> 6) One last comment: My written qualifying examinations for my graduate work in psychology was scheduled for a Sabbath. Everyone was expected to take them on that day. I simply asked to be scheduled for another day. My request was immediately granted.

Posted by: Johann Jun 30 2007, 01:56 PM

> QUOTE(watchbird @ Jun 28 2007, 06:50 PM)
>
> The facts are, though, that McKee foods does not produce ONLY snack cakes (junk food). They do in fact have "healthy foods" divisions... which produce granola products, cereals, etc.
>
> But the bulk of their business is still sugar, sugar, sugar... in one form or another. Sad......

t was not until I had read this that I checked to see where my granola, bought in a local grocery store here n Iceland, was made. It says "Heartland Brands, Collegedale, TN." It is some of the sweetest granola that I ave ever tasted, containing both evaporated cane juice, syrup, and molasses, so I had decided to get nother brand next time, containing less sweeteners.

Posted by: runner4him Jun 30 2007, 05:51 PM

> QUOTE(Johann @ Jun 30 2007, 02:56 PM)
>
> It was not until I had read this that I checked to see where my granola, bought in a local grocery store here in Iceland, was made. It says "Heartland Brands, Collegedale, TN." It is some of the sweetest granola that I have ever tasted, containing both evaporated cane juice, syrup, and molasses, so I had decided to get another brand next time, containing less sweeteners.

have an easy, delicious, crunchy, no refined sugar or honey or molasses granola to knock your socks off. 'ou mix it up and stick it in the oven bake it or leave it overnight on the lowest oven setting and it is done in he morning.

Posted by: PrincessDrRe Jun 30 2007, 09:59 PM

> QUOTE(Richard Sherwin @ Jun 28 2007, 02:48 PM)
>
> No the beer companies are not the ones causing the deaths. If you think they are then are not also the farmers who sell them the hops responsible? How about the bee keepers who produce honey that mead is made out of? Or the electrical companies who sell the electricity to the beer companies?
>
> So where do you draw the line? Do we expect beer companies to quit making beer, cigarette companies to quit making cigarettes. Burger King to quit making burgers? McKee's to quit making LD's or.....well the list of what is bad for us has no end.
>
> As long as the product is legal it is up to the consumer to use self control in limiting the intake of the products they consume. If I eat too many Big Macs whose fault is that? Mine or Micky D's? If I eat a box of Swiss Rolls every day should I be able to sue McKee Foods when I have a heart attack.

Where does responsibility start/stop? SDA's and other "legalists" will chain responsibility far and wide. I can make a chain that can assign blame for just about anything to anyone on this board with just enough information about their job or position. It stops with your hands and your body. That's MHO.

> QUOTE(foofighter @ Jun 28 2007, 09:13 PM)
>
> If I'm not mistaken, Little Debbie sponsors a NASCAR car (not sure which one) and they have to cover up the logo during sabbath hours. Seems odd since you can buy them 24/7 all over the country. Seems just a tad hypocritical. You can buy our products on sabbath, but you can't look at our logo?

That's a hot mess on toast. Just like the latter I read about script. Andrews University will not allow you to pay "cash" for your food in the Cafe' - but you can "charge it to your account" or use a credit card. That's so petty and legalist. I won't even go in the Cafe' on Sabbath due to this legalism rhetoric!

Posted by: Richard Sherwin Jun 30 2007, 11:34 PM

Yup, our bees pollinate blueberries used for blueberry wine so I'm responsible for a drunk killing someone.

Taking a credit card but not cash? Can we spell Pharisee?

Richard

> QUOTE(PrincessDrRe @ Jun 30 2007, 11:59 PM)
>
> Where does responsibility start/stop? SDA's and other "legalists" will chain responsibility far and wide. I can make a chain that can assign blame for just about anything to anyone on this board with just enough information about their job or position. It stops with your hands and your body. That's MHO.
> That's a hot mess on toast. Just like the latter I read about script. Andrews University will not allow you to pay "cash" for your food in the Cafe' - but you can "charge it to your account" or use a credit card. That's so petty and legalist. I won't even go in the Cafe' on Sabbath due to this legalism rhetoric!

☒ sn

Posted by: Skyhook Jun 30 2007, 11:56 PM

> QUOTE(Richard Sherwin @ Jul 1 2007, 12:34 AM) ☐
>
> Yup, our bees pollinate blueberries used for blueberry wine so I'm responsible for a drunk killing someone.
>
> Taking a credit card but not cash? Can we spell Pharisee?
>
> Richard

ichard, was it the drunk that knocks over your hives? ☒ rofl

Posted by: beartrap Yesterday, 12:04 AM

Good grief! Mckee Bakeries sells what they sell, and do their advertising. If Hugh Heffner offered to provide funds to alleviate the suffering of orphans in Romania would we say that he was scum, and that the orphanages should not accept his donation? They would take the donation, as they should!!!!!

Anyone who wishes to fund something should be able to do so. At the same time, anyone who wishes to boycott individual advertisers should be able to do so at will. that is the nature of a free market society.

Posted by: Clay Yesterday, 06:26 AM

> QUOTE(beartrap @ Jul 1 2007, 01:04 AM) ☐
>
> Good grief! Mckee Bakeries sells what they sell, and do their advertising. If Hugh Heffner offered to provide funds to alleviate the suffering of orphans in Romania would we say that he was scum, and that the orphanages should not accept his donation? They would take the donation, as they should!!!!!
>
> Anyone who wishes to fund something should be able to do so. At the same time, anyone who wishes to boycott individual advertisers should be able to do so at will. that is the nature of a free market society.

ep..... and I rather like those Oatmeal Cream Pies.... don't eat alot of them, but I do like them.... ☒

Posted by: Richard Sherwin Yesterday, 11:13 AM

Them's my weakness for sure. Them and Swiss Rolls.

Certainly I've got better things to do today than talk about Little Debbies......

Richard

> QUOTE(Clay @ Jul 1 2007, 07:26 AM)
>
> yep..... and I rather like those Oatmeal Cream Pies.... don't eat alot of them, but I do like them....

Printable Version of Topic

Click here to view this topic in its original format

BlackSDA _ 3ABN _ King David

Posted by: mikemike Jun 30 2007, 03:58 AM

I was thinking about how King David would fair with this group. Would you set-up a site called saveHebrewkings.com? Would you say that King David had to quit due to his sins? Well if you would not do it to him then why?

Posted by: daylily Jun 30 2007, 04:32 AM

When Nathan came to him and confronted him, he said "I have sinned". He didn't mealy-mouth around and say, "Everybody makes mistakes, I'm human. I've made mistakes, there are things I would have done differently", etc.

Posted by: Panama_Pete Jun 30 2007, 04:50 AM

> QUOTE(mikemike @ Jun 30 2007, 03:58 AM)
>
> I was thinking about how King David would fair with this group. Would you set-up a site called saveHebrewkings.com? Would you say that King David had to quit due to his sins? Well if you would not do it to him then why?

Well, if King David took my wife, Bathsheba, and had me killed, how David would fair with me is something I wouldn't have to really think about, now would I?

David, a man of war, was not to build the First Temple. That task was given to his son Solomon, although David drew up the plans.

If I follow your analogy I have to acknowledge that someone other than King David came along to do the building.

I also have to note that David showed contrition and repentence as daylily has mentioned.

Posted by: Clay Jun 30 2007, 05:51 AM

> QUOTE(mikemike @ Jun 30 2007, 04:58 AM)
>
> I was thinking about how King David would fair with this group. Would you set-up a site called saveHebrewkings.com? Would you say that King David had to quit due to his sins? Well if you would not do it to him then why?

since it seems as though the question begs a stroll into the twilight zone let's ask this question, "How would Danny Shelton and 3abn fair if Ellen White were alive?" or, "How would Danny Shelton and 3abn fair if Jesus strolled by for a visit?"

Let's imagine that conversation:

Danny: welcome to the 3abn complex Jesus, glad you came!

Jesus: thanks for having me. Where's your wife?

Danny: ummmmm......

then maybe the sound of crickets would be heard?

Posted by: Richard Sherwin Jun 30 2007, 05:55 AM

Yup if he refused to repent I bet we would have. And would that have been a bad thing? Would it have achieved results like this and other sites appear to have? (After all the plane is supposedly gone)

Daylily and Panama Pete excelent answers. Enjoyed them both.

Richard

> QUOTE(mikemike @ Jun 30 2007, 05:58 AM)
>
> I was thinking about how King David would fair with this group. Would you set-up a site called saveHebrewkings.com? Would you say that King David had to quit due to his sins? Well if you would not do it to him then why?

Posted by: Observer Jun 30 2007, 06:03 AM

> QUOTE(mikemike @ Jun 30 2007, 03:58 AM)
>
> I was thinking about how King David would fair with this group. Would you set-up a site called saveHebrewkings.com? Would you say that King David had to quit due to his sins? Well if you would not do it to him then why?

King David was the king, the civil leader of Israel. He was not the High Priest, or spiritual leader.

The standards for a person who is a spiritual leader should be higher than the standards for someone who is a civil leader.

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Jun 30 2007, 06:43 AM

> QUOTE(mikemike @ Jun 30 2007, 02:58 AM)
>
> I was thinking about how King David would fair with this group. Would you set-up a site called saveHebrewkings.com? Would you say that King David had to quit due to his sins? Well if you would not do it to him then why?

Most of us would rejoice that King David listened to the wise counsel of his Nathan and had set the example for the rest of us.

Perhaps a more realistic hypothetical would be, how would someone like Kellogg fair with this group. Calvin, in his wisdom, would likely allow a Sanitarium Forum and, yes, we'd probably have a site called savebattlecreek.com.

Simply because some have likened Danny to King David doesn't make it so. I just wonder what Naomi and Ruth would think about that comparison?

Posted by: Seraphim7 Jun 30 2007, 07:01 AM

> QUOTE(mikemike @ Jun 30 2007, 06:58 AM)
>
> I was thinking about how King David would fair with this group. Would you set-up a site called saveHebrewkings.com? Would you say that King David had to quit due to his sins? Well if you would not do it to him then why?

Let me make this very clear... Danny Shelton is not a type of Christ, by any stretch of the imagination, yet he did try to pull what Adam did. Danny blamed GOD by saying, before a world wide audience, it is the fault of the woman "you gave me" Lord. BIG difference. He did not man up after it was clear to everyone that he was wrong. Danny did, and continues to, pass the buck.

Also, unlike David, Danny, without ANY true remorse, put his business out in the street then attempted, after putting it before the people, to present his foolish behavior as upright, above reproach and acceptable by biblical standards, rather than what it was. Something one needs wading boots to get through as they try to comprehend it. In other words God is not only to blame but, seeing that He is to blame, God has sanctioned the current relationship Danny is in.

And finally, not one person on BSDA who sees this for what it is, has done any more than ask Danny to be the upstanding man of God, he claims to be, and speak the truth, as openly as he spoke the lies, rather than continue to attempt to cover up his obvious mess. Nope, nobody here is going be made his scape goat either.

Danny has more drama going on than Madea, due to his own PUBLIC behavior, not due to anything anyone here has said or done.

Posted by: LaurenceD Jun 30 2007, 07:39 AM

The word "save" implies something or someone is lost, or appears to be lost--according to the saver's impression anyway. When Jesus said, "The Son of Man came to seek and to save what was lost," lost included sinners, money collectors, adulterers, or anyone who was spiritually blind or deaf.

Jesus wept over the loss of his own people because they refused to comprehend the light. God tries to save anyone that is lost, or appears to be lost (anyone who acknowledges it anyway). So I wouldn't question someone who is trying to save 3abn. They do appear to be losing more than just money.

Posted by: mikell Jun 30 2007, 08:49 AM

The responses here on bsda are so RIGHT ON, such as Seraphim7. I thank God, for seeing HIS PEOPLE here on bsda are calling SIN, SIN! Ds is an Achan among us, and how long did he last?

For those who find it good to defend such corruption may not be a good thing to do. It appears that ds is living in open sin, but I might be mistaken. Did not ds do what Jesus warned about in Mt 19:9 not to do? "Anyone who divorces his wife, except for adultery, and marries another woman commits adultery." Therefore, can we see that ds is living in open sin? Just a question.

Did not John the Baptist rebuke King Herod for taking another man's wife? Is it possible we have here the same kind of a thing, when it appears that ds may have lusted after another much younger woman to soon after replace his wife, Linda with? Just asking,

---

Posted by: ex3ABNemployee Jun 30 2007, 09:30 AM

> QUOTE(Seraphim7 @ Jun 30 2007, 07:01 AM)
>
> Let me make this very clear... Danny Shelton is not a type of Christ, by any stretch of the imagination, yet he did try to pull what Adam did. Danny blamed GOD by saying, before a world wide audience, it is the fault of the woman "you gave me" Lord. BIG difference. He did not man up after it was clear to everyone that he was wrong. Danny did, and continues to, pass the buck.
>
> Also, unlike David, Danny, without ANY true remorse, put his business out in the street then attempted, after putting it before the people, to present his foolish behavior as upright, above reproach and acceptable by biblical standards, rather than what it was. Something one needs wading boots to get through as they try to comprehend it. In other words God is not only to blame but, seeing that He is to blame, God has sanctioned the current relationship Danny is in.
>
> And finally, not one person on BSDA who sees this for what it is, has done any more than ask Danny to be the upstanding man of God, he claims to be, and speak the truth, as openly as he spoke the lies, rather than continue to attempt to cover up his obvious mess. Nope, nobody here is going be made his scape goat either.

> Danny has more drama going on than Madea, due to his own PUBLIC behavior, not due to anything anyone here has said or done.

hank you, thank you, thank you! That post is right on the mark.

Posted by: Treniece Jun 30 2007, 05:56 PM

I wonder what does Danny's present wife think about his previous marriage. She is so new in the s.d.a. faith.

Should we liken him to King David. Those making negative comments about him would rather him to be liken as King Saul.

Posted by: Fran Jun 30 2007, 06:46 PM

> QUOTE(Treniece @ Jun 30 2007, 06:56 PM) ☐
>
> I wonder what does Danny's present wife think about his previous marriage. She is so new in the s.d.a. faith.
>
> Should we liken him to King David. Those making negative comments about him would rather him to be liken as King Saul.

hat DS is identified with any king is beyond me! He is not and never will be a King!

t the current time, he is not following the True God's will for sure, so we can not think of him as a church eader. He is not.

anny complained that Joy and Pickle should have come to him as a brother. Pickle and Joy followed the criptures to the letter. They did their part as commanded in Matthew. Now Danny is currently suing his rother. He did NOT follow the advice in Matthew that he had previously demanded from Pickle and Joy? No, e did not!

e is definitely NOT the anointed one. He is NOT God. He is NOT a king of anything. He has lost control and is ut for blood, IMO.

n fact, IMO, this is much like a spoiled brat battling to get his own way. He is sore because someone has hallenged his authority.

o should we liken him to David? NO hould we liken him to Saul? NO hat should he be compared to in my opinion? The roaring lion seeking whom he may devour!

Posted by: beartrap Jun 30 2007, 11:49 PM

> QUOTE(mikemike @ Jun 30 2007, 01:58 AM)
>
> I was thinking about how King David would fair with this group. Would you set-up a site called saveHebrewkings.com? Would you say that King David had to quit due to his sins? Well if you would not do it to him then why?

Hey Mike, seems that so many people like Vernon Howell, and others, want to be "David" to us.

Printable Version of Topic

Click here to view this topic in its original format

BlackSDA _ 3ABN _ THE LAWSUIT CASE HAS BEEN UNIMPOUNDED

Posted by: sonshineonme Jun 21 2007, 07:36 PM

UPDATE - THE LAWSUIT CASE HAS BEEN UNIMPOUNDED

Received this email announcement just now I will add the 3 attachments after this comment:

In the matter of 3ABN & Danny Lee Shelton, Individually -vs- Gailon Arthur Joy and Robert Pickle:

Judge Saylor Vacated the Temporary Impoundment and all docs will be be available on Pacer as soon as the cleark gets them into the system. There were no restrictions outside the current Fed Rules of Civil Procedure and the Local Rules of US District Court of Massachusetts.

For those who wonder why it took so much time, in summary the case was served on May 1, 2007 (Drafted April 1)with an Ex Parte Motion for Temporary Impoundment. They had 30 days to prepare their motion. We had 10 days to respond and Laird Heal did a response worthy of an Appellate Brief for delivery to the Bench and Counsel for May 10 Haering on the Ex Parte Motion. Oral arguments were about 45 minutes and Counsel for Plaintiffs requested 2 weeks to do a supplemental response to the Lairds Brief. The Bench granted two weeks and then granted to Laird Heal two additional weeks to file a supplemental brief to Plaintiffs supplemental response and scheduled a a status conference for June 21, 2007.

Frankly, they caught us completely by surprise as we had expected and been prepared for an Ex parte to try and shut down the Save3ABN.com Web Pages. The Impoundment request just never entered our thinking. Therefore, I must commend Laird J Heal for an excellent brief in short order.

After carefully discussing trial strategy, we made the determination there would be the potential for serious conflicts as we progressed and added parties, etc. Therefore, I opted to enter my appearance Pro Se and manage my own case in concert with Defendant Pickles counsel.

I have attached copies of my Opposition, Proposed Order, Notice of Appearance. Other documents will be made available as we progress through the coming week.

Judge Saylor has asked us to Motion to Amend Answers to complaint by July 23 and will do so to add Affirmative defenses and our counterclaim.

Then we move into the discovery phase. We will have our rule 26(f) conference next week and are scheduled for a Rule 16 Hearing Monday, July 23, 2007.

For those who wish to look up the rules, they are readilly available on line under the Title Federal Rules of Civil Procedure.

As we take the offensive, your prayers are needed for all the parties and we trust that the Lord will lead as we work toward a goal of reformation and reconciliation that 3ABN can be restored to whatever plan the Lord has in store.

Gailon Arthur Joy
AUReporter

Attachment #1 "Final Draft Deft Opposition to Plaintiffs Motion Impound"

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
DISTRICT OF MASSACHUSETTS

Three Angels Broadcasting Network, Inc., Case No,: 07-40098-FDS
an Illinois non-profit corporation, and Danny Lee Shelton, individually,

Plaintiffs,

v.

Gailon Arthur Joy
and Robert Pickle,

Defendants.

Defendants' Supplementary Responsive Memorandum in Opposition to Plaintiffs' Motion for Permanent impoundment

INTRODUCTION

Plaintiffs have asserted that the defendants have used every possible medium to impugn Plaintiffs' reputation and conduct. In fact the defendant has undertaken to correctly report factually challenged, incomplete and grossly inaccurately reported history relating to the actions of the Plaintiffs in the Due Process deficient suspension, leave, dismissal and elimination of the founding director, Vice President and spouse of co-founder Danny Lee Shelton. Plaintiffs have publicly asserted an unsupported charge that the spouse, Linda Sue Shelton, was guilty of "spiritual adultery". After summarily dismissing Linda Sue Shelton for unproven allegations, Danny Lee Shelton replaced her with a brother of the Plaintiff, Tommy Shelton, who had a history of extensive allegations of child molestation while serving as a Church of God pastor.

Each of the defendants, Joy and Pickle, opened separate and independent investigative files in mid-August 2006 and discovered a host of documents from various sources demonstrating that the Plaintiffs had:

1. not been forthcoming with evidence to support their allegations;
2. that they had misrepresented the history and the facts;
3. and given clear innuendo that the spouse, Linda Sue Shelton, had run off with a doctor from Norway and was guilty of adultery, a career ending assertion within the ministry of the Seventh-day Adventist congregations, not factually supported..

The defendants were asked to give an ecclesiastical process an opportunity to address the issues prior to reporting the defendants discovery. When the ecclesiastical process was arbitrarily ended, the defendant Joy began issuing reports of his findings and established a web-page to serve as a document resource center and perpetual access point for members of the Seventh-day Adventist church you wanted to review the facts and ask questions regarding what defendant had discovered and reported in an effort to report the truth regarding the official record with the stockholders in the pews of the Seventh-day Adventist churches, clearly demonstrating the deficiency of Plaintiffs information.

The actions of the Plaintiffs since 2004 and particularly in the first half of 2006 led many to question the 3ABN statements and records. The revelation of the documented facts and the response of the plaintiffs to the facts as the were reported, including multiple international broadcasts on the stage of 3ABN Today live in a clear attempt to impugn and malign the reputations of Linda and the various reporters, made an ever widening audience aware of the issues and an informed congregation may have responded with the only vote they had to caste; they voted their wallets.

As the plaintiffs discovered the record was causing growing difficulty with their contributions base, they desperately sought alternatives, including web-based counter-measures with various pseudonyms on several web blogs with a clear campaign to continue to impugn and malign the characters of Linda and the various reporters, but clearly continued to loose ground.

Therefore, in a desperate attempt to stem the growing tide of no confidence votes by donors, they sought the assistance of a lawfirm in Minnesota utilized by a major contributor in the past to battle a similar publicity problem. This firm has set out to try and eliminate the defendants constitutional rights as defined in the first amendment guaranteeing the freedom of speech, freedom of the press, the right to practice our religion and the inherent right of conscience that is implicit in the right to practice ones religion. Also, in a strange dichotomy, the plaintiffs, a purported non-denominational religious organization, found itself the subject of an EEOC investigation in the State of California and quickly claimed to be exempt as a religious organization, thereby avoiding civil administrative charges brought by employees of their 3ABN Trust Services office relating to retaliation dismissal and discrimination. Yet, they have the audacity to violate the First Amendment and have sought the redress of a civil court in an effort to fraudulently silence the truth about the plaintiffs' own errors, when they knew or should have known that such an action clearly violated SLAPP statutes.

This motion is an effort to improperly impound a record the public has a right and a vital interest in accessing as the Plaintiffs are a 501-c-3 Tax Exempt organization that draws nearly all its support from the Seventh-day Adventist laymen and members of the viewing public. These donors and viewers have a right to access the court record that they may make informed decisions regarding their contributions, the only vote that they have in this closely held corporation of only thirteen members that also serve as its Danny Lee Shelton handpicked board of directors. Therefore, this American public has an economic and constitutional right to know what goes on in this very public forum.

While plaintiffs counsel alleges defendants have miscited case authority, defendants allege the plaintiffs have clearly mis-applied case law as will be demonstrated heretofore and defendants will seek appropriate redress from the honorable court.

Therefore, defendants pray the court to properly lift this unconstitutional impoundment that the American public may have its proper right to know.

ARGUMENT

The Common Law right of access is overwhelming even when there is a countervailing concern regarding collateral criminal process that may prejudice a jury. Counsellor Pucci expounded extensively on his claim that In re Providence Journal Company, 293 F.3d 1, 13 n. 5 (1st Cir. 2002).IS the prevailing law within the First Circuit but then admits the case establishes "Under the common law, there has been a long-standing presumption of public access to judicial records." And the court further asserted in this "prevailing Law in the First Circuit":

"5. Although the Supreme Court has not established whether the constitutional right of access attaches to civil cases in general, the common-law right of access extends to judicial records in civil proceedings. Standard Fin. Mgmt., 830 F.2d at 408 & n.4. "As said, that right encompasses legal memoranda. Because none of the respondent's rationales for rendering legal memoranda presumptively nonpublic rise to the level of a compelling reason sufficient to justify the nondisclosure of those documents, our invalidation of the District of Rhode Island's blanket nonfiling policy vis-à-vis legal memoranda applies in civil as well as criminal proceedings."

Yet again, Counsellor Pucci and team clearly misrepresent the decision In re Gitto Global Corp., 422 F.3d 1, 6 (1st Cir. 2005) which specifically addresses § 107 b 2 of the bankruptcy code but concluded conclusively:

"To qualify for protection under the § 107 b 2 exception for defamatory material, an interested party must show (1) that the material at issue would alter his reputation in the eyes of a reasonable person, and (2) that the material is untrue or that it is potentially untrue and irrelevant or included for an improper end."

This would be a difficult test to assert in the subject action as the Plaintiffs are the parties seeking protection from public scrutiny when they have sought redress in a US District Court, the most public of forums, and do so claiming to be a Charitable organization pursuant to IRC 502c-3, deriving virtually every dime from public contributions in various forms giving the public absolute interest in observing the proceedings.

Further the Supreme Court clarified in the Nixon v. Warner Communications, Inc., 435 U.S. 589, 597 (1978) that "in Cox Broadcasting Corp. v. Cohn, 420 U.S. 469 (1975) ...Our decision in that case merely affirmed the right of the press to publish accurately information contained in court records open to the public. Since the press serves as the information-gathering agent of the public, it could not be prevented from reporting what it had learned and what the public was entitled to know. Id., at 491-492. In the instant case, however, there is no claim that the press was precluded from publishing or utilizing as it saw fit the testimony and exhibits filed in evidence. There simply were no restrictions upon press access to, or publication of, any information in the public domain. Indeed, the press - including reporters of the electronic media - was permitted to listen to the tapes and report on what was heard. Reporters also were furnished transcripts of the tapes, which they were free to comment upon and publish. The contents of the tapes were given wide publicity by all elements of the media. There is no question of a truncated flow of information to the public. Thus, the issue presented in this case is not whether the press must be permitted access to public information to which the public generally is guaranteed access, but whether these copies of the White House tapes - to which the public has never had physical access - must be made available for copying." Thus re-affirming the constitutional right of the press to access court records. They went so far as to declare "The First Amendment generally grants the press no right to information about a trial superior to that of the general public. "Once beyond the confines of the courthouse, a news-gathering agency may publicize, within wide limits, what its representatives have heard and seen in the courtroom. But the line is drawn at the courthouse door; and within, a reporter's constitutional rights are no greater than those of any other member of the public." Estes v. Texas, 381 U.S. 532, 589 (1965) " thus inversely declaring the publics equal right to the court records.

Defendants agree that in the case, "FTC v. Standard Financial Management, the court held that the press was entitled to access sworn personal financial statements of the two principals of a closely-held corporation, statements on which the Federal Trade Commission (FTC) relied in agreeing to a settlement that would fall far short of what would be needed to make the affected consumers whole. Id., 830 F.2d at 406. In finding that the public should have access to the personal financial statements, the court rejected the appellants' privacy argument, finding instead that the appellants waived privacy by choosing to submit the documents to the FTC as part of the settlement process and further, that releasing the documents had worked to their advantage in persuading the FTC to agree to a desirable settlement. The appellants were not then entitled to argue that "some general notion of fairness requires the settlement to be made public but the documents to be locked away." Id. at 412...."
We disagree on the interpretation and therefore again find a compelling First Circuit opinion that the provision of documents in this litigation voids the parties right to privacy. This has the direct inference that once the plaintiffs have sought redress of their concerns in a US District court that their private interests were voided by choice of the Plaintiffs.

Therefore defendants would ask the court to conclude that the Plaintiffs assertion that "Unlike the appellants in Standard Financial Management, Plaintiffs 3ABN and Danny Shelton have never chosen to waive their privacy interests...." Is clearly defective as the simple decision to seek redress in the US District Court constituted a waiver of His and the Other Plaintiffs privacy interests. That is if, in fact, a 501c-3 Media Entity and the very Public figures that manage and are broadcast to the entire world of satellite TV viewers can have a privacy interest at all as it relates to the issues in contention.
The Plaintifs seem concerned that "...Without impounding these documents, this Court's judicial record will become an unwitting tool that Defendants will use to spread their lies." While by their declaration the information contentiously characterized as "lies" and which the defendants state as the truth, has been and remains available for public scrutiny, the further availability in the US District Courts office is not a basis for assumption that further damage is possible or a remotely constitutional assumption.

Defendants will argue that the Plaintiffs have sought impoundment lightly in violation of the Courts own Rule 7.2 and in violation of the defendants First Amendment rights. Clearly the Plaintiffs have requested impoundment as a means of hiding this dispute, or the facts which underlie it, from a very discerning public with a common law right to know..

Plaintiffs have not demonstrated that impoundment would prevent further irreparable injury as the Plaintiffs affidavit fails to identify a cause and effect relationship between Mollie Steensons assertion that Plaintiffs saw a significant decline in contributions in June 2006 when the defendants reporting did not begin until September 2006. Defendant Joy's webpages were not developed until mid- January 2007. This is only a single example of the Plaintiffs clearly deficient case. Defendants will assert that in fact the Plaintiffs own actions, and or the actions of others with whom the Plantiffs contracted were the cause and effect and Defendants merely reported and disseminated the Plaintiffs deficient actions, as did thousands of other SDA's. Defendants merely exercised their constitutional rights as preserved within the First Amendment. Therefore, there would be no legal, economic or logical basis for an unconstitutional impoundment.

In fact the redacted exhibits, unlawful in their own right, do not specifically support the affiants claims for various reasons, not the least of which, they either fail to show that defendants caused the contributor to stop contributing because of the defendants actions. They also fail to establish that the parties complaining were contributors at any time. In addition, the fact that names are redacted leaves the defendants without any basis to determine if they are impeachable, as they could be Plaintiffs' sympathizers simply planting complaints or the Plaintiffs utilizing pseudonyms in support of the Plaintiffs affidavits, a legitimate concern that the defendants would not dare eliminate from feasibility for the Plaintiff Danny Lee Shelton, based upon assertion of various victims during his administration.

The defendants further clarify the deficiency of the Plaintiffs claims as the reporting of the actions of the Plaintiffs, as news release after news release and webpage after webpage reports the actual actions based upon the reports of Plaintiffs, other witnesses, the actual documented e-mails or correspondence between Plaintiffs and victims. Therefore, it is clearly the actions of the Plaintiffs that have resulted in any claimed loss of goodwill within the Seventh-day Adventist Community. But the most egregious breach of any clear cause and effect is demonstrated in the simple fact that the Plaintiffs have failed to demonstrate any connection between postcards mailed and the defendants. And defendants have clearly asserted that they have not mailed post cards of any kind, regardless of the defendants clear constitutional right to do so.

The Plaintiffs assertion that it was the defendants reporting alone that would result in loss of confidence of churches, conferences, unions, divisions and even the world-wide General Conference of Seventh-day Adventists have little real or factual understanding of the representative governance of the various administrative entities. Unlike the 3ABN autocracy with its mere 13 member constituency / board of directors handpicked by Danny Lee Shelton, and ejected at will by Danny Lee Shelton, the church's administrative entities have accountability to hundreds, thousands, tens of thousands, hundreds of thousands and even millions within the General Conference congregations. They are well known for adhering to the counsel of many principle as the General Conference Executive Committee consists of more than three hundred members and other entities have executive committees that even at the state conference level exceeds by more than double the size of the 3ABN Board of directors. Every administrative entity also has lay advisory committees, an Association Board which directly represents the various church companies within the entity, and a variety of special constituencies that are variously represented by nominated and elected leaders within each level of church leadership. As in any bureaucracy of this width and depth, no decision is entered into lightly or easily without careful consideration of the issues and concerns represented by the decision or action of the brethren. Further, The Illinois State Conference President serves upon the 3ABN Board, ex-officio. Therefore, simply a "no-body" like the Plaintiff Gailon Arthur Joy, as described by the Plaintiff Danny Lee Shelton, reporting and exhibiting documents could not possibly get an entire world-wide congregation to moratorium an independent international media giant and supporting ministry of the Seventh-day Adventist Church that has been a long-time member and beneficiary of the General Conferences' ASI grant programs, without more than alleged "lies" and "innuendos" as the foundation for church leaderships actions. And most importantly, the Plaintiffs have not established a relationship between the church administrations actions and the defendants reporting, other than the wild and reckless assertion of Plaintiffs and their counsel.

The Plaintiffs would assert: "C. The fact that statements made during the course of a judicial proceeding are privileged will embolden Defendants and leave Plaintiffs without recourse."

The Plaintiffs would seem to assert as infamy the premise that statements made during the course of judicial proceedings are somehow privileged and therefore they assert the reporting of these statements would leave the Plaintiffs without recourse. Defendants will repeat that in Nixon v. Warner Communications, Inc., 435 U.S. 589, 597 (1978) the Supreme Court clarified unequivocally that "in Cox Broadcasting Corp. v. Cohn, 420 U.S. 469 (1975) ...Our decision in that case merely affirmed the right of the press to publish accurately information contained in court records open to the public. Since the press serves as the information-gathering agent of the public, it could not be prevented from reporting what it had learned and what the public was entitled to know. Id., at 491-492. and in "FTC v. Standard Financial Management, the court held that the press was entitled to access sworn personal financial statements of the two principals of a closely-held corporation, statements on which the Federal Trade Commission (FTC) relied in agreeing to a settlement that would fall far short of what would be needed to make the affected consumers whole. Id., 830 F.2d at 406. In finding that the public should have access to the personal financial statements, the court rejected the appellants' privacy argument, finding instead that the appellants waived privacy".

Therefore, Defendants would agree the Plaintiffs are left without recourse and constitutionally so. However, once again the Plaintiffs express concerns regarding "libelous statements" but have yet to demonstrate that any statement in fact has or will meet the test of libel. Defendants are clearly constitutionally protected by the First Amendment and Plaintiffs are left to their proof that their own wild, unsupported and reckless allegations of libelous statements in fact can be supported at bar. Plaintiffs have spent a great deal of time and effort to claim a defamatory purpose in the process of "indicting" Danny Lee Shelton to the public. The simple act of indicting or accusing a public figure and this supporting ministry President with wrongdoing, when he is the acknowledged face of Seventh-day Adventistism to the entire world, is no more defamatory then the public life of the President himself. It is not defamatory to simply report the documented factually deficient statements of the Plaintiffs and the responses of accusers and witnesses. It is, in fact, the constitutional exertion of the freedom of the press.

Plaintiffs also assert:"D. The public interest in this case does not tip the scales in favor of public access." And again the Plaintiffs seek to pretend that the public has no right of access to court files when it is clearly established case-law that the public has an equal right to access to the court records as would any reporter or other party in interest. "The First Amendment generally grants the press no right to information about a trial superior to that of the general public." NIXON v. WARNER COMMUNICATIONS, INC., 435 U.S. 589 (1978) Page 435 U.S. 589, 610

The plaintiffs also claim that the 3ABN is an Illinois non-profit corporation, but it is also a federally recognized public 501c-3 non-profit that solicits every dime of support from the public arena, largely from the pews of the Seventh-day Adventist churches. It cannot claim to be a private foundation and in fact its Annual reports to the Internal Revenue Service via the 990s clearly demonstrate its public educational and religious charity and not a private foundation status. The Plaintiff's own Chairman has repeatedly claimed the ministry is open and transparent in keeping with its very public charter, a fallacy at best. Therefore, they are not entitled to privacy as any contributor of sums in excess of $70.00 has the right to go to 3ABN and to ask to have the books of accounts and records of meetings made available for public inspection.

Further, the status in Illinois of the corporation as a tax exempt organization is currently denied for property tax purposes and is under appeal. Therefore, since the vast majority of funds to support this public non-profit come from the members of the Seventh-day Adventist churches, the contributing members have become defacto the stockholders in the pews with all the rights of a contributor to any public charity to enable donors to make informed choices. And they have an intrinsic right to be informed of issues relating to corporate governance as well as the distribution of funds given to this very public ministry. This is clearly established in two Illinios cases that wound their way into the US Supreme Court: SCHAUMBURG v. CITIZENS FOR BETTER ENVIRONMENT., 444 U.S. 620 (1980) Page 444 U.S. 620, 638 :"Efforts to promote disclosure of the finances of charitable organizations also may assist in preventing fraud by informing the public of the ways in which their contributions will be employed. [Footnote 12] Such measures may help make contribution decisions more informed, while leaving to individual choice the decision whether to contribute to organizations......"

This is reinforced on a ciertorari from the Illinois Supreme Court ILLINOIS ex rel. MADIGAN, ATTORNEY GENERAL OF ILLINOIS v. TELEMARKETING ASSOCIATES, INC., et al. "(d) Given this Court's repeated approval of government efforts to enable donors to make informed choices about their charitable contributions, see, e.g., Schaumburg, 444 U. S., at 638, almost all States and many localities require charities and professional fundraisers to register and file regular reports on their activities.... These reports are generally available to the public and are often placed on the Internet. .... Just as government may seek to inform the public and prevent fraud through such requirements,.... these limitations do not disarm States from assuring that their residents are positioned to make informed choices about their charitable giving. Pp. 19-21."

Plaintiffs also seek proof that the defendants meet some imaginary test of being a reporter. In fact, there is no test of being a reporter. Anyone can in fact become a reporter by simply picking up a pen or pencil, asking questions and reporting the answers. In fact both defendants have extensive background in ecclesiastical reporting and journalism. The defendant Joy has been an established ecclesiastical reporter for more than two decades and is published. Defendant Pickle is also established as a published ecclesiastical reporter and ecclesiastical apologist for more than a decade. At all times relating to this investigative reporting the Plaintiff Gailon Arthur Joy has clearly identified himself as AUReporter, an abbreviation for what began as Atlantic Union Reporter nearly two decades ago.

The issue of credentialing jounalists or reporters was addressed by the U.S. Supreme Court in its 1972 decision Branzburg v. Hayes. "The administration of a constitutional newsman's privilege would present practical and conceptual difficulties of a high order," wrote Justice Byron White. "Sooner or later, it would be necessary to define those categories of newsmen who qualified for the privilege, a questionable procedure in light of the traditional doctrine that liberty of the press is the right of the lonely pamphleteer who uses carbon paper or a mimeograph just as much as of the large metropolitan publisher who utilizes the latest photocomposition methods." And Justice White added: "Freedom of the press is a 'fundamental personal right' which 'is not confined to newspapers and periodicals. It necessarily embraces pamphlets and leaflets. ... The press in its historic connotation comprehends every sort of publication which affords a vehicle of information and opinion.' ... The informative function asserted by representatives of the organized press in the present cases is also performed by lecturers, political pollsters, novelists, academic researchers, and dramatists." Therefore, Plaintiffs attempt to impose such a test is profound and an example of their improper conduct resonant in this action.

CONCLUSION: The Plaintiffs seek a Blanket Impoundment in violation of Local Rule 7.2 to include Pleadings as well as discovery. Plaintiffs proposed order grants the Plaintiffs the extraordinary position of intercepting and trying to alter the pleadings of the Defendants, a clear over-step of the rule, and could prove burdensome to the court as every pleading would become a motion battleground with the clear intent to impede the defendants right to amend answers, to add Affirmative Defenses, to state Counterclaims, to file Motions and even to impede the addition of parties. Further the Plaintiffs proposed order would even seek to control the flow of documents entered in this courts records to be utilized in any other case and to even interfere with the subpoena power of other jurisdictions. These outrageous proposals could also most certainly spawn numerous time consuming appeals. Further the procedures outlined could be abused to add unnecessary costs to the defense of this action.

Simply put, Plaintiffs Motion and Proposed Order seeks insidious violation of the Local Rule 7.2 by imposing an Alternative Blanket Impoundment under the pseudonym "Standing Order", "Automatic Temporary Impoundment", "Continued Application", and Application of Order in Context with Other Actions that is designed to be oppressive and restrictive of the Plaintiffs rights, the rights of other jurisdictions and abuses the clear Local Rule 7.2 of this Honorable Court.

The right of public access to the court record is implicit and inviolate in the Constitution, in common law, and in caselaw. Impoundment of this case runs contrary to the Local Rule 7.2, is unconstitutional as a violation of the First Amendment right of Freedom of the Press, Free Speech, the Freedom to practice of our own religion, violates the common law of public access, and is unsupported by caselaw, particularly in the First Circuit. Therefore the Plaintiffs Motion for Permanent Impoundment must be denied.

Dated: June 7, 2007

Respectfully Submitted:

By Gailon Arthur Joy
Defendant, Pro Se

CERTIFICATE OF SERVICE

I, Gailon Arthur Joy, do certify that I have this day served a copy of the foregoing document, along with any attachments, on Plaintiffs 3ABN and Danny Shelton by mailing same, first class postage prepaid to their attorneys of record, John P. Pucci, Esq., J. Lizette Richards, 64 Gothic Street, Northampton, MA 01060

Dated: June 7, 2007

Attachment #2 Proposed Order Denying Permanent Impoundment"

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT

DISTRICT OF MASSACHUSETTS

Three Angels Broadcasting Network, Inc.,
an Illinois non-profit corporation, and
Danny Lee Shelton, individually, Case No. 07-40098FDS

Plaintiffs,
V.

Gailon Arthur Joy and Robert Pickle,

Defendants.

ORDER DENYING IMPOUNDMENT OF PLEADINGS

The right of public access to the court record is implicit and inviolate in the Constitution, in common law, and in caselaw. Impoundment of this case runs contrary to the Local Rule 7.2, is unconstitutional as a violation of the First Amendment right of Freedom of the Press, violates the common law of public access, and is unsupported by caselaw, particularly in the First Circuit.

The Plaintiffs seek a blanket Impoundment in violation of Local Rule 7.2 to include pleadings as well as discovery. Plaintiffs proposed order grants the Plaintiffs the extraordinary position of intercepting and trying to alter the pleadings of the Defendants, a clear over-step of the rules and could prove burdensome to the court as every pleading would become a motion battleground with the clear intent to impede the defendants right to amend answers, to add Affirmative Defenses, to state Counterclaims, to file Motions and even to impede the addition of parties. Further the Plaintiffs proposed order would even seek to control the flow of documents entered in this courts records to be utilized in any other case and to even interfere with the subpoena power of other jurisdictions. These outrageous proposals could also most certainly spawn numerous time consuming appeals. Further the procedures outlined could be abused to add unnecessary costs.

Simply put, Plaintiffs Motion and Proposed Order seeks insidious violation of the Local Rule by imposing an alternative Blanket Impoundment under the pseudonym "Standing Order", "Automatic Temporary Impoundment", "Continued Application", and Application of Order in Context with Other Actions that is designed to be oppressive and restrictive of the Plaintiffs rights, the rights of other jurisdictions and abuses the clear Local Rule 7.2 of this Honorable Court.

Therefore the Plaintiffs Motion for Permanent Impoundment is denied.

To Gailon Arthur Joy, P.O. Box 1425, Sterling, Ma 01564

Attachment #3 "Notice of Appearance Pro Se"

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
DISTRICT OF MASSACHUSETTS

Three Angels Broadcasting Network, Inc., Case No,: 07-40098-FDS
an Illinois non-profit corporation, and Danny Lee Shelton, individually,

Plaintiffs,
Notice of Appearance Pro Se
v.

Gailon Arthur Joy
and Robert Pickle,

Defendants.

Now comes the defendant, Gailon Arthur Joy, AUReporter, before this Honorable Court and enters his appearance Pro Se.

I would ask the Court and all Parties to send all pleadings and orders entered herein to him at

Gailon Arthur Joy
P. O. Box 1425
Sterling, Ma 01564 - 1425
Phone: 508-414-3267
Fax: 578-422-0439
E-Mail: Gabbjoy4@comcast.net

Respectfully submitted:

____
Gailon Arthur Joy
AUReporter

Dated: June 7, 2007

Posted by: ex3ABNemployee Jun 21 2007, 08:04 PM

> QUOTE(sonshineonme @ Jun 21 2007, 08:36 PM) ☐
>
> UPDATE - THE LAWSUIT CASE HAS BEEN UNIMPOUNDED

Can't wait to see the docs. Sounds like it's going to be an interesting read.

Steffan? Any comment?

Posted by: Rosyroi Jun 21 2007, 08:30 PM

I Rosyroi on this day of June 21, 2007, truthfully swear on a Bible that I had never been influenced by the website http//:www.save3abn.com to discontinue contribution to the 3ABN coffers.

I swear that it was Danny L. Shelton's own voice on world wide television who influenced my decision to stop contributions to 3ABN.

I swear that the non-disclosing responses to my email questions made my decision to stop contribution to 3ABN. (Due to the letters sent out to heavy contributors making derogorotory and false statements made to make Linda Shelton appear to be a bad person)

What I read on http//:www.save3ABN.com only confirmed my concerns about 3ABN not being fully transparent.

Rosyroi

signed Rosyroi a former shareholder in the pew.

Posted by: Richard Sherwin Jun 21 2007, 08:38 PM

> QUOTE(Rosyroi @ Jun 21 2007, 10:30 PM)
>
> I Rosyroi on this day of June 21, 2007, truthfully swear on a Bible that I had never been influenced by the website http//:www.save3abn.com to discontinue contribution to the 3ABN coffers.
>
> I swear that it was Danny L. Shelton's own voice on world wide television who influenced my decision to stop contributions to 3ABN.
>
> I swear that the non-disclosing responses to my email questions made my decision to stop contribution to 3ABN. (Due to the letters sent out to heavy contributors making derogorotory and false statements made to make Linda Shelton appear to be a bad person)
>
> What I read on http//:www.save3ABN.com only confirmed my concerns about 3ABN not being fully transparent.
>
> Rosyroi
> signed Rosyroi a former shareholder in the pew.

Posted by: runner4him Jun 21 2007, 08:46 PM

> QUOTE(Rosyroi @ Jun 21 2007, 09:30 PM)
>
> I Rosyroi on this day of June 21, 2007, truthfully swear on a Bible that I had never been influenced by the website http//:www.save3abn.com to discontinue contribution to the 3ABN coffers.
>
> I swear that it was Danny L. Shelton's own voice on world wide television who influenced my decision to stop contributions to 3ABN.
>
> I swear that the non-disclosing responses to my email questions made my decision to stop contribution to 3ABN. (Due to the letters sent out to heavy contributors making derogorotory and false statements made to make Linda Shelton appear to be a bad person)
>
> What I read on http//:www.save3ABN.com only confirmed my concerns about 3ABN not being fully transparent.
>
> Rosyroi
> signed Rosyroi a former shareholder in the pew.

You read my mind.............that was exactly my response...the remarriage and comments of DS, the condemning letter against LS....and all the e-mail responses raised the questions and ultimately made up my mind. The documents I read on save3abn came after and confirmed it for me.

I heard we should expect the "rest of the story" to be posted on save3abn sometime tomorrow.

Posted by: steffan Jun 21 2007, 09:06 PM

> QUOTE(ex3ABNemployee @ Jun 21 2007, 09:04 PM)
>
> Can't wait to see the docs. Sounds like it's going to be an interesting read.
>
> Steffan? Any comment?

Certainly. The attorney's had already advised 3abn months ago that their request for a "blanket" impoundment would almost certainly be denied. That request was just one of many that moves them toward litigation. Some will be granted, some will be denied. It is all a part of the procedures to come.

Posted by: Richard Sherwin Jun 21 2007, 09:29 PM

To ask for any impoundment is counter to what 3abn claims they want, which is the truth. They said"we want to get the truth out, now impund the documents". Ya that makes sense. Seem they don't wan the truth out so much as they want to silence their critics. Spin anyone? Ho hum....same old same old.

Richard

> QUOTE(steffan @ Jun 21 2007, 10:06 PM)
>
> Certainly. The attorney's had already advised 3abn months ago that their request for a "blanket" impoundment would almost certainly be denied. That request was just one of many that moves them toward litigation. Some will be granted, some will be denied. It is all a part of the procedures to come.

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Jun 21 2007, 09:53 PM

> QUOTE(steffan @ Jun 21 2007, 07:06 PM)
>
> Certainly. The attorney's had already advised 3abn months ago that their request for a "blanket" impoundment would almost certainly be denied. That request was just one of many that moves them toward litigation. Some will be granted, some will be denied. It is all a part of the procedures to come.

steffan,

Welcome back.

I am curious to know how it is you know what the attorneys advised 3abn months ago. What is your source for this information? I know you profess to be in a unique position of knowledge, but how are we to give your statement much credibility when 3abn Board Chairman Walt Thompson said this about you:

----- Original Message -----

From: Walt Thompson
To:
Sent: Monday, June 11, 2007 6:57 AM
Subject: Re: Statement regarding 3abn/AF merger

Thanks,

No, Steffan does not represent 3abn or Danny. He is not in a position of authority to know what is going on. While I do not know a lot about the relationship between Doug and the President of the conference, this is certainly not the reason 3abn and AF are negotiating.

I appreciate your interest and heads up!

Walter Thompson MD

http://www.blacksda.com/forums/index.php?s=&showtopic=13784&view=findpost&p=199417

Now, if you have some means of establishing your credibility as one who truly does have inside information, I would urge you to provide that so that your input can be given the proper weight and respect it may deserve.

Posted by: roxe Jun 21 2007, 09:55 PM

> QUOTE(sonshineonme @ Jun 21 2007, 06:36 PM)
>
> UPDATE - THE LAWSUIT CASE HAS BEEN UNIMPOUNDED
>
> In the matter of 3ABN & Danny Lee Shelton, Individually -vs- Gailon Arthur Joy
> and Robert Pickle:
> Judge Saylor Vacated the Temporary Impoundment and all docs will be > be available on Pacer as soon as the cleark gets them into the system. There > were no restrictions outside the current Fed Rules of Civil Procedure and the > Local Rules of US District Court of Massachusetts.

praise God from whom all blessings flow

Posted by: mikell Jun 22 2007, 02:49 AM

Whatever Steffan says, sadly might be miss information. Just look what he posted to me not to long ago, "Linda pushed for the jet plane" And "3ABN never had two jet planes," Well, according to Beartrap post on 6/12/07 that, "Steffan"... infers that Linda was the biggest proponent of getting the Cessna. It would NEVER have happened without Danny's desire and approval. He [Steffan] also indicates that the Diamond was sold and then (after the sale) the Cessna was leased by someone else. This would not be true. I personally used both of them for a long time. They were used simultaneously by Danny and 3ABN for a long period of time."

So, what ever Steffan is trying to pass himself off to be the great insider of 3ABN knowing all things, such as with Linda and the planes? Notice what PeacefullyBewildered just wrote and asks:

"I am curious to know how it is you know what the attorneys advised 3abn months ago. What is your source for this information? I know you profess to be in a unique position of knowledge, but how are we to give your statement much credibility when 3abn Board Chairman Walt Thompson said this about you:"

From: Walt Thompson....

"No, Steffan does not represent 3abn or Danny. He is not in a position of authority to know what is going on. While I do not know a lot about the relationship between Doug and the President of the conference, this is certainly not the reason 3abn and AF are negotiating."

PeacefullyBewildered asked a very good question, and there could be a good answer. It just be interesting to hear, ha more like see it.

Posted by: Pickle Jun 22 2007, 10:13 AM

And if you want to see the lawsuit itself, take a look at http://www.save3abn.com/3abn-and-danny-v-joy-and-pickle-complaint.htm.

One thing I found intriguing about the lawsuit is 3ABN's claim in it that it is a non-denominational organization not affiliated with any church, denomination, or organization, and that it preaches a non-denominational message.

Are we to take this as an announcement from 3ABN that it is severing its ties from the GC, which it has had since 1997, that it is severing its ties with ASI, and that it is abandoning its preaching of the three angels' messages? Or is this an attempt to convince the court that concerned Seventh-day Adventists have no basis for asking questions?

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Jun 22 2007, 10:21 AM

Good questions, Bob.

I am quite upset that the lawsuit avoids the TS allegations!

Posted by: mikell Jun 22 2007, 10:44 AM

Yes Bob, that was a VERY good question, I just wish every Seventh day Adventist can see your question!

Posted by: Rosyroi Jun 22 2007, 10:51 AM

> QUOTE
>
> One thing I found intriguing about the lawsuit is 3ABN's claim in it that it is a non-denominational organization not affiliated with any church, denomination, or organization, and that it preaches a non-denominational message.

And the name of the organization is "Three Angels Broadcasting Network"?

If they are not affiliated with any church, denomination, or organization and that it preaches a non-denominational message then why are they doing and talking like they are affiliated with the Seven-day Adventist church on world wide television, on satellites and cable televisions?

That remark should be shouted to all the world to see how 3ABN claims it's affiliation with the SDA church! (And in the court of law???) Such a mockery!

I may be out of line with this questioning or remarks or the question may have been unnecessary but it was JMHO.

Rosyroi (former supporter of 3ABN)

Posted by: LadyTenor Jun 22 2007, 11:04 AM

If it walks like a duck, quacks like a duck...it just might be a cat.........

Posted by: calvin Jun 22 2007, 11:18 AM

> QUOTE(Pickle @ Jun 22 2007, 10:13 AM)
>
> And if you want to see the lawsuit itself, take a look at http://www.save3abn.com/3abn-and-danny-v-joy-and-pickle-complaint.htm.
>
> One thing I found intriguing about the lawsuit is 3ABN's claim in it that it is a non-denominational organization not affiliated with any church, denomination, or organization, and that it preaches a non-denominational message.
> Are we to take this as an announcement from 3ABN that it is severing its ties from the GC, which it has had since 1997, that it is severing its ties with ASI, and that it is abandoning its preaching of the three angels' messages? Or is this an attempt to convince the court that concerned Seventh-day Adventists have no basis for asking questions?

I find this to be a very brazen statement considering 3abn owes its existence to the Adventist church as well as most of its support....and now to distant itself from the church ought to be a wakeup call to Amazing Facts and any financial contributor.

I guess this is just more legal maneuvering. But to make statements like we preach a non-denominational message is a lie.

Posted by: Richard Sherwin Jun 22 2007, 11:29 AM

Starting to sound like the Radio Church of God, a church that grew out of a radio ministry, becoming the World Wide Church of God. And when it's founder died the church imploded. My aunt was a member.

It has a lot of the hall marks of a church. It accepts tithes. It has it's charismatic leader, it's own ministry, it's own rules, (or lack thereof), it's own compound, (shades of Waco?). Scary. I know of people who regard Danny as almost a messianic figure and quote him more than they do the Bible or EGW. Double scary. And 3abn even takes their own church members to court. Sad.

Richard

> QUOTE(Rosyroi @ Jun 22 2007, 12:51 PM)
>
> And the name of the organization is "Three Angels Broadcasting Network"?
>
> If they are not affiliated with any church, denomination, or organization and that it preaches a non-denominational message then why are they doing and talking like they are affiliated with the Seven-day Adventist church on world wide television, on satellites and cable televisions?
>
> That remark should be shouted to all the world to see how 3ABN claims it's affiliation with the SDA church! (And in the court of law???) Such a mockery!
>
> I may be out of line with this questioning or remarks or the question may have been unnecessary but it was JMHO.
> Rosyroi (former supporter of 3ABN)

Posted by: Pickle Jun 22 2007, 11:31 AM

> QUOTE(calvin @ Jun 22 2007, 12:18 PM)
>
> I find this to be a very brazen statement considering 3abn owes its existence to the Adventist church as well as most of its support....and now to distant itself from the church ought to be a wakeup call to Amazing Facts and any financial contributor.
>
> I guess this is just more legal maneuvering. But to make statements like we preach a non-denominational message is a lie.

Like I said awhile back, Calvin, there was a bombshell in the lawsuit.

Now the most charitable way to look at it, or maybe the most naive, is that the lawyers goofed, and nobody from 3ABN caught the goof.

Posted by: Richard Sherwin Jun 22 2007, 11:31 AM

Calvin maybe it's not a lie anymore....

> QUOTE(calvin @ Jun 22 2007, 01:18 PM)
>
> I find this to be a very brazen statement considering 3abn owes its existence to the Adventist church as well as most of its support....and now to distant itself from the church ought to be a wakeup call to Amazing Facts and any financial contributor.
>
> I guess this is just more legal maneuvering. But to make statements like we preach a non-denominational message is a lie.

Posted by: Observer Jun 22 2007, 11:35 AM

> QUOTE(calvin @ Jun 22 2007, 10:18 AM)
>
> I find this to be a very brazen statement considering 3abn owes its existence to the Adventist church as well as most of its support....and now to distant itself from the church ought to be a wakeup call to Amazing Facts and any financial contributor.
>
> I guess this is just more legal maneuvering. But to make statements like we preach a non-denominational message is a lie.

Take a look at the following taken directly from the Plaintiff's Complaint, page 3, paragraph 12:

> QUOTE
>
> Since its inception, Shelton and 3ABN have worked tirelessly to promote 3ABNs ministry and to spread its unique, non-denominational "Return to God" message.

Folks the several hundred pages of legal documents now posted contain interesting material.

Some of us may now see why 3-ABN did not want these documents available for public view. But, the idea that in the so-called "information age" anything (other than the formula for Coka Cola) could be kept secret is unreality.

Posted by: Rosyroi Jun 22 2007, 11:41 AM

> QUOTE(steffan @ Jun 21 2007, 07:06 PM)
>
> Certainly. The attorney's had already advised 3abn months ago that their request for a "blanket" impoundment would almost certainly be denied. That request was just one of many that moves them toward litigation. Some will be granted, some will be denied. It is all a part of the procedures to come.

My question is then "Why request for an impoundment in the first place?"

-----edited for content-----

Rosyroi

Posted by: Observer Jun 22 2007, 11:47 AM

> QUOTE(Observer @ Jun 22 2007, 10:35 AM)
>
> Take a look at the following taken directly from the Plaintiff's Complaint, page 3, paragraph 12:
>
> Folks the several hundred pages of legal documents now posted contain interesting material.
>
> Some of us may now see why 3-ABN did not want these documents available for public view. But, the idea that in the so-called "information age" anything (other than the formula for Coka Cola) could be kept secret is unreality.

Muich ado has been made in regard to trademarks and copy right.

In the Complaint, we are told that 3-ABN was first issued a trademark (Registration # 2895078, class 009, 016, 038 & 041) for the trademark "3ABN," that they had used since January 1985! See page 4 paragraph # 16. Other registerations took place on May 25, 2004, March 23 2004, April 20, 2004, and `June 28, 2004. For those see pages 5 & 6, paragraphs 17 - 20.

It seems that in 2004 there was a real (emergency?) effort to effect the registrations. I wonder why at that time. What event brought this about?

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Jun 22 2007, 11:51 AM

> QUOTE(calvin @ Jun 22 2007, 09:18 AM)
>
> I find this to be a very brazen statement considering 3abn owes its existence to the Adventist church as well as most of its support....and now to distant itself from the church ought to be a wakeup call to Amazing Facts and any financial contributor.
>
> I guess this is just more legal maneuvering. But to make statements like we preach a non-denominational message is a lie.

I agree, Calvin. It is very brazen and troubling. It makes me wonder if steffan was correctly representing the 3abn view after all when he posted the following on "The Truth in a Nutshell:

> QUOTE
>
> "Rosy, in your earlier post you say you feel I am not always honest in my answers. I take issue with that. I have no reason at all not to be honest. I am a christian (as I assume you are) and would not intentionally nor unintentionally try to deceive anyone. I happen to be in a unique situation where I know more than the average person. When I speak, I speak from what I know, have seen and checked out.
> As far as AF is concerned, Danny & Doug usually talk at least once a week and they are the only 2 at this point that know what is happening and the when's and why's. Remember, Doug wants even more independance in his independant ministy. Jim P. is conference. Do you see any signals yet? Doug and Jim might not totally see eye to eye on the exact details of the merger. The conference obviously would not want to lose their connection with AF that they have now." http://www.blacksda.com/forums/index.php?s...st&p=199350

Of course we do have Walt Thompson's rebuttal of that http://www.blacksda.com/forums/index.php?s=&showtopic=13784&view=findpost&p=199417 but the above statements bring that rebuttal into some question.

Posted by: Rosyroi Jun 22 2007, 12:05 PM

Calvin
Less boring, more entertaining now?

Rosyroi

Posted by: Richard Sherwin Jun 22 2007, 12:17 PM

Even in these early postings we are seeing the lawsuit backfire. Danny, Walt, 3ABN and their big supporters will rue the day they considered a lawsuit against the truth. May God have mercies on their souls.

Posted by: Clay Jun 22 2007, 12:53 PM

non-denominational.... interesting.... and all this time the 3ABN crew has been appealing to local churches for support.... did the members know that they were supporting a non-denominational ministry? probably not.... alot of people have been punk'd.....

Posted by: LaurenceD Jun 22 2007, 01:31 PM

> QUOTE(steffan @ Jun 21 2007, 10:06 PM)
>
> Certainly. The attorney's had already advised 3abn months ago that their request for a "blanket" impoundment would almost certainly be denied. That request was just one of many that moves them toward litigation. Some will be granted, some will be denied. It is all a part of the procedures to come.

heh! heh!

Next time tell us a little in advance, that way we'd be 110% more impressed. Also give credit to God, if you're able, as many were praying it would be lifted. Now your board members can read the court document and see the kind of childish suite they actually approved.

I'll have to give the plaintiff's attorneys a high five, they played DS like a kitten. Of course they smelled the $kitty$.

BTW, I heard DS the other night saying 3abn was operating on a shoe string budget, and he told his TV audience "we could use millions" in donations right now. Far different than what he was saying earlier this year...that support has never been better. Just the other face I suppose.

Posted by: Pickle Jun 22 2007, 01:56 PM

> QUOTE(Observer @ Jun 22 2007, 12:47 PM)
>
> It seems that in 2004 there was a real (emergency?) effort to effect the registrations. I wonder why at that time. What event brought this about?

Observer, thanks for observing. I missed that one.

Posted by: caribbean sda Jun 22 2007, 02:17 PM

> QUOTE(Clay @ Jun 22 2007, 02:53 PM)
>
> non-denominational.... interesting.... and all this time the 3ABN crew has been appealing to local churches for support.... did the members know that they were supporting a non-denominational ministry? probably not.... alot of people have been punk'd.....

i would have to agree with you there...but I am sure that 3ABN will have a lovely spin to put on this...

Posted by: princessdi Jun 22 2007, 03:54 PM

That's what I mean, all that convenient switchin' form one thing to another......On TV we are a ministry, when you want to kick your wife to the curb without paying her fair share of the ministry you started together, then you are a buisness and she is just an employee. On TV be unadulterated SDA, preaching the pure, undiluted 3 Angel's Message. In court, you are non-denominational.......See how that work?

> QUOTE(Clay @ Jun 22 2007, 10:53 AM)
>
> non-denominational.... interesting.... and all this time the 3ABN crew has been appealing to local churches for support.... did the members know that they were supporting a non-denominational ministry? probably not.... alot of people have been punk'd.....

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Jun 22 2007, 08:02 PM

> QUOTE(Clay @ Jun 22 2007, 10:53 AM)
>
> non-denominational.... interesting.... and all this time the 3ABN crew has been appealing to local churches for support.... did the members know that they were supporting a non-denominational ministry? probably not.... alot of people have been punk'd.....

Clay,

This bears repeating!

> QUOTE(calvin @ Jun 22 2007, 09:18 AM)
>
> I find this to be a very brazen statement considering 3abn owes its existence to the Adventist church as well as most of its support....and now to distant itself from the church ought to be a wakeup call to Amazing Facts and any financial contributor.
>
> I guess this is just more legal maneuvering. But to make statements like we preach a non-denominational message is a lie.

Calvin,

I wonder what the GC thinks about this?

Posted by: princessdi Jun 22 2007, 08:39 PM

I am really thinking that this, little tidbit, if not THE reason for the records being sealed, is in the top two. Everyone of "us"(Adventist and everyone else) believing that their doctrine is Advnetist doctrine. We did n't assume that, they said that!...........but wait a minute come to think of the, they really don't make that claim especially in ther little station identification...they just say they preach the three angels message.........Which is a definite 'assumed" affiliation with the SDA church, but they can say that didn't claim to be an Adventist network/ministry. Shady, just shady!

Whoever's watch it is at GC to look in at BSDA, it's time to cut that cord guys...looks like they already have the scissors in hand.

Posted by: Shepherdswife Jun 22 2007, 08:46 PM

> QUOTE(LaurenceD @ Jun 22 2007, 03:31 PM)
>
> BTW, I heard DS the other night saying 3abn was operating on a shoe string budget, and he told his TV > audience "we could use millions" in donations right now.

e'd better go ask his non-denominational, Sabbath-keeping, undiluted three angels messages, vegetarian hurches for the money...

Posted by: SoulEspresso Jun 22 2007, 08:49 PM

> QUOTE(Richard Sherwin @ Jun 22 2007, 11:17 AM)
>
> Even in these early postings we are seeing the lawsuit backfire. Danny, Walt, 3ABN and their big supporters will rue the day they considered a lawsuit against the truth. May God have mercies on their souls.

.. if God has a strong enough stomach.

eriously, if this goes badly enough for them, maybe they'll come to Jesus ... for the first time? If hey've been taking His Name in vain all this time ...

Posted by: Ralph Jun 22 2007, 10:16 PM

> QUOTE(sonshineonme {quoting Gailon Joy} @ Jun 21 2007, 07:36 PM)
>
> After carefully discussing trial strategy, we made the determination there would be > the potential for serious conflicts as we progressed and added parties, etc. Therefore,
> I opted to enter my appearance Pro Se and manage my own case in concert with > Defendant Pickles counsel.

ne lawyer described Pro Se this way, "He who is his own lawyer has a fool for a client."
ven if it is in concert with Defendant Pickle's counsel, it is worth remembering that two xperienced lawyers will be representing the Plaintiffs.

Posted by: Fran Jun 23 2007, 12:44 AM

> QUOTE
>
> Since its inception, Shelton and 3ABN have worked tirelessly to promote 3ABNs ministry and to spread its unique, non-denominational "Return to God" message.

Excuse Me! Just when did this change take place? Last I heard it was, "Mending Broken People," not "Return to God!" Maybe the evidence that has been presented has revealed that in actuality 3ABN/Danny actually "Broke People" and caused this drastic change in Slogans?

I get it now! Danny is the self appointed Anointed One; it must be that we need to return to him?

> QUOTE(calvin @ Jun 22 2007, 12:18 PM)
>
> I find this to be a very brazen statement considering 3abn owes its existence to the Adventist church as well as most of its support....and now to distant itself from the church ought to be a wake-up call to Amazing Facts and any financial contributor.
>
> I guess this is just more legal maneuvering. But to make statements like we preach a non-denominational message is a lie.

Actually, Calvin, I believe "BRAZEN" is just the right word needed here!

Posted by: Fran Jun 23 2007, 04:00 AM

> QUOTE(Pickle @ Jun 22 2007, 02:56 PM)
>
> Observer, thanks for observing. I missed that one.

Bob!

This entirely my opinion.

Danny couldn't risk Linda registering 3ABN! He had to get it done BEFORE they divorced! He didn't dump her until he got it done. He sort of got the horse before the cart. Brenda told what she was told to tell, but Danny had to tie up those loose ends before he could get her out of the way.

Hey, why do we think Danny wanted Linda way away from 3ABN? Say for an additional 30 days? He would have NEVER let her come back as promised! They wanted her gone so they could take care of these issues.

This was part of Danny and Walt's PREPOSITIONING! It was ALL PREPLANNED. I have been saying that since I read the IL vs 3ABN Property Tax Lawsuit in 2004.

I heard that Linda had committed Adultery in March 2004! At that time, I am ashamed to say I believed it! That is, I believed it until I read that Property Tax Lawsuit! There was evidence in that lawsuit Danny was setting Linda up by bringing Linda's CD front and center, but lies about his books and CD's. Even that was Prepositioned and Preplanned! He did that on purpose way back then!

In 2003 the letter was received about Tommy. Linda had previously won in the decision to not have Tommy on the payroll. Oops here we go again! Danny does not loose to anyone over choices about his blood siblings!

This is what caused Danny and his close buddies to start praying for Linda's removal in 2003. A president can not be trumped by a VP/Wife! Never Again!

December came. The Doc comes to 3ABN to check out the ministry he has so strongly supported financially and meets Nathan and Linda and decided to help Nathan, Linda's (and supposedly Danny's) son! The Doc says he is a supporter. Danny checks the books and accuses the Doc of Lying! He can't find his name on the donor list. He soon finds out that 3ABN's data entry people mis-spelled his name! Danny embarrasses himself by accusing the innocent doc who was NOT lying!

Danny pitches a fit! There went Linda again, challenging his authority in these matters. She trumps him again and sends Nathan to Norway when Danny clearly said NO. In early Feb., Linda went to check on Nathan, and, of course, she takes her "Best" friend! (Yeah, Right-Not) They came home and the preplanned prepositioning began!

Linda returned home. She and Danny traveled in that February, more than they had ever traveled in the history of 3ABN! Danny needed Linda to gather into the storehouse as much cash as possible before he dumped her!

Brenda Walsh takes her sweet time to reveal her lie. Why? It took that long for Danny to hit upon the perfect plan! He had to enlist support from his most loyal subjects. To bad, he was a day late and a $ dollar $ short. But it works with Kay Kuzma, Walt, and John Lomacang, all of Danny's recruited accomplices. Did they know? Or were they blinded by the stories from Danny, the anointed one?

Walt sends Linda a demand letter. Do this or else. If she had followed his instructions to perfection, she was NEVER to return to 3ABN!

Linda just would not co-operate! Danny had to actually divorce her through the courts in Guam so no one would know why he really dumped her. Oops, that did not work out either, did it?

It started with Tommy not being able to be hired because of Linda swaying the vote of the board. Danny could not let that ever happen again, EVER! His resentment grew exponentially!

To reinforce Brenda and his lie, he starts the horrible leaks of lies about Linda. Every word, every action is to trash Linda! It is working! People are sending in $ Money $ hand over fist! Danny's group announces that this is God blessing Danny and 3ABN for kicking out the bad seed. Yeah, sad huh. $$ gain by breaking his wife. Real manly like, right? This is how the self appointed, anointed one, works to increase his self image at the cost of others. Linda became his stomping stone.

To make thing work, Danny had to break a few others along the way. (Johann & Darrel to name only 2) Oh, well, the job had to be done, right? So the lies have to be covered. How did they do that? By continuing their slander, lies, and innuendo about Linda at any & every given opportunity and even to MAKING additional opportunities!

Now back to the IL vs 3ABN Property Tax Lawsuit. As I have shown from documented court documents, 3ABN/Danny had serious VALUATION PROBLEMS with assets & TRUST FUNDS. THEY WERE NOT FOLLOWING GENERALLY ACCEPTED ACCOUNTING PRINCIPLES (GAAP)! The auditors wrote up 3ABN for NOT FOLLOWING GAAP! Then it goes on to write them up again for having serious problems with TRUST FUNDS and the VALUATION OF THOSE ASSETS AND TRUST FUNDS AND REAL PROPERTY. Oops. It is written up in actual court documents!

If you would go to the audits on the Attorney General's website you will find more current audits. Guess what! They are WRITTEN UP AGAIN ABOUT GAPP AND VALUATIONS! They didn't learn anything back in 2000 & 2001! As of that newer audit on the Attorney General's website, they STILL have TRUST ISSUES and VALUATION ISSUES AT 3ABN! Did I forget to mention Asset Valuation also?

In the Jan and Feb 2006, issue of AToday, there was an article called "3ABN Financial Irregularities." I provided Documented Court Documents to AToday. Yet, they said not one word about 3ABN's dealings with TRUST FUNDS OR VALUATIONS! I was irate and called them. I was informed that Walt Thompson admitted to AToday there were problems involving TRUST FUNDS and Walt asked AToday not to publish that because 3ABN was addressing that at that very moment. WERE THEY?

Therefore, my statement that 3ABN STILL HAD TRUST FUND ISSUES STEMS FROM THAT KNOWLEDGE!

I started screaming in 2004. Why else would God have dropped that in my lap. About that time, I felt all my screaming was a failure, yet I kept on with my then hopeless screaming.

I have no desire to be in power or be in any lime light. I just wanted the truth to be known. When Joy and Pickle came along, I said my piece and shut up to let them tie all the loose ends. My job was over until Shiny Penny came along. She provided the platform for my information one last time.

Folks, God is in charge! I believe he is leading through Joy and Pickle. Both men have been trying to work with and for God, even though 3ABN says they are of the devil. I know where the devil has been working. Joy and Pickle are doing their earthly best to do God's will! Praise be to God!

Gailon Joy and Bob Pickle (Oops, sorry Robert) They got sued because they started telling the truth! I now see how trivial this lawsuit really is. I can't believe his lawyers even bothered with the suit! All I can say is all it did was hurt Danny/3ABN/The 3ABN Board and now Amazing Facts! It had to be for the $$$ they stand to make from Danny/3ABN for this total nonsense.

I was told by someone very close to Doug that this lawsuit was a counter suit to a suit that Linda, Joy ,and Pickle filed against 3ABN/Danny! This does not look like a counter suit to me. Does it look like one to you? I wonder who started this lie?

Could it be that 3ABN is using this lawsuit to make it clear to the world that they ARE NOT SEVENTH-DAY ADVENTIST ANYTHING! Does this constitute breaking the 3ABN/SDA World Church Contract? It is so clear, it should cause that to happen fast!

Why the impounding? It was so 3ABN had time to finish their prepositioning and preplanning. I believe there is another big, big bang coming soon! Keep praying for Joy, Pickle, and their workers. Satan has not given up by any means!

What's gonna happen when Danny figures out he could very possible be suing the wrong people?

Thank you for allowing me to VENT my opinions. These opinions are subject to change as Bob and Gailon continue to reveal the truth that God brings to them.

Oh, I almost forgot, The horse sales/cash donations show yet another instance of VALUATION PROBLEMS at 3ABN. Everything is relative to Danny's opinions! Oops again.

Posted by: runner4him Jun 23 2007, 04:58 AM

> QUOTE(Shepherdswife @ Jun 22 2007, 09:46 PM) ☐
>
> He'd better go ask his non-denominational, Sabbath-keeping, undiluted three angels messages, vegetarian churches for the money...

Great post Shepherdswife! He is going to be looking for a long long time to find that church.

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Jun 23 2007, 05:38 AM

> QUOTE(princessdi @ Jun 22 2007, 06:39 PM)
>
> I am really thinking that this, little tidbit, if not THE reason for the records being sealed, is in the top two. Everyone of "us"(Adventist and everyone else) believing that their doctrine is Advnetist doctrine. We did n't assume that, they said that!...........but wait a minute come to think of the, they really don't make that claim especially in ther little station identification...they just say they preach the three angels message..........Which is a definite 'assumed" affiliation with the SDA church, but they can say that didn't claim to be an Adventist network/ministry. Shady, just shady!
>
> Whoever's watch it is at GC to look in at BSDA, it's time to cut that cord guys...looks like they already have the scissors in hand.

On the April 19 Merge Show, Danny made it clear that he and Doug believed in the same basic message (on the Live version Doug made the little disclaimer that he had chased a few ducks in his time) and that the message 3abn was preaching was the same one Danny had been taught by his mother. I don't remember his exact wording, but he referred to it as the message of the early believers.

This was one of the statements that caught my attention as it seemed as though they were positioning themselves apart from the SDA church at large.

If they were worried about the impact the "Little Group" has had on their donations, I think it will pale in comparison to the coming impact as word of this maneuver gets around.

BTW, I have a hard time accepting that Walt Thompson believes that 3abn is non-denominational. I wonder if they ran this bombshell by him before they included it in the lawsuit?

Posted by: beartrap Jun 23 2007, 08:28 AM

-edited-

Posted by: watchbird Jun 23 2007, 09:11 AM

> QUOTE(PeacefullyBewildered @ Jun 23 2007, 07:38 AM)
>
> On the April 19 Merge Show, Danny made it clear that he and Doug believed in the same basic message (on the Live version Doug made the little disclaimer that he had chased a few ducks in his time) and that the message 3abn was preaching was the same one Danny had been taught by his mother. I don't remember his exact wording, but he referred to it as the message of the early believers.
>
> This was one of the statements that caught my attention as it seemed as though they were positioning themselves apart from the SDA church at large.
>
> If they were worried about the impact the "Little Group" has had on their donations, I think it will pale in comparison to the coming impact as word of this maneuver gets around.
>
> BTW, I have a hard time accepting that Walt Thompson believes that 3abn is non-denominational. I wonder if they ran this bombshell by him before they included it in the lawsuit?

This is no bombshell.... and nobody should be surprised. This has been their publicly stated position on their website for more than 15 years.

Please see my more detailed comments on this at http://www.blacksda.com/forums/index.php?s=&showtopic=13900&view=findpost&p=201031 of the thread "Court Posts Legal Documents".

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Jun 23 2007, 01:01 PM

> QUOTE(watchbird @ Jun 23 2007, 08:11 AM) ☐
>
> This is no bombshell.... and nobody should be surprised. This has been their publicly stated position on their website for more than 15 years.
>
> Please see my more detailed comments on this at http://www.blacksda.com/forums/index.php?s=&showtopic=13900&view=findpost&p=201031 of the thread "Court Posts Legal Documents".

WB,

I understand your reasoning but I don't fully agree with it. We have just gone through quite a journey of exploration over whether or not the http://www.blacksda.com/forums/index.php?showtopic=13733. The outcome was that the GC communications director, Rajmund Dabrowski, stated:

> QUOTE
>
> The General Conference of Seventh-day Adventists has received a number of inquiries into the status of Three Angels Broadcasting Network (3ABN) as a supporting ministry of the Church. There has been no change or review of the status of 3ABN as a supporting ministry by the Seventh-day Adventist Church. Due to ongoing administrative issues at 3ABN, the General Conference administration has taken a position that until these matters have been addressed that the General Conference personnel not involve 3ABN for new program development and production. This approach does not reflect that the General Conference is taking any particular position in issues which are under the purview of the Board of Directors of 3ABN, which is an independent supporting ministry. The GC's position applies to General Conference personnel.

http://www.blacksda.com/forums/index.php?s=&showtopic=13733&view=findpost&p=198809

It has also been pointed out that reps from both 3abn and GC signed an agreement in 1997 and that they are members of ASI, etc. This makes their mission statement look as though they are trying to hide the fact that they are actually affiliated with the SDA denom rather than truly presenting themselves as non-denominational, IMO.

Posted by: watchbird Jun 23 2007, 01:56 PM

> QUOTE(PeacefullyBewildered @ Jun 23 2007, 03:01 PM) ☐
>
> WB,
>
> I understand your reasoning but I don't fully agree with it. We have just gone through quite a journey of exploration over whether or not the http://www.blacksda.com/forums/index.php?showtopic=13733. The outcome was that the GC communications director, Rajmund Dabrowski, stated:
> http://www.blacksda.com/forums/index.php?s=&showtopic=13733&view=findpost&p=198809
>
> It has also been pointed out that reps from both 3abn and GC signed an agreement in 1997 and that they are members of ASI, etc. This makes their mission statement look as though they are trying to hide the fact that they are actually affiliated with the SDA denom rather than truly presenting themselves as non-denominational, IMO.

Did you read my post in the other thread? Yes... 3abn started out stating that they were an independent but supporting ministry of the SDA church. Throughout the year 1997 they engaged in a lengthy series of discussions... see the documents elsewhere here on BSDA.... in which the GC tried to get them to sign a contract with them. 3abn refused... and the letters stating that are here also... and then, inexplicably, in the fall of 1997, the GC signed that agreement with them, in which the GC gave everything to 3abn... with none of the safeguards of a contract... no time limits, no conditions, no ways of breaking away from the agreement.

3abn almost immediately put it on their website, and those who have "sold" for 3abn since that time say that they have pulled it out and used it whenever there was any resistance to their entering a territory.

So now.... the agreement is supposedly "still in force"... yet within 4 years of the signing of it, 3abn themselves were not claiming to be a supporting ministry... even on their own website.

So yes... it makes it look very strange... and gives them the ability... or they take the opportunity... to claim to be a supporting ministry or an independent ministry or completely unaffiliated with the church... whichever suits their purpose in any given environment at any given moment.

The "journey of exploration" over whether GC has removed their "supporting minsitry" status has nothing to do with the facts of life (and the doublespeak) of the past 10 years that they have had a web site. The question of what 3abn considers itself is quite apart from any action of the GC... and my point is that for 3abn to (at the present moment) declare that it is a non-denominational entity is nothing new... and since that has been publicly proclaimed on their website for all these years... should come as no surprise to anyone....or at least to none who have access to a computer.

Posted by: Pickle Jun 23 2007, 02:16 PM

I agree, WB, that there is a problem with perception, since when my father read the statement on their website, he took it to mean that 3ABN is not affiliated with any church, denomination, or organization. So people definitely perceive it in the way you describe.

However, the statement on their website only specifically denies being owned, operated, or funded by any church, denomination, or organization. Thus that statement, unlike the lawsuit, doesn't deny affiliation with ASI or the GC.

Posted by: Panama_Pete Jun 23 2007, 03:21 PM

> QUOTE(Pickle @ Jun 23 2007, 02:16 PM)
>
> I agree, WB, that there is a problem with perception, since when my father read the statement on their website, he took it to mean that 3ABN is not affiliated with any church, denomination, or organization. So people definitely perceive it in the way you describe.
>
> However, the statement on their website only specifically denies being owned, operated, or funded by any church, denomination, or organization. Thus that statement, unlike the lawsuit, doesn't deny affiliation with ASI or the GC.

The lawsuit needs to be considered independently of everything else, since only those things submitted to the court will be considered. So, if you look at the lawsuit, by itself, it says:

"Although many of 3ABN's employees and volunteers, including Plaintiff Shelton, are members of the Seventh-Day Adventist faith, 3ABN is a non-denominational Christian ministry which is not owned by, affiliated with, or financed by any specific church, denomination, or organization."

The following is what that above statement says to me in my own opinionated paraphrase:

"Despite the fact that we have Adventist employees here, we are not affiliated or controlled by their "specific" denomination. We're non-denominational and totally independent - no strings attached whatsoever to those Adventists.

Failing to recognize this fact, and through no fault of our own, those Seventh-day Adventists have developed an unhealthy interest in our totally independent, non-denominational ministry and seem to have a fixation upon us for no reason that we can understand, Your Honor. Where the Adventists got 3ABN's name and address we do not know." .

My two cents.

Posted by: Observer Jun 23 2007, 04:12 PM

> QUOTE(Ralph @ Jun 22 2007, 09:16 PM) ☐
>
> One lawyer described Pro Se this way, "He who is his own lawyer has a fool for a client." Even if it is in concert with Defendant Pickle's counsel, it is worth remembering that two experienced lawyers will be representing the Plaintiffs.

Wrong!

Read the documents opened by the court.

Six (6) highly qualified lawyers represented 3-ABN and Danny Shelton.

Also, one non-lawyer wrote the brief that persuaded the judge to release the legal documents to the public, and post them on the website. One non-lawyer, G. A. Joy, won the first round against six (6) well qualified lawyers!

For those who want to know, get the documents that the six presented to the court as to why the documents should remaing sealed.

Then read Gailon's response.

For your interest:

The brief of the six: 26 initial pages, plus 55 pages of attachments, statements, etc.

Gailon's brief: 24 pages

Those documents are interesting reading.

Even more interesting is the one-page ruling of the judge as to why the documents should be made available to the public. The bottom line is that it blasts the plaintiff's attempt to impound the documents.

Here is part of the closing paragraph in the document:

> QUOTE
>
> Simply put. Plaintiffs Motion and proposed order seeks insidious violation of the Local Rule . . .that is designed to be oppresive and restictive of the Plaintiff's rights (sic.) the rights of other jurisdictions and abuses the clear Local Rule 7.2 of this Honorable Court.

In the beginning paragraph of this order to open the records, the judge says:

> QUOTE
>
> Impoundment of this case . . . is unconstitutional as a violation of the First Ammendment right of Freedom of the Press, violates the common law of public access, and is unsupported by caselaw, particularly in the First Circuit.

In the second paragraph the judge calls the wishes of the plaintiff's to be "outrageous proposals."

Folks, this order simply, in my mind, destroys just about everything that the Plaintiff's asked for in their requst to impound.

In round one, the Pro Se did not have a fool for a client.

However, this is only round one. We expected to win this one. There will be other rounds, before the main battle. The war has not yet been won.

Posted by: Panama_Pete Jun 23 2007, 04:25 PM

> QUOTE(Observer @ Jun 23 2007, 04:12 PM) ☐
>
> Six (6) highly qualified lawyers represented 3-ABN and Danny Shelton.

Meanwhile, some little orphan goes to bed hungry while money is lavished on a team a lawyers.

Posted by: Fran Jun 23 2007, 05:10 PM

> QUOTE(Observer @ Jun 23 2007, 05:12 PM) ☐
>
> .
>
> In round one, the Pro Se did not have a fool for a client.

I totally agree! Joy is no fool! Neither is Pickle. I believe God is using both of them in a mighty ways!

It reminds me of Gideon. He won the war with God as his leader! You can't go wrong with God beside you! Even if the war is lost!

To me, a non-legal thinker, the lawsuit was a big joke. I read page after page and couldn't believe what those six (6) lawyers prepared. By the way, thanks for telling us how many lawyers were available for viewing!

It makes me wonder when they are going to sue because they have keys in their pocket.

I realize this is a very serious suit; that is why it is so funny to me, I guess. Danny had those six lawyers open several really big cans of worms! I couldn't help but think those lawyers were on Joy and Pickles side as hidden allies. I say that because they are not "stupid" by any means!

Posted by: Rosyroi Jun 23 2007, 06:18 PM

[quote][quote name='Fran' date='Jun 23 2007, 03:00 AM' post='201009']
[b]

[color=#000099]Bob!

This entirely my opinion.[/quote]
....

Fran.....

Thank you SO much for continuing shouting even when you thought no one was listening!!!!!

☒ ☒ ☒ hug.gif ☒ ☒

☒ ☒ rofl ☒ ☒ ☒ than

I would have used more emoticons but I was limited.

This display shows just a small portion of how I feel now that you kept on shouting.

My opinion.

Rosyroi

Posted by: Artiste Jun 23 2007, 07:07 PM

Pickle, what other surprises are in the legal papers?

****

Posted by: steffan Jun 23 2007, 09:13 PM

> QUOTE(Observer @ Jun 23 2007, 05:12 PM) ☐
>
> Folks, this order simply, in my mind, destroys just about everything that the Plaintiff's asked for in their requst to impound.

> In round one, the Pro Se did not have a fool for a client.
>
> However, this is only round one. We expected to win this one. There will be other rounds, before the main battle. The war has not yet been won.

reg, for someone who tries to appear so knowledgable of the law (while of course playing it safe by then aying you are not an expert) I would think that you would assume that 3abn was told in advance that the udge would not grant a blanket impoundment. That is almost unheard of but it was procedure to request it. hen I notice that even though you say "the war is not won" you fail to mention the specifics concerning the ifting of the impoundment. The truth is that this specific "lifting" is only on this small portion of the case. It oes not mean that there will not be future impoundments as each portion of the case is litigated. In other ords, contrary to the reaction here, this was a totally expected judgement and not at all some huge victory. t certainly does not mean that this whole case will be open to the public. There will be motions made all own the long road. Some will be denied and some granted. The judge may very well impound some portions nd not others.
s far as the credit you give Joy saying it was his brief that caused the judge to lift the impoundment....you ave to be joking. I repeat, a blanket impoundment is almost never granted no matter who writes the brief efuting it. To even insinuate that "wannabe" Joy "pulled one over" on a highly qualified, respected and stablished lawfirm is quite ludicrous on your part.
s for Laird's part in the whole scenerio, well if his first appearance for Linda was without an actived license nd the next court date he was a no show, I wouldn't hold my breath for any brilliant legal strategy from him. y the way, his request for yet another continuance on the marital property case arrived approx 15 minutes fter the Judge ruled against Linda. The judge stated that contrary to what she said, she knew what she was igning when she signed the marital property agreement and the contract is valid. The judge sanctioned her nd she will be responsible for paying Danny's attorney's fees for this part of the case, in which, she had no ase (forgive the pun.)

Posted by: Richard Sherwin Jun 23 2007, 09:23 PM

Steffan why would 3abn want to impound anything? If they are as transparent as they claim why not ask that all the documents and everything be made public? It appears they have things to hide when they ask for impoundments, contrary to their claims.

Richard

> QUOTE(steffan @ Jun 23 2007, 11:13 PM)
>
> Greg, for someone who tries to appear so knowledgable of the law (while of course playing it safe by then saying you are not an expert) I would think that you would assume that 3abn was told in advance that the judge would not grant a blanket impoundment. That is almost unheard of but it was procedure to request it. Then I notice that even though you say "the war is not won" you fail to mention the specifics concerning the lifting of the impoundment. The truth is that this specific "lifting" is only on this small portion of the case. It does not mean that there will not be future impoundments as each portion of the case is litigated. In other words, contrary to the reaction here, this was a totally expected judgement and not at all some huge victory. It certainly does not mean that this whole case will be open to the public. There will be motions made all down the long road. Some will be denied and some granted. The judge may very well impound some portions and not others.
> As far as the credit you give Joy saying it was his brief that caused the judge to lift the impoundment....you have to be joking. I repeat, a blanket impoundment is almost never granted no matter who writes the brief refuting it. To even insinuate that "wannabe" Joy "pulled one over" on a highly qualified, respected and established lawfirm is quite ludicrous on your part.
> As for Laird's part in the whole scenerio, well if his first appearance for Linda was without an actived license and the next court date he was a no show, I wouldn't hold my breath for any brilliant legal strategy from him. By the way, his request for yet another continuance on the marital property case arrived approx 15 minutes after the Judge ruled against Linda. The judge stated that contrary to what she said, she knew what she was signing when she signed the marital property agreement and the contract is valid. The judge > sanctioned her and she will be responsible for paying Danny's attorney's fees for this part of the case, in which, she had no case (forgive the pun.)

Posted by: mikell Jun 23 2007, 09:58 PM

Steffan, I seem to miss your reply to PeacefullBewildered's question, remember what she wrote questioning you being in the "know" of 3ABN:

"I am curious to know how it is you know what the attorneys advised 3abn months ago. What is your source for this information? I know you profess to be in a unique position of knowledge, but how are we to give your statement much credibility when 3abn Board Chairman Walt Thompson said this about you:"

From: Walt Thompson [wrote this about Steffan]....

"No, Steffan does not represent 3abn or Danny. He is not in a position of authority to know what is going on..."

PeacefullyBewildered asked a very good questions, and Steffan, I am sure you have for us a good answers to PeacefullBewildered's question, , don't you???

Posted by: ex3ABNemployee Jun 23 2007, 10:20 PM

> QUOTE(steffan @ Jun 23 2007, 10:13 PM)
>
> Greg, for someone who tries to appear so knowledgable of the law (while of course playing it safe by then saying you are not an expert) I would think that you would assume that 3abn was told in advance that the judge would not grant a blanket impoundment. That is almost unheard of but it was procedure to request it. Then I notice that even though you say "the war is not won" you fail to mention the specifics concerning the lifting of the impoundment. The truth is that this specific "lifting" is only on this small portion of the case. It does not mean that there will not be future impoundments as each portion of the case is litigated. In other words, contrary to the reaction here, this was a totally expected judgement and not at all some huge victory. It certainly does not mean that this whole case will be open to the public. There will be motions made all down the long road. Some will be denied and some granted. The judge may very well impound some portions and not others.
> As far as the credit you give Joy saying it was his brief that caused the judge to lift the impoundment....you have to be joking. I repeat, a blanket impoundment is almost never granted no matter who writes the brief refuting it. To even insinuate that "wannabe" Joy "pulled one over" on a highly qualified, respected and established lawfirm is quite ludicrous on your part.
> As for Laird's part in the whole scenerio, well if his first appearance for Linda was without an actived license and the next court date he was a no show, I wouldn't hold my breath for any brilliant legal strategy from him. By the way, his request for yet another continuance on the marital property case arrived approx 15 minutes after the Judge ruled against Linda. The judge stated that contrary to what she said, she knew what she was signing when she signed the marital property agreement and the contract is valid. The judge sanctioned her and she will be responsible for paying Danny's attorney's fees for this part of the case, in which, she had no case (forgive the pun.)

Translation:

Oh, yeah, well....ummm.....we knew that would happen."

Posted by: Skyhook Jun 23 2007, 11:22 PM

> QUOTE(mikell @ Jun 23 2007, 10:58 PM)
>
> Steffan, I seem to miss your reply to PeacefullBewildered's question, remember what she wrote to you in questioning you being in the "know" of 3ABN:
>
> PeacefullyBewildered asked a very good questions, and Steffan, I am sure you have for us a good answer to PeacefullBewildered's question, , don't you???

Maybe Walt just had his fingers crossed when he made those statements.

Or maybe he and the others adhere to something like the Jesuit code that gives them license to do or say anything as long as it is in the service of protecting "The Ministry."

Or perhaps Walt said "Steffan does not represent 3abn" meaning "nobody whose real name is Steffan represents 3abn." Just like Mollie said "3abn owns no plane."

There are lots was to dissemble.

Or maybe Walt was telling the truth.

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Jun 23 2007, 11:40 PM

> QUOTE(Panama_Pete @ Jun 23 2007, 01:21 PM)
>
> The lawsuit needs to be considered independently of everything else, since only those things submitted to the court will be considered. So, if you look at the lawsuit, by itself, it says:
>
> "Although many of 3ABN's employees and volunteers, including Plaintiff Shelton, are members of the Seventh-Day Adventist faith, 3ABN is a non-denominational Christian ministry which is not owned by, affiliated with, or financed by any specific church, denomination, or organization."
>
> The following is what that above statement says to me in my own opinionated paraphrase:
>
> "Despite the fact that we have Adventist employees here, we are not affiliated or controlled by their "specific" denomination. We're non-denominational and totally independent - no strings attached whatsoever to those Adventists.
>
> Failing to recognize this fact, and through no fault of our own, those Seventh-day Adventists have developed an unhealthy interest in our totally independent, non-denominational ministry and seem to have a fixation upon us for no reason that we can understand, Your Honor. Where the Adventists got 3ABN's name and address we do not know." .
>
> My two cents.

And furthermore, Your Honor, please disregard the fact that the General Conference of Seventh-day Adventists (who for some reason have concluded that we are a supporting ministy of their denomination) have, heretofore, allowed us free access to hold rallies in their churches in order to raise funds from Seventh-day Adventists to run our non-denominational and totally independent - no strings attached ministry, although we can't understand why they would continue to shower us with money at these rallies but extrapolate that it is probably because of this same unhealthy fixation they, for no reason that we can understand, seem to have upon us.

Posted by: Snoopy Jun 23 2007, 11:47 PM

> QUOTE(steffan @ Jun 23 2007, 09:13 PM)
>
> Greg, for someone who tries to appear so knowledgable of the law (while of course playing it safe by then saying you are not an expert) I would think that you would assume that 3abn was told in advance that the judge would not grant a blanket impoundment. That is almost unheard of but it was procedure to request it. Then I notice that even though you say "the war is not won" you fail to mention the specifics concerning the lifting of the impoundment. The truth is that this specific "lifting" is only on this small portion of the case. It does not mean that there will not be future impoundments as each portion of the case is litigated. In other words, contrary to the reaction here, this was a totally expected judgement and not at all some huge victory. It certainly does not mean that this whole case will be open to the public. There will be motions made all down the long road. Some will be denied and some granted. The judge may very well impound some portions and not others.
> As far as the credit you give Joy saying it was his brief that caused the judge to lift the impoundment....you have to be joking. I repeat, a blanket impoundment is almost never granted no matter who writes the brief refuting it. To even insinuate that "wannabe" Joy "pulled one over" on a highly qualified, respected and established lawfirm is quite ludicrous on your part.
> As for Laird's part in the whole scenerio, well if his first appearance for Linda was without an actived license and the next court date he was a no show, I wouldn't hold my breath for any brilliant legal strategy from him. By the way, his request for yet another continuance on the marital property case arrived approx 15 minutes after the Judge ruled against Linda. The judge stated that contrary to what she said, she knew what she was signing when she signed the marital property agreement and the contract is valid. The judge sanctioned her and she will be responsible for paying Danny's attorney's fees for this part of the case, in which, she had no case (forgive the pun.)

Very interesting Steffan. There are probably not too many folks who would know the activity in the courtroom down to the minute. I guess it is safe to assume you were there....

Since you are so close to Danny that you even attend his court appearances, maybe you could remind him that since he personally is a co-plaintiff in the copyright/slander suit and "someone" is allegedly paying for his legal expenses, he will need to claim that as taxable income on his personal income tax return... But then again, I'm sure one of his 6 lawyers has already advised him of that...

Posted by: Panama_Pete Jun 23 2007, 11:55 PM

> QUOTE(PeacefullyBewildered @ Jun 23 2007, 11:40 PM)
>
> And furthermore, Your Honor, please disregard the fact that the General Conference of Seventh-day Adventists (who for some reason have concluded that we are a supporting ministy of their denomination) have, heretofore, allowed us free access to hold rallies in their churches in order to raise funds from Seventh-day Adventists to run our non-denominational and totally independent - no strings attached ministry, although we can't understand why they would continue to shower us with money at these rallies but extrapolate that it is probably because of this same unhealthy fixation they, for no reason that we can understand, seem to have upon us.

rofl rofl rofl

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Jun 24 2007, 12:06 AM

> QUOTE(watchbird @ Jun 23 2007, 11:56 AM)
>
> Did you read my post in the other thread? Yes... 3abn started out stating that they were an independent but supporting ministry of the SDA church. Throughout the year 1997 they engaged in a lengthy series of discussions... see the documents elsewhere here on BSDA.... in which the GC tried to get them to sign a contract with them. 3abn refused... and the letters stating that are here also... and then, inexplicably, in the fall of 1997, the GC signed that agreement with them, in which the GC gave everything to 3abn... with none of the safeguards of a contract... no time limits, no conditions, no ways of breaking away from the agreement.
>
> 3abn almost immediately put it on their website, and those who have "sold" for 3abn since that time say that they have pulled it out and used it whenever there was any resistance to their entering a territory.
>
> So now.... the agreement is supposedly "still in force"... yet within 4 years of the signing of it, 3abn themselves were not claiming to be a supporting ministry... even on their own website.
>
> So yes... it makes it look very strange... and gives them the ability... or they take the opportunity... to claim to be a supporting ministry or an independent ministry or completely unaffiliated with the church... whichever suits their purpose in any given environment at any given moment.
>
> The "journey of exploration" over whether GC has removed their "supporting minsitry" status has nothing to do with the facts of life (and the doublespeak) of the past 10 years that they have had a web site. The question of what 3abn considers itself is quite apart from any action of the GC... and my point is that for 3abn to (at the present moment) declare that it is a non-denominational entity is nothing new... and since that has been publicly proclaimed on their website for all these years... should come as no surprise to anyone....or at least to none who have access to a computer.

Yes, WB, I did read your other thread. I understand what you are saying and you are, undoubtedly, correct for all of the reasons you stated. As one who has watched 3abn for several years, perhaps I assumed from some of the programming that I watched that they were at least purporting to represent the Seventh-day Adventist beliefs so it did come as a surprise to me when I read the non-denominational disclaimer in the lawsuit (even thought I actually do have a computer). I guess my undoing was in not reading what they had publically proclaimed on their website.

I do appreciate your perspective as well as the information you have provided on the history of the 1997 GC/3abn agreement and the maneuvering 3abn has done to distance themselves ever since. And yet, I believe there are going to be a quite a few semi-intelligent folks like me who are going to be just as surprised when they read the lawsuit.

Posted by: Observer Jun 24 2007, 04:36 AM

Steffan:

Thank you for responding. I wanted to hear from someone on 3-ABN's side who would comment in some way on this, and someone who was knowledgeable. I credit you with being knowlegeable, so thank you for sharing with us.

You will note in my responses that I agree with much of what you have said.

> QUOTE(steffan @ Jun 23 2007, 08:13 PM)
>
> Greg, for someone who tries to appear so knowledgable of the law (while of course playing it safe by then > saying you are not an expert) I would think that you would assume that 3abn was told in advance that the judge would not grant a blanket impoundment. That is almost unheard of but it was procedure to request it.

agree with you in the above. I did not suggest such as I did not want to be accused of speculating. While I do speculate at times, I do make some attempts to minimize such, and to keep such to some of the more mportant or interesting issues (interesting to me, I suppose).

Now that you have raised the subject, I will speculate some, and beyond the information that you have given us. I suspect that the MA lawyers probably expected the judge to lift the impoundment. One of the reasons hat they were probably retained, and there were others, was that they were expected to understand the udicial temperment of the judge. As such they would be expected to know what arguements would be accepted by the judge, and how the judge would likely rule on motions submitted to him.

The bottom line is that I will suggest that the MA lawyers expected the judge to lift the impoundment. I also agree that it would be typical proceedure to request such. However, I am surprised by the manner in which he judge ruled against the motion to permantly impound. While I may be wrong, it suggsts to me that the awyers who submitted it were, so to speak, caught with their pants down. It essentially, in my mind, destroyed every arguement that they raised. I cannot immagine any lawyer submitting a motion to a court if hat lawyer expected it to be as totally rejected as that motion was rejected. There is a bite to the judges ruling that I did not expect, and I suspect the lawyers who subitted it did not expect such.

> QUOTE
>
> Then I notice that even though you say "the war is not won" you fail to mention the specifics concerning the lifting of the impoundment. The truth is that this specific "lifting" is only on this small portion of the case. It does not mean that there will not be future impoundments as each portion of the case is litigated. In other words, contrary to the reaction here, this was a totally expected judgement and not at all some huge victory. It certainly does not mean that this whole case will be open to the public. There will be motions made all down the long road. Some will be denied and some granted. The judge may very well impound some portions and not others.

Of course you are corect. I think that you will acknowedge that any future orders to impound will not be granted on the basis of the motion which was soundly rejected. Yes, I agree that individual motions to mpound may be granted. But, read the judges order. I will suggst that it clearly tells us that the judge is unlikely to impound in the future on any kind of a wide basis.

By saying that the war was not won, I wanted peple to know that this was just a skirmish, and not the final battle. There is much more. I expect that the Plaintiff's may win some battles. But, if they do it will still remain to be seen whether or not they will win the war.

> QUOTE
>
> As far as the credit you give Joy saying it was his brief that caused the judge to lift the impoundment....you have to be joking. I repeat, a blanket impoundment is almost never granted no matter who writes the brief refuting it. To even insinuate that "wannabe" Joy "pulled one over" on a highly qualified, respected and established lawfirm is quite ludicrous on your part.

do not think that this is 100 per-cent accurate.

NOTE: I have not reviewed the documents, this morning, that I have printed off before writing this. So, please correct me if my memory is inaccurate in any way.

The plaintiff asked the court to impound on a number of issues. One of the issues was that there was no 4th Ammendment, Freedom of the Press right in regard to Mr. Joy being a member of the press.

We expected that the court would rule that there was a 4th ammendemtn Freedom of the Press right, and that is what the court did.

I wll say again: I am dumbfounded by the tone of the judges ruling against impoundment. In my opinion, it essentially cut the legs off,s so to speak, of the plaintiff's arguement. I will acknowledge that lawyers may submitt motions'which they think may be rejected. I am not aquainted with them typically submitting motions that in my opinion are so soundly rejected. Perhaps they expected such. I do not think so.

> QUOTE
>
> As for Laird's part in the whole scenerio, well if his first appearance for Linda was without an actived license and the next court date he was a no show, I wouldn't hold my breath for any brilliant legal strategy from him. By the way, his request for yet another continuance on the marital property case arrived approx 15 minutes after the Judge ruled against Linda. The judge stated that contrary to what she said, she knew what she was signing when she signed the marital property agreement and the contract is valid. The judge sanctioned her and she will be responsible for paying Danny's attorney's fees for this part of the case, in which, she had no case (forgive the pun.)

As to the activated license: So much has been said on this, and the facts are well known, that I see no reason to further comment.

As to the marital property lawsuit. I am not up on what is happening on this. I have no information on it. So, I cannot make any comment.

Again, thanks for commenting on my post. I had hoped that someone would respond.

Posted by: Observer Jun 24 2007, 04:51 AM

> QUOTE(Snoopy @ Jun 23 2007, 10:47 PM)
>
> Very interesting Steffan. There are probably not too many folks who would know the activity in the courtroom down to the minute. I guess it is safe to assume you were there....
>
> Since you are so close to Danny that you even attend his court appearances, maybe you could remind him that since he personally is a co-plaintiff in the copyright/slander suit and "someone" is allegedly paying for his legal expenses, he will need to claim that as taxable income on his personal income tax return... But then again, I'm sure one of his 6 lawyers has already advised him of that...

The above is not quite so clear-cut. Let me suggest the follwoing:

1) Corporate officers may be named defendents/plaintiff's in legal actions. To the extent that their participation in such actions is related to the proper business of the corporation, the corporation may pay their legal expenses and they will not have to declare such as income on their personal tax returns.

While there are exceptions to the above, I strongly suspect that such applies to Danny Shelton in regard to the present lawsuit against Gailon and Bob Pickle.

Folks, this is basic to corporate life. Our society knows that without such protections business could not function in the manner that it needs to function. No one would ever fill a corporate leadership role if doing so would subject them to that level of personal liability.

I an a corporate officer in a local (non-religious) non-profit. An action has been filed that may lead to a lawsuit in which I am one of the named defendants. Our legal counsel has informed us that any such legal expenses and judgements will be paid by the corporation.

2) Legal expenses which are not related to proper business as a corporate officer are likely to be held to be income to the party which must be included on their income tax return.

Perhaps the legal expenses related to the division of the marital property is one such?

Yes, there are exceptions. One exception is that of a gift. However, as I have stated before, to not be included, those gifts much be qualified gifts, and they should not be gifts from a so-called "related party."

Posted by: Observer Jun 24 2007, 06:47 AM

Just a thought:

We now know that lawyers submit motions to the court that they expect to lose. After all it is just proceedure.

In the Plaintiff's complaint that set this lawsuit into motion a number of charges are made against Gailon and Bob Pickle. May we assume that the Plainatiffs expect to lose some of those? If so, which ones?

I would like to know which ones the Plaintiffs expect to lose.

Posted by: runner4him Jun 24 2007, 07:56 AM

> QUOTE(Observer @ Jun 24 2007, 07:47 AM) ☐
>
> Just a thought:
>
> We now know that lawyers submit motions to the court that they expect to lose. After all it is just proceedure.
>
> In the Plaintiff's complaint that set this lawsuit into motion a number of charges are made against Gailon and Bob Pickle. May we assume that the Plainatiffs expect to lose some of those? If so, which ones?
>
> I would like to know which ones the Plaintiffs expect to lose.

Good question. Also don't judges get annoyed with wasting the court's time?

Posted by: LaurenceD Jun 24 2007, 08:06 AM

> QUOTE(Observer)
>
> Just a thought:
>
> We now know that lawyers submit motions to the court that they expect to lose. After all it is just proceedure.
>
> In the Plaintiff's complaint that set this lawsuit into motion a number of charges are made against Gailon and Bob Pickle. May we assume that the Plainatiffs expect to lose some of those? If so, which ones?

> I would like to know which ones the Plaintiffs expect to lose.

ight. That's why I said tell us in advance so we can be 110% more impressed, otherwise I have no choice ut to look at this procedure as a form of harassment...and the Judge is likely to see it that way too as the ame strategies unfold.

Posted by: Snoopy Jun 24 2007, 09:25 AM

> QUOTE(Observer @ Jun 24 2007, 04:51 AM)
>
> The above is not quite so clear-cut. Let me suggest the follwoing:
>
> 1) Corporate officers may be named defendents/plaintiff's in legal actions. To the extent that their participation in such actions is related to the proper business of the corporation, the corporation may pay their legal expenses and they will not have to declare such as income on their personal tax returns.
>
> While there are exceptions to the above, I stroingly suspect that such applies to Danny Shelton in regard to the present lawsuit against Gailon and Bob Pickle.
>
> Folks, this is basic to corporate life. Our society knows that without such protections business could not function in the manner that it needs to function. No one would ever fill a corporate leadership role if doing so would subject them to that level of personal liability.
>
> I an a corporate officer in a local (non-religious) non-profit. An action has been filed that may lead to a lawsuit in which I am one of the named defendants. Our legal counsel has informed us that any such legal expenses and judgements will be paid by the corporation.
>
> 2) Legal expenses which are not related to proper business as a corporate officer are likely to be held to be income to the party which must be included on their income tax return.
>
> Perhaps the legal expenses related to the division of the marital property is one such?
>
> Yes, there are exceptions. One exception is that of a gift. However, as I have stated before, to not be included, those gifts much be qualified gifts, and they should not be gifts from a so-called "related party."

greed. However, after seeing several interesting documents associated with the litigation I suspect the IRS vill have a great time trying to separate DS personal life from the "proper business of the corporation" as the wo have become inexplicably intertwined. I would not be surprised if one of our anonymous guests is reading ere on the government's behalf with an eye toward that very thing.

'd be willing to bet that in your current case you and other co-defendants have maintained a clear distinction etween your personal lives and your fiduciary roles in the corporation.

'm interested to know if you would you think the same protection applies to TS or GM?

Posted by: mikell Jun 24 2007, 09:40 AM

> QUOTE(PeacefullyBewildered @ Jun 23 2007, 11:40 PM)
>
> And furthermore, Your Honor, please disregard the fact that the General Conference of Seventh-day Adventists (who for some reason have concluded that we are a supporting ministy of their denomination) have, heretofore, allowed us free access to hold rallies in their churches in order to raise funds from

> Seventh-day Adventists to run our non-denominational and totally independent - no strings attached ministry, although we can't understand why they would continue to shower us with money at these rallies but extrapolate that it is probably because of this same unhealthy fixation they, for no reason that we can understand, seem to have upon us.

love what you wrote here and hate what you wrote here!!!

Posted by: Ralph Jun 24 2007, 10:04 AM

> QUOTE(Observer @ Jun 24 2007, 04:36 AM) ☐
>
> I wll say again: I am dumbfounded by the tone of the judges ruling against impoundment. In my opinion, it essentially cut the legs off,s so to speak, of the plaintiff's arguement.

t is interesting to compare (word for word) the CONCLUSION: in Attachment #1 "Final Draft Deft Opposition o Plaintiffs Motion Impound" with Attachment #2 Proposed Order Denying Permanent Impoundment" question: Why is this named, "Proposed Order..."?

Posted by: YogusBearus Jun 24 2007, 10:40 AM

> QUOTE(Snoopy @ Jun 24 2007, 10:25 AM) ☐
>
> Agreed. However, after seeing several interesting documents associated with the litigation I suspect the IRS will have a great time trying to separate DS personal life from the "proper business of the corporation" as the two have become inexplicably intertwined. I would not be surprised if one of our anonymous guests is reading here on the government's behalf with an eye toward that very thing.
>
> I'd be willing to bet that in your current case you and other co-defendants have maintained a clear distinction between your personal lives and your fiduciary roles in the corporation.
>
> I'm interested to know if you would you think the same protection applies to TS or GM?

INGO!
noopy, please PM me as soon as possible. I really need some help filling out IRS Form 211, Application for eward for Original Information. I'm willing to share the reward if we can be first in line.

bear

Posted by: runner4him Jun 24 2007, 10:44 AM

> QUOTE(YogusBearus @ Jun 24 2007, 11:40 AM) ☐
>
> BINGO!
> Snoopy, please PM me as soon as possible. I really need some help filling out IRS Form 211, Application for > Reward for Original Information. I'm willing to share the reward if we can be first in line.

>
> -bear

orgot about the reward!!! Heard the form is easy to fill out.

Posted by: Pickle Jun 25 2007, 04:45 AM

> QUOTE(Panama_Pete @ Jun 23 2007, 04:21 PM)
>
> The lawsuit needs to be considered independently of everything else, since only those things submitted to the court will be considered. So, if you look at the lawsuit, by itself, it says:
>
> "Although many of 3ABN's employees and volunteers, including Plaintiff Shelton, are members of the Seventh-Day Adventist faith, 3ABN is a non-denominational Christian ministry which is not owned by, affiliated with, or financed by any specific church, denomination, or organization."
>
> The following is what that above statement says to me in my own opinionated paraphrase:
>
> "Despite the fact that we have Adventist employees here, we are not affiliated or controlled by their "specific" denomination. We're non-denominational and totally independent - no strings attached whatsoever to those Adventists.
>
> Failing to recognize this fact, and through no fault of our own, those Seventh-day Adventists have developed an unhealthy interest in our totally independent, non-denominational ministry and seem to have a fixation upon us for no reason that we can understand, Your Honor. Where the Adventists got 3ABN's name and address we do not know." .
>
> My two cents.

ete,

 friend wrote and told me that he noticed that the suit said, "10. Although many of 3ABN's employees and olunteers, including Plaintiff Shelton, are members of the Seventh-Day Adventist faith, ..." and "38. Upon nformation and belief, Gailon Joy and Robert Pickle are members of the Seventh Day Adventist Church ...." o while Danny is a member of the faith, Gailon and I are members of the church.

Vhy the difference?

Posted by: Panama_Pete Jun 25 2007, 06:00 AM

> QUOTE(Pickle @ Jun 25 2007, 05:45 AM)
>
> Pete,
>
> A friend wrote and told me that he noticed that the suit said, "10. Although many of 3ABN's employees and volunteers, including Plaintiff Shelton, are members of the Seventh-Day Adventist faith, ..." and "38. Upon information and belief, Gailon Joy and Robert Pickle are members of the Seventh Day Adventist Church ...." So while Danny is a member of the faith, Gailon and I are members of the church.
>
> Why the difference?

My guess is that their document was the product of group think. Several different people probably added parts here and there over a period of time.

Posted by: watchbird Jun 25 2007, 06:16 AM

> QUOTE(PeacefullyBewildered @ Jun 24 2007, 02:06 AM)
>
> Yes, WB, I did read your other thread. I understand what you are saying and you are, undoubtedly, correct for all of the reasons you stated. As one who has watched 3abn for several years, perhaps I assumed from some of the programming that I watched that they were at least purporting to represent the Seventh-day Adventist beliefs so it did come as a surprise to me when I read the non-denominational disclaimer in the lawsuit (even thought I actually do have a computer). I guess my undoing was in not reading what they had publically proclaimed on their website.
>
> I do appreciate your perspective as well as the information you have provided on the history of the 1997 GC/3abn agreement and the maneuvering 3abn has done to distance themselves ever since. And yet, I believe there are going to be a quite a few semi-intelligent folks like me who are going to be just as surprised when they read the lawsuit.

.... I perceive that my irony was a little too well cloaked...... Remember the line from "the fool's prayer".... "They could not see the mocking smile beneath the painted grin he wore." ?

ofl I'm also reminded of the lines by Douglas Adams in the first of the Hitchhiker of the Galaxy series.... the scene in which the bulldozer arrives to knock down his house to make room for a new bypass and to his expressions of utter surprise and shock is told that he has no right to be surprised... the notice of their intent had been duly filed with city hall and had been on display for a month... and if he didn't know about it that was his fault for not keeping himself informed on civic affairs. It's been awhile since I read it, but I seem to recall that he finally did find the notice.... at the back of a broom closet in the basement.... or somewhere like that. But back to the topic at hand.....

Yes.... they had this publicly displayed on their website.... on a back page that one had to be curious enough to go looking for... and who among the fans of 3abn, who saw them on TV every day, would be curious enough to take a look at a page called "About Us"?

BTW....the early announcements... that they were a supporting ministry of the SDA church.... appeared on the front page. As soon as the "new" statement appeared, it was tucked away on the "About Us" page.

So who... regardless of where they stood on the "intelligence scale"..... would have thought to go looking at their About Us page to find out how they identified themselves? Answer... no one other than first time visitors to the site who had stumbled upon it by accident and wondered who these folk represented, that's who.

Meanwhile.... from Television screens in Adventist homes, the message blared... that they were the ones who were most representative of what the Seventh-day Adventist church should be... and at various times in various ways the message that they were more representative of SDAism than the "church" itself was .... was given in different degrees of intensity... from subliminal to strident to nearly overt attacks... but always definitely an "SDA" message.... enough so that their carriers received complaints about the attacks that they made on other denominations and their beliefs.

And newsletters rolled off the presses and out to any whose name was on their mailing list.... and donations poured in so as to build that mailing list.... and rallies were held .... around the country and around the world.... always in Adventist venues.... with Danny even taking the pulpit in Adventist pulpits (something that is a no-no to any who are not authorized by the SDA church).... And to top it all off, there was this signed agreement with the SDA church signed by the three top officials of the World Church in which they pledged the church's support for 3abn expansion and programming all around the world, in every Division.... which was pulled out by the salesmen or advance scouts for 3abn whenever they met with any resistance from any Conference entity.

And this was all that anyone saw for the first decade of their existence.... then came their entry into the wonderful world of web pages.... and for the first four years their web page carried a statement on the front page, proclaiming that they were a supporting ministry of the Seventh-day Adventist church.

Then came the year 2001....

Since then we have been without excuse for not reading the publicly posted announcement that "3ABN is not owned, operated or funded by any church, denomination or organization", so we should not be "surprised" by this statement in the recent lawsuit.

And the bulldozers arrive on the appointed day.......

btw... for those among us who are not Adams' fans.... the bulldozers were temporarily halted by the hero laying down in the mud in front of the lead one. And as it turned out, "temporarily" was all that was needed, for before they began their actual demolition, the intersteller bulldozers arrived to wipe out planet earth... to make way for a new intersteller bypass..... not that the house was spared, you understand, but that the whole of England went with it... as did the rest of the earth... but that is too much to comprehend... so just think in terms of England.... it will make it easier on your imagination-station circuitry.....

There's probably no moral in the above... I just put it in in case someone was curious as to what happened in the book.....

.... TVsnack. ....

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Jun 25 2007, 07:55 AM

That I missed the irony and forgot "The Fool's Prayer" further cements my standing in the semi-intelligent corner. Although, perhaps it was simply the increased altitude as I vacationed last week. Sigh...

Note to self: Start checking the broom closets.

Posted by: LadyTenor Jun 25 2007, 10:22 AM

> QUOTE(calvin @ Jun 22 2007, 12:18 PM)
>
> I find this to be a very brazen statement considering 3abn owes its existence to the Adventist church as well as most of its support....and now to distant itself from the church ought to be a wakeup call to Amazing Facts and any financial contributor.
>
> I guess this is just more legal maneuvering. But to make statements like we preach a non-denominational message is a lie.

Yes, it is probably legal maneuvering, and yes, it is more than probably a lie.

> QUOTE(princessdi @ Jun 22 2007, 04:54 PM)
>
> That's what I mean, all that convenient switchin' form one thing to another......On TV we are a ministry, when you want to kick your wife to the curb without paying her fair share of the ministry you started together, then you are a buisness and she is just an employee. On TV be unadulterated SDA, preaching the pure, undiluted 3 Angel's Message. In court, you are non-denominational.......See how that work?

Yes, Heathen Aunt, that is EXACTLY how it works!

> QUOTE(Ralph @ Jun 22 2007, 11:16 PM)
>
> One lawyer described Pro Se this way, "He who is his own lawyer has a fool for a client."
> Even if it is in concert with Defendant Pickle's counsel, it is worth remembering that two experienced lawyers will be representing the Plaintiffs.

And the rest of the cliche', as I was taught it in law school, says, "...and an idiot for a lawyer."

I substituted the word 'idiot' for the three letter word starting with "a", just to keep it clean.

> QUOTE(beartrap @ Jun 23 2007, 09:28 AM)
>
> -edited-

ofl With no offense meant towards beartrap, isn't there a rule on this forum against deleting posts or editing them in this fashion? I was told not to do so when I wanted to delete a particular post in another forum because it would ruin the flow of the thread and make it harder to follow, especially if someone had already responded to it......

Just asking, because I have seen it done frequently of late by many different members of the forum...

> QUOTE(Panama_Pete @ Jun 23 2007, 05:25 PM)
>
> Meanwhile, some little orphan goes to bed hungry while money is lavished on a team a lawyers.

Take it easy, Pete...sometimes a team of lawyers is necessary (but I will not comment on whether the DS litigation is such an occasion or not).

> QUOTE(Snoopy @ Jun 24 2007, 12:47 AM)
>
> Since you are so close to Danny that you even attend his court appearances, maybe you could remind him that since he personally is a co-plaintiff in the copyright/slander suit and "someone" is allegedly paying for his legal expenses, he will need to claim that as taxable income on his personal income tax return... But then again, I'm sure one of his 6 lawyers has already advised him of that...

Take it easy, Snoop! Court proceedings are public unless sealed for particular reasons (for example, child abuse and neglect cases are almost always sealed). There is no law prohibiting all of BSDA to flying to wherever this case is being litigated (I thought I read that it is in MA?) and sitting and observing every proceeding. Of course, if there is a court order sealing the case, then that will not be allowed. But courts only do that in limited situations.

Of course, unlike Law and Order, most court proceedings are very BORING...take it from me...I've observed many a court proceeding and the first time I did, I almost fell asleep! None of those theatrics you see Jack McCoy engaging in on Law and Order are allowed in real life courtrooms! You can get sanctioned for raising your voice too much if you are in front of a judge that does not like it!!!

> QUOTE(Observer @ Jun 24 2007, 05:36 AM)
>
> The plaintiff asked the court to impound on a number of issues. One of the issues was that there was no 4th Ammendment, Freedom of the Press right in regard to Mr. Joy being a member of the press.
>
> We expected that the court would rule that there was a 4th ammendemtn Freedom of the Press right, and that is what the court did.

Freedom of the press is protected by the FIRST Amendment, not the Fourth. I suspect this was just a slip of the tongue (or the mistroke of the keyboard).

> QUOTE(Observer @ Jun 24 2007, 05:51 AM)
>
> The above is not quite so clear-cut. Let me suggest the follwoing:
>
> 1) Corporate officers may be named defendents/plaintiff's in legal actions. To the extent that their participation in such actions is related to the proper business of the corporation, the corporation may pay their legal expenses and they will not have to declare such as income on their personal tax returns.
>
> While there are exceptions to the above, I strongly suspect that such applies to Danny Shelton in regard to the present lawsuit against Gailon and Bob Pickle.
>
> Folks, this is basic to corporate life. Our society knows that without such protections business could not function in the manner that it needs to function. No one would ever fill a corporate leadership role if doing so would subject them to that level of personal liability.

This is true, but the lawsuit does not name Danny Shelton as an officer of 3ABN...the caption I read by whomever posted it on this site (don't remember who) states that it is Danny Shelton, INDIVIDUALLY. Correct me if I am wrong.

When someone is named individually, it means that person individually, and NOT in the role as a corporate officer. And even one's status as a corporate officer or an individual can be disputed and be a point of litigation within the litigation of a corporate matter.

> QUOTE(Observer @ Jun 24 2007, 07:47 AM)
>
> Just a thought:
>
> We now know that lawyers submit motions to the court that they expect to lose. After all it is just proceedure.

Yes, they can, but they have to have a GOOD FAITH BASIS for doing so...otherwise it is frivilous and the court can impose sanctions. It is one thing to try to win a motion that does not look good for a party because the attorney is doing is best; it is another thing entirely to file motions for the sake of filing them. That is unethical and can get attorneys into trouble, especially if it is something an attorney is known for doing on a regular basis.

> QUOTE(runner4him @ Jun 24 2007, 08:56 AM)
>
> Good question. Also don't judges get annoyed with wasting the court's time?

Yes, trust me, they do.....when I interned for a judge once, she would roll her eyes after some proceedings and tell me the attorneys were wasting the court's time......

Posted by: LaurenceD Jun 25 2007, 01:18 PM

> QUOTE(Pickle @ Jun 22 2007, 11:13 AM)
>
> One thing I found intriguing about the lawsuit is 3ABN's claim in it that it is a non-denominational organization not affiliated with any church, denomination, or organization, and that it preaches a non-denominational message.
>
> Are we to take this as an announcement from 3ABN that it is severing its ties from the GC, which it has had since 1997, that it is severing its ties with ASI, and that it is abandoning its preaching of the three angels' messages? Or is this an attempt to convince the court that concerned Seventh-day Adventists have no basis for asking questions?

Pickle, while working this morning, I remembered that Thrusday night live broadcast when DS and the group got together to announce enough was enough and that it had come to the point where something had to be done with folks on the internet who were trying to destroy the ministry. They ridiculed one party (Joy) who they termed an "embezzler" and the other party (AT) they ridiculed saying they were not even part of the church organization. This was to say these folks are not even credible so don't pay any attention to them.

But now guess who's not any part of the church organization. See how it works however you need it to work? Is it the other face? I suppose we shouldn't pay any attention since they're not part of the church organization.

Posted by: erik Jun 25 2007, 02:12 PM

> QUOTE(Ralph @ Jun 22 2007, 08:16 PM)

> One lawyer described Pro Se this way, "He who is his own lawyer has a fool for a client." Even if it is in concert with Defendant Pickle's counsel, it is worth remembering that two experienced lawyers will be representing the Plaintiffs.

One can be Pro Se, and still have counsel that is not sitting next two you in the court room, are you all forgetting some of mr. joy's friends???

ERik

Posted by: summertime Jun 25 2007, 04:41 PM

> QUOTE(steffan @ Jun 23 2007, 09:13 PM) ☐
>
> Greg, for someone who tries to appear so knowledgable of the law (while of course playing it safe by then saying you are not an expert) I would think that you would assume that 3abn was told in advance that the judge would not grant a blanket impoundment. That is almost unheard of but it was procedure to request it. Then I notice that even though you say "the war is not won" you fail to mention the specifics concerning the lifting of the impoundment. The truth is that this specific "lifting" is only on this small portion of the case. It does not mean that there will not be future impoundments as each portion of the case is litigated. In other words, contrary to the reaction here, this was a totally expected judgement and not at all some huge victory. It certainly does not mean that this whole case will be open to the public. There will be motions made all down the long road. Some will be denied and some granted. The judge may very well impound some portions and not others.
> As far as the credit you give Joy saying it was his brief that caused the judge to lift the impoundment....you have to be joking. I repeat, a blanket impoundment is almost never granted no matter who writes the brief refuting it. To even insinuate that "wannabe" Joy "pulled one over" on a highly qualified, respected and established lawfirm is quite ludicrous on your part.
> As for Laird's part in the whole scenerio, well if his first appearance for Linda was without an actived license and the next court date he was a no show, I wouldn't hold my breath for any brilliant legal strategy from him. By the way, his request for yet another continuance on the marital property case arrived approx 15 minutes after the Judge ruled against Linda. The judge stated that contrary to what she said, she knew what she was signing when she signed the marital property agreement and the contract is valid. The judge sanctioned her and she will be responsible for paying Danny's attorney's fees for this part of the case, in which, she had no case (forgive the pun.)

Did W. Thompson say that Steffan had no way of knowing what was going on? How can we believe anything that Dr. Thompson says? His word is unbelievable. That is, unless Steffan is dreaming.

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Jun 25 2007, 06:23 PM

> QUOTE(summertime @ Jun 25 2007, 03:41 PM) ☐
>
> Did W. Thompson say that Steffan had no way of knowing what was going on? How can we believe anything that Dr. Thompson says? His word is unbelievable. That is, unless Steffan is dreaming.

summertime,

The way I read his email, Walt Thompson was speaking specifically to the comments that steffan made about

Doug trying to distance himself from Jim P. and, therefore, the GC, and that steffan is not a representative of Danny or 3abn or in a position of authority to know what is going on. I don't think we can read more into it than that and I certainly don't think we can claim that Dr. Thompson's words are unbelieveable. Perhaps steffan was at the hearing or was told what transpired.

IMO, I don't see how steffan's post about the hearing could be considered to reflect in a negative way on Walt Thompson.

Walt Thompson said:

"No, Steffan does not represent 3abn or Danny. He is not in a position of authority to know what is going on. While I do not know a lot about the relationship between Doug and the President of the conference, this is certainly not the reason 3abn and AF are negotiating."

http://www.blacksda.com/forums/index.php?s=&showtopic=13784&view=findpost&p=199417

Posted by: runner4him Jun 27 2007, 05:24 AM

Steffan wrote.......

> QUOTE
>
> I repeat, a blanket impoundment is almost never granted no matter who writes the brief refuting it. To even insinuate that "wannabe" Joy "pulled one over" on a highly qualified, respected and established lawfirm is quite ludicrous on your part.

I would like some clarification...this is for you steffan.....you seem to know quite a bit although W.T. says you do not....I just want to know if you knew what the order to impound was about? Do you think it was something that the attorneys wanted to do and not 3abn? I think you said it was doomed to fail because it was unconstitutional or something like that so it must have been a lost cause taking up the judge's time?

Thanks for answering.

r4Him

Posted by: Pickle Jun 27 2007, 01:42 PM

> QUOTE(LaurenceD @ Jun 25 2007, 02:18 PM)
>
> Pickle, while working this morning, I remembered that Thrusday night live broadcast when DS and the group got together to announce enough was enough and that it had come to the point where something had to be done with folks on the internet who were trying to destroy the ministry. They ridiculed one party (Joy) who they termed an "embezzler" and the other party (AT) they ridiculed saying they were not even part of the church organization. This was to say these folks are not even credible so don't pay any attention to them.
>
> But now guess who's not any part of the church organization. See how it works however you need it to work? Is it the other face? I suppose we shouldn't pay any attention since they're not part of the church organization.

Don't forget their disparagement of that fellow who allegedly poses as a doctor to gain credibility. Me.

Absurdity. I really appreciated PinkPanther007 over on ChristianForums.com telling off Tomatoe for bringing that one up: "So, tomatoe, are you a liar if it is found out that you aren't really a tomatoe?" (paraphrase).

Posted by: LadyTenor Jun 27 2007, 01:48 PM

> QUOTE(erik @ Jun 25 2007, 03:12 PM)
>
> One can be Pro Se, and still have counsel that is not sitting next two you in the court room, are you all forgetting some of mr. joy's friends???
>
> ERik

Good point. I will also add that one can be pro se and have counsel sitting next to them in the courtroom regardless...although this is more prevalent in criminal cases....and the case in question is civil.....

Posted by: Panama_Pete Jun 27 2007, 01:51 PM

> QUOTE(Pickle @ Jun 27 2007, 02:42 PM)
>
> Don't forget their disparagement of that fellow who allegedly poses as a doctor to gain credibility. Me.
>
> Absurdity. I really appreciated PinkPanther007 over on ChristianForums.com telling off Tomatoe for bringing that one up: "So, tomatoe, are you a liar if it is found out that you aren't really a tomatoe?" (paraphrase).

rofl rofl

Posted by: Pickle Jun 27 2007, 02:04 PM

> QUOTE(Ralph @ Jun 24 2007, 11:04 AM)
> It is interesting to compare (word for word) the CONCLUSION: in Attachment #1 "Final Draft Deft Opposition to Plaintiffs Motion Impound" with Attachment #2 Proposed Order Denying Permanent Impoundment" A question: Why is this named, "Proposed Order..."?

Not sure if this got answered: Both sides can write up what they want the judge to sign. It saves him time, I guess. Anyone have what the judge actually signed?

Posted by: mozart Jun 27 2007, 10:18 PM

embezzle
Definition

To fraudulently appropriate an asset for one's own use.

(now what was that about a real estate deal and a piano????)

> QUOTE(LaurenceD @ Jun 25 2007, 01:18 PM) ☐
>
> Pickle, while working this morning, I remembered that Thursday night live broadcast when DS and the group got together to announce enough was enough and that it had come to the point where something had to be done with folks on the internet who were trying to destroy the ministry. They ridiculed one party (Joy) who they termed an "embezzler" and the other party (AT) they ridiculed saying they were not even part of the church organization. This was to say these folks are not even credible so don't pay any attention to them.
>
> But now guess who's not any part of the church organization. See how it works however you need it to work? Is it the other face? I suppose we shouldn't pay any attention since they're not part of the church organization.

Posted by: runner4him Jun 27 2007, 10:20 PM

> QUOTE(runner4him @ Jun 27 2007, 06:24 AM) ☐
>
> Steffan wrote.......
> I would like some clarification...this is for you steffan.....you seem to know quite a bit although W.T. says you do not....I just want to know if you knew what the order to impound was about? Do you think it was something that the attorneys wanted to do and not 3abn? I think you said it was doomed to fail because it was unconstitutional or something like that so it must have been a lost cause taking up the judge's time?
>
> Thanks for answering.
>
> r4Him

Steffan...I bumped this up so maybe you would see it and answer me. Thanks for responding!

r4Him

Posted by: ex3ABNemployee Jun 29 2007, 08:47 PM

> QUOTE(PeacefullyBewildered @ Jun 25 2007, 07:23 PM) ☐
>
> Walt Thompson said:
>
> "No, Steffan does not represent 3abn or Danny. He is not in a position of authority to know what is going on. While I do not know a lot about the relationship between Doug and the President of the conference, this is certainly not the reason 3abn and AF are negotiating."
>
> http://www.blacksda.com/forums/index.php?s=&showtopic=13784&view=findpost&p=199417

Steffan has been irrelevant to me for quite some time. I'm glad to see that Walt Thompson and I can agree on one thing, at least.

Printable Version of Topic

Click here to view this topic in its original format

BlackSDA _ 3ABN _ Weblinks For Shelton Saga

Posted by: Whitey Jun 22 2007, 11:07 AM

http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/3ABN

http://www.lindashelton.org/

http://www.3abn.org/

http://www.tasteofhealth.net/gallery.htm

http://www.livetvcenter.com/3abn_1118.asp

http://www.nisbett.com/prophecy/3abn/default.htm

http://operationglobalrain.webdevdepot.net/j/index.php?option=com_wrapper&Itemid=69 http://www.asiministries.org/article.php?

id=84&PHPSESSID=8d96f327d8daeb57733ab3566b92807f

http://www.answers.com/topic/3abn

http://technorati.com/tag/3ABN

http://www.atoday.com/238.0.html

http://www.blacksda.com/forums/index.php?showforum=48

http://savegailon.blogspot.com/

http://www.save3abn.com

http://rescue3abn.blog.com/

http://www.abundantrest.org/?p=74

http://www.ariseinstitute.com/node/180

http://www.allisondurhamspeer.com/Galleries/3ABN/index.html

http://www.amazingfacts.org/news/read_news.asp?ID=138

http://www.asiministries.org/photocatalog.php?state=IL

http://cafesda.blogspot.com/2006/08/atoday-on-latest-3abn-news_21.html

http://www.spectrummagazine.org/onlinecommunity/featuredcolumns/070419carpenter.html

http://spectrummagazine.typepad.com/the_spectrum_blog/2006/08/the_means_and_e.html

http://cafesda.blogspot.com/2006/08/atoday-on-latest-3abn-news_21.html#comments http://anewsabbathschool.blogspot.com/2006/08/3abn-and-train-wrecks.html

http://www.christianforums.com/showthread.php?p=35791024

http://www.fletcheracademy.com/video/fa_3abn_video_2006.swf

http://clubadventist.com/forum/ubbthreads.php/ubb/postlist/Board/247/page/1

https://mailman.wwc.edu/pipermail/caribsda/2006-March/003010.html

---

Posted by: Artiste Jun 22 2007, 06:26 PM

What about http://references4links.blogspot.com?

****

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Jun 23 2007, 05:41 AM

Helpful group of links! Thanks! ☒

Posted by: Whitey Jun 24 2007, 01:19 AM

Very good of you, Artiste, to insert that Link I missed. ☒

I hope all others also will post in this thread those main links of the Shelton drama appearing online.

☐ and ☐ to PeacefullyBewildered from me.

Posted by: Whitey Jun 25 2007, 02:56 AM

http://www.google.com/search?domains=atoday.com&sitesearch=atoday.com&q=3ABN&btnG=Search

Results of about 33 articles from atoday.com for 3ABN

Posted by: LaurenceD Jun 26 2007, 06:26 AM

Thanks for the links. I read some stuff there I hadn't seen before. In one of the AT articles WT claims he showed the secret "evidence" to GC leaders and they agreed with the conclusions about LS and the doctor. I wonder if they'd be so easily convinced today...not being so wrapped around anyone's little finger.

Posted by: mozart Jun 27 2007, 10:36 PM

> QUOTE(LaurenceD @ Jun 26 2007, 06:26 AM)
>
> Thanks for the links. I read some stuff there I hadn't seen before. In one of the AT articles WT claims he showed the secret "evidence" to GC leaders and they agreed with the conclusions about LS and the doctor. I wonder if they'd be so easily convinced today...not being so wrapped around anyone's little finger.

well, all i can say is, when "Christians" or anyone for that matter, use the Bible to underhandedly and by innuendo, slander someone, that's evil. also, if the "so-called" evidence was obtained through illegal means, then couldn't they be sued like all get out and also be brought up on criminal charges? these are questions i asked WT and got no answer to. #1 - is the "evidence" real? #2 - was it obtained legally? wouldn't this be the real reason they have not made the so-called "evidence" public?

Posted by: runner4him Jun 28 2007, 05:56 AM

> QUOTE(mozart @ Jun 27 2007, 11:36 PM)
>
> well, all i can say is, when "Christians" or anyone for that matter, use the Bible to underhandedly and by innuendo, slander someone, that's evil. also, if the "so-called" evidence was obtained through illegal means, then couldn't they be sued like all get out and also be brought up on criminal charges? these are questions i asked WT and got no answer to. #1 - is the "evidence" real? #2 - was it obtained legally? wouldn't this be the real reason they have not made the so-called "evidence" public?

The interesting thing is that WT or whomever is the PR person will not hesitate to make accusations about Pickle and Joy saying they are posting lies although he/she is not able to tell us definitely what lies are being told and in the same breath he/she accuses Pickle and Joy of mailing postcards all over to churches even though that is a lie.

As far as slander goes WT or whomever did not hesitate and continues to not hesitate to say slanderous things about LS producing no evidence...he/she just trys to make people believe that there is some secret evidence that they showed certain high ranking "others" but not us...the ones who have given liberly to their ministry to preach a certain message that they claim they are not preaching although I have heard that message.

It is all so confusing listening to storys told back to back to cover up the other story...better to tell the truth and be done with it as it causes less damage...just say I goofed, sinned, didn't know, was wrong....I am sorry and please forgive me. ☒ sorry.

Printable Version of Topic

Click here to view this topic in its original format

BlackSDA _ 3ABN _ Linda's Litigation

Posted by: Observer Apr 16 2007, 12:52 PM

Most of you probably know that Linda Shelton and Danny Shelton are litigating certain unresolved issues that were not settled by the Guam divorce decree.

Recently Linda changed from the attorney who had represented her in the past to a new attorney, named Laird Heal. located in Massaschusets. The major point of interest in this is that Mr. Heal works quite closely with a man named Gailon A. Joy.

Gailon A. Joy, as you know, is associated with the Internet site: www.save3abn.com

People in the past have laughed at some of the claims made by Mr. Joy in regard to statements that he would aggressively defend against any lawsuits filed against him, and that he was able to help obtain legal representation for people who might be sued.

O. K. if we watch the play of this litigation, we may get an idea as to the quality of representation that Mr. Joy is able to obtain.

Some of us believe that this is a significant change in the legal climate.

Posted by: SoulEspresso Apr 16 2007, 01:29 PM

> QUOTE(Observer @ Apr 16 2007, 12:52 PM)
>
> Some of us believe that this is a significant change in the legal climate.

Unpack that a little, please ...

Posted by: Observer Apr 16 2007, 01:48 PM

> QUOTE(SoulEspresso @ Apr 16 2007, 01:29 PM)
>
> Unpack that a little, please ...

1) It could mean a difference in litigation stratage, and approach. But, that is unknown at this time.

2) The relationship with this new attorney and GAJ is of interest. This current litigation provides an opportunity, in a court of law, for Danny Shelton to be questioned in regard to issues that have been discussed in other venues, but that are clearly related to the issue current being litigated. The depth of this opening may be staggering? It is possible that information that GAJ has could be quite helpful to the lawyer as the current case is litigated. The word is "discovery" and this has just been opened up.

Well, only time will tell, and all such is speculaltive.

Posted by: GrammieTana Apr 16 2007, 09:03 PM

> QUOTE(Observer @ Apr 16 2007, 02:48 PM)
>
> 1) It could mean a difference in litigation stratage, and approach. But, that is unknown at this time.
>
> 2) The relationship with this new attorney and GAJ is of interest. This current litigation provides an opportunity, in a court of law, for Danny Shelton to be questioned in regard to issues that have been discussed in other venues, but that are clearly related to the issue current being litigated. The depth of this opening may be staggering? It is possible that information that GAJ has could be quite helpful to the lawyer as the current case is litigated. The word is "discovery" and this has just been opened up.
>
> Well, only time will tell, and all such is speculaltive.

Observer: Is there any indication that litigation of any sort is in the near by timeline? I.E. Danny against . . . anybody? Is there any indication of action regarding Tommy and his problems?

Just wonderin'.

GT

Posted by: Observer Apr 17 2007, 04:11 AM

> QUOTE(GrammieTana @ Apr 16 2007, 09:03 PM)
>
> Observer: Is there any indication that litigation of any sort is in the near by timeline? I.E. Danny against . . . anybody? Is there any indication of action regarding Tommy and his problems?
>
> Just wonderin'.
>
> GT

We are not aware of any indication that any litigation other than current litigation between Linda and Danny is about to begin.

However, any such would likely come without warning, and begin by someone being served papers.

Some of us believe that this change in Linda's attorney would result in Danny's law team carefully looking at it to determine if any of their strategy needs to be reevaulated. If so, that would simply be a reasonable assumption, and mean nothing more than that.

So, the bottom line is that we do not attach any special meaning to anything, and we simply wait to see what will happen next, realizing that in complex cases like this one, time may pass slowly for a while.

Posted by: Observer Apr 17 2007, 06:05 AM

Some time back when a law firm sent Mr. Joy a letter that is thought to have threatened litigation, I made the following comments about that law firm:

1) It has some competent, well respected attornies on its staff.
2) Some of its lawyers like to settle out of court, and some like to aggressively litigate.
3) The attorney who signed the letter is a competent, aggressive litigatior.

So, now, what do I have to say about Linda's new attorney?

There is a general legal expectation in the United States that an attorney will not begin litigation unless there is a likelyhood that the attorney will prevail. An attorney who violates that expectation may be subject to a disciplinary hearing before a professional panel, or that attorney may face a "misuse of process" lawsuit by the other party.

Typically lawyers to not like to file lawsuits against other attorneys. It is not easy to find one willing to do so. Linda's new attorney is quit willing to do such.

It is even harder to find an attorney who will file a personal action against a judge who has issued an adverse ruling against a client. Typically the attorney will file an appeal, and that is done all the time. But to file a personal action against a judge is very rare. In a recent case, Linda's attorney asked the judge to issue a ruling based upon Federal law. In the case of a conflict between Federal and State law, typically Federal law will trump State law. In this case, the judge issued a ruling based upon State law. Linda's attorney has filed against the judge for a failure to follow Federal law.

What does this mean? It means that Linda has a attorney who will aggressively litigate.

It also tells us that while 3-ABN has retained a law firm that has aggressive litigators on its staff, Mr. Joy is well able to retain such lawyers.

It suggests that if future legal action is filed against Mr. Joy, and/or the people he says he will assist in defending, there should be interesting legal sparks. The opposing sides may very well be nicely matched, at least.

Posted by: Johann Apr 24 2007, 05:55 PM

> QUOTE(GrammieTana @ Apr 17 2007, 05:03 AM)
>
> Observer: Is there any indication that litigation of any sort is in the near by timeline? I.E. Danny against . . . anybody? Is there any indication of action regarding Tommy and his problems?
>
> Just wonderin'.
>
> GT

Our prayers are solicited in connection with Linda and the new attorney's first appearance before the judge in Southern Illinois. Let's pray this meeting will make a good start. . .

Posted by: Daryl Fawcett Apr 24 2007, 07:10 PM

Do you know when this first meeting before the judge will take place?

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Apr 24 2007, 08:08 PM

> QUOTE(Daryl Fawcett @ Apr 24 2007, 05:10 PM) ☐
>
> Do you know when this first meeting before the judge will take place?

Daryl,

Looks like tomorrow, April 25 at 1:30pm.

http://www.judici.com/courts/cases/case_information.jsp?court=IL028015J&ocl=IL028015J,2005D30,IL028015JL2005D30D1

Posted by: mozart Apr 24 2007, 08:11 PM

> QUOTE(Daryl Fawcett @ Apr 24 2007, 07:10 PM) ☐
>
> Do you know when this first meeting before the judge will take place?

i've been wondering if linda's litigation only has to do with the divorce? could this merger be a protection effort for 3abn in some way if her new attorney has said something to DS and WT? can she sue or litigate the undue firing and the slander from 3abn without hurting 3abn? seems linda wouldn't want to sue 3abn. is it possible this merger plus danny & walt moving out of postion would have anything to do with this litigation not affecting 3abn? i mean, might linda's lawyers say to them, "you might consider getting out of 3abn so the suit can be against individuals and not 3abn."?
any litigators out there that can give a theory on these questions?

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Apr 24 2007, 08:15 PM

I notice that Danny's attorney is listed as D. Michael Riva. My research shows that he is a Real Estate attorney. I couldn't find anything on him as to his qualifications in family law or divorce. Of course, not being of a legal background I don't know if that has any significance whatsoever.

Posted by: Johann Apr 24 2007, 11:03 PM

> QUOTE(mozart @ Apr 25 2007, 04:11 AM) ☐
>
> i've been wondering if linda's litigation only has to do with the divorce? could this merger be a protection effort for 3abn in some way if her new attorney has said something to DS and WT? can she sue or litigate the undue firing and the slander from 3abn without hurting 3abn? seems linda wouldn't want to sue 3abn. is it possible this merger plus danny & walt moving out of postion would have anything to do with this litigation not affecting 3abn? i mean, might linda's lawyers say to them, "you might consider getting out of 3abn so the suit can be against individuals and not 3abn."?

> any litigators out there that can give a theory on these questions?

have been wondering too.

Posted by: Observer Apr 25 2007, 03:33 AM

Linda's current litigation is focused on the resolution of the unresolved issues left over from the Guam divorce.

Issues outside of that could (?) be the subject of other litigation. But, that would have to be a future decision.

It is posssible (?) that information could come out in this marital litigation that would be the basis for other litigation later.

We will just have to wait and see.

Yes, the next hearing is scheduled for today.

Posted by: Grith Apr 25 2007, 09:17 AM

> QUOTE(Observer @ Apr 25 2007, 05:33 AM)
>
> Linda's current litigation is focused on the resolution of the unresolved issues left over from the Guam divorce.

regory, I have a question. Some have commented on Linda's lack of contesting the divorce. When Danny vent to Guam to get the divorce, was there any way for Linda to actually contest the divorce? I mean, was he served papers? Was there due process? I know that it took some time to have the divorce declared legal. an you comment on that, or have you already done so in a thread I have not yet read? I am not asking for vhatever personal reasons she had for whether or not she contested the divorce, but if it was even possible or her to contest the divorce from a legal standpoint.

Posted by: Aletheia Apr 25 2007, 09:33 AM

> QUOTE(Grith @ Apr 25 2007, 11:17 AM)
>
> Gregory, I have a question. Some have commented on Linda's lack of contesting the divorce. When Danny went to Guam to get the divorce, was there any way for Linda to actually contest the divorce? I mean, was she served papers? Was there due process? I know that it took some time to have the divorce declared legal. Can you comment on that, or have you already done so in a thread I have not yet read? I am not asking for whatever personal reasons she had for whether or not she contested the divorce, but if it was even possible for her to contest the divorce from a legal standpoint.

o contest a divorce all you have to do is say I don't want a divorce and refuse to sign, or disagree on even one" issue, and it becomes a contested divorce.

Regardless of which one files, a uncontested divorce is where both parties agree beforehand to be divorced and on all terms and the judge merely validates their agreement.

> QUOTE
>
> http://www.legalmatch.com/law-library/article/contested-and-uncontested-divorce.html
> What is the Difference between Contested and Uncontested Divorce?
> There are two kinds of divorces - contested and uncontested. These terms simply refer to whether both parties want the divorce and are able to come to an agreement about related issues.
>
> What is an Uncontested Divorce?
> An uncontested divorce is one in which both spouses agree to both the divorce and all issues related to it - including child custody and alimony. Uncontested divorces are preferable to both spouses as well as children, since it is far less expensive and takes less time than contested divorces. Uncontested divorces do not require a court hearing.
>
> What is a Contested Divorce?
> A contested divorce is one in which both spouses cannot come to an agreement on all the issues relating to the divorce, or in which one spouse does not want to go through with the divorce. Common issues that spouses cannot agree on include child support and alimony, as well as property division. If these issues cannot be resolved and remain contested, the divorce will proceed to court.

Posted by: Observer Apr 25 2007, 09:36 AM

> QUOTE(Grith @ Apr 25 2007, 09:17 AM) ☐
>
> Gregory, I have a question. Some have commented on Linda's lack of contesting the divorce. When Danny went to Guam to get the divorce, was there any way for Linda to actually contest the divorce? I mean, was she served papers? Was there due process? I know that it took some time to have the divorce declared legal. Can you comment on that, or have you already done so in a thread I have not yet read? I am not asking for whatever personal reasons she had for whether or not she contested the divorce, but if it was even possible for her to contest the divorce from a legal standpoint.

At the time of the Guam divorce, Linda had been served papers, and she had signed them. IOW, she did not contest it at that time. If she had refused to sign the papers, it would have been another legal situation. The result probably (?) (from a practical standpint) would have been that a divorce would not have been granted in Guam, but it would have been obtained in the United States.

You asked for a statement of fact, without any explaination of her reasons. I have attempted to respond as you requested, although I wanted to say more. :-)

Posted by: Eirene Apr 25 2007, 09:51 AM

> QUOTE(Grith @ Apr 25 2007, 09:17 AM) ☐
>
> Gregory, I have a question. Some have commented on Linda's lack of contesting the divorce. When Danny went to Guam to get the divorce, was there any way for Linda to actually contest the divorce? I mean, was she served papers? Was there due process? I know that it took some time to have the divorce declared legal. Can you comment on that, or have you already done so in a thread I have not yet read? I am not asking for whatever personal reasons she had for whether or not she contested the divorce, but if it was > even possible for her to contest the divorce from a legal standpoint.

Grith, Let me clarify some things:
1. Danny did not go to guam to get the divorce. All the paperwork was sent there.
2. Linda of course could have contested the divorce and it would have went no farther, as far as lown that avenue.
3. It took minimal time for the divorce to be legal. What you refer to is months down the road Linda lecided to try challenge the legalities of the divorce that she had agreed to get. There were several easons for this, but one major reason was because if she could somehow find a loophole for the juam divorce to be declared invalid, then she would be entitled to half of DS's income for the months etween the guam divorce and when she decided to contest the legalities and it is my understanding he was also going to go after even more of the marital assets than she had already been given. If he would have been succesful in her quest, it would have been like starting all over with a clean late and I would guess she was going after more than her share, which she had already received. So he Guam divorce was legal and binding all along and no one challenged it except, her, later down he road. DS's attorney new it was legal from the day of the divorce decree. So when people say they veren't actually divorced until 6 or8 months later, that would be a lie. Just because she chose to hallenge it as invalid didn't make it invalid. And in fact, she lost the case as there was no legal ause to challenge it in the first place.

Posted by: Observer Apr 25 2007, 10:55 AM

> QUOTE(Eirene @ Apr 25 2007, 08:51 AM) ☐
>
> Grith, Let me clarify some things:
> 1. Danny did not go to guam to get the divorce. All the paperwork was sent there.
> 2. Linda of course could have contested the divorce and it would have went no farther, as far as down that avenue.
> 3. It took minimal time for the divorce to be legal. What you refer to is months down the road Linda decided to try challenge the legalities of the divorce that she had agreed to get. There were several reasons for this, but one major reason was because if she could somehow find a loophole for the guam divorce to be declared invalid, then she would be entitled to half of DS's income for the months between the guam divorce and when she decided to contest the legalities and it is my understanding she was also going to go after even more of the marital assets than she had already been given. If she would have been succesful in her quest, it would have been like starting all over with a clean slate and I would guess she was going after more than her share, which she had already received. So the Guam divorce was legal and binding all along and no one challenged it except, her, later down the road. DS's attorney new it was legal from the day of the divorce decree. So when people say they weren't actually divorced until 6 or8 months later, that would be a lie. Just because she chose to challenge it as invalid didn't make it invalid. And in fact, she lost the case as there was no legal cause to challenge it in the first place.

> QUOTE
>
> There were several reasons for this, but one major reason was because if she could somehow find a loophole for the guam divorce to be declared invalid, then she would be entitled to half of DS's income for the months between the guam divorce . . .

Are you telling us that you are/wer cloe enough to Linda to know what her motive was. I do not think so.

Posted by: Johann Apr 25 2007, 11:07 AM

> QUOTE(Eirene @ Apr 25 2007, 05:51 PM)
>
> Grith, Let me clarify some things:
> 1. Danny did not go to guam to get the divorce. All the paperwork was sent there.
> 2. Linda of course could have contested the divorce and it would have went no farther, as far as down that avenue.
> 3. It took minimal time for the divorce to be legal. What you refer to is months down the road Linda decided to try challenge the legalities of the divorce that she had agreed to get. There were several reasons for this, but one major reason was because if she could somehow find a loophole for the guam divorce to be declared invalid, then she would be entitled to half of DS's income for the months between the guam divorce and when she decided to contest the legalities and it is my understanding she was also going to go after even more of the marital assets than she had already been given. If she would have been succesful in her quest, it would have been like starting all over with a clean slate and I would guess she was going after more than her share, which she had already received. So the Guam divorce was legal and binding all along and no one challenged it except, her, later down the road. DS's attorney new it was legal from the day of the divorce decree. So when people say they weren't actually divorced until 6 or8 months later, that would be a lie. Just because she chose to challenge it as invalid didn't make it invalid. And in fact, she lost the case as there was no legal cause to challenge it in the first place.

Irene, I was close to Linda all this time, and I never heard her voice what you are stating here. All I remember her stating at that time was that she wanted to be sure the Guam divorce was legal in the state of Illinois. Danny gloated in his email when the divorce was declared legal and he could marry Brandy immediately after that.

Who told you what Linda was thinking?

Posted by: Aletheia Apr 25 2007, 11:56 AM

> QUOTE(Johann @ Apr 25 2007, 01:07 PM)
>
> Irene, I was close to Linda all this time, and I never heard her voice what you are stating here. All I remember her stating at that time was that she wanted to be sure the Guam divorce was legal in the state of Illinois.

Then she merely had to ask legal counsel that question before or after they obtained the uncontested divorce in Guam.

Why would she need to file a civil case to get that question answered?

Plus, since you all published Danny's emails to her, and you have him talking about being the same man 8 mos later after the divorce and still willing to talk reconciliation of both their marriage and her ministry the very same morning of the day she filed in court to sue him to get what would have been automatically hers also, had she wanted to reconcile...

Well sorry. one of you is not being totally honest here, either you or your source.

Y

> QUOTE(Observer @ Apr 25 2007, 12:55 PM) ☐
>
> Are you telling us that you are/wer cloe enough to Linda to know what her motive was. I do not think so.

No, the divorce has been declared valid, and yet the case is still ongoing. Why? What is she going after Mr Matthews? Don't her actions prove what her motive and intent is in filing the case?

Are you trying to act like the litigation "right now" is about anything other then trying to get more then she already got?

What would that be?????

Posted by: Observer Apr 25 2007, 01:56 PM

> QUOTE(Aletheia @ Apr 25 2007, 11:56 AM) ☐
>
> No, the divorce has been declared valid, and yet the case is still ongoing. Why? What is she going after Mr Matthews? Don't her actions prove what her motive and intent is in filing the case?
>
> Are you trying to act like the litigation "right now" is about anything other then trying to get more then she already got?

In regard to the validity of the Guam divorce, and your suggestiong that she simply had to ask legal council: It is self-evident that she did, and that she was told by legal council that the Guam divorce was not valid in IL. Why? That is self-evident because she retained an attorney to filed the lawsuit, and then litigated it in court. No attorney is going to file a lawsuit, and litigate it, if that attorney believes that the client will lose. Why. Because, in a case where it is self-evident that the client will lose, the party to the lawsuit who prevails will be entitled to file a lawsuit against that attorney for "misuse of process." No attorney will risk that. If you understood the law, you would understand that Linda was advised that she potentially had a case. The case was litigated, and she lost. The divorce was declated valid.

Yes the divorce was declard valid. That case is not on-going. The divorce was settled when the IL Court declared it valid. There has been no further llitigation since on that issue.

The issue currently being llitigated in another issue. If you understood the law of Guam, you would know that divorces obtained in Guam, under the conditions that the Sheltons obtained the divorce do not settle several issues commonly related to divorces. Yes, there are other conditions under which those issues are settled. But, those conditions did not exist in the Shelton divorce, and threfore were not settled. Both Danny and Linda signed papers to obtain that divorce in which it was stated that they understood that the divorce did not settle certain issues, and if litigated it would have to be litigated in a United States court. The current litigation is simplly to settle those unresolved issues.

Of course, the Sheltons could have obtained their divorce in IL, which would have settled all issues at one time. But, the Sheltons decided not to do that, and to go a route the essentially guaranteed further litiigation in a U.S. court.

Linda's actons prove that she is attempting to resolve the unsettled issues. So, if you want to say that they are attempts to get more than she got, you are correct on one level. Issues that were not resolved were not part of any settlement. They remained for disposition with later litigation, and that is what it happening.

Referemces have been made to Linda recieving $250 thousand dollars. You will note that the funds you reference largely came from an agreement in regard to Linda's employment, and largely did not involved resolution of marital property. It is largely unresoled marital property issues that are in litigation.

Does that mean that there will never be further litigation in regard to Linda's employment at 3-ABN?

No, it does not. But, that remains to be seen. I am not going to speculate there.

Posted by: Aletheia Apr 25 2007, 02:41 PM

> QUOTE(Observer @ Apr 16 2007, 02:52 PM) ☐
>
> Most of you probably know that Linda Shelton and Danny Shelton are litigating certain unresolved issues that were not settled by the Guam divorce decree.
>
> Recently Linda changed from the attorney who had represented her in the past to a new attorney, named Laird Heal. located in Massachusets. The major point of interest in this is that Mr. Heal works quite closely with a man named Gailon A. Joy.
>
> Gailon A. Joy, as you know, is associated with the Internet site: www.save3abn.com
>
> People in the past have laughed at some of the claims made by Mr. Joy in regard to statements that he would aggressively defend against any lawsuits filed against him, and that he was able to help obtain legal representation for people who might be sued.
>
> O. K. if we watch the play of this litigation, we may get an idea as to the quality of representation that Mr. Joy is able to obtain.
>
> Some of us believe that this is a significant change in the legal climate.

Today Linda and her new lawyer were in court, and it went something like this:

The proceedings started and the Judge point blank asked him:
Do you have a liscence to practice law in Illinois?

Laird J. Heal: Yes your honor.

Danny's counsel approach the bench with documentation that he does not.

When confronted by the Judge about this.

Laird J. Heal : I am trying.... they haven't got back to me...

Judge: You aren't just tardy on your fee... it is supposed to be paid yearly... you haven't been liscenced in eleven years..

Laird J. Heal: I know.. I moved alot... guess they couldn't find me... blah blah and more blah..

Judge to Linda: ... Get a liscenced Attorney before June 8th...

Guess we'll be hearing more now from Gregory about Linda's new, professional lawyer who is such a mover and shaker....

> QUOTE
>
> "The Attorney Registration & Disciplinary Commission, an agency of the Illinois Supreme Court, is > responsible for maintaining current records of registration and discipline information for lawyers licensed to practice in Illinois, investigating allegations of misconduct by lawyers, and prosecuting the cases where a lawyer's misconduct suggests a threat to the public or to the integrity of the legal profession."

>
> http://www.iardc.org/ardcroll.asp
>
> ARDC Lawyer Search Results from the ARDC database last updated as of April 16, 2007 at 12:18:14 PM: for the following terms: Last Name: Heal, First Name: Laird, status: All, Country: usa Name:Laird James Heal
>
> Date Admitted June 4, 1991
>
> City State Sterling MA
>
> Authorized to Practice? No
>
> Address information is not available online for retired judges or lawyers who are retired, inactive, deceased or who never registered with ARDC, due to privacy considerations or because ARDC never received those addresses. For those lawyers, "N/A" is displayed above to indicate that the city and state information is not available online. Click on the name of a lawyer to obtain more detailed information regarding the lawyer, including registration status, registered business address and telephone number if available, and any public disciplinary or disability history.

> QUOTE
>
> http://www.iardc.org/ldetail.asp?id=781992972
> Illinois Registration Status: Not authorized to practice law as attorney is not currently registered with ARDC - Last Registered Year: 1996

Posted by: Eirene Apr 25 2007, 02:45 PM

> QUOTE(Johann @ Apr 25 2007, 11:07 AM)
>
> Irene, I was close to Linda all this time, and I never heard her voice what you are stating here. All I remember her stating at that time was that she wanted to be sure the Guam divorce was legal in the state of Illinois. Danny gloated in his email when the divorce was declared legal and he could marry Brandy immediately after that.
>
> Who told you what Linda was thinking?

hat would be odd since the legal divorce was obtained and final in the early summer of 04, and he didn't narry Brandy until spring of 06. Your story doesn't mesh....

Posted by: awesumtenor Apr 25 2007, 02:54 PM

> QUOTE(Aletheia @ Apr 25 2007, 04:41 PM)

> Today Linda and her new lawyer were in court, and it went something like this:
>
> The proceedings started and the Judge point blank asked him:
> Do you have a liscence to practice law in Illinois?
>
> Laird J. Heal: Yes your honor.
>
> Danny's counsel approach the bench with documentation that he does not.
>
> When confronted by the Judge about this.
>
> Laird J. Heal : I am trying.... they haven't got back to me...
>
> Judge: You aren't just tardy on your fee... it is supposed to be paid yearly... you haven't been liscenced in eleven years..
>
> Laird J. Heal: I know.. I moved alot... guess they couldn't find me... blah blah and more blah..
>
> Judge to Linda: ... Get a liscenced Attorney before June 8th...
> Guess we'll be hearing more now from Gregory about Linda's new, professional lawyer who is such a mover and shaker....

As if you were there...

In His service,
Mr. J

Posted by: Grith Apr 25 2007, 02:57 PM

> QUOTE(Observer @ Apr 25 2007, 11:36 AM)
>
> You asked for a statement of fact, without any explaination of her reasons. I have attempted to respond as you requested, although I wanted to say more. :-)

Ahhh, then please say more.

> QUOTE
>
> The issue currently being llitigated in another issue. If you understood the law of Guam, you would know that divorces obtained in Guam, under the conditions that the Sheltons obtained the divorce do not settle several issues commonly related to divorces. Yes, there are other conditions under which those issues are settled. But, those conditions did not exist in the Shelton divorce, and threfore were not settled. Both Danny and Linda signed papers to obtain that divorce in which it was stated that they understood that the divorce did not settle certain issues, and if litigated it would have to be litigated in a United States court. The current litigation is simplly to settle those unresolved issues.

Thanks for this explaination.

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Apr 25 2007, 03:15 PM

> QUOTE(Aletheia @ Apr 25 2007, 12:41 PM)
>
> Today Linda and her new lawyer were in court, and it went something like this:
>
> The proceedings started and the Judge point blank asked him:
> Do you have a liscence to practice law in Illinois?
>
> Laird J. Heal: Yes your honor.
>
> Danny's counsel approach the bench with documentation that he does not.
>
> When confronted by the Judge about this.
>
> Laird J. Heal : I am trying.... they haven't got back to me...
>
> Judge: You aren't just tardy on your fee... it is supposed to be paid yearly... you haven't been liscenced in eleven years..
>
> Laird J. Heal: I know.. I moved alot... guess they couldn't find me... blah blah and more blah..
>
> Judge to Linda: ... Get a liscenced Attorney before June 8th...
> Guess we'll be hearing more now from Gregory about Linda's new, professional lawyer who is such a mover and shaker....

Cindy,
Thank you for bringing this information to the forum. While it would be interesting to know who provided you with the information, I would only ask the following:

1. Was the person who provided you this information actually in that courtroom this afternoon?
2. Are you positive this information accurately reflects the discussion in that courtroom?

Do any of us outside of that courtroom really know why Laird J. Heal did not have his Illinois license in hand? If it was a question of this man overlooking that detail, I would have to agree with your sarcastic remarks about him being a "professional lawyer who is such a mover and shaker..." for attention to detail is vitally important for any practicing attorney.

I won't even be a bit surprised if there are remarks similar to yours made tomorrow evening on a certain LIVE program.

However, if there is another, more reasonable explanation for his lack of having that license in hand - say like crossed wires with the Illinois State Bar or whoever grants those licenses once fees are paid, USPS not delivering it in a timely manner, etc., etc. - then the glee of your post might be just a bit premature or even blatantly uncalled for.

Posted by: princessdi Apr 25 2007, 03:38 PM

It meshes fine if you comprehend what is being said. In 2004, Danny UPS'ed(Ijes" made that up) him a quickie divorce in Guam and thought he could marry Brandy(which is also problmatic in itself but for another discussion,). and his trouble were over, but once Linda contested that divorce it was not valid until a judge ruled it so. He was gloating about Brandy in 2004, until he got the court papers.

> QUOTE(Eirene @ Apr 25 2007, 01:45 PM)
>
> That would be odd since the legal divorce was obtained and final in the early summer of 04, and he didn't > marry Brandy until spring of 06. Your story doesn't mesh....

Posted by: seraph|m Apr 25 2007, 03:52 PM

> QUOTE(princessdi @ Apr 25 2007, 06:38 PM)
>
> It meshes fine if you comprehend what is being said. In 2004, Danny UPS'ed(Ijes" made that up) him a quickie divorce in Guam and thought he could marry Brandy(which is also problmatic in itself but for another discussion,). and his trouble were over, but once Linda contested that divorce it was not valid until a judge ruled it so. He was gloating about Brandy in 2004, until he got the court papers.

Posted by: Aletheia Apr 25 2007, 04:06 PM

> QUOTE(princessdi @ Apr 25 2007, 05:38 PM)
>
> It meshes fine if you comprehend what is being said. In 2004, Danny UPS'ed(Ijes" made that up) him a quickie divorce in Guam and thought he could marry Brandy(which is also problmatic in itself but for another discussion,). and his trouble were over, but once Linda contested that divorce it was not valid until a judge ruled it so. He was gloating about Brandy in 2004, until he got the court papers.

vell he had 8 mos to do so, if that was true, for that's how long it took Linda to decide to contest. The case ind dates are online at franklin County, Illinois...

3ut that is impossible as Brandi didn't even move from FL to Il until months after the divorce, (Nov I believe) icording to those at 3ABN, and even 8 months after the divorce D.S. was still talking about reconcilliation vith L.S. as the published "private" letters on the save 3abn not website prove.

Posted by: princessdi Apr 25 2007, 04:13 PM

Gurl, Please....you and Eirene going half on those bridges?

> QUOTE(Aletheia @ Apr 25 2007, 03:06 PM)
>
> well he had 8 mos to do so, if that was true, for that's how long it took Linda to decide to contest.
>
> But that is impossible as Brandi didn't even move from FL to Il until months after the divorce, Nov I believe, acording to those at 3ABN, and even a 8 months after the divorce D.S. was still talking about reconcilliation with Linda as the published "private" letters on the save 3abn not website prove.

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Apr 25 2007, 04:15 PM

> QUOTE(Aletheia @ Apr 25 2007, 03:06 PM)
>
> That is impossible as she didn't even move from FL to Il until months after the divorce, and even a 8 months after the divorce he was still talking about reconcilliation with Linda as the published "private" letters on the save 3abn not website prove.

Her actual move was months after the divorce, but didn't she come and stay at 3abn for awhile before that time? That is what I remember.

Posted by: Aletheia Apr 25 2007, 04:17 PM

> QUOTE(PeacefullyBewildered @ Apr 25 2007, 06:15 PM)
>
> Her actual move was months after the divorce, but didn't she come and stay at 3abn for awhile before that time? That is what I remember.

Not according to her Mother who called before she went there, or anyone I've talked to and asked about it...

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Apr 25 2007, 04:31 PM

> QUOTE(Aletheia @ Apr 25 2007, 03:17 PM)
>
> Not according to her Mother who called before she went there, or anyone I've talked to and asked about it...

So this young single mother of two moved to 3abn without first going there and checking for possible employment and housing? Did the mother make the arrangements for her?

Posted by: Pickle Apr 25 2007, 04:57 PM

> QUOTE(Aletheia @ Apr 25 2007, 02:41 PM)
>
> Today Linda and her new lawyer were in court, and it went something like this:
>
> The proceedings started and the Judge point blank asked him:
> Do you have a liscence to practice law in Illinois?
>
> Laird J. Heal: Yes your honor.

> Danny's counsel approach the bench with documentation that he does not.
>
> When confronted by the Judge about this.
>
> Laird J. Heal : I am trying.... they haven't got back to me...
>
> Judge: You aren't just tardy on your fee... it is supposed to be paid yearly... you haven't been liscenced in eleven years..
>
> Laird J. Heal: I know.. I moved alot... guess they couldn't find me... blah blah and more blah..
>
> Judge to Linda: ... Get a liscenced Attorney before June 8th...
> Guess we'll be hearing more now from Gregory about Linda's new, professional lawyer who is such a mover and shaker....

ere's the scoop according to Gailon:

- Attorney Laird J. Heal is licensed to practice law in Illinois.
- He is an inactive member of the bar and has had that status for the last 11 years.
- He paid 11 years of fees around two weeks agho, when he found out he was going to be taking this case.
- Though the Illinois Bar was paid two weeks ago, they haven't updated their records.
- The case could have proceeded with Laird as Linda's counsel, but the judge wasn't too happy with Danny's side.

kay, here's the problem with Danny's side:

- The judge thought that there was a motion to compel.
- Danny's side brought a motion to strike instead.
- The judge wasn't too happy with that and told Danny's lawyer to prepare for trial.
- The judge was bothered that there still weren't any depositions done.

ext court date is June 8. On that date the following are scheduled:

- Pretrial conference.
- Mandatory settlement conference.
- Pretrial motions.

epositions need to be done by then.

letheia, as you can see above, Gailon gave quite a different account, and it sounds quite a bit more realistic.

ut I'm a bit tired of posting all the time over here. I'd be more than happy for you to call Gailon and get ccounts of things like this and post them instead of me. Have any interest? If you do, I can email you his hone number.

Posted by: princessdi Apr 25 2007, 05:18 PM

Are you kidding, Bob? Can you please pick somebody else? We need the straight scoop, please.

> QUOTE(Pickle @ Apr 25 2007, 03:57 PM)

> Here's the scoop according to Gailon:
>
> - Attorney Laird J. Heal is licensed to practice law in Illinois.
> - He is an inactive member of the bar and has had that status for the last 11 years.
> - He paid 11 years of fees around two weeks agho, when he found out he was going to be taking this case.
> - Though the Illinois Bar was paid two weeks ago, they haven't updated their records.
> - The case could have proceeded with Laird as Linda's counsel, but the judge wasn't too happy with Danny's side.
>
> Okay, here's the problem with Danny's side:
>
> - The judge thought that there was a motion to compel.
> - Danny's side brought a motion to strike instead.
> - The judge wasn't too happy with that and told Danny's lawyer to prepare for trial.
> - The judge was bothered that there still weren't any depositions done.
>
> Next court date is June 8. On that date the following are scheduled:
>
> - Pretrial conference.
> - Mandatory settlement conference.
> - Pretrial motions.
>
> Depositions need to be done by then.
>
> Aletheia, as you can see above, Gailon gave quite a different account, and it sounds quite a bit more realistic.
>
> But I'm a bit tired of posting all the time over here. I'd be more than happy for you to call Gailon and get accounts of things like this and post them instead of me. Have any interest? If you do, I can email you his phone number.

Posted by: LaurenceD Apr 25 2007, 05:29 PM

Don't worry Pickle, I doubt if anyone takes the defenders serious. I ALWAYS allow for the probability that the opposite is true of anything they post.

Hey, has anyone thought of looking back through Brandi's phone records, or DS cell? Might be kind of interesting looking back to 2003.

Posted by: Johann Apr 25 2007, 05:34 PM

> QUOTE(Eirene @ Apr 25 2007, 10:45 PM)
>
> That would be odd since the legal divorce was obtained and final in the early summer of 04, and he didn't marry Brandy until spring of 06. Your story doesn't mesh....

What does not mesh? Your story?

Yes, the Guam divorce was obtained on June 21, 2004. Danny married his Brandy just after it was declared egal in the state of Illinois by the judge. That was in March 2006. Isn't that clear? Danny wrote me a letter about his marriage at that time.

Posted by: mozart Apr 25 2007, 06:27 PM

Eirene, is it possible that you could use a different typeface. the one u are using is very hard to read and i know you want us to read it. otherwise i just pass it by.

> QUOTE(Eirene @ Apr 25 2007, 08:51 AM)
>
> Grith, Let me clarify some things:
> 1. Danny did not go to guam to get the divorce. All the paperwork was sent there.
> 2. Linda of course could have contested the divorce and it would have went no farther, as far as down that avenue.
> 3. It took minimal time for the divorce to be legal. What you refer to is months down the road Linda decided to try challenge the legalities of the divorce that she had agreed to get. There were several reasons for this, but one major reason was because if she could somehow find a loophole for the guam divorce to be declared invalid, then she would be entitled to half of DS's income for the months between the guam divorce and when she decided to contest the legalities and it is my understanding she was also going to go after even more of the marital assets than she had already been given. If she would have been succesful in her quest, it would have been like starting all over with a clean slate and I would guess she was going after more than her share, which she had already received. So the Guam divorce was legal and binding all along and no one challenged it except, her, later down the road. DS's attorney new it was legal from the day of the divorce decree. So when people say they weren't actually divorced until 6 or8 months later, that would be a lie. Just because she chose to challenge it as invalid didn't make it invalid. And in fact, she lost the case as there was no legal cause to challenge it in the first place.

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Apr 25 2007, 06:32 PM

Eirene,
I would also appreciate it if you could change your typeface. It really does mess with one's eyes and I enjoy reading your remarks and would hate to have to ignore them.

PB

Posted by: Pickle Apr 25 2007, 06:36 PM

> QUOTE(princessdi @ Apr 25 2007, 05:18 PM)
>
> Are you kidding, Bob? Can you please pick somebody else? We need the straight scoop, please.

Hey, I thought she might like to change employers. Someone who is more honest, you know. She might welcome the change.

She was "working" with me once upon a time. You know, just trying to get down to the bottom of things. If she wants to assist now, I'm not going to stand in her way.

> QUOTE(Johann @ Apr 25 2007, 05:34 PM)
>
> Danny wrote me a letter about his marriage at that time.

I heard he wrote Linda and told her how great a body his new wife had.

Haven't seen that one on http://www.Save3ABN.com/, so I don't know for sure that that one is true. But given the other ones, it just might be.

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Apr 25 2007, 06:42 PM

> QUOTE(Pickle @ Apr 25 2007, 02:57 PM) ☐
>
> Here's the scoop according to Gailon:
>
> - Attorney Laird J. Heal is licensed to practice law in Illinois.
> - He is an inactive member of the bar and has had that status for the last 11 years.
> - He paid 11 years of fees around two weeks agho, when he found out he was going to be taking this case.
> - Though the Illinois Bar was paid two weeks ago, they haven't updated their records.
> - The case could have proceeded with Laird as Linda's counsel, but the judge wasn't too happy with Danny's side.
>
> Okay, here's the problem with Danny's side:
>
> - The judge thought that there was a motion to compel.
> - Danny's side brought a motion to strike instead.
> - The judge wasn't too happy with that and told Danny's lawyer to prepare for trial.
> - The judge was bothered that there still weren't any depositions done.
>
> Next court date is June 8. On that date the following are scheduled:
>
> - Pretrial conference.
> - Mandatory settlement conference.
> - Pretrial motions.
>
> Depositions need to be done by then.
>
> Aletheia, as you can see above, Gailon gave quite a different account, and it sounds quite a bit more realistic.
>
> But I'm a bit tired of posting all the time over here. I'd be more than happy for you to call Gailon and get accounts of things like this and post them instead of me. Have any interest? If you do, I can email you his phone number.

Cindy,

Are you feeling a bit set up again by your info providers? What is your response to what Gailon is providing as the actual reason Linda's attorney did not have the license in hand for the hearing? Would you agree that it might have been a good idea to double check the facts before your jump to cast aspersions on Laird J. Heal?

Or, do you maintain that what you were told is the truth and Gailon is just spinning away as usual? I really am interested in knowing your take on this.

PB

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Apr 25 2007, 06:53 PM

This is the full email I received just a little bit ago from Gailon Arthur Joy on the subject of what really happened in that Franklin County courthouse this afternoon. While it is somewhat redundant since Bob Pickle already posted on the subject, I thought it might head off any need for accusations against Bob of spinning the info.

PB

----- Original Message -----
From: G. Arthur Joy
To: ************
Sent: Wednesday, April 25, 2007 5:11 PM
Subject: Re: Linda's attorney

Illinois allows Attys to maintain an inactive status and Atty Laird Heal has been an inactive member of the Bar for 11 years. When He agreed to accept Lindas case. he contacted the Illinois Bar to re-activate his license. They sent him paperwork and he had to pay a fee of something under $500 which was done about two weeks ago. The Illinois Attorney Registration & Disciplinary Commission did not get his re-activation certification completed in time for this hearing. This is, a minor issue as he is a member in good standing before the Illinois Bar, but inactive, although his activation fee and paperwork is before the commission for updating.

The important news is that the Judge ordered a pretrial hearing, mandatory settlement conference and hearing on motions for June 8, 2007. The judge also noted that there had been no depositions in this case. It is Atty Heals intent to correct that problem as soon as possible.

I have also attached the Illinois Registration database for Laird James Heal demonstrating there is no pending disciplinary action and simply needs to complete re-activation:

ARDC Individual Attorney Record of Public Registration and Public Disciplinary and Disability Information as of April 25, 2007 at 12:14:42 PM:
Full Licensed Name: Laird James Heal
Full Former name(s): None
Date of Admission as Lawyer
by Illinois Supreme Court: June 4, 1991
Registered Business Address: *********
Registered Business Phone: *********

Public Record of Discipline
and Pending Proceedings: None

Hope this clarifies the status and I am told he will be re-activated by the commission by Friday.

Gailon Arthur Joy
AUReporter
Save3ABN.com

Posted by: Eirene Apr 25 2007, 09:36 PM

> QUOTE(PeacefullyBewildered @ Apr 25 2007, 06:53 PM)
>
> This is the full email I received just a little bit ago from Gailon Arthur Joy on the subject of what really happened in that Franklin County courthouse this afternoon. While it is somewhat redundant since Bob > Pickle already posted on the subject, I thought it might head off any need for accusations against Bob of spinning the info.

>
> PB
> ----- Original Message -----
> From: G. Arthur Joy
> To: ************
> Sent: Wednesday, April 25, 2007 5:11 PM
> Subject: Re: Linda's attorney
> Illinois allows Attys to maintain an inactive status and Atty Laird Heal has been an inactive member of the Bar for 11 years. When He agreed to accept Lindas case. he contacted the Illinois Bar to re-activate his license. They sent him paperwork and he had to pay a fee of something under $500 which was done about two weeks ago. The Illinois Attorney Registration & Disciplinary Commission did not get his re-activation certification completed in time for this hearing. This is, a minor issue as he is a member in good standing before the Illinois Bar, but inactive, although his activation fee and paperwork is before the commission for updating.
>
> The important news is that the Judge ordered a pretrial hearing, mandatory settlement conference and hearing on motions for June 8, 2007. The judge also noted that there had been no depositions in this case. It is Atty Heals intent to correct that problem as soon as possible.
>
> I have also attached the Illinois Registration database for Laird James Heal demonstrating there is no pending disciplinary action and simply needs to complete re-activation:
>
> ARDC Individual Attorney Record of Public Registration and Public Disciplinary and Disability Information as of April 25, 2007 at 12:14:42 PM:
> Full Licensed Name: Laird James Heal
> Full Former name(s): None
> Date of Admission as Lawyer
> by Illinois Supreme Court: June 4, 1991
> Registered Business Address: *********
> Registered Business Phone: *********
>
> Public Record of Discipline
> and Pending Proceedings: None
> Hope this clarifies the status and I am told he will be re-activated by the commission by Friday.
>
> Gailon Arthur Joy
> AUReporter
> Save3ABN.com

hat sounds like a nice little spin all packaged up. One thing is wrong with that. When the judge ask f he was licensed to practice in Il he said YES YOUR HONOR! No matter how you spin it he lied. Had e not been exposed, proceedings would have went on as planned with no one the wiser.
re you honestly trying to say that he drove all the way from Mass, a long long trip, and Linda drove rom springfield, knowing that he wouldn't be able to accomplish anything because he was going to ave to admit to the judge he didn't have his license yet? rofl Please, he thought he could get a ay with it but failed miserably.

> QUOTE(Johann @ Apr 25 2007, 05:34 PM)
>
> What does not mesh? Your story?
>
> Yes, the Guam divorce was obtained on June 21, 2004. Danny married his Brandy just after it was declared legal in the state of Illinois by the judge. That was in March 2006. Isn't that clear? Danny wrote me a letter about his marriage at that time.

No it doesn't mesh. As I said no one was questioning the legality of the finality of the divorce in june except Linda, months down the road. The divorce was final and legal and that finding was "upheld" by a court of law after Linda tried to force her own issue that it wasn't legal. There is a difference in a finding being UPHELD as compared to being "declared". The very fact that the court UPHELD the legalities of the guam divorce just proves what I am saying. They were legally divorced in june of 04 and he married Brandi spring of 06. Almost a 2 year span. For you to say they weren't divorced until 06 and he married right after, is again, why one can't trust your credibility. If you don't understand the court system or why Linda was trying to work it, then you should stay away from these types of post. If you do understand, then you were trying to spin it, again, in a certain direction that you want it to go.

> QUOTE(princessdi @ Apr 25 2007, 05:18 PM)
>
> Are you kidding, Bob? Can you please pick somebody else? We need the straight scoop, please.

Obviously not, or you wouldn't be asking Pickle.

Posted by: seraph|m Apr 25 2007, 09:39 PM

> QUOTE(Eirene @ Apr 26 2007, 12:36 AM)
>
> That sounds like a nice little spin all packaged up. One thing is wrong with that. When the judge ask if he was licensed to practice in Il he said YES YOUR HONOR! No matter how you spin it he lied. Had he not been exposed, proceedings would have went on as planned with no one the wiser. Are you honestly trying to say that he drove all the way from Mass, a long long trip, and Linda drove from springfield, knowing that he wouldn't be able to accomplish anything because he was going to have to admit to the judge he didn't have his license yet? ☒ rofl Please, he thought he could get a way with it but failed miserably.
> No it doesn't mesh. As I said no one was questioning the legality of the finality of the divorce in june except Linda, months down the road. The divorce was final and legal and that finding was "upheld" by a court of law after Linda tried to force her own issue that it wasn't legal. There is a difference in a finding being UPHELD as compared to being "declared". The very fact that the court UPHELD the legalities of the guam divorce just proves what I am saying. They were legally divorced in june of 04 and he married Brandi spring of 06. Almost a 2 year span. For you to say they weren't divorced until 06 and he married right after, is again, why one can't trust your credibility. If you don't understand the court system or why Linda was trying to work it, then you should stay away from these types of post. If you do understand, then you were trying to spin it, again, in a certain direction that you want it to go.
> Obviously not, or you wouldn't be asking Pickle.

So Eirene, you are an eye witness to all these events, the court case and all? ☒ P

Posted by: Eirene Apr 25 2007, 09:45 PM

> QUOTE(Pickle @ Apr 25 2007, 04:57 PM)
>
> Here's the scoop according to Gailon:
>
> - Attorney Laird J. Heal is licensed to practice law in Illinois.

> - He is an inactive member of the bar and has had that status for the last 11 years.
> - He paid 11 years of fees around two weeks agho, when he found out he was going to be taking this case.
> - Though the Illinois Bar was paid two weeks ago, they haven't updated their records.
> - The case could have proceeded with Laird as Linda's counsel, but the judge wasn't too happy with Danny's side.
>
> Okay, here's the problem with Danny's side:
>
> - The judge thought that there was a motion to compel.
> - Danny's side brought a motion to strike instead.
> - The judge wasn't too happy with that and told Danny's lawyer to prepare for trial.
> - The judge was bothered that there still weren't any depositions done.
>
> Next court date is June 8. On that date the following are scheduled:
>
> - Pretrial conference.
> - Mandatory settlement conference.
> - Pretrial motions.
>
> Depositions need to be done by then.
>
> Aletheia, as you can see above, Gailon gave quite a different account, and it sounds quite a bit more realistic.
>
> But I'm a bit tired of posting all the time over here. I'd be more than happy for you to call Gailon and get accounts of things like this and post them instead of me. Have any interest? If you do, I can email you his phone number.

'ou know Bob, the accounts aren't really that different on the issues raised. In fact Aletheia was correct in :verything she said. Fact, Laird did not have a valid license to practice in Il...Fact, he answered in the ıffirmative when ask if he did....Fact, he made excuses as to why he didn't have it yet....We know all this is rue by the mere fact that the proceedings did not continue and the judge told Linda to get a licensed ıttorney.
)f course what you failed to mention is that DS's attorney ask for the whole thing to be thrown out since he vasn't licensed but the Judge said that wouldn't be fair to Mrs. Shelton as he was assuming that she thought ;he did have one.
;o Bob, what's not true?

> QUOTE(seraph|m @ Apr 25 2007, 09:39 PM)
>
> So Eirene, you are an eye witness to all these events, the court case and all?

'ou would be surprised.....

Posted by: Aletheia Apr 25 2007, 09:56 PM

> QUOTE(PeacefullyBewildered @ Apr 25 2007, 06:31 PM)
>
> So this young single mother of two moved to 3abn without first going there and checking for possible > employment and housing? Did the mother make the arrangements for her?

he didn't move to 3ABN, she moved to Illinois...

don't know all, but I do know her Mom called Danny in Oct of 2004 and asked if there was a job opening at ABN as she had come through a rough time and was moving there. Danny told her "I don't know, Molly is in harge of that, have her come in and talk to molly when she get's here. I don't know who else her Mom alled, but when she moved there in Nov, she did go in and apply and was interviewed by Molly. Molly hired er part time answering phones and she also worked partime in another dept?? I also know that Dr Walt hompson has written in a e-mail around here somewhere (the search feature isn't working, so I can't rovide the link right now) that he met and shared lunch with her and her girls the day she arrived.

Posted by: Pickle Apr 25 2007, 10:09 PM

> QUOTE(Eirene @ Apr 25 2007, 09:45 PM)
>
> You know Bob, the accounts aren't really that different on the issues raised. In fact Aletheia was correct in everything she said. Fact, Laird did not have a valid license to practice in Il...Fact, he answered in the affirmative when ask if he did....Fact, he made excuses as to why he didn't have it yet....We know all this is true by the mere fact that the proceedings did not continue and the judge told Linda to get a licensed attorney.
> Of course what you failed to mention is that DS's attorney ask for the whole thing to be thrown out since he wasn't licensed but the Judge said that wouldn't be fair to Mrs. Shelton as he was assuming that she thought she did have one.
> So Bob, what's not true?

Vhich is it? I was told he had a license and had paid the fees. You're saying he didn't have a license. Do can ou have a license and be inactive, or do you have to have your fees paid up and current in order to have a icense?

lease post documentation from either state statutes or bar association by-laws that would clarify this point.

Posted by: Fran Apr 25 2007, 10:46 PM

> QUOTE(Eirene @ Apr 25 2007, 09:36 PM)
>
> That sounds like a nice little spin all packaged up. One thing is wrong with that. When the judge ask if he was licensed to practice in Il he said YES YOUR HONOR! No matter how you spin it he lied. Had he not been exposed, proceedings would have went on as planned with no one the wiser.
>
> Fran: It sounds to me that the State of IL has the same problem as the one Danny has.
>
> 1. Danny has a problem posting Trust Funds, Asset Disposals, Posting other Ministries money into the 3ABN Coffers, and things like that in General. I wonder if he taught IL his tricks
>
> 2. The money was paid. All the appropriate work was done, but Danny must have shown them how to not post stuff. Sounds like a court problem with backlogging.
>
> You can not blame the lawyer for the IL offices not being prompt in their duties!
>
> Come on, give us a break!
>
> Your Comments: Are you honestly trying to say that he drove all the way from Mass, a long long trip, and

> Linda drove from springfield, knowing that he wouldn't be able to accomplish anything because he was going to have to admit to the judge he didn't have his license yet? rofl Please, he thought he could get a way with it but failed miserably.
>
> Fran: Shame on you for ridiculing Linda and the Lawyer when the blame clearly should be one the shoulders of the Stat of IL office~ And you expect us to believe you?
>
> Your comment: No it doesn't mesh. As I said no one was questioning the legality of the finality of the divorce in june except Linda, months down the road. The divorce was final and legal and that finding was "upheld" by a court of law after Linda tried to force her own issue that it wasn't legal. There is a difference in a finding being UPHELD as compared to being "declared". The very fact that the court UPHELD the legalities of the guam divorce just proves what I am saying. They were legally divorced in june of 04 and he married Brandi spring of 06. Almost a 2 year span. For you to say they weren't divorced until 06 and he married right after, is again, why one can't trust your credibility. If you don't understand the court system or why Linda was trying to work it, then you should stay away from these types of post. If you do understand, then you were trying to spin it, again, in a certain direction that you want it to go. Obviously not, or you wouldn't be asking Pickle.
>
> Fran: Really, you need to wipe those eggs off your face.
>
> 1. The divorce was over in June 2004
> 2. When Linda was advised the divorce may not be legal in IL, she filed a what ever it is you call it!
> 3. THIS IS WHY Danny could not marry Brandy for 2 years.
>
> I made a post on CA long before November 2004 about Danny having a new main squeeze when I became aware of the situation about her being close to Melody's age.
>
> Shame on you!

Posted by: Shepherdswife Apr 26 2007, 05:51 AM

It seems there is confusion re: terms here between licensed and activated. Yes, he has a license in IL. It was inactive for 11 years, but still a license. He set in motion the re-activation process. If he had not been licensed already in IL, he could not get activated this quickly, I don't believe. Don't attorneys have to take the bar in every state in which they wish to practice? And that is a long process?

Whether he knew the activation process was not complete or not I have no way of knowing, but he is a licensed IL attorney--or so it seems to me...

shepherdswife

Posted by: Noahswife Apr 26 2007, 06:06 AM

> QUOTE(Shepherdswife @ Apr 26 2007, 06:51 AM)
>
> It seems there is confusion re: terms here between licensed and activated. Yes, he has a license in IL. It was inactive for 11 years, but still a license. He set in motion the re-activation process. If he had not been licensed already in IL, he could not get activated this quickly, I don't believe. Don't attorneys have to take the bar in every state in which they wish to practice? And that is a long process?
>
> Whether he knew the activation process was not complete or not I have no way of knowing, but he is a licensed IL attorney--or so it seems to me...

> shepherdswife

have not had any time to read threads for nearly a week so I am way behind on current posts and even why his particular issue is being discussed. However, i thought i would post a quick response to this.

nce an attorney has passed the bar and is licensed to practice law he can chose normally between different tatuses when he registers yearly or whatever process that state has for this. After passing the original state's ar, an attorney may also want to practice in a different state. A young attorney will normally take the bar gain in that second state. However, with experience an attorney may also be admitted to practice in another tate upon meeting certain criteria and retaking the bar is not necessary. It is also not unusual to practice in nother state using co-counsel. Federal administrative practice and federal court practice can be an entirely ifferent animal.

Posted by: Eirene Apr 26 2007, 08:49 AM

> QUOTE(Pickle @ Apr 25 2007, 10:09 PM) ☐
>
> Which is it? I was told he had a license and had paid the fees. You're saying he didn't have a license. Do can you have a license and be inactive, or do you have to have your fees paid up and current in order to have a license?
>
> Please post documentation from either state statutes or bar association by-laws that would clarify this point.

hat's pretty simple Bob and really the answer doesn't affect the outcome. In order for a license to be valid in state, it has to be kept active. That is a matter of keeping up the fees every year etc. Laird didn't. Frans tatement that said it was the fault of of the state may in part, be accurate but that is a moot point on this icture. Here is the part being left out. He knew he had not been re-instated before he left Mass. If he ntended to be honest and forthcoming why wouldn't he have notified the court before proceedings and ask or a continuance because he had not been re-instated? Unless he intended to try and get by with it, why rive all the way to Southern IL for nothing? And why answer to the affirmative when asked if he was licensed o practice in Il? No, don't say well he did have a license. A license doesn't count in a state if it is inactive and e knew it was still inactive. All of this "he was working on it" doesn't get it. You and Gailon are using a play n words to smokescreen the act itself.

Posted by: ex3ABNemployee Apr 26 2007, 08:53 AM

> QUOTE(Eirene @ Apr 26 2007, 08:49 AM) ☐
>
> That's pretty simple Bob and really the answer doesn't affect the outcome. In order for a license to be valid in a state, it has to be kept active. That is a matter of keeping up the fees every year etc. Laird didn't. Frans statement that said it was the fault of of the state may in part, be accurate but that is a moot point on this picture. Here is the part being left out. He knew he had not been re-instated before he left Mass. If he intended to be honest and forthcoming why wouldn't he have notified the court before proceedings and ask for a continuance because he had not been re-instated? Unless he intended to try and get by with it, why drive all the way to Southern IL for nothing? And why answer to the affirmative when asked if he was licensed to practice in Il? No, don't say well he did have a license. A license doesn't count in a state if it is inactive and he knew it was still inactive. All of this "he was working on it" doesn't get it. You and Gailon are using a play on words to smokescreen the act itself.

You can read Mr. Laird's mind and see what he knew? You're good!

The dannyscribes seem to be very concerned about the presence of Mr. Laird for some reason. Has anyone else picked up on that?

Posted by: Eirene Apr 26 2007, 08:54 AM

> QUOTE(PeacefullyBewildered @ Apr 25 2007, 06:42 PM)
>
> Cindy,
>
> Are you feeling a bit set up again by your info providers? What is your response to what Gailon is providing as the actual reason Linda's attorney did not have the license in hand for the hearing? Would you agree that it might have been a good idea to double check the facts before your jump to cast aspersions on Laird J. Heal?
>
> Or, do you maintain that what you were told is the truth and Gailon is just spinning away as usual? I really am interested in knowing your take on this.
>
> PB

PB, see my post to pickle to clarify for you, again....

Posted by: awesumtenor Apr 26 2007, 09:01 AM

> QUOTE(Eirene @ Apr 26 2007, 10:54 AM)
>
> PB, see my post to pickle to clarify for you, again....

You werent there either, Eirene... someone who wasn't there offering to corroborate the account of someone else who wasn't there is nothing more than the blind leading the blind...

But I suppose some happen to like falling in ditches... which would explain the frequency with which they do so...

In His service,
Mr. J

Posted by: Observer Apr 26 2007, 09:24 AM

> QUOTE(Eirene @ Apr 26 2007, 08:49 AM)
>
> That's pretty simple Bob and really the answer doesn't affect the outcome. In order for a license to be valid in a state, it has to be kept active. That is a matter of keeping up the fees every year etc. Laird didn't. Frans statement that said it was the fault of of the state may in part, be accurate but that is a moot point on this picture. Here is the part being left out. He knew he had not been re-instated before he left Mass. If he intended to be honest and forthcoming why wouldn't he have notified the court before proceedings and ask for a continuance because he had not been re-instated? Unless he intended to try and get by with it, why drive all the way to Southern IL for nothing? And why answer to the affirmative when > asked if he was licensed to practice in Il? No, don't say well he did have a license. A license doesn't count in a state if it is inactive and he knew it was still inactive. All of this "he was working on it" doesn't get it. You and Gailon are using a play on words to smokescreen the act itself.

As an attorney, he would not attempt to "get by" with it. He could expect that the court would enquire an answer of him.

As I see it, he had paid the required fees to again practice. What he did not realize is that the records had not been updated so they reflected that he had not paid them, when he had.

This seems to me to be an administrative matter.

As an example: The day my teen-age son passed his driver's examination, he became licensed to drive in this State. However, it was a week or two before his actual license came in the mail that authorized him to drive. f he had been stopped by the police, he would have been licensed to drive, but not in possession of the actual license.

The attorney was authorized to practice law in IL. But, as the records had not beeen updated, the paper submitted to the judge by the other side said otherwise.

t should be noted that if the judge really thought that there was a problem, and that he was not authorized o practice law, the judge would have come down on him with a sledge hammer. The judge did not. The issue was not considered to be a big one by the judge.

Posted by: Aletheia Apr 26 2007, 10:59 AM

> QUOTE(Pickle @ Apr 25 2007, 05:57 PM)
>
> Here's the scoop according to Gailon:
>
> - Attorney Laird J. Heal is licensed to practice law in Illinois.

Here's the real scoop:

> QUOTE
>
> http://www.iardc.org/ardcroll.asp
> ARDC Lawyer Search Results from the ARDC database last updated as of April 25, 2007 at 12:14:42 PM: for the following terms: Last Name: Heal, First Name: Laird, status: All, State: IL, Country: usa
>
> Your search terms do not match the record of any lawyer licensed in Illinois.
>
> http://www.iardc.org/ardcroll.asp
> ARDC Lawyer Search Results from the ARDC database last updated as of April 25, 2007 at 12:14:42 PM: for the following terms: Last Name: Heal, First Name: Laird, status: All, State: MA, Country: usa
>
> Name Laird James Heal
> Date Admitted June 4, 1991
> City State Sterling MA
> Authorized to Practice? No

> QUOTE(Pickle @ Apr 25 2007, 05:57 PM) ☐
>
> Here's the scoop according to Gailon:...
>
> - He is an inactive member of the bar and has had that status for the last 11 years.
> - He paid 11 years of fees around two weeks agho, when he found out he was going to be taking this case.
> - Though the Illinois Bar was paid two weeks ago, they haven't updated their records.

You clearly don't understand what you are posting here. Not without paying he hasn't been an Inactive member. Anyway it's not them he has to worry about:

> QUOTE
>
> Illinois state bar:
> Inactive Members - former active members of at least two consecutive years who are designated as being in inactive status by the Attorney Registration and Disciplinary Commission. Dues: $55/yr.

Here's the scoop according to Attorney Registration and Disciplinary Commission:

> QUOTE
>
> LAWYER SEARCH: ATTORNEY'S REGISTRATION AND PUBLIC DISCIPLINARY RECORD
>
> ARDC Individual Attorney Record of Public Registration and Public Disciplinary and Disability Information as of April 25, 2007 at 12:14:42 PM:
>
> Full Licensed Name: Laird James Heal
> Full Former name(s): None
> Date of Admission as Lawyer
> by Illinois Supreme Court: June 4, 1991
> Registered Business Address: 3* Sterling, MA 01564-2363
> Registered Business Phone: (978)****
> Illinois Registration Status: Not authorized to practice law as attorney is not currently registered with ARDC - Last Registered Year: 1996
>
> Public Record of Discipline
> and Pending Proceedings: None
>
> Check carefully to be sure that you have selected the correct lawyer. At times, lawyers have similar names. The disciplinary results displayed above include information related to any and all public discipline, court-ordered disability inactive status, reinstatement and restoration dispositions, and pending public proceedings. Investigations are confidential and information related to the existence or status of any investigation is not available. For additional information regarding data on this website, contact ARDC at (312) 565-2600 or, within Illinois, at (800) 826-8625.

> QUOTE(Pickle @ Apr 25 2007, 05:57 PM) ☐
>
> Here's the scoop according to Gailon:...
>
> - The case could have proceeded with Laird as Linda's counsel, but the judge wasn't too happy with Danny's side

> .

No, the case can not proceed when Linda's Lawyer is not authorized to practice law..

> QUOTE(Pickle @ Apr 25 2007, 05:57 PM) ☐
>
> Here's the scoop according to Gailon:....
> Okay, here's the problem with Danny's side:
>
> - The judge thought that there was a motion to compel.
> - Danny's side brought a motion to strike instead.

The case could not proceed when Linda's Lawyer is not authorized to practice law, which is why Danny's Lawyer brought a Motion to strike, instead of the expected motion.

Since they could not proceed ,the same exact hearing has been rescheduled for June 8th. Linda was told she needed to have a liscensed attorney before then.

> QUOTE(Pickle @ Apr 25 2007, 05:57 PM) ☐
>
> Here's the scoop according to Gailon:....
>
> - The judge wasn't too happy with that and told Danny's lawyer to prepare for trial.
> - The judge was bothered that there still weren't any depositions done.
>
> Next court date is June 8. On that date the following are scheduled:
>
> - Pretrial conference.
> - Mandatory settlement conference.
> - Pretrial motions.
>
> Depositions need to be done by then.

And Why would I go by what Gailon says? He wasn't there. And the Court records are much more accurate.

> QUOTE
>
> Case 2005D30 Last Update 04/25/2007 Last Upload 04/25/2007 @ 04:30
> Case Category Civil Case Type - Subtype D - 151 Divorce/Disolution
> Litigant Information
> Full Name SHELTON, LINDA SUE
> Role Plaintiff
> Full Name SHELTON, DANNY LEE
> Role Defendant
> Initial Open Date 02/08/2005
>
> Hearings
> Type Date Time Judge Location
> 37 - Motion/dismiss 01/30/2006 13:30 LEWIS,_R A
> 39 - Settlement conf 07/13/2006 09:30 LAMAR B

107 - Motion/sanctions 04/11/2007 13:30 LEWIS,_L C
10 - Motion hearing 04/25/2007 13:30 LEWIS,_L B
10 - Motion hearing 06/08/2007 10:30 LEWIS,_L B

> QUOTE
>
> Aletheia, as you can see above, Gailon gave quite a different account, and it sounds quite a bit more realistic.
>
> But I'm a bit tired of posting all the time over here. I'd be more than happy for you to call Gailon and get accounts of things like this and post them instead of me. Have any interest? If you do, I can email you his phone number.

Bob, with your and Gailon's spins attatched the stories ALWAYS appear different, and they always seem realistic to you. Are you sure you don't really mean you want me to go to court and then call and let him know what happened, so you can get your spin ready, since I'm so close and he's States away???

But, no thank you. I do not wish to speak to Gailon, either now, or at any time that I can forsee...

Posted by: awesumtenor Apr 26 2007, 11:21 AM

> QUOTE(Eirene @ Apr 25 2007, 11:45 PM)
>
> You would be surprised.....

Not responsive... were you there?

Yes or No.

n His service,
Mr. J

Posted by: princessdi Apr 26 2007, 11:52 AM

Cindy, I am not understanding your problem. The problem is he paid the money, but his license has not been updated yet. He just has to wait and let them update it. The judge knows the process that is why he only said get it straight by June 8. If there was something fraudulent happneing, then that judge would have been talking disbarment. It is simple. He IS licensed, his license is just not up to date. I am currently in the same situation with my cosmetology license. Because I was moving I have not paid my fees. I don'tave to take to exam over, I just have to pay my fees. If I were not licensed, they would, and then still it will take them up to six weeks to update the reocrds and send my license in the mail. In fact when inpectors come to the shop you merely have to have your cancelled check(which the do very quickly) or online receipt, because they also are aware of the lag. If I were not already licensed they would have sent me my test date, not a remewal notice. Same thing. Danny's attorney did the search yesterday and it wasn't updated. Licennsing agencies seldom move quickly. I am almost sure the judge knew pretty much that it would be taken care of by the next date in six or so weeks. If I call the agnecy on the date my check clears and several there after I will find my license still not updated, but they will have the money in their hands. Same thing. I keep saying this. They keep sending you here to post this stuff because they are aware that you have absolutely no understanding of these things, and will just post as you are instructed. Leaving you to take the heat from those who know better than to buy this junk.

Just one thing.........this here statement is killing me........:

> QUOTE
>
> And Why would I go by what Gailon says? He wasn't there.

....Now you came yere yesterday giving the blow by blow with nary court record to be found. We were supposed to believe you? You did not get the information you first posted from court documents. You werent' there so it wasn't first hand. You even posted that information like it was the only thing the judge said to anybody that day. Just like he asked Laird about his license, and let everyone go. It wasn't until Bob's post that we found out ALL that went on in court. So now you are questioning GJ's crediblity when he sent information about in the proceedings in their entirety, and you basically presented part of the information, which has you lying by omission. Please don't try to tell me you really thought the judge only said that, because you were given the whole story, and just chose or were told to post that portion. So, once again it is not GJ credibility in question, but yours.

Posted by: runner4him Apr 26 2007, 12:09 PM

> QUOTE(Eirene @ Apr 25 2007, 09:45 PM)
>
> You know Bob, the accounts aren't really that different on the issues raised. In fact Aletheia was correct in everything she said. Fact, Laird did not have a valid license to practice in Il...Fact, he answered in the affirmative when ask if he did....Fact, he made excuses as to why he didn't have it yet....We know all this is true by the mere fact that the proceedings did not continue and the judge told Linda to get a licensed attorney.
> Of course what you failed to mention is that DS's attorney ask for the whole thing to be thrown out since he wasn't licensed but the Judge said that wouldn't be fair to Mrs. Shelton as he was assuming that she thought she did have one.
> So Bob, what's not true?
> You would be surprised.....

We would be surprised?? Why?? Why don't you just say if you were there or not? It would not be a problem for any of us to know that you were there. We know which side you would be sitting on by the nature of your posts here.

Posted by: Fran Apr 26 2007, 12:14 PM

> QUOTE(Aletheia @ Apr 26 2007, 10:59 AM)
>
> Here's the real scoop:
>
> You clearly don't understand what you are posting here. Not without paying he hasn't been an Inactive member. Anyway it's not them he has to worry about:
> Here's the scoop according to Attorney Registration and Disciplinary Commission:
>
> No, the case can not proceed when Linda's Lawyer is not authorized to practice law..

> The case could not proceed when Linda's Lawyer is not authorized to practice law, which is why Danny's Lawyer brought a Motion to strike, instead of the expected motion.
>
> Since they could not proceed ,the same exact hearing has been rescheduled for June 8th. Linda was told she needed to have a liscensed attorney before then.
> And Why would I go by what Gailon says? He wasn't there. And the Court records are much more accurate.
>
> Bob, with your and Gailon's spins attatched the stories ALWAYS appear different, and they always seem realistic to you. Are you sure you don't really mean you want me to go to court and then call and let him know what happened, so you can get your spin ready, since I'm so close and he's States away???
>
> But, no thank you. I do not wish to speak to Gailon, either now, or at any time that I can forsee...

Aletheia;

I made this post on ChristianForum.com yesterday. For some reason Tomatoe has not replied.

I will post it here for you.

> QUOTE
>
> Tomatoe;
>
> The Attorney renewed his licence in IL and paid the fees. The Truth of the matter lies in the fact that the processing of that payment had not been posted into the records.
>
> When lawyers move locations, there is no need to continue to pay fees for something you are not going to use. This is why he went in and took care of paperwork and payed those fees prior to the court date.
>
> 3ABN, of all people, should understand when management/employees do not process income in a timely manner or they just post other people's money into 3ABN income instead of forwarding it to the other Independent Ministries.
>
> It is clear the courts must have a huge backlog and just had not posted the Lawyers payment as yet. For you to imply stupidity of the lawyer is not a becoming thing to do, is it?
>
> In fact, Court Documents, the IL vs. 3ABN Property Tax Lawsuit, and Federally filed Form 990 Documents, clearly call 3ABN on this very problem within 3ABN.
>
> 3ABN did not post $2.45 MILLION Dollars in TRUST FUNDS in 2001. They also mis-posted over $14,000 of money meant to be forwarded to other Independent Ministries. The funds went straight into the 3ABN coffers. I still wonder what Ministries did not get their money.
>
> As if that was not a problem, in 2002, there was $1.7 MILLION dollars in TRUST FUNDS that were not posted.
>
> This reminds me of the story in the Bible about the man that owed a very large sum of money to his Master.
>
> He could not pay and begged mercy; it was granted. However, he proceeded to hunt down those that had money owed to him. He did not show any mercy at all that owed him money.
>
> When his master heard this he took action. Do you remember that action?
>
> I believe this is a situation that ANY lawyer could find themselves in on any given day in IL Courts. The problem was not the lawyers problem, It was the courts problem, because he fulfilled his part of the agreement by doing all the paperwork and paying his $500.00 fee. It was the clerks failure to process that payment in a timely manner.

> When you come here and create impressions that are false, it decreases your credibility. Think about it.

Posted by: Fran Apr 26 2007, 09:41 PM

> QUOTE(Fran @ Apr 26 2007, 12:14 PM)
>
> Aletheia;
>
> I made this post on ChristianForum.com yesterday. For some reason Tomatoe has not replied.
>
> I will post it here for you.

hought I would bump this to make sure the right people read it. BUMP.

Posted by: Eirene Apr 26 2007, 10:07 PM

> QUOTE(Observer @ Apr 26 2007, 09:24 AM)
>
> As an attorney, he would not attempt to "get by" with it. He could expect that the court would enquire an answer of him.
>
> As I see it, he had paid the required fees to again practice. What he did not realize is that the records had not been updated so they reflected that he had not paid them, when he had.
>
> This seems to me to be an administrative matter.
>
> As an example: The day my teen-age son passed his driver's examination, he became licensed to drive in this State. However, it was a week or two before his actual license came in the mail that authorized him to drive. If he had been stopped by the police, he would have been licensed to drive, but not in possession of the actual license.
>
> The attorney was authorized to practice law in IL. But, as the records had not beeen updated, the paper submitted to the judge by the other side said otherwise.
>
> It should be noted that if the judge really thought that there was a problem, and that he was not authorized to practice law, the judge would have come down on him with a sledge hammer. The judge did not. The issue was not considered to be a big one by the judge.

f your whole scenerio was accurate then at the very least he would be guilty of stupidity. I would think any ompetant lawyer would have checked the status of the activation before driving from Mass to Southern IL

Posted by: Fran Apr 26 2007, 11:58 PM

> QUOTE(Eirene @ Apr 26 2007, 10:07 PM)
>
> If your whole scenario was accurate then at the very least he would be guilty of stupidity. I would think any competent lawyer would have checked the status of the activation before driving from Mass to Southern IL

Eirene;

If your scenario is correct, then the same stupidity and incompetency must apply to the Trust Fund Donors of 3ABN and donors that give to other ministries through 3ABN.

Let's compare the circumstances.

1. The lawyer sends in $500 to renew his license ahead of time and I am sure he received a receipt. I'll bet the Clerk had even made a deposit and the check had probably cleared his bank account. Now why would he not expect that all was complete?

2. Now consider the stupid, incompetent, donors that gave to 3ABN through Trust Funds. The gave their money or property; I am sure the checks got cashed and cleared the donors bank account. Why would donors go and check to make sure the donations were posted when they received a piece of paper telling them all was well. Yet, after auditors checked, low and behold, $2.45 Million Dollars was NOT posted. Why were these donors so stupid as to not even check?

3. Now consider the stupid, incompetent, donors that gave to other ministries through 3ABN, and received their cleared check from the bank and receive a very pretty receipt in the mail. Why on earth would they not think the money went to the ministry they requested it be sent to? Instead it WAS posted, but to the 3ABN account and added to the 3ABN Income?

I believe each person above that paid/donated their money, accepted by faith from their receipt, that all was well and complete. It just goes to show how many people have had their faith misplaced by deceiving paperwork and people. I ask you, just who is the stupid one here? Was it the one that gave $500.00 or those that gave $2.45 Million Dollars? This should be a real no brain-er. It is the one that DID NOT POST ANY OF THE ABOVE.

Goodness, this was in 2001! Shall we review 2002? We can, you know. What was that $1.7+Million Dollars not posted. Trust Funds again. There really must be a long learning curve for 3ABN, like maybe 20 years or however long they have been doing trust funds.

Since the checks were cleared, what bank account was used? At the end of each month all of the bank accounts are to be reconciled. They should be caught in the month they were received! Maybe I am wrong and 3ABN just doesn't bother to reconcile their bank accounts? Why did it take 1 year or more to find them not posted.

If you doubt my truth, I will be more than happy to give you a link to the IL vs. 3ABN Property Tax Lawsuit and the yearly Internal Revenue Form 990's; then you to can decide for yourself who is stupid and incompetent. That is not for me to say.

Posted by: PrincessDrRe Apr 27 2007, 06:26 AM

> QUOTE(Aletheia @ Apr 25 2007, 11:33 AM)
>
> To contest a divorce all you have to do is say I don't want a divorce and refuse to sign, or disagree on even "one" issue, and it becomes a contested divorce.
> Regardless of which one files, a uncontested divorce is where both parties agree beforehand to be divorced > and on all terms and the judge merely validates their agreement.

t takes more than this to "contest" a divorce. Been there...had it done to me....trust - it takes a bit more han this....

> QUOTE(Eirene @ Apr 25 2007, 11:51 AM)
>
> Grith, Let me clarify some things:
> 1. Danny did not go to guam to get the divorce. All the paperwork was sent there.
> 2. Linda of course could have contested the divorce and it would have went no farther, as far as down that avenue.
> 3. It took minimal time for the divorce to be legal. What you refer to is months down the road Linda decided to try challenge the legalities of the divorce that she had agreed to get. There were several reasons for this, but one major reason was because if she could somehow find a loophole for the guam divorce to be declared invalid, then she would be entitled to half of DS's income for the months between the guam divorce and when she decided to contest the legalities and it is my understanding she was also going to go after even more of the marital assets than she had already been given. If she would have been succesful in her quest, it would have been like starting all over with a clean slate and I would guess she was going after more than her share, which she had already received. So the Guam divorce was legal and binding all along and no one challenged it except, her, later down the road. DS's attorney new it was legal from the day of the divorce decree. So when people say they weren't actually divorced until 6 or8 months later, that would be a lie. Just because she chose to challenge it as invalid didn't make it invalid. And in fact, she lost the case as there was no legal cause to challenge it in the first place.

#1 - If I get soup from China, and it is mailed to me. I got the soup from China. I may not be in China...but ionetheless the soup came from China.

f the divorce papers were sent to Guam, he got the divorce in Guam. Whether he just sent them there or vent there it is a Guam divorce. Why not just do it over here? Then again....you probably know why...... Splitting hairs comes from the exact same type of people that would say that if a child "enjoys" sex then they :annot be molested.... (I know off but at the same time dead on point!)

#2 - She didn't "lose" the case per se - she moreso "gave up"..... Linda has spoke on this in depth on her vebsite....

> QUOTE(princessdi @ Apr 25 2007, 05:38 PM)
>
> It meshes fine if you comprehend what is being said. In 2004, Danny UPS'ed(Ijes" made that up) him a quickie divorce in Guam and thought he could marry Brandy(which is also problmatic in itself but for another discussion,). and his trouble were over, but once Linda contested that divorce it was not valid until a judge ruled it so. He was gloating about Brandy in 2004, until he got the court papers.

#3 - He was gloating - whether he was braggin in Linda's face or was seen "holding her hand".....folks know he real deal.

Ne can spin, spin, spin - and in the end you will be dizzy....but eventually the truth will come out ıfter all....

Posted by: Observer Apr 27 2007, 07:52 AM

> QUOTE
>
> Regardless of which one files, a uncontested divorce is where both parties agree beforehand to be divorced and on all terms and the judge merely validates their agreement.

That is true as far as it goes.

But, divorce decrees may be limited in their scopel. Divorce decrees often do not resolve all of the issues associated with a divorce decree. A divorce decree, on its face has the main focus on the declaration that the marriage no longer exists.

Sometimes, a divorce decree will not deal with certain issues due to law. That is often the case of people who obtain the divorce decree outside of the United States. When this happepns, the decree may be very limited, and the pepople may have to go back into a U.S. court to settle certain unresolved issues. In some cases that is due to the law of the place in which the decree is obtained, and that law has limited the authority of that court to issue judgements in certain aspects of the decree. In other cases it may be due to the fact that U.S. law will allow the divorce decree to be recognized as valid in the U.S. but does not allow other associated aspects to be decided by that other court.

To be very clear: The Sheltons obtained the divorce in Guam under conditions where that court was not able to, and did not, decide certain issues associated with the marital breakup. Buth the Sheltons either knew, or should have been informed by their legal counsel that those unresolved issues would have to be decided by a U.S. court.

Sometimes those restrictions are stated as a specific part of the judicial decree. As many of you knowk, I am divorced, and remarried. My divorce decree specificly stated that certain aspects of the divorce could not be decided by the court, and they would have to be seperately litigated. At a later time we did just that.

On the other hand, the decree may not specificly state such restrictsions. In that case the future litigation is based upon the law, and the fact the the decree did not preclude such future litigation.

The present llitigation in regard to the settlement of the the issues is based both upon the law, and that fact that the Guam decree did not preclude such litigation.

What is placed in the written judicial decrees is often the result of attorney experience. In my divorce, I was represented by an attorney who specialized in family law. My ex-wife chose a licensed attorney who was in general practice, and fresh out of law school. My attorney insisted in the paragraph being placed in the decree that stated certain issues were not decided, and would have to be litigated at another time, because he did not want my ex-wife to be able to say she did not know.

Perhaps it would have been better if the divorce obtained by the Sheltons had included such a paragraph. It did not. The present litigation is going forward as the decree did not preclude it, and the law, which did not allow the court to make an independent judgement in these matter that the U.S. courts would recognize, under the conditions that the Sheltons obtained the divorce.

Could the conditions have been changed? Probably so? But, that did not happen.

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Apr 27 2007, 09:36 AM

Gregory,
Clear and thought-provoking statement.

PB

Posted by: Johann Apr 27 2007, 11:38 AM

> QUOTE(PrincessDrRe @ Apr 27 2007, 02:26 PM)
>
> - - --
>
> #3 - He was gloating - whether he was braggin in Linda's face or was seen "holding her hand".....folks know the real deal.
>
> We can spin, spin, spin - and in the end you will be dizzy....but eventually the truth will come out after all....

This gloating was something that happened a long time ago. Despite what his defenders are telling us about what happened yesterday, I understand he wasn't gloating them. Linda tells me she tried repeatedly to get his attention, but he never looked her straight in the face. What could be the reason he never dared looking into her eyes? If he did, she did not notice it.

In stead they try to get our attention by downgrading a lawyer who reminds certain people of Albert Einstein, and a man who is kind and concerned, who will work without a pause for justice and fairness. It has been said there are not too many of that kind within the legal system.

Posted by: Daryl Fawcett Apr 27 2007, 04:40 PM

I would have thought Danny would have been gloating, especially where his lawyer successfully shut things down, but wasn't able to shut it down completely, but only delay it until they appear before the judge again in June.

Posted by: Shiny Penny May 3 2007, 12:59 PM

> QUOTE(Fran @ Apr 26 2007, 10:14 AM)
>
> 3ABN did not post $2.45 MILLION Dollars in TRUST FUNDS in 2001. They also mis-posted over $14,000 of money meant to be forwarded to other Independent Ministries. The funds went straight into the 3ABN coffers. I still wonder what Ministries did not get their money.
>
> As if that was not a problem, in 2002, there was $1.7 MILLION dollars in TRUST FUNDS that were not posted.

Can you please let me know (or point me to where I can find) more details about these statements?

NEXT QUESTION: What is this litigation ("Linda's Litigation") about - ie the details of what is particular is being litigated? Can anyone post court documents? I would appreciate it. Thanks.

Posted by: Observer May 3 2007, 01:10 PM

> QUOTE(Shiny Penny @ May 3 2007, 11:59 AM)
>
> Can you please let me know (or point me to where I can find) more details about these statements?

> NEXT QUESTION: What is this litigation ("Linda's Litigation") about - ie the details of what is particular is being litigated? Can anyone post court documents? I would appreciate it. Thanks.

.inda's Litigation:

n short the details are not available at this time. However, I can assume that any final ruling of the court will ›romptly be posted by someone.

'he divorce that the Sheltons obtained in Guam did not resolve certain issues of marital property, and its livision. Those issues remained to be decided by a U. S. court. This litigation is intended to decide those ınresolved issues.

t is as simple as that.

Posted by: watchbird May 3 2007, 01:20 PM

> QUOTE(Shiny Penny @ May 3 2007, 02:53 PM)
>
> Can you please let me know (or point me to where I can find) more details about these statements?

'enny, there are three main ways to find material that has been posted on BSDA... besides the long route of ɪoing back to the beginning page and reading your way through all of the threads.

.) The pinned materials at the top. The one entitled "The Unauthorized 3abn History Threads: all 10 chapters inked here..." consists of two posts. The first one consists of links to the beginning of each of the 10 :hapters. The second post is a guide in table-of-contents fashion to the most significant posts in those 10 :hapters. "Table-of-contents fashion" means that it is the order in which they come in the threads... and also neans that there is a one sentence description of the specific post to which you can go directly to by clicking ›n the urls given. By reading straight through this "guide" you can see the scope of the mateirial and can ɪuickly find posts that have to do with different topics, such as financial matters. Once you click on a link, you vill be live in the thread where it is, so you can read the discussion around that post... or you can return to he "guide" and continue to the next item of your choice.

!) By using the search engine of BSDA. Choose "Search" on the top line menu, enter your search criteria, and :hange one default parameter... the one which says "Show results as topics", to one which says "Show results ıs posts".

‹) By clicking on the name of a member whose messages you want to view, you will be taken to their profile.)nce there you may click on "Profile Options", then on "Find Member's Posts". This will give you all of the ›osts by that member since they have joined BSDA. Thus if Fran mentions something she has posted, this nay be the quickest way to find the item to which she refers.

;enerally speaking the posts which have given the most information come during the first 6 months after)anny's remarriage. Posts after fall of last year tend to have a larger percent of criticism from one side about he postings of the other than they do of additional facts. Though it is certainly true that there has been a lot ›f additional information brought for the first time to the boards since that time.

hope this helps.

Posted by: Shiny Penny May 3 2007, 02:01 PM

> QUOTE(Observer @ May 3 2007, 12:10 PM) ☐
>
> Linda's Litigation:
>
> In short the details are not available at this time. However, I can assume that any final ruling of the court will promptly be posted by someone.
>
> The divorce that the Sheltons obtained in Guam did not resolve certain issues of marital property, and its division. Those issues remained to be decided by a U. S. court. This litigation is intended to decide those unresolved issues.
>
> It is as simple as that.

Thanks for the statement. But why are the details of this litigation not available? It would be helpful, if they were available for us to see. Or are the contents sealed?

Can you please enumerate the issues, in detail, that were not addressed in the Guam divorce?

Always good to know/see the facts.

Posted by: princessdi May 3 2007, 02:23 PM

Because they have had only one date before the judge and Linda's lawyer's license had not been updated, as of yet, and the deposisitons had not been taken, etc. they have another date on June 8. IOW, it is just getting started there is nothing to tell.

Posted by: Observer May 3 2007, 02:37 PM

> QUOTE(Shiny Penny @ May 3 2007, 02:01 PM) ☐
>
> Thanks for the statement. But why are the details of this litigation not available? It would be helpful, if they were available for us to see. Or are the contents sealed?
>
> Can you please enumerate the issues, in detail, that were not addressed in the Guam divorce?
>
> Always good to know/see the facts.

At this stage of the litigation, the courts do not generally post the documents in a manner where they can be viewed by the public. Once the issues are settled, they may be made available.

As to enumerating the issues, The issue is to determine and devide the marital property that has not yet been divided. That is the issue.

Posted by: Shiny Penny May 3 2007, 02:50 PM

> QUOTE(princessdi @ May 3 2007, 01:23 PM)
>
> Because they have had only one date before the judge and Linda's lawyer's license had not been updated, as of yet, and the deposisitons had not been taken, etc. they have another date on June 8. IOW, it is just getting started there is nothing to tell.

Well, there must be some paperwork that has been submitted to the court that can be submitted here as well for us to scrutinize.

Enquiring minds want to know and to know now!

> QUOTE(Observer @ May 3 2007, 01:37 PM)
>
> At this stage of the litigation, the courts do not generally post the documents in a manner where they can be viewed by the public. Once the issues are settled, they may be made available.
>
> As to enumerating the issues, The issue is to determine and devide the marital property that has not yet been divided. That is the issue.

Yes, but what property are we talking about? House, car, stocks, bonds, gold, silver -- can anyone be specific?

Posted by: Observer May 3 2007, 04:38 PM

> QUOTE(Shiny Penny @ May 3 2007, 01:50 PM)
>
> Well, there must be some paperwork that has been submitted to the court that can be submitted here as well for us to scrutinize.
>
> Enquiring minds want to know and to know now!
> Yes, but what property are we talking about? House, car, stocks, bonds, gold, silver -- can anyone be specific?

Later today, or early tomorrow, I will write a more involved answer to your question.

Posted by: Shiny Penny May 3 2007, 04:46 PM

> QUOTE(Observer @ May 3 2007, 02:38 PM)
>
> Later today, or early tomorrow, I will write a more involved answer to your question.

Thanks. I look forward to reading it, though I would be best satisfied with a copy of the actual court documents (I meant documents submitted to the court). It's good to know that you have access to these materials.

Posted by: YogusBearus May 3 2007, 05:12 PM

> QUOTE(Shiny Penny @ May 3 2007, 05:46 PM)
>
> Thanks. I look forward to reading it, though I would be best satisfied with a copy of the actual court documents. It's good to know that you have access to these materials.

Welcome to BSDA penny. I've noted with some amusement the volume of your posts as a newbie and the fact that each post is requesting someone to provide something you need, right now. I read the back threads here for many months before making my first post. You certainly don't need me as an example, but I might suggest you would be well served to do some extensive reading of at least the pinned threads before you make to many more demands for information.

Just a thought from a old bear.

Posted by: Shiny Penny May 3 2007, 06:26 PM

> QUOTE(YogusBearus @ May 3 2007, 03:12 PM)
>
> Welcome to BSDA penny. I've noted with some amusement the volume of your posts as a newbie and the fact that each post is requesting someone to provide something you need, right now. I read the back threads here for many months before making my first post. You certainly don't need me as an example, but I might suggest you would be well served to do some extensive reading of at least the pinned threads before you make to many more demands for information.
>
> Just a thought from a old bear.

Old bear - thanks for your suggestion. I am naturally inquisitive and have been an unregistered reader of this forum for some weeks before posting anything. Are my questions for information redundant - ie, are the answers already posted somewhere here? Have I said tell me "right now"? In the case of the divorce litigation I am surprised that no one asked for the court papers to be made available for our perusal. That's all. Shiny Penny

---

Posted by: princessdi May 3 2007, 06:39 PM

The litigation just started last week, and nothing ws really done. I dont' really believe there is anything to post at this point. I think it is as Obsrver says, when the trial is done then the records are made public.

Posted by: runner4him May 3 2007, 08:11 PM

> QUOTE(Shiny Penny @ May 3 2007, 06:26 PM)
>
> Old bear - thanks for your suggestion. I am naturally inquisitive and have been an unregistered reader of this forum for some weeks before posting anything. Are my questions for information redundant - ie, are the answers already posted somewhere here? Have I said tell me "right now"? In the case of the divorce litigation I am surprised that no one asked for the court papers to be made available for our perusal. That's all. Shiny Penny Penny Penny....from one Newbie to another.... a word of advice. Read, Read, and Read some more. Spend time going through all the postings here at blacksda like everyone has been telling you and then go to the www.save3abn.com site and read everything there. Amazing how much you will learn and it will be best for you to take the time to read and learn for yourself....better retained and you will have a really clear picture of what is going on. Beware...there are some clones around here and you can easily spot them after only being here a short time. So many questions without searching things for yourself...one begins to wonder...

Anyway welcome to a great forum where the climate is great and acceptance abounds!

Posted by: Chas May 3 2007, 11:16 PM

> QUOTE(watchbird @ May 3 2007, 01:20 PM)
>
> 1) The pinned materials at the top. The one entitled "The Unauthorized 3abn History Threads: all 10 chapters linked here..." consists of two posts. The first one consists of links to the beginning of each of the 10 chapters. The second post is a guide in table-of-contents fashion to the most significant posts in those 10 chapters. "Table-of-contents fashion" means that it is the order in which they come in the threads... and also means that there is a one sentence description of the specific post to which you can go directly to by clicking on the urls given. By reading straight through this "guide" you can see the scope of the mateirial and can quickly find posts that have to do with different topics, such as financial matters. Once you click on a link, you will be live in the thread where it is, so you can read the discussion around that post... or you can return to the "guide" and continue to the next item of your choice.
>
> 2) By using the search engine of BSDA. Choose "Search" on the top line menu, enter your search criteria, and change one default parameter... the one which says "Show results as topics", to one which says "Show results as posts".
>
> 3) By clicking on the name of a member whose messages you want to view, you will be taken to their profile. Once there you may click on "Profile Options", then on "Find Member's Posts". This will give you all of the posts by that member since they have joined BSDA. Thus if Fran mentions something she has posted, this may be the quickest way to find the item to which she refers.
>
> Generally speaking the posts which have given the most information come during the first 6 months after Danny's remarriage. Posts after fall of last year tend to have a larger percent of criticism from one side about the postings of the other than they do of additional facts. Though it is certainly true that there has been a lot of additional information brought for the first time to the boards since that time.
>
> I hope this helps.

Watchbird,

Thanks! You taught me several things I have wondered about.

CWS

Posted by: Whtz Happenin May 3 2007, 11:24 PM

> QUOTE(Shiny Penny @ May 3 2007, 08:26 PM)
>
> ...
> That's all. Shiny Penny

welc

Welcome Shiny Penny!

Posted by: Fran May 4 2007, 12:22 AM

> QUOTE(Shiny Penny @ May 3 2007, 01:59 PM) ☐
>
> Can you please let me know (or point me to where I can find) more details about these statements?
>
> NEXT QUESTION: What is this litigation ("Linda's Litigation") about - ie the details of what is particular is being litigated? Can anyone post court documents? I would appreciate it. Thanks.

http://www.revenue.state.il.us/legalinformation/hearings/pt/pt04-1.pdf

This is link to the IL vs. 3ABN Property Tax lawsuit. This comes from page 17. # 61.

> QUOTE
>
> 61. The Independent Auditor's Reports for 2000 and 2001 state:
>
> Dowlink equipment acquired by gift is not recorded in the financial statements. In our opinion, generally accepted accounting principles require that such donated property be recorded at its fair value at the date of receipt. It was not practicable to determine the effects of the unrecorded equipment on the financial statements,
>
> In connection with the recording of real estate revocable trusts, the fair values of the trusts were based on internal estimates performed by the organization. We were unable to obtain sufficient evidential matter in connection with the estimates of fair value.14 (Applicant's Ex. Nos. 14, & 15)

Then read the footnotes #14 & #15 at the bottom of page 17.

> QUOTE
>
> 14 The financial report for 2000 contains additional concerns found by the independent auditors.
>
> 15 Applicant's financial reports raise additional questions and concerns. For example, the unrecorded contribution revenue related to charitable gift annuity agreements were not recorded in conformance with generally accepted accounting principles. The "related party transactions" were acknowledged without identifying the parties. The notes refer to "split interest > agreements," where applicant received the assets funding the trusts and applicant is to pay certain amounts for specified periods of time to the donors. There is nothing in the record to identify the donors or the assets. None of the trust agreements were supplied.

> (Applicant's Ex. Nos. 14, 15)

http://www.save3abn.com/3abn-form-990s.htm

Choose the 2001 Form 990. An Adobe document will appear (All Documents cited here are in PDF format. Save them to your hard drive for future reference) Go to page 17 of this document.

Read Statement #2 . This is where the $ 2,451,034 in Trust Fund information is found. It also includes the $14,282.00 of other ministries money being posted to 3ABN Income. Also they had not declared $13,862 in gains on certain Marketable Securities. Oops.

Open the 2002 Form 990 and go to page 13 and read statement #2 again.

Trust Funds not posted in the amount of $ 1,708,918.00

The other entries are relevant too, but I need further information.

How do I know these numbers deal with Trust Funds? The auditors told us! Refer back to footnote 15 page 17 of the Lawsuit.

The auditor's answer that by telling us the Split Interest Agreements deal with Trust Funds. Just by reading the IRS Form 990's you can't tell what Split Interest Agreements are! However, the auditors informed us as to what it was.

The other concern is that 3ABN is not following Generally Accepted Accounting Practices, GAAP. This raised the eyes of the auditors, as it should have. It certainly raised mine!

A Corporation should have copies of every major accounting publication. Many are provided. The Journal of Accountancy covers new Accounting practices that keeps up with all of the new technologies that will affect Accounts and Accounting. It will also let you know about inportsnt publications. It also has lots of FASB's. (OK, so I am a sick woman!) An updated GAAP book is published every year.

Read these documents through different eyes. This Lawsuit is full of information that has NOTHING TO DO WITH PROPERTY TAX at all! Keep your eyes open. The auditors are probably talking about their findings!

Find how many times you read that the auditors were not provided information. Take note of those instances and ask yourself, "Why didn't they provide this requested information?"

Read the reports and ask your shelf, "Why?"

The information provided here comes from the IL vs. 3ABN Property Tax Lawsuit and the IRS Form 990's for 2001-2005.

The link to the lawsuit is at the beginning of this post.

The links to the Form 990's are at http://save3ABN.com

On the left column click the title Danny Shelton
Select Financial Allegations
Select Form 990's

This will get you to the IRS Form 990's. Remember, Documentation, Documentation, Documentation.

Posted by: Shiny Penny May 4 2007, 02:47 AM

> QUOTE(Fran @ May 3 2007, 10:22 PM)
>
> http://www.save3abn.com/3abn-form-990s.htm
>
> Choose the 2001 Form 990. An Adobe document will appear (All Documents cited here are in PDF format. Save them to your hard drive for future reference) Go to page 17 of this document.
>
> Read Statement #2 . This is where the $ 2,451,034 in Trust Fund information is found. It also includes the $14,282.00 of other ministries money being posted to 3ABN Income. Also they had not declared $13,862 in gains on certain Marketable Securities. Oops.
>
> ...
>
> The links to the Form 990's are at http://save3ABN.com
>
> On the left column click the title Danny Shelton
> Select Financial Allegations
> Select Form 990's
>
> This will get you to the IRS Form 990's. Remember, Documentation, Documentation, Documentation.

Fran, Wow! Thank you for taking the time to provide the links, details and interpretations of the data found. I'm writing a rather long, detailed and technical response, in part because your post was also detailed. I haven't had the chance to check all of what you sent me, but I did check the 2001 990. The auditor's concerns (as reported in the lawsuit documents) and what you had posted - gravely concerned, even alarmed, me. But, as I show below, there is no reason to be alarmed - at least not about the 990 in 2001.

The 990 states (and please correct me if I am wrong) - the information posted in Statement 2 (page 17):

> QUOTE
>
> Form 990, Part 1, Line 20
>
> Record split interest agreements previously unrecorded, $2,451,034
> Reclassification of amounts due to other ministries previously classified as temporarily restricted,

> ($14,282)
> Net unrealized gains on marketable securities, $13,862.

;o I went back to part 1, Line 20 and that line reads "Other changes in net assets or fund balances (attach :xplanation)" interpret this to mean that this 990 is correcting prior mistakes/errors and sometime in 2001 3ABN had ecorded the previously unrecorded split interest agreements and also recorded the unrealized gains on narketable securities. To go into a little more detail on the unrealized gains - these gains were described as ınrealized. Meaning that the end of year value of the securities was greater than the beginning of year ʼalue, but the marketable securities had not been sold during the year - hence the gain is unrealized. This is ı paper gain that should have been recorded in an earlier year (2000?), but had not been. It seems to me hat you are familiar with accounting and so would know that prior period adjustments (such as this ınrealized gain) are made directly to retained earnings in the case of a corporation and in the case of not for ɔrofit organization would be an adjustment to the fund balance. Which is exactly what 3ABN did. Therefore, I ım relieved to see that 3ABN had made the correction to the prior periods error!

\bout the amounts due to other ministries, according to the the 990 these amounts had previously been :lassified as temporarily restricted and were now being reclassified to something else. I didn't see what they vere being classified to, but since this amount is in parenthesis (meaning it is being subtracted) would ndicate that in this correction 3ABN was removing that amount from its fund balance. To get a bit technical ıere (and probably lose the rest of the readers who would have gotten even this far in my post) we know that he debit was to some restricted account (I assume restricted cash) and was improperly credited to some ıccount (such as donations or something similar) that increased the fund balance. I supposed that this is an :asy enough mistake to make and part of the reason books are audited - to find material errors and nisstatements. Anyway, the good news is the auditors caught the mistake and that 3ABN made the :orrection in 2001 as is reported in the 990.

ʼhese are perfectly good explanations for what happened. You are correct when you said "3ABN did not post ;2.45 MILLION Dollars in TRUST FUNDS in 2001." Well at least partly correct, the year would have been 2000 ɔr earlier. The 990 shows that they corrected this in 2001.

3ut when you say "They also mis-posted over $14,000 of money meant to be forwarded to other Independent ʼlinistries. The funds went straight into the 3ABN coffers. I still wonder what Ministries did not get their noney" I beg to differ. Truth be said, of course the money went straight into 3ABN's coffers. It was sent to 3ABN and would go into their coffers before going out of the 3ABN coffers into another ministry's coffers. We lon't have any indication that any ministry did not get its money in 2000 - we only know that 3ABN did not ecord the receipt of the cash properly. In other words, we know that 3ABN made a mistake with the ıccounting when the cash came into the coffers. This tells us nothing about any transaction transferring the noney out of the coffers. And again the 990 tells us that in 2001 3ABN made the correction to its books.

'll have to take the time to investigate the other points you brought up, to see if 3ABN is correcting mistakes, ɔr just making them and leaving them be. But so far the verdict is the 3ABN is making the corrections.

3od bless.

3hiney Penny (now starting to follow the money around)

Posted by: Observer May 4 2007, 04:54 AM

> QUOTE(Shiny Penny @ May 3 2007, 03:46 PM)
>
> Thanks. I look forward to reading it, though I would be best satisfied with a copy of the actual court documents (I meant documents submitted to the court). It's good to know that you have access to these materials.

Questions have been asked in regard to Linda's litigation to divide the marital property. So, I thought that I would respond to these questions.

There are several parts to getting a divorce. The first part involves dissolving the marriage. The second part may be to determine custody issues if minor children are involved. The third part may be to determine the divisible marital assets and to divide them, and the forth part may be to determine what marital payments should be made, how much, and to whom. In general terms people who obtain divorces in these courts often find the those courts lack the jurisdiction to deal with all of the above issues. In some cases the court will only be able to dissolve the marriage, and all other aspects will have to be decided in further litigation.

In lawsuit to divide the marital assets there are two issues that the court faces. The first is to determine the divisible marital assets, and the second is to divide them. Under U.S. law, it is essential for there to be a determination of what the divisible marital assets are. As part of the divorce the court is expected to determine those divisible marital assets. It is not enough for the parties to a divorce to state that they have agreed to divide them. Such a statement only lays the groundwork for one of the parties to come back at a later time and ask for a division of some newly discovered asset.

One possible marital asset which much be dwelt with is retirement benefits. Many people living in the U. S. are covered by laws that declare that future retirement assets are a divisible marital asset. If the divorce decree does not deal with future retirement benefits, one or both parties may claim that they never agreed on that asset. I do not mention retirement assets because I think that they are an issue. I do not know the laws of IL, and therefore I do not know if future retirement benefits are a divisible marital asset.

Another important issue is whether either party has an undisclosed financial interest. A common ploy will be for one party to establish an individual bank account. If this is not disclosed to the other party, that party may come back to court to claim that they did not waive any rights to that account.

These issues are very serious. A charge of failing to disclose potential marital assets can even result in a criminal prosecution. I am personally aware of an individual who potentially faced such.

There is nothing in the Shelton divorce decree that indicates, in a manner acceptable to a U.S. court that the court in Guam attempted to determine the divisible marital assets. That is understandable as the Shelton's obtained a divorce in which they were informed that they would have to have the marital assets determined and divided in a U. S. court.

That is exactly where the Shelton's are today. Linda has filed a petition with a U.S. court for the divisible marital assets to be determined and divided. At this point there are no great legal documents to be made public. The court will typically not change what has already been done. Let us say that the parties to the divorce had decided that the wife will obtain ownership of an automobile. The court is unlikely to change that. The issues will be with any marital assets on which there is no agreement. So, if the court determines that Danny and Linda are entitled to a portion of the other's future retirement assets, the court will determine how they shall be divided.

NOTE: Determination of retirement assets is generally a result of several factors. If the court were to determine that at the time of the divorce Danny and Linda each had exactly the same retirement entitlement, it would likely award Danny a greater share of Linda's retirement package than what it awarded Linda from Danny's package.

At this point in time, there is really nothing to share with the public. The court has simply been asked to determine what assets are marital, and therefore divisible. As part of this process, both Danny and Linda will be required to disclose such things as their bank accounts at the time of the divorce, and any other financial interests that they might have. I personally expect that the court will not change anything that has already been disclosed to the other, and divided. Retirement benefits are a possible exception to this. And they may not be an exception.

The court is not going to release to the general public the personal information that come out in this disclosure process. Let us say that it is discovered that at the time of the divorce Danny had a bank account which held $5,281.23. Let us say that Linda had an account that held $5,282.33. The court is not going to release such personal information to the public. It is not going to release a lot more personal information that comes out in this litigation. It will declare that such is personal, and that the public does not have the right to know. The final decree may or may not be released to the public by the court. That remains to be seen. There are circumstances where some information will come out which will be finally released to the public. But, until then the public will simply have to wait and see.

Folks, there are areas of legal practice where the court will clearly rule that documents are not available for public view. Family matters are one such area.

Posted by: Observer May 4 2007, 05:49 AM

http://www.judici.com/courts/cases/case_information.jsp?court=IL028015J&ocl=IL028015J,2005D30,IL028015JL2005D30D1

For any of you who wish to access all public records in this case, go to the above link.

NOTE: It is the court that decides what to make public. In family matters, the court is more conservative than in other matters. But, there you have it. Go to that link, and read at will.

You will note from going to that site, that the documents are not impounded. The court has simply not posted them for the public record. That is a common practice.

SP, you may be able to obtain them. You can contact the clerk of that court, and request copies. That might be one way. You can also contact either LInda's or Danny's attorney and request that they send you copies. That might be another way. Or, you can hire your own attorney to obtain them.

Go for it. If they are that important to you, spend the time, effort and money to obtain them.

Posted by: Observer May 4 2007, 08:02 AM

> QUOTE(Observer @ May 4 2007, 05:49 AM)
>
> http://www.judici.com/courts/cases/case_information.jsp?court=IL028015J&ocl=IL028015J,2005D30,IL028015JL2005D30D1
> For any of you who wish to access all public records in this case, go to the above link.
>
> NOTE: It is the court that decides what to make public. In family matters, the court is more conservative than in other matters. But, there you have it. Go to that link, and read at will.
> You will note from going to that site, that the documents are not impounded. The court has simply not posted them for the public record. That is a common practice.
>
> SP, you may be able to obtain them. You can contact the clerk of that court, and request copies. That might be one way. You can also contact either LInda's or Danny's attorney and request that they send you copies. That might be another way. Or, you can hire your own attorney to obtain them.
>
> Go for it. If they are that important to you, spend the time, effort and money to obtain them.

GREED with capital letters is often at the basis of litigation. People in their litigation often take one of the following approaches:

1) Give the other party everything that the law entitles them to have, but nothing more.

2) Make them fight for everything, and yield nothing without a fight.

Those who take the first approach will typically have lower legal expenses. In addition they reduce the likelihood of future litigation. In a sense, by giving all that the law requires, they end up with an iron-clad legal ruling.

Those who take the second approach generate more billable hours in initial legal expenses. In addition, they make it more likely that there will be future litigation.

In the case involving the division of marital property, in the name of GREED, one party will typically decide not to disclose specific property on the basis that it is not marital property.

e.g. Aunt Sue gives John $5,000. John knows that his marriage is in trouble. So, he places that $5,000 in an individual bank account, and John does not declare that account to the court.

Or:

John wins the lottery. He takes the proceeds as an annual payment over the next 30 years, and does not declare that financial interest to the court.

In the first case, the court might very well agree that the $5,000 was not divisible marital property. It therefore might give it all to John. On the other hand, it might divide the future lottery winnings with Mary. In both cases, it is not the right of John to decide what is and what is not divisible marital property. That is the function of the court. John's responsibility is to fully disclose and allow the court to do its work.

The common expectation of the court is that one can not waive a right of which they have not been informed. On the basis the Mary was not informed of either the lottery winnings, or the $5,000, the court would likely open up case for further consideration of the division of the marital property.

In these examples, GREED was the ruling factor that in the end resulted in future litigation and more billable attorney fees.

Posted by: Daryl Fawcett May 4 2007, 08:27 AM

Why are you wanting to know such minute details?

Posted by: runner4him May 4 2007, 09:07 AM

> QUOTE(Observer @ May 4 2007, 05:49 AM)
>
> http://www.judici.com/courts/cases/case_information.jsp?court=IL028015J&ocl=IL028015J,2005D30,IL028015JL2005D30D1
> For any of you who wish to access all public records in this case, go to the above link.
>
> NOTE: It is the court that decides what to make public. In family matters, the court is more conservative than in other matters. But, there you have it. Go to that link, and read at will.
> You will note from going to that site, that the documents are not impounded. The court has simply not posted them for the public record. That is a common practice.
>
> SP, you may be able to obtain them. You can contact the clerk of that court, and request copies. That might be one way. You can also contact either LInda's or Danny's attorney and request that they send you copies. That might be another way. Or, you can hire your own attorney to obtain them.
>
> Go for it. If they are that important to you, spend the time, effort and money to obtain them.

You are so right. In most if not all states you can go to any court to request copies of anything with no questions asked and in some counties you can view online quite a bit of information regarding criminal, civil, or domestic matters. It can be very helpful in sorting out the details.

> QUOTE(Daryl Fawcett @ May 4 2007, 08:27 AM)
>
> Why are you wanting to know such minute details?

Just wondering who you are referring to....who seems to need minute details....I have a thought but wondered what you were thinking?

Posted by: calvin May 4 2007, 09:23 AM

> QUOTE(Daryl Fawcett @ May 4 2007, 09:27 AM)
>
> Why are you wanting to know such minute details?

Daryl, I would ask the same question too. Just seems unseemly that folks want to dwell on the details of their divorce settlement and proceedings. Divorces are often messy, with a lot of anger and hard feeling involved. Not to mention a very stressful time in one's lives. People may say and do things that our out of character of them during this time as they relate to one another. I have never been through one personally but been a witness to them, including my parents as a early age.

I don't behoove Linda for fighting for what she believes in rightly hers. Just think it is nobodies business but theirs.

Posted by: LaurenceD May 4 2007, 09:44 AM

I wonder if 3abn uses a cash-base or accrual-base accounting system. That would make a difference in the numbers for reporting.

Posted by: SoulEspresso May 4 2007, 10:30 AM

Well, aside from the 990s, this board hasn't really delved into the minutae of the financial dealings of 3ABN. Those are entwined with the divorce proceedings because it looks like Danny made a killing on 10 Commandments Twice Removed and didn't report it. Shiny Penny has more guts than I do to tackle it. Maybe we'll learn something new.

Posted by: calvin May 4 2007, 12:01 PM

> QUOTE(Shiny Penny @ May 4 2007, 03:47 AM)
>
> Fran, Wow! Thank you for taking the time to provide the links, details and interpretations of the data found. I'm writing a rather long, detailed and technical response, in part because your post was also detailed. I haven't had the chance to check all of what you sent me, but I did check the 2001 990. The auditor's concerns (as reported in the lawsuit documents) and what you had posted - gravely concerned, even alarmed, me. But, as I show below, there is no reason to be alarmed - at least not about the 990 in 2001.
>
> The 990 states (and please correct me if I am wrong) - the information posted in Statement 2 (page 17):

> So I went back to part 1, Line 20 and that line reads "Other changes in net assets or fund balances (attach explanation)"
>
> I interpret this to mean that this 990 is correcting prior mistakes/errors and sometime in 2001 3ABN had recorded the previously unrecorded split interest agreements and also recorded the unrealized gains on marketable securities. To go into a little more detail on the unrealized gains - these gains were described as unrealized. Meaning that the end of year value of the securities was greater than the beginning of year value, but the marketable securities had not been sold during the year - hence the gain is unrealized. This is a paper gain that should have been recorded in an earlier year (2000?), but had not been. It seems to me that you are familiar with accounting and so would know that prior period adjustments (such as this unrealized gain) are made directly to retained earnings in the case of a corporation and in the case of not for profit organization would be an adjustment to the fund balance. Which is exactly what 3ABN did. Therefore, I am relieved to see that 3ABN had made the correction to the prior periods error!
>
> About the amounts due to other ministries, according to the the 990 these amounts had previously been classified as temporarily restricted and were now being reclassified to something else. I didn't see what they were being classified to, but since this amount is in parenthesis (meaning it is being subtracted) would indicate that in this correction 3ABN was removing that amount from its fund balance. To get a bit technical here (and probably lose the rest of the readers who would have gotten even this far in my post) we know that the debit was to some restricted account (I assume restricted cash) and was improperly credited to some account (such as donations or something similar) that increased the fund balance. I supposed that this is an easy enough mistake to make and part of the reason books are audited - to find material errors and misstatements. Anyway, the good news is the auditors caught the mistake and that 3ABN made the correction in 2001 as is reported in the 990.
>
> These are perfectly good explanations for what happened. You are correct when you said "3ABN did not post $2.45 MILLION Dollars in TRUST FUNDS in 2001." Well at least partly correct, the year would have been 2000 or earlier. The 990 shows that they corrected this in 2001.
>
> But when you say "They also mis-posted over $14,000 of money meant to be forwarded to other Independent Ministries. The funds went straight into the 3ABN coffers. I still wonder what Ministries did not get their money" I beg to differ. Truth be said, of course the money went straight into 3ABN's coffers. It was sent to 3ABN and would go into their coffers before going out of the 3ABN coffers into another ministry's coffers. We don't have any indication that any ministry did not get its money in 2000 - we only know that 3ABN did not record the receipt of the cash properly. In other words, we know that 3ABN made a mistake with the accounting when the cash came into the coffers. This tells us nothing about any transaction transferring the money out of the coffers. And again the 990 tells us that in 2001 3ABN made the correction to its books.
>
> I'll have to take the time to investigate the other points you brought up, to see if 3ABN is correcting mistakes, or just making them and leaving them be. But so far the verdict is the 3ABN is making the corrections.
>
> God bless.
>
> Shiney Penny (now starting to follow the money around)

t appears 3abn got a little sloppy with their bookkeeping five years ago by mis-classifying some transactions nd underreporting an unrealized gain. As you said Shiny Penny these are accounting errors or mistakes and nost likely would not be considered gross negligence or fraud. Not sure what the $14K is about, maybe is a nisappropriate of funds but even at that according to GAAP, would not be considered material to a $14MM in ontributions organization. I don't see much here...and this was 5 years ago.

> QUOTE(SoulEspresso @ May 4 2007, 11:30 AM)
>
> Well, aside from the 990s, this board hasn't really delved into the minutae of the financial dealings of 3ABN. Those are entwined with the divorce proceedings because it looks like Danny made a killing on 10 Commandments Twice Removed and didn't report it. Shiny Penny has more guts than I do to tackle it. Maybe we'll learn something new.

> So I went back to part 1, Line 20 and that line reads "Other changes in net assets or fund balances (attach explanation)"
>
> I interpret this to mean that this 990 is correcting prior mistakes/errors and sometime in 2001 3ABN had recorded the previously unrecorded split interest agreements and also recorded the unrealized gains on marketable securities. To go into a little more detail on the unrealized gains - these gains were described as unrealized. Meaning that the end of year value of the securities was greater than the beginning of year value, but the marketable securities had not been sold during the year - hence the gain is unrealized. This is a paper gain that should have been recorded in an earlier year (2000?), but had not been. It seems to me that you are familiar with accounting and so would know that prior period adjustments (such as this unrealized gain) are made directly to retained earnings in the case of a corporation and in the case of not for profit organization would be an adjustment to the fund balance. Which is exactly what 3ABN did. Therefore, I am relieved to see that 3ABN had made the correction to the prior periods error!
>
> About the amounts due to other ministries, according to the the 990 these amounts had previously been classified as temporarily restricted and were now being reclassified to something else. I didn't see what they were being classified to, but since this amount is in parenthesis (meaning it is being subtracted) would indicate that in this correction 3ABN was removing that amount from its fund balance. To get a bit technical here (and probably lose the rest of the readers who would have gotten even this far in my post) we know that the debit was to some restricted account (I assume restricted cash) and was improperly credited to some account (such as donations or something similar) that increased the fund balance. I supposed that this is an easy enough mistake to make and part of the reason books are audited - to find material errors and misstatements. Anyway, the good news is the auditors caught the mistake and that 3ABN made the correction in 2001 as is reported in the 990.
>
> These are perfectly good explanations for what happened. You are correct when you said "3ABN did not post $2.45 MILLION Dollars in TRUST FUNDS in 2001." Well at least partly correct, the year would have been 2000 or earlier. The 990 shows that they corrected this in 2001.
>
> But when you say "They also mis-posted over $14,000 of money meant to be forwarded to other Independent Ministries. The funds went straight into the 3ABN coffers. I still wonder what Ministries did not get their money" I beg to differ. Truth be said, of course the money went straight into 3ABN's coffers. It was sent to 3ABN and would go into their coffers before going out of the 3ABN coffers into another ministry's coffers. We don't have any indication that any ministry did not get its money in 2000 - we only know that 3ABN did not record the receipt of the cash properly. In other words, we know that 3ABN made a mistake with the accounting when the cash came into the coffers. This tells us nothing about any transaction transferring the money out of the coffers. And again the 990 tells us that in 2001 3ABN made the correction to its books.
>
> I'll have to take the time to investigate the other points you brought up, to see if 3ABN is correcting mistakes, or just making them and leaving them be. But so far the verdict is the 3ABN is making the corrections.
>
> God bless.
>
> Shiney Penny (now starting to follow the money around)

t appears 3abn got a little sloppy with their bookkeeping five years ago by mis-classifying some transactions ınd underreporting an unrealized gain. As you said Shiny Penny these are accounting errors or mistakes and nost likely would not be considered gross negligence or fraud. Not sure what the $14K is about, maybe is a nisappropriate of funds but even at that according to GAAP, would not be considered material to a $14MM in :ontributions organization. I don't see much here...and this was 5 years ago.

> QUOTE(SoulEspresso @ May 4 2007, 11:30 AM)
>
> Well, aside from the 990s, this board hasn't really delved into the minutae of the financial dealings of 3ABN. Those are entwined with the divorce proceedings because it looks like Danny made a killing on 10 Commandments Twice Removed and didn't report it. Shiny Penny has more guts than I do to tackle it. Maybe we'll learn something new.

> I'm not yet convinced that SP is tackling anything... the inquiries being made could very easily be someone walking point for DS, trolling to see if there is something else to be dealt with that hasnt come to light previously... as Zechariah chapter 3 shows us... everyone by your side aint necessarily on your side...
>
> In His service,
> Mr. J

Posted by: inga May 4 2007, 05:26 PM

> QUOTE(princessdi @ May 4 2007, 05:53 PM)
>
> Whew!!! I thought it was just me! He really did come in telling us where he stood on this. i believe same game, new player, new strategy. I will more than apologize if I am wrong. However, we have seen some of this before. Coming in claiming to know nothing, not asking, but demanding facts, and this one needs details.....now). Fran graciously supplied some for him. The last one that came in like this, asked for help to nevigate the site, whilst she was off on another site trashing BSDA, and offering to help others navigate through the mud here. Sorry, I am going to sit back and watch this one for a while.

I was beginning to think the same thoughts: We've seen the pattern:
1) Coming on here bright & cheerful, claiming innocense and the desire to arrive at truth.
2) Demanding detailed proofs without bothering to read previous posts.
3) The innocense and cheerfulness wearing off and turning to vindictiveness.

We're at 2). Let's see if 3) will follow ....

Posted by: Jnana15 May 4 2007, 06:27 PM

> QUOTE(awesumtenor @ May 4 2007, 05:40 PM)
>
> I'm not yet convinced that SP is tackling anything... the inquiries being made could very easily be someone walking point for DS, trolling to see if there is something else to be dealt with that hasnt come to light previously... as Zechariah chapter 3 shows us... everyone by your side aint necessarily on your side...
>
> In His service,
> Mr. J

Posted by: Shiny Penny May 4 2007, 06:31 PM

> QUOTE(inga @ May 4 2007, 04:26 PM)

> I was beginning to think the same thoughts: We've seen the pattern:
> 1) Coming on here bright & cheerful, claiming innocense and the desire to arrive at truth.
> 2) Demanding detailed proofs without bothering to read previous posts.
> 3) The innocense and cheerfulness wearing off and turning to vindictiveness.
>
> We're at 2). Let's see if 3) will follow ....

Inga - thank you for spelling out what everone is suspicious of.

Yes, you are right about #1 - I desire to arrive at the truth.

However, I would beg to differ with you about #2 - I have asked for detailed proofs and for facts - I've seen others demanding information around these precincts, but I think I've been asking for (or demanding as some perceive it) information that is available. Even whatever court papers have been filed by this new attorney are available, perhaps not from the court, but from someone around this forum, so I'm thinking, put the papers out here for us to digest as well. And as I have said before I have read previous posts and been reading for months.

But as to your 3rd point - turning vindictive: That's not my style. Please read my response to the facts that Fran sent me. I was not vindictive, but rather saying, really look at what's being reported in the 990 and you will see, as I did, that things were not as Fran presented them. Vindictiveness is not my style and you will be disappointed if you are looking for that from me.

In the mean time - I wish you and everyone else on this forum a special Sabbath Day's blessing.

Shiny Penny

Posted by: runner4him May 4 2007, 06:55 PM

> QUOTE(princessdi @ May 4 2007, 04:53 PM)
>
> Whew!!! I thought it was just me! He really did come in telling us where he stood on this. i believe same game, new player, new strategy. I will more than apologize if I am wrong. However, we have seen some of this before. Coming in claiming to know nothing, not asking, but demanding facts, and this one needs details.....now). Fran graciously supplied some for him. The last one that came in like this, asked for help to nevigate the site, whilst she was off on another site trashing BSDA, and offering to help others navigate through the mud here. Sorry, I am going to sit back and watch this one for a while.

I must be in the groove even being a new one around here....I was thinking the same thing from the first of his posts. Too many questions and too much of I am not sure what but it all seemed like a digger at work looking for something. He comes across dense and then suddenly after being fed a little info he sounded like an expert and able to tear apart documents and their meaning in the one post. So sorry Penny Penny if my vibes are wrong. I would not want to discourage you but not sure about you and I guess I am like others who have a hard time not questioning motives too. Advice - just be up front with where you are coming from and just line up where you feel convicted and comfortable.....maybe you have been doing that.

Posted by: awesumtenor May 4 2007, 07:10 PM

> QUOTE(Shiny Penny @ May 4 2007, 08:31 PM)

> However, I would beg to differ with you about #2 - I have asked for detailed proofs and for facts - I've seen others demanding information around these precincts, but I think I've been asking for (or demanding as some perceive it) information that is available. Even whatever court papers have been filed by this new attorney are available, perhaps not from the court, but from someone around this forum, so I'm thinking, put the papers out here for us to digest as well. And as I have said before I have read previous posts and been reading for months.

If you have, in fact, been reading for months, you'd know that the questions you are asking have largely been asked and answered already... and thus your asking them again is, at best redundant.

> QUOTE
>
> But as to your 3rd point - turning vindictive: That's not my style. Please read my response to the facts that Fran sent me. I was not vindictive, but rather saying, really look at what's being reported in the 990 and you will see, as I did, that things were not as Fran presented them. Vindictiveness is not my style and you will be disappointed if you are looking for that from me.

Time will tell how true you stay to this... others have come in the same sheep's clothing making very similar promises... only to produce outwardly over time the ravening wolf's behavior that was always inwardly present

So you may indeed be a sheep in sheep's clothing... but I'm keeping watch over the flock just in case... now where did I put that rod...

In His service,
Mr. J

Posted by: LaurenceD May 4 2007, 07:44 PM

Awww...lets giver her some slack. Of course the others jumped right into the fray of things too, and needed lots of attention, but he may actually read the few short paragraphs of Barbara Kerr's letter I recommended, which none of the others ever admitted doing, and actually get back to us.

Looking for answers, but ignoring our question would not be a good sign.

Posted by: princessdi May 4 2007, 07:59 PM

It's all good, Lawrence, him gots all the rope him need...........

> QUOTE(LaurenceD @ May 4 2007, 05:44 PM)
>
> Awww...lets giver her some slack. Of course the others jumped right into the fray of things too, and needed lots of attention, but he may actually read the few short paragraphs of Barbara Kerr's letter I recommended, which none of the others ever admitted doing, and actually get back to us.
>
> Looking for answers, but ignoring our question would not be a good sign.

Posted by: Shiny Penny May 4 2007, 09:05 PM

> QUOTE(calvin @ May 4 2007, 11:01 AM)
>
> It appears 3abn got a little sloppy with their bookkeeping five years ago by mis-classifying some transactions and underreporting an unrealized gain. As you said Shiny Penny these are accounting errors or mistakes and most likely would not be considered gross negligence or fraud. Not sure what the $14K is about, maybe is a misappropriate of funds but even at that according to GAAP, would not be considered material to a $14MM in contributions organization. I don't see much here...and this was 5 years ago.

Neither did I - which was precisely my point. And it was not only 5 years ago, but more like 6 or 7 years ago. Fran was the one making a big deal in bold print and big letters. Reread her post (I don't yet know how to put a link to it here).

Posted by: Skyhook May 4 2007, 09:43 PM

My impression is that Mr. SP is a professional of some kind. Prospecting for information. He seems to be persistent, and not to be deterred in his quest. He seems to expect that people comply with his requests/demands. He seems eager and in a hurry, but he is polite, and I believe him when he says vindictiveness is not his style. That is not a very good style when you want people to help you. He quickly took apart those financial court documents that I think are indeciferable to the average person. As others have pointed out, he is acting like he has more of a stake in this than simple curiosity. He sounds like an investigator of some kind. Remember the old childrens joke, "What are pennies made of?" That was my initial thought about his user name when he first appeared. No offense intended SP, Just speculation.

Posted by: runner4him May 4 2007, 09:49 PM

> QUOTE(Skyhook @ May 4 2007, 09:43 PM)
>
> My impression is that Mr. SP is a professional of some kind. Prospecting for information. He seems to be persistent, and not to be deterred in his quest. He seems to expect that people comply with his requests/demands. He seems eager and in a hurry, but he is polite, and I believe him when he says vindictiveness is not his style. That is not a very good style when you want people to help you. He quickly took apart those financial court documents that I think are indeciferable to the average person. As others have pointed out, he is acting like he has more of a stake in this than simple curiosity. He sounds like an investigator of some kind. Remember the old childrens joke, "What are pennies made of?" That was my initial thought about his user name when he first appeared. No offense intended SP, Just speculation.

Agree................WOW....the "what are pennies made of?" comment.....my initial thought too. No offense intended Penny Penny.

Posted by: Shiny Penny May 4 2007, 10:29 PM

> QUOTE(Skyhook @ May 4 2007, 08:43 PM)

> My impression is that Mr. SP is a professional of some kind. Prospecting for information. He seems to be persistent, and not to be deterred in his quest. He seems to expect that people comply with his requests/demands. He seems eager and in a hurry, but he is polite, and I believe him when he says vindictiveness is not his style. That is not a very good style when you want people to help you. He quickly took apart those financial court documents that I think are indeciferable to the average person. As others have pointed out, he is acting like he has more of a stake in this than simple curiosity. He sounds like an investigator of some kind. Remember the old childrens joke, "What are pennies made of?" That was my initial thought about his user name when he first appeared. No offense intended SP, Just speculation.

lo offense taken. Even though I don't recall that "what are pennies made of joke?" According to the internet he composition of the penny changed in 1982 - but that's not what you were referring to. So perhaps omeone can clue me in on the rest of the joke.

'ou could call me a professional - if that means graduating college. I am also persistent and inquisitive. And, 'es, upon reflection on my 2nd or 3rd day as a bsda member, I agree that on day one and two I was in a bit f a hurry. But I'm trying to slow down. After all I do have to allow adequate time for responses to be repared in answer to my questions.

am not vindictive, but neither am I ready to express an opinion without hearing both sides of an issue - earned this lesson some many years ago when I was told a story (I won't bore you with the details) and the acts told me at the time were true. Only problem was - as I found out quite some months later - the facts vere incomplete and critical facts were omitted. When I stumbled onto the rest of the facts much later - my pinion was changed to the complete opposite of my first opinion. So now I ask questions to get the the full acts, before setting my opinion in concrete.

leither am I an investigator, other than for my own interests as I described above.

od bless.

Posted by: roxe May 4 2007, 10:37 PM

edited for content...

Posted by: sonshineonme May 4 2007, 10:44 PM

> QUOTE(Shiny Penny @ May 4 2007, 09:29 PM)
>
> snip...
>
> I am not vindictive, but neither am I ready to express an opinion without hearing both sides of an issue - learned this lesson some many years ago when I was told a story (I won't bore you with the details) and the facts told me at the time were true. Only problem was - as I found out quite some months later - the facts were incomplete and critical facts were omitted. When I stumbled onto the rest of the facts much later - my opinion was changed to the complete opposite of my first opinion. So now I ask questions to get the the full facts, before setting my opinion in concrete.
>
> Neither am I an investigator, other than for my own interests as I described above.
>
> God bless.

can respect your point here - I think we all have been there, done that, and only want truth, especially hese days with what we have at hand before us. Times are changing, people don't just sit still and take that poon fed crapola they use to...people are not so gullable, though there are still some who are, but mostly for easons that have nothing to do with intelligence, but rather fear. So, don't think for a minute you are the nly one that feels they need to do their own homework, ask questions and make choices based on facts.

That's everyone personal responsibility, and I think that most people at bsda are just that way. So, give people some credit when they have formed opinions, they have been working on it for some time, not just picking a "side", but after truth. One place to get alot of information is save3abn.com. Also, there are many people here at bsda that have personal information, which has been written here in various threads. You are free to take what you want, make your dicisions. You are probalby talking to many people off these forums, getting a good amount of information from people related to the situation as well. That's good, because if you are doing all these things, you are going to come to conclusions, your common sense won't lie to you, and you will have a good idea of the big picture. That's the most anyone can and should do. So, good luck in your progress. And, may you have the courage to accept what you see, whether you like what you find or not.

Posted by: LaurenceD May 4 2007, 10:56 PM

> QUOTE(Shiny Penny)
>
> You could call me a professional - if that means graduating college. I am also persistent and inquisitive. And, yes, upon reflection on my 2nd or 3rd day as a bsda member, I agree that on day one and two I was in a bit of a hurry. But I'm trying to slow down. After all I do have to allow adequate time for responses to be prepared in answer to my questions.
>
> I am not vindictive, but neither am I ready to express an opinion without hearing both sides of an issue - learned this lesson some many years ago when I was told a story (I won't bore you with the details) and the facts told me at the time were true. Only problem was - as I found out quite some months later - the facts were incomplete and critical facts were omitted. When I stumbled onto the rest of the facts much later - my opinion was changed to the complete opposite of my first opinion. So now I ask questions to get the the full facts, before setting my opinion in concrete.

We're also persistent, and will be patient for your answers. And we're not shy to offer encouragement. How hard is it really to read a few short paragraphs of Kerr's letter and offer a comment or two? She is as true blue as they come and spent years with those folks and has a veiw from the inside. Nothing in BK's letter has ever been refuted. There is no other side to examine. Maybe, if we can't spark some interest, I'll copy and paste the essence of her experience--the phone call she received from DS, and if you have no response, that may be all we need to know.

And with regards to the court case, nothing is left out. Both sides are all there for the whole world to see, and to reach some conclusion. You don't have to agree with the recommendation, just offer a perspective why you might disagree.

Posted by: beartrap May 4 2007, 11:50 PM

> QUOTE(calvin @ May 4 2007, 10:01 AM) ☐
>
> What does the 10 Commandment book have to do with the divorce? They were already divorce and Danny remarried by time of the book.

I believe the 10 Commandments book is an excerpt from "The Anti-Christ Agenda" which, to my recollection, was written before the divorce.

Posted by: Observer May 5 2007, 05:52 AM

> QUOTE(Shiny Penny @ May 4 2007, 10:29 PM) ☐

> No offense taken. Even though I don't recall that "what are pennies made of joke?" According to the internet the composition of the penny changed in 1982 - but that's not what you were referring to. So perhaps someone can clue me in on the rest of the joke.
>
> You could call me a professional - if that means graduating college. I am also persistent and inquisitive. And, yes, upon reflection on my 2nd or 3rd day as a bsda member, I agree that on day one and two I was in a bit of a hurry. But I'm trying to slow down. After all I do have to allow adequate time for responses to be prepared in answer to my questions.
>
> I am not vindictive, but neither am I ready to express an opinion without hearing both sides of an issue - learned this lesson some many years ago when I was told a story (I won't bore you with the details) and the facts told me at the time were true. Only problem was - as I found out quite some months later - the facts were incomplete and critical facts were omitted. When I stumbled onto the rest of the facts much later - my opinion was changed to the complete opposite of my first opinion. So now I ask questions to get the the full facts, before setting my opinion in concrete.
>
> Neither am I an investigator, other than for my own interests as I described above.
>
> God bless.

On the Internet, people are often not who they claim to be. Many of us here in BSDA have become cynical in regard to the claims made by people here, especially those who post under pennamaes.

Frankly, I do not care. People have a right to use pen names. I do not object.

Sure, some are trolling for information. I do not mind. In some ways, they give as much as they get, and it benefits us as well as them.

As a former Army officer, I learned to talk to you "enemy." Doing so is as much to my advantge as it may be to the "enemy," and often more so.

So, even if SP comes from the "dark side" :-) ;-) let SP come and dialogue with us. I do not mind.

Posted by: LaurenceD May 5 2007, 08:58 AM

SP has let me know he's read Barbara Kerr's letter--as of last night. He needs time to sort this out in his mind, but will offer a comment perhaps on Sunday (too busy today).

Compare the speed with which he was able to assess Fran's post, and evaluate the 990 forms. I expect that reading the 3abn vs. State of Illinois court case will be a breeze...and simply letting us know if he understand what 3abn was doing wrong. A simple yes or no would suffice.

Posted by: Skyhook May 5 2007, 09:19 AM

I believe it was Sister who indicateed that there were at least a couple of books being written. Bsda would be a treasure trove for such persons and could save them a lot of leg work. Also a few months ago someone posted that reporters had been around questioning certain people. I don't know, I am just wondering.

Posted by: Panama_Pete May 5 2007, 11:18 AM

> QUOTE(Eirene @ Apr 26 2007, 11:07 PM)
>
> If your whole scenerio was accurate then at the very least he would be guilty of stupidity. I would think any competant lawyer would have checked the status of the activation before driving from Mass to Southern IL

Were you saying something about stupidity, Eirene?

ARDC Individual Attorney Record of Public Registration and Public Disciplinary and Disability Information as of May 4, 2007 at 12:04:17 PM:

http://www.iardc.org

Full Licensed Name: Laird James Heal
Full Former name(s): None
Date of Admission as Lawyer
by Illinois Supreme Court: June 4, 1991
Registered Business Address: Laird J. Heal, Esq.
3 Clinton Rd. P.O. Box 365
Sterling, MA 01564-2363
Registered Business Phone: (978) 422-0135
Illinois Registration Status: Active and authorized to practice law - Last Registered Year: 2007
Malpractice Insurance:
(Current as of date of registration;
consult attorney for further information) In annual registration, attorney reported that he/she has malpractice coverage.

Public Record of Discipline
and Pending Proceedings: None

Posted by: Noahswife May 5 2007, 11:54 AM

> QUOTE(Fran @ Apr 27 2007, 12:58 AM)
>
> Eirene;
>
> If your scenario is correct, then the same stupidity and incompetency must apply to the Trust Fund Donors of 3ABN and donors that give to other ministries through 3ABN.
>
> Let's compare the circumstances.
>
> 1. The lawyer sends in $500 to renew his license ahead of time and I am sure he received a receipt. I'll bet the Clerk had even made a deposit and the check had probably cleared his bank account. Now why would he not expect that all was complete?
>
> 2. Now consider the stupid, incompetent, donors that gave to 3ABN through Trust Funds. The gave their money or property; I am sure the checks got cashed and cleared the donors bank account. Why would donors go and check to make sure the donations were posted when they > received a piece of paper telling them all was well. Yet, after auditors checked, low and behold, $2.45 Million Dollars was NOT posted. Why were these donors so stupid as to not even check?

>
> 3. Now consider the stupid, incompetent, donors that gave to other ministries through 3ABN, and received their cleared check from the bank and receive a very pretty receipt in the mail. Why on earth would they not think the money went to the ministry they requested it be sent to? Instead it WAS posted, but to the 3ABN account and added to the 3ABN Income?
>
> I believe each person above that paid/donated their money, accepted by faith from their receipt, that all was well and complete. It just goes to show how many people have had their faith misplaced by deceiving paperwork and people. I ask you, just who is the stupid one here? Was it the one that gave $500.00 or those that gave $2.45 Million Dollars? This should be a real no brain-er. It is the one that DID NOT POST ANY OF THE ABOVE.
>
> Goodness, this was in 2001! Shall we review 2002? We can, you know. What was that $1.7+Million Dollars not posted. Trust Funds again. There really must be a long learning curve for 3ABN, like maybe 20 years or however long they have been doing trust funds.
>
> Since the checks were cleared, what bank account was used? At the end of each month all of the bank accounts are to be reconciled. They should be caught in the month they were received! Maybe I am wrong and 3ABN just doesn't bother to reconcile their bank accounts? Why did it take 1 year or more to find them not posted.
>
> If you doubt my truth, I will be more than happy to give you a link to the IL vs. 3ABN Property Tax Lawsuit and the yearly Internal Revenue Form 990's; then you to can decide for yourself who is stupid and incompetent. That is not for me to say.

ran ☒ h missed your post the first time around. I think in view of Pete's posting it is time to revisit what you wrote MO.

w

Posted by: runner4him May 5 2007, 01:29 PM

> QUOTE(Skyhook @ May 5 2007, 09:19 AM) ☐
>
> I believe it was Sister who indicateed that there were at least a couple of books being written. Bsda would be a treasure trove for such persons and could save them a lot of leg work. Also a few months ago someone posted that reporters had been around questioning certain people. I don't know, I am just wondering.

ust wondering... is it possible that such persons could be gathering more info in order to use it in another law uit against any more individuals? DS did say we have filed papers on two people for now. Interesting about he book possibilities...hope not!

> QUOTE
>
> ['Shiny Penny'] Even though I don't recall that "what are pennies made of joke?" According to the internet the composition of the penny changed in 1982 - but that's not what you were referring to. So perhaps someone can clue me in on the rest of the joke.

The Penny thing goes way back when I was a kid....anyone else besides Skyhook know about it?

Posted by: SoulEspresso May 5 2007, 03:08 PM

> QUOTE(runner4him @ May 5 2007, 12:29 PM)
>
> Just wondering... is it possible that such persons could be gathering more info in order to use it in another law suit against any more individuals? DS did say we have filed papers on two people for now. Interesting about the book possibilities...hope not!
>
> The Penny thing goes way back when I was a kid....anyone else besides Skyhook know about it?

So far I think that ShinyPenny is checking out the information and is withholding full judgment.

My friend's dad always used to ask what pennies were made of, whenever they passed a policeman on the road.

Posted by: sonshineonme May 5 2007, 03:15 PM

> QUOTE(Panama_Pete @ May 5 2007, 10:18 AM)
>
> Were you saying something about stupidity, Eirene?
> ARDC Individual Attorney Record of Public Registration and Public Disciplinary and Disability Information as of May 4, 2007 at 12:04:17 PM:
>
> http://www.iardc.org
> Full Licensed Name: Laird James Heal
> Full Former name(s): None
> Date of Admission as Lawyer
> by Illinois Supreme Court: June 4, 1991
> Registered Business Address: Laird J. Heal, Esq.
> 3 Clinton Rd. P.O. Box 365
> Sterling, MA 01564-2363
> Registered Business Phone: (978) 422-0135
> Illinois Registration Status: Active and authorized to practice law - Last Registered Year: 2007
> Malpractice Insurance:
> (Current as of date of registration;
> consult attorney for further information) In annual registration, attorney reported that he/she has malpractice coverage.
> Public Record of Discipline
> and Pending Proceedings: None

Pete, I am convinced that God has given you the gift or timing (and wit).
Thanks for your contributions here....you are another special member of this great bsda fam!

Posted by: mozart May 5 2007, 04:29 PM

> QUOTE(sonshineonme @ May 5 2007, 02:15 PM) ☐
>
> Pete, I am convinced that God has given you the gift or timing (and wit).
> Thanks for your contributions here....you are another special member of this great bsda fam!

I totally agree SSOM. Bless you pete. very much appreciated from this peanut.

Posted by: PrincessDrRe May 5 2007, 08:56 PM

Well....

☒ sna

Posted by: Fran May 5 2007, 11:14 PM

> QUOTE(Shiny Penny @ May 4 2007, 03:47 AM) ☐
>
> Fran, Wow! Thank you for taking the time to provide the links, details and interpretations of the data found. I'm writing a rather long, detailed and technical response, in part because your post was also detailed. I haven't had the chance to check all of what you sent me, but I did check the 2001 990. The auditor's concerns (as reported in the lawsuit documents) and what you had posted - gravely concerned, even alarmed, me. But, as I show below, there is no reason to be alarmed - at least not about the 990 in 2001.
>
> The 990 states (and please correct me if I am wrong) - the information posted in Statement 2 (page 17): So I went back to part 1, Line 20 and that line reads "Other changes in net assets or fund balances (attach explanation)"
>
> I interpret this to mean that this 990 is correcting prior mistakes/errors and sometime in 2001 3ABN had recorded the previously unrecorded split interest agreements and also recorded the unrealized gains on marketable securities. To go into a little more detail on the unrealized gains - these gains were described as unrealized. Meaning that the end of year value of the securities was greater than the beginning of year value, but the marketable securities had not been sold during the year - hence the gain is unrealized. This is a paper gain that should have been recorded in an earlier year (2000?), but had not been. It seems to me that you are familiar with accounting and so would know that prior period adjustments (such as this unrealized gain) are made directly to retained earnings in the case of a corporation and in the case of not for profit organization would be an adjustment to the fund balance. Which is exactly what 3ABN did. Therefore, I am relieved to see that 3ABN had made the correction to the prior periods error!
>
> About the amounts due to other ministries, according to the the 990 these amounts had previously been classified as temporarily restricted and were now being reclassified to something else. I didn't see what they were being classified to, but since this amount is in parenthesis (meaning it is being subtracted) would indicate that in this correction 3ABN was removing that amount from its fund balance. To get a bit technical here (and probably lose the rest of the readers who would have gotten even this far in my post) we know that the debit was to some restricted account (I assume restricted cash) and was improperly credited to some account (such as donations or something similar) that increased the fund balance. I supposed that this is an easy enough mistake to make and part of the reason books are audited - to find material errors and misstatements. Anyway, the good news is the auditors caught the mistake and that 3ABN made the correction in 2001 as is reported in the 990.
>
> These are perfectly good explanations for what happened. You are correct when you said "3ABN did not post $2.45 MILLION Dollars in TRUST FUNDS in 2001." Well at least partly correct, the year would have > been 2000 or earlier. The 990 shows that they corrected this in 2001.

>
> But when you say "They also mis-posted over $14,000 of money meant to be forwarded to other Independent Ministries. The funds went straight into the 3ABN coffers. I still wonder what Ministries did not get their money" I beg to differ. Truth be said, of course the money went straight into 3ABN's coffers. It was sent to 3ABN and would go into their coffers before going out of the 3ABN coffers into another ministry's coffers. We don't have any indication that any ministry did not get its money in 2000 - we only know that 3ABN did not record the receipt of the cash properly. In other words, we know that 3ABN made a mistake with the accounting when the cash came into the coffers. This tells us nothing about any transaction transferring the money out of the coffers. And again the 990 tells us that in 2001 3ABN made the correction to its books.
>
> I'll have to take the time to investigate the other points you brought up, to see if 3ABN is correcting mistakes, or just making them and leaving them be. But so far the verdict is the 3ABN is making the corrections.
>
> God bless.
>
> Shiney Penny (now starting to follow the money around) haven't forgotten you. I have not had a chance to reply in detail. Will try tomorrow, I promise. Thanks for our reply.

Posted by: Shiny Penny May 6 2007, 03:43 AM

> QUOTE(LaurenceD @ May 5 2007, 06:58 AM)
>
> SP has let me know he's read Barbara Kerr's letter--as of last night. He needs time to sort this out in his mind, but will offer a comment perhaps on Sunday (too busy today).
>
> Compare the speed with which he was able to assess Fran's post, and evaluate the 990 forms. I expect that reading the 3abn vs. State of Illinois court case will be a breeze...and simply letting us know if he understand what 3abn was doing wrong. A simple yes or no would suffice.

aurenceD - As I told you I reread Barbara's letter on Friday night. In my earlier reply to you I said that I hought Danny should have released the tapes to Barbara - this is my opinion based on what I read.

ut you have asked me to give further opinion on or reaction to her letter. It's a long letter, and since you idn't ask me to respond to any particular part of her letter and it would take too long to try and give my pinion on everything (and at this point I am saddened by nearly all of what she related). So I have decided o respond to the one part of the letter where Barbara shares both what Danny and what Alyssa told her bout the same situation/circumstances. My purpose is not really to express an opinion, but rather to give hat could be called another interpretation of what she's written.

ccording to Barbara Danny says "he and Alyssa were great friends, they were buddies, and that he called er often and they had wonderful conversations." This is his take on their relationship.

ccording to Barbara Alyssa says "We are NOT friends, he won't quit calling me." This is her take.

s Danny lying when he says they are great friends? Probably not. He perceived the relationship as great. Is lyssa lying when she says they are NOT friends - again probably not. She perceives things differently - and ot surprisingly so: he and her mother are getting/have gotten a very public divorce.

ame thing goes about their take on the conversations. Danny says he called Alyssa often...and here she agrees with him, though she clearly does not seem to appreciate the calls. Those of us that have been around a bit longer than Alyssa just come right out and tell the unwanted caller - please don't call anymore (and maybe not even say please). But in her case, Barbara says she feels sorry for him, so is probably tolerating the calls.

Now on to this prescription writing business. I've got some serious questions on this one. Barbara writes that Danny said that Alyssa wrote him a prescription, something she's authorized to do as a physician's assistant. (Kudos to her for completing that difficult program!)

Alyssa told Barbara that she, Alyssa, "only wrote him a prescription because I felt sorry for him." I was taken aback at this statement and that she would actually say something like that out loud - though I suspect that she did not expect Barbara to write it up and it get posted on the internet for anyone around the world to see. Goodness - I thought the medical professionals were not in the practice of writing prescriptions because of feeling sorry for someone. I'm not sure of all the rules of prescription writing, but I hope my doctor isn't prescribing meds only because he/she feels sorry for me. But she was young and just newly graduated.

This is one take on what Barbara said in a part of her letter. And I've only addressed this part because there are two points of view to compare. Keep in mind though that I'm presenting what could be another interpretation of the facts as presented by Barbara.

Now I'd be interested in knowing what you think this says about me!

I won't go on much more on her letter, because you have asked me to also comment on the State of Illinois case. Other than reading a paragraph here or there I have not read it. It is a long document. Perhaps if there is a particular point that you would like me to give my take on or to present another point of view on, let me know. That way I can focus on something that is of particular interest to you.

In my earlier response to Fran's email about the 990s, I know I said that I would come back and address her other points, but you are keeping me so busy with responding to these other questions that I'm going to take a pass on that for the time being - perhaps only going back to it if there is some popular demand for me to.

Wishing you all the best for the week ahead.

Posted by: Observer May 6 2007, 05:39 AM

> QUOTE
>
> Alyssa told Barbara that she, Alyssa, "only wrote him a prescription because I felt sorry for him." I was taken aback at this statement and that she would actually say something like that out loud - though I suspect that she did not expect Barbara to write it up and it get posted on the internet for anyone around the world (including whatever medical authorities that assess professional ethics) to see. Goodness - I thought the medical professionals wrote prescriptions to treat their patients for conditions that the medical professional has personally assessed, are not in the practice of writing prescriptions because of feeling sorry for someone. I'm not sure of all the rules of prescription writing, but I hope my doctor isn't prescribing meds only because he/she feels sorry for me. But she was young and just newly graduated and can (hopefully) be forgiven for this lapse in judgment.

There is an implication in the above that some people might think implied that Alyssa inappropriately wrote a prescription for Danny. That is to say that she wrote it because she was sorry for him, and he wanted it, and not because it was appropriate for him to have it, and in addition that she wrote it without proper assessment of whether or not he needed it. I would like to address those implications:

1) In my experience I have often seen a physician write a prescription fore someone whom they knew simply on the basis of a telephone request for a prescription. I have seen this done when the prescription was for a refill of an expired Rx, and when it was for a totally new prescription.

It is not against professional ethics for a physician to do so. Alyssa clearly knew Danny well. It would have been ethical for her to have written a prescription for him without an u-close, personal examination of him.

2) It also possible that Danny met whatever requirements existed for it to be appropriate for him to have that prescription written for him. IOW, he needed it. He was not faking it. It was not for any illicit use. Alyssa's feeling sorry for him should not be taken to indicate that he did not need it. Rather, it could be taken to indicate that she wrote it herself, because she felt sorry for him rather than refusing and requiring him to go so someone else.

NOTE: I understand that Alyssa in not a physician, but is a PA and therefore can write certain prescriptions.

Posted by: watchbird May 6 2007, 06:26 AM

> QUOTE(Shiny Penny @ May 6 2007, 05:43 AM) ☐
>
> LaurenceD - As I told you I reread Barbara's letter on Friday night. In my earlier reply to you I said that I thought Danny should have released the tapes to Barbara - this is my opinion based on what I read.
>
> But you have asked me to give further opinion on or reaction to her letter. It's a long letter, and since you didn't ask me to respond to any particular part of her letter and it would take too long to try and give my opinion on everything (and at this point I am saddened by nearly all of what she related). So I have decided to respond to the one part of the letter where Barbara shares both what Danny and what Alyssa told her about the same situation/circumstances. My purpose is not really to express an opinion, but rather to give what could be called another interpretation of what she's written.
>
> According to Barbara Danny says "he and Alyssa were great friends, they were buddies, and that he called her often and they had wonderful conversations." This is his take on their relationship.
>
> According to Barbara Alyssa says "We are NOT friends, he won't quit calling me." This is her take.
>
> Is Danny lying when he says they are great friends? Probably not. He perceived the relationship as great. Is Alyssa lying when she says they are NOT friends - again probably not. She perceives things differently - and not surprisingly so: he and her mother are getting/have gotten a very public divorce.
>
> Same thing goes about their take on the conversations. Danny says he called Alyssa often...and here she agrees with him, though she clearly does not seem to appreciate the calls. Those of us that have been around a bit longer than Alyssa just come right out and tell the unwanted caller - please don't call anymore (and maybe not even say please). But in her case, Barbara says she feels sorry for him, so is probably tolerating the calls.
>
> Now on to this prescription writing business. I've got some serious questions on this one. Barbara writes that Danny said that Alyssa wrote him a prescription, something she's authorized to do as a physician's assistant. (Kudos to her for completing that difficult program!)
>
> Alyssa told Barbara that she, Alyssa, "only wrote him a prescription because I felt sorry for him." I was taken aback at this statement and that she would actually say something like that out loud - though I suspect that she did not expect Barbara to write it up and it get posted on the internet for anyone around the world (including whatever medical authorities that assess professional ethics) to see. Goodness - I thought the medical professionals wrote prescriptions to treat their patients for conditions that the medical professional has personally assessed, are not in the practice of writing prescriptions because of feeling sorry for someone. I'm not sure of all the rules of prescription writing, but I hope my doctor isn't prescribing meds only because he/she feels sorry for me. But she was young and just newly graduated and can (hopefully) be forgiven for this lapse in judgment.
>
> This is one take on what Barbara said in a part of her letter. And I've only addressed this part because there are two points of view to compare. Keep in mind though that I'm presenting what could be another interpretation of the facts as presented by Barbara.
>
> Now I'd be interested in knowing what you think this says about me!
> I won't go on much more on her letter, because you have asked me to also comment on the State of > Illinois case. Other than reading a paragraph here or there I have not read it. It is a long document. Perhaps if there is a particular point that you would like me to give my take on or to present another point of view on, let me know. That way I can focus on something that is of particular interest to you.

>
> In my earlier response to Fran's email about the 990s, I know I said that I would come back and address her other points, but you are keeping me so busy with responding to these other questions that I'm going to take a pass on that for the time being - perhaps only going back to it if there is some popular demand for me to.
>
> Wishing you all the best for the week ahead.

Vhat it says so far is that you are not seriously interested in researching all of the items having to do with 3abn, but you are only skimming the surface and picking up items that seem to you to be able to be spun in lirections which will cast doubt on the way others have seen the item... or to put it another way... you seem o be looking for ways to excuse Danny rather than following up the clues that have led many of us to iegative conclusions.

f you are honestly seeking for truth... information.... then when someone hands you a whole sack full of oins, you will not merely pull out one and evaluate it by itself, but you will dig to the bottom of the whole ack.... lay them out on the table and compare them even... before you bring back your opinion that this one r that one was a rather worthless one.

r to change the metaphor to a more appropriate one... that of looking for the whole picture and how the ieces fit together.... when you are given one piece of the puzzle, you will not stop with that one, but will go ourself... using the tools I gave you earlier... to find all other pieces of that same shape or color.

n the Alyssa and Danny "friendship" issue for example. A search of the website looking for individual posts hat mention Alyssa, you will get four pages of hits... which you can then read through to see what else has een said about Alyssa. Or if you search looking for threads that mention or contain mention of Alyssa, you vill only get two pages. And if you read down those thread titles, you will even find her name in one of the hread titles.... http://www.blacksda.com/forums/index.php?s=&showtopic=11132&view=findpost&p=155131 <<<click to go to the thread.

ut this is not the first time that Alyssa is mentioned... or that the experiences recounted in this thread were nentioned on BSDA. Though since there was an effort to keep her name off of this site, mentions of the ncidents were often mere allusions, rather than direct descriptions. You can find some of those in the Unauthorized History" threads... which is "required reading" for anyone really wanting to find all the pieces f the picture.

o again the question surfaces..... how do you really want to be known here... as a panhandler asking for a ingle coin for "a cup of coffee"? Or as an industrious researcher who is willing to take the coins offered and nvest time and enegy and thought into finding the information to which the clues in each "coin" points?

o far, the answer is rather consistent... but we are willing to think otherwise if you show us differently.

Posted by: Shiny Penny May 6 2007, 06:59 AM

> QUOTE(watchbird @ May 6 2007, 04:26 AM) ☐
>
> What it says so far is that you are not seriously interested in researching all of the items having to do with 3abn, but you are only skimming the surface and picking up items that seem to you to be able to be spun in directions which will cast doubt on the way others have seen the item... or to put it another way... you seem to be looking for ways to excuse Danny rather than following up the clues that have led many of us to negative conclusions.
>
> If you are honestly seeking for truth... information.... then when someone hands you a whole sack full of coins, you will not merely pull out one and evaluate it by itself, but you will dig to the bottom of the whole sack.... lay them out on the table and compare them even... before you bring back your opinion that this > one or that one was a rather worthless one.

>
> Or to change the metaphor to a more appropriate one... that of looking for the whole picture and how the pieces fit together.... when you are given one piece of the puzzle, you will not stop with that one, but will go yourself... using the tools I gave you earlier... to find all other pieces of that same shape or color.
>
> On the Alyssa and Danny "friendship" issue for example. A search of the website looking for individual posts that mention Alyssa, you will get four pages of hits... which you can then read through to see what else has been said about Alyssa. Or if you search looking for threads that mention or contain mention of Alyssa, you will only get two pages. And if you read down those thread titles, you will even find her name in one of the thread titles.... http://www.blacksda.com/forums/index.php?s=&showtopic=11132&view=findpost&p=155131 <<<<click to go to the thread.
>
> But this is not the first time that Alyssa is mentioned... or that the experiences recounted in this thread were mentioned on BSDA. Though since there was an effort to keep her name off of this site, mentions of the incidents were often mere allusions, rather than direct descriptions. You can find some of those in the "Unauthorized History" threads... which is "required reading" for anyone really wanting to find all the pieces of the picture.
>
> So again the question surfaces..... how do you really want to be known here... as a panhandler asking for a single coin for "a cup of coffee"? Or as an industrious researcher who is willing to take the coins offered and invest time and enegy and thought into finding the information to which the clues in each "coin" points?
>
> So far, the answer is rather consistent... but we are willing to think otherwise if you show us differently.

aurenceD asked me to give some feedback on Barbara Kerr's letter - a paragraph or two was what he asked or. So that's what I did. He did not ask me to give a full research into anything, so I didn't hunt around to ind out what else had been said about Alyssa. I responded to what Barbara Kerr wrote.

nd as I have said all along when there are two points of view to access, then I feel like I can begin to form n opinion. That's why I focused in on that part of Barbara's letter.

Vhy should I not try and cast doubt on another persons viewpoint? That shows that I am thinking. Each erson assesses and thinks and develops their own opinions. I respect yours...I trust you respect mine.

m I excusing Danny? Let him excuse himself. Did I express an opinion that "this one or that one was a ather worthless one"? I hope I didn't - there is more than one way to skin a cat.

Posted by: Shiny Penny May 6 2007, 07:11 AM

> QUOTE(Observer @ May 6 2007, 03:39 AM)
>
> There is an implication in the above that some people might think implied that Alyssa inappropriately wrote a prescription for Danny. That is to say that she wrote it because she was sorry for him, and he wanted it, and not because it was appropriate for him to have it, and in addition that she wrote it without proper assessment of whether or not he needed it. I would like to address those implications:
>
> 1) In my experience I have often seen a physician write a prescription fore someone whom they knew simply on the basis of a telephone request for a prescription. I have seen this done when the prescription was for a refill of an expired Rx, and when it was for a totally new prescription.
>
> It is not against professional ethics for a physician to do so. Alyssa clearly knew Danny well. It would have been ethical for her to have written a prescription for him without an u-close, personal examination of him.
>
> 2) It also possible that Danny met whatever requirements existed for it to be appropriate for him to have that prescription written for him. IOW, he needed it. He was not faking it. It was not for any illicit use. Alyssa's feeling sorry for him should not be taken to indicate that he did not need it. Rather, it could be taken to indicate that she wrote it herself, because she felt sorry for him rather than refusing and requiring > him to go so someone else.

>
> NOTE: I understand that Alyssa in not a physician, but is a PA and therefore can write certain prescriptions.

'our point is well taken. I'll go back and edit my post.

was responding to exactly what Barbara wrote - Alyssa wrote the prescription only because she was sorry or Danny.

Posted by: watchbird May 6 2007, 08:51 AM

> QUOTE(Shiny Penny @ May 6 2007, 08:59 AM) ☐
>
> LaurenceD asked me to give some feedback on Barbara Kerr's letter - a paragraph or two was what he asked for. So that's what I did. He did not ask me to give a full research into anything, so I didn't hunt around to find out what else had been said about Alyssa. I responded to what Barbara Kerr wrote.
>
> And as I have said all along when there are two points of view to access, then I feel like I can begin to form an opinion. That's why I focused in on that part of Barbara's letter.
>
> Why should I not try and cast doubt on another persons viewpoint? That shows that I am thinking. Each person assesses and thinks and develops their own opinions. I respect yours...I trust you respect mine.
>
> Am I excusing Danny? Let him excuse himself. Did I express an opinion that "this one or that one was a rather worthless one"? I hope I didn't - there is more than one way to skin a cat.

Vell...... you asked......... I responded.

arry on......

.... ☒ TVsnack. ....

Posted by: mozart May 6 2007, 09:54 AM

SP, if i may, i'd like to ask you a few questions. are you are were you ever an avid watcher and/or contributor to 3ABN?
if so, did you watch the shows with Barbara Kerr?
if so, did you find her to be a truly warm and loving person?
did you see the surprise birthday party for danny show?
have you ever read Barbara Kerr's tesitimony on her website or elsewhere?
the reason i ask these questions is to see if you have any idea what kind of person Barbara Kerr is?

I'd also like to say that when i read the part about A. giving danny a prescription because she felt sorry for him, i never thought it was a careless or reckless act on her part. she didn't give the prescription appropriate or in accord to the pity she felt for him! that skew would be the height of irresponsibility. he probably had a stopped up nose due to allergies and she gave him a prescription for that. i am quite sure it was not for something serious. also, i have a doctor that lived in another state from me and often i would call him for prescriptions when i didn't have a local doctor or my local doctor and i didn't agree on a particular situation that the doctor in the other state and i did agree on. he would provide that as long as it wasn't of a narcotic or sedative nature. he was an Adventist doctor.

i think when we read things with an agenda in mind, it can read quite differently depending on what we want to get out of it.

> QUOTE(Shiny Penny @ May 6 2007, 05:59 AM)
>
> LaurenceD asked me to give some feedback on Barbara Kerr's letter - a paragraph or two was what he asked for.
>
> And as I have said all along when there are two points of view to access, then I feel like I can begin to form an opinion. That's why I focused in on that part of Barbara's letter.

Posted by: Jnana15 May 6 2007, 12:10 PM

Shinny Penny, I'm really suspect of you now. I understand that everyone has a right to their opinion and conclusions, but if you had really seriously read the information and watched 3ABN, the truth would just slap you all up side the head like it did me. After reading Barbara Kerr's letter, and the information about Alyssa on the web, the pieces of this messed up 3ABN puzzle started coming together for me. I felt horrible about the things I allowed my mind to think of Linda when I heard about the divorce three years ago. Now three years later, I'm seeing truth unfold right in front of my face and I wish Danny would just go away in silence. My husband is just as upset as I am and watches 3ABN to see what lies are going to be told next, which is really sad. My dear husband is also cautioning me to be careful on what I post here before our ID's are found out and we get SUED by "Little Ceaser".

JMHO

Jnana

Posted by: Panama_Pete May 6 2007, 12:22 PM

> QUOTE(Shiny Penny @ May 6 2007, 04:43 AM)
>
> According to Barbara Danny says "he and Alyssa were great friends, they were buddies, and that he called her often and they had wonderful conversations." This is his take on their relationship.
>
> According to Barbara Alyssa says "We are NOT friends, he won't quit calling me." This is her take.
>
> Is Danny lying when he says they are great friends? Probably not. He perceived the relationship as great. Is Alyssa lying when she says they are NOT friends - again probably not. She perceives things differently - and not surprisingly so: he and her mother are getting/have gotten a very public divorce.
>
> Same thing goes about their take on the conversations. Danny says he called Alyssa often...and here she agrees with him, though she clearly does not seem to appreciate the calls. Those of us that have been around a bit longer than Alyssa just come right out and tell the unwanted caller - please don't call anymore (and maybe not even say please). But in her case, Barbara says she feels sorry for him, so is probably tolerating the calls.
>
> This is one take on what Barbara said in a part of her letter. And I've only addressed this part because there are two points of view to compare. Keep in mind though that I'm presenting what could be another interpretation of the facts as presented by Barbara.

ne more fact you should consider is that Nathan Moore is Alyssa Moore's brother.

athan had established a working relationship with the Norwegian doctor, but Danny Shelton seems to have hort-circuited that relationship, to Nathan Moore's detriment.

lyssa may have exhibited Christian charity towards such a person, i.e., she may have felt sorry for Danny. owever, it is highly unlikely that Nathan's sister is great friends with Danny Shelton.

Posted by: mozart May 6 2007, 12:26 PM

HIGHLY UNLIKELY

> QUOTE(Panama_Pete @ May 6 2007, 12:22 PM)
>
> One more fact you should consider is that Nathan Moore is Alyssa Moore's brother.
>
> Nathan had established a working relationship with the Norwegian doctor, but Danny Shelton seems to have short-circuited that relationship, to Nathan Moore's detriment.
>
> Alyssa, may have exhibited Christian charity towards such a person, i.e., she may have felt sorry for Danny. However, it is highly unlikely that Nathan's sister is great friends with Danny Shelton.

Posted by: runner4him May 6 2007, 01:06 PM

> QUOTE(Jnana15 @ May 6 2007, 12:10 PM)
>
> Shinny Penny, I'm really suspect of you now. I understand that everyone has a right to their opinion and conclusions, but if you had really seriously read the information and watched 3ABN, the truth would just slap you all up side the head like it did me. After reading Barbara Kerr's letter, and the information about Alyssa on the web, the pieces of this messed up 3ABN puzzle started coming together for me. I felt horrible about the things I allowed my mind to think of Linda when I heard about the divorce three years ago. Now three years later, I'm seeing truth unfold right in front of my face and I wish Danny would just go away in silence. My husband is just as upset as I am and watches 3ABN to see what lies are going to be told next, which is really sad. My dear husband is also cautioning me to be careful on what I post here before our ID's are found out and we get SUED by "Little Ceaser".
>
> JMHO
>
> Jnana

agree with the feelings you are having about Shinny Penny....sorry if it offends you SP. Thoughts are out here that info is possibly being collected for possible future legal suits....but I am reminded....fear no nan...stay on the narrow path....focus on Him...pray for an indwelling of His Spirit....be ready with an answer iven by the Lord!

Posted by: Whtz Happenin May 6 2007, 02:18 PM

> QUOTE(runner4him @ May 6 2007, 03:06 PM)
>
> I agree with the feelings you are having about Shinny Penny....sorry if it offends you SP. Thoughts are out there that info is possibly being collected for possible future legal suits....but I am reminded....fear no man...stay on the narrow path....focus on Him...pray for an indwelling of His Spirit....be ready with an answer given by the Lord!

IMO, I do not think forming an opinion of someone quickly is a good idea. Shiny Penny came here a few days ago and starting asking a lot of questions. Encouraging him to read more was an excellent idea because there are no easy answers to the many subjects here. If we want to understand, then we have to be committed to spending the time to consume the plethora of information here and being willing to spit out the bad and digest the good.

Challenging others on their stance or statements is a good idea. Pushing them too much one way or another may influence them to reject your views all together.

I mean really think about it, those here to only defend DS make it pretty obvious over time. They are not hear to learn, but to only defend DS at any cost. Most of them have eventually been banned, but may comeback with new usernames.

That is just my opinion and my opinion is the one subject that I am an expert in.

Shiny Penny, Keep digging while keeping an open mind.

Posted by: runner4him May 6 2007, 02:31 PM

> QUOTE(Whtz Happenin @ May 6 2007, 02:18 PM)
>
> IMO, I do not think forming an opinion of someone quickly is a good idea. Shiny Penny came here a few days ago and starting asking a lot of questions. Encouraging him to read more was an excellent idea because there are no easy answers to the many subjects here. If we want to understand, then we have to be committed to spending the time to consume the plethora of information here and being willing to spit out the bad and digest the good.
>
> Challenging others on their stance or statements is a good idea. Pushing them too much one way or another may influence them to reject your views all together.
>
> I mean really think about it, those here to only defend DS make it pretty obvious over time. They are not hear to learn, but to only defend DS at any cost. Most of them have eventually been banned, but may comeback with new usernames.
>
> That is just my opinion and my opinion is the one subject that I am an expert in.
>
> Shiny Penny, Keep digging while keeping an open mind.

You make some very good points and since I am new around here I needed that. Thanks for the comments and I will try to follow your suggestions. I guess with the lawsuits hanging out there, I was somewhat quick to jump to conclusions without much basis other than the way the questions were flying and then some of the comments he made. Thanks again!

Posted by: princessdi May 6 2007, 04:22 PM

I agree and disagree with you. SP did not come here not just asking questions, asking for details and for them now. Granted t his has been cleared up a bit, however, we all know about first impressions, right. Also, the statement about saying thing pro Linda and con Danny doesn't help.

As far as his comments on anything now, he has stated plainly that he takes his time to go over the information, quite meticulously it seems, and then forms an opinion. Lawrence asked him about what he thought after reading Barbara's letter, and to re read it. he did. He is also at the beginning of his research, not really starting at the beginning either. I would reserve judgement. Also, I believe we have sufficiently conveyed the message that we pay attention here.

Proceed!

> QUOTE(Whtz Happenin @ May 6 2007, 12:18 PM)
>
> IMO, I do not think forming an opinion of someone quickly is a good idea. Shiny Penny came here a few days ago and starting asking a lot of questions. Encouraging him to read more was an excellent idea because there are no easy answers to the many subjects here. If we want to understand, then we have to be committed to spending the time to consume the plethora of information here and being willing to spit out the bad and digest the good.
>
> Challenging others on their stance or statements is a good idea. Pushing them too much one way or another may influence them to reject your views all together.
>
> I mean really think about it, those here to only defend DS make it pretty obvious over time. They are not hear to learn, but to only defend DS at any cost. Most of them have eventually been banned, but may comeback with new usernames.
>
> That is just my opinion and my opinion is the one subject that I am an expert in.
>
> Shiny Penny, Keep digging while keeping an open mind.

Posted by: Shiny Penny May 6 2007, 04:50 PM

> QUOTE(mozart @ May 6 2007, 08:54 AM)
>
> SP, if i may, i'd like to ask you a few questions. are you are were you ever an avid watcher and/or contributor to 3ABN?
> if so, did you watch the shows with Barbara Kerr?
> if so, did you find her to be a truly warm and loving person?
> did you see the surprise birthday party for danny show?
> have you ever read Barbara Kerr's tesitimony on her website or elsewhere?
> the reason i ask these questions is to see if you have any idea what kind of person Barbara Kerr is?
>
> I'd also like to say that when i read the part about A. giving danny a prescription because she felt sorry for him, i never thought it was a careless or reckless act on her part. she didn't give the prescription appropriate or in accord to the pity she felt for him! that skew would be the height of irresponsibility. he probably had a stopped up nose due to allergies and she gave him

> a prescription for that. i am quite sure it was not for something serious. also, i have a doctor that lived in another state from me and often i would call him for prescriptions when i didn't have a local doctor or my local doctor and i didn't agree on a particular situation that the doctor in the other state and i did agree on. he would provide that as long as it wasn't of a narcotic or sedative nature. he was an Adventist doctor.
> i think when we read things with an agenda in mind, it can read quite differently depending on what we want to get out of it.

Mozart,
As I have said in my earlier posts I do watch 3ABN, though not very consistently, because I have to watch it or listen to 3ABN radio through the internet. Yes, I have contributed to 3ABN, as I have to other TV ministries. I have watched a few of Barbara Kerr's cooking programs - at least parts of programs. I found her not only to be warm and personal, but also professional and an expert in the kitchen. No, I did not see the surprise birthday party show. Actually, I didn't even know there was a surprise birthday party show. I did ead Barbara's testimony in one of her books. I don't recall the details at this point, since I read it at least hree years ago, but I know that health-wise she's been through a lot.

You have no argument with me regarding Barbara's character and I can very much appreciate her utter rustration at seeing her ministry disappear over night. In reading through the email communication between her and Danny - both are vindictive, slinging around mud and saying the sorts of things that most people come to later regret that they ever said or wrote.

About A giving a prescription to Danny - since you bring it up again, I will say again. Barbara said A gave D he prescription only because A felt sorry for him. This means that if she hadn't felt sorry for him she wouldn't have written the prescription. If Barbara meant something else, then she should not have said "only." I have commented on the exact words that Barbara wrote.

> QUOTE(watchbird @ May 6 2007, 07:51 AM) ☐
>
> Well...... you asked......... I responded.
>
> Carry on......
>
> .... TVsnack. ....

Yes, I asked, but my question/post was actually directed to LaurenceD, since he was the one to ask me to comment on the letter and court case. I'm glad you responded though.

> QUOTE(Whtz Happenin @ May 6 2007, 01:18 PM) ☐
>
> IMO, I do not think forming an opinion of someone quickly is a good idea. Shiny Penny came here a few days ago and starting asking a lot of questions. Encouraging him to read more was an excellent idea because there are no easy answers to the many subjects here. If we want to understand, then we have to be committed to spending the time to consume the plethora of information here and being willing to spit out the bad and digest the good.
>
> Challenging others on their stance or statements is a good idea. Pushing them too much one way or another may influence them to reject your views all together.
>
> I mean really think about it, those here to only defend DS make it pretty obvious over time. They are not hear to learn, but to only defend DS at any cost. Most of them have eventually been banned, but may > comeback with new usernames.

>
> That is just my opinion and my opinion is the one subject that I am an expert in.
>
> Shiny Penny, Keep digging while keeping an open mind.

Vhtz Happenin, thanks for your post. I'm reading, I'm digging, I'm asking questions and I'm trying to spit out he bad and keep the good and I'm calling things as I see them - and I'm trying to stick to the facts as resented. Probably not doing it perfectly, but then I suspect that few are to that point yet.

Posted by: SoulEspresso May 6 2007, 06:31 PM

> QUOTE(princessdi @ May 6 2007, 03:22 PM)
>
> I would reserve judgement. Also, I believe we have sufficiently conveyed the message that we pay attention here.
> Proceed!

agree. My tendency is to come into a group and play devil's advocate. Shiny has a lot of reading to do, let's ive him time to digest.

Posted by: mozart May 6 2007, 06:41 PM

I'm perfect!!! Di? You perfect? how bout you NW? SE? you prefect?

according to Di, we'z perfect heathens.
'cept for Calvin of course.
hey cal

> QUOTE(Shiny Penny @ May 6 2007, 03:50 PM)
>
> Mozart,
> As I have said in my earlier posts I do watch 3ABN, though not very consistently, because I have to watch it or listen to 3ABN radio through the internet. Yes, I have contributed to 3ABN, as I have to other TV ministries. I have watched a few of Barbara Kerr's cooking programs - at least parts of programs. I found her not only to be warm and personal, but also professional and an expert in the kitchen. No, I did not see the surprise birthday party show. Actually, I didn't even know there was a surprise birthday party show. I did read Barbara's testimony in one of her books. I don't recall the details at this point, since I read it at least three years ago, but I know that health-wise she's been through a lot.
>
> You have no argument with me regarding Barbara's character and I can very much appreciate her utter frustration at seeing her ministry disappear over night. In reading through the email communication between her and Danny - both are vindictive, slinging around mud and saying the sorts of things that most people come to later regret that they ever said or wrote.
>
> About A giving a prescription to Danny - since you bring it up again, I will say again. Barbara said A gave D the prescription only because A felt sorry for him. This means that if she hadn't felt sorry for him she wouldn't have written the prescription. If Barbara meant something else, then she should not have said "only." I have commented on the exact words that Barbara wrote.
>
> Yes, I asked, but my question/post was actually directed to LaurenceD, since he was the one to ask me to > comment on the letter and court case. I'm glad you responded though.

> Whtz Happenin, thanks for your post. I'm reading, I'm digging, I'm asking questions and I'm trying to spit out the bad and keep the good and I'm calling things as I see them - and I'm trying to stick to the facts as presented. Probably not doing it perfectly, but then I suspect that few are to that point yet.

Posted by: LaurenceD May 7 2007, 08:37 AM

> QUOTE(Shiny Penny @ May 6 2007, 03:43 AM)
>
> LaurenceD - As I told you I reread Barbara's letter on Friday night. In my earlier reply to you I said that I thought Danny should have released the tapes to Barbara - this is my opinion based on what I read.

wouldn't take this "opinion" thing too serious. I never used the word when I asked for your thoughts on the etter. We can visit w/o and share views w/o everything being carefully scrutinized as an official opinion. For xample, you can say "I was horrified that DS would talk about his wife that way" -which is a reaction, not an pinion.

> QUOTE
>
> But you have asked me to give further opinion on or reaction to her letter. It's a long letter, and since you didn't ask me to respond to any particular part of her letter and it would take too long to try and give my opinion on everything (and at this point I am saddened by nearly all of what she related). So I have decided to respond to the one part of the letter where Barbara shares both what Danny and what Alyssa told her about the same situation/circumstances. My purpose is not really to express an opinion, but rather to give what could be called another interpretation of what she's written.

his helps us get to know you better. You picked the part of the letter you wanted, and avoided other parts hat have logical and precise relevance to the matter.

> QUOTE
>
> According to Barbara Danny says "he and Alyssa were great friends, they were buddies, and that he called her often and they had wonderful conversations." This is his take on their relationship.
>
> According to Barbara Alyssa says "We are NOT friends, he won't quit calling me." This is her take.

erfect. Thanks.

> QUOTE
>
> Is Danny lying when he says they are great friends? Probably not. He perceived the relationship as great. Is Alyssa lying when she says they are NOT friends - again probably not.

ood to see you're not afraid to offer an opinion. But...these are very easy and uninteresting oinions as you night have guessed.

> QUOTE
>
> This is one take on what Barbara said in a part of her letter. And I've only addressed this part because there are two points of view to compare. Keep in mind though that I'm presenting what could be another interpretation of the facts as presented by Barbara.

Vould you like to comment on the other important parts of Barbara's letter, or should I quote from other mportant parts of the letter and ask for your comments?

> QUOTE
>
> Now I'd be interested in knowing what you think this says about me!

That will unfold as time expires.

> QUOTE
>
> I won't go on much more on her letter, because you have asked me to also comment on the State of Illinois case. Other than reading a paragraph here or there I have not read it. It is a long document. Perhaps if there is a particular point that you would like me to give my take on or to present another point of view on, let me know. That way I can focus on something that is of particular interest to you.

I asked a very simple question: do you understand what 3abn was doing wrong? A simple yes or no will suffice. (The judge ruled against 3abn. They lost the legal challenge in court. It all had to do with rules for which Not-for-Profit organizations are required to abide by under Illinois State law. 3abn was in violation of those rules).

Let's hope that getting views from you on the court case will not be like pulling teeth. But if so, now I will understand a little better. Thanks for sharing. That helped a lot. Lots more to come!

Posted by: Fran May 10 2007, 12:31 AM

Shiny Penny:

Response Part #1

I have taken time to allow you to read and get familiar with BSDA without being chased off by my blunt remarks, which I do not intend to be so brash, but it comes out and it is just me. So do not take offense over anything that I say because it is not given to be offensive. I have a tendency to really believe that the shortest distance between two points is a straight line. Many others go the scenic route. We are just different thank God! Both ways are correct. There is no one way to say something. I will post this reply in several post so none will be too long. Stay with me ok?

> QUOTE
>
> Penny:
>
> Fran, Wow! Thank you for taking the time to provide the links, details and interpretations of the data found. I'm writing a rather long, detailed and technical response, in part because your post was also detailed.

Fran:

Actually, my post was not really that detailed to me, but to others I guess it could be. I only hit some light points to start people asking questions. Thank you so much for your response. Since you say you are into details, we should have fun reviewing even more items in those afore mentioned details. It is exciting to get a response from someone that has an understanding of the form 990's and non-profit accounting.

I feel as if I have died and gone to heaven. I sure hope the Lord has accounting in heaven. I want to count the stars and the sand of the sea. I want to know the number of the hairs on my head! Of course, once we get to heaven, God will have so much going on that accounting will fall by the wayside naturally.

> QUOTE(Fran @ May 4 2007, 01:22 AM)
>
> http://www.revenue.state.il.us/legalinformation/hearings/pt/pt04-1.pdf
>
> This is link to the IL vs. 3ABN Property Tax lawsuit. This comes from page 17. # 61.
>
> [/b][/color]
> Then read the footnotes #14 & #15 at the bottom of page 17.
> http://www.save3abn.com/3abn-form-990s.htm
>
> Choose the 2001 Form 990. An Adobe document will appear (All Documents cited here are in PDF format. Save them to your hard drive for future reference) Go to page 17 of this document.
>
> Read Statement #2 . This is where the $ 2,451,034 in Trust Fund information is found. It also includes the $14,282.00 of other ministries money being posted to 3ABN Income. Also they had not declared $13,862 in gains on certain Marketable Securities. Oops.
>
> Open the 2002 Form 990 and go to page 13 and read statement #2 again.
>
> Trust Funds not posted in the amount of $ 1,708,918.00
>
> The other entries are relevant too, but I need further information.
>
> How do I know these numbers deal with Trust Funds? The auditors told us! Refer back to footnote 15 page 17 of the Lawsuit.
>
> The auditor's answer that by telling us the Split Interest Agreements deal with Trust Funds. Just by reading the IRS Form 990's you can't tell what Split Interest Agreements are! However, the auditors informed us as to what it was.
>
> The other concern is that 3ABN is not following Generally Accepted Accounting Practices, GAAP. This raised the eyes of the auditors, as it should have. It certainly raised mine!
>
> A Corporation should have copies of every major accounting publication. Many are provided. The Journal of Accountancy covers new Accounting practices that keeps up with all of the new technologies that will affect Accounts and Accounting. It will also let you know about inportsnt publications. It also has lots of FASB's. (OK, so I am a sick woman!) An updated GAAP book is published every year.
>
> Read these documents through different eyes. This Lawsuit is full of information that has NOTHING TO DO WITH PROPERTY TAX at all! Keep your eyes open. The auditors are probably talking about their findings!
>
> Find how many times you read that the auditors were not provided information. Take note of those instances and ask yourself, "Why didn't they provide this requested information?"
>
> Read the reports and ask your shelf, "Why?"
>
> The information provided here comes from the IL vs. 3ABN Property Tax Lawsuit and the IRS Form 990's for 2001-2005.
>
> The link to the lawsuit is at the beginning of this post.
>
> The links to the Form 990's are at http://save3ABN.com
>
> On the left column click the title Danny Shelton
> Select Financial Allegations
> Select Form 990's
>
> This will get you to the IRS Form 990's. Remember, Documentation, Documentation, Documentation.

Posted by: Fran May 10 2007, 01:49 AM

Response Part #2

I hope this post does not attach itself to my previous post. I wanted a while before posting this. Sorry if it does.

> QUOTE
>
> Penny:
>
> I haven't had the chance to check all of what you sent me, but I did check the 2001 990. The auditor's concerns (as reported in the lawsuit documents) and what you had posted - gravely concerned, even alarmed, me. But, as I show below, there is no reason to be alarmed - at least not about the 990 in 2001.

ran:

ou said, "...there is no reason to be alarmed about the 990 in 2001."
re you sure? I was and am still shocked after three years of looking at it. However, that is OK! It ould be quite a boring world if we all agreed on everything; Right?

never meant I was "alarmed" at the 990's alone. The 990's reflect exactly what you stated; orrections to errors the auditors found.

t is the Lawsuit and the Auditor's responses that cause/caused me to pause and contemplate xactly what they really trying to say. The 990's are an accounting Statement of Historical ransactions. That is exactly what accounting is in actuality.

o you feel these amounts are "material?"

o you feel the "number of mistakes" listed are a reflection of grossly, incompetent management?

r, do you see/feel these large errors were flukes?

ince I have read about so many corrected mistakes in the 990's and in the audit reports, it gets arder for me trust the numbers in front of my eyes.

n all honesty, do these corrections reflect to you in some way that all mistakes were corrected?

o you ask questions about what happened in all the previous years of 1984-1999?

o you wonder what happened once the auditors left?

as it back to business as usual?

id 3ABN take strong actions to correct these policy/procedural black holes?

r do you feel it just put a band aid over the hole as a temporary plug to massive seepage?

id the same mistakes fall back into place once no one was looking?

What is it that makes you feel that all is well because they corrected a gross error?

> QUOTE
>
> Penny:
>
> The 990 states (and please correct me if I am wrong) - the information posted in Statement 2 (page 17):
>
> So I went back to part 1, Line 20 and that line reads "Other changes in net assets or fund balances (attach explanation)"

Fran:

This is correct! The 900's are similar to the 1040 where you must take a number that you have calculated and put it on another form, another line, in another place to add into the whole. This is the IRS's clever way to double check figures and calculations. In fact, the IRS will ask different questions that should result in the same answer, or one that the IRS can do a calculation on. Very clever they are!

Of course, there would be a change in Net Assets / Fund Balances and/or Income and Expense, because changes cause the old figures to become the new improved figures! That is what accounting is all about. It is impossible to make such changes and the balances of something NOT change.

> QUOTE
>
> Penny:
>
> I interpret this to mean that this 990 is correcting prior mistakes/errors and sometime in 2001 3ABN had recorded the previously unrecorded split interest agreements and also recorded the unrealized gains on marketable securities.

Fran:

I agree wholeheartedly with your interpretation. The auditors audited in 2000 & 2001 respectively. The corrections made stem from these findings. Being familiar with audit procedures, I know there is no such thing as a 100% audit of accounts. These figures are numbers the auditors FOUND. However, I find, in the Property Tax Lawsuit, the auditors were not provided enough information to be able to perform a comprehensive audit. Repeatedly you will find that information was "not available" or "it was not provided."

Posted by: Grith May 10 2007, 12:37 PM

> QUOTE(Fran @ May 10 2007, 03:49 AM)
>
> I agree wholeheartedly with your interpretation. The auditors audited in 2000 & 2001 respectively. The corrections made stem from these findings. Being familiar with audit procedures, I know there is no such thing as a 100% audit of accounts. These figures are numbers the auditors FOUND. However, I find, in the Property Tax Lawsuit, the auditors were not provided enough information to be able to perform a comprehensive audit. Repeatedly you will find that information was "not available" or "it was not provided."

Now that my non-mathematical brain can comprehend. The auditors could only audit the records that were provided to them.

Posted by: Fran May 10 2007, 08:56 PM

> QUOTE(Grith @ May 10 2007, 01:37 PM)
>
> Now that my non-mathematical brain can comprehend. The auditors could only audit the records that were provided to them.

Exactly ! This was not a good audit! More to come.

Posted by: Shepherdswife May 10 2007, 09:13 PM

> QUOTE(Fran @ May 10 2007, 01:31 AM)
>
> [b][color=#000099]Shiny Penny:
>
> Actually, my post was not really that detailed to me, but to others I guess it could be.

Fran--or someone else who might know,
Since you seem to be accounting-savvy, could you tell me whether people who donated back when 3ABN had non-profit status could be effected if 3ABN lost that status--could the donors be held liable for the deductions they took in previous years? Someone alluded to that, but I didn't know if it was reality or not.

No, I have never sent them anything, but am just curious. :-)

shepherdswife

Posted by: Fran May 10 2007, 10:36 PM

Response Part #3

> QUOTE
>
> Penny:
>
> To go into a little more detail on the unrealized gains - these gains were described as unrealized. Meaning that the end of year value of the securities was greater than the beginning of year value, but the marketable securities had not been sold during the year - hence the gain is unrealized.
>
> This is a paper gain that should have been recorded in an earlier year (2000?), but had not been. It seems to me that you are familiar with accounting and so would know that prior period adjustments (such as this unrealized gain) are made directly to retained earnings in the case of a corporation and in the case of not for profit organization would be an adjustment to the fund balance. Which is exactly what 3ABN did. Therefore, I am relieved to see that 3ABN had made the correction to the prior periods error!

ran:

t is a down right, dirty shame that GAAP makes us reveal unrealized gains! They are a gutsy crew ll right; "Trivial" too; detail upon details; it just never ends!

lany times, you must make year-end entries, then turn around only to reverse them. Many ompanies/corporations have software that has 2 accounting reports. One is for regular Financial tatements and another is just for IRS statements! What Fun, Fun, and more fun! These entries re the reason fiscal year end closing of the books are held open for maybe 10 or more days to nake sure all is taken care of before closing that door.

hat is probably why we receive all those annoying statements at the end of the year about nvestments. They are for reporting to the IRS! Even though it is only on paper, it is still a gain. If hat asset sold, it must have the proper valuation.

his is actually a good rule for any business to insure assets do not walk out the back, or, well, the ront door, so to speak! Keeping these issues up to date is essential. How else does the business now the true value of any asset without this information? It gives information that is considered vhen deciding to dispose of their investment or to hang on to it for further future gains. For armers, this is vital information on a daily basis. You have to know when to "hold" them and vhen to "fold" them when crops in storage are considered.

f you do not know the value of your assets, you will never know your true worth. If you have no lue as to what you have, it WILL ABSOLUTELY walk out the door. Therefore, in actuality, these AAP Principals are for the benefit/protection of the company as well as the IRS.

Vhen/if a company leaves a hole in an accounting link, or skims from the top, there WILL BSOLUTELY be others that WILL do the same thing. I will guarantee that! How will you know? orget it; you will have no way of knowing.

lany companies find balancing checking accounts impossible. They have bank accounts just for ayroll, for projects and so forth. This is a vital step in accounting. It should be done before the OM books close! In accounting, timing is very important. Some say it is everything! Corrections fter the fact skew the data on which current decisions are based!

have, in the past, actually received Invoices for purchases never made or received. Thanks to the urchase order system, payments are not allowed on such invoices. I went to work for a company nd found five such invoices in the first month. I could not find receiving reports, purchase orders, uthorizations to buy or any evidence the items were actually purchased or received.

he accounts payable clerk had set up companies and started sending the company invoices and he paid these invoices into her companies. Inside of 3 weeks, she no longer worked for the ompany. She had been doing that for years! She was also padding Petty Cash with her personal eceipts! The Petty Cash had $6,000.00 in it. Three weeks later, it had $250.00. The company was oo embarrassed to press charges! Go figure? She also had the company paying for her life nsurance policies. She just added herself to the owner's payments. That was a really fun job!

lot recording everything contaminates the picture of the company as a whole. Please accept that eneral mistakes are always made. Nothing is perfect. These errors are expected by auditors in eneral. It is when they find these mistakes are consistently done that causes them to realize that omething is not right somewhere.

lease realize this general information is in simple language. This is not a comprehensive course n accounting. These are just thought that I have tried to put in a way for everyone to understand. lease excuse my oversimplifying the process.

lso, if you are an honest business person, embrace the GAAP. It will protect you and your ompany. The principes are there to protects you and your assets.

GAAP is a "GODD THING:" right, Martha Stew ... ?

More later.

Posted by: Pickle May 10 2007, 10:42 PM

So Fran, when you speak of 3ABN not using GAAP accounting, are you saying that they use GAP instead?

Posted by: Eirene May 10 2007, 11:01 PM

> QUOTE(Shepherdswife @ May 10 2007, 10:13 PM)
>
> Fran--or someone else who might know,
> Since you seem to be accounting-savvy, could you tell me whether people who donated back when 3ABN had non-profit status could be effected if 3ABN lost that status--could the donors be held liable for the deductions they took in previous years? Someone alluded to that, but I didn't know if it was reality or not.
>
> No, I have never sent them anything, but am just curious. :-)
>
> shepherdswife

In answer to your question, no they wouldn't be. But you said "back when 3abn had non profit status." They have non profit status presently and will continue to while the tax case is in appeal. The attorney's feel the appeal case is very promising.

Posted by: Fran May 10 2007, 11:26 PM

> QUOTE(Shepherdswife @ May 10 2007, 10:13 PM)
>
> Fran--or someone else who might know,
> Since you seem to be accounting-savvy, could you tell me whether people who donated back when 3ABN had non-profit status could be effected if 3ABN lost that status--could the donors be held liable for the deductions they took in previous years? Someone alluded to that, but I didn't know if it was reality or not.
>
> No, I have never sent them anything, but am just curious. :-)
>
> shepherdswife

This would be decided by the recommendations of the Governing Agency that takes the status away. These folks have rules for everything! It would depend on many different things.

We, of course, desire 3ABN to continue with its Ministry of providing air pathways for the gospel to go to the world. I believe 3ABN should be saved along with its 501 © 3 status.

In my opinion, once the management, accounting processes and corporate culture are completely changed; when 3ABN completely reflects Christ as well as accountability; when 3ABN is healthy again, and I believe this will happen; then we will see how quickly things will begin to happen to hasten the return of our Lord.

Posted by: Fran May 10 2007, 11:41 PM

> QUOTE(Pickle @ May 10 2007, 11:42 PM) ☐
>
> So Fran, when you speak of 3ABN not using GAAP accounting, are you saying that they use GAP instead?

i am sorry, Bob, "Information was not available" or "Information was not provided;" therefore, I was not able to give an evaluation or opinion of this matter, at this time.

Posted by: Fran May 11 2007, 01:38 AM

> QUOTE(Eirene @ May 11 2007, 12:01 AM) ☐
>
> In answer to your question, no they wouldn't be. But you said "back when 3abn had non profit status." They have non profit status presently and will continue to while the tax case is in appeal. The attorney's feel the appeal case is very promising.

Eirene;

This is not true in ALL Federal or State cases. It is certainly the case in SOME Federal or State cases. The current Property Tax Lawsuit against 3ABN is going to tried in the State of IL. This is entirely a State case, for now.

It is not good to confuse the State and Federal rulings. Each stand on their own.

Will the case ever go Federal?

Will 3ABN lose the state exemption, but maintain the Federal?

Will this case go to a higher level?

Will the State of IL call another audit to see if previous errors were actually changed?

Will they do the same thing over again?

Will having a Seventh-day Adventist Church on 3ABN property qualify 3ABN as having a church even though it is a Seventh-day Adventist Conference Church?

Will having a Seventh-day Adventist School on 3ABN property qualify the 3ABN entity tax exemption even though it is not a 3ABN School?

3ABN sells many goods and services. Will this be a factor in this case again?

3ABN donated money to the Thompsonville School. Was this donation made to provide evidence they are reaching out to their community?

Will this satisfy the Local School District and the State of IL?

Will the 10 CoOmmandment's Day Event help qualify as public outreach?

What happens if the "In-reach" is more than the "Out-reach"?

Will this tilt the balance for In-reach as more than Outreach and thus not qualify as a valid outreach?

When Danny promotes books and other items that Danny Lee Shelton Publisher markets, Does he pay 3ABN for the air time for the commercials?

Since he is a Publisher for 3ABN, what does 3ABN pay Danny Lee Shelton for this service?

Do you have any answers for us?

Posted by: Shepherdswife May 11 2007, 04:59 AM

> QUOTE(Eirene @ May 11 2007, 01:01 AM)
>
> In answer to your question, no they wouldn't be. But you said "back when 3abn had non profit status." They have non profit status presently and will continue to while the tax case is in appeal. The attorney's feel the appeal case is very promising.

Thanks for the correction.

Yes, I know that they still have it, I was trying to say that if they lost it, would the people who donated "back when they had it" have to re-file. Just didn't make myself clear...

shepherdswife

Posted by: Observer May 11 2007, 05:48 AM

> QUOTE(Shepherdswife @ May 11 2007, 04:59 AM)
>
> Thanks for the correction.
>
> Yes, I know that they still have it, I was trying to say that if they lost it, would the people who donated "back when they had it" have to re-file. Just didn't make myself clear...
>
> shepherdswife

Let me comment:

The decision by Judge Rowe applied strictly to the issue of whether or not 3-ABN had some minor tax liability. On that specific issue Judge Rowe rulled that they did, and found that 3-ABN did not qualify under IL law for an exemption due to being a not-for-profit organization.

However, it must be pointed out that the only issue tried by Judge Rowe was related to exemption from certain school taxes. Judge Rowe did not try the issue of whether or not 3-ABN was entitled to a not-for-profit status, and/or exemptions under either Federal or IL law.

This may sound like a strange situation. It allows 3-ABN to continue to be registered as a not-for-profit organization under IL and Federal law, and to recieve whatever exemptions Federal and State law give to it, while at the same time being required to pay local school taxes.

While this may seem strange, it is quite understandable. Judge Rowe not only did not try an issue that involved IL and Federal registrations, but she did not have the jurisdiction to try the Federal issues, and probably did not have the jurisdiction to try the IL issues. Her authority was strictly limited to the issue of local school tax payments.

Therefore, at the present time, contributions made to 3-ABN may be tax deductable. To change that would require either a new trial on the issues, or an administrative ruling by either the IRS, or the proper IL agency.

NOTE: Why did I say "may be?" Simply because I cannot give individual tax advice. For individual tax advice, you will need to consult a competent person trained in tax issues. Frankly, if you exceed your deductions limit, or must pay that alternative minimumn tax, you are in a different situation.

Posted by: LaurenceD May 11 2007, 07:35 AM

> QUOTE(Observer)
>
> Her authority was strictly limited to the issue of local school tax payments.

A little clarification. The court document refers to property taxes, of which school taxes typically draw a portion of the total property tax. The school district is probaably only one entity that had something to gain and may have reported the misuse of 3abn's exemption status which led to a state dept. of revenue investigation, and thus the finding and the trial. Generally, the local county is the lead agency for property tax disbursement, sending a high percentage back to the state, a lesser percentage to the local city (and to the county itself), perhaps a large portion to the school district, and a small portion to other districts such as fire, emergency, irrigation, etc., etc.,...basically any agency that levied a tax on the property. This is likely how the school district fits in with the challenge. Notice the case on the docket is 3abn v. the state:

3 ANGELS BROADCASTING NETWORK

v.

THE DEPARTMENT OF REVENUE
OF THE STATE OF ILLINOIS

Tax Type: Property tax
Issue: Religious Ownership/Use

Appearances: Mr. Kent R. Steinkamp, Special Assistant Attorney General for the Illinois Department of Revenue; Mr. Nicholas P. Miller, Sidley, Austin, Brown, Wood, L.L.C., Mr. Lee Boothby, Boothby and Yingst, and Mr. D. Michael Riva for 3 Angels Broadcasting Network; Ms. Merry Rhodes and Ms. Joanne H. Petty, Robbins, Schwartz, Nicholas, Lifton and Taylor, Ltd. for Thompsonville Community High School District 112.

FINDINGS OF FACT:
1. The jurisdiction and position of the Department that Franklin County Parcel Index No. 174-116-11 did not qualify for a property tax exemption for the 2000 and 2001 assessment years were established by the admission into evidence of Dept. Ex. Nos. 1and 2. (Tr. p. 27)

2. The Department received the requests for exemption of Franklin County Parcel Index No. 174-116-11 for the 2000 and 2001 assessment years. In 2000, the assessed value of the property was $505,500; in 2001, $556,050.

BTW, I noticed Eirene said 3abn's "attorney's feel the appeal case is very promising." It should be understood this is normal for an attorney to say to a client. And often will do so even knowing there's little chance of success. The reason why should never be in doubt--for those who understand the system. :wink:

Posted by: Noahswife May 11 2007, 08:06 AM

> QUOTE(LaurenceD @ May 11 2007, 08:35 AM)
>
> BTW, I noticed Eirene said 3abn's "attorney's feel the appeal case is very promising." It should be understood this is normal for an attorney to say to a client. And often will do so even knowing there's little chance of success. The reason why should never be in doubt--for those who understand the system. :wink:

Seems like I hinted at something similar when I asked on another thread how willing the law firm representing DS would be to pursue the claim if they took the case against Joy and Pickle on contingency.......

Posted by: lurker May 11 2007, 08:17 AM

> QUOTE(Noahswife @ May 11 2007, 08:06 AM)
>
> Seems like I hinted at something similar when I asked on another thread how willing the law firm representing DS would be to pursue the claim if they took the case against Joy and Pickle on contingency.......

I have been wondering exactly what is sealed in the lawsuit involving Pickle and Joy and whether documents or testimony that might have been helpful to Linda in her case are at least temporarily made unavailable to her attorney by this sealing.

Posted by: LaurenceD May 11 2007, 08:40 AM

> QUOTE(Noahswife)
>
> Seems like I hinted at something similar when I asked on another thread how willing the law firm representing DS would be to pursue the claim if they took the case against Joy and Pickle on contingency.......

doubt if any attorney would take this type of case on contigency fees...which mean they're entitled to ometimes half the selttlement--if they win--rather than working by the hour.

nd BTW, the case with 3abn v. the State of Illinios, is not really a regular court trial. Administrative Law udges conduct trials like regular court trials, but it's different. You can read a little about it here ttp://www.answers.com/topic/administrative-law-judge think the reason different types of judges (not subject to legislative approval) exist is because of the ifferent levels of law. State laws are generally made up of three categories: administrative rules, legislative ules, and a constitutional rules (both state, feds). So, an Adminstrative Law is usually pretty clear, and as he link indicates, all administrative appeals must be exhausted before anyone can actually sue. It's not likely his type of challenge (property tax exemption) would ever go to a regular public trial, or a district court of ppeals, or a supreme court of any kind (state, or fed).

Posted by: Observer May 11 2007, 08:42 AM

[quote name='lurker' date='May 11 2007, 07:17 AM' post='195046']
I have been wondering exactly what is sealed in the lawsuit involving Pickle and Joy and whether documents or testimony that might have been helpful to Linda in her case are at least temporarily made unavailable to her

I do not know. My comment is speculative.

I do not believe that there is likely to be much in the sealed documents, at this time, that would be helpful to Linda.

However, I will suggest that all informed persons think that there is a potential for evidence to be presented to the court at a later time that would potentially be helpful to Linda. That might be a reason to seal the documents now. Or, perhaps, there is something, unrelated to Linda, in the presently sealed documents, that 3-ABN does not want to be public.

Legal documents are typically sealed (inpounded) on a temp. basis, until there can be a full legal hearing on that issue, and the judge can rule on it. Sometimes that ruling will come at the first hearing. Sometimes, more than one hearing will be required before the judge can make a carefully considered ruling. In any case, even without knowing the sealed records, we can assume that the impoundment of the documents will be an issue that will be dwelt with very early on in this case. Whether it will be decided in one hearing, or several, remains to be seen.

The options for the judge are generally to:

1) Immediately release the documents.

2) Seal the documenets for a limited period of time.

3) Seal them forever.

Which of these will be the final ruling is speculative.

Posted by: Eirene May 11 2007, 11:37 AM

QUOTE(Observer @ May 11 2007, 06:48 AM)

> Let me comment:
>
> The decision by Judge Rowe applied strictly to the issue of whether or not 3-ABN had some minor tax liability. On that specific issue Judge Rowe rulled that they did, and found that 3-ABN did not qualify under IL law for an exemption due to being a not-for-profit organization.
>
> However, it must be pointed out that the only issue tried by Judge Rowe was related to exemption from certain school taxes. Judge Rowe did not try the issue of whether or not 3-ABN was entitled to a not-for-profit status, and/or exemptions under either Federal or IL law.
>
> This may sound like a strange situation. It allows 3-ABN to continue to be registered as a not-for-profit organization under IL and Federal law, and to recieve whatever exemptions Federal and State law give to it, while at the same time being required to pay local school taxes.
>
> While this may seem strange, it is quite understandable. Judge Rowe not only did not try an issue that involved IL and Federal registrations, but she did not have the jurisdiction to try the Federal issues, and probably did not have the jurisdiction to try the IL issues. Her authority was strictly limited to the issue of local school tax payments.
>
> Therefore, at the present time, contributions made to 3-ABN may be tax deductable. To change that would require either a new trial on the issues, or an administrative ruling by either the IRS, or the proper IL agency.
>
> NOTE: Why did I say "may be?" Simply because I cannot give individual tax advice. For individual tax advice, you will need to consult a competent person trained in tax issues. Frankly, if you exceed your deductions limit, or must pay that alternative minimumn tax, you are in a different situation.

Greg, usually you and I are on different sides but, in this case, you are the first here, to put the tax case in the proper perspective. Contrary to those here who have tried to make a "federal case" out of it, (forgive the pun) this was a very limited and localized case concerning school taxes.
As you pointed out, the judge did not even have the jurisdiction to go into tax exempt status change.
This case was approximately 4 years ago? Contributors have been receiving their tax deductable statements all of these years since the ruling. I know, I have donated in that time period.
The importance and evil surmising that has been put on this case is just, once again, fodder for the gossip mill.
Thanks for telling the truth of the matter.

> QUOTE(Shepherdswife @ May 11 2007, 05:59 AM)
>
> Thanks for the correction.
>
> Yes, I know that they still have it, I was trying to say that if they lost it, would the people who donated "back when they had it" have to re-file. Just didn't make myself clear...
>
> shepherdswife

Thanks, I understand. I am positive that they wouldn't.

> QUOTE(Fran @ May 11 2007, 02:38 AM)
>
> [b]Eirene;
>
> This is not true in ALL Federal or State cases. It is certainly the case in SOME Federal or State cases. The current Property Tax Lawsuit against 3ABN is going to tried in the State of IL. This is entirely a State case, for now.

> It is not good to confuse the State and Federal rulings. Each stand on their own.

ran, I don't believe anywhere in my post did I mention FEDERAL period much less confuse the issue with it. Ve know this is at the state level. s for the rest of "your" questions, it would not be wise to speculate. How could we possibly know if the case vill even go that far? Or, if it does, what questions,if any, would the judge deem important to ask. Also when he answers are provided who could possibly guess if those answers will be accepted or ruled against. One an't know the mind of a judge in any given situation so speculation on such matters, to me, seem a waste of ime and energy.

Posted by: Noahswife May 11 2007, 12:26 PM

> QUOTE(Eirene @ May 11 2007, 01:37 PM)
>
> Greg, usually you and I are on different sides but, in this case, you are the first here, to put the tax case in the proper perspective. Contrary to those here who have tried to make a "federal case" out of it, (forgive the pun) this was a very limited and localized case concerning school taxes.
> As you pointed out, the judge did not even have the jurisdiction to go into tax exempt status change.

irene,

f this is such a simple matter of "very limited and localized " concern, why was Liberty Magazine weighing in n it? Why did Bystander I believe also suggest that other churches are watching the outcome on appeal? And re you stating here that if the appeal is lost there is no concern in Thompsonville at the consequences?

have asked before of those who claim to be familiar with the case if amicus briefs were filed on 3abn's ehalf with the appellate court? I was ignored. Can you tell me if any were?

ee Lee Boothby article----> http://www.libertymagazine.org/article/view/367

Posted by: Noahswife May 11 2007, 01:06 PM

> QUOTE(LaurenceD @ May 11 2007, 10:40 AM)
>
> I doubt if any attorney would take this type of case on contigency fees...which mean they're entitled to sometimes half the selttlement--if they win--rather than working by the hour.

D, no attorney in their right mind would agree to a contingency fee in this case. And the DS-fingers should ot think for one moment anyone will determine/believe the viability of DS's cause of action merely because omeone is paying big bucks to a large law firm to file the claim. Didn't we read somewhere several weeks go that the firm has a reputation for settlements?

Posted by: Pickle May 11 2007, 01:28 PM

> QUOTE(Eirene @ May 11 2007, 11:37 AM)
>
> Contrary to those here who have tried to make a "federal case" out of it, (forgive the pun) this was a very limited and localized case concerning school taxes.
> As you pointed out, the judge did not even have the jurisdiction to go into tax exempt status change.

It seems to me, Eirene, that you are intentionally minimalizing the potential significance of that case. The decision was that 3ABN is not operating as a 501©3 should, correct? And even if the judge was not a federal judge, her findings could be used in the future as a basis for revoking 3ABN's tax-exempt status. Right?

That being the case, that decision is extremely significant even though 3ABN currently still is a 501©3.

Posted by: Observer May 11 2007, 01:38 PM

> QUOTE(Noahswife @ May 11 2007, 11:26 AM)
>
> Eirene,
>
> If this is such a simple matter of "very limited and localized " concern, why was Liberty Magazine weighing in on it? Why did Bystander I believe also suggest that other churches are watching the outcome on appeal? And are you stating here that if the appeal is lost there is no concern in Thompsonville at the consequences?
>
> I have asked before of those who claim to be familiar with the case if amicus briefs were filed on 3abn's behalf with the appellate court? I was ignored. Can you tell me if any were?
>
> See Lee Boothby article----> http://www.libertymagazine.org/article/view/367

Liberty Magazine. . . Why?: The Liberty Magazine article is an interesting one. There are a couple of factors that I think are of interest:

1) It was written by an attorney retained by 3-ABN to try the case.

2) It was written prior to the decision by Judge Rowe.

I do not suggest that we need to case aspersions on the lawyer who wrote the article. I consider him to be an honorable person. But, I can assume that the article was written from the perspective that he used to contribute to the trial before Judge Rowe. In addition, I will suggest that it was written from a hope that other organizations would see it as a seminal case that would lay the groundwork for potential issues on a wider scale regarding taxation of religious organizations.

I can understand the position that Judge Rowe's ruling could lay the groundwork for larger issues. I have argued that point myself at times. But, I do not believe that we have to make a mountain out of a mole-hill. On its face, the ruling of Judge Rowe only affected the payment of school taxes, and nothing else. I own a home. When I get a notice of local taxes due, it is a collection of taxes due to a collection of local taxing authorities--school district, fire district, etc. Each one of then is independent, any any decision in regard to one has no effect on any of the others. The only effect will be on my total tax bill. When one of the independent taxing authorities goes either up or down, so also does my total bill.

NOTE: In the State where I live, there are a number of independent taxing authorities. Without looking at my bill, I am probably taxed by 6 or 7 such, in one combined bill.

It is highly unlikely that the decision of Judge Rowe could transfer directly into other venues. I doubt that her decision would set any precedent in other venues. As her decision did not directly affect the not-for-profit status of 3-ABN under either IL or Federal law, there would have to be either, depending upon the issues and the law, an administrative ruling, or a trial on the issues for 3-ABN to have its statue affected.

As to the potential here, regarding Judge Rowe: If such an attempt was made in regard to either Federal or IL status, the one trying the case could attempt to use the same reasoning of Judge Rowe. In addition, the decision of Judge Rowe could encourage someone to raise the same issues in other venues. Again, doing so would require a new trial on the merits.

> QUOTE(Pickle @ May 11 2007, 12:28 PM)
>
> It seems to me, Eirene, that you are intentionally minimalizing the potential significance of that case. The decision was that 3ABN is not operating as a 501©3 should, correct? And even if the judge was not a federal judge, her findings could be used in the future as a basis for revoking 3ABN's tax-exempt status. Right?
>
> That being the case, that decision is extremely significant even though 3ABN currently still is a 501©3.

Bob, No. It is highly unlikely (impossible is probably more accurate) that Judge Rowes decision would ever set a precedent on a trial on the issues in either IL or the Federal courts.

Posted by: LaurenceD May 11 2007, 03:19 PM

Another point of clarification. As I understand it, administrative judges do not make decisions, only recommendations...which have the same effect unless challenged/appealed. There may also be several levels of administrative judges in Illinois. Appeal would then be to the next level (perhaps even an administrative panel of legal experts) if the highest level has not alredy been reached. And if the appeal were denied there, one party could then sue the other and take it to a district court...and on from there.

The places in the Recommendation that refer to the US Code, Section 501©(3), are these:

> The purposes for which the corporation is organized are exclusively religious, charitable or educational within the meaning of Section 501©(3) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954, as amended, (page 5)

> Applicant is not required to pay federal income tax pursuant to a finding by the Internal Revenue Service that applicant is an exempt organization under Section 501©(3) of the Internal Revenue Code. (Applicant's Ex. Nos. 4, 5) (page 20)

> Applicant's by-laws allow it, inter alia, (1) to develop religious programming for electronic transmission, (2) to buy and sell television and radio apparatus, (3) to develop, promote and produce recorded music and video programs, (4) to own or operate facilities for the public's welfare, (5) solicit support for its activities from the public, (6) promote interests of other affiliated organizations (7) own and lease property, (8) contract with other organizations in furtherance of applicant's purposes, and (9) operate within the meaning of section 501©(3) of the Internal Revenue Code. Although these by-laws express, generically, that the corporate purposes are exclusively religious, charitable, scientific or educational, the enumerated > provisions illustrate that the organizational documents fail to satisfy the threshold tests set forth in Crerar v. Williams, supra. (page 39)

>
> The purposes set forth in applicant's by-laws are that the applicant, in conjunction with various religious organizations, will develop and produce electronic transmission for television and radio broadcasting throughout the world. These purposes in and of themselves have no relationship to the guidelines listed in Methodist Old People's Home, supra. Further, the bylaws submitted by applicant are not complete, did not contain the entire corporate purpose section, and express, generically that the corporate purposes are religious, charitable, scientific or educational within the meaning of Section 501©(3) of the Internal Revenue Code. There is no language or prevailing authority that requires charity at all in the governing mandate for applicant and the by-laws state nothing about charity under the Illinois Constitution as it pertains to the grant of property tax exemptions. (page 40)
>
> The Department, as shown by these cases, grants exemptions for religious organizations that use property for exempt religious purposes and not with a view to profit. As discussed above, applicant is not only not a religious organization, but, more importantly, does not primarily use the property for religious purposes without a view to profit.
> For the aforementioned reasons it is recommended that Franklin County Parcel Index No. 174-116-11 remain on the tax rolls for the 2000 and 2001 assessment years and be assessed to the applicant, the owner thereof, except for the two pastor's offices, each measuring 14 feet by 18 feet, on the second floor of the administrative production center building, and a corresponding amount of land. That area, I recommend, be granted a property tax exemption as used for religious purposes without a view to profit.
>
> Respectfully Submitted,
> Barbara S. Rowe
> Administrative Law Judge
> January 28, 2004 (last page)

3abn's use of their property was found to be not in keeping with 3abn's application to the state for Not-For-Profit status--as per within the "meaning" of Section 501©(3) of the Internal Revenue Code, and above that--within the meaning of the state code for such organizations. So therefore, the property is to be assessed it's normal value, and collected, by the county assessor, and disbursed in the normal fashion to whichever agencies are entiled to property tax. If, for example, the property was assessed at $550,000 in the year 2000, the mill rate set by county commisioners may bring the annual taxes to $15,000 to be distributed in the normal fashion according to the levy breakdowns and percentages set to affected agencies--including Thompsonville Community High School District 112. Over and over the judge demonstrates 3abn has failed to meet the threshold set by the state for property tax exemption--except for two small rooms as noted in the last paragraph. So, the majority of the property gets assesed like any other for profit corporation.

Think about it. Does your local book store, such as Barnes and Noble, get exempt from paying property taxes simply because they sell religious books, CDs, and DVDs, and hold wholesome cooking classes and promote a good way of life in most of the store? No. Does any independent radio station get exempt from property tax for playing religious music? Or independent TV stations for broadcasting religious programs on Sunday morning? No. They're independent for propfit enterprises.

It works the same for seniors in many states who are entitled to partial exemptions and who have incomes of less than $33,000. My folks, for example, instead of paying the full $2,000 anual property tax to the county (and distributed to the affected agencies), will only pay $440 because the state gives them a break. Not-For-Profit organizations would get the full break and pay zero. The money the county gets is still divided to the agencies according to the normal plan...it's just less money they get, except the state reimburses the county for senior exemptions. It's a state policy set by the legislative body and signed into law by the governor. Not-For-Profit exemptions are not reimbursed by the state. It just a loss of funds to the local agencies. Small cities, for example, have to contend with the fact that they may have a state college, three public shools, and 27 churches, all within the city limits--none of which contribute to the property tax funds. Every local agency suffers--including the schools, cities, and county, etc., and in some cases, it may mean as much as 25-35% less revenue than if those properties were poulated with general commercial.

In sympathy with 3abn, they probably did not hire specialized administrative lawyers, but more to do with a legal team specializing in constitutional and religious freedom. Big mistake, although I'm not sure it would have made a difference. Administrative law is clear and has been tried and tested as you see in the case law the judge cited.

Bottom line: Administrative Law is quite clear. Chances of changing it are slim to none.

Posted by: Pickle May 11 2007, 04:03 PM

> QUOTE(Observer @ May 11 2007, 01:38 PM)
>
> Bob, No. It is highly unlikely (impossible is probably more accurate) that Judge Rowes decision would ever set a precedent on a trial on the issues in either IL or the Federal courts.

Gailon thought it could be used as a basis for such, but of course, he could be wrong.

Posted by: mozart May 11 2007, 06:22 PM

hmm....something just came to mind and i'll admit right now that i'm dumb as a post when it comes to stuff like this, but i am logical.
could the concern for the loss of tax-exempt status for 3abn be a reason to merge (venture) with other tax-exempt entities? let's say if the merge is with more than AF; like for instance, ASI, Weimar & AF or could there be more involved to save this 501c3 status before it's ruled on? could this be the "emergency"?

> QUOTE(Pickle @ May 11 2007, 12:28 PM)
>
> It seems to me, Eirene, that you are intentionally minimalizing the potential significance of that case. The decision was that 3ABN is not operating as a 501©3 should, correct? And even if the judge was not a federal judge, her findings could be used in the future as a basis for revoking 3ABN's tax-exempt status. Right?
>
> That being the case, that decision is extremely significant even though 3ABN currently still is a 501©3.

Posted by: LaurenceD May 11 2007, 07:00 PM

> QUOTE(mozart)
>
> hmm....something just came to mind and i'll admit right now that i'm dumb as a post when it comes to stuff like this, but i am logical. could the concern for the loss of tax-exempt status for 3abn be a reason to > merge (venture) with other tax-exempt entities? let's say if the merge is with more than AF; like for instance, ASI, Weimar & AF or could there be more involved to save this 501c3 status before it's ruled on? could this be the "emergency"?

'ou're not alone. I was thinking along those same lines. When we see the final results, I think we'll propbably ealize how simple it was...follow the money. I was going to compile a list of all the slots AF would fill to make t possible for 3abn to claim a true exemption. There might be a more solid church connection. DS said they vere missing a school to teach evengelism. AF could nicely fill that slot and 3abn could provide the area. And here's more, but this is all evil surmising, mozart. The compound would be a lot happier if we'd stop trying to inish a bad picture of a puzzle they started and left us to guess about.

Posted by: mozart May 11 2007, 07:05 PM

you callin' me evil LD? ☒ 2a ☒ 2a ☒ 2a take that !! ☒ rofl

> QUOTE(LaurenceD @ May 11 2007, 06:00 PM) ☐
>
> You're not alone. I was thinking along those same lines. When we see the final results, I think we'll propbably realize how simple it was...follow the money. I was going to compile a list of all the slots AF would fill to make it possible for 3abn to claim a true exemption. There might be a more solid church connection. DS said they were missing a school to teach evengelism. AF could nicely fill that slot and 3abn could provide the area. And there's more, but this is all evil surmising, mozart. The compound would be a lot happier if we'd stop trying to finish a bad picture of a puzzle they started and left us to guess about.

Posted by: Fran May 11 2007, 11:36 PM

> QUOTE(mozart @ May 11 2007, 07:22 PM) ☐
>
> hmm....something just came to mind and I'll admit right now that I'm dumb as a post when it comes to stuff like this, but i am logical.
> could the concern for the loss of tax-exempt status for 3abn be a reason to merge (venture) with other tax-exempt entities? let's say if the merge is with more than AF; like for instance, ASI, Weimar & AF or could there be more involved to save this 501c3 status before it's ruled on? could this be the "emergency"?

ozart,

think you are right on!

on't feel like a post! You are not! Isn't it fun to have an a-ha moment?

his is becoming a great thread because many are contributing. Others are clearing up the things I m not to intellectually inclines to study or understand, such as State Law!

worked for the Federal Government so therefore, I understand more of Federal law. That was he emphasis of my studies and familiarity of my work experience.

owever, this does not mean we are stupid!

This thread is a co-operative event. We all complement each other. Others will clarify points others don't catch, or may feel is irrelevant, but in actuality it is relevant.

I appreciate all the comments that have been made. It is my hope this will continue in the days to come.

I haven't finished my reply to Penny as yet. When I do, I want to move to the IL vs 3ABN Property Tax lawsuit from where my understanding is and I beg others to fill in where I am lacking.

I believe the case needs to be see from the right, left and center. I believe we need to turn it over and stand it back up to see it from many prospectives.

Remember folks, no arguing that your point is right and everyone else is wrong! There are many ways to say the same thing. Let us explore those.

You all know where my emphasis will be. Please fill in what I miss and misrepresent. No one is 100% right and no one is 100% wrong. Come let us reason together and let the "Now, I get it's" run rampant.

Special request. No put downs of anyone please. We have been there and done that. I will try to be a good girl if you will try to be good too.

Please continue to post on your expertise on the law. I appreciate your knowledge and understanding of matters that are not my forte`.

This is going to be great because we have views from you, Lawrence D, Observer, Bob Pickle and MANY others. I am really excited about this!

Posted by: Observer May 12 2007, 06:22 AM

> QUOTE(Fran @ May 11 2007, 10:36 PM)
>
> Mozart,
>
> I think you are right on!
>
> Don't feel like a post! You are not! Isn't it fun to have an a-ha moment?
>
> This is becoming a great thread because many are contributing. Others are clearing up the things I am not to intellectually inclines to study or understand, such as State Law!
>
> I worked for the Federal Government so therefore, I understand more of Federal law. That was the emphasis of my studies and familiarity of my work experience.
>
> However, this does not mean we are stupid!
>
> This thread is a co-operative event. We all complement each other. Others will clarify points others don't catch, or may feel is irrelevant, but in actuality it is relevant.
>
> I appreciate all the comments that have been made. It is my hope this will continue in the days to come.
>
> I haven't finished my reply to Penny as yet. When I do, I want to move to the IL vs 3ABN Property Tax lawsuit from where my understanding is and I beg others to fill in where I am lacking.
>
> I believe the case needs to be see from the right, left and center. I believe we need to turn it over and stand it back up to see it from many prospectives.

> Remember folks, no arguing that your point is right and everyone else is wrong! There are many ways to say the same thing. Let us explore those.
>
> You all know where my emphasis will be. Please fill in what I miss and misrepresent. No one is 100% right and no one is 100% wrong. Come let us reason together and let the "Now, I get it's" run rampant.
>
> Special request. No put downs of anyone please. We have been there and done that. I will try to be a good girl if you will try to be good too.
>
> Please continue to post on your expertise on the law. I appreciate your knowledge and understanding of matters that are not my forte`.
>
> This is going to be great because we have views from you, Lawrence D, Observer, Bob Pickle and MANY others. I am really excited about this!

rom where I am standing, I believe that this is a very complex issue. I believe that it may have multiple actors, and that we cannot pin it to one factor, ruling out all others.

egal: Regardless of the applicability of Judge Rowe's decision in other venues, it would be prudent for 3-BNs legal advisers to fix any issues that they saw. I think that we can see a series of changes in which this s being done. That is simply a wise move on their part. It is a responsible move. 3-ABN owes it to those who ontribute to fix any potential problems prior to they becoming an actual issue.

ission: Both Amazing Facts and 3-ABN have a stated mission. As I look at their organization, and the esources that they each have, there is some wisdom in combining assets to accomplish their individual nissions. The reason for that is that each has some assets not held by the other that would benefit the other. e. AF has some assets that would be of benefit to 3-ABN, and 3-ABN has some assets that would be of enefit to AF. In the interests of economy, and reduction of duplication, there are benefits to each if they can ome to an agreement as to how they will unite.

can also come up with several more reasons why some sort of a merger would be of mutual benefit to one r both AF and 3-ABN. However, some of these get into the realm of speculation in a manner that I do not vant to get into at the moment. Maybe I will later. But, for now, I would like to wait and see. I do think that ve are going to have to wait and see for some of these.

ne such issue: The impoundment of the records in the litigation that has been filed against Gailon Joy and ob Pickle is of interest to me. I would very much like to read those records. It may be that they contain nformation that would help us to understand more of what is going on with 3-ABN? Or, it might be that they o not. I do not know.

Posted by: LaurenceD May 12 2007, 06:54 AM

> QUOTE(Fran)
>
> I believe the case needs to be see from the right, left and center. I believe we need to turn it over and stand it back up to see it from many prospectives.

Vrite on! Maybe this needs a thread of it's own...and we could somehow bring all the important related posts ogether.

'd like to tie some things together. You mentioned federal law and state law. Lurker just posted a link on nother thread regarding IRS guidelines for defining a church. In that link http://www.runquist.com/ARTICLE_ReligTax.htm author Runquist clarifies some distinctions showing that property tax is a state issue and religious classification a federal issue--and that why judge Rowe repeats "meaning" of Section 501©(3)...

> The Internal Revenue Code provides certain benefits to churches not available to other nonprofit exempt organizations (including other religious organizations). Because of this, it is important to know how a "church" is defined.
>
> (snip)
>
> The property tax treatment of exempt organizations depends on the use which is made of the property. This aspect of taxation is exclusively a matter of state law. For example, some states exempt the parsonage from tax, while others do not.

Observer referred to 3abn's property exemption as a "seminal case that would lay the groundwork for potential issues on a wider scale regarding taxation of religious organizations."

Then notice what judge Rowe says...

> applicant is not only not a religious organization, but, more importantly, does not primarily use the property for religious purposes without a view to profit.

So, there are several things going on here that may lead to a misunderstanding. 3abn in a non-profit organization under the IRS code, and a not-for-profit corporation under Illinois state constitution, but it is neither a church or a religious organization, so it did not qualify for property tax exemption (a state matter). I think it's important to recognize this distiction.

There's a couple important sections from Lurkers link I'd like to copy and paste, in case no one wants to sort through the entire artcle.

PROPERTY TAX EXEMPTIONS

> The property tax treatment of exempt organizations depends on the use which is made of the property. This aspect of taxation is exclusively a matter of state law. For example, some states exempt the parsonage from tax, while others do not.
>
> In the late 1960's, a challenge was brought in New York, contending that the New York City Tax Commission's grant of exemption to church property indirectly requires the taxpayer to make a contribution to religious bodies and thereby violates the First Amendment. this case was appealed to the United States Supreme Court, which upheld the exemption as being constitutional. The court discussed the issue of constitutional neutrality, and noted
>
> "the basic purpose of these provisions, which is to insure that no religion be sponsored or favored, none commanded, and none inhibited."(51) It further noted that the purpose of the exemption was not to advance nor to inhibit religion. "It has not singled out one particular church or religious group or even churches as such; rather, it has granted exemption to all houses of religious worship ... We cannot read New York's statute as attempting to establish religion; it is simply sparing the exercise of religion from the burden of property taxation levied on private profit institutions."(52)
>
> The court also noted that all 50 states have provided for tax exemption of places of worship, most by constitutional guarantees, for as long as the federal government has exempted them from income tax.
>
> In California the issue is addressed in Article XIII of the California Constitution and in Revenue and Taxation Code Sections 214-215. The Constitution makes certain property tax exemptions mandatory and allows for issuance of a welfare property tax exemption to other entities on a discretionary basis. Church property used exclusively for religious worship is exempt under Article XIII, Section 3(f). If church property is also used for a school, the religious exemption is available under Revenue and Taxation Code Section 207. If the property is used for any other purpose, the church/religious organization must seek a property tax exemption under the "welfare exemption" found in State Constitution Article XIII, Section 4(and related provisions of the Revenue and Taxation Code (Sections 214 and 215). This exemption is available to property used exclusively for religious, hospital or charitable purposes and owned by a nonprofit organization organized exclusively for such purpose, no part of whose net earnings inure to the benefit of any private individual. In order to be eligible, the charitable, religious or hospital organization's articles of incorporation must contain a provision which irrevocably dedicates the entity's property to religious or charitable purposes upon dissolution (i.e., a "charitable dedication clause").

It should not be assumed that the property of an exempt organization is automatically exempt. In California, a yearly filing must be made for each of the exemptions claimed. The deadline for filing Welfare Exemptions and the educational property exemption is March 15 of each year; the deadlines for filing notice of the Church and Religious Exemptions is March 31 of each year. If the deadline is not met, the exemption will be deemed to be waived. A late filing may be made, but the full exemption will not be granted.

If a portion of the property is used for the production of unrelated business taxable income, then the organization will only be entitled to a partial exemption.

Again, it should be noted that property tax exemptions are a matter of state law. If the organization has property in other states, their state law should be reviewed to determine the exempt status of each parcel.

UNREASONABLE COMPENSATION ISSUES

1. CEP Audits of Televangelists

After many years of auditing exempt organizations on a "hit and miss" type basis, the IRS developed a coordinated examination procedure that it is using to audit exempt organizations. When the IRS began these exams, one type of organization subject to these exams were televangelists.

Probably the most common reason today for revocation of exemption is inurement, including issues of excessive compensation. This is also the area that appears to make it to the front page of the newspaper most quickly. As a result, the compensation paid to executives, insiders, directors, and officers, should be carefully reviewed. If the organization is reluctant to have this information made public, it is likely that the IRS will find it to be unreasonable, and thus in violation of the requirement that no funds of a nonprofit inure to the benefit of any private individual.

The examinations of media evangelists support this finding. On June 30, 1993 it was reported that there were seven such cases involved in the coordinated examination procedure. Five of these had issues of inurement, two had issues of private benefit, and five had employment tax issues being examined. The IRS also reported that of the twenty-one media evangelist examinations it was conducting or had conducted, five involved private benefit issues, fourteen involved inurement issues involving compensation, five involved other types of inurement, eight had employment tax issues, and sixteen had income tax issues.

The determination of reasonableness of compensation, as well as what benefits are taxable to the individual are the same for exempt organizations as it is for taxable corporations. Section 162 and its regulations apply to exempt organizations and their employees.

Posted by: Fran May 12 2007, 11:23 PM

> QUOTE(LaurenceD @ May 12 2007, 07:54 AM) ☐
>
> Write on! Maybe this needs a thread of it's own...and we could somehow bring all the important related posts together.
>
> I'd like to tie some things together. You mentioned federal law and state law. Lurker just posted a link on another thread regarding IRS guidelines for defining a church. In that link http://www.runquist.com/ARTICLE_RéligTax.htm author Runquist clarifies some distinctions showing that property tax is a state issue and religious classification a federal issue--and that why judge Rowe repeats "meaning" of Section 501©(3)...
>
>> The Internal Revenue Code provides certain benefits to churches not available to other nonprofit exempt organizations (including other religious organizations). Because of this, it is important to know how a "church" is defined.
>>
>> (snip)
>> The property tax treatment of exempt organizations depends on the use which is made of the property. This aspect of taxation is exclusively a matter of state law. For example, some states exempt the parsonage from tax, while others do not.
>
> Observer referred to 3abn's property exemption as a "seminal case that would lay the groundwork for potential issues on a wider scale regarding taxation of religious organizations."
>
> Then notice what judge Rowe says...
>
>> applicant is not only not a religious organization, but, more importantly, does not primarily use the property for religious purposes without a view to profit.
>
> So, there are several things going on here that may lead to a misunderstanding. 3abn in a non-profit organization under the IRS code, and a not-for-profit corporation under Illinois state constitution, but it is neither a church or a religious organization, so it did not qualify for property tax exemption (a state matter). I think it's important to recognize this distiction.
>
> There's a couple important sections from Lurkers link I'd like to copy and paste, in case no one wants to sort through the entire artcle.
>
>> PROPERTY TAX EXEMPTIONS
>>
>> The property tax treatment of exempt organizations depends on the use which is made of the property. This aspect of taxation is exclusively a matter of state law. For example, some states exempt the parsonage from tax, while others do not.
>>
>> In the late 1960's, a challenge was brought in New York, contending that the New York City Tax Commission's grant of exemption to church property indirectly requires the taxpayer to make a contribution to religious bodies and thereby violates the First Amendment. this case was appealed to the United States Supreme Court, which upheld the exemption as being constitutional. The court discussed the issue of constitutional neutrality, and noted
>>
>> "the basic purpose of these provisions, which is to insure that no religion be sponsored or favored, none commanded, and none inhibited."(51) It further noted that the purpose of the exemption was not to advance nor to inhibit religion. "It has not singled out one particular church or religious group or even churches as such; rather, it has granted exemption to all houses of religious worship ... We cannot read New York's statute as attempting to establish religion; it is simply sparing the exercise of religion from the burden of property taxation levied on private profit institutions."(52)

The court also noted that all 50 states have provided for tax exemption of places of worship, most by constitutional guarantees, for as long as the federal government has exempted them from income tax.

In California the issue is addressed in Article XIII of the California Constitution and in Revenue and Taxation Code Sections 214-215. The Constitution makes certain property tax exemptions mandatory and allows for issuance of a welfare property tax exemption to other entities on a discretionary basis. Church property used exclusively for religious worship is exempt under Article XIII, Section 3(f). If church property is also used for a school, the religious exemption is available under Revenue and Taxation Code Section 207. If the property is used for any other purpose, the church/religious organization must seek a property tax exemption under the "welfare exemption" found in State Constitution Article XIII, Section 4(and related provisions of the Revenue and Taxation Code (Sections 214 and 215). This exemption is available to property used exclusively for religious, hospital or charitable purposes and owned by a nonprofit organization organized exclusively for such purpose, no part of whose net earnings inure to the benefit of any private individual. In order to be eligible, the charitable, religious or hospital organization's articles of incorporation must contain a provision which irrevocably dedicates the entity's property to religious or charitable purposes upon dissolution (i.e., a "charitable dedication clause").

It should not be assumed that the property of an exempt organization is automatically exempt. In California, a yearly filing must be made for each of the exemptions claimed. The deadline for filing Welfare Exemptions and the educational property exemption is March 15 of each year; the deadlines for filing notice of the Church and Religious Exemptions is March 31 of each year. If the deadline is not met, the exemption will be deemed to be waived. A late filing may be made, but the full exemption will not be granted.

If a portion of the property is used for the production of unrelated business taxable income, then the organization will only be entitled to a partial exemption.

Again, it should be noted that property tax exemptions are a matter of state law. If the organization has property in other states, their state law should be reviewed to determine the exempt status of each parcel.

UNREASONABLE COMPENSATION ISSUES

1. CEP Audits of Televangelists

After many years of auditing exempt organizations on a "hit and miss" type basis, the IRS developed a coordinated examination procedure that it is using to audit exempt organizations. When the IRS began these exams, one type of organization subject to these exams were televangelists.

Probably the most common reason today for revocation of exemption is inurement, including issues of excessive compensation. This is also the area that appears to make it to the front page of the newspaper most quickly. As a result, the compensation paid to executives, insiders, directors, and officers, should be carefully reviewed. If the organization is reluctant to have this information made public, it is likely that the IRS will find it to be unreasonable, and thus in violation of the requirement that no funds of a nonprofit inure to the benefit of any private individual.

The examinations of media evangelists support this finding. On June 30, 1993 it was reported that there were seven such cases involved in the coordinated examination procedure. Five of these had issues of inurement, two had issues of private benefit, and five had employment tax issues being examined. The IRS also reported that of the twenty-one media evangelist examinations it was conducting or had conducted, five involved private benefit issues, fourteen involved inurement issues involving compensation, five involved > other types of inurement, eight had employment tax issues, and sixteen had income tax issues.

>
> The determination of reasonableness of compensation, as well as what benefits are taxable to the individual are the same for exempt organizations as it is for taxable corporations. Section 162 and its regulations apply to exempt organizations and their employees.

aurenceD;

agree!

y parts will be financial. The document is full of information to discuss. The 46 page document overs a lot of diversified information. This is one that needs everyone working together for sure.

hanks for your post. This information is what we need!

responded to Lurkers post in the other thread. Maybe Clay can copy those over to here or into a ew thread. Of course another thread will have to include what is here already.

ep, I'm excited about that. Would you mind arranging that?

bserver; No way am I trying to limit it to one area. We need all areas explored. Not just financial, ot just Federal and not just State. We need to explore it all and see where we are and each of us ill have greater understanding in areas we may not have previously understood.

hanks for your help.

Posted by: LaurenceD May 13 2007, 08:57 AM

Previous discusion--2006. Here's a different analysis of the case by FHB, in response to PP...
http://www.blacksda.com/forums/index.php?showtopic=11142&st=165

> Panama_Pete: Here's something people seem to be missing:
>
> 3ABN was organized as " a general not-for-profit corporation." The confusion is that you are referring to the 3ABN corporation as a "ministry."
>
> According to the tax case, 3ABN was not organized as an Illinois religious corporation, but as as general not-for-profit corporation.
>
> General not-for-profit corporations can solicit for donations, but, unlike religious organizations, they are not automatically entitled to real estate tax exemptions.
>
> Danny Shelton simply set up a private business for himself. That's all it is.
> Read it all on page 23.
>
> http://www.revenue.state.il.us/legalinform...s/pt/pt04-1.pdf
>
> "As a preliminary matter, applicant [3ABN] is not organized and operated as a religious corporation under the Illinois Religious Corporation Act, found at 805 ILCS 110/0.01 et seq. Rather, applicant is incorporated under the General Not for Profit Corporation Act. 805 ILCS105/101.01 et seq. The Illinois General Assembly has recognized organizational and operational differences between the two types of organizations and has established different and separate statutory schemes to govern those differences. Implicit in such legislative action is the recognition that religious corporations and general not for profit corporations are separate, distinct, and different legal entities. Therefore, as a matter of law, applicant [3ABN] is not a religious corporation. "

fallible humanbeing: PP,

Okay, this is in fact the primary issue here. Thompsonville Community High School District No. 112, Thompsonville School District No. 62, Franklin County Board of Review, and The Department of Revenue of the State of Illinois are attempting to establish precedent with this case. If they are successful all entities that have organized as GNFP can come under review for past and future property tax collection. This case is entirely about property taxes and the windfall that some local entity, such as the school district, may incur by stripping GNFPs like 3ABN and Moody Bible Institute of their tax-exempt status.

As you stated, being a GNFP neither insures nor disallows the property tax exempt status. The defining point is the endeavor of the entity. In this case, just as with Tri-State Christian TV, the issue is, are the entity's endeavors religious in nature. Tri-State Christian TV (WTCT) is a non-Adventist television ministry that organized as a GNFP and was granted property tax exempt status by the Sate of Illinois (WTCT is a comparable entity). The trial court would not allow 3ABN to enter into evidence information about Tri-State and thwarted efforts by 3ABN attorneys to gather additional information about Tri-State by quashing a subpoena to depose the president of WTCT. The allowance of this evidence would have made it unquestionably clear that there was a double standard applied to 3ABN by the State of Illinois. The trial judge couched her decision by claiming that this was addressing a "constitutional challenge" and this trial was not the proper "forum" for this evidence. Additionally, she supported her decision by citing case law that stands for the opposite of the way in which she used it.

The trial judge, in her decision makes the following statements in regards to the question of what is 3ABN's primary purpose.

" 3ABN has not established that it has officers deeply involved in religious teaching that serve to accomplish the promotion of Christian education."

"[nor] is there any indication in the record that Danny Shelton is traveling to advocate the Seventh-day Adventist doctrine or faith."

"the evidence shows that 3ABN directly engaged in little or no specific religious activity and use the property in question for no such purpose"

The central part of the judge's decision (that 3ABN was not a religious ministry) was that 3ABN's programming and operation were not religious in nature and did not support the religious endeavors of the Seventh-day Adventist Church. She cited that the programming contained health, gardening, cooking, music programs, family, and health and lifestyle topics, claiming these were not religious in nature. Her argument was that 3ABN was "advocating a way of life, but it was a lifestyle that applicants favor, not a religion."

According to Illinois law, to qualify under law for the property tax exemption two questions have to be satisfied:

1. Does the entity have primarily religious or charitable purposes?
2. Is the property used for the religious purposes of the entity?

In essence the trial judge ignored and in some cases refused to hear, evidence and testimony that established 3ABN as an entity whose primary purpose was religious, and that its property was used to achieve such ends. Her decision flies the face of Illinois law.

This is merely a snapshot of the case, but it is the core of the case. It is obvious that what the trial judge was focusing on has nothing to do with many of the financial issues that much of the material presented here (BSDA) has identified as being the reason(s) for the case between 3ABN and the Sate of Illinois. The case is about whether or not the local government, on behalf of the school district, can collect taxes on the 3ABN property. And, as stated before, this has far reaching ramifications for all GNFPs that are primarily religious or charitable in the endeavors.

> - fhb

I've underlined the part above that is of interest here, but here it is again..

> In essence the trial judge ignored and in some cases refused to hear, evidence and testimony that established 3ABN as an entity whose primary purpose was religious, and that its property was used to achieve such ends. Her decision flies the face of Illinois law. -FHB

This is perhaps the main focus. FHB obviously has taken the postion that 3abn's property was being used for religious purposes, but does not comment on whether it was with or without a view to profit, or whether 3abn was involved in charity of any kind. Also, FHB does not discuss the dsitinction between relgious activities, or whether 3abn is a religious organization like others that are exempt. This is probably the essence of the appeal...and why some refer to the case as having greater implication to other religious organizations, "far reaching ramifications for all GNFPs that are primarily religious or charitable in the endeavors." -FHB

Posted by: PrincessDrRe May 13 2007, 10:34 AM

☒ sn

This is getting even deeper than I thought....

Snacks anyone?

☒ sn

Posted by: lurker May 13 2007, 11:16 AM

Quote
"3ABN was organized as " a general not-for-profit corporation." The confusion is that you are referring to the 3ABN corporation as a "ministry."

According to the tax case, 3ABN was not organized as an Illinois religious corporation, but as as general not-for-profit corporation."

The following defines a general not for profit corporation. http://tinyurl.com/25lwam

Nonprofit Corporations in Illinois
Most nonprofit corporations in Illinois are governed by the General Not for Profit Corporation Act of 1986, with administrative authority granted to the Secretary of State. Under the Act, a nonprofit corporation may be formed for any of the following purposes, among others:
Charitable, benevolent, or eleemosynary Educational
Civic or political Religious Literary Athletic
Research or scientific
Agricultural or horticultural
A professional, commercial, industrial, or trade association
Telephone or electrical service on a mutual or cooperative basis
Ownership, administration, or operation of certain properties
Operation of a community mental health board or center

Provision of consumer credit counseling
Promotion, operation, and administration of a ride sharing arrangement [/color]

Being classified as having religious purpose under the general not for profit dorporation act does not make the entity a religious corporation.

Quote "General not-for-profit corporations can solicit for donations, but, unlike religious organizations, they are not automatically entitled to real estate tax exemptions.

"As a preliminary matter, applicant [3ABN] is not organized and operated as a religious corporation under the Illinois Religious Corporation Act, found at 805 ILCS 110/0.01 et seq. Rather, applicant is incorporated under the General Not for Profit Corporation Act. 805 ILCS105/101.01 et seq. "
fallible humanbeing: PP,"

OK,here is another decison by Judge Rowe where the applicant (not 3ABN) was organized under the Religious Corporation Act 805 ILCS 110/0.01 et seq (in other words, this applicant was a relgious organization)

http://www.revenue.state.il.us/legalinformation/hearings/pt/pt02-24.pdf and they only got a partial property tax exemption. The issue was how the property was used and whether it was religious use. It did not have an automatic exemption for the whole property just because it was a Religious Corporation.

It would seem that if the State of Illinois was trying to set a precedent, the ruling about the "Set Free Christian Fellowship" would be more to the point than a case against a GNFP.

There is no difference between the requirements of a GNFP and a Religious Corporation that the property must be used for the purpose for which the corporation has non profit status.

And in this case, the primary primary purpose of the entity was not in question just the use of certain areas of the property.

Quote "The trial judge, in her decision makes the following statements in regards to the question of what is 3ABN's primary purpose.

"3ABN has not established that it has officers deeply involved in religious teaching that serve to accomplish the promotion of Christian education."

Educational use is listed as one of the qualifications of a gnfp but Judge Rowe finds no evidence of this that would provide the qualification.

Quote""[nor] is there any indication in the record that Danny Shelton is traveling to advocate the Seventh-day Adventist doctrine or faith."""

The question is not whether Danny Shelton is traveling but whether he is advocating the Seventh-day Adventist doctrine or faith when he does. Judge Rowe seems to think he/3ABN does not qualify as a supporting organization of the Adventist church. The Seventh-day Adventist church does qualify as a Religious Organization.

Quote "the evidence shows that 3ABN directly engaged in little or no specific religious activity and use the property in question for no such purpose"

The central part of the judge's decision (that 3ABN was not a religious ministry) was that 3ABN's programming and operation were not religious in nature and did not support the religious endeavors of the Seventh-day Adventist Church. She cited that the programming contained health, gardening, cooking, music programs, family, and health and lifestyle topics, claiming these were not religious in nature. Her argument was that 3ABN was "advocating a way of life, but it was a lifestyle that applicants favor, not a religion."

Again if 3ABN was a religious ministry, it might qualify as a supporting organization of the Seventh-day Adventist Church or as a religious organization.

According to Illinois law, to qualify under law for the property tax exemption two questions have to be satisfied:

1. Does the entity have primarily religious or charitable purposes?
2. Is the property used for the religious purposes of the entity?"

I agree and esentially the Judge felt that 3ABN's primary purpose was to make money and to promote a lifestyle favored by applicant.

Posted by: PrincessDrRe May 13 2007, 07:39 PM

So is it religious/ministry or a "business"...

☒ sna

Posted by: Eirene May 13 2007, 08:48 PM

> QUOTE(Pickle @ May 11 2007, 05:03 PM) ☐
>
> Gailon thought it could be used as a basis for such, but of course, he could be wrong.

He usually is.
Especially when he has no law credentials to back up his constant opinions.
BTW How much Did we hear about Linda's new and scary lawyer? The mover and the shaker?
Google him in the state of new hampshire and you can all see a video of him argueing a case in appeals court. Made me "almost" sorry for Linda.

> QUOTE(Eirene @ May 13 2007, 09:41 PM) ☐
>
> He usually is.
> Especially when he has no law credentials to back up his constant opinions.
> BTW How much Did we hear about Linda's new and scary lawyer? The mover and the shaker?
> Google him in the state of new hampshire and you can all see a video of him argueing a case in appeals court. Made me "almost" sorry for Linda.

I am re posting FHB's information.

fallible humanbeing: PP,

Okay, this is in fact the primary issue here. Thompsonville Community High School District No. 112, Thompsonville School District No. 62, Franklin County Board of Review, and The Department of Revenue of the State of Illinois are attempting to establish precedent with this case. If they are successful all entities that have organized as GNFP can come under review for past and future property tax collection. This case is entirely about property taxes and the windfall that some local entity, such as the school district, may incur by stripping GNFPs like 3ABN and Moody Bible Institute of their tax-exempt status.

As you stated, being a GNFP neither insures nor disallows the property tax exempt status. The defining point is the endeavor of the entity. In this case, just as with Tri-State Christian TV, the issue is, are the entity's endeavors religious in nature. Tri-State Christian TV (WTCT) is a non-Adventist television ministry that organized as a GNFP and was granted property tax exempt status by the Sate of Illinois (WTCT is a comparable entity). The trial court would not allow 3ABN to enter into evidence information about Tri-State and thwarted efforts by 3ABN attorneys to gather additional information about Tri-State by quashing a subpoena to depose the president of WTCT. The allowance of this evidence would have made it unquestionably clear that there was a double standard applied to 3ABN by the State of Illinois. The trial judge couched her decision by claiming that this was addressing a "constitutional challenge" and this trial was not the proper "forum" for this evidence. Additionally, she supported her decision by citing case law that stands for the opposite of the way in which she used it.

The trial judge, in her decision makes the following statements in regards to the question of what is 3ABN's primary purpose.

" 3ABN has not established that it has officers deeply involved in religious teaching that serve to accomplish the promotion of Christian education."

"[nor] is there any indication in the record that Danny Shelton is traveling to advocate the Seventh-day Adventist doctrine or faith."

"the evidence shows that 3ABN directly engaged in little or no specific religious activity and use the property in question for no such purpose"

The central part of the judge's decision (that 3ABN was not a religious ministry) was that 3ABN's programming and operation were not religious in nature and did not support the religious endeavors of the Seventh-day Adventist Church. She cited that the programming contained health, gardening, cooking, music programs, family, and health and lifestyle topics, claiming these were not religious in nature. Her argument was that 3ABN was "advocating a way of life, but it was a lifestyle that applicants favor, not a religion."

According to Illinois law, to qualify under law for the property tax exemption two questions have to be satisfied:

1. Does the entity have primarily religious or charitable purposes?
2. Is the property used for the religious purposes of the entity?

In essence the trial judge ignored and in some cases refused to hear, evidence and testimony that established 3ABN as an entity whose primary purpose was religious, and that its property was used to achieve such ends. Her decision flies the face of Illinois law.

This is merely a snapshot of the case, but it is the core of the case. It is obvious that what the trial judge was focusing on has nothing to do with many of the financial issues that much of the material presented here (BSDA) has identified as being the reason(s) for the case between 3ABN and the Sate of Illinois. The case is about whether or not the local government, on behalf of the school district, can collect taxes on the 3ABN property. And, as stated before, this has far reaching ramifications for all GNFPs that are primarily religious or charitable in the endeavors.

- fhb
Finally. That certainly clarifies much. Thanks FHB

Posted by: LaurenceD May 13 2007, 10:58 PM

> QUOTE(Eirene)
>
> That certainly clarifies much.

What does it clarify? Certainly nothing to do with the real focus of the issue..."a view to profit."

You don't need to bother answering if you haven't read the source material. It's not really that much fun trying to have a dialogue with someone who will not catch on. As noted above, FHB leaves off any recognition of the rest of the Illinois State Statute 35 ILCS 200/15-40, which states...

> Religious purposes, orphanages, or school and religious purposes.
> (a) Property used exclusively for:
> (1) religious purposes, or
> (2) school and religious purposes, or > (3) orphanages qualifies for exemption as long as it is not used with a view to profit.

FHB states...

> According to Illinois law, to qualify under law for the property tax exemption two questions have to be satisfied:
>
> 1. Does the entity have primarily religious or charitable purposes?
> 2. Is the property used for the religious purposes of the entity?

What's needed here is full absorbtion of the state statute, and understanding the reasons behind Judge Rowe's Recommendation.

****

EXTRA: Let me post her findings of fact so there can be no question:

Charitable Considerations

> When determining whether an organization is charitable for purposes of tax exemptions, courts first look at an applicant's organizational documents.
>
> Illinois courts have long held that the lack of such wording in the organizational document can be used as a basis for determining that an applicant is not a charitable organization as contemplated by the statute.
>
> 75. Applicant is not required to pay federal income tax pursuant to a finding by the Internal Revenue Service that applicant is an exempt organization under Section 501©(3) of the Internal Revenue Code. (Applicant's Ex. Nos. 4, 5)
> 76. Applicant's board has no written policy to give away or donate its satellite systems. If an individual were unable to pay the cost of the system, applicant's secretary would contact Danny Shelton who would determine, with the board's guidance, whether the product should be given away. "Applicant has no policy that says give away." (Tr. pp. 295-303)
> 77. Applicant has no records of materials given away in 2000 or 2001. Applicant has no specific written policy that outlines what factors are used or what direction is given by applicant's board that allows applicant to distribute items at a reduced rate or free of charge. (Tr. pp. 586-589, 614-616)
>
> The religious property tax exemption also mandates that the property not be "leased or otherwise used with a view to profit." 35 ILCS 200/15-4020 Applicant's property is most definitely used with a view to profit.
>
> The operation of 3ABN on the property in question generates a significant profit for applicant.

Regarding 3abn's religious use of property, let me post what Judge Rowe concludes...

Religious Tax Exemption Standards and 3ABN's Claim for Religious Exemption

> As a preliminary matter, applicant is not organized and operated as a religious corporation under the Illinois Religious Corporation Act, found at 805 ILCS 110/0.01 et seq. Rather, applicant is incorporated under the General Not for Profit Corporation Act. 805 ILCS 105/101.01 et seq. The Illinois General Assembly has recognized organizational and operational differences between the two types of organizations and has established different and separate statutory schemes to govern those differences. Implicit in such legislative action is the recognition that religious corporations and general not for profit corporations are separate, distinct, and different legal entities. Therefore, as a matter of law, applicant is not a > religious corporation.

>
> ...the organization is not using its real property "exclusively for religious purposes" as mandated by the statutes.
>
> Furthermore, it is very evident that applicant is marketing its own products and goods for purchase. Applicant is advocating a way of life but it is a lifestyle that applicant favors, not a religion. Leasing or otherwise using property to promote a lifestyle and to market merchandise does not qualify as a use of property for primarily religious purposes.

Posted by: lurker May 14 2007, 06:47 AM

In my last post above, I myself quoted and answered what Eirene reposted. It appears she did not read any of it. Or maybe the original link did not work for her. It worked for me when I first posted it but didn't work this morning. I will repeat myself and the corrected link here:

OK,here is another decison by Judge Rowe where the applicant (not 3ABN) was organized under the Religious Corporation Act 805 ILCS 110/0.01 et seq (in other words, this applicant was a relgious organization)

http://tinyurl.com/2wyfcu and they only got a partial property tax exemption. The issue was how the property was used and whether it was religious use. It did not have an automatic exemption for the whole property just because it was a Religious Corporation.

Even if 3ABN became recognized as a religious organization, the main issue is still how the land is used.

And 3ABN's is not a precedent setting case. Illinois deals with this all the time.

http://tinyurl.com/39unrw

Posted by: LaurenceD May 14 2007, 07:44 AM

> QUOTE(lurker)
>
> And 3ABN's is not a precedent setting case. Illinois deals with this all the time.
>
> http://tinyurl.com/39unrw

There's also a section on charitible exemptions at http://tax.illinois.gov/LegalInformation/Hearings/Issues/charitable.htm

I've read several of those religious ownership/use cases. Some are hilarious. Here's an excerpt from...

> LIFE ABUNDANT OUTREACH
> v.
> THE DEPARTMENT OF REVENUE
> OF THE STATE OF ILLINOIS

(the issue is whether the paronage was lived in by the minister and could the property be exempt from taxes. Many of these cases revolve around the board and its bylaws. Here's the transcript Q/A with a couple boardmembers)

Gwendolyn Jones testified as follows:
Q. Are you familiar with a corporation by the name of Life Abundant Outreach of Glenview, Inc.?
A. Yes.
Q. And have you ever been a director of that corporation?
A. No.
Q. I'm showing you [a copy of the August 21, 2005 by-laws]. Does that bear your signature?
A. Yes.
Q. And for what purpose did you sign that document?
A. We -- I don't remember seeing this document at all. We signed a – I believe it was a legal pad. I don't remember seeing this document at all.
Q. Did you believe on that date – What date is your signature there?
A. August 21st, '05.
Q On that date did you believe you were a director of Life Abundant Outreach of Glenview, Inc.?
A. No.
Q. Did you ever have any discussions about the issue of where Reverend Martin lived?
A. Not to my knowledge. ... This was just a meeting. He said we're going to have a meeting. It wasn't stated that it was a board meeting or anything. We just thought it was a regular little church meeting.
Q. But, as far as you know, you were never elected to a board of directors?
A. No, I was not.
Tr. pp. 58-60.

Ruth Hudley testified as follows:
Q. And you're a member of Reverend Martin's church?
A. Yes.
Q. Are you a director of Life Abundant Outreach ... ?
A. Director?
Q. Yes.
A. No.
Q. Have you ever been a director of Life Abundant Outreach, Inc.?
A. No.
Q. I'm showing you [Applicant's by-laws dated August 21, 2005] ...Do you remember why you signed this document that I'm showing you?
A. No.
Q. Do you know where Reverend Martin lives?
A. ... I can't think of the place. ... Glenview.
Tr. pp. 68-70.

Mary Quinny testified as follows:
Q. Now, I'm going to ask you: Are you a director of Life Abundant Outreach of Glenview, Incorporated?
A. I am not a director, but my name is on there, up on the board.
Q. You are on the board. When did you become a board member?
A. Well, at first I didn't know what it was about, but now I do. ...
Q. Did you sign this document [Applicant's by-laws dated August 21, 2005]?
A. Yes, I did. That's my signature.
Q. And is that the one when you say you signed you didn't know what it was about?
A. Yes. ...
Q. Do you know where Reverend Martin lives?
A Yes, near Fairbanks. Fairbanks.
Q. On [September 5, 2006] did you believe he lived in Glenview, > Illinois?

> A. Yes, I did.
> Q. So you didn't know he lived in Barrington until [September 10, 2006]?
> A. Right. ...
> Q. (By Rev. Martin) It really doesn't make a difference to you where I live, does it?
> A. No.
>
> http://tax.illinois.gov/LegalInformation/Hearings/pt/PT%2007-12.pdf

I'd love to read the transcript from the 3abn hearing.

Posted by: Fran May 14 2007, 11:39 PM

> QUOTE(lurker @ May 14 2007, 07:47 AM) ☐
>
> In my last post above, I myself quoted and answered what Eirene re-posted. It appears she did not read any of it. Or maybe the original link did not work for her. It worked for me when I first posted it but didn't work this morning. I will repeat myself and the corrected link here:
>
> OK, here is another decision by Judge Rowe where the applicant (not 3ABN) was organized under the Religious Corporation Act 805 ILCS 110/0.01 et seq (in other words, this applicant was a religious organization)
>
> http://tinyurl.com/2wyfcu
> and they only got a partial property tax exemption. The issue was how the property was used and whether it was religious use. It did not have an automatic exemption for the whole property just because it was a Religious Corporation.
>
> Even if 3ABN became recognized as a religious organization, the main issue is still how the land is used.
>
> And 3ABN's is not a precedent setting case. Illinois deals with this all the time.
>
> http://tinyurl.com/39unrw

The IL Vs 3ABN Property Tax Lawsuit had a problem with identification. Just who was the "Applicant?"

On page 1 of 46 is says:

[b]

> QUOTE
>
> Synopsis:
> The hearing in this matter was held to determine whether Franklin County Parcel Index No. 174-116-11 qualified for exemption during the 2000 and/or 2001 assessment years. Danny Shelton, president of Three Angels Broadcasting, (hereinafter referred to as the "Applicant" or "3ABN");...

This very action caused them to ask, "Just who is the applicant in this case?"

Therefore, since it was difficult to differentiate Danny Shelton from 3ABN, they just decided to go with the applicant being Danny Shelton or 3ABN.

This seems to be a problem with us, too.

Where does Danny end, and 3ABN begin?

Does Danny Shelton even know?

Does he truly feel he IS 3ABN?

In Florida, July 2004, Danny preached that 3ABN was his baby and nobody was taking it away. He proclaimed that he had created it; stating it was his hard work that had brought 3ABN about. He also noted how wicked women were. Women watch too much of the bad on the Internet! Many felt he was beyond acceptable. I know I did.

Before we get too deeply into the 3ABN Lawsuit, it might be good to stop and look at the players. What is what; who is who; and what they all do.

This is the beginning of the IL vs 3ABN Property Tax Lawsuit. These are the players:

> QUOTE
>
> Synopsis:
>
> The hearing in this matter was held to determine whether Franklin County Parcel Index No. 174-116-11 qualified for exemption during the 2000 and/or 2001 assessment years.
>
> Representing 3ABN
>
> 1. Danny Shelton, president of Three Angels Broadcasting, (hereinafter referred to as the "Applicant" or "3ABN");
>
> 2. Larry Ewing, director of finance in 2002 of applicant;
>
> 3. Alan Lovejoy, CPA and accountant;
>
> 4. Walter Thompson, chairman of the board in 2002 of applicant;
>
> 5. Bill Bishop, minister in the Seventh-day Adventist Church and member of the pastoral staff of applicant;
>
> 6. Kenneth Denslow, president of the Illinois Conference of the Seventh-day Adventist Church;
>
> 7. Mollie Steenson, department coordinator of applicant; and
>
> 8. Linda Shelton, vice president of applicant,
>
> were present and testified on behalf of applicant.
>
> Representing Thompsonville Community High School:
>
> 9. Cynthia Humm, Supervisor of Assessments of Franklin County was present and testified on behalf of Thompsonville Community High School District No. 112 (hereinafter referred to as the "Intervenor.") (P 1-2 of 46 pages)

These facts are important because they are the players that testified on 3ABN's behalf. Just how did they do this? Who said what? Who is responsible for what? Did they lie? Was anyone being deceitful?

Is this lawsuit only about the Property Tax or are there many other facts that have come to light? What seems to be the problem? Is it really, because they show health programs that hey must pay taxes? What is this school districts problem anyway?

Later we will see what each 3ABN player was responsible for within the scope of 3ABN, the entity.. This way we can identify more readily what could be broken and in need of fixing.

Remember, I live outside of the normal box, I see things differently. This is why I need others to fill in what I am missing. I welcome comments.

Who is now missing from 3ABN?

The two headings in the above quote in blue, I added for clairity.

Posted by: Fran May 15 2007, 12:02 AM

The Issues:

> QUOTE
>
> The issues in this matter are:
>
> 10. first, whether applicant was the owner of Parcel Index No. 174-116-11 during the 2000 and/or 2001 assessment years;
>
> 11. secondly, whether applicant is a religious or charitable organization;
>
> 12. and lastly, whether the parcel was used by applicant for religious or charitable purposes during the 2000 and/or 2001 assessment years.
>
> After a thorough review of the facts and law presented, it is my recommendation that the requested exemption be denied for the 2000 and 2001 assessment years, > except for the two pastoral offices each measuring 14 feet by 18 feet on the second floor of the administrative production center building, and a corresponding amount of land.
>
>
> In support thereof, I make the following findings and conclusions in accordance with the requirements of §100/10-50 of the Administrative Procedure
> Act (5 ILCS 100/10-50).

Out of the witness/testimony of all the "players" cited before, they only find that 14 X 18 feet of the 2nd floor qualifies for tax exemption. Why? Was it because they had programming that was about health as Danny Shelton has repeatedly told everyone on TV? No, it was not!

Only the Pastoral Offices were considered religious. We watch Religious Programming on 3ABN TV. How can this be?

Airing programs cost money to the people wanting their programming to be aired through 3ABN! This cost is supposed to cover the cost for airing that programming.

Therefore, Amazing Facts pays 3ABN for airtime; It Is Written pays for airtime; WhiteHorse Ministry pays for airtime. If they do not pay, 3ABN promotes the sale of their items from 3ABN – for profit!

Folks, if this is not for making profit, what is it? Why is there a fee if not for off setting the air time costs to put these programs on the satellites for airing? i believe I know of some air time that is free. However, 3ABN takes their product/s and sells them at a premium, for profit to 3ABN.

Is this one of the reasons we are seeing more and more 3ABN programming?

Later.

Posted by: LaurenceD May 15 2007, 12:19 AM

I'm as interested in the Supervisor of Assessments of Franklin County being present and testifying on behalf of Thompsonville Community High School District No. 112. For a little background on how the school districts work, read this...

Inequity in Illinois

Illinois' School Funding Debacle

For decades, Illinois has consistently under-funded its public schools. Illinois' constitution explicitly points out that "the State has the primary responsibility for financing the system of public education."1 However, Illinois only pays about 36 percent of all school expenses, far below the national average of 50 percent. The state relies heavily on local property taxes, and on average, local property taxpayers fund about 53 percent of school expenses. The remaining 10 percent or so comes from federal aid.2 (See Appendix A for more details.)

According to a survey conducted in the fall of 2003 by Education Week, when state officials were asked about their state's most pressing school finance issues, concerns over property taxes seemed to be an integral issue for several states. One respondent even explained that the "reliance on property taxes created perennial inequities and an overall issue of adequacy."3 This is certainly true of Illinois. The state's school funding system creates huge inequities between wealthy and poor school districts. The average per-pupil spending in some school districts is higher than $15,000 per student, while other school districts spend less than $5,000 per pupil.4 (See Appendix B for more details.)

While wealthier school districts use their strong property tax bases and other local revenues to fund quality public education, school districts in less-wealthy neighborhoods are forced to make do with fewer resources and less funding. Schools in these low property tax neighborhoods tend to have a higher poverty concentration, more minority students, and are often located in rural areas.

So, every penny counts. I know our public school district just laid off several employees for next year, and cut out a lot of programs--sports, art, music, etc., because of lack of funding.

What's interesting here though is that the school probably gets very little added revenue from the 3abn property being included on the tax roll. I think I read somewhere that most of the counties in Illinois have pretty high mill rates...like as much as 50 cents per $1,000 valuation. So, based on $550,000 evaluation, the county would probably get a total of $2750...and that has to be divided up to the different agencies.

Anyone from Franklin Co. have a property tax statement?

As to CynthiaHumm, Supervisor of Assessments of Franklin County, representing the school district...well, there's two gov't agencies working hand in hand.

> QUOTE(Fran)
>
> These facts are important because they are the players that testified on 3ABN's behalf. Just how did they do this? Who said what? Who is responsible for what? Did they lie? Was anyone being deceitful?

hat's why it would be very interesting to get a copy of the transcript. Reading it, I think those familiar with he various personalities would get an eye full, and perhaps have some counter intelligence to offer.

dministrative Law Judges are really hearing examiners. They see this stuff all the time and have very little atients with groups on a bigger mission. I'm guessing 3abn's team kinds killed themselves, or self-lestructed, if they're anything like what we've seen exhibited around here. Can you imgine getting lectured to y someone who just prayed that the hearing would go a certain way, then entering the room, and talking lown to a judge--if only in attitude? I doubt the judge would have much sympathy or patience.

think it was Aletheia who posted that Adventists are smarter than the average person...in her opinion. You an see where that would be headed real fast!

Posted by: Fran May 15 2007, 12:59 AM

> QUOTE
>
> FINDINGS OF FACT:
>
> 1. The jurisdiction and position of the Department that Franklin County Parcel Index No. 174-116-11 did not qualify for a property tax exemption for the 2000 and 2001 assessment years were established by the admission into evidence of Dept. Ex. Nos. 1and 2. (Tr. p. 27)
>
> 2. The Department received the requests for exemption of Franklin County Parcel Index No. 174-116-11 for the 2000 and 2001 assessment years. In 2000, the assessed value of the property was $505,500 (in 2000); in 2001, $556,050.
>
> (I believe this increase is a clear example of unrealized gains)
>
> The Board of Review of Franklin County recommended denying the requests.
>
> For the 2000 assessment year, the Cave Township Supervisor and Cave Township Board objected to the exemption.
>
> In a letter attached to the 2000 year application, the Village of Thompsonville adamantly (emphasis in the original attachment) opposed the requested exemption.
>
> The Department denied the requested exemptions finding that the property was not in exempt ownership and use. Applicant (Danny Shelton/3ABN) timely protested the denials and a hearing was held pursuant to those protests. (Dept. Ex. Nos. 1 and 2)
>
> 3. Applicant (Danny Shelton/3ABN) acquired the subject parcel by a warranty deed dated October 17, 1991. The 5-acre parcel at issue contains three buildings, the ownership, and uses of which are at issue.
>
> (Did you notice the Ownership of the property is even questioned?)
>
> Did you notice this involves only 5 acres?
>
> Is that all the property that is in applicant's (Danny Shelton/3ABN's) name?
>
> Who owns the rest of that property?
>
> Did I read that Danny's house sits on 18 acres?
>
> Can we assume that land belongs to Danny Shelton since his house sits on it and he has commented he has a lake?

At first, I thought this suit was about "ALL" the land surrounding 3ABN! Shows what I know! The first building is a three-story administration production center (Is this Production for profit?) building that contains approximately 30,000 square feet.

The 10,800 square foot BOS Auditorium1 is part of the administration building.

Which one of these was supposed to be the "Museum?

The second building is applicant's (Danny Shelton/3ABN) carpenter shop, a one-story building that contains 2,400 square feet.

The third building is the "call center", which is about 7,000 square feet and is where applicant (Danny Shelton/3ABN) stores, ships, and receives its merchandise.

As the name suggests, it is also where applicant (Danny Shelton/3ABN) receives calls from viewers around the world interested in applicant's programs and products. (Applicant's(Danny Shelton/3ABN) Ex. No. 1; Tr. pp. 81-91, 119-122, 233, 280- 292) end of footnotes on page 2/46

Why did I think the "Call Center" was for prayer requests and Spiritual Guidance? I guess I was wrong. That would be the "Pastoral Care Offices"! The "Call Center" is for storing selling and shipping goods. Is this for profit!

4. Applicant's (Danny Shelton/3ABN) administrative production center contains the two studios where applicant (Danny Shelton/3ABN) creates its programs.

A production area is between the two studios. In the center are applicant's (Danny Shelton/3ABN) administrative areas where financing, engineering, and pastoral care offices are located.

A kitchen is available for workers' use.

Offices for applicant's (Danny Shelton/3ABN) president and vice president are also in the center.

The center contains the areas where graphics, maintenance, and computers are located.

The two pastoral offices are on the second floor and measure 14 feet x 18 feet each. (Tr. pp. 81-84, 89, 235-246, 276-280, 284)

Footnotes:
1 Applicant's (Danny Shelton/3ABN) exemption applications list three buildings and dimensions at issue:

1) an administration building which is two stories and contains 15,680 square feet;

2) the BOS Auditorium which is also two stories and contains 10,800 square feet; and

3) a carpenter shop which is one story and contains 2400 square feet. (Dept. Ex. Nos. 1, 2)

According to the testimony of applicant's (Danny Shelton/3ABN) president, the BOS Auditorium is part of the administration building, the carpenter shop is a separate building, and the third building at issue is the "call center". The exact dimensions of the interior and exterior of each building are unclear. (Applicant's (Danny Shelton/3ABN) Ex. Nos. 12, 13; Tr. pp. 81-84, 121-126, 617) 4 IL/3ABN Lawsuit age 2/46 IL/3ABN Lawsuit End of footnote P 2/46

These footnotes are based on whose testimony? It says that would be the Applicant's (Danny Shelton/3ABN) President.

5. The "call center" is next to applicant's (Danny Shelton/3ABN) main facility.

Here, applicant's (Danny Shelton/3ABN) employees and volunteers take and process orders for applicant's (Danny Shelton/3ABN) products.

> Applicant (Danny Shelton/3ABN) gives away free material on a variety of topics from health to religion. (Applicant's Ex. Nos. 18-21; Tr. pp. 171- 186, 288-290)
>
> 6. The carpenter shop is where applicant (Danny Shelton/3ABN) builds sets for its programs. (Tr. p. 117) Page 3/46 IL/3ABN Lawsuit

lue within the quote are my questionings and MHO's

Posted by: Fran May 15 2007, 01:11 AM

LaurenceD Posted Today, 01:19 AM

> QUOTE
>
> That's why it would be very interesting to get a copy of the transcript. Reading it, I think those familiar with the various personalities would get an eye full, and perhaps have some counter intelligence to offer.

an you get these since you are so familiar in this area. Coming up are some things where there are lies. It oints out who did it too. It would just be good to see the actual words said before I get there.

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered May 15 2007, 07:27 AM

All this legal posturing to keep from paying around $2750 per year? Is this right? Who were their advisors in this fight? Did they see a potentially larger impact than $2750 per year?

Posted by: lurker May 15 2007, 07:33 AM

> QUOTE(Fran @ May 15 2007, 01:11 AM)
>
> [b]LaurenceD Posted Today, 01:19 AM
> Can you get these since you are so familiar in this area. Coming up are some things where there are lies. It points out who did it too. It would just be good to see the actual words said before I get there.

he decison was supposed to have been appealed. I saw 01-28-07 docket on the upper right hand side of the riginal decision. Shouldn't the appeal have been ruled on by now? 3ABN must not have won that appeal or ve would have heard some rejoicing about this as another miracle. Would the Franklin County Clerk know?

Posted by: LaurenceD May 15 2007, 10:43 AM

lurker, I think the docket dates on the original doucment refer to the years 2000 and 2001, the very dates of the tax years being challenged...

A.H. Docket # 01-PT-0027
P. I. # 174-116-11
Docket # 00-28-01
Docket # 01-28-07

The beginning numbers (not the ending numbers), the 00-means 2000, and 01-means 2001. 07-means the day, not the year. But I may be wrong.

Fran, I don't have acces to the transcript. Not sure if they are public either. I have to go to the mountain today, so no more time for research till later.

PB, I'm not at all sure about the total annual tax figure I came to. I was doing a quick calculation in my head and it sounded about right for $500,500. Around here, land valued like that would be taxed for about that much. If I was off a decimal point and taxes were $27,500, that seems way too high of a rate for the valuation.

Searching for "3abn acres" this morning, I ran across "The Televangelist" thread posted by sister. In that story, there's reference to 200 acres, and 80 acres across a road for a model tabernacle. Also, there's various descriptions of new buildings (25,000 sq. ft. etc.) so, property tax today may be far far higher than those based on 2000 and 2001 evaluations.

If you haven't read that thread, it's hilarious, and quite sobering.
http://www.blacksda.com/forums/index.php?showtopic=9823

Posted by: lurker May 15 2007, 08:00 PM

> QUOTE(LaurenceD @ May 15 2007, 10:43 AM)
>
> lurker, I think the docket dates on the original doucment refer to the years 2000 and 2001, the very dates of the tax years being challenged...
>
> A.H. Docket # 01-PT-0027
> P. I. # 174-116-11
> Docket # 00-28-01
> Docket # 01-28-07
>
> The beginning numbers (not the ending numbers), the 00-means 2000, and 01-means 2001. 07-means the day, not the year. But I may be wrong.
>
> Fran, I don't have acces to the transcript. Not sure if they are public either. I have to go to the mountain today, so no more time for research till later.
>
> PB, I'm not at all sure about the total annual tax figure I came to. I was doing a quick calculation in my head and it sounded about right for $500,500. Around here, land valued like that would be taxed for about that much. If I was off a decimal point and taxes were $27,500, that seems way too high of a rate for the valuation.
>
> Searching for "3abn acres" this morning, I ran across "The Televangelist" thread posted by sister. In that story, there's reference to 200 acres, and 80 acres across a road for a model tabernacle. Also, there's various descriptions of new buildings (25,000 sq. ft. etc.) so, property tax today may be far far higher than those based on 2000 and 2001 evaluations.
>
> If you haven't read that thread, it's hilarious, and quite sobering.
> http://www.blacksda.com/forums/index.php?showtopic=9823

You are right 00-28-01 makes sense the way you explain it.

Can you tell me what you think the case information about it means? Cause I have no idea.

http://tinyurl.com/29aovg

Posted by: LaurenceD May 15 2007, 09:35 PM

> QUOTE(lurker)
>
> You are right 00-28-01 makes sense the way you explain it.
>
> Can you tell me what you think the case information about it means? Cause I have no idea.
>
> http://tinyurl.com/29aovg

I don't see anything especially revealing here, except to note the case was not impounded. I looked under the other tabs--and same thing. This may be simply an overview, or a summary for the court files.

> Case Information
> Case 2004MR15 Last Update 10/13/2005 Last Upload 02/16/2006 @ 01:00
> Case Category Civil Case Type - Subtype MR - 401 Miscellaneous Remedy - Administrative Review
> Other Litigants
> Role Name
> OtherParticipant THOMPSONVILLE COMMUNITY HIGH SCHOOL
> DefendantOrRespondent DEPT OF REVENUE OF IL,
> Litigant Information
> Full Name THREE ANGELS BROADCASTING NETWORK,
> Date of Birth Role PlaintiffOrPetitioner Physical File Location
> Impounded No Initial Open Date 05/11/2004 Initial Close Date
> Suppress Minutes No Reopen Date Reclose Date
> Attorney RIVA, MICHAEL D
> Identification
> None
> Address
> None
> Phone Numbers
> None
> Hearings
> Type Date Time Judge Location
> 37 - Motion/dismiss 08/13/2004 09:30 VANTREASE A
> 89 - Conference call 10/15/2004 09:00 VANTREASE A
> 10 - Motion hearing 12/14/2004 13:30 VANTREASE A
> 89 - Conference call 05/06/2005 11:00 VANTREASE B
> 106 - Motion/strike 06/03/2005 09:30 VANTREASE B
> 113 - Argument 10/17/2005 13:30 VANTREASE C

Posted by: Rosyroi May 15 2007, 09:47 PM

> QUOTE(Fran @ May 14 2007, 11:59 PM) ☐

[color=#000099]Blue within the quote are my questionings and MHO's

ofl Thank you for that post. I noticed the building called "call center". So it is used for storage. Like you, had thought it was for receiving calls.

few weeks ago I asked about the cooking segments of 3ABN. I received this email address that listed everal healthy cooking ministries that 3ABN is showing on their programming.

Call Center 21" <CC21@3abn.org>

had never receive this kind of email address before. I was wondering if we are supposed to believe the email ame from that building? Are they trying to keep the names of the people anonymous(spelling?) Do they have everal call center numbers like 1, 2, 3....21,22,...etc...? instead of names?

abe this means nothing. Just wondering.

he subject of my questions are not earth shattering or monumental.

ow back to our regularly scheduled programming...

osyroi

Posted by: beartrap May 15 2007, 10:28 PM

The Call Center is where orders for satellite systems, videos, DVDs, books, CDs and many other things are taken. There are a number of people who work in that building taking calls and answering emails. There is a certain amount of storage there, but most of the storage is in the Bos Auditorium which now serves as a warehouse.

In a high turnover area with a large number of people, including many voluteers, I think it would make sense to use numbers that correlate to workstations in the various cubicles. That is what I have heard they are doing now.

Posted by: steffan May 15 2007, 10:29 PM

> QUOTE(Rosyroi @ May 15 2007, 10:47 PM) ☐
>
> ofl Thank you for that post. I noticed the building called "call center". So it is used for storage. Like you, I had thought it was for receiving calls.
>
> A few weeks ago I asked about the cooking segments of 3ABN. I received this email address that listed several healthy cooking ministries that 3ABN is showing on their programming.
>
> "Call Center 21" <CC21@3abn.org>
>
> I had never receive this kind of email address before. I was wondering if we are supposed to believe the email came from that building? Are they trying to keep the names of the people anonymous(spelling?) Do they have several call center numbers like 1, 2, 3....21,22,...etc...? instead of names?
>
> Mabe this means nothing. Just wondering.

> The subject of my questions are not earth shattering or monumental.
>
> Now back to our regularly scheduled programming...
>
> Rosyroi

Vhoever told you this is way off base again. Was it Fran. Have you ever been there? The call center is a large rick building housing many workers. Their work spaces are seperated by dividers because that is where they ake calls and orders. Also the satellite dept is in there. Then they have a print shop, sm kitchen area, estrooms, and mailing room where they keep the books, cd's and whatever is offered. In the very back is torage for mailing envelopes, paper for printers, boxes etc. etc. Anyone who has ever came to their ampmeeting gets a full tour of all the buildings if they choose to, as do the visitors that just "show up" to see abn year around. The ladies that work at the call center answer the phones. take orders, add people to the nailing list and take orders for satellites, and the new boxes that work through the internet.

his is also where most emails come. If the call center people can answer the email, they do, if it is for a lifferent department, they send it on to that department. The cooking emails would most definitely come rom the call center since they send out the cook books or refer people to that particular ministry to place heir order. They can tell you what time programs come on, can send your children tiny tot coloring books nd send you all the recipes that you see on the cooking shows. Whoever told you it was a "storage" building ave you very faulty information.

or those that have never been, I will satisfy your curiosity.

etween the huge main 3abn building and the call center is a large pole barn. The end has offices for the lonation department. That department takes in items that people donate and resells them to help support the ninistry. The rest of that barn contains the items, shelves, tables and whatever to organize them. Behind the all center are hook ups for rv's. Some volunteers stay year around, others part of the year and some just ome at campmeeting time to help out and attend campmeeting. Behind that are few houses. They were built y retired folk who came to live there permanetly and had small apartments built on their basement levels vhere guests and visitors can stay when need be. SW of those is the Sound Center where the music cd's are lone.

ack at the highway turn West go down the road maybe 1/4 mile and there is the church and across the arking lot is the church school. Follow the winding road north and you go by several apartments for visitors nd guests. Behind the church school are more RV hook ups.

o North a couple of miles and you will come to the old 3abn building. The first 3abn. All the latino rogramming is done there and one part houses the radio department.

nside the present 3abn building back at the complex, there is receptionist when you enter, to the right are dministrative offices, to the left are accounting offices. Down the hall are the control rooms where the lirectors, sound people, graphic people and producers are when a program is being taped. There are 2 ontrol rooms because there are 2 large studio's. Each studio is connected to it's own control room. One tudio is the 3abn today set where Danny does his program and the singing is done on that set. The other is sed for various programs, Faith Chapel, Housecalls, Shelly Q's program, Cherie peters........On down are ditors bays, behind that is master control where the programs are fed up to satellite and into your homes. o the left of that is the engineering department.

Jpstairs are the graphic and artist departments as well as the web masters office, the marketing offices and nuch farther down, the pastoral offices. Both floors have kitchens for the employees to eat. Behind the main uilding are several huge satellites and more smaller ones to send and receive the satellite signals.

f memory serves me, I don't think I have left anything out. I would advise all to check it out. It is quite mazing. And please...quit accepting ,speculating and repeating faulty information.

Posted by: Rosyroi May 15 2007, 11:01 PM

> QUOTE(steffan @ May 15 2007, 09:29 PM)
>
> Whoever told you this is way off base again. Was it Fran. Have you ever been there? The call center is a large brick building housing many workers. Their work spaces are seperated by dividers because that is where they take calls and orders. Also the satellite dept is in there. Then they have a print shop, sm > kitchen area, restrooms, and mailing room where they keep the books, cd's and whatever is offered. In the very back is storage for mailing envelopes, paper for printers, boxes etc. etc. Anyone who has ever came to their campmeeting gets a full tour of all the buildings if they choose to, as do the visitors that just "show up" to see 3abn year around. The ladies that work at the call center answer the phones. take orders, add people to the mailing list and take orders for satellites, and the new boxes that work through the internet. This is also where most emails come. If the call center people can answer the email, they do, if it is for a different department, they send it on to that department. The cooking emails would most definitely come from the call center since they send out the cook books or refer people to that particular ministry to place their order. They can tell you what time programs come on, can send your children tiny tot coloring books and send you all the recipes that you see on the cooking shows. Whoever told you it was a "storage" building gave you very faulty information.

> For those that have never been, I will satisfy your curiosity.
> Between the huge main 3abn building and the call center is a large pole barn. The end has offices for the donation department. That department takes in items that people donate and resells them to help support the ministry. The rest of that barn contains the items, shelves, tables and whatever to organize them.
> Behind the call center are hook ups for rv's. Some volunteers stay year around, others part of the year and some just come at campmeeting time to help out and attend campmeeting. Behind that are few houses. They were built by retired folk who came to live there permanetly and had small apartments built on their basement levels where guests and visitors can stay when need be. SW of those is the Sound Center where the music cd's are done.
> Back at the highway turn West go down the road maybe 1/4 mile and there is the church and across the parking lot is the church school. Follow the winding road north and you go by several apartments for visitors and guests. Behind the church school are more RV hook ups.
> Go North a couple of miles and you will come to the old 3abn building. The first 3abn. All the latino programming is done there and one part houses the radio department.
> Inside the present 3abn building back at the complex, there is receptionist when you enter, to the right are administrative offices, to the left are accounting offices. Down the hall are the control rooms where the directors, sound people, graphic people and producers are when a program is being taped. There are 2 control rooms because there are 2 large studio's. Each studio is connected to it's own control room. One studio is the 3abn today set where Danny does his program and the singing is done on that set. The other is used for various programs, Faith Chapel, Housecalls, Shelly Q's program, Cherie peters........On down are editors bays, behind that is master control where the programs are fed up to satellite and into your homes. To the left of that is the engineering department.
> Upstairs are the graphic and artist departments as well as the web masters office, the marketing offices and much farther down, the pastoral offices. Both floors have kitchens for the employees to eat. Behind the main building are several huge satellites and more smaller ones to send and receive the satellite signals.
> If memory serves me, I don't think I have left anything out. I would advise all to check it out. It is quite amazing. And please...quit accepting ,speculating and repeating faulty information.

hank you so much for correcting the error I posted. That was very enlightning. I learned a lot. I should write more silly remarks.

Rosyroi

Posted by: Panama_Pete May 15 2007, 11:09 PM

> QUOTE(steffan @ May 15 2007, 11:29 PM) ☐
>
> Whoever told you this is way off base again. Was it Fran...And please...quit accepting, speculating and repeating faulty information.

Way off base again? I don't think so.

Actually, that synopsis of Call Center storage came from Judge Barbara S. Rowe:

"The third building is the "call center", which is about 7,000 square feet and is where applicant (Danny Shelton/3ABN) stores, ships, and receives its merchandise."

Judge Rowe's statement was true at the time she stated it. The Call Center does have a large number of shelves where books, pamphlets, CDs, DVDs, and other items are stored for mailing. And the area where the loading dock door is now located was used for storage of a large number of boxes - mailing envelopes of all sizes, labels, paper, etc. I saw the boxes there, and dug through them, myself, looking for various things.

So, this had very little to do with accepting, speculating, or repeating "faulty" information. Rosyroi was simply asking for clarification. When it came to storage, the Call Center was not in competition with the http://www.si.edu/, but it was used for storage of many items, just the same.

> QUOTE(Rosyroi @ May 16 2007, 12:01 AM)
>
> thank you so much for correcting the error I posted. That was very enlightning. I learned a lot. I should write more silly remarks.
>
> Rosyroi

Yes, Rosyroi, just keep posting away. It is enlightening, as you say, so keep going.
And no, your remarks are not really that silly. Others will have the same questions in their minds that you have.

Posted by: mozart May 15 2007, 11:11 PM

thanks for the tour steffan, this all sounds correct as far as i remember except for a print shop. i don't remember that. i remember a copy machine next too the call center cubicles but don't remember a print shop. that may have been added since i was there, and it was definitely needed as things were very tight and minimalistic in there. what you have mentioned here are most of the facilities as i recall them but there is much more in the residential areas and pasture and open land areas that you failed to mention unless i missed something. but you gave a good tour. you forgot the porch behind the stairs where the piano is and the kitchen behind the "live" set. are those still there?
your scolding of "way off base" wasn't really nessessary though. apparently not everyone has been there to see for themselves and they are just trying to figure it out and all the time you took to describe all this is very helpful, however the criticism really isn't. no harm was meant. folks are just trying to figure out and understand things. it would be cool if you could find a layout diagram to post here for folks to see since they haven't had the opportunity to visit there. thanks again. Mo

> QUOTE(steffan @ May 15 2007, 10:29 PM)
>
> Whoever told you this is way off base again. Was it Fran. Have you ever been there? The call center is a large brick building housing many workers. Their work spaces are seperated by dividers because that is where they take calls and orders. Also the satellite dept is in there. Then they have a print shop, sm kitchen area, restrooms, and mailing room where they keep the books, cd's and whatever is offered. In the very back is storage for mailing envelopes, paper for printers, boxes etc. etc. Anyone who has ever came to their campmeeting gets a full tour of all the buildings if they choose to, as do the visitors that just "show up" to see 3abn year around. The ladies that work at the call center answer the phones. take orders, add people to the mailing list and take orders for satellites, and the new boxes that work through the internet.

> This is also where most emails come. If the call center people can answer the email, they do, if it is for a different department, they send it on to that department. The cooking emails would most definitely come from the call center since they send out the cook books or refer people to that particular ministry to place their order. They can tell you what time programs come on, can send your children tiny tot coloring books and send you all the recipes that you see on the cooking shows. Whoever told you it was a "storage" building gave you very faulty information.
> For those that have never been, I will satisfy your curiosity.
> Between the huge main 3abn building and the call center is a large pole barn. The end has offices for the donation department. That department takes in items that people donate and resells them to help support the ministry. The rest of that barn contains the items, shelves, tables and whatever to organize them.
> Behind the call center are hook ups for rv's. Some volunteers stay year around, others part of the year and some just come at campmeeting time to help out and attend campmeeting. Behind that are few houses. They were built by retired folk who came to live there permanetly and had small apartments built on their basement levels where guests and visitors can stay when need be. SW of those is the Sound Center where the music cd's are done.
> Back at the highway turn West go down the road maybe 1/4 mile and there is the church and across the parking lot is the church school. Follow the winding road north and you go by several apartments for visitors and guests. Behind the church school are more RV hook ups.
> Go North a couple of miles and you will come to the old 3abn building. The first 3abn. All the latino programming is done there and one part houses the radio department.
> Inside the present 3abn building back at the complex, there is receptionist when you enter, to the right are administrative offices, to the left are accounting offices. Down the hall are the control rooms where the directors, sound people, graphic people and producers are when a program is being taped. There are 2 control rooms because there are 2 large studio's. Each studio is connected to it's own control room. One studio is the 3abn today set where Danny does his program and the singing is done on that set. The other is used for various programs, Faith Chapel, Housecalls, Shelly Q's program, Cherie peters........On down are editors bays, behind that is master control where the programs are fed up to satellite and into your homes. To the left of that is the engineering department.
> Upstairs are the graphic and artist departments as well as the web masters office, the marketing offices and much farther down, the pastoral offices. Both floors have kitchens for the employees to eat. Behind the main building are several huge satellites and more smaller ones to send and receive the satellite signals.
> If memory serves me, I don't think I have left anything out. I would advise all to check it out. It is quite amazing. And please...quit accepting ,speculating and repeating faulty information.

Posted by: Jnana15 May 15 2007, 11:13 PM

> QUOTE(steffan @ May 15 2007, 11:29 PM) ☐
>
> Whoever told you this is way off base again. Was it Fran. Have you ever been there?
>
> For those that have never been, I will satisfy your curiosity.
>
> If memory serves me, I don't think I have left anything out. I would advise all to check it out. It is quite amazing. And please...quit accepting ,speculating and repeating faulty information.

Well, welcome back. Shall we continue where you left off?

Posted by: beartrap May 15 2007, 11:20 PM

Yes, Pete, the room arcoss the wall and throught the double doors from Crista's area (where the USPS, UPS, and Fedex computers, and the satellite repair and technical support were), was largely a big storage area that was sometimes almost floor to ceiling and wall to wall with supplies.

Mozart, one other areas Steffan missed was the Bos. Oh, and the wood shop and garage over at the farm.

Posted by: LaurenceD May 16 2007, 12:12 AM

> QUOTE(beartrap)
>
> ...one other areas Steffan missed was the Bos. Oh, and the wood shop and garage over at the farm.

If he meant expanding in all directions, and going nowhere, he could have just said so.

Posted by: lurker May 16 2007, 02:56 AM

> QUOTE(LaurenceD @ May 15 2007, 09:35 PM)
>
> I don't see anything especially revealing here, except to note the case was not impounded. I looked under the other tabs--and same thing. This may be simply an overview, or a summary for the court files.
>
> Case Information
> Case 2004MR15 Last Update 10/13/2005 Last Upload 02/16/2006 @ 01:00
> Case Category Civil Case Type - Subtype MR - 401 Miscellaneous Remedy - Administrative Review
> Other Litigants
> Role Name
> OtherParticipant THOMPSONVILLE COMMUNITY HIGH SCHOOL
> DefendantOrRespondent DEPT OF REVENUE OF IL,
> Litigant Information
> Full Name THREE ANGELS BROADCASTING NETWORK,
> Date of Birth Role PlaintiffOrPetitioner Physical File Location
> Impounded No Initial Open Date 05/11/2004 Initial Close Date
> Suppress Minutes No Reopen Date Reclose Date
> Attorney RIVA, MICHAEL D
> Identification
> None
> Address
> None
> Phone Numbers
> None
> Hearings
> Type Date Time Judge Location
> 37 - Motion/dismiss 08/13/2004 09:30 VANTREASE A
> 89 - Conference call 10/15/2004 09:00 VANTREASE A
> 10 - Motion hearing 12/14/2004 13:30 VANTREASE A
> 89 - Conference call 05/06/2005 11:00 VANTREASE B
> 106 - Motion/strike 06/03/2005 09:30 VANTREASE B
> 113 - Argument 10/17/2005 13:30 VANTREASE C

http://tinyurl.com/29aovg
I noticed that there are minutes which are not surpressed. These should be available. January 28 2004 at the bottom of the original document was the date of Judge Rowe's original decision. Wouldn't the dates 8-13-2004 through 10-17-2005 listed have to do with the appeal? Also under fines and fees and under payments, it appears to me that 3ABN must have been required to pay some costs. They did this with company checks. One as late as 2-16-2006.

http://www.state.il.us/agency/ptab/procedur/bor.htm
Response of the Board of Review

The local board of review must respond to the petition for appeal within 30 days of the date it is informed of the appeal. See Official Rules §1910.40.

Every time we find something I feel is important someone from the other side comes in to distract. They must feel it is important too. When I showed in an earlier post that corporations organized under the Religious Corporation Act 805 ILCS 110/0.01 et seq are taxed for property tax too, Eirene tried to distract by repeating FHB's claims.. Now it is Steffan.

I think they lost the appeal and had to pay court costs.

Posted by: LaurenceD May 16 2007, 06:46 AM

> QUOTE(lurker)
>
> Wouldn't the dates 8-13-2004 through 10-17-2005 listed have to do with the appeal? Also under fines and fees and under payments, it appears to me that 3ABN must have been required to pay some costs. They did this with company checks. One as late as 2-16-2006.
>
> .....
>
> The local board of review must respond to the petition for appeal within 30 days of the date it is informed of the appeal. See Official Rules §1910.40.
>
> Every time we find something I feel is important someone from the other side comes in to distract. They must feel it is important too. When I showed in an earlier post that corporations organized under the Religious Corporation Act 805 ILCS 110/0.01 et seq are taxed for property tax too, Eirene tried to distract by repeating FHB's claims.. Now it is Steffan.
>
> I think they lost the appeal and had to pay court costs.

Initially, this summary document looks incomplete to me. I could be wrong. But, it looks like a record of the ongoing progress for the appeal. A new judge (Vantrease). A new venue (Franklin Co., Illinois' Second Judicial Circuit). Filing fee (required) and payments. Motions: 1)to dismiss, 2)conference call, 3)hearing on motion, 4)conference call, 5)motion to strike [the motion to dismiss], 6)argument [in progress?]. No Remedy offered. No closing date.

These things probably move slowly. The reference to 30 days response timeline is probably referring to a confirmation from the appellate court that they received the petition...not 30 days to render a decsion or remedy. You can contact the Franklin Co., Illinois' Second Judicial Circuit, along with the trial administrator, court reporter, and secretary (by email or phone), to see where this appeal stands, or if a remedy has actually already been given.

http://www.illinoissecondcircuit.info/Personnel/Chief_Judge/chief_judge.html

Yeah, I hear ya. Seems like a disinformation campaign going on from time to time, a switch and bait kind of thing.

Posted by: lurker May 16 2007, 07:50 AM

> QUOTE(LaurenceD @ May 16 2007, 06:46 AM)
>
> Initially, this summary document looks incomplete to me. I could be wrong. But, it looks like a record of the ongoing progress for the appeal. A new judge (Vantrease). A new venue (Franklin Co., Illinois' Second Judicial Circuit). Filing fee (required) and payments. Motions: 1)to dismiss, 2)conference call, 3)hearing on motion, 4)conference call, 5)motion to strike [the motion to dismiss], 6)argument [in progress?]. No Remedy offered. No closing date.
>
> These things probably move slowly. The reference to 30 days response timeline is probably referring to a confirmation from the appellate court that they received the petition...not 30 days to render a decsion or remedy. You can contact the Franklin Co., Illinois' Second Judicial Circuit, along with the trial administrator, court reporter, and secretary (by email or phone), to see where this appeal stands, or if a remedy has actually already been given.
>
> http://www.illinoissecondcircuit.info/Personnel/Chief_Judge/chief_judge.html
>
> Yeah, I hear ya. Seems like a disinformation campaign going on from time to time, a switch and bait kind of thing.

Thanks for your thoughts on this. I guess I will keep watching to see what else is added to the site.

Posted by: Fran May 16 2007, 10:49 AM

> QUOTE(beartrap @ May 15 2007, 11:28 PM)
>
> The Call Center is where orders for satellite systems, videos, DVDs, books, Cd's and many other things are taken. There are a number of people who work in that building taking calls and answering emails. There is a certain amount of storage there, but most of the storage is in the Bos Auditorium which now serves as a warehouse.
>
> In a high turnover area with a large number of people, including many volunteers, I think it would make sense to use numbers that correlate to workstations in the various cubicles. That is what I have heard they are doing now.

Rosyroi

By the word "Storage", I believe they meant storage of inventory to sell.

Bear;

I can understand they would need more "Storage" room for the very large increase they had in inventory over just a few years. I can surely understand why they would need more room to store it.

I am curious as to what this large increase was. It happened before they were taken off of SkyAngel and had to increase their inventory of the larger satellites. I can't help but wonder what did NOT sell!

Did they move the storage warehouse to the "BOS" before the large satellites push or after?

Where do they keep the inventory of goods they sell on eBay?

Does Tammy still handle that?

Sales on eBay have almost come to a stand still. Coins still sell and so do dolls, but some of the items have been on there for a very long time.

Posted by: Rosyroi May 16 2007, 11:15 AM

> QUOTE(beartrap @ May 15 2007, 09:28 PM)
>
> The Call Center is where orders for satellite systems, videos, DVDs, books, CDs and many other things are taken. There are a number of people who work in that building taking calls and answering emails. There is a certain amount of storage there, but most of the storage is in the Bos Auditorium which now serves as a warehouse.
>
> In a high turnover area with a large number of people, including many voluteers, I think it would make sense to use numbers that correlate to workstations in the various cubicles. That is what I have heard they are doing now.

Thanks Beartrap.

That makes sense to me.

Rosyroi

> QUOTE(beartrap @ May 15 2007, 10:20 PM)
>
> Yes, Pete, the room arcoss the wall and throught the double doors from Crista's area (where the USPS, UPS, and Fedex computers, and the satellite repair and technical support were), was largely a big storage area that was sometimes almost floor to ceiling and wall to wall with supplies.
>
> Mozart, one other areas Steffan missed was the Bos. Oh, and the wood shop and garage over at the farm.

Farm? do they also farm produce or?
and what is the Bos.?

Posted by: beartrap May 16 2007, 01:37 PM

> QUOTE(Fran @ May 16 2007, 08:49 AM)
>
> Rosyroi
>
> By the word "Storage", I believe they meant storage of inventory to sell.
>
> Bear;
>
> I can understand they would need more "Storage" room for the very large increase they had in inventory over just a few years. I can surely understand why they would need more room to store it.
>
> I am curious as to what this large increase was. It happened before they were taken off of SkyAngel and had to increase their inventory of the larger satellites. I can't help but wonder what did NOT sell!
>
> Did they move the storage warehouse to the "BOS" before the large satellites push or after?

> I don't remember exactly when the Bos started being used for storage, but I would guess around eight years ago. Maybe a little more.
> Where do they keep the inventory of goods they sell on eBay?
>
> Much of it is kept in the brown barn just east of the Bos. There may be other more secure storage for more valuable items. In times past Danny has kept some of those things at his house.
>
> Does Tammy still handle that?
>
> To my knowledge, Tammy and Bruce Chance handle sale of most donated items.
>
> Sales on eBay have almost come to a stand still. Coins still sell and so do dolls, but some of the items have been on there for a very long time.

> QUOTE(Rosyroi @ May 16 2007, 09:15 AM)
>
> Thanks Beartrap.
>
> That makes sense to me.
>
> Rosyroi
> Farm? do they also farm produce or?
> and what is the Bos.?

t is just an area that is commonly known as the Farm. There is a house where an amployee lives, a garage vhere equipment is maintained and stored, and a wood shop. I don't believe that produce is grown or sold rom there. At one time there were a number of acres of 3ABN land that were mowed and baled for hay each ear. Some was sold outside, and some went for Danny's horses. I don't know if there is any haying done nymore, and I doubt it.

he Bos Auditorium was at one time an auditorium for events. It was sponsored by Mrs. Bos, Thus the name. t is attached to the main office/studio complex. In the area that used to be the stage a new master control vas built, and the rest is storage and a paper crusher... unless something else has been recently added or hanged

---

Posted by: steffan May 16 2007, 01:45 PM

> QUOTE(Fran @ May 16 2007, 11:49 AM)
>
> Rosyroi
>
> By the word "Storage", I believe they meant storage of inventory to sell.
>
> As I exlained, storage isn't just for inventory to sell, it is for the huge amount of supplies that are needed for printing, shipping, office supplies.......
>
> Did they move the storage warehouse to the "BOS" before the large satellites push or after?
>
> The "Bos" has been one of the storage areas for years. It holds the satellites and receivers as well as extra shipping and printing supplies that they don't have room for at the call center.
>
> Where do they keep the inventory of goods they sell on eBay?

> I answered that. The barn behind the main building. There are small offices in one end for those that oversee it, the rest of the barn is just a big open area where the stuff is kept. Every campmeeting they open it to the public so the locals and campmeeting people have an opportunity to purchase items.
>
> Sales on eBay have almost come to a stand still. Coins still sell and so do dolls, but some of the items have been on there for a very long time.

saw a program awhile back that addressed the donation of items. They said that less items and ess time are being spent on ebay and more sales to buyers in the area for certain items.

Posted by: princessdi May 16 2007, 02:02 PM

...and every bit of what of the information you must gave could have been given sans the attitutde and swipe at another member. Please keep this in mind. We, here at BSDA, are committed to a kinder, gentler 3ABN Forum.

> QUOTE(steffan @ May 15 2007, 09:29 PM)
>
> Whoever told you this is way off base again. Was it Fran. Have you ever been there? The call center is a large brick building housing many workers. Their work spaces are seperated by dividers because that is where they take calls and orders. Also the satellite dept is in there. Then they have a print shop, sm kitchen area, restrooms, and mailing room where they keep the books, cd's and whatever is offered. In the very back is storage for mailing envelopes, paper for printers, boxes etc. etc. Anyone who has ever came to their campmeeting gets a full tour of all the buildings if they choose to, as do the visitors that just "show up" to see 3abn year around. The ladies that work at the call center answer the phones. take orders, add people to the mailing list and take orders for satellites, and the new boxes that work through the internet. This is also where most emails come. If the call center people can answer the email, they do, if it is for a different department, they send it on to that department. The cooking emails would most definitely come from the call center since they send out the cook books or refer people to that particular ministry to place their order. They can tell you what time programs come on, can send your children tiny tot coloring books and send you all the recipes that you see on the cooking shows. Whoever told you it was a "storage" building gave you very faulty information.
> For those that have never been, I will satisfy your curiosity.
> Between the huge main 3abn building and the call center is a large pole barn. The end has offices for the donation department. That department takes in items that people donate and resells them to help support the ministry. The rest of that barn contains the items, shelves, tables and whatever to organize them.
> Behind the call center are hook ups for rv's. Some volunteers stay year around, others part of the year and some just come at campmeeting time to help out and attend campmeeting. Behind that are few houses. They were built by retired folk who came to live there permanetly and had small apartments built on their basement levels where guests and visitors can stay when need be. SW of those is the Sound Center where the music cd's are done.
> Back at the highway turn West go down the road maybe 1/4 mile and there is the church and across the parking lot is the church school. Follow the winding road north and you go by several apartments for visitors and guests. Behind the church school are more RV hook ups.
> Go North a couple of miles and you will come to the old 3abn building. The first 3abn. All the latino programming is done there and one part houses the radio department.
> Inside the present 3abn building back at the complex, there is receptionist when you enter, to the right are administrative offices, to the left are accounting offices. Down the hall are the control rooms where the directors, sound people, graphic people and producers are when a program is being taped. There are 2 control rooms because there are 2 large studio's. Each studio is connected to it's own control room. One studio is the 3abn today set where Danny does his program and the singing is done on that set. The other is used for various programs, Faith Chapel, Housecalls, Shelly Q's program, Cherie peters........On down are editors bays, behind that is master control where the programs are fed up to satellite and into your homes. To the left of that is the engineering department.
> Upstairs are the graphic and artist departments as well as the web masters office, the marketing offices > and much farther down, the pastoral offices. Both floors have kitchens for the employees to eat. Behind the main building are several huge satellites and more smaller ones to send and receive the satellite signals.

> If memory serves me, I don't think I have left anything out. I would advise all to check it out. It is quite amazing. And please...quit accepting ,speculating and repeating faulty information.

Posted by: mozart May 16 2007, 07:44 PM

thanks steffan, do you happen to know how they do that?

> QUOTE(steffan @ May 16 2007, 01:45 PM)
>
> I saw a program awhile back that addressed the donation of items. They said that less items and less time are being spent on ebay and more sales to buyers in the area for certain items.

Posted by: Pickle May 16 2007, 08:44 PM

Anything that would help show that certain employees and friends of 3ABN aren't getting preferential pricing for sales of donated items would also be helpful, given the allegations regarding that kind of thing that have been made in the past.

Posted by: Fran May 16 2007, 10:06 PM

> QUOTE(Pickle @ May 16 2007, 09:44 PM)
>
> Anything that would help show that certain employees and friends of 3ABN aren't getting preferential pricing for sales of donated items would also be helpful, given the allegations regarding that kind of thing that have been made in the past.

xactly!

Posted by: steffan May 16 2007, 10:07 PM

> QUOTE(mozart @ May 16 2007, 08:44 PM)
>
> thanks steffan, do you happen to know how they do that?

ask the same question. I understood the answer to be that things such as quilts, baby items, knick knacks, hina, silverware, dolls.....those are the items that go on ebay and at the campmeeting sales. Valuable coins nd donated jewlery are usually sold to coin and jewelry dealers. Through the connection 3abn has made with few dealers, they can get more, especially for coins, than the average person trying to sell them. The ones hat handle the donations appeared to have become quite adept and knowledgable at what they are doing.

Posted by: Fran May 16 2007, 10:44 PM

> QUOTE(steffan @ May 16 2007, 02:45 PM)
>
> I saw a program awhile back that addressed the donation of items. They said that less items and less time are being spent on eBay and more sales to buyers in the area for certain items.

Steffan;

We really MUST have a conference call with Judge Barbara Rowe! We could find out the definition of this statement, especially the word merchandise, and see what it really means:

> QUOTE
>
> The third building is the "call center", which is about 7,000 square feet and is where applicant (Danny Shelton/3ABN) *stores, ships, and receives its merchandise.
>
> As the name suggests, it is also where applicant (Danny Shelton/3ABN) receives calls from viewers around the world interested in applicant's programs and products. (Applicant's(Danny Shelton/3ABN) Ex. No. 1; Tr. pp. 81-91, 119-122, 233, 280- 292) end of footnotes on page 2/46

I am sure she could add value to this discussion. I am sorry I was not the one you should be attacking and slandering. I believe we should send your comments directly to her for her amusement and comments. I wonder what she would feel about your comments addressed to me, but were actually for her report?

It is my opinion that it means it was used to store. ship and receive MERCHANDISE. That would be inventory of goods to sell and inventory of supplies. However, the one listed was merchandise that was sold and shipped!

Have they shut down all eBay sales or is it going strong and we just aren't supposed to know it? It costs more to list the merchandise what they are charging for it. They would be ahead if they would stop listing it and stick it in the ... oops, where ever it is they stick that "Whatever you want to call it" for Campmeeting!

Have a great day.

Posted by: LaurenceD May 16 2007, 11:05 PM

> QUOTE(Fran)
>
> We really MUST have a conference call with Judge Barbara Rowe!
>
> ...
>
> I am sure she could add value to this discussion.

Here she is writing her Recommendation:

> Although Danny Shelton testified that he has written three books about the teachings and principles of the Seventh-day Adventist Church, (Tr. pp. 155-157) those books were not admitted into evidence, nor were the circumstances regarding the religious nature or financial information about the books admitted into evidence. -p.32 3abn v. State of Illinois

Then they wonder why she was forced to rule the way she did. 3abn was no match for the Dept. of Revenue.

Posted by: Panama_Pete May 16 2007, 11:20 PM

> QUOTE(steffan @ May 16 2007, 10:07 PM)
>
> Through the connection 3abn has made with a few dealers, they can get more , especially for coins, than the average person trying to sell them.

I think that idea of 3ABN getting more is just one of the well-worn 3ABN stories.

I do not believe 3ABN has the power over time and space when it comes to liquidating gifts-in-kind. I think 3ABN gets the same, average, mediocre results that any Tom, Dick or Harry could get from visiting coin dealers on their own.

And, really, what difference would it make to "get more" if it just goes to pay Danny Shelton's airport landing fees for his private jet? Do people with private jets at their disposal spend time bargaining with coin dealers over a few dollars? Don't make me laugh.

Posted by: Pickle May 17 2007, 08:31 AM

> QUOTE(LaurenceD @ May 16 2007, 11:05 PM)
>
> Here she is writing her Recommendation:
>
>> Although Danny Shelton testified that he has written three books about the teachings and principles of the Seventh-day Adventist Church, (Tr. pp. 155-157) those books were not admitted into evidence, nor were the circumstances regarding the religious nature or financial information about the books admitted into evidence. -p.32 3abn v. State of Illinois
>
> Then they wonder why she was forced to rule the way she did. 3abn was no match for the Dept. of Revenue.

Hmm. Seems to me that Danny told me it was all lies that he was trying to hide his royalty arrangements on his books from the courts until after the settlement of the marital property case, even though he told me that he wouldn't reveal his royalty arrangements until at least after the settlement of the marital property case.

But Judge Rowe is quite clear that Danny hid his royalty arrangements from the court in the tax case. The royalty arrangements, and how many books 3ABN would buy at a time, would be critical information in proving 3ABN's case that their property should be tax exempt, and yet Danny refused to disclose such information to the court.

Now I realize I'm using strong words like "hid" and "refused," so I want to clarify that. I don't use those words because I am assuming that Judge Rowe asked for such and Danny refused to comply. Rather, I use those words instead because I am assuming that Danny is no dummy and would know that he needed to disclose that information to better ensure that he would win the case.

Thus he refused to comply with what his own good sense would have told him that he needed to do in order to win the case, and the only conclusion I can draw from such a refusal is that he also knew that such a disclosure would have demonstrated that he is personally profiting from 3ABN activities, which would have caused him to lose the case.

Not sure how else to take all this.

Posted by: Grith May 17 2007, 08:46 AM

A few years ago I donated a collectible item (which was not real expensive, but not a cheap trinket either) to 3abn. I am still waiting for a receipt. I never saw it for sale in the ebay store nor did I see it for sale when I attended a campmeeting there a few months later. BTW, I saw the items they had for sale. They were in a large building more like a huge garage, and there was nothing there that I would have paid money for. It was mainly do-dads, and typical yard sale stuff.

Posted by: LaurenceD May 17 2007, 10:38 AM

> QUOTE(Pickle)
>
> Not sure how else to take all this.

That's why it would be very interesting to read the transcript (Tr.)

There were many reasons why the judged had to rule against 3abn. I think not fully disclosing informations was self-destructive. It appears to have been the pattern of 3abn to assume...if the court doesn't know everything, we'll be better off. And, if that's the case, they terribly underestimated the Dept. of Rev.

Reading Judge Rowe's Recommendation, count how many time you see reference to incomplete information....

> "No information was offered...were not in evidence...Pages 8-10 of this exhibit are missing...not explained...additional concerns...Applicant's financial reports raise additional questions and concerns...There is nothing in the record to identify the donors or the assets...Applicant has no records of materials given away...The record contains absolutely no evidence proving how 3ABN determines the prices...There is no indication in the record...there is discrepancy in the testimony...Applicant did not provide a break down of those wages...Applicant did not explain...Applicant did not verify or establish the assertions of Danny Shelton...Those amounts were also not explained...It is difficult to totally understand applicant's financial position based solely on the financial statements submitted...how the remaining unrestricted funds are used is unknown."

And that's not all...

Posted by: LaurenceD May 17 2007, 01:46 PM

(Added) Since the court documents were not impounded, I'm sure the transcript is available for public viewing, and if not, surely through the Freedom Of Information Act. Here's a likely source for anyone who might have the time and a few bucks to obtain it...

http://www.find-court-records.org/court_records.php?kw=Court+Transcripts&gclid=CL-Slp30lYwCFQtYSgodH1kKeg

Have to read the testimonies and hear what both sides were saying to understand what a slam dunk this case appears to have been. It could be that the Dept, of Rev. had answers for every point 3abn brought to the table, and from which the judge drew her conclusions. And it could be 3abn had no counter arguments and that the judge was unable to draw any conclusions from the incomplete and self-contradictory information they submitted.

Posted by: seraph|m May 17 2007, 01:55 PM

> QUOTE(LaurenceD @ May 17 2007, 01:38 PM)
>
> That's why it would be very interesting to read the transcript (Tr.)
>
> There were many reasons why the judged had to rule against 3abn. I think not fully disclosing informations was self-destructive. It appears to have been the pattern of 3abn to assume...if the court doesn't know everything, we'll be better off. And, if that's the case, they terribly underestimated the Dept. of Rev.
>
> Reading Judge Rowe's Recommendation, count how many time you see reference to incomplete information....
>
> > "No information was offered...were not in evidence...Pages 8-10 of this exhibit are missing...not explained...additional concerns...Applicant's financial reports raise additional questions and concerns...There is nothing in the record to identify the donors or the assets...Applicant has no records of materials given away...The record contains absolutely no evidence proving how 3ABN determines the prices...There is no indication in the record...there is discrepancy in the testimony...Applicant did not provide a break down of those wages...Applicant did not explain...Applicant did not verify or establish the assertions of Danny Shelton...Those amounts were also not explained...It is difficult to totally understand applicant's financial position based solely on the financial statements submitted...how the remaining unrestricted funds are used is unknown."
>
> And that's not all...

Looks like at least 10 instances that the negative is used in reference to the unavailability of information...

Posted by: Pickle May 17 2007, 03:44 PM

> QUOTE(LaurenceD @ May 17 2007, 01:46 PM)
>
> Have to read the testimonies and hear what both sides were saying to understand what a slam dunk this case appears to have been. It could be that the Dept, of Rev. had answers for every point 3abn brought to the table, and from which the judge drew her conclusions. And it could be 3abn had no counter arguments and that the judge was unable to draw any conclusions from the incomplete and self-contradictory information they submitted.

What I heard is that if the Dept. of Rev. or whoever had done their job better, 3ABN's situation would have been far worse.

Posted by: Fran May 17 2007, 09:07 PM

It is with great sadness that it appears that eBay's nan_don may be closing down. They sell from Van, TX.

They used to have at least 3 pages of items to sell. Now they have only one, and the last item is their stock for sale. There is no reserve, and the 1st bid is $ 9.99. The item number is 200110236818.
http://cgi.ebay.com/ws/eBayISAPI.dll?ViewItem&item=200110236818&ssPageName=ADME:B:FSEL:US:1

This is a sad day. I would surly like to know the reason they are shutting down. Their items used to be listed on 3ABN eBay. In fact, Nan was a point of contact fro questions about eBay products.

So many sellers have closed their doors since 2004. These folks had like item transactions with 3ABN eBay. I have to check on all of them now!

If you check out 3ABN's eBay store at http://stores.ebay.com/3-ANGELS-GIFT-SHOP_W0QQsspagenameZADMEQ3aBQ3aFSELQ3aUSQ3a3QQtZkm you will find a few NEW items along with all those items that have been there since last year. There are 2 pitchers that look nice. They look ceramic. Doesn't Tammy deal with ceramics as well as ceramic tiles.

There is an eBay Store that is really nice. http://stores.ebay.com/Bright-Star-Ceramics_W0QQssPageNameZstrkQ3amefsQ3amesstQQtZkm This is the place to look if you are needing Ceramic Tiles. There are 4 patterns I am going to get one of these days.

Mister Junque's store at http://stores.ebay.com/MisterJunkque_W0QQssPageNameZstrkQ3amefsQ3amesstQQtZkm is fun to go browse through. It used to take me days to check it out because he listed thousands of items. I always look at year boos. Mount Pisgah is there frequently. i saw one once from Oakwood. I find Adventist books and of course secular books that 3ABN eBay could never carry and sell without some kind of protest! So be careful at what you are buying in secular books.

His store is down to only 772 items. It looks like another one is at least slowing down. How sad.

Posted by: steffan May 17 2007, 09:43 PM

> QUOTE(Panama_Pete @ May 17 2007, 12:20 AM)
>
> I think that idea of 3ABN getting more is just one of the well-worn 3ABN stories.
>
> I do not believe 3ABN has the power over time and space when it comes to liquidating gifts-in-kind. I think 3ABN gets the same, average, mediocre results that any Tom, Dick or Harry could get from visiting coin dealers on their own.
>
> And, really, what difference would it make to "get more" if it just goes to pay Danny Shelton's airport landing fees for his private jet? Do people with private jets at their disposal spend time bargaining with coin dealers over a few dollars? Don't make me laugh.

Pete, your attitude has really deteriorated over time. In the first place it has been explained over and over that a private supporter paid for the lease and expenses of the plane.
Then you said Danny is going bargain with coin dealers.......
Danny doesn't do any of that period. And, who said a few dollars? At times they sell thousands of dollars of coins. As far as they can't get more, just use your head. If you have a few dealers that you are consistently doing thousands of dollars worth of business with, of course they are going to give that person more for coins or bullion. They want to keep the business coming. That benefits they buyer and the seller. I would think anyone would know something like that.

Posted by: mozart May 17 2007, 09:49 PM

Please everyone, let's not start with the insults and bickering. Please just take a deep breath and just discuss the issues. thanks, Mo

> QUOTE(steffan @ May 17 2007, 08:43 PM)
>
> Pete, your attitude has really deteriorated over time. In the first place it has been explained over and over that a private supporter paid for the lease and expenses of the plane.
> Then you said Danny is going bargain with coin dealers.......
> Danny doesn't do any of that period. And, who said a few dollars? At times they sell thousands of dollars of coins. As far as they can't get more, just use your head. If you have a few dealers that you are consistently doing thousands of dollars worth of business with, of course they are going to give that person more for coins or bullion. They want to keep the business coming. That benefits they buyer and the seller. I would think anyone would know something like that.

Posted by: beartrap May 17 2007, 10:49 PM

> QUOTE(steffan @ May 17 2007, 07:43 PM)
>
> Pete, your attitude has really deteriorated over time. In the first place it has been explained over and over that a private supporter paid for the lease and expenses of the plane.

There has been some question about whether that individual donor is paying only for the lease, or if he is paying for lease, fuel, maintanance, pilots, hangar, and the rest, and that no monies sent to 3ABN by donors other than him are used for that aircraft or travel expenses associated with it. Steffan, is it definitive that that this single donor completely covers every expense related to that aircraft and its use?

Posted by: runner4him May 18 2007, 07:07 AM

> QUOTE(beartrap @ May 17 2007, 10:49 PM)
>
> There has been some question about whether that individual donor is paying only for the lease, or if he is paying for lease, fuel, maintanance, pilots, hangar, and the rest, and that no monies sent to 3ABN by donors other than him are used for that aircraft or travel expenses associated with it. Steffan, is it definitive that that this single donor completely covers every expense related to that aircraft and its use?

Thanks, Beartrap, for asking the very questions that are on my mind. I am sure many would want to know the answers. I would also like to raise the question of why not use those funds for spreading the Gospel and winning souls instead of fueling a jet for unnecessary travel? Encouraging anyone who has that kind of money to donate instead to a more worthy cause would be admirable, Steffan. Why not pray to have the spirit of sacrifice...the same thing 3abn and other ministries ask their supporters to to have? Let's get on the same page as the dedicated people in those pews or on the couches.

P.S. In my mind the thought of taking a commercial flight is not really in the realm of sacrifice but compared to the jet life it might seem that way.

Posted by: Panama_Pete May 18 2007, 07:43 AM

> QUOTE(steffan @ May 17 2007, 09:43 PM)
>
> Pete, your attitude has really deteriorated over time. In the first place it has been explained over and over that a private supporter paid for the lease and expenses of the plane.
> Then you said Danny is going bargain with coin dealers.......
> Danny doesn't do any of that period. And, who said a few dollars? At times they sell thousands of dollars of coins. As far as they can't get more, just use your head. If you have a few dealers that you are consistently doing thousands of dollars worth of business with, of course they are going to give that person more for coins or bullion. They want to keep the business coming. That benefits they buyer and the seller. I would think anyone would know something like that.

As Beartrap asked: Do the jet expenses include having a pilot "on call" 24-hours, landing fees, jet fuel, maintenance, hangar space - for every single flight every time to everywhere? I have a really hard time believing that one donor is footing the bill for all.

Yes, I'm sure a coin collection could bring in a few thousand dollars. A thousand dollars isn't what it used to be. Decades ago, a ice cream cone was 5 cents. Try that today.

Personally, I think there is the possiblilty that some ministries - which will remain nameless - have been quite reckless with the disposition of their donations. And since these ministries have not been transparent with their finances, there is no way for the little guy to know for sure how donations are handled.

Yes, I've heard the same explanations dripped "over and over" like Chinese Water Torture. Do you have the name of that donor for those jet expenses so I could write and ask? Or, is that a deep secret not to be shared with the little people, like so many other things?

My attitude is, basically, the same as ever. The only difference in attitude that you and I have is that you, apparently, believe what you are being told, and I cannot. However, from this point forward, I would really need more solid evidence than you could provide.

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered May 18 2007, 12:14 PM

> QUOTE(Fran @ May 17 2007, 08:07 PM)
>
> If you check out 3ABN's eBay store at http://stores.ebay.com/3-ANGELS-GIFT-SHOP_W0QQsspagenameZADMEQ3aBQ3aFSELQ3aUSQ3a3QQtZkm you will find a few NEW items along with all those items that have been there since last year. There are 2 pitchers that look nice. They look ceramic. Doesn't Tammy deal with ceramics as well as ceramic tiles.
>
> There is an eBay Store that is really nice. http://stores.ebay.com/Bright-Star-Ceramics_W0QQssPageNameZstrkQ3amefsQ3amesstQQtZkm This is the place to look if you are needing Ceramic Tiles. There are 4 patterns I am going to get one of these days.

I don't recognize either of the women in the picture on the "ME" page for Bright Star Ceramics.

http://members.ebay.com/ws/eBayISAPI.dll?ViewUserPage&userid=tammys_tiles

---

Posted by: LaurenceD May 19 2007, 07:39 AM

> QUOTE(Pickle @ May 17 2007, 04:44 PM)
>
> What I heard is that if the Dept. of Rev. or whoever had done their job better, 3ABN's situation would have been far worse.

I'm sure both the judge and the Dept. of Rev. suspect a lot that hasn't been reported. The department would only have a vested interest in state related taxes--property, sales, B&O, Telecomunications, etc.--I doubt if Bingo/Charitable Games tax would apply, but you never know what's happening out in the barn late at night. The Dept. of Rev. may have a cooperative agreement with federal audtors and may have transfered their findings. Things like this take a while.

What do you think of the stunning silence of the defenders here on BSDA, regarding this case? I've questioned most of them, but none have really commented except for little spurts of bogus information, and nonsignificant, such as Bystander made about board memebers. Shiny Penny disappeared when pressed. Now that most of them are gone, except a couple (maybe), here's the purpose for my asking them. If a case is being appealed, normally participants would not be allowed to comment on the case. Anything they said could be used against them and could destroy their chances of even getting to first base in the next round of hearings, ie, if the judge became aware that comments had been made.

So, based on the silence, and supposing my theory is right (that we have a participant here) how many participants could their possibly be around here? I'm guessing one, even though many have been asked, but none have commented. (heh! heh!) We'll see if this character steffan will step forward and tell us if he understands what 3abn was doing wrong re the Judge Barbara Rowe ruling.

Posted by: Clay May 19 2007, 07:41 AM

> QUOTE(LaurenceD @ May 19 2007, 08:39 AM)
>

> I'm sure both the judge and the Dept. of Rev. suspect a lot that hasn't been reported. The department would only have a vested interest in state related taxes--property, sales, B&O, Telecomunications, etc.--I doubt if Bingo/Charitable Games tax would apply, but you never know what's happening out in the barn late at night. The Dept. of Rev. may have a cooperative agreement with federal audtors and may have transfered their findings. Things like this take a while.
>
> What do you think of the stunning silence of the defenders here on BSDA, regarding this case? I've questioned most of them, but none have really commented except for little spurts of bogus information, and nonsignificant, such as Bystander made about board memebers. Shiny Penny disappeared when pressed. Now that most of them are gone, except a couple (maybe), here's the purpose for my asking them. If a case is being appealed, normally participants would not be allowed to comment on the case. Anything they said could be used against them and could destroy their chances of even getting to first base in the next round of hearings, ie, if the judge became aware that comments had been made.
>
> So, based on the silence, and supposing my theory is right (that we have a participant here) how many participants could their possibly be around here? I'm guessing one, even though many have been asked, but none have commented. (heh! heh!) We'll see if this character steffan will step forward and tell us if he understands what 3abn was doing wrong re the Judge Barbara Rowe ruling.

well to be fair, many of the vitriolic supporters have been banished so they cannot speak.... my point is that you should not misread the silence.....

Posted by: LaurenceD May 19 2007, 07:59 AM

Specific questions that were asked of them long long before they were banished. None could ever be coaxed to comment. But, you're right, I shouldn't read too much into it. Still thought provoking though...whatever the cause.

Posted by: Clay May 19 2007, 10:42 AM

> QUOTE(LaurenceD @ May 19 2007, 08:59 AM)
>
> Specific questions that were asked of them long long before they were banished. None could ever be coaxed to comment. But, you're right, I shouldn't read too much into it. Still thought provoking though...whatever the cause.

agreed... there were a couple of basic questions that were avoided, or that were not commented on unfortunately...

Posted by: Fran May 19 2007, 12:46 PM

> QUOTE(PeacefullyBewildered @ May 18 2007, 01:14 PM)
>
> I don't recognize either of the women in the picture on the "ME" page for Bright Star Ceramics.
>
> http://members.ebay.com/ws/eBayISAPI.dll?ViewUserPage&userid=tammys_tiles

I didn't either, ages ago when I first looked. I only looked at the transactions that led me there.

There are more sites that shut down when I first mentioned 3ABN and eBay name changings and other sites back in 2004 or early 2005.

Now, about those coins. Are there records of their receipt. Are there matching receipts of the sale of those coins? Was the sale recorded properly?

I found where the coins listed on 3ABN went. Another seller sold some of them on eBay in his coin store. Yes, that comment about a dealer selling those coins is correct.

Posted by: Fran May 19 2007, 10:59 PM

I realize Penny went away, but the rest of answering her post has some information that needs to be said. This is my last response to Penny.

> QUOTE
>
> 61. The Independent Auditor's Reports for 2000 and 2001 state:
>
> Down-link equipment acquired by gift is not recorded in the financial statements. In our > opinion, generally accepted accounting principles require that such donated property be recorded at its fair value at the date of receipt. It was not practicable to determine the effects of the unrecorded equipment on the financial statements,...

> QUOTE
>
> Penny:
>
> It appears that 3ABN did not track assets in the proper manner.

Fran:

I totally agree. It goes on to say it had gone on for so long that it was not "practicable" to determine the value of assets and the effects of this error. In other words, their hands were tied!

> QUOTE
>
> Penny:
>
> About the amounts due to other ministries, according to the 990 these amounts had previously been classified as temporarily restricted and were now being reclassified to something else. I didn't see what they were being classified to, but since this amount is in parenthesis (meaning it is being subtracted) would indicate that in this correction 3ABN was removing that amount from its fund balance. To get a bit technical here (and probably lose the rest of the readers who would have gotten even this far in my post) we know that the debit was to some restricted account (I assume restricted cash) and was improperly credited to some account (such as donations or something similar) that increased the fund balance. I supposed that this is an easy enough mistake to make and part of the reason books are audited - to find material errors and misstatements. Anyway, the good news is the auditors caught the mistake and that 3ABN made the correction in 2001 as is reported in the 990.

Fran:

Read what you have written very carefully. A not-for-profit entity will sometimes receive funds for others. Preferably, at the end of each month, these funds are forwarded to the appropriate entities along with the information of the person that sent the donation in..

These funds received are called Fiduciary Funds or some other name with a like meaning.

They do not belong to the receiving entity. (3ABN)

These monies received by 3ABN are entrusted into their care to transfer to the desired entities in a timely manner.

The difference is in what 3ABN did vs. what they should have done with these funds.

1. The funds DO NOT belong to 3ABN. They belong to someone else.

2. They are NOT Temporarily Restricted Funds, because temporarily Restricted fund are for 3ABN's use. Therefore, they were posted into 3ABN's income an appear on their Profit/Loss Statements. Thus, they have overstated income.

This means they are reporting more income than they actually received. Decisions were made on this data. Can you see what happened?

3. What should have happened is this; the funds were received for another entity. The money is not 3ABN's money. It is a liability, like a loan you owe to someone such as a bank. You borrow $5,000.00; it is a liability; as you make payments to the bank, the liability principal gets smaller until it is zero.

4. Because 3ABN did not have these funds in a liability account, their liabilities on the balance sheet were understated. Meaning they had more money owed to others than the Balance sheet reported. Thus, decisions based on a faulty Balance Sheet report resulted.

5. Now we have 2 basic reports every month that are used for financial decisions.

........a. The Profit/Loss or Income/Expense report shows historical transactions over a specific "period of time". Usually it is produced on a monthly, quarterly, and yearly basis. These reports can be run at any time also to follow trends.
........b. The balance Sheet is different because it gives the financial picture at a given "moment" in time. This report is run when ever it is desired or needed, but usually always at the end of a month, end of a quarter, and the end of the fiscal year, but can be run at any time.

6. In 3ABN's financial reports there was $14,000 in income that did not belong to 3ABN! Plus the liabilities did not reflect the $14,000. Therefore, the figures show income as up and debt as down.

In essence, 3ABN has been making decisions on faulty, non-current information.

Churches deal with these funds with their Conferences. Tithe does not belong to the local church. It is a Liability owed to the local conference. At the end of the month, before the monthly books are closed, these funds are forwarded to the conference before the 10th of each month. This allows 10 days for closings the churches books.

> QUOTE
>
> Penny:
>
> These are perfectly good explanations for what happened. You are correct when you said "3ABN did not post $2.45 MILLION Dollars in TRUST FUNDS in 2001." Well at least partly correct, the year would have been 2000 or earlier. The 990's shows that they corrected this in 2001.

Fran:

This is where I disagree with your thinking, but I readily agree that mistakes were being corrected. 3ABN was almost a 20 year old corporation at the time of this report.. They were a multi-million dollar Corporation. They chose not to follow Generally Accepted Accounting Principals (GAAP).

How can this be?

How many accountants did 3ABN have?

Who was the CFO?

By saying CFO, I do not necessarily mean the person that holds that title.

Read the Lawsuit and find who really controls the money and money decisions at 3ABN.

Consider this: The auditors found evidence to show that $2.45 Million in Trust Funds were not entered/posted. They only audited 2000-2001.

What about 1984-1999 & 2002-2006?

How much do you feel the auditors did not find?

I ask this because auditors ask for information and documentation. It is up to 3ABN to provide the material that they needed.

The IL vs. 3ABN Property Tax Lawsuit is in an Adobe file. You can run "find" and find any words you ask it to find. I will later draw your attention to some eye opening statements about the integrity of the information at 3ABN. I find $ 2.45 Million in Trust Funds not being posted to be very material! I find $ 1.7+ Million in 2002 a major concern also.

Then, another concern I have is that there are NO CORRECTION from 2003-2005, even though they were still having the same problems with their trust funds! These problems extend to at least February 2006 if not longer.

I wonder, is this the reason Nick Miller had to leave?

Did he find out about it?

Did he resign to save his career?

Why were there rumors about Nick's integrity in dealing with money, even though he never touched the financial ends?

Nick wrote to me and answered some of the questions I asked Linda. He was very selective. I got more out of what he did not say than what he did say. I believe his integrity is very high! I believe he was a very faithful and loyal 3ABN employee. I have not heard from him since that time.

> QUOTE
>
> Penny:
>
> But when you say "They also miss-posted over $14,000 of money meant to be forwarded to other Independent Ministries. The funds went straight into the 3ABN coffers. I still wonder what Ministries did not get their money" I beg to differ. Truth be said, of course the money went straight into 3ABN's coffers. It was sent to 3ABN and would go into their coffers before going out of the 3ABN coffers into another ministry's coffers.

Fran:

The money did go straight into the 3ABN coffers. You scenario is incorrect. See above. This error speaks so loud it screams.

How can 3ABN have CPA's sitting there and let this happen?

Who opens the mail?

Is a check/cash list made before the mail containing checks and cash are forwarded?

When forwarded were the checks and cash signed for?

If discrepancies were found, were they solved at that level?

Management should NEVER EVER TOUCH CHECKS AND CASH PERIOD!

Mail openers should number 2 or 3 and should be rotated on a regular basis.

No two people should work together often. This encourages collusion. Two – three people sign saying what the list is true and accurate.

These items should be taken to accounting to be immediately posted; No delays!

Once this is completed, another person makes a deposit. The total on that deposit should equal the list from the mail openers at all times!

The persons opening the mail should never be the one posting.

The one doing the deposit should never be the poster.

The one making the deposits should never be the one to pay bills.

My understanding from 3ABN insiders says that the mail is opened and given to Mollie and Danny.

THIS IS WRONG! This is against every principal there is! These procedures are called Cash Control. Leave a hole here and CASH WILL LEAK BIG TIME!

> QUOTE
>
> Penny:
>
> We don't have any indication that any ministry did not get its money in 2000 - we only know that 3ABN did not record the receipt of the cash properly. In other words, we know that 3ABN made a mistake with the accounting when the cash came into the coffers. This tells us nothing about any transaction transferring the money out of the coffers. And again the 990 tells us that in 2001 3ABN made the correction to its books.

Fran:

My question to you would be this: How much did the auditors NOT find?

I would need to see that their policies and procedures had changed on the Balance Sheet from 2001 forward before I would say that this was only a one time correction!

Old habits die hard. Please remember that I am making these statements from my own experiences. People who get caught will change, but once the police leave, it is back to business as usual.

> QUOTE
>
> Penny:
>
> I'll have to take the time to investigate the other points you brought up, to see if 3ABN is correcting mistakes, or just making them and leaving them be. But so far the verdict is the 3ABN is making the corrections.

Fran:

How can you be sure?

Evidence strongly suggests to me that there is more to this than meets the eye.

> QUOTE
>
> God bless.
>
> Shiney Penny (now starting to follow the money around)

There are many reports that are available showing ratios. One of those formula used on that giant increase of inventory mentioned in a previous post, should produce some interesting results!

What result do you feel these ratios would show?

The ratios tell about inventory turn around time.

It explains how much inventory is getting sold, or moving out, vs. the increases in the inventory.

It helps understand the cost of carrying such a large inventory. It is supposed to give management a heads up if the inventory is in a runaway trend.

It is used as a red flag to call attention to someone that something is broken and needs to get fixed ASAP..

http://www.netmba.com/finance/financial/ratios/

It is late. Please forgive my spelling and grammatical errors.

http://www.netmba.com/finance/financial/ratios/

Posted by: lurker May 20 2007, 08:01 AM

Fran, your link didn't work for me.

Posted by: Shepherdswife May 20 2007, 12:30 PM

Fran, I am not an accountant but having been a church treasurer for several years and business owner for several more, I can follow most of it. You are so right about having the checks and balances for money that comes in. Any organization that does not follow these procedure would not be trusted with any donations from me...

I was treasure once where my spouse was pastor--very irregular I know--but there were about 12 people attending and there literally was no one else to do it. I told them that I would do the data entry but would not touch the money. Someone else had to count and deposit and pay bills. It worked well and filled in the gap until we hired someone in a neighboring church to do it.

My aunt is a conference auditor and she told me that when she started her job, when she encountered a church where the books were a mess, her first instinct was to feel sorry for the "poor" treasurer (and in tiny little churches, sometimes people take the job because no one else will and do not know what they are doing) and work to straighten it out. Her boss, who had years of experience, said his first thought was "I wonder what they are trying to hide?" and would begin to look for irregularities. She has seen it too, now, that when there are things to hide, incompetence or carelessness are often blamed, when actually it is being used for cover.

Not accusing here...just observing, looking for clues, following the bread crumbs...

shepherdswife

Posted by: Fran May 20 2007, 12:49 PM

> QUOTE(lurker @ May 20 2007, 09:01 AM)
>
> Fran, your link didn't work for me.

I fixed it. It should work now.

Posted by: Pickle May 20 2007, 10:43 PM

> QUOTE(Shepherdswife @ May 20 2007, 12:30 PM)
>
> Her boss, who had years of experience, said his first thought was "I wonder what they are trying to hide?" and would begin to look for irregularities. She has seen it too, now, that when there are things to hide, incompetence or carelessness are often blamed, when actually it is being used for cover.
>
> Not accusing here...just observing, looking for clues, following the bread crumbs...
>
> shepherdswife

After looking at some of 3ABN's FCC applications and noticing so many mistakes, it crossed my mind that perhaps it was an attempt to cover something up. I didn't know why else there would be so many blunders.

For example, the July 2004 Ownership Report lists but 9 board members, each having 0% of the vote.

The March 2004 Ownership Report likewise lists 9 board members, each having 10% of the vote. It lists Linda who was replaced BY Ken Denslow in the July report. In other words, the March report OMITS Denslow. Also, each director has 10% of the equity in the March report, which would not be true for a non-profit.

The August 8, 2003 Ownership Report lists 11 board members, each with 10% of the vote and 10% equity. That means that 3ABN's total equity in 2003 stood at 110% of its total at that time, and that is total nonsense. Ken Denslow IS listed as a board member.

The 4/11/2003 application to assign WDQN to 3ABN identifies 3ABN as "a for-profit corporation." It also lists 10 board members, each with 10% of the vote and 10% of the equity. Ken Denslow is NOT listed as a board member.

See what I mean? Weird, isn't it? You would think that just about anyone could tell that 9 x 10% or 11 x 10% or 9 x 0% doesn't equal 100%.

And you would think they wouldn't have Denslow as a director in August 2003, then not a director in March 2004, and back in as a director in July 2004. It seems so crazy to have all these inaccuracies.

Posted by: Johann May 21 2007, 03:47 AM

Who knows what is going on?

Posted by: ex3ABNemployee May 21 2007, 07:21 AM

> QUOTE(Pickle @ May 20 2007, 10:43 PM)
>
> After looking at some of 3ABN's FCC applications and noticing so many mistakes, it crossed my mind that perhaps it was an attempt to cover something up. I didn't know why else there would be so many blunders.
>
> For example, the July 2004 Ownership Report lists but 9 board members, each having 0% of the vote.
>
> The March 2004 Ownership Report likewise lists 9 board members, each having 10% of the vote. It lists Linda who was replaced BY Ken Denslow in the July report. In other words, the March report OMITS Denslow. Also, each director has 10% of the equity in the March report, which would not be true for a non-profit.

> The August 8, 2003 Ownership Report lists 11 board members, each with 10% of the vote and 10% equity. That means that 3ABN's total equity in 2003 stood at 110% of its total at that time, and that is total nonsense. Ken Denslow IS listed as a board member.
>
> The 4/11/2003 application to assign WDQN to 3ABN identifies 3ABN as "a for-profit corporation." It also lists 10 board members, each with 10% of the vote and 10% of the equity. Ken Denslow is NOT listed as a board member.
>
> See what I mean? Weird, isn't it? You would think that just about anyone could tell that 9 x 10% or 11 x 10% or 9 x 0% doesn't equal 100%.
>
> And you would think they wouldn't have Denslow as a director in August 2003, then not a director in March 2004, and back in as a director in July 2004. It seems so crazy to have all these inaccuracies.

nd yet they want folks to believe that the books are "without spot or blemish" in the accounting department. 'm not accusing anyone of anything, but if there are this many mistakes on the FCC documents, isn't it safe o assume that there may be other mistakes elsewhere?

Posted by: LadyTenor May 21 2007, 09:02 AM

I intended to quote a number of posts on this thread, but that would be too long...so I decided against it....

There is a lot of discussion here regarding civil procedure and substantive law.

Show of hands....how many people who have made bold assertions about said topics have a law degree?

☒ sn

Posted by: Johann May 21 2007, 09:35 AM

> QUOTE(Clay @ May 19 2007, 03:41 PM)
>
> well to be fair, many of the vitriolic supporters have been banished so they cannot speak.... my point is that you should not misread the silence.....

hould we be inclined to invite them back?

> QUOTE(LadyTenor @ May 21 2007, 05:02 PM)
>
> I intended to quote a number of posts on this thread, but that would be too long...so I > decided against it....

>
> There is a lot of discussion here regarding civil procedure and substantive law. Show of hands....how many people who have made bold assertions about said topics have a law degree?
>
> ☒ sn

Ve need your guidance?

Posted by: Clay May 21 2007, 09:35 AM

> QUOTE(Johann @ May 21 2007, 10:35 AM)
>
> Should we be inclined to invite them back?
> We need your guidance?

ımmmmm not particularly.....

Posted by: Fran May 21 2007, 10:43 AM

> QUOTE(LadyTenor @ May 21 2007, 10:02 AM)
>
> I intended to quote a number of posts on this thread, but that would be too long...so I decided against it....
>
> There is a lot of discussion here regarding civil procedure and substantive law. Show of hands....how many people who have made bold assertions about said topics have a law degree?
>
> ☒ sn

Vell, I surely know very little about law! I understand accounting. However, I believe a few here ıave dealings with the law in certain areas.

: cannot comment on the law and what happens because we do not know what any outcome will ɔe before it happens. There is a place to compare and contrast what has been decided before. 1any laws are common laws.

3oodness, save me from being a lawyer. Forgive me for saying this, but my experiences have not ɔeen real positive where lawyers are concerned. Many are arrogant and treat others as stupid and gnorant. Others just don't have the where-with-all to even get the facts as presented right!

have never dealt with you, so don't take offense please. It is hard to find a "right" lawyer and hen you must accept by faith that all will go as planned.

Posted by: LadyTenor May 21 2007, 11:02 AM

> QUOTE(Johann @ May 21 2007, 11:35 AM)
>
> We need your guidance?

Maybe, maybe not, but that is not the point I was making.

> QUOTE(Fran @ May 21 2007, 12:43 PM)
>
> Well, I surely know very little about law! I understand accounting. However, I believe a few here have dealings with the law in certain areas.
>
> I cannot comment on the law and what happens because we do not know what any outcome will be before it happens. There is a place to compare and contrast what has been decided before. Many laws are common laws.
>
> Goodness, save me from being a lawyer. Forgive me for saying this, but my experiences have not been real positive where lawyers are concerned. Many are arrogant and treat others as stupid and ignorant. Others just don't have the where-with-all to even get the facts as presented right!
>
> i have never dealt with you, so don't take offense please. It is hard to find a "right" lawyer and then you must accept by faith that all will go as planned.

No offense taken. I encountered the worst kind of arrogance when I was in law school and I was nauseated by it. There are enough greedy, unethical, arrogant and condescending attorneys in the world that the entire profession has suffered as a result.

However, in my experience, folks always hate lawyers until they need one!

Posted by: Jnana15 May 21 2007, 12:00 PM

> QUOTE(LadyTenor @ May 21 2007, 12:02 PM)
>
> Maybe, maybe not, but that is not the point I was making.
> No offense taken. I encountered the worst kind of arrogance when I was in law school and I was nauseated by it. There are enough greedy, unethical, arrogant and condescending attorneys in the world that the entire profession has suffered as a result.
>
> However, in my experience, folks always hate lawyers until they need one!

I have had my share of lawyers these past five years, some "pit bulls" as my son calls them and others sent from God. God sure watches over us as we go through the firey trials and tribulation of life and He sends good lawyers to help His people when needed.

Posted by: Fran May 21 2007, 07:59 PM

> QUOTE(LadyTenor @ May 21 2007, 12:02 PM)
>
> Maybe, maybe not, but that is not the point I was making.
> No offense taken. I encountered the worst kind of arrogance when I was in law school and I was nauseated by it. There are enough greedy, unethical, arrogant and condescending attorneys in the world that the entire profession has suffered as a result.
>
> However, in my experience, folks always hate lawyers until they need one!

Not only that, but they are out of my buget allocations too! ☒ rofl

Is it legal to put a target on the back of my car that says, " $$ Go Ahead and Hit Me; $$ I Need the Money $$"?

Posted by: steffan Jun 9 2007, 11:19 AM

> QUOTE(LadyTenor @ May 21 2007, 10:02 AM)
>
> I intended to quote a number of posts on this thread, but that would be too long...so I decided against it....
>
> There is a lot of discussion here regarding civil procedure and substantive law. Show of hands....how many people who have made bold assertions about said topics have a law degree?
> ☒ sn

Has anyone heard the results of the property case between DS and Ls yesterday?
If I remember correctly, Observer made some sort of statement that Heal's performance with Linda's case would be sort of a "measuring stick" as to what we could expect in his handling of the Pickle/Joy case. That being said, all I can say is Good Luck pickle/joy.

Posted by: Snoopy Jun 9 2007, 01:50 PM

> QUOTE(Fran @ May 21 2007, 10:43 AM)
>
> Well, I surely know very little about law! I understand accounting. However, I believe a few here have dealings with the law in certain areas.
>
> I cannot comment on the law and what happens because we do not know what any outcome will be before it happens. There is a place to compare and contrast what has been decided before. Many laws are common laws.
>
> Goodness, save me from being a lawyer. Forgive me for saying this, but my experiences have not been real positive where lawyers are concerned. Many are arrogant and treat others as stupid and ignorant. Others just don't have the where-with-all to even get the facts as > presented right!

>
> i have never dealt with you, so don't take offense please. It is hard to find a "right" lawyer and then you must accept by faith that all will go as planned.

guess judging from recent events in the business world, one could say the same of accountants...no ffense...

> QUOTE(LadyTenor @ May 21 2007, 11:02 AM)
>
> Maybe, maybe not, but that is not the point I was making.
> No offense taken. I encountered the worst kind of arrogance when I was in law school and I was nauseated by it. There are enough greedy, unethical, arrogant and condescending attorneys in the world that the entire profession has suffered as a result.
>
> However, in my experience, folks always hate lawyers until they need one!

T, I believe you make some excellent points!!

Posted by: runner4him Jun 10 2007, 10:26 PM

> QUOTE(steffan @ Jun 9 2007, 12:19 PM)
>
> Has anyone heard the results of the property case between DS and Ls yesterday?
> If I remember correctly, Observer made some sort of statement that Heal's performance with Linda's case would be sort of a "measuring stick" as to what we could expect in his handling of the Pickle/Joy case. That being said, all I can say is Good Luck pickle/joy.

teffan,

ou seem to know everything....Amazing! I guess we have come to conclusions about you.

ust for the record....I do not think Pickle and Joy are looking for LUCK...they are looking up and counting on im to "work all things together for good".

he really sad thing is Ds's muzzle approach....you/he should welcome a bright light to expose all. A dark urtain causes many questions to arise....why the need for secrecy?? What harm will come from an open ook?? Hmmmmm

---

Posted by: steffan Jun 10 2007, 10:57 PM

> QUOTE(runner4him @ Jun 10 2007, 11:26 PM)
>
> Steffan,

> You seem to know everything....Amazing! I guess we have come to conclusions about you.
>
> Just for the record....I do not think Pickle and Joy are looking for LUCK...they are looking up and counting on Him to "work all things together for good".
>
> The really sad thing is Ds's muzzle approach....you/he should welcome a bright light to expose all. A dark curtain causes many questions to arise....why the need for secrecy?? What harm will come from an open book?? Hmmmmm

o you really think that pickle and joy are looking to Him with their tabloid sensational headlines splashed all ver the internet. Do you honestly think that Jesus would bless those actions. The slanderous and hateful ccusations by 2 men that have never even met Danny or the 3abn board and have never spent anytime at abn. They are so far off the track spiritually how in the world could they be blessed.
hen on the "muzzle" issue, I take it you have never been involved in a detailed court case and litigation. The client" doesn't make those kind of decisions that pertain to legal terms like impoundment. The attorney's ecide their strategy's and tell the client what they think is best. If DS or 3abn knew enough about the law to trategize their case, they would handle it themselves.

ow back to the marital property case.
ne might ask the question "Does anyone know what it means when a court sanctions someone? Do we all gree this is a very serious judgment handed down by a court? When someone is caught lying to the court for xample, a judge will sometimes place sanctions on the side caught lying to the court.
ne of the first punishments for being sanctioned by a judge is usually making the team caught in the lie to ay for the other sides attorneys fees. Why? Usually when a petitioner for example, accuses a respondent of alse allegations, the respondent has to spend lots of money for a law firm to defend him/her. This case may o to several hearings before a judge has enough information to make a decision. If the judge feels that the etitioner, for example, has lied about whatever, he will rule in favor of the respondent and place sanctions n the petitioner, making her/him pay for all the respondents attorneys fees. This could be thousands of ollars!
t will be interesting to see how closely this follows with the DS & Ls case. It will be interesting to see if the udge made such a sanction against Linda for lying. If he did, there can be no valid excuses offered on her or er attorney Heal's part. If this scenerio resembles what happened in their recent hearing, The fact will go own permanetly in the court records that, they are guilty of misrepresenting facts to the court.

Posted by: Whtz Happenin Jun 10 2007, 11:25 PM

> QUOTE(steffan @ Jun 9 2007, 01:19 PM)
>
> Has anyone heard the results of the property case between DS and Ls yesterday?
> If I remember correctly, Observer made some sort of statement that Heal's performance with Linda's case would be sort of a "measuring stick" as to what we could expect in his handling of the Pickle/Joy case. That being said, all I can say is Good Luck pickle/joy.

> QUOTE(steffan @ Jun 11 2007, 12:57 AM)
>
> ...
> Now back to the marital property case.
> One might ask the question "Does anyone know what it means when a court sanctions someone? Do we all agree this is a very serious judgment handed down by a court? When someone is caught lying to the court for example, a judge will sometimes place sanctions on the side caught lying to the court.
> One of the first punishments for being sanctioned by a judge is usually making the team caught in the lie to pay for the other sides attorneys fees. Why? Usually when a petitioner for example, accuses a respondent > of false allegations, the respondent has to spend lots of money for a law firm to defend him/her. This case may go to several hearings before a judge has enough information to make a decision. If the judge feels that the petitioner, for example, has lied about whatever, he will rule in favor of the respondent and place sanctions on the petitioner, making her/him pay for all the respondents attorneys fees. This could be thousands of dollars!

> It will be interesting to see how closely this follows with the DS & Ls case. It will be interesting to see if the judge made such a sanction against Linda for lying. If he did, there can be no valid excuses offered on her or her attorney Heal's part. If this scenerio resembles what happened in their recent hearing, The fact will go down permanetly in the court records that, they are guilty of misrepresenting facts to the court.

Steffan, I cannot quite figure out the point of your posts. It seems like you are in a discussion with yourself. I am not trying to give you a hard time.

Are you trying to tell us something without really telling us?

(I'm Corn-fused)

Posted by: runner4him Jun 10 2007, 11:33 PM

[Steffan....quote]

> QUOTE
>
> Do you really think that pickle and joy are looking to Him with their tabloid sensational headlines splashed all over the internet. Do you honestly think that Jesus would bless those actions. The slanderous and hateful accusations by 2 men that have never even met Danny or the 3abn board and have never spent anytime at 3abn. They are so far off the track spiritually how in the world could they be blessed.

Yes, God Will bless! A matter of opinion who is off track. Opinion....God has been leading these men and others...they are to be commended for their courage...they have had nothing to gain personally by standing up but everything to lose if they neglected their duty to lift up the banner of truth. I have seen nothing but acts and documents...all presented without prejudice.

> QUOTE
>
> Then on the "muzzle" issue, I take it you have never been involved in a detailed court case and litigation. The "client" doesn't make those kind of decisions that pertain to legal terms like impoundment. The attorney's decide their strategy's and tell the client what they think is best. If DS or 3abn knew enough about the law to strategize their case, they would handle it themselves.

Disagree.....If the "client" is wise and claims to be a follower of Christ.....then "he" would be the one who sets he stage and makes the decisions. Who wants to blindly follow any person who claims the world as his home?...Not wise. I would never put my trust in a man rather than in my Lord. That is the weakest argument and one not believed by those who are watching.

> QUOTE(Whtz Happenin @ Jun 11 2007, 12:25 AM)
>
> Steffan, I cannot quite figure out the point of your posts. It seems like you are in a discussion with yourself. I am not trying to give you a hard time.
>
> Are you trying to tell us something without really telling us?

> (I'm Corn-fused)

so agree...

Posted by: mozart Jun 11 2007, 12:28 AM

> QUOTE(steffan @ Jun 10 2007, 09:57 PM)
>
> Do you really think that pickle and joy are looking to Him with their tabloid sensational headlines splashed all over the internet. Do you honestly think that Jesus would bless those actions. The slanderous and hateful accusations by 2 men that have never even met Danny or the 3abn board and have never spent anytime at 3abn. They are so far off the track spiritually how in the world could they be blessed.

re you sure of this steffan? seems i remember different. in fact i'm pretty sure that pickle was interviewed n 3abn live once or twice. yet you say they've never even met or spent any time at 3abn? you sure about hat?

Posted by: Observer Jun 11 2007, 06:08 AM

> QUOTE(steffan @ Jun 10 2007, 10:57 PM)
>
> When someone is caught lying to the court for example, a judge will sometimes place sanctions on the side caught lying to the court.
> One of the first punishments for being sanctioned by a judge is usually making the team caught in the lie to pay for the other sides attorneys fees. Why? Usually when a petitioner for example, accuses a respondent of false allegations, the respondent has to spend lots of money for a law firm to defend him/her. This case may go to several hearings before a judge has enough information to make a decision. If the judge feels that the petitioner, for example, has lied about whatever, he will rule in favor of the respondent and place sanctions on the petitioner, making her/him pay for all the respondents attorneys fees. This could be thousands of dollars!

h, Steffan. I am shaking my head as I read your post.

t seems to me that you do not know very much about court sanctions.

es, to answer your a question of yours, some sanctions are inconsequential. If an attorney disobeys some nstruction from the judge, and the judge sanctions the attorney with a personal fien of $500.00 that is often onsidered of little significance, and some attorneys willingly will disobey the judge in order to say something o the jury and believe that it will be worth a $500 fine.

f course if the judge sends the attorney to jail, that is a major issue.

n regard to a witness/plaintiff who lied, sanctions are not typicallly used in that case. There are two reasons:) It is often hard to prove that a person knowingly attempted to decieve the court. That person may be vrong, but did not know it. To lie under oath is a criminal offense. One may be charged and tried for uch. Judges typically leave that to the District Attorney to decide, and do not sanction.

n regard to paying the legal expenses of the other person for telling a lie. You are simply off base there. lany States have laws under which, if conditions are met, the one who loses the case must pay legal expenses of the other party. That is NOT based upon telling a lie. It is based upon losing the case. One may lose a case without telling a lie.

By the way, claiming that one commited a crime against you, and failing to obtain a conviction is not grounds for being charged with telling a lie.

I am reminded of a case in which I personally knew some of the parties. An individual was charged with the crime of murder. The jury found the defendant Not Guilty, primarily because no murder weapon was ever discovered that could be associated with the defendant. At that point, no one testifying for the prosecution was charged with telling a lie. Several years later the murder weapon was discovered in the defenedants home, in a very special hiding place--the exhaust pipe leading from a furnace--chimney (sp). The murder occured on a cold winter day. The furnace was heaating the home. The police did not disemble it and find the pistol. Years later it was discovered.

Posted by: steffan Jun 11 2007, 11:35 AM

> QUOTE(runner4him @ Jun 11 2007, 12:33 AM)
>
> Disagree.....If the "client" is wise and claims to be a follower of Christ.....then "he" would be the one who sets the stage and makes the decisions. Who wants to blindly follow any person who claims the world as his home?...Not wise. I would never put my trust in a man rather than in my Lord. That is the weakest argument and one not believed by those who are watching.
> I so agree...

Wrong. How can the client decide legal strategy when unversed in the law?
You say you wouldn't put your trust in one who makes this world his home? You are assuming the 3abn attorney's are not christians? Where would you get that information?
You would never put your trust in man rather than the Lord? Good point except there is so much more depth in that statement than what you have written.
If you need surgery, you are putting your life in the hands of that surgeon. Now, you can pray and ask God to guide his hands and be with you and him during that surgery but...you still must depend on the doctor's skills to a certain degree. Why? Because you don't have the knowledge to operate on yourself. So you come to a point of having to trust a skilled surgeon as you pray for God to direct him.
This same scenerio can apply here. The client does not have the legal expertise to know what decisions to make or what options are avaliable so he puts it in the hands of those who do know, and prays that God will guide and direct them to make the right decisions and use their specific skills accordingly. Just like the surgeon.

Posted by: LaurenceD Jun 11 2007, 12:21 PM

"Just like the surgeon." ...and just like the lawyer(s) that lost the case against the Dept. of Rev. in Il. for 3abn. What a slam!

Posted by: Observer Jun 11 2007, 01:20 PM

> QUOTE(steffan @ Jun 11 2007, 10:35 AM)

> Wrong. How can the client decide legal strategy when unversed in the law?
> You say you wouldn't put your trust in one who makes this world his home? You are assuming the 3abn attorney's are not christians? Where would you get that information?
> You would never put your trust in man rather than the Lord? Good point except there is so much more depth in that statement than what you have written.
> If you need surgery, you are putting your life in the hands of that surgeon. Now, you can pray and ask God to guide his hands and be with you and him during that surgery but...you still must depend on the doctor's skills to a certain degree. Why? Because you don't have the knowledge to operate on yourself. So you come to a point of having to trust a skilled surgeon as you pray for God to direct him.
> This same scenerio can apply here. The client does not have the legal expertise to know what decisions to make or what options are avaliable so he puts it in the hands of those who do know, and prays that God will guide and direct them to make the right decisions and use their specific skills accordingly. Just like the surgeon.

Steffan, I work in a teaching hospital. We expect that patients will be involved. Yes, our MDs are experts. They recommend. They guide. But, utilmately, they tell us whether or not we operate, what medication they will not take, and much more.

Tonight, I will meet with a group of people, who will vote to ask an attorney to come to our group and give us some advice. Yes, that will be on the clock, and we will pay the bill. On the date that lawyer comes I will be prepared. I am obtaining copies of legal documents today. I will know a lot about the issues. I will be prepared with questions that will be pointed. In the end, the group of people whith whom the attorney will meet, will take a vote that will instruct the attorney in what that lawyer will do. You see, even lawyers take nstruction from clients. That is why we pay them. We pay them to advise us. We decide. That is why the client is responsible for the actions of an attorney.

Posted by: mozart Jun 11 2007, 05:47 PM

good post gregory. what i'm thinking is that if the client has so many issues that are the result of secrecy and the client is innocent, they might reconsider the way they have dealt with things and think it would be a good idea to have things out in the open for a change. i'm sure the attorneys and the client in this case, want things hidden from view for good reason. the client is more interested in winning the case for the pursupose of SPIN, than he is in winning/satisfying the hearts of his viewers and contributors. i don't think it is any surprise to any of us that they don't have any respect or concern for us. this is strictly business.
it seems clear, and i think pickle touched on this some time ago, that not all court cases are good for the client even if they do win. one reason being the exposure. i have a feeling that the client and the attorneys in this case will seek to permanently seal the records of this case and the records of any future cases. as has been the strategy in this whole situation, the so-called evidence is used to the fullest extent without ever having to be revealed. therefore, there will always be unanswered questions and that is the way they need it to be to maintain any hope of redeeming their reputation through false pretenses. open, honest repentance and restoration does not seem to be anywhere on their radar even tho' it is the only true Christian hope.
i would like to make it clear to "them" that we want something back for our support and what we want "back" is the truth.
i believe that only God can make that happen. if they do not listen to God, then some day, some time, the bottom is gonna fall out.
remember in forrest gump when captain dan was up on the mast of the "shrimpin' boat" and he was raging back at the raging storm and forrest said, "i think that's when God...... showed up". God will show up and He will be right on time.

> QUOTE(Observer @ Jun 11 2007, 01:20 PM)
>
> Steffan, I work in a teaching hospital. We expect that patients will be involved. Yes, our MDs are experts. They recommend. They guide. But, utilmately, they tell us whether or not we operate, what medication they will not take, and much more.
>
> Tonight, I will meet with a group of people, who will vote to ask an attorney to come to our group and give > us some advice. Yes, that will be on the clock, and we will pay the bill. On the date that lawyer comes I will be prepared. I am obtaining copies of legal documents today. I will know a lot about the issues. I will be prepared with questions that will be pointed. In the end, the group of people whith whom the attorney will meet, will take a vote that will instruct the attorney in what that lawyer will do. You see, even lawyers take instruction from clients. That is why we pay them. We pay them to advise us. We decide. That is why the client is responsible for the actions of an attorney.

Posted by: runner4him Jun 11 2007, 06:51 PM

> QUOTE(Observer @ Jun 11 2007, 02:20 PM)
>
> Steffan, I work in a teaching hospital. We expect that patients will be involved. Yes, our MDs are experts. They recommend. They guide. But, utilmately, they tell us whether or not we operate, what medication they will not take, and much more.
>
> Tonight, I will meet with a group of people, who will vote to ask an attorney to come to our group and give us some advice. Yes, that will be on the clock, and we will pay the bill. On the date that lawyer comes I will be prepared. I am obtaining copies of legal documents today. I will know a lot about the issues. I will be prepared with questions that will be pointed. In the end, the group of people whith whom the attorney will meet, will take a vote that will instruct the attorney in what that lawyer will do. You see, even lawyers take instruction from clients. That is why we pay them. We pay them to advise us. We decide. That is why the client is responsible for the actions of an attorney.

Amen!

> QUOTE(mozart @ Jun 11 2007, 06:47 PM)
>
> good post gregory. what i'm thinking is that if the client has so many issues that are the result of secrecy and the client is innocent, they might reconsider the way they have dealt with things and think it would be a good idea to have things out in the open for a change. i'm sure the attorneys and the client in this case, want things hidden from view for good reason. the client is more interested in winning the case for the pursuspose of SPIN, than he is in winning/satisfying the hearts of his viewers and contributors. i don't think it is any surprise to any of us that they don't have any respect or concern for us. this is strictly business.
> it seems clear, and i think pickle touched on this some time ago, that not all court cases are good for the client even if they do win. one reason being the exposure. i have a feeling that the client and the attorneys in this case will seek to permanently seal the records of this case and the records of any future cases. as has been the strategy in this whole situation, the so-called evidence is used to the fullest extent without ever having to be revealed. therefore, there will always be unanswered questions and that is the way they need it to be to maintain any hope of redeeming their reputation through false pretenses. open, honest repentance and restoration does not seem to be anywhere on their radar even tho' it is the only true Christian hope.
> i would like to make it clear to "them" that we want something back for our support and what we want "back" is the truth.
> i believe that only God can make that happen. if they do not listen to God, then some day, some time, the bottom is gonna fall out.
> remember in forrest gump when captain dan was up on the mast of the "shrimpin' boat" and he was raging back at the raging storm and forrest said, "i think that's when God...... showed up". God will show up and He will be right on time.

Amen again!

Posted by: Fran Jun 12 2007, 01:45 AM

> QUOTE(Snoopy @ Jun 9 2007, 01:50 PM)
>
> I guess judging from recent events in the business world, one could say the same of accountants...no offense...
>
> LT,
>
> I believe you make some excellent points!!

Snoopy;

Oh yes, the same can be said for all professionals/non-professionals. No offense taken at all! I have just had my share of bad/good luck and am very gun shy. Lawyers and Doctors are at the top of my list. Sorry.

I guess I have dealt with more sorry Doctors than Lawyers! Yes, I have had my share of stupid Accountants too. (I have done a few "stupids" myself! But experience taught me a lot. Do it once, you won't do it again; mark my word! rofl)

LT;

Your comments were excellent. We lose desire for their services "Until they are needed" is so true.

My problem is figuring out which one to trust. How can we know? Can't tell by their rates! Many people think that the more they charge the better they are. I don't think that is correct either.

I have called many getting referrals and still don't know. I have 2 doctors I would fight to keep; two I would like to dump, but can't decide who to choose as a replacement.

I have a lawyer. However, one lawyer does not cover all of my needs. I can only afford one. Do I change? Well, it depends on if a problem is in mid stream!

Sorry for taking so long to respond. I have been on break from 3ABN issues, all Internet links, and my email. I am now back and things seem to be progressing as expected.

Good points, Snoopy

Posted by: sonshineonme Jun 12 2007, 10:31 AM

> QUOTE(steffan @ Jun 10 2007, 09:57 PM)
>
> Do you really think that pickle and joy are looking to Him with their tabloid sensational headlines splashed all over the internet. Do you honestly think that Jesus would bless those actions. The slanderous and hateful accusations by 2 men that have never even met Danny or the 3abn board and have never spent anytime at 3abn. They are so far off the track spiritually how in the world could they be blessed.

Then on the "muzzle" issue, I take it you have never been involved in a detailed court case and litigation. The "client" doesn't make those kind of decisions that pertain to legal terms like impoundment. The attorney's decide their strategy's and tell the client what they think is best. If DS or 3abn knew enough about the law to strategize their case, they would handle it themselves.

Steffan, just how many times did Pickle and Joy ask to see the evidence and also ask to meet with the board? And what was the response of Danny and his hand picked board??? Must be that filing suite in a US District Court now meets the new biblical standards of the firm that is suppose to counter-act the counterfit rather than meeting face to face and discussing the allegations and the evidence. But that is the issue...they are a law unto themselves..able to make and grant ecclesiastical law relating to divorce and remarriage in defiance of Jesus very clear standard in Matthew. So why would they give serious consideration to meeting with "nobodys" anyway? Right?

Now back to the marital property case.
One might ask the question "Does anyone know what it means when a court sanctions someone? Do we all agree this is a very serious judgment handed down by a court? When someone is caught lying to the court for example, a judge will sometimes place sanctions on the side caught lying to the court.

Steffan, any more serious than failing to fully answer interrogatories, failing to update answers to interrogatories, answering with non-substantive answers? Now lets see, if Danny's lawyer claims the answers are complete when they clearly are not is that SERIOUS? If he fails to amend and state the truth, "the whole truth and nothing but the truth", will he face sanctions? And how would this compare to separate statements, one of which was answered by counsel in 2005, the other answered by Linda in 2006 and was suppose to be corrected by her counsel who failed to correct the record. On the other hand deliberately refusing to provide evidence and disclose ones assets correctly could have far more serious consequences, wouldn't you agree?

One of the first punishments for being sanctioned by a judge is usually making the team caught in the lie to pay for the other sides attorneys fees. Why? Usually when a petitioner for example, accuses a respondent of false allegations, the respondent has to spend lots of money for a law firm to defend him/her. This case may go to several hearings before a judge has enough information to make a decision. If the judge feels that the petitioner, for example, has lied about whatever, he will rule in favor of the respondent and place sanctions on the petitioner, making her/him pay for all the respondents attorneys fees. This could be thousands of dollars!

And what would be the penalty if the respondents claims and responses were found deficient when his counsel claims they are complete and accurate? And what would the respondent have to pay?

It will be interesting to see how closely this follows with the DS & Ls case. It will be interesting to see if the judge made such a sanction against Linda for lying. If he did, there can be no valid excuses offered on her or her attorney Heal's part. If this scenerio resembles what happened in their recent hearing, The fact will go down permanetly in the court records that, they are guilty of misrepresenting facts to the court.

Yes, it will be interesting to see won't it?? Because you and I both know that counselor Laird entered this situation and appeared well after the incident in question. The request to admit relative to the June 2004 agreement was answered by counselor Drew in 2005. The answers to interrogatories propounded by respondent to the petitioner were answered in late 2006 by Drew. Respondents counselor sought to strike the interrogatory answer and requested his costs for the motion. Drew said he was going to answer the motion and supplement petitioners answers to correct the differing answers, but did not do so by the hearing date, several months after he was suppose to answer the motion and supplement Linda's answers. Counselor Drew withdrew the day of the hearing and Laird Heal entered an appearance but counselor Drew still failed to deliver the file to Heal until the end of May. Now, is this Linda's problem...Drew's problem or counselor Lairds problem? And would you be giving notice to your malpractice carrier of a potential claim?

> Tell me steffan, what are they guilty of representing to the court? Whether the copy of the agreement done in June 2004 was a true copy of the one signed by Linda...and why did Linda question the document? Because Drew claimed he could not find his copy of the original and had to wait for respondent to produce a copy. Linda simply questioned the authenticity of the copy tendered as she was not certain she had signed it with all the conditions purportedly included in the one produced by respondent that did not have her initials on all pages. Now, would you question the authenticity of this document tendered under the circumstances? Would you question the due diligence of counselor Drew? And what would you do Steffan? Hire new counsel, just maybe?
>
> Now, lets watch carefully to see how respondent answers motions to compel responses to interrogatories? That will be a much more interesting show! Wonder just how honest and forthright respondent will be? And don't forget those sanctions you educated us too!

Posted by: mikell Jun 12 2007, 01:43 PM

> QUOTE(steffan @ Jun 11 2007, 11:35 AM)
>
> Wrong. How can the client decide legal strategy when unversed in the law?
> You say you wouldn't put your trust in one who makes this world his home? You are assuming the 3abn attorney's are not christians? Where would you get that information?
> You would never put your trust in man rather than the Lord? Good point except there is so much more depth in that statement than what you have written.
> If you need surgery, you are putting your life in the hands of that surgeon. Now, you can pray and ask God to guide his hands and be with you and him during that surgery but...you still must depend on the doctor's skills to a certain degree. Why? Because you don't have the knowledge to operate on yourself. So you come to a point of having to trust a skilled surgeon as you pray for God to direct him.
> This same scenerio can apply here. The client does not have the legal expertise to know what decisions to make or what options are avaliable so he puts it in the hands of those who do know, and prays that God will guide and direct them to make the right decisions and use their specific skills accordingly. Just like the surgeon.

Steppan, like I said before, you really need to cut back on your coffee drinking, and start drinking de-cafe!

Posted by: Daryl Fawcett Jun 24 2007, 07:04 AM

The following was posted by steffan in another topic here at BSDAOL:

> QUOTE
>
> As for Laird's part in the whole scenerio, well if his first appearance for Linda was without an actived license and the next court date he was a no show, I wouldn't hold my breath for any brilliant legal strategy from him. By the way, his request for yet another continuance on the marital property case arrived approx 15 minutes after the Judge ruled against Linda. The judge stated that contrary to what she said, she knew what she was signing when she signed the marital property agreement and the contract is valid. The judge sanctioned her and she will be responsible for paying Danny's attorney's fees for this part of the case, in which, she had no case (forgive the pun.)

Did this actually happen as posted?

Can anybody verify what happened, one way or the other?

Posted by: Pickle Jun 27 2007, 06:55 AM

> QUOTE(Daryl Fawcett @ Jun 24 2007, 08:04 AM) ☐
>
> The following was posted by steffan in another topic here at BSDAOL:
>
> Did this actually happen as posted?
>
> Can anybody verify what happened, one way or the other?

I'm not sure what event he was talking about, but I understand that Linda has to pay half a day's legal fees for Danny's side due to her previous attorney not doing something he was asked to do and which he said that he would do and which he really needed to do. This was over an issue that came up a number of months ago and was never dealt with properly. That's my understanding, right or wrong.

Posted by: Observer Jun 27 2007, 07:22 AM

> QUOTE(Pickle @ Jun 27 2007, 05:55 AM) ☐
>
> I'm not sure what event he was talking about, but I understand that Linda has to pay half a day's legal fees for Danny's side due to her previous attorney not doing something he was asked to do and which he said that he would do and which he really needed to do. This was over an issue that came up a number of months ago and was never dealt with properly. That's my understanding, right or wrong.

Bob:

As you have stated it, typically the court would sanction the attorney, charge the lawyer, and not allow the lawyer to charge the client for the mistake of the attorney.

Posted by: lurker Jun 27 2007, 10:13 AM

In regard to Steffan's post about Linda being sanctioned-If you look at the case information, it lists fines and fees. I have seen at least $100 of that there for a long time. While I don't see a single item of $12, an item or items may have increased by that much to bring up the total to $112. If you look at payments, there was $100 paid February 8 2005 and $12 paid March 12 2007. I don't see anything new.

Posted by: runner4him Jun 27 2007, 10:30 PM

> QUOTE(steffan @ Jun 10 2007, 11:57 PM) ☐

> Then on the "muzzle" issue, I take it you have never been involved in a detailed court case and litigation. The "client" doesn't make those kind of decisions that pertain to legal terms like impoundment. The attorney's decide their strategy's and tell the client what they think is best. If DS or 3abn knew enough about the law to strategize their case, they would handle it themselves.

would like some clarification on the law suit and the impoundment order, steffan.....you seem to know quite bit although W.T. says you do not....I just want to know if you knew what the order to impound was about?
o you think it was something that the attorneys wanted to do and not 3abn? That is what you seem to mply. I think you said in another post somewhere that it was doomed to fail because it was unconstitutional r something like that. I assume you are saying it was a lost cause from the very moment that the petition vas requested and therefore just a manuver to stall and take up the judge's or someone's time?

hanks for answering.

4Him

Printable Version of Topic

Click here to view this topic in its original format

BlackSDA _ 3ABN _ News Release From Amazing Facts---4-25-07

Posted by: summertime May 11 2007, 09:43 PM

I have just finished reading the Questions and Answers about the merger of AF and 3ABN. This was a news release of 4-25-07 put out by Amazing Facts. ---The news release consisted of Frequently Asked Quesitons about the merger. This is noted on Maritime SDA by Daryl Fawcett. According to all the questions noted it leads one to believe that there actually will be very little change in the proposed union.

Q. Estimated timeline for the proposed union?
A. All operations at both ministries will continue as normal for the coming months.

Q. Will AF move to Illinois or 3ABN to Ca?
A: No. They will retain their own campuses.

Q. Will 3ABN be assumed by the SDA denomination?
A. No.. Both will fall under a new board to be led by laity. (Maybe this is the answer)

Q. Will Doug Batchelor be the new president of 3ABN?
A: No. DS is still the president of 3ABN.

Q: Will DB move to Illinois?
A; This is unlikely.

Q: Will AF or 3ABN change their name?
A: THere are no plans for either ministry to lose its identity.

Q: Why unite/partner if so many things will remain the same?
A: Uniting AF and 3ABN will complement each other highly in many areas.

Q: Should monthly support be sent to each ministry the same as always?
A: At this time the finances of both ministries will continue to be run separately. Please continue to give as you always have.

I see very little change and I am wondering why things are going to stay so much the same after much has been made about the merger. I would like to understand this merger(?) in a more knowledgeable way. I want to contribute to Amazing Facts but have ceased giving to 3ABN. So what really is the answer?

Posted by: Fran May 11 2007, 10:42 PM

> QUOTE(summertime @ May 11 2007, 10:43 PM)
>
> I have just finished reading the Questions and Answers about the merger of AF and 3ABN. This was a news release of 4-25-07 put out by Amazing Facts. ---The news release consisted of Frequently Asked Questions about the merger. This is noted on Maritime SDA by Daryl Fawcett. According to all the questions noted it leads one to believe that there actually will be very little change in the proposed union.
>
> Q. Estimated time-line for the proposed union?
> A. All operations at both ministries will continue as normal for the coming months.

> Q. Will AF move to Illinois or 3ABN to Ca?
> A: No. They will retain their own campuses.
>
> Q. Will 3ABN be assumed by the SDA denomination?
> A. No.. Both will fall under a new board to be led by laity. (Maybe this is the answer)
>
> Q. Will Doug Bachelor be the new president of 3ABN?
> A: No. DS is still the president of 3ABN.
>
> Q: Will DB move to Illinois?
> A; This is unlikely.
>
> Q: Will AF or 3ABN change their name?
> A: There are no plans for either ministry to lose its identity.
>
> Q: Why unite/partner if so many things will remain the same?
> A: Uniting AF and 3ABN will complement each other highly in many areas.
>
> Q: Should monthly support be sent to each ministry the same as always?
> A: At this time the finances of both ministries will continue to be run separately. Please continue to give as you always have.
>
> I see very little change and I am wondering why things are going to stay so much the same after much has been made about the merger. I would like to understand this merger(?) in a more knowledgeable way. I want to contribute to Amazing Facts but have ceased giving to 3ABN. So what really is the answer?

had to decide not to give to either entity. Not to 3ABN until Management, accounting and culture hanges.

am putting AF on hold waiting for more information.

do not believe the two entities are sing from the same sheet music. Yet, I believe AF speaks vhat they believe is truth. This was a very hard choice. We as humans, tend to believe those we ove. Yeah, even our children. Then the day comes when you begin to see that all is not as you hought after all. Yeah, even with children.

Ne actually are esteeming one above the other and don't even realize we are doing it! AF will get ny donations when I am 100% sure they have all the needed information to make a nowledgeable decision, and when I know that 3ABN will not get one penny of my donations until hanges are made at 3ABN.

honestly believe AF is not aware of all the facts. I can't throw stones at them because, contrary o common belief, rofl I don't know everything, especially legal cases! I took several lasses in law and even studied federal cases of IRS findings, I have never dealt with State law!

owever, I do understand accounting and can read what is in print. We all can understand that.

Posted by: sonshineonme May 11 2007, 10:47 PM

> QUOTE(Fran @ May 11 2007, 09:42 PM)
>
> I had to decide not to give to either entity. Not to 3ABN until Management, accounting and culture changes.
>
> I am putting AF on hold waiting for more information.

> I do not believe the two entities are sing from the same sheet music. Yet, I believe AF speaks what they believe is truth. This was a very hard choice. We as humans, tend to believe those we love. Yeah, even our children. Then the day comes when you begin to see that all is not as you thought after all. Yeah, even with children.
>
> We actually are esteeming one above the other and don't even realize we are doing it! AF will get my donations when I am 100% sure they have all the needed information to make a knowledgeable decision, and when I know that 3ABN will not get one penny of my donations until changes are made at 3ABN.
>
> I honestly believe AF is not aware of all the facts. I can't throw stones at them because, contrary to common belief, rofl I don't know everything, especially legal cases! I took several classes in law and even studied federal cases of IRS findings, I have never dealt with State law!
>
> However, I do understand accounting and can read what is in print. We all can understand that.

/ery perseptive of you Summertime....you are catching on.

\nd Fran, I agree and am doing the same thing. I have already written db and told him so.
can't say with certainty that AF is not aware of all the facts; you would have to assume that is true because 'ou wouldn't think db would walk into this with eyes wide open. But, it really does depend on a persons notive (who ever they may be, and where ever they may be). Nothing would suprise me anymore, nothing.

Posted by: mozart May 11 2007, 11:13 PM

what i got out of summertime's post was that AF is being just as secretive and evasive as WT, etal. so, why tell us about anything at all if you are not really telling us anything at all? it makes me feel like they are all playing me for a fool.

as for contributions, i decided long ago that my tithe goes for orphans and widows (Reach, Int'l) and a small ministry that i truly believe in. (www.shepherdscall.com) and to the Groves,TX. local church "rebuilding" budget (church destroyed in hurricane rita)
we give offerings for our local church budget and school where we are now living as well as a portion for buying books to distribute ourselves; mainly "the great controversy" and "finding peace within" (a version of steps to Christ with half the book being STC and the other half being questions with scripture answers) and a non-Adventist booklet titled "how to be free from bitterness" by Jim Wilson. (an amazing little book)

> QUOTE(sonshineonme @ May 11 2007, 10:47 PM)
>
> Very perseptive of you Summertime....you are catching on.
>
> And Fran, I agree and am doing the same thing. I have already written db and told him so.
> I can't say with certainty that AF is not aware of all the facts; you would have to assume that is true because you wouldn't think db would walk into this with eyes wide open. But, it really does depend on a persons motive (who ever they may be, and where ever they may be). Nothing would suprise me anymore, nothing.

Posted by: sonshineonme May 11 2007, 11:28 PM

> QUOTE(mozart @ May 11 2007, 10:13 PM)
>
> what i got out of summertime's post was that AF is being just as secretive and evasive as WT, etal. so, why tell us about anything at all if you are not really telling us anything at all? it makes me feel like they are all playing me for a fool.
>
> as for contributions, i decided long ago that my tithe goes for orphans and widows and a couple of small ministries that i truly believe in. my offering goes to local church budget and for buying books to distribute; mainly "the great controversy" and "finding peace within" (a version of steps to Christ with half the book being STC and the other half being questions with scripture answers) and a non-Adventist booklet titled "how to be free from bitterness" by Jim Wilson. (an amazing little book)

I hear you Mo....I have said it before, and I will say it again (and maybe once or twice again someday) they underestimate the thinking sda. Guess they will have to learn the hard way.

I too have sent my tithe to other ministries (orphans too) that are sda that I KNOW are using it correctly. I feel ministry is ministry. Some would not agree, I'm sure. But that's ok. I don't mind if they don't agree. I haven't given too much to my local church, there are reasons for that, but, I have contributed to the "new building" fund a few times...fun seeing those little kids collect your dollar bills on their way up to the childrens story and put it all in the little glass (see thru) model of a church...symbolic, isn't it?

Posted by: summertime May 12 2007, 08:30 AM

Because of health reasons I decided to stay home today from church and listen to the Sabbath School on Safe TV by DB and his son Stephen. FOr some reason, because of the way this merger has been made public, I could not feel as trusting DB as I always have. It bothered me a lot. Does he really agree with all the things that have been spouted by DS and have decided to come to his rescue? Or is this merger an example of two entities being unequally yoked together? Why have they made this merger information available to the public if there is really not going to be an effort to make wrongs right? Adding the name of Amazing Facts and DB to the wrongs that we have been watching in the person of Danny SHelton really does not make everything moral and understandably fair.

Maybe sometime in the future we will understand the reason for this merger. Does Amazing Facts feel that merging will be an honest way of being provided more sattelite exposure for the Word of God? Or is this a way of forming the largest Christian station being aired by sattelite? As for my contributions---they will remain in my own home church until I see how this all plays out.

Posted by: runner4him May 12 2007, 12:30 PM

> QUOTE(summertime @ May 12 2007, 08:30 AM)
>
> Because of health reasons I decided to stay home today from church and listen to the Sabbath School on Safe TV by DB and his son Stephen. FOr some reason, because of the way this merger has been made public, I could not feel as trusting DB as I always have. It bothered me a lot. Does he really agree with all the things that have been spouted by DS and have decided to come to his rescue? Or is this merger an example of two entities being unequally yoked together? Why have they made this merger information available to the public if there is really not going to be an effort to make wrongs right? Adding the name of Amazing Facts and DB to the wrongs that we have been watching in the person of Danny SHelton really > does not make everything moral and understandably fair.

>
> Maybe sometime in the future we will understand the reason for this merger. Does Amazing Facts feel that merging will be an honest way of being provided more sattelite exposure for the Word of God? Or is this a way of forming the largest Christian station being aired by sattelite? As for my contributions---they will remain in my own home church until I see how this all plays out.

agree...the merger announcement without any clarification is very troubling and just raises more questions or me and many supporters. The lawsuit is another issue...how can DB support a move like that....suing ellow Christians and keeping those who are being sued muzzled? My contributions are also going locally and o the needy...places where I can see how they are being used for the Gospel.

Posted by: Noahswife May 24 2007, 10:08 AM

I have been asked to post a series of email exchanges between an inquiring mind here at BSDA and James Pedersen who is president of the Northern California Conference. I am doing this with the emailed permission of both parties to the exchange. I will post the exchanges edited only to avoid disclosing any bsda member identities.

To: jpedersen@ncc.adventist.org
Sent: Thursday, April 26, 2007 2:53 PM
Subject: Re: Amazing Facts

Dear Jim,

Thank you for taking my call this afternoon and providing me with the information about Amazing Facts and their relationship with the conference.

I am not certain that I got everything straight so I thought I would email you to verify.

What I understand from you is that Amazing Facts is:

1. A part of the NCC, but actually "under the umbrella" of the conference.
2. The NCC oversees the ministry
2. Amazing Facts has their own separate Board of Directors
3. The NCC provides credentials to Amazing Facts
4. The NCC provides certificates for Amazing Facts
5. When Amazing Facts merges with 3abn, they will no longer be under the NCC umbrella. That relationship will cease.

Is this information correct? Please correct me if I am wrong.

One further question I would like to ask is, does the NCC provide financial support for Amazing Facts?

****

From: Jim Pedersen
Sent: Thursday, April 26, 2007 4:25 PM
Subject: Re: Amazing Facts

Hi, nice to chat with you. Let me respond with some clarifications to the AF questions you raise.

Amazing Facts is listed in the NAD Yearbook under the Northern California Conference. That makes them an official SDA entity, with ties to NCC — "under the umbrella" of NCC.
Amazing Facts has its own separate board of directors. Thus, the NCC does not directly oversee the ministry. As NCC President, I chair the AF board, as per the AF Bylaws. However, the constituency of AF is technically made up of a majority of NCC members.
As a SDA entity, AF leaders and evangelists are entitled to receive SDA credentials. Currently, those credentials are issued by the Pacific Union Conference, not NCC.

I'm not sure what "certificates" you make reference to. Please clarify.
If AF and 3ABN actually merge, there would be a new constituency and a new board, which would take them out from under the umbrella of the NCC, as I understand it.
There is no direct financial support from NCC to AF. They handle their own payroll, raise their own funds, etc.

I hope this helps. Feel free to contact me again as needed.

Best wishes,

Jim
--
James E. Pedersen
President
Northern California Conference of Seventh-day Adventists
401 Taylor Blvd.
P.O. Box 23165
Pleasant Hill, CA 94523
925-685-4300 x1200
jpedersen@ncc.adventist.org

Posted by: IMM May 24 2007, 10:33 AM

...interesting...

Posted by: Noahswife May 24 2007, 11:03 AM

> QUOTE(IMM @ May 24 2007, 12:33 PM) ☐
>
> ...interesting...

To: Jim Pedersen
Sent: Friday, April 27, 2007 6:19 AM
Subject: Re: Amazing Facts

Good morning Jim,

You mentioned that the constituency of AF is "made up of a majority of NCC members". I was wondering who this constituency is. Are they representatives of other ministries, NCC churches, SDA business people, NCC leadership, or?

Has this constituency already approved the proposed merger between AF and 3abn?

Will you still be a board member if AF and 3abn actually merge?

I have been blessed by the ministry of Doug Batchelor and Amazing Facts for years but know little about the actual organization. I and many others are watching this merger news with great interest (and lots of questions).

Have a Blessed Sabbath

****

From: Jim Pedersen

Sent: Friday, April 27, 2007 6:55 AM
Subject: Re: Amazing Facts

Hello, here are the brief answers.

1. The AF constituency is made up of the AF Board, the NCC Executive Committee, a specified number of pastors and laypeople from NCC, some representatives from the Pacific Union Conference, and a designated number of other people that AF & NCC choose. The majority of these individuals are from NCC.

2. The AF constituency has not yet been convened to approve this proposed merger. I believe that would happen when all the pieces are in place.

3. I do not know if I will still be a member of the newly formed board.

I hope this helps.

Best wishes,
Jim Pedersen

Posted by: Noahswife May 24 2007, 03:01 PM

To: Jim Pedersen
Sent: Friday, April 27, 2007 7:35 AM
Subject: Another Question

Hi Jim,

I meant to ask you this in my last email but it slipped my mind.

Are you familiar with an online publication called Adventist Today? I am not familiar with their views or reputation so I really don't know if what they report is accurate news or not. As a Seventh-day Adventist leader, do you have an opinion about their credibility?

The reason for my question is that an acquaintance recently sent me an email story by Adventist Today that reported numerous shocking details and allegations against some of the leadership of 3abn. Have you read the story? I don't have it in my Inbox any longer but could probably get another copy from my acquaintance if you have not seen it.

It would be very helpful to know your perspective on Adventist Today so I could know what to do with the information contained in that article.

Sent: Friday, April 27, 2007 5:23 PM
Subject: Re: Another Question

Hi,

In addition to the official SDA publications (i.e., Adventist Review, Signs of the Times, etc.), there are a number of private SDA publications, each representing a particular viewpoint about the church. One such publication is Adventists Affirm (www.adventisaffirm.org) which represents more of the conservative view of the SDA church. Another one is Adventist Today (www.atoday.com) which represents more of the progressive view of the church. Both of them have valid information, however they will both tend to filter their information through their particular viewpoint.

As president, I'm on the mailing list for both of these publications and I glance at them from time to time. Each of them has helpful information. And I believe they both endeavor to be as accurate as possible in any information that they disseminate.

I hope this is of help.

Best wishes,
Jim Pedersen

****

To: Jim Pedersen
Sent: Monday, April 30, 2007 2:26 AM
Subject: Re: Amazing Facts 3abn merger

Dear Jim,

Thank you so much for your perspective on Adventist Today. I had not heard of Adventist Affirm but went to their website and saw an article by David Asscherick in the current issue of their publication. I really enjoy watching David's sermons and series and guess I didn't know he was considered a conservative. I have also been so blessed by ministers who are likely considered fairly liberal. I suppose that puts me into the category of being a moderately liberal Seventh-day Adventist Christian with both progressive and conservative overtones who enjoys hearing messages of truth and the good news of salvation no matter where on the political spectrum the particular vessel of the Lord's Word is standing. I couldn't resist that. It is my opinion that each of us needs to listen for the message and blessing the Holy Spirit has in store for us anytime one of God's ordained opens His Word. I find it such a shame when we get distracted by minutia and miss the meal.

I was most pleased to learn that you are the chair of the Amazing Facts board of directors, for that means that you are most likely the best person for me to approach for answers about some concerns that I have. Late in 2006 a local friend who personally knows both Danny and Linda Shelton, the co-founders of 3abn, shared with me some troubling information that she was told about two of the Shelton brothers, Tommy and Danny. To that date I had made it a point to stay completely away from any public speculation about issues involving the Shelton's divorce or problems concerning 3abn. I have been so blessed by many of the programs they have aired over recent years. However, considering the vehement manner in which my friend relayed specific allegations of sexual abuse by both Tommy and Danny Shelton, first to my adult daughter who was just becoming connected to our church body, and then to me, I decided to do some research in an attempt to disprove the claims she was making.

I began reading through material on a forum that she had referred me to, BlackSDA.com, carefully attempting to verify or refute each claim that I found. My friend forwarded emails to me that she had recieved from Gailon Arthur Joy that contained dialogues between himself and several of the leadership of 3abn. While I was not pleased with some of Mr. Joy's investigative tactics, I have to admit that the emails further raised specific concerns in the area of allegations of sexual misconduct by Tommy Shelton and the appearance that Danny had attempted to cover up the behavior by various means when Gailon's emails introduced the infamous May 2003 "Dryden Letter" sent to the 3abn board chairman, Walt Thompson, MD.

1. The Glenn Dryden letter sent to Walt Thompson, MD May 14, 2003
http://www.save3abn.com/glenn-dryden-to-walt-thompson-may-2003.htm

2. 3abn attorney, Mike Riva's, letter of response to Glenn Dryden, June 13, 2003
http://www.save3abn.com/mike-riva-to-glenn-dryden-june-2003.htm

3. Glenn Dryden's reply, June 20, 2003
http://www.save3abn.com/glenn-drydens-reply-to-mike-riva-june-2003.htm

4. Glenn Dryden announces that there are three instances of misconduct in Dunne Loring, VA, one who was a minor at the time, December 3, 2006
http://www.save3abn.com/tommy-shelton-new-12-2006-va-allegations.htm

5. Mike Riva sends another threatening letter, January 5, 2007
http://www.save3abn.com/mike-riva-to-dunn-loring-cog-january-2007.htm

This concern became even greater when another investigator, Bob Pickle, began posting signed statements from alleged victims of pastoral sexual abuse:

1. Roger Clem's letter to Tommy Shelton regarding his alleged abuse in 1988 at age 16, written approx. 2004 http://www.save3abn.com/tommy-shelton-victim-roger-clem.htm - or -
http://www.blacksda.com/forums/index.php?s=&showtopic=11633&view=findpost&p=162245

2. Brad Dunning, now a pentacostal minister, made this statement on January 4, 2007 http://www.save3abn.com/tommy-shelton-victim-brad-dunning.htm - or -
http://www.blacksda.com/forums/index.php?s=&showtopic=11955&view=findpost&p=167570

3. Scott Clem, brother of one alleged victim and one admitted victim of pastoral sexual abuse, made this statement on January 7, 2007 http://www.save3abn.com/tommy-shelton-victims-family-scott-clem-response.htm - or -
http://www.blacksda.com/forums/index.php?s=&showtopic=11955&view=findpost&p=168297

Then, an email confession written by Tommy Shelton and a statement by the victim, Duane Clem, was posted on www.save3abn.com:
Tommy's email confession to Duane Clem in 2005 was posted on January 8, 2007
http://www.save3abn.com/tommy-shelton-confession.htm

Duane Clem's statements posted on save3abn in late January, 2007:

1. Duane's initial shock to things posted on the internet, December 29, 2006
http://www.save3abn.com/tommy-shelton-victim-duane-clem-background.htm

2. His apology to Gailon Joy and Bob Pickle, January 2, 2007
http://www.save3abn.com/tommy-shelton-victim-duane-clem-apology.htm

3. Duane Clem's statement concerning his abuse by Tommy Shelton, January 20, 2007
http://www.save3abn.com/tommy-shelton-victim-duane-clem-statement.htm
After hiding, for around 20 years, the abuse at the hands of the pastor his whole family loved and respected, when Duane Clem finally came forward and publically admitted his victimization, he truly started on a journey. It has been a privilege to surround that young man with love and support through discussion on BlackSDA.com as well as ChristianForums.com where he is standing up for the other alleged victims as well as himself as several people attempt to discredit all of them. It has been a joy to watch him truly begin to come out of his own denial and start to heal.

On February 4, 2007, Sherry Avery submitted a signed statement of an incident she observed first-hand between Tommy Shelton and a young man, as well as the reaction of many individuals once she spoke to some about the incident.
http://www.save3abn.com/tommy-shelton-victims-eyewitness-sherry-avery-1.htm

Then, shortly after all of these testimonies were posted, Adventist Today published the article about Tommy Shelton's retirement from 3abn and the report of many allegations of sexual abuse.
http://www.atoday.com/email/2007/02/12/

Combining the email confession by Tommy Shelton with all of these signed statements and the AToday article, a very compelling case is made that Duane Clem is not the only victim of pastoral sexual abuse and that there is a strong possibility that Danny Shelton has attempted to cover up his brother's behavior with minimization of his actions and intimidation of both the alleged victims and those attempting to expose the truth. What it shows me is that there is enough evidence to warrant a thorough investigation of these matters to confirm or rebut the claims, and then take the appropriate steps to put these matters to rest.

What does this have to do with you as the chairman of the Amazing Facts board of directors? Since news of the possible merger came out on April 19, many have wondered what Doug Batchelor's position is on the allegations. It was extremely troubling to me to read the forum responses from one man who claim to know Doug personally:

On 4/20/2007 at 4:07PM PDT, steffan said:?I am sorry, I had to post here after hearing all that is being said here. It is too funny not to.?Doug and Danny had a meeting Thursday at 4pm central time with all of the 3abn employees. They were told that this merge would not change any of their positions, work schedules or anything else. Doug made a point to say that he intends to keep his church in Sacramento and still run amazing facts and WOULD NOT have any say in day to day 3abn operations just as Danny will have no say in day to day operations of AF. Except for a merger of the boards and Danny and Doug taking more time to evangelize, most everything will remain as is. Doug and Danny, AF & 3abn will remain 2000 miles apart and will continue business as usual with Danny over 3abn and Doug over AF.? So, all this business of Doug cleaning house or that he doesn't realize what he has gotten himself into is absolutely a huge laugh. He had 20 or so highly respected people on his board advising him as well as Danny's board advising him. AF and 3ABN has worked together closely for years. That is the reason the AF people are not worried about allegations. They know they are false and shrug off the people behind it. To say that Danny was running scared as stated above is, again, crazy. If he was running scared he would have resigned, not expanded, and remained in charge of 3abn.?Not hard people, get a grip. As much as you hate to face it, that is the truth of it. As much as you want to read stuff into it, you can't. It is all good.?http://www.blacksda.com/forums/index...dpost&p=192236??

On 4/20/2007 at 7:31PM PDT, PeacefullyBewildered said:?Your statement that I have bolded above causes me some concerns. Do you have first hand knowledge from Doug Batchelor and his AF team that they are not worried about allegations and that they know they are false and shrug off the people behind it? Are these statements you have heard for yourself??PB?
http://www.blacksda.com/forums/index...dpost&p=192255?

On 4/20/2007 at 7:57PM PDT, steffan said:?And Yes PB. I did get it firsthand that Doug could care less about the allegations on the internet. Just ask Gailon if Doug would take his call today.?
http://www.blacksda.com/forums/index...dpost&p=192262

4/22/07 at 6:50AM, PDT, steffanphilip said:
I do not need to be told about what Doug thinks. I specifically said, "I know Doug."?
http://www.christianforums.com/showthread.php?p=34143302#post34143302??

What I would appreciate learning from you is whether or not Doug and Amazing Facts truly do shrug off the allegations that have been raised. Are Doug and Amazing Facts 100% certain that the signed statements and documentation on www.save3abn.com are not true? A merger between 3abn and Amazing Facts could certainly make for a powerful evangelistic force but would it not be prudent to make be sure that all is right behind the scenes at 3abn before finalizing those plans?

Jim, I know this is a lot of information to present you with. I have remained involved with this endeavor only because I believe that the Lord has placed a burden on my heart to see sin exposed and victims, both admitted and alleged, ministered to properly. I have not taken this lightly. I have prayed and sought advice from both the Bible and the Spirit of Prophecy and found clear counsel of our duty to reprove sin and the consequences if we neglect to do so.

"The prejudice which has arisen against us because we have reproved the wrongs that God has shown me existed, and the cry that has been raised of harshness and severity, are unjust. God bids us speak, and we will not be silent. If wrongs are apparent among His people, and if the servants of God pass on indifferent to them, they virtually sustain and justify the sinner, and are alike guilty and will just as surely receive the displeasure of God; for they will be made responsible for the sins of the guilty. In vision I have been pointed to many instances where the displeasure of God has been incurred by a neglect on the part of His servants to deal with the wrongs and sins existing among them. Those who have excused these wrongs have been thought by the people to be very amiable and lovely in disposition, simply because they shunned to discharge a plain Scriptural duty. The task was not agreeable to their feelings; therefore they avoided it. {3T 265.2}"

Beware lest you deal harshly with those who you think have made mistakes, while others, more guilty and more deserving of reproof, who should be severely rebuked for their unChristlike conduct, are sustained and treated as friends."--RH Mar. 12, 1895.

Thank you in advance for taking the time to consider this information and I look forward to hearing your response and perspectives.

Posted by: Noahswife May 24 2007, 03:21 PM

> QUOTE
>
> Thank you in advance for taking the time to consider this information and I look forward to hearing your response and perspectives.

From: Jim Pedersen
Sent: Monday, April 30, 2007 3:20 PM
Subject: Re: Amazing Facts 3abn merger

Hello, it will take me a while to review all of this and get an answer back to you. I've got a really busy week, so it may take me until next week to get back to you on it, in order to give you a rational response. I hope that is ok with you. I'll try to get to it as soon as possible.

Best wishes,
Jim Pedersen

****
From: Jim Pedersen
Sent: Thursday, May 10, 2007 10:38 AM
Subject: Re: Amazing Facts 3abn merger

Hello, I have finally had the time to take a look at the material you've sent. It is obvious that there have been several issues behind the scenes at 3ABN, some going back a number of years. My response to you will be rather short, compared with the amount of information that you shared with me. That is not intended to dismiss anything you have shared, but just due to the nature of the on-going discussions, as well as my own lack of knowledge of many of the specific issues involved.

From my working with the AF Board I know that many of the members have questions and concerns about any inappropriate actions on the part of any individual connected with 3ABN. They want to be very careful that nothing is done to tarnish the reputation of AF. While AF may indeed bring credibility to 3ABN, they want to be careful that AF isn't blind to anything, or get hurt in the merger process.

The AF Board is continuing to have discussions about the merger, and will have a firm say in the process of what is acceptable and what is not from the AF viewpoint. That board will be able to specify what are non-negotiables, etc.

I believe your concerns are valid, and I will attempt to appropriately represent those areas as the AF Board meets.

Thank you for your interest in God's work. And I know that you'll continue to make this a matter of prayer, as will we all.

Best wishes,
Jim

****

To: Jim Pedersen
Sent: Thursday, May 10, 2007 11:06 AM
Subject: Re: Amazing Facts 3abn merger

Dear Jim,

Thank you for taking the time to address these concerns. It is reassuring to hear that there are AF Board members who have questions and concerns and don't want AF to be tarnished in the process of the merger. To hear that AF does not want to be blind to anything is also most reassuring!

I am very pleased that you affirm the validity of the concerns I have presented and that you will attempt to appropriately represent them to the AF Board. I join with numerous individuals who are and will continue to be pray that God will direct the Amazing Facts Board of Directors and Doug Batchelor during this process.

If there is anything that I could do to further help in this area, such as put you in touch with folks close to the situation, I would be most willing to do so. Just let me know.

****

To: Jim Pedersen
Sent: Monday, May 14, 2007 10:44 AM
Subject: It's a small world after all

Dear Jim,

Regarding the AF/3abn merger, your input has been so helpful in answering questions that I have had. I am wondering if you would mind if I would pass the information along to various friends with similar questions and concerns? I believe that sharing the information would put a lot of their speculation and concern to rest.

As I'm sure you are aware, there are many interested parties watching this proposed merger. I, and numerous others, would feel far more comfortable if the new Amazing Facts/3abn ministry were to operate under the umbrella of either the General Conference or the North American Division as Amazing Facts has with the Northern California Conference. In my humble opinion, the oversite that such a relationship would provide would be beneficial to both the merged ministries and our denomination.

Posted by: Noahswife May 24 2007, 03:33 PM

From: Jim Pedersen
Sent: Tuesday, May 15, 2007 8:39 AM
Subject: Re: It's a small world after all

I don't believe anything I've shared with you is confidential in nature. Of course, there's always a little nervousness in being quoted far and wide! But if some of the answers can help others in their understanding of this process, then I guess I'm ok with your sharing it.

The journey isn't over yet. There are a lot of discussions that need to take place. But we're prayerfully taking things step by step.

All the best,
Jim Pedersen

Posted by: SoulEspresso May 24 2007, 04:11 PM

Wow!! I sure hope the AF board has more clout than the 3ABN board ... if it does, we may see some change after all.

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered May 24 2007, 05:36 PM

The following posts are copied from the information sent to Jim:

> QUOTE
>
> On 4/20/2007 at 4:07PM PDT, steffan said:?I am sorry, I had to post here after hearing all that is being said here. It is too funny not to.?Doug and Danny had a meeting Thursday at 4pm central time with all of the 3abn employees. They were told that this merge would not change any of their positions, work schedules or anything else. Doug made a point to say that he intends to keep his church in Sacramento and still run amazing facts and WOULD NOT have any say in day to day 3abn operations just as Danny will have no say in day to day operations of AF. Except for a merger of the boards and Danny and Doug taking more time to evangelize, most everything will remain as is. Doug and Danny, AF & 3abn will remain 2000 miles apart and will continue business as usual with Danny over 3abn and Doug over AF.?So, all this > business of Doug cleaning house or that he doesn't realize what he has gotten himself into is absolutely a huge laugh. He had 20 or so highly respected people on his board advising him as well as Danny's board advising him. AF and 3ABN has worked together closely for years. That is the reason the AF people are not worried about allegations. They know they are false and shrug off the people behind it. To say that Danny was running scared as stated above is, again, crazy. If he was running scared he would have resigned, not expanded, and remained in charge of 3abn.?Not hard people, get a grip. As much as you hate to face it, that is the truth of it. As much as you want to read stuff into it, you can't. It is all good.?http://www.blacksda.com/forums/index...dpost&p=192236??

>
> On 4/20/2007 at 7:31PM PDT, PeacefullyBewildered said:?Your statement that I have bolded above causes me some concerns. Do you have first hand knowledge from Doug Batchelor and his AF team that they are not worried about allegations and that they know they are false and shrug off the people behind it? Are these statements you have heard for yourself?? PBhttp://www.blacksda.com/forums/index...dpost&p=192255?
>
> On 4/20/2007 at 7:57PM PDT, steffan said:?And Yes PB. I did get it firsthand that Doug could care less about the allegations on the internet. Just ask Gailon if Doug would take his call today.?http://www.blacksda.com/forums/index...dpost&p=192262
>
> 4/22/07 at 6:50AM, PDT, steffanphilip said:
> I do not need to be told about what Doug thinks. I specifically said, "I know Doug."?
> http://www.christianforums.com/showthread.php?p=34143302#post34143302??

nd now Jim, who certainly knows Doug and the AF Board, states the following:

> QUOTE
>
> From my working with the AF Board I know that many of the members have questions and concerns about any inappropriate actions on the part of any individual connected with 3ABN. They want to be very careful that nothing is done to tarnish the reputation of AF. While AF may indeed bring credibility to 3ABN, they want to be careful that AF isn't blind to anything, or get hurt in the merger process.
>
> The AF Board is continuing to have discussions about the merger, and will have a firm say in the process of what is acceptable and what is not from the AF viewpoint. That board will be able to specify what are non-negotiables, etc.
>
> I believe your concerns are valid, and I will attempt to appropriately represent those areas as the AF Board meets.

MO, he is quite clearly saying that the concerns that were raised have not been dismissed. These statements hould give all of us hope that as far as the Amazing Facts Board of Directors is concerned they are roceeding with eyes wide open in an attitude of prayerfullness!

Posted by: summertime May 24 2007, 05:54 PM

> QUOTE(SoulEspresso @ May 24 2007, 05:11 PM) ☐
>
> Wow!! I sure hope the AF board has more clout than the 3ABN board ... if it does, we may see some change after all.

oday, in the mail, I received a program bulletin from 3ABN for the month of June. I am still receiving these ven though I discontinued my contributions to 3ABN a long time ago. On the front cover I see Pastor atchelor and Dan SHelton In a warm, closely united handshake. The picture made my blood turn cold. How n the world Pastor B. can have this picture gracing (or disgracing) the 3ABN bulletin with the full knowledge f what has been going on at 3ABN is beyond me. I have turned my satelitte station to listen to everthing that DB has to say about anything because I trusted him fully. Obviously, the picture speaks for itself and it makes me sad. I pray that the Lord will intervene in whatever way He can to aid in the world evangelism without letting so many wrongs being swept under the rug. I hope and pray that there is more to all this merger in a way that will serve the Lord than has been apparent to me today.

'summertime'

Posted by: SoulEspresso May 24 2007, 11:49 PM

> QUOTE(summertime @ May 24 2007, 04:54 PM)
>
> Today, in the mail, I received a program bulletin from 3ABN for the month of June. I am still receiving these even though I discontinued my contributions to 3ABN a long time ago. On the front cover I see Pastor Batchelor and Dan SHelton In a warm, closely united handshake. The picture made my blood turn cold. How in the world Pastor B. can have this picture gracing (or disgracing) the 3ABN bulletin with the full knowledge of what has been going on at 3ABN is beyond me. I have turned my satelitte station to listen to everthing that DB has to say about anything because I trusted him fully. Obviously, the picture speaks for itself and it makes me sad. I pray that the Lord will intervene in whatever way He can to aid in the world evangelism without letting so many wrongs being swept under the rug. I hope and pray that there is more to all this merger in a way that will serve the Lord than has been apparent to me today.

I took it completely differently, especially in light of Elder Pederson's comments posted by NW. I thought Doug looked like he just took over the world, has tucked in his napkin and is reaching for a fork (not intended as a slam btw); Danny looks relieved.

Posted by: mozart May 25 2007, 12:26 AM

NW, thanks so much for taking the time to post all that info. It was very encouraging to see that "someone" in authority over at AF is willing to discuss these issues and is actually being careful and wise and also seemingly open and honest in his correspondences. that's refreshing. thanks again, Mo

---

Posted by: Johann May 25 2007, 04:23 AM

> QUOTE(summertime @ May 25 2007, 01:54 AM)
>
> Today, in the mail, I received a program bulletin from 3ABN for the month of June. I am still receiving these even though I discontinued my contributions to 3ABN a long time ago. On the front cover I see Pastor Batchelor and Dan SHelton In a warm, closely united handshake. The picture made my blood turn cold. How in the world Pastor B. can have this picture gracing (or disgracing) the 3ABN bulletin with the full knowledge of what has been going on at 3ABN is beyond me. I have turned my satelitte station to listen to everthing that DB has to say about anything because I trusted him fully. Obviously, the picture speaks for itself and it makes me sad. I pray that the Lord will intervene in whatever way He can to aid in the world evangelism without letting so many wrongs being swept under the rug. I hope and pray that there is more to all this merger in a way that will serve the Lord than has been apparent to me today.
>
> 'summertime'

I also received some interesting information. I hope it is true, but it is not yet verified. It says that Doug B has apologized to his board. . . making statements before approved by the board. Therefore I will merely apply that as meaning we must not jump to conclusions too soon.

That picture you mentioned might not be approved. . .

Posted by: maggiecttr May 25 2007, 08:16 AM

> QUOTE(Johann @ May 25 2007, 06:23 AM) ☐
>
> I also received some interesting information. I hope it is true, but it is not yet verified. It says that Doug B has apologized to his board. . . making statements before approved by the board. Therefore I will merely apply that as meaning we must not jump to conclusions too soon.
>
> That picture you mentioned might not be approved. . .

This morning, I finally sat down to watch the opening night (Weds.night) of 3abn's spring campmeeting which I had taped. I was dozing off, as I tend to do during the music, then snapped awake as I heard the following, herewith transcribed:

(Walter Thompson & Danny on stage)

Danny: " We're still facing challenges -- We'll be honest with you--there's [sic] a lot of challenges going on, but if we aren't facing challenges, something's wrong. Am I right?"

Walt, interjecting: "And, we haven't given up on our merger with Amazing Facts yet, either -- that's moving forward and (pause) keep it in your prayers."

Danny: "Yeah. We're working to merge it -- Did any of you (addressing the audience) hear about the merger? (looking for a show of hands---very few people that were on camera raised their hands) OK--some of you have, and some of you haven't. We're looking at merging with Amazing Facts, and..uh....all we know how to do is announce it to you all to pray about it. There's [sic] a lot of extenuating circumstances -- a lot of things that have to be looked at legally, and looked at contractually. But spiritually, we see a lot of things we have in common (then some talk about AF's school of evangelism, 3abn's satellite capabilities), so you be praying ; if it's the Lord's will, we're going to do this. If, for some reason, it isn't, then we're still gonna be friends, we're still gonna work together every way we can, because we support Doug Batchelor and Amazing Facts; they'll still support 3abn...but right now, it's up--we want you all to pray about it, that...that the Lord's will be done. (He they quickly changed the subject to the 10 Commandments Weekend.)

Blessings,
Maggie

Posted by: IMM May 25 2007, 08:28 AM

Hmmm...

Posted by: Shepherdswife May 25 2007, 09:22 AM

> QUOTE(maggiecttr @ May 25 2007, 10:16 AM) ☐
>
> Walt, interjecting: "And, we haven't given up on our merger with Amazing Facts yet, either -- that's moving forward and (pause) keep it in your prayers."

"haven't given up on"---what a fascinating choice of words! For something that was announced with much fanfair as pretty much a sure thing just a few weeks ago....

shepherdswife

Posted by: Observer May 25 2007, 09:46 AM

> QUOTE(Shepherdswife @ May 25 2007, 09:22 AM)
>
> "haven't given up on"---what a fascinating choice of words! For something that was announced with much fanfair as pretty much a sure thing just a few weeks ago....
>
> shepherdswife

I thought so also.

Posted by: Grith May 25 2007, 09:56 AM

> QUOTE(Observer @ May 25 2007, 11:46 AM)
>
> I thought so also.

I'll second that. What seemed like such a sure thing just a month ago must not be looking quite so sure now.

Posted by: LaurenceD May 25 2007, 10:01 AM

If you listen closely to the words, and put that together with certain mannerisms, I think you'll find a gifted con artist. Language is the scenery along the path to the banks of the Dollar River, right? Or was that the river Sham? (just kidding with the "right" language--it was borrowed from my favorite artist)

Posted by: maggiecttr May 25 2007, 10:23 AM

> QUOTE(LaurenceD @ May 25 2007, 12:01 PM)
>
> If you listen closely to the words, and put that together with certain mannerisms, I think you'll find a gifted con artist. Language is the scenery along the path to the banks of the Dollar River, right? Or was that the river Sham? (just kidding with the "right" language--it was borrowed from my favorite artist)

Also, during that same program (Opening Night 3abn Spring Campmeeting '07), I transcribed the following regarding the downturn in giving to 3abn:

Danny: "When we lost the Sky Angel group---about, probably 50,000 homes---our monthly donations went way down. Out of sight, out of mind, as they say..."

Hmmm...

Maggie

Posted by: Clay May 25 2007, 10:27 AM

> QUOTE(maggiecttr @ May 25 2007, 11:23 AM)
>
> Also, during that same program (Opening Night 3abn Spring Campmeeting '07), I transcribed the following regarding the downturn in giving to 3abn:
>
> Danny: "When we lost the Sky Angel group---about, probably 50,000 homes---our monthly donations went way down. Out of sight, out of mind, as they say..."
> Hmmm...
>
> Maggie

if the gospel you preach includes asking for money... it ain't the gospel.....

Posted by: sonshineonme May 25 2007, 10:30 AM

> QUOTE(maggiecttr @ May 25 2007, 09:23 AM)
>
> Also, during that same program (Opening Night 3abn Spring Campmeeting '07), I transcribed the following regarding the downturn in giving to 3abn:
>
> Danny: "When we lost the Sky Angel group---about, probably 50,000 homes---our monthly donations went way down. Out of sight, out of mind, as they say..."
> Hmmm...
>
> Maggie

Somehow, I don't think he wanted anyone to think about other possibilities donations might be down. I suppose you could say if some were not able to watch it, it might have dropped a bit, but if you have been faithfully giving, and suddenly the ministry you have been giving too is swept away from the channel you watch it on, but you are still receiving those magazines and "donation" envelopes, I don't think it's really out of mind at all...but, ds didn't bother telling you that he makes sure to remind people he is still there and still needs money. He just isn't one to say "oh well".

Posted by: LaurenceD May 25 2007, 11:05 AM

Maggie...have you noticed the big push for "monthy" regular donations in the last few months? I hear it a lot, from a lot of different people on 3abn. It's come down to this: $5, $10, $50...whatever you have. These are the last days.... (over and over and over and over). I'm kinda getting tired of it.

In the beginning, I think they started out with good intentions, and had the right spirit, I just don't think they realized how successful the donation/wills/trust agreements could ever become. The temptation may have just become too great. Tying donations in with a TV ministry, and appeals built on a conservative foundation of the last days....almost stealing the light from the regular church system of ministering, and right in the face of older, richer, conservative SDA's that are retired and watching TV all day. Mix in a little music (as the organ plays softly now), and add a little WW bread cooking programs, and you've got quite a combination. And, stardom will (may?) keep the players loyal.

The church has a system of responsibility with money, but in the hands of an independent _____ _____ ________, red flags begin to fly everywhere. Even a marriage can fall apart. And recovery can often become so dismal, like one step forward, two steps back...repositioning for a better hold.

****

Clay, looking on, we all understand what all was meant when Christ separated himself, and his disciples, from the mamon of unrighteousness. But, when you're a receiving participant, you can rationalize it away so easy...a thousand ways. Money. It can do away with so many inconveniences, yet build such huge problems.

Posted by: Rosyroi May 25 2007, 11:26 AM

I wasn't in front of the tv screen during the opening campmeeting and have not had the chance to watch it ever since for one reason or another so the remarks above have been very enlightning. Thank you family

Rosyroi

Posted by: caribbean sda May 25 2007, 12:00 PM

> QUOTE(Grith @ May 25 2007, 11:56 AM)
>
> I'll second that. What seemed like such a sure thing just a month ago must not be looking quite so sure now.

Yeah...I thought it was a done deal...but as the old people say, "there's probably more in the mortar than the pestle."
After all the fanfare, prophecies, dreams and visions, there is now an aura of uncertainty...

Posted by: LaurenceD May 25 2007, 12:26 PM

When things are iffy, you always shape developments in the most positive light....like "we've had record donations since the divorce," ... "what a blessing we've received" ..."we had one donor say if donations are down, I'll double mine" ... "we're getting good feedback about the joint venture from eveyone" and place the most favorable pictures on TV and the net...like two men shaking.

It all reminds me of a local car dealership that was down for remodeling for about a year. The other day, while listening to the radio, the dealer said, "record sales, people are lined up, can't keep up with business, come see the new show room."

All the while, Christ and his disciples know what it's all about...it's a totally different understanding of life...

> Mat 20-23 The young man saith unto him, All these things have I kept from my youth up: what lack I yet? Jesus said unto him, If thou wilt be perfect, go and sell that thou hast, and give to the poor, and thou shalt have treasure in heaven: and come and follow me. But when the young man heard that saying, he went away sorrowful: for he had great possessions. Then said Jesus unto his disciples, > Verily I say unto you, That a rich man shall hardly enter into the kingdom of heaven.

Might start by lowering the personal benefits a little...like from 70K p/yr (maybe more now). whoever dreamed a high and mighty ministry would have to get down in the furrow like all the rest, to experience the salvation they preach.

Posted by: lurker May 25 2007, 02:26 PM

I hope someone taped where Danny said that it was because of being off sky angel that donations were way down. Sounds like good evidence in court if he tries to say that donations were down because of gossip.

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered May 25 2007, 02:54 PM

I really appreciate the NCC President and AF Chairman keeping things real for us. I remember the announcement of the merger on the April 19th Live program and the press releases that followed. While details reportedly still needed to be worked out it was still treated as if the merger was a done deal.

Just one week later, Jim Pedersen emailed the statement "If AF and 3ABN actually merge..." so we can see that, at least in the eyes of the AF Board Chairman, the merger was actually still only a proposal, a possibility.

> QUOTE(Noahswife @ May 24 2007, 09:08 AM) ☐
>
> ***
> SNIP
>
> From: Jim Pedersen
> Sent: Thursday, April 26, 2007 4:25 PM
> Subject: Re: Amazing Facts
>
> Hi, nice to chat with you. Let me respond with some clarifications to the AF questions you raise.
>
> Amazing Facts is listed in the NAD Yearbook under the Northern California Conference. That makes them an official SDA entity, with ties to NCC — "under the umbrella" of NCC.
> Amazing Facts has its own separate board of directors. Thus, the NCC does not directly oversee the ministry. As NCC President, I chair the AF board, as per the AF Bylaws. However, the constituency of AF is technically made up of a majority of NCC members.
> As a SDA entity, AF leaders and evangelists are entitled to receive SDA credentials. Currently, those credentials are issued by the Pacific Union Conference, not NCC.
> I'm not sure what "certificates" you make reference to. Please clarify.
> If AF and 3ABN actually merge, there would be a new constituency and a new board, which would take them out from under the umbrella of the NCC, as I understand it.
> There is no direct financial support from NCC to AF. They handle their own payroll, raise their own funds, etc.
>
> I hope this helps. Feel free to contact me again as needed.
>
> Best wishes,
>
> Jim
> --
> James E. Pedersen
> President
> Northern California Conference of Seventh-day Adventists
> 401 Taylor Blvd.
> P.O. Box 23165
> Pleasant Hill, CA 94523

> 925-685-4300 x1200
> jpedersen@ncc.adventist.org

Now, both Danny and Walt Thompson seem to have done some back-peddling on where the merger actually stands. I wonder just how much input the AF Board had before the merger was announced on April 19th. I also wonder if all those who sat on the 3abn set that evening are, perhaps, thinking it would have been wise o wait for a bit before making that big announcement?

> QUOTE(maggiecttr @ May 25 2007, 06:16 AM)
>
> This morning, I finally sat down to watch the opening night (Weds.night) of 3abn's spring campmeeting which I had taped. I was dozing off, as I tend to do during the music, then snapped awake as I heard the following, herewith transcribed:
>
> (Walter Thompson & Danny on stage)
>
> Danny: " We're still facing challenges -- We'll be honest with you--there's [sic] a lot of challenges going on, but if we aren't facing challenges, something's wrong. Am I right?"
>
> Walt, interjecting: "And, we haven't given up on our merger with Amazing Facts yet, either -- that's moving forward and (pause) keep it in your prayers."
> Danny: "Yeah. We're working to merge it -- Did any of you (addressing the audience) hear about the merger? (looking for a show of hands---very few people that were on camera raised their hands) OK--some of you have, and some of you haven't. We're looking at merging with Amazing Facts, and..uh....all we know how to do is announce it to you all to pray about it. There's [sic] a lot of extenuating circumstances -- a lot of things that have to be looked at legally, and looked at contractually. But spiritually, we see a lot of things we have in common (then some talk about AF's school of evangelism, 3abn's satellite capabilities), so you be praying ; if it's the Lord's will, we're going to do this. If, for some reason, it isn't, then we're still gonna be friends, we're still gonna work together every way we can, because we support Doug Batchelor and Amazing Facts; they'll still support 3abn...but right now, it's up--we want you all to pray about it, that...that the Lord's will be done. (He they quickly changed the subject to the 10 Commandments Weekend.)
> Blessings,
> Maggie

Posted by: Johann May 25 2007, 04:23 PM

> QUOTE(PeacefullyBewildered @ May 25 2007, 10:54 PM)
>
> I really appreciate the NCC President and AF Chairman keeping things real for us. I remember the announcement of the merger on the April 19th Live program and the press releases that followed. While details reportedly still needed to be worked out it was still treated as if the merger was a done deal.
>
> Just one week later, Jim Pedersen emailed the statement "If AF and 3ABN actually merge..." so we can see that, at least in the eyes of the AF Board Chairman, the merger was actually still only a proposal, a possibility.
> Now, both Danny and Walt Thompson seem to have done some back-peddling on where the merger actually stands. I wonder just how much input the AF Board had before the merger was announced on April 19th. I also wonder if all those who sat on the 3abn set that evening are, perhaps, thinking it would have been wise to wait for a bit before making that big announcement?

Who was telling the TRUTH last month?

Posted by: maggiecttr May 25 2007, 05:36 PM

> QUOTE(lurker @ May 25 2007, 04:26 PM)
>
> I hope someone taped where Danny said that it was because of being off sky angel that donations were way down. Sounds like good evidence in court if he tries to say that donations were down because of gossip.

I have it on tape (as mentioned awhile back today).
maggie

Posted by: Pickle May 25 2007, 05:58 PM

Can I get a copy? Maybe just that excerpt could be copied.

Posted by: Skyhook May 25 2007, 06:01 PM

> QUOTE(Johann @ May 25 2007, 05:23 AM)
>
> I also received some interesting information. I hope it is true, but it is not yet verified. It says that Doug B has apologized to his board. . . making statements before approved by the board. Therefore I will merely apply that as meaning we must not jump to conclusions too soon.
>
> That picture you mentioned might not be approved. . .

Making statements about such a merger before it is even discussed by the board is very amateurish. I don't think it would happen in a well run business. World wide sattelite TV has created Adventist celebrities. That is a dangerous snare for a preacher. I hope Doug does not look at the AF board as just a rubber stamp formality as it appears the 3abn board is in fact.

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered May 25 2007, 10:26 PM

> QUOTE(Skyhook @ May 25 2007, 05:01 PM)
>
> Making statements about such a merger before it is even discussed by the board is very amateurish. I don't think it would happen in a well run business. World wide sattelite TV has created Adventist celebrities. That is a dangerous snare for a preacher. I hope Doug does not look at the AF board as just a rubber stamp formality as it appears the 3abn board is in fact.

I don't know how Doug views his board of directors, but from what AF Chairman Jim Pedersen says in his emails about the AF Board, they hardly sound like the rubber stamp type!

Posted by: Johann May 26 2007, 07:02 AM

> QUOTE(PeacefullyBewildered @ May 26 2007, 06:26 AM) ☐
>
> I don't know how Doug views his board of directors, but from what AF Chairman Jim Pedersen says in his emails about the AF Board, they hardly sound like the rubber stamp type!

Just now I got a copy of 3ABN WORLD, published by 3ABN/AMAZING FACTS with the two presidents of the front page. Danny refers to the merger as a "historic ministry event."

It will be interesting to see the magazine next month.

Posted by: ex3ABNemployee May 26 2007, 07:43 AM

> QUOTE(Johann @ May 26 2007, 07:02 AM) ☐
>
> Just now I got a copy of 3ABN WORLD, published by 3ABN/AMAZING FACTS with the two presidents of the front page. Danny refers to the merger as a "historic ministry event."
>
> It will be interesting to see the magazine next month.

What will be even more interesting is to see how Danny tries to spin it if the merger ploy falls apart. He has such a history of blaming other people when things don't go his way. He can't afford to do that in this case, because Doug and AF are viewed so favorably. He knows it would be disastrous to rip them apart.

BTW, still no news outlets seem to have picked up on this "national news story" as Danny was so sure would happen.

Posted by: Observer May 26 2007, 08:38 AM

> QUOTE(Skyhook @ May 25 2007, 05:01 PM) ☐
>
> Making statements about such a merger before it is even discussed by the board is very amateurish. I don't think it would happen in a well run business. World wide sattelite TV has created Adventist celebrities. That is a dangerous snare for a preacher. I hope Doug does not look at the AF board as just a rubber stamp formality as it appears the 3abn board is in fact.

More that, one might ask, who is in charge, and do they know what they are doing?

It has been correctly pointed out that I posted a false statement at the beginning of this announcement. Well, I had checked sources connected with DB and 3-ABN prior to posting it. They generally agreed, so I posted it. I can not accuse them of intentional deceit. There would be no benefit to them to attempt to deceive me. So, I can only assume that people who thought they were in the "know" were not in the "know." I now wonder if anyone supposedly involve d in this had thought it through before going public.

Whatever the case, it sure presents a view of a failure to properly plan, in my opinion.

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered May 26 2007, 10:04 AM

> QUOTE(Observer @ May 26 2007, 07:38 AM)
>
> More that, one might ask, who is in charge, and do they know what they are doing?
>
> It has been correctly pointed out that I posted a false statement at the beginning of this announcement. Well, I had checked sources connected with DB and 3-ABN prior to posting it. They generally agreed, so I posted it. I can not accuse them of intentional deceit. There would be no benefit to them to attempt to deceive me. So, I can only assume that people who thought they were in the "know" were not in the "know." I now wonder if anyone supposedly involve d in this had thought it through before going public.
>
> Whatever the case, it sure presents a view of a failure to properly plan, in my opinion.

If they had thought it through before going public, one must wonder if there was a compelling motivation to do so when and how they did in spite of the many obvious reasons for waiting patiently for the process to reach a more solid point of development.

The May 10th email from Jim Pedersen contains this acknowledgment from him:

> QUOTE
>
> http://www.blacksda.com/forums/index.php?s=&showtopic=13535&view=findpost&p=196721
>
> While AF may indeed bring credibility to 3ABN, they want to be careful that AF isn't blind to anything, or get hurt in the merger process.

Could the desire to improve the 3abn image have been the motivation behind the rush to announce the merger?

The best PR advice I have ever heard is found in Proverbs 3:1 - 8

1 My son, do not forget my teaching,
but keep my commands in your heart,
2 for they will prolong your life many years and bring you prosperity.

3 Let love and faithfulness never leave you;
bind them around your neck,
write them on the tablet of your heart.

4 Then you will win favor and a good name in the sight of God and man.

5 Trust in the LORD with all your heart and lean not on your own understanding;

6 in all your ways acknowledge him,
and he will make your paths straight.

7 Do not be wise in your own eyes;
fear the LORD and shun evil.

8 This will bring health to your body and nourishment to your bones.

Posted by: maggiecttr May 26 2007, 10:34 AM

> QUOTE(Pickle @ May 25 2007, 07:58 PM)
>
> Can I get a copy? Maybe just that excerpt could be copied.

I have no way to copy it, but I can send you the original VHS tape if you PM me with a mailing address. I have a lot of Campmeeting programming on the tape & would like to watch it, then rewind to the pertinent section & then send it to you.

Maggie

Posted by: lurker May 26 2007, 11:43 AM

Maybe I am paranoid but I would hope there are multiple copies and that nothing gets lost in the mail.

Posted by: Daryl Fawcett May 26 2007, 03:58 PM

What program (name of program, date, and time) are we talking about here?

Posted by: roxe May 26 2007, 10:22 PM

> QUOTE(lurker @ May 26 2007, 11:43 AM)
>
> Maybe I am paranoid but I would hope there are multiple copies and that nothing gets lost in the mail.

from my understanding, sending it registered insured mail gets it sent in a locked briefcase which resides in a locked safe each night... takes a little longer but it is SAFE!!

just FYI...

Posted by: mozart May 26 2007, 10:37 PM

i think DS threw some curve balls on that live show that Doug and AF board probably had no idea was going to be said as if it were fact.
Just my opinion.

> QUOTE(PeacefullyBewildered @ May 25 2007, 01:54 PM)
>
> I really appreciate the NCC President and AF Chairman keeping things real for us. I remember the announcement of the merger on the April 19th Live program and the press releases that followed. While > details reportedly still needed to be worked out it was still treated as if the merger was a done deal.

>
> Just one week later, Jim Pedersen emailed the statement "If AF and 3ABN actually merge..." so we can see that, at least in the eyes of the AF Board Chairman, the merger was actually still only a proposal, a possibility.
> Now, both Danny and Walt Thompson seem to have done some back-peddling on where the merger actually stands. I wonder just how much input the AF Board had before the merger was announced on April 19th. I also wonder if all those who sat on the 3abn set that evening are, perhaps, thinking it would have been wise to wait for a bit before making that big announcement?

sn't that one of at least 3 excuses for donations to be down?

> QUOTE(Pickle @ May 25 2007, 04:58 PM)
>
> Can I get a copy? Maybe just that excerpt could be copied.

Posted by: mozart May 26 2007, 11:48 PM

here's my feeble attempt to give my take on this "merger", "venture" (they don't even agree on what to call it) situation. it is speculative and negative and for this i apologize, but from all i've read and seen so far this is what i think. i think GMc got his spin doctors and attorneys to come up with an amazing sales job to convince DB and AF board of the incredible possibilities and benefits of a joint venture between 3ABN and AF. i think GMc and DS made AF "an offer they couldn't refuse" but told them they had to move quickly for reasons we still do not know. maybe they just hyped the idea so much that out of excitement they couldn't wait to "share the good news" with us all. i underline "reasons" because i think the reasons they gave AF were probably not the real reasons why they wanted to move this into "emergency" mode. i keep asking myself. "why the emergency". remember they kept saying 3abn board had an "emergency meeting"; AF board had an "emergency meeting"; then DB and DS and GMc and a few others had an "emergency meeting" in denver. all this in a couple of days. do you think they might have told DB and AF that God told them to move quickly? it is extremely interesting to me that all those "emergencies" coincided with DS's appearance in court with LS. DS did not know the court would move the hearings to a later date because of technicalities with the attorneys. he did not know that, what he thought might be a huge "exposure to his misdeeds" and create a lot of talk, would not occur at that time. think of the damage that could have been done if things had gone forward at that time? first, there would be lots of talk especially around here about the court case. second, the ten commandments weekend was coming up and one of the issues of that court case could be "the book" profits and talk of that and the TCW occurring at the same time could have gotten very sticky and unprofitable. thirdly, there may have been very little interest in the TCW and they had invested a lot of money in it and needed some "spectacular PR" and fourthly, if they got involved in a merger, any damages that the courts might award to certain others would be held up for quite some time while it is decided who owns what to give to who. it would throw a lot of unexpected technicalities into the mix for opposing attorneys to have to attempt to strategize. bottom line to me is 3abn needs the PR lift that AF could give them plus the financial manuvures, twists and turns. i think GMc and DS thought they could "snow" DB & AF. (sad to think they'd think to use AF that way) anyway, just pure speculations on my part. i know there are those among you who are a lot smarter and better informed than me and can give really good critiques as to what does or does not fly and/or if any of what i have said makes sense and is reasonable to consider or just my imagination run amuck.
anyway, as i respect all of you, i would like your input and ideas as well.

> QUOTE(Observer @ May 26 2007, 07:38 AM)

> More that, one might ask, who is in charge, and do they know what they are doing?
>
> It has been correctly pointed out that I posted a false statement at the beginning of this announcement. Well, I had checked sources connected with DB and 3-ABN prior to posting it. They generally agreed, so I posted it. I can not accuse them of intentional deceit. There would be no benefit to them to attempt to deceive me. So, I can only assume that people who thought they were in the "know" were not in the "know." I now wonder if anyone supposedly involve d in this had thought it through before going public.
>
> Whatever the case, it sure presents a view of a failure to properly plan, in my opinion.

Posted by: Rosyroi May 26 2007, 11:58 PM

> QUOTE(mozart @ May 26 2007, 09:48 PM)
>
> here's my feeble attempt to give my take on this "merger", "venture" (they don't even agree on what to call it) situation. it is speculative and negative and for this i apologize, but from all i've read and seen so far this is what i think. i think GMc got his spin doctors and attorneys to come up with an amazing sales job to convince DB and AF board of the incredible possibilities and benefits of a joint venture between 3ABN and AF. i think GMc and DS made AF "an offer they couldn't refuse" but told them they had to move quickly for reasons we still do not know. maybe they just hyped the idea so much that out of excitement they couldn't wait to "share the good news" with us all. i underline "reasons" because i think the reasons they gave AF were probably not the real reasons why they wanted to move this into "emergency" mode. i keep asking myself. "why the emergency". remember they kept saying 3abn board had an "emergency meeting"; AF board had an "emergency meeting"; then DB and DS and GMc and a few others had an "emergency meeting" in denver. all this in a couple of days. do you think they might have told DB and AF that God told them to move quickly? it is extremely interesting to me that all those "emergencies" coincided with DS's appearance in court with LS. DS did not know the court would move the hearings to a later date because of technicalities with the attorneys. he did not know that, what he thought might be a huge "exposure to his misdeeds" and create a lot of talk, would not occur at that time. think of the damage that could have been done if things had gone forward at that time? first, there would be lots of talk especially around here about the court case. second, the ten commandments weekend was coming up and one of the issues of that court case could be "the book" profits and talk of that and the TCW occurring at the same time could have gotten very sticky and unprofitable. thirdly, there may have been very little interest in the TCW and they had invested a lot of money in it and needed some "spectacular PR" and fourthly, if they got involved in a merger, any damages that the courts might award to certain others would be held up for quite some time while it is decided who owns what to give to who. it would throw a lot of unexpected technicalities into the mix for opposing attorneys to have to attempt to strategize.
> bottom line to me is 3abn needs the PR lift that AF could give them plus the financial manuvures, twists and turns. i think GMc and DS thought they could "snow" DB & AF. (sad to think they'd think to use AF that way) anyway, just pure speculations on my part. i know there are those among you who are a lot smarter and better informed than me and can give really good critiques as to what does or does not fly and/or if any of what i have said makes sense and is reasonable to consider or just my imagination run amuck.
> anyway, as i respect all of you, i would like your input and ideas as well.

rom the very little that I know about I think you have come up with the best speculation in great condensed ersion.

osyroi

Posted by: Johann May 27 2007, 02:23 AM

> QUOTE(Rosyroi @ May 27 2007, 07:58 AM)

> From the very little that I know about I think you have come up with the best speculation in great condensed version.
>
> Rosyroi

Seems so obvious to many of us, but how much will they try to spin, spin, spin? With the aid of 14 lawyers?

Posted by: watchbird May 27 2007, 05:42 AM

Further condensing and modification of the bolded sentences below.

I think GMc simply gave an ORDER they "couldn't refuse".... with reasons unknown both as to the reason for the order and the reason why they "couldn't refuse".

> QUOTE(mozart @ May 27 2007, 01:48 AM)
>
> here's my feeble attempt to give my take on this "merger", "venture" (they don't even agree on what to call it) situation. it is speculative and negative and for this i apologize, but from all i've read and seen so far this is what i think. i think GMc got his spin doctors and attorneys to come up with an amazing sales job to convince DB and AF board of the incredible possibilities and benefits of a joint venture between 3ABN and AF. i think GMc and DS made AF "an offer they couldn't refuse" but told them they had to move quickly for reasons we still do not know. maybe they just hyped the idea so much that out of excitement they couldn't wait to "share the good news" with us all. i underline "reasons" because i think the reasons they gave AF were probably not the real reasons why they wanted to move this into "emergency" mode. i keep asking myself. "why the emergency". remember they kept saying 3abn board had an "emergency meeting"; AF board had an "emergency meeting"; then DB and DS and GMc and a few others had an "emergency meeting" in denver. all this in a couple of days. do you think they might have told DB and AF that God told them to move quickly?

Well, that is certainly what they made the main feature of their public presentation. The question is open as to whether the real orders came from the God of Order.... or the Mcgod who gives orders.... (or possibly in dreams the one looks like the other).

> QUOTE(roxe @ May 27 2007, 12:22 AM)
>
> from my understanding, sending it registered insured mail gets it sent in a locked briefcase which resides in a locked safe each night... takes a little longer but it is SAFE!! just FYI...

From my understanding, all "registered insured" means is that it costs more and it gives you a way of tracing it if it disappears.... and tracing doesn't necessarily mean recovery. Besides.. it's a magnitic medium and all sorts of things can happen to mess up a magnitic medium.

My suggestion would be to make... or find someone who can make... a DVD of the video. Send the DVD and keep the video in your own hands. Costs less and a whale of a lot safer.

Posted by: howdy May 27 2007, 10:22 AM

> QUOTE(Johann @ May 27 2007, 03:23 AM)

> Seems so obvious to many of us, but how much will they try to spin, spin, spin? With the aid of 14 lawyers?

Johann many law firms have many lawyers each. Doesn't show a lot of smarts for you to emphasize that 14 lawyers thing.

howdy

Posted by: Skyhook May 27 2007, 11:16 AM

> QUOTE(howdy @ May 27 2007, 11:22 AM)
>
> Johann many law firms have many lawyers each. Doesn't show a lot of smarts for you to emphasize that 14 lawyers thing.
>
> howdy

Just as a point of fact, 14 Lawyers would be considered a small firm in most big cities, even Minneapolis, if I'm not mistaken. That says nothing about thier effectiveness, however.

Posted by: SoulEspresso May 27 2007, 12:04 PM

> QUOTE(howdy @ May 27 2007, 09:22 AM)
>
> Johann many law firms have many lawyers each. Doesn't show a lot of smarts for you to emphasize that 14 lawyers thing.

Howdy, you may disagree with Johann, but could you be a little more respectful?

The point, if I understand him correctly, is that 3ABN is using 14 lawyers in their current legal exercises. That's a lot of lawyers for one case--meaning it's of way more significance than Danny & Walt will even hint to you on television. It's called "bringing out the big guns." And if Garwin McNeilus has used the same firm in the past, it means they're a pretty competent bunch--keeping in mind, in this case, that a "good" lawyer is not necessarily a good person.

> QUOTE(watchbird @ May 27 2007, 04:42 AM)
>
> The question is open as to whether the real orders came from the God of Order.... or the Mcgod who gives orders....

kaPOW! Not sure flesh and blood gave this to you ...

Posted by: mozart May 27 2007, 12:24 PM

howdy,
if you think johann "doesn't show a lot of smarts" then you should show how intelligent you are by giving a response that showed "informative and/or logical reasoning". i'm sure you could have made your point in a more respectful way. insulting doesn't equal information.

> QUOTE(howdy @ May 27 2007, 10:22 AM)
>
> Johann many law firms have many lawyers each. Doesn't show a lot of smarts for you to emphasize that 14 lawyers thing.
>
> howdy

Posted by: howdy May 27 2007, 03:08 PM

> QUOTE(mozart @ May 27 2007, 01:24 PM)
>
> howdy,
> if you think johann "doesn't show a lot of smarts" then you should show how intelligent you are by giving a response that showed "informative and/or logical reasoning". i'm sure you could have made your point in a more respectful way. insulting doesn't equal information.

Yes I suppose you are right there Mozart. However I have no way of judging the reliability of people on this board except by their posts. If persons post nonsense it tends to discredit the cause they are trying to support doncha think? I fear that certain persons would not last 5 minutes under cross examination.

howdy

Posted by: Grith May 27 2007, 06:07 PM

> QUOTE(howdy @ May 27 2007, 04:08 PM)
>
> Yes I suppose you are right there Mozart. However I have no way of judging the reliability of people on this board except by their posts. If persons post nonsense it tends to discredit the cause they are trying to support doncha think? I fear that certain persons would not last 5 minutes under cross examination.

But none of us are under cross examination.
What may seem to be nonsense to you may not be so to someone else. I have found that people on this forum are generously courteous to each other. Even if you think that what Johann posted was nonsense, that does not call for you to be discourteous to him, now does it?

Posted by: howdy May 27 2007, 06:38 PM

> QUOTE(Grith @ May 27 2007, 07:07 PM)
>
> But none of us are under cross examination.
> What may seem to be nonsense to you may not be so to someone else. I have found that people on this forum are generously courteous to each other. Even if you think that what Johann posted was nonsense, > that does not call for you to be discourteous to him, now does it?

I promise to disagree in a more agreeable way in future

ıowdy

Posted by: watchbird May 27 2007, 08:40 PM

> QUOTE(howdy @ May 27 2007, 05:08 PM)
>
> Yes I suppose you are right there Mozart. However I have no way of judging the reliability of people on this board except by their posts. If persons post nonsense it tends to discredit the cause they are trying to support doncha think? I fear that certain persons would not last 5 minutes under cross examination.
>
> howdy

lowdy, if what you are criticizing is the "14 lawyers" statement by Johann... then perhaps your problem is hat you simply haven't read enough of the material on this board.... so you missed out on the stories behind he "14 lawyers" comment.

\nd as for Johann lasting under crossexamination... I think he would do right well, and not only that, but vould be able to lead the examiners into asking just the questions that would give him opportunity to give he answers which he would love to have the judge hear.

t would be very time-consuming, but before you pass a hasty judgment on one of the "old-timers" here, it vould really be well to go to their profile and read all that they have written in the contexts in which they vere written. If you did that, then you would recognize the stories behind such phrases as the "14 lawyers".

3ut to give you a little direct help on this one.... this cames from the oft repeated threats that Danny wrote to ohann over the years since Danny fired Johann in May (or maybe it was June) of 2004. Very often these hreats included mention of "Garwin's 14 lawyers" whom Johann should be prepared to meet as a result of vhatever Johann had done at the moment that was displeasing to Danny. Why not the 18 lawyers that are ıow listed on the law firm? I have no idea. Maybe they didn't have that many when Danny did his last check ɔn how many there were. Why didn't Johann say 18 rather than 14... well.. he would have to answer that for ıimself, but... knowing the history as well as I do, I would rather suspect it was because he intended to 'emind all of us of the numerous threatening letters he received that used that number.

Posted by: Fran May 27 2007, 10:32 PM

Well, we found out 14 was wrong! It is really 17?

My look at this situation from my view.

A law Firm with 17 Lawyers has been retained to this Mysterious, vague, unknown, quizzical lawsuit!

I believe no one here thinks all 14/17 lawyers will fight this case. However, I feel that many feel that there are 14/17 Lawyers at their disposal! Therefore, all bases are covered when and if needed. The realms of this case could expand exponentially.

Many lawyers are present at the trial are there many times only for a show of solidarity and to max out intimidation!

I would guess that this case is all about money! Yep, Joy and Pickles money! How much blood can you get out of a turnip? It does not matter if it is 1 lawyer, or 17! They have hired a firm that has expertise in all these areas. If need be, they are at Danny's disposal, right? If they do not have an area covered, the firm will hire a new lawyer or subcontract one, or something like that!

Now how many of these 14/17 lawyers are Danny's Lawyers? As many as he needs at any given moment! 1-17 could be at his beck and call. That is how I see it. Is it a correct look? Probably not! However, it is what I believe. I believe Danny can have at his disposal up to and including 17 lawyer if it is needed. Will that happen? Probably not! I will have to wait and see.

I have to wait with everyone else to wait until the truth is set free to the public.

I also think that saying that Danny has 1-6 lawyers, 14 lawyers, or even 17 lawyers are as correct as anyone else here. Nobody but the parties of the suit know. I also think the numbers will grow/shrink as days go by. However, at all times Danny will have at his disposal as many as are necessary for this particular suit.

How about that! I succeeded in saying ABSOLUTELY NOTHING WORTH WHILE!

Posted by: steffan May 27 2007, 10:33 PM

> QUOTE(mozart @ May 27 2007, 12:48 AM)
>
> [i know there are those among you who are a lot smarter and better informed than me and can give really good critiques as to what does or does not fly and/or if any of what i have said makes sense and is reasonable to consider or just my imagination run amuck.
> anyway, as i respect all of you, i would like your input and ideas as well. [/color]

Actually the above sentence is the only part of your post that makes any sense. Do you honestly think that AF, DB, GMc, DS and both boards ran to have an emergency merger because DS had a court appearance with LS over marital property? Oh man.....You are really falling off of the deep end with that one.
You state DS did not know the court date would be changed. His lawyers new that Laird did not have an active license to practice IL law which is the very reason that the court date was changed. If his lawyers knew it, one could assume that DS knew it.
Then we have your scenerio of trying to mix AF and 3abn into a marital property case. One has nothing to do with the other. I am quite sure AF and DB is not going to do anything rash because of Danny and Linda's property settlement.
As far as all your speculation here about the merger, how it was announced, what is going on and so on....Did it ever occur to any of you that both ministries have been too busy with their own meetings and events right now to work any further on details. Or has it occured to you there are things that could happen that might make 3abn have second thoughts about a merger. Your assumptions here are always that maybe AF has changed their mind. You might find out if for any reason the merge doesn't happen, it might be the other side to make that decision. Something to think about since a lot of the speculations by the members here, have been proven wrong time and time again.

Posted by: mozart May 27 2007, 10:33 PM

Is there any example of a righteous person in the Bible making threats?

you know the idea of DS making threats using the means of someone else's money is a bit nauseating. it's like a rich kid bragging about all his toys and all his money which he never personally earned.

Posted by: SoulEspresso May 27 2007, 10:51 PM

> QUOTE(steffan @ May 27 2007, 09:33 PM)
>
> Actually the above sentence is the only part of your post that makes any sense. Do you honestly think that AF, DB, GMc, DS and both boards ran to have an emergency merger because DS had a court appearance with LS over marital property? Oh man.....You are really falling off of the deep end with that one.

Well, if a ministry is suddenly down donations in the seven figures, who knows? Desperate times call for desperate measures. And smart people in groups make no better decisions than dumb people in groups. Witness the Challenger and Columbia disasters ... NASA scientists met in groups to make decisions that killed astronauts.

If the group is feeling guilty about something, or has something to hide, they're likely to make even dumber decisions. Evil has a way of cutting its own head off.

> QUOTE
>
> Then we have your scenerio of trying to mix AF and 3abn into a marital property case. One has nothing to do with the other. I am quite sure AF and DB is not going to do anything rash because of Danny and Linda's property settlement.

It does matter if Danny was milking his organization and hiding the income! (Notice the if, I'm going on available evidence and not all the blustery wind that sometimes flies up around here.)

> QUOTE
>
> As far as all your speculation here about the merger, how it was announced, what is going on and so on....Did it ever occur to any of you that both ministries have been too busy with their own meetings and events right now to work any further on details.

But in competent organizations, the kinds of things that would hold back a merger would be taken care of before said merger was announced publicly on international television. And events that might distract from such a well-planned business deal might be toned down.

> QUOTE
>
> Or has it occured to you there are things that could happen that might make 3abn have second thoughts about a merger. Your assumptions here are always that maybe AF has changed their mind. You might find out if for any reason the merge doesn't happen, it might be the other side to make that decision.

3ABN has a lot more to lose if it falls through. AF had a lot of credibility with people who were beginning to have doubts, and I'm guessing when the merger announcement was rushed without AF even convening their board (correct me if I'm wrong!), their credibility began to suffer. I don't think they'd want that to continue.

> QUOTE
>
> Something to think about since a lot of the speculations by the members here, have been proven wrong time and time again.

Actually, steffan, this group has been right more than it's been wrong.

Posted by: howdy May 27 2007, 11:22 PM

> QUOTE(watchbird @ May 27 2007, 09:40 PM) ☐
>
> Howdy, if what you are criticizing is the "14 lawyers" statement by Johann... then perhaps your problem is that you simply haven't read enough of the material on this board.... so you missed out on the stories behind the "14 lawyers" comment.
>
> And as for Johann lasting under crossexamination... I think he would do right well, and not only that, but would be able to lead the examiners into asking just the questions that would give him opportunity to give the answers which he would love to have the judge hear.
>
> It would be very time-consuming, but before you pass a hasty judgment on one of the "old-timers" here, it would really be well to go to their profile and read all that they have written in the contexts in which they were written. If you did that, then you would recognize the stories behind such phrases as the "14 lawyers".
>
> But to give you a little direct help on this one.... this cames from the oft repeated threats that Danny wrote to Johann over the years since Danny fired Johann in May (or maybe it was June) of 2004. Very often these threats included mention of "Garwin's 14 lawyers" whom Johann should be prepared to meet as a result of whatever Johann had done at the moment that was displeasing to Danny. Why not the 18 lawyers that are now listed on the law firm? I have no idea. Maybe they didn't have that many when Danny did his last check on how many there were. Why didn't Johann say 18 rather than 14... well.. he would have to answer that for himself, but... knowing the history as well as I do, I would rather suspect it was because he intended to remind all of us of the numerous threatening letters he received that used that number.

Thank you Watchbird for the explanation. So for persons who may not know the background it would have been nice if there had been quotation marks around the "fourteen lawyers". Meantime since I should have caught on I apologise.

howdy

Posted by: mozart May 28 2007, 12:04 AM

> QUOTE(steffan @ May 27 2007, 09:33 PM) ☐
>
> Actually the above sentence is the only part of your post that makes any sense. Do you honestly think that AF, DB, GMc, DS and both boards ran to have an emergency merger because DS had a court appearance with LS over marital property? Oh man.....You are really falling off of the deep end with that one.
> " falling off of the deep end"? If you can insult my opinion, then you can at least say why you think that, can't you? or can you? as usual you can't intelligently and accurately defend your beliefs so you just make insults. that's a waste of time.
> You state DS did not know the court date would be changed. His lawyers new that Laird did not have an active license to practice IL law which is the very reason that the court date was changed. If his lawyers knew it, one could assume that DS knew it.
> thought you didn't believe in assuming. where's your evidence he knew?
> Then we have your scenerio of trying to mix AF and 3abn into a marital property case. One has nothing to do with the other. I am quite sure AF and DB is not going to do anything rash because of Danny and Linda's property settlement.
> that was not my scenario at all. you apparently didn't follow what i was saying.

> As far as all your speculation here about the merger, how it was announced, what is going on and so on....Did it ever occur to any of you that both ministries have been too busy with their own meetings and events right now to work any further on details.
> that's a pathetically weak statement steffan.
> Or has it occured to you there are things that could happen that might make 3abn have second thoughts about a merger.
> are you saying that all those "visions and dreams" might be overruled by the thoughts of men? if that is so, then they really made fools of themselves with all the hype of that "live show" announcement.
> Your assumptions here are always that maybe AF has changed their mind.
> where did i make that assumption here?
> You might find out if for any reason the merge doesn't happen, it might be the other side to make that decision.
> that would be interesting since the other side is the one that initiated and pushed things to the point of "emergency" mode.Something to think about since a lot of the speculations by the members here, have been proven wrong time and time again.
> which speculations are you referring to?
> again you just make erroneous statements and insults but add nothing informative to the discussion.
> you might remember some things you have said, as facts you personally are privy to, have been proven wrong as well.
> As happens so often, you say much without saying anything. your method of defense is just to insult those you disagree with because you cannot respectfully offer actual information or intelligently contribute to the debate and discussions here.
> is someone wrong just because you think they are wrong? are they stupid just because they disagree with you? if you have nothing more to offer than that line of thinking then you simply have nothing to offer steffan. these tactics are those of people who simply just want to disagree but don't have any information or ideas of their own to back them up.
> it's apparent that you don't know anymore than the rest of us about why things have happened the way they have or what is "actually" going on.
> if you do, then please enlighten us and try to do it without sarcasm and insults. that's just not nessessary and makes it very hard to take you seriously in any way. if you want me to respond to you, then say something constructive, heart-felt or intelligent. thanks, Mo

Posted by: Johann May 28 2007, 12:08 AM

> QUOTE(mozart @ May 27 2007, 08:24 PM)
>
> howdy,
> if you think johann "doesn't show a lot of smarts" then you should show how intelligent you are by giving a response that showed "informative and/or logical reasoning". i'm sure you could have made your point in a more respectful way. insulting doesn't equal information.

lo problem, mo! Some people may believe that speaking in riddles is a worse sin than rudeness. We should espect such a conviction. I should apologize for my way of speaking in riddles and letting people draw their wn conclusions rather than spelling them out, even if they do not reason like I do.

Posted by: mozart May 28 2007, 12:44 AM well i guess some of us are just abstract thinkers johann. BTW......."Why is a Raven like a writing desk?"

I mean he could have said, "14 lawyers spinning?!!! what the heck you talkin'bout ?? "

Ever heard about the "BFKLA" ??

(Big Fat Knitting Lawyers Assoc.) ^

> QUOTE(Johann @ May 27 2007, 11:08 PM)
>
> No problem, mo! Some people may believe that speaking in riddles is a worse sin than rudeness. We should respect such a conviction. I should apologize for my way of speaking in riddles and letting people draw their own conclusions rather than spelling them out, even if they do not reason like I do.

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered May 28 2007, 01:01 AM

> QUOTE(steffan @ May 27 2007, 08:33 PM)
>
> As far as all your speculation here about the merger, how it was announced, what is going on and so on....Did it ever occur to any of you that both ministries have been too busy with their own meetings and events right now to work any further on details. Or has it occured to you there are things that could happen that might make 3abn have second thoughts about a merger. Your assumptions here are always that maybe AF has changed their mind. You might find out if for any reason the merge doesn't happen, it might be the other side to make that decision. Something to think about since a lot of the speculations by the members here, have been proven wrong time and time again.

Steffan,

In retrospect, don't you agree that the merger announcement on April 19 actually sort of qualifies as speculation?

Have you read the emails from the AF Board Chairman? Jim Pedersen makes it very clear that they are still in the process of making up their minds whether or not to go forward with a proposed merger between Amazing Facts and 3abn.

Posted by: Johann May 28 2007, 01:21 AM

> QUOTE(mozart @ May 28 2007, 08:44 AM)
>
> well i guess some of us are just abstract thinkers johann. BTW......."Why is a Raven like a writing desk?"
>
> ^
>
> [/color]

Both could be black?

Posted by: beartrap May 28 2007, 01:31 AM

> QUOTE(steffan @ May 27 2007, 09:33 PM) ☐
>
> As far as all your speculation here about the merger, how it was announced, what is going on and so on.... Or has it occured to you there are things that could happen that might make 3abn have second thoughts about a merger. Your assumptions here are always that maybe AF has changed their mind. You might find out if for any reason the merge doesn't happen, it might be the other side to make that decision.

Actually, I agree with Steffan on this point. Although it seems that AF could have some reasons to back away from this merger and may do so, ever since the merger was announced I have been of the opinion that 3ABN would be the most likely party to withdraw as I believe that 3ABN could have very strong reasons to avoid the likely complications for them that could result from a merger that would involve some of the changes spoken of on the announcement. I have been of the opinion that some of the administration at 3ABN were the party with the most to lose. However, I have wondered how they would accomplish gracefully backing out after the "prophecies" and "visions" that were used as a significant part of the 3ABN side of the announcement.

But then this is all just my opinion.

Posted by: beartrap May 28 2007, 01:45 AM

> QUOTE(mozart @ May 27 2007, 11:44 PM) ☐
>
> well i guess some of us are just abstract thinkers johann. BTW......."Why is a Raven like a writing desk?"

Hmmm... They have both often produced a feeling of dread in the hearts of the superstitious and uneducated? "Nevermore" quoth the Beartrap "nevermore."

Posted by: lurker May 28 2007, 06:19 AM

14 and/or 17 lawyers? Doesn't matter. One person and God is a majority. Or two people and God are a majority.

It would seem that if you sue and pour more money into a lawsuit than you can recover, it is probably about vengence. Not righteous indignation. Doesn't make the sue-er look like he is living up to the principles he espouses. Isn't good PR for the ministry either. Certainly won't prove the sue-er to be right or bring more donations into the ministry.

By the way, http://www.straightdope.com/classics/a5_266.html Why is a raven like a writing desk? I don't know but if you take any two objects and compare them, you can probably find some things they have in common and justify any opinion.

Posted by: LaurenceD May 28 2007, 08:12 AM

I dunno lurker, it may not be good PR for the ministry, but w/o suing, what if the ministry can't survive? You gotta remember, these are the same people who don't seem to understand legal issues. Case in point--the property in the tax lawsuit. By appealing, they don't seem to mind pouring more money into the system for a long shot. Maybe it's more naivety than vengence--or a combination of the two.

One thing some lawyers love is representing people with an endless supply of money. I can't tell you how many times I witnessed one particular law firm, comprised of 21 lawyers, reassure their client (a gov't agency) that they had a solid case. The client finally caught on, after losing a few times, and switched to another smaller firm comprised of 3 attorneys.

What appeared to be going on was that the larger firm would use certain cases to train and support their freshman attorneys and give them some valuable experience at the client's expense. It almost seems immoral to be offering professional legal advice that way, but some issues are not well understood, like personel issues, so even false hope can feel right with gray areas, and the deeper purpose can remain undetected.

One thing that strikes me is to hear bits and pieces about the divorce, then to think about other issues, like these recent decisions and developments. I sense a familiar spirit--do whatever it takes to maintain the appearance of innocence. This is the nature of a "fighter" at work, someone that can't handle losing, and probably can't admit wrong. So, maybe you're right that it's vengence.

Posted by: ex3ABNemployee May 28 2007, 08:26 AM

> QUOTE(beartrap @ May 28 2007, 01:31 AM)
>
> Actually, I agree with Steffan on this point. Although it seems that AF could have some reasons to back away from this merger and may do so, ever since the merger was announced I have been of the opinion that 3ABN would be the most likely party to withdraw as I believe that 3ABN could have very strong reasons to avoid the likely complications for them that could result from a merger that would involve some of the changes spoken of on the announcement. I have been of the opinion that some of the administration at 3ABN were the party with the most to lose. However, I have wondered how they would accomplish gracefully backing out after the "prophecies" and "visions" that were used as a significant part of the 3ABN side of the announcement.
>
> But then this is all just my opinion.

Beartrap, since the dannyscribes like us to have proof of everything before speaking, maybe we should say the ALLEGED "prophecies" and "visions".

Posted by: lurker May 28 2007, 08:34 AM

ALLEGED "prophecies" and "visions" ☒ rofl ☒ rofl ☒ rofl
Yup, that's what I would call them.

Just to be on the safe side.

Posted by: Pickle May 28 2007, 08:36 AM

> QUOTE(steffan @ May 27 2007, 10:33 PM)
>
> His lawyers new that Laird did not have an active license to practice IL law which is the very reason that the court date was changed.

Steffan, I commend you. I may have missed something earlier, but I was under the impression that Danny's allies were claiming that Laird did not have a license, period, and that they didn't want to admit that he had an inactive license. I see that you are not so biased as to be unable to admit that the issue was whether his license was active or inactive, not whether he had a license or not.

> QUOTE(steffan @ May 27 2007, 10:33 PM)

> Or has it occured to you there are things that could happen that might make 3abn have second thoughts about a merger.

I heard that Danny spoke to a large group at camp meeting and said a) that they were off the air, b) something about the merger being in doubt, and c) that he wasn't sure that God wanted him to step down.

1. Do you know if he said these things?
2. If so, does that mean that the proposed merger would now require him to step aside entirely, contrary to what his allies previously said the merger would be like?

Now if Danny didn't really say these things, I want to know so that I can make a phone call and tell the person who was there and said that they heard this that they were possibly mistaken regarding what they heard.

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered May 28 2007, 09:37 AM

> QUOTE(LaurenceD @ May 28 2007, 07:12 AM) ☐
>
> I dunno lurker, it may not be good PR for the ministry, but w/o suing, what if the ministry can't survive? You gotta remember, these are the same people who don't seem to understand legal issues. Case in point--the property in the tax lawsuit. By appealing, they don't seem to mind pouring more money into the system for a long shot. Maybe it's more naivety than vengence--or a combination of the two.
>
> One thing some lawyers love is representing people with an endless supply of money. I can't tell you how many times I witnessed one particular law firm, comprised of 21 lawyers, reassure their client (a gov't agency) that they had a solid case. The client finally caught on, after losing a few times, and switched to another smaller firm comprised of 3 attorneys.
>
> What appeared to be going on was that the larger firm would use certain cases to train and support their freshman attorneys and give them some valuable experience at the client's expense. It almost seems immoral to be offering professional legal advice that way, but some issues are not well understood, like personel issues, so even false hope can feel right with gray areas, and the deeper purpose can remain undetected.
>
> One thing that strikes me is to hear bits and pieces about the divorce, then to think about other issues, like these recent decisions and developments. I sense a familiar spirit--do whatever it takes to maintain the appearance of innocence. This is the nature of a "fighter" at work, someone that can't handle losing, and probably can't admit wrong. So, maybe you're right that it's vengence.

LaurenceD,

All excellent points that really cause further reflection on all of these issues! Some are driven to protect their "image" no matter what the cost.

> QUOTE(ex3ABNemployee @ May 28 2007, 07:26 AM) ☐
>
> Beartrap, since the dannyscribes like us to have proof of everything before speaking, maybe we should say the ALLEGED "prophecies" and "visions".

Duane,

Seriously, I think all of us should view what we saw April 19th as alleged prophecies and visions. Too many fall unquestioningly in line without proof that God is truly behind these goose-bump moments.

> QUOTE(mozart @ May 27 2007, 11:44 PM)
>
> well i guess some of us are just abstract thinkers johann. BTW......."Why is a Raven like a writing desk?"

Mo,

Why is a raven like a writing desk? Well, sometimes they both lay eggs, so to speak.

Posted by: lurker May 28 2007, 09:38 AM

"Some are driven to protect their "image" no matter what the cost."

Isn't that called "pride"?

Posted by: Noahswife May 28 2007, 10:36 AM

> QUOTE(lurker @ May 28 2007, 11:38 AM)
>
> "Some are driven to protect their "image" no matter what the cost."
>
> Isn't that called "pride"?

Scott Peck, MD gives some interesting insight into some who fall in this category in his book People of the Lie . Dr. Peck is known foremost for his NY Times Best Seller, The Road Less Traveled. However, I would recommend the former book for anyone interested......

Posted by: Voktar of Zargon May 28 2007, 11:39 AM

> QUOTE(Noahswife @ May 28 2007, 12:36 PM)
>
> Scott Peck, MD gives some interesting insight into some who fall in this category in his book People of the Lie . Dr. Peck is known foremost for his NY Times Best Seller, The Road Less Travelled. However, I would recommend the former book for anyone interested......

In this book Peck proposes a new psychiatric diagnosis he calls "evil." I agree with his categorization. These types of people are often found in church settings because they are desperately trying to maintain the appearance of righteousness and are unable to deal with their own shamefully evil nature. They often have terribly broken family of origin experiences. I have encountered people who exemplify this diagnosis perfectly. Peck (who also worked with convicted felons as I do) said that sociopaths were far easier to deal with than this personality type. I agree whole heartedly. Ellen White said that the devils best agents are in the church. Those with the diagnosis of "evil" are indeed some of his best agents.
"A predominant characteristic... of the behavior of those I call evil is scapegoating. Because in their hearts they consider themselves above reproach, they must lash out at anyone who does reproach them. They sacrifice others to preserve their self-image of perfection... Scapegoating works through a mechanism psychiatrists call projection. Since the evil, deep down, feel themselves to be faultless, it is inevitable that when they are in conflict with the world they will inevitably perceive the conflict as the world's fault. Since they must deny their own badness, they must perceive others as bad. They project their own evil onto the world. They never think of themselves as evil; on the other hand, they consequently see much evil in others.... Evil, then is most often commited in order to scapegoat, and the people I label as evil are chronic scapegoaters... Strangely enough, evil people are often destructive because they are attempting to destroy evil. The problem is that they misplace the locus of evil. Instead of destroying others they should be destroying the sickness within themselves." - People of the Lie p.73,74

The primary solution that Peck proposes for dealing with this problem is exorcism! Though I agree that in some of these cases there is a demonic element - I cannot endorse Peck's philosophy of, and methodology of exorcism. He presents a syncretistic view of exorcism as being predominately a therapeutic/psychological intervention as opposed to a primarily spiritual intervention. He also thinks it is unecessary for those involved in the exorcism to be Christians. Just my opinion.
I still recommend the book.

Posted by: Noahswife May 28 2007, 12:04 PM

> QUOTE(Voktar of Zargon @ May 28 2007, 12:39 PM) ☐
>
> The primary solution that Peck proposes for dealing with this problem is exorcism! Though I agree that in some of these cases there is a demonic element - I cannot endorse Peck's philosophy of, and methodology of exorcism. He presents a syncretistic view of exorcism as being predominately a therapeutic/psychological intervention as opposed to a primarily spiritual intervention. He also thinks it is unecessary for those involved in the exorcism to be Christians. Just my opinion.
> I still recommend the book.

VoZ.....

I agree totally with your comments regarding Peck's view regarding treatment. I have wondered if in the intervening years his opinion on that has changed at all.

Thanks for supporting my recommendation. Since I began posting here, I have made it several times behind the scenes but have yet had anyone come back and discuss with me whether they agreed or disagreed with the similarities I saw. The longer I am here and the more I have read at save3abn.com the more convinced I have become.

nw
C"i"

Posted by: Rosyroi May 28 2007, 12:06 PM

> QUOTE(steffan @ May 27 2007, 08:33 PM) ☐
>
> Actually the above sentence is the only part of your post that makes any sense. Do you honestly think that AF, DB, GMc, DS and both boards ran to have an emergency merger because DS had a court appearance with LS over marital property? Oh man.....You are really falling off of the deep end with that one.
> You state DS did not know the court date would be changed. His lawyers new that Laird did not have an active license to practice IL law which is the very reason that the court date was changed. If his lawyers knew it, one could assume that DS knew it.
> Then we have your scenerio of trying to mix AF and 3abn into a marital property case. One has nothing to do with the other. I am quite sure AF and DB is not going to do anything rash because of Danny and Linda's property settlement.
> As far as all your speculation here about the merger, how it was announced, what is going on and so > on....Did it ever occur to any of you that both ministries have been too busy with their own meetings and events right now to work any further on details. Or has it occured to you there are things that could happen that might make 3abn have second thoughts about a merger. Your assumptions here are always that maybe AF has changed their mind. You might find out if for any reason the merge doesn't happen, it might be the other side to make that decision. Something to think about since a lot of the speculations by the members here, have been proven wrong time and time again.

have a question Steffan. Since you are 'in the know' I am very much interested in WHY the quick emergency meeting in Colorado. What was the reason for it?

Rosyroi

Posted by: mozart May 28 2007, 01:44 PM

> QUOTE
>
> As far as all your speculation here about the merger, how it was announced, what is going on and so on.... Or has it occured to you there are things that could happen that might make 3abn have second thoughts about a merger. Your assumptions here are always that maybe AF has changed their mind. You might find out if for any reason the merge doesn't happen, it might be the other side to make that decision.

I'd like to point out again that this is a convoluted statement steffan is making. I made no such assumptions or even the vaguest mention of what he is saying here.

> QUOTE(beartrap @ May 28 2007, 01:31 AM)
>
> Actually, I agree with Steffan on this point. Although it seems that AF could have some reasons to back away from this merger and may do so, ever since the merger was announced I have been of the opinion that 3ABN would be the most likely party to withdraw as I believe that 3ABN could have very strong reasons to avoid the likely complications for them that could result from a merger that would involve some of the changes spoken of on the announcement. I have been of the opinion that some of the administration at 3ABN were the party with the most to lose. However, I have wondered how they would accomplish gracefully backing out after the "prophecies" and "visions" that were used as a significant part of the 3ABN side of the announcement.
>
> But then this is all just my opinion.

rofl rofl rofl rofl rofl thanks BT. i needed that.

> QUOTE(beartrap @ May 28 2007, 01:45 AM)
>
> Hmmm... They have both often produced a feeling of dread in the hearts of the superstitious and uneducated? "Nevermore" quoth the Beartrap "nevermore."

Posted by: mozart May 28 2007, 01:58 PM

if we are referring to narcissism, does anyone know if this is considered a born behavior or can it become a learned behavior?

> QUOTE(Noahswife @ May 28 2007, 12:04 PM) ☐
>
> VoZ.....
>
> I agree totally with your comments regarding Peck's view regarding treatment. I have wondered if in the intervening years his opinion on that has changed at all.
>
> Thanks for supporting my recommendation. Since I began posting here, I have made it several times behind the scenes but have yet had anyone come back and discuss with me whether they agreed or disagreed with the similarities I saw. The longer I am here and the more I have read at save3abn.com the more convinced I have become.
>
> nw
> C"i"

Posted by: Voktar of Zargon May 28 2007, 02:53 PM

> QUOTE(mozart @ May 28 2007, 03:58 PM) ☐
>
> if we are referring to narcissism, does anyone know if this is considered a born behavior or can it become a learned behavior?

The great question of nature vs nurture. Inherited propensities or cultivated tendencies. Since self is the root of all evil, all sin is just a variation on that theme. We inherit a selfish nature and we reinforce it through our behavior.

Most convicted felons for instance just have a more exacerbated case of what afflicts us all - often because of bad heredity and environment. Peck describes the "evil" as having an exacerbated case of narcissism called 'malignant'(I believe that all of us are somewhat narcissistic by birth - some more than others according to their heredity). Narcissism can of course be further learned - especially in the formative years.

Peck characterizes "malignant narcissism" as an unsubmitted will.

"In summary, all mentally healthy individuals submit themselves to the demands of their own conscience. Not so with the evil, however. In the conflict between their guilt and their will, it is the guilt that must go and the will that must win. The reader will be struck with the extraordinay willfulness of evil people. They are men and women of obviously strong will, determined to have their own way. There is a remarkable power in the manner in which they attempt to control others." p.78

The great irony is that these types of people will often gravitate toward conservative religious environments that proclaim submission to God as of paramount importance. They present themselves as submitting to God, yet they often have very little if any submission to His will at all.

Posted by: LaurenceD May 28 2007, 04:08 PM

> QUOTE(Voktar of Zargon)
>
> Since self is the root of all evil, all sin is just a variation on that theme. We inherit a selfish nature and we reinforce it through our behavior.

Maybe we should define this confusing term, "self." While we are advised to rid the heart of self, and told self is the greatest enemy we'll have to face, EGW also writes to just be your simple natural self (4T 522). She goes on to warn against self-analysis...thinking too much about yourself, or petting yourself.

Maybe there's a better term since God doesn't touch the personality, only the character.

Posted by: Skyhook May 28 2007, 05:02 PM

> QUOTE(mozart @ May 28 2007, 02:58 PM)
>
> if we are referring to narcissism, does anyone know if this is considered a born behavior or can it become a learned behavior?

It does sound like Peck's description of the evil person is similar to a person with narcissistic personality disorder. It has been years since I read Peck's book but I think what he described was people who were worse that what is usually seen as personality disorder. Such as parents who actually hated thier children and meant them harm.

In general personality disorders are considered to be the result primarily of family pathology. Although there are very severe types that were formerly called "psychopaths," Ted Bundy may be a good example, who, on an interview, or a relatively brief encounter may seem perfectly normal, or even above average, but when a true longitudinal history is obtained, it is clear that they are extremely disturbed and have some behavior characteristics that even seem consistent with some kind of brain impairment. Although they know the difference between right and wrong, they see no need to let that influence thier behavior towards others. They can exploit and injure others with little or no feelings of guilt.
See "The Mask of Sanity" by Hervey Cleckley MD

People with narcissistic personality disorder can often function relatively normally. They can experience rage and depression at the loss of a love relationship. I'm not sure that they actually love in the way we usually define love. What they really want is to be worshipped by thier significant other. They can never get enough of admiration, attention and applause. When they get it they still feel empty.

BTW, narcissim was the sin that led to Satan's fall. "Your heart was lifted up because of your beauty; You corrupted your wisdom by reason of your splendor. I cast you to the ground; I put you before Kings that they may see you. " Ezekiel 28:5

Posted by: Observer May 28 2007, 06:53 PM

> QUOTE(Skyhook @ May 28 2007, 04:02 PM)
>
> It does sound like Peck's description of the evil person is similar to a person with narcissistic personality disorder. It has been years since I read Peck's book but I think what he described was people who were worse that what is usually seen as personality disorder. Such as parents who actually hated thier children and meant them harm.
>
> In general personality disorders are considered to be the result primarily of family pathology. Although there are very severe types that were formerly called "psychopaths," Ted Bundy may be a good example, who, on an interview, or a relatively brief encounter may seem perfectly normal, or even above average, but when a true longitudinal history is obtained, it is clear that they are extremely disturbed and have some behavior characteristics that even seem consistent with some kind of brain impairment. Although they know the difference between right and wrong, they see no need to let that influence thier behavior towards others. They can exploit and injure others with little or no feelings of guilt.
> See "The Mask of Sanity" by Hervey Cleckley MD
>
> People with narcissistic personality disorder can often function relatively normally. They can experience rage and depression at the loss of a love relationship. I'm not sure that they actually love in the way we usually define love. What they really want is to be worshipped by thier significant other. They can never get enough of admiration, attention and applause. When they get it they still feel empty.

> BTW, narcissim was the sin that led to Satan's fall. "Your heart was lifted up because of your beauty; You corrupted your wisdom by reason of your splendor. I cast you to the ground; I put you before Kings that they may see you. " Ezekiel 28:5

ersonality Disorder: "A Personality Disorder is an enduring pattern of inner experience and behavior that eviates markedly from the expectation of the individual's culture, is pervasive and enflexible, and has an nset in adolescience or early adulthood, is stable over time, and leads to distress or impairment." DSM IV, age 629. For a slightly expended defination please see page 630.

n the DSM IV, the personality disorderss are: Paranoid, Schizoid, Schizotypal, Anitisocial, Borderline, istrionic, Narcissistic, Avoidant, Dependent, Obsessive-Complusive and NOS. (To each of the preceding Personality Disorder" is attached to the nomenclature.

OTE: Paranoid Personality Disorder is not the same as Parnoia, or as it is called in the DSM-IV, Delusional isorder.

he generalized defination of Narcissistic Personality Disorder is: " . . . a pervasive pattern of grandiosity, eed for admiration, and lack of empathy that begins by early adulthood and is present in a bariety of ontexts." SM-IV, page 658

OTE: My comments are not intended to diagnose, and they are not intended to apply to anyone. I am simply aking generalized statement for your edification. In addition, to diagnose Narcissistic Personality Disorder, ne would need to apply the criteria listed on page 661 if using the DSM-IV. I have not listed that criteria. For his diagnosis, nine (9) criteria are listed, and it is stated that five (5) are required to be present for a iagnosis. So, one or two criteria is not enough for a diagnosis.

Posted by: steffan May 28 2007, 06:59 PM

> QUOTE(Pickle @ May 28 2007, 09:36 AM)
>
> Steffan, I commend you. I may have missed something earlier, but I was under the impression that Danny's allies were claiming that Laird did not have a license, period, and that they didn't want to admit that he had an inactive license. I see that you are not so biased as to be unable to admit that the issue was whether his license was active or inactive, not whether he had a license or not.
> I heard that Danny spoke to a large group at camp meeting and said a) that they were off the air, b) something about the merger being in doubt, and c) that he wasn't sure that God wanted him to step down.
>
> 1. Do you know if he said these things?
> 2. If so, does that mean that the proposed merger would now require him to step aside entirely, contrary to what his allies previously said the merger would be like?
>
> Now if Danny didn't really say these things, I want to know so that I can make a phone call and tell the person who was there and said that they heard this that they were possibly mistaken regarding what they heard.

etter make the call. Where do you get your sources. In looking back through the months at your many many osts it is amazing how many times your "sources" have steered you wrong.
as well as 1000+ people were there to witness what was said. It wasn't the above.
e said: There are still many details to be worked out as far as the merger.
ven if he gives Doug the president title, He has no intention or desire to step aside IN ANY KIND OF WAY.
is comment was simply that he wants to follow whatever the Lord has in store for 3abn.

NO HOW, NO WAY does the merger require him to step aside. There has not been a merge yet nor has the combined board been chosen. Therefore, how could anything be required?
Even though beartrap, in agreeing with me, is trying to insinuate 3abn might not merge because they couldn't control things they way they want to, that also is fantasy. There could be other circumstances come into play that have nothing to do with Doug, AF, Linda, You or Joy. I know it will probably come as a shock but 3abn does not base it's ministry decisions on you or your little group. They will base their decisions on what is best to reach a world wide mission field.
And please, get some new sources.

Posted by: SoulEspresso May 28 2007, 07:24 PM

> QUOTE(steffan @ May 28 2007, 05:59 PM)
>
> He said: There are still many details to be worked out as far as the merger.
>
> ...
>
> There has not been a merge yet nor has the combined board been chosen.

Um ... is there or isn't there?

Posted by: Pickle May 28 2007, 10:01 PM

Steffan,

I hear that there are many, many people high and low that are convinced that Danny needs to step aside for the good of the ministry of 3ABN. Maybe it's only a little group that think otherwise.

Look at it this way: Linda allegedly committed long-distance adultery over telephone wires, and it was crystal clear to someone somewhere that she needed to step aside, whether she wanted to or not.

- Danny divorced his wife without knowing whether she had committed fornication or not.
- Danny told Walt Thompson the Tommy Shelton child molestation allegations were 30 years old when they weren't.
- Danny let Walt believe that the Tommy Shelton child molestation allegations were all due to a feud between Dryden and Tommy when they weren't.
- On Feb. 15, 2007, Danny claimed ASI was willing to hear any accusation and complaint when they weren't.
- On April 22 Danny stated that they had filed a lawsuit against two people to begin. Yet he had never made any attempt to first use church-based mediation as commanded by God in Scripture, and had thwarted and spurned our attempts to do so.
- "Let these men know that God does not hear their prayers" (3SM 299). Is 3ABN now headed by a man whose prayers aren't heard by God because he filed a lawsuit without first trying to use church-based mediation?
- In early December Danny claimed to me that lots of money rolling in was proof that God was pleased with his course. Is the money still rolling in? If not, by Danny's own logic, doesn't God want him to step aside?

Thanks for letting me know that my source got it wrong, at least in part.

> QUOTE(steffan @ May 28 2007, 06:59 PM)
>
> Better make the call. Where do you get your sources. In looking back through the months at your many > many posts it is amazing how many times your "sources" have steered you wrong.

> I as well as 1000+ people were there to witness what was said. It wasn't the above.
> He said: There are still many details to be worked out as far as the merger.
> Even if he gives Doug the president title, He has no intention or desire to step aside IN ANY KIND OF WAY.
> His comment was simply that he wants to follow whatever the Lord has in store for 3abn.
> NO HOW, NO WAY does the merger require him to step aside. There has not been a merge yet nor has the combined board been chosen. Therefore, how could anything be required?
> Even though beartrap, in agreeing with me, is trying to insinuate 3abn might not merge because they couldn't control things they way they want to, that also is fantasy. There could be other circumstances come into play that have nothing to do with Doug, AF, Linda, You or Joy. I know it will probably come as a shock but 3abn does not base it's ministry decisions on you or your little group. They will base their decisions on what is best to reach a world wide mission field.
> And please, get some new sources.

Posted by: mozart May 29 2007, 12:26 AM

> QUOTE(Skyhook @ May 28 2007, 04:02 PM)
>
> BTW, narcissim was the sin that led to Satan's fall. "Your heart was lifted up because of your beauty; You corrupted your wisdom by reason of your splendor. I cast you to the ground; I put you before Kings that they may see you. " Ezekiel 28:5

'ery interesting thought.

Posted by: Shepherdswife May 29 2007, 05:14 PM

> QUOTE(Noahswife @ May 28 2007, 12:36 PM)
>
> Scott Peck, MD gives some interesting insight into some who fall in this category in his book People of the Lie . Dr. Peck is known foremost for his NY Times Best Seller, The Road Less Traveled. However, I would recommend the former book for anyone interested......

agree you, NW--great book! I read it years ago and it helped me understand a few people I have had lealings with in a way that nothing else had.

;hepherdswife

Posted by: mozart May 29 2007, 09:50 PM

that's skeery.
eeeek

> QUOTE(Shepherdswife @ May 29 2007, 05:14 PM)
>
> I agree you, NW--great book! I read it years ago and it helped me understand a few people I have had > dealings with in a way that nothing else had.

>
> shepherdswife

Posted by: Noahswife Jun 1 2007, 10:21 AM

Todays update in this series of posts........

From: Jim Pedersen
Sent: Thursday, May 31, 2007 7:27 PM
Subject: Re: AF/3ABN merger

Hello, as of today the proposed merger is still proceeding with the investigative stage of the discussions. Nothing is currently on hold.

Best wishes,
Jim Pedersen

****

Hi Jim,

I heard from a friend just a little bit ago that the AF/3abn merger was either not going to happen or was on hold. Is this just gossip? If so, what is the status of the merger at this time?

I have passed on our dialogue to a number of others and have received much positive response. They were happy to read that you and the AF Board are proceeding carefully and prayerfully.

Blessings,

(added by nw)

Posted by: lurker Jun 1 2007, 11:36 AM

Amazing Facts would be very remiss if they do not make 3ABN prove that they are following US Tax Law regarding self dealing by officers and their relatives now before proceeding any further.

Posted by: Noahswife Jun 1 2007, 12:26 PM

> QUOTE(lurker @ Jun 1 2007, 01:36 PM) ☐
>
> Amazing Facts would be very remiss if they do not make 3ABN prove that they are following US Tax Law regarding self dealing by officers and their relatives now before proceeding any further.

Lurker

Maybe our ghost writer will cut and paste some more quotes to Elder Pedersen in the next email to him.

So people post the questions you would like asked of him or PM them to me to refer on.

nw

Posted by: awesumtenor Jun 1 2007, 05:55 PM

> QUOTE(Observer @ May 28 2007, 08:53 PM)
>
> Personality Disorder: "A Personality Disorder is an enduring pattern of inner experience and behavior that deviates markedly from the expectation of the individual's culture, is pervasive and enflexible, and has an onset in adolescence or early adulthood, is stable over time, and leads to distress or impairment." DSM IV, page 629. For a slightly expended defination please see page 630.
>
> In the DSM IV, the personality disorderss are: Paranoid, Schizoid, Schizotypal, Anitisocial, Borderline, Histrionic, Narcissistic, Avoidant, Dependent, Obsessive-Complusive and NOS. (To each of the preceding "Personality Disorder" is attached to the nomenclature.
> NOTE: Paranoid Personality Disorder is not the same as Parnoia, or as it is called in the DSM-IV, Delusional Disorder.
>
> The generalized defination of Narcissistic Personality Disorder is: " . . . a pervasive pattern of grandiosity, need for admiration, and lack of empathy that begins by early adulthood and is present in a bariety of contexts." SM-IV, page 658
>
> NOTE: My comments are not intended to diagnose, and they are not intended to apply to anyone. I am simply making generalized statement for your edification. In addition, to diagnose Narcissistic Personality Disorder, one would need to apply the criteria listed on page 661 if using the DSM-IV. I have not listed that criteria. For this diagnosis, nine (9) criteria are listed, and it is stated that five (5) are required to be present for a diagnosis. So, one or two criteria is not enough for a diagnosis.

The aforementioned nine criteria for Narcissistic Personality Disorder are as follows:

> QUOTE
>
> A pervasive pattern of grandiosity (in fantasy or behavior), need for admiration, and lack of empathy, beginning by early adulthood and present in a variety of contexts, as indicated by five (or more) of the following:
>
> (1) has a grandiose sense of self-importance (e.g., exaggerates achievements and talents, expects to be recognized as superior without commensurate achievements)
>
> (2) is preoccupied with fantasies of unlimited success, power, brilliance, beauty, or ideal love
>
> (3) believes that he or she is "special" and unique and can only be understood by, or should associate with, other special or high-status people (or institutions)
>
> (4) requires excessive admiration
>
> (5) has a sense of entitlement, i.e., unreasonable expectations of especially favorable treatment or automatic compliance with his or her expectations
>
> (6) is interpersonally exploitative, i.e., takes advantage of others to achieve his or her own ends
>
> (7) lacks empathy: is unwilling to recognize or identify with the feelings and needs of others
>
> (8) is often envious of others or believes that others are envious of him or her
>
> (9) shows arrogant, haughty behaviors or attitudes

There are a couple of other personality disorders that may in play as well... consider the criteria for diagnosing antisocial personality disorder:

> QUOTE
>
> A. There is a pervasive pattern of disregard for and violation of the rights of others occurring since age 15 years, as indicated by three (or more) of the following:
>
> (1) failure to conform to social norms with respect to lawful behaviors as indicated by repeatedly performing acts that are grounds for arrest
> (2) deceitfulness, as indicated by repeated lying, use of aliases, or conning others for personal profit or pleasure
> (3) impulsivity or failure to plan ahead
> (4) irritability and aggressiveness, as indicated by repeated physical fights or assaults
> (5) reckless disregard for safety of self or others
> (6) consistent irresponsibility, as indicated by repeated failure to sustain consistent work behavior or honor financial obligations
> (7) lack of remorse, as indicated by being indifferent to or rationalizing having hurt, mistreated, or stolen from another
>
> B. The individual is at least age 18 years.
>
> C. There is evidence of Conduct Disorder with onset before age 15 years.
>
> D. The occurrence of antisocial behavior is not exclusively during the course of Schizophrenia or a Manic Episode.

There is also paranoid personality disorder:

> QUOTE
>
> A. A pervasive distrust and suspiciousness of others such that their motives are interpreted as malevolent, beginning by early adulthood and present in a variety of contexts, as indicated by four (or more) of the following:
>
> (1) suspects, without sufficient basis, that others are exploiting, harming, or deceiving him or her
> (2) is preoccupied with unjustified doubts about the loyalty or trustworthiness of friends or associates
> (3) is reluctant to confide in others because of unwarranted fear that the information will be used maliciously against him or her
> (4) reads hidden demeaning or threatening meanings into benign remarks or events
> (5) persistently bears grudges, i.e., is unforgiving of insults, injuries, or slights
> (6) perceives attacks on his or her character or reputation that are not apparent to others and is quick to react angrily or to counterattack
> (7) has recurrent suspicions, without justification, regarding fidelity of spouse or sexual partner
>
> B. Does not occur exclusively during the course of Schizophrenia, a Mood Disorder With Psychotic Features, or another Psychotic Disorder and is not due to the direct physiological effects of a general medical condition.

It is not a reach to say that many of these criteria, for all 3 disorders, have been met in the words and deeds of one Danny Shelton...

In His service,
Mr. J

Posted by: Snoopy Jun 3 2007, 04:18 PM

> QUOTE(watchbird @ May 27 2007, 09:40 PM)
>
> And as for Johann lasting under crossexamination... I think he would do right well, and not only that, but would be able to lead the examiners into asking just the questions that would give him opportunity to give the answers which he would love to have the judge hear.

I totally agree, WB. Plus, from what I have observed, he would do it in such a way as to bring glory to God in the process!!!!

> QUOTE(Fran @ May 27 2007, 11:32 PM)
>
> How about that! I succeeded in saying ABSOLUTELY NOTHING WORTH WHILE!

I disagree, Fran.

I always find a great deal of good information and well thought perspective in your posts...

Posted by: Snoopy Jun 3 2007, 04:30 PM

> QUOTE(SoulEspresso @ May 27 2007, 11:51 PM)
>
> But in competent organizations, the kinds of things that would hold back a merger would be taken care of before said merger was announced publicly on international television. And events that might distract from such a well-planned business deal might be toned down.
> 3ABN has a lot more to lose if it falls through. AF had a lot of credibility with people who were beginning to have doubts, and I'm guessing when the merger announcement was rushed without AF even convening their board (correct me if I'm wrong!), their credibility began to suffer. I don't think they'd want that to continue.

Excellent points, SE. I totally agree. Makes me wonder if Mr. McNeilus has considered the possibility of directing some of his wealth toward a good public relations firm for 3ABN.
....

Posted by: mozart Jun 3 2007, 04:34 PM

good point but terrrible idea my dear snoopdog. i hope not. Jesus should be the PR man for 3ABN.

> QUOTE(Snoopy @ Jun 3 2007, 03:30 PM)
>
> Excellent points, SE. I totally agree. Makes me wonder if Mr. McNeilus has considered the possibility of directing some of his wealth toward a good public relations firm for 3ABN.
> ....

Posted by: Snoopy Jun 3 2007, 05:21 PM

> QUOTE(mozart @ Jun 3 2007, 05:34 PM)
>
> good point but terrrible idea my dear snoopdog. i hope not. Jesus should be the PR man for 3ABN.

You are SO right.....Jesus SHOULD BE the PR Man. But from this whole 3ABN mess and now the merger fiasco announcement, it appears that somebody forgot to consult Him. It would be one thing if it had been announced as "a proposed merger", or "we are exploring the possibilities of a merger" but no - it's "a merger" before it's even approved!

Besides, my dear friend Mo I was being a bit facetitious...!!! ....

hug.gif

Posted by: mozart Jun 3 2007, 07:31 PM

i know ya were but i just had to put a word in for our precious Savior and our own best PR man.

we love you Jesus. Please help us out here and please help 3ABN get it right.

thanks Lord.

> QUOTE(Snoopy @ Jun 3 2007, 05:21 PM)
>

> You are SO right.....Jesus SHOULD BE the PR Man. But from this whole 3ABN mess and now the merger fiasco announcement, it appears that somebody forgot to consult Him. It would be one thing if it had been announced as "a proposed merger", or "we are exploring the possibilities of a merger" but no - it's "a merger" before it's even approved!
>
> Besides, my dear friend Mo I was being a bit facetitious...!!! ....
>
> hug.gif

Posted by: Snoopy Jun 3 2007, 11:17 PM

> QUOTE(mozart @ Jun 3 2007, 07:31 PM)
>
> i know ya were but i just had to put a word in for our precious Savior and our own best PR man.
>
> we love you Jesus. Please help us out here and please help 3ABN get it right.
>
> thanks Lord.

And p.s. Lord. As is my daily plea, please don't give up on me, Lord Jesus. I DO love You!! Please show me what I can do to be of service to You in this mess.

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Jun 4 2007, 11:30 AM

> QUOTE(Noahswife @ Jun 1 2007, 11:26 AM)
>
> Lurker h
>
> Maybe our ghost writer will cut and paste some more quotes to Elder Pedersen in the next email to him.
>
> So people post the questions you would like asked of him or PM them to me to refer on.
>
> nw

NW,

What a great idea!

I'd like to know his reaction to the email Sonshineonme posted from Victoria Australia Conference President Dennis Hankinson regarding the GC dropping 3abn status from "supporting ministry" until issues are settled.

Edited post due to my using "AUC" (Australian Union Conference) which could be confused with Atlantic Union College - Thank you Yoogali, for the heads up!

Posted by: joyce Jun 4 2007, 03:01 PM

> QUOTE(PeacefullyBewildered @ Jun 4 2007, 09:30 AM)
>
> NW,
>
> What a great idea!
>
> I'd like to know his reaction to the email Sonshineonme posted from AUC President Dennis Hankinson regarding the AUC dropping 3abn status from "supporting ministry" until issues are settled.

A little correction. Denis Hankinson is the president of the Victoria Conference in Australia. The resolution suspending 3abn as an SDA supporting ministry, due to more than one issue of concern, came from the General Conference. The memo regarding the issue was sent to all the pastors in that conference.

Joyce

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Jun 4 2007, 03:28 PM

> QUOTE(joyce @ Jun 4 2007, 02:01 PM)
>
> A little correction. Denis Hankinson is the president of the Victoria Conference in Australia. The resolution suspending 3abn as an SDA supporting ministry, due to more than one issue of concern, came from the General Conference. The memo regarding the issue was sent to all the pastors in that conference.
>
> Joyce

Joyce,

Thanks for the correction! The way I read the email was that the suspension was the result of an action by the committee that he is a member of. Looking at it from what you posted, I now see that he was probably pasting in a report from the GC!

Posted by: princessdi Jun 4 2007, 03:39 PM

So was the memo to only that conference in Australia?

Posted by: SoulEspresso Jun 4 2007, 04:25 PM

> QUOTE(princessdi @ Jun 4 2007, 02:39 PM)
>
> So was the memo to only that conference in Australia?

We haven't got it in ours yet.

Keep in mind that Australia is the most liberal sector in the whole denomination. They're to the world church like California is to the NAD.

What I mean is, a conservative outfit like 3ABN is less likely to have the broad base of support in Australia than they do here. I don't know this, but I suspect it's why it came out there first. Here, we have to be, uh ... diplomatic.

Posted by: sonshineonme Jun 4 2007, 04:28 PM

> QUOTE(SoulEspresso @ Jun 4 2007, 03:25 PM)
>
> We haven't got it in ours yet.
>
> Keep in mind that Australia is the most liberal sector in the whole denomination. They're to the world church like California is to the NAD.
>
> What I mean is, a conservative outfit like 3ABN is less likely to have the broad base of support in Australia than they do here. I don't know this, but I suspect it's why it came out there first. Here, we have to be, uh ... diplomatic.

Ohhhh, is that what it's called!? I see, I got it now.

Posted by: princessdi Jun 4 2007, 04:35 PM

LOL!! But I don't understand why. Most people, Adventist, watch, contribute to, support 3ABN because it is sanctioned by GC. They preach the SDA doctrine, they are usually exclusively televising SDA major events. I am not really understanding why GC is hesitant in retracting their support, if 3ABN is not living up to their part of the bargain.

Oh yeah, and I got that about Cali, too! Errybody else is just slow! LOL!!!

> QUOTE(SoulEspresso @ Jun 4 2007, 02:25 PM)
>
> We haven't got it in ours yet.
>
> Keep in mind that Australia is the most liberal sector in the whole denomination. They're to the world church like California is to the NAD.
>
> What I mean is, a conservative outfit like 3ABN is less likely to have the broad base of support in Australia than they do here. I don't know this, but I suspect it's why it came out there first. Here, we have to be, uh ... diplomatic.

Posted by: SoulEspresso Jun 4 2007, 04:52 PM

> QUOTE(princessdi @ Jun 4 2007, 03:35 PM)
>
> LOL!! But I don't understand why. Most people, Adventist, watch, contribute to, support 3ABN because it is sanctioned by GC. They preach the SDA doctrine, they are usually exclusively televising SDA major > events. I am not really understanding why GC is hesitant in retracting their support, if 3ABN is not living up to their part of the bargain.

Vell, think about it. How many people just luuuuvvvv the General Conference or the North American Division eaders? They suffer from the suspicion most Adventists have of authority figures (I think that has something o do with how we make Adventists, for one thing), they don't have a lot of credibility because nobody knows vho they are or recognizes their faces. On the other side are Danny & Co who have their own satellite hannels and are in many Adventist homes every week; viewers feel they "know" them.

find this thread very hopeful, but perhaps we could send some encouraging messages to the GC and NAD eaders saying, "Hey, we know what a difficult situation you're in, and we're praying you have the wisdom to now how to say what needs to be said."

> QUOTE
>
> Oh yeah, and I got that about Cali, too! Errybody else is just slow! LOL!!!

☒ ofl My seminary friends sponsored by the CA conferences used to joke that if they got higher than a "C" n their EGW classes, they'd be dropped and have to find another job. (And if anyone here has been there esides me, you know how hard it is to actually get a grade that low in seminary...)

Posted by: mozart Jun 4 2007, 04:57 PM

> QUOTE(SoulEspresso @ Jun 4 2007, 04:52 PM) ☐
>
> Well, think about it. How many people just luuuuvvvv the General Conference or the North American Division leaders? They suffer from the suspicion most Adventists have of authority figures (I think that has something to do with how we make Adventists, for one thing), they don't have a lot of credibility because nobody knows who they are or recognizes their faces. On the other side are Danny & Co who have their own satellite channels and are in many Adventist homes every week; viewers feel they "know" them.
>
> I find this thread very hopeful, but perhaps we could send some encouraging messages to the GC and NAD leaders saying, "Hey, we know what a difficult situation you're in, and we're praying you have the wisdom to know how to say what needs to be said." And do what needs to be done.
>
> ☒ ofl My seminary friends sponsored by the CA conferences used to joke that if they got higher than a "C" in their EGW classes, they'd be dropped and have to find another job. (And if anyone here has been there besides me, you know how hard it is to actually get a grade that low in seminary...)

HMMMMMM...... ☒

Posted by: watchbird Jun 27 2007, 06:06 AM

☒ bum

With all the talk of the merger... and of writing to Amazing Facts.... in another thread, it is time to bump this one up to the top again. I would be well for all to review the early posts of this thread... and for those who are wanting to make their voice heard, note especially beginning with post #8, where one can find the correspondence with the Chairman of the Board of AF.

Printable Version of Topic

Click here to view this topic in its original format

BlackSDA _ 3ABN _ 3abn World Magazine Logo Change Again

Posted by: maggiecttr Jun 26 2007, 06:18 AM

Just a quick piece of info...Yesterday, I received the latest copy of 3ABN World magazine (the digest-size publication), and I see its logo is back to normal (3ABN). The prior issue's logo had been redesigned to 3ABN/Amazing Facts. I guess the editors had jumped the gun when putting out that issue?

Maggie C.

Posted by: LaurenceD Jun 26 2007, 06:37 AM

You know they so want it to be. The joint image could help them through troubling times.

I remember the night of the great announcement...DS asked DB if this merger didn't deserve one of his famous backward hand-springs. Doug declined Danny's wild and zany invitation. I'll bet it was fun for DB to try and convince the other this shouldn't all be for show.

Posted by: Pickle Jun 26 2007, 02:32 PM

Gailon has already told the other side that because of the purported letter of intent to merge, that A-Facts needs to be represented in the Rule 26(f) conference that is coming up, whatever that is.

And he also said that since ASI Missions, Inc. board was invited to be the new constituency, they need to be represented too.

Posted by: Grith Jun 26 2007, 03:37 PM

> QUOTE(Pickle @ Jun 26 2007, 03:32 PM)
>
> Gailon has already told the other side that because of the purported letter of intent to merge, that A-Facts needs to be represented in the Rule 26(f) conference that is coming up, whatever that is.
>
> And he also said that since ASI Missions, Inc. board was invited to be the new constituency, they need to be represented too.

I'm have little interest in law, know little legalese, but was curious about that conference, so I looked it up. It appears it is quite significant. I copied this from a site about Montana law, but from my search, it appears to be about the same in all states.

> QUOTE
>
> Rule 26(f). Discovery conference. At any time after commencement of an action the court may direct the attorneys for the parties to appear before it for a conference on the subject of discovery. The court shall do so upon motion by the attorney for any party if the motion includes:
>
> (1) A statement of the issues as they then appear;
> (2) A proposed plan and schedule of discovery;
> (3) Any limitations proposed to be placed on discovery;
> (4) Any other proposed orders with respect to discovery; and > (5) A statement showing that the attorney making the motion has made a reasonable effort to reach > agreement with opposing attorneys on the matters set forth in the motion. Each party and each party's attorney are under a duty to participate in good faith in the framing of a discovery plan if a plan is proposed by the attorney for any party. Notice of the motion shall be served on all parties. Objections or additions to matters set forth in the motion shall be served not later than 10 days after service of the motion.

>
> Following the discovery conference, the court shall enter an order tentatively identifying the issues for discovery purposes, establishing a plan and schedule for discovery, setting limitations on discovery, if any; and determining such other matters, including the allocation of expenses, as are necessary for the proper management of discovery in the action. An order may be altered or amended whenever justice so requires.
>
> Subject to the right of a party who properly moves for a discovery conference to prompt convening of the conference, the court may combine the discovery conference with a pretrial conference authorized by Rule 16.

What is discovery? Well, I had to look that up to.

> QUOTE
>
> Formal Discovery
>
> Formal discovery has several aspects, including asking and responding to questions known as interrogatories, seeking and turning over documents related to the action, asking the other side to admit to certain facts, and taking depositions. Depositions are formal question-and-answer proceedings that are taken down by a court reporter, and often a videographer, for use later at trial. Toward the middle portion of formal discovery, depositions are taken of percipient witnesses—those witnesses who have knowledge or have perceived something related to the incident. Toward the end of formal discovery, depositions of experts occur. These are witnesses hired by one side or another to provide opinion testimony on subjects like medicine, accident reconstruction, safety, design, and other areas.
>
> The formal discovery process in a case can last quite some time. Depending upon the complexity of a case, formal discovery can last from three months to several years. Once the parties have completed discovery and gathered the evidence they need to prepare their prosecution and defense, the case proceeds towards trial.
>
> The formal discovery period is also the time where parties can make certain types of motions—formal requests that the court take a specific action. These motions include requests that one side or the other respond to specific questions, such as a motion to compel, or they can be motions that seek an end to the lawsuit without trial, such as a motion for summary judgment. While rare, sometimes a court will grant a motion for summary judgment for a defendant, which will functionally end the case against that particular defendant.

am guessing this will be the phase coming up next in the lawsuit, the conference and then the discovery. It ooks like, from what Bob has posted, that AF and ASI are going to be drawn into it.

Posted by: lurker Jun 26 2007, 04:56 PM

I found some interesting references to e discovery on pages 2, 3 and 4 of the following in regard to the Rule 26(f) conference . http://tinyurl.com/32rcka One of the references refered to an Illinois case.

Posted by: mikell Jun 26 2007, 05:20 PM

> QUOTE(Grith @ Jun 26 2007, 03:37 PM) ☐
>
> What is discovery? Well, I had to look that up to. I am guessing this will be the phase coming up next in the lawsuit, the conference and then the discovery. It looks like, from what Bob has posted, that AF and ASI are going to be drawn into it.

Can that really be true? AF being drawn into it? What does the, "Intent to merge, that A-Facts needs to be represented in the Rule 26(f)" has to do with the original lawsuit? Something with discovery? I don't see the bridge. If that is true, one would think db for sure will back away from 3ABN and to forget the merge. Why get muddy up with this?
PS. Grith, love your Bible verse,

Posted by: Observer Jun 26 2007, 09:16 PM

> QUOTE(mikell @ Jun 26 2007, 04:20 PM)
>
> Can that really be true? AF being drawn into it? What does the, "Intent to merge, that A-Facts needs to be represented in the Rule 26(f)" has to do with the original lawsuit? Something with discovery? I don't see the bridge. If that is true, one would think db for sure will back away from 3ABN and to forget the merge. Why get muddy up with this?
> PS. Grith, love your Bible verse,

The original complaint that began this litigation has been described by competent individuals as a so-called shot-gun blast, the is all over the map. It branches out from trademark and copy right isseus to issues of sexual misconduct with at least one named person, and from there it brings Molly into the picture with charges of financial misconduct. Mind you the complaint was filed by lawyers representing 3-ABN and Danny Shelton. This complaint reminds me of mile long fish nets that ocean fishermen use to catch fish sweeping the bottom clean.

The complexities that have been introduced here are such that it is quite possible that ASI and AF will need to be part of the discovery process.

My My! And if the complaint had only related to trademark and copyright issues, it would have been a narrowly focused trial.

Now it is all over the map.

Well, that is exactly where it needs to be. So, thank you 3-ABN lawyers for putting it there.

Posted by: roxe Jun 26 2007, 10:39 PM

"Now it is all over the map."

yes, praise God! we've prayed long enuf for this to happen...

the darkness will be changed to light.

Posted by: mikell Jun 27 2007, 01:42 AM

> QUOTE(Observer @ Jun 26 2007, 09:16 PM)
>
> The original complaint that began this litigation has been described by competent individuals as a so-called shot-gun blast, the is all over the map. It branches out from trademark and copy right isseus to issues of sexual misconduct with at least one named person, and from there it brings Molly into the picture with > charges of financial misconduct. Mind you the complaint was filed by lawyers representing 3-ABN and Danny Shelton. This complaint reminds me of mile long fish nets that ocean fishermen use to catch fish sweeping the bottom clean.

>
> The complexities that have been introduced here are such that it is quite possible that ASI and AF will need to be part of the discovery process.
>
> My My! And if the complaint had only related to trademark and copyright issues, it would have been a narrowly focused trial.
>
> Now it is all over the map.
>
> Well, that is exactly where it needs to be. So, thank you 3-ABN lawyers for putting it there.

hank you for explaining it, and I concur, yes thank you 3ABN lawyers. If someone sues me, I will make sure hat they HIRE YOU GUYS !

Printable Version of Topic

Click here to view this topic in its original format

BlackSDA _ 3ABN _ Definition Of Molestation

Posted by: PrincessDrRe Mar 20 2007, 09:16 PM

I just wanted it known that sexual molestation of a child can be defined as sex (penetration/rape/coercion), fondling ("feeling on"), or forced viewing of sexual material (pornongraphy) or sexual acts (voyeruism).

http://dictionary.reference.com/browse/molestation<<<---Click Here!!!

http://dictionary.reference.com/browse/fondling<<<---Click Here!!!

http://dictionary.reference.com/browse/rape<<<---Click Here!!!

http://dictionary.reference.com/browse/coercion<<<---Click Here!!!

http://dictionary.reference.com/search?r=2&q=voyeurism<<<---Click Here!!!

http://www.rainn.org/<<<---Click Here!!!

I'm adding this because some folks seem to think that "sex" is just about penetration.....

Molestation is just about penetration.....

It's so much more than that..... that is all....

Posted by: LadyTenor Mar 21 2007, 09:04 AM

I agree...and this is true also from a legal sense...if anyone wants links to statutes that corroborate this point of view, feel free to ask.....

Posted by: Clay Mar 22 2007, 09:21 AM

I suspect Re' that if those who believe Tommy has done no wrong agree to the definitions you have linked, then it makes the position they hold a bit more tenuous.... but that's just me....

Posted by: PrincessDrRe Mar 22 2007, 07:05 PM

> QUOTE(Clay @ Mar 22 2007, 10:21 AM)
>
> I suspect Re' that if those who believe Tommy has done no wrong agree to the definitions you have linked, then it makes the position they hold a bit more tenuous.... but that's just me....

....and if they can see/read/agree with these dictionary based definitons....and still see Tommy Shelton as "innocent".....then I say with all worth:

They should not have children or have children in their care.

Why?

Reread all definitions and let that merinate....

☒ sn

When I said "have children" I ment:

GIVE BIRTH, ADOPT, OR FOSTER PARENT

Jes wanted to make that crystal clear....

☒ sn yet some more....

Posted by: seraph|m Mar 22 2007, 10:52 PM

Mercy ☐

Posted by: PrincessDrRe Mar 30 2007, 04:05 PM

Bump....unless I can get it pinned? ☐

Posted by: Clay Mar 30 2007, 05:46 PM

> QUOTE(PrincessDrRe @ Mar 30 2007, 05:05 PM) ☐
>
> Bump....unless I can get it pinned? ☐

naw... not this one...

Posted by: seraph|m Apr 2 2007, 05:45 PM

> QUOTE(PrincessDrRe @ Mar 20 2007, 10:16 PM) ☐
>
> I just wanted it known that sexual molestation of a child can be defined as sex (penetration/rape/coercion), fondling ("feeling on"), or forced viewing of sexual material (pornongraphy) or sexual acts (voyeruism).
>
> http://dictionary.reference.com/browse/molestation<<<---Click Here!!!
>
> http://dictionary.reference.com/browse/fondling<<<---Click Here!!!
>
> http://dictionary.reference.com/browse/rape<<<---Click Here!!!
>
> http://dictionary.reference.com/browse/coercion<<<---Click Here!!!
>
> http://dictionary.reference.com/search?r=2&q=voyeurism<<<---Click Here!!!
>
> http://www.rainn.org/<<<---Click Here!!!

> I'm adding this because some folks seem to think that "sex" is just about penetration.....
>
> Molestation is just about penetration.....
>
> It's so much more than that..... that is all....

Thanks DrRe. It has been said, knowledge is power. Let us pray that the knowledge above becomes empowering. ☒

Posted by: PrincessDrRe Apr 2 2007, 09:28 PM

No press Clay... I'll jes keep "bumpin" it every now and then so that folks don't forget the definitions.

I got reminded today on a intake of a new client.... ☒ s 8 years old....and it was her Grandfather.....

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Apr 2 2007, 09:47 PM

> QUOTE(PrincessDrRe @ Apr 2 2007, 07:28 PM) ☐
>
> No press Clay... I'll jes keep "bumpin" it every now and then so that folks don't forget the definitions.
>
> I got reminded today on a intake of a new client.... ☒ s 8 years old....and it was her Grandfather.....

How the Savior's heart must break...

Sad.

Posted by: seraph|m Apr 2 2007, 09:56 PM

> QUOTE(PeacefullyBewildered @ Apr 2 2007, 10:47 PM) ☐
>
> How the Savior's heart must break...
>
> Sad.

Sad and sick... ☐

Posted by: mozart Apr 4 2007, 05:54 PM

> QUOTE(seraph|m @ Apr 2 2007, 05:45 PM) ☐
>
> Thanks DrRe. It has been said, knowledge is power. Let us pray that the knowledge above becomes empowering. ☒ some words come to mind. perversion & betrayal. the damage to a person, a child, is lifelong. they feel degraded & debased. i believe that it affects the development of their entire personality. it changes who they are versus who they could have been. i'm not saying that being this kind of victim paralyzes you forever, but it makes negative changes in who you are that are forever. this will probably freak a lot of you out, but.................I beleive in castration. there i said it & i mean that. even tho' they say rape is not about sex, that it's about power and control, i don't give a hoot. i think castration would scare guys a lot more than jail. i'd bet on that.

i'm sure some folks might want to hang me from the highest tree for saying that but so be it. i'll bet that everyone here knows someone this has happened to. multiply those times 10 and that's probably how many never even tell.

it's so sick and so sad. if it has not affected you personally, you have no clue what it does to a person.

i am a peaceful person but this is the # 1 subject where i feel rage.

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Apr 4 2007, 08:26 PM

QUOTE(mozart @ Apr 4 2007, 04:54 PM)

> some words come to mind. perversion & betrayal. the damage to a person, a child, is lifelong. they feel degraded & debased. i believe that it affects the development of their entire personality. it changes who they are versus who they could have been. i'm not saying that being this kind of victim paralyzes you forever, but it makes negative changes in who you are that are forever. this will probably freak a lot of you out, but.................I beleive in castration. there i said it & i mean that. even tho' they say rape is not about sex, that it's about power and control, i don't give a hoot. i think castration would scare guys a lot more than jail. i'd bet on that.
>
> i'm sure some folks might want to hang me from the highest tree for saying that but so be it. i'll bet that everyone here knows someone this has happened to. multiply those times 10 and that's probably how many never even tell.
>
> it's so sick and so sad. if it has not affected you personally, you have no clue what it does to a person.
>
> i am a peaceful person but this is the # 1 subject where i feel rage.

mozart,
you are expressing an emotion that is very normal when faced with this subject. Unfortunately, I can tell that even you know castration is not the solution to deactivating a sexual predator. Their tool of destruction lies much higher on their body - behind their eyes. The only sure way of keeping them from their predatory ways is, first of all, identifying them and second, complete separation from potential victims

There was a time in my life that I used to imagine all kinds of lengthy, lingering, torturous deaths to those who had victimized me, other family members and children anywhere. Then, I gave as much of my damage as I could to the only One who can truly heal. I know He will deal with each predator as they deserve. I also know that He longs for each of those twisted souls to turn their lives over to Him and be saved.

I know without a doubt that I was forever changed by the victimization I lived through as a child. But I was not destroyed. As a survivor I now have been able to turn my experience from a scar into a gift. While I would love to have gone through childhood without the pain, I can now give thanks for even that and use the experience and my journey out of it to the glory of God.
PB

Posted by: Skyhook Apr 4 2007, 10:27 PM

I think Mozart has a point. The fear of castration would be much more disturbing than the fear of jail.

Whether fear is a deterrent or not I guess is debatable.

Posted by: nice&smooth Apr 5 2007, 12:32 AM

Morbib at least to me! But please continue looks like you guys will wear this one out!

Posted by: mozart Apr 5 2007, 12:36 AM

> QUOTE(PeacefullyBewildered @ Apr 4 2007, 07:26 PM)
>
> mozart,
> you are expressing an emotion that is very normal when faced with this subject. Unfortunately, I can tell that even you know castration is not the solution to deactivating a sexual predator. Their tool of destruction lies much higher on their body - behind their eyes. The only sure way of keeping them from their predatory ways is, first of all, identifying them and second, complete separation from potential victims
>
> There was a time in my life that I used to imagine all kinds of lengthy, lingering, torturous deaths to those who had victimized me, other family members and children anywhere. Then, I gave as much of my damage as I could to the only One who can truly heal. I know He will deal with each predator as they deserve. I also know that He longs for each of those twisted souls to turn their lives over to Him and be saved.
>
> I know without a doubt that I was forever changed by the victimization I lived through as a child. But I was not destroyed. As a survivor I now have been able to turn my experience from a scar into a gift. While I would love to have gone through childhood without the pain, I can now give thanks for even that and use the experience and my journey out of it to the glory of God.
> PB

i failed to mention i meant that castration be done once they are behind bars for the rest of their lives. have you ever seen a violent eunuch?

Posted by: Noahswife Apr 5 2007, 12:39 AM

> QUOTE(mozart @ Apr 5 2007, 02:36 AM)
>
> i failed to mention i meant that castration be done once they are behind bars for the rest of their lives. have you ever seen a violent eunuch?

OUCH.......now that hurts.....but,

Posted by: Observer Apr 5 2007, 04:09 AM

> QUOTE(mozart @ Apr 4 2007, 04:54 PM)
>
> . . . i think castration would scare guys a lot more than jail. i'd bet on that.

I understand the emotion. But, do you understand the consequences?

Those you tell us would be more frightened of castration than jail would be the ones who would kill their victim. Your plan would increase the likelyhood of more deaths.

On the other side of it, studies have shown that many who commit crime do not believe that they will ever be caught. For those, castration would have no effect.

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Apr 5 2007, 10:30 AM

> QUOTE(nice&smooth @ Apr 4 2007, 10:32 PM)
>
> Morbib at least to me! But please continue looks like you guys will wear this one out!

nice&smooth,

What is your point? Do you want the subject to fade away, back into the denial that has left so many children victimized? The cycle of victimization is approaching epidemic levels in many countries and those are only the victims that we know about.

Awareness and action are the only way to combat this devastating behavior.

Gregory,

I agree that castration would most likely have that effect.

Posted by: PrincessDrRe Apr 6 2007, 12:23 PM

Bump!

Why - because some forget that the definition of molestation and must be reminded.

> QUOTE(nice&smooth @ Apr 5 2007, 01:32 AM)
>
> Morbib at least to me! But please continue looks like you guys will wear this one out!

While the subject may be Morbid; at the same time it must be discussed...Why?

Again...

How can you stop something from happening without discussing it!

Per Dictionary.com

mor·bid /ˈmɔrbɪd/ Pronunciation Key

Spelled Pronunciation[mawr-bid]

adjective 1. suggesting an unhealthy mental state or attitude; unwholesomely gloomy, sensitive, extreme, etc.: a morbid interest in death.
2. affected by, caused by, causing, or characteristic of disease.
3. pertaining to diseased parts: morbid anatomy.
4. gruesome; grisly.

Posted by: Snoopy Apr 6 2007, 03:47 PM

> QUOTE(PrincessDrRe @ Apr 6 2007, 12:23 PM) ☐
>
> Bump!
>
> Why - because some forget that the definition of molestation and must be reminded.
> While the subject may be Morbid; at the same time it must be discussed...Why?
>
> Again...
>
> How can you stop something from happening without discussing it!
>
> Per Dictionary.com
>
> mor·bid /ˈmɔrbɪd/ Pronunciation Key
>
> Spelled Pronunciation[mawr-bid]
>
> adjective 1. suggesting an unhealthy mental state or attitude; unwholesomely gloomy, sensitive, extreme, etc.: a morbid interest in death.
> 2. affected by, caused by, causing, or characteristic of disease.
> 3. pertaining to diseased parts: morbid anatomy.
> 4. gruesome; grisly.

Hey DrRe,

I just read the NOTE in your signature line and had to chuckle. You have an awesome sense of humor!! And just for the record, the five years I spent paying a therapist were the best investment I ever made in myself!! She's a wonderful Christian lady and her advice has changed my life!!!

OK - I know that was ☒ ofl but to all of you who spend your days as "mental health professionals"...

☒ sig You are making a difference!!

Snoopy

Posted by: lookin4truth Apr 6 2007, 04:37 PM

> QUOTE(Snoopy @ Apr 6 2007, 04:47 PM) ☐
>
> Hey DrRe,

> I just read the NOTE in your signature line and had to chuckle. You have an awesome sense of humor!! And just for the record, the five years I spent paying a therapist were the best investment I ever made in myself!! She's a wonderful Christian lady and her advice has changed my life!!!
>
> OK - I know that was ofl but to all of you who spend your days as "mental health professionals"...
>
> sig You are making a difference!!
>
> Snoopy

noopy,

ost of us would probably be better classified as "mental health patients".

'm Just Joking!!! Have a coke and a smile pe , Uhh, I mean pepsi

---

Posted by: Snoopy Apr 6 2007, 05:40 PM

> QUOTE(lookin4truth @ Apr 6 2007, 05:37 PM)
>
> Snoopy,
>
> Most of us would probably be better classified as "mental health patients".
>
> I'm Just Joking!!! Have a coke and a smile pe , Uhh, I mean pepsi

.....definitely prefer Pepsi....!!!!!

Posted by: beartrap Apr 7 2007, 10:08 PM

> QUOTE(lookin4truth @ Apr 6 2007, 03:37 PM)

> Snoopy,
>
> Most of us would probably be better classified as "mental health patients".
>
> I'm Just Joking!!! Have a coke and a smile , Uhh, I mean pepsi

›eople who are different from the society they live in are the ones who will be classified as "mental health ›atients."

›epsi? Only with pizza. Coke with a generous twist of lemon.

Posted by: Fran Apr 7 2007, 10:35 PM

> QUOTE(beartrap @ Apr 7 2007, 11:08 PM)
>
> People who are different from the society they live in are the ones who will be classified as "mental health patients."
>
> Pepsi? Only with pizza. Coke with a generous twist of lemon.

ɪey Bear;

Vith your strong talent for appreciation of the best in food and drinks, how is it you stay so thin? I smell food ınd gain weight! I'm so jealous.

:an you come over and cook for me and my family? My family would love it too! Do you cook for a large ımount of people, or do you just prefer a small group of 1-2? Would love to taste your haystacks! Still have ʼour recipe. I must make those soon.

ʼour posts make my mouth water.

Posted by: beartrap Apr 7 2007, 10:44 PM

> QUOTE(Fran @ Apr 7 2007, 09:35 PM)
>
> Hey Bear;
>
> With your strong talent for appreciation of the best in food and drinks, how is it you stay so thin? I smell food and gain weight! I'm so jealous.
>
> Can you come over and cook for me and my family? My family would love it too! Do you cook for a large amount of people, or do you just prefer a small group of 1-2? Would love to taste your haystacks! Still have your recipe. I must make those soon.
>
> Your posts make my mouth water.

\ few years ago someone told me that time and weight would catch up with me. I am six feet tall and now up o 170 pounds. Not many years ago I was at 130. It seems that white hair and pounds come on at the same ime and rate.

\nd yes, I am certainly a fan of fine food! Particularly if I can leanr to fix it myself.

Posted by: mozart Apr 8 2007, 01:50 AM

> QUOTE(beartrap @ Apr 7 2007, 10:44 PM) ☐
>
> A few years ago someone told me that time and weight would catch up with me. I am six feet tall and now up to 170 pounds. Not many years ago I was at 130. It seems that white hair and pounds come on at the same time and rate.
>
> And yes, I am certainly a fan of fine food! Particularly if I can leanr to fix it myself.

sowwy--- ☒ ofl ☒ b

Posted by: Fran Apr 8 2007, 03:42 AM

> QUOTE(mozart @ Apr 8 2007, 02:50 AM) ☐
>
> sowwy--- ☒ ofl ☒ b

You are so correct!

There are so many sexually abused in society today. Society seems to think recovery is the victims problem.

The Victim "needs to get a grip!" they say.

Many don't know how to help them, so they will have to let someone else deal with it.

The story goes on and on....................................

What is the victim to do?
Who do they turn too?
Are they caught at such and early age that they believe abuse is like brushing your teeth and everyone does it?
If the abuser says, "If you tell I will hurt so and so?
Who is safe to go to?

One woman went to her spiritual leader about her husband only to be told, "I don't believe a word you have said!"

How does a very young victim know who to tell?

Who is safe and who is not safe?

Pretty soon the victim feels hopeless. Have you ever felt hopeless? They move away, but still have the nightmares. They marry and still have nightmares. Let's say the Abuser gets promoted to the Union or gets honored at some big affair. They hear about it. The Victim begins to think this is their fault. That is what they were told by the abuser!

The Victim's may forgive but they can never forget. It is always there. It determines how one thinks and it affects the decisions made in life. If they are abused early in life will they feel they are only acceptable to other abusers. They move on to abusive relationships.

Then one day they read there are many more victims out there that went through the same thing. You weren't crazy after all. Just what does a victim do to gain help to know what to do?

Thanks to God for "Polly's Place" for being available for SDA Victims of SDA Abusers as well as Victims of other denominations.

Ask your self these questions, then put yourself in the Victims shoes if you can. Usually an abuser has many victims. That is why there are laws to put the abusers into jail and remove them from society.

Some states are really cracking down. How long will we continue to allow one person to destroy the lives of so many people?

Finally, people are taking a stand, but many, many more try to pretend that this isn't real. They believe the abusers above the victims, and assume the victims are way out of their minds. This happens all the time in the Seventh-day Adventist church.

We tend to "not see" the facts! It is called selective seeing. Just read these posts and see how some people think the abuser is not guilty even though many victims have come forward.

The posts have to be bumped to bring matters to everyone's attention again. The subject is a thread stopper, just as the finances are. No one wants to talk about it. Probably because they too are victims or they have not a clue as to the subject at hand. Maybe it is because they, too, do not know how to help the situation of the Victim or the abuser.

I have to admit that I do not know how to help the victims. I don't know how to help the abuser! All I know is that it really needs to stop and stop ASAP!

All I do know is that the victims are in a prison and need to be set free!

Posted by: mozart Apr 8 2007, 01:37 PM

I really appreciate all that you have said here fran. i'd like to paste the url for Polly's Place so that if any seeing this would like to learn more and hopefully make a donation they may do that. God bless.

http://www.pollysplacenetwork.com/

> QUOTE(Fran @ Apr 8 2007, 02:42 AM) ☐
>
> You are so correct!
>
> There are so many sexually abused in society today. Society seems to think recovery is the victims problem.
>
> The Victim "needs to get a grip!" they say.
>
> Many don't know how to help them, so they will have to let someone else deal with it.
>
> The story goes on and on....................................
>
> What is the victim to do?

Who do they turn too?
Are they caught at such and early age that they believe abuse is like brushing your teeth and everyone does it?
If the abuser says, "If you tell I will hurt so and so?
Who is safe to go to?

One woman went to her spiritual leader about her husband only to be told, "I don't believe a word you have said!"

How does a very young victim know who to tell?

Who is safe and who is not safe?

Pretty soon the victim feels hopeless. Have you ever felt hopeless? They move away, but still have the nightmares. They marry and still have nightmares. Let's say the Abuser gets promoted to the Union or gets honored at some big affair. They hear about it. The Victim begins to think this is their fault. That is what they were told by the abuser!

The Victim's may forgive but they can never forget. It is always there. It determines how one thinks and it affects the decisions made in life. If they are abused early in life will they feel they are only acceptable to other abusers. They move on to abusive relationships.

Then one day they read there are many more victims out there that went through the same thing. You weren't crazy after all. Just what does a victim do to gain help to know what to do?

Thanks to God for "Polly's Place" for being available for SDA Victims of SDA Abusers as well as Victims of other denominations.

Ask your self these questions, then put yourself in the Victims shoes if you can. Usually an abuser has many victims. That is why there are laws to put the abusers into jail and remove them from society.

Some states are really cracking down. How long will we continue to allow one person to destroy the lives of so many people?

Finally, people are taking a stand, but many, many more try to pretend that this isn't real. They believe the abusers above the victims, and assume the victims are way out of their minds. This happens all the time in the Seventh-day Adventist church.

We tend to "not see" the facts! It is called selective seeing. Just read these posts and see how some people think the abuser is not guilty even though many victims have come forward.

The posts have to be bumped to bring matters to everyone's attention again. The subject is a thread stopper, just as the finances are. No one wants to talk about it. Probably because they too are victims or they have not a clue as to the subject at hand. Maybe it is because they, too, do not know how to help the situation of the Victim or the abuser.

I have to admit that I do not know how to help the victims. I don't know how to help the abuser! All I know is that it really needs to stop and stop ASAP!

All I do know is that the victims are in a prison and need to be set free!

Posted by: princessdi Apr 14 2007, 11:22 PM

This is a local story for all those who believe it is too late for TS to be charged for his deeds:

http://abclocal.go.com/kgo/story?section=local&id=5188660

Of special interest to you all will be the fact th the investigation took four years, and this man has been dodging molestation reports since the 1980's.

Posted by: mozart Apr 15 2007, 12:10 AM

> QUOTE(princessdi @ Apr 14 2007, 10:22 PM)
>
> This is a local story for all those who believe it is too late for TS to be charged for his deeds:
>
> http://abclocal.go.com/kgo/story?section=local&id=5188660
>
> Of special interest to you all will be the fact th the investigation took four years, and this man has been dodging molestation reports since the 1980's.

Posted by: Observer Apr 15 2007, 03:31 AM

The Statute of Limitation will vary according to the State in which the crime was committed. Therefore what happens in California may not apply to IL.

Posted by: LadyTenor Apr 15 2007, 08:41 AM

> QUOTE(Observer @ Apr 15 2007, 05:31 AM)
>
> The Statute of Limitation will vary according to the State in which the crime was committed. Therefore what happens in California may not apply to IL.

Very true! Moreover, the issue of whether molestation is ongoing or separate acts will also affect the statute of limitations. These principles will also differ by state.

Posted by: princessdi Apr 15 2007, 11:51 AM

Ok, but it IS a possiblity, and if I remember correctly did not the Catholic church cases span several states?

Posted by: Whtz Happenin Apr 17 2007, 09:48 PM

> QUOTE(mozart @ Apr 15 2007, 01:10 AM)

Mozart, You should really see someone about your tendency to destroy your head. Or am I underestimating how hard of a head you have?

Posted by: mozart Apr 17 2007, 09:57 PM

> QUOTE(Whtz Happenin @ Apr 17 2007, 09:48 PM) ☐
>
> Mozart, You should really see someone about your tendency to destroy your head. Or am I underestimating how hard of a head you have?

as long as it's just my head it can't hurt me rofl

Posted by: PrincessDrRe Apr 22 2007, 01:25 PM

Bump - for the sake of the definition of truth....

sn

Posted by: PrincessDrRe Apr 24 2007, 03:09 PM

sn

Posted by: Johann Apr 24 2007, 11:30 PM

> QUOTE(LadyTenor @ Apr 15 2007, 04:41 PM) ☐
>
> Very true! Moreover, the issue of whether molestation is ongoing or separate acts will also affect the statute of limitations. These principles will also differ by state.

Posted by: Shepherdswife Apr 26 2007, 05:33 AM

>>The Victim's may forgive but they can never forget. It is always there. It determines how one thinks and it affects the decisions made in life. If they are abused early in life will they feel they are only acceptable to other abusers. They move on to abusive relationships.<<

Fran, you are correct there. The ones here who seem to be minimizing and doubting and deflecting this alleged abuse have no understanding of what has been taken from a victim (no matter the age) by an abuser and what it takes for them--especially if they are male, to come forward. In fact, I would venture to say (from personal experience, both as a survivor and as someone who has worked with victims and survivors for years now) that some of those who are mimizing might be victims themselves who cling to the belief that "it was done, get on with life" to keep the darkness and pain inside themselves from rising to the surface. (Notice I said "some" and "might". I am not making any accusations. Just observations...)

Abused people often are attracted to and marry people who also have had abuse of some kind in their family dynamic. Like attracts like. Dysfunction attracts dysfunction. A dysfunctional church attracts dysfunctional people as well. Organizations can be the same way. A dynamic leader tends to attract people who are comfortable with his style of leadership and the decisions he makes. Those who don't like what he/she does do not stay around very long. So the climate is perpetuated and there are defenses built against change or attacks--the wagons are circled and everything is attributed to Satan. I grew up in a very conservative "supporting ministry" with a strong leader, so I have watched it work.

And to stay on topic, the victim immediately and from then on feels dirty, damaged and different, whether it is rape, fondling, inappropriate words or suggestions, or any of the other things on the list that was originally posted. And it takes a LONG time to reprogram the brain from the changes that occur in that encounter(s) that can take only seconds. Yes, there is healing. Yes, you can become stronger than you even would have been. Yes, God can use it for good. One way He does that (I believe) is He uses us to raise the bar of accountability, since we know what it is like and we don't want to allow it to be done to someone else if there is anything we can do to stop it.

I have sympathy for perpetrators and alleged perpetrators. Most of them were victims themselves. Forgiveness is freely given by God, but it doesn't take the place of accountability and consequences. Read Nathan's speech to David after he confessed and repented... 'The Lord also has taken away your sin; you shall not die. However, because by this deed you have given occasion to the enemies of the Lord of blaspheme, the child also that is born to you shall surely die."

shepherdswife--who has been reading all this for awhile and finally decided to add my thoughts...

Posted by: runner4him Apr 26 2007, 05:41 AM

> QUOTE(Shepherdswife @ Apr 26 2007, 05:33 AM)
>
> >>The Victim's may forgive but they can never forget. It is always there. It determines how one thinks and it affects the decisions made in life. If they are abused early in life will they feel they are only acceptable to other abusers. They move on to abusive relationships.<<
> Fran, you are correct there. The ones here who seem to be minimizing and doubting and deflecting this alleged abuse have no understanding of what has been taken from a victim (no matter the age) by an abuser and what it takes for them--especially if they are male, to come forward. In fact, I would venture to say (from personal experience, both as a survivor and as someone who has worked with victims and survivors for years now) that some of those who are mimizing might be victims themselves who cling to the belief that "it was done, get on with life" to keep the darkness and pain inside themselves from rising to the surface. (Notice I said "some" and "might". I am not making any accusations. Just observations...)
>
> Abused people often are attracted to and marry people who also have had abuse of some kind in their family dynamic. Like attracts like. Dysfunction attracts dysfunction. A dysfunctional church attracts dysfunctional people as well. Organizations can be the same way. A dynamic leader tends to attract people who are comfortable with his style of leadership and the decisions he makes. Those who don't like what he/she does do not stay around very long. So the climate is perpetuated and there are defenses built against change or attacks--the wagons are circled and everything is attributed to Satan. I grew up in a very conservative "supporting ministry" with a strong leader, so I have watched it work.
>

> And to stay on topic, the victim immediately and from then on feels dirty, damaged and different, whether it is rape, fondling, inappropriate words or suggestions, or any of the other things on the list that was originally posted. And it takes a LONG time to reprogram the brain from the changes that occur in that encounter(s) that can take only seconds. Yes, there is healing. Yes, you can become stronger than you even would have been. Yes, God can use it for good. One way He does that (I believe) is He uses us to raise the bar of accountability, since we know what it is like and we don't want to allow it to be done to someone else if there is anything we can do to stop it.
>
> I have sympathy for perpetrators and alleged perpetrators. Most of them were victims themselves. Forgiveness is freely given by God, but it doesn't take the place of accountability and consequences. Read Nathan's speech to David after he confessed and repented... 'The Lord also has taken away your sin; you shall not die. However, because by this deed you have given occasion to the enemies of the Lord of blaspheme, the child also that is born to you shall surely die."

> shepherdswife--who has been reading all this for awhile and finally decided to add my thoughts...

hank you for your words. May God give all of us a better understanding and more compassion!

Posted by: Whtz Happenin Apr 26 2007, 06:14 AM

> QUOTE(Shepherdswife @ Apr 26 2007, 07:33 AM)
>
> shepherdswife--who has been reading all this for awhile and finally decided to add my thoughts...

Velcome Shepherdswife! I perceive your thoughts as one who understands the seriousness of the situation. I raise God that your journey has produced victory in this area and that you are now helping others find the ath to victory.

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Apr 26 2007, 01:18 PM

Shepherdswife,

Welcome to BSDA and bless you for sharing your testimony! I pray that all will have a greater understanding of the impact, no matter how minimal it may appear to some looking on, abuse has on a person and their families.

I ask that we all join our prayers that Doug, Danny and their boards will see the importance of dealing with this issue for the welfare of the alleged victims, the alleged predator and the health of their ministries.

Posted by: seraph|m Apr 28 2007, 06:53 AM

Shepherdswife welcome.gif

> QUOTE(Shepherdswife @ Apr 26 2007, 08:33 AM)
>
> >>The Victim's may forgive but they can never forget. It is always there. It determines how one thinks and it affects the decisions made in life. If they are abused early in life will they feel they are only acceptable to other abusers. They move on to abusive relationships.<<

hough I agree with much of what you have shared, in principle, I must ask the following. id you mean to preface the above comments with question marks?

t has been my experience that some can forgive and forget and yes be healed of the rokenness they experience after being abused. Though that process will likely take years, f it happens at all, when the issue of their abuse are kept secret or, swept under the rug y those they love and trust and, the victim is not acknowledged as such or, given the pportunity to work through the pain, suffering and guilt that usually comes, in most ases, after one has been abused.

victim can forgive, heal and move on with his/her life, though doing so, in most cases, is very long process. Forgetting is also possible, through the renewing of our minds, which an ONLY be done through Christ Jesus. Forgetting, in the sense that the victim, through he healing process does not allow those memories to determine how he/she views every other aspect of life. Nor will the prior memories continually affect the decisions made in their lives. (I am sure you did not intended suggest it however, your statement could be read to mean "all decisions" seeing that you were not specific.) What will ultimately determine a persons ability to move on with his/her life is whether he/she has surrendered themselves to God and has allowed Him, through the Holy Spirit, to let this mind be in them that was also in Christ Jesus. To finish my thought on forgetting... it is possible in the sense that all decisions made will not be overshadowed by the memories of their experience. Whether in social relationships, areas like friendships, school, work. dating etc. they can make decisions that are based in the fact that their minds have been renewed, after one has surrendered to the Lord. Some victims attempt to move forward on simple will power and, though it is admirable that some try to move forward and not let their experience permeate every aspect of their lives, will power can not do what only Jesus Christ the righteous can.

Finally, bear in mind most of us are aware that everyone who has been a victim, of any kind, has not nor will they all accept Christ Jesus as their personal Savior. I am simply pointing out that the freedom to forgive and forget IS possible for anyone who makes the choice to make Jesus their personal Savior. Our challenge as believers is, if we daily submit our as we should, is to let our light so shine before men that they might see your good works and glorify our Father in heaven. The victims around us could very well be drawn to know Christ Jesus, who will be seen through the light of our lives. And the burdens they carry will be lifted, as we bear them up showing them love, compassion and acceptance. That's my 2cents worth.

Again, welcome and be blessed.

Posted by: Shepherdswife Apr 28 2007, 10:09 AM

Hi Seraph/m, thanks for the welcome...

No, I did not want question marks on that quote. I was quoting something that Fran said as a springboard for my comments, and as I am new, did not know how to put it in a box like others have.

So your question asking me what decisions I was talking about --I quote you..."I am sure you did not intended suggest it however, your statement could be read to mean "all decisions" seeing that you were not specific"-- needs to be directed to Fran, since she made the original statement.

However, I agree with what she said, and in that context, will answer for myself. In my opinion, and in my personal experience, even after I find healing and forgiveness and new life in Christ, my past affects me. It may not rule me, and it may not govern my decisions--I may make my decisions in spite of it, but it still affects everything. It is part of what has made me who and what I am. Maybe others have moved on to "new life" where their molestation has no effect, but I have not found it to be so. That said, the wound can be a scar, not an infected, open gash. But it does leave a scar. If nothing else, usually by the time you find healing, you have passed by a season or two of life and never will have the chance educationally, etc to be the same person you might have been had the abuse not occurred. We could discuss semantics all day and we might be saying the same thing, but this was my response to what you said.

I also come from a very different place than you have, so will also comment on your last paragraph re: healing only coming through Christ.

Yes, all emotional healing comes through Christ, just as all physical healing does. I believe God has designed the body and the mind to include an "automatic" healing process. We tend to understand the physical healing process much better than the emotional one, however. The white blood cells, the ability to clot, all are there ready to do their work the instant a cut happens. I don't have to think about it to make it begin. We humans can facilitate or hinder the healing process. There are basic principles for physical wounds: clean it out, protect from further injury, immobilize if broken, etc. If I go against them, the wound will not heal. If I do not understand and go against the principles of emotional healing--if I remain in an abusive situation, if I deny and cover up, if I focus on relieving symptoms rather than dealing with the cause, I will hinder emotional healing as well.

So yes, all healing is Divine in origin, but some (like myself) whose abuse was at least partially attributed to God or His will (and much of the alleged abuse discussed here falls into that category) cannot immediately see God as the healer, since He was a big part of the problem (because of the abusers misrepresentation of Him). Yet in my experience the principles of emotional healing can be taught to them by professionals or a recovery group and practiced by them and healing can begin, whether or not they are "accepting Jesus as their Savior". With me, the healing had to start first, then I began to be able to see the flaws in what I was taught about God, which then led to a new relationship with Him, which led to more healing... and so on.

Everyone's journey is different, and none of us can speak for all of us. I am not trying to argue with what you said, just giving my perspective.

shepherdswife

Posted by: seraph|m Apr 28 2007, 10:40 AM

> QUOTE(Shepherdswife @ Apr 28 2007, 01:09 PM) ☐
>
> Hi Seraph/m, thanks for the welcome...
> ...
>
> So yes, all healing is Divine in origin, but some (like myself) whose abuse was at least partially attributed to God or His will (and much of the alleged abuse discussed here falls into that category) cannot immediately see God as the healer, since He was a big part of the problem (because of the abusers misrepresentation of Him). Yet in my experience the principles of emotional healing can be taught to them by professionals or a recovery group and practiced by them and healing can begin, whether or not they are "accepting Jesus as their Savior". With me, the healing had to start first, then I began to be able to see the flaws in what I was taught about God, which then led to a new relationship with Him, which led to more healing... and so on.
>
> Everyone's journey is different, and none of us can speak for all of us. I am not trying to argue with what you said, just giving my perspective.
>
> shepherdswife

I respect and appreciate where you are, as it relates to your experience, and thank you for your response. I am sorry to hear your experience drew you to see God as a big part of the problem. God have mercy on the souls of those who used Him as a means to prey on you and other victims. I agree that each of our experiences will be different and I thank the Lord Jesus for all He has done in our lives to bring us to the place where we are today. Remembering that every good thing comes from God.

Be Blessed,

Sera

Posted by: Fran Apr 28 2007, 04:42 PM

> QUOTE(seraph|m @ Apr 28 2007, 06:53 AM) ☐
>
> Shepherdswife ☒ welcome.gif
>
> Though I agree with much of what you have shared, in principle, I must ask the following. Did you mean to preface the above comments with question marks?

> It has been my experience that some can forgive and forget and yes be healed of the brokenness they experience after being abused. Though that process will likely take years, if it happens at all, when the issue of their abuse are kept secret or, swept under the rug by those they love and trust and, the victim is not acknowledged as such or, given the opportunity to work through the pain, suffering and guilt that usually comes, in most cases, after one has been abused.
>
> A victim can forgive, heal and move on with his/her life, though doing so, in most cases, is a very long process. Forgetting is also possible, through the renewing of our minds, which can ONLY be done through Christ Jesus. Forgetting, in the sense that the victim, through the healing process does not allow those memories to determine how he/she views every other aspect of life. Nor will the prior memories continually affect the decisions made in their lives. (I am sure you did not intended suggest it however, your statement could be read to mean "all decisions" seeing that you were not specific.) What will ultimately determine a persons ability to move on with his/her life is whether he/she has surrendered themselves to God and has allowed Him, through the Holy Spirit, to let this mind be in them that was also in Christ Jesus. To finish my thought on forgetting... it is possible in the sense that all decisions made will not be overshadowed by the memories of their experience. Whether in social relationships, areas like friendships, school, work. dating etc. they can make decisions that are based in the fact that their minds have been renewed, after one has surrendered to the Lord. Some victims attempt to move forward on simple will power and, though it is admirable that some try to move forward and not let their experience permeate every aspect of their lives, will power can not do what only Jesus Christ the righteous can.
>
> Finally, bear in mind most of us are aware that everyone who has been a victim, of any kind, has not nor will they all accept Christ Jesus as their personal Savior. I am simply pointing out that the freedom to forgive and forget IS possible for anyone who makes the choice to make Jesus their personal Savior. Our challenge as believers is, if we daily submit our as we should, is to let our light so shine before men that they might see your good works and glorify our Father in heaven. The victims around us could very well be drawn to know Christ Jesus, who will be seen through the light of our lives. And the burdens they carry will be lifted, as we bear them up showing them love, compassion and acceptance. That's my 2cents worth.
>
> Again, welcome and be blessed.

read your post and am so thankful you have been able to forgive, move on, and forget. I do not question hat you have done just what you said.

personally hope victims will never forget. Forgive, move on, but never forget. This is denying reality. It did appen. If they forget, how can they help others to Forgive and move on? It is through sharing your orgiveness and showing others it is possible to move on that helps other victims.

any victims accept abuse because they believe everyone lives a life like theirs. They see nice people, but an't accept that that is a real situation. They are convinced that everyone is abused and this is a reality of ife, so they are silent. All of those other women in the Church don't complain, why should you.

ost of the victims of abuse wouldn't know what to do and who to tell because of these thoughts. I have ever heard a sermon about child abuse, spousal abuse, self abuse, or workplace abuse. There needs to be nformation in all of our churches telling members where they can go for help. That would NOT be the pastor f the church. It would be a number with no name. You do not have to leave your number. You can just talk nd get information. From there it can lead to life changing results.

hope victims will never forget so they can be there to help others. But that is just my opinion. My opinion in o way intended to diminish you opinion. In this life, many opinions are good.

Posted by: ex3ABNemployee Apr 28 2007, 10:55 PM

QUOTE(Shepherdswife @ Apr 28 2007, 11:09 AM)

> So yes, all healing is Divine in origin, but some (like myself) whose abuse was at least partially attributed to God or His will (and much of the alleged abuse discussed here falls into that category) cannot immediately see God as the healer, since He was a big part of the problem (because of the abusers misrepresentation of Him). Yet in my experience the principles of emotional healing can be taught to them by professionals or a recovery group and practiced by them and healing can begin, whether or not they are "accepting Jesus as their Savior". With me, the healing had to start first, then I began to be able to see the flaws in what I was taught about God, which then led to a new relationship with Him, which led to more healing... and so on.
>
> Everyone's journey is different, and none of us can speak for all of us. I am not trying to argue with what you said, just giving my perspective.
>
> shepherdswife

I'm glad you added that last paragraph. I'm tired of people telling me I "need" to go talk to a "professional" to "help" me through. How in the world can a "professional" help a sexual abuse victim if they've never experienced sexual abuse?

This is a real sore spot with me.

Posted by: princessdi Apr 28 2007, 11:00 PM

Duane, it might be easier than you think to find one who is a survivor......just a thought......

> QUOTE(ex3ABNemployee @ Apr 28 2007, 09:55 PM)
>
> I'm glad you added that last paragraph. I'm tired of people telling me I "need" to go talk to a "professional" to "help" me through. How in the world can a "professional" help a sexual abuse victim if they've never experienced sexual abuse?
>
> This is a real sore spot with me.

Posted by: ex3ABNemployee Apr 28 2007, 11:12 PM

> QUOTE(princessdi @ Apr 28 2007, 11:00 PM)
>
> Duane, it might be easier than you think to find one who is a survivor......just a thought......

Maybe so...but I am not interested AT ALL in professional counseling.

Posted by: seraph|m Apr 28 2007, 11:27 PM

Obviously we did not grasp what was stated in my post and I am sure it was not your intent to read into my post what is not there.

> QUOTE(Fran @ Apr 28 2007, 07:42 PM)

> I read your post and am so thankful you have been able to forgive, move on, and forget. I do not question that you have done just what you said.
>
> I personally hope victims will never forget. Forgive, move on, but never forget. This is denying reality. It did happen. If they forget, how can they help others to Forgive and move on? It is through sharing your forgiveness and showing others it is possible to move on that helps other victims.

...

Let's try this again...

> QUOTE
>
> Forgetting, in the sense that the victim, through the healing process does not allow those memories to determine how he/she views every other aspect of life. Nor will the prior memories continually affect the decisions made in their lives.

> QUOTE(Fran @ Apr 28 2007, 07:42 PM)
>
> I hope victims will never forget so they can be there to help others. But that is just my opinion. My opinion in no way intended to diminish you opinion. In this life, many opinions are good.

> QUOTE
>
> To finish my thought on forgetting... it is possible in the sense that all decisions made will not be overshadowed by the memories of their experience.

It is clear, unless one has had a lobotomy or, has had some sort of long/short term memory issues, he or she will have "memories" of things that have happened in their lives. The point is, those memories do not have to dictate how a victim moves on with his or her life.

I can only hope that helps

Posted by: Shepherdswife Apr 28 2007, 11:36 PM

Hey Duane, that is a good question. I would first of all say that I agree with you--no one else can tell you how you "should" feel or heal or what you need to do. There are all kinds of resources out there--books, groups, counselors, other survivors, and nothing is for everyone. I have taken advantage of various resources at various times, for various needs. It is a journey.

As to your other question--"How in the world can a "professional" help a sexual abuse victim if they've never experienced sexual abuse?" Many professionals have been drawn to helping professions because they have experienced abuse and want to help others, so the two are not mutually exclusive. But healing does not require a professional. I found a really interesting article by Dr. Bruce Perry, the pediatric psychiatrist who specializes in the effects of trauma on children--the one who was called in to help the kids who were released from the Waco compound before their families died in the fire. The entire article is fascinating, and I will put the web address below, but will quote his conclusions here...

"We learned that some of the most therapeutic experiences do not take place in "therapy," but in naturally occurring healthy relationships, whether between a professional like myself and a child, between an aunt and a scared little girl or between a calm Texas Ranger and an excitable boy. The children who did best after the Davidian apocalypse were not those who experienced the least stress or those who participated most enthusiastically in talking with us at the cottage. They were the ones who were released afterwards into the healthiest and most loving worlds, whether it was with family who still believed in the Davidian ways or with loved ones who rejected Koresh entirely. In fact, the research on the most effective treatments to help child trauma victims might be accurately summed up this way: what works best is anything that increases the quality and number of relationships in the child's life.

I also saw how bringing disparate groups together—even those with conflicting missions—could often be effective. Dozens of state, federal and local agencies had worked together to care for these children. The power of proximity—spending time side-by-side—had pulled us all to compromise in our efforts to help.

Relationships matter: the currency for systemic change was trust, and trust comes through forming healthy working relationships. People, not programs, change people. The cooperation, respect and collaboration we experienced gave us hope that we could make a difference, even though the raids themselves had ended in such catastrophe. The seeds of a new way of working with traumatized children were sown in the ashes of Waco."

This is encouraging to me--because we can all be part of this kind of healing.

shepherdswife

Read the entire article at:
http://www.psychotherapynetworker.org/index.php?category=magazine&sub_cat=articles&type=article&id=Stairway%20to%20Heaven&page=1

Posted by: mozart Apr 29 2007, 12:29 AM

> QUOTE(ex3ABNemployee @ Apr 28 2007, 10:12 PM) ☐
>
> Maybe so...but I am not interested AT ALL in professional counseling.

my prespective on forgetting is that "once you have addressed and settled the issue and gotten it straight within yourself" then you only remember that you are a victim for the sake of others. i think one should purpose themselves to refuse to dwell on it, think on it, relive it or stay angry or bitter about it. i think we should only remember that we were a victim for the sake of other victims or for the sake of aiding in the prevention of further victims. forget the details. for you own sake, you need to become emotionally "indifferent" to the details. don't speak of them unless it is nessassary or beneficial to others.
today while out on a beautiful day's drive we came across about 8 or 9 bikers. they passed us and we saw the big emblem on their leather vest that said "BACA", Bikers Against Child Abuse. they were going our way so we ended up following them to our exit where they also exited, to go into a local chinese buffet style restaurant. i said, "pull over, i want to give them some money and a book". we keep "steps to Christ" and "the great controversy" paperbacks in both our vehicles all the time. i got a $20. bill and put it between the pages of "the great controversy" and walked over and handed it to one of the women. i said, "here's a few bucks to help pay for your dinner". she gave me a long, huge, tight hug and a kiss on the cheek. i whispered i was a victim and this was a small token of my appreciation for what they are doing. a couple more guys came over and we talked about what they had done that day. they were on an "awareness ride" that was planned for this week-end, worldwide, by all their chapters from here to australia. they said they had all met at a nearby town at a shop where custom bikes were built and they had a ceremony where they released white balloons for all the victims of each state and red balloons for all the victims in our state that died last year because of abuse. it was very moving. they were precious and loving people and i'm so glad the Lord impressed me to stop and talk to them. as i walked away the lady smiled and said, "i'll put this in with the rest of our donations". ;) there website is : http://www.bacausa.com --- check them out.
you hang in there DC and know there is lots of love and support out here for ya. remember the "IGGY" button. ☒ God bless.

Posted by: Observer Apr 29 2007, 06:08 AM

> QUOTE(ex3ABNemployee @ Apr 28 2007, 10:55 PM)
>
> I'm glad you added that last paragraph. I'm tired of people telling me I "need" to go talk to a "professional" to "help" me through. How in the world can a "professional" help a sexual abuse victim if they've never experienced sexual abuse?
>
> This is a real sore spot with me.

Duane:

Everyone has their own journey to make. All must make their choices as to how they walk that path.

You raise a valid point: Some of the people best able to help another are thse who have walked that path before, and can share their journey. e.g. Some of the best alcoholism counselors are those who are alcoholics themselves. Some of the best divorce recovery people are those who have gone through divorce themself. Having said that, some pepople may work well with those who have not personally gone through a specific experience.

Another imoportant issue is that of getting the right counselor for the person seeking counseling. The bottom line is that no counselor is equally effective for everyone. There has to be a good match between the counselor and the counselee. What (Who) works for one person may not work for another.

> QUOTE(ex3ABNemployee @ Apr 28 2007, 11:12 PM)
>
> Maybe so...but I am not interested AT ALL in professional counseling.

Duane:

That is your choice. You are responsible for your life. We welcome you here without judging you for in regard to whether or not you chose to seek professional coujnseling.

Please continue to grace us withe your presence and comments.

Posted by: watchbird Apr 29 2007, 09:02 AM

> QUOTE(ex3ABNemployee @ Apr 29 2007, 12:55 AM)
>
> I'm glad you added that last paragraph. I'm tired of people telling me I "need" to go talk to a "professional" to "help" me through. How in the world can a "professional" help a sexual abuse victim if they've never experienced sexual abuse?
>
> This is a real sore spot with me.

I think it might soothe your "sore spot" on this issue if you realized that many of those who speak of going to a professional counselor are using the word "professional" to distinguish between the true professional and those who claim to be "counselors" who are little more than judgemental busybodies sure that they have all the answers to all the questions in the world, and the right and obligation to tell everyone what they can do.

A true professional is not primarily there to give answers... or even "help" in the sense of doing for you what you can only do for yourself. But a true professional is there to be an anchor point... a safe place... a listening and kindly ear.... while you work your way through your thoughts and feelings surrounding your previous experiences.... not only the abusive ones, but also in exploring the ways in which those may have affected your life since then.

Not every one needs such an anchor... and you may be one of those who do not. Or you may be one of those who already has such an anchor in friends or family.. or even in a solid enough relationship with Jesus Christ so He alone is sufficient anchor for you. And you may, by yourself, with the aid of books and self-help materials, be able to recognize all of the ways in which this has affected your life... and in which it may be expected to continue to affect it. This latter being especially important as it gives one clues as to what areas of life one needs to be especially on guard.

Personally, I found much more help in various "self-help" materials... especially those that had a lot of personal experience examples for me to compare myself to.... than in any professional counselling. But since the abuse I had as a teen was of a much more subtle psychological and spiritual kind rather than overt sexual or physical abuse I can only extrapolate from the process I went through to what I would consider must be a much greater process for those with much greater abuse histories.

With God's blessing you will find your way ...

Posted by: Shepherdswife Apr 29 2007, 09:41 AM

Great post, Watchbird!!

Posted by: PrincessDrRe Apr 30 2007, 06:56 PM

> QUOTE(ex3ABNemployee @ Apr 28 2007, 11:55 PM)
>
> I'm glad you added that last paragraph. I'm tired of people telling me I "need" to go talk to a "professional" to "help" me through. How in the world can a "professional" help a sexual abuse victim if they've never experienced sexual abuse?
>
> This is a real sore spot with me.

That is why I do what I do. I'm a survivor....and I help other survivors....

> QUOTE(princessdi @ Apr 29 2007, 12:00 AM)
>
> Duane, it might be easier than you think to find one who is a survivor......just a thought......

ITA! (see my above post)

> QUOTE(ex3ABNemployee @ Apr 29 2007, 12:12 AM)
>
> Maybe so...but I am not interested AT ALL in professional counseling.

Whether you get there by boat, plane, bus, or train - the "journey" can be made in different ways....

Blessings to you!

Posted by: ex3ABNemployee May 1 2007, 01:19 AM

> QUOTE(PrincessDrRe @ Apr 30 2007, 07:56 PM)
>
> That is why I do what I do. I'm a survivor....and I help other survivors....

There needs to be a lot more like you. A survivor is the ONLY one, other than God Himself, who can know how it feels to be here.

Thank you for the work that you do. I pray God's richest blessings on it.

Posted by: PrincessDrRe May 1 2007, 08:36 PM

> QUOTE(ex3ABNemployee @ May 1 2007, 03:19 AM)
>
> There needs to be a lot more like you. A survivor is the ONLY one, other than God Himself, who can know how it feels to be here.
>
> Thank you for the work that you do. I pray God's richest blessings on it.

You don't know how much just this post blessed me today of all days...
Blessings to you too Duane!

Posted by: PrincessDrRe May 4 2007, 07:39 PM

Bump! Definition stays on top....

Posted by: SoulEspresso May 5 2007, 07:21 AM

One of the things that makes me so angry about this is the people who have been willing to blow off this pattern of abuse because some of the victims seemed to have been"of age" at the time.

If it were a pastor seducing 19yo girls it would not only be immoral, but a serious abuse of power issue--especially in light of how his victims testify that he approached the subject. Why should it be any different in this case?

Posted by: runner4him May 5 2007, 01:34 PM

> QUOTE(SoulEspresso @ May 5 2007, 07:21 AM)
>
> One of the things that makes me so angry about this is the people who have been willing to blow off this pattern of abuse because some of the victims seemed to have been"of age" at the time.
>
> If it were a pastor seducing 19yo girls it would not only be immoral, but a serious abuse of power issue-- > especially in light of how his victims testify that he approached the subject. Why should it be any different in this case?

agree SoulEspresso! It is a sad day for all of us when we find people willing to blow off abuse at any age.

Posted by: PrincessDrRe May 5 2007, 08:52 PM

> QUOTE(SoulEspresso @ May 5 2007, 08:21 AM) ☐
>
> One of the things that makes me so angry about this is the people who have been willing to blow off this pattern of abuse because some of the victims seemed to have been"of age" at the time.
>
> If it were a pastor seducing 19yo girls it would not only be immoral, but a serious abuse of power issue--especially in light of how his victims testify that he approached the subject. Why should it be any different in this case?

...or sweep it under the rug because they are a "pastor".....

(insert raspberry tongue blowing noise here)

Posted by: Fran May 5 2007, 11:28 PM

> QUOTE(PrincessDrRe @ May 5 2007, 09:52 PM) ☐
>
> ....or sweep it under the rug because they are a "pastor".....
>
> (insert raspberry tongue blowing noise here)

hear that one!

Posted by: PrincessDrRe May 13 2007, 07:34 PM

Bump.

A "reminder" whether some want to be reminded or not.

☒ sn

Posted by: PrincessDrRe May 14 2007, 09:26 PM

bump!

☒ sn

Posted by: calvin May 14 2007, 09:42 PM

DrRe you have done enough bumping of this topic. Now do you have anything to add to the discussion?

Posted by: Johann May 17 2007, 07:33 AM

> QUOTE(calvin @ May 15 2007, 05:42 AM) ☐
>
> DrRe you have done enough bumping of this topic. Now do you have anything to add to the discussion?

She might be waiting for your input, Calvin?

Posted by: SoulEspresso May 17 2007, 08:46 PM

> QUOTE(calvin @ May 14 2007, 08:42 PM) ☐
>
> DrRe you have done enough bumping of this topic. Now do you have anything to add to the discussion?

Well, bumping it does serve to remind us that the biggest problem in this whole saga has not been the divorce, nor the lawsuits, nor the financial abuses (alleged ... but other evidence has not been forthcoming).

It's these victims that have been coming forward, and the evidence sez Danny & Walt covered it up.

SEX ABUSE. At the most visible Adventist ministry in the world. It's unconscionable, and like other churches we already had the habit of glossing over. If this hits the media I hope we learn from it. If it doesn't, we won't--and you can take that to the bank.

Posted by: mozart May 17 2007, 09:57 PM

I think we need to remember also that homosexuality is an abomination to God, so consenting or of age is irrelavent.
There seems to be many issues of preversion here. Abusing a minor, abusing your power over those younger or smaller than you and homosexuality. Even if TS is never found guilty of abuse, he will always be guilty of the abomination of homosexualilty.

> QUOTE(SoulEspresso @ May 17 2007, 07:46 PM) ☐
>
> Well, bumping it does serve to remind us that the biggest problem in this whole saga has not been the divorce, nor the lawsuits, nor the financial abuses (alleged ... but other evidence has not been forthcoming).
>
> It's these victims that have been coming forward, and the evidence sez Danny & Walt covered it up.
>
> SEX ABUSE. At the most visible Adventist ministry in the world. It's unconscionable, and like other churches we already had the habit of glossing over. If this hits the media I hope we learn from it. If it doesn't, we won't--and you can take that to the bank.

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered May 18 2007, 07:20 AM

> QUOTE(mozart @ May 17 2007, 07:57 PM)
>
> I think we need to remember also that homosexuality is an abomination to God, so consenting or of age is irrelavent.
> There seems to be many issues of preversion here. Abusing a minor, abusing your power over those younger or smaller than you and homosexuality. Even if TS is never found guilty of abuse, he will always be guilty of the abomination of homosexualilty.

I would urge a bit of caution here.

ALL sin is an abomination to God because it separates us from Him. From my own observation, there appears to be far more discussion of other types of sin in the Bible than there is for the sin of homosexuality. It is not singled out. I don't believe it holds any greater status as "sin" than any other. I don't believe that there are sins that are more safe to commit than homosexual ones. They all put us in the same position - away from God. Lot's former stomping grounds were not obliterated just for homosexual behavior. That city was destroyed because its residents were completely lost in their focus on and practice of sexual perversions of all kinds.

I believe that what we are and should be concerned about getting to the truth of as far as Tommy Shelton is concerned is not if he has homosexual tendencies but whether or not used his position and power as a pastor to abuse those in his care and whether his brother, or any others, assisted in covering up such behavior to protect TS and the Shelton or 3abn image.

We know he abused Duane Clem. We have seen that proof. We know there are statements from other that claim abuse and statements that his brother, Danny Shelton, attempted to intimidate them into silence by calls and threats of legal action. We have even seen letters from the 3abn attorney that make such threats. This is the area we need to see properly investigated and proven true and resolved or proven false laid to rest.

If Tommy has behaved in a homosexual manner with any freely consenting, adult male partner that is none of our business. That is between Tommy and God alone.

This is my opinion.

Posted by: runner4him May 18 2007, 07:33 AM

> QUOTE(SoulEspresso @ May 17 2007, 08:46 PM)
>
> SEX ABUSE. At the most visible Adventist ministry in the world. It's unconscionable, and like other churches we already had the habit of glossing over. If this hits the media I hope we learn from it. If it doesn't, we won't--and you can take that to the bank.

> QUOTE
>
> QUOTE(mozart @ May 17 2007, 07:57 PM)
>
> There seems to be many issues of preversion here. Abusing a minor, abusing your power over those younger or smaller than you and homosexuality. Even if TS is never found guilty of abuse, he will always be guilty of the abomination of homosexualilty.

Thank you for your words SoulEspresso & Mozart. We needed to be reminded that a terrible thing has happened with this alleged cover up of sexual abuse of minors by a very prominent ministry. I agree maybe we will not wake up and learn unless this hits the media. I have prayed that our church leaders would speak up instead of being behind the scenes doing I am not sure what. Do they want it to take a drastic turn with the media involved? We MUST not gloss over this. God sees every work and we must remember that "your sin will find you out".

Posted by: ex3ABNemployee May 18 2007, 09:15 AM

> QUOTE(PeacefullyBewildered @ May 18 2007, 08:20 AM)
>
> I believe that what we are and should be concerned about getting to the truth of as far as Tommy Shelton is concerned is not if he has homosexual tendencies but whether or not used his position and power as a pastor to abuse those in his care and whether his brother, or any others, assisted in covering up such behavior to protect TS and the Shelton or 3abn image.
>
> We know he abused Duane Clem. We have seen that proof. We know there are statements from other that claim abuse and statements that his brother, Danny Shelton, attempted to intimidate them into silence by calls and threats of legal action. We have even seen letters from the 3abn attorney that make such threats. This is the area we need to see properly investigated and proven true and resolved or proven false laid to rest.

Speaking of which, I have not heard a peep from anyone trying to silence me. This is proof that Danny is not stupid. He knows that if I even get a threat letter, it will be posted on the forums and on Save3abn.com.

Posted by: Pickle May 18 2007, 11:40 AM

> QUOTE(PeacefullyBewildered @ May 18 2007, 07:20 AM)
>
> If Tommy has behaved in a homosexual manner with any freely consenting, adult male partner that is none of our business. That is between Tommy and God alone.

If Tommy has done such things and has not repented and ceased, and if Danny knowing such put him into a high position of authority within a supporting ministry of the Seventh-day Adventist Church, a ministry that claims to be preaching the three angels' messages undiluted, including, "Here is the patience of the saints. Here are they that keep the commandments of God," then I think it is our business.

Posted by: seraph|m May 18 2007, 12:26 PM

> QUOTE(SoulEspresso @ May 17 2007, 11:46 PM)
>
> Well, bumping it does serve to remind us that the biggest problem in this whole saga has not been the divorce, nor the lawsuits, nor the financial abuses (alleged ... but other evidence has not been forthcoming).
>
> It's these victims that have been coming forward, and the evidence sez Danny & Walt covered it up.
>
> SEX ABUSE. At the most visible Adventist ministry in the world. It's unconscionable, and like other churches we already had the habit of glossing over. If this hits the media I hope we learn from it. If it > doesn't, we won't--and you can take that to the bank.

oint taken and, well said.

Ve can only assume that those in a position to make things right have considered that hey have placed ALL the members of the church body at risk of being painted with the ame brush of distasteful behavior as the actual culprits of said behavior. It does not natter that this one person does not represent the Adventist church in name. The fact that e held a prominent position among those who claim to represent the church is what will e remembered by the majority.

he credibility of every congregation and each member, whether directly associated with his mess, or not, will be called into question because the powers that be will be seen as urning a blind eye to it for so long. This makes me wonder, do the powers that be eally care?

> QUOTE(Pickle @ May 18 2007, 02:40 PM)
>
> If Tommy has done such things and has not repented and ceased, and if Danny knowing such put him into a high position of authority within a supporting ministry of the Seventh-day Adventist Church, a ministry that claims to be preaching the three angels' messages undiluted, including, "Here is the patience of the saints. Here are they that keep the commandments of God," then I think it is our business.

AMEN. Consenting adults or not sin is sin. And their very public and private behavior will have an affect on EVERY Seventh day Adventist ministry, whether folks are willing to believe it or not.

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered May 18 2007, 01:12 PM

> QUOTE(Pickle @ May 18 2007, 10:40 AM)
>
> If Tommy has done such things and has not repented and ceased, and if Danny knowing such put him into a high position of authority within a supporting ministry of the Seventh-day Adventist Church, a ministry that claims to be preaching the three angels' messages undiluted, including, "Here is the patience of the saints. Here are they that keep the commandments of God," then I think it is our business.

omans 3:23 says: for all have sinned and fall short of the glory of God he only perfection we can have is through the Righteousness of Christ and His power to cleanse and change ur hearts as we stay focused and connected to Him. However, I do agree with you that anyone who is in a osition of leadership in a supporting ministry of the Seventh-day Adventist Church should not be breaking ny of the commandments, including the one that points to the importance of sexual purity and fidelity. And nyone who puts a person into a position of leadership in such a ministry, fully knowing that they have bused their power as a pastor and have betrayed and preyed on youthful trust, does not belong in eadership, at least until any such situation is made right.

Posted by: Pickle May 18 2007, 01:17 PM

God extends forgiveness to those who confess, repent, and seek to make restitution. We must do the same, even to the point of allowing people like Peter to feed the sheep and lambs again. We must be as long-suffering toward others as we would want them to be toward us.

Yet since God has His limits, we must too.

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered May 18 2007, 01:40 PM

> QUOTE(seraph|m @ May 18 2007, 11:26 AM)
>
> Point taken and, well said.
>
> We can only assume that those in a position to make things right have considered that they have placed ALL the members of the church body at risk of being painted with the same brush of distasteful behavior as the actual culprits of said behavior. It does not matter that this one person does not represent the Adventist church in name. The fact that he held a prominent position among those who claim to represent the church is what will be remembered by the majority.
>
> The credibility of every congregation and each member, whether directly associated with this mess, or not, will be called into question because the powers that be will be seen as turning a blind eye to it for so long. This makes me wonder, do the powers that be really care?
>
> AMEN. Consenting adults or not sin is sin. And their very public and private behavior will have an affect on EVERY Seventh day Adventist ministry, whether folks are willing to believe it or not.

Great points Sera! And as I referred to in my last post, a person practicing homosexual sin or predatory sexual behavior has no place holding a position of leadership in a supporting ministry of the SDA Church. My main point in my previous post was to differentiate between homosexual behavior that separates man from God and predatory sexual abuse that creates victims in the process. Plus, it has been discussed before that a male sexual predator who victimizes young males is not necessarily a homosexual.

Posted by: Pickle May 18 2007, 04:56 PM

Maybe I said this before, but a sociologist here told me that there are folks who want to make pedophilia an orientation, the first step toward acceptance.

Nothing like consistency, even if it is dead wrong.

Posted by: SoulEspresso May 18 2007, 04:59 PM

> QUOTE(Pickle @ May 18 2007, 03:56 PM)
>
> Maybe I said this before, but a sociologist here told me that there are folks who want to make pedophilia an orientation, the first step toward acceptance.
>
> Nothing like consistency, even if it is dead wrong.

Maybe some will make kleptomania an orientation? How far is the culture willing to go with this?

I read recently that male sexuality in particular is polymorphous--meaning it can be shaped, even though for some with deviant "orientations" it's very difficult. Nobody is born a pedophile.

But if pedophilia becomes an orientation, I think the murder rate will go up.

Posted by: Skyhook May 18 2007, 06:01 PM

> QUOTE(SoulEspresso @ May 18 2007, 05:59 PM)
>
> But if pedophilia becomes an orientation, I think the murder rate will go up.

Soul, you may not be far off on this one. There was a case that demonstrates this several years ago (in the 80s) in Tuolumne county California in the little town of Toulumne a hearing was taking place in a little storefront that was used as a courtroom. The case concerned the molestation of an early teen boy by a man in his 30s I believe. The accused man was described as turning to look at the boy and his mother with a smirk on his face. The mother's sister who was sitting beside her had placed a handgun on the table in front of the mother who promptly picked it up and shot the defendant, killing him.

In Toulmne county a permit to carry concealed weapons could be had for the asking, and I have heard that a large number of people were "packing," including a lot of women, so it wasn't unusual for there to be a weapon handy.

An irony of the case was that same week there was an article in the paper telling of the release from prison of a man who had been convicted in Tuolomne county of sexually abusing his 4 year old daughter. He was released after winning his appeal. The appeal was granted because the mother, under questioning had told the court that she had left her husband and went to a safe house after her husband had apparantly deliberately ran over thier son who was a toddler. This happened after a long series of questionable injury accidents involving thier pets and children. The appeal court ruled that this was innadmissble testimony and released him after he had served 3 years of a 6 year sentance. The DA decided not to re-try the case. The man is currently listed on California's list of sex offenders as not having reported for the past few years. Whereabouts unknown.
I know about this case because the mother is my youngest daughter, and the children are my grandkids. I spotted this guy as a sociopath by the second time I met him.

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered May 18 2007, 06:44 PM

> QUOTE(SoulEspresso @ May 18 2007, 02:59 PM)
>
> Maybe some will make kleptomania an orientation? How far is the culture willing to go with this?
>
> I read recently that male sexuality in particular is polymorphous--meaning it can be shaped, even though for some with deviant "orientations" it's very difficult. Nobody is born a pedophile.
>
> But if pedophilia becomes an orientation, I think the murder rate will go up.

SE,
The world may just get bad enough to allow pedophilia to become an orientation. If and when it does, I think the heavens will part quite quickly and Jesus will return because the cup of iniquity would, at that point, HAVE to be completely full!

> QUOTE(Skyhook @ May 18 2007, 04:01 PM)
>
> Soul, you may not be far off on this one. There was a case that demonstrates this several years ago (in the 80s) in Tuolumne county California in the little town of Toulumne a hearing was taking place in a little storefront that was used as a courtroom. The case concerned the molestation of an early teen boy by a > man in his 30s I believe. The accused man was described as turning to look at the boy and his mother with a smirk on his face. The mother's sister who was sitting beside her had placed a handgun on the table in front of the mother who promptly picked it up and shot the defendant, killing him.

>
> In Toulmne county a permit to carry concealed weapons could be had for the asking, and I have heard that a large number of people were "packing," including a lot of women, so it wasn't unusual for there to be a weapon handy.
>
> An irony of the case was that same week there was an article in the paper telling of the release from prison of a man who had been convicted in Tuolomne county of sexually abusing his 4 year old daughter. He was released after winning his appeal. The appeal was granted because the mother, under questioning had told the court that she had left her husband and went to a safe house after her husband had apparantly deliberately ran over thier son who was a toddler. This happened after a long series of questionable injury accidents involving thier pets and children. The appeal court ruled that this was innadmissble testimony and released him after he had served 3 years of a 6 year sentance. The DA decided not to re-try the case.
> The man is currently listed on California's list of sex offenders as not having reported for the past few years. Whereabouts unknown.
> I know about this case because the mother is my youngest daughter, and the children are my grandkids. I spotted this guy as a sociopath by the second time I met him.

Skyhook,
think we all need to pray for you and your daughter and family! What a heart-wrenching experience.

Posted by: mozart May 18 2007, 09:38 PM

thanks PB, i understand what you mean but my point was, his open sin should not have been ignored, covered up or minimized. yes we are all sinners but God did make it a point to call some sin "an abomination". He was specific on some. Why is that?

> QUOTE(PeacefullyBewildered @ May 18 2007, 01:40 PM)
>
> Plus, it has been discussed before that a male sexual predator who victimizes young males is not necessarily a homosexual.

i guess i missed that thread. if this is so, then what would one who does these abominations be?

nd who determines that? can you clarify for me or point me in the right direction, please?

> QUOTE(Pickle @ May 18 2007, 04:56 PM)
>
> Maybe I said this before, but a sociologist here told me that there are folks who want to make pedophilia an orientation, the first step toward acceptance.
>
> Nothing like consistency, even if it is dead wrong.

hat's like that shrink that said "Road Rage is a Syndrome". there's an excuse for everything i guess.

where's that puking smiley? guezz owl jiss bang me ade!

Posted by: Skyhook May 18 2007, 10:22 PM

> QUOTE(PeacefullyBewildered @ May 18 2007, 07:44 PM)

> Skyhook,
> I think we all need to pray for you and your daughter and family! What a heart-wrenching experience.

Thank you Mozart. I apreciate that.

Posted by: Ralph May 18 2007, 10:28 PM

> QUOTE(Skyhook @ May 18 2007, 05:01 PM) ☐
>
> I spotted this guy as a sociopath by the second time I met him.

What were the things that helped you spot him as a sociopath?

Posted by: Skyhook May 18 2007, 11:03 PM

> QUOTE(Ralph @ May 18 2007, 11:28 PM) ☐
>
> What were the things that helped you spot him as a sociopath?

That is a little hard to explain, I have been around quite a few. He was very engratiating almost to the point of obsequiousness. He had been introduced to my daughter by his neice who was a classmate of my daughter. My daughter had just graduated from high school and was very naive. He lived in a different town. While he was dating my daughter, I learned from my older daughter that he already had a young wife and a baby and if I recall correctly, didn't have a regular job. Some times young guys like that can pull it together and do something with thier life. This guy never did.

I have to admit I was no prize when I was young. In the Autobiography of Malcolm X he said that if anyone came to his home to see his daughter looking like he did as a teenager, he would have run him off in a flash. I can really relate to that, but when Jesus came into my life, it changed everything and put me on a better road. Otherwise, I had a very good chance of ending up like some of my friends from my late teen years--on heroin, in prison or dead.

Posted by: Observer May 19 2007, 04:30 AM

> QUOTE(PeacefullyBewildered @ May 18 2007, 01:40 PM) ☐
>
> Great points Sera! And as I referred to in my last post, a person practicing homosexual sin or predatory sexual behavior has no place holding a position of leadership in a supporting ministry of the SDA Church. My main point in my previous post was to differentiate between homosexual behavior that separates man from God and predatory sexual abuse that creates victims in the process. Plus, it has been discussed before that a male sexual predator who victimizes young males is not necessarily a homosexual.

Comments on several points, by several people:

The North American Man Boy Love Association (NAMBA) has the goal of making sex between male adults and male minors acceptable to society, or at least legal.

Forgiveness is an importat Christian value. That does not mean that one who has demonstrated a weakness in a specific area should be exposed to that area. If I steal money from the one who employees me, I do not need to be returned to my position to demonstrate forgiveness. One who commits a sexual sin does not need to be placed in a position where the opportunity to commit tht sexual sin exists. e.g. Do not place a child molester in a position to care for children.

Whether one agrees with the definations or not, standard psychiatric definations of homosexuality and pedophelia differ. A homosexuall is not automatically one who molests same-sex children. Just as a heterosexual is not automaticly one who is sexually attracted to children of the same gender.

The sexual attraction to adults is quite different from the sexual attraction to children.

NOTE: I am aware of the issues of power which are commonly involved in sexual misconduct issues. I am simply not discussing them in this comment.

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered May 19 2007, 09:57 AM

NAMBLA held a march in San Francisco some years back attempting to make a case for their cause. It didn't go over well. They got onto the news so we all got to see their lecherous faces.

As sick as some parts of society are, I believe it will take a long time before men like this will infect opinion enough to make such a behavior acceptable. Of course, with the growing number of dysfunctional family systems that conceal and protect sexual abusers out of a desperately misplaced loyalty, it won't be a surprise when damaged thinking permeates society so deeply that behavior such as this will become "normal".

Posted by: Clay May 19 2007, 10:50 AM

> QUOTE(PeacefullyBewildered @ May 19 2007, 10:57 AM)
>
> NAMBLA held a march in San Francisco some years back attempting to make a case for their cause. It didn't go over well. They got onto the news so we all got to see their lecherous faces.
>
> As sick as some parts of society are, I believe it will take a long time before men like this will infect opinion enough to make such a behavior acceptable. Of course, with the growing number of dysfunctional family systems that conceal and protect sexual abusers out of a desperately misplaced loyalty, it won't be a surprise when damaged thinking permeates society so deeply that behavior such as this will become "normal".

a couple of observations.... all families no matter how perfect they perceive themselves are dysfunctional.... and they are dysfunctional because of sin... so none of us need throw stones.... in fact I suspect that all of us have relatives who could make the stuff shown on Jerry Springer look tame.... and IF we don't have relatives, then we could very well be the ones who could easily appear on Springer.....

Secondly... it is apparent that things have not gotten as bad as they were prior to Sodom and Gomorrah or prior to the Flood... if things were that bad, then God would intervene as He did then I would think.....

Lastly, because this particular issue tends to be more visible people often target it.... but let's not forget, pride, arrogance, indifference, lack of compassion are also things that God disapproves....

Posted by: Fran May 19 2007, 01:10 PM

> QUOTE(Clay @ May 19 2007, 11:50 AM) ☐
>
> a couple of observations.... all families no matter how perfect they perceive themselves are dysfunctional....

Clay;

Didn't you promise not to talk about me & my family? ☐ ☒ rofl ☒ rofl

---

Posted by: Clay May 19 2007, 01:15 PM

> QUOTE(Fran @ May 19 2007, 02:10 PM) ☐
>
> Clay;
>
> Didn't you promise not to talk about me & my family? ☐ ☒ rofl ☒ rofl oops..... ☒ s sorry....

Posted by: Seraphim7 May 19 2007, 02:49 PM

> QUOTE(PeacefullyBewildered @ May 18 2007, 09:44 PM) ☐
>
> SE,
> The world may just get bad enough to allow pedophilia to become an orientation. If and when it does, I think the heavens will part quite quickly and Jesus will return because the cup of iniquity would, at that point, HAVE to be completely full!
> Skyhook,
> I think we all need to pray for you and your daughter and family! What a heart-wrenching experience.

Though a number of other factors, will likely, affect the cup of human iniquity becoming full, I agree 200%

Posted by: PrincessDrRe May 21 2007, 09:07 PM

> QUOTE(Pickle @ May 18 2007, 03:17 PM) ☐
>
> God extends forgiveness to those who confess, repent, and seek to make restitution. We must do the same, even to the point of allowing people like Peter to feed the sheep and lambs again. We must be as long-suffering toward others as we would want them to be toward us.

> Yet since God has His limits, we must too.

..and one of those is to "forgive" however do we expose that person to children...again...giving him the hance to re-offend?

Vould you sacrifice your children? (This is a "general" YOU - NOT to be pointed at anyone.....)

☒ sn

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered May 21 2007, 09:24 PM

> QUOTE(PrincessDrRe @ May 21 2007, 08:07 PM) ☐
>
> ...and one of those is to "forgive" however do we expose that person to children...again...giving him the chance to re-offend?
>
> Would you sacrifice your children? (This is a "general" YOU - NOT to be pointed at anyone.....)
>
> ☒ sn

ot this side of the gates of heaven!

Posted by: PrincessDrRe May 22 2007, 07:21 PM

☒

Posted by: PrincessDrRe Jun 26 2007, 04:29 AM

Bumpin...so that it is not "erased" from memory....

Posted by: Denny Jun 26 2007, 05:52 AM

> QUOTE(PrincessDrRe @ Jun 26 2007, 11:29 AM) ☐
>
> Bumpin...so that it is not "erased" from memory....

sk the moderator to pin it.

Posted by: SoulEspresso Jun 26 2007, 10:31 AM

> QUOTE(Denny @ Jun 26 2007, 04:52 AM) ☐
>
> Ask the moderator to pin it.

That's my vote.

That the leadership of 3ABN was winking at allegations so serious destroys their credibility (it ought to be atomized by now, but).

Posted by: PrincessDrRe Jun 26 2007, 07:20 PM

I asked earlier...but it didn't "merit" it.....

I can keep bumpin.....

☒ sna

Printable Version of Topic

Click here to view this topic in its original format

BlackSDA _ 3ABN _ Walt Thompson Defends The Lawsuit

Posted by: Pickle Jun 15 2007, 08:23 PM

Here is a small portion of a form letter Walt Thompson is sending out when justifying 3ABN suing other Adventists:

> QUOTE(Walt Thompson)
>
> We have been accused falsely. That was OK until it began to seriously impact the ministry. When, in spite of everything we knew how to do, our donors started holding back their gifts, we grinned and bore it. When, however, we discovered that the leadership of the church had cautioned its workers to cool it and refrain from involvement with 3abn until "it resolved its problems," we concluded it was time to do something. I spoke with Mark at the GC seeking help. He told me over and over again that the leadership of the church could not and would not get involved in our disputes. He suggested, as others had and as we had considered, to request help from ASI. We sent a request to ASI. After some time and a number of meetings of their exec. committee, they finally agreed to establish a commission to respond to our request.

According to Harold Lance's January 24, 2007, statement, 3ABN's board decided to send a request to ASI on September 24. Thus Walt is claiming above that church leaders were asking church employees to distance themselves from 3ABN prior to September 24. And he is also claiming that prior to that, donations were down enough that it could have been a concern.

Is this true at all? Were donations significantly down prior to September 24? Were church leaders asking employees to distance themselves from 3ABN prior to September 24? Or is this a reconstruction of history and an intentional fabrication?

> QUOTE(Walt Thompson)
>
> As far as seeking non-Adventist attorneys and going to the courts, I might site the example of the Apostle Paul, who wrote the portion of First Corinthians 6:5-7, about the courts, but himself finally appealed to Ceasar because he was unable to work things out with his one people. I quote from Acts of the Apostles, " "When Festus was come into the province, after three days he ascended from Caesarea to Jerusalem. Then the high priest and the chief of the Jews informed him against Paul, and besought him, and desired favor against him, that he would send for him to Jerusalem." In making this request they purposed to waylay Paul along the road to Jerusalem and murder him. But Festus had a high sense of the responsibility of his position, and courteously declined to send for Paul. "It is not the manner of the Romans," he declared, "to deliver any man to die, before that he which is accused have the accusers face to face, and have license to answer for himself concerning the crime laid against him." He stated that "he himself would depart shortly" for Caesarea. "Let them there . . . which among you are able, go down with me, and accuse this man, if there be any wickedness in him."

Does the above logic apply to this case? The apostle Paul was accused in a court of law by his own people, and in order to escape the snares they had set for him using the legal system of his day, he appealed to Caesar.

So who would represent Paul today? Who would represent his accusers? Specifically, who is accusing whom in a court of law in this case? Who is trying to use today's legal process to destroy whom?

Posted by: Fran Jun 15 2007, 09:09 PM

I Can See Clearly Now

I can see clearly now, the rain is gone,
I can see all obstacles in my way
Gone are the dark clouds that had me blind
It's gonna be a bright (bright), bright (bright)
Sun-Shiny day.

I think I can make it now, the pain is gone
All of the bad feelings have disappeared
Here is the rainbow I've been prayin' for
It's gonna be a bright (bright), bright (bright)
Sun-Shiny day.

Look all around, there's nothin?but blue skies
Look straight ahead, nothin?but blue skies

I can see clearly now, the rain is gone,
I can see all obstacles in my way
Gone are the dark clouds that had me blind
It's gonna be a bright (bright), bright (bright)
Sun-Shiny day.

Posted by: LaurenceD Jun 15 2007, 09:31 PM

There isn't a normal Adventist alive who wouldn't stop donating to 3abn after watching that live explantion of the marriage problems by that salesman.

WT, DS, and all the other supporters were/are out of touch with the normal SDA if they thought they could pull that off and still survive.

It's like they're in denial of the real problem, and seeking revenge with one of the effects. But that's normal for people who can't face the truth.

Edit: definitions of "normal" may vary, but I mix with a wide variety of normal SDAs...and this is my impression.

Posted by: mikell Jun 15 2007, 10:08 PM

Am I reading WT right? Did he compare Danny Shelton to the Apostle Paul???

Posted by: Artiste Jun 15 2007, 10:55 PM

> QUOTE(Pickle @ Jun 15 2007, 06:23 PM) ☐
>
> Here is a small portion of a form letter Walt Thompson is sending out when justifying 3ABN suing other Adventists:

What is the date of this letter, and what are the rest of the contents?

****

Posted by: Daryl Fawcett Jun 16 2007, 01:21 AM

Yes, it would be nice to see the whole form letter.

Posted by: Fran Jun 16 2007, 01:45 AM

> QUOTE(Daryl Fawcett @ Jun 16 2007, 01:21 AM)
>
> Yes, it would be nice to see the whole form letter.

My feelings are hurt! I didn't get one! why

Posted by: Pickle Jun 16 2007, 07:54 AM

I will not provide the entire letter, but I will say that there are multiple copies going around, and that it was being sent out by Walt this last week.

I will provide this much:

> QUOTE(Walt Thompson)
>
> We have been accused falsely. That was OK until it began to seriously impact the ministry. When, in spite of everything we knew how to do, our donors started holding back their gifts, we grinned and bore it. When, however, we discovered that the leadership of the church had cautioned its workers to cool it and refrain from involvement with 3abn until "it resolved its problems," we concluded it was time to do something. I spoke with Mark at the GC seeking help. He told me over and over again that the leadership of the church could not and would not get involved in our disputes. He suggested, as others had and as we had considered, to request help from ASI. We sent a request to ASI. After some time and a number of meetings of their exec. committee, they finally agreed to establish a commission to respond to our request. After several months of trying, they sent us a memo stating that because Linda's supporters would not play by the rules they were attempting to work by, they could not help us. We thought of establishing a small private group to review the events and make an evaluation. In view of the fact that ASI was unable to gather the necessary facts, there was certainly no chance that a group we established would be able to do so.
>
> So, what do we do? Let the ministry go down without a wimper? We believe we have done everything one could possibly do to tell the truth and to do right. Yes, we might have continued to pray and expect God to yet bring us through the crisis. But as I read the record of the Bible, though God has always been the One who goes before His people into battle, He has often insisted that they also have a role to play. Gideon is just one example of many.
>
> As far as seeking non-Adventist attorneys and going to the courts, I might site the example of the Apostle Paul, who wrote the portion of First Corinthians 6:5-7, about the courts, but himself finally appealed to Ceasar because he was unable to work things out with his one people. I quote from Acts of the Apostles, " "When Festus was come into the province, after three days he ascended from Caesarea to Jerusalem. Then the high priest and the chief of the Jews informed him against Paul, and besought him, and desired favor against him, that he would send for him to Jerusalem." In making this request they purposed to waylay Paul along the road to Jerusalem and murder him. But Festus had a high sense of the responsibility of his position, and courteously declined to send for Paul. "It is not the manner of the Romans," he declared, "to deliver any man to die, before that he which is accused have the accusers face to face, and have license to answer for himself concerning the crime laid against him." He stated that "he himself would depart shortly" for Caesarea. "Let them there . . . which among you are able, go down with me, and accuse this man, if there be any wickedness in him."

429
{AA 428.1}

This was not what the Jews wanted. They had not forgotten their former defeat at Caesarea. In contrast with the calm bearing and forcible arguments of the apostle, their own malignant spirit and baseless accusations would appear in the worst possible light. Again they urged that Paul be brought to Jerusalem for trial, but Festus held firmly to his purpose of giving Paul a fair trial at Caesarea. God in His providence controlled the decision of Festus, that the life of the apostle might be lengthened. {AA 429.1}

Their purposes defeated, the Jewish leaders at once prepared to witness against Paul at the court of the procurator. Upon returning to Caesarea, after a few days' sojourn at Jerusalem, Festus "the next day sitting on the judgment seat commanded Paul to be brought." "The Jews which came down from Jerusalem stood round about, and laid many and grievous complaints against Paul, which they could not prove." Being on this occasion without a lawyer, the Jews preferred their charges themselves. As the trial proceeded, the accused with calmness and candor clearly showed the falsity of their statements. {AA 429.2}

Festus discerned that the question in dispute related wholly to Jewish doctrines, and that, rightly understood, there was nothing in the charges against Paul, could they be proved, that would render him subject to sentence of death, or even to imprisonment. Yet he saw clearly the storm of rage that would be created if Paul were not condemned or delivered into their hands. And so, "willing to do the Jews a pleasure," Festus turned to Paul, and asked if he was willing to go to Jerusalem under his protection, to be tried by the Sanhedrin. {AA 429.3}
430

The apostle knew that he could not look for justice from the people who by their crimes were bringing down upon themselves the wrath of God. He knew that, like the prophet Elijah, he would be safer among the heathen than with those who had rejected light from heaven and hardened their hearts against the gospel. Weary of strife, his active spirit could ill endure the repeated delays and wearing suspense of his trial and imprisonment. He therefore decided to exercise his privilege, as a Roman citizen, of appealing to Caesar. {AA 430.1}

In answer to the governor's question, Paul said: "I stand at Caesar's judgment seat, where I ought to be judged: to the Jews have I done no wrong, as thou very well knowest. For if I be an offender, or have committed anything worthy of death, I refuse not to die: but if there be none of these things whereof these accuse me, no man may deliver me unto them. I appeal unto Caesar." {AA 430.2}

Festus knew nothing of the conspiracies of the Jews to murder Paul, and he was surprised at this appeal to Caesar. However, the words of the apostle put a stop to the proceedings of the court. "Festus, when he had conferred with the council, answered, Hast thou appealed unto Caesar? unto Caesar shalt thou go." {AA 430.3}

Thus it was that once more, because of hatred born of bigotry and self-righteousness, a servant of God was driven to turn for protection to the heathen. It was this same hatred that forced the prophet Elijah to flee for succor to the widow of Sarepta; and that forced the heralds of the gospel to turn from the Jews to proclaim their message to the Gentiles. And this hatred the people of God living in this age have yet to meet. Among many of the professing followers of Christ there is the same pride, formalism, and selfishness, the same spirit of oppression, that held so large a place in the Jewish heart. In the future, men claiming to be Christ's representatives will take a course similar to that followed by the priests and rulers in their treatment of Christ and the apostles. In the great crisis through which they are soon to pass, the faithful servants of God will encounter the same hardness of heart, the same cruel determination, the same unyielding hatred. {AA 430.4} (Witness the posts on the Internet and other places!) All who in that evil day would fearlessly serve God according to the dictates of conscience, will need courage, firmness, and a knowledge of God and His word; for those who are true to God will be persecuted, their motives will be impugned, their best efforts misinterpreted, and their names cast out as evil. Satan will work with all his deceptive power to influence the heart and becloud the understanding, to make evil appear good, and good evil. The stronger and purer > the faith of God's people, and the firmer their determination to obey Him, the more fiercely will Satan strive to stir up against them the rage of those who, while claiming to be righteous, trample upon the law of God. It will require the firmest trust, the most heroic purpose, to hold fast the faith once delivered to the saints. {AA 431.1}
431

>
> This statement describes the vicious attacks against 3abn and its people exactly. Those making the attacks never came to us seeking truth, but rather, came to us with false accusations challenging us to prove them wrong in the "court" of public opinion where no oath requires truth to be told.
>
> This was not an easy decision for Danny or I. I expect the same is true for the other members of the board that voted to move foreword with the suit. You may consider it a lack of faith! Perhaps! But I don't think so. For we earnestly sought the guidance of God before signing anything.
>
> Some might call it paranoia, but I believe the devil does not like what he sees happening with this ministry. Doors continue to open for the proclamation fo the gospel. The Ten Commandment weekend has been great, teaching our viewers all around the world about the God of love behind the Commandments. I firmly believe God will see us through these difficult times, but we too must have a part to play.
>
> We cherish your comments and prayers. We truly want to do what is right. As I read the comments you sent from EGW, and a few others in her writings, I was troubled because I know we have sought God's guidance at every step. I still believe what EGW wrote. It has been my modus operandi through life from a personal perspective. I cannot as easily let the cause of God be victimized without responding in my Lord's defense. Yes, I know He doesn't need my defense, but I owe it to Him for His goodness to me.
>
> While I do not equate the Church Manual with EGW or the Bible, I do think that God does guide the Church.
>
> The current CHRUCH MANUAL clearly states that there are situations where the church has neither the authority nor the ability to resolve disputes, and in such cases recourse is only to the civil authorities.
>
> The CHRUCH MANUAL also states that the church should not be diverted from its mission to preach the gospel to become a civil magistrate.

hereby go on record that I find the above communication by Walt Thompson to be reprehensible. Here I am, rohibited by a federal judge to even say what I am being sued about, and here he is, behind my back, naking statements like this? I never came to any of them seeking truth? Never came to John Lomacang, ollie Steenson, Walt himself, Danny Shelton, or Hal Steenson? Never once?

s Walt Thompson man enough, Christian enough, to apologize for making the above statement? Or is he like anny, seemingly incapable of backing down on the minutest point?

efore you quibble with my words, think carefully about what he wrote, and consider the questions I asked in ny correspondence and where those questions came from.

Posted by: LaurenceD Jun 16 2007, 08:44 AM

You can tell that WT is the ultimate authority that decieds what is what...(I hear it's not unusual for for doctors to play God)

"We have been accused falsely." (WT decides, but doesn't say accused of what. He seems incapable of acknowledging there are two sides to every story, and that his is only a story. What about LS? Is it possible she was "falsely accused" No, of course not)

"We believe we have done everything one could possibly do to tell the truth and to do right." (WT determines this by "believe" which covers the truth through sincerity and motive)

"I might site the example of the Apostle Paul," (WT assumes authority to emulate the example of Paul rather than Christ at His trial--and goes on at some length about Paul, perhaps even making unwarranted parallels, because it may justify 3abn's motives--both 3abn and Paul being fallible examples)

"came to us with false accusations challenging us to prove them wrong in the "court of public opinion

Printable Version of Topic

Click here to view this topic in its original format

BlackSDA _ 3ABN _ Conclusions

Posted by: howdy Feb 17 2007, 07:37 PM

After reading most of the "evidence" that has been presented on this board and others I have no hesitation in stating my conclusion. To do so I need no more than two indisputable facts. These are, first the fact that DS cannot present any credible proof for his allegations re his former wife and two, the fact that his step daughter has told of his inappropriate behavior towards her. I conclude that D Shelton is the one who is stating untruths and attempting to cover his mis demeanors.

I would be willing to cut some slack for his defenders.

howdy

Posted by: PrincessDrRe Feb 17 2007, 09:40 PM

Well alright....

☒ sn

Posted by: ida Feb 18 2007, 11:01 AM

> QUOTE(howdy @ Feb 18 2007, 01:37 AM)
>
> After reading most of the "evidence" that has been presented on this board and others I have no hesitation in stating my conclusion. To do so I need no more than two indisputable facts. These are, first the fact that DS cannot present any credible proof for his allegations re his former wife and two, the fact that his step daughter has told of his inappropriate behavior towards her. I conclude that D Shelton is the one who is stating untruths and attempting to cover his mis demeanors.
>
> I would be willing to cut some slack for his defenders.
>
> howdy

Reading the defense of Danny Shelton is also a strong indication to me that he has no argument, so I am inclined to agree with you.

Posted by: LadyTenor Feb 19 2007, 12:15 PM

I know we don't gamble, but I'm taking bets as to how long it takes for Bystander, wwjd, Alethia and any other of Danny's minions to respond....

Posted by: ida Feb 22 2007, 03:53 PM

> QUOTE(howdy @ Feb 18 2007, 01:37 AM)

> After reading most of the "evidence" that has been presented on this board and others I have no hesitation in stating my conclusion. To do so I need no more than two indisputable facts. These are, first the fact that DS cannot present any credible proof for his allegations re his former wife and two, the fact that his step daughter has told of his inappropriate behavior towards her. I conclude that D Shelton is the one who is stating untruths and attempting to cover his mis demeanors.
>
> I would be willing to cut some slack for his defenders.
>
> howdy

Having read most of the arguments found on this net, I must conclude that the two points Howdy refers to in his posts are really the most important points in this whole discussion.

No fasting or prayer meeting can change these two facts. So let any honest person involved take aktion righ here.

1. There is no credible proof that Linda is guilty of the allegations made against her.

2. Linda´s daughter has made a clear statement of Danny´s improper and immoral behavior towards her.

Have you ever heard of God changing facts, even if the guilty person receives forgiveness?

Does a real revival ever happen without sins confessed and restitution made for the evil things done?

How can God answer prayers if those praying have already made up their minds to ignore guilt, while demanding blessings?

Barbara Kerr´s first letter cannon be dismissed. Read how she for a long time was supporting Danny, and then what made her change her mind. It is intersting to note how many people state that it was not what Linda said, suggested, or wrote, which influenced them in her favor. It was the inconsistencies in Danny´s own expressions, and yet the Danny camp now claims that Linda is behind all of the opposition against himself?

> QUOTE
>
> July 7, 2006
>
> This is a formal statement which is long overdue. I did not disclose this information when the events occurred because I did not want to hurt my mother. I did not want to cause trouble with 3 ABN, and I was too embarrassed to talk about it. Now that some time has passed and circumstances have changed I feel the need to share this information. I want to spare others from being exposed to the same treatment that I have experienced.
>
> 1) The repeated inappropriate actions from my ex-stepfather, Danny Shelton, occurred in the summer of the year 2000.
>
> 2) I had been away at school for some years. I was happy to be returning home to attend a local University.
>
> 3) My mother always went to bed rather early. Her bedroom was upstairs and my bedroom was downstairs. Danny started coming into my room getting into my bed and rubbing my back. He seemed to "accidentally" get too low. I told him I did not want a back rub. He ignored me. This happened repeatedly.
>
> 4) I began locking my bedroom door every night. Sometimes he would come to the door and knock again and again. I did not answer. He then repeatedly unlocked my bedroom door and came into my room. He would then get into my bed. I was not comfortable with this but I was so tired I still fell asleep. I awoke sometimes with his hands in inappropriate places. He would say "Oh, I'm sorry. I thought it was your Mom." He told me not to tell my Mom. I told him to stay out of my room. He still came. I started sleep on the living room couch so that he could not lie beside me.

5) I felt threatened and very uncomfortable with these things, so I made arrangements to move out.

Signed,

____

Alyssa Moore (daughter of Linda Shelton)

Posted by: ida Feb 22 2007, 05:07 PM

Heree is Barbara´s letter;

For two years now I, Barbara Kerr, have kept silent regarding the happenings surrounding one of my best friends, Linda Shelton. I am one of those ministries referred to in Dr. Abrahamsen's letter that was affected adversely by the split of the Shelton marriage. June 1st, 2004, all of Linda's programming was taken off of the air. By default, my ministry seemingly disappeared overnight as we had taped 99% of all of my cooking programs together.

I didn't know anything was wrong until the first week of May 2004. (I was in Italy the entire month of April and was not available to Linda.) As soon as I heard the rumors that she had "run off" with a Norwegian doctor, I called Linda (she was at 3ABN not in Norway). I jumped in my car the next day with my friend Claudia, and we made the 11-hour drive to West Frankfort, IL. We stayed three days and had an opportunity to visit with both Danny and Linda.

I would like to stop here and say that by my not being a "paid" employee of 3ABN, I have had a unique opportunity watching employees come and go. In seven years of volunteering at this ministry, I really got a feel for their personalities versus their characters. I also watched in horror, as some people would work so hard to position themselves to climb the ladder of success. You could see "pride of position" stamped on their foreheads as they walked the halls searching desperately for fame. It's no wonder Linda and Danny both have become leery over the years of people trying to become their "friends". It's unfortunate that people will use people, but this is the real world after all, and God warns us that "whoever desires to become great among you shall be your servant, and whoever of you desires to be first shall be slave of all. For even the Son of Man did not come to be served but to serve, and to give His life a ransom for many."

I had the privilege of meeting many Godly people while volunteering at 3ABN who were the same off of camera as they were when the cameras were rolling. I would have to say that was especially true of Linda Shelton. She was as sweet, charming, spiritual and innocent off camera as she was on! If that was the only statement that I had to make about Linda, it would be enough, for each of you saw the "real" Linda as she held out her hand in prayer on every "Presents" program.

I have kept my mouth shut to the public about the things that I have known for the past two years because I knew that God would reveal every secret thing in its time.

Danny is a very powerful man. Maybe the most powerful man in the SDA church and his influence is felt far and wide. When he doesn't like you he has no problem picking up the phone to call conference presidents and heads of ministries. I have personally felt his wrath, and its consequences by standing up to him, asking hard questions (when everyone else was afraid too) and continuing to be a friend to Linda and support her through this nightmare.

I can honestly say that I hate injustice and I refuse to stand by and watch someone be bullied. My husband and I are very much the same in this respect. With that said, it was so incredibly confusing those first few months listening to both Danny and Linda talk about their "problem". Each person was emphatic that the other person was lying. At this time, both Dan and Linda had credibility with me even though Linda and I were actually close friends. It would give me a headache just trying to sort out what each one had verbalized.

It was also clear early on that Linda had a receptive spirit to being counseled, while Dan was "closed off" and "non-receptive". By that statement I don't mean that he wouldn't talk to Claudia and me. He did. He just did 99% of the talking. It was as if Dan was on "machine gun mode" and his words just shot out of him like bullets. I should also say that at the time we drove up to 3ABN, it didn't matter to me if Linda was guilty or innocent. I was on my way because she needed a friend.

I was appalled that Linda had been locked out of 3ABN and completely cut off from talking to the employees. The hard drive from her computer was removed and she wasn't able to retrieve any information that she had stored in that computer.

I may not be a PhD, but it didn't take much common sense to see that Linda was being "cut off" from all former friends and co-workers. Linda, Claudia and myself talked for hours, we prayed together, we cried together and we counseled together. I kept hearing the words of Jesus in my ears; "Greater love has no one than this, than to lay down one's life for his friends."

Danny has always maintained that Linda would not receive counsel and it is my belief that nothing could be farther from the truth. What she didn't want was 3ABN "arranged" counsel and refused anything that smelled of it.

I had one opportunity to ask Danny tough questions during our three-day stay. I knew that even by asking, that they might not be well received. My questions were 1) Are you having an affair? 2) Have you fallen in love with someone else? 3) Are you willing to acknowledge that you have responsibility for your marriage falling apart?

Dan emphatically denied an affair or any love interest other than Linda, but he was completely unwilling to take one shred of responsibility for the marriage beginning to unravel. The entire blame was on Linda's shoulders and he had many reasons why it was all her fault.

During the weeks that followed I received several two-hour long phone calls from Danny. I averaged about five minutes during those conversations. Again, his words flew out like machine gun fire almost painful to listen to. He was definitely on a mission to discredit his wife and isolate her from ANYONE that lent her a helping hand or a shoulder to cry on. He sounded so extremely believable and convincing. He had some kind of so-called "proof" for every "thing" she was being accused of. Eventually Danny persuaded me with partial truths that Linda was the one in the wrong. I was even mad at Dr. Abrahamsen for not walking away from the situation because I believed he was only making matters worse by continuing to be-friend her.

Linda and I didn't speak for about three months (Oct.- Dec.), but she continued to maintain her innocence. Occasionally she would send me an email with an update and a kind word. Never once did she get mad at me for not "siding" with her. What I found strange was that every time Linda and I would begin talking over the phone again, within about 24-hours I would get a phone call out of the blue from Dan and he would begin his torturous rundown of all his "evidence". (Were her phones tapped?) hmmmm.......

I prayed that God would show me the truth in the situation and I asked for wisdom to respond to each of them. Whenever Linda and I began to reconnect again, Danny became angry. His words were more than unkind as he spoke "ugliness" about his former wife. I began losing respect for him not only as a husband, but as the Christian leader he should have been portraying! He spoke about his wife's menstrual cycle freely over the phone. (HUGE MISTAKE – how inappropriate and disgusting. AND, if he was discussing it with me, surely he was discussing it with others). He actually had the nerve to say one day, "Well, I've always said that Linda would spread her legs for anyone". Unbelievable beyond words!!!!!! What Christian leader would say that? And to use the words "I've always said". How many times had he said that to someone?

These disgusting statements weren't the first time Danny's words had turned my stomach causing me to lose tremendous respect for him as a leader. It is shameful to even repeat what he said. (I have decided not to repeat it because it's too horrible and what bugs me more than anything is that I can't tell this truth, because no matter how true it is, the incident is too inflammatory to be published. Maybe someday, the truth will be known.)

The last time I taped a cooking program at 3ABN was early December of 2003. I will never forget gathering up the last tray full of dishes and food on the kitchen set and heading for the door. As I neared the piano, goose bumps stood up all over my body and a voice so audible in my head said, "This is the last time you will ever tape a program here". I was so shocked I stopped walking, turned around to look at the kitchen set and said out loud, "No, that can't be". There was no shaking the feeling, so I stood there in stunned silence for a moment as I took it all in one last time.

I was sure the voice must be wrong because Dee Hildebrand and I had already set the schedule for the following year. The strangest thing happened though. My normal schedule of taping every other month beginning in January just wouldn't work out. This time, no matter how we tried to arrange the schedule, the first possible spot was just after July 4th, taping a LIVE with Dr. Neil Nedley. Then, I wasn't on the schedule again until late September, so we also booked October, and December.

I don't remember if it was January, February or March (2004), but Kay Kuzma called my home and told me that she was working on a new book called Mending Broken People. It was to be a book about the ministries that "made up" 3ABN and the miracle stories that surrounded their work. She interviewed me for about 40 minutes over the phone asking questions about Taste Of Health and how my ministry had changed the lives of others. I shared several testimonies with her and she thanked me for my contribution to 3ABN and for allowing her to share my story.

I didn't hear from Kay again until late May or early June, 2004. This conversation was much different. She was doing her best to find out where I stood regarding Linda and Danny. I wasn't budging from Linda's side. I commented that Danny still hadn't been able to show me a single Bible text that indicated I should turn my back on my friend. I, too, was unable to persuade Kay of Linda's innocence - her mind was made up. We hung up. Her new book was published several months later and all traces of Taste Of Health miracle stories had been removed. It was as if by not including the seven years of volunteer work that I had done, they could pretend that I had not been a big part of 3ABN's health message.

Spring came. Claudia, my mother and myself spent the entire month of April, 2004 in Italy. It was just days after arriving home that we learned of Linda's being "out-ed" at 3abn.

May was just a whirlwind with the 3ABN "mess", school getting out and one of my closest girlfriends was six months pregnant and needed a place to stay. Bill and I opened up our home to her and she asked me to be her coach. During my friend's doctor visit in June they moved her due date up to July 12th. She began to get increasingly nervous knowing that my "tape date" was on July 6th. I was growing more and more frustrated with Danny (the divorce had just gone through) and I really wasn't sure I would be able to tape anything without Linda in the kitchen. It just didn't seem right. I was somewhat relieved because of the due date being so close and I called and cancelled the LIVE.

The baby was born July 15th, and my friend was still not back with her husband. She slipped into serious postpartum depression and missed her husband terribly. After working out the details of reuniting, she finally convinced me that she could not manage the trip home the first week of September by herself, so my husband bought me a ticket.

I called Dee the middle of August to explain that I just couldn't get my recipes together in time for the September deadline, that I had too much on my plate at the moment and that I would be flying back to my girlfriends home with her and the baby. I needed to cancel once again. Part of me was relieved. I still wasn't sure I fit in anymore.

The next morning I received a phone call from Tommy Shelton explaining that they had cancelled my remaining "tape dates" and that my taping cooking programs for 3ABN wasn't a good fit anymore. He was kind (as I had always known Tommy to be), but nonetheless, he was the "axe man" that day.

As I hung up the phone I began to cry and my crying turned into big "red-headed" sobs. Then I remembered the words the Holy Spirit had whispered in my ear last December, and I knew that in fact, I would never tape there again. I had been fired.

I knew that when I stood by Linda that it would most likely affect my taping at 3ABN, but then I've never been one to be "politically correct". Unlike the actual 3ABN employees, I wasn't losing a paycheck. I had been working for free for eight years. You see, I had made a vow to God in 1994 that I would spend the rest of my life helping others to not get as sick as I once did. Danny Shelton didn't call me to the ministry, God did. Dan's allowing me to tape programs or not tape programs was a trivial thing to God, and it still is.

I had always known that Three Angels was only a training ground. The Lord had impressed me very early on that it was temporary and that He had something much, much bigger down the road. Looking back, I can't help but feel my seven years of training at 3ABN was the perfect amount of time.

Even though I was no longer an invited guest at 3ABN, it didn't stop Danny from calling off and on to keep up with his "Linda trashing". I decided that time would reveal the real liar. Even though what Danny said all sounded irrefutable, I couldn't get over how instead of trying to shelter and protect his wife from the public, he was tearing her apart with his words to anyone that would listen. It didn't take long for him to reveal more of his spots.

Because my programs had been taken off the air and I didn't own the rights to the master copies, seven years worth of my work was locked up in what I like to call "cooking school prison" at 3ABN. Three Angels would no longer air the shows because they had Linda in them, but they wouldn't donate or sell the programs to me either. They even refused to sell copies of the programs to viewers that would call in and request them. Clearly they were of no more use to 3ABN's ministry, but when I asked Danny if he would donate my work to my ministry his reply was, "One shouldn't cut off his nose to spite his face." He then wrote an entire paragraph outlining all of the "new rumors" that I was supposedly saying about him. Rumors that I hadn't heard until I received his letter. He also requested a statement in writing that he could give to people when they wanted to know where I stood on the subject of him and 3ABN.

I was in a quandary. Even though I loved and supported 3ABN, I had lost pretty much all respect for Danny. He is unable to separate himself from the ministry in that way and I was unable to lie in order to receive those masters. This letter is my public response to his request, so everyone will know just where I stand in respect to how I feel about his ungodly leadership.

At the close of his last email to me his words cut me like a knife. He said, "Barb, it honestly doesn't make me any difference who you support in this situation. We will all go on the same. Your influence, as you know, won't make or break 3ABN as well as make or break Linda.
But at least people won't be able to accuse you of jumping ship to serve your own selfish purposes."
I was filled with righteous indignation. Since when had working eight years without a paycheck, trying to educate the public and teach God's Law's of Health, qualify as "serving my own selfish purposes"? I decided to take an entirely different approach.

I've always been a prayer warrior, so I went to my Bible in search of answers. I kept reading passages from Psalms where David's prayers against his oppressors were extremely direct. David minced no words in telling God what he wanted done to the people that hated him. I had never prayed this way before and wasn't sure if I could.

I did change my prayers the day that email arrived in my inbox. My prayer became, "Lord, scatter Danny Shelton and his family like chaff in the wind. Set the oppressed free. Make us the head and not the tail. Contend with those that contend with me. You have promised not to be a respecter of Kings and rulers and those with a proud heart. Shut the mouth of those that speak lies about us. Let them be drunk with their own blood as with wine. But let Your servant rejoice. Let my accusers be clothed with shame, and let them cover themselves with their own disgrace as with a mantle. I will greatly praise the Lord with my mouth; Yes, I will praise Him among the multitude. For He shall stand at the right hand of the poor, to save her from those who condemn her." (If you read Psalm 109 I used this prayer as my example.)

This prayer might sound extremely harsh, but let me tell you, God began to move in a powerful way revealing every secret thing. Danny may think that someone he considers as small and insignificant as myself cannot touch "the anointed one" (as 3ABN likes to call Dan), but God sees every tear shed by His servants and hears every humble plea. PRAYER CHANGES EVERYTHING!

Jumping back to the summer of 2004 (after Linda was fired and taken off the air) my mother and sister decided to surprise me with a fundraiser concert in Atlanta, GA. It was to raise money so Taste Of Health could build a kitchen studio. They worked for months securing a location and hired 24 musicians. Huge debt was wracking up on my mother's credit cards as she was self-sacrificing and planned this huge event. They told me about it at Christmas and I was so surprised and shocked, but happy. I so desired to build a studio and get back to work!

Long story short, two people that had agreed to participate in the concert both called on a Monday (the same Monday) to say how sorry they were that they couldn't participate. I will leave them nameless. One of the two called to tell me that Danny had called them and he had explained how if he/she came to the concert and supported my ministry, that it might be misconstrued and all of his/her conference funding for his/her new project might get cancelled, Dan wasn't sure. It was enough of a "hint threat" that they opted not to take the risk. I assured him/her it was okay, hung up the phone and cried for three days.

Finally on the third day I picked up a new book from Joel Osteen called Your Best Life Now and began to read. The more I read the better I felt. Chapters five and six were all about claiming God's favor as you would claim the gift of salvation. By the time I was finished with those two chapters I was excited and claiming God's favor over my life and my ministry. My attitude changed and I quit sulking because of Danny's wrath (which I was now experiencing). I've never quite been the same since reading those chapters and having a deeper understanding of God's favor. I have learned peace amidst the storm. Dan's wrath doesn't scare me anymore because I know I'm surrounded by God's favor.

Even as recent as this past February, 3ABN was still blocking Linda from speaking engagements. Linda had been invited February 18, 2006, by our local pastor, to speak at the 11 O'clock worship hour and for the vespers program that evening here in Columbia, SC. As soon as the news that Linda was speaking in our church made its way through our conference office, our pastor received a phone call from John Lomacang (3ABN's pastor). Within a week I received a phone call from my pastor instructing me to call Linda Shelton back and UNINVITE her. I refused. Now, my "very uncomfortable" pastor squirmed as he gave me reason after reason that it wouldn't be politically correct for Linda to speak at our church. He assured me that he wanted Linda here, but that she had left the "White SDA Conference" not-in-good-standing. His hands were "tied" and there was nothing he could do.

Experiencing Dan's wrath did begin to answer the question in my mind, as to who was lying. Then I caught Dan in a great big lie. It was the last time he and I spoke on the phone. (It's never a short conversation when Danny is trashing Linda and re-hashing all his "evidence").

That particular day I wanted answers about his relationship with his step-daughter Alyssa. Danny became very animated over the phone and bubbly. He said that he and Alyssa were great friends, they were buddies, and that he called her often and they had wonderful conversations. Alyssa had even recently written him a prescription (she had just graduated as a Physician's Assistant) for an infection he had. When I asked him about the "backrubs" he had been giving her before she left home (at the age of 23), he said, "Oh yeah, we're very close. Sometimes I would go in her room, and sit on her bed, and we'll just have great talks while I rub her back. It's just a loving gesture." We hung up.

What Danny didn't expect was that I would actually pick up the phone and call Alyssa to verify his story. Alyssa is a very sweet, private and shy person. When she got on the phone I explained how I had been in this "tug-of-war" over finding the truth. Danny always sounded so convincing and made Linda sound like a complete liar. I told her I would understand if she didn't want to answer my questions, but that it would put my mind at ease, finally!

When I explained that Dan had described their relationship as a great friendship and that they talked all the time on the phone and I asked about the prescription, you could hear a sigh of disgust on the other end. Alyssa said, "We are NOT friends, he won't quit calling me and I only wrote him a prescription because I felt sorry for him."

Then I asked her a very personal question. She was silent for a few moments, then answered my question with amazing honesty. I am not at liberty to disclose the biggest part of the lie that I caught Dan in that day, but it was the evidence I had been praying about.

"So do you want your mom and Danny to get back together?" I asked. "Absolutely not! He's a jerk and she deserves better. I never want them to get back together", she stated emphatically. I thanked her for her honesty and for helping me understand what the truth was and we said good-bye.

Alyssa handed the phone to her mom. Linda said, "Barb, I never knew why she moved out of the house so suddenly. I can't believe it." We said good-bye so she could go talk to Alyssa, and I sat there in stunned disbelief. I never told Danny that I had picked up the phone to verify his story. I didn't need to. God had promised over and over again that if I would just be patient and wait on Him, that He would reveal every secret thing in its time.

An Update On Taste Of Health Ministry

I just want to take a moment to say "Thank You" to all the loyal supporters of my ministry that continue to call and tell me that they miss seeing me and Linda cooking in her "kitchen". I have so appreciated your prayers and hugs over the phone.

Since the removal of my cooking programs I started doing more cooking schools again in churches around the country. I was also the main women's retreat speaker in Cape May, NJ, this past April. God also opened an amazing door here in Columbia, SC, at Fort Jackson, our military base. I am teaching a class (along with another woman) to the female officers called, "Every Woman's Battle". It's a weekly class on sexual integrity as God intended it. The class has been a huge success so far and we are excited about the questions these women are asking regarding the Bible.

My husband, Bill, and I will be in Spokane, WA, September 9th, giving our first marriage seminar on "How to Get Along". If you would like details, just call Mable Dunbar at the Upper Columbia Conference. (509-838-2761)

Some of you have noticed that I have quit posting a calendar of events on my web page. It was easier to eliminate the posting of events than to deal with the sabotages. I hope you understand.

A year ago in August, Taste Of Health applied for non-profit status. We are only days away from being approved for our 501©3 and we are excited about that.

Many of you have called to ask if I am going to tape programs anymore. The answer is, "YES" I am going to tape programs again because I want to get back to work doing what God called me to do!

I am saying "Yes" in faith. The HOPE Channel and LLBN have both indicated that they would love to air my cooking programs, but neither facility has a kitchen studio. I am still without a studio or the funds to build one. (I've had the plans drawn up for a year now just waiting on God's timing to be perfect, and His hand to move on my behalf). Last week Claudia and I sat down and planned out 120 thirty-minute programs. I don't know where the studio will be, nor do I have the funds to accomplish this work, but that's God's problem. We have a deal - I work, and He supplies my needs.

God is so awesome and I just want to praise Him for everything. Even though the last two years have been rough, to say the least, God has taught me two valuable lessons that I wouldn't trade for anything. He has taught me the lesson of "rejection", (Believe me, you have only seen the tip of the iceberg in what has been printed on these pages), and He taught me to praise Him, in ALL circumstances, no matter what!

I'm not angry with Danny anymore when he attacks me. I don't hate him. I do pray for justice, and that God will use my ministry to bring ten thousand times ten thousand, and thousands of thousands to know the Savior. Bless the Lord oh my soul, and all that is within me bless His holy name. To God be the glory!

Posted by: ida Feb 24 2007, 10:00 AM

Are the two letters above too hard to handle for Danny´s defenders?

Posted by: caribbean sda Feb 24 2007, 11:32 AM

> QUOTE(ida @ Feb 24 2007, 12:00 PM)
>
> Are the two letters above too hard to handle for Danny´s defenders?

probably so...

Posted by: howdy Feb 24 2007, 05:58 PM

My two points at the start of this thread are not intended to minimise the many other facts which are known about D Shelton. Maybe we should add to the list. Here is another. The fact that 3Abn attempted to erase Linda completely from their site and from their much touted 'history' shows a remarkably vengeful and hateful spirit in DS. Now every day that passes is another big lie by DS pretending he did it all by himself!

howdy

Posted by: JustTana Feb 25 2007, 11:15 AM

> QUOTE(ida @ Feb 22 2007, 04:53 PM)
>
> Having read most of the arguments found on this net, I must conclude that the two points Howdy refers to in this posts are really the most important points in this whole discussion.
>
> No fasting or prayer meeting can change these two facts. So let any honest person involved take aktion righ here.
>
> 1. There is no credible proof that Linda is guilty of the allegations made against her.
>
> 2. Linda´s daughter has made a clear statement of Danny´s improper and immoral behavior towards her.
>
> Have you ever heard of God changing facts, even if the guilty person receives forgiveness?
>
> Does a real revival ever happen without sins confessed and restitution made for the evil things done?
>
> How can God answer prayers if those praying have already made up their minds to ignore guilt, while demanding blessings?
>
> Barbara Kerr´s first letter cannon be dismissed. Read how she for a long time was supporting Danny, and then what made her change her mind. It is intersting to note how many people state that it was not what Linda said, suggested, or wrote, which influenced them in her favor. It was the inconsistencies in Danny´s own expressions, and yet the Danny camp now claims that Linda is behind all of the opposition against himself?

Again, encouraged to remove this one too.

JT

Posted by: Johann Feb 25 2007, 03:09 PM

> QUOTE(LadyTenor @ Feb 19 2007, 08:15 PM)
>
> I know we don't gamble, but I'm taking bets as to how long it takes for Bystander, wwjd, Alethia and any other of Danny's minions to respond....

Are you ever tempted?

Posted by: seraph|m Mar 15 2007, 08:26 PM

Posted by: Jnana15 Mar 16 2007, 02:17 PM

wow.gif che

Posted by: Treniece May 19 2007, 02:04 PM

Being involved in ministry doesn't guarantee salvation, one has to live a christian life in order to enter into heaven.

Maybe Danny Shelton has convinced himself that he is living a christian life.

Also, being an S.D.A. doen't gurantee you salvation.

Posted by: Clay May 19 2007, 03:34 PM

> QUOTE(Treniece @ May 19 2007, 03:04 PM)
>
> Being involved in ministry doesn't guarantee salvation, one has to live a christian life in order to enter into heaven.
>
> Maybe Danny Shelton has convinced himself that he is living a christian life.
>
> Also, being an S.D.A. doen't gurantee you salvation.

no.... one must accept that Jesus is our hope in glory....

Posted by: runner4him May 19 2007, 05:59 PM

> QUOTE(Clay @ May 19 2007, 04:34 PM)
>
> no.... one must accept that Jesus is our hope in glory....

Amen!

Posted by: FineArt May 21 2007, 08:07 PM

I find it dis heartning to be with other SDAs when the subject of this "merger" comes up. I never introduce this subject but there are those that are wondering why?? There are so many that don't have a clue as to what is going on at 3ABN and if you mention one little hint of the trouble that is going on at 3 ABN, you meet with condemnation. There is so much unbelief and silence among our people that it is only wise to speak here. Bye the way....those that speak only find DS the good guy and LS the bad. They have no basis for what they are saying, only feeling and believing what has been spoken of by the staff on Camera.

Posted by: beartrap May 21 2007, 08:18 PM

> QUOTE(FineArt @ May 21 2007, 07:07 PM)
>
> I find it dis heartning to be with other SDAs when the subject of this "merger" comes up. I never introduce this subject but there are those that are wondering why?? There are so many that don't have a clue as to what is going on at 3ABN and if you mention one little hint of the trouble that is going on at 3 ABN, you meet with condemnation. There is so much unbelief and silence among our people that it is only wise to speak here. Bye the way....those that speak only find DS the good guy and LS the bad. They have no basis for what they are saying, only feeling and believing what has been spoken of by the staff on Camera.

That depends on where you are. There is a fast growing number of SDA churches and communities where the opposite would be true.

Posted by: FineArt May 21 2007, 08:34 PM

beartrap,

I feel there has to be the group that has had their eyes opened. The group of associates around me is small compared to the SDAs in this area and it is true, I don't know what is in the minds of so many that do not speak up or don't feel comfortable talking in a group. I pray it will be solved soon.

Posted by: runner4him May 22 2007, 07:36 AM

> QUOTE(FineArt @ May 21 2007, 09:07 PM)
>
> I find it dis heartning to be with other SDAs when the subject of this "merger" comes up. I never introduce this subject but there are those that are wondering why?? There are so many that don't have a clue as to what is going on at 3ABN and if you mention one little hint of the trouble that is going on at 3 ABN, you meet with condemnation. There is so much unbelief and silence among our people that it is only wise to speak here. Bye the way....those that speak only find DS the good guy and LS the bad. They have no basis for what they are saying, only feeling and believing what has been spoken of by the staff on Camera.

I also have found it somewhat disheartening to see how many people are in the mode of indifference or blind support of what they thought DS and 3abn stood for. The majority of those I have shared with have made comments like...."they have done so much good"..."you cannot make anyone do anything"...."she (Linda) should be happy now"...."you cannot help the corruption"..."not sure about all this". I still believe in our people and in God's ability to wake them up so I am praying for strength and courage for myself and for those who will to continue to speak up. I have crawled out on that limb and will remain there praying and doing what little I can do.

Posted by: FineArt May 22 2007, 08:44 AM

Thanks runner4him,
I need encouragement to not fear speaking up, even though what i say is called malicious gossip and what is posted on line is probably from those that have an axe to grind.

I agree with the conclusions posted above. That said......

Which bring up a subject that needs some input from you all so i may have a greater understanding of the words "Sons of God". "Child of God".

So often when speaking of people that are commiting crimes of whatever, in the church or in the world i have been told "we must pray for them for they are children of God." or "he is a child of God"

My research finds:

Joh 1:12 "But as many as received him, to them gave he power to become the sons of God, even to them that believe on his name:
Joh 1:13 Which were born, not of blood, nor of the will of the flesh, nor of the will of man, but of God."
Joh 3:3 Jesus answered and said unto him, Verily, verily, I say unto thee, Except a man be born again, he cannot see the kingdom of God.

I see there are conditions for being a childs of God. Someone said to me once, Sadam Hussain [sp] has done so much evil but we must pray for him for he is a Child of God. Whoa! He did not in anyway to my knowledge "born again by the Spirit". Pray for Him? yes! But his fruits were that he served a different master.

Now lets bring this home:

2Pe 2:20 For if after they have escaped the pollutions of the world through the knowledge of the Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ, they are again entangled therein, and overcome, the latter end is worse with them than the beginning.
2Pe 2:21 For it had been better for them not to have known the way of righteousness, than, after they have known it, to turn from the holy commandment delivered unto them.

Heb 6:4 For it is impossible for those who were once enlightened, and have tasted of the heavenly gift, and were made partakers of the Holy Ghost,
Heb 6:5 And have tasted the good word of God, and the powers of the world to come,
Heb 6:6 If they shall fall away, to renew them again unto repentance; seeing they crucify to themselves the Son of God afresh, and put him to an open shame.

Heb 10:26 For if we sin wilfully after that we have received the knowledge of the truth, there remaineth no more sacrifice for sins,
Heb 10:27 But a certain fearful looking for of judgment and fiery indignation, which shall devour the adversaries.

How do we apply this to 3ABN and the above conclusions ?:

Mat 7:16 Ye shall know them by their fruits. Do men gather grapes of thorns, or figs of thistles?

Mat 7:20 Wherefore by their fruits ye shall know them.

Luk 13:27 But he shall say, I tell you, I know you not whence ye are; depart from me, all ye workers of iniquity.

PRAY? YES PRAY? YES

Selected Messages Book 1---- Safeguarding the New Experience-----PG- 137

The Child of God a Laborer With God
All spiritual life is derived from Jesus Christ. "As many as received him, to them gave he power to become the sons of God" (John 1:12). But what is the sure result of becoming a child of God? The result is that we become laborers together with God. There is a great work to be done for your own soul's salvation, and to qualify you to win others from unbelief to a life sustained by faith in Christ Jesus: "Verily, verily, I say unto you, He that believeth on me {with a casual faith?--No, with an abiding faith that works by love and purifies the soul} hath everlasting life. I am that bread of life. . . . I am the living bread which came down from heaven: if any man eat of this bread, he shall live for ever: and the bread that I will give is my flesh, which I will give for the life of the world. . . . Except ye eat the flesh of the Son of man, and drink his blood, ye have no life in you. Whoso eateth my flesh, and drinketh my blood, hath eternal life; and I will raise him up at the last day. . . . It is the Spirit that quickeneth; the flesh profiteth nothing: the words that I speak unto you, they are spirit, and they are life. But there are some of you that believe not. For Jesus knew from the beginning who they were that believed not, and who should betray him. And he said, Therefore said I unto you, that no man can come unto me, except it were given unto him of my Father" (John 6:47, 48, 51, 53, 54, 63-65).

I would really like your input on this post. We can not serve two masters...give me your thoughts.

Posted by: awesumtenor May 22 2007, 09:02 AM

> QUOTE(howdy @ Feb 24 2007, 07:58 PM)
>
> Now every day that passes is another big lie by DS pretending he did it all by himself!

There is nothing new under the sun; we have seen that very spirit of hubris before:

Dan 4:30 The king spoke, and said, Is not this great Babylon, that I have built for the house of the kingdom by the might of my power, and for the honor of my majesty?

What men who embrace this spirit always fail to grasp is that such hubris comes at great cost; Nebuchadnezzar got off easy.

In His service,
Mr. J

Posted by: Pickle May 22 2007, 11:04 AM

> QUOTE(FineArt @ May 21 2007, 08:07 PM)
>
> There are so many that don't have a clue as to what is going on at 3ABN and if you mention one little hint of the trouble that is going on at 3 ABN, you meet with condemnation.

Last August after talking with a church leader, I realized that this whole thing was going to be challenging. Anyone who has confidence in Danny would dismiss the allegations out of hand because they are just so weird and off the wall.

Only if one's confidence in Danny is shaken a little can one begin to objectively look at some of these allegations.

Believe me, there are more bombshells in the wings that may jolt many of us back to reality.

Posted by: runner4him May 22 2007, 05:07 PM

> QUOTE(FineArt @ May 22 2007, 08:44 AM)
>
> Thanks runner4him,
> I need encouragement to not fear speaking up, even though what i say is called malicious gossip and what is posted on line is probably from those that have an axe to grind.
>
> I agree with the conclusions posted above. That said......
>
> Which bring up a subject that needs some input from you all so i may have a greater understanding of the words "Sons of God". "Child of God".
>
> So often when speaking of people that are commiting crimes of whatever, in the church or in the world i have been told "we must pray for them for they are children of God." or "he is a child of God"
>
> Now lets bring this home:
>
> How do we apply this to 3ABN and the above conclusions ?:
>
> Mat 7:16 Ye shall know them by their fruits. Do men gather grapes of thorns, or figs of thistles?
>
> Mat 7:20 Wherefore by their fruits ye shall know them.
>
> Luk 13:27 But he shall say, I tell you, I know you not whence ye are; depart from me, all ye workers of iniquity.
>
> I would really like your input on this post. We can not serve two masters...give me your thoughts.

Your research and words are appreciated....a thought provoking subject. Thank you!

My input for what it is worth is as follows....."Child of God"....we all start out as children of our Father since He is our wonderful Creator but as your research shows, we are clearly told that our fruits must demonstrate whom we serve. God knows the heart and since He is the Creator, Redeemer and perfect Judge, He alone can determine who goes where. He cannot save anyone who is not safe to save. Sin will not rise up a second time after the New Earth experience so it is simple...are you or the next guy or girl safe to save? I think that we, as fruit inspectors, have seen men and women who have appeared to be on the side of evil perish in that state...they lost that "child of God" label or maybe never had it. (Although I have never seen a wee baby who did not look like a precious "child of God".) Reading the history books and viewing CNN today will shed light on those poor souls who live now or have died without Him or His grace.

We must not be in the army of the enemy so we have to do a little evaluation of which army to join. We are just off track if we think we can just blindly turn a deaf ear or close our eyes or just remain indifferent to what is going on in our family, the neighborhood, the church, (3abn), the city, the state, the country, the world. I believe in being involved even if it is not popular. We do not have to get out the bullhorn but we can do something in our small space. Make a difference and let our actions speak loudly but with Christian love.

If we stand for nothing then we are taking up too much space in this world. If we say nothing about this 3abn mess then when the next crisis comes along and maybe we are ones who are being persecuted for Righteousness sake then who will speak for us? Look at the many who have been persecuted thoughout the ages...look at the ones who spoke up....look at the ones who did not.....I am thankful for those who did find their voice and pray that in that time I would have done the same.

> QUOTE(Pickle @ May 22 2007, 11:04 AM)

> Last August after talking with a church leader, I realized that this whole thing was going to be challenging. Anyone who has confidence in Danny would dismiss the allegations out of hand because they are just so weird and off the wall.
>
> Only if one's confidence in Danny is shaken a little can one begin to objectively look at some of these allegations.
>
> Believe me, there are more bombshells in the wings that may jolt many of us back to reality.

So true...thinking the allegations are off the wall. I wondered when I first heard of all this mess..."how can it be?".

Bombshells in the wings....not that I cherish that idea or want to hear more but I am awake and faith is strong...enough to withstand the winds of strife. Isn't it a daily experience....to be strong in His Word and able by His grace to stand true?

Posted by: Noahswife May 22 2007, 05:17 PM

> QUOTE(runner4him @ May 22 2007, 09:36 AM)
>
> I also have found it somewhat disheartening to see how many people are in the mode of indifference or blind support of what they thought DS and 3abn stood for. o.

I have been in touch with two relatives the past week regarding 3abn. I want to share quotes from their emails......

The first is from CA and the wife of the former pastor of a relatively large congregation there. She said:

We don't know about the 3abn mess. I asked XXX and he doesn't know. I had read in Adventist Today (the online version) months ago that the head guy had divorced his wife and married someone else. I guess this was his 3rd or 4th divorce. What have you heard?

The second is from MA and from my niece concerning her mother's views of the matter (her mother is active 3abn supporter):

My mother knows all about this!!!
She's on Danny's side.

I'm not even going to bring it up with her again.
Mom's view is basically, "she cheated, he divorced her, end of story, we love the network" She didn't seem interested in discussing it. I don't know any details about what happened or what allegations are true or false so I cannot even have an informed conversation about it. So, if the whole thing is based on lies, then you are right, she doesn't know anything else.

I suspect these two views still represent the typical "in the pews" SDA member in good standing......

They both have always highly respected my opinions and judgements on just about anything and everything else ever discussed for decades. I wonder if that will change for either when i can sit down and talk to them?

nw
C"i"

Posted by: steffan May 22 2007, 06:13 PM

> QUOTE(Noahswife @ May 22 2007, 06:17 PM)
>
> Adventist Today (the online version) months ago that the head guy had divorced his wife and married someone else. I guess this was his 3rd or 4th divorce. What have you heard?
>
> nw
> C"i"

So, my question is, did you straighten out another vicious rumor on the above? Or did you let it go? After all since you have involved yourself so heavily in this subject, I am certain you wouldn't want false rumors to continue being spread. Linda was his first and only divorce. You know that so I hope you did the right thing.

Posted by: Noahswife May 22 2007, 06:28 PM

> QUOTE(steffan @ May 22 2007, 07:13 PM)
>
> So, my question is, did you straighten out another vicious rumor on the above? Or did you let it go? After all since you have involved yourself so heavily in this subject, I am certain you wouldn't want false rumors to continue being spread. Linda was his first and only divorce. You know that so I hope you did the right thing.

Actually Steffan,

The email came in over the weekend and I have only had time to write a short response thus far. But I did in fact correct the error as I do not let such things go. How about you? Can you consistently say you do the right thing rather than encourage the spreading of false rumors? After all you too appear heavily involved in this subject for someone who claimed/claims distance from the principals and has posted on more than one forum.

Will you be at campmeeting this weekend?

nw
C"i"

Posted by: YogusBearus May 22 2007, 06:32 PM

> QUOTE(Noahswife @ May 22 2007, 06:28 PM)
>
> Actually Steffan,

> The email came in over the weekend and I have only had time to write a short response thus far. But I did in fact correct the error as I do not let such things go. How about you? Can you consistently say you do the right thing rather than encourage the spreading of false rumors? After all you too appear heavily involved in this subject for someone who claimed/claims distance from the principals and has posted on more than one forum.
>
> Will you be at campmeeting this weekend?
>
> nw
> C"i"

Touchie" as Tommy Smothers was want to say...

bear

Posted by: PrincessDrRe May 22 2007, 07:25 PM

☒ sn

Posted by: joyce May 22 2007, 07:44 PM

> QUOTE(steffan @ May 22 2007, 04:13 PM) ☐
>
> So, my question is, did you straighten out another vicious rumor on the above? Or did you let it go? After all since you have involved yourself so heavily in this subject, I am certain you wouldn't want false rumors to continue being spread. Linda was his first and only divorce. You know that so I hope you did the right thing.

he truth about Danny and his marriages, is that there has only been one divorce but two failed marriages. urprised no one has mentioned it here as it was no secret that the first wife was in the process of leaving anny due to his abuse when she died in the car accident. She had already pickod the place she would be noving to. Many close to the family were informed as to why she was leaving the marriage. Some of us have nown about this for many years.

oyce

Posted by: watchbird May 22 2007, 09:01 PM

> QUOTE(joyce @ May 22 2007, 09:44 PM) ☐
>
> The truth about Danny and his marriages, is that there has only been one divorce but two failed marriages. Surprised no one has mentioned it here as it was no secret that the first wife was in the process of leaving Danny due to his abuse when she died in the car accident. She had already pickod the place she would be moving to. Many close to the family were informed as to why she was leaving the marriage. Some of us have known about this for many years.

Joyce

es Joyce, actually this has been mentioned on BSDA. And yes, some of us who did not know them personally lso learned the stories from some who HAD been around at the time and knew many of the details to which ou so briefly allude. It would probably take some serious searching to find everything that has been said bout it. But for starters, I've brought the threads on the document called "The Televangelist" to the front age... one of which contains http://www.blacksda.com/forums/index.php?=&showtopic=9823&view=findpost&p=138128, and the http://www.blacksda.com/forums/index.php?=&showtopic=12511&view=findpost&p=177890 and links to the Unauthorized History threads, including its Guided Tour" which is pinned at the top of the 3ABN menu.

ou will find mention of the first wife in section 6 of the document, entitled, "The Victims", under the ubhead, "The First Wife". There was also some discussion of this in some of the Unauthorized History hreads.

hank you for bringing this to our attention again.

Posted by: Jnana15 May 22 2007, 09:11 PM

> QUOTE(Noahswife @ May 22 2007, 07:28 PM)
>
> Actually Steffan,
>
> The email came in over the weekend and I have only had time to write a short response thus far. But I did in fact correct the error as I do not let such things go. How about you? Can you consistently say you do the right thing rather than encourage the spreading of false rumors? After all you too appear heavily involved in this subject for someone who claimed/claims distance from the principals and has posted on more than one forum.
>
> Will you be at campmeeting this weekend?
>
> nw
> C"i"

than

Posted by: Treniece Jun 2 2007, 03:18 PM

I think it may be best to leave Danny Shelton in the hands of God. At present there is no major allegation that is so obvious that would demand his stepping down. All the allegations made against him may be true, but they can be all argued.

Posted by: Artiste Jun 2 2007, 03:34 PM

> QUOTE(Treniece @ Jun 2 2007, 01:18 PM)
>
> I think it may be best to leave Danny Shelton in the hands of God. At present there is no major allegation that is so obvious that would demand his stepping down. All the allegations made against him may be true, > but they can be all argued.

And is there some reason to think that Danny Shelton is not in the hands of God?

Posted by: Treniece Jun 2 2007, 04:26 PM

> QUOTE(Artiste @ Jun 2 2007, 03:34 PM) ☐
>
> And is there some reason to think that Danny Shelton is not in the hands of God?

Some persons would love to find a way for him to be moved from his position as soon as possible.

Posted by: SoulEspresso Jun 2 2007, 06:29 PM

> QUOTE(Treniece @ Jun 2 2007, 03:26 PM) ☐
>
> Some persons would love to find a way for him to be moved from his position as soon as possible.

Well, I would.

was mistakenly understood by people from one of my churches to be opposed to 3ABN. I'm not, and I don't hink many people on these 3ABN threads are. Some of us never enjoyed the programming, but others were ongtime supporters to a greater or lesser degree. We want the ministry to prosper, because people find Jesus on 3ABN. Many of us do not believe the ministry will continue to prosper as long as Danny & the current board are in charge.

Keep in mind that the biggest evidence that something is rotten in the state of Illinois has come from Danny--his own communiques, and how he's handled this. If all this is lies and rumors, he's done a terrible job of refuting them.

Posted by: runner4him Jun 2 2007, 10:18 PM

> QUOTE(SoulEspresso @ Jun 2 2007, 07:29 PM) ☐
>
> Well, I would.
>
> I was mistakenly understood by people from one of my churches to be opposed to 3ABN. I'm not, and I don't think many people on these 3ABN threads are. Some of us never enjoyed the programming, but others were longtime supporters to a greater or lesser degree. We want the ministry to prosper, because people find Jesus on 3ABN. Many of us do not believe the ministry will continue to prosper as long as Danny & the current board are in charge.
>
> Keep in mind that the biggest evidence that something is rotten in the state of Illinois has come from Danny---his own communiques, and how he's handled this. If all this is lies and rumors, he's done a terrible job of refuting them.

I agree SoulEspresso! Our family and friends supported 3abn and DS even though many of us were never impressed with him or his speaking capabilities. We never criticized him and we spoke positively about the ministry to everyone. The sad thing is DS is not the brightest bulb in the PR department and has been shooting himself in the foot so to speak ever since he concocted the plan to get rid of Linda and marry another in haste. Obviously he had major problems way before that happened but all of the issues were hidden from most of us. I am reminded again..."your sin will find you out".

Posted by: Johann Jun 4 2007, 05:26 AM

> QUOTE(runner4him @ Jun 3 2007, 06:18 AM) ☐
>
> I agree SoulEspresso! Our family and friends supported 3abn and DS even though many of us were never impressed with him or his speaking capabilities. We never criticized him and we spoke positively about the ministry to everyone. The sad thing is DS is not the brightest bulb in the PR department and has been shooting himself in the foot so to speak ever since he concocted the plan to get rid of Linda and marry another in haste. Obviously he had major problems way before that happened but all of the issues were hidden from most of us. I am reminded again..."your sin will find you out".

☐

Posted by: watchbird Jun 4 2007, 05:56 AM

> QUOTE(runner4him @ Jun 3 2007, 12:18 AM) ☐
>
> I agree SoulEspresso! Our family and friends supported 3abn and DS even though many of us were never impressed with him or his speaking capabilities. We never criticized him and we spoke positively about the ministry to everyone. The sad thing is DS is not the brightest bulb in the PR department and has been shooting himself in the foot so to speak ever since he concocted the plan to get rid of Linda and marry another in haste. Obviously he had major problems way before that happened but all of the issues were hidden from most of us. I am reminded again..."your sin will find you out".

Buldozers don't need PR. They just go "beep beep beep" or "urrrr urrr urrr".... and people either move or get moved. Same with cement trucks.... or similar.... jump or get dumped on.....

Posted by: inga Jun 4 2007, 12:18 PM

> QUOTE(watchbird @ Jun 4 2007, 06:56 AM) ☐
>
> Buldozers don't need PR. They just go "beep beep beep" or "urrrr urrr urrr".... and people either move or get moved. Same with cement trucks.... or similar.... jump or get dumped on.....

Nice analogy. ☒ rofl ☒ ☒ rofl

Posted by: Snoopy Jun 4 2007, 04:46 PM

> QUOTE(Noahswife @ May 22 2007, 07:28 PM) ☐
>
> Actually Steffan,
>
> The email came in over the weekend and I have only had time to write a short response thus far. But I did in fact correct the error as I do not let such things go. How about you? Can you consistently say you do the right thing rather than encourage the spreading of false rumors? After all you too appear heavily involved in this subject for someone who claimed/claims distance from the principals and has posted on more than one forum.
>
> Will you be at campmeeting this weekend?
>
> nw
> C"i"

Nicely done, NW!!...... ☒ .... ☒ .... ☒

Posted by: Treniece Jun 23 2007, 05:37 PM

> QUOTE(SoulEspresso @ Jun 2 2007, 07:29 PM) ☐
>
> Well, I would.
>
> I was mistakenly understood by people from one of my churches to be opposed to 3ABN. I'm not, and I don't think many people on these 3ABN threads are. Some of us never enjoyed the programming, but others were longtime supporters to a greater or lesser degree. We want the ministry to prosper, because people find Jesus on 3ABN. Many of us do not believe the ministry will continue to prosper as long as Danny & the current board are in charge.
>
> Keep in mind that the biggest evidence that something is rotten in the state of Illinois has come from Danny---his own communiques, and how he's handled this. If all this is lies and rumors, he's done a terrible job of refuting them.

Well you know Danny's favorite statement: because 3abn is doing God's work, the devil is attacking 3abn through all the negative statements that are being made about 3abn.

On the surface the ministry seems to be prospering. Of course, I don't know how the ministry is doing financially.

In spite of his so called bad ways, shouldn't we give Danny some credit for having stepped out in faith to start the ministry of 3abn. Linda may have supported him, but the idea was his. I have heard the rumor that the idea of 3abn was first a shared idea between Danny and one of his brothers but as far as I know it was Danny who made all the major decisions to actually get 3abn started.

I am confused. Only God can figure out this saga.

On a positive note, persons watching 3abn who have not read any of the negative stuff about 3abn seem to be receiving a blessing.

Posted by: Grith Jun 25 2007, 03:32 PM

I was reading some of the correspondence from Ellen White to Dr. John Harvey Kellogg yesterday. A few paragraphs from one letter stood out and I thought of this mess with Danny Shelton and 3ABN. While I dare not take these words and say they directly apply to DS, I do see parallels between this counsel to JHK and the DS/3ABN situation. God does not change and neither does the unconverted human nature. Men only change as they surrender themselves to God to be changed. Unless that happens, human pride is paramount in the life. EGW wrote many letters to JHK pleading with him to surrender himself to Jesus. These paragraphs are from one such letter.

> QUOTE
>
> The Lord does not acknowledge as pleasing to Him the course that you have pursued at our general meetings. You may think that you have clothed yourself with the garments of righteousness, but should you come thus clothed to the marriage supper of the Lamb, it would be seen that you have on the dress of a civilian.
>
> The Lord Jesus was much displeased with your course of action at the General Conference [session] held in Oakland [1903]. At one time it was presented to me that evil angels clothed with beautiful garments were escorting you from place to place, and inspiring you to speak words of boasting which were offensive to God. Heavenly messengers were viewing all that took place. They heard the words and witnessed the acts that were of a nature to bring glory to men rather than to God.
>
> At this time you were not led by the Spirit of God. Your threats that you would bring the law to bear upon those who oppressed your track showed that you were in the same condition as those to whom the Laodicean message is addressed. {11MR 317}

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Jun 25 2007, 03:55 PM

> QUOTE(Grith @ Jun 25 2007, 02:32 PM)
>
> I was reading some of the correspondence from Ellen White to Dr. John Harvey Kellogg yesterday. A few paragraphs from one letter stood out and I thought of this mess with Danny Shelton and 3ABN. While I dare not take these words and say they directly apply to DS, I do see parallels between this counsel to JHK and the DS/3ABN situation. God does not change and neither does the unconverted human nature. Men only change as they surrender themselves to God to be changed. Unless that happens, human pride is paramount in the life. EGW wrote many letters to JHK pleading with him to surrender himself to Jesus. These paragraphs are from one such letter.

Grith,

Very interesting find! It does, somehow, seem appropriate to apply the lesson of that counsel to this situation, IMO.

Posted by: runner4him Jun 25 2007, 10:08 PM

> QUOTE(Grith @ Jun 25 2007, 04:32 PM)
>
> I was reading some of the correspondence from Ellen White to Dr. John Harvey Kellogg yesterday. A few paragraphs from one letter stood out and I thought of this mess with Danny Shelton and 3ABN. While I dare not take these words and say they directly apply to DS, I do see parallels between this counsel to JHK and the DS/3ABN situation. God does not change and neither does the unconverted human nature.

> Men only change as they surrender themselves to God to be changed. Unless that happens, human pride is paramount in the life. EGW wrote many letters to JHK pleading with him to surrender himself to Jesus. These paragraphs are from one such letter.

nteresting!! I actually heard this a while ago from several individuals. If you read the story...you can see the :haracters....history has a way of repeating itself.

Kristen LeBrasseur's email of June 29, 2007,
to Cathy Barton, with a subject of
"Paralegal - Commercial Real Estate Candidate
from Star Tribune Jobs," containing her resume and cover letter.
page 1

Kristen LeBrasseur's email of June 29, 2007,
to Cathy Barton, with a subject of
"Paralegal - Commercial Real Estate Candidate
from Star Tribune Jobs," containing her resume and cover letter.
page 2

Kristen LeBrasseur's email of June 29, 2007,
to Cathy Barton, with a subject of
"Paralegal - Commercial Real Estate Candidate
from Star Tribune Jobs," containing her resume and cover letter.
page 3

Printable Version of Topic

Click here to view this topic in its original format

BlackSDA _ 3ABN _ Court Posts Legal Documents.

Posted by: Observer Jun 22 2007, 11:22 AM

1

The documents relating to this case have been posted by the Court for viewing by the public.

To view these documents access the Massachusetts District Court, Case # 07-40098FDS

These documents are listed in the Pacer System. To view them, you will need to have a Pacer account. I have one due to my interest in law and writing. You do not have to be an attorney to establish a Pacer account.

NOTE: Pacer accounts allow you to both view and print public legal reconds. You pay a fee for every page that you view. So, be aware that such accounts are not free. You are never billed until you actually view the file. Prior to viewing the file you are informed as to the number of pages, and the pages for which you will be billed. (I was billed for 30 pages of what was a 36 page file, in one case.) You have to click on an agreement to pay the charge before you can view the file.

Once you access the court file you will be given a menu as to what is available. The menu item listed "History" is probably the most important one. It lists in chronological the documents available, by document number. You will need this document number to order up a file for viewing.

Once you order up a file for viewing you are given the information that you need to decide whether or not to pay the fee and view it. NOTE: In some cases the file in divided into parts. In such, you can view individual sections without paying the fee to view all sections.

NOTE: One file I viewed was 100+ pages.

NOTE: One of the first files you may want to view is the Plaintiffs' Complaint which first began this lawsuit. Probably the first 21 page section is of most interest. The plaintiffs' request a trial by jury, and minimumn compensatory damages of $75,000 plus legal fees and costs. Read this document closely.

2

I am reading the complaint. I find it interesting.

In it the plaintiffs claim that Mr. Joy and Mr. Pickle have published a number of falsehoods, and refused to correct them. Among others, these include:

1) a false claim that Danny Shelton has several inapproprite extra-marital affairs while married to Linda.

2) A false claim that Danny Shelton had an extra-marital affair with a named employee of 3-ABN.

There is much more.

I am the first one to say that truth may not be an absolute defence.

But, the plaintiffs, in my opinon, have now opened up this lawsuit to issues such as the above. It will be interesting to see how this develops, and what happens when sworn testimony is presented.

I do not know.

6/24/2007 I hvae ben asked tp post the information needed to sign ukp for a Pacer account.

You may do so by going to http://pacer.psc.uscourts.gov and going through the registration process. You will need a valid credit card to be billed for the materials that you view--GM.

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Jun 22 2007, 12:02 PM

Thank you for this information, Gregory.

Posted by: Observer Jun 22 2007, 12:12 PM

I am now reading from the Plaintiffs' Memorandum in Support of Plaintiffs' Motion for permanent Impoundment.

> QUOTE
>
> Plaintiff's initial memorandum in support of impoundment set forth Defendants'pattern and practice of using every pososible medium, including court documents, to impugn, . . . Plaintiffs' reputations and conduct. . . . impoundment is an approprite mechanism by which this court can prevent Defendants from utilizing the Court's files to further their campaign to defame Plainfiffs,. . .

See page 1

I guess they really did not want the public to know what was in the documents.

Some other interesting statements in this same document:

> QUOTE
>
> As a direct result of Defendants' conduct, 3ABN has experienced a substantial loss of goodwill within the Adventist faith community.. . . It is simply not possible to quantify the damage to 3ABN's reputation within the Seventh-Day Adventist community that has been caused by Defendants' campaign of willful disparagement. 3ABN has also suffered, as a direct result of Defendants' activities, an irreparable loss of confidence on the part of the official Adventist Conference, the South Pacific Division. . . .

See page 6

NOTE: On page 8 the Plaintiffs show concern that the defendants might submit documents to the Court that would contain statements by other people which would defame the Plaintiffs and thereby become available to the public.

Interesting!

Posted by: Pickle Jun 22 2007, 02:00 PM

> QUOTE(Observer @ Jun 22 2007, 12:22 PM) ☐
>
> ...
>
> I am the first one to say that truth may not be an absolute defence.

> But, the plaintiffs, in my opinon, have now opened up this lawsuit to issues such as the above. It will be interesting to see how this develops, and what happens when sworn testimony is presented.
>
> I do not know.

ave Gailon and/or I actually made each statement and done each action the suit alleges that we have done? hat must first be proven.

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Jun 23 2007, 05:49 AM

> QUOTE
>
> As a direct result of Defendants' conduct, 3ABN has experienced a substantial loss of goodwill within the Adventist faith community.. . . It is simply not possible to quantify the damage to 3ABN's reputation within the Seventh-Day Adventist community that has been caused by Defendants' campaign of willful disparagement. 3ABN has also suffered, as a direct result of Defendants' activities, an irreparable loss of confidence on the part of the official Adventist Conference, the South Pacific Division. . . .

, personally, think their newly touted "non-denominational" status will have a far greater effect on the oodwill within the Adventist faith community world wide than anything done heretofore. Think they'd better tart planning a lawsuit against themselves for "willful disparagement".

y mother, who has supported 3abn for years, is shocked, dismayed and ANGRY!

Posted by: watchbird Jun 23 2007, 08:34 AM

> QUOTE(PeacefullyBewildered @ Jun 23 2007, 07:49 AM)
>
> I, personally, think their newly touted "non-denominational" status will have a far greater effect on the goodwill within the Adventist faith community world wide than anything done heretofore. Think they'd better start planning a lawsuit against themselves for "willful disparagement".
>
> My mother, who has supported 3abn for years, is shocked, dismayed and ANGRY!

hat I am trying really,.... really,..... REALLY,...... hard to understand is why anyone would be "shocked, ismayed, and ANGRY"... or even "surprised"... at the "news" that 3abn considers itself to be a" non-enominational entity", not affiliated with any church.

his has been discussed previous to this right here on BSDA. The website has openly made this statement on heir website for years.... (Doesn't anyone ever read the "About Us" statements?)

> Three Angels Broadcasting Network (3ABN) is the "Mending Broken People Network," a 24-hour Christian television and radio network. 3ABN's focus is to present programming which will reach people right where they are hurting. 3ABN offers divorce recovery programs, drug and alcohol rehabilitation, cooking and health programs, stop smoking and weight loss, programs that deal with children and family issues, organic gardening, natural home remedies, gospel music programs, as well as a variety of inspirational themes from the Bible for children and adults.
>
> Today, surrounded by the rolling farmland of Southern Illinois, 3ABN beams its television and radio programming to five satellites which carry it to every inhabited continent. 3ABN is the second largest Christian network in North America (in regard to numbers of owned and operated UHF stations). 3ABN's "down-home" approach and the absence of large fundraising > efforts or telethons holds a special appeal for its viewers.

>
> 3ABN is not owned, operated or funded by any church, denomination or organization, so people from all cultures and backgrounds appreciate 3ABN programming.

I will let others make guesses as to when they think this was first incorporated into the About Us page. (clue.... it was not recently).

The statement on their very first website was worded significantly differently from the one above ....

> Three Angels Broadcasting Network is a 24 hour Christian Television Network with a mission to reach the world with the gospel. 3ABN began in 1984 when Danny Shelton was impressed to build a television station that would reach the world. Today, unexpectedly surrounded by the rolling farmland of Southern Illinois, 3ABN beams its signal across North and Central America as well as Europe and North Africa.
>
> Three Angels Broadcasting Network airs programs with a down-to-earth approach. Its blend of spiritual teaching, health and family oriented programming offers a wide variety of choices. Programming focuses on topics that meet specific viewer needs, such as stop smoking clinics and drug and alcohol recovery programs. Thousands of viewers take advantage of its toll-free prayer and pastoral counseling line each month.
>
> 3ABN's absence of large fund-raising efforts or telethons holds a special appeal for its viewers. 3ABN is an independent, nonprofit, supporting ministry of the Seventh-day Adventist Church.

After 3abn moved to Tagnet (which has as its basic requirements for having a web page there that the ministry be a member of ASI), most of the earliest statement was omitted, and the front page carried this very brief statement.

> www.3abn.org is a 24-hour-a-day Christian satellite television ministry whose goal is to reach the world with the gospel. 3ABN is a supporting ministry of the Seventh-day Adventist Church and a member of Adventist-layman's Services and Industries (ASI).

I do not know how soon this was dropped after they started using the TAGnet service, but I have seen nothing other than the first statement given above since 2001.

So... back to my original question... why is it such a surprise to everyone to find that 3abn is now claiming "non-denominational" status?

.... ☒ TVsnack ....

Posted by: Richard Sherwin Jun 23 2007, 10:30 AM

So in other words 3abn is just following the lead of what the SDA church has done for years, trying to deceive people into coming to our seminars, evangelistic meetings, cooking classes, etc by acting like we are not part of the SDA church until we've set the hook. (Shut up Richard before you rant on one of your pet peeves against the church. Thank you)

QUOTE(watchbird @ Jun 23 2007, 10:34 AM) ☐

What I am trying really,.... really,..... REALLY,...... hard to understand is why anyone would be "shocked, dismayed, and ANGRY"... or even "surprised"... at the "news" that 3abn considers itself to be a" non-denominational entity", not affiliated with any church.

This has been discussed previous to this right here on BSDA. The website has openly made this statement on their website for years.... (Doesn't anyone ever read the "About Us" statements?)

> Three Angels Broadcasting Network (3ABN) is the "Mending Broken People Network," a 24-hour Christian television and radio network. 3ABN's focus is to present programming which will reach people right where they are hurting. 3ABN offers divorce recovery programs, drug and alcohol rehabilitation, cooking and health programs, stop smoking and weight loss, programs that deal with children and family issues, organic gardening, natural home remedies, gospel music programs, as well as a variety of inspirational themes from the Bible for children and adults.
>
> Today, surrounded by the rolling farmland of Southern Illinois, 3ABN beams its television and radio programming to five satellites which carry it to every inhabited continent. 3ABN is the second largest Christian network in North America (in regard to numbers of owned and operated UHF stations). 3ABN's "down-home" approach and the absence of large fundraising efforts or telethons holds a special appeal for its viewers.
>
> 3ABN is not owned, operated or funded by any church, denomination or organization, so people from all cultures and backgrounds appreciate 3ABN programming.

I will let others make guesses as to when they think this was first incorporated into the About Us page. (clue.... it was not recently).

The statement on their very first website was worded significantly differently from the one above ....

> Three Angels Broadcasting Network is a 24 hour Christian Television Network with a mission to reach the world with the gospel. 3ABN began in 1984 when Danny Shelton was impressed to build a television station that would reach the world. Today, unexpectedly surrounded by the rolling farmland of Southern Illinois, 3ABN beams its signal across North and Central America as well as Europe and North Africa.
>
> Three Angels Broadcasting Network airs programs with a down-to-earth approach. Its blend of spiritual teaching, health and family oriented programming offers a wide variety of choices. Programming focuses on topics that meet specific viewer needs, such as stop smoking clinics and drug and alcohol recovery programs. Thousands of viewers take advantage of its toll-free prayer and pastoral counseling line each month.
>
> 3ABN's absence of large fund-raising efforts or telethons holds a special appeal for its viewers. 3ABN is an independent, nonprofit, supporting ministry of the Seventh-day Adventist Church.

After 3abn moved to Tagnet (which has as its basic requirements for having a web page there that the ministry be a member of ASI), most of the earliest statement was omitted, and the front page carried this very brief statement.

> www.3abn.org is a 24-hour-a-day Christian satellite television ministry whose goal is to reach the world with the gospel. 3ABN is a supporting ministry of the Seventh-day Adventist Church and a member of Adventist-layman's Services and Industries (ASI).

I do not know how soon this was dropped after they started using the TAGnet service, but I have seen nothing other than the first statement given above since 2001.

So... back to my original question... why is it such a surprise to everyone to find that 3abn is now claiming "non-denominational" status?

TVsnack.

Posted by: Pickle Jun 23 2007, 10:57 AM

No, Richard, I'd say there is a difference.

While Jesus on occasion told His disciples or someone healed not to say this or that about Him, while He didn't go around telling everyone through a megaphone that He was the Messiah, the Son of God, He never denied that He was.

To not tell someone up front that you're an Adventist, for Billy Graham not to disclose at his meetings what denomination he is a member of, if he is a member and doesn't disclose, is a different matter than denying that you're an Adventist.

It is unquestionable that 3ABN signed an agreement with the GC in 1997, that the agreement they signed is linked from their website, that they are a member of ASI, and that they are affiliated with Atlantic Union Media Services. To say that they are not affiliated with any denomination or organization when they are isn't true, is different than what Jesus did, and is different than what I've seen Adventist evangelist do.

WB,

The statement on 3ABN's website speaks of funding, but doesn't speak of affiliation. While it may give the impression to people that 3ABN isn't affilated with any church or organization, I would argue that, technically, the language doesn't deny affilations.

So I would say that the lawsuit goes beyond what the website says.

Posted by: Artiste Jun 23 2007, 07:04 PM

Yes, a big difference!

****

Posted by: Richard Sherwin Jun 23 2007, 07:40 PM

I've had people come up to me and ask why don't you put in your flyers who you are? I don't know what to tell them. I guess my feeling is that we should say "hi, I'm Richard from the SDA church would you like to come to some meetings about Bible prophesy at our church?". Instead we're told to say "hi, I'm Richard, how would you like to come to a prophesy meeting at the VFW hall?" I feel like a Jehovah's Witness since they do the same thing.

I once while hiking the AT in New York had a guy give me a piece of literature and I asked him if he was SDA, man did he ever do everything he could not to answer. Finally when I saw it was from Amazing Facts and told him I was SDA as well did he finally admit he was.

Why not go boldly proclaiming that we are SDA Christians?

I guess it's a good thing I'm not in marketing.

☒ ofl Sorry.

Richard

> QUOTE(Pickle @ Jun 23 2007, 11:57 AM)
>
> No, Richard, I'd say there is a difference.
>
> While Jesus on occasion told His disciples or someone healed not to say this or that about Him, while He didn't go around telling everyone through a megaphone that He was the Messiah, the Son of God, He never denied that He was.
>
> To not tell someone up front that you're an Adventist, for Billy Graham not to disclose at his meetings what denomination he is a member of, if he is a member and doesn't disclose, is a different matter than denying that you're an Adventist.
>
> It is unquestionable that 3ABN signed an agreement with the GC in 1997, that the agreement they signed is linked from their website, that they are a member of ASI, and that they are affiliated with Atlantic Union Media Services. To say that they are not affiliated with any denomination or organization when they are isn't true, is different than what Jesus did, and is different than what I've seen Adventist evangelist do.
>
> WB,
>
> The statement on 3ABN's website speaks of funding, but doesn't speak of affiliation. While it may give the impression to people that 3ABN isn't affilated with any church or organization, I would argue that, technically, the language doesn't deny affilations.
>
> So I would say that the lawsuit goes beyond what the website says.

Posted by: LaurenceD Jun 24 2007, 07:47 AM

> QUOTE(Pickle)
>
> It is unquestionable that 3ABN signed an agreement with the GC in 1997, that the agreement they signed is linked from their website, that they are a member of ASI, and that they are affiliated with Atlantic Union Media Services. To say that they are not affiliated with any denomination or organization when they are isn't true, is different than what Jesus did, and is different than what I've seen Adventist evangelist do.
>
> WB,

> The statement on 3ABN's website speaks of funding, but doesn't speak of affiliation. While it may give the impression to people that 3ABN isn't affilated with any church or organization, I would argue that, technically, the language doesn't deny affilations.
>
> So I would say that the lawsuit goes beyond what the website says.

When the 3abn website is back in working order, see if the language is still the same as before. The timing would be right to modify the wording--just a little tweak--if you know what I mean.

Posted by: mikell Jun 24 2007, 10:08 AM

> QUOTE(watchbird @ Jun 23 2007, 08:34 AM)
>
> What I am trying really,.... really,..... REALLY,...... hard to understand is why anyone would be "shocked, dismayed, and ANGRY"... or even "surprised"... at the "news" that 3abn considers itself to be a" non-denominational entity", not affiliated with any church.
>
> This has been discussed previous to this right here on BSDA. The website has openly made this statement on their website for years.... (Doesn't anyone ever read the "About Us" statements?)
>
>> Three Angels Broadcasting Network (3ABN) is the "Mending Broken People Network," a 24-hour Christian television and radio network. 3ABN's focus is to present programming which will reach people right where they are hurting. 3ABN offers divorce recovery programs, drug and alcohol rehabilitation, cooking and health programs, stop smoking and weight loss, programs that deal with children and family issues, organic gardening, natural home remedies, gospel music programs, as well as a variety of inspirational themes from the Bible for children and adults.
>>
>> Today, surrounded by the rolling farmland of Southern Illinois, 3ABN beams its television and radio programming to five satellites which carry it to every inhabited continent. 3ABN is the second largest Christian network in North America (in regard to numbers of owned and operated UHF stations). 3ABN's "down-home" approach and the absence of large fundraising efforts or telethons holds a special appeal for its viewers.
>>
>> 3ABN is not owned, operated or funded by any church, denomination or organization, so people from all cultures and backgrounds appreciate 3ABN programming.
>
> I will let others make guesses as to when they think this was first incorporated into the About Us page. (clue.... it was not recently).
>
> The statement on their very first website was worded significantly differently from the one above ....
>
>> Three Angels Broadcasting Network is a 24 hour Christian Television Network with a mission to reach the world with the gospel. 3ABN began in 1984 when Danny Shelton was impressed to build a television station that would reach the world. Today, unexpectedly surrounded by the rolling farmland of Southern Illinois, 3ABN beams its signal across North and Central America as well as Europe and North Africa.
>>
>> Three Angels Broadcasting Network airs programs with a down-to-earth approach. Its blend of spiritual teaching, health and family oriented programming offers a wide variety of choices. Programming focuses on topics that meet specific viewer needs, such as stop smoking clinics and drug and alcohol recovery programs. Thousands of viewers take advantage of its toll-free prayer and pastoral counseling line each month.
>>
>> 3ABN's absence of large fund-raising efforts or telethons holds a special appeal for its > > viewers. 3ABN is an independent, nonprofit, supporting ministry of the Seventh-day Adventist Church.

>
> After 3abn moved to Tagnet (which has as its basic requirements for having a web page there that the ministry be a member of ASI), most of the earliest statement was omitted, and the front page carried this very brief statement.
>
> > www.3abn.org is a 24-hour-a-day Christian satellite television ministry whose goal is to reach the world with the gospel. 3ABN is a supporting ministry of the Seventh-day Adventist Church and a member of Adventist-layman's Services and Industries (ASI).
>
> I do not know how soon this was dropped after they started using the TAGnet service, but I have seen nothing other than the first statement given above since 2001.View the "Joint Declaration of Commitment" document between the General Conference of Seventh-day Adventist and Three Angels Broadcasting Network.
>
> So... back to my original question... why is it such a surprise to everyone to find that 3abn is now claiming "non-denominational" status?

VB, question, did the 3ABN site, had these words added to what you already qouted, which I underlined. For vhat is below is what is NOW on the 3ABN site. It looks like they just restored the latter while being down or ım I mistaken?:

3ABN is not owned, operated or funded by any church, denomination or organization, so people from all :ultures and backgrounds appreciate 3ABN programming. Many of 3ABN's employees and volunteers are nembers of the Seventh-day Adventist Church.

View the "Joint Declaration of Commitment" document between the General Conference of Seventh-day \dventist and Three Angels Broadcasting Network."

Posted by: watchbird Jun 24 2007, 12:10 PM

> QUOTE(mikell @ Jun 24 2007, 12:08 PM)
>
> WB, question, did the 3ABN site, had these words added to what you already qouted, which I underlined. For what is below is what is NOW on the 3ABN site. It looks like they just restored the latter while being down or am I mistaken?:
>
> "3ABN is not owned, operated or funded by any church, denomination or organization, so people from all cultures and backgrounds appreciate 3ABN programming. Many of 3ABN's employees and volunteers are members of the Seventh-day Adventist Church.
>
> "View the "Joint Declaration of Commitment" document between the General Conference of Seventh-day Adventist and Three Angels Broadcasting Network."

he line "Many of 3ABN's employees..." etc.. was added a little over a year ago.

don't have information on when the "View the 'Joint Declaration of Committment' document " line was ıdded. I think that I recall seeing it on the site before it went down this time, but I do not have a record of t.

Posted by: Ozzie Jun 24 2007, 05:19 PM

> QUOTE(watchbird @ Jun 25 2007, 04:10 AM)
>
> I don't have information on when the "View the 'Joint Declaration of Committment' document " line was added. I think that I recall seeing it on the site before it went down this time, but I do not have a record of it.

I DID see it there months ago WB and copied it to a SPD employee (or two or 3 or more). I can't find it in my files at the moment, but wonder if one of those people still has a copy of what I sent som time ago?

It will be interesting to see if the web site has been 'tweaked', a little bit here and a little bit there, when it's up and running again!

> QUOTE(LaurenceD @ Jun 24 2007, 11:47 PM)
>
> When the 3abn website is back in working order, see if the language is still the same as before. The timing would be right to modify the wording--just a little tweak--if you know what I mean.

I couldn't get 3ABN up before I went to bed last night and it's still 'down' for me this morning, Ozzie time!

Posted by: Richard Sherwin Jun 24 2007, 05:39 PM

I just got on, no problem.

> QUOTE(Ozzie @ Jun 24 2007, 07:19 PM)
>
> I DID see it there months ago WB and copied it to a SPD employee (or two or 3 or more). I can't find it in my files at the moment, but wonder if one of those people still has a copy of what I sent som time ago?
>
> It will be interesting to see if the web site has been 'tweaked', a little bit here and a little bit there, when it's up and running again!
> I couldn't get 3ABN up before I went to bed last night and it's still 'down' for me this morning, Ozzie time!

Posted by: Ozzie Jun 24 2007, 05:47 PM

> QUOTE(Richard Sherwin @ Jun 25 2007, 09:39 AM)
>
> I just got on, no problem.

Yep. I did too just then. Couldn't get on last night or even 20 minutes ago though.

Had trouble accessing BSDA on Friday afternoon and evening as well, as did other Ossie friends. Kept getting a mesage similar to "The maximum number of participants has bben reached. Please try again later". We suspected that the news on BSDA was so hot, that we'd have to wait in line! LOL

Posted by: Richard Sherwin Jun 24 2007, 06:18 PM

So now tell me why when you quoted me it said I had posted it tomorrow morning? Or maybe I did go into the future and posted it to the past

Richard

> QUOTE(Ozzie @ Jun 24 2007, 06:47 PM)
>
> Yep. I did too just then. Couldn't get on last night or even 20 minutes ago though.
>
> Had trouble accessing BSDA on Friday afternoon and evening as well, as did other Ossie friends. Kept getting a mesage similar to "The maximum number of participants has bben reached. Please try again later". We suspected that the news on BSDA was so hot, that we'd have to wait in line! LOL

Posted by: Ozzie Jun 24 2007, 06:32 PM

> QUOTE(Richard Sherwin @ Jun 25 2007, 10:18 AM)
>
> So now tell me why when you quoted me it said I had posted it tomorrow morning? Or maybe I did go into the future and posted it to the past
> Richard

Maybe... it's coz it's Monday here in Australia. Actually, 9:35am right now!

Posted by: Richard Sherwin Jun 24 2007, 07:05 PM

Hey now that is so cool. I never looked to see where you lived and even if I did it might not have occurred to me. what was going on. So you really can post back from the future Not to mention you can post from winter to summer.

Richard

> QUOTE(Ozzie @ Jun 24 2007, 08:32 PM)
>
> Maybe... it's coz it's Monday here in Australia. Actually, 9:35am right now!

Posted by: Seraphim7 Jun 24 2007, 07:11 PM

☒ TVsnack. ☒ pe

Posted by: princessdi Jun 24 2007, 08:09 PM

WB, I can understand the wording, and I even understand,a s I said, that they willplay on words and say that they never claimed to be a SDA ministry. However, the part that got me and will probably get the most taunch member toe ven blink an eye, is sayign they are non denominational. These days, ND is a denomination unto itself. it will almost be like they ARE associating themselves with another denom. Remember the ranka nd file actually believe them to be part of the church.

Posted by: mystery- man Jun 24 2007, 11:52 PM

Forgive me if I appear to be a little sceptical, most adventist will make little or no attempt to realize they have been dupped into believe 3abn is something it is not. Just like the General Conference was allowed to call the members customers without any real outrage by its members. I believe that 3abn has learned from that and believe that many adventist will simply close their eyes to the reality of the words and continue to give and say "it is Gods will". And also dont forget that TS was not a adventist and was Vice President for a time until his health failed.

The taking a member to court thing is not an invention of DS but rather a continuation of the actions of the denomination to justify prosecuting its members when they fall out of line. They SDA have appealed to the state on a number of issues to solitify their control on the Adventist people. We have to a large extent, even tho as a people we have the truth, sumitted ourselves to a cult. Yes, salvation is unto the Adventist and they have the truth, but the truth does not have them.

Posted by: Panama_Pete Jun 25 2007, 12:03 AM

> QUOTE(mystery- man @ Jun 25 2007, 12:52 AM) ☐
>
> Yes, salvation is unto the Adventist and they have the truth, but the truth does not have them.

You say things in interesting ways: We have the truth, but the truth does not have us.

That's something to think about, Mystery-man.

Posted by: Pickle Jun 25 2007, 12:04 AM

> QUOTE(Richard Sherwin @ Jun 23 2007, 08:40 PM) ☐

> I've had people come up to me and ask why don't you put in your flyers who you are? I don't know what to tell them. I guess my feeling is that we should say "hi, I'm Richard from the SDA church would you like to come to some meetings about Bible prophesy at our church?". Instead we're told to say "hi, I'm Richard, how would you like to come to a prophesy meeting at the VFW hall?" I feel like a Jehovah's Witness since they do the same thing.
>
> I once while hiking the AT in New York had a guy give me a piece of literature and I asked him if he was SDA, man did he ever do everything he could not to answer. Finally when I saw it was from Amazing Facts and told him I was SDA as well did he finally admit he was.
>
> Why not go boldly proclaiming that we are SDA Christians?
>
> I guess it's a good thing I'm not in marketing.
>
> ☒ ofl Sorry.
>
> Richard

I had a fellow putting in a water softener once, and he asked me what I did. I told him I pastored an Seventh-day Adventist church. He said he had one in his town, which I knew he didn't. So I enquired some more, and he said he did have one, "Latter-day Saints, Seventh-day Adventist." So I had to explain that LDS wasn't the same as SDA.

I was following up Bible study enrollment cards in another district, and when asked what church was behind it I would say that people of all faiths do those lessons and enjoy them, but that I personally was a Seventh-day Adventist.

In one case I got a phone call from a fellow after leaving lessons with a lady, and I responded in that way. He then told me that he was her pastor, and that she didn't want the lessons anymore. I thought that was totally wrong, since she hadn't told me that. I talked to him as long as possible and then dropped a GC by his home.

On another occasion I called a fellow whom I had left lessons with, and answered his question in the same way. He said, "I thought so," and hung up. I called him back and asked him if there was something wrong with the lessons. His preacher, whom I knew, had warned him about them. Before we were done talking, he apologized for hanging up on me, and told me that Adventists don't believe in hell. I told him we definitely believe in hell. After finishing the call I sent him an AFacts folder to show him that Adventists definitely believe in hell.

I could go on.

It is because of unreasonable prejudice toward and confusion about Adventists that evangelists follow Jesus' example as recorded in the Bible in not boldly proclaiming everything about themselves. But that doesn't mean we have to be ashamed of who we are.

Posted by: Fran Jun 25 2007, 04:03 AM

> QUOTE(mystery- man @ Jun 25 2007, 12:52 AM) ☐
>
> Forgive me if I appear to be a little sceptical, most adventist will make little or no attempt to realize they have been dupped into believe 3abn is something it is not. Just like the General Conference was allowed to call the members customers without any real outrage by its members. I believe that 3abn has learned from that and believe that many adventist will simply close their eyes to the reality of the words and continue to give and say "it is Gods will". And > also dont forget that TS was not a adventist and was Vice President for a time until his health failed.

> The taking a member to court thing is not an invention of DS but rather a continuation of the actions of the denomination to justify prosecuting its members when they fall out of line. They SDA have appealed to the state on a number of issues to solitify their control on the Adventist people. We have to a large extent, even tho as a people we have the truth, sumitted ourselves to a cult. Yes, salvation is unto the Adventist and they have the truth, but the truth does not have them.

Mystery Man;

Well, I thought you had passed away or something!

I am going to diagram your post so I can figure out what you are saying. You seem to be speaking English, right? Then I will find you to be on the right, on the left, or straddling the fence. Maybe you are everywhere, therefore, you may be positioned on all of the above.

Once I gather preposition phrases, direct objects, indirect objects, gerunds and all that good stuff, I will be able to tell if you are on every side, or just 2 sides!

Time will tell. I am kind of slow. rofl

Folks;

Sorry I have to bold everything and make it blue or red. Last July the fifth, my eye was operated on, 4 hours later the same eye was damaged by a flying object and I lost a lot of my vision. I bold and change the color so I can edit my stuff. I magnify all the other posts, and still can't read some of them.

The Easter Skin was so nice on my eyes! I miss it. I really loved the cross on the right side of each post. I felt that God was watching me. Sometimes I tend to forget that. I jJust thought I would explain why I bold everything. It isn't to make any great statement, it is just to help me see better.

Posted by: Observer Jun 25 2007, 04:13 AM

I have been asked how to register for a Pacer acount so you can view documents in the Pacer legal system as are the 3-ABN documents.

Go to: http://pacer.psc.uscourts.gov

You will need a valid credit card for billing purposes.

Posted by: Rosyroi Jun 25 2007, 06:19 PM

> QUOTE(Fran @ Jun 25 2007, 02:03 AM)
>
> Mystery Man;
>
> Well, I thought you had passed away or something!
>
> I am going to diagram your post so I can figure out what you are saying. You seem to be speaking English, right? Then I will find you to be on the right, on the left, or straddling the fence. Maybe you are everywhere, therefore, you may be positioned on all of the above.

> Once I gather preposition phrases, direct objects, indirect objects, gerunds and all that good stuff, I will be able to tell if you are on every side, or just 2 sides!
>
> Time will tell. I am kind of slow. rofl
>
> Folks;
>
> Sorry I have to bold everything and make it blue or red. Last July the fifth, my eye was operated on, 4 hours later the same eye was damaged by a flying object and I lost a lot of my vision. I bold and change the color so I can edit my stuff. I magnify all the other posts, and still can't read some of them.
>
> The Easter Skin was so nice on my eyes! I miss it. I really loved the cross on the right side of each post. I felt that God was watching me. Sometimes I tend to forget that. I jJust thought I would explain why I bold everything. It isn't to make any great statement, it is just to help me see better.

Thank you Fran. That helps so much when we understand things like this. When a person has visual problems life is viewed in a way that can be so frustrating. I have some family members who have different kind of visual problems. I try to accomodate where needed.
Rosyroi

Printable Version of Topic

Click here to view this topic in its original format

BlackSDA _ 3ABN _ Lawsuits Filed

Posted by: Observer Apr 23 2007, 03:57 AM

Posting today (April 23, 2007) Danny Shelton said:

> QUOTE
>
> #1
> We have a donor who has been donating funds for some time for the purpose of legal bills incurred whether lawsuit or not. He is not taking a tax donation for these donations.
> He and his family believe in 3ABN and the decisions we have made. They like our 3ABN Board have decided that people who are accusing myself and the 3ABN board of gross misconduct and out right crimes need to be held accountable.
> We have filed a lawsuit against two individuals in particular to begin with.
> I won't say anymore on that subject right now.
>
> # 2
>
> For now Doug will be staying in California. He will be traveling more between the two ministries though.
> We don't have plans to move either ministry right now.
> It may take a few weeks for our new officers to be announced.
> I am suggesting to the new board that Doug be the new President of 3ABN/Amazing Facts.
> Titles have never been important to me. It just happened that since I started 3ABN that I have been President all these years and have never been comfortable with anyone else in that seat. I called Doug and offered him that position. Of course the new board will have to vote it, but I don't see that as a problem.
> I believe that Doug B and I have the same vision and am comfortable for him to be President.
> Hopefully neither of us will spend much time in day to day operations as we both will be traveling extensively for the new corp. Doug will continue to Pastor Sacremento Cental Church as well as still be with Amazing Fact in California. I will continue with 3ABN here in Illinois.

Note the clear statement that lawsuits have been filed against two people.

Posted by: daylily Apr 23 2007, 04:36 AM

Where/when did Danny say this? Did he say in on tv or email it to someone?

Posted by: Observer Apr 23 2007, 05:31 AM

> QUOTE(daylily @ Apr 23 2007, 04:36 AM)
>
> Where/when did Danny say this? Did he say in on tv or email it to someone?

He posted it on Club Adventist, this mornning.

Here is the link:

http://clubadventist.org/forum/ubbthreads.php/ubb/showflat/Number/121320/page/2#Post121320

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Apr 23 2007, 06:42 AM

> QUOTE
>
> #1
> We have a donor who has been donating funds for some time for the purpose of legal bills incurred whether lawsuit or not. He is not taking a tax donation for these donations.
> He and his family believe in 3ABN and the decisions we have made. They like our 3ABN Board have decided that people who are accusing myself and the 3ABN board of gross misconduct and out right crimes need to be held accountable.
> We have filed a lawsuit against two individuals in particular to begin with. I won't say anymore on that subject right now.

I wonder what specific accusations of "gross misconduct and out right crimes" the lawsuit is set up to address? I don't think it is a stretch or blind speculation to figure out which two individuals these may be. Of course, as has been pointed out before, lawsuits take time so even after these two individuals are served it may be awhile before anyone knows the particulars unless they are spelled out clearly in the documents they are served with.

> QUOTE
>
> # 2
>
> For now Doug will be staying in California. He will be traveling more between the two ministries though.
> We don't have plans to move either ministry right now.
> It may take a few weeks for our new officers to be announced.
> I am suggesting to the new board that Doug be the new President of 3ABN/Amazing Facts. Titles have never been important to me. It just happened that since I started 3ABN that I have been President all these years and have never been comfortable with anyone else in that seat. I called Doug and offered him that position. Of course the new board will have to vote it, but I don't see that as a problem.
> I believe that Doug B and I have the same vision and am comfortable for him to be President. Hopefully neither of us will spend much time in day to day operations as we both will be traveling extensively for the new corp. Doug will continue to Pastor Sacremento Cental Church as well as still be with Amazing Fact in California. I will continue with 3ABN here in Illinois.

Some points in this statement seem to leave the door open that there just might be a future move by one of the ministries.

Posted by: Aletheia Apr 23 2007, 06:49 AM

> QUOTE(daylily @ Apr 23 2007, 06:36 AM)
>
> Where/when did Danny say this? Did he say in on tv or email it to someone?

Gregory Matthew's link just goes to one of the statements he quotes. Danny Shelton is, even as I post, addressing alot of different questions and clarifying issues, which have been muddied here and elsewhere, on Club Adventist.

For those interested in the truth, and in considering all in a unbiased manner; this link will take you to the interview::

http://clubadventist.org/forum/ubbthreads.php/ubb/postlist/Board/247/page/1

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Apr 23 2007, 06:56 AM

Aletheia,
Welcome back! Thanks for the link to the interview. On my way there right now.

PB

Posted by: awesumtenor Apr 23 2007, 07:06 AM

> QUOTE(Aletheia @ Apr 23 2007, 08:49 AM)
>
> Gregory Matthew's link just goes to one of the statements he quotes. Danny Shelton is, even as I post, addressing alot of different questions and clarifying issues, which have been muddied here and elsewhere, on Club Adventist.
>
> For those interested in the truth, and in considering all in a unbiased manner; this link will take you to the interview::
>
> http://clubadventist.org/forum/ubbthreads.php/ubb/postlist/Board/247/page/1

Is this another one of those "mostly true" things Lee mentioned the other day, Cindy?

In His service,
Mr. J

Posted by: Eirene Apr 23 2007, 07:59 AM

> QUOTE(awesumtenor @ Apr 23 2007, 07:06 AM)
>
> Is this another one of those "mostly true" things Lee mentioned the other day, Cindy?
>
> In His service,
> Mr. J

Isn't it sad that some of us keep so busy digging in the dirt that all we see is dirt and we fail to see the good fruits that have grown and flourished all around us? Let us keep our eyes upward on our Lord Jesus Christ and ask Him to help us see rightly and that we may grow and bare good fruit also.

Eirene

Posted by: Observer Apr 23 2007, 09:39 AM

> QUOTE(Observer @ Apr 23 2007, 02:57 AM)
>
> Posting today (April 23, 2007) Danny Shelton said:
> Note the clear statement that lawsuits have been filed against two people.

FYI:

I have checked. I can not find any documentation that anyone has been served.

That does not mean that lawsuits have not been filed. But, I cannot document that anyone has yet been served.

Gregory Matthews

Posted by: awesumtenor Apr 23 2007, 09:51 AM

> QUOTE(Eirene @ Apr 23 2007, 09:59 AM)
>
> Isn't it sad that some of us keep so busy digging in the dirt that all we see is dirt and we fail to see the good fruits that have grown and flourished all around us? Let us keep our eyes upward on our Lord Jesus Christ and ask Him to help us see rightly and that we may grow and bare good fruit also.
>
> Eirene

Not nearly as sad as the blind continuing to lead the blind and then yelling "WHO PUT THIS DITCH HERE" when they inevitably fall into it...

In His service,
Mr. J

Posted by: LaurenceD Apr 23 2007, 10:17 AM

I've been rereading a book about Christ, called The Man Nobody Knows, written in 1925. Great book.

I keep thing about how different Christ was, and his mission. His kingdom was not about rich donors, fighters, suers, and the smug. Somehow, I just can't imagine Christ in his new pickup, divorced, with guns, dressed in a back western longhorn blazer, armed with the moneybags of Carnegie, driving out to get on his new jet to go preach the gospel, and to sue those who offended his pride.

And if any man will sue thee at the law, and take away thy coat, let him have thy cloak also. -Mat 5

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Apr 23 2007, 10:32 AM

> QUOTE(LaurenceD @ Apr 23 2007, 08:17 AM)
>
> I've been rereading a book about Christ, called The Man Nobody Knows, written in 1925. Great book.
>
> >
>
> I keep thing about how different Christ was, and his mission. His kingdom was not about rich donors, fighters, suers, and the smug. Somehow, I just can't imagine Christ in his new pickup, divorced, with guns, dressed in a back western longhorn blazer, armed with the moneybags of Carnegie, driving out to get on his new jet to go preach the gospel, and to sue those who offended his pride.
>
> And if any man will sue thee at the law, and take away thy coat, let him have thy cloak also. -Mat 5

Hmmm. Yes, quite a thought provoking picture. Of course, we would do well to make the comparison personal as well. We would do well to examine our lives and see if they are so closely identified with HIM that we reflect HIM and that our actions are truly HIS.

Posted by: princessdi Apr 23 2007, 11:53 AM

Nothing has been muddled, Cindy. They made an announcement about a merger. Most people on 2007 in an age of corporate mergers know how they work. too many os us have been victims of them. Everyone had questions about how this one would work. They made the announcement with out giving any details. Now whether that is becuase did not know anymore or were trying to be coy, if they wanted no speculation or questions they should do as they are doing now. Answer the questions they can, say more info will come as they get it.

Now one thing that we all said and you all wanted to deny and that is DB will be the president. No matter how you put it, they allowed Danny the dignity they did not give Linda, and are allowing him to resign, or the new board to vote him out with his permission, etc. That is also what is done at that level of the corporate world. Y'all can spin this any way you want, but the truth of the matter is that Danny ,like tommy a few months back is now a liability to 3ABN. Almost everything about his business practices and his personal life as it relates to his business practices is being questioned, and just not on some in consequential online message boards either(as you all would have us to believe), but in the places it counts. 3ABN is a business, nowever their buisness is ministry. Integrity and cedibility are paramount to their success, and Danny's mounting list of questions is a definite problem. Tommy "retire early for health reason". Now we have a merger, with a ministry and a man with no crediblity issues. Simple. Just tell the truthe and shame the devil as my Mom says.

> QUOTE(Aletheia @ Apr 23 2007, 04:49 AM) ☐
>
> Gregory Matthew's link just goes to one of the statements he quotes. Danny Shelton is, even as I post, addressing alot of different questions and clarifying issues, which have been muddied here and elsewhere, on Club Adventist.
>
> For those interested in the truth, and in considering all in a unbiased manner; this link will take you to the interview::
>
> http://clubadventist.org/forum/ubbthreads.php/ubb/postlist/Board/247/page/1

Posted by: Eirene Apr 23 2007, 02:09 PM

> QUOTE(princessdi @ Apr 23 2007, 11:53 AM) ☐
>
> Nothing has been muddled, Cindy. They made an announcement about a merger. Most people on 2007 in an age of corporate mergers know how they work. too many os us have been victims of them. Everyone had questions about how this one would work. They made the announcement with out giving any details. Now whether that is becuase did not know anymore or were trying to be coy, if they wanted no speculation or questions they should do as they are doing now. Answer the questions they can, say more info will come as they get it.
>
> Now one thing that we all said and you all wanted to deny and that is DB will be the president. No matter how you put it, they allowed Danny the dignity they did not give Linda, and are allowing him to resign, or the new board to vote him out with his permission, etc. That is also what is done at that level of the corporate world. Y'all can spin this any way you want, but the truth of the matter is that Danny ,like tommy a few months back is now a liability to 3ABN. Almost everything about his business practices and his personal life as it relates to his business practices is being questioned, and just not on some in consequential online message boards either(as you all would have us to believe), but in the places it counts. 3ABN is a business, nowever their buisness is ministry. Integrity and cedibility are paramount to their success, and Danny's mounting list of questions is a definite problem. Tommy "retire early for health reason". Now we have a merger, with a ministry and a man with no crediblity issues. Simple. Just tell the truthe and shame the devil as my Mom says.

Now Di, you are refuting every fact that has been established and with what? What evidence do you have to back up any of the allegations. DANNY IS NOT LEAVING 3ABN. He told it on the live and he just said it over at club adventist. Maybe he didn't make it plain enough for those that can't seem to comprehend that he will hold the title of CEO over 3abn. Why don't you email AF and ask them if DS is going anywhere? Because he is generous enough to allow Doug to be given the title of President of 3abn/amazingfacts, he has to now put up with this kind of grief from people who don't know what they are talking about. This has been said and said again. Contractually, neither ministry can take over the other or Danny take dougs position or Doug take Danny's position. Your remark that DS and 3abn is a liability makes no sense whatsoever. If it was a liability, AF certainly wouldn't have chosen to be a part of it. They have been a succesful ministry on their own. Why involve themselves if it was such a liability? Your desperation to believe what you want to believe is extremely pathetic.

Posted by: awesumtenor Apr 23 2007, 02:27 PM

> QUOTE(Eirene @ Apr 23 2007, 04:09 PM)
>
> Your desperation to believe what you want to believe is extremely pathetic.

You just walked in the door here spouting words placed in your mouth by others and knowing no one here from a can of semi-gloss latex... so you are not in a position to call anyone desperate or pathetic save the person in your mirror.

Letting your mouth write checks the rest of you can't cash is always a bad idea... you'd do well to pay heed to that point...

In His service,
Mr. J

Posted by: mozart Apr 23 2007, 02:29 PM

> QUOTE(Observer @ Apr 23 2007, 03:57 AM)
>
> Posting today (April 23, 2007) Danny Shelton said:
> Note the clear statement that lawsuits have been filed against two people.

and the language here is too good to actually be written by DS. IMO

Posted by: LadyTenor Apr 23 2007, 02:36 PM

> QUOTE(mozart @ Apr 23 2007, 04:29 PM)
>
> and the language here is too good to actually be written by DS. IMO

☒ rofl

Posted by: princessdi Apr 23 2007, 02:38 PM

Uh Eirene, Firstly Welcome to BSDA.

Secondly, I did not say Danny wa leaving, but that he could not be preseident. Also, the entire ministry does not have to be destroyed for Danny's personal issues. If Danny is no longer President then 3ABN is no longer tied to his personal issues and it ceases to be troubled. Mollie said they had a bad first quarter, why are you all trying to act as if there are no problems, there are. Molliie also said that God told her that help was coming, and she feels impressed that this merger is it. AC had a dream. There were dreams and visions jumping off everywhere on that show. That is what I used. I am not really refuting anything, except the spin you all are trying to put on this. Troubled corporations do merges, change adminstrations, whether they are diractly responsible or not. the issues happened and are not resolved in a timely fashion on their watch. In the corporate world the comapny and it's stockholders loose profits. In the case of 3ABN they loose substantial financial support needed to carry ont he ministry. If you believe that Danny is just being "genreous" with the change of presidency, I gots four or five bridges to sell you, and one of them is very famous.........Gurl don't believe that lie. It is not a desperation move, but to Danny's credit it is finally a move to save the ministry, it's credibility and effectiveness. However, it also makes it possible for Danny's many accusers and issues to go unanswered.

Thirdly, you would want to take your tone down a notch or two when you post. Me. as an Admin, failure to do so will cause your membership here to be interrupted, in not altogether discontinued. Me as a member, you got the wrong Girl in me, and this will also cause an interruption in your membership. We can disagree with out being disrespectful.

> QUOTE(Eirene @ Apr 23 2007, 01:09 PM)
>
> Now Di, you are refuting every fact that has been established and with what? What evidence do you have to back up any of the allegations. DANNY IS NOT LEAVING 3ABN. He told it on the live and he just said it over at club adventist. Maybe he didn't make it plain enough for those that can't seem to comprehend that he will hold the title of CEO over 3abn. Why don't you email AF and ask them if DS is going anywhere? Because he is generous enough to allow Doug to be given the title of President of 3abn/amazingfacts, he has to now put up with this kind of grief from people who don't know what they are talking about. This has been said and said again. Contractually, neither ministry can take over the other or Danny take dougs position or Doug take Danny's position. Your remark that DS and 3abn is a liability makes no sense whatsoever. If it was a liability, AF certainly wouldn't have chosen to be a part of it. They have been a succesful ministry on their own. Why involve themselves if it was such a liability? Your desperation to believe what you want to believe is extremely pathetic.

Posted by: runner4him Apr 23 2007, 06:57 PM

> QUOTE(LaurenceD @ Apr 23 2007, 10:17 AM)
>
> I've been rereading a book about Christ, called The Man Nobody Knows, written in 1925. Great book.
>
> >
>
> I keep thing about how different Christ was, and his mission. His kingdom was not about rich donors, fighters, suers, and the smug. Somehow, I just can't imagine Christ in his new pickup, divorced, with guns, dressed in a back western longhorn blazer, armed with the moneybags of Carnegie, driving out to get on his new jet to go preach the gospel, and to sue those who offended his pride.
>
> And if any man will sue thee at the law, and take away thy coat, let him have thy cloak also. -Mat 5

Amen! What an awesome Saviour we serve.....we need to sit at His feet more. All this mess is a wake up call for all of us to....put no man on a pedestal....give no funds blindly.....check to see if a large expensive jet is being used for transportation to no where special!

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Apr 23 2007, 07:21 PM

> QUOTE(runner4him @ Apr 23 2007, 04:57 PM) ☐
>
> Amen! What an awesome Saviour we serve.....we need to sit at His feet more. All this mess is a wake up call for all of us to....put no man on a pedestal....give no funds blindly.....check to see if a large expensive jet is being used for transportation to no where special!

Amen! And welcome to BSDA!

Posted by: beartrap Apr 23 2007, 07:48 PM

> QUOTE(runner4him @ Apr 23 2007, 05:57 PM) ☐
>
> .....check to see if a large expensive jet is being used for transportation to no where special!

And ask ourselves what Jesus used as a mode of transportation. Are any of us more important than Him? Is our time more vauable than His was?

Posted by: Eirene Apr 23 2007, 09:22 PM

QUOTE(runner4him @ Apr 23 2007, 05:57 PM)

.....check to see if a large expensive jet is being used for transportation to no where special!

> QUOTE(beartrap @ Apr 23 2007, 07:48 PM) ☐
>
> And ask ourselves what Jesus used as a mode of transportation. Are any of us more important than Him? Is our time more vauable than His was?

Let us put things in the right perspective. When the first disciples and Paul were doing God's work they either had to walk to distant places or send letters with others and it took a lot of time. Nowadays we have cars, planes, and trains. We also have computers, and phones. One has to take everything into consideration; time, work schedules etc. One of my sons has a job where he at times flies across the country and even overseas. In this country he could walk or drive, go by plane or train, but then he has to consider the time that will be spent in travel and the schedules he must keep and compare it to the schedules of the planes or trains. By spending more money to fly he can go to three different areas, sometimes coast to coast, and gain more for the business than if he drove to just one of those areas and only gained one thing for the business. Which is more cost effective and uses time more wisely? We have to ask ourselves if we are willing to put aside our computers and telephones and keep in contact only by snail mail because computers and phone calls cost more. Jesus didn't have them either and I don't think we believe we are better than Him if we use them.

Do any of us honestly believe that the 3ABN board would okay anyone to use the jet to fly to no where special. From what I can see they are all about doing the Lord's business and we should be too. We should also be praising the Lord for blessing us with the ways and means to help us finish the work.

Eirene

Posted by: mystery- man Apr 23 2007, 10:32 PM

I really try not to get angry because it is not healthy, but I am finding it more and more difficult to control my anger and that is why my time is so limited on this thread. The fact of the matter is that Danny and Linda were holding hands pointing at the stars and lovey dubby. And in the space of two weeks after that the love of his life Linda was completely wiped from the face of the earth. Come on folks do you really think people are that stupid? I believe that some people are angry because this forum and others had the guts to question what was thrown in their face. Here are the facts folks Dannys wife was removed from office and from her marriage, and we as the donors and share holders were never given a straight aurthenticated reason why. Since the company and its mission are spiritual in nature a straight forward and provable reason was absolutly necessary. The face of the company was suppose to represent Christ in character thus directing those watching to the savior (that is the only mission or 3abn to represent Christ). We do not owe the company or the church our allegiance, our only allegiance is God and not man.

Posted by: princessdi Apr 23 2007, 11:23 PM

Yeah, What he said........

Posted by: LaurenceD Apr 23 2007, 11:30 PM

> QUOTE(Eirene)
>
> By spending more money to fly he can go to three different areas, sometimes coast to coast, and gain more for the business than if he drove to just one of those areas and only gained one thing for the business.
>
> ...
>
> Do any of us honestly believe that the 3ABN board would okay anyone to use the jet to fly to no where special. From what I can see they are all about doing the Lord's business and we should be too. We should also be praising the Lord for blessing us with the ways and means to help us finish the work.

And herein lies the fundamental difference. You've stated it well. 3abn is a business. A professional, legal, state approved business. Taking the gospel to the whole world was not intended to become a legal type of professional business operation. With your approach, the mission dies when funds decline.

But, not so with Christ's ways, and that of HIS disciples. In Mat 10, when he sent them out to preach the Kingdom of God, he specifically told them they would not need money. Nothing has changed. Technology can come and go, but the mission of The Man Nobody Knows will remain the same. The REAL fire will spread from heart to heart...and no one will get rich off the true message...

...and you can take that to the bank!

Posted by: princessdi Apr 24 2007, 12:00 AM

Yeah what he said, too!

..and just let me add this. Eirene, Lee, Aletheia, youare all given things to write here. Youare given your answers on the basis th t you believe in 3ABN being a ministry. However, Danny and the 3ABN board, and sorry to say the church(because there is a clear conflict of interest there and it often ospills over into the running of the church Danny moved onto his property---once again, business) is run on the fact that it is a business. They count on You defend on the basis that it is a ministry, in spite of their actions that show them to be a businesy. It is not that it can't be done, they are just not doing it very well. I have often mentioned th eease with which they seitch from ministry to business at their convenience. To get rid of Linda, it was because she would hurt the minsitry, but when it came to the money she becaome an employee, instead of cofounder.........They should be about their Father's business which is ministry, unfortunately they are more often than not about earthly business.

> QUOTE(LaurenceD @ Apr 23 2007, 10:30 PM)
>
> And herein lies the fundamental difference. You've stated it well. 3abn is a business. A professional, legal, state approved business. Taking the gospel to the whole world was not intended to become a legal type of professional business operation. With your approach, the mission dies when funds decline.
>
> But, not so with Christ's ways, and that of HIS disciples. In Mat 10, when he sent them out to preach the Kingdom of God, he specifically told them they would not need money. Nothing has changed. Technology can come and go, but the mission of The Man Nobody Knows will remain the same. The REAL fire will spread from heart to heart...and no one will get rich off the true message...
>
> ...and you can take that to the bank!

Posted by: västergötland Apr 24 2007, 01:21 AM

> QUOTE(Eirene @ Apr 24 2007, 04:22 AM)
>
> Let us put things in the right perspective. When the first disciples and Paul were doing God's work they either had to walk to distant places or send letters with others and it took a lot of time. Nowadays we have cars, planes, and trains. We also have computers, and phones. One has to take everything into consideration; time, work schedules etc. One of my sons has a job where he at times flies across the country and even overseas. In this country he could walk or drive, go by plane or train, but then he has to consider the time that will be spent in travel and the schedules he must keep and compare it to the schedules of the planes or trains. By spending more money to fly he can go to three different areas, sometimes coast to coast, and gain more for the business than if he drove to just one of those areas and only gained one thing for the business. Which is more cost effective and uses time more wisely? We have to ask ourselves if we are willing to put aside our computers and telephones and keep in contact only by snail mail because computers and phone calls cost more. Jesus didn't have them either and I don't think we believe we are better than Him if we use them.
>
> Eirene

Jesus wasnt prioritising speed in anything he did. Just take the example of the sickness and death of his friend Lazarus. He could have run and gotten there in time to do a healing from sickness, but no. He waited for three days and then took his time walking to where the family lived. The one time when Jesus did use transportation on land, he chose the donkey when, if he had been in a hurry could have chosen a horse or a chariot. In fact, it is doubtfull that one could run a company today and be as spontaneous as Jesus was in his ministry. More than once we read how Jesus allowed himself to be distracted from where he was going to reply to a need he saw in people who where around him just at that time. But this is a new thread (or could have been if there had been anything more to say on it.)

Posted by: beartrap Apr 24 2007, 01:25 AM

In Jesus day there were horses and chariots. Jesus had neither. He went on foot like the common people did, except for one time when he borrowed a donkey. The apostles traveled by commercial ship when they went overseas. They did not own or lease a ship. They did not own or lease chariots. Is anyone's time on this earth more valuable than Jesus' was? Is any person's ministry more important than his? Is what they can do with their time here more valuable than his was?

BTW. The 3ABN board does not OK where the jet flies. They don't take part in those decisions.

> QUOTE(Eirene @ Apr 23 2007, 08:22 PM)
>
> QUOTE(runner4him @ Apr 23 2007, 05:57 PM)
>
> .....check to see if a large expensive jet is being used for transportation to no where special!
> Let us put things in the right perspective. When the first disciples and Paul were doing God's work they either had to walk to distant places or send letters with others and it took a lot of time. Nowadays we have cars, planes, and trains. We also have computers, and phones. One has to take everything into consideration; time, work schedules etc. One of my sons has a job where he at times flies across the country and even overseas. In this country he could walk or drive, go by plane or train, but then he has to consider the time that will be spent in travel and the schedules he must keep and compare it to the schedules of the planes or trains. By spending more money to fly he can go to three different areas, sometimes coast to coast, and gain more for the business than if he drove to just one of those areas and only gained one thing for the business. Which is more cost effective and uses time more wisely? We have to ask ourselves if we are willing to put aside our computers and telephones and keep in contact only by snail mail because computers and phone calls cost more. Jesus didn't have them either and I don't think we believe we are better than Him if we use them.
>
> Do any of us honestly believe that the 3ABN board would okay anyone to use the jet to fly to no where special. From what I can see they are all about doing the Lord's business and we should be too. We should also be praising the Lord for blessing us with the ways and means to help us finish the work.
>
> Eirene

Posted by: Fran Apr 24 2007, 02:50 AM

> QUOTE(Eirene @ Apr 23 2007, 09:22 PM)

> QUOTE(runner4him @ Apr 23 2007, 05:57 PM)
>
> .....check to see if a large expensive jet is being used for transportation to no where special!
> Let us put things in the right perspective. When the first disciples and Paul were doing God's work they either had to walk to distant places or send letters with others and it took a lot of time. Nowadays we have cars, planes, and trains. We also have computers, and phones. One has to take everything into consideration; time, work schedules etc. One of my sons has a job where he at times flies across the country and even overseas. In this country he could walk or drive, go by plane or train, but then he has to consider the time that will be spent in travel and the schedules he must keep and compare it to the schedules of the planes or trains. By spending more money to fly he can go to three different areas, sometimes coast to coast, and gain more for the business than if he drove to just one of those areas and only gained one thing for the business. Which is more cost effective and uses time more wisely? We have to ask ourselves if we are willing to put aside our computers and telephones and keep in contact only by snail mail because computers and phone calls cost more. Jesus didn't have them either and I don't think we believe we are better than Him if we use them.
>
> Do any of us honestly believe that the 3ABN board would okay anyone to use the jet to fly to no where special. From what I can see they are all about doing the Lord's business and we should be too. We should also be praising the Lord for blessing us with the ways and means to help us finish the work.
>
> Eirene

Eirene;

Does your son fly in a leased jet, or does he fly commercial? If he flies commercial, we can not compare your son's flights with Danny's flights.

> QUOTE
>
> Eirene asked: Do any of us honestly believe that the 3ABN board would okay anyone to use the jet to fly to no where special.

Yes, there are many who would say this is true.

Posted by: Aletheia Apr 24 2007, 05:07 AM

> QUOTE(Fran @ Apr 24 2007, 04:50 AM)
>
> Yes, there are many who would say this is true.

Many here say many things. Unfortunately, much of it is ugly, saying things are true, and proving things are true, are not the same thing.

Mat 12:35 A good man out of the good treasure of the heart bringeth forth good things: and an evil man out of the evil treasure bringeth forth evil things.
36 But I say unto you, That every idle word that men shall speak, they shall give account thereof in the day of judgment.
37 For by thy words thou shalt be justified, and by thy words thou shalt be condemned.

This whole conversation is offtopic as usual, and extremely ridiculous, as many of the discussions here are.

So many keep trying to identify 3ABN as a "business" and remove God from the issues, but it's a ministry, people! Like it or not, you can't change that. The work they do for the Lord, and the people who they've reached, constantly sharing their testimony is proof of that,

The prophet Daniel, spoke of " the time of the end" as the time when "many shall run to and fro, and knowledge shall be increased."

Jesus said:"Go ye unto all the world" are we to refuse to use modern tools and assets such as the phone, the internet, the radio, television, cable, satelites, and planes, trains and automobiles, to reach the most people, in the most efficient ways possible with the good news and the 3 angels message, because these things didn't exist in Jesus' day?

NO!

3ABN has a mission that is worldwide, this involves travel in whatever way is most efficient, timewise and financially, and it's up to 3ABN what they do, and how they do it, not a bunch of jealous and bitter sour grapes who erroniously call themselves stockholders in the pews.

You aren't, and you don't even support the ministry, you only attack it.

Derrell Mundall is here talking about what a waste a jet is when doing the Lord's work as called to do, and so many of you agree.

Because Jesus walked, and rode a donkey?

When was the last time you and Linda walked or rode a donkey to one of Linda's engagements, Derrell?

When you were upgrading your lodging and car rentals etc when travelling for 3ABN were you concerned with where the donors money was being spent Mr Mundall?

How many of you have ever objected to Linda jetting back and forth to Europe?

How many objected to the jet when linda was still at 3ABN and using it? Where is your outrage and protest recorded?

This whole agenda against 3ABN is all so very hypocritical, one sided and biased.

I am not here to argue, I just want the readers here to see how petty your arguments are, and why your complaints and accusations can't be taken seriously.

Posted by: runner4him Apr 24 2007, 05:08 AM

> QUOTE(mystery- man @ Apr 23 2007, 10:32 PM)
>
> I really try not to get angry because it is not healthy, but I am finding it more and more difficult to control my anger and that is why my time is so limited on this thread. The fact of the matter is that Danny and Linda were holding hands pointing at the stars and lovey dubby. And in the space of two weeks after that the love of his life Linda was completely wiped from the face of the earth. Come on folks do you really think people are that stupid? I believe that some people are angry because this forum and others had the guts to question what was thrown in their face. Here are the facts folks Dannys wife was removed from office and from her marriage, and we as the donors and share holders were never given a straight aurthenticated reason why. Since the company and its mission are spiritual in nature a straight forward and provable reason was absolutly necessary. The face of the company was suppose to represent Christ in character thus directing those watching to the savior (that is the only mission or 3abn to represent Christ). We do not owe the company or the church our allegiance, our only allegiance is God and not man.

[Amen to all he said! Like I have said before it is all a wake up call....allegiance to God and not to man.

Posted by: Aletheia Apr 24 2007, 05:19 AM

> QUOTE(princessdi @ Apr 23 2007, 04:38 PM)
>
> Thirdly, you would want to take your tone down a notch or two when you post. Me. as an Admin, failure to do so will cause your membership here to be interrupted, in not altogether discontinued. Me as a member, you got the wrong Girl in me, and this will also cause an interruption in your membership. We can disagree with out being disrespectful. [/color]

Respectfully, I saw no disrespect, nor challenge of you as a administrator, or any forum rules here, Di. You might want to take it down a notch or two yourself. Your personal opinions can be challenged. As you yourself said you should be able to disagree without being disrespectful, -- and without the threats, right?

Di also wrote:

> QUOTE
>
> Aletheia, youare all given things to write here.

That is flat out false.

Posted by: runner4him Apr 24 2007, 05:26 AM

> QUOTE(Eirene @ Apr 23 2007, 09:22 PM)
>
> QUOTE(runner4him @ Apr 23 2007, 05:57 PM)
>
> .....check to see if a large expensive jet is being used for transportation to no where special!
> Let us put things in the right perspective. When the first disciples and Paul were doing God's work they either had to walk to distant places or send letters with others and it took a lot of time. Nowadays we have cars, planes, and trains. We also have computers, and phones. One has to take everything into consideration; time, work schedules etc. One of my sons has a job where he at times flies across the country and even overseas. In this country he could walk or drive, go by plane or train, but then he has to consider the time that will be spent in travel and the schedules he must keep and compare it to the schedules of the planes or trains. By spending more money to fly he can go to three different areas, sometimes coast to coast, and gain more for the business than if he drove to just one of those areas and only gained one thing for the business. Which is more cost effective and uses time more wisely? We have to ask ourselves if we are willing to put aside our computers and telephones and keep in contact only by snail mail because computers and phone calls cost more. Jesus didn't have them either and I don't think we believe we are better than Him if we use them.
>
> Do any of us honestly believe that the 3ABN board would okay anyone to use the jet to fly to no where special. From what I can see they are all about doing the Lord's business and we should be too. We should also be praising the Lord for blessing us with the ways and means to help us finish the work.
>
> Eirene

You can say all you want in defense of that VERY expensive jet to fly all over when DS could use public transportation at prices which are a fraction of the cost, and still the bottom line is what do the people think who have been supporting 3abn all these years? I for one never knew about the jet and I definitely would have been alarmed at spending funds given through sacrifice and in good faith for spreading the Gospel. You have to agree that when Jesus walked among men he used simple means and did even pack a lunch so He might demonstrate God's power and speak to the hearts of men. What a contrast today....we have a dreamer traveling first class in a private jet, pleading for more money, apparently hiding assets, divorcing and remarrying before national TV, covering up a brother who is an admitted abuser.....blows my mind that anyone can be in his camp defending his actions. I am one of many who hold the purse strings and say STOP with the blind giving.

Posted by: watchbird Apr 24 2007, 05:46 AM

> QUOTE(Aletheia @ Apr 24 2007, 07:07 AM)
>
> How many objected to the jet when linda was still at 3ABN and using it? Where is your outrage and protest > recorded?

dventist Today printed an article regarding this well before Linda was ousted from 3abn.

Posted by: Aletheia Apr 24 2007, 06:15 AM

BTW, Di, Calvin, or Clay???

I know this is offtopic, but ever since yesterday I haven't been able to read, send, or reply to pms. That's why I am posting instead of sending pms.

I just noticed Rosyroi also saying she was having problems with pms, in the chatbox. I tried to do a search just now, so I could correct and clarify the Jet issue for runner, regarding how it's paid for and got the same error message, as I do with the pms:

"Fatal error: Allowed memory size of 8388608 bytes exhausted (tried to allocate 184320 bytes) in /home/blacksda/public_html/forums/sources/action_public/D2mods/Shoutbox/classes/class.misc.php on line 148"

Posted by: västergötland Apr 24 2007, 06:50 AM

> QUOTE(Aletheia @ Apr 24 2007, 01:07 PM)
>
> Because Jesus walked, and rode a donkey?

he example was given to show that with Jesus, mission doesnt have the same priorities as does a orporation. Wether 3ABNs priorities reflect those of a mission or those of a buisness, maybe you can tell me? or example, is the time saved by owning or leasing your airplane more important or is the witnessing pportunity gained by traveling with public transportation more important? You tell me what the proper riorities are.

Of course recogniseing that this concerns the priorities of what one does most commonly. With either choise here are of course exceptions where the other alternative is preferable for that specific time and purpose.)

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Apr 24 2007, 06:52 AM

I have been getting the same message when trying to PM since sometime yesterday.

Posted by: runner4him Apr 24 2007, 07:03 AM

> QUOTE(watchbird @ Apr 24 2007, 05:46 AM)
>
> Adventist Today printed an article regarding this well before Linda was ousted from 3abn.

s for me, I just was not aware of the jet but I would definitely have objected if I knew about it. I object to the jet not just who is using it.

I guess I was like so many others sitting in the easy chair.... paying for Sky Angel..... watching 3ABN....writing checks...blindly believing....saying go for it....tell the world....becoming more and more passive.....little sinking in. No more! I must take personal responsibility and seek Him...doing more....serving more....questioning more.....being involved! Come Lord Jesus for a people who are ready and I pray I am with those people who are seeking Him.

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Apr 24 2007, 07:15 AM

> QUOTE(beartrap @ Apr 24 2007, 12:25 AM) ☐
>
> In Jesus day there were horses and chariots. Jesus had neither. He went on foot like the common people did, except for one time when he borrowed a donkey. The apostles traveled by commercial ship when they went overseas. They did not own or lease a ship. They did not own or lease chariots. Is anyone's time on this earth more valuable than Jesus' was? Is any person's ministry more important than his? Is what they can do with their time here more valuable than his was?
>
> BTW. The 3ABN board does not OK where the jet flies. They don't take part in those decisions.

beartrap,

I think what you are stating here is the bottom line. We know that Jesus mostly walked around during his ministry (He did take some boat trips folks, remember?). His disciples were the ones faced with using the commercial transpotation of the day. We know Danny isn't Jesus, just supposed to be one of his representatives like the apostles were. If Paul was here today, continuing to follow the great commission to spread the Gospel, would he have a leased jet and two pilots on standby? Realistically, I think he would weigh all of the details and see if it was the most practical use of the time and money that had been dedicated to the Lord.

I wonder if the CFO at 3abn has crunched those numbers on a spreadsheet? For the donor's sakes, I hope so. That would be good stewardship, IMO.

Posted by: YogusBearus Apr 24 2007, 07:15 AM

> QUOTE(LaurenceD @ Apr 23 2007, 11:30 PM) ☐
>
> And herein lies the fundamental difference. You've stated it well. 3abn is a business. A professional, legal, state approved business. Taking the gospel to the whole world was not intended to become a legal type of professional business operation. With your approach, the mission dies when funds decline.
>
> But, not so with Christ's ways, and that of HIS disciples. In Mat 10, when he sent them out to preach the Kingdom of God, he specifically told them they would not need money. Nothing has changed. Technology can come and go, but the mission of The Man Nobody Knows will remain the same. The REAL fire will spread from heart to heart...and no one will get rich off the true message...
>
> ...and you can take that to the bank!

Well said Laurence. It's relatively painless to make those monthly contributions to these businesses thinking that somehow we have participated in spreading the gospel. We feel good about it because we hear wonderful stories of dreams and the usual tricks with numbers. I'm afraid the actual return on investment is pretty lousy.

The real investment we're called to make is in the people around us. Emotional, lasting, life long investments in relationships that lead others to Christ. We will never have difficulty finding places to put our money. You are right, "Heart to Heart" is really the only way.

-bear

Posted by: awesumtenor Apr 24 2007, 07:21 AM

> QUOTE(Aletheia @ Apr 24 2007, 07:19 AM)
>
> Respectfully, I saw no disrespect, nor challenge of you as a administrator, or any forum rules here, Di. You might want to take it down a notch or two yourself. Your personal opinions can be challenged. As you yourself said you should be able to disagree without being disrespectful, -- and without the threats, right?

Your selective myopia notwithstanding... eirene's calling Di "desperate" and "pathetic" is disrespectful.. particularly for someone who has been posting here all of 2 days.

How you choose to view it is immaterial; if you want to be the arbiter of such things, then you need to spend the money to reserve the domain www.landoftheblind.com and set up your own forum.

> QUOTE
>
> That is flat out false.

Pray tell what things you have witnessed for yourself, Cindy... oh wait... I forgot... you said you weren't a witness... and since you are not a witness, the only way you can be informed is if someone is telling you... so spare us your indignation; you, after all, are the one who posted the email from fhb giving you your marching orders... are you now saying that email was patently untrue?

In His service,
Mr. J

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Apr 24 2007, 07:23 AM

> QUOTE(Eirene @ Apr 23 2007, 08:22 PM)
>
> QUOTE(runner4him @ Apr 23 2007, 05:57 PM)
>
> .....check to see if a large expensive jet is being used for transportation to no where special!
>
> Let us put things in the right perspective. When the first disciples and Paul were doing God's work they either had to walk to distant places or send letters with others and it took a lot of time. Nowadays we have cars, planes, and trains. We also have computers, and phones. One has to take everything into consideration; time, work schedules etc. One of my sons has a job where he at times flies across the country and even overseas. In this country he could walk or drive, go by plane or train, but then he has to consider the time that will be spent in travel and the schedules he must keep and compare it to the schedules of the planes or trains. By spending more money to fly he can go to three different areas, sometimes coast to coast, and gain more for the business than if he drove to just one of those areas and > only gained one thing for the business. Which is more cost effective and uses time more wisely? We have to ask ourselves if we are willing to put aside our computers and telephones and keep in contact only by snail mail because computers and phone calls cost more. Jesus didn't have them either and I don't think we believe we are better than Him if we use them.

>
> Do any of us honestly believe that the 3ABN board would okay anyone to use the jet to fly to no where special. From what I can see they are all about doing the Lord's business and we should be too. We should also be praising the Lord for blessing us with the ways and means to help us finish the work.
>
> Eirene

irene,

ou make some very valid points here and I appreciate the tone you have used while sharing your erspective.

e, as those not privy to the 3abn accounting department, have no way to really know if that leased jet and ilots have ever been used for other than ministry business. I would hope not.

Posted by: caribbean sda Apr 24 2007, 07:28 AM

> QUOTE(Aletheia @ Apr 24 2007, 07:07 AM) ☐
>
> I am not here to argue,

☐ so you say...

☒ ☒ ☒ rofl ☒ rofl

Posted by: runner4him Apr 24 2007, 07:31 AM

> QUOTE(Observer @ Apr 23 2007, 03:57 AM) ☐
>
> Posting today (April 23, 2007) Danny Shelton said:
> Note the clear statement that lawsuits have been filed against two people.

s for the "lawsuits"....From my understanding DS has a history of making statements of ideas as though hey are actual facts in the making. Apparently he has done this in the past and it has caused potential ealings to sour due to his premature boosting or announcements. Perhaps it was another dream or vision of lawsuit and DS is confused. For the record....we need not fear what man can do (in a court room or lsewhere) but we need to be vigilant and do the Lord's work speaking truth all the way!

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Apr 24 2007, 07:37 AM

> QUOTE(Aletheia @ Apr 24 2007, 04:07 AM) ☐
>
> Many here say many things. Unfortunately, much of it is ugly, saying things are true, and proving things are true, are not the same thing.

> Mat 12:35 A good man out of the good treasure of the heart bringeth forth good things: and an evil man out of the evil treasure bringeth forth evil things.
> 36 But I say unto you, That every idle word that men shall speak, they shall give account thereof in the day of judgment.
> 37 For by thy words thou shalt be justified, and by thy words thou shalt be condemned.
> This whole conversation is offtopic as usual, and extremely ridiculous, as many of the discussions here are.

nteresting that you would say and quote these things.

> QUOTE
>
> So many keep trying to identify 3ABN as a "business" and remove God from the issues, but it's a ministry, people! Like it or not, you can't change that. The work they do for the Lord, and the people who they've reached, constantly sharing their testimony is proof of that,
>
> The prophet Daniel, spoke of " the time of the end" as the time when "many shall run to and fro, and knowledge shall be increased."
>
> Jesus said:"Go ye unto all the world" are we to refuse to use modern tools and assets such as the phone, the internet, the radio, television, cable, satelites, and planes, trains and automobiles, to reach the most people, in the most efficient ways possible with the good news and the 3 angels message, because these things didn't exist in Jesus' day?
>
> NO!
>
> 3ABN has a mission that is worldwide, this involves travel in whatever way is most efficient, timewise and financially, and it's up to 3ABN what they do, and how they do it, not a bunch of jealous and bitter sour grapes who erroniously call themselves stockholders in the pews.
>
> You aren't, and you don't even support the ministry, you only attack it.

ow do you know who here does or does not financially support 3abn? Jesus expects us to be good stewards f His funds while we spread the gospel.

> QUOTE
>
> Derrell Mundall is here talking about what a waste a jet is when doing the Lord's work as called to do, and so many of you agree.
>
> Because Jesus walked, and rode a donkey?
>
> When was the last time you and Linda walked or rode a donkey to one of Linda's engagements, Derrell?
>
> When you were upgrading your lodging and car rentals etc when travelling for 3ABN were you concerned with where the donors money was being spent Mr Mundall?
>
> How many of you have ever objected to Linda jetting back and forth to Europe?
>
> How many objected to the jet when linda was still at 3ABN and using it? Where is your outrage and protest recorded?
>
> This whole agenda against 3ABN is all so very hypocritical, one sided and biased.
>
> I am not here to argue, I just want the readers here to see how petty your arguments are, and why your complaints and accusations can't be taken seriously.

ow, remember those words you spoke at the beginning of your post? How do they apply to your own vritings? What is the spirit you exhibit as you throw hearsay attacks at Derrell? Have you seen the documents proving that Derrell upgraded his lodging and car rentals to know if what you have been told is true? The point is, you took a discussion about stewardship and turned it into a personal attack. That doesn't edify the dialogue, IMO.

Posted by: LaurenceD Apr 24 2007, 08:20 AM

Aletheia does not sound qualified to be analyzing the methods of Christ, or how to use money for His cause. She does sound disturbed.

Posted by: runner4him Apr 24 2007, 08:48 AM

> QUOTE(LaurenceD @ Apr 24 2007, 08:20 AM)
>
> Aletheia does not sound qualified to be analyzing the methods of Christ, or how to use money for His cause. She does sound disturbed.

I was just thinking the same thing. I just joined this forum and I can really feel the hostility....so sad.

About the jet again...........it is a no brainer. Tell the people in front of the TV set about the jet and how it is being used and let them do the math. They may be lethargic but they are not stupid and hopefully they are awake now. I count myself as being one of "them" (past tense) asleep at the wheel and not noticing who has been driving while I was writing the checks and forgeting my real role of being actively involved spreading the Gospel.

Posted by: LaurenceD Apr 24 2007, 09:01 AM

> QUOTE(YogusBearus)
>
> The real investment we're called to make is in the people around us. Emotional, lasting, life long investments in relationships that lead others to Christ. We will never have difficulty finding places to put our money. You are right, "Heart to Heart" is really the only way.

And look at the big picture. This "suer," who claims to be on a mission for Christ with our donations, does not appear to be familiar with our example, The Man Nobody Knows. Christ did not mix the mammon of unrighteousness with His mission. His mission does not depend on the donations of rich people, or the two mites of selfless poor. Instead, he lit the fire that spreads from heart to heart. This fire is what was felt and experience at Pentecost...they were on fire for the Lord, they held all things in common and provided for the minimal needs of each other. "His" workers were volunteers -- not volunteering so that someone in charge could become rich, increased with goods, and in need of nothing--except the "five dollars--whatever you may have" (quoted from 3abn), but volunteers for a greater cause. The man in charge, our model Jesus Christ, became the greatest volunteer--the most selfless of them all.

In 2000-2001, when Judge Rowe examined their approach as a not-for-profit organization, she was amazed they had the means to be charitible, but found there was no record they had given anything. Instead, they had taken the two mites and used part of that to build earthly mansions, to increase excessive salaries, to purchase private excessive transportation (read EGW on $$$ wasted on travelling), and to sue when those $$ could have been used for His cause instead.

Christ's medical ministry program was not intended to become a business so that someone could get rich off healing the poor. When Christ was confronted with those in God's temple, who had made a business out of God's mission, he got out the whip. It stung, and what we're saying has apparently hit a nerve.

Fine clothes, shiney new pickups, corporate jets, earthy mansions, and all the other luxurious costly trappings money may possibly accumulate, cannot conceal the genuine poverty and insignificance from the eyes of the poor widow who made it all possible. The common hope is that a new, more magnanimous organization may soon emerge out of all this. Hopefully, the merger will help provide the missing elements, and this "suer" will disappear from the face of the project

---

Posted by: runner4him Apr 24 2007, 09:07 AM

> QUOTE(LaurenceD @ Apr 24 2007, 09:01 AM)
>
> And look at the big picture. This "suer," who claims to be on a mission for Christ with our donations, does not appear to be familiar with our example, The Man Nobody Knows. Christ did not mix the mammon of unrighteousness with His mission. His mission does not depend on the donations of rich people, or the two mites of selfless poor. Instead, he lit the fire that spreads from heart to heart. This fire is what was felt and experience at Pentecost...they were on fire for the Lord, they held all things in common and provided for the minimal needs of each other. "His" workers were volunteers -- not volunteering so that someone in charge could become rich, increased with goods, and in need of nothing--except the "five dollars--whatever you may have" (quoted from 3abn), but volunteers for a greater cause. The man in charge, our model Jesus Christ, became the greatest volunteer--the most selfless of them all.
>
> In 2000-2001, when Judge Rowe examined their approach as a not-for-profit organization, she was amazed they had the means to be charitible, but found there was no record they had given anything. Instead, they had taken the two mites and used part of that to build earthly mansions, to increase excessive salaries, to purchase private excessive transportation (read EGW on $$$ wasted on travelling), and to sue when those $$ could have been used for His cause instead.
>
> Christ's medical ministry program was not intended to become a business so that someone could get rich off healing the poor. When Christ was confronted with those in God's temple, who had made a business out of God's mission, he got out the whip. It stung, and what we're saying has apparently hit a nerve.
>
> Fine clothes, shiney new pickups, corporate jets, earthy mansions, and all the other luxurious costly trappings money may possibly accumulate, cannot conceal the genuine poverty and insignificance from the eyes of the poor widow who made it all possible. The common hope is that a new, more magnanimous organization may soon emerge out of all this. Hopefully, the merger will help provide the missing elements, and this "suer" will disappear from the face of the project

Amen....meaningful words spoken well

Posted by: Aletheia Apr 24 2007, 10:26 AM

> QUOTE(awesumtenor @ Apr 24 2007, 09:21 AM)
>
> Your selective myopia notwithstanding... eirene's calling Di "desperate" and "pathetic" is disrespectful.. particularly for someone who has been posting here all of 2 days.
>
> How you choose to view it is immaterial; if you want to be the arbiter of such things, then you need to spend the money to reserve the domain www.landoftheblind.com and set up your own forum.
> Pray tell what things you have witnessed for yourself, Cindy... oh wait... I forgot... you said you weren't a witness... and since you are not a witness, the only way you can be informed is if someone is telling you... so spare us your indignation; you, after all, are the one who posted the email from fhb giving you your marching orders... are you now saying that email was patently untrue?
>
> In His service,

> Mr. J

Dear Readers,

1. How can Eirene's opinons of Di's views and arguments be disrespectful, when Mr J constantly writes all that he does and no one can see a lack of respect in any of his words?

2. I did NOT post a email from FHB, or from anyone else, giving me marching orders.

That was Mr J's and Clays spin, and that interpretation was and still is false. as I clarified at the time.

Posted by: princessdi Apr 24 2007, 10:47 AM

Thanks Cindy! We are aware of the problem and are working to correct it********

> QUOTE(Aletheia @ Apr 24 2007, 04:15 AM)
>
> BTW, Di, Calvin, or Clay???
> I know this is offtopic, but ever since yesterday I haven't been able to read, send, or reply to pms. That's why I am posting instead of sending pms.
>
> I just noticed Rosyroi also saying she was having problems with pms, in the chatbox. I tried to do a search just now, so I could correct and clarify the Jet issue for runner, regarding how it's paid for and got the same error message, as I do with the pms:
>
> "Fatal error: Allowed memory size of 8388608 bytes exhausted (tried to allocate 184320 bytes) > in /home/blacksda/public_html/forums/sources/action_public/D2mods/Shoutbox/classes/class.misc.php on line 148"

Posted by: Skyhook Apr 24 2007, 10:51 AM

Aletheia, someone posted earlier that you sound disturbed. I agree with that based on your vehement, hostile statements. You say that you have no first hand knowledge of the people or the inner workings of 3abn, and yet based on this lack of knowledge, you have been obsessively trying to defend DS and the rest of the 3abn leadership. People have pointed this out to you several times on this forum, and yet you persist. That is a very strange, even bizarre obsession.

Posted by: Aletheia Apr 24 2007, 10:59 AM

> QUOTE(Skyhook @ Apr 24 2007, 12:51 PM)
>
> Aletheia, someone posted earlier that you sound disturbed. I agree with that based on your vehement, hostile statements. You say that you have no first hand knowledge of the people or the inner workings of 3abn, and yet based on this lack of knowledge, you have been obsessively trying to defend DS and the rest of the 3abn leadership. People have pointed this out to you several times on this forum, and yet you > persist. That is a very strange, even bizarre obsession.

ust because I was not a first hand eye witness to all this, doesn't mean I lack knowledge, or haven't talked o, questioned and gotten answers to my questions from those who were, nor does it mean I can't read and :omprehend what's been posted here, if that makes me look disturbed to you, or sound hostile to you ılthough I don't feel like that, well there's nothing I can do about that.

'm done with this thread, so ..

ater...

Posted by: princessdi Apr 24 2007, 11:07 AM

> QUOTE
>
> Respectfully, I saw no disrespect, nor challenge of you as a administrator, or any forum rules here, Di. You might want to take it down a notch or two yourself. Your personal opinions can be challenged. As you yourself said you should be able to disagree without being disrespectful, -- and without the threats, right?

'hose were not threats, but promises. I am not surprised that you did not see the disrespect in her post and ʼours either. Good thing I am here to let you know the boundaries since you don't know it when you see it. 'ake note: she was(she had already disagreed with my post. I didn't need to be desperate or pathetic) and ʼou are also(No, I need all the notches at my disposal for those who are challenged int he area of repsect).

> QUOTE
>
> That is flat out false.

low, how can that be? You came in here in December, claiming to be a person without any knowledge ooking for firsthand information in order to sort out this mess in you own mind, correct? It wasn't two nonths later, that you were spouting information like you present and eye witness at each and every event ınd exchange under discussionm in cluding those between Danny and Linda. You yourself said on different ›ccasions that you were supplied information, some which you were not at liberty to divulge, and some you vere. Is that not being given what to say in repsonse to the question and allegations here? As Well as ıdmitted being part of a concerted effort to deiscredit information that is being released. You weren't there? 'ou didn't, and still don't, know for yourself, somebody HAD/HAS to tell you, and you repeat here, on CF, and ınywhere else they send you. Common sense. Don't be ashamed now, if you are defending Danny with ›verything you can get your hands on, then be proud of that!

Posted by: Aletheia Apr 24 2007, 11:09 AM

> QUOTE(princessdi @ Apr 24 2007, 12:47 PM)
>
> Thanks Cindy! We are aware of the problem and are working to correct it********

Posted by: princessdi Apr 24 2007, 11:16 AM

Ok, so let me get this striaght........

I said:

> QUOTE
>
> Eirene, Lee, Aletheia, you are all given things to write here. You are given your answers on the basis that you believe in 3ABN being a ministry.

Then you said:

> QUOTE
>
> That is flat out false.

And then you said this:

> QUOTE
>
> Just because I was not a first hand eye witness to all this, doesn't mean I lack knowledge, or haven't talked to, questioned and gotten answers to my questions from those who were, nor does it mean I can't read and comprehend what's been posted here, if that makes me look disturbed to you, or sound hostile to you although I don't feel like that, well there's nothing I can do about that.

Now, you do know that those statements are contradictory? Which is it?

Plus, let me add that you came here asking for first hand knowledge. When you got it, it was lies, but that is beside the point. The problem is that now you really want us to accept second and third hand knowledge from you. How does that work? According to your own standards only those posting first hand knowledge can be trusted, or maybe not. Maybe it is more like those who post first hand knowledge that agrees with what Danny says. All this duplicity in your mind, has me totally confused, and personally your credibility is in the dumpster with me. Sorry!

Posted by: ex3ABNemployee Apr 24 2007, 11:17 AM

> QUOTE(princessdi @ Apr 24 2007, 11:07 AM)
>
> Now, how can that be? You came in here in December, claiming to be a person without any knowledge looking for firsthand information in order to sort out this mess in you own mind, correct? It wasn't two months later, that you were spouting information like you present and eye witness at each and every event and exchange under discussionm in cluding those between Danny and Linda. You yourself said on different occasions that you were supplied information, some which you were not at liberty to divulge, and some you were. Is that not being given what to say in repsonse to the question and allegations here? As Well as admitted being part of a concerted effort to deiscredit information that is being released. You weren't there? You didn't, and still don't, know for yourself, somebody HAD/HAS to tell you, and you > repeat here, on CF, and anywhere else they send you. Common sense. Don't be ashamed now, if you are defending Danny with everything you can get your hands on, then be proud of that!

Maybe some jealousy toward Bob Pickle, too?

Posted by: awesumtenor Apr 24 2007, 11:33 AM

> QUOTE(Aletheia @ Apr 24 2007, 12:26 PM)
>
> Dear Readers,
>
> 1. How can Eirene's opinons of Di's views and arguments be disrespectful, when Mr J constantly writes all that he does and no one can see a lack of respect in any of his words?

The number you need is 1-888-SNI-FFLE... if that is busy try 1-900-WAA-AAAH.

> QUOTE
>
> 2. I did NOT post a email from FHB, or from anyone else, giving me marching orders.
>
> That was Mr J's and Clays spin, and that interpretation was and still is false. as I clarified at the time.

f it were just Clay and myself who noticed it, you might have an argument. You tried to spin it to be other han what it is, as you are doing now... but you fail to realize though...that everybody here can read... and comprehend what they peruse. The fact is, your screen name would be more appropriately "Charlie McCarthy"... your protests notwithstanding. You know nothing beyond what you have been told and even in he face of eyewitnesses with a contrary version, you choose to cling to what you've been told... in spite of.

That's not knowing; that is blindly accepting... huge difference Cindy... even in Indiana.

n His service,
Mr. J

> QUOTE(Skyhook @ Apr 24 2007, 12:51 PM)
>
> Aletheia, someone posted earlier that you sound disturbed. I agree with that based on your vehement, hostile statements. You say that you have no first hand knowledge of the people or the inner workings of 3abn, and yet based on this lack of knowledge, you have been obsessively trying to defend DS and the rest of the 3abn leadership. People have pointed this out to you several times on this forum, and yet you persist. That is a very strange, even bizarre obsession.

Not really... her behavior is consistent with one who has a more than platonic relationship with the one eeding her the information... said relationship borders on the co-dependent but it provides the basis for the unwavering acceptance of what she has been told is the truth.

n His service,
Mr. J

Posted by: caribbean sda Apr 24 2007, 11:51 AM

> QUOTE(Aletheia @ Apr 24 2007, 12:59 PM)
>
> I'm done with this thread, so ..
>
> later...

promise?

Posted by: awesumtenor Apr 24 2007, 11:55 AM

> QUOTE(caribbean sda @ Apr 24 2007, 01:51 PM)
>
> promise?

Don't hold your breath; remember last week when she insisted she was taking a 3 day hiatus that became 20 minutes...

In His service,
Mr. J

Posted by: Eirene Apr 24 2007, 01:15 PM

> QUOTE(ex3ABNemployee @ Apr 24 2007, 11:17 AM)
>
> Maybe some jealousy toward Bob Pickle, too?

Jealousy towards Bob Pickle? rofl Bob has become quite the "spectacle" within the denomination. Since you are not Adventist, I wouldn't expect you to know this. Doing what he has done, in the manner he has done it, and his seeming obssesion with it, has pretty much ensured that he won't be holding any mmm let's say, leadership positions within the church. Not to mention, that Pickle is in a boat load of trouble.

Posted by: ex3ABNemployee Apr 24 2007, 01:17 PM

> QUOTE(Eirene @ Apr 24 2007, 02:15 PM)
>
> Jealousy towards Bob Pickle? rofl Bob has become quite the "spectacle" within the > denomination. Since you are not Adventist, I wouldn't expect you to know this. Doing what he has done, in the manner he has done it, and his seeming obssesion with it, has pretty much ensured that he won't be holding any mmm let's say, leadership positions within the church. Not to mention, that Pickle is in a boat load of trouble.

nd I'm sure Bob is REALLY worried about that.

Posted by: PrincessDrRe Apr 24 2007, 01:36 PM

> QUOTE(mystery- man @ Apr 23 2007, 11:32 PM)
>
> We do not owe the company or the church our allegiance, our only allegiance is God and not man.

olks don't seem to remember this......at all!

> QUOTE(Aletheia @ Apr 24 2007, 11:59 AM)
>
> Just because I was not a first hand eye witness to all this, doesn't mean I lack knowledge, or haven't talked to, questioned and gotten answers to my questions from those who were, nor does it mean I can't read and comprehend what's been posted here, if that makes me look disturbed to you, or sound hostile to you although I don't feel like that, well there's nothing I can do about that.
>
> I'm done with this thread, so ..
>
> later...

his entire post is contradictory Aletheia to what you've said in the past. I know it. You know it. Other folks ere know it.....

TW: When you do contradict yourself, don't admit it when shown that you have, and continue to rant: you o look disturbed....
hat's IMP/PO (In my personal/professional opinion).....

Posted by: mozart Apr 24 2007, 02:26 PM

welcome M-M, i totally agree with you. when linda disappeared my adult daughter, who lives in another state and I called and wrote to 3abn over and over. she finally wrote them and said, "we don't want ugly details, but we have a right to know what happened to linda. we have supported and loved 3abn for years and we think we do have a right to know why someone we love has disappeared like they never existed. why are things so secretive? why won't you tell us what happened and where she is? all we ever got was "i'm sorry but we don't know" or "i'm sorry but she's asked us to protect her privacy." that's why ppl are in these forums. Because We Have a Right To KNOW. whether they like it or not, they owe us that.

> QUOTE(mystery- man @ Apr 23 2007, 09:32 PM)
>
> I really try not to get angry because it is not healthy, but I am finding it more and more difficult to control my anger and that is why my time is so limited on this thread. The fact of the matter is that Danny and Linda were holding hands pointing at the stars and lovey dubby. And in the space of two weeks after that > the love of his life Linda was completely wiped from the face of the earth. Come on folks do you really think people are that stupid? I believe that some people are angry because this forum and others had the guts to question what was thrown in their face. Here are the facts folks Dannys wife was removed from office and from her marriage, and we as the donors and share holders were never given a straight aurthenticated reason why. Since the company and its mission are spiritual in nature a straight forward and provable reason was absolutly necessary. The face of the company was suppose to represent Christ in character thus directing those watching to the savior (that is the only mission or 3abn to represent Christ). We do not owe the company or the church our allegiance, our only allegiance is God and not man.

Posted by: mozart Apr 24 2007, 02:39 PM

to the best of my knowledge, even tho' some say 3abn has never been in the red, that is not what danny said back in early 2000. i remember it clear as day. it was New Years Eve, when they do the all-night long program. Danny said that the past year was the first time 3abn didn't end the year in the black and it was shortly thereafter that all these rallys started. (and those of you who have to rebuff every statement ....dont say they have always had rallys. yes they have had a rally here and there) but this started the rallys almost every week-end and when danny mentioned that their traveling was going to be increasing immensely because of planning more rallys, i instantly thought this was going to really be hard on their marriage. not that this is the reason for the divorce. but i was thinking, ppl, especially those in the limelight, have to have down time. i think that first time being in the red made danny panic and JMO but i think he thought he had to take action to save 3abn. that's when he lost his faith in God running things at 3abn. and so the story goes. Just my thoughts.

> QUOTE(västergötland @ Apr 24 2007, 12:21 AM)
>
> Jesus wasnt prioritising speed in anything he did. Just take the example of the sickness and death of his friend Lazarus. He could have run and gotten there in time to do a healing from sickness, but no. He waited for three days and then took his time walking to where the family lived. The one time when Jesus did use transportation on land, he chose the donkey when, if he had been in a hurry could have chosen a horse or a chariot. In fact, it is doubtfull that one could run a company today and be as spontaneous as Jesus was in his ministry. More than once we read how Jesus allowed himself to be distracted from where he was going to reply to a need he saw in people who where around him just at that time. But this is a new thread (or could have been if there had been anything more to say on it.)

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Apr 24 2007, 02:40 PM

> QUOTE(Aletheia @ Apr 24 2007, 09:26 AM)
>
> Dear Readers,
>
> 1. How can Eirene's opinons of Di's views and arguments be disrespectful, when Mr J constantly writes all that he does and no one can see a lack of respect in any of his words?
>
> 2. I did NOT post a email from FHB, or from anyone else, giving me marching orders.
>
> That was Mr J's and Clays spin, and that interpretation was and still is false. as I clarified at the time.

Aletheia,

Eirene is welcome to post her personal opinions here, just as everyone else. But you certainly cannot believe hat her final sentence to Di was any sort of respectful. Ad hominem was clearly at use.

> QUOTE
>
> Eirene said: Your desperation to believe what you want to believe is extremely pathetic.

As far as using info provided by others, I think many of us remember the "F" incident. This may be what Mr. J is refering to.

> QUOTE
>
> I copied and pasted it from a e-mail. I did not edit it. That is why I asked what editing.
>
> http://www.blacksda.com/forums/index.php?s=&showtopic=12409&view=findpost&p=184192

It would be so nice if we could all practice kindness even as we disagree. I know this is a highly charged, polemic subject we are discussing and most, if not all, have fallen into mean-spiritedness to some degree at times. It would be just be refreshing if we could post our opinions and dialogue with each other while keeping in mind that Jesus died for each one of us, even the ones we see as hopelessly deluded.

Posted by: PrincessDrRe Apr 24 2007, 02:45 PM

If it walks like a duck, quacks, has feathers that water rolls off of like a duck, waddles like a duck, then duck it will be.

sna

Posted by: runner4him Apr 24 2007, 02:56 PM

> QUOTE(Eirene @ Apr 24 2007, 01:15 PM)
>
> Jealousy towards Bob Pickle? rofl Bob has become quite the "spectacle" within the denomination. Since you are not Adventist, I wouldn't expect you to know this. Doing what he has done, in the manner he has done it, and his seeming obssesion with it, has pretty much ensured that he won't be holding any mmm let's say, leadership positions within the church. Not to mention, that Pickle is in a boat load of trouble.

My My! What boat might that be??

From where I sit as an Adventist, I see Bob and the other faithful men and women demonstrating that they are not afraid to stand up and "call sin by its right name"...they are those who are not afraid of any threats or consequences...only interested in TRUTH!...caring enough to support the young people and families who have been abused and wronged....they demonstrate allegiance to God and not to man. These are the men and women you can trust and respect. As far as wanting any leadership positions within the church...I see these individuals willing to go out on a limb for all of us within this church not seeking any personal gain. We need to thank them and realize that if we neglect to be willing to go out on that same limb then we are not worthy of any position in His Church or Kingdom. I would be happy to join the boat load of trouble if I am with that kind of company!

Posted by: PrincessDrRe Apr 24 2007, 03:02 PM

BTW: I have not received any "papers" that are akin to a summons for court. Nor do I expect to.

Posted by: mozart Apr 24 2007, 03:22 PM

> QUOTE(LaurenceD @ Apr 24 2007, 08:01 AM)
>
> When Christ was confronted with those in God's temple, who had made a business out of God's mission, he got out the whip. It stung, and what we're saying has apparently hit a nerve.
>
> Fine clothes, shiney new pickups, corporate jets, earthy mansions, and all the other luxurious costly trappings money may possibly accumulate, cannot conceal the genuine poverty and insignificance from the eyes of the poor widow who made it all possible. The common hope is that a new, more magnanimous organization may soon emerge out of all this. Hopefully, the merger will help provide the missing elements, and this "suer" will disappear from the face of the project

To stay on topic:
"if" the statement about "in the process of filing 2 lawsuits" is true.
could the words" filing lawsuits" actually mean "defending lawsuits"?

if this merger is real, and i don't think AF would do it otherwise, i don't think the reasons they gave are the real reasons at all and i don't think DS will stay in control. Fact is, IMO, DS will just fade away and be an "occassional bit of memorabelia guest".
this is JMO and i'm a nobody, but, i do think and try to figure out what sounds reasonable. so...i think AF finally agreed because they want to save 3abn and GMc made them a deal they couldn't refuse; "Diversified Control" that AF felt would be trustworty. they may not be saying that now, but if this merger does happen, (they could change their minds you know) it will have to be with either AF in control, or a Diversified Group (most likely) in control instead of one or two men.
I'm not saying GMc holds all the strings, but he does hold a lot of the money that is being used to protect DS and 3ABN, right?
i think the real reason the merger came about so fast is because GMc finally said "something's gotta give". too many lawsuits, too many allegations, you're (DS) just too hot. you are not credible anymore and you, staying as the "head and not the tail" (sry) is bringing 3abn down. whether we like it or not, 3abn is starving with you there. you have to get out of the way and put someone credible in there to bring the money back and "hopefully" he (GMc) cares about the ministry at the end of the day as well. you gotta remember that GMc is a businessman. I don't know him, maybe he's a good Christian man who is trying to do what he thinks is right. i hope that's true. i honestly don't know. he may love the SDA church, he may love 3ABN, he may love danny shelton, however, he is a businessman and he's not going to support a sinking ship no matter how loyal he is to DS. i'm sure over the past 2+yrs. he's learned a lot and seen a lot and called this "shot".
if they had been talking about this for months and months, why the emergency meetings? come on people.
where's Bill O'Reilly?

Posted by: västergötland Apr 24 2007, 03:56 PM

> QUOTE(PrincessDrRe @ Apr 24 2007, 09:45 PM)
>
> If it walks like a duck, quacks, has feathers that water rolls off of like a duck, waddles like a duck, then duck it will be.

Unless of course it is a goose

Posted by: Eirene Apr 24 2007, 06:05 PM

> QUOTE(mozart @ Apr 24 2007, 03:22 PM)
>
> To stay on topic:
> "if" the statement about "in the process of filing 2 lawsuits" is true.
> could the words" filing lawsuits" actually mean "defending lawsuits"?
>
> if this merger is real, and i don't think AF would do it otherwise, i don't think the reasons they gave are the real reasons at all and i don't think DS will stay in control. Fact is, IMO, DS will just fade away and be an "occassional bit of memorabelia guest".
> this is JMO and i'm a nobody, but, i do think and try to figure out what sounds reasonable. so...i think AF finally agreed because they want to save 3abn and GMc made them a deal they couldn't refuse; "Diversified Control" that AF felt would be trustworty. they may not be saying that now, but if this merger does happen, (they could change their minds you know) it will have to be with either AF in control, or a Diversified Group (most likely) in control instead of one or two men.

No it doesn't mean defending lawsuits. It means just what he said.
As long as there are those who do not comprehend legal contracts, I will just keep repeating the same phrase over and over and over. THERE ARE LEGAL CONTRACTS THAT MAKE SURE ONE MINISTRY ISN'T TAKEN OVER BY THE OTHER. OR THAT 1 GUY DOESN'T TAKE OVER THE OTHER GUY. AND THE FINAL WORD OF PRESIDENCY HAS NOT EVEN BEEN VOTED ON AND IF DANNY WANTS DOUG TO TAKE THAT TITLE Danny WILL STILL BE CEO. ANYONE WHO DOES NOT UNDERSTAND THE LEGAL AND CONTRACTUAL agreements THAT HAVE BEEN MADE AND ARE STILL BEING MADE, IS NAIVE, SHOWING THEIR IGNORANCE OR ARE SO DESPERATE TO BELIEVE DIFFERENT THEY ARE WILLING TO OVERLOOK THE LEGAL FACTS. No I am not shouting, just trying to get your attention.
One more time, if, down the road, things didn't work out or they wanted to seperate for any reason, each guy leaves with the marbles he came with and his own ministry intact. These types of agreements are not done with a handshake. They are done with signed contracts. If DS was going anywhere these legal safeguards on both sides would not have been put into place. There would have been no need. For those of you who are highly educated but are showing a lack of comprehension on this, put aside your education and just try to see it with a little common sense.

Posted by: erik Apr 24 2007, 06:27 PM

Eirenea ,

You sure are sure that the Irehey ure aawsuits have been filed, but if they have been taking there good time getting served.

Me thinks maybe Danny was blowing more Hot Air.

Maybe not, but me thinks that he is.

Erik

Posted by: princessdi Apr 24 2007, 06:34 PM

Ok so, they just told you something because you don't know how a merger works.........you might want to read up on some recent merges. This sounds like a joint project, not a merger. However, they said it was a merger. Those bridges are still available........and unless youa re one of the principles, your repeating that doean't make it true or even believable. Rest yourself, Gurl.

> QUOTE(Eirene @ Apr 24 2007, 04:05 PM)
>
> No it doesn't mean defending lawsuits. It means just what he said.
> As long as there are those who do not comprehend legal contracts, I will just keep repeating the same phrase over and over and over. THERE ARE LEGAL CONTRACTS THAT MAKE SURE ONE MINISTRY ISN'T TAKEN OVER BY THE OTHER. OR THAT 1 GUY DOESN'T TAKE OVER THE OTHER GUY. AND THE FINAL WORD OF PRESIDENCY HAS NOT EVEN BEEN VOTED ON AND IF DANNY WANTS DOUG TO TAKE THAT TITLE Danny WILL STILL BE CEO. ANYONE WHO DOES NOT UNDERSTAND THE LEGAL AND CONTRACTUAL agreements THAT HAVE BEEN MADE AND ARE STILL BEING MADE, IS NAIVE, SHOWING THEIR IGNORANCE OR ARE SO DESPERATE TO BELIEVE DIFFERENT THEY ARE WILLING TO OVERLOOK THE LEGAL FACTS. No I am not shouting, just trying to get your attention.
> One more time, if, down the road, things didn't work out or they wanted to seperate for any reason, each guy leaves with the marbles he came with and his own ministry intact. These types of agreements are not done with a handshake. They are done with signed contracts. If DS was going anywhere these legal safeguards on both sides would not have been put into place. There would have been no need. For those of you who are highly educated but are showing a lack of comprehension on this, put aside your education and just try to see it with a little common sense.

Posted by: mozart Apr 24 2007, 06:49 PM

[quote 'Eirene' 24 2007, 06:05 PM']
No it doesn't mean defending lawsuits. It means just what he said.
As long as there are those who do not comprehend legal contracts, I will just keep repeating the same phrase over and over and over.

Please spare us because what you are saying doesn't show you have any understanding or evidence to prove what you think you understand either.

[quote Eirene] ANYONE WHO DOES NOT UNDERSTAND THE LEGAL AND CONTRACTUAL agreements THAT HAVE BEEN MADE AND ARE STILL BEING MADE, IS NAIVE, SHOWING THEIR IGNORANCE OR ARE SO DESPERATE TO BELIEVE DIFFERENT THEY ARE WILLING TO OVERLOOK THE LEGAL FACTS No I am not shouting, just trying to get your attention.

well being the boneheads that we are, we do have to be yelled at to HEAR PEOPLE. you need to take a chill pill my dear and stop insulting ppl and lifting yourself so high because what you say is little to nothing. Us ignorant hillbillies can read. heck, sometimes we can even comprehend what we read. we can see and hear too. what is your expertise??? what is your degree??? electronics???
i would love to meet you face to face and see who is ignorant and desperate because i can assure you i am not EITHER of those. can you hear me yet?

Posted by: Pickle Apr 24 2007, 07:14 PM

> QUOTE(Eirene @ Apr 24 2007, 06:05 PM)
>
> As long as there are those who do not comprehend legal contracts, I will just keep repeating the same phrase over and over and over. THERE ARE LEGAL CONTRACTS THAT MAKE SURE ONE MINISTRY ISN'T TAKEN OVER BY THE OTHER. OR THAT 1 GUY DOESN'T TAKE OVER THE OTHER GUY. AND THE FINAL WORD OF PRESIDENCY HAS NOT EVEN BEEN VOTED ON AND IF DANNY WANTS DOUG TO TAKE THAT TITLE Danny WILL STILL BE CEO. ANYONE WHO DOES NOT UNDERSTAND THE LEGAL AND CONTRACTUAL agreements THAT HAVE BEEN MADE AND ARE STILL BEING MADE, IS NAIVE, SHOWING THEIR IGNORANCE OR ARE SO DESPERATE TO BELIEVE DIFFERENT THEY ARE WILLING TO OVERLOOK THE LEGAL FACTS. No I am not shouting, just trying to get your attention.
> One more time, if, down the road, things didn't work out or they wanted to seperate for any reason, each guy leaves with the marbles he came with and his own ministry intact. These types of agreements are not done with a handshake. They are done with signed contracts. If DS was going anywhere these legal safeguards on both sides would not have been put into place. There would have been no need. For those of you who are highly educated but are showing a lack of comprehension on this, put aside your education and just try to see it with a little common sense.

Part of the problem may be that neither A-Facts nor 3ABN has said anything about any legal contracts already having been made. It would be quite helpful if you could post a copy of what you have read in order to clear the air on this one.

Posted by: Rosyroi Apr 24 2007, 10:20 PM

> QUOTE(Eirene @ Apr 24 2007, 04:05 PM)
>
> No it doesn't mean defending lawsuits. It means just what he said.
> As long as there are those who do not comprehend legal contracts, I will just keep repeating the same phrase over and over and over. THERE ARE LEGAL CONTRACTS THAT MAKE SURE ONE MINISTRY ISN'T TAKEN OVER BY THE OTHER. OR THAT 1 GUY DOESN'T TAKE OVER THE OTHER GUY. AND THE FINAL WORD OF PRESIDENCY HAS NOT EVEN BEEN VOTED ON AND IF DANNY WANTS DOUG TO TAKE THAT TITLE Danny WILL STILL BE CEO. ANYONE WHO DOES NOT UNDERSTAND THE LEGAL AND CONTRACTUAL agreements THAT HAVE BEEN MADE AND ARE STILL BEING MADE, IS NAIVE, SHOWING THEIR IGNORANCE OR ARE SO DESPERATE TO BELIEVE DIFFERENT THEY ARE WILLING TO OVERLOOK THE LEGAL FACTS. No I am not shouting, just trying to get your attention.
> One more time, if, down the road, things didn't work out or they wanted to seperate for any reason, each guy leaves with the marbles he came with and his own ministry intact. These types of agreements are not done with a handshake. They are done with signed contracts. If DS was going anywhere these legal safeguards on both sides would not have been put into place. There would have been no need. For those of you who are highly educated but are showing a lack of comprehension on this, put aside your education and just try to see it with a little common sense.

Looked like shouting to me. I can't read that kind of lettering. Just had to pass all that good writing by... sigh...

duck... goose... whichever

TVsnack.

BTW... did the jet that was purchased get sold yet? No one seems to talk about the first one that was too small so Danny had to hire two full time standby pilots to fly the bigger faster better leased jet. Just wondering. Seems like they would be more than willing to sell the first one for those badly needed donations.

One good idea ... auction it off at ebay. Telling everyone it was Danny's first jet would get more money than the jet was worth in the first place. JMO

Rosyroi

Posted by: Johann Apr 24 2007, 10:50 PM

> QUOTE(Eirene @ Apr 24 2007, 09:15 PM)
>
> Jealousy towards Bob Pickle? rofl Bob has become quite the "spectacle" within the denomination. Since you are not Adventist, I wouldn't expect you to know this. Doing what he has done, in the manner he has done it, and his seeming obssesion with it, has pretty much ensured that he won't be holding any mmm let's say, leadership positions within the church. Not to mention, that Pickle is in a boat load of trouble.

This is quite interesting in the light of a meeting I had recently with a staff member of the General Conference. There I was told that Bob Pickle is known as an honest, diligent, hard worker for revealing the truth and right doctrines of the Seventh-day Adventist Church. So I understand he has valuable witnesses among our leadership in case he should be taken to court.

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Apr 24 2007, 11:16 PM

> QUOTE(Johann @ Apr 24 2007, 08:50 PM)
>
> This is quite interesting in the light of a meeting I had recently with a staff member of the General Conference. There I was told that Bob Pickle is known as an honest, diligent, hard worker for revealing the truth and right doctrines of the Seventh-day Adventist Church. So I understand he has valuable witnesses among our leadership in case he should be taken to court.

Johann,
Thank you for bringing this information forward. It helps to balance out the other perspectives that have been posted.

Posted by: Observer Apr 25 2007, 03:37 AM

> QUOTE(Johann @ Apr 24 2007, 10:50 PM)

> This is quite interesting in the light of a meeting I had recently with a staff member of the General Conference. There I was told that Bob Pickle is known as an honest, diligent, hard worker for revealing the truth and right doctrines of the Seventh-day Adventist Church. So I understand he has valuable witnesses among our leadership in case he should be taken to court.

he above is clearly the reputaion that Bob has generated. It may be that someone has decided that he has aken the wrong side (Linda's) in this mess. But if that is the case, it is doubtful that such would generally rase the reputation that he has developed in other matters.

Posted by: Johann Apr 25 2007, 05:19 AM

> QUOTE(Observer @ Apr 25 2007, 11:37 AM) ☐
>
> The above is clearly the reputaion that Bob has generated. It may be that someone has decided that he has taken the wrong side (Linda's) in this mess. But if that is the case, it is doubtful that such would generally erase the reputation that he has developed in other matters.

was told that Bob's reputation because he had taken Linda's side had not decreased his credibility in those uarters.

Posted by: Observer Apr 25 2007, 06:04 AM

> QUOTE(Johann @ Apr 25 2007, 04:19 AM) ☐
>
> I was told that Bob's reputation because he had taken Linda's side had not decreased his credibility in those quarters.

ohann, I am well aware of denominational leaders who look very positively at the leadership given by several resent and retired SDA ministers. As a result of the so-called merger annoncement, I was contacted this veek-end in this respect by a denominational leader who clearly affirmed the leadership that is being given y certain people on Linda's side. But, I cannot comment further on this.

OTE: There are denominational leaders who are privately urging other denominational leaders to act to esolve this mess. But, they feel that any public statements by them would compromise their ability to ncourage people behind the scenes to act. Therefore, I cannot say morel.

owever, having said that. I think that it is quite possible that you, I, and Bob Pickle may be percieved by omeone adversely due to our relationship with Linda. In the case of Bob Pickle, who has justly earned a tellar reputation in other areas, I find it doubtful that his reputation will be generally erased by supporting inda. But, on an individual basis, perhaps. So be it, if that is true.

Posted by: Pickle Apr 25 2007, 06:13 AM

Just a point of clarification:

At present I have only taken Linda's side to the point that I now believe that as of July 17, 2004, Danny had no evidence that she had committed fornication and given him biblical grounds for divorce. I have taken that position because of Danny's own testimony.

Furthermore, I have taken the position that as of March 2005, Walt Thompson had no evidence that Linda had committed adultery. I have taken that position because of Walt's own testimony.

Further than that I am unwilling to take a stand unless I see solid evidence, but I still feel Linda should be considered innocent until proven guilty.

Posted by: ex3ABNemployee Apr 25 2007, 10:27 AM

> QUOTE(Pickle @ Apr 25 2007, 07:13 AM)
>
> Just a point of clarification:
>
> At present I have only taken Linda's side to the point that I now believe that as of July 17, 2004, Danny had no evidence that she had committed fornication and given him biblical grounds for divorce. I have taken that position because of Danny's own testimony.
>
> Furthermore, I have taken the position that as of March 2005, Walt Thompson had no evidence that Linda had committed adultery. I have taken that position because of Walt's own testimony.
>
> Further than that I am unwilling to take a stand unless I see solid evidence, but I still feel Linda should be considered innocent until proven guilty.

Do you feel the same way about Tommy?

(Ok, dannyscribes. I said it for you. No need for you to do it.)

Posted by: Pickle Apr 25 2007, 10:43 AM

Of course.

But maybe I need to clarify what I meant by "proven guilty." I didn't mean I won't take a stand until one is proven guilty in court. I meant that anyone, Tommy included, should be considered innocent until there is some sort of evidence that indicates otherwise.

And since Tommy has so many alleged victims in multiple locations, and no remaining alibi, well, I have to conclude that he is likely guilty.

When you have alleged victims who both like and dislike Dryden, and Dryden being in Virginia until 8 years after Tommy's ordination was suspended, the alibi of this being all due to Dryden's jealousy vaporizes. And other than the Dryden feud assertion, I don't know of any other alibi.

Posted by: ex3ABNemployee Apr 25 2007, 10:46 AM

> QUOTE(Pickle @ Apr 25 2007, 10:43 AM)
>
> Of course.
>
> But maybe I need to clarify what I meant by "proven guilty." I didn't mean I won't take a stand until one is proven guilty in court. I meant that anyone, Tommy included, should be considered innocent until there is some sort of evidence that indicates otherwise.

> And since Tommy has so many alleged victims in multiple locations, and no remaining alibi, well, I have to conclude that he is likely guilty.
>
> When you have alleged victims who both like and dislike Dryden, and Dryden being in Virginia until 8 years after Tommy's ordination was suspended, the alibi of this being all due to Dryden's jealousy vaporizes. And other than the Dryden feud assertion, I don't know of any other alibi.

'es, I know. I just wanted to beat them to saying it.

ometimes you have to laugh to keep from screaming.

Posted by: Fran Apr 25 2007, 10:56 AM

> QUOTE(Pickle @ Apr 25 2007, 10:43 AM) ☐
>
> Of course.
>
> But maybe I need to clarify what I meant by "proven guilty." I didn't mean I won't take a stand until one is proven guilty in court. I meant that anyone, Tommy included, should be considered innocent until there is some sort of evidence that indicates otherwise.
>
> And since Tommy has so many alleged victims in multiple locations, and no remaining alibi, well, I have to conclude that he is likely guilty.
>
> When you have alleged victims who both like and dislike Dryden, and Dryden being in Virginia until 8 years after Tommy's ordination was suspended, the alibi of this being all due to Dryden's jealousy vaporizes. And other than the Dryden feud assertion, I don't know of any other alibi.

ob;

idn't I read a confession somewhere?

Posted by: mozart Apr 25 2007, 08:02 PM

> QUOTE(Eirene @ Apr 24 2007, 05:05 PM) ☐
>
> No it doesn't mean defending lawsuits. It means just what he said.
> As long as there are those who do not comprehend legal contracts, I will just keep repeating the same phrase over and over and over. THERE ARE LEGAL CONTRACTS THAT MAKE SURE ONE MINISTRY ISN'T TAKEN OVER BY THE OTHER. OR THAT 1 GUY DOESN'T TAKE OVER THE OTHER GUY. AND THE FINAL WORD OF PRESIDENCY HAS NOT EVEN BEEN VOTED ON AND IF DANNY WANTS DOUG TO TAKE THAT TITLE Danny WILL STILL BE CEO. ANYONE WHO DOES NOT UNDERSTAND THE LEGAL AND CONTRACTUAL agreements THAT HAVE BEEN MADE AND ARE STILL BEING MADE, IS NAIVE, SHOWING THEIR IGNORANCE OR ARE SO DESPERATE TO BELIEVE DIFFERENT THEY ARE WILLING TO OVERLOOK THE LEGAL FACTS. No I am not shouting, just trying to get your attention.

is iz jist fer us ignurnt hillbillies dat kaint unnerstand deez thangz

ase Information
ase 2005D30 Last Update 04/25/2007 Last Upload 04/25/2007 @ 04:30

Case Category Civil Case Type - Subtype D - 151 Divorce - Dissolution of Marriage
Other Litigants
Role Name
PlaintiffOrPetitioner SHELTON, LINDA SUE
Litigant Information

DefendantOrRespondent SHELTON, DANNY LEE

Posted by: inga Apr 26 2007, 12:27 PM

> QUOTE(runner4him @ Apr 24 2007, 06:26 AM)
>
> You have to agree that when Jesus walked among men he used simple means and did even pack a lunch so He might demonstrate God's power and speak to the hearts of men. What a contrast today....we have a dreamer traveling first class in a private jet, pleading for more money, apparently hiding assets, divorcing and remarrying before national TV, covering up a brother who is an admitted abuser.....blows my mind that anyone can be in his camp defending his actions. I am one of many who hold the purse strings and say STOP with the blind giving.

Well said.

> QUOTE(princessdi @ Apr 24 2007, 01:00 AM)
>
> They should be about their Father's business which is ministry, unfortunately they are more often than not about earthly business.

Well said, Di!

> QUOTE(runner4him @ Apr 24 2007, 08:03 AM)
>
> I guess I was like so many others sitting in the easy chair.... paying for Sky Angel..... watching 3ABN....writing checks...blindly believing....saying go for it....tell the world....becoming more and more passive.....little sinking in. No more! I must take personal responsibility and seek Him...doing more....serving more....questioning more.....being involved! Come Lord Jesus for a people who are ready and I pray I am with those people who are seeking Him.

Praise God for your testimony!!

If more folks are affected like this by the 3ABN scandal, it's well worth all the bad publicity. We are told that the work will be finished by personal effort. That means that we all must be awake and involved. Although we may help out ministries that are doing a good work, witnessing by proxy is not really a viable option. The world needs our individual witness; they need to see what God has done in our lives.

Posted by: mozart Apr 26 2007, 02:18 PM

> QUOTE(inga @ Apr 26 2007, 12:27 PM)
>
> That means that we all must be awake and involved. Although we may help out ministries that are doing a good work, witnessing by proxy is not really a viable option. The world needs our individual witness; they need to see what God has done in our lives.

PRAISE THE LORD, AMEN & AMEN & AMEN
that's one of the best things i've read on here in weeks. thank you dear inga. that was a blessing.

Posted by: SoulEspresso Apr 26 2007, 07:29 PM

> QUOTE(inga @ Apr 26 2007, 11:27 AM)
>
> Well said.
> Well said, Di!
> Praise God for your testimony!!
>
> If more folks are affected like this by the 3ABN scandal, it's well worth all the bad publicity. We are told that the work will be finished by personal effort. That means that we all must be awake and involved. Although we may help out ministries that are doing a good work, witnessing by proxy is not really a viable option. The world needs our individual witness; they need to see what God has done in our lives.

Witnessing by proxy .... wow. I agree, mozart.

I just got an e-mail from a conference official outside my union who pointed out that both 3ABN and AF exist because people believe they should leave evangelism to the "professionals," and shirk their God-given duty cough I mean opportunity to share.

Posted by: awesumtenor Apr 26 2007, 08:54 PM

> QUOTE(SoulEspresso @ Apr 26 2007, 09:29 PM)
>
> I just got an e-mail from a conference official outside my union who pointed out that both 3ABN and AF exist because people believe they should leave evangelism to the "professionals," and shirk their God-given duty cough I mean opportunity to share.

Which begs the question of how do we unmake Christianity from the spectator sport it is to the all-hands effort, priesthood of believers that God designed it to be?

In His service,
Mr. J

Posted by: Rosyroi Apr 26 2007, 09:10 PM

> QUOTE(awesumtenor @ Apr 26 2007, 06:54 PM)
>
> Which begs the question of how do we unmake Christianity from the spectator sport it is to the all-hands effort, priesthood of believers that God designed it to be?
>
> In His service,
> Mr. J

I understand Bob Falkenberg is looking for volunteers. He accepts folk of all ages. Just offering a suggestion.
Rosyroi

Posted by: mystery- man Apr 26 2007, 11:45 PM

It is my belief that neither Af or 3abn exist because the laymen are not doing their work. I believe to a large part they exist to make sure the average individual does not do the work of the Lord. Let me tell you a story of someone I knew that took the great commission seriously and decided to spend vacation time 6weeks to do evangalism in a dark county. There were no ethnic churches in the area so he sent a letter with a outline of the sermons to the white congregation in hopes that they would help out. He also sent a outline of the sermon and the sources he would be using as to eliminate the perception of being a offshoot. His main source was the amazing facts study lessons. For six straight weeks he preached and taught which resulted in 8 baptisms held in the area Seventhday adventist churches. He even tried mightily to found another church in the city he was at. In the end the church sent a pastor to tell the new members to stop giving bible studies and stop using the white material (which were the amazing fact material) to evangalize.

Many will probably find this hard to believe but they do not want the nominal pew adventist to start evangalizing. Actually, they want you to simply be content with paying your tithe and not stirring up things. The real truth preached with power will bring persecution which is not at all what they want. They simply want to have a semblance of righteousness so they can die rich or happy and still go to heaven. I know these words might seem harsh and judgmental but get on fire and believe me they will extinguish you quickly. Our church is about survival not the coming of the lord Jesus. It is about our hospitals and our churches and our institutions and showing our palaces to the world as it were. But this is just the beginning of the downfall and it is needed before we can be free from the slavery of institutionalism and can finally be about our fathers business and the coming of the mighty one Jesus.

Posted by: inga Apr 27 2007, 12:50 AM

> QUOTE(Rosyroi @ Apr 26 2007, 10:10 PM)
>
> I understand Bob Falkenberg is looking for volunteers. He accepts folk of all ages. Just offering a suggestion.
> Rosyroi

It's much bigger than Bob Folkenberg. See http://www.global-evangelism.org/.

It's true: Anyone who is an Adventist in good standing (must give pastor as reference) can go preach anywhere in the world. Usually it's much easier in a foreign, possibly third-world country. That experience generates both confidence and enthusiasm that spills over at home. And that's precisely the plan.

I recommend the program. We've used it in our own church. It cost a lot less than the Amazing Facts evangelistic program we had the same year, and it was more effective. (The AF program cost $35,000, and our own cost a few hundred $'s) And we've seen the difference it made in our son who preached in another church.

See if you can attend a "boot camp" anywhere within your driving distance.

Folkenberg's emphasis is to get back to our apostolic roots, where every member is an evangelist, rather than a spectator. And, according to the evidence/results I see, God is blessing the program abundantly!!

> QUOTE(mystery- man @ Apr 27 2007, 12:45 AM)

> get on fire and believe me they will extinguish you quickly.

Nope, MM. No one can extinguish the fire that the Lord kindles!! As long as we're connected to Him, no ire extinguisher will do the job!!!

Posted by: Fran Apr 27 2007, 12:54 AM

Mystery- man;

Please expound on your thoughts here. I think I may be getting your drift. I am speaking of your last sentences, not this person's bad experiences with the church, but those about the church.

Who are "They" that will extinguish me quickly?

Why do you say our church is about survival?

Can the church be about more than one thing? Christ was.

The downfall of who and what?

Institutionalism - Please define.

Is 3ABN an Institution?

Is Amazing Facts an Institution?

What about Weimar?

What is Remnant Press?

What about ASI Missions?

What about our Independent Medical Institutions?

What about our Universities?

What about our beliefs?

What do we do when "one" wants to control it all?

What is our responsibility to the church, if any?

Does the church teach and preach the truth?

Your post is actually very loaded. I would appreciate you unpacking it for me. I found this part very interesting. Maybe I have had some of these thoughts recently

---

Posted by: inga Apr 27 2007, 01:11 AM

What about those two lawsuits that Danny Shelton said were filed?

Has anyone been served yet?

I notice that http://www.save3abn.com is posting lots of new material. Apparently no one responsible for that site has been intimidated.

Posted by: shaddo Apr 27 2007, 03:11 AM

> QUOTE(LaurenceD @ Apr 23 2007, 11:17 AM)
>
> I've been rereading a book about Christ, called The Man Nobody Knows, written in 1925. Great book.
>
> >
>
> I keep thing about how different Christ was, and his mission. His kingdom was not about rich donors, fighters, suers, and the smug. Somehow, I just can't imagine Christ in his new pickup, divorced, with guns, dressed in a back western longhorn blazer, armed with the moneybags of Carnegie, driving out to get on his new jet to go preach the gospel, and to sue those who offended his pride.
>
> And if any man will sue thee at the law, and take away thy coat, let him have thy cloak also. -Mat 5

Oh ya and it needs to be said that Jesus was speaking of all "undergarments" with the transliterated word "cloak".

Posted by: Observer Apr 27 2007, 05:21 AM

> QUOTE(inga @ Apr 27 2007, 12:11 AM)
>
> What about those two lawsuits that Danny Shelton said were filed?
>
> Has anyone been served yet?
>
> I notice that http://www.save3abn.com is posting lots of new material. Apparently no one responsible for that site has been intimidated.

I am not aware of anyone being served. But, if there has been a last minute change, it may have happened.

It should be noted that there would be a time lag between a lawsuit beign filed, and the papers being served.

Posted by: PrincessDrRe Apr 27 2007, 06:02 AM

> QUOTE(västergötland @ Apr 24 2007, 05:56 PM)
>
> Unless of course it is a goose

AH, you got me!

> QUOTE(Rosyroi @ Apr 25 2007, 12:20 AM)
>
> duck... goose... whichever

> QUOTE(ex3ABNemployee @ Apr 25 2007, 12:27 PM)
>
> Do you feel the same way about Tommy?
>
> (Ok, dannyscribes. I said it for you. No need for you to do it.)

Excellent usage of werds per the lang-west.....

> QUOTE(ex3ABNemployee @ Apr 25 2007, 12:46 PM)
>
> Yes, I know. I just wanted to beat them to saying it.
>
> Sometimes you have to laugh to keep from screaming.

Ain't it de truf....

> QUOTE(mozart @ Apr 25 2007, 10:02 PM)
>
> ## [b]Dis iz jist fer us ignurnt hillbillies dat kaint unnerstand deez thangz
>
> Case Information
> Case 2005D30 Last Update 04/25/2007 Last Upload 04/25/2007 @ 04:30
> Case Category Civil Case Type - Subtype D - 151 Divorce - Dissolution of Marriage
> Other Litigants
> Role Name
> PlaintiffOrPetitioner SHELTON, LINDA SUE
> Litigant Information
> DefendantOrRespondent SHELTON, DANNY LEE

Excellent lang-west usage of the kuntree ver-nack-u-lar per PDR.
Your usage of the ex-tend-da-ma-did sentence is also noted. This will be rememberededed for quite some time and conversated (not really a real word yall) about for a long 'o time to comes.

> QUOTE(inga @ Apr 27 2007, 03:11 AM)
>
> What about those two lawsuits that Danny Shelton said were filed?
>
> Has anyone been served yet?

I ain't been served....

Posted by: erik Apr 27 2007, 08:53 AM

> QUOTE(mystery- man @ Apr 26 2007, 09:45 PM)
>
> It is my belief that neither Af or 3abn exist because the laymen are not doing their work. I believe to a large part they exist to make sure the average individual does not do the work of the Lord. Let me tell you a story of someone I knew that took the great commission seriously and decided to spend vacation time 6weeks to do evangalism in a dark county. There were no ethnic churches in the area so he sent a letter with a outline of the sermons to the white congregation in hopes that they would help out. He also sent a outline of the sermon and the sources he would be using as to eliminate the perception of being a offshoot. His main source was the amazing facts study lessons. For six straight weeks he preached and taught which resulted in 8 baptisms held in the area Seventhday adventist churches. He even tried mightily to found another church in the city he was at. In the end the church sent a pastor to tell the new members to stop giving bible studies and stop using the white material (which were the amazing fact material) to evangalize.
> Many will probably find this hard to believe but they do not want the nominal pew adventist to start evangalizing. Actually, they want you to simply be content with paying your tithe and not stirring up things. The real truth preached with power will bring persecution which is not at all what they want. They simply want to have a semblance of righteousness so they can die rich or happy and still go to heaven. I know these words might seem harsh and judgmental but get on fire and believe me they will extinguish you quickly. Our church is about survival not the coming of the lord Jesus. It is about our hospitals and our churches and our institutions and showing our palaces to the world as it were. But this is just the beginning of the downfall and it is needed before we can be free from the slavery of institutionalism and can finally be about our fathers business and the coming of the mighty one Jesus.

MM,

Now you are starting to talk about the true reason, this whole shelton mess got started in the first place, i can say amen.

Erik

> QUOTE(awesumtenor @ Apr 26 2007, 06:54 PM)
>
> Which begs the question of how do we unmake Christianity from the spectator sport it is to the all-hands effort, priesthood of believers that God designed it to be?
>
> In His service,
> Mr. J

I know for myself that only happens when i truly see for brief seconds the the true depth of Jesus love for me, then i am compelled to share this with others. But I find that Satan will go to great lengths to try to put be back to sleep.

But Praise God that His compelling Love is Stronger then Satan sleeping pill.

Erik

Posted by: Observer Apr 27 2007, 12:23 PM

In my beginning post, I stated that Danny Shelton had publicly stated that lawsuits had been filed against two people.

Some have wondered what is happening: Under typical rules of proceedure, the party that is expected to have filed those lawsuits has 20 days to serve the defendants.

So, if the lawsuits were filed on April 19, the defendents can be served up through May May 9, 2007.

But, we do not konw the actual date that the lawsuits were filed.

Posted by: SoulEspresso Apr 27 2007, 12:26 PM

Wow, what an interesting thread. Mystery-Man, you may well be right in saying that AF and 3ABN exist to keep the laypeople in their place. I do not believe that the Adventist church (structure, administrators) wants its members engaged in serious Bible study, either, for the same reasons--they prefer the status quo in doctrine as well as in practice.

Having non-employees "do the work" takes it out of their control. The upside of that is that it keeps complete crackpots from spreading their own version of "the message." (And the reason we get crackpots is because we make Adventists by appealing to their arrogance--"Be the remnant! Be special! Be better cough I mean more true to the Bible than other Christians!")

Rosyroi, the ShareHim initiative by the Folkenbergs you mentioned does have one very good thing going for it--it's non-employees giving the message. For that reason we're doing it in our church. There are two major problems with it, though:

One, it's doctrinal monoculture (i.e. cultivating only one way of looking at our theology). It takes the prophetic scenario and hammers it in, especially if the congregation gets into the habit of doing it every year as the boot camps want them to do. This is a problem because using unfulfilled prophecy to win converts is very dangerous. What we believe stands on firmer ground if we don't rely primarily on the most arcane and difficult passages of Scripture to build on.

Two, it comes from the same mindset, IMO, that created A-Facts and 3ABN. For Adventists in general and those organizations in particular, evangelism means just getting people across a line (or lines) of decision regarding doctrine and certain specific lifestyle issues. Biblical evangelism--discipleship, to use another church-word--seems to me more about getting people into a love relationship with God and teaching them to observe everything Jesus taught--much more involved and time-consuming, and something that cannot rely on canned lectures and slideshows.

Mr. J, I'm wrestling with that question right now. It's about learning to be like Jesus and teaching others to do the same--the Great Commission is about "making disciples," which means we have to be disciples first. Turning that into concrete action is the challenge.

Posted by: YogusBearus Apr 27 2007, 04:42 PM

And Wow! What a great post SE. I would love to belong to a church with the kind of leadership you're showing.

Evangelism and discipleship are not two separate responsibilities of the church but rather two parts of the same process. Jesus clearly stated we are to "go and make disciples," implying that evangelism is a part of the discipleship process. Have we totally missed the discipleship part of the equation?

-bear

> QUOTE(SoulEspresso @ Apr 27 2007, 12:26 PM)
>
> Wow, what an interesting thread. Mystery-Man, you may well be right in saying that AF and 3ABN exist to keep the laypeople in their place. I do not believe that the Adventist church (structure, administrators) wants its members engaged in serious Bible study, either, for the same reasons--they prefer the status quo in doctrine as well as in practice.
>
> Having non-employees "do the work" takes it out of their control. The upside of that is that it keeps complete crackpots from spreading their own version of "the message." (And the reason we get crackpots is because we make Adventists by appealing to their arrogance--"Be the remnant! Be special! Be better cough I mean more true to the Bible than other Christians!")
>
> Rosyroi, the ShareHim initiative by the Folkenbergs you mentioned does have one very good thing going for it--it's non-employees giving the message. For that reason we're doing it in our church. There are two major problems with it, though:
>
> One, it's doctrinal monoculture (i.e. cultivating only one way of looking at our theology). It takes the prophetic scenario and hammers it in, especially if the congregation gets into the habit of doing it every year as the boot camps want them to do. This is a problem because using unfulfilled prophecy to win converts is very dangerous. What we believe stands on firmer ground if we don't rely primarily on the most arcane and difficult passages of Scripture to build on.
>
> Two, it comes from the same mindset, IMO, that created A-Facts and 3ABN. For Adventists in general and those organizations in particular, evangelism means just getting people across a line (or lines) of decision regarding doctrine and certain specific lifestyle issues. Biblical evangelism--discipleship, to use another church-word--seems to me more about getting people into a love relationship with God and teaching them to observe everything Jesus taught--much more involved and time-consuming, and something that cannot rely on canned lectures and slideshows.
>
> Mr. J, I'm wrestling with that question right now. It's about learning to be like Jesus and teaching others to do the same--the Great Commission is about "making disciples," which means we have to be disciples first. Turning that into concrete action is the challenge.

Posted by: mozart Apr 27 2007, 05:16 PM

> QUOTE(inga @ Apr 26 2007, 11:50 PM)
>
> QUOTE(mystery- man @ Apr 27 2007, 12:45 AM)
> get on fire and believe me they will extinguish you quickly.
>
> Nope, MM. No one can extinguish the fire that the Lord kindles!! As long as we're connected to Him, no fire extinguisher will do the job!!!

you are right inga but i think what MM meant is that the general attitude of most congregations these days is to frown on people who are excited about their faith and want to get busy. i think, sadly, we know how appathetic most church members are. none of us are doing what we should at the level we should, especially the churches as a whole. i'm speaking in general terms as i think a busy "evangelistic and faithfully SDA believing" church is close to extinct. anyone else? might need to start another thread on this topic.

Posted by: Fran Apr 27 2007, 07:06 PM

> QUOTE(SoulEspresso @ Apr 27 2007, 12:26 PM)
>
> [Wow, what an interesting thread. Mystery-Man, you may well be right in saying that AF and 3ABN exist to keep the laypeople in their place. I do not believe that the Adventist church (structure, administrators) wants its members engaged in serious Bible study, either, for the same reasons--they prefer the status quo in doctrine as well as in practice.
>
> Having non-employees "do the work" takes it out of their control. The upside of that is that it keeps complete crackpots from spreading their own version of "the message." (And the reason we get crackpots is because we make Adventists by appealing to their arrogance--"Be the remnant! Be special! Be better cough I mean more true to the Bible than other Christians!")
>
> Rosyroi, the Share Him initiative by the Folkenbergs you mentioned does have one very good thing going for it--it's non-employees giving the message. For that reason we're doing it in our church. There are two major problems with it, though:
>
> One, it's doctrinal monoculture (i.e. cultivating only one way of looking at our theology). It takes the prophetic scenario and hammers it in, especially if the congregation gets into the habit of doing it every year as the boot camps want them to do. This is a problem because using unfulfilled prophecy to win converts is very dangerous. What we believe stands on firmer ground if we don't rely primarily on the most arcane and difficult passages of Scripture to build on.
>
> Two, it comes from the same mindset, IMO, that created A-Facts and 3ABN. For Adventists in general and those organizations in particular, evangelism means just getting people across a line (or lines) of decision regarding doctrine and certain specific lifestyle issues. Biblical evangelism--discipleship, to use another church-word--seems to me more about getting people into a love relationship with God and teaching them to observe everything Jesus taught--much more involved and time-consuming, and something that cannot rely on canned lectures and slide-shows.
>
> Mr. J, I'm wrestling with that question right now. It's about learning to be like Jesus and teaching others to do the same--the Great Commission is about "making disciples," which means we have to be disciples first. Turning that into concrete action is the challenge.

I got a totally different take on Mystery-man's post. I heard:

1.3ABN exists because of active Laymen and that the church was against them in their efforts.

2. Amazing Facts was founded by a Pastor and another Joined him in his efforts. Was Joe still a Seventh-day Adventist Church pastor while he ran Amazing Facts? I knew him well, and I can't remember. Monday I will find out. If he was a layman then somewhere along the line, it became a ministry under the umbrella of the church.

3. Point 3; The church is too busy managing institutions (Academies, Colleges, Universities, Hospitals.......) to do much about spreading the gospel.

4. Even Local SDA Churches do not want lay people to do evangelism even if they are using SDA approved materials.

5. I believe mystery man is prophesying that the church will have a downfall and divest the church of all institutions.

6. What will become of these "Institutions" Are we headed for One independent Ministry taking them all over? That way they can be controlled and run by laypeople like Garwin, Doug and Danny?

On the live broadcast of Doug and Danny's merger. Danny said something about Learning Institutions, but caught himself and said, "Well Amazing Facts already has a School of Evangelism."

Danny almost spilled the beans! Amazing Facts indeed has other plans.

If, as Mystery man says, "...this is just the beginning of the downfall...!", what is the rest of the downfall?

Will laymen take over the control of these "Institutions"?

This post hit me, and I wondered if he would care to share his thought again, but unpacked. I asked Mystery Man for clarification.

Everyone should now re-read mystery mans post below. We must always read between the lines to get the really obvious meaning I could be very wrong! Mystery Man; which take is correct. I ask because you made the post not me.

> QUOTE
>
> QUOTE(mystery- man @ Apr 26 2007, 09:45 PM)
>
> It is my belief that neither AF or 3abn exist because the laymen are not doing their work. I believe to a large part they exist to make sure the average individual does not do the work of the Lord. Let me tell you a story of someone I knew that took the great commission seriously and decided to spend vacation time 6weeks to do evangelism in a dark county. There were no ethnic churches in the area so he sent a letter with a outline of the sermons to the white congregation in hopes that they would help out. He also sent a outline of the sermon and the sources he would be using as to eliminate the perception of being a offshoot. His main source was the amazing facts study lessons. For six straight weeks he preached and taught which resulted in 8 baptisms held in the area Seventh-day Adventist churches. He even tried mightily to found another church in the city he was at. In the end the church sent a pastor to tell the new members to stop giving bible studies and stop using the white material (which were the amazing fact material) to evangelize.
>
> Many will probably find this hard to believe but "they" (I I took "they" to mean the SDA Leaders; Local, Conference, Union, NAD, GC leaders, and I have applied this definition of "THEY" to every "they" in this post.) do not want the nominal pew Adventist to start evangelizing. Actually," they" want you to simply be content with paying your tithe and not stirring up things.
>
> The real truth preached with power will bring persecution which is not at all what "they" want.
>
> "They" simply want to have a semblance of righteousness so "they" can die rich or happy and still go to heaven.
>
> I know these words might seem harsh and judgmental but get on fire and believe me "they" will extinguish you quickly.
>
> Our church is about survival not the coming of the lord Jesus.
>
> It is about our "hospitals and our churches and our institutions and showing our palaces to the world" as it > were.

>
> But "this is just the beginning of the downfall" and it is needed before we can "be free from the slavery of institutionalism" and can finally be about our fathers business and the coming of the mighty one, Jesus.

Posted by: Fran Apr 27 2007, 07:28 PM

Don't misunderstand my post. I agree it will take all of us to bring God's work to the finish line so Jesus can come!

However, what I see is a control battle/war coming on the horizon. Just who is going to control what. I pray that God will win and not man. This frightens me because I see the power coming from one man under the guise of ASI Ministries. This is not a Battle to be fought. God is unity, not power and control.

We need to be wise as serpents and gentle as doves.

Does anyone here believe that God would cause HIS church to Downfall? I don't. Our church is corrupt and so are some Independent Ministries. Where does this corruption begin? It is from wealthy lay people that give there millions/billions and never let go of the control. This is about those giving but actively protecting "Their Investments!"

This is not of God! This is God's work and His church. We should have the desire and action to share the gospel, but not at the expense of God's very church.

This battle is over money, pure and simple! Always follow the money! Let us Remember Ron Gladden?

Does the church need change? YES! These things can not be fixed from outside, but from inside!

Just my thoughts.

Remember that "Power Corrupts, and Absolute Power Corrupts Absolutely

---

Posted by: beartrap Apr 27 2007, 07:54 PM

> QUOTE(Fran @ Apr 27 2007, 05:28 PM)

> [/size]
> [size=6]Remember that "Power Corrupts, and Absolute Power Corrupts Absolutely

It is my opinion that anyone who would seek or accept absolute power is already absolutely corrupt.

Posted by: Fran Apr 27 2007, 08:16 PM

> QUOTE(beartrap @ Apr 27 2007, 07:54 PM) ☐
>
> It is my opinion that anyone who would seek or accept absolute power is already absolutely corrupt.

Agreed!

Posted by: Rosyroi Apr 27 2007, 08:54 PM

☒ TVsnack.

Thank you folk for the very interesting viewpoints offered.

☒ happysabl to everyone in BSDA

Rosyroi
@}---;---;-----

Posted by: runner4him Apr 27 2007, 09:54 PM

> QUOTE(erik @ Apr 27 2007, 08:53 AM) ☐
>
> MM,
>
> Now you are starting to talk about the true reason, this whole shelton mess got started in the first place, i can say amen.
>
> Erik
> I know for myself that only happens when i truly see for brief seconds the the true depth of Jesus love for me, then i am compelled to share this with others. But I find that Satan will go to great lengths to try to put be back to sleep.
>
> But Praise God that His compelling Love is Stronger then Satan sleeping pill.
>
> Erik

Amen....His Love IS stronger....I for one do not want to go back to sitting or sleeping on the sidelines. Praise God for his love and mercy and for the privilege of being able to take part in the Gospel work. Let us share His message of love for this dying world and the dear souls who come our way.

I remember the time when evangelism by the local church was an exciting event...visiting the ones who came night after night. Now, I can take you to a place where you will find for the past 16 years there has been no evangelistic meetings and I mean NO evangelistic meetings except a couple of satelite broadcast series with no attendence to speak of. You might ask the local people, Why?? They will tell you it just does not work anymore....

Let the Holy Spirit move the people...send a reformation...let it begin with me...change my heart and fill me with a passion for soul winning!

Posted by: Pickle Apr 29 2007, 06:39 AM

Regarding more members getting actively involved in evangelism, consider the following quote:

> QUOTE(Ellen White)
>
> Instead of keeping the ministers at work for the churches that already know the truth, let the members of the churches say to these laborers: "Go work for souls that are perishing in darkness. We ourselves will carry forward the services of the church. We will keep up the meetings, and, by abiding in Christ, will maintain spiritual life. We will work for souls that are about us, and we will send our prayers and our gifts to sustain the laborers in more needy and destitute fields." (6T 30)

Freak your preacher out next Sabbath by telling him the above. Tell him it just doesn't seem right to use the sacred tithe to pay someone to do the work of the elders.

> QUOTE(Ellen White)
>
> Conference Workers Called to New Fields.--As a > general rule, the conference laborers should go out from the churches into new fields, using their God-given ability to a purpose in seeking and saving the lost.--Letter, 1902. (Ev 382)
>
> In Iowa there are many places to be worked. As a general rule, the laborers in the Iowa Conference should go out from the churches into new fields, using their God-given ability to a purpose in seeking and saving the lost. (1888 1762) (Different letter, written to the same conference in 1901)

She must have felt strongly to have written the same thing two years in a row. But times have changed. There are now less than half of the number of churches in Iowa were when she wrote the above, and so what she wrote is more than twice as true today.

Posted by: Johann Apr 29 2007, 07:39 AM

> QUOTE(Pickle @ Apr 29 2007, 02:39 PM)
>
> Regarding more members getting actively involved in evangelism, consider the following quote:
> Freak your preacher out next Sabbath by telling him the above. Tell him it just doesn't seem right to use the sacred tithe to pay someone to do the work of the elders.
> She must have felt strongly to have written the same thing two years in a row. But times have changed. There are now less than half of the number of churches in Iowa were when she wrote the above, and so what she wrote is more than twice as true today.

I well remember when we were reading such messages when I was a young minister. I came to Europe from America then, and I recall how the European Brethren felt the American Adventists had completely left their trust in Ellen White by appointing pastors to local churches. Today Europe has followed the American evil example by tying the workers to pastoring the local churches in stead of winning souls in other areas and establishing new churches.

The other day I was talking to a minister originally from Souther Europe. I get the impression he feels wickedness has overtaken our ministries by advocating that souls can easily be won through television, which relieves us of giving the message to people face to face.

Posted by: Pickle Apr 29 2007, 07:53 AM

So Johann, has Europe's copying the American departure from adhering to the biblical model endorsed by Ellen White, has Europe's copying the American departure resulted in greater growth in Europe or greater stagnation? Please share with us how soul winning is looking today as compared to how it looked back then before Europe copied America in this regard.

Posted by: mozart Apr 29 2007, 09:01 AM

> QUOTE(Pickle @ Apr 29 2007, 06:53 AM)
>
> So Johann, has Europe's copying the American departure from adhering to the biblical model endorsed by Ellen White, has Europe's copying the American departure resulted in greater growth in Europe or greater stagnation? Please share with us how soul winning is looking today as compared to how it looked back then before Europe copied America in this regard.

I can tell you it does't seem to be happening in my part of America. No evangelism done around here. I've suggested bringing different people in to speak and the pastor isn't interested if it means he might have to do any work during or afterwards. i've talked about some of this in the topic "Our Local Church" - thread "what do you do with a lazy pastor". he preaches about once a month, he doesn't do baptisms or lesson studies and he says making housecalls is "invading people's privacy". he says people don't like it, so his plan is to let this group "connect" run the church, bring in a band and have a halleleuia party to get "outsiders" and "backsliders" to come in. So much for evangelism. We're trying to get rid of him but right now we're not getting very far.

> QUOTE
>
> Let the Holy Spirit move the people...send a reformation...let it begin with me...change my heart and fill me with a passion for soul winning!

R4H-Thank you so much for this post. Lord have mercy on us.

Posted by: watchbird Apr 29 2007, 09:31 AM

> QUOTE(Johann @ Apr 29 2007, 09:39 AM)
>
> I well remember when we were reading such messages when I was a young minister. I came to Europe from America then, and I recall how the European Brethren felt the American Adventists had completely left their trust in Ellen White by appointing pastors to local churches. Today Europe has followed the American evil example by tying the workers to pastoring the local churches in stead of winning souls in other areas and establishing new churches.

> The other day I was talking to a minister originally from Souther Europe. I get the impression he feels wickedness has overtaken our ministries by advocating that souls can easily be won through television, which relieves us of giving the message to people face to face.

.et's not get so absorbed in looking for what is wrong with various parts of our church that we lose sight of he fact that clocks don't run backward... neither do they stay stopped from one generation to the next.

:ontext, context, context.

'here are places in the world today where the only access to people is through Television, radio, I-Pod or :omputer. From hi-rise apartments to slums... there are those who have access to these but where no :vangelist can penetrate.

'here are also places where there is no access to any of the media ... and ONLY a dedicated individual can :ontact other individuals.

'here are churches where there are laypersons who are fully capable of leading churches.... there are others vho could not survive without the full time attention of one or more pastors.

\nd when applying something Ellen White wrote in her day to today... what did the words mean then? Was an evangelist" someone who spent one week in an area and then moved on leaving a "new infant church" on its ›wn? Or was it one who was more like what we would today call a "church planter"... one who spends months ›r even years in one place until a congregation was fully established moving on?

\nd what was evangelism even in more recent times than this? Even I recall the days when an "evangelistic eam" meant a group of pastors and their wives who moved into an area for a minimum of six weeks.... jetting acquainted with the people of the area and tailoring their messages to the local needs... as well as 'isiting in their homes and in general building up the church which had invited them to the area.

:vangelism ... spreading the good news of the gospel... is NOT to be equated with just any old Joe Blow aking a canned Power Point program and giving it either privately or in group meetings. The person who loes active doctrinal type evangelism needs to be well enough acquainted with what is being said in his ›resentation so he can answer questions that are not covered in the canned material. If he is not, then better ıe stick to BEING a witness... as contrasted with talking about the theory or doctrine.

3ut that's just my opinion....

Posted by: mozart Apr 29 2007, 09:58 AM evangelism can start at home or anywhere and if Joe Blow is "willing", i say go for it. the problem seems to be in being willing;"being a willing witness we are all meant to do a work, not write a check and leave it to others. that's what kind of veered this topic off a bit.

however since it's here, i think that is what a lot are saying. that we as the church congregation and officers are not taking our job of witnessing seriously.
i especially liked the "witnessing by proxy" statement someone made on here.
the way i feel about evangelism is: i firmly believe it is meant to bring people to the Lord not nessessarily to this "church". we have a Bible for that. other materials are nice and helpful, i enjoy them, but witnessing (evangelism by the laypeople) doesn't have to be an organised plan of attack. it should be a testimony, a Bible study. a loving jesture and a kind word.
remember what Jesus told the demoniac? he had no training or lesson studies other than his own experience.
we can blame the GC, or the pastors or whatever, but the real ineffectiveness stems within each and every one of us. i know i don't do nearly as much as i should. i buy cases of books and pass them out as i feel the Lord impresses me, i give witness to Our Lord when i feel He impresses me, but the problem is, He is probably impressing me a lot more often than i am listening. we are taking this more seriously in our home than we have been and plan to make some changes in what WE do in that area.

> QUOTE(watchbird @ Apr 29 2007, 08:31 AM)
>
> Let's not get so absorbed in looking for what is wrong with various parts of our church that we lose sight of the fact that clocks don't run backward... neither do they stay stopped from one generation to the next.
>
> Context, context, context.
>
> There are places in the world today where the only access to people is through Television, radio, I-Pod or Computer. From hi-rise apartments to slums... there are those who have access to these but where no evangelist can penetrate.
>
> There are also places where there is no access to any of the media ... and ONLY a dedicated individual can contact other individuals.
>
> There are churches where there are laypersons who are fully capable of leading churches.... there are others who could not survive without the full time attention of one or more pastors.
>
> And when applying something Ellen White wrote in her day to today... what did the words mean then? Was an "evangelist" someone who spent one week in an area and then moved on leaving a "new infant church" on its own? Or was it one who was more like what we would today call a "church planter"... one who spends months or even years in one place until a congregation was fully established moving on?
>
> And what was evangelism even in more recent times than this? Even I recall the days when an "evangelistic team" meant a group of pastors and their wives who moved into an area for a minimum of six weeks.... getting acquainted with the people of the area and tailoring their messages to the local needs... as well as visiting in their homes and in general building up the church which had invited them to the area.
>
> Evangelism ... spreading the good news of the gospel... is NOT to be equated with just any old Joe Blow taking a canned Power Point program and giving it either privately or in group meetings. The person who does active doctrinal type evangelism needs to be well enough acquainted with what is being said in his presentation so he can answer questions that are not covered in the canned material. If he is not, then better he stick to BEING a witness... as contrasted with talking about the theory or doctrine.
>
> But that's just my opinion....

Posted by: SoulEspresso Apr 29 2007, 10:10 AM

> QUOTE(Pickle @ Apr 29 2007, 06:39 AM)
>
> Freak your preacher out next Sabbath by telling him the above. Tell him it just doesn't seem right to use the sacred tithe to pay someone to do the work of the elders.

Well, then, maybe the church should appoint elders who are more than just platform monkeys and actually want to do the work!

Bottom line, most Adventist members don't feel it's their responsibility. When you try to get them to think that way, it's like ... I don't know ... trying to do a cornea transplant. They need to see with new eyes how it worked in the time of the NT and the early Adventist church.

I have three churches. The geographic area in which my members live is bigger than some states. The congregation which is most inclined to take care of itself also has elders who are so occupied with other church and personal work that any kind of organized effort to do full care of the church becomes one more "church burden." Thank God for a couple of families who have taken on the visitation issue.

Actually, I don't agree with EGW 100% on this. I agree in the sense that the pastor ought to do and train for evangelism, but laypeople have way more credibility these days, particularly among the unchurched. Culture and context change.

Then you have the conference breathing down your neck, wasting your time with things that don't fit your context instead of empowering your churches to make disciples in the way best suited to their communities.

I can't tell you how badly I want out of the ministry simply, largely so I can do small-group discipleship. But I'd be on my own because very few people out here realize the power of such work (it's picking up in some quarters).

> QUOTE
>
> She must have felt strongly to have written the same thing two years in a row. But times have changed. There are now less than half of the number of churches in Iowa were when she wrote the above, and so what she wrote is more than twice as true today.

Yeah. But then bringing her in is even more difficult because of the extremes in approaching her. On one hand (I'm speaking in broad generalities), you have the people who treat her like she was verbally inspired; on the other, you have people who don't even want to hear that she's a prophet. When someone tries to bring in some balance, they get hit by one or both sides. (By the way, thanks for Response to the Video. Quite helpful. I need to unpack my books and look at it again.)

I'm tired of this "blame the pastor" stuff. We have enough expectations to live up to without people telling us what most of us already know.

Posted by: Pickle Apr 29 2007, 12:34 PM

Glad you liked the book.

Ellen White's counsel was pretty balanced on this topic, I think. For example, there are some statements about needing to have a family or two already in an area to provide some leadership after the church planter ministers were done. So we have some counsel, if I'm remembering correctly, that has clergy and laity working together.

Then there are statements that just flat out call for laity to move into unreached areas.

The areas in the world that are growing the fastest are those where the ministers can't run all the churches in their districts.

Posted by: Eirene Apr 29 2007, 12:47 PM

> QUOTE(Fran @ Apr 27 2007, 08:16 PM)
>
> Agreed!

Fran, I would like to personally thank you for the allegations you stated as fact over on CF. Very helpful....

Posted by: awesumtenor Apr 29 2007, 12:49 PM

> QUOTE(Eirene @ Apr 29 2007, 02:47 PM) ☐
>
> Fran, I would like to personally thank you for the allegations you stated as fact over on CF. Very helpful....

How did they differ from the allegations you state here as fact?

In His service,
Mr. J

Posted by: Observer Apr 29 2007, 01:09 PM

> QUOTE(Eirene @ Apr 29 2007, 11:47 AM) ☐
>
> Fran, I would like to personally thank you for the allegations you stated as fact over on CF. Very helpful....

Everything that I say in this post is speculation. It may not be factual. I do not know.

Eirene is threatening Fran. At least that is what I think.

I suspect, and I may be wrong, that Eirene has been quite unhappey with some of what Fran has posted.

I do not read in CF, whatever it is. I may have been there once or twice. But, I do not generally go there. So, I do not know what Fran is alleged to have posted there. But, I supect that Eirene is saying that Fran has now crossed over the line and Fran can be added to any lists of people who have lawsuits filed against them for libel, defamation of character, or whatever it may be.

Eirene, feel free to come on and correct my speculation. You probably are better informed on this, and I will accept your response to what I have suggested as accurect. So, please correct me if I am wrong.

Posted by: Johann Apr 29 2007, 03:36 PM

> QUOTE(watchbird @ Apr 29 2007, 05:31 PM) ☐
>
> Let's not get so absorbed in looking for what is wrong with various parts of our church that we lose sight of the fact that clocks don't run backward... neither do they stay stopped from one generation to the next.
>
> Context, context, context.

Agreed, but then we also have to look for what we ourselves may have done wrong, and where our work and efforts have not given any fruit.

I know from own experience that our soul winning stagnated in Europe about the time we appointed pastors to all churches and we started becoming too occupied with the problems of our members that we had so little time left for soul winning. Then our members lost interest in winning souls too.

At that time, and often since, we blamed it all in the invasion of TV. We measured that by observing that we no longer could place a notice in the local paper and hand out some handbills and by that we able to fill a public hall with people eager to listen to our preaching. The Conference official at that time pressured us to continue having public efforts, as they were called. I soon discovered that I had more baptisms when I was not occupied with public meetings, but merely engaged the members in soul winning and when I visited the interests we had in our files. Many of our baptisms then were relatives and friends of church members who through the personal acquaintance had knowledge of Adventism.

> QUOTE
>
> There are places in the world today where the only access to people is through Television, radio, I-Pod or Computer. From hi-rise apartments to slums... there are those who have access to these but where no evangelist can penetrate.

To what degree is TV penetrating these areas? Have we made a real study? There are some indications the TV presence encourages SDA people to go there and start evangelizing. Is it then TV or the evangelism that brings the message?

> QUOTE
>
> There are also places where there is no access to any of the media ... and ONLY a dedicated individual can contact other individuals.
>
> There are churches where there are laypersons who are fully capable of leading churches.... there are others who could not survive without the full time attention of one or more pastors.

Surviving in what sense of that word?

> QUOTE
>
> And when applying something Ellen White wrote in her day to today... what did the words mean then? Was an "evangelist" someone who spent one week in an area and then moved on leaving a "new infant church" on its own? Or was it one who was more like what we would today call a "church planter"... one who spends months or even years in one place until a congregation was fully established moving on?
>
> And what was evangelism even in more recent times than this? Even I recall the days when an "evangelistic team" meant a group of pastors and their wives who moved into an area for a minimum of six weeks.... getting acquainted with the people of the area and tailoring their messages to the local needs... as well as visiting in their homes and in general building up the church which had invited them to the area.

The most effective evangelists I have seen in recent years have appointed groups of lay people and trained them as effective evangelists and/or assistants. I have also seen how effective church evangelism can be achieved through the local Sabbath School classes by training effective teachers and thereby getting many more church members active teaching our message within and without the church.

> QUOTE
>
> Evangelism ... spreading the good news of the gospel... is NOT to be equated with just any old Joe Blow taking a canned Power Point program and giving it either privately or in group meetings. The person who does active doctrinal type evangelism needs to be well enough acquainted with what is being said in his presentation so he can answer questions that are not covered in the canned material. If he is not, then better he stick to BEING a witness... as contrasted with talking about the theory or doctrine.

Amen!

> QUOTE
>
> But that's just my opinion....

Posted by: Pickle Apr 29 2007, 04:14 PM

Here's how to strengthen our churches:

> QUOTE(Ellen White)
>
> When the churches see young men possessing zeal to qualify themselves to extend their labors to cities, villages, and towns that have never been aroused to the truth, and missionaries volunteering to go to other nations to carry the truth to them, the churches will be encouraged and strengthened far more than to themselves receive the labors of inexperienced young men. As they see their ministers' hearts all aglow with love and zeal for the truth, and with a desire to save souls, the churches will arouse themselves. These generally have the gifts and power within themselves to bless and strengthen themselves, and to gather the sheep and lambs into the fold. They need to be thrown upon their own resources, that all the gifts that are lying dormant may thus be called into active service. (3T 204, 205)

Posted by: Johann Apr 29 2007, 05:07 PM

> QUOTE(beartrap @ Apr 28 2007, 03:54 AM)
>
> It is my opinion that anyone who would seek or accept absolute power is already absolutely corrupt.

How about the subject here?

It is reported that Mr. Danny Shelton was seen on the airport in St.Paul today? Does anybody else look just like him?

What could he be doing there during a rather short span of time before leaving? Was he picking up some needed cash? Or signing some important documents?

Why was 3ABN Enterprises involuntarily dissolved around April 17? Was it due to any dishonesty that they had failed to pay the fees? Worse than Linda's lawyer?

Posted by: watchbird Apr 29 2007, 05:29 PM

> QUOTE(Johann @ Apr 29 2007, 07:07 PM)
>
> How about the subject here?
>
> It is reported that Mr. Danny Shelton was seen on the airport in St.Paul today? Does anybody else look just like him?

> What could he be doing there during a rather short span of time before leaving? Was he picking up some needed cash? Or signing some important documents?
>
> Why was 3ABN Enterprises involuntarily dissolved around April 17? Was it due to any dishonesty that they had failed to pay the fees? Worse than Linda's lawyer?

Leaving"? For where?

Posted by: Johann Apr 29 2007, 05:38 PM

> QUOTE(watchbird @ Apr 30 2007, 01:29 AM) ☐
>
> "Leaving"? For where?

Be nice to know, but usually he is not in hiding very long.

Posted by: ex3ABNemployee Apr 29 2007, 09:58 PM

> QUOTE(Eirene @ Apr 29 2007, 12:47 PM) ☐
>
> Fran, I would like to personally thank you for the allegations you stated as fact over on CF. Very helpful....

Please dry it up. Those kinds of comments are really getting old.

Posted by: SoulEspresso Apr 29 2007, 10:20 PM

> QUOTE(ex3ABNemployee @ Apr 29 2007, 08:58 PM) ☐
>
> Please dry it up. Those kinds of comments are really getting old.

'm with you, Duane.

But I don't think Eirene is motivated by the same things most of the members are. Most of us came here ooking for the truth and a good discussion. Eirene, God bless her, is the latest in a line of people who have some kind of understanding with someone at 3ABN, Danny or Mollie or someone else, that they come on here and post so that casual browsers of the Internet will think there are two balanced sides to this.

don't know what the understanding entails, money or some kind of quid pro quo, but for myself, I sure wouldn't act like this in public for free.

There are two sides, but they're not balanced at all. Anyone who has examined the evidence and the estimony of victims cannot stay neutral.

> QUOTE(Johann @ Apr 29 2007, 04:07 PM) ☐

> What could he be doing there during a rather short span of time before leaving? Was he picking up some needed cash? Or signing some important documents?
>
> Why was 3ABN Enterprises involuntarily dissolved around April 17? Was it due to any dishonesty that they had failed to pay the fees? Worse than Linda's lawyer?

ly money's on the documents, or something along those lines. A face to face meeting perhaps. Surely GM nd 3ABN are tech-savvy enough to wire money to West Frankfort as needed.

ut this is the first I've seen about the dissolution of 3ABN Enterprises ...

Posted by: princessdi Apr 29 2007, 10:26 PM

I am with you, SE. Folks are really trying to be offended when their stake in this is questioned. However, they seem to be fight for their very lives in this.. I know Aletheia says she has never met Danny or Linda, but here defense of Danny and hatred or just plain hatin' on Linda is of one who has a stake in the outcome.

Ok, So what exactly is 3ABN Enterprises?

Posted by: Eirene Apr 29 2007, 10:55 PM

> QUOTE(ex3ABNemployee @ Apr 29 2007, 09:58 PM)
>
> Please dry it up. Those kinds of comments are really getting old.

ot near as old as your threats of a civil case nor is it as old as your repeated posts that you don't like ounselors.

Posted by: Eirene Apr 29 2007, 11:08 PM

> QUOTE(Johann @ Apr 29 2007, 05:38 PM)
>
> Be nice to know, but usually he is not in hiding very long.

s usual, that little exchange made no sense whatsoever. He is reported in St. Paul today (which I highly oubt) and he is on his way "somewhere" and when ask where the answer is he is usally not in hiding very ong. rofl ow he allegedly was seen in St. Paul (I would love to know who could have possibly seen him) so then he ust be there for cash or documents.
ot one word of any of that has been confirmed in any way, but the next post has expresso saying his money s on documents and then the discussion continues as if all of this was fact.
would think after so many false reports that have been posted over here through the months that bsda eople would learn to stop guessing, accusing, speculating and then turn it all into fact. Look how fast Joy's mail was posted here that AF was taking over and DS was stepping down..Total fiction. But it was not only posted here but was discussed in great detail for several days before you all finally started to comprehend that Gailon was off the mark as usual.

I don't know if it is a lack of comprehension here, or a desperation to find dirt, or maybe it is just ignorance but nevertheless, here you are following the same old pattern of starting a big discussion on something that was alleged and more than likely never happened. And be sure and go right on swallowing everything Gailon sends your way no matter how many times he has proved to be inaccurate. Birds of a feather.....

Posted by: SoulEspresso Apr 29 2007, 11:46 PM

> QUOTE(Eirene @ Apr 29 2007, 10:08 PM) ☐
>
> As usual, that little exchange made no sense whatsoever. He is reported in St. Paul today (which I highly doubt) and he is on his way "somewhere" and when ask where the answer is he is usally not in hiding very long. ☒ rofl
> Now he allegedly was seen in St. Paul (I would love to know who could have possibly seen him) so then he must be there for cash or documents.
> Not one word of any of that has been confirmed in any way, but the next post has expresso saying his money is on documents and then the discussion continues as if all of this was fact.

On this last point, you're right. We don't know for sure if he was in MN.

It was interesting, though, because it merely highlights Danny's relationship with a wealthy benefactor of the Adventist church and ASI. Just like Doug, the McNeilus family is going to get mud on their shoes from all this. I don't know much about them but I do know, by all the documentation here and save3abn.com, they ought to choose their friends better.

> QUOTE
>
> I would think after so many false reports that have been posted over here through the months that bsda people would learn to stop guessing, accusing, speculating and then turn it all into fact. Look how fast Joy's email was posted here that AF was taking over and DS was stepping down..Total fiction. But it was not only posted here but was discussed in great detail for several days before you all finally started to comprehend that Gailon was off the mark as usual.
> I don't know if it is a lack of comprehension here, or a desperation to find dirt, or maybe it is just ignorance but nevertheless, here you are following the same old pattern of starting a big discussion on something that was alleged and more than likely never happened. And be sure and go right on swallowing everything Gailon sends your way no matter how many times he has proved to be inaccurate.

Well, it was news. And it wasn't total fiction--Doug appeared with Danny on 3ABN to announce some kind of new relationship. Now it seems nobody really knows what that relationship is. You don't know that Danny isn't going to step down, unless he told you himself. What's your connection? I'm not asking your identity, but if you want anyone to take you seriously, you have to offer some kind of credentials--more than just telling us we're stupid because we don't agree with you.

Gailon wasn't entirely correct, but he wasn't wrong either. Like all of us, he's trying to figure this whole darn mess out. It doesn't hurt his credibility to me.

By the way stage whisper you could help your case by adding a bit of charity, Eirene.

> QUOTE
>
> Birds of a feather.....

Glad you're with us!!!

Posted by: ex3ABNemployee Apr 30 2007, 12:07 AM

> QUOTE(Eirene @ Apr 29 2007, 11:55 PM)
>
> Not near as old as your threats of a civil case nor is it as old as your repeated posts that you don't like counselors.

When have I threatened a civil case?

Posted by: mozart Apr 30 2007, 12:31 AM

THIS CALLS FOR -----------------------

A
Ir

> QUOTE(Eirene @ Apr 29 2007, 10:08 PM)
>
> As usual, that little exchange made no sense whatsoever. He is reported in St. Paul today (which I highly doubt) and he is on his way "somewhere" and when ask where the answer is he is usally not in hiding very long. rofl
> Now he allegedly was seen in St. Paul (I would love to know who could have possibly seen him) so then he must be there for cash or documents.
> Not one word of any of that has been confirmed in any way, but the next post has expresso saying his money is on documents and then the discussion continues as if all of this was fact.
> I would think after so many false reports that have been posted over here through the months that bsda people would learn to stop guessing, accusing, speculating and then turn it all into fact. Look how fast Joy's email was posted here that AF was taking over and DS was stepping down..Total fiction. But it was not only posted here but was discussed in great detail for several days before you all finally started to comprehend that Gailon was off the mark as usual.
> I don't know if it is a lack of comprehension here, or a desperation to find dirt, or maybe it is just ignorance but nevertheless, here you are following the same old pattern of starting a big discussion on something that was alleged and more than likely never happened. And be sure and go right on swallowing everything Gailon sends your way no matter how many times he has proved to be inaccurate. Birds of a feather.....

Posted by: SoulEspresso Apr 30 2007, 08:34 AM

> QUOTE(mozart @ Apr 29 2007, 11:31 PM)

> THIS CALLS FOR -----------------------
>
> A > Ir

rofl

find that hilarious, but the reason is ofl ... last July Mrs. Espresso and I came home from vacation to ind that 60+ juvenile starlings had invaded our house. Half of them were dead by the time we got there. We ot most of them out that night ... morning I mean ... found some in places they couldn't possibly have otten ... found the last one two months later ... We had to wash pretty much the whole house.

nd then this spring when we were moving, we found more of their excrement on items we thought we'd horoughly washed.

ould have used some of that spray. And bird excrement, however unfortunate, is a surprisingly apt symbol or a lot of what Danny's (hired?) minions have written here and elsewhere. I would know.

Posted by: mozart Apr 30 2007, 10:31 AM

rofl rofl rofl
you're too funny. thanks for making my day. i needed that. God Bless. Mo

---

> QUOTE(SoulEspresso @ Apr 30 2007, 08:34 AM) ☐
>
> rofl
>
> I find that hilarious, but the reason is ofl ... last July Mrs. Espresso and I came home from vacation to > find that 60+ juvenile starlings had invaded our house. Half of them were dead by the time we got there. We got most of them out that night ... morning I mean ... found some in places they couldn't possibly have gotten ... found the last one two months later ... We had to wash pretty much the whole house.
>
>
> And then this spring when we were moving, we found more of their excrement on items we thought we'd thoroughly washed.
>
> Could have used some of that spray. And bird excrement, however unfortunate, is a surprisingly apt symbol for a lot of what Danny's (hired?) minions have written here and elsewhere. I would know.

Posted by: ex3ABNemployee Apr 30 2007, 11:12 AM

> QUOTE(ex3ABNemployee @ Apr 30 2007, 12:07 AM)
>
> When have I threatened a civil case?

Still waiting for an answer, Eirene. Is this another one of your unsubstantiated allegations? It's a simple question. I want an answer.

Posted by: Eirene Apr 30 2007, 02:32 PM

> QUOTE(Johann @ Apr 29 2007, 05:07 PM)
>
> How about the subject here?
>
> It is reported that Mr. Danny Shelton was seen on the airport in St.Paul today? Does anybody else look just like him?
>
> What could he be doing there during a rather short span of time before leaving? Was he picking up some needed cash? Or signing some important documents?
>
> Why was 3ABN Enterprises involuntarily dissolved around April 17? Was it due to any dishonesty that they had failed to pay the fees? Worse than Linda's lawyer?

I posted about this last night. How this is the perfect pattern of BSDA to make an allegation and then speculate and discuss as if it were truth. I also pointed out how many things you all have brought to BSDA that were ficticious and yet, you continue to do so.

I will give a $1,000.00 REWARD for anyone that can prove that Danny Shelton was in Minnesota yesterday, Sunday April 29th.
If johann who made the claim, cannot prove it or his source, then we will see just how reliable his information is.......So far he has proven about as reliable as Joy.
Anybody? $1,000.00 REWARD?

Posted by: ex3ABNemployee Apr 30 2007, 02:47 PM

> QUOTE(Eirene @ Apr 30 2007, 03:32 PM)
>
> I posted about this last night. How this is the perfect pattern of BSDA to make an allegation and then speculate and discuss as if it were truth. I also pointed out how many things you all have brought to BSDA that were ficticious and yet, you continue to do so.
>
> I will give a $1,000.00 REWARD for anyone that can prove that Danny Shelton was in Minnesota yesterday, Sunday April 29th.
> If johann who made the claim, cannot prove it or his source, then we will see just how reliable his information is.......So far he has proven about as reliable as Joy.
> Anybody? $1,000.00 REWARD?

And you still haven't proven that I have threatened a civil suit. Why are you making an issue of someone else's credibility?

Posted by: lurker Apr 30 2007, 02:57 PM

> QUOTE(Eirene @ Apr 30 2007, 02:32 PM)
>
> I posted about this last night. How this is the perfect pattern of BSDA to make an allegation and then speculate and discuss as if it were truth. I also pointed out how many things you all have brought to BSDA that were ficticious and yet, you continue to do so.
>
> I will give a $1,000.00 REWARD for anyone that can prove that Danny Shelton was in Minnesota yesterday, Sunday April 29th.
> If johann who made the claim, cannot prove it or his source, then we will see just how reliable his information is.......So far he has proven about as reliable as Joy.
> Anybody? $1,000.00 REWARD?

Ask Danny, the pilots, or the airport personnel. I think you just want to find out who the source is.
$1,000.00 or 30 pieces of silver?

Posted by: Whtz Happenin Apr 30 2007, 03:00 PM

> QUOTE(ex3ABNemployee @ Apr 30 2007, 01:12 PM)
>
> Still waiting for an answer, Eirene. Is this another one of your unsubstantiated allegations? It's a simple question. I want an answer.

Duane,
It will not surprise me if she ignores your question. She ignored me when I challenged her in Post #14 in the "Pondering Visiting Pastor Doug" thread.

I find it interesting that in the post below she is concerned about future victims and asked you if you know about anything being done. Now she is referring to your old threats of a civil case. I am not even going to try to make any sense of it.

notworkir

> QUOTE(Eirene @ Mar 4 2007, 10:14 AM)
>
> I'm just wondering.... how T. Shelton is to stopped, and prevented from molesting any other boys, if no one is willing to go to the authorities and report any of this, and sign their name?
>
> Whether someone signs their name or not, I think this is an important concern which needs to be addressed. I think that this should be the #1 concern here, but I don't see anyone talking about protecting future victims, or preventing more abuse.
>
> What is your thinking on this, Mr Clem? Do you know what, if anything, is being done about this?

I actually do not hear any concern from Eirene, but belive the above is more of a bait to try to get you to play her game.

Keep looking up Duane!

Posted by: ex3ABNemployee Apr 30 2007, 03:28 PM

> QUOTE(Whtz Happenin @ Apr 30 2007, 03:00 PM)
>
> Duane,
> It will not surprise me if she ignores your question. She ignored me when I challenged her in Post #14 in the "Pondering Visiting Pastor Doug" thread.
>
> I find it interesting that in the post below she is concerned about future victims and asked you if you know about anything being done. Now she is referring to your old threats of a civil case. I am not even going to try to make any sense of it.
>
> notworkir
>
> I actually do not hear any concern from Eirene, but belive the above is more of a bait to try to get you to play her game.
>
> Keep looking up Duane!

Thanks.

Eirene is just the latest in the long line of Danny Shelton's puppets. There have been others before her, and I'm sure more will follow. The puppets come and go, usually returning under different screen names I would suspect, but I and others defending truth are here to stay. I, for one, WON'T be silenced.

As for Eirene, silence is loud.

Posted by: princessdi Apr 30 2007, 03:32 PM

Oooooo Lurker!! Man! Maybe somebody better tell Eirene the motto around here. Good lookin' out!

> QUOTE(lurker @ Apr 30 2007, 01:57 PM)
>
> Ask Danny, the pilots, or the airport personnel. I think you just want to find out who the source is. $1,000.00 or 30 pieces of silver?

Posted by: SoulEspresso Apr 30 2007, 04:27 PM

> QUOTE(Eirene @ Apr 30 2007, 01:32 PM)

> I posted about this last night. How this is the perfect pattern of BSDA to make an allegation and then speculate and discuss as if it were truth. I also pointed out how many things you all have brought to BSDA that were ficticious and yet, you continue to do so.
>
> I will give a $1,000.00 REWARD for anyone that can prove that Danny Shelton was in Minnesota yesterday, Sunday April 29th.
> If johann who made the claim, cannot prove it or his source, then we will see just how reliable his information is.......So far he has proven about as reliable as Joy.
> Anybody? $1,000.00 REWARD?

Oh, you are so full of it. This was never posted as anything other than a rumor, nobody understood it as anything but a rumor, and whether it was true or not never mattered to begin with.

We all know Danny has a relationship with the McNeilus family, they're paying for his lawyers, the only interesting thing about it was that it might signify new legal developments in the court cases. We wouldn't know for sure what the implications were of such a visit, if it happened, until the courtroom.

You're diverting the thread, Eirene. Wonder if we'll fall for it.

Posted by: Johann Apr 30 2007, 04:47 PM

> QUOTE(SoulEspresso @ May 1 2007, 12:27 AM)
>
> We all know Danny has a relationship with the McNeilus family, they're paying for his lawyers, the only interesting thing about it was that it might signify new legal developments in the court cases. We wouldn't know for sure what the implications were of such a visit, if it happened, until the courtroom.

You are not supposed to know this, SE, and you might get sued for revealing anything about it. Just a gentle warning.

Posted by: PrincessDrRe Apr 30 2007, 06:53 PM

The day is April 30th, 2007 - no "service" of papers for PDR as of 8:54pm....

Posted by: Fran Apr 30 2007, 08:04 PM

> QUOTE(Eirene @ Apr 30 2007, 02:32 PM)
>
> I posted about this last night. How this is the perfect pattern of BSDA to make an allegation and then speculate and discuss as if it were truth. I also pointed out how many things you all have brought to BSDA that were fictitious and yet, you continue to do so.
>
> I will give a $1,000.00 REWARD for anyone that can prove that Danny Shelton was in Minnesota yesterday, Sunday April 29th.
> If Johann who made the claim, cannot prove it or his source, then we will see just how reliable his > information is.......So far he has proven about as reliable as Joy.

> Anybody? $1,000.00 REWARD?

irene;

oodness you are good! $1,000 to talk about something other than 3ABN Enterprises! Shame on you. Let's et real here.

efore we get real, let me see, In my dreams, I am in dire need of a new van, KIA Sedona, that has a heelchair lift. I would love a medium to medium large motor home with a chair lift too. Titles to me and tax ree. That way I could come to campmeeting if I so desired. If I had those, I would be so busy, I would have o time to come to BSDA and tell all I know about 3ABN Enterprises!

ow, if I had a new Mortgage free, tax free, home, with an indoor Jacuzzi, in my name with say ($2.45 illion + $1.7 Million ='s) 4,150 square feet all in one story, and a 40 X 40 Metal Building with electricity and bathroom, I would probably be too busy moving to tell more about Trust Funds.

LL New Furniture of my choice, would cause me to delete words like leases and rent from my vocabulary!

500,000 Tax free cash could erase Danny Shelton AND Doug Bachelor completely from my memory!

nother tax free $500,000 and I would erase ASI Ministries and Garwin McNeilus and their "Plans" from my emory bank!

ow that I have stopped dreaming and returned to reality, why did 3ABN Enterprises have to shut down. This ught to be a show stopper!

Posted by: princessdi Apr 30 2007, 08:27 PM

Frannie, Gurl!!!!! hug.gif

Posted by: Fran Apr 30 2007, 08:55 PM

> QUOTE(princessdi @ Apr 30 2007, 09:27 PM)
>
> Frannie, Gurl!!!!! hug.gif

ell, Back to reality, Nathan is missing! Nuff said? Pray as if your life depended on it. This is a very, very erious turn of events. Now we hear that Danny allegedly went to St Paul. Could Nathan have been taken here too?

hat else should we expect? Inquiring minds need to know.

oes this have anything to do with 3ABN Enterprises having to shut down?

Posted by: princessdi Apr 30 2007, 09:24 PM

Nathan? How old is he now?

> QUOTE(Fran @ Apr 30 2007, 07:55 PM)
>
> Well, Back to reality, Nathan is missing! Nuff said? Pray as if your life depended on it. This is a very, very serious turn of events. Now we hear that Danny allegedly went to St Paul. Could Nathan have been taken there too?
>
> What else should we expect? Inquiring minds need to know.
>
> Does this have anything to do with 3ABN Enterprises having to shut down?

Posted by: Eirene Apr 30 2007, 09:41 PM

> QUOTE(SoulEspresso @ Apr 30 2007, 04:27 PM)
>
> Oh, you are so full of it. This was never posted as anything other than a rumor, nobody understood it as anything but a rumor, and whether it was true or not never mattered to begin with.
>
> We all know Danny has a relationship with the McNeilus family, they're paying for his lawyers, the only interesting thing about it was that it might signify new legal developments in the court cases. We wouldn't know for sure what the implications were of such a visit, if it happened, until the courtroom.
>
> You're diverting the thread, Eirene. Wonder if we'll fall for it.

mmmLet's see..... it was nothing but a humor, yet, you yourself went into speculation that your money was on documents and blah blah blah...Now I see someone Has posted that Nathan is missing and since Danny is supposed to have been in St. Paul, Maybe he has Nathan??????
Folks this is beyond the twilight zone.

Next you say whether it was true or not it never mattered to begin with...I agree. You are crying to the wrong person...Johann is the one that brought it here and made the allegation.

I am diverting the thread???? Again, who brought it here Not me. If someone is going to make false allegations and you all involve yourselves in it, then someone who knows better will be here to refute it. If you don't want that, you need to appeal to Calvin to close the thread except to Lindanites. Then you can allegate and speculate and spin the gossip mill to your heart's content.

By the way....DANNY WAS NO WHERE NEAR ST. PAUL ON SUNDAY. HE WAS AT HIS HOME IN GOOD OLD SOUTHERN ILLINOIS. So where does that leave Johann when he said Danny was SEEN in St. Paul? But go right ahead and continue to fall for all the allegations and rumors that come from the same old unreliable sources. You always do.

Posted by: SoulEspresso Apr 30 2007, 09:57 PM

> QUOTE(Johann @ Apr 29 2007, 04:07 PM)
>
> It is reported that Mr. Danny Shelton was seen on the airport in St.Paul today? Does anybody else look > just like him?

>
> What could he be doing there during a rather short span of time before leaving? Was he picking up some needed cash? Or signing some important documents?
>
> Why was 3ABN Enterprises involuntarily dissolved around April 17? Was it due to any dishonesty that they had failed to pay the fees? Worse than Linda's lawyer?

irene, sister in Christ, I call your attention to the bolded type in Johann's post. It does not say fact. It does ot say Johann even believes this. Someone saw someone that could have been Danny. It also could have een a pastor who used to work in my area who seemed to style his hair and moustache after Danny's. (I now, I know.)

n light of the subject of this thread, it is perfectly reasonable to suppose that Danny was visiting, ahem, riends, in MN. He needn't have, of course. Bank wires and fax machines abound these days, do they not? On he other hand, some legal documents require the actual signature and not just an electronic copy.

Vhat you say might be entirely correct. He may have been in Southern IL for most of the weekend. ongratulations on having access not only to his private schedule but also to his private whim. You see, irene, unlike us mortals, Danny Lee Shelton has the luxury of people who will pay close to $3 per mile raveled for him to fly anywhere at any given moment on his own jet.

want to hear more about 3ABN Enterprises, though.

> QUOTE(Eirene @ Apr 30 2007, 01:32 PM)
>
> I will give a $1,000.00 REWARD for anyone that can prove that Danny Shelton was in Minnesota yesterday, Sunday April 29th.
> If johann who made the claim, cannot prove it or his source, then we will see just how reliable his information is.......So far he has proven about as reliable as Joy.
> Anybody? $1,000.00 REWARD?

his is what I was speaking of in diverting the thread.

ow, about Nathan ... We should be praying. How long has he been missing?

Posted by: Eirene Apr 30 2007, 10:00 PM

> QUOTE(Fran @ Apr 30 2007, 08:04 PM)
>
> Eirene;
>
> Goodness you are good! $1,000 to talk about something other than 3ABN Enterprises! Shame on you. Let's get real here.
>
> Before we get real, let me see, In my dreams, I am in dire need of a new van, KIA Sedona, that has a wheelchair lift. I would love a medium to medium large motor home with a chair lift too. Titles to me and tax free. That way I could come to campmeeting if I so desired. If I had those, I would be so busy, I would have no time to come to BSDA and tell all I know about 3ABN Enterprises!
>
> Now, if I had a new Mortgage free, tax free, home, with an indoor Jacuzzi, in my name with say ($2.45 million + $1.7 Million ='s) 4,150 square feet all in one story, and a 40 X 40 Metal Building with electricity and a bathroom, I would probably be too busy moving to tell more about Trust Funds.

> ALL New Furniture of my choice, would cause me to delete words like leases and rent from my vocabulary!
>
> $500,000 Tax free cash could erase Danny Shelton AND Doug Bachelor completely from my memory!
>
> Another tax free $500,000 and I would erase ASI Ministries and Garwin McNeilus and their "Plans" from my memory bank!
>
> Now that I have stopped dreaming and returned to reality, why did 3ABN Enterprises have to shut down. This ought to be a show stopper!

s usual Fran, your post makes very little sense. Let me give you a piece of advice. You as well as others ere would do well to quit making rumors into fact.

act 1. No one at 3abn knows what you or anyone else is talking about with this 3abn enterprise stuff. No ne. Nothing has changed as far as the status of 3abn so if you got that from Joy or Pickle or Johann forget it. ou definitely need new sources.
act 2. Danny does not live in a mortgage free tax free home. Where on earth did you get that ridiculous lie? ctually he pays out the nose in taxes for his home as taxes are extemely high in southern illinois for no eason anybody knows.
act 3. There was a jacuzzi, an outside jacuzzi but if memory serves me correctly, I believe Linda took it.
act 4. I am not sure about all your rambling about vans and lifts and whatever but, I do know, that Danny urchases his own vehicles, makes the payments and they are definitely not tax free.
act 5. If Danny gets any furniture, he does it like everyone else. He goes to a furniture store and buys it. nderstand? If you are referring to another allegation that he took furniture meant for a 3abn set that is an ut and out LIE, AGAIN. Never happened.
s for your tirade of 500,000 dollars, I don't have a clue what you are talking about and neither do you. The nly one that got close to that kind of cash was Linda.

hame on you Fran. For an accountant you aren't too smart when it comes to believing everything you read n the net. Of course bsda perpetuates that by continueing to post ficticious accusations.

Posted by: Whtz Happenin Apr 30 2007, 10:12 PM

> QUOTE(Eirene @ May 1 2007, 12:00 AM)
>
> ...
> Of course bsda perpetuates that by continueing to post ficticious accusations.

icticious Accusations

he best one that I have heard recently was about Duane filing civil cases. Wonder who threw that bomb out s a ficticious accusation?

ike I said in an early post, I will be surprised if you respond to Duane when he asked you to reply with an nswer. Maybe we can all gather up a huge reward for you, say $1000, if you come up with a legit answer for uane.

Posted by: princessdi Apr 30 2007, 10:24 PM

Fact 4. I am not sure about all your rambling about vans and lifts and whatever but, I do know, that Danny purchases his own vehicles, makes the payments and they are definitely not tax free.

Uh Eirene, you mgiht want to go back and reread her post regarding the van. Comprehension is key, Gurl.

As for your tirade of 500,000 dollars, I don't have a clue what you are talking about and neither do you. The only one that got close to that kind of cash was Linda.

Uh, do you all get so worked up that you don't realize what you are saying? Who gave LInda the money? Anywa, you might want to reread Fran's comments, she knows exactly what she is saying, and I understood her perfectly. Once again comprehension is key.

Shame on you Fran. For an accountant you aren't too smart when it comes to believing everything you read on the net. Of course bsda perpetuates that by continueing to post ficticious accusations.

Stop it Gurl! Poor thing! Just all worked up....... ☒ s

Posted by: Rosyroi Apr 30 2007, 10:27 PM

> QUOTE(princessdi @ Apr 30 2007, 08:24 PM) ☐
>
> Fact 4. I am not sure about all your rambling about vans and lifts and whatever but, I do know, that Danny purchases his own vehicles, makes the payments and they are definitely not tax free.
>
> Uh Eirene, you mgiht want to go back and reread her post regarding the van. Comprehension is key, Gurl.
>
> As for your tirade of 500,000 dollars, I don't have a clue what you are talking about and neither do you. The only one that got close to that kind of cash was Linda.
>
> Uh, do you all get so worked up that you don't realize what you are saying? Who gave LInda the money? Anywa, you might want to reread Fran's comments, she knows exactly what she is saying, and I understood her perfectly. Once again comprehension is key.
>
> Shame on you Fran. For an accountant you aren't too smart when it comes to believing everything you read on the net. Of course bsda perpetuates that by continueing to post ficticious accusations.
>
> Stop it Gurl! Poor thing! Just all worked up....... ☒ s

Strange... I don't know Fran but I understood what she was saying and I say "You go gurl!"

Rosyroi

Posted by: Eirene Apr 30 2007, 10:39 PM

> QUOTE(Whtz Happenin @ Apr 30 2007, 10:12 PM) ☐
>
> Ficticious Accusations
>
> The best one that I have heard recently was about Duane filing civil cases. Wonder who threw that bomb out as a ficticious accusation?

> Like I said in an early post, I will be surprised if you respond to Duane when he asked you to reply with an answer. Maybe we can all gather up a huge reward for you, say $1000, if you come up with a legit answer for Duane.

̀eally? I have seen different posts, I believe one at CF but could be wrong where I believe he says If he ›rings a civil case etc \nd I could search and find those and post them but something stopped me. I was sent an email by someone hat has known Duane most of his life. I was told that he is not happy unless he is angry about something or ;omeone and the exact words were, "Nobody does anger like Duane." They cited several instances and details vhere he claimed to be mistreated, or treated unfairly, or was constantly offended by something someone ;aid, etc etc. And if he is disagreed with on any of the topics, he is an angry man. They said it was a pattern nost of his life. Therefore I chose not to enter into a discussion with him. If he has been this way most of his ife and he is now 40 + years old, he isn't apt to change now so why waste the energy?

> QUOTE(Rosyroi @ Apr 30 2007, 10:27 PM)
>
> Strange... I don't know Fran but I understood what she was saying and I say "You go gurl!"
>
> Rosyroi

am sure you all did understand it if it came from all the allegations on the net. But since so many are total iction, I didn't understand it because I know truth.
)id you get the fact that she was wrong about tax free, homes, vehicles, mortgage free, jacuzzi's etc?????
Vhat I understood was totally a lie and what I didn't understand would be for the same reason except, so far etched, that it hadn't even reach my ears yet.
f she is wrong about all the things I pointed out (and she is) then how many other things has she been vrong about. Same with johann and joy and pickle.

Posted by: Fran Apr 30 2007, 10:47 PM

> QUOTE(Eirene @ Apr 30 2007, 11:00 PM)
>
> Eirene: As usual Fran, your post makes very little sense. Let me give you a piece of advice. You as well as others here would do well to quit making rumors into fact.
>
> Fact 1. Eirene: No one at 3abn knows what you or anyone else is talking about with this 3abn enterprise stuff. No one. Nothing has changed as far as the status of 3abn so if you got that from Joy or Pickle or Johann forget it. You definitely need new sources.
>
> Fran: My sources? Why do you thinkI have anything to do with Gailon or Pickle. I just agree with what they are doing. I never once said anything about anyone being my source. Nor did I mention Joy or Pickle. Be very careful. I am saving your words. Just where did I try to make rumors fact?
>
> Fact 2. Eirene: Danny does not live in a mortgage free tax free home.
>
> Fran: I never said anywhere that he did. I was telling my dream, thank you. Too bad he has a mortgage! So do I!

Eirene: Where on earth did you get that ridiculous lie?

Fran: What lie? I never said a thing about Danny's debt or taxes? This is paranoid! Just what lie did I tell? I was dreaming, girl.

Eirene: Actually he pays out the nose in taxes for his home as taxes are extemely high in southern illinois for no reason anybody knows.

Fran: I understand, my taxes are high too. Why do you think all my dreams are tax free? However, thanks for this information.Go back and read. I never mentioned Danny, his house, his taxes, ever!

Fact 3. Eirene: There was a jacuzzi, an outside jacuzzi but if memory serves me correctly, I believe Linda took it.

Fran: My dream includes one inside! Everybody has their own tastes. I never said Linda or Danny had a Jacuzzi. I must have missed that while reading that court document of who got what. I would have dreamed up a pool except it is to expensive to care for.

Fact 4. Eirene: I am not sure about all your rambling about vans and lifts and whatever but, I do know, that Danny purchases his own vehicles, makes the payments and they are definitely not tax free.

Fran: I never mentioned a word about Danny's vehicles! There you go making my dream about Danny. He was never in my dreams except delivering my dreams into reality! Get a grip girl!

Fact 5. Eirene: If Danny gets any furniture, he does it like everyone else. He goes to a furniture store and buys it. Understand?

Fran: Woe! Wow! Why do you insist on making my dreams a nightmare! In my dreams I pick it out too, in a furniture store. I just don't pay for it or pay taxes!

Eirene: If you are referring to another allegation that he took furniture meant for a 3abn set that is an out and out LIE, AGAIN. Never happened.

Fran: Eirene, get a grip on your imagination! It is running wild! Did I say a word about any furniture at Danny's or 3ABN? You are loosing it babe.

Eirene: As for your tirade of $500,000 dollars, I don't have a clue what you are talking about and neither do you. The only one that got close to that kind of cash was Linda.

Fran: My dream is greater than what Linda or Danny got! I think BIG!

Eirene: Shame on you Fran. For an accountant you aren't too smart when it comes to believing everything you read on the net.

Fran: Well for your information, I do not believe everything I read on the net! Especially at CF!

I don't believe what I see on 3ABN either. Oops! That is just my opinion by the way.

Eirene: Of course BSDA perpetuates that by continueing to post ficticious accusations.

Fran: Please don't talk bad about my new home, BSDA. I never made any ficticious accusations. You are doing that, Eirene.

Also ,I never said a word about my being an accountant.

I never said a word about Danny or 3ABN period.

I did get the square feet of my dream home from the unposted Trust Funds cited on 3ABN's Form 990's. Clever, huh?

Posted by: princessdi Apr 30 2007, 10:48 PM

Really? I have seen different posts, I believe one at CF but could be wrong where I believe he says If he brings a civil case etc
And I could search and find those and post them but something stopped me. I was sent an email by someone that has known Duane most of his life. I was told that he is not happy unless he is angry about something or someone and the exact words were, "Nobody does anger like Duane." They cited several instances and details where he claimed to be mistreated, or treated unfairly, or was constantly offended by something someone said, etc etc. And if he is disagreed with on any of the topics, he is an angry man. They said it was a pattern most of his life. Therefore I chose not to enter into a discussion with him. If he has been this way most of his life and he is now 40 + years old, he isn't apt to change now so why waste the energy?

Just a cursory knowledge of abuse, secual, physical emotional. will giv eyou a clue as to why he is angry................ Just trying to hav a little understanding.....Just pitiful, pititful.......... ☒ se

I am sure you all did understand it if it came from all the allegations on the net. But since so many are total fiction, I didn't understand it because I know truth.
Did you get the fact that she was wrong about tax free, homes, vehicles, mortgage free, jacuzzi's etc????? What I understood was totally a lie and what I didn't understand would be for the same reason except, so far fetched, that it hadn't even reach my ears yet.
If she is wrong about all the things I pointed out (and she is) then how many other things has she been wrong about. Same with johann and joy and pickle.

Gurl, that had nothing to do with her post, go back and read......and if you want to discredit, the rules are the same for you, bring us some evidence. You know your group has no, zero crediblity here. No one is gong to believe anything just becuase you said it. Your sources are faulty and suspect, because they ultimately lead to Danny, adn he ahs lied on this site and has no credibility. Just bring it, sister. If you can't bring it, leave it alone........

Posted by: Rosyroi Apr 30 2007, 10:55 PM

> QUOTE(princessdi @ Apr 30 2007, 08:48 PM) ☐
>
> Really? I have seen different posts, I believe one at CF but could be wrong where I believe he says If he brings a civil case etc
> And I could search and find those and post them but something stopped me. I was sent an email by someone that has known Duane most of his life. I was told that he is not happy unless he is angry about something or someone and the exact words were, "Nobody does anger like Duane." They cited several instances and details where he claimed to be mistreated, or treated unfairly, or was constantly offended by something someone said, etc etc. And if he is disagreed with on any of the topics, he is an angry man. They said it was a pattern most of his life. Therefore I chose not to enter into a discussion with him. If he has been this way most of his life and he is now 40 + years old, he isn't apt to change now so why waste the energy?
>
> Just a cursory knowledge of abuse, secual, physical emotional. will giv eyou a clue as to why he is angry................ Just trying to hav a little understanding.....Just pitiful, pititful.......... ☒ se
>
> I am sure you all did understand it if it came from all the allegations on the net. But since so many are total fiction, I didn't understand it because I know truth.
> Did you get the fact that she was wrong about tax free, homes, vehicles, mortgage free, jacuzzi's etc?????
> What I understood was totally a lie and what I didn't understand would be for the same reason except, so far fetched, that it hadn't even reach my ears yet.
> If she is wrong about all the things I pointed out (and she is) then how many other things has she been

---

Posted by: princessdi Apr 30 2007, 10:48 PM

Really? I have seen different posts, I believe one at CF but could be wrong where I believe he says If he brings a civil case etc
And I could search and find those and post them but something stopped me. I was sent an email by someone that has known Duane most of his life. I was told that he is not happy unless he is angry about something or someone and the exact words were, "Nobody does anger like Duane." They cited several instances and details where he claimed to be mistreated, or treated unfairly, or was constantly offended by something someone said, etc etc. And if he is disagreed with on any of the topics, he is an angry man. They said it was a pattern most of his life. Therefore I chose not to enter into a discussion with him. If he has been this way most of his life and he is now 40 + years old, he isn't apt to change now so why waste the energy?

Just a cursory knowledge of abuse, secual, physical emotional. will giv eyou a clue as to why he is angry................ Just trying to hav a little understanding.....Just pitiful, pititful.......... ☒ s

I am sure you all did understand it if it came from all the allegations on the net. But since so many are total fiction, I didn't understand it because I know truth.
Did you get the fact that she was wrong about tax free, homes, vehicles, mortgage free, jacuzzi's etc????? What I understood was totally a lie and what I didn't understand would be for the same reason except, so far fetched, that it hadn't even reach my ears yet.
If she is wrong about all the things I pointed out (and she is) then how many other things has she been wrong about. Same with johann and joy and pickle.

Gurl, that had nothing to do with her post, go back and read......and if you want to discredit, the rules are the same for you, bring us some evidence. You know your group has no, zero crediblity here. No one is gong to believe anything just becuase you said it. Your sources are faulty and suspect, because they ultimately lead to Danny, adn he ahs lied on this site and has no credibility. Just bring it, sister. If you can't bring it, leave it alone........

Posted by: Rosyroi Apr 30 2007, 10:55 PM

> QUOTE(princessdi @ Apr 30 2007, 08:48 PM) ☐
>
> Really? I have seen different posts, I believe one at CF but could be wrong where I believe he says If he brings a civil case etc
> And I could search and find those and post them but something stopped me. I was sent an email by someone that has known Duane most of his life. I was told that he is not happy unless he is angry about something or someone and the exact words were, "Nobody does anger like Duane." They cited several instances and details where he claimed to be mistreated, or treated unfairly, or was constantly offended by something someone said, etc etc. And if he is disagreed with on any of the topics, he is an angry man. They said it was a pattern most of his life. Therefore I chose not to enter into a discussion with him. If he has been this way most of his life and he is now 40 + years old, he isn't apt to change now so why waste the energy?
>
> Just a cursory knowledge of abuse, secual, physical emotional. will giv eyou a clue as to why he is angry................ Just trying to hav a little understanding.....Just pitiful, pititful.......... ☒ s
>
> I am sure you all did understand it if it came from all the allegations on the net. But since so many are total fiction, I didn't understand it because I know truth.
> Did you get the fact that she was wrong about tax free, homes, vehicles, mortgage free, jacuzzi's etc?????
> What I understood was totally a lie and what I didn't understand would be for the same reason except, so far fetched, that it hadn't even reach my ears yet.
> If she is wrong about all the things I pointed out (and she is) then how many other things has she been

> They said it was a pattern most of his life. Therefore I chose not to enter into a discussion with him. If he has been this way most of his life and he is now 40 + years old, he isn't apt to change now so why waste the energy?
> I am sure you all did understand it if it came from all the allegations on the net. But since so many are total fiction, I didn't understand it because I know truth.
> Did you get the fact that she was wrong about tax free, homes, vehicles, mortgage free, jacuzzi's etc?????
> What I understood was totally a lie and what I didn't understand would be for the same reason except, so far fetched, that it hadn't even reach my ears yet.
> If she is wrong about all the things I pointed out (and she is) then how many other things has she been wrong about. Same with johann and joy and pickle.

n an "interview" on Club Adventist, Danny Shelton stated that lawsuits had been filed against two unnamed people. I posted that information here in BSDA.

Under the law, after lawsuits are filed, one might typically have 20 days to serve those people. As far as I know, no one has yet been served. As I do not know the exact day that they were filed, I do not know the deadline to serve those people. However, it might be assumed to end by the middle of May.

But, if Danny Shelton was wrong, and those lawsuits had not actually been filed, but were expected to be filed shortly, then that deadline would be extended.

n general terms, I accept the statement that Danny made on Club Adventist. I therefore believe that two people can expect to soon be served, if they have not beeen served already.

n any case we shall have to wait and see. If Danny made an error in his announcement, I consider it to be a minor one.

> QUOTE(Observer @ May 1 2007, 03:26 AM) ☐

> In an "interview" on Club Adventist, Danny Shelton stated that lawsuits had been filed against two unnamed people. I posted that information here in BSDA.
>
> Under the law, after lawsuits are filed, one might typically have 20 days to serve those people. As far as I know, no one has yet been served. As I do not know the exact day that they were filed, I do not know the deadline to serve those people. However, it might be assumed to end by the middle of May.
>
> But, if Danny Shelton was wrong, and those lawsuits had not actually been filed, but were expected to be filed shortly, then that deadline would be extended.
>
> In general terms, I accept the statement that Danny made on Club Adventist. I therefore believe that two people can expect to soon be served, if they have not beeen served already.
>
> In any case we shall have to wait and see. If Danny made an error in his announcement, I consider it to be a minor one.

Here is what Danny posted on Club Adventist, on April 223:

> QUOTE
>
> That is true. We have a donor who has been donating funds for some time for the purpose of legal bills incurred whether lawsuit or not. He is not taking a tax donation for these donations.
> He and his family believe in 3ABN and the decisions we have made. They like our 3ABN Board have decided that people who are accusing myself and the 3ABN board of gross misconduct and out right crimes need to be held accountable.
> We have filed a lawsuit against two individuals in particular to begin with.
> I won't say anymore on that subject right now.

It is post # 12289

I am not certain how easily the "interview" is available. But, it is still there for your review.

Posted by: Observer May 1 2007, 06:05 AM

> QUOTE(Eirene @ Apr 30 2007, 10:39 PM) ☐
>
> Really? I have seen different posts, I believe one at CF but could be wrong where I believe he says If he brings a civil case etc

Eirene, I would like to ask you to help us here in BSDA. I take what you post seriously. I have a basic assumption that you often post accurate information, and have connections to authorative sources. So, I take seriously your comment in regard to "if" lawsuits are filed.

Would you be willing to go to your authorative sources as ask:

1) Have lawsuits already been filed as Danny stated in Club Adventist?

2) Has a definate decison been made to file such?

3) If they have been filed, who have they been filed against?

Once lawsuits are filed, that is public information, as well as the names of the people involved.

I would find it helpful if you your clairfy your statement of "if" in the context of Danny's statemenet on CA.

Thank you for your help.

Posted by: SoulEspresso May 1 2007, 07:48 AM

I note with interest the following:

> QUOTE(Eirene @ Apr 30 2007, 09:39 PM) ☐
>
> I was sent an email by someone that has known Duane most of his life. I was told that he is not happy unless he is angry about something or someone and the exact words were, "Nobody does anger like Duane." They cited several instances and details where he claimed to be mistreated, or treated unfairly, or was constantly offended by something someone said, etc etc. And if he is disagreed with on any of the topics, he is an angry man. They said it was a pattern most of his life. Therefore I chose not to enter into a discussion with him. If he has been this way most of his life and he is now 40 + years old, he isn't apt to change now so why waste the energy?

Later in the thread, I find this.

> QUOTE(ex3ABNemployee @ May 1 2007, 12:12 AM) ☐

> It's true I struggled with anger issues for a large part of my life. I am almost sure I know who wrote the email you are referring to.
>
> If the person who wrote the email to you knows me as well as they claim to, they can tell you that there has been a change. I've been told that by several people who know me well, and I give God all the credit for it.

"By their fruits." 'Nuff said.

Duane, I praise God for the work He's done in your life.

Posted by: caribbean sda May 1 2007, 08:08 AM

> QUOTE(Eirene @ May 1 2007, 12:00 AM)
>
> Of course bsda perpetuates that by continueing to post ficticious accusations.

yet you show up for your daily fill like clockwork at the trough...

Posted by: Noahswife May 1 2007, 08:15 AM

> QUOTE(caribbean sda @ May 1 2007, 09:08 AM)
>
> yet you show up for your daily fill like clockwork at the trough...

You know CSDA, sometimes I can't help but wonder if they come because they really want to be pulled back from the dark side?

Otherwise? Why do they come? Sounds like a question for Clay.

Anyone have any really good ideas on that one?

nw
C"i"

Posted by: runner4him May 1 2007, 09:02 AM

[

> QUOTE

> quote name='Observer' date='May 1 2007, 04:35 AM' post='193698']
> In an "interview" on Club Adventist, Danny Shelton stated that lawsuits had been filed against two unnamed people. I posted that information here in BSDA.
>
> Here is what Danny posted on Club Adventist, on April 223:
> It is post # 12289
> QUOTE

[

> QUOTE
>
> color=#990000]That is true. We have a donor who has been donating funds for some time for the purpose of legal bills incurred whether lawsuit or not. He is not taking a tax donation for these donations.
> He and his family believe in 3ABN and the decisions we have made. They like our 3ABN Board have decided that people who are accusing myself and the 3ABN board of gross misconduct and out right crimes need to be held accountable.
> We have filed a lawsuit against two individuals in particular to begin with.
> I won't say anymore on that subject right now. [/color]

Well....as "The Satellite Turns" or I might say as [b]"The Guiding Internet" Hmmmmm

There are rumors flying....and I ask this question....If 3ABN is supposedly hurting a "little" per DS or maybe somewhat more in the donation department per others, then why would DS or the board even let this certain family or individual stand in the wings ready to donate unlimited funds for OFFENSIVE legal action against what?? If DS is innocent then let them be about preaching the Gospel, stand up, give an honest answer without hatred and threats, reveal the truth for all to see and know....let us know about the jet...let us understand how it happened that an alledgedly accused individual could continue to be a part of a prominant organization when he is a possible danger to children or teenagers even if he might be your brother...let us also understand how donated funds are spent...how a letter could possibly come to home of viewers raising accusations and questions regarding Linda and her firing from 3ABN while the ex-partner marries quickly and informs the whole world?

It is unfortunate that DS would rather avoid the obvious...humbling oneself, making all things right, speaking the truth instead of going on the offensive mode with more threats all funded by donations that could be used for the Gospel. Let us beware of powerful men in high places who think they have the right to do anything and answer to no one. We all helped put him there....Learn from this!

Posted by: ex3ABNemployee May 1 2007, 10:50 AM

> QUOTE(SoulEspresso @ May 1 2007, 07:48 AM)
>
> I note with interest the following:
> Later in the thread, I find this.
> "By their fruits." 'Nuff said.
> Duane, I praise God for the work He's done in your life.

Thanks, SE. It's sad that some people can't just deal with the issues without trying to discredit and destroy others.

The fact the Eirene says she got an email about me is very telling for a couple of reasons. First of all, how did the person that sent the email know who she is and how to contact her? Second, I am in possession of some emails written about me to someone else, and they contain some very inflammatory statements. Could it be that these emails were written by the same person, or a family member of the same person, who emailed Eirene about me? Time will tell.

The statements made about me are a classic Shelton tactic. When they feel backed into a corner, they come at you with anytrhing they can find to try to hurt you. I've seen it for years.

I'm still trying to decide whether I should post the emails I have or not. I can tell you this, they were written by a Shelton.

Posted by: princessdi May 1 2007, 11:12 AM

Duane, feel free to pass them by Calvin and the Admin Team.............if you like......

Posted by: Aletheia May 1 2007, 11:56 AM

> QUOTE(princessdi @ Apr 30 2007, 11:24 PM)
>
> Nathan? How old is he now?

I believe he is 26. Which makes it harder then when they are minors and you know where they are supposed to be, and they need to get their butts home, and if they aren't where they are supposed to be and don't come home, you know somethings definatly wrong.

Still Mothers never stop worrying about Children no matter how old they are. I'm 45 and my Mom still worries about me. My Sons are 23, and 25, and if I don't hear from them I start worrying and praying, because often in the past that meant they had problems or were in trouble and not ready to tell me yet. Thank God my oldest who has had addiction problems also, and lives across the United States from me is keeping in close contact now, good or bad. It makes it easier to help, encourage, support, and advise. and know what to lift him up in prayer about.

I am not clear here though on what is meant by "missing". Is it that Linda hasn't heard from him in 6 wks, or that he hasn't been at home, or to work and no one has heard from him? If the latter is the case, was a missing persons report filed? It seems this would have been done at least 5 weeks ago???

In any case we should all pray for nathan and all involved, it would just help to know a little more to know what to pray about more specifically.

Posted by: runner4him May 1 2007, 12:04 PM

> QUOTE(ex3ABNemployee @ May 1 2007, 10:50 AM)
>
> Thanks, SE. It's sad that some people can't just deal with the issues without trying to discredit and destroy others.
>
> The fact the Eirene says she got an email about me is very telling for a couple of reasons. First of all, how did the person that sent the email know who she is and how to contact her? Second, I am in possession of some emails written about me to someone else, and they contain some very inflammatory statements. Could it be that these emails were written by the same person, or a family member of the same person, who emailed Eirene about me? Time will tell.
>
> The statements made about me are a classic Shelton tactic. When they feel backed into a corner, they come at you with anytrhing they can find to try to hurt you. I've seen it for years.
>
> I'm still trying to decide whether I should post the emails I have or not. I can tell you this, they were > written by a Shelton.

want to say that I admire your courage and agree with your comment above about some people working to liscredit and destroy others when they cannot deal themselves with certain issues. Just the demonstration of ashing out so hateful is a real testimony to character. That stuff about knowing someone by their ruits.......so true! From where I sit I can see a pattern of a certain camp blaming, attacking, trying to be ıurtful, threatening. The trick of bringing up "someone said this or that about you" is so old and one of the vorse things anyone can do to another person especially when the attacker "cannot or will not reveal who, vhat, why, or really anything but just tell us to believe it!" I say again...be encouraged for He knows the ruth and others can see those fruits quite easily...............There are many others standing with you ex3ABNemployee"....fellow Christian and we are praying for resolution to this whole mess and recovery for ıll of us as we look forward believing in that blessed hope of eternity and His soon coming.

Posted by: Aletheia May 1 2007, 12:08 PM

> QUOTE(lurker @ Apr 30 2007, 04:57 PM) ☐
>
> Ask Danny, the pilots, or the airport personnel. I think you just want to find out who the source is. $1,000.00 or 30 pieces of silver?

'm thinking, that Eirene just knew the claim was false, and was trying to help you all see that putting stock n rumors and unproven claims and repeating it, or speculating about it, is foolish, and a waste of time.

> QUOTE(Observer @ May 1 2007, 08:05 AM) ☐
>
> Eirene, I would like to ask you to help us here in BSDA. I take what you post seriously. I have a basic assumption that you often post accurate information, and have connections to authorative sources. So, I take seriously your comment in regard to "if" lawsuits are filed.
>
> Would you be willing to go to your authorative sources as ask:
>
> 1) Have lawsuits already been filed as Danny stated in Club Adventist?
>
> 2) Has a definate decison been made to file such?
>
> 3) If they have been filed, who have they been filed against?
>
> Once lawsuits are filed, that is public information, as well as the names of the people involved.
>
> I would find it helpful if you your clairfy your statement of "if" in the context of Danny's statemenet on CA.
>
> Thank you for your help.

I would find it helpful if you your clairfy your statement of "if" in the context of Danny's statemenet on :A." ????

don't understand how that is possible. They are 2 different things.

:irene was referring to what Duane posted on Christian Forums in the 3ABN thread regarding his allegations ıbout T.S.and you are asking about what Danny said on Club Adventist during the recent interview.

Posted by: caribbean sda May 1 2007, 12:21 PM

> QUOTE(Aletheia @ May 1 2007, 02:08 PM)
>
> I'm thinking, that Eirene just knew the claim was false, and was trying to help you all see that putting stock in rumors and unproven claims and repeating it, or speculating about it, is foolish, and a waste of time.

...that's mighty nice of her

Posted by: Aletheia May 1 2007, 12:23 PM

> QUOTE(runner4him @ May 1 2007, 11:02 AM)
>
> [
> [
> Well....as "The Satellite Turns" or I might say as [b]"The Guiding Internet" Hmmmmm
>
> There are rumors flying....and I ask this question....If 3ABN is supposedly hurting a "little" per DS or maybe somewhat more in the donation department per others, then why would DS or the board even let this certain family or individual stand in the wings ready to donate unlimited funds for OFFENSIVE legal action against what?? If DS is innocent then let them be about preaching the Gospel, stand up, give an honest answer without hatred and threats, reveal the truth for all to see and know....let us know about the jet...let us understand how it happened that an alledgedly accused individual could continue to be a part of a prominant organization when he is a possible danger to children or teenagers even if he might be your brother...let us also understand how donated funds are spent...how a letter could possibly come to home of viewers raising accusations and questions regarding Linda and her firing from 3ABN while the ex-partner marries quickly and informs the whole world?
>
> It is unfortunate that DS would rather avoid the obvious...humbling oneself, making all things right, speaking the truth instead of going on the offensive mode with more threats all funded by donations that could be used for the Gospel. Let us beware of powerful men in high places who think they have the right to do anything and answer to no one. We all helped put him there....Learn from this!

rofl

Yeah right. Anything that Danny Shelton has said in the past 3 years, anything which has been said on 3ABN live by himself or the board, anything which has been said by Walt Thompson in email, or that has been said by ASI, etc etc etc. Is believed by none of you 3ABN accusers here. Whole threads are devoted to picking apart every single statement and doing all you can to make them appear in the worst possible light, claiming they are liars so nothing can be believed, always surmising about the worst motives and intents of all and why they said what they said...

Now you are starting in on, and evenwilling to believe evil of Doug Batchelor and insinuating things about him or surmising evil of him. because none of you seem to believe, or seem willing to consider that if he doesn't clean house and agree with your opinions and judgments against D.S. and 3ABN, and carry them out, that it could be because he knows more then you and is being led of God.

Why? simply because you believe you are being led of God in this work of accusing the brethren, so obviously those who disagree with you are against God, or are decieved and not following the Lord.

Sadly, I do not think the accusers of the brethren here would recognize or accept the truth or the answers if they were hit upside the head with them.

To this day, I have not seen you accept one single answer from 3ABN, or anyone associated with them.

edited for typo.

Posted by: awesumtenor May 1 2007, 12:43 PM

> QUOTE(Aletheia @ May 1 2007, 02:23 PM)
>
> rofl
>
> Yeah right. Anything that Danny Shelton has said in the past 3 years, anything which has been said on 3ABN live by himself or the board, anything which has been said by Walt Thompson in email, or that has been said by ASI, etc etc etc. Is believed by none of you 3ABN accusers here. Whole threads are devoted to picking apart every single statement and doing all you can to make them appear in the worst possible light, claiming they are liars so nothing can be believed, always surmising about the worst motives and intents of all and why they said what they said...
>
> Now you are starting in on, and evenwilling to believe evil of Doug Batchelor and insinuating things about him or surmising evil of him. because none of you seem to believe, or seem willing to consider that if he doesn't clean house and agree with your opinions and judgments against D.S. and 3ABN, and carry them out, that it could be because he knows more then you and is being led of God.
>
> Why? simply because you believe you are being led of God in this work of accusing the brethren, so obviously those who disagree with you are against God, or are decieved and not following the Lord.
>
> Sadly, I do not think the accusers of the brethren here would recognize or accept the truth or the answers if they were hit upside the head with them.
>
> To this day, I have not seen you accept one single answer from 3ABN, or anyone associated with them.
>
> edited for typo.

Cindy,

If hypocrisy were the Kentucky Derby you'd be Secretariat.

In His service,
Mr. J

Posted by: Jim Larmore May 1 2007, 01:22 PM

> QUOTE(awesumtenor @ Apr 23 2007, 02:27 PM)
>
> You just walked in the door here spouting words placed in your mouth by others and knowing no one here from a can of semi-gloss latex... so you are not in a position to call anyone desperate or pathetic save the person in your mirror.

> Letting your mouth write checks the rest of you can't cash is always a bad idea... you'd do well to pay heed to that point...
>
> In His service,
> Mr. J

sn't this rather invective in nature? Does a lot of folks post this way here? Just curious.

od Bless
im Larmore

Posted by: Aletheia May 1 2007, 01:32 PM

> QUOTE(Jim Larmore @ May 1 2007, 03:22 PM)
>
> Isn't this rather invective in nature? Does a lot of folks post this way here? Just curious.
>
> God Bless
> Jim Larmore

i Jim,

velcome.

ust to clarify, because he sounds like he knows Eirene and who she does and does not know, and what she nows or does not know and how and why she is posting e doesn't.

've never met him, but I know Eirene, so I personally know for a fact that neither one has ever met the ther.

Posted by: Jim Larmore May 1 2007, 01:45 PM

> QUOTE(Aletheia @ May 1 2007, 01:32 PM)
>
> Hi Jim,
>
> welcome.
>
> Just to clarify, because he sounds like he knows Eirene and who she does and does not know, and what she knows or does not know and how and why she is posting
>
> He doesn't.
>
> I've never met him, but I know Eirene, so I personally know for a fact that neither one has ever met the other.

Thanks Aletheia,

I just wanted to find out if I was in a Christian forum or not.

God Bless
Jim Larmore

Posted by: Jnana15 May 1 2007, 01:55 PM

> QUOTE(Jim Larmore @ May 1 2007, 02:22 PM) ☐
>
> Isn't this rather invective in nature? Does a lot of folks post this way here? Just curious.
>
> God Bless
> Jim Larmore

Welcome Jim ☒ welc

I would suggest that you read, READ, READ the past postings. Actually, this is the most interesting site on the Internet IMHO. No, a lot of folk do not post this way...READ! ☒ welcome.gif

---

Posted by: princessdi May 1 2007, 01:59 PM

This was in response to this post by Eirene:

> QUOTE
>
> Now Di, you are refuting every fact that has been established and with what? What evidence do you have to back up any of the allegations. DANNY IS NOT LEAVING 3ABN. He told it on the live and he just said it over at club adventist. Maybe he didn't make it plain enough for those that can't seem to comprehend that he will hold the title of CEO over 3abn. Why don't you email AF and ask them if DS is going anywhere? Because he is generous enough to allow Doug to be given the title of President of 3abn/amazingfacts, he has to now put up with this kind of grief from people who don't know what they are talking about. This has been said and said again. Contractually, neither ministry can take over the other or Danny take dougs position or Doug take Danny's position. Your remark that DS and 3abn is a liability makes no sense whatsoever. If it was a liability, AF certainly wouldn't have chosen to be a part of it. They have been a succesful ministry on their own. Why involve themselves if it was such a liability? Your desperation to believe what you want to believe is extremely pathetic.

Now she could have really said all that she needed to say without calling me anything but Di, as she began the post, Unfortunately, by the end of the post she was calling me desparate and extremely pathetic. Awesumtenor is right, she did not know me from a can of paint let alone well enough to start calling me out my name. Now, who was being invective first? She came in the door guns blazing, what do you and her expect to get in response? IOW, don't bring none and it won't be none.(.......and since you have chosen to come in basically the same way.......you might want to duck ☒ sofa1.gif However, I will personally make sure it the responses don't get out of hand.)

BTW, please do not come in all late and wrong on the tail end of the "AT did Aletheia wrong" song. It ihas already been palyed. This whole forum is on emotional overload each and everyday, and you want us to believe that that is the only "invectve" comment you found in 11 1/2 pages of posts? Boy please! This was not about Eirene at all.

And yes this IS a SDA Christian site, but you know membership is completely voluntary. Youa re welcom to sstay, but if it is not to your liking........don't let the door knob hit ya'...........

> QUOTE(Jim Larmore @ May 1 2007, 12:22 PM)
>
> Isn't this rather invective in nature? Does a lot of folks post this way here? Just curious.
>
> God Bless
> Jim Larmore

Posted by: awesumtenor May 1 2007, 02:03 PM

> QUOTE(Jim Larmore @ May 1 2007, 03:22 PM)
>
> Isn't this rather invective in nature? Does a lot of folks post this way here? Just curious.
>
> God Bless
> Jim Larmore

No you aren't... not in the least.

Keep in mind... this is not CF... so... as the urban vernacular would put it... don't start none, won't be none. If you can't hang then you'd be better served taking your Barney Fife act back to CF. There's no sophia73 to whine to here and you will reap what you sow.

In His service,
Mr. J

Posted by: mozart May 1 2007, 02:04 PM

> QUOTE(Johann @ Apr 30 2007, 03:47 PM)
>
> You are not supposed to know this, SE, and you might get sued for revealing anything about it. Just a gentle warning.

Didn't Danny say that himself Johann?

Posted by: Jnana15 May 1 2007, 02:05 PM

> QUOTE(Eirene @ Apr 30 2007, 11:00 PM)
>
> As usual Fran, your post makes very little sense. Let me give you a piece of advice. You as well as others here would do well to quit making rumors into fact.
>
> Fact 1. No one at 3abn knows what you or anyone else is talking about with this 3abn enterprise stuff. No one. Nothing has changed as far as the status of 3abn so if you got that from Joy or Pickle or Johann forget it. You definitely need new sources.
> Fact 2. Danny does not live in a mortgage free tax free home. Where on earth did you get that ridiculous lie? Actually he pays out the nose in taxes for his home as taxes are extemely high in southern illinois for no reason anybody knows.
> Fact 3. There was a jacuzzi, an outside jacuzzi but if memory serves me correctly, I believe Linda took it.
> Fact 4. I am not sure about all your rambling about vans and lifts and whatever but, I do know, that Danny purchases his own vehicles, makes the payments and they are definitely not tax free.
> Fact 5. If Danny gets any furniture, he does it like everyone else. He goes to a furniture store and buys it. Understand? If you are referring to another allegation that he took furniture meant for a 3abn set that is an out and out LIE, AGAIN. Never happened.
> As for your tirade of 500,000 dollars, I don't have a clue what you are talking about and neither do you. The only one that got close to that kind of cash was Linda.
>
> Shame on you Fran. For an accountant you aren't too smart when it comes to believing everything you read on the net. Of course bsda perpetuates that by continueing to post ficticious accusations.

Am I going nuts here? It seems that Eirene is picking up where bystander and wwjd left off...sheesh!

blc

Posted by: awesumtenor May 1 2007, 02:12 PM

> QUOTE(Jnana15 @ May 1 2007, 03:55 PM)
>
> Welcome Jim welc
>
> I would suggest that you read, READ, READ the past postings. Actually, this is the most interesting site on the Internet IMHO. No, a lot of folk do not post this way...READ! welcome.gif

Jim is not new... to either BSDA or to this thread. He is a Dannyscribe used to trolling in ponds more amenable to his perspective where he can get moderators to use their authority to deal with that which his mind is too feeble to withstand.

Don't believe the hype... his presence here is another sign of desperation in his camp... and nothing more.

In His service,
Mr. J

> QUOTE(Jnana15 @ May 1 2007, 04:05 PM)
>
> Am I going nuts here? It seems that Eirene is picking up where bystander and wwjd left off...sheesh!
>
> blc

Odds that Eirene is one or both of them evading Calvin's ban currently stand at 3:1...

place your bets...

In His service,
Mr. J

> QUOTE(Aletheia @ May 1 2007, 03:32 PM)
>
> Hi Jim,
>
> welcome.
>
> Just to clarify, because he sounds like he knows Eirene and who she does and does not know, and what she knows or does not know and how and why she is posting
>
> He doesn't.
>
> I've never met him, but I know Eirene, so I personally know for a fact that neither one has ever met the other.

fhb needs to get one of those big wind up keys for you Cindy; otherwise his hand is gonna start to cramp up from having to make your mouth move so much.

In His service,
Mr. J

Posted by: mozart May 1 2007, 02:28 PM

yeppiedo..........dem dreams iz tax free. lucky us.

Posted by: mozart May 1 2007, 02:38 PM

PRIDE COMETH BEFORE A FALL.

> QUOTE(runner4him @ May 1 2007, 09:02 AM)
>
> [
> [
> Well....as "The Satellite Turns" or I might say as [b]"The Guiding Internet" Hmmmmm
>
> There are rumors flying....and I ask this question.:..If 3ABN is supposedly hurting a "little" per DS or maybe somewhat more in the donation department per others, then why would DS or the board even let this certain family or individual stand in the wings ready to donate unlimited funds for OFFENSIVE legal action against what?? If DS is innocent then let them be about preaching the Gospel, stand up, give an honest answer without hatred and threats, reveal the truth for all to see and know....let us know about the jet...let us understand how it happened that an alledgedly accused individual could continue to be a part of a prominant organization when he is a possible danger to children or teenagers even if he might be your brother...let us also understand how donated funds are spent...how a letter could possibly come to home of viewers raising accusations and questions regarding Linda and her firing from 3ABN while the ex-partner marries quickly and informs the whole world?
>
> It is unfortunate that DS would rather avoid the obvious...humbling oneself, making all things right, speaking the truth instead of going on the offensive mode with more threats all funded by donations that could be used for the Gospel. Let us beware of powerful men in high places who think they have the right to do anything and answer to no one. We all helped put him there....Learn from this!

Posted by: Jim Larmore May 1 2007, 02:41 PM

[quote name='princessdi' date='May 1 2007, 01:59 PM' post='193767']

And yes this IS a SDA Christian site, but you know membership is completely voluntary. Youa re welcom to sstay, but if it is not to your liking........don't let the door knob hit ya'...........

Thanks for the kind introduction to your forum. I don't think your pejorative response was warranted by my post. I think as Christians who are commissioned to reflect the love of our Savior it would behoove us to do otherwise don't you? The Bible says a kind word turneth away wrath. Seems to me by what I have read here we need a lot more kind words and love here. How about it?

God Bless
Jim Larmore

Posted by: princessdi May 1 2007, 02:49 PM

But you se the problem is you neither your friend Eirene cam ehere with kind words. So now what you are saying is that you get to come in here in all your wrath and we respond with kind words. Now might the ideal, but it is not reality. Now, if you want to start all over with, "Hi my name is Jim, and I am new here at BSDA. I am looking forward to chatting and dialoging with all of you" then you mht get a different response. But no, you came in calling AT invective, and Eirene came in calling me "desparate and pathetic. However, you might be glad to know that I do know Jesus, so I am willing to start over. It's on you!

Posted by: mozart May 1 2007, 02:53 PM

AL, your post concerning Nathan was so nice and a side of you i have not seen.

on this post however you do that "allness" statements thing that makes me not listen to anything you have to say after that. there may be "a lot", "some", "most of you", etc. but never "all", "everyone here" and phrasing like that. i happend to agree with you that some people hear things and go on a tangent with it. i gloss over those like water on a duck. i wish ppl wouldn't do that because it is a waste of time and gets away from the sincerity that we "should" feel here of just seeking out the truth because we deserve to know the truth. don't know if we will ever know the truth of it all, but there are some things that must be addressed. can you agree on that? i like your sincere self better. i'd like to see more of that. blessings and let's do remember to pray for Nathan and Linda.

> QUOTE(Aletheia @ May 1 2007, 12:23 PM)
>
> rofl
>
> Yeah right. Anything that Danny Shelton has said in the past 3 years, anything which has been said on 3ABN live by himself or the board, anything which has been said by Walt Thompson in email, or that has been said by ASI, etc etc etc. Is believed by none of you 3ABN accusers here. Whole threads are devoted to picking apart every single statement and doing all you can to make them appear in the worst possible light, claiming they are liars so nothing can be believed, always surmising about the worst motives and intents of all and why they said what they said...
>
> Now you are starting in on, and evenwilling to believe evil of Doug Batchelor and insinuating things about him or surmising evil of him. because none of you seem to believe, or seem willing to consider that if he doesn't clean house and agree with your opinions and judgments against D.S. and 3ABN, and carry them out, that it could be because he knows more then you and is being led of God.
>
> Why? simply because you believe you are being led of God in this work of accusing the brethren, so obviously those who disagree with you are against God, or are decieved and not following the Lord.
>
> Sadly, I do not think the accusers of the brethren here would recognize or accept the truth or the answers if they were hit upside the head with them.
>
> To this day, I have not seen you accept one single answer from 3ABN, or anyone associated with them.
>
> edited for typo.

Posted by: awesumtenor May 1 2007, 02:56 PM

> QUOTE(Jim Larmore @ May 1 2007, 03:45 PM)
>
> Thanks Aletheia,
>
> I just wanted to find out if I was in a Christian forum or not.
>
> God Bless
> Jim Larmore

So you asked Cindy? rofl

In His service,
Mr. J

Posted by: calvin May 1 2007, 03:55 PM

> QUOTE(awesumtenor @ May 1 2007, 02:03 PM)
>
> No you aren't... not in the least.
>
> Keep in mind... this is not CF... so... as the urban vernacular would put it... don't start none, won't be none. If you can't hang then you'd be better served taking your Barney Fife act back to CF. There's no sophia73 to whine to here and you will reap what you sow.
>
> In His service,
> Mr. J

BSDA maybe more open and tolerate than other forums, but this ain't the Wild West either where anything goes. I am not going to tolerate a "don't start none, won't be none" attitude here. Kevin (Mr. J) the Danny-clones tend to bring out the worst in you. Kevin, my advice to you is to not let these folks get under your skin where you resort to using that wonderful gift you have to articulate so clearly in the written word, but you do use it as well to be unnecessarily mean-spirited.

For those of you who have made passionate pleas for me to close the 3abn forum, it is not going to happen, so you can stop asking. But I will escalate the temporary and permanent banning until I get the tone I desire for these discussions.

This post is not just a warning for Kevin, but you Aletheia and Eirene. Most everyone else can seem to participate in these discussions with being rude. I won't be looking to who started it or who is at fault, I don't care. I will start throwing people out. As far as I am concerned there is no excuse for being rude and unChristlike.

Posted by: Johann May 1 2007, 04:52 PM

> QUOTE(Aletheia @ May 1 2007, 07:56 PM)
>
> Still Mothers never stop worrying about Children no matter how old they are. I'm 45 and my Mom still worries about me. My Sons are 23, and 25, and if I don't hear from them I start worrying and praying, because often in the past that meant they had problems or were in trouble and not ready to tell me yet. Thank God my oldest who has had addiction problems also, and lives across the United States from me is keeping in close contact now, good or bad. It makes it easier to help, encourage, support, and advise. and know what to lift him up in prayer about.
>
> I am not clear here though on what is meant by "missing". Is it that Linda hasn't heard from him in 6 wks, or that he hasn't been at home, or to work and no one has heard from him? If the latter is the case, was a missing persons report filed? It seems this would have been done at least 5 weeks ago???
>
> In any case we should all pray for nathan and all involved, it would just help to know a little more to know what to pray about more specifically.

Cindy, now it sounds like you have concern like a mother. It would also be your concern if your boy was missing. Six weeks ago Linda spoke to Nathan and tried to encourage her boy out of his gloom, and she thought she had succeeded. Next thing she hears is that he has disappeared. She has sent out a missing person report with no signs of life.

Just to give you a little background, Linda lost custody of Nathan when he was 15 because she was bringing him up as an Adventist. The judge agreed with his father that he should not be tied down by the strange rules of the SDA church. I understand that at 18 Nathan wanted to return to his mother, but Danny thought it would be too much of a burden for him to have the boy at his house.

When I became acquainted with Danny and Linda it seemed certain to me that their marriage was a model Christian marriage, and I even praised them once for that on live TV during Camp Meeting when they were interviewing me.

It was not until a few months later when my wife, Irmgard, was asking Linda about her children, that I noticed how Danny reacted when Linda was talking about her son, that I realized Nathan could be a cause to break up their marriage. This was months before Linda asked Dr. Arild Abrahamsen if he could help Nathan. During this time I was praying the Lord would save their marriage.

Posted by: Daryl Fawcett May 1 2007, 05:16 PM

Welcome Jim to BlackSDA!

Will Maritime SDA OnLine be your next visit?

Posted by: Aletheia May 1 2007, 05:17 PM

> QUOTE(mozart @ May 1 2007, 04:53 PM)
>
> AL, your post concerning Nathan was so nice and a side of you i have not seen.
> on this post however you do that "allness" statements thing that makes me not listen to anything you have to say after that. there may be "a lot", "some", "most of you", etc. but never "all", "everyone here" and phrasing like that. i happend to agree with you that some people hear things and go on a tangent with it. i gloss over those like water on a duck. i wish ppl wouldn't do that because it is a waste of time and gets away from the sincerity that we "should" feel here of just seeking out the truth because we deserve to know the truth. don't know if we will ever know the truth of it all, but there are some things that must be addressed. can you agree on that? i like your sincere self better. i'd like to see more of that. blessings and let's do remember to pray for Nathan and Linda.

I do agree Nathan needs prayer, and Linda too. Actually we all do. I personally have learned it is very difficult not to love someone when you are lifting them up in prayer.

And I do think there are things that do need answered.

I don't want to be misunderstood here tho--

I was not speaking of all on BSDA, so I tried to clarify those "alls"

Truth is, there are some very nice people here, and also some here don't even come to this 3ABN forum.

To clarify, I was talking about "all" the group who are actively working with Gailon and Joy, and helping them accuse 3ABN and all ---> who are either supportive of them or associated with them. That is such a huge conspiracy, that it is not credible to me.

Danny referred to them as a small group, on 3ABN Live, and Watchbird(I think) said they are many, or some such...

IMO they are the ones who keep demanding answers, but have not and will accept anything from D.S. or 3ABN, ASI, D.B, W.T. etc. as truth, or an answer.

You can disgree with my opinion but having read what they have said and how they have argued and why, and seeing how they have reacted and are still reacting to any explanation or even a partial answer given during the past 3 plus years, and also now having seen and heard much which proves them wrong, I am not likely to change my mind about them.

Posted by: Daryl Fawcett May 1 2007, 05:24 PM

And yes, Calvin, I totally agree with what you are trying to achieve here regarding the right tone, etc., which I am also trying to achieve over at MSDAOL.

Pastor Johann,

I totally agree with you in regards to what happened between Danny and Linda regarding Linda's concern for Nathan.

The only reason I also opened up these discussions at MSDAOL, is because of the emerging of so much first-hand information, and because I felt Linda was wronged by Danny in relation to the marriage breakup, etc.

Posted by: princessdi May 1 2007, 06:10 PM

I have to apologize for my part also. I also said this to Jim Larmore in my post. So, for that I apologize. However, I stand by my word, about them coming here with guns blazing and flaming members, and expecting the respect which they did not give to anyone.

> QUOTE(calvin @ May 1 2007, 01:55 PM)
>
> BSDA maybe more open and tolerate than other forums, but this ain't the Wild West either where anything goes. I am not going to tolerate a "don't start none, won't be none" attitude here. Kevin (Mr. J) the Danny-clones tend to bring out the worst in you. Kevin, my advice to you is to not let these folks get under your skin where you resort to using that wonderful gift you have to articulate so clearly in the written word, but you do use it as well to be unnecessarily mean-spirited.
>
> For those of you who have made passionate pleas for me to close the 3abn forum, it is not going to happen, so you can stop asking. But I will escalate the temporary and permanent banning until I get the tone I desire for these discussions.
>
> This post is not just a warning for Kevin, but you Aletheia and Eirene. Most everyone else can seem to participate in these discussions with being rude. I won't be looking to who started it or who is at fault, I don't care. I will start throwing people out. As far as I am concerned there is no excuse for being rude and unChristlike.

Posted by: YogusBearus May 1 2007, 07:01 PM

> QUOTE(princessdi @ May 1 2007, 06:10 PM)
>
> I have to apologize for my part also. I also said this to Jim Larmore in my post. So, for that I apologize. However, I stand by my word, about them coming here with guns blazing and flaming members, and expecting the respect which they did not give to anyone.

Noun1.class act - someone who shows impressive and stylish excellence
Thanks for the model Di.

-bear

Posted by: PrincessDrRe May 1 2007, 07:51 PM

> QUOTE(Aletheia @ May 1 2007, 01:56 PM)
>
> ....I am not clear here though on what is meant by "missing". Is it that Linda hasn't heard from him in 6 wks, or that he hasn't been at home, or to work and no one has heard from him? If the latter is the case, was a missing persons report filed? It seems this would have been done at least 5 weeks ago???
>
> In any case we should all pray for nathan and all involved, it would just help to know a little more to know what to pray about more specifically.

Whether "missing" is two days or two months does not truly matter. MISSING is what matters. Linda requested prayer. It doesn't matter what to pray for specifically....just pray. If I asked you to pray for my health - you would not need to know specifically that I had cancer, in the left buttock, lower quadrant. You would know to "just pray" for me and mine.

> QUOTE(Jim Larmore @ May 1 2007, 03:45 PM)
>
> I just wanted to find out if I was in a Christian forum or not.
>
> God Bless
> Jim Larmore

The name of the forum could have "Christian" directly in it and not be a "CHRISTian" forum.
Moral: Read the threads (3ABN & all other topics) - then.... comment, ask questions, dialogue...you know?

BTW:
No papers received as of yet!

Posted by: princessdi May 1 2007, 08:04 PM

I agree with Re'. You know sometimes we dont' need to know everything,infact aht is most of the time, if someone asks you to pray without saying any more, because they are also a child of God, you should just pray. If you lift up Nathan's anme in Prayer, His Heavenly Father is already aware fo the problem, and Nathan's need, that who needs to know. Just pray!i I am really curious as to why you think knowing more will help, Aleitheia?

> QUOTE(PrincessDrRe @ May 1 2007, 05:51 PM)
>
> Whether "missing" is two days or two months does not truly matter. MISSING is what matters. Linda requested prayer. It doesn't matter what to pray for specifically....just pray. If I asked you to pray for my health - you would not need to know specifically that I had cancer, in the left buttock, lower quadrant. You would know to "just pray" for me and mine.

Posted by: sonshineonme May 1 2007, 08:21 PM

Missing is MISSING.

miss·ing /ˈmɪsɪŋ/ Pronunciation Key - Show Spelled Pronunciation[mis-ing] Pronunciation Key - Show IPA Pronunciation
–adjective 1. lacking, absent, or not found: a missing person.

That means NO ONE ANYWHERE has heard from him or seen him. NO ONE. EVERYONE says the same thing - have not seen him. That is what MISSING means.
That is why a MISSING persons report was filed.
Thats it. Is that clearer Aletheia?
See the prayer request forum, and also under the Whats happening with Linda thread.
What else can be said.

Posted by: Pickle May 1 2007, 08:24 PM

We return to our regular scheduled thread topic to report breaking news: Danny Shelton told the truth in his post of April 23, 2007, about the filing of a lawsuit against two people.

Gailon Arthur Joy and Robert Pickle were served papers on Monday, April 30, 2007. Case # is 07-40098FDS, and has been filed in U.S. District Court in Massachusetts, state of residence of Joy.

Documents pertaining to said case have been impounded to prevent the public from being able to view court documents. The timing of such impoundment is opportune considering the approach of Ten Commandments weekend.

The setting up of a Legal Defense Fund is being considered by a friend of the defendants.

Danny Shelton has already announced on the air and at ClubAdventist that they have started a Legal Offense Fund. We are sure that they will appreciate additional contributions to that fund.

My! What a Pickle I've gotten myself into! Why did I ever start asking questions?

I never really have cared about consequences when standing up for principle. Sure glad Jesus didn't.

Posted by: sonshineonme May 1 2007, 08:30 PM

> QUOTE(Pickle @ May 1 2007, 07:24 PM)
>
> We return to our regular scheduled thread topic to report breaking news: Danny Shelton told the truth in his post of April 23, 2007, about the filing of a lawsuit against two people.
>
> Gailon Arthur Joy and Robert Pickle were served papers on Monday, April 30, 2007. Case # is 07-40098FDS, and has been filed in U.S. District Court in Massachusetts, state of residence of Joy.
>
> Documents pertaining to said case have been impounded to prevent the public from being able to view court documents. The timing of such impoundment is opportune considering the approach of Ten Commandments weekend.
>
> The setting up of a Legal Defense Fund is being considered by a friend of the defendants.
>
> Danny Shelton has already announced on the air and at ClubAdventist that they have started a Legal Offense Fund. We are sure that they will appreciate additional contributions to that fund.

> My! What a Pickle I've gotten myself into! Why did I ever start asking questions?
>
> I never really have cared about consequences when standing up for principle. Sure glad Jesus didn't.

Glad you made this announcement. And I will be happy to contribute to yours and Gailons defense fund. I can't think of a better cause right now.

also support your standing for principle. You have nothing to fear. We all know what's really going on here.

God knows everything...that's your best defense!

Posted by: PrincessDrRe May 1 2007, 08:32 PM

Pickle - From what I have read on this site...I feel I know you.... and from the "investigations" and through-and-through reading on the "other" site....

With men it's impossible - but with GOD all things are possible..... you will prevail.

Posted by: Chez May 1 2007, 10:00 PM

> QUOTE(Pickle @ May 1 2007, 08:24 PM)
>
> We return to our regular scheduled thread topic to report breaking news: Danny Shelton told the truth in his post of April 23, 2007, about the filing of a lawsuit against two people.
>
> Gailon Arthur Joy and Robert Pickle were served papers on Monday, April 30, 2007. Case # is 07-40098FDS, and has been filed in U.S. District Court in Massachusetts, state of residence of Joy.
>
> Documents pertaining to said case have been impounded to prevent the public from being able to view court documents. The timing of such impoundment is opportune considering the approach of Ten Commandments weekend.
>
> The setting up of a Legal Defense Fund is being considered by a friend of the defendants.
>
> Danny Shelton has already announced on the air and at ClubAdventist that they have started a Legal Offense Fund. We are sure that they will appreciate additional contributions to that fund.
>
> My! What a Pickle I've gotten myself into! Why did I ever start asking questions?
>
> I never really have cared about consequences when standing up for principle. Sure glad Jesus didn't.

When did Adventist start suing each other? How is that Christlike?

Posted by: awesumtenor May 1 2007, 10:09 PM

> QUOTE(calvin @ May 1 2007, 05:55 PM)

> BSDA maybe more open and tolerate than other forums, but this ain't the Wild West either where anything goes. I am not going to tolerate a "don't start none, won't be none" attitude here. Kevin (Mr. J) the Danny-clones tend to bring out the worst in you. Kevin, my advice to you is to not let these folks get under your skin where you resort to using that wonderful gift you have to articulate so clearly in the written word, but you do use it as well to be unnecessarily mean-spirited.
>
> For those of you who have made passionate pleas for me to close the 3abn forum, it is not going to happen, so you can stop asking. But I will escalate the temporary and permanent banning until I get the tone I desire for these discussions.
>
> This post is not just a warning for Kevin, but you Aletheia and Eirene. Most everyone else can seem to participate in these discussions with being rude. I won't be looking to who started it or who is at fault, I don't care. I will start throwing people out. As far as I am concerned there is no excuse for being rude and unChristlike.

oint taken Calvin and I have already dialed it back several notches...

n His service,
r. J

Posted by: Jnana15 May 1 2007, 10:49 PM

> QUOTE(Pickle @ May 1 2007, 09:24 PM)
>
> We return to our regular scheduled thread topic to report breaking news: Danny Shelton told the truth in his post of April 23, 2007, about the filing of a lawsuit against two people.
>
> Gailon Arthur Joy and Robert Pickle were served papers on Monday, April 30, 2007. Case # is 07-40098FDS, and has been filed in U.S. District Court in Massachusetts, state of residence of Joy.
>
> Documents pertaining to said case have been impounded to prevent the public from being able to view court documents. The timing of such impoundment is opportune considering the approach of Ten Commandments weekend.
>
> The setting up of a Legal Defense Fund is being considered by a friend of the defendants.
>
> Danny Shelton has already announced on the air and at ClubAdventist that they have started a Legal Offense Fund. We are sure that they will appreciate additional contributions to that fund.
>
> My! What a Pickle I've gotten myself into! Why did I ever start asking questions?
>
> I never really have cared about consequences when standing up for principle. Sure glad Jesus didn't.

am too ashamed that Mr. Danny has resorted to suing his brotheren. Looks like Ephesians 6:12 means othing to him. sorry know that God will see you through this mess.

Posted by: Eirene May 1 2007, 11:10 PM

> QUOTE(Chez @ May 1 2007, 10:00 PM)
>
> When did Adventist start suing each other? How is that Christlike?

Well, let's see. The GC has sued other adventists several times when they have been Adventist independant ministries but because of being independant the GC didn't want the Adventist name used. There are several other situations where they have also sued. Sometimes, as in this case you are left with no choice. There are not too many people or organizations that I know of that would not bring a suit if people are bringing false allegations and slander against them. I guarantee you if Pickle and Joy had done this to the GC, they would be getting slapped with the same thing. As we have all saw on the net, they have been asked to stop, they were told there would be repercussions but no one listened. What do you expect them to do? Just let them continue to destroy God's ministry with many unverified accusations?

Posted by: LaurenceD May 1 2007, 11:31 PM

There may be more truth to what you are saying than you realize, Eirene. When people lose sight of the real mission, and lose the connection with Christ and lose sight of his original purpose, and the mammon of unrighteousness has found a home with the cold calculated logical heart, there may be no choice but for so-called Christians to go to the law to settle their differences. Christ had nothing to lose by turning the other cheek in light of accusations, but you have everything to lose. Best save the business.

Posted by: beartrap May 1 2007, 11:35 PM

2Samuel 6:6-7

Posted by: Eirene May 1 2007, 11:54 PM

> QUOTE(LaurenceD @ May 1 2007, 11:31 PM)
>
> There may be more truth to what you are saying than you realize, Eirene. When people lose sight of the real mission, and lose the connection with Christ and lose sight of his original purpose, and the mammon of unrighteousness has found a home with the cold calculated logical heart, there may be no choice but for so-called Christians to go to the law to settle their differences. Christ had nothing to lose by turning the other cheek in light of accusations, but you have everything to lose. Best save the business.

There may be more truth to what you are saying than you realize Laurence. Yes I am sad to say Pickle and Joy did lose site of what they say they started out to do and because of that, it would seem they did lose their connection with Christ. So you are right. Sometime christians are forced to go to the law with their differences. Where you are wrong is that there is not a "business" to lose. It is a ministry of saving souls. Souls are what can be lost here. The souls that might not be reached except through the far reaches of 3abn and the souls that are in jeopardy because of the allegations and out right lies people have told on the ministry and it's personal.
And BTW Laurence, aren't you one of those who said you didn't think 3abn would bring a suit because they couldn't "risk" the "truth" coming out?
MMMhh Guess they are not afraid of "truth" afterall.

Posted by: LaurenceD May 2 2007, 12:15 AM

In spite of the youthful pretention, Eirene, I'm sure you haven't missed the point, nor the parallel. And I'm sure you know who actually went to the law to settle these differences. And no, your memory appears to have been influenced by your partisanship. What I didn't say has not served you well.

Posted by: Eirene May 2 2007, 01:03 AM

> QUOTE(LaurenceD @ May 2 2007, 12:15 AM) ☐
>
> In spite of the youthful pretention, Eirene, I'm sure you haven't missed the point, nor the parallel. And I'm sure you know who actually went to the law to settle these differences. And no, your memory appears to have been influenced by your partisanship. What I didn't say has not served you well.

And I am quite sure you haven't missed the point. Yes Pickle pointed out who went to the law. You see, it is the party being slandered and lied about that "goes to the law" as you put it. The one doing the slandering does not go to the "law" because you see, they are breaking the law. So, the injured party is the one that "goes to the law", as a last resort of course, when the slanderers refuse to stop breaking the law.
As for my memory, I ask if you were one of the people because I wasn't completely sure without going back and reading all of your posts which I would just as soon, not do. But maybe I should because I am sure, that in the past, you have made several snide remarks alluding to a lawsuit by 3abn as well as many other topics concerning that ministry. And yet, I have seen nothing from you to back up the hints and innuendo's you have consistently made. You say I am influenced by my partisanship. Well at least I am influenced from things I have seen and heard with my own eyes and ears, as opposed to you who believes what you read on the net and the gossip you discuss with others. That is a sad way to come to your "conclusions."

Posted by: mozart May 2 2007, 01:18 AM

> QUOTE(Eirene @ May 1 2007, 11:54 PM) ☐
>
> There may be more truth to what you are saying than you realize Laurence. Yes I am sad to say Pickle and Joy did lose site of what they say they started out to do and because of that, it would seem they did lose their connection with Christ. So you are right. Sometime christians are forced to go to the law with their differences. Where you are wrong is that there is not a "business" to lose. It is a ministry of saving souls. Souls are what can be lost here. The souls that might not be reached except through the far reaches of 3abn and the souls that are in jeopardy because of the allegations and out right lies people have told on the ministry and it's personal.
> And BTW Laurence, aren't you one of those who said you didn't think 3abn would bring a suit because they couldn't "risk" the "truth" coming out?
> MMMhh Guess they are not afraid of "truth" afterall.

well, there is no doubt they are afraid of the truth coming out otherwise they wouldn't have railroaded Linda into signing a "gag" order. the moneyman/men are playing the game of who can afford the best and most lawyers. so the moneyman/men have made it possible for DS to sue people who may or may not have the funds to defend themselves. who may or may not be guilty of any wrongdoing. that doesn't make it right and it doesn't make DS right or truthful. it just means they have more money to spend on lawsuits. a person defending themselves has to pay the lawyer they hire whether they are right or wrong, guilty or innocent. whenever this does go to court i hope the defendents countersue for damages and court and attorney fees. by doing this DS is really pushing others to get aggressive too, however and that may open a whole case of cans of worms he never expected. wonder if he ever thought that his doing this might get TS in more trouble? have they thought of that aspect? and also in doing this, the national media might take more notice. then what? we all lose. the ministry of saving souls is what DS has put in jeopardy himself, by not stepping aside during this time of trouble. if he would have gotten out of the limelight of "the ministry", the ministry would be doing a lot better, but because he has thought of himself ahead of the ministry he has hurt the ministry a great deal. this is where i find him most guilty. he's not doing what's best for 3ABN. he's doing what is best for him.
instead of reaching the world with the 3 angels messages, he has been reaching the world with propaganda for himself and slander for others. that is not what "the ministry for saving souls" is for is it? rhetorical question obviously. God will deal with him and others on that issue as well as others.

there will no doubt be many lawsuits. this is just the beginning, but if the state gets involved further, if they get aggressive, then DS could find himself in a lot hotter seat than he is now. i don't know what all he is guilty of; i suppose we may never know, but i do know this. in my court, he has played risk with "the ministry for saving souls" and used it for his own purposes lately. that, without question, makes him wrong on the #1 count to me.
as for pickle and joy, i don't know of any laws that prohibit you from posting public documents on a website.
as for DS, etal. ; anybody that needs a boatload of attorneys to prove their case, sure appears guilty of something. they may win in court. i doubt it. but if they do, it still doesn't make them innocent.
history is full of martyrs who have questioned injustice.
BTW, do you think there is any possibility that 3ABN might consider using their power and worldwide network aimed at "mending broken people" for good and ask Linda if she would like their help in getting the word out to all the world to help find her missing son?

> QUOTE(Eirene @ May 2 2007, 01:03 AM)
>
> And I am quite sure you haven't missed the point. Yes Pickle pointed out who went to the law. You see, it is the party being slandered and lied about that "goes to the law" as you put it. The one doing the slandering does not go to the "law" because you see, they are breaking the law. So, the injured party is the one that "goes to the law", as a last resort of course, when the slanderers refuse to stop breaking the law.
> As for my memory, I ask if you were one of the people because I wasn't completely sure without going back and reading all of your posts which I would just as soon, not do. But maybe I should because I am sure, that in the past, you have made several snide remarks alluding to a lawsuit by 3abn as well as many other topics concerning that ministry. And yet, I have seen nothing from you to back up the hints and innuendo's you have consistently made. You say I am influenced by my partisanship. Well at least I am influenced from things I have seen and heard with my own eyes and ears, as opposed to you who believes what you read on the net and the gossip you discuss with others. That is a sad way to come to your "conclusions."

Eirene, you are talking out of your pointed hat. LaurenceD is one of the kindest people on here. the things he has said, are honey compared to your vinegar. i recommend that you do go back and read his post. you might learn something about character.

Posted by: ex3ABNemployee May 2 2007, 01:25 AM

> QUOTE(mozart @ May 2 2007, 01:18 AM)
>
> well, there is no doubt they are afraid of the truth coming out otherwise they wouldn't have railroaded Linda into signing a "gag" order.

...and now they want information withheld on these lawsuits. What do they have to hide? One must wonder...

I also wonder how this is going to affect the merger ploy. Is Amazing Facts going to sign on to these lawsuits?

I don't think Danny and crew thought this one through very well at all. I can see this getting very messy for them.

Time will tell.

☒ sn

Posted by: Johann May 2 2007, 04:03 AM

> QUOTE(beartrap @ May 2 2007, 07:35 AM) ☐
>
> 2Samuel 6:6-7

The word of God is sharper than a two-edged sword . . .

Posted by: Pickle May 2 2007, 04:22 AM

> QUOTE(Eirene @ May 1 2007, 11:10 PM) ☐
>
> The GC has sued other adventists several times when they have been Adventist independant ministries but because of being independant the GC didn't want the Adventist name used.

Aren't you being a bit inaccurate here? Aren't you really talking about times when the General Conference of Seventh-day Adventists asked entities that were not part of the Seventh-day Adventist Church to stop calling their congregation a Seventh-day Adventist church?

> QUOTE(Eirene @ May 1 2007, 11:10 PM) ☐
> I guarantee you if Pickle and Joy had done this to the GC, they would be getting slapped with the same thing. As we have all saw on the net, they have been asked to stop, they were told there would be repercussions but no one listened.

Could you please cite examples where I have received requests to stop or notices of potential repercussions on the net from 3ABN or any of its employees, officers, or directors? Can you cite just one?

Posted by: Observer May 2 2007, 04:42 AM

I need to correct a minor technical error in a post that Bob Pickle made:

If you wish to search the records of the U.S. District Court in Massachusets, you will find the case filed under:

07-40098

Once you locate the case, you will be told that it has been sealed by the court, not impounded.

You will need to search for it exactly as I have listed it, not as Bob listed it. As he is not an attorney, please overlook the above technical errors.

Posted by: Pickle May 2 2007, 04:49 AM

I think impounded and sealed must be related terms.

Was wondering if FDS should be attached, even though the papers I received suggested that it should be.

Posted by: Observer May 2 2007, 06:20 AM

> QUOTE(Observer @ May 2 2007, 03:42 AM)
>
> I need to correct a minor technical error in a post that Bob Pickle made:
>
> If you wish to search the records of the U.S. District Court in Massachusets, you will find the case filed under:
>
> 07-40098
>
> Once you locate the case, you will be told that it has been sealed by the court, not impounded.
>
> You will need to search for it exactly as I have listed it, not as Bob listed it. As he is not an attorney, please overlook the above technical errors.

It is with mixed feelings that I hear the news of this lawsuit:

1) I have stated a number of times that some of the issues could only be settled by the civil courts. So, I do have a sense of relief that some of these issues may now be settled. However, no single lawsuit can settle them all. If all are to be settled, there will need to be other lawsuits.

2) It is also with a sense of sadness. If these lawsuits develop as I think they may, all parties will be in for a rough ride. Litigation is typically not easy on any party.

3) As the filed documents are sealed, I do not know the alligations that have been filed. On the simplist level, the charges likely involve trademark and copyright isseus. This is an area that clearly belongs in the civil courts. The church is not properly able to settle this issue.

Well, we are just going to have to wait and see.

Gregory Matthews

Posted by: LaurenceD May 2 2007, 08:14 AM

> QUOTE(Eirene @ May 2 2007, 01:03 AM)
>
> And I am quite sure you haven't missed the point. Yes Pickle pointed out who went to the law. You see, it is the party being slandered and lied about that "goes to the law" as you put it. The one doing the slandering does not go to the "law" because you see, they are breaking the law. So, the injured party is the one that "goes to the law", as a last resort of course, when the slanderers refuse to stop breaking the law.
> As for my memory, I ask if you were one of the people because I wasn't completely sure without going back and reading all of your posts which I would just as soon, not do. But maybe I should because I am sure, that in the past, you have made several snide remarks alluding to a lawsuit by 3abn as well as many other topics concerning that ministry. And yet, I have seen nothing from you to back up the hints and innuendo's you have consistently made. You say I am influenced by my partisanship. Well at least I am influenced from things I have seen and heard with my own eyes and ears, as opposed to you who believes what you read on the net and the gossip you discuss with others. That is a sad way to come to your ou're having a bad day, Eirene.

> "conclusions."

t was Christ who was taken before the Sanhedrin court, and before Pilate...not Christ taking others to court.

Posted by: Grith May 2 2007, 08:47 AM

> QUOTE
>
> When troubles arise in the church we should not go for help to lawyers not of our faith. God does not desire us to open church difficulties before those who do not fear Him. He would not have us depend for help on those who do not obey His requirements. Those who trust in such counselors show that they have not faith in God. By their lack of faith the Lord is greatly dishonored, and their course works great injury to themselves. In appealing to unbelievers to settle difficulties in the church they are biting and devouring one another, to be "consumed one of another" (Gal. 5:15). {3SM 299.1}
>
> These men cast aside the counsel God has given, and do the very things He has bidden them not to do. They show that they have chosen the world as their judge, and in heaven their names are registered as one with unbelievers. Christ is crucified afresh, and put to open shame. Let these men know that God does not hear their prayers. They insult His holy name, and He will leave them to the buffetings of Satan until they shall see their folly and seek the Lord by confession of their sin. {3SM 299.2}
>
> Matters connected with the church are to be kept within its own borders. If a Christian is abused, he is to take it patiently; if defrauded, he is not to appeal to courts of justice. Rather let him suffer loss and wrong. {3SM 299.3}
>
> God will deal with the unworthy church member who defrauds his brother or the cause of God; the Christian need not contend for his rights. God will deal with the one who violates these rights. "Vengeance is mine, I will repay, saith the Lord." Rom. 12:19. An account is kept of all these matters, and for all the Lord declares that He will avenge. He will bring every work into judgment. {3SM 300.1} (emphasis is mine) od has a way of dealing with things in ways we don't dream of. God is still in charge. Those who set out to estroy others will find that it turns back on themselves. The trap they set for others entraps them. God says engence is His and He will repay. Now we watch and see what God reveals.

> QUOTE
>
> For God shall bring every work into judgment, with every secret thing, whether it be good, or whether it be evil. Ecclesiastes 12:14

Posted by: Shiny Penny May 2 2007, 09:12 AM

> QUOTE(Pickle @ May 2 2007, 03:22 AM)
>
> Aren't you being a bit inaccurate here? Aren't you really talking about times when the General Conference of Seventh-day Adventists asked entities that were not part of the Seventh-day Adventist Church to stop calling their congregation a Seventh-day Adventist church?
> Could you please cite examples where I have received requests to stop or notices of potential repercussions on the net from 3ABN or any of its employees, officers, or directors? Can you cite just one?

hether or not you've been requested to or not, I don't know. But Mr Joy has been and he's put the letter onto his website. Has the request stopped him? Apparently not. Can we suppose that if you had been asked you would have graciously ceased?

Posted by: Whtz Happenin May 2 2007, 10:01 AM

> QUOTE(Eirene @ May 2 2007, 01:54 AM)
>
> ...
> Sometime christians are forced to go to the law with their differences.
> ...
> And BTW Laurence, aren't you one of those who said you didn't think 3abn would bring a suit because they couldn't "risk" the "truth" coming out?
> MMMhh Guess they are not afraid of "truth" afterall.

One who is not afraid of the "truth" coming out, does not need the help of the courts to bring the "truth" out. This is a sign of attempting to go on the offense to avoid the "truth" coming out. This lawsuit has FEAR written all over it. And I am not referring to the fear of the Lord.

> QUOTE(Eirene @ May 2 2007, 03:03 AM)
>
> ...
> So, the injured party is the one that "goes to the law", as a last resort of course, when the slanderers refuse to stop breaking the law.
> ...

"As a last resort"?????
Hmmm, what happened to being transparent? What happened to presenting evidence to prove the truth of the matter? Oh, and what happened to letting the Lord fight their battles?

It would seem that "as a last resort" would come after being very transparent and open about the many, many questions and doing everything possible to bring light onto the scene.

IMO, this unnecessary lawsuit is going to be about attempting to discredit Mr. Pickle and Mr. Joy in order to completely avoid the extremely important issues at hand.

And sadly this is all because of PRIDE, as in too proud for the world to know the TRUTH.

"Pride goes before destruction, and a haughty spirit before a fall." Proverbs 16:18

Webster defines Pride as:

1. Inordinate (exceeding reasonable limits or excessive) self-esteem, Conceit (excessive appreciation of one's own worth or virtue)
2. Proud or disdainful behavior or treatment. Disdain (a feeling of contempt for what is beneath one, Scorn), Contempt (lack of respect or reverence for something)
3. Ostentatious display. Ostentatious (marked by or fond of conspicuous or vainglorious and sometimes pretentious display.)

Is the pride worth what it will cost many? And it will cost many.

Posted by: LaurenceD May 2 2007, 10:03 AM

> QUOTE(Shiny Penny)
>
> Whether or not you've been requested to or not, I don't know. But Mr Joy has been and he's put the letter onto his website. Has the request stopped him? Apparently not. Can we suppose that if you had been asked you would have graciously ceased?

It make you look really bad to even request that someone graciously cease from probing and bringing new information to light.

When someone apparently has something to hide, such as 3abn (the evidence, etc), and the observers/donars are left to guess and fill in the blanks, there's a fundamental principle you may profit from by learning: there's no safety in silence or agreement. You open up for debate. You prepare yourself to give an answer for everything requested from you. To try and hush those who are left to sort out the truth for themselves sends the wrong signal. What's important is that we get the full picture. It may not be helpful to you or your business, but it's only fair to hear both sides.

Posted by: LaurenceD May 2 2007, 10:26 AM

Grith...excellent quotes posted above!

Only thing is, if one's better judgement has been clouded by power, stardom, and the mammon of unrighteousness, those quotes will mean nothing. They'll get twisted around to suit the business end of things.

Posted by: lurker May 2 2007, 10:44 AM

I was interested in the trademark aspect so I did a Yahoo search for trademark and Seventh-day Adventist Church and came up with: http://tinyurl.com/2ljbhm Interesting.

But as to 3ABN, there are other entities that use the ABN part of the name. Because I also googled ABN and came up with other stuff. I don't see where putting a 3 on the front of it makes that much difference. The big boys usually try to throw their weight around but you don't get all these other ABN's sueing 3ABN for using that combination. And I'm sure they could. Maybe they don't see 3ABN as being anything.

I am reminded of the parable where a debtor was forgiven a large sum and then turned around and went after someone who owed him a small sum.

Posted by: Shiny Penny May 2 2007, 11:13 AM

> QUOTE(LaurenceD @ May 2 2007, 09:03 AM)
>
> It make you look really bad to even request that someone graciously cease from probing and bringing new information to light.
>
> When someone apparently has something to hide, such as 3abn (the evidence, etc), and the observers/donars are left to guess and fill in the blanks, there's a fundamental principle you may profit from by learning: there's no safety in silence or agreement. You open up for debate. You prepare yourself to give an answer for everything requested from you. To try and hush those who are left to sort out the truth for themselves sends the wrong signal. What's important is that we get the full picture. It may not be helpful to you or your business, but it's only fair to hear both sides.

Excuse me? I have not requested anything. Pickle himself said "Could you please cite examples where I have received requests to stop or notices of potential repercussions on the net from 3ABN or any of its employees, officers, or directors? Can you cite just one?"

If Pickle had received a request would he have obliged? That was my question. If the answer is no - then so be it. However, I find it rather ungracious of you to come out guns ablazing at me. I asked a question. You went into a tirade because you didn't like the question. Is that the way things are done around here?

Posted by: Whtz Happenin May 2 2007, 11:25 AM

> QUOTE(Whtz Happenin @ May 2 2007, 12:01 PM)
>
> One who is not afraid of the "truth" coming out, does not need the help of the courts to bring the "truth" out. This is a sign of attempting to go on the offense to avoid the "truth" coming out. This lawsuit has FEAR written all over it. And I am not referring to the fear of the Lord.
>
> "As a last resort"?????
> Hmmm, what happened to being transparent? What happened to presenting evidence to prove the truth of the matter? Oh, and what happened to letting the Lord fight their battles?
>
> It would seem that "as a last resort" would come after being very transparent and open about the many, many questions and doing everything possible to bring light onto the scene.
>
> IMO, this unnecessary lawsuit is going to be about attempting to discredit Mr. Pickle and Mr. Joy in order to completely avoid the extremely important issues at hand.
>
> And sadly this is all because of PRIDE, as in too proud for the world to know the TRUTH.
>
> "Pride goes before destruction, and a haughty spirit before a fall." Proverbs 16:18
>
> Webster defines Pride as:
>
> 1. Inordinate (exceeding reasonable limits or excessive) self-esteem, Conceit (excessive appreciation of one's own worth or virtue)
> 2. Proud or disdainful behavior or treatment. Disdain (a feeling of contempt for what is beneath one, Scorn), Contempt (lack of respect or reverence for something)
> 3. Ostentatious display. Ostentatious (marked by or fond of conspicuous or vainglorious and sometimes pretentious display.)
>
> Is the pride worth what it will cost many? And it will cost many.

After I made the post above, I found the following article that sums up pride very well:

"The Addiction To Pride" by Hal Steenson, 3ABN World, September 2006

http://www.3abn.org/pdf/world/3ABN-World-2006-09.pdf

Posted by: ex3ABNemployee May 2 2007, 12:02 PM

> QUOTE(Shiny Penny @ May 2 2007, 11:13 AM) ☐
>
> Excuse me? I have not requested anything. Pickle himself said "Could you please cite examples where I have received requests to stop or notices of potential repercussions on the net from 3ABN or any of its employees, officers, or directors? Can you cite just one?"
>
> If Pickle had received a request would he have obliged? That was my question. If the answer is no - then so be it. However, I find it rather ungracious of you to come out guns ablazing at me. I asked a question. You went into a tirade because you didn't like the question. Is that the way things are done around here?

LaurenceD was speaking about the lawsuit being filed because Danny and company don't want questions being asked. His comments were not directed toward you personally.

As far as "gun ablazing", it appears that YOU are already going after people, on your SECOND post.

That's NOT the way things are done around here.

> QUOTE(Whtz Happenin @ May 2 2007, 10:01 AM) ☐
>
> One who is not afraid of the "truth" coming out, does not need the help of the courts to bring the "truth" out. This is a sign of attempting to go on the offense to avoid the "truth" coming out. This lawsuit has FEAR written all over it. And I am not referring to the fear of the Lord.
>
> "As a last resort"?????
> Hmmm, what happened to being transparent? What happened to presenting evidence to prove the truth of the matter? Oh, and what happened to letting the Lord fight their battles?
>
> It would seem that "as a last resort" would come after being very transparent and open about the many, many questions and doing everything possible to bring light onto the scene.
>
> IMO, this unnecessary lawsuit is going to be about attempting to discredit Mr. Pickle and Mr. Joy in order to completely avoid the extremely important issues at hand.
>
> And sadly this is all because of PRIDE, as in too proud for the world to know the TRUTH.
>
> "Pride goes before destruction, and a haughty spirit before a fall." Proverbs 16:18
>
> Webster defines Pride as:
>
> 1. Inordinate (exceeding reasonable limits or excessive) self-esteem, Conceit (excessive appreciation of one's own worth or virtue)
> 2. Proud or disdainful behavior or treatment. Disdain (a feeling of contempt for what is beneath one, Scorn), Contempt (lack of respect or reverence for something)
> 3. Ostentatious display. Ostentatious (marked by or fond of conspicuous or vainglorious and sometimes pretentious display.)
>
> Is the pride worth what it will cost many? And it will cost many.

I agree. This appears to be just another attempt at bullying folks into silence.

Posted by: Jnana15 May 2 2007, 12:05 PM

> QUOTE(Shiny Penny @ May 2 2007, 12:13 PM) ☐

> Excuse me? I have not requested anything. Pickle himself said "Could you please cite examples where I have received requests to stop or notices of potential repercussions on the net from 3ABN or any of its employees, officers, or directors? Can you cite just one?"
>
> If Pickle had received a request would he have obliged? That was my question. If the answer is no - then so be it. However, I find it rather ungracious of you to come out guns ablazing at me. I asked a question. You went into a tirade because you didn't like the question. Is that the way things are done around here?

irst of all, welcome.gif Newbie as of today.

econd, you don't even know LaurenceD and haven't been here long enough to accuse him of a "tirade", nless you have been a lurker on this thread and reading the post for quite some time. I find him to be traight forward and honest with his posts. JMHO

Posted by: runner4him May 2 2007, 12:08 PM

> QUOTE(Grith @ May 2 2007, 08:47 AM)
>
> God has a way of dealing with things in ways we don't dream of. God is still in charge. Those who set out to destroy others will find that it turns back on themselves. The trap they set for others entraps them. God says vengence is His and He will repay. Now we watch and see what God reveals.

u] men to your quotes above from 3 Selected Messages...actually I was just getting ready to post the very ame section....below are a few thoughts beginning on page 299 for those of you who would like to read more n the topic regarding lawsuits within the church or disputes between brothers or sisters of the faith. I have lways believed that Christians are strongly counseled against going on the offensive and turning to the orldly court system. How sad that 3ABN is taking this route...denying the requests for clarity on critical ssues that greatly concern all of us who have been supporters. We are the ones who have sent our many ollars in blind faith. We are the ones who still care about the real Gospel and the preaching of His ord....but we have real concerns and many questions....about how funds are used...about marrying and iving in marriage without Biblical grounds...about alleged abuse...now about lawsuits....about misused unds? Still waiting and still no answers from DS. Is the word now that we question nothing, ask nothing, xpect nothing, do nothing...just send $$?

> QUOTE
>
> Those who trust in such counselors show that they have not faith in God. By their lack of faith the Lord is greatly dishonored, and their course works great injury to themselves......
> "These men cast aside the counsel God has given, and do the very things He has bidden them not to do. They show that they have chosen the world as their judge, and in heaven their names are registered as one with unbelievers. Christ is crucified afresh, and put to open shame. Let these men know that God does not hear their prayers. They insult His holy name, and He will leave them to the buffetings of Satan until they shall see their folly and seek the Lord by confession of their sin.... The interests of the cause of God are not to be committed to men who have no connection with heaven. Those who are disloyal to God cannot be safe counselors. They have not that wisdom which comes from above. They are not to be trusted to pass judgment in matters connected with God's cause, matters upon which such great results depend. If we follow their judgment, we shall surely be brought into very difficult places, and shall retard the work of God.
> This action, of appealing to human courts, never before entered into by Seventh-day Adventists, has now been done. God has permitted this that you who have been deceived may understand what power is controlling those who have had entrusted to them great responsibilities. Where are God's sentinels? Where are the men who will stand shoulder to shoulder, heart to heart, with the truth, present truth for this time, in possession of the heart?--Manuscript 64, 1898."

Posted by: LaurenceD May 2 2007, 01:09 PM

> QUOTE(Shiny Penny @ May 2 2007, 11:13 AM)
>
> Excuse me? I have not requested anything. Pickle himself said "Could you please cite examples where I have received requests to stop or notices of potential repercussions on the net from 3ABN or any of its employees, officers, or directors? Can you cite just one?"
>
> If Pickle had received a request would he have obliged? That was my question. If the answer is no - then so be it. However, I find it rather ungracious of you to come out guns ablazing at me. I asked a question. You went into a tirade because you didn't like the question. Is that the way things are done around here?

"Exuse me?" Now there's an expression I haven't seen for some time. Lee used it quite often and opened a lot of her posts with those very same words. She's not around anymore...at least to my knowledge.

Ex- explained it pretty good above. I realize everything seems out of proportion when things are going wrong (bigger than life) but what seemed like guns ablazing to you was really only youthful rubberbands...in hopes you would see there is a much broader issue implied in your opening statement. But maybe that's stretching it a bit.

Like I mentioned to Jim Laremore yesterday, we're a little skeptical around here due to so many people getting suspended...only to reappear under a new username. We're always interested in how newbies view the various 3abn issues, and problems, and how you came to agree with one side or the other. Care to share? Many of us shared our story when we first arrived at BSDA.

Posted by: Jim Larmore May 2 2007, 01:20 PM

> QUOTE(Daryl Fawcett @ May 1 2007, 06:16 PM)
>
> Welcome Jim to BlackSDA!
>
> Will Maritime SDA OnLine be your next visit?

I hope things are much more friendly over there than they are here. I don't think , from what I have read on this particular part of this forum (if it's all like this) , that the spirit of Christ abides here at all. I certainly won't let the door knob hit me as I've been warned about . Actually the word invective is being rather gracious Princessdi. Awesometenor or Mr. J which ever applies seems to have some major issues and may need to seek some help for anger management. To allow his level of vitriol to continue unabated here shows the quality and level of Christian moderation here is either non-existent or severely lacking.

To answer your question though I wouldn't mind checking your web-site out as long it's not anything like this. I lurked here for a long time and never posted . I doubt if I'll be back.

God Bless you all and I certainly hope you allow the Holy Spirit into your lives soon.

Jim Larmore

Posted by: Pickle May 2 2007, 01:37 PM

Pass the Pickle relish.

Posted by: runner4him May 2 2007, 01:51 PM

> QUOTE(Jim Larmore @ May 2 2007, 01:20 PM)
>
> I hope things are much more friendly over there than they are here. I don't think , from what I have read on this particular part of this forum (if it's all like this) , that the spirit of Christ abides here at all. I certainly won't let the door knob hit me as I've been warned about . Actually the word invective is being rather gracious Princessdi. Awesometenor or Mr. J which ever applies seems to have some major issues and may need to seek some help for anger management. To allow his level of vitriol to continue unabated here shows the quality and level of Christian moderation here is either non-existent or severely lacking.
>
> To answer your question though I wouldn't mind checking your web-site out as long it's not anything like this. I lurked here for a long time and never posted . I doubt if I'll be back.
>
> God Bless you all and I certainly hope you allow the Holy Spirit into your lives soon.
>
> Jim Larmore

Don't know you but I can speak as a Newbie....I have not been here very long (truthly I am not a clone but I get the idea there are some clones around) . I must say I really like the climate and feel very welcome here! It seems to me that you are making rash general statements when you say things like "I certainly hope you allow the Holy Spirit into your lives soon. " I will agree with you that some seem to demonstrate some hostility....like that person who calls herself or himself Eirene...I have never seen that spelling before and not sure how to pronounce it. Anyway I will agree that you might find some anger issues if he/she does not like your post but from my view most people try really hard to be tolerant and to discuss openly and kindly when they might disagree with a posting. I will say that that Eirene person does seem to claim to have a lot of first hand information...maybe she travels a lot and gets around.

> QUOTE(Pickle @ May 2 2007, 01:37 PM)
>
> Pass the Pickle relish.

I love Pickles especially the Kosher ones...Dill and Garlic.

Not sure what that meant about "Pass the Pickle relish" but I had to comment.

It is a beautiful day here with the sun shinning! God is good and the truth shall make you free!

Posted by: mozart May 2 2007, 01:54 PM

> QUOTE(Whtz Happenin @ May 2 2007, 09:01 AM)
>
> IMO, this unnecessary lawsuit is going to be about attempting to discredit Mr. Pickle and Mr. Joy in order to completely avoid the extremely important issues at hand.

> EXACTLY ! this is a tactic to censor. if DS had nothing to hide, if he had no quilt or anything to be ashamed of, then he wouldn't care what joy or pickle or anyone else did or said because THE PEOPLE would be able to see the truth. are we morons? Does God not give us discernment? most ppl can add 2 + 2 can't they? DS is hot because joy and pickle have body slammed him and he can't handle it with truth and grace because truth and grace does not abound within him anymore. maybe it never did, i don't know. i know i trusted and respected him for a long time and it's not what i've seen on the net that has convinced me otherwise. it is what i have seen from he, himself; it is the impressions i have gotten from him and those who surround him. it is the impression i got when i met him and asked about my $1000. designated donation for the India cable station. i knew in my heart he was not being honest with me but telling me what i wanted to hear; just trying to appease me. 'trust me, he says". after a while, you can't.
> i think even better than donating to a legal defense fund, we should show up at the courthouse and BE the defense fund. (what a trip that would be)
>
> And sadly this is all because of PRIDE, as in too proud for the world to know the TRUTH.
>
> "Pride goes before destruction, and a haughty spirit before a fall." Proverbs 16:18
>
> Webster defines Pride as:
>
> 1. Inordinate (exceeding reasonable limits or excessive) self-esteem, Conceit (excessive appreciation of one's own worth or virtue)
> 2. Proud or disdainful behavior or treatment. Disdain (a feeling of contempt for what is beneath one, Scorn), Contempt (lack of respect or reverence for something)
> 3. Ostentatious display. Ostentatious (marked by or fond of conspicuous or vainglorious and sometimes pretentious display.)
>
> Is the pride worth what it will cost many? And it will cost many.

Posted by: awesumtenor May 2 2007, 02:05 PM

> QUOTE(Shiny Penny @ May 2 2007, 01:13 PM)
>
> If Pickle had received a request would he have obliged? That was my question.

n asking it, you ignore Pickle's question, however... before asking your own, his question deserves an nswer.

an you cite such a request? If there is none you can cite and if ceasing and desisting was so important to hose who feel so slighted, can you explain why said request was not made?

f you cannot cite such a request, can you explain why you are trying to impugn him for not complying with n unstated request?

n His service,
r. J

> QUOTE(runner4him @ May 2 2007, 03:51 PM)

> I will say that that Eirene person does seem to claim to have a lot of first hand information...maybe she travels a lot and gets around.

nust...resist...

Posted by: mozart May 2 2007, 02:12 PM

> QUOTE(Jim Larmore @ May 2 2007, 12:20 PM)
>
> I hope things are much more friendly over there than they are here. I don't think , from what I have read on this particular part of this forum (if it's all like this) , that the spirit of Christ abides here at all. I certainly won't let the door knob hit me as I've been warned about . Actually the word invective is being rather gracious Princessdi. Awesometenor or Mr. J which ever applies seems to have some major issues and may need to seek some help for anger management. To allow his level of vitriol to continue unabated here shows the quality and level of Christian moderation here is either non-existent or severely lacking.
>
> To answer your question though I wouldn't mind checking your web-site out as long it's not anything like this. I lurked here for a long time and never posted . I doubt if I'll be back. how many times have we heard that over on CF. but his self-righteous self keeps returning. i guess he missed PDi's admission that weez jist heathens. rofl soz, my bad.
>
> God Bless you all and I certainly hope you allow the Holy Spirit into your lives soon.
>
> Jim Larmore

> QUOTE(Pickle @ May 2 2007, 12:37 PM)
>
> Pass the Pickle relish.

loes it go well with CORN?

> QUOTE(awesumtenor @ May 2 2007, 01:05 PM)
>
> must...resist...

rofl rofl better to bang one's own head than to get it banged? rofl aww...ur doing o well MR.J

Posted by: princessdi May 2 2007, 02:13 PM

So, you haven't read the subsequent posts where the rest of us apologized and made nice? Don't you think you should read thembefore you go, at lest to be fair. I am sure you feel you have allowed the HS into your life, right? Then, God's long suffering and forgiveness should abide in your heart, Am I not correct?

Nowever, I don't think you ever came here to dialogue with us. I believe you came to "get" Awsumtenor for what he said(and had apologized for days earlier) to Aleitheia. I dont' thinkyou ever intended on being fair. Correct me if I am wrong.

> QUOTE(Jim Larmore @ May 2 2007, 11:20 AM)
>
> I hope things are much more friendly over there than they are here. I don't think , from what I have read on this particular part of this forum (if it's all like this) , that the spirit of Christ abides here at all. I certainly won't let the door knob hit me as I've been warned about . Actually the word invective is being rather gracious Princessdi. Awesometenor or Mr. J which ever applies seems to have some major issues and may need to seek some help for anger management. To allow his level of vitriol to continue unabated here shows the quality and level of Christian moderation here is either non-existent or severely lacking.
>
> To answer your question though I wouldn't mind checking your web-site out as long it's not anything like this. I lurked here for a long time and never posted . I doubt if I'll be back.
>
> God Bless you all and I certainly hope you allow the Holy Spirit into your lives soon.
>
> Jim Larmore

Posted by: awesumtenor May 2 2007, 02:18 PM

> QUOTE(Jim Larmore @ May 2 2007, 03:20 PM)
>
> I hope things are much more friendly over there than they are here. I don't think , from what I have read on this particular part of this forum (if it's all like this) , that the spirit of Christ abides here at all. I certainly won't let the door knob hit me as I've been warned about . Actually the word invective is being rather gracious Princessdi. Awesometenor or Mr. J which ever applies seems to have some major issues and may need to seek some help for anger management. To allow his level of vitriol to continue unabated here shows the quality and level of Christian moderation here is either non-existent or severely lacking.
>
> To answer your question though I wouldn't mind checking your web-site out as long it's not anything like this. I lurked here for a long time and never posted . I doubt if I'll be back.
>
> God Bless you all and I certainly hope you allow the Holy Spirit into your lives soon.
>
> Jim Larmore

Havent we heard this particular broken record before?

I believe it was Gibbon who noted that "...the decline was the natural and inevitable effect of immoderate greatness. Prosperity ripened the principle of decay; the causes of destruction multiplied with the extent of conquest; and as soon as time or accident had removed the artificial supports, the stupendous fabric yielded to the pressure of its own weight,"

There be a lesson in that for you Jimbo... but I'm sure it helps you sleep at night to say it's my fault; so be it. Glad I could be of service.

Just remember that those who do not learn from history... BTW, anyone with more than a grade school education should be able to help you finish that, if it's not familiar to you.

Dosvidanya.

In His service,
Mr. J

Posted by: Clay May 2 2007, 02:21 PM

He said he wont be back, and you know we don't do goodbye speeches here....

Posted by: awesumtenor May 2 2007, 02:23 PM

> QUOTE(Clay @ May 2 2007, 04:21 PM)
>
> He said he wont be back, and you know we don't do goodbye speeches here....

he has made that same promise before in other forae.... hasn't kept it yet...anywhere

In His service,
Mr. J

Posted by: Shiny Penny May 2 2007, 02:29 PM

> QUOTE(ex3ABNemployee @ May 2 2007, 10:02 AM)
>
> LaurenceD was speaking about the lawsuit being filed because Danny and company don't want questions being asked. His comments were not directed toward you personally.
>
> As far as "gun ablazing", it appears that YOU are already going after people, on your SECOND post.
>
> That's NOT the way things are done around here.
> I agree. This appears to be just another attempt at bullying folks into silence.

Thanks for the explanation. It's nice to know that his comments were not directed to me personally. I would appreciate it if Pickle could direct an answer my question.

Was I "going after people"? I was responding to the comment that LaurenceD made - in a similar manner.

I suppose next time I should say wonderful things about Linda and her clones and horrible things about Danny and his clones and then I'm on safe territory? Just asking.

Posted by: awesumtenor May 2 2007, 02:31 PM

> QUOTE(Shiny Penny @ May 2 2007, 04:29 PM)
>
> Thanks for the explanation. It's nice to know that his comments were not directed to me personally. I would appreciate it if Pickle could direct an answer my question.
>
> Was I "going after people"? I was responding to the comment that LaurenceD made - in a similar manner.

> I suppose next time I should say wonderful things about Linda and her clones and horrible things about Danny and his clones and then I'm on safe territory? Just asking.

How about you just check your stereotypes, preconceived notions and presumptions at the door and enter dialog sans the agenda and the chip on your shoulder you are currently manifesting...

n His service,
Mr. J

Posted by: Clay May 2 2007, 02:32 PM

> QUOTE(Shiny Penny @ May 2 2007, 03:29 PM)
>
> Thanks for the explanation. It's nice to know that his comments were not directed to me personally. I would appreciate it if Pickle could direct an answer my question.
>
> Was I "going after people"? I was responding to the comment that LaurenceD made - in a similar manner.
>
> I suppose next time I should say wonderful things about Linda and her clones and horrible things about Danny and his clones and then I'm on safe territory? Just asking.

well it is becoming apparent where you stand.....

Posted by: Pickle May 2 2007, 02:46 PM

> QUOTE(runner4him @ May 2 2007, 01:51 PM)
>
> Not sure what that meant about "Pass the Pickle relish" but I had to comment.

Some folks around here like to dice up Pickle.

Posted by: Shiny Penny May 2 2007, 02:59 PM

> QUOTE(LaurenceD @ May 2 2007, 11:09 AM)
>
> "Exuse me?" Now there's an expression I haven't seen for some time. Lee used it quite often and opened a lot of her posts with those very same words. She's not around anymore...at least to my knowledge.
>
> Ex- explained it pretty good above. I realize everything seems out of proportion when things are going wrong (bigger than life) but what seemed like guns ablazing to you was really only youthful rubberbands...in hopes you would see there is a much broader issue implied in your opening statement. But maybe that's stretching it a bit.
>
> Like I mentioned to Jim Laremore yesterday, we're a little skeptical around here due to so many people getting suspended...only to reappear under a new username. We're always interested in how newbies view the various 3abn issues, and problems, and how you came to agree with one side or the other. Care to > share? Many of us shared our story when we first arrived at BSDA.

have not previously registered with blacksda or have any other clandestine background - at least none that I m aware of. Since most members are anonymous (as I am) I don't know who they are and would venture to ay that I have never met any of them (with the exception of one, who I believe is posting under his/her real ame), since I live out in the wilderness far from any hub of Adventism or of 3ABN.

Vhen I watch 3ABN I am blessed and always have been - but I don't get to watch or listen as often as I vould like because I don't have (and lease says I can't have) a dish and so I watch/listen over the internet nly.

don't have much of a story. Some months ago someone told me about this site and I've checked it out ccasionally and then more regularly. I cannot say that I agree with one side or the other, at least not based n what I've read here. Usually in these situations the whole truth is devilishly hard to get at and neither arty, for whatever reason is willing to share the whole truth.

appreciated the ministry of Linda when she was on 3ABN, she certainly has an empathetic, caring way about er that touched the viewers in a special way. I also very much appreciate Danny's style as well. I attended a ally back east once and have of course seen him on the TV and clearly, he can preach much better than nany pastors who have been trained in homiletics.

Vhat went wrong? I don't know. I cannot conclude from what I've read here that Linda is perfectly innocent r that Danny is perfectly guilty. There is just so much that hasn't been told and honestly, probably should ot be told and much that has been said that should not have been told, but the cat's out of the bag so what o do?

ut really be thankful for those on Danny's side that come and post here - when they are gone the posts get ather dull. I've wondered at times if they are not really on Danny's side, but rather only act that way in order o stimulate interest and stir up emotions. Just an idea.

> QUOTE(Clay @ May 2 2007, 12:32 PM)
>
> well it is becoming apparent where you stand.....

mmm....appearances can be deceiving.

Posted by: Skyhook May 2 2007, 03:19 PM

> QUOTE(Shiny Penny @ May 2 2007, 03:59 PM)
>
> I also very much appreciate Danny's style as well. I attended a rally back east once and have of course seen him on the TV and clearly, he can preach much better than many pastors who have been trained in homiletics.
>
> You can't possibly be serious!! I appreciate your sense of humor.
>
> I've wondered at times if they are not really on Danny's side, but rather only act that way in order to stimulate interest and stir up emotions. Just an idea.
> Hmmm....appearances can be deceiving.

nteresting idea. If these are Danny's "friends and supporters," he would do well to fire them ahd hire some ew ones. The ones that keep coming do not do a very good job. If I were in Danny's shoes, I would not want o be identified with the kind of defensive rhetoric that they offer.

Posted by: Shiny Penny May 2 2007, 03:29 PM

> QUOTE(Skyhook @ May 2 2007, 01:19 PM)
>
> Interesting idea. If these are Danny's "friends and supporters," he would do well to fire them ahd hire some new ones. The ones that keep coming do not do a very good job. If I were in Danny's shoes, I would not want to be identified with the kind of defensive rhetoric that they offer.

How would you suggest that those who support Danny can improve and "do a very good job?" They can use some pointers, yes?

And about the preaching - in case you are not aware there are lots of pitiful preachers out there slogging away at it every Sabbath. I've heard a good many of them over the years.

Posted by: princessdi May 2 2007, 03:53 PM

How would you suggest that those who support Danny can improve and "do a very good job?" They can use some pointers, yes?

Yes, but if he don't know, I 'm not going to tell him. He oughts to know better. It is said that he doesn't come here to read the posts, perhaps he should. Now I dont' believe that. He has commented far too many weeks on his show aobut issues raised here the very day before> I just beleive they are here to distract, therefore, they don t'need to know much, and they don't. They are often out on a limb that danny has already started sawing at it's base, and he sends them here for us to finish off.

An example is the issue of Linda's attorney's licensing. it is apparaent by their repsonses that they know absolutely nothing aobut state licensing procedure,a nd several have tried to explain it including myself. However they choose to ignore that for something more sinister. They don't even consider that if the judge did not believe that the attorney could not get it striaght by June 8(because he is also licensed himself witht he same agency), his repsonse would have been quite different, and he came to his conclusion from the information on the documentation provided by Danny's attorney. Now unless they are really trying to tell us that Linda's lawyer is really working for Danny on the DL to sabbatage her case, then why would a licensed attorney appear before a judge in a state in which he knew he wasn't licensed. Linda could just get another lawyer, he would have more severe reprecautions, jeodarizing all of his licenses.

And about the preaching - in case you are not aware there are lots of pitiful preachers out there slogging away at it every Sabbath. I've heard a good many of them over the years.

I didn't know Danny was apreacher. In fact, I thought he frequently mentions that he is not. Anyway, you are right there are some pretty pitiful ones out there. However, I don't know how much you get out, because if Danny is the best you seen, you might need to listen to go to some different churches.

Just one further question, SP(hope you don't mind). Did you ever study for the ministry?

Posted by: Whtz Happenin May 2 2007, 03:57 PM

> QUOTE(runner4him @ May 2 2007, 03:51 PM)
>
> Not sure what that meant about "Pass the Pickle relish" but I had to comment.

> QUOTE(Pickle @ May 2 2007, 04:46 PM)
>
> Some folks around here like to dice up Pickle.

What's the big dill? Do you think this will go down as one of the "http://www.mtolivepickles.com/Picklemania/PickleHistory.html

---

Posted by: Shiny Penny May 2 2007, 04:10 PM

> QUOTE(princessdi @ May 2 2007, 02:53 PM)
>
> I didn't know Danny was apreacher. In fact, I thought he frequently mentions that he is not. Anyway, you are right there are some pretty pitiful ones out there. However, I don't know how much you get out, because if Danny is the best you seen, you might need to listen to go to some different churches.
>
> Just one further question, SP(hope you don't mind). Did you ever study for the ministry?

You are right, I'm not aware that Danny is a preacher, but my point is that I've heard him preach better than some who are trained. I did not at all imply that he was the best I'd heard, just that he was better than many I'd heard.

I'm not into acronyms or abbreviations...prefer the shiny penny. No, I haven't studied for the ministry, but those that do do take homiletics - at least at the SDA colleges/universities that I am aware of.

Posted by: caribbean sda May 2 2007, 04:34 PM

> QUOTE(Shiny Penny @ May 2 2007, 04:59 PM)
>
> But really be thankful for those on Danny's side that come and post here - when they are gone the posts get rather dull. I've wondered at times if they are not really on Danny's side, but rather only act that way in order to stimulate interest and stir up emotions. Just an idea.
> Hmmm....appearances can be deceiving.

I've been here for a year and BSDA is NEVER dull. There is so much more to BSDA than 3ABN. Throw caution to wind, Penny, take a walk on the wild side...be spontaneous, visit some of the other threads here on the forum! Join in the discussions, take a stress break in the arcade, join the crew in LC for lively conversation. There's all that and more right here...

ps. We've been here before those on Danny's side, and, be the good Lord willing, we'll be here after they've gone...

Posted by: mozart May 2 2007, 05:13 PM

well shiny penny i dont think i have said welc to you yet so...Welcome to BSDA.

i can see that you don't want to hear such bad things about danny or linda. i didn't want to hear anything bad about Danny or Linda either. honestly, i didn't really want to know, but there was this really uncomfortable itch inside my heart and mind and when more and more was said on "live" 3abn programs about all those evil people out there trying to destroy them i just wondered why they kept feeling the need to defend themselves all the time and make analogies that were (to put it mildly) just twisted. a lot of the time, i had no idea what they were driving at or why they kept talking about it. finally 3abn had a "news" quote about ASI stopping discussions on their website. at that time i didn't have a clue what ASI was even discussing and why anyone would care, so........my curiosity peaked i clicked the link and what i read made me sit back and say, "what??? something aint right in Kansas". so i got on my computer and looked up ASI and read what they had to say and that lead me to save3abn.com and i read and i cried. then i found the forums, and so on and so on and here i am a few months later, a lot wiser, a lot sadder and sometimes just sick about it all.
after you find out a bit more about what's going on and then you see danny and mollie and shelly Q. and John L. all rallying so hard for our trust and manipulating the 3abn audience with their innuindos, the light bulb finally goes off and you see that those queezy feelings you've had in your stomach for a while should have made you pay closer attention. we know we should not put so much faith in man but i did & i shouldn't have. once i could read between the lies, i mean lines, no actually i mean lies, because deception is a lie. anyway, i saw some really nasty, spiteful and dishonest behavior coming from those people (those i've mentioned) and i think they need to be held accountable. i don't hate them, i'm just really mad at them just like you would be with anybody who ask for your trust and then abuses it.
so, you just keep reading and don't believe everything you read (which i'm sure you don't) but keep your antennae up. most of all, keep praying for discernment and for the restoration of all of the above and more.
God bless, Mo

> QUOTE(Shiny Penny @ May 2 2007, 03:10 PM)
>
> You are right, I'm not aware that Danny is a preacher, but my point is that I've heard him preach better than some who are trained. I did not at all imply that he was the best I'd heard, just that he was better than many I'd heard.
>
> I'm not into acronyms or abbreviations...prefer the shiny penny. No, I haven't studied for the ministry, but those that do do take homiletics - at least at the SDA colleges/universities that I am aware of.

Posted by: Pickle May 2 2007, 06:03 PM

> QUOTE(Whtz Happenin @ May 2 2007, 03:57 PM)
>
> What's the big dill? Do you think this will go down as one of the "http://www.mtolivepickles.com/Picklemania/PickleHistory.html

Posted by: Fran May 2 2007, 06:13 PM

> QUOTE(Pickle @ May 2 2007, 07:03 PM)

ery Interesting! I will "relish" those thoughts. Alton Brown, from the Food Network's program, "Good Eats," eeds these facts!

Posted by: princessdi May 2 2007, 08:15 PM

You are right, I'm not aware that Danny is a preacher, but my point is that I've heard him preach better than some who are trained. I did not at all imply that he was the best I'd heard, just that he was better than many I'd heard.

Okee Dokee and I am sorry.

I'm not into acronyms or abbreviations...prefer the shiny penny. No, I haven't studied for the ministry, but those that do do take homiletics - at least at the SDA colleges/universities that I am aware of.

Ok so you are just going to have me typing all that out all the time......Ok, but the next time you join somewhere, picka short name,please?

Posted by: Pickle May 2 2007, 08:34 PM

> QUOTE(beartrap @ May 1 2007, 11:35 PM)
>
> 2Samuel 6:6-7

an you comment, BearTrap?

Posted by: Chas May 2 2007, 08:34 PM

> QUOTE(mozart @ May 2 2007, 06:13 PM)
>
> i can see that you don't want to hear such bad things about danny or linda. i didn't want to hear anything bad about Danny or Linda either. honestly, i didn't really want to know, but there was this really uncomfortable itch inside my heart and mind and when more and more was said on "live" 3abn programs about all those evil people out there trying to destroy them i just wondered why they kept feeling the need to defend themselves all the time and make analogies that were (to put it mildly) just twisted. a lot of the time, i had no idea what they were driving at or why they kept talking about it. finally 3abn had a "news" quote about ASI stopping discussions on their website. at that time i didn't have a clue what ASI was even discussing and why anyone would care, so........my curiosity peaked i clicked the link and what i read made me sit back and say, "what??? something aint right in Kansas". so i got on my computer and looked up ASI and read what they had to say and that lead me to save3abn.com and i read and i cried. then i found the forums, and so on and so on and here i am a few months later, a lot wiser, a lot sadder and sometimes just sick about it all.
> after you find out a bit more about what's going on and then you see danny and mollie and shelly Q. and John L. all rallying so hard for our trust and manipulating the 3abn audience with their innuindos, the light bulb finally goes off and you see that those queezy feelings you've had in your stomach for a while should have made you pay closer attention. we know we should not put so much faith in man but i did & i > shouldn't have. once i could read between the lies, i mean lines, no actually i mean lies, because deception is a lie. anyway, i saw some really nasty, spiteful and dishonest behavior coming from those people (those i've mentioned) and i think they need to be held accountable. i don't hate them, i'm just really mad at them just like you would be with anybody who ask for your trust and then abuses it.

> so, you just keep reading and don't believe everything you read (which i'm sure you don't) but keep your antennae up. most of all, keep praying for discernment and for the restoration of all of the above and more.
> God bless, Mo

agree with you 100%. This is exactly how I discovered this site!

has

Posted by: betrayed May 3 2007, 06:02 AM

> QUOTE(Pickle @ May 2 2007, 09:34 PM)
>
> Can you comment, BearTrap?

Vhile reading this text in a different version than King James, I read:

Sam. 6:7 When he did so, the Lord struck him, and he died right there beside the Ark. Uzzah should have now beter than to touch the Ark, but by continuously sinning, he had lost the sense of its sacredness and cted rashly.

Vith UNCONFESSED sin in his life, he dared to touch the symbolic Presence of God, a right given only to the riests.

think this text speaks for it's self.

Posted by: LaurenceD May 3 2007, 08:59 AM

> QUOTE(Shiny Penny @ May 2 2007, 02:59 PM)
>
> I have not previously registered with blacksda or have any other clandestine background - at least none that I am aware of. Since most members are anonymous (as I am) I don't know who they are and would venture to say that I have never met any of them (with the exception of one, who I believe is posting under his/her real name), since I live out in the wilderness far from any hub of Adventism or of 3ABN.
>
> When I watch 3ABN I am blessed and always have been - but I don't get to watch or listen as often as I would like because I don't have (and lease says I can't have) a dish and so I watch/listen over the internet only.
>
> I don't have much of a story. Some months ago someone told me about this site and I've checked it out occasionally and then more regularly. I cannot say that I agree with one side or the other, at least not based on what I've read here. Usually in these situations the whole truth is devilishly hard to get at and neither party, for whatever reason is willing to share the whole truth.
>
> I appreciated the ministry of Linda when she was on 3ABN, she certainly has an empathetic, caring way about her that touched the viewers in a special way. I also very much appreciate Danny's style as well. I attended a rally back east once and have of course seen him on the TV and clearly, he can preach much > better than many pastors who have been trained in homiletics.

>
> What went wrong? I don't know. I cannot conclude from what I've read here that Linda is perfectly innocent or that Danny is perfectly guilty. There is just so much that hasn't been told and honestly, probably should not be told and much that has been said that should not have been told, but the cat's out of the bag so what to do?
>
> But really be thankful for those on Danny's side that come and post here - when they are gone the posts get rather dull. I've wondered at times if they are not really on Danny's side, but rather only act that way in order to stimulate interest and stir up emotions. Just an idea.
>
> Hmmm....appearances can be deceiving.

hanks for the story, albeit a little enigmatic, but delightful nonetheless.

Vhat did you think of Barbara Kerr's letter re Danny Shelton?

Vhat did you think of the legal case 3abn lost against the State of Illinois? Do you understand what 3abn was loing wrong?

Posted by: Shiny Penny May 3 2007, 05:10 PM

> QUOTE(LaurenceD @ May 3 2007, 06:59 AM) ☐
>
> Thanks for the story, albeit a little enigmatic, but delightful nonetheless.
>
> What did you think of Barbara Kerr's letter re Danny Shelton?
>
> What did you think of the legal case 3abn lost against the State of Illinois? Do you understand what 3abn was doing wrong?

e: Barbara Kerr - this one has me wondering. I read her letter(s) some time ago. Perhaps I should go and eread again, before replying to your question, but I do have other things to do and some of the letters are so ong - I'm one of those people who likes things short and to the point. But I had thought why not release the apes to her. I cannot recall ever reading why 3ABN would not release the tapes to her.

bout the State of Illinois case - isn't that being appealed? And help me out - what was 3ABN doing that was vrong? Do you know if they are still doing that stuff wrong?

Posted by: princessdi May 3 2007, 06:22 PM

Respectfuly Shiny Penny, there is no short cut here. Everyone is advised to do the same thing....read, and read some more. We all have other things to do also, an dmy not have the time to explain everything to you. i completely understand how you feel, I, myself, aften ask for the Reader's Digest Version of things,b ut only when feasible. That is not feasible here especially the information for which you are asking.

> QUOTE(Shiny Penny @ May 3 2007, 03:10 PM) ☐

> Re: Barbara Kerr - this one has me wondering. I read her letter(s) some time ago. Perhaps I should go and reread again, before replying to your question, but I do have other things to do and some of the letters are so long - I'm one of those people who likes things short and to the point. But I had thought why not release the tapes to her. I cannot recall ever reading why 3ABN would not release the tapes to her.
>
> About the State of Illinois case - isn't that being appealed? And help me out - what was 3ABN doing that was wrong? Do you know if they are still doing that stuff wrong?

Posted by: PrincessDrRe May 3 2007, 09:12 PM

You cannot make a cake in an instant. Even if it is a "microwave" cake - you have to read the directions, take the cake outta the box, set the time correctly, and allow for a cool....

To be more specific - everything has steps. One cannot walk into the middle of a movie and start asking questions without getting some flack....

Same song - second verse....

☒ sna

Posted by: Whtz Happenin May 3 2007, 11:17 PM

> QUOTE(runner4him @ May 2 2007, 03:51 PM) ☐
>
> Not sure what that meant about "Pass the Pickle relish" but I had to comment.

> QUOTE(Pickle @ May 2 2007, 04:46 PM) ☐
>
> Some folks around here like to dice up Pickle.

> QUOTE(Whtz Happenin @ May 2 2007, 05:57 PM) ☐
>
> What's the big dill? Do you think this will go down as one of the "http://www.mtolivepickles.com/Picklemania/PickleHistory.html

> QUOTE(Pickle @ May 2 2007, 08:03 PM) ☐
>
> ☒

Pickle, I am happy that you can still have a sense of humor through it all. I will be remembering you in prayer and pray that you will still have a sense of humor 6 months or a year from now. That is the wonderful thing about knowing that our joy comes from God and not our circumstances.

Stand up, Stand up for Jesus! ☒ PTL.gif

Posted by: mozart May 3 2007, 11:28 PM

☒ PTL.gif ☒ than

> QUOTE(Whtz Happenin @ May 3 2007, 10:17 PM) ☐
>
> Pickle, I am happy that you can still have a sense of humor through it all. I will be remembering you in prayer and pray that you will still have a sense of humor 6 months or a year from now. That is the wonderful thing about knowing that our joy comes from God and not our circumstances.
>
> Stand up, Stand up for Jesus! ☒ PTL.gif

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered May 4 2007, 02:29 PM

> QUOTE(Shiny Penny @ May 3 2007, 03:10 PM) ☐
>
> Re: Barbara Kerr - this one has me wondering. I read her letter(s) some time ago. Perhaps I should go and reread again, before replying to your question, but I do have other things to do and some of the letters are so long - I'm one of those people who likes things short and to the point. But I had thought why not release the tapes to her. I cannot recall ever reading why 3ABN would not release the tapes to her.

Shiny Penny,
Sometimes for the dish to turn out as it is supposed to, you must follow the complete recipe, not the short version.

Posted by: Eirene May 4 2007, 08:11 PM

> QUOTE(PeacefullyBewildered @ May 4 2007, 02:29 PM) ☐
>
> Shiny Penny,
> Sometimes for the dish to turn out as it is supposed to, you must follow the complete recipe, not the short version.

This weekend the complete recipe will be the 10 commandment weekend being held in Chicago. Starts 9am central time goes until about 10 pm saturday night. Then repeats until sunday 9am where it continues until 1pm. Lots of music from some 3abn singers and others from the area of Chicago. Wintley P, John L, Doug B, Jim Gilley, and David A. just to name a few of the speakers. The Chicago churches have supported this endeavor fervently. A huge crowd is expected.
Don't miss a blessing. Be sure and tune in.

Posted by: princessdi May 4 2007, 08:15 PM

....what no Barry Black, Roscoe Howard? Shoot!

> QUOTE(Eirene @ May 4 2007, 06:11 PM)
>
> This weekend the complete recipe will be the 10 commandment weekend being held in Chicago. Starts 9am central time goes until about 10 pm saturday night. Then repeats until sunday 9am where it continues until 1pm. Lots of music from some 3abn singers and others from the area of Chicago. Wintley P, John L, Doug B, Jim Gilley, and David A. just to name a few of the speakers. The Chicago churches have supported this endeavor fervently. A huge crowd is expected.
> Don't miss a blessing. Be sure and tune in.

Posted by: sonshineonme May 4 2007, 08:58 PM

> QUOTE(Eirene @ May 4 2007, 07:11 PM)
>
> This weekend the complete recipe will be the 10 commandment weekend being held in Chicago. Starts 9am central time goes until about 10 pm saturday night. Then repeats until sunday 9am where it continues until 1pm. Lots of music from some 3abn singers and others from the area of Chicago. Wintley P, John L, Doug B, Jim Gilley, and David A. just to name a few of the speakers. The Chicago churches have supported this endeavor fervently. A huge crowd is expected.
> Don't miss a blessing. Be sure and tune in.

no thanks. I think i'll pass.

Posted by: runner4him May 4 2007, 09:46 PM

> QUOTE(sonshineonme @ May 4 2007, 08:58 PM)
>
> no thanks. I think i'll pass.

Think I will pass too......................I hear there is a big gathering in my local church too just praising and fellowshipping together. And no one has any book deals going on there...... That is where I'll be! Happy Sabbath everyone.

Posted by: SoulEspresso May 5 2007, 07:12 AM

(moved over to the 10 commandments weekend thread)

Posted by: Johann May 8 2007, 05:13 AM

What similarities are there between the trials of Danny Shelton and Job? Job thought even God was unfair to him, so he wants to sue God and haul Him before a judge. Was that a fair trial? Did Job have an assurance of winning his case against God?

Danny Shelton feels he is being treated like Job by people who would like things to go God's way. Danny feels this is unfair, so he sues, and he feels sure he will win the case. Is he doing the right thing?

Who is fair?

Posted by: messenger May 8 2007, 06:12 AM

About Job...it was not Satan who challenged God about Job's conduct, but it was God who challenged Satan, "Have you considered my servant Job?" (Job 1:8).

About DS I can only say, If he was on trial for being a Christian, would there be sufficient evidence to convict him?

If he was on trial for removing the commandments "three times" through his personal conduct, would there be sufficient evidence to convict him?

In all fairness, let DS be judged by the same commandments he proclaims.

Posted by: Johann May 8 2007, 07:41 AM

> QUOTE(messenger @ May 8 2007, 02:12 PM)
>
> About Job...it was not Satan who challenged God about Job's conduct, but it was God who challenged Satan, "Have you considered my servant Job?" (Job 1:8).
>
> About DS I can only say, If he was on trial for being a Christian, would there be sufficient evidence to convict him?
>
> If he was on trial for removing the commandments "three times" through his personal conduct, would there be sufficient evidence to convict him?
>
> In all fairness, let DS be judged by the same commandments he proclaims.

I was not referring to Job 1:8, but to Job 9:32-35. where Job states it is difficult - impossible - for him to take God to court. Is God then fair?

Welcome to BSDA messenger. ☒ welc

Danny is not yet on trial for being a Christian, but he is taking fellow Christians to court. Just like Job, Danny seems to feel he is not being treated fairly. . .

Posted by: Fran May 8 2007, 10:09 PM

> QUOTE
>
> Posted on: Apr 29 2007, 06:07 PM Johann
>
> How about the subject here?

It is reported that Mr. Danny Shelton was seen on the airport in St.Paul today? Does anybody else look just like him?

What could he be doing there during a rather short span of time before leaving? Was he picking up some needed cash? Or signing some important documents?

Why was 3ABN Enterprises involuntarily dissolved around April 17? Was it due to any dishonesty that they had failed to pay the fees? Worse than Linda's lawyer?

QUOTE

Apr 30 2007, 10:41 PM Eirene

By the way....DANNY WAS NO WHERE NEAR ST. PAUL ON SUNDAY. HE WAS AT HIS HOME IN GOOD OLD SOUTHERN ILLINOIS. So where does that leave Johann when he said Danny was SEEN in St. Paul? But go right ahead and continue to fall for all the allegations and rumors that come from the same old unreliable sources. You always do.

QUOTE

Apr 30 2007, 09:04 PM Fran

Now that I have stopped dreaming and returned to reality, why did 3ABN Enterprises have to shut down. This ought to be a show stopper!

QUOTE

Apr 30 2007, 11:00 PM Eirene

As usual Fran, your post makes very little sense. Let me give you a piece of advice. You as well as others here would do well to quit making rumors into fact.

Fact 1. No one at 3abn knows what you or anyone else is talking about with this 3abn enterprise stuff. No one. Nothing has changed as far as the status of 3abn so if you got that from Joy or Pickle or Johann forget it. You definitely need new sources.

QUOTE

May 1 2007, 09:24 PM Pickle

We return to our regular scheduled thread topic to report breaking news: Danny Shelton told the truth in his post of April 23, 2007, about the filing of a lawsuit against two people.

Gailon Arthur Joy and Robert Pickle were served papers on Monday, April 30, 2007. Case # is 07-40098FDS, and has been filed in U.S. District Court in Massachusetts, state of residence of Joy.

Documents pertaining to said case have been impounded to prevent the public from being able to view court documents. The timing of such impoundment is opportune considering the approach of Ten Commandments weekend.

The setting up of a Legal Defense Fund is being considered by a friend of the defendants.

Danny Shelton has already announced on the air and at ClubAdventist that they have started a Legal Offense Fund. We are sure that they will appreciate additional contributions to that fund.

My! What a Pickle I've gotten myself into! Why did I ever start asking questions?

> I never really have cared about consequences when standing up for principle. Sure glad Jesus didn't.

> QUOTE
>
> Save3ABN.com Lawsuit Files
> Quick Trips to St. Paul, Minnesota
> Sources close to the situation indicate that the 3ABN jet made special round trips to St. Paul, Minnesota, on March 15, April 29, and May 1, 2007. The March 15 flight stopped very briefly en route in Madison, Wisconsin, near the home of 3ABN board chairman Walt Thompson.
> It is not hard to imagine that these flights had something to do about meetings with attorneys at the law firm that sent the cease and desist letter in February, a firm used in the past by Garwin McNeilus, the rumored financier of 3ABN's litigation efforts. Garwin McNeilus is also a member of the ASI Missions, Inc. board, the entity Danny Shelton claimed had been asked to be the constituency for the new ministry created by the proposed merger of Amazing Facts and 3ABN.

K. We have here some dates for a new time line.

arch 15, 2007

. Trip to Madison, WI (Walt Thompson's home nearby)
. Trip to St Paul, MN

pril 17, 2007

. 3ABN Enterprises is shut down;

pril 23, 2007

. Danny has interview on Club Adventist and reveals there is a lawsuit against two people.

pril 29, 2007

. Trip to St Paul, MN

pril 30, 2007

. Papers served to Joy and Pickle;
. 3ABN Enterprises mentioned again;
. Eirene says, on April 30, 2007 "DANNY WAS NO WHERE NEAR ST. PAUL ON SUNDAY...;" Was she aking about Sunday, April 29, 2007 or some other Sunday?
. Eirene denies existence of 3ABN Enterprises.

ay 1, 2007

0. Trip to St Paul, MN

uestions:

. Do these things have anything to do with the other?
. What is so important in St Paul, MN?
. What is 3ABN Enterprises the Eirene has not been briefed on?
. The lawsuit has been sealed/Impounded. No one is talking.
. Think about it a minute folks.
. Is Danny so afraid of something that Joy and Pickle have found out?
. What is it?
. Better yet, what is it NOT about?
. What information has NOT been revealed and is still able to be impounded?

10. What is still being talked about, so therefore can not be part of the Lawsuit?
11. Is it about Save3ABN.com?
12. They are still posting. Can it be about that?
13. Is it about Danny's travels?
14. That information is still flowing, right?
15. What pages have been removed from Save3ABN.com.
16. Do you remember what that was about?
17. I have a saved copy. Is this a BIG clue?
18. Is it a Fluke?
19. It was there and poof; it was gone, right?

Please do not ask Pickle or Joy any questions. They can not provide information about the case to anyone. Keep them honest by not tempting them. We should be able to figure this out on our own.

Put together all the information we do know.
Put together all the things we have seen glimpses from, that 3ABN avoids like the plague, yet, we do not have the rest of the story.

1. Have we heard information about Danny's fidelity in his marriage to Linda?
2. Have we heard information at length about the finances of 3ABN?
3. Do we understand the implications of what we do know?
4. Do we think we know the implications or the verity of the information provided to date?

Posted by: IMM May 9 2007, 11:59 AM

Fran, we think alike. The page that "disappeared" was most interesting. I'm awfully glad you have it, wish I'd had the foresight to save it also.

Posted by: Fran May 9 2007, 09:25 PM

Vital Information Is Missing

Matthew 18 (King James Version)

15 Moreover if thy brother shall trespass against thee, go and tell him his fault between thee and him alone: if he shall hear thee, thou hast gained thy brother.

16 But if he will not hear thee, then take with thee one or two more, that in the mouth of two or three witnesses every word may be established.

17 And if he shall neglect to hear them, tell it unto the church: but if he neglects to hear the church, let him be unto thee as an heathen man and a publican.

18 Verily I say unto you, Whatsoever ye shall bind on earth shall be bound in heaven: and whatsoever ye shall loose on earth shall be loosed in heaven.

19 Again I say unto you, That if two of you shall agree on earth as touching any thing that they shall ask, it shall be done for them of my Father which is in heaven.

20 For where two or three are gathered together in my name, there am I in the midst of them.

We have talked a lot about Matthew 18 as it relates to G Joy and Bob Pickle. I, like you, met them through the Internet. I have read the information that has been posted on Save3ABN.com and BSDA. Most posts have been by Bob Pickle, but others have posted comments made by G Joy.

I believe we can all agree that Pickle and Joy took "extreme" measures to communicate with Danny Shelton and others at 3ABN.

We are also aware of the fiasco with ASI solving the "problems". I am sorry that did not work. Each of us have our own understanding of what happened. I have my opinion just as each of you have. However, I do believe Danny has been contacted on several fronts about 3ABN issues.

Did we fulfill the requirements in the verses above? Danny received contacts by others other than Joy and Pickle. Can we agree that the attempts took place?

We have read post after post about people who have fulfilled this text as far as they could.

As I suggested before. Look for what is missing to get a better picture of what is real, right?

Where is the evidence that Danny has fulfilled this scripture before he filed the current lawsuit? If Danny's supporters could help us out by providing this information, here, it would be greatly appreciated. We need to know.

What we need to know is that Danny fulfilled his end of this scripture.

Has Danny contacted anyone here on BSDA that received a threat of a lawsuit?
I have not received any contact from Danny or anyone at 3ABN. However, I have contacted some at 3ABN. I was even blessed to talk to Mom Ford.

How about you? Has anyone contacted you about what Danny has against you?

What do you feel is missing in this picture?

Danny, have you fulfilled this scripture before you took it to court?

Posted by: Grith May 10 2007, 12:44 PM

> QUOTE(IMM @ May 9 2007, 01:59 PM) ☐
>
> Fran, we think alike. The page that "disappeared" was most interesting. I'm awfully glad you have it, wish I'd had the foresight to save it also.

I guess I'm missing something, but I wonder if you could tell me what page is missing? I know that the one about the trust services at 3abn is missing and was gone before I even found the web site (save3abn). Does anyone here know what it was about? ☒ any-

---

Posted by: watchbird May 10 2007, 01:05 PM

> QUOTE(Grith @ May 10 2007, 02:44 PM) ☐

> I guess I'm missing something, but I wonder if you could tell me what page is missing? I know that the one about the trust services at 3abn is missing and was gone before I even found the web site (save3abn). Does anyone here know what it was about? ☒ any-

Some things cannot be discussed on a public board. Please accept that and do not continue to ask questions in this area.

Posted by: Pickle May 10 2007, 02:47 PM

> QUOTE(Grith @ May 10 2007, 12:44 PM) ☐
>
> I guess I'm missing something, but I wonder if you could tell me what page is missing? I know that the one about the trust services at 3abn is missing and was gone before I even found the web site (save3abn). Does anyone here know what it was about? ☒ any-

I think the one they are talking about might have been here before: http://www.save3abn.com/leonard-westphal-hope-lebrun-1.htm

---

Posted by: runner4him May 10 2007, 05:57 PM

> QUOTE(Pickle @ May 10 2007, 02:47 PM) ☐
>
> I think the one they are talking about might have been here before: http://www.save3abn.com/leonard-westphal-hope-lebrun-1.htm

I think that is the one! I think I remember that name....Westphal.

By the way, Pickle, I know you and Joy cannot tell us anything about the lawsuit...when the court date is and the details about the suit so this question is not for you but for everyone else out there.

I am wondering why the big secret...what is Danny Shelton so afraid of? What is wrong with the 3ABN supporters knowing the facts and what this suit is all about? Maybe we all could e-mail friends and encourage them to call or e-mail DS & 3ABN just to let them know how we feel about this secrecy. Would they care if they heard from 100 people every hour? I think we have a right to know the details of the suit especially if more people could be threatened in the future. It is very odd to keep the information from the previous and current supporters and it raises more suspicions...not putting DS in a good light. No one hides facts when they are innocent.

Posted by: Pickle May 10 2007, 08:28 PM

As quoted on http://www.save3abn.com/danny-shelton-files-lawsuit-against-joy-pickle.htm:

> QUOTE(Danny Shelton)

> We have filed a lawsuit against two individuals in particular to begin with.

"... to begin with."

"... to begin with."

"... to begin with."

"... to begin with."

"... to begin with."

"... to begin with."

By the way, a few months ago or so when all this seemed like just a big bluff, I received a letter from an ally of Danny that indicated pretty clearly that Danny would even sue a/the church. And he would even go after those who don't live in the U.S.

Now if Danny's ally's statements are fairly accurate, Danny is one dangerous guy.

Posted by: runner4him May 10 2007, 08:53 PM

> QUOTE(Pickle @ May 10 2007, 08:28 PM)
>
> As quoted on http://www.save3abn.com/danny-shelton-files-lawsuit-against-joy-pickle.htm:
> "... to begin with."
>
> "... to begin with."
>
> "... to begin with."
>
> "... to begin with."
>
> "... to begin with."
>
> "... to begin with."
>
> By the way, a few months ago or so when all this seemed like just a big bluff, I received a letter from an ally of Danny that indicated pretty clearly that Danny would even sue a/the church. And he would even go after those who don't live in the U.S.
>
> Now if Danny's ally's statements are fairly accurate, Danny is one dangerous guy.

This is appalling! Danny Shelton threatening to sue the church and even to go outside the U.S. to stop individuals who innocently are asking questions? Which country is he and his expensive lawyers supposedly going to be flying to next...and in that jet of his? I just feel like I am living in some nightmare.

Posted by: Pickle May 10 2007, 08:58 PM

Can't answer all your questions, but after looking at the letter again, it speaks of putting both "the conference" and "the Church" "at risk."

Posted by: dkay May 10 2007, 09:02 PM

Hi

Posted by: Observer May 10 2007, 09:30 PM

> QUOTE(dkay @ May 10 2007, 08:02 PM)
>
> I like the suggestions of calling to express our disapproval of the secrecy. I wonder too about the court date...when it will be and when will Joy and Pickle will be vindicated? Why the suppression of information? Why the secrecy? Danny does not only appear to be dangerous but very scared or the suit would be an open book for all to see.

Vindication, when will it be:

Folks, the process is expected to go slowly. Rulings will come slowly, and be limited in scope, in response to specific motions. Do not expect that vindication will come quickly.

You can expect to have several court dates set to consider and rule upon various motions that each side will submit to the judge. Some of those motions will likely catch the other side by surprise. In such cases the judge will allow the other side time to submit a response, then likely the first side time to respond to the response, then the judge will rule.

Finally they will get to the main issue at trial. that will likely require depositions, and submission of documents and other required evidence. At each stage the other side will have time to counter the claims of the first.

After a while, the main issues will be argued before a judge. Finally the judge will rule.

I look forward to the day when the documents will be released to the public. The is likely to be one of the first issues to be decided by the judge. There will be other early issues. All of these will be baby steps in a longer process.

Posted by: SoulEspresso May 10 2007, 09:35 PM

Well, maybe some of us could do with praying for patience.

Or maybe the time waiting is meant for prayer.

Posted by: LaurenceD May 10 2007, 09:56 PM

And I think we can safely assume the one side won't understand the decision. They'll likely appeal just because they can.

Posted by: runner4him May 10 2007, 09:58 PM

> QUOTE(Observer @ May 10 2007, 09:30 PM)
>
> Vindication, when will it be:
>
> Folks, the process is expected to go slowly. Rulings will come slowly, and be limited in scope, in response > to specific motions. Do not expect that vindication will come quickly.

>
> You can expect to have several court dates set to consider and rule upon various motions that each side will submit to the judge. Some of those motions will likely catch the other side by surprise. In such cases the judge will allow the other side time to submit a response, then likely the first side time to respond to the response, then the judge will rule.
>
> Finally they will get to the main issue at trial. that will likely require depositions, and submission of documents and other required evidence. At each stage the other side will have time to counter the claims of the first.
>
> After a while, the main issues will be argued before a judge. Finally the judge will rule.
>
> I look forward to the day when the documents will be released to the public. The is likely to be one of the first issues to be decided by the judge. There will be other early issues. All of these will be baby steps in a longer process.

hank you, Observer, for your comments..I think we all are looking forward to the day when the documents vill be released to the public.

nd...SoulEspresso...thank you for reminding us to pray for patience....I needed that!

Posted by: SoulEspresso May 10 2007, 10:11 PM

> QUOTE(runner4him @ May 10 2007, 09:58 PM) ☐
>
> Thank you for reminding us to pray for patience....I needed that!

Vhat I need to pray for is, the stamina to keep praying as this stuff gradually unfolds ...

Posted by: ex3ABNemployee May 10 2007, 10:50 PM

> QUOTE(runner4him @ May 10 2007, 08:53 PM) ☐
>
> This is appalling! Danny Shelton threatening to sue the church and even to go outside the U.S. to stop individuals who innocently are asking questions? Which country is he and his expensive lawyers supposedly going to be flying to next...and in that jet of his? I just feel like I am living in some nightmare.

'm still wondering how the merger ploy will be affected by all of this.

Posted by: SoulEspresso May 11 2007, 12:07 AM

The minute Danny actually sues the church at any level, his support from the organization (even in the form of silence) will be gone. Nothing makes the brethren sit up and take notice like getting papers by FedEx ...

So I almost wish he would, fancy law firm and all. "I see your true colors shining through, I see your true colors, that's why I ~~love~~ pray for you ..."

(well, "love" too in the sense of spiritual concern and commitment, but it's in spite of the true colors not because of them.)

Posted by: Pickle May 11 2007, 06:51 AM

I'll see if I can get permission to post the letter.

Posted by: Aletheia May 12 2007, 06:43 AM

> QUOTE(Pickle @ May 10 2007, 09:28 PM) ☐
>
> As quoted on http://www.save3abn.com/danny-shelton-files-lawsuit-against-joy-pickle.htm:
> "... to begin with."
>
> "... to begin with."
>
> "... to begin with."
>
> "... to begin with."
>
> "... to begin with."
>
> "... to begin with."
>
> By the way, a few months ago or so when all this seemed like just a big bluff, I received a letter from an ally of Danny that indicated pretty clearly that Danny would even sue a/the church. And he would even go after those who don't live in the U.S.
>
> Now if Danny's ally's statements are fairly accurate, Danny is one dangerous guy.

As you are repeating the same exact post in multiple places, and threads...

As quoted on http://www.save3abn.com/danny-shelton-files-lawsuit-against-joy-pickle.htm:

More false accusations and libel... and just look at all those coming behind you to repeat this as if it's fact and condemn and find fault with D.S. based on a lie.

Why would an "ally of Danny" write something so absurd?

What possible reason would he have to sue either the Church or the conference?

Give it up, Bob! And look in your mirror, you are the dangerous one here.

Posted by: runner4him May 12 2007, 12:52 PM

> QUOTE(Aletheia @ May 12 2007, 06:43 AM) ☐
>
> As you are repeating the same exact post in multiple places, and threads...
>
> As quoted on http://www.save3abn.com/danny-shelton-files-lawsuit-against-joy-pickle.htm:
> More false accusations and libel... and just look at all those coming behind you to repeat this as if it's fact and condemn and find fault with D.S. based on a lie.

> Why would an "ally of Danny" write something so absurd?
>
> What possible reason would he have to sue either the Church or the conference?
>
> Give it up, Bob! And look in your mirror, you are the dangerous one here.

Aletheia, Aletheia,

think you are repeating yourself...I just read this on another thread. Your approach is very interesting...you seem to make personal attacks stating people are lying just because you do not agree with someone. I made a previous post and you called me a liar just because you did not agree with me.

f you could be calm and discuss reasonably without all the emotional overtones then we could discuss ogether and learn from each other. Truth is all we should care about. I hope we all started out and continue o want the same...digging for that precious truth....without a hidden agenda...not wanting to attack anyone...only wanting precious souls to be won for Him...even those souls who may be guilty of creating this errible disgrace and corruption of 3abn for "We all fall short". Praise the Lord if we can still hear "that still small voice behind us saying this is the way...walk ye in it". Happy Sabbath!

Posted by: Pickle May 12 2007, 09:21 PM

Cindy, it seems to me that you might be doing the very thing you're accusing me of. That's not real wise, is it?

What I wrote is the truth. It isn't a false accusation at all. One of Danny's allies indicated to the recipient of that letter that the conference and Church were at risk.

Posted by: Eirene May 13 2007, 02:10 AM

> QUOTE(runner4him @ May 12 2007, 12:52 PM)
>
> Aletheia, Aletheia,
>
> I think you are repeating yourself...I just read this on another thread. Your approach is very interesting...you seem to make personal attacks stating people are lying just because you do not agree with someone. I made a previous post and you called me a liar just because you did not agree with me.
>
> If you could be calm and discuss reasonably without all the emotional overtones then we could discuss together and learn from each other. Truth is all we should care about. I hope we all started out and continue to want the same...digging for that precious truth....without a hidden agenda...not wanting to attack anyone...only wanting precious souls to be won for Him...even those souls who may be guilty of creating this terrible disgrace and corruption of 3abn for "We all fall short". Praise the Lord if we can still hear "that still small voice behind us saying this is the way...walk ye in it". Happy Sabbath!

Runner in your post you seem to contradict yourself. In one breath you say Truth is all we should care about and dig for, wanting precious souls......then you say the souls who may be guilty of disgrace and corruption. We then can assume by this that you are NOT digging for truth but have already made up your mind what ruth is and your posts reflect such. Your statement of corruption at 3abn is not "truth" it is an accusation. If you were really interested in "digging" for the truth you would not be here. You could visit there personally. Or, make phone calls or talk face to face with those that are being attacked. Put matt 18 into practice. If you haven't done any of these things, or if you haven't witnessed any of the allegations then, you truly need, to keep digging instead of coming to unfounded conclusions. When you want to know something, you go to the sources. You don't listen to gossip and speculation.

> QUOTE(Pickle @ May 12 2007, 09:21 PM) ☐
>
> Cindy, it seems to me that you might be doing the very thing you're accusing me of. That's not real wise, is it?
>
> What I wrote is the truth. It isn't a false accusation at all. One of Danny's allies indicated to the recipient of that letter that the conference and Church were at risk.

I agree with Cindy. If it was "truly" one of Danny's allies, he wouldn't be talking to you period.
When you say "I wrote the truth" the truth of what? That "someone" may have indicated another allegation?
I love the words "indicated" and "Allie." There are so many holes in that statment it leaks like a sieve.
1. Was it really an allie? As stated I seriously doubt it.
2. The alleged letter didn't even go to the so called "allie". It went to the "recipient".
3. So, the "recipient" of a "supposed" letter, told the "alleged" allie, who then told you that there was an "indication" that Danny "could possibly" sue the conference????? ☒ rofl
You crack me up Pickle.
How foolish that anyone would even comment on that post, much less speculate.

> QUOTE(SoulEspresso @ May 11 2007, 12:07 AM) ☐
>
> The minute Danny actually sues the church at any level, his support from the organization (even in the form of silence) will be gone. Nothing makes the brethren sit up and take notice like getting papers by FedEx ...
>
> So I almost wish he would, fancy law firm and all. "I see your true colors shining through, I see your true colors, that's why I ~~love~~ pray for you ..."
> (well, "love" too in the sense of spiritual concern and commitment, but it's in spite of the true colors not because of them.)

The mere fact that you took such a foolish and unfounded piece of gossip, speculated and ran with it as a fact, says alot about you. I have witnessed you doing the same thing when an opinion, or an unproven allegation is made. Haven't you said before that you were a pastor?
If so, I pity your congregation if you use the same standards to judge them by.

FYI. Danny never said he was going to sue the conference. Why? For what? If he doesn't know why he would, then why would anyone else?

> QUOTE(runner4him @ May 10 2007, 08:53 PM) ☐
>
> This is appalling! Danny Shelton threatening to sue the church and even to go outside the U.S. to stop individuals who innocently are asking questions? Which country is he and his expensive lawyers supposedly going to be flying to next...and in that jet of his? I just feel like I am living in some nightmare.

What is appalling here is that are taking such a ridiculous post seriously. A "recipent" supposedly received an "alleged" letter that "indicated" Danny "may" sue the conference. This "recipient" told a supposed "allie" of Danny (not) who then repeated it to Pickle. So now, it is a fact..... You know what? If you believe and take serious this kind of unfounded, and unverified information, you are living in a nightmare.

Posted by: runner4him May 13 2007, 05:42 AM

QUOTE(runner4him @ May 10 2007, 08:53 PM)

> QUOTE
>
> This is appalling! Danny Shelton threatening to sue the church and even to go outside the U.S. to stop individuals who innocently are asking questions? Which country is he and his expensive lawyers supposedly going to be flying to next...and in that jet of his? I just feel like I am living in some nightmare.

> QUOTE
>
> Eirene FYI. Danny never said he was going to sue the conference. Why? For what? If he doesn't know why he would, then why would anyone else?
> What is appalling here is that are taking such a ridiculous post seriously. A "recipent" supposedly received an "alleged" letter that "indicated" Danny "may" sue the conference. This "recipient" told a supposed "allie" of Danny (not) who then repeated it to Pickle. So now, it is a fact..... You know what? If you believe and take serious this kind of unfounded, and unverified information, you are living in a nightmare.

Whoops...Eirene, you missed the point. Digging for truth includes reading ALL the documentation on both sides. You do not know if I have contacted anyone at 3abn but a caution to anyone who tries. No one may talk to you. How could one find out anything if the information is SEALED up for the lawsuit as well as for other issues. It seems to me that DS and the 3abn board would want the lawsuit info to be public if they have a valid reason to sue...or if their mission is truly to spread the Gospel without personal financial gain...if there has been no cover up of alleged child abuse...if...if..if... DS and the board should want their supporters to be able to see all of this clearly instead of looking through a smoke screen and hoping that the truth will EVENTUALLY come out. They should be concerned with gathering forces on their side but they can never do that with secrecy! You come across as if you think you have some kind of insider information. I appreciate the fact that the www.save3abn.com site as well as this bsda site are able to provide people like me with unadulterated documentation, information, and yes, opinions (no one seeking for truth need be afraid of opinions) to assist in the digging process.

As for the nightmare....It has been troubling to realize that an organization that I have supported by word and monies has resorted to taking fellow Christians to (secret) court over daring to ask important questions. I too have the right to question and expect answers from DS on why he would hire and retain so long someone who is an alleged (sounds like he admitted it in a letter) sexual child molester, why he can put away his wife without grounds and marry another, why he travels in an expensive jet, why the appearance of a lavish lifestyle while the supporters sacrifice, promote the network, and trust that all is okay on the pedestal. why...why...why...

Blessings!

Printable Version of Topic

Click here to view this topic in its original format

BlackSDA _ 3ABN _ How Many Alleged Victims Of Tommy Shelton? 25+?

Posted by: Whtz Happenin Feb 23 2007, 03:06 PM

Timeline of Sexual Allegations of Tommy Shelton:

I could not find anywhere that listed all of the possible alleged victims of Tommy Shelton. I attempted to list them all below in order to grasp the possible magnitude of the number of alleged victims. This is a rough draft and as more information is posted I will update and re-post.

- The allegations are from the AToday article, posts at BlackSDA.com, Maritime-sda-online.org and/or Christianforums.com.

Please review and provide missing information.

Mid 1970's

#1 (or more) -Allegations - About 30 year's ago - Walt Thompson

Nineteen Eighty's

#2 - 1982-83 School Year - Allegation by BD

#3 - Allegations of "three other boys"

#4 - Allegations of "three other boys"

#5 - Allegations of "three other boys"

#6 - October 1984 - Seen w/ one boy - Avery - (Possibly one of "three other boys")

#7 - Allegation by Mother #1 of Victim

#8 - Allegation by Mother of GH

September 15, 1985 - Resigned as Pastor of Ezra Church of God (TS open letter)

October 25, 1985 - Ordination Suspended

#9 - Late 1985/Early 1986 - Allegation by DC

June 1986 (Approx) - Hired as Pastor of Ezra Church of God (TS open letter)

#10 - Around 1988 - Allegation by RC

#11 - "Victims that have not come forward" - post by PJMusic
- "...at least 5 other victims I know of that have not come forward yet." - post by D. Clem

#12 - (2) "Victims that have not come forward"

#13 - (3) "Victims that have not come forward"

#14 - (4) "Victims that have not come forward"

#15 (or more) - (5) "Victims that have not come forward"

- At least 6 boys were sexually abused - Assume #'s (2-15) include - Dryden

Nineteen Ninety's

#16 (or more) - Early 1990's prior to resigning from Ezra - Further Allegations (Atoday)

1991 - Resigns from Ezra Church of God

1991 – Hired by 3ABN as Production Manager (Atoday)

#17 - (1991- 1992) - Employee allegation (Atoday)

1992 (Aprox) - Fired by 3ABN

- Result of employee allegations (AToday)

1992 (Aprox) - Hired by 3ABN to Promote 3ABN

- Traveled around by Bus singing and promoting

1995 - Hired as Assist. Pastor of Dunn Loring Church of God

1996 - Hired as Pastor of Dunn Loring Church of God

- Further allegations during time at Dunn Loring (Atoday)

#18 - One minor at VA Church - Dryden

#19 - Adult #1 at VA Church - Dryden

#20 - Adult #2 at VA Church - Dryden

#21 - Misconduct at VA Church - Unrelated to other 3 - Dryden (Martime #82093)

#22 - underage victims from VA has gone from 1 to 3..." (post by Pickle) (possibly #21)

#23 - underage victims from VA has gone from 1 to 3..." (post by Pickle)

Two Thousand's

#24 - In 2000 - Family confronted - relationship with underage male (possibly #18) (Atoday)

#25 - 2000 - Family confronted - inappropriate relationship with son (Atoday)

2000 - Resigned as Pastor of Dunn Loring Church of God

(2000- 2002) (Aprox) - Hired by 3ABN as Archive Librarian

2001 - Surrendered Credentials to the Ministerial Council in VA (TS Open Letter)

June 2004 - Promoted by 3ABN to Programming Manager

December 2006 - Resigned from 3ABN

Notes:

a. Information about allegations in the 1970's is not known [(-) 01/ (+) ??]

b. #6 may be included in "three other boys" [(-) 01/ (+) 00]

c. "Victims that have not come forward" [(-) 00/ (+) ??]

d. "At least 6 boys were sexually abused" [(-) 00/ (+) ??]

e. Further Allegations in Early 1990's may be included elsewhere [(-) 01/ (+) ??]

f. #'s 18 and 24 may be the same victim [(-) 01/ (+) 00]

g. #'s 21 and 22 may be the same victim [(-) 01/ (+) 00]

Total number of alleged victims may be 25, as low as 20 or as high as an unknown number.

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Feb 23 2007, 05:18 PM

Whtz Happenin,

This is a great start! It looks like you put a lot of time into this. Thank you! It will be interesting how the time line evolves, now, as it continues to be fleshed out.

PB

Posted by: PrincessDrRe Feb 23 2007, 07:17 PM

Even if one of them is right...... He's (Tommy) is wrong....

My LERD!

Posted by: Whtz Happenin Mar 12 2007, 12:12 AM

This topic has been quiet for awhile. If anyone has any additional relevant information, please post.

Posted by: erik Mar 12 2007, 03:18 AM

> QUOTE(Whtz Happenin @ Mar 11 2007, 11:12 PM)
>
> This topic has been quiet for awhile. If anyone has any additional relevant information, please post.

What is very telling is no one from the Pro 3abn crowd has tried to disprove your time line.

Makes me wonder why???

ERik

Posted by: Pickle Mar 12 2007, 08:43 AM

Guess I missed this thread.

#7 Mother #1 is not the mother of one of the three boys. Here son did not come forward until January 24, 2007, the very day the ASI statement came out.

I think #6 is correct.

#8 I understand at present to not be one of the three boys, but to be the mother of the fourth boy in Dryden's 2003 count of six, fourth in the order of when Dryden found out about them, not in chronological order. In other words, Dryden's #5 is actually Brad Dunning, in my understanding, because he found out about him after #1-#4.

Tommy asserts that he resigned from his pastorate in his open letter. I'd like some confirmation that that was the case, especially since his open letter claims that the first allegations came in September 1985.

Posted by: Pickle Mar 12 2007, 10:16 AM

http://www.cnn.com/2007/US/03/09/roberts.btsc/index.html

Interesting story. Here's a nationally known figure who kept quiet for 20 years, even when a friend came forward with similar allegations and had them thrown out of court. It must be super hard to come forward.

Posted by: Noahswife Mar 12 2007, 12:14 PM

> QUOTE(Pickle @ Mar 12 2007, 12:16 PM)
>
> http://www.cnn.com/2007/US/03/09/roberts.btsc/index.html
>
> Interesting story. Here's a nationally known figure who kept quiet for 20 years, even when a friend came forward with similar allegations and had them thrown out of court. It must be super hard to come forward.

I would agree.

But what I find disturbing is how little time was actually served for the crimes committed. I wonder if someone were facing the question of coming forward and all they and their family would have to face in public scrutiny if they did, if the small penalty actually paid here by the priest in terms of time actually served would, on balance, be worth it or would the public exposure be enough?

nw
C"i"

Posted by: awesumtenor Mar 12 2007, 12:40 PM

> QUOTE(Pickle @ Mar 12 2007, 12:16 PM)
>
> http://www.cnn.com/2007/US/03/09/roberts.btsc/index.html
>
> Interesting story. Here's a nationally known figure who kept quiet for 20 years, even when a friend came forward with similar allegations and had them thrown out of court. It must be super hard to come forward.

Particularly if you are famous... and even worse if you are a professional athlete; several years ago an NHL player came forward about the abuse he suffered at the hands of his junior hockey coach and 2 years ago Laverneus Coles, wide receiver for the NY Jets came forward about the abuse he suffed at the hands of his step-father and even though it was sexual abuse, in the über-homophobic world of professional sports, both continue to suffer as a result, facing homosexual slurs from opoosing players and the like.

Both have said that sometimes it's so bad they wish they had continued to keep silent... but both are ultimately glad they told their story and their abusers convicted.

In His service,
Mr. J

Posted by: Whtz Happenin Mar 13 2007, 12:10 AM

> QUOTE(Pickle @ Mar 12 2007, 10:43 AM)
>
> Guess I missed this thread.
>
> #7 Mother #1 is not the mother of one of the three boys. Here son did not come forward until January 24, 2007, the very day the ASI statement came out.
>
> I think #6 is correct.
>
> #8 I understand at present to not be one of the three boys, but to be the mother of the fourth boy in Dryden's 2003 count of six, fourth in the order of when Dryden found out about them, not in chronological order. In other words, Dryden's #5 is actually Brad Dunning, in my understanding, because he found out about him after #1-#4.
>
> Tommy asserts that he resigned from his pastorate in his open letter. I'd like some confirmation that that was the case, especially since his open letter claims that the first allegations came in September 1985.

Thanks Pickle for your input. I wish we could all miss this thread and wake up to find it only a nightmare. Unfortunately, no one is denying any of the allegations; including Tommy in his open letter.

Posted by: Clay Mar 16 2007, 08:48 AM

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (March 16) - A man who sexually assaulted a University of Virginia student in 1984 and apologized to her two decades later as part of the Alcoholics Anonymous program was sentenced to 18 months in prison Thursday.

http://news.aol.com/topnews/articles/_a/man-who-sent-apology-sentenced-for-rape/20070315175709990001?ncid=NWS00010000000001

who was it that said that T.S. could not get jail time?

Posted by: Johann Mar 16 2007, 09:24 AM

> QUOTE(Clay @ Mar 16 2007, 04:48 PM)
>
> CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (March 16) - A man who sexually assaulted a University of Virginia student in 1984 and apologized to her two decades later as part of the Alcoholics Anonymous program was sentenced to 18 months in prison Thursday.
> http://news.aol.com/topnews/articles/_a/man-who-sent-apology-sentenced-for-rape/20070315175709990001?ncid=NWS00010000000001
> who was it that said that T.S. could not get jail time?

It is remarkable that this man could have gotten a life sentence, but he was given merely 18 months because he repented of his evil. It is also stated that an apology is no substitute for punishment for the evil deed.

Posted by: Observer Mar 16 2007, 10:39 AM

> QUOTE(Clay @ Mar 16 2007, 07:48 AM)
>
> CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (March 16) - A man who sexually assaulted a University of Virginia student in 1984 and apologized to her two decades later as part of the Alcoholics Anonymous program was sentenced to 18 months in prison Thursday.
> http://news.aol.com/topnews/articles/_a/man-who-sent-apology-sentenced-for-rape/20070315175709990001?ncid=NWS00010000000001
> who was it that said that T.S. could not get jail time?

Virginia does not have a Statute of Limitations on the crime for which he was convicted.

Many other States to have such a Statue of Limitations. It is people from those States who have said that he could not be convicted of a crime.

In this specific case, the prosecution had a signed confession from the man. That fact bring up a lot of new issues.

Posted by: Noahswife Mar 16 2007, 11:12 AM

> QUOTE(Observer @ Mar 16 2007, 12:39 PM)
>
> Virginia does not have a Statute of Limitations on the crime for which he was convicted.
>
> Many other States to have such a Statue of Limitations. It is people from those States who have said that he could not be convicted of a crime.
>
> In this specific case, the prosecution had a signed confession from the man. That fact bring up a lot of new issues.

Greg you are correct about Virgina law.

This is the post I made several weeks ago about this case.

http://www.blacksda.com/forums/index.php?s=&showtopic=11955&view=findpost&p=180531

nw
C"i"

Posted by: Clay Mar 16 2007, 11:20 AM

aren't there some allegations from Virginia?

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Mar 16 2007, 12:01 PM

> QUOTE(Clay @ Mar 16 2007, 09:20 AM) ☐
>
> aren't there some allegations from Virginia?

Clay,

Yes there are allegations in VA. TS and 3abn's response?

http://www.blacksda.com/forums/index.php?showtopic=12279&st=0&p=172694&#entry172694

I hope the church in Virginia hasn't been so intimidated that they will back off. Those alleged victims need to take the steps forward that will help them find healing, IMO.

PB

Noahswife,

It's great to know the "rest of the story" finally, isn't it! While 18 months isn't a very long sentence, it still won't be a walk in the park. I hope all of the frat party boys will hear of this case and take it to heart before they do anything like this guy did.

PB

Posted by: Noahswife Mar 16 2007, 12:32 PM

> QUOTE(PeacefullyBewildered @ Mar 16 2007, 02:01 PM) ☐
>
> Noahswife,
>
> It's great to know the "rest of the story" finally, isn't it! While 18 months isn't a very long sentence, it still won't be a walk in the park. I hope all of the frat party boys will hear of this case and take it to heart before they do anything like this guy did.
>
> PB

PB~

Since there will be those who will not read the prior story, here is a quote:

On Jan. 4, 2006, Beebe was arrested in Las Vegas.

There is no statute of limitations on felonies in Virginia, and with Beebe's written confession, it appeared to be an open-and-shut case.

Except Beebe, facing a sentence of life in prison, suddenly denied raping Seccuro.

She couldn't believe it.

They were headed for trial.

• • •

She began to receive e-mails and letters, many from Christians condemning her for pressing charges, admonishing her to forgive.

But she had forgiven Beebe. Couldn't she forgive and still want justice?

Her panic attacks returned. Some friends stopped calling. She suffered a miscarriage while nervously awaiting Beebe's arrest.

It seemed Beebe was hurting her again.

and

In the end Beebe pleaded guilty to a lesser charge of aggravated sexual battery and the other charges were dropped. I do not want anyone to think he only received 18 months for rape despite his confession.

nw

Posted by: Fran Mar 17 2007, 08:34 PM

> QUOTE(Noahswife @ Mar 16 2007, 12:32 PM)
>
> PB~
>
> Since there will be those who will not read the prior story, here is a quote:
>
> On Jan. 4, 2006, Beebe was arrested in Las Vegas.
>
> There is no statute of limitations on felonies in Virginia, and with Beebe's written confession, it appeared to be an open-and-shut case.
>
> Except Beebe, facing a sentence of life in prison, suddenly denied raping Seccuro.
>
> She couldn't believe it.
>
> They were headed for trial.
>
> • • •
>
> She began to receive e-mails and letters, many from Christians condemning her for pressing charges, admonishing her to forgive.
>
> But she had forgiven Beebe. Couldn't she forgive and still want justice?
>
> Her panic attacks returned. Some friends stopped calling. She suffered a miscarriage while nervously awaiting Beebe's arrest.
>
> It seemed Beebe was hurting her again.
>
> and

> In the end Beebe pleaded guilty to a lesser charge of aggravated sexual battery and the other charges were dropped. I do not want anyone to think he only received 18 months for rape despite his confession.
>
> nw

☒ bum

Posted by: PrincessDrRe Mar 17 2007, 10:18 PM

bump....

☒ sn

Actually...can this be pinned?

Posted by: Fran Mar 17 2007, 10:52 PM

> QUOTE(PrincessDrRe @ Mar 17 2007, 10:18 PM)
>
> bump....
>
> ☒ sn
>
> Actually...can this be pinned?

It should be!

Posted by: Noahswife Apr 2 2007, 10:03 AM

There has been a lot of spin regarding consent and the ages of alleged victims of TS. Bob posted this at another forum today and I know I may have missed something before, but this is the most specific age I have read thus far:

The New Years' tribute to Tommy occurred right as Duane Clem was deciding to come forward.

On January 24-26, right as a statement containing distortions and falsehoods was released and publicized, another alleged victim came forward, this one claiming to be 8 years old at the time.

Time will reveal another providence.

http://www.christianforums.com/showpost.php?p=33448582&postcount=240

Note to self......take anti-emetic before reading anything more about TS.......

nw
C"i"

Posted by: Pickle Apr 2 2007, 10:11 AM

Yes, the son of Mom in Pain #1 claims to have been 8 at the time. Roger Clem claims to have been 16. Brad Dunning claims to have been around 14 at the time he was propositioned.

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Apr 2 2007, 12:49 PM

> QUOTE(Pickle @ Apr 2 2007, 09:11 AM)
>
> Yes, the son of Mom in Pain #1 claims to have been 8 at the time. Roger Clem claims to have been 16. Brad Dunning claims to have been around 14 at the time he was propositioned.

So, there are at least three alleged victims that put Tommy Shelton into the category of alleged child molester-pedophile-child sexual predator per the State of Illinois.

Posted by: seraph|m Apr 2 2007, 05:41 PM

> QUOTE(PeacefullyBewildered @ Apr 2 2007, 01:49 PM)
>
> So, there are at least three alleged victims that put Tommy Shelton into the category of alleged child molester-pedophile-child sexual predator per the State of Illinois.

Will the authorities ever be notified? As long as nobody tells, other children are at risk.

Posted by: PrincessDrRe Apr 3 2007, 01:43 PM

....and it won't "change" until it is somebody's "important" child.

Sorry.

...but you know what I'm saying....

Posted by: Whtz Happenin Apr 5 2007, 12:30 AM

> QUOTE(PeacefullyBewildered @ Mar 16 2007, 02:01 PM)
>
> Clay,
>
> Yes there are allegations in VA. TS and 3abn's response?
>
> http://www.blacksda.com/forums/index.php?showtopic=12279&st=0&p=172694&#entry172694

> I hope the church in Virginia hasn't been so intimidated that they will back off. Those alleged victims need to take the steps forward that will help them find healing, IMO.
>
> PB

t sure has been a while since there has been any information about the VA allegations. I pray that during the ilence the victims are receiving support and a plan is in the works to file charges.

fter the threatening letter was sent from TS/DS/3ABN, someone mentioned collecting money to help support he victims and the church. If anyone from the VA area knows how we can help, please let us know. We must ontinue to lift the entire situation up in prayer.

ike it has been said over and over, if TS is not guilty, why would he send a threatening letter?

Vhy would he write an open letter, without denying any of the allegations? Review the following post:

ttp://www.blacksda.com/forums/index.php?s=&showtopic=11955&view=findpost&p=179087

Vhy would he only focus on the attacks against him and his family?

> QUOTE
>
> For six years no one has questioned my Christian experience...

Vhy would he focus on how he has been the last 6 years? If he is innocent, why not talk about the last 25 ears?

> QUOTE
>
> ....and actually for the six years prior, when I was with you all, you didn't question it either. In fact, the vast majority of you sensed the presence of the Holy Spirit in our services, you told me that you learned and were drawn closer to God through our ministry there.

gain, this has nothing to do with anything. Only trying to spin the focus of everyone and try to use the Holy pirit to support his statement. Very dangerous!

> QUOTE
>
> I'm not saying that I wasn't human - not saying that I didn't have issues that I struggled with - not saying that I didn't make mistakes - or never miscommunicated something etc. but I was not a sexually immoral person. Check back to what you felt in your own spirit while we were there.

o, the members of the church in VA should have felt something in their own spirit? Again, deflect the focus o what others should have felt. How would this feel?

his is the only thing I can find that resembles a denial. I wonder what TS's definition of "sexually immoral" s. Should we ask Bill Clinton for his input?

> QUOTE
>
> In addition to my ruination in the Church of God, I have also been ruined in the Seventh-Day-Adventist Church...I can never preach, teach, sing or play in the Church of God or Adventist church again at this point. ...because of the pressure...from the scandalizing on the internet, it was necessary for me to leave my job because of the stress...

Continuing to turn the video camera and focus on how he is being victimized.

> QUOTE
>
> As I see it, The Church at Dunn Loring has only one biblical avenue to pursue. The church cannot bring reconciliation between my accusers and me. That can only be accomplished between them and me, and both parties have to want it. ...The only biblical avenue for the church to take is, II Corinthians 2:6-8, and that is where it must end - now...

Now he is giving the steps that need to be taken for reconciliation. He fails to mention that the accusation is a crime. An innocent man would be very transparent about everything.

> QUOTE
>
> One last thought, let's say I'm innocent, or I am forgiven.......at whose hand will the blood of those souls that may have been saved under my continued ministry, be required? I would fear to be the one who shut down the ministry of one whose fruit in the past 20 years show he was used of God in some measure whether great or small.

Does innocent = forgiven? Thank God this is possible from an eternal perspective. However, this does not apply criminally.

> QUOTE
>
> Don't wrestle with guilty or innocent, just determine to follow I Corinthians 5 to it's completion in II Corinthians 2:6-8 - not just in this matter but in every situation that you may face in the future.

How convenient - At least he is not hiding the spin and deflection. Once again, he has turned the camera off of him and focused on the actions of others. Then to end the letter, after all that he has went through, he is still able to give parting advice on how this can just all go away. Everyone should just forget about all of this. Is he trying to sound like Paul in his letters to the churches? Apostle Paul did everything he could do to focus on Jesus and not on himself.

Let's be clear, for most of us, this will fade away into our memories, but what about the victims? What should they do?

We must continue to pray for the victims and also for TS.

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Apr 5 2007, 10:37 AM

Whtz Happenin,

This is a very insightful set of observations! We can't forget about the victims. If we do we are as guilty as the one who violated them.

PB

Posted by: Observer Apr 5 2007, 12:22 PM

A link has been placed here in BSDA that references a very long letter that Tommy Shelton is supposed to have written. It is much to long for my comments here. But, I will make a few on a small part of that letter.

> QUOTE
>
> For argument sake let's say that every charge against me is true, how can he know that in the last 6 years I have not repented? The CCOG board has numbers of letters from people at 3ABN who worked with me every day who have testified to my Christian experience and walk with the Lord over these last many years. There has not been one rumor of any kind – sexual immorality, dishonesty, deceit or any other of the sins Glenn accuses me of. . . . I repeat, if it were all true – do we not believe in repentance and forgiveness? For six years no one has questioned my Christian experience . . . .

Tommy, I know nothing in regard to whether or not you have repented. So, I do not challenge you on that. In my theology, I am willing to say that you are forgiven. In fact, I am willing to say that you were forgiven before you repented! But, such repentance and forgiveness does not release one from consequences. The death of Christ on Calvary may have provided for all sins to be forgiven. But, in my thinking, that does not mean that eternal consequences will not come to those who reject that forgiveness, and do not repent. Again, I know nothing of your repentance, and I do not judge it. Even when one repents, there may be consequences in this life today. A repentant child molester should not work with children again. Note: I do not accuse you of being such. I am simply making a point—GM.

> QUOTE
>
> In fact, the vast majority of you sensed the presence of the Holy Spirit in our services, you told me that you learned and were drawn closer to God through our ministry there. I'm not saying that I wasn't human – not saying that I didn't have issues that I struggled with – not saying that I didn't make mistakes – or never miscommunicated something etc. but I was not a sexually immoral person.

O. K. Tommy. You have acknowledged your humanity. I commend you for what you have acknowledged. I do not know what it means for you to say that you are not a sexually immoral person. In my thinking, one could fall into a sexual sin, and still honestly say that he was not sexually immoral--GM.

Also, I am not going to judge whether or not the Holy Spirit used you in the past to bring people to knowledge of our Lord. I do not know. I am willing to say that it may have happened. In addition, I am willing to say that God may be able to use you in the future. I neither know your past, nor do I know your future. Your future is between you and the Lord. While I do not know your past, I cannot say that evidence of the Holy Spirit using you in the past is evidence in regard to any specific that you may or may not have committed. God uses people who have sinned—GM.

> QUOTE
>
> One last thought, let's say I'm innocent, or I am forgiven…….at whose hand will the blood of those souls that may have been saved under my continued ministry, be required? I would fear to be the one who shut down the ministry of one whose fruit in the past 20 years show he was used of God in some measure whether great or small.

Tommy, I do not know whether you are guilty of the allegations, or whether you are not guilty of them. But, you raised a question. So, in order to respond to you, let us say that you are both guilty and forgiven. Remember, I have already stated that I am willing to say that your sins were forgiven on the cross. It is inappropriate, and a lack of faith to suggest that the blood of souls that might have been saved will rest on people who you believe may shut you down. God is not dependent upon you. God may use you. But, if you fail God, the work of God will still go forward. God will still be able to save people whom you are unable to minister to. God will bring others in to take your place, and work for those people—GM.

Tommy, you mention the hurt and pain that has come from all of this to your wife and children. My heart goes out to them. No one can even imagine the magnitude of that pain unless they have also gone through such. But, if there is hurt and pain, the responsibility for that rests upon you, if you are guilty. If, you are not guilty, the responsibility rests upon those who falsely accused you—GM.

Unfortunately this mess appears to be irresolvable without the intervention of the civil authorities. Statements have been made that litigation is coming from more than one direction. I do not criticize any of the people who may litigate. In my theology, God has established civil governments, and they play a role in the lives of Christians. If litigation is what it takes to resolve these issues, than that is what it will take. In the mean time, I wish you well spiritually, and otherwise. God will be with you on whatever path you have to walk. I see much that is positive in you. But, I also suspect that you still have a rough road ahead of you. My prayer for you is that you will understand what God wants of you in this mess, and that you will be willing to follow that leading of God. If God calls you to action—do it—GM.

At the end of his letter, it was signed, as follows—GM.

> QUOTE
>
> Tommy Shelton

Posted by: nice&smooth Apr 5 2007, 12:48 PM

> QUOTE(Whtz Happenin @ Feb 23 2007, 03:06 PM)
>
> Timeline of Sexual Allegations of Tommy Shelton:
>
> I could not find anywhere that listed all of the possible alleged victims of Tommy Shelton. I attempted to list them all below in order to grasp the possible magnitude of the number of alleged victims. This is a rough draft and as more information is posted I will update and re-post.
>
> - The allegations are from the AToday article, posts at BlackSDA.com, Maritime-sda-online.org and/or Christianforums.com.
> Please review and provide missing information.
>
> Mid 1970's
>
> #1 (or more) -Allegations - About 30 year's ago - Walt Thompson
>
> Nineteen Eighty's
>
> #2 - 1982-83 School Year - Allegation by BD
>
> #3 - Allegations of "three other boys"
>
> #4 - Allegations of "three other boys"
>
> #5 - Allegations of "three other boys"
>
> #6 - October 1984 - Seen w/ one boy - Avery - (Possibly one of "three other boys")
>
> #7 - Allegation by Mother #1 of Victim - (~~Possibly one of "three other boys"~~)
>
> #8 - Allegation by Mother of GH - (~~Possibly one of "three other boys"~~)
>
> September 15, 1985 - Resigned as Pastor of Ezra Church of God (TS open letter)
>
> October 25, 1985 - Ordination Suspended

#9 - Late 1985/Early 1986 - Allegation by DC

June 1986 (Approx) - Hired as Pastor of Ezra Church of God (TS open letter)

#10 - Around 1988 - Allegation by RC

#11 - "Victims that have not come forward" - post by PJMusic
- "...at least 5 other victims I know of that have not come forward yet." - post by D. Clem

#12 - (2) "Victims that have not come forward"

#13 - (3) "Victims that have not come forward"

#14 - (4) "Victims that have not come forward"

#15 (or more) - (5) "Victims that have not come forward"

- At least 6 boys were sexually abused - Assume #'s (2-15) include - Dryden

Nineteen Ninety's

#16 (or more) - Early 1990's prior to resigning from Ezra - Further Allegations (Atoday)

1991 - Resigns from Ezra Church of God

1991 – Hired by 3ABN as Production Manager (Atoday)

#17 - (1991- 1992) - Employee allegation (Atoday)

1992 (Aprox) - Fired by 3ABN

- Result of employee allegations (AToday)

1992 (Aprox) - Hired by 3ABN to Promote 3ABN

- Traveled around by Bus singing and promoting

1995 - Hired as Assist. Pastor of Dunn Loring Church of God

1996 - Hired as Pastor of Dunn Loring Church of God

- Further allegations during time at Dunn Loring (Atoday)

#18 - One minor at VA Church - Dryden

#19 - Adult #1 at VA Church - Dryden

#20 - Adult #2 at VA Church - Dryden

#21 - Misconduct at VA Church - Unrelated to other 3 - Dryden (Martime #82093)

Two Thousand's

#22 - In 2000 - Family confronted - relationship with underage male (possibly #15) (Atoday)

#23 - 2000 - Family confronted - inappropriate relationship with son (Atoday)

2000 or (2002 - Atoday) - Resigned as Pastor of Dunn Loring Church of God

(2000- 2002) (Aprox) - Hired by 3ABN as Achieve Librarian

> 2001 - Surrendered Credentials to the Ministerial Council in VA (TS Open Letter)
>
> June 2004 - Promoted by 3ABN to Programming Manager
>
> December 2006 - Resigned from 3ABN
>
> Notes:
>
> a. Information about allegations in the 1970's is not known [(-) 01/ (+) ??]
>
> b. #~~'s 6,~~ 7~~, and 8~~ may be included in "three other boys" [(-) 01/ (+) 00]
>
> c. "Victims that have not come forward" [(-) 00/ (+) ??]
>
> d. "At least 6 boys were sexually abused" [(-) 00/ (+) ??]
>
> e. Further Allegations in Early 1990's may be included elsewhere [(-) 01/ (+) ??]
>
> f. #'s 18 and 22 may be the same victim [(-) 01/ (+) 00]
> Total number of alleged victims may be 23, as low as 19 or as high as an unknown number.

\s if we needed more capers to dampen as well as taint Seventh Day Adventist?
Vho needs to bash the Church? Tommy Shelton has done it for us!! Who's got the telephone number to CNN? This vould make a great human intrest story. ☒

Posted by: Pickle Apr 5 2007, 01:02 PM

nice&smooth,

If you want to contribute meaningfully to the discussion, please try to be informed before you post.

Tommy Shelton is not a Seventh-day Adventist. Where this taints the church is only where Adventists condone and protect his alleged behavior. And thus far that seems to only be coming from Sheltons, board members, and their relatives.

Posted by: nice&smooth Apr 5 2007, 01:27 PM

> QUOTE(Pickle @ Apr 5 2007, 01:02 PM) ☐
>
> nice&smooth,
>
> If you want to contribute meaningfully to the discussion, please try to be informed before you post.
>
> Tommy Shelton is not a Seventh-day Adventist. Where this taints the church is only where Adventists condone and protect his alleged behavior. And thus far that seems to only be coming from Sheltons, board members, and their relatives.

ley pickle! Thanks for getting my hide told!!!! "you're as right as rain" ☐
5o much for the Evenly Wood speed reading course!! ☒ rofl

Posted by: Pickle Apr 5 2007, 03:56 PM

> QUOTE(nice&smooth @ Apr 5 2007, 01:27 PM) ☐

> Hey pickle! Thanks for getting my hide told!!!! "you're as right as rain"
> So much for the Evenly Wood speed reading course!! rofl

Pardon my ignorance, but I guess I'm not used to those figures of speech. Hopefully I won't look silly by saying, "Thank you. Anytime."

Blessings.

Posted by: nice&smooth Apr 5 2007, 06:14 PM

> QUOTE(Pickle @ Apr 5 2007, 03:56 PM)
>
> Pardon my ignorance, but I guess I'm not used to those figures of speech. Hopefully I won't look silly by saying, "Thank you. Anytime."
>
> Blessings.

Theres no need for you to be pardon thats already been done! As for your ignorance there is none. Next time i will be more articulate in expressing my thoughts, and type in terms you feel comfortable with You almost sound like you were slow on saying thank you? Pickle i'm just a down to earth brother that has come back home after running the streets; selling drugs as well as having gang affilation! I came to Jesus as i was!! So if i don't sound like the other-saints here, well now you know! You're talking to a fellow that knows about the forgiveness of sin in a real way Neither am i educated as most here, But i posses a Phd. in common sense as well as street sense! And a genuine love for the oppressed and down trodden thats real. ofl

"You can't teach what you don't know" "And you can't lead where you won't go" ?

Don't want you to get it twisted!

Posted by: mozart Apr 5 2007, 06:49 PM

> QUOTE(nice&smooth @ Apr 5 2007, 05:14 PM)
>
> Theres no need for you to be pardon thats already been done! As for your ignorance there is none. Next time i will be more articulate in expressing my thoughts, and type in terms you feel comfortable with You almost sound like you were slow on saying thank you? Pickle i'm just a down to earth brother that has come back home after running the streets; selling drugs as well as > having gang affilation! I came to Jesus as i was!! So if i don't sound like the other-> saints here, well now you know! You're talking to a fellow that knows about the forgiveness of sin in a real way Neither am i educated as most here, But i posses a Phd. in common sense as well as street sense! And a genuine love for the oppressed and down trodden thats real.

>
> "You can't teach what you don't know" "And you can't lead where you won't go" ?
>
> Don't want you to get it twisted!

Velcome N&S and Praise the Lord for your deliverence out of "the ditch". You are a humbled and saved child f God. Bless you.

Posted by: Pickle Apr 5 2007, 10:09 PM

N&S, praise God for your testimony!

Sorry about being slow. I do my best around here to avoid sticking my foot in my mouth, lest I become shark bait, and that was the only reason for my hesitancy. Feel free to use whatever phrases you wish. Maybe I'll learn a thing or too.

Posted by: Whtz Happenin Apr 17 2007, 10:11 PM

> QUOTE(Observer @ Apr 5 2007, 01:22 PM)
>
> ...
> Tommy, you mention the hurt and pain that has come from all of this to your wife and children. My heart goes out to them. No one can even imagine the magnitude of that pain unless they have also gone through such. But, if there is hurt and pain, the responsibility for that rests upon you, if you are guilty. If, you are not guilty, the responsibility rests upon those who falsely accused you—GM.
>
> Unfortunately this mess appears to be irresolvable without the intervention of the civil authorities. Statements have been made that litigation is coming from more than one direction. I do not criticize any of the people who may litigate. In my theology, God has established civil governments, and they play a role in the lives of Christians. If litigation is what it takes to resolve these issues, than that is what it will take. In the mean time, I wish you well spiritually, and otherwise. God will be with you on whatever path you have to walk. I see much that is positive in you. But, I also suspect that you still have a rough road ahead of you. My prayer for you is that you will understand what God wants of you in this mess, and that you will be willing to follow that leading of God. If God calls you to action—do it—GM.

hank you Observer for your thoughts. I pray that TS's heart will soften and he will state the truth to aid in he healing process for the alleged victims. This would be the true test to indicate that change has happened n the last six years, as TS indicates in his Open Letter. Thankfully, through the wonderful grace of Jesus we ll can receive healing even if the other party does not seek forgiveness.

Posted by: joyce Apr 18 2007, 10:27 PM

> QUOTE(Whtz Happenin @ Apr 17 2007, 09:11 PM)
>
> Thank you Observer for your thoughts. I pray that TS's heart will soften and he will state the truth to aid in the healing process for the alleged victims. This would be the true test to indicate that change has happened in the last six years, as TS indicates in his Open Letter. Thankfully, through the wonderful grace of Jesus we all can receive healing even if the other party does not seek forgiveness.

This whole situation is so sad. Not all of the victims have come forward either. As one who is close to me and has not chosen to come forward, tells me that there are lots of reason to keep quiet. One, it is embarrassing. Why you didn't see it coming and what had you done to bring on this sort of attention. Is it possible that you as a young man are perceived by an older man as homosexual? Would your family and friends now look down on you, if they knew what had happened?

This young man was able to escape by jumping out of the car and running back to town. The incident was reported to DS, who only told the victim to keep quiet about it. Another kin of DS only laughed and said, Oh, You are just now finding out?

All this talk about TS is not news to our family. This caused our dear one a great deal of pain for many years. It is hard see all the talk here on BSDA saying all this about TS and his molesting is just rumors. It is unfortunately, the truth.

Joyce

Posted by: Fran Apr 19 2007, 12:52 AM

> QUOTE(joyce @ Apr 18 2007, 11:27 PM)
>
> This whole situation is so sad. Not all of the victims have come forward either. As one who is close to me and has not chosen to come forward, tells me that there are lots of reason to keep quiet. One, it is embarrassing. Why you didn't see it coming and what had you done to bring on this sort of attention. Is it possible that you as a young man are perceived by an older man as homosexual? Would your family and friends now look down on you, if they knew what had happened?
>
> This young man was able to escape by jumping out of the car and running back to town. The incident was reported to DS, who only told the victim to keep quiet about it. Another kin of DS only laughed and said, Oh, You are just now finding out?
>
> All this talk about TS is not news to our family. This caused our dear one a great deal of pain for many years. It is hard see all the talk here on BSDA saying all this about TS and his molesting is just rumors. It is unfortunately, the truth.
>
> Joyce

If there is a class action, isn't there some way victims identities can be shielded? There should be. I full well understand his feelings in the matter.

I sure hope that there is something that can be done. Maybe they need to talk to Gailon Joy. This is so hard for victims, especially when they are ripped apart by the "Other 14" Attorneys.

Posted by: Observer Apr 19 2007, 05:38 AM

> QUOTE(Fran @ Apr 19 2007, 12:52 AM)
>
> If there is a class action, isn't there some way victims identities can be shielded? There should be. I full well understand his feelings in the matter.
>
> I sure hope that there is something that can be done. Maybe they need to talk to Gailon Joy. This is so hard for victims, especially when they are ripped apart by the "Other 14" Attorneys.

That is sometimes done for children.

From the "practical" standpoint it is highly unlikely that it could be done for people who are now adults. There identification would get out one way or another.

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Apr 19 2007, 12:11 PM

> QUOTE(joyce @ Apr 18 2007, 08:27 PM)
>
> This whole situation is so sad. Not all of the victims have come forward either. As one who is close to me and has not chosen to come forward, tells me that there are lots of reason to keep quiet. One, it is embarrassing. Why you didn't see it coming and what had you done to bring on this sort of attention. Is it possible that you as a young man are perceived by an older man as homosexual? Would your family and friends now look down on you, if they knew what had happened?
>
> This young man was able to escape by jumping out of the car and running back to town. The incident was reported to DS, who only told the victim to keep quiet about it. Another kin of DS only laughed and said, Oh, You are just now finding out?
>
> All this talk about TS is not news to our family. This caused our dear one a great deal of pain for many years. It is hard see all the talk here on BSDA saying all this about TS and his molesting is just rumors. It is unfortunately, the truth.
>
> Joyce

Joyce,
I am so sorry that the "one who is close" to you has had to endure such pain. What you have stated is just exactly what predators and their support systems count on - shaming the victim into silence. I am, once again, shattered and dismayed to see that DS and his kin would be so willing to sacrifice the well-being of a young person to protect their loved one in his sinful behavior.

I pray that this person will find healing. I know that going public with his story of abuse would be hard, but I believe it is also a step towards truly putting the pain behind. I have watched the progress of Duane Clem since he hesitantly came forward in January and am so encouraged that he appears to finally be able to step out of the denial he was in and begin to heal. Of course, he is also having to deal with the anger of those supporting TS for having broken the secrecy he held for half of his life. It certainly is not an easy road for a victim but I trust that Duane and others will find the journey worth it after all.

Posted by: GrammieTana Apr 21 2007, 12:25 PM

> QUOTE(PeacefullyBewildered @ Apr 19 2007, 02:11 PM)
>
> Joyce,

> I am so sorry that the "one who is close" to you has had to endure such pain. What you have stated is just exactly what predators and their support systems count on - shaming the victim into silence. I am, once again, shattered and dismayed to see that DS and his kin would be so willing to sacrifice the well-being of a young person to protect their loved one in his sinful behavior.
>
> I pray that this person will find healing. I know that going public with his story of abuse would be hard, but I believe it is also a step towards truly putting the pain behind. I have watched the progress of Duane Clem since he hesitantly came forward in January and am so encouraged that he appears to finally be able to step out of the denial he was in and begin to heal. Of course, he is also having to deal with the anger of those supporting TS for having broken the secrecy he held for half of his life. It certainly is not an easy road for a victim but I trust that Duane and others will find the journey worth it after all.

’B, this is exactly why I said in another thread that these issues are separate from the 3ABN financial issues. ˜his was not a matter of protecting 3ABN, but rather another family member, 3ABN employee or not.

am hopeful that Linda's new attorney will find it possible to facilitate prosecution of DS at least, and perhaps ˜S as well, for their criminal behavior where and whenever it took place and with whom. Could he do both :ases at once? Probably not, but at least he could help TS victims find courage to prosecute on their own ›ehalf. This cannot continue to be swept under the rug.

ɜT

Posted by: Whtz Happenin Apr 23 2007, 06:56 PM

> QUOTE(joyce @ Apr 19 2007, 12:27 AM) ☐
>
> This whole situation is so sad. Not all of the victims have come forward either. As one who is close to me and has not chosen to come forward, tells me that there are lots of reason to keep quiet. One, it is embarrassing. Why you didn't see it coming and what had you done to bring on this sort of attention. Is it possible that you as a young man are perceived by an older man as homosexual? Would your family and friends now look down on you, if they knew what had happened?
>
> This young man was able to escape by jumping out of the car and running back to town. The incident was reported to DS, who only told the victim to keep quiet about it. Another kin of DS only laughed and said, Oh, You are just now finding out?
>
> All this talk about TS is not news to our family. This caused our dear one a great deal of pain for many years. It is hard see all the talk here on BSDA saying all this about TS and his molesting is just rumors. It is unfortunately, the truth.
>
> Joyce

oyce, Thank you for sharing with us. I will be praying for you and your family member, along with many ›thers, as they weigh the cost of coming forward.

Vhat can we as society do to change this perception that most victims have? We may not be able to influence ;ociety as a whole, but we can influence how we react to the situation. Friends and family of a victims can ;tep up and let the victim know that they will stand up with them no matter what happens. Help them learn o look to God for their self worth and know that they are a beloved son or daughter of God. So Joyce I ːncourage you to continue to look to God and encourage your family that this does not have to remain a ıidden issue.

am not saying that coming forward is easy by any means, but the faster the weight can be transferred to ›ur Father in Heaven the better. This can happen with or without support from others, but positive support from friends and family can make a world of difference.

I applaud all who have come forward, but I do not look down on anyone that has not, because I have not walked the road that they have. I can only remind others that Jesus does know the pain and has already made provisions for their healing.

The boys, now men, can form a "band of brothers" and encourage each other. I love it when Duane states with confidence that he will not be silenced by anyone anymore.

If the victim or victims in VA can still press charges, can you imagine the power of the victims from IL driving over there to show their support?

And when the enemy stands up and shouts lies to try to silence God's beloved children,

"What then shall we say to these things? If God is for us, who can be against us? He who did not spare His own Son, but delivered Him up for us all, how shall He not with Him also freely give us all things? Who shall bring a charge against God's elect? It is God who justifies. Who is he who condemns? It is Christ who died, and furthermore is also risen, who is even at the right hand of God, who also makes intercession for us. Who shall separate us from the love of Christ? Shall tribulation, or distress, or persecution, or famine, or nakedness, or peril, or sword? As it is written:

" For Your sake we are killed all day long;
We are accounted as sheep for the slaughter."

Yet in all these things we are more than conquerors through Him who loved us. For I am persuaded that neither death nor life, nor angels nor principalities nor powers, nor things present nor things to come, nor height nor depth, nor any other created thing, shall be able to separate us from the love of God which is in Christ Jesus our Lord. Romans 8:31-39 NKJV

The Truth shall set you free!

Now that's Whtz Happenin
(Sorry, but I got fired up as I read the scriptures above.)

Posted by: runner4him Apr 23 2007, 07:12 PM

> QUOTE(Whtz Happenin @ Apr 23 2007, 06:56 PM)
>
> Joyce, Thank you for sharing with us. I will be praying for you and your family member, along with many others, as they weigh the cost of coming forward.
>
> What can we as society do to change this perception that most victims have? We may not be able to influence society as a whole, but we can influence how we react to the situation. Friends and family of a victims can step up and let the victim know that they will stand up with them no matter what happens. Help them learn to look to God for their self worth and know that they are a beloved son or daughter of God. So Joyce I encourage you to continue to look to God and encourage your family that this does not have to remain a hidden issue.
>
> I am not saying that coming forward is easy by any means, but the faster the weight can be transferred to our Father in Heaven the better. This can happen with or without support from others, but positive support from friends and family can make a world of difference.
>
> I applaud all who have come forward, but I do not look down on anyone that has not, because I have not walked the road that they have. I can only remind others that Jesus does know the pain and has already made provisions for their healing.
>
> The boys, now men, can form a "band of brothers" and encourage each other. I love it when Duane states with confidence that he will not be silenced by anyone anymore.

> If the victim or victims in VA can still press charges, can you imagine the power of the victims from IL driving over there to show their support?
>
> And when the enemy stands up and shouts lies to try to silence God's beloved children,
>
> "What then shall we say to these things? If God is for us, who can be against us? He who did not spare His own Son, but delivered Him up for us all, how shall He not with Him also freely give us all things? Who shall bring a charge against God's elect? It is God who justifies. Who is he who condemns? It is Christ who died, and furthermore is also risen, who is even at the right hand of God, who also makes intercession for us. Who shall separate us from the love of Christ? Shall tribulation, or distress, or persecution, or famine, or nakedness, or peril, or sword? As it is written:
>
> " For Your sake we are killed all day long;
> We are accounted as sheep for the slaughter."
>
> Yet in all these things we are more than conquerors through Him who loved us. For I am persuaded that neither death nor life, nor angels nor principalities nor powers, nor things present nor things to come, nor height nor depth, nor any other created thing, shall be able to separate us from the love of God which is in Christ Jesus our Lord. Romans 8:31-39 NKJV
>
> The Truth shall set you free!
>
> Now that's Whtz Happenin
> (Sorry, but I got fired up as I read the scriptures above.)

ly heart grieves with the victims and their families. Maybe we could have a large caravan of people who care ibout the injustices that have been done....we could drive wherever to be a support to these dear people who iave suffered so much. We need to stand up and call sin by its right name and be unafraid!

Posted by: Whtz Happenin Apr 23 2007, 07:35 PM

> QUOTE(runner4him @ Apr 23 2007, 09:12 PM) ☐
>
> My heart grieves with the victims and their families. Maybe we could have a large caravan of people who care about the injustices that have been done....we could drive wherever to be a support to these dear people who have suffered so much. We need to stand up and call sin by its right name and be unafraid!

Velcome runner4him!

Posted by: seraph|m Apr 26 2007, 12:58 PM

What steps have been taken to bring the culprit to justice?

Posted by: mozart Apr 26 2007, 02:08 PM

> QUOTE(seraph|m @ Apr 26 2007, 12:58 PM) ☐
>
> What steps have been taken to bring the culprit to justice?

vho can take those steps but the victims? on another thread here someone said that they hoped danny and loug would in some way address this matter and reach out to the perpetrator in an "annountability" way and each out to the victims in a "supportive" way and bring things out in the open in a "healing" way. (i'm)araphrasing). thing of it is, i don't think anyone at 3abn will do anything unless they are forced by victims hat became victims WHILE they were at 3abn. other than that, i dont see that they have any esponsibility or inclination in the matter (other than moral maybe since some knew and employed a)erpetrator) but i dont think they would open themselves up to that, even tho' they are suppose to be mending broken people" and it would be their mission. unfortunately, that idealism seems to just be the vords to a theme song.

Posted by: seraph|m Apr 26 2007, 02:33 PM

> QUOTE(mozart @ Apr 26 2007, 05:08 PM)
>
> who can take those steps but the victims?

This is obvious. The question is, have any steps been taken?

Posted by: Whtz Happenin Apr 27 2007, 12:36 PM

> QUOTE(seraph|m @ Apr 26 2007, 04:33 PM)
>
> This is obvious. The question is, have any steps been taken?

ieraph|m',
just noticed that you are from DC Metro. How close are you to the church in VA where the most recent illegations have been made?

Posted by: Whtz Happenin Apr 27 2007, 12:49 PM

I was looking around the 3ABN website and noticed something very interesting.

> QUOTE
>
> Note to website promoters
> Unless your website belongs to a program, host, or special series currently featured on 3ABN, please do not contact us to have your website added to this list. 3ABN does not respond to third-party link requests.

)ne of the links, "Improving Your Piano Skills" at this web address, http://www.3abn.org/links.cfm, is to a ite where you can purchase TS materials.

t looks like he is still hanging around.

Posted by: PrincessDrRe May 4 2007, 07:51 PM

Bump for info.....
☒ sn

Posted by: Just a Guy May 5 2007, 08:31 PM

> QUOTE(PrincessDrRe @ May 4 2007, 08:51 PM) ☐
>
> Bump for info.....
> ☒ sn

Haven't you heard enough already? This is sick.

Posted by: PrincessDrRe May 5 2007, 08:46 PM

> QUOTE(Just a Guy @ May 5 2007, 09:31 PM) ☐
>
> Haven't you heard enough already? This is sick.

Yes. It's actually the "sick" kind of stuff that the SDA as well as "other" churches like to keep as "lower" threads or "out of the news".....

....that way it can happen more..... (yeah - reads twisted...but that's exactly why some folks want it to stay hidden....)

Posted by: Skyhook May 5 2007, 10:19 PM

TS is still, so to speak, on 3abn. For at least the past week or so they have been pushing a CD of him and Donna Klein, and showing them playing.
Some years ago I bought a Donna Klein cd without having heard it, hoping to get some organ music to play as people came in to the sanctuary before Sabbath School. I didn't use it. When I heard the music, I couldn't help but feel like I was in a skating rink instead of a church.

Posted by: mozart May 6 2007, 12:54 AM

☒ rofl ☒ rofl ☒ rofl oooooooooooo i remember those day. hehe good one.

> QUOTE(Skyhook @ May 5 2007, 10:19 PM) ☐
>
> TS is still, so to speak, on 3abn. For at least the past week or so they have been pushing a CD of him and Donna Klein, and showing them playing.
> Some years ago I bought a Donna Klein cd without having heard it, hoping to get some organ music to play as people came in to the sanctuary before Sabbath School. I didn't use it. When I heard the music, I > couldn't help but feel like I was in a skating rink instead of a church.

Posted by: Jnana15 May 6 2007, 12:33 PM

> QUOTE(PrincessDrRe @ May 5 2007, 09:46 PM)
>
> Yes. It's actually the "sick" kind of stuff that the SDA as well as "other" churches like to keep as "lower" threads or "out of the news".....
>
> ....that way it can happen more..... (yeah - reads twisted...but that's exactly why some folks want it to stay hidden....)

MEN!! THANK YOU!!

> QUOTE
>
> QUOTE(Just a Guy @ May 5 2007, 09:31 PM)
>
> Haven't you heard enough already? This is sick.

want to know what "sick" person is around to protect my child.

Posted by: mozart May 6 2007, 12:50 PM

> QUOTE(Jnana15 @ May 6 2007, 12:33 PM)
>
> AMEN!! THANK YOU!!
> I want to know what "sick" person is around to protect my child.

ou're speaking the truth now girl.

Posted by: Whtz Happenin May 6 2007, 01:16 PM

> QUOTE(Just a Guy @ May 5 2007, 10:31 PM)
>
> Haven't you heard enough already? This is sick.

AG,
an you please expand on your thoughts? Are you saying that this just too sick to be discussed?

hat I hear from your post is that you would rather this just not be talked about. I am asking in case that is ot what you are saying. Thank you for your response.

Posted by: Rosyroi May 6 2007, 06:59 PM

> QUOTE(Skyhook @ May 5 2007, 09:19 PM)
>
> TS is still, so to speak, on 3abn. For at least the past week or so they have been pushing a CD of him and Donna Klein, and showing them playing.
> Some years ago I bought a Donna Klein cd without having heard it, hoping to get some organ music to play as people came in to the sanctuary before Sabbath School. I didn't use it. When I heard the music, I couldn't help but feel like I was in a skating rink instead of a church.

My mother thinks the same thing about Donna's organ playing. I think you would like her sister's organ style better but she doesn't have a record or cd or tape.

I watched the advertisement about TC and Donna Klein playing together.

Rosyroi

Posted by: Skyhook May 6 2007, 07:31 PM

> QUOTE(Rosyroi @ May 6 2007, 07:59 PM)
>
> My mother thinks the same thing about Donna's organ playing. I think you would like her sister's organ style better but she doesn't have a record or cd or tape.
>
> I watched the advertisement about TC and Donna Klein playing together.
>
> Rosyroi

I don't know how old Donna Klein is but maybe she use to watch Korla Pandit on TV. Does anyone remember him? If I recall, He or She, (that was a question in many minds) played the same kind of schmaltzy style.

Posted by: mozart May 6 2007, 08:12 PM

> QUOTE(Skyhook @ May 6 2007, 06:31 PM)
>
> If I recall, He or She, (that was a question in many minds) played the same kind of schmaltzy style.

rofl rofl rofl rofl oh dear

Posted by: Whtz Happenin May 6 2007, 10:52 PM

This will make you think.

Church Votes on Whether to Allow Sex Offender Into Congregation

A California Congregation Is Divided on Whether to Forgive His Sins or Try to Protect Their Children Link to Article:
http://abcnews.go.com/GMA/story?id=3144748&page=1&GMA=true

Link to Video:
http://abcnews.go.com/Video/playerIndex?id=3144789

Posted by: Shepherdswife May 7 2007, 06:58 AM

We had a similar situation in a church we used to attend. A 30-ish yo man showed up one Sabbath morning, and told my husband in the course of the usual "where are you from?" conversation that he had been baptized in a large metro evangelistic series in another state, and that he had just come from prison, "but I am not going to tell you why I was in, so don't ask".

His behavior at the church picnic that day made us suspicious, so my husband called some pastors in the city he referred to, and found one who said he was so glad my husband called, that the man was not safe with boys or girls, had spent time for child abuse, and had been ordered off the campmeeting campgrounds the year before for his behavior.

My husband and the senior pastor talked to the man and told him that he was welcome to fellowship with us (membership was never mentioned--I don't know how that would have been handled if it had), but that we would not allow him to spend time near the children of the church, and that they were notifying the parents of the congregation so they could protect their children as well. He got very angry, said God had forgiven him so why couldn't we, that we were not Christians, etc, etc, etc. He came a time or two more and then never showed up again. I often wonder where he went next...

In another church I am aware of in a different state, a man came to the board, told them his history, asked them to hold him accountable to his own guidelines--never being around the children, etc. He was honest and transparent. It worked for awhile...but then his accountability group moved away one by one, the church changed, and he ended up in prison again for molesting a kid in his neighborhood. I don't know what the answer is, because pedophiles desperately need fellowship and accountability, but most won't accept it, and the ones that do are still not safe around kids. Ever. IMO. Maybe someone needs to start a church just for them...

My uncle is a deacon in a large SDA city church in still another state. He and the deacons were told that there were "several" convicted child abusers attending the church, but that they were not allowed to know who they were--they were just supposed to be alert and keep their eyes open. The reasoning was that if they were "outed", they would not have a safe place to attend, and they needed that. If I was a parent of small kids and found out my church had done that, I would go somewhere else...

shepherdswife

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered May 7 2007, 07:25 AM

Shepherdswife,

I am continually awed by the important thoughts you bring to us in your posts and the personal reflection they inspire.

We must keep in mind, when discussing pedophiles and sexual abusers, that the Lord died for them as well as for each of us and longs for them to turn to Him for salvation. That DOES put our churches into the position of needing to deal with the issue of how to handle the accountability the predatory individual needs to maintain when we discover one in our midst.

In my own church family, during my teen years there was a middle-aged couple who were heavily involved with pathfinders and other youth functions. Recently, when looking through our State's Megan's

Law site, I was surprised to discover the man listed as a convicted child sexual offender. This man has not been to church for quite some time and I had wondered what had become of him. To my knowledge, this has never been discussed in my congregation. I would hope that silence around these matters would no longer be practiced or tolerated.

Posted by: runner4him May 7 2007, 10:04 AM

> QUOTE(Shepherdswife @ May 7 2007, 06:58 AM)
>
> My uncle is a deacon in a large SDA city church in still another state. He and the deacons were told that there were "several" convicted child abusers attending the church, but that they were not allowed to know who they were--they were just supposed to be alert and keep their eyes open. The reasoning was that if they were "outed", they would not have a safe place to attend, and they needed that. If I was a parent of small kids and found out my church had done that, I would go somewhere else...
>
> shepherdswife

You make some very good points. Some who indulge in certain types of addiction or abuse have difficulty staying on the straight path and while we want to accept them we must also make sure we are vigilant in order to protect our children. The main problem in many churches is the attitude of "it is not Christian to say things about people in the church even though there might be documentation or witnesses to the truth". I also have had similiar exeriences to your examples in several churches in several States. Briefly...almost 20 years ago conversations regarding sexual abuse were related to fellow students by 3 daughters of a prominant sda academy prinicipal. Each of the 3 confided in different students at different times. (The daughters were not aware of the other's abuse with their father and they looked like the ideal family). The fellow students eventually told their own parents after carrying the burden of knowing that this man who they all looked up to was a supposed sexual abuser and of his own daughters. One pastor who was outraged tried to talk to the powers that be in the conference and he was silenced with threats of losing his job. Nothing was done and the supposed abuser went elsewhere to do whatever. Another time in a different place a known convicted sexual abuser who just got out of prison came to a church where the pastor thought he did not need to tell the congregation anything. Eventually someone found out and questions were raised about this and the need to inform the parents in the church so they could be aware....the reaction of the pastor was very negative toward anyone who had anything to say.

Posted by: lurker May 7 2007, 10:09 AM

> QUOTE(PeacefullyBewildered @ May 7 2007, 07:25 AM)
>
> Shepherdswife,
>
> I am continually awed by the important thoughts you bring to us in your posts and the personal reflection they inspire.
>
> We must keep in mind, when discussing pedophiles and sexual abusers, that the Lord died for them as well as for each of us and longs for them to turn to Him for salvation. That DOES put our churches into the position of needing to deal with the issue of how to handle the accountability the predatory individual needs to maintain when we discover one in our midst.
>
> In my own church family, during my teen years there was a middle-aged couple who were heavily involved with pathfinders and other youth functions. Recently, when looking through our State's Megan's Law site, I was surprised to discover the man listed as a convicted child sexual offender. This man has not been to church for quite some time and I had wondered what had become of him. To my knowledge, this has never been discussed in my congregation. I would hope that silence around these matters would no longer be practiced or tolerated.

I watched a talk show where a former molester said that molesters tend to volunteer for scouting clubs etc for the opportunity to be around kids. I think the state makes such groups screen their leaders for such things now. That can help but does no good when what they have done is unreported.

This doesn't mean that all who volunteer are molesters, in fact even if or especially if they are former victims themselves, leaders may be able to spot abuse and report it. We have all seen families where some of the kids followed mom or dad's bad example such as being drunks and some of the kids were strictly teetotalers. I think it is the same with abused kids. Some act out and some are extrememly moral.

Posted by: Observer May 7 2007, 10:44 AM

> QUOTE(Shepherdswife @ May 7 2007, 05:58 AM)
>
> We had a similar situation in a church we used to attend. A 30-ish yo man showed up one Sabbath morning, and told my husband in the course of the usual "where are you from?" conversation that he had been baptized in a large metro evangelistic series in another state, and that he had just come from prison, "but I am not going to tell you why I was in, so don't ask".
>
> His behavior at the church picnic that day made us suspicious, so my husband called some pastors in the city he referred to, and found one who said he was so glad my husband called, that the man was not safe with boys or girls, had spent time for child abuse, and had been ordered off the campmeeting campgrounds the year before for his behavior.
>
> My husband and the senior pastor talked to the man and told him that he was welcome to fellowship with us (membership was never mentioned--I don't know how that would have been handled if it had), but that we would not allow him to spend time near the children of the church, and that they were notifying the parents of the congregation so they could protect their children as well. He got very angry, said God had forgiven him so why couldn't we, that we were not Christians, etc, etc, etc. He came a time or two more and then never showed up again. I often wonder where he went next...
>
> In another church I am aware of in a different state, a man came to the board, told them his history, asked them to hold him accountable to his own guidelines--never being around the children, etc. He was honest and transparent. It worked for awhile...but then his accountability group moved away one by one, the church changed, and he ended up in prison again for molesting a kid in his neighborhood. I don't know what the answer is, because pedophiles desperately need fellowship and accountability, but most won't accept it, and the ones that do are still not safe around kids. Ever. IMO. Maybe someone needs to start a church just for them...
>
> My uncle is a deacon in a large SDA city church in still another state. He and the deacons were told that there were "several" convicted child abusers attending the church, but that they were not allowed to know who they were--they were just supposed to be alert and keep their eyes open. The reasoning was that if they were "outed", they would not have a safe place to attend, and they needed that. If I was a parent of small kids and found out my church had done that, I would go somewhere else...
>
> shepherdswife

The Upper Columbia Conference and the Walla Walla College Chruch have an excellent written set of guidelines to govern situations when people accused of child molestation and/or sex crimes wish to attend. They require a written contract between the person and the congregation. It is an extensive, multi-page document. Any who are interested may want to contact them for more information on it.

A convicted child molester attends a SDA Church in the Conference where I live. It is a small congregation. However, in their agreement with him, he is directly supervised by a male, at any time he is on chruch property. He is accompanied to the rest-room. There is no time when he is not directly supervised. He is not allowed to have any contact with children.

That is acceptable to this man. He openly admits that he committed the crime for which he was convicted, and he openly tells people the he could do it again.

Posted by: daylily May 7 2007, 11:10 AM

Re the man who bacame angry and said God had forgiven him and why couldnt' the church members.

We have to remember that we can and do forgive but the forgiven person must earn our trust by his behavior. We are not obligated to trust without evidence of trustworthiness. His anger proved that he was not to be trusted.

daylily

Posted by: Observer May 7 2007, 12:15 PM

> QUOTE(daylily @ May 7 2007, 11:10 AM)
>
> Re the man who bacame angry and said God had forgiven him and why couldnt' the church members.
>
> We have to remember that we can and do forgive but the forgiven person must earn our trust by his behavior. We are not obligated to trust without evidence of trustworthiness. His anger proved that he was not to be trusted.
>
> daylily

If you steal church funds, you should not expect to remain a Church Treasurer.

Posted by: daylily May 7 2007, 08:23 PM

Exactly!

Posted by: mozart May 7 2007, 09:00 PM

up until this post, all i've read was so twisted. THIS IS HOW IT SHOULD BE DONE. ty observer when it is done this way, everything is out in the open, then people who do work with the children are not nervous about it and the parents can be at peace. this is the only way. if the perpetrator can't handle the scrutiny, then he makes his own choices. stay or go. innocent children don't have those choices. they don't have that privelege.
i'm sick and tired of people making other people feel guilty for a criminal's behavior. there is nothing unchristian about what observer has described here. God bless that church. thanks again for giving this awesome example.

> QUOTE(Observer @ May 7 2007, 09:44 AM)
>
> The Upper Columbia Conference and the Walla Walla College Chruch have an excellent written set of guidelines to govern situations when people accused of child molestation and/or sex crimes wish to attend. They require a written contract between the person and the congregation. It is an extensive, multi-page > document. Any who are interested may want to contact them for more information on it.

>
> A convicted child molester attends a SDA Church in the Conference where I live. It is a small congregation. However, in their agreement with him, he is directly supervised by a male, at any time he is on chruch property. He is accompanied to the rest-room. There is no time when he is not directly supervised. He is not allowed to have any contact with children.
>
> That is acceptable to this man. He openly admits that he committed the crime for which he was convicted, and he openly tells people the he could do it again.

Posted by: Whtz Happenin Jun 6 2007, 12:15 AM

> QUOTE(LaurenceD @ May 30 2007, 09:51 AM) ☐
>
> ...
>
> Also a Oklahoma connection. Isn't Tommy in Oklahoma now?
>
> ...

aurence,

ou made the above quote in another thread, but I thought any discussion would fit better in this thread.

almost read right on past this statement, but I reversed to read it again. Are you talking about TS? What did ou hear that prompted your question? With the allegations that have been made, folks need to be warned. ews may not have traveled very fast in the eighties, but it can travel fast today.

et's expand your question into an answer.

Posted by: LaurenceD Jun 10 2007, 09:56 PM

Hey Whtz, a couple months ago, or more, I was listening to DS interview a conference president (Jim somethingorother--can't rem. his last name). This pres. was comforting DS, kind of uncling him, and told him how he (the conference pres) had been asked to leave his postion once, and was later elected back to his former posistion. During that interview, TS name came up and Jim said he was in Oklahoma now. It's been a while, but I clearly perked up when I heard that and mentioned it a couple time here...right afterwards.

Posted by: mozart Jun 11 2007, 12:47 AM so i wonder if he is there because of the other brother pastoring at a church there?

> QUOTE(LaurenceD @ Jun 10 2007, 08:56 PM) ☐
>
> Hey Whtz, a couple months ago, or more, I was listening to DS interview a conference president (Jim somethingorother--can't rem. his last name). This pres. was comforting DS, kind of uncling him, and told him how he (the conference pres) had been asked to leave his postion once, and was later elected back to his former posistion. During that interview, TS name came up and Jim said he was in Oklahoma now. It's been a while, but I clearly perked up when I heard that and mentioned it a couple time here...right afterwards.

Posted by: Whtz Happenin Jun 11 2007, 07:28 AM

> QUOTE(LaurenceD @ Jun 10 2007, 11:56 PM)
>
> Hey Whtz, a couple months ago, or more, I was listening to DS interview a conference president (Jim somethingorother--can't rem. his last name). This pres. was comforting DS, kind of uncling him, and told him how he (the conference pres) had been asked to leave his postion once, and was later elected back to his former posistion. During that interview, TS name came up and Jim said he was in Oklahoma now. It's been a while, but I clearly perked up when I heard that and mentioned it a couple time here...right afterwards.

Thanks LaurenceD for the information. Hmmmm, I think I remember someone posting a link to a bunch of Church of God's. I wonder if he is at one of those? I will search for the link and see if there is an Oklahoma Church of God.

> QUOTE(mozart @ Jun 11 2007, 02:47 AM)
>
> so i wonder if he is there because of the other brother pastoring at a church there?

Mozart, when you say "the other brother," are you referring to the Jim ?? that LaurenceD mentioned or are you meaning someone else?

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Jun 11 2007, 08:33 AM

> QUOTE(Whtz Happenin @ Jun 11 2007, 05:28 AM)
>
> Thanks LaurenceD for the information. Hmmmm, I think I remember someone posting a link to a bunch of Church of God's. I wonder if he is at one of those? I will search for the link and see if there is an Oklahoma Church of God.
>
> Mozart, when you say "the other brother," are you referring to the Jim ?? that LaurenceD mentioned or are you meaning someone else?

WH,

The "Jim" LaurenceD is speaking of is Jim Gilley. I saw that interview. He is now pastor of one of the SDA churches in Dallas, TX.

Posted by: Whtz Happenin Jun 11 2007, 10:03 AM

> QUOTE(Whtz Happenin @ Jun 11 2007, 09:28 AM)
>
> Thanks LaurenceD for the information. Hmmmm, I think I remember someone posting a link to a bunch of Church of God's. I wonder if he is at one of those? I will search for the link and see if there is an Oklahoma Church of God.
> ...

I found the link(http://www.churchofgodcv.org/addresses.aspx) in Panama_Pete's post from August 10, 2006:
http://www.blacksda.com/forums/index.php?s=&showtopic=10304&view=findpost&p=144189

LaurenceD ~~and PeacefullyBewildered~~ heard Jim Gilley make a reference to Tommy now being in Oklahoma. [From followup post by PeacefullyBewildered - "The reference to Danny's brother that I heard was for his brother Ronnie, not Tommy. "]

Does anyone else have information about this?

[Edited - more info needed]

Posted by: mozart Jun 11 2007, 10:56 AM

> QUOTE(Whtz Happenin @ Jun 11 2007, 07:28 AM)
>
> Mozart, when you say "the other brother," are you referring to the Jim ?? that LaurenceD mentioned or are you meaning someone else?

i don't remember the details, i'm sure someone here knows. i just remember danny interviewing one of his brothers and saying , "you are a pastor now!" and the brother saying yes and that he was pastoring a church in OK. sorry, that's all i remember. hope someone else here can answer your question better. Mo

---

Posted by: lurker Jun 11 2007, 11:01 AM

Ronny was listed as being in OKMULGEE, OK. http://tinyurl.com/2laf2w

---

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Jun 11 2007, 12:26 PM

WH,

The reference to Danny's brother that I heard was for his brother Ronnie, not Tommy.

The last I heard, the Glenn Dryden who is pastor of the Ezra Church of God in 3abn's neck of the woods is the son of the Pastor Glenn Dryden who wrote the letter of warning to Dr. Walt Thompson in May, 2003.

Posted by: Whtz Happenin Jun 22 2007, 03:07 PM

> QUOTE(Pickle @ Jun 12 2007, 06:50 PM)
>
> Steffan,
>
> Maybe you can help me on a few items.
>
> I just heard that the number of underage victims from Virginia has gone from 1 to 3, and I've finally gotten a name of one of those and have some correspondence from him. Do Tommy and Danny have any plans for trying to make things right before the child molestation part of the scandal grows any bigger? Especially since, I believe, Virginia doesn't have a statute of limitations for things like this?
> ...

> QUOTE(PeacefullyBewildered @ Jun 12 2007, 07:30 PM) ☐
>
> This will be interesting to watch unfold. Do you anticipate this alleged victim making a statement available?
> ...

> QUOTE(Pickle @ Jun 12 2007, 11:06 PM) ☐
>
> PB,
>
> Don't know what these alleged victims are going to do or not do.
> ...

> QUOTE(lurker @ Jun 13 2007, 11:07 AM) ☐
>
> ...
> In looking up the information on the statute of limitations, I found this which I thought might apply to Tommy's victims:Tolling the Statute
>
> Statutes of limitations are designed to aid defendants. A plaintiff, however, can prevent the dismissal of his action for untimeliness by seeking to toll the statute. When the statute is tolled, the running of the time period is suspended until some event specified by law takes place. Tolling provisions benefit a plaintiff by extending the time within which he is permitted to bring suit.
>
> Various events or circumstances will toll a statute of limitations. It is tolled when one of the parties is under a legal disability—the lack of legal capacity to do an act—at the time the cause of action accrues. A child or a person with a mental illness is regarded as being incapable of initiating a legal action on her own behalf. Therefore, the time limit will be tolled until some fixed time after the disability has been removed. For example, once a child reaches the age of majority, the counting of time will be resumed. A personal disability that postpones the operation of the statute against an individual may be asserted only by that individual. If a party is under more than one disability, the statute of limitations does not begin to run until all the disabilities are removed. Once the statute begins to run, it will not be suspended by the subsequent disability of any of the parties unless specified by statute.

The quotes above were made in the "Looks Like Ds Already Has His, "reward In Full!"" thread.
I pray that what Pickle has heard is not true. Let us continue to keep all involved in prayer.

Pickle, have you been able to find out any additional information about this?

Posted by: Whtz Happenin Jun 22 2007, 05:12 PM

> QUOTE(Whtz Happenin @ Feb 23 2007, 05:06 PM) ☐
>
> Timeline of Sexual Allegations of Tommy Shelton:
>
> I could not find anywhere that listed all of the possible alleged victims of Tommy Shelton. I attempted to list them all below in order to grasp the possible magnitude of the number of alleged victims. This is a rough draft and as more information is posted I will update and re-post.
>
> - The allegations are from the AToday article, posts at BlackSDA.com, Maritime-sda-online.org and/or Christianforums.com.
> Please review and provide missing information.

Mid 1970's

#1 (or more) -Allegations - About 30 year's ago - Walt Thompson

Nineteen Eighty's

#2 - 1982-83 School Year - Allegation by BD

#3 - Allegations of "three other boys"

#4 - Allegations of "three other boys"

#5 - Allegations of "three other boys"

#6 - October 1984 - Seen w/ one boy - Avery - (Possibly one of "three other boys")

#7 - Allegation by Mother #1 of Victim

#8 - Allegation by Mother of GH

September 15, 1985 - Resigned as Pastor of Ezra Church of God (TS open letter)

October 25, 1985 - Ordination Suspended

#9 - Late 1985/Early 1986 - Allegation by DC

June 1986 (Approx) - Hired as Pastor of Ezra Church of God (TS open letter)

#10 - Around 1988 - Allegation by RC

#11 - "Victims that have not come forward" - post by PJMusic
- "...at least 5 other victims I know of that have not come forward yet." - post by D. Clem

#12 - (2) "Victims that have not come forward"

#13 - (3) "Victims that have not come forward"

#14 - (4) "Victims that have not come forward"

#15 (or more) - (5) "Victims that have not come forward"

- At least 6 boys were sexually abused - Assume #'s (2-15) include - Dryden

Nineteen Ninety's

#16 (or more) - Early 1990's prior to resigning from Ezra - Further Allegations (Atoday)

1991 - Resigns from Ezra Church of God

1991 – Hired by 3ABN as Production Manager (Atoday)

#17 - (1991- 1992) - Employee allegation (Atoday)

1992 (Aprox) - Fired by 3ABN

- Result of employee allegations (AToday)

1992 (Aprox) - Hired by 3ABN to Promote 3ABN

- Traveled around by Bus singing and promoting

1995 - Hired as Assist. Pastor of Dunn Loring Church of God

1996 - Hired as Pastor of Dunn Loring Church of God

- Further allegations during time at Dunn Loring (Atoday)

#18 - One minor at VA Church - Dryden

#19 - Adult #1 at VA Church - Dryden

#20 - Adult #2 at VA Church - Dryden

#21 - Misconduct at VA Church - Unrelated to other 3 - Dryden (Martime #82093)

#22 - underage victims from VA has gone from 1 to 3..." (post by Pickle) (possibly #21)

#23 - underage victims from VA has gone from 1 to 3..." (post by Pickle)

Two Thousand's

#24 - In 2000 - Family confronted - relationship with underage male (possibly #18) (Atoday)

#25 - 2000 - Family confronted - inappropriate relationship with son (Atoday)

2000 - Resigned as Pastor of Dunn Loring Church of God

(2000- 2002) (Aprox) - Hired by 3ABN as Archive Librarian

2001 - Surrendered Credentials to the Ministerial Council in VA (TS Open Letter)

June 2004 - Promoted by 3ABN to Programming Manager

December 2006 - Resigned from 3ABN

Notes:

a. Information about allegations in the 1970's is not known [(-) 01/ (+) ??]

b. #6 may be included in "three other boys" [(-) 01/ (+) 00]

c. "Victims that have not come forward" [(-) 00/ (+) ??]

d. "At least 6 boys were sexually abused" [(-) 00/ (+) ??]

e. Further Allegations in Early 1990's may be included elsewhere [(-) 01/ (+) ??]

f. #'s 18 and 24 may be the same victim [(-) 01/ (+) 00]

g. #'s 21 and 22 may be the same victim [(-) 01/ (+) 00]
Total number of alleged victims may be 25, as low as 20 or as high as an unknown number.

ost #1 has been updated. Note that no one has disputed anything in this list.

Printable Version of Topic

Click here to view this topic in its original format

BlackSDA _ 3ABN _ The Latest Of God's Blessings Of 3abn

Posted by: sdaguy Jun 21 2007, 10:39 AM

On May 23rd Dish Network placed 3ABN back on their previous channel space at 9710 on Sky Angel which immediately returned around 50,000 Adventist lifetime subscribers to the Godly programs that 3ABN is offering to the world. Also, on May 23rd Dish Network put 3ABN on their "basic package" which immediately made 3ABN available to more than 35 million new viewers and there is great expectation that another major cable provider will put 3ABN in their lineup in the near future resulting in another 40 plus million new viewers - and this is just in America alone! With the addition of the new satellite which covers China and India, the total number of satellites that carry 3ABN is 11 which literally covers the whole earth with the undiluted Three Angels messages, one that counteracts the counterfeit, and brings 3ABN's potential viewing audience into the billions.

It sure looks like it that God is still blessing 3ABN,

Posted by: lurker Jun 21 2007, 10:49 AM

But is God blessing 3ABN because of its leadership or in spite of it?

It is possible to spread the Gospel and yet be lost.

1 Cor 9:27 But I keep under my body, and bring it into subjection: lest that by any means, when I have preached to others, I myself should be a castaway.

Posted by: Skyhook Jun 21 2007, 11:13 AM

> QUOTE(lurker @ Jun 21 2007, 11:49 AM)
>
> But is God blessing 3ABN because of its leadership or in spite of it?

Amen lurker!
God gave Israel great victories over Ben Haddad and his armies even when Ahab, "who did more evil than all the rest who were before him" was king. (see 1 Kings 20) But God has set limits, and He will surely put everything right. "There is nothing covered up that will not be revealed, and hidden that will not be made known." (Luke 12:2)

Posted by: Clay Jun 21 2007, 11:31 AM

interesting that the assumption persists that if something good happens its from God and thus constitutes a blessing, and if its bad, then God has not blessed.... that might explain why we are so confused.....

Posted by: Uncle Sam Jun 21 2007, 11:34 AM

I guess that means TBN is doing what is right too....It seems to be every where whether you have cable or not.

Posted by: LaurenceD Jun 21 2007, 11:43 AM

Nothing wrong with a billion people sitting in front of their tube watching someone dispense the "undiluted" three angel's messages. But, when I read sdaguy's "50,000" I asked myself...where have I seen that number before. I remembered seeing that as the number of William Miller's followers--an example of having the heart in the right place, but the wrong mind/understanding.

I was just watching the Hope Channel, and as I watched a program on how to avoid divorce in your family, it occured to me why we'd never see a program like that on 3abn again. The world needs to see progamming by precept and example. 1Tim 3 says...

> "For if a man know not how to rule his own house, how shall he take care of the church of God?"

Posted by: Fran Jun 21 2007, 11:55 AM

QUOTE(LaurenceD @ Jun 21 2007, 12:43 PM)

Nothing wrong with a billion people sitting in front of their tube watching someone dispense the "undiluted" three angel's messages. But, when I read sdaguy's "50,000" I asked myself...where have I seen that number before. I remembered seeing that as the number of William Miller's followers--an example of having the heart in the right place, but the wrong mind/understanding.

I was just watching the Hope Channel, and as I watched a program on how to avoid divorce in your family, it occured to me why we'd never see a program like that on 3abn again. The world needs to see progamming by precept and example. 1Tim 3 says...

"For if a man know not how to rule his own house, how shall he take care of the church of God?"

This is so true!

Posted by: princessdi Jun 21 2007, 11:56 AM

God would never keep His Word from His child who was earnestly seeking Him, because the messenger was corrupt. No where in the Bible were any of God's messengers perfect. God still sent Jonah to Niniveh, and he knew Jonah still habored hatred for those people, and didn't mean a single word he was repeating about them changing their ways to be spared God's wrath. So we end up at the end of that book with the people saved, but jonah mad because the people were saved, but the tree was destroyed. Bottom line, the people got god's Word from a corrupt messenger.

Same thing here.

Posted by: Observer Jun 21 2007, 01:36 PM

> QUOTE(princessdi @ Jun 21 2007, 11:56 AM)
>
> God would never keep His Word from His child who was earnestly seeking Him, because the messenger was corrupt. No where in the Bible were any of God's messengers perfect. God still sent Jonah to Niniveh, and he knew Jonah still habored hatred for those people, and didn't mean a single word he was repeating about them changing their ways to be spared God's wrath. So we end up at the end of that book with the people saved, but jonah mad because the people were saved, but the tree was destroyed. Bottom line, the people got god's Word from a corrupt messenger.
>
> Same thing here.

Many years ago there was a Broadway play, and later a movie entitled JESUS CHRIST, SUPERSTAR. Most who have seen it would say it was a corrupted message that did not accurately present the gospil--When has Hollywood ever presented the true Christian message?

Yet, there were peple who bagn thier spiritual journey to God/Christ in the theatre wacchin that play/movie. And of those one (some?) became SDA Christians!

Posted by: mikell Jun 21 2007, 01:41 PM

> QUOTE(Uncle Sam @ Jun 21 2007, 11:34 AM)
>
> I guess that means TBN is doing what is right too....It seems to be every where whether you have cable or not.

A VERY GOOD POINT!!!

Posted by: Panama_Pete Jun 21 2007, 01:48 PM

> QUOTE(sdaguy @ Jun 21 2007, 10:39 AM)
>
> On May 23rd Dish Network placed 3ABN back on their previous channel space at 9710 on Sky Angel which immediately returned around 50,000 Adventist lifetime subscribers to the Godly programs that 3ABN is offering to the world. Also, on May 23rd Dish Network put 3ABN on their "basic package" which immediately made 3ABN available to more than 35 million new viewers and there is great expectation that another major cable provider will put 3ABN in their lineup in the near future resulting in another 40 plus million new viewers - and this is just in America alone! With the addition of the new satellite which covers China and India, the total number of satellites that carry 3ABN is 11 which literally covers the whole earth with the undiluted Three Angels messages, one that counteracts the counterfeit, and brings 3ABN's potential viewing audience into the billions.
>
> It sure looks like it that God is still blessing 3ABN,

Personally, I think a disease can grow and spread to epidemic proportions. It must be the result of a blessing on the little viruses and bacteria. Based on this mistaken concept, the Black Plague was Europe's greatest blessing.

Posted by: Pickle Jun 21 2007, 02:21 PM

> QUOTE(Observer @ Jun 21 2007, 02:36 PM)
>
> Yet, there were peple who bagn thier spiritual journey to God/Christ in the theatre wacchin that play/movie. And of those one (some?) became SDA Christians!

Were you the one?

> QUOTE(Panama_Pete @ Jun 21 2007, 02:48 PM)
>
> Personally, I think a disease can grow and spread to epidemic proportions. It must be the result of a blessing on the little viruses and bacteria. Based on this mistaken concept, the Black Plague was Europe's greatest blessing.

Great point that's hard to forget.

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Jun 21 2007, 03:19 PM

SDAguy,

I thought India had pulled the 3abn plug. Has it been allowed back again?

Has 3abn started ministering to the folks surrounding the compound yet? I look forward to the day when that community will be viewed as worthy of Christian outreach. Let me know when that happens, okay?

PB

Posted by: Richard Sherwin Jun 21 2007, 04:09 PM

How about the Playboy Channel. It's all over the place as well. Success does not mean God is blessing something.

Richard

> QUOTE(Uncle Sam @ Jun 21 2007, 12:34 PM)
>
> I guess that means TBN is doing what is right too....It seems to be every where whether you have cable or not.

Posted by: ex3ABNemployee Jun 21 2007, 04:27 PM

> QUOTE(sdaguy @ Jun 21 2007, 11:39 AM)
>
> On May 23rd Dish Network placed 3ABN back on their previous channel space at 9710 on Sky Angel which > immediately returned around 50,000 Adventist lifetime subscribers to the Godly programs that 3ABN is offering to the world. Also, on May 23rd Dish Network put 3ABN on their "basic package" which immediately made 3ABN available to more than 35 million new viewers and there is great expectation that another major cable provider will put 3ABN in their lineup in the near future resulting in another 40 plus million new viewers - and this is just in America alone! With the addition of the new satellite which covers China and India, the total number of satellites that carry 3ABN is 11 which literally covers the whole earth with the undiluted Three Angels messages, one that counteracts the counterfeit, and brings 3ABN's potential viewing audience into the billions.

>
> It sure looks like it that God is still blessing 3ABN,

MTV is on virtually every satellite and cable provider in the US. God must be blessing them, too.

Posted by: lowender Jun 21 2007, 05:09 PM

As I have posted before, there are honest people still working at 3ABN who are producing beneficial & useful Christian programming. The Director of 3ABN has exempted himself from the guidelines that Christ has set down for divorce & remarriage. He seeks justification for his unjustifiable behavior by pointing out the souls that are saved. Furthermore, the people that once worked for him who sided with his former wife interestingly no longer work for 3ABN, some of them by choice, others because he fired them.

We have to get used to the idea that 3ABN rises & falls with Danny Shelton. If he goes, which he should, then he will take the whole ministry down with him. Then he will claim that people like us have ended God's work & he will claim he is a martyr.

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Jun 21 2007, 05:34 PM

> QUOTE(ex3ABNemployee @ Jun 21 2007, 03:27 PM)
>
> MTV is on virtually every satellite and cable provider in the US. God must be blessing them, too.

Many of our friendly neighborhood purveyors of drugs do a booming business. How does that fit into the ormula of demonstrating God's blessing?

And let's also consider the field of pornography...

There is a slight, basic flaw in your forumla, SDAguy. The blessings that 3abn may be receiving do not mean hat God condones behaviour that is contrary to His character. Those not reflecting Him are endangering the ministry from within.

Printable Version of Topic

Click here to view this topic in its original format

BlackSDA _ 3ABN _ Http://savegailon.blogspot.com/

Posted by: Whtz Happenin May 23 2007, 07:42 PM

This looks like a spoof on www.save3abn.com.

http://savegailon.blogspot.com/

This is extremely sad for some to be this desperate. This site causes me to miss the DS supporters that have been banned here. They would not stoop this low.

At first this site to me was almost laughable, because of how off the wall it is and that it sure does not help defend 3ABN. But the more I think about them poking fun of Duane, Roger, Brad......., the more anger it stirrs up.

I am going to stop with that before I get too worked up.

Posted by: mozart May 23 2007, 08:04 PM

i wouldn't put it past them. sounds like the devil's handywork. i'm not even gonna go look. not werf me time.

QUOTE(Whtz Happenin @ May 23 2007, 07:42 PM)

> This looks like a spoof on www.save3abn.com.
>
> http://savegailon.blogspot.com/
>
> This is extremely sad for some to be this desperate. This site causes me to miss the DS supporters that have been banned here. They would not stoop this low.
>
> At first this site to me was almost laughable, because of how off the wall it is and that it sure does not help defend 3ABN. But the more I think about them poking fun of Duane, Roger, Brad......., the more anger it stirrs up.
>
> I am going to stop with that before I get too worked up.

Posted by: Grith May 23 2007, 09:06 PM

I'm just curious, so I went and took a glance. I didn't read through, just skimmed and that minute amount I found thoroughly disgusting. There's a lot of mockery and name calling. The language if foul. It belittles GJ and BSDA. (I wonder if what is posted there about Gailon Joy would qualify as libel?) Will the Dannyscribes and/or DS himself repudiate any association or connection to this dispicable site? Or is it possible that it has been set up with their knowledge and/or approval?

WH, how did you come across this site? Is it being "advertised" someplace?

Posted by: beartrap May 23 2007, 09:28 PM

Wow! I don't envy Danny or 3ABN that kind of defense.

Posted by: Rosyroi May 23 2007, 09:34 PM

I read the whole thing. IMHO it is just a lot of silly garbage that doesn't say much but packed full of lies attempting to put down a lot of people.

Did you notice the words "The Anointed One"?

And using gangsta language??? In my opinion this is a feeble attempt to attack the intelligent BSDA members below the belt.

Great big

From what I understand in this forum, there are a LOT of very very intelligent extremely well educated with high position people posting in this forum.

Who in the world is Brother LeRoy?

Carry on...wwjd, alethia, eirene,...etc...

JMO

Rosyroi

Posted by: Artiste May 23 2007, 10:33 PM

> Rosyroi May 23 2007, 07:34 PM
> I read the whole thing. IMHO it is just a lot of silly garbage that doesn't say much but packed full of lies attempting to put down a lot of people.
>
> Did you notice the words "The Anointed One"?
>
> And using gangsta language??? In my opinion this is a feeble attempt to attack the intelligent BSDA members below the belt.
>
> Great big
>
> From what I understand in this forum, there are a LOT of very very intelligent extremely well educated with high position people posting in this forum.
>
> Who in the world is Brother LeRoy?
>
> Carry on...wwjd, alethia, eirene,...etc...

Aside from the unpleasant language and the note at the bottom that Seventh-day Adventists might be posting there (which does not make SDAs look good at all), the site might be helpful in a way.

There are no less that 10 links on the site that point to Save3ABN.com and 5 mentions of the web site name itself.

...remember...no such thing as "bad" publicity...

Posted by: SoulEspresso May 23 2007, 10:43 PM

Wow. I wish I were shocked, but having been on this board with the danny fingers, it looks like they're poking around somewhere else. Clearly the work of the same folks. I guess they wanted a one-way conversation.

Before I had accused them of being on the payroll of 3ABN. But this blog does not work to support 3ABN. Kinda ... dirty. Sheesh. Is this the best they can do?

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered May 23 2007, 10:43 PM

I read it all. While in some ways it is over the top in bad taste, it nonetheless certainly sums up the attitude we heard post after post here before those representing Danny were escorted out of the door. It isn't surprising at all that the www.savegailon.blogspot.com would take the view of the issues that it does, for this is how they truly believe.

1. Danny, "The Annointed" good (no matter what sins he has covered up by influence or intimidation, and no matter the sins he has committed himself)

2. Tommy "forgiven" (even though he has never apologized to most of his alleged victims or offered any restitution or help in healing)(Hey, none were actually sodomized after all so how can they claim abuse!)

3. Linda and her children "EVIL"

4. Alleged victims "EVIL"

By their lame attempts at sounding "black" I am inclined to believe that the authors of the site are most likely caucasion with ingrained condescending attitudes towards people of color.

What the derogatory site has accomplished, IMO, is it has made quite clear the prevailing attitude of Danny and those blinded by his image and power.

It is just a shame that Scripture and Ellen White comments were included on this unChristian offering.

Posted by: SoulEspresso May 23 2007, 10:56 PM

Well, I tried to comment, and of course the comments are moderated. I don't expect them to publish what I wrote. But if enough of us wrote shaming comments and tried to post them, maybe they'd realize how foolish (in the biblical sense) they appear.

And I'm sure they're reading this, so hey dannyfingers--you ought to know that what you've written there is way more defamatory/slanderous than anything on save3abn.com. And you bring shame to the cause of Christ.

Posted by: Johann May 23 2007, 10:56 PM

> QUOTE(PeacefullyBewildered @ May 24 2007, 06:43 AM) ☐
>
> I read it all. While in some ways it is over the top in bad taste, it nonetheless certainly sums up the attitude we heard post after post here before those representing Danny were escorted out of the door. It isn't surprising at all that the www.savegailon.blogspot.com would take the view of the issues that it does, for this is how they truly believe.

> 1. Danny, "The Annointed" good (no matter what sins he has covered up by influence or intimidation, and no matter the sins he has committed himself)
>
> 2. Tommy "forgiven" (even though he has never apologized to most of his alleged victims or offered any restitution or help in healing)(Hey, none were actually sodomized after all so how can they claim abuse!)
>
> 3. Linda and her children "EVIL"
>
> 4. Alleged victims "EVIL"
>
> By their lame attempts at sounding "black" I am inclined to believe that the authors of the site are most likely caucasion with ingrained condescending attitudes towards people of color.
>
> What the derogatory site has accomplished, IMO, is it has made quite clear the prevailing attitude of Danny and those blinded by his image and power.
>
> It is just a shame that Scripture and Ellen White comments were included on this unChristian offering.

men!

Posted by: beartrap May 24 2007, 12:07 AM

One would almost think that Brother Leroy was someone who does NOT like Danny or 3ABN. This blog, and especially the words of Leroy are very damaging to the credibility and integrity of Danny and 3ABN if they represent them. But, as some have said, Leroy seems to be very representative of the attitude of Bystander, WWJD, Eirene and many others who were once amongst us. He also is very representative of people who "have not been posting on this site" who some of us know quite well.

Perhaps Steffan, or some other representative of Danny and 3ABN will consider repudiating the site and what has been said there. No man with any integrity would allow that to be publically said of his ex, and her children without jumping in to stop it, regardless what had happened between them.

Posted by: Noahswife May 24 2007, 12:43 AM

> QUOTE(beartrap @ May 24 2007, 02:07 AM) ☐
>
> Perhaps Steffan, or some other representative of Danny and 3ABN will consider repudiating the site and what has been said there. No man with any integrity would allow that to be publically said of his ex, and her children without jumping in to stop it, regardless what had happened between them.

onsidering what steffan said in his post last night regarding correcting rumors and errors:

ttp://www.blacksda.com/forums/index.php?s=&showtopic=12592&view=findpost&p=196453 will certainly be interested in his response to the blog.

Posted by: ex3ABNemployee May 24 2007, 02:18 AM

> QUOTE(Whtz Happenin @ May 23 2007, 07:42 PM)
>
> This looks like a spoof on www.save3abn.com.
>
> http://savegailon.blogspot.com/
>
> This is extremely sad for some to be this desperate. This site causes me to miss the DS supporters that have been banned here. They would not stoop this low.
>
> At first this site to me was almost laughable, because of how off the wall it is and that it sure does not help defend 3ABN. But the more I think about them poking fun of Duane, Roger, Brad......., the more anger it stirrs up.
>
> I am going to stop with that before I get too worked up.

All I can say is that if Danny Shelton's cronies have to resort to these kinds of tactics, they must REALLY be desperate. It's just a last ditch effort to get me and others to be silent.

Sorry, dannyscribes, it's not going to work. In fact, maybe I should tell even more. I do have more emails I haven't released yet. Would you like those to be posted, too?

Once again, no names are signed. Things are attributed to me and others that we never said. That makes the site's author a coward AND a liar.

At least Gailon paid for a domain name. He didn't leech off of a free site. How cheap can you get?

Danny, are you man enough to publicly distance yourself from this site, or are you in the same category as the blogger? I think we already know the answer to that one.

BTW, any new word on the merger ploy?

Posted by: daylily May 24 2007, 04:13 AM

I read it and found it disgusting. I can't decide if it is meant to be an irony or if , as PB suggested, they believe what they say and made feeble attempts to sound "black". I guess I can't believe that any intelligent person would post such stuff in such a ridiculous way and think it would HELP 3ABN! But then everybody is not intelligent.

Daylily

Posted by: Shepherdswife May 24 2007, 05:21 AM

The bits I read sound vaguely familiar---same wording, same sentence structure, same method of taking events and twisting them to make them look ludicrous. Yup, I think the "banned ones" decided to get their own place where Clay and others couldn't tell them what to post!

But I too think it will backfire. Any intelligent person who knows anything about abuse and victimization of any sort will be sickened and appalled by what they have posted. If I did not have enough evidence already that these people are sick enough to do what they have been accused of, this certainly threatens to tip the scales...

They have spoofed the whole first page of save3abn.com, just changing the names to turn it around backwards, then gone downhill from there. But like you said, they are not man/woman enough to post their name...

Of course, that also gives them deniability, so they get to say what they want, then claim that someone else put it up there.

shepherdswife

Posted by: Clay May 24 2007, 05:51 AM

I skimmed it..... nothing worse than a white person tryin to sound and write as if they are black..... secondly, it is apparent that it is not only Danny who has a problem with people of color.... as we stated earlier, just because you have blacks working for you does not mean you believe that they are equal.... lastly, that site is further proof that the color issue remains a serious problem in the U.S. and lies just under the surface of the fake smiles worn by some.....

Posted by: FineArt May 24 2007, 06:21 AM

I found this interesting:

"Yet the ignoring of these allegations could potentially:

Cause Joy to spend eternity suffering in Hell (see Revelation 21:8)

Cause all those who love Joy's lies to join him in Hell for eternity"
Seems if they are going to defend 3ABN and the truth, they should know what 3ABN teaches about the "state of the dead"

Also the proof that Linda was unfaithful is still based on telephone conversation.

They are reaching farrrrrrr.

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered May 24 2007, 07:13 AM

When we were informed about this blog last night it brought to mind a post made here back in March by Whtz Happenin:

http://www.blacksda.com/forums/index.php?s=&showtopic=12885&view=findpost&p=184878

"FHB, If this is keeping you up at night and you feel this strong about it, I suggest that you start your own website, possibly www.savepickle.com. "

I am not suggesting that the author of this blog is FHB for I could never imagine him creating such a thing, only that someone seems to have taken Whtz's suggestion seriously.

I received a PM last night from one of the group but, as these are confidential, I am not at liberty to pass on what was stated. So, I join those who are waiting for Danny's supporters to post their opinions here about http://savegailon.blogspot.com/ .

Posted by: Pickle May 24 2007, 08:19 AM

Hmm. Do you think Danny LEE Shelton knows Brother LEroy?

> QUOTE(SoulEspresso @ May 23 2007, 10:56 PM)
>
> Well, I tried to comment, and of course the comments are moderated. I don't expect them to publish what I wrote. But if enough of us wrote shaming comments and tried to post them, maybe they'd realize how foolish (in the biblical sense) they appear.

I wonder if "Joy Boy" would publish your comments on http://www.Save3ABN.com/ if Brother Leroy doesn't?

If anyone has a copy of what the site looked like last night, please send it my way. I think it's different this morning.

A fellow just called me and said he thinks the author might be Tommy, given the views expressed about hellfire.

I think it would be quite helpful for a lot of people to call 3ABN and ask them if they endorse the SaveGailon site.

Posted by: caribbean sda May 24 2007, 08:39 AM

> QUOTE(Clay @ May 24 2007, 07:51 AM)
>
> I skimmed it..... nothing worse than a white person tryin to sound and write as if they are black..... secondly, it is apparent that it is not only Danny who has a problem with people of color.... as we stated earlier, just because you have blacks working for you does not mean you believe that they are equal.... lastly, that site is further proof that the color issue remains a serious problem in the U.S. and lies just under the surface of the fake smiles worn by some.....

That blog serves no purpose in my opinion. It if wasn't so pathetic, it would be funny. Why hide behind Bro. Leroy, show your true color!

Posted by: Shepherdswife May 24 2007, 08:55 AM

> QUOTE(caribbean sda @ May 24 2007, 09:39 AM)
>
> That blog serves no purpose in my opinion. It if wasn't so pathetic, it would be funny. Why hide behind Bro. Leroy, show your true color!

Notice that any people who respond are asked to give initials and the home state, at the least. That they do not post anonymous notes. Hello? The whole blog is anonymous!! The profile has nothing that identifies the writer--name, location, anything!

Posted by: calvin May 24 2007, 08:59 AM

> QUOTE(SoulEspresso @ May 23 2007, 10:56 PM)
>
> Well, I tried to comment, and of course the comments are moderated. I don't expect them to publish what I wrote. But if enough of us wrote shaming comments and tried to post them, maybe they'd realize how foolish (in the biblical sense) they appear.
>
> And I'm sure they're reading this, so hey dannyfingers--you ought to know that what you've written there is way more defamatory/slanderous than anything on save3abn.com. And you bring shame to the cause of Christ.

I would not dignify this website by posting any comments on it.

Posted by: Noahswife May 24 2007, 09:13 AM

> QUOTE(calvin @ May 24 2007, 09:59 AM)
>
> I would not dignify this website by posting any comments on it.

Totally agree with you Calvin but I was sure tempted.......

> QUOTE(caribbean sda @ May 24 2007, 10:39 AM)
>
> That blog serves no purpose in my opinion. It if wasn't so pathetic, it would be funny. Why hide behind Bro. Leroy, show your true color!

BTW, I have seen funnier blogs regarding 3abn......

nw
C"i"

Posted by: caribbean sda May 24 2007, 09:19 AM

> QUOTE(calvin @ May 24 2007, 10:59 AM)
>
> I would not dignify this website by posting any comments on it.

me and you, boss!

Posted by: Pickle May 24 2007, 09:59 AM

Judging from the following, I would say that the man behind the blog site is Mr. "Alfred Smith" (or an associate of his), who wrote to Joy on May 4, 7, 11, and 14, and twice on May 16.

So where is Mr. Smith located? It appears that he may be from Germany or somewhere in that vicinity. I asked Johann if he knows of anyone over there that might write like this, and he didn't know of anyone.

Some of the language used in Smith's emails is also used on the blog site.

> QUOTE(How It Currently Reads)
>
> ## A Little History of the Current Crisis
>
> By early March 2004, 3ABN co-founder Linda Shelton was betraying the trust of her husband and 3ABN co-founder Danny Shelton by having an inappropriate, long-distance relationship with a doctor in Norway. This resulted in her being placed on administrative leave and eventually being terminated in disgrace and divorced. The reason was simple: she was accused of being unfaithful to her husband, and of having > committed adultery.

>
> Was she really unfaithful? Most marital vows involve a commitment to help the spouse until death parts the pair.
>
> And Linda? She put out a lot of dirt to the likes of internet gadly and busybody Gailon Joy. That's unfaithfulness.
>
> Linda Shelton and Gailon Joy have spread lies, gossip, and innuendo while employed by Satan.
>
> These actions brought about the launch of this website.

> QUOTE(How It Read on May 16)
>
> ## A Little History of the Current Crisis
>
> By early March 2004, 3ABN co-founder Linda Shelton was betraying the trust of her husband and 3ABN co-founder Danny Shelton by having an inappropriate, long-distance relationship with a doctor in Norway. This resulted in her being placed on administrative leave and eventually being terminated in disgrace and divorced. The reason was simple: she was accused of being unfaithful to her husband, and of having committed adultery.
>
> Was she really unfaithful? Most marital vows involve a commitment to help the spouse until death parts the pair.
>
> And Linda? She put out a lot of dirt to the likes of internet gadly and busybody Gailon Joy. That's unfaithfulness.
>
> Gay activist Joy agrees, stating at save3abn.com, "Even if Linda was guilty as charged".
>
> In a series of May, 2007, emails, Joy was confronted with his falsehoods. Joy has been unable to respond.
>
> These actions on Joy's part brought about the launch of this website.

Posted by: SoulEspresso May 24 2007, 10:32 AM

> QUOTE(calvin @ May 24 2007, 07:59 AM)
>
> I would not dignify this website by posting any comments on it.

Vell, fair enough. It is an embarassment to humanity, not to mention the church.

3ut I'm fairly convinced that my unpublished comment to them last night resulted in some of the changes I aw this morning.

Posted by: princessdi May 24 2007, 10:32 AM

Ok, so, I just looked at this website....I believe it was Aletheia who was trying to convince somebody that Danny and that whole southern IL bunch are not racist? Steffan, FHB, Danny somebody needs to say something like, "this is a ridiculous spoof, and joke in poor taste, before I start calling folks.....NAACP comes to mind right about now, but I am sure there are others and the media really loves race stories....make that denominational race stories. The church is too closely tied to 3ABN not to be dubbed racist, right along with them. I give you all a few days to respond, but I am alerting at least one organization ASAP...................

Posted by: sonshineonme May 24 2007, 10:41 AM

> QUOTE(Pickle @ May 24 2007, 08:59 AM)
>
> Judging from the following, I would say that the man behind the blog site is Mr. "Alfred Smith" (or an associate of his), who wrote to Joy on May 4, 7, 11, and 14, and twice on May 16.
>
> So where is Mr. Smith located? It appears that he may be from Germany or somewhere in that vicinity. I asked Johann if he knows of anyone over there that might write like this, and he didn't know of anyone.
>
> Some of the language used in Smith's emails is also used on the blog site.

So, yesterday, the 16th, it included this "In a series of May, 2007, emails, Joy was confronted with his falsehoods. Joy has been unable to respond." and now it does not?

Why remove it? How was Joy "UNABLE TO RESPOND"? Does this make sense? Gailon, unable?

Guess they have forgotten that we copy and save their comments for possible future "reference".

> QUOTE(princessdi @ May 24 2007, 09:32 AM)
>
> Ok, so, I just looked at this website....I believe it was Aletheia who was trying to convince somebody that Danny and that whole southern IL bunch are not racist? Steffan, FHB, Danny somebody needs to say something like, "this is a ridiculous spoof, and joke in poor taste, before I start calling folks.....NAACP comes to mind right about now, but I am sure there are others and the media really loves race stories....make that denominational race stories. The church is too closely tied to 3ABN not to be dubbed racist, right along with them. I give you all a few days to respond, but I am alerting at least one organization ASAP...................

Lets see....EEOC....hmm....think they are watching?

Some things came to mind while looking at this new website of Mr Leroy's...is this "desperation"?

Des·per·a·tion (dsp-rshn)
Desperation - desperate recklessness; "it was a policy of desperation"

Related words : foolhardiness,recklessness,rashness, thoughtlessness, tactlessness, impulsiveness fool·har·dy (flhärd)

Adj. Fool·har·di·ER, fool·har·di·EST
Unwisely bold or venturesome; rash. Foolishly brave.
Synonyms impetuous, headlong, heedless, incautious.

reck·less (rkls)
Adj.

1. A. Heedless or careless.
b. Headstrong; rash.
2. Indifferent to or disregardful of consequences: I.e. A reckless blogger or poster rash (rsh)

Adj. Rash·ER, rash·EST
1. Characterized by or resulting from ill-considered haste or boldness.

thought·less (thôtls)
The trait of not thinking carefully before acting -
1. Marked by or showing lack of due thought or care; careless.
2. Inconsiderate; inattentive: I.e. Thoughtless remarks.
3. Lacking thought: I.e. The debate turned into thoughtless bickering.

tact·less (tktls)
Adj.
Lacking or exhibiting a lack of tact; bluntly inconsiderate or indiscreet.

im·pul·sive (m-plsv)
Adj.
1. Inclined to act on impulse rather than thought.

Posted by: YogusBearus May 24 2007, 11:11 AM

> QUOTE(sonshineonme @ May 24 2007, 11:41 AM) ☐
>
> Guess they have forgotten that we copy and save their comments for possible future "reference".

ROFL!

No, I don't think anyone has forgotten that everything is copied and saved...

Seriously, does anyone truly care about this new site? Should we really be surprised?

-bear

Posted by: ex3ABNemployee May 24 2007, 11:14 AM

> QUOTE(princessdi @ May 24 2007, 11:32 AM) ☐
>
> Ok, so, I just looked at this website....I believe it was Aletheia who was trying to convince somebody that Danny and that whole southern IL bunch are not racist? Steffan, FHB, Danny somebody needs to say something like, "this is a ridiculous spoof, and joke in poor taste, before I start calling folks.....NAACP > comes to mind right about now, but I am sure there are others and the media really loves race stories....make that denominational race stories. The church is too closely tied to 3ABN not to be dubbed racist, right along with them. I give you all a few days to respond, but I am alerting at least one organization ASAP...................

just forwarded the link to several people on my email list. If the author of this blog wants hits, I can ertainly supply them.

anny, how many more people should I forward this link to?

Posted by: watchbird May 24 2007, 11:22 AM

> QUOTE(caribbean sda @ May 24 2007, 10:39 AM)
>
> That blog serves no purpose in my opinion. It if wasn't so pathetic, it would be funny. Why hide behind Bro. Leroy, show your true color!

Serves no purpose"? Of COURSE it serves a purpose.... are you forgetting that the owner of a site can race identities through the automatic information that they get whenever anyone even visits the site?

> QUOTE(Shepherdswife @ May 24 2007, 10:55 AM)
>
> Notice that any people who respond are asked to give initials and the home state, at the least. That they do not post anonymous notes. Hello? The whole blog is anonymous!! The profile has nothing that identifies the writer--name, location, anything!

nd with the added information of initials and home state.... a good computer sleuth can come very close to inpointing the exact identity of anyone who shows up on their activity log. "They" may be anonymous to eaders and writers... but to whoever is owner... and to whoever the owner gives administrative privileges.... nonymity is seriously compromised... if not completely wiped out.

Posted by: sonshineonme May 24 2007, 11:23 AM

> QUOTE(YogusBearus @ May 24 2007, 10:11 AM)
>
> ROFL!
>
> No, I don't think anyone has forgotten that everything is copied and saved...
>
> Seriously, does anyone truly care about this new site? Should we really be surprised?
>
> -bear

h, I think for some in their rash impulse to be desperate, foolhardy and therefore reckless, I think they orget some things...that's usually what comes around to haunt them. So it goes (again).

are, I would not say I care as it is far more interesting just to see their next attempt to spread the "truth" round.

Surprised, me, nope. Nothing much on this planet surprises me anymore.

Posted by: watchbird May 24 2007, 11:28 AM

> QUOTE(YogusBearus @ May 24 2007, 01:11 PM)
>
> ROFL!
>
> No, I don't think anyone has forgotten that everything is copied and saved...
>
> Seriously, does anyone truly care about this new site? Should we really be surprised?
>
> -bear

Just be sure you don't fall into a trap while you are ROF....

> QUOTE(ex3ABNemployee @ May 24 2007, 01:14 PM)
>
> I just forwarded the link to several people on my email list. If the author of this blog wants hits, I can certainly supply them.
>
> Danny, how many more people should I forward this link to?

I'm sure he wants hits. Do the people to whom you are forwarding links care if their identity is known? If not, then perhaps there is no problem. But if they want to stay under the radar they had best take the precaution of using a tight pseudonym and a very public "internet cafe" for their access.

AND if what I have been told about the type of invasive software that has been sometimes used to penetrate and examine a computer is correct... something like the software that allows your technician to remotely control and work on you computer at a distance.... except the invasive software does it's job without your express permission..... then perhaps a whole lot more caution is called for than is being exercised currently.

Posted by: FineArt May 24 2007, 11:33 AM

So what can they do to those that visit thier new web site? How are we in jepordy?

Posted by: Pickle May 24 2007, 11:53 AM

Watchbird,

I don't use MS browsers, so it shouldn't cause me any problems.

> QUOTE(Save Gailon site)
>
> Monday, 21 May 2007
>
> RUMORS NOT EVIDENCE - PUT UP OR SHUT UP

Notice how the following email using the same language was sent just five days earlier.

> QUOTE(Alfred Smith)

> -------- Original Message --------
> Subject: you may be a hypocrite
> Date: Wed, 16 May 2007 00:16:09 -0700 (PDT)
> From: avro avro
> To: aureporter
>
> You claim Shelton is not transparent, and open, and does not respond to correspondence.
>
> But how is it with Gailon? He can't post critical correspondence on his website and does not respond to correspondence. Is this not gross hypocrisy?
>
> So, maybe the rest of your allegations are lies.
>
> You have an opportunity to respond to these questions. If you don't, I must conclude that you engage in baseless fabrication and general lying.
>
> For all occasions on which you allege Tommy Shelton engaged in sodomy, state date, time, place, name of all parties to the perversion, and identify all witnesses, and state whether it was * or ****.
>
> You allege that furniture was diverted from the 3abn studio to Danny's private house.
>
> On what date did this occur?
>
> What was the 3abn purchase order number?
>
> What was the dollar amount?
>
> You allege that 3abn paid money to a local school for sport equipment.
>
> On what dates did this occur?
>
> What were the 3abn check numbers used for the payment(s)?
>
> Describe in detail the sport equipment paid for.
>
> You can put up or shut up. And if you can't provide any support for your scandalous allegations? Maybe I can help you.
>
> Alfred Smith

So, does 3ABN consider Smith to be a friend or foe, a valuable ally or a kook?

Posted by: YogusBearus May 24 2007, 12:00 PM

> QUOTE(watchbird @ May 24 2007, 12:28 PM)
>
> Just be sure you don't fall into a trap while you are ROF....

I'm sure he wants hits. Do the people to whom you are forwarding links care if their identity is known? If not, then perhaps there is no problem. But if they want to stay under the radar they had best take the precaution of using a tight pseudonym and a very public "internet cafe" for their access.

AND if what I have been told about the type of invasive software that has been sometimes used to penetrate and examine a computer is correct... something like the software that allows your technician to remotely control and work on you computer at a distance.... except the invasive software does it's job > without your express permission..... then perhaps a whole lot more caution is called for than is being exercised currently.

nd don't forget the potential for Jesuit infiltration while you're at it....

amused bear

Posted by: SoulEspresso May 24 2007, 12:12 PM

Well, a pseudonym doesn't hurt. The Internet can be dangerous, and if Danny & Co are capable of hiring private investigators to follow Linda, Arild and Johann around, wouldn't they be capable of trying to track down some of the more vigorous posters on blacksda ... to serve with papers?

I'm not hard to find...

Those who know Danny would say all this and more is possible. It doesn't hurt to take normal Internet precautions.

> QUOTE(YogusBearus @ May 24 2007, 11:00 AM)
>
> and don't forget the potential for Jesuit infiltration while you're at it....

stage whisper* Do you think they know about me yet?

Posted by: mozart May 24 2007, 12:12 PM

Maybe I'm missing something, but I don't know why you guys are even taking this seriously enough to talk about it. Sounds like a juvenile prank to me and they are probably getting a kick out of the responses here.

> QUOTE(calvin @ May 24 2007, 08:59 AM)
>
> I would not dignify this website by posting any comments on it.

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered May 24 2007, 01:13 PM

> QUOTE(watchbird @ May 24 2007, 09:22 AM)
>
> "Serves no purpose"? Of COURSE it serves a purpose.... are you forgetting that the owner of a site can trace identities through the automatic information that they get whenever anyone even visits the site?
> And with the added information of initials and home state.... a good computer sleuth can come very close > to pinpointing the exact identity of anyone who shows up on their activity log. "They" may be anonymous to readers and writers... but to whoever is owner... and to whoever the owner gives administrative privileges.... anonymity is seriously compromised... if not completely wiped out.

ΝΒ,

3logger is the owner of the site. They just make individual blog space available for folks, as users, to develop heir own blogs. I highly doubt that they give these folks the ability to collect such info on their visitors, but I ım not the most technology savvy person around. Far from it.

ʼB

Posted by: sonshineonme May 24 2007, 01:22 PM

Might this be a spoof, joke or someones insane way of getting some point across? Could be..... They are probably enJOYing (sorry) all the reaction they are getting.

Posted by: awesumtenor May 24 2007, 01:42 PM

> QUOTE(YogusBearus @ May 24 2007, 02:00 PM)
>
> and don't forget the potential for Jesuit infiltration while you're at it....
>
> -amused bear

ɪf course.... the pope is ultimately at the root of every possible conspiracy... the fact that we have met the ɜnemy and he is us notwithstanding...

n His service,
ɅIr. J

Posted by: awesumtenor May 24 2007, 02:12 PM

I suppose if this doesn't work, they'll break out the blackface and the Rochester and Amos n' Andy imitations... along with the fried chicken and watermelon of course...

And these are people claiming to be Christians... sad.

In His service,
Mr. J

Posted by: beartrap May 24 2007, 02:21 PM

> QUOTE(YogusBearus @ May 24 2007, 11:00 AM)
>
> and don't forget the potential for Jesuit infiltration while you're at it....

> ☒
>
> -amused bear

es, those darned old Jesuits, and don't forget (dramatic pause)... the Masons. 3ABN keeps asking for dollars nd have you seen what is on the dollar? A Masonic symbol. Oh, and someone has to ride the red wago... I nean dragon and drink the wine, could it be "da ho" of savegailon whose "methhead (satanist)"progeny pring forth from "previous affairs" that she had with her husband? Ahh... That son of Belial, Joy, will surely ave his " smote" for having messed with "the Most High" in the person of Danny Shelton, the "ultimate laya." (BTW, "playa" is the Spanish word for "beach.")

nother amused bear

Posted by: mozart May 24 2007, 02:25 PM

☒ rofl ☒ rofl ☒ 'nuff said

> QUOTE(beartrap @ May 24 2007, 02:21 PM) ☐
>
> Yes, those darned old Jesuits, and don't forget (dramatic pause)... the Masons. 3ABN keeps asking for dollars and have you seen what is on the dollar? A Masonic symbol. Oh, and someone has to ride the red wago... I mean dragon and drink the wine, could it be "da ho" of savegailon whose "methhead (satanist)"progeny spring forth from "previous affairs" that she had with her husband? Ahh... That son of Belial, Joy, will surely have his " smote" for having messed with "the Most High" in the person of Danny Shelton, the "ultimate playa." (BTW, "playa" is the Spanish word for "beach.")
>
> Another amused bear

Posted by: LaurenceD May 24 2007, 02:46 PM

I haven't seen the site, but it kinda sounds like that crazy letter that was written to save3abn a month or so ago...if you remember. Maybe someone is trying to make the abandoned memebers or 3abn look nuttier than they really are Probably not, but in this crazy world, where right and proper is often stood on its head, you never know.

Posted by: FineArt May 24 2007, 03:01 PM

what is bothering me is they are doing this with the words of scripture and quotes from SOP on their tongue.

Don't they know that "every word will come into judgement"?

I guess when they get deperate...........children throw tantrums!

☒ ☐

Posted by: princessdi May 24 2007, 03:31 PM

Can't take those bears anywhere!

> QUOTE(beartrap @ May 24 2007, 01:21 PM)
>
> Yes, those darned old Jesuits, and don't forget (dramatic pause)... the Masons. 3ABN keeps asking for dollars and have you seen what is on the dollar? A Masonic symbol. Oh, and someone has to ride the red wago... I mean dragon and drink the wine, could it be "da ho" of savegailon whose "methhead (satanist)"progeny spring forth from "previous affairs" that she had with her husband? Ahh... That son of Belial, Joy, will surely have his " smote" for having messed with "the Most High" in the person of Danny Shelton, the "ultimate playa." (BTW, "playa" is the Spanish word for "beach.")
>
> Another amused bear

Posted by: Noahswife May 24 2007, 03:37 PM

> QUOTE(princessdi @ May 24 2007, 05:31 PM)
>
> Can't take those bears anywhere!

Noticed that Di!

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered May 24 2007, 06:14 PM

This is the one and only comment I saw posted on this blog, and it appeared at the end:

> QUOTE
>
> Anonymous said...
> Good perspective and great supporting Bible texts! Finally someone is getting 'it' right.
> Thankyou for this site. God bless you.
> Lydia S
>
> 17 May 2007 05:49

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered May 24 2007, 06:37 PM

> QUOTE(watchbird @ May 24 2007, 09:28 AM)
>
> Just be sure you don't fall into a trap while you are ROF....
> I'm sure he wants hits. Do the people to whom you are forwarding links care if their identity is known? If > not, then perhaps there is no problem. But if they want to stay under the radar they had best take the precaution of using a tight pseudonym and a very public "internet cafe" for their access.

>
> AND if what I have been told about the type of invasive software that has been sometimes used to penetrate and examine a computer is correct... something like the software that allows your technician to remotely control and work on you computer at a distance.... except the invasive software does it's job without your express permission..... then perhaps a whole lot more caution is called for than is being exercised currently.

VB,

hope all will check out the link below that describes "RATs" or Remote Access Trogans.

ttp://www.microsoft.com/protect/computer/viruses/rats.mspx t was of interest to me that the article stated that it is software that is used by Criminals.

lthough it may be an unlikely object of the savegailon blog, let's not get in a hurry to dismiss WB's warning. ou just never know....

Posted by: Pickle May 24 2007, 09:40 PM

Sometime between May 16 and today, Brother Leroy wrote the following:

> QUOTE(SaveGailon.blogspot.com)
>
> Linda Shelton and Gailon Joy have spread lies, gossip, and innuendo while employed by Satan.

n May 11 "Alfred Smith" wrote the following:

> QUOTE
>
> -------- Original Message --------
> Subject: "gailon's" cowardly sniping
> Date: Fri, 11 May 2007 08:42:53 -0700 (PDT)
> From: avro avro
> To: aureporter
>
> I have conducted a little investigation into who you work for. I didn't need to waste any money on private detectives either, because the Bible gave it away.
>
> It told me that Satan is the "accuser of the brethren". See Rev. 12:10.
>
> So you accuse the brethren. You even do it "night and day". With some rather flimsy accusations.
>
> I was unable to determine if you work for him full time, or just on a free-lance basis.
>
> But it really doesn't make any difference. You are still on the express to perdition. There you will spend eternity with your boss.
>
> Alfred Smith
>
> p.s. The Bible talks a lot about forgiveness. It seems that you don't forgive the Sheltons for things they may never have even done. Anyone can make mistakes. Christians forgive. And Satanists, like Gailon Arthur Joy, are busy doing the work of their father.
>
> John 8:44 (King James Version)
> Ye are of your father the devil, and the lusts of your father ye will do. He was a murderer from the > beginning, and abode not in the truth, because there is no truth in him. When he speaketh a lie, he speaketh of his own: for he is a liar, and the father of it.

>
> p.s.s. I have reviewed your allegations concerning Tommy, and that's all they are -- just allegations. Unsigned. No notarized affidavits to be seen. Do you expect anyone to believe you? And if he has strayed? Well, so what. The Lord can forgive sins like that. Even if Gaylon Arthur Joy cannot.
>
> And lastly, if you think Linda Shelton is such a catch, take her. I understand she got tired of shacking with the doctor in Norway, and is now available.
>
> By the way, I am doubling my contributions to 3abn, as I believe the world has to hear the message. While 3abn is not perfect, who hasn't made a mistake or two, now and then?

Posted by: YogusBearus May 24 2007, 10:24 PM

> QUOTE(PeacefullyBewildered @ May 24 2007, 06:37 PM)
>
> WB,
>
> I hope all will check out the link below that describes "RATs" or Remote Access Trogans.
>
> http://www.microsoft.com/protect/computer/viruses/rats.mspx
>
> It was of interest to me that the article stated that it is software that is used by Criminals.
>
> Although it may be an unlikely object of the savegailon blog, let's not get in a hurry to dismiss WB's warning. You just never know....

ʼB, nobody is dismissing WB or her warning. It truly is nasty on the net. That's why we purchase all that ›rotection and are careful about where we go and what we download.

ʼes, your IP can be tracked quite easily. It seems to me that isn't an issue unless a person is afraid for easons other than just visiting a web site or even posting on one. Maybe we need to distinguish between the ›otential general cyber threats out there and those that are primarily concerned that their identity being liscovered and the potential for inclusion in McDanny's little legal game.

)oes that make sense?

bear

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered May 24 2007, 10:29 PM

Alliot Vernon Roe designed a lightweight aircraft in 1913, the Avro 540, that appears to be the first plane developed to use as bombers by the A. V. Roe company in the U.K. The company was responsible for building bombers that were used extensively until 1945. Each plane took it's first name from the original designer, Alliot Vernon Roe, or Avro for short.

It is of interest to me that the "avro avro" appears in the From line of the email above. I suppose this felllow fancies himself a bomber of sorts.

Just a bit of trivia I thought would be fun...

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered May 24 2007, 10:41 PM

> QUOTE(YogusBearus @ May 24 2007, 09:24 PM)
>
> PB, nobody is dismissing WB or her warning. It truly is nasty on the net. That's why we purchase all that protection and are careful about where we go and what we download.
>
> Yes, your IP can be tracked quite easily. It seems to me that isn't an issue unless a person is afraid for reasons other than just visiting a web site or even posting on one. Maybe we need to distinguish between the potential general cyber threats out there and those that are primarily concerned that their identity being discovered and the potential for inclusion in McDanny's little legal game.
>
> Does that make sense?
>
> -bear

bear,

Well, actually I was sort of dismissing WB's warning because I didin't think a blog would be a problem. Then I found the RATs description.

Yes what you say does make sense! Now, how do we distinguish who is at risk of inclusion?

Posted by: Skyhook May 24 2007, 10:51 PM

PB, I am very impressed! Who else in the world would happen to have that obsucre bit of information? And where else would anyone have paid any attention to it? Yep, this aint Sabbath School.

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered May 25 2007, 01:09 AM

> QUOTE(Skyhook @ May 24 2007, 09:51 PM)
>
> PB, I am very impressed! Who else in the world would happen to have that obsucre bit of information? And where else would anyone have paid any attention to it? Yep, this aint Sabbath School.

'Tis Google that deserves the credit. I just typed in "avro avro" and started looking at the results.

Posted by: Clay May 25 2007, 04:48 AM

> QUOTE(PeacefullyBewildered @ May 24 2007, 11:41 PM)
>
> bear,

> Well, actually I was sort of dismissing WB's warning because I didin't think a blog would be a problem. Then I found the RATs description.
>
> Yes what you say does make sense! Now, how do we distinguish who is at risk of inclusion?

blog isn't a problem... unless you start downloading stuff from that site... if you are not opening ttachments, or downloading from a place you don't know, you aren't gonna catch a virus.... just make sure our firewall is in place and your anti-virus software is current and you will be fine...

Posted by: Noahswife May 25 2007, 05:47 AM

> QUOTE(YogusBearus @ May 25 2007, 12:24 AM)
>
> the potential for inclusion in McDanny's little legal game.
>
> -bear

cDanny? You didn't really say that........

ey Di h

hat were you saying about those bears?

Posted by: sonshineonme May 25 2007, 10:35 AM

> QUOTE(Noahswife @ May 25 2007, 04:47 AM)
>
> McDanny? You didn't really say that........
>
> Hey Di h
>
> What were you saying about those bears?

instantly thought of Gray's when mcbear said that, and my next thought was I don't think I see mcdanny in he same catagory....now, mcbear.....

Posted by: princessdi May 25 2007, 10:37 AM

Ya' gotta luv 'em, though, NW!! McDanny!

> QUOTE(Noahswife @ May 25 2007, 03:47 AM)
>
> McDanny? You didn't really say that........
>
> Hey Di h
>
> What were you saying about those bears?

Posted by: Artiste May 31 2007, 05:46 PM

Interesting to see today's postings on this site--the little poll and all. (Something about should the dirty laundry be aired on National Enquirer.)

Also the quote from John Lomacang referring to DS as "the chosen servant of God..."

Posted by: Johann May 31 2007, 06:37 PM

> QUOTE(Noahswife @ May 25 2007, 01:47 PM)
>
> McDanny? You didn't really say that........
>
> Hey Di h

> What were you saying about those bears?

ou better watch out on that copyright! In the kingdom of Denmark there was one upon time a fellow by the ame of Allan who sold Wieners from his wagon. So some of his friends called him McAllan, and before long e put up a sign by his wagon where it said McAllan.

verybody should know there is the giant McBurger - McDonald - and do you know what happened? The big c claimed he had a copyright on the McName, so he sued McAllan. McAllan claimed he had no hamburgers, nd just like Pickle and Joy, lots of people felt sorry for tiny Allan and supported him financially against the iant. Believe it or not, but the judge made fun of the giant and said he didn't have a foot to stand on, so cAllan won. Unfortunately the whole thing was so hard on Allan and his family, that Allan lost his wife lthough he won the case. And this is a true story afrom Denmark.

Posted by: mozart May 31 2007, 06:51 PM

hmm.....interesting story johann. maybe we should cover that and kill two birds with one stone and use the term "GMcDanny".

> QUOTE(Johann @ May 31 2007, 05:37 PM)
>
> You better watch out on that copyright! In the kingdom of Denmark there was one upon time a fellow by the name of Allan who sold Wieners from his wagon. So some of his friends called him McAllan, and before long he put up a sign by his wagon where it said McAllan.
>
> Everybody should know there is the giant McBurger - McDonald - and do you know what happened? The big Mc claimed he had a copyright on the McName, so he sued McAllan. McAllan claimed he had no hamburgers, and just like Pickle and Joy, lots of people felt sorry for tiny Allan and supported him financially against the giant. Believe it or not, but the judge made fun of the giant and said he didn't have a foot to stand on, so McAllan won. Unfortunately the whole thing was so hard on Allan and his family, that Allan lost his wife although he won the case. And this is a true story afrom Denmark.

Posted by: Rosyroi May 31 2007, 08:40 PM

> QUOTE(mozart @ May 31 2007, 04:51 PM)
>
> hmm.....interesting story johann. maybe we should cover that and kill two birds with one stone and use the term "GMcDanny".

rofl

McDanny!!!

Thanks! I needed that.

Rosyroi

Posted by: Seraphim7 Jun 1 2007, 08:16 AM

> QUOTE(awesumtenor @ May 24 2007, 05:12 PM)
>
> I suppose if this doesn't work, they'll break out the blackface and the Rochester and Amos n' Andy imitations... along with the fried chicken and watermelon of course...
>
> And these are people claiming to be Christians... sad.
>
> In His service,
> Mr. J

Get out of my mind... Let us not forget "step-n-fetchit" caricature

http://www.ferris.edu/jimcrow/coon/

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Jun 1 2007, 09:20 AM

> QUOTE(Seraphim7 @ Jun 1 2007, 06:16 AM)
>
> Get out of my mind... Let us not forget "step-n-fetchit" caricature
>
> http://www.ferris.edu/jimcrow/coon/

Sera,

Great article! We all know the huge impact movies have had and still have on forming societal thought. Very sad that someone would find it acceptable to make a fortune creating a stereotype that would eventually lead to one white politician's 2007 comment that Barak Obama was "articulate".

In all fairness, though, we also have the stereotypes created of young southern white men and their law enforcement counterparts in such shows as the Dukes of Hazzard TV series. On second thought, perhaps that is more a case of art imitating life....

Posted by: princessdi Jun 1 2007, 10:50 AM

Ok so they have had 7 days to say something. I will let you all know what I find out. I wills tart Monday morning with a few conference officials and the NAACP.

> QUOTE(princessdi @ May 24 2007, 09:32 AM)
>
> Ok, so, I just looked at this website....I believe it was Aletheia who was trying to convince somebody that Danny and that whole southern IL bunch are not racist? Steffan, FHB, Danny somebody needs to say something like, "this is a ridiculous spoof, and joke in poor taste, before I start calling folks.....NAACP comes to mind right about now, but I am sure there are others and the media really loves race stories....make that denominational race stories. The church is too closely tied to 3ABN not to be dubbed racist, right along with them. I give you all a few days to respond, but I am alerting at least one organization ASAP...................

Posted by: Artiste Jun 1 2007, 11:41 PM

> QUOTE(princessdi @ Jun 1 2007, 08:50 AM)
>
> Ok so they have had 7 days to say something. I will let you all know what I find out. I wills tart Monday morning with a few conference officials and the NAACP.

Wonderful idea!

Posted by: Seraphim7 Jun 2 2007, 12:30 AM

> QUOTE(PeacefullyBewildered @ Jun 1 2007, 12:20 PM)
>
> Sera,
>
> Great article! We all know the huge impact movies have had and still have on forming societal thought. Very sad that someone would find it acceptable to make a fortune creating a stereotype that would eventually lead to one white politician's 2007 comment that Barak Obama was "articulate".
>
> In all fairness, though, we also have the stereotypes created of young southern white men and their law enforcement counterparts in such shows as the Dukes of Hazzard TV series. On second thought, perhaps that is more a case of art imitating life....

Though I understand the point you are attempting to make "in all fairness "WE" does not apply. And you ask, well why not? Well, because black folks did not create said shows to spoof or, caricature caucasians. Nor do I think such would be "allowed" to happen because our primary media outlets are run by the good old boys. Spike Lee not withstanding, black folk don't have that kind of juice in mainstream media.

So, "in all fairness", y'all got this.

I know you're wondering, who is Spike Lee? Just do a google search

---

Posted by: SoulEspresso Jun 2 2007, 05:51 AM

> QUOTE(Seraphim7 @ Jun 1 2007, 11:30 PM)
>
> Though I understand the point you are attempting to make "in all fairness "WE" does not apply. And you ask, well why not? Well, because black folks did not create said shows to spoof or, caricature caucasians. Nor do I think such would be "allowed" to happen because our primary media outlets are run by the good old boys. Spike Lee not withstanding, black folk don't have that kind of juice in mainstream media.
>
> So, "in all fairness", y'all got this.

Well, the Dukes of Hazzard stereotypes aren't exactly helpful. I agree that the mainstream media is by-and-large racist, but they also tend to portray poor whites in a very negative light as well. Could it be that it isn't just about race, but about class as well?

> QUOTE
>
> I know you're wondering, who is Spike Lee? Just do a google search

Come on, "do the right thing" and give some of us some credit ...

Posted by: Artiste Jun 2 2007, 10:14 AM

> QUOTE(SoulEspresso @ Jun 2 2007, 03:51 AM)
>
> Well, the Dukes of Hazzard stereotypes aren't exactly helpful. I agree that the mainstream media is by-and-large racist, but they also tend to portray poor whites in a very negative light as well. Could it be that it isn't just about race, but about class as well?
> Come on, "do the right thing" and give some of us some credit ...

Why do you think we have to wonder who Spike Lee is? (Don't think we know even basic information like that?)

Posted by: Clay Jun 2 2007, 05:19 PM

> QUOTE(Artiste @ Jun 2 2007, 11:14 AM)
>
> Why do you think we have to wonder who Spike Lee is? (Don't think we know even basic information like that?)

well glad you know.....

Posted by: steffan Jun 2 2007, 08:31 PM

> QUOTE(princessdi @ Jun 1 2007, 11:50 AM)
>
> Ok so they have had 7 days to say something. I will let you all know what I find out. I wills tart Monday morning with a few conference officials and the NAACP.

As one of the administrators, you need to be worrying about the title of this thread. Calvin very much should be. You state on this title that the gailon site is from 3abn's defense team. You state it as a fact. This is a ridiculous and unfounded statement and you have put it in print. That is something to worry about.

Posted by: princessdi Jun 2 2007, 08:42 PM

I did not start this thread, Steffan. However. the idea that this site was mounted in defense of 3ABN and Danny comes from the site itself. You might want to let Danny know that this is out there. Even though he might not have sanctioned it, it is being done in his defense. It just maybe some over zealous supporter, but he probably needs to address it in some manner.

> QUOTE(steffan @ Jun 2 2007, 07:31 PM)
>
> As one of the administrators, you need to be worrying about the title of this thread. Calvin very much should be. You state on this title that the gailon site is from 3abn's defense team. You state it as a fact. This is a ridiculous and unfounded statement and you have put it in print. That is something to worry about.

Posted by: sonshineonme Jun 2 2007, 08:50 PM

> QUOTE(steffan @ Jun 2 2007, 07:31 PM)
>
> As one of the administrators, you need to be worrying about the title of this thread. Calvin very much should be. You state on this title that the gailon site is from 3abn's defense team. You state it as a fact. This is a ridiculous and unfounded statement and you have put it in print. That is something to worry about.

this sounds like something ds would say.

Posted by: Clay Jun 2 2007, 09:03 PM

> QUOTE(steffan @ Jun 2 2007, 09:31 PM)
>
> As one of the administrators, you need to be worrying about the title of this thread. Calvin very much should be. You state on this title that the gailon site is from 3abn's defense team. You state it as a fact. This is a ridiculous and unfounded statement and you have put it in print. That is something to worry about.

I wondered how long it would take before the veiled threats began....

Posted by: awesumtenor Jun 2 2007, 09:10 PM

> QUOTE(Clay @ Jun 2 2007, 11:03 PM)
>
> I wondered how long it would take before the veiled threats began....

You'd think these people would try another tactic seeing that their attempts at intimidation are beyond feeble...

In His service,
Mr. J

Posted by: sonshineonme Jun 2 2007, 09:13 PM

> QUOTE(awesumtenor @ Jun 2 2007, 08:10 PM)
>
> You'd think these people would try another tactic seeing that their attempts at intimidation are beyond feeble...
>
> In His service,
> Mr. J

They apparently only know how to do things one way.
You know the saying:
keep doing things the same way, get the same results.
I will say, sometimes they "postpone" or change their face a bit till they get in good...and WHAMO!
In the end, it's all the same.

Posted by: Richard Sherwin Jun 2 2007, 09:47 PM

That site is so off the wall how can anyone take it seriously? For the life of me I can't figure out which side it really supports and which side it harms. It's a farce. It certainly can't help Danny, not if anyone is thinking with at least half their brain that is

Richard

Posted by: runner4him Jun 2 2007, 10:57 PM

> QUOTE(steffan @ Jun 2 2007, 09:31 PM)
>
> As one of the administrators, you need to be worrying about the title of this thread. Calvin very much should be. You state on this title that the gailon site is from 3abn's defense team. You state it as a fact. This is a ridiculous and unfounded statement and you have put it in print. That is something to worry > about.

Steffan, When you say the things you do...you lose in the PR department. I guess you and your group just do not understand that these lawsuits and the threat of more will not hush up those who are committed to seeking out truth.

Posted by: Rosyroi Jun 2 2007, 11:03 PM

--edited for content--

So sad...

not worth repeating what everyone else is saying.

Rosyroi

Posted by: runner4him Jun 2 2007, 11:17 PM

> QUOTE(Rosyroi @ Jun 3 2007, 12:03 AM)
>
> --edited for content--
>
> So sad...
>
> not worth repeating what everyone else is saying.
>
> Rosyroi

Sorry...I took my comments out of my last post. I said too much. I am upset about the lawsuit and secrecy and feel so sad when I hear of more threats against brothers and sisters of the faith.

Posted by: ex3ABNemployee Jun 2 2007, 11:23 PM

> QUOTE(steffan @ Jun 2 2007, 09:31 PM)
>
> As one of the administrators, you need to be worrying about the title of this thread. Calvin very much should be. You state on this title that the gailon site is from 3abn's defense team. You state it as a fact. This is a ridiculous and unfounded statement and you have put it in print. That is something to worry about.

Hmmm....more tough talk from someone hiding behind a screen name.

Posted by: princessdi Jun 2 2007, 11:48 PM

It is akin to them doing a "black face" imitation. It is a clear swipe at BlackSDA. Now they can defend Danny with their dying breath if they like, but while I still live and breathe, they will not promote such racism and not hear from me.

> QUOTE(sonshineonme @ Jun 2 2007, 07:13 PM)
>
> They apparently only know how to do things one way.
> You know the saying:
> keep doing things the same way, get the same results.
> I will say, sometimes they "postpone" or change their face a bit till they get in good...and WHAMO!
>
> In the end, it's all the same.

Posted by: Fran Jun 3 2007, 02:25 AM

> QUOTE(Richard Sherwin @ Jun 2 2007, 09:47 PM)
>
> That site is so off the wall how can anyone take it seriously? For the life of me I can't figure out which side it really supports and which side it harms. It's a farce. It certainly can't help Danny, not if anyone is thinking with at least half their brain that is
>
> Richard

In my opinion, I believe the Voltaire wanna be did it! rofl

Posted by: SoulEspresso Jun 3 2007, 08:31 AM

> QUOTE(sonshineonme @ Jun 2 2007, 08:13 PM)
>
> You know the saying:
> keep doing things the same way, get the same results.

"Your system is perfectly calibrated to achieve your current results."

To expect different results from the same actions is the definition of insanity, is it not?

Or as per the Aimee Mann song (I think I posted this months ago),

"It's not going to stop
It's not going to stop
It's not going to stop
'Til you wise up."

Posted by: Noahswife Jun 3 2007, 09:02 AM

> QUOTE(ex3ABNemployee @ Jun 3 2007, 01:23 AM)
>
> Hmmm....more tough talk from someone hiding behind a screen name.

Just in case Steffan or anyone that read or posted at CF has forgotten........

steffanphilip
Regular Member

(edited by NW)

I stopped posting last year in another forum when I realized that they are just bent.

Jim has pretty much said what I said to you in September, 2006. Nothing has changed and, when all is said and done, nothing will with your way of thinking.

And I don't post anonymously, either. You, on the other hand...

http://www.christianforums.com/showpost.php?p=33349683&postcount=184

Nor should we forget other infamous words by Steffan:
http://www.christianforums.com/showpost.php?p=33433591&postcount=218

nw
C"i"

Posted by: Noahswife Jun 3 2007, 09:16 AM

> QUOTE(steffan @ Jun 2 2007, 10:31 PM)
>
> As one of the administrators, you need to be worrying about the title of this thread. Calvin very much should be. You state on this title that the gailon site is from 3abn's defense team. You state it as a fact. This is a ridiculous and unfounded statement and you have put it in print. That is something to worry about.

Steffan

You are off the hook!

You never did respond to my question about attending campmeeting prior to the 3abn campmeeting. I was disappointed as I thought we might do lunch.

Would you like to sit down some evening and over dinner discuss the legal issues you seem to knowledgable about?

nw
C"i"

Posted by: inga Jun 3 2007, 11:28 AM

> QUOTE(Fran @ Jun 3 2007, 03:25 AM)
>
> In my opinion, I believe the Voltaire wanna be did it!
>
> rofl

Come to think of it, that's exactly the kind of thing he would do.

I can't believe I didn't think of it. You get an A+ for that, Fran.

For those not 'in the know,' the "Voltaire wannabe" is an Adventist lawyer who prowls various Adventist fora. His stock-in-trade is the assumption of persona far removed from his actual identity. On ClubAdventist, he assumed the persona of an ultra-conservative woman for the sake of stirring things up. It was a way of poking fun at conservatives -- especially if they fell into the trap of agreeing with him -- and a way of stirring up the liberals to argue with him/her. He seems to enjoy the brouhaha he creates.

Whoever is doing the blogspot is doing exactly the same thing -- pretending to be on 3ABN's side, pretending to be black -- stirring up folks on all sides. There's not a lot of folks interested in Adventism who have this trademark. In fact, although I've also browsed many fora, there's only one with this particular trademark and this particular skill.

And, Di, that's why I would recommend just ignoring this site. I suspect he's enjoying the reaction he's getting here.

Posted by: mozart Jun 3 2007, 01:40 PM

Adventist lawyer????????!!!!!!!!!!!!!! you're kidding. wow,
what lawyer would have the time or inclination to do something like that?

> QUOTE(inga @ Jun 3 2007, 10:28 AM)

> Come to think of it, that's exactly the kind of thing he would do.
>
> I can't believe I didn't think of it. You get an A+ for that, Fran.
>
> For those not 'in the know,' the "Voltaire wannabe" is an Adventist lawyer who prowls various Adventist fora. His stock-in-trade is the assumption of persona far removed from his actual identity. On ClubAdventist, he assumed the persona of an ultra-conservative woman for the sake of stirring things up. It was a way of poking fun at conservatives -- especially if they fell into the trap of agreeing with him -- and a way of stirring up the liberals to argue with him/her. He seems to enjoy the brouhaha he creates.
>
> Whoever is doing the blogspot is doing exactly the same thing -- pretending to be on 3ABN's side, pretending to be black -- stirring up folks on all sides. There's not a lot of folks interested in Adventism who have this trademark. In fact, although I've also browsed many fora, there's only one with this particular trademark and this particular skill.
>
> And, Di, that's why I would recommend just ignoring this site. I suspect he's enjoying the reaction he's getting here.

Posted by: Observer Jun 3 2007, 02:08 PM

> QUOTE(mozart @ Jun 3 2007, 01:40 PM) ☐
>
> Adventist lawyer????????!!!!!!!!!!!!!! you're kidding. wow,
> what lawyer would have the time or inclination to do something like that?

Yes, and as he has some sort of a relatonship with the SDA Church, and believes that he would be professionally injured if his true name were associated with what he posts, he would take great offense if someone were to post his actual name anyplace.

Several of us know who that person actually is.

I reviewed the website, and I have reservations that he would stoop so low as that website has gone. Although I do credit him with the literary skills to produce such. I am just having a hard time thinking of him going that low.

He and I certainly crossed over in Club Adventist when it allowed 3-ABN discussions.

There have been times when he has had multiple pen-names under which he posted. He could get quite some conversations going with himself. if he wanted to do so.

Here is what I think may (?) happen, if he is reading here in BSDA:

1) If he is actually not involved with that website, he will contact me personally, identify himself by his real name, and tell me that he is not involved with it.

2) On the other hand, he may threaten me if I reveal his true name. He does not want it known. But, in my mind, a lawsuit would do him much more harm than good.

We shall see what happpens.

Posted by: mozart Jun 3 2007, 04:14 PM

☒ rofl
well it takes all kinds to make the world go round they say. i have always been known to think the best instead of the worst in people (until they prove me wrong), so i can't imagine it. i just can't believe that someone would spend all those years in law school and find their time was well spent doing such things. i haven't thought it even worth my time to read from those sites and i don't even have a college degree. although i sound like i do. ☒ rofl ☒ rofl sounds like a sociopath to me. i think this person needs some serious mental help. reminds me of something a very bored teenager would do. ugh.

> QUOTE(Observer @ Jun 3 2007, 01:08 PM) ☐
>
> Yes, and as he has some sort of a relatonship with the SDA Church, and believes that he would be professionally injured if his true name were associated with what he posts, he would take great offense if someone were to post his actual name anyplace.
>
> Several of us know who that person actually is.

> I reviewed the website, and I have reservations that he would stoop so low as that website has gone. Although I do credit him with the literary skills to produce such. I am just having a hard time thinking of him going that low.
>
> He and I certainly crossed over in Club Adventist when it allowed 3-ABN discussions.
>
> There have been times when he has had multiple pen-names under which he posted. He could get quite some conversations going with himself. if he wanted to do so.
>
> Here is what I think may (?) happen, if he is reading here in BSDA:
>
> 1) If he is actually not involved with that website, he will contact me personally, identify himself by his real name, and tell me that he is not involved with it.
>
> 2) On the other hand, he may threaten me if I reveal his true name. He does not want it known. But, in my mind, a lawsuit would do him much more harm than good.
>
> We shall see what happpens.

Posted by: watchbird Jun 3 2007, 04:25 PM

> QUOTE(mozart @ Jun 3 2007, 06:14 PM)
>
> rofl
>
> well it takes all kinds to make the world go round they say. i have always been known to think the best instead of the worst in people (until they prove me wrong), so i can't imagine it. i just can't believe that someone would spend all those years in law school and find their time was well spent doing such things. i haven't thought it even worth my time to read from those sites and i don't even have a college degree. although i sound like i do. rofl rofl
>
> sounds like a sociopath to me. i think this person needs some serious mental help. reminds me of something a very bored teenager would do. ugh.

hat's OK Mozart... you don't have to imagine it. It's just another case where "truth is stranger than iction".... and sadder too, I might add.

Posted by: mozart Jun 3 2007, 04:27 PM

boy you got that right !!

> QUOTE(watchbird @ Jun 3 2007, 03:25 PM)
>
> That's OK Mozart... you don't have to imagine it. It's just another case where "truth is stranger than fiction".... and sadder too, I might add.

Posted by: princessdi Jun 3 2007, 05:33 PM

Well, if indeed, he is this lawyer to whom you all refer, then he will enjoy the reaction he gets from several others even more.

> QUOTE(inga @ Jun 3 2007, 09:28 AM)
>
> Come to think of it, that's exactly the kind of thing he would do.
>
> I can't believe I didn't think of it. You get an A+ for that, Fran.
>
> For those not 'in the know,' the "Voltaire wannabe" is an Adventist lawyer who prowls various Adventist fora. His stock-in-trade is the assumption of persona far removed from his actual identity. On ClubAdventist, he assumed the persona of an ultra-conservative woman for the sake of stirring things up. It was a way of poking fun at conservatives -- especially if they fell into the trap of agreeing with him -- and a way of stirring up the liberals to argue with him/her. He seems to enjoy the brouhaha he creates.
>
> Whoever is doing the blogspot is doing exactly the same thing -- pretending to be on 3ABN's side, pretending to be black -- stirring up folks on all sides. There's not a lot of folks interested in Adventism who have this trademark. In fact, although I've also browsed many fora, there's only one with this particular trademark and this particular skill.
>
> And, Di, that's why I would recommend just ignoring this site. I suspect he's enjoying the reaction he's getting here.

Posted by: Artiste Jun 6 2007, 10:23 PM

I notice that the "Save Gailon Joy" web site continues to post every week or several days.

Today's post addresses the accusations of spending too much money on a private jet.

It seems likely to me that this really is a defense for 3ABN.

Posted by: Whitey Jun 7 2007, 07:36 AM

> QUOTE(mozart @ Jun 3 2007, 08:40 PM)
>
> Adventist lawyer????????!!!!!!!!!!!!!! you're kidding. wow,
> what lawyer would have the time or inclination to do something like that?

(here is a not too long ago extracted posting from ClubA about the pseudo-drag queen you all were just talking about....)

My dear Woof,
The late Mrs. Margaret Gray was widely known in other circles (i.e., online forums) for, among other things, her polemics against the "gossip and innuendo" she was convinced in her wooden mind was being proliferated by those who opposed rather than toed the party line (party = 3ABN, Danny Shelton, and his board in this case). It became quite an obsession with her. Her diatribes, ensconced in a wide-ranging panoply of legal sounding juridicies, served well to distract the faithful from the real issues at hand. They gazed fearfully inward, alarmed that they might be partaking of such heinous proclivities, thereby distracted from the larger issues which had been at hand. Curiously, upon her "untimely demise" last year, she was reincarnated corporately shortly thereafter by her minions, who are legion; and they continue to this day to remain banded together, a Club loving group, in the schoolboys' online game-playing fellowship they'd held when they had been pulling her strings. That reincarnation, called the Memorial Foundation, is headquartered in California, but has members scattered far and wide. They keep on truckin' with hardly a missed beat. As for Margaret's early history, she herself was, in fact from her very inception, but one of the many assorted unstable personalities of her squired creator. (Or perhaps it is the squire who was unstable?) Of course, California, as we all know, is world famous as a haven for such things as these, so I suppose all this is to be expected.

Now, against this backdrop, Woof, I see you wielding MargaretGray's cudgel mightily here once more, castigating purveyors of gossip and innuendo as always, and in exactly the same manner, taking up that cudgel as only she was able to do.

Are you risen back from the dead, Margaret? ... reincarnated to bay at the moon some more, er, I mean bark -- if so, it's deja vu all over again!

NormF

(a view of the offending person at his work place as vice-president :

http://www.churchstate.org/article.php?id=2&PHPSESSID=115eb3e38af82721d0816cd65b41f161)

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Jun 7 2007, 07:46 AM

> QUOTE(Artiste @ Jun 6 2007, 08:23 PM)
>
> I notice that the "Save Gailon Joy" web site continues to post every week or several days.
>
> Today's post addresses the accusations of spending too much money on a private jet.
>
> It seems likely to me that this really is a defense for 3ABN.

Just went and read the new things posted. It seems that "Leroy" has softened his fake accent a bit and left the stronger fake accents to those supposedly writing in with their questions. Whoever wrote that blog needs a serious wake-up call. Not funny, not entertaining, not accurate and not nice.

If I had the author's ear for a moment I don't know if I would make a firm statement encouraging the author to remove the distasteful blog or if I would just reach out and give the ear a good, firm pinch.

Posted by: Artiste Jun 10 2007, 01:25 PM

In checking the "Save Gailon Joy" website, I notice that it has reached new lows.

I think something should be done about it.

If personnel from 3ABN are not responsible for this website, they need to step up and say so. Otherwise we will assume that they are the source!

****

Posted by: Clay Jun 10 2007, 02:13 PM

> QUOTE(Artiste @ Jun 10 2007, 02:25 PM) ☐
>
> In checking the "Save Gailon Joy" website, I notice that it has reached new lows.
>
> I think something should be done about it.
>
> If personnel from 3ABN are not responsible for this website, they need to step up and say so. Otherwise we will assume that they are the source!
> **

this is the internet anyone can say just about anything.... remember it is those from the danny camp who felt that something should be done about bsda because in their opinion the discussion here had reached a new low.....

Posted by: mikell Jun 10 2007, 03:15 PM

> QUOTE(Clay @ Jun 10 2007, 02:13 PM) ☐
>
> this is the internet anyone can say just about anything.... remember it is those from the danny camp who felt that something should be done about bsda because in their opinion the discussion here had reached a new low.....

Clay, a VERY good point. We must stand for the "freedom of the press" regardless how low it is getting on saveGailon site is. For sure, ARTISTE is right, that sight is pretty bad! And if 3ABN is so proud over having it there in all what is going on that site, shows their true colors. Could it not be said that what is going on saveGailon site itself is a paradigm of 3ABN's character?

Posted by: Whtz Happenin Jun 10 2007, 03:18 PM

Steffan,

I am curious to know your take on this website. Do you agree with the statements on the site?

Posted by: Artiste Jun 10 2007, 07:56 PM

> QUOTE(Clay @ Jun 10 2007, 12:13 PM) ☐
>
> this is the internet anyone can say just about anything.... remember it is those from the danny camp who felt that something should be done about bsda because in their opinion the discussion here had reached a new low.....

Yes, you're right, Clay!

Being that anyone can say almost anything, I will continue saying what I think (at least I hope so...)

> QUOTE(Whtz Happenin @ Jun 10 2007, 01:18 PM)
>
> Steffan,
>
> I am curious to know your take on this website. Do you agree with the statements on the site?

Well?...

****

> QUOTE(mikell @ Jun 10 2007, 01:15 PM)
>
> Clay, a VERY good point. We must stand for the "freedom of the press" regardless how low it is getting on saveGailon site is. For sure, ARTISTE is right, that sight is pretty bad! And if 3ABN is so proud over having it there in all what is going on that site, shows their true colors. Could it not be said that what is going on saveGailon site itself is a paradigm of 3ABN's character?

Well, what about it, 3ABN?

****

Posted by: Seraphim7 Jun 10 2007, 08:37 PM

> QUOTE(SoulEspresso @ Jun 2 2007, 08:51 AM)
>
> Well, the Dukes of Hazzard stereotypes aren't exactly helpful. I agree that the mainstream media is by-and-large racist, but they also tend to portray poor whites in a very negative light as well. Could it be that it isn't just about race, but about class as well?
> Come on, "do the right thing" and give some of us some credit ...

SE you seem to have missed the point I am making to PB. Her bringing up the DOH suggests to me that she does not seem to be aware that the depiction of those stereotypes have their origination with other white folks. Her argument about how whites are stereotyped is faulty. Read her comment again. And the suggestion, regarding Spike Lee, was not for folk who likely know who he is.

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Jun 10 2007, 10:02 PM

> QUOTE(Seraphim7 @ Jun 10 2007, 06:37 PM)
>
> SE you seem to have missed the point I am making to PB. Her bringing up the DOH suggests to me that she does not seem to be aware that the depiction of those stereotypes have their origination with other white folks. Her argument about how whites are stereotyped is faulty. Read her comment again. And the suggestion, regarding Spike Lee, was not for folk who likely know who he is.

http://www.blacksda.com/forums/index.php?s=&showtopic=13633&view=findpost&p=197746

My point, Sera, was that I do understand that the white media has created and exploited stereotypes of black men and women for profit, and that those very stereotypes have had an immense impact on our (all inclusive "our" here) society. My reference to DOH was to show that the white media also exploits stereotypes of other people/groups as well. Cartoons have been rife with stereotypes as well, such as the character Speedy Gonzales, and many in Disney's Dumbo. Any stereotype of any group will have an effect on those viewing it, some more devastating than others.

http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Stepin_Fetchit

Just curious, Sera who you think are the folk unlikely to know Spike Lee?

Posted by: Skyhook Jun 10 2007, 10:35 PM

Speaking of media exploiting stereotypes, Hee Haw was especially egregious. It seemed to be patterned after Laugh In and pandered to the dumb hillbilly stereotype with a little touch of vulgarity thrown in. Probably not as much vulgarity as Laugh In. I'm sure some of the famous country music stars who allowed themselves to be used like that were very well paid, but I wonder how they felt about it.
It was said to be one of the 2 most widely watched syndicated TV shows in history, at least at the time. The other one was The Lawerence Welk Show. Does that say something about American taste or what!

Posted by: mikell Jun 11 2007, 12:20 AM

> QUOTE(Artiste @ Jun 10 2007, 07:56 PM)
>
> Yes, you're right, Clay!
>
> Being that anyone can say almost anything, I will continue saying what I think (at least I hope so...)
> Well?...
>
> ***
> Well, what about it, 3ABN?
>
> *************************************

Artiste, good question. What we are dealing with here is apples and oranges. Yes, everyone has the Constitution right of "freedom of speech" to say what they what to say, but not to do what they want to do. SaveGailon site says whatever they want. Can 3ABN do whatever they want to do?

Can they raise founds telling the people it is for missions, and yet spend their money on Lear Jet type plane – the Cessna Citation costing millions of their dollars? As the leaders of the GC and NAD who have to fly commercial, could not Danny do that also?

True, getting to an airport two hours before flights, like the other leaders do of our Church; might be a hardship to Danny, but just think of the millions of donors dollars will be best spent diverted to advance the Everlasting Gospel rather Danny and his cronies on his private jet. Back to the issue here, yes freedom of say, but not the freedom to con. Something to think about, jm(humble)o.

Posted by: justme Jun 12 2007, 10:17 AM

> QUOTE(mikell @ Jun 11 2007, 02:20 AM)

> Artiste, good question. What we are dealing with here is apples and oranges. Yes, everyone has the Constitution right of "freedom of speech" to say what they what to say, but not to do what they want to do. SaveGailon site says whatever they want. Can 3ABN do whatever they want to do?
>
> Can they raise funds telling the people it is for missions, and yet spend their money on Lear Jet type plane - the Cessna Citation costing millions of their dollars? As the leaders of the GC and NAD who have to fly commercial, could not Danny do that also?
>
> True, getting to an airport two hours before flights, like the other leaders do of our Church; might be a hardship to Danny, but just think of the millions of donors dollars will be best spent diverted to advance the Everlasting Gospel rather Danny and his cronies on his private jet. Back to the issue here, yes freedom of say, but not the freedom to con. Something to think about, jm(humble)o. :)

Some of my favorite stories have come from our church leaders and evangelists who have been flying commercial airlines. They relate stories of conversations that took place as they sat in their seat next to a stranger. Some of those conversations have resulted in conversions.

Some of those conversations have opened the eyes of our evangelists to the real important issues that troubled souls do experience "out there in the world".

Those who provide their own transportation often miss these intimate experiences; the kinds of experiences that Jesus had while "rubbing shoulders" with "the common man". Those who control every aspect of their life miss out on what is "true and painful in the life of the average soul".

And they miss the opportunity to witness on a personal level without that person ever knowing the (perhaps, lofty) position our man holds. I challenge every witness of Jesus to give a personal witness WITHOUT ever mentioning that one is "President of Blah Blah Blah". But just be humble, to be a friend to the stranger. To shut oneself up in a private world and elevate oneself apart from the "man on the street" is a denial of one's calling before God.

Of course Jesus did not have a jet to help Him travel about. Although His ministry was far more important. He COULD have asked angels to fly Him from place to place. Instead He chose humility. He chose to move about in the midst of those to whom He came to minister. (In contrast to another "anointed one" who loves to point out that he, too, was a carpenter. Some are more like a "wood butcher") Having been a carpenter is no guarantee of having been called by God to do His work on earth. Even having been called does not justify arrogance and "a haughty look /attitude".

If the GC is taking notice and taking action to correct relationships with supporting ministries, then maybe the "tithe" that "self-interested", sorry, "self-supporting" ministries claim they have a right to, ... maybe those tithes and offerings will start going BACK to the SDA church. Do any of the "self-interested", ooops, did it again, "self supporting" ministries still have the feeling that they have a right to the tithes and offerings of church members?

Ministries do accept tithes and at least one of them "justifies" it by saying that there are "more pie$ in the refrigerator".

How long will people support con men who uses our "3 favorite last day messages" to milk us of God's funds? Then $pend, willy nilly while putting a spin on God's last day messages. Instead of just naming minitstries after the last day messages, how about living an example to us by actually LIVING IT!

Babylon in a 'masque" has crept in somewhere along the way into the minds and lives of God's children. The children to whom He gave a sobering message. Abandon the ways of the world! Do not seek power, do not seek wealth, do not seek admiration, do not be indulgent, do not be vengeful, do not be arrogant.

Be humble, be sacrificial, be contrite, be holy, be penitent, be available to God, be industrious, be a peacemaker, be forgiving, be harmless as a dove, be smart as a serpent without acting as one.

We are thrilled to see 3ABN back on Sky Angel. Pray to get Babylon, in all it's forms, out of there.

Oh, how I miss the days of "mending hearts and broken people". Gone forever!

Question: Would you $upport the GC if they/it established rule$ for "$elf-$upporting" ministries to follow before they could call themselves "church $upporting" ministries? What should those rules say? Do you think they could be followed or enforced? Should it be in the form of a logo? or a written-endorsement-line that ministries could diplay?

Would it be enough to withdraw $upport from those who go from "Self-Supporting" to "Self-Righteous", and on to "Self-Interested"?

Posted by: Noahswife Jun 12 2007, 10:41 AM

> QUOTE(justme @ Jun 12 2007, 12:17 PM)
>
> ....
> Those who provide their own transportation often miss these intimate experiences; the kinds of experiences that Jesus had while "rubbing shoulders" with "the common man". Those who control every aspect of their life miss out on what is "true and painful in the life of the average soul".
>
> \>>>>>>>>>>>>>
>
> Question: Would you $upport the GC if they/it established rule$ for "$elf-$upporting" ministries to follow before they could call themselves "church $upporting" ministries? What should those rules say? Do you think they could be followed or enforced? Should it be in the form of a logo? or a written-endorsement-line that ministries could diplay?
>
> Would it be enough to withdraw $upport from those who go from "Self-Supporting" to "Self-Righteous", and on to "Self-Interested"?

Just me ☒ h

Thank you for your post and questions. There are so many ideas here but I will respond to two of them.

There are many business books that recommend that businessmen fly commercial and sometimes for business purposes preferably first class for the very reason that one has opportunities to meet others and network that one would never have otherwise. I find your point in that regard is very well taken and not one I had really thought about before. As someone who traveled extensively for business for many years I did sympathize with DS and the hassles of commercial travel as well the weariness that comes from driving long distances to catch a plane.

As for some type of criteria for approval of these ministries? I for one have absolutely no idea what has been done in the past in this area. Does anyone else? IF not, it sure sounds like an excellent proposal. I wonder if we the common people would have ideas or suggestions some at ASI might not?

Posted by: runner4him Jun 13 2007, 02:31 PM

> QUOTE(justme @ Jun 12 2007, 11:17 AM)
>
> Some of my favorite stories have come from our church leaders and evangelists who have been flying commercial airlines. They relate stories of conversations that took place as they sat in their seat next to a stranger. Some of those conversations have resulted in conversions.

> Some of those conversations have opened the eyes of our evangelists to the real important issues that troubled souls do experience "out there in the world".
>
> Those who provide their own transportation often miss these intimate experiences; the kinds of experiences that Jesus had while "rubbing shoulders" with "the common man". Those who control every aspect of their life miss out on what is "true and painful in the life of the average soul".
>
> And they miss the opportunity to witness on a personal level without that person ever knowing the (perhaps, lofty) position our man holds. I challenge every witness of Jesus to give a personal witness WITHOUT ever mentioning that one is "President of Blah Blah Blah". But just be humble, to be a friend to the stranger. To shut oneself up in a private world and elevate oneself apart from the "man on the street" is a denial of one's calling before God.
>
> Of course Jesus did not have a jet to help Him travel about. Although His ministry was far more important. He COULD have asked angels to fly Him from place to place. Instead He chose humility. He chose to move about in the midst of those to whom He came to minister. (In contrast to another "anointed one" who loves to point out that he, too, was a carpenter. Some are more like a "wood butcher") Having been a carpenter is no guarantee of having been called by God to do His work on earth. Even having been called does not justify arrogance and "a haughty look /ery good post, Justme! These are things that many will be thinking about in the future and hopefully nany will avoid making the same mistake of helping to build up a very powerful ministry headed by a man ınd a board who seek to put the stamp of approval on just about anything as long as the "end justifies the neans". I guess the only real power the church member has is the pocketbook and we need to keep that in nind.

Posted by: mikell Jun 13 2007, 03:04 PM

> QUOTE(justme @ Jun 12 2007, 10:17 AM)
>
> Some of my favorite stories have come from our church leaders and evangelists who have been flying commercial airlines. They relate stories of conversations that took place as they sat in their seat next to a stranger. Some of those conversations have resulted in conversions.
>
> Some of those conversations have opened the eyes of our evangelists to the real important issues that troubled souls do experience "out there in the world".
>
> Those who provide their own transportation often miss these intimate experiences; the kinds of experiences that Jesus had while "rubbing shoulders" with "the common man". Those who control every aspect of their life miss out on what is "true and painful in the life of the average soul".
>
> And they miss the opportunity to witness on a personal level without that person ever knowing the (perhaps, lofty) position our man holds. I challenge every witness of Jesus to give a personal witness WITHOUT ever mentioning that one is "President of Blah Blah Blah". But just be humble, to be a friend to the stranger. To shut oneself up in a private world and elevate oneself apart from the "man on the street" is a denial of one's calling before God.
>
> Of course Jesus did not have a jet to help Him travel about. Although His ministry was far more important. He COULD have asked angels to fly Him from place to place. Instead He chose humility. He chose to move about in the midst of those to whom He came to minister. (In contrast to another "anointed one" who loves to point out that he, too, was a carpenter. Some are more like a "wood butcher") Having been a carpenter is no guarantee of having been called by God to do His work on earth. Even having been called does not justify arrogance and "a haughty look /attitude".

> If the GC is taking notice and taking action to correct relationships with supporting ministries, then maybe the "tithe" that "self-interested", sorry, "self-supporting" ministries claim they have a right to, ... maybe those tithes and offerings will start going BACK to the SDA church. Do any of the "self-interested", ooops, did it again, "self supporting" ministries still have the feeling that they have a right to the tithes and offerings of church members?
>
> Ministries do accept tithes and at least one of them "justifies" it by saying that there are "more pie$ in the refrigerator".
>
> How long will people support con men who uses our "3 favorite last day messages" to milk us of God's funds? Then $pend, willy nilly while putting a spin on God's last day messages. Instead of just naming minitstries after the last day messages, how about living an example to us by actually LIVING IT!
>
> Babylon in a 'masque" has crept in somewhere along the way into the minds and lives of God's children. The children to whom He gave a sobering message. Abandon the ways of the world! Do not seek power, do not seek wealth, do not seek admiration, do not be indulgent, do not be vengeful, do not be arrogant.
>
> Be humble, be sacrificial, be contrite, be holy, be penitent, be available to God, be industrious, be a peacemaker, be forgiving, be harmless as a dove, be smart as a serpent without acting as one.
>
> We are thrilled to see 3ABN back on Sky Angel. Pray to get Babylon, in all it's forms, out of there.
>
> Oh, how I miss the days of "mending hearts and broken people". Gone forever!
>
> Question: Would you $upport the GC if they/it established rule$ for "$elf-$upporting" ministries to follow before they could call themselves "church $upporting" ministries? What should those rules say? Do you think they could be followed or enforced? Should it be in the form of a logo? or a written-endorsement-line that ministries could diplay?
>
> Would it be enough to withdraw $upport from those who go from "Self-Supporting" to "Self-Righteous", and on to "Self-Interested"?

ustme, you should write a BOOK! That was good. I flown many commercial flights witness to others sitting ext to me. I just love your, Freudian slips, "'self-interested', sorry, 'self-supporting' ministries." I sure would upport the GC, more so if the did establishe "rule$ for '$elft-$upporting' ministries." I like your ideas,

---

Posted by: Seraphim7 Jun 13 2007, 03:33 PM

TVsnack.

Posted by: runner4him Jun 18 2007, 07:03 AM

> QUOTE(SoulEspresso @ May 23 2007, 11:43 PM)
>
> Wow. I wish I were shocked, but having been on this board with the danny fingers, it looks like they're poking around somewhere else. Clearly the work of the same folks. I guess they wanted a one-way conversation.
>
> Before I had accused them of being on the payroll of 3ABN. But this blog does not work to support 3ABN.

> Kinda ... dirty. Sheesh. Is this the best they can do?

just went to the savegailon site to look it over and my first reaction was shock! I guess I should not be... ut I just cannot imagine anyone saying this kind of stuff about anyone! The site is absolutely terrible.... rashing a number of individuals. How could anyone stoop so low? This does not look good for 3abn to have omeone like this on their side and putting out this kind of PR. They can forget the ones they might think are heir enemies and concentrate on the so called "friends" who are destroying them. So sad to see.

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Jun 18 2007, 07:17 AM

r4h,

The important phrase is "so-called friends" because we really don't know which "side" has created this site. It could be a demented supporter thinking they are helping 3abn, it could be demented antagonist who somehow thinks this will wound 3abn and it could be a demented comedian from neither "side" who is trying to make a statement of some kind.

My opinion is to simply avoid this demented site.

Posted by: mozart Jun 18 2007, 12:37 PM

i totally agree PB. i still haven't even gone there. the comments you guys have made about it are enough to tell me there's nothing there i want to see. sounds to me like a demented jokester from neither side; not a Christian either. just someone making fun of those of us who take this seriously whichever side we are on. it's not worth putting that filth in our minds just out of curiousity. the devil has a way of bringing those words and images back to us. we must remember "what we behold, we become".

> QUOTE(PeacefullyBewildered @ Jun 18 2007, 07:17 AM) ☐
>
> r4h,
>
> The important phrase is "so-called friends" because we really don't know which "side" has created this site. It could be a demented supporter thinking they are helping 3abn, it could be demented antagonist who somehow thinks this will wound 3abn and it could be a demented comedian from neither "side" who is trying to make a statement of some kind.
>
> My opinion is to simply avoid this demented site.

Posted by: Fran Jun 18 2007, 02:40 PM

> QUOTE(PeacefullyBewildered @ Jun 18 2007, 08:17 AM) ☐
>
> r4h,
>
> The important phrase is "so-called friends" because we really don't know which "side" has created this site. It could be a demented supporter thinking they are helping 3abn, it could be demented antagonist who somehow thinks this will wound 3abn and it could be a demented comedian from neither "side" who is trying to make a > statement of some kind.

>
> My opinion is to simply avoid this demented site.

eah! What you said!

Posted by: Artiste Jun 18 2007, 03:08 PM

> QUOTE(mozart @ Jun 18 2007, 10:37 AM) ☐
>
> i totally agree PB. i still haven't even gone there. the comments you guys have made about it are enough to tell me there's nothing there i want to see. sounds to me like a demented jokester from neither side; not a Christian either. just someone making fun of those of us who take this seriously whichever side we are on. it's not worth putting that filth in our minds just out of curiousity. the devil has a way of bringing those words and images back to us. we must remember "what we behold, we become".

he reason I lean towards the SaveGailon site being put out by the 3ABN camp is that someone who was not losely connected to this whole complex progression of events would have had to spend an extensive period f time reviewing save3abn and BSDA as well as coming up with the appropriate Bible and SOP quotes that re sprinkled throughout.

omeone is providing this material who seems to have a close connection with and cares deeply about the ubjects here. They also seem to keep up with events that are happening.

get the impression that the more recent and increased attacks on LS might be connected to her current ublicized appearances, speaking and singing.

****

Posted by: runner4him Jun 18 2007, 06:32 PM

> QUOTE(Artiste @ Jun 18 2007, 04:08 PM) ☐
>
> The reason I lean towards the SaveGailon site being put out by the 3ABN camp is that someone who was not closely connected to this whole complex progression of events would have had to spend an extensive period of time reviewing save3abn and BSDA as well as coming up with the appropriate Bible and SOP quotes that are sprinkled throughout.
>
> Someone is providing this material who seems to have a close connection with and cares deeply about the subjects here. They also seem to keep up with events that are happening.
>
> I get the impression that the more recent and increased attacks on LS might be connected to her current publicized appearances, speaking and singing.
>
> ***

agree with you Artiste. At first I dismissed it all until I saw all the documents posted everywhere with detailed information about B.Kerr and LS.

I know an individual who wrote to 3abn about the site...they wanted to know if 3abn was behind the site and they wanted 3abn to make a statement against the site. The response was something like "I can only say that I do not know....it definitly is not a production of 3abn....I do not know and cannot say whether supporters of 3abn may be involved, but that is beyond our control". From my friend's information, (per the response she got from 3abn)....W.T.'s wife is keeping up with the posts...reading them I mean. I am NOT implying that she is responsible for the site in any way but I took the comment to mean that she is keeping up with all the information that is out there.

Posted by: Artiste Jun 18 2007, 07:09 PM

> QUOTE(runner4him @ Jun 18 2007, 04:32 PM)
>
> ...they wanted 3abn to make a statement against the site. The response was something like "I can only say that I do not know....it definitly is not a production of 3abn....I do not know and cannot say whether supporters of 3abn may be involved, but that is beyond our control".

Very interesting!

****

Posted by: Rosyroi Jun 18 2007, 08:12 PM

> QUOTE(runner4him @ Jun 18 2007, 05:32 PM)
>
> I agree with you Artiste. At first I dismissed it all until I saw all the documents posted everywhere with detailed information about B.Kerr and LS.
>
> I know an individual who wrote to 3abn about the site...they wanted to know if 3abn was behind the site and they wanted 3abn to make a statement against the site. The response was something like "I can only say that I do not know....it definitly is not a production of 3abn....I do not know and cannot say whether supporters of 3abn may be involved, but that is beyond our control". From my friend's information, (per the response she got from 3abn)....W.T.'s wife is keeping up with the posts...reading them I mean.

It appears to me that 3ABN admin don't seem to be too upset or unhappy the site is out there.
jmho
Rosyroi

Posted by: mozart Jun 18 2007, 11:13 PM

> QUOTE(runner4him @ Jun 18 2007, 06:32 PM)
>
> I agree with you Artiste. At first I dismissed it all until I saw all the documents posted everywhere with detailed information about B.Kerr and LS.
>
> I know an individual who wrote to 3abn about the site...they wanted to know if 3abn was behind the site and they wanted 3abn to make a statement against the site. The response was something like "I can only > say that I do not know....it definitly is not a production of 3abn....I do not know and cannot say whether supporters of 3abn may be involved, but that is beyond our control". From my friend's information, (per the response she got from 3abn)....W.T.'s wife is keeping up with the posts...reading them I mean.

????
o you were told that she, for one, is "reading them"? and not replying, or having anyone else in authority at ABN replying? they replied here. why not there? if it's as terrible as ppl say, how can they not respond to hat?

Posted by: Artiste Jun 18 2007, 11:24 PM

> QUOTE(mozart @ Jun 18 2007, 09:13 PM)
>
> ????
> so you were told that she, for one, is "reading them"? and not replying, or having anyone else in authority at 3ABN replying? they replied here. why not there? if it's as terrible as ppl say, how can they not respond to that?

aybe they can't respond to that because they are the ones producing it.

****

Posted by: Artiste Jun 19 2007, 12:02 AM

Just looked through the Savegailon site again.

Talk about defamatory and libelous statements!

I believe that if this site was posting against 3ABN instead of for it, 3ABN would have deployed their investigative resources by now, found out who was responsible for the site, and either threatened or gone through with a lawsuit for libel and slander.

Nothing but evil minds could come up with this material.

****

Posted by: ex3ABNemployee Jun 19 2007, 02:28 AM

> QUOTE(Artiste @ Jun 19 2007, 01:02 AM)
>
> Just looked through the Savegailon site again.
>
> Talk about defamatory and libelous statements!
>
> I believe that if this site was posting against 3ABN instead of for it, 3ABN would have deployed their investigative resources by now, found out who was responsible for the site, and either threatened or gone through with a lawsuit for libel and slander.
>
> Nothing but evil minds could come up with this material.

> *************************************

'm not too concerned about it. Anyone with a grain of intelligence can tell that the material was written by ;omeone who probably rode the short bus to school.

Posted by: runner4him Jun 19 2007, 06:45 AM

> QUOTE(mozart @ Jun 19 2007, 12:13 AM)
>
> ????
> so you were told that she, for one, is "reading them"? and not replying, or having anyone else in authority at 3ABN replying? they replied here. why not there? if it's as terrible as ppl say, how can they not respond to that?

ɬozart....my thoughts exactly. I was just able to obtain this pertinent part of the e-mail that was sent from V.T. "In answer to your question about www.savegailon.bolgspot.com, I can only say that I do not know. I do ıot, but my wife does read the forums and is aware of the postings. It definitly is not a production of 3abn. Ve have, from the beginning striven to be above board in all of our activities. I do not know and cannot say vhether supporters of 3abn may be involved, but that is beyond our control."

'he original writer to 3abn just wanted them to come out and make some kind of statement against the site.

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Jun 19 2007, 08:47 AM

> QUOTE(runner4him @ Jun 19 2007, 05:45 AM)
>
> Mozart....my thoughts exactly. I was just able to obtain this pertinent part of the e-mail that was sent from W.T. "In answer to your question about www.savegailon.bolgspot.com, I can only say that I do not know. I do not, but my wife does read the forums and is aware of the postings. It definitly is not a production of 3abn. We have, from the beginning striven to be above board in all of our activities. I do not know and cannot say whether supporters of 3abn may be involved, but that is beyond our control."
>
> The original writer to 3abn just wanted them to come out and make some kind of statement against the site.

'4h,

'lease thank "the original writer" for this information!

, who recently advised all to avoid "this demented site", went there anyway after reading several posts egarding the new content. I am now seriously in conflict with myself over trying to decide if it is better to ːnow what this enemy of truth is saying or if ignoring what is written there is tantamount to being in denial.

ɜo, I have to withdraw my opinion about staying away from the site and instead advise that each should lecide for themselves.

Posted by: runner4him Jun 19 2007, 09:05 AM

> QUOTE(PeacefullyBewildered @ Jun 19 2007, 09:47 AM) ☐
>
> r4h,
>
> Please thank "the original writer" for this information!
>
> I, who recently advised all to avoid "this demented site", went there anyway after reading several posts regarding the new content. I am now seriously in conflict with myself over trying to decide if it is better to know what this enemy of truth is saying or if ignoring what is written there is tantamount to being in denial.
>
> So, I have to withdraw my opinion about staying away from the site and instead advise that each should decide for themselves.

I personally would not frequent the site even on a weekly basis but in my opinion it is good to know what is out there just to be informed. I do think that 3abn is doing more damage to themselves by not making any statement...or why have they not sent a "Cease" letter like the one sent to rescue3abn?

Posted by: Artiste Jun 19 2007, 10:04 AM

> QUOTE(runner4him @ Jun 19 2007, 07:05 AM) ☐
>
> I do think that 3abn is doing more damage to themselves by not making any statement...or why have they not sent a "Cease" letter like the one sent to rescue3abn?

Might it be difficult for them to send a "Cease" letter to the savegailon site if they were originating the site themselves?

Well, on the other hand, maybe not. That could be consistent with a split personality.

****

Posted by: Artiste Jun 19 2007, 10:33 AM

****

WHY DOES THE TOP LINK ON THE SAVEGAILON BLOG LEAD TO THE MEMORIAL SITE OF RACHEL CORRIE, THE PROTESTER WHO WAS MURDERED IN COLD BLOOD BY THE ISRAELI BULLDOZER???

****

Posted by: Artiste Jun 19 2007, 10:57 AM

> QUOTE(PeacefullyBewildered @ Jun 19 2007, 06:47 AM) ☐
>
> ...trying to decide if it is better to know what this enemy of truth is saying or if ignoring what is written there is tantamount to being in denial.

As PB suggested, it might not be good to be in denial.

Remember the fate of Danny's first wife.

****

Posted by: princessdi Jun 19 2007, 11:33 AM

> QUOTE(Artiste @ Jun 19 2007, 08:57 AM) ☐
>
> As PB suggested, it might not be good to be in denial.
>
> **

Edited for content, any discussion of ex's are off limits**

Posted by: Artiste Jun 19 2007, 01:06 PM

****

NEWSFLASH!!

One hour after viewing the original lead of the link "Tragedy" on the savegailon blog going directly to the Rachel Corrie Memorial Site, I see the "Tragedy" link now leads to "The Concentration Camps 1899-1902".

****

Posted by: Skyhook Jun 19 2007, 06:14 PM

> QUOTE(Artiste @ Jun 19 2007, 02:06 PM) ☐
>
> **

> NEWSFLASH!!
>
> One hour after viewing the original lead of the link "Tragedy" on the savegailon blog going directly to the Rachel Corrie Memorial Site, I see the "Tragedy" link now leads to "The Concentration Camps 1899-1902".
> ***

f I was to to make a guess, my guess would be that it is either someone closely connected with 3abn, a elative or something like that who is a bit out of the mainstream, so to speak, or some Seventh-day dventist odd ball kids who are having some sick "fun." I think it is more than one person. Or it is people rom one of the Former Adventist websites and discussion forums who detest all things pertaining to dventism. But that is all just uninformed speculation.

Posted by: SoulEspresso Jun 19 2007, 06:28 PM

Whoever it is, their Adventist connections are marginal. It's been mentioned before, but I looked again and sure enough, they have issues with, um, The State of the Dead.

Not members of the Adventist faith--not unless they joined on profession of faith with no study. I used to think it was Tommy, but since I last visited they put his picture next to denials of sodomy.

I'd say it's a gag, but the racism is so vitriolic ... my vote is a young member of the Shelton family who used to post here regularly until they got booted. But I don't know that.

Posted by: Richard Sherwin Jun 19 2007, 06:53 PM

Not an SDA? Well I guess, from what I hear, that could be just about half the people at 3"lawsuit city"ABN.

Maybe it's just someone who wants us to get diverted from the real issues by having a thread about them?

Richard

> QUOTE(SoulEspresso @ Jun 19 2007, 08:28 PM)
>
> Whoever it is, their Adventist connections are marginal. It's been mentioned before, but I looked again and sure enough, they have issues with, um, The State of the Dead.
>
> Not members of the Adventist faith--not unless they joined on profession of faith with no study. I used to think it was Tommy, but since I last visited they put his picture next to denials of sodomy.
>
> I'd say it's a gag, but the racism is so vitriolic ... my vote is a young member of the Shelton family who used to post here regularly until they got booted. But I don't know that.

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Jun 20 2007, 12:07 AM

r4h,
This evening I was going back over yesterday's posts in this thread and found something that concerns me because it appears like it might be an unintentional insinuation that Walt Thompson's wife is somehow involve with the savegailon blog.

http://www.blacksda.com/forums/index.php?s=&showtopic=13633&view=findpost&p=200409

On June 19, Artiste said:

> QUOTE
>
> The reason I lean towards the SaveGailon site being put out by the 3ABN camp is that someone who was not closely connected to this whole complex progression of events would have had to spend an extensive period of time reviewing save3abn and BSDA as well as coming up with the appropriate Bible and SOP quotes that are sprinkled throughout.
>
> Someone is providing this material who seems to have a close connection with and cares deeply about the subjects here. They also seem to keep up with events that are happening.
>
> I get the impression that the more recent and increased attacks on LS might be connected to her current publicized appearances, speaking and singing.
>
> http://www.blacksda.com/forums/index.php?s=&showtopic=13633&view=findpost&p=200438

> QUOTE(runner4him @ Jun 18 2007, 05:32 PM)
>
> I agree with you Artiste. At first I dismissed it all until I saw all the documents posted everywhere with detailed information about B.Kerr and LS.
>
> I know an individual who wrote to 3abn about the site...they wanted to know if 3abn was behind the site and they wanted 3abn to make a statement against the site. The response was something like "I can only say that I do not know....it definitly is not a production of 3abn....I do not know and cannot say whether supporters of 3abn may be involved, but that is beyond our control". From my friend's information, (per the response she got from 3abn)....W.T.'s wife is keeping up with the posts...reading them I mean.

First of all, if you read the two bolded sentences from each post it does appear to insinuate that Walt's wife could be the one behind the site, or at least could be the foundation to lead to such speculation. I trust that this was accidental and that nobody here actually would entertain such a ludicrous idea.

Second, the very argument that Artiste uses for believing that the savegailon site is by someone at 3abn could be used as an argument that the author is someone who has been a member or a lurker at BSDA long enough to have followed all of the developments.

I believe that attempting to attribute this site to anyone is an exercise in futile speculation. I also believe that whoever created the site needs our prayers.

Posted by: beartrap Jun 20 2007, 12:21 AM

I would hope that this is a misunderstanding. I don't believe for one moment that Avon Thompson would EVER be involved in such a thing!!

> QUOTE(PeacefullyBewildered @ Jun 19 2007, 11:07 PM)
>
> r4h,
> This evening I was going back over yesterday's posts in this thread and found something that concerns me because it appears like it might be an unintentional insinuation that Walt Thompson's wife is somehow involve with the savegailon blog.

> http://www.blacksda.com/forums/index.php?s=&showtopic=13633&view=findpost&p=200409
>
> On June 19, Artiste said:
> First of all, if you read the two bolded sentences from each post it does appear to insinuate that Walt's wife could be the one behind the site, or at least could be the foundation to lead to such speculation. I trust that this was accidental and that nobody here actually would entertain such a ludicrous idea.
>
> Second, the very argument that Artiste uses for believing that the savegailon site is by someone at 3abn could be used as an argument that the author is someone who has been a member or a lurker at BSDA long enough to have followed all of the developments.
>
> I believe that attempting to attribute this site to anyone is an exercise in futile speculation. I also believe that whoever created the site needs our prayers.

Posted by: Pickle Jun 20 2007, 01:57 AM

Why can't the site be authored by "Alfred Smith," writing from somewhere near Germany?

Posted by: Whitey Jun 20 2007, 02:42 AM

> QUOTE(Pickle @ Jun 20 2007, 08:57 AM) ☐
>
> Why can't the site be authored by "Alfred Smith," writing from somewhere near Germany?

am delighted the webmaster is NOT playing THAT Nazism card in this game. borrrring....

he caribbean flare of the site's ethnic flavor makes for a spicy touch when wondering about the ingredients, mo.

I believe that attempting to attribute this site to anyone is an exercise in futile speculation.
also believe that whoever created the site needs our prayers."
eacefullyBewildered earty AMEN to that, dear P.Bewildered one.

his whole blog is a cynical parody.
cunning twisted contrivence with the look of a puff fish.

owever, the challenge still mocks us in the face...
ho are the real people of the the thumbnail pics on savegailon.com?

re the pics of real SDA church members posting their slant?

r are they pictures of paid strangers who submitted their personal pictures to 'ghost writers' ?

esides the pics of a vulture, a shark, TommyS,Linda,Danny,Norway Doctor, I see pics of commenting posters ith nicknames (real names?) : Brother Leroy; Darnell; Julia & Margret; Eugenia W.; DeShawn; John J.; eremy; Jamal L.

Posted by: Fran Jun 20 2007, 04:18 AM

> QUOTE(Observer @ Jun 3 2007, 03:08 PM)
>
> Yes, and as he has some sort of a relatonship with the SDA Church, and believes that he would be professionally injured if his true name were associated with what he posts, he would take great offense if someone were to post his actual name anyplace.
>
> Several of us know who that person actually is.
>
> I reviewed the website, and I have reservations that he would stoop so low as that website has gone. Although I do credit him with the literary skills to produce such. I am just having a hard time thinking of him going that low.
>
> He and I certainly crossed over in Club Adventist when it allowed 3-ABN discussions.
>
> There have been times when he has had multiple pen-names under which he posted. He could get quite some conversations going with himself. if he wanted to do so.
>
> Here is what I think may (?) happen, if he is reading here in BSDA:
>
> 1) If he is actually not involved with that website, he will contact me personally, identify himself by his real name, and tell me that he is not involved with it.
>
> 2) On the other hand, he may threaten me if I reveal his true name. He does not want it known. But, in my mind, a lawsuit would do him much more harm than good.
>
> We shall see what happpens.

Observer;

Well? What happened? It sure looks to me like he is doing it.

Posted by: Pickle Jun 20 2007, 04:18 AM

Just to be clear, when I said near Germany, I was referring to the location that "Alfred Smith" has apparently sent emails from in May, not to Nazism.

Posted by: runner4him Jun 20 2007, 05:57 AM

> QUOTE(PeacefullyBewildered @ Jun 20 2007, 01:07 AM)
>
> r4h,
> This evening I was going back over yesterday's posts in this thread and found something that concerns me because it appears like it might be an unintentional insinuation that Walt Thompson's wife is somehow involve with the savegailon blog.
>
> http://www.blacksda.com/forums/index.php?s=&showtopic=13633&view=findpost&p=200409
>
> On June 19, Artiste said:
> First of all, if you read the two bolded sentences from each post it does appear to insinuate that Walt's wife could be the one behind the site, or at least could be the foundation to lead to such speculation. I trust that this was accidental and that nobody here actually would entertain such a ludicrous idea.

> Second, the very argument that Artiste uses for believing that the savegailon site is by someone at 3abn could be used as an argument that the author is someone who has been a member or a lurker at BSDA long enough to have followed all of the developments.
>
> I believe that attempting to attribute this site to anyone is an exercise in futile speculation. I also believe that whoever created the site needs our prayers.

never intended to imply that W.T.'s wife would have anything to do with creating this site! I did edit my revious post to add that. I just took the comment to mean that she is keeping up with the information out here so 3abn definitely knows about it and still they have not made a statement against the site. I gree...they or he/she needs our prayers! It is a sick site.

Posted by: Pickle Jun 20 2007, 07:36 AM

That link to the site on concentration camps, that site describes a sicko event from history. Is it accurate?

If it is accurate, then it further illustrates Ellen White's early 20th century statements that the time of trouble had already begun, and also illustrates her Civil War statements that speak about territories under Britain's control that were looking for opportunities for revenge and independence.

Posted by: Artiste Jun 21 2007, 11:07 AM

> QUOTE(Artiste @ Jun 19 2007, 11:06 AM) ☐
>
> ***
>
> NEWSFLASH!!
>
> One hour after viewing the original lead of the link "Tragedy" on the savegailon blog going directly to the Rachel Corrie Memorial Site, I see the "Tragedy" link now leads to "The Concentration Camps 1899-1902".
> ***

oday the top link "Tragedy" has been removed from the site.

Posted by: princessdi Jun 21 2007, 11:28 AM

Not that it makes any difference, however, R4H that is exactly how I interpreted you post. That WT's wife was monoring or reading/aware of the site. Just as we know many if not all of them(3ABN Management/board) read and are aware of BSDA, save3abn, etc.

> QUOTE(runner4him @ Jun 20 2007, 04:57 AM) ☐
>
> I never intended to imply that W.T.'s wife would have anything to do with creating this site! I did edit my previous post to add that. I just took the comment to mean that she is keeping up with the information out there so 3abn definitely knows about it and still they have not made a statement against the site. I agree...they or he/she needs our prayers! It is a sick site.

Printable Version of Topic

Click here to view this topic in its original format

BlackSDA _ 3ABN _ The "real" Truth In A Nutshell

Posted by: steffan Jun 9 2007, 12:08 PM

This post is from the GCO forum. It is respectful, truthful and full of good comparisons and thoughts from EGW. This man has spiritual insite and common sense.

Since others have stated their opinions about 3ABN I thought I would weigh in on the topic also. I know some are attacking 3ABN as never before, which doesn't suprise me. Whenever someone is working for God there will be attacks from without and within. Like in the days of Nehemiah there will be false things reported and professed friends who are really the enemies of God's work. My suggestion to 3ABN would be to say like Nehemiah "I am doing a great work, so that I cannot come down: why should the work cease, whilst I leave it, and come down to you?"

3ABN certainly isn't perfect, but they are easily the best thing going when it comes to SDA television. Numerous people have been brought into the remnant church because of this ministry. New converts are nurtured and some existing members are encouraged by much of their programming. I would think SDA would be excited about what God has done and is doing through 3ABN. Lets not expect too much from them, their main job is to get people grounded in the basic truths of the Remnant, it is the job of Greatcontroversy.org and others to further nurture after people join the Church. I actually believe that 3ABN does more than just share the very basics, men like Stephen Bohr have messages that should stir the hearts of all SDA. Most all SDA could learn something by watching the health programs.

As for Pastor Batchelor leading 3ABN/AF God only knows if it is a good plan, but I'm inclined to believe it is if they can keep from getting tied up with the conference. The theology of AF combined with the faith and outreach potential of 3ABN should make for a powerful force that has satan frightened.

Whether the conference supports 3ABN or not is not a factor in my decision to support them.

Although Danny Shelton is human and has likely made mistakes it may be that God isn't done with him. How many of us have had faith to do something big for God? How many of us on the list have dedicated ourselves to full-time ministry without knowing we are going to get a pay check and benefits from a conference? Nobody that knows anything about 3ABN believes that Danny could have built this ministry unless God was in it, Danny isn't smart enough and I don't mean that in a bad way. 3ABN isn't about Danny, it is about people learning to trust, love, and obey God. As Debbie has rightly said Danny hasn't been proved guilty of anything. If being divorced and remarried is always wrong then Doug Batchelor wouldn't be qualified to lead a ministry either. I'm not sure if we want to get into details about the divorce, but I will say that I have or had a copy of an email from Dr. Walt Thompson 3ABN Board Chairman that helps clarify that Danny didn't sin in getting married again. As for the fact that there is an age difference between Danny and his wife, inspiration doesn't forbid this. EGW even recommended that Elder Butler (or at least I think it was him) marry a woman that was over 30 years younger than him, although he didn't because of complaints by their family. She also told JN Andrews that he should find another wife before going to europe to do ministry, she said that he needed a wife. The Bible and SOP teach that marriage can be a blessing and that some people are spiritually better off because of it.

Let us be careful that we don't oppose what God has blessed. I know that I along with many others might not be rejoicing in the truth today if not for the ministry of 3ABN.
Sincerly,
Rusty Moreland

Posted by: Richard Sherwin Jun 9 2007, 12:40 PM

So people being against you is proof that you are right? Ya....right.

> QUOTE(steffan @ Jun 9 2007, 02:08 PM)
>
> This post is from the GCO forum. It is respectful, truthful and full of good comparisons and thoughts from EGW. This man has spiritual insite and common sense.
>
> Since others have stated their opinions about 3ABN I > thought I would weigh in on the topic also. I know > some are attacking 3ABN as never before, which doesn't > suprise me. Whenever someone is working for God there > will be attacks from without and within. Like in the > days of Nehemiah there will be false things reported > and professed friends who are really the enemies of > God's work. My suggestion to 3ABN would be to say like > Nehemiah "I am doing a great work, so that I cannot > come down: why should the work cease, whilst I leave > it, and come down to you?"
> 3ABN certainly isn't perfect, but they are easily the > best thing going when it comes to SDA television.
> Numerous people have been brought into the remnant > church because of this ministry. New converts are > nurtured and some existing members are encouraged by > much of their programming. I would think SDA would be > excited about what God has done and is doing through > 3ABN. Lets not expect too much from them, their main > job is to get people grounded in the basic truths of > the Remnant, it is the job of Greatcontroversy.org and > others to further nurture after people join the > Church. I actually believe that 3ABN does more than > just share the very basics, men like Stephen Bohr have > messages that should stir the hearts of all SDA. Most > all SDA could learn something by watching the health > programs.
> As for Pastor Batchelor leading 3ABN/AF God only > knows if it is a good plan, but I'm inclined to believe it is if they can keep from getting tied up with the conference. The theology of AF combined with the faith and outreach potential of 3ABN should make for a powerful force that has satan frightened.

> Whether the conference supports 3ABN or not is not a factor in my decision to support them.
> Although Danny Shelton is human and has likely made mistakes it may be that God isn't done with him. How many of us have had faith to do something big for God? How many of us on the list have dedicated ourselves to full-time ministry without knowing we are going to get a pay check and benefits from a conference? Nobody that knows anything about 3ABN believes that Danny could have built this ministry unless God was in it, Danny isn't smart enough and I don't mean that in a bad way. 3ABN isn't about Danny, it is about people learning to trust, love, and obey God. As Debbie has rightly said Danny hasn't been proved guilty of anything. If being divorced and remarried is always wrong then Doug Batchelor wouldn't be qualified to lead a ministry either. I'm not sure if we want to get into details about the divorce, but I will say that I have or had a copy of an email from Dr. Walt Thompson 3ABN Board Chairman that helps clarify that Danny didn't sin in getting married again. As for the fact that there is an age difference between Danny and his wife, inspiration doesn't forbid this. EGW even recommended that Elder Butler (or at least I think it was him) marry a woman that was over 30 years younger than him, although he didn't because of complaints by their family. She also told JN Andrews that he should find another wife before going to europe to do ministry, she said that he needed a wife. The Bible and SOP teach that marriage can be a blessing and that some people are spiritually better off because of it.
> Let us be careful that we don't oppose what God has blessed. I know that I along with many others might not be rejoicing in the truth today if not for the ministry of 3ABN.
> Sincerly,
> Rusty Moreland

Posted by: ShellyofTexas Jun 9 2007, 02:12 PM

Let me address the following:

Although Danny Shelton is human and has likely made mistakes it may be that God isn't done with him. How many of us have had faith to do something big for God?

Being Seventh-Day Adventist IS one of the hardest Christian denominations to be in. By being an Adventist and admitting it without reservation inspite of a child molester in the spotlight... oh I am doing something big for GOD. Oh yes and helping pathfinders.

How many of us on the list have dedicated ourselves to full-time ministry without knowing we are going to get a pay check and benefits from a conference?

I have! At times I was worse than a Morman on a bike in my determination. And I did it while keeping my hands to myself.

Nobody
that knows anything about 3ABN believes that Danny could have built this ministry unless God was in it,

You don't give satan enough credit. He is good bringing people to the well and leading them away when it runs dry. Plus, NOTHING done in the dark stays there.

The best way to make people forget about the ills of your past is to make them fall in love with you in the future. Celebrities have this to a science...Obviously so does Danny.

Danny isn't smart enough and I don't mean that in a bad way. 3ABN isn't about Danny, it is about people learning to trust, love, and obey God. As Debbie has rightly said Danny hasn't been proved guilty of anything.

Are you kidding me? If this "man" as done ill will against 1 child then in my book he should pay (do the time for the crime). It is like he is our own Adventist Paris Hilton/Leberachi.

Does he get to do what he wants until the law catched up with him?
Are we a denomination that allows molestations and inappropriateness with child go on and turn or head?

He has ruined LIVES and FAMILIES. It will take generations before his actions can even begin to become erased in those family lines. I just don't get it. I just don't get it. Does he have to be caught on video before people are like, "Hey maybe we should distance ourselves from this dude..."

This is just so disgusting...I just can't....

Posted by: mikell Jun 9 2007, 02:39 PM

> QUOTE(ShellyofTexas @ Jun 9 2007, 02:12 PM)
>
> Let me address the following:

Shelly, you just restore my faith into that there are courageous Seventh day Adventists who are not afraid to stand and who are not BLINDED! What you wrote...

Posted by: Observer Jun 9 2007, 08:57 PM

> QUOTE
>
> How many of us have had faith to do something big for God?
> How many of us on the list have dedicated ourselves to > full-time ministry without knowing we are going to get > a pay check and benefits from a conference?

You just might be surpriset if you knew how often that has happened, and if you knew the people resding these messages who may have doen such.

If you understand Scripture; if your understand denominational and Christian history; if you were aware of people living and workign today; you just might realize that God calls people of faith to take major steps in faith. Those called people respond to the call.

Posted by: Ozzie Jun 10 2007, 01:28 AM

> QUOTE(steffan @ Jun 10 2007, 04:08 AM)
>
> This post is from the GCO forum. It is respectful, truthful and full of good comparisons and thoughts from EGW. This man has spiritual insite and common sense.
>
> Since others have stated their opinions about 3ABN I thought I would weigh in on the topic also. I know some are attacking 3ABN as never before, which doesn't suprise me. Whenever someone is working for God there will be attacks from without and within. Like in the days of Nehemiah there will be false things reported and professed friends who are really the enemies of God's work. My suggestion to 3ABN would be to say like Nehemiah "I am doing a great work, so that I cannot come down: why should the work cease, whilst I leave it, and come down to you?"
>
> 3ABN certainly isn't perfect, but they are easily the best thing going when it comes to SDA television. Numerous people have been brought into the remnant church because of this ministry. New converts are nurtured and some existing members are encouraged by much of their programming. I would think SDA would be excited about what God has done and is doing through 3ABN. Lets not expect too much from them, their main job is to get people grounded in the basic truths of the Remnant, it is the job of Greatcontroversy.org and others to further nurture after people join the Church. I actually believe that 3ABN does more than just share the very basics, men like Stephen Bohr have messages that should stir the hearts of all SDA. Most all SDA could learn something by watching the health programs.
>
> As for Pastor Batchelor leading 3ABN/AF God only knows if it is a good plan, but I'm inclined to believe it is if they can keep from getting tied up with the conference. The theology of AF combined with the faith and outreach potential of 3ABN should make for a powerful force that has satan frightened.
>
> Whether the conference supports 3ABN or not is not a factor in my decision to support them.
>
> Although Danny Shelton is human and has likely made mistakes it may be that God isn't done with him. How many of us have had faith to do something big for God? How many of us on the list have dedicated ourselves to full-time ministry without knowing we are going to get a pay check and benefits from a conference? Nobody that knows anything about 3ABN believes that Danny could have built this ministry unless God was in it, > Danny isn't smart enough and I don't mean that in a bad way. 3ABN isn't about Danny, it is about people learning to trust, love, and obey God. As Debbie has rightly said Danny hasn't been proved guilty of anything. If being divorced and remarried is always wrong then Doug Batchelor wouldn't be qualified to lead a ministry either. I'm not sure if we want to get into details about the divorce, but I will say that I have or had a copy of an email from Dr. Walt Thompson 3ABN Board Chairman that helps clarify that Danny didn't sin in getting married again. As for the fact that there is an age difference between Danny and his wife, inspiration doesn't forbid this. EGW even recommended that Elder Butler (or at least I think it was him) marry a woman that was over 30 years younger than him, although he didn't because of complaints by their family. She also told JN Andrews that he should find another wife before going to europe to do ministry, she said that he needed a wife. The Bible and SOP teach that marriage can be a blessing and that some people are spiritually better off because of it.

> Let us be careful that we don't oppose what God has blessed. I know that I along with many others might not be rejoicing in the truth today if not for the ministry of 3ABN.
> Sincerly,
> Rusty Moreland

So, Danny/Bystander/Steffan
Coz one person writes this, we're all supposed to cheer you on are we? Doesn't work like that Mate. Got to hand it to you, you know how to twist and squirm. ☐ It dosen't help you case that there are so many victims out there, whom you've chosen to contune to try to humiliate, and then you try to defend yourself about the 'quickie' divorce ☒ Time that this sick saga just goes up in your face ☒ blc Poor Danny/Bystander/Steffan ☒ why· ☒ notworkir

---

Posted by: LaurenceD Jun 10 2007, 02:27 AM

Wasn't it Rusty Moreland (or someone just like him) who wrote the exact same thing about Jim Bakker and the Trinity Broadcasting Network?

Posted by: mikell Jun 10 2007, 09:32 AM

> QUOTE(Ozzie @ Jun 10 2007, 01:28 AM) ☐
>
> So, Danny/Bystander/Steffan
> Coz one person writes this, we're all supposed to cheer you on are we? Doesn't work like that Mate. Got to hand it to you, you know how to twist and squirm. ☐ It dosen't help you case that there are so many victims out there, whom you've chosen to contune to try to humiliate, and then you try to define yourself about the 'quickie' divorce ☒ Time that this sick saga just goes up in your face ☒ blc Poor Danny/Bystander/Steffan ☒ why· ☒ notworkir )zzie, you are after my own heart, great what you just wrote! Ha, either its ds or his evil furious twin! ☐

Posted by: erik Jun 10 2007, 10:24 AM

> QUOTE(steffan @ Jun 9 2007, 10:08 AM) ☐
>
> This post is from the GCO forum. It is respectful, truthful and full of good comparisons and thoughts from EGW. This man has spiritual insite and common sense.
>
> Since others have stated their opinions about 3ABN I thought I would weigh in on the topic also. I know some are attacking 3ABN as never before, which doesn't suprise me. Whenever someone is working for God there will be attacks from without and within. Like in the days of Nehemiah there will be false things reported and professed friends who are really the enemies of God's work. My suggestion to 3ABN would be to say like Nehemiah "I am doing a great work, so that I cannot come down: why should the work cease, whilst I leave it, and come down to you?"
>
> 3ABN certainly isn't perfect, but they are easily the best thing going when it comes to SDA television. Numerous people have been brought into the remnant church because of this ministry. New converts are nurtured and some existing members are encouraged by much of their programming. I would think SDA would be excited about what God has done and is doing through 3ABN. Lets not expect too much from them, their main job is to get people grounded in the basic truths of the Remnant, it is the job of Greatcontroversy.org and others to further nurture after people join the Church. I actually believe that 3ABN does more than just share the very basics, men like Stephen Bohr have messages that should stir the hearts of all SDA. Most all SDA could learn something by watching the health programs.
>
> As for Pastor Batchelor leading 3ABN/AF God only knows if it is a good plan, but I'm inclined to believe it is if they can keep from getting tied up with the conference. The theology of AF combined with the faith and outreach potential of 3ABN should make for a powerful force that has satan frightened.
>
> Whether the conference supports 3ABN or not is not a factor in my decision to support them.
>
> Although Danny Shelton is human and has likely made mistakes it may be that God isn't done with him. How many of us have had faith to do something big for God? How many of us on the list have dedicated ourselves to > full-time ministry without knowing we are going to get > a pay check and benefits from a conference? Nobody > that knows anything about 3ABN believes that Danny

> could have built this ministry unless God was in it,
> Danny isn't smart enough and I don't mean that in a > bad way. 3ABN isn't about Danny, it is about people > learning to trust, love, and obey God. As Debbie has > rightly said Danny hasn't been proved guilty of > anything. If being divorced and remarried is always > wrong then Doug Batchelor wouldn't be qualified to > lead a ministry either. I'm not sure if we want to get > into details about the divorce, but I will say that I > have or had a copy of an email from Dr. Walt Thompson > 3ABN Board Chairman that helps clarify that Danny > didn't sin in getting married again. As for the fact > that there is an age difference between Danny and his > wife, inspiration doesn't forbid this. EGW even > recommended that Elder Butler (or at least I think it > was him) marry a woman that was over 30 years younger > than him, although he didn't because of complaints by > their family. She also told JN Andrews that he should > find another wife before going to europe to do > ministry, she said that he needed a wife. The Bible > and SOP teach that marriage can be a blessing and that > some people are spiritually better off because of it.
> Let us be careful that we don't oppose what God has > blessed. I know that I along with many others might > not be rejoicing in the truth today if not for the > ministry of 3ABN.
> Sincerly,
> Rusty Moreland

Steffen and rusty,

How can you with a clean and hands and pure heart, Even suggest with a straight face that EGW would approve of DS putting aside LS for BS, based on at best were phone calls that lasted a long time.

Are you so lost in the kingdom of 3abn that you have lost sight of Jesus, and his message to men in hosea.

guess this is all I will say at this time, because "I can not be nice about what i want to say next.

Erik W.

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Jun 10 2007, 11:00 AM

Has anyone else heard of GCO Forum?

The only GCO Forum that I can raise with Google is for gaming with an emphasis on Star Trek Next Gen trekkies. Most of posts seem to be in either in German or some Scandinavian language.

Steffan,

Could you please provide a link to Rusty Moreland's post on GCO Forum? Thanks!

Posted by: Skyhook Jun 10 2007, 11:57 AM

Pb, The GCO forum is a closed forum owned by Larry Kirkpatrick who is the pastor of the Mentone CA church in the Southeast Conference, near Loma Linda. His website is www.greatcontroversy.org which has a lot of sermons and material. Kevin Paulsen is a major contributer to the material. I think some of Dennis Preibe's writings are posted there as well. You cannot access the discussion forum from the website, and only members can access it.

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Jun 10 2007, 12:00 PM

Thank you, Skyhook!

I'm actually reading Dennis Preibe's article on the feast days right now. Quite interesting.

Posted by: Rosyroi Jun 10 2007, 12:05 PM

"The real truth in a nutshell"

I was ready to spit nails after that ----- story. Had to walk away to calm down. Take a deep breath, meditate, do some yoga, pray, sleep on it.

A lot of things to say about it but won't.

Just one little itty bitty question that I have asked before but never got an answer. Only Steffan/Bystander/Danny can answer it.

Why the quick emergency secret meeting in Colorado? Sure does sound like a panic to regroup for something... what... to cover up another "Danny mess"? To quickly ask DB to "merge" so Danny can say "Can't touch this"?

Oh well... why should I bother? I won't get an honest answer anyway...sigh...

spin on...

Rosyroi ☒

> QUOTE(erik @ Jun 10 2007, 09:24 AM) ☐
>
> Steffen and rusty,
> How can you with a clean and hands and pure heart, Even suggest with a straight face that EGW would approve of DS putting aside LS for BS, based on at best were phone calls that lasted a long time.
>
> Are you so lost in the kingdom of 3abn that you have lost sight of Jesus, and his message to men in hosea.
>
> I guess this is all I will say at this time, because "I can not be nice about what i want to say next.
>
> Erik W.

☒ It is hard to keep on being nice...
Rosyroi

Posted by: mozart Jun 10 2007, 12:11 PM

Games and Trekkies ??? maybe you did find the right forum PB ☒ rofl ☒ rofl ☒ rofl

---

> QUOTE(PeacefullyBewildered @ Jun 10 2007, 10:00 AM) ☐
>
> Has anyone else heard of GCO Forum?
>
> The only GCO Forum that I can raise with Google is for gaming with an emphasis on Star Trek Next Gen trekkies. Most of posts seem to be in either in German or some Scandinavian language.
>
> Steffan,
>
> Could you please provide a link to Rusty Moreland's post on GCO Forum? Thanks!

Posted by: steffan Jun 10 2007, 12:15 PM

> QUOTE(erik @ Jun 10 2007, 11:24 AM) ☐
>
> Steffen and rusty,
> How can you with a clean and hands and pure heart, Even suggest with a straight face that EGW would approve of DS putting aside LS for BS, based on at best were phone calls that lasted a long time.
>
> Are you so lost in the kingdom of 3abn that you have lost sight of Jesus, and his message to men in hosea.
>
> I guess this is all I will say at this time, because "I can not be nice about what i want to say next.
>
> Erik W.

Erik, how can you with clean hands and a pure heart Accuse Danny of having an affair with Brandi (that is what you are saying) and then making the statement that all he had on Linda were phone calls at best? Your judgements and condemnation on what you have heard goes against anything and everything of a spiritual nature, whether it be SOP or God's Word. It has been shown here time and again, the dates of events and we have established that Brandi didn't even move here until 6 months after the divorce. Employee records will show the same. There has been NO evidence whatsoever then or now that has even hinted that DS knew Brandi much less had a relationship with her while Linda was still in the picture.
As for your other accusation about phone calls only????? How can you state that as fact??? Because you haven't seen it???? Please give me a break. There are enough that have seen it, including , but not limited to, some of the board members that can and will verify they have seen it if need be. You, on the other hand, have been a witness to nothing, including, your accusations here. Your slanderous statements are a perfect example of how the 3abn story has gotten to this point. You and others who makes these statements, without knowing or witnessing all the facts are accountable for your words to God and man, if need be.

Posted by: mozart Jun 10 2007, 12:22 PM

> QUOTE(Rosyroi @ Jun 10 2007, 11:05 AM) ☐
>
> "The real truth in a nutshell"
>
> Why the quick emergency secret meeting in Colorado? Sure does sound like a panic to regroup for something... what... to cover up another "Danny mess"? To quickly ask DB to "merge" so Danny can say "Can't touch this"?

Rosyroi

\www.....dang.....rosy......NOW you've gone and done it !!
ıow i'm gonna have that stupid m.c.hammer song in my head the rest of
:he day. rofl "Can't touch this" rofl

Posted by: steffan Jun 10 2007, 12:30 PM

> QUOTE(Rosyroi @ Jun 10 2007, 01:05 PM) ☐
>
> "The real truth in a nutshell"
>
> I was ready to spit nails after that ----- story. Had to walk away to calm down. Take a deep breath, meditate, do some yoga, pray, sleep on it.
>
> A lot of things to say about it but won't.
>
> Just one little itty bitty question that I have asked before but never got an answer. Only Steffan/Bystander/Danny can answer it.
>
> Rosyroi
> It is hard to keep on being nice...
> Rosyroi

didn't realize you had ever tried to be nice concerning this subject. And what are your little asteriks about?
s that vile language?
\s far as your colorado question, that was answered weeks ago. If you were on the inside, you would know irst of all that it wasn't an "emergecy" meeting as you keep saying. It was talked about, tossed around and a lecision to meet and talk about it depth was made.
Vhy the secrecy? That has been answered also. Because of the gossip of the likes of pickle and joy, these orums, and the gossip we as Adventists are so good at within the churches. If it would have been mentioned :ven in passing, in advance, one can't imagine the spins and false stories that would have been nanufactured.
'ou also should have read here that if your scenerio of desperation on DS's part, was correct, how could he :oerce Doug B, AF and their board to "bail" him out at the risk of hurting their own ministry???? Makes no ;ense does it???
\nd..if this was an emergency for Danny why is 3abn the one taking it's time until more specific details can)e worked out?
'he picture you paint lacks depth, reasonable motives and good sense. I just shot a few holes in it here. It :ould be torn to shreds if someone had the time or inclination to do so.

Posted by: mikell Jun 10 2007, 12:57 PM

Hay guys, Steffen's interesting choice of word "Nutshell" in his thread title. Is not his views a little nutty in believing the nutty mess what Rusty Moreland's wrote about?

Posted by: Rosyroi Jun 10 2007, 12:58 PM

> QUOTE(mozart @ Jun 10 2007, 11:22 AM) ☐
>
> Awww.....dang.....rosy......NOW you've gone and done it !! > now i'm gonna have that stupid m.c.hammer song in my head the rest of the day. rofl "Can't touch this" rofl

mozart

Sorry about that :=(

sometimes we may feel like and or and feel like crutch.gi has happened to us... but once in a while we need to to keep from going a little nuts

Rosyroi :=)(used too many emoticons)

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Jun 10 2007, 03:13 PM

> QUOTE(steffan @ Jun 10 2007, 11:30 AM) ☐
>
> And..if this was an emergency for Danny why is 3abn the one taking it's time until more specific details can be worked out?
>
> The picture you paint lacks depth, reasonable motives and good sense. I just shot a few holes in it here. It could be torn to shreds if someone had the time or inclination to do so.

Steffan,

Speaking of holes in stories...

On May 10, 2007, Jim Pedersen wrote:

"From my working with the AF Board I know that many of the members have questions and concerns about any inappropriate actions on the part of any individual connected with 3ABN. They want to be very careful that nothing is done to tarnish the reputation of AF. While AF may indeed bring credibility to 3ABN, they want to be careful that AF isn't blind to anything, or get hurt in the merger process.

The AF Board is continuing to have discussions about the merger, and will have a firm say in the process of what is acceptable and what is not from the AF viewpoint. That board will be able to specify what are non-negotiables, etc. "

On May 15, 2007 Jim wrote:

"The journey isn't over yet. There are a lot of discussions that need to take place. But we're prayerfully taking things step by step."

You can read the emails from Jim Pedersen here: http://www.blacksda.com/forums/index.php?showtopic=13535&st=0

So, looks like 3abn isn't the only "one" taking it's time until more specific details can be worked out.

Posted by: Seraphim7 Jun 10 2007, 03:26 PM

☒ TVsnack.

Posted by: Richard Sherwin Jun 10 2007, 05:20 PM

Sir Steffan, if Danny had not been so secret in the first place all this mess would not have occurred. Instead he kept all his "proofs" secret and therefore the mess. So called "false stories" are the result of secrecy. Openness and keeping things above board are the best way to kill the so called rumors from ever getting going in the first place. Secrecy is an indication of the wish to hide something....now what would Danny want to hide? Hmmm.....maybe the facts? The facts that he has no facts? No proofs? Keep up the posts, they do provide ammo for the critics. Now whose side was it you were on? I keep forgetting....

Richard

> QUOTE(steffan @ Jun 10 2007, 01:30 PM)
>
> I didn't realize you had ever tried to be nice concerning this subject. And what are your little asteriks about? Is that vile language?
> As far as your colorado question, that was answered weeks ago. If you were on the inside, you would know first of all that it wasn't an "emergecy" meeting as you keep saying. It was talked about, tossed around and a decision to meet and talk about it depth was made.
> Why the secrecy? That has been answered also. Because of the gossip of the likes of pickle and joy, these forums, and the gossip we as Adventists are so good at within the churches. If it would have been mentioned even in passing, in advance, one can't imagine the spins and false stories that would have been manufactured.
> You also should have read here that if your scenerio of desperation on DS's part, was correct, how could he coerce Doug B, AF and their board to "bail" him out at the risk of hurting their own ministry???? Makes no sense does it???
> And..if this was an emergency for Danny why is 3abn the one taking it's time until more specific details can be worked out?
> The picture you paint lacks depth, reasonable motives and good sense. I just shot a few holes in it here. It could be torn to shreds if someone had the time or inclination to do so.

Posted by: LaurenceD Jun 10 2007, 05:39 PM

When the Bakkers and the Couches started TBN, they also went from rags to riches and praised the Lord for their success. But the truth is, it was the donors that made them a success, not any deity particularly. A few years ago, the Couches said, "If you have been healed or saved or blessed through TBN and have not contributed...you are robbing God and will lose your reward in heaven." Trinity reported that 70% percent of its donations were in amounts under fifty dollars, but regular donations.

This is probably the model for 3abn...$5, $10, $50, whatever the Lord impresses you to give...make it a regular monthly gift.

We haven't heard that kind of guilt trip on 3abn donars yet (robbing God), but there is an eery similarity with the two histories...rags to riches, divorces, combined ministries, and giving credit to God rather than the donors, etc.

Posted by: Richard Sherwin Jun 10 2007, 05:56 PM

Oh that it were true, the $5-$50 bit. I know of some who pay their tithes to 3ABN. Sad.

Richard

> QUOTE(LaurenceD @ Jun 10 2007, 06:39 PM)
>
> When the Bakkers and the Couches started TBN, they also went from rags to riches and praised the Lord for their success. But the truth is, it was the donors that made them a success, not any deity particularly. A few years ago, the Couches said, "If you have been healed or saved or blessed through TBN and have not contributed...you are robbing God and will lose your reward in heaven." Trinity reported that 70% percent of its donations were in amounts under fifty dollars, but regular donations.
>
> This is probably the model for 3abn...$5, $10, $50, whatever the Lord impresses you to give...make it a regular monthly gift.
>
> We haven't heard that kind of guilt trip on 3abn donars yet (robbing God), but there is an eery similarity with the two histories...rags to riches, divorces, combined ministries, and giving credit to God rather than the donors, etc.

Posted by: Rosyroi Jun 10 2007, 08:52 PM

> QUOTE(steffan @ Jun 10 2007, 11:30 AM)
>
> I didn't realize you had ever tried to be nice concerning this subject. And what are your little asteriks about? Is that vile language?
> As far as your colorado question, that was answered weeks ago. If you were on the inside, you would know first of all that it wasn't an "emergecy" meeting as you keep saying. It was talked about, tossed around and a decision to meet and talk about it depth was made.
> Why the secrecy? That has been answered also. Because of the gossip of the likes of pickle and joy, these forums, and the gossip we as Adventists are so good at within the churches. If it would have been mentioned even in passing, in advance, one can't imagine the spins and false stories that would have been manufactured.
> You also should have read here that if your scenerio of desperation on DS's part, was correct, how could he coerce Doug B, AF and their board to "bail" him out at the risk of hurting their own ministry???? Makes no sense does it???
> And..if this was an emergency for Danny why is 3abn the one taking it's time until more specific details can be worked out?
> The picture you paint lacks depth, reasonable motives and good sense. I just shot a few holes in it here. It could be torn to shreds if someone had the time or inclination to do so.

Sorry, I don't do vile language. (the number of spaces equal the word silly... just having some fun) The reason for frustration is that in my opinion your answers are not always honest. I stand by my opinion.

Rosyroi

Posted by: Rosyroi Jun 10 2007, 09:08 PM

> QUOTE(PeacefullyBewildered @ Jun 10 2007, 02:13 PM)
>
> Steffan,
>
> Speaking of holes in stories...
>
> On May 10, 2007, Jim Pedersen wrote:
>
> "From my working with the AF Board I know that many of the members have questions and concerns about any inappropriate actions on the part of any individual connected with 3ABN. They want to be very careful that nothing is done to tarnish the reputation of AF. While AF may indeed bring credibility to 3ABN, they want to be careful that AF isn't blind to anything, or get hurt in the merger process.
>
> The AF Board is continuing to have discussions about the merger, and will have a firm say in the process of what is acceptable and what is not from the AF viewpoint. That board will be able to specify what are non-negotiables, etc. "
>
> On May 15, 2007 Jim wrote:
>
> "The journey isn't over yet. There are a lot of discussions that need to take place. But we're prayerfully taking things step by step."
>
> You can read the emails from Jim Pedersen here: http://www.blacksda.com/forums/index.php?showtopic=13535&st=0
>
> So, looks like 3abn isn't the only "one" taking it's time until more specific details can be worked out.

AMEN

At least AF is trying to be open and honest and above board to those who ask questions. Too bad 3ABN/Danny Shelton has continued to be secretive and refuse to answer honestly when asked questions.

I honor the honesty of AF.

If Danny had been honest and above board three years ago I would not be here today.

Rosyroi

Posted by: steffan Jun 10 2007, 10:46 PM

> QUOTE(Rosyroi @ Jun 10 2007, 10:08 PM)
>
> AMEN
>
> At least AF is trying to be open and honest and above board to those who ask questions. Too bad 3ABN/Danny Shelton has continued to be secretive and refuse to answer honestly when asked questions.
>
> I honor the honesty of AF.
>
> If Danny had been honest and above board three years ago I would not be here today.

> Rosyroi

osy, in your earlier post you say you feel I am not always honest in my answers. I take issue with that. I ave no reason at all not to be honest. I am a christian (as I assume you are) and would not intentionally nor nintentionally try to deceive anyone. I happen to be in a unique situation where I know more than the verage person. When I speak, I speak from what I know, have seen and checked out.
s far as AF is concerned, Danny & Doug usually talk at least once a week and they are the only 2 at this oint that know what is happening and the when's and why's. Remember, Doug wants even more ndependance in his independant ministy. Jim P. is conference. Do you see any signals yet? Doug and Jim night not totally see eye to eye on the exact details of the merger. The conference obviously would not want o lose their connection with AF that they have now.
ow to address your comment about Danny being honest 3 years ago? If he would have exposed everything hat he had and everything that he and others knew concerning Linda, I am sure you are one that would have umped on the crucifiction bandwagon against him for doing a "tell all" on Linda. All the business discussed ere about DS trashing her and yada yada has never been proven true. Making a subtle reference with no ames mentioned (and only when forced to) is hardly trashing anyone. But, had he produced the "whole" tory and the proof then you would know what "trashing" is and he would have been judged and convicted gain. As I have said before, it doesn't matter how he could have handled it, those that want to judge and hink bad of him, would have. For most of you here that were not involved in that situation, were not there, id not see what the board and many others saw, it really is time for you to move on and get your own lives. fter 3 years, NOT ONE allegation of money mismanagement, supposed "high living", Brandi in the wings, anny not paying his personal taxes, abuse towards Linda, supposedly "trashing" Linda, keeping furniture hat belonged to 3abn and all the other things he has been accused of, has been proven. NOT ONE. Think bout that.

Posted by: Artiste Jun 10 2007, 11:11 PM

> QUOTE(steffan @ Jun 10 2007, 08:46 PM)
>
> I happen to be in a unique situation where I know more than the average person. When I speak, I speak from what I know, have seen and checked out.
> As far as AF is concerned, Danny & Doug usually talk at least once a week and they are the only 2 at this point that know what is happening and the when's and why's. Remember, Doug wants even more independance in his independant ministy. Jim P. is conference. Do you see any signals yet? Doug and Jim might not totally see eye to eye on the exact details of the merger. The conference obviously would not want to lose their connection with AF that they have now.

hank you for the interesting information, Steffan!

****

Posted by: mozart Jun 11 2007, 12:19 AM sorry folks but i gotta get in on this one.

steffan,
if danny, etal. wanted to protect linda then why did he tell the entire campmeeting she left him and why has he told numerous people that she cheated on him? he has spread gossip about linda all over the world!!! tell me why did he force her out of 3abn with a naziesque ultimatum order to leave the area and go here and do that or else? why did he give orders to have all images of her removed from 3abn months before she was aware of any of this? why, when he couldn't force barbara kerr to turn against linda, did he then turn on barbara kerr and remove all her images from 3abn? not wanting to tell the world the truth about linda to protect her? and now you say to protect DS and 3ABN from scandel and a "no win" situation if they tell the whole truth? every bit of this is a "no win" situation. the grave just gets deeper and deeper. the truth is always better especially if you say you are a Christian. if the truth had been told this would not be happening right here today. neither danny or mollie or shelly or john lomacang cared one hoot what people thought about linda or they wouldn't have used 3abn live airtime to tell deceitful, illusive tales to back-handedly slander her and her family. take an honesty course or something steffan. maybe go to one of those places where they de-brainwash ppl.

G-R-R-R i really hate lying.

> QUOTE(steffan @ Jun 10 2007, 09:46 PM)
>
> Rosy, in your earlier post you say you feel I am not always honest in my answers. I take issue with that. I have no reason at all not to be honest. I am a christian (as I assume you are) and would not intentionally nor unintentionally try to deceive anyone. I happen to be in a unique situation where I know more than the average person. When I speak, I speak from what I know, have seen and checked out.
> As far as AF is concerned, Danny & Doug usually talk at least once a week and they are the only 2 at this point that know what is happening and the when's and why's. Remember, Doug wants even more independance in his independant ministy. Jim P. is conference. Do you see any signals yet? Doug and Jim might not totally see eye to eye on the exact details of the merger. The conference obviously would not want to lose their connection with AF that they have now.
> Now to address your comment about Danny being honest 3 years ago? If he would have exposed everything that he had and everything that he and others knew concerning Linda, I am sure you are one that would have jumped on the crucifiction bandwagon against him for doing a "tell all" on Linda. All the business discussed here about DS trashing her and yada yada has never been proven true. Making a subtle reference with no names mentioned (and only when forced to) is hardly trashing anyone. But, had he produced the "whole" story and the proof then you would know what "trashing" is and he would have been judged and convicted again. As I have said before, it doesn't matter how he could have handled it, those that want to judge and think bad of him, would have. For most of you here that were not involved in that situation, were not there, did not see what the board and many others saw, it really is time for you to move on and get your own lives. After 3 years, NOT ONE allegation of money mismanagement, supposed "high living", Brandi in the wings, Danny not paying his personal taxes, abuse towards Linda, supposedly "trashing" Linda, keeping furniture that belonged to 3abn and all the other things he has been accused of, has been proven. NOT ONE. Think about that.

Posted by: mikell Jun 11 2007, 12:43 AM

> QUOTE(mozart @ Jun 11 2007, 12:19 AM)
>
> sorry folks but i gotta get in on this one.
>
> steffan,
> if danny, etal. wanted to protect linda then why did he tell the entire campmeeting she left him and why has he told numerous people that she cheated on him? he has spread gossip about linda all over the world!!! tell me why did he force her out of 3abn with a naziesque ultimatum order to leave the area and go here and do that or else? why did he give orders to have all images of her removed from 3abn months before she was aware of any of this? why, when he couldn't force barbara kerr to turn against linda, did he then turn on barbara kerr and remove all her images from 3abn? i don't ever want to hear that LIE again about not wanting to tell the world "the truth" about linda to protect her and now you say to protect DS and 3ABN from scandel and a "no win" situation. every bit of this is a "no win" situation. the grave just gets > deeper and deeper. the truth is always better especially if you say you are a Christian. if the truth had been told this would not be happening right here today. neither danny or mollie or shelly or john lomacang cared one hoot what people thought about linda or they wouldn't have used 3abn live airtime to tell deceitful, illusive tales to back-handedly slander her and her family. if i hear that LIE again, i swear i'm gonna reach into this monitor and snatch you bald headed!

> take an honesty course or something steffan. maybe go to one of those places where they de-brainwash ppl.

ozert, THANK YOU for your post here! What you wrote is so TRUE and GOOD! I just wish every Seventh day dventist knows what you just wrote for Linda's defense. For Danny's 3ABN spin machine of lies has and is eally hurting Linda in other circles. However, I was at a yesterday's Sabbath potluck, and elderly couple who nce supported 3ABN, no longer. Due to what they believe that Danny is lying about Linda. They know of the ounger woman, Brandy and suspected that he wanted to replace Linda with her. So the way to do it and to till keep the money coming in from the Adventist donors is to convince them with a lie about Linda ommitting adultery. I did not need to say a thing in her defense. I believe the word is getting out more and nore each day goes by. Praise God for TRUTH, what you just wrote out!

Posted by: LaurenceD Jun 11 2007, 07:25 AM

mikell and mozart...have you no shame for spreading hurtful information like this? Do you want to get sued also? If you're trying to tear this ministry down, we may have to muzzle you too. Come by the compound sometime and we'll get out those hunt'n dogs you've seen on eBay and we'll go for a little tour of the outback and have a little talk...So. Il. style.

Seriously, you're doing well to assume just the opposite is true of nearly everything this character steffan says. Good posts. Put everything through the fire. If he's being honest, he won't mind. If he's not, it will bother him immensely and he'll come after you with twisted fangs.

Truth doesn't mind careful scrutiny one bit! In fact, it encourages it. "His life was an open book." Anyone whose life is not open, and doesn't like scrutiny, is not of Christ. Muzzling is their way, and misinformation cloaked in the appearance of a rainbow.

Posted by: Noahswife Jun 11 2007, 07:31 AM

Steffan h

I had an interesting conversation with someone last night and wondered if you could clear things up for me since you seem to have quite the connection to all things DS.

I was told that during campmeeting weekend during one of those many, many cut aways where nature scenes or something else where shown that DS told those present that donations were down very significantly because people were now sending their money to Linda..... Do you know if this is a true fact or not?

Also, I was told that the doors to the side wings of the building were closed so that people had to sit in the central area so it would appear like more were there. Can you tell me, were those wings closed off?

Also, since you have so very much information about 3abn matters. What was the attendance record for this year vs say last year or the year before? That should be a fairly simple matter for you to report back to us on.

Thanks in advance for your time in preparing a response to my questions.

nw

C"i"

Posted by: Observer Jun 11 2007, 07:49 AM

The following is being circulated. In view of the fact that Elder Hankinson's letter(s) has/have been published I believe that it is important to publish this one.

> QUOTE
>
> Dear Ministers
>
> Just a little clarification on my previous comment re 3ABN. This was a misunderstanding on my part, based on some recent discussion in Australia. I hope the following will help to clarify the situation as I understand it.
>
> In the USA, most supporting ministries are under the umbrella of the ASI organization and 3ABN is a member of ASI in good and regular standing.
>
> The General Conference has taken a reserved position towards 3ABN until certain issues are resolved. Currently ASI, 3ABN and Amazing Facts are working to resolve these issues.
>
> Let's continue to pray for a positive resolution.
>
> Regards
>
> Denis
>
> Dr Denis Hankinson
> President - Seventh-day Adventist Church (Victoria)
> Phone (03) 9264 7777 : pastor_denis@adventist.org.au
> "Preparing for Eternity by living life to the full - following Jesus"

NOTE: I have e-mailed Elder Hankinson a copy of this message and I have asked him to verify that it is one he wrote and accurate. Under ideal circumstances he has had the time to respond to me. But, he has not done so. If he were traveling, or otherwise engaged, it is possible that he will e-mail me later. But, I felt that his comments are so important that I have posted this.

If Elder Hankinson responds to my e-mail and/or the above quote, I will publish what he says, without editorial revision, but exactly as he said it.

While I would prefer to have his comment to me before I post it, I have to assume that a letter that he appears to have widely sent to a large number of people is not a letter that he has intended to keep private. In any case, it appears to me to be in the public domain.

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Jun 11 2007, 08:25 AM

> QUOTE(steffan @ Jun 10 2007, 08:46 PM)
>
> Rosy, in your earlier post you say you feel I am not always honest in my answers. I take issue with that. I have no reason at all not to be honest. I am a christian (as I assume you are) and would not intentionally nor unintentionally try to deceive anyone. I happen to be in a unique situation where I know more than the average person. When I speak, I speak from what I know, have seen and checked out.

> As far as AF is concerned, Danny & Doug usually talk at least once a week and they are the only 2 at this point that know what is happening and the when's and why's. Remember, Doug wants even more independance in his independant ministy. Jim P. is conference. Do you see any signals yet? Doug and Jim might not totally see eye to eye on the exact details of the merger. The conference obviously would not want to lose their connection with AF that they have now.

Steffan,

When was it established that "Doug wants even more independance in his independant ministry"?

When was it established that the "conference obviously would not want to lose their connection with AF that hey have now"?

You have created a clear insinuation that Doug is in conflict with his board chairman and the Northern California Conference and wishes to be independent of the conference and its president. And you know this now? Does your unique situation allow you to make such claims?

Posted by: Noahswife Jun 11 2007, 10:01 AM

As Observer stated in another post, "gentle readers".........

The following is posted without spelling correction or editing except for the obvious deletion relating to the BSDA poster who communicated with Dr. Thompson.

From: Walt Thompson
Sent: Monday, June 11, 2007 7:36 AM
Subject: Re: Statement regarding 3abn/AF merger

Thanks XXXXXX,

I see no problem with sharing this with BSDA.

Walt
Walter Thompson MD

----- Original Message -----
From:
To: Walt Thompson
Sent: Monday, June 11, 2007 9:27 AM
Subject: Re: Statement regarding 3abn/AF merger

Walt,

I am so relieved! Thank you so much! I have been concerned about how steffan represents things.

May I pass this along to my friend at BSDA to be posted? I believe it will help to clarify the situation and head off any rumors about the merger process.

----- Original Message -----
From: Walt Thompson
To:
Sent: Monday, June 11, 2007 6:57 AM
Subject: Re: Statement regarding 3abn/AF merger

Thanks,

No, Steffan does not represent 3abn or Danny. He is not in a position of authority to know what is going on. While I do not know a lot about the relationship between Doug and the President of the conference, this is certainly not the reason 3abn and AF are negotiating.

I appreciate your interest and heads up!

Walter Thompson MD

----- Original Message -----
From:
To: Walt Thompson
Sent: Monday, June 11, 2007 8:49 AM
Subject: Statement regarding 3abn/AF merger

Dear Walt,

I was doing some reading this morning on the ongoing discussions about the 3abn/Amazing Facts merger. A member calling himself Steffan, who claims to be a supporter of Danny, made a most troubling post and I felt I should bring it to your attention.

Last night, Steffan said in part:

"Rosy, in your earlier post you say you feel I am not always honest in my answers. I take issue with that. I have no reason at all not to be honest. I am a christian (as I assume you are) and would not intentionally nor unintentionally try to deceive anyone. I happen to be in a unique situation where I know more than the average person. When I speak, I speak from what I know, have seen and checked out. As far as AF is concerned, Danny & Doug usually talk at least once a week and they are the only 2 at this point that know what is happening and the when's and why's. Remember, Doug wants even more independance in his independant ministy. Jim P. is conference. Do you see any signals yet? Doug and Jim might not totally see eye to eye on the exact details of the merger. The conference obviously would not want to lose their connection with AF that they have now." http://www.blacksda.com/forums/index.php?s=&showtopic=13784&view=findpost&p=199350
These assertions are quite shocking, in my opinion, and raise some questions that I feel need to be addressed:

1. Is this man an authorized representative of Danny and 3abn?

2. If so, is he actually authorized to make such a statement as he has about the merger?

3. Is he really reflecting the opinion of Doug Batchelor regarding his ties to the Northern California Conference?

Brother Walt, I will wait for a bit for your input on this before I email Steffan's statement to Jim Pedersen. As Chair of the Amazing Facts Board of Directors, I believe he should know what is being said by someone representing himself as a spokesman for Danny and 3abn.

Sincerely,

Posted by: Clay Jun 11 2007, 10:10 AM well isn't that interesting... Steffan is speaking about things in which he doesn't know anything.... according Walt Thompson.... now Steffan come clean, are you going to admit to not knowing, or are you going to suggest that WT is not a credible source?

we are waiting... (someone cue the jeopardy theme song....)

Posted by: Observer Jun 11 2007, 10:23 AM

> QUOTE(Noahswife @ Jun 11 2007, 09:01 AM)
>
> As Observer stated in another post, "gentle readers".........
>
> The following is posted without spelling correction or editing except for the obvious deletion relating to the BSDA poster who communicated with Dr. Thompson.
>
> From: Walt Thompson
> Sent: Monday, June 11, 2007 7:36 AM
> Subject: Re: Statement regarding 3abn/AF merger
>
> Thanks XXXXXX,
>
> I see no problem with sharing this with BSDA.
>
> Walt
> Walter Thompson MD
>
> ----- Original Message -----
> From:
> To: Walt Thompson
> Sent: Monday, June 11, 2007 9:27 AM
> Subject: Re: Statement regarding 3abn/AF merger
>
> Walt,
>
> I am so relieved! Thank you so much! I have been concerned about how steffan represents things.
>
> May I pass this along to my friend at BSDA to be posted? I believe it will help to clarify the situation and head off any rumors about the merger process.
>
> ----- Original Message -----
> From: Walt Thompson
> To:
> Sent: Monday, June 11, 2007 6:57 AM
> Subject: Re: Statement regarding 3abn/AF merger
>
> Thanks,
>
> No, Steffan does not represent 3abn or Danny. He is not in a position of authority to know what is going on. While I do not know a lot about the relationship between Doug and the President of the conference, this is certainly not the reason 3abn and AF are negotiating.
>
> I appreciate your interest and heads up!
>
> Walter Thompson MD
>
> ----- Original Message -----
> From:
> To: Walt Thompson
> Sent: Monday, June 11, 2007 8:49 AM
> Subject: Statement regarding 3abn/AF merger

> Dear Walt,
>
> I was doing some reading this morning on the ongoing discussions about the 3abn/Amazing Facts merger. A member calling himself Steffan, who claims to be a supporter of Danny, made a most troubling post and I felt I should bring it to your attention.
>
> Last night, Steffan said in part:
>
> "Rosy, in your earlier post you say you feel I am not always honest in my answers. I take issue with that. I have no reason at all not to be honest. I am a christian (as I assume you are) and would not intentionally nor unintentionally try to deceive anyone. I happen to be in a unique situation where I know more than the average person. When I speak, I speak from what I know, have seen and checked out.
> As far as AF is concerned, Danny & Doug usually talk at least once a week and they are the only 2 at this point that know what is happening and the when's and why's. Remember, Doug wants even more independance in his independant ministy. Jim P. is conference. Do you see any signals yet? Doug and Jim might not totally see eye to eye on the exact details of the merger. The conference obviously would not want to lose their connection with AF that they have now." http://www.blacksda.com/forums/index.php?s=&showtopic=13784&view=findpost&p=199350
> These assertions are quite shocking, in my opinion, and raise some questions that I feel need to be addressed:
>
> 1. Is this man an authorized representative of Danny and 3abn?
>
> 2. If so, is he actually authorized to make such a statement as he has about the merger?
>
> 3. Is he really reflecting the opinion of Doug Batchelor regarding his ties to the Northern California Conference?
>
> Brother Walt, I will wait for a bit for your input on this before I email Steffan's statement to Jim Pedersen. As Chair of the Amazing Facts Board of Directors, I believe he should know what is being said by someone representing himself as a spokesman for Danny and 3abn.
>
> Sincerely,

hanks, Mrs. Noah :

Vhen peole check out statements that are made, sometimes the truth is seen to differ from what is posted.

really do not think that Stefan realized the impact of what he posted, and the potential injury that he did to oug B.

Vell everyone makes mistakes, no matter how hard they try not to do so.

Posted by: Whtz Happenin Jun 11 2007, 10:34 AM

If Steffan Philips is such a close friend of Danny's, then the BSDA members that have or did have interactions with 3ABN must know him. Can anyone tell us about Steffan to strengthen his credibility?

Posted by: mozart Jun 11 2007, 10:36 AM

you are too too funny. it would be an interesting lawsuit to say the least. they'd have to pay my way to get to court cuz i aint got da bux. as for the huntin' dogs............... grrrrrrrrrrrrrrrrrrr snap i bite too. rofl

---

> QUOTE(LaurenceD @ Jun 11 2007, 07:25 AM)
>
> mikell and mozart...have you no shame for spreading hurtful information like this? Do you want to get sued also? If you're trying to tear this ministry down, we may have to muzzle you too. Come by the compound sometime and we'll get out those hunt'n dogs you've seen on eBay and we'll go for a little tour of the outback and have a little talk...So. Il. style.
>
> Seriously, you're doing well to assume just the opposite is true of nearly everything this character steffan says. Good posts. Put everything through the fire. If he's being honest, he won't mind. If he's not, it will bother him immensely and he'll come after you with twisted fangs.
>
> Truth doesn't mind careful scrutiny one bit! In fact, it encourages it. "His life was an open book." Anyone whose life is not open, and doesn't like scrutiny, is not of Christ. Muzzling is their way, and misinformation cloaked in the appearance of a rainbow.

Posted by: Whtz Happenin Jun 11 2007, 10:40 AM

> QUOTE(Noahswife @ Jun 11 2007, 12:01 PM)
>
> ...
> From: Walt Thompson
> Sent: Monday, June 11, 2007 7:36 AM
> Subject: Re: Statement regarding 3abn/AF merger
>
> Thanks XXXXXX,
>
> I see no problem with sharing this with BSDA.
>
> Walt
> Walter Thompson MD
> ...

Let us give Walt credit for being willing to share what he knows to help clear up any confusion.

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Jun 11 2007, 10:52 AM

> QUOTE(Whtz Happenin @ Jun 11 2007, 09:40 AM)
>
> Let us give Walt credit for being willing to share what he knows to help clear up any confusion.

AMEN!

Steffan is certainly in a unique position now.

Posted by: LaurenceD Jun 11 2007, 11:00 AM

> QUOTE(Steffan)
>
> I happen to be in a unique situation where I know more than the average person. When I speak, I speak from what I know, have seen and checked out.

Remember what Lee said about BS? Lee said Bystander knows everything and that we'd do well to listen up when he speaks. So we asked him about the lawsuit, State of Illinois Dept. of Rev. v. 3abn, and he demonstrated by his reply that he either was unacquainted, or was unable to comprehend.

Posted by: princessdi Jun 11 2007, 11:00 AM

Not sure if that will help. WT sees and speaks with Danny almost daily, I am sure. Notice that WT did not say anything about the relationship between Danny and Steffan, but only that Steffan did not represent Danny or 3ABN. It is true, he, just like them fools over at the save gailon site are over zealous in their defense.

> QUOTE(Whtz Happenin @ Jun 11 2007, 08:34 AM)
>
> If Steffan Philips is such a close friend of Danny's, then the BSDA members that have or did have interactions with 3ABN must know him. Can anyone tell us about Steffan to strengthen his credibility?

Posted by: mozart Jun 11 2007, 11:03 AM well aint that a tidy bunch of pickles. we are all so shocked.

very good job NW.
you get a @>-->->------

> QUOTE(Noahswife @ Jun 11 2007, 10:01 AM)
>
> As Observer stated in another post, "gentle readers".........
>
> The following is posted without spelling correction or editing except for the obvious deletion relating to the BSDA poster who communicated with Dr. Thompson.
>
> Walt,
>
> I am so relieved! Thank you so much! I have been concerned about how steffan represents things.
>
> May I pass this along to my friend at BSDA to be posted? I believe it will help to clarify the situation and head off any rumors about the merger process.
>
> ----- Original Message -----
> From: Walt Thompson
> To:

> Sent: Monday, June 11, 2007 6:57 AM
> Subject: Re: Statement regarding 3abn/AF merger
>
> Thanks,
>
> No, Steffan does not represent 3abn or Danny. He is not in a position of authority to know what is going on. While I do not know a lot about the relationship between Doug and the President of the conference, this is certainly not the reason 3abn and AF are negotiating.
>
> I appreciate your interest and heads up!
>
> Walter Thompson MD

Posted by: Rosyroi Jun 11 2007, 11:37 AM

> QUOTE(steffan @ Jun 10 2007, 10:30 AM)
>
> I didn't realize you had ever tried to be nice concerning this subject. And what are your little asteriks about? Is that vile language?
> As far as your colorado question, that was answered weeks ago. If you were on the inside, you would know first of all that it wasn't an "emergecy" meeting as you keep saying. It was talked about, tossed around and a decision to meet and talk about it depth was made.
> Why the secrecy? That has been answered also. Because of the gossip of the likes of pickle and joy, these forums, and the gossip we as Adventists are so good at within the churches. If it would have been mentioned even in passing, in advance, one can't imagine the spins and false stories that would have been manufactured.
> You also should have read here that if your scenerio of desperation on DS's part, was correct, how could he coerce Doug B, AF and their board to "bail" him out at the risk of hurting their own ministry???? Makes no sense does it???
> And..if this was an emergency for Danny why is 3abn the one taking it's time until more specific details can be worked out?
> The picture you paint lacks depth, reasonable motives and good sense. I just shot a few holes in it here. It could be torn to shreds if someone had the time or inclination to do so.

Steffan,

believe I may not have made myself clear. My concern is for after the fact. Some questions were raised about the (Colorado) meeting after the tv show was aired, everyone knew about the "merger". There was no answer given. Why be evasive if everything is now public knowledge? There had to be other reasons for the quick emergency meeting other than what we viewed on tv.

Rosyroi

Posted by: Jnana15 Jun 11 2007, 11:39 AM

> QUOTE(mozart @ Jun 11 2007, 01:19 AM)
>
> sorry folks but i gotta get in on this one.
>
> steffan,
> if danny, etal. wanted to protect linda then why did he tell the entire campmeeting she left him and why has he told numerous people that she cheated on him? he has spread gossip about linda all over the world!!! tell me why did he force her out of 3abn with a naziesque ultimatum

order to leave the area and go here and do that or else? why did he give orders to have all images of her removed from 3abn months before she was aware of any of this? why, when he couldn't force barbara kerr to turn against linda, did he then turn on barbara kerr and remove all her images from 3abn? i don't ever want to hear that LIE again about not wanting to tell the world "the truth" about linda to protect her and now you say to protect DS and 3ABN from scandel and a "no win" situation. every bit of this is a "no win" situation. the grave just gets deeper and deeper. the truth is always better especially if you say you are a Christian. if the truth had been told this would not be happening right here today. neither danny or mollie or shelly or john lomacang cared one hoot what people thought about linda or they wouldn't have used 3abn live airtime to tell deceitful, illusive tales to back-handedly slander her and her family. if i hear that LIE again, i swear i'm gonna reach into this monitor and snatch you bald headed!
take an honesty course or something steffan. maybe go to one of those places where they de-brainwash ppl.

(i apologise in advance calvin. if my post has offended anyone else, i apologise. i just can't handle this same old lie, over and over when we've all seen and heard the truth of it with our own eyes and ears. G-R-R-R i really hate lying.)

o, You made my day. Like the bald head "snatch". rofl teffan, you need to hang around a little longer to answer these questions instead of loggin off as soon as ou post. See, we pay attention around here. I understand though...don't want to get banned like your other plit personalities did. oo Am I allowed to say this?

Posted by: Rosyroi Jun 11 2007, 11:49 AM

QUOTE(mozart @ Jun 10 2007, 10:19 PM)

sorry folks but i gotta get in on this one.

steffan,
if danny, etal. wanted to protect linda then why did he tell the entire campmeeting she left him and why has he told numerous people that she cheated on him? he has spread gossip about linda all over the world!!! tell me why did he force her out of 3abn with a naziesque ultimatum
order to leave the area and go here and do that or else? why did he give orders to have all images of her removed from 3abn months before she was aware of any of this? why, when he couldn't force barbara kerr to turn against linda, did he then turn on barbara kerr and remove all her images from 3abn? i don't ever want to hear that LIE again about not wanting to tell the world "the truth" about linda to protect her and now you say to protect DS and 3ABN from scandel and a "no win" situation. every bit of this is a "no win" situation. the grave just gets deeper and deeper. the truth is always better especially if you say you are a Christian. if the truth had been told this would not be happening right here today. neither danny or mollie or shelly or john lomacang cared one hoot what people thought about linda or they wouldn't have used 3abn live airtime to tell deceitful, illusive tales to back-handedly slander her and her family. if i hear that LIE again, i swear i'm gonna reach into this monitor and snatch you bald headed!
take an honesty course or something steffan. maybe go to one of those places where they de-brainwash ppl.

(i apologise in advance calvin. if my post has offended anyone else, i apologise. i just can't > handle this same old lie, over and over when we've all seen and heard the truth of it with our own eyes and ears. G-R-R-R i really hate lying.)

ozart

hank you

ou said what I was too upset to say. (loved the "snatch you baldheaded" visual rofl) Thanks I eeded that.

pparently Steffan hasen't read all posts from the beginning. The script handed him must be an old one, rayed at that.

osyroi

Posted by: Rosyroi Jun 11 2007, 12:05 PM

> QUOTE(Noahswife @ Jun 11 2007, 05:31 AM)
>
> Steffan h
>
> I had an interesting conversation with someone last night and wondered if you could clear things up for me since you seem to have quite the connection to all things DS.
>
> I was told that during campmeeting weekend during one of those many, many cut aways where nature scenes or something else where shown that DS told those present that donations were down very significantly because people were now sending their money to Linda..... Do you know if this is a true fact or not?
>
> Also, I was told that the doors to the side wings of the building were closed so that people had to sit in the central area so it would appear like more were there. Can you tell me, were those wings closed off?
>
> Also, since you have so very much information about 3abn matters. What was the attendance record for this year vs say last year or the year before? That should be a fairly simple matter for you to report back to us on.
>
> Thanks in advance for your time in preparing a response to my questions.
>
> nw
> C"i"

mm I see Danny again reaching out to play the victim during another campmeeting. Wonder how long it ook him to cook up that story? Or mabe he had help. There are plenty around who do such a wonderful ob of it. And that is what pains me. I had honored them so much before Linda was banished.

osyroi

Posted by: Rosyroi Jun 11 2007, 05:10 PM

> QUOTE(steffan @ Jun 10 2007, 09:46 PM)
>
> Rosy, in your earlier post you say you feel I am not always honest in my answers. I take issue with that. I have no reason at all not to be honest. I am a christian (as I assume you are) and would not intentionally nor unintentionally try to deceive anyone. I happen to be in a unique situation where I know more than the average person. When I speak, I speak from what I know, have seen and checked out.
> As far as AF is concerned, Danny & Doug usually talk at least once a week and they are the only 2 at this point that know what is happening and the when's and why's. Remember, Doug wants even more independance in his independant ministy. Jim P. is conference. Do you see any signals yet? Doug and Jim might not totally see eye to eye on the exact details of the merger. The conference obviously would not want to lose their connection with AF that they have now.
> Now to address your comment about Danny being honest 3 years ago? If he would have exposed everything that he had and everything that he and others knew concerning Linda, I am sure you are one that would have jumped on the crucifiction bandwagon against him for doing a "tell all" on Linda. All the business discussed here about DS trashing her and yada yada has never been proven true. Making a subtle reference with no names mentioned (and only when forced to) is hardly trashing anyone. But, had he produced the "whole" story and the proof then you would know what "trashing" is and he would have been judged and convicted again. As I have said before, it doesn't matter how he could have handled it, those that want to judge and think bad of him, would have. For most of you here that were not involved in that situation, were not there, did not see what the board and many others saw, it really is time for you to move on and get your own lives. After 3 years, NOT ONE allegation of money mismanagement, supposed "high living", Brandi in the wings, Danny not paying his personal taxes, abuse towards Linda, supposedly "trashing" Linda, keeping furniture that belonged to 3abn and all the other things he has been accused of, has been proven. NOT ONE. Think about that.

Steffan,
I want to apologize for saying I felt that you were not always honest. You may be an honest person. I wish to amend my statement to say that it appears to me you don't always appear honest.

It is possible that since Walt cleared up some questions that you are not privy to all concerns with the situation going on with 3ABN. Thus you may be honest with the information you have been fed from 3ABN and Danny is so sincere and honest as the day is long.

Rosyroi

Posted by: summertime Jun 11 2007, 05:42 PM

> QUOTE(Rosyroi @ Jun 11 2007, 05:10 PM)
>
> Steffan,
> I want to apologize for saying I felt that you were not always honest. You may be an honest person. I wish to amend my statement to say that it appears to me you don't always appear honest.
>
> It is possible that since Walt cleared up some questions that you are not privy to all concerns with the situation going on with 3ABN. Thus you may be honest with the information you have been fed from 3ABN and Danny is so sincere and honest as the day is long.
>
> Rosyroi

I have been wondering how and why Steffan either knows so much, or thinks that he knows everything about 3ABN unless he is privy and prompted what to say by someone at 3ABN. To me, it seems like these words are not coming from Steffan (or whatever his real name is) but from a producer of ideas and words straight from 3ABN. To me, they are using the personna or the willing mouth of a man who really does not have the facts, and only says what he has been told to say by someone who is a coward about coming forth and speaking for herself/ himself. If this is true, I pity this person called Steffan. How can he be so blind?

Posted by: princessdi Jun 11 2007, 05:51 PM

This crossed my mind to day. Don't we have evidence that WT himself has been misled, lied to, and all out decieved by Danny? It might be that WT has no idea what Danny is telling anyone else. It might that all these people are sincere in what they know and being led astray. Each one thinking they have the right info.

> QUOTE(Rosyroi @ Jun 11 2007, 03:10 PM)
>
> Steffan,
> I want to apologize for saying I felt that you were not always honest. You may be an honest person. I wish to amend my statement to say that it appears to me you don't always appear honest.
>
> It is possible that since Walt cleared up some questions that you are not privy to all concerns with the situation going on with 3ABN. Thus you may be honest with the information you have been fed from 3ABN and Danny is so sincere and honest as the day is long.
>
> Rosyroi

Posted by: Snoopy Jun 11 2007, 07:17 PM

> QUOTE(steffan @ Jun 10 2007, 11:46 PM)
>
> After 3 years, NOT ONE allegation of money mismanagement, supposed "high living", Brandi in the wings, Danny not paying his personal taxes, abuse towards Linda, supposedly "trashing" Linda, keeping furniture that belonged to 3abn and all the other things he has been accused of, has been proven......

.........YET!!!!

Oh, those wheels of justice turn RRRREEEEAAAALLLL ssssslllllllloooooowwwww but they still ttttttuuuurrrrnnnnn......

~~Snoopy!!

ps - I agree with Rosy!!!

Posted by: Rosyroi Jun 11 2007, 08:25 PM

> QUOTE(Snoopy @ Jun 11 2007, 05:17 PM)
>
> ....YET!!!!
>
> Oh, those wheels of justice turn RRRREEEEAAAALLLL ssssslllllllloooooowwwww but they still ttttttuuuurrrrnnnnn......

> ~~Snoopy!!
>
> ps - I agree with Rosy!!!

Good Grief Snoopy hug.gif Thanks!

Awww great minds ... cough

Rosyroi

Posted by: Snoopy Jun 11 2007, 10:25 PM

> QUOTE(Rosyroi @ Jun 11 2007, 08:25 PM)
>
> Good Grief Snoopy hug.gif Thanks!
>
> Awww great minds ... cough
>
> Rosyroi

hug.gif back at ya, Rosy!!

Hey, at least Steffan responds to you. He just ignores me. sa Maybe he has something against dogs...

~~Sad Snoopy~~

Posted by: Observer Jun 12 2007, 07:02 AM

> QUOTE(Observer @ Jun 11 2007, 07:49 AM)
>
> The following is being circulated. In view of the fact that Elder Hankinson's letter(s) has/have been published I believe that it is important to publish this one.
> NOTE: I have e-mailed Elder Hankinson a copy of this message and I have asked him to verify that it is one he wrote and accurate. Under ideal circumstances he has had the time to respond to me. But, he has not done so. If he were traveling, or otherwise engaged, it is possible that he will e-mail me later. But, I felt that his comments are so important that I have posted this.
>
> If Elder Hankinson responds to my e-mail and/or the above quote, I will publish what he says, without editorial revision, but exactly as he said it.
>
> While I would prefer to have his comment to me before I post it, I have to assume that a letter that he > appears to have widely sent to a large number of people is not a letter that he has intended to keep private. In any case, it appears to me to be in the public domain.

Elder Hankinson has responded to my e-mail to him:

> QUOTE
>
> Dear Elder Matthews
>
> Thanks for your email. The Information Age certainly has its pros and cons! Please find following a statement of clarification which was sent to the same recipients of the first email. I hope it helps.
>
> Just a little clarification on my previous comment re 3ABN. This was a misunderstanding on my part, based on some recent discussion in Australia. I hope the following will help to clarify the situation as I understand it.
>
> In the USA, most supporting ministries are under the umbrella of the ASI organization and 3ABN is a member of ASI in good and regular standing.
>
> The General Conference has taken a reserved position towards 3ABN until certain issues are resolved. Currently ASI, 3ABN and Amazing Facts are working to resolve these issues.
>
> Let's continue to pray for a positive resolution.
>
> Denis
>
> Dr Denis Hankinson
> President - Seventh-day Adventist Church (Victoria)
> Phone (03) 9264 7777 : pastor_denis@adventist.org.au
> "Preparing for Eternity by living life to the full - following Jesus"

Posted by: no_cults Jun 13 2007, 09:48 PM

> QUOTE(steffan @ Jun 9 2007, 12:08 PM)
>
> This post is from the GCO forum. It is respectful, truthful and full of good comparisons and thoughts from EGW. This man has spiritual insite and common sense.
>
> Since others have stated their opinions about 3ABN I > thought I would weigh in on the topic also. I know > some are attacking 3ABN as never before, which doesn't > suprise me. Whenever someone is working for God there > will be attacks from without and within. Like in the > days of Nehemiah there will be false things reported > and professed friends who are really the enemies of > God's work. My suggestion to 3ABN would be to say like > Nehemiah "I am doing a great work, so that I cannot > come down: why should the work cease, whilst I leave
> it, and come down to you?"
> 3ABN certainly isn't perfect, but they are easily the > best thing going when it comes to SDA television.
> Numerous people have been brought into the remnant church because of this ministry. New converts are nurtured and some existing members are encouraged by much of their programming. I would think SDA would be excited about what God has done and is doing through 3ABN. Lets not expect too much from them, their main job is to get people grounded in the basic truths of the Remnant, it is the job of Greatcontroversy.org and others to further nurture after people join the Church. I actually believe that 3ABN does more than just share the very basics, men like Stephen Bohr have messages that should stir the hearts of all SDA. Most all SDA could learn something by watching the health programs.

As for Pastor Batchelor leading 3ABN/AF God only knows if it is a good plan, but I'm inclined to believe it is if they can keep from getting tied up with the conference. The theology of AF combined with the faith and outreach potential of 3ABN should make for a powerful force that has satan frightened.
Whether the conference supports 3ABN or not is not a factor in my decision to support them.
Although Danny Shelton is human and has likely made mistakes it may be that God isn't done with him. How many of us have had faith to do something big for God? How many of us on the list have dedicated ourselves to full-time ministry without knowing we are going to get a pay check and benefits from a conference? Nobody that knows anything about 3ABN believes that Danny could have built this ministry unless God was in it, Danny isn't smart enough and I don't mean that in a bad way. 3ABN isn't about Danny, it is about people learning to trust, love, and obey God. As Debbie has rightly said Danny hasn't been proved guilty of anything. If being divorced and remarried is always wrong then Doug Batchelor wouldn't be qualified to lead a ministry either. I'm not sure if we want to get into details about the divorce, but I will say that I have or had a copy of an email from Dr. Walt Thompson 3ABN Board Chairman that helps clarify that Danny didn't sin in getting married again. As for the fact that there is an age difference between Danny and his wife, inspiration doesn't forbid this. EGW even recommended that Elder Butler (or at least I think it was him) marry a woman that was over 30 years younger than him, although he didn't because of complaints by their family. She also told JN Andrews that he should find another wife before going to europe to do ministry, she said that he needed a wife. The Bible and SOP teach that marriage can be a blessing and that some people are spiritually better off because of it.
Let us be careful that we don't oppose what God has blessed. I know that I along with many others might not be rejoicing in the truth today if not for the ministry of 3ABN.
Sincerly,
Rusty Moreland

low long have you worked for 3ABN?

Posted by: Pickle Jun 13 2007, 10:29 PM

> QUOTE(princessdi @ Jun 11 2007, 06:51 PM) ☐
>
> This crossed my mind to day. Don't we have evidence that WT himself has been misled, lied to, and all out decieved by Danny? It might be that WT has no idea what Danny is telling anyone else. It might that all these people are sincere in what they know and being led astray. Each one thinking they have the right info.

That's the way that I'd like to view it, but since Walt is spreading around the following, I find it difficult to do so:

- 3ABN's donors started pulling out.
- The church started distancing itself by asking employees to stay away from 3ABN until certain issues were taken care of.
- He contacted Mark and asked for help.
- Mark said the church couldn't get involved but suggested ASI.
- 3ABN THEN asked ASI for help.

I can't believe that the church was distancing itself from 3ABN prior to the 3ABN board action of Sept. 24, 2006. It seems more plausible to me that Walt is trying to claim credit for getting the ASI thing going when it was really Gailon's conversations with a high-level church official that did that.

The only other possibility is that Linda's daughter's letter got more attention than we realize, but I highly doubt it.

By the way, I heard that Danny threatened Kevin Paulson. Can you believe that? Doesn't Danny realize that there are some people out here that you just don't threaten like that?

Would Danny threaten to sue a grizzly bear? Would the threat of a lawsuit get the grizzly bear to back down?

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Jun 13 2007, 10:35 PM

> QUOTE(Pickle @ Jun 13 2007, 08:29 PM) ☐
>
> By the way, I heard that Danny threatened Kevin Paulson. Can you believe that? Doesn't Danny realize that there are some people out here that you just don't threaten like that?
>
> Would Danny threaten to sue a grizzly bear? Would the threat of a lawsuit get the grizzly bear to back down?

Bob,

How is Danny threatening Kevin Paulson? Is there documentation of this threat?

Posted by: Pickle Jun 13 2007, 10:56 PM

I had a friend call me and tell me that Kevin had told them about it. That's it at this point. But the threat of a lawsuit, whether by innuendo or more directly I do not know, was in writing.

Posted by: Rosyroi Jun 13 2007, 10:57 PM

> QUOTE
>
> Nobodythat knows anything about 3ABN believes that Dannycould have built this ministry unlessGod was in it,Danny isn't smart enough and I don't mean that in abad way.

Danny Shelton

Someone out there believes that Hillbilly act.

"The Annointed One" has done another good con job.

Rosyroi
jmho

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Jun 14 2007, 06:44 AM

> QUOTE(Pickle @ Jun 13 2007, 09:56 PM)
>
> I had a friend call me and tell me that Kevin had told them about it. That's it at this point. But the threat of a lawsuit, whether by innuendo or more directly I do not know, was in writing.

It seems to me that if Danny is resorting to his standard intimidation procedure it could mean one of two things:

1. Kevin's statement contains blatant falsehoods or misrepresentations that could tarnish Danny and 3abn.

2. Kevin's statement, coming from a very conservative SDA, is truthful, threatens to further affect Danny's conservative donors and must be buried as quickly as possible.

Whatever the case, Kevin must have hit an important nerve! Guess we'd better take another look at his statement.

Posted by: lowender Jun 19 2007, 09:14 AM

Call Amazing Facts at 916-434-3880 and let them know that your support for them ends if they merge with 3ABN.

Posted by: runner4him Jun 19 2007, 03:16 PM

> QUOTE(lowender @ Jun 19 2007, 10:14 AM)

> Call Amazing Facts at 916-434-3880 and let them know that your support for them ends if they merge with 3ABN.

Ve ALL need to do this and also everyone should go to the 3abn.org web site and send an e-mail asking for he law suit to be open for all to see.

Ve also can e-mail all of our friends asking them to call Amazing Facts about the merger as stated above by owender and to e-mail W.T. or 3abn at the web site regarding STOP the secrecy of the lawsuit.

Posted by: summertime Jun 19 2007, 03:19 PM

> QUOTE(lowender @ Jun 19 2007, 10:14 AM)
>
> Call Amazing Facts at 916-434-3880 and let them know that your support for them ends if they merge with 3ABN.

am going to do so---It does not have to be done by just financial supporters, but also by moral and other ind of faithful supporters. I believe that they need to be aware of just how many Amazing Facts viewers are gainst this whole merger. Much to my sadness I am beginning to be aware of this whole scenario everytime see Doug Batchelor on the screen. I hope that he will become aware of the harm to so many people this nerger can cause.

Posted by: Skyhook Jun 19 2007, 06:22 PM

I am still hoping that the merger is part of a plan to clean up the 3abn mess. I don't have a problem with the merger as long as DS and his cohorts are gone.

Posted by: mikell Jun 19 2007, 06:51 PM

That is just the problem if the merger takes place. It will keep ds and his cronies in power behind the scene, raking in more money in because db will be upfront painting respectable face in front of the cameras over the airways on sleaze and corruption. Once the money rolls in. Their private cooperate jets are returning! Happy days are here again! The late Emma Bombeck wrote a book, titled; The Grass Is Always Greener over the Septic Tank . Well, if db and AF thinking it will be greener going over there at 3ABN, guess what? The lid over the tank just might be a wee-bit thin,

---

Posted by: Skyhook Jun 19 2007, 08:33 PM

Maybe I missed something, but except for what DS defenders have said, do we know for a fact that if and when a merger is actually agreed upon and accomplished, that DS and the others will still be there? I just pray that God will soon decide that enough is enough and make necessary changes.

I also recall a verse in Revelation about the "patience of the saints."

Posted by: Richard Sherwin Jun 19 2007, 08:46 PM

> QUOTE(mikell @ Jun 19 2007, 07:51 PM)

> That is just the problem if the merger takes place. It will keep ds and his cronies in power behind the scene, raking in more money in because db will be upfront painting respectable face in front of the cameras over the airways on sleaze and corruption. Once the money rolls in. Their private cooperate jets are returning! Happy days are here again! The late Emma Bombeck wrote a book, titled; The Grass Is Always Greener over the Septic Tank . Well, if db and AF thinking it will be greener going over there at 3ABN, guess what? The lid over the tank just might be a wee-bit thin, ☐

☒ rofl What a unique way of saying they might be getting in it pretty deep. ☒

Posted by: beartrap Jun 20 2007, 12:15 AM

> QUOTE(mikell @ Jun 19 2007, 05:51 PM) ☐
>
> That is just the problem if the merger takes place. It will keep ds and his cronies in power behind the scene, raking in more money in because db will be upfront painting respectable face in front of the cameras over the airways on sleaze and corruption. Once the money rolls in. Their private cooperate jets are returning! Happy days are here again! The late Emma Bombeck wrote a book, titled; The Grass Is Always Greener over the Septic Tank . Well, if db and AF thinking it will be greener going over there at 3ABN, guess what? The lid over the tank just might be a wee-bit thin, ☐

☒ rofl ☒ ☒ ☒ Very good Mikell! Remember the cess pool behind the original 3ABN building that Danny and Kenny built... outside the second story door that has no stairs? There is lots of green stuff growing there, just like in the personal coffers, land transfers, and other family perk deals.

Posted by: lowender Jun 20 2007, 01:20 AM

DS needs this merge in order to save face. He would love to appear on TV shaking hands & sharing the stage with DB. He will use this to claim that the church & it's leaders condone his divorce & remarriage. Why? Because he knows he had no grounds & because he has exempted himself from Biblical guidelines concerning divorce & remarriage.

Danny also won't quit as 3ABN's director. He will take the ministry down with him if he goes.

Again, I encourage all of you... Call AF & let them know that you cannot support them if they merge with 3ABN. 916-434-3880

Posted by: Pickle Jun 20 2007, 01:55 AM

> QUOTE(Skyhook @ Jun 19 2007, 09:33 PM) ☐
>
> Maybe I missed something, but except for what DS defenders have said, do we know for a fact that if and when a merger is actually agreed upon and accomplished, that DS and the others will still be there?

I was surprised to hear something about broadcasts in Sweden stating that Danny was going to continue running 3ABN after the merger. I was told that by someone close to there who has had no involvement in any of this.

Posted by: lowender Jun 21 2007, 12:24 AM

If this merge happens & Danny Shelton remains where he is, then perhaps we the people of this denomination should begin a new supportive ministry. Free of corporate jets & state-of-the-art basketball courts & the cronyism that 3ABN has favored so much... One that doesn't enrich a single person. Just lay people, spreading the Gospel...

Posted by: Shepherdswife Jun 21 2007, 04:05 AM

> QUOTE(lowender @ Jun 21 2007, 01:24 AM)
>
> Just lay people, spreading the Gospel...

There is always room for more.... But for readers not familiar with the Adventist church, there are already "supporting" lay ministries (not financed by the denomination) that are doing that very thing. Families leaving their "regular" lives behind, going to the people where they are, in their villages, living with them, learning the culture, adapting the gospel to their language and customs...

One of them is called Adventist Frontier Missions. http://www.afmonline.org/

Each family's goal is to stay in an unreached area until the church that they plant is spiritually and Biblically solid and is multiplying itself, using local lay people, not needing another missionary--usually at least 8-10 years.

I know some of the administration personally. They spent years in a small village in New Guinea themselves, and there are no leased jets or hidden perks.

Posted by: lowender Jun 21 2007, 09:26 AM

Good point... I have a friend who is living in Albania doing that very thing.

Printable Version of Topic

Click here to view this topic in its original format

BlackSDA _ 3ABN _ Linda's Schedule

Posted by: Noahswife May 22 2007, 02:20 PM

I had heard that Linda Shelton would be at the Ohio Conference Campmeeting in June. I looked and there was no mention on their website or in their pdf document regarding the campmeeting schedule. There was no mention on Linda's website either.

I just checked with the conference office and Linda will in fact be there on Sabbath afternoon, June 16 at 4 PM. I thanked them for inviting her and asked if there was anything I could do to help get the word out. Basically I was told to just show up and be supportive. Unfortunately, I am hoping to be out of town that weekend but wanted to let others know in my region.

Does anyone else know of events she is scheduled to attend over the summer or next few months?

nw
C"i"

BTW......if someone knows her webmaster please ask if there is a reason this is not up on her website yet as this is not that off.

Posted by: Rosyroi May 22 2007, 02:43 PM

> QUOTE(Noahswife @ May 22 2007, 12:20 PM)
>
> I had heard that Linda Shelton would be at the Ohio Conference Campmeeting in June. I looked and there was no mention on their website or in their pdf document regarding the campmeeting schedule. There was no mention on Linda's website either.
>
> I just checked with the conference office and Linda will in fact be there on Sabbath afternoon, June 16 at 4 PM. I thanked them for inviting her and asked if there was anything I could do to help get the word out. Basically I was told to just show up and be supportive. Unfortunately, I am hoping to be out of town that weekend but wanted to let others know in my region.
>
> Does anyone else know of events she is scheduled to attend over the summer or next few months?
>
> nw
> C"i"
>
> BTW......if someone knows her webmaster please ask if there is a reason this is not up on her website yet as this is not that off.

You can scratch off Upper Columbia Conference campmeeting. She can't be at two places at the same time.

Rosyroi

Posted by: Noahswife Jun 2 2007, 11:10 AM

Hi Jim

On another subject, is there a NCC policy about Linda Shelton appearing in any of our conference churches? She is coming to visit a local friend of mine, and  told me that our Pastor will not allow her to speak at our church. I am aware that Danny has spoken in several of our conference churches so I am just curious if there is just a general rule or policy preventing Linda from doing so as well.

From: Jim Pedersen

Sent: Saturday, June 02, 2007 7:27 AM
Subject: Re: AF/3ABN merger

Hello, there is not a general NCC policy about this. Rather, it is usually a local matter. However, given the nature of some of the issues on both sides, I would be cautious to invite either of them to appear in any of our churches at this time.

I hope you have a good Sabbath.
Jim Pedersen

Posted by: Artiste Jun 2 2007, 12:02 PM

[quote name='Noahswife' date='Jun 2 2007, 09:10 AM' post='197946']
Hi Jim

On another subject, is there a NCC policy about Linda Shelton appearing in any of our conference churches? She is coming to visit a local friend of mine, and  told me that our Pastor will not allow her to speak at our church. I am aware that Danny has spoken in several of our conference churches so I am just curious if there is just a general rule or policy preventing Linda from doing so as well.

From: Jim Pedersen

Sent: Saturday, June 02, 2007 7:27 AM
Subject: Re: AF/3ABN merger

Hello, there is not a general NCC policy about this. Rather, it is usually a local matter. However, given the nature of some of the issues on both sides, I would be cautious to invite either of them to appear in any of our churches at this time.

I hope you have a good Sabbath.
Jim Pedersen

****

Is there then some kind of unspoken policy that DS would be better off not speaking in SDA churches? Is this something new?

The president of the Central California Conference and his wife were having a lovely time with Shelly Quinn and husband the other evening.

Posted by: Artiste Jun 2 2007, 01:02 PM

Re: The above interchanges

I think that the NAD/NCC/etc.,etc. need to avail themselves of the services of a top-notch PR company!

What do youall think?

Posted by: Clay Jun 2 2007, 01:13 PM

if she can't speak, he shouldn't be allowed to speak.... oh that's right... there is a double standard.... whatever DS says is the truth and whatever LS says must be untrue because DS would never lie....

Posted by: sonshineonme Jun 2 2007, 05:08 PM

> QUOTE(Clay @ Jun 2 2007, 12:13 PM)
>
> if she can't speak, he shouldn't be allowed to speak.... oh that's right... there is a double standard.... whatever DS says is the truth and whatever LS says must be untrue because DS would never lie....

I started a post earlier to this whole non-consistent issue. Trashed it, trying again.
DS can speak (for the most part) at just about any sda church (right now) and this is with supported testimony and proof against him and things he has done. However, Linda can not (for the most part) simply because of ds spreading false lies that can not be proven or supported with evidence. Explain this nonsense to me? How is it that people are so gullable? How is it that ds knows he can capitalize on this gullable-ness? What a sad state sda's are really in if it's just this easy to be hood-winked. Oh, and give money to the man at the same time...sheeesh!

Posted by: Voktar of Zargon Jun 2 2007, 07:36 PM

From: Jim Pedersen

Sent: Saturday, June 02, 2007 7:27 AM
Subject: Re: AF/3ABN merger

Hello, there is not a general NCC policy about this. Rather, it is usually a local matter. However, given the nature of some of the issues on both sides, I would be cautious to invite either of them to appear in any of our churches at this time.
I hope you have a good Sabbath.
Jim Pedersen

Doesn't any one see this as a positive statement? Yeh, the Northern California Conference president wouldn't invite Linda to minister(Ohio is, and I plan to be there). But neither will the chairman of Amazing Facts board invite Danny to speak as of today!

As of last Thursday he said:

From: Jim Pedersen
Sent: Thursday, May 31, 2007 7:27 PM
Subject: Re: AF/3ABN merger

Hello, as of today the proposed merger is still proceeding with the investigative stage of the discussions. Nothing is currently on hold.

Best wishes,

Jim Pedersen

Yet I just read the June issue of 3ABN World June Issue which reads on page six:

"God is abundantly confirming His providential leading of the network into greater global evangelism. The same-day announcement of the upcoming union of Three Angels Broadcasting Network and Amazing Facts - unanimously supported by both boards of directors - along with the signed contract for 3ABN carriage on DISH Network,..."

How is it that the merger can be "unanimously supported by both boards of directors" when the, "proposed merger is still proceeding with the investigative stage..." and the chairman of Amazing Facts board (Jim Pederson) would be cautious to invite Danny Shelton to speak in any of his conference churches at this time!

I think there is a serious contradiction of statements here. Who do you think is twisting the truth?

Posted by: sonshineonme Jun 2 2007, 08:09 PM

> QUOTE(Voktar of Zargon @ Jun 2 2007, 06:36 PM)
>
> From: Jim Pedersen
>
> Sent: Saturday, June 02, 2007 7:27 AM
> Subject: Re: AF/3ABN merger
>
> Hello, there is not a general NCC policy about this. Rather, it is usually a local matter. However, given the nature of some of the issues on both sides, I would be cautious to invite either of them to appear in any of our churches at this time.
> I hope you have a good Sabbath.
> Jim Pedersen
>
> Doesn't any one see this as a positive statement? Yeh, the Northern California Conference president wouldn't invite Linda to minister(Ohio is, and I plan to be there). But neither will the chairman of Amazing Facts board invite Danny to speak as of today!
>
> As of last Thursday he said:
>
> From: Jim Pedersen
> Sent: Thursday, May 31, 2007 7:27 PM
> Subject: Re: AF/3ABN merger
>
> Hello, as of today the proposed merger is still proceeding with the investigative stage of the discussions. Nothing is currently on hold.
>
> Best wishes,
> Jim Pedersen
>
> Yet I just read the June issue of 3ABN World June Issue which reads on page six:
>
> "God is abundantly confirming His providential leading of the network into greater global evangelism. The same-day announcement of the upcoming union of Three Angels Broadcasting Network and Amazing Facts - unanimously supported by both boards of directors - along with the signed contract for 3ABN carriage on DISH Network,..."
>
> How is it that the merger can be "unanimously supported by both boards of directors" when the, "proposed merger is still proceeding with the investigative stage..." and the chairman of Amazing Facts

> board (Jim Pederson) would be cautious to invite Danny Shelton to speak in any of his conference churches at this time!
>
> I think there is a serious contradiction of statements here. Who do you think is twisting the truth?

ep - and this time, everyone gets to see just how it works...before, no one new enough to see it when it was appening...hmmm.

ad, very bad. Egg on face here - got some ketchup?

Posted by: Skyhook Jun 2 2007, 08:25 PM

> QUOTE(sonshineonme @ Jun 2 2007, 09:09 PM)
>
> Yep - and this time, everyone gets to see just how it works...before, no one new enough to see it when it was happening...hmmm.
>
> bad, very bad. Egg on face here - got some ketchup?

ep, for everyone to see including (I hope) the AF board members.

Posted by: sonshineonme Jun 2 2007, 08:40 PM

> QUOTE(Skyhook @ Jun 2 2007, 07:25 PM)
>
> Yep, for everyone to see including (I hope) the AF board members.

think it was no accident that some here at bsda started communicating with the prez of N.CA Conference hen they did....I know a few things happening behind the scenes, and from what I see, the timing of these mails in particular could not have been planned by men (or women). My opinion is that all things are orking together, as they should be, and I believe it is the hand of God. JMO and I'm stickin' to it.

Posted by: mikell Jun 2 2007, 09:37 PM

> QUOTE(sonshineonme @ Jun 2 2007, 08:40 PM)
>
> I think it was no accident that some here at bsda started communicating with the prez of N.CA Conference when they did....I know a few things happening behind the scenes, and from what I see, the timing of these emails in particular could not have been planned by men (or women). My opinion is that all things are working together, as they should be, and I believe it is the hand of God. JMO and I'm stickin' to > it.

Vould anyone know how to email, Jim Pederson on the AF board? If the AF 3abn a done deal, AF should ount to ten!

Posted by: sonshineonme Jun 2 2007, 09:43 PM

> QUOTE(mikell @ Jun 2 2007, 08:37 PM)
>
> Would anyone know how to email, Jim Pederson on the AF board? If the AF 3abn a done deal, AF should count to ten!

enerally, you can get email address for conference officials off conference websites. Or at least call and ask f it's not stated on the websites.

ou can probably get the address for the board members too. Just ask!
t's always worth the time, even if it seems hopeless at times!

Posted by: Snoopy Jun 3 2007, 11:31 PM

> QUOTE(Artiste @ Jun 2 2007, 01:02 PM)
>
> Re: The above interchanges
>
> I think that the NAD/NCC/etc.,etc. need to avail themselves of the services of a top-notch PR company!
>
> What do youall think?

EAH! What she said!! A good PR company!! SEE MO?? I'm not the only one who thinks that!! (just easing...!!)

☒ welcome.gif Artiste!!!

Posted by: Artiste Jun 4 2007, 12:15 AM

Thank you!

Posted by: Noahswife Jun 6 2007, 10:02 AM

> QUOTE(Voktar of Zargon @ Jun 2 2007, 09:36 PM) ☐
>
> Doesn't any one see this as a positive statement? Yeh, the Northern California Conference president wouldn't invite Linda to minister(Ohio is, and I plan to be there). But neither will the chairman of Amazing Facts board invite Danny to speak as of today!

VofZ ☒ h

It is my understanding that Linda has now also been added to services on Friday but I do not know yet the time or her role. Has anyone else heard since we are now less than 10 days away? I checked her website and do not see any updates as to her schedule.

nw
C"i"

Posted by: sonshineonme Jun 6 2007, 07:41 PM

I was the phone with Linda for over two hours today, and we talked about some of her events coming up (CA and OH for example).

She has submitted information to her webmaster to have her website updated (planned for tomorrow) as she has a few changes/adds being made on it. Just a matter of waiting for them to get it done.

At Ohio Campmeeting she is on for Friday night and Sabbath afternoon.

- Friday night she is singing just before Ron Halverson Sr. speaks.
- Sabbath she does a concert in the afternoon (4pm I believe it is).

****

UPDATING:

I am getting the details for her California event and will post that soon.

I have received details on what Linda's schedule regarding Northern California July 6th and 7th.

July 6 and 7, at 6:30 PM both nights. This event is open to all and an offering will be taken both nights to cover expenses.

The address is:
The Light
525 Fifth Street
Santa Rosa, CA

website for "The Light "is here >>> http://www.lightconcerts.com/

Contact number: 707-694-5885 (leave message)

This event is being sponsored by Loud Cry Music Ministry

The theme is along the lines of Operation Global Rain. Along with Linda's messages both nights there will also be a mini concert with Kathy Schallert and Linda Shelton. There will be Praise and Worship, and Linda's message from the Word!

While Linda is in N. Cal for this long weekend, she will be doing some grass roots ministry Thursday and Friday morning in the area, I believe this will include visiting a womens shelter.

If you have any questions or would like further details regarding Sabbath morning, and fellowship after church, you may PM me I'll do my best to answer!

Posted by: mozart Jun 6 2007, 08:11 PM

wow that is great to hear. wish i could be there. God bless the honest Christian folks in Ohio.

"As The Tide Begins To Turn"

thanks SSOM and give her my love and support.
Linda
f-r-r-r-om Mozar-r-r-r-t **

(Scottish br-r-r-ogue added for-r-r our-r-r wee Bear-r-r-r-us laddy)

> QUOTE(sonshineonme @ Jun 6 2007, 07:41 PM)
>
> I was the phone with Linda for over two hours today, and we talked about some of her events coming up (CA and OH for example).
>
> She has submitted information to her webmaster to have her website updated (planned for tomorrow) as she has a few changes/adds being made on it. Just a matter of waiting for them to get it done.
> At Ohio Campmeeting she is on for Friday night and Sabbath afternoon.
>
> - Friday night she is singing just before Ron Halverson Sr. speaks.
> - Sabbath she does a concert in the afternoon (4pm I believe it is).
> I am getting the details for her California event and will post that soon.

Posted by: Rosyroi Jun 6 2007, 08:13 PM

> QUOTE(sonshineonme @ Jun 6 2007, 05:41 PM)
>
> I was the phone with Linda for over two hours today, and we talked about some of her events coming up (CA and OH for example).
>
> She has submitted information to her webmaster to have her website updated (planned for tomorrow) as she has a few changes/adds being made on it. Just a matter of waiting for them to get it done.
> At Ohio Campmeeting she is on for Friday night and Sabbath afternoon.
>
> - Friday night she is singing just before Ron Halverson Sr. speaks.
> - Sabbath she does a concert in the afternoon (4pm I believe it is).
> I am getting the details for her California event and will post that soon.

just does my heart good to know that Linda has moved on and is being offered to minister in churches nd even campmeetings.

gi

osyroi ch

Posted by: sonshineonme Jun 12 2007, 07:38 PM

[quote name='sonshineonme' post='198651' date='Jun 6 2007, 06:41 PM']
I was the phone with Linda for over two hours today, and we talked about some of her events coming up (CA and OH for example).

She has submitted information to her webmaster to have her website updated (planned for tomorrow) as she has a few changes/adds being made on it. Just a matter of waiting for them to get it done.
At Ohio Campmeeting she is on for Friday night and Sabbath afternoon.

- Friday night she is singing just before Ron Halverson Sr. speaks.
- Sabbath she does a concert in the afternoon (4pm I believe it is).

I am getting the details for her California event and will post that soon.
quote]
****

UPDATING:

I am getting the details for her California event and will post that soon.

I have received details on Linda's schedule regarding Northern California July 6th and 7th.

July 6 and 7, at 6:30 PM both nights. This event is open to all and an offering will be taken both nights to cover expenses.

The address is:
The Light
525 Fifth Street
Santa Rosa, CA

website for "The Light "is here >>> http://www.lightconcerts.com/

Contact number: 707-694-5885 (leave message)

This event is being sponsored by Loud Cry Music Ministry

The theme is along the lines of Operation Global Rain. Along with Linda's messages both nights there will also be a mini concert with Kathy Schallert and Linda Shelton. There will be Praise and Worship, and Linda's message from the Word!

Her complete schedule at this moment:

Thursday PM: The Rose womens Shelter AND the Redwood Gospel Mission. The Rose has about 25 women and children who will receive a wonderful blessing by having Linda present a Bible study just for them. The Redwod Gospel Mission is a homeless Shelter/work progam/Recovery Program for men. An hour long presentation at the Redwood Gospel Mission will precede the Bible Study at the Rose.

Friday AM: Manna Home, a 10 month womens recovery Program.

Friday afternoon: visiting some folk that want to meet her very much :-) one lady inparticular is staying alive just to meet Linda Shelton. She has been a faithful supporter of 3ABN since the beginning (not any more though, but she still watches it). She is 102 years old and cannot wait to meet Linda.

Friday PM: Linda will present at The Light, the theme is Operation Global Rain (as stated above).

Sabbath AM: church, as a member, no speaking, just worshiping with the family :-)

Sabbath PM: Same as Friday PM at "The Light" (all stated above)

If you have any questions or would like further details regarding Sabbath morning, and fellowship after church, you may PM me I'll do my best to answer!

(bumping)

Posted by: Voktar of Zargon Jun 16 2007, 08:08 PM

Saw Linda at Ohio camp meeting. She had Pastor Paschal with her who used to sing with "Alliance" at Oakwood before they became "Take 6." He was also her pastor at the Springfield church but he's now moving on to the Orlando area. The pastors wife(?) was also with them. Most of the program was made up of the three of them singing very powerful gospel harmonies. Loved it. Linda also brought a state of the art music video that she opened the program with and sang along with. Very impressive.
My wife and I had a nice talk with her after the program. She said that this was the first big event that she has done since all of the traumatic happenings.
I asked her if she had any words for the folks at BSDA. She said, "Tell them that I thank them all from the bottom of my heart."

Posted by: Artiste Jun 16 2007, 11:16 PM

> QUOTE(Voktar of Zargon @ Jun 16 2007, 06:08 PM)
>
> Saw Linda at Ohio camp meeting. She had Pastor Paschal with her who used to sing with "Alliance" at Oakwood before they became "Take 6." He was also her pastor at the Springfield church but he's now moving on to the Orlando area. The pastors wife(?) was also with them. Most of the program was made up of the three of them singing very powerful gospel harmonies. Loved it. Linda also brought a state of the art music video that she opened the program with and sang along with. Very impressive.
> My wife and I had a nice talk with her after the program. She said that this was the first big event that she has done since all of the traumatic happenings.
> I asked her if she had any words for the folks at BSDA. She said, "Tell them that I thank them all from the bottom of my heart."

Sounds very encouraging! I will probably see Linda on July 7 since I will be passing through on that day up to the Redwoods Coast for some R&R...

****

Posted by: Daryl Fawcett Jun 18 2007, 05:40 PM

I am happy to hear that Linda is getting some ministry exposure.

Printable Version of Topic

Click here to view this topic in its original format

BlackSDA _ 3ABN _ News Flash -- 3abn Has No Plane!

Posted by: sdaguy Jun 12 2007, 03:22 PM

I just got this email from Mollie Steenson:

"Mollie Steenson" <mollie.steenson@3abn.org>
[Add to Address Book]

To:<sdaguy@........net>
Subject:3ABN
Date:Tuesday, June 12, 2007 3:02:47 PM
[View Source]
Dear Mr....,

Thank you for your e-mail and inquiry concerning a plane, however, 3ABN doesn't own a plane.
If I may be of further assistance, please let me know.

Sincerely,
Mollie Steenson

3ABN GM

Amazing all the talk about Ds and his plane, ha there is no plane!

Posted by: mikell Jun 12 2007, 03:29 PM

> QUOTE(sdaguy @ Jun 12 2007, 03:22 PM) ☐
>
> I just got this email from Mollie Steenson:
> "Mollie Steenson" <mollie.steenson@3abn.org>
> [Add to Address Book]
>
> To:<sdaguy@comcast.net>
> Subject:3ABN
> Date:Tuesday, June 12, 2007 3:02:47 PM
> [View Source]
> Dear Mr....,
>
> Thank you for your e-mail and inquiry concerning a plane, however, 3ABN doesn't own a plane.
> If I may be of further assistance, please let me know.
>
> Sincerely,
> Mollie Steenson
>
> 3ABN GM
>
> Amazing all the talk about Ds and his plane, ha there is no plane!

Hay, could it be that Mollie is playing fast-and-loose with the facts? Could it be, yes it is true that 3ABN does not own a plane, but are leasing a plane?! I could be all wet with this, but.... Can any one of you or whomever confirm that 3ABN really does not have a plane???

Posted by: watchbird Jun 12 2007, 03:38 PM

> QUOTE(mikell @ Jun 12 2007, 05:29 PM) ☐
>
> Hay, could it be that Mollie is playing fast-and-loose with the facts? Could it be, yes it is true that 3ABN does not own a plane, but are leasing a plane?! I could be all wet with this, but.... Can any one of you or whomever confirm that 3ABN really does not have a plane???

I heard today that this is indeed fact.

The floor is now open for additional questions, facts, and speculations.

But please... let's try to keep them separate and each category properly labeled.

.... TVsnack. ....

Posted by: sonshineonme Jun 12 2007, 03:44 PM

> QUOTE(sdaguy @ Jun 12 2007, 02:22 PM) ☐
>
> I just got this email from Mollie Steenson:
> "Mollie Steenson" <mollie.steenson@3abn.org>
> [Add to Address Book]
>
> To:<sdaguy@........net>
> Subject:3ABN
> Date:Tuesday, June 12, 2007 3:02:47 PM
> [View Source]
> Dear Mr....,
>
> Thank you for your e-mail and inquiry concerning a plane, however, 3ABN doesn't own a plane.
> If I may be of further assistance, please let me know.
>
> Sincerely,
> Mollie Steenson
>
> 3ABN GM
>
> Amazing all the talk about Ds and his plane, ha there is no plane!

Just for clarification; the current plane they have had till now, they did not own, but leased. Guess there is no need to go over what that was each month in costs.

I believe that DS will not have that perk any longer come the end of June.

Posted by: Richard Sherwin Jun 12 2007, 03:46 PM

Walt Thompson emailed me several days ago stating that though it would be missed they were canceling the lease. This has been discussed on the "Looks like DS aready has his...." thread.

> QUOTE(watchbird @ Jun 12 2007, 04:38 PM) ☐
>
> I heard today that this is indeed fact.
>
> The floor is now open for additional questions, facts, and speculations.
>
> But please... let's try to keep them separate and each category properly labeled.
>
> .... TVsnack ....

Posted by: princessdi Jun 12 2007, 05:14 PM

I was about to say, because the information that htye leased the plane, plus the approx. costs, is old news and posted somewhere in these threads. Now, the fact that they are letting go of the lease is news.

SDAguy, read, read, read, and then post..............

Posted by: mikell Jun 12 2007, 05:57 PM

if there is no longer any leasing of the plane, sounds like their donations are falling! I am sadden for ds, looks like he has to use a commercial airport getting their two hours early for each flight just like the rest of us, I just don't know how he will carry this extra burden, among all of his responsibilities, poor dannyboy,

---

Posted by: Rosyroi Jun 12 2007, 08:01 PM

If my memory serves me, I don't remember exactly when but at one time BSDA discussed the thought that there were two airplanes at Danny's disposal. One was the first one purchased and had been used for a while. The second was the leased one for $40,000.00/month.

I could be way off the mark but I thought someone made a comment that they saw the plane up for sale online somewhere. But no one followed up since then. That is why we assumed Danny still owned the first plane.

The conversation pertaining to this subject most likely might be found soon if it hasen't alreay. If so, sorry for the duplicate remark. If I posted wrong I will gladly apologyze. JMO.

Rosyroi

Posted by: Johann Jun 12 2007, 08:24 PM

> QUOTE(Rosyroi @ Jun 13 2007, 04:01 AM)
>
> If my memory serves me, I don't remember exactly when but at one time BSDA discussed the thought that there were two airplanes at Danny's disposal. One was the first one purchased and had been used for a while. The second was the leased one for $40,000.00/month.
>
> I could be way off the mark but I thought someone made a comment that they saw the plane up for sale online somewhere. But no one followed up since then. That is why we assumed Danny still owned the first plane.
>
> The conversation pertaining to this subject most likely might be found soon if it hasen't alreay. If so, sorry for the duplicate remark. If I posted wrong I will gladly apologyze. JMO.
>
> Rosyroi

It seems to me you are close to what is known. I think there were the two planes for a while, but I seem to recall that we were informed somewhere that the old small plane had been sold.

Posted by: Richard Sherwin Jun 12 2007, 08:34 PM

My guess is that DS will still get his perks and this is nothing more than a PR stunt. They can still rent a jet on a hourly basis when ~~needed~~ wanted by Danny. Anyone can, for what? 3-4 grand or so an hour? I've not checked lately. They can say they've canceled the lease but still quietly have the use of a jet. Maybe this time they won't brag about it to anyone to keep the heat off, at least until the heat cools a bit.

My understanding is that the old jet, actually owned by 3abn was a older model Lear, possibly a Lear 25/35.

Richard

> QUOTE(mikell @ Jun 12 2007, 07:57 PM)
>
> if there is no longer any leasing of the plane, sounds like their donations are falling! I am sadden for ds, looks like he has to use a commercial airport getting their two hours early for each flight just like the rest of us, I just don't know how he will carry this extra burden, among all of his responsibilities, poor dannyboy,

---

Posted by: Rosyroi Jun 12 2007, 09:13 PM

> QUOTE(Johann @ Jun 12 2007, 06:24 PM)
>
> It seems to me you are close to what is known. I think there were the two planes for a while, but I seem to recall that we were informed somewhere that the old small plane had been sold.

Johann,
Thank you for the refresher.

Rosyroi

Posted by: mikell Jun 12 2007, 11:59 PM

> QUOTE(Richard Sherwin @ Jun 12 2007, 08:34 PM)
>
> My guess is that DS will still get his perks and this is nothing more than a PR stunt. They can still rent a jet on a hourly basis when ~~needed~~ wanted by Danny. Anyone can, for what? 3-4 grand or so an hour? I've not checked lately. They can say they've canceled the lease but still quietly have the use of a jet. Maybe this time they won't brag about it to anyone to keep the heat off, at least until the heat cools a bit.
>
> My understanding is that the old jet, actually owned by 3abn was a older model Lear, possibly a Lear 25/35.
>
> Richard

Richard, I believe you made a great reality point here, and most likely that ds exactly will do, while denying owning one or leasing one, giving the idea he is going commercial to please his easy to fleece donors, but really doing what you pointed out.

Posted by: sonshineonme Jun 13 2007, 12:46 AM

> QUOTE(mikell @ Jun 12 2007, 10:59 PM)
>
> Richard, I believe you made a great reality point here, and most likely that ds exactly will do, while denying owning one or leasing one, giving the idea he is going commercial to please his easy to fleece donors, but really doing what you pointed out.

If they chose to play the "looks like" game - give the APPEARANCE that things have changed, to appease the donors (and gain back donors that are very unhappy), but some how it's all just a PR ploy, I think they ought to know that people are going to find out, one way or another.

No more secrets. Eyes and ears everywhere. And even more importantly, God's eyes.

The thing is, people will be watching it all, from now on.

Posted by: beartrap Jun 13 2007, 01:22 AM

> QUOTE(Richard Sherwin @ Jun 12 2007, 07:34 PM)
>
> My guess is that DS will still get his perks and this is nothing more than a PR stunt. They can still rent a jet on a hourly basis when ~~needed~~ wanted by Danny. Anyone can, for what? 3-4 grand or so an hour? I've not checked lately. They can say they've canceled the lease but still quietly have the use of a jet. Maybe this time they won't brag about it to anyone to keep the heat off, at least until the heat cools a bit.

> My understanding is that the old jet, actually owned by 3abn was a older model Lear, possibly a Lear 25/35.
>
> Richard

lo, it was not a Lear. 3ABN purchased a Mitsubishi Diamond Jet and used it for several years. For much of hat time they also leased a Cessna Citation jet which was also used. After a time of having both jets, they old the Diamond. The pilots told me that I was the last person to use the Diamond for 3ABN. The Cessna had larger cabin, a bigger restroom, a longer range, and a better galley. I have used both jets, and found the essna to be much more comfortable than the Diamond. I am sure that gong back to commercial flights will e a devastating blow to those who enjoyed the convenience of a private jet for so long. Downgrading always as the effect of creating misery.

Steffan"(or the pesrson who he has virtually admitted to being) inffers that Linda was the biggest proponent f gettin the Cessna. It would NEVER have happened without Danny's desire and approval. He also indicates hat the Diamond was sold and then (after the sale) the Cessna was leased by someone else. This would not e true. I personally used both of them for a long time. They were used simultaneously by Danny and 3ABN or a long period of time.

must admit that there are certain perks that a former executive at 3ABN cannot help but miss, especially in he context of being in a ministry where the top executives pay out to the ministries creditors, yet they ecieve no salaries, land transfers, or any other form of compensation.

Posted by: mikell Jun 13 2007, 02:25 AM

> QUOTE(beartrap @ Jun 13 2007, 01:22 AM) ☐
>
> No, it was not a Lear. 3ABN purchased a Mitsubishi Diamond Jet and used it for several years. For much of that time they also leased a Cessna Citation jet which was also used. After a time of having both jets, they sold the Diamond. The pilots told me that I was the last person to use the Diamond for 3ABN. The Cessna had a larger cabin, a bigger restroom, a longer range, and a better galley. I have used both jets, and found the Cessna to be much more comfortable than the Diamond. I am sure that gong back to commercial flights will be a devastating blow to those who enjoyed the convenience of a private jet for so long. Downgrading always has the effect of creating misery.
>
> "Steffan"(or the pesrson who he has virtually admitted to being) inffers that Linda was the biggest proponent of gettin the Cessna. It would NEVER have happened without Danny's desire and approval. He also indicates that the Diamond was sold and then (after the sale) the Cessna was leased by someone else. This would not be true. I personally used both of them for a long time. They were used simultaneously by Danny and 3ABN for a long period of time.
>
> I must admit that there are certain perks that a former executive at 3ABN cannot help but miss, especially in the context of being in a ministry where the top executives pay out to the ministries creditors, yet they recieve no salaries, land transfers, or any other form of compensation.

hank you for sharing. Then it would appear that Steppan is being disingenuous, and yet he has been calling ne and others, "liars" when it comes revealing ds's evils but all along appears it is he being one, which is sad. joked about calling him, a "Clinton spinner"--but lying is not a joke, it's sin. Got to be careful about humor.

eartrap, you are for sure in the know! Yes, very true the 3ABN executes will be going through a humongous ithdraw, and ds and others just might be tempted to do what Richard talk about, I guess we all are to stay une.....But, if DB of AF comes in, money will too -- Jet is coming back!

Posted by: Richard Sherwin Jun 13 2007, 05:07 AM

Thanks Beartrap for setting me straight on the jet type.

Richard

> QUOTE(beartrap @ Jun 13 2007, 02:22 AM)
>
> No, it was not a Lear. 3ABN purchased a Mitsubishi Diamond Jet and used it for several years. For much of that time they also leased a Cessna Citation jet which was also used. After a time of having both jets, they sold the Diamond. The pilots told me that I was the last person to use the Diamond for 3ABN. The Cessna had a larger cabin, a bigger restroom, a longer range, and a better galley. I have used both jets, and found the Cessna to be much more comfortable than the Diamond. I am sure that gong back to commercial flights will be a devastating blow to those who enjoyed the convenience of a private jet for so long. Downgrading always has the effect of creating misery.
>
> "Steffan"(or the pesrson who he has virtually admitted to being) inffers that Linda was the biggest proponent of gettin the Cessna. It would NEVER have happened without Danny's desire and approval. He also indicates that the Diamond was sold and then (after the sale) the Cessna was leased by someone else. This would not be true. I personally used both of them for a long time. They were used simultaneously by Danny and 3ABN for a long period of time.
>
> I must admit that there are certain perks that a former executive at 3ABN cannot help but miss, especially in the context of being in a ministry where the top executives pay out to the ministries creditors, yet they recieve no salaries, land transfers, or any other form of compensation.

Posted by: LaurenceD Jun 13 2007, 08:12 AM

The other day I attended a graduation ceremony at one of our institutions of higher learning. The students were brilliant and most graduated with honors and having devoted time in Chrisitan service. And this is one of the reasons why the SDA church, EGW, and our educators encourage education. This character steffan comes here essentially claiming he has special insight to the truth, but what good is it if you don't have the basic education to express yourself correctly?

Case in point: when steffan said...

> "FICTION--- 3abn Does Not have a Lear jet It is a 6 seat Cessna"

...what he actually was saying here is that 3abn has a Lear jet with 6 seats. If his point was that 3abn does not, he should have worded it this way: FICTION--- 3abn has a Lear jet It is a 6 seat Cessna

And when steffan said...

> "FICTION---3abn Does Not have 2 jets"

...what he was actually saying is that 3abn has 2 jets.

This is why it's important to have not only zealots spreading the message, but educated zealots...people who can do more than just horse around with the language.

> QUOTE(steffan (from another thread))
>
> More importantly, I feel that I should warn you about making false statements as facts. That is exactly what Pickle and Joy are doing
>
> ...
>
> If you are so "in the know" about things, Mikell, how could you get so many things wrong?
> Again, you need to watch making false statements especially when they can be proven to be false. THis is just a minute part of lies that are being told that can be and will be, proven false.

So if I say your threats have a hollow ring, and an emptiness to them, and that you apear to be a buffoon, would you start backpedalling like Bystander did with his comments on the lost court case, or threaten me too?

(guarantee steffan won't know what to do with this one...except that oft' repeated silence)

One more thing...I doubt if 3abn would give up the status symbol (plane) unless they were having financial difficulties

---

Posted by: runner4him Jun 13 2007, 09:01 AM

> QUOTE
>
> One more thing...I doubt if 3abn would give up the status symbol (plane) unless they were having financial difficulties

Anyone can imagine that the donations must be down...the crunch is on....the lawyers must cost lots and lots and lots so maybe the perks have to go. I say praise the Lord for less perks. Mingle with the common folks like Jesus did. He sure was not running around in a chariot.

The plane really bothered me....the donors in the dark.....the hurting victims...the lies...so much.

Posted by: mikell Jun 13 2007, 09:57 AM

> QUOTE(LaurenceD @ Jun 13 2007, 08:12 AM) ☐
>
> The other day I attended a graduation ceremony at one of our institutions of higher learning. The students were brilliant and most graduated with honors and having devoted time in Chrisitan service. And this is one of the reasons why the SDA church, EGW, and our educators encourage education. This character steffan comes here essentially claiming he has special insight to the truth, but what good is it if you don't have the basic education to express yourself correctly?
>
> Case in point: when steffan said...
>
> > "FICTION--- 3abn Does Not have a Lear jet It is a 6 seat Cessna"
>
> ...what he actually was saying here is that 3abn has a Lear jet with 6 seats. If his point was that 3abn does not, he should have worded it this way: FICTION--- 3abn has a Lear jet It is a 6 seat Cessna

> And when steffan said...
>
> "FICTION---3abn Does Not have 2 jets"
>
> ...what he was actually saying is that 3abn has 2 jets.
>
> This is why it's important to have not only zealots spreading the message, but educated zealots...people who can do more than just horse around with the language.
> So if I say your threats have a hollow ring, and an emptiness to them, and that you apear to be a buffoon, would you start backpedalling like Bystander did with his comments on the lost court case, or threaten me too?
>
> (guarantee steffan won't know what to do with this one...except that oft' repeated silence)
>
> One more thing...I doubt if 3abn would give up the status symbol (plane) unless they were having financial difficulties

aurenceD, first of all, I love the hat! What you wrote was GREAT! Steppan most likely an uneducated uffoon, but more then that, just not a nice person. Theats? Disingenuous? He sure needs our prayers. Your ight about 3ABN it has to be do to finacial difficulties for them to give up such a perk! I bet ds is calling db aily just to make sure he is coming, once he does -- good times again!

Posted by: LaurenceD Jun 13 2007, 12:31 PM

mikell, of course no one has said he's buffoon, but I did ask what he'd do if I said he appears to be one...like threaten me?

Posted by: jodi Jun 13 2007, 01:10 PM

[quote name='sdaguy' date='Jun 12 2007, 04:22 PM' post='199650']
I just got this email from Mollie Steenson:
"Mollie Steenson" <mollie.steenson@3abn.org>
[Add to Address Book]

To:<sdaguy@........net>
Subject:3ABN
Date:Tuesday, June 12, 2007 3:02:47 PM
[View Source]
Dear Mr....,

Thank you for your e-mail and inquiry concerning a plane, however, 3ABN doesn't own a plane.
If I may be of further assistance, please let me know.

Sincerely,
Mollie Steenson

3ABN GM

This is a good example of how Mollie and the rest of the staff at 3ABN can be "technically" right and totally deceiving!! And, sound so appeasing to us all. It makes me sick and disgusted to read such statements.

They seem to have forgotten that a very careful account of all their deeds and words are being recorded in Heaven and some day, they will give an accounting to God Himself.

Posted by: Pickle Jun 13 2007, 01:17 PM

Steffan,

6 seats? Really? And does that include the seats for the pilots?

Are you sure about the number of seats?

Posted by: sonshineonme Jun 13 2007, 01:17 PM

> QUOTE(beartrap @ Jun 13 2007, 12:22 AM)
>
> No, it was not a Lear. 3ABN purchased a Mitsubishi Diamond Jet and used it for several years. For much of that time they also leased a Cessna Citation jet which was also used. After a time of having both jets, they sold the Diamond. The pilots told me that I was the last person to use the Diamond for 3ABN. The Cessna had a larger cabin, a bigger restroom, a longer range, and a better galley. I have used both jets, and found the Cessna to be much more comfortable than the Diamond. I am sure that gong back to commercial flights will be a devastating blow to those who enjoyed the convenience of a private jet for so long. Downgrading always has the effect of creating misery.
> "Steffan"(or the pesrson who he has virtually admitted to being) inffers that Linda was the biggest proponent of gettin the Cessna. It would NEVER have happened without Danny's desire and approval. He also indicates that the Diamond was sold and then (after the sale) the Cessna was leased by someone else. This would not be true. I personally used both of them for a long time. They were used simultaneously by Danny and 3ABN for a long period of time.
>
> I must admit that there are certain perks that a former executive at 3ABN cannot help but miss, especially in the context of being in a ministry where the top executives pay out to the ministries creditors, yet they recieve no salaries, land transfers, or any other form of compensation.

So, from what Steffan has said in this post (from the "Looks like DS Already has his "reward"...)

> QUOTE(steffan @ Jun 12 2007, 12:12 PM)
>
> Mikell, My statements were fact, yours were not.
> Why did you keep referring to a "lear type jet" If you knew it wasn't. What could the motive be for you to do that?
> You quoted A today which is the biggest joke of all. The reason A today is not conference supported in any way is their lack of credibiltiy in proving what they print and better yet, the "way out" beliefs of some in charge there. So, you not only quoted a source that is not credible you failed to mention how old this article was. You never said that several years ago you read an article yada yada.. You stated that 3abn had 2 planes. Why? What is your motive for leaving out the relevant facts that change the whole story?
> On the other hand I left nothing out. I said they had a plane, got rid of it and someone leased another one for them. So they never owned 2 planes at once. Neither have they owned one since. Those are the facts. Why did you try to spin it any other way?
> I said Linda Pushed for the Plane. You call that an attack? A piece of advice. Read back through the posts made here at bsda against Danny and you will have your definition of attack. What I said doesn't qualify. Again just another example of how things have been twisted to paint a picture that is false and can be proven false.

So Steffan, would you follow up your facts with proof please?

Such as -

1. When did the first jet get sold? Get me copy of the bill of sale.

2. When did the second jet lease begin? Send me a copy of the lease.

3. What is the basis for the premise that Linda pushed for the new jet? What proof do you have that she pushed? Did she request add-ons? Can you identify anyone that would testify that Linda had anything to do with the selection of the new Jet, let alone push for it. Please have that party, no pseudonyms allowed, give me a statement that can be viewed and challenged.

If you are going to make statements such as these, proof is the only standard by which you can be credible. So, support your statements with the evidence to support them.

I'll be waiting.

Posted by: mikell Jun 13 2007, 02:49 PM

> QUOTE(LaurenceD @ Jun 13 2007, 12:31 PM)
>
> mikell, of course no one has said he's buffoon, but I did ask what he'd do if I said he appears to be one...like threaten me?

I STAND corrected.

> QUOTE(sonshineonme @ Jun 13 2007, 01:17 PM)
>
> So, from what Steffan has said in this post (from the "Looks like DS Already has his "reward"...)
>
> So Steffan, would you follow up your facts with proof please?
>
> Such as -
>
> 1. When did the first jet get sold? Get me copy of the bill of sale.
>
> 2. When did the second jet lease begin? Send me a copy of the lease.
>
> 3. What is the basis for the premise that Linda pushed for the new jet? What proof do you have that she pushed? Did she request add-ons? Can you identify anyone that would testify that Linda had anything to do with the selection of the new Jet, let alone push for it. Please have that party, no pseudonyms allowed, give me a statement that can be viewed and challenged.
>
> If you are going to make statements such as these, proof is the only standard by which you can be credible. So, support your statements with the evidence to support them.
>
> I'll be waiting.

SSOM, Good questions, I wouldn't hold my breath waiting for an answer

Posted by: ex3ABNemployee Jun 14 2007, 10:31 PM

> QUOTE(sdaguy @ Jun 12 2007, 03:22 PM)
>
> I just got this email from Mollie Steenson:
> "Mollie Steenson" <mollie.steenson@3abn.org>
> [Add to Address Book]
>
> To:<sdaguy@........net>
> Subject:3ABN
> Date:Tuesday, June 12, 2007 3:02:47 PM
> [View Source]
> Dear Mr....,
>
> Thank you for your e-mail and inquiry concerning a plane, however, 3ABN doesn't own a plane.
> If I may be of further assistance, please let me know.
>
> Sincerely,
> Mollie Steenson
>
> 3ABN GM
>
> Amazing all the talk about Ds and his plane, ha there is no plane!

Another merger?

Did anyone else catch what I highlited above? Has 3ABN merged with General Motors?

Posted by: Fran Jun 14 2007, 10:58 PM

> QUOTE(ex3ABNemployee @ Jun 14 2007, 10:31 PM)
>
> Another merger?
>
> Did anyone else catch what I highlited above? Has 3ABN merged with General Motors?

rofl That's better than Master Card! Priceless! tableta

Posted by: Panama_Pete Jun 14 2007, 11:01 PM

> QUOTE(ex3ABNemployee @ Jun 14 2007, 11:31 PM)
>
> Another merger?
>
> Did anyone else catch what I highlited above? Has 3ABN merged with General Motors?

Regarding: 3ABN GM

Doesn't it really mean 3ABN Garwin McNeilus?

Posted by: Fran Jun 15 2007, 12:17 AM

> QUOTE(Panama_Pete @ Jun 14 2007, 11:01 PM)
>
> Regarding: 3ABN GM
>
> Doesn't it really mean 3ABN Garwin McNeilus?

tableta Oops! Revised to read: notworkir multitasl blc giljoti

---

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Jun 15 2007, 06:39 AM

> QUOTE(ex3ABNemployee @ Jun 14 2007, 09:31 PM)
>
> Another merger?
>
> Did anyone else catch what I highlited above? Has 3ABN merged with General Motors?

Way to pay attention to details, Duane! I had missed the "GM". Wonder who it is actually referring to? General Motors, as you suggest? George Michael,(he's back in the news again, after all)? Garwin McNeilus, as Panama_Pete and Fran suggest?

Perhaps sdaguy could email Mollie again and get clarification

---

Posted by: Observer Jun 15 2007, 07:43 AM

> QUOTE(PeacefullyBewildered @ Jun 15 2007, 05:39 AM)
>
> Way to pay attention to details, Duane! I had missed the "GM". Wonder who it is actually referring to? General Motors, as you suggest? George Michael,(he's back in the news again, after all)? Garwin McNeilus, as Panama_Pete and Fran suggest?
>
> Perhaps sdaguy could email Mollie again and get clarification

I have another thought. Either she wanted you to know that she was the General Manager, of that she was now associatead with me.

Take your pick.

GM

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Jun 15 2007, 08:34 AM

> QUOTE(Observer @ Jun 15 2007, 06:43 AM)
>
> I have another thought. Either she wanted you to know that she was the General Manager, of that she was now associatead with me.
>
> Take your pick.
>
> GM

It must be the latter, Gregory! It would be far too mundane if it was the former, and blatantly obvious, choice. rofl

---

Posted by: Observer Jun 15 2007, 09:21 AM

> QUOTE(PeacefullyBewildered @ Jun 15 2007, 08:34 AM)
>
> It must be the latter, Gregory! It would be far too mundane if it was the former, and blatantly obvious, choice. rofl

I agree. But, that choice has major implications.

I am associated with Linda. I have not converted to the other side. So, is she erecting the "white flag" and telling us that she wants to come over to our side?

If she would do so, think of the intel. that she would bring with her. We could have major questions answered.

I wonder what she would want in return? Mayby simply a conversion has taken place. She wants to join the "small group" traveling to Zion!

Posted by: Fran Jun 15 2007, 09:36 AM

Maybe we should offer matching Blue Cadillacs in exchange for information? ☒

Maybe not; aren't they manufactured by "GM"? ☐ ☒ rofl ☒ rofl ☒ rofl

---

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Jun 15 2007, 02:54 PM

> QUOTE(Observer @ Jun 15 2007, 07:21 AM) ☐
>
> I agree. But, that choice has major implications.
>
> I am associated with Linda. I have not converted to the other side. So, is she erecting the "white flag" and telling us that she wants to come over to our side?
>
> If she would do so, think of the intel. that she would bring with her. We could have major questions answered.
>
> I wonder what she would want in return? Mayby simply a conversion has taken place. She wants to join the "small group" traveling to Zion!

I can picture a somewhat battle-weary strategist gazing out of the war-room window, wishing on the first evening star that Mollie would defect and bring all of her secrets to the little group.

Perhaps Calvin would let her be GM of the 3abn Forum to sweeten the deal!

Mollie, is that the Blue Fairy hovering outside your window, dear?

Did I just say that? It really must be Friday!

Posted by: mozart Jun 17 2007, 08:24 AM

hmm...appears to me that either mollie tossed this over to a grunt barking "tell them we don't own a plane" (can you picture it?) or else she never finished that correspondence course in business communications. what general manager signs a letter this way. shouldn't it read:

Mollie Steenson

General Manager, 3ABN

MS/"secretary"

Printable Version of Topic

Click here to view this topic in its original format

BlackSDA _ 3ABN _ Looks Like Ds Already Has His, "reward In Full!"

Posted by: mikell Jun 11 2007, 12:27 PM

Jesus said in Matthew 6:5:

"And when you pray, do not be like the hypocrites, for they love to pray standing in the synagogues and on the street corners to be seen by men. I tell you the truth, they have received their reward in full.

Notice, for those who love to receive great honor from others, to be the focus of "holy" admiration, almost and on to being a god among men, "In the synagogues or (being in front of cameras aired throughout the world over to be loved by the world)...I tell the truth, they have received their reward in full—" Jesus.

We, who are concern how ds arrogance is so blatant to the point from his lying against his wife, Linda about committing adultery to marry another; unto other abuses unto seeking reverence from others by setting himself up above all the SDA leaders. (Not even the GC President has his own private Lear Jet type of plane at his beckon call, like it is with ds to fly around the world with, so when he lands the red carpet of admiration is rolled out before him). Therefore, of course ds sees himself to be greater than all. Something like as a pope of Adventism, for seeing himself as the face of the Adventist Church itself!

However, you and I must keep the words of Jesus in our minds constantly, "I tell you the truth, they (ds and his cronies who worship him) have (already have) received their reward in full!" What ds has now, that is it! His reward is in full! It is very sad. Pity him. He is likening to Esau who traded off his birthright just for a cup of soup, ds traded his off his birthright for heaven for a cup of earthly glory, is that worth it? We should not fret over ds's abuses of evil unto trying to be a god among us Adventists, for he already have their reward.

Yes, it is good to warn others the evil ds is doing, for Paul in II Tim. 4:14 warned the rest of the Christians in his day about "Alexander, the coppersmith being evil." Yes, we need to warn the Christian Adventists of ds's evil, as well. However, do keep in mind; even if his evil continues for the rest of his life, it is all what he has now. For he already has his "reward in full!'

PS, anyone has done you personal harm, in stealing from you, conning you out of all of your savings, beating you and even been molested or assaulted. do not forget, that as ds has already his reward in full so do the rest of them in the world - all who have hurt you, as well!" Comfort yourself with those words of Jesus - they already have their "reward in full."

According to Malachi 4:1-3, the day for you will come that when you live on forever your feet will trampling down the dust of those who have hurt you, forever and ever in the New World to come. You and I will forget all those who have hurt us so hard so deep, but be of good cheer, for our Lord Jesus has overcome the world. He will not forsake us, and Jesus will fulfill all of His promises. He is coming soon and all this will be forgotten, forever! Be of good cheer,

---

Posted by: Artiste Jun 11 2007, 03:02 PM

> QUOTE(mikell @ Jun 11 2007, 10:27 AM)
>
> Jesus said in Matthew 6:5:
>
> "And when you pray, do not be like the hypocrites, for they love to pray standing in the synagogues and on the street corners to be seen by men. I tell you the truth, they have received their reward in full.

> Notice, for those who love to receive great honor from others, to be the focus of "holy" admiration, almost and on to being a god among men, "In the synagogues or (being in front of cameras aired throughout the world over to be loved by the world)...I tell the truth, they have received their reward in full—" Jesus.
>
> We, who are concern how ds arrogance is so blatant to the point from his lying against his wife, Linda about committing adultery to marry another; unto other abuses unto seeking reverence from others by setting himself up above all the SDA leaders. (Not even the GC President has his own private Lear Jet type of plane at his beckon call, like it is with ds to fly around the world with, so when he lands the red carpet of admiration is rolled out before him). Therefore, of course ds sees himself to be greater than all. Something like as a pope of Adventism, for seeing himself as the face of the Adventist Church itself!
>
> However, you and I must keep the words of Jesus in our minds constantly, "I tell you the truth, they (ds and his cronies who worship him) have (already have) received their reward in full!" What ds has now, that is it! His reward is in full! It is very sad. Pity him. He is likening to Esau who traded off his birthright just for a cup of soup, ds traded his off his birthright for heaven for a cup of earthly glory, is that worth it? We should not fret over ds's abuses of evil unto trying to be a god among us Adventists, for he already have their reward.
>
> Yes, it is good to warn others the evil ds is doing, for Paul in II Tim. 4:14 warned the rest of the Christians in his day about "Alexander, the coppersmith being evil." Yes, we need to warn the Christian Adventists of ds's evil, as well. However, do keep in mind; even if his evil continues for the rest of his life, it is all what he has now. For he already has his "reward in full!'
>
> PS, anyone has done you personal harm, in stealing from you, conning you out of all of your savings, beating you and even been molested or assaulted. do not forget, that as ds has already his reward in full so do the rest of them in the world - all who have hurt you, as well!" Comfort yourself with those words of Jesus - they already have their "reward in full."
>
> According to Malachi 4:1-3, the day for you will come that when you live on forever your feet will trampling down the dust of those who have hurt you, forever and ever in the New World to come. You and I will forget all those who have hurt us so hard so deep, but be of good cheer, for our Lord Jesus has overcome the world. He will not forsake us, and Jesus will fulfill all of His promises. He is coming soon and all this will be forgotten, forever! Be of good cheer,

Nice thoughts, thank you, mikell!

Posted by: calvin Jun 11 2007, 03:47 PM

DS does not try to hide the fact that he has a corporate jet. My mother told me at he addressed the question publicly at his campmeeting last year. He explained it as a needed service because of his busy travel schedule.

He can have all the jets he wants because I am not paying for it, as far as I am concerned. If the donators don't have a problem with it, then why should I or anybody else who don't make any financial contribution to this ministry?

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Jun 11 2007, 03:50 PM

> QUOTE(calvin @ Jun 11 2007, 02:47 PM)
>
> DS does not try to hide the fact that he has a corporate jet. My mother told me at he addressed the question publicly at his campmeeting last year. He explained it as a needed service because of his busy travel schedule.

> He can have all the jets he wants because I am not paying for it, as far as I am concerned. If the donators don't have a problem with it, then why should I or anybody else who don't make any financial contribution to this ministry?

alvin,

'm very glad to hear that DS is telling his audience that he has the jet. That is being open. That is progress!

Posted by: mikell Jun 11 2007, 05:31 PM

> QUOTE(calvin @ Jun 11 2007, 03:47 PM)
>
> DS does not try to hide the fact that he has a corporate jet. My mother told me at he addressed the question publicly at his campmeeting last year. He explained it as a needed service because of his busy travel schedule.
>
> He can have all the jets he wants because I am not paying for it, as far as I am concerned. If the donators don't have a problem with it, then why should I or anybody else who don't make any financial contribution to this ministry?

am too, very happy to hear ds does not hide the fact he has a Lear Jet type plane, but Calvin that was not ny point. The point I was making, since ds does have one, it seems that adds to his status in his own mind eing the number one in our Adventist Church, even above leaders in the GC, since they even do not have ne. Of course, it is just speculation on my part, and I could be 100% mistaken. However, seeing how ds elieves that he is the one and only the, "Face of Adventism," I think my original thesis is correct.

said nothing about him hiding the fact he has one, in fact did you know ds has two cooperate jets?

a, one would think at least ds could share one of his Lear Jets with the GC! Or just maybe ds is so important f a man, number one in our church to go places so just in case one jet breaks down, at least he has a back p jet so he still can fly where ever the important place ds must get to! Just think of it. If ds did not make it, ur Seventh day Adventist church will just fall apart! Yes, I really understand now why ds must have two jets!

re you trying to say when you wrote, why ds needs his Lear Jet type plane in that he, "Explained it as a eeded service because of his busy travel schedule," the need is only exclusive to him? What about the GC eaders, don't you think they too are in the, "Needed service because of [their] busy travel schedule?" One ould think, if the GC leaders fly commercial in hassling driving to the airport two hours before their flights, hy ds couldn't do that also? Oh, I just had a V8 moment!

just keep forgetting that ds is the true face of Adventism and it is below him to hassle the driving to a ommercial airport two hours before flights. Such an important man just can't wait, like all the GC leaders are oing all the time. Duh, you could say I am just a slow learner.

Posted by: Richard Sherwin Jun 11 2007, 07:13 PM

According to his chairman of the board, Walt Thompson, they have canceled the lease on the jet, even thought it is a blow to the ministry. I feel so awful that they have to give up that 6 million dollar plane.

Richard

Posted by: mikell Jun 11 2007, 07:16 PM

> QUOTE(Richard Sherwin @ Jun 11 2007, 07:13 PM)
>
> According to his chairman of the board, Walt Thompson, they have canceled the lease on the jet, even thought it is a blow to the ministry. I feel so awful that they have to give up that 6 million dollar plane.
>
> Richard

Love the sarcasm,

Posted by: Artiste Jun 11 2007, 07:18 PM

> QUOTE(Richard Sherwin @ Jun 11 2007, 05:13 PM)
>
> According to his chairman of the board, Walt Thompson, they have canceled the lease on the jet, even thought it is a blow to the ministry. I feel so awful that they have to give up that 6 million dollar plane.
>
> Richard

I have to wonder if the GC, Amazing Facts, and ASI feel that Walt Thompson and the board are sufficiently taking care of matters at 3ABN by removing some of DS' perks.

It seems to me that the problems at 3ABN go much deeper than that.

****

Posted by: Richard Sherwin Jun 11 2007, 07:46 PM

Too bad they had to feel the heat from places like BSDA to get the message. They are several years behind the ball on this one IMO.

Richard

> QUOTE(Artiste @ Jun 11 2007, 09:18 PM)
>
> I have to wonder if the GC, Amazing Facts, and ASI feel that Walt Thompson and the board are sufficiently taking care of matters at 3ABN by removing some of DS' perks.
>
> It seems to me that the problems at 3ABN go much deeper than that.
>
> **

Posted by: Rosyroi Jun 11 2007, 08:33 PM

> QUOTE(Richard Sherwin @ Jun 11 2007, 05:46 PM)
>
> Too bad they had to feel the heat from places like BSDA to get the message. They are several years behind the ball on this one IMO.
>
> Richard

AMEN

That is one down... more to come... Thank you 3ABN for going in the right direction.

Rosyroi

Posted by: Voktar of Zargon Jun 11 2007, 08:36 PM

> QUOTE(Artiste @ Jun 11 2007, 08:18 PM)
>
> I have to wonder if the GC, Amazing Facts, and ASI feel that Walt Thompson and the board are sufficiently taking care of matters at 3ABN by removing some of DS' perks.
>
> It seems to me that the problems at 3ABN go much deeper than that.
>
> **

There's a new book out that chronicles the revolution in corporate America called "Revolt in the Boardroom" by Wall Street Journal Columnist Alan Murray. Here is part of a book review:

"Throughout the 20th century, American corporations were governed by autocratic, almost unaccountable chief executives. Their word was law and the only check on their power was a board of directors composed of their friends and allies.

Then, in a stunning reversal, a momentous series of firings deposed the heads of some of the world's best-known companies: AIG, Morgan Stanley, Boeing, Hewlett-Packard and Pfizer, just to name a few. Formerly unchallenged CEOs found themselves under fire, often from their own handpicked boards. The number of deposed executives is astonishing. In 2004, the leaders of 600 companies were asked to leave. That number more than doubled in 2005 and reached 1,400 companies in 2006.

Flexing new muscles, directors are assuming new and unfamiliar responsibilities. In Revolt in the Boardroom, Alan Murray reveals the inner workings of the new seat of power. "

If the board of directors of 3ABN would "sufficiently take care of matters," they would depose Danny Shelton from his autocratic seat of power (that he should have stepped down from voluntarily long ago). One of the main reasons that 21st century corporation boards took such matters into their own hands is because they suddenly found themselves liable for the CEO's abuses. Perhaps the 3ABN board will finally wake up and realize they are also spiritually liable.

Posted by: Richard Sherwin Jun 11 2007, 09:19 PM

Good post. Something to chew on.

> QUOTE(Voktar of Zargon @ Jun 11 2007, 09:36 PM)
>
> There's a new book out that chronicles the revolution in corporate America called "Revolt in the Boardroom" by Wall Street Journal Columnist Alan Murray. Here is part of a book review:
>
> "Throughout the 20th century, American corporations were governed by autocratic, almost unaccountable chief executives. Their word was law and the only check on their power was a board of directors composed of their friends and allies.
>
> Then, in a stunning reversal, a momentous series of firings deposed the heads of some of the world's best-known companies: AIG, Morgan Stanley, Boeing, Hewlett-Packard and Pfizer, just to name a few. Formerly unchallenged CEOs found themselves under fire, often from their own handpicked boards. The number of deposed executives is astonishing. In 2004, the leaders of 600 companies were asked to leave. That number more than doubled in 2005 and reached 1,400 companies in 2006.
>
> Flexing new muscles, directors are assuming new and unfamiliar responsibilities. In Revolt in the Boardroom, Alan Murray reveals the inner workings of the new seat of power. "
>
> If the board of directors of 3ABN would "sufficiently take care of matters," they would depose Danny Shelton from his autocratic seat of power (that he should have stepped down from voluntarily long ago). One of the main reasons that 21st century corporation boards took such matters into their own hands is because they suddenly found themselves liable for the CEO's abuses. Perhaps the 3ABN board will finally wake up and realize they are also spiritually liable.

Posted by: mikell Jun 11 2007, 09:48 PM

> QUOTE(Voktar of Zargon @ Jun 11 2007, 08:36 PM)

> There's a new book out that chronicles the revolution in corporate America called "Revolt in the Boardroom" by Wall Street Journal Columnist Alan Murray. Here is part of a book review:
>
> "Throughout the 20th century, American corporations were governed by autocratic, almost unaccountable chief executives. Their word was law and the only check on their power was a board of directors composed of their friends and allies.
>
> Then, in a stunning reversal, a momentous series of firings deposed the heads of some of the world's best-known companies: AIG, Morgan Stanley, Boeing, Hewlett-Packard and Pfizer, just to name a few. Formerly unchallenged CEOs found themselves under fire, often from their own handpicked boards. The number of deposed executives is astonishing. In 2004, the leaders of 600 companies were asked to leave. That number more than doubled in 2005 and reached 1,400 companies in 2006.
>
> Flexing new muscles, directors are assuming new and unfamiliar responsibilities. In Revolt in the Boardroom, Alan Murray reveals the inner workings of the new seat of power. "
>
> If the board of directors of 3ABN would "sufficiently take care of matters," they would depose Danny Shelton from his autocratic seat of power (that he should have stepped down from voluntarily long ago). One of the main reasons that 21st century corporation boards took such matters into their own hands is because they suddenly found themselves liable for the CEO's abuses. Perhaps the 3ABN board will finally wake up and realize they are also spiritually liable.

Voktar, what you shared here is brilliant. Every 3abn board member should read this. I just wish I had all of their emails. Does not this go back to, "Be not deceived; God is not mocked: for whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap?".

Posted by: Artiste Jun 11 2007, 09:53 PM

> QUOTE(Voktar of Zargon @ Jun 11 2007, 06:36 PM)
>
> If the board of directors of 3ABN would "sufficiently take care of matters," they would depose Danny Shelton from his autocratic seat of power (that he should have stepped down from voluntarily long ago). One of the main reasons that 21st century corporation boards took such matters into their own hands is because they suddenly found themselves liable for the CEO's abuses. Perhaps the 3ABN board will finally wake up and realize they are also spiritually liable.

So true!

And that was a very interesting review! I wonder if the liability of the 3ABN board might include any temporal factors in addition to the spiritual, in this age of lawsuits.

****

Posted by: steffan Jun 12 2007, 12:02 AM

> QUOTE(mikell @ Jun 11 2007, 06:31 PM)
>
> I am too, very happy to hear ds does not hide the fact he has a Lear Jet type plane, but Calvin that was not my point. The point I was making, since ds does have one, it seems that adds to his status in his own mind being the number one in our Adventist Church, even above leaders in the GC, since they even do not have one. Of course, it is just speculation on my part, and I could be 100% mistaken. However, seeing how ds believes that he is the one and only the, "Face of Adventism," I think my original thesis is correct.
>
> I said nothing about him hiding the fact he has one, in fact did you know ds has two cooperate jets?

I have never heard Danny refer to himself as the face of Adventism. In fact, I have never heard anyone close to him say that he was. If someone, somewhere, said that at sometime, why should you put the blame on him.
More importantly, I feel that I should warn you about making false statements as facts. That is exactly what Pickle and Joy are doing.
FICTION--- 3abn Does Not have a Lear jet It is a 6 seat Cessna
FICTION---3abn Does Not have 2 jets. several years ago they used a 6 seater that they weren't happy with. They got rid of that one and someone leased the present plane for them.
FICTION--- How can the cost of the plane be 6 million when it was only on lease and never purchased?
If you are so "in the know" about things, Mikell, how could you get so many things wrong?
Again, you need to watch making false statements especially when they can be proven to be false. THis is just a minute part of lies that are being told that can be and will be, proven false.

Posted by: steffan Jun 12 2007, 12:22 AM

> QUOTE(PeacefullyBewildered @ Jun 11 2007, 04:50 PM)
>
> Calvin,
>
> I'm very glad to hear that DS is telling his audience that he has the jet. That is being open. That is progress!

I was at a meeting years ago when he told they had one. He has always been honest about it.In fact, Linda was the biggest "pusher" for getting it.

> QUOTE(Voktar of Zargon @ Jun 11 2007, 09:36 PM)
>
> If the board of directors of 3ABN would "sufficiently take care of matters," they would depose Danny Shelton from his autocratic seat of power (that he should have stepped down from voluntarily long ago). One of the main reasons that 21st century corporation boards took such matters into their own hands is because they suddenly found themselves liable for the CEO's abuses. Perhaps the 3ABN board will finally wake up and realize they are also spiritually liable.

I have one question for you. Do you know Danny shelton on a personal basis? Have you spent time around 3abn or with any of the board members? Have you ever been on any of their meetings, discussions or prayer sessions? Have you seen any of the accusations made with your own eyes and do you realize that absolutely none of the allegations against Danny that have been made for the last 3 years have been proven?
If you answer no to any of these questions how could you possibly make the statments you just made above? Let me guess. You come to these conclusions because of what you read and what you have been told. Off of that alone, you have judged and convicted. Sad. Not biblical, not christian. Didn't you say somewhere that you are a pastor? Shocking.

Posted by: Richard Sherwin Jun 12 2007, 05:12 AM

You are trying to trip people up with technicalities.

You are right it's not a Lear, but it's not just a 6 seat Cessna. It's Cessna rival to a Lear, it's still a luxury jet . They are both a very expensive toy.

They at one time owned one jet and leased another.

The plane cost 6 million to someone. When you are leasing it at 40 grand per month, sans pilots, fuel, insurance etc, you are still paying for it just as if you owned it.

You are being deceptive and around here that don't work.

But in any case 3abn has felt the heat and are canceling the lease. We'll see how long it takes before they get another, or maybe they will just lease a jet on a trip by trip basis, adding more costs to their trips but being better able to conceal their misuse of donor funds.

Richard

> QUOTE(steffan @ Jun 12 2007, 02:02 AM)
>
> I have never heard Danny refer to himself as the face of Adventism. In fact, I have never heard anyone close to him say that he was. If someone, somewhere, said that at sometime, why should you put the blame on him.
> More importantly, I feel that I should warn you about making false statements as facts. That is exactly what Pickle and Joy are doing.
> FICTION--- 3abn Does Not have a Lear jet It is a 6 seat Cessna
> FICTION---3abn Does Not have 2 jets. several years ago they used a 6 seater that they weren't happy with. They got rid of that one and someone leased the present plane for them.
> FICTION--- How can the cost of the plane be 6 million when it was only on lease and never purchased?
> If you are so "in the know" about things, Mikell, how could you get so many things wrong?
> Again, you need to watch making false statements especially when they can be proven to be false. THis is just a minute part of lies that are being told that can be and will be, proven false.

Posted by: lurker Jun 12 2007, 06:31 AM

> QUOTE(Richard Sherwin @ Jun 11 2007, 07:13 PM)
>
> According to his chairman of the board, Walt Thompson, they have canceled the lease on the jet, even thought it is a blow to the ministry. I feel so awful that they have to give up that 6 million dollar plane.
>
> Richard

So that means that two pilots will be out of work? Wonder if they would like to write a book?

Posted by: Voktar of Zargon Jun 12 2007, 07:06 AM

> QUOTE(steffan @ Jun 12 2007, 02:22 AM)
>
> I have one question for you. Do you know Danny shelton on a personal basis? Have you spent time around 3abn or with any of the board members? Have you ever been on any of their meetings, discussions or prayer sessions? Have you seen any of the accusations made with your own eyes and do you realize that absolutely none of the allegations against Danny that have been made for the last 3 years have been proven?
> If you answer no to any of these questions how could you possibly make the statments you just made above? Let me guess. You come to these conclusions because of what you read and what you have been told. Off of that alone, you have judged and convicted. Sad. Not biblical, not christian. Didn't you say somewhere that you are a pastor? Shocking.

Even if Danny is innocent of all the charges against him he should have stepped down to avoid the appearance of evil. The appearance of evil is so great it has sparked off a firestorm of controversy. This cannot be denied. There was a time when he could have (and should have) prevented this. Not only did he not prevent it, he has with impunity used 3ABN as a forum to try and vindicate himself in the public eye. A very innapropriate use for a gospel minsitry. This fact alone is one of the strongest indicators that there is indeed fire behind the smoke and that the "feeding frenzy" is not over a dead chimera.
What is shocking is that Danny continues to hold any kind of leadership position in this church.
What is unchristian and unbiblical is divorcing your wife and remarrying on grounds of "spiritual adultery" in a hasty way, through questionable means (Guam?) - and all before the world. What is even more shocking is the use of an "Adventist" ministry to praise in the highest of terms a man who is under the shadow of multiple accusations of sexual abuse. And, to likewise use such a ministry to respond to sexual accusations against yourself, with grandiose Biblical metaphors and backhanded condemnatory preaching.

Voktar

Posted by: Observer Jun 12 2007, 07:40 AM

> QUOTE(steffan @ Jun 12 2007, 12:22 AM)
>
> I was at a meeting years ago when he told they had one. He has always been honest about it.In fact, Linda was the biggest "pusher" for getting it.

NOTE: The above refers to the jet airplane.

I do not know who initiated the discussion that let to obtaining the services of the jets. It may not have been Linda.

Yes, I suspect that Linda agreed to such.

It may be that your comment that implies that Linda pushed for it more than Danny is one of your overstatements? I simply do not know.

I do know this:

Over the past several years Linda Shelton has gone through some very severe trials. These have served to refine and to shape her. She is no longer the neive person whom she once was. She has learned that a person whom she once loved did not always return that same love to her. She has learned that a person whom she once trusted to make decisions made some decisions that have hurt her. She has learned that people she once trusted made inappropriate decisions at times. I could go on at some length.

Out of this she is in some respects a different person from what she once was. She now has a better appreciation for the sacrificial gifts that so many people have made to 3-ABN. That comes from her recent life experiences. Out of this, I will suggest that if Linda were to be asked today if she as a 3-ABN Vice-President would like to have the use of a corporate jet her response would be: Thank you for your offer. That is not where your generous gift can do the most good. Allow us use those funds in another way. I can fly commercial for much less, and the savings can do more good elsewhere.

Perhaps the Lord has allowed Linda to go through some of these trials for a reason--to deal with issues that she needed to face. O.K. Linda is dealing with them. She is a changed person, and a person who is changing.

The question now is: Are there others who need to change? Perhaps God is bringing upon them trials in an attempt to change them? If, so, are they changing, and/or will they change? I do not know. But, if God is allowing them to be tried to refine their character, any resistance on their part will only subject them to the continued refining process.

NOTE: I who defend Linda have never presented her as a perfect person. I will not attempt to defend every action/decision of hers in the past. But, I do claim that she is not person whom her detractors often present her as being. I do claim that she is learning from these trials, and growing.

Posted by: mikell Jun 12 2007, 12:11 PM

Steppan, sounds like you are a great dancer, have you ever heard of the Clinton spin dance? Wow, you are very good at it, in spinning all what you don't like what is on BSDA into what you do like. Very good, I have not seen anyone to have done it as good as you have. You have such a frenzy about what is your postings to all of us in BSDA, hay Steppan a suggesting, I think you need to cut back on your coffee. Try de-café, which are getting better tasting all the time.

Posted by: steffan Jun 12 2007, 01:12 PM

> QUOTE(mikell @ Jun 12 2007, 01:11 PM)

Mikell, My statements were fact, yours were not.
Why did you keep referring to a "lear type jet" If you knew it wasn't. What could the motive be for you to do that?
You quoted A today which is the biggest joke of all. The reason A today is not conference supported in any way is their lack of credibiltiy in proving what they print and better yet, the "way out" beliefs of some in charge there. So, you not only quoted a source that is not credible you failed to mention how old this article was. You never said that several years ago you read an article yada yada.. You stated that 3abn had 2 planes. Why? What is your motive for leaving out the relevant facts that change the whole story?
On the other hand I left nothing out. I said they had a plane, got rid of it and someone leased another one for them. So they never owned 2 planes at once. Neither have they owned one since. Those are the facts. Why did you try to spin it any other way?
I said Linda Pushed for the Plane. You call that an attack? A piece of advice. Read back through the posts made here at bsda against Danny and you will have your definition of attack. What I said doesn't qualify. Again just another example of how things have been twisted to paint a picture that is false and can be proven false.

Posted by: gracetoyou Jun 12 2007, 01:28 PM

The following is from a letter received today from the Hope Channel:

"We feel your support of this ministry is a sacred trust. In the spirit of honoring this, we want you to know how your gifts are used.

First, let me tell you how donations are not used. Your gifts don't go to cover our salaries. Neither does it pay for large, fancy offices or extravagance of any kind.

While God has blessed us with a powerful ministry, it is performed through humble means. Our staff work in small office cubicles and economize in every way imaginable. And as the official television network of the Adventist denomination, you can rest assured that we operate according to church policy and are accountable to church and lay leadership.

So just how are your gifts utilized? They are immediately put into service providing truth-filled messages 24-hours-a-day...."

It appears that Hope Channel is making an effort to point out the contrast between their use of donors' money and that of other (including 3ABN perhaps?) channels' misuse of contributions.

Posted by: mikell Jun 12 2007, 01:34 PM

> QUOTE(steffan @ Jun 12 2007, 01:12 PM)
>
> Mikell, My statements were fact, yours were not.
> Why did you keep referring to a "lear type jet" If you knew it wasn't. What could the motive be for you to > do that?

> You quoted A today which is the biggest joke of all. The reason A today is not conference supported in any way is their lack of credibiltiy in proving what they print and better yet, the "way out" beliefs of some in charge there. So, you not only quoted a source that is not credible you failed to mention how old this article was. You never said that several years ago you read an article yada yada.. You stated that 3abn had 2 planes. Why? What is your motive for leaving out the relevant facts that change the whole story?
> On the other hand I left nothing out. I said they had a plane, got rid of it and someone leased another one for them. So they never owned 2 planes at once. Neither have they owned one since. Those are the facts. Why did you try to spin it any other way?
> I said Linda Pushed for the Plane. You call that an attack? A piece of advice. Read back through the posts made here at bsda against Danny and you will have your definition of attack. What I said doesn't qualify. Again just another example of how things have been twisted to paint a picture that is false and can be proven false.

Steppan, all of us can really see you sure have the Clinton spin dance down pretty good, Please, you eally need to start drinking de-cafe! it really does taste good,

---

Posted by: awesumtenor Jun 12 2007, 04:33 PM

> QUOTE(mikell @ Jun 12 2007, 03:34 PM)
>
> Steppan, all of us can really see you sure have the Clinton spin dance down pretty good, Please, you really need to start drinking de-cafe! it really does taste good,

He doesn't have the Clinton spin dance down; this kind of myopia can only come from Neo-Cons... this is the 3D two step, courtesy dubya, don and dick...

n His service,
Mr. J

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Jun 12 2007, 04:48 PM

> QUOTE(awesumtenor @ Jun 12 2007, 03:33 PM)
>
> He doesn't have the Clinton spin dance down; this kind of myopia can only come from Neo-Cons... this is the 3D two step, courtesy dubya, don and dick...
>
> In His service,
> Mr. J

Mr. J,

At the risk of inciting political firestorms -

Thank you!

PB

Posted by: Pickle Jun 12 2007, 04:50 PM

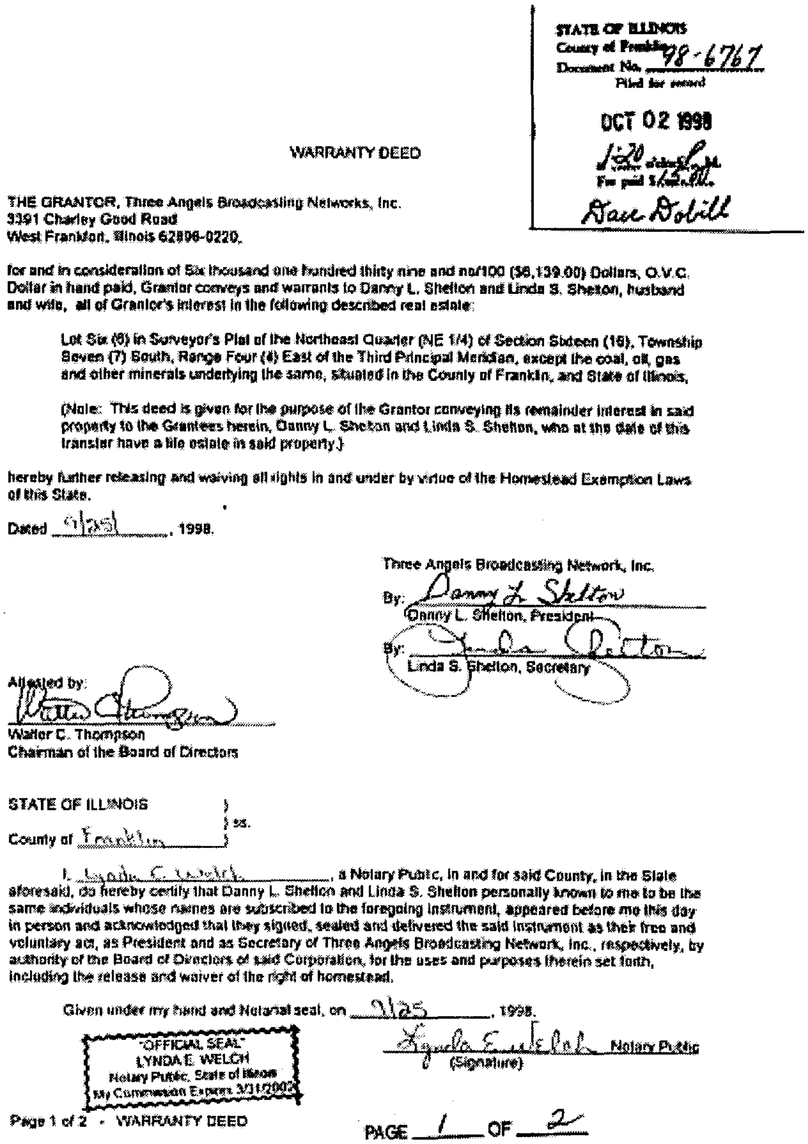
Steffan,

Maybe you can help me on a few items.

I just heard that the number of underage victims from Virginia has gone from 1 to 3, and I've finally gotten a name of one of those and have some correspondence from him. Do Tommy and Danny have any plans for trying to make things right before the child molestation part of the scandal grows any bigger? Especially since, I believe, Virginia doesn't have a statute of limitations for things like this?

Secondly, from what I can tell, back in 1998 Danny and Linda got a piece of property from 3ABN for $6,139 O.V.C., and then sold it one week later to Elora Ford for $135,000. A church official said that a non-profit that gave away property for less than fair market value could lose its tax exempt status retroactively, how far back wasn't known. Do you know anything about this transaction that would make it appear all right to the IRS?

Copies of the original documents can be seen at http://www.save3abn.com/danny-shelton-real-estate-shenanigans-1.htm The transaction that is possibly really problematic is the following:



STATE OF ILLINOIS
County of Franklin
Document No. 98-6767
Filed for record

OCT 02 1998

1:20 o'clock P.M.
Fee paid $[illegible]
Dave Dobill

WARRANTY DEED

THE GRANTOR, Three Angels Broadcasting Networks, Inc.
3391 Charley Good Road
West Frankfort, Illinois 62896-0220,

for and in consideration of Six thousand one hundred thirty nine and no/100 ($6,139.00) Dollars, O.V.C. Dollar in hand paid, Grantor conveys and warrants to Danny L. Shelton and Linda S. Sheton, husband and wife, all of Grantor's interest in the following described real estate:

> Lot Six (6) in Surveyor's Plat of the Northeast Quarter (NE 1/4) of Section Sixteen (16), Township Seven (7) South, Range Four (4) East of the Third Principal Meridian, except the coal, oil, gas and other minerals underlying the same, situated in the County of Franklin, and State of Illinois,
>
> (Note: This deed is given for the purpose of the Grantor conveying its remainder interest in said property to the Grantees herein, Danny L. Shelton and Linda S. Shelton, who at the date of this transfer have a life estate in said property.)

hereby further releasing and waiving all rights in and under by virtue of the Homestead Exemption Laws of this State.

Dated 9/25, 1998.

Three Angels Broadcasting Network, Inc.

By: Danny L. Shelton
Danny L. Shelton, President

By:
Linda S. Shelton, Secretary

Attested by:
Walter C. Thompson
Chairman of the Board of Directors

STATE OF ILLINOIS)
) ss.
County of Franklin)

I, Lynda E. Welch, a Notary Public, in and for said County, in the State aforesaid, do hereby certify that Danny L. Shelton and Linda S. Shelton personally known to me to be the same individuals whose names are subscribed to the foregoing instrument, appeared before me this day in person and acknowledged that they signed, sealed and delivered the said instrument as their free and voluntary act, as President and as Secretary of Three Angels Broadcasting Network, Inc., respectively, by authority of the Board of Directors of said Corporation, for the uses and purposes therein set forth, including the release and waiver of the right of homestead.

Given under my hand and Notarial seal, on 9/25, 1998.

"OFFICIAL SEAL"
LYNDA E. WELCH
Notary Public, State of Illinois
My Commission Expires 3/31/2002

Lynda E. Welch Notary Public
(Signature)

Page 1 of 2 - WARRANTY DEED

PAGE 1 OF 2

I have a feeling that if it all got reported correctly on W-2's, Form 990's, and Form 1040's, everything is fine.

Posted by: Snoopy Jun 12 2007, 04:50 PM

> QUOTE(awesumtenor @ Jun 12 2007, 04:33 PM) ☐
>
> He doesn't have the Clinton spin dance down; this kind of myopia can only come from Neo-Cons... this is the 3D two step, courtesy dubya, don and dick...
>
> In His service,
> Mr. J

Very Well Said Mr. J!!!! ....

~~Snoopy~~

Posted by: princessdi Jun 12 2007, 05:08 PM

And your authority is........? I ask because there is an email that reads as if you should not be posting anything about 3ABN. Even though WT didn't say there was no relatinship just that you have no authority to speak in behalf of Danny or 3ABN. So, now can you answer those same question you posed to VOZ , as it appears that your own crediblity is in question.

> QUOTE
>
> I have one question for you. Do you know Danny shelton on a personal basis? Have you spent time around 3abn or with any of the board members? Have you ever been on any of their meetings, discussions or prayer sessions? Have you seen any of the accusations made with your own eyes and do you realize that absolutely none of the allegations against Danny that have been made for the last 3 years have been proven?
> If you answer no to any of these questions how could you possibly make the statments you just made above? Let me guess. You come to these conclusions because of what you read and what you have been told. Off of that alone, you have judged and convicted. Sad. Not biblical, not christian. Didn't you say somewhere that you are a pastor? Shocking.

...and you are still posting? Ok so I think you would probably want to http://www.blacksda.com/forums/index.php?showtopic=13784&st=30 and answer that email before you continue to post.

> QUOTE(steffan @ Jun 12 2007, 12:12 PM)
>
> Mikell, My statements were fact, yours were not.
> Why did you keep referring to a "lear type jet" If you knew it wasn't. What could the motive be for you to do that?
> You quoted A today which is the biggest joke of all. The reason A today is not conference supported in any way is their lack of credibiltiy in proving what they print and better yet, the "way out" beliefs of some in charge there. So, you not only quoted a source that is not credible you failed to mention how old this article was. You never said that several years ago you read an article yada yada.. You stated that 3abn had 2 planes. Why? What is your motive for leaving out the relevant facts that change the whole story?
> On the other hand I left nothing out. I said they had a plane, got rid of it and someone leased another one for them. So they never owned 2 planes at once. Neither have they owned one since. Those are the facts. Why did you try to spin it any other way?
> I said Linda Pushed for the Plane. You call that an attack? A piece of advice. Read back through the posts made here at bsda against Danny and you will have your definition of attack. What I said doesn't qualify. Again just another example of how things have been twisted to paint a picture that is false and can be proven false.

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Jun 12 2007, 05:17 PM

Di,

I've been wondering when steffan would comment on the email from Walt Thompson. He has certainly commented on a lot of other items but has avoided that one.

Perhaps he just missed it.

Posted by: Johann Jun 12 2007, 05:20 PM

> QUOTE(steffan @ Jun 12 2007, 08:22 AM)
>
> I was at a meeting years ago when he told they had one. He has always been honest about it.In fact, Linda was the biggest "pusher" for getting it.

Can you document this, Steffan?

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Jun 12 2007, 05:30 PM

> QUOTE(Pickle @ Jun 12 2007, 03:50 PM)
>
> Steffan,
>
> Maybe you can help me on a few items.
>
> I just heard that the number of underage victims from Virginia has gone from 1 to 3, and I've finally gotten a name of one of those and have some correspondence from him. Do Tommy and Danny have any plans for trying to make things right before the child molestation part of the scandal grows any bigger? Especially since, I believe, Virginia doesn't have a statute of limitations for things like this?

This will be interesting to watch unfold. Do you anticipate this alleged victim making a statement available?

> QUOTE
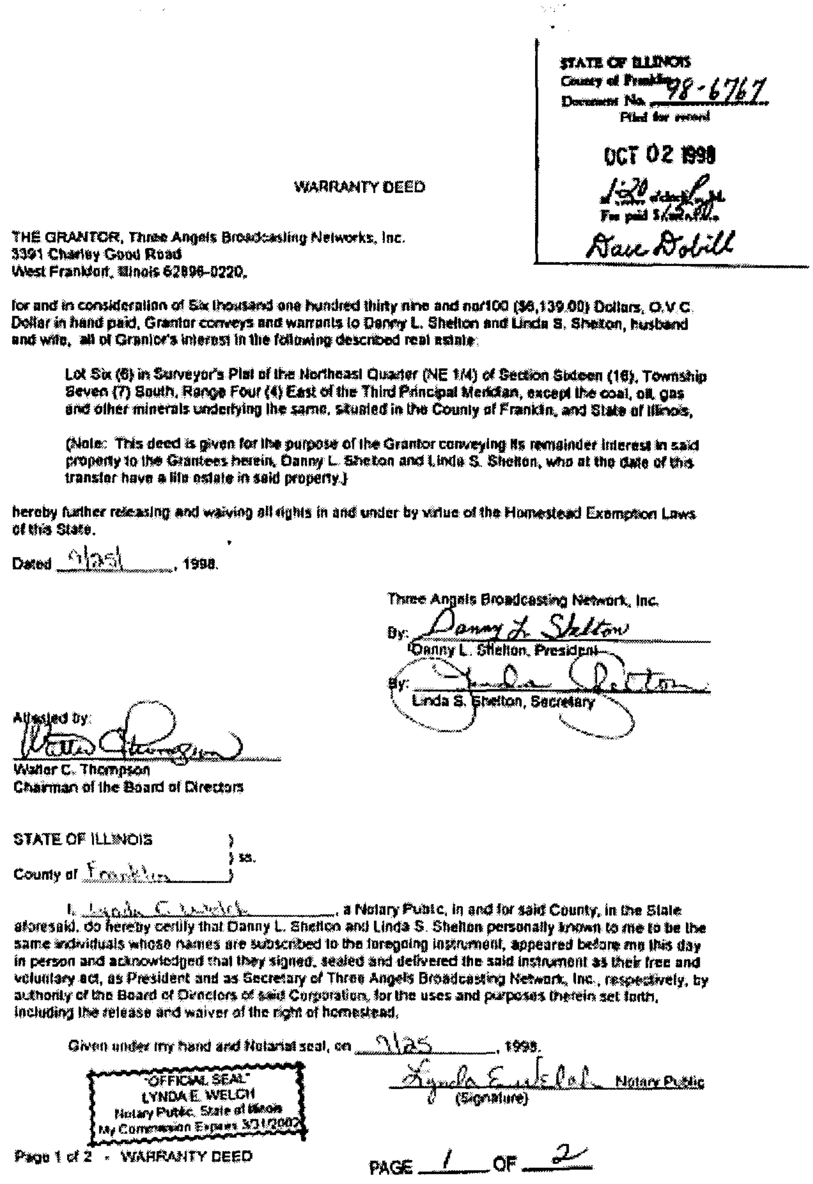
>
> Secondly, from what I can tell, back in 1998 Danny and Linda got a piece of property from 3ABN for $6,139 O.V.C., and then sold it one week later to Elora Ford for $135,000. A church official said that a non-profit that gave away property for less than fair market value could lose its tax exempt status retroactively, how far back wasn't known. Do you know anything about this transaction that would make it appear all right to the IRS?
>
> Copies of the original documents can be seen at http://www.save3abn.com/danny-shelton-real-estate-shenanigans-1.htm The transaction that is possibly really problematic is the following:



STATE OF ILLINOIS
County of Franklin
Document No. 98-6767
Filed for record

OCT 02 1998

1:20 o'clock P.M.
Fee paid $

Dave Dobill

WARRANTY DEED

THE GRANTOR, Three Angels Broadcasting Networks, Inc.
3391 Charley Good Road
West Frankfort, Illinois 62896-0220,

for and in consideration of Six thousand one hundred thirty nine and no/100 ($6,139.00) Dollars, O.V.C. Dollar in hand paid, Grantor conveys and warrants to Danny L. Shelton and Linda S. Shelton, husband and wife, all of Grantor's interest in the following described real estate:

> Lot Six (6) in Surveyor's Plat of the Northeast Quarter (NE 1/4) of Section Sixteen (16), Township Seven (7) South, Range Four (4) East of the Third Principal Meridian, except the coal, oil, gas and other minerals underlying the same, situated in the County of Franklin, and State of Illinois,
>
> (Note: This deed is given for the purpose of the Grantor conveying its remainder interest in said property to the Grantees herein, Danny L. Shelton and Linda S. Shelton, who at the date of this transfer have a life estate in said property.)

hereby further releasing and waiving all rights in and under by virtue of the Homestead Exemption Laws of this State.

Dated 9\25, 1998.

Three Angels Broadcasting Network, Inc.

By: Danny L. Shelton
Danny L. Shelton, President

By:
Linda S. Shelton, Secretary

Attested by:

Walter C. Thompson
Chairman of the Board of Directors

STATE OF ILLINOIS)
) ss.
County of Franklin)

I, Lynda E. Welch, a Notary Public, in and for said County, in the State aforesaid, do hereby certify that Danny L. Shelton and Linda S. Shelton personally known to me to be the same individuals whose names are subscribed to the foregoing instrument, appeared before me this day in person and acknowledged that they signed, sealed and delivered the said instrument as their free and voluntary act, as President and as Secretary of Three Angels Broadcasting Network, Inc., respectively, by authority of the Board of Directors of said Corporation, for the uses and purposes therein set forth, including the release and waiver of the right of homestead.

Given under my hand and Notarial seal, on 9\25, 1998.

"OFFICIAL SEAL"
LYNDA E. WELCH
Notary Public, State of Illinois
My Commission Expires 3/31/2002

Lynda E. Welch Notary Public
(Signature)

Page 1 of 2 - WARRANTY DEED

PAGE 1 OF 2

> I have a feeling that if it all got reported correctly on W-2's, Form 990's, and Form 1040's, everything is fine.

s this standard behavior for those associated with a ministry? Have you been able to check the associated W-, Form 990's and Form 1040's? The chain of events along with the parties involved that you have locumented over on www.save3abn.com about this matter is quite amazing!

Posted by: mikell Jun 12 2007, 06:07 PM

> QUOTE(awesumtenor @ Jun 12 2007, 04:33 PM)
>
> He doesn't have the Clinton spin dance down; this kind of myopia can only come from Neo-Cons... this is the 3D two step, courtesy dubya, don and dick...

> In His service,
> Mr. J

vhat, Clinton never spinned? Btw, I am a pro-choice Democrat . and for sure Steppan tries to spins every nes facts here on BSDA that clearly indicts ds, but his efforts are fruitless,

---

Posted by: Pickle Jun 12 2007, 09:06 PM

PB,

Don't know what these alleged victims are going to do or not do.

As far as standard behavior goes, my understanding is that a non-profit could lose its tax exempt status if they engage in private inurement.

For an interesting read, try http://findarticles.com/p/articles/mi_m3257/is_n1_v45/ai_9312436. The first two of the last three paragraphs at http://www.aicpa.org/PUBS/jofa/nov2001/kuhn.htm is also interesting, and suggests that 3ABN won't get into any trouble over this as long as they filed a 990 for 1998.

Posted by: princessdi Jun 12 2007, 11:32 PM

Much as I love Bill, he had the spin of all spins...."I did not have sexual relations with that woman" Now that is sho nuf' spin! LOL!!!

> QUOTE(mikell @ Jun 12 2007, 05:07 PM)
>
> what, Clinton never spinned? Btw, I am a pro-choice Democrat . and for sure Steppan tries to spins every ones facts here on BSDA away from ds, but never works,

---

Posted by: mikell Jun 12 2007, 11:46 PM

> QUOTE(princessdi @ Jun 12 2007, 11:32 PM)
>
> Much as I love Bill, he had the spin of all spins...."I did not have sexual relations with that woman" Now that is sho nuf' spin! LOL!!!

hat is a GOOD one! and SO true,

Posted by: lurker Jun 13 2007, 06:05 AM

> QUOTE(Pickle @ Jun 12 2007, 09:06 PM)
>
> PB,

> Don't know what these alleged victims are going to do or not do.
>
> As far as standard behavior goes, my understanding is that a non-profit could lose its tax exempt status if they engage in private inurement.
>
> For an interesting read, try http://findarticles.com/p/articles/mi_m3257/is_n1_v45/ai_9312436. The first two of the last three paragraphs at http://www.aicpa.org/PUBS/jofa/nov2001/kuhn.htm is also interesting, and suggests that 3ABN won't get into any trouble over this as long as they filed a 990 for 1998.

here is a 1998 990 on Guidestar but you would have to be a premium member to read it ($100 for a 1 nonth membership). You might be able to get it from the IRS. Just filing a 990 would not be enough if the orrect information was not on it. 3ABN would have to correct the information and report any unreported self lealing and the tax would have to be paid (the whole amount of the excess benefit transaction might have to e paid back.).

Posted by: Pickle Jun 13 2007, 06:42 AM

> QUOTE(lurker @ Jun 13 2007, 07:05 AM) ☐
>
> There is a 1998 990 on Guidestar but you would have to be a premium member to read it ($100 for a 1 month membership). You might be able to get it from the IRS. Just filing a 990 would not be enough if the correct information was not on it. 3ABN would have to correct the information and report any unreported self dealing and the tax would have to be paid (the whole amount of the excess benefit transaction might have to be paid back.).

f they filed a 990 without the correct info on it, then the statute of limitations would be up after 6 years. oes that get them off the hook with man? Does God expect them to make it right even if the statute of imitations has run out?

Posted by: lurker Jun 13 2007, 09:07 AM

> QUOTE(Pickle @ Jun 13 2007, 06:42 AM) ☐
>
> If they filed a 990 without the correct info on it, then the statute of limitations would be up after 6 years. Does that get them off the hook with man? Does God expect them to make it right even if the statute of limitations has run out?

hat just doesn't seem fair. But 3ABN may be off the hook in that particular incident. That doesn't take care f further incidents of self dealing that took place later and for which the statute of limtations hasn't yet run ut. Nor does it take care of the Shelton's personal income tax for that year if it wasn't recorded on their ersonal tax return would it, especially if the IRS thinks there was fraud?

n looking up the information on the statute of limitations, I found this which I thought might apply to ommy's victims:Tolling the Statute tatutes of limitations are designed to aid defendants. A plaintiff, however, can prevent the dismissal of his ction for untimeliness by seeking to toll the statute. When the statute is tolled, the running of the time eriod is suspended until some event specified by law takes place. Tolling provisions benefit a plaintiff by xtending the time within which he is permitted to bring suit.

arious events or circumstances will toll a statute of limitations. It is tolled when one of the parties is under a legal disability—the lack of legal capacity to do an act—at the time the cause of action accrues. A child or a person with a mental illness is regarded as being incapable of initiating a legal action on her own behalf. Therefore, the time limit will be tolled until some fixed time after the disability has been removed. For example, once a child reaches the age of majority, the counting of time will be resumed. A personal disability that postpones the operation of the statute against an individual may be asserted only by that individual. If a party is under more than one disability, the statute of limitations does not begin to run until all the disabilities are removed. Once the statute begins to run, it will not be suspended by the subsequent disability of any of the parties unless specified by statute.

Posted by: Pickle Jun 13 2007, 09:48 AM

I think you are correct about his personal tax return. Wonder if he will clear the air by releasing it? It would be a smart PR move on his part if he proved that he has done nothing wrong and has nothing to hide by releasing that tax return.

Here's another question:

Danny's financial affidavit says that he got a $200,000 mortgage from Merlin Fharli, but I'm wondering if that is correct. Seems that there may be a legal document that says that he got a mortgage "At no time ... exceed $200,000" from the Fjarli Foundation.

Which is it? Merlin Fharli or the Fjarli Foundation (sp?)? (Anyone know if it makes any difference?) And was the mortgage for $200,000 or was it for a sum that was not to exceed $200,000?

Posted by: lurker Jun 13 2007, 10:15 AM

The Fjarli Foundation lists notes and loans receivable on page two item 7 of their 2005 990 at Guidestar. Beginning of the year - $200,000 - Book value $150,000 - Fair Market value $150,000.

On the 2004 990, notes and loans receivable $200,000. I would think it is the same loan but if you have the document you spoke of, you would know for sure.

Posted by: Shiny Penny Jun 13 2007, 12:41 PM

> QUOTE(Pickle @ Jun 12 2007, 03:50 PM)
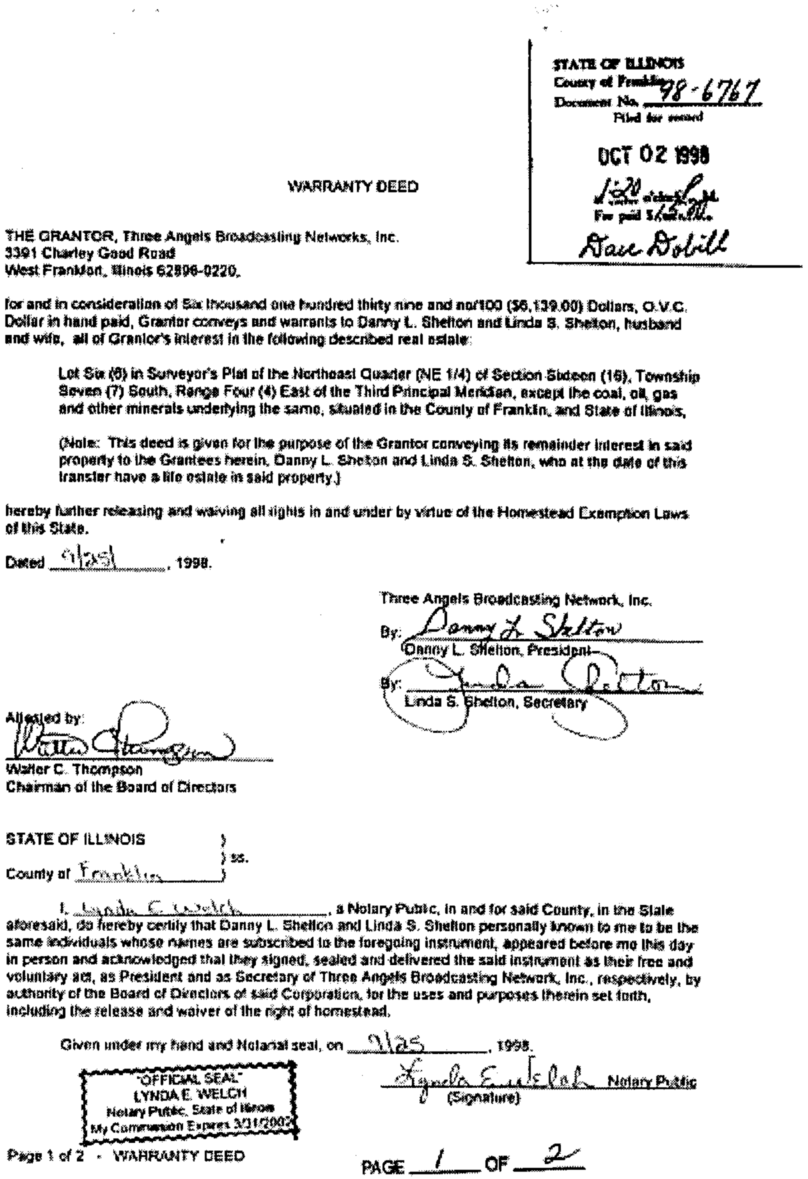
>
> "Did Danny Shelton Really Turn $6,139 into $135,000 in Just 7 Days?"[/url] The transaction that is possibly really problematic is the following:



STATE OF ILLINOIS
County of Franklin
Document No. 98-6767
Filed for record

OCT 02 1998

1:20 o'clock P.M.
Fee paid $
Dave Dobill

WARRANTY DEED

THE GRANTOR, Three Angels Broadcasting Networks, Inc.
3391 Charley Good Road
West Frankfort, Illinois 62896-0220,

for and in consideration of Six thousand one hundred thirty nine and no/100 ($6,139.00) Dollars, O.V.C. Dollar in hand paid, Grantor conveys and warrants to Danny L. Shelton and Linda S. Shelton, husband and wife, all of Grantor's interest in the following described real estate:

> Lot Six (6) in Surveyor's Plat of the Northeast Quarter (NE 1/4) of Section Sixteen (16), Township Seven (7) South, Range Four (4) East of the Third Principal Meridian, except the coal, oil, gas and other minerals underlying the same, situated in the County of Franklin, and State of Illinois,
>
> (Note: This deed is given for the purpose of the Grantor conveying its remainder interest in said property to the Grantees herein, Danny L. Shelton and Linda S. Shelton, who at the date of this transfer have a life estate in said property.)

hereby further releasing and waiving all rights in and under by virtue of the Homestead Exemption Laws of this State.

Dated 9/25, 1998.

Three Angels Broadcasting Network, Inc.
By: Danny L Shelton
Danny L. Shelton, President
By:
Linda S. Shelton, Secretary

Attested by:
Walter C. Thompson
Chairman of the Board of Directors

STATE OF ILLINOIS)
) ss.
County of Franklin)

I, Lynda E. Welch, a Notary Public, in and for said County, in the State aforesaid, do hereby certify that Danny L. Shelton and Linda S. Shelton personally known to me to be the same individuals whose names are subscribed to the foregoing instrument, appeared before me this day in person and acknowledged that they signed, sealed and delivered the said instrument as their free and voluntary act, as President and as Secretary of Three Angels Broadcasting Network, Inc., respectively, by authority of the Board of Directors of said Corporation, for the uses and purposes therein set forth, including the release and waiver of the right of homestead.

Given under my hand and Notarial seal, on 9/25, 1998.

"OFFICIAL SEAL"
LYNDA E. WELCH
Notary Public, State of Illinois
My Commission Expires 3/31/2002

Notary Public
(Signature)

Page 1 of 2 - WARRANTY DEED

PAGE 1 OF 2

I have a feeling that if it all got reported correctly on W-2's, Form 990's, and Form 1040's, everything is fine.

as anyone considered asking LInda to explain what this is about? Her name and signature are on the ocuments and there are some on bsda who are in contact with her...why wait for Danny? You know full well hat he isn't going to be responding here - let's be real! As honest and forthright as Linda is there must be a erfectly good explanation for these transactions - or are we to believe that both Linda and Danny were rooked?

Posted by: LaurenceD Jun 13 2007, 12:49 PM

Welcome out of the closet, SP. We haven't forgotten about the questions you never answered, but said you would (about the court case). That's was maybe what, two months ago?

Posted by: Pickle Jun 13 2007, 12:54 PM

SP,

If you've ever talked to Linda about such things, you will get the idea pretty quickly that she isn't as informed as she ought to be.

At any rate, Danny's the one that still holds a position of trust within a supporting ministry of the Adventist church, and if he wants to safeguard his reputation, he will be immediately forthcoming with whatever documents are necessary to answer questions raised by publicly available documents.

Or do you think that he should consider suing the courthouse instead for making such documents publicly available? And if he does sue, should he try to get the suit impounded?

Posted by: sonshineonme Jun 13 2007, 01:04 PM

> QUOTE(steffan @ Jun 12 2007, 12:12 PM)
>
> Mikell, My statements were fact, yours were not.
> Why did you keep referring to a "lear type jet" If you knew it wasn't. What could the motive be for you to do that?
> You quoted A today which is the biggest joke of all. The reason A today is not conference supported in any way is their lack of credibiltiy in proving what they print and better yet, the "way out" beliefs of some in charge there. So, you not only quoted a source that is not credible you failed to mention how old this article was. You never said that several years ago you read an article yada yada.. You stated that 3abn had 2 planes. Why? What is your motive for leaving out the relevant facts that change the whole story?
> On the other hand I left nothing out. I said they had a plane, got rid of it and someone leased another one for them. So they never owned 2 planes at once. Neither have they owned one since. Those are the facts. Why did you try to spin it any other way?
> I said Linda Pushed for the Plane. You call that an attack? A piece of advice. Read back through the posts made here at bsda against Danny and you will have your definition of attack. What I said doesn't qualify. Again just another example of how things have been twisted to paint a picture that is false and can be proven false.

Steffan, would you follow up your statements with proof please?

I was going to post my questions here, but have changed my mind and put them over under the "3abn has no plane" would you jump over there and read my questions for you...

Heres the link for you:

http://www.blacksda.com/forums/index.php?showtopic=13806&st=15&gopid=199799&#entry199799
post #23

Posted by: Pickle Jun 13 2007, 01:13 PM

> QUOTE(lurker @ Jun 13 2007, 11:15 AM)
>
> The Fjarli Foundation lists notes and loans receivable on page two item 7 of their 2005 990 at Guidestar.
> Beginning of the year - $200,000 - Book value $150,000 - Fair Market value $150,000.

> On the 2004 990, notes and loans receivable $200,000. I would think it is the same loan but if you have the document you spoke of, you would know for sure.

uite interesting, lurker. So in July 2006, under penalty of perjury I assume, ttp://www.save3abn.com/danny-shelton-royalty-disclosures-financial-affidavit.htm that he had at that time $200,000 "Mortgage loan" from "Merlin Fharli." Besides wondering why Danny doesn't know how to spell his wn board member's name, one has to wonder why he would say it was from Merlin if it was from the oundation, and why it was $200,000 if it was $150,000 by the end of 2005.

s it at all possible that Danny had to increase the loan amount in 2006 back to $200,000? Or did he verstate his liabilities by $50,000? And did Merlin assume the mortgage from his foundation sometime etween January 1 and July 13, 2006?

B,

t appears from the http://save3abn/media/3abn-form-990-2004.pdf that the plane was sold in 2004. See age 1, lines 8a and 8b.

ould be wrong, but that's my guess, if the 990's are accurate. But given the discrepancies on the FCC pplications and Danny's affidavit, who knows if they really are accurate?

big test may be to see if any royalty payments are reported on the 2006 990 for the TCTR book, if such hings really are required to be reported.

Posted by: Shiny Penny Jun 13 2007, 01:21 PM

> QUOTE(Pickle @ Jun 13 2007, 11:54 AM) ☐
>
> SP,
>
> If you've ever talked to Linda about such things, you will get the idea pretty quickly that she isn't as informed as she ought to be.
>
> Is this an excuse? Or is this the general situation- she is not as informed as she ought to be? Who knows, maybe Danny isn't as informed as he ought to be either.
>
> At any rate, Danny's the one that still holds a position of trust within a supporting ministry of the Adventist church, and if he wants to safeguard his reputation, he will be immediately forthcoming with whatever documents are necessary to answer questions raised by publicly available documents.
>
> Clearly he cares nothing about safeguarding his reputation, because he has not been forthcoming, immediately or otherwise, to the demands made here on bsda.
>
> Or do you think that he should consider suing the courthouse instead for making such documents publicly available? And if he does sue, should he try to get the suit impounded?
>
> Should I countenance this facetious question?

he Save website says that the property in question was their home. Linda must have known something bout the family home, especially if it was selling for a pittance, then suddenly resold for $125,000+ more.

f someone can figure out which home it is, then perhaps that would add some light onto the subject.

y point is...if one party isn't responding then by gum get the information from the other party.

Posted by: Pickle Jun 13 2007, 03:02 PM

Go ahead and try, SP.

The problem is that not everyone has a steel trap memory, and this particular case is complicated by the fact that Linda's recollections may be based on what Danny told her at the time.

Yet really, why concentrate on recollections and reconstructions nine years later when the 990 and 1040 for 1998 can settle the matter once and for all? Call up Danny and see if he will finally do what it takes to properly and professionally answer legitimate questions. Stonewalling and evasion don't cut it, but only give the impression that he's trying to hide something.

Posted by: Artiste Jun 13 2007, 06:05 PM

> QUOTE(Pickle @ Jun 13 2007, 10:54 AM)
>
> SP,
>
> If you've ever talked to Linda about such things, you will get the idea pretty quickly that she isn't as informed as she ought to be.
>
> At any rate, Danny's the one that still holds a position of trust within a supporting ministry of the Adventist church, and if he wants to safeguard his reputation, he will be immediately forthcoming with whatever documents are necessary to answer questions raised by publicly available documents.
>
> Or do you think that he should consider suing the courthouse instead for making such documents publicly available? And if he does sue, should he try to get the suit impounded?

Definitely think DS should sue the courthouse and get the lawsuit impounded!

****

Posted by: Fran Jun 13 2007, 06:30 PM

> QUOTE(Pickle @ Jun 13 2007, 03:02 PM)
>
> Go ahead and try, SP.
>
> The problem is that not everyone has a steel trap memory, and this particular case is complicated by the fact that Linda's recollections may be based on what Danny told her at the time.
>
> Yet really, why concentrate on recollections and reconstructions nine years later when the 990 and 1040 for 1998 can settle the matter once and for all? Call up Danny and see if he will finally do what it takes to properly and professionally answer legitimate questions. Stonewalling and evasion don't cut it, but only give the impression that he's trying to hide something.

Bob;

JMO, the above, bolded statement should be worded as "only reveals there is much hidden, about a lot." Of course, my opinion is based on statements from information in the IL vs. 3ABN Property Tax Lawsuit and the current Shelton/3ABN vs. Joy & Pickle where the whole mess has been hidden from the public. This action speaks the loudest to me. That was clearly done to hide MUCH!

No one has a steel trap memory. Therefore, we have documents to record historical transactions. This was done to insure accuracy, if at some later date, a questions arise, we are able to look back at the documentation to find what happened. With the documents spread out in front of everyone, memories should wake up and remember the intent.

To Anyone;

What happened to Mom Ford at 3ABN? She departed not too long after Linda. Did she leave or pass away?

Posted by: Pickle Jun 13 2007, 06:49 PM

Ma Ford is still kicking. Seems like a nice lady.

Posted by: Shiny Penny Jun 13 2007, 08:24 PM

> QUOTE(Pickle @ Jun 13 2007, 02:02 PM)
>
> Go ahead and try, SP.
>
> The problem is that not everyone has a steel trap memory, and this particular case is complicated by the fact that Linda's recollections may be based on what Danny told her at the time.
>
> Yet really, why concentrate on recollections and reconstructions nine years later when the 990 and 1040 for 1998 can settle the matter once and for all? Call up Danny and see if he will finally do what it takes to properly and professionally answer legitimate questions. Stonewalling and evasion don't cut it, but only give the impression that he's trying to hide something.

You are suggesting that I call him? Rather the person who is originally asking the questions on the public forum should be asking both Linda and Danny to get a start on finding the answers.

Honestly, none of us probably has a steel trap memory, but that doesn't mean we have no memory. Linda is a intelligent woman. But she has absolutely no recollection of any details? This was only 9 years ago, not 40. Most of us around this forum, if we had a windfall of $129,000 back in 1998, would remember it.

But at least she should remember if she was living in the house in question at the time, which house is it, why did they sell it. These are basic sorts of questions that would shed some light on the matter and surely Linda must remember something like this.

But let me try and develop a possible scenario (and this is sheer speculation). Linda wanted a new and nicer house, they had tried to sell the house in question, but of course in that grand metropolis there is no ready market and after sitting unsold for a while May Chung or whoever suggests to them that MC will pay off the mortgage, but the house will be donated to 3ABN. But of course the house is worth more than what is left on the mortgage. and there is an agreement that if some other kindhearted soul wishes to come along and buy the balance of the value of the house from them, then so be it. So poor Linda and Danny in order to buy/build the new and nice house really needed the equity from the old house...so along comes a kind E Ford who wants to help Linda and Danny so she buys the remaining balance. However, they discover that the paperwork needs to be rewritten or something?

Does this seem half plausible? Maybe, maybe not. But certainly, Linda can shed some light on the matter that may help to show what you will not find in any 990 or other documents.

Posted by: Shiny Penny Jun 13 2007, 08:35 PM

> QUOTE(Pickle @ Jun 13 2007, 08:48 AM) ☐
>
> I think you are correct about his personal tax return. Wonder if he will clear the air by releasing it? It would be a smart PR move on his part if he proved that he has done nothing wrong and has nothing to hide by releasing that tax return.

Pickle...seems to me that Linda would have signed the 1998 tax return. She can release a copy herself, can't she? That would be a smart PR move on her part, proving she had done nothing wrong and has nothing to hide?

Posted by: beartrap Jun 13 2007, 08:52 PM

> QUOTE(Shiny Penny @ Jun 13 2007, 07:35 PM) ☐
>
> Pickle...seems to me that Linda would have signed the 1998 tax return. She can release a copy herself, can't she? That would be a smart PR move on her part, proving she had done nothing wrong and has nothing to hide?

Ummm, as lately as 2005 Linda (in front of a witness) signed the tax return document for the 2004 taxes. Danny brought her the page that needed a signature and told her where to sign. She did not read through it, have her lawyer go over it, or an accountant. She simply signed where Danny indicated her signature needed to be. That is how Linda's signature has landed on many documents. Smart? No! But I am not going to judge her on intelligence in that area as I have done the same thing, to my eternal regret, and that of people who I love.

Posted by: Pickle Jun 13 2007, 09:49 PM

> QUOTE(beartrap @ Jun 13 2007, 09:52 PM) ☐
>
> Ummm, as lately as 2005 Linda (in front of a witness) signed the tax return document for the 2004 taxes.

BearTrap,

This point illustrates what I am trying to say regarding Linda's recollection of events not necessarily always being correct in every little detail. I really think that the event you are referring to happened in 2004, though Linda thinks it happened in 2005. From what I can tell they filed a joint return for 2003, but not for 2004. If they didn't do a joint return for 2004, I can't see why Danny would have asked her to sign the 2004 return in 2005.

Am I wrong on this?

By the way, I have no problem with someone not recalling things correctly. There's no sin in that.

Posted by: Pickle Jun 13 2007, 10:08 PM

> QUOTE(Shiny Penny @ Jun 13 2007, 09:24 PM)
>
> You are suggesting that I call him? Rather the person who is originally asking the questions on the public forum should be asking both Linda and Danny to get a start on finding the answers.

Remember? I'm not allowed to contact Danny due to some sort of stupid rule that says that you can't follow Matthew 18 with a party that's suing you.

> QUOTE(Shiny Penny @ Jun 13 2007, 09:24 PM)
>
> Most of us around this forum, if we had a windfall of $129,000 back in 1998, would remember it.

Your assumption that Linda thinks there was a windfall is probably false, based on what she says she recalls.

> QUOTE(Shiny Penny @ Jun 13 2007, 09:24 PM)
>
> But at least she should remember if she was living in the house in question at the time, which house is it, why did they sell it.

None of those points are at issue. At issue is whether this compensation was properly reported on Danny's W-2, 3ABN's 990, and Danny's 1040, and whether he treated it as a short-term or long-term capital gain.

> QUOTE(Shiny Penny @ Jun 13 2007, 09:24 PM)
>
> But let me try and develop a possible scenario (and this is sheer speculation). Linda wanted a new and nicer house, ...

Sheer speculation blames private inurement on Linda?

> QUOTE(Shiny Penny @ Jun 13 2007, 09:24 PM)
>
> ... they had tried to sell the house in question, but of course in that grand metropolis there is no ready market and after sitting unsold for a while May Chung or whoever suggests to them that MC will pay off the mortgage, but the house will be donated to 3ABN. But of course the house is worth more than what is left on the mortgage. and there is an agreement that if some other kindhearted soul wishes to come along and buy the balance of the value of the house from them, then so be it.

The experts I spoke with told me they get asked about such all the time, but it can't be done. You can't donate a property to a non-profit and then later get it back.

If Danny's name was already on the title, there would be little point to the Feb. 1998 transaction, and the Sept. 1998 transaction would not have been claiming to have transferred the property to Danny. Correct?

> QUOTE(Shiny Penny @ Jun 13 2007, 09:24 PM)
>
> So poor Linda and Danny in order to buy/build the new and nice house really needed the equity from the old house...so along comes a kind E Ford who wants to help Linda and Danny so she buys the remaining balance.

So they buy the remaining balance from Danny instead of from 3ABN, even though it is 3ABN that owns the property, not Danny? And in order to pull it off, 3ABN transfers the property to Danny for $6,139?

Regardless, did it get reported on the appropriate W-2's, 990's, and 1040's, and was it reported as a long-term or short-term capital gain?

> QUOTE(Shiny Penny @ Jun 13 2007, 09:24 PM) ☐
> However, they discover that the paperwork needs to be rewritten or something?

Interesting that you would bring up that possibility. Did you know that one of the allegations out there is that they alter paperwork after the fact?

> QUOTE(Shiny Penny @ Jun 13 2007, 09:24 PM) ☐
> But certainly, Linda can shed some light on the matter that may help to show what you will not find in any 990 or other documents.

What she recalls and what the documents show appear to be different. But that is irrelevant, since the legal implications of it all depends on what is reported on the documents, not on what someone somewhere thinks they just might possibly maybe remember.

Posted by: Snoopy Jun 13 2007, 11:01 PM

> QUOTE(Shiny Penny @ Jun 13 2007, 09:24 PM) ☐
>
> You are suggesting that I call him? Rather the person who is originally asking the questions on the public forum should be asking both Linda and Danny to get a start on finding the answers.

Actually, Shiny Penny, I respectfully disagree with the bolded statement above. In my humble opinion, THE 3ABN BOARD OF DIRECTORS should be asking these questions. No, they SHOULD HAVE ASKED these questions long ago, and they SHOULD HAVE FORCED THE ISSUE until they received a satisfactory response. So, if the shoe fits...........go for it!

~~Snoopy~~

Posted by: Snoopy Jun 13 2007, 11:15 PM

> QUOTE(Pickle @ Jun 13 2007, 01:13 PM) ☐
>
> Quite interesting, lurker. So in July 2006, under penalty of perjury I assume, http://www.save3abn.com/danny-shelton-royalty-disclosures-financial-affidavit.htm that he had at that time a $200,000 "Mortgage loan" from "Merlin Fharli." Besides wondering why Danny doesn't know how to spell his own board member's name, one has to wonder why he would say it was from Merlin if it was from the Foundation, and why it was $200,000 if it was $150,000 by the end of 2005.

Isn't it a bit odd for an ~~anointed one~~ I mean, a ministry executive to get a loan from a board member (or his foundation) in the first place?? I have a problem with that. One more strike against the independence of the board...

> QUOTE(Shiny Penny @ Jun 13 2007, 12:41 PM) ☐

> Has anyone considered asking LInda to explain what this is about? Her name and signature are on the documents and there are some on bsda who are in contact with her...why wait for Danny? You know full well that he isn't going to be responding here - let's be real! As honest and forthright as Linda is there must be a perfectly good explanation for these transactions - or are we to believe that both Linda and Danny were crooked?

Perhaps Dr. Thompson could shed some light on this - his name is right there, too!!

Posted by: Shiny Penny Jun 13 2007, 11:18 PM

> QUOTE(Snoopy @ Jun 13 2007, 09:01 PM) ☐
>
> Actually, Shiny Penny, I respectfully disagree with the bolded statement above. In my humble opinion, THE 3ABN BOARD OF DIRECTORS should be asking these questions. No, they SHOULD HAVE ASKED these questions long ago. So, if the shoe fits...........go for it!
>
> ~~Snoopy~~

Isn't the chairman of the board's signature on those papers? And May Chung another board member as well? Evidently the board questioned and likely made whatever decisions that were made on a lot more information than these documents floating around today which were produced and signed afterwards.

Posted by: Rosyroi Jun 13 2007, 11:22 PM

edited for content.....
Rosyroi

Posted by: Snoopy Jun 13 2007, 11:27 PM

> QUOTE(Shiny Penny @ Jun 13 2007, 11:18 PM) ☐
>
> Isn't the chairman of the board's signature on those papers? And May Chung another board member as well? Evidently the board questioned and likely made whatever decisions that were made on a lot more information than these documents floating around today which were produced and signed afterwards.

Respectfully, the only place I saw May Chung's name associated with any of this was in your "sheer speculation".

So, because Dr. Thompson signed the document we should assume that the board questioned the matter?? And you would know that how??

Are you posting anonymously? I wonder why???

Posted by: Shiny Penny Jun 13 2007, 11:47 PM

> QUOTE(Pickle @ Jun 13 2007, 08:08 PM)
>
> Remember? I'm not allowed to contact Danny due to some sort of stupid rule that says that you can't follow Matthew 18 with a party that's suing you.
>
> Your assumption that Linda thinks there was a windfall is probably false, based on what she says she recalls.
> What does she say she recalls? Can you share that tidbit with us?
>
> None of those points are at issue. At issue is whether this compensation was properly reported on Danny's W-2, 3ABN's 990, and Danny's 1040, and whether he treated it as a short-term or long-term capital gain.Does Linda think they did not pay the taxes and so is concerned about her own personal potential liability in the circumstances? Actually, since you have no idea what the transactions were really about I don't think you know what is at issue. It is too bad that Linda cannot help you with more specifics. But if she is concerned about their potential tax liabilities, then she can call Danny and ask to be reminded of the circumstances...then maybe that would help her to put her mind at ease...assuming that everything was above board.
>
> Sheer speculation blames private inurement on Linda? Sheer speculation can be anything you want. Over on the SAVE site there is heaps of sheer speculation written between those documents. Real investigators will take the information, documents, interviews and consider many different ways that they can be interpreted and try to determine, given the evidence, given the people's memories, given a whole host of other stuff, what is the most reasonable and unbiased interpretation of the data.
>
> The experts I spoke with told me they get asked about such all the time, but it can't be done. You can't donate a property to a non-profit and then later get it back. I believe you are right here, but there are exceptions to every rule. I believe that if donated property is later returned to the donor for whatever reason (the children are mad and force the parent to get the donated property back) then the tax deduction that was taken on the property would need to be reversed.
>
> If Danny's name was already on the title, there would be little point to the Feb. 1998 transaction, and the Sept. 1998 transaction would not have been claiming to have transferred the property to Danny. Correct?
>
> So they buy the remaining balance from Danny instead of from 3ABN, even though it is 3ABN that owns the property, not Danny? And in order to pull it off, 3ABN transfers the property to Danny for $6,139?
>
> Regardless, did it get reported on the appropriate W-2's, 990's, and 1040's, and was it reported as a long-term or short-term capital gain?
>
> Interesting that you would bring up that possibility. Did you know that one of the allegations out there is that they alter paperwork after the fact?
>
> Did I say alter the paperwork? There are several documents with the property it seems going back and forth...this is what I was speculating about
>
> What she recalls and what the documents show appear to be different. Not surprising based on the fact that, as was stated in an earlier post, Linda doesn't recollect well. But that is irrelevant, since the legal implications of it all depends on what is reported on the documents, not on what someone somewhere thinks they just might possibly maybe remember.

Legal implications? Where is this coming from?

Posted by: Shiny Penny Jun 14 2007, 12:08 AM

> QUOTE(Snoopy @ Jun 13 2007, 09:27 PM)
>
> Respectfully, the only place I saw May Chung's name associated with any of this was in your "sheer speculation". If you go over to the SAVE site you will see May Chung's names all over those documents.
>
> So, because Dr. Thompson signed the document we should assume that the board questioned the matter?? And you would know that how?? Or should we assume that the board did not discuss? Remember that there must have been some discussions prior to these papers coming into existence and prior to their being signed. Since no one here seems to know what these papers refer to exactly and since Linda can't remember, I would suggest that the board discussed whatever the circumstances were, decided to proceed in a given manner and then these documents were produced to carryout those decisions.
>
> Are you posting anonymously? I wonder why??? I am posting as Shiny Penny. The rules allow me to do so without giving a reason.

> QUOTE(beartrap @ Jun 13 2007, 06:52 PM)
>
> Ummm, as lately as 2005 Linda (in front of a witness) signed the tax return document for the 2004 taxes. Danny brought her the page that needed a signature and told her where to sign. She did not read through it, have her lawyer go over it, or an accountant. She simply signed where Danny indicated her signature needed to be. That is how Linda's signature has landed on many documents. Smart? No! But I am not going to judge her on intelligence in that area as I have done the same thing, to my eternal regret, and that of people who I love.

Yes, I believe all of us have signed documents without reading all of what we are signing our names too - just look at credit card agreements...how many have read all the fine print with the terms and details?

But in this case, since Linda signed the tax forms and if she doesn't have a copy herself, she can request a copy from the IRS. I have requested old tax returns from the IRS and they will get them to you within a week or 10 days, though I don't know if even they will keep the records going back to 1998. And it very well may be that Danny doesn't have the tax returns going back that far either.

Posted by: Shiny Penny Jun 14 2007, 12:19 AM

> QUOTE(Snoopy @ Jun 13 2007, 09:15 PM)
>
> Isn't it a bit odd for an ~~anointed one~~ I mean, a ministry executive to get a loan from a board member (or his foundation) in the first place?? I have a problem with that. One more strike against the independence of the board...
> Perhaps Dr. Thompson could shed some light on this - his name is right there, too!!

Wasn't this mortgage acquired to provide means to buy out Linda's half of the house? I'm speculating here, so please correct me if I am wrong. Re-mortgaging the house seems a quicker prospect to me than listing and selling (I'm guessing about the real estate market in that neck of the woods).

But about how this affects the independence of the board...if a board member loans the president money then who is beholden to who? I would suppose now that Danny would be in the pocket of Fjarli (btw, how do you pronounce that name?) There is an old saying 'he who pays the piper, calls the tune." I would not think that the loan would make the board or a particular member more beholden to Danny. Was this what you meant?

Posted by: Snoopy Jun 14 2007, 12:26 AM

Apologies, Shiny Penny. I had not looked at save3abn.com for some time, but I do see that Ms. Chung was a party to the transaction. And I thought I saw your response to my post without seeing you listed as signed in, but I must have been wrong. It happens a lot!

~~Snoopy~~

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Jun 14 2007, 06:25 AM

SP,

Fjarli is pronounced far-lee.

Posted by: Pickle Jun 14 2007, 06:34 AM

> QUOTE(Shiny Penny @ Jun 14 2007, 01:19 AM) ☐
>
> Wasn't this mortgage acquired to provide means to buy out Linda's half of the house?

That was my understanding. But then, if that is true, why was the mortgage done on what I think was August 1, 2005? Are we talking about an unsecured loan prior to that, and that Fjarli decided he wanted something to back the loan?

> QUOTE(Shiny Penny @ Jun 14 2007, 12:47 AM) ☐
>
> Legal implications? Where is this coming from?

The legal implications simply have to do with whether everything was correctly reported on the W-2's, 990's, and 1040's, and whether it was reported as a short- or long-term capital gain. Did Danny and 3ABN comply with the law as it read at the time? That's the question. What people recall and recollect is irrelevant, in my opinion.

Posted by: runner4him Jun 14 2007, 07:09 AM

> QUOTE(Snoopy @ Jun 14 2007, 12:15 AM) ☐
>
> Isn't it a bit odd for an ~~anointed one~~ I mean, a ministry executive to get a loan from a board member (or his foundation) in the first place?? I have a problem with that. One more strike against the independence of the board...

> Perhaps Dr. Thompson could shed some light on this - his name is right there, too!!

dea.... Some of us here could contact Mr. T. and ask him about the details of this property transfer.

hat way we could post his responses and that should clear up the confusion roblem is....is that scurrying around that I hear.....? Have any of you tried that and heard the esponse..."we cannot recall WHAT happened?"

Posted by: Whtz Happenin Jun 14 2007, 02:43 PM

> QUOTE(runner4him @ Jun 14 2007, 09:09 AM)
>
> Idea.... Some of us here could contact Mr. T. and ask him about the details of this property transfer.
>
> That way we could post his responses and that should clear up the confusion
>
> Problem is....is that scurrying around that I hear.....? Have any of you tried that and heard the response..."we cannot recall WHAT happened?"

id someone say my name?

Attached

r. T

Printable Version of Topic

Click here to view this topic in its original format

BlackSDA _ 3ABN _ Redesigned Irs Form 990

Posted by: Snoopy Jun 14 2007, 11:45 AM

It will be interesting to watch the impact of this proposal on 3ABN. The IRS is asking for comments - maybe we should direct our letters here as well:

****

IRS Releases Discussion Draft of Redesigned Form 990 for Tax-Exempt Organizations

IR-2007-117, June 14, 2007

WASHINGTON — The Internal Revenue Service today released for comment and discussion a draft Form 990, the annual return required to be filed by tax-exempt organizations to report information about their operations. The IRS hopes to have the form ready for use for the 2008 filing year (returns filed in 2009).

"The tax-exempt sector has changed markedly since the Form 990 was last overhauled more than a quarter of a century ago," said Kevin Brown, Acting Commissioner of the IRS. "We need a Form 990 that reflects the way this growing sector operates in the 21st century. The new 990 aims to give both the IRS and the public an improved window into the way tax-exempt organizations go about their vital mission."

The redesign of Form 990 is based on three guiding principles:

Enhancing transparency to provide the IRS and the public with a realistic picture of the organization;

Promoting compliance by accurately reflecting the organization's operations so the IRS may efficiently assess the risk of noncompliance; and Minimizing the burden on filing organizations.

The draft released today consists of a core form to be completed by each Form 990 filer and a series of schedules designed to require reporting of information only from those organizations that conduct particular activities.

"Most organizations should not experience a change in burden," said Lois G. Lerner, director of the IRS's Exempt Organizations division. "However, those with complicated compensation arrangements, related entity structures and activities that raise compliance concerns may have to spend more time providing meaningful information to the public."

In releasing this redesigned form, the IRS said it is soliciting comments, especially in connection with the goals of increased transparency of information and use as a compliance tool. The comment period lasts until Sept. 14, 2007.

The form, instructions and background material explaining the principles underlying the redesign of the form are available on the exempt organizations portion of this Web site.

Questions and comments should be e-mailed to the IRS at Form990Revision@irs.gov or mailed to:

IRS
Form 990 Redesign, SE:T:EO
1111 Constitution Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20224

Related Item: More information on the draft redesigned Form 990, schedules and instructions http://www.irs.gov/newsroom/article/0,,id=171329,00.html

---

Posted by: runner4him Jun 14 2007, 12:18 PM

> QUOTE(Snoopy @ Jun 14 2007, 12:45 PM)
>
> It will be interesting to watch the impact of this proposal on 3ABN. The IRS is asking for comments - maybe we should direct our letters here as well:
>
> **
>
> IRS Releases Discussion Draft of Redesigned Form 990 for Tax-Exempt Organizations
>
> IR-2007-117, June 14, 2007
>
> WASHINGTON — The Internal Revenue Service today released for comment and discussion a draft Form 990, the annual return required to be filed by tax-exempt organizations to report information about their operations. The IRS hopes to have the form ready for use for the 2008 filing year (returns filed in 2009).
>
> "The tax-exempt sector has changed markedly since the Form 990 was last overhauled more than a quarter of a century ago," said Kevin Brown, Acting Commissioner of the IRS. "We need a Form 990 that reflects the way this growing sector operates in the 21st century. The new 990 aims to give both the IRS and the public an improved window into the way tax-exempt organizations go about their vital mission."
>
> The redesign of Form 990 is based on three guiding principles:
>
> Enhancing transparency to provide the IRS and the public with a realistic picture of the organization;
> Promoting compliance by accurately reflecting the organization's operations so the IRS may efficiently assess the risk of noncompliance; and > Minimizing the burden on filing organizations.
> The draft released today consists of a core form to be completed by each Form 990 filer and a series of schedules designed to require reporting of information only from those organizations that conduct particular activities.
>
> "Most organizations should not experience a change in burden," said Lois G. Lerner, director of the IRS's Exempt Organizations division. "However, those with complicated compensation arrangements, related entity structures and activities that raise compliance concerns may have to spend more time providing meaningful information to the public."
>
> In releasing this redesigned form, the IRS said it is soliciting comments, especially in connection with the goals of increased transparency of information and use as a compliance tool. The comment period lasts until Sept. 14, 2007.
>
> The form, instructions and background material explaining the principles underlying the redesign of the form are available on the exempt organizations portion of this Web site.
>
> Questions and comments should be e-mailed to the IRS at Form990Revision@irs.gov or mailed to:
>
> IRS
> Form 990 Redesign, SE:T:EO
> 1111 Constitution Avenue, NW
> Washington, DC 20224
>
> Related Item: More information on the draft redesigned Form 990, schedules and instructions
>
> http://www.irs.gov/newsroom/article/0,,id=171329,00.html

Very interesting! Nice job, Snoopy, and thanks for the idea to direct letters with comments to the IRS. If I understand it right, this new way of reporting could close some of those loop holes and allow the donors to see clearly how their contributions are being used.

IPB

Board Rules - Please Read

Welcome Guest (Log In | Register)

BSDA

BlackSDA > General Fellowship > 3ABN

Latest Shouts In The Shoutbox -- View The Shoutbox

leehaw -- Hey Everybody!!
LeePaDee -- All afternoon... Hey
Clay -- hey Den
Denny -- afternoon all.
leehaw -- Nite Nite Sis! hug.gif Seraphim7 -- Good nite fam
princessdi -- ahhh
MsHoly1 -- The one for the Princess!
MsHoly1 -- You must ask?
princessdi -- Which Concert?

Skin Default ☐ Shout | Clear | Smilies | BBCodes | Refresh

3 Pages ☐ 1 2 3 >

☐ Is Gaj A Scrutator?

Who is a scrutator?

Check those you believe to be a scrutator.

Gailon Joy	[8]	[47.06%]
Bob Pickle	[5]	[29.41%]
Fran	[2]	[11.76%]
Kay Kuzma	[1]	[5.88%]
Dr. Walter Thompson	[0]	[0.00%]
The Pink Panther	[1]	[5.88%]
Doug Batchelor	[0]	[0.00%]

Total Votes: 17

Guests cannot vote

Observer

500 + posts
Group Icon

Group: Members
Posts: 564
Joined: 6-April 06
Member No.: 1,664
Gender: m

☐ Jun 3 2007, 07:09 AM

Just having some fun folks with a new word that I learned today.

Gregory Matthews posts here under the name "Observer."

PeacefullyBewildered

1,000 + posts
Group Icon

Group: Members
Posts: 1,311
Joined: 25-August 06
Member No.: 2,169
Gender: f

☐ Jun 3 2007, 07:54 AM

> QUOTE(Observer @ Jun 3 2007, 05:09 AM) ☐
>
> Just having some fun folks with a new word that I learned today.

Gregory,

Upon closer examination, I find a flaw with your poll. When I tried to check all of "those" who I believe fit the description of a "scrutator", I was dismayed to fin parameters.

rofl

I have decided to select the one I feel is the most scrutatoriest one of the bunch.

Got Peace?

John 14:27 Peace I leave with you; my peace I give you. I do not give to you as the world gives. Do not let your hearts be troubled and do not be afraid.

"Truth welcomes examination and doesn't need to defend itself, while deception hides in darkness and blames everyone else." Aunt B, 2007

Observer

☐ Jun 3 2007, 08:16 AM

500 + posts

☒ Group Icon

Group: Members
Posts: 564
Joined: 6-April 06
Member No.: 1,664
Gender: m

> QUOTE(PeacefullyBewildered @ Jun 3 2007, 06:54 AM) ☐
>
> Gregory,
>
> Upon closer examination, I find a flaw with your poll. When I tried to check all of "those" who I believe fit the description of a "scrutator", I was dismayed to > parameters.
>
> ☒ rofl ☒
>
> I have decided to select the one I feel is the most scrutatoriest one of the bunch.

This was the first poll that I have posted in BSDA. My intention was to allow you to check as many as you wished. I must not have gotten it right.

Sorry.

Gregory Matthews posts here under the name "Observer."

Noahswife

☐ Jun 3 2007, 08:41 AM

☒

500 + posts

☒ Group Icon

Group: Members
Posts: 682
Joined: 16-December 06
Member No.: 2,683
Gender: f

> QUOTE(Observer @ Jun 3 2007, 10:16 AM) ☐
>
> This was the first poll that I have posted in BSDA. My intention was to allow you to check as many as you wished. I must not have gotten it right.
>
> Sorry.

Gregory,

If I were to say that before I vote I need to know whether the pink panther option is The Pink Panther, or the PinkPanther at BSDA or PinkPanther007 from CF

As a confirmed logophile, thanks for the morning smile.

nw

Too often we enjoy the comfort of opinion without the discomfort of thought.
----John F. Kennedy

Fran

☐ Jun 3 2007, 09:17 AM

☒

Advanced Member

Group: Financial Donor
Posts: 425
Joined: 8-August 04
Member No.: 529
Gender: m

> QUOTE(Observer @ Jun 3 2007, 07:09 AM) ☐
>
> Just having some fun folks with a new word that I learned today.

The more things change, the more they stay the same.

I just thought of more people that could be listed also. Fun you say? Where is Sister, Lurker, PB, and many more ... the list goes on!

The greatest want of the world is the want of men-- men who will not be bought or sold, men who in their inmost souls are true and honest, men who do not fear to call sin by its right name, heavens fall. {Ed 57.3}
But such a character is not the result of accident; it is not due to special favors or endowments of Providence. A noble character is the result of self-discipline, of the subjection of the lower to

Observer

☐ Jun 3 2007, 09:45 AM

500 + posts

> QUOTE(Fran @ Jun 3 2007, 09:17 AM) ☐

☒ Group Icon

Group: Members
Posts: 564
Joined: 6-April 06
Member No.: 1,664
Gender: m

> The more things change, the more they stay the same.
>
> I just thought of more people that could be listed also. Fun you say? Where is Sister, Lurker, PB, and many more ... the list goes on!

Fran:

I thought of some of those also. But, as I understood the software, I could only list ten choices. So, I cut it off there.

> QUOTE(Noahswife @ Jun 3 2007, 08:41 AM) ☐
>
> Gregory,
>
> If I were to say that before I vote I need to know whether the pink panther option is The Pink Panther, or the PinkPanther at BSDA or PinkPanther007 from C
>
> As a confirmed logophile, thanks for the morning smile.
>
> nw

Pink Panther of film.

Gregory Matthews posts here under the name "Observer."

☐ User ☐ P ☐ P ☐ C

Observer

☐ Jun 3 2007, 10:11 AM

500 + posts
☒ Group Icon

Group: Members
Posts: 564
Joined: 6-April 06
Member No.: 1,664
Gender: m

> QUOTE(Noahswife @ Jun 3 2007, 08:41 AM) ☐
>
> Gregory,
>
> If I were to say that before I vote I need to know whether the pink panther option is The Pink Panther, or the PinkPanther at BSDA or PinkPanther007 from C
>
> As a confirmed logophile, thanks for the morning smile.
>
> nw

For all of the logophiles you might want to sign up for a free new word a day at:

http://wordsmith.org/awad/sub.html

By the way, my favorite is: "Irish Bull."

Example: If you don't attend my funeral, I will not attend your funeral.

This post has been edited by Observer: Jun 3 2007, 10:13 AM

Gregory Matthews posts here under the name "Observer."

☐ User ☐ P ☐ P ☐ C

Richard Sherwin

☐ Jun 3 2007, 10:35 AM

☒

1,000 + posts
☒ Group Icon

Group: Members
Posts: 1,187
Joined: 10-September 06
Member No.: 2,231
Gender: m

Although I'm somewhat of a Luddite I was able to finally find a online dictionary that had Scrutater in it. Great word and it makes sense when you think of it.

Richard

☐ User ☐ P ☐ P ☐ C

sonshineonme

☐ Jun 3 2007, 10:46 AM

☒

> QUOTE(Observer @ Jun 3 2007, 06:09 AM) ☐

> Just having some fun folks with a new word that I learned today.

500 + posts
Group Icon

Group: Members
Posts: 885
Joined: 30-April 06
From: USA
Member No.: 1,709
Gender: f

Um, I think I might qualify to be on that list...??

I'm a scrutator too...even though it almost sounds like a potato dish...or type of potato... rofl

Ok, I hope we can vote more then once...

Solomon the wise said: "A man who digs a pit for others to fall into, will end up falling into it himself. And if a man rolls a stone on someone, tl

"It i$ alway$ the $$$$$. I $hould $tart counting the time$ Danny or other$ talk about a$king for donor monie$ at each program. They think w

Save3abn.com
Linda Shelton's website

beartrap

Advanced Member

Group: Members
Posts: 487
Joined: 5-April 06
Member No.: 1,659
Gender: m

☐ Jun 3 2007, 10:47 AM

It is too early to scrutate on the definition of your scrutation. I haven't even jentaculated yet this morning! Give a guy a break. When I am done jentaculating, I Scrutator!

This post has been edited by beartrap: Jun 3 2007, 10:49 AM

sonshineonme

500 + posts
Group Icon

Group: Members
Posts: 885
Joined: 30-April 06
From: USA
Member No.: 1,709
Gender: f

☐ Jun 3 2007, 10:49 AM

> QUOTE(Observer @ Jun 3 2007, 07:16 AM) ☐
>
> This was the first poll that I have posted in BSDA. My intention was to allow you to check as many as you wished. I must not have gotten it right.
>
> Sorry.

Well, that's ok...can't vote more then once, but at least so far, the ones not voted for are mostly like not scrutators in the right sense of the word.

I like it. Good word. Thanks.

> QUOTE(beartrap @ Jun 3 2007, 09:47 AM) ☐
>
> It is too early to scrutate on the definition of your scrutation. I haven't even jentaculated yet this morning! Give a guy a break. When I am done jentaculatinc Scrutator!

wow, impressive. you are so smart. i want to be like you.

Solomon the wise said: "A man who digs a pit for others to fall into, will end up falling into it himself. And if a man rolls a stone on someone, tl

"It i$ alway$ the $$$$$. I $hould $tart counting the time$ Danny or other$ talk about a$king for donor monie$ at each program. They think w

Save3abn.com
Linda Shelton's website

Richard Sherwin

1,000 + posts

☐ Jun 3 2007, 11:32 AM

Good thesaurus?

> QUOTE(beartrap @ Jun 3 2007, 11:47 AM) ☐
>
> It is too early to scrutate on the definition of your scrutation. I haven't even jentaculated yet this morning! Give a guy a break. When I am done jentaculating, Scrutator!

☒ Group Icon

Group: Members
Posts: 1,187
Joined: 10-September 06
Member No.: 2,231
Gender: m

mikell

Advanced Member

Group: Members
Posts: 81
Joined: 12-May 07
Member No.: 3,546
Gender: m

☐ Jun 3 2007, 12:12 PM

> QUOTE(sonshineonme @ Jun 3 2007, 10:46 AM) ☐
>
> Um, I think I might qualify to be on that list...?? ☒
> I'm a scrutator too...even though it almost sounds like a potato dish...or type of potato... ☒ rofl
> Ok, I hope we can vote more then once... ☒

I read many things, but still not sure what is a "scruator?"
Save3abn.com
rescue3abn.blog.com

sonshineonme

500 + posts
☒ Group Icon

Group: Members
Posts: 885
Joined: 30-April 06
From: USA
Member No.: 1,709
Gender: f

☐ Jun 3 2007, 12:20 PM

> QUOTE(mikell @ Jun 3 2007, 11:12 AM) ☐
>
> I read many things, but still not sure what is a "scruator?"
> Save3abn.com
> rescue3abn.blog.com

well mikell, I could just tell you, but to stay in true bsda form you should look for yourself ☒ go to a scrutator!

Solomon the wise said: "A man who digs a pit for others to fall into, will end up falling into it himself. And if a man rolls a stone on someone, tl

"It i$ alway$ the $$$$$. I $hould $tart counting the time$ Danny or other$ talk about a$king for donor monie$ at each program. They think w

Save3abn.com
Linda Shelton's website

mozart

Advanced Member

Group: Members
Posts: 420
Joined: 17-March 07
From: Colorado
Member No.: 3,207
Gender: m

☐ Jun 3 2007, 12:21 PM

well, well, well......i feel like my IQ just dropped 20pts. ☒ what more can one say except...

Gregory is now a scrutineer!! and i just scrued up the html for this window.

☒ roll after we have some fun with this....i will fix it. i think. he-he

> QUOTE(beartrap @ Jun 3 2007, 10:47 AM) ☐
>
> It is too early to scrutate on the definition of your scrutation. I haven't even jentaculated yet this morning! Give a guy a break. When I am done jentaculating, > Scrutator!

This post has been edited by mozart: Jun 4 2007, 10:03 AM

Thess. 2:16-17 - Now may our Lord Jesus Christ Himself, and our God and Father, who has loved us and given us everlasting consolation and good hope by grace, ¢

[quote: fine art]

"Instead we seem to be using sensationalism, emotionalism, moving lights and motivational speakers that are prepared to manipulate, by well chosen words, the minds of the lister
It used to be, messages that were given by our pioneers were wrenched from the depths of the heart by the Holy Spirit.

Humor was not added to get that laugh of entertainment. Drama was not introduced behind the sacred desk to glue your attention.
Man's Rationale has replaced a cry for God's wisdom."

"How To Be Free From Bitterness" (booklet written by Jim Wilson of Community Christian Ministries, Moscow, Idaho - E-mail: ccm@moscow.com)

Enter Keywords Search Topic

3 Pages ☐ 1 2 3 >

1 User(s) are reading this topic (1 Guests and 0 Anonymous Users)

0 Members:

Lo-Fi Version

Printable Version of Topic

Click here to view this topic in its original format

BlackSDA _ 3ABN _ General Conference Suspends 3abn's Status

Posted by: sonshineonme Jun 4 2007, 09:52 AM

I just received this email.

"-------Original Message-------

From: Denis Hankinson
Date: 06/01/07 00:07:37
Subject: Updates from SPD Administrators' Council and Institute of Public Evangelism Committees

Greetings

Just a quick update on the recent meetings I attended.

Division Administrators -

Update on 3ABN (bold emphasis mine)
The General Conference has suspended 3ABN Supportive Ministry status until some well known issues in more than one area are sorted out. Basically, a lot of smoke doesn't necessarily presume a fire, but it definitely needs investigation and caution.

(edited rest of content in email not relating to this item)
Kind regards

Denis

Dr Denis Hankinson
President - Seventh-day Adventist Church (Victoria)
"

Posted by: awesumtenor Jun 4 2007, 10:11 AM

That loud THUD you just heard was the proverbial "other shoe"...

In His service,
Mr. J

Posted by: mozart Jun 4 2007, 10:12 AM

 dum-da-dum-dum-dummmmm ******

(for the youngsters that don't know.....that is the theme from dragnet - an old black and white TV detective show.
"Sgt. Joe Friday reporting Sir! Yessir! I'll get right on it Sir!")

> QUOTE(sonshineonme @ Jun 4 2007, 09:52 AM)
>
> I just received this email.
>
> "-------Original Message-------

> From: Denis Hankinson
> Date: 06/01/07 00:07:37
> Subject: Updates from SPD Administrators' Council and Institute of Public Evangelism Committees
>
> Greetings
>
> Just a quick update on the recent meetings I attended.
>
> Division Administrators -
> Update on 3ABN (bold emphasis mine)
> The General Conference has suspended 3ABN Supportive Ministry status until some well known issues in more than one area are sorted out. Basically, a lot of smoke doesn't necessarily presume a fire, but it definitely needs investigation and caution. "

Posted by: Denny Jun 4 2007, 10:14 AM

I hear the sound of chickens coming home.....

Posted by: Observer Jun 4 2007, 10:20 AM

> QUOTE(sonshineonme @ Jun 4 2007, 08:52 AM)
>
> I just received this email.
>
> "-------Original Message-------
>
> From: Denis Hankinson
> Date: 06/01/07 00:07:37
> Subject: Updates from SPD Administrators' Council and Institute of Public Evangelism Committees
>
> Greetings
>
> Just a quick update on the recent meetings I attended.
>
> Division Administrators -
> Update on 3ABN (bold emphasis mine)
> The General Conference has suspended 3ABN Supportive Ministry status until some well known issues in more than one area are sorted out. Basically, a lot of smoke doesn't necessarily presume a fire, but it definitely needs investigation and caution. " have contacted the appropriate person at the General Conference (e-mail and fax) and asked that person ither to vereify the quotation, or to otherwise comment on it. In addition, I have informed them that I will ost their response, whatever it is.

await their reply.

Posted by: ex3ABNemployee Jun 4 2007, 10:22 AM

> QUOTE(sonshineonme @ Jun 4 2007, 09:52 AM)
>
> I just received this email.
>
> "-------Original Message-------
>
> From: Denis Hankinson
> Date: 06/01/07 00:07:37
> Subject: Updates from SPD Administrators' Council and Institute of Public Evangelism Committees
>
> Greetings
>
> Just a quick update on the recent meetings I attended.
>
> Division Administrators -
> Update on 3ABN (bold emphasis mine)
> The General Conference has suspended 3ABN Supportive Ministry status until some well known issues in more than one area are sorted out. Basically, a lot of smoke doesn't necessarily presume a fire, but it definitely needs investigation and caution. "

Show of hands....who else would like to be a fly on the wall in Danny's office right now?

Posted by: mozart Jun 4 2007, 10:28 AM

me-e-e-e

> QUOTE(ex3ABNemployee @ Jun 4 2007, 10:22 AM)
>
> Show of hands....who else would like to be a fly on the wall in Danny's office right now?

Posted by: awesumtenor Jun 4 2007, 10:28 AM

> QUOTE(ex3ABNemployee @ Jun 4 2007, 12:22 PM)
>
> Show of hands....who else would like to be a fly on the wall in Danny's office right now?

h

Not to mention the burden of proof for Danny's legal dream team just got a bit heavier to bear... and any findings of fact the church has are bound to be exculpatory...

In His service,
Mr. J

Posted by: sonshineonme Jun 4 2007, 10:40 AM

> QUOTE(Observer @ Jun 4 2007, 09:20 AM)
>
> For those of you who may not know, Denis Hankinson is on the Executive Committe of the Australian Union Conference. I am not certain of his exact postion, otherwise.
>
> I have contacted the appropriate person at the General Conference (e-mail and fax) and asked that person either to vereify the quotation, or to otherwise comment on it. In addition, I have informed them that I will post their response, whatever it is.
>
> I await their reply.

My mistake, I left his signature off at bottom. I have added it to my original post.

Posted by: princessdi Jun 4 2007, 10:45 AM

Y'all excuse me a minute while I remove my tiara............... Dang!!!!! Ok hold on a minute............ ....Ok I'm back.......

Posted by: Observer Jun 4 2007, 10:53 AM

> QUOTE(sonshineonme @ Jun 4 2007, 09:40 AM)
>
> My mistake, I left his signature off at bottom. I have added it to my original post.

O.K. I have revised my comment.

Peace.

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Jun 4 2007, 11:12 AM

Definitly an interesting development....

Posted by: watchbird Jun 4 2007, 11:27 AM

> QUOTE(Observer @ Jun 4 2007, 12:20 PM)
>
> I have contacted the appropriate person at the General Conference (e-mail and fax) and asked that person either to vereify the quotation, or to otherwise comment on it. In addition, I have informed them that I will post their response, whatever it is.
>
> I await their reply.

That may not net you much in the way of response, for have heard that the GC does not want to be "involved" in anything. But I have also heard that these types of directives did indeed go out to various Divisions... who were seemingly expected to handle things in their own areas. I am really surprised that a conference official openly stated that this came from the GC.

We got word some weeks ago that there had been some action taken by the SPD, and later that this action had been in response to instructions from GC. But since this was not directly from a conference official who gave permission for his name to be attached, I have said nothing publicly about this previously. But hopefully, this is now the beginnings of open admission on the part of those in "high places" that they have indeed, been "doing something" behind the scenes all along, and are now, hopefully willing to make their actions public... or at least some of them.

Since this is so nearly identical to information I had received, albiet second-hand, from an SPD officer, I take this as confirmation of something that is, indeed factual.

Posted by: Observer Jun 4 2007, 11:50 AM

> QUOTE(watchbird @ Jun 4 2007, 11:27 AM)
>
> That may not net you much in the way of response, for have heard that the GC does not want to be "involved" in anything. But I have also heard that these types of directives did indeed go out to various Divisions... who were seemingly expected to handle things in their own areas. I am really surprised that a conference official openly stated that this came from the GC.
>
> We got word some weeks ago that there had been some action taken by the SPD, and later that this action had been in response to instructions from GC. But since this was not directly from a conference official who gave permission for his name to be attached, I have said nothing publicly about this previously. But hopefully, this is now the beginnings of open admission on the part of those in "high places" that they have indeed, been "doing something" behind the scenes all along, and are now, hopefully willing to make their actions public... or at least some of them.
>
> Since this is so nearly identical to information I had received, albiet second-hand, from an SPD officer, I take this as confirmation of something that is, indeed factual.

A number of us have been told that there is something along this line going on. But, we have not said anything because we were not able to verify it.

One question in my mind is: Is this an action of the General Conference, or of the South Pacific Division?

The bottom line is that now that this comment has been published, I can go back to people, ask for verification or comment, and tell them that I will publish thier comment.

I intend to seek comment from more than one source. I will keep you informed.

On a technicality: An action by a Division is an action by the General Conference for that Division. As organized, Divisions are sections of the General Conference, and are not seperate from the General Conference, as are Unions.

Posted by: SoulEspresso Jun 4 2007, 11:53 AM

> QUOTE(ex3ABNemployee @ Jun 4 2007, 09:22 AM)

> Show of hands....who else would like to be a fly on the wall in Danny's office right now?

Has anyone contacted 3ABN to ask them about it? I'm sorely tempted.

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Jun 4 2007, 11:59 AM

> QUOTE(SoulEspresso @ Jun 4 2007, 10:53 AM)
>
> Has anyone contacted 3ABN to ask them about it? I'm sorely tempted.

SE,

Sounds to me like, perhaps, a case of being "convicted" rather than "tempted". Best make that contact!

Posted by: Johann Jun 4 2007, 12:04 PM

> QUOTE(Observer @ Jun 4 2007, 07:50 PM)
>
> On a technicality: An action by a Division is an action by the General Conference for that Division. As organized, Divisions are sections of the General Conference, and are not seperate from the General Conference, as are Unions.

A Division President has - technically speaking - a status as a Vice President of the General Conference. A number of Division Presidents have moved away from their Division offices and resumed the position as general GC Vice Presidents. This is how a Division President explained it to me a number of years ago, and some time after that he also moved to Silver Springs.

Posted by: Observer Jun 4 2007, 12:26 PM

> QUOTE(SoulEspresso @ Jun 4 2007, 11:53 AM)
>
> Has anyone contacted 3ABN to ask them about it? I'm sorely tempted.

have contacted a source at Amazing Facts, and it is news to them. They are not aware of such.

Posted by: mikell Jun 4 2007, 12:38 PM

> QUOTE(sonshineonme @ Jun 4 2007, 09:52 AM)
>
> I just received this email.
>
> "-------Original Message-------
>
> From: Denis Hankinson
> Date: 06/01/07 00:07:37
> Subject: Updates from SPD Administrators' Council and Institute of Public Evangelism Committees
>
> Greetings
>
> Just a quick update on the recent meetings I attended.
>
> Division Administrators -
> Update on 3ABN (bold emphasis mine)
> The General Conference has suspended 3ABN Supportive Ministry status until some well known issues in more than one area are sorted out. Basically, a lot of smoke doesn't necessarily presume a fire, but it definitely needs investigation and caution.
>
> (edited rest of content in email not relating to this item)
> Kind regards
>
> Denis
>
> Dr Denis Hankinson
> President - Seventh-day Adventist Church (Victoria)
> "
>
> Wow, PRAISE GOD!!! Amazing, for the General Conference to have done that!!!!
> By the way, the author of rescue3abn.blog.com printed below his blog what came from 3ABN to him, a copy of "Cease and Desist" order of Gailon Joy! Who knows, just might be 3ABN's way to imply a threat to rescue3abn.blog.com, but maybe not???

Posted by: mikell Jun 4 2007, 01:03 PM

> QUOTE(mozart @ Jun 4 2007, 10:28 AM)
>
> me-e-e-e

Me TOO!!!! What GOOD NEWS!!!

NOW FOR SURE DOUG and AF WILL BACK OUT!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!

> QUOTE(Observer @ Jun 4 2007, 12:26 PM)
>
> I have contacted a source at Amazing Facts, and it is news to them. They are not aware of such.

Observer. That is surprising with NEWS like that! Well, regardless, now they have NO choice BUT to back out of the deal uniting with 3ABN, it is my prayer that DB does!!!

Posted by: Skyhook Jun 4 2007, 01:07 PM

If this is verified, and the GC is investigating, will it not bring the 3abn board into the hot seat as well as Danny? Aren't they theoretically accountable for 3abn?

Posted by: SoulEspresso Jun 4 2007, 01:15 PM

> QUOTE(Skyhook @ Jun 4 2007, 12:07 PM)
>
> If this is verified, and the GC is investigating, will it not bring the 3abn board into the hot seat as well as Danny? Aren't they theoretically accountable for 3abn?

It's hard for a man to see something when his paycheck [or other perks, status, etc] depends on his not seeing it.

If this is true (God let it be true) the entire administration of 3ABN is going to have to be replaced--everyone who has shilled for the Sheltons (say that out loud) ... JL, SQ, WT and on down. Some of them might be able to come back on the air in a few years, but only if they've been sufficiently chastened.

Posted by: mikell Jun 4 2007, 01:17 PM

> QUOTE(Skyhook @ Jun 4 2007, 01:07 PM)
>
> If this is verified, and the GC is investigating, will it not bring the 3abn board into the hot seat as well as Danny? Aren't they theoretically accountable for 3abn?

Skyhook, a VERY good quetion!

Posted by: Shepherdswife Jun 4 2007, 01:26 PM

> QUOTE(awesumtenor @ Jun 4 2007, 11:11 AM)
>
> That loud THUD you just heard was the proverbial "other shoe"...
>
> In His service,

> Mr. J

Oh! And I thought the loud thud was my fist crashing down on my desk, as I said "YES!!"

liked the wording--smoke doesn't necessarily mean fire, but it certainly necessitates an investigation! AMEN!

Shepherdswife---who doesn't take delight in misfortune or sadness, but who is VERY glad, as an abuse survivor, that this is finally being taken seriously...

Truth--that is what is needed here---whoever and wherever it comes from...

Posted by: Observer Jun 4 2007, 01:54 PM

> QUOTE(sonshineonme @ Jun 4 2007, 08:52 AM) ☐
>
> I just received this email.
>
> "-------Original Message-------
>
> From: Denis Hankinson
> Date: 06/01/07 00:07:37
> Subject: Updates from SPD Administrators' Council and Institute of Public Evangelism Committees
>
> Greetings
>
> Just a quick update on the recent meetings I attended.
>
> Division Administrators -
> Update on 3ABN (bold emphasis mine)
> The General Conference has suspended 3ABN Supportive Ministry status until some well known issues in more than one area are sorted out. Basically, a lot of smoke doesn't necessarily presume a fire, but it definitely needs investigation and caution.
>
> (edited rest of content in email not relating to this item)
> Kind regards
>
> Denis
>
> Dr Denis Hankinson
> President - Seventh-day Adventist Church (Victoria)
> "

> QUOTE(sonshineonme @ Jun 4 2007, 08:52 AM) ☐
>
> I just received this email.
>
> "-------Original Message-------
>
> From: Denis Hankinson
> Date: 06/01/07 00:07:37
> Subject: Updates from SPD Administrators' Council and Institute of Public Evangelism Committees

> Greetings
>
> Just a quick update on the recent meetings I attended.
>
> Division Administrators -
> Update on 3ABN (bold emphasis mine)
> The General Conference has suspended 3ABN Supportive Ministry status until some well known issues in more than one area are sorted out. Basically, a lot of smoke doesn't necessarily presume a fire, but it definitely needs investigation and caution.
>
> (edited rest of content in email not relating to this item)
> Kind regards
>
> Denis
>
> Dr Denis Hankinson
> President - Seventh-day Adventist Church (Victoria)
> "

have successfully made contact with an authorative individual at the General Conference. I have shared with hat person my concern that we have a statement from the General Conference that can be published here in lack.sda in regard to whether or not the statement by Denis Hankinson is accurate, and properly understood n regard to its meaning.

s a result of that, this person has informed me that he intends to discuss this with other more informed eople and get back with me in regard to such a statement that I can post here in BSDA.

t may be later in the week before he can get back to me. He feels a need to discuss this with people who are etter informed than he is.

am posting this statement with his knowledge.

Posted by: mikell Jun 4 2007, 02:24 PM

> QUOTE(sonshineonme @ Jun 4 2007, 09:52 AM) ☐
>
> I just received this email.
>
> "-------Original Message-------
>
> From: Denis Hankinson
> Date: 06/01/07 00:07:37
> Subject: Updates from SPD Administrators' Council and Institute of Public Evangelism Committees
>
> Greetings
>
> Just a quick update on the recent meetings I attended.
>
> Division Administrators -
> Update on 3ABN (bold emphasis mine)
> The General Conference has suspended 3ABN Supportive Ministry status until some well known issues in more than one area are sorted out. Basically, a lot of smoke doesn't necessarily presume a fire, but it definitely needs investigation and caution.

> (edited rest of content in email not relating to this item)
> Kind regards
>
> Denis
>
> Dr Denis Hankinson
> President - Seventh-day Adventist Church (Victoria)
> "

Sunshineonme, I just got off the telephone with Gailon Joy, and he told me that to be GC officially to stop any kind of support for 3ABN, would be in the coming fall meeting. Gailon, is not sure if this could be correct being out of the jurisdiction of the GC. He more likely thought that it would be the NAD to officially pull support from 3ABN to have any effect. I personally do not know, but I just hope that the GC can pull their support, and has along with the NAD as well!

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Jun 4 2007, 03:17 PM

What I hope is that we will get a clear and public statement from the GC that they are indeed investigating the alleged issues at 3abn. This would be a victory, in my opinion, to see that there are those in our leadership who are willing to admit that something may be amiss at this ministry that many feel represents our denomination, and that they have a duty to check it out!

Posted by: mikell Jun 4 2007, 03:28 PM

> QUOTE(PeacefullyBewildered @ Jun 4 2007, 03:17 PM)
>
> What I hope is that we will get a clear and public statement from the GC that they are indeed investigating the alleged issues at 3abn. This would be a victory, in my opinion, to see that there are those in our leadership who are willing to admit that something may be amiss at this ministry that many feel represents our denomination, and that they have a duty to check it out!

AMEN!
Save3abn.com
Rescue3abn.blog.com

Posted by: sonshineonme Jun 4 2007, 03:41 PM

> QUOTE(mikell @ Jun 4 2007, 01:24 PM)
>
> Sunshineonme, I just got off the telephone with Gailon Joy, and he told me that to be GC officially to stop any kind of support for 3ABN, would be in the coming fall meeting. Gailon, is not sure if this could be correct being out of the jurisdiction of the GC. He more likely thought that it would be the NAD to officially pull support from 3ABN to have any effect. I personally do not know, but I just hope that the GC can pull their support, and has along with the NAD as well!

As Joyce just posted in the other thread regarding "news release from amazing facts..."

"Denis Hankinson is the president of the Victoria Conference in Australia. The resolution suspending 3abn as an SDA supporting ministry, due to more than one issue of concern, came from the General Conference. The memo regarding the issue was sent to all the pastors in that conference."

this was my understanding from reading the email I received as well.

QUOTE(PeacefullyBewildered @ Jun 4 2007, 03:17 PM) *

What I hope is that we will get a clear and public statement from the GC that they are indeed investigating the alleged issues at 3abn. This would be a victory, in my opinion, to see that there are those in our leadership who are willing to admit that something may be amiss at this ministry that many feel represents our denomination, and that they have a duty to check it out!

> QUOTE(mikell @ Jun 4 2007, 02:28 PM)
>
> AMEN!
> Save3abn.com
> Rescue3abn.blog.com

I 2nd that

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Jun 4 2007, 03:52 PM

> QUOTE(sonshineonme @ Jun 4 2007, 02:41 PM)
>
> As Joyce just posted in the other thread regarding "news release from amazing facts..."
>
> "Denis Hankinson is the president of the Victoria Conference in Australia. The resolution suspending 3abn as an SDA supporting ministry, due to more than one issue of concern, came from the General Conference. The memo regarding the issue was sent to all the pastors in that conference."
>
> this was my understanding from reading the email I received as well.
> I 2nd that

Thanks to you and joyce for straightening me out! Somehow I misread the email you posted and thought the decision was from Dr. Denis Hankinson's conference, even though it clearly says "GC". I think I put Gregory's information about Denis' being a member of the Australian Union Conference Executive Committee along with his quote "Just a quick update on the recent meetings I attended." and made mistake of thinking that his committee was the one temporarily suspending the 3abn supporting ministry status.

☒ oo

Posted by: ex3ABNemployee Jun 4 2007, 04:00 PM

I guess the GC is another "little group" that is just out to attack Danny. I can't wait to hear his spin on this.

Come to think of it, I'd like to hear Steffan's comments on this as well. I never thought I would miss the dannyscribes, but I'd love to know what they're thinking right now.

Posted by: sonshineonme Jun 4 2007, 04:32 PM

> QUOTE(ex3ABNemployee @ Jun 4 2007, 03:00 PM) ☐
>
> I guess the GC is another "little group" that is just out to attack Danny. I can't wait to hear his spin on this.
>
> Come to think of it, I'd like to hear Steffan's comments on this as well. I never thought I would miss the dannyscribes, but I'd love to know what they're thinking right now.

No worries....I know they have been reading here at bsda, they know what's happening....I'm sure they are working on something as we speak. I'm sure they are hearing from others as we speak too...

I will be watching myself to see just how DS spins this one...all these little groups to manage, getting in the way...must keep a person busy.

Oh to be a fly....

Posted by: mozart Jun 4 2007, 04:42 PM

yes thanks from me too. that's how i misread it as well.

> QUOTE(PeacefullyBewildered @ Jun 4 2007, 03:52 PM) ☐
>
> Thanks to you and joyce for straightening me out! Somehow I misread the email you posted and thought the decision was from Dr. Denis Hankinson's conference, even though it clearly says "GC". I think I put Gregory's information about Denis' being a member of the Australian Union Conference Executive Committee along with his quote "Just a quick update on the recent meetings I attended." and made mistake of thinking that his committee was the one temporarily suspending the 3abn supporting ministry status.
>
> ☒ oo

Posted by: Johann Jun 4 2007, 04:45 PM

> QUOTE(PeacefullyBewildered @ Jun 4 2007, 11:52 PM) ☐
>
> Thanks to you and joyce for straightening me out! Somehow I misread the email you posted and thought the decision was from Dr. Denis Hankinson's conference, even though it clearly says "GC". I think I put Gregory's information about Denis' being a member of the Australian Union Conference Executive Committee along with his quote "Just a quick update on the recent meetings I attendehes, andd." and made mistake of thinking that his committee was the one temporarily suspending the 3abn supporting ministry status.

oo

ou might not have been too far off, PB! The statement could be slightly misleading. Really, the GC might end out directives to the Divisions, and they again to the Unions, who might forward them to the onferences. From there it is the option of the Conference if it will forward the directives to the local churches nd their pastors.

he letter we see tells us the directives here have been heeded by the Victoria Conference in Australia. That oes not tell us that any other conference has done the same.

t could well be that 3ABN has been aware of this move, and therefore we hear of John Lomacang praying hat Danny will see his way through the darkness, believing he, in spite of all, is the anointed one.

have watched Danny Shelton and Doug Batchelor on 3ABN this past weekend, and it seems obvious that anny is fighting a desperate fight. I was wondering why Molly appeared together with the 3ABN folks in ustralia again and again. Now it seems obvious this is a counterattack to convince people that 3ABN is, after ll, accepted by some people in Australia. At the same time she was appealing for funds to help 3ABN in ustralia. Those funds are sorely needed, according to Mollie.

Posted by: mozart Jun 4 2007, 04:51 PM

oh dear, so is it possible.......... oh, man, i feel like i've just had a wicked thought.
could GMcDanny have conned and used DB & AF with the emergency meetings and "jump the gun" announcement of a merger just to appeal for "millions of dollars for their joint venture and evangelical school"? i truly hope i'm wrong.

QUOTE(Johann @ Jun 4 2007, 04:45 PM)

> You might not have been too far off, PB! The statement could be slightly misleading. Really, the GC might send out directives to the Divisions, and they again to the Unions, who might forward them to the Conferences. From there it is the option of the Conference if it will forward the directives to the local churches and their pastors.
>
> The letter we see tells us the directives here have been heeded by the Victoria Conference in Australia. That does not tell us that any other conference has done the same.
>
> It could well be that 3ABN has been aware of this move, and therefore we hear of John Lomacang praying that Danny will see his way through the darkness, believing he, in spite of all, is the anointed one.
>
> I have watched Danny Shelton and Doug Batchelor on 3ABN this past weekend, and it seems obvious that Danny is fighting a desperate fight. I was wondering why Molly appeared together with the 3ABN folks in Australia again and again. Now it seems obvious this is a counterattack to convince people that 3ABN is, after all, accepted by some people in Australia. At the same time she was appealing for funds to help 3ABN in Australia. Those funds are sorely needed, according to Mollie.

Posted by: Johann Jun 4 2007, 04:55 PM

QUOTE(mozart @ Jun 5 2007, 12:51 AM)

> oh dear, so is it possible.......... oh, man, i feel like i've just had a wicked thought.
> could GMcDanny have conned and used DB & AF with the emergency meetings and "jump the gun" announcement of a merger just to appeal for "millions of dollars for their joint venture and evangelical school"? i truly hope i'm wrong.

Usually you ain't.

Posted by: SoulEspresso Jun 4 2007, 05:00 PM

Let's pray this announcment becomes public before too much $ goes into that ... sofa1.gif

---

Posted by: LadyTenor Jun 4 2007, 05:15 PM

> QUOTE(Denny @ Jun 4 2007, 12:14 PM)
>
> I hear the sound of chickens coming home.....

..to roost....

sn

> QUOTE(ex3ABNemployee @ Jun 4 2007, 12:22 PM)
>
> Show of hands....who else would like to be a fly on the wall in Danny's office right now?

Talia raises her hand....

> QUOTE(mikell @ Jun 4 2007, 03:03 PM)
>
> Well, regardless, now they have NO choice BUT to back out of the deal uniting with 3ABN, it is my prayer that DB does!!!

Nothing says that DB or his minstry has to back out of this deal.....

Posted by: Johann Jun 4 2007, 05:15 PM

> QUOTE(SoulEspresso @ Jun 5 2007, 01:00 AM)
>
> Let's pray this announcment becomes public before too much $ goes into that ... sofa1.gif

Amen!

Posted by: mikell Jun 4 2007, 05:17 PM

> QUOTE(ex3ABNemployee @ Jun 4 2007, 04:00 PM)
>
> I guess the GC is another "little group" that is just out to attack Danny. I can't wait to hear his spin on this.
>
> Come to think of it, I'd like to hear Steffan's comments on this as well. I never thought I would miss the dannyscribes, but I'd love to know what they're thinking right now.

Hi, ex3abner, . Since you been there and know alot what is going on, could you tell me if rescue3abn.blog.com is over the top? If everything in it is true, Ha, Danny should be burning in hell fire! It can't be all that bad, is it??? Is it possible that Danny is being just misunderstood, a victim????

Posted by: rwelchcrs Jun 4 2007, 05:20 PM

This announcement of GC involvement is the event I've been waiting for a long time. If any GC official is reading here, I want you to know that I am one lay person who is very grateful to see evidence that the leadership is finally stepping up. My confidence in you is being restored. But, don't stop here! Please make it loud and clear that you are concerned, that you care, and that you do indeed believe there is sufficient reason to investigate the 3ABN issues, and to caution the laity to be careful with their donations.

Posted by: SoulEspresso Jun 4 2007, 05:24 PM

> QUOTE(rwelchcrs @ Jun 4 2007, 04:20 PM)
>
> This announcement of GC involvement is the event I've been waiting for a long time. If any GC official is reading here, I want you to know that I am one lay person who is very grateful to see evidence that the leadership is finally stepping up. My confidence in you is being restored. But, don't stop here! Please make it loud and clear that you are concerned, that you care, and that you do indeed believe there is sufficient reason to investigate the 3ABN issues, and to caution the laity to be careful with their donations.

Everything rwelchcrs said!

Posted by: watchbird Jun 4 2007, 05:57 PM

> QUOTE(rwelchcrs @ Jun 4 2007, 07:20 PM)
>
> This announcement of GC involvement is the event I've been waiting for a long time. If any GC official is reading here, I want you to know that I am one lay person who is very grateful to see evidence that the leadership is finally stepping up. My confidence in you is being restored. But, don't stop here! Please make it loud and clear that you are concerned, that you care, and that you do indeed believe there is sufficient reason to investigate the 3ABN issues, and to caution the laity to be careful with their donations.

> QUOTE(SoulEspresso @ Jun 4 2007, 07:24 PM) ☐
>
> Everything rwelchcrs said!

.... and MORE!...... ☒

Posted by: Fran Jun 4 2007, 07:03 PM

This morning I received this through the email. I have waited for the person who sent it to post it. Since they have not, I am posting it.

There were several other items of interest that I feel are good moves by our General Conference of Seventh-day Adventists.

I am also waiting for confirmation that this is indeed fact. I spoke to Mollie this AM. She had no idea what I was talking about. I referred her to BSDA.

I have very emotional feelings about this action, if indeed it is true. My heart is broken that things have come this far.

I am one that wants 3ABN the network to survive and turn around to truly become God's ministry vs. Danny's Ministry.

However, it hurts me because I believe God is grieving over this matter. Our Lord is very long suffering and kind He has waited 3 years for the turn around to happen. He has given every opportunity for those at 3ABN to see the light, but sometimes we have a hard time letting go of something we have believed in and worked for.

I have to finish my stages of grief before I am sure what I feel.

As drastic a measure as this seems, it had to be done. The World church must form a united front and lead us into the path of righteousness instead of taking no action at all as it does so many times.

Notice the other items that are covered in this communique. Notice the Church Name Protection; Reinstatement of Ministers Fallen from Grace; Workload and other HR concerns.

> QUOTE
>
> Greetings
>
> Just a quick update on the recent meetings I attended.
>
> Division Administrators meetings
>
> Update on 3ABN
>
> The General Conference has suspended 3ABN's Supportive Ministry status until some well known issues in more than one area are sorted out. Basically, a lot of smoke doesn't necessarily presume a fire, but it definitely needs investigation and caution.
>
> Human Resources and Work Choices and Volunteers
>
> There is a lot of work for our HR department and Executive in trying to make sure we are regulation compliant.

The main impact is on Volunteers. The legislation has tightened up in this area, so before coming to an arrangement for someone to do regular work for your church on a volunteer basis, please check with Wayne Stanley who heads up our HR department.

Church Name Protection

It is very important that any group that is not part of our church but uses our name needs to be reported to the Conference. If not followed up in a reasonable time it leaves our church less able to stop the misuse of our name in the future. For queries in this area, please see Wayne Stanley.

Ministry of Reconciliation

The General Conference is putting special focus into discipleship in the next year or two. For every 100 baptism world-wide, approximately 35 people will drop out. As Laurie Evans stated, "When a church fails to nurture new converts, it fails to fulfil the Great Commission to make disciples."

They are asking all levels of church to seriously look at the issue of non-attending members. Any ideas or suggestions are very welcome. As you know, discipling is one of the major focus areas for Victoria following the Finley crusade.

Reinstatement of Ministers Fallen from Grace

Reports from two committees were given.

Firstly, the Biblical Research Committee looked at this issue from a theological perspective. One of their conclusions was that there is no absolute prohibition which denies such possibilities under all circumstances, either in the Bible or in the writings of Ellen G White. General support was given to the principles as outlined in the Church Manual, but a further committee has been set up to look at ways to handle healthy exceptions to the guideline that there is no possibility of return to ministry.

Administration Work Loads

There was another report from a sub-committee that looked at the problems arising from the major increase in the past five years of government compliance. The new accounting standards, Incorporation, OH&S, Duty of Care as an employer, the changing HR environment and the continual challenge of healthy and safe church environments for children etc.

IPE Committee

Search II

The go ahead has been given for Search II, an extreme upgrade with five totally new programs and four new upgrades to be done in the next year. There is a committee that is starting work on a totally new series and a search is on for a new presenter to be trained in media skills. There is a budget of about $120,000 with Geoff Youlden still as main front man. This has a completion date of the next six years or so.

Graduates Tea

It was good to have the usual chat and interview of the Theology graduates for this year. Peter Watts and his wife, currently sponsored by Victoria are looking forward to coming to work in Victoria.

Thanks for all the energy that so many of you are putting into the Finley Crusade.

Kind regards

> Denis
>
> Dr Denis Hankinson
> President - Seventh-day Adventist Church (Victoria)
> Phone (0x) xxxx xxxx : pastor_denis@xxxxxxxx.xxx.xx
> "Preparing for Eternity by living life to the full following Jesus"

Posted by: mikell Jun 4 2007, 07:35 PM

> QUOTE(Fran @ Jun 4 2007, 07:03 PM)
>
> This morning I received this through the email. I have waited for the person who sent it to post it. Since they have not, I am posting it.
>
> There were several other items of interest that I feel are good moves by our General Conference of Seventh-day Adventists.
>
> I am also waiting for confirmation that this is indeed fact. I spoke to Mollie this AM. She had no idea what I was talking about. I referred her to BSDA.
>
> I have very emotional feelings about this action, if indeed it is true. My heart is broken that things have come this far.
>
> I am one that wants 3ABN the network to survive and turn around to truly become God's ministry vs. Danny's Ministry.
>
> However, it hurts me because I believe God is grieving over this matter. Our Lord is very long suffering and kind He has waited 3 years for the turn around to happen. He has given every opportunity for those at 3ABN to see the light, but sometimes we have a hard time letting go of something we have believed in and worked for.
>
> I have to finish my stages of grief before I am sure what I feel.
>
> As drastic a measure as this seems, it had to be done. The World church must form a united front and lead us into the path of righteousness instead of taking no action at all as it does so many times.
>
> Notice the other items that are covered in this communique. Notice the Church Name Protection; Reinstatement of Ministers Fallen from Grace; Workload and other HR concerns.

)kay, and the bottom line is...???

Posted by: Fran Jun 4 2007, 08:24 PM

Disclaimer:

I did not post to repeat what had already been posted. I appreciated the post made this AM..

We, at BSDA, are blessed with some very informed individuals. I thought about posting everything but the 3ABN part, but decided it was better as whole instead of pieces and parts. I apologize for the paragraph that was posted again.

I just felt there were other items that should be of interest. Name protection was one. The other was about pastors that have fallen from Grace.

I feel issues at 3ABN have caused an awareness of other very important issues that the World Church has failed to adequately deal with previously.

This email shows me that the church will address these issues at this time. My apologies for any redundancies.

Posted by: roxe Jun 4 2007, 08:41 PM

> QUOTE(Fran @ Jun 4 2007, 07:03 PM)
>
> <snip>
> I have very emotional feelings about this action, if indeed it is true. My heart is broken that things have come this far.
> I am one that wants 3ABN the network to survive and turn around to truly become God's ministry vs. Danny's Ministry.
> However, it hurts me because I believe God is grieving over this matter. Our Lord is very long suffering and kind He has waited 3 years for the turn around to happen. He has given every opportunity for those at 3ABN to see the light, but sometimes we have a hard time letting go of something we have believed in and worked for.
> I have to finish my stages of grief before I am sure what I feel.
> As drastic a measure as this seems, it had to be done. The World church must form a united front and lead us into the path of righteousness instead of taking no action at all as it does so many times.

fran, i too am grieving over this mess... i've been numb since starting to read this forum last november. and i know God isn't laughing about it either. but how else can He get their attention when it appears they've allowed the enemy to gain such control of their minds? i pray every day for God to free everyone there from satan's control who needs to be freed - NO MATTER WHAT IT TAKES.

Posted by: ex3ABNemployee Jun 4 2007, 09:08 PM

> QUOTE(mikell @ Jun 4 2007, 06:17 PM)
>
> Hi, ex3abner, . Since you been there and know alot what is going on, could you tell me if rescue3abn.blog.com is over the top? If everything in it is true, Ha, Danny should be burning in hell fire! It can't be all that bad, is it??? Is it possible that Danny is being just misunderstood, a victim????

I can't say for sure that it's all true, but I know at least some of it is. Apparently someone at 3ABN thinks so, too, or they wouldn't have sent a copy of the "cease and desist" letter.

Posted by: Fran Jun 4 2007, 09:19 PM

pe

> QUOTE(roxe @ Jun 4 2007, 08:41 PM)
>
> fran, i too am grieving over this mess... I've been numb since starting to read this forum last November. and i know God isn't laughing about it either. but how else can He get their attention when it appears they've allowed the enemy to gain such control of their minds? i pray every day for God to free everyone > there from Satan's control who needs to be freed - NO MATTER WHAT IT TAKES.

praise God the World Church has taken this stand. It has been a long time in coming.

rejoice that this has happened.

am sorrowful it had to happen.

hese mixed emotions are strange. On one hand, I am like the member who hit her desk and said ES! On the other hand, I cry for those who have failed to heed the call of God. We have all waited or 3 years for the church to act or for Danny to act. Praise God for a church that when hit with a rick in the head, finally listens. Oh, if Danny could have done the same.

ack to our regularly scheduled programming.

will get to how I truly feel tomorrow or the next day.

Posted by: Shepherdswife Jun 4 2007, 09:26 PM

> QUOTE(mikell @ Jun 4 2007, 06:17 PM)
>
> Hi, ex3abner, . Since you been there and know alot what is going on, could you tell me if rescue3abn.blog.com is over the top? If everything in it is true, Ha, Danny should be burning in hell fire! It can't be all that bad, is it??? Is it possible that Danny is being just misunderstood, a victim????

ikell, do you know the owner/writer of the rescue3abn blog? You mention it quite frequently so I thought ou might know...
ike the savegailon site, it does not have any indication of ownership that I could find. Which makes me, even hough I have read some of what is on it from other, more credible sites, not put much stock in it.

ome of the allegations that are made there are consistent with and corroborated by other reports or yewitness accounts, but others are pretty much hearsay and speculation and cannot be "proven" at this ime, in my opinion. And they are stated as fact on the site, as if there could be no doubt whatsoever, which ives me pause as to it's credibility.

aybe that is why the writer isn't willing to give his name? I was impressed by the way J&P have been willing o openly state their name, and have gone out of their way to find supporting documents and statements to ack up their points. I am not sure I would base my opinions on what Danny has or hasn't done on a site like escue3abn.

nd I know you were not asking me the question you asked above at the end of your post, but you have sked a similar question in several posts, so I will take a stab at it. There is a lot of territory between burning in hell" and "just a misunderstood victim". And though it is tempting, as humans, to put people as all lack or all white (not speaking skin color here) I don't believe it wise to go to those extremes. None of us are ll good or all bad. We are all somewhere along the continuum, and the direction we are headed is at least as mportant, if not more so, than where we are. I am not sticking up for Danny, and I want an impartial nvestigation as much as anyone, but I also have a hard time with allegations being quoted as facts until ore of them have been proven to be so. That just rouses emotions which can cloud issues rather than clarify them.

Again, just my opinion...

shepherdswife

Posted by: Rosyroi Jun 4 2007, 09:47 PM

> QUOTE(ex3ABNemployee @ Jun 4 2007, 08:08 PM)
>
> I can't say for sure that it's all true, but I know at least some of it is. Apparently someone at 3ABN thinks so, too, or they wouldn't have sent a copy of the "cease and desist" letter.

Subject: GC email.
My take is that it looks cautious. We can jump up and down for joy that GC is finally making a statement of any kind concerning Danny Shelton mismanaging all concerns in 3ABN money, staff, former staff, relatives, etc.... But this does not mean that we can start choosing the new Prez, CEO, Board and other Admin. at 3ABN shortly. We don't know how long this study will take place. We can start thinking of new admin in the meantime.

Subject: Rescue3ABN website:
I think the language content should have been a lot more Christ-like. The information may or may not, all or part be true. It does not appear to have been written prayerfully. I am personally embarrassed it exists. In my opinion this is not what Jesus would have done.

These strong worded websites put out do not reflect Christ-like attitudes no matter who they are saying they are for or against. They also help me appreciate BLACKSDA and the admin for keeping this thread clean.

Thank you Admin BSDA.

I may be talking ultra conservative, so be it. Mabe it will keep me from the courts for it. I can't afford to be sued by anyone for any reason.

JMO

Rsyroi

Posted by: mikell Jun 4 2007, 10:25 PM

> QUOTE(Shepherdswife @ Jun 4 2007, 09:26 PM)
>
> Mikell, do you know the owner/writer of the rescue3abn blog? You mention it quite frequently so I thought you might know...
> Like the savegailon site, it does not have any indication of ownership that I could find. Which makes me, even though I have read some of what is on it from other, more credible sites, not put much stock in it.
>
> Some of the allegations that are made there are consistent with and corroborated by other reports or eyewitness accounts, but others are pretty much hearsay and speculation and cannot be "proven" at this time, in my opinion. And they are stated as fact on the site, as if there could be no doubt whatsoever, which gives me pause as to it's credibility.

> Maybe that is why the writer isn't willing to give his name? I was impressed by the way J&P have been willing to openly state their name, and have gone out of their way to find supporting documents and statements to back up their points. I am not sure I would base my opinions on what Danny has or hasn't done on a site like rescue3abn.
>
> And I know you were not asking me the question you asked above at the end of your post, but you have asked a similar question in several posts, so I will take a stab at it. There is a lot of territory between "burning in hell" and "just a misunderstood victim". And though it is tempting, as humans, to put people as all black or all white (not speaking skin color here) I don't believe it wise to go to those extremes. None of us are all good or all bad. We are all somewhere along the continuum, and the direction we are headed is at least as important, if not more so, than where we are. I am not sticking up for Danny, and I want an impartial investigation as much as anyone, but I also have a hard time with allegations being quoted as facts until more of them have been proven to be so. That just rouses emotions which can cloud issues rather than clarify them.
>
> Again, just my opinion...
>
> shepherdswife

hank you for your thoughtful balance reply. I know so much is out there and like what I read on unshineonme site about the GC to pulling their support wrote, "A lot of smoke doesn't necessarily presume a ire." That could be true, but sure is a LOT of SMOKE! Maybe the writer of rescue3abn.blog.com does not vant to be known knowning how sue happy Danny is,

---

Posted by: Artiste Jun 4 2007, 11:55 PM

> QUOTE(Fran @ Jun 4 2007, 07:19 PM)
>
> I praise God the World Church has taken this stand. It has been a long time in coming.
>
> I rejoice that this has happened.
>
> I am sorrowful it had to happen.
>
> These mixed emotions are strange. On one hand, I am like the member who hit her desk and said YES! On the other hand, I cry for those who have failed to heed the call of God. We have all waited for 3 years for the church to act or for Danny to act. Praise God for a church that when hit with a brick in the head, finally listens. Oh, if Danny could have done the same.

'es, I agree, there are a lot of mixed feelings...for those of us who have suffered at the hands of individuals ıssociated with, supported by, promoted by 3ABN, much relief, but still sadness...

Posted by: watchbird Jun 5 2007, 07:27 AM

Getting back to the opening post and questions of verification.....

> QUOTE(Observer @ Jun 4 2007, 01:50 PM)

> A number of us have been told that there is something along this line going on. But, we have not said anything because we were not able to verify it.
>
> One question in my mind is: Is this an action of the General Conference, or of the South Pacific Division?
>
> The bottom line is that now that this comment has been published, I can go back to people, ask for verification or comment, and tell them that I will publish thier comment.
>
> I intend to seek comment from more than one source. I will keep you informed.
>
> On a technicality: An action by a Division is an action by the General Conference for that Division. As organized, Divisions are sections of the General Conference, and are not seperate from the General Conference, as are Unions.

have now seen emails from persons of rank in various levels in the South Pacific Division which confirm the uthenticity and legitimacy of the letter posted here. I do not have permission to give their names or to irectly quote their letters, but I will say that they are from church leaders in that area, and do make it clear hat the directive comes from the GC, with the action being taken by the Division.

also have word from within the NAD that the same directive and action is being taken in NAD, and this is in rocess of being communicated to all Conference levels in the NAD, who will then communicate with their astors. This has been further clarified as having to do with programming... that is to say that church leaders re now banned from doing any new appearances or programming on 3abn or in their studios. It does not xtend to re-runs of previously made programming. It will eventually reach down to include other church mployees such as pastors.

nd no... I cannot reveal the source of my information.

nd btw... I cannot identify with those who are reporting such "mixed emotions" over this action. I have dentified much too strongly with the victims... and those who live in fear of becoming victimized... I have for oo long prayed the prayer of the "souls under the altar", "How long, O Lord, How long?!" to have any motions over these recent actions other than a fervent, "Thank God".

Posted by: Artiste Jun 5 2007, 07:32 AM

> QUOTE(watchbird @ Jun 5 2007, 05:27 AM)
>
> Getting back to the opening post and questions of verification.....
>
> And btw... I cannot identify with those who are reporting such "mixed emotions" over this action. I have identified much too strongly with the victims... and those who live in fear of becoming victimized... I have for too long prayed the prayer of the "souls under the altar", "How long, O Lord, How long?!" to have any emotions over these recent actions other than a fervent, "Thank God".

ather cold reaction, I would say, Watchbird...

****

Posted by: SoulEspresso Jun 5 2007, 07:55 AM

> QUOTE(Artiste @ Jun 5 2007, 06:32 AM)
>
> Rather cold reaction, I would say, Watchbird...
>
> **

Not everyone has been a fan of 3ABN's programming. I wasn't, particularly. The reason I want the ministry to clean up and continue is because it has in fact brought a lot of people to know Christ--good friends of mine. Just because I didn't watch it, doesn't mean it didn't do a lot of good. It did.

I for one have been tired of seeing my church hurt by stuff like this that happens on a local level. I'm praying that such a high profile uncovering may lead people in the rank-and-file to check themselves.

To me, the spiritual well being of individuals is more important than the operations of any TV channel. Maybe that is cold, but this church has needed to encourage more discernment for years.

Posted by: Artiste Jun 5 2007, 08:35 AM

> QUOTE(SoulEspresso @ Jun 5 2007, 05:55 AM)
>
> Not everyone has been a fan of 3ABN's programming. I wasn't, particularly. The reason I want the ministry to clean up and continue is because it has in fact brought a lot of people to know Christ--good friends of mine. Just because I didn't watch it, doesn't mean it didn't do a lot of good. It did.
>
> I for one have been tired of seeing my church hurt by stuff like this that happens on a local level. I'm praying that such a high profile uncovering may lead people in the rank-and-file to check themselves.
>
> To me, the spiritual well being of individuals is more important than the operations of any TV channel. Maybe that is cold, but this church has needed to encourage more discernment for years.

I haven't been a huge fan of 3ABN's programming, either. I never watched it at all until some this last year. (Remember, I'm from Southern California...)

Maybe my feelings were that those of us who have actually been victimized by people who are associated with 3ABN may have more complex reactions than ones who see only a black and white situation (with all due respect to Watchbird's position and inside information).

****

Quote (watchbird @ Jun 5 2007, 05:27AM)

"And btw...I cannot identify with those who are reporting such "mixed emotions" over this action."

****

Posted by: SoulEspresso Jun 5 2007, 09:19 AM

> QUOTE(Artiste @ Jun 5 2007, 08:35 AM)
>
> I haven't been a huge fan of 3ABN's programming, either. I never watched it at all until some this last year. (Remember, I'm from Southern California...)

> Maybe my feelings were that those of us who have actually been victimized by people who are associated with 3ABN may have more complex reactions than ones who see only a black and white situation (with all due respect to Watchbird's position and inside information).

misunderstood you. Sorry about that. And sorry to hear you were victimized.

ne of our members said something in the shoutbox today (don't have their permission so I'm not putting up he name) that I thought was worth commenting on. They said they were in a grieving process over the 3ABN ness.

thought, of course. Someone who felt close to these people after seeing them on TV a lot would definitely go hrough that.

bring it up because it's on us to find ways to minister to fellow members when this starts getting bigger. A ot of people are going to go through a lot of grief.

Posted by: erik Jun 5 2007, 09:23 AM

I am Glad That it appears that GOd is moving his church to at least to start looking hard and fast at 3abn.

PRaise him.

Erik

Posted by: Noahswife Jun 5 2007, 09:57 AM

> QUOTE(erik @ Jun 5 2007, 11:23 AM) ☐
>
> I am Glad That it appears that GOd is moving his church to at least to start looking hard and fast at 3abn.
>
> PRaise him.
>
> Erik

rik

ood to see you around again.

w

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Jun 5 2007, 10:33 AM

> QUOTE(watchbird @ Jun 5 2007, 05:27 AM) ☐
>
> Getting back to the opening post and questions of verification.....

> I have now seen emails from persons of rank in various levels in the South Pacific Division which confirm the authenticity and legitimacy of the letter posted here. I do not have permission to give their names or to directly quote their letters, but I will say that they are from church leaders in that area, and do make it clear that the directive comes from the GC, with the action being taken by the Division.
>
> I also have word from within the NAD that the same directive and action is being taken in NAD, and this is in process of being communicated to all Conference levels in the NAD, who will then communicate with their pastors. This has been further clarified as having to do with programming... that is to say that church leaders are now banned from doing any new appearances or programming on 3abn or in their studios. It does not extend to re-runs of previously made programming. It will eventually reach down to include other church employees such as pastors.
>
> And no... I cannot reveal the source of my information.
>
> And btw... I cannot identify with those who are reporting such "mixed emotions" over this action. I have identified much too strongly with the victims... and those who live in fear of becoming victimized... I have for too long prayed the prayer of the "souls under the altar", "How long, O Lord, How long?!" to have any emotions over these recent actions other than a fervent, "Thank God".

VB,

Vhen the email was posted by SSOM yesterday morning, it looked like a big deal - a real turn of the tide. low, with your further information as well as added corroboration, it is becoming quite clear that this is a najor step towards unmasking the "alleged" foul works by some in leadership. Will we finally see the carpet hrown aside and the many lumps being hidden there duly analyzed? For the sake of each victim, I truly hope o.

Vhat remains to be seen is if someone of great wealth and influence will find a way to countermand this rogress. This is a time for fervent prayer, IMO.

understand your perspective on the mixed emotions some have on this issue. From what I have read of your osts here, you seem to have been aware of this situation far longer than many of us and I believe you have greater grasp of the overall picture and on the effect it has/is having on our denomination. Those of us who ave had a connection with 3abn in the past, as I have, and who have been dismayed to find the image so ontrary to the actual actions of those we thought we "knew" will have those mixed emotions - some to a reater degree than others.

o those who are having those mixed emotions I would say, focus on the hope that finally the victims of this ut-of-whack threshing machine called the leadership of 3abn may be vindicated and find healing and that ny further victimization in the name of the image of Danny Shelton will be stopped!

Posted by: Observer Jun 5 2007, 10:36 AM

Gentle people:

I have been in contact today, with the person in the General Conference whom I asked to respond to Elder Hankinson's comment published at the beginning of this thread.

As a result of that conversation, I will make the following statement, which is one that I have written:

"The comment by Elder Hankinson, as published at the beginning of this thread, as posted here, and as it is being understood by people reading it, is not totally accurate as it applies to the situation today."

I have been asked not to post the name of the person with whom I have spoken.

NOTE: There is no implication that Elder Hankinson intended to decieve anyone. My comment is a simple statemenet that the brevity of his statement, and how people are understanding it, leads to potential misunderstandings that are not 100 % correct, today.

The question that many people may ask is: "Will the General Conference make a statement that clairfies the relatlionship between the General Conference and 3-ABN?"

That is a valid question that thinking people would be expected to ask.

I will respond to that question:

We shall have to wait and see. I cannot say that the General Conference either will make such a statement, or that it will not make such. This whole situation is developing. The announcement of the proposed merger between Amazing Facts and 3-ABN has elevated this to the attention of people who had not previously been informed. With the passage of time we shall see how this develops.

Sorry, that is all that I can say today.

Posted by: mikell Jun 5 2007, 11:07 AM

One would think that Db is in conference right now with the board members of AF, discussing a polite way out, do you think? ☒ tableta

---

Posted by: Artiste Jun 5 2007, 12:12 PM

> QUOTE(mikell @ Jun 5 2007, 09:07 AM) ☐
>
> One would think that Db is in conference right now with the board members of AF, discussing a polite way out, do you think? ☒ tableta

I notice that the promotion of the September series by DB with a link to the various churches in different states that would host the meetings through 3ABN has suddenly disappeared from the Amazing Facts web site.

> QUOTE(PeacefullyBewildered @ Jun 5 2007, 08:33 AM) ☐
>
> WB,
>
> When the email was posted by SSOM yesterday morning, it looked like a big deal - a real turn of the tide. Now, with your further information as well as added corroboration, it is becoming quite clear that this is a major step towards unmasking the "alleged" foul works by some in leadership. Will we finally see the carpet thrown aside and the many lumps being hidden there duly analyzed? For the sake of each victim, I truly hope so.
>
> What remains to be seen is if someone of great wealth and influence will find a way to countermand this progress. This is a time for fervent prayer, IMO.
>
> I understand your perspective on the mixed emotions some have on this issue. From what I have read of your posts here, you seem to have been aware of this situation far longer than many of us and I believe you have a greater grasp of the overall picture and on the effect it has/is having on our denomination. Those of us who have had a connection with 3abn in the past, as I have, and who have been dismayed to find the image so contrary to the actual actions of those we thought we "knew" will have those mixed emotions - some to a greater degree than others.

> To those who are having those mixed emotions I would say, focus on the hope that finally the victims of this out-of-whack threshing machine called the leadership of 3abn may be vindicated and find healing and that any further victimization in the name of the image of Danny Shelton will be stopped!

hank you, PB, for your astute observations.

nd as was mentioned in the Shoutbox, yes, there is grieving going on.

Posted by: mikell Jun 5 2007, 01:13 PM

About the grieving going on, to who does 3ABN belongs to, the Lord or to a man? Could what is going on through the GC announcement be the Lord's way to purge out the old leaven of the leadership of His 3ABN for 3ABN so they can once again to proclaim His Everlasting Gospel to go throughout the world through a holy people?

Is it not true, only a holy people can do a holy work? If a fruit tree has a large decaying limb, does not mean the whole tree is bad and should be cut down thrown into the fire. God forbid! GC is God's vinedresser who seem are about to prune away the limb so the fruit tree to survive, thus will give better fruit then ever done before.

Be of good cheer. The Glory of God will shine that much more through 3ABN for all to behold the Everlasting Gospel the world over, let us say if someone like Doug Bachelor takes total control to become the new CEO of 3ABN. Does not our God always win?

PS, anyone who would be interested, the writer of rescue3abn.blog.com posted at the end of the blog, what he or she got from 3ABN, a copy of a "Cease and Desist" order of Gailon Joy's. In the wrter recieving that, it appears to be a imply threat.

Posted by: mozart Jun 5 2007, 01:14 PM

what you say here SE is SO important. i hope those who are so anxious to see the fall of some will remember the crowd, many times multiplied, who will be hurting for lack of understanding. the majority of those people will be hearing these things for the first time. we need to be mindful of and sensitive to their feelings, confusion and grief.

> QUOTE(SoulEspresso @ Jun 5 2007, 09:19 AM)
>
> I misunderstood you. Sorry about that. And sorry to hear you were victimized.
>
> One of our members said something in the shoutbox today (don't have their permission so I'm not putting up the name) that I thought was worth commenting on. They said they were in a grieving process over the 3ABN mess.
>
> I thought, of course. Someone who felt close to these people after seeing them on TV a lot would definitely go through that.
>
> I bring it up because it's on us to find ways to minister to fellow members when this starts getting bigger. A lot of people are going to go through a lot of grief.

Posted by: Daryl Fawcett Jun 5 2007, 01:52 PM

Well, Observer's post, now brings an element of confusion into the picture.

Was that Conference President off the track when he said what he said to all of his pastors about the Update on 3ABN?

It is obvious to me that in light of this posted email, the General Conference will need to make some kind of a statement.

Posted by: Observer Jun 5 2007, 02:42 PM

> QUOTE(Daryl Fawcett @ Jun 5 2007, 01:52 PM) ☐
>
> Well, Observer's post, now brings an element of confusion into the picture.
>
> Was that Conference President off the track when he said what he said to all of his pastors about the Update on 3ABN?
>
> It is obvious to me that in light of this posted email, the General Conference will need to make some kind of a statement.

We may jsut have to wait to see how they develop.

Posted by: Ozzie Jun 5 2007, 03:50 PM

> QUOTE(Observer @ Jun 6 2007, 02:36 AM) ☐
>
> Gentle people:
>
> I have been in contact today, with the person in the General Conference whom I asked to respond to Elder Hankinson's comment published at the beginning of this thread.
>
> As a result of that conversation, I will make the following statement, which is one that I have written:
>
> "The comment by Elder Hankinson, as published at the beginning of this thread, as posted here, and as it is being understood by people reading it, is not totally accurate as it applies to the situation today."
>
> I have been asked not to post the name of the person with whom I have spoken.
>
> NOTE: There is no implication that Elder Hankinson intended to decieve anyone. My comment is a simple statemenet that the brevity of his statement, and how people are understanding it, leads to potential misunderstandings that are not 100 % correct, today.
>
> The question that many people may ask is: "Will the General Conference make a statement that clairfies the relatlionship between the General Conference and 3-ABN?"
>
> That is a valid question that thinking people would be expected to ask.
>
> I will respond to that question:
>
> We shall have to wait and see. I cannot say that the General Conference either will make such a statement, or that it will not make such. This whole situation is developing. The announcement of the proposed merger between Amazing Facts and 3-ABN has elevated this to the attention of people who had not previously been informed. With the passage of time we shall see how this develops.

> Sorry, that is all that I can say today.

have communicated with two of our leaders here is Australia yesterday, and they verified what enis was quoted as saying in the initial email that was posted here. Like you Observer, I do not ave permission to name my sources. Those people confirmed to me (in part) that:

'The operation of 3 ABN has been a source of concern to the General Conference for quite some ime due to allegations that surfaced publicly in respect to some governance issues as well as in ome other areas. The position that the General Conference has taken is simply to state that until uch allegations have been worked through in a proper manner they are suspending any further irect involvement with them when it comes to their programs etc.
understand that this matter is being addressed by 3 ABN Board and so hopefully the air will be leared before too long. The effect of this action is that the processing of service requests for ABN personnel as a consequence have been temporarily suspended."

e need to prayerfully watch and wait. I cannot say more.

Posted by: Skyhook Jun 5 2007, 03:56 PM

> QUOTE(Ozzie @ Jun 5 2007, 04:50 PM) ☐
>
> I have communicated with two of our leaders here is Australia yesterday, and they verified what Denis was quoted as saying in the initial email that was posted here. Like you Observer, I do not have permission to name my sources. Those people confirmed to me (in part) that:
>
> "The operation of 3 ABN has been a source of concern to the General Conference for quite some time due to allegations that surfaced publicly in respect to some governance issues as well as in some other areas. The position that the General Conference has taken is simply to state that until such allegations have been worked through in a proper manner they are suspending any further direct involvement with them when it comes to their programs etc.
> I understand that this matter is being addressed by 3 ABN Board and so hopefully the air will be cleared before too long. The effect of this action is that the processing of service requests for 3ABN personnel as a consequence have been temporarily suspended."
>
> We need to prayerfully watch and wait. I cannot say more.

hat is a "service request for 3abn persomell"?

Posted by: sonshineonme Jun 5 2007, 03:59 PM

> QUOTE(Skyhook @ Jun 5 2007, 02:56 PM) ☐
>
> What is a "service request for 3abn persomell"?

hat might be saying there are no invitations being extended to 3abn staff/admin/ceo to come/go to an rea/church/event, etc. Just guessing.

Posted by: Ozzie Jun 5 2007, 04:17 PM

> QUOTE(Skyhook @ Jun 6 2007, 07:56 AM)
>
> What is a "service request for 3abn persomell"?

A 'service request' means that any church who wishes to have a speaker, other than the Credentialed Minister from that Church (particularly that Conference), must apply for such permission through their Conference Ministerial Director/President, then through the Australian Union Conference.

I understand that this requirement has been authorised quite some time ago, to prevent speakers who 'have an axe to grind', coming into the church and causing havoc, as has been the case in the past. I see it as a very sensible requirement.

Posted by: watchbird Jun 5 2007, 04:34 PM

> QUOTE(Skyhook @ Jun 5 2007, 05:56 PM)
>
> What is a "service request for 3abn persomell"?

> QUOTE(sonshineonme @ Jun 5 2007, 05:59 PM)
>
> That might be saying there are no invitations being extended to 3abn staff/admin/ceo to come/go to an area/church/event, etc. Just guessing.

Since the information I received from Australia several weeks ago indicated that the Division had "banned anyone from 3ABN coming to the SPD at the present time"(a quote from an email whichreported a verbal communication)... sonshineonme's statement would seem to me to be a pretty good "guess".... though the wording "service request for 3abn personnel" does seem a little strange.

Time, I think, to return to our standard BSDA ending.....

Stay tuned.......

.... TVsnack ....

> QUOTE(Ozzie @ Jun 5 2007, 06:17 PM)
>
> A 'service request' means that any church who wishes to have a speaker, other than the Credentialed Minister from that Church (particularly that Conference), must apply for such permission through their Conference Ministerial Director/President, then through the Australian Union Conference.
>
> I understand that this requirement has been authorised quite some time ago, to prevent speakers who 'have an axe to grind', coming into the church and causing havoc, as has been the case in the past. I see it as a very sensible requirement.

Ah... .... you answered while I was writing....

Yes, this does seem like a very sensible requirement.

Posted by: summertime Jun 5 2007, 04:43 PM

> QUOTE(Observer @ Jun 5 2007, 11:36 AM)
>
> Gentle people:
>
> I have been in contact today, with the person in the General Conference whom I asked to respond to Elder Hankinson's comment published at the beginning of this thread.
>
> As a result of that conversation, I will make the following statement, which is one that I have written:
>
> "The comment by Elder Hankinson, as published at the beginning of this thread, as posted here, and as it is being understood by people reading it, is not totally accurate as it applies to the situation today."
>
> I have been asked not to post the name of the person with whom I have spoken.
>
> NOTE: There is no implication that Elder Hankinson intended to decieve anyone. My comment is a simple statemenet that the brevity of his statement, and how people are understanding it, leads to potential misunderstandings that are not 100 % correct, today.
>
> The question that many people may ask is: "Will the General Conference make a statement that clairfies the relatlionship between the General Conference and 3-ABN?"
>
> That is a valid question that thinking people would be expected to ask.
>
> I will respond to that question:
>
> We shall have to wait and see. I cannot say that the General Conference either will make such a statement, or that it will not make such. This whole situation is developing. The announcement of the proposed merger between Amazing Facts and 3-ABN has elevated this to the attention of people who had not previously been informed. With the passage of time we shall see how this develops.
>
> Sorry, that is all that I can say today.

Gregory: In quotes you mentioned that the posted statement is not 'totally accurate' as it applies to the situation today.and that it leads to potential misunderstandings that are not 100 percent correct today. This leads to a lot of room for accuracy ---anything less than 100% or or anything less than 'totally accurate'. Some room to doubt---but not 100% accurate either. Confusing, isn't it?

Posted by: watchbird Jun 5 2007, 05:14 PM

> QUOTE(summertime @ Jun 5 2007, 06:43 PM)
>
> Gregory: In quotes you mentioned that the posted statement is not 'totally accurate' as it applies to the situation today.and that it leads to potential misunderstandings that are not 100 percent correct today. This leads to a lot of room for accuracy ---anything less than 100% or or anything less than 'totally accurate'. Some room to doubt---but not 100% accurate either. Confusing, isn't it?

It was probably the intent of the person talking with Gregory to be as vague as possible.

I agree that the sentence "The comment by Elder Hankinson, as published at the beginning of this thread, as posted here, and as it is being understood by people reading it, is not totally accurate as it applies to the situation today." is vague and confusing... and in more ways than what you point out.

Notice the phrases "as posted here, and as it is being understood by people reading it"... which could mean that "as posted here" was accurate... but "as it is being understood" is not accurate.

Also "is not totally accurate as it applies to the situation today" can meant that it is incomplete... thus not "totally accurate"... or that the situation today might be changing enough from when it was written so it is no longer "totally accurate".

What I think we can safely conclude from this is that the GC person (or persons) who gave Gregory the information from which he constructed this sentence so not WANT us to have information that is "totally accurate". Thus they are concealing rather than revealing when they make this statement about a letter that went out to a whole conference in the South Pacific Division. I would think that were there serious error in the letter that was sent out, then there would not be the kind of verifying comments about it from within that Division that I have seen and that Ozzie has posted here.

Stay tuned......... TVsnack. ....

Posted by: LaurenceD Jun 5 2007, 05:25 PM

I leave the world behind for a few days (got rained out in the mts.) and come back to see this news. I see there's no one to spin this in the best light, so could someone fill in for those MIA? Tell us why this, even if it's true, is of no consequence.

Thanks sonshineonme, for posting the memo.

Posted by: sonshineonme Jun 5 2007, 05:39 PM

> QUOTE(LaurenceD @ Jun 5 2007, 04:25 PM)
>
> I leave the world behind for a few days (got rained out in the mts.) and come back to see this news. I see there's no one to spin this in the best light, so could someone fill in for those MIA? Tell us why this, even if it's true, is of no consequence.
>
> Thanks sonshineonme, for posting the memo.

Welcome back LaurenceD!

Yes, you can't skip a beat these days as every day brings new surprises (well, not every day, but you get the idea). Could be the pace will just be picking up too.

As for MIA folk - don't worry, they are not MIA, they're here

As for saying anything, I think they lean to the blogs idea now...that way, no one can discuss/debate it with them.

Posted by: Brick Step Jun 5 2007, 05:53 PM

I believe there is room for discussion on this point, Watchbird. I have no axe to grind with the President and Ministerial Secretary of the Conference where I worship. But I believe in a final outpouring of the latter rain, and the Holy Spirit needs room to breathe. Some guidance and controls as to who comes into the pulpit need to be exercised by persons of experience. This is the responsible way to go, I agree. But while ever it is fallible mortals who are making the judgments as to who is qualified to speak, and who is not, the possibility exists that somebody will stand in the way of God's leadings. Havoc can be caused in the churches by "approved" persons, also. Jesus Himself was unapproved and accused of creating havoc in the church of His day.

God grant us all wisdom, compassion and spiritual discernment. I'm certainly still learning.

Thank you, Observer, for your words of caution.

Posted by: mozart Jun 5 2007, 06:12 PM

or vice versa, just guessing.
;)

> QUOTE(sonshineonme @ Jun 5 2007, 02:59 PM)
>
> That might be saying there are no invitations being extended to 3abn staff/admin/ceo to come/go to an area/church/event, etc. Just guessing.

you get a huge AMEN from me. we recently had an elder from the conf. come speak at our church and a lot of what he said was a bit sticky (kinda like that avatar fran uses=sticky) IMO thanks for the post.

> QUOTE(Brick Step @ Jun 5 2007, 04:53 PM)
>
> I believe there is room for discussion on this point, Watchbird. I have no axe to grind with the President and Ministerial Secretary of the Conference where I worship. But I believe in a final outpouring of the latter rain, and the Holy Spirit needs room to breathe. Some guidance and controls as to who comes into the pulpit need to be exercised by persons of experience. This is the responsible way to go, I agree. But while ever it is fallible mortals who are making the judgments as to who is qualified to speak, and who is not, the possibility exists that somebody will stand in the way of God's leadings. Havoc can be caused in the churches by "approved" persons, also. Jesus Himself was unapproved and accused of creating havoc in the church of His day.
>
> God grant us all wisdom, compassion and spiritual discernment. I'm certainly still learning.
>
> Thank you, Observer, for your words of caution.

Posted by: ohiodaniel Jun 5 2007, 06:18 PM

Something is rotten in Denmark..

THE GC could have said this at any time over the past few years. I think we all understand that here.

Does it seem funny that this was announced about the same time as the 'need for lots of money' for the huge expansion of HOPETV, and they know that 3ABN gets a lot more donors?

Why don't they work out of the Media center? IT is large enough.

At least Danny had the sense to build 3ABN in one of the lower cost sites.

Silver Spring is now amoung the most expensive in Uncle Sam's country.

What is up with Bradley Thorpe and Gary Gibb?

This timing of our fearless leaders scares me, but we all know they would not do anything 'dirty' don't we.

What ever happended to all the funds from the sale of EGW books that were in her will to support our ministry?

Posted by: Brick Step Jun 5 2007, 07:34 PM

God bless you, Mozart! I have been encouraged by many of your posts.

Posted by: Panama_Pete Jun 5 2007, 08:20 PM

> QUOTE(LaurenceD @ Jun 5 2007, 06:25 PM)
>
> I leave the world behind for a few days (got rained out in the mts.) and come back to see this news. I see there's no one to spin this in the best light, so could someone fill in for those MIA? Tell us why this, even if it's true, is of no consequence.
>
> Thanks sonshineonme, for posting the memo.

I've been away for a few days, LaurenceD. What news?

And would somebody please call Maytag: We're missing the spin cycle.

Posted by: inga Jun 5 2007, 09:25 PM

About that spin cycle ... It may have just begun ...

Posted by: mozart Jun 5 2007, 10:26 PM

> QUOTE(Panama_Pete @ Jun 5 2007, 08:20 PM)
>
> I've been away for a few days, LaurenceD. What news?

> And would somebody please call Maytag: We're missing the spin cycle.

rofl rofl
velcome back PP and LD. you were missed.

Posted by: SoulEspresso Jun 6 2007, 12:21 AM

> QUOTE(ohiodaniel @ Jun 5 2007, 06:18 PM)
>
> Something is rotten in Denmark..
>
> THE GC could have said this at any time over the past few years. I think we all understand that here. Does it seem funny that this was announced about the same time as the 'need for lots of money' for the huge expansion of HOPETV, and they know that 3ABN gets a lot more donors?
>
> Why don't they work out of the Media center? IT is large enough.
>
> At least Danny had the sense to build 3ABN in one of the lower cost sites.
>
> Silver Spring is now amoung the most expensive in Uncle Sam's country.
>
> What is up with Bradley Thorpe and Gary Gibb?
>
> This timing of our fearless leaders scares me, but we all know they would not do anything 'dirty' don't we.
>
> What ever happended to all the funds from the sale of EGW books that were in her will to support our ministry?

'he GC is between a rock and a hard place. Many of our loyal members, especially older folks who are more egular tithepayers and have more money, not only give to the church but to 3ABN. 3ABN is on TV; that gives hem a lot of credibility, like it or not. We could name off GC officers, but would their faces pop into your head he way Danny's, Walt's or Shelley's would? So the GC lets it lie as long as they can (because they hate :onfrontation and dirty laundry), but then the laundry goes sour and someone has to clean it out. The church ıasn't the guts, but a couple of laypeople tackle it in a fairly public way, expose the trouble, and 180,000 ›eople (to date) find out about it.

'hey can't stay silent too long, but they know the minute they speak up they're going to make angry a bunch ›f their loyal members. What would you do in their position?

Posted by: Observer Jun 6 2007, 05:51 AM

Gentlepeople:

I have recieved the following comment in regard to the published statement by Elder Hankinson in reference to a suspension of "supporting ministry" status of 3-ABN:

> QUOTE
>
> Dear Brother Gregory
>
> Sorry for a delay. I arrived Tuesday night in Moscow and am answering the eMails now.

> In response - all I can say is that there has been no change or review of the status of 3ABN as a supporting ministry by the General Conference of Seventh-day Adventists.
>
> Blessings.
>
> --Rajmund Dabrowski
> Communication Director
> Seventh-day Adventist Church
> World Headquarters
> 12501 Old Columbia Pike
> Silver Spring MD 20904 USA
> <www.adventist.org>
> Phone: 301-680-6300
> Fax: 301-680-6312
> e-mail: dabrowskir@gc.adventist.org

n my question to Elder Dabrowski, I informed him that I would publish his response to me, exactly as he esponded, without editorial revision. In keeping with my statement to him, I am posting his entire respose to ne exactly as he sent it.

he question may now be asked as to how his response is consistent with the response made to me by an ndividual who previously responded to me, and requested that he not be identified. My answer to that is that do not believe that they are inconsitent to any great degree.

y advice to all is as I have stated earlier: This situation is developing. No one can predict with certainty xactlly how it will develop. Therefore, we must simply wait and see.

Posted by: Panama_Pete Jun 6 2007, 06:42 AM

> QUOTE(Observer @ Jun 6 2007, 05:51 AM)
>
> My answer to that is that I do not believe that they are inconsitent to any great degree.

es, the GC statement is partially consistent with the almost totally consistent answer which was not quite 00 percent correctly supplied yesterday as a partially correct answer which referenced the almost, but not uite, 100 percent statement given by Australians, previously.

nd I think I'm almost 100 percent correct on that.

hanks, Mr. Matthews, for at least trying.

owever, I think the GC is saying one thing: We're not to know.

Posted by: Observer Jun 6 2007, 06:45 AM

> QUOTE(Panama_Pete @ Jun 6 2007, 05:42 AM)
>
> Yes, the GC statement is partially consistent with the almost totally consistent answer which was not quite 100 percent correctly supplied yesterday as a partially correct answer which referenced the almost, but not quite, 100 percent statement given by Australians, previously.
>
> And I think I'm almost 100 percent correct on that.
>
> Thanks, Mr. Matthews, for at least trying.
>
> However, I think the GC is saying one thing: We're not to know.

Posted by: watchbird Jun 6 2007, 07:12 AM

> QUOTE(Panama_Pete @ Jun 6 2007, 08:42 AM)
>
> Yes, the GC statement is partially consistent with the almost totally consistent answer which was not quite 100 percent correctly supplied yesterday as a partially correct answer which referenced the almost, but not quite, 100 percent statement given by Australians, previously.
>
> And I think I'm almost 100 percent correct on that.
>
> Thanks, Mr. Matthews, for at least trying.
>
> However, I think the GC is saying one thing: We're not to know.

Strike up the band.... ☒ band.gif .... a little background music here..... "He's got it..... He's got it..... I really think he's got it......"

Now... go away band...... ☒ cm.gif ..... silence please.....

Are we ready for the next question?..... ......

What about OTHER World Divisions?

Surely we have some here who are from other Divisions and/or can find out for us whether the same or similar actions as we have heard about from the SPD and NAD are being taken in other parts of the world field.

Posted by: erik Jun 6 2007, 07:51 AM

> QUOTE(SoulEspresso @ Jun 5 2007, 10:21 PM)
>
> The GC is between a rock and a hard place. Many of our loyal members, especially older folks who are more regular tithepayers and have more money, not only give to the church but to 3ABN. 3ABN is on TV; that gives them a lot of credibility, like it or not. We could name off GC officers, but would their faces pop into your head the way Danny's, Walt's or Shelley's would? So the GC lets it lie as long as they can (because they hate confrontation and dirty laundry), but then the laundry goes sour and someone has to clean it out. The church hasn't the guts, but a couple of laypeople tackle it in a fairly public way, expose the trouble, and 180,000 people (to date) find out about it.
>
> They can't stay silent too long, but they know the minute they speak up they're going to make angry a bunch of their loyal members. What would you do in their position?

I feel for the GC, on this but i will Say that if they want to keep the loyalty of there younger members they had better stand for truth and standards of the most basic type. I am 33 years old and it turns my stomach that it is taking years for the NAD and GC to even in the smallest way to appear to care that a man can lie about his now ex-wife, to all their loyal tithe payers, but they are to scared of losing some dollars that are not theirs any but God's to speak out against sin the the camp at 3 abn.

DO I give has much as the older members in my church nope hardly they make more then i do, But who is out doing missionary work My age group far more then the older age group, at least in my church besides which in my church half the older group could die this month, and then thier money would be gone.

THe GC Could have and still could come out with a simple statement that Until such time has 3ABN leadership can proves that they are not lying to the masses of the laity, the official support is going be withheld from 3abn, and that while they realize this will upset many church members that were trusting God to carry the church and 3abn financially while the church stood for truth.

God could replace the greater funder behind 3abn with ten men if he wanted to, way has he not seen fit to do so, maybe because we the SDA church have not seen fit to stand up has church and say enough is enough. Truth and standards matter, to this church because they matter to god.

I mean the 3abn network has done great things for God, but how much more could they be doing if the sin in their camps was repented of.

Note i am in no way attacking SE with this post, my anger is direct at the h church that seems more worried about politically and financial concerns on this topic then about Truth and rightness and holiness. I want my church when this hits the public arena, to not look like a small time RC, but rather the even if it was hard that we stood for what was right no matter if it was hard to do.
because the church has looked the other way so many times on the issues of sexual sin in the leadership of the church both high and low, God has allow this cross to come to our church to test us if we will obey the simple and clear word of the lord on this topic has found in the bible.

I guess i have said enough for now so i will climb off my soap box.

Erik Wenberg

PS I post my real full name because i want any one in leadership at the GC and 3ABN to know that real laity are very, very upset with the weak way this whole topic has been handled.

Posted by: Daryl Fawcett Jun 6 2007, 08:39 AM

Perhaps clarification should be asked of the Conference President who sent out his email to all of his pastors? The gist of his email was that it came from the General Conference.

Posted by: SoulEspresso Jun 6 2007, 08:43 AM

> QUOTE(erik @ Jun 6 2007, 07:51 AM) ☐
>
> Note i am in no way attacking SE with this post, my anger is direct at the h church that seems more worried about politically and financial concerns on this topic then about Truth and rightness and holiness.

Erik, I thought your post was entirely appropriate. My only aim was to offer a bit of an explanation of what I take to be their point of view.

This church suffers greatly for a lack of real leadership when it comes to tough issues. They have forgotten that doing the right think is apt to make people angry, and they should do it anyway.

Posted by: Observer Jun 6 2007, 09:06 AM

> QUOTE(Daryl Fawcett @ Jun 6 2007, 07:39 AM) ☐
>
> Perhaps clarification should be asked of the Conference President who sent out his email to all of his pastors? The gist of his email was that it came from the General Conference.

Daryl:

If the first source was the President of the South Pacific Division, it came from the General Conference.

Divisions are not a seperate organization, as are Union Conferences.

Divisions are sections of the General Conference.

The President of a Division is a Vice-President of the General Conference.

The Division President represents the General Conference, and speaks for the General Conference when that President speaks in the Division to which he is President.

So, any communication that comes from a Division President, to the Division to which he is President, may truthfully be said to be comming from the General Conference.

Posted by: Brick Step Jun 6 2007, 09:22 AM

The divorce of Danny and Linda Shelton was a master stroke engineered by Satan. We can see how the GC might be between a rock and a hard place trying to deal with the fallout. From available facts, it is very difficult for me to understand that Linda and those who have spoken in her defence, have received a fair deal, even if there have been some indiscretions along the way. Our home has praised God there are those who have cared enough to appeal her cause, even if sometimes I feel reservations about some points being taken. (This might sometimes be because on this issue, I have been more of a "puppy on the porch", than "running with the big dogs" - as somebody described things on another thread.) I agree with the alleged GC statement that there may not be a fire, but there is enough smoke to warrant an investigation into 3ABN at this time.

Hopefully a clearing of the air that could come with a fair and impartial investigation, would indeed see 3ABN saved for God's cause, names cleared that should be cleared, and redemptive action taken towards all concerned. I agree Hope TV is on God's map. So is LLBN, and so is 3ABN.

It's interesting to note it is Victoria, Australia that was apparently the first to speak of the alleged GC resolution to revoke 3ABN's approved status, and Observer says another GC source says the statement from Victoria, because of its brevity, is misleading.

Elder Mark Finley is currently in the final stages of a public crusade in Melbourne, where both the Victorian Conference Office and the Australian Union Conference Office are located. In Australia Mark Finley's lectures are being aired three nights per week over Hope TV, and other churches in the country are holding public meetings based upon an airing of his lectures live from Melbourne.

Friends in Melbourne have commented that at first there was worker resistance to the idea of a public evangelistic effort in the country. "The days of public crusades are finished in Australia," they are alleged to have said, "and you can't say here what you have preached in other countries of the world."

But it seems there have been very good attendances at Elder Finley's meetings. Another friend in Melbourne commented just in recent days that the Finley crusade is the best thing to have hit Melbourne in years. Many young people were up and out giving Bible studies, and souls were being won to Christ.

A couple of years back we heard Evangelist John Carter on 3ABN say that folk in Australia say 3ABN is the best thing to have come to Australia in decades. (Two best things for Australia.) 3ABN got a head start on Hope TV in this country. While some were able to access 3ABN via the Thiacom 3 satellite a year or more earlier, Hope TV and 3ABN were not readily accessible here till the Optus B3 provision end 2004, after Linda Shelton's memory was all but blotted out from 3ABN. Most in Australia would not know Linda, and this fact must affect the nature and extent of any interest in behind-the-scenes happenings at 3ABN.

Though 3ABN has been widely received with joy in Australia, people in America should understand that still, this county is not nearly as accepting of independent ministries as is USA, and the church in Australia is still somewhat torn and bleeding as a result of doctrinal conflicts and other pressures.

Posted by: lurker Jun 6 2007, 09:25 AM

Erik, I am a senior citizen, faithful giver, and I am just as dissapointed with the lack of action by the GC as you are. I gave sacrificially to 3ABN and quit when Danny started dropping the mask. Not when this all came out on the internet but when he started putting his foot in his mouth on t.v.

Posted by: erik Jun 6 2007, 09:30 AM

> QUOTE(lurker @ Jun 6 2007, 07:25 AM) ☐
>
> Erik, I am a senior citizen, faithful giver, and I am just as dissapointed with the lack of action by the GC as you are. I gave sacrificially to 3ABN and quit when Danny started dropping the mask. Not when this all came out on the internet but when he started putting his foot in his mouth on t.v.

praise the lord, I want to make it clear that i need the senior members of the church, I need their wisdom and knowledge.

Erik

Posted by: mikell Jun 6 2007, 10:12 AM

> QUOTE(Observer @ Jun 6 2007, 05:51 AM)
>
> Gentlepeople:
>
> I have recieved the following comment in regard to the published statement by Elder Hankinson in reference to a suspension of "supporting ministry" status of 3-ABN:
> In my question to Elder Dabrowski, I informed him that I would publish his response to me, exactly as he responded, without editorial revision. In keeping with my statement to him, I am posting his entire respose to me exactly as he sent it.
>
> The question may now be asked as to how his response is consistent with the response made to me by an individual who previously responded to me, and requested that he not be identified. My answer to that is that I do not believe that they are inconsitent to any great degree.
>
> My advice to all is as I have stated earlier: This situation is developing. No one can predict with certainty exactlly how it will develop. Therefore, we must simply wait and see.

does not that sound the original announcement about the GC was not accurate?

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Jun 6 2007, 11:08 AM

Brick Step,

Your statement was a healthy, hearty, big dog woof!

Thank you so much for bringing your perspective and sharing about our brothers and sisters in Australia!

PB

Posted by: SoulEspresso Jun 6 2007, 11:49 AM

> QUOTE(erik @ Jun 6 2007, 09:30 AM)
>
> praise the lord, I want to make it clear that i need the senior members of the church, I need their wisdom and knowledge.

Yeah, me too, on so many levels. When it comes to this topic, I'm grateful for lurker's stand.

Posted by: Snoopy Jun 6 2007, 12:45 PM

> QUOTE(erik @ Jun 6 2007, 07:51 AM)
>
> I feel for the GC, on this but i will Say that if they want to keep the loyalty of there younger members they had better stand for truth and standards of the most basic type. I am 33 years old and it turns my stomach that it is taking years for the NAD and GC to even in the smallest way to appear to care that a man can lie about his now ex-wife, to all their loyal tithe payers, but they are to scared of losing some dollars that are not theirs any but God's to speak out against sin the the camp at 3 abn.
>
> DO I give has much as the older members in my church nope hardly they make more then i do, But who is out doing missionary work My age group far more then the older age group, at least in my church besides which in my church half the older group could die this month, and then thier money would be gone.
> THe GC Could have and still could come out with a simple statement that Until such time has 3ABN leadership can proves that they are not lying to the masses of the laity, the official support is going be withheld from 3abn, and that while they realize this will upset many church members that were trusting God to carry the church and 3abn financially while the church stood for truth.
>
> God could replace the greater funder behind 3abn with ten men if he wanted to, way has he not seen fit to do so, maybe because we the SDA church have not seen fit to stand up has church and say enough is enough. Truth and standards matter, to this church because they matter to god.
>
> I mean the 3abn network has done great things for God, but how much more could they be doing if the sin in their camps was repented of.
>
> Note i am in no way attacking SE with this post, my anger is direct at the h church that seems more worried about politically and financial concerns on this topic then about Truth and rightness and holiness. I want my church when this hits the public arena, to not look like a small time RC, but rather the even if it was hard that we stood for what was right no matter if it was hard to do.
> because the church has looked the other way so many times on the issues of sexual sin in the leadership of the church both high and low, God has allow this cross to come to our church to test us if we will obey the simple and clear word of the lord on this topic has found in the bible.
>
> I guess i have said enough for now so i will climb off my soap box.
>
> Erik Wenberg
>
> PS I post my real full name because i want any one in leadership at the GC and 3ABN to know that real laity are very, very upset with the weak way this whole topic has been handled.

Hello, Erik!

Proud to make your acquaintance. Unfortunately, I am not in a position to post my name at this time but I certainly respect you for posting yours. And, I totally agree with your position regarding the GC. I feel for the position they now find themselves in, but I also think it is self-made.

My academy memories are full of things like, "if I can see your nail polish, it is too dark", or "if I can tell you're wearing make-up, it's too much", or "I heard you have a radio in your room - please bring it to me". And heaven forbid I were to miss a service whether it be Friday night vespers, Sabbath School, Church, Sabbath afternoon meeting, whatever. And, don't forget that yardstick to measure the length of our skirts! And then, horror of horrors - I left campus with a girlfriend on a day not designated for girls to leave campus. Can you imagine such a terrible thing?? Should I be allowed to graduate???? Of course, my "salvation" depended on all of this important stuff.

Yet, while my eternal life depended on whether or not I chose to wear make-up or listen to a radio, all of this mess is allowed to fester at 3ABN because the GC doesn't like conflict?????? Give me a break!!!! Sorry. I have a real problem with that. And the God I serve does, too!! Thankfully, I found my own relationship with my own Jesus. He will accept me regardless of whether I wear make-up or jewelry!!! He will also see this 3ABN fiasco through to His end. He is in control. But I am a firm believer that not only those who have perpetrated wrongdoing wherever it might be, but also THOSE WHO TURNED A BLIND EYE ALLOWED IT TO HAPPEN will be held accountable. Utterly disgusting.

OK - off box now. Thanks for listening.

~~Snoopy~~

Posted by: mozart Jun 6 2007, 12:50 PM

i would tell the truth.

> QUOTE(SoulEspresso @ Jun 5 2007, 11:21 PM)
>
> The GC is between a rock and a hard place. Many of our loyal members, especially older folks who are more regular tithepayers and have more money, not only give to the church but to 3ABN. 3ABN is on TV; that gives them a lot of credibility, like it or not. We could name off GC officers, but would their faces pop into your head the way Danny's, Walt's or Shelley's would? So the GC lets it lie as long as they can (because they hate confrontation and dirty laundry), but then the laundry goes sour and someone has to clean it out. The church hasn't the guts, but a couple of laypeople tackle it in a fairly public way, expose the trouble, and 180,000 people (to date) find out about it.
>
> They can't stay silent too long, but they know the minute they speak up they're going to make angry a bunch of their loyal members. What would you do in their position?

Posted by: Clay Jun 6 2007, 12:51 PM

Perhaps the title of this thread should be amended to:

General Conference Suspends 3abn's Status..... Or does it

Posted by: mozart Jun 6 2007, 01:04 PM

sounds like a bunch of politicians.
sad statement for "men of Christ"

> QUOTE(Panama_Pete @ Jun 6 2007, 05:42 AM)
>
> Yes, the GC statement is partially consistent with the almost totally consistent answer which was not quite 100 percent correctly supplied yesterday as a partially correct answer which referenced the almost, but not quite, 100 percent statement given by Australians, previously.
>
> And I think I'm almost 100 percent correct on that.
>
> Thanks, Mr. Matthews, for at least trying.
>
> However, I think the GC is saying one thing: We're not to know.

do Mars or Pluto count?

> QUOTE(watchbird @ Jun 6 2007, 06:12 AM)
>
> Strike up the band.... band.gif .... a little background music here..... "He's got it..... He's got it..... I really think he's got it......"
>
> Now... go away band...... cm.gif ..... silence please.....
>
> Are we ready for the next question?..... ......
>
> What about OTHER World Divisions?
>
> Surely we have some here who are from other Divisions and/or can find out for us whether the same or similar actions as we have heard about from the SPD and NAD are being taken in other parts of the world field.

i'm not liking all this reference to "age". maybe i'm just being sensitive. not sure what you mean by older. to a 40yr. old, i'm older; to a 20yr. old, i'm just "old" but to a 12yr. old, i'm ancient. personally, all 5 of our kids (ages 21 to 38) make more money than we do.
i don't think we are an exception to the rule, but maybe so.

> QUOTE(erik @ Jun 6 2007, 06:51 AM)
>
> ....I feel for the GC, on this but i will Say that if they want to keep the loyalty of there younger members they had better stand for truth and standards of the most basic type. I am 33 years old and it turns my stomach that it is taking years for the NAD and GC to even in the smallest way to appear to care that a man can lie about his now ex-wife, to all their loyal tithe payers, but they are to scared of losing some dollars that are not theirs any but God's to speak out against sin the the camp at 3 abn.
>
> DO I give has much as the older members in my church nope hardly they make more then i do, But who is out doing missionary work My age group far more then the older age group, at least in my church besides which in my church half the older group could die this month, and then thier money would be gone.
> THe GC Could have and still could come out with a simple statement that Until such time has 3ABN leadership can proves that they are not lying to the masses of the laity, the official support is going be withheld from 3abn, and that while they realize this will upset many church members that were trusting God to carry the church and 3abn financially while the church stood for truth.
> ....

Posted by: mozart Jun 6 2007, 01:18 PM

does she or doesn't she?
only her hairdresser knows for sure.

> QUOTE(Clay @ Jun 6 2007, 11:51 AM)
>
> Perhaps the title of this thread should be amended to:

> General Conference Suspends 3abn's Status..... Or does it

Posted by: Rosyroi Jun 6 2007, 04:51 PM

> QUOTE(Snoopy @ Jun 6 2007, 11:45 AM)
>
> Hello, Erik!
>
> Proud to make your acquaintance. Unfortunately, I am not in a position to post my name at this time but I certainly respect you for posting yours. And, I totally agree with your position regarding the GC. I feel for the position they now find themselves in, but I also think it is self-made.
>
> My academy memories are full of things like, "if I can see your nail polish, it is too dark", or "if I can tell you're wearing make-up, it's too much", or "I heard you have a radio in your room - please bring it to me". And heaven forbid I were to miss a service whether it be Friday night vespers, Sabbath School, Church, Sabbath afternoon meeting, whatever. And, don't forget that yardstick to measure the length of our skirts! And then, horror of horrors - I left campus with a girlfriend on a day not designated for girls to leave campus. Can you imagine such a terrible thing?? Should I be allowed to graduate???? Of course, my "salvation" depended on all of this important stuff.
>
> Yet, while my eternal life depended on whether or not I chose to wear make-up or listen to a radio, all of this mess is allowed to fester at 3ABN because the GC doesn't like conflict??????
> Give me a break!!!! Sorry. I have a real problem with that. And the God I serve does, too!! Thankfully, I found my own relationship with my own Jesus. He will accept me regardless of whether I wear make-up or jewelry!!! He will also see this 3ABN fiasco through to His end. He is in control. But I am a firm believer that not only those who have perpetrated wrongdoing wherever it might be, but also THOSE WHO TURNED A BLIND EYE ALLOWED IT TO HAPPEN will be held accountable. Utterly disgusting.
>
> OK - off box now. Thanks for listening.
>
> ~~Snoopy~~

Snoopy,
Wow! All the memories you have given to me! We must have attended the same school! I had forgotten all about those "rules".

And I agree with you about GC.

Rosyroi

Posted by: sonshineonme Jun 6 2007, 05:10 PM

> QUOTE(Panama_Pete @ Jun 6 2007, 05:42 AM)
>
> Yes, the GC statement is partially consistent with the almost totally consistent answer which was not quite 100 percent correctly supplied yesterday as a partially correct answer which referenced the almost, but not quite, 100 percent statement given by Australians, previously.

> And I think I'm almost 100 percent correct on that.
>
> Thanks, Mr. Matthews, for at least trying.
>
> However, I think the GC is saying one thing: We're not to know.

☒ rofl That about covers it. ☒ rofl think I want to keep the name of this thread just as it stands, except maybe add depending on who you ask, when you ask and what you ask".

Posted by: Jnana15 Jun 6 2007, 05:50 PM

> QUOTE(Rosyroi @ Jun 6 2007, 05:51 PM) ☐
>
> Snoopy,
> Wow! All the memories you have given to me! We must have attended the same school! I had forgotten all about those "rules".
>
> Rosyroi .

☒ ☒ Same here Rosyroi, except I went to a day academy and rode the yellow school bus.

Thanks for the memories Snoopy! ☒ than nana

Posted by: watchbird Jun 6 2007, 05:54 PM

> QUOTE(sonshineonme @ Jun 6 2007, 07:10 PM) ☐
>
> ☒ rofl That about covers it. ☒ rofl
> I think I want to keep the name of this thread just as it stands, except maybe add
> "depending on who you ask, when you ask and what you ask".

No, leave it alone. You will be exonerated in time.

Stay tuned.......

.... ☒ TVsnack. ....

Posted by: Snoopy Jun 6 2007, 08:33 PM

> QUOTE(Jnana15 @ Jun 6 2007, 05:50 PM)
>
> Same here Rosyroi, except I went to a day academy and rode the yellow school bus.
>
> Thanks for the memories Snoopy! than
>
> Jnana

Hey, thanks Jnana and Rosy, for letting me know I wasn't the only one. As much as I've tried to shake them, I think all those old legalisms are still affecting me..... ....

gi .... hug.gif

~~Snoopy~~

Posted by: Whtz Happenin Jun 6 2007, 08:49 PM

This was included in the ATNewsbreak that just arrived tonight via email.

> QUOTE
>
> ADVENTIST NEWS Round up
> By Ervin Taylor, AToday.com (05 June 2007).
> A report dated June 1, 2007 from the South Pacific Division Administrators' Council and Institute of Public Evangelism Committee contained the following statement "The General Conference has suspended 3ABN's [Three Angels Broadcasting Network] Supportive Ministry status until some well known issues in more than one area are sorted out. Basically, a lot of smoke doesn't necessarily presume a fire, but it definitely needs investigation and caution." The report in which these statements were contained was signed by Dr. Denis Hankinson, President of the Victorian Conference in the Australian Union Conference of Seventh-day Adventists.
>
> A request for additional information from the General Conference of SDA resulted in the following statement communicated to Adventist Today by John Torres, Media Relations Coordinator, Communications Department: "There has been no change or review of the status of 3ABN as a supporting ministry by the General Conference of Seventh-day Adventists." The statement also stated that Rajmund Dabrowski, General Conference Communications Director, should be contacted for further information.
>
> Requests for additional information and details concerning this reported suspension were made by e-mail to Dr. Hankinson, Danny Shelton, current president of 3ABN and Dr. Walter Thompson, chairman of the 3ABN Board of Directors.
>
> Dr. Thompson responded to the Adventist Today request for comment by stating that "If the statement [from the South Pacific Division] is true, we [at 3ABN] have had no such communication."

Now that clears everything up

Posted by: calvin Jun 6 2007, 09:06 PM

Maybe AToday has picked up on the story. Someone sent me this email. I could not find the link on AToday.com

ADVENTIST NEWS Round up From ATODAY.com

Oops, did not see that you had posted this Whtz Happenin Deleting mind.

Posted by: Artiste Jun 6 2007, 09:53 PM

> QUOTE(Clay @ Jun 6 2007, 10:51 AM)
>
> Perhaps the title of this thread should be amended to:
>
> General Conference Suspends 3abn's Status..... Or does it

How about...

General Conference Turns a Deaf Ear on Indications of Corruption in the Church

****

Posted by: sister Jun 6 2007, 09:55 PM

I wouldn't expect any official change in policy from the GC in regard to 3ABN until after the Fall Council. The email that was published here was not intended to be shared with the world at large, at this time. It was an inner office memo from the Division President to his pastoral staff. This type of email is considered confidential until an official statement has been made by the GC.

What is being experienced now could be compared to the tension you feel in the air before a thunder and lightening storm: there have been some incredibly long hot, dry days and looking overhead, you notice not a single cloud is visible in the sky, but your body senses a change is coming, there is an electrical charge in the air and the wind remains still in anticipation... it is only a matter of time before a thunderhead appears and when it does I pray we will see the moving of Lord's hand in the matter.

It is time for the officials of the SDA church to break the bondage it has been held in through allowing one individual, with much more money than spirituality, to call the shots. It is time to allow the Holy Spirit to move upon the organization of the Seventh-day Adventist Church and cleanse the house.

Posted by: Skyhook Jun 6 2007, 09:55 PM

> QUOTE(mozart @ Jun 6 2007, 02:18 PM)
>
> does she or doesn't she?
> only her hairdresser knows for sure.

I pray that the GC gives some kind of indication that they are aware tht there is a problem and intend to deal with it before the commercial media comes out with an expose, as they love to do. Someone said something about the GC needing a good PR firm. That is a good idea. In some ways the children of darkness are wiser than the children of light. I think PR is an area where this may be true.

Mozart, you're certainly showing your age. rofl

Posted by: Artiste Jun 6 2007, 10:05 PM

> QUOTE(sister @ Jun 6 2007, 07:55 PM)
>
> I wouldn't expect any official change in policy from the GC in regard to 3ABN until after the Fall Council. The email that was published here was not intended to be shared with the world at large, at this time. It was an inner office memo from the Division President to his pastoral staff. This type of email is considered confidential until an official statement has been made by the GC.
>
> What is being experienced now could be compared to the tension you feel in the air before a thunder and lightening storm: there have been some incredibly long hot, dry days and looking overhead, you notice not a single cloud is visible in the sky, but your body senses a change is coming, there is an electrical charge in the air and the wind remains still in anticipation... it is only a matter of time before a thunderhead appears and when it does I pray we will see the moving of Lord's hand in the matter.
>
> It is time for the officials of the SDA church to break the bondage it has been held in through allowing one individual, with much more money than spirituality, to call the shots. It is time to allow the Holy Spirit to move upon the organization of the Seventh-day Adventist Church and cleanse the house.

No public ackowledgement of an official change in policy toward 3ABN by the GC until after the Fall Council?

Too little too late??

Not good for the credibility of the SDA church.

****

Posted by: erik Jun 6 2007, 10:43 PM

> QUOTE(mozart @ Jun 6 2007, 12:04 PM)
>
> sounds like a bunch of politicians.
> sad statement for "men of Christ"
>
> do Mars or Pluto count?
>
> i'm not liking all this reference to "age". maybe i'm just being sensitive. not sure what you mean by older. to a 40yr. old, i'm older; to a 20yr. old, i'm just "old" but to a 12yr. old, i'm ancient. personally, all 5 of our kids (ages 21 to 38) make more money than we do.
> i don't think we are an exception to the rule, but maybe so.

Mozart,

I am sorry to bother you by making a issue of age.

IT IS JUST MAKES ME SICK, to hear that the reason is the GC is in a rock and a hard place on this totic is because of age.

The GC and the NAD is in a rock and a hard place for one reason and one reason only, and it is not he age of the givers in the church.

the GC is in the hard place because they have made a habit of looking the other way, and ignoring the clear written word of the lord in the bible and in the writings of EGW.

AT the very least the head of the GC should make an appt. to appear before the 3ABN board and say you have one week to place danny and the other leaders on paid leave pendingt he outcome of a fair and open hearing of the facts on this matter. If the 3abn board refused i would if i was GC president drop there status the next day and then if the fall conciol is to weak to vote formal let them override then.

God is calling for repentence by SDA in looking at sin in our own lives and the church with such a mild view.

I Mean we are talking about the things that put Jesus on the cross that caused him to suffer and die, and yet we will just say we can not do anything about it. I say that is lie straight out the mouth of satan, and the SDA church needs to say to satan get thee behind us.

I want to be proud 100% of my Church, I know we have made tons of gross errors in the past, but now is the time to stand and be counted has church before God is forced to replace us.

ERik

Posted by: Seraphim7 Jun 6 2007, 11:22 PM

> QUOTE(Artiste @ Jun 7 2007, 12:53 AM)
>
> How about...
>
> General Conference Turns a Deaf Ear on Indications of Corruption in the Church
>
> **

As hard as it is to believe, 3abn does not represent the "Church"... regardless of the impression some might like to give...

Posted by: Artiste Jun 6 2007, 11:34 PM

"Corruption in the church" indicates activities that could involve any of various members of the church--all Adventists are "representatives of the church".

Programming on 3ABN is generally understood to be Adventist in content.

Posted by: Seraphim7 Jun 7 2007, 12:00 AM

> QUOTE(Artiste @ Jun 7 2007, 02:34 AM) ☐
>
> "Corruption in the church" indicates activities that could involve any of various members of the church--all Adventists are "representatives of the church".
>
> Programming on 3ABN is generally understood to be Adventist in content.

Some, including those not in this church, understand that the issue with 3abn will not likely make or break the Adventist church. You may have noticed that Jesus knew of the corruption of His day, yet, as a representative He did not clean it all up. Such is life.

Posted by: Artiste Jun 7 2007, 12:18 AM

So true, Seraphim!

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Jun 7 2007, 07:07 AM

> QUOTE(calvin @ Jun 6 2007, 07:06 PM) ☐
>
> Maybe AToday has picked up on the story. Someone sent me this email. I could not find the link on AToday.com
>
> ADVENTIST NEWS Round up From ATODAY.com
>
> Oops, did not see that you had posted this Whtz Happenin Deleting mind.

Calvin,

I received the AT story by email last evening. I couldn't Google it so it may not be posted on the AT site yet. I found the email newsletter for April and May online, but not for June.

One must wonder if there is an AT reporter lurking around here at BSDA! Seems the article pretty much covers our discussion since SSOM posted the email.

PB

Posted by: lowender Jun 7 2007, 07:55 AM

A phone call to AF at 800-434-3880 to let them know that you cannot support their ministry if their is a merger with DS & his TV ministry could go a long way. Especially if enough people make the call.

Posted by: lowender Jun 7 2007, 10:26 AM

OOPS! My mistake... That number is 916-434-3880

Posted by: Snoopy Jun 7 2007, 11:41 AM

> QUOTE(lowender @ Jun 7 2007, 10:26 AM)
>
> OOPS! My mistake... That number is 916-434-3880

Thank you for that, lowender, and .... ☒ welcome.gif ....!!!

~~Snoopy~~

Posted by: Observer Jun 7 2007, 01:36 PM

This afternoon I recieved a second message from Elder Dabrowski. As I had informed him that I would publish his response to me, exactly as he sent it, and without editorial revision, I so post it here, in full, exactly as I have recieved it.

> QUOTE
>
> Dear Brother Matthews
>
> Thank you for your enquiry which I received while traveling in another part of the world. I am still on the road. In reference to your communication, and a comment you are quoting from the Internet chat forums, may I share with you the following:
>
> The General Conference of Seventh-day Adventists has received a number of inquiries into the status of Three Angels Broadcasting Network (3ABN) as a supporting ministry of the Church. There has been no change or review of the status of 3ABN as a supporting ministry by the Seventh-day Adventist Church. Due to ongoing administrative issues at 3ABN, the General Conference administration has taken a position that until these matters have been addressed that the General Conference personnel not involve 3ABN for new program development and production. This approach does not reflect that the General Conference is taking any particular position in issues which are under the purview of the Board of Directors of 3ABN, which is an independent supporting ministry. The GC's position applies to General Conference personnel.
>
> Blessings.
>
> --Rajmund Dabrowski
> Communication Director
> Seventh-day Adventist Church
> World Headquarters
> 12501 Old Columbia Pike
> Silver Spring MD 20904 USA
> <www.adventist.org>
> Phone: 301-680-6300
> Fax: 301-680-6312
> e-mail: dabrowskir@gc.adventist.org

Posted by: Observer Jun 7 2007, 01:47 PM

The General Conference has now acknowledged that they have advised some restrictions on involvement with 3-ABN.

Posted by: princessdi Jun 7 2007, 01:58 PM

....and so it seems neither will they ever put it in writing......just let it kind of meander down the grapevine, as it is doing now............

Posted by: Artiste Jun 7 2007, 02:02 PM

> QUOTE(Observer @ Jun 7 2007, 11:47 AM)
>
> Yes. That is the statement that he sent me a bit ago, and that I have just posted in the other thread.
>
> Yes, the General Conference has not acknowledged that they have advised some restrictions on involvement with 3-ABN.

I'm confused!

What has the GC acknowledged and what have they not acknowledged???

And why don't they care about "issues under the purview of the board of 3ABN" just because it is an independent ministry! There are many Seventh-day Adventists waiting for guidance from church leadership to know how they should relate to 3ABN!

****

Posted by: erik Jun 7 2007, 02:02 PM

> QUOTE(princessdi @ Jun 7 2007, 11:58 AM)
>
> ....and so it seems neither will they ever put it in writing......just let it kind of meander down the grapevine, as it is doing now............

I guess dripping slowly down the grapevine is better then doing nothing, but i sure wish and fail to understand why a stronger postions is so very hard for them to take.

maybe i will email that one fellow and ask.

erik

Posted by: princessdi Jun 7 2007, 02:06 PM

Then Ariste I suggest that als0 in this instance they look to the Holy spirit for guidance. GC is clearly playing word games here. Clearly they need to stand for something, because it seems to most that they are falling for anything.

> QUOTE(Artiste @ Jun 7 2007, 01:02 PM)
>
> I'm confused!
>
> What has the GC acknowledged and what have they not acknowledged???
>
> And why don't they care about "issues under the purview of of the board of 3ABN" just because it is an independant ministry! There are many Seventh-day Adventists waiting for guidance from church leadership to know how they should relate to 3ABN!
>
> ***

Posted by: Observer Jun 7 2007, 02:06 PM

> QUOTE(erik @ Jun 7 2007, 01:02 PM)
>
> I guess dripping slowly down the grapevine is better then doing nothing, but i sure wish and fail to understand why a stronger postions is so very hard for them to take.
>
> maybe i will email that one fellow and ask.
>
> erik

Folks, this is progress. We should celebrate such.

No, we cannot assume that they do not care. This statement implies care.

It clearly tells us that there is more going on in regard to 3-ABN than they have previously acknowledged. We may critic them for not telling us more. But, let us celebrate for what they have told us.

Posted by: princessdi Jun 7 2007, 02:11 PM

Ok Pastor, you are right........I ahve been told on more than one occasion when addressing difficult issues that administration move very slowly, but for good reason. I will go with that.

> QUOTE(Observer @ Jun 7 2007, 01:06 PM)
>
> Folks, this is progress. We should celebrate such.
> No, we cannot assume that they do not care. This statement implies care.
>
> It clearly tells us that there is more going on in regard to 3-ABN than they have previously acknowledged. We may critic them for not telling us more. But, let us celebrate for what they have told us.

Posted by: Artiste Jun 7 2007, 02:12 PM

> QUOTE(Observer @ Jun 7 2007, 12:06 PM) ☐
>
> Folks, this is progress. We should celebrate such.
> No, we cannot assume that they do not care. This statement implies care.
>
> It clearly tells us that there is more going on in regard to 3-ABN than they have previously acknowledged.
> We may critic them for not telling us more. But, let us celebrate for what they have told us.

I am sorry--I do not celebrate their handling of this matter.

****

Posted by: Observer Jun 7 2007, 02:17 PM

> QUOTE(Artiste @ Jun 7 2007, 02:12 PM) ☐
>
> I am sorry--I do not celebrate their handling of this matter.
>
> ***

I am not asking you to hold a general revival to celebrate their overall handeling of this matter.

I am saying that Elder D. said more than I expected him to say at this time. This is a very public acknowledgement that the GC is advising caution. I did not expect this much at this time. It also implies that there is more going on than we are aware of. I am thnkful for that implication.

Yes, I think that we have someting to rejoice over. Yes, there is more work to be done.

Posted by: lurker Jun 7 2007, 03:02 PM

"Due to ongoing administrative issues at 3ABN"...."the General Conference administration has taken a position that until these matters have been addressed that the General Conference personnel not involve 3ABN for new program development and production........ The GC's position applies to General Conference personnel.

If you concentrate on the "meat" of the statement, I found lot for us to be encouraged about here.

Posted by: mikell Jun 7 2007, 03:29 PM

> QUOTE(lurker @ Jun 7 2007, 03:02 PM)
>
> "Due to ongoing administrative issues at 3ABN"...."the General Conference administration has taken a position that until these matters have been addressed that the General Conference personnel not involve 3ABN for new program development and production........ The GC's position applies to General Conference personnel.
>
> If you concentrate on the "meat" of the statement, I found lot for us to be encouraged about here.

Agree!

Posted by: mozart Jun 7 2007, 04:31 PM

for someone who is never "vague" in the expression of my thinking, let me see if i understand this.
the GC has not made a "statement" on the "status" of 3ABN as a "supporting" ministry of the church org.
however, on the other hand, the GC is withholding all "support" to 3ABN by means of preventing all GC associates from being involved in 3ABN productions or any 3ABN associates being involved with GC productions for the time being. ?? to be more concise: the GC has cut all future "production" ties with 3ABN just in case the allegations are realised. is that correct?

Posted by: Observer Jun 7 2007, 04:45 PM

> QUOTE(Artiste @ Jun 7 2007, 02:02 PM)
>
> I'm confused!
>
> What has the GC acknowledged and what have they not acknowledged???
>
> And why don't they care about "issues under the purview of the board of 3ABN" just because it is an independent ministry! There are many Seventh-day Adventists waiting for guidance from church leadership to know how they should relate to 3ABN!
>
> ***

You should be confused. I wrote "not" when I wanted to write "now." I make that kind of error quite often. I have corrected it in my first post.

Posted by: Artiste Jun 7 2007, 04:53 PM

> QUOTE(Observer @ Jun 7 2007, 02:45 PM)
>
> You shoud be confused. I wrote "not" when I wanted to write "now." I make that kind of error quite often. I have corrected it in my first post.

Thank you for the clarification.

Posted by: Daryl Fawcett Jun 7 2007, 05:15 PM

The General Conference of the SDA Church has now acknowledged that they have placed some restrictions on their involvement with 3ABN.

This is a step in the proper direction. It will be interesting to see what the next steps are and when.

I would also say that it was the email sent out by the Conference President in the Victoria Conference in Australia that resulted in further communication from the General Conference.

Posted by: Skyhook Jun 7 2007, 05:34 PM

If indeed the 3abn board is "purviewing" these "administrative issues" as the GC person said, then my guess is that this is something that they feel they didn't bargain for when they signed on to be board members. As I understand it, the 3abn board has never provided any oversight or even consultation to Danny. They have probably have been led to believe there is nothing amiss. If I recall correctly they are made up of business people and others who likely have many obligations and responsibilities, and who I think are scattered around the country. If in fact they are going to rectify anything, it is not something that can be done in a meeting or 2, in Denver or Tville.
I don't envy being in thier shoes. Resignations? There might be some angry board members if they learn to what extent they have been conned.

Posted by: Noahswife Jun 7 2007, 05:47 PM

From: Jim Pedersen
Sent: Wednesday, June 06, 2007 8:55 PM
Subject: Re: Australian Union Conference

Hi , no I have not seen any confirmation of this message.

Best wishes,
Jim

##

Hi Jim,

Thank you so much for the link to the chart. That was very helpful!

Have you received the directive from the GC that Denis Hankinson emailed to my associate? Several folks have brought comments from other GC officials that this may not be entirely accurate information. I have several people telling me that it would not be like Denis Hankinson to misrepresent such a serious matter.

Blessings,

##

----- Original Message -----

From: Jim Pedersen <mailto:JPedersen@ncc.adventist.org>

Sent: Wednesday, June 06, 2007 4:48 PM

Subject: Re: Australian Union Conference

Hello , sorry for the delay...this got buried in my inbox and I just now saw it again.

The Australian Union Conference is part of the South Pacific Division. They are all territories of the General Conference. Just like the Pacific Union Conference (ours) is part of the North American Division. The General Conference is divided into 13 world divisions. You can get a good view of them all at the GC website: http://www.adventist.org/world_church/world_divisions/index.html.en

I hope this helps.
Jim

##

Good Morning Jim,

An acquaintance of mine received the following email from Denis Hankinson, President of the Australian Union Conference and member of that Conference's Executive Committee.

Can you tell me what relationship the AUC has with our US General Conference? Are they a GC member or an entity unto themselves? It speaks poorly of me as a 40-year member of our denomination not to understand the church structure but I have been working on building a better understanding ever since I first spoke to you and realized that I had no idea that you were our NCC President! Some of us are late bloomers.... but there is always hope!

Blessings,
*****

###

From: Denis Hankinson
Date: 06/01/07 00:07:37
Subject: Updates from SPD Administrators' Council and Institute of Public Evangelism Committees

Greetings

Just a quick update on the recent meetings I attended.

Division Administrators -

Update on 3ABN (bold emphasis mine)
The General Conference has suspended 3ABN Supportive Ministry status until some well known issues in more than one area are sorted out. Basically, a lot of smoke doesn't necessarily presume a fire, but it definitely needs investigation and caution.

(edited rest of content in email not relating to this item)
Kind regards

Denis

Dr Denis Hankinson
President - Seventh-day Adventist Church (Victoria)

Posted by: lowender Jun 7 2007, 06:01 PM

Is it 3ABN that we want to see ended? NO! The problem is DANNY SHELTON. He has turned this ministry into a mafia. There are good people that work there who would be very capable of operating that ministry smoothly & honestly. The removal of Mr. Shelton from 3ABN has to be the goal here, not the end of 3ABN.

Posted by: Daryl Fawcett Jun 7 2007, 06:08 PM

I agree in the fact that we, myself included, do not want to see the demise of 3ABN, but do want to see administrative changes within 3ABN.

Posted by: lurker Jun 7 2007, 06:11 PM

Isn't that what is meant by administrative issues -the administration or the leadership at 3ABN? Not the ending of 3ABN?

Posted by: Daryl Fawcett Jun 7 2007, 06:15 PM

Yes, lurker, that is what I would think it means.

Posted by: lowender Jun 7 2007, 08:21 PM

The GC may censor 3ABN in some way or another. But truthfully, we all know that the GC cannot make Danny step down. Danny Shelton is trying to press this merger with AF to save his own neck. He wants to use this to say "Look here... Doug Batchelor agrees with my divorce. Everyone else is wrong."

The key is to let AF know that your support for them will end if they merge with Danny Shelton.

Posted by: Seraphim7 Jun 7 2007, 08:48 PM

You seem just a little to quick to accuse the conference of not caring. Which seems to be the underlying theme of a number of your posts. BMTJM

We, as adults, do not need to be told, as if adults do not have the ability to pray and be led by the Holy Spirit, "how" to relate to 3abn. I can not speak for you, nor will I try. Frankly, I do not need the church leadership to tell me how to relate to anything.

Be Blessed

> QUOTE(Artiste @ Jun 7 2007, 05:02 PM)
>
> I'm confused!
>
> What has the GC acknowledged and what have they not acknowledged???
>
> And why don't they care about "issues under the purview of the board of 3ABN" just because it is an independent ministry! There are many Seventh-day Adventists waiting for guidance from church leadership to know how they should relate to 3ABN!
>
> ***

Posted by: Rosyroi Jun 7 2007, 10:03 PM

> QUOTE(lowender @ Jun 7 2007, 07:21 PM)
>
> The GC may censor 3ABN in some way or another. But truthfully, we all know that the GC cannot make Danny step down. Danny Shelton is trying to press this merger with AF to save his own neck. He wants to use this to say "Look here... Doug Batchelor agrees with my divorce. Everyone else is wrong."
>
> The key is to let AF know that your support for them will end if they merge with Danny Shelton.

lowender
I understand and agree with your theory. Better than any I can come up with.

Yes the key issue... don't merge or we cut off support.

Rosyroi (Little nobody person in the pew making her little squeaky threats.)

Posted by: PrincessDrRe Jun 7 2007, 10:32 PM

> QUOTE(princessdi @ Jun 4 2007, 12:45 PM)
>
> Y'all excuse me a minute while I remove my tiara............... Dang!!!!! Ok hold on a minute...........
> ....Ok I'm back.......

...and you know DIS!

☒ sn -ing like I'm starving and watchin' a movie....

Posted by: lowender Jun 7 2007, 11:23 PM

We can't wait for the GC to make any statements or actions on their business with 3ABN. It's people like US[u] that are going to make changes happen. The best way is with our wallets. These supportive ministries need to know that corporate jets, fleets of vehicles & expensive gymnasiums aren't what preaching the Gospel on tv is about. It's up to us not to let Danny Shelton be the face of our church anymore...

Posted by: Voktar of Zargon Jun 8 2007, 05:21 AM

> QUOTE(lowender @ Jun 7 2007, 09:21 PM)
>
> The GC may censor 3ABN in some way or another. But truthfully, we all know that the GC cannot make Danny step down. Danny Shelton is trying to press this merger with AF to save his own neck. He wants to use this to say "Look here... Doug Batchelor agrees with my divorce. Everyone else is wrong."
>
> The key is to let AF know that your support for them will end if they merge with Danny Shelton.

Here is a link that may be relevant:

http://postcards.ucomics.com/send/?uc_comic=nq&uc_full_date=20070607&site_ref=ucomics

---

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Jun 8 2007, 06:43 AM

> QUOTE(Voktar of Zargon @ Jun 8 2007, 04:21 AM)
>
> Here is a link that may be relevant:
>
> http://postcards.ucomics.com/send/?uc_comic=nq&uc_full_date=20070607&site_ref=ucomics

Wiley's a hoot! Would be fun to know what the upside was.

Posted by: Noahswife Jun 8 2007, 07:32 AM

> QUOTE(Voktar of Zargon @ Jun 8 2007, 07:21 AM)
>
> Here is a link that may be relevant:
>
> http://postcards.ucomics.com/send/?uc_comic=nq&uc_full_date=20070607&site_ref=ucomics

I am so tempted...........

Where are those lists of email addresses?

VofZ sig

Posted by: sonshineonme Jun 8 2007, 09:12 AM

> QUOTE(Voktar of Zargon @ Jun 8 2007, 04:21 AM)
>
> Here is a link that may be relevant:
>
> http://postcards.ucomics.com/send/?uc_comic=nq&uc_full_date=20070607&site_ref=ucomics

Wiley sure has a way of expressing things. Love this. Nothing like a visual!

The upside might have everything to do with money money money (and power power power)...

Maybe we can get Wiley to draw us that one too. It's usually a lose-lose thing if the the devil is in the details anywhere.

Those mailing lists...they are here somewhere....

Posted by: sonshineonme Jun 8 2007, 07:00 PM

I JUST RECEIVED THIS IN EMAIL.

A conference President has told me that this statement is based upon a release directly from the General Conference President of Seventh-day Adventists and the NAD has redistributed the same to all administrators and pastoral staff.

Leadership is on the move to press for corrections at 3ABN. Praise be to God that we have leadership on this very important issue.

Gailon Arthur Joy

AUReporter

+++
SUBJECT: K. PAULSON STATEMENT ON GC OFFICIAL STANCE:

Message: 15

Date: Fri, 8 Jun 2007 00:57:30 +0000

From: "Kevin Paulson"

Subject: [GCOList] 3abn status

Dear Brothers and Sisters:

A number of posts have lately raised the issue of 3ABN and its relationship to the Conference, as well as that of Amazing Facts.

Yesterday I spoke with a highly placed official of the North American Division, to inquire as to the truth regarding some of the recent rumors. He informed me that while no decision has yet been made by the General Conference to cancel the status of 3ABN as a supporting ministry, the General Conference President has in fact requested that GC officials refrain from appearing on the newtork until certain issues have been clarified.

As many on this List are aware, concern over the propriety of certain actions on the part of 3ABN leadership has increased considerably in recent months. Many supporters of the ministry, and many in church leadership, are deeply troubled by certain recent events. There is concern about accountability and the extent to which such a ministry and its leaders can become a law unto themselves.

We must keep 3ABN in our prayers. Let us pray that God can bring clarification, and significant changes if necessary, so that this ministry can fully live up to its potential in proclaiming the third angel's message.

Recent issues involving the conduct of 3ABN leadership are not the only reason faithful Adventists have been concerned about this ministry. For some time, certain speakers and music styles on that network have fallen far short of Bible and Spirit of Prophecy standards. More than one speaker on that network, one in particular, have been outspoken supporters of the New Theology. The leadership of 3ABN has been repeatedly warned about these problems, but so far nothing has been done to correct them.

Another matter that has lately come to light is the fact that a large percentage of 3ABN employees are not even Seventh-day Adventists. Many, many supporters of the ministry would be most reluctant to sustain it with their means if they knew this. How can a ministry preach the third angel's message when a fair number of its workers, including some in key positions, don't even believe the message?

Regarding some of the personal issues that have lately been raised regarding 3ABN leadership, let me say as clearly as I know how that were the president of that ministry a member of one of my churches, he would have more than a few questions to answer. I count this man as a friend. But I am deeply troubled by recent developments. And so are many others, including some at the highest level of God's work.

Regarding Shelly Quinn and her preaching style, I too am deeply bothered by anyone who says "God told me" this or that. This kind of talk is completely unacceptable for a Christian, unless one is either quoting inspired writings or is in fact an inspired prophet. Mystical impressions as a means of knowing God's will are a major pitfall in the Pentecostal world. And some even in Adventism are partaking of this mentality. It is most dangerous.

Also, a word needs to be said about Amazing Facts presumably getting "entangled" with the Conference. Since the beginning, Amazing Facts has had a board chaired by the president of the local Conference where Amazing Facts is located--first in Chesapeake Conference, then Northern California when the ministry moved. Every minister working for Amazing Facts is credentialed by the local Conference, though with the exception of Doug Batchelor all are paid by funds solicited by the ministry rather than by Conference funds.

Amazing Facts has always had a close working relationship with the denomination. There have indeed been tensions at times, but to speak of "entanglement" is very misleading. The connection with the Conference described above has existed from the time Amazing Facts got started.

And let us not delude ourselves with the assumption that self-supporting ministries are necessarily better able to maintain integrity than Conference ministries. While I praise God for the wonderful work performed by many self-supporting laborers, my own observation and experience has found that self-supporting work often has far less accountability within itself than Conference ministries do. Too often, from what I've seen, a single leader wields far too much power in many self-supporting ministries. Often such ministries have boards that include employees of the institution, who cannot easily hold the institution accountable because they are part of it and beholden to its leaders. This is a dangerous conflict of interest, and one too often seen in self-supporting Adventism.

This particular problem is one major reason why 3ABN is facing serious challenges just now. Again, let us keep them in prayer.

God bless!

Kevin

(EDITED AS IT PERTAINED TO 10 COMMANDMENTS THREAD - MOVED IT OVER TO THAT THREAD FOR ANY DISCUSSION DESIRED)

Posted by: princessdi Jun 8 2007, 08:08 PM

Ok so a few portions of "Kevin's" email trouble me deeply and are testament to the fact that Adventist still ahve a ways to go as far as understanding what it means to have a personal relationship with God.

However, the rest, he is on hit. I only know of one independent where the board was strong enough to boot the founder/president when he got too corrupt, and they didnt' move fast enough.

Posted by: PrincessDrRe Jun 8 2007, 09:29 PM

My LERD!

It's on and poppin'.....

Posted by: calvin Jun 8 2007, 09:31 PM

Who is this Kevin Paulsen guy?

Posted by: YogusBearus Jun 8 2007, 09:35 PM

> QUOTE(calvin @ Jun 8 2007, 09:31 PM)
>
> Who is this Kevin Paulsen guy?

http://greatcontroversy.org

Probably not someone you would invite to lunch Calvin. But then again...

-bear

Posted by: calvin Jun 8 2007, 09:48 PM

Ok thanks, his bio says he serves on the pastoral staff of the Greater New York Conference of Seventh-day Adventists. So we have an Adventist pastor speaking out.

Posted by: Artiste Jun 8 2007, 09:58 PM

Re: The Kevin Paulson communication

What is the "New Theology"?

Posted by: mozart Jun 8 2007, 09:59 PM

> QUOTE(princessdi @ Jun 8 2007, 07:08 PM)
>
> Ok so a few portions of "Kevin's" email trouble me deeply and are testament to the fact that Adventist still ahve a ways to go as far as understanding what it means to have a personal relationship with God.
>
> However, the rest, he is on hit. I only know of one independent where the board was strong enough to boot the founder/president when he got too corrupt, and they didnt' move fast enough.

i think all of us will always have "a ways to go as far as understanding what it means to have a personal relationship with God." until God comes to take us home. i don't think anyone can understand someone else's "personal" relationship with God. why should adventists be any different?

Posted by: Artiste Jun 8 2007, 10:04 PM

> QUOTE(princessdi @ Jun 8 2007, 06:08 PM) ☐
>
> Ok so a few portions of "Kevin's" email trouble me deeply and are testament to the fact that Adventist still ahve a ways to go as far as understanding what it means to have a personal relationship with God.
>
> However, the rest, he is on hit. I only know of one independent where the board was strong enough to boot the founder/president when he got too corrupt, and they didnt' move fast enough.

I agree with you...several parts of the e-mail trouble me greatly!

Posted by: ex3ABNemployee Jun 8 2007, 11:51 PM

> QUOTE(sonshineonme @ Jun 8 2007, 07:00 PM) ☐
>
> --- snip ---
>
> As many on this List are aware, concern over the propriety of certain actions on the part of 3ABN leadership has increased considerably in recent months. Many supporters of the ministry, and many in church leadership, are deeply troubled by certain recent events. There is concern about accountability and the extent to which such a ministry and its leaders can become a law unto themselves.
>
> - edited -
>
> Regarding some of the personal issues that have lately been raised regarding 3ABN leadership, let me say as clearly as I know how that were the president of that ministry a member of one of my churches, he would have more than a few questions to answer. I count this man as a friend. But I am deeply troubled by recent developments. And so are many others, including some at the highest level of God's work.
>
> - edited -
>
> And let us not delude ourselves with the assumption that > self-supporting ministries are necessarily better able to maintain integrity than Conference ministries. While I praise God for the wonderful work performed by many self-supporting laborers, my own observation and experience has found that self-supporting work often has far less accountability within itself than Conference ministries do. Too often, from what I've seen, a single leader wields far too much power in many self-supporting ministries. Often such ministries have boards that include employees of the institution, who cannot easily hold the institution accountable because they are part of it and beholden to its leaders. This is a dangerous conflict of interest, and one too often seen in self-supporting Adventism.

>
> This particular problem is one major reason why 3ABN is facing serious challenges just now. Again, let us keep them in prayer.
>
> God bless!
>
> Kevin
>
> --- snip ---

Wow! It almost sounds like this guy works there.

'll bet he's gonna get a nastygram from Danny.

Posted by: Snoopy Jun 8 2007, 11:56 PM

> QUOTE(ex3ABNemployee @ Jun 8 2007, 11:51 PM)
>
> Wow! It almost sounds like this guy works there.
>
> I'll bet he's gonna get a nastygram from Danny.

..........or maybe he will be the next one to be served with a dannygram....

Posted by: mikell Jun 9 2007, 12:23 AM

> QUOTE(Artiste @ Jun 8 2007, 09:58 PM)
>
> Re: The Kevin Paulson communication
>
> What is the "New Theology"?

Artiste, simply put, "New Theology" is anti TEN COMMANDMENTS. Why? It comes done to "sin and and live on forever theology." It is just about as bad as, once saved always saved. Not only is the sinner is justified in their past, but it comes down to the sinner being justified in the future, regardless living in sin or breaking God's Law for the rest of a "saved" life, he or she is going to heaven! I think somewhere in the Bible says, "The soul that sinneth, it shall die?" But, maybe I could be mistaken.

What, are we to believe that DS could think to believe in the "New Theology?" He would not do that! How can anyone would think DS might believe in something that would allow him to steal, covet, commit adultery, lie, and most of all, be a god for many to worship; and still go to heaven?! I just cannot imagine that any of us in this group here would even think that DS would believe that!

Posted by: roxe Jun 9 2007, 12:29 AM

mikell,

where is that tongue-in-cheek smiley when we need it?

Posted by: lowender Jun 9 2007, 03:13 AM

Hey gang.. Just ignore Kevin Paulsen. He is a troublemaker. When I was a student at Loma Linda he would hang around campus just stirring up trouble. More than once he had to be asked to exit forums, buildings, etc because of his disruptiveness. He may have pastoral training, but he doesnt have a congregation & I don't believe he has ever had one. He is nowhere near the GC leadership. I am certain they wouldnt let him get close. He used to write for some independent ministry.

Lowender

Posted by: watchbird Jun 9 2007, 03:46 AM

> QUOTE(calvin @ Jun 8 2007, 11:31 PM)
>
> Who is this Kevin Paulsen guy?

Kevin Paulson was for years one of the most prolific of the writers in the publication called "Our Firm Foundation, put out by Hope International.... (Hope International is the ministry headed by Ron Spears, which was formerly located in Oregon... now moved to North Eastern Illinois. It is also the ministry which was formally censured by the GC some years ago.) Currently I only see him featured on the Larry Kirkpatrick website ... the "greatcontroversy.org" that Bearus cited.

He is so far to the "right" of Adventism that even conservative Adventism comes under his label of "teaching 'New Theology'".... which he defines as anything remotely resembling Justification by Faith.

> QUOTE(calvin @ Jun 8 2007, 11:48 PM)
>
> Ok thanks, his bio says he serves on the pastoral staff of the Greater New York Conference of Seventh-day Adventists. So we have an Adventist pastor speaking out.

I have no idea what being "on the pastoral staff of the Greater New York Conference" means... for I do not find anything called "pastoral staff" on their website, nor do I find Kevin Paulson listed as a credentialed worker in any of the listings in the Adventist Yearbook.

[Correction to the above, which I shall leave in to avoid confusion.
I discovered that I had not checked far enough on the Greater New York Conference site. I still do not know why he did not show up in the yearbook search, butKevin Paulson IS listed on the Conference site as the pastor of both the Peekskill and the Wingdale, NY, SDA church. My apologies for the misinformation.]

> QUOTE(Artiste @ Jun 8 2007, 11:58 PM)
>
> Re: The Kevin Paulson communication
>
> What is the "New Theology"?

"New Theology" is a term used by "right wing" (and beyond) Adventists to denote anything that they do not like... especially if it has anything to do with Justification by Faith.

> QUOTE(ex3ABNemployee @ Jun 9 2007, 01:51 AM)
>
> Wow! It almost sounds like this guy works there.
>
> I'll bet he's gonna get a nastygram from Danny.

No, Duane, it merely means that there are a number of "independent ministries"... particularly in the sector of Adventism that Kevin Paulson inhabits, which exhibit the same characteristics as does 3abn ... and which Kevin describes so aptly. But notice the comparison he makes.... where HOPETV (which is owned and directed by mainline Adventism) is even worse than 3abn in his eyes.

> QUOTE(mikell @ Jun 9 2007, 02:23 AM)
>
> Artiste, simply put, "New Theology" is anti TEN COMMANDMENTS. Why? It comes done to "sin and and live on forever theology." It is just about as bad as, once saved always saved. Not only is the sinner is justified in their past, but it comes down to the sinner being justified in the future, regardless living in sin or breaking God's Law for the rest of a "saved" life, he or she is going to heaven! I think somewhere in the Bible says, "The soul that sinneth, it shall die?" But, maybe I could be mistaken.
>
> What, are we to believe that DS could think to believe in the "New Theology?" He would not do that! How can anyone would think DS might believe in something that would allow him to steal, covet, commit adultery, lie, and most of all, be a god for many to worship; and still go to heaven?! I just cannot imagine that any of us in this group here would even think that DS would believe that!

Your parody of what is said against "New Theology" by those of Kevin Paulson's views rings very true.... until you get to your last two sentences in the first paragraph. There you reveal your own bias as a "luke warm Laodicean" who doesn't "stand firm for their convictions". For a true "Historic Adventist" would NEVER use such vague terms as "I think somewhere in" when refering to scripture. That sentence would begin with a positive, ringing, affirmation... "THE BIBLE SAYS... "
And NO Historic would EVER express any doubt in the Bible's (or his own God given) message by using such a waffly sentence as "maybe I could be mistaken." ("Give the trumpet a certain sound, brother!")

As for your comment on DS and "New Theology"..... mmmm.... no.... I'd better not comment on that....

....

> QUOTE(lowender @ Jun 9 2007, 05:13 AM)
>
> Hey gang.. Just ignore Kevin Paulsen. He is a troublemaker. When I was a student at Loma Linda he would hang around campus just stirring up trouble. More than once he had to be asked to exit forums, buildings, etc because of his disruptiveness. He may have pastoral training, but he doesnt have a congregation & I don't believe he has ever had one. He is nowhere near the GC leadership. I am certain they wouldnt let him get close. He used to write for some independent ministry.
>
> Lowender

Excellent summary statement, lowender.....

Posted by: Clay Jun 9 2007, 06:12 AM

thanks for clearing that up WB and lowender.... Kevin Paulson is not a credible source... and he has issues..... that's what it looks like to me....

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Jun 9 2007, 06:16 AM

> QUOTE(ex3ABNemployee @ Jun 8 2007, 10:51 PM)
>
> Wow! It almost sounds like this guy works there.
>
> I'll bet he's gonna get a nastygram from Danny.

At least!

Posted by: mikell Jun 9 2007, 07:51 AM

> QUOTE(watchbird @ Jun 9 2007, 03:46 AM)
>
> Your parody of what is said against "New Theology" by those of Kevin Paulson's views rings very true.... until you get to your last two sentences in the first paragraph. There you reveal your own bias as a "luke warm Laodicean" who doesn't "stand firm for their convictions". For a true "Historic Adventist" would NEVER use such vague terms as "I think somewhere in" when refering to scripture. That sentence would begin with a positive, ringing, affirmation... "THE BIBLE SAYS... "
> And NO Historic would EVER express any doubt in the Bible's (or his own God given) message by using such a waffly sentence as "maybe I could be mistaken." ("Give the trumpet a certain sound, brother!")
>
> As for your comment on DS and "New Theology"..... mmmm.... no.... I'd better not comment on that....

..... (............

Watchbird, Of course I am positive it is in the Bible in Ezekiel 18:4 says, "THE SOUL THAT SINNITH, IT SHALL DIE"! When I wrote, "I think somewhere in the Bible...," I was being little "facetious." But, maybe the word, "facetious" does not exist, I think somewhere it is in the Dictionary, but who knows? Ever heard of the words, "lighten-up?"

Posted by: watchbird Jun 9 2007, 09:23 AM

> QUOTE(mikell @ Jun 9 2007, 09:51 AM)
>
> Watchbird, Of course I am positive it is in the Bible in Ezekiel 18:4 says, "THE SOUL THAT SINNITH, IT SHALL DIE"! When I wrote, "I think somewhere in the Bible...," I was being little "facetious." But, maybe the word, "facetious" does not exist, I think somewhere it is in the Dictionary, but who knows? Ever heard of the words, "lighten-up?"

Yes... as a matter of fact I have... and btw... both "facetious" and "lighten up" can be found at dictionary.com in a matter of seconds...

Actually, I was giving you "credit" for "satire".... which is essentially facetiousness put to a serious use....

What you surely by now must understand is that there are those who are seriously challenged by such literary devices... (though we may not have any such who are reading here at the moment).... so it seemed well to his ol' literary devices admirer to point out your small digressions from "staying in character" when posing as one who believed as you were describing. Of course it is entirely possible that I... being utterly charmed by hese devices... was misreading you... and you were not, in fact, describing something opposite to what you eally believe... but only "being a little facetious".... if that is the case then I humbly apologize.... ....

will sackcloth be sufficient?... or do you wish me to sprinkle ashes as well... ....)

Imagine that... me... the Bird that flies hither and yon... and he wants me to "lighten up".....) rofl

And now... back to our regular programing....

.... TVsnack. ....

btw.... welcome.gif ..... I can see you are going to fit into this crowd exceptionally well..... but you will need to learn to take as well as give....

Posted by: mikell Jun 9 2007, 10:34 AM

> QUOTE(watchbird @ Jun 9 2007, 09:23 AM)
>
> What you surely by now must understand is that there are those who are seriously challenged by such literary devices...
>
> (Imagine that... me... the Bird that flies hither and yon... and he wants me to "lighten up".....) rofl
>
> And now... back to our regular programing....
>
> .... TVsnack. ....
>
> btw.... welcome.gif ..... I can see you are going to fit into this crowd exceptionally well..... but you will need to learn to take as well as give....

Point well taken! You are right, there are those who are seriously challenged by such things. Also, advise on to "learn to take a well as give" is well taken, thanks,

A note about, "the Bird that flies," ha, not if you are an, Osteridge!

Posted by: steffan Jun 9 2007, 11:12 AM

> QUOTE(sonshineonme @ Jun 8 2007, 08:00 PM)
>
> I JUST RECEIVED THIS IN EMAIL.
> A conference President has told me that this statement is based > upon a release directly from the General Conference President of
>
>
> Seventh-day Adventists and the NAD has redistributed the same to
>
> all administrators and pastoral staff.
>
> Leadership is on the move to press for corrections at 3ABN.
> Praise be to God that we have leadership on this very > important issue.
>

> Gailon Arthur Joy
>
> AUReporter
>
> +++
> SUBJECT: K. PAULSON STATEMENT ON GC OFFICIAL STANCE:
>
> Message: 15
>
> Date: Fri, 8 Jun 2007 00:57:30 +0000
>
> From: "Kevin Paulson"
>
> God bless!
>
> Kevin
>
> (EDITED AS IT PERTAINED TO 10 COMMANDMENTS THREAD - MOVED IT OVER TO THAT THREAD FOR ANY DISCUSSION DESIRED)

SOM,
he fact that you posted this "commentary" from KP exposes, once again, that you show a "lack of udgement" with your "sources." Your first mistake was taking it from Joy who also represents it as coming rom a "credible" source. After you posted it, as usual, many here took it as something important which it is ot. Thank Goodness, I believe it was Lowender that had enough sense to recognize or "look into" the author f this "in the know" email. Lowender is totally correct, that KP knows nothing about what Church leadership s doing or thinking as they would not allow him that close.
ow many "misrepresentations" by Joy, you and others will it take for people to see how the subject of 3abn as been compiled of rumors, speculation, "faulty" sources and opinion? Gailon has been proven wrong on hat he has "reported" over and over again and yet this site still gives his site "PR" when newbies come. This nly proves people believe what they want to believe no matter how unreliable the source, or how little can e proven as fact.

Posted by: sonshineonme Jun 9 2007, 11:49 AM

> QUOTE(steffan @ Jun 9 2007, 10:12 AM)
>
> SSOM,
> The fact that you posted this "commentary" from KP exposes, once again, that you show a "lack of judgement" with your "sources." Your first mistake was taking it from Joy who also represents it as coming from a "credible" source. After you posted it, as usual, many here took it as something important which it is not. Thank Goodness, I believe it was Lowender that had enough sense to recognize or "look into" the author of this "in the know" email. Lowender is totally correct, that KP knows nothing about what Church leadership is doing or thinking as they would not allow him that close.
> How many "misrepresentations" by Joy, you and others will it take for people to see how the subject of 3abn has been compiled of rumors, speculation, "faulty" sources and opinion? Gailon has been proven wrong on what he has "reported" over and over again and yet this site still gives his site "PR" when newbies come. This only proves people believe what they want to believe no matter how unreliable the source, or how little can be proven as fact.

teffan,

You again are trying to capitalize on anything you can. What's new.

I lack judgment because I chose to post an email that came to me in it's entirety? Kevin is at least sincere and takes things seriously enough to examine things. This does not mean he is wrong or right, it means he went for information and reported what he found. He has been watching like many SDA's (the ones you agree with and the ones you don't). He has many readers too, and everyone is affected by 3abn, so he has the right to express it. I think you should be looking at the fact that it is infultrating DS's main base. They see not only the theology problem, but many of the problems at 3abn. DS does not like that, I know. Those are the last of the mohiccans to him. He needs them.

You tear Kevin down based on something else he believes that you do not agree with and try to gain support by your attempt in using others comments (such as lowender) that you think will join in and say "he is wrong here and here, so he must be TOTALLY WRONG EVERYWHERE". In fact, many know he is on the money on many points. Did you see people tearing those points down?

I posted this email in it's entirety. That is how it came to me, and I will not cut and paste as some like to do. I would not want to be accused of posting only the bits and pieces I agree with. Gailon give people the credit of having common sense to read this email and "get it".

You would like to tie this all together nice and tight - wouldn't you? Gailon=Keven=any one else that sees what's going on and has something to say about it?? Won't fly. Sorry. Once again, shows how you like to take advantage of anything to keep things quiet. Tear everyone down that has enough common sense to see the truth of 3agbn and it's corruption. Are you ready to attack the GC too?

Posted by: watchbird Jun 9 2007, 12:40 PM

> QUOTE(mikell @ Jun 9 2007, 12:34 PM) ☐
>
> Point well taken! You are right, there are those who are seriously challenged by such things. Also, advise on to "learn to take a well as give" is well taken, thanks,
>
> A note about, "the Bird that flies," ha, not if you are an, Osteridge!

.... angel.gi ......

Posted by: Snoopy Jun 9 2007, 02:02 PM

> QUOTE(sonshineonme @ Jun 9 2007, 11:49 AM) ☐
>
> Steffan,
>
> You again are trying to capitalize on anything you can. What's new.
>
> I lack judgment because I chose to post an email that came to me in it's entirety? Kevin is at least sincere and takes things seriously enough to examine things. This does not mean he is wrong or right, it means he went for information and reported what he found. He has been watching like many SDA's (the ones you agree with and the ones you don't). He has many readers too, and everyone is affected by 3abn, so he has the right to express it. I think you should be looking at the fact that it is infultrating DS's main base. They see not only the theology problem, but many of the problems at 3abn. DS does not like that, I know. Those are the last of the mohiccans to him. He needs them.

> You tear Kevin down based on something else he believes that you do not agree with and try to gain support by your attempt in using others comments (such as lowender) that you think will join in and say "he is wrong here and here, so he must be TOTALLY WRONG EVERYWHERE". In fact, many know he is on the money on many points. Did you see people tearing those points down?
>
> I posted this email in it's entirety. That is how it came to me, and I will not cut and paste as some like to do. I would not want to be accused of posting only the bits and pieces I agree with. Gailon give people the credit of having common sense to read this email and "get it".
>
> You would like to tie this all together nice and tight - wouldn't you? Gailon=Keven=any one else that sees what's going on and has something to say about it?? Won't fly. Sorry. Once again, shows how you like to take advantage of anything to keep things quiet. Tear everyone down that has enough common sense to see the truth of 3agbn and it's corruption. Are you ready to attack the GC too?

ctually, SSoM, I appreciate you posting the information from Kevin Paulsen. Having not been closely ssociated with the SDA church for quite some time now, I had to ask someone I have a huge degree of espect for (and who has been a staunch, conservative SDA all of his life) just who Mr. Paulsen is. The esponse I received was that Mr. Paulsen is "quite grounded in the Bible and has a lot of good things to offer", bviously a different view than shared by others here so far. So, thank you for posting yet another erspective. We must remember that opinions are like noses - everybody has one (yeah, I changed that hrase a bit)!!

~Snoopy~~

s...regarding "are you ready to attack the GC too?".........didn't I read somewhere here on BSDA that DS/GM t al would not hesitate to sue the SDA church, or a conference or some related entity?? Perhaps it is only a natter of time before the DS/GM show drops a little dannygram in Maryland summoning the whole GC to ourt..... If I misread that, or misunderstood, I'll be more than happy to edit this post...I'm sure someone will orrect me.........

Posted by: joyce Jun 9 2007, 05:26 PM

> QUOTE(Snoopy @ Jun 9 2007, 12:02 PM)
>
> Actually, SSoM, I appreciate you posting the information from Kevin Paulsen. Having not been closely associated with the SDA church for quite some time now, I had to ask someone I have a huge degree of respect for (and who has been a staunch, conservative SDA all of his life) just who Mr. Paulsen is. The response I received was that Mr. Paulsen is "quite grounded in the Bible and has a lot of good things to offer", obviously a different view than shared by others here so far. So, thank you for posting yet another perspective. We must remember that opinions are like noses - everybody has one (yeah, I changed that phrase a bit)!!
>
> ~~Snoopy~~
>
> ps...regarding "are you ready to attack the GC too?".........didn't I read somewhere here on BSDA that DS/GM et al would not hesitate to sue the SDA church, or a conference or some related entity?? Perhaps it is only a matter of time before the DS/GM show drops a little dannygram in Maryland summoning the whole GC to court..... If I misread that, or misunderstood, I'll be more than happy to edit this post...I'm sure someone will correct me.........

evin Paulsen is actually a genius. When he was ten years old he recited a large section of the encyclopedia to me. He is a strong SDA, and when I last ran into him was at GC in ST Louis. He was a pastor, so I would expect him to be in the know as to church matters.

Joyce

Posted by: franklyamazed Jun 9 2007, 07:37 PM

Kevin Paulson is listed as the pastor of the Peekskill SDA Church, Peekskill New York.

Kevin is the son of two well educated people who were friends of my parents. While he was a teen-ager, they both left the church during the Ford event, and joined a church populated by ex SDA's pastored by an ex SDA pastor.

Kevin stood firm for what he believed, however. While I may not entirely agree with him on some of his theological beliefs, my observation is that he is very bright, and very dedicated to truth.

Kevin is like many of the endangered species in this world. At some point, one of them may hold the key to survival, so I think we should be careful about marginalizing someone just because we do not like what they may say.

Posted by: lurker Jun 9 2007, 07:59 PM

Frankly, wouldn't that be Peekskill? http://www.peekskillsda.com/aboutus.php

Notice the link for watching 3ABN online on the right hand side of the screen.

Posted by: sonshineonme Jun 9 2007, 08:04 PM

> QUOTE(lurker @ Jun 9 2007, 06:59 PM)
>
> Frankly, wouldn't that be Peekskill? http://www.peekskillsda.com/aboutus.php
>
> Notice the link for watching 3ABN online on the right hand side of the screen.

Yes, he is pastoring there.

That link might not be there too long.

Posted by: Artiste Jun 9 2007, 08:09 PM

Well, he did sound like he had watched 3ABN enough to form opinions.

Posted by: sonshineonme Jun 9 2007, 08:15 PM

> QUOTE(Artiste @ Jun 9 2007, 07:09 PM)
>
> Well, he did sound like he had watched 3ABN enough to form opinions.

Among some other things...

Posted by: watchbird Jun 9 2007, 08:20 PM

> QUOTE(lurker @ Jun 9 2007, 09:59 PM)
>
> Frankly, wouldn't that be Peekskill? http://www.peekskillsda.com/aboutus.php

Yes, I discovered my error in not finding him in the conference listings, and have corrected the false information I gave earlier. Kevin Paulson is, in fact, the pastor of two churches there, the Peekskill and the Wingdale churches. My apologies for my initial misinformation.

Posted by: steffan Jun 9 2007, 08:24 PM

> QUOTE(sonshineonme @ Jun 9 2007, 12:49 PM)
>
> Steffan,
>
> I lack judgment because I chose to post an email that came to me in it's entirety? Kevin is at least sincere and takes things seriously enough to examine things. This does not mean he is wrong or right, it means he went for information and reported what he found. He has been watching like many SDA's (the ones you agree with and the ones you don't). He has many readers too, and everyone is affected by 3abn, so he has the right to express it. I think you should be looking at the fact that it is infultrating DS's main base. They see not only the theology problem, but many of the problems at 3abn. DS does not like that, I know. Those are the last of the mohiccans to him. He needs them.
>
> You tear Kevin down based on something else he believes that you do not agree with and try to gain support by your attempt in using others comments (such as lowender) that you think will join in and say "he is wrong here and here, so he must be TOTALLY WRONG EVERYWHERE". In fact, many know he is on the money on many points. Did you see people tearing those points down?
>
> Are you ready to attack the GC too?

By posting an email that came to you, you were giving it importance and portraying the author as a credible source. How so? He knows nothing about 3abn or those personally involved. He says he is a "friend" of Danny. I happen to know that Danny met him one time several years ago at ASI as in HI I'm so and so blah blah. So right off, he has misrepresented his relationship with Danny.
Then you say "he went for information and reported what he found." This is classic.
He went where for information? He certainly didn't go to any of the people involved. So, in essence, at best he ask some people their opinions, put that with his opinion and then reported it. No verification, no names nothing. No credibility, no importance. Again, this shows an incredible lack of judgement by Joy and you and a willingness to post anything that has to do with criticism of 3abn no matter where it comes from.
As far as your "theology" issues you say are infiltrating 3abn, I don't have a clue what you are talking about. If anything any theology criticism that they receive is for showing conservative Adventism programming. Hope is liberal. 3abn is not.
Am I ready to attack the GC too? Why would I? It has already been established on another thread that the 3abn status has not changed and that statement was by Elder Schneider himself.
On the other hand let's turn that scenerio around. As long as you and others were sure that the GC was siding with 3abn and taking no action against them, you were attacking the GC. Just as you (this forum) have attacked ASI, Nad, and even Amazing facts. This forum has attacked any and all organizations that have ignored gossip and continued to work with 3abn so, really, Don't act like attacking the GC would be so far fetched anyway.

Posted by: lurker Jun 9 2007, 08:33 PM

Steffan, you amaze me with what you know about such incidents in Danny's life such as who he has met and how well he knows them. I may consider many people to be friends who do not consider me to be their friend. But hey, I'm just that kind of person.

The difference in who considers who to be a friend may be found in the degree of friendliness of the personalities of Danny and of Elder Paulson. You know, who is friendly and who is not.

Posted by: Clay Jun 9 2007, 09:00 PM

So Paulson is a pastor, and has issues? you all make up your mind....

Posted by: franklyamazed Jun 9 2007, 09:12 PM

> QUOTE(lurker @ Jun 9 2007, 08:59 PM)
>
> Frankly, wouldn't that be Peekskill? http://www.peekskillsda.com/aboutus.php
>
> Notice the link for watching 3ABN online on the right hand side of the screen.

Thanks for catching that. Entry is corrected.

Posted by: Observer Jun 9 2007, 09:31 PM

> QUOTE(watchbird @ Jun 9 2007, 07:20 PM)
>
> Yes, I discovered my error in not finding him in the conference listings, and have corrected the false information I gave earlier. Kevin Paulson is, in fact, the pastor of two churches there, the Peekskill and the Wingdale churches. My apologies for my initial misinformation.

WB: I am still confused. Here is what the Wingdale website says:

> QUOTE
>
> Contact Us
>
> Wingdale Seventh-day Adventist Church
> PO Box 353
> Wingdale, NY, 12594-0353
> USA
>
> Pastor: Viorel Negoi

> Office Hours:
>
> Service times:
> Sabbath School: 9:30am
> Worship Service: 11:00am

s he perhaps on the pastoral staff, but not the senior pastor? Clairfy, please.

'hank you,

> QUOTE(Observer @ Jun 9 2007, 09:25 PM)
>
> WB: I am still confused. Here is what the Wingdale website says:
> Is he perhaps on the pastoral staff, but not the senior pastor? Clairfy, please.
>
> Thank you,

am further confused by this second listing for the Wingdale Chruch:

> QUOTE
>
> Wingdale SDA Church
> P.O. Box 353
> Wingdale, NY 12594-0388
>
> Phone: 845-832-6631
>
> Pastor: Kevin Paulson
>
> Language: English
> Membership: 43

note that there is an Internet listing for the Peekskill chruch that lists him a pastor.

Posted by: calvin Jun 9 2007, 10:28 PM

> QUOTE(steffan @ Jun 9 2007, 08:24 PM)
>
> By posting an email that came to you, you were giving it importance and portraying the author as a credible source. How so? He knows nothing about 3abn or those personally involved. He says he is a "friend" of Danny. I happen to know that Danny met him one time several years ago at ASI as in HI I'm so and so blah blah. So right off, he has misrepresented his relationship with Danny.
> Then you say "he went for information and reported what he found." This is classic.
> He went where for information? He certainly didn't go to any of the people involved. So, in essence, at best he ask some people their opinions, put that with his opinion and then reported it. No verification, no names nothing. No credibility, no importance. Again, this shows an incredible lack of judgement by Joy and you and a willingness to post anything that has to do with criticism of 3abn no matter where it comes from.
> As far as your "theology" issues you say are infiltrating 3abn, I don't have a clue what you are talking > about. If anything any theology criticism that they receive is for showing conservative Adventism programming. Hope is liberal. 3abn is not.

> Am I ready to attack the GC too? Why would I? It has already been established on another thread that the 3abn status has not changed and that statement was by Elder Schneider himself.
> On the other hand let's turn that scenerio around. As long as you and others were sure that the GC was siding with 3abn and taking no action against them, you were attacking the GC. Just as you (this forum) have attacked ASI, Nad, and even Amazing facts. This forum has attacked any and all organizations that have ignored gossip and continued to work with 3abn so, really, Don't act like attacking the GC would be so far fetched anyway.

o Steffan you say you know Danny Shelton. But you speak in the first person as if you are Danny Shelton?

Posted by: Snoopy Jun 9 2007, 10:43 PM

> QUOTE(steffan @ Jun 9 2007, 08:24 PM)
>
> By posting an email that came to you, you were giving it importance and portraying the author as a credible source. How so? He knows nothing about 3abn or those personally involved. He says he is a "friend" of Danny. I happen to know that Danny met him one time several years ago at ASI as in HI I'm so and so blah blah. So right off, he has misrepresented his relationship with Danny.

nteresting. If you are not Danny, then you must be "Danny's l'il shaddow", knowing how folks introduce hemselves and all...

> QUOTE
>
> Then you say "he went for information and reported what he found." This is classic.
> He went where for information? He certainly didn't go to any of the people involved. So, in essence, at best he ask some people their opinions, put that with his opinion and then reported it. No verification, no names nothing. No credibility, no importance. Again, this shows an incredible lack of judgement by Joy and you and a willingness to post anything that has to do with criticism of 3abn no matter where it comes from.
> As far as your "theology" issues you say are infiltrating 3abn, I don't have a clue what you are talking about. If anything any theology criticism that they receive is for showing conservative Adventism programming. Hope is liberal. 3abn is not.
> Am I ready to attack the GC too? Why would I? It has already been established on another thread that the 3abn status has not changed and that statement was by Elder Schneider himself.
> On the other hand let's turn that scenerio around. As long as you and others were sure that the GC was siding with 3abn and taking no action against them, you were attacking the GC. Just as you (this forum) have attacked ASI, Nad, and even Amazing facts. This forum has attacked any and all organizations that have ignored gossip and continued to work with 3abn so, really, Don't act like attacking the GC would be so far fetched anyway.

ou seem a bit selective in which GC communiques you wish to respond to. Nothing has been established in ny mind until you answer my questions from that other thread where you think it has been "established that ABN status has not changed." Brother Dabrowski is quoted as saying there are administrative issues at ABN!!!!!!!! Are there, Steffan??? Yes or No??? I have posted my questions twice now, but here's the most ecent link, in case you really missed it and are not really ignoring me bystan.....sorry.....I mean, Steffan...:

ttp://www.blacksda.com/forums/index.php?s=&showtopic=13765&view=findpost&p=199124

Posted by: sonshineonme Jun 9 2007, 10:59 PM

> QUOTE(Snoopy @ Jun 9 2007, 09:43 PM)
>
> Interesting. If you are not Danny, then you must be "Danny's l'il shaddow", knowing how folks introduce themselves and all...
> You seem a bit selective in which GC communiques you wish to respond to. Nothing has been established in my mind until you answer my questions from that other thread where you think it has been "established that 3ABN status nas not changed." Brother Dabrowski is quoted as saying there are administrative issues at 3ABN!!!!!!!! Are there, Steffan??? Yes or No??? I have posted my questions twice now, but here's the most recent link, in case you really missed it and are not really ignoring me bystan.....sorry.....I mean, Steffan...:
>
> http://www.blacksda.com/forums/index.php?s=&showtopic=13765&view=findpost&p=199124

All those voices...how can one keep track?

Posted by: mikell Jun 9 2007, 11:45 PM

> QUOTE(calvin @ Jun 9 2007, 10:28 PM)
>
> So Steffan you say you know Danny Shelton. But you speak in the first person as if you are Danny Shelton?

Calvin, Steffan is Danny or his evil twin,
Just look up what he wrote right before he posted a Rusty Moreland piece that is all pro-Danny's 3ABN, Steffan/Danny wrote:

"This post is from the GCO forum. It is respectful, truthful and full of good comparisons and thoughts from EGW. This man has spiritual insite and common sense."

Then just read it, it is on the new thread, "The real Truth In a A Nutshell." Ha, that title alone should tip us off, who it really is! Also, the no logic way he attacks SSOM,
http://www.blacksda.com/forums/index.php?showtopic=13784

Posted by: Snoopy Jun 9 2007, 11:55 PM

> QUOTE(sonshineonme @ Jun 9 2007, 11:59 PM)
>
> All those voices...how can one keep track?

Is this what desperation sounds like???

Posted by: sonshineonme Jun 10 2007, 12:04 AM

> QUOTE(steffan @ Jun 9 2007, 07:24 PM)
>
> I happen to know that Danny met him one time several years ago at ASI as in HI I'm so and so blah blah. So right off, he has misrepresented his relationship with Danny....

Umm, Steffan, you sure you want to stick with that fact???

Are you saying that that was the ONLY time Dan has talked with him?? Since you say "Danny met him one time".

Or are you saying that was A time he spoke to him? As in maybe he has spoken to him more then once, but you are only mentioning once to give the impression there was only one time talking, therefore misrepresenting how many times he has spoken to or met after the first time meeting?

And, don't you meet people once, and then you have met them and they become someone you have met? But, you only meet them once? Right? Now you have met them, and when you see them again, they are someone you have met, therefore you somewhat know each other...and if you see each other again, like in the following years to come (or in-between), you usually speak again?

I wouldn't want you to get the facts wrong or anything. Sometimes, you talk to so many people so many times, and you forget what you all you have said and how many times you have told people things, you know what I mean "steffan"?

Are you also saying that Dan had to tell him who he was too? Mr. Paulsen didn't know who Danny was till Danny told him who he was?

Posted by: Snoopy Jun 10 2007, 12:09 AM

> QUOTE(sonshineonme @ Jun 10 2007, 01:04 AM)
>
> Umm, Steffan, you sure you want to stick with that fact???
>
> Are you saying that that was the ONLY time Dan has talked with him?? Since you say "Danny met him one time".
>
> Or are you saying that was A time he spoke to him? As in maybe he has spoken to him more then once, but you are only mentioning once to give the impression there was only one time talking, therefore misrepresenting how many times he has spoken to or met after the first time meeting?
>
> And, don't you meet people once, and then you have met them and they become someone you have met? But, you only meet them once? Right? Now you have met them, and when you see them again, they are someone you have met, therefore you somewhat know each other...and if you see each other again, like in the following years to come (or in-between), you usually speak again?
>
> I wouldn't want you to get the facts wrong or anything. Sometimes, you talk to so many people so many > times, and you forget what you all you have said and how many times you have told people things, you know what I mean "steffan"?

>
> Are you also saying that Dan had to tell him who he was too? Mr. Paulsen didn't know who Danny was till Danny told him who he was?

BRILLIANT POINTS!!...... ....NOW.....who is the clever one???

want to start a PI business with you SSOM!!

Posted by: awesumtenor Jun 10 2007, 07:39 AM

> QUOTE(Clay @ Jun 9 2007, 11:00 PM) ☐
>
> So Paulson is a pastor, and has issues? you all make up your mind....

C'mon Steve... you know a whole lot of pastors with issues in this church still cashing denominational checks...

In His service,
Mr. J

Posted by: Clay Jun 10 2007, 09:30 AM

> QUOTE(awesumtenor @ Jun 10 2007, 08:39 AM) ☐
>
> C'mon Steve... you know a whole lot of pastors with issues in this church still cashing denominational checks...
>
> In His service,
> Mr. J

You are right.... my apologizes... let me go back to the lurking corner.....

Posted by: Artiste Jun 10 2007, 01:08 PM

> QUOTE(sonshineonme @ Jun 8 2007, 05:00 PM) ☐
>
> ++
>
> Date: Fri, 8 Jun 2007 00:57:30 +0000

> From: "Kevin Paulson"
>
> Subject: [GCOList] 3abn status
> Dear Brothers and Sisters:
>
> ...Recent issues involving the conduct of 3ABN leadership are not
>
> the only reason faithful Adventists have been concerned about this > ministry. For some time, certain speakers and music styles on that > network have fallen far short of Bible and Spirit of Prophecy
>
>
>
> standards...

an anyone tell me what the above "music styles" refers to? He mentions "certain music styles" only.

he music on 3ABN all sounds the same to me. (Maybe I should say that I am a classical musician and may ot notice variations in other styles of music.)

****

Posted by: Clay Jun 10 2007, 02:11 PM

> QUOTE(Artiste @ Jun 10 2007, 02:08 PM)
>
> Can anyone tell me what the above "music styles" refers to? He mentions "certain music styles" only.
>
> The music on 3ABN all sounds the same to me. (Maybe I should say that I am a classical musician and may not notice variations in other styles of music.)
>
> **

hat's a code word for all music that is not eurocentric in nature.... don't get us started...

Posted by: Panama_Pete Jun 10 2007, 02:12 PM

> QUOTE(Artiste @ Jun 10 2007, 01:08 PM)
>
> Can anyone tell me what the above "music styles" refers to? He mentions "certain music styles" only.
>
> The music on 3ABN all sounds the same to me. (Maybe I should say that I am a classical musician and may not notice variations in other styles of music.)
>
> **

pass over the comments about "music styles" because a person could write a 500-page book on the subject nd still only scratch the surface of the subject.

owever, I can say this: Music is segmented. Send ten people to the music department of any big box store, nd each of the ten will head for a different category or style of music.

The second concept is the question of what a "broadcaster" should or should not be. There are at least two kinds of religious broadcasters.

A. Broadcasting stations.
B. Stained Glass Stations.

The first category, A, does not feel it is a church, or a substitute for a church, but a broadcaster in the broadcasting industry, with broadcasting standards. They seek a "broad" audience as the word "broad-casting" implies. Their funding often comes from a broad range of people through fund-raising events and appeals, such as periodic "Praise-a-thons" and "Share-a-Thons." These events are what some broadcasters derisively call "Beg-a-Thons."

