ABN _ "the Televangelist" Revisited

Posted by: watchbird Feb 13 2007, 07:46 AM

> Just look in http://www.blacksda.com/forums/index.php?s=&showtopic=9823&view=findpost&p=138128 what it says about their poor mother. I hope I get a chance to stand in court and testify to the terrible lies that are there.

Thank you wwjd for bringing "http://www.blacksda.com/forums/index.php?s=&showtopic=9823&view=findpost&p=138128" document to our attention again. It's been so long since it had been mentioned that the thread bearing its name had slipped clear over on page 4 of the menu. I'm sure there are many of our newbies... and maybe some who by now have settled in as "old timers" who have never read the document.

Since it was written for the express purpose of raising questions in people's minds as to what the real stories were behind the allusions and short vignettes in the document.... and since the writer put the disclaimer about it being "fiction" for the express purpose of protecting himself legally.... I think it would be quite in line with his purpose for it to be brought to court so the truth behind the allusions would be fully revealed. And since you would have to reveal your own identity in order to "stand in court and testify"..... the process should indeed be very interesting and revealling as to who is telling the truth and who is trying to hide truth under piles of obfuscation and/or sink it in the bottom of the muddy mucky flood swollen debris laden waters of "de Nile".

There are, as you know, no names attached to the persons in http://www.blacksda.com/forums/index.php?s=&showtopic=9823&view=findpost&p=138128. So for starters you would have to admit that there is enough truth in the document so as to assign individuals to the stories told or alluded to there. A rather interesting position to be in, I would think.

At any rate.... since it has been posted once in its entirity on this forum, I cannot reproduce it in full again.... but click on the name, "http://www.blacksda.com/forums/index.php?s=&showtopic=9823&view=findpost&p=138128", anywhere in this post and you will be taken directly to the document.

For those who would like some help in attaching names to some of the persons portrayed.... or are interested in more of some of the stories alluded to.... I would strongly suggest going to the http://www.blacksda.com/forums/index.php?s=&showtopic=9938&view=findpost&p=151004 post in "The Unauthorized 3abn History Threads" thread, which is pinned at the top of the 3abn menu. Read down the list of post descriptions and click on the url given to find some of the vignettes from http://www.blacksda.com/forums/index.php?s=&showtopic=9823&view=findpost&p=138128 expanded, and in some cases identifications made.

Thank you again, wwjd, for calling this to our attention once more. ☐

1. It has already been noted, some time ago, that someone (maybe it was you) said the only fiction about the televangelist, is the first page that says it is fiction.(again already noted so it won't do any good to change that now.)

2.Watchbird Did you know Tommy Sr. & Goldie personally?

3.If you didn't (and I am betting on that one) you already exposed your source, last night, as Linda. Linda knows that her mother - in-law was not guilty of was written and how terrible to do that to one who is not even here to defend themselves. Furthermore Linda never knew or even met Tommy Sr..He had passed away long before she became a part of the family.

4. The author or whoever fed the author must be all mixed up or is spinning lies to attack the family. Case in point.....(this is not verbatim) The father couldn't function sexually because of a massive heart attack at the age of 35. Truth, The shelton parents had another child born the next year. Oh and don't worry, spinners, that childs DNA matches the rest of the family.

5. Again, the father is deceased. He is not here to defend himself. If he was, he would be crushed with humiliation and angered that something so personal about himself would end up in a trash book and the internet. Even more terrible that it is a lie.

Watchbird, The facts prove the above lie. There are many more but, with just even one lie proven, should you really encourage people to read it? Most of us don't believe in reading trashy novels. Maybe you feel differently.

I don't read trashy novels. I don't recommend trashy novels. You have built no confidence in me such that I would take your word above those from whom I heard the stories alluded to in The Televangelist.... most of them way before I saw them in the document.... please notice the plural pronoun.... "those".

Give it up.... with me at least you hold no credibility. Whether you are ignorant, deceptive, or so completely self-deceived so you actually believe all you say, is, at this point in time, of little or no interest to me.

Right back attcha. There is at least 1 major difference here. I knew Tommy & Goldie personally for almost 50 years. I ate at their home, I visited them when they were sick, and I watched how christ showed through all of their physical and financial struggles through the years.

Did you?

Did Linda?
The answer to both is a resounding NO. So for you to believe what "someone" told you (who never even met Tommy I might add) speaks for your character and your obvious, anger, bitterness and jealousy towards the Shelton's and 3ABN. When someone willingly chooses dirt & lies over truth there is nothing more to say. I knew them, you didn't. I knew them. Linda didn't know Tommy and even though in the family, she didn't really know Goldie at all. When you overlook these facts you have no, credibility, no validity, and are proving that you are here, only, to hurt and tear down.

Hi Duane, The credibility of folk who figure that its fine for a pastor to molest kids if they are teenagers, and who threaten to sue another church for trying to put a stop to child molestation and sexual abuse of the parishioners is already down the toilet. Danny lied on his first letter here, Eye Witness lied about an ASI meeting, 3ABN lied about kids names, Bystander lied about 3ABN lying about kids names, WWJD tried to blackmail Hershey into being quiet, and Alethia stands by molestation of kids as long as they are at least 17 or consenting. they are the true and accurate representation of 3ABN and the Shelton family. They will NEVER address actual issues. Blackmail, lying and hurting people. Thats what 3ABN and the Shelton family are all about and they have proved it right here.

The Catholic church had scandals and they settled with their victims. 3ABN has scandals and threatens to sue the people who try to deal with the issues, blackmails people who might know something and and says that the letter writers have some kind of agenda. 3ABN says all kinds of bad stuff about the Catholic church and then does even worse. News. News for the public.

I was asking Bob to clarify, and say the same things on this board, which he had told me on the phone when he called me, and was telling me about things.. I then asked him what evidence he and Gailon actually had. He claimed that the above along with your negative testimony about Glen Dryden in support of Tommy, and your feelings about him, were the difficulty with getting you to come forward and make a public statement.

The reason I asked him the above: It sounded and was being presented differently when he posted about it here, I still don't understand that. Also, being that he also left out your age in his discussions here, the members here were all assuming you were much younger and it was evidence of child molestation, as he and Gailon have been claiming all along, and he wasn't bothering to correct them, or clarify. Nor did he do so when I asked...

(Yes, I did see you geve your age in your statement when that was posted. but that was after many of Bob's posts)

I believe that the accusation of child molestation is what observer was referring to, in his comment about the ages of the only ones who have come forward. As to his second comment, I don't know what was meant and will wait till that does or does not come out also.

Do you have any other questions?

~ Cindy

I DO NOT stand by molestation of kids. That is a LIE.

I stand for calling things by their right names, and proving all things. And I stand for the American way. Those who stand accused are innocent till proven guilty and have a right to face their accusers.

I also stand for going to the police when there is a criminal offense and pressing charges.

And I stand for following biblical principles in our Church when it comes to taking care of sin, error and any disputes. Those principles do NOT include talebearing or publishing things to those outside the Church.

If you don't like that? I guess that would be your problem.

If you have issues with publishing things to those outside the church, how do you expect any of the people who have been wronged by leaders or those in authority, within the church, to press charges, in order to receive justice?

please help us understand why are you are on BSDA, univited, presenting your "principles" in the manner you have, while telling others do as I say, not as I do? You can't have it both ways.

Posted by: seraph|m Jan 30 2007, 07:26 AM

Aletheia:

What I find disingenuous in the extreme is people, within our church, who have the nerve to say that "you are outside of Gods will if you take your brother before civil authorities". These individuals do not understand the word or the power of God. The issue of not taking ones brother before civil authority is about disputes between brothers/sisters regarding doctrinal points.

We have an obligation, within biblical principles, to protect the victims of crimes through the use of civil authority, when such is needed. Why? Because there are laws that govern our society which we, as citizens and believers, are obligated, before God, to adhere to. The church does not have the authority or the ability to arrest, try and/or convict members who have broken the laws by which we are governed, as Americans. So hiding behind "we are not supposed to take bro/sis so and so before the public or the courts" is foolishness. And folks wonder why there are those who think Adventism is cultish.

God allows whom He wills in civil authority, for the protection of the people. Just because many in such positions abuse that authority does not make our obligation to heed the laws of the land any less so.

America was founded on Godly principles, I do not think anyone the world over who is Christian would despise our constiution or bill of rights...

some of whch are:
Amendment V

No person shall be held to answer for a capital, or otherwise infamous crime, unless on a presentment or indictment of a grand jury, except in cases arising in the land or naval forces, or in the militia, when in actual service in time of war or public danger; nor shall any person be subject for the same offense to be twice put in jeopardy of life or limb; nor shall be compelled in any criminal case to be a witness against himself, nor be deprived of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law; nor shall private property be taken for public use, without just compensation.

Amendment VI

In all criminal prosecutions, the accused shall enjoy the right to a speedy and public trial, by an impartial jury of the state and district wherein the crime shall have been committed, which district shall have been previously ascertained by law, and to be informed of the nature and cause of the accusation; to be confronted with the witnesses against him; to have compulsory process for obtaining witnesses in his favor, and to have the assistance of counsel for his defense.

Amendment VII

In suits at common law, where the value in controversy shall exceed twenty dollars, the right of trial by jury shall be preserved, and no fact tried by a jury, shall be otherwise reexamined in any court of the United States, than according to the rules of the common law.

Amendment VIII

Excessive bail shall not be required, nor excessive fines imposed, nor cruel and unusual punishments inflicted.

If it's a matter of civil law and crimnal behavior, I expect them to go to their local police with their evidence, and file a report, so it can be investigated, or so they can press charges. Isn't that common sense?

Then the church can deal with it, as the bible says depending on whether it was a public or private sin.

> QUOTE

> please help us understand why are you are on BSDA, univited, presenting your "principles" in the manner you have, while telling others do as I say, not as I do? You can't have it both ways

I am here "uninvited" as you say, addressing what is written here, presenting God's principles not my own, And Public posts call for public replies on a public forum! I am not here publishing my brethren's sins or faults or errors here, rather then going to them one on one, and then proceeding as Christ said, to take it to the local Church and then up the conference level if not satisfied, or that doesn't work! There is a difference, and God's people know that, the scriptures are plain. so I am not trying to have it both ways as you claim.

I'm getting tired of all the questions, Why are you against what I posted, and quoted from the scriptures, the words of Christ and the Spirit of prophecy?

Posted by: PrincessDrRe Jan 30 2007, 08:51 AM

Personally I have read your posts Aletheia - and regardless - REGARDLESS of your actions of trying to "explain" them away. You stated that the legal age of consent is 17.

What is the purpose of bringing up the "legal age of consent" but to try to prove that the "child" was/could legally consent to having sex with a man?

Nothing about the homosexuality of it.
Nothing about the man being a Pastor.

Just the "legal age of consent". Then when it was determined that the (now) man was NOT of legal age to consent - you still will not conceed.

That says volumes for what you will allow and not allow in your home/church/with your own children.

Why do I say your own children?

Because if you will bring up the "legal age of consent" for someone else in regards to their sexual molestation by a Pastor - you obviously will have to use the same criteria and boundaries when speaking of your own children in the same situation.

Therefore.....

If your son, was approached by a Pastor, and ended up being corerced into a sexual relationship/trist/one-night stand with this said Pastor, at the age of 17, you would have to state the same statement that you stated for others.....

"My child is of the 'legal age of consent' therefore I cannot do anything..."

This is actually a good thing to know....

Why?

If I ever find out your real name.... we could not be friends....

Why?

Because I couldn't trust you around MY children; being that I know your definition of "legal" and such....

America being founded on godly principles is debatable - all men being created equal as long as they were white and from the upper classes - So thats why all nations are rushing to follow the American way?...... or are they?....

Why be tired of questions, this is a public forum after all or is this a forum for your public messages only? Just cos one quotes the bible or anything else does not make ones argument more relevant, even the devil quoted scripture.

do you actually believe the foolishness you write? America was not founded on Godly principles.... while the founding fathers were penning "we believe that all men are created equal" some of them OWNED slaves.... so they were not talking about slaves, neither were they talking about women.... distraction by minutiae on your first point.....

Why do we question you? Because you quote the bible and egw out of context.... which means you are just plain wrong.... when you stop misquoting or taking things out of context then maybe we will stop calling you on this issue....

Re: "If it's a matter of civil law and crimnal behavior, I expect them to go to their local police with their evidence, and file a report, so it can be investigated, or so they can press charges. Isn't that common sense?"

No. You have misstated it.

1) The police investigage criminal behavior, and violations of criminal law. They do not investigate issues of civil law.

2) Police develop the evidence. You and I do not develop the evidence.

3) Police do not decide whether or not to file charges. The District Attorney may do that. Or, it may be a Grand Jury. In any case the decision to file charges is not that of the police. The police than act on that formal filing of the charges to develop the evidence required to bring a person to trial.

Dude, those slaves were men, and God did create them equal, that's the same principle Paul declared to the early Christins, no jews no gentiles, no salve no master, no man no woman, all equal in Christ.

it is self evident that we all have the right to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness! Our very beings, our brains, hearts, and our very conscience declares it!

Just because some were very ignorant, doesn't mean that wasn't a Godly principle, for without that principle being in the founding documentsslavery never would have been abolished.

You are tiresome. Rights come from God, not a government.
Governments either trample on them or defend and uphold them.

After you screaming "child molestation" repetetively for how long now? After claiming that Tommy shouldn't have been working around kids, and bringing this up every single time you entered a thread and found someone trying to post about something else here in the 3ABN forums, and accusing them of not caring about children and protecting and defending a child molester?

How dare you come when I point out the age of consent law rules out child molestation; and try to pretend that the issue is homosexuality, and the issue was the man being a Pastor, when that was NEVER your issue?!?

Sexual assualt can occur with those older then the age of consent, I'm not defending that, but it also needs to be proved.

Homosexuality and being a Pastor can be issues for the Church to take care of but are not civil crimes, and don't try to push the homosexuality issue with Inga. (just a friendly heads up)

Posted by: princessdi Jan 30 2007, 11:20 AM

I DO NOT stand by molestation of kids. That is a LIE.

Problem is the age should not be an issue, but you keep making it an issues, so it looks like you are condoning Tommy's behavior as consentual sex if the young man is 17 years of age, as you stated the age of consent in IL. I am sure this technicality would not comfort you if Tommy had been propositioning your 17 year old son.

I stand for calling things by their right names, and proving all things. And I stand for the American way. Those who stand accused are innocent till proven guilty and have a right to face their accusers.

You need to give this up, Cindy. You came here asking for "first hand" knowledge you ahve recieved it and still reject it. How much more fist hand can you get than abuse victims? So what exactly is your point? Now you just we people are bashing the Sheltons and 3ABN because they are aksing themt o be accountable for their actions. Get your boy to address the issues at hand and they will go away, not quickly, but the will go.

I also stand for going to the police when there is a criminal offense and pressing charges.

And I stand for following biblical principles in our Church when it comes to taking care of sin, error and any disputes. Those principles do NOT include talebearing or publishing things to those outside the Church.

The problem with this is, the church did not 'handle" the situation at all. GC has seen all the same evidence we have here, and probably more, and yet they are silent. So then everyone is just supposed to act like nothing is going on, because the church does?

If you don't like that? I guess that would be your problem.

Gurl please!

I'm not pushing the homosexuality issue. I'm not even pushing the issue of him being a Pastor. all of that is just icing on the cake....

What I will continue to push is that the man had sex with a child. Point blank. That is it.

You can post "legal age of consent" all you want. The fact of the matter is the man had sex with a child. Not your child.... so of course it dosen't matter to you...but a child nonetheless.

Now.

Had you not posted anything about "legal age of consent" it wouldn't be viewed as making excuses as to why it was okay for the Pastor to have sex with the now known CHILD!!!

I can conceed the homosexuality. I can conceed the man being a Pastor and having sex out of marriage..... that again is just icing.

I will not however conceed that you, Aletheia post "legal age of consent" as if that gives it the legal ramifications to make it necessary for a man to have sex with a child. For it to be "okay" with you.

It's not your child/children, grandchildren, or kinfolk right now...but you done put some stank karma/vibes out there. I don't wish it on you...but what you put out comes back to you. (Remember generational curses in the BIBLE?)

You putting out "legal age of consent" for others....don't be surprised if it visits your own home.

YOU'RE getting tired of the questions? That's rich. I'm getting tired of my sexual orientation being questioned. I'm getting tired of whether or not we "consented" being questioned. Yes, Aletheia, it is common sense. And it appears that you are equating sexual assault with any other kind of assault. If a person was threatened with a knife, both his head and his emotions would direct him to the police station immediately.
BUT
In case of sexual assault, we are dealing with something altogether different. Cognitively, the person knows that this should be reported, but emotionally the person has conflicting feelings. The assaulted person isn't sure whether or not his thinking is correct. He is not certain that he would not be blamed and told that he was just making up stories. Sexuality is so much a part of a person's very being that it is embarrassing to discuss such issues with anyone else.

I hope that you write the way you do because you are naive and not crass. If you were the person at the desk, and I reported sexual assault, I am wondering whether or not you would listen and write up the report while giving me comfort and reassurance.

Maybe it is just because I hear the pain in the voice of so many people that I have no question that they are telling the truth.

Cindy, the total contents of your posts is becoming a great help to me - in one diretion. They direct me to my Saviour Jesus Christis and I must thank Him that he came to this world to save sinners, sinners just like you and me.

Jesus loves the sinner, but He hates sin. Sin polutes, and sin polutes the Church of God, and these issues are polluting the Seventh-day Adventist Church.

Perhaps you don't mean to, but your total writings give me the appearance of defending and perhaps glorifying the sin that pollutes the end-time church which needs cleansing before the Second Coming of our Lord Jesus Christ. Satan knows how to use Scripture and also the SOP, and I fear that you have a tendency to use his methods

By defending wickedness Satan gains an avenue into the Church where he can destroy the people of God and make them fit for perdition.

But don't despair, Cindy, the way to treat this is to kneel before the Cross, discovering that there is a Balm in Gilead. This goes for me, for you, for Danny, for Tommy, and for all. Without this there is no hope for any of us, but in the consecration and acceptance of forgiveness we obtain eternal life.

The Institution that satan has attacked and tried to keep it a hotbead of wickedness can be cleansed and become a great tool again in saving souls. Let that be our prayer!

Has anyone noticed that Danny and Bystander both use the unique mispelling (sp?) of the abreviation for the latin expression "et cetera"? It should be etc. instead of ect. Here is a copy of part of Danny's letter on the latest save3abn post and from one of Bystanders posts. Has Danny been identifried (sp?)

Do they have special credentials that I am ignorant of. I have seen even legal topics explained and assessed and told what this or that means in that instance like we were children and they were law proffessors. I have read continually their opinions on something they have read or heard and then stated as fact. As in, " Joe didn't answer Mary's question so obviously this means that Joe is trying to hide the fact that he did ect. ect... My second question would be " are we as a people that hungry for gossip and dirt that we would spend hours on end not only reading this drivel but adding our little 2 cent comments as to the guilt or innocence of people that we have never met and know nothing about except for the pictures that have been painted here. VofZ, It's good to see that others are paying attention! Yes, I've been following the ect. ect. trail since Bystander began posting here. I had seen Danny using the same misspelling in his emails. Then, when wwjd joined us he used the same ect. spelling. I was quite taken aback when I found Glenetta using recently as well!

It will be interesting, now that the grammatical cat is out of the bag, to see how they adjust their postings.

I am not angry, rather pained that the cause of God is being so carelessly bantered about internationally. There is a falling away coming. The man of sin will sit in the temple of God. 2 Thess 2:3,4. Is this website part of it? Are the ideologies of Satan sitting in the minds of the people here? Are we not told that we are the temple of God? These are spiritual applications for those who can see. Regarding driving out the money changers--JESUS viz GOD was the One who drove them out. If you read the postings under THE JUDGMENT the texts of scripture are worth noting. Further, to believe that only SDA's are reading this website is naive. Over 100 years ago The Great Controversy was writtten. We are in a war. During time of war the enemy infiltrates the camp, even as the 12 spies did Canaan. Why would we not believe that we too have spies in our midst from the other side, stirring up the unsuspecting people of God, to disgrace our God? It is well known even in times of revolution professional hecklers are hired to incite the common people. The tactics of Satan do not change. Be on guard. Sleep not as do others. The arguments in defense of the clever ones supporting this website are very smooth; but do they by their fruit line up with the Word of God? Unequivocally No. Consistency is a jewel. Satan mixes truth with error. We are living in fearful times. Even the secular media are talking about doomsday. Are we being so distracted that we are failing to make preparation for our own souls? The inspired writer has said that the latter rain will be falling all around us and we will know it not, because it is not falling on us. Oh solemn thought! We are also told that the time of trouble will be so dreadful that the insane man will become instantly sane. Are we prepared to say that we will never deny the name of Christ? Then, are we denying Him in ANY way in our own personal lives today? It is the little foxes that spoil the vines. Note Prov. 21:2 "Every way of a man is right in his own eyes: but the LORD pondereth the heart." Compare 1 Cor. 19:12 "Wherefore let him that thinketh he standeth take heed lest he fall." You may be aware that on June 27 to July 7 OPERATION GLOBAL RAIN is taking place. For more information email operationglobalrain777@msn.com This is a call to a worldwide time of fasting and prayer for the outpouring of the latter rain. They are seeking another Pentecost. Is your church in it? It should be. As for 3abn. Leave them to God. As with the posters on this website, Ecc. 12:14 applies. "For God shall bring every work into judgment, with every secret thing, whether it be good, or whether it be evil." Amen

Unfortuntately for your reputation as a knowledgeable Bible student, the Bible makes clear that we do have some responsibility for supporting folks who are bringing disrepute on the cause of God. We do have a responsibility to "judge" our own. As Paul points out, the faithful will one day judge angels.

You appear to be suggesting that those who know about Tommy's sexual molestation should do nothing about it. Am I interpreting your words correctly?

You also seem to imply that those who see evidence of Danny's blatant misuse of funds (and I'm not referring the plane, WWJD) should do nothing about it. Again, am I correct?

PB

Posted by: Watchman Feb 11 2007, 09:45 PM

It was not intended to be an exact quote, but since it was a startling statement, thank you for bringing this to my attention. The exact quote is startling enough on its own, given ones understanding of the use of language in the era in which it was penned. The following statement is from the book: MARANATHA -(1976) Ch.251

"A Little Time of Peace"
"For when they shall say, Peace and safety; then sudden destruction cometh upon them, as travail upon a woman with child; and they shall not escape." 1 Thess. 5:3
"While the work of salvation is closing, trouble will be coming on the earth, and the nations will be angry, yet held in check so as not to prevent the work of the third angel. At that time the "latter rain," or refreshing from the presence of the Lord, will come, to give power to the loud voice of the third angel, and prepare the saints to stand in the period when the seven last plagues shall be poured out.
"I was shown the inhabitants of the earth in the utmost confusion. War, bloodshed, privation, want, famine, and pestilence were abroad in the land. As these things surrounded God's people, they began to press together, and to cast aside their little difficulties. Self-dignity no longer controlled them; deep humility took its place. SUFFERING, PERPLEXITY, AND PRIVATION CAUSED REASON TO RESUME ITS THRONE, AND THE PASSIONATE AND UNREASONABLE MAN BECAME SANE, AND ACTED WITH DISCRETION AND WISDOM" (This is what I referred to.)
"Angels are now restraining the winds of strife, until the world shall be warned of its coming doom; but a storm is gathering, ready to burst upon the earth, and when God shall bid His angels loose the winds, there will be such a scene of strife as no pen can picture....A moment of respite has been graciously given us of God. Every power lent us of heaven is to be used in doing the work assigned us by the Lord for those who are perishing in ignorance."

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Feb 11 2007, 10:31 PM

Watchman,
Yes this is a startling quote from the pen of SOP. Those of us who want to be among those able to stand through this time certainly must make our connection with the Lord top priority.

I really do want to know from you what you would do if you found out that numerous young men/boys had been sexually abused, betrayed by a pastor they loved and trusted. Would you speak out for these young people? Would you do everything in your power to see that no more young people would be abused by this individual?

What would you do if you found out, through the testimonies of these alleged victims, that this pastor's younger brother, who is the president of a world wide Christian ministry, was doing all he could to keep the allegations secret instead of making his brother accept responsibility for the devastating behavior and keeping more youth from being victimized?

What would you do if you found out that instead of calling for his brother to make Biblical restitution to these alleged victims this ministry leader instead made calls to threaten victims into silence and even had ministry lawyers write letters to intimidate them?

Would hold up your hands, turn away and let God deal with it in his own time?

I have read the words of our Savior: "For in as much as ye have done it to the least of these my brethren, ye have done it unto Me."

Dear PB: "Quoting from the inspired writings January 25, 1883 entitled Christian Unity "Contentions, strife and lawsuits between brethren are a disgrace to the cause of truth. (I personally add once more that two wrongs do not make one right). Those who take such a course EXPOSE the church to the ridicule of her enemies, and cause the powers of darkness to triumph. They are piercing the wounds of Christ afresh, and putting Him to an open shame. By ignoring the authority of the church, they show contempt for God, who gave to the church its authority....Paul...greatly desired that the false teachers might be separated from the church, but their influence had affected so many of the believers that it seemed hazardous to take action against them. There was danger of causing strife and division which would be RUINOUS to the spiritual interests of the church. He therefore sought to impress upon his brethren the importance of trying to help one another in love.....A house divided against itself cannot stand. When Christians contend, Satan COMES IN TO TAKE CONTROL. How often has he succeeded in destroying the peace and harmony of churches....Paul charged his brethren to beware lest in trying to correct the faults of others, they should commit sins equally great themselves. He warns them that hatred, emulation, wrath, strife, seditions, heresies, and envyings are as truly the works of the flesh as are LASCIVIOUSNESS, ADULTERY, drunkenness, MURDER, and will as surely CLOSE THE GATE OF HEAVEN AGAINS THE GUILTY. Whoever...by a wrong example misleads a disciple of Christ, is guilty of a great sin. Whoever would make him an object of slander or ridicule is INSULTING JESUS. Our Saviour marks every wrong done to His followers." End of quote. MY COMMENT IS THIS: Jesus does not have double standards. He said He is no respector of persons. Sin is sin. The greatest sin taking place here, if I am to understand the aforementioned quotation is the sin of flinging the cause and therefore honour, of God into the dust,-- and putting Christ to OPEN--I MEAN--WORLDWIDE--SHAME, with all this disgraceful laundry hanging out on this sullied website. If people would humble themselves and band together, weeping and praying, and yes, LOVING the souls of the sinners in Zion--they would repent. Of course, that would take sacrifice.

You mean only one other person has ever posted under bystander; by your own admission you have... unless, of course, you and bystander are, in fact, one in the same person... but that would make what you told Calvin to get back in here a lie, n'est-ce pas?

Freudian slip, peut-etre?

Perhaps another Freudian slip would be the use of the same distinctive misspelling ECT by 3 of the apologists. (are they one in the same, or do they just all conform to Danny's bad spelling?). Perhaps their subconscious is telling them they are in need of ECT (electro convulsive therapy) for vigorously trying to defend accused molestors (pl.) - instead of putting them both on formal leave until these matters are sorted out.

Of course fear of injury to the "ministry" (bottom-line?) supercedes propriety. Shades of the Catholic scandal. ECT (electro Catholic therapy?).

Watchman,

While I always feel edified after reading quotes from Ellen White I really don't see this as an answer to my questions in my post #62. Of course if you have determined that all of the people on this site are guilty of spreading "hatred, emulation, wrath, strife, seditions, heresies, and envyings" I believe your judgement is faulty.

Let's create a hypothetical situation for a momemnt. If you discovered that a brother of yours was molesting young people what would you do? Would you humble yourself, band together, weep and pray and love the souls of the sinners in Zion and expect that would solve the problem and cause your brother to repent? Would you explain this to your brother's victims and his future victims so that they would see the wisdom of your actions? Would you threaten to take the victims to court if they tried to tell about the abuse?

If this is what you would do, wouldn't you be just as guilty of the abuse of these young people as your brother? There are plenty of scriptures and counsels from SOP that say so.

It is unfortunate that the "alleged" abuse by Tommy Shelton was not handled properly in the beginning. How many young men would have avoided becoming victims? How much better it would have been if, instead of using his power and position to threaten Tommy's alleged victims, Danny Shelton and other family members had done the lawful and Christian thing and demanded accountability from this brother. If the problem had been handled properly in the beginning, many of the people on this forum would not be here. I know I wouldn't be. So, who is it that is responsible for worldwide shame?

I just have to wonder what the Lord, the angels and the people on the unfallen worlds are thinking about a ministry leader that would protect the reputation of his brother by denial, cover-up and intimidation at the expense of the alleged victims of his brother's heinous behavior.

There are several possiblilites:

1. All are one and the same person (Danny, Bystander, wwjd and even glenetta).

2. All are from the same extended family.

3. All had the same English teacher in school.

I lean towards the second possibility.

Someday, when I have some extra time, I plan on going through Joe Smith and Kaiser Schlabotnick's posts to see if the common thread appears in them as well. Someday.

Right on, Watchman!
That's what we're concerned about! Don't you think it's better that folks be alerted to who the infiltrators are -- folks who take vilify their ex-spouses whom they divorced for frivolous reasons, protect a child molester and intimidate his victims and bring aberrant doctrines into the church?

Maybe if you'd pay attention to the posts instead of pasting in long passages of Scripture or SOP, you'd figure out who the infiltrators really are.

(By the way, I suspect we all own Bibles, and many of us can copy and paste as well as you from digital version of the Bible and the SOP.)

Watchman, you may note that the spies, who infiltrated, were the children of Israel, infiltrating the enemy.

If 10 of those spies would have used the information they found correctly, Israel would have entered the promised land and overthrown the enemy.

It was because those who had the information were afraid, the enemy won, and the Israelites spent 40 years wandering.

Only 2 spies were willing to speak up. Even though the majority wanted to listen to the 10. those two entered the promised land, while the others died in the wilderness.

Sometimes we must take aggressive action to expose the enemy.

BlackSDA _ 3ABN _ Just Some Facts

Posted by: Bystander Feb 7 2007, 04:54 PM

This email was forwarded to me with permission to post it. I will do so.

3ABN income is public record. I guess anyone can get them. The question should be asked, Why did Linda make more money than Danny when she was working there. She was only Vice President. She should be making less. Did it ever occur to anyone that she felt she deserved more than the President. A very inflated view of one's self I would think.

1..Danny still makes less than most pastors when you include all their benefits. Danny does not even get retirement that all SDA pastors get.

2..The figures represented show his benefits except Health Insurance even including several thousand dollars that he pays annually for use of a company car that shows up on his income tax as a benefit thus raising the bottom line of his total income a year. Also, in 2004 and 2005 he chose to work through much of his vacation time and was paid for it, which also shows up on the bottom line of total salary.
3..Records show that Linda had use of a company vehicle but didn't want to pay for its use. The 3ABN board voted that on top of her salary that she be given the vehicle she was driving at the time worth Approx. $15,000! She then used it as down payment to trade it in on her Approx. $47,000

2003 Toyota Sequoia.

4..Though Danny didn't get his name on the title as he thought he would, he did get stuck with the loan from Combank that still has his name along with Linda as borrower. Danny also has proof that he has payed money for Linda's vehicle even after their..........you guessed it!
The way Linda set it up is that Danny gets none of the asset of her cars worth, but is responsible for paying the liability! (notice the enclosed documents as proof! (I have a copy of the documents but can't seem to scan them on. I will try again later.) Bystander

Who said Linda is Naive! Maybe the chapter in Linda's book should be changed to Danny being the trusting, naive one!

Have people call their local Conference and ask them just how much tithe money does it take to totally pay for a pastor and his families benefits per year.

5..Danny doesn't get education benefits for his children as does conference employees for example. Some Conf. provide nearly 2/3 of their childrens school bills. If one has children in school especially academy and college this can be very costly. Thousands and thousands of dollars per year.

6..Many Conferences provide housing allowances, travel and many more perks.

7..Most Conferences claim that to totally support a pastor a church must pay at least $120,000 to $150,000 tithe. Not all of this goes to him of course.

8..It should also be noted that the Administrators of our SDA Hospitals make in the hundreds of thousands of dollars per year. Why?
Their responsibility is much more than a local pastor of a church, for instance. They are responsible to over see millions and millions of dollars a year.

9..Danny's responsibility can in no way be compared to a regular church pastor in an SDA church. How many of them are responsible for overseeing nearly 200 full time workers around the world? How many SDA pastors are "required" to raise $17,000,000 per year to keep the ministry growing and going into all the world?

10.. It has been stated here that Danny handled all the marital finances and Linda had no knowledge of such things.

Fact: Linda handled the biggest part of the finances. 3abn has access to thousands and thousands of checks written over the years for bills, groceries, purchases, utilities, ect ect in Linda's handwriting and Linda's signature Fact: Danny does not give himself raises. Only the 3ABN board of Directors can give him a raise.

Fact: While Danny and Linda were married and they had two incomes to pay the bills, it has already been noticed that Linda chose to make more than Danny. The 3ABN board has never voted for Linda to make more money than Danny as President. As minutes to 3ABN board meeting will reflect Danny refused cost of living raises that all salaried employees get each year. Linda continued to take her money. This is how she went from making her salary of several thousand dollars a year less than Danny to making several thousands of of dollars a year more than Danny.

Fact; Danny has never faulted her for taking what the board had voted for her to take. He just didn't feel that they needed the total amount awarded by the board for salaries.

Folks don't waste your time trying to tear this up, this has all been verified.

Posted by: princessdi Feb 7 2007, 05:14 PM

Believe it or not, I think the discussion on salaries is kind of ridiculous. I think everyone ought to get more, including Danny. He did co found a entire wolrd ministry. I have never said he didn't have his good points, and God never uses him, He does, that is apparent. That is not to say that he was perfect, he gots some serious issues with control to begin with, and it goes down hill from there. God uses each of us right where we are, Danny is His child also. T he only thing I see is that Danny does have perks, like the use of the private jet, etc. the severely underpaid employees have no perks. Linda should have gotten more money when she left, if nothing else Danny should have had respect for the work she put into 3ABN. The courts should not have had to tell him that.

Once again, I never said Linda was perfect, don't rightly know what she was, really. Danny did himself a disservice with that gag order. The only words and deeds out there are his, and too many are down right crooked and reprehensible. If he wanted to drag Linda down with him, he should have let her speak and also be accountable for the way things were done at 3ABN, truthfully, she ain't been gone that long.....But naw, he so busy trying to shut her down. See, that be the limb the devil coaxes us onto, and then he begins to saw at the base. Now you are on here trying to back track and place some kind of blame on Linda, trying to make sure she is not seen as a victim. Or hsould I say change the view from victime to accomplice, involved in a deal where she might not have realized that there was no honor among thieves.

I don't mean if you mean to infer this, but as with Tommy(he wasn't molesting those boys, but having gay affairs), you are not saying that Danny didn't do anything wrong, but that Linda did her dirt, too. That still makes Danny wrong, and accountable. We can't ask Linda, because......guess what......you've got it!

Yes, you can't dispute verified facts so all you can do is play the guessing game. And fyi there are probably 15 to 20 people who would know that information.

Sorry. I can't get down with the sentence:
"Danny still makes less than most pastors when you include all their benefits. Danny does not even get retirement that all SDA pastors get..."

The fact that the man has "HORSES" alone puts him above all the SDA Pastors that I know personally - one of which "subsititute teaches" to make "extra money" for the family.....

Why do so many ("regular") Pastors have broke down cars?

Why do so many ("regular") Pastors have to "beg" for a raise?

That sentence: "Danny still makes less than most pastors when you include all their benefits. Danny does not even get retirement that all SDA pastors get..." is quite off....

Sorry....

Yes, I believe your thinking is quite off. Fact is Danny does not get a retirement. Fact is he didn't get school allowance for his kids. Fact is if he does make more, why shouldn't he? As posted, pastors are not responsible for bringing 17 million a year to keep a ministry running and they are not responsible for 200 employees. Fact is if a pastor doesn't like his church or location, he can ask to be transferred and not look back. Fact is a church pastor does not have to travel constantly. Fact is a church pastor doesn't have to deal with never ending phone calls, emails, letters, ect. that will run into the thousands over a short period of time. And no I am not talking about just 3abn communications, I am talking about all the personal he deals with as well.

You simply don't want to deal with this because you know it is true.

Interesting to say that the "conference didn't pay for it" instead of saying that "Dan did." That leaves a lot of options...not that I care either way, just pointing out an oddity.

About Danny and SDA pastors. I keep viewing posts that use the words Danny and SDA pastors within the same sentence. Is Danny a pastor? What I remember from Danny's stories is that he was a carpenter and was told by God to build a television network ministry that will encircle the world. Well something like it. Or is it because he built a world wide ministry that makes him a pastor? . Was he ordained? Also wondering why Danny's income is compared with SDA minister's incomes. Just confused h . ofl

How many kids does Danny have? I thought that Melody was his only child and she is a grown woman with children of her own. Hmmm....

i've been wondering about this also...

"several years ago" would be when Linda was still there? with Nathan (and Alyssa)?

and now there's Brandy's two little girls... are they in school? who pays for them?

why only bring in "several years ago"? why not at present? are things different now?

Seems like Danny stated on TV about 3 years ago that Melody was 30. Her half-sisters are not Danny's real daughters. His first wife was married before and had these daughters with her first husband. But are we to reveal a woman's age?

Yes, both are older than Melody. I'll correct myself by saying I believe they are both Danny's biological daughter's by his first wife, Kay, that was killed in a car accident years ago. I know they both went by the last name of Shelton but I was just a child when I knew them and children aren't always made privy to all information. I know that Rhonda for sure favored the Sheltons. I thought Lisa looked more like her mom.

To my knowledge, they always referred to Danny as their dad.

A number of comments have been made which are accurate, but subject to missundering. I shall comment on a couple of the statements:

1: It is true that a typical Conference in the USA requires a congregation to have an increase in tithe of from $120,000 to $150,000 to have the Conference support adding an additional pastor to the staff. i.e. To have two pastors, the congregation would be required to have a tithe income of from $240 K to $300 K per year. It is also true that the salary paid to the pastor is much less than the amount required by the Conference to be the congregations annual income. The reason for this is to accommodate for the per-cent age of congregational tithe that is passed through the Conference to the Union, NAD, and General Conference. In other words, the Conference does not have the freedom to use the entire amount of congregational tithe income.

2) Yes, as I have stated publicly in a post on Club Adventist, Danny Shelton was underpaid, according the IRS 990s, for the work that he did for 3-ABN. According to my memory, I stated at that time that a fair salary for him as President of 3-ABN would have been in the $70 K to $75 K range. As that was some time ago, I would probably raise those figures by $5,000 if I were to make such a statement now.

3) The standard reimbursements for children of SDA employees is either 1/3 or 2/3 of the tuition. The 1/3 is paid for children who attend a day school, and the 2/3 is paid for children who are living at a boarding school. NOTE: I do not receive one penny to reimburse me for my son who is in a SDA college. I am fully responsible for his costs, less certain scholarships that he has received due to his academic standing.

4) As to the salary of hospital administrators: That is a controversial subject. The issues regarding their pay may be debated. However, there is a wide range in pay, and one should be careful not to generalize beyond what is fact. Denver Colorado has a large number of hospitals, several of which are SDA. A few months back a local newspaper published information regarding the salaries paid to the CEOs of these hospitals. The church that I attend has three present and former hospital ?CEOs (Actually, I believe it to be four, as I think about it.). One of them was listed as receiving a salary of $164,000. Others received more, but I do not remember their exact figures. Now, $164 K is a big salary. It is certainly more than I make, and probably most of you. I will not challenge that some CEOs of SDA hospitals receive a several hundred thousand dollars salary. But, that should not be generalized beyond what is actually the case.

Re: "1..Danny still makes less than most pastors when you include all their benefits. Danny does not even get retirement that all SDA pastors get."

Danny may not get a retirement package. But, in my opinion, the rest is subject to serious challenge. Consider all of the perks that Danny gets as well as pastors. As a pastor I never had a corporate jet waiting to wisk me away on a trip!

Posted by: Observer Feb 8 2007, 07:41 AM

Re: "Danny does not even get retirement that all SDA pastors get."

The above statement introduces a factor that I believe to be critical.

Danny should recieve both a fair salary, and a fair retirement.

3-ABN should fairly compensate their employees, both in salary, in a medical plan, and in retirement benefits.

A failure to do the above has been shown, time and again, both in the SDA Chruch, and in other non-profit fields to result in major problems.

When people are either not paid a fair wage, or are not provided with a fair retirement package, they are forced to look elsewhere to provide for either their present or futher livehood. The problem arises when they get into ethical conflicts of interest. When that happens, and it becomes public, at best the institusiton suffers, and at worst there is a criminal conviction.

In the area where I live, the State is conducting an investigation of a non-SDA pastor. It seems that he developed a plan to sell life insurance to members and/or people he claimed were employees of his chruch. The media is reporting that he recieved income from the premiums that were paid on those policies, and in addition that a portion of the proceeds of the policies upon death went to chruch related entities. e.g. The media is reporting that in a recent death, a $100,000 policy is set up to only pay $10,000 to the beneficiary, and that $90,000 is to go elsewhere.

As the State is investigating all of this. I do not know what is true, and what is not. That will be determined as the investigation goes forward. I do not know if the pastor committed any crime. Altough the investigation is in part focused on whether or not he violated the law and functioned as an unlicensed insurance agent.

Anyway, my point: When people are not fairly provided for in either their current living situaiton, or in their retirment, they seek other means to fulfill those needs. Those means may turn into conflicts of interest.

All organization are better off by paying their employees fairly, and by providing for medical and retirement. 3-ABN will profit if it does so for Danny and all employees. Danny and all deserve it, as long as they are employeed by 3-ABN.

What is Danny's total benefit package? In my state, we have low wages; however, when we assess our benefits, then there is a significant increase in our overall financial package.

I know they both went by the last name of Shelton but I was just a child when I knew them and children aren't always made privy to all information. I know that Rhonda for sure favored the Sheltons. I thought Lisa looked more like her mom.

Lisa and Ronda are not Danny's biological children. They had a father that they were not close to and chose to go by the name of Shelton. They were Kay's daughters. The oldest is about 44 and the other is about 40. They were grown at the time of Kays death. Melody is Danny's only biological child.

wwjd sounds like Danny has had a pretty big heart. What a challenge to raise someone else's children. He raised those, plus he raised Linda's two children, plus his own daughter.

Posted by: princessdi Feb 9 2007, 05:14 PM

Yeah, that is why he doesn't mention them to this day. He marries women with children, he doesn't seem to care about the children. My parents were foster parents and adoptive parents all while we were growing up and beyond. If you ask my Mom now how many children she has, she does not say two becuase she is only counting her biological children. Danny acts if if Melody has been the only child in his life.

One more thing, if he was actually involved it he raising of Nathan, he would not have to wonder why Linda was ont he phone with the Dr. about her son. It is very telling that Danny never mentioned that is who Linda was on the phone with from the beginning. Speaks to his character as a man. I didn't even know there were any children at all, until others starte explaining who the Dr. was. Danny might be some things positive, as with us all, but big hearted with caring for someone else's children is not one of them. they got to be blood for him to even consider them.

I find the contemplation of Danny's "big heart" quite overwhelming.
How old were Kay's daughters when he married her? What was his involvement in their raising? I wonder whether he "raised" them in the same manner as Linda's daughter? (He "raised" Linda's daughter in such a manner that she signed an affidavit alleging that Danny molested her.) His big heart went out to Nathan's, Linda's son, in such a great manner that he found it necessary to divorce Nathan's mother over sticking to supporting her son's treatment.

What a big heart, indeed!

If Danny were truly playing the man, husband and father, in this situation, I would expect him to have made many of those phone calls to his son's doctor himself, thus easing the burden upon his wife. Surely she was strained emotionally and physically to deal with such a sensitive burden--alone. A manly man would have come to his wife's aid and not left the entire burden of care to her. Perhaps he, with his manly, analytical mind could have communicated more efficiently and not required so many hours of long-distance calls. Perhaps he could have spent the hours saved in talking through with his wife those emotions that she was going through from all of this. Perhaps.

Why do you think his son had been weakened to the point of succumbing to such temptations? What drove him to that? Did he seek comfort in lieu of acceptance? (These be rhetorical.)

On the other hand, if it were unacceptable, and had "spiritual adultery" written all over her extended phone calls to an overseas doctor, I guess he must have not wanted to commit "spiritual ho______." What a shame to have one's mind on such suspicions, to such a coloring of reality. There's a reason why trust is so important in a marriage. If one is always suspicious, there is sometimes a tendency for others is to live up to those expectations. If those others do not do so, the person's suspicions still cloud their mind to see only that which they think they should see.

Attitude is crucial.

Some time ago Danny described the antics he perfomed in order to impress the judge while Linda's and Doug's custody of Nathan was being decided back when the boy was 15. After hearing what he described, I felt strongly that Danny's actions and attitudes were very likely part of the reason Linda lost custody and that the reason she lost her son was not just because of her religion but of the perception Danny gave the judge about Linda's and Danny's religion and of Danny as a stepfather.

Just curious. I must have missed this one. Where is the 'antics' description by Danny?
Actually, my sister and I had already come to the conclusion that Danny had not been any kind of 'father' to either Nathan or Alyssa some time ago.

I believe Danny told about his "antics" when he was speaking on 3ABN and it was probably years ago if my memory serves correctly. I don't believe it has been discussed on BSDA.

I'm quick to tell people that I have two sister and a brother....

Only one is blood - and she's a "half" sibling. The other sister and brother are a sibling set that were raised by my Mother in foster care for almost 10 years. They lived in our home and would have been adopted if their family hadn't stepped in and decided to "take them back" after several years.....

My (foster) sister and brother call my Mother - "Mamma"....and call their own bio-Mother by her first name.

Now.

It is also true that the salary paid to the pastor is much less than the amount required by the Conference to be the congregations annual income. The reason for this is to accommodate for the per-cent age of congregational tithe that is passed through the Conference to the Union, NAD, and General Conference. In other words, the Conference does not have the freedom to use the entire amount of congregational tithe income.

So, if Bill Gates where to join a small church of some 50 members, how many pastors would be assigned to that church?

Why would you come to that conclusion? because of what you have read here? As stated earlier I have known the Shelton parents and some of the family for over 50 years. Kays children were small when they married and he loved them like his own.

Nathan came by this summer and visited for a while.

Bob,

Having been a recipient of the above email I was reminded of what happened in the way you posted your exchanges between Danny and Dr. Thompson in regards to "Linda's car title" and the issue of "admissions of being misled" respectively.

Those discussions began much the same way this one is. You already have tipped your hand elsewhere in regards to what you believe about the question you ask in the above email. Engaging in an email exchange and then crafting it so it says what you want it to doesn't seem to present your case in the best light.

Your exchange with Danny in regards to the car title showed that he told you he opened the car with a key he had. Later in the same email Linda is the one who uses the words "broke into." After a few more posts you suddenly make the claim that Danny admitted breaking into Linda's car. He never said that, he never insinuated that.

In regards to Dr. Thompson, he graciously responded to your questions. It was obvious that he was giving you the benefit of the doubt and accepting, initially, that you wanted to help solve the issues and be involved in healing the wounds so 3ABN could go on with its mission. You then took his answers and began making statements such as "Dr. Thompson admitted that Danny lied." You have since edited most of the statements to things like "seemingly admited" and the like. Again, these are not true and crafted to manipulate readers in a subtle way. How powerful it is to be able to get readers to think that the chairman of the BoD admitted that Danny lied to him. If this is true, many will surmise, then the other allegations must be true as well.

You are in publishing and you deal with words, I don't believe this is sloppy writing. It is well crafted to create a perception you wanted to create.

In case it isn't clear:

1. Danny never admitted breaking into Linda's car and finding a watch in the glove compartment. He did say he opened it with a key he had and found a watch in the glove compartment.

2. Dr. Thompson never admitted Danny lied. Nor did he insinuate that Danny lied. What Dr. Thompson did do was answer your questions openly and honestly.

There are other evidences of nefarious methods that have been employed by those making a case against 3ABN. As I verify what I have been told I will also challenge on those points.

If you have an honest case to make, you shouldn't need to use duplicitous methods to gain "information" or spin it so it suits your position. You shouldn't have to mislead people or cast aspersions in order to uncover the truth.

- FHB

And for every visitor who reads the above from fallible, I will say that his accusations are utterly false. I did not re-post his post in order to make people think he was the one asking those questions.

Further, fallible did not follow Matthew 18 by making any attempt whatsoever to ask me whether his suspicions were correct. He assumed his suspicions were correct, and posted accordingly, thus making totally false accusations.

This thread has been reopened.... Bob, when a thread has been closed we usually frown upon the subject being transferred to a new thread.... In this case there is an exception because of the desire to explore the investigative practices involved.... if the thread strays it will be closed...

Bob I went back and found the complete statement that FHB posted..... He said:

> QUOTE
> I received the email quoted below from Bob Pickle tonight, February 9, 2007 at 4:26 PM. It arrived at my personal email address which is not available on either BSDA or MSDAOL.

The email in question is the one you posted here to start this thread, and you did not post it in its entirety.... Such sleight of hand does not do your cause justice... It gives the appearance of doing something questionable.... is that the impression you want us to have?

FHB complete statement can be found here:

http://www.blacksda.com/forums/index.php?showtopic=12480

There is enough confusion as it is, but to do that makes it appear that FHB said something that he did not say.... that is not necessary....

Posted by: Pickle Feb 12 2007, 11:19 AM

Wasn't my intention, I assure you.

I thought about posting the entire email rather than just what FHB posted, but then opted to post only what he posted.

Since the purpose was to elicit answers to the question posed in the email, not to merely reproduce his post, it never occurred to me that I should quote anything other than the email itself, as in quoting a few of his words as well.

My apologies for whatever confusion that caused.

Posted by: Pickle Feb 12 2007, 11:46 AM

(Clay, if any of this is inappropriate, feel free to delete.)

As far as FHB's comments go regarding the title issue, he apparently harbors an unforgiving spirit, for he neglects to say that I apologized for that imprecise wording, which was brought on through going round and round with a certain user over nonsense.

Nor does he say that I proposed to him that I reword it to say that Danny admitted that he had entered Linda's car without permission, which in some people's minds might mean just about the same.

Nor does he say that my point in that sentence was that Danny admitted to what the make and model of the car in question was. That Danny admitted entering Linda's car without permission was not the point of my statement at all.

Nor does he say that in that very same interchange he falsely accused me more than once of posting a reply from Danny on the title issue, and wouldn't believe me when I told him he was wrong. But in the end he did acknowledge that he had erred on that one, for Danny had never sent me any reply whatsoever on that issue.

And FHB knows full well what I have meant whenever I have said that Dr. Thompson essentially admitted that Danny misled him. He knows that I have consistently meant that Dr. Thompson admitted that Danny told him that the allegations were 30 years old and due to a feud, and that regardless of what Dr. Thompson thinks about those points, that that information is clearly bogus, and thus that Danny had to have misled him, even if Dr. Thomspon never said, "Danny misled me."

My hunch is that what the real problem FHB is having right now is that he is mad that Aletheia gave me his email containing his email address back in December, and he is mad that I thus have two names that he has used, possibly his first and middle names. And if he had just not got so bent out of shape about it yesterday, it would never have dawned on me last night that perhaps I have the first letter of his last name too in his email address.

But FHB, you're still in the clear. After someone other than myself made a number of phone calls, your identity is still a secret, so don't worry.

But please, don't start straining at a gnat and swallowing a camel again, as if my wording regarding Dr. Thompson's admission is a more hideous crime than lying about allegations of child molestation, the latter which has jeopardized 3ABN's financial stability if any more recent incidents have occurred.

And my poor choice of wording when pointing out that Danny admitted that Linda's car was a Toyota Sequoia is a gnat compared to the camel of Danny's lying when trying to prove that his ex-wife is an adulteress. Danny is free to prove his case, but he must do it only with truth, never lies. And if he trips up somewhere and makes a mistake in his wording, he should be man enough to admit it and apologize, even as you did.

Posted by: calvin Feb 12 2007, 12:13 PM

Maybe I did not make myself clear. The other topic was closed yesterday because the two of you where going at it over how Pickle got FHB's email address. TAKE IT OFFLINE. The next time one of you brings it up, he will be suspended.

BTW Pickle, we have had enough discussion about car titles and such, don't need another topic to rehash this stuff again. Dig up one of the old threads if you want to bump it up.

BlackSDA _ 3ABN _ Chapter 11

Posted by: sister Sep 16 2006, 07:50 AM

"Naive", Part 1

Linda sits quietly in a chair, gazing out the living room window. Danny has just left the room. Her shoulders begins to shake as a single tear slowly makes its way down her cheek, as her lips begin to tremble she hears the roar of Danny's truck as he drives away... Soon the single tear is joined by many others, etching her delicate features like stained glass. Clasping her hands together she falls to her knees and begins to pray... At the same time Linda is praying, Danny is seated in his office viewing a website for private jets.

* * * * *

I have remained silent so far in the discussion concerning certain character attributes of Linda. I can understand both sides of this issue: the portrayal of Linda by Sonshineonme as a very naive individual and the call for Linda's accountability in regard to what transpired under the rulership of 3ABN and the question of what knowledge she possessed of certain facts at the time.

In the former portrayal, it might be best to define the term "naive" as a "childlike trusting nature and vulnerability", someone who looks for the good in situations and is shocked upon the discovery that everything in her world was not as it was depicted to her by her husband. Linda is an individual with these character traits and thus can easily be dominated and manipulated by a controlling and dishonest individual. When Linda was under the control of Danny and her perspective of situations were shaped primarily through his "interpretation" of the "facts", Linda's viewpoint seldom reflected the reality of the situation. Add to this mix a woman who deeply loves her husband and has been controlled by him for twenty years and you have both a case of abuse and manipulation: a woman who has been conditioned to believe everything her husband tells her and taught not to question his credibility or decisions. Considering Linda's character, this situation existed throughout their entire marriage, in varying degrees.

Now in regard to the situation cited in my third post of the Unauthorized History of 3ABN, based upon the above information, whose word is Linda going to believe in regard to the misuse of ministry funds: her husband or his cousin? If her husband tells her he paid for the horses himself and his cousin says he used ministry monies for private purchases, she will side with her husband. With the mind set she has developed with Danny, that is the only conclusion she could allow herself to believe. Unfortunately, she did not investigate further for herself, for she believed her husband. Add to that the knowledge that between them they earned about 100, 000 dollars a year and she saw no reason for Danny steal from the ministry, he could afford to buy horses himself. That is where the "childlike trusting nature and vulnerability", which would usually be considered a positive trait in a Christian, is used to manipulate Linda into complete trust and compliance in what her husband said. And further explains how she could make the following statement in utter confidence, "anything Danny says is right, even if he is wrong, we are like gods here." She never considered the possibility that Danny was lying...

1. She believed what her husband said was true
2. She did not believe that he would intentionally misrepresent his actions
3. She believed he was a godly man.

And in regard to the last part of the statement, "we are like gods here.",

4. I agree, it was not a very wise statement to make, no matter what her intentions were at the time. But as the old adage goes, "hindsight is 20/20 and if Linda could change that statement now, with the knowledge that she has today, I am sure she would have phrased her thoughts very differently. But, much later she did find out just how true that statement was in regard to the absolute control Danny has over 3ABN as a business and the functioning of the Board.

Were there actions on Danny's part that she knew about and protested against? Yes. Was she able to stop him? No. Did she try to reason with him? Yes. Did it produce her desired results? No. Did she suffer abuse for opposing him?

Stay tuned for Part 2 of Naive...

"sister",

Thank you so much!

This IS the Linda WE have known and LOVED as well!!!

These are the very point I have been trying to say for so long...

That's what I have been trying to say, but I don't have that gift of expression as do you.

THANK YOU
THANK YOU THANK YOU, "sister"

Thank you, Sister, for putting the situation more into context. As I mentioned in a post in another thread, I understand the survival/coping mechanisms of a person being controlled by a dominant, abusive spouse.

The statement, in your "We Be Gods.." thread read by itself kind of painted a picture of Linda as dismissing misuse of funds. It certainly gave me pause. Thanks for clarifying.

So, is Danny accused of misusing 3abn funds also. If he used the money to buy horses maybe he considers the horses as 3abn horses. Where is the proof? How much truth is there in this rumour.

Posted by: roxe Jan 27 2007, 06:33 PM

sister,

when are the rest of the parts of chapter 11 going to be posted??
it's been four months...

or are they being written now as they happen??

Posted by: Richard Sherwin Jan 27 2007, 06:50 PM

I consider a ministry using a corperate jet to fly it's leader around in a misuse of funds. I believe the figure is $40,000 per month, not including expences like pilots, jet A fuel, insurance etc.

So would that make a difference?

What "ministering" could horses do for 3ABN?

When you think of it, Dan Shelton doesn't have to "own" anything to support a lifestyle quite above the average folks. If 3ABN "owns" things that he can use as he wishes, that is quite sufficient, and he doesn't have to pay taxes on the income.

"Naive", Part 1

Linda sits quietly in a chair, gazing out the living room window. Danny has just left the room. Her shoulders begins to shake as a single tear slowly makes its way down her cheek, as her lips begin to tremble she hears the roar of Danny's truck as he drives away... Soon the single tear is joined by many others, etching her delicate features like stained glass. Clasping her hands together she falls to her knees and begins to pray... At the same time Linda is praying, Danny is seated in his office viewing a website for private jets.

Are you implying that Danny did not search the internet to find the kind of jet that he truly deserved? If I were to bet, I'd bet he really did!

As always, your "I hate Linda" Venom is dripping again! You really must stop drooling. I believe that paragraph.

I believe it depicts Linda, as a true Christian. I believe Linda is a person of much prayer. And yes, I believe Danny is about getting what he has determined that he deserves. He felt he was entitled to a better jet.

Linda clearly accepted the fact that she was entitled to nothing. She still remains faithful to God. She has had everything stolen from her, yet she still praises God. Oh that I would have her faith.

Surely you are laughing at Danny. Surely you would not belittle Linda's faith and prayers.

Well, maybe you would since you are doing everything in your power to destroy one classy lady.

I really find it interesting that someone that professes to be a Christian would read this and respond in this manner. I find myself, as others have asking you why individuals on one side of this drama deserves understanding and forgiveness, but the lady doesn't. I think the "good book" tells us not be a respecter of persons, but when has that Bible truth ever been practiced in this church-Adventist Church.

Once again, I need to qualify my impression-I care nothing about 3ABN, can count the number of times I have watch its programming on one hand. The Shelton and other players in this fiasco mean nothing to me, but if half of what has been posted on this board is true, there are serious issues around 3ABN and the powers that be.

Lets dispel this fallacy for those who want to keep the status quo so that dying sinners can receive salvation-through 3ABN. The gospel was spread before 3ABN and will continue to be spread with or without it. We limit God, he doesn't need us.

In regard to Part 2 of "Naive", there is more to this story. I have not been ignoring the request that I continue the Saga of "An Unauthorized History of 3ABN" with the second part of "Naive" , but I have been uncertain how to answer this request. I had come to a point in the "History" where I felt that the work the Lord had given me in regard to it was basically completed. Instead I had returned to being a participant in the 3ABN Forum, within BSDA, and with the pinning of the "History" considered that my task was completed. The story is not finished and continues on as I write this, but at this point I am questioning if it is my task to complete it here? Please continue to have patience with me in regard to this matter as I prayerfully consider my next step.

* * * * *

I have remained silent so far in the discussion concerning certain character attributes of Linda. I can understand both sides of this issue: the portrayal of Linda by Sonshineonme as a very naive individual and the call for Linda's accountability in regard to what transpired under the rulership of 3ABN and the question of what knowledge she possessed of certain facts at the time.

In the former portrayal, it might be best to define the term "naive" as a "childlike trusting nature and vulnerability", someone who looks for the good in situations and is shocked upon the discovery that everything in her world was not as it was depicted to her by her husband. Linda is an individual with these character traits and thus can easily be dominated and manipulated by a controlling and dishonest individual. When Linda was under the control of Danny and her perspective of situations were shaped primarily through his "interpretation" of the "facts", Linda's viewpoint seldom reflected the reality of the situation. Add to this mix a woman who deeply loves her husband and has been controlled by him for twenty years and you have both a case of abuse and manipulation: a woman who has been conditioned to believe everything her husband tells her and taught not to question his credibility or decisions. Considering Linda's character, this situation existed throughout their entire marriage, in varying degrees.

Now in regard to the situation cited in my third post of the Unauthorized History of 3ABN, based upon the above information, whose word is Linda going to believe in regard to the misuse of ministry funds: her husband or his cousin? If her husband tells her he paid for the horses himself and his cousin says he used ministry monies for private purchases, she will side with her husband. With the mind set she has developed with Danny, that is the only conclusion she could allow herself to believe. Unfortunately, she did not investigate further for herself, for she believed her husband. Add to that the knowledge that between them they earned about 100, 000 dollars a year and she saw no reason for Danny steal from the ministry, he could afford to buy horses himself. That is where the "childlike trusting nature and vulnerability", which would usually be considered a positive trait in a Christian, is used to manipulate Linda into complete trust and compliance in what her husband said. And further explains how she could make the following statement in utter confidence, "anything Danny says is right, even if he is wrong, we are like gods here." She never considered the possibility that Danny was lying...

1. She believed what her husband said was true
2. She did not believe that he would intentionally misrepresent his actions
3. She believed he was a godly man.

And in regard to the last part of the statement, "we are like gods here.",

4. I agree, it was not a very wise statement to make, no matter what her intentions were at the time. But as the old adage goes, "hindsight is 20/20 and if Linda could change that statement now, with the knowledge that she has today, I am sure she would have phrased her thoughts very differently. But, much later she did find out just how true that statement was in regard to the absolute control Danny has over 3ABN as a business and the functioning of the Board.

Were there actions on Danny's part that she knew about and protested against? Yes. Was she able to stop him? No. Did she try to reason with him? Yes. Did it produce her desired results? No. Did she suffer abuse for opposing him?

Stay tuned for Part 2 of Naive...

The questions come: What did Linda know? Was she naive? These are honest and valid questions.

I will suggest that Sister has made some important points on the question of whether or not Linda was naive.

I have wondered for some time what I could say to add to this. I have stated that in my contact with Linda I has sensed that she was naive. But, I have wondered what more I could say. Well, I have thought of it.

One can be quite intelligent, informed, and a very competent person and still be naive in some areas of their life.

People have told me that I am naive in certain specific areas of my life, how I perceive people, and how I respond to them. My wife sometimes has to bring me into contact with reality.

I have professionally worked with abused women. They have typically been naive in regard to issue with the abusing partner.

The bottom line: A person can be naive in one part of their life, and very competent in others.

Linda has her strengths. Her spirituality is one of them. There are other areas of strength. She has learned lessons from this experience. They have been hard lessons. But, she has learned. Some people do not learn. She may have been naive in the past. She is not now where she once was. It is likely that in the future she will be where she is not today.

Those comments coming from you makes this especially shocking. I have said several times to others that you Mr. J make the most ungodly, hateful and inconsiderate comments of anybody on here. Well... THANK YOU for another insight into your character. There IS something VERY wrong with laughing when someone else is weeping.... whether it be in fiction or biography... normal, sensitive, kindly people shed tears over the tears of others... including fictional characters. In this case, since it was describing a true experience of a real person.... to laugh at her tears only shows you to be the subhuman beast that you obviously are inside. Thank you for stepping out into the open and revealing this gross flaw in your inner makeup!

> Those comments coming from you makes this especially shocking. I have said several times to others that you Mr. J make the most ungodly, hateful and inconsiderate comments of anybody on here.

For all your crying about Matt 18, if you find my comments so offensive why have you had something to say about them to others when you have never even attempted to say anything to me in accordance with scripture? I am glad my comments have given you sufficient pause that you feel a need to discuss them with annas and caiaphas and the rest of that demonic Thompsonville sanhedrin you run with... that says I've hit you where you live and you don't like it. Score one for me...

> Your whole attitude shows a lack of disregard for anyone's opinion if it doesn't agree with yours. You belittle, you insult and you demean and you have the audacity to quote "as ye have done it unto the least" to me??? How ironic that for weeks I have been wondering how you could put "in His service" after some of the comments you make. There is fun and then...there is YOU.

Whatever dude... if you think that your indignation moves me... think again; I've been called worse... by better people.

What I find ironic is when someone gives back to you what you give to others it hurts your little feelings, Bro. Hypocrite... and if you were doing unto others as you would have them do unto you, you wouldn't be in this position. Weighed in the same balance that you have weighed others in, you are waaaaaaaaaaaaaaaay more wanting than you claim them to be... Whichever Shelton/Shelton flunky you are means absolutely nothing to me. It neither impresses nor intimidates me and there is nothing you can do to me or hold over my head like some latter day sword of Damocles to make me back off. I find it hilarious that you are consenting to threats made by PM and find jocularity in the tears of another... but when you are the target all of a sudden such behavior becomes patently offensive?

Go back to the kiddie pool in Thompsonville because you are drowning here in the deep end of the pool; you clearly are out of your element and out of your league here.

In His service (whether you like it or not),
Mr. J

Hope they are not advocates of the new Adventist divorce guide:-

Using my imagination

1. Go on national tv and claim to be working on marriage problems
2. Leave spouse
3a. Expand lust rule to spiritual adultery (whatever that is)
3b. Divorce spouse
4. Gag spouse
5. Whilst gag is in effect defame character of former spouse on tv and to whoever will listen
6. Find younger spouse
7. Marry younger spouse
8. Defame confidents of former spouse
9. Attempt to get point 3 on the next General conference session of 2010 (who knows other 'suffering' colleagues in the church may benefit from this new rule)
10. Attend weddings for former collegues who also experienced point 3

Hey, Denny, I think you've got it almost right below. But shouldn't the advice be to "Find younger spouse" (6) first? After all, it could be rather risky otherwise. One might not find a sexual partner for a while ... And I believe that #6 came first in the scenario we've been watching.... Of course, I could be wrong. It's happened once or twice before.

Some wonder how much credibility a so called "eye witness" can have. One eye witness claims to have heard Danny stating that his Brandy had been chasing him for . . .[more than ten] years before they got married. How would you married ladies like to have a husband who lets a real young lady chase him for so long? - if you can depend on an eye witness account?

First you call the incident alleged, then you say it was written in a way to suggest it was a recent event. After that you state that the incident took place approximately fifteen years ago. By your testimony you have supported the fact that the incident is in fact true and occurred approximately fifteen years ago. I was going to post about this too!. To me this verifies that the financial problems were bad even 15 years ago! I believe the financial problems began from the very beginning!

Yes, I believe the self made "annointed one" has spoken. Give him enough rope and he will hang himself!

Hey, Bystander. let's talk about finances and LINDA SHELTON. You have shown us these are your favorite subjects.

No, guess not it's just me bystander. As you stated, I said the "alleged" incident meaning that I was told that some years back a cousin that had been fired tried to make a story where the was none on some horses that were purchased approx 15 years. So yes there was some horses purchased and a cousin telling tales, that was the incident I was referring to.

Oh and sister, Yes please please write chapter 2 of naive. You know what they say, Laughter is the Best Medicine." Since it's all made up anyway why don't you switch it this time where Dan is the one with the single tear while Linda is in the private jet, on her way to a big shopping trip, and getting a pedicure along the way. rofl rofl

You just can't help it, can you? Gotta' trash Linda at every opportunity. Does Danny ever cry so anyone could write about it? I am of the impression Danny only causes tears. You also delight in hurting people. There is a time to laugh and a time to refrain from laughing. I believe you are not educated enough to know when you laugh and when you don't.

As I see it, If the story line ever says that Danny cried because his wife went shopping in the jet, I would laugh too. Danny probably had to get her out of the house to entertain his other interests.

Now, don't get me wrong, I am sure Danny can cry real crocodile tears if it suits his purpose. In fact he may have to cry real Tammy Fay Bakker tears to get more money from those dumb donors soon.

Come on Bystander, lets talk finances and trust funds. Why won't you come out and play?

Yes, there were horses! All right! Now we are really getting somewhere. Why would Danny's cousin, S. S, tell lies about Danny? Now here is a man that understand the principal of truth. Didn't Danny fire him because this cousin said Danny need to get help to stop lying? Didn't this make Danny mad enough to fire him? Just curious.

Then again, you will probably say he had an ax to grind. Why do all of 3ABN's past employees have an ax to grind with Danny? You know, maybe we could understand 1 or 2, but everyone having an ax to grind speaks volumns about Danny. Especially when everyone is grinding the same ax!

Time is getting short. Have you read the Save 3ABN website lately? What do you make of those stories? Sure looks bad for Danny and Tommy. Danny better call Mr. Moneyman again. This will probably cost Mr Moneyman more than he is willing to pay.

It won't be near $250K this time. The victims just keep piling up.

Umm... Eric, that IS what Danny and 3ABN agreed to do Did you read the ASI letter? The findings and conclusions with the reasons and evidence to support it were to be made public after ASI had heard both sides along with their witnesses and any evidence, Danny and 3ABN agreed to those terms.

Linda did not.

Linda said NOTHING, and her representatives wouldn't agree they wanted the whole process made public (unbiblical) and wanted every other thing under the sun, which ASI had no jurisdiction over, to be brought into it, so ASI had to withdraw.

As if they couldn't resolve the divorce issue, and then take care of the rest of their concerns after that????

To be sure we understand you. Are you trying to tell us that trashing Linda on, T.V. to a worldwide audience, is biblical?

Posted by: Uncle Sam Jan 30 2007, 06:21 AM

I just want to say when all of this started I bought Danny's story hook line and sinker...I was a loyal 3ABN viewer and supportor. After Linda left I felt sorry for Danny and the ministry so we decided as a family to go and volunteer. I defended 3ABN to anyone that would say anything negative, I defended Linda too. I felt if she had had an affair it was not a normal thing for her so I thought maybe she had a "midlife" crisis.

We went to 3ABN a few times, each time I saw things I wasn't quite comfortable with, nothing I could actually put my finger on. Or that others would think was worth mentioning. Then Danny and his "people" really started promoting Danny so the more he defended the more I searched what he was defending against. Than I found you guys:) I still wasn't sure until he married Brandi. That was hard for the "loyal" 3ABN viewer. I was teetering at this point. Than the 10 Commandment weekend came around. John Lomacang made a reference to people talking to their Dr. after hours on the phone....his sermon was on adultery. I couldn't believe it! Why would he use that as an example? So I wrote him, Linda NEVER entered his mind when he said that...Now come on!

That did it for me, I don't know what Linda did, but I started to see more of the trashing, I guess my blinders were off. Some questions I have...

1) If danny was torn up about Linda, as they say. Why did he have to get the divorce? I know he says she was going to file, he wanted it more private. If my spouse wants a divorce from me, they have to work for it!

2) Why was Brenda with Linda instead of Danny. I know you all say he didn't like Nathan but what does he say?

3) How could you be married to someone 20 years and than in such a short time hate them so?

4) If you were so in love and your marriage was Christ centered how does this happen? Which one was playing house? And playing Christian?

5) If none of these "rumors" are true why not just let them die? Why defend yourself when the only place I know they are talking about this is on the web and 3ABN?

6) If Danny believes that Linda was "brainwashed" by this Dr. why didn't he just let it take it's course? If the Dr. was in it for one thing he would soon tire of Linda, if it were more than she could divorce Danny. If Danny loved Linda and was a Christian he would forgive her and take her back. It would have been hard but I feel the right thing to do. Danny put her in the position she was in when he did not support her. She should never had had the opportunity to be alone with the Dr. Danny should have been by her side. I have step children so I do have experience in these types of situations. I would NEVER let my spouse go through something like this alone!

> Time is getting short. Have you read the Save 3ABN website lately? What do you make of those stories?

Disobedience to God, and a ignoring of his testimonies to the Church, is what I see.

The Almighty God said rebuke your brother and do not suffer sin upon him, but at the same time clarified and commanded how not to do that: thou shalt not run up and down among the people being a talebearer"

David had it right:

"Thy glory, O Israel, is slain upon thy high places!
How are the mighty fallen!
Tell it not in Gath,
Publish it not in the streets of Ashkelon;
Lest the daughters of the Philistines rejoice,
Lest the daughters of the uncircumcised triumph."

So did Ellen white:

"...Go, burdened ones, and free yourselves from your burden in God's appointed way. First go tell your brother his fault between you and him alone. If this fail, next take with you one or two friends, and tell him in their presence. If these steps fail, then tell it to the church. Not an unbeliever is to be made acquainted with the slightest particular of the matter. Telling it to the church is the last step to be taken. Publish it not to the enemies of our faith. They have no right to the knowledge of church matters, lest the weakness and errors of Christ's followers be exposed. " {2T 54.2}

" It pains me to say that there are unruly tongues among church members. There are false tongues that feed on mischief. There are sly, whispering tongues. There is tattling, impertinent meddling, adroit quizzing. Among the lovers of gossip some are actuated by curiosity, others by jealousy, many by hatred against those through whom God has spoken to reprove them. All these discordant elements are at work. Some conceal their real sentiments, while others are eager to publish all they know, or even suspect, of evil against another.

I saw that the very spirit of perjury, that would turn truth into falsehood, good into evil, and innocence into crime, is now active. Satan exults over the condition of God's professed people. While many are neglecting their own souls, they eagerly watch for an opportunity to criticize and condemn others. All have defects of character, and it is not hard to find something that jealousy can interpret to their injury. "Now," say these self-constituted judges, "we have facts. We will fasten upon them an accusation from which they can not clear themselves." They wait for a fitting opportunity and then produce their bundle of gossip and bring forth their tidbits.

In their efforts to carry a point, persons who have naturally a strong imagination are in danger of deceiving themselves and deceiving others. They gather up unguarded expressions from another, not considering that words may be uttered hastily and hence may not reflect the real sentiments of the speaker. But those unpremeditated remarks, often so trifling as to be unworthy of notice, are viewed through Satan's magnifying glass, pondered, and repeated until molehills become mountains. Separated from God, the surmisers of evil become the sport of temptation. They scarcely know the strength of their feelings or the effect of their words. While condemning the errors of others, they indulge far greater errors themselves. Consistency is a jewel.

Is there no law of kindness to be observed? Have Christians been authorized of God to criticize and condemn one another? Is it honorable, or even honest, to win from the lips of another, under the guise of friendship, secrets which have been entrusted to him, and then turn the knowledge thus gained to his injury? Is it Christian charity to gather up every floating report, to unearth everything that will cast suspicion on the character of another, and then take delight in using it to injure him? Satan exults when he can defame or wound a follower of Christ. He is "the accuser of our brethren." Shall Christians aid him in his work?

God's all-seeing eye notes the defects of all and the ruling passion of each, yet He bears with our mistakes and pities our weakness. He bids His people cherish the same spirit of tenderness and forbearance. True Christians will not exult in exposing the faults and deficiencies of others. They will turn away from vileness and deformity, to fix the mind upon that which is attractive and lovely. To the Christian every act of faultfinding, every word of censure or condemnation, is painful.

There have always been men and women who profess the truth, who have not conformed their lives to its sanctifying influence; men who are unfaithful, yet deceiving themselves and encouraging themselves in sin. Unbelief is seen in their life, their deportment, and character, and this terrible evil acts as does a canker.

Would all professed Christians use their investigative powers to see what evils needed to be corrected in themselves, instead of talking of others' wrongs, there would be a more healthy condition in the church today. Some will be honest when it costs nothing; but when policy will pay best, honesty is forgotten. Honesty and policy will not work together in the same mind. In time, either policy will be expelled, and truth and honesty reign supreme, or, if policy is cherished, honesty will be forgotten." Testimonies vol 5 and BLIND! BLIND! BLIND! and full of all malice and hypocracy is what I also make of the "save3abn" website:

They publish the evil reports and then say:
"Lessen donor confidence in 3ABN, and thus threaten 3ABN's financial support and its very existence....Cause embarrassment to the Seventh-day Adventist Church if these allegations become more widely known."

and "In short, this website is intended to be a part of a larger effort to save 3ABN to the cause, and vindicate the character of God, whose name has been brought into reproach through the allegations leveled at 3ABN."

Who has raised the allegations publically and brought reproach on the cause of God, and embarassment before the world?!? They themselves!

Why? BECAUSE THEY ARE IN SIN THEMSELVES BY NOT OBEYING CHRIST!

I am quite sure I will buried here in negative replies again, but I don't care. The truth and principles of God are here for those with a heart for the Lord to read and understand.

How are we to take care of all this, in private, in the Church?

" The matter should be thoroughly investigated. What is the charge brought against the erring one? Has he willfully transgressed the law of God? Has the offender been dishonest in his deal or trade with his brethren or the world? Has he been untruthful? Has he practiced deception? Has he been licentious? Has he been severe, overbearing, and abusive in his family, with his neighbors, with his brethren, or worldlings? Has he shown a spirit of penuriousness, selfishness, covetousness; of questioning doubts, of faultfinding, of talebearing, of talking of his brethren's faults, magnifying their wrongs, having a spirit of bitterness against them? All these things are grave matters, and deserving of consideration.

But the next question is: What course has been pursued toward the erring? Have the Bible rules been followed to the letter? Read before them the rules given by their Captain. Have they obeyed orders like faithful soldiers in the army? To go contrary to the positive orders of the Captain of our salvation is deserving of severest censure.

"Moreover if thy brother shall trespass against thee, go and tell him his fault between thee and him alone: if he shall hear thee, thou hast gained thy brother. But if he will not hear thee, then take with thee one or two more, that in the mouth of two or three witnesses every word may be established. And if he shall neglect to hear them, tell it unto the church: but if he neglect to hear the church, let him be unto thee as a heathen man and a publican. Verily I say unto you, Whatsoever ye shall bind on earth shall be bound in heaven: and whatsoever ye shall loose on earth shall be loosed in heaven" (Matthew 18:15-18). {9MR 194.4}

Ministers and lay members of the church displease God when they allow individuals to tell them the errors and faults of their brethren. They should not listen to these reports, but should inquire: Have you strictly followed the injunctions of your Saviour? Have you gone to the offender and told him his faults between you and him alone? And has he refused to hear you? "Have you carefully and prayerfully taken two or three others, and labored with him in tenderness, humility, and meekness, your heart throbbing with love for his soul?" If the Captain's orders, in the rules given for the erring, have been strictly followed, then an advance step is to be taken-tell it to the church, and let action be taken in the case according to the Scriptures. Then it is that heaven will ratify the decision made by the church in cutting off the offending member if he does not repent. If these steps have not been taken, close the ear to complaints, and thus refuse to take up a reproach against your neighbor. If there were no brethren and sisters to do this, evil tongues would soon cease; for they would not find so favorable a field in which to work in biting and devouring one another. {5T 616.4}

Brethren, we need to fall on the Rock and be broken. Then we shall have the melting, subduing love of Jesus in our hearts. We shall follow the example of Jesus and of the angels, and not be like the Pharisees, who were proud, hard-hearted, and unsympathetic. God is not willing that even the lowest and most degraded should perish. In what light, then, can you regard any neglect of those who need your help?

Christ has laid down rules to prevent unhappy divisions, but how many in our churches have followed his directions? "If thy brother shall trespass against thee, go and [tell it to every one you meet?] tell him his fault between thee and him alone: if he shall hear thee, thou hast gained thy brother. But if he will not hear thee, then take with thee one or two more, that in the mouth of two or three witnesses every word shall be established. And if he shall neglect to hear them, tell it unto the church; but if he neglect to hear the church, let him be unto thee as a heathen man and a publican." If the instructions which Christ has given were followed out in the spirit that every true Christian should have--if each, when aggrieved, would go to the offending member, and seek in kindness to correct the wrong by privately telling him of his fault, many a grievous trial would be averted.

When any one comes to a minister or to men in positions of trust, with complaints about a brother or sister, let them ask the reporter, "Have you complied with the rules our Saviour has given?" and if he has failed to carry out any particular of this instruction, do not listen to a word of his complaint. Refuse to take up a report against your brother or sister in the faith. If members of the church go entirely contrary to these rules, they make themselves subjects of church discipline and should be put under the censure of the church. This matter, so plainly taught in the lessons of Christ, has been passed over with strange indifference. The church has either neglected her work entirely, or has done it with harshness and severity, wounding and bruising souls. Measures should be taken to correct this cruel spirit of criticism, of judging one another's motives, as though Christ had revealed to men the hearts of their brethren. The neglect of doing aright, with wisdom and grace, the work that ought to have been done, has left churches weak, inefficient, and almost Christless.

Jesus adds to the lesson these words: "Verily I say unto you, Whatsoever ye shall bind on earth shall be bound in heaven; and whatsoever ye shall loose on earth shall be loosed in heaven." This assurance, that after the rules of Christ have been followed to the letter, the decisions of the church will be ratified in heaven, gives a solemn significance to the action of the church. No hasty steps should be taken to cut off names from the church books, or to place a member under censure until the case has been investigated, and the Bible rule fully obeyed. The word of Christ shows how necessary it is for church officers to be free from prejudice and selfish motives. Human minds and hearts, unless wholly sanctified, purified, and refined from partiality and prejudice, are liable to commit grave errors, to misjudge and deal unkindly and unjustly with souls that are the purchase of the blood of Christ. But the decision of an unjust judge will be of no account in the court of heaven. It will not make an innocent man guilty, nor change his character in the least before God. As surely as men in responsible positions become lifted up in their own esteem, and act as though they were to lord it over their brethren, they will render many decisions which heaven cannot ratify.

May God pity those who are watching, as did the Pharisees, to find something to condemn in their brethren, and who pride themselves on their wonderfully acute discernment. That which they call discernment is cold, satanic criticism, acuteness in suspecting and charging souls with evil intent who are less guilty than themselves. They are, like the enemy of God, accusers of the brethren. These souls, whatever their position or experience, need to humble themselves before God. How can they pray, "Forgive me as I forgive others"? "With what measure ye mete, it shall be measured to you again." "He shall have judgment without mercy, that hath showed no mercy." God grants no pardon to him whose penitence produces no humility, and whose faith does not work by love to purify the soul. We need to study the example of Him who was meek and lowly, who, when he was reviled, reviled not again. A vindictive spirit will not be indulged by a true Christian.

The lessons which Christ has given us are to be studied, and incorporated into our religious life every day. "When ye stand praying, forgive, if ye have aught against any." "Love your enemies, bless them that curse you, do good to them that hate you, and pray for them which despitefully use you, and persecute you."

Who will stand for the Lord?

Are you trying to say that would justify trashing Danny Shelton, his entire family, Walt Thompson, all the other 3ABN employees and board members who have been vilified, ridiculed and maligned, as well as ASI now?, also the entire Thompsonville Church and even the conference President???, and all the others that have been trashed here publically and on www.save3abn.com?

First of all I must say that this is all getting quite tiresome, Aletheia. You accuse others of not behaving in a Christian manner, you beat them over the head with Scripture and SOP (out of context) and now you start this childish rant in regard to following the rules. I would say that Calvin, Clay and PrincessDi have been very generous with you in regard to the rules. Secondly, I have no "cohorts". Back to the Rules: the rules apply to everyone. Calvin has gotten after me when I stepped over the line in this area and he was right, I deserved censure. He reminded me that I don't like it when people keep trying to out my identity. The reason this topic comes up so often in regard to "Sister" is that people continue to try and prove that I am Linda Shelton, which I am not. A number of times Calvin has made the statement that Linda and I do not have the same IP address, in fact, the last time he testified that we do not even live in the same city!

Brother Bystander,

I doubt that many on this forum feel that all of those people and organizations are corrupt.

I, for one, am very disappointed that there is more and more evidence to suggest that there is a peson who claims to be Christian who has abused his power as a pastor and betrayed the trust of a number of young people.

I, for one, am very disappointed that there is more and more evidence to suggest that there are people who claim to be beaming the undiluted Gospel to the world while behind the scenes they are attempting to keep the grievous behavior of this loved one secret.

When I came here in August of 2006 I truly hoped and prayed that I would find this place a den of gossip, slander and vicious lies as I fully expected it to be. I was very disappointed. What I found here, instead, was a group of folks with a burden for truth. I have become one of them.

I have asked numerous times for you to show me proof that this evidence if false and you haven't responded. I am honestly willing to weigh credible evidence.

"Naive", Part 1

Linda sits quietly in a chair, gazing out the living room window. Danny has just left the room. Her shoulders begins to shake as a single tear slowly makes its way down her cheek, as her lips begin to tremble she hears the roar of Danny's truck as he drives away... Soon the single tear is joined by many others, etching her delicate features like stained glass. Clasping her hands together she falls to her knees and begins to pray... At the same time Linda is praying, Danny is seated in his office viewing a website for private jets.

* * * * *

I have remained silent so far in the discussion concerning certain character attributes of Linda. I can understand both sides of this issue: the portrayal of Linda by Sonshineonme as a very naive individual and the call for Linda's accountability in regard to what transpired under the rulership of 3ABN and the question of what knowledge she possessed of certain facts at the time.

In the former portrayal, it might be best to define the term "naive" as a "childlike trusting nature and vulnerability", someone who looks for the good in situations and is shocked upon the discovery that everything in her world was not as it was depicted to her by her husband. Linda is an individual with these character traits and thus can easily be dominated and manipulated by a controlling and dishonest individual. When Linda was under the control of Danny and her perspective of situations were shaped primarily through his "interpretation" of the "facts", Linda's viewpoint seldom reflected the reality of the situation. Add to this mix a woman who deeply loves her husband and has been controlled by him for twenty years and you have both a case of abuse and manipulation: a woman who has been conditioned to believe everything her husband tells her and taught not to question his credibility or decisions. Considering Linda's character, this situation existed throughout their entire marriage, in varying degrees.

Now in regard to the situation cited in my third post of the Unauthorized History of 3ABN, based upon the above information, whose word is Linda going to believe in regard to the misuse of ministry funds: her husband or his cousin? If her husband tells her he paid for the horses himself and his cousin says he used ministry monies for private purchases, she will side with her husband. With the mind set she has developed with Danny, that is the only conclusion she could allow herself to believe. Unfortunately, she did not investigate further for herself, for she believed her husband. Add to that the knowledge that between them they earned about 100, 000 dollars a year and she saw no reason for Danny steal from the ministry, he could afford to buy horses himself. That is where the "childlike trusting nature and vulnerability", which would usually be considered a positive trait in a Christian, is used to manipulate Linda into complete trust and compliance in what her husband said. And further explains how she could make the following statement in utter confidence, "anything Danny says is right, even if he is wrong, we are like gods here." She never considered the possibility that Danny was lying...

1. She believed what her husband said was true
2. She did not believe that he would intentionally misrepresent his actions
3. She believed he was a godly man.

And in regard to the last part of the statement, "we are like gods here.",

4. I agree, it was not a very wise statement to make, no matter what her intentions were at the time. But as the old adage goes, "hindsight is 20/20 and if Linda could change that statement now, with the knowledge that she has today, I am sure she would have phrased her thoughts very differently. But, much later she did find out just how true that statement was in regard to the absolute control Danny has over 3ABN as a business and the functioning of the Board.

Were there actions on Danny's part that she knew about and protested against? Yes. Was she able to stop him? No. Did she try to reason with him? Yes. Did it produce her desired results? No. Did she suffer abuse for opposing him?

> Stay tuned for Part 2 of Naive...

I have been reading BSDA for some time. I must ask some questions about the above bolded part.

Does anyone to this day have proof that Danny did indeed by his horses with 3ABN money Or is the cousin wrong about where the money came from? It looks like Linda knows were the money came from because did they not have a joint bank account? if so, she would know who paid for the horses. From what I hear, didn't Danny and Linda just own 3 or 4 mares in the beginning, and they kept them bred to outside stallions? I hear that Danny and Linda both loved having babies born. If that is true, then most of his horses were born there and he didn't buy them somewhere else. Does anybody know, how many horses are we talking about?
I am concerned that Danny is presumed to be quilty and the Cousin, honest

With the mind set she has developed with Danny, that is the only conclusion she could allow herself to believe. Unfortunately, she did not investigate further for herself, for she believed her husband. Add to that the knowledge that between them they earned about 100, 000 dollars a year and she saw no reason for Danny steal from the ministry, he could afford to buy horses himself. That is where the "childlike trusting nature and vulnerability", which would usually be considered a positive trait in a Christian, is used to manipulate Linda into complete trust and compliance in what her husband said.

Let's cut to the chase bud...

You and Cindy and others presume that this is a "pro-Linda" site... and therefore have set yourselves to attempt to indict Linda as complicit in Danny's misdeeds such that he cannot fall without taking her down... and as such, you assume if you are successful in tying her to his misdeeds, folk will back off him in order to save her.

For the umpteenth time, your presumption is wrong... so rather than go through this whole song and dance, just make whatever point it is you piped up to make... if your point has validity that will be noted... and if it is the same tired mess, that will be noted too...

Folks have things to do and they dont include unnecessary trips down rabbit holes that meander much but ultimately go nowhere.

In His service,
Mr. J

Wrong answer to the wrong question. Their computer had been identified, and rightly so. they were using the same pc, and possibly one in the same person. Jes, one more time we are going to talk about you reading before you post.

Ah, but in this case Mr. J, "task force" posted a neat little sign at the entrance of the "rabbit hole"....

"I am concerned that Danny is presumed to be quilty and the Cousin, honest"

Now who could the "cousin" be. For a little more of the cousin's story, see the section of http://www.blacksda.com/forums/index.php?s=&showtopic=9823&view=findpost&p=138128, called "The Family". Here are the applicable paragraphs...

About this time, the televangelist contacted a cousin with whom he had been quite close over the years. This cousin and his wife were operating two very successful businesses that they had built from scratch. He told the cousin some miracle stories, explained how God was using this ministry to reach the world, and told him that he was needed to be second in command. The cousin and his wife discussed it and decided that God's work was the most important thing. They divested themselves of their businesses, moved to the location of the ministry, bought a house, and started work. Within a short time, the cousin discovered that he had been duped. He saw financial mismanagement on a gross level, illegal activities, abuse of the employees, and much more. He confronted the televangelist with this wrongdoing and was told, "God called me, not you. That is why I am sitting here, and you are on that side of the desk." He was told to repent and submit.

Several days a week, the cousin was attending an afternoon class at a local college. The televangelist had him taking this course for work. Now the televangelist called the cousin's wife and told her that her husband was disappearing from work for hours at a time and no one knew where he was. He suggested that the cousin might be having an affair and asked her not to say anything. He would find out what was going on and protect her. As soon as her husband got home from work, she told him what the televangelist had said. They called and confronted him with his lies. He said that he simply didn't remember that the cousin was taking classes.

Finally, given the ultimatum, quit or be fired, he resigned. Meanwhile, the televangelist began a vicious smear campaign against him. The family was further split by what was said. The televangelist said, "If you want proof that I am right and he is wrong, just look at the fact that I am still here and he is gone. God is blessing me, not him."

So.. the point here and the answer to the question was what?

No they didn't have joint bank accounts, or yes they did, and Linda either never looked at the statements, and had no idea what she or he ever spent or what their expenses were? or she did and didn't realize they hadn't bought the original horses?

So when the cousin made this accusation she didn't know where the bank statements and records were, or wasn't allowed to see them? what?!? She didn't even try to prove it to him that this was false?

Obviously she thought they were their horses, and not owned by 3ABN as somewhere aroud here she is quoted as saying in regards to the divorce that she was trying to get all this sorted out as she had no place to keep them at present and Danny had them...

This just seems weird to me, especially if as you say she trusted her husband. What women who loved her husband and trusted him wouldn't try to correct a misunderstanding between another family member and him, or defend him and show the proof?

Well Di, that's very interesting...

I was referring to the way you enforce the rules, not to how they got the alleged information, or even about whether they were correct or not.

You say "wrong answer their computer *HAD BEEN IDENTIFIED and rightly so"

I don't question that Calvin as owner and maybe even the administrators could do so, but I do wonder how Johann and Sister could do so????

That's who I was replying to yesterday morning at shortly after 7 am, and that was hours before the letter posted about the Clem brothers which brought about Calvins announcement.

Can you explain how Johann and Sister identified the computer and rightly so before then, Princess Di?

Or did you mis-speak?

There is another possibility: Linda knew better than trying to correct her husband, because he got very annoyed with her if she tried? She might have had to swallow a lot in order to save the marriage?

I am just saying that there might be zillions of other possibilities than just the ones you think. Not every marriage functions just like it did with you and your former husband.

My first wife died, so now I am married to a second wife. There is absolutely no comparison between the two marriages. My present extremely happy marriage would be quickly destroyed if I'd keep making comparisons with my first.

Please, Cindy, stop giving the appearance that you are asking questions as if you know all the answers before you ask. How do you know when, where, and how Linda checked on Danny's lucrid spending sprees? He might well have spent thousands of dollars that he refused to tell Linda what he used the money for. Let's try to be fair.

Welcome on board, finally, Yogi. Even an old man with Alzheimers, that's me according to Danny Shelton, senses your presence. I don't mind you calling an Alert! because I'm here. I do fairly well on a daily basis. And I still have a voice.

We just happen to have eyes and are alert to clear signals. To give you a clue, Danny may have forgotten to turn off his bystander signature when he wrote a personal letter to a certain person. What Danny calls Alzheimers could be a condition that gives added perception - who knows???

Aletheia, I believe that you are the one suffering from the disease of "mis-speak". You have falsely attributed statements to me that I never made. I never identified that three "individuals" were all writing from the same computer. I am not privy to the information that Calvin, Clay or PrincessDi have in regard to IP addresses on BSDA. The comment that I made in regard to IP addresses was that Calvin confirmed that Linda Shelton and I do not have the same IP address, in fact we do not even live in the same city. As in so many other cases you are confused and do not base your statements upon fact.

Aletheia, check your facts before posting, it could save you a lot of embarrassment in the long run.

Thanks Johann. I think I suffer from that Alzheimer's stuff as well. On the other hand, there are benefits to the affliction:
- I'm always meeting new people
- I'm able to give myself a surprise party

"may have"?

Are you seriously trying to claim the reason you posted that Bystander was posting from Danny Shelton's computer--> is because Bystander's personal signature here on BSDA-- has to be shut off or it goes out in Danny Shelton's private e-mails from his email account ?????

You guys and your stories and excuses are killin me...

So far the only conclusion your clue leads me to is you really must think the people outside your fantasy world are idiots, just as you all keep claiming.

Sorry, ofl My mother passed away 14 months ago from Alzheimer's, as did my mother's mother before her. It runs in my family and I fully expect to be so afflicted. So am I offended by Alzheimer jokes? Nope not a bit, I love them. I suppose it's my way of dealing with what I consider inevitable in my own life, whatever, I find them really amusing. Always better to laugh than cry, or maybe laugh till you cry.

Dear, if you will go back and read the posts you will discover that it was Fran and Johann that had figured out it was the same computer. I even asked how they knew but didn't get a response until Calvin cleared it up for all of us.

Plus, there were gramatical indications all along for anyone with eyes open to see that they were one and the same person as well. IMO valid point, not everyone is hands on with money, especially if they feel they can trust the other person

Calvin cleared up how "they knew"??? That's not what you meant, right?

Anyway in reference to what else you said, you missed the part where it all started with Sister's questioning identities as usual, immediatly before the posts you refer to, and also the part where calvin said nothing till 9 1/2 hours after my question... and the part where that supposedly had nothing to do with Johanns claims...

Remember? His reasons for checking was Dewayne Holden's post casting doubt on the Clem brother's claims, and that was in an entirely different thread as well as being way after Johann's post...

So I fail to see why Di brought that up here, or how calvin's announcement had anything to do with johann's earlier claims that Bystander was posting from Danny's computer.

Sorry I am so late in replying. I will let the IP stuff ride.

However, the messages themselves revealed who he truly was/is.

1. He cannot help himself; he must trash Linda at every opportunity. He can't talk about financial problems. He feels that anyone and everyone knows he is entitled to "all" of 3ABN's money. 3ABN is his; he created it all by himself; he is entitles to spend it anyway he sees fit, especially if he receives a benefit.

2. He appears to have no conscience in very serious matters/issues. (See # 6)

3. He seems to believe that Tommy was/is entitled to his sexual preference and has no problem with Tommy's serious problem. Tommy was/is entitled to his preferences.

4. Every time he posted, he gave away information he would only know, which verified what others have said.

5. Danny's mindset seems to be unique to some specific individuals. Robert D Hare, PhD, describes these individuals much better than I can. He says these individuals "are social predators who charm, manipulate, and ruthlessly plow their way through life, leaving a broad trail of broken hearts, shattered expectations, and empty wallets. Completely lacking in conscience and in feelings for others; they selfishly take what they want and do as they please, violating social norms and expectation without the slightest sense of guilt or regret. Their bewildered victims desperately ask, "Who are these people?" "What makes them the way they are?" "How can we protect ourselves?"... (Without Conscience the Disturbing World ... By Robert D Hare, PhD)

6. Danny has serious entitlement issues in my opinion. (Why does he do that? By Lundy Bancroft) I believe he feels he is entitled to destroy Linda. She could not fulfill his entitlements. In fact there is "no one on earth" that can give him all he is entitled to.

7. He truly is uneducated in written communications. In fact, I do not believe he has ever written a book all by himself. I believe Linda may have been his ghost writer and or editor. Yet, he feels that he is the one entitled to the profits and royalties. His thoughts are scrambled and he has trouble linking like subject matter together. He is repetitive.

8. He seems to be a con from the beginning. He can make people believe what is not possible. He put the horses on the time line. He was having serious identity problems with God's money and his money as much as 15 years ago. Has it been that way since the beginning? I believe Danny has had this problem even as a child.

9. He is an Adventist only as long as this gravy train continues. He seems to feel the 10 Commandments were not written with him in mind. They are only a means to an end. He will start looking for greener pastures should this one dry up, but in the meantime he intends to milk the cash cow for all it is worth. He has shown he is above the 10 Commandments. God has given his special indulgences. He can commit adultery, but no one else can unless they are his partner.

10. His communications have shown his mindset. My advice to those around Danny is that they should be afraid, very afraid! When communicating with him, you must reach very low to his mentality. If he is blunt, be blunt. It he slithers, run. Be sure you are protected by a lawyer. Never talk to him alone. Use a tape recorder. You may need evidence. Going to jail for doing it could be worth while if it reveals his motives and his plans of destruction.

Did it ever occur to you that your premise was wrong... oh yeah I forgot... you're never wrong...

Nevertheless... suffice it to say that on the hunt you are currently engaged you couldnt find your posterior with GPS, both hands and a map... and it doesn't get more wrong than that... so your continued invective only serves as the digital equivalent of a dog chasing his tail...

But I reckon that will be entertaining for the dog... until he catches said tail...

I'm just answering what people post, or asking questions when things don't make sense to me, or if I think there should be more to it...

If you find me confusing or think I have no point, you could always ignore me. I won't mind, I promise.

Well, honestly, I do ignore you most of the time because of the reason I stated above. I have seriously tried to see your points and give them thought - but you seem to go in cirlces, ignoring the information that is laid out for you, and a bit of common sense. You don't have to be on a "side" to see it this way - you seem to create 10 more questions while others are being addressed.....I think you might be making it more complicated then it really is. You are looking for (and seeing) more then is really there. Of course, this only my opinoin. I just thought I would (finally) share it with you. My advice, take it or leave it (I have a feeilng you will leave it) is RELAX and LISTEN, don't be so defensive, and maybe you might be surprised. Oh, and OPEN YOUR MIND up to other possibilities instead of trying to make a square fit in a circle. Again, JMO.

Seriously, Aletheia, have you considered boycotting BSDA? It would be a wonderful way of expressing your displeasure with Awesumtenor and believe me EVERYONE would notice your absence from the Forum. Just a suggestion...

And by the way, I have never attempted to find out your identity, nor have I any desire to do so. To make the claim that "Sister's questioning identities as usual" is offensive to me, because it is not true. Aletheia, could you please consider quitting your badmouthing of me and the others here who disagree with you. Play nice... You would be surprised how easily the folks here would accept your change in behavior and forgive the past.

Note to Cindy... when you get a free moment, look up "projection". Any one of the several mental health professions who frequent the forum will tell you that what you are doing here is a textbook example of it. 100% of my posts that involve you have hit you where you live and they have noted your bias, your intractability, your acute myopia, your being a respector of persons and other aspects of that "do as I say, not as I do" religion you've modeled since you came here... solely because it is the primrose path you have chosen to walk. You didnt have to come here pushing your particular brand of ugliness and condescension seasoned with just enough presumption to make you consistently wrong, pretending to be "seeking truth" when you in fact were not, figuring this set of colored folk werent astute enough to see what you were doing... and as usual, you were mistaken.

I don't accuse, Cindy. I merely observe. But as far as you and hypocrisy is concerned.. I am not the only one who has observed your insisting that this forum's discussion of 3ABN was in violation of Matthew chapter 18 and yet when you have taken personal exception to any slight... real or imagined... you have yet to follow that which you insist other's should.

That is hypocrisy... and your doing it makes you a hypocrite.

I am not the one who insists that others prove any and everything they state while at the same time refusing to believe their proof and refusing to provide proof for anything you allege.

That is hypocrisy...and your doing it makes you a hypocrite.

And none of that has anything to do with my 'accusing' you of anything. If I had not said a word, it would still be what it is...

So stop trying to hijack the thread and get back on topic... we were on Chapter 11. If you feel that we have to have a frank discussion of your flaws of personailty and perception, please put it in a PM.

In His service,
Mr. J

That's not what I said so that's not what I meant. I asked them how they knew and didn't get an answer. Calvin verified their conclusions when he informed all of us that Bystander and wwjd - as well as dewayneholden - were using the same computer.

Didn't miss it at all. Sister asked if the "annointed one" was here and Bystander answered "No, just me...". She didn't mention anything about using the same computer. I asked Fran and Johann my question because they were discussing it.

Did Calvin tell you that his reason for checking was dewayneholden's post? If not, this is quite an assumption. Are you sure that there was not an investigation already in process? wwjd wrote an intimidating PM to Hersheys99 a few days back and I recall Calvin mentioning that they were investigating.

If you have the means to refute something, put it out there. If you don't, say so up front and acknowledge that you are putting forth nothing more that your own speculation which may or may not have any basis in fact. How many times you have posted is immaterial because you are hardly the first person to come in here defending Danny... and in all likelihood, you wont be the last... and the track record of those who have preceded you has been one of smoke, mirrors, obfuscation, sleight of hand and general foolishness... and I am sure I speak for many in saying we really dont need yet another act in the same vein... so let's just not get that particular carousel spinning again, ok?

Really Di, how do you say the things you do? I don't know and have never met Bystander , and other then two posts on here have never even talked to him. Since everyone keeps claiming who my friends are, maybe since he's back, it's time I introduced myself to him and some others. :-)

2nd-- When and if I decide to make a complaint, I will do so through proper channels.And I will prove my point, not make snide remarks.

My comment about the rules on here applying to some and not others was meant towards you and all the members here, who protest about others and then exempt yourselves and your friends when posting, and was in reference to Johann's blatent disregard for the rules in his post, and all of the regularsr excuses for why people can try to figure out if Danny is here, but better not try and figure out if Linda is here.

Another example. Don't question Duane Clems sexuality-- that's mean, he's aminister and works with kids.
Do question Tommy Shelton's sexuality -- that's righteous because he's a minister and works with kids.

Don't suggest Danny's cousin may have lied-- that's diverting from the topic
Do claim it is fact that Danny did without any proof-- that's justified.

Do write long viperish tirades against Danny like Fran did for that's loving.
Don't even question the factual basis of Sister's chapter 11 here, or you are hatred incarnate, and are not worthy to have Linda wipe her feet upon you,

Do notice the least word from those you disagree with and take offense.
Don't notice fran's hatespeech calling for the death of tommy Shelton...

The list goes on and on and on...

I had no opinions when I arrived, thatnks to reading all here as you all kept telling me to do, I now have many.

3rd Kevin Josey claims I was complaining about Calvin's call,, but he's wrong. I never even brought it up, YOU did, Look at the posts please, and see for yourself.

It's rather hard to tell when you are posting as a Administrator or just a member with your own bias, except for the red letters in my response, I'm just replying to you as a member, so I hope this isn't amiss.

Please do consider that some may be evaluating this website and it's merits as a Seventh-day Adventist one, by what is written here...

If you can't see the difference about the validity of allegations against Tommy Shelton and your impled allegations against Duane Clem, you're either utterly clueless or a liar about not coming here with a bias, possibly both.

To summarize:
More than half a dozen persons allege being approached sexually by Tommy Shelton, with at least one being a minor. This is in writing. Other witnesses allege seeing him in compromising circumstances with minors.

Duane Clem was one of the young people in his pastoral care upon whom Tommy Shelton forced his sexual perversion, and you are trying to reduce his credibility by suggesting that it was consensual sex between adults!!!! And, by the way, sexual abuse does not require actual physical contact.

The issue is not that they are both males or that both may be in similar circumstances in life. The issue is that there is good evidence that Tommy Shelton forced himself sexually on a number of boys and young men in his pastoral care.

And the issue is not homosexuality!

Your tactics are despicable!!

if you don't have the answers to those questions yourself, then you shouldn't be making unsupported accusations or supporting those who do, or finding fault with those who you claim have not done so.

The burden of proof lies on the one asserting something as fact, NOT on those who questions others rush to judgment, or why they don't give the benefit of the doubt, or why they aren't merciful and don't provie what they claim.

Anyone who is honest would question anything which is not supported, or proved against ANY OTHER, that isn't sin or blindness, that's the way God's people are supposed to think and do...

PROVE ALL THINGS, HOLD FAST THAT WHICH IS GOOD.

Certainly he told me, he told us all! He doesn't leave his people in ignorance about what right standards and principles are! His word and testimony (not mine) is VERY clear. I quoted it earlier in this thread. If you disagree with that , then address it!

And also BTW: my problems with you and Di are as posters, because of your opiinions which I disagree with, (I am quite sure that you are not trying to claim your opinions and posted words can't be questioned or disagreed with merely because you are also Administrators) when I have a problem with you or her as Administrators, or anythng you do in that capacity, I'll go to Calvin, Capiche?

Hmmm had no idea this was a law office. Thought it was a forum for opinions and that we had the right to our opinions.

You are trying to hide behind allegedly disagreeing with them as posters... but the fact remains that your disagreement is regarding their actions as administrators...not their statements as posters...but dont take the grace you have been extended in this regard as an indication that you are fooling anyone... you have made the claim that when you complain, you will do so through the appropriate channels...problem is all you do is complain and whine about how unfair you think things are....

all of it is calculated and all of it is contrived... and when the cup of your iniquity is full...

Where did Christ behead anyone he disgreed with, or warn about such?

Let the readers again judge the spirit and fruits mainifesed here for themselves...

Rev 6:9-11And when he had opened the fifth seal, I saw under the altar the souls of them that were slain for the word of God, and for the testimony which they held:And they cried with a loud voice, saying, How long, O Lord, holy and true, dost thou not judge and avenge our blood on them that dwell on the earth? And white robes were given unto every one of them; and it was said unto them, that they should rest yet for a little season, until their fellowservants also and their brethren, that should be killed as they were, should be fulfilled.

Rev 20:4 And I saw thrones, and they sat upon them, and judgment was given unto them: and I saw the souls of them that were beheaded for the witness of Jesus, and for the word of God, and which had not worshipped the beast, neither his image, neither had received his mark upon their foreheads, or in their hands; and they lived and reigned with Christ a thousand years.

There wasn't an Ananias and Sapphira smiley... nor was there one of she-bears coming out of the woods... nor was there one of closing up the Red Sea on Pharoah and his army... nor was there one of those not written in the book of life being cast into the lake of fire.... the list goes on... and on... and on... all of them the end of those who would defy God and do what is right in their own eyes...there are also no smileys specific to the warnings given to those who start down that path... so the smiley chosen conveys the message

You really need to come up with a better holier-than-thou, Cindy... and the readers have already discerned the spirit you manifest...rationalizing a sexual predator and placing the blame for his actions on those he victimized... saying it's ok for a married pastor to have homosexual sex if you believe it was consensual...

Show me where Christ EVER turned the blind eye to sin that you have in this forum.... give me chapter and verse, please...

Why would you assume that PB? Are you aquainted with the scriptual reference about the cup of iniquity being filled and such?

What are they in reference to?!?

Aletheia, fighting with other members and continually questioning their Christianity tends to negate your self-professed purpose of being a seeker of truth. You have very little credibility at this point, at least preserve what is left. Perhaps you should consider a self imposed time out?

Aletheia' the beauty in which you made those "comparison" statements, takes my breath away...On that note I would like to officially introduce myself (bystander) to you and hope that we can be friends (since we have been accused of that already.) Over and Over the inconsistencies have been "consistent" so to speak. I have been told by a number of people that have come to read these threads that the one sidedness on the things you just stated, has been unbelievable. Actually, one person said that "any moron" could see the way the wind blows here.!!
Anyway, Aletheia, you ask thoughtful questions, have some very good insight and I respect the fact that you fight the battles with scripture as Jesus did. Only thing is, scripture doesn't work here. Only accusations do. But don't give up...there will be plenty of lurkers here that totally agree and understand our points, scripturally and otherwise. I also have been floored at the lack of concern for Fran's statement. For those lurkers that have been "on the fence" I am positive, her statement, will push them off onto the side of right.

Well, well, well ... birds of a feather do flock together.

You forget, Bystander, that Satan also fights battles with Scripture.

Let the reader judge who uses Scripture the way Satan does (to promote evil) or the way Jesus does (to promote righteousness).

The Pharisees quoted Scripture and crucified Jesus. And modern Pharisees would do it again, jugdging by the evidence they give here.

Judge for yourself: Was this worse than when Mr. Danny insinuated in his writing to 3ABN supporters that Dr. Arild Abrahamsen had killed his wife? To me that sounded as if he knew what he was talking about! - It was a lot more than just a "clue".

Perhaps someone else had planted it, I do not know. But I did see such a letter where both of those names appeared as if written by the same person. I'll take it along to court if that is needed.

Sister, I am unclear who is the author of this little "gem". Is it you, Linda, someone else? Really, no matter who authored it I have some questions. Several on this forum attacked me because I laughed at the portrayal. I was told this is true so how could I laugh? My observation is this: If Linda wrote this, then she must have the unique ability to be in 2 places at once. How else could she know, as she knelt in prayer at her home, what Danny was looking at, on the internet, at the 3abn office? The same assumption would have to be made to any that claim to be an eyewitness to this story. They also would have to be in 2 places at once. Now, we all know that this isn't possible. So, obviously the author is getting that version from someone or is just using her imagination. Either way, the "truth" of the story has no credibility. If someone is involved in a bitter divorce and decides to write a book (via another party) obviously that book will be totally one sided and spun in a way as to invoke all kinds of evilness on the other party. Those types of books have no validity to a reader that knows there are 2 sides to every story and would like to read "both sides" to get a fair and accurate accounting. As stated before, the only kind of work that would tell what one person is doing in one location while at the same time, describing what another person is looking at in a different location, would obviously be considered, fiction.

Bystander, I will say that there are plenty of members here who post scripture and Spirit of Prophecy, myself included, in support of our positions. If you have read extensively here you would know that. As in any group of people there are lots of different personalities here as the posts reflect. It makes life more interesting, IMO.

As far as what Fran said about the death penalty in Texas, I have to say I don't agree with the spirit of the statement but it is her right, according to the membership rules here on BSDA, to express her opinion. It is God who will mete out that type of punishment when ALL have had every chance to choose between Him and His adversary. I don't hate Tommy Shelton, as I have said before. I love him as much as any Christian human can. Jesus purchased him right along with all of the rest of us when he died. I pray that Tommy Shelton, who has confessed to his "inappropriate" behavior to one victim by email, will choose to stop hiding, throw off the millstone of guilt and make proper amends to his alleged victims while he still has the time and life to do it.

Brother Bystander, sorry to hear that you have been so ill. I'm glad you are doing much better now. I agree that it is sometimes difficult to think properly when the body is sick or even hungry . I've never seen such a dramatic change in one's grammer and ability to turn a phrase as the before and after in this case. But, whatever the reason, it is most refreshing.

I have seen no such writing to 3abn supporters neither have I even heard of such a writing.
Please do take it along to court because no matter how you thought it "appeared" it isn't true and this can be proven. Actually it is ludicrous to think that someone with a travel and work schedule like Danny's would or could waste his time on a little forum such as this. As I said in another post, if Danny is going to answer any accusations or questions of any kind, it will be somewhere that counts with credible people that deal in evidence, not gossip.

Why thank you PB. I didn't realize myself, that I was doing such a poor job due to illness. Guess that was because I was ill

Bystander,

Please take care of yourself. We wouldn't want your blood pressure to get to stroke level.

Ill he says. Someone else was ill lately, couldn't make a Florida date. Hmmm.....

This forum must carry more importance than our friend Bystander has suggested it in other threads, if he can devote so much time to it while he has been so unwell.

But I with the others here rejoice that his health has been restored so fully and noticeably.

Oh my. that is quite an accusation. Other than to come back to this forum when I first thought I wouldn't, I do not know what you are referring to. And coming back was just a change of mind, not a lie. I have never, nor would I ever intentionally tell a lie to anyone on this forum. Therefore, I resent your accusations but....what you think won't worry me for long.......
Oh wait, maybe I should have asked first...were you accusing bystander of telling falsehoods or John Lomacang of telling them. If you were accusing John L then you can forget Bystanders resentment.

No, not importance, just an enjoyable way to pass the time when you don't feel like being up and around. Thank you though, that you are rejoicing at my restoration.

Being accused of being John Lomacang should not be considered a criticism, IMO. He's a wonderful man of God as far as I know. Of course, he would know who Herb Douglass is so I know you couldn't be John Lomacang. But, I'm just a grandma who can hide her own Easter eggs and then have a hard time finding them again.

I must say that you also have a much better sense of humor now.

Lessee ... that was quite an accomplishment for a short break:
Enough English courses to make a difference between a Grade-4 English level and College level, both in vocabulary, grammar and organizational skills. Acquisition of a more sophisticated sense of humor. Forgetting of some bothersome details. H'mm ... Can you tell me where to get such a magic potion?

I certainly can tell you where to get the magic potion. From your doctor. perscription medicine for severe migraines can indeed, seem, like a magic.

No need to waste your time comparing posts I can promise you there is only 1 me. Thanks for the compliments though. I guess it is hard to organize your thoughts and be careful of grammar when one has those annoying migraine spots in front of your eyes.

No magic potions ever worked for my migraines. Imitrex, nada! I finally went vegan two years ago, thanks Dr. Diehl, and have had very few subsequent migraines.

What are those other things that you're not sure you agree with?

I agree. What I know of John L I believe he is a man of God. That is why I wonder why so many here accuse him of doing wrong by saying he is in Danny's back pocket" and all of that junk. He appears to me to be a man of honor, but, that is just my opinion.

Allow me a moment if you will, Bystander.

Since you asked, I praise God that there is only one of you.

Let me introduce myself to you.

My name is Linda. I have been abused by my spouse.

My name is Duane/Diane. I have been molested.

My name is Clay. I stand for what I believe.

My name is Diane. I not only stand for myself, but I stand for others as well.

My name is sister. I like to "Bring good things to Light."

I am daughter. I had a saint for a mother. None of what happened to me was her fault.

I am a child of Hal & Mollie. I had an alcoholic father.

My mother was Linda too. She was holy and my spiritual mentor.

I was Observer at one time, but I got over it. I can not be Observer because of what I have been dealt. This is nothing against Observer. I just no longer tolerate what I did yesteryear.

My name is Bob, I want to know truth.

My name is Gailon Joy. I have integrity.

I am NOT Aletheia, Mystery man, or WWJD. This person has no integrity. He/she/it is all about himself. I question his character as a person. There is much scripture quoted, but never ones that apply to him/her/them. They are always right and everyone else is always wrong! He is always threatening people.

I am not Danny. I would not be able to look myself in the mirror. However, as we have seen, Danny is right proud of his actions and has no problem looking in the mirror.

I am not Tommy. I have not left of wide swath of allegations against me for sexually molesting anyone or being sexually inappropriate in any way. I do not feel that it is OK for that to happen.

This is only part of who I am. If I told you who I really was, I might give you a fright.

Is your friend picking up the bill for this one too, or are the donors?

I can no longer speak to you! You are despicable and not worthy of my time

I only know him through what I have seen on 3abn. I watch the programming every week day with my grandmother so I see him quite often. Of course, if the behind the scenes John L. is different than what goes out over the air they could have a point. I just don't know.

I would have to say that I would be extremely disappointed if I were to find out that he was aware of the allegations against Tommy and did nothing to seek out the truth of the matter and work to resolve the situation for the sake of the alleged victims.

Do you have any input on the emailed confession that Tommy sent to Duane? I haven't seen anybody refute that as being the truth.

To whom it may concern. I stated several days ago that any communication with Fran would stop because of her invitation to Tommy S to come to TExas to receive the death penalty. No matter what side you take up for on this forum, I find it inconceivable that a profesed christian would make this statement. So Fran may rant and rave as her little picture shows but I have nothing to discuss with anyone that would make that invitation.

What you DIDN'T say is more telling. You DIDN'T say there was only, and always was only, one

"Bystander" on this forum who was represented by one and only one human counterpart. In other words, Bystander could easily be any one of a number of "Chinese multiples" such as the three in that famous fable who each faced a death which he could conquer on behalf of a convicted sibling--and in the end, none was put to death.

I would make an educated guess that it would not matter WHO was typing at the computer under the name "Bystander," he or she would always claim to be himself or herself, or to quote your profound assertion, "me." I hate to suggest that you would have to give your name in real life in order to lend credibility to your statements either, for "you" could easily be replaced by another "you" in the next post. rofl

I have seen, personally, a minimum of three literary styles in your posts. If it is true that you are a single individual across all of those posts, I would say you may have missed your calling in life.

Perhaps your "me, myself, and I" is quite a set of triplets indeed!

I have been told by a number of people that have come to read these threads that the one sidedness on the things you just stated, has been unbelievable. Actually, one person said that "any moron" could see the way the wind blows here.!! Anyway, Aletheia, you ask thoughtful questions, have some very good insight and I respect the fact that you fight the battles with scripture as Jesus did. Only thing is, scripture doesn't work here. Only accusations do. But don't give up...there will be plenty of lurkers here that totally agree and understand our points, scripturally and otherwise. I also have been floored at the lack of concern for Fran's statement. For those lurkers that have been "on the fence" I am positive, her statement, will push them off onto the side of right.

BlackSDA _ 3ABN _ Why Did Nick Miller Resign?

Posted by: Pickle Feb 2 2007, 09:36 AM

Hi Bystander and Eye Witness.

Since one of you might be Danny, since you have such good sources of information, since you're out to defend Danny for all your worth, I thought I'd ask you a question.

Last September Attorney Nick Miller told me he could see things coming, and so he resigned. He really didn't tell me what those things were. Then Gailon told me something about Nick's being asked to resign upon request from the board after he had presented financial problems that he saw.

Could you comment? What really happened, from your perspective?

By the way, though I did not know it last September, I have since discovered that Nick Miller is the brother-in-law of a good friend of mine, someone I lived near from around 1976 to 1983. My friend went to a sister church in the same district, and my mom and his mother used to canvass together.

Posted by: Pickle Feb 2 2007, 03:39 PM

Pickle, Bystander doesn't believe in answering questions. That's obvious. I have posted mine repeatedly and even PMed him for a response. Still nothing.

One must wonder about a person who refuses to answer questions about what they say, yet still maintains they are the one on the side of right and truth.

Pickle, I would have to do some homework on this before posting. That is what this forum always says. Do your homework before you comment. I have heard of Miller. I see by reading this post that there are already discrepancies. Miller says he resigned, Gailon says he was ask to resign. Big difference. If Gailons take on the subject is accurate and he was asked to resign that means there was some kind of differences between he and the board therefore we have, yet another, "disgruntled" employee, so to speak, so will watch things unfold as he sharpens his ax. Why is it you guys never hear from all the employees, volunteers, ect that were and are happy as clams at 3ABN? Why do you not post positive comments that you have heard through the years. I am sure that both of you have probably met people that came into the church because of the 3abn programming but none of that is ever mentioned. You seem to seek out only those that were unhappy for some reason or the other and have nothing but negative to say.
As far as Miller is concerned maybe eyewitness will know more than I. We shall see.....

Bystander,

Anyone who follows through on a request to resign by resigning has resigned. No discrepancy.

When you dig a little, see if you can find out why high-level 3ABNers have violated their gentleman's agreement not to tell their side of the story if Nick doesn't tell his.

Who has violated? I just said that I didn't have information on this subject. Obviously 3ABN has kept their "gentlements" agreement or I would have some information on the subject. My comment that he might have been ask to resign came from your post of what Gailon told you. Maybe Gailon did not keep a "gentlemans agreement"

Huh?

Bystander, you do know that membership in BSDA is free and all are welcome to come here and post, provided they obey the rules of the board.

Now to the credit of many who have posted negatively about Danny, his family, the 3ABN board, etc. , they have said that the programming and most of the people there are a blessing. I think their problem lies with administration. I believe that is understood by all. Now, I don't know, because I don't watch......it is not available in my area, and honestly would not watch if it was. Nothing against anyone, I just never have watched, and the few glimpses I have taken have not impressed to to include in my TV viewing schedule.

When you get right down to it, many of us wouldn't be here if people had 1. kept their mouths shut, and 2. behaved in a Christlike manner. We obviously know that didn't happen.

BlackSDA _ 3ABN _ What Really Happened At The Campmeeting In 2004?

Posted by: Aletheia Feb 11 2007, 11:14 PM

I have asked about this many different times and never got a straight answer from Johann, so I'm starting a new topic to discuss all this.

I would also like to know the date Johann and the Doctor flew in for the campmeeting, and when did they each fly back out and leave?

Was it separately or the same time?

It is my understanding from eyewitness reports that they came with papers which they were handing out at the campmeeting denouncing Danny and 3ABN, and were going to publish, or hoping to publish this in the local paper? And came NOT to meet privately, but to have a public confrontation which they had been warned not to do.

Johan maybe you could clarify?

In addition as that was the same night you refused to leave when asked, and you assualted Walt Thompson in front of all those witnesses. Why did you e-mail me: "You quoted some old material, where you discovered that my old college mate, Walt, accused me of touching his shirt. I really don't think it was Walt himself who objected so much to this, as Danny's lawyer who jumped on me immediately and pushed me aside, demanding there be no "physical". Now I have already gone too far, Aletheia, for you might now accuse me of telling the story in different words"

I'm accusing you of no such thing. It's just the witnesses all have other words...

Also , it seems you gave your side of the story to members of the board on Sabbath? I understand from a post around here from you that at the end WT asked you if you still wanted to come to the meeting?

What did you answer?

You also wrote around here that you sent a letter to the board, I'm wondering was this a letter from Linda, or in addition to her letter?

I've asked for your comments before about Walt Thompson's statements as yours and the Doctors leave out so much, and yet it was all very public and so many people saw all this and verify it. it really can't be disputed.

I know the police were called, but it seems there was reason for them to be called. Public nuisanceor disturbance and assualt are reasons...

Here are the statements again:

Date a few weeks after the May 2004 Campmeeting
THE STORY OF LINDA SHELTON
By Johann Thorvaldsson

Former 3ABN liaison for Europe

It is a fact that Linda Shelton has been fired - and Danny Shelton has told his version of events to the World audience. He warned us not to listen to rumors, so what are the facts of this heart-breaking experience? Unfortunately Linda Shelton has been judged and dismissed from the establishment she loved and helped build up - on the basis of rumors. Facts that have been twisted, embroidered and presented as real. This is quite a complicated matter. A few weeks ago I was in Southern Illinois, wanting to attend the camp meeting at 3ABN, together with a Norwegian medical doctor - the one Linda has been accused of committing spiritual adultery with. We went there in an attempt to clear up misunderstandings, all caused because my wife and I introduced this doctor to Danny and Linda Shelton. This doctor is also the head elder of the most flourishing conservative SDA church in Norway - and has for several years been a financial supporter of 3ABN. Some of the problems were caused because the 3ABN archives had misspelled the name of this supporter, so Danny was convinced he was an impostor. Later Danny has named him a devil, a demon, or evil spirit, or bad counselor - like he did during the transmission to the whole world on Thursday evening at Camp Meeting. Also during that meeting we were requested to leave the premises of 3ABN, and if we ever showed up again at the meetings the police would be requested to remove us as trespassing private property - and this at meetings where all are invited.

From: "Walt Thompson" <walttmd@....com>
To: [Removed by GM.]
Subject: Re: 3abn
Date: [Removed by GM.]
Dear [Removed by GM.], GM = Gregory Matthews who says he posts here as "Observer"
At camp meeting time (the end of May), we also had a board meeting. On Friday night of camp meeting, the doctor and Johann (our European representative before this all developed) came and sat in the back row. Danny was very uncomfortable with them there, fearful they would make a scene on international television. He asked us to ask them to leave. They refused. They walked out just as the meeting was ending. I and some other people went out after them. When we got outside, Johann grabbed me by the shirt and started to shake me in anger. When other bigger people came to my support, he calmed down, and we all talked together for a half hour or so - I am not sure of the total time. In the meantime, Mark Finley spoke with the doctor. I joined them for a few minutes. While I was with Mark and the doctor, something was said that upset Johann, and he and the doctor left, angry and fast, spinning dirt as they left. Because they had begun to hand out papers of a proposed article they were planning to submit to the local newspaper discrediting 3ABN, we warned them not to come back.

The next day, Sabbath, we got hold of Johann by phone and he agreed to meet with us at a park and talk things out. The doctor was also invited, but he said he had said all he had to say the night before, and refused to come. We spent an hour or two with Johann, going over all of the events until then. Finally, I took him to the hotel where they were staying. We sat in the car and talked for some time. At that time he confessed to me that maybe he was wrong in supporting Linda. We had prayer and parted. The three of them left and returned to Springfield shortly after that.

Linda did not come to the board meeting on Sunday morning. She sent a letter instead. The board considered her letter carefully in light of all that had gone on, and unanimously agreed that she could no longer serve the ministry under these conditions, nor continue to serve on the board. (We have since been accused of refusing to let the doctor and Johann represent her at the board. No such request was ever made, either by voice or by pen.)

June 20, 200 First Letter from Dr Arild Abrahamsen

Rumors of Linda's so-called "affair" were flying throughout the churches and the General Conference in May of 2004, rumors which were begun by her husband. It was communicated to me that Linda was going to be fired at the Board meeting, which would occur in May, following the 3ABN camp meeting. Johann and I decided to go to the camp meeting and talk to the Board members and tell them the truth about the situation. When we walked into the 3ABN building we were surrounded by about 10 people. One person stood directly behind me for the entire service. Walt Thompson and Nick Miller (3ABN's attorney) asked us to leave. We stayed until nearly the end of the service. (At this camp meeting an announcement was made regarding Linda. There were tearful appeals by Danny, which raised a record-breaking amount of money for 3ABN. Danny also claims that an additional two million dollars was raised the year of their divorce.) When Johann and I went to the door, once again we were followed by a small crowd of people. I spoke to Mark Finley about the situation at length in the parking lot. John Lomacang tried to stop the conversation. He said 'It is not good for you to talk to him alone.' What was he afraid of? He was standing with me when Danny drove up and said that if I returned to camp meeting I would be arrested and thrown in jail. He had already talked to the Sheriff. I decided to not return, as it was Mark Finley's suggestion to avoid the possibility of disrupting the camp meeting for all of the people attending. Linda was staying in her daughter's apartment in Springfield, so we drove there on Saturday to stay in a hotel for the weekend. During this weekend we were followed by three private investigators all the time. What kind of actions was that, for a man that REALLY wanted to save his marriage?

Thanks for answering

BlackSDA _ 3ABN _ Gaj's Support Of 3-abn

Posted by: Observer Feb 9 2007, 04:22 AM

In a post made earlier I stated that GAJ had been responsible for raising large gifts to 3-ABN from himself and others. In additions, I stated that he had been responsible for the distribution of a large number of the Ten Commandment book.

I was challenged on this. I stated that I would reply. Here it is. I will place a "GM" in front of my statements, a "GAJ" in front of Mr. Joy's statements, and a "Bystander" in front of his, as he is the one who challenged me:

Bystander: "Greg, normally you are careful about what you say and how you say it. This is the exception. I have made calls to verify what you have said. The records show that he has given a very small amount twice. I won't be as nasty as he and post the amount but "large sums of Money" it is not."

GAJ: "Answer: We just totaled the 2006 gifts to 3ABN in this household and they exceed $2,000.00 up to August 2006, at which time we ceased contributions."

GM: Mr. Joy then goes on to say that he does not have the figures for other relatives. This in not the "large" gift that I had in mind. My statement included other relatives. As Mr. Joy is unable to give exact figures, I will have to leave the contribution figure for 2006 at $2,000.00 Plus. In any case, that is likely to be a larger figure than most people give. I suspect that the majority of people give much less in a year to 3-ABN than $2,000. But, I may be wrong. I am quite willing for Bystander to tell us differently.

GAJ: "In Danny's defense, it has been better than ten years since I have written a personal check. Therefore, I guess . . . he would find nothing under my name in his records anywhere. I would post copies of the checks over on save3abn.com, but they just simply don't exist!!! You know how hard it is to prove the negative, ie: that an affair between Arild and Linda never happened? But we seem to always get the job done!!!"

Bystander: "Next you say he was responsible for the distribution.....In what way. That statement sounds as if he was a distribution manager for 3abn. The only distributing that Gailon did might have been passing out some that he or his church had ordered. You made your statement in a way that appears he had some important job in helping to get out millions of books. He didn't."

GAJ: "Answer: As I have stated before, in late April and early May, 2006, myself and a former LE Director lead a campaign to distribute over 6000 books entitled Ten Commandments Twice Removed by Danny Lee Shelton and Shelley Quinn throughout our territory. We had a door to door team of about a dozen that completed the entire project about a week after the Ten Commandments Weekend as they were delivered a bit late. "

GAJ: "By the way, Illinois Conference President and 3ABN Director, Pastor Kenneth Denzlow, one of the parties intending to sue me according to Danny Lee Shelton, gave a glowing report regarding 3ABN at the Conference Presidents meeting in Georgia and gave my name another ten minutes of fame, or was it infamy, while he was at it. This while 57 other conference presidents sat amazed and rushed back to their rooms to look up save3ABN.com... [sic.] what a witness list, hey??? Chock up another 57 visits. Thank-you Pastor Denzlow... [sic.] "

GM: As should be obvious, I have extracted the above from a longer message that GAJ has sent to me. I included the parts that directly responded to the issues raised by Bystander, and the last comment simply for interest. If this does not satisfy, I simply do not have anything better. So, reach your own conclusions. In any case I do not believe that it can be fairly stated that GAJ intends to destroy 3-ABN. Rather, I see him as a conservative SDA who supports the principles under which 3-ABN was founded, but wants a change in governance.

So, does 3ABN feel that $2000 is just not enough? According to Bystander, someone at 3ABN said he gave a "very small amount twice." Maybe we should tell potential donors that if they only have $2000 or less, don't send it in. If what Bystander says is true (and he seems to be very confident that it is), it appears to be more of a nuisance to them than a help.

Observer~

Thank you once again for your attention to detail and follow through.

Both are often sorely needed at times in these posts.

As I am sure you saw, last night we saw on another thread words (Johanns) taken out of context and twisted and repeated as fact with no admission of the error when challenged; even when initially given benefit of the doubt.

Speaking plainly and without rancor is appreciated by those of us reading these posts.

It speaks volumes.

Observer;

Just some personal thoughts about Independent Ministries and donors in general.

"Large" is subjective. Large to me may be tiny to someone else.

Fran:

I wonder how many people give to 3ABN through the church. Many do! The money is sent to the conference to be forwarded to 3ABN.

I'm pretty sure that some churches send the money directly to 3ABN. Do the donations come with names? They should, but I know for a fact, they don't. Why? Because the church gives the tax records to the donor; sending names to 3ABN could cause duplicate tax receipts.

If the donor gives through their church, 3ABN has no idea who the funds came from! In fact, the donations could go straight to Danny, since he is there.

Who certifies this is posted properly?
Do these donations get mailed to 3ABN, or has 3ABN ever flown out to pick up these donations? If they do, are the offerings enough to pay for the use of the jet?
Do churches give you the offerings in cash or check?
Are they receipted back to the church?
My church never received receipts for donations sent to 3ABN. That is why I ask.

Also, many donors use business checks or electronic transfers for their donations. The donation would fall under the business name for each one to have a receipt for their business.

3ABN, I am guessing, sometimes makes mistakes when spelling peoples names. That could happen even at 3ABN. This would be a serious mistake if Danny has someone introduced to him as a large contributor and Danny goes to look but can't find that name in their database because it was misspelled. This could cause the donor not to donate anymore if this person is accused of not giving a penny and/or was called a liar. Has that ever happened?

#1. Bystander has no right to post on the internet something that is supposed to be confidential. Period. That trust has been broken.

#2. Turn "abouts" fair play. I would like to hear, on the internet, how much Bystander gave in direct donations in 2006 as donations to 3ABN. We don't count hours given by salaried employees. Those do not count. Not even those hours given on the Sabbath. If you are an hourly paid employee, you can count those hours because you never got paid for those hours, until forced to by the law.

So let's be fair. We are talking about $ contributions. Don't count tithe you give. That is supposed to be given to the church. That is the way the Seventh-day Adventist in good standing do. I assume Danny is a member in good standing and returns his tithe to the church to go to the conference. A leader of the church would do that. Do you Bystander?

#3 Bystanders has no idea about how many books people gave out, or were used to burn in the fire place. His interest in the books ended once the books got shipped. How many books anyone gave out or did not give out, is none of anybodies business! All he needed to know was how many books went out so he could get his income increase. You did declare that on your personal taxes in 2006, right?

Now I'm off my soap box. Carry on. ☒ Duck and run. ☒ sofa1.gif

Can SDA Churches forward donations to a non-SDA entity, which 3ABN is, without running into problems with the government?

Posted by: Skyhook Feb 9 2007, 04:41 PM

I heard Danny just recently tell the viewing audience that they could send money for support of another ministry directly to 3abn and he would forward it to the intended party. (The address of the other ministry was posted right on the screen)Interesting statement.

That might depend on the constituency. I'm not an accountant, but I believe that non-profit organizations may transfer funds to another non-pofit registered in a similar manner. So it is likely that a local church could transfer money to 3ABN.

Ah, yes, indeed!

How would the donors know where their money actually went?

In the local church, by contrast, we know where the money goes because the treasurer is accountable to the board each month, and we see the reports.

Interesting concept, indeed.

Is it only because 3ABN is also a registered charity?

In other words, if 3ABN had not been a registered charity, could the local SDA Church still have forwarded the donations?

Yes, with probably some exceptions.

In NNSW Conference of SPD, money was forwarded to Asian Aid for some time by the local church, till it was stopped at one point, by the Conferecne treasurer.

Locally, where we live now, offerings for Asian Aid are handled by the local Church. I'm just glad that I'm not the chruch treasurer this time, handling it.

So, it may be feasible in US and Canada, that this could happen. However, I am not familiar with the relevant legal issues associated with such offerings there.

#1. Bystander has no right to post on the internet something that is supposed to be confidential. Period. That trust has been broken.

Gailon is the one that made it public by saying he has raised and give "large" amount of monies to 3abn. The receipts issued in his name from the accounting dept show a small amount. If you will carefully read his whole post, which was posted through observer, he says he has no receipts to prove the larger amount given. Why not, I have no idea

#2. Turn "abouts" fair play. I would like to hear, on the internet, how much Bystander gave in direct donations in 2006 as donations to 3ABN. We don't count hours given by salaried employees. Those do not count. Not even those hours given on the Sabbath. If you are an hourly paid employee, you can count those hours because you never got paid for those hours, until forced to by the law.

[b] I have never "bragged" on the internet how much I had given or how much work I have done to help 3abn. Gailon did. That was the only reason it was brought up and I think you know that. Any statement that comes from 3 abn, Gailon says he tries to verify it and then he posts whatever he thinks he found. Can 3abn not have the rights? He made a big statement about money, so it only makes sense to check it out.

#3 Bystanders has no idea about how many books people gave out, or were used to burn in the fire place. His interest in the books ended once the books got shipped. How many books anyone gave out or did not give out, is none of anybodies business! All he needed to know was how many books went out so he could get his income increase. You did declare that on your personal taxes in 2006, right?

I don't really know what you are saying about the books. Greg stated it as gailon was in charge of the books in general. He wasn't. He might have been in his own church with what they ordered and past out, but that wasn't my point.

[/b] Fran, you seem to have an obvious accounting background. That is why it never ceases to amaze me that you seem to think Danny/3abn can do anything they want financially and no one is the wiser. The question you ask about did he declare books in 2006 is ludicrous. How could he not?
If he wanted to be dishonest, (which he doesn't) he couldn't be with the publicity that the book has gotten. If a book contract with a publisher is even talked about, there are attorney's on both sides that go over everything with a fine tooth comb and they draw up the contracts for their clients. You act like he and 3abn are off in their own little world without accountability to anyone. Please, every venture that is undertaken, every book that's written, every bit of finances are taken care of by accountants, attorneys, auditors, ect ect. And, all of those people lay their credibility on the line if they do anything wrong... There are 7 in house full time finance workers and accountants + the chief financial officer who has an impressive "pedigree." 3abn and everything associated with it, is accountable to the financial offices, the auditors, the government, attorneys, the board and the thousands of supporters. To have a world wide ministry that takes approx 17 million a year to keep it going, and employ 200 people worldwide, with regulations being even more stringent for a tax free, organization, it would be ludicrous for anyone to think they can do whatever with no accountability.

I also believe it was you (maybe not) who had mentioned their "tax" problems. Insinuating that came from wrong practices at 3abn. The truth is, the town of thompsonville was trying to charge taxes for the church school and the property it sits on. Now Not one church school in Illinois is required to pay tax and certainly not in the county where 3abn is located. The same holds true for certain ministry buildings that they wanted to tax. For a change, 3abn had support from other denominations because they knew if the county could win this battle, it was just a matter of time before their ministries, schools, church camps ect would start being taxed. Of course it was all complicated and time consuming and a bunch of mumbo jumbo as court cases always are, but that, was the bottom line.

Your question, would a pick up be worth the jet....Let me get something straight. For approx 15 years, 3abn people drove the 2 hours to st louis and flew commercial. Because of flight schedules, delays, ect they would end up having to be gone from friday to sunday for a couple of sabbath services. Not to mention the complications that came after 911. After 15 years of traveling almost every weekend not to mention out of the US, those that did most of the traveling became "travel weary, physically and mentally. Those of you that travel commercially a lot know what I mean. Now that 3abn uses a small jet, they can actually do more traveling, rally's, preaching. Why? because now what used to take 3 days can, a lot of times, be done all in one day. They can even go to one state, if need be, for a friday night service, leave early the next morning and go across the country if necessary to do 2 or 3 sabbath services. More importantly, they can do it without the traffic, stress, delays, cancellations, searches and everything else that comes with commercial travel. Most times they can leave on Sabbath morning and be back by sat evening. Now, having said all of that, the truth is, 3abn does not pay for the"lease" of the plane. Right "lease". They don't own it. One or 2 supportors pay the cost. So lets lay that issue to bed.

Now I'm off my soap box. Carry on. Duck and run. sofa1.gif

If that is what you thought I had said, O.K. That is what you thought. I doubt that very many people reading my post understood it in the same way you seem to have understood it. In any case, there are more important issues. At least now people know--I think.

What is interesting about it? They have always helped out other ministries if the ministry requested them to do so. Why because maybe people, especially older people, don't have time to write all the info down or it is just easier for them to put a check addressed to whatever ministry in their check they send to 3angels. That money is then just forwarded to the other ministry. It helps them and isn't much xtra work for 3abn

You seem to leave out the fact that the plane only delivers Dan, speakers, family, friends, and SOMETIMES other personel IF there is room. I know that most people in production still drive to St. Louis. They rarely even ever fly out of Marion because it's cheaper at St. Louis. So I can't think that the plane was purchased for their comfort. The plane holds 7. Figure Dan, Brandi, her daughter, Melody, CA, Shelley, and JD, not to mention singing talent. That doesn't leave much room for many others. I personally don't know a single time that plane has left without Dan. The truth of it is that you have left out a great deal of information about that jet, a tactic you often blame others for doing. Happy Sabbath.

Alright bystander, if 3abn does not pay for this "lease", and one or two others pay this cost, can you tell me just what the cost of this lease is? A monthly figure is fine (this includes the pilot, hanger, fuel, etc)?? And, if it is for the purpose of effeciency, less stress, and all that you state, why is there not enough room for all that need to be there to do these services/rallys?? It is a nice perk, but how is it really accomplishing what you state if eveyone that needs to be there can't fit?

No, you leave out the fact that only recently, after the marriage does room need to be made for Brandi and her daughter. Melody doesn't go a lot of the time. And the speakers, CA, or Shelley often don't go at the same time, they change out, as well as musical talent. Regardless, you are correct to say that usually the plane is full with the team that are holding the services, which is as it should be. Would you think it would be better to have the speakers, preachers and music guests drive to St. louis and the working crew take the jet? OF course the jet doesn't leave without Danny since he is in charge of whatever services are going on. Yes the few production people that are not on the truck crew, fly from St. Louis and all expenses are paid for them + their working pay.
What is funny about you is you keep denying that you are a Linda fan but you always fail to mention facts like she pushed for the plane and enjoyed the travel more than anyone. Truth is, and don't say you haven't heard it talked about, they couldn't take quite as many people when she was going because an extra seat always had to be left so she could lay down, if she wished.
There are people that wouldn't feel quite so bad about your seeming betrayel of 3abn if you would just tell both sides. but you don't and won't and why is that? Because you know if you tell how things were when Linda was there, people might start seeing things a little different and YOU don't want that. Yet, you want to be the first to spout whatever is going on there and whatever you think danny or mollie or any of the others there have done wrong but You and God knows how production and everyone else for that matter, was treated by the vice president. I have had several people that have left 3abn tell me later they quit because of her. You know what the other employees thought. And you know how they felt when she left. Several people that I am aquainted with,volunteered shortly after and told me later that the whole atmosphere was like 100 lbs had been lifted off of (for sure) productions shoulders.
If you were trying at all, to be fair, to 3abn who you say you love, you would be telling the other side of what you know. whether you realize it, or not, you are hurting the ministry by joining in all the backlash that this garbage has created. If you really wanted people to still love the ministry itself then you would tell the whole story of how the master manipulator really was in true life.

Posted by: Richard Sherwin Feb 10 2007, 04:58 PM

Oh but of course, blame Linda for the jet. That was how many years ago? That jet is a waste of money, it really does not matter whose it is or who's paying for it. If there is really the need for less stress on the Sabbath day why not honor it as God intended and not have the man servants (the pilots) flying that thing around. Oh wait, it's so Danny can make the trip in one day, flying out Sabbath morning and be back home by nightfall. Is this a good and just use of God's money? I think not.

I didn't leave out information. I just did not know that the plane was Linda's idea. Considering the number of times I heard Dan tell stories about how Linda was so afraid to fly in that little plane on and off the air, it never occurred to me that she would be the instigator. If it were Linda's idea, well, she is gone and has been for some time but the plane is still around.

The other thing you said, that I have seen exactly the opposite is that Dan is the one who doesn't fill the plane up (he only lets 6 fly normally) so that he can lay down on the front bench when his back starts hurting or whatever. So, I can't say that Linda is still responsible for that even if she was before. (Oh, and Brandi and her daughters flew in that plane quite a while before the marriage.)

I should have made my point about the plane a little differently. 3ABN sends people all over the country (and out) on a regular basis, and yet the plane only flies when Dan is on board. If Dan doesn't go and CA or Shelley or John Lomacang fly, they also fly from St. Louis. So, really the plane is not there for the speakers/workers/singers, it's there for Dan.

I should not defend my position, but just one more time, I will. I do remember how 3ABN functioned while Linda was there and there were many things I saw that I didn't think were very good decisions. I did see several people quit and say it was from her, one a very skilled worker who did a great job for the ministry. What business doesn't have that from time to time? I also heard from several people in production that it was a relief that she was no longer in charge.

Don't take the fact that I don't know something leave you to assume that I left it out on purpose. I have said many time that I do not know a great deal, but what I have stated, is the truth as accurately as I remember.

I can sum up my position of Dan vs Linda by saying that no matter when the scandals came out, whether before or after her dismissal, I would still be saying the same things as I do now. I believe 3ABN is a lot bigger than Dan or Linda Shelton. I also believed that the divorce is what started a lot of this process. So no one can blame anyone posting on here for what's happening, what's happened, or what will happen.

(BTW, I would like to thank you for the better manner in which you have posted recently. I don't find it as much as an attack as what it used to be and therefore, haven't felt the need to fire back.)

She does have 2 daughters but the oldest had not been happy since moving here. She missed her dad, her school and her grandparents. She ask to live with her dad for now but comes back often and her mother goes there often to spend time with her

NO it is not. In fact the last several visits Brandi has made, she has driven. Hoty, your little seeds of innuendo and half truths are really getting old. Anything you can do to put the wrong slant on 3ABN, you do it.

Was she not the person you saw sitting on the porch????

I didn't leave out information. I just did not know that the plane was Linda's idea.

I never said the plane was Linda's idea. I said she was as much for it as anyone.

[quote]The other thing you said, that I have seen exactly the opposite is that Dan is the one who doesn't fill the plane up (he only lets 6 fly normally) so that he can lay down on the front bench when his back starts hurting or whatever.

I have seen the inside of the plane when they first leased it. Have you? It has 6 seats and a bench. If the 6 seats are filled, Danny always sits on the bench which only seats 1, comfortably. and really not so comfortable. It is hard with no back but the wall. The bench is nowhere near long enough for him to laydown on (even with his height) even if he wanted to. So a question here. Were you repeating something you had heard?

I should not defend my position, but just one more time, I will. I do remember how 3ABN functioned while Linda was there and there were many things I saw that I didn't think were very good decisions. The same could be said for several things that are brought up here as accusations.

[quote]Don't take the fact that I don't know something leave you to assume that I left it out on purpose. But how much is remembrance and how much have you just "heard"?

[quote]* So no one can blame anyone posting on here for what's happening, what's happened, or what will happen.[/quote]

No one is blaming anyone here for what happend. The blame is about the spinning, gossip and slander with unsubstantiated evidence. What you heard about the bench on the plane is wrong, what has been written in the televangelist is one of several lies as eye witnessed by me. What was said in another thread about the flying to a utah jazz game left out the whole story, which was done purposely. The statement that Danny said he was going to "get" Linda and anyone that supports her, was a lie, as you well know, you were there. I could go on and on. That is what I blame this site for. The defamation of a ministry and the people that run it, on speculation, gossip, innuendo and half truths.

Because, in my opinion, her husband put her up on a pedestal and built her up to the point of it becoming detrimental to her and love is blind. Many Others tried to address that situation with no luck because her husband could not and did not want to see anything but the purest motives in her.
He unknowingly contributed to her "love of self." Some people are immune to flattery and attention, some are not and become conceited, spoiled and on a power trip. How many viewers noticed that she became more and more visible on the air. cooking, 3ABN presents, promos, devotionals, music...All the while the attitude becoming more and more self serving. A lot of viewers were shocked when she gave herself permission to do music videos. How many people do you know in the Adventist denomination that do secular type music videos? I believe she truly began to think she was indespensable and she could choose to behave in any way she pleased with no repercussions because, she felt, 3abn could not function without her.
Just my opinion

I have also heard from board members that employees were relieved once Linda was gone. It made me sad...it is sad that the devil can play people so easily. I wish when Dan and Linda first started having problems in their marriage they would have taken a break from the ministry. It would have saved so much heart ache.

Sam you are right it is all very sad. But the ministry did not cause the problems. If you have talked to board members you know what did.

Posted by: Uncle Sam Feb 11 2007, 05:38 PM

I have not really spoken of the details to the board member and his wife. I didn't feel comfortable putting them in the situation to mention what they knew. I know he was very saddened by all of this. I do know when the rumors first started surfacing he said he had no knowledge of the affair.
I am not sure when the whole board was made aware of this....

It was considerate of you not to put him in a tough position. I am sure he would not have been at liberty to answer specifically. The board was apprised as time went on and events transpired.

Former 3ABN liaison for Europe

It is a fact that Linda Shelton has been fired - and Danny Shelton has told his version of events to the World audience. He warned us not to listen to rumors, so what are the facts of this heart-breaking experience? Unfortunately Linda Shelton has been judged and dismissed from the establishment she loved and helped build up - on the basis of rumors. Facts that have been twisted, embroidered and presented as real. This is quite a complicated matter. A few weeks ago I was in Southern Illinois, wanting to attend the camp meeting at 3ABN, together with a Norwegian medical doctor - the one Linda has been accused of committing spiritual adultery with. We went there in an attempt to clear up misunderstandings, all caused because my wife and I introduced this doctor to Danny and Linda Shelton. This doctor is also the head elder of the most flourishing conservative SDA church in Norway - and has for several years been a financial supporter of 3ABN. Some of the problems were caused because the 3ABN archives had misspelled the name of this supporter, so Danny was convinced he was an impostor. Later Danny has named him a devil, a demon, or evil spirit, or bad counselor - like he did during the transmission to the whole world on Thursday evening at Camp Meeting. Also during that meeting we were requested to leave the premises of 3ABN, and if we ever showed up again at the meetings the police would be requested to remove us as trespassing private property - and this at meetings where all are invited.

Dear [Removed by GM.], GM = Gregory Matthews who says he posts here as "Observer"

At camp meeting time (the end of May), we also had a board meeting. On Friday night of camp meeting, the doctor and Johann (our European representative before this all developed) came and sat in the back row. Danny was very uncomfortable with them there, fearful they would make a scene on international television. He asked us to ask them to leave. They refused. They walked out just as the meeting was ending. I and some other people went out after them. When we got outside, Johann grabbed me by the shirt and started to shake me in anger. When other bigger people came to my support, he calmed down, and we all talked together for a half hour or so - I am not sure of the total time. In the meantime, Mark Finley spoke with the doctor. I joined them for a few minutes. While I was with Mark and the doctor, something was said that upset Johann, and he and the doctor left, angry and fast, spinning dirt as they left. Because they had begun to hand out papers of a proposed article they were planning to submit to the local newspaper discrediting 3ABN, we warned them not to come back.

The next day, Sabbath, we got hold of Johann by phone and he agreed to meet with us at a park and talk things out. The doctor was also invited, but he said he had said all he had to say the night before, and refused to come. We spent an hour or two with Johann, going over all of the events until then. Finally, I took him to the hotel where they were staying. We sat in the car and talked for some time. At that time he confessed to me that maybe he was wrong in supporting Linda. We had prayer and parted. The three of them left and returned to Springfield shortly after that.

Linda did not come to the board meeting on Sunday morning. She sent a letter instead. The board considered her letter carefully in light of all that had gone on, and unanimously agreed that she could no longer serve the ministry under these conditions, nor continue to serve on the board. (We have since been accused of refusing to let the doctor and Johann represent her at the board. No such request was ever made, either by voice or by pen.)

June 20, 200 First Letter from Dr Arild Abrahamsen

Rumors of Linda's so-called "affair" were flying throughout the churches and the General Conference in May of 2004, rumors which were begun by her husband. It was communicated to me that Linda was going to be fired at the Board meeting, which would occur in May,

I will pray that the Holy Spirit will do for Danny what Jesus said the Comforter would do (John 16:8).

Yes, I believe that there is still time to make things right. Great decisions take the least amount of pride. I will pray also.

> That night we bowed in prayer and presented his case before the Lord. We entreated that we might know the will of God concerning him. All we desired was that God might be glorified. Would the Lord have us pray for this afflicted man? We left the burden with the Lord and retired to rest. In a dream the case of that man was clearly presented. His course from his childhood up was shown, and that if we should pray, the Lord would not hear us; for he regarded iniquity in his heart. (Child Guidance, 450)

Have you presented his case before the Lord? I'm not sure if this deals with healing only, as was the request for prayer in this instance, or if this would expand to other blessings such as peace, protection, etc. for individuals who may "regard iniquity" in their hearts. The Bible says "There is no peace, saith my God, to the wicked." Isaiah 57:21 We surely don't wish to pray against the Bible!

However, I suppose it should never be wrong to pray that someone will choose to do right, and that God's will be done in their lives.

Inga and HOTY, thank you for joining me in praying for Danny. I hope others will also.

Green Cochoa, not for physical healing but for spiritual healing. And not necessarily for blessings other than the blessing of salvation and eternal life.

Posted by: lurker Feb 10 2007, 08:04 PM

I felt that the Holy Spirit got to Danny through Elder Kelly's sermon. I know it touched me. I will pray for Danny also because there comes a point where there is a final decison to be made. Harden one's heart and hang on to pride or give it up and make public confession. Regardless how much one may think the other person is at fault. Not "I was wrong but he/she did such and such". Not just "we are all sinners". No excuses. This moment comes all of us. Desire of Ages Chapter 71 A Servant of Servants- the paragraph that starts with the words "Before the Passover".

The following scripture is one that I find comfort in and I believe it applies to those who do not, for whatever reason, want to admit to their sins. Pastor Mark Finley spoke on this verse about a year ago and said it showed the power of prayer.

1 John 5:16 If anyone sees his brother commit a sin that does not lead to death, he should pray and God will give him life. I refer to those whose sin does not lead to death.

Danny is not dead. We, as humans, don't know if his heart is hardened so he, IMO, is fair game for this prayer.

thank you, daylily, i've been praying every day since starting to read here in november... for God to break satan's hold on all who are bound by him at 3abn, and elsewhere... and to give each one a very strong desire for confession, reformation, restitution, and total surrender to Him...
"make it very hard to kick against those desires!!"

I deleted the post because I was tired and for some reason thought I was in another post and the post was not part of the discussion.
I prayed for Danny also. I uplifted him to God for God's will be done.

I see your requests for prayers and that is wonderful because we all need them. But you are all praying for Danny to repent..yet look at the scripture you quoted. The key word is SEE. That is the problem here. You all didn't SEE what went on behind closed doors of the marriage. You did not SEE any of the allegations made here towards Danny & 3abn. YOu have all made up your minds based on what? I would humbly suggest that the prayer that should be prayed, is Lord, help me to know what is truth. If I have been wrong about the people I have accused, convict my heart. Help me not to judge the things I have not seen nor the things that I have not heard for myself.

WWJD,
No, we didn't see what went on behind closed doors in his marriage; but we did see him publicly slam his wife and Dr. Abrahamsen along with anyone who showed any support or compassion for Linda. Many of us were totally oblivious to what was going on until he began to slam her publicly. In addition, Danny got a "quickie" divorce and seemed not to give counseling or the marriage a chance. Many of us have seen non-chrisitians give their marriage a chance longer than Danny. Danny did not take the high road when dealing with his marriage, that is, the dissolution of his marriage. His has haunted the 3ABN ministry because there are people (who I know) who may not have cared for Linda's style, but were very much opposed to Danny's divorcing her and how it was handled.

My interpretation of Daylily's request was that we should lift Danny up in prayer. My interpretation was not for the sole purpose of REPENTING, but for the purpose of being in the will of God and doing what is right (whatever that may be) for the ministry of God. All of us should repent each day of our sins and shortcomings.

Chez, I respect what you are saying. I also want to paint a hypothetical scenerio for you. IF, ok IF, you had evidence that your wife/husband was having an affair, if he/she lied to you a hundred different times about a hundred different things when they were caught in different situations, if you talked to them until you were blue in the face and they would not give up they were still calling a friendship, if you called your pastor over to counsel with both of you and that didn't work, if you made an appointment with christian counselors elsewhere and spent 8 hours in sessions, if the counselors then said to your wife/husband "you have to give up the 3rd person in this marriage" and your wife/husband blatantly refused, and what if they and the pastor said you cannot repair this marriage as long as they are unwilling to give up this person, and yet another pastor after talking with and praying with came to heard the same words, that they would not give up their "friendship." And what if all the while you were telling your wife/husband we can work it out but this has to stop but your husband/wife refused over and over again. Now even if you thought nothing had happened physically yet, you know there is a big problem because your spouse is willing to give you up, give their job up, and were willing to give up things that they had helped work for, rather than to give up their friendship. So your spouse moves out. You help them move. You go to the home your spouse bought and are told by the seller that your spouse came and picked it out with his/her "friend". But you won't stop trying to reconcile because you love them. So after knowing even you what you know, you do some remodeling, using your own money on your spouse's residence. What if you went in to get a drink and your spouse ask you to step out because he/she was on the phone with their "friend". What if you saw your spouse repeatedly over the next few months and even took them out to dinner while you were remodeling and you told them repeatedly it wasn't too late, but it fell on deaf ears. What if you took your spouse to dinner even on the day the divorce was final and your spouse looked at you and said something to the affect of "you won't still have PI's on me now will you because it is ok now if me and my friend hold hands or go places together because we are now officially divorced. I could paint many additions to this scenerio but I will leave it at this: After your heart is broken, your self respect is crushed and you know you have done all that you can, then the next thing you know, rumors are flying all over that you threw your spouse out, you took their job, treated them like dirt and your spouse was innocent as a lamb. Not only that but you find they are the source of the rumors that get bigger and better everyday and they are doing everything in their power to paint you as the terrible person and they are the victim. Moral of the story. If you did say anything publicly, it was in self defense because of the lies that you had been accused of after you had done everything you knew to do. So, if you did start trying to counteract the falsehoods being told, it might not be the best idea, but then again, you are only human aren't you?

No grade, just a suggestion. Honestly hoty you should not be one to criticize. In my opinion and lots of others, you are a traitor to 3abn and all the people that work there that think you are their friend. If you had concerns you should have went to those in charge and voiced them instead of going behind everyone's back to do your part in tearing down the ministry. Many wonder who you are. I say just look for the most cowardly person that you can find and you have found hoty.

You sure are painting to your deceptive scenario and twists like Danny has used a thousand times to convince people that he has a patent on truth, regardless of what others have seen or experienced.ou

So who was with Linda when she picked out her mobile home in Carbondale? It was not Dr. Arild Abrahamsen, because we were both then in Norway. Did she have another helper?

After Danny Shelton had chased us away from Camp Meeting at Thompsonville, Dr. Abrahamsen and I travelled from our hotel in Marion to Carbindale to take a look at the house. Irmgard, my wife, wanted to get a report of the home her friend, Linda, would be moving into when she got chased away from Danny Shelton's house. Linda was not with us then. By twisting the chronology of events, just like Dr. Walt Thompson has done through the whole event, you try to convincou your supporters you are telling the truth. Now the time of recogning has arrived!

And those phone calls? Yes, he grabbed the phone from Linda when Irmgard or I called, and he sounded as if he never figured out what was up or down. So now you give those calls an extra twist to get people to fall for your deception!!!

What you write here about Danny's love for Linda may be from what he then told others, but not what he was telling Linda or me at that time about his love? Why did he keep it so hidden then?

Is it any wonder that Danny's former good friend, Mark Finlay, is now telling people in different places that he is convinced Linda is innocent of Danny's accusations?

I appreciate all the positive feedback. When I heard Pastor Kelly's sermon yesterday, I felt such a burden to pray for Danny that I couldn't ignore it. My family prayed for him immediately and I thought if I requested prayer here, more would join and I'm glad they did and I trust will continue.

I have immense respect for Pastor Kelly. He was so good to my daughter when she was at Oakwood. That was a powerful sermon that we can all take to heart.

Good idea to pray for Danny together. I've been praying for him, Linda and all the people at 3ABN, as I'm sure many people here have done. There's a special blessing, though, in God's children getting together to pray in accord and the Lord wants those prayers. So let's pray!

Thanks for your post, Johann. It's so refreshing to hear truth in that kind and humble but straight way you express yourself. It blesses me. God bless you!

In my opinion, YOU are a coward. You come in here repeatedly and make accusations against people from the safety of your screen name. Don't ask HOTY to identify himself if you're not willing to do the same.

Voice his concerns to those in charge? Now that's rich. He would be fired on the spot and he knows it. Differences of opinion are not welcome at 3ABN. See this link:

Grace,

The number one reason is legal liability so of what they have said is very slanderous so if they stay behind the curtain of us not knowing for sure you they are then it limits the ability of others to go after them.

I will say that a higher percentage of reform 3abn posters are willing to put there real name to their posts then the leave 3abn alone crowd.

It is true, I didn't SEE anything behind closed doors in the marriage. I did see lots of Danny's claims about it on 3abn. I have read observations by first hand witnesses here.

I have seen the testimonies of the alleged victims of pastoral sexual abuse/molestation and the letters from Mike Riva sent to Roger Clem and the Church of God to try to shut them up. There is pretty clear evidence, IMO, that Danny has "sinned" in this regard and I will maintain that it is my right to pray for him as outlined in 1John 5:16.

Glennetta,

How do you you know?

Secondly, since you are making a [/i]big deal out of him being a non sda pastor, what about Tommy S. being non sda pastor?

Thirdly, since the "good" SDA's are getting on the case of the rest of us "bad " sda's for trying to bring out and correct Tommy S. abusive and cheating ways, WHAT pray tell me would make him want to a SDA?

Forthly, would it matter if he was an non-christian, would that change a drop the wrongness of Tommy's actions?

Please be so kind to awnser these questions so i can better understadn were you are coming.

Erik

BlackSDA _ 3ABN _ A Question Of Ethical Behavior

Posted by: fallible humanbeing Feb 10 2007, 06:11 PM

I received the email quoted below from Bob Pickle tonight, February 9, 2007 at 4:26 PM. It arrived at my personal email address which is not available on either BSDA or MSDAOL. I know how Mr. Pickle acquired this email address and believe that aside from violating the Terms of Service (Respect the privacy of others) here on BSDA this should cause members and guests here concern. It should lead to questions of what it means to violate basic moral and ethical principles when taking part in an open discussion forum. This email was also sent to Mollie Steenson, John Lomacang, Tommy Shelton, and Joe Smith.

That letter came from the "Illinois Ministerial Credentials Committee of the General Assembly of the Church of God in Illinois." The following is some of the verification I have that Bob used duplicitous means to gain access to my personal email address. I have edited this down for size. Nothing that was edited out would change the understanding of or context of the content in any way. I have also received the permission of the individual who sent me this email to post it's contents.

Is this the way information should be gathered?

Is this honest?

I believe Bob was seeking information in order to attempt to silence me and to keep me from posting on BSDA and MSDAOL. In the post linked here (http://www.blacksda.com/forums/index.php?s=&showtopic=12025&view=findpost&p=168422) Bob was fishing for my IP address. Both incidents were a concerted effort to discover my identity. What for? I will leave that to you to decide.

I do not live in the state where the individual whose email is quoted above lives, and never have. I know the writer of the email only through our personal correspondence on BSDA and private email communications since meeting on this forum, but have no reason to doubt them on any issue or point as they have always been forthright and honest with me in all things.

So Bob, here are my questions:

Question #1: Why did you need my private, unpublicized email address? And what did you intend to do with it if you got it?

Question #2: Why did you use it once you had it and it reveled nothing to you?

Question #3: Why did you attempt to make someone believe they were in danger from me?

Question #4: Who were you going to "persuade" in regards to my "sincerity and honesty"?

Question #5: How would this individuals sharing of my private email address prove they were sincere and honest?

FHB, the first thing that comes to my mind in answer to your questions is that Bob Pickle was attempting to determine whether you were really someone who just happened on this forum and didn't like what you saw or whether you were much closer to 3ABN administration. That's what his behind-the-scenes email says to me.

As for the one he sent you -- it sounds very much like his other fact-finding emails.

As for violating TOS, I'm guessing that your post here is as much or more in violation as anything Bob did/wrote.

That is how I felt. FHB's insinuations don't fly with me. To question Bob's integrity puts him (FHB) in a very poor light with anyone who knows Bob.

Posted by: Pickle Feb 10 2007, 08:07 PM

I'll answer your questions based on the best that I can recall.

Question #1: I didn't. Nothing.

Question #2: Because I wanted to write you too, and see if you could help me out.

Question #3: I didn't. A better question would be, "Did you?" I think that approach would be better rather than just taking one person's recollection as being what had to have happened.

Question #4: This issue never came up in our discussion.

Question #5: Never came up in our discussion.

As far as why there might be some discrepancies in the above, I think it would be better for all of us to just leave that one alone.

Regarding your link to my post, I wasn't fishing for your IP address, and that should be fairly clear.

Now that I have answered you questions, how about answering mine before we continue:

Question: Does anyone have any idea who gave Walt the idea that a single leader was involved in Tommy's surrendering of his ministerial license, and who gave him the idea that Tommy's surrendering of that license was voluntary; or, did Tommy surrender his license on multiple occasions, and was Walt referring to a different occasion altogether?

And if you simply do not know the answer to it, could you please comment on how you feel about Walt's information gained from his "investigation" differing so drastically from the facts?

> . . .
> As far as why there might be some discrepancies in the above, I think it would be better for all of us to just leave that one alone.

Let's review the questions:

Question #1: Why did you need my private, unpublicized email address? And what did you intend to do with it if you got it?

BP Response: I didn't. Nothing.

- Then why did you go to such great lengths to discover it?

Question #2: Why did you use it once you had it and it reveled nothing to you?

BP Response: Because I wanted to write you too, and see if you could help me out.

- Bob, it should have been clear to you over the course of time that you and I are on two opposite sides of the fence. I disagree with your methods and most of your conclusions. You know that, knew that, and I can not imagine why would think I could "help" you.

Question #3: Why did you attempt to make someone believe they were in danger from me?

BP Response: I didn't. A better question would be, "Did you?" I think that approach would be better rather than just taking one person's recollection as being what had to have happened.

- Bob, you will have to live with yourself on this one. You know the question is full of merit and that you did, the evidence is unmistakeable. Your insinuation that I did something to make someone afraid is about as underhanded as I have seen. I trust this individual to tell me the truth, why, because they have shown themselves trustworthy.

Question #4: Who were you going to "persuade" in regards to my "sincerity and honesty"?

BP Response: This issue never came up in our discussion.

- So then you are calling the individual a liar. That would be rather typical of your approach. Again evidence will prove you are not being forthright on this.

Question #5: How would this individuals sharing of my private email address prove they were sincere and honest?

BP Response: Never came up in our discussion.

- Again, call the individual a liar. Bob, you can't get away with that any longer. It did come up, you did make this claim as well as the others.

- FHB

Posted by: fallible humanbeing Feb 10 2007, 08:43 PM

As a means to make things more context friendly. In the email from another member of BSDA there is a comment that Bob told them that I was "hammering" him via PM.

What is being refered to here by Bob are a series of 22 PM's (that would be the total of both our messages) and posts that appeared on MSDAOL where I challenged Bob on his tendenacy to put words into peoples mouths that they never spoke. This included his attributing claims to the chairman of the BoD and Danny that neither one ever made.

He may very well have felt "hammered", but I felt equally that his method of putting words in peoples mouths that they never said was dishonest and created false perceptions that would possibly enhance his own personal claims.

There is no violation of BSDA TOS. Your IP and email address are only available to me, Clay and PrincessDi. Please note: When you email a member from BSDA you expose your email address to the recipient and if you respond to an email sent from here, you have likewise exposed your email to them. Anytime you use email, you can expect that the message and your address can end up in anywhere on the net.

BlackSDA _ 3ABN _ Take It To The Chruch.

Posted by: Observer Jan 31 2007, 07:35 AM

There has been considerable discussion in regard to whether or not the issues with 3-ABN should be resolved within the denomination (SDA Church) or whether they should be resolved by the civil authorities. I have decided to make some brief comments on those issues:

CHURCH MANUAL: The 2000 edition of the CHURCH MANUAL states: "While there are, in the modern world, occasions foe seeking decrees of civil courts, Christians should prefer settlement within the authority of the church, and should limit the seeking of such decrees to cases that are clearly within the jurisdiction of the civil courts, and not within the authority of the church or for which the church agrees it has no adequate process for orderly settlement. . . . Examples of such cases may include, but are not limited to, the settlement of insurance claims, the issuance of decrees affecting boundaries and ownership of real property, the deciding of some matters involving the administration of estates, and the awarding of custody of minor children. While the church should set up procedures within the constraints of legal practice to avoid the type of litigation referred to in I Corinthians 6, it should constantly be on guard against turning from it gospel mission and taking up the duties of a civil magistrate. (See Luke 12:13, 14 and TESTIMONIES, vol. 9, pp. 216-218.). . ." Pages 181
And:

"Should the church fail to respond to a member's request for help in reconciling a difference, or if the church acknowledges that the nature of the case is such that it is not within its authority, it should be recognized that the member has exhausted the possibilities of the biblically outlined procedure for the settlement of differences and that what he/she should do beyond that point is a matter for his/her conscience. (See THE SDA BIBLE COMMENTARY, vol. 6, p. 698.)" Pages 181 & 182

And:

"The same princip0les that influence resolution of differences among members apply to the settlement of grievances of members against church organizations and institutions.

A church member should not instigate litigation against any entity of the church except under circumstances where the church has no provided adequate process for orderly settlement of the grievance within the church, or where the nature of the case is such that it is clearly not within the authority of the church to settle." Page 182

GM Speaking: I agree with the above. The reality is that many of the issues with 3-ABN lie outside of the authority of the denomination to settle. 3-ABN is independent. The church cannot force resolution upon 3-ABN. Some will say that issues should be dwelt with by the local congregation, and the IL Conference. Again, nothing that either would do can be forced upon 3-ABN.

Other issues are clearly in the realm of the civil authorities. The church is not a civil magistrate with the authority to settle issues of bookkeeping, payment of taxes, and EEO complaints. That belongs to the civil authorities.

The church cannot settle criminal issues. If X committed crime, let X be tried for the crime by the civil authorities.

As the church cannot resolve many of the issues, none should be criticized for taking such issues to the civil authorities.

ASI: In a public statement as to why ASI withdrew from any attempts to resolve the issues, Harold Lance said: "We believe we have no jurisdiction to consider internal issues of 3ABN management and the changing of its corporate structure. Those issues must be left to its' board of directors. We believe our inability to resolve the fundamental issue of the divorce and remarriage is disappointing to many. We felt that without agreement on fundamentals with no likely agreement in sight it was necessary for ASI to withdraw. The parties and those concerned are the losers in what could have been a healing clarification of a divisive issue for all who are concerned."

GM Speaking: It should be noted that in other statements, Mr. Lance identified others issues that he felt ASI could not resolve, and he went on to state could only be resolved in the civil realm

I agree with Mr. Lance on this. There is a very important point here that has not been discussed. We are in pursuit of truth. To achieve that, we must conduct any resolution of the issues in a manner that appears to the public to be fair. That is to say, it must not only be fair, but it must appear to the public to be fair. That applies to Danny Shelton, Linda Shelton, 3-ABN, and any other person involved in this. If the public believes that the process has not been fair to any person, the issues will not be resolved. If it appears not to have been fair to Danny, they will not be resolved. The same is true for Linda, and every other person.

The reality is: Issues of objectivity, fairness, process, and more, can only be achieved for many of the issues in the civil realm.

The Bible: Comments relating to the Biblical passages would expand this post beyond an appropriate length. So, I will not make many comments. There are two sets of Biblical teachings that touch on the issue as to what Scripture teaches. One deals with civil authorities. It tells us that civil government is established by God, that civil government has a proper role in the life of Christians, and that Christians should be under the rule of civil government. This tells me that there is a place for civil government to become involved in some of these 3-ABN issues.

The second Scriptural teaching is in regard to differences being settled by the church. An examination of those passages will show that such applies only when the church has within its membership wise people of good report who have the authority to resolve the issue. As points out my quote from the CHURCH MANUAL, in our modern society, there are many areas of life where only the civil authorities have the authority to resolve the issues.

The U.S. Constitution: Reference has been made to the U.S. Constitutions. In general, those comments have been made about Constitutional provision that apply to criminal prosecution and do not apply to civil affairs. It should also be noted that in the area of sexual misconduct our modern society requires that action be taken to protect people regardless of criminal conviction. There may be no criminal conviction, but society has said we must protect people regardless of that lack of conviction. People who argue otherwise do not understand the law, the U.S. Constitution, or society today.

Prosecution: Some make a large point of the fact that no one has been prosecuted for sexual misconduct. In doing so they fail to understand the situation. Lack of criminal prosecution does not mean innocence. The passage of time and the "statute of limitations" may be a bar to criminal prosecution. That does not mean that steps should not be taken to protect people. For personal reasons victims of sexual assault may simply decide not to prosecute. If you understand the legal system, such is understandable. They should not be criticized for such a position.

I have professionally worked with abused people. Prosecution with consequent public exposure, and the adversial legal system will often cause men, women, adults, children, and parents to carefully consider the issues. Parents may decide that it is in the best interests of their children not to prosecute. Adults may decide that it is in the best interests of their healing not to expose themselves to an adversial legal system.

Even prosecutors may decide that it is in the best interests of children not to bring them into that process. I am aware of a local situation where a criminal conviction was obtained, and a man sent to prison. But, the prosecutors determined that it was in the best interests of several children if they not be brought into the system. So, he was not prosecuted for those offenses. In this case, the media never got wind of what had happened. So no media attention was ever given to the excluded children.

The bottom line: Society expectes that vulnerable people (adults as well as children) be protected from sexual assualt, regardless of criminal conviction.

I understand how hard it can be on vulnerable people to enter into the adversarial court arena to testify against a child molestor/sexual abuser. My problem is if no one is willing to prosecute in an effort to protect the witnesses, this allows the abuser to go on to continue abusing new victims. So what can be done to stop the abuse but protect the abused?

And, I will second your praise of Duane's courage for coming forward!

I think a key issue that needs to be brought to the church in general and the donors of 3abn in particular is the concerted effort that some members of the Shelton family and the 3abn board have made to keep the allegations against Tommy Shelton hidden. There needs to be some form of accountability and censure regarding this unethical and grossly unChristian behavior. IMO.

Yes, it is hard. In the specific legal case I mentioned conviction was obtained without the testimony of some of the children. I did not say no children testified. Several did testify. But, the prosecution believed that they could obtain a conviction without the testimoney of several, and they did so. The did that to protect the children involved.

Society does not require a conviction before attempts being made to protect people. Rather, society requires that organizations take steps to protect vulnerable people (to include adults) even without a conviction. But, it is harder to do so.

Observer, I appreciate your comprehensive overview concerning this issue.

Duane, thank you for your courage in coming forward. Please forward my thanks to your brothers. I wept when I first read Roger's letter. You and your brothers have been in my thoughts and my prayers for a while. I also think about how all of you protected your mother from heartache, public humiliation, and turmoil, all at the cost of your own peace of mind. All of you are in our prayers. We love you.

All who are members of BLACKSDA forum within 3ABN posting.
Overall I am very pleased with the way most of the people make comments and asking questioning encouraging helping giving each other the benefit of the doubt and other wonderful words made in the 3ABN forum. As you notice I said "most". Too bad a few are so cantankerous and antagonistic and rude and try to get the topics sidetracked. But it does not spoil it for good read and feeling good about watching how people ask questions and/or offer opinions in such Christ-like attitude. Thank you for your loving comments. love the humor also.

> Midlothian Council's deputy leader and its social work director have resigned after a damning report found services to protect abused children were "weak".

The HMIE report said social work managers sometimes failed to deal with the problems of the most vulnerable.

Some were left in high-risk situations while those in care or under protection were not seen regularly by staff.

Education Minister Hugh Henry said the problems must be tackled as a matter of "extreme urgency".

The council's deputy leader, Danny Molloy, who is also in charge of the social work department, and Director of Social Work Malcolm McEwan resigned following the publication of the report.
It does identify failings in management, reporting and evaluation which compromised child protection at that time
Danny Molloy

Mr Molloy said: "I have political responsibility for the service and I accept this and have resigned my portfolio and my position within Midlothian Council as depute leader.

"I would wish to add that social workers do a very difficult job under exceptionally challenging circumstances and this HMIE report does not challenge the professionalism, ability or the commitment of social workers.

"However it does identify failings in management, reporting and evaluation which compromised child protection at that time."

Council leader Adam Montgomery said that after receiving verbal feedback from the audit team in September, the council had addressed many of the concerns raised.

It had also set up a group to monitor the situation and its chief executive was now chairing the child protection committee.

Mr Montgomery added: "Responsibility has been accepted and Midlothian Council will ensure that all the improvement actions within the HMIE report are delivered as quickly as possible."

The report, which was carried out between June and September, said although workers stepped in quickly at times of crisis, their input was often too brief and short-term.

"As a result, the needs of many of the most vulnerable children were not always met and some children were left at risk," it said.

"In some cases, insufficient attention had been paid to patterns of previous incidents and accumulating concerns, particularly in cases of neglect."

It said some workers focused on the drug and drink problems of parents but did not pay enough attention to the effect on their children.

The inspectors also said the monitoring and reviewing of child protection care plans, when a child's name was placed on the child protection register, were unclear.

The report found that services to protect children were "weak" and "unsatisfactory" in most areas and concluded that work was urgently needed to develop clear policies.

'Extreme urgency'

The education minister said he had already met council leaders about the situation.

"This needs to be remedied as a matter of extreme urgency and I expect all agencies across > Midlothian to act immediately to tackle the issues and to ensure that vulnerable children are not slipping through the net," he said.

>
> Mr Henry added: "I will keep in close touch with progress and developments to be assured that all appropriate steps are being taken to turn this situation round."
>
> Concerns had previously been flagged up in 2005 when a limited internal audit of the service was carried out but the latest report said the issues highlighted had not been addressed.
>
> Communities minister Rhona Brankin, who is also the local Labour MSP for Midlothian, said: "The report sets out starkly the unpalatable fact that some local children are being failed by the system in Midlothian."

Johann;

Things are getting worse. The sinfulness of sin is fading. Now we have to face a different mentality. I am shocked and disgusted at some of the posts that have been posted. I keep saying to myself, "Consider the source", but I can see that Jesus must come soon to stop this evil.

Texas is working on a new idea. They want the death penalty for those who have sexually offended 3 times.

Once, go to jail.

Twice, go to jail for a longer time.

Thrice, you go night, night for a long time.

Let me see, how many have come forward accusing Tommy?

Tommy, come on down to Texas, but wait until this law passes please.

Well, Tommy has resigned from 3abn.

"Resigned" isn't exactly what I call it if it is true that he still receives a paycheck. "Absent" would be more appropriate.

I think Trenice is the one who said he resigned; so Trenice, how do you know this? Did you see something or how did you hear?

Prosecution: Some make a large point of the fact that no one has been prosecuted for sexual misconduct. In doing so they fail to understand the situation. Lack of criminal prosecution does not mean innocence. The passage of time and the "statute of limitations" may be a bar to criminal prosecution. That does not mean that steps should not be taken to protect people. For personal reasons victims of sexual assault may simply decide not to prosecute. If you understand the legal system, such is understandable. They should not be criticized for such a position.

Duane not all written statements are sincerely molestation. The drag in Carbondale may change from year to year, new bartenders and all, but the thing that don't always change, are those who frequented those places back years ago and now. Some have gotten older and need less of that atmosphere but they are still around. Centerville has a nice fountain there, do you know anything about any snap shots that may have been taken in that area? Just asking.

Now you're WAY out there. You're actually implying I go to a gay bar in Carbondale? I'd LOVE to hear more about this.

I couldn't even tell you where Centerville is.

Observer will you get the chip off your shoulder. Your overly protective of this. I would like to talk to Duane one on one. He maybe would like to share some ole time thoughts and memories. Maybe he needs to be able to talk about something else than in just proving his case. After all you have different conversations on here. Don't you?

Duane I was NOT talking about a gay bar in Carbondale! Down on the drag, which is the main street, which is near the Southern Illinois University here is where all the business men and college employees have lunch, and a occassional drink.

Duane,
Maybe, Eyewitness goes to gay bars. Maybe, Eyewitness knows about the action in Centerville. I think that Eyewitness is trying to imply that because you were abused by Tommy, then you must be gay. Hmmm...If my surmising is true, then Eyewitness has some serious problems herself/himself.

Then by all means, CLICK on the "PM" button at the bottom of Duane's post! You can carry on however so much conversation with him ONE ON ONE there as you like!

Posted by: Richard Sherwin Feb 4 2007, 09:58 AM

You want one on one then don't do it on a public forum. Otherwise expect people to butt in. Since this line of questioning is getting very personal maybe you ought to reveal to Duane your idenity so he can better defend himself. And maybe you ought to ask of you are doing the will of Christ in this.

It sure gave an inside view of how a lawyer will try to smear a person. I see red when I hear this type of questioning. This is one reason that more victims of sexual assault do not step forward. They know that every thing have done -- or falsely implied that they have done -- will be spread out in the poorest light.

I think of the story of Joshua and the Angel told in Zechariah 3. The devil was there to do what the devil does best, "And the Lord said unto Satan, The Lord rebuke thee, O Satan;"

Unfortunately our courts don't have the Lord as judge, and sometimes the smear campaign does work. I have seen perpetrators of sexual assault walk away without being convicted.

What EW wanted was NOT a private conversation. They wanted to cast doubt on Duane's character...again...and so it needed to be posted instead of sending a private message.

What they ended up doing was make themselves look ridiculous...again.

But what is posted as a PM could also be used in court by an unscrupulous lawyer. Duane doesn't need to answer his questions even in PMs.

Actually, he retired. If he still does receive a paycheck that would be common practice for a retiree, a paycheck or a pension of some kind but regardless, You compare the way Linda was treated and the way Tommy was treated, well....it would seem Linda "drew a paycheck" for 3 years after her departure and I believe it was a very large one.......... so what's your point?

The point is that 3ABN does not OFFICALLY have a pension or retirement plan for employees. Linda was fired from 3ABN and received severance pay. If Tommy "resigned" voluntarily, he would not receive severance pay. So, if he is receiving a paycheck, has there been a change in policy by the 3ABN Board of Directors?

Let's see,, at first you said if the rumor is true that Tommy is receiving a pay check.. Now, one post later you say tommy is taking a long paid vacation. That is a statement not speculation. When did it change? Also, I didn't see that you addressed the fact that Linda has had one for 3 years.

I have no idea and once again, you are all getting into a discussion of what "might" be. That is the problem here. Somebody mentions that something might be happening and everyone jumps on the bandwagon and by the time they are through the speculation has turned into fact.

Post edited for speculation. But for the record, your arguments are also speculation since you do not have to evidence to support the other side.

For the record I had no argument or speculation, you started the topic. And fyi I had no idea that EW was banned until I read the posts about an hour ago..As for not seeing me around for a while, I have been busy and I could say the same for you. I have a question which you certainly do not have to answer but if you choose to, please answer as truthfully as possible.
Did you have a problem (whether you worked under him or not) with Tommy as production manager. I mean with his personality or the way he performed his job, the way he talked to people, ect ect.

Posted by: Richard Sherwin Feb 4 2007, 02:31 PM

In other words Tommy was a nice guy he couldn't be a molestor and even if he was so what? He did his job without any problems so we should just quit picking on him. Give me a break WWJD. There are letters stateing he molested from a position of pastor, what part of this can't you get? (But of course if you want to throw another log in the pyre, er, fire please go ahead, we can use the warmth, but can 3abn stand the heat?)

wwjd,

Let ask you direct question, does it make tommy S. actions any more acceptable, any less cheating on his wife, and any less abusing of his office as a pastor, IF any of his victims were in fact of non- heterosexual nature. YES or NO.

If you think No then please explain, if you think yes then please explain.
thank you in advance for you awnser.

(i am in no why saying that I know or even think it matters what the personal sexaul desires of tommys victims is or was or for that matter might be in the future, just wanted that to be clear.)

Cheating on your spouse is never acceptable. My problem here is this: We have no idea what really happened or exactly when, so...if any of the allegations did in fact, happen, we have no idea if he repented before God (on here it is just assumed he has not) If he confessed to his wife and family and sought their forgiveness, and with true repentance has walked the straight and narrow ever since. All on this forum say no he has not repented because he didn't apologize to the alleged "victims." Again, if any of the accusations are true, the bottom line is we don't know and will never know what he actually said or did not say, and to whom, and regardless we do not set the criteria for how anyone should receive forgiveness. We also do not know if he has received counseling that would keep him on track or not. All I would like is for all, here, to think about this for a moment. If I am anywhere close to right in my scenerio and there has been true repentance for any alleged wrongs, if he has had counseling, if he has made things right with his family a long time ago...then can you imagine for one second what this forum has done to him and his family? The pain, the humiliation, the embarrasment that this has cost him, his wife, children, grandchildren, and for what? For something that they may have worked through years ago and had maybe found some sort of healing and then....this forum happened. Not to even mention all the things that have been posted here that are not true like....he wasn't really in bad health and that was just an excuse when he got caught....I believe it was Joe Smith or eyewitness that gave the dates and hospitals where he had a heart attack, stint surgery, balloon surgery, heart caths....so then everyone dropped that and went on to other accusations.

My point being, how could we even take a chance on destroying a mans life and family, when there are so many things that we truly do not know about the whole situation. If I am right in what I believe has happened (and I think I am) then not only will we be accountable to God for what has been done but, should something to happen to him (another heart attack) because of the grief this site has caused, I believe his blood will be on the hands of his crucifiers.

You need to lighten up, I thought her payments were stretched out for 3 years. You are telling me that's wrong, so fine, I will take your word for it that you know that it was 2. It really makes no difference, the figures are still the same. The defenders of 3abn can't make an honest mistake about anything without almost being called liars. You guys can make up any scenerio you want and that is truth.

The gentlemen asked a few questions however, only one question has actually been answered. This one trick pony thing is really, really, really getting old.

Unless, any or all of his family desires to come here and say he has made things right with them, IF any apology actually has been given to his family, that is between him God and his family. (Note) None here has asked any of them to do so.

ALL on this forum would include yourself... seeing that you have yet to see/read where ALL on this forum make such a statement, that makes your statement a bald face lie. (Note) When it is not the truth, what else can it be?

Seeing that there are statements made by at least two "alleged" victims, and they can say whether they have received an apology, which remains to be stated, then it would seem that the alleged perp has yet to do all that God requires of him.

You can at least make the effort to come correct, or keep this vain jangling to yourself. That is what Jesus would do.

I have only heard good things of Tommy and never saw anything unethical. I did not believe what I was told about the molestation until the victims started identifying themselves and another family member spoke to me and said they knew it was true. But do not take this to mean that because I never heard anything "bad" about him on the job that he is innocent.

And don't forget that many, many sexual offenders are "good guys", "sweet", "charming", and an all-around "nice people" How many times have we seen on the news the shocked testimonies of family, friends, and neighbors after someone has been found out? I believe that it is this facade that allows them to act for so long.

WWJD Post

I have sectioned it off for easier reading on my part. I use Microsoft Word to compose my posts because I am a bad speller. I also corrected spelling and grammatical mistakes. I do not believe I changed any words that were posted, except for those stated.

My replies are in blue in the body of the post for a clearer understanding of what was said and my reply. Only for that reason.

> WWJD: This was good in the eyes of God.
> Fran: I am in total agreement.

WWJD: My problem here is this: We have no idea what really happened or exactly when, so...if any of the allegations did in fact, happen, we have no idea if he repented before God (on here it is just assumed he has not).

Fran: That is not my opinion. He apologized to one victim. That was right for him to do.

WWJD: If he confessed to his wife and family, sought their forgiveness, and with true repentance has walked the straight and narrow ever since. All on this forum say, "No he has not repented because he didn't apologize to the alleged 'victims'."

Fran: Remember there are two laws at work here. I believe Tommy probably did repent and ask God and his family for repentance. However, he failed to apologize for his past actions to the ones that he hurt.

Look at it this way. God's law was almost fulfilled. There is only one thing lacking. He needs to say he is sorry to all he has hurt. Danny should help him with reparations to some/all of those victims. That is what God would ask of Tommy at this time.

However, that does not fulfill the laws of the land. There are many followers of Christ on death row. God in his mercy has forgiven them because those inmates have asked him to, but there is a penalty that has to be paid because of the laws of the land. One of those requirements would be to have his name placed on the sexual offenders list. This is to help Tommy during his further recovery.

WWJD: Again, if any of the accusations are true, the bottom line is we don't know and will never know what he actually said or did not say, and to whom, and regardless we do not set the criteria for how anyone should receive forgiveness.

Fran: I totally agree. God has set that forth in His Word. I should be crystal clear, no matter what religion one is.

WWJD: We also do not know if he has received counseling that would keep him on track or not.

Fran: This is not one of God's requirements. It is a good thing, but I don't know if it is spelled out the Tommy needs a shrink. Godly counsel, yes, but I am not so sure about worldly counsel. I have to pass on that one. I would like to say it is mandatory, but I can't with my limited knowledge on these matters.

WWJD: All I would like is for all, here, to think about this for a moment. If I am anywhere close to right in my scenario and there has been true repentance for any alleged wrongs, if he has had counseling, if he has made things right with his family a long time ago...then can you imagine for one second what this forum has done to him and his family?

Fran: Yes, I can imagine! I believe the information reported on this forum did cause Tommy, Carol and their family terrible pain. I believe it has caused Danny pain. Had Tommy taken care of "all" avenues of forgiveness with the alleged victims, we would not be here. As I see it, he took care of all that affected him. Why would he think he did not need to totally take responsibility with the alleged victims?

WWJD: [What about] The pain, the humiliation, and the embarrassment that this has cost him, his wife, children, grandchildren, and for what? For something that they may have worked through years ago and had maybe found some sort of healing and then....this forum happened.

Fran: That is because that one point was not taken care of. No care or regard for the alleged victims, only for family and self. That is why we are here today.

We are here also today because the law of the land has been broken and requires a law of the land forgiveness. That will happen in the court of the land. They will determine innocence or guilt. Then they will apply what ever is required. If he is innocent, he will go free.

WWJD: Not to even mention all the things that have been posted here that are not true like....he wasn't really in bad health and that was just an excuse when he got caught....I believe it was Joe Smith or eyewitness that gave the dates and hospitals where he had a heart attack, stint surgery, balloon surgery, heart catheters....so then everyone dropped that and went on to other accusations.

Fran: I believe Tommy does have health problems. I believe that many illnesses are caused by stress. I can prove it. I read those dates and saw Tommy was in trouble. Yes, I believe much of his stress was caused by what has be brought forward for the public to view right here on this and other forums.

Would we be here if Tommy had taken action in 2003 by apologizing to these alleged victims? Probably not; did Tommy actually think it would just go away? Did Danny think a few threats from a lawyer would stop what God allowed to be brought forth?

WWJD: My point being, how could we even take a chance on destroying a man's life and family, when there are so many things that we truly do not know about the whole situation.

Fran: What about the families and lives of the alleged victims? They fall under both laws. Were they dealt with under God's law? Have they had their day under the laws of the land? I know it is not my intent that any should be harmed. However, when we break the laws of the land, we must answer to the laws of the land. That is a hard thing to say.

WWJD: If I am right in what I believe has happened (and I think I am) then not only will we be accountable to God for what has been done but, should something to happen to him (another heart attack) because of the grief this site has caused, I believe his blood will be on the hands of his crucifiers.

Fran: This is something you cannot decide. We each must meet our maker face to face with our actions and lives. We are not here today because I sinned and forgot to apologize to the child of God I hurt. We are here because of the pain of these families and of the alleged victims of Tommy Shelton.

Tommy took care of "his end" of the matter but "left the other undone." Somewhere, this has to happen. Because he refused to apologize, the alleged victims want their day in court. At this point, I do not believe they will back down. However, maybe it is not too late.

WWJD: You need to lighten up, I thought her [Linda's] payments were stretched out for 3 years. You are telling me that's wrong, so fine, I will take your word for it that you know that it was 2. It really makes no difference; the figures are still the same. The defenders of 3ABN can't make an honest mistake about anything without almost being called liars. You guys can make up any scenario you want.

Fran: The amount of time, 2 or 3 years is not relevant. You are correct. I do not believe we are here to make up any scenario we want. We all want the truth; what ever that is! We ask, but receive no answers. That is all we want: answers.

I am not sure if you are Danny or not. However, if you are, you have always been in my prayers. So has Linda. I truly admire Linda and believe she is a very spiritual being. I have formed this opinion by watching her lack of action. I have never met her or you in all honestly.

> I have watched you for 3 years too. There are times in my life where I can't see beyond my hands. Sometimes I lash out and say what I don't really mean. Too late, I already did it! Thanks, Erik. This was my thought exactly!

When a pastor sexually propositions anyone in his care, the victim's sexual orientation does not matter one iota!! It is still sexual abuse by virtue of the fact that he is a pastor and thus in a position of spiritual if not physical power over his victim. Even if the victim is of the age of consent, it is still sexual abuse!

Furthermore, "making things right with his family" does not come close to filling the requirements for genuine repentance. The perpetrator needs to apologize to his victims and register as a sex offender!

WWJD,

i agree we should never falsely accuse anyone, the problem that i see with even suggesting that tommy is not guilty is that there are at three written letters from victims, none that mention tommy trying to make things right. on top of that we have letter from tommy's ss leader, and a mother of a different victim.

so inless you a can go to tommy's family and get some letters that state clearly that all the above letters of victims are lairs, and why what they claimed happened did not happen.

Also you SIDE-STEPPED my question the last time so please answer it with a simple yes or no.

Bystander,

cheating on your spouse was not my question maybe you need to reread my post.

secondly, if tommy has made peace with his wife and family great more power to them, but i would say that he has not made peace with his victims, and the letters from the lawyers do not seem to me to be a sign of a man that at peace with this mistake of his at all.

Instead of trying to white wash this topic, lets just have blunt consent discussion. i asked a very simple yes or no question wwjd side stepped the question, and then tried to make us feel sorry for tommy's family. AND you know what i do feel sorry for them, but not any less then i do any victims of tommy's.

If tommy is innocent then lets see the proof, if he is guilty and has made amends for his actions then lets see the proof of that and end this topic once and for all, and yes by the way the answers to those questions would make his accusers lairs.

bystander,

you very well might be right, but it could be done here or anywhere else were in side of the sda church that is willing to look at the facts and leave the options behind. the facts are very limited at this point, so this is why you see so much option flying around,.

So again i say that has the person who made all this public danny S. needs place all his cards on the table. If he is right then those cards will show that if he is not then we can see were changes need to be made.

No, they can't wwjd, especially when they had been suspended for this and Calvin made a point to say it was off limits. Plain and simple. Eye witness sole purpose was to paint Duane as a homosexual, mistakenly thinking this would lessen Tommy's accountability in some way. She was suspended for this, and I am sure she at least read the warning. However, she did not remember the BSDA motto: This is not Sabbath School, we pay attention. Veiling her accustions and inuendos did not work, and now she is banned.

We will not tolerate the further victimization of the any member, let alone the men who have come forward as alleged molestation victims of Tommy Shelton(yes, at this point I[I am only speaking for myself here] take them at their word, especially since they all have the same story) Tommy is nothing nothing, His defenders are not even proclaiming complete innocence, but trying to sae him from prison on a technicality(17 is the age of consent in IL, and questioning the character of the witnesses, but not aowrd aobut he didn't do it. So what am I suppsoed to do with that?) Just that simple. You have a problem PM myself, Steve or Calvin.

Exactly. well said Duane. Again, it's all about DS. Look deeply.

Tommy is having this trouble and suffering consequences in part because of his own brother.

It would be nice if the resolution would be something like developing a plan for reconciliation that includes the victims and arranges for counseling and some form of compensation. That would be the appropriate resolution to the entire matter and leave everyone whole and reconciled to Christ.

If that tact HAD been taken (which is what you would expect from Christians), the forum and all else would have not been neccasary.

Problem is that Bystander's post used to say "my" and "I" and now says "WWJD" and "he." It wasn't that Bystander and WWJD used the same computer. It was that Bystander identified himself as being WWJD.

Is that not a problem? Or is it all right for the rest of us to do that kind of thing too?

Brenda thinks:

I read this to be Bystander replying to two separate posts from Eric and WWJD, in a single post.

To me this post does not indicate that Bystander and WWJD are one and the same. (ie I could not draw that conclusion on the basis of this post, no comment on any other indicators out there).

It was not a typo. I was sitting right here when the original unedited post came in. With in a few minutes, bystander caught that he was 'being' wwjd when replying to you, and quickly changed the first person to commenting regarding what wwjd said. I have copies of both. I find this enlightening myself and attribute it to something alltogether then they will claim.

It could be two people using one pc, and one forgot to log out and came right in and made the relply; bystander didn't log out, wwjd didn't log in. And if I had 5 people in my house that all shared the same pc and therefore had the same IP, I could have 5 people have 5 diff bsda ID's and therefore use all 5 to my use as well, and basically take advantage of Calvins rules for honesty.

We can draw our own conclusions. I have mine. Lets just put this in the catagory of being more aware of what people do and can do and loopholes they can find to accomplish what they want to make appear before us. Get it?

How sad it must be to think that you had two defenders but then learn that they had to clone themselves to make it look like there were more than one Seems like we are seeing more and more defenders (I'd use the apolo...whatever word if I could spell it) dropping out. Why is that? Are they finally catching on that all is not right at 3abn? Or have the Shelton's run out of relatives willing to stick out their necks?

Why did the one write as if they were the other, and then correct it like that?

If they really are two people, then we have WWJD pretending to be Bystander when he edited that post.

Could we, for once, not make a mountain out of a molehill? Calvin knows we use the same computer. When I made the first post, I did not realize that Bystander had not logged out. Didn't realize it until I submitted the post and saw that it said "Bystander". Truthfully I didn't even know how to go about changing an already submitted post to my ID, so I figured the easiest and quickest way would to be just change the wording. If that was wrong, then I apologize to Calvin. It was an honest mistake I didn't know anyother way to correct.

You could have tried leading by example rather than making that statement. SIGH!!! Isn't that what Jesus would do?

Agreed -- especially since I was one of the individuals who suggested that to Calvin in an earlier instance.

Okay, let's say that you are two people then.

What two people would be so close that they could share a computer over and over and over and within a relatively short time period? Husband and wife? That narrows down the field a little, doesn't it?

Certainly, husband/wife and/or roomates.

The other possibility is that it is an office computer where several people have access to the same computer, which widens the field just a little.

Yet I consider that husband-and-wife scenario fairly likely ... but then, who am I?

The word is out that legal charges have been filed. Supposedly they have been filed against "Linda's Team," Linda herself, and will be filed against people who have posted in the Internet forums.

I do not know of anyone who has been served with papers. So, at this point in time, as far as I am concerned, this is simply unsubstantiated. But, as the word is spreading, I wanted to tell you that I am not aware of anyone being served.

Paise God from Whom all blessings flow!

Whatever happens, my trust is in the Lord!

"Blessed are ye, when men shall revile you, and persecute you, and say all manners of evil against you falsely, for my sake. Rejoice and be exceedingly glad . . ."

This gives us the possibility to speak the truth. Even if they should put us in prison, what is that against what Jesus has done for my sake.

I learned this as a child sitting on my mother's lap as she was reading Scripture and Tetimonies to me - that some of the final persecution will come to us from fellow church members.

Our faith may be tried and tested. Stand firm in the Lord!

I think that Clay said it best in one of his http://www.blacksda.com/forums/index.php?s=&showtopic=12410&view=findpost&p=175858. Supposedly is the key word. It is absurd to even dream of serving papers because a person writes on some forum. That isn't the way we do things in America. But a bluff will work for some employees; it will make others hopping mad.

Two things have me very puzzled: How can one man cast a spell over so many people? How is it that someone in administration can't break away from this hypnotic trance?

The second thing that puzzles me is how people can work under a regime where there are threats of lawsuits and loss of jobs.

If my guess is right, more and more employees will be checking out http://www.blacksda.com/forums/index.php?s=&showtopic=12410&view=findpost&p=175858 and BSDA. I hope we can make them welcome as it is going to be a terrible shock to some.

I
Ralph, not only do they work under it, most support it. Why because they know the majority of what has been told here and other places isn't anywhere near, the truth. Every organization has a few employees or ex employees who will stab you in the back, but most of the good hard working people there, believe a great injustice has been done. Why? Because they are there day in and day out. They have worked and socialized with many of those talked about on this forum. Some of their children have played together and went to school together. Some, go to church together, some have sabbath dinner together. They rub elbows with the so called "corrupt administration" outside of the work forum and know them to be good and god fearing christians. Is anyone perfect? of course not. Have we all made mistakes? Certainly. Do we all have things in our past that we could have done differently? Absolutely. But the vast majority of 3abn workers know that these people are not thieves, liars, burglars, hypocrites and so on and so forth. That is the real reason why they work "under" someone who would file a lawsuit. Because they know that the slanderous and liable things that have been said have hurt the cause of Christ. They feel it is not just an attack on administration, but an attack on them and the hard work they do as well. People think about it. There are a hundered and 40 some odd people that work at 3abn. If all of these allegations were true don't you think the screams of that many people would have been heard a long time ago? These same people also know what Linda was like. They know what it was like to work there before she left and after she left and they have had plenty to say about the difference. But they keep it within the confines of their friends and families because they believe it is the right thing to do, as opposed to getting on the internet and telling their real opinions. They also know some things about her dismissal that no one here knows. THey know so much more than we, because they are there.
No matter how much you want to believe that 3 abn is just a small little group controlled by Danny, you can't. The group is large not small with very respected and business wise board members. Then there is ASI and until now, their integrity has never been questioned that I know of. You have people like Garwin McNeilus that has given of his time and money and has frequented 3 abn plenty enough times that if there was a rat to smell, he would have smelled it. Then you have the thousands of people that have visited through the years to volunteer for whatever was needed. At campmeeting time many come a month before the actual dates to help set up. What speaks for itself is the fact, that they keep coming back year after year. Can they get a feel on what is happening? Of course the can. They are not restricted as to where they go, or who they talk to off or on the campus. That is another lie that I have read here. That everything is guarded and visitors can't talk to the employees. The truth is the complete opposite of that. I know, I have been there before. I was free to look around anywhere I wanted (except the studios during taping of course) and talk to whomever I wished. And that goes for all the buildings, not just the main one. EVeryone was wonderful and the spirit there was full of much joking and laughter in some of the different departments. This was absolutely not an environment of oppressed or depressed people. Oh I'm sure there might be some grumbling about a new rule or regulation. Where have you ever worked that there wasn't. But, in no way, was this a nazi prison camp with Hitler in charge. Most here need to rethink what they have been told here, and from what source the information came from.

Posted by: ex3ABNemployee Feb 7 2007, 01:32 AM

Bystander, if what you say is true, then that means that some of the employees are reading the forums, or they wouldn't know what is said here is "nowhere near the truth." If that's the case, why haven't they come to the defense of 3ABN? I know if I was working for someone that I loved and people started spreading false accusations about them, I would attempt to set the record straight. So far, we've seen none of that from the 3ABN camp.

BlackSDA _ 3ABN _ Pictures Of Danny Shelton's House And Other Buildings At 3abn

Posted by: Rosyroi Feb 4 2007, 12:10 PM

There are some of us who have never been to the 3ABN compound. The only pictures most of us who don't live near T'Ville or have been to any campmeetings are those that are allowed by the staff. I am curious about Danny Shelton's house, horses and other staff homes and the apartment buildings and the school grounds and the outside of the T'Ville church. If someone within BSDA or others lurking have any pictures of any of the buildings and others I can't remember at this moment to ask about, I would love it if they could be posted in this forum for all to view. By my asking this publically Danny would be alerted. Taking pictures now, unless an awed visitor accidentally stumbled onto Danny's home, wouldn't be a good idea. Thank you in advance.

Since Danny finally admitted Linda did not commit adultry, and that we are now focusing more on Danny and Tommy Shelton alleged situations we are not really discussing Linda anymore but that is a good question. I would love to see that Huge pool of Linda's. wonder if she had to fold it up and put it in the garage for the winter. (just being silly... I have no idea how big it is). Also would love to see her house. I am not prejudice. One house or the other or both, doesn't make any difference to me.

Where in the world did you get the info that Dan finally "admitted" that LInda did not commit adultery? Whoever told you that is 100% wrong. He has never ever said that.

You are correct that she moved into a mobile home for a short period of time. Not only did danny help her move but he spent his own money (approx) 1,500.00 to build her a deck just because she wanted one. (I believe he has all the receipts.) If memory serves me, I believe (I could be wrong but don't think so) that during this time period he drove her to her botox appointment because she shouldn't drive afterward...Now does that sound like a man who set her up, kicked her out and laughed evily the whole time????

Dr. Thompson has stated publicly that they have no proof that Linda Shelton committed physical adultery.

Danny Shelton has stated that he has never publicly accused Linda Shelton of spiritual adultery.

I think but I am not 100 % positive that Danny Shelton has denied ever publicly stating that Linda Shelton committed physical adultery.

However, both have stated that Linda Shelton had an inapproprite relationship with Dr. A. And, they have made further statements that would lead one to think that they believe Linda Shelton may have committed physical adultery.

One should keep in mind the distinction that one can make between stating something PUBLICLY and stating it PRIVATELY. Think for a minute about that. One might not make a statement publicly (such as post it on the Internet) and yet say the same thing privately (that is in a letter that went to specific people).

If I am wrong, I invite anyone to correct me. Bystander, I also invite your comment. If I am wrong, tell me.

I would like to comment. The only way to have proof that someone committed adultery is if you are there and see the act being committed and/or have pictures of the act. I would say that 98% of people are not going to have that kind of "proof." A spouse usually "knows" what is going on eventually, by different things. Whether it be lots of "private" phone conversations that they are not privy to or overhearing "incriminating" words of love, lust, or bashing of the spouse, or catching the accused in lies, it all adds up. There might also be other evidence but not of the act itself. So, by Dr. Walt or Danny or anyone else saying they don't have 100% proof does not exonerate or "make innocent" the other party. How many people have divorced because the person knew that the spouse was having an affair but didn't have pics or any such thing to back it up. They knew in other ways. Now, that said, 3ABN was "required" by it's viewers and supporters to state the reasons that Linda was dismissed. They were "required" to give an accountability. It is my understanding that The statements had to be made, knowing that if they were ever forced to produce evidence, they could. Any organization would have that "accountability" and a legal statement can be released on the dismissal.

Not only did danny help her move but he spent his own money (approx) 1,500.00 to build her a deck just because she wanted one. (I believe he has all the receipts.) If memory serves me, I believe (I could be wrong but don't think so) that during this time period he drove her to her botox appointment because she shouldn't drive afterward...Now does that sound like a man who set her up, kicked her out and laughed evily the whole time????

and we should believe you because?

I don't have pictures, except one from a distance of Danny's house. I have been to all three houses mentioned here. I'd say that mobile home was like a doghouse in comparison with the home Linda moved away from, even after Danny "fixed" it up.

come on folks how are can it be for danny's supports to drive over to his house and take a picture of it.

for that matter i am not even sure why the whole house thing is stilling coming it seems to a side issue of tyhe two main questions?

1. what is going to be done to get Tommy s. the help he needs to aface his actions.?

2. Did danny lie about his grounds for divorce?

just my thoughts.

For the same reason that you believe all the other things on here that are posted in favor of Linda. You don't seem to question whatever they say.

And I am sure it is a doghouse compared to the one she lives in now.

Just curious, wwjd, how are you sure? Have you seen her new home? Have you seen the mobile home and found it so horrible that a normal house would make it seem like a dog house? Like I said, I'm just curious.

What makes you so sure? Have you seen those houses?

Danny's house seemed a mansion to me compared to the quite regular house where Linda lives now.

Really? If memory serves me correctly Linda had a huge hand in designing what is now Danny's house. He did not want to make it as big as she wanted to make it. She did all the decorating and picked out all the furniture. Regardless, what is the point because it appears that Linda was compensated well for her half of the house, furniture, ect. With that money and the money from 3ABN it would seem she made out tremendously well...

I know that she picked out the temporary mobile home to live in. Do you think she would have chosen a "dog house."

Danny likes to make houses according to his own size. Just see what he did to Owen Troy. Danny and Kenny did not follow the pattern and agreement, according to what Ann told me.

Seems like What Would Danny Do? can be quite different from What Would Jesus Do?

Nope, I am not nearly as skeptical towards them as I am you... you I don't particularly like.... not sure what it is, but there is a vibe you have, comes through each of your posts... thus, you have no credibility as far as I am concerned.... like I said before, I think you are a provocateur.... and a tiresome one at that....

If anyone you don't like has no credibility, you live in a narrow little world. That would explain why you believe them to be credible. You like them. You all agree with each other. Trouble is, real life, outside of this forum, is not like that. I would guess you probably have a hard time in that world too.

don't particularly like you either.... likewise your credibility is zero... you don't need to tell me about real life, I live it daily.... as to whether or not I have difficulty in the real world, you don't know me, and that is fine with me..... you are also a provocateur, a tiresome one....

Back to the homes. To the pro Danny Camp, I am offering you a chance to prove your point about the homes you KNOW are what you say they are. Please (begging on bended knee) send pictures to this post. I tried google earth and mapquest.com but all was fuzzy. I don't know what else to do. If anyone have another idea please let me know.

One might be better served having the information being sought sent to one personally rather than posted on BSDA proper. We would not want anyone accusing the membership here of making such information available to the world for reasons other than curiosity, would we?

There may be a few people interested in "seeing" where they live but, for the most part, I doubt the whole body of BSDA is as concerned about where they lives as some may be interested in the quality of life of those they care about.

It is my prayer that Linda is living in peace and receiving strength through Christ Jesus. It is also my prayer that she receives all that the Lord desires for her, as He continues to build a hedge of protection about her in the midst of the trials she is experiencing. She will come out of this experience refined as gold tried in the fire.

Due to the recent breakin of Linda' home I am requesting to have this site closed permanently. Too bad it can't be wiped clean. A woman living by herself is vurnable enough but linda is a a world known personality. Originally I just wanted to have proof of shack/nice mobil home and Danny's home verified or at least the arguments on this subject stopped. So many want to prove their side is right. I would never wish anything bad like home break in happening to anyone. So sorry Linda your home was broken into. I also wish a hedge of protection about you as sara said.

> I would like to comment. The only way to have proof that someone committed adultery is if you are there and see the act being committed and/or have pictures of the act. I would say that 98% of people are not going to have that kind of "proof." A spouse usually "knows" what is going on eventually, by different things. Whether it be lots of "private" phone conversations that they are not privy to or overhearing "incriminating" words of love, lust, or bashing of the spouse, or catching the accused in lies, it all adds up. There might also be other evidence but not of the act itself. So, by Dr. Walt or Danny or anyone else saying they don't have 100% proof does not exonerate or "make innocent" the other party. How many people have divorced because the person knew that the spouse was having an affair but didn't have pics or any such thing to back it up. They knew in other ways. Now, that said, 3ABN was "required" by it's viewers and supporters to state the reasons that Linda was dismissed. They were "required" to give an accountability. It is my understanding that The statements had to be made, knowing that if they were ever forced to produce evidence, they could. Any organization would have that "accountability" and a legal statement can be released on the dismissal.

Yes, Rosy, it occurred to me too that it would not be a good idea to post a picture of Linda's house on the web.

Perhaps anyone who would wish her harm already knows her house. Just a thought. In any event, where there's a will, there's a way, and I think none of us can trust our safety to anything but God.

Wrong again. Look at your own words. He is "supposed" to have caught her.....Because somebody told somebody else and they told somebody else that he is SUPPOSED to have caught her in the act..that undoubtedly makes it true.

He has never said that he caught her in the act. Today, alone, this forum has been swimming in wrong information.

Posted by: princessdi Feb 7 2007, 04:26 PM

Bystander, let me rephrase that for you:

That means for the reation Danny gave to the situation, and the claims of evidence he claims to have, you would think he caught her in the act.

Now, the next time will you please ask for clarificiation? Nobody ever said, that I know of that he caught her in the act. I was saying his reactions and claims are those of a man who had caught his wife in the act. We know he didn't, we are trying to see what kind of proof he keeps talking about, but it seems to be about as "spirit"ual as that adultery he claimed she was committing.

BlackSDA _ 3ABN _ Asi Responds

Posted by: Observer Jan 24 2007, 01:51 PM

This morning Harold Lance sent out a message stating why ASI withdrew from an attempt to resolve the issues with 3-ABN.

I believe that it contains a number of factul errors. I am publishing Mr. Lance's message, with my comments inserted. My comments will always begin with a "GM:".

January 24, 2007

To those this may concern:

Answering the request of 3ABN's Board of Directors , ASI agreed to explore the possibility of forming a commission "to evaluate and determine Danny's legal and moral right to divorce and to re-marry". ASI's Executive Committee spent a considerable amount of effort from late September 2006 until early 2007 exploring that assignment. ASI's Executive Committee met January 4 to review progress on establishing a commission. After a full discussion the Committee voted unanimously to withdraw from the process they had agreed to consider. A brief announcement was made without stating any of the reasons for our action. We received questions from both sides, ASI members, and several Church leaders. All wanted to know the reasons for our action to withdraw. The committee met again on January 9, 2007 and authorized an explanation. Our decision to withdraw was not based on the merits of the divorce and remarriage issues or any of the other issues we were urged to consider. It was based solely on the barriers we encountered in attempting to reach agreement on a process.

In summary,

Here were the considerations:

1. ASI believed it could develop a process fair to all parties utilizing a panel of ASI members selected for their spirituality, fairness and intelligence. The parties would be involved in the panel selection process.
2. ASI proposed a process assuring a fair due process to all concerned.
3. ASI believed it was essential that we have the active involvement of all parties.

By 12 10 06, Danny and 3ABN accepted the process proposed by ASI.

Here were the barriers:

* Linda did not participate in discussions to develop an agreed process.

GM: Neither Linda nor Danny participated directly in communications with all of us. That does not mean that she did not participate. She did participate through us, in the same sense that Danny participated through others. ASI did not want us contacting Danny directly. From the same standpoint, Linda did not contact ASI directly. The statement that Linda did not participate is speculative, and without fact.

* Linda identified Gailon Arthur Joy as her representative who in turn introduced Bob Pickle and Greg Matthews as team members.

* Linda's team -
- did not accept that ASI was capable of providing a fair forum to decide the issues

GM: This issue was raised. But, it was never discussed. This is where I was personally disappointed in the negotiations with ASI. There were a number if issues that we raised that ASI really never discussed with us. The reality is that in negotiations, each side must be prepared to discuss whatever issues the other side wishes to discuss, as long as they fit within the agreed upon discussion. I was personally willing to accept ASI as providing a fair forum in certain areas of discussion. But, I felt that some discussion was needed on this, and in other areas. As I said, ASI never really responded to our issues. I do not consider the statement by Mr. Lance to be a fair representation of the issue.

- insisted on including issues involving allegations of management and corporate misconduct at 3ABN

GM: One major issue that we faced was an agreement on the focus of the discussion. ASI, and I were in agreement that certain issues were outside of the ability of ASI to resolve. That does not reflect badly on ASI. It was simply a fact of life. Personally, I believed that ASI could only effectively resolve certain marital issues. I proposed that ASI should be willing to issue a public statement that there were certain issues that could only be resolved in the civil realm, and that people who took those issues to the civil authorities should not be criticized for doing so. ASI never made any substantive response to my proposal. I consider that it is not accurate to say that we insisted upon the inclusion of management and corporate misconduct.

- would not accept the ground rules for the panel's procedures

GM: We raised certain questions and objections to the ground rules, while accepting others. In my opinion, our objections were never substantively addressed. I am not impressed that Danny accepted them. The ground rules need to be developed with input from all parties. All in all, I believe that we only had substantial objections to two of the ground rules. Perhaps others will define it differently. But, ASI should have spent some time in discussing those issues. I perception is that they simply gave us a "take it or leave it" type of ultimatum.

- would not cease harassing email contact with Danny or other 3ABN representatives

GM: Please show me where I had any contact with either Danny or 3ABN. I may once have sent an e-mail to Dr. Thompson in which I simply told him that I had prayed for him that morning that the Lord would lead him, and that he would follow. That e-mail was short, and to the point. But, I may have sent it after ASI pulled out. I do not remember.

- would not cease circulating distracting comments about the process under discussion with AS GM: I do not consider that any comments that I made were distraction. I consider them to have been helpful. In any case my comments were positive, and very general.

* We never learned whether Linda approved of the positions asserted by her team. Linda did not respond except to say that Joy would be her representative.

GM: Well, we never heard from Danny either. We communicated with Mr. Lance.

ASI was equally open to whatever conclusion the facts revealed and was disappointed that our efforts did not result in a resolution of the issues we agreed to consider.

GM: I made essentially the same public comment.

If you wish to know more, read on.

The ASI Executive Committee believes that 3ABN is a God inspired and God led instrument for the effective spread of the Three Angels Messages to the world and that it is a blessing to the worldwide Seventh-day Adventist Church.

GM: I have made, publicly, the comment that I do not doubt that God used Danny to establish 3-ABN. However all of that is not important to the current issues that we face.

ASI is a member organization of businesses and ministries that have a priority for the spread of the gospel in their market place. 3ABN was introduced to ASI in the mid 1980's at our convention in Big Sky, Montana. At that time their idea was just a dream. ASI was intrigued by their audacious plan of a lay operated ministry providing a world wide radio and television network with "straight" Seventh-day Adventist programming 24/7. This meeting was the beginning of a mutually beneficial relationship resulting in the growth of both organizations and positive media exposure for hundreds of supporting ministries on 3ABN programming. Both Linda and Danny Shelton were viewed as capable leaders, deserving of respect and involvement with ASI.

Events around the break up of the Shelton's marriage brought much public comment which came to the notice of ASI, the Church at large and the viewers of 3ABN. "The 3ABN board of directors voted unanimously on September 24 (2006) to request ASI to set up a commission to evaluate and determine Danny's legal and moral right to divorce and to re-marry".

As ASI leadership was considering 3ABN's request an email message dated 10 3 06, was received by the ASI President from G. Arthur Joy, saying in part: "...Dr. Thompson has informed me that ASI has agreed to be the appropriate platform upon which to hear allegations regarding 3ABN. While I agree that in theory, ASI is the appropriate platform and clearly has some jurisdiction here, and by voluntary assent would have full jurisdiction to hear the allegations and make appropriate findings, I also recognize there are some clear and serious conflicts that need to be clarified". The memo from Joy included messages from other unknown/unidentified people seriously questioning whether ASI was an appropriate organization to be involved. Joy was unknown to ASI leadership. It was not known what his interest was in the matter. That question was clarified by Linda when she identified Joy as her representative. Joy introduced Bob Pickle and Greg Matthews as also on Linda's team. The three have been included in all correspondence sent to Linda.

GM: Yes, I have been included in the correspondence. Issues of ethics (ethics include conflicts of interest) are important, and must be resolved. The issues that we raised were not substantially addressed. NOTE: I have previously stated that I felt that ASI could play a role.

On October 25 - the ASI Executive Committee took an action authorizing the exploration of becoming involved and asked Harold Lance, past ASI president, to lead out in the process.

October 31 - ASI circulated a document entitled "Procedural Suggestions" (below) to both Linda and Danny Shelton, their representatives, and 3ABN.

BASIC CONCEPTS - We believed there were several basics concepts necessary for the process to succeed:

- That the involvement of Linda, Danny and 3ABN was essential to a successful agreement on a fair process and resolution of the dispute.

- Widespread distracting interchanges on the web sites and forums led us to believe the discussions between ASI and the parties attempting to establish an agreement on the process needed to be conducted with confidentiality.

- Both parties needed to stop direct critical comment with each other.

# #

PROCEDURAL SUGGESTIONS

ASI SUGGESTED THE FOLLOWING PROCEDURE AND PROCESS CONCEPTS:

~ The panel selected to hear and decide the issues should be chosen by ASI in consultation with the parties.

~ Because of the sensitive nature of the issues we believed the proceedings needed to be private, as in "executive session" of a board of directors meeting within the Church or business organizations.

GM: Linda has been so "trashed" that it became very important that there be full public disclosure. This was a major issue. Again, ASI, in my opinion, did not properly respond and discuss this issue with us.

~ Issues for consideration needed careful definition and mutual agreement.

GM: I fully agree. Unfortunately, the discussion did not reach this point.

~ Parties would state in advance of the hearing their position on each issue and their expected outcome of each issue.

GM: So?

~ Each party would in advance of the hearing furnish the identity of their witnesses and their expected information as well as providing copies of any documents to be presented to the panel.

~ All costs connected with the proceedings would be paid by 3ABN.

~ Proceedings would be held at a neutral site as convenient as possible for the parties.

~ Input from both parties would be welcomed to establish the ground rules on the process to be followed.

~ Questioning would be conducted by the panel under the direction of its chairperson, with opportunity for the parties or their representative to suggest questions.

GM: Aspects of this remained unresolved. Again, I do not consider that appropriate discussion took place to resolve this. Rather it seemed more to me to be "take it or leave it."

~ The decision of the panel would be based upon the information presented by the parties at the hearing and not from outside sources.

GM: Fine. Appropriate. But, this then requires that outside sources be considered at the hearing. i.e. "Outside" sources should present at the hearing.

~ The proceedings would not be conducted as a trial, with a judge, lawyers, cross examination and typical court-like processes.

GM: Further clarification was needed on this point.

~ Within 30 days after the conclusion of the proceedings the panel would announce its written findings on the issues, the factual reasons for their findings, and recommendations to the parties, which document would be available to the parties and the interested public.

GM: As I have stated, Linda needed full public disclosure. Further clarification was needed as to what, if anything, would be kept secret.

What happened? Why didn't it succeed?:
There was significant interchange between Linda's team and ASI, and Danny and 3ABN and ASI that lead to two additional documents from ASI to the parties containing details and suggested revisions to the process.

GM: Yes we had contact. I appreciate the work that Mr. Lance put into it

We had no contact with Linda other than a memo to an ASI representative stating that Joy was her representative.

GM: So?

By 12 10 07 Danny and 3ABN had accepted the process as proposed by ASI.

On 12 13 07 we received an email from Joy advising that Linda was preparing a careful thorough response to the process proposals and a list of questions that he and Linda were preparing seeking clarification. They never came.

GM: ?

The interchange with Linda's team centered around:

* Whether the proceeding should be open to the public or private;

* Whether ASI could be neutral and provide a "level playing field";
• Whether the proceedings should be videoed, recorded and broadcast;

GM: Broadcast is a new one on me. Yes, we wanted full public disclosure.

* Whether the issues considered should extend beyond the Shelton's divorce and Danny's remarriage and include for example:

a. That Danny and the 3ABN Board of Directors were guilty of malfeasance;

b. That Danny should be removed as president of 3ABN;

c. That the Board of Directors of 3ABN should be removed;

d. That 3ABN should be restructured to create a constituency based organization though they knew the existing structure is lawful;

e. That any person who has contributed to the support of 3ABN should be a constituent entitled to a voice in the selection of the board of directors and the management of the ministry, referring to donors as "stockholders in the pews";

f. That the 3ABN corporate by-laws needed to be changed to allow censure, discipline and removal of the officers and members of the board of directors (NOTE: In fact they already provide for that possibility)

e. At least 22 other issues were raised in Forum site references by her team urged for inclusion in the ASI process.

GM: All of these are issues, in my mind that ASI could not be expected to resolve. Again, I wanted a public statement from ASI that they could not resolve certain issues, and that people should be free to take the issues that ASI could not resolve to the civil authorities.

Early on Linda was provided telephone and email contact information. She was also sent copies of all communications from ASI to her team. In the two plus months of ASI's attempts to reach agreement on a process she did not respond. We do not know if Linda shares in a belief with Joy, Pickle and Matthews that the agenda should include the matters asserted by her team. She chose not to participate. It was clear that Joy, Pickle and Matthews had interests far beyond the issues ASI agreed to consider.

GM: The statement that I had interests far beyond the issues ASI agreed to consider is confusing, potentially misleading, and unwarranted.

We affirmed to the parties that even though ASI supports the ministry of 3ABN and wishes it to succeed and prosper; that we could be fair and objective in considering the issues related to the Shelton's divorce and Danny's remarriage. We also believed that the panel selected by ASI in consultation with the parties would be people selected with qualities of spirituality, intelligence and fairness. However, we never reached that point. We affirmed to the parties that ASI had no stake in the outcome and were comfortable with what ever conclusions were reached by the panel.

GM: O.K. ASIs affirmation does not mean that such concerns should not be discussed.

After a week or two into the process Danny and 3ABN ceased exchanging messages with the other side. That was helpful. Because ASI declined to consider issues beyond those of divorce and remarriage Art, Bob and Greg believed they were free to continue contacts with Danny, Dr. Thompson and others associated with 3ABN. Though couched in spiritual language their messages were persistent, confrontational, argumentative and harassing. Our efforts to stop their direct communications were unsuccessful.

GM: This statement about me is simply false. NOTE: I may once, and only once, sent Dr. Thompson a statement that I was praying for him. Frankly, I consider this statement to be without foundation in regard to me.

We believe we have no jurisdiction to consider internal issues of 3ABN management and the changing of its corporate structure. Those issues must be left to its' board of directors. We believe our inability to resolve the fundamental issue of the divorce and remarriage is disappointing to many. We felt that without agreement on fundamentals with no likely agreement in sight it was necessary for ASI to withdraw. The parties and those concerned are the losers in what could have been a healing clarification of a divisive issue for all who are concerned.

GM: I agree. Resolution of these issues lie outside of ASI, and potentially with civil authorities.

We confess that if we would have known how to resolve the matter we would have done it, but we don't, but God does. We urge that all who have a concern be respectful, restrained and apply the Golden Rule as you would wish it for yourself.

It should be noted that Linda currently has certain issues in litigation in a civil court. These are ones that ASI clearly does not believe it can resolve. As an attorney, Mr. Lance should realize that Linda cannot directly involve herself in this.

But is this not what you would expect from ASI. Who in the world thought they didn't have a conflict of interest? The fact that Danny was so quick to say he was waiting on their reports, made me know something was wrong with that picture. Isn't he supposed to be at their meeting in Tobego(sP)? Come on people! Remember weapons of mass destruction........?

Also, how could Linda be talking to anybody with the gag order in effect until Dec.? It is my understanding that Linda has not, and could not say a word..............please explain what all this back and forth stuff ASI is claiming? Now, I got Danny's part, that is easy, please show me Linda's?

true Di.... I am sorry, I don't have that much trust in ASI because they were co-opted from the start... I doubt very seriously that they would be able to mediate impartially especially about the marriage thing.... they are a joke and it obvious....

I tell you she should have signed nothing, told all, and been embraced by her brothers and sisters of the darker hue cause her own folks simply let her get torn to pieces by Mr. Shelton....

ASI is not the church any more than 3ABN is the church... so the church, as it were, remains silent... to it's shame.

Will YOU be moving on as well? somehow I don't think so...

It occurs to me that the biblical grounds for divorce and remarriage are what matters, regardless of the position taken (or lack thereof) by ASI. ASI's committee was an exercise in futility...that's just my caribbean opinion...As long as spiritual adultery is not mentioned in the Bible, it matters not to me any position of 3ABN, ASI, or any other acronym of your choosing. As we say here in the Caribbean "Wrong is Wrong."

Yes indeed. The "church" has spoken... essentially washing their hands of the matter. So don't ANYBODY complain about the next steps.... 1) putting everything out for the public eye to see, and 2) utilizing the courts of the land to bring "freedom and justice for all".

Why anyone ever thought... 1) that ASI could possibly be impartial in any matters regarding 3ABN, 2) that it needed anyone to sit down and figure out that the accusations against Linda had no basis in fact, and the harassment of her since the divorce is abominable, AND 3) that Danny ... and others of his household... should be under censure from the church, is more than I can comprehend!

My thoughts exactly...having ASI "investigate" the 3ABN soap opera is like having Dick Cheney be the lead investigator into the Iraq war debacle. It's all a farce...an excuse for them to say, "Hey, we tried. Linda didn't want to play fair, so we had to quit."

ASI letter of explanation for withdrawing...

> QUOTE
>
> January 24, 2007
> To those this may concern:
> Answering the request of 3ABN's Board of Directors , ASI agreed to explore the possibility of forming a commission "to evaluate and determine Danny's legal and moral right to divorce and to re-marry". ASI's Executive Committee spent a considerable amount of effort from late September 2006 until early 2007 exploring that assignment. ASI's Executive Committee met January 4 to review progress on establishing a commission. After a full discussion the Committee voted unanimously to withdraw from the process they had agreed to consider. A brief announcement was made without stating any of the reasons for our action. We received questions from both sides, ASI members, and several Church leaders. All wanted to know the reasons for our action to withdraw. The committee met again on January 9, 2007 and authorized an explanation. Our decision to withdraw was not based on the merits of the divorce and remarriage issues or any of the other issues we were urged to consider. It was based solely on the barriers we encountered in attempting to reach agreement on a process.
> In summary,

Here were the considerations:

1. ASI believed it could develop a process fair to all parties utilizing a panel of ASI members selected for their spirituality, fairness and intelligence. The parties would be involved in the panel selection process.
2. ASI proposed a process assuring a fair due process to all concerned.
3. ASI believed it was essential that we have the active involvement of all parties.

By 12 10 06, Danny and 3ABN accepted the process proposed by ASI.

Here were the barriers:

- Linda did not participate in discussions to develop an agreed process
- Linda identified Gailon Arthur Joy as her representative who in turn introduced Bob Pickle and Greg Matthews as team members
- Linda's team --

  - did not accept that ASI was capable of providing a fair forum to decide the issues

  -insisted on including issues involving allegations of management and corporate misconduct at 3ABN

  -would not accept the ground rules for the panel's procedures

  -would not cease harassing email contact with Danny or other 3ABN representatives

  -would not cease circulating distracting comments about the process under discussion with ASI

* We never learned whether Linda approved of the positions asserted by her team. Linda did not respond except to say that Joy would be her representative.

ASI was equally open to whatever conclusion the facts revealed and was disappointed that our efforts did not result in a resolution of the issues we agreed to consider.

If you wish to know more, read on.

The ASI Executive Committee believes that 3ABN is a God inspired and God led instrument for the effective spread of the Three Angels Messages to the world and that it is a blessing to the worldwide Seventh-day Adventist Church.

ASI is a member organization of businesses and ministries that have a priority for the spread of the gospel in their market place. 3ABN was introduced to ASI in the mid 1980's at our convention in Big Sky, Montana. At that time their idea was just a dream. ASI was intrigued by their audacious plan of a lay operated ministry providing a world wide radio and television network with "straight" Seventh-day Adventist programming 24/7. This meeting was the beginning of a mutually beneficial relationship resulting in the growth of both organizations and positive media exposure for hundreds of supporting ministries on 3ABN programming. Both Linda and Danny Shelton were viewed as capable leaders, deserving of respect and involvement with ASI.

Events around the break up of the Shelton's marriage brought much public comment which came to the notice of ASI, the Church at large and the viewers of 3ABN. "The 3ABN board of directors voted unanimously on September 24 (2006) to request ASI to set up a commission to evaluate and determine Danny's legal and moral right to divorce and to re-marry".

As ASI leadership was considering 3ABN's request an email message dated 10 3 06, was received by the ASI President from G. Arthur Joy, saying in part: "...Dr. Thompson has informed me that ASI has agreed to be the appropriate platform upon which to hear allegations regarding 3ABN. While I agree that in theory, ASI is the appropriate platform and clearly has some jurisdiction here, and by voluntary assent would have full jurisdiction to hear the allegations and make appropriate findings, I also recognize there are some clear and serious conflicts that need to be clarified". The memo from Joy included messages from other unknown/unidentified people seriously questioning whether ASI was an appropriate organization to be involved. Joy was unknown to ASI leadership. It was not known what his interest was in the matter. That question was clarified by Linda when she identified Joy as her representative. Joy introduced Bob Pickle and Greg Matthews as also on Linda's team. The three have been included in all correspondence sent to Linda.

On October 25 - the ASI Executive Committee took an action authorizing the exploration of becoming involved and asked Harold Lance, past ASI president, to lead out in the process.

October 31 - ASI circulated a document entitled "Procedural Suggestions" (below) to both Linda and Danny Shelton, their representatives, and 3ABN.

BASIC CONCEPTS - We believed there were several basics concepts necessary for the process to succeed:

- That the involvement of Linda, Danny and 3ABN was essential to a successful agreement on a fair process and resolution of the dispute.

- Widespread distracting interchanges on the web sites and forums led us to believe the discussions between ASI and the parties attempting to establish an agreement on the process needed to be conducted with confidentiality.

- Both parties needed to stop direct critical comment with each other.

# #

PROCEDURAL SUGGESTIONS

ASI SUGGESTED THE FOLLOWING PROCEDURE AND PROCESS CONCEPTS:

~ The panel selected to hear and decide the issues should be chosen by ASI in consultation with the parties.

~ Because of the sensitive nature of the issues we believed the proceedings needed to be private, as in "executive session" of a board of directors meeting within the Church or business organizations.

~ Issues for consideration needed careful definition and mutual agreement.

~ Parties would state in advance of the hearing their position on each issue and their expected outcome of each issue.

~ Each party would in advance of the hearing furnish the identity of their witnesses and their expected information as well as providing copies of any documents to be presented to the panel.

~ All costs connected with the proceedings would be paid by 3ABN.

~ Proceedings would be held at a neutral site as convenient as possible for the parties.

~ Input from both parties would be welcomed to establish the ground rules on the process to be followed.

~ Questioning would be conducted by the panel under the direction of its chairperson, with opportunity for the parties or their representative to suggest questions.

~ The decision of the panel would be based upon the information presented by the parties at the hearing and not from outside sources.

~ The proceedings would not be conducted as a trial, with a judge, lawyers, cross examination and typical court-like processes.

~ Within 30 days after the conclusion of the proceedings the panel would announce its written findings on the issues, the factual reasons for their findings, and recommendations to the parties, which document would be available to the parties and the interested public.

What happened? Why didn't it succeed?:

There was significant interchange between Linda's team and ASI, and Danny and 3ABN and ASI that lead to two additional documents from ASI to the parties containing details and suggested revisions to the process.

We had no contact with Linda other than a memo to an ASI representative stating that Joy was her representative.

By 12 10 07 Danny and 3ABN had accepted the process as proposed by ASI.

On 12 13 07 we received an email from Joy advising that Linda was preparing a careful thorough response to the process proposals and a list of questions that he and Linda were preparing seeking clarification. They never came.

The interchange with Linda's team centered around:

* Whether the proceeding should be open to the public or private;

* Whether ASI could be neutral and provide a "level playing field";

* Whether the proceedings should be videoed, recorded and broadcast;

* Whether the issues considered should extend beyond the Shelton's divorce and Danny's remarriage and include for example:

- a. That Danny and the 3ABN Board of Directors were guilty of malfeasance;
- b. That Danny should be removed as president of 3ABN;
- c. That the Board of Directors of 3ABN should be removed;
- d. That 3ABN should be restructured to create a constituency based organization though they knew the existing structure is lawful;
- e. That any person who has contributed to the support of 3ABN should be a constituent entitled to a voice in the selection of the board of directors and the management of the ministry, referring to donors as "stockholders in the pews";
- f. That the 3ABN corporate by-laws needed to be changed to allow censure, discipline and removal of the officers and members of the board of directors (NOTE: In fact they already provide for that possibility)
- g. At least 22 other issues were raised in Forum site references by her team urged for inclusion in the ASI process.

Early on Linda was provided telephone and email contact information. She was also sent copies of all communications from ASI to her team. In the two plus months of ASI's attempts to reach agreement on a process she did not respond. We do not know if Linda shares in a belief with Joy, Pickle and Matthews that the agenda should include the matters asserted by her team. She chose not to participate. It was clear that Joy, Pickle and Matthews had interests far beyond the issues ASI agreed to consider.

We affirmed to the parties that even though ASI supports the ministry of 3ABN and wishes it to succeed and prosper; that we could be fair and objective in considering the issues related to the Shelton's divorce and Danny's remarriage. We also believed that the panel selected by ASI in consultation with the parties would be people selected with qualities of spirituality, intelligence and fairness. However, we never reached that point. We affirmed to the parties that ASI had no stake in the outcome and were comfortable with what ever conclusions were reached by the panel.

After a week or two into the process Danny and 3ABN ceased exchanging messages with the other side. That was helpful. Because ASI declined to consider issues beyond those of divorce and remarriage Art, Bob and Greg believed they were free to continue contacts with Danny, Dr. Thompson and others associated with 3ABN. Though couched in spiritual language their messages were persistent, confrontational, argumentative and harassing. Our efforts to stop their direct communications were unsuccessful.

We believe we have no jurisdiction to consider internal issues of 3ABN management and the changing of its corporate structure. Those issues must be left to its' board of directors. We believe our inability to resolve the fundamental issue of the divorce and remarriage is disappointing to many. We felt that without agreement on fundamentals with no likely agreement in sight it was necessary for ASI to withdraw. The parties and those concerned are the losers in what could have been a healing clarification of a divisive issue for all who are concerned.

We confess that if we would have known how to resolve the matter we would have done it, but we don't, but God does. We urge that all who have a concern be respectful, restrained and apply the Golden Rule as you would wish it for yourself.

Cudos Linda, I give credit where credit is due. You are crazy like a fox. The plan that you set up here is absolutely brilliant. Here is the scenerio: You know that 3ABN has solid evidence against you that gives reason for the divorce and your dismissal. So.. How could you make it appear that you welcomed an ASI investigation into the divorce when in reality, you had much to fear? Simple. Choose someone as your representative that has no credentials, no real insight on this subject (except what you have told him) and appears to have "the I am Somebody" syndrome so, would therefore, welcome, his 10 minutes of fame. Aka ....Gailon Joy. Could you have known in advance that he was convicted of embezzlement while representing himself? That he claims only to have taken money that belonged to him which one would think, would be fairly easy to prove if one was competent at all. Not only could he not prove it the first time, he could not prove it through several appeals. So, Linda, all you had to do was convince him that you were "victimized" and needed his help to "clear" yourself. Now readers, stay with me here, it is complicated. Gailon was chosen, (as well as Pickle I would assume) because of his lack of knowledge and credentials. Why? Because Linda knew that Gailon would bumble and fumble his way through the ASI intervention with unrealistic rules, requests and wanting to bring in many other topics that were never to be considered by ASI. Having done this, ASI had no choice but to withdraw before any "evidence" could be brought forth for their consideration. Bottom line...Linda looks like she wanted ASI's involvement when in fact, it appears she set about the make sure they wouldn't be involved. Great strategy? Absolutely. Only one problem. What excuses can the people on this forum come up with for ASI's findings? So far, everyone that has defended 3ABN and it's leadership has been (according to this forum) Scared, threatened, intimidated, paid off, ect ect....Will the same apply to such a highly respected organization as ASI? Or are you going to accuse ASI of being corrupt like you have 3ABN leadership and the whole board? I think not. We know that ASI is comprised of many accomplished business men and women with the highest integrity. The McNeilus Family & Harold Lance just to name a few. I hardly think that the McNeilus family needs to take a "payoff" from 3ABN or that they would be "intimidated" by the leadership there. That is laughable. People, there are no more excuses, only the facts. ASI had no ulterior motives to make the statement that they did, other than, it is the truth. They are not partial or biased in any way to one side or the other. They have no reason to be. Their findings are based on fact. But...whether Linda set out purposely to derail the investigation or, whether she just got lucky in choosing Gailon, I guess we will never know for sure....

And for starters, consider this:

ASI donated $100,000 dollars to 3ABN in 2006, alone.

That donation puts ASI beyond any possibility of being truly impartial or unbiased. They had already voted with their pocketbook!

Since when do judges donate $100,000 to one of the parties before the bench? That just doesn't happen, but it happened here: It happened with ASI.

Therefore, I hope this outcome did not surprise anybody. ASI was a highly inappropriate forum from the beginning, due to their close financial and business ties to one of the parties.

Right on!

If all ASI was willing to discuss was the divorce & remarriage, why all the fuss? It's pretty clear that Dan had no biblical grounds for remarriage, but he married anyhow. And there's no undoing it. So...?

It seems to me that this was slated to be a cover-up for Dan from the very start.

Is it not true that the McNeilus family has invested rather heavily in 3ABN and is still investing in 3ABN -- perhaps in amounts exceeding the ASI grant?

How then, can you cite the McNeilus family as a demonstration of the objectivity of ASI?

And, by the way, Bystander, it is very evident that you are standing by very close to Dan Shelton.

It hasn't.... except let me say this.... when Linda was put out, I am surprised that folks with means, and/or connections did not come to her aid, assist her with employment so that she would not have to sign a gag order under duress.... It became a color issue when the white church she was attended didn't allow her to participate in its ministry so she ended up attending a black church and fit right in....

3ABN has hard evidence? Bring it! It will be posted and weighed along with the rest.....until then let it go! There is no evidence for spritiual adultery(because it doesn't exist), and if she commited actual adultery the evidence should have been out long ago. And one more time, with feeling, if 3ABN had hard evidence they would never have had to ensure Linda's silence.

Frankly, I don't think either "side" can claim to be innocent. Joy has something going on with embezzlement, and Tommy molest boys and young men.....by his own admission. So that kind of mudslinging can be let go. The whole lot of you cannot stand the most cursory investigation. IWO, ALL have sinned and come short, ok? For the record, Joy past embezzlement definitely pales in my eyes to Tommy's past of molestation, and still being allowed to work with children in any compacity at 3ABN. He is supposed to be registered and watched, monitored, somethin'. That is just criminal.

ASI has at least $100,000.00 worth of unterior motive. Plus continued association with 3ABN. Is DAnny not going to be at their annual meeting, I ask again? They had no business even attempting to investigate anything. The investgation was a sham, and if Linda was msart enough to see that, along with others, then good for her! I wouldn't have talked to them either. Not everybody is easily led. I never thought the should do it. They are already biased.

And one more time, I am amazed at the folks who keep coming here trying to act like they are joe Blow from Dust Bowl, MidWest, who just happened upon this site with people saying horrible things about Danny. They never met him but he jes blesses they po' soul..........Then they just burst with all kinds of information!

This team stays, we have home court advantage.........Next!

Hey Clay I have no problem acknowledging the fact that a black church took here in when a white one turned against here. However I think many white churches would have done the same as that black church. (Of course why is there even black and white churches?)

My hats off to the church that showed compassion for her and was willing to see her side of the story. To tell the truth I accepted as truth what Danny was saying about her however this idea of spiritual adultery caused me some concern and then the final nail was pounded in when he remarried.

I am talking also about the fact that I am sure that someone somewhere within the network of sister churches someone should have been able to employ her so she would not be at Danny's mercy.... Linda's situation may even be a representation of what women in this church have to face if their husbands put them out, or divorce them without cause....

Re: "Because ASI declined to consider issues beyond those of divorce and remarriage Art, Bob and Greg believed they were free to continue contacts with Danny, Dr. Thompson and others associated with 3ABN. Though couched in spiritual language their messages were persistent, confrontational, argumentative and harassing. Our efforts to stop their direct communications were unsuccessful."

I have made a acomment as the above pertained to me. Now, let us consider it as it pertained to Bob Pickle.

According to Bob:

Danny initiated an email exchange with hom on November 23.He did not initiate that email exchange with him. That exchange resulted in a contact with 3ABN board chairman Walt Thompson, who on November 27 requested that Bob verify the information about the Tommy Shelton child molestation allegations that he had given Bob.

The only possible way that Walt gave Pickle to do that was to ask Danny about those very allegations, since Danny was the only source for the information that Walt had named.
To this day Walt has never informed Bob that Harold's request countermanded his request.

Perhaps Harold Lance did not have all of the facts when he made his comment regarding Bob and I.
Well, that is probably just an inattention to detail, which can happen to all of us.

As many of you know, I spent 18 years of my life as a U. S. Army chaplain. During those years, I had to negotiate the religious rights of many soldiers (to include SDA) who faced problems due to military requirements. In that process, I learned much:

1) To negotiate well, I had to talk to the"enemy."
2) I had to treat the enemy respectfully.
3) I learned to attempt to identify the core issues on each side. e.g. The commander needed someone to perform certain duties on Saturday. The soldier needed Saturday off. If I could find a solution for each, I could find resolution on the other issues, and solve the problem. e.g. The solder would be willing to work two (yes two) Sundays in return for Saturday off. NOTE: duties were not the same on Saturday and Sunday, and that was fair.
4) The central issue was that I had to talk to the enemy.

Unfortunately, I did not see the process with ASI taking place in that manner. In my perception of what happened, ASI pulled out before it ever sat down and discussed certain of our core issues. I am personally disappointed that such happened.

What could have happened? I think that I suggested what could have been a basis for us and ASI to agree on some limited objectives. I clearly do not think that we could have agreed on all. I agree with ASI that some issues simply could not have been fairly resolved by us to either Danny, 3-ABN, or Linda. But, I do believe that something could have been accomplished. I would have liked for the discussion to have continued so that we could have determined if something could have been accomplished.

Unfortunately, ASI pulled out as I believe prematurely. So, Harold, I have a slightly different perspective on all of this.

By the way, Harald's message, going to a group of people, I will suggest allows us to now release, as we believe to be appropriate, more information (documentation) as to what actually happened in the process.

I read Pickles letters to Danny. They were harassment at its worst. Both Dr. Thompson and Danny let him know they could no longer communicate with Bob Pickle and yet Pickle just kept hounding them with emails. Read it for yourself....

This is the strangest statement imaginable. If 3ABN has solid evidence against Linda that gives reason for the divorce and her dismissal, why have they never shown such evidence? Three years later we are still without it.

If you don't find his letters here on BSDA they are on MSDAOL. All Bob did was asking questions why there were discrepancies in their former letters.

You must have "missed" it in your "thorough" perusal of the 3ABN threads.

Harold:

I remain dumbfounded by the above. NOTE: I have stated that I sent Dr. Thompson a message once in which I stated that I had prayed for him that morning that God would lead him, and that he would follow. I have st at ed that I do not remember the exact time I sent him that message, but that it might have been during the time that we were asked not to make direct contact.

Prior to the beginning of our discussions with ASI, we got into discussions with a Woman who I think was named Gloria. Perhaps my memory is faulty, and she had another name. Anyway, she attempted to propose a venue to resolve the issues. Her proposal was deeply committed to all parties spending time in prayer together. In fact, she made it a requirement that certain parties pray together, with rare exceptions for people who might not have been Christian.

ASI entered the picture after Gloria dropped out. She had claimed to have been in contact with ASI, as I recall. In our discussions with you, I perceived an element in your plan for the respective parties to pray together. My one comment to Dr. Thompson was in that spirit.

As I reflect your statement, which I regard as misleading, confusing, and false by implication about me, I am now questioning whether we could have prayed together. My one comment, to Dr. T., was sincere. Evidently you did not see it that way. So, why would I think that you sincerely would have been able to pray with us?

The Lord tells us to pray for our enemies. That seems to apply as you seem to see us as enemies. Would you have been able to pray with us? I am wondering!

Re: ". . . their messages were persistent,. . . "

That is false as it is applied to me. My message was once.

Re: ". . . their messages were . . . confrontational,. . . "

Your statement is false as it is applied to me.

Re: " . . . their messages . . . argumentative and harassing."

Your statement is false as it is applied to me.

O. K. In this small citation you have made three statements that are false as applied to me. Of course, I do not know about the others. But, if your statement about me was based in faulty information, why should I (or anyone else) assume that it was any more accurate as applied to the others?

Harold, I am not challenging your integrity. I am simply challenging your factual basis. You seem to have made some statements that were not based upon fact. I am surprised that an attorney would do such. It calls into question your understanding of the process. It calls into question your ability to have facilitated such. Faulty information, where did it come from. Clearly not from anything that I did, as you have applied it to me.

Harold, it appears that ASI pulled our from the process, based in part upon information that you seemingly received from another source. That appears to give justification to those who have questioned the ability of ASI to be fair and impartial.

Well, at least I thank you for you openness for sharing with us more of the dynamics that went on.

By the way, can you assure us with 100 per-cent surety that during this process people from 3-ABN did not come to these Internet forums, under pen names, and post material of the type that you claim we sent and put on the Internet?

Greg, you, Bob Pickle and Gailon Joy were a team. You win or lose as a team. A player is not justified in saying I didn't lose, I am not part of the team and accountable, I didn't make those fouls or errors!

In this case it looks like you lost because you didn't want to play by the rules, but wanted to make your own. Nor did you want to just address Linda's and Danny's divorce and yet what are all the accusations and public exposure of Linda, that started all this about? What has everyone been so consistantly outraged about? The issue of Linda's adultery!!! And the public knowledge of that!

It seems to me if you had really been interested in that, you could have done so. It seems to me if Linda had really wanted to clear herself and could prove herself innocent, and Danny the liar and adulterer instead, then she had the perfect opportunity to do so, and instead she said nothing?

Have you considered that you may have been played? For it very much looks like she is the puppetmaster, and instigator behind all of the accusations against 3ABN, and yet she alone doesn't fall with those here, or you Bob and Gailon. She says nothing publically and so doesn't have to be accountable for what's said. And as long as you all continue to speak for her, protect her, and accuse others for her?

She'll never have to in this life...

I think you are not doing her any favors.

Re: "* Linda's team - - did not accept that ASI was capable of providing a fair forum to decide the issues."

Let us look at this a little more:

I recieved my graduate training in counseling psychology from a graduate school connected to a religious denomination, but it was not SDA. Their course work required training is ethics. Part of that was specific class instruction. In addition, in our clinical work we were challenged to consider the ethical implications of what we did. The instructor who taught the fundamental class in ethics was a Phd. who specialized in working with psychologists who had committed ethical laspes of judgement and behaviour. I believe that I was trained well.

Two of the fundamental ethical issues that are commonly proplems for people relate to either conflict of interest, or dual role/relationships. Of course there are many other issues. But, in my mind these are two of the more common ones that result in problems.

I assume that Harold Lance has had training equal to mine. As such, he should be clearly aware that when one raises an ethical question, it must be considered. Consideration does not imply what the decision will be. But, it must be considered. The ethical questions raised in regard to ASI were clearly of the confllict of interest and dual role/relationsip nature. It is not appropriate when such are raised to simplly affirm that there is no problem. They must be discussed, and the respective parties must agree on the answer to the question.

Unfortunately, it appars to me that there are some who simply expect us to accept ASIs affirmation that there was no problem, and then expected us to accept that without any further in-depth discussion. That was ethically inappropriate.

I will point out that I personally have stated that I beleive that it might have been possilbe for ASI to have played a limited role in resolving this mess. But, they pulled out and chose not to fill that role. In any case, regardless of my belief that they could have played a limited role, the ethical issues raised should have been discussed in detail with full disclosure of the relationships to all parties.

NOTE: There is another ethical issue that is important here. When one is accused, either privately or publicly, of misconduct, confidentiality goes out the window, so to speak. One can not make an accusation, and then claim confidentiality for material that the accused needs to defend. Harold has, in my opinion, made charges of misconduct against GAJ, Bob Pickle, and myself that we are entitled to defend against. By doing so, I believe that we are released from all constraints of confidentiality in regard to what went on. I believe that GAJ, Bob Pickle, and myself may properly defend ourselves with material that might otherwise have been considered confidential.

As a professional, as an attorney, I assume that Harold Lance knew such when he sent his version of events, that contained false comments about me, to a group of people.

NOTE: I have stated that Harold has made false comments about me. I do not challenge his honesty in any way. Rather I believe that he posted false information that came from others. e.g. His comments regarding messages that I am implied to have sent to others.

Re: "In this case it looks like you lost because you didn't want to play by the rules, but wanted to make your own. Nor did you want to just address Linda's and Danny's divorce . . . "

Alethia, you were not directly part of this discussion. Your statement misrepresents the reality.

1) Harold Lance came to us from quite a formal background. He came as a representative of ASI. He came from formal votes of the ASI Board. Her formally spoke for ASI. Alethia, if I am wrong in this please correct me. But, Harold represented ASI, not himself, not anyone else.

2) None of the three of us came from that background. We simply came to the table as three independent people who advised Linda. Yes we worked together. But, we also advised Linda independently.

3) I proposed to Harold, and the others (GAJ & Bob Pickle), in a joint communication, that ASI could properly fill a role that was limited to the marital issues. In my proposal, I stated that I agreed with Harold that there were other issues that needed to be resolved, but that ASI could not fill that role. In my proposal, I asked that ASI issue a statement that such issues existed, and that as these could not be resolved by ASI, but only in the civil realm, no one who took such issues to the civil authorities should be criticized for doing so. I also went on to say that one aspect of this was that ASI could not resolve such issues in a manner that was fair to either Danny, 3-ABN, or Linda. That was one of the reasons why ASI should not be involved in such. I made comments in regard to this more than once.

At no time did either Bob Pickle or GAJ reject my proposal. All of us waited for a response from Harold as to whether or not ASI would agree to making such a public statement. That response never came, as I recall it.

Alethia, you are simply wrong. But you were not directly part of the discussion. I was. I do not challenge your honesty, just your knowledge and facts.

Re: "ASI HAS GIVEN HUNDREDS OF THOUSANDS OF DOLLARS TO ALL KINDS OF MINISTRIES THROUGH THE YEARS, THAT DOES NOT MEAN THAT THEY COULD NOT HOLD A FAIR HEARING INVOLVING ANY OF THOSE MINISTRIES."

Bystander:

Perhaps ASI could have been fair? Perhaps they could not have been? In any case it was appropriate to address it, and in the context of a full disclosure of the relationship.

I sit on a hospital ethics committee. We deal with ethical issues brought to us by physicians, other staff, families, and patients. When we make a recommendation, that recommendation is followed.

Let me give you a real case:

A physician requested that our ethics committee and a hospital administrative board give him permission to be the holder of a power of attorney over a patient. He gave us reasons why that would be in the best intersts of the patient, and stated that he would never provide midical care to that patient.

Our ethics committee agreed with the hospital adminstrative board. We told the doctor that if he became the holder of a power of atorney over the patient, he must resign his position as a physician in our hospital.

Bystander, you simply do not understand etics. Sometimes the children of the world set the example for the children of God.

Regardless of the decision, it wsa appropriate to raise the question of whether or not ASI could be fair.

Re: "In this case it looks like you lost because you didn't want to play by the rules, but wanted to make your own."

Alethia:

In this context, rules cannot be imposed upon anyone. They cannot be imposed upon ASI. They can not be imposed upon us. They can only be discussed and agreed upon.

Unfortunately my iimpression was that it was a take it or leave it proposition, and ASI pulled out because they did not want to develop a set of mutually agreed upon rules.

Does it take the great prophet of 3ABN, the man exalted by John Lomacang, Shelley Quinn and Mollie Steenson? Whom they have compared to the great prophets of the Bible, including Moses? Now that is a joke! Having worked with Dan Shelton, in my personal opinion, his behavior is akin to a hick, red-necked, Southern conartist who steals the nickles and dimes from old ladies on fixed incomes, while using God as his frontman.

Harold Lance has distributed a message that makes certain claims about me, and my participation in the process with ASI. I am posting here a response that I made to Mr. Lance on December 3, 2006. This was early on in the process. My thoughts were still developing. With the passage of time, I became more clear in my mind as to what needed to be done. Here is my early response to Mr. Lance:

"Response to ASI

HL 061203

Introduction:

Overall I was encouraged by the outreach that Harold Lance has made to us. It is a good start. It reflects a good tone (spirit). In many ways it reflects where I am. Of course, I am going to think a document is good when it agrees with me. J

It seems to agree with my assessment of what must be accomplished if ASI can establish a panel that can achieve some degree of resolution. If he has read what I have previously posted on the Internet, he knows that I have stated that the following are the critical issues that the respective parties must agree upon if this panel is to be effective:

1) They must agree upon the issues to be considered.

2) They must agree upon the aim of the panel, or to put it another way, what the expected results are.

3) They must agree upon the process.

NOTE: In my previous public posts, I have expanded upon the above slightly.

In my understanding of what Harold has written, he also sees the above as critical issues.

I have reflected upon his document overnight. Without detracting from what I consider to be an excellent document, I will suggest that it contains a number of issues that need further clarification, and agreement by the parties. It is my intention in my response to identify those and to comment upon them. Any references that I may make to "critical issues," unless otherwise identified, will reference the three listed above. To identify my point for discussion, I will quote from Harold's document with a "Re:" followed by either the quotation, or a brief summary of a point in his document.

Discussion:

a) Re: ". . . request to ASI [by 3-ABN] that it establish a commission to evaluate and determine Danny's' [sic] legal and moral right to remarry."

This falls under my critical issue # 1.

This request seems to limit the issues that are to be considered by this commission. Perhaps that is O.K., if the respective parties agree to this. In my mind, the marital issues, which have some importance, are much less important than other issues. Again, what do the respective parties want, and agree to?

A larger issue is that this wording restricts the marital issues to Danny and Linda, their divorce, and Danny's remarriage. I will suggest that the marital issues are much larger than this focus. Danny has been charged, rightly or wrongly, I do not know, with sexual misconduct, during the time that he was married to Linda, and following the divorce, prior to his marriage to Brandi. These issues are clearly marital issues, yet they lie outside of the narrow focus as requested by 3-ABN.

I acknowledge that this commission cannot be expected to consider every one of the issues that are considered important by everyone. But, I think it is important that this commission issue a statement of such limitations, and that therefore interested parties are free to pursue redress in other venues, to include the civil authorities. After all, God established civil government, and directed all of us to submit to its rule, when not in conflict with God. This all is related to my critical issue # 2.

Re: "ASI has no jurisdiction. . . [and is without} authority to make orders and awards that disputants are required to follow."

I agree wholeheartedly with the above. ASI is very limited in what it can accomplish. To place what Harold then states in words of my own: ASI can only make findings of fact, and recommendations. Again, this is related to my critical issue # 2. With this perspective, ASI cannot require binding resolution. There must be an acknowledgement that the parties are free to reject, and to see other venues for resolution. If any of the parties should do so, the findings of fact, and recommendations of the Commission would play a role as to how the SDA public perceived this situation. From this perspective, I believe that the parties would carefully consider such findings and recommendations, before rejecting them. I believe that this would be helpful.

c) Re: The Biblical appropriateness of the divorce and the remarriage.

We are on uncertain ground with this one, as important as it is. Regardless of the CHURCH MANUAL, we as a denomination do not agree with what constitutes Biblical grounds, and remarriage following divorce. In my personal opinion, as applied to this situation Biblical grounds must be limited to sexual misconduct, and what is commonly considered to be adultery. This presents us with a problem. Danny and 3-ABN (Dr. Thompson) have clearly stated, many times, that they have no proof that Linda violated what I have just laid out above. From this standpoint, by the thinking of some, with this admission from Danny and 3-ABN, the Commission can only find that Linda did not provide Danny with Biblical grounds for divorce. I agree with that position, until it is proven to me that she did commit adultery.

NOTE: In my mind, and that of many conservative SDAs so-called "spiritual adultery" and adultery in one's thoughts are not Biblical grounds. ASI will clearly, in my mind be off the conservative platform if it suggests any such do constitute Biblical grounds. Any such opinion coming from it will highly disturb its conservative base of support.

[NOTE: I have removed six lines of text as it was quite personal in regard to an issue with one individual. I do not believe that these six lines need to be published to the world at large at this point in time. If I later change my mind, I will publish them--GM.]

There is also another issue here that is raised due to the fact that the SDA church is divided in regard to what are Biblical grounds for divorce and remarriage. It is a fundamental issue under law that people be treated equally. It is likely that people are not treated equally in this issue, and are treated according to the congregation in which they find themselves. The ASI Committee should consider not only Biblical grounds, the CHRUCH MANUAL, but also the typical way that people are treated today in SDA congregations. I.e. They should not treat either Danny or Linda more strictly than they would be treated in the typical local congregation. This is required by basic fairness.

Retention in a position of spiritual leadership is an appropriate consideration. I.e. A person might be retained in church membership, yet removed from a position of major ministry. When such is done, there is an obligation to treat all in the same manner. E.g. If Linda is to be examined as to her conduct, and whether or not she should be retained in a position of spiritual leadership, so also should Danny be examined. And, her treatment should also be examined in relation to other people who may also have been charged with sexual misconduct.

d) Re: Issues of Danny and Linda's employment:

ASI can only recommend. It cannot enforce. ASI potentially could recommend that Danny be relieved from all employment at 3-ABN, if this was thought to be appropriate. However, it is a stretch of the imagination to believe that such would happen if ASI were to recommend it.

As to Linda: Realistically, she could not effectively return to 3-ABN unless there was a major change in leadership to include the Board. She simply would not be allowed to effectively work there, and would likely be marginalized.

e) Re: Issues regarding Linda's membership:

Linda is presently a member, in good standing, in a SDA Church recognized by a recognized SDA Conference. Her membership should not be an issue.

Should ASI consider how she was treated by her church of former membership? Perhaps? Maybe? I am not certain? What would be accomplished? Within the denominational rules that are supposed to govern such, local congregations have the authority, right or wrong. Perhaps the best that could be said might be so say that the relationship between Linda, the local congregation, the Conference and its leadership, and 3-ABN, was of such a nature that denominational rules in existence did not provide the guidance that was needed, and that therefore issues of potential ethical conflicts arise out of this situation.

NOTE: I am not attempting to prejudge the case, or to suggest that there is only one conclusion that the Committed may make. I think that there are many aspect of this case that present very hard questions and I am not certain that ASI can resolve them. Perhaps, however, they can raise issues that may be resolved for future situations should they rise again.

f) Re: Fundamentals as outlined by Mr. Lance:

He has listed a number which are of value.

g) Re: Selection of the Panel, # 10:

More is involved than just selecting people who are fair, intelligent, spiritual, and without preconceived opinion. I will suggest that the panel should have members who may have expertise in some areas. E.g. [NOTE: I have removed three lines her for the reasons stated above-GM.]

If the ethical standards of Dr. A. come into question, the panel should have someone on it who can discuss the professional ethical standards for a person in Dr. A's position in Norway, where he lives. There may be some common ethical standards that are present everywhere. But, ethical standards are often determined in part by local law and culture. I.e. If it is unethical for a physician in the US to give a specific gift to a patient, one cannot say that such would be unethical in Norway.

h) Re: Items A - F, on page 3, in regard to legal practices that Mr. Lance does not think apply.

I think a so-called "judge," or someone who can direct the panel, might be helpful under some situations, if carefully chosen.

I also believe that there may be situations where it might be helpful to take depositions, such as dealing with women who have charged someone with sexual misconduct.

The issue of a record is important. There must be enough detail to provide a historical record for the future.

'i) Re: Balance between privacy and openness.

There is a clear place for privacy. Women who accuse someone of sexual misconduct must have some expectation of privacy. Society in general recognizes such.

However, society distinguishes between common people and public figures. Danny and Linda are both public figures. Both have been accused publicly of major sins. Neither rightly has the expectation of privacy that a common person might have. In any case, with the publication of their alleged sins for the world to read, privacy in not the answer at this time. In fairness to both of them, a final report should report findings on the accusations that have been made against them. As public figures, the SDA public needs to know such findings. If this is not done, these issues will not go away. They will remain in public view and under public discussion.

j) One final note, although not brought up in this document by Mr. Lance: ASI must accept the decision of the respective parties as to who represents that party before ASI. ASI cannot automatically exclude anyone."

January 25, 2007: Folks, the above was an early response to Mr. Lance. Note my three listed critical issues. Without agreement on those, the attempt by ASI would fail. I do not beleive that ASI discussed those appropriately with us. Over time, and with further reflection, my positions became clearer, and I was able to state them with more specifics. But, this was an early response to Mr. Lance. You-all can judge for yourselves what it tells about my willingness to participate in a process and a willingness to come to a place where ASI could assist. I will suggest that there is nothing here that reflects an agenda that precluds resolution. I participated in a manner to facilitate the process. But, the process failed.

Poor thing... she tries... in fact she is very trying... but she just doesn't have the "material" to work with.... and she's getting desperate trying to make do.... so sad...

But the "waiting for a lightning bolt from God".... now that's a pretty accurate summation of what is going on.... waiting patiently for the Lord.... while at the same time we are "working while we wait".... as He opens doors and points us each to our individual "work".

This is the Best I can do. Have you any other ideas? There has to be some thought if there is to be reconstruction. I read there is no desire for any that are there at 3ABN now. So who is in the running. Oh, come on let us all in on the plans.

I agree 100%. She does need our prayers. Her cry is of desperation. She does seem to be holding on for dear life. We should all pray for her in a special way.

I have been in a corner where there seems to be no way out. This is not a bad place to be. Only God can help.

This is really hard on the Shelton Family. Their employment is at stake. If Danny goes, they all go. How will they feed their families with out Danny? Fight, yes, I would fight.

She is grabbing at straws out of desperation. We need to pray that God will protect all of the innocent and expose only the guilty.

Eye Witness;

I am praying for you and your family. Look up, redemption is nearer than you think.

I was just praying for you, wwjd, when you posted this, because I was afraid you were lost.

Do you really want to know why Sister married her husband? That is a very interesting story, but it happened many years ago, at least more than 10 years, and they are still happily married, although her husband is very interested in the work she is doing. He and I have had a very similar experience.

I wonder too if she married him for the ministry? I think I know the answer.

EXCUSE ME, OR RATHER EXCUSE YOU. I personally am not a divorced woman. I have married to the same loving Christian man for many a day, who by the way is much more attractive than Danny Shelton in every possible way.

Steve, where is your picture of that big old red herring? Please insert it here __________ or any other place that will get WWJD's attention.

It's not really worth bothering your head about.... just one more way that WWJD thought up... (if you can call that "thought").... to accuse Sister of being Linda.... As for "fits the discussion"... you haven't seen WWJD say anything yet that "fits the discussion" have you? So why are you surprised that you can't fit this question into the discussion?

You see, Ralph, it was Danny Shelton who issued the verdict that Sister is Linda. A few people are still of the opnion that Danny always speaks the truth, and that never changes. This is why this whole discussion is so distorted when these people appear.

This was early on in the process. My thoughts were still developing. With the passage of time, I became more clear in my mind as to what needed to be done. Here is my early response to Mr. Lance:

Thanks, Observer for putting so much effort into this difficult project.

As I read Harold Lance's report on Maritime, I saw some points that concerned me. When there is a document of this importance, I would expect that both parties would check it over very carefully and ask for some revisions.

From all indications either Danny did not do any serious reading, or it was so favorable to him that he was happy with it as it read. That raised a big red flag.

Observer, when you first announced that there had not been an agreement, you did not blame anyone; you just said that negotiations had failed. I appreciated your statement as it gave the facts without attaching any blame to anyone.

Maybe Harold Lance has not had your ethical training, but for whatever the reason, his comments appeared to cast blame. That was not wise, as any discerning reader would suspect that Danny was assured that he had ASI in his pocket. That casts an unnecessary shadow on ASI and on you and others of Linda's representatives.

So it looks like we are again left with the shadow on 3ABN of alleged improprieties. The more we learn, it appears that this shadow has substance. Let us not get sidetracked by the smell of red herrings.

Eye Witness, you're letting your claws show, among other things.

You obviously have not been to 3ABN in about a little over a year. Am I right?

I love it!!! Got it HOTY!!!!

Hey, for all of you, in case you haven't been to 3abn website (now don't go rushing there!!) they have made sure to post their spin on the ASI pull out!! Can you believe it? (yes, I can) Using their website now to spin spin spin!! It's another BIG LIE! They just can't be honest, can they!! I guess you have to use what you can when you are desperate and insist on doing what ever it takes not to be wrong...lets just hope people take the time to READ and listen, so they see just exactly why it failed!!

You are so right, Fran, ms. eye witness has seen more than her eyes can hold. She is in urgent need of our prayers. As we are getting closer to the glorious day when Jesus comes back, His church needs to be cleased from all filthiness and lying wonders. We need to apply the Laodicean message, to buy salve that we may see with our eyes, and not be led by delusions that could be so convincing. So lets pray, Fran!

I am confused. Someone please enlighten me. Ok... if Sister is Linda, why is she still at 3ABN working there and being present? I thought Linda was not working at 3ABN anymore. Sister has repeatedly stated she works at 3ABN.

So, if Danny has the ability of being wrong here, he might even be wrong on some other counts as well?

I have promised my Lord never to give a false testimony. Have you ever caught me giving a false testimony?

If you really want to know, some months after Linda had expressed her gratitude to Irmgard at her funeral, for remaining a friend when others claiming to be eye witnesses had so utterly failed her and given false testimonies against her, then Linda suggested I find a new wife, and she even suggested who it could be. I am so grateful for Linda, for she lives a day by day life with her Lord, and now, almost a year later, I know that the Lord guided Linda in her suggestion.

Before we were married Danny Shelton wrote and gave his approval. At the same time he indicated he wanted mine for his new marriage. Unfortunately I could not grant him my approval, because I knew it was not approved by the Lord.

I'm sorry, RR, I did not understand your post. I should have elaborated.

What I meant was...why did Dan give Johann his "approval."

It's like me saying, "Hey Johann, it's HOTY, you can buy that new car you want. Just wanted to let you know...and by the way, I would like to steal a Jaguar, can you work it out?"

Yes, and we rejoice every day that the Lord brought us together. Ida and I have known each other since we were children, and she was married to my best boyhood friend who died 12 years ago. Her older sister is my son's mother-in-law. Linda knows her, and Linda felt impressed I should ask Ida for a date. . .

We discovered what an advantage it is that we have kown each other for so long, and all of her family accept me as a best friend, just like I was to their father. We have just discovered that Ida's mother and my grandfather were born on the same farm, but we are not closely related.

Now that Ida has become aquainted with Linda she just loves her like a daughter. It is difficult for her to understand how people have a mind claiming to be Christians who do what they are doing to Linda.

I saw your post, Sonshineonme, and found the letter. However, Harold Lance's long, chiding letter didn't seem to merit any comment.

All Harold Lance really says is that "Linda's team did not accept that ASI was capable of providing a fair forum, and adds, "We believe ASI has no jurisdiction to consider internal issues of 3ABN management...."

Had ASI said ASI did have the right to make inquiry over 3ABN's internal issues, due to the amount of money ASI donates to 3ABN, most likely, it would have been Danny Shelton who would not have accepted the ASI process.

Questions and comments have been made in regard to the motives of the so-called Linda's Team as they related to the attempt of ASI to mediated the issues. In response to that, I am posting here a letter that Mr. Joy sent out on September 24, 2006. As it is a long letter, I have left out the first three paragrpahs. Those three essentially expressed confidence in Linda, her Christian spirit in her time of trouble (my words) and other support. Well, we all know that Mr. Joy supports Linda. So, there is no need to post those three paragraphs. With the exception of removing a couple of names, I am posting the rest of the letter, as written.

It was written to a minister in the General Conference, and his name will not be given at this time. Here is the rest of the letter, beginning with paragraph four:

"However, keep in mind, we have three clear and distinct avenues of potential authority that must be each allocated it's due process under law; civil, criminal and canonical law, in order to fully restore Linda to the level of integrity and public faith she once enjoyed, and even these have overlapping concerns:

Civil - issues of public interest that would include the hypocracy of proclaiming the "un-diluted Three Angels Messages" while allegedly living as charletons and philanderers in a virtual modern day Peyton Place, Dallas and James Bakker ministry all rapped into one profit for Shelton, Non Profit institution;

Criminal - issues that must be ultimately resolved by federal, state and even international governments relating to alleged criminal conspiracy to defraud constituents, consumers and donors of the various gifts granted or lent and and alleged conversion of some of those assets by various direct and indirect means to the use of primarilly Sheldon Family members or those who constituted close personal or business aquaintances, some employees and others non-employees allegedly virtually at Danny's choosing and direction.

Cannonical or Ecclesiastical Authority - in the SDA church we have a near federalist system with a quasi-congregational system as the local community given powers in out-reach, community services, education and invariably church discipline. However assets and the regional or state administration processes are given over to the conference corporation which also grants credentials to ministries and ministers and manage a host of departments, including education and ministerial supervision. The association of churches gives and can take local church charters. Union, NAD and GC really serves as sources of experience and wisdom and has taken certain specialty concerns, such as hospital, colleges, universities and other major assets of the corporation. However, the potential use of heirarchal authority within the Union, NAD and GC cannot be ignored by the conference leadership lest they find their careers stagnated or ended. And the issue of large sums of money either as tithes, gifts, loans or trusts being transferred into non-ecclesiastical lines with little or no accountability to the church entities, constituents, donors or trustators that made these sums available to the alleged corrupt organization also must ultimately be addressed as part of this very serious challenge to the church. In fact, if the allegations prove to be reasonably accurate, this could be the largest challenge to the Seventh-day Adventist church since John Harvey Kellogg.

Given this reality, for Linda to regain a status of acceptability to get back into the churches, there must be a process of clear and ecclesiastically acceptable exoneration for her to pursue the ministry that she wishes to get back to. Therefore, we must logically address ecclesiastical concerns as well as civil and criminal.

Criminal has a momentum of it's own and all anyone can do is provide appropriate documentation or point investigators in the direction they need to search to find meaningful evidence. This process has begun, for better or for worse, but will invariably take time.

Civil issues are already being investigated and researched and reports will be made available as the sources and stories are verified and, whenever possible, documented. They can be released to a variety of media designed to give the widest possible circulation for those that need to be aware and to make educated decisions as to how they will Tithe, donate, gift, loan or trust to the entity known as 3ABN.

In addition I have become aware of at least two books that are being prepared for publication that will address various issues relating to the allegations currently under research and investigation. These will most probably be given very wide circulation and go far toward defining the various charges and counter-charges.

Since the current clear allegation from [deleted] has hit the streets, 3ABN directors have expressed they would like proof that [deleted] was the source of the allegation and then, if she is the source, they would like to ask her to meet and discuss the allegations.

Since these are no longer the only allegations on the table for discussion, I am proposing that we accomodate the entire series of allegations by empanelling a panel to look at the [deleted] allegations; the Pastor Dryden allegations against Tommy Shelton; the allegations that Linda had an inappropriate relationship with Arild Abrahamsen; the issue that prior to, during and after the Linda/Arild allegations that Danny was clearly being observed having multiple inappropriate realtionship; and other inappropriate financial allegations; that there have been several open and notorious inappropriate inter-staff relationships, some by allegation and some of which were clearly "caught" or "confessed"; all of which the local church has failed to discipline or the institution has failed to equally apply due process or any process at all due to clear and obvious conflicts.

The panel should be given all the powers of a tribunal / arbitration panel with appropriate counsel for both sides present to conduct direct and cross-examination of the witnesses, with the tribunal to have authority to make direct inquiry of the witnesses, with as broad a rule of evidence as the tribunal feels is neccasary to find the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth. Provision needs to be made to allow the introduction of witnesses in executive session such that not only are witnesses protected from the peering eyes of various leadership, but can give open and honest and unimpeded testimony as Witness x, y, z et siq. I am proposing that the original parties, the 3ABN board and Linda [and deleted] each be allowed to have two observers sworn to protect the witnesses from retaliation by Leadership and others to observe the procedings and to be able to certify the process as fair and appropriate.

The panel would be convened for a period of up 5 days (or longer at their determination) at a sight to be determined in southern Illinois, would take testimony, would look at each allegation seperately and distinctly, would issue a report of the allegations and their conclusions, would make those conclusions available to the various churches or church affiliates that become involved in allegations against individual parties or institutions and even recommend the convening of appropriate business sessions to deal with the discipline required.

Since certain allegations directly import the agreement with the GC and with ASI and it's bylaws for participation, it would be expected they would act expediantly to protect the church or it's affiliates from any ongoing harm. Perhaps the panel would issue an issues specific report on the caliber of the "Issues..." reports of the 1990's.

If the church or church affiliate fails to convene appropriate business sessions or refuses to administer discipline, then the panel would be empowered to approach the appropriate conference committee with a copy of the report and to seek a special constituency to determine if the offending church body should be disbanded from the brother-hood of churches. Since the Illinois cionference is of particular focus, then we would expect the officers and conflicted directors to recuse themselves and to allow the Union President to preside over these particular proceedings. Of course any appeal would be to the Union, NAD or GC.

I trust this would clarify why I feel we need to also address the ecclesiastical authority. I assume the fairest of panels would clearly exonerate Linda and Arild, although this is obviously not assured, and this goes without saying, the fastest way to open the gates of churches to welcome her deeply Spiritual Ministry back into the churches. I will leave the results relating to Danny, et, al, 3ABN, et siq, to your various imaginations.

Thank-you for your inquiry and please let me know if you have further questions as this discussion helps to mold the process into a clear basis for pursuit of the issues within the Remnant Church.

Gailon Arthur Joy"

What do we see in this letter to the General Conference.

1) Yes, as we already knew, Gailon speaks with emotional force.
2) He was clearly calling for a pannel, somewhat of the nature of that proposed by ASI.
3) Yes, he did ask for a more complete review of the issues and the alligations.
4) You will note that this clearly stated that the ultimate resolution of certain issues could only come by civil authorities. Folks, we were in substantial agreement with ASI that some issues simply could not be resolved by ASI. But, the details needed to be worked out. That was where things broke down in my perception.

I will suggest that this letter by Mr. Joy to the General Conference may have resulted in the GC putting out "feelers" to 3-ABN and ASI to see if ASI could get involved. Folks, the Linda Team, wanted things to work. But, we did not beleive that ASI could resolve all issues, and we agreed with ASI on that point.

I thought you were referring to the Save 3ABN site, not the 3ABN one itself.

Isn't that interesting that they would put this up on their own website for all the world to see.

They must have felt they made a good score on that one.

Indeed! Note that only the issue of Dan's right to remarry was supposed to be addressed. And it also seems that only the "findings" were supposed to go public -- not all the evidence presented.

They wanted an obviously rigged process. Failing that -- since Linda wanted complete transparency -- they are blaming Linda as though she didn't want to cooperate because she had something to hide. They are claiming Danny's exoneration by default.

Thats not exactly what Lance's letter says, but that's the spin 3ABN folks on this board have put on it. (And we have good reason to believe that these folks are major players at 3ABN.)

Danny came on this forum and lied. Bystander said he was leaving and lied. Eye Witness bore false witness and lied. 3ABN couldn't even tell the truth in something as small as the names of four little children and lied to all of their viewers. How can anything you'uns say be given any credibility? Reminds me of a joke. "How do you know when a televangelist is lying? His lips are moving."

Hawk, I LIKE YOU!! Tell it like it is!! Keep it up!! It's GREAT to have you hear!! It's a breath of fresh air to have another person here from T-ville who knows how to tell the truth! Guess there's some hope for S. Illinois!

Also, Kaiser, another representative of 3ABN and the Sheltons, came here and spouted a flurry of racist comments directed against people of color. Again, representative of 3ABN/the Sheltons.

Last night a pastor called me, having found an email he received on September 19 from Gailon that specifically states that Gailon had spent two hours talking with the church leader who got the ASI panel review process going in the first place.

And then we have an email from Gailon CC'ed to that same church leader written September 24 that spells out the allegations that needed to be addressed, allegations which they certainly must have discussed in the two-hour conversation referred to above. And some of those allegations were the Tommy Shelton child molestation allegations, which were a major factor in getting the ASI panel review process going.

That being said, Harold Lance's statement puts him in the awkward position of of appearing to be either lying or in the dark when he says that Gailon was unknown to ASI leadership prior to October 3. Frankly, I prefer the latter option.

It also puts Harold in the awkward light of appearing to be participating in a cover up of the

Tommy Shelton child molestation allegations, since even when I pointed out that the child molestation allegations were a major factor in getting the ball rolling, and that Danny had made it very clear to me that he intended to use the findings of a restricted ASI investigation as a smokescreen to make all the other allegations go away, Harold wouldn't budge one bit from his position that only the divorce and remarriage issue could be considered. (Personally, I think there are more charitable explanations for this problem than that he was intentionally trying to cover things up.)

Harold's statement itself constitutes a blatant and grievous violation of the terms of the confidentiality agreement that all participants had to agree to before they could participate, namely, that after the discussions, whether or not the process went forward, only a mutually agreed upon statement would be issued. Harold made no contact with me to negotiate such a statement, and I eagerly await his reply to my message of Thursday which said, "And it would also help if you can assure me that no one that could be associated with Danny's side saw your statement before it was sent out to Gregory, Gailon, Linda, or myself."

The more I think about this, the more I think a detailed response must be given, including the publishing of the various communications that we have had that demonstrate that his statement is unfair, inaccurate, and/or distorted. I also hope that Harold will come up with some sort of way to rectify this situation which is inevitably extremely embarrassing for himself.

I do hope Danny will not be so brazen as to have Harold's statement published in 3ABN World.

I doubt that there is much basis for this "hope". But it will not be all bad even if it does, for the more it is circulated, the more who will see it and have questions, and those who have questions will seek for answers.

As for publishing the various communications.... I think it should, of course, all go on the save3abn site... and of course that they should all be posted here. From that others will doubtless pick them up and send them out by vaious means... including email, snail mail, and perhaps even other web site locations or news media.

I'm not Clay but on #1 I agree with you. I know my kids used to claim I lied to them when I simply changed my minds on something.

#2. How could ASI be trusted to have a fair investigation when they have such a vested intrest in 3abn? Their members have given countless dollars to Danny and many of their members sit on the 3abn board which has publicly supported Danny's divorce and remarriage.

Lee, there is more than one level of lying, some gentle, some not so gentle. Around here, we're still dealing with Levels 1 and 2 (mostly 2), with some things reaching into Level 3 - Statistics(!). I'm thinking Steve's mostly less than impressed with all the Level 2 stuff (and worse) currently ongoing. He's just being inclusive.

Hi Clay: I just asked a simple question. You said you "never had any confidence in ASI" and that they couldn't be trusted. I thought perhaps you had something happen to you in the past BEFORE 3ABN. I mean, ASI has been around a long time--years and years. It seems if they were having a problem with dishonesty, it would have been known before now.

I am not trying to defend Bystander--I don't even remember what was said by her/him.

Your post sounded like you had some dealings with ASI in the past and wondered what it was that they did to make them untrustworthy. I would be really interested to know.

I'm not trying to "distract" anyone's attention...I would like to know your reasons behind your statement, that is all.

I think what Clay meant, and what I have to agree with, is that ASI couldn't be trusted to carry out this kind of matter simply because it is of the same makeup as 3ABN. It is more than a conflict of interest for them to investigate one of their members and a former member.

As usual there is "some" truth to what you say about T'vill hating 3abn. But from what I have heard it is not because they knew administration before they were administration. It is because they are Sventh day adventists. Rumors have went around for years in the town that the adventist denomination are a cult and that they working along with 3abn, have built hidden tunnels and have weapons and all the junk that goes into small town gossip. If 3ABN were babtist or methodist or Church of God, all would be well and accepted. If Ellen White lived in Thompsonville even she, would be the object of ridicule.

When I first arrived at 3ABN I was awed, impressed, both with the buildings and the wonderful loving and dedicated people working there. So I remarked that they must be making a great impact and witness to the local community.

I was amazed at the response right there, and even by Danny Shelton himself. It was "They all hate us!"

I am the kind of person who wants to get the reasons, so I went out to find out why the community disliked 3ABN. It had nothing to do with the doctrines or life style, but because they were untrustworthy! Among those in the community who were watching 3ABN, and were not SDA themselves, there was one exception. "Linda is a person we can trust." Is this why she was disliked among some of those she worked together with? Do they have a feeling similar to Joseph's brothers? Is this why Danny discarded her? Just asking. . .

In looking at many of your posts it seems fairly obvious that you know just the right questions to ask that will have negative answers. You do it so innocently but yet anyone that goes back aways can see you have a nice little pattern to what you are doing. You already know the answers to the questions you ask and you are secure they will be answered in a negative way, which is why you choose those particular questions. I notice that you have never ask a question that I can find, that would be answered in the positive towards 3abn. Good Strategy but game over.

The man speaks the truth. Most people around Thompsonville and West Frankfort who dislike 3ABN or the administration know nothing about the SDA church or their doctrine.

Many years ago, I was stopped in our local Kmart by a SDA pastor I had met at 3ABN. he asked if I was still working there and I said, "No, I got fired." He stuck his hand out to shake mine and said, "Congratulations. I have had my fill of them, too." Does HE hate the SDA church?

I have lived around Adventist institutions... some call them ghettos... all of my life. I have never yet lived in one where the community closest to them did not have the highest respect for them... even though they might ridicule their "strange" eating habits or some of their doctrines. I have also heard stories of Ellen White all of my life, and I have never yet heard of any place that she lived where she was anything but loved and respected. (With the possible exception of Battle Creek where she had to endure the coldness of some of her "brethren".... but that was not the community itself.)

Thank you for your confirmation of what I have heard from previous sources about the way the people of Thompsonville feel about 3abn. This is so sad. On the other hand, I am glad they are able to separate the 3abn cult from the true SDA church!

Watchbird, yours is the first posting I've read which refers to 3ABN as a "cult". I've been wondering how long it would take for someone to start using that kind of language. The more I read and learn about the situation there, it seems to me that it certainly is a cult.

wwjd interesting you should use the word strategy since that is what you have attempted to implement since your arrival... it is safe to say that everything you have done since gracing us is exactly what Jesus would not do.... you cannot refure Hawk so you attempt to distract the message..... tiresome you are... totally...

Is there any chance you are able to get ahold of these letters and bring them to this forum so the truth of the harrassment can be verified? Just the facts, ma'm. Just the facts. Still on the fence.

To return to the beginning of this thread for a moment ....

Questions of why Mr. Lance has said some of the things he has, and why he seems to be taking the tack he has, have been asked during the last few days. While I don't know him from Adam, and concede that what I'm about to say may or may not apply to him, nevertheless, there are some background matters related to it that all of us, just generally, should take into consideration when, for example, a person reads material such as we have here.

Jurisprudence in the American tradition is based on something called adversarial confrontation. When a lawyer sets out to represent a client professionally, anything that will achieve a favorable outcome for his client at the end of the legal process becomes an acceptable tool or procedure along the way. In essence, the end justifies the means. You may also have noticed that lawyers are never required to take an oath of truth-giving, only witnesses do that. Same reason. (The system did not come to be the way it is by accident or coincidence.) If it will help his client's position, and unless he fears that getting called on it by the opposing attorney or the judge will undo his advantage, for most lawyers, the first choice is "do it." In fact, even if he does get called on it and it's then disallowed, it is often still useful and effective from his point of view. (I love that post hoc judicial admonition to jurists after one of these faux pas been said, "Don't use that in your deliberations." Yeah, right, quit thinking, dudes, about all those elephants in the room!) Additionally, there is no Hippocratic oath in this profession stating that the first rule of conduct is to do no harm. Instead, the first rule is maximize your client's benefit.

While there are many lawyers who do hold to a high personal ethic of practice and general deportment despite all this, the fact that they do has little to do with the profession's direct influence. Such an ethic simply is not deeply ingrained into it's core as a fundamental value ... which is one of the major reasons why lawyers in general, and politicians, are not high on lists of approval in the eyes of the general public. This is why it's expecting too much to assume at the outset that a given lawyer is moved by the same rules that we feel guide us. (Happily, I'm glad to note there are some excellent exemplars of the good guys, and gals, here in BSDA; and to you, my salute for rising above your "handicap." Peace, my friends, OK?)

So ... should we expect Mr. Lance to be a truth teller? Not necessarily. He may be; but if so, that has little to do with the fact that he's a lawyer. If he is, that's more likely to be so in spite of it, not because of it. And then in this case, adding to this background context, considering who his client is, it does become harder to believe that he's completely free of the influence of his profession. As usual, of course, time will tell.

'Nuff said.

Regards,
Norm

There is one problem, Norm. In this case Harold Lance did take an oath to tell the truth and nothing but the truth.

I can't give you the exact date, but I know for certainty that he did.

Everyone who becomes a Seventh-day Adventist takes solemn vows before God, similar to marriage vows, and those vows include a pledge to keep the 10 Commandments, one of which says, "Thou shalt not bear false witness."

"Better is it that thou shouldest not vow, than that thou shouldest vow and not pay" (Eccl. 5:5).

Hmm. Theoretically, of course, so did Danny, Tommy, Walt, John, Kay, and a few others here and there, too. Is being maybe more than one problem, yes/no?

I remember that, HOTY.

When the 3ABN Worship Center (Thompsonville SDA Church) was begun, it was funded specifically to be a life-size Sanctuary Exhibit and announced as such. WHERE is the Sanctuary Exhibit?

When the guest apartments on Angel Lane were built it was announced it would be decent, affordable housing for employees. Well, Walt Thompson has a permanent studio apartment there.

And the list goes on and on...

> As usual there is "some" truth to what you say about T'vill hating 3abn. But from what I have heard it is not because they knew administration before they were administration. It is because they are Sventh day adventists. Rumors have went around for years in the town that the adventist denomination are a cult and that they working along with 3abn, have built hidden tunnels and have weapons and all the junk that goes into small town gossip. If 3ABN were babtist or methodist or Church of God, all would be well and accepted. If Ellen White lived in Thompsonville even she, would be the object of ridicule.

As usual there is "some" truth in what you have said. Excuse me, but isn't that the ruse the serpent used with Eve in the Garden of Eden? Basically, if you were to talk to the mayor of Thompsonville and many of the townsfolk, they would give you an ear full of information. The problems people have with the Sheltons have very little to do with Adventism. Being an Adventist living in Thompsonville, I had some lively discussions with Baptists over religion, but that did not make them unwilling to be friendly or neighborly. Of course if you mentioned the name Shelton, you got quite another reaction.

And what is your game plan? I see a nice little pattern developing there, also. Attack those who disagree with you and hopefully weaken or discredit their testimony. Live up to your self chosen BSDA name. WHAT WOULD JESUS DO. He definitely never did anything like what you have done here. Could anyone suggest a more appropriate title for WWJD? Clay, any ideas? What if she were to join the Heathen Family? Perhaps, "Keeper of the Red Herring"? Or has Bystander already been "anointed" with that title. Maybe they all belong to a lost tribe? Clay?

I already did, Sister. I guess you missed it.... I think it stands for What Would Jacob Do?....

Deceive?

No need to change the BSDA "handle" to something more appropriate. I think it fits perfectly. Good choice.

Hmmm... someone clarify this for me please. I thought it was Esau who sold his birthright for a mess of pottage. Oh well I have to be wrong. WWJD is always right. It was Jacob. Gotta go rewrite the Bible now.. see ya later folks.

Also, I assume that the original donor was consulted before using the funds for a very differetn project. Am I assuming correctly?

So Walt Thompson has one apartment. How much time does he spend at 3ABN that he needs an apartment there? I'm assuming that if he's a hands-on guy who actually rubs shoulders with the rank-and-file employees, he might need an apartment there.

How many apartments were built, and who lives in the others?

Easy correction to make for those using a UNIX text editior:

echo 'sell his birthright for a mess of pottage'| perl -pi -e 's/sell\ his/steal\ his\ brother\'s/g

Geek has it's privileges

But I had concluded the 'j' in 'wwjd' stood for Judas; that explains the whole betrayal and rationalization, seeking after 30 pieces of silver thing we see...

In His service,
Mr. J

There are a number of men and women in the Bible with a name beginning with a "J." I guess one could pick any one of them.

Make some calls, you can find out easily...You are correct Inga. Dr. Thompson spends several days a month there and stays in one of the apartments when he does. what is incorrect, is the implication that it sets empty while he isn't there. It doesn't. They are for whoever comes to do music, programming, cooking ect ect. The guest that are on all the shows that we see have to have somewhere to stay while they are making their programs. Some are there just a few days and some are there for several weeks depending on their program schedule. The apartments may or may not have been meant for low cost housing in the beginning but the need for guest rooms became priority. There are 6 or 8 (didn't get clear on that) apartments that 3abn built and there are several homes where volunteers live that have small apartment quarters in their basements. According to those in charge of scheduling they say that many times throughout the year, they are filled up and really need several more.

I agree, let's not.. instead lets think about the fact of how many upstanding people and organizations you all have accused of being biased, corrupt, ect ect. ASI is maybe the most esteemed, recognized and respected groups in the Adventist denomination. They have hundreds of intelligent, diligent and god fearing people as members. As mentioned before, people like Ellsworth McKee from Little Debbie, Harold Lance, and the highly esteemed McNeilus family. Someone on this forum said there was no way that the McNeilus family would be unbiased because they had invested heavily in 3ABN. Please, whatever the amount of money that they may have given is not even a dent in their finances. 3abn is just one of hundreds of ministries and missionary's that they support. They build churches and orphanages and send in medical help to the people in 3rd world countries. They don't just pay the bill, they go themselves and work right alongside everyone else. If 3abn went under, they would never come close to feeling it financially. It is the same scenario with many other members of ASI. 3ABN is just a very small spec in the whole picture of ASI's finances which is why that they would and could have been totally unbiased. GAILON YOU KNOW THAT THIS IS TOTAL TRUTH, and you are dishonoring the people on this forum if you don't admit it. If your pursuit of truth has not caused you to come to this conclusion then, I must agree with those that say, you couldn't investigate your way out of a paperbag.

'Mr. 'bystander'. This post of yours is a strong indication that you, just like Queen Esther, have come to the kingdom for such a time as this. You have provided us with a remarkable demonstration of what truth is and isn't. You don't know the arguments so you make a call to Thompsonville for instructions, and not even then do you get an accurate count of the number of apartments available. This is the first clue that not all of the other tales you get are accurate. But there is much more. . .

You acknowledge that the truth can hurt. So when you face it, it might even seen nasty, when you don't have the whole truth.

Your faulty information on the Mundall issue demonstrates that you have been connected to a fallible source. When than program was first broadcast the Mundall children were all listed as Firestone.

When the children's father called 3ABN and protested to Mr. M, he was told it could not be changed without the approval of the BOSS.

When we pointed out right here on BSDA that it was illegal what they were doing, and that they might be sued for it, then they changed it, so on the re-runs of the program the children's names were listed as Mundall. The information you received shows that they would lie in order to protect them against the consequence of their former lie. This we have seen again and again in our dealings with 3ABN. Truth, to 3ABN, can be swayed in any direction to protect themselves against the results of earlier issued falsehoods. Back in 2004 Mr. Danny Shelton demonstrated this so clearly right here on BSDA, and this is one good reason why the words of 3ABN no longer are accepted without a good verification.

So, Mr. whatever your real name is, we must be grateful to you for providing yet another proof beyond doubt that our perceptions are correct.

For this matter, with which you have now been contaminated, there is a clear way out. Fall on your knees before the Cross of Jesus Christ in confession, and you will experience the power of divine healing because there is a Balm in Gilead. And it is the cleansing in the Blood that we pray for that the administrative staff of 3ABN will experience, so that the Gospel and Advent Message may be proclaimed with power of the Holy Spirit to a dying World. Thank you, Mr. Bystander, for your part in making this possible.

May God Bless You,

Johann Thorvaldsson

Former Director of European Development for 3ABN

Danny Shelton, himself, on one of the Behind the Scenes programs and on other occassions, made the statement that the appartments were being built as employee housing. THAT IS A FACT.

Bystander, unless the situation has changed recently, Walt Thompson has permanently had an apartment in that complex (four studio apartments and four 2 bedroom apartments with a small coin operated laundry building) since it was built. He has clothing and other personal items in there all the time, I know, I have been inside his apartment. On occasion he has allowed personal guests of his to use it. Personally, I can remember whole months or more when it was vacant ready for Walt's return. THIS IS FACTUAL.

Secondly, I assume that the the houses you are referring to with apartments in their basements for volunteers are Bob and Bea's place and Tammy Larson's parents home. Their homes were built with the understanding that the basement apartments were to be used for guests accommodations. These homes were built on 3ABN property and paid for by the individuals that live there, with the understanding that the "owners" could remain living there until their death, upon which time 3ABN becomes the sole owner and the entire house becomes guest housing.

Dee also had a home with a number of guestrooms and an apartment in the basement. Unfortunately, Danny made a deal with Dee to exchange her large home for the double-wide trailer that Melody lived in on 3ABN property. Which really surprized me since Dee loved that house, but Dee's whole life is 3ABN and she wouldn't know where to go if she was not working there. So the reason there is not enough guest rooms at 3ABN is because Danny has authorized a change in usage of what was once available.

I must admit that you are correct in that it was my post you quoted and I continue to stand behind that statement and it's accuracy, in my opinion. I do believe that I am on the top of your list, but for reasons other than you have mentioned. I believe I am on the top of your list because I continue to pull back the curtain and reveal the truth in regard to the Shelton family and 3ABN.

Sister

> I agree, let's not.. instead lets think about the fact of how many upstanding people and organizations you all have accused of being biased, corrupt, ect ect. ASI is maybe the most esteemed, recognized and respected groups in the Adventist denomination. They have hundreds of intelligent, diligent and god fearing people as members. As mentioned before, people like Ellsworth McKee from Little Debbie, Harold Lance, and the highly esteemed McNeilus family. Someone on this forum said there was no way that the McNeilus family would be unbiased because they had invested heavily in 3ABN. Please, whatever the amount of money that they may have given is not even a dent in their finances. 3abn is just one of hundreds of ministries and missionary's that they support. They build churches and orphanages and send in medical help to the people in 3rd world countries. They don't just pay the bill, they go themselves and work right alongside everyone else. If 3abn went under, they would never come close to feeling it financially. It is the same scenario with many other members of ASI. 3ABN is just a very small spec in the whole picture of ASI's finances which is why that they would and could have been totally unbiased. GAILON YOU KNOW THAT THIS IS TOTAL TRUTH, and you are dishonoring the people on this forum if you don't admit it. If your pursuit of truth has not caused you to come to this conclusion then, I must agree with those that say, you couldn't investigate your way out of a paperbag.

I notice that you have never ask a question that I can find, that would be answered in the positive towards 3abn. Good Strategy but game over.

My goal is to find truth. My "strategy" is to observe - both here and 3abn - and ask questions for information that I do not have and clarification of points I know little about. When I went directly to the source for information I got no reply because it was instantly assumed that I was an adversary. That is so wrong! As I have told others here, I credit the 3abn programming as part of the reason I have gotten back to an active spiritual journey with Jesus! If you have taken the time to read "many" of my posts you would know this.

I always found, when making a quilt, that having a patten was helpful in producing one that wasn't full of holes and was pleasing to the eye. I've heard that the same idea can apply when building a house or even a foundation. As far as using "a nice little pattern here" I wasn't aware of it and while, in some instances, common sense might make answers obvious I certainly have NOT asked only questions I am "secure will be answered in a negative way".

Re: "Because ASI declined to consider issues beyond those of divorce and remarriage Art, Bob and Greg believed they were free to continue contacts with Danny, Dr. Thompson and others associated with 3ABN. Though couched in spiritual language their messages were persistent, confrontational, argumentative and harassing. Our efforts to stop their direct communications were unsuccessful."

In a previous statement I mentioned that I had sent Dr. Thompson an e-mail once. I stated that e-mail stated that I was praying for him, and was brief. I have since located that e-mail. I sent it to Dr. Thompson on December 3, 2006. It was longer than I had rememebered. It did interject a second subject of concern in regard to 3-ABN. To furrther clairfy the record as to what I sent Dr. Thompson, I post that e-mail in full below:

"Dr. Thompson:

In my prayers this AM I asked that God would lead you. You are in a tough situation that does not get any easier with the passage of time. I simply felt it appropriate to ask that God would lead you, that you would know the will of the Lord, and that you would follow it as you understood it. You and I may see and understand other things differently. But, that does not mean that all of us need to the above prayers.

FYI the following has been posed in an Internet forum, which greatly concerns me. I believe that I places both 3-ABN and the IL Conference in grave legal liability. As I would hate to see either 3-ABN placed in such a situation I am contacting you. I will explain my concerns after I post the message that is now on the Internet. Here it is:

" May 14, 2003

*** *** ***

*** ***, *** *****

Dear Dr. Thompson:

Greetings in the holy name of our Lord Jesus!

It is my understanding that you serve as chairman of the board of directors of Three Angels Broadcasting Network. From 3ABN's web site it appears an invitation to minister has been extended to this congregation's former pastor, Tommy Ray Shelton.

Constrained by an ethical, if not legal, obligation, I am compelled to advise you that Tommy Ray Shelton is not in good standing with either of the two associations by which he was first presented with ministerial credentials. At least six boys in our community were sexually abused by Tommy Ray Shelton during the periods he served as pastor of this congregation.

Some of these young men and some parents are willing to corroborate the information I am giving you, if necessary. Please contact me for their phone numbers that I may alert them to a pending call. I also will put you in touch with the two associations referenced above.

Either I or members of this congregation's leadership will answer any questions you may have regarding this correspondence.

In our Lord's service,

Pastor Glenn Dryden

ACTION ITEMS SUGGESTED FOR TOMMY SHELTON

Expediency recommended :
Senate Bill 1035 extending statute of limitations goes into effect as soon as signed by Governor Blagojevich. This could be within the next thirty days.
Note http://www.legis.state.il.us

Tommy should retain an attorney to represent him as well as to serve him in contacting victims and their families, all at Tommy's expense.

A full disclosure of all victims and details should be made to the Franklin County Sheriff's Office (Investigator Kevin Skurat, 618-435-8187). This disclosure should include pertinent incidences in other states as well as in other jurisdictions in Illinois in addition to Franklin County.

Tommy should cooperate in the placement of his name and pertinent information on appropriate sex offenders lists, as the law may require in the state of his residence or in Illinois.

Tommy should agree to reimburse any of the victims or their family members for the expenses of counseling they have received. He should further agree to pay for any future counseling required by any of the victims or their family members. Contact should be made by his attorney with the victims through their parents if necessary. Pastor Glenn Dryden of the Ezra Church of God (--*) should be consulted as to the victims of whom he is aware and as to which of these may be contacted directly. Other victims may wish to maintain anonymity. Apart from necessary contact by law enforcement personnel, their wishes should be respected.

Tommy should issue written apologies over his signature to all victims and to their parents. Again, contact with victims should be made through their parents if necessary.

Tommy also should issue written apologies over his signature for his deceit, as well as inappropriate behavior, etc., to the congregation of the Ezra Church of God, West Frankfort, Illinois, the congregation of the Community Church of God, Dunn Loring, Virginia, the state office of the General Assembly Of The Church Of God In Illinois and to the Ministerial Council of the Church of God headquartered in Virginia."

You will note that the suggestion has been made that TS be places on the registered sex offender list. You will also note that there are some clear statements that this was not a single incident, but involved six or more people. If in the future, there were to be any kind of a question in regard to TS, the above statement in the hands of any attorney would clearly place 3-ABN, and possibly the IL Conference in grave liability.

That is my professional opinion, as a trained counselor, and one who has worked in this area.

While you and I see things differently in regard to the issues that 3-ABN faces. I do not want either 3-ABN, or the IL Conference to suffer any harm. I felt that I needed to bring my thoughts on this aspect to your attention.

NOTE: As you well understand. We live in a time when everything is being posted on the Internet. I do not expect that you will respond to my e-mail. But, you need to be aware that not confidentiality is implied with either this message to you, or to any response that you may or may not make to me.

Gregory Matthews"

Dr. Thompson did not respond to my e-mail, and I did not expect him to do so.

While I did interject a second subject, which I did not remember when I posted my first comment regarding my e-mail to Dr. Thompson, my second comment was actually brief. In essence I encouraged him to act in a manner that would reduce the potental for 3-ABN to suffer harm.

Now, if some would construe the above message to Dr. Thompson as inappropriate, O.K. The above is what I sent.

I have been meaning to ask -- how Sis. Linda was supposed to speak up on her own behalf when she would have been going against the "gag order" would she not? And, if anyone, who was there to assist her, spoke on her behalf with details only she, or her opposition, could supply then she could be accused of going against the "gag order" could she not? So, how exactly was anyone supposed help ASI, on her behalf, to help resolve the issues when her hands had been tied behind her back per the "gag order"?

Since we don't know the details, will someone please explain that us?

I do not believe that any participation that Linda had in the attempt to work with ASI would have violated any so-called gag order. After all, ASI seemingly wanted such information to be kept private, and further restrict the issues considered. So, there would not have been a public disclosure that would have caused a violation of the gag order. In additon, Danny's participation could have been used to justif her participation.

That may be so, and it may not be.

BlackSDA _ 3ABN _ Confliect Of Interest

Posted by: Observer Feb 6 2007, 04:19 AM

WE have been informed that 3-ABN has circulated the following message to its employees. I commend them for this action:

"January 28, 2007
From: Mollie Steenson

Ladies and Gentlemen,

Our auditors have informed us that we need to have a Conflict of Interest Statement signed by all employees.

Please sign the enclosed Statement and return it to the Accounting Department as soon as possible. If you have an questions you may talk with either me or Larry Ewing.

Thanks,
Mollie

Conflict of Interest Policy

Definition
A conflict of interest is any circumstance under which the interests of an individual (including, but not limited to a director, officer, employee, volunteer or any person in the individual's immediate family) can be seen as competing with the interests of the organization or harmful to it. The individual may be influenced or have the appearance of being influenced by a motive or desire for personal advantage (direct or indirect, present or potential) that is not in the best interests of the organization.
< BR>Purpose
The overarching purpose of a conflict of interest policy is to protect the integrity of the organization, its directors, officers, employees and volunteers, and its decision-making processes and to enable our constituents and constituencies to have confidence in the integrity of the organization.

Further the conflict or interest policy is [1] to help directors, officers and employees identify situations that present potential conflicts of interest, [2] to provide Three Angels' Broadcasting Network (3ABN) with a procedure than, when observed, will allow a transaction to be treated as valid and binding even though a director, officer or employee may have a conflict of interest with respect to the transaction and [3] to protect 3ABN's interest when it is contemplating entering into a transaction or arrangement that might benefit the private interest or a director, officer or employee of 3ABN or may result in a possible excess benefit transaction.

This polic y is intended to supplement, but not replace any applicable state and federal laws governing conflict of interest which applies to not-for-profit charitable organizations.

Procedures
1. A conflict of interest statement (statement of acceptance) will be signed by directors, officers, employees or volunteers a the time of their initial appointment. Upon acceptance of the conflict of interest policy by the board of directors, all current directors, officers, employees or volunteers will be asked to review the policy and indicate their compliance with the policy by signing the conflict of interest statement.

2. Annually directors, officers, employees or volunteers will be required to update and sign the conflict of interest statement.
3. Responsibility for administration of the conflict of interest statements shall be the office of the general manager of the organization. The conflict of interest statements shall be made available to the auditors and members of the audit committee.
4. Pre-existing conflicts of interests: Any director, officer, employee or volunteer who believes that he/she is not or may not be in compliance with the policy, should disclose the circumstances and provide any and all relevant information to the board of directors. Any director or other person reporting a conflict of interest shall not be present during or participate in the final deliberations or decision regarding the matter under consideration. The matter shall be resolved by a vote of the board or its executive committee and duly recorded in the minutes.
5. Potential conflicts of interest must be [1] reported to the chairman of the board of directors if the potential conflict involves a board member, an officer or administrative director of member of their families or [2] reported to the general manager when the potential conflict involves any other employee, volunteer or a member of their families. Following full disclosure of the potential conflict, the board will decide if a conflict exists and if so, the appropriate course of action to be taken. Appropriate courses of action will include but are not limited to warning, suspension, dismissal, and repayment of costs. The decision shall be duly recorded in the minutes.
6. Third-parties may disclose alleged conflicts of interests in writing and with supporting documentation to a director or officer of 3ABN. The source of the third party reports shall be held in confidence by the director or officer receiving the complaint, unless required by court order to divulge the information or if there is evidence that the third party report is fraudulent or made with malicious intent. The report shall be evaluated by the in-house executive committee and, if found to be valid, reported to the board of directors for the appropriate action.
7. Non-compliance is the failure to comply with the policies on conflict of interest and include, but are not limited to:
a. Personal gain at the expense of the organization
b. Failure to adequately disclose present or potential conflicts of interest
c. Failure to comply with decisions made at the board regarding the conflict of interest.

Non-compliance will result in appropriate action, which may include disciplinary action or dismissal.

Conflict of Interest Statement

I have been provided with a copy of the Conflict of Interest Policy for 3ABN and I am in full compliance with this policy and have been at all times during the past year.
• I am not now nor have I in the last year been a participant, directly or indirectly, in any arrangement or agreement, investment or other activity with any vendor, supplier, or other party doing business with 3ABN which has resulted or could result in a benefit to me or my family.
• I have received no substantial payments or gifts (other than token gifts) from suppliers or agencies doing business with 3ABN.
• I have not served as an officer, director, trustee or agent of any organization affiliated with 3ABN in any decision-making process involving financial, legal or other interest adverse to 3ABN.

Any exceptions are stated below and/or separately attached with a full description of the transactions and of the interest, whether direct or indirect, which I have or have had during the past year with persons or organizations having transactions with 3ABN."

If the rule were applied honestly and fairly, would Dan Shelton not be the first big fish caught?

IMO, this Conflict of Interest statement is just an application of ethics commonly held by persons of integrity and generally accepted by business people with integrity -- unless I have not read carefully enough. (I confess to having skimmed the document.)

According to the document, he would have to list all the transactions in which he bought stuff from the ministry at a below-market value for his extended family and/or friends. Or is the benefit of family and friends not covered?

He should also have to report how he profited from books he sold to the ministry in order for these books to be given away. The more he promoted such "give-away" books, the more he profited -- which is clearly a conflict of interest.

However, will Danny actually come clean in signing this document, or will he continue to lie? Who will monitor the accuracy of these signed statements? This is a legitimate question since there is reason to believe that the financial records have not been adequately monitored.

Inga, the document is excellent. Even if enforced, there will be a learning curve for the peple involved. The Board will not have to set up a process to see that the intentions of the documents are properly carried out.

Posted by: Noahswife Feb 6 2007, 03:21 PM

I agree this is an excellent document. 3ABN I hope has received some good legal advise rather than relying on good christian ethics which in the end often leads to speculation by those holding different opinions (does anyone remember the discussions of what constitutes fair payment to the authors of the book on the 10 commandments that was distributed?).

Please see item#4 as to past conflicts of interest and the need to disclose.

BlackSDA _ 3ABN _ Lynch Mob

Posted by: Observer Aug 29 2006, 07:58 PM

I was asked today: Would Christ join the 3-ABN lynch mob?

Is this a valid question?

It reminds me to t he ago old question, "Have you stopped beating your wife?" Neither a "yes," nor a "no" might accurately answer that question. One who has never beaten his wife, could only give a "no."

The 3-ABN question begins with a word that is associated with the absence of law. I reminds us of the days of slavery in the United States, when people were denied any semblance of justice solely on the basis of the color of their skin. It implies extreme prejudice. Truth and justice are absent from consideration.

The question attaches all of the above to those who are raising issues regarding 3-ABN.

The person who asked that question of me likely believes that what she or he sees on the surface is all that is present. What is seen on the surface is only the tip of the iceberg. Beneath the surface of the water, there are those working quietly, within denominational channels, and outside of such, to effect a change in the 3-ABN situation.

All that is asked for by the vast multitude of people concerned about this, is that God will work to restore truth and justice. Their cry has been echoed in the passage found in Revelation 6:9-10.

No, Christ would never join a lynch mob. The people who raise their voice in protest over the injustice that they see, are simply responding to what they believe is the call of God.

It would be far easier for them to remain silent. But, it is their commitment to Christ that leads them to speak.

All of them are human. They may not speak perfectly. They may be wrong. But, they respond to a call to act, and not sit silent in a time of injustice.

All would gladly sit back and allow others who have the power to do so to settle these issues in more traditional venues. They would be glad for objective denominational authorities.to investigate, and act, if they believed the power rested with those authorities. They would be glad for the civil authorities to act, if that would happen.

Until such happens, the people can only cry out against the wrong that the believe are happening.

That cry is in response to what they believe is the call of God, and not a response to a lynch mob.

The person who asked that question of me, simply does not understand the issues, what is going on, and what is happening behind the scenes.

If you're talking about the lynching of Linda Shelton, the answer is "no."

The people asking those questions had expected Danny Shelton to carry on business as usual, I think, without skipping a beat.

Linda met the resemblance of a lynching mob in the Thompsonville Seventh-day Adventis Church when she had requested having her membership transferred to another church.

Posted by: justme Aug 31 2006, 07:27 PM

AS I recall, "a lynch mob" hangs people who are NOT guilty, just because they don't LIKE the person.
Are you referring to the "lynch mob" who work for the "Televangelist"?
Where was the "lynch mob" when Jesus cast the money-changers and animal dealers were thrown out of the temple in Jerusalem? They "WERE" the lynch mob.
Or maybe, the reprimand directed toward the Pharisees and Sadducees and the Scribes in the word, "You generation of vipers ...".
Words spoken in truth are not a lynching. They are an expose'? They are a call to abandon the ways of evil. To stop mocking God!
"Know ye not that by the words you judge you shall be judged" the judgement cast upon Linda and others is coming back to become the very basis for the judgement coming upon THEM. The punishment ye have dealt shall be dealt SEVEN-FOLD upon you". it seems.

Posted by: princessdi Aug 31 2006, 09:55 PM

Why is asking Danny, and his people to answer the charges against them a lynch mob? Danny has been told several times and ways he can quiet all of this talk, including Calvin offering to foot the bill for an indipendent investgation. Fact is, he is wrong, and as long as he is wrong, people are going to be asking him about those things which he has done wrong.

Posted by: Treniece Jan 27 2007, 03:58 PM

Danny Shelton and those who work at 3abn should expect to receive backlashes from Danny's seperation from Linda. After seeing Danny and Linda Shelton on TV for so long and then to hear of their seperation causes questions to arise in one's mind. The first question is 'why'. Then one begins to wonder who is at fault. This is only human nature, whether it be right or wrong. When you are in a high position of trust, persons usually sometimes find negative stuff to say, but when you have seperated from your wife and the grounds seem to be unclear, you have opened up a whole can of worms.

You're right...that's why Danny and his apologists use smoke and mirrors to try and distract people from the real issues, even when they're faced with first hand accounts from family members and ex-3ABN employees...they figure if they throw around enough "Danny's really the victim" stories then may the questionsn will stop...I don't think they factored in the fact that at BSDA this is not Sabbath School and we pay attention!!!

Treniece, we ALL have faults, that goes without saying and can be assumed in the case of every human being. "All have sinned and fallen short of the Glory of God."

All have sinned and hurt themselves in the process. Unfortunately, some have sinned and hurt others as well.

You are right here PB. It isn't about who has sinned. What matters is who has repented. We all have hurt others, most often unintentionally. When an honest hearted person realizes they have hurt another, they take responsibility for what they have done, and make restitution if at all possible.

So, once again, it is about the fruits of one's life. What are the fruits of the lives of those in question?

I do not believe that anyone here on this fourm would refuse to grant forgiveness if there were genuine repentance. (which involves turning away from sin) People who are self decieved can not accept forgiveness, because they don't think they need it.

Wanting the 3abn mess to be cleaned up does not mean that one is against 3abn or the leadership there.

Let me add my voice to others here, Thank you Duane for coming forward, and welcome.

And God forgives all when we confess and repent.

However, we're not doing anyone a favor to tell them they're just fine in their sins and don't need to confess and repent. Not only does this cause further harm to others but harm also to those who do the sinning/abusing.

SUE SCHEFF WINS $11.3 MILLION FOR INTERNET DEFAMATION
Susan Scheff and her Weston-based company, Parents Universal Resource Experts Inc., won the jury verdict in Broward Circuit Court in Florida against Carey Bock for posting defamatory statements about her on an internet bulletin board viewed by parents, according to court pleadings. Ms. Scheff was represented by David Pollack, of the Law Offices of David H. Pollack, LLC.
The Broward Circuit Court jury sent a strong message that freedom of speech has limits, and the case will make people think twice before setting out on a campaign to destroy others.

I guess asking would be one thing. . . . but the accusations have maybe went above and beyond your pocket. By the way Danny and Linda may be public figures BUT Tommy is not, was not, he was only an employee there.

I ain't asking. I'm stating with boldness.... TOMMY SHELTON HAD SEX WITH A CHILD (and since it was proven that he did...) HE IS A MOLESTER AND ONE WHO COMMITTED SEXUAL ASSAULT ON A CHILD.

Now.

Again I ask...since you popped in EyeWitness - Would you allow Tommy Shelton to babysit your children w/o supervision? With supervision? On an "overnight" sleepover?

BTW: IF Tommy Shelton was ever on 3ABN Television - before a camera.... EVER. He IS IN FACT A PUBLIC FIGURE.

He is a public figure. And what difference does that make on God's green earth? Get a grip, would you?

You are simply amazing. Keep living in that world...you are about to learn a few things the VERY hard way.

eye witness,

Notice the following:

" 'The punitive damages speak volumes,' says Scheff, 'it was set to punish the defendant for what she did to my children and me. Just because you don't like someone or what they do, it does not give you carte blanche to post false statements about a person on the internet.' " http://www.caica.org/NEWS%20Internet%20defamation%2010-12-06.htm

Would you be so kind as to clearly state what statements about the Tommy Shelton child molestation allegations or about Danny's handling of those allegations is definitely false? From what I can tell, if it isn't false, there may not be a problem.

I am brave because I serve the LORD. I know that I have done nothing wrong. Tommy Shelton molested children. That is it point blank. I have a stomach for the court system. I have time. I don't have deep pockets...as anyone can sue me and not get a dime if (BIG IF) I lose....however -

I WILL NOT LOSE!

Why?

Because GOD is on my side.

I work with children that have been molested and actually wet their pants when the toilet flushes because it reminds them of their attack. I know what people have to go through as adults from my own attack.... Oh you better believe EyeWitness I am brave...brave because JESUS went before me and handled it all quite well. He gives me strength. He gives me courage to come on this board and keep reiterating that it's about children, it's about ministry, it's about trust.

Actually I wish someone would try to sue me for what I have said on this board. Why? For the time they waste, the name draggin' mess they would like to do, and the issues that would come out. My college loans and my next degree will be PAID IN FULL!

As for my comment about your household below....

I'm saying that when you "defend" someone.... and refuse to see the "light" - that the exact same "defense" that you are putting up for someone else may need to be put up in your own home. Children get molested when the parents/acting parental unit/relatives/friends have their guard down, the children are groomed, and a trust is set with the victim/victim's family. It may not be Tommy, it may not be this year; but it will happen to someone in your family. Not just because of the "karma"/spirit of mess you keep putting out - but because of statistics.... 1 in 3 girls; 2 in 5 boys.

Now.

Can you help your little loved ones?

Sure.

You can open your eyes....then again. Some are blind because they want to be. I pray that it doesn't happen to your family - but you are putting out a spirit of mess...therefore mess will boomerrang back at you.

I will pray for you and yours.

Let me make sure it is perfectly understood.....

You go Duane! We are with you - and we all know, these days NO ONE stands still for this stuff anymore. This is the wrong time in this worlds history to be a pedifile/molestor. WRONG TIME. You have millions of people with you. Actually, what they don't see is it will make others so mad, it will give them that last bit of courage to come forth as well.

There are people that when they get ahold of this, see the intimidation process and places it is carried out, will have more then a hay day, but will be on doorsteps of those who stood in the way of justice on this issue, and they will wish they had not been protecting those that have committed these criminal offenses, especially these kind. Let them say all the garbage they want to you - it won't change anything, and it will only make it worse for them. So, let them go at it! It's their necks.

Not only that, but it will get really ugly if any of my friends or family get threatening calls or letters as well. The intimidation DOES NOT WORK anymore.

It takes Christian courage to make a statement like yours! And this is just what we need in these days when Satan is gaining control of the minds and actions of the whole world, including Christian people who are defending such actions against children.

I pray the Holy Spirit may open the eyes of such people as "Bystander" and "eye witness" that they may realize how Satan is using their talents that Jesus will lose in the final events of "The Great Controversy"!

If the church of God is not to proclaim a message of abstaining from evil, who is?

How deceptful it is to tell the world that you are proclaiming the message of the three angels with all the doctrines attached to this message, but then state in actions and words that it is all right to molest children, to lie and cheat, as long as you have the message of those three angels.

O God, have mercy!

Duane:

Lawyers whom I know would not advice a client to actually file a lawsuit against you, as they would not believe it to be in the best interests of their client to ask a jury to award their client either real or punitive damages. They would likely tell their client that a jury would likely be sympathetic to you, and find in your favor.

Greg; How on earth did we get from there to here?

With all these threats, flexing of muscles, and the, "My Daddy can beat up Your Daddy" going around. We need to lighten up man! We need SMAN!

Here's one that will make lawyers laugh or get mad.

"What do you have when you get 1,000 lawyers at the bottom of the ocean?"

Answer: "A Good Start!"

OK, OK! I'm and accountant, so to be fair I will share something from SMAN that I still get a kick out of, and it makes me laugh every time I read it. In fact, I have shared it with my accounting friends!

A businessman was interviewing applicants for the position of Divisional Manager. He devised a simple test to select the most suitable person for the job. He asked each applicant the question, "What is two and two?"

1. The first interviewee was a journalist. His answer was "twenty-two."

2. The second applicant was an engineer. He pulled out a calculator and showed the answer to be between 3.999999 and 4.000001.

3. The next person was a lawyer. He stated that in the case of Jenkins v. Commer of Stamp Duties (Qld), two and two was proven to be four.

4. The last applicant was an accountant. The business man asked him, "How much is two and two?"

The accountant got up from his chair, went over to the door, closed it then came back and sat down. He leaned across the desk and said in a low voice, "How much do you want it to be?"

He got the job.

Fran:

How did we get here? Lawyers like to posture. They like to bluff. They want to scare people into some kind of compliance.

But, sooner or later, as I have stated, this will wind up in litigation. It is going to get much worse before it gets better. Litigation should not be taken lightly. It will not be fun for the involved people.

I clearly believe that sooner or later a lawsuit will be filed. The first may be the one against GAJ in regard to the use of the 3ABN trademark? But, if that is so, I do not believe that it will be the last.

Further, I will suggest that once a lawsuit has been filed, the so-called other side will begin to file. It is clear to anyone who understands that law, that people on all sides of this issue [NOTE: There are more than two sides.] have the potential to file a lawsuit against someone else. The fact that I state that various lawsuits have the potential to be filed is not a statement as to who will prevail.

If multiple lawsuits are filed, the public, to include these Internet forums, may very well see some information comming to light that has never been made public. Further, there may be claims of tort (harm) made that have never been mentioned in public.

Where is God in all of this? God is not harmed by the public disclosure of wrong that is not repented of, and is covered up by knowledgeable people. God is a God of truth and justice. When the people of God either refuse, or are unable to right such wrongs, and refuse to repent of them, God will use the civil authorities, or other methods to excise the growing cancer of sin.

For those who say: "Leave it to God," God can accomplish His purpose by using civil authorities. God does not have to send a lightening bolt to destroy a transmitter, or to burn a building. God is not limited.

See: "Everyone must submit himself to the governing authorities, for there is no authority except that which God has established. The authorities that exist have been established by God. . . . For he is God's servant to do you good. But if you do wrong, be afraid, for he does not bear the sword for nothing. He is God's servant, and agent of wrath to bring punishment on the wrongdoer. Therefore, it is necessary to submit to the authorities, not only because of possible punishment but also because of conscience. Romans 13: 1 & 4 -5. NLT

NOTE: The Bible tells us that wrongdoers are to be submitted to the civil authorities as a matter of conscience.

For Good Measure you need more than I "read" a statement so I trashed a whole family and a ministry. I HAD THE RIGHT! I read a statement, I believed it, so therefore I acted upon it with my own judgment. Sad Diane. I believe also that when all the various forms of proof are exposed on the First Lady you will be shocked to say the least, that you fell for, believed and supported, what you do not even know to be fact. There may be a lesson ahead. Character refinement dear friend.

I find it very interesting that you refer to Linda Shelton as "the First Lady", not as the Vice President. Linda has never been referred to any where in any postings or publicly as the "First Lady" of 3ABN, but this is a term that has been coined for the Pastor's wife in our black SDA churches, never in our white SDA churches. Is this a hint to your identity? That rather narrows down the field at 3ABN. Could you be John Lomacang? Or perhaps CA Murry? It is definitely sad to think that SDA pastors could sink so low as to lie for Danny Shelton. Or like Bystander, are you just "me"?

Who is 'Diane?

Posted by: PrincessDrRe Feb 4 2007, 09:22 AM

You just proved that you don't read. I ain't Diane.

That's sad. You can type....but you cannot read. Bless your soul.... No "character refinement" needed unless the LORD sees fit (not you); but literacy lessons may be in order....on your end.

Now....
ahem

Change in stats...

1 in 3 girls; 1 in 4 boys will be sexually assaulted/molested before reaching adulthood.

Of the sexual molestations only 26% or less will take place by a stranger. The majority will be someone the child knows (whether friend, relative, or someone known "intimately" [someone that acts in a "family" way or a close "friend" of the family]) by the child.

Your questions are irrevelant:

Children can not consent!

People below the age of consent cannot consent!

Incompetent people of any age typically cannot consent!

Clergy involved in a sexual relationship with a compent acult may under the law be charged with statuatory rape. Perhaps they cannot be so charged as that depends upon State law. In any case they are commonly thought to have violated the seccular norms of society.

Quit grasping at straws.

I am not making a statement as to whether a crime was committed. But, I am saying that it is inappropriate for Duane who has come forward to be subject to the questions that you ask. He has come forward in a manner that society has said we should pay attention to. And, regardless of any criminal conviction. society has said that children should be protected from the accused simply on the basis of what Duane has said. Society does not require a criminal conviction.

Duane: Thank you for your courage in the face of great adversity.

As a matter of fact, I DO mind. My statement is online here, at Maritime and on save3abn.com. There are at least a couple of answers to your questions there.

If you're going where I think you are with the age question - don't. I advise you to leave that alone.

"Thou shalt not bear false witness against thy neighbor. Thou shalt not covet thy neighbor's house. Thou shalt not covet thy neighbor's wife, nor manservant, nor his maidservant..."

You will notice two things:

1) Don't bear false testimony of others.
2) Don't even wish you could have a neighbor's wife.

Now, some follow up to those:

1) WHO has trashed his whole family and ministry?

- "All members of the family center in the father.... The father is in one sense the priest of the household, laying upon the altar of God the morning and evening sacrifice." EGW
- The family that prays together, stays together.
- "The husband is the house-band..." EGW
- "Art thou bound unto a wife? seek not to be loosed." 1 Cor. 7:27
- "The husband and father is the head of the household. The wife looks to him for love and sympathy and for aid in the training of the children; and this is right. The children are his as well as hers..." EGW

2) Who has coveted and taken the next step, that of adultery?
3) Who has lied to cover his tracks?
4) Who will be shocked when the Day of the Lord has come?

There will be a reckoning. It will be swift and sure. "To every man according as his work shall be." Eye Witness, I'm sure you will be right about the surprises. That is why there are some who must ask, "Lord, when saw we thee an hungred, or athirst, or a stranger, or naked, or sick, or in prison, and did not minister unto thee?"

I don't know about the rest of you - but I am glad to see eyewitness gone. I am tired of people on here who are arguing and trying to defend serious topics. Child molestation, adultery and lying are all serious and crummy things to have happen. People need to take this seriously and remember what has happened at 3abn. Just my opinion

Now how do you know what has happened at 3ABN. By what you have read here? Better get better reading materials. This is the star and the enquirer of the Adventist church.

Sunworship? Let us see. I just fininshed doing a Protestant religious service at 10 AM, local time, on February 4, 2007. I don't think I was worshiping the Sun. Rather, I will suggest that I was leading in worship of the SON!

Now, back to on topic.

While I'm not sure what you mean by "this" but it is rather obvious that the 3abn camp is doing what they've accused their accusers of, from the beginning. And how do I know they are not smart? Because if they were smart they would have just clamed up and let the sleeping dogs lie. Instead they just added fuel to the fire. I'm kinda sorry to see eyewitness go. To be a forum, there needs to be a difference of opinion or it gets dull and boring.

It may be that everyone will be shocked when/if the real truth comes out. Of course, maybe it has.

EW wasn't suspended for having a different opinion. Nobody gets suspended for that reason, but for not following the rules. I find it normal.

You see Grace, they have an unusual way of looking at things....it's called THEIR way. They dodge, spin, restate in their own terms regardless of facts. That's ok, it is fun to hear and see the none-sense and desperate attempts to divate away from truth, which is their profected profession. Scary if you think about it really...more sad then anything else.

WWJD: Per your speaking and what you deem as "fun".... and not even being "sarcastic" about it - but serious...here's your diagnosis. I hope that you seek professional mental therapy before it is too late.

Axis I - V71.09 - Diagnosis Deferred

Axis II - Antisocial
Secondary - Borderline

Axis III - V71.09

Axis IV - Problems w/ Primary Support Group; Social Environment; NOS

Axis V - GAF-51

Will change diagnosis as more information becomes available.

If they were honest people who played fair, we would not be here discussing this, any of this subject, in fact, I highly doubt there would even be a 3abn desinated forum. Think about it.

Duane;

Please do not let this phantom spook you. It is not right. Have faith and be of good courage, you have done the correct thing. God must prevail.

Another story:

People are liars, arrogant and obviously proud of their feats. Even some leaders in the SDA churches and conferences.

A child reports a sexual assault to the local conference. The person responsible was a pastor! In full denial, the SDA conference did not believe the child even though the child gave details no one else would know about the private anatomy of the pastor.

Now, we have a very confused child. The pastor continues to molest the child. No one would listen except the mother and school teacher. The teacher spoke up and got fired. Lawyers came and threatened the single parent mother with a lawsuit for her child lying.

The mother could not move, nor could she pay for the defense of a lawyer. So when someone in another SDA church in the area came to the mother and offered their home for the child, the mother was praising God. The child felt like her mother was abandoning her because everyone was saying she lied. The father in this family was the head elder of their church and teacher in the church school. This low-life swiftly took over where the pastor left off. Total despair takes over the child that is praying continually for help.

Help came in a strange way. At the age of 9, her menstrual cycle started. That very day, the wonderful elder and teacher no longer wanted her in their home. Now the child faces abandonment all over again. It was not her fault that she started her period. She thought she was dying when she saw all the blood. She got dumped back with her mother and had to go back to the old church with the same "innocent" pastor. He no longer "loved" her. He knew about her period! Who would have told him? You guess.

The child spent years trying to understand why and how this all happened. The pastor retired with honors and the teacher became the principal of an Academy. He retired, but was asked to come to a newer and larger Academy.

The child grew and reported the low-lifes again. They still did not believe. In fact a wonderful lawyer threatened to sue if she continued to say those awful things about these people. Everyone kept telling her it did not happen! She begins to question her sanity.

She ended up leaving her church. She left God for totally abandoning her in her time of real need. What did she do wrong? Why would God send lawyers to sue her mother and her, twice? How can she ever trust pastors, teachers, and church leaders again? She had no money for a lawyer, what could she do to fight at the age of 10? What about the age of 15 when she tried again to tell what had happened?

Thereafter, she remained silent wondering how many other kids were now in her place. She told no one. She marries and ...

Life repeats itself over and over again. Where does it stop? Where do these kids go to get help when the person that is supposed to help is also a molester?

This is why the majority of incidents go unreported. Lawyers scare the victims to death by laying the blame on them! This girl has seen it all. I doubt a lawyer can intimidate her in the least today. Life has been hard for her. She went from very shy, to being politically correct. Always saying the right thing at the right time and taking pride in all of her accomplishments. Becoming educated taught her many lessons.

As time passed, she starts speaking up when she could have remained silent. She vows she will never let child molestation go but will tell as many people as possible what has happened. Lawyers still came. Nothing came of it. What should she do? Tell her, she is many. There are many he's also within our church that continue to be molested.

Who is helping them? Who is protecting them? Who is telling them where they can go for help? How many classes are taught to tell them about right and wrong? Should that person be our pastors? I think not. Should it be our teachers? Maybe, maybe not. What about our parents?

Where is the solution to save our children from molesters, pedophiles and rapists? Only recently did our church come up with new rules. Was that real or just a showpiece to the public that they are doing their part, when in reality they continue to just replace the predators playground by giving him a new pot to pull from. Where is their example when they allow leaders to divorce without cause and remarry, but still remain as a leader?

Should this little girl have to watch this for the rest of her life?

Should these boys have to witness this over and over again?

Where does it end?

How can it be stopped now?

Why must a large percentage of molesters be hidden behind the mask of God, when in reality they are themselves a self appointed "god"?

Why is it that people can continue their crimes because they can afford all the lawyers in the world to threaten the victims?

How can penniless people fight that?

Maybe we all should line up at Legal Aid offices where you get a lawyer that never sees you or talks to you?

Maybe they should just be quiet and let it continue.

Somebody please tell me what the solution is to save our children from such people. I need to know.

Posted by: Richard Sherwin Feb 4 2007, 05:25 PM

Sad, heartbreakingly sad. And yet we see the same thing happening even today. Attacking the victim, how filled with Satan can a person get.

She got dumped back with her mother and had to go back to the old church with the same "innocent" pastor. He no longer "loved" her. He knew about her period! Who would have told him? You guess.

The child spent years trying to understand why and how this all happened. The pastor retired with honors and the teacher became the principal of an Academy. He retired, but was asked to come to a newer and larger Academy.

The child grew and reported the low-lifes again. They still did not believe. In fact a wonderful lawyer threatened to sue if she continued to say those awful things about these people. Everyone kept telling her it did not happen! She begins to question her sanity.

She ended up leaving her church. She left God for totally abandoning her in her time of real need. What did she do wrong? Why would God send lawyers to sue her mother and her, twice? How can she ever trust pastors, teachers, and church leaders again? She had no money for a lawyer, what could she do to fight at the age of 10? What about the age of 15 when she tried again to tell what had happened?

Thereafter, she remained silent wondering how many other kids were now in her place. She told no one. She marries and ...

Life repeats itself over and over again. Where does it stop? Where do these kids go to get help when the person that is supposed to help is also a molester?

This is why the majority of incidents go unreported. Lawyers scare the victims to death by laying the blame on them! This girl has seen it all. I doubt a lawyer can intimidate her in the least today. Life has been hard for her. She went from very shy, to being politically correct. Always saying the right thing at the right time and taking pride in all of her accomplishments. Becoming educated taught her many lessons.

As time passed, she starts speaking up when she could have remained silent. She vows she will never let child molestation go but will tell as many people as possible what has happened. Lawyers still came. Nothing came of it. What should she do? Tell her, she is

Last week I saw a very interesting program on HopeTV. In the case of women beaters, it is the crown that presses charges. Apparently it has dropped the rate of spousal abuse by one third in the cities where it has been used.

Maybe we should alert our legislators to the possibility of doing the same in cases of sexual assault.

I have been reading Robert D Hare's books. I am truly enjoying "Without Conscience". Wikepedia put this list out there as a Psychopathy Checklist. It is truly revealing.

> QUOTE
>] Psychopathy Checklist-Revised (PCL-R)
> This is a clinical rating scale with 20 items, in which both case histories and semi-structured interviews are used. Each of the items in the PCL-R is scored on a three-point (0, 1, 2) scale according to two factors. A value of 0 is assigned if the item does not apply, 1 if it applies somewhat, and 2 if it fully applies. The two factors are: emotional detachment and lifestyle. Factor One looks for a selfish, remorseless, individual with inflated self-esteem who exploits others. Factor Two describes a lifestyle that is chaotic, antisocial and/or criminal, marked by impulsiveness, a lack of responsibility and reactive anger . According to Hare, a psychopath will score high on both factors, whereas someone with Antisocial Personality Disorder will score high only on factor two.[3]

> The items are as follows:
> 1. Glibness/superficial charm
> 2. Grandiose sense of self-worth
> 3. Need for stimulation/proneness to boredom
> 4. Pathological lying
> 5. Cunning/manipulative
> 6. Lack of remorse or guilt
> 7. Shallow affect
> 8. Callous/lack of empathy
> 9. Parasitic lifestyle
> 10. Poor behavioral controls
> 11. Promiscuous sexual behavior
> 12. Early behavioral problems
> 13. Lack of realistic, long-term goals
> 14. Impulsivity
> 15. Irresponsibility
> 16. Failure to accept responsibility for own actions
> 17. Many short-term marital relationships
> 18. Juvenile delinquency
> 19. Revocation of conditional release
> 20. Criminal versatility
> The items are then summed in order to obtain a total score. The cutoff for psychopathy is 30 points or greater (25 in some studies).

I am anxious to hear more. Not particularly about someone in particular, but in General.

The old adage is "Hold your friends close and your enemies even closer". If you want to answer the "other side", you need to know what they are saying.

I'm sorry my comment seemed flippant, even to me as I read it now. However, I do feel that it is important for understanding to see what others are saying.

Tommy Shelton was a pastor when he elleged approached these young men. In case you haven't noticed, molestation charges will make Joe Blow a public figure. Sexual impropiety and misconduct by a minister, will make you a public figure. I am not quite sure why you all are overlooking the fact of Tommy's position of authority and trust that was breeched.

BlackSDA _ 3ABN _ Was Linda Innocent?

Posted by: Uncle Sam Dec 28 2006, 02:08 PM

This whole topic is getting old. Too many accusations and not enough facts. Since everyone is so down on Danny does that mean that Linda is innocent of doing any wrong? She stayed for 20 years, I am sorry she had to know some of what was going on. She had perks. Maybe she had an affair maybe not, I don't know and neither does anybody else except Linda and the Dr.

If we don't like what is happening with 3ABN don't support it. Unless there is a legal issue there is really nothing any one can do and writing about it on a forum isn't going to change anything. If it was something would have happened by now. If Tommy is guilty than the athorities need to be involved. The conference is not going to do anything by what is written here.

I do agree Linda was treated unfairly, looking in, but again none of us know everything that took place. We were not in her home when she was alone with Danny, we were not on the phone with her and the Dr. I think she made some poor choices, like the pregnancy test....maybe if everyone went on with their life Linda could get on with her's????

From what I have read, Danny thinks Linda is behind all of these rumors. Maybe if they stopped unless there is strong evidence, Linda could move on with what she wants to do, her ministry. Some of this talk is so ridiculous, who cares where Linda lives, if she can afford it who am I? So what if she has a pool, so does Danny. Why should she have any less than him if they built their home together for 20 years?

Just some thoughts I had floating around....

Posted by: Daryl Fawcett Dec 28 2006, 03:59 PM

Strange kind of post for the name of this new topic in which you asked, Was Linda Innocent?

Why didn't you post this in an already existing topic about Linda?

Maybe you are trying to stir the pot all over again in yet another new topic about Linda?

Posted by: princessdi Dec 28 2006, 03:59 PM

I have stated before, that I really am not concerned about Linda's guilt or innocence in this, but more about Danny'and 3ABN's conduct. Which, BTW, supports that Linda is basically innocent of any kind of adultery. I can't believe he really thought that "spiritual adultery" stuff would work with everyone......but then again I guess it worked with enough fools....Ooops!.......folks.

If she, indeed, was in on all of the misdeeds of the last 20 years, then I would say, "what goes around, comes around". I actually have no problem with they way either of them live. I think it was Joy who said something about working 20 years and accumulating a nice, house, etc. That makes since to me. Still having a bit a trouble with the plane, though bought or leased, still an extrememly extravagant expense.

I am more concerned about Danny's and 3ABN's conduct, because they are still the "face of Adventism" for far too many, and the Bible promises, what is done in the dark will come to the light. Our church has too close a bond with 3ABN, and fallout could be extremely nasty. Especially if one of those eager beaver journalist get a hold of this story, and the church has done nothing, inhouse, to correct or eradicate the wrongs, etc.

I am not trying to stir the pot...My question is why was all of this not brought up while Linda was still with Danny or was it? What has changed is it because they now see him for something different. I can agree about the handling of the divorce but all of the rest why did we not know about it before?

If I am not mistaken Walt Thompson has said short of having pictures they cannot prove a physical affair....So I believe the board thinks there was more to it than SA.

It just seems odd to me that when all of Danny's sins are brought to light Linda somehow was/is so innocent?

It wouldn't hurt a bit for Danny, Linda & a bunch of forum members to be reminded of at lease one impossibility among the thousands. "It is impossible to whiten up your own life by blackening the life of another".
I think it was about 1998 that I receiced a second letter from Linda of which my next letter to her became "Open letter to Linda Shelton" due to her not doing what she said in her first letter the year before. This letter is still floating around out there in space somewhere, that is truer today than the day I wrote it.

Regarding: What Ed is talking about.

I think Ed is saying that Linda did not come through for Ed because Ty and James did not respond to Ed's questions.

November 15, 1998

Linda Shelton
P.O. Box 220
West Frankfort, IL 62896

Dear Linda:

Your correspondence to me on March 7, 1997, gave me a indication that Ty Gibson and James Rafferty would reply to a few questions that I had asked them through 3ABN. I already knew that they would not answer. It was just that I wanted you to know of their refusal. The reason for their refusal is a legal question that I was unaware of until recently. Just ask any of the Attorneys there on your staff about the below Supreme Court case. "Where an answer is required, and none given, or misinformation is given, its self evident of fraud." U.S. v. Prudden, 424 F.2d. 1021, (5 ThCir. 1970, Cert, denied; 400 U.S. 831, 91 S.Ct. 62; LEd. 2d (1970); and U.S. v. Tweel, 550 F.2d. 297.

Ty & James know that fraud is intermingled throughout their studies on Daniel and Revelation, so how could they answer to some one that is not deceived by their agenda. Ty & James are not the only ministers that you allow air time to present the error of a past generation. The below names also refuse to answer a Bible question that differs from their understanding. But there is one way that I receive a reply from these ministers and here is how it always takes place.

Just ask a question about money, then they will always put the pen to the paper. They do not want anything difficult or to be confused by any thing new. They are of the group spoken about on page 609 of Great Controversy. "Every new truth has made it's way against hatred and opposition." Great Controversy 609.

Having personally witnessed both opposition and hatred, only forces me to my knees, it lands on Jesus first, the same with praise, He receives all the praise and credit. Linda, there is not enough wet blankets in the whole world to extinguish the spark of truth that these ministers are desperate to suppress, and you are just giggling along with them. The very message that will be proclaimed during the Loud Cry period "They will see only something which in their blindness they think dangerous, something which will arouse their fears, and they will brace themselves to resist it. Because the Lord does not work according to their ideas and expectations, they will oppose the work. Why, they say, 'should not we know the Spirit of God, when we have been in the work so many years?'" Review and Herald, December 23, 1890

Linda, it is absolutely necessary for us to not be in the wrong group when the below scheduled meeting takes place during the "7th trumpet and 7th plague." "Behold, I will make them of the synagogue of Satan, which say they are Jews, and are not, but do lie; behold, I will make them to come and worship before thy feet, and to know that I have loved thee." Revelation 3:9.

The false shepherds in Adventism will make up a large segment of those who will bow at the saints feet in true worship. They wish that they could die at this point in time, but they are not allowed to die. The Bible says, "and in those days shall men seek death, and shall not find it; and shall desire to die, and death shall flee from them." Revelation 9:6.

Sincerely,

ED WHITE

P.S. To read some of the truth that these ministers are desperate to suppress, read my book "Revelation for Children's Lips to Proclaim."

Linda's and Joseph's Dreams

When we were studying the Sabbath School lesson on the fufillment of Josep's Dreams I was reminded of Linda's dream.

Linda was a very timid person. The first time she was to sing for Danny she asked him to turn his back to her so she would be able to sing. Later they got married - and later the 3ABN venture was launched. Linda wondered what her role was, and Danny told her she could write the thank-you cards to the donors. I think she did a good job writing those notes.

Then one night Linda had a dream where she was told that some day her role would be even more important than Danny's at the TV station. In her innocense she told Danny of her dream. He replied that this would never happen.

And when it was happening Danny did the same as Joseph's brothers had done. He sold Linda by his fictitious stories to get rid of her that her dream would not be fulfilled.

What can we learn from the story of Joseph?

Posted by: Observer Dec 30 2006, 08:32 AM

Some people keep asking if Linda was 100 per-cent Innocent! Come on folks. That appears to be an attempt to discover some fault in her. Look long enough, and you will find it.

It just may be that one morning, while Linda was fixing breakfast for Danny, she needed to attend to a personal need. As a result, she may have burned his toast. If you want to charge her with that error, I will grant it. Don't we all know that when a woman is fixing breakfast for her man, she should put self aside, and not attend to any of her personal needs? Amazing that anyone would think otherwise!

The fundamental issue is: Did Linda give Danny Biblical grounds to divorce her? That is the issue. It is not whether or not she burned his toast one morning, or even six mornings.

This whole sordid discussion came out of public claims on Danny's part that were unsolicited and his subsequent attempts to qualify those claims when many who heard them called "bovine excrement"... including those, like Johann, who knew him, knew her, knew the doctor and knew the whole thing was a crock from the word 'go'. Linda had no say in the matter and what she did say stands in stark contrast to the spin coming from Danny's camp.

If you need to lay this mess at someone's feet the droppings all lead to Danny's backside... not Linda's. The rest of this stuff is just making the size of the dunghill from whence this stuff has been dragged known. His dirty laundry would not be hanging in his front yard if he hadnt needed to rationalize his divorce and remarriage... but he got antsy when he realized he couldnt just show up on TV with a new wife out of the blue... and the church would not continue to patronize 3ABN if it was so plainly led by one who was not a member in good and regular standing... which would mean he could not maintain the lifestyle to which he had become accustomed...

and you, seeing evidence and first hand testimony of all of this are still trying to say it's Linda's fault?

Maybe you need to change position so you're standing down wind of what you're shoveling...

In His service,
Mr. J

Linda was at 3ABN for 20 years.

She was the VP and privy to all the goings on at 3ABN.

She sat in the board meeting when it was decided that Tommy would stay.

She knew who lived in what housing.

She knew where all the finances were going.

She knew about any internal strife and disagreement.

The point is, she knew.

She either agreed with it or she didn't - and until recently it seems that she agreed. To talk about burnt toast (Observer) is to either completely miss the point or an attempt to divert the spot light away from true facts. If you are uncomfortable with these facts it would seem to display a desire for revenge as opposed to discovery of the truth.

Danny has responded to accusations and attacks on him - something he should have avoided. He has made accusations against Linda - something he should have avoided. BUT, if you are going to try and sell people (be you "sister", Observer, watchbird or any other) that Linda has not spoken against Danny or others at 3ABN then you display an extreme level of naivety.

Now if you are going to admit that Linda was complict and knwoledegable of those things that transpired while she was there - you might be on the right path to finding some truth. If you are going to attempt to sweep under the rug her involvement or paint her (as was attempted in the Televangelist) as incompetent in her position and unaware of what was happening around her at 3ABN thereby absoving her of her responsibility in a number of the things you accuse Danny of - there can be no truth in you, nor in your claims and accusations.

Linda does bear the responsibility for her votes and actions while she was there. She also bears the responsibility for the informaiton she has provided (in violation of the contract she willingly signed) to those who post here.

The delight in the spurious announcement of Danny's stepping down was very indicative of the attitudes of some here - not what those who desire a change of heart reformation would want.

Until someone sees the property settlement agreement, the bank accounts of both for the past three years, all titles to property of any kind, pictures, etc., etc. no one here will be satisfied - and most of that documentation will never be made public - because it is private and nobody's business but the holder of such information (yes, Fran, I know you will chime in and say the State has a right , that is a given).

Linda knew.

She bears responsibility.

She did more than burn the toast.

- fhb

And when that is discussed she will get her share... but that has nothing to do with the attempts to paint her as a scarlet woman to rationalize Danny's divorcing her and marrying Brandy. It is noteworthy in and of itself that theses attempts are being made to bring up things of which Linda is indeed guilty to take attention away from the things originally alleged of which the preponderance of the evidence says she was not...

The latest in a series of weapons of mass distraction from you and others who are playing Danny's spin meisters...

While we are on the subject of who was guilty of what, when do we get to the church itself? The .org is at least as guilty as Linda of doing what was easy rather than doing what was right.

The bottom line is neither the church's failure nor Linda's make Danny's failure, faults, flaws shortcomings or sins go away... and you and those inclined to your manner of thinking are just enabling him to avoid responsibility....so I guess that means you've done more than burn the toast too.

Huuuuuuuuummmmmmmmmmmmmmmmmmmmmmmmmmmm.

Yes, I am still here. Do I SMELL BAIT? Why didn't you call me by my nick name again?

Please read "Why Does He Do That" by Lundy Bancroft. You will find why Linda did what she did as well as why she continued for 20 years. You will also find out why Danny did/does what he did/does even to this day.

You might just find out why you do what you do?

You are a day late and a dollar short. Smelly - Smelly!!!!!

FHB--you are right on in your remarks. I really appreciated them. Thanks for making things so clear and for being so Christ-like about it.

Can you be any more passive-agressive? Attacking those who differ by couching them in a purported compliment toward one who you happen to agree with? Implying those who differ with FHB are not 'clear thinking'?

Were you so enamored with his being "Christ-like" in your estimation that you lost sight of the mark for yourself?

It's a rhetorical question...mostly.

I did once discuss that with Linda. Of course she bears responsibility. But what do you expect of a - like Gailon calls her - a naive and innocent young woman?

Linda's own answer now is, I learned early not to disagree with Dan nor cross his path. So she had to vote with him or the divorce had come a decade earlier.

Can you create a backbone in a person who has been taught that the president is always right? And that her marriage is at stake if she messses into his business?

Mr. Danny Shelton's friends and foes alike will testify that his refusal to let people cross his path is Danny in a nutshell, and even one of the main reasons some of them support him and think nobody else could have established 3ABN. The big question is, How long a robe will you let him have?

A bigger point is that Linda was stripped of any power or influence to effect change, so it wouldn't matter what she knew.

The ease with which Danny got rid of Linda demonstrates that Linda had absolutely no power or influence with the 3ABN board of directors.

All of the power at 3ABN is invested in one person, Danny Shelton. In addition, it really doesn't matter what the so-called 3ABN board members know, either, because they exercise little power or influence over Mr. Shelton.

What I read in Observer's post was that this thread is not the place to discuss "burnt toast" type failings as they apply to Linda. It is, instead, a thread to discuss if she was innocent or guilty of the charges Danny and others have leveled against her that led to her ouster. At least that is what I deduced from it.

I have to agree that anyone in Linda's situation would find comfort in unloading her burdens on the sholders of her confidants, but has she gone on worldwide TV and aired her claims? No, not to my knowledge.

Some here say that Linda went along with the status quo because she was living the life of an abused woman. I don't have any first-hand knowledge of that. What I have read here indicates that she was aware of things. At some point she, along with Danny, may have to face civil actions that will decide if she, being aware and being a VP, was complicit or responsible for illegal activities.

While I agree she may bear the responsibility for her votes and actions, I think it is a stretch to say she was in violation of the contract she signed. Are you certain that the information had to come from Linda and not from first hand experience by those posting it? I can't make such a claim.

Thank you for qualifying the first part of your statement with "the attitudes of some here". That "delight" saddened me. I was glad to see it was quickly backed away from by most. God's power and a true and total love of Him could resolve every issue if allowed. Falsehood and selfishness, sexual immorality, the whole shebang, would find no home in the truly repentant heart.

If there is financial impropriety at 3abn and the civil courts pursue it further, the private financial records of all concerned will most likely become public. But I'm not an expert in this area so don't quote me on that.

Johann, thank you for this. Unfortunately, ignorance may not be an acceptable defense. For example, a wife who knows her husband is abusing children but doesn't make any attempt to stop it is still responsible for the damage being caused to those children.

Wouldn't an earlier divorce have been preferable to voting against her conscience in some of these matters? Was it fear of repercussions from Danny or fear of losing her position and lifestyle that kept her silent? I would love to know. Anyway, she is out of that dilema now so Praise God!

If Danny was able to convince Dr. Walt Thomson, the chairman of the board, that there was no damage to any children, why could he not have convinced his wife of the same?

Yes, Johann, I do agree with you. I still would wonder what the motivation for even Dr. Walt Thompson would be to allow Danny to convince him. Is Danny so powerfully persuasive? Is Dr. Thompson's will so weak that he would not want to verify that what he was being told was the truth? Especially for such a volatile area as allegations of molestation.

Is it that he is willing to allow things to go unchecked so that the ministry will continue?
Is it that he truly believes Danny is telling the truth?
Is it that he is afraid he will be ousted by Danny if he questions what he says?
Is it that he believes that Danny's word and will actually are the will of God as some claim?
Do any of these reasons relieve him of the legal and moral responsibility of his actions?

By the way, my example of the wife knowing about child abuse happening was just that - an example. I wasn't accusing Linda of that. Sorry if I gave that impression.

I do understand somewhat the mentality of the "battered wife". I just question whether it totally applies here. Some things I have read that are attributed to Linda makes it obvious that she was aware of much of the goings on.

I hope that she is realizing now how important it is not to give control of her will to anyone other than God.

I avoided getting involved in the dialogue about the troubles at 3abn that became evident in 2004 because I didn't want to become a party to rumor and gossip. In August, when I was made aware of the possibility that an alleged child molestor was involved with the ministry, I felt I had a duty to check things out and look for the truth.

I believe I have been able to discern some of the truth. I am still on the journey. I am still praying for all involved.

Pete, I am grateful that you are so appreciative that clear-thinking people will be able to see through the hype posted in this thread. We usually are able to, aren't we.

From The Free Dictionary:

Hype:

1. Excessive publicity and the ensuing commotion: the hype surrounding the murder trial.
2. Exaggerated or extravagant claims made especially in advertising or promotional material: "It is pure hype, a gigantic PR job" Saturday Review.
3. An advertising or promotional ploy: "Some restaurant owners in town are cooking up a $75,000 hype to promote New York as 'Restaurant City, U.S.A.'" New York.
4. Something deliberately misleading; a deception: "[He] says that there isn't any energy crisis at all, that it's all a hype, to maintain outrageous profits for the oil companies" Joel Oppenheimer.

tr.v. hyped, hyp·ing, hypes
To publicize or promote, especially by extravagant, inflated, or misleading claims: hyped the new book by sending its author on a promotional tour.

Lee, perhaps you can post some quotes from this thread that you believe to be "hype" and then state your reasons why you believe they qualify.
Thanks,
PB

Re: "The fundamental issue is: Did Linda give Danny Biblical grounds to divorce her? That is the issue. It is not whether or not she burned his toast one morning, or even six mornings."

Well, it appears that the post in which I made the above comment has attracted some attention and response.

Look carefully at the sentence that I quote above. My post was clearly devoted to the issue of Biblical grounds for a divorce. It did not attempt to address any other issue, of which there are many.

One of the issues that it did not address was the issue of Linda's personal responsibility, as a result of her being a corporate officer of 3-ABN. I am personally aware of the validity of such questions. I am a corporate officer, and member of the Board of a local, non-SDA, organization. I am aware of my personal responsibility for the manner in which I conduct business for the organization, and in regard to my personal votes in meetings of the Board. It is clear that valid questions may be raised in regard to the culpability of Linda in connection with her duties as Vice President.

We who advise Linda are aware of that. So, is Linda. We are also aware that certain people have stated that if there are attempts to "take down" 3-ABN in regard to certain mismanagement issues, that Linda will fall along with the others. Some of us who recognize the issues here, also believe that such comments have been made in an attempt to scare Linda and her supporters into keeping silent. But, if true in some cases, I do not say that it true in all cases.

I will point out to you that if attempts are made in any kind of a civil proceeding to bring Linda down along with the rest, it cannot automatically be assumed that such will happen. I am one of those who believe that Linda has several good defenses. If so, public discussion is not the place to discuss those. Those will need to come out at that proper time in any civil investigation that takes place.

Folks, hold on to your hats. The information is not all in, and public, yet. The longer this goes, the more that will likely be made pubic. Make your judgments when all is out in the open.

An easy way out of responsibility. It is always easy to put the blame on someone else when your responsibility is brought to light. IF she was the woman of integrity you claim - and it is obvious that she is a woman of strong personality and drive - then if she felt it is wrong she should have stood up to it and denied herself the monetary benefits and various perks over the years. I carry around in my wallet the following poem in my wallet:

They came first for the Communists, and I didn't speak up because I wasn't a Communist.

Then they came for the Jews, and I didn't speak up because I wasn't a Jew.

Then they came for the trade unionists, and I didn't speak up because I wasn't a trade unionist.

Then they came for the Catholics, and I didn't speak up because I was a Protestant.

Then they came for me, and by that time no one was left to speak up.

This is a variation on the supposed original poem attributed to Pastor Martin Niemöller (1892-1984).

Linda can not hide behind the claims that she has because they are after the fact. There are many who have stood up in the midst of the fire - husband of the year (who claims to still be employeed at 3ABN) continues to work there while posting his concerns and claims here. While that isn't quite the same it is impossible for a rational individual to look at what Linda gained and believe that she didn't willingly take part in all the "evils" that took place over the life of 3ABN. I already hear all the arguments that will arise - but Linda evidenced herself to be a woman of strength and chutzpa who wouldn't back down from people - this I have as first hand testament from a few individuals who knew her well, worked with her (and not at 3ABN).

I can not accept this picture of Linda. It is contray to even what has been described to me by some of those close to her.

The point of my posts in this thread are that, here could balance occur. But what has been evidenced is a full force effort to remove any responsibility from Linda that should rightfully fall at her feet. To have credibility Linda and those who support her here would admit that the point I made in my previous post are indeed accurate and there is much that she need atone for. Then present your facts that she was "shafted" in the marriage settlement. I can even accept that she and those close to her feel she should have been treated more fairly - and maybe she should have. But until those with the accusations and claims can show that she received less than she should have, and was essentially kicked to the curb financially, the claims will only hold as much weight as the digital paper they are printed on.

Are there two sides to every story? Here there seems to be only one - everything we think Danny has done wrong in the past fifty years. Now, since he is human I am sure we can collect a number of things he did wrong - but what about Linda . . . come on, do you really expect people to believe that she enjoyed the perks of being the co-founder of 3ABN for all those years and couldn't muster the where-with-all to speak up? You claim she was intimated by Danny, what about the board? Could she not find a member there to listen to her - or has 3ABN from its inception been headed up by evil men with anything but the Lord's work at heart? You can't really expect us to believe that - and if you do . . . well, that is naive.

Gregory, that is one of the fundamental issues. If the tightly held "evidence" is ever released then the matter can finally be openly settled and put to rest.

The additional issues Uncle Sam has raised in this thread are of fundamental importance also. Looking at the facts in the matters is really the only way to find the truth, right? When Linda is free to do so it will be wonderful to see her comments on the issues. We have certainly seen plenty of input on them by Danny and those around him.

As far as FHB's response to the burned toast, perhaps he viewed your anecdote as minimizing Linda's faults. Just a thought.

As the originator of this particular tangent, Gregory makes the call vis a vis the scope of what he wants to discuss. He was limiting the discussion at this juncture to whether Linda gave Danny cause in accordance with scripture and church doctrine to divorce her. FHB and others have been trying to expand the scope beyond that so they can say that there are things Linda is guilty of too... but by that standard, one can say the church itself is guilty and even FHB himself is guilty... but as I stated before all that is a weapon of mass distraction.

Gregory, noticing this also, is trying to bring the discussion back around to the original allegations made against Linda. If FHB wants to move on to other things, he can... but Gregory's question remains and for all this sleight of hand, hocus pocus and spin, it comes down to a yes or no question when the smoke and mirrors and bovine excrement are gone.

A yes or no question that so far appears to be "NO". Pointing fingers at Linda about things not relevant to Danny's initial accusation of infidelity, spiritual or otherwise, only serves as an attempt to get those inclined to point out Danny's guilt, in this and other areas, to stop by threatening Linda with public disclosure of malfeasance.

It leaves Gregory's inquiry wholly unaddressed, however. Is it asking FHB, Lee and others too much to stop trying to answer "Is the sky blue" with why they think jello is superior to bundt cake as a dessert?

Mr. J

Pointing fingers at Linda about things not relevant to Danny's initial accusation of infidelity, spiritual or otherwise, only serves as an attempt to get those inclined to point out Danny's guilt, in this and other areas, to stop by threatening Linda with public disclosure of malfeasance.

Kevin,

The issue here has been, from its inception, Danny's character - or lack there of. The same issue needs to be applied to Linda if one is to gain a complete picture of all that has transpired over the last twenty years.

Do you know anyone who is divorced? Has there been a couple that you have been close to that divorced? Is there really only one side. Is one side guilty of all that is wrong in a marriage? Or is one person responsible for wanting the divorce. To date, we have two parties saying neither on e of them really wanted the divorce with one saying that there was a reason for it (legitimate or not). The divorce is nothing but a he said-she said situation. How do those from the outside handle that. The Adventist church as a whole has never dealt well with divorce - I know this from personal experience. So it continues here.

Is it possible that Linda was unfaithful, at least in heart - absolutely! Do we know for sure - no way! You weren't there privy to all the conversations and encounters. You only have the word of others to go on. These may be people - you - consider solid witness, but I don't know them, nor does Peacefully, or Lee, or maybe even "sister" . . . so, you have chosen to believe those that have provided you information they hold - fine, but it can not be used to prove other wrong who question your position. Pickle, for all his twisting, is at least possibly on the right path.

You are free to question me - my motives, my bias, my claims, my intuition . . . but, simply because you do does not make you right and me wrong. And of course the converse is the same.

the point that you have consistently missed either by accident or purposefully is that regardless of what Linda may have done, she did not deserve to be treated as she was by a "christian" man of God..... He should have taken the high road when dealing with her, but instead he made up lies, accused her of spiritual adultery, offered her money on the condition she not say anything, then proceeded to trash her name and reputation so she could not get employment anywhere else in the church....

If you think that is okay FHB you have issues... then you want to spread the blame and somehow have us believe that maybe she was partly responsible for how she was treated.... you have issues...

Naw, you are missing one point. Apaprently there was at least one or two meetings without her knowledge, or else she would not be in the situation she finds herself today. Also, your ID is "fallible" not "gullible" human being. I am sure Linda is not the first wife place in a high position, in name only, to keep the power(shares, money, etc.) in the family.

Girl, please!!! More like "yet to be invented". They have already been to court when Linda contested the Guam divorce, I think that would have been the time to bring it up, if they had any. Does anyone know if that was the reason the Guam divorce was upheld, or was it that Linda initially agreed to it, and tired closing the barn dorr after the horse had gotten out?

Clay,

You have made it clear that you feel Linda didn't get her share of the loot. Fine. Maybe you are right - unless you can prove it via a Marital Settlement Agreement you don't have leg to stand on, other than your indignation.

I don't think I have argued your point, merely said you don't have anything that substantiates your claims - which at this point ring hollow.

I don't think unChristian behaviour is acceptable - be it treating your ex-spouse with less than Christlike dignity - or a running stream of allegations and innuendo or vengeful accusations. Your anger at me and my position that there is no balance to your point of view tells me much.

I would ask you to show me where I said she was responsible for any ill treatment you feel she experienced. I said she was responsible for what she knew, what she acted or failed to act upon. I have not in any way said she was responsible for abuse, for disrespect, for ill treatment. You cloud the issue because you feel so emotionally involved and feel I am saying something I am not.

Issues, yes, I do - issues of fairness in the public discovery that occurs here, for which you are partially responsible. You can certainly feel that Linda was mistreated. That Danny should not have sought divorce (though evidence shows it was an agreed upon divorce). That Danny should have gone above and beyond the way he financially handled it (and again there is no evidence that he was maliciously negligent, nor abundantly giving in the process). But the fact remains that here, many of the claims of financial maleficence, maltreatment of employees, turning a blind eye to concerns about staff - fall at Linda's feet as much as they do Danny's.

Fight for Linda's right to be treated fairly in a divorce - but don't confuse that with her responsibility for what happened at 3ABN under her co-leadership with Danny.

He was limiting the discussion at this juncture to whether Linda gave Danny cause in accordance with scripture and church doctrine to divorce her. FHB and others have been trying to expand the scope beyond that so they can say that there are things Linda is guilty of too... but by that standard, one can say the church itself is guilty and even FHB himself is guilty... but as I stated before all that is a weapon of mass distraction.

I believe Uncle Sam set the scope of the discussion when he started the thread. I quoted that scope a bit earlier. Gregory will have to ask Uncle Sam if he wants to limit the discussion to whether or not Linda was treated fairly by Danny - or start a separate thread himself. At least that's what seems the proper course. Am I incorrect in deducing this? Clay, can ya help me out here?

Clay,

Please detail this for us. Give us chapter and verse, make known the clarifying facts you have that will give all of those wondering about the fairness, equity, or lack thereof in regards to the divorce the information that makes it unmistakeably clear what you base your decision on.

What did she get and how did that not match what she should have received?

How was the division of property fraudalent?

How much more should she have received?

Can you do more than rail against me? Can you give all of us, for there are many who would like to know, the specifics so they can understand all the claims and counterclaims, the specifics that you base your anger, disdain, and indignation on?

I would also like you to lay out the evidence for your claim that since my arrival, back in early August I think it was, that I have tried to tie Linda's role as VP of 3ABN to her "treatment" in the divorce process. I have always made allowances for the possiblity that Linda may not have been treated "fairly" in the process of the divorce - go back and look at some of our earliest exchanges. What I have done is not given ground on Linda's culpability in regards to her role as VP (an issue seperate from the divorce). I have not given ground on the reality that she is not the innocent you would paint her as. She knew, she benefited, she made her choices.

You can claim she was abused, misled, threatned, but there is another picture of Linda out there painted by those who worked by her side from many years ago that bring an entirely different set of possibilities to consideration. Yes, the old cliche - there are two sides to every story.

Just as Greg Matthews says, there is much more to be told - on both sides. It may never be told in public and those of us who wonder must accept that.

Two questions for you to answer:

1. How was Linda not treated fairly in the divorce? Not, that she was "put out" by her husband, how was she treated unfairly in all aspects of the divorce process? Please be specific with information that substantiates this claim.

2. Using my words, how have I attempted to tie Linda's divorce to her management techniques and decisions at 3ABN?

Well, invented or not, when it is revealed it should be pretty clear what the truth is and then maybe the matter can finally be put to rest.

This supreme court ruling below in blue that I had sent in a letter to Linda in 1998 which Pete found and posted it here says something about "fraud", once that is established through cover up & such, then just about every point the guilty party is trying to make after that becomes null and void. This is the way this was explained to me 10 years ago by a legal mind. He also had a training video showing of how US judges are trained to throw a temper tantrum at just the right time to scare the innocent of any point of law they knew better than him/her...very interesting... It would be well if the legal minds here read this court ruling, as I know it would apply to the cover up of those higher than the 3ABN board.

"Just ask any of the Attorneys there on your staff about the below Supreme Court case. "Where an answer is required, and none given, or misinformation is given, its self evident of fraud." U.S. v. Prudden, 424 F.2d. 1021, (5 ThCir. 1970, Cert, denied; 400 U.S. 831, 91 S.Ct. 62; LEd. 2d (1970); and U.S. v. Tweel, 550 F.2d. 297

[quote]

The issue here has been, from its inception, Danny's character - or lack there of. [/quote]

Danny's character would not be at issue if Danny had not put his character into play by going public with his aspersion of Linda and his alleging things that have proven problematic if not outright lies.
Linda didn't come here saying she wanted to save her marriage while she was filing for divorce in Guam. Linda didnt put out letters declaring her guilt and have Danny gagged by threatening destitution if he said anything that could be construed as negative and make on camera statements and send out an army of apologists to make sure that the only side of this that got out was hers. And the list goes on. Danny has put out this " she did it; I have proof" line and when asked for the proof, all we get is " you're gonna have to trust me". When Johann, who has a first hand report that contradicted Danny's claims regarding Linda and Doctor Arildsen tried to tell the 3ABN board the things they were being told were not how things were, he was run off the compound and not allowed to refute the claims made by Danny and his crew.

It was this railroad job that caused sister and others to start putting out how untrustworthy Danny was based on events and statements because the only actual 'evidence' of Danny's claim is what he said and his insistence that his version can be trusted.

Danny put Danny's character on trial and no one else.

[quote] The same issue needs to be applied to Linda if one is to gain a complete picture of all that has transpired over the last twenty years. [/quote]

See above.

[quote]Do you know anyone who is divorced? Has there been a couple that you have been close to that divorced? [/quote]

Who, in this day and age, doesn't know someone who is divorced? For the record I am divorced from my first wife. Unlike Linda, however, my ex-wife committed physical adultery, in which she was caught in the act. And in spite of that and her admission there are people in her family who still insist it didn't happen...

[quote]Is there really only one side. Is one side guilty of all that is wrong in a marriage? [/quote]

If you are asking, by extension was I a 'perfect husband' to her? No... and 20+ years after the fact there is much I see that I did wrong in that relationship. I have since remarried and looking back I havent been a perfect husband in my current marriage either... neither have you or any other man in any marriage, ever, since the fall.

But does that excuse the choices she made that resulted in her infidelity? No.

[quote] Or is one person responsible for wanting the divorce. [/quote]

In Danny and Linda's case, yes; Danny alone wanted the divorce; Danny alone filed for divorce... even while he was telling everyone who would listen how he was fighting to save his marriage.

[quote]To date, we have two parties saying neither on e of them really wanted the divorce with one saying that there was a reason for it (legitimate or not). [/quote]

We only have one of those parties who filed for divorce even as he was claiming he wanted to save his marriage...

[quote]The divorce is nothing but a he said-she said situation. [/quote]
Only if both sides are allowed to say... in this instance you have a "he-said" situation, with him taking drastic measures to ensure she says little or nothing.

[quote] How do those from the outside handle that. The Adventist church as a whole has never dealt well with divorce - I know this from personal experience. So it continues here. [/quote]

My issue with all of this has always been the selective manner in which the church has dealt with this and the blind eye it has turned to even the inconsistensies I've noted here... and if you've been reading Pickle's posts you see that the list of inconsistencies is getting longer, not shorter. This whole Nantucket Sleigh Ride would not have been necessary if the church had set out to do what was right rather than what was easy; IMO, the examination of Danny's character is as much to put the church in a position where they can no longer turn a blind eye as it is to vindicate Linda and remove the scarlet letter Danny has worked so hard to make her wear.

[quote]Is it possible that Linda was unfaithful, at least in heart - absolutely! Do we know for sure - no way! [/quote]

She says she was not; on what basis do you call her a liar? Be specific.

Pickle, for all his twisting, is at least possibly on the right path. [/quote]

By this standard, you should not be a Christian... since you were not privy to all those conversations and encounters and only have the word of others to go on... BTW, when those who were privy have said it wasnt what Danny has claimed, he has bent over backwards to try to prevent them from stating what they have seen, heard and experienced... and in the face of things witnessed first hand that contradict the claims, you have chosen to give more weight to the claims, even when the person making the claims was not present and the person refuting them was [quote]You are free to question me - my motives, my bias, my claims, my intuition . . . but, simply because you do does not make you right and me wrong. And of course the converse is the same.

IF she was the woman of integrity you claim - and it is obvious that she is a woman of strong personality and drive - then if she felt it is wrong she should have stood up to it and denied herself the monetary benefits and various perks over the years. I carry around in my wallet the following poem in my wallet:

> Linda can not hide behind the claims that she has because they are after the fact. There are many who have stood up in the midst of the fire - husband of the year (who claims to still be employeed at 3ABN) continues to work there while posting his concerns and claims here. While that isn't quite the same it is impossible for a rational individual to look at what Linda gained and believe that she didn't willingly take part in all the "evils" that took place over the life of 3ABN. I already hear all the arguments that will arise - but Linda evidenced herself to be a woman of strength and chutzpa who wouldn't back down from people - this I have as first hand testament from a few individuals who knew her well, worked with her (and not at 3ABN).
> I can not accept this picture of Linda. It is contray to even what has been described to me by some of those close to her.
> The point of my posts in this thread are that, here could balance occur. But what has been evidenced is a full force effort to remove any responsibility from Linda that should rightfully fall at her feet. To have credibility Linda and those who support her here would admit that the point I made in my previous post are indeed accurate and there is much that she need atone for. Then present your facts that she was "shafted" in the marriage settlement. I can even accept that she and those close to her feel she should have been treated more fairly - and maybe she should have. But until those with the accusations and claims can show that she received less than she should have, and was essentially kicked to the curb financially, the claims will only hold as much weight as the digital paper they are printed on.

> Are there two sides to every story? Here there seems to be only one - everything we think Danny has done wrong in the past fifty years. Now, since he is human I am sure we can collect a number of things he did wrong - but what about Linda . . . come on, do you really expect people to believe that she enjoyed the perks of being the co-founder of 3ABN for all those years and couldn't muster the where-with-all to speak up? You claim she was intimated by Danny, what about the board? Could she not find a member there to listen to her - or has 3ABN from its inception been headed up by evil men with anything but the Lord's work at heart? You can't really expect us to believe that - and if you do . . . well, that is naive.

Thank you for this. I spent most of the night in meditation and prayer, and towards morning I found peace and understanding. I was wrong in what I wrote.

It was completely wrong of me to be defending Linda. She is responsible for herself. My trouble is that I was defending myself and my actions, or at least trying to find a solace, and I was wrong.

You are so right, we must face the challenges that are before us, regardless of the consequence, and I failed in May of 2004. I travelled from Norway to Thompsonville for one purpose, to tell the board of 3ABN what experiences I had had, and how I personally had experienced Mr. Danny Shelton's falsehood in what he said about Linda. But I failed because I feared Mr. Danny Shelton. I saw a demon in his eyes when I met him while he used his standard treatment of people. He threatened to have me arrested by police for trespassing private property, even though I had received a written invitation to attend Camp Meeting, and 3ABN had used my picture on the screen for weeks to advertice those meetings. There had come people to those Camp Meetings especially because they wanted to see me there. They went to Danny asking him where I was. He merely told them I had disappeared.

Yes, I disappeared because of Danny's threats. He sent Private Investigators trailing me. I don't know what they told him, but he was soon circulating false reports of what the people I was together with were doing.

I was scared because he seemed like a monster to me. This is where I failed, just like Peter and the Apostles did when they were scared. I fled. I was afraid that Danny would really put me in prison.

Now I know I should not have feared Danny. I should have demanded to stay and bring the TRUTH to the board of 3ABN, even if he had put me in prison for it.

I pray for greater determination never to run away again. To speak the TRUTH always, regardless of how much I am ridiculed for it on BSDA or elsewhere. Regardless of threats, even if Danny keeps calling me an idiot or uses any other of his favoritte terms for me in his writings. (I could post many of the e-mails he has sent me, but save him from the embarrassment.)

Your letter caused me to spend a night in meditation and prayer. Towards morning I was given peace as I saw where I had failed. Now God is giving the strength and stamina to keep on being a better witness, and he has provided a countless number of assistants world-wide to make this possible. Your letter was a tremendous challenge. I had to wake up and thank you for the stimulus.

HAPPY NEW YEAR TO ALL!
