I like to check Scriptural references. The above quote appears to be from the KJV (not the NKJV), and a mis-mash from 2 Corinthians 1: 20 and 21 and I John 2:28. So it does not appear to me to be a direct quote from I Cor. 1:20, but additional Biblical material was added, with out giving the source.

It is clear that the Bible does refer to God's people being anointed, especially in the Old Testament, but also in the New Testament. That is more often used in reference to OT prophets, and kings.

But, to use a phrase such as "The Anointed One," is much more specific. Used in that way one might justly think of Christ.

In any case, I would not use such a phrase to apply to a human unless I considered that person to be either comparable to Christ, or to be a prophet such as Samuel in the OT.

I would not use that of Danney Shelton, as I do not make those comparisons.

K Treniece, before everyone has a coniption fit please read the posts and other threads for that natter. Linda feels that she was given biased advice (http://www.lindashelton.org/questions.html) fter reading more info from first hand eyewitnesses I think that you may be able to see that Linda's aivete was definitely preyed upon.

s for your quote in bold up above.....How in the world can you prove that you did not do something? can say that you, Treniece are a whore who was "working" last night. How are you going to prove hat is not true? You can't!! I know I'm being way too dramatic but please understand my point. It is or that reason that our justice system is built on the principle of innocent until proven guilty, not the ther way around. There is a certain amount of insecurity and paranoia at hand when a husband does ot want his wife to fly out and meet or conversate with a doctor who is treating her son. A doctor I night add that may very well be her only son's last resort.

ctually, it was I who mentioned Benny Hinn, not Gregory.

s for Lee's question, it seems to be based on the false premise that concerns have been falsehoods, nd that judgement is the next order of business. I think that conclusion is a little presumptuous, herefore, the question is, at the very least, premature.

s for Benny Hinn in my post, there's nothing there about "bringing down" Benny Hinn or anybody lse.

ome have now thought that maybe Hope Channel would be better. Therefore, they have mentioned joing to the cable companies and seeing if room could be found for Hope Channel, even if it means eplacing 3ABN.

If Hope Channel did replace 3ABN on some cable systems, technically, that would be correct to say that some were requesting 3ABN be removed. As Seventh-day Adventists, there should be nothing wrong with promoting the Hope Channel.

I realize that some people will see promoting the Hope Channel as "bringing down" 3ABN. However, if the 3ABN folks can't get their act together, that's the way the cookie is going to crumble.

And there's no need to re-edit your post, I already saw it and I am responding to it.

Treneice,
Recall that Linda went to Norway with Brenda (her then best friend) to visit her son Nathan in treatment. They were there 3 days I think it was. Wasn't that the only time she was there during her marriage? Those advising her were doing so based on what they were fed by DS, which with the help of Brenda, was the outward begining of getting rid of Linda.

Posted by: Treniece Feb 17 2007, 05:59 PM

Brenda seems to be a nice person. Never judge a book by its cover - I guess. It seems the things said about Tommy are true and I never would have thought him to be that type of a person, in fact I thought he was a long time Adventist.

SDA's are rapist, thieves, liars, molesters, spousal abusers, even murders.

I know you aren't - but we should not ever get it twisted. This denomination does everything and anything...... why? Because sin exists!

It ALWAYS gets me when I hear someone say "but, I thought he/she is an SDA" or "but they are adventists" or "not an adventist". The presumption that being an SDA makes you something other then a sinful person, someone exempt from a particular behaviour, has ofen become a suprising dissapointment. We put these kinds of expectations on people simply because they claim to be SDA, which is also why we have so much righteous judgement that goes on too - you know, being an SDA gives you the authority to judge because YOU know better, because you are special, you are an SDA after all! You suddenly have been elavated to a super-christian position.... I had a boss that saw himself this way and the judgement of others always came rolling from his lips.....he felt justified to make the calls everytime. He hurt many people and never seem to care.

The devil has thought of everything. The scary similarity is that the Jews did the same thing. And they missed the proverbial boat.

O.K. Aletheia: When did you stop beating your husband with a cat-o-nine tails?

I know that the above question is an example of a classic question that is taught in many classes devoted to debate and other such. The best response is simply to ignore it. You probably will respond to my question. You will probably do so successfully. But the classic response to a question of that type is to simply ignore it.

You reference a question in that same classic mode that I simply ignored, in part. However, I did address it in part. Your question assumed that a ministry God began would continue to be a minsitry of God. I pointed out that in the past ministries which God began departed from the plan of God, and reached a point where they were no longer ministries of God. I spoke in part to your question!

NOTE: For the purists here who would like a response from me in regard to my question: I do not know anything at all as to whether or not Alethieia is married, to a male, or whether or not she beats a husband with a cat-o-nine tails. Please do not assume that I am making a statement in my question to her as to how she relates to a husband.

Treniece,
Just out of curiosity, how have you come to the conclusion that the things said about Tommy are true? While I am inclined to agree with you, I'm interested in how you got there.

I also have had a hard time believing that the Brenda I thought I knew from watching her on cooking shows, Kids Time and various other productions would do the things she is reported to have done. Of course, how well do we actually know someone by their actions on the television screen?

Regarding thinking Tommy was a long time Adventist, I think you hit on a key, or at least a significant problem here. Unless one is privy to the behind-the-scenes lives of the folks on 3abn, viewers are left to conclude that those participating in the 3abn ministry are SDA.

I just received an update from Linda regarding her letter and website.

She has been working making a few minor revisions (grammar changes, etc.) to her already released letter. The content and context will remain the same and it will be posted on her website.

With that, Linda is updating and changing the question and letter sections on her website as well as posting an event schedule section showing some of her upcoming engagements.

Her website is due to be updated sometime this week. As soon as her Webmaster gets it loaded there, I will bring the letter back here. I will leave the original and add the second below it. At that time, I will ask Clay if he can re-pin it.
(Thanks Clay!)

So, do you have a question then? Or did you want to move on to another thread now and post some more of your "type" of comments? You know, the jealous, hateful, evil kind. Sad.

p.s. you should take lessons on your kind of thinking, just a suggestion.

Isn't it interesting that because someone says they got one piece of information from Linda you assume that Linda is their ONLY source of information.

Isn't it interesting that you equate getting information from someone as being a "puppet on a string".

Since neither is true... either with me or with sonshineonme... and since neither assumption qualifies as a general rule as to how people relate to each other or to their information sources.... I am left with only one conclusion.... and that is that this is the way you must relate to YOUR sole information source.

Very interesting.....

So sad...... ......

The http://www.save3abn.com/tommy-shelton-ordination-suspended.htm was addressed to the Reverend Tommy Shelton.

Linda was, and is, an Adventist. Yet, it was Linda Shelton who was the wayward soul who needed to be replaced as programming manager with Reverend Tommy Shelton? I cannot buy into the logic of that argument. (I doubt the 3ABN Board of Directors has an answer for that one, either.)

I am really curious.

How many of Danny's brothers and sisters are Seventh-day Adventists in good standing?

There are many, many 3ABN viewers that think he, Tommy, is/was an Adventist.

He was an Adventist at one time wasn't he?

Why did he leave Adventism?

Is Kenny still a preacher?

To what denomination does he belong?

Did he ever start an Adventist supporting ministry?

What happened?

Does he still have this ministry?

Is he an Adventist church member today?

Is Ronnie a credintialed Adventist pastor?

Is Tammy an Adventist?

Who am I missing?

How many non-Adventists are there at 3ABN as employees or in TV programming?

This would imply that Linda being an adventist automatically made her a better christian than someone of another denomination. Next, at the Time of Linda's replacement, as you all have pointed out he was no longer "reverend" and hadn't been for some years.

It is doubtful if 3abn will ever officialy admit anything about anything. But the reason Linda was dismissed is very plain.... She was dismissed because Danny didn't want her around any more.

Now as to why he didn't want her around..... there is probably no single answer to that. And since speculating about motives is not a good thing to do, we shall probably have to be content to notice what things he has changed since he got rid of her. The most obvious, of course, is that he has a new wife..... one that is much younger.

But there may be other changes also that are significant in other areas.... types of programming.... doctrinal emphases..... the way workers are treated..... perhaps others more familiar with things both before and after Linda left may have noticed changes that may be significant.

Of course, we do not know that spring 2004 was actually the watershed. It could be that Danny was already making changes.... at least some of which caused added friction between the two. Some have seen their going for a private jet plane as a significant watershed. Some have seen the court case over the property tax exemption as significant. It would be interesting to hear what others observed in the way of significant changes over the last 5 years or so.

Though I usually ignore your posts, watchbird, I could not help but respond to this one. You are making big statements by saying Danny didn't want her around...Unless you are a physic mind reader, you couldn't possibly know what DS was thinking about anything. I have never seen it addressed here, how DS catered to her, bragged on her to everyone, constantly told her and others how beautiful he thought she was..and then all of a sudden....he wanted to get rid of her? c'mon. Anyone that was around them for any length of time would reach for a "hurl" bucket at the way he "fawned" over her and gave her her way about most everything. His biggest fault was putting her up on a pedestal so, in a way, he was somewhat responsible for her resulting attitude.
Also, if he just "wanted to get rid of her" why, right after the divorce, did he degrade himself buy taking her to the airport to catch her flight to Norway (without Nathan) knowing where she was going and who she was going to see, and still, tried to talk her into reconciliation all the way there?
BTW, since the doc and LS was strickley a professional relationship over her son, why was she going to Norway to see him, without Nathan, right after the divorce. mmm maybe she was out of phone minutes
As far as your "changes" remark at 3abn. Yes, the programming improved significantly according to the biggest percentage of viewers. And, "the way workers were treated" vastly improved once LS was gone. Most employees would tell you that. Some said "it was like a load was lifted off of their shoulders while others said the whole atmosphere had become so much more spirit filled. Then, according to some that I knew that worked on the 3abn truck crew LS had their pay at a pathetic level and would not give them a raise. As soon as she was gone, her replacement couldn't believe how little they were being paid and immediately rectified the pay scale. After all they have a huge sacrifice having to be away from their families for weeks at a time.
Truthfully,if you ask most of the workers, they will tell you they can't really think of anything negative that has come from her, not, being at 3abn.

Ionestly, the truth doesn't have to be "bought". It is what it is. Also no one has rehashed anymore han you. No matter how hard you try to give your "tarnished" version of events, someone will always e around to tell what "really" happened. Problem for me BS is that Linda never came here lying through her teeth, to my knowledge, Danny did, so based on his own actions Danny's credibility is in the toilet, at least for me. I'll say it again, I hates a thief and a liar, nothing worse except somebody who will lie if they look at you! An unsolicited lie, if you please. I will also reiterate that Danny cut off his nose in spite of his face, because he is the reason we can't ask questions of Linda. Now, by his own hand he is the only one left to answer the accusers. That is how satan leads you out onto a brand while he is sawing it off at the base. Shame isn't it?

BTW, right "after" the divorce LS was free to fly, drive, walk or crawl to "see" anybody she wanted. That is a moot point. Now, is she was like Danny, and remarried to said Dr. then you would at least have a leg to stand, right now, you need to let that one go.

Also, BS, taking pots shots at LS while you know she can't defend herself is beneath you. Down right un-Christ-like. Danny can come here anytime(and probably does) to defend anything said here about him, Linda can't. Cheap shots, especially on a woman, speak volumes about your own manhood......BTJM....

'ou could improve your image and credibility with others by about 35% if you not post things like this. t only adds to the impression that we're dealing with a character here that's sarcastic, feels cornered, ıas gotten scorched, and is fairly immature. This kind of unChrist-like sarcastic tone supercedes and vipes away anything good you may have to say.

l. Linda Shelton has already responded to this. She says she had no power over how much employees vere paid. Linda said she wanted to give Sandra Juarez a raise, but was overruled by her ex-husband,)anny Shelton. Danny does all hiring and firing. Period. Everybody knows that. You know it. I now it. So just stop with this nonsense.

?. Her Replacement = Tommy Shelton. We already know who "her replacement" was, so you might as vell spell it out: Linda was replaced by a Reverend dismissed by another denomination. His name is ommy Shelton, but I suppose just calling him "her replacement" sounds better? You have your narching orders to focus everyone's attention on demonizing Linda - and away from all other core ssues? That's what you're getting paid to do as part of your "mending broken people" agenda? Just ısking.

}. As for any trip to Norway, the Norwegian doctor, Arild Abrahamsen, has already written and listributed his account.

l. Linda lost her health insurance when she was summarily fired by her ex-husband. You know hat. The Norwegian doctor, aware of what had happened, gave Linda access to his medical clinic ıfter the loss of the insurance. Why keep trying to make that something it is not. Even you, yourself, ;ay Linda Shelton was already divorced at that time.

5. I was in Thompsonville shortly after Danny asked for a divorce. I saw no such fawning as you lescribe. When Linda started the radio network on December 31, 1999, Danny went on the air shortly hereafter and said several times, "I have no vision for radio," with Linda Shelton sitting right next o him on the air. This certainly didn't look like bragging over Linda to me. It came across to me as a nessage to viewers saying, "Radio is not part of the Great Danny Shelton Vision, so please take note, everyone." But Linda's radio network succeeded anyway, despite Danny's admonition to his viewers. \nd things were never the same after that.

.inda held a 3ABN Radio School beginning on Monday, March 8, 2004. It was a sold-out event. The ladio Network was succeeding. Danny could see that and he was not happy. If Danny was going to jet rid of Linda, he'd have to do it before she added a dozen more radio stations.

)anny demanded his divorce, the night before the radio school started, on Sunday, March 7, 2004.)anny just couldn't handle Linda's success and he was determined to put a stop to it. Linda, not being ;treetwise, could not suspect what was going on or how her demise was linked to her own success in 'adio.

4ollie Steenson had gone to India, and I believe she was not in Thompsonville, on Sunday evening, 4arch 7, 2004, when Danny demanded his divorce and put his plan into action. Mollie came back to Thompsonville and was in her office by midweek, but everything was already in motion. My opinion is that Mollie Steenson either couldn't be trusted to help destroy Linda Shelton, or Mollie wanted to distance herself from the planned event, so it was done while she, Mollie, was out of the country - in India, no less. Was that trip to India planned in advance by someone for such a reason? I've decided in my own mind that it was.

6. I don't see that "programming improved" with the Reverend Tommy Shelton sitting in Linda's old office. But that's in the eye of the beholder. Maybe an endless array of scolding, talking heads at 3ABN pleases you. There's nothing special about Shelley Quinn with her veiled excoriation using "John the Baptist" or John Lomacang's version of the same using his "Moses - Touch Not the Lord's Anointed" blatherments. The expoundings of these two strike me as nothing but desperate and weird.

6. Bystander, you keep regurgitating the same old garbage over and over trying so hard to re-write history. It is not working, so give it up. The reason you skip responding to Watchbird is that she knows the timeline, and you cannot deal with that; Your job is to deliver your mudballs to people who you think cannot tell the difference.

7. The entire 3ABN defense from the very beginning has been, "Nobody will be able to criticize us, because they are all stupid and will never be able to figure out what we did for sure," id est, "Nobody knows me and Linda" ad infinitum. Your only purpose on this forum. Bystander, is to muddy the waters with your little mudballs and to make sure it all stays muddy. Everybody can see that, so this must be about your personal paycheck. It certainly cannot be about truth or justice. Not knowing who you are, this is all about your own personal bank account, right? Are you willing to do anything to keep those paychecks coming, no matter what? Am I close? I think I am right on target. I think it is all about money, your money, Bystander, and nothing else. I think everything and everyone comes a distant second with you.

No, PP, I didn't see the "fawning" over Linda either. But I did see him belittle her in front of people many times.

It's all a game. One face on camera. One face off. Same old, same old.

This is another sign that truth is not in Bystander. Who told you Danny drove Linda to the airport when she came to see us in Norway? I very well remember what Linda looked like after how Danny had treated her in connecion with the divorce. She needed to get away, and Irmgard and I were so happy to see her again after her ordeal. She did not ride with Danny to the airport. This is but another attempt by Danny to project his actions in a different direction attempting thereby to gain the sympathy of others for actions he claims he did, but which he actually never did.

It is true that Danny drove to the airport, but not in the same car as Linda. He merely projects Linda over into his car. Linda was greatly surpriced to see him at the airport. It was dawning on him he made a grave mistake by divorcing Linda, and that he had to tell his audience stories to gain their sympathy. This is but one of his many vain attempts, and you, Bystander, accept his delusions, line hook and sinker, in an attempt to deceive the world. One more star in that crown of deception you are presenting on this net.

You even claimed he was attemting all the way to the airport to get Linda to reconsider. Since you are so certain, were you in that car?

K, let me see if I've got this straight...you want us to believe that Linda had so much power at 3ABN hat she controlled programming, employee morale and workers' salary? You want us to believe that anny was impotent and powerless to do anything to break Linda's control. You want us to believe hat Danny, the founder and person to whom God gave this wonderful "vision" let Linda get all the ower and control everything he felt that the Lord specifically gave to him. Yet with all this power that he supposedly had the 3ABN board was quick to summarily dismiss her and bind her up with a gag rder. Yeah...OK...and Bill Gates is just a front for Microsoft...I'm really the President...

It was dawning on him he made a grave mistake by divorcing Linda, and that he had to tell his audience stories to gain their sympathy. This is but one of his many vain attempts, and you, Bystander, accept his delusions, line hook and sinker, in an attempt to deceive the world. One more star in that crown of deception you are presenting on this net.

idn't you mispeak, Johann? Rather than calling this a "star in that crown of deception" should you not e calling it "one more knot in the web of deception" BS is weaving for presentation to this net?

Doesn't work. If he were actually in "that car".... then then he could not be "certain" of something hat was not true. So either BS is the creator of this particular "knot" or is a direct accomplice to the ntruth of the assertion.... or else he is someone who accepts what Danny says as the truth and asses it off to the world as though he (BS) actually knew the difference between facts and abrications.

ome questions this brings to mind, Johann..... When Danny drove to the airport.... was he following inda? Did he know she was headed for the airport? If so, how did he know? Did he know her estination? If so, how did he know? If not, was his purpose in following her an attempt to learn her estination? At what point did the hired Private Investigaters pick up Linda's trail? And the final uestion..... Doesn't it strike you as strange that he kept her under surveilance even AFTER the ivorce was final?

t takes a lot of surveilance to attempt to cover one's tracks. Danny once told me that his friend, arvin McNeilus would never desert him, regarless of what he'd do. He claimed that is true friendship. anny also told me that Garvin would pay for Private Investigators as long as Linda is alive. What oes he need that for since he divorced her?

> In keeping with Linda Shelton requiring an open and transparent ASI sponsored hearing, Linda has now published a letter that includes a clear demand that 3ABN and Danny Shelton produce the evidence they claim to have for inspection and verification to the entire church membership and to the stockholders in the pews. Danny Shelton in various forms and under various alias has repeatedly referenced evidence that he claims to have thereby giving him a basis for divorce and remarriage. The chairman of 3ABN on AToday has made it clear they have no proof of an adulterous affair. Linda Shelton and Arild Abrahamsen have repeatedly asserted that there is no basis for divorce, that no inappropriate relationship occurred and that there is no evidence to support the Danny Shelton claims.

We have repeatedly asserted that if there is no proof, then a remarriage would constitute an adulterous relationship. Danny Shelton was married at 3ABN in March 2006 to a Brandy Murray, a 3ABN employee that reportedly arrived at 3ABN of Thompsonville in July of 2004.

Here is the letter from Linda in its entirety and is also available at www.LindaShelton.org and on www.save3ABN.com . I believe it reflects the same Linda, a bit stronger and less naive than in the past, but as deeply committed to her relationship with the Lord as we all remember so well on that porch at 3ABN.

Linda Shelton does respond to e-mail and will be happy to have a concert or a deeply spiritual service at your location, wherever you may be.

February, 2007

My warmest greetings,

A couple approached me, with tears in their eyes, and said, "We have just missed you and we wanted to see you to make sure you were okay." As I saw the pain in their eyes, over the events that have transpired in my life in the last few years, it was as if my heart was pierced again. "We are just so happy to see you smiling, in church and still serving God." Our meeting took place a few months ago at the Bible Chapel Seventh-day Adventist Church, where I am a member. I enjoyed my visit with this caring Christian couple and the compassion and love they showed toward me.

Some people act surprised that I am still a member of the SDA church. But why? God is still the same awesome God that He always has been, the incredible Bible truths embraced by the Seventh-day Adventists are still just as true today as they ever were and although a "thousand shall fall on my right and a thousand fall on my left" nothing will ever change these facts. We must hold firm to our faith during troubled times!

Many have written to me over the past many months asking me to update my website. This I have prayerfully considered for quite some time, nearly a year. Quite frankly, I just have not known what to say. I feel that this scandal has made a large, festering open wound in my Church. Perhaps the truth revealed will ultimately bring the healing that everyone needs. Then we can grieve together and move on. I am certain, in essence, I have died a thousand deaths over the events of the last couple of years. But, with the Lords blessing, I will try to address issues which have been brought to my attention in the kindest manner possible.

For the first time in nearly three years I will not simply deny the accusations, but will directly address certain issues. I do not take pleasure in speaking of these things. I think I have always been the one who would rather receive hurt, than be the one to inflict hurt upon others. But during the course of this last year I learned some valuable lessons through Dr. Mable Dunbar of Pollys Place Network, she has been an incredible support and help to me. Mable is a woman who truly loves the Lord and is not afraid to stand up for what she believes is right, even if a whole army would stand against her.

Pollys Place Network is a ministry which empowers abused lives and aids them through their difficult circumstances. It is a marvelous organization and so needed for this age when Satan has focused his wrath upon breaking up the security and circle of love God intended for our families. I videotaped some interviews, for Pollys Place, at the SDA Conference office in Spokane, Washington with several individuals who had been through incredibly painful situations. Each of them, in essence, had the same healing story. It was when they were able to come forward and expressed the truth about what happened to them, that their healing came. Inspired by these individuals, now I can accept and believe it is Gods job to protect the ministry I have loved and co-founded, and its my right and my healing to tell the truth about what has occurred.

I am co-authoring a book and its purpose is to share the silver lining of the amazing lessons the Lord has taught me through this crisis. I feel the Lord has lifted a veil and allowed me to see the world that He sees, a world far different than we see. I see that the darts of false allegations that Satan has thrown toward me and my ministry were not directed solely for my downfall, but the aim was much wider. Although I was the apparent target, Satan was attempting to destroy the ministry I loved and co-founded and cripple the witness of the Seventh-day Adventist Church. My perspective has been forever changed through my experiences and my book will give me the opportunity to share these lessons more fully with all of you. (I will keep you posted as to the release date of this book.)

John Knox once said, "Kings (or leaders) have not an absolute power to do in their government what pleases them, but their power is limited by Gods Word; so that if they strike where God has not commanded, they are but murderers; and if they spare where God has commanded to strike, they and their thrones are criminal and guilty of the wickedness which abounds upon the face of the earth, for lack of punishment." John knew his Bible. It is a Biblical principle that if we see a wrong and only look the other way or feebly say, "I will let the Lord deal with that one," then that wickedness is applied to our slate, plain and simple.

The most devastating blow a televangelist can get is the false accusation of adultery. Although I have already made this statement on my website I want to address those of you who have loved and valued my Christianity, integrity and my ministry for the 19 years that I was at 3ABN. I want to clearly emphasize that I was 100% faithful to my husband. I loved, trusted and believed in him to a fault. Imagine my shock when I realized that the false allegations in the form of libel, slander and defamation directed my way were initiated by two of the closest people to me on planet earth; one was my beloved partner and the other was my closest lady friend. I loved them both and trusted them both to the point that their close communication did not bother me in the least. I know that sounds naive, but I did not believe that Dan would do anything that would harm the ministry we had built together.

In 2004 there was a tremendous outcry at my departure. There was suspicion over how swiftly I was fired from my position and divorced. There was suspicion over the fact that I never had the opportunity to talk to the Board and defend myself. There was suspicion over the fact that every trace of my presence was completely cleared out of the campus of 3ABN, even before my termination, as well as the website, television and radio broadcasts. I was made a sacrificial lamb in a scheme calculated to remove me from both my home and my ministry through an orchestrated campaign of malicious lies circulated around the globe. No words can begin to describe the absolute agony this has brought to my life, but there are other victims as well, and may God bless and spare the young lives and tender souls who have also felt the stinging thrust of this sword of scandal.

It has completely broken my heart to see the emails and letters which have come from the Chairman of the Board, Dan and others at 3ABN, to hear of the television and radio programs where erroneous references have been made to the situation, to watch the ministry that I helped build with much devotion used to destroy me and also to hear of the reports of what is being said on the SDA chat sites about me today by those bent on my destruction...nearly three years later.

It was the false accusation of adultery which caused the loss of my marriage, my reputation, my employment, and everything else. I challenge the 3ABN Board to produce the "irrefutable evidence" which caused a co-founder, a life-time Board member, Vice-President and Secretary of the Board to be removed in that May, 2004 meeting! I am asking, no demanding, that the information is made public, at my request! Cast aside these pretended desires to "spare me"! The world is waiting with baited breath!

The stakes are high. I, as well as others, have personally experienced electronic surveillance, email theft, interception of cell phone calls, post divorce entry into my private residence to the point where charges were filed with the police. It is not easy to live your life when you feel that you can never know for sure if you are being followed, watched or recorded...even now. I have had invitations to do ministry thwarted because of continued allegations by those, who, like wolves in sheeps clothing, attempted to stop my ministry.

I want to make this absolutely clear: I left my home because I was not safe, I was not welcome. I was witnessing the murder of my reputation and ministry day by day. I stayed as long as I felt I could. I hoped, believed and prayed that things would change but they only got worse. The statements made that I left my husband for another man are absolutely and totally false. Any thinking person would realize that I had everything a Christian woman could have wanted in this life: a husband I loved and the opportunity to minister to millions of people about the tremendous love of my Lord and Savior Jesus Christ, though the ministry that we spent so many years building together. Although two of the people who I loved best have called me "Gomer", yet a more accurate term would be "Hosea", which I would only discover later. But I prefer simply, Linda, "SAVED by the Blood of the Lamb!"

I do not visit the chat sites. This has been a mega-trial for me and my way of coping has been to try and focus on other things. I realize that the individuals which make up our Church need healing from this disaster too. And > perhaps the chat sites have served to help people give expression to their frustrations and hurts in this situation. I am grateful to each of you who have prayed and interceded for me. It has meant so much during my dark days. Youâ€™ll never know just how much!

>
> Now my kids are grown and I am alone...but not really alone, although I have not husband. Now I belong to everyone and everyone belongs to me! And I still sing, "Thank you for being my family, thank you for being my friends: May God bless and keep you in all that you may do until we meet again!"
>
> It is my goal to just make your journey and mine a little lighter and brighter. I have faith that the Lord still has a work for me to do, a new ministry. I am ready and available for church services, week of prayer, concerts, etc. as the Lord opens the doors. I do not know what my future holds, but God does and that's enough for me.
> Just in closing I want to make an appeal to you to get out your binoculars, dust them off, bring them into focus and then search... Love your neighbor enough to be a Good Samaritan. When he is broken and bleeding in the middle of the road, focus your binoculars with the love of Christ, but don't stop there, reach out and meet his need in his time of crisis. Christianity is not something that "just happens". True Christianity occurs when a decided action is taken...when we search, when we fill a need, when we mend a broken heart and when we are just "there" for hurting people. There is a lot of them. But there are too few Christians who focus their binoculars with love.

Why is this being posted again. Wasn't the first one that got jerked off ,already posted here, and the second "corrected" one posted also. And as mentioned, it is also posted on her web. One can only take so much nausea, before one hurls.

So did anyone force you to read it? I'm glad it got posted again personally. In fact I think we should all make a few copies to hand out at church tomorrow.

If any man would hurl on thy coat, offer him you cloak also. Wait....how does that go? And if any man will sue thee at the law, and take away thy coat, let him have thy cloak also. Mat 5:40

Read it again...you could use it.
It was never "jerked" off anywhere.

It was posted before it was grammatically corrected, etc.
I told all, as I posted the first letter with the understanding it was complete, that I would post the finished one again (I can tell you don't really take the time to read the posts here) and that is just what I did. Why don't you get seek some personal counseling/attention for your apparent issues. I'm sure they are hindering peace and happiness in your life.

You can't possibly post these kinds of comments and expect to gain "credibilty", but you only gain negative attention and seek to provoke a less then christian spirit back at you. But I will only say this, I pray for you and those like you, that you let go and let God heal your spirit.

Nope, they're better journalists than that. If you know how journalists work (I was one for awhile), you can look at the paragraphs and see who they talked to. People at the churches. People at the conference. Heck, they even talked to Danny.

Clearly ... from the article they talked to victims too. Otherwise they wouldn't have published their names.

Duane, a post was written to you some time ago. I don't know if you didn't want to answer (which is your perogative) or if you just missed it, so I will ask again.

Did you write a reply to TS's letter you say was sent to you. If so why was it not published also? My other question. You say all you are seeking is an apology, if so, wasn't that what the letter was about? Please don't say that there are others he needs to apologize to. If so, that is between him, them and God. You are only responsible for you and him alone. If that is his letter, he apologized a long time ago, so why are you here if that is all you wanted?

feel no need to answer someone who hides behind a screen name to try to discredit me. I'll be happy o answer when someone is man or woman enough to sign their name to the question.

nother thought: If all the ones speaking out are in the wrong, why do we have no problem signing ur names while the "defenders of the truth" hide in anonymity?

ust wondering....

'm just wondering.... how T. Shelton is to stopped, and prevented from molesting ny other boys, if no one is willing to go to the authorities and report any of this, and sign their name?

hether someone signs their name or not, I think this is an important concern which needs to be ddressed. I think that this should be the #1 concern here, but I don't see anyone talking about rotecting future victims, or preventing more abuse.

hat is your thinking on this, Mr Clem? Do you know what, if anything, is being done about this?

My husband is an unbeliever but allows me to pursue truth as I judge important. When I checked out this 3abn forum to see if what a friend was saying was true, I searched and found truth indeed! My husband is not happy that I am involved in this hot-button issue, but he sees the importance of exposing the abuse that has been reported and even he sees as verified.

One condition he has asked me to honor is for me to remain anonymous. He feels that what he has heard of Danny Shelton's tactics are of concern enough that he doesn't want one of his hired "thugs" showing up on our doorstep to try to intimidate this old grandma into backing down from this pursuit.

BTW, when I tried to get the story from Danny and others at 3abn, all I got was snubbed. I did not enjoy the free access that Bystander, wwjd and others have had.

ust a slight clue. Mr. L. Westphal was recently featured with a cover portrait on 3ABN World 1agazine. He is evidently a very valuable man to 3ABN because of the millions he gets 3ABN annually n annuities. His main office was, when I last talked to him, at Loma Linda, CA, and I suspect he is still here because a few days he was seen putting up a booth for 3ABN by the University. In connection vith that booth he was displaying a large poster where he made a futile attempt covering up the :enter picture featuring Danny and Linda.

Vhy was he using this? Why was he attempting to conceal the center picture?

> February, 2007

> My warmest greetings,
> A couple approached me, with tears in their eyes, and said, "We have just missed you and we wanted to see you to make sure you were okay." As I saw the pain in their eyes, over the events that have transpired in my life in the last few years, it was as if my heart was pierced again. "We are just so happy to see you smiling, in church and still serving God." Our meeting took place a few months ago at the Bible Chapel Seventh-day Adventist Church, where I am a member. I enjoyed my visit with this caring Christian couple and the compassion and love they showed toward me.

Some people act surprised that I am still a member of the SDA church. But why? God is still the same awesome God that He always has been, the incredible Bible truths embraced by the Seventh-day Adventists are still just as true today as they ever were and although a "thousand shall fall on my right and a thousand fall on my left" nothing will ever change these facts. We must hold firm to our faith during troubled times!

Many have written to me over the past many months asking me to update my website. This I have prayerfully considered for quite some time, nearly a year.

Quite frankly, I just have not known what to say. I feel that this scandal has made a large, festering open wound in my Church. Perhaps the truth revealed will ultimately bring the healing that everyone needs. Then we can grieve together and move on. I am certain, in essence, I have died a thousand deaths over the events of the last couple of years. But, with the Lords blessing, I will try to address issues which have been brought to my attention in the kindest manner possible.

For the first time in nearly three years I will not simply deny the accusations, but will directly address certain issues. I do not take pleasure in speaking of these things. I think I have always been the one who would rather receive hurt, than be the one to inflict hurt upon others. But during the course of this last year I learned some valuable lessons through Dr. Mable Dunbar of Pollys Place Network, she has been an incredible support and help to me.

Mable is a woman who truly loves the Lord and is not afraid to stand up for what she believes is right, even if a whole army would stand against her.

Pollys Place Network is a ministry which empowers abused lives and aids them through their difficult circumstances. It is a marvelous organization and so needed for this age when Satan has focused his wrath upon breaking up the security and circle of love God intended for our families. I videotaped some interviews, for Pollys Place, at the SDA Conference office in Spokane, Washington with several individuals who had been through incredibly painful situations. Each of them, in essence, had the same healing story. It was when they were able to come forward and expressed the truth about what happened to them, that their healing came. Inspired by these individuals, now I can accept and believe it is Gods job to protect the ministry I have loved and co-founded, and its my right and my healing to tell the truth about what has occurred.

I am co-authoring a book and its purpose is to share the silver lining of the amazing lessons the Lord has taught me through this crisis. I feel the Lord has lifted a veil and allowed me to see the world that He sees, a world far different than we see. I see that the darts of false allegations that Satan has thrown toward me and my ministry were not directed solely for my downfall, but the aim was much wider. Although I was the apparent target, Satan was attempting to destroy the ministry I loved and co-founded and cripple the witness of the Seventh-day Adventist Church. My perspective has been forever changed through my experiences and my book will give me the opportunity to share these lessons more fully with all of you. (I will keep you posted as to the release date of this book.)

John Knox once said, "Kings (or leaders) have not an absolute power to do in their government what pleases them, but their power is limited by Gods Word; so that if they strike where God has not commanded, they are but murderers; and if they spare where God has commanded to strike, they and their thrones are criminal and guilty of the wickedness which abounds upon the face of the earth, for lack of punishment." John knew his Bible. It is a Biblical principle that if we see a wrong and only look the other way or feebly say, "I will let the Lord deal with that one," then that wickedness is applied to our slate, plain and simple.

The most devastating blow a televangelist can get is the false accusation of adultery. Although I have already made this statement on my website I want to address those of you who have loved and valued my Christianity, integrity and my ministry for the 19 years that I was at 3ABN. I want to clearly emphasize that I was 100% faithful to my husband. I loved, trusted and believed in him to a fault. Imagine my shock when I realized that the false allegations in the form of libel, slander and defamation directed my way were initiated by two of the closest people to me on planet earth; one was my beloved partner and the other was my closet lady friend. I loved them both and trusted them both to the point that their close communication did not bother me in the least. I know that sounds naive, but I did not believe that Dan would do anything that would harm the ministry we had built together.

In 2004 there was a tremendous outcry at my departure. There was suspicion over how swiftly I was fired from my position and divorced. There was suspicion over the fact that I never had the opportunity to talk to the Board and defend myself. There was suspicion over the fact that every trace of my presence was completely cleared out of the campus of 3ABN, even before my termination, as well as the website, television and radio broadcasts. I was made a sacrificial lamb in a scheme calculated to remove me from both my home and my ministry through an orchestrated campaign of malicious lies circulated around the globe.

No words can begin to describe the absolute agony this has brought to my life, but there are other victims as well, and may God bless and spare the young lives and tender souls who have also felt the stinging thrust of this sword of scandal.

It has completely broken my heart to see the emails and letters which have come from the Chairman of the Board, Dan and others at 3ABN, to hear of the television and radio programs where erroneous references have been made to the situation, to watch the ministry that I helped build with much devotion used to destroy me and also to hear of the reports of what is being said on the SDA chat sites about me today by those bent on my destruction...nearly three years later.

It was the false accusation of adultery which caused the loss of my marriage, my reputation, my employment, and everything else. I challenge the 3ABN Board to produce the "irrefutable evidence" which caused a co-founder, a life-time Board member, Vice-President and Secretary of the Board to be removed in that May, 2004 meeting! I am asking, no demanding, that the information is made public, at my request! Cast aside these pretended desires to "spare me"!

The world is waiting with baited breath!

The stakes are high. I, as well as others, have personally experienced electronic surveillance, email theft, interception of cell phone calls, post divorce entry into my private residence to the point where charges were filed with the police. It is not easy to live your life when you feel that you can never know for sure if you are being followed, watched or recorded...even now. I have had invitations to do ministry thwarted because of continued allegations by those, who, like wolves in sheeps clothing, attempted to stop my ministry.

I want to make this absolutely clear: I left my home because I was not safe, I was not welcome. I was witnessing the murder of my reputation and ministry day by day. I stayed as long as I felt I could. I hoped, believed and prayed that things would change but they only got worse. The statements made that I left my husband for another man are absolutely and totally false. Any thinking person would realize that I had everything a Christian woman could have wanted in this life: a husband I loved and the opportunity to minister to millions of people about the tremendous love of my Lord and Savior Jesus Christ, through the ministry that we spent so many years building together. Although two of the people who I loved best have called me "Gomer", yet a more accurate term would be "Hosea", which I would only discover later. But I prefer simply, Linda, "SAVED by the Blood of the Lamb!"

I do not visit the chat sites. This has been a mega-trial for me and my way of coping has been to try and focus on other things. I realize that the individuals which make up our Church need healing from this disaster too.

And perhaps the chat sites have served to help people give expression to their frustrations and hurts in this situation. I am grateful to each of you who have prayed and interceded for me. It has meant so much during my dark days. You will never know just how much!

> Now my kids are grown and I am alone...but not really alone, although I have no husband. Now I belong to everyone and everyone belongs to me! And I still sing, "Thank you for being my family, thank you for being my friends: May God bless and keep you in all that you may do until we meet again!"
> It is my goal to just make your journey and mine a little lighter and brighter. I have faith that the Lord still has a work for me to do, a new ministry. I am ready and available for church services, week of prayer, concerts, etc. as the Lord opens the doors. I do not know what my future holds, but God does and that's enough for me.
> Just in closing I want to make an appeal to you to get out your binoculars, dust them off, bring them into focus and then search... Love your neighbor enough to be a Good Samaritan. When he is broken and bleeding in the middle of the road, focus your binoculars with the love of Christ, but don't stop there, reach out and meet his need in his time of crisis. Christianity is not something that "just happens". True Christianity occurs when a decided action is taken...when we search, when we fill a need, w hen we mend a broken heart and when we are just "there" for hurting people. There are many of them. But there are too few Christians who focus their binoculars with love.

Linda said she wanted to give Sandra Juarez a raise, but was overruled by her ex-husband, Danny Shelton. Danny does all hiring and firing. Period. Everybody knows that. You know it. I know it. So just stop with this nonsense.
>
> 2. Her Replacement = Tommy Shelton. We already know who "her replacement" was, so you might as well spell it out: Linda was replaced by a Reverend dismissed by another denomination. His name is Tommy Shelton, but I suppose just calling him "her replacement" sounds better? You have your marching orders to focus everyone's attention on demonizing Linda - and away from all other core issues? That's what you're getting paid to do as part of your "mending broken people" agenda? Just asking.
> 3. As for any trip to Norway, the Norwegian doctor, Arild Abrahamsen, has already written and distributed his account.

> 4. Linda lost her health insurance when she was summarily fired by her ex-husband. You know that. The Norwegian doctor, aware of what had happened, gave Linda access to his medical clinic after the loss of the insurance. Why keep trying to make that something it is not. Even you, yourself, say Linda Shelton was already divorced at that time.
>
> 5. I was in Thompsonville shortly after Danny asked for a divorce. I saw no such fawning as you describe. When Linda started the radio network on December 31, 1999, Danny went on the air shortly thereafter and said several times, "I have no vision for radio," with Linda Shelton sitting right next to him on the air. This certainly didn't look like bragging over Linda to me. It came across to me as a message to viewers saying, "Radio is not part of the Great Danny Shelton Vision, so please take note, everyone." But Linda's radio network succeeded anyway, despite Danny's admonition to his viewers. And things were never the same after that.
>
> Linda held a 3ABN Radio School beginning on Monday, March 8, 2004. It was a sold-out event. The Radio Network was succeeding. Danny could see that and he was not happy. If Danny was going to get rid of Linda, he'd have to do it before she added a dozen more radio stations.
>
> Danny demanded his divorce, the night before the radio school started, on Sunday, March 7, 2004. Danny just couldn't handle Linda's success and he was determined to put a stop to it. Linda, not being streetwise, could not suspect what was going on or how her demise was linked to her own success in radio.
>
> Mollie Steenson had gone to India, and I believe she was not in Thompsonville, on Sunday evening, March 7, 2004, when Danny demanded his divorce and put his plan into action. Mollie came back to Thompsonville and was in her office by midweek, but everything was already in motion. My opinion is that Mollie Steenson either couldn't be trusted to help destroy Linda Shelton, or Mollie wanted to distance herself from the planned event, so it was done while she, Mollie, was out of the country - in India, no less. Was that trip to India planned in advance by someone for such a reason? I've decided in my own mind that it was.
>
> 6. I don't see that "programming improved" with the Reverend Tommy Shelton sitting in Linda's old office. But that's in the eye of the beholder. Maybe an endless array of scolding, talking heads at 3ABN pleases you. There's nothing special about Shelley Quinn with her veiled excoriation using "John the Baptist" or John Lomacang's version of the same using his "Moses - Touch Not the Lord's Anointed" blatherments. The expoundings of these two strike me as nothing but desperate and weird.
>
> 6. Bystander, you keep regurgitating the same old garbage over and over trying so hard to re-write history. It is not working, so give it up. The reason you skip responding to Watchbird is that she knows the timeline, and you cannot deal with that; Your job is to deliver your mudballs to people who you think cannot tell the difference.
> 7. The entire 3ABN defense from the very beginning has been, "Nobody will be able to criticize us, because they are all stupid and will never be able to figure out what we did for sure," id est, "Nobody knows me and Linda" ad infinitum. Your only purpose on this forum. Bystander, is to muddy the waters with your little mudballs and to make sure it all stays muddy. Everybody can see that, so this must be about your personal paycheck. It certainly cannot be about truth or justice. Not knowing who you are, this is all about your own personal bank account, right? Are you willing to do anything to keep those paychecks coming, no matter what? Am I close? I think I am right on target. I think it is all about money, your money, Bystander, and nothing else. I think everything and everyone comes a distant second with you.

You are only responsible for you and him alone. If that is his letter, he apologized a long time ago, so why are you here if that is all you wanted?

N APOLOGY??? FOR CRYING OUT LOUD!!! TS should buy him a "beamer" and praise the Lord he's not ehind bars. Apology indeed!!!

Linda said she wanted to give Sandra Juarez a raise, but was overruled by her ex-husband, Danny Shelton. Danny does all hiring and firing. Period. Everybody knows that. You know it. I know it. So just stop with this nonsense.
>
> 2. Her Replacement = Tommy Shelton. We already know who "her replacement" was, so you might as well spell it out: Linda was replaced by a Reverend dismissed by another denomination. His name is Tommy Shelton, but I suppose just calling him "her replacement" sounds better? You have your marching orders to focus everyone's attention on demonizing Linda - and away from all other core issues? That's what you're getting paid to do as part of your "mending broken people" agenda? Just asking.

> 4. Linda lost her health insurance when she was summarily fired by her ex-husband. You know > that. The Norwegian doctor, aware of what had happened, gave Linda access to his medical clinic after the loss of the insurance. Why keep trying to make that something it is not. Even you, yourself, say Linda Shelton was already divorced at that time.

>
> 5. I was in Thompsonville shortly after Danny asked for a divorce. I saw no such fawning as you describe. When Linda started the radio network on December 31, 1999, Danny went on the air shortly thereafter and said several times, "I have no vision for radio," with Linda Shelton sitting right next to him on the air. This certainly didn't look like bragging over Linda to me. It came across to me as a message to viewers saying, "Radio is not part of the Great Danny Shelton Vision, so please take note, everyone." But Linda's radio network succeeded anyway, despite Danny's admonition to his viewers. And things were never the same after that.
>
> Linda held a 3ABN Radio School beginning on Monday, March 8, 2004. It was a sold-out event. The Radio Network was succeeding. Danny could see that and he was not happy. If Danny was going to get rid of Linda, he'd have to do it before she added a dozen more radio stations.
>
> Danny demanded his divorce, the night before the radio school started, on Sunday, March 7, 2004. Danny just couldn't handle Linda's success and he was determined to put a stop to it. Linda, not being streetwise, could not suspect what was going on or how her demise was linked to her own success in radio.
>
> Mollie Steenson had gone to India, and I believe she was not in Thompsonville, on Sunday evening, March 7, 2004, when Danny demanded his divorce and put his plan into action. Mollie came back to Thompsonville and was in her office by midweek, but everything was already in motion. My opinion is that Mollie Steenson either couldn't be trusted to help destroy Linda Shelton, or Mollie wanted to distance herself from the planned event, so it was done while she, Mollie, was out of the country - in India, no less. Was that trip to India planned in advance by someone for such a reason? I've decided in my own mind that it was.
>
> 6. I don't see that "programming improved" with the Reverend Tommy Shelton sitting in Linda's old office. But that's in the eye of the beholder. Maybe an endless array of scolding, talking heads at 3ABN pleases you. There's nothing special about Shelley Quinn with her veiled excoriation using "John the Baptist" or John Lomacang's version of the same using his "Moses - Touch Not the Lord's Anointed" blatherments. The expoundings of these two strike me as nothing but desperate and weird.
>
> 6. Bystander, you keep regurgitating the same old garbage over and over trying so hard to re-write history. It is not working, so give it up. The reason you skip responding to Watchbird is that she knows the timeline, and you cannot deal with that; Your job is to deliver your mudballs to people who you think cannot tell the difference.
> 7. The entire 3ABN defense from the very beginning has been, "Nobody will be able to criticize us, because they are all stupid and will never be able to figure out what we did for sure," id est, "Nobody knows me and Linda" ad infinitum. Your only purpose on this forum, Bystander, is to muddy the waters with your little mudballs and to make sure it all stays muddy. Everybody can see that, so this must be about your personal paycheck. It certainly cannot be about truth or justice. Not knowing who you are, this is all about your own personal bank account, right? Are you willing to do anything to keep those paychecks coming, no matter what? Am I close? I think I am right on target. I think it is all about money, your money, Bystander, and nothing else. I think everything and everyone comes a distant second with you.

ete, this was very well stated. Thank you! Kudos!

BlackSDA _ 3ABN _ Hi From Barbara Kerr In Norway

Posted by: Johann Feb 5 2007, 03:29 PM

Barbara asked me to post this letter from Norway:

Dear Friends,

A lot has happened in the last several months and I need to write a quick letter and let you know what's happening with me.

The past three years have been fairly stressful for me, but this past year has been the worst. We had two people living in our house, and there was the 3abn mess that was heating up (and is still going strong), and I was still in the middle of it. There were other things that just happened. You know, just life.

Well, this past summer I didn't feel right. I knew I was sick again and that my body was out of whack. I just felt really bad. Not crohn's per se, but just not right. I started juicing again, walking everyday, etcetera, etcetera. Nothing really helped completely. I knew my pH was extremely acidic when I bit into a cherry tomato and my mouth broke out into blisters. I began monitoring my pH everyday, only to find that is was continuously between 5.0 and 6.0. A normal range for a healthy person is around 6.6 to 7.0 (urine & saliva).

I was so stressed over what was happening at 3ABN, and the lies that they were continuing to tell. I would try to read the dialog on BSDA and keep up with what was happening, only I continued to feel worse each time I would read some sickening account of discovery in the Shelton household. I wanted to participate in your conversations, but I just had to quit reading after a while. I had to protect myself, and I knew the added stress was making me worse. I hope you will understand.
In September, I flew to Washington State where Linda Shelton and I attended the same conference. It was the first time we had seen each other in a year and a half. We shared a room for a couple of days and got all caught up on our 'girl talk'. We had a great time laughing and reminiscing about 'the good old days'.

So many of you have asked me to pass along your love and good wishes, and that is exactly what I did! She thanks each of you from the bottom of her heart for all of your prayers, your love and your support! She misses you and she misses working in ministry more than I can ever express in words. Her heart is broken over what has been taken away from her. We cried together and we prayed together.

I encourage her every week on the phone that God still has a purpose for our lives. That He can bring something beautiful our of this mess, . . . and most of all, that He hasn't forgotten His girls. We love Him so much. I tell her over and over again, that God did not give her 20 years of experience, running a Christian Network, just to let that training go unused. I can't help but cry now, just thinking about the despair that she feels. Please, please, join me in praying that God will set the oppressed free, and reveal every secret thing!

While we were in Washington, Linda's house was broken into. The only things stolen were emails and papers concerning 3ABN. One document was left behind. A legal paper that had to do with her demise at 3ABN. Her signature was forged. Darrell Mundalls car was broken into the same week. He had two computers in the back seat, both were left there, but papers and things were scattered throughout the car.

I told her the stakes seemed higher now. They were acting more desperate for evidence to prove they were right. We don't know who broke into the house and car, but it seemed fishy to us.
In October I started having female problems which drove me to the Gyn. From there, I saw other specialists and a surgeon, all of which only promised me disfiguring surgery.
By the end of October I began feeling nauseated from the time I got up until I went to bed at night. I saw a gastroenterologist and had an endoscopy.

My Gyn kept pushing me to have surgery, he was sure I had cancer in my labia and wanted to remove it immediately. I was also diagnosed with a blood vessel disorder.

Linda Shelton encouraged me to see the Norwegian doctor (Arild Abrahamsen) that had treated her son. They call him the Miracle Doctor here in Norway. He also treats many famous European athletes from every sport imaginable. Just Wednesday I was sitting next to two young men from Sweden that were Olympic cross country skiers. One was named Peter Larson and the other Mat (something). I asked them all kinds of questions about what it's really like to train for the Olympics everyday. I also asked them why they come here. They smiled and said that no matter what their problem, virus or broken bone, the healing time with this treatment was less than half and they couldn't afford downtime.

The Swedish Olympic trainer came to see Dr. Abrahamsen a few days ago and asked him if he would treat and monitor his entire team during training. Dr. Abrahamsen is so swamped with patients, he has a one-year waiting list to be seen as a new patient. He's not even sure he will take on the Olympic cross-country ski team.

Getting back to the original story. I told my Gyn I wanted to try something natural since they had ONLY promised disfiguring surgery, and he pushed back in his chair and said, 'I get all kinds of strange patients, with all kinds of strange ideas!' He was pretty mad. I just looked at him and asked him nicely, 'if I was the doctor and I told him all I could promise him was to cut off his testicles, but he knew of a possible other way, wouldn't he try it?' He just looked at me disgusted and walked out. Some people are very narrow minded when it comes to complementary medicine. I'm NOT stupid either, and I have a right to alternative treatment. I hadn't told him I wouldn't have the surgery, . . . I just wasn't going to have it as my first option.

Just so you know, I have cancer in 4 places. Three female and in my stomach.
I decided at Linda's prompting to go to Norway before undergoing the knife. There are several reasons why I came to this doctor to be treated, but honestly, at the end of the day the entire thing was one great, big, divine appointment.

Dr. Abrahamsen (a general practice doc for 30+ years) got tired of treating sickness and wanted to be a wellness doc. About 15 years ago he was trained with new technology. He was also a friend of a friend. I had never met him before and was actually a bit leery of him.

At the exact same time I was really feeling sick and starting to go see specialists (oct/nov), Abrahamsen came across a newspaper article written by researchers stating that they had found an enzyme that was present in every cancer cell, no matter the type of cancer. The enzyme is called `CASPASE - 3`. Anyways, the scientists speculated that if they could find a way to activate this de-activated enzyme, they thought the body would rid itself of cancer.

Doctor Abrahamsen completely agreed. He immediately set to work, and within a short period of time, he found a combination of remedies that would activate the enzyme.

This doctor's brother has had Hogkins or non-hogkins for 3 or 4 years now. He was one of the first people treated in November. After one week of treatment he was cancer free. I know of one more patient, a lady who came to him with bloody discharge from her breast and breast cancer. She was cancer free after 6 treatments.

The theory the scientists came up with seems to work! Only no one knows about this discovery yet because it's still so new.

I am the third person (in the world) that has received this therapy. The really great thing is that it's not drugs like chemo and radiation. I feel so much better too! And I get to keep my red hair and my immune system gets stronger, not weaker.

I was re-tested Sunday afternoon (January 28th, 2007) and I am happy to report that I, too, am now cancer-free! I asked him why it has taken me so much longer (I've received 21 treatments now) than his brother and the other woman, and he told me that my cancer was much worse than theirs.

Now that the cancer level is at zero, he will begin treating my candida, fungus and thyroid problem. I'm not coming home until I'm well, but hopefully that will be at the end of Feb. I flew here Jan.4th.
All I can tell you about what the treatments are, is that they are all natural, and they are always given I.V. Treatment days are Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. I receive two I.V.'s per day. I feel soooooooo much better now than when I arrived in early January. I feel like I did before I got sick this summer.

The treatments are a little bit pricey. The initial test, which takes about 2 - 3 hours, costs $750. After that, the I.V. treatments are $150 each. It's around $900 per week, but oh how sweet it is to be CANCER FREE!

Last week I asked the doc if he was excited about this discovery and what it could mean to the world? He said it was much too early to be excited about it, because it would require a lot more testing on patients with different kinds of cancer to see how it would work. He also didn't think it would work well on patients with brain tumors, due to the blood-brain-barrier, but he hasn't treated anyone with a brain tumor yet to see how they respond to it. He won't be making any claims anytime soon. (Although I feel a Nobel Prize coming on - for him, not for me) LOL- laugh out loud
I personally think this discovery is exciting. I just want to burst with the news. To be honest though, I wasn't going to share this story with the public, because it was, once again, so personal. Then two days ago God really dealt with me harshly, and kept bringing me to Esther chapter 4, verse 14. ``For if you remain completely silent at this time, relief and deliverance will arise for the Jews from another place, but you and your father's house will perish. Yet who knows whether you have come to the kingdom for such a time as this?"

I would rather listen and obey, then cower with embarrassment. There are too many people hurting in this world to keep this information to myself. If you would like to write to the clinic about treatment for yourself, the address is: Dr. Arild Abrahamsen, N-1593 Svinndal, Norway. If you want to call his office the number from the States is 011-47-692-86-065 OR 011-47-900-21-902. He is licensed to practice Medicine in Scandinavia and all countries connected with the European Union. Athletic Medicine, Pain Relief, Medical Examinations, and Clinic for Cardiovascular diseases.
I wasn't sure what to think of Arild Abrahamsen before I met him. There was so much controversy around him and accussations from Danny Shelton. But after meeting this man, I had to chuckle inside about what a poor choice Danny had made, picking on this doctor. You only need to meet him to see it. He is filled with integrity, honesty and compassion for his patients. I would liken Abrahamsen in character, to that of Mark Finley or Doug Bachelor! I'm not afraid of him anymore, or leery, . . . I'm proud to call him a friend, and consider him one of the greatest doctors I have had the privilege of meeting.

God is blessing Abrahamsen with the gift of healing. True, it's not the science we grew up with in school, biology class, or nursing school, and it DOES require a shift in your paradigm to understand his technology, but God is blessing Abrahamsen's work, none-the-less!

I hope you all are happy and healthy and loving life. I have learned once again how valuable each and every day is. Life is a gift, we can use it to help and serve others, or we can waste it.
I'm so glad God gave you all to me, . . . this crazy and strangely wonderful Adventist family! I want you to know that I pray for all of you often! And I'm asking you to please pray for me.
It is kind of strange though. Here I am receiving treatments to save my life and all I can think about is how blessed I am. I'm not the sickest person in the U.S., and yet Gods' timing with this cure is so incredible! I have moments of feeling guilty. I feel the Lord's hand over me, under me, and around me, everywhere I go.

There is a purpose for me here in this foreign land and I continue to pray that God will use my life in a mighty and powerful way to help others receive life.

There are two Bible texts that have taken on new meaning to me since walking this road and I would like to share them with you.

Psalm 103:2-5. 'Bless the Lord, O my soul, and forget not all His benefits; Who forgives all your iniquities, Who heals all your diseases, Who redeems your life from destruction, Who crowns you with lovingkidness and tender mercies, Who satisfies your mouth with good things, So that your youth is renewed like the eagle's."

Psalm 23:4-5. ``Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil; For You are with me; Your rod and Your staff, they comfort me. You prepare a table before me in the presence of my enemies, ..."

God is so good!

Broke in Linda's house and stole emails related to 3ABN? Mercy! I don't know any of the characters in the 3ABN saga. But during a testimony like this, it is hard for me to believe Barbara (don't know her) would lie about Linda's break-in. I am sure the 3ABN apologist will spin it. But just hard for me to believe she is lying.

Posted by: princessdi Feb 5 2007, 04:31 PM

...and Derrell can testify to whether or not his broken into, unless I have missed that this was already posted.

Yep...let the spin machine begin...can't wait to hear what they come up with for this one...

We pray that Barb is a part in this breaktrough in the treatment of cancer. She is only the third patient receiving this new treatment which is based on the latest scientific research. Dr. Arild was very excited about this when he discovered the possibilities only a few weeks ago. With his advanced technology he is able to test how much cancer there still is left in the body until there is no more. In the past he was able to decrease the amount of cancer in the body, and he was able to help my wife, Irmgard, a lot, but it is only with this new discovery that he is able to get the cancer level down to zero.

Just a gentle warning: There is no lodging available in connection with his clinic, so that has to be arranged elsewhere.

Another problem is that his usual waiting list is one year, even though he treats up to 50 patients a day. He never had an ad in a paper, and there is not even a name nor a house number on his clinic. And it is far off the beaten track in rural settings.

By an unfortunate accident it was posted here on BSDA that Linda would be away for a few days. This was when it happened. (Could she sue BSDA???)

With all that has been going on, and with what happened to Linda's home, I think it would be a good idea never to post about anybody being away from their home.

Calvin, I think Johann is being sacrastic!! We do know SOME would think this way - Linda would not

She has also had her email accounts "tapped" into as well - particular folders have dissapeared. Wonder how they knew her passwords? Especially when she changes those passwords...

I love you, Calvin! Just asking a silly question - which you permit? Linda would never, never, consider suing you!!!! I should have used a smily!

Barbara,

Thank you for the update. I am so sorry for all you are going through. Praise God for your healing and the wonderful report on the Dr and his work to cure cancer. I will remember you in my prayers for your continued healing and good health.

As far as the break in at Linda's home I can not tell you how shocked I am. Just when you think it can't get any worse--it does. Who, but someone involved with 3ABN would want to get hold of the information that was taken. That is about as low as you can go. Well maybe not-looks like it may even get worse. Please come Lord Jesus.

Please tell Linda I used to love to watch her on 3ABN. I just recently came back to church and was amazed that there was a 24/7 channel about the SDA message. I would watch Linda and think that must be what angels look like.

wish I were there with you! What a powerful testimony! Thanks for sharing.

alvin's sister-in-law, Paula, would be a greatly blessed by this treatment. Her life of ninistry has been a great blessing to many. I believe she should continue to bless many hrough her gifts and enjoy a healthy long life too!

aybe one day God will provide the means for me to go see Dr A. too.

I agree, a powerful testimony. I'm curious as to how the doctor tests for cancer after the treatments.

It makes me sad to hear about the break-ins. Where is it all going to end? Where was Derrell when his car was broken into? Was he in IL?

Are you really thinking about what is going on here. Somebody mentions that Linda's house was broke into and then Darrel's car. Next thing that comes on is that 3abn people are responsible. Yet another ludicrous accusation. Right now, on this site, 3abn would get the blame for global warming and inflation, as well as the war in Irak. I believe that even the great Gailon Joy said that bsda had taken all of this over the top. If the so called Investigator and Accuser of 3abn said that,, wow, that says a lot.

> While we were in Washington, Linda's house was broken into. The only things stolen were emails and papers concerning 3ABN. One document was left behind. A legal paper that had to do with her demise at 3ABN. Her signature was forged. Darrell Mundalls car was broken into the same week. He had two computers in the back seat, both were left there, but papers and things were scattered throughout the car.

Firstly, I want to thank Barbary for thinking of us and updating us on her situation. My prayers are with her, and I'm so happy to hear that she was able to go to Norway for treatment of her cancer and have such wonderful results.

However, the one paragraph above really caught my attention. Such a break-in normally makes an individual feel violated and threatened. That only 3ABN materials were meddled with would seem to send a clear message. (I suspect that the .. ahem... "robbers" were careful enough so nothing can be proven.) Such criminal behavior does tell its own story.

However, if Barbara or someone else is able to clarify, I'm curious about that forged signature. On what kind of document was her signature forged?

It also seems that the break-in into Darrel's car was meant to intimidate because nothing of value was stolen. It tells us of what caliber "the opposition" is.

It seems to me that another account on this board mentioned someone breaking into Linda's car and confronting her with a cheap watch found in the glove compartment? Might there be a connection?

(I do hope that both Linda and Derrel reported the break-ins, so that there is an official record.)

Ok... present a plausible alternative explanation for nothing being taken other than papers and the like that mentioned 3ABN

In everyones life comes times of truth. Sometimes one will refuse to see what is coming towards them especially if it is becoming more clear it is the way to go - but in a dysfunctional mental state, one will seek to deny it, run from it, change it, whatever it takes to protect ones own paradigm of reality...if one chooses to remain ignorant and in the dark, because it is more comforting then dealing with the reality of truth, it is their choice. Justifying what they do not want to accept, in order to continue in their "reality". They believe and so it is. That is their reality. Someone can not make a person move out of that reality until they are ready to face the truth and accept it for what it is. Meanwhile, their they sit. If however, they choose to grasp what is before them, be willing to acknowledge it and embrace it, allow it, truly give it a chance, with help, they may find the beginnings of liberation.

> Broke in Linda's house and stole emails related to 3ABN? Mercy! I don't know any of the characters in the 3ABN saga. But during a testimony like this, it is hard for me to believe Barbara (don't know her) would lie about Linda's break-in. I am sure the 3ABN apologist will spin it. But just hard for me to believe she is lying.

the burglary was not the main point in Barbara's letter. Barbara Kerr, by the way, was having programs on 3ABN together with Linda which were somewhat similar to those of your brother and sister-in-law. She was cut off together with Linda.

As many of you will remember, Danny Shelton has painted a picure of Dr. Arild Abrhamsen as a murderer, a devil, a mind manipolator, a quack and false physician, that he has been sending out to 3ABN supporters. All this in an effort to make people believe that this physician stole the same Linda from him that he was doing everything possible to get rid of.

Barbara is giving an eye witness account of what kind of person he is, and that Danny has painted a false picture of him.

Barbara tells me also that she has been able to share her faith with other patients she meets at the clinic. People who experience the healing power of God are willing to listen to the Gospel of the divine Healer.

Just in case you didn't know, I just wanted to let you know that your statement here is what is commonly called, "messy". If you have a point to make, make it without the attempt to divide and conquer tatics. This move is akin to Donald Trump's tatics with Rosie O'Donnell when he emailed her what Barbara was "really" saying about her....messy!

A plausible explanation is that we heard it from Linda. All of you on this forum that say Linda has kept her mouth shut about said events...what could you be thinking? Where do you think so many details about contracts, salaries, pregnancy tests, harrasment from Danny, the handling of their own private finances, what Walt T did or did not say to Linda, what John Lomacang did or did not say to Linda, What Danny did or did not say to Linda and on and on and on......People, it doesn't matter who repeated it whether it be Johann, or Gailon, or Darryl, or Pickle..the source WAS HER. How else would you be hearing about events and conversations where only she and Danny were in room? Supposedly she didn't have control of any of their finances, now, how do you suppose you on this forum heard about? Everything you are telling here had it's original source from Linda. I repeat, so many of the things written here were private conversations, events , blah blah blah They could not have come from anyone else, as the original source. That being the case, we are all supposed to take it as fact? Those of you who won't admit that she had to be the source for so many things, don't want to admit it, because you know better. common sense prevails and there is no getting around it. Now 3abn is being accused of breaking in...why...because Linda said it. Linda said there was a break in...Linda said only 3abn stuff was taken....Linda said her email was tapped (whatever that means) and Darryl backs it up!!! Darryl has his own vendetta. So this proves, once again, that most everything on here as come from one source and you all have fell for it while saying that Linda has kept silent......bright, folks, very bright...

When, where? Read Barbara's letter. She says that Linda says her house and your car was broken into. I am repeating what was said in the letter, so really, who exactly are you calling a liar? Daryl, a lot of people know that "you" do not need to call anyone a "liar."

You said "Now 3abn is being accused of breaking in...why...because Linda said it. Linda said there was a break in...Linda said only 3abn stuff was taken....Linda said her email was tapped (whatever that means)" Someone ELSE saying that a car was broken into is not "backing up" all of that.

You say you are here because of what happened to you when TS was your pastor. So, my question is this.....Why are you involved in all the other subjects going on here? You yourself said you weren't employed at 3ABN since the late 80"s when they had just started. So, the truth is, you don't know anything about their present employees, administration, board or any truths or untruths about Linda or Danny or any of the detailed conversations that go on here. So, why do you involve yourself in it? You have joined the bandwagon of 3abn bashers and honestly, that is not fair on you're part. There are lots and lots of things that you don't know and never will so it isn't right for you jump on the whole organization about that which you know not. Also, before you answer that 3abn was involved in a cover up on TS, then, if that were true, you would also have to hold Linda responsible. She approved his hiring and showed her approval by writing songs together and performing with him countless times. So just be fair. If you are going to hold 3 abn accountable in some aspect then hold her and her supporters accountable too.
Make sense?

Darryl, quit trying to act confused. Read the letter. The source was Linda and you have plenty of reason to "back her up."

So this is it people? Just a bunch of arguing over Linda's house being broken into? You have missed the forest because of a couple of trees? Are you all so blind that you can't see the real issue here? It took me DAYS to gather the courage to share my heart and make my life vulnerable for everyone to see, but God said, DO IT! So I did. There are thousands of people out there hurting that need ministered to, they NEED this health information. Are you even excited about it??

I'm so excited I could burst! The house being broken into has been taken care of, it's been reported to the police months ago, security has been increased, Linda was shaken -- but she's fine now. I don't know if Darrell reported his car break in, I don't think so, but it DOESN't matter. It's NOT the issue. I will not discuss the forged document and I will not supply information about it. Linda is handling it.

If you all want to discuss health issues or write letters that have an uplifting content, please feel free to respond to this message. But if you are only filled with hatred, frustration and are argumentative, please, I implore you to keep your comments to yourself.

If I sound a little hurt and frustrated it's because I am! I feel like I walked onto a 6th grade play ground today where all the kids were fighting with each other. I'm lonely over here, . . . and I've been fighting for my life for weeks now. This experience has changed my life, and it has the potential of saving thousands of lives. I guess my perspective has changed on what's important, and what isn't. Fighting is a waste of time.

I've got to go to bed now. I will talk to you all tomorrow.

You certainly read a lot into that one line. Where have I bashed 3abn? Where did I say 3abn was involved in a coverup?

All I know is you and a few others (or at least a few other screen names) have come on here and made little snide remarks about myself and other victims. You want to talk to ME about being fair?

You have made comments about myself and other letter writers. How does the Tommy Shelton situation affect you? Why are you involved in it? Perhaps if you don't want comments from me about anything else, you should not comment on my situation.

My point was that when certain people, who shall at this point remain nameless, know they're in trouble they start trying to tear down those who oppose them. It's been that way for years. I'm tired of seeing it, and I'm going to speak up.

Ok folks. I am going to state I am confused and ask for clarification.

I thought I read that someone named Daryl had his car broken into and I have not a clue who this person is.

I was under impression that ex3abn is named Duane and was a victim of TS that has come forward.

What am I missing?

Barbara, I do not know you and in fact have never seen your program on 3ABN.

I want you to know that as of 5:45 EDT today your letter or this thread has already been viewed 775 times!! There have been less than 40 posts including ones of support from many and those by Johann.

I would like to believe that we who are here with open minds "got it" along the lines of Johann's recent post wondering if we did.

I add my prayers to those of the others for your ongoing success in your treatment.

I stand with others in amazement at what I am hearing about the treatment you have received and its apparent success. How I would love to see your medical records and talk to the doctor about what he is using to treat you. I bet everyone that read your letter recalled a past or current loved one that might have benefited from the treatment and ached a little that the loved one never had that chance.

I understand your reluctance to come forward with your testimony because the medical problem is one that is gynecological and therefore somehow not "acceptable" for public discussion. I still remember when my best friend's mom who was a RN and had worked in a SDA hospital signed herself into another hospital for her hysterectomy under another name so no one at church would know.......thank goodness I hope we have gotten beyond that.

So even though dozens or hundreds of us have added your testimony regarding your experiences with the doctor to our understanding of him, it is far easier for people to pick up and comment on the break in (s?). It is the more sensational aspect of your letter and one people can get emotional about as they see another possible injustice and speculate what it may mean. When I see how many people look at these posts/topics that are unregistered or registered and never comment, I am sometimes amazed at the number of those who are not willing to express opinions or ask questions. But that is ok. Don't think for one minute that just about every one of those who read the letter did not offer up a quick prayer for your ongoing recovery. But you are not going to see 100 posts saying the same thing. I will sometimes comment in such situations if I am an early reader and poster but not after 3 or 4 have said would i would have said.

So please do not question whether you should have sent your letter. Those who come here to read about what is happening want facts. We have many more allegations and he said/she said hearsay reported than facts on which to reach conclusions. The break in was a fact and although everyone will speculate as to what it means in the scheme of things, we will probably never know.

I have perceived from what I have read by others that you have many supporters and I know without a doubt they are happy to hear from you and pray that your own brand of ministry will continue despite all obstacles placed in your path.

God bless,
nw

That's correct. I'm Duane.

Sorry Barbara,

I, too, grapped hold to the sensational portion of your message. My first thought was that of my Dad. He passed 10 years ago(Whew!! doesn't seem that long ago). He had a kidney transplant, two in fact, the first one never did work properly, the second took like a charm. Anyway the first kidney years later developed cancer and he had to have chemotherapy. The oncologist informed his kidney specialists that they had never been able to save the transplanted kidneys before. His drs. told the oncologists to go back to the drawing board, my Dad was their star patient, and they weren't going to lose that kidney! They had better try to mix something up! They did, and they wrote it up in the medical journals, and no people with transplants no longer have to lose their kidneys with their cancer treatments. My Dad and the kidney came through it like champs!

So the good Dr.'s discovery is indeed a miracle! Praise God!

arbara, we are happy for you and the results of the treatment you received from Dr. Abrahamsen. e pray for your continued well-being.

e are happy that he has made some progress in the search for a cure for cancer.

owever, as you shared, he realizes that he is far from being able to claim his treatment as a "cure for ancer." Furthermore, he is booked ahead by a year or more. This means that, for all practical urposes, what he is doing now can benefit only a fortunate few until his research reaches the point hat it can be shared with others who will use the treatment on their patients. (I can think of several ndividuals now who could have been or could be helped if they had access to his treatment. For some t is already too late. And others don't have a year or more to wait ...)

e have noted this, and we wait ...

he reason I (and probably others) focused on the break-in of Linda's house is that this is the 3ABN orum, and we are focused on issues that relate directly to 3ABN. The fact that only 3ABN-related stuff vas taken or tampered with in her house is therefore highly significant.

e are here to see that things change sufficiently at 3ABN so that it will become the ministry it is roclaimed to be even now. We want to see the abuses stopped. That is our focus.

gain, we thank you for dropping in, and we rejoice over the good news. However, please don't blame s for picking up on some details relevant to our focus here.

s Johann suggested, your whole testimony is relevant in another way. It confirms that Dr. brahamsen is, indeed, a remarkable and successful doctor, contrary to claims by Dan Shelton that he s a quack. Thank you for sharing.

nd may God continue to bless you.

y the way, I'm just wondering ... Did Dr. Abrahamsen give any instructions regarding lifestyle to emain cancer-free?

do apologize if I said anything to upset you. I will be praying for you and your continued recovery. y mother went through colon cancer for 18 months before she passed away. I know how stressful an llness can be, not only for the patient but for all those around them.

Barbara,

I am SO glad to see you back - and to hear the encouraging news on your health. I have been wondering where you were - and had hoped that we hadn't made you mad here on BSDA. I know that each one of us want the truth to be revealed, and get tired of trudging thru all of the gunk to get there - but praise God there are people like you out there who are are willing to put out uplifting and encouraging information. Please don't stop coming and sharing your love and information with us - and please tell Linda that most of us here really do love her and are rooting for her (with God's grace) to win in the end.

Dear Noahs Wife, Princessdi, Ex3ABNEmployee, Inga, Sandy Colorado, & all,

Thanks for your words of encouragement. I really needed them tonight and they were heartfelt, believe me. Some of you also gave some good advice and it was much appreciated. Thank you!

As far as the year wait to be a patient, . . . please don't let that discourage you from calling and asking. Often he works in someone depending on how critical their condition is. The year wait is for people with non-life threatening conditions that want to be new patients.

Today it was in the mid 20's and snowed the entire day. Big beautiful flakes. It was beyond beautiful, so I decided to take a long walk with my camera. I walked down a long road that hadn't been plowed, far back into God's country. I was completely alone and you couldn't hear a sound. It was as if God had decorated every tree just for me. At the end of the road I discovered a lake. It was frozen over and covered with a fresh blanket of snow. I stared at it for a long time, pretending that it was the sea of glass. I brushed the snow off of a fence post and set my camera on self-timer, and took a few silly pictures of myself at the lake. Even though I was by myself, I never felt alone!

The walk was refreshing. It made me feel like I was surrounded by purity, and I fell in love with life all over again on that road. An hour and a half later I made it back to my apartment, . . . frozen, but happy. I drank down half a quart of carrot juice and then tried to warm up with a hot cup of chamomile tea. I think I will sleep very well tonight. I hope I dream about walking with Jesus on a long, snow-covered road in the forest.

Hugs, Barbara Kerr

Perhaps we need to give some of you a clarification. Yes, you read right, that not only did someone break into Linda's house, but someone also broke into Darrell's car in California. Linda is Danny Shelton's former wife who got fired from 3ABN for something she had not done. Darrell Mundall is Danny Shelton's former son-in-law who was chased away from 3ABN because he knew that Linda was accused of something she had not done, and such people were not welcome on the premises.

There is also a Daryl on this net, but he was not involved in the case from the beginning. He is the manager of the MSDAOL net in Canada, which, at the present time seems to be the largest net affiliated with Adventists, trailed by BSDA. I think Daryl learned of this case by reading and following the discussions on BSDA, and then he decided to open it up for discussion on his own net too, and he is doing a tremendous job of it, although it is handled somewhat different than here at BSDA.

You will find the bosses on both nets participating in the discussions on the other net as well.

Hi Barbara,

I've watched you LOTS of times, and you're by far my all-time favorite of the 3ABN kitchen crew! I always appreciated your much more intellectual approach to things from water quality to nutrition.

I'm shocked and dismayed to learn of your condition, and know that lots of people are praying for you. There is hope, however, and power in prayer. I know of a particularly hopeless appearing case with a ruptured malignant tumor, etc., that was saved by a combo of surgery, chemo and radiation, so if there is any residual that cannot be cared for, you still have other options.

Best wishes to you, and God bless.

Yohann, please don't stick your neck out for DM. He knows why he is not longer there. As do several employees, his ex pastors and probably several on the church board. It had nothing to do with Linda and he knows it.

Dear Barbara,

Few weeks ago I called you home, and got your message that you are out of country till the beginning of February... Couldn't wait to be able to talk with you... and then, few days ago I read your message here on BSDA. What a surprise!

BTW, since you have many friends, I must tell you that I am the one who met you and Claudia in the Marriot Hotel two years ago..and since you were as cute in reality as I've seen you on the shows on the 3abn, instantly felt close to you... and am very proud of calling you my friend ever since!

Last August, you have sent me to this forum, and I have been reading it silently to this day. Now you are causing me to post here for the first time. I wish the circumstances were different, but I am very encouraged with the help you have received, and the courage God has given you. My husband and my boys were on our knees as soon as we read the first half of you letter. It just happend so, that I had to interrupt reading it for few hours, before I read the other half, in which you gave the good news. I am telling you, it was very hard time for me, those few hours, not knowing what you wrote int the second half. Now I am praising the Lord God Almighty for the healing that is taking place, and the hope He has given to you and to us through you.

I wish I could be with you in Europe, I love the "Old Mother", and I know Norway must be very pretty country. It is probably not much colder there than here (where we are) right now. I have so much to tell you, and to ask you... Come back soon, would you?!

Be of good courage, our Creator cares about you, and knows what is best for you. You are in good hands, His and His servant's, you couldn't wish for more!

If you want, PM me on BSDA, and leave me your direct ph.#, I would love to call you.

You are in my & my family's prayers. I will also pray for you with my prayer group, Monday evenings!

God bless you!

Carmel

Okay?

Now.

What is the real reason he was fired? You can't just say...."he knows why he is not longer there..." and let it go at that....

You got proof? Put it out there!

All of this would be killed dead if folks would just empty out their hands and see whose playing the "Trump" cards....

It would be over in an instant - if the evidence was truly in existance.

What is the real reason he was fired?

Seeing that you are still misspelling my name tells how inaccurate you are in your evaluation of things. Thanks for revealing your inadequate power of perceptions.

You keep on whirling up dustbowls and avoiding to answer real questions. Many people have asked you questions which you completely ignore, and just keep on whirling up dust to keep away from the real issue.

Did you realize that when DM applied for another job Danny and his friends kept calling the employing orgaization warning them against hiring DM because he was addicted to a certain bad habit? The office thanked each caller for their concern, and asked them to call back when they could verify what they were saying.

Only one of the many callers called back. This was the 3ABN lawyer, and he called to apologize for spreading false rumors. The same lawyer later resigned from the 3ABN board, and why? He found it impossible to retain his integrity if he had to stay on with the board of 3ABN!!!

How can you claim his departure had nothing to do with Linda? I'm afraid you are getting your information from the same source that forced the lawyer to resign.

So, Bystander, I too am calling your bluff! And I am willing to stick my neck out at any time for Derrell. You are using the same lying innuendos that Danny and company have attempted to use against Derrell for a number of years. Dan began using them against Derrell the first time he and Melody divorced. I know, I was there and heard the gossip that was circulating through Thompsonville church members and 3ABN employees. At the time I went investigating for myself and the original source of the rumors about Derrell were always the same: Danny Shelton. Those rumors didn't hold water then and they still do not now! So Bystander, put up or shut up. And if you are not willing to show your hand on this issue---and a number of other issues---why should anyone believe anything you or your "partner" Eye Witness say about anything? You use the same computer and continually are backing each other up and patting each other on the back.

Oh, and by the way, attempting to turn the tables and questioning me instead of answering my questions will no longer work for you, folks here are wise to your side-stepping issues. That dog doesn't hunt here!

Why would Linda be lying? Now my questions is how many of these documents are forged? What is the point in all of this stuff. You just don't know if anyone is being honest. I can read and read all these signed documents and don't know if they are forged or what!

I think we can all be pretty certain what documents are being referred to here as "forged".

I find it interesting that glenetta has been a member here for two days and has already posted 22 times.

I would be interested in knowing how many posts he/she has had time to read. Many of us read for days or weeks and tried to discern facts from hearsay and conjecture before we even felt comfortable asking questions.

I wondered when the forgery allegation would be made. I suspect it has been before but this is the most obvious I have read lately.

I would recommend that to answer this accusation that the documents posted here and on save3ABN.com from victims and their families or other first hand observers be notarized if possible and reposted showing the notary seal and date.

Actually yes and there were several reasons. The first and more important reason is reflected On their divorce papers. So instead of just hiring him as an employee they contracted him out. That way, if, anything happened they could not be held responsible. That was then, I have no idea what the arrangement is now.
The second reason (and there is paperwork to prove it) is that When he traveled for 3abn if an economy car was reserved for him at the airport, he would, shall we say, upgrade to something a little snazzier like a convertable. If his room was reserved at the comfort Inn he would "upgrade" to a 4 star hotel....ALL without permission from management. It was a little bit before the accounting department caught what was happening.
I could go farther but I won't, That should be enough for reasonable people to question the fact that D. says he was fired because he "supported" Linda.
And, you know what else, None of this hasn't been told and wouldn't have been if again, the members here demand details/proof. ANy statements made by me tonight can all be verified with paperwork.

This is the same theme Aletheia presented on the Maritime SDA Online board.

On the Maritime board, Aletheia was graciously educating the readers on how easy it is to forge car-title documents.

Unfortunately, Aletheia is no longer posting here. I guess you just missed her.

Actually, you're right - saying that above is a double negative, which makes it a positive, which means YOU HAVE told plenty of people these things...infact, you have called and written many people and done all you could to try to destroy people, including Derrell. Why are you so threatend that you have to follow people around and destroy them? What have they done to you? And what are you so afraid they will say if you don't try to crush them first in some way? You saying it doesn't make it true, just like you saying you have proof doesn't make you any more credible either. The members here "demand"???? That's not the reason you decided to bring it to this forum. You brought it here because you are determined to tell MORE people MORE of the same. In MY opinion, YOU are Danny Shelton speaking, this is how he talks and what he says to everyone he can get to listen. But, again, just my opinion.

First of all "I" have done nothing. I am posting what can be verified. You say because I say it doesn't make it true. That's right. That's way I have named names and challenged you to make the phone calls to verify these facts.

When you say "why do YOU" (I guess you mean 3abn) want to destroy people. You are kidding right? that is what this site is all about, destroying people. That is what you are about on the 3abn topic. You slander and defame and accuse and you have yet to put up in "proof" of anything. Not even verifiable facts. That is because the only things that you "know" could only be "verified" by one source and that source, has lots and lots of reasons not to tell the truth.

By asking you to Ask Mark Finley if he counseled her, by telling you there are receipts for out of state counceling + counseling by John L you know that it proves beyond a shadow of a doubt that someone didn't tell the truth. Unless you want to call Mark Finley and counselors that are not even Adventist, LIARS ,like you have everyone else. SOMEONE HAS NOT BEEN TELLING THE TRUTH.

Observer refuted "sisters" and others claim that LInda was forced to sign the 3abn contract without legal council. He is on your side for crying out loud and he still said it. So again, someone didn't tell the truth. The licensed PI's that have to swear under oath to what they saw, or lose their license, say that she and the doc were alone plenty without johann or anyone else. Again, someone has not been telling the truth.

you and/or others have referred to Danny's quick trip to Guam. False. Somebody didn't tell the truth, he never went there, They did it by mail, in agreement as is proven by their signatures.

You and others have alleged that Linda was kicked aside for Brandi. Lie. The divorce was filed in early June,04 it was finalized either the 24th or 25th of June. Brandi did not even move here until November 11th and they did not date until several months after that. Someone wasn't telling the truth.

I just read here tonight that someone posted that Danny married Brandy within days of the divorce decree. Since that was june 24th or 25th and he didn't meet her (as a grown woman) until November and they weren't married for approx another year or more went by. SOMEONE DIDN'T TELL THE TRUTH.

It has been alleged that he had known her for years....Another twist and spin. Danny used to own a small recording studio in his house to supplement his income before 3abn. Brandi's family came their to record some gospel music. I believe she was 11 or 12 at the time. He never saw her again until she moved here in 04. Brandi had never even heard of 3abn much less, watched it. But her mother had. Brandi had been through a hard time and had become a christian and her mother suggested coming to 3abn to check it out because brandi's desire was to work in a christian environment and to be in a place where she could minister to others. WAITING IN THE WINGS?
Someone wasn't telling the truth

Now sonshineonme. I have facts and figures, and names and dates that you can all verify if you so choose. How much more evidence will have to be given to make you see that there have been lots of lies told but they have been in your camp.

rEAD my other posts. One is in corporate worship. By the way, D. wasn't fired. He resigned. Do your reading and you will find verifable facts. Names, dates and paperwork that can be checked on. What have you ever shown to back up your allegations?
Remember every time you demand "proof" you are only making it tougher on them. You are opening a pandora's box but it's easy to demand for you and some of the others....your not the ones that will be hurt by it.

Save it danny. It won't work anymore. I, like many other folks for some time now, have done lots of checking on things, not only over the past 2.5 years, but especially since your marriage to Brandi. This is how we know. Your "facts and figures" mean nothing. Save them for the court room, that's where it will count now. Not here. You can stop copying and pasting too..and btw, you responed as wwjd tonight to the post that was written to bystander in first person....how do you keep up spinning this web all day long? did your "worker bees" not get the job done well enough that you have to vest more time doing it yourself? not working....you underestimate people to a large degree. You think people haven't talked to Mark? You really think people are so unwise to take only "one" persons opinon (either way) over things anymore? WAKE UP! No more. and once and for all.....YOU on here ALWAYS means YOU. NOT 3abn.
You sound a bit uptight...you need some peace of mind. The truth shall set you free. Try it.

That's what they want you to do -- go on a wild goose chase proving something they never cared about in the first place.

A phone call or letter will answer those questions for them, if they really care, but I doubt they do.

I, like many other folks for some time now, have done lots of checking on things, not only over the past 2.5 years, but especially since your marriage to Brandi. This is how we know. Your "facts and figures" mean nothing. Save them for the court room, that's where it will count now. Not here. You can stop copying and pasting too..and btw, you responed as wwjd tonight to the post that was written to bystander in first person....how do you keep up spinning this web all day long? did your "worker bees" not get the job done well enough that you have to vest more time doing it yourself? not working....you underestimate people to a large degree. You think people haven't talked to Mark? You really think people are so unwise to take only "one" persons opinon (either way) over things anymore? WAKE UP! No more. and once and for all.....YOU on here ALWAYS means YOU. NOT 3abn.
> You sound a bit uptight...you need some peace of mind. The truth shall set you free. Try it.

I AM NOT DANNY and the more you make that accusation the more foolish you look. If I were he and had access to all the paper trails, pictures, court documents, I would put them on here in a heart beat. But since I am not he, I don't have all the access.

secondly of course I can respond to something ask of bystander. you all jump in the middle of people all the time.

And 3rd, if you "have done some checking on things" lets hear about it. Who did you check with? (Very important) Where is your verification of any facts. Or maybe you were just told some "facts" by someone who heard it from someone. That would absolutely give you the right to slander and defame and call people liars. It is getting tiresome that you continue to ignore the challenges that are thrown out. To call Mark F, call John L and see if what yohann posted about him is true, call the men mentioned at hope channel. I want you to...but...you won't. Because you know these things would never be posted if there was any doubt about them. I have an idea where all your bitterness is coming from but even if I'm wrong, no matter. As long as you don't back up any of your allegations from a source other than the master puppeteer, you have no right to continue your tongue attack. That is all it is. Now can't wait to read your next post to see how you pass over the facts that I would like you to verify for yourself. I won't hold my breath.

lan, I worry about you. you get upset so easily. you assume that people don't know how to pick up a hone and check, you assume that these people here are like the crowd you talk to that keep sending ou money, that just take what YOU have to say and don't so their own checking (that means like ible study, cross reference, get ALL the facts).
really don't think you want me to call anyone. But no worries, I do use my phone quite often.

am not a counselor, but I do deal with hurting people. If someone asked me if I had talked to so- nd-so, I would tell them that my ethics requires that I not answer such a question. I was not aware hat Mark Finley was a licensed counselor, but even as a pastor, I do not believe that he would be equired to answer such a question.

lease remember that we do not have access to the accounting department that you apparently have. TW (By the way), I was surprised that there are receipts for counseling done by John L. I was not ware that pastors could charge extra for counseling.

Yohann, again.

Both Bystander and WWJD have the same, identical spelling problem. Are they copying from the same notepad? They haven't figured out how to spell Johann?

Brandy's divorce became final October 14, 2004. This is a matter of public record. You do not file for divorce and have it finalized the same day so how may weeks or months before it became final did she file? Why did she file for divorce? And if the November date is accurate, she was very newly divorced. If she came earlier, was she still married? She may or may not have officially moved there in November, but did she show up unofficially earlier? How does wwjd determine the November 11th date? How do you determine if you are "officially" dating?

Okay, "WWJD" if you have paperwork to prove Darrell's "upgrades" show them here. In other words, we would need to see a room reserved at a Comfort Hotel, cancelled the same day and then a new reservation at a 4 star hotel made the same day as an upgrade. Same thing should apply from the car rental agency--and in case you're not clear about that let me spell it out: Paperwork should show an economy car rental and an upgrade to a convertable on the same order. Can you give us that? If you have such paperwork, scan them here. Otherwise what you are saying is basically....um....NOTHING!

Otherwise when they are attacked for ridiculous statements or questions and then they cry "foul" and protest that they are being attacked for just asking questions.....it won't play. I would be curious how many posts are made by frequent established posters in reaction to statements made by people who have been members less than 72 hours? Wading through such posts is both time consuming and wearisome. This is especially true when a topic gets highjacked by such posts and completely off topic. What is wrong with this picture???? He is hinting that Derrell has "a problem" and was fired for that reason. Why wasn't Tommy fired for his "problem"?

Sorry, I am not convinced:)

I did a fair amont of traveling last September. We were able to upgrade (there were three of us and lots of luggage) for as little as $1.00 to $2.00 per day. In some cases an upgrade cost us exactly the same.

Looks to me like you are making a mountain out of a mole hill.

Business does not fire an employee for spending more on a hotel room than management wanted. It simplly requires the employee to pay the difference. I travel for the Federal government. If I go over the established budget, I pay for that overage. It is my choice as to what I do.

It is the same for me with air travel. I can fly at any class that I want. But, the government is not going to pay me to fly First Class. So, if I do, I pay the difference.

As to the length of time it took for the accounting department to catch on: Well that simply raises questions about that department. If I exceeed my budgeted amount for a travel expense, it will immediately be caught. I will be only paid the budgeted amounts. I know, because I have had some of my expense claims denied. That is the way that it works in business and in the government.

Again you misquote. I was the one who recently referred to Danny's divorce and remarriage. And I specifically referred to the date that the divorce was declared legal in Illinois. Danny married Brandi within days of that date. I was not referring to the date of the original Guam divorce. Thus my statement was fully accurate.

Greg, DM never paid the difference. There would have been no problem if he had. The bills show it was a lot more that 1 or 2 dollars a day difference. A lot more. Or again, nothing would have been said. And as stated that was one of several reasons.

And I can think of some good reasons to upgrade if a person is not small size. My husband is tall, and many car models and economy seats in air lines just do not work well for him. Indeed.

And, by the way, there is no reason to bring Derrel's private affairs into this forum. They have nothing to do with 3ABN and Calvin has clearly stated that we are not to drag extended family members into this when it has nothing to do with 3ABN.

Thanks you Inga for pointing this out. Derrell is not a public figure in this saga, he deserves his privacy. Unless Derrell, you want to bring it up here then that would put the subject in play. I believe he has not.

They are contracted to avoid paying any benefits to that person. The employee gets a 1099 and has to pay self employment tax. Yep, the contracted person has to pay 100% of the Social Security. Normally an employer has to pay half. No unemployment insurance is paid by the contracting company. No Medical, Dental or life insurance. Not even any profit sharing or retirement.

> The comment "So instead of just hiring him as an employee, they contracted him out," has me puzzled. How can you contract out someone that isn't yours to contract out? Maybe it is just the way it was said. Did you mean he was a subcontractor? I can see that in some circumstances.

WWJD continues:

That way, if, anything happened they could not be held responsible. That was then, I have no idea what the arrangement is now.

The second reason (and there is paperwork to prove it) is that when he traveled for 3ABN.

A. If an economy car was reserved for him at the airport, he would, shall we say, upgrade to something a little snazzier like a convertible.
B. If his room was reserved at the comfort Inn he would "upgrade" to a 4 star hotel....ALL without permission from management. It was a little bit before the accounting department caught what was happening.

Fran's Opinion:

This rests in the lap of the CFO. The Payables Department needs to be revamped to follow GAAP. Someone was not following procedures or there are no clear cut procedures to follow.

Normal procedures would state that a Purchase Order be prepared for everything. This would even mean for traveling. There is a need travel, lodging, transportation and per diem (food) can be processed in several ways.

1. The person needing to travel, at 3ABN's expense, produces a Purchase Order (PO) stating where they are going and the times they need to travel and turns it in. Management approves/disapproves the travel. The purchasing department then books the arrangements/reservations and puts the quoted price on to the PO. This is the approved amount that will be paid/reimbursed; no less, and no more.
2. Many corporations have turned to corporate credit cards. If 3ABN pays the approved amounts to the vendor, there will never be any black holes. The traveler will be responsible for any upgrades desired right then and there.
3. Remember this, if a door is left open, someone WILL walk through it. It happens every time!

I have other questions. What was D allowed to do before the divorce? Were all of the expected changes outlined to D after the divorce?

WWJD continues:

I could go farther but I won't. That should be enough for reasonable people to question the fact that D. says he was fired because he "supported" Linda.

And, you know what else; none of this hasn't been told and wouldn't have been if again, the members here demand details/proof. Any statements made by me tonight can all be verified with paperwork.

Fran:

I am confused. "And, you know what else; none of this hasn't been told and wouldn't have been if again, the members here demand details/proof."

Should it really be read as this: "You know what else; none of this [has] been told [before] and wouldn't have been [now] if [] the members here [had not] demand[ed] details/proof [again]."?

I clearly can see you are not Danny. However, we know you are very close. God bless you 'mm ... I wonder if others would be fired for the same reasons ... i.e. for spending more money than ecessary. Do the same standards apply to Danny, for instance? Does Danny travel in the most conomical manner feasible?

nd, by the way, I have no reason to doubt that what you say about Derrell is true. He confessed to eing sucked into the extravagant lifestyle of a certain echelon at 3ABN. Does make you wonder doesn't it? A worker gets fired for ungrading from a economy to one more to his liking while the boss travels around in a 6 million dollar luxury jet, (that holds the same amount of passengers as a minivan). Oh ya, that's right Danny doesn't own the jet so that makes everything hunky dory.

You honed in on one thing and just to be clear. No employee of a company can up grade several hundreds of dollars worth over a period of time without PERMISSION from the employer.
You ignored what was said was the major problem, and ignored that there were several more problems besides.

I must say this: how many ceo's of an organization that travel as extensively as 3abn don't lease a jet. Danny and 3abn did travel commercial for years and years and still do overseas. Linda rode on that plane for several years and pushed as much or more than anyone to make their travel a little easier, but I have yet to hear a comment about that. It's funny that the jet setter picture wasn't painted until after the divorce then all of these rumors about hob knobbing on a jet. mmm wonder where they came from? As long as she was on it you never heard a minute of complaint.

Linda rode on that plane for several years and pushed as much or more than anyone to make their travel a little easier, but I have yet to hear a comment about that. It's funny that the jet setter picture wasn't painted until after the divorce then all of these rumors about hob knobbing on a jet. mmm wonder where they came from? As long as she was on it you never heard a minute of complaint.

Let's narrow the field to religious ministries or non-profit organizations, of which 3ABN is purported to be, rather than privately owned companies. This gives quite a different paradigm than the one you are spinning. Let me give an example to consider, the Seventh-day Adventist church: Does the president of the Seventh-day Adventist Church, who travels travels more extensively than Danny Shelton, lease a private jet? Of course not. The expense would not be justifiable. Is it justifiable for Danny Shelton? No. Of course not.

You claim it was Linda who pushed for the jet, with which I disagree. And if it were true, as you claimed, than why didn't Danny get rid of the jet at the same time he was getting rid of his wife?

He had no problem sacking his wife, but it appears the luxury of a jet gassed up and waiting for him in Marion is quite another story. Of course the jet makes it much easier for Dan to make quick trips to Utah to watch his favorite basketball team in person, all on the donor's dime...

I thought that ADVENTIST TODAY first raised this issue. I thought that it did so prior to the divorce. Please correct me if I am wrong.

Incorrect.

In government and business the employee who upgrades without permission pays for the extra charge. That employee is not fired. The details as to how the employee pays for the extra charge vary according to the rules of the organizaton. But, the result is the same. The employee pays.

Since you of "Danny's team" made the comparison with "pastors," I figure it's fair to extend it

Members of the GC executive likely do just as much, if not more extensive traveling -- if not individually, then as a group -- and they do not lease a private jet.

Of course, it's different for "CEO's of businesses," but 3ABN claims to be a ministry!

As to your other question -- I suppose you're correct in that none of this might have come up at this time if it hadn't been for Danny's booting of Linda. He started the ball rolling with a good hard kick.

Danny makes no attempt to hide fact that he uses the jet. My mother told me that he addressed it publicly at his campmeeting. If the donors don't have a problem with it, then way should any of us? Stop or don't start giving money to 3abn if you have a problem with it.

Calvin,

I agree with on the plane issue, I personally do not understand the big deal about, but then again none of my money is being used on the plane either.

Good question. The fact that Danny didn't get rid of the jet the same time as he got rid of Linda demonstrates that blaming Linda for the jet is false.

I wonder how many other unjustifiable trips go on the donor's dime?

Is it justifiable to fly the jet to California for a dentist's appointment?

Is it justifiable to fly the jet to impress ah ... "business associates"?

Is it justificable to fly the jet to go shopping in some larger urban center than the nearest towns?

Is it justifiable to fly the jet to entertainment venues?

Just wondering. ... Maybe it is all justifiable because Danny is entitled to such perks, unlike the leadership in our church or those in supporting ministries. (I was going to write other supporting ministries but I personally doubt that 3ABN is currently a supporting ministry. Others may have a different opinion.)

I asked bystander=wwjd=ds what that cost was a month that these supposed "donors" have to pay for such a plane (total espenses). I'm sure this is documented somewhere how the cost is covered? The IRS would certainly want to know as well. I mean, if we are talking in the thousands each month, what donor or two would put out such an amount of money for a plane? Can that be legally donated without any cost to the organization it's "donating" it to? But, since I have not gotten the answer to that question, along with my others in the past couple weeks that have not been answered, I am thinking I probably won't get the info straight from horses mouth.

There are documents on the internet already at http://www.save.3abn.com. Which ones of these do you consider as forged documents? Please give the URL of each one that you consider forged. That way we can decide for ourselves. I am not interested in any documents that have not been posted.

Once you have them posted, I am hoping we can get back and discuss the fantastic post that Barbara Kerr sent.

I will address 3 things. First of all I said Linda pushed or was for the idea of a plane as much or more than anyone. I did not say it was just for Linda.

You seem to know so many details, what is your source? Whoever it is is repeatedly telling you a small part of truth, but then leaving out the rest of the story that makes all the difference.
The truth is the trip to Utah was a usual 3abn Sabbath trip. Meaning 3abn had the services. Since they were there anyway, they did attend a game, at no cost, that evening because the jazz coach is a personal friend of Danny's. He lives in the same area.
Now that piece of information puts a whole different light on the story.
Sister it is easy for you or whoever feeds you to twist everything by not giving the whole truth.
The shame is, that you are willingly doing it whether, for yourself, or someone else.
I have read so many of your posts where you have done this exact same thing but I don't have time to go back and clean all those messes up. That is the "whole" truth.

WWJD,

The plane thing is sillyness, but since you mention it so much what would Jesus Do? walk i think?

Just a little humor for you.

Secondly, what the sports thing bothers me personally on a vastly different level, but i am not going to get into that on this topic.

The plane is most likely a good Idea but is it really saving money?

Thank you for the added details that make things a little clearer,

How some added details that will make the reason why in 2003 and 2007 3abn felt the best way to handle the Tommy S. problem was a letter from a lawyer, how some details that will make Tommy's actions look better?

I can personally think of one or two.

I'm just wondering if those donors are the same ones that made the donations to 3ABN go up (according to Danny) since Linda was fired. Many of us have thought so, since the word in the pews is that many have started to have reservations about donating to 3ABN since Linda was fired.

It's relatively easy for a couple deep-pocketed donors to make up for thousands of small donations -- you know the "insignificant" regular $10.00 and $100.00 kind. As long as Dan has those donors to whom $2,000.00 is small change, he probably doesn't care about all those little old ladies who faithfully sent in their donations to 3ABN each month. The question is whether those big donors are willing to donate extra in the long run in the face of continuing revelations of corruption and doctrinal aberrations.

Hi Everyone,

It's Sunday evening here and I thought I would write you all a little note. The sun actually came out today for about three hours, so I took advantage of the blue skies and took my hour and a half walk to the lake and back.

Is there a way to post a picture inside one of these messages? If so, I would be happy to share a picture or two of my adventures here in Norway.

The temperature hovered between 9 & 14 degrees F today. I'm still trying to adjust to breathing in this ice cold air. Half way through my walk I realized that the pop-top on my water bottle was frozen, so I had to unscrew the lid to get a drink. I almost laughted when I realized the water inside had already formed ice crystals. I can honestly say this has never happened to me in South Carolina!

I made my way to the clinic at 3p.m. to be tested. Peter Larson, the Swedish Olympic Cross-Country Skier was also there receiving a treatment. We visited for about 30 minutes while our I.V.'s ran, and this time I was smart enough to ask him for his autograph. He gave me four signed picture cards. Tomorrow he heads off to China for a big race and then Japan next week for a World Championship. If any of you happen to catch the races, be sure to root for him. He's a great guy.

My test results were very good! My candida (yeast) problem that I have struggled with for years, is FINALLY coming under control. For the past five days I have not had to take a single supplement for my candida. I usually swallow handfuls of garlic and pau d' arco capsules everyday. For five years now, I have been tormented with this unrelenting problem. I REALLY NEVER THOUGHT IT COULD BE KILLED COMPLETELY! I'm beginning to have hope for this as well.

The candida die-off symptoms have been much harder to deal with than killing the cancer cells! For two weeks I had headaches and muscle aches everyday. I have felt pretty decent the last several days now. PTL

I'm looking forward to Thursday this week, as my husband will fly over and join me for two weeks. If I'm completely well by the end of the month, I will fly home with him on the 28th. I miss him terribly.

Tomorrow evening I will be teaching a cooking class for a few ladies I met at Abrahamsen's clinic. One of them had overheard me telling someone that I am a vegetarian cook, so they asked if I would teach them how to do it. To be honest, I'm really struggling with what to make them tomorrow. Most every recipe calls for something they don't have in this country. I never realized how much easier the ToFutti company had made my life! rofl I think I'm leaning towards the Chili recipe in volume two. Did you know Norwegians have never heard of cornbread? I was pretty excited when I found soya-whipped cream in a can, though. Ah, the little things in life.

I'd like to share a little story with you about how I came to be friends with Darrell Mundall and why I like him so much.

I hadn't been cooking at 3ABN long, when this tall skinny fellow came into the kitchen upstairs where I worked. It was break time and Darrell was searching for something feverishly in the refrigerator. (Whenever I was there cooking, the refrigerator was rearranged and looked about to burst.)

When Darrell finally came up for air, he sighed with delight at finding his Philadelphia Cheesecake Snack. We began talking as he ate, and I couldn't help but notice his passion for food. He described in vivid detail, every gourmet dish he had eaten for dinner the night before. I laughed at his lengthy description of each and every morsel. When he had finished I was truly sorry to see him go. It's not everyday you meet someone with such a passion for food, and flavor, as Darrell.

I liked him immediately and I'm happy that he is still one of my friends. I always enjoy talking with him and I miss seeing him walk into the kitchen for his break. Darrell is a genuinely NICE guy and he doesn't deserve all the flak he has gotten from his ex-family. He's funny and incredibly smart, too! All of us need to remember Darrell in our prayers. I know this time has been hard on him, and I just really think we need to lift him up everyday. Darrell, . . . I think you're a great guy, and I'm happy you are one of my friends!

Well, I suppose I had better go and work on what I'm going to do for my cooking class tomorrow.

Hugs to all of you, and a big thank you for all the sweet messages you have sent to me. Remember to take time to tell someone that you love them today.

Your Friend,
Barbara Kerr

Oh let me guess, Danny/3abn is excluded from that suggestion. You have went to far in making your Insignificant 10.00 and little old lady statements. 3abn has survived all of these years because of those sacrifices. When they were existing from week to week not knowing if they could meet any expenses, it was the " little old ladies that kept 3abn going and it continues to be so to this day. They are extremely fortunate that they have some monied people that can step in at times and help out, but it is the mainstream people that willingly give that keeps 3abn running.

> You are showing your true colors now, with some of these statements. Bringing up Gailon's supposed 2,000 because it was said he gave a "small amount" of money is again, a "sister" tactic. You just tell a little part and leave out the rest which turns the story completely around.
> How much Gailon did or did not give was not an issue until he made it so. He said he had given and raised substantial amounts of money for 3abn. Some just wanted to verify that statement, but, as posted, records shown it was a small amount was given under his name. No where near the 2,000.00 he NOW says was given and also says that "however" it was given HE CAN'T PROVE IT. If records only show a small amount then that is all 3abn can go on, is it not. If he can't prove he gave 2,000 how can they. The amount shown that he did give, of course, was appreciated. Any amount is appreciated, but he is the one that started the "large sums" of money on his site so why not verify?

he statments are not different, they are the same. To me, donor and supporter are the same. The acts are the same. The plane is leased, 3abn does not own it, and one or 2 donor/supporters take are of it. There are nothing contradictory about those statements.

nd yes, The IRS statements are ridiculous because you think such things are not taken care of in this orld wide organization, like, they didn't think of it but you did.

Danny shouldn't have to be compared with pastors. It was some of you that tried to start that a long time ago. Again, Inga, plant the seed of insinuation. What came first the game or church. Again, ridiculous. The 3abn trips are planned months in advance by the Marketing and PR departments. Now when THEY scheduled it do you think they looked to see if there was a game that particular night that Danny might like to see? Get a grip. I happen to know that unless it is an international trip he usually has no idea where he is scheduled to go up until his secretary or GM tell him 4 or 5 days before the event.
Inga your subtle suggestions have become accusations. Your hints of wrongdoing have become seeds of innuendo. It is clear to me and others that hints, innuendo, what if's and accusations are only used when one can't back up anything, that one is saying.

Where do you plan to build the studio? South Carolina?

I found an interesting site, Barb.

Your simplicity on the subject is beautiful. Since the plane is taken care of by 1 or 2 people that can afford to, no more needs to be said about the struggling "little old ladies" that Inga refers to sending in their money to pay for a plane.

I was thinking about putting the studio near some location centrally located.

What do you think? ☒ hat a wonderful post, Barbara. It is so good to hear from you and hear that you are doing so well. -- nd From Norway! Oh how I wish i were there. Have you gotten your tongue around any of the orwegian words yet? 12 degrees F here in Alberta, Canada.

s there anything that we can do for candida in this country as I have a friend that is in terrible shape ith it. If so, pleas PM me.

nd I loved to hear about Derrell and his enjoyment of food. We had a student staying with us that as six foot four. He was always hungry!

o have a great evening and I am looking forward to hearing from you soon. My father was born in ergen and Mendal sure sounds familiar. If you have a good map, you might even find Seland. It's orth of the junction of 42 and 466.

ou twisted my comment into a totally different meaning. That comment was not in reference to the lane!

y comment re the little old ladies was in reference to how Danny appears to value contributions. And this was after I asked whether increased contributions from these "1 or 2 people" (Why don't you know whether it is 1 or two, since you know so much?) accounted for the purported increase of donations to 3ABN, as reported by Danny.

As I said, the word in the pews does not support the idea of increased donations from ordinary people. But the, I guess those don't matter much to Danny.

Posted by: Uncle Sam Feb 11 2007, 03:32 PM

From the talk in the pews from the churches in my area...the donations are stopping. Too many people are questioning what is going on. The people I know have no idea about what is on the web sites, it is all from what is being said on the "live" programs....

The same words come from you. I guess and it seems like and I heard and it appears. In this short little post you say: how danny "appears" to value..... The "word" is.....I "guess" those don't matter....

As usual wrong on counts of what you think. When you say Word in the pews is....How many pews in how many different areas have you been to. Funny Uncle Sam used that exact same phrase....As I said to him, the pews you have been in hardly reflect the support that comes from around the world. So don't get too excited yet Inga. Word is, that 3abn is still thriving. It appears that you don't like that. I guess that you don't care about all of the people that have become Adventist through watching 3abn. Seems like you are getting faulty information.

Barbara,

Thanks for your comments about your day there. I hope your post along with those of us that have responded will get and keep this thread back on track.

By the time you read this, you probably have had your cooking school. Can you tell us how it went and what you made?

Also, when you get a chance, tell us more about your vision for the cooking studio. I have been fortunate to take some cooking classes in NY at the natural gourmet institute. Have you ever considered talking to them about being a guest instructor?

Hi Everyone,

What a joy it was to read all of your lovely comments tonight when I got back to my apartment! Thank you for all of your great ideas. Panama Pete, I will try to go online tomorrow and check out some of those websites you recommended.

I actually drew up plans to build a studio on our property in August of 2005. That was when we started the paperwork to become non-profit. Everything just costs sooooo much money, though. To build, equip, and run a studio will cost approximately one million dollars. My husband and I have been over every possible scenario. Some have suggested that I travel by plane and tape programs in their studios.

The problem for me trying to put together a series of cooking shows and travelling, is just how difficult it is to cart food and dishes, etcetera, to another state. The planning is simply a nightmare. Lately, I've been leaning towards the idea of expanding my own kitchen and dining room by 20 or 25 feet. I could push out one wall and totally renovate the kitchen to function as a cooking studio. I could also build a small master control room in the added space.

By building the studio into my existing home, I save money by not having to stock a new kitchen with dishes and cooking equipment, as I already own most things needed, and I save by not having to heat and aircondition a separate building. I could rent or lease camera equipment in the beginning, and, . . . and, . . .and, . . . I just get so excited when I start thinking about producing shows again. Please join me in making this a matter of prayer. I want to do what God wants me to do.

Two days ago, I received ANOTHER email from someone in India. They have been asking and asking, for several months now, to air my cooking programs on cable T.V. They want the health message. I have also been contacted by some men starting a Christian station in China. China is just now starting to open their doors to Christianity, but they want to proceed cautiously, and they contacted me to see if they could air my cooking programs to help pave the way for the gospel message.

DO YOU KNOW HOW MUCH IT BREAKS MY HEART TO TELL THESE PEOPLE THAT I HAVE NO RIGHTS TO AIR MY OWN PROGRAMS?! THAT 3ABN REFUSES TO DONATE MY VIDEOS, AND THE RIGHTS TO USE THEM, TO MY MINISTRY? I FEEL LIKE MOSES STANDING BEFORE PHARAOH EVERY TIME I ASK DANNY TO LET MY VIDEOS GO. He either completely ignores my question or he says 'no'.

I came to the conclusion several months back that it is not my job to persuade Danny to donate my videos, that is God's job. God is in control and if I am to have them, then it will happen. His timing is always perfect, . . . even if it is in the eleventh hour!

When I arrived at the clinic this morning, I was told it was going to snow for the next three days. I smiled. I decided to take my walk this morning, as I knew I would be shopping for the cooking class in the afternoon. I didn't have time to walk all the way to the lake today, so I wandered down a quiet road instead. I watched the snow as it drifted slowly to the earth. It moves this way, and that, as if it were all part of a grand ballroom dance. It's dark outside now, but I can still see flakes falling under the street lights outside my window. The little wooded area I walk through each morning reminds me of the forest in Narnia.

I decided to teach the ladies how to make Chili and Cornbread tonight (cowboy food as they called it). I also decided to make the Peanut Butter Pie, an Asian Salad (just made that one up 2 weeks ago), and Sesame Fried Tofu.

They had never eaten tofu before, and after looking for more than an hour downtown Moss, I was beginning to wonder if I would be able to find it. We finally stumbled upon an International Market, and they had silken and extra-firm tofu.

We had soooo much fun cooking together in Lisa's kitchen. There were four of us all together. Everyone had their own little assignments, but we helped each other and I was able to share some of the benefits of living a vegetarian lifestyle. The ladies devoured the food. They were most surprised by how good the sesame fried tofu tasted. It was a lot of fun. Now Bill will have to bring cookbooks with him when he arrives this week. All of the women wanted to buy American measuring cups and spoons as well. Who knows, maybe there is another business for me after all! lol

All in all, it was a great day. I enjoyed my divine appointment and pray that God will keep sending them to me.

Thank you for your continued prayers and support. I will try to post a letter every day or so to keep you up-to-date on what's happening at this end of the world.

Blessings,
Barbara Kerr

Barbara,
Your adventure in Norway sounds wonderful! I am so glad that you are receiving both physical and spiritual refreshing.

Although I do not know you and have only seen one or two of your 3abn cooking shows I feel that you are a kindred spirit. I transitioned (abruptly/immediatley LOL) to a plant based diet in 2005 and have had so much fun developing recipes ever since. Yours sound delicious. Guess I'll have to look into adding your cookbook into my collection!

Have you ever thought of trying to get onto Extreme Home Makeover? I've seen them make a beautiful catering kitchen for a woman and her family before. I suppose that would only work if you had a problem residence though. Well, it was just a thought.

Barbara,

How great to hear that your cooking class went so well. However, I am very disappointed to learn that you have been unsuccessful in getting a response from 3ABN regarding whether or not they will release the tapes of your cooking classes to you.

I wonder if there is anything we can do on your behalf. I wonder if anyone here at BlackSDA or other non-registered readers would we willing to use their contacts to question why 3ABN is failing to allow you to use the tapes they will never use to take your message internationally.

Maybe we should also try an email or letter writing campaign to the board members and make calls. Do you maintain an email list of people that are interested in your work? Have you thought about a petition signed by a few hundred people on your behalf? I can't imagine that some of the major supporters of 3ABN would understand why the tapes should not be released.

I remember reading this weekend a post where the poster complained that not enough is happening to change anything. Maybe we could in a tangible and positive way.

Does any one have any other ideas?

How about some sisters (and a few brothers) helping a sister...... ☒ gir here are a couple of important questions here:

) Did Barbara have a written contract with 3-ABN in regard to her programs? If so, what did it say in egard to ownership of the programs?

) Was Barbara compensated in any way for her programs? If she was, it is likely that 3-ABN owns hose programs, and can do as it jolly well as it pleases.

) If Barbara was not compensated in any way, and there is no written contract which provides for 3-BN to own those programs, then Barbara may (?) have ownership rights to those programs. lowever, that is ownership of content. 3-ABN still might have ownership rights to the physical tape ipon which that content resides.

) If it could be determined that Barbara has ownership rights to the content, she could attempt to orce 3-ABN to allow those programs to be duplicated onto tape owned by her, for a fee, of course, ind assumning that 3-ABN has not destroyed the physical tape which they may own.

his may be complex.

-ABN just maybe within their legal rights? If so, and they remain firm, Barbara is quite limited as to vhat she can do.

)f course, can you immagine the public relations bonus for 3-ABN if Bystander or WWJD were to post he following here in BSDA, tomorrow: "I have checked with 3-ABN and I am informed that they plan ransfer to Barbara copies of her programs, along with full rights to use them as she pleases. 3-ABN hanks Barbara for the contributions she made to our programing and wishes her well."

uch a statement would go a long ways to conuteract some of the negative publicity that 3-ABN ecieves.

Vill 3-ABN do such? Keep posted. This discussion will continue, until they do.

WJD: You seem to have missed the point again. I am not giving 3-ABN any advice. I am telling eople here that 3-ABN may have a legal right to refuse to provide Barbara with copies of her rograms. I am also making a public statement that it would be a clear positive step in public relations s 3-ABN would do so.

hank you for taking the time to post in this thread.

IMO observer was trying to provide anyone interested in this topic with some information about possible issues surrounding the ownership of the tapes.

You would be better served to refrain from sarcasm and give us your opinion on whether you see any benefit to 3abn in keeping the cooking tapes or whether you agree with observer's comments about the great PR that could enure to the benefit of 3abn if they were to donate them to Ms. Kerr so she could continue to take her ministry of the health message to those that are requesting it.

Give an opinion and don't attack the poster please.

nw

Also, as you have indicated that you have information on many of the topics discussed in the 3ABN section here at BlackSDA, can you tell us if Ms. Kerr has ever received an official answer to her request after all this time, and if not, why has she not been given one?

Hi Everyone,
This will be short as it is extremely late here in Norway and I need to get to bed. I can maybe give a more detailed answer tomorrow.

In regards to my tapes:
1) I did have a generic written contract with 3ABN in regards to my tapes. Because 3ABN Presents was their 'flagship' program as they called it, ONLY 3ABN could have rights to ownership with those shows. I signed one contract when I first began taping in 1997, and then refused to sign any more contracts regarding ownership, until they forced me to in 2003.

*Every guest that goes to 3ABN is sent a packet with questions and guidelines. You are asked to fill out the paperwork, sign the contract, and return it to the office prior to taping. After my first visit, I would just show up without signing anything and taped my programs.

Finally in the Summer or Fall of 2003, they cornered me, and told me that if I didn't sign the contract, that they would no longer air any of my programs and I would not be invited back as a guest ever again. I signed the contract under protest, but I did sign it -- one more time.

2) I was NOT compensated in any way for creating recipes and taping programs for them. Twice I was given a love offering of $150. It was either the second or third year that I taped there. Once I was given an ink pen as a Christmas gift with 3ABN's name on it.

I was asked to create and tape programs there approximately every other month, all year long. It was like a full time job. I learned a lot at 3ABN and my deadlines caused me to put my cookbooks together. (Taste Of Health, Volumes 1 & 2) I am very grateful for all of the hands-on training I received. I am especially grateful to Bobby Davis who is an outstanding producer and good friend.

I worked for free for seven years. I loved helping others, and I had promised God that that is what I would do for the rest of my life. It was a labor of love and came with its own rewards. Rewards that I tell people, 'are out of this world'! The sale of my cookbooks has been the only means of income to my ministry. www.tasteofhealth.net

3) I have always known that 3ABN would have the rights to my programs. That's the way the cookie crumbles! But everything changed in 2004 when I asked Dan (and Linda) tough questions.

When my cooking programs were suddenly not of any use to 3ABN or Danny, just because Linda appeared on them, it was as if my ministry disappeared over night. In my opinion, their divorce wasn't a good enough reason for the health message I had worked so hard to bring to the world, to suddenly be disposed of.

I personally feel like the Shelton's divorce, and Danny's dislike of me because I refused to turn my back on my friend, IS NOT A GOOD ENOUGH REASON TO LOCK UP SEVEN YEARS WORTH OF HARD WORK! If 3ABN no longer has use for the tapes, then why not let me have the rights and use of my programs? The Lord is the one that called me to labor in this field. He is my master, my friend and my defender.

It just seems to me, that if 3ABN and I are REALLY working on the same side (to win souls to the kingdom), and they have no more use for the programs, then they shouldn't have a problem AT ALL with allowing me the use of these shows to win souls in India and China, and wherever God leads me.

Please feel free to contact the board members, have petitions signed by church members and sent to 3ABN, start an email campaign. Just do whatever it is that God impresses you to do. Every letter, and every prayer sent up to our Father in Heaven helps!

God bless and thanks for rallying behind me.

Sleep tight. Barbara Kerr

Barbara I am so glad that you are getting treatment. Tell me how did you get into see the doctor so fast? Johann said there was a years waiting list. I wish Johann's wife would have gotten the success that you are getting. Is this the same treatment that the Doc gave his wife, I understand that she had cancer also?

Glenetta, I hope you are not saying what I think you're saying. (or insinuating)

Glenetta, if you have read Barbara's previous posts, you will recall this treatment is a VERY recent discovery and Barbara is only the third patient that has received it. Obviously this treatment was not available at the time that Johann's wife was in the final stages of cancer. This procedure is still in the early research stages. Praise God for the opportunity that He gave Barbara to be a research subject.

How is that relevant to the discussion of the tapes? No... wait... lemme guess... Johann and Linda must have conspired to get her in, possibly ahead of people who had been waiting months?

Linda Shelton encouraged me to see the Norwegian doctor (Arild Abrahamsen) that had treated her son. They call him the Miracle Doctor here in Norway. He also treats many famous European athletes from every sport imaginable. Just Wednesday I was sitting next to two young men from Sweden that were Olympic cross country skiers. One was named Peter Larson and the other Mat (something). I asked them all kinds of questions about what it's really like to train for the Olympics everyday. I also asked them why they come here. They smiled and said that no matter what their problem, virus or broken bone, the healing time with this treatment was less than half and they couldn't afford downtime.

The Swedish Olympic trainer came to see Dr. Abrahamsen a few days ago and asked him if he would treat and monitor his entire team during training. Dr. Abrahamsen is so swamped with patients, he has a one-year waiting list to be seen as a new patient. He's not even sure he will take on the Olympic cross-country ski team.

I decided at Linda's prompting to go to Norway before undergoing the knife. There are several reasons why I came to this doctor to be treated, but honestly, at the end of the day the entire thing was one great, big, divine appointment.

Dr. Abrahamsen (a general practice doc for 30+ years) got tired of treating sickness and wanted to be a wellness doc. About 15 years ago he was trained with new technology. He was also a friend of a friend. I had never met him before and was actually a bit leery of him.

At the exact same time I was really feeling sick and starting to go see specialists (oct/nov), Abrahamsen came across a newspaper article written by researchers stating that they had found an enzyme that was present in every cancer cell, no matter the type of cancer. The enzyme is called `CASPASE - 3`. Anyways, the scientists speculated that if they could find a way to activate this de-activated enzyme, they thought the body would rid itself of cancer.

Doctor Abrahamsen completely agreed. He immediately set to work, and within a short period of time, he found a combination of remedies that would activate the enzyme.

This doctor's brother has had Hogkins or non-hogkins for 3 or 4 years now. He was one of the first people treated in November. After one week of treatment he was cancer free. I know of one more patient, a lady who came to him with bloody discharge from her breast and breast cancer. She was cancer free after 6 treatments.

The theory the scientists came up with seems to work! Only no one knows about this discovery yet because it's still so new.

I am the third person (in the world) that has received this therapy. The really great thing is that it's not drugs like chemo and radiation. I feel so much better too! And I get to keep my red hair and my immune system gets stronger, not weaker.

Last week I asked the doc if he was excited about this discovery and what it could mean to the world? He said it was much too early to be excited about it, because it would require a lot more testing on patients with different kinds of cancer to see how it would work. He also didn't think it would work well on patients with brain tumors, due to the blood-brain-barrier, but he hasn't treated anyone with a brain tumor yet to see how they respond to it. He won't be making any claims anytime soon. (Although I feel a Nobel Prize coming on - for him, not for me) LOL- laugh out loud
I personally think this discovery is exciting. I just want to burst with the news. To be honest though, I wasn't going to share this story with the public, because it was, once again, so personal. Then two days ago God really dealt with me harshly, and kept bringing me to Esther chapter 4, verse 14. ``For if you remain completely silent at this time, relief and deliverance will arise for the Jews from another place, but you and your father's house will perish. Yet who knows whether you have come to the kingdom for such a time as this?"

> I wasn't sure what to think of Arild Abrahamsen before I met him. I would liken Abrahamsen in character, to that of Mark Finley or Doug Bachelor! I'm not afraid of him anymore, or leery, . . . I'm proud to call him a friend, and consider him one of the greatest doctors I have had the privilege of meeting.

hope this answers your questions Glenetta. It would have been wonderful if Abrahamson would have iscovered this in time to cure Irmgard and his wife. Although, if I'm not mistaken, his wife died of a ung disease, not cancer. I would have to ask him to be sure.

hanks for joining us on the thread. Do you have any ideas regarding the tapes at 3ABN that feature arbara and she would like copies of? You clearly are familiar with her and her ministry.

I really think we should discuss how we can help her and your input would be appreciated.

Well, on the surface, it appears to me that 3-ABN owns the rights to Barbara's programs, and can do with them as it pleases.

However, that issues may be more complex than I understand. I believe there is a body of law that applies to programs produced for television, in regard to future useage by others. But, that is outside of my reading interests.

So, my only piece of advice is: Barbara, if you wish to learn what legal rights you have you should consult an attorney competent in this area of the law.

On the assumption that 3-ABN owns the rights, the issue now is: Does 3-ABN wish to score a major PR coup by releasing the tapes to Barbars at no charge?

will suggest that an accomadation could be reached, if Barbara and 3-ABN wanted to do so. That accomodation might be a statement added to each tape that gave credit to 3-ABN, and thanked 3-ABN for releasing its property to Barbara.

That would be a win, win, situation for all.

Hi Barbara,

I hope you had a good night's rest and are enjoying another beautiful day in Norway.

Whether or not you ever get those tapes back, the knowledge is in your head and what you did once, you will be able to do again.

For the moment, just concentrate on getting well and staying well. The rest will take care of itself in good time.

Blessings,
Ralph

Thank you Ralph and everyone! I needed to hear that today. Linda and I would love to tape programs together again and there is ALWAYS room for improvement.

Yesterday was a real attack day for me. I think something really big is getting ready to happen again. My day started when I woke up with an infection in one of my wisdom teeth, (yes I have such a big mouth I've never needed to have them out -- and don't forget all the extra wisdom I get from them). By noon, I had a full-blown, candida die-off infection. Shortly after lunch my computer crashed -- I couldn't even get it to turn off.

Then I received a care package from my best friend Claudia. (Remember her from the Food For Thought programs?) I really hadn't felt home-sick since arriving here, until I opened all of her little presents and read her Valentines card. After that, I just felt weepy for hours, and cried at the drop of a hat! Oh brother . . . girls!

I was really missing my girlfriends!!!! God is so good though. I got a call from my mom and we talked for a long time. She has been a constant source of encouragement while I've been here. Shortly after we hung up, my good friend called (she cleaned house for Mahamud Ali (sp?) for years). We talked for well over an hour laughing and getting all caught up. Thank you Then my dear sister Linda Shelton called me. I know we talked for over an hour. I cried on her shoulder, and she just encouraged me the entire time. She is so kind and I miss her to the moon and back.

So that was my day. I just kept praising God, even for the seemingly bad stuff. I learned a long time ago that God inhabits our praise.

Hugs to you all.

BlackSDA _ 3ABN _ The True Version Of 3abn

Posted by: Bystander Mar 17 2007, 09:31 PM

I will change my title due to those here who are distracting from the descrepencies in sisters version by arguing over who authorized it. The title is of no importance only the truth is.

I would like to take certain statments in the Unauthorized Version that are, let's say, less than truthful, and tell the real facts. For those of you who are determined to be against 3abn and DS, the facts won't make a difference to you, but they might to others who really do want truth. The unathorized version will be in red. The facts will be in blue.

Long ago when 3ABN started the founders were Danny, Linda and Kenny.

FACT. Officially, Danny & Kenny were the founder and cofounder. Danny was the president, Kenny was the vice president. At the time of the "well known" dream, Danny& Linda weren't married yet.

Danny kind of lets everyone assume that they are all Seventh-day Adventists...

FACT. They all are except for Tommy and that fact has never ever been hidden. In the years of traveling and playing for Danny and Linda, Danny nor Tommy ever tried to hide or insinuate that he was anything but a member of the church of god. People ask all the time and they were told.

Now that Linda is out of the picture, more of Danny's family are appearing on the air.

FACT. This statement actually has some merit. After Linda's departure,The family began to sing together some, when time allowed. They had not been able to do that since the very early years of 3abn. Why? Because certain people had jealousy issues with it. Many years of just some "down home" family music were lost because of it.

a call was placed to the board telling about an affair that Kenny had had a while before, Kenny was removed from his postion and no one was left in the way of Danny becoming the face, along with Linda, of 3ABN.

FACT. Kenny was not dismissed for any such reason. They were personal differences between Kenny & Danny while they were under the very stressful situation of getting 3abn off of the ground. Does it seem Linda perpetuated and enhanced those differences between brothers? Yes it certainly does. That speaks for itself in the very fact that Linda took Kenny's place as Vice President when her previous position had been a secretary and the writer of the first small newsletter.

Kenny tryed to build up his own ministry using the Herren church as his foundation

FACT. The town is spelled, Herrin and there was no church in Herrin at that time. In fact after passing out flyers and books for several months, Kenny held evangelistic meetings in the town of Herrin and those few babtisms that came out of those meetings were the beginning of the church and ministry. For quite some time, the little group rented a girl scout cabin in town to hold their sabbath services. Eventually the congregation grew and they purchased a mechanics garage and converted it, into a small church.

Soon he started taking over the local church and going in a direction that was not in line with the Conference.

FACT. My previous fact above would take in this false statement as well. Kenny started the Herrin Adventist church. He built the church from the ground up starting with about 6 members and eventually grew into about 120 member church. When they outgrew the little garage they built on a large sancutary and classrooms. The church members and the pastor paid for the church and all the rennovations. All of this had taken years of sacrifice and hard work. Once it was all done and the congregation there, the Conference decided they would take ownership of the church and send a conference pastor there. The conference had asked Kenny to become an ordained conference pastor and he refused. He felt he and God had raised up this church for a reason and he didn't eventually want to be moved from the area, as is the habit with conference pastors. The church had an open meeting, gave the conference official time to have his say and unanimously voted to stay as they were. The conference refused to listen and the next time a pastor was sent to the area churches, he was told to make the Behold the Lamb SDA church his own. He started showing up and insisting to take the pulpit. He was told kindly that wasn't going to happen. He then began coming to visit every week and would circulate at potluck asking people their names and addresses so, as their pastor, he could visit them. He was ask nicely to please stop this childish actions. He refused.
After enough commotion had been raised by him over several weeks, he was told that his actions were causing disturbance and hindering the spirit of the sabbath services so, he was no longer welcome to visit. He was back the next week. The elders met him at the door and told him enough was enough and refused him entrance into the church. He was never touched in any way.
Conclusion. They became an SDA independent church and ministry and continued to grow and flourish. At all times the church membership had full vote and full control as to the decicisions that were made.

A number of years later, Kenny and his wife divorced, but they did not want to loose the income from the ministry, so it was done very privately.

FACT.Sadly after 30+ years, Kenny and his wife were divorced. Doing so privately had nothing to do with "income" from the ministry as the Ministry was lucky most months to break even. They kept it private from the church for several months for 1 reason. To give their themselves and their children time to adjust without being in the public eye, and to show the church that they were capable of still working together for the cause, even with their personal differences.

Now that Linda is gone Tommy has the postion of producer at 3ABN. Kenny has joined the band wagon as well.

FACT. Kenny has joined no bandwagon. Without Linda in the picture Danny and Kenny were able to reconcile their, years earlier, differences and have a good relationship once again. Kenny joined some of the family music specials and was invited to speak at the 10 commandment weekend last year, which he did. That has been the extent of his involvement.

Molly's current position at 3ABN, since the demise of Linda: General Manager of 3ABN, member of the board of 3ABN, Danny's right hand.

FACT. Mollie was always Danny's right hand man whether in her position as executive assistant or General Manager. Linda's departure had no effect whatsoever on Mollie's position. I won't even address all the rest of the chapter concerning Mollie at this time. Why? Because there are too many falsehoods that would have to be clarified and would take more time than I have to devote to this right now. Hopefully I will be able to address it later.

About five to six years ago, Danny suddenly saw the need for a school on the 3ABN grounds. The timing just happened to be the same as his grandchilden were ready to begin school. Over the years there have always been school aged children belonging to the families of the 3ABN workers and the need for the school had always been there. But now it appeared for Danny that the time was over ripe.

FACT. When 3abn is still in it's infancy, they built a little one or 2 room school at the site of the original 3abn building. There weren't many workers at 3abn at that time, that had school age children. Even though parents at some of the local churches would have liked for their children to go no one wanted to drive that far everyday twice a day to take their children out there. As I said, it was early on, the budget was already squeezed to the limit and there just wasn't enough students to support it. They hoped in time, as the ministry grew, that they would be able to build a "real" school and eventually they did. The gym that sister mentions that was supposedly strictly for Danny, is the PE area and recess if the weather is bad. It is used for Skating on certain nights for anyone that wants to come and is also used for any fund raisers or special banquets for the school. They have mens basketball one night a week that is open to the public and there is still room for the players to bring their children to skate or ride on scooters at the same time. During campmeeting the gym serves as the cafeteria. There are also church and school socials held there, as well as 3abn's yearly day of prayer.

Now, I have addressed just a few of sister's fallicies or fantasies or whatever you want to call them and have given the true story. You all did not know who sisters was. But, you took what she wrote as truth and those topics have been discussed as fact all of these months. I would ask that you would give these truths the same consideration and that you would also plainly see, how bits and pieces of truth can change the whole story by either, adding things that didn't happen, or eliminating things that did.
I will address much more of this as time permits and hope and pray that you will see the false pattern that was established in the beginning and has been added to, ever since.

Lee,

On what basis have you decided that he has set this straight? Specifically, how were you able to research his information in a mere 11 minutes (the time span between his and your posts) and decided that his information was accurate? Doesn't your statement suggest that you aren't careful in making conclusions?

But I think he has made some interesting points that are useful to look at. For example, he asserts that Linda has never been a co-founder of 3ABN. Is that true? If it is, why does the following web page indicate otherwise? How did this alleged misinformation get put on this page? Was it put there by a friend or foe?

Go back to the unauthorized version. See the immediate responses made by the posters there to the stories that sister told. Do you get that? The Immediate responses. No one researched and "checked anything out" before they made their comments.

If people are accepting anyone's assertions, on either side, without documentation, that is a problem.

So what you are saying is that Danny established and founded 3ABN in the week or so between Nov. 14/15 and their wedding? That's a stretch.

People don't found things when they have a dream. They found things when the thing actually gets established.

No, there is no need to chill. You have had how long to vent your version of the last three years? Bystander has no need to step back and let you continue at will. He has truth to share and if it contradicts sister then you are the one who has to chill and consider that maybe you have been taken for a ride and feed a line.

PrincessDi, you have handled things in a very biased manner banning those who speak against sister, watchbird, johann, and Gailon's spokesperson Pickle, as well as Linda (as it is evident that information here could only have come through her - whether directly or through "channels"). You have allowed others to slander and malign individuals without a mention while shutting down others who have spoken against your personal position on the issues.

It is time for BSDA to live up to its claim to be a place where no one is silenced and all are allowed to present their information and personal evaluation of the events that have occurred over the years without being silenced. "IF' you believe that sister has fed you the unequivocal truth - then let it stand up to examination and challenge and see where things fall. Support those who are attempting to present another side of the story to do so without the harrasment that they have experienced. You can't hide behind a claim that they have been "unkind, unChristian" because all one has to do is go back and read the plethora of posts from watchbird, sister, Mr. J, PrincessDrRe, to see exactly what Bystander, Altheia, Lee, and WWJD have been accsued of. Is there balance here? I know that there has been from some admins, but not all.

Yes it does. I have often thought that one of you were her and her friend CC. (old maiden name). My correction on that garbage, was simplythat Kenny was dismissed for that reason. The end of story. The incident you refer to had happened years before. Was it brought back up again for certain purposes? I imagine so. Was he fired for something that had nothing to do with 3abn? No he wasn't.

Again though sonshineonme, like sister, you start naming names and/or bringing people up on the net that maybe wouldn't appreciate being there. If you are not her, do you have her permission to post on the net about her? She is not a public figure and deserves to be left alone. When you and sister and watchbird get angry you start firing off names with no regard to that persons feelings, or their families feelings. Extreme punishments for 30 year old mistakes when one was young and not thinking straight. Mistakes that have been forgiven and having nothing whatsoever to do with what is going on here, at present with 3abn. Not for my sake, not for 3abn's sake but for the sake of others that don't deserve this, you need to stop bringing names of private people here. In fact didn't calvin make that rule the no one in the limelight can be discussed or brought into this? Calvin, care to comment. To add to that there are also a good number of the Shelton family that are not in the limelight and Kenny is one of them. He doesn't work for 3abn nor does he have a program there. Accordingly he should be off limits also. Melody is off limits, kenny should be even more so.
Again, Calvin care to comment.

How many years before? When did Ronnie and Kathy split up?

And why did Goldie and Tammy leave with Kenny? Why did they side with Kenny?

Pickle--you were warned to leave the family out of this. Go get a grip--maybe go running to cool your jets. At least have some decency to leave the innocent ones ALONE.

Really? I haven't noticed you "correcting" any of the lindanites for reading, believing and baseing many things on the pinned threads. Why didn't you jump in months ago and tell everyone here that they were making a big mistake by believing such stories without documentation? Better yet, you might need to remind those that go to the pickle/joy site that even though there is some documentation, there are many parts that are edited out. That would put those documents and their meaning in question. Better not take those at face value either.
As I said before, across the board or not at all. I have nothing more to say to you. It appears by some of your recent posts that you are simply running out of things to say.

Lee, he is blatantly breaking the rules. Those named, once again, are not in the limelight and have nothing to do with the present situations and discussions. He has nothing better to do than to try and drag everbody and their brother on the net.

I don't recall receiving any such warning. Bystander was the one who brought this topic up, not me.

If Kenny had an affair with Chris, and Kathy before that, then I can't see how any of the three can be said to be innocent. Are you calling them innocent?

Rather than mention Ronnie's name, I guess I could have said Kathy's husband.

Not so fast... so you get to put stuff out there and then, by declaring it "off-limits", seek to squash any discussion or rebutting of said 'stuff'? If it was so off-limits, why are you talking about it?

If you truly believed it off-limits, the best way for you to keep it from being discussed would have been for you to not address it at all... but that just wouldn't be your style, would it...

I have to agree with Mr. J. You willingly open it up, slam away and then walk away and think that people don't know or need to more of the situation - is that how you like "truth" to be told? Without details and information that really tell the truth of the situation?? You should have given more thought to coming in after the past few days and putting your 'version' out - or was it your plan to set up the posters here by thinking that if those that know better dare share some facts, clarify and rebut what you say is FACT and that it will suddenly be shut down, untouched? This is the real world. You should pick your battles and not hang yourself so easily.

Mr. J,

How convienient! Bystander attempts to set the record straight and you bust out with this. Bob Pickle is the only one making new accusation and wild ones at that. What Bystander refered to was already published and available fictitious commentary by "sister." Can you not see the difference. Can you not see that all Bystander did was comment to previously sanctified words published by sister? Bob on the other hand is up to his old tricks of flaunting the directive from the admins because he feels he bears no responsibility for his actions or his words.

Wrong again Fran, it was "sister" that introduced the topic - long ago - remember - when she wrote her greatest work of fiction? Bystander has come forward to comment on it and offer a different version. Time to step back and let the other side of the coin shine . . . I know that is uncomfortable, but it was bound to happen, right?

Bob is the one flailing about trying to damage control to his house of cards.

FHB, you have made your point. Now if you have any more complaints or concerns about my admins I would appreciate you sharing them in private with me. They do a thankless job as volunteers serving as administrators. So I am very sensitive when folks publicly complain about the job they do. None of us can be completely impartial, furthermore everybody is going to have to roll with the decisions we make. That is just the way it is.

Now to your points, which are some good ones. Sister was allowed to post chapter after chapter at will. Bystander will be given the same privileges to refute those stories. Like everything else, you (all of us) will have to make up our own mind as to who is telling the truth.

Since what he referred to was already published, there was no need for him to try to run the "off-limits" game he did; the fact that it was here for him to reply to says that it was NOT, in fact, off limits... but even if it was, or even if he deemed that it should be... the time to make that stand is not right after he makes statements that are challengeable; once he made the statement , it was fair game to be examined, refuted, rebutted, etc... and the fact that he made the attempt to prevent that says that he is not nearly as confident in his truth as he wants some to believe... to paraphrase EGW, no truth loses anything by close investigation... so his wanting to declare something true and then squash all discussion of what he has declared says what, exactly?

ss clearly a response to Bystander (you conviently left out the quote so that you could attempt to spin your way out of this down the line) and you are calling him Kenny, and at the very least making the insinuation that he is Kenny. There is no mistaking it. Read the thread, follow the flow, you lied Bob!

Not really, FHB. This guy thought Kenny was online, and so I thought I would write my response to "Kenny," not "Bystander," and see if he would reply.

As far as conveniently leaving a quote out, note that whenever you hit reply, no quotes from the post you are replying to appear. Only the text that isn't part of a quote is quoted.

Funny how you are so sure you buried all the witness', no one would speak out FOR Linda, not FROM her. Wrong. Think again.

Hersheys, for a clearer view of his "version" please refer to the BS/DS song... it should help put the"facts" claimed into perspective.

Not necessarily.

First of all, there are others that know a lot of this stuff.

Secondly, the gag order allowed Linda to say all she wanted to to third parties, who could then make all the public statements they wanted to, as long as they didn't cite her as a source, and as long as she asked them to stop if 3ABN asked her to ask them. Correct?

Bystander,

instead of trying to take apart the side details about the 3 abn mess why do you not just wade right into the basic questions.

Like did linda have sexual relationship with the doc. from Norway or anyone else?

If she did not have such a sexual relationship how does danny have the right to remarry?

If linda was not fired because she was having a sexual affair withe doc. , what was the real reason she was fired let go how ever you choose to word it.

If linda did not have an affiar then how come to this day do must averge sda's think she and why has 3abn not done everything in its power to correct that false idea? (personal really would love to have this question answered.)

HAs tommy ever asked a boy or a young man for sexual favors of any kind? yes or no.

If he has not way can he not say that with simple words in sinple statement of facts.

i bet you will not touch these question because you are just a bystander that only knows heavy details about the past, Am I right?

Actually Bob.

He was rebutting what Sister wrote, then everyone else began to bring up other things about Kenny which were not in discussion, so he addressed some of that. Bob did not say Bystander was Kenny!

Get over it, already!

He may have thought it, but he did not say it.

Does your other persona know you are out in "legion" tonight?

ran, look above, I edited my post to say he appeared to call him Kenny, I did not realize anyone had eplied to my post, or was in the midst of doing so at the time. And yes it seems he 'thought it" as you ay.

s for the rest, it was a simple question, and doesn't require all this hoopla, can we move on?

ctually, there were 10 paragraphs in Bystander's opening post which began with "FACT". Six of those vere about Kenny. So I think you are a bit out of synch to accuse others of causing the focus on enny.

Vhat really intrigues me about this thread however is that it calls itself the "Authorized Version of ABN". Since there are only a limited number of persons who could use or give permission to use the lescriptor "Authorized", I join others who have wondered just how Bystander has or was given the uthority to call his version, "The Authorized Version".

uthorized by whom? Danny Shelton? Mollie Steenson, who seems to be Danny's official spokesperson vhen doing official business? Walt Thompson, who claims to speak for the board of 3abn? And if he, hen was this an "executive decision" (ie, a decision made on his own authority as board chairman as ontrasted with his role as spokesman for the board)? Or did the board actually take action and lesignate Bystander as an official spokesman for the board?

Vhen Sister began her "Unauthorized history" we all knew that she was speaking only on her own ehalf ... thus we accepted her story as her personal testimony only.... giving it value only as it oincided with the information many of us had previously heard from others and/or it was ubstantiated by others on the board who also had experiences of their own that were similar... or who had been actual witnesses to some of the things she said. Many of these were open about their own identity, thus we had actual people who were known to us as witnesses both to the veracity of her stories as well as to her felt need for anonymity. Thus we had no problem accepting her desire for anonymity.

This is quite different from being asked to accept as AUTHORIZED FACTS, the anonymous statements of denial of isolated points from her writings. By the very claim of being AUTHORIZED, the expectation has been set up that whatever is said has been examined by the governing persons of 3ABN and has been given their stamp of approval and/or the spokesperson has been given carte blanc authority to speak in an official manner for 3ABN.

That has not happened.... we are being given no such statement by any official spokesman for 3ABN, and there is no person on BSDA speaking for 3abn who is posting under his/her own name, nor that is known to any administrator or person posting here under their real name.... which means that there is no one to testify to the veracity of the claims Bystander has made of this being "The Authorized Version Of 3abn".

So.... until such a time as Danny Shelton himself speaks as himself... and gives evidence that the person posting as Danny Shelton is in actuality he, himself... or that Walt Thompson comes on in his official capacity as Board Chairman and gives us a notarized statement that the board has given their stamp of approval on this "Authorized Version of 3abn"..... I see no reason for us to take it any more seriously than we have taken the rest of the rants, raves, and distractions which have come from the keyboards of those who call themselves bystander, wwjd, Aletheia, Lee, and falliblehumanbeing.....
(if there are others that I missed, my apologies, I'm sure someone will supply any other names that should be included here).

They had not been able to do that since the very early years of 3abn. Why? Because certain people had jealousy issues with it. Many years of just some "down home" family music were lost because of it.

will not address all of Bystander's "Facts" at one time, I will give additional information in regard to hem periodically.

irst, a question for Bystander: Who authorized you? You efer to this as the authorized version and as far as I know nly two people were given the authority to write those, Kay uzma and a newspaper reporter from West Frankfort, Ill.

oncerning the above quote that Bystander agrees has merit and is true, then why is he quoting it mong statements that he claims are non-factual? Perhaps I originally should have stated, "Now that inda is out of the picture, more of Danny's family are on the payroll of 3ABN.", instead of only stating hat they were appearing on air. One example would be Tammy Chance, Danny's sister, and her usband. And then of course Tommy was upgraded to Linda's office and became head of production, espite a ruling by the board years earlier --- in the 1990's --- against having him employed at 3ABN The action came about becuase Derrell Mundall and Melody Mundall gave a seven page letter to then llinois SDA Conference President, BJ Christiansen. Christiansen took it to the 3ABN board for action.)

here are a number of more examples of the employment of Sheltons at 3ABN. Judge Rowe earlier eferred to 3ABN as a "family business" and the continual hiring of more Shelton extended family embers appears to validate that statement.

h, what a morning! I wake up when most of you are sleeping, and see what has happened while I as sleeping. No wonder I was having some strange dreams.

hat amazes me the most is the way Bystander and his gang attack this. Almost from the beginning hen sister started posting here on BSDA the carpenter and hillbilly singer Danny Shelton made the profound declaration that nobody could have such clear insights into the happenings at 3ABN than Linda, then it must be Linda who appears here under the disguise of sister.

Even at the beginning of the recent appearance of Dannyites, sister was still being regarded as Linda, until it was proven clearly that sister could not be Linda. Now good reasoning became scarce as the attacks changed character. Since sister is not Linda the source is declared faulty and nit picking becomes the order of the day.

Just because sister looks at the coin from the other side does not mean that hers is a false picture of what she has seen.

Requesting objectivity in this case seems to be asking for something beyond the reach of human reasoning. At least is seems to be an unknown factor in Southern Illinois.

Is it all my fault that things have developed to what has happened?

Sabbath morning I was spellbound listening to Dwight Nelson speaking of the Love of God manifested in Jesus Christ. We must let Jesus in and let Him guide us.

Afterwards I spoke to Dwight and told him that I was all shaken up by his sermon. I saw myself as the greatest of sinners, and I have to preach from the same pulpit next Sabbath.

- Good, said Dwight, Jesus must be able to mold us.

- Yes, but I feel like a great calamity in the Seventh-day Adventist Church could be all my fault.

- What?

- About three years ago I ran away like a chicken, when Danny Shelton threatened to have me arrested if I'd say the truth, how I experienced it. When I think of how Jesus remained steadfast, and died for my sins, then I feel like a failure. If I had stood firm and not let Danny scare me, then at least the board of 3ABN would have heard how I experienced this affair. It could have been cleared and not developed into this great mess.

- The Lord will take care of it.

- True, but the Lord called you to preach, Dwight, didn't He?

- Yes, He sure did.

- Then he did not expect you to sit down in an easy chair letting Him take care of your preaching?

- What was your name again?

- Johann Thorvaldsson.

- Of course it is Johann!! If you know the Lord has called you to do something, you must do it in His strength.

And that is why I do not want to let Jesus down by hiding the truth as I have seen it in this case. Neither Danny nor his friends can scare me again, no matter how they do it.

ohann, Danny did not threaten to have you arrested if you told the truth, how you experienced it. hat is absurd. PLEASE Stop repeating these lies.

he Campmeeting, and The 3ABN board meeting aren't the same thing.

ou were not being chicken when you went to a campmeeting that you were already told you weren't velcome at and already warned that you would be removed from if you chose to disregard the varning, ahead of time.

ou were not being a chicken when you refused to leave when asked, and you were not being a hicken when you grabbed Walt Thompson and began to shake him in front of witnesses.

or were you prevented from speaking to the board, you met with who the very next ay??? and claimed you were representing Linda and the Doctor who refused to come. You yourself osted that, and somewhere around here you yourself also claimed Walt Thompson asked you f you still wanted to come to the board meeting, I believe you claimed he mumbled it, but you ad to go write a letter to send to the board. was tempted to write a reply, when I remember that Jesus did not answer His accusers. I am also reminded of the words of Jesus, "Get thee behind me, satan." I leave it to the Lord to do with your twisting as He pleases. Pray about it. Is this the best you can do? May the Lord have mercy on you in His day of Judgment.

Kenny was married many years to Emma Lou, who along with Danny and Linda are listed in the original 3ABN documents that Judge Rowe referred to when she called 3ABN a family business. It appears that Kenny and Danny choose the same route matrimonially: out with the older wife and in with newer younger wife. Chris is the woman that Kenny married after his divorce from Emma Lou. Chris was a member of Kenny's "church"/ministry Behold the Lamb, with whom Kenny had an affair with while he was still married to Emma Lou. Bystander, do you know where Chris works?

> FACT.Sadly after 30+ years, Kenny and his wife were divorced. Doing so privately had nothing to do with "income" from the ministry as the Ministry was lucky most months to break even. They kept it private from the church for several months for 1 reason. To give their themselves and their children time to adjust without being in the public eye, and to show the church that they were capable of still working together for the cause, even with their personal differences.

Personal differences? Bystander, by personal differences are your referring to the FACT of Kenny having an affair with a member of his congregation, while still married to his wife? I think most folks would call that a lot more than personal differences, I believe the Bible clearly calls it adultery. After the divorce from his wife, Kenny turns around and marries his mistress. From the number of sheep that ran from his fold, back to the official SDA church, it is clear that they also took a Biblical view of Kenny's behavior.

And what happened to Kenny's "church"/ministry after his divorce from Emma Lou and remarriage to his new young bride, Chris? Well, the majority of them are now members of the West Frankfort SDA church, just down the road from 3ABN. Is is easy to see why they choose West Frankfort over Thompsonville for their move.

Johann, I am greatly bemused by your conversation with Dwight Nelson.... especially the lines I have bolded.

Some background for that statement....

For many years it was my habit to join the circle formed around every visiting VIP minister or seminarist for the questions afterwards. Since I often wanted more indepth discussions than most, it was my habitual practice to hang back on the edge of the group, letting many go before me, while I observed and listened to all that went on.

One of the things that I observed... and even commented on to a few of the VIPs with whom I was better acquainted than others.... was the way they handled those with whom they did not want to enter into conversation.... with a stock set of comments that they saw as being non-committal, but that the recipient could see as encouraging him to continue doing whatever it was that he was doing.

The sentences I bolded of Dwight's above are almost word for word the same "stock phrases" used by many VIPs to get rid of those to whom they want to give a brush-off. Dwight has been fully informed as to the problems with him and his church appearing to support a "ministry" that is as immoral and unethical as Danny Shelton's is.... but for reasons better known to himself than to those who have tried to talk with him, including members of his congregation, his peers, or his superiors.... he continues to lend his image to the bolstering of 3abn's image.

As for whether anything is your "fault" or not.....

Whatever you could have changed by your appearance at the board on that one particular occasion.... and there is no indication at this time that anything you said would have made one whit of difference..... it would have been such a small part of the things which needed to be exposed and which only came to light because of the spotlight put upon Linda, that we can only conclude at this part in time that it was God who put you in the place at the time you were there, and it was God who directed you to bow before Danny's threat and not try to force your way into the board meeting.

You have borne enough burdens and attacks these last three years... do not add one single straw of self-recrimination to them. You have been, and continue to be, God's man for the hour. And only God knows how great has been either your burden or your contribution.

You are well deserving of the special BSDA "Angel Award"..... ☒ angel.gi ....

Peace...... ....

Bystander,

You forget some very important things. Many people have been listening to 3ABN for years and gotten most of their news about the Sheltons directly from Danny himself. Many have never spoken with Linda or any of her acquaintances and have been disenchanted with 3ABN over Danny's statements, especially the way he spoke of his wife on world wide TV.

Also there are many who have family connections to the Sheltons over the years, or who have worked at 3ABN or have had family working there.

Linda herself has been very quiet. I have seen her myself many times and she stays pretty mum She does not want to hurt the ministry she loved and built over the years. Her goal is to be ready for Jesus to come and for all this misery to end. If I were depend on her for info of the 3ABN saga, I would be left in the dark as she does not want to condemn people who once were her friends.

Linda has her own website where you can read her letters to the public and one can purchase her music CD's. Her music is such a blessing to all.

Good thing for her that she does not read these sites.

From the number of sheep that ran from his fold, back to the official SDA church, it is clear that they also took a Biblical view of Kenny's behavior.
> And what happened to Kenny's "church"/ministry after his divorce from Emma Lou and remarriage to his new young bride, Chris? Well, the majority of them are now members of the West Frankfort SDA church, just down the road from 3ABN. Is is easy to see why they choose West Frankfort over Thompsonville for their move.

Ok, Kenny was married, divorced and remarried again. Everybody stop right here with this acknowledgement. I don't want to hear the specifics or reasons why. We are not going to tell all about every bit player in this saga.

I have an apology to make to Bystander.

Bystander, I deeply regret falsely accusing you of having a username that is a lie.

As I said before, this fellow called me last night and said that you had to be Kenny since so much of your authorized version was about nitty-gritty details involving Kenny, details it seemed only Kenny would know or talk about. (And I guess someone a long time ago pointed out to me that Kenny wrote some articles a long time ago for John Grosboll's group that talked about what would Jesus do.)

Well, it dawned on me since then that Bystander might be a username that refers to someone not on "the bandwagon," someone sitting on the 3ABN sidelines, someone not involved much at 3ABN at all, and thus the username might not have anything to do with your level of involvement at BSDA.

Thus your username might have a basis in reality even as my username at WikiPedia does too.

Will you pardon me for my false accusation about your username?

Posted by: Clay Mar 18 2007, 11:16 AM cut to the chase..... the danny apologists have put forth what Bystander is calling The Authorized Version of 3abn..... propaganda IMO, in fact, 99% of what Bystander, his evil twin WWJD, his loyal companion Lee, his cohort Aletheia, his associate FHB, and the other merry followers of Danny, is propaganda... posted to distract people from the simple issues.... those issues were....

1. Danny got a divorce cause he wanted to, he had no biblical grounds....

2. Linda was mistreated... even IF she did everything she was accused of, she was mistreated...period..... and those Dannyclones stood by and watched it....

Now of course the apologists think that the Unauthorized Version is propaganda.... and they are entitled to their opinion, no matter how wrong it is.....and there you have it....

NB, as far as I am concerned you all go to absurd lengths in your arguments and claims. Danny hreatened to throw Johann in Jail for telling the truth according to his experience?? as I said that is ıbsurd.

'he truth is so far not anyone I"ve talked to or anything I have read matches Johann's claims. (Can 'ou provide one?) His testimony doesn't even match Dr Arvid Abrahamsen's...

'his is from the Dr's letter in the pinned topics here:
It was communicated to me that Linda was going to be fired at the Board meeting, vhich would occur in May, following the 3ABN camp meeting. Johann and I decided to go to the camp meeting and talk to the Board nembers and tell them the truth about the situation . When we walked into he 3ABN building we were surrounded by about 10 people. One person stood directly behind me for he entire service. Walt Thompson and Nick Miller (3ABN's attorney) asked us to leave. We stayed ıntil nearly the end of the service.....When Johann and I went to the door, once again we were 'ollowed by a small crowd of people. I spoke to Mark Finley about the situation at length in the parking ot. John Lomacang..... was standing with me when Danny drove up and said that if I returned :o camp meeting I would be arrested and thrown in jail. He had already talked to he Sheriff. I decided to not return, as it was Mark Finley's suggestion to avoid the possibility of disrupting the camp meeting for all of the people ıttending.

'or those who are still confused a Campmeeting is NOT a board meeting. The 3ABN board meeting vas scheduled after the Campmeeting, and no one was banned from the board meeting, they were ›nly warned not to come back to the campmeeting itself, in order not to disrupt it.

\ccording to the Dr they didn't even plan to go to the board meeting... The only planned to talk to ›oard members, which they did, and Johann met with Walt Thompson, John Lomacang and Nick Miller 'or some hours the next day also, while the Doctor refused to. Johann claimed he represented both .inda and the Doctor at that meeting. Linda, the Doctor and Johann also all composed a letter and ;ent it to the board explaining their position etc. rather then attending. Johann has written this himself nany times. On different occasions they all spoke to various board members, this is proved by the etters save 3ABN not and johann have published both on their website and here. Why they chose not o attend the meeting was their decision. I think it was a wrong one.. But to claim they were not ıllowed, to, or they never got to give their side in all this. IS A LIE.

\nybody needing further quotes from posts or letters which support this, just ask.

Bystander,

I'd like to ask you a question, since you had so much to say about Kenny.

I was talking to one of Tommy's alleged molestation victims or their family members, and brought up something Gailon had heard from three sources at the time. I asked him/her about why Emma Lou got let go from the bank. Gailon said Emma Lou works in the finance department of 3ABN.

Their reply was to describe the really nice house Kenny and Emma Lou lived in, and then how they suddenly moved into a much smaller house. The story that swept through town at the time was that Emma Lou got fired from the bank "for stealing money."

Is it true that she was fired from the bank after an allegation of embezzlement, and that 3ABN then hired her to work in the finance department? If so, how did Danny justify such a strange decision, and how long was there between her getting fired from the bank and then hired by 3ABN?

I leave it to the Lord to do with your twisting as He pleases. Pray about it. Is this the best you can do? May the Lord have mercy on you in His day of Judgment.

Why then don't you and Bob apply that rule to 3ABN when they have taken the high road and refused to answer all your accusations??

BTW, It was only at his trial He spoke not a word, else they would not have been able to condemn Him to death...

His accusers followed Him everywhere during His ministry, seeking to entrap him, and He answered them plenty.

ABN taking the high road?!? Tell another one. People wouldn't be asking questions now if Danny had aken the high road by keeping his mouth shut on 3ABN. -- but that isn't Danny.

Posted by: Pickle Mar 18 2007, 11:55 AM

Calvin never said to stop asking questions that pertain to alleged corruption at 3ABN. The hiring of an alleged embezzler to work in the 3ABN finance department ought to be fair game for questions.

Further, it is a question that a lot of people have wondered about, and thus it should be put to rest. If Bystander can secure a letter from the bank officers in question emphatically stating that Emma Lou was not let go for such a reason, then that ought to put the rumor to rest. Or if it can be shown that Emma Lou did not work in the 3ABN finance department when she was hired, that would do it too.

And Bystander ought to be able, easier than anyone else, to put the matter to rest for us.

Well Calvin can best answer what he meant...

But regarding the rumors you are posting, where do you stand if they are false?

And if you want to know what the truth is; before smearing someones character publically, why didn't you just ask Linda, Bob? She was certainly involved during that time.

It is not up to Bystander to secure a letter from the bank proving her innocent. YOU are the one making the accusation, YOU go Get a letter from the bank and back-up what you say, or please, don't say anything at all.

As far as your question about the nature of working with a alleged embezzler, and corrupttion goes, that hasn't been proved even, but aren't you working with a proven and convicted embezzler, yourself???

Aletheia,

As you know, Gailon was convicted for keeping money that someone else owed him. Why intentionally distort the picture?

My understanding is that after Gailon was told about this from a source, he did ask Linda about it. And I asked her this morning about how long she thought there was between the firing and hiring.

But bear in mind that I spoke with non-Adventists in that community, at least two of them, who confirmed the story. And at least one of them confirmed it without me telling him/her what the story was that I was trying to confirm.

Of course, there is always a chance that everyone in the community there got it wrong at the time. And I would love to help squash that rumor, which would end up helping vindicate Danny's administration.

If the rumors are false, I guess I will stand all right: a) I haven't accused Emma Lou of anything. I've just asked questions. b) I'll have helped resolve some issues by vindicating the Shelton gang on yet another point.

And yet you have nothing specific? and claim you haven't made any accusations here, onceagain?

Somehow you do this jello act and refuse to be pinned about anything you say, for example you claim Danny lied then you claim Walt Thompson said it and not you, etc.. According to you, you never harm another or slay their character.... Somehow you always see yourself as unaccountable for the garbage you spew, and the insinuations you make, but as far as I am concerned it stinks to high heaven, and I feel sorry for you. You are accountable, and you will have to answer for "every idle word". I just wish you'd wke up before it's too late.

[color=#FF6666]"Now that Linda is out of the picture, more of Danny's family are on the payroll of 3ABN.", instead of only stating that they were appearing on air. One example would be Tammy Chance, Danny's sister, and her husband. And then of course Tommy was upgraded to Linda's office and became head of production, Even your corrected statement is still wrong. Tammy Chance was hired by Linda, (obviously when Linda was still there) to work in quality control. Her husband was hired on a part time basis, again, when Linda was there, to research donated items that had been sent in for resell. Tommy, again, was already working at 3abn under Linda, In Linda's department of archiving.

Why would you state that they were hired only after Linda left. I am sure Linda would tell you just what I have and employment records would substantiate the dates of those jobs when Linda was still VP. I do not understand why you want to intentionally try to change the facts. Desperation to bring Ds and the ministry down can be the only reason.

despite a ruling by the board years earlier --- in the 1990's --- against having him employed at 3ABN (The action came about becuase Derrell Mundall and Melody Mundall gave a seven page letter to then Illinois SDA Conference President, BJ Christiansen. Christiansen took it to the 3ABN board for action.)

I personally know nothing of a 3abn board action to remove TS. What I do know is that years later, Melody discovered that it seemed her husband had not been telling the truth. I believe she would be willing to testify to that fact.

Sister now matter how you spin it from now on the fact remains there is way too much false information given from you. Either you are lying intentionally out of revenge or your sources are not very credible. It has already been established that:

1. You were wrong about the employment of said individuals above.
2. You were wrong about saying Kenny took over the Herrin church when there was no Herrin church.
3. You were wrong about a conference pastor being carried bodily out of the church.
4. You were wrong by accusing Ds of only starting a school when his grandkids were of school age when the truth was a school had been set up many years before.

5. You were wrong in your statements and insinuations about why the school gym was built and used for.
6. You were wrong about the reasons for Kenny's dismissal.
7. You are wrong to insinuate that there is anything underhanded about employing some family members where 150 people work. The extended Shelton family that live just in that area is, extremely large. Why shouldn't a few of those have the same opportunity to be employed there as anyone off of the streets? There are plenty of non family members that work there that have ask for a chance for one of their relatives to be hired if there is an opening and that request has been granted in lots of instances. What is the difference? A person should not be discriminated against because their last name happens to be Shelton.

This is just scratching the surface of your false statements. As I said, I am beginning to wonder how and why you make misleading statements even about unimportant things. Then, you fail to acknowledge or admit to those mistakes. Even the ones that can be proven by eyewitnesses and paper trails. You would have a little more validity if you would at least acknowledge that you were incorrect. Just more evidence of your motives and intent against DS, His family and 3abn.

Bystander, just because you personally know nothing about a particular 3ABN Board action means nothing and does not negate the truth of my statement, unless you were on the Board at that time. Did you want to identify yourself as a 3ABN Board member? What I have stated above in regard to Tommy is true.

I will not take your entire post apart, piece by piece, to show all your errors. It is not worth the time or effort. Your futile attempts to discredit me will not change the facts of what took place at 3ABN. Unlike you, it is not necessary for me to use half truths, lies, misrepresentation and innuendo. The truth about Danny Shelton, Tommy Shelton and those like you who wallow in their morass of stupidity is far worse than anything that could be "made up" about them.

Why have I become your target? Why are you so afraid of what I have to say? Is it because Danny does not know who I am and can not attempt to quiet my voice with threats of lawsuits. I am not afraid of Danny and I know the truth, that is a dangerous combination. Earlier you and your cohorts continually accused me of being Linda, based upon the reasoning that no one else could possibly know all that I do and not be Linda or a member of the Shelton family. Since you could not prove that assumption, you are now claiming that not only am I factually challenged, but also a liar. Bystander, based upon your own testimony about me there is only one conclusion possible: you are the liar.

I am sorry, BS, but nobody else has posted as if they were standing right there when everything happened. Cindy claimed not to know anyone or any information, now she posts as if it happened to her The others post and say they got their information from other sources that they trust. Cindy answered Johann as if she was right there when it happened. She can't go from not knowing any of you a month ago to knwoing each and everything that has happened in the passd almost three years and be credible. Now either she never was the disintersted party she claims to be or her facts are wrong. Either way it is a lie, now which one is she claiming? ...and if you have only known her a month or two, you don't know what she would lie about, and visa versa. I owuld say that about an ascquaintance of mine that I had only known two months. That is just common sense, I thought...maybe not as common as it should be....

Now see, if you and Cindy had read, as you were supposed to....before posting, you would have seen just how many of the members mentioned knew each other before coming to BSDA and the relationships aht developed since their coming here. There was never any secrets there. That is the difference in being above board, and being deceptive. It builds credibility.

nd you have no knowledge or reason not to believe me just like you have no reason to not believe indy. What it shows me is that girl has done her homework way more than most. You say I couldn't now if she would lie but I stick to what I saidl. She doesn't give the opportunity for anyone to accuse er of lying whenever she gives so many links and sites where what she is saying can be found. Now ou or anyone else are free to have another opinion of what she found but a difference of opinion does ot a liar make. When someone starts any relationship with a lie about "who" they are, then all else they say is in doubt. She can't have it both ways. If she is not an insider, then she needs to quit spouting "insider" information. If she is say so, and she should have from jump. That is all I am saying. I really don't care about the lnks and all the info, if you start with a lie with me, then the rest is suspect. She's suspect....and BTW, so are you, because it brings doubt on your exact relationship to her. Once again, BS, I ain't mad achta', jes' keepin' it real! Murch lurve!

The incident you refer to had happened years before. Was it brought back up again for certain purposes? I imagine so. Was he fired for something that had nothing to do with 3abn? No he wasn't.
> Again though sonshineonme, like sister, you start naming names and/or bringing people up on the net that maybe wouldn't appreciate being there. If you are not her, do you have her permission to post on the net about her? She is not a public figure and deserves to be left alone. When you and sister and watchbird get angry you start firing off names with no regard to that persons feelings, or their families feelings. Extreme punishments for 30 year old mistakes when one was young and not thinking straight. Mistakes that have been forgiven and having nothing whatsoever to do with what is going on here, at present with 3abn. Not for my sake, not for 3abn's sake but for the sake of others that don't deserve this, you need to stop bringing names of private people here. In fact didn't calvin make that rule the no one in the limelight can be discussed or brought into this? Calvin, care to comment. To add to that there are also a good number of the Shelton family that are not in the limelight and Kenny is one of them. He doesn't work for 3abn nor does he have a program there. Accordingly he should be off limits also. Melody is off limits, kenny should be even more so.
> Again, Calvin care to comment.

I've been gone off and on all weekend and find so much has happened here, even with a Sabbath Break! Wow!

I am glad to see you committing yourself to at least the semblance of information for rebuttal. Much more effective than "lies, slander, rumor" etc. Now, we have info we can start to check for verification to see if you are truly presenting facts.

Two observations:

1. 30 years - There's that magic number again. Seems quite a bit happened around the Franklin County Shelton family 30 years ago. And this, also, was forgiven. Just an observation not a condemnation. Bystander, since you have claimed here that you have known the Shelton family for 20 years, did you get this 30-year-old information from the same source that Dr. Walt Thompson got his from? Just curious.

2. My understanding of the 3abn Forum rules is that things that have happened regarding the people involved since the founding to the present are fair game, at least that is what I remember the Boss telling us.

Per your words, Bystander, Kenny was a founder, ergo, for the years since that founding until now he should be fair game. Right? No, we don't need to know what brand of bathroom tissue he uses or his favorite fast food, but his involvement with 3abn puts his character and actions on the stage.

Your post raised several questions in my mind:

1. Was the church that Kenny and his congregation raised ever considered a mainstream congregation of the Seventh-day Adventist church while he was their pastor?

2. Were they tied to the Illinois Conference in any manner?

3. Did they send tithe to the conference and receive any supporting services from the conference?

4. Did they advertise as a Seventh-day Adventist Church in any phone book, newspaper, brochure, etc.?

5. When they held evangelistic series did they characterize the church as a Seventh-day Adventist Church?

If someone else has already made these observations or asked these questions, I apologize. It's going to take me some time to get caught up!

Well, Bystander, I was there, and Cindy paints a picture where she completely disregards my former replies to her questions. The picture she paints of what happened, as if she was there, is so foreign to me that I do not recognize her description. This is what makes it impossible for me to enter into any dialog with her. She spins, and spins, and spins, and spins, and spins, ... and this is the first time I use this expression, which so many others have used of her method.

It really shocks me to see your approval of such spinning. But, then on the other hand, you would not have a foot to stand on in this whole discussion without such spinning. Right?

thought lookin4truth's post of 1/29/07 deserved repeating:

letheia's School of Spin

. Claim there is no evidence etters arrive from victims

. Claim victims could be manufactured

uane verifies his identity

. Ignore that he was sexually assaulted and question his dates of employment uane re-directs the conversation back to the truth (Good going Duane)

. Try to take focus off of nature of sexual crimes by making argument Age of Consent

oints to fact she (he) thinks molesting a 17 year old is acceptable

. Focus on the word RAPE, in order to make inappropriate sexual behavior more acceptable ouching someone who doesn't want to be touched sexually is still wrong alking to someone sexually, who does not welcome your advances is wrong pastor using his position of authority to sexually abuse ANYONE is wrong

. No matter how much evidence appears, SPIN, SPIN, SPIN

ote: I said "she (he)" under number 4, because no one really knows the true gender of anyone registered. There is really no way to verify whether the person is a male or female just because they indicated they were a male when they registered.

Should we be surprised by this?

Some time ago, Dwight Nelson incorporated the story about his brother Gregory Nelson and his "new wife" Shasta in his sermon.

(For those who don't know, Gregory Nelson left his college girlfriend and wife of many years, Cindy, and their 3 teenage kids (who begged him not to do that!) for a "new girl on the block"- Shasta Burr, "a famous announcer to Dwight Nelson's NET '98").

It took him some time to say that his brother and his ... new wife..... Shasta now have new "ministry", but after that he went on to say:

"Read my lips... LIFE GOES ON!!" and repeated it few times!!!

It sure does, for some more than for others. Ask Gregory's wife Cindy and their kids...

Now, how can Dwight Nelson who is supporting his brother in his immorality say anything against Danny Shelton and his immorality. He thinks that life goes on, we can sit back and the Lord is going to take care of everything...

John the Baptist lost his very life denouncing the adulterous relationship of a man in authorithy within the community of God's people. And he, as the second Elijah is the type of those who today are preparing the way for Christ's second coming.

I may add, Dwight likes to preach on that very subject - the coming of Elijah - and I gladly join his plea for Elijah's soon coming. As Ellen White would call: "Where are the Elijahs of today?" 5T 527

Duane there is no "us" here, there is only you, and the only account made public is yours.

Obviously Brad went to the police and they did not press charges, and the fault against T.S. as explained by Tommy and cited by the COG, was "improper counselling." not molestation.

You have a "protected status" and I am unable to repeatedly do all the things you say here, and I gave my word I would not even bring it up publically, and I haven't, or I would be banned, so please stop. If you have evidence of me doing so, dated after I apologised to you please give it to Calvin, and you can get rid of me. If not, please be fair.

Yes, I have said things were left out. One, You did not include your part of the correspondance with Tommy.

Two, you said Glen Dryden was a liar and couldn't be trusted, and was jealous of Tommy, you said he had done the same thing to others, and claimed that you youself had to threaten him with a lawsuit to get him to shut up.

You did not say why, or explain anything else about that. Or explain why he is not credible where you are concerned but is credible about victims in Dunn Loring. Victims which we have nothing on, or about, but heresay...

Your brother came forward years ago in your community with his accusations, wrote a letter hreatening to turn Tommy in, cited the law allowing him to do so, also years ago, and still hasn't done so to this day. And unlike you won't even make a written statement. Why? It is surely not a fear of coming forward as he has been public about it for years.

These are questions I still have, and I would appreciate you answering.

And I think they are perfectly normal questions.

f you don't want to, that's your choice. I'm not going to harass you about it, I'm only explaining what my questions are in part because you brought it up.

Blessings on you, Duane.... and thank you for reminding us now and then of the truth of the matter.... that real sins have been committed.... against real people.... who have suffered real pain... and who are still enduring real pain.

It is very difficult for me to understand the audacity of those who will come here day after day and call those who are telling their personal experiences "liars". But.... that is happening.... and for some reason those who do it cannot (or will not) see that all they are really accomplishing is making the truths being told shine brighter, and allowing those who read to see the true characters of those brave enough to withstand their barrage. Thank you again for your patience and witness.....

Diane,

I didn't get it from Bystander.

There are already three first person acounts of this right here on this forum.

Johanns - as well as many later additions and explanations which I found by searching the archives.
Walt Thompsons
And the Doctors which I quoted in part above.

I simply read them, many others were there at the time, so I simply asked others what they saw and heard, and in every instance they related it as Walt Thompson said, and even tho his account is sketchy also as the Doctor said, and NOT as Johann says.

end of story.

You are missing my point. Remember comprehension is key "before" typing. I am not saying that you didn't read the accounts, I am commenting on the way you cpmstradicted Johann and his account when you weren't there. You did not talk like the someone who posted that information and was still asking questions. Because that is what you were doing in the post you referenced. You had not read all of the information then, and you were asking someone to give you the information instead of researching it yourself. IOW, spoon feed it to you. But you know I think you found somebody to do that. So now you are all up in Johann's face about what happened, when a little over a month ago you had no clue. That's what I am talking about.

Johann,

It continues to amaze me that there are those who even now still do not "get it" that each poster here at BSDA has developed a reputation and everything he or she writes or opinion they give in a post is viewed through the "glasses" of that reputation.

In addition and IMO, no amount of spinning or whining or demanding is going to change that reputation at this point or the weight given to anything she or he have to say except by those that agree with him or her.

I did not see that video (How can I obtain one?), and the only information I have about it is from Dwight himself through one of his sermons I listened.

Yes, that was the impression he left on us, talking about the ministry in positive terms. He didn't use the words: "I support my brother in his marriage or his ministry", but I remember that the whole sermon was build so he could tell us of his visit to his brother and his new wife, and about their new ministry. I don't remember he told us what kind of ministry they have, but it was clear that they are in "saving peoples lives" ministry.

We were more than shocked, and very disappointed that day.

However, Dwight Nelson is known for changing his views depending on the wind, so maybe, by now, he has changed his position on that too.

> You are missing my point. Remember comprehension is key "before" typing. I am not saying that you didn't read the accounts, I am commenting on the way you cpmstradicted Johann and his account when you weren't there. You did not talk like the someone who posted that information and was still asking questions. Because that is what you were doing in the post you referenced. You had not read all of the information then, and you were asking someone to give you the information instead of researching it yourself. IOW, spoon feed it to you. But you know I think you found somebody to do that. So now you are all up in Johann's face about what happened, when a little over a month ago you had no clue. That's what I am talking about.

Diane your repetative put downs and false assumptions are just wrong.

I brought this up long before the post I just referenced, and knew soon after all that had happened.

I was asking for 2 reasons.

1. As an appeal to Johanns conscience to come clean

2. To warn others not to be deceived.

That's the same reason I keep asking him about the watch story and the picture his friend sky posted for him, I already know the facts, but for some reason he refuses to be accountable and come clean there either...

Now neither you, nor anyone else has to like it, or believe it, but that's the truth and God is my witness.

Again, please read Rev. 3:18!

You keep me from answering you because when I do you spin my words around and claim I say something I never did say. If I could depend on you, it would be a different story.

This is actually off ..... but in view of the direction Carmel went in her response to this portion of my previous post, I want to make it clear exactly what I was saying.... and what I was NOT saying.... when I said.....

> Dwight has been fully informed as to the problems with him and his church appearing to support a "ministry" that is as immoral and unethical as Danny Shelton's is.... but for reasons better known to himself than to those who have tried to talk with him, including members of his congregation, his peers, or his superiors.... he continues to lend his image to the bolstering of 3abn's image.

..... for Carmel seems to have assumed that I was referring to certain problems in Dwight's own family.... which I was not.

I was referring merely to what I know to be fact, that some have talked with Dwight in a one-on-one situation about the unadvisability of him not only continuing to show Pioneer Church on 3abn, but also to host 3abn events at that church. Some of these have been from each of the various classifications of individuals I gave above. To the best of my knowledge, the only reason Dwight has for not severing his connections with 3abn is that he feels that he is providing an important ministry to persons whose main attachment to the Adventist church is through the church service at Pioneer Memorial church from week to week. And I personally know such persons, so have to admit that he has a valid point in doing that.

I was NOT meaning to imply that Dwight was "soft on sin".... either in generalizations or in the specific example of sin in his own family that he has had to learn to live with.

Whether we should be surprised or not should have nothing to do with his very painful experience with his brother's choices. I am very sorry you brought this up, but since you did, I think is only right that I challenge some of your statments that I think are unnecessarily harsh about Dwight, and that I do not think represents his true relationship to the affair.

lease... let's note that this came hard for him... and that it was a long time after the event before he ould talk about it and be able to say the words.... "Life goes on".

t is hardly fair to a man whose twin brother.... as well as brother in ministry.... failed in his vows to oth his wife and his church so miserably.... in spite of all that Dwight and others could do to turn him rom his course... to say that Dwight "is supporting his brother in his immorality". It is my nderstanding that Dwight labored to prevent his brother's actions... and also that Dwight not only efused to perform the marriage service, but would not even attend the event.

ut the hard facts of life are that life does go on.... and we have to accept things as they are once here is no hope of changing the course of events.

greed... at the same time it is not appropriate to compare the Greg Nelson situation and the Danny helton situation. Greg and his wife... both ministers.... are now out of ministry and out of the dventist circle. Danny continues as the "face of Adventism" in a world wide "ministry". He has made ore broken lives even than Greg has done.... and while we have to accept that he and Brandi are ow married... that does not mean that he should not be removed completely from 3abn and allowed o have no more influence over it, and receive no more benefit from it.... ever. 3abn needs to go back o the true owners.... those multitudinous donors in the pews, and be run by a board that is truly ommitted to running a Christian ministry in a Christian manner. And Danny needs to be removed rom the public eye and from public contact so he can make his decisions as to morality or immorality n some private corner of the world where no one will know and where he will not have any influence n anyone anywhere.

hank you for the information you have given.

ust a couple of hours ago I attended a seminar with Dwight Nelson and other "top" pastors. I did not nake notes, but I'm quoting from memory. There was a question and answer period, and one of the uestions was something like, What is the worst experience you have had in your ministry? and nother, Does it happen that you have to make corrections later to what you have said in a sermon?

wight admitted he had, and he gave us a couple of samples. Then he added that a preacher must ever think so highly of himself as a super person who never makes a mistake. It is when you are illing to admit your mistakes that people discover you are human and then they accept your essage.

here was a discussion on preaching from a manuscript or not. Dwight thought that could be even orse, because if you have a manuscript and misread, then you might get really lost.

ow about this? I'll start a thread with what you have said about the Watch and the circumstances of t being given to Linda etc. - and by that I mean it will be quotes, only your words, with no nterpretation or spin by me, and then after you see the quotes, you can tell me if that is correct or ot, and whether anything needs to be corrected.

nly after doing so, will we proceed. Does that sound fair to you? and are you willing to do that?

f I was the only one who thinks you spin, then I might have to agree with Danny Shelton that I suffer rom Alzheimer's. But you have twisted both my words and the words of others so many times that I ave no trust left in you handling matters decently.

Now, why would he answer you and you already call him a liar? How could you know the facts without him telling you? If you know the facts, the why ask him at all? This is exactly what I am saying Cindy. You are questioning him about events at which you were not present, but he was, yet and still calling him a liar. You have no business asking him anything as if you "know the truth" you don't. You know what somebody else told you was the truth. You were not there. Remember there are always three(3) sides to a story: two sides and the truth. You have chosen to believe the account of someone who may or may not have been there(since you say we don't know who your source is). That is all you can claim is that you have heard this version and for some reason find it more credible than Johann own experience. You can't state that you "know the truth" and that he is not coming clean. You are demonstrating exactly what I am talking about. Now, if you believe have already chosen the version of the story you believe, then stick to that. You name is not God or Holy Spirit, it is not your place to comdemn or convict one to repentence.

Now to what put downs are you referring? I have said for you not to respond unless you comprehend what is being said in the post. That is not a put down, it is the truth. Because you have told me I was wrong, then went on to demonstrate my point exactly.

Diane correct me if I am wrong, but you know nothing about this and have talked to zero people about this???

So why is it your business? Why do you constantly butt into my conversations and concerns and tell me to stop posting till I read or comprehend. It's not necessary and it's rude.

I am trying my best to be being polite to the others I am talking to, I am not breaking any forum rules to the best of my knowledge, and I do my best to ignore most of the negative criticisms and false accusations posted about me to try and keep focussed on the subjects, and not have personal arguments, and that is not easy to do.

I have read these 3ABN archives forwards and backwards, and your continually telling me to stop posting, and claiming I don't comprehend, I don't read, I ask questions cause I'm too lazy to search, and I need to go read what's posted here before writing, is just plain false, especially when you yourself know nothing about the topic I am discussing, or how to find it. Now disagree with me if you have to, but those are the put downs and false assumptions I am talking about.

I do not insult your intelligence and I wish you'd stop insulting mine, please. Surely it's up to Johann if he wants to discuss this?

That's all I have to say about this.

Here is the problem. You don't know who I've know or have talked to. So cosider yourself corrected Then, I don't have to know anything to know you weren't there and Johann was. I think everyone will agree on that one. That is my point. You can't say you know the truth better than Johann because Johann was there, you weren't Simple. That is all I have been saying, and once again you prove my point. You are not comprehending what I am saying.

So once again the points of disagreement are:

1) You are approaching Johann with information about an event at which he was present and you were not, and your posture is of one who was.

2) #1 being true, to the satisfaction of ALL parties, you cannot say that you "know the truth". You only know what someone else, who may or may not have been present, told you was the truth, and have found them credible According to you own standards. That is all you can claim.

3) You also are not God and not in authority to declare that Johann "needs tocome clean" about anything. Also, once again we refer to Point #1. You are not the Holy Spirit, so you are not in authority to convict him to repentance, especially about something of which you have at best second hand knowledge.

Gurl this is a discussion board. You post it anybody can answer it. That is not butting into your buisness. If you don't know, you better ask somebody. If you want to speak only to Johann, PM him, only he will answer, if he chooses. Just becuase when you requested I chose to give you the most expedient way to give the information, does not mean I don't know where to find it. I just know that there are some who can find it faster than myself, and I chose, in service as an Admin, you the benefit of their expertise and the most expedient way to get the information you were seeking. I realize I just can't know everything and have no problem deferring to those who know best. You are a member and when you call upon me as an Admin, I need to give you my best. Once again, you were wrong.

Now, Forrest, you can go in peace! Murch lurve!

While I don't have time to do searches to present example after example, it is my opinion that folks have not been silenced for presenting information or personal evaluation of events. They have, instead, been warned, exhorted and finally banned for breaking the rules. That is not censorship.

Aletheia, since you are so interested in the watch (remember your recent post at Maritime where you begin "Going back to the epic watch story"?) do you mind answering a few questions?

1. Have you actually seen the watch or any picture other than the one posted at Maritime?

2. In your opinion, what price range would qualify as a cheap watch?

3. In your opinion, why does the value of the watch matter?

If you are not willing to answer these questions (since you seem to be the only one still asking questions about the watch, both here and and at Maritime) would you stop asking Johann about it please.

I was there, though at a distance. What I saw also agrees with what Dr. Walt saw, as far as I know what Mark F. saw and what several eyewitnessess closer than me, saw.

And actually you can testify as one there.....at a distance....and that you heard form those who were closer. A whole lot different than Cindy who wasn't even in attendance. But neitheer' still can add up to Johann who actually experienced the event. You can't testify to anymore than you witnessed. I mean that is just common sense. Tell me is this sounds familiar:

BS: WT what was happening over there with Johan and the Dr.(or two two men) depending on your familiarity at the time. it looked like it got pretty heated over there. And what was that papaer?

WT: Yes, they were told they weren't welcome here, and they came anyway. they had a lot of thoe papers passing them out. They talked against Danny and 3ABN. We almost had to forcibly remove them.

Script by Princess Novels, but you get my drift.

Di....FAIR, BOARD, SAME MEASURING STICK....Most of you on this board have declared over and over that DS needs to come clean. Problem here is, none of you are God either and have no business declaring or demanding for anyone to come clean. But, since, you all constantly have made that declaration including you Di, you shouldn't be reprimaninding Cindy for doing what you are guilty of.
Not mad either, luv ya

But you see there is a difference. Danny told everyone a lie when he said Linda was guilty of "spriritual adultery". Once again, she can't commit spiritual adultery against Danny. Everyone knows he said that and knows it was a lie. He does need to admit he lied, because he lied to everyone. Lots of people heard him. In fact, he really needs to come clean becuase far too many beieved that lie, and if he doesnt' he will be guilty of leading them astray, as he has taken a leadership role to millions of God's sheep and He holds him responsible. Some also already know that he lied.

On the other hand What happened between Johann, the Dr. and WT, and who ever else was mainly between them and everyone has come away with a different story. Depending on which way you swing in this controversy, people tend to believe the one which most fits their beliefs. That is different from someone who has lied publically. I still maintain that Cindy had no business coming at Johann as if she was there, and that is what she did. She doesn't "know" what happened, she "knows" what WT says happened, and what you said happened from a distance, and what you said someother people who wer close said happened. All she "knows" is what Johann said, WT and you said, she doesn't know what happened. She only chooses to believe you and WT version of the events.

I would never in this situation say. WT knows he lying, I know what happened and he needs to stop lying. Why? Because ALL I know is what Johann said, and what WT said, and that you said that what you saw from a distance jived with what WT said, and other people who were closer. Plus we all know that two people can see the same accident and come back with totally different descriptions, and neither would be lying, because it is their persception, influenced by how each one felt about the activating event.....sorry I might be getting to deep here. But anyway, when testifying it is each person 's credibility which weighed in the balance.

Now, I can say that Danny needs to come clean because not only did he lie to everyone about "spiritual adultery", he came here jus t to lie to us about the steps he was taking to save his marriage, and all the while he was securing a Guam divorce. I did not hear about him lying, I didn't see his lips moving from a distance and someone who was closer told me what he said and it jived with his lip movements, neither did I read anyone else's account of that lie. I experience that lie myself, he lied to me. Now that I know it was a lie, he needs to admit it.

And I personally know such persons, so have to admit that he has a valid point in doing that.

> 5. It is hardly fair to a man whose twin brother.... as well as brother in ministry.... failed in his vows to both his wife and his church so miserably.... in spite of all that Dwight and others could do to turn him from his course... to say that Dwight "is supporting his brother in his immorality".
> But the hard facts of life are that life does go on.... and we have to accept things as they are once there is no hope of changing the course of events.
> 6. Agreed... at the same time it is not appropriate to compare the Greg Nelson situation and the Danny Shelton situation. Greg and his wife... both ministers.... are now out of ministry and out of the Adventist circle. Danny continues as the "face of Adventism" in a world wide "ministry". He has made more broken lives even than Greg has done.... and while we have to accept that he and Brandi are now married... that does not mean that he should not be removed completely from 3abn and allowed to have no more influence over it, and receive no more benefit from it.... ever. 3abn needs to go back to the true owners.... those multitudinous donors in the pews, and be run by a board that is truly committed to running a Christian ministry in a Christian manner. And Danny needs to be removed from the public eye and from public contact so he can make his decisions as to morality or immorality in some private corner of the world where no one will know and where he will not have any influence on anyone anywhere.

Watchbird, I don't understand the change in your tone, but I guess this is a hot topic for many of us.

I'll go quickly through some of your statements that I have enumerated for easier reading.

1. I am afraid you don't have the whole picture, PMC does not depend on 3abn to make their services available to those whose main attachment to the SDA is through the services of PMC. They are also on Hope chanel, and some other cable every week. That is a weak excuse for support of ministry such as 3abn and everything that goes with it.

2. How often do you listen his sermons, and how do you know he is not soft on sin?

3. If Dwight Nelson thinks it's OK to talk about it publicly, and it is a public sin and public knowledge to begin with, I don't see anything wrong with bringing it up.

4. Yes, we heard some "rumors" about him suffering a lot for his brothers actions, but you can judge somebody's views only by the words he speaks out loud, and that is what I commented today.

5. It sounds neat, but Greg is NOT his twin brother, Dwight calls him "my baby brother!"

6. I am certainly glad they are out of the sda ministry, but I would not bet on being out of the Adventist circles.

As far as Danny is concerned, as much as I would like to see him out of the public view, he is the owner of 3abn, and there is no law that can make him move from that position. He is NOT connected with the SDA, and therefore not even the Church can replace him.

I did my part when I stopped sending our monthly donation, I stopped watching them, and I support those who are revealing the truth about them through various avenues. Just like I was doing before with promoting them to anybody who would listen, now, if I have the chance, I'll tell everyone about this site, and a few main things I have learned on it. But that's about it. I don't believe we can separate 3abn from DS. Like it or not, it is a PRIVATE business. I think our church should seperate herself from them, not allow them to have rallys in our churches, and educate their members about dangerous teachings they are exposed to if they do watch.

And once we do our part, the Lord will indeed take care of it! His will be done on earth as it is in heaven!

Oh my! You know I missed this completely, untill someone else quoted it today. Wow! FHB, strong words, and I actually would like to answer you somewhat. My point to BS is that it was Saturday night almost immediately after sundown. For the most part members are kind of slow to start up with this forum again, and enjoy the break from the stress. I was only suggesting that he, and the rest of you do the same. Will your statments have had any less impact on Sunday, if you had lingered in the presence of the Lord and fellowshipped a while? You all could have even went into LC, had went to a room and chatted amongst yourselves if you really have decided this is an 'us and them" kind of thing. You could have had your own tournaments in the arcade between yourselves. I even see that Cindy has been to the arcade and done well. I am so glad! Truly glad.

That was my only point. now if you think it warranted all this you are saying then so be it. Yes, I have decided who is most credible in this saga to me for reasons I have already posted many times, and we disagree on this one subject. However, I think the fact that I am still willing to see everyone here as family member of BSDA and just fellow ship, talk about our families, our interests, likes, dislikes(YES!!! even yours, Lees, Bystanders, and Cindy's) None of us ARE 3ABN, I want to believe it doesn't so consume any of our lives that we have forgotten all else. I am almost positive that we each ccan find somethings in common and on whic we agree if we really tried just a little bit. That was really my only point. I think you all rea so focused on"defending" that you were blinded to all else. Seeing it as an attempt to silence you "side". Has this consumed you rlives that much? I sitll say try it sometimes, you might be surprised. I have had a great time meeting new people here, even ones who just came for the 3ABN saga and took a chnace and reached outside of that forum.

BTW, Thanks everyone! I and honored and really enjoy serving here at BSDA. i try to do a good job, becuase Calvin has placed trust in me, and I wast to live up to that confidence he has in me.

You have to be kidding? What was done to you was wrong, wrong , wrong. You know that, I am sure it must have crushed your spirit to a great extent and I for one am sorry that any "christians" would treat a young person like that. But then to turn around and say I want the same for DS? That is like saying "I was beat as a child so I want to see other children beat the same way I was."

Somehow it seems to me that that is a huge departure from biblical Christianity and the hree angels' messages.

\nd excuse me: I have a problem with folks who lost their ministry over having an affair blaming :veryone else for the aftermath.

t also doesn't appear that Greg and Shasta are giving any instruction to their group (instruction would e contrary to not telling people what is right) in what the Bible teaches about adornment, or what the 3ible says about the penalty of "going after strange flesh."

Thank you for the link to the video. One wonders whether they will ever recover their own spiritual equilibrium and "come to themselves" and truly repent of the evil they have done. Certainly, if nothing else this gives us a glimpse into the world of "spirituality" and the "common thread" running through all false religions... which is a worship of self in the place of God.

God created us as individuals, with the responsibility to make choices between right and wrong, good and evil.... and with those choices comes the opportunity to know the joy of acceptance, both by the "ecclesia" the "called out ones", and by the God who made and loves them and wants to fellowship with them... both individually and in communion with each other and Him. But with the making of evil choices, the truth that God loves all, sinners and saints both, becomes transformed into the lies of Satan... that man can be healed by looking within themselves and find acceptance among those who likewise build their "spiritual houses" on the shifting sands of their own mound of sins... terribly sad. Terribly tragic.

Fortunately, while there is life there is hope, and Greg and Shasta are still alive. I cannot help but think of another Adventist pastor who made a different but similar choice and also moved to San Francisco... though not into a ministry.... who later recovered himself and returned from the "Far Country". Will Greg and Shasta ever make the same return journey? Or will they succeed in supporting themselves... and finding enough others to affirm them... to seal their final end with the flattering calluses of self-affirming spirituality.

We can only wait and pray.

Thank you, Pickle, it is indeed very sobering and disturbing video. I need some time to recuperate.

My heart is bleeding to see such a deception, thinking that you can rise above God Himself, above His Law, His Word, and His Love...when you replace it with all-including humanistic ideas... and think that you don't have to answer anybody for anything. Very disturbing.

No, I don't believe Dwight is supporting all of it, but I am sorry to say, I see some of those strange ideas in his teachings as well. He is desperatly reaching for God's mercy lately, and we all need that, no question, but there IS a place for publicly denouncing a public sin as well (not only his brother's), or teaching that there IS such a thing called SIN, and what it is!

As for the above:

It was not wrong. It was RIGHT. However it was not done in LOVE in my church. "IT" has not been done fairly within the SDA Church. That aside.

Danny Shelton needs to go through what is done in our church to adulters and those that fornicate. Tommy Shelton needs to go through what is done in our church/by law to rapist/molesters.

1. Danny Shelton has divorced a woman for "no reason". Thus per the SDA Church he should not minister, be on the books as a member, preach, teach, lead Pathfinders, or claim "office" until he has confessed and been rebaptized pubically.

2. Danny Shelton married another woman under "false pretense" and was "seeing" said woman before the divorce took place. Thus per the SDA Church he should not minister, be on the books as a member, preach, teach, lead Pathfinders, or claim "office" until he has confessed and been rebaptized pubically.

3. Tommy Shelton molested children. Thus per the law of the land he should be prosecuted. Just because you "apologize" does not mean that you are not held to the law of the land.

As for attacking me through my profession (as I already AM a Therapist) I teach that consequences come from actions. How do we change our consequences? Change the actions that take place before them!

What are the consequences of your actions?

am at a loss here not knowing these people and their ministry. Can someone fill me in please?

True, God saves us individually. But that's different than saying that each of us decides for ourselves what salvation IS, and what THE standard IS.

hus we apparently see on that video the approach of spiritualism rather than the biblical gospel.

Greg was pastor at Union College, and he and his wife, and Shasta and her husband, went to the northwest to start up a church in the city. They didn't stay on the straight and narrow, lost their jobs, and eventually married. Shasta was on the pastoral staff for awhile of a church in southern California prior to that.

you see it that way.... I would say that the church cannot define either salvation or what the standard is..... biblical gospel tells me that the Holy Spirit will lead and guide me into all truth and into relationship with The Creator.... thus I see where you are coming from but I would not label the video spiritualism....

So what about their ministry now and this video you are talking about. Who made it and what is the basic message of it?

I would also not label the video "spiritualism". Ellen used several labels to designate various types of error and false doctrine.... spiritualism was only one of those.

Scripture, besides assuring us that he Holy Spirit will guide us into all truth, also makes it plain that there are ways that "seem right to a man" but the "end thereof is death". It also puts a condition on the guiding of the Holy Spirit.... that we have to have an attitude of wanting to do His will before we can expect Him to lead us into His will.

If you will examine the ministry website, you will find no mention of anything that might be construed as being even a hint of their mission being to lead people to God.... or to even suggest that individuals have to be willing to be lead of God before He will lead them. What you find is the total acceptance of all religions in the world on equal basis and total acceptance for whatever those who come think about things of a spiritual nature.... not only as a place to start... but as a belief system within which to set their goals for "healing" and developing their "spirituality".

The various speeches reminded me VERY much of the New Age materials that I read a few years ago... some being by Christians who had seen the error of the narrow strictures of "organized religion" and were correcting that by preaching a gospel of "do your own thing" be "faithful to your own inner desires".... and let the chips fall where they may..... no matter who else gets hurt in the process.

BS, I would suggest you watch it and it will tell you both answers you have asked.
It's better to determine this yourself, I think.

Thank you Clay. I just saw the video and see it very similarly to you. In addition:

We each have a personal insight to God that no one else can or should have. I believe that God judges us all in the venue in which we find ourselves. True, what they did was absolutely wrong and very hurtful to their spouses and children. But what are they to do now? To divorce would not be either right nor necessary in God's sight. Just because we cannot see their pain which was spoken of in the video and their clear recognition of the pain that they caused their former spouses and families, does not give us the right to say that they must keep out of sight forever. Nor do we have a right to say that they cannot use their unique talents for the reaching of new people for God. We do not have a right to say that their ministry is against God just because we don't hear the same 'thou shalt not's' and 'you must do's' that we grew up with. (I contend that our church has been unbiblically 'controlling' of the lives of its members from the beginning. Remember, Jesus put a ring on the boy when he brought him home; the coin was from a dowry set that the women wore to be 'dressed up'; and the pearl of great price was not something sitting on a shelf! Yeah, I hear you about the spiritual application, but these were examples taken from the daily life of those who were in his hearing!) I did not, in any sense, hear Greg and Shasta blaming anybody else for their situation as was mentioned by someone earlier in this thread.

There is a place for their ministry as far as I can see, because there are many who have been disenfranchised by the formal religious institutions of the day including and perhaps especially by the SDA church. But most of us have not walked in their shoes, have not felt the condemnation that they have felt, even from themselves, nor have most of us understood the forgiveness of God which I believe they have been freely given. Most of the time, I hear or see nothing but condemnation and the idea that these people must be continuously judged by what they have been forgiven for, not what they are doing in the present. We don't have the right to withhold forgiveness from those whom God has forgiven; and we don't know exactly who that is, unless we look in the mirror!

Well, it's time to get down from my soapbox now.

Bye, JT

Remember, Jesus put a ring on the boy when he brought him home; the coin was from a dowry set that the women wore to be 'dressed up'; and the pearl of great price was not something sitting on a shelf!

Two thoughts:

1) What I recall, and it's been awhile since I've seen the thing, is that there are no Thou shalt not's and You must do's. And it is unbiblical when we deny that there are or ought to be, or declare that the only ones should be the ones I decide upon.

Both Saul of Tarsus and Cornelius asked what God wanted them to do, and both were told to listen to another human being tell them what they were supposed to do. It's a balance. We each must decide for ourselves what is truth, and yet we must listen to others as well. Truth must be based on the Word of God.

2) If we blame such standards on the church trying to be controlling, then to be fair we ought to acknowledge that http://www.ellengwhite.info/jewelry-contradiction-b.htm#fin, http://www.ellengwhite.info/jewelry-contradiction-b.htm#spu, and http://www.ellengwhite.info/jewelry-contradiction-b.htm#wes were just as controlling.

But really, we need to blame such standards on God, for as Oscar Lane pointed out back in 1984 in New Orleans, after God listed all the adornments of the daughters in Jerusalem in Is. 3:18-23, He called it all "filth" in Is. 4:4, and said in that same verse that if we don't take it off, He's going to burn it off. That point of Oscar Lane has stuck in my mind all these years.

On any given Bible topic there are verses that don't seem to fit. But personally, on this one, I think Spurgeon, Finney, and Wesley were correct, and they weren't Adventists.

Does it seem Linda perpetuated and enhanced those differences between brothers? Yes it certainly does. That speaks for itself in the very fact that Linda took Kenny's place as Vice President when her previous position had been a secretary and the writer of the first small newsletter.

Let's get back to the original topic. Perhaps the topic of Greg Nelson and his ministry belongs in another area or a thread of it's own.

Have you given the true story, Bystander? A story, YES! True, NO!

s there any documentation that states Kenny Shelton was ever a co-founder of 3ABN? NO! Kenny was he Vice-President of 3ABN, but he was never called the co-founder of 3ABN. Co-founder was the title hat was given to Linda Shelton, before she was ousted from the ministry she co-founded with Danny Shelton. Prior to being fired from the ministry Linda was always listed as the co-founder of the Ministry. In the book written by Bob Ellis, "A Channel of Blessing", which was authorized by Danny Shelton, Linda is referred to as the co-founder of 3ABN. Ten days after his vision to build 3ABN, Dan and Linda were married. Together, as a married couple, they founded 3ABN. Now with Linda removed rom 3ABN, Dan alone is referred to as founder of 3ABN in all their literature. No mention is ever made of Kenny.

When 3ABN began, Danny was president, his brother Kenny was Vice-President, Kenny's wife Emma Lou was in charge of the accounts and Linda was the secretary and answered all the mail---later she would write a newsletter.

Soon Danny became angry with the way his older brother was spending money without checking with him. Since Kenny's wife was in charge of the accounts, Kenny would go directly to her and have her cut a check for his purchases, rather than checking with Danny first. Kenny was very prideful and as the older brother, he did not feel that it was necessary to always get Danny's approval and made his own judgements concerning expenditure. In time he began to usurp Danny's authority more and more, finally to the point where Danny took his complaints to the 3ABN Board. Kenny's unwillingness o recognize the authority of his younger brother over him as President and co-founder of 3ABN with his wife, Linda, finally resulted in his firing from 3ABN. Their mother and sister sided with Kenny and quit their involvement with 3ABN at the same time.

It was not until well over a year later when the Board appointed Linda Shelton to the position of vice-president of 3ABN.

And Kenny's moral character? I believe that stone has already been turned over and layed to rest as requested.

saiah 3:18-23 NKJV mentions scarves, veils, perfume boxes, mantles, outer garments, purses, mirrors, fine linen, turbans and robes. These are "filth"? Do you think men's ties would qualify as "filth"? And exactly why do men shave their beards? So they can look like the "world"? To get in touch with their feminine side?

I'm not defending jewelry, but it is strange that many Adventists look with disdain on a woman wearing a ring or necklace while the rich businessman/doctor living in a mansion and driving an expensive car is made head elder.

Oh, thank GOD!!! I thought I was the only one who thinks like that. I've never quite been able to figure out that adornment thing...and I have often wondered about it in the context of mens' ties!! And also, women who wear belts...oh, and pins are OK I guess...! My academy experience was so filled with that kind of stuff that I got turned off of SDAism at a young age. Seemed they were more worried about make-up and jewelry than they were with my walk with Jesus... And yet, as you say, mansions and expensive cars are not specifically called out in the Bible!! Even back to the adornment thing...imagine two women who are dressing for SDA church...one spent $500 on the dress alone not to mention the matching shoes, purse and other "acceptable" accessories...and the other shows up in a simple JCPenneys (please, no offense to anyone who shops at JCP...I have shopped there many a time...) outfit with a string of fake pearls and...oh my...can you imagine...??? Ughhhh... I have struggled with that for YEARS!! Thank you SO much, gracetoyou, for sharing your perspective and helping me see that its not just me...!!!

OK sorry. that I was ofl but I feel better. Thank you for listening.

was also glad to see both of you respond in writing the same way I did emotionally to the post. noopy your experience is very similar to my own. I have also experienced watching SDA women treat mployees of mine (who were dressed very tastefully) in a manner that was horribly condescending nd that was anything but that of a christian. Yes..yes...I know, this thread is still off topic, and we could be doing this in the proper forum here at BSDA (which I have been to), but oddly enough, it has come up here too, and that may not be such a bad thing! I would venture to say it's a large population of us that feel this way....this is one reason why there are different types of churches (yes, SDA) doing things in different ways. Many of us could tell stories and tell of many kinds of inconsistencies we have seen up close. They were clearly wrong and damaging, more then most realize. But I think we might have to get back on topic, and join each other in the other forums where we could really talk about it all!

If it were me, I would get up and each SS if it was my week, get up in front to make an announcement regardign the women's ministry, and attend board meeting. I do all these things and yet ans till wear my jewelry. I really want somebody to say something.......

.......actually my pastor did on the last Women's day. He reached over just before I was walking out to do the welcome, after making sure the other's on program were in their places, and says, Diane, I'm asking everyone to take off their jewelry when we are serving up front. Now, at this point he had been there five years, and I was on the board who interviewed him when he came, jewelry and all. Nto to mention he had a pair of the biggest pink stone cuff links I had every seen. In fact, I would never even wear earrings that large(nothing against them, just not my style).

Now, a little background. it ws also the end of a Rev. Sem. and they were doing baptisms and the Pstor/Bible worker there must have said something to him about asking the candidates to take off their jewelry and then seeing several of us women up front(more than not) with ours on. Anyway, our church had not had t hose issues in ooooh wee so you know I did not take it well. I thought about the fact that sevice had already started, and I was responsible.for the day and how it would sound for everybody to hear me cussing out the pastor, and how fast my Mother would get back there. I told him only because he asked me two minutes before I was to go up front, and I was in charge with guests there(and Missthg had not arrive yet to pull me up off him), but that me and him were going to have a come to Jesus meetin' later. Anyway He hasn't asked me again, and I wear themeach and every week.......

You are so welcome, Snoopy. And thank you to Grace to you, and Noah's wife. I'm glad I could be of service to you all. tableta Now if we could just get Pickle and Oscar Lane (Who/Where is he anyway?!) and the rest to listen with an ear that is not plugged with the stubborness of foolish scriptural twisting plea I love you guys, but really! notworkir oo sorry. ofl There's a lot more that I would like to say, but we do need to take it to another thread. Maybe, "Are we a cult? Thoughts/Points to ponder" And another day, too. G'nite all.

Just a comment:

I wear a suit that a major store was selling for $500.00 In fact I wear several of them.

However, I paid $75.00 for that suit, and several others. And, I purchased it in that same major store, brand new. It was not a return. By the way, the alterations were free.

I live in a place where competation exists. Those $75.00 suits that I purchased were bought during a special 4-hour sale. If I had not purchased them during that 4-hour sale, I could have purchased them for $125.00, plus alterations, during a 24-hour sale. In this area, those special 24-hour sales are held about 2 to 3 times a year. That special 4-hour sale was a once a year sale.

Folks do not assume that becasue you believe a person is wearing clothing that they paid $X.xx for that you are correct. They may not be a lot less. Due to major competation where I live, my goal is to purchase my clothing at 15% to 25% of it normal selling price. Most of the time I can achieve that. Occasionally, I have to pay 33% for someting that I really want.

By the way, while I do not purchase these, I could in this area: We have a specialty store that stocks men's suits that regulary sell for from $1, 250.00 to $1,500.00, and this store sells them for a LOT less. They are major brands. In addition, during special sales, I have seen men's shoes selling for $900.00, go on sale for $600.00. No, I would never do that.

NOTE: I do agree that we have often spent to much emotional engergy on the clothes (mainly clothes that women wear) that people wear, and not enough on the relationship.

That point of Oscar Lane has stuck in my mind all these years.

Oscar Lane...... boy was that a blast from the past... His interpretation of that text was wrong.... completely wrong.... but some folks seem to like his zeal..... Anytime someone focuses on external appearance they have missed the message....

Jewelry was never my thing, even as a Baptist. I only wore earrings sometimes but basically they were just a nuisance (sp?) and I hated rings. I kept taking them off to wash my hands and losing them. I've never understood the fascination with jewelry:-) or neck ties:-) When I joined the SDA church, I wore really short short mini skirts. Those dear old ladies at the church never said a word about the way I dressed. Every Sabbath, they would hug me and tell me how glad they were to see me and never, ever said a thing about my dress or lack thereof. Gradually, I came to understand the whole modesty thing and lengthened my skirts.

So how will you distinguish an Adventist in heaven from other Christians?

Adventists won't have jewels in their crowns. Their crowns will just have a big watch.

Again, I'm not advocating jewelry. Don't wear it myself. But there are much more important issues in Christianity on which to focus.

"There is no need to make the dress question the main point of your religion. There is something richer to speak of. Talk of Christ, and when the heart is converted everything that is out of harmony with the Word of God will drop off." Evangelism 272

Daylily, you were fortunate to worship with mature, loving Christians who allowed you to grow spiritually without condemnation or offensive confrontation.

"No one has ever been reclaimed from a wrong position by censure and reproach; but many have thus been driven from Christ and led to seal their hearts against conviction.... The revelation of Christ in your own character will have a transforming power upon all with whom you come in contact." Thoughts From the Mount of Blessing, 129

Yes, I was. For years, I thought all SDAs were like these people at "my" little church but sadly, I've heard and read much that blows that idea out of the water

Three sermons ago at a particular church, I hit jewelry, but not just jewelry. I hit spending too much on houses too. I heard a documentary in January on American homes, how they keep getting bigger and bigger. I recall from that documentary a family of three that had a 7000 square foot home with 7 bathrooms. Christian stewardship doesn't just deal with jewelry. If God has given us surplus, He's given it to us to advance the cause of God and help our fellow man, not spend it on ourselves and bury it in the earth.

We need to be careful that we don't use the inconsistencies and unchristlikeness of others to excuse our neglect of obeying Christ in any matter, including what He has said about jewelry.

Sometimes when you dig into what Robert Sanders says, it gets kind of funny.

Take a look at http://www.ellengwhite.info/jewelry-contradiction-a.htm, which deals more with what Dirk Anderson says than about Sanders. (It needs a little updating.)

But here's the point: Sanders says on that page, "Ellen G. White proudly wearing her Gold Chain 'Idol' with her twin sister Elizabeth Harmon Bangs seated." How can Sanders tell from a B&W photo that she's wearing a gold chain?

Ask the White Estate and they will tell you that the "gold chain" is actually a "chain" made out of Ellen White's hair. Look at the original real close, something the critics hardly ever do, and you'll be able to see how that is the case.

Posted by: LaurenceD Mar 21 2007, 10:08 AM

I had to look up Dirk Anderson to find the actual picture. It does resemble hair, or something, in places, but there's also some kind of metal (I had to copy and zoom in). Perhaps it's a combination so that both statements are true (or ½ true)?

guess I Really do not understand the big deal, if her chain was gold what is the big deal, if it was ot, whats the big deal.

Posted by: LaurenceD Mar 21 2007, 10:27 AM

It may not be a big deal, but it may be the real deal. Not sure though. It is important to be able to square the biblical with the Sop, and with what one saying it actually does. One quote has EW saying she has worn the pin ever since it was given to her... "for it is handy and becoming, while it is not showy at all." --Letter 32a, 1891, pp. 2, 3. (To J. E. and Emma White, December 7, 1891.)

BTW, I'll spare you the details here, for the sake of OT, but I have a theory why Paul says women should cover their heads for the angel's sake (based on an old text from the book of Enoch).

Here are the facts:

1) EGW did wear more jewelery than SDAs thought. This is demonstrated by the availability of certain photographes that show her wearing some jewelery.

2) The problem is that in the case of the most published one (actually two) of those photographs, the jewelry that she was wearing was "airbrushed" out of the photograph. So, she is presented as not wearing jewelery when in actuality, she was.

3) While the above is true, that does not mean that the website cited, is accurate in what it says. IOW, the reality may be that she wore jewelery less than one might think from going to that website.

4) How does one reconcile the reality that she wore some jewelery, with what she said in her writings? Two possible responses come to my mind:

a) She was an imperfect human, who did not always live up the standards that she taught. I think that there is some truth in this, and I apply this to some issues, such as diet. People who know our denominational history, know that she taught dietary issues ahead of her practice.

'b) The other response posiblly is: EGW was a reasonable woman who basicly lived what she taught. So, in looking at her actual practice, we can see an example of how she applied her teachings on jewelery to her life. In doing so, we may see that her teachings on jewelery have been distorted by some, and she did allow some. This is the position that I thaink applies, at least in part, to this question.

O.K. Back to the subject:

And also, women who wear belts...oh, and pins are OK I guess...! My academy experience was so filled with that kind of stuff that I got turned off of SDAism at a young age. Seemed they were more worried about make-up and jewelry than they were with my walk with Jesus... And yet, as you say, mansions and expensive cars are not specifically called out in the Bible!! Even back to the adornment thing...imagine two women who are dressing for SDA church...one spent $500 on the dress alone not to mention the matching shoes, purse and other "acceptable" accessories...and the other shows up in a simple JCPenneys (please, no offense to anyone who shops at JCP...I have shopped there many a time...) outfit with a string of fake pearls and...oh my...can you imagine...??? Even though I am not a big supporter of jewelry, there is much too be said for some of the opinions I have read here. Why is your ring worse than my cuff links or tie pin. The same for women wearing make up. If I see a woman all made up like Jezebel, yes, I admit, it gives me a bad impression, but normal make up wear I see nothing wrong with. Women get a bad rap on this subject all the way around. Some men might not believe in make up but they themselves might wear a rug....What is the difference. You could say it is all vanity and vexation of the spirit right? It is all an attempt to look nicer. JMO but there is an awful lot of gray area and fine lines with what is ok and what is not. As I said, even though As an adventist I am not to fond of wearing jewelry but when I find myself in a position to try to explain why this is ok, but this is not, I am left stuttering and stammering.

hank you for that, Bystander. We are in total agreement on that one!! I think there is a big difference etween the steps one (man or woman) might take to make themself look neat and well-kept with a ealthy self-image vs. steps one might take to simply draw attention to themselves or how much noney they might have...but that is just me. What I truly admire about the perspective you share is hat what is "right" might be different for everyone due to the grayness of the issue. In my case, this ype of thing, among many others, was such a big enforcement deal in academy that I ended up vanting to do and try everything "they" said not to... It has taken years for me to come around to the ealization that Jesus loves me for who I am, regardless of whether I feel better about my appearance f I use a necklace or a pair of earrings or a belt or a pin to accessorize my outfit, or if I feel better ibout my eyes if I use mascara to outline them a bit more than nature did...!!!! I no longer expect to ee the jewelry/make-up guard just outside the gates of heaven... ☐

Denny,
Ouch! Perhaps I could agree with you if you had said "Thats cos the interpretation of our doctrine..." IMO, I am very comfortable with most of the doctrine this denomination holds.

Di,

Oh, would that I had been a fly upon that church platform on that fiesty Sabbath morn!

Recently, a sister in my local Sabbath School related the story of how her nephew, a small, sweet but typical 13-year-old rebel, attended a youth function at a smaller SDA church in our area. Nature called and he visited the little teenage-boys-room. As he tried to exit said room, he found the door being held shut from the outside. He pushed and pushed, not aware that a white-haired elderly gentleman was blocking the door. When the teen's panic began to get the better of him and he started to yell for help, the "gentleman" allowed the door to open but then ripped, get that, ripped the small pierced earring from this youth's ear, causing it to bleed quite severely. Why? He felt it was his duty to remove this sinful item. The pastor told the mom that what the man had done to her son was assault and she was free to file a complaint with the police. She, though shaken, and her son decided it best to forgive and move on - literally. This is an example of how not to woo our youth into a relationship with our Lord, IMO.

As I poured over Isaiah 3 this morning, it appears to this older woman that the point of this chapter is not so much an early rendition of our current SDA standards but is, instead, refering to God's children living in a state of apostasy. This nation, who were "circumcised"or sanctified - set apart - from others by their relationship with the Lord had, once again lost their spiritual connection and were focusing on the superficial and earthly things for their identity.

Don't get me wrong, I agree that stewardship is important and will often expose where our heart and focus lies. I don't personally have any desire to wear jewelry other than the occasional brooch to hold something in place, but I believe our personal and corporate emphasis should be the soul and not the skin. Focusing on the latter tends to cause bleeding.

PB

I know this is off topic but I really wanted to add my 2 cents.

Di,

Sorry. It took me forever to jot my thoughts down so I didn't see your orders.

Di, it was a fellow member type sister. I believe the elderly gentleman was thoroughly admonished by the pastor and/or elders of the error of his ways. I don't know if he has learned his lesson or not. Hope so.

The big deal is when critics dishonestly hide the fact that she was wearing a pocket watch. She never condemned the wearing of a pocket watch, and I don't think Spurgeon, Wesley, or Finney did either.

The airbrushing referred by Observer I believe does not have to do with Ellen White.

What Jesus testified in the 19th century is not based on sand anymore than what He testified back when he was here on earth, or by His Spirit through Paul or Peter or any of the other Bible writers.

We must be careful that we do not make of none effect what He has said. We don't want to make of none effect the commandments of God through our tradition or through any other means, regardless of the topic, whether it be adornment, lying, adultery, or stealing.

And at the same time we'd better be careful that we don't offend the little ones.

Posted by: YogusBearus Mar 21 2007, 01:32 PM

I don't really want to jump into this one because I think it reinforces the old "majoring in minors" problems we've had. I would however suggest that before you take to strong a stand on the "airbrushing" references, that you go to the GC vault to view the original pictures.

Just a suggestion...

lease understand is all that i meant was that if bible teaches that we should be modest in attire, and i irmly belief that it does. then when you look at her pictures and compare them to the pictures of ther women of her day then you would know that the a single gold chain was not what she was peaking about, she lived what she taught. I fully realize that critics of her are very quick to jump on er about everything. but just because they are so foolish does mean that i have get stirred up about .

n the whole jewelery thing, if it is a sin to wear expensive jewelery, then why would it be a sin, well ecause it draws the focus of people looking at me to me and not on to the "Light of the World" that hould be shining out of me. I have seem women and men of other Churches that jewelery on that over up any light of god from shining out of them, but then i have seen very properly dress SDA that such a frown on their whole face that the light of the world did not shine out of them either.

also think that the jewelery issue does carry over to cars, homes, planes, clothes, i guess the necktie hing i do not get because women wear scarfs around their necks, and that seems to me to be closer o a necktie then a gold chain around their neck.

Erik,

I combined comments about several posts all together, and thus it might have seemed like all my comments were directed to you, when they weren't. The only one directed to you was the first paragraph.

Possibly to get us back to the topic, I want to say that the whole 3ABN thing has gotten me to do a good bit of soul searching. I see it as a call for all of us, especially me, to get our house in order.

We all tend to rationalize away this or that, or to procrastinate about taking care of this or that. Yet in the horrendous situation at 3ABN we can see where all of that can take us. Certainly Tommy and Danny didn't get to the point where they allegedly did this or that overnight. It must have been one departure after another, one neglected duty here and another there.

It was only a piece of fruit, just a piece of fruit, that Adam and Eve ate. Such a little thing. What little things has the Holy Spirit spoken to me about that I've told Him, Not yet, or, That's not important, or, Maybe some day, or, Everyone else is doing it, or, I've already tried, etc., etc.

Yes, I've been doing some soul searching, and I think that is a good thing in these last days.

Bob,
You pegged it! The bottom line is, are we steadily laying a strong, spiritual foundation as we walk with our Lord or are we throwing up procrastination's house of cards on the sandy by default.

I'm sure each one of us can see instances in our lives where rationalizations brought us to places away from our Savior. A dangerous practice, indeed.

I think this is one of the most important principles. Just think about it... people today say so often: "It is such a small thing... Is God so small to hold me responsible for something like that?"

The other famous complaint is: "That is not important for salvation!"

I believe there is no small or unimportant thing in God's eyes. Everything we do is important and related to "salvation" (I actually don't like that term "salvation". It has more negative connotation for me, but that's another subject.)

Having said that, I want to emphasize that the most important thing is "the principle behind it." What is the principle behind, for examle not wearing jewelry, or doing or not doing something. Plus, to recognize the symptoms of the problem versus the real problem. What you see outside is only small portion of what is inside. But to fix the outside, you have to work on the inside. Outside always follows the inside. I would never work on the outside as a principle, until person has established a real trust in God and (I don't know better word for it, but I dislike the word "relationship" as I think it is overused and lost its meaning lately) has become a friend with the Savior. And by that time, there is no need to talk about those things, Holy Spirit is the one who works out the symptoms in his perfect time.

no.... some are comparing apples with oranges.... what we are talking about is a belief based on faulty interpretation.... it has nothing to do with rationalizing anything......

The KEY to understanding the passage is stated before you even get to the description of what the women were wearing.....

> QUOTE
> The LORD says: The women of Jerusalem are proud and strut around, winking shamelessly. They wear anklets that jingle and call attention to the way they walk.

God is addressing their PRIDE. He states that the women are proud, and because they are proud they dress a certain way.... God does not like pride... pride is an attitude..... it is internal.... the way they dressed was a symptom of their pride.....

What does the bible say God will do about one who is proud?

>
> Now I, Nebuchadnezzar, praise and extol and honor the King of heaven, for all his works are right and his ways are just; and those who walk in pride he is able to humble.

What does God want us to do?

Micah 6:8

>
> He has told you, O man, what is good; and what does the LORD require of you but to do justice, and to love kindness, and to walk humbly with your God?

Isaiah is not about jewelry.... its about attitude.....

Carmel,
Your statement is so beautifully put!

Every person who has committed their life to the Lord begins a journey. If they heed the Still Small Voice as they go they will reach a most wonderful place - readiness to meet our Creator in the heavens! The church plays a part in this journey, as well. Each one, according to their God-given gifts, is to support their brothers and sisters. This, when done with God's power and according to His will, strengthens us as well.

At least that is the way I see it at this point in my own journey...

Good point. I've heard that jewelry salesmen appeal to pride when trying to sell their merchandise.

Mal. 4:1 would be another good verse. "For, behold, the day cometh, that shall burn as an oven; and all the proud, yea, and all that do wickedly, shall be stubble: and the day that cometh shall burn them up, saith the LORD of hosts, that it shall leave them neither root nor branch." I've been tempted to fax hat verse to Rush Limbaugh many times.

We talk so little about the sin of pride, and how God hates it so much. And from what I've read, that is on topic. Being a TV personality can go to one's head so easily, probably more than being able to make good points on an internet forum. My, we human beings are a sinful lot! We can pervert just about anything.

But where sin doth abound, grace doth much more abound.

Co-founder was the title that was given to Linda Shelton, before she was ousted from the ministry she co-founded with Danny Shelton. Prior to being fired from the ministry Linda was always listed as the co-founder of the Ministry. In the book written by Bob Ellis, "A Channel of Blessing", which was authorized by Danny Shelton, Linda is referred to as the co-founder of 3ABN. Ten days after his vision to build 3ABN, Dan and Linda were married. Together, as a married couple, they founded 3ABN. Now with Linda removed from 3ABN, Dan alone is referred to as founder of 3ABN in all their literature. No mention is ever made of Kenny.
>
> When 3ABN began, Danny was president, his brother Kenny was Vice-President, Kenny's wife Emma Lou was in charge of the accounts and Linda was the secretary and answered all the mail---later she would write a newsletter.
> Soon Danny became angry with the way his older brother was spending money without checking with him. Since Kenny's wife was in charge of the accounts, Kenny would go directly to her and have her cut a check for his purchases, rather than checking with Danny first. Kenny was very prideful and as the older brother, he did not feel that it was necessary to always get Danny's approval and made his own judgements concerning expenditure. In time he began to usurp Danny's authority more and more, finally to the point where Danny took his complaints to the 3ABN Board. Kenny's unwillingness to recognize the authority of his younger brother over him as President and co-founder of 3ABN with his wife, Linda, finally resulted in his firing from 3ABN. Their mother and sister sided with Kenny and quit their involvement with 3ABN at the same time.

find it extrememly interesting how a person would do anything to have control of a person, place or hing, that they would do it at the expense of even family.

I just have to add my 2 cents about makeup. Some time ago I heard Chuck Swindoll preach on the same issue, and said that: "women without makeup are like unmade bed in the morning!"

I hope I am not offending anybody, but I tend to agree with that. I don't know why should Christian women have to look like that, if they could discreetly emphasize something, and look and feel great about themselves, and look respectful to those around them.

My mom never put any makeup on herself, but I, even as a child, always enjoyed more the looks of those women that did. Now, I get that also from my kids, they just love when I look nice, and know exactly when is that (they are still very young).

As Pickle put it: "we can pervert just about anything", but I believe we need to take care of our bodies, how we look, and what kind of impression we leave on those around us.

I befriended a non-adventist girl in college (it was a public university), who came to my apartment to study with me. When she saw my room and my closet, she said: "but, you look normal, you don't look like a religious person". She thought that every religious person would look like people from century or two ago. Do you know what I mean?

OK, we can go back to the authorized version of 3abn.

Who can help me out? I have watched 3abn since '95, read their "Channel of Blessing" few years ago, and am now refreshing my memory again, but I have never, ever heard (or read) before, that Kenny was a vice president! How could that be? Why were they hiding those basic information from us?

Also, I can not understand why have they not said that the tv equipment came from Joe Crews. All the glory about the equipment went to the Steensons, and their equipment was not even as good as the Joe Crews's OLD one, and was never donated to 3abn . It is intriguing to me.

My dad is not an Adventist. We all were staunch Catholic at one time. My dad never did like makeup, and I remember Mom (a nurse) talking about how it can keep the skin from breathing properly and accelerate aging. Now maybe there is some that cause wrinkles earlier than typical, but I don't know.

Regarding 3ABN and co-founders, I have found an email by Walt Thompson in which he calls Linda a co-founder. Bystander, why would he do that?

Posted by: Noahswife Mar 22 2007, 05:50 PM

I know this is off topic but makeup today if properly applied and cleaned from the face at the end of the day does not cause premature aging of skin or wrinkles.

How Skin Ages and Wrinkles
How the skin ages and wrinkles is a very complicated process that involves an almost limitless range of physiological occurrences. There isn't any one cause that can be addressed with a cosmetic to erase or minimize the inevitable, because the "aging" process itself is so complex and intricate. Skin, all by itself, ages in many identifiable ways. Adding one plant extract or a vitamin to the skin won't address what is needed to deal with the myriad issues for slowing down the aging process. A series of extrinsic factors (sun damage, pollution, free-radical damage, smoking) and intrinsic factors (genetically predetermined cell cessation, chronological aging, hormone depletion, immune suppression) all culminate in what we define as aged skin.

It isn't just oxygen depletion, free-radical damage, collagen destruction, reduced cell turnover, abnormal cell formation, decreased fat content, intercellular deficiency, genetically predetermined cell shutdown, hormone loss, and so on, that affect the way skin ages—it is a combination of all these things and more taking place.

> Turn your comment right around to the lindanites. How would so many know family stuff as you put it if Linda wasn't the source? That being the case, that would mean she never followed the gag order. She Just put her words out through others.
> Measure both sides by the same stick hershey well, despite what the information is or where it came from, there is NO WAY to "measure both sides by the same stick". danny has a worldwide sattelite television platform and flanks himself with his 4 loyalites that are totally deceived by him. linda has friends. BIG difference.

i believe that danny has lost his way and has been accused justly on many counts and i find it heartbreaking. he has meant a lot to my life for a long time, but he got too big for his britches and took his position and his audience for granted. others on the board are guilty for covering up for him. all involved should be removed since they don't have the decency to remove themselves for the sake of 3abn. NO ONE wants to destroy 3abn!!!!!!!!! get that through your head. it's not the ministry that people are upset about. it is those involved in wrongdoing that people want to see brought to justice, NOT DESTROYED, but held accoutable. they need to quit hiding behind the ministry.
i don't think i am alone in saying that it's not vengence people want. i know i don't. i'm angry and disappointed, but even so, i want those who are guilty to be restored. i want them to see their sin, repent and be made new. i don't want them lost.
in an email i got from walt thompson he used the analogy of David to speak on Danny's behalf. i don't think he realised exactly what he did by using that analogy. in doing so (albeit it not meaning to) he disclosed that he knew danny had committed a great sin but presumed God has or will forgive him. i wrote him back and pointed this out to him and he avoided addressing that or any other issues i made. in about a dozen emails between us he never addressed any of the topics i asked about. in his replies to me he always preached to me of the sins of others or made scriptural references to defend themselves but he completely avoided answering any of my questions. that is very telling. deceiving, evading or whatever the tactic, it's the same as lying right out.

i don't like when people get hostile on here. there is no need for name-calling or insults. we should just be here to try to bring some resolution to this stinking mess. i think we should all pray before we even come on here. let's all agree to take the high road and not attack one another. that doesn't bring us closer to a resolution. let's just keep investigating and trying to get the truth out without getting hostile to one another. i understand getting angry when people come on here and completely defend what we know from the evidence we have seen is untrue. but let's remember why we are discussing this at all. we want to find out the truth. if other antagonize us, let's just ignore their post. let's just keep showing our evidence and sharing our ideas. we need to keep our focus and not get sidetracked by those who have no clue or don't agree with us. if that is possible, i think that is what we should do. God bless you all.

I wish they'd realize that comparing Danny to David is only valid if Danny says, "I have sinned," when sin is brought to his attention.

Does he behave more like Saul than David? Saul repeatedly told Samuel, "I have obeyed," when he hadn't. And Samuel told him, "Rebellion is as the sin of witchcraft, and stubbornness is as iniquity and idolatry."

Before Danny can be clear in the sight of heaven to promote and possibly profit from 10 Commandments Day, he needs to make sure he isn't guilty of idolatry and witchcraft.

You are right. You are angry and every post you make shows it. Unless you eyewitnessed all this ridiculous allegations about DS, and I do mean eyewitness, literally, then you are just another mouthpiece repeating what you have heard. That's ok, you're in the majority here.
I on the other hand have witnessed my share of LS's impact on the ministry and LS's impact by not being at the ministry. The positive difference is unbelievable. The mistakes that DS made all have to do with being beat down over and over by her over the doc and still asking for more. No matter how he was treat, no matter what she said to him, no matter how many lies were told, he was still doing whatever she ask of him. She says she left the house cause she was in danger. Yah right. That is why she had him come over and build her a deck when she moved out. That is why he made a half dozen trips helping her move. That is why they went out to eat over and over again during the process because she was so afraid of him. That is why she had him to take her after the divorce to the airport for her trip to Norway, that is why she had him take her to a botox appointment and yes I know the doctor's name and where he is located. That is why when he was building her deck and brought her breakfast, she told him to bring it to her in bed. And, he did. That was his big mistakes. She every move she made proved she was scared to death of him lol. IMO Even telling her months after the divorce that it still wasn't too late to reconcile and that he still loved her was a mistake. Telling her for twenty years how beautiful she was was a big mistake.
Yes, he made his share of mistakes, all concerning one thing, his marriage to her and what he was willing to take to get her to give up her relationship and stay with him.

I am an eyewitness to much of what I have said, and to much of Linda's behaviour. I also know, because I can see the books if I choose to, that DS has never took a penny that didn't belong to him, he has never cheated on Linda and he has never molested anyone. How strong do I know that? I would be willing to take a lie detector test if it came to that and for that matter I'm quite sure DS would. Has every decision he has ever made been correct? No, whose has? Has there things he probably wished he could do differently? I'm sure. Has any of those things been illegal or immoral, ABSOLUTELY NOT.
I promise you, you wouldn't want to go toe to toe with me on what I know or have access to, on the inner workings of 3abn. You might not like the way they do certain things, you might not like certain people's personalities or attitudes but that is a far cry from the allegations that you and others are making
So, unless you can prove all of your allegations in a court of law, and the burden of proof is on you, since you made them so, you would be wise to tone it down.

Now, now, BS. Now you started this thread by relating situations to which you were not an eyewiteness. In fact, I think you ahve closest you have gotten to "wirnessing" anything was seeing the froma distant the dialogue between The Dr., Johann, and WT, etc. Now that is if, of course, you are holding to the fact that you do not talk with Danny, he is not the source of your information, etc. However, it seems from this post that you are alot closer than admitted earlier. BS, you post are filled with more and more very personal information for someone who doesn't' know Danny. Now, please correct me if I missed something, I was MIA for a couple wekks when I was moving. Was it established, as many here have for Linda, that you are a close personal friend or relative? Not asking you to divulge your name, just asking has the true nature your realtionship with Danny been established?

Also, 3ABN was doing quite well with Linda there, apparently, so I think you and Danny(because I heard him make reference to how much better the programming direction was for the last 2 1/2 years), need to do that Linda was doing a terrible job thing a rest. That is just part of his anger at the loss of "control", so that now nothing she did was right. That is something he will eventually have to 'get over" and the fact that he still has to make her look bad for him to look good shows he is not quite over it. When he get "there" he wil be able to give her the credit due her, and not try to minimize and in some cases even erase her contributions to 3ABN.

So while you are talking about mozart being angry, your posts projects Danny's anger.

Ahhh, I see Bystander has returned in all his glory. I must take a moment to apologize to him. I was incorrect about John Dinzey still being the head of the Pastoral Department of 3ABN. WHY? Because I based my assumption that Johnny D. was still in that position upon the 3ABN website and the word of Danny Shelton, the last time he and Johnny were both on a Thursday night live program, this very month of March. It appears that Bystander is correct, Danny has very quietly moved J.D. Quinn into the position of head of the Pastoral Department a number of months ago. Why the silence and why the lies?

Again, why the secrecy about J.D. and his promotion? Is it because he does not have the qualifications to fulfill this position? He is not a Seventh-day Adventist Pastor nor does he have pastoral experience from any other denomination. But he is the husband of 3ABN's raising star: Shelley Quinn. Shelly co-authored books with Danny, does numerous programming on 3ABN and preaches respectfully of 3ABN's anointed prophet, Danny Shelton and is a department head at 3ABN. Of course, "loyalty to the ministry" is always rewarded.

Bastander, you haven't replied to my most recent post on this thread in regard to Kenny. Why? Do you find the truth uncomfortable?

Now, Sister, I see it this way/ Danny can set "his" pastorial staff anyway he likes. 3ABN is a ondependent ministry. He should, however, make it clear who are and are not the actual credentialed(sp) pastors on that staff. By calling it pastorial staff people will believe they are dealing an Adventist pastor, as 3ABN claims to be Adventist in it's doctrinal beliefs, programming, etc. Maybe stating who are the pastors and then saying the others are there to support those pastors might do it. Everything about a ministry claiming to be spreading God's Word, needs to be more than above board, avoiding the appearance of eveil. In this case being less than honest about the make up and function of the members of the pastorial staff.

ister, did you not get the memo? Calvin said Kenny is off limits. As far as pointing out the "mistakes" ou have made in your hundreds of misleading posts, I decided maybe I better just "write a book" in ny spare time to point them out. Otherwise, it would be so time consuming, one would have to quit heir day job.

h and on the other subject, I said I was wrong about Johny being the head of pastoral and I was vhen I said it. Of course he still held that position when they discussed it on the live (unless it was a erun of course) If you had gotten your information correctly, which you never seem to do, you would ave been told that since J is the general manager of latino that it has been hard for him to carry on vith both titles. So, obviously they had been waiting for someone to move in that position. As far as D Quinn not being an ordained minister, as you pointed out, neither was J Dinzey but that didn't eem to hurt his job performance and I doubt it will hurt JD's onestly, sister, all of this is so minute and amounts to nothing. Wouldn't your time be better spent on vriting your ahah book?

Now Di, Nowhere have I ever said that at no time in my life, have I ever talked to DS. I have never said, that no time in my life, I have never talked to Linda either. Hershey misquoted that part of my post.
You jumped a little quick to say the only thing I have ever eyewitnessed was the campmeeting. Who said that? In fact I have said just the opposite. I have seen things with my own eyes in many different instances and have said so on this forum.
Again, you assume, I am angry by my post to Mozart. First of all, I am not. Second of all did you address Mozarts anger when he first came on here ranting and raving? If not, you again, are not using the same measuring stick.
I am not angry. I am tired of people who don't know what they are talking about, or who have gotten most of their info from Linda, going on these undeserved tirades.

Bystander,

This part of your post seems strange to me. Unless you are always with Danny, everywhere he travels, 24 hours a day, 7 days a week, you could not possibly know that he "never cheated on Linda" or "has never molested anyone".

Unless you had been in his home any time his step-daughter was there, you could not possibly know he didn't molest her, as alleged.

If you are not Danny, which you have stated emphatically you are not, there is no way possible that you could make these statements as if they are facts.

You said that you know these things so strongly that you are willing to submit to a lie detector test. Your loyalty is admirable. I think you MAY truly believe what you are posting. Lie detectors work by detecting stress levels, breathing patterns, and sweat, which can be measured as a person tries to conceal the truth.

If you truly believe what you are posting, a lie detector test would be of no use. You would not be lying, based on what you believed to be true. You would only be mistaken.

I do not know whether the accusations against Danny are true, and unless you are Danny, you have no way of knowing either. You are taking someone at their word. I am not questioning your honesty, I am questioning your dogmatic statements that "he has never cheated on Linda and he has never molested anyone".

If you are not Danny, you must listen to both sides, just as I must do, and come to a decision on what you believe to be true based on the evidence presented. You must keep in mind that even when you make up your mind who you believe, the possibility that you are wrong is still there.

I hope one day we will know the truth. I also hope that when the truth is exposed that those who were wrong in what they BELIEVED to be true are able to admit they were wrong.

The mistakes that DS made all have to do with being beat down over and over by her over the doc and still asking for more. No matter how he was treat, no matter what she said to him, no matter how many lies were told, he was still doing whatever she ask of him. She says she left the house cause she was in danger. Yah right. That is why she had him come over and build her a deck when she moved out. That is why he made a half dozen trips helping her move. That is why they went out to eat over and over again during the process because she was so afraid of him. That is why she had him to take her after the divorce to the airport for her trip to Norway, that is why she had him take her to a botox appointment and yes I know the doctor's name and where he is located. That is why when he was building her deck and brought her breakfast, she told him to bring it to her in bed. And, he did. That was his big mistakes. You now have zero credibility Bystander. Given enough rope it was only a matter of time until you hung yourself, through your own testimony.

Thanks sister. The way you wrote this up, I get to quote myself twice. I said: I am not DS and neither am I a spokesperson for DS.
Both true statements.

Now here is where you do your little spin and dance to change a few words here and there:

said: you say or insinuate that the only people that might defend 3abn on this forum would be close riends of Danny S. and/or his family.

You said that I said: That I am not a close friend of Danny Shelton and/or his family.
Big difference

Next you say that I said I was just another viewer.

actually said this:

here are still thousands and thousands of viewers out there who love and support 3ABN and the message it takes to the world. I am one of these.

Again nothing false about that statement. I am a viewer among many who love and support 3abn.

Sister, it appears that I may have to turn the tables on you and give you a little lesson on reading comprehension and social skills. First rule of social skills is not to be quite so free in throwing around that nasty little word "liar".
As far as comprehending what you read in posts or even in listening to those who give you information, you have shown consistently that a word here or there, added or taken away can change the whole story. Have you considered getting tested for ADD?

PS. As far as credibility goes you lost yours as soon as you posted your collection of fiction here.

Posted by: sister Mar 25 2007, 11:23 PM

Too little, too late, Bystander. People pay attention here. You have been caught in your lies.

You now claim:

1. I on the other hand have witnessed my share of LS's impact on the ministry and LS's impact by not being at the ministry.

2. I am an eyewitness to much of what I have said, and to much of Linda's behavior. I also know, because I can see the books if I choose to, that DS has never took a penny that didn't belong to him, he has never cheated on Linda and he has never molested anyone. How strong do I know that? I would be willing to take a lie detector test if it came to that and for that matter I'm quite sure DS would.

3. I promise you, you wouldn't want to go toe to toe with me on what I know or have access to, on the inner workings of 3abn.

Earlier you claimed:

1. I AM NOT DANNY SHELTON AND NEITHER AM I A SPOKESPERSON FOR HIM. You constantly say or insinuate that the only people that might defend 3abn on this forum would be close friends of Danny S. and/or his family. ...there are still thousands and thousands of viewers out there who love and support 3ABN and the message it takes to the world. I am one of these.

Sorry Bystander, the jig is up. To claim to have an intimate knowledge of and access to the "inner workings of 3ABN" it is not possible that you are just one of the thousands of viewers out there. I know Danny, he would not surrender the kind of information that you claim to have access to for any supporter of the ministry. You have revealed things that you could only know personally from Danny Shelton. I stand by my earlier evaluation of you, Bystander.

I agree Pete, even I would not have called Bystander "empty headed". I may have commented upon his falsehoods, lies, stupidity of logic, empty threats, etc., but would not have presumed to call him"empty headed". ☒ rofl ☒ ☒ rofl How nice of him to make the remark about himself. So, Bystander, how is the wind blowing through there, has it cleared out any of the innuendos, threats, etc., that were scattered near the bottom? What is the forecast? Any signs of tornados or is it only steam that is now blasting out from your ears? ☒

Fortunately for the rest of us your true character always shines through. Bystander it appears the water is too deep for you here, maybe you should go back to the kiddies pool where you would feel more comfortable and leave the serious discussion to the "big boys"? ☒ rofl

No, I didn't, reread, I was asking if I missed something. Apparently I have. Ansd you need to take it down a notch or two, and again re read my post. I did not say you were angry, but projecting Danny's anger, IOW, you have been speaking form him here, which is no secret, and he yet and still, 2 1/2 years and a year long marriage later, speak out of anger in regards to Linda(which means he should not have marrried until ALL of that was resolved, but that's another subject for another time). If you are close to him that would be only natural, you would see things from his point of view. That is all I am saying. Not saying it is wrong, it just is. There was also no reason to address Mozart's anger. Not quite sure where his is based, but not yet ready to invalidate it either.

I find it amazing that people can go from loving someone and being married to them for years, and then switch up and be angry and hateful once divorced.... I suspect some of that hatred and/or anger was festering for sometime......

Posted by: princessdi Mar 26 2007, 09:41 AM

Come on BS, this post is spin. Now the truth is since that first atatement on Jan 19, you posts have been increasingly filled with more and more personal information that can only come from the "inside". Now you can twist that all you want, but a normal 3ABN viewer, not even one living in T'ville and working at 3ABN would know. So those are either educated guesses or youa re someone in position to know those things. It is simple, you can't have it both ways.

So those are either educated guesses or youa re someone in position to know those things. It is simple, you can't have it both ways.

Actually I can have it both ways. I am a viewer and a supporter of 3abn and I have known some of the people involved, and I have eyewitnessed certain events. But, I never felt the need to dig for answers to certain questions and situations until I came here. Only after seeing this forum, did I asked questions, make phone calls and send emails. I have had contact with some directly involved and some not so directly. It has been "okayed" for me to contact who I want or see what I need to see. I would never have "chosen" to look into these situations on my own. But, sometimes we are pushed by the obvious opinions here, to do things we don't care to do. So, i have said it before and I will say it again. I have done my homework. I have ask my questions. I have talked to eyewitnesses as well as those involved second hand. I have my answers and proof to back it up on those things that can be proved. I am satisfied with what I know.

I actually find it hilarious that sister wants to call me a liar at every turn simply because she has "pretended" to be the only one around who really knows what she is talking about. Obviously the knowledge I have been able to obtain threatens her "star" status and her credibility in this saga. Why? Because I can directly refute an infinite number of her statements with the "true" facts which undermines her word and her position in coming here to carry out her smear campaign against DS and 3abn.
Sister, just try to relax and go with the flow. It was only a matter of time until your stories were found out. If not by me, then someone else would have done the job. The privilege just happen to fall in my lap.

Posted by: princessdi Mar 26 2007, 10:36 AM

Uh, first of all, nobody has star Status here but Jesus, so you can let that go. Secondly, you information then is no better than anyone else's. Sister, Johann, and other can make the same claim about knowing people involved, and in Johann's case, he trumps you each and every time. So, how are you considering your information superior to theirs? They have done their homework, also. Problem is because of biases of both sides nobody comes to the same conclusions.

Still, BS, your info is waaaay too inside for this pat answer you gave. Like I said you, whether you know it or not, are speaking for Danny. You either think we don't know that, or you are in denial yourself. Why else would you be "okayed" to contact who you want and see what you need to see? Do you think they would let you if you were speaking in Linda's behalf? And then are you seeing everything, in it's true form. Since you are being fed the information based on the questions, documents, testimonies presented here? Maybe you are right, you are not on the inside, but most defintiely being utilized to diseeminate that information. I can see where that would be a plus for them, passing on information to someone who is recieving it without question. The more you post, the more questions arise.........this is not Sabbath school.........

And once again, all the mud gets thrown at one side. Is there a possibility that Sister is getting fed her information from LS? Watchbird and ssom say they are fed and still try to play like they are objective. Johann in actuality, has been eyewitness to almost nothing where DS is concerned and has been fed much by LS andThe doc. So what? Let's not pretend that though the subject matter is deadly serious, most of the personas on here including those from your camp, are playing games. I agree with what Bystander said about fair treatment. How would you like it if I said what sister just said about Bystander? Here is what she said:

I agree Pete, even I would not have called Bystander "empty headed". I may have commented upon his falsehoods, lies, stupidity of logic, empty threats, etc., but would not have presumed to call him"empty headed". How nice of him to make the remark about himself. So, Bystander, how is the wind blowing through there, has it cleared out any of the innuendos, threats, etc., that were scattered near the bottom? What is the forecast? Any signs of tornados or is it only steam that is now blasting out from your ears?

Fortunately for the rest of us your true character always shines through. Bystander it appears the water is too deep for you here, maybe you should go back to the kiddies pool where you would feel more comfortable and leave the serious discussion to the "big boys"?

Sister

How insulting she is--yet nothing is done to stop her. I find this disgusting and repulsive. Sister is questioning Bystanders "character" and sister should be banned for it. If I had said this, I know I'd be banned....is BSDA prejudiced?

BlackSDA _ 3ABN _ Sacrificing Yourself For "the Ministry"

Posted by: Clay May 4 2006, 01:37 PM

To what extent should we sacrifice ourselves for the sake of "the ministry" or "the church?"

Listening to the dialogue now about the conditions at 3ABN, I believe that well meaning christians felt they were doing the right thing for the sake of that "ministry." My question though is this, if there is something morally or spiritually wrong with a ministry or a church, what obligation does a christian have to continue sacrificing themselves for that ministry?

At what point can it be said, this is wrong and should not be allowed to continue? Or are christians to keep silent and hope for the best?

Never! You should only sacrifice yourself, should the need arise, for people.

makes sense... sacrifice for people not things... how about ideas? The phrase being, "they sacrificed themselves for the good of the country..." Or does country = people?

Posted by: PaperTigers May 4 2006, 02:08 PM

I think saying NEVER sacrificing yourself is going a little to the extreme... There are times when I sacrifice my wants all the time for other people.. I think the line is when you, yourself are suffering from your sacrifices... whether it be physically, emotionally or spiritually. I know personally, when I was working at 3ABN there was a point in time where I didn't even want to go to church because I couldn't stand all the stuff that was going on.. That is when I knew that my sacrificing had gone too far. There is a line that you have to draw when things are good. So that when things start getting bad, you know how far you will go and then go no farther. And that line is different for every individual..
It's a matter of great prayer, because you want the good to outweight the bad, but sometimes it just doesn't.

Today, most ministries are corporations. The Corporation, itself, is a piece of paper in your Secretary of State's filing cabinet.

Why, on earth, would you sacrifice yourself for a piece of paper in a filing cabinet?

(Unless, of course, the incorporation paper is made from Strathmore's 20 percent cotton and linen blend. Otherwise, I see no sense in sacrificing yourself.)

Posted by: beartrap May 4 2006, 03:28 PM

Perhaps I am a bit jaded, but I tend to take the term "ministry" very lightly these day. Everyone with a religious agenda, and everyone out to make a buck on the religious market calls their organization (or scam) a ministry. Perhaps we should look at the meaning of the word in the American Heritage Dictionary:

ministry (n.) The act of serving; ministration.
ministry (n.) The profession, duties, and services of a minister.
ministry (n.) A governmental department presided over by a minister.

And what would be the definition of the verb "minister" minister (n.) One who is authorized to perform religious functions in a Christian church, especially a Protestant church.

minister (v.) To attend to the wants and needs of others: Volunteers ministered to the homeless after the flood. See synonyms at tend2 minister (v.) To administer or dispense (a sacrament, for example).

"The act of serving" and attending "to the wants and needs of others" generally involves some form of sacrifice for a person, or people. Under the humanitarian definition of ministry, I can see some merit in a balanced amount of self-sacrifice.

Under a religious definition of the term "ministry", I can see where people may have a burden to disseminate what they see as a superior form of religion, or set of doctrines, and would therefore engage in a certain amount of sacrifice for that cause. However, when people sacrifice deeply, as in cutting back on nourishment and climate control, for the purpose of giving what is thereby saved to a "ministry" where the leader uses a significant portion of that personal sacrifice to provide for financial excesses for himself, his family, and friends... and the people sacrificing know that their money is being used in those excesses, their sacrifice has not only gone too far, they should be reading the other 3ABN spin-off thread. They have fallen into an abusive relationship with an idea, a person, a corporation, or something.

Country implies people in that context.

I would submit that we should from the very start be on the skeptical if not jaded side.... but I digress...

Not always. Some do treat their home country and any associated symbols with a high level of almost blind allegiance. This has nothing to do with its people in most cases.

Perfect topic and I run into this problem all the time. Personally, I draw the line between serving God, and helping others. In my opinion there is a huge difference. At church, I am often times asked to do things and when I say "no" they say that I should always be willing to serve God. In my opinion, what they asked me to do has nothing to do with God, it was just something that THEY wanted done. We never seem to agree on that topic.

Example. Let's say the church decides to go out into the park and have a concert. Well to me, that is a personal choice, i may not want to go to the park. Especially, if you never asked my opinion. Often times a handful of people jump and and do stuff and expect 100 percent participation. Even if they never bother to get other opinions. If I say no, they act like I am saying no to God. My thing is, "God never told me to go to the park either. This is something YOU want to do."

10 + 5. that has nothing to do with "God", in my opinion that is a personal choice. The Bible says NOTHING about 10 + 5.

Posted by: beartrap May 5 2006, 09:44 AM

For the sake of ministry, ethics, integrity, morals, dignity, and self respect are all too often the biggest sacrifices made.

I think it all goes back to the fact that we just don't think for ourselves, and there are a whole lot of reasons for that...the "group think" mentality will do more to destroy our church than any external factor IMHO.

)ne might make an individual choice to sacrifice himself/herself for a ministry, or church. But, such a :hoice does not give that person the right to demand that other people sacrifice themselves for that ninistry, or chruch.

t is never right for a ministry to demand that people sacrifice themselves for that ministry. This was he thinking of those who said that Jesus should die for the good of the nation. In other words, 3ABN lid not have the right to sacrifice Mrs. Shelton for the good of 3ABN.

\ccording to my observations throughout this whole affair, and my dealings with the main individuals iffected by the ordeal, this question has often come to the surface. Linda was told - and this has been 'erified by others who witnessed it - that regardless if she had done something wrong or not, she nust be ready to be sacrificed for the benefit of the "ministry". In this case the "ministry" was :vidently one person.

\t an early stage one of the head administrators of 3ABN informed me that regardless if Danny or .inda were telling the truth, Linda had to be sacrificed because Danny was able to collect more funds or 3ABN. The songs Linda wrote and sang about grace were considered too liberal for the :onservative supporters, and therefore she had to leave 3ABN.

Pastor and Mrs. Thomas were interested in broadcasting and were at 3ABN when they were establishing or advancing "Transformation Broadcast Ministries." This would be about the year 2000.

http://www.tbmforchrist.org/home.htm has a Website.

I remember. He and Steven Lewis started a short-lived revival series. Mrs. Thomas moderated a talk type show and Pastor Thomas preached. I thought they were in Ohio.

This is an intriguing, and quite different, twist as to the base cause of Linda being ousted. I wonder if you would give us more detail on this. When and how were the songs criticized? And how does "liberal" and "grace" connect together?

Not quite... the Church is built on a sure foundation... the church, however, varies at best.

Just as the word of God is not the Word of God... the church and the Church are not the same; the former can be a subset of the latter... it can also have no part in the latter.

How presumptious can a person get? Sacrificing oneself for a ministry? Good Lord! Do people actually think that God is so weak that he can't take care of himself? He needs people to sacrifice themselves to protect him?

ot a problem.... threads get long and wander all over the place..... my original thought was that it is angerous to commit yourself to a ministry to the point that you cannot see its fatal flaws....

hese questions seem very important in this discussion, because at one point the message was given o Linda by one of those counsellors 3ABN is referring to so often, that regardless if she was guilty or ot, Linda should be willing to be sacrificed for the benefit of this ministry which means so much to the eventh-day Adventist Church. Danny indicated, also in letters to me, that Linda could be restored if he would admit that she had comitted adultery. Why should she admit she had done something she ever had? Why did Danny need this admission from her so badly?

I was in e-mail correspondance with both Linda and Danny before they went for counselling in Kansas. Walt Thompson makes the statement that 3ABN chose those non-SDA counsellor for Linda's sake. Danny refused to go there, because it was Linda's sister who suggested they go there, as far as I recall.

It was after Danny was assured the counsellors were Bible-believing Christians he agreed to go there, and he told me that he would go there for one purpose: If they were Bible-believing they would agree with him that he had a Biblical mandate to divorce Linda and marry someone else.

You can therefore imagine that the reports I received after that counselling session from Danny did not agree with the reports Linda gave me. What Linda told me as they returned home was that Danny had offerend to give the counsellors a donation for the benefit of their ministry, and from then on most of the counselling, which lasted many hours, was done by Danny.

People who know Danny Shelton, or have been interviewd by him on TV, will recognize the situation, and know who gives a good portion of the answers during those interviews. Danny has a special way of insisting that someone else said what he actually said himself.

Well Sonshine, manipulation is meant to keep people's eyes closed to the obvious. that is its function, and Danny is a master manipulator.

Some feel that the Lord could use Danny's ability to manipulate to do a specific job for HIM, estabishing a world-wide TV network. The question is now if Danny is justified in using his great ability to manipulate to justify his desire/need to rid himself of his wife and marrying a much younger woman. He has manipulted his pastor, his conference president, his staff, his board, and incountable others to paint a distorted picture of what happened and justiftying his actions.

Stay tuned for a verification. . .

Those who believe this completely miss the point that God doesnt work from the devil's toolbox. The end does not justify the means.

Of course since those that believe it seem to be in a trusting state of mind I might have a bridge in Brooklyn for sale... cash only, in small bills...danke

Seems to work for Danny, sooooo....

While reading through some posts from almost a year ago, I came across this thread. I saw enough discussion in here that I thought it might be educational for some of the newbies who may not yet have had time to read all the posts on this subject.

I have found the posts about LS needing to be sacrificed and the counselling recommendations she received interesting in view of some of the recent discussions on these issues.

NW;

I am appalled at the behavior of some to bury honest posts to make them disappear. There should be ruled about people burying posts of others at their whim!

Calvin, please do not let this happen next Friday. NW has a valid point to post in her posting here and in the Sexual Assault thread.

This is totally uncalled for! It takes a lot of time to dig and find the honest post vs the manipulative posts! This is not for you, NW, but for those rude and crude posters trying to bury valid, serious posts! . ☒ blc

I don't know what you are talking about, nor am I going to take the time to investigate. I don't share your interest and that of many of those who regularly (many exclusively) post in these threads. There are a lot more interesting and certainly more timely discussions going on at BSDA than somebodies 3 year old messy divorce. Maybe Clay or Di will be interested in honoring your request.

I am so glad that I read this thread. My husband and I have been wondering what has happened to Pastor Thomas and his wife.

Thanks NW for the suggestion to read this thread. Thanks BSDA for the good information.

agree Fran. I also noticed Seraphim trying to bury some of the threads by bringing up dozens of old ones with nothing to say about them. I thought that was a strange thing to do just before Sabbath.

ee was the name I saw on almost all of the top posts when I came to read on Friday night. believe Lee's motivation was quite different from Ser|phm's motives! It is kind of like idding on eBay. The last one to bid wins the prize!

Ser|phm's motivation was NOT malicious. Lee, on the other hand, takes delight in belittling others. She/he has been doing it for years. She/he has had a lot of practice! I have followed her/his career of trashing people for years now.

She/he can change their names, but the character always shines through. Her/his motives are highly suspect in my opinion!

This is Lee's way of casting the blame for her/his actions onto her. She/he falsely sees everything that way. It is called, being blind to your own faults. You see, Lee, like Danny, has no faults, in there eyes at least.

Mr J; All of this is entirely my opinion.

Isn't this the equivalent of offering a human sacrifice to a ministry (or person) that's been made into an idol?

You may have been to the offering places where they cut the heart out of a living girl to use as a sacrifice. Idolatry is still not too far from us, and it will be getting worse as we come closer to the Second Coming of Christ.

Another lie. You don't know me and have made accusations against me. First I am Linda, because how else could I know so much about the Sheltons and be so accurate. Then when you could not prove hat, all the other accusations began of how I am a liar, etc. Take a long look at yourself in the mirror, Bystander... What is written upon your forehead?

These are all good questions. And here is another one. Is it the "ministry" folks are sacrificing hemselves for, or is it for the ego of those who claim to be "called of God"? Are people sacrificing heir conscience out of obligation to the "ministry" or are they allowing themselves to be manipulated o keep peace while they themselves have no peace of mind or heart?

s the sacrifice they think they are making, for the "ministry", worth what it will cost more victims? Please do not fool yourselves, because there are and will be more victims sacrificed as long as you continue to sacrifice your conscience.

I have noticed that when guilt is pretty well proven, people are called to let the guilty one off because it will hurt his or her family, the ministry, the reputation of the church etc. It is like them holding someone hostage, pointing a gun at this person's head and saying, "Let me do what I want or I will shoot and it will be your fault". Now whose fault would it really be?

Interesting, when I came to post on Friday evening, every post but one had Sera's name on it, and all were old... Most she was just adding a smiley or a few words to, to bump them up, and adding nothing as far as content. I responded to one and had to go back to find the current thread I wanted to reply to. From what I noticed, all three that Lee brought back up, were actually current discussions, which had been buried due to Sera hijacking the entire board..

But then you all see and report things the way you want to.

Oh yeah, I forgot... your camp only calls people adulterers and homosexuals...trying to run interference for the aforementioned molesters, adulterers, thieves et al.

If Tommy is not a molester, why the apology... and the loss of his ministerial credentials... and the similar allegations from different places?

If Danny was truly the cuckold, why not show it 3 years ago? Why not show it today?

These questions and others continue to be raised and your camp has had no answers for them.

None. Whatsoever.

If you want to silence the critics, and make the discussion of the sheltons and 3abn go away, all you have to do is give the evidence for your claims.

You have been invited to do so time and again... and you have provided squat... because squat is all you have.

...here's what first came to mind: what's worse, calling someone you don't know an adulterer (and being wrong), or calling someone you do know an adulterer (and being wrong)?

Obviously, for someone to call their wife an adulterer, based on wishful thinking, is worse than a stranger calling a man an adulterer based on deductive logic.

Adultry is not spiritual adultry. If you think Jesus was hard on the Pharisees for dragging up a woman caught in the act, imagine what he would have said if they drug her up caught in the act of fantasizing? Only God can judge that.

Tommy Shelton admitted to what he did in a letter to one of the victims. He had sex with a child; therefore he is a molester. What's the lie in that?

Ve tend to "bump up" old post from time to time. I even have a old thread about "I can't post nymore!!!" because I had posted on like 30 different threads in one day (old and new)! Why? I was ored at my house, I dug up some "old stuff" that I had asked/commented on, and I wanted to see vhat else could be said about the subject.

t's not all about Danny, 3ABN, and Molestation you know....there's health, there's regular old "news", here's LIFE people! Why now can somebody not LIVE IT by posting on something else?

'ou want a thread brought back up? Go find it using the "search option" and post on it. It's just as asy as posting in the 3 ABN threads....

Hello LaurenceD--what kind of work do you do? Perhaps you are a computer engineer?

The correct spelling for adultery has an "e" in it...it isn't adultry. You're right though, only God can udge certain sins. That is why we are told not to "judge" others hearts. However, we can tell an awful ot by the "fruits." If a person who is married is going off on a romantic trip with someone other than heir spouse, that should tell an awful lot, don't you think?

f you want to nitpick spelling, tell Bystander that "babtism" should actually be "baptism" and there's no such thing as being sued for "liable."

Please help me out here, since I don't have anyone to call and ask. What would be some dates of such rips taken by Linda? I have read that there are supposed to be "many", so 4 or 5 examples would suffice.

dates is all that is necessary at this point, I'm sure that with that info, I can research the two viewpoints on those occurrances, since most aspects of this has already been discussed ad nauseam on this forum.)

Thanks.

Hello. I work at several different jobs, busier that your average person, but am able to wander past this computer from time to time, and look in...it varies.

Thanks for the correction on the spelling. I don't use the spell check feature and sometimes the keys on my computer have such a soft touch, they don't depress far enough to register the letter I attempted. But, and in good mutual humor, and as my grandfather use to say, "same distance to ya!" I thought I'd look back through your own posts for spelling, and lo and behold halfway throught the first page, what do I see? You spelled intelligent with one l! That's almost an oxymoron!

Just a little advice: don't become so wise at detecting what's wrong with everyone else, to the tiniest degree. That kind of mindset is the soil in which off-shoots grow, and it's sure to boomerang on ya!

Re your comment, "If a person who is married is going off on a romantic trip with someone other than their spouse, that should tell an awful lot, don't you think?" Yes it should, but how different is that from impugnment by presupposition?. Your statement is loaded with judgementalism and unwarranted implication. How do you know it's intended to be romantic? How do you know you know? What's your definition of "romantic?" How far can you apply your definition to the case? What if the intentions actually headed south from the start, and were never fulfilled?

See why it's best to leave fantasizing, and so-called fantasizing, to God, and not some human fact-finding committee that is obviously way off base even trying to reach a conclusion through such an endeavor? What would Jesus do? Warn against lust of the heart, and wait till someone is actually caught in adultery before the stoning begins. And then, let those who are w/o sin cast the first stone.

See how different Christ is?

Why not ask Duane, before you run your mouth, as the only letter from T.S. was to him? Hint: you just claimed two things he denied, and that he got upset about.

But I am sure you'll never believe me, so here you go:

Duane Clem:

No, Aletheia, Duane is the wrong one to ask. One should instead ask Roger and Greg regarding child molestation, since they claim to have been victims of that.

Well Duane, just like there is a difference between a typing error and a misspelled word--I believe Bystander was just typing fast and got those words wrong. But LaurenceD spelled adultery several times the incorrect way. It is too bad we don't have spell check on here to make it easier. But I wasn't trying to nitpick at all.

from-the-pew--for an answer to your question, I'm sure if you phoned 3abn, someone there perhaps could tell you the facts.

Lee,

Does it matter where the stuff on save3abn.com comes from when the defend danny way of doing 3abn, will not defend against the issues being raised other then to say it is all lies and we will prove this in court,

I mean is it was my name and lifes work being attacked I would have place very direct anwsers the charges being leveled and then open my records to be check, and then Trust that God would defend me, but the the Pro danny crowd sounds SO much like adam and eve in the Garden of Eden.

Lord she made me do it, lord the snake made me do It.

Lee instead of attacking the people bringing the issues forward it would seem to me that your side of the topic would be much more concerned with clearing danny's name, I mean did you read the last two letters from danny himself, i would really like to hear danny's side of those letter because to tell the truth they make danny look like he was losing his mind, and was control freak.

By the way, bob if you are actively posting stuff at save3abn.com thank you getting facts out into the open.

I know you are not asking anybody this question. You and your buddies come on, with nothing but your first lying words that you don't know each other or Danny, and ask everybody to believe you, because it will come out in court........one day. You've got to be kidding me!

Most of the info on that site are not just posts or opinions, they are emails documents. Totally different. Who cares who put it up there, they are not asking you to just take their word for it. They got back up!

'his is my question also. Since last September Gailon Joy has been promising a website. When ;ave3abn went up, it was looked upon by everyone that I know of as the website that he had been ›romising. If Bob Pickle is helping him with the material or the technical part of posting or the ntroductions to the various original letters that are being posted.... so what?

;ince Bob Pickle is much more widely known than is Gailon Joy... and has a reputation throughout \dventism as being a careful researcher and writer on a number of subjects... then that only lends :redibility to the site if he is directly associated with it. And it is certainly no secret here on BSDA that ıe and Gailon are both engaged in research on matters relative to 3abn.

don't see the point of Lee's question, I think it is just another case of wanting to distract from the mportance of the documents that are placed on the site.... and from the information they convey. And he implications that one must know who is posting before trusting it is ludicrous in view of the fact hat not one of those posting (supposedly) on Danny's side are revealing their identity to us.

3ut then.... what do we expect from this team other than ludicrousness.....

:arry on.......... TVsnack. ....

Lee,

Well what does it matter who is posting on that web site most of the information on there has names on it, why does it matter which person put the letters there they have the persons names on them.

To be honsent your request looks to me to a fishing job, for some lawyer.

I am not trust 100% the information on save3abn.com, but when the pro-danny side cannot find it in their hearts to directly address the questions and charges on that site then it makes me think that more truth is on that site then i wish was on that site.

It is becoming more and more painfully clear that Danny had no reason to divorce Linda, and even less reason to remarry. NOW in the new big tent of SDA'ism that in it self would not be a problem, but when you kick out the co-founder of 3abn, seems like to me that kicking out the other co-founder would be the the fair and wise thing to do at this point.

Lee, but i will go even more then then that even if linda is whoring Tramp(i seee an major lack of proof of this at this time) Then at the very least the whole tommy issue cries out for justice.

why is no one from the PRo-tommy, pro danny side willing to say on the public record Tommy shelton did nothing to Victims 1-10 or tommy did make advance to this guy but not that guy, I mean it is much easyier to forgive and offer healing to the victims and to the victimizer when the whole truth and nothing but the truth is known.

PrincessDi:

In follow up to your post and if I recall correctly, I have always found it very interesting that not once has anyone with the possible exception of Aletheia suggested that TS's confession was not written by him or had been edited in some way. Do you recall them ever making that claim? This also seems to be the case regarding the emails and letters that have been posted at save3abn. For all the posts and all the distractions here at BSDA, have they denied DS did not write the letters he is purported to have written?

No. Instead they ask Pickle if he writes for the site. Where is that picture of the red herring I saw Clay post on some other thread? Now if they are claiming Pickle has written the emails and letters himself, that would be an entirely different matter. However, I have no doubt the individuals who are posting the documents to the website are quite aware of the legalities involved and that is why we are not hearing such claims by the supporters of 3abn.

Erik, I agree. It seems like the easy thing for Danny and his helpers to do would be to simply deny that Danny wrote the emails we've all been reading and discussing...IF he didn't write them. How difficult is that? Why can't they just deny the things that are false?

I could be wrong and somebody please correct me if I am, but I can't remember a single accusation that has actually been denied by Danny or Tommy except in general terms. Such as "all those lies being posted on teh Internet", etc.

Lee,

If the emails and documents that are showing up on save3abn.com are counterfeit or outright lies, start providing proof so folks can get a balanced picture.

So far, the more that gets posted over there the more clear the picture becomes - and this, by in large, from Danny's, Dr. Thompson's and Tommy's own words. What I have personally found is that one can look solely at the documents, ignoring any commentary, and still come to exactly the same conclusions.

Please, if you have proof that any of these documents are lies show us. Otherwise, we will have to view the documents as authentic.

Lee,
In my post #13 above, I honestly asked you for some information. If you apply your own hypothesis to yourself, I'm either going to get some answers from you or that will make you a dishonest person as well. Right?

So, for the record I will frame my request in the form of two questions:

1. Which documents or emails are false, counterfeit or lies?

2. What is your proof that they are false, counterfeit or lies?

So Lee, may I conclude from your post that when WWJD, Bystander, or yourself are unwilling to answer a question, I and others have the plain answer?

IMO, any "reasonable" intelligent person would not conclude that Pickle is not an honest person but one that is not willing to answer until you have answered his prior questions to you.

NW C"i"

The track record shows that Bob Pickle will not answer any question. He does not feel he has to. He feels he is free to act as he wishes, say what he wants regardless of its veracity, and has no responsiblity to answer any questions.

The idea that he doesn't have to answer until they answer is juvenile. He has portrayed himself as a man of integrity and reliability and with nothing to hide. So, if you are correct that he parades around with the attitude that he must have his questions answered first is simply an arrogance that betrays his portrayal of himself. If he has nothing to hide, then just answer the questions and ask yours.

When the JoyPickle web site surfaced it was obvious that the work was being done by Mr. Bob Pickle. He had already made a previous statement to someone that he was involved in a "major internet project" and that it was taking a lot of his time. Shortly after this statement the JoyPickle site surfaced. The language, syntax, sentence structure, and paragraph development are clearly that of Bob Pickle as they are easily overlaid with his postings here and on MSDAOL and the similarity is more than coincidence. Now, recently the pages on that site (JoyPickle) have changed so either there are more people working on the site or he is taking great pains not to sound like himself. He follows this up with posts that are designed to make the casual reader think he has nothing to do with the site (something that is certainly disingenuous if not just a form of lying).

The main point is this, Bob Pickle demands answers from everyone, while always conveniently avoiding questions put to him. I guess he gets what he gives. His methods have proven duplicitous and dishonest, which for those who are aware of what he has done, calls into question the results of his work.

And it is certainly no secret here on BSDA that he and Gailon are both engaged in research on matters relative to 3abn.

WB,

To get a more complete view of Bob Pickle's veracity, reliability and his "good reputation" why don't you find out what a number of individuals who work on Wikipedia think of Bob's research methods. On that site, he is not very well thought of by many who work hard to put together reliable information for people to use to do research and obtain reliable information.

You will find him listed on Wikipedia as "DrPickle."

A Dr. he is not and as a reliable source of information there he is not consider that either.

I don't know if any one who is supportive of 3ABN would make this claim exactly. There are a number of us however who have experienced first hand Bob Pickle's duplicitous methods, his dishonest claims, and incessant haranguing in an effort to victimize anyone he sets his sights on. There is clear evidence that he has a way with words - a manipulative way where he makes subtly rearrangements, posts this and attaches insinuation and innuendo so that not to many posts later he begins to attribute claims and words to people that they never said or wrote. Of course it is subtly enough that no one notices - and when it is pointed out he puts on his top hat, takes out his cane and does his best imitation of Gene Kelly . . . and of course never addresses the truth.

It is the experience of a number that has led to this thread. You don't have to accept the first hand commentary - but then, you would need to throw out all the other proclaimed first hand testimony in this forum.

Wow, that is quite a broadly brushed statement. I'm not sure it will go down in history as a principle as helpful as Occam's Razor. If you don't agree with our opinions you can't agree with the opinions of anybody else. Hmmmm.

If you, Lee, wwjd and Bystander can establish credibility as first-hand commentary, your opinions will count every bit as much as the others who have developed credibility for theirs. But that is JMO.

FHB,

Could your provide a link to the Wikipedia info your referred to. I did a search on the following (results listed).

DrPickle. -- No results
drpickle -- No results
dr pickle -- 380 hits

The hits that resulted from "dr pickle" were everything from the cast of Rug Rats, to information about Lyndon Johnson, etc.

I would like to read the information you referred to.

Thanks,

NW,

Your post piqued my curiosity and led me to do some research into that January 3rd post by Lee. Okay, I began searching for Lee's post of and the closest I can come up with is Aletheia's ranting attempt at rebutting a post by Bob attributed to Lee.

http://www.blacksda.com/forums/index.php?showtopic=12110&st=345&p=173953&#entry173953

> If so, then six of the seven would be considered "consenting" adults. And perhaps even the one under age was consenting, who knows if any of this is true. I have my doubts not because you posted it or because Mr. Joy investigated this, but because none of the 7 prosecuted TS or took him to court. I would certainly suggest to them that they do so as soon as possible.
>
> underage= under 18
> consenting= age of consent 17 > and all at this point "alleged"

So, with a little further searching I found Lee's original text and it is just as Noahswife quoted.

http://www.blacksda.com/forums/index.php?showtopic=11955&st=0&p=167315&#entry167315

What was the point of Aletheia's rebuttal? As you posted and anyone can read by going to the link above, it is true that Lee said "And perhaps even the one under age was consenting..." but did not say "maybe THE MINOR was consenting.

What Aletheia went on to attempt to establish was that, per her post, "underage=under 18 and consenting=age of consent 17." On further examination of her statement I must ask, huh? Where did this statistic come from?

With the help of Google I found:
http://www.actwin.com/eatonohio/gay/consent.htm

ILLINOIS 17 Illinois law makes 18 the minimum age at which teachers and their students may legally have sex. Age 17 does not apply to teachers or any other school employee in a "position of authority" over the minor.

So, further Googling brought up the following bit of Illinois state Law on Article 11 Sex Offenses:
http://www.moraloutrage.net/staticpages/index.php?page=Illinois

"Child" means a person under 17 years of age.

Google is such an informative tool. FindLaw states:
http://writ.news.findlaw.com/grossman/20060829.html

According to the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Seventh Circuit - addressing a claim under Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, a federal anti-discrimination law that prohibits workplace sexual harassment -- the answer is that an adult's advances to an underage teen need not be unwelcome in order to be actionable.

So it looks like Illinois law is pretty specific on the fact that "an adult's advances to an underage teen need not be unwelcome in order to be actionable.

Lee,

On January 3, 2007, when you stated "And perhaps even the underage one was consenting" the State of Illinois strongly disagrees with you.

Fallible, you know as well as I do that usernames don't necessarily have any basis in reality. "Bystander" certainly doesn't. He is anything but a bystander. So what's the big deal what username anyone chooses at this forum or on WikiPedia?

But that username I chose at WikiPedia does have a basis in reality. It's just that you don't know what it is. But if you talk to some of the folks in the NE Mindinao Mission, as well as certain folks who live in these parts, you'll find out at least two of the reasons I chose that username, which has nothing to do with PhD's or MD's.

Now for you to cite the opinions of papal apologists on WikiPedia who were determined to slam Seventh-day Adventism with bogus claims and information, without also citing where they had to back down and admit that I was right on certain points, aren't you either being dishonest or ignorant in your statements?

May we assume that Danny shares your sentiments, the man who allegedly is dedicated to preaching the undiluted three angels' messages, that he has gone so far as to side with papal apologists who are out to slam the Seventh-day Adventist Church? You and Bystander have alluded to my username on WikiPedia more than once, and Danny went so far as to refer to it on Feb. 15, 2007, on global TV. You guys are so interconnected, one could easily assume that Danny, like you, will at some point cite those same papal apologists as well.

Anything but admit to a mistake. Haven't you guys ever read 1 Jn. 1:9?

The individuals you refer to were not out to slam Seventh-day Adventists. What they did was to call into question your research (which has also been admited by Adventist historians and signifiant members of Adventist research to be the opposite of your stance). Your points were insignificant and their main contention in the one article you are focusing on was correct. No Bob, I am not being dishonest nor am I being ignorant. There has been a long standing issue over the particular information you were talking about on Wikipedia, and over the years it has grown more and more obvious that you are amongst those who will not accept the truth that has been uncovered in this regard. It would be great if you were right - but you are not. Your research is based on a faulty premise that has been proven to be untrue. I don't disagree that the CC has attempted to pin titles on itself - but your research has been soundly taken to task and you have been unwilling to concede that you were wrong (just as you have done here - which, after all

It is a fact that one of the individuals you are in contention with on the site is an Adventist pastor from Bermuda. He disagrees with you and made alterations to more accurately portray current SDA thought on the issue.

As an aside, if you read the discussion page you will find that there is a style evident in your writing that also prevades the JoyPickle website.

Now, Bob, here we have a classic example of your MO. You are trying to take the issue of your questionable methods and the lack of integrity of your research and apply it to the Wikipedia issue. Then by insinuation you try to tie Danny and I together and insinuate that I (and possibly Danny) am a papal apologist and because I support 3ABN they must be also . . . you continue to grow more and more as a good example of dishonesty. So, let me, for the benefit of the innocents who read here make a couple of points:

1. I am not a papal apologist, never will be. I am a Seventh-day Adventist and proud of my affiliation with God's true message. I have no doubt that Danny has never been, and will never be a papal apologist either.

2. I have not spoken to Danny Shelton, nor feed him information about you. (Maybe you would be surprised - no will be surprised at what people do know about you without ever having known each other).

You twist and manipulate the words presented to you. You are unethical in your approaches and this should, for all reasoned readers, call into question your "investigation."

I'm going to address this. I've been wanting to for a while, but I wouldn't do it because of the cocky and arrogant way I was asked about it from certain unnamed people (and I DO mean unnamed).

I posted the apology letter from Tommy Shelton to me for 2 reasons. Obviously, number one was because he took responsibility for what happened and said that I resisted him. He said it was his fault (It was). This puts me in the clear.

Number two was because it did show at least some remorse on Tommy's part for what happened. I thought that maybe it would help to shine a little better light on him. After the letters he and Carol wrote blasting everyone and still not denying what happened, though, I think that's probably a lost cause now.

Now everyone knows why the apology is online. I did it for myself AND Tommy. It's not my fault that it blew up in his face. He has done all this to himself. I'm not happy about it, that's just the way it is.

L4T,

Here you go:

The issue there is not whether the CC has faulty theology - it is the methods of Bob Pickle's work. His research has been proven to be faulty and even disavowed by the SDA churches historians. It would be a great thing to pin this on the CC, but the evidence isn't there to support it. Even when he has been proven wrong he will not admit it.

It has everything to do with it since Pickle is a self appointed investigator and reporter on the alleged events surrounding 3abn. His credibility is being called into question as well as, his manipulation of words which totally changes the actual facts. We already know that he is not a credentialed investigator or reporter and has absolutely no standing where 3abn is concerned. Now, he is showing time and again how he "changes words to change the facts." If he is not truthful, and an unreliable source, then obviously that has a big impact on what he "reports" about 3abn.

O THE PRO-DANNY GROUP,

an you explain how proving Mr. Pickle and Mr. Joy are idoits, fools, and all around bad guys.

OES one thing to make the 3abn mess any better.

F they are are wet behind the ears, or even worse yet, proven to be liars.

ow does that make the lack of danny's right to remarried any different.

ow does that make the wild and down right silly emails that mr. Danny Shelton has penned, any nore Godly or Christian?

ow does that make Tommy asking boys and young men for sexual favors any less hard to look the he other way on?

lus this looks like more of the same old same old, out of the 3abn crowd smear smear, an d then act ike a victim.

F 3abn has nothing to hide then why all the attacks, when the truth would shut Mr. Pickle and Mr. oy, much faster then acting like a bunch of guilty kids with your hands in the cookie jar.

n side note, Are you claiming that the letters appear to written by various people at 3abn including anny all true emails or have has the words and letters been change?

ES or NO?

personally found mr. Pickle's book confronting the video that attacked the SDA church to be very elpful and well researched, that book is sold in various abc across the US, and that book is why when realized that he was the same guy called bob, and this posts had some weight in my mind personally.

UT, i will say that Danny Shelton and the Pro-3abn crowd is what changed my mind from being on he side to lets clean out the trash, and restore 3abn, danny, linda, and tommy to what gods ants hem to be.

lso letters of Barbara Kerr really moved my understanding of the whole deal. THen when Mabel unbar wrote her letter it was like ok, the smoke has turned to fire and the church and better start mell the mess at 3abn.

So again why go after Mr. Pickle, and Mr. Joy if 3abn has nothing to hide, just bring out the truth and they will be shown to the lairs you are claiming them to be.

Bystander,

Then are you claiming he is making up the letters from victims of tommy's, if so then i would be in court so fast his head would spin, or if i was being nice i would just have the "victims" right a letter saying this never happenned to me.

IF Mr. Pickle or MR. ob kept e-mailing me how we had the same concerns and questions, and pretending to be my friend, e told me that FHB lived in my immediate area (very small) or was travelling through because of his ob and was up to no good, and his proof of this was the IP# he had from FHB. This was outright false.

ut stupidly I believed all his insinuations at first and got worried and alarmed by what he kept telling e, but still wanting to give FHB the benefit of the doubt sent Bob a email from FHB which I told him ade me believe FHB was sincere.

t was all a trick to track FHB down, proven by Bob's reply as soon as I did so. And as you can plainly ee from our posts Bob is not a friend to me, and disagrees with me about almost everything. Then ob tried to intimidate me into not posting any more....

sent copies of Bob's and my messages to FHB, and apologised for what I had done, and FHB onfronted him, Bob denied all, even though it was all in plain black and white.

o when FHB talks about personal experience with Bob's tactics and methods, yes some of us have ersonal experience.

o I am genuinly concerned here and respectfully ask, When it comes to opinions and first hand estimony from other posters, whether anonymous or identified, whom you don't know, what do you se as a criteria to determine what is truth , error, or even lies?

Duane,

I just have to commend you, once again, for taking the bold step you did in bringing this all forward. Your courage has started others on that journey, as well, and that is a wonderful thing! I know it has brought you pain and probably even heart ache as you have seen some of the responses to your testimony. Stay strong in the Lord and keep hope in your heart.

I pray and want to believe that, in the long run, even Tommy will be edified by the public exposure of his problems. Before it became public knowledge, at the very least Tommy and God have always known of his deeds. It has to be eating away at his heart unless he has so closed his ears to the Holy Spirit that he is unreachable. I hope he is not to that point. Yes, the letters from both he and Carol are evidence that they are still deep in denial. What they don't seem to grasp is the freedom that will come with true repentance, forgiveness and accountability.

I continue to pray that other alleged victims will have the strength to break the silence and start the healing.

I would sincerly appreciate that also. As it is my understanding that you and Tommy remained friends?

I have been very worried about your involvement in this whole Pickle and Joy investigation, and their accusations of Tommy being a child molester, Worried for you. Reason being Bob claimed to me on the phone, that you were first defending Tommy, and that he and Joy were working on you, and then suddenly here you were, and no longer defending Tommy.

I just don't understand how you could go from one point to another so quickly when you were around when Tommy was first accused and knew all involved, and had a Mom who even worked at the school all those years, But knowing Bob's tactics I have been worried you were manipulated by things he told you which may not be true.

That may or may not be the case, but you could help here if you choose.

Aletheia, Pickle knows what he does with words and insinuation. Unless he has done it so long he has lost discernment between right and wrong. His "conclusions" that are drawn from statements made by others, continue to become more and more incredible. The people here are "all for him" because he is on their side. Now, if was to "cross over" and start his spins from the other side, they would laugh and ridicule him into the ground. I can see clearly what would be done to his word manipulation. See what I tell you. When they read this, they will start attacking me, instead of addressing my statement of what they would do to him if the shoe was on the other foot. Oh well, doesn't really matter. We know it and so does God.

What was Bob's reply as soon as you did so? Can you post your proof of your claims here?

I have seen Bob take many posters to task when they post something that needs a response. I have often seen problems in things you have posted so I am not surprised that you would get disagreement from Bob.

I do my best to determine the credibility of the person posting or making the claims. I look for corroboration of their claims from other witnesses, as the Bible counsels. Are the claims/accusations made from first-hand experience? Are they mere he said/she said hearsay? I also consider the motivation or goal of the one making the claims/accusations. Are they looking to destroy or are they attempting to bring truth to light in order to edify.

Reading here with an "open' yet cautious mind is part of what I used to come to my opinions. I also factored in what I have seen for myself of Danny's and other's comments and the documentation on save3abn.com as well as other credible resources.

With a ministry such as 3abn, the most important court IS the court of public opinion. What evidence that "court" is given will, to a great degree determine the future of the ministry. You and others need to give the public at large more credit for being capable of independant thought and the ability to discern evidence for themselves.

I maintain that looking down your noses at "chat rooms" is a dangerous position if you want to save the reputation of 3abn. There are lots of good and honest folk here. You would do well to keep that in mind.

You really need to quit, Cindy. TS was/is a married pastor. Him asking anyone but his wife for sex is wrong. However, you and your friends are only intersted in keeping him out of prison, so you continue to victimize his victim by insinuation that they had a homosexual affair, instead of dealing with the real issues. That is no better. That is sick, real sick.

wwjd,
While I would personally like to see Bob Pickle put aside his word play and just stick to straight and clear statements, I don't think it reflects on him as a lack of discernment. Anyone with a clear mind can look at the statement by Walt Thompson and see that he is, in effect, saying just what Bob Pickle is relaying by "putting words into WT's mouth". I think the impact of Bob's conclusions would be more positive and the influence of his clear perception greater if he would not play word games with the information. Saying that, each of us has our own personalities and ways to communicate. If that is Bob's way, we just need to work a little harder to "get" what he is pointing out.

There, I addressed your statement. Unfortunately, I must also "attack" your statement for I find your statement rather narrow minded and bordering on silliness. I would suggest that is Bob was posting on "the other side", whatever that is, thoughtful people would consider his points to see if what he was speaking was credible. Those not capable of clear thinking would simply jump to criticize the messenger without considering the message. But that is all JMO.

Once again, Aletheia, you have shown that you don't understand the subject of sexual abuse.

Yes Pb, Bob asked me to send him FHB's email, he said it would help the others such as Fran, to accept FHB's sincerity. It was not used for that purpose, he then claimed he wanted the e-mail address and IP# on it which is included with an attatched e-mail..

And truthfully, I do not know if I can post those messages, because I'm on thin ice here, I was warned, then banned without posting a word, and then warned again yesterday still while not posting or saying even one word and told I will have no further warnings by someone who keeps telling me to stop posting. --- any post could therefore be my last.
--Also, when FHB tried to post to Bob about all this here to warn you all, the thread was closed, so I don't know if it would be violating some rule.

Also -- Respectfully I disagree that the court of public opinion is the most important when it comes to a ministry, It is God's court that trumps all, and his spirit which rules and convicts. I believe these words apply to 3ABN and any other ministry, as well, even if they are totally apostate:

It was the court of public opinion that murdered Christ, it was the court of public opinion that persecuted his disciples, and it was the majority, the court of public opinion who ruled during the dark ages and slew the saints and martyrs of God.

Act 5:27 And when they had brought them, they set [them] before the council: and the high priest asked them, 28 Saying, Did not we straitly command you that ye should not teach in this name? and, behold, ye have filled Jerusalem with your doctrine, and intend to bring this man's blood upon us.
29 Then Peter and the [other] apostles answered and said, We ought to obey God rather than men.
30 The God of our fathers raised up Jesus, whom ye slew and hanged on a tree.

31 Him hath God exalted with his right hand [to be] a Prince and a Saviour, for to give repentance to Israel, and forgiveness of sins.
32 And we are his witnesses of these things; and [so is] also the Holy Ghost, whom God hath given to them that obey him.
33 When they heard [that], they were cut [to the heart], and took counsel to slay them.

34 Then stood there up one in the council, a Pharisee, named Gamaliel, a doctor of the law, had in reputation among all the people, and commanded to put the apostles forth a little space;
35 And said unto them, Ye men of Israel, take heed to yourselves what ye intend to do as touching these men.
36 For before these days rose up Theudas, boasting himself to be somebody; to whom a number of men, about four hundred, joined themselves: who was slain; and all, as many as obeyed him, were scattered, and brought to nought.
37 After this man rose up Judas of Galilee in the days of the taxing, and drew away much people after him: he also perished; and all, [even] as many as obeyed him, were dispersed.
38 And now I say unto you, Refrain from these men, and let them alone: for if this counsel or this work be of men, it will come to nought:
39 But if it be of God, ye cannot overthrow it; lest haply ye be found even to fight against God.

40 And to him they agreed: and when they had called the apostles, and beaten [them], they commanded that they should not speak in the name of Jesus, and let them go.
41 And they departed from the presence of the council, rejoicing that they were counted worthy to suffer shame for his name.
42 And daily in the temple, and in every house, they ceased not to teach and preach Jesus Christ.

~ Aletheia

P.S. I do not look down my nose at chat rooms . Far from it. I simply am saying God has standards to prove sin and error, or truth and lies,and so does our civil governments. I do not believe all the members here are following those standards and principles, but they have nothing to do with the other members who are, and are also members here.

You SAYING "His credibility is being called into question" does not mean it is. Who is calling it into question? umm, besides YOU? But you make blanket statements (as usual) out to sound as though they are majority/group statements...why do you do this? Do you still believe that if you say it is so, it is so? Nope, not so. WAKE UP WAKE UP!

You don't have to have a detective license to put 2+2+2 together...people do it all the time. Get involved in a good cause and gather information, with witness, etc. Thank goodness we have people that care enough to get involved....it's the people that make things happen, everyone working together for the cause, and it works everyday in this world.

You keep attacking the messenger...nice distraction, but it doesn't work. I know, I know ... you can't help it.

And although I find interesting the fact Aletheia still ignores the concept of sexual exploitation where sexual preference is not the issue and consent is not possible when a professional such as a pastor is nvolved, I think this is all offtopic again and needs to go to another thread. ☒ ofl

The whole point of this thread was to ask Pickle to respond to a specific question. He stated he would when Lee answered a prior very specific question of his. She said she would not. So why does this hread continue?

I believe these words apply to 3ABN and any other ministry, as well, even if they are totally apostate:
> It was the court of public opinion that murdered Christ, it was the court of public opinion that persecuted his disciples, and it was the majority, the court of public opinion who ruled during the dark ages and slew the saints and martyrs of God.

It was the court of public opinion where Danny tried to eradicate and expunge all evidence of Linda's presence at 3ABN; it was in the court of public opinion that he maligned her even while he forbade her from defending herself; it is in the court of public opinion where he continues to try to use his bully pulpit to denigrate those who will not go along with his game and pretend they dont see that the emperor has no clothes.

The court in which this is being played out is the court of Danny's own choosing... and he chose the court of public opinion just as the Sanhedrin did when they persecuted the disciples and when the RCC slew those would not stand by idly as their corruption and indulgences and open sins crucified Christ afresh and put Him to an open shame...

So if you have issues with the court of public opinion... you need to take them and lay them at the feet of the camp wherein you reside.

Then ask him in PM. Trying to insinuate that he has/had some ongoing "relationship" with TS on the world wide web, is not caring for him. Plus, I think he makes his "side"quite clear. That is why we are having such a problem with your posts to him. What point od they serve other than to try to discredit in front of everyone him by insisting there is/was some ongoing relationship? You have inferred this before and were told that further victimization of any victims coming forward here, besides being just sick, will not be tolerated. Rephrasing it and couching it in "christian" love will not help. You had better write down the motto, being a member you may need ot use it yourself one day......."This is not Sabbath School....We pay attention here".

Very good! I might add that it was the court of archbishops inside compound of the Vatican, during the Inquistion, that slew the saints and martyrs of God, and through their own corrupt bias, determined the innocent were guilty.

Hummmm.....compound? Inquisition? There must be a parallel in there somewhere for So Ill.

That is no better. That is sick, real sick.

Di, you need to quit making accusing statements. If even one allegation was true concerning anyone underage, jail time would not be a factor anyway. I know. I asked an Illinois lawyer friend of mine. He explained that even though the statute of limitations was supposed to be extended, most cases it would not work in. He then went into a lot of attorney rhetoric that I don't even pretend to understand but the bottom line is no one in these particular circumstances (if true at all) would do any jail time.
My point? Di is just one of many who make these statments that have no basis in fact.

Yes, your right...it's just not a big deal is it? And, whoever your atty is, I think you might check again with someone else....adding up all the evidence, I think it's likely it would go a very different direction. Look at the catholic chuch situations.

Posted by: princessdi Mar 13 2007, 07:11 PM

One of you also claimed that the age of consent in Il ws 17 and that was not true either. Sorry Bytander, saying you had a discussion with a lawyer friend, much of which you didn't understand does not convince me. Why would the statute of limitations be extended in this particular case? Did you acquire this information recently? Before you all were trying to minizmize the pedophile factor, by saying these young men were of age? I actually think one of our members can help us out here. I'll ask her and see what she can find out and post in language we all can understand.

Plus, I keep telling you all the problem is that TS, a married pastor, was asking someone other than his wife for sex. Be they male, female, old young, whatever...he was/is wrong. Even if the courts don't do a thing, it is more than reprehensible that you and your friends were trying to rationalize this situation in the least. It is even more troubling that you don't see that.

wouldn't be too sure that legal actions are not a possibility. If the person questioning the attorney ninimized or downplayed the abuse that person could have gotten incorrect advice. If TS is not rought to accountability here in this world, there is still The Final Judgement to consider.

Fallible,

Your comments (http://www.blacksda.com/forums/index.php?s=&showtopic=12885&view=findpost&p=184860 and http://www.blacksda.com/forums/index.php?s=&showtopic=12885&view=findpost&p=184869) regarding WikiPedia and Vicarius Filii Dei reveal your ignorance, similar to your accusation on Maritime that I had posted a reply from Danny to me when it was really an email from Danny to Gailon.

Now please understand, I am rusty on some of the specifics, but anyone who chooses to look at the history back when I was editing that page will see something along the lines of a papal apologist belittling what ended up being a pre-1844 reference to Vicarius Filii Dei being on the miter, while he thought that it was a reference to the tiara. You will find some sort of discrepancy like that, and you will see the papal apologist totally unwilling to allow it to be corrected.

You will also find that WikiPedia requires that a neutral point of view be presented, and those papal apologists were not allowing that. For example, based on my rusty recollection, they were not allowing it to be clearly stated how important The Donation of Constantine has been in the history of the papacy, preferring rather to discard it as a forgery. Their viewpoint was clearly biased and one-sided, and was definitely derogatory toward Seventh-day Adventism.

As far as what the Bible teaches on the matter, see http://www.pickle-publishing.com/papers/666.htm According to the symbols used in Revelation, symbols which are drawn from Exodus, the beast should be a counterfeit high priest who wears a miter with his name on it. Now if you want to argue with the Bible, that's another matter.

ersonally I thought he was just referring to Di's false accusation about our motive and intent, and urmisings about what we are doiing:
you and your friends are only intersted in keeping him out of prison, so you continue to ictimize his victim by insinuation that they had a homosexual affair"

y saying that isn't true:

Di, you need to quit making accusing statements. If even one allegation was true concerning nyone underage, jail time would not be a factor anyway.

uestion: What alleged underage victims are you all referring to? What exactly do you know about hem, or any circumstances, other then vague references that they exist? Yes I know that Pickle and oy claim this, and they got it from Dryden, and they were all quoted in Adventist Todayy, but how do ou know there are actually any underage victims?

aybe you could give us some kinda "specific' details so we know what you all keep getting so upset bout? But please do it in a thread near here where it is on topic.

t seems to me, if people could discuss this rationally, without all the strawman arguments, and cusations of being demons, or demonically inspired, or pedophiles, or unable to sympathise with ictims of sexual abuse,(which is unnecessary, when we should just be able to discuss the facts and vidence without all that) then we might get somewhere.

t seems to me too many who have been victims themselves here are allowing that to get in the way f objectively looking at the evidence and what is known, and what hasn't been proven or even upported.

y 2 cents...

I have said that myself. In fact Seraphim asked that question specifically and I answered that it is wrong. Further, It is sin. And Bystander answered the same.

But here's the problem. Tommy was disciplined by his Church in Illinois, after they investigated and the police did as well, and no charges were filed. the Church in Dunn Loring Virginaia looked into all this before hiring him as their Pastor.

Tommy stated in his letter to Duane that he and his wife have long since worked through this themselves. He apologised to Duane, Duane says he's forgiven him. Tommy's wife has forgiven him. Tommy voluntarily gave up his ministerial liscence aftr this happened. Both Tommy and his wife Carol emphatically state nothing sexually immoral or inappropriate has happened at all for at least the past 12 years.It is my understanding he received counselling to help him regarding all this.

What else do you want Di?

Does the blood of Christ cover past confessed and forsaken sins, or not?

And like it or not, the community responded by spraypainting accusations of homosexuality NOT child molester or Pedophile on his house and vehicles etc.

Maybe they knew something you do not?

The truth is the accusations of being a pedophile and Child molester are claimed to be more recent, Dryden claims this was in Dunn Loring Virginia, and tries to tie it in with events in Illinois, in which he had no part, and which were already dealt with, Pickle claims, and tries to do the same, on Joy's and his save 3ABN website but zero evidence has been given to support these recent allegations.

Which are that Tommy Shelton is a child molester and pedophile, and that Danny knew, lied and covered for him, and endangered chldren.

But that is a different topic totally from what you are arguing about here.

It does raise the question of Pickles honesty though, and his claims and recent insinuations that he has nothing to do with that website.

For it is his "investigations", and only his writings, with his surmisings opinions and conclusions, and his accusations which only he has been posting here for months, which are published there.

Thus the subject, and question of this topic " save3ABN website, who runs it?"

I think it likely Pickle is the webmaster. It is registered to Gailon Joy, but on the same server as Pickle's own site, and the website is designed according to Pickles style and self proclaimed area of expertise, There's even some website, where pickle is giving lessons about his unique programming and web designing...

Posted by: awesumtenor Mar 14 2007, 06:39 AM

Who runs the save3abn.com website is irrelevant, Cindy. Shooting the messenger doesn't alter the message. The testimony and accusations made by Duane, beartrap and others regarding Tommy's proclivities and predatory actions remain unchanged whether or not www.save3abn.com exists or not.

This is just the last rabbit hole you have tried to divert people down in an effort to distract and dissemble. Once you admitted his doing these things was sin and that he was wrong in doing them, the debate ends there; the rest of this foolishness is an attempt to create an extenuating circumstance to rationalize Tommy's sin and the subsequent attempts by DS, WT and 3ABN leadership to minimize it or pretend it was not as serious as it is.

He's a pervert, Cindy; one of the worst kind. He preys on children and cannot be 'cured' or 'fixed'. Despite your attempts to make it seem like this is something he 'used to do'... the fact is, as long as he is in a position that brings him in proximity with boys and young men, he will continue to do this.

As for Tommy's confessing his sin... I am sure I am not the only one who sees Achan in such. If he had true contrition and repented, this conversation wouldn't even exist. He hasn't even fully admitted the extent of his malfeasance; he has not attempted to 'make it right' to those he has victimized... and he continues to be in a position where it's just a matter of time before he molests someone else's child.

And your calling his victims homosexuals, saying they were consenting partners and the like is just pouring salt in the wounds Tommy has made... not to mention it's being shameless on your part.

In His service,
Mr. J

This has been asked and answered... not only by thouse repulsed by your scandalous arguments in support of Tommy... but by duane and beartrap (who was married to Tommy's niece, and was being supervised by Tommy at 3ABN when Tommy propositioned him.. and that wasn't 30 years ago) and others. And your response to even first hand accounts has been to attack the one giving the report... and then claim you need more evidence.

Tommy propositions and solicits sex from teenage boys ergo he is a pedophile. There are enough first hand accounts of his misdeeds in that regard to make that appellation stick. His propositioning young men who have to work for him is a textbook instance of sexual harassment by creating a 'hostile work environment'. Both are criminal acts in every jurisdiction in this country.

Any examination of 'the evidence and what is known' that omits these points is not objective.

Surely you aren't saying that the Lord's Anointed was showing Himself to be a dishonest person in the gospel of Matthew, are you? Are you sure you never backtrack?

We all have to backtrack if we want to be saved. That's what repentance and confession are all about. Aletheia, As I understand your comment above, you are telling us:
1) Tommy did something that was serious enough to result in discipline by his local Chruch.
2) It was serious enough to require an apology to Duane.
3) It was serious enough for him to apologize to his wife.
4) It was serious enough for him to surrender his ministerial license.

In context, it appears to me to be some kind of unspecified sexual miscoundect. [See the thought that nothing sexually immoral has happened for at least the past 12 years.]

Then you ask what more one would want, and whether or not the blood of Christ covers sin.

My posiiton on that is: The blood of Christ, shed on Calvery, covers any sins that Tommy may have committed. To me that is unquestioned. I do not challenge that he has confessed whatever sins he may have committed. That is between he and God. I am not involved in that. I am quite willing to say that Christ's blood covers his sins, whatever they may be.

Your question as to what more might be wanted is not such a simple answer. Christ's blood may cover one's sin. But, that does not necessarly releave one from the consequences. Forgiveness does not remove the lung cancer. Forgiveness does not release a person from prison. A person who steals chruch funds, may be forgiven, but should not be places into the position of congregational treasurer. In Tommy's case, whatever his prior sin may be, the alligations are such that his past should be considered in relation to the present. If it is true that his prior sin involved sexual misconduct, society, and the church, has an obligation to consider that in relation to how he is used today in ministry. As an example: One who has sexually molested children, should not work agian in children's ministry. One who has raped a woman should not be working in women's ministry.

I am a professionally trained counselor. If I become sexually involved with a counselee, I should not counsel again. I am a clergyperson. If I become sexually involved with a member of my congregation, I should forfit my ministry. If I molest children, I should not work again with children. I may be forgiven in all of the above. But, my failure is of sufficient magnatude that ther are major consequences that come to me. And, they should.

Those consequences should come regardless of criminal conviction. I may not have violated the law if I become sexually involved with a congregational member. But, I still should forfit my ministry. The forfituature of my ministry to children should not depend upon my criminal conviction. I should happen if the alligations are there, regardless of criminal conviction. Society owes those (children) helpless to defend themself, much in the way of protection.

Forgiveness does not release a person from prison. A person who steals chruch funds, may be forgiven, but should not be places into the position of congregational treasurer. In Tommy's case, whatever his prior sin may be, the alligations are such that his past should be considered in relation to the present. If it is true that his prior sin involved sexual misconduct, society, and the church, has an obligation to consider that in relation to how he is used today in ministry. As an example: One who has sexually molested children, should not work agian in children's ministry. One who has raped a woman should not be working in women's ministry.
> I am a professionally trained counselor. If I become sexually involved with a counselee, I should not counsel again. I am a clergyperson. If I become sexually involved with a member of my congregation, I should forfit my ministry. If I molest children, I should not work again with children. I may be forgiven in all of the above. But, my failure is of sufficient magnatude that ther are major consequences that come to me. And, they should.
>
> Those consequences should come regardless of criminal conviction. I may not have violated the law if I become sexually involved with a congregational member. But, I still should forfit my ministry. The forfituature of my ministry to children should not depend upon my criminal conviction. I should > happen if the alligations are there, regardless of criminal conviction. Society owes those (children) helpless to defend themself, much in the way of protection.

Greg,
You are right on target here in your answer to Aletheia's posts about Tommy's "sins".

think we need to go one step further. A person whose sin has victimized another has the esponsibility to make restitution to that victim. Look at the example of David. He did some horrible hings. When he got to the point that he desired to be forgiven for those sins, he made things right as ar as possible. He couldn't bring back the man he caused to be killed, but he restored things as much as he could as a part of his repentence. We know he received the forgiveness he sought and still is know as beloved of God.

Private sins, those which only work to separate you from God, can be forgiven just between you and God. Public sins, those which have negatively affected others, have the consequences you spoke of but there is also the need to tend to the damage done to those victimized.

You are nothing if not consistant in your attacks on the messengers! We victims can't objectively look at the evidence because we have been victimized?

So, we should leave the job of discerning the truth in these matters to you or Lee who have both consistantly demonstrated that you have no clear understanding of the subject of sexual abuse?

Aletheia,

Why post if you can't get your facts straight?

1. It was because the Ezra CoG wouldn't deal with Tommy that the entire congregation got disfellowshipped by the Church of God (Anderson).
2. Dunn Loring was never informed about what the allegations in Illinois were, and they never inquired to find out.

Sometimes people feel that I have overwhelmed them with a massive response. I can do that.

So, I sometimes pick one small part of the issue and respond to it. I to not claim to be exaustive.

When there is more that needs to be said.... please say it. We are not overwhelmed with your careful analysis of situations. In fact, you doing as you do is one of the things which helps us keep from being overwhelmed by the massive tirades that we are getting from certain quarters.

Many of these tirades scatter their shot so widely that it is probably impossible to address all points that need addressing in one post. In that case break them up and give us your response to all that you feel need addressing. There is no law that says that one cannot use two or three posts in responding to one previous one.

What are you the messenger of? What do you know specifically of the allegations and circumstances regarding Tommy Shelton and any alleged victims, beyond what has been posted here by Brad Dunning or Duane Clem?

See, this is what I am talking about PB, you can't ever discuss the facts and evidence or lack thereof in relation to Tommy Shelton without getting all upset and emotional. You either talk about your own experience, or someone elses, or someone brings up a case that was reported in a paper somewhere OR you take personal offense,and start accusing another.

And BTW, You and others are falsely assuming and making false accusations. Just because I do not tell my life's story here, doesn't mean I have no experience with sexual abuse, and pedophiles, and did not have very close friends both as a child and as an adult who were victims of sexual molestaion, and repeated rape, or that I haven't supported and helped get through really terrible things, or do not have a neice who was molested. I do have a upfront and personal experience with all this.

the truth is I already brought up the fact that I myself am a survivor of sexual abuse when I first arrived here but because I didn't just accept the accusations against Tommy without all the evidence and facts, I was insulted and ridiculed about my own experience, just as I have been about my abusive marriage and my divorce because of adultery. I shared how God was able to heal me, to help others and that has been something which Mr J has used as a weapon and accusation against me ever since.

But do you know what? That's ok, because none of it does anyhing to prove or disprove anything regarding the allegations against Tommy, or the validity of the cases of any alleged victims.

It just seems to be a convienientt excuse and accusation to throw at people who you disagre with, that they can't understand, that they have no experience and they never felt like you did, to try and make them look bad, and as if you know what you are talking about in regards, to T.S. and 3ABN. Give it up, PB!

Both are criminal acts in every jurisdiction in this country.

lease stop using words with specific legal meanings if you do not know what they mean.

type of defamation. Slander is an untruthful oral (spoken) statement about a person that harms the erson's reputation or standing in the community. Because slander is a tort (a civil wrong), the injured erson can bring a lawsuit against the person who made the false statement. If the statement is made ia broadcast media -- for example, over the radio or on TV -- it is considered libel, rather than lander, because the statement has the potential to reach a very wide audience.

Cindy you asked some questions, and I don't want you to think I didn't respond. However, Awesumtenor, Observer, PB, etc. have done a wonderful job in answering your questions. So, my answer is "Yeah, what they said!"

I just have to add this. The problem is your comment, opinions should stop there. Admitting it is a wrong. All the rest sound like rationalizations. There is no need to try to disctredit the victims, especially since you "know" they are victims of two of three offenses, peodphilia, abuse of power and position of authority in approaching young men for sex, and adulterer. He was wrong, period.

Also, to be truthful, I have always just maintained that TS needed to be sidelined untill an investigation was done. I thought that only fair. That is the only true way to maintain focus on the true mission of 3ABN.

I am very sure of what are lies and what is truth. You all underestimate the attorneys that have taken on this case. Mr. J, in his ridiculous post says the attorneys know "my threat" is toothless. ☒ rofl Right. I am not making a threat. The case is what defines whether this suit will be a threat. That is why they took the case. They don't know things like: 1. Mr. J made the statements, he has the burden of proof. 2. they don't know the difference between the first ammendment and slandering a persons character and reputation. 3.I am sure they also "don't know" that in certain parts of the suit, 3 abn might be required to prove the facts in a false allegation towards them.
Nah, they don't know near as much as some of you here. They just took the case for the heck of it knowing they will lose........yah right.

Now Mr. J. you're tough, you can take it. You want to make slanderous statements as in fact and you want to be sued. Ok good. So you believe your statement alleging that Mr. J had committed slander was a "truthful" statement because you are excused from knowing what a word means?

Your response suggesting I am arrogant speaks for itself. Continuing to post using the term erroneously suggests more than intellectual sloppiness IMO.

I do find it interesting that you have acknowledged that the Minnesota law firm is considering bringing a case on behalf of TS as I believe he is the one that would need to bring the suit as the plaintiff. Good thing someone has deep pockets to pay for all that hourly rate work at such a prestigious firm since we have been advised no money is coming directly from the 3abn coffers for same.

Erik, I can't help but wonder if the same firm is so convinced they will win on this exact issue they would be willing to take the case on contingency seeing they are going to collect so much from the alleged defendants?

3ABN has no desire to take this to court. The decision was made after more than a year of insinuations and lies on this forum and save3abn site. This seems to be the only way to get to the truth. I know Observer made the comment that he thought this was a good thing--to get the truth out.

Sister, there is one donor who has offered to cover all costs for the lawyer. Not one penny from donors are going towards this lawsuit. This has been said before, but perhaps you missed that post.

I believe all we want on here is the truth--both sides. Why can't we stop and discuss this without attacking each other? I want to apologize to all of you for any times I've retaliated to your posts. It would be so nice if we could just forget the past and start all over again, both sides trying to come to just the truth--discussing it like Christian men and women. I believe there is valuable input that can be had on both sides to come to an agreement here.

Is anyone willing to try?

Mr. J may not personally know any of the victims or have personally witnessed them being victimized but he has a brain that can look at evidence and come to opinions and conclusions based on that evidence. Does he really need to hire a defense attorney to defend his right to have and express his opinions? Not in this country.

Now make that red, copy it and fax it off to Minnesota if you wish.

You do realize these two statements are contradictory, don't you?

Bystander,

in regards to your statement below.

Erik, do you really think I "accidentally" gave something away. Of course not. It is too late to change past posts by those that do most of the slandering. Every evil charge stated now is just another nail in the coffin.

no I do not think you did by mistake, only think you are foolish to go on and on about your case, either you have one or you do not.

so bring or admit you are full of hot air.

I can say with a fairly high degree of being 100% correct that Tommy shelton is in fact a child sexual abuser, based on the signed letter of brad dunning, and of roger clem, also add to that the two letters from the mothers of the unnamed boys that would make 4 cases of abuse of some kind.

now if i am going to be guilty of either slander or libel then you would need to show that one the statements were false.

and secondly that I knew them to be false based on public information, at this point tommy has choosen not to deny anything so the charges in my mind are true.

IF I read in the newspaper that Tommy had sex with some boys, and i then make posts about on the internet that is not slander or libel.

SO i would be careful how you legal beagles play this out, Unless you know for a 100% certain that tommy shelton never once made any type of a sexaul advance on any minor child(under 18) period.

and if that is the case in fact then WHY, WHY would tommy have not issued a simple statement i did do anything of any kind to these boys, and why would 3abn have not sent a letter on tommy behave instead of going straight to the we are going to sue you all.

If you could be so kind has to ask WWJD to reply to my request I made of her, over a week ago.

You're right Mr. J. I meant one "person" not donor.

Ok, but BS, you can't have it both ways. Either the "Chat Room' as you put it, is of no consequence, not credible or it is credible has an impact and has caused damge to someone, DS, TS. If Awesum, did only hear evidence in said chat room, and also made his comments in said chat room, then there is no problem, no case. By your own admission, said "chat room" is not credible. His comments made in said chat room cannot be any more credible that the information posted from which his comments are formed. ee, hat would be great but to discuss this your side needs to bring the proof that following in fact did ıappen.

l. that tommy never has approached any boy or young men for any kind of sexual favors.?

!. that Linda had an affiar with someone anyone before her marriage was ended.?

}. On the money questions, i think the fairest way to handle that one is to pick a independent national ıuditing company and have them do a tottall check of the books at 3abn, i personally would be willing o put some money up towards paying for this to happen and maybe others would has well.

l. Bring forward statements and or Proof that the letters being present at save3abn.com are false, if n fact some or all of the made are false.

Lee, when i first came to this site about year ago, and started reading i was 100 % sure danny was being falsely attacked, but after reading danny and walts own words i found that they left a lot of room for doubt, and then when others came forward with first hand personal information it really changed my mind.

so if 3abn and Danny are about putting any end to this then lets get all the facts on the table, this forum is a place were that can happen, because the otherside is already here, my guess is that they have a lot more to say, and they also should place all there information on the table, truth is never, never, never scared of public display, even when it is tough to do. Look at the cross that was the truth about God hanging in wide space for all to see, nothing being held back. 3abn claims to want to follow Jesus example in this matter then let the Truth hang out for all to see, not in some court room. or better yet open up forum at 3abn's website about the truth make open discussion of the Facts.

I look forward to discussing the facts of these matters with you and others.

Biblical Christianity doesn't work that way in situation like this. There is no forgiveness without attempts at restitution, and restitution is in order. After that we can talk about forgetting the past.

)f course. I am.

f you are MolLee, let's think back to my polite correspondence of October 3, 10, 16, and 17. Let's go)ack to that. John Lomacang promised me that I could see the phone card phone records documenting ıundreds of hours of phone calls between Linda and Dr. Abrahamsen. That promise was broken, and here was a refusal to answer very simple questions, like whether the hundreds of hours were actual ime spent on the phone or billed units.

.et's go back to that and discuss the matter like Christian men and women. Are there really such)hone records? If so, how much actual time do they represent? Of that actual time, how much time vere calls made to Dr. Abrahamsen and not Johann, Irmgard, and Nathan?

₹eally, I could care less if John lied to me IF there is a willingness to come clean and apologize. And ınlike some folks, I am not the kind of person who will then use an apology to crucify someone else.

Bob,
If this is the case then, since the state of Illinois defines a child as "Child" means a person under 17 years of age., that would make Tommy Shelton exactly what some are saying he is not - a child molestor.

There is but one reason for the any of this to go to court: the unwillingness of Danny and Company to be open and transparent. Period. And he still could be, it's not too late, it's the choice of Danny, he alone has control of the situation, he is the one who is calling the shots and the only one that can ratchet the rhetoric back down.

Even if you are on Danny's side the above is a factual statement.

You notice I said Statements. There is a big difference in making the IF THIS IS TRUE allegations or in what you did ,which was ,prononce your judgments as fact. Even if you believe there is no suit coming, most people would still be careful in how that phrase their accusations, just in case.

'our legal counsel must be the same one that proved themselves incompetent in the 3abn vs. Dept of ev, State of Illinois. Defamation through libel requires a much deeper understanding of the law than ou demonstrate. For example, how would I be able to prove that you are you using your computer? 'ou may be at the public library, posting not only anonymously in this forum, but anonymously hrough someone elses computer. Or you may be posting under someone elses name and email/isp. hey can't be held accountable for that. There's no way to prove who used the computer, or who ctually posted, unless there's a record of some kind, like video cameras focused on the computer at he time of posting, clearly identifying who posted.

ut, surely you knew that. Maybe not.

TW, regarding being careful how a statement is phrased, legally, you can ask any question you'd like. OW, it may not be safe to call someone an "______", but I can make the same point by phrasing it vith a question like, "why are you always trying to prove yourself to be an ______?" Or, I can infer it v/o actually stating it in black and white. I can say, "you remind me of the ______ who repeatedly ung himself with his own words.

took out the stuff prior to this post because it didn't quite make sense to me. You also spoke on it fter the fact and corrected yourself.

ll anyone has ever wanted (most at least) is the truth about the entire 3ABN Saga. You have 1st and experiences, letters, and countless posts from countless folks.

agree with the main questions:

. Did Tommy Shelton molest any children? - Per letters he did. He was not "charged" however that oesn't mean that the molestation didn't happen/should not be punished now/no other victims after he fact.

. Did Linda Shelton cheat/commit adultery on Danny Shelton? - Danny Shelton and his "camp" have tated they have "proof" yet it has never been shown. No one's gonna believe you are a winner unless ou show your hand and win the game. So far he's losing all his chips at the table. He's doubled down; e's "pushed" and got nuthin' to show for it...

f Tommy Shelton can prove that he didn't molest the children - (and his letters prove that he did) hen he is not a child molestor.

f Danny Shelton can prove that Linda Shelton cheated on him prior to his divorcing her and marriage o another woman (and so far he has shown no proof and has even stated statements that have been roved false) then he is not in the wrong.

That's it in a nutshell. One is provable due to the actual perpetrator (those that molest - Tommy Shelton) admitting to the allegations in letters.

The other one would be provable if Danny Shelton would put his evidence on the table.

What else is necessary?

I only write for myself Sister and you know this. Because I might say "we" or "us" or whatever is in reference to those of us on Danny's side. If you will read further, you will notice I used the wrong word in reference to the "person" paying court costs. Instead of "donor" it is "person" or whatever you want to call them. Honestly--they can do what they want with their money if they so choose to give it to help pay for lawyers so be it. You can contact them if you want to know why they are doing this.

Lee,

PrincessDrRe's list is a really good start, but I think that there is at least one more that I can think of right off the top of my head:

Danny and whoever was supporting him in his endeavor, must be held accountable for attempting to cover up the abuse by Tommy and intimidating at least one victim (that we know of) and an entire Church organization with threats of legal action for speaking out about the abuse.

A reasonable attempt at restitution should be made for any victims of inappropriate actions.

The statement in red and several more in your earlier post have been forwarded to the Attorney's in Minnesota who constantly monitor the site, but "especially slanderous" statements are always forwarded just in case they missed it.[quote]

Since you and others of 3ABN have been so highly praised for being "Christ like" behind the scenes of 3ABN, what is your view on sueing your brotheren in a court of law? I have been trying to locate that scripture in the bible refering to such. Any Pastors/ Elders out there?
You see, my husband has only been an SDA for about 13 years, and me, 4th generation, and he pointed out that scripture to me. He refuses to take anyone to court for fear that they are believers, so therefore we have had so called SDA family members sueing our socks off. The brighter side to this, is what a wonderful Savior we serve. We have seen how He has dealt with the SDA family opposers when we trust fully in Him to defend us.

It's really sad that we have resorted to threats and lawsuits.

1Co 6:1-7
(1) Dare any of you, having a matter against another, go to law before the unjust, and not before the saints?
(2) Do ye not know that the saints shall judge the world? and if the world shall be judged by you, are ye unworthy to judge the smallest matters?
(3) Know ye not that we shall judge angels? how much more things that pertain to this life?
(4) If then ye have judgments of things pertaining to this life, set them to judge who are least esteemed in the church.
(5) I speak to your shame. Is it so, that there is not a wise man among you? no, not one that shall be able to judge between his brethren?
(6) But brother goeth to law with brother, and that before the unbelievers.
(7) Now therefore there is utterly a fault among you, because ye go to law one with another. Why do ye not rather take wrong? why do ye not rather suffer yourselves to be defrauded?

PB,

Here is Danny Shelton's explanation from the LIVE show:
I'm being honest with you. Before this gets out I want to be the first to set this record straight. Well people say, I don't want my money going to pay lawyers. And so if there's any lawsuits going on, defamation, whatever, I don't want my money...well, we have some people who have donated and did not take a tax deduction and say we're going to help with this so you don't have to take donor's money. If you need legal fees or if you need attorneys to write letters, or if ya gotta go to court to defend yourself, we will help with those bills. And so money is coming in every month. They're paying every month and saying we want to help with situation, so you can let your donor's know that their money is still going just the way it should. When you give money it is going to give the gospel to all the world.

The quote is from the program where the 3ABN panel was addressing the negative article in Adventist today and Pickle and Joy's Save3ABN website, etc..

I believe Ralph transcribed most of the second hour except for 3ABN's explanation of how to support them through prayer, money, labour, and by calling your local networks and stations which have 3ABN and thanking them, or by asking them to add it, if it's not offered in your area.

For those who haven't read it, you can do so here:

Have a Happy Sabbath.

In light of the FACT that peoples donations as well as how they file their taxes, happen to be confidential you can only speak for yourself in regards to who does or does not receive deductions.

I hope that 3ABN is documenting well how this money is being used. The donor may be giving it as a NON-tax deductible gift, which means that they cannot claim it on their taxes, but there are still restrictions on how the money can be used.

For example, if the money is designated to be for Danny Shelton, it could be viewed by the IRS as income. Danny would be required to declare the money as income, and pay taxes on it.

In the church setting, many churches take up an offering for their pastor for birthdays, etc. If this money is taken up by the church, and people MAY feel compelled to contribute, it must be claimed as income.

Sometimes churches will purchase cars for their pastors. After all, the pastor uses his car to visit the sick, attend church related meetings, etc. The IRS says this gift is taxable.

If a donor sends money to 3ABN to support the 501C3 organization, it has certain legal implications. If the donor is sending money to support Danny Shelton, the implications could be quite different.

Posted by: Richard Sherwin Mar 17 2007, 07:01 PM

The fact is, and will remain, that Danny and 3abn does not have to go to court to defend it's self. He can at any time he wishes bring this whole sordid issue to it's conclusion without any lawyers getting involved. It's his choice to unwisely spend donor money to go after fellow believers, money that could be better spent spreading the Gospel. Stubborness is an awful burden to bear.

[quote name='LaurenceD' date='Mar 14 2007, 03:43 PM' post='185351']
Your legal counsel must be the same one that proved themselves incompetent in the 3abn vs. Dept of Rev, State of Illinois. Defamation through libel requires a much deeper understanding of the law than you demonstrate. For example, how would I be able to prove that you are you using your computer? You may be at the public library, posting not only anonymously in this forum, but anonymously through someone elses computer. Or you may be posting under someone elses name and email/isp. They can't be held accountable for that. There's no way to prove who used the computer, or who actually posted, unless there's a record of some kind, like video cameras focused on the computer at the time of posting, clearly identifying who posted.
[/quote

Laurence,I could state all of this in an entirely different way, but I won't. I will get straight to the point. Of course this is not the same legal counsel. These people are experts at what they do.
As to what you stated about finding computers, you are not well versed on the expertise of that subject and I will leave it at that.
As far as the rest of your "lesson" on what constitutes a case, whatever your opinion is,it is of no consequence in comparison to those, who have practiced the art of law succesfully for over 30 years. It pales in comparison to those who are experts not just in law but in these types of cases. They know what they can prove, how to prove it, how to best try the cases (seperately or together) and in what order said cases should be handled. They know the hows, the why's and the way's and for anyone, here, on this forum to argue with their assessments, their knowledge and their success, well, it isn't the most intelligent thing to do.

Mr. J, in his ridiculous post says the attorneys know "my threat" is toothless. rofl Right. I am not making a threat. The case is what defines whether this suit will be a threat. That is why they took the case. They don't know things like: 1. Mr. J made the statements, he has the burden of proof. 2. they don't know the difference between the first ammendment and slandering a persons character and reputation. 3.I am sure they also "don't know" that in certain parts of the suit, 3 abn might be required to prove the facts in a false allegation towards them. Nah, they don't know near as much as some of you here. They just took the case for the heck of it knowing they will lose........yah right.

This will be especially gratifying when you don't know any of the people involved, don't know anything about them except what you have read in a "chat room" and have absolutely no connection to, 3abn, The Shelton's or even the alleged victims for that matter. Yes Mr. J. You will certainly have a credible and valid defense when you have no proof whatsoever to bring forward.
> You and everyone else can act incensed all you want but you know what I say is truth. Are you willing to go through a nightmare, hire a defense attorney, make a fool of yourself in court, since you, yourself can't prove anything, and then take a chance on paying some huge fines and penalties, all so you can have the enjoyment of slandering someone you don't even know?
> Not too smart.

> Unlike the rest of you, I don't profess to have legal knowledge. I don't need to. That is why those attorneys who specialize in these types of cases, get to do the work. I can't wait to see how many more of you will challenge their knowledge against what You "know". What arrogance.

i got a couple questions.............so are you saying that your attorneys in minn. are going to track down and prove the identities of these people online that you are referring to and drag them into court to file personal libel/slander lawsuits against them?? hmm....how much is that costin' ya? these attorneys have any second jobs or anything to tithe them over 'til this ship comes in??

Aletheia, I can't speak for anyone but myself but I found that Mozart's post was very clear as to whom he was speaking to.

You have been reminded before to ask some questions in a PM. Maybe this would be one of those times.

Aletheia,
Before you jump into attack mode, take a moment to think about who this new member, Mozart, just might be. You may want to take a moment to really reflect on what he is saying in his post. Have you taken into consideration that Mozart just may be one of the viewing audience/donors that have seen him charaterizing these online "chat rooms" in a poor light? What kind of welcome does he receive from those defending Danny when they jump directly into attack mode?

NW,
I also thought what Mozart wrote was very clear.

Mozart,

Welcome to the 3abn Forum on BSDA! hug.gif

I don't yet know what drew you here but we are all looking forward to getting to "know" you. I appreciated your posts and enjoy reading your opinions on this saga and your responses to other members!

Could this be termed a "weird" welcome to a new member who expresses how impressive your spins appear to a newcomer?

To Aletheia:
Please take this down a notch or two. This is a new member, and you are in not in authority here to take anybody to task for anything.

To mozart:
Welcome to BSDA. I am looking forward to reading more of your posts. However, we try to refrain from trying to identify anyone here, as we all(including you) are her under annonymous IDs. We try to extend the same respect to others that we expect for ourselves. That being said...post away!

wasn't, and am not in attack mode. I didn't know at first that Mozart was new, but even weirder that new member would arrive call Lee, Danny Lee and read her the riot act as if she's is Danny Lee helton. It doesn't matter who mozart is, the point was, who Lee is not.

o it wasn't spoton, it was offbase as I said. Truth matters.

nd Mozart, aside from this, a belated welcome.gif hank you -- here's what he wrote in his next post:

Wow! No offense, honestly, but did he hit a nerve with you danny lee? Not sure how much scripture ou have the time to read anymore but remember this one? "See to it that no one misses the grace of od and that no bitter root grows up to cause trouble and defile many". The more you wallow in the ud the dirtier you get. Isn't it time to repent and get baptised again and get all this over with? lease for everyone's sake. I'm begging you to stop all this. It's worse than Jim Bakker and Jimmy waggert combined!"

hen every one was going on about how wonderful what he wrote was and welcoming him like they ouldn't notice.... really, sometimes this place is like being in the twilight zone, or One flew over the cuckoo's nest.

robably because I am more concerned with what a person says and does, then in who they claim hey are. {actions speak louder then words-- you will know them by their fruits)

OW, where this forum is concerned; I tend to focus more on what is posted, then on who the poster s, or what they claim to be.

BlackSDA _ 3ABN _ 3abn Calls For Day Of Fasting And Prayer.

Posted by: Pickle Feb 21 2007, 04:26 PM

A friend sent me the following.

It sounds real good until it starts talking about trying to find the enemy within. My guess is that that's HOTY.

Satan's attack? Web of lies?

Prayer Requests February 21

Special Request

God has impressed 3ABN's administrative staff that we need to call for a day of fasting and prayer to seek His face. This special season of prayer has been scheduled for:

Thursday, February 22, 2007, 9:30am—4:30pm

Ten department heads will be gathering together at the Thompsonville Church to fast and pray during those hours—an Upper Room experience, if you will. 3ABN's Board of Directors, and leaders of several other ministries will be joining us in spirit in this effort.

We will alternate between group and individual prayer time for those seven hours. Our prayer focus will begin with repentance, consecration and a desire for united hearts (specifically to be one in spirit with the Lord, operating by the mind of Christ). We will be praying for the Holy Spirit to fall upon us as He did on the day of Pentecost. Our goal is to seek God's guidance—asking Him to outline our plan of defense against Satan's attack, praying for Him to root out the enemy from within (giving them a change of heart and possibility of restoration), asking for ministry direction, praying for funds, and asking God's protection over the spiritual babes He has brought into the fold through 3ABN's ministry (that their faith will not be destroyed, and they will not be snared by the web of lies Satan is weaving).

Pray the Lord to cause us to hear His still, small voice, making clear His will for the direction we should take, as King Jehoshaphat did in 2 Chronicles, chapter 20, when—surrounded by his enemies (that God did not permit him to destroy)—he proclaimed a fast in all Judah, and assembled the people for prayer. We will look to the Lord for all the answers, and trust He will provide the plan for victory!

can clearly see a trick. But I'll be praying for the Lord's voice to be heard by those people fasting and praying. May the Holy Spirit touch their hearts. And may the people not be deceived by spiritual traps.

Posted by: Noahswife Feb 21 2007, 04:41 PM

This specifically says that it will include 10 department heads. Does that eliminate Danny, Mollie or others or are we to assume they are there "in spirit"?

Posted by: lurker Feb 21 2007, 04:47 PM

It doesn't sound voluntary either does it? What pressure to put these people under. I too will be interested in knowing if the bigwigs will be fasting with the troops.

To be one in spirit with the Lord....or one in spirit with Danny and the Shelton Gang?

The "possibility for restoration?". Is that what Jesus would do, say that He would possibly restore? Sad, these people are truly a hot mess.

BTW, it actually soulds like a trap... btjm rom the SDA BiBle Commentary, Vol. 4:

sa 58:1-4 Cry aloud, spare not, lift up thy voice like a trumpet, and show my people their ransgression, and the house of Jacob their sins. (2) Yet they seek me daily, and delight to know my ays, as a nation that did righteousness, and forsook not the ordinance of their God: they ask of me he ordinances of justice; they take delight in approaching to God. (3) Wherefore have we fasted, say hey, and thou seest not? wherefore have we afflicted our soul, and thou takest no knowledge? ehold, in the day of your fast ye find pleasure, and exact all your labors. (4) Behold, ye ast for strife and debate, and to smite with the fist of wickedness: ye shall not fast as ye do his day, to make your voice to be heard on high.

he house of Jacob, at the time this warning was given to Isaiah, appeared to be a very zealous eople, seeking God daily, and delighting to know His ways; but in reality they were filled with resumptuous self-confidence. They were not walking in the truth. Goodness, mercy, and ove were not practiced. While presenting an appearance of sorrow for their sins, they were herishing pride and avarice. At the very time when they were showing such outward umiliation, they would exact hard labor from those under them or in their employ. They laced a high estimate on all the good that they had done, but a very low estimate on the ervices of others. They despised and oppressed the poor. And their fasting only gave them higher opinion of their own goodness. {4BC 1149.8} here are sins of this same character among us today, and they bring the rebuke of God pon His church. Wherever such sins are found, seasons of fasting and prayer are indeed ecessary; but they must be accompanied with sincere repentance and decided eformation. Without such contrition of soul, these seasons only increase the guilt of the rong-doer. The Lord has specified the fast He has chosen, the one He will accept. It is that hich bears fruit to His glory, in repentance, in devotion, in true piety. {4BC 1150.1} sa 58:6-7 Is not this the fast that I have chosen? to loose the bands of wickedness, to ndo the heavy burdens, and to let the oppressed go free, and that ye break every yoke? 7) Is it not to deal thy bread to the hungry, and that thou bring the poor that are cast out o thy house? when thou seest the naked, that thou cover him; and that thou hide not hyself from thine own flesh?

n the fast that God has chosen, mercy, tenderness, and compassion will be exercised. Avarice will be ut away, and fraud and oppression will be repented of and renounced. All the authority and influence ill be used to help the poor and oppressed. If this were the condition of the world, it would no more be a proverb, "Truth is fallen in the street, and equity cannot enter;" "he that departeth from evil maketh himself a prey" (RH Oct. 13, 1891)

Let he who hath ears, hear...

It seems our mission during those hours is clear as well. I would like to suggest that we set aside that time to join together in written prayers and fasting (to those who are able and so inclined) - no discussion or debate, just prayers that we can post, read together and ask the Holy Spirit to carry to our Father.

We know the issues. We know that there are truth seekers among the employees at 3abn that need protection. We know there are victims that need restitution and healing. We know that some in the ministry of 3abn need to set pride aside and truly repent so that the health of the ministry can be restored.

If no one else starts the topic tomorrow morning, I will do so.

Prayer is powerful!

I think it's a good idea and wish them only the best experience. If I may, I'd like to suggest a few things that may benefit their mission to "root out the enemy within":

1. Drink plenty of water.
2. Balance the time spent in prayer with time spent in reasonable and fair discussion. Depth perception can only be acquired when both the eye of faith and the eye of reason are fully functioning together.
3. While praying for the Holy Spirit, expect the presence of Jesus as EGW says of the early diciples--they sensed the presence of the one who had left them.
4. After receiving the gift of the spirit, use this test to make sure it's the spirit of Jesus--and not his counterfeit: Acts 2:44 "And all that believed were together and had all things in common."
5. While holding all things in common, let no one withhold confidential information, but fully disclose all in truth to one another. Let everyone examine all legal documnets of each other, and every evidence held in secret by one another.
6. At the end of the session, do not eat a late meal as the benefits of fasting may be interrupted.

I agree and am joining the plan. I think the Lord will be pleased if we do it. I'm unsure of the time, mine is "GMT minus 1". Which one is the fasting and prayer, regarding to GMT, anybody knows?

Blessings!

Grace,
Sorry I don't know how GMT minus 1 relates to Pacific Standard Time or Central Time. I will be getting here at 7:30 am PST to begin praying. That will be 9:30 am Central time.

They were not walking in the truth. Goodness, mercy, and love were not practiced. While presenting an appearance of sorrow for their sins, they were cherishing pride and avarice. At the very time when they were showing such outward humiliation, they would exact hard labor from those under them or in their employ. They placed a high estimate on all the good that they had done, but a very low estimate on the services of others. They despised and oppressed the poor. And their fasting only gave them a higher opinion of their own goodness. {4BC 1149.8}
> There are sins of this same character among us today, and they bring the rebuke of God upon His church. Wherever such sins are found, seasons of fasting and prayer are indeed necessary; but they must be accompanied with sincere repentance and decided reformation. Without such contrition of soul, these seasons only increase the guilt of the wrong-doer. The Lord has specified the fast He has chosen, the one He will accept. It is that which bears fruit to His glory, in repentance, in devotion, in true piety. {4BC 1150.1}

> Isa 58:6-7 Is not this the fast that I have chosen? to loose the bands of wickedness, to undo the heavy burdens, and to let the oppressed go free, and that ye break every yoke? (7) Is it not to deal thy bread to the hungry, and that thou bring the poor that are cast out to thy house? when thou seest the naked, that thou cover him; and that thou hide not thyself from thine own flesh?
> In the fast that God has chosen, mercy, tenderness, and compassion will be exercised. Avarice will be put away, and fraud and oppression will be repented of and renounced. All the authority and influence will be used to help the poor and oppressed. If this were the condition of the world, it would no more be a proverb, "Truth is fallen in the street, and equity cannot enter;" "he that departeth from evil maketh himself a prey" (RH Oct. 13, 1891)

Mr. J,

Thank you so much for this group of statements! As the 3abn department heads meet in prayer omorrow, I hope they have this counsel before them.

am often in prayer about my participation on this forum, seeking God in order to make certain I am doing His will. As I read Isaiah 58:6-7 it struck me and affirmed for me that this is what our mission is here on the 3abn Forum!

My question is, are these "Fasting and Prayer" sessions mandatory?

Is this noted somewhere in the employee contract that each person must sign?

How can any company "legally" require people, who may not even be christians or attend church at all, to participate in "corporate worship"?

Is this even constitutional?

See an EEOC rep should be asked to attend... or better still I'd ask my attorney to come along just so he can see what folks are "required" to do.

I don't know how to say my feeling on this very well...I have been thinking about it since getting home and seeing this new topic started. Given all that has led up to this time, and now this announcement of this "fast and prayer time", I don't mean to sound negative, but I can't help but have very creepy feeling about this new move they are making.

Thank you Mr. J for your post. I will be praying as well tomorrow. I take great comfort in the fact that God is still in control, He knows just what is going on and why. He knows each persons heart and motive. There is nothing in mankind He has not seen before and nothing surprises Him.

I keep in mind that there will be many things we will witness on this earth where sin is concerned that will be why it will rise no more in heaven. It is something to contemplate when you realize it has to be so ugly and toxic that no person would want to make that choice again, knowing how much pain it causes. Just thinking through my fingertips....

Does anyone here remember how to talk like a Christian?

This thread is a shame to true Christian love and courtesy. You take an assumption, then believe it as gospel truth.

3ABN is no more a cult or Koresh compound than the pope is SDA! Get a grip people. GET A GRIP on yourselves.

Of course 3ABN has not made this solemn time of fasting and prayer manditory. Has anyone bothered to find out by asking them? Of course not or you'd not be saying these things.

In the Name of the Lord God of Heaven, please STOP IT!

It was a REQUEST and it wasn't meant to be posted here.

Is nothing sacred to you all, or worth commending in the planned day of fasting and prayer?

I don't even know what to say to the negative and unloving replies here. I really am shocked, and I thought I was past that here.

I will be praying tomorrow also, first that the Lord will show me the truth of myself and help me to search out, and get rid of whatever is not pleasing to him and then I will pray for those at 3ABN, and you all. And that the Lord's will be done.

It's very hard not to love someone when you lift them up in prayer.

Cindy, you have spent the last 3 weeks trying to justify Tommy's extramarital homosexual proclivities and exploitations ... so you don't get to get indignant.

Your trying to paint Tommy's victims as consenting partners tops the list for negative and unloving replies... and given that you continue to try to discredit those very victims... it's plain you arent past anything at all... so don't whine when you reap what you have sown.

Where on earth do you come up with this stuff? It is unbelievable. Anyone that wants to can join with fasting and prayer, just like churches that take a day and invite their members to do so. Either your imagination has completely gotten out of control, or, you do this on purpose just to plant your spoiled seeds.

Vhat does it matter who is there and who isn't? This is pathetic when a ministry can't have a day of asting and prayer without this group tearing it down. Haven't any of your churches done this? Don't iny other adventist ministries do this? I am sure there will be many employees participating with asting and prayer in their work places, as well as families of the employees there. If they genuinely mean this they should have invited the former Mrs Linda Shelton and all others they slagged off in public and private as per Jesus instruction in Matthew. One can't go to the alter when one has aught with one's brother or sister.......so they are wasting their time.

I received a pm from someone, who may not be a from the US, who believes that 3ABN can do whatever they want regarding employees laws, racism etc. According to this pereson, they can do what they want because they are a non-profit religious org., so, the equal opportunity employment act does not apply to them. Not her exact words

Posted by: watchbird Feb 22 2007, 07:50 AM

All words in dark-red below are by 'wwjd' date='Feb 22 2007, 02:02 AM' post='179928':

Just when we think that you can't scrape any lower, you succeed. in doing so.

Isn't it a coincidence.... this is exactly what many of us think with each post that you write, and each pity-party that you hold.

Why would you post something like this?

I did not consult with each one here who posted, but it is most likely because they were each to polite to say what they really thought.

How and why would you take a simple day of prayer, fasting and worship and try to turn it into something bad and evil.

Because of scriptural principles.... that true prayer, fasting, and worship, cannot originate or be participated in by those with evil hearts.... which at least some in the group that announced this publicity event have sufficiently revealed so as to justify calling them evil.. for it is out of the abundance of the heart that the mouth speaketh (or the keyboard typeth).

The Lord has this to say about those who engage in fasts while still living in their sins....

> Cry loudly, do not hold back;
> Raise your voice like a trumpet,
> And declare to My people their (B)transgression
> And to the house of Jacob their sins.

And he describes them thusly.... and do note how He moves into ironic tone.....

> Yet they seek Me day by day and delight to know My ways,
> As a nation that has done righteousness
> And has not forsaken the ordinance of their God
> They ask Me for just decisions,
> They delight in the nearness of God.

And then repeats their question about why He seemingly does not hear or even notice them.....

> 'Why have we fasted and You do not see?
> Why have we humbled ourselves and You do not notice?'

And then answering their question....very directly and in detail....

> Behold, on the day of your fast you find your desire,
> And drive hard all your workers.
> Behold, you fast for contention and strife and to strike with a wicked fist
> You do not fast like you do today to make your voice heard on high.

And then God moves to question mode again... first challenging what they call a "fast"....

> Is it a fast like this which I choose, a day for a man to humble himself?
> Is it for bowing one's head like a reed
> And for spreading out sackcloth and ashes as a bed?
> Will you call this a fast, even an acceptable day to the LORD?

And next, still in question mode, but describing what He, God, considers an acceptable "fast"....

> Is this not the fast which I choose,
> To loosen the bonds of wickedness,
> To undo the bands of the yoke,
> And to let the oppressed go free
> And break every yoke?
> Is it not to divide your bread with the hungry
> And bring the homeless poor into the house;
> When you see the naked, to cover him;
> And not to hide yourself from your own flesh?

And only after all of this does God begin to mention the blessings that will follow.... and note the "if/then" conditions set forth.... first the implied "if all of the above"....

> Then your light will break out like the dawn,
> And your recovery will speedily spring forth;
> And your righteousness will go before you;
> The glory of the LORD will be your rear guard.
> Then you will call, and the LORD will answer;
> You will cry, and He will say, 'Here I am '
> If you remove the yoke from your midst,
> The pointing of the finger and speaking wickedness,
> And if you give yourself to the hungry
> And satisfy the desire of the afflicted,

And do not, I adjure you by the Living God, turn this around to say that God is speaking of those of us who point out wickedness... for in the very first verse He has plainly commanded us to do just that.

It is to YOU he is speaking, Danny Shelton and all other leaders of 3abn, who gather in pity parties and "tut tut" your wagging tongues over those who are exposing your perfidies.

FIRST.... "remove the yoke" from your workers... and your ex-workers

FIRST.... stop falsely "speaking wickedness" against those who are innocent of your charges.... including and especially your ex-workers.

FIRST.... "satisfy the desire of the afflicted"... those YOU have afflicted... for freedom from your continued attacks and freedom from fear of what you have threatened and demonstrated by your doing in the past against them.

THEN.... and only then.... can you expect the blessing of the Lord as He goes on to promise....

> Then your light will rise in darkness
> And your gloom will become like midday.
> And the LORD will continually guide you,
> And satisfy your desire in scorched places,
> And give strength to your bones;
> And you will be like a watered garden,
> And like a spring of water whose waters do not fail.

Until you have satisfied the conditions... do not complain if we refuse to call evil good and call your announced day of "fasting and pray" anything other than an additional abomination unto the Lord.

All Ministries that I know of set aside days for this purpose. Most churches that I know of do so as well. This shows how desperate you have become for dirt.

This shows how desperate you have become for defense... but save it, can it, put it away.... pretense is no defence when it comes to dealing with the LORD himself.

Your insinuations towards this day proves how willing you are to judge the hearts and motives of people you don't even know.

Give it up.... your actions through the years have more than provided us with evidence of your characters... we don't have to look on the inside to know what is there.... "out of the abundance of the heart"..... etc.

Really, we should be glad that you did this. People that are wondering about all this stuff will see the attitude and motives that are behind what you are doing. You have crossed many lines where 3abn is concerned but this time you have crossed God's line. He has ask us in his word to come to him in fasting and prayer. "where two or three are gathered"...you know the rest. You have shown those who are watching your little show that everyone can fast and pray except for 3ABN. Unbelievable....

Not even a "good try", dannyscribe..... As I have shown... God himself has very negative things to say about those who fast and pray while at the same time doing wickedly.

And while yes, there are times when he mentions "fasting and prayer" as being needed.... there are also times when he says his people's prayers are an abomination. There are times when He says plainly there are things that we should NOT pray for.

And don't consider that "two or three" as any magic incantation.... Our God is not a God who depends on numbers. God and ONE human is a majority.... Actually, God Himself, by Himself, is a majority, and fully able to act on his own cognizance.

So save the weeping, wailing, sackcloth and ashes, and crying aloud on the streetcorners.....

Ain't none of it workin here....

This is why this prayer and fasting day is going to be a colossal waste of time. If your desire was the will of God, your focus would be more akin to this:

2Co 10:3-5 For though we walk in the flesh, we do not war after the flesh: (4) (For the weapons of our warfare are not carnal, but mighty through God to the pulling down of strongholds;) (5) Casting down imaginations, and every high thing that exalteth itself against the knowledge of God, and bringing into captivity every thought to the obedience of Christ;

But instead, you continue with the same carnal mess you came into this forum with... and yet you wonder why God seems afar off? Maybe you should ask the prophet Isaiah:

Isa 59:1-8 Behold, the LORD's hand is not shortened, that it cannot save; neither his ear heavy, that it cannot hear: (2) But your iniquities have separated between you and your God, and your sins have hid his face from you, that he will not hear. (3) For your hands are defiled with blood, and your fingers with iniquity; your lips have spoken lies, your tongue hath muttered perverseness. (4) None calleth for justice, nor any pleadeth for truth: they trust in vanity, and speak lies; they conceive mischief, and bring forth iniquity. (5) They hatch cockatrice' eggs, and weave the spider's web: he that eateth of their eggs dieth, and that which is crushed breaketh out into a viper. (6) Their webs shall not become garments, neither shall they cover themselves with their works: their works are works of iniquity, and the act of violence is in their hands. (7) Their feet run to evil, and they make haste to shed innocent blood: their thoughts are thoughts of iniquity; wasting and destruction are in their paths. (8) The way of peace they know not; and there is no judgment in their goings: they have made them crooked paths: whosoever goeth therein shall not know peace.

In His service,
Mr. J

So are you suggesting that 3ABn has now officially repudiated the idea that Danny is the untouchable-by-man Lord's Anointed, and that it's wrong to disagree with him? If they have offically repudiated that idea, which they broadcast to the world on August 10, 2006, then I would agree with you that they are probably not a cult.

Posted by: LaurenceD Feb 22 2007, 11:00 AM

In all fairness, I think what some people are objecting to here is not prayer and fasting per se, or whether there's a blessing in it. What's creating doubt (at least for me) is this: why would an organization fast and pray about something they could easily understand w/o prayer and fasting...simply by reading something like Barbara Kerr's letter (http://www.blacksda.com/forums/index.php?showtopic=10489&hl=Kerr) to the group and perhaps inviting her to an open session at the table for an honest discussion about leadership and public relations.

This could be more revealing than all of the prayers combined, esp if done in the spirit of openness. And it could serve as a metaphor for other similar situations plaguing the organization. Religious organization that have nothing to hide would do well to read their own state's Open Public Meetings Act (aka the "Sunshine Law") and take a serious lesson.

Please, folks, let's all join the 3ABN folks in this prayer! ☒

Let's pray that the Holy Spirit will work mightily at 3ABN. "And when he is come, he will reprove the world of sin, and of righteousness, and of judgment." (John 16:8)

Maybe now, many lurkers will see the real "spirit" of this place.

wwjd,
Many of us here sincerely hope and pray that the day of fasting and prayer being held in the Thompsonville church will bring restoration and healing to the ministry of 3abn. I am reposting the "Special Request" below to call attention to a specific area that causes concern to many here:

> QUOTE
> Special Request
> God has impressed 3ABN's administrative staff that we need to call for a day of fasting and prayer to seek His face. This special season of prayer has been scheduled for:
>
> Thursday, February 22, 2007, 9:30am—4:30pm
>
> Ten department heads will be gathering together at the Thompsonville Church to fast and pray during those hours—an Upper Room experience, if you will. 3ABN's Board of Directors, and leaders of several other ministries will be joining us in spirit in this effort.
>
> We will alternate between group and individual prayer time for those seven hours. Our prayer focus will begin with repentance, consecration and a desire for united hearts (specifically to be one in spirit with the Lord, operating by the mind of Christ). We will be praying for the Holy Spirit to fall upon us as He did on the day of Pentecost. Our goal is to seek God's guidance—asking Him to outline our plan of defense against Satan's attack, praying for Him to root out the enemy from within (giving them a change of heart and possibility of restoration), asking for ministry direction, praying for funds, and asking God's protection over the spiritual babes He has brought into the fold through 3ABN's ministry (that their faith will not be destroyed, and they will not be snared by the web of lies Satan is weaving).
> Pray the Lord to cause us to hear His still, small voice, making clear His will for the direction we should take, as King Jehoshaphat did in 2 Chronicles, chapter 20, when—surrounded by his enemies (that God did not permit him to destroy)—he proclaimed a fast in all Judah, and assembled the people for prayer. We will look to the Lord for all the answers, and trust He will provide the plan for victory!

It is a great and important goal of this fasting and prayer day to seek God's guidance. Where it becomes a cause for concern is what does the announcement mean by "- asking Him to outline our plan of defense against Satan's attack, praying for Him to root out the enemy from within (giving them a change of heart and possibility of restoration)"

By this are they recognizing that something is amiss amongst them, that someone is following Satan's lead (perhaps Danny or other leaders) and they want God to move on those hearts and realize their need of repentence? Are they really asking for God to reveal, root out, the true enemy within their ranks?

Or are they asking God to help them root out the employees who they have concluded are betraying the ministry by speaking out against injustice and sin?

It really does make a difference what their motivation is as they fast and pray. I pray that they are motivated to hear God's voice, the Holy Spirit, with open minds and hearts so that the true source of the problems at 3abn will be clear to them and they will have the courage to follow the guidance God will provide.

I think you are mistaken. I was not the one calling for a day of fasting and prayer in order to reveal which workers didn't agree with management in regard to how things have been handled, things like:

- The Tommy Shelton child molestation allegations.
- The allegation regarding the use of fraudulent evidence to get rid of someone trying to clean things up.
- The sexual assault allegations against Danny.
- The allegations regarding embezzlement or conversion.
- And it appears we have new ones to hit the web: the allegations against Leonard Westphal.

To have a day of fasting and prayer for the expressed purpose of revealing who doesn't agree with such decisions by management just seems totally inappropriate.

In my Christian experience I have learned from Scripture that we should not approach God with preconceived notions, but with an open mind to find out what is right in the eyes of God. How will God bless us if we make demands on Him? This might be what certain people teach, but I have always been taught this is far from the beliefs of the Church which 3ABN claims to support in doctrine. How can 3ABN claim to proclaim beliefst they denounce when they fast and pray?

> What does it matter who is there and who isn't? This is pathetic when a ministry can't have a day of fasting and prayer without this group tearing it down. Haven't any of your churches done this? Don't any other adventist ministries do this? I am sure there will be many employees participating with fasting and prayer in their work places, as well as families of the employees there. How can you make fun of something like that. How can someone say I see a trick in this. You all have gone way to far when you make judgments on those in prayer and fasting. It is wrong. Maybe now, many lurkers will see the real "spirit" of this place.

For one, 3ABN is not a church, nor is Danny Shelton an Adventist minister by any stretch of the imagination.

I know of a company that provides a friendly work environment and supplies one of their largest board rooms every Wednesday for bible study to anyone who wants to attend. The company even provides lunch. However, that company does not require its employees to sign anything that requires the employee to attend mandatory prayer sessions. And to do so is an infringement on the rights of those employees who may not even believe in God.

The God I serve does not force anyone to worship him. You could not pay most of us on BSDA to work for 3ABN under it's current "leadership", because most of us know he is not God.

Wwjd you came into BlackSDA the same way Danny did, with a lying tongue and you have yet to stop lying. With that said, you are hardly in a position to demand anything of anyone on BSDA, so you need to hush your mouth talking about making judgements.

Get thee hence, and return to your place in communion with the father of lies.
Lurkers, per wwjd suggestion, click here http://www.blacksda.com/forums/index.php?s=&showtopic=12629&view=findpost&p=180032 to see who wwjd is, in his own words.

Be Blessed

I have to agree with LawrenceD, here. I don't believe the problem is in the fasting and prayer, but the motives for calling it in the first place. If the motive is still to maintain some innocence before viewers/contributors/employees, and Danny just imagine why these people are saying these things, etc., then the motives for calling for fasting and prayer are wrong, and are only being used to deceived the viewers/contributors/employees. It is also been mentioned that this may not be needed at all. We fast and pray for those things which we cannot handle on our own. In this case just asnwering a few questions, and some responsiblity for ones actions will probably do the trick.

Example: In recent years there was a pastor who basically, caused descension within his own church, even wronging several members directly. So much so that the church was nearly empty with a month or two. Now, the way this was done, not all the church was privy to it, but there were those behind the scenes working to recitfy the situation. Those trying to fixed the problem, tried to work with the pastor, and did not bring his undercover dirty dealings to the church immediately. This probably should have been done, because it allowed to pastor to go and play the victim to the church members who were and are still not aware of his dealings. Those trying to work with him were labelled troublemakers, etc.(sounds familiar) One of the "tools" he used to "unite, heal, restore" the church was to call a "special" communion. Now, for those who were unaware of his dealings, this was wonderful, but to those who were still trying to properly rectify the pastor's mess it was plain the the Lord's Supper was being used to further his own agenda of being a victim. Now, what was needed here was some culpability on the part of the pastor for his wrong doings. He needed to make apologies, and fix the things that were wrong. He was not willing to do any of this, but wanted to play this game with the members about the church needing healing, etc. That was true, but the healing should have started with him admitting his wrongs and making them right. I have no doubt had those who knew the whole story actually verbalize what they thought about the communio, they would have been met with the same righteous indignation met here. The members had no idea he was not willing to do any of this, but only saw his "efforts" to "heal and restore" the congregation, and the comments and actions of those who knew better.

So you see, even the things of God can be used for the wrong reasons, or with the wrong motives. I think we all agree God only accepts our "sacrifices" with a willing and contrite heart. You can't, or should not use these sacred symbols to gloss over one's wrongs.

Thank you very much for this opinion, LawrenceD and princessdi. I agree with it, and it is for the above stated reason that I feel unease with the whole notion. The whole idea somehow seems manipulative.

PrincessDi, that's an interesting story. Thanks for sharing that. I have been in situations myself where certain parties seemed so right and yet when it all comes out in the wash, so to speak, they were very wrong.

When I listened to the latest 3ABN Live, they all sounded so sincere, even Danny and it sounded good, but after reading the transcription, I caught some troubling statements that I missed in the multiplicity of words from Danny.

I prayed for 3ABN today. I just wonder how the prayer and fasting time turned out for them. Anyone know?

Where can one view a transcription?

I only caught the last ½ hr, unexpectedly, of the full 2 hour 3ABN Today LIVE - God's Grace And Law w/Jim Gilley broadcast tonight. Jim did a pretty good job reassuring DS that everything works out good for those who love the Lord--in spite of all the criticism, the beating, and false accusations one must take while ministering to a sinful world. Jim had been removed from high office himself and reinstated. DS seemed encouraged to hear that.

I got a little uncomfortable listening to these two talking about their wives. DS mention something about his "young" wife...and I marveld at the ease with wich he could talk. My mind kept wondering back to that bible verse in Mat 24 that describes the last days when people will be "marrying and giving in marriage." Really quite remarkable. I wonder what it must be like to be LS or B. Kerr listening to someone like that, yet being able to see so well beneath the surface from first hand experience. Truely remarkable, but that's TV business I guess.

DS did mention he'd been fasting and praying all day...that it wasn't his idea, but his department heads, SQ and M, etc.

I see on the 3abn website there are reruns scheduled for the middle of the night, tonight.

ou prove yet again, you are a master at stating things that have not been stated. You, concluded the bove statement. 3ABN never made it. You did. You once again, took your opinion and stated it as act. It then becomes a lie. 3ABN never ever called this day to reveal workers.....blah blah You knew hat when you wrote this. f I'm wrong, it's a mistake, not a lie. You do know the difference, don't you?

he email I received said, "Our goal is to seek God's guidance—... praying for Him to root out the nemy from within (giving them a change of heart and possibility of restoration)...."

honestly don't know how to take that any other way. Your suggestions?

f you have no suggestions, What Would Jesus Do? He would suggest to you that you apologize to me or accusing me of telling a lie, and of intentionally stating a falsehood. And I ask the same.

or if you can't think of any other suggestions, then the only possibility is that you erred in what you aid. And if you can think of other suggestions, you still may have erred.

Psa 55:2 Give heed to me and answer me; I am restless in my complaint and am surely distracted, Psa 55:3 Because of the voice of the enemy, Because of the pressure of the wicked; For they bring down trouble upon me And in anger they bear a grudge against me.
Psa 55:4 My heart is in anguish within me, And the terrors of death have fallen upon me.
Psa 55:5 Fear and trembling come upon me, And horror has overwhelmed me.

What beautiful, Words. May the Lord hear this even today. We could all use such protection from the enemies of God. However, those at 3ABN need immediate help for their protection. Let us continue to pray.

BlackSDA _ 3ABN _ A Five Minute Transcript From 3abn "live" - 2/15/07

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Feb 17 2007, 04:47 PM

I am not a professional transcriber, but after watching the final minutes of the first hour of the pre-recorded 3ABN LIVE program on February 15, 2007, I felt the need to attempt to put the words to print. In the beginning, I tried to catch everyone's comments in the order that they were given, but as I proceeded, I found it to be too difficult to include some of the generic background voices. Any time actual words were spoken I tried my best to discern them and add them where they occurred.

The fruits of my attempt follows. While I won't claim that it is perfect, I spent several hours diligently trying to get it as close to that mark as possible.

PB

DS: Now, I'm gonna talk - I've never done this so straightforward, Walt, to our viewers but I think we're all in this together and, uh, it's amazing to me that since this has been happening in this 10 commandments last weekend especially it seems like Satan has tried to attack this ministry...

CA?: Yeah

DS:...so much so that I just found out today there are a group of people, small group, call themselves Seventh-day Adventist they u-all are members for as I know of this church yet they're makin it their job they're going on the internets telling people ta call their cable stations and call uh a 3abn affiliate stations and tell em to take off 3abn...

?: Tsk!
DS: cause they're...
SQ: Lord have mercy
?Male: Hmm
DS: Isn't that amazing to..
?Male: (unintelligible comment)
Female: Have Mercy
WT: Strange Day.

DS: It is a strange day now we we uh thankfully we have the Spirit of Prophecy and I've read things like we have more to fear from within then from without
?M: mmmm
?F: mmmm

DS: and I say this to you, some of you sayin' oh don't air dirty laundry, I'm sorry to say people are airing dirty laundry to the world we don't want to go into details and we don't name names. Uh they're a small group of people who wants to put everybody's sins, though they don't really know they're their sins but they've heard that they are (Male: Hmm) so they wanta, as they say, trash and talk terrible about people and literally put it up for the world to see anybody can read it. (Male: Hmm) and I'm amazed that these people are set on destroying (Female: Umhm) that they're willing to overlook the souls(amens) of the letters of all the people that are lives are being changed by this ministry and now they've gone so far - see, honestly it's okay if they attack me, the old saying is sticks and stones'll break my bones but words will never hurt me I mean I'm sorry but that's - I was taught that from the time I was a kid. Everybody likes to be liked but you don't have to be. If you're doin' what you feel God calls you to do I'm just willing to do it and you know what my dad used to say "Son you're as happy as if you had good sense"

(all laugh)
DS:So people, honestly, so I'm not a - this is not a feel sorry for me this is not anything about me, this is about people who totally have lost focus of the times in which we're living and they're affecting other people, Christians, outside the Adventist church as well as inside the church and they're putting all this stuff that supposedly are people's sins and they feel that, Dr. Walt, that it's their job to do it and they their idea is to take this ministry down. Now this is not the Catholic church doin' it, it's not the Baptist church these are people - in fact I have a question here let's see if I've got time maybe I'll quickly read it and we may have to come back and I thought it would be a good question to go to. It says uh here, this is for you Dr. Walt, "We are long-time viewers of 3abn and it is such a blessing. We are very disturbed by some of the awful and unChristian things that have been printed on the internet. All of the thing - bad things have been coming from one side. It seems that Danny and 3abn have been silent. Why have you chosen not to answer any of the horrible things that have been said about you and the ministry. We know that uh we know that it is the-uh more Christian way but we just wondered why you have not said anything in your defense. And by the way we don't believe these things." But they - it's a good question and we feel like maybe it's time that we go on the air for the first time and talk about that. Uh, why we have been silent. Some things happened here nearly three years ago an wh-and we've tried not to say anything why

WT: H-h-h-h-how do you say things without hurting people?
DS: (clears throat)mmkay.
WT: Hu-how do you hu-how do you say truth, uh, without being accusing?
DS: mmhmm
WT: You know and Satan is the accuser of the brethren and you know we-uh we have decided from day one that we were not going to do that
DS: mmhmm
WT: and and yet, uh, there comes a point when, what when do we stand up for God's cause
DS: mmhmm
WT: because God's cause is being hurt and there comes a point when I think we do have to take a stand and take a position
DS: mmhmm
WT: and uh I think this this that as now.
DS Okay..we've tried ne-talking to people. That didn't really help. We tried the Matthew 18. So then we tried to go before ASI and ASI willing to hear an basically any complaints that people had or accusations they brought out but this little group of people wouldn't work with ASI so ASI now has made a statement sayin' we can't work with those folk 'cause they won't abide by the rules that we're setting up ta to to hear this whole situation out and..
WT: An-and we are an independent organization or supporting industry uh ministry of the church
DS: mmhmm
WT: so the church doesn't really have responsibility or authority
DS: Right
WT: so they can't become involved and so ya know kinda we're out here sitting alone
DS: mmhmm
WT: an who who who do we talk to,
DS: mmhmm
WT: who do we give our evidence to that can look at it and believe it and evaluate it?
DS: Right, an an I think ASI was was the correct choice, an I'm very thankful, wanna say hats off to ASI WT: That's right.
DS: That's work, hats off to ASI and, uh for the willingness to work and to try to to be here to support and it didn't work out and yet now on the internet they're literally, it's it's amazing, the stuff that they're putting and I I'm sorry to say, or I guess I'm happy to say, that people don't stop at the truth they will tell lies. They will take something and spin it to go which ever way they want to get a point across. One man, for instance, is posing himself as a doctor when he really isn't a doctor 'cause he feels like he gets more (WT: mileage,+ unclear comments from others) respect, heh-heh, more respect by calling himself doctor so-and-so. Uh, we find that one man's a convicted embezzler that has been that's throwing the stones and so my concern is the people that'er reading this, that we as Christians, when we see people putting things up for instance, anyone who is the accuser of a brethren can put somebody's sins to the world whether they're guilty or not we shouldn't be reading it. If we do, we put (music starts) ourselves in a position to be mesmerized to believe it. And so I think we have to be careful. We're gonna take a short break and we'll be right back.

What came out of the tirade to me?

The fact that he said that folks are trying to publically parade people's sins....

That to me states guilt. Guilt of what - I am not sure of yet...but he admits that their was something sinful, that was not made public, that was hidden, that people are trying to "make public".....

Hummmmm....

BTW: I am SDA. Baptized. Following. Tithe-paying. Youth-ministering. EG White lovin' - (yet not takin' over the BIBLE....). For him to state that I call myself an SDA is going beyond "judgin"......

I think bystander popped on Thursday night long enough to tell us that the "little group" that DS was referring to was Gailon Joy's group (and they are not little, btw). I could be mistaken, will have to go back and read what BS said. He (DS) used the idea that saying you are SDA doesn't mean anything....hmmm...that door can swing both ways too.

I read Bystander's quote too...but my thing is this....

You can't judge who is SDA or not. Now what I can see is by your actions if you are truly CHRISTian or not. DS may be CHRISTian in name - however the way he treated LS tells me otherwise.

Is he SDA? - That I can neither confirm or deny & I don't want him doing the same to me jes because I call his home...um...dirty.

If it is dirty - clean it up. IF it ain't - ignore me......

Yes, PB, good job!! When you get to see all those words down on paper that went whizzing by in some convoluted and confusing fashion (hmm) it helps to really "hear" what was being said. I wonder if they ever do this - go back and listen to themselves....yes, I think that does occur and that's when things are edited out. And thank you for keeping all those details in there too - they very much add to the picture (the ahems and giggles and so on).

I watched it myself. It will be on again Sunday afternoon too.

Will you be adding more? Ralph too was doing some transcribing as well I think.

Y E S indeedey

I will copy and paste bystanders reply here just to keep it close to what was just said above about the "little group".
This is also the last post bystander made here to date, and this was 7 minutes before 3abn Today ended...which was a bit creepy in itself as there were a number of us in LiveChat at the time discussing the program as it was going on, filling in those that were not watching what was being said, etc.

QUOTE: "I can see by your live chats that you are all getting excited on what you all think is your 10 minutes of fame. That in itself says a lot about your motives for being here.
Before you get too excited when he mentions "a little group" he is referring to Joy's group. I'm a little dissapointed. I was hoping he would mention this site and tell how it came to be because club adventist wouldn't carry all the dirty tales and accusations and dropped the thread. I wish he would have said that and a lot more.
Oh well, maybe next time....."

That is an interesting spin which contradicts what has been publicly posted. ASI clearly wanted to limit the discussion very narrowly. ASI was not open to expanding it.

Frankly, I agree that ASI could not have effectively expanded it to basically any complaint. There were many that ASI was correct in not addressing. My point is the spin that is now being put upon it.

sonshineonme,
I don't know if I will be adding more even though it is so telling to see what Danny says in print. Transcribing takes me, as an unprofessional, over an hour per minute to put down. I'll pray about it.

Ralph,
Are you doing more?

Observer,
The following caught my ear and then my eye. I thought ASI was to be a neutral entity, arbitrating whatever both sides settled on. This statement by Danny doesn't cast them in a very neutral light!

aryfromGary, downloaded the program onto my computer and then used the shuttle on PowerDVD to play, stop, 'ewind, etc. and then type into Wordpad. Unfortunately, in order to get the wording as accurately ranscribed as possible, I had to pause/rewind a LOT.

I also use a transcription program for taped Testing sessions ...and it's hard work when two people are talking at the same time...let known 3-5...

daylily,
Thank you so much for making this suggestion. We actually have Creative hardware on our computer hat will do this. Unfortunately, it is on the computer that crashed last weekend. rofl

Soon as we get a replacement computer built we will have that at our disposal. It definitely will make ranscribing much easier!

I interpreted the remarks to be referring to Dr. Abrahamsen's letter in the pinned section at BlackSDA called "Dr. Abrahamsen And Dr Thompson Letters." This is where Dr. Abrahamsen says,

I have been a medical doctor for more than 35 years. I am a member of the Moss SDA Church. I've been the Sabbath School Superintendent for 14 years and the head elder for 4 years, which position I am presently serving. I am the Norwegian doctor who has been slandered by Dr. Walt Thompson, chairman of the board of 3ABN, Danny Shelton, John Lomacang and others.

So is he saying that Dr. Abrahamsen is not a real doctor? or would it be Dr. Thompson?

You should ask Bob your questions. I believe D.S. was referring to Bob Pickle. He sometimes attaches the title to his name and writes as "Dr Pickle".

Apparently the so called "little group" have also been passing themselves off as Conference officials, to try and dig up more dirt, and accusations.

I call that lying.

I am transcribing the second part. It is slow going and I am making corrections from time to time now that I have re-taped it on audio cassette.

Can you substantiate that accusation, Aletheia?

By the way, I just finished watching the repeat telecast and taped it onto a DVD.

Well anyway I believe a letter is going to be issued by the Illinois conference to rebut the claims that are being made by these individuals. I'm thinking that should substantiate it for you, and any else.

Not when the IL conference president, as a member of the 3ABN board, is complicit in all their misdeeds... that's like Karl Rove vouching for Scooter Libby... Haldeman vouching for G. Gordon Liddy... Cassius vouching for Brutus... Annas vouching for Caiaphas... etc...

As a side note:

Isn't it interesting how the Illinois Conference of the Seventh-day Adventist Church is getting brought into these discussions? This is exactly what the General Conference in Silver Spring, Maryland, does not want, since the Church exercises no control or influence over 3ABN, and, to my knowledge, has not even commented on the situation.

For the Adventist Church, this is growing into "The Perfect Storm."

Note: "June 16, 2000 — The conditions were "perfect" for a monstrous storm, a meteorological time bomb that would explode in the northern Atlantic Ocean creating waves ten stories high and imperiling the New England fleet.

Meteorologists refer to a perfect storm when ideal conditions combine into a rare and deadly storm. Specific elements must merge in order to create the extreme chaos of a perfect storm."

Apparently you don't realize that the word "apparently" screams hearsay, gossip and rumor. If you have first-hand information to show instances where the "little group" have passed themselves off as Conference officials, please bring it forward. If not, you are just planting "cat-o-nine-tails" style lies.

Based on this exchange between DS and WT:

... if they call themselves speaking authoritatively in this matter, does that mean Dr. Thompson was lying? If the church as he stated "can't get involved" why are you waiting to hear from the IL Conference?

My guess would be that the Illinois conference officials do not appreciate having these people pass themselves off as one of them, and wish to disassociate themselves from what is being done falsely in their name.

I have been following this saga intensively since August and I haven't seen any indication anywhere that Gailon Arthur Joy, Bob Pickle or Gregory Matthews have claimed to be conference officials. If you have quotes from them or any other type of evidence, please share it with the rest of us. Otherwise, it is just a rumor.

Do you even have evidence that some official of the Illinois conference is even motivated to write such a letter or are you guessing at that also? Please show me where you have the information to draw this conclusion.

Did you read the letter from Tommy Shelton which Bob posted today in the Tommy Shelton vindicated thread?

"I will begin with the opening paragraph of his cover sheet where he admits to "cooperating with certain Seventh Day Adventist "ecclesiastical investigators" who were looking into Tommy Shelton's conduct while he pastored in Illinois as well as presently in his employment at the 3ABN Seventh Day Adventist television ministry in Illinois."

These men are not "ecclesiastical investigators" for the Seventh Day Adventist. They hold no official position, and have no authority in the Seventh Day Adventist Church to investigate anything or anybody. By next week I will have in hand an official statement from the Illinois Conference President of SDA, stating that these men do not work for the Seventh-Day-Adventist church and were not authorized to investigate anyone. Gailon Joy, one of the "self appointed investigators" was convicted of embezzlement in the 80's. Although one may get the impression after talking with him that he is a lawyer, he is not. His conviction was appealed 3 times but the conviction remained. We have evidence of his unscrupulous dealings in recent months and years and you will also hear in the near future that he is being held accountable for his slander in a court of law."

Unlike the baseless assumptions you are attempting to pass off as facts, noted above, there is proof that some of you people have tried to pass yourselves off as independent thinkers without an agenda. When it is clear that such is far from the truth.

aybe you hear things backwards? Just because Tommy says this does not mean that Gailon has laimed to be what Tommy is pointing out he is not. ANYONE can investigate. There is NO crime in nvestigating anything (as you should also be investigating to find things out - it's the facts that come ut that make the point of truth, not who is doing it.

o are you taking the bait Aletheia? Are you saying you are only willing to accept (and this is what ommy is trying to put in your head) that an official SDA investigator has to do the investigating? hen we know that the church has no authority so to speak over 3abn, how would they put about fficial conference paid investigators? You are falling in to the spinning pool right where they want ou. No thanks, it's too icey for me, I'm not jumping in.

nd you should keep in mind, here are any helping with the investigation - not just three people that ncludes people that work for the SDA church as well. Keep that in mind. You don't see everything oing on and all who are involved in it. You are only seeing what Tommy and Danny and the Shelton lan are wanting you to THINK you see.

Vhat proof do you have that either Gailon Joy or Bob Pickle or Gregory Matthews posed as an Illinois :onference official?

3e specific...because all you have right now is the say so of someone that no sane lawyer would even)ring into a court room much less put under oath...

'ou are quick to demand verification of statements that are contrary to your held positions; here you ıave nothing but the word of someone who has a propensity for being less than forthcoming when his ;exual proclivities get him into trouble and you are willing to accept what he states sight unseen with ıo additional proof either desired or required...

Well, well, well. you know it is very hard to prove a negative. Often negative statements are wrong.

Both Bob Pickle and I do hold a position with the SDA Church. I do not know what it meant by the word "official" that modifies the sentence. Many people would assume that those who are listed in what is commonly called the YEARBOOK do hold "official" pistons. If that is what gives one an official position, then I hold an official position. I am listed in the 2006 YEARBOOK. I have not yet seen the 2007 YEARBOOK. But, I expect to see my name listed in it.

wonder how the IL Conference President could know that none of us work for the SDA Church. At east one of us receives money for services rendered to the SDA Church. Perhaps the implication is hat the person who receives that money is not really working for the SDA Church. Oh, well, just another piece of information that is wrong.

However, let me point out an accurate statement that were made in the above quote:

None of us are either authorized to investigate any one, or are we doing so under the authority of the SDA Church. That statement is 100 per-cent correct.

The statements that the three of us make, and what we do in this matter is done independently, and s not done in the name of anyone except ourselves.

bserver, I've never seen you nor any of your group state or imply that you were officially mandated y the Church to investigate. You've always presented yourselves as independent investigators. That's technique of DS, TS and Co. to say that you've said something wrong that you haven't, so they can ccuse you of something and divert the attention of people from the real issue. I find it very dishonest nd for me they lose credibility when they do that. Too bad!

hat this statement is accurate, is what, IMO, makes this perhaps the saddest statement that has een made any time.... any place.... about any thing.... having to do with any part of the whole sordid ness at 3ABN.

hat the Adventist church has NOT "authorized" anyone "to investigate any one"... given the multiple llegations against the owners/administrators of 3abn that have been brought for the past several ears, even before Linda's ouster.... is to me not only a tragic mistake on the part of the highest hurch officials, but also a gross failure of their responsibilities as overseers of the church.

f they, as they have consistently claimed, in truth have no "right' to investigate, nor censure, nor cut heir alliances with, any individual or ministry which has as many allegations against themselves as loes the 3abn "ministry" (put in quotes since it would seem that this is more of a business than a true ministry).... then of what use are those "overseers of the church" to the body of the church? Is it not the biblical function of government... including church government.... to protect its citizens (members) from those who prey upon the flock at the same time they pretend to be preaching to the flock?

And the fact that anyone would consider it "wrong" even if the researchers HAD claimed to be representing the church, is also but one more example of how truth is twisted and good is called evil by the spindoctors representing 3abn. The facts are that the researchers DO represent the church... the BODY of the church which SHOULD have a representative through its highest elected representatives, but does not. Thus spokespersons have to arise from within the body itself... to fill the gap left by those who were supposed by most of us to be the very ones who SHOULD investigate, speak, and act in a fair, just, and protective manner.

Would we be having any of these dialogues had they done so?

Of course not.

But we would "know the truth... and the truth will make [would have made] us free". Unfortunately, they did not, so the word of God through, Hosea 4:6 is today being fulfilled in our midst..... "My people are [being] destroyed for lack of knowledge".

And administrators should take note.... especially any who are tempted to take up stones to cast upon those who are trying to fill the vacuum left by their inaction.... that those who do not oppose wickedness are by their very silence and inaction aligning themselves with that wickedness which they do not oppose.

In the words of Isaiah....

Woe to those who call evil good, and good evil;
Who substitute darkness for light and light for darkness;
Who substitute bitter for sweet and sweet for bitter!
Woe to those who are wise in their own eyes
And clever in their own sight!

hanks for the time you spent creating the transcription.

t sure made for interesting reading.

y take on this "live show" would be that the contributions have dramatically fallen off. Especially ince last month they claimed they were doing just fine. Also, the AToday article was just posted and ould hurt things even more. I think it was also a preemptive strike against those donors who might end their money elsewhere to avoid it being used for legal fees.

econd, they are getting pressure from big donors to defend themselves.

hird, Danny can sure mumble and say absolutely nothing but tell his supporters what they want to ear.

e sure can talk without using clear language. Can/Will the lemmings really believe, if they were ctually listening, that he could not remember what WT covered him for? What a line.

id you see my post on conversational terrorism? There are some subcategories with a religious bent hat I have thought of adding to the article on the website where I found the article I posted. But I ave come to expect nothing else of him/them as the latest TS letter demonstrates.

nd the ASI discussion? What a joke considering the emails we have been shown. How many cult of helton will just accept his words and not check it out for themselves.

F Danny thinks his style of giving information or "answering questions" will work in a court of law he ight be in for a surprise.

ut hey, JMVHO.

Molly: You know I was sitting here thinking. It's a sad day when we have to take air time to talk about this stuff. but we were forced into it. But you know one scriptures that you quote so frequently is John 10:10 The thief comes to kill and destroy and Jesus comes to give life and to give it abundantly. And he said He said.....Look at the fruits of the ministry.. [Reads letters from people blessed by 3abn]

Ralph, I think Shelly made the comment quoted above rather than Molly.

Thank you for taking the time to transcribe the program. I'm sure it was a lot of work!

3ABN will be showing this program again this morning between 8-10 am CST.

They just don't get the fact that the more they show that program, the more the post on here, the more they protest the more they are drawing people's attention to their troubles. Makes you kinda wonder what they are thinking or who is giving them advice. But let them carry on....

Couldn't we just as easily think along these lines. Many of their programs are repeated at different times so that all may have an opporturnity to view. This one was shown Thurs. night, Sunday afternoon and now Tuesday morning.

Could be they could care less about the "posts on here." It was already mentioned before that the "little group" they referred to was Joy's.

Jungle Fever

A white person dating a person of color.

Jessica got jungle feva'

2.
An inter-racial relationship, namely between a white person and a black person.

John has jungle fever......

3.
When a non-black person is atracted sexually to black people. Originally it was used for when a white woman dates black men, but now it could refer to a white man who thinks black women are hot and wants to date them.

A Stevie Wonder song about black man/white woman love.

"She's gon black guy crazy
He's gone white girl hazy
They got jungle fever"--Stevie Wonder.

I don't know if anyone but me thought that 3ABN helping "Curley" Summers get transportation to get rid of his tatoos (though I'm glad for his sake that they are) might be partly to curry favor with "Curly's" dad who I think Danny said was a police chief or sherrif or something or did I get it wrong? I know Danny hinted that the policeman was very strict about traffic laws and such but exactly the opposite was the impression they left with me. Especially if, like Danny, the person was one of the "good old boys" and needed a favor. I don't remember what Curly said about supporting the police but Danny and Curly ended up shaking hands at the end of the interview.

wish Curley Summers would have chosen to keep his tatoos. It is the heart that changes with a elationship with Christ. When He appears in the clouds, all of the physical vestiges of sin will lisappear at that time. My belief is that his facial tatoos would be a great entering "wedge" and vitness to others, but that is JMHO.

Bystander it does not matter what they meant when they said a "little group". When they mention a little group people start searching the web, some will find this forum, some Joy's and others Maritime, the fact is the more you and them, whoever them is, fight the allegations the more credence you give to your critics. Every time you and the rest of the apologist post here you are telling the critics to keep digging, keep replying, keep exposing. Like I said you folks just don't get it, or like others have stated, ya'll are addicted to BSDA.

Thanks for giving BSDA and the 3abn threads legitimacy. It's much appreciated.

ichard, I am sure you probably have thrown in with the rest in judging 3abn guilty if they did not espond to rumors. When they start responding, look at what you are saying now. A 3 year old can ee that 3abn couldn't win here, no matter what they did.

Posted by: Richard Sherwin Feb 20 2007, 07:34 PM

Well Bystander I really wish things were different with all that is going on at 3abn. There was a time that I thought very highly of Danny and 3abn. I was even hoping that my parents would have left them something when they passed away. However I started to question the situation with the weird divorce. It just did not add up. So no, it was not by their silence that I started to think Danny had some problems, it was by the actions of Danny. I still believe in 3abn and it's role in bringing others to Christ, however it would be in it's best interest to have a change of leadership.

As far as whether or not ya'll should be defending the allegations I'm reminded of the old saying: "it's better for people to think you a fool than to open your mouth and prove it." This is not directed at any one person, it's directed at all the apologist as a group and the leadership at 3abn.

Posted by: LaurenceD Feb 20 2007, 07:58 PM

I'll admit, when I first heard about the divorce, just looking at the obvious w/o being judgemental, I told my mother that surely the Lord wasn't in that marriage. Most of us have been around the world a time or two. How could the marriage of people involved in a ministry like that be so destitute that they couldn't get along or take the path we all take at one time or another by reconciling, or saying I was wrong, or I'm sorry. If you can't do that, there's no use preachin to others. The (re)focus must turn inward, not outward.

came on to the internet looking to defend danny, but it was danny actions and words, that caused to hange my mind.

ot anything linda or her supporters said or did.

have to say it was the appeared effort to cover up the things about tommy that broke the camel ack for me personally.

would love to believe it is all lies but, unless 3abn can start defending themselves better, Like acking up their side of the story with facts, then what are the rest of us suppose to think.

will give you an example, when Linda's daughter letter was put into public view, all danny need to do as write a simple letter saying i never was that with her. to my knowledge that was not done, and as f today it still has not been done. To that would speak louder then all these specials crying about the ttacks of Satan on the internet.

he truth is never of afraid of a good checking out.

Posted by: Ex3ABNViewer Feb 20 2007, 09:27 PM

I have to agree with erik. I too wanted to defend Danny, still wish I could. I am not 100% convinced about all that is written here. But there is enough doubt that I think it needs to be addressed directly instead of the way they are doing it. Either they need to deny each accusation or just quit talking about it.

They are not helping their cause when all they say is that the devil is attacking. It leaves too many unanswered questions. The other thing that bothers me, they all claim top be Christians at 3ABN. But when they get on the live programs to defend themselves, they seem to be angry, and have an attitude. Yes, I would be upset if I was accused of these things but, Say what needs to be said in a nicer manner at least on the live shows. If they feel a need to be nasty come on the forums. But when I share with my neighbors about 3ABN, this is not what I have in mind of them watching. BTW, I have quit sharing with my neighbors about 3ABN or anyone else for that matter.

I just wish this could be done in a more Christian way. Keep it in the church somehow without sharing it with the world. Maybe 3ABN could write a letter to the people that donate money or get their news letter explaining in detail their side.

I believe that all concerned would have liked for this to have been handled "better" - but the silence thing only worked as far as one person would let it go.

Danny started callin' the woman out her name and in public at that. Lnda had to sign a document - by a statement of "we ain't gonna give you no money iffin you talk" kind of document. After it is all said & done it could have been handled better.....if it never happened at all....but sadly -

All that are actin' up ain't acting "CHRISTian" therefore..... you get what you pay for.....

This is what concerns me. If it were just 3abn, I would be writing on other subjects on BSDA. (and some of the forums are great.) We don't have a dish but we enjoy the HOPE channel on the Internet.

For many Adventists who are shut-ins or live in other countries, 3abn has been the vehicle that has carried the message of Adventist speakers.

I believe that our top evangelists are compromising their credibility by being bed fellows of Danny.

Posted by: Grace Feb 21 2007, 03:00 AM

As for myself and my family, living in Europe, we loved to watch 3ABN since they started. Not that we liked everything, but we liked a lot of the programs and we thought that it was great to have something adventist on TV.

We were very shocked to see Linda disappear all of a sudden without any explanation, even her name, as if she had never been there. We thought something was strange there. My only way to investigate was to go to the Internet, to google, yahoo...

I started finding things that troubled me a lot. I felt very disappointed with both Danny and Linda, because I felt that if the message they preached couldn't keep them together, either the message was wrong or they were. But then our good friend Johann gave us some facts and I was shocked again to find out that a Christian man could do such things to his wife.

I went again to the web and finally found BSDA. I was looking for facts, and boy, I found lots of them! For many months, I was simply a reader. I finally came to the conclusion that I wanted to be part of it and registered as a member.

So I'm thankful for the people investigating the facts and putting them in the forum for the searchers to see. And I'm praying for everybody involved and for the ministry of 3ABN.

Blessings to all!

I lurked here for 3-4 days after the Thursday night broadcast, and was still kind of riding the fence. But, after reading http://www.blacksda.com/forums/index.php?showtopic=10489&hl=Kerr stunning letter (posted in August) I decided to join. I had seen her cooking show a few times, while visiting at my mother's place, and remembered her well. Everything in her letter had a true ring to it, kind of like the Bible, while nearly everything the defenders of 3ABN are posting here reminds me of something out of a scary movie.

I've always liked 3ABN, not just because they've broadcast live concerts of my music group (and still do), but because I thought they were filling a much needed gap.

Amazing how those inside the organization seem to have hardly any perception of how they're coming across to the outside. If they know anything about sample sizing in polling data, I'm sure they realize the small world impressions here have a similar ratio to what's happening in the greater world out there.

Pray the Lord will open some eyes.

What? Linda disappeared from the show without any explanation? I didn't know that. From reading all the posts on here you would think Danny trashed her repeatedly and constantly, yelling it from the rooftops and doing everything he could to get it out in the open, lying and deceiving the whole world.

That shouldn't shock you; that camp has been making a concerted effort to take such cheap shots since they darkened this doorstep. They have neither integrity nor couth nor shame and they continue to attempt to confuse and deceive by any and every smarmy means at their disposal...

The only thing, if any, that should shock you is that it took so long for her to abandon the 'me too' responses she's been giving and stoop to the level of her comrades...

Bystander,

That is precisely what is happening, and not only on this site. I see God 's finger in it.

If you are not willing to confess and forsake your sins, as the Proverbs 28:13 says, but rather cover your sins, you will not prosper. Mercy and grace are given to those who are not afraid to say: "I made a big mistake, Lord forgive me and help me, I don't wan't to do it again!"

Remember the story of Esther, Haman and Mordecai? Haman was set to do something against one of God's children, and to some point it looked as if he was successful in it. But, after some time: "Haman hurried to his house, mourning and with his head covered. When Haman told his wife and all his friends everything that has happend to him, his wise men and his wife said to him, "if Mordecai before whom you have begun to fall, is of Jewish descent, you will not prevail against him but will surely fall before him"

If you are covering up adultery, child molestation, homosexuality, embezzlement, taking the holy tithe, lying, and everything else, this is your destiny.

If you can still hear the small still voice in you, do what you know is right.

Carmel

Sorry, Lee, I would like to agree with you, but when I said that Linda disappeared from 3ABN without any explanation I was talking about the first few days. After a very short time, I started hearing people on the air, DS and others, trashing Linda, first in a veiled way, then more openly. I immediately thought that that was wrong. And I still think so now, even more strongly.

Thank you, Clay. I took months of reading the posts in BSDA and I read absolutely all of them in the 3ABN thread. By the time that I decided to register here as a member, I was already convinced that what DS and his aids were doing was wrong. I was also convinced that Linda had been wrongly treated. Then I learned other stuff, like the way DS has been treating some other people, and finally about the awful things about the behavior of TS.

I can't do much, other than posting here in support of the fighters for the good cause and pray, and I'm trying to do both. I've almost quit answering the posts coming from the DS side, I feel too bad just by reading most of them. And I venture to post in other threads from time to time. With English not being my mother tongue, it's always a little tricky for me... but I'm learning.

Dear Grace: Welcome to this forum. Your presence and commentary is much appreciated. I could wish hat some of those for whom English is their first language, were as adept as you are in this secondary anguage. What is your Mother tongue?

'm not speaking of the often fun and funny vernacular that the Black friends use here. I get a big bang out of them.

Thank you, Snoopy and JustTana! You're really kind to me with your encouragements.
My English is not as good as it looks, I wish it were so. I have a big dictionary by my side and try not to forget to use the "Spell Check" before pushing "Add Reply".

JutTana, I love the "fun and funny vernacular" too, although I don't understand everything and my dictionary is useless for that!

My mother tongue is Spanish. (I was born in Spain.) I have the same ease with Catalan (a vernacular language of a Spanish region) and with French. English is only my forth language.

Good to be with you, my friends! Blessings!
Ooooops! My excuses for being out of topic! Let's go back on topic!

Posted by: lurker Feb 22 2007, 08:14 AM

Just one more word of praise for the language sometimes used on this forum and in my family before getting back on topic. It really gets to the heart of things and pokes fun at our feelings of pride and self importance. You hear what is said, and then you do a double take and then realize that there has been some keen insight into life and the human condition.

The people using this language are highly educated yet sometimes, there is no better or more diplomatic way to say what needs saying than to put it right out there with a little humor.

his is no cheap shot. Lee, has made a point that I would agree. I have read here where people speak f Danny trashing Linda who admit that they don't even watch 3ABN. You would think Danny took out billboard ad on Times Square from what you read here and every engagement Linda attempted was ntercepted by Danny, which I find hard to believe. My wife was an avid viewer of 3ABN until it when ff of Sky Angel, she never saw this trashing and the viewers don't see it either. .

Well I did see/hear Dan put Linda down on camera, even while they were holding hands. It was a subtle thing, and a lot of folks wouldn't notice it because they were used to putting women down in a "joking" manner. My husband did notice it and said, "There's something wrong in that marriage, and it wouldn't surprise me if something bigger were to happen ..." That was back in 2003. He caught the subtle put-downs, and Linda's forced smiles. Many folks wouldn't have caught on ...

Now, the trashing after the divorce was very public, with the notice on the website implying that Linda had done something dastardly -- by the mere fact that the divorce even took place, with Danny being the "innocent" one.

Then there were plenty of oblique references to Linda and her sins on the air after that. Those not aware of the issues would not catch them. Those of us who were aware did catch them. Some posted specific instances. Others simply remarked that it happened.

My mother and I could watch the identical program, and she would drink up the words of Danny, without catching on to any of the trashing. She just believed that "the devil" was doing all this persecuting of Danny, without catching that he was putting down Linda in a number of different ways during one program. Of course, she also initially believed that Linda disappeared because of adultery.

To an extent, we see what we're looking for. But it's hard to miss when you know what's been going on behind the scenes. It's very easy to miss if you don't know what's behind the scenes.

Personally, I can't stand to see Danny on the screen. Never liked him all that much, like him a whole lot less now ... But I wish him no ill. He's a child of God who needs saving ...

Calvin,

Well maybe Danny did not trash Linda on air, But the way I remember it was that at Church that week their was about ten minute discussion of Linda's affair, and all the members of teh church said they heard it on the tv.

sounds like way to much information went to me.

Cindy, you arent this dumb... so you recognize the fact that 3abn was not limited to items posted on it's website in speaking on the issue of danny's marriage to linda and it's demise... and while he may have gone nearly two years without saying anything officially on the website, there have been myriad eyewitnesses to the aspersion and mudslinging coming from that camp where Linda is concerned in between notices on the website.

The fact that you either didn't see it yourself or have chosen to believe what they said true doesnt change the fact that he has talked about her like a dog, particularly during the two years when she could not defend herself publicly.

So try another lie; this one is notworkir

No I am not dumb, nor are you. I was addressing Inga's remarks about their website, I'm sure you can see I quoted her...

As far as any other so called "Public trashing" goes...
Do you happen to have any quotes or dates, or anything besides your mouth to offer as evidence?

Calvin, you are not taking into consideration the first person accounts posted here from MizRobby and others who have been present at churches where Danny's road show has appeared where they have stated he has maligned often at length,Linda and others from the pulpit on Sabbath morning... I submit if your wife and others had had full disclosure of the tactics employed by DS and his crew, the gratuitous shots and subtle digs at Linda and others would have stood out in their minds. you also are not taking into account the concerted efforts to keep Linda from ministering in churches... all of those things have been stated for the record from first hand accounts... and all of them are things that the bulk of their viewing audience would probably have missed because they only have the Danny sanitized spin version of things to go on

To those who know better.. to those who have worked there and spent much time in that environment... and to those who have spoken to the eyewitnesses of these thigs at length, Lee's statement is, indeed a cheap shot...

But, as always, YMMV.

Mr. J

have you forgotten? MzRobby and Odell were at a rally where Danny was speaking and heard for themselves how he made references to Linda and not in a kind way.... so it wouldn't have to be on camera if in his personal appearances he trashed her.... likewise who was making the phone calls preventing her from speaking at the various churches? There were also the personal phone calls he made... personal emails sent out.... the mass mailings of his "news" magazine... and the most public of all... the announcements that appeared on the 3abn website. While veiled, they definitely left one with the impression that Linda had "run off" from her husband with someone else. In fact the website announcement was the first thing that I saw, and I immediately thought that she must be having an affair. Only because I willed myself to not believe that as a fact until I had checked it out personally with my good friend Johann who at that time (I thought) was actively working to promote 3abn in Europe, did I not become part of the ever widening network of spreading false information. Once I heard back from him I learned not only the truth about Linda, but the fact that Johann had himself been severed from his position at 3abn because he had refused to testify falsely against Linda.

n late May of 2004 I, an occasional viewer of 3abn, heard many references to Linda and her negative lirection from Danny's own lips. On air there were numerous references but, admittedly, many of hem were cryptic. Over the years, I began watching more and more of the broadcasts and saw many nstances where Danny would interview someone and then tie his own marital problems to their trials. he messages were clear.

y mother, a faithful viewer and supporter of 3abn, noticed the poor way Danny was treating Linda on ir, "humorously" putting her down in a way that made my mother quite uncomfortable. She was not t all surprised when Linda disappeared.

f course then there was talk of an email. A relative who was in the LLU area at the time was privy to he informational email about Linda's supposed affair with a doctor even before campmeeting.

After that I heard about the broadcast from the campmeeting in June 2004... where Danny had announced to the world publicly not only that Linda had left him, but that the "devils" who stole her from him were right there in the room .... the announcement about her leaving him embedded in an on camera request to Mark Finley to pray for God to "bring her back to him".

It is WAY too well substantiated by way too many people for there to be any room for an objective claim that Danny did NOT trash Linda publicly.... just because some didn't recognize the things he said as being untruths or didn't happen to hear them themselves.

I believe that we can. Just for the record:

3-ABN is not available in my home. However, I am able to watch it sometimes, and I do watch it.

I have heard Danny mention Linda in cryptic comments, several times. I have heard him make comments ragarding physicians who seduce women, and other such. One would need to be award of the issues to realize what Danny was saying.

In very recent times, I have not heard that done. Perhaps, Danny has stopped doing so on TV? I do not know.

He has not stopped doing so. In every segment of his 3ABN Today show that I have watched, he manages to bring the topic around so that he not only makes a not-so-veiled side-swipe at Linda... without, of course, calling her by name... but he also leads his guest into making "reassuring comments" regarding the "persecution" he is suffering from all of the "lies" being told about him. It is not a pretty sight, and as some here have attested, it is sometimes plain enough so as to raise questions in the minds of those who had not previously been "aware of the issues".

Especially when he has others of his "crew" on the show, a major portion of the show is aimed at bolstering Danny's ego and his self-perceived "righteousness".... as he and they refer over and over to those who are "persecuted for righteousness sake".... and apply it very directly to Danny .... as though he were righteous rather than guilty..... ....

He will be happy to verify that he counseled with Linda by phone, 3 different times for 45 minutes to an hour. MARK FINLEY . HAS HE BEEN DUPED TOO? He will also be happy, if it comes to that, to verify that she did, indeed, have an inappropriate relationship with Arild that went way beyond a doctor treating her son. He can also verify that she was not willing to "give him up" to restore her marriage and/or her place in the ministry.

Yes, I sent him an e-mail, and he never responded. That tells me that the claims that he will verify are unfounded. It appears that he will not. I should be noted that Linda is willing to release him from any privacy concerns that he may have. Linda is not the reason he has not responded.

Watchbird: Yes, when I have watched 3-ABN Today, I have noted that Danny typically finds a way to bring Linda into the picture without mentioning her name.

> ...Here we are on 2-23-07. Pasto Finley has been contacted at least twice that I know of, and still,no response from him. He doesn't seem too "happy" and "willing" to make any statement. (I don't blame him.) Just more empty words from the dannyscribes......

For the record, let's look a bit at the time line....
Spring 2004.... Mark Finley was, IMO, duped by Danny into believing that Linda had left him and that Danny wanted her back.

On the basis of that, he didn't bother to try and find out "her side" from Linda, but just treated the whole thing as a simple "lovers quarrel" that would blow away with a few words of prayer.

When Johann let him know otherwise, he still trusted Danny above Johann, and promoted Danny as being in the right rather than being willing to listen to the views of those who realized very early that Danny was NOT wanting Linda to return, but was actually trying to get rid of her.

This held for roughly the next two years. I don't know when he began to question a little bit... but by the time Alyssa's statement came out, he was beginning to take at least a neutral position rather than a supportive one for Danny.... but only in private mail or conversations.

Since that time I have heard from different sources that he has made non-supportive private statements, even saying that he would not make any more appearances on 3abn.

However, he has NEVER made any public acknowledgement of these statements attributed to him. He has not requested that his old tapes at 3abn be destroyed (as a few have done). He has not responded to anyone on anything that has appeared on any public board. And he has not made any public retractions of earlier statements attributed to him as saying that Danny Shelton was the face of Adventism, therefore nothing should be done that would hurt Danny's image. (Very randomly paraphrased, but I have seen the quotes.)

OTOH, he has also not given any more public statements affirming the things claimed for him by the dannyscribes. So let's give him credit at least for that much... although there is so much more that he needs to say in order to repair the damage that has been done to his credibility, that it seems like only a feather stroke on a fresh-from-the-mines coal-miner's face when compared to the cleanup job that needs to be done.

You would think Danny took out a billboard ad on Times Square from what you read here and every engagement Linda attempted was intercepted by Danny, which I find hard to believe. My wife was an avid viewer of 3ABN until it when off of Sky Angel, she never saw this trashing and the viewers don't see it either.

I agree. People wanted to know what happened to her. It was either try to explain by a word here or there, or tell all. No matter what is said here, truth is 3abn could have done some major damage and they didn't want to. DS didn't want to. Shortly thereafter, she began to accuse DS and 3abn on all kinds of things, naturally a little more would have to be said in defense to the rumors. What most on here are calling trashing is a joke. They could have had some "real" trash going and chose not to. no one from 3abn has written books like sister's and the naive story. That is trash and it's trash against lots of people that didn't have anything to do with the divorce and should not have to be hurt by it. But there it is...now...under those circumstances, who really has taken the high road. At least what little DS has ever said, he said it. He didn't have unknown authors writing tell alls, for him.

On air there were numerous references but, admittedly, many of them were cryptic. Over the years, I began watching more and more of the broadcasts and saw many instances where Danny would interview someone and then tie his own marital problems to their trials. The messages were clear.

I will add to that: My mother-in-law, lives in this area in assisted living. That place provides 3-ABN to those who live there. I will typically turn her TV to the 3-ABN channel and watch it during the time we are visiting with my MIL. On several occasions, I watched an interview program. During such, Danny would often manage to make cryptic comments about physicians and other professions who would lead women astray, and seduce (or whatever Danny said at that point) them. On occasion, but not always, he would come right out and make a reference to 'his situation."

In fairness, I have not seen Danny do that in recent times.

For whose benefit are you sharing this? Or let me ask another way, do you really think that those people who really believe that Danny, Tommy and others are guilty of something are going to be convinced by the "information" you are attempting to provide?

You have not been swayed that they are guilty and I suspect that those who believe that they are guilty are as firm in their position as are you.....

Well if Linda lies, how can you trust anything that's come from her? or those like Johann who bear testimony based on what she's told them?

Truth matters to those who have a heart for the Lord, Clay. Those are the ones I'm writing for.

Bystander and others in your camp have lied... more than once...and have been caught in their lies... and yet you have no problem trusting what they say... you, yourself have lied... yet you insist that people trust whay you say... so that dog is not hunting, Cindy.

You are not in a position to say who does or does not 'have a heart for the Lord'... and for the umpteenth time... your attacking Linda... or Pickle... or Gailon... or sister... or Duane Clem... or whoever... does not justify or vindicate Danny or Tommy or whoever.

I know that Bystander has admitted to being mistaken and moved to correct that, and I certainly wouldn't call that lying.

I have not lied either. I have no idea who else you are accusing of lying here....

And Mr J, even if what you say was true (it's not) didn't your Mama ever teach you 2 wrongs don't make a right? Using your own standard which you just posted, what you just wrote doesn't justify or vindicate her. Please try nnot to be so partial.

Linda lied. or Pickle did. I provided the evidence to show that. The thing about lies is they can be proven.

Where's your proof?

Also-- I did not say who does or does not have a heart for the Lord, as you claim. The bible plainly says God's people have a love of the truth. I am writing for them, whoever they may be.

Evidence of missteps, misstatements and outright fabrications by you and yours are extensively documented. You've seen them as everyone else has.

And what you claim as truth is largely spin and deflection. Not once have you or any in your camp provided the 'truth' you claim to have that convicts Linda and exonerates Danny. Until you do so, your attacks are an exercise in futility... not to mention inconsistent with your purported love of 'truth'.

And for all your camp's complaining about these 'oh so horrible discussions'... you do nothing but perpetuate them. If you have the 'truth' you claim, why do you not just post it and end them?

This question has been presented to you time and time and time again... and not a one of you has stepped up and provided anything verifiable... you claim to know about events... but amazingly when asked were you there and did you see it... the answer is consistently 'no... but I heard...'.

And yet you expect that to be deemed a more trustworthy report that that of people who were there.

And you think this silliness to be truth on your part... not to mention representative of God...

Not even close.

In His service,
Mr. J

why would one ask for proof when one will not accept the proof that has been provided?

Is the real request give me something else other than what has already been provided because I don't believe that "proof?"

The denial that some here who have come to Danny's defense have not been engaged in reality shaping, spin and/or distraction is interesting but rings hollow.... IMO.....

Posted by: Aletheia Mar 22 2007, 08:46 AM

Mr J,

Unsupported accusations may be repeated over and over, and a hunded people may even jump up and repeat them also, but repetition will never establish them as the truth. Only facts and evidence can prove what is true or false.

Your unsupported accusations, and constant railings, aren't facts and evidence, they are only opinion, and say more about yourself then who you are attacking. You are entitled to your opinion, but it proves nothing.

Feel free to carry on and do what you must though...

Of course the same can be said about your comments here..... as your attempt to establish yourself as credible has had its obstacles....

You stated if Linda lies how can you believe anything from her... so if a person is engaged in twisting the "facts" or spinning the story a certain way, how are they to be believed?

That is a rather general statement, so I'm not sure what you are talking about specifically.

But Clay, respectfully, I think what you are calling proof, is evidence.

Evidence and or testimony for one side of an issue, may be rebutted.

If you were the one being falsely accused I am quite sure you would not call the evidence against you, "proof"

My observations of your behavior are not 'unsupported accusations'. Facts and evidence have been given to support said observations. You have attempted to rationalize said behavior but you have not been able to deny it...

As for your second statement... "physician, heal thyself..."

Cindy,
We are in the 3abn subforum, in a thread you started.... so my statement is not as general as it appears....

know what proof is, and I know what evidence.... my position is that whatever the evidence is, because you don't believe Danny and others have done anything, you will not believe any of it because t does not agree with your perception.

Likewise if there was evidence of wrongdoing on Linda's part it would have surfaced by now.

However, that is not the core issue, which some people who have defended Danny continue to ignore. The sinple fact is this, even if Linda did every thing she was accused of, even if she was a modern day Gomer, she should not have been treated as she was. That's it in a nutshell for me. It seems to me hat those who support Danny have condoned his initial treatment of her. I do not. His treatment acked compassion, justice and humility... it did however include humiliation...

.et me correct that please, I am not trying to establish myself as credible or anything else. I)ersonally am nobody. I simply came here with questions. I read what was posted, as so many kept elling me to do. No one is taking issue with you personally, all they have done is asked you to prove beyond a shadow of a doubt that you have verifiable proof that Linda cheated...we have no proof, only what has been said, and as Clay pointed out, even if Linda did the things she has been accused of, in Christian Spirit, she should have never been treated in the manner that she was...What you are failing to understand s that it's not our business to make her look good and to make Danny look bad, as a ministry this should have been handled in a manner in which it was not...As for concrete evidence, Calvin said this ong ago, none of us knows exactly what went on in their marriage, but as for spiritual adultery, that is not even close to coming to biblical grounds for divorce...Are you even married???

No need to question if Cindy has been married or not, your position is clear without that last question.... and even if someone is married you know that the marriage experiences vary greatly..... The main issue is simple... The bible that many say they believe tells us to love our enemies.... if Linda was an enemy, Danny should have loved her and followed the bible as far as his treatment of her.... if she was not an enemy, then his love should have compelled him to treat her according to his ove....

His actions tell us how he viewed her and how he viewed the biblical advice on dealing with your enemies..... IMO....

In trying to indict others, you have to establish your own credibility to such a degree that your indictment is taken as fact... You continue to attack others while your own credibility is suspect due to your obvious lack of objectivity...

And others have done the same... and you have been found less than credible.

Which is the primary reason why you are not credible. Your entire position is based on what you heard from others... who themselves were not witnesses either. Johann speaks of what he himself has witnessed and experienced. Duane speaks of what he himself has witnessed and experienced. Pickle and Gailon are detailing actual conversations they have had with principles in this and putting their cards on the table face up.

And juxtaposed against that is the ad hominem game you continue to play and your demanding proof and then when it is given demanding more.

Yet you are supposed to be more credible? In the words of the immortal Dick Dastardly... wake up muttley; you're dreamin' again...

Go to work, read a good book, cook a meal, take a long walk with someone you like to bond with, excercise, go to church, something useful.

The main issue is simple... The bible that many say they believe tells us to love our enemies.... if Linda was an enemy, Danny should have loved her and followed the bible as far as his treatment of her.... if she was not an enemy, then his love should have compelled him to treat her according to his love....

True, I just figured that her lack of compassion upon the female in question was because she has never experienced the married life, and if she has, I was going to say, that you have to be kidding if you don't believe that most of this is not about proving which side is correct, but the biblical basis of forgiveness to those that you claim to love in marriage...my bad well lack of compassion can be caused by many things, however we don't know Cindy other than her comments here, so we cannot suggest that she lacks compassion, only that she may not be able to empathize with this present situation... and that's a maybe.....

Forgiveness transcends marriage but I suspect if a person has not learned to forgive prior to marriage, then it might be a difficult lesson to learn during the course of marriage..... but that's just me...

I for one forgave him, and even prayed for both Danny and Linda, you know why, because Christ desires us to show mercy and compassion, but all in all, I still think he could have handled this better, and I keep trying to tell Clay that accusing her of lying is lack of compassion but Clay and I both know that OMMV...otoh, there seems to be more evidence against Danny...but frankly I am not into who is wrong or right at this point, there seems to be issues unresolved in their lives that only God can heal, the praying shall continue for all involved!

You know this to be a fact how? You have stated that you were not a witness. So you don't know what happened behind closed doors or on the phone. Mat 7:1-5 Judge not, that ye be not judged. (2) For with what judgment ye judge, ye shall be judged: and with what measure ye mete, it shall be measured to you again. (3) And why beholdest thou the mote that is in thy brother's eye, but considerest not the beam that is in thine own eye? (4) Or how wilt thou say to thy brother, Let me pull out the mote out of thine eye; and, behold, a beam is in thine own eye? (5) Thou hypocrite, first cast out the beam out of thine own eye; and then shalt thou see clearly to cast out the mote out of thy brother's eye.

All you have done since coming to this forum is sling accusations and focus on attacking and discrediting posters.

"...with what judgement ye judge, ye shall be judged and with what measure ye mete it shall be measured to you again... "

Mat 7:12 Therefore all things whatsoever ye would that men should do to you, do ye even so to them: for this is the law and the prophets.

Or in the vernacular... "dont start none; wont be none..."

You neither like nor appreciate being held to this scrutiny; ergo the Christianity you profess say you need to stop scrutinizing others in like manner... right now you have the golden rule twisted; you want men to treat you one way while you do something altogether different to them.

So, in the words of a hip-hop prophet... you need to check yourself before you wreck yourself...

while what you have said may be true... my concern is that Cindy has chosen to view Danny's version of the events to the exclusion of everything else no matter how compelling that evidence may be.....

It goes back to a comment I made earlier and probably ties into something you have just posted (judging evidence but not wanting our evidence judged in like manner), that being even with compelling evidence some that support Danny will not believe said evidence..... and that may have to do with perception... and those who support Danny perceive that he is more "credible."

We can continue to discuss that interesting position without making this thread about Cindy.... even though she started this thread......

True... the point I'm making is with her not being a 'witness'... to any of this... she is not in a position to say what happened or did not happen... nor is she in a position to refute the testimony of someone who was there with her own observations and experience... so the only club in her bag is ad hominem, in the hope of discrediting those who have stated their experience enough to make them incredible...

It boils down to she don't know nuthin' 'bout nuthin'; everything she has is based on what someone told someone else who told her... the hypocrisy comes in when she only selectively listens to such hearsay and does not insist those she will believe provide proof in like manner as she demands of those she will not believe...

I don't ever knowingly or willfully lie, if I say somethiing false in error, or because of assuming, I try to correct it and apologise as soon as it's brought to my attention, so in this regard, yes, I believe it's ok for me to point out a lie.

But the problem here Clay, is this forum is full of sticks and stones, so is this thread, and are you asking all the posters doing so, if they are righteous?

My point is I have neither defended and condoned, nor criticised and condemned, for I lack the knowledge to do either. I said I have not seen evidence of this early trashing, except third party reporting or vague references to the limited explanation offered by 3ABN for Linda's absence, and nothing else specific. Now if someone wants to present the "evidence of the trashing". then I'll look at it. I have asked previously what people were talking about and got nothing.

The save3abn website is not a forum... the people contributing and running it are here....

Anyone can quote what is posted here as evidence, and it doesn't disapear or lack validity because someone objects to the poster.

So then you are agreeing with me Cindy that Linda was mistreated?

Danny is still on the set of the ministry he helped establish.... that ministry has assets of 42 million dollars... It will be difficult to prove how Linda has mistreated Danny given those facts. However, you may have evidence that suggests she did.... do you?

Your initial point.... hmmmmmm let's see, it appears you are attempting to suggest that someone or someone's testimony is not "credible" yet you said yourself here in this thread that your credibility is not important. So then, if your credibility is not important why would you make an effort to prove someone else is not credible?

Just from reading... and rereading, in fact.... the posts in this thread from its beginning, it seems apparent to me that Cindy's focus was upon personalities who have posted rather than facts that have been posted. The slim amount of "facts" that she presented had only to do with the question of how much Linda moved out of the house that had been hers and Danny's.

But this was never posed as a question. Conflicting statements about this were posted as evidence that Linda was lying. They were not posted in a manner that gave evidence of seeking additional evidence on one side or the other... or possibly on a "third side" which might have found a way to give context to each so they might each be true reflections of what happened. The stated and reiterated purpose was to show that Linda was a liar.

And since we have ample evidence from prior postings of how Cindy has twisted what someone has said in posts that immediately preceded hers, there is little to keep us from assuming that once more she is expecting us to take her reading of things as the only truth that matters. Thus, by default, if not by design, this thread IS about her and her way of looking at things.

And/or her view of the evidence which has been gleaned from Danny's own emails. This, however, does not take into sufficient account the facts that Danny is not consistent in his own emails, and that one can get a MUCH different veiw of the "evidence" just by reading a series of his emails... sometimes done within a very short time of each other... and sometimes the inconsistency shows up within the very same email.

I think, if you will occasionally go back and read through the whole series of posts in this thread rather than trusting memory for that, that you will discover that it will be well nigh impossible to keep from "making this thread about Cindy"... since that is the direction she keeps pushing it.

Now IF it were actually about the facts of the topics in her opening post... that is, about the truth of the allegations about the division of their personal property.... then there would be some appeals for information from objective sources. For example... since there is an as yet unconcluded court inquiry into this question.... since there are some yet unanswered questions in some areas.... then surely the lawyers involved must have done some rather detailed work on the divisions that have taken place so far. But I'm not seeing any evidence that Cindy is even interested in this fact.... much less any indication that she has made any effort to contact objective sources as to what the details of the property divisions actually were.

What is interesting is that there are people reading this forum who know some of those facts. Why are they not speaking up? It is my guess that they realize that this thread is not part of a search for truth, but merely one more case of Cindy trying to establish her credibiliy as an arbitrator, judge, and jury all rolled into one... and not merely on the allegations on Danny and Linda, but on the credibility of all who speak up to give their testimonies or the results of their research.

You do realize this statement contradicts your initial statement quoted above, don't you? There are myriad posts from you full of your defending DS and criticizing/condemning LS... in spite of your professed lack of knowledge.

Which either means that you do, in fact, knowingly and willfully lie... or that you are confused in the extreme and you do not realize when you make contradictory or mutually exclusive statements...

They were not posted in a manner that gave evidence of seeking additional evidence on one side or the other... or possibly on a "third side" which might have found a way to give context to each so they might each be true reflections of what happened. The stated and reiterated purpose was to show that Linda was a liar.

Cindy has done her research - included in that are the words of sister and yourself. You and others continually claim that she (among others) is attempting to "spin" things in her direction. It is easily arguable that you, WB, as well as sister, Johann, Bob Pickle, Greg Matthews, and G.A. Joy, via his surrogates, have all spun a story as well. Your dependence on a fictional piece of writing as your basis for your position is a "spin" exercise by the definition that has been developed for that word in this community.

Additionally, Bob Pickle, one of Linda's most ardent spokespersons has developed your idea of spinning into an art. This has been pointed out numerous times and the evidence has been unmistakable and yet you support his interpretations as though they were divinely inspired as well as the words of sister.

Now, along come individuals who are questioning inconsistencies in what you have based your opinions on and you don't like it. I understand. No one likes to have the world they have constructed around themselves to be questioned - because that means having to face inconsistancies and falsehoods that are used to prop up that world. But, that doesn't make the challenges of no import. Instead it should bring you to re-examine your world and see if it needs some housekeeping.

Cindy's point is not to convice you, Emerson said, "A man convinced against his will, is of the same opinion still." . . . so Cindy isn't trying to change your mind - instead she is working to bring a balanced perspective, and truth, to the discussions that have taken place here. She isn't talking to you, but to those who want to examine the situation anew - and part of that means adding an understanding of Linda's character and those defending her, since your side has already attempted to create a picture of Danny's and 3ABN's character.

> And since we have ample evidence from prior postings of how Cindy has twisted what someone has said in posts that immediately preceded hers, there is little to keep us from assuming that once more she is expecting us to take her reading of things as the only truth that matters. Thus, by default, if not by design, this thread IS about her and her way of looking at things.

No, you would like to make it about her because then that takes the focus off the evidence of lies and misleading on the other side of the coin. If you can successfully make this about someone other than Linda and her defense team, then you effectively hijack the thread and turn it into a personal attack. However, that does not diminish the fact that what is presented is strong evidence that the "spinning" and misleading has been done by Linda's side of the coin.

I raised this question in an earlier thread, maybe since your proximity to Linda is what it is, you can answer this question. Why was the case almost thrown out recently? Why did the judge almost end the proceedings? The answer I have received from people very aware of the proceedings would support the claim that Cindy is making in her OP. There is much untruth coming from the Linda camp - always has been.

How do you know the intent of this thread? Can you read minds? You make the above statement as if you talked to Cindy this morning and she said the thread was not a search for the truth.

Your post is an attempt to discredit and call into question Cindy, you are not addressing the OP, nor are you adding any information that is substantive. Instead you are continuing your exercise of disparaging anyone who comes along to claim that there is filth in the Linda camp and that if one is to understand the whole complex issue they need to know that the "evidence" presented by Joy, Matthews, Pickle, et. al. has been altered, manipulated, and I am going to go out on a limb and say some of it may be manufactured.

For ages now, you and others of Linda's staunch defenders have claimed that she has said nothing. That in itself is a massive untruth. The emails between her and Danny for instance come directly from her - and you can not hide behind the idea that they came from a third party because she happened to BCC people in her replies. Her personal correspondence, between herself and Danny, had to be turned over by her to others either in the from of BCC, or emailing them to a third party who then passed them on . . . the point being that they could have not come from any other originating source then Linda since she was the one who received them. They were hers, she decided to do what she did with them and it is obvious she shared them with others and then clearly gave her permission for their use as they are currently being used. A thrid party, sympathizing with Linda, would not pass them on to individuals such as Bob Pickle, Greg Matthews, or Gailon A. Joy, without her permission. She has clearly given the go ahead for all that has been made public about her relationship with Danny and his family and friends - that is the same thing as saying it yourself. The things that are so deeply personal and are now public have her signature of approval all over them.

At any given point, if she truly wanted to take the high road she would have said "NO" to making public all of these things. If she wanted to take the high road she wouldn't have shared stories about her intimate life with Johann (and that is the one we know of so far). The truth is this, you expected to be able to have your space here and vent your anger and frustrations about 3ABN without challenge. Challenge has arrived and you would like to do nothing more than silence it and keep the world you have created in tact.

hank you watchbird, now I won't have to go back and reread several times all those posts to come up vith the same thing you pointed out. I agree with everyone else's comments about Alethia's posts.

y question is to Alethia: How about asking the people themselves about the questions you have and ost their replies and add your comments to the replies. Also ask others (witnesses) who might have een involved in the move and post their replies and offer your comments.

One other suggestion. After typing it all out, BEFORE sending the post, scroll down to the very bottom of the page. Look for the place next to ADD REPLY, click on PREVIEW POST. Check for spelling, content and anything else. click save. Then walk away. Take a break. Mabe an hour or two or longer as needed. Then come back view your post then EDIT what you wrote then if it looks like it is postable then click ADD REPLY. The main idea is be sure what you are posting is understandable to others.

Mabe the above seems too simplistic but I am just trying to be helpful. Hoping Alethia takes the suggestion to heart. I would dearly love to be able to understand the posts in the threads.

By the way Alethia, I do have my own personal witness but I am unable to produce the letters to prove that Linda was trashed. There were three letters sent each one week apart, the first one no one has heard about and I won't discuss it, the second one has been discussed but I am unable to find the post for it. The third one was about Linda and the Dr. Now if they didn't need the first two rumors to trash Linda why would they send them? I believe the first two were sent to show Linda was not a nice person. The third one was the worst trashy one to smash the last nail in the coffin. (I had asked an employee about the first rumor sent and the person said that as far as they knew the first rumor was a lie. I believe all three were lies) My witness may not be the right witness for you but it is all that I have.

Just my opinion

I know this is off topic, but I believe everyone posting on this thread thus far either knows Barbara Kerr or knows of her since many have posted on her thread. How about taking a minute from this thread and wishing her well and tell her you are including her concerns in your prayers. She needs our support and prayer today. She will be back tomorrow and I know she will be encouraged by our BSDA show of support.

Cindy, you've raised some http://www.blacksda.com/forums/index.php?s=&showtopic=13025&view=findpost&p=186973.

Now we need to put all of that along side of Danny's http://www.save3abn.com/danny-shelton-royalty-disclosures-financial-affidavit.htm of July 2006, which states that he owns and received from Linda,

> QUOTE(Danny Shelton)
>
> Bowflex exercise machine
> Stove
> 2 Refrigerators
> Dishwasher
> 2 Freezers
> Master bedroom set > Downstairs bedroom set
> Old outside lawn furniture

I think we can scrounge up a number of other documents along these lines if we try.

So how do we understand Danny's email to Linda about picking up all the furniture? In light of the above, I would think that would refer to the specific furniture she was to receive, which was spelled out in their house agreement of June 4, 2004. It would be all that furniture, not all the furniture in the entire house.

I don't know how to comment on your March 22 email. Perhaps you can get Danny to list everything he kept vs. everything she took, and we can see if it might match up with a similar list from Linda. It is possible that if we did that that the two lists would agree.

It's not the existence of the writing... or of those making commentary said writing that is nearly as damning as the perceived need to defend against something you claim to know is fiction....

Your doing so is then tantamount to putting forth an apologetic argument for the easter bunny or santa claus... if indeed the writing is utterly fictitious...

How can Cindy bring balance when by her own admission she is "not a witness"? How can she provide a balanced picture of Linda when, by her own admission, she neither knows nor has met either Danny or Linda?

Cindy, by Cindy's own admission, has no facts, first hand experience or personal testimony upon which to base any conclusions she has drawn... she is relying on what she has been told by others... the overwhelming majority of whom, like Cindy, are not witnesses either... by their own admission.

That's not a 'balanced perspective'; that's the blind leading the blind... watch that first step...

AMEN brother!

Odd isn't it....they are unhappy because Linda has spoken up to defend herself. I mean, that really is upsurd, isn't it? To defend yourself? Aren't you a witness to your own life? Don't you yourself know what happens to you? Shouldn't you be able to speak? Now again, why would DS want her quiet? High road? Think people think. Does this mean you sit by and let someone crush you, when God gave you a voice, common sense, and a God given defense mechanism that we all need as long as we are on this planet to protect ourselves from our enemies? Do we just sit by on our bottoms and do nothing when we are attacked? What about self respect?

Read Linda's website. She certainly takes the high road.

They simply don't like the fact that she can speak and they can't stop that. That speaks volumes all by itself. It's not complicated. Control control control...when they lose it, it seems to just drip from their comments and intent. That is what makes me go HMMMMMM........

Truth. It is what it is, they can't change it, no one can.

You know, I said, "self, you need to not comment on this topic anymore". Well, I lied to self after I recieved a phone call this morning from a friend who told me that Danny answered her e-mail. ~~After reading it to me, I really do believe that Bystander, Lee and Aletheia are Danny or have been brain-washed to say "repeat after me". If my friend hears from him within the next 24 hours, then I really know that I'm not crazy because they will have reported this information to him.~~
When she started reading the e-mail to me, it had some of the same content that is being said here by these three individuals. ☒ He wanted things to be kept quiet that were in the e-mail and wants my friend to consider to start supporting 3ABN AGAIN.

My friend and I both agree that Barbara Kerr had no reason to lie when she posted her letter here and we are believers now for sure about this 3ABN saga...oops, let me get my facts straight, Johann started the thread.

When I first started posting here, I said that I knew what was going on before it was made known to the public as I am sure that many of you knew also.

I believe that God IS going to clean house soon in regards to 3ABN.

'ou, and Clay and others have fell into line with your above paragraphs. You have judged, accused ınd made mountains out of molehills towards anything concerning DS and 3ABN, while at the same time, ignoring, proven lies, twisted stories, the pickle spin on words, and emails that only prove the things that DS has said all long.

On the other hand, you believe everything that watchbird or sister says even knowing that they were not eyewitnessess to most things between DS and LS as their marriage blew up. They only knew what LS told them. Yet, you find this credible and accept their stories from Linda without a word. I have never once seen any of you acknowledge a PROVEN, lie that has come from LS's side.
Until you can show a little more unbiased opinions and until you provide something, anything, of substance to back up what you have accused DS of, you have absolutely no validity when you call Cindy to task.
She has been diligent, thorough, and put many hours into verifying truth and lies. What she has contributed has been invaluable to the lurkers that come here to find truth. The outsider can see for themselves who is backing up what they say versus those that give all their opinions with nothing but the word of Linda's friends to back it up. Those who are truly objective will see who has validity here. That will be those who have actually witnessed or been a party to certain events, and those who have produced the emails, pictures or whatever to back up what they say. I am sorry. In light of the above, I would think that would refer to the specific furniture she was to receive, which was spelled out in their house agreement of June 4, 2004. It would be all that furniture, not all the furniture in the entire house.

I find this list about as credible as that his total cash assets were two bank accounts with only 1500 in each. If who got what out of the house is important enough to bother with, then it would seem to me that we need to get some testimonies from those who were involved in the moving process... or watched the movers, or saw the contents of Danny's house before and after the moving process.

Surely someone was around at that time and has at least some recollection of what was taken and what was left.

And where is the June 4, 2004 document. What was really spelled out there?

Certain items that Linda brought into the marriage were excluded, as well as the guitars and horses, two glass cases, two treadmills, all antiques and knicknacks in the basement and closet, a blue vibrating chair, a white wicker shelf unit, baby chairs, a doll house, a bedroom set, three glass curio cabinets, antique family tables, and miscellaneous small items. Something like that.

Perhaps there are some items above that have been mentioned twice.

You know, Cindy, it just might be possible that the discrepancy you've brought up will get featured on Save3ABN. On the one hand we have Walt saying that Linda got all the furniture. on the other hand we've got Danny saying in an official document that Linda didn't get all the furniture. It is easily arguable that you, WB, as well as sister, Johann, Bob Pickle, Greg Matthews, and G.A. Joy, via his surrogates, have all spun a story as well. Your dependence on a fictional piece of writing as your basis for your position is a "spin" exercise by the definition that has been developed for that word in this community.

FHB:

Please show me one instance where I have depended upon THE TELEVANGELIST for anything that I said.

NOTE: You called it a fictional piece of work. I am not intendimg to argue in this post whether THE TELEVANGELIST is true, or fictional. On the assumption that you refernced it, I have named it. Show me once where I have done that.

It appears to me that you have smeared with a wide brush, where you have no facts to back you up.

NOTE: I realize that you can respond that you only stated that one person had depended on that work. But, in one sentence you clearly state that I am one who have spun the story. Then in your next sentence you mention THE TELEVANGELIST. So, did (do) I depend upon it? Are you including me? If so, produce the evidence. If not, clearly state such.

Excuse me?!?

certainly did not say "I am not credible" You just said that, Mr J has said that, as have others.

said I am not trying to establish my credibility here. Meaning that was, and is not my intent in posting. What I posted was quotes from others, those quotes stand on their own, and do not rise or fall because of who or what I am. They could have been posted by anybody, and have been adressed by practically nobody, that is far different then saying "I am not credible"

Please do NOT put your opinions in my mouth.

Hard to say. Maybe. But what sort of deal did they work out?

Here's another question: We know TCTR is an excerpt of Antichrist Agenda. Is the latter a rework or an expansion of an earlier work (pamphlet or whatever) on the Sabbath? Anyone know?

Do YOU?

Rom 2:11 For there is no respect of persons with God.

Act 10:34 ... Of a truth I perceive that God is no respecter of persons Jam 2:9 But if ye have respect to persons, ye commit sin, and are convinced of the law as transgressors.

True; your intent in posting here is to attempt to destroy the credibility of others. The problem you continue to face is that you, by your own admission, are not a "witness"... and you are trying to refute the testimony of those who are.

Lacking a first person testimony of your own, the only way for you to make them less credible is for you to establish that you are more credible than they, in spite of their being principals and participants and your not being so... so whether you are trying to establish your credibilty or not... everything you post is dependent on said credibility... because you have nothing else.

Your read on events and statements is irrelevant if you are not credible... and to date... you are not credible.

Attitude and indignation from you and those who wish to defend you doesn't change that.

Because you are not a 'witness', you can review, assess and interpret statements and events... but your doing so is contingent upon how credible you are deemed by others. You don't have first hand facts to refute anything... because you are not a 'witness'.

You can only go on what you have been told by others... and the majority of those feeding you information are no more 'witnesses' than you... and yet you expect people to take your slant as gospel... even over first hand statements... without your establishing your credibility...

Riiiiiiiiiight.

In His service,
Mr. J

hat's a door that swings both ways... I find it interesting you and your co-conspirator are ontemplating 'exposing' someone who is hiding nothing... while your co-conspirator is desperately eeking to remain hidden...

onder that in light of Mat 7:12... no matter how you slice it, it comes up hypocrisy.

ay indeed have percieved that all, or almost all the furniture was gone, they probably did not go oking into closets and bedrooms, so most likely missed the two bedroom sets, you listed that Danny llegedly retained.

Mr J,

You are taking my statement out of context and applying it to other issues, in order to justify your accusations. That is clearly not what I said or meant at all, I was only referring to the allegations that Danny trashed Linda in the beginning. Honest people on reading posts" #25, 29,and 36 and will be able to see that, and what you are doing also.

Now if someone wants to present the "evidence of the trashing". then I'll look at it. I have asked previously what people were talking about and got nothing.

ust so there is clarification here on the FACTS, if you are interested in FACTS, I will give you a list ere. Oh, and this is from "my witness" who was there for moving day. Things were moved in to late 004, not all at once. But this is a list of the main items....

an kept these items:
ll of the living room furniture he dining room furniture he master bedroom furniture, ne of the other bedroom's furniture long with all of the office furniture.

inda took these items:
he piano
lyssa's bedroom furniture few nicknack cases, think she took a couple of chairs.
he took her clothes
he nicknacks er books
er pictures
lyssa and Nathan's stuff from when they were kids... that kind of stuff.
ll of her current living room, dining room, office and bedroom furniture (other than the one set she ook) was purchased later.

ow, how could anyone walk into the house and see it empty? Hmmm....

nore to come......

3ottom line, Cindy... what can you say you have actually learned first hand... of all the things you :laim to 'know'... what do you know because you were there and saw with your own eyes and heard vith your own ears and what do you accept as true because someone told you "this is how it was".

3iven your own admission that you have never met or spoken to Danny or Linda, I'd say the former is)% and the latter is 100%. You have no first hand facts because you are not a witness... to 'anything*.

'ou have based your entire argument on what someone told you... how have you verified what they old you? And what will you do if what you've been told is not true?

BlackSDA _ 3ABN _ 3abn "on The Road" Again

Posted by: LaurenceD Mar 13 2007, 12:55 PM

I just finished watching most of the 3abn broadcast of DS recently preaching live at some SDA church, perhaps Dallas, Tx. He was all fired up, and like a good fighter he seemed to be trying to save his ministry. I found myself kind of feeling sorry for him. Although he spent most of the sermon talking about himself, one of his points was that we should only worry about our relationship with Jesus, not about all the "rumors' going around on the internet, etc.

One thing that stuck me odd was him mentioning that in this last month, or week, the devil had been trying harder than ever to destroy his ministry. He mentioned a lightning strike that took out their transmitters and other electrical equipment, including computors, etc. And he mentioned that the station that broadcasts to the Philippines has been hit. Overall it sounded like a terrible week, and he did allude to the fact that he had personal problems he was trying to overcome. But, was he discouraged? NO!

The odd thing was he seemed to be turning his head away from the possiblility that God was trying to speak to him through these disasters and personal hits on the internet. He seemed personally challenged by the need for survival. So, he trumpeted the number of new stations in India and Thailand, and several big US cities through cable. He mentioned the millions of viewers he was now reaching, including the last place on earth for 3abn to reach--New Zealand. I could tell this made him feel better, and gave him the hope he seemed in need of. He had now come from nowhere and had taken the message to the whole world. (BTW, so had Paul the Apostle as noted in Rom.1:8)

This leads me to an important question and a little analysis: what is the 3abn message?

Yesterday morning, I heard an announcement on 3abn that goes something like this: broadcasting the good news of Jesus Christ to the whole world, and his 2nd coming.

So that naturally raises the question--what is this three angels message that 3abn uses as it's flag? If I understand the three angels message correctly, I hear it very seldom on their broadcasts. Maybe less than 10% of the time, if that.

As one looks at the history of the SDA church, there is only one thing that really separates it from other Christian denominations. What is it, specifically? And does that message seem to be a priority of the station?

I once heard an SDA minister suggest that we're moving backwards. As more generations unfold, we have new people to reach with this specific SDA message, and we can never seem to catch up. Right now, the Muslims religion seems to be spreading faster than Christianity. Within the Christian movement, the Mormons seem to be growing faster than any other denomination. I think the SDA church--by membership only--is something like way way down the list.

I wonder if the success of the Momons is by their person-to-person ministry, following the directions of Christ...sending out his disciples in pairs, rather than by expensive satellite broadcasting where only a tiny percentage of people may possibly be listening, and even less understanding.

Is it possible that more people are leaving the church than are coming in (both SDA church and the Chrisitan religion)? I once heard that five out six people, born in the SDA church, leave it. Without new converts, the membership would shrink fast it seems.

So, for the new ones coming in, I wonder how many really understand the unique message that SDAs felt called to give in the first place. BTW, if I have if figured out correctly, the unique SDA purpose is to give the three angel's messages to the world, namely that the Judgement hour has come.

Other churches preach the 7th day, the sanctuary, Christ's righteousness, His 2nd coming, the health message, etc., etc. No one else preaches that the Judgement of the world has already begun (1844), as far as I know.

Was I by chance watching an old "On the Road" rerun? One thing I did catch was his mention of "dung dipped in chocolate." where had I heard this before?

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Mar 13 2007, 03:09 PM

LD,
Where did you watch this program? Was it a video tape or actually on 3abn?

That he was mentioning dung dipped in chocolate could put it back to 2004, show him making a refence to the newly posted emails on save3abn or simply showing that he considers that turn of phrase a part of his routine.

Anybody have input on this program?

Laurence,
Very thought provoking questions that you raise! Part of what has made 3ABN so wonderful in the eyes of many is it's growth to "world wide" status. This is of course the mantra which is most often repeated at 3ABN fundraisers and on the air. I echo your questions "Are the 'undiluted' 3Angels messages really being proclaimed all over the world through this medium?" Forgive me for my ignorance, but what do people in other countries really see? Surely they don't see affluent American Adventist's sitting around the livingroom table talking about themselves and how great their world wide ministry is. Surely muslims in the bush don't tune in for the Micheff sisters all decked out and talking about frichik.
"I wonder if the success of the Momons is by their person-to-person ministry, following the directions of Christ...sending out his disciples in pairs, rather than by expensive satellite broadcasting where only a tiny percentage of people may possibly be listening, and even less understanding."
Public evangelism has it's place but personal evangelism (house to house labor) is really the foundation of how the work began, how it flourishes (and it does in the developing parts of the world), and how it will be finished. Television evangelism and Sattelite evangelism have their place; but their returns are often diminishing - and even at times counterproductive. For one, television (and computers) have an addicitve and deleterious downside which can actually contribute to disciples being removed from the field of active personal evangelism. They can even have a harmful effect on the frontal lobes of the brain - and dare I say, our spirituality. Television itself produces a semihypnotic state (which most of us have experienced) where our creative and spiritual centers may be crippled. In North America the financial base for 3ABN appears to be provided by elderly members who have substituted 3ABN for more "healthy" spiritual activity (personal prayer, study, and evangelism). What did elderly people (including Christians) used to do with their lives before the advent of the "tube"?
For some time an inordinate emphasis has been placed upon sattelite evangelism in North America. Sattelite evangelism though, is viewed by many as a bandaid measure to infuse life into a dying church. Members often engage in this form of evangelism not as a "reaping" event where the interests that they have been personnally working with are brought to harvest; but instead, it becomes an activity where Laodiceans can engage in evangelism by proxy. The evangelist presents the message. The pastor and elders do the follow-up. A handful of souls are baptized and we feel better about ourselves. The end result? Disciples do not grow in their relationship with and trust in the Lord, nor in their character development, because they are not actively seeking the lost.

We are now in the third and final wave of world missions. The first angels message outlines this clearly - the everlasting gospel will go to every "nation" (ethne = ethnic group), kindred, tongue, and people group. Jesus plainly stated that when this gospel is preached to "all nations (ethne = people groups) then the end will come. There are approximately 10,000 or so "people groups" yet to be reached by the everlasting gospel. Many of them exist in seemingly "unreachable" situations. There are approximately 7,000 major languages on earth - nearly 5,000 do not have a Bible in their own tongue. Surely God is going to have to perform some miracles to finish this work. 3ABN is not that miracle. The majority of these peoples will not be reached by contributing to Danny Shelton and gang, who will finish the work for us by proxy with their technology.
"He had now come from nowhere and had taken the message to the whole world."
Danny has not taken the 3 Angels messages to the world. Yes 3ABN does contribute to this work by promoting organizations like "Global Mission", "Gospel Outreach" and "AFM" etc. But what God really needs is not more sattelite downlinks (Or television evangelists) but more living breathing disciples who are willing to risk all to be face to face frontier/cross-cultural missionaries - reaching the truely unreached (not preaching to an Adventist choir). If Danny steps down, I suggest that he leave his horses and mansion to live in the jungle for 10 years. It might do his soul some good.

[Addendum added from bumped post:
Quoting LaurenceD,
I'm lookings at Strongs concordance (for lack of a better one) at...
"all the world" Mat 24:14 oikoumene means: the (terrenne part of the) globe, spec. the Roman empire--earth, world and...
"whole world" Rom 1:8 kosmos means: by impl. the world (in a wide or narrow sense, includ. its inhab., lit. or fig.
I've often wondered what the difference is. Would you have some thoughts on this? The reason I ask is because I've often found this confusing....Jesus instructs to go to the whole world, Paul is saying he's done that. How many times will this have to be accomplished? Every so often as our understanding changes?

Response:
Harpers Bible dictionary sums up the confusion by saying, "The Bible as a whole has no unitary conception of "world" as such."
When we talk about "the world" as Adventist Christians, we are primarily concerned with its inhabitants and those places that are inhabited.

It took a terribly long time for the disciples to wake up to the fact that they were to witness to Gentiles. This is one of the tragic paradoxes of the book of Acts.
Each generation grows in its understanding of what it means to fulfill the great commission. 'Present Truth' for Paul's day was not the same as for today. Paul didn't even know there was such a place as Tahiti in the South Pacific - or the entire American continent for that matter. It seems clear that eventually the gospel was preached throughout at least the Roman Empire during Paul's day (and a few other empires like China and India). Did primitive tribalists in the remote regions of the globe hear it as well? Not likely. Many commentaries think Paul was speaking with hyperbole when he said it was preached to "every creature."

The term "world" is used in both a wider and narrower sense. "The world" is reached one soul at a time – not enmasse. So, in a sense whenever someone wins one soul they are "reaching the world." Whenever 3ABN uses the term they are not using it in the narrow sense. The implication is that by blanketing the globe with Satellite signal they have "reached the world" in the wider sense. If "the world" represents the world's inhabitants then obviously a global TV blanket does not accomplish this goal. Once again "the world" is not reached enmasse anyway. And, as already mentioned, the missiological goal for our day (present truth) is to reach all the "people groups" of the world. Also, missions by it's very nature involves "incarnational contact" not "satellite contact."]

VofZ,
You, who posts so rarely, have said so much! We all need to reach out as the disciples of old did - to those within our immediate areas of influence as well as hitting the road/air/sea to make sure contact is made with those who are waiting.

It was broadcast on our 3abn TV station this morning. It may have been a reun though. His story about the lightning strikes and the station in the Philippines being hit should date it. Seems I recall 3abn being stuck by lightning a few years ago. :shrug:

appreciate your comments very much. You've given me a lot to think about here. I'll reread it whan I et back tonight. I'd like to know if there is really a strong connection between the Three Angel's roadcasting Network and the actual three angels messages, or if it's just a title that is being used for ppeal. I'm not sure I see much connection at this point, although I do hear some.

Of course various aspects of the 3 Angels messages are broadcast. Full evangelsitic series are broadcast. Our evangelists usually highlight the main points of these messages, The Judgment, Healthful Living, The Sabbath, Come out of Babylon into the Remnant, The Mark of the Beast, The commandments of God, Justification/Righteousness by Faith etc. Various aspects of these messages are also highlighted in a seemingly haphazard way at other times. What is the goal of all this truth? To restore the image of God in man. To prepare a people for the second coming. Obviously we are still here, so something must be awry with the church (that includes me), not just 3ABN (diagnosis Rev.3).
I can't help but think that if the leaders of 3ABN were really experiencing these messages (especially the 3rd one), 3 ABN would be radically different, or non-existent. The 3rd angels message is designed to lay the pride of man in the dust. It seems that there is enough pride to go around for a 3 ring circus.
"Although he spent most of the sermon talking about himself,..."
"Is this not great 3ABN which I have built(And me alone)?!" In telling people to come out of Babylon we must first have Babylon removed from our own hearts - or we are nothing more than Adventist Babylonians.
I have a tape somewhere of H.M.S. Richards Sr. relating the story of when he first heard Ellen White speak. She spoke as a dear mother to her chidren - without miracle stories, emotional appeals, oratorical devices, evangelistic trickery, or covetous agendas. Her message was saturated with 100 Bible texts or more. When she finally knelt to pray, Richards was afraid to open his eyes for fear of seeing Jesus right there on the platform. The power of her intimacy with God was the precipitating factor that brought the Holy Spirit like a convicting wave over the congregation. Dependence upon technology (works of man's devising) instead of the Holy Spirit seems to lean more towards righteousness by works instead righteousness by faith. Face it, one solar flare could wipe the whole thing out, then where would we be?
One of the most powerful encounters with the Holy Spirit I ever experienced was in a church where there was deep rooted pain and enmity, long standing grudges etc. One evening everyone at a meeting seemed to be simultaneously convicted to confess to one another everything they had thought or done that was unChristlike towards every other individual there. Tears flowed freely. Under the unction of the Holy Spirit every member was convicted that it was their individual duty to make full peace with everyone else in the room, no matter if no one else did likewise. When Adventists live the message they preach this is the movement we will see - not threats, lines drawn in the sand, demonizings, evil surmisings etc.

Dan 4:37 Now I, Nebuchadnezzar, praise and exalt and honor the King of Heaven, for all His works are truth, and His ways are justice. And He is able to humble those who walk in pride.

If it took 7 years for Nebuchadnezzar... how long will it take for some of us?

This particular 3ABN thread is one of the most informative, thought-provoking, and constructive threads I've read during the past 2-plus years of the 3ABN-saga ribbon of threads on this site. Thank you LaurenceD and Voktar. You've given me some refreshing perspective.

eally? are those the words he used? No they weren't. In fact, I have heard him over and over hrough the years glorifying not only God, but all of those who have brought their talents and xpertise to the ministry. I have heard the statement " if it was up to me to know about down links, or f it was up to me to know about graphics or cameras or computers, then nothing would have gotten one. He has always given God the credit for the miracles.

ou seem to be criticizing that he was talking about the work at 3abn instead of a 3 angels message. et me clarify. DS isn't a pastor and doesn't profess to be. That is why there are other pastors like CA nurray and John Dinzey that can preach the sermons at a 3abn visit or rally. It is DS's job to talk bout 3abn. He talks about, What is going on with expansion, what are future plans, and many stories f souls that have walked into adventist churches ready to join, because of what they have seen on abn. To tell the work that has been accomplished by God, through 3abn, is glorifying Him. Without od, 3abn would not exist. This is not to see that he doesn't refer to scripture or Ellen White at times, f course he does, but he lets the experts preach the sermons.

s I said, he lets the pastors do their job and he does his. It is a good combination that works well for ll concerned, especially the audience.

Uh, BS, I am sure VOZ will answer your queries. I am just going to tell you that the line to which you were referring, is a text from the Bible. Spoken by Nebuchadnezzar....shortly before he started grazing. Of course it was changed to add "3ABN",,,,,,, Anyway, here is the text:
Daniel 4:30
30The king spake, and said, Is not this great Babylon, that I have built for the house of the kingdom by the might of my power, and for the honour of my majesty?

Although both Danny and Mollie refer to John Dinzey as a pastor, as least I have never heard John claim the title himself. If he does on the Latino 3ABN, I do not know, I am not Spanish speaking. The fact is that John has no pastoral training and is not a SDA pastor, nor has he ever been one. The reason that he is head of the pastoral department is because when Rick Odel left 3ABN and went into full time pastoral work, that left a vacancy. Immediately, Johnny D went to Danny and asked to be head of Pastoral. He did not ask for a raise in pay, only responsibility, so Danny agreed. Calling someone a Pastor and that being the fact are two different things.

Bystander, there are a number of factual discrepancies in your posts. This is just one simple example. When I come along behind you and try to clean up your mess, I am accused falsely of all matter of evils. Lately I have been letting it slide. Perhaps I should write a book instead and correct all your "facts" in one blow? Move over Linda, maybe another book is being prepared for the market!

While DS did talk about 3abn, that's not what I meant when I reported he spent most of the time talking about himself. I meant his personal self. Examples include, but are not limited to, his personal eating habits, his thinning hair, analyzing where his thoughts were coming from (like "where did that come from? Thank-you God for that" and "I don't use notes"). A lot of "I" stuff.

The question here is about how much time is actually spent on the three angel's messages. What's the ratio in a given day, week, or month. How much of a burdon does the station have for the three angels messages--the one special pupose of our SDA existence.

The reason that he is head of the pastoral department is because when Rick Odel left 3ABN and went into full time pastoral work, that left a vacancy. Immediately, Johnny D went to Danny and asked to be head of Pastoral. He did not ask for a raise in pay, only responsibility, so Danny agreed. Calling someone a Pastor and that being the fact are two different things.

'es, On the Road is the correct title, and 10am was the correct time of the broadcast. I'd be curious if t was an old rerun. In the credits it did list the Dallas church with something, so I thought maybe hat's where the little sermon took place.

think it is even more than this Laurence. The thing which comes across strong and clear to those vho listen is that Danny is under some special dispensation from God so that whenever he talks about jiving God all the glory, he does it in a way that builds his own image up as Someone who is specially avored of God.... and to make it even more obnoxious it is very often tied into some trait or action or ;ins of his own in such a way as to give the distinct impression that he is saying that ordinary laws of nen or God don't apply to him.... and the so-called "miracles" are proof that he has found and that all ie does is under the approval and approbation from God Himself.

have to admit that when someone talks about "one special purpose of our SDA existence" that it riggers a "cringe factor" in me. I think our SDA existence is for essentially the same purpose as that f every other Christian Church... and that is to present and represent Christ to the world. We may hink we do a better job of that than others, and we may claim to have purer doctrine than others..... nd we could argue all day as to whether we are right or whether these thoughts and claims are nerely symptoms of Laodicean spiritual pride.... but that is an argument I am not wanting to enter ere.

Vhat I want to say here is that just as the mission of Christ himself to earth was broad.... not only toning for sins, but revealing the character of God Himself, freeing captives from all kinds of slavery, ealing the sick and wounded, spreading the news of the Kingdom of God that is even now with us on his earth....as well as the coming Kingdom that enters only at the final cleansing and recreation of the arth, and relieving pain and suffering to the utmost of our abilities... whether or not the recipients hoose to become followers of Christ..... just so broad is our message to the world and the "purpose of ur SDA existence."

nd all of the above are subsumed under the "everlasting gospel" that the First Angel is depicted in evelation as carrying. This message and mission is not solely that of the Adventist church.... it is the nessage and mission of ALL churches who bear the name of Christ.... whether they see themselves in hat endtime passage or not. To the extent which they fail to give a pure message, churches may legenerate into churches which are called Babylon in the following messages. But it is our mission and joal first of all to be a part of the First Angel's message .... the only one with a positive Christian nessage..... If we don't have that straight and predominate, then we can very easily fall into a ategory to be warned against rather than helping to give the warning messages of the second and hird angel.

hus I am much more concerned about the way 3abn presents Christ to the world.... not merely in heir messages but in the way they personally reveal Christ in the way they act towards their fellow nen and women... than I am in the amount of time they put in specific programming content.

o long as there are people who, because of personal harassment (or witnessing what has been done o others who got crosswise of Danny Shelton or any of the other ruling entities in the House that helton Built), fear to give their names when telling their stories, just so long I care not one whit as to vhat goes out over the airwaves. I very much resent having a commercial entity (which poses as a ninistry) in our midst which makes the claims that 3abn makes about representing Adventists and our nessage... and our God........ yet which sits like an Absolom in the gate.... wooing the hearts of the eople so that they put their alliegence and finance in the hands of this organization that acts so bominably in so many different areas of life.

Sister, Thanks for your information. I suspect there is even more to the story than this. It is certainly an unusual route for someone to take into "pastoral ministry". And certainly presents a different concept of the position of "head of pastoral ministry" than what I think most viewers... at least SDA viewers.... would expect of a person with that title.

As to your second paragraph above..... I think there are many of us who are missing the insights you gave in your Unauthorized History threads. I realize that the atmosphere here is not so conducive to sharing your knowledge with us in story form as it was when you began. But if you can find it in your heart to correct various factual discrepancies as they come up.... or add to our understanding of the various situations.... either in your previous story-style or in factual corrections. I know many of us would appreciate it very much. And personally, I would prefer the story style, since there is so much more that is conveyed by that genre that is necessarily lost in a simple statement of facts without them being clothed in their environmental and emotional garments.

It is not easy .... giving factual information even when you know it will be pounced on by some and labeled as lies. OTOH, I think by now most of us are ignoring those who habitually do this, and would very much appreciate knowing the facts as you give them. When it comes to "credibility factor" I'm sure you rate VERY much higher than do those who accuse you of all matter of unsavory things.

VB, you have raised a very important issue. In "end time" the people of God have the mission to eflect Christ (God) to the world.

n its treatment of Linda, as I see it, 3-ABN has misrepresented the nature and character of God. This s further compunded by a constant refrain that I see from their apologists: Forgive and cover up sin. t is this that gives many of us our mission. God forgives. But, sin is never excused. Public sin must be epented of, and forsaken.

Sister, the only "mess" here is the one that you have created from the beginning.
Fact. John Dinzey is not head of pastoral, he is general manager of latino.
Fact. you are correct that he is not an ordained pastor so perhaps I should have called him "elder." My mistake. The fact is, he has preached many a sermon, and in my opinion, is pretty good at it. If you would have applied my comment to the point of my post, I wouldn't be having to waste my time to clarify to you. The subject was all about DS not claiming to be a minister and leaving those jobs to hose who are capable of doing it.

You're "so called" corrections tend to be something that is of no importance, just like this one. Of course maybe they should be welcomed since that is about the only time you tell the truth. Somehow you seem to think that your "little threat" of a book is going to upset someone. Hardly. I believe you have already contributed and/or written some of the earlier "fairy tales." If those are an example of your "writing skills" don't quit your day job. On the other hand, The Enquirer is always ooking for someone with a sensational imagination like yours.
hmmm interesting now that I think on it. It seems I read somewhere that SJ wants to write a book. Of course she said she was so busy working being a wife and mother where would she find the time. She failed to mention the time she spends posting here and, it is pulblic knowledge, that she is only a wife" and "mother" about 3 or 4 days a month. Her husband raises the children the rest of the time. If she stops to think about that, she might have time after all.
Now....maybe I should write a book

\men!

f the witness of some at 3abn has caused the community of Thompsonville to hate the ministry nstead of being touched by the beauty of the Gospel, how can anyone expect this negative witness to)e limited to Southern Illinois? Word does travel, you know.

\nd, I would like to add, it is only by having that close, personal relationship with the Lord that we can ruly reflect His character to the world. That is our personal duty but it is also another aspect of "one ;pecial purpose of our SDA existence". While personal study and prayer is a part of what builds us into hose who can reflect God's character, our place within the church, the Body of Christ, is also an mportant part of that growth. That is one of the reasons we are given those "gifts".

I just ran across this statement. It is not from an inspired source, but it is good.

Forgiveness "cannot mean that we cover up a fault with a 'mantle of charity.' Divine things are never an illusion and deception. On the contrary, before the sin is forgiven the mantle with which it is covered must be removed. The sin must be unmercifully-yes unmercifully- exposed to the light of God's countenance (Psalm 90)" Helmut Thielke. And we shouldn't have to point out that to obtain forgiveness also requires public confession of public sins and restitution to those wronged.

Bystander, I am genuinely surprised that you would be so foolish as not to check even the most simple of facts and continue to give false information that anyone can so easily verify. The above rant only reinforces your image of treating women disrespectfully and casting doubt upon the true testimony they have given. Unfortunately, not only in this instance with me, but also with PrincessDi, PeacefullyBewildered, Watchbird, PrincessDrRe, Sonshineonme, Linda Shelton and now Sandra J.

The genuine facts in regard to the pastoral department of 3ABN, as stated on their website under the heading Pastoral:
Meet The Pastoral Team
Johnny Dinzey
Department Head: Johnny Dinzey He not only heads up the Pastoral Department but recently accepted the position of General Manager for the 3ABN Latino channel.

Sister

P.S. So, what other misinformation, falsehoods, misrepresentations, innuendos and bold-faced lies are Bystander and Co. attempting to pass off as "fact". If he could be so incorrect concerning John Dinzey's position as head of the Pastoral department, why should he have any credibility in regard to more sensitive insider information about 3ABN? When he fights with such tenacity to uphold a "small" lie, in an attempt to discredit me, how much more is he willing to compromise the truth with a "big" lie, to discredit Linda Shelton and others?

You are doing exactly what I said you do. Making something out of nothing. The fact is When I called and ask, I was told that he is now General Manager of the latino programming. The End. That is what was said and that is how I understood it. Point is, your whole posting career is trying to make something of nothing. To plant your seeds where there is no fertile ground to grow in.

I have the highest regards for women. Trouble is, except for Di and maybe DrRe, I consider all you named as, one and the same. You are all in this together, feeding off of one another like piranas. Taking nothing and tossing around how you can make it something. Denying one minute that you are getting your info from LS and the next minute, admitting it. Your goals are all one and the same. To create enough lies, doubt and rumors to bring DS and 3abn down. Each one of you have your own agenda's and are foolish enough to think that no one knows or can find out who you are and why you are doing this.
Yes, I have the highest regards for women of integrity, truth and virtue. Your "Destroy 3abn Club" doesn't fit that criteria.

P.Di,

I would not want your job of trying to guide the unruly lot that we are sometimes, thank you for your hard work and that of the Admin's.

Bystander,

Are you old enough to remember Senator McCarthy? He was a paranoid, nasty old guy who tried to cast aspersions on many folks by alleging they were Communists or Socialists. History has revealed what a vicious, pathetic and small-minded man he actually was.

You have just alleged that I am a member of the "Destroy 3abn Club" and that my goal is "to create enough lies, doubt and rumor to bring DS and 3abn down." I deny your false allegations and challenge you to start bringing forward examples of any lies, doubts or rumors I have raised.

Of course he is, and has been ever since the previous person in charge of the Latino Network got ... did she get axed because of her support of Linda?

But the question is, did they, when you called, deny that John Dinzey also serves as head of the pastoral department, according to 3ABN's website? You did not say above that they denied that he also serves in that capacity.

A board member told me on October 23, 2006, that John Dinzey was in charge of pastoral. So if there has been a change, it has to have been recently.

Do it, Bystander. Take her up on her challenge. Let her have it if you can. And if you can't do, the Christian thing and apologize.

I do have a life, thanks anyway! Just thought you might know the answer. But glad you said that because it reminded me of another thing DS said in his sermon, talking about himself: he asked the audience if they thought he was being a smart-aleck.

This message and mission is not solely that of the Adventist church.... it is the message and mission of ALL churches who bear the name of Christ.... whether they see themselves in that endtime passage or not. To the extent which they fail to give a pure message, churches may degenerate into churches which are called Babylon in the following messages. But it is our mission and goal first of all to be a part of the First Angel's message .... the only one with a positive Christian message..... If we don't have that straight and predominate, then we can very easily fall into a category to be warned against rather than helping to give the warning messages of the second and third angel.

> Rev 14:6 And I saw another angel fly in the midst of heaven, having the everlasting gospel to preach unto them that dwell on the earth, and to every nation, and kindred, and tongue, and people, 7 Saying with a loud voice, Fear God, and give glory to him; for the hour of his judgment is come: and worship him that made heaven, and earth, and the sea, and the fountains of waters.

I don't know of any other church, other than the SDA, and formed out of members from other churches (Baptists, Methodists, Presbyterian, etc.), that came together for this special purpose -- to warn the world of the Judgement. These other denominations mentioned above were already involved in part of the 1st angel's message--"the everlasting gospel," but, after the Great Disappointment, they realized their mistake -- that Christ wasn't to return to the earth in 1844, but that he moved to the most holy place of the sanctuary to begin it's cleansing (the Judgement). Of this, EGW says Miller had the right date, but the wrong place/wrong event.

While watching 3abn online a few Sabbaths ago, I saw part of a sermon by David Asscherick on The Sanctuary, showing the point of all of the ceremonies and how they apply to this day and age. From the portion I caught, it was a wonderful, informative sermon. That program tells at least part of that angel's message to the world, that our High Priest is in that Heavenly Holiest of Holy places and doing His work of atonement, claiming the very blood He shed as a sacrifice for us.

I agree with you that the Seventh-day Adventist church appears to be unique in this fundamental belief. Yes, other Christian churches preach The Judgement, but from my understanding it is more about a person's sin condition at death which will send them directly to heaven or hell or "Judgement Day" when the fire-and-brimstone God will smite sinners for their sins.

Of course, I've never attended classes at Andrews so I may be mistaken!

Clay, please note my disclaimer at the end of my statement before you take me to task over what I believe. I'm still learning the Sanctuary for myself but I believe what I have read and what I wrote above this to be true and supported by scripture and SOP (which I also believe and is my prerogative to believe in and your prerogative to, um, not.)

SJ was never officially general manager of Latino. She was in programming. She unofficially handled some of the duties that later fell to the General Manager
Also, she was never fired she quit. My opinion? It was because she was set on getting the GM job and it was given to JD instead. No doubt, you know her persona on this forum. I have a feeling you knew the facts too, but just insinuated differently. Same old story, same old theme. We just keep hearing from those who have an axe to grind for one reason or another. So true. She thought the position would fall to her and it didn't. The reasons were sound and the decision was correct. She also left of her own choosing and moved to another Adventist oriented network where, if she is posting here she would be in a position of very serious conflict of interest.

FHB,
Why would SJ be in a position of very serious conflict of interest if she is posting here?

Because the perception they give is that they support and promote that doctrine, ALL SDA doctrine. It would be a lot different if they didn't have exclusively SDA programming, SDA special events, pastors, guests, etc. They give the impression, even if they never say it. It is like I keep saying about them being conveniently a ministry, and then a business when it suits them...they need to get off the fence.

Plus, we all know, they didn't pick that nane, simply because the liked it. These people ARE Adventist. truly believe that is defnitely what they wanted to proclaim from the beginning.

I understand. Was my question inappropriate even though I didn't ask for PM's to be revealed? And if so, if a member thinks they are being unduly harassed in PM's, what recourse is there?

I got the impression that your statements most certainly were about John.

As far as SJ goes, you will notice that I didn't make a remark. I asked a question, since I don't know. And I don't know her persona, or if she even has one.

Can you provide any evidence that management's decision regarding positions and/or encouragement to stay on had nothing to do with her thoughts about Linda's case?

Yes, Bob, it is inappproprite to refer to PMS at all pretty much. You might have PM'd Bystander to ask him about it. If someone recieves a PM that the perceive to be threatening or inappropriate in anyway, they are to report it to an Admin immediately. that kind of thingis not tolerated here. f you are employed by one of the other main SDA oriented networks and do all you can to tear down ABN . . . that would be a clear conflict of interest . . . Get your pay check from another network while earing down 3ABN . . . and as I pointed out "if" she is posting here she would certainly be wrapped in web of conflict of interest - especially if her husband turned out to be one of her sources of nformation, along with Linda (who she has all along been very close to) . . . the conflict of interest vould be far reaching . . .

Bystander, I am assuming you are talking to me also since I occassionally post. You tried to put me down with my personal witness in another post.

I don't understand your "feeding off one another like piranas". Sounds like a personal problem to me. I don't even know anyone in this forum.

I came in here to find the truth. Several rumors spread by 3ABN(Walt Thompson) to people in my town were all lies to discredit and put Linda down. I asked Sister about one rumor that was spread by Walt Thompson and she told me it was false. This rumor is a minor one but a minor lie is a lie. (since this rumor has not been posted I won't mention which one it is). That one point tells me the other rumors spread were lies also.

I can't verify the fact that Walt Thompson sent the letters to the dear little old lady who loved 3ABN and told her these lies to discredit Linda because the dear little old lady has passed away. I just know that she LOVED 3ABN and was just telling her friends what he wrote to her. She considered him her dear close friend.

I don't care if you shred my personal witness. You tried before it didn't work then and it won't work now. You have no credibility with me. You have shown me with the above post that you have no respect for women. I feel sorry for you.

If any part of this is considered double posting my appologies to the ADMIN.

If I sound rude, my appologies to all those reading this post. Was not meant to be rude. Just stating my position and opinion.

Personally, I think you may be incorrect. For example, it shouldn't be a conflict of interest for employees of Coca-Cola to post questions about the integrity of management of Pepsi-Cola. That would be anything but a conflict. In fact, I would think that would be in their interest.

I find it amazing that you would profess to know such details so quickly. How exactly did you come to know such nitty-gritty details like this? How long have you known them?

In your publicly-viewable profile, you say that your home church is the Florida Hospital Church. How often do you attend? Roughly when was the last time you were there? Last week, within the last month or two or three, when? What was the sermon about when you were last there?

Posted by: princessdi Mar 15 2007, 09:02 AM

The only way it would be a conflict of interest is that she still ahd some interest in 3ABN. if she sut all ties with 3ABN, then there is no conflict. Hwo do you figure it is a conflict of interest. She evidently has no interest in 3ABN.

Did I miss something important, or is the "she" we are talking about the wife of John Dinsey who is employed by 3abn? The same 3abn who exercises surveilance and control of their employees?

If so.... there would definitely be a "conflict of interest" ..... and could even have an impact upon her husband's employment and positions. How could you figure otherwise.... If she is married to a 3abn employee it would be pretty difficult to "cut all ties" with 3abn, would it not?

Or am I totally wrong and this isn't who we are talking about?

Later edit... for the benefit of any who read this first.... I was wrong in the identification given above.... but I'll leave this errant post since it forms the jumping off place for the corrections and discussion following this. Thank you very much to those who corrected me quickly.

Conflict of interest is a term with very limited meaning. It's applicable for someone in postions of both privileged inside information, and making a decsion based on that information. Also incompatible postions. A conflict is primarily of a direct, or indirect, pecuniary interest. Lay people often use it very loosely, for some mysterious reason, when trying to show that someone has a bias, or is partial. But, it a lot more than just that. One has to be able to profit.

Answers.com provides a good overview http://www.answers.com/conflict+of+interest&r=67 Maybe FHB could read it carefully and show us which definition applies.

And, every state has it's own definitions to help their elected lay people understand terms like conflict and unfairness. Here's some indepth reading, from my state (and most states have the same), for those interested in a clearer meaning.

SJ, Sandra Juarez. Is she married to John Dinzey?

Note: after I posted this I was unsure if I had read an earlier post correctly that SJ had been identified as Sandra. Doing a quick search I didn't find it so I edited my answer. Since my answer was already seen, I have replaced it.

No. But her husband is employed at 3ABN.

I think her husband's name is Henry Juarez. Isn't she working for Esperanza TV? I don't know what her husband is doing now. However, he was once a studio manager at 3ABN (I think).

According to this website, http://www.sandrajuarez.com/about.html, Sandra's husband's name is Henry, and yes, he was the studio manager at 3abn.

Thank you for the identification. It is more likely that you are right than I... and I shall scratch my comments to reflect your correction. And pose instead the question as to how she has ties to 3abn such that would have brought forth the comment about her "conflict of interest".

Thanks again.... .....

And thank you for this information and the link. It mentions this much but doesn't tell where he is now or if he is still working for 3abn.

s he still with 3abn? If so in what capacity. If not, how could past employment constitute a "conflict of nterest"?

Unfortunately, not only in this instance with me, but also with PrincessDi, PeacefullyBewildered, Watchbird, PrincessDrRe, Sonshineonme, Linda Shelton and now Sandra J. The genuine facts in regard to the pastoral department of 3ABN, as stated on their website under the heading Pastoral:

When he fights with such tenacity to uphold a "small" lie, in an attempt to discredit me, how much more is he willing to compromise the truth with a "big" lie, to discredit Linda Shelton and others?

I have to apologize to all of you about assuming that sister's mention of "Sandra J." and then FHB's post about a possible conflict of interest regarding SJ meant they were speaking of Sandra Juarez. She is the only Sandra J. that I was aware of who worked for 3abn.

Sorry. Admins, if this warrants a whipping, please show me where to stand.

Ok so, the SJ you are all referring is Sandra Juarez who used to be employed by 3ABN, who now works for another SDA network, but husband is still employed at 3ABN. Is that correct? FHB?

Also, is it my understanding FHB that you believe her to be posting here on BSDA. If so, you know the rules against trying to "out" people identities. You have yet to offer up yours. So this duscussion probably should not be happening right now. Looks too much like a form of imtimidation.

PDi,

am not sure why you would understand the bolded part above as I never said any such thing. If you eference the first post I made in regards to this I clearly stated an opinion that, "IF" she was posting here that would represent a conflict of interest. The idea being that she works for Ezperanza (sp?) and her husband works at 3ABN.

There is clearly no insinuation that I know she is and I am clearly not making a statement that she is. am not in violation of any polilcy against identifying anonymous posters.

That is exactly what he is saying. Because of this first and foremost being the internet, and all that is at stake wiwth these conversations, a lot of people use an ID that gives no clue to their name. At one time or another pretty much everyone has speculated as to the real names of some of the members, especially Sister, Bystander, HOTY and others coming forth with information. Admins have frown upon this pursuit, because of the right to privacy on the internet. FHB, has called himself 'outing" SJ. Yet and still, he has not been forthcoming about his real name. Once again this is not allowed.

Ok please forgive me FHB. > The first angels message outlines this clearly - the everlasting gospel will go to every "nation" (ethne = ethnic group), kindred, tongue, and people group. Jesus plainly stated that when this gospel is preached to "all nations (ethne = people groups) then the end will come. There are approximately 10,000 or so "people groups" yet to be reached by the everlasting gospel. Many of them exist in seemingly "unreachable" situations. There are approximately 7,000 major languages on earth - nearly 5,000 do not have a Bible in their own tongue. Surely God is going to have to perform some miracles to finish this work. 3ABN is not that miracle. The majority of these peoples will not be reached by contributing to Danny Shelton and gang, who will finish the work for us by proxy with their technology.

istening to "Behind the Scenes" on live 3abn tonight (Thurs), I was reminded of something you nentioned here earlier about taking the message to every "nation" (ethne = ethnic group), kindred, ongue, and people group. As DS held up a new contract (for new satellites around the world including ndia and China) one member of the panel (John L, Shelly Q, Moses ?, Danny, Brandy) mentioned that he braodcast does not reach these people in their own language. I hadn't thought of that when I nentioned what an expense satellite TV was, how few may actually be listening, and even fewer nderstanding. I think there may really be something to the method Christ endorsed--sending out his isciples in pairs.

xtra observation: Both DS and John L. were complaining about the rumors going around the nternet. So DS tried a new approach for donations; he told a story about a non-Adventist who ecame aware that some people were trying to destroy the network, and so this gentleman said ecause of this he felt obligated to send even more money. Maybe some of you feel the same. Are you villing to sacrifice? We're about 98% there reaching the whole world. John L assured the panel that hese people trying to destroy 3abn are really fighting against God, He related a passage in the Bible vhere God struck down the evil Ethiopians who were fighting Judah.

nd there sat DS with his new young wifey, talking about the 10 Commandments and how God oesn't want us committing adultry (that's right, he said it without blinking). Truely amazing. I await is next little sermon about signs of the end, "Marrying and Giving in Marriage"

Gailon,

You claim that Linda passed your truth test. Are you not aware that any one who is a polished liar will not wiggle or squirm when being questioned about their lies ... ?

...

She never wiggled or squirmed. She was almost convincing to me.

... I decided to go look in her car for any evidence to support the PI's claim that had not been mailed to me yet. Our car door was locked. Yes, I'm aware that she claims it was her car but I have proof that it is titled to both she and I even unto this day. ...

... at which point she yelled out, "I can't believe you broke into my car and got into my personal belongings! This is abuse!"

... This is not my proof for adultery. I'm only telling you why your truth test on her has Zero credibility as she is apparently in a different league than you ...

...

... She will sound believable. Gailon, I believe she would pass your honesty test without squirming or wiggling.

...

If you want to gamble that what I am telling you is a lie, then that is your business. ...

...

Linda is much harder to find out because she is so good a distorting the truth.

LaurenceD,
Was there a motivation obvious for that person to tell that the broadcasts to India, China, etc., were not reaching these people in their own languages? There is, of course, a huge move in China to learn English and many in India speak it as well, so there is a possibility that some in these countries will understand the progamming that is actually designed to share the gospel (and not just broadcast to recruit donors). It can bring souls to the truth, but it doesn't take the place of face-to-face evangelism.

One thing I learned right away around here, about a certain poster or two: If you allow for the possibility that just the opposite is true, it may explain a lot.

Yes, the motivation was for greater donations. Someone mentioned that if we could afford to broadcast in their own language, this would fulfill the prophecy that the final events will be rapid ones.

Some of us had to learn that 3 years ago. They even call it the Christian way to do things. The most amazing discovery I had to face back in 2004 was that their pastor, John Lomacang, spoke in terms where just the opposite was true. When even the pastor teaches this, is it any wonder they think it is the Christian way of doing things.

Johann, there has been mention of a book being written by Linda, and Sister mentioned it as a possibility for her as well. It occurrs to me that the story of the tragic situation of 3abn will at some point be picked up by a professional journalist who will see it as something that would have a potential for wider reader interest than just SDA church members and those close to the story. I'm not diminishing the importance of books by those who are close to, or involved in the story. I'm all for it. However, a journalist or other such writer who might undertake to write such a book would not necessarily be friendly towards the Seventh-day Adventist church. I think it would be a wise move to bring the 3abn situation to the attention of an professional writer with impeccable credentials for solid, honest non-fiction writing who would be interested in writing a book covering in a comprehensive way the whole saga. This should be someone who doesen't have a anti-religion or anti-Seventh-day Adventist agenda. Since this kind of writing usually takes a lot of time, it would be good for someone to begin thier research as soon as possible, even though the outcome is uncertain at this time.
Do you know if there has been any serious interest in such a project?

First of all, while books written by those who have been intimately involved will be valuable, they will not substitute for a truly objective and analytical book produced from objective research.

And yes.... there is already more than one such individual working with this in mind.

However, I think that we should not have so much fear of professional writers who are not Adventist as what you seem to convey. There were several such non-Adventist writers/researchers who wrote analytically of the Waco group.... and none of the ones that I read... or heard in seminar presentations.... put blame on the Adventist church for what happened there. In fact, if anything, Adventist writers were more hard on, and critical of, their own church than were more objective writers.

Remember The Road to Wellville? That was written by a non-Advent...a reporter who spent a couple of years just poking around Battle Creek. I got some new insights from that book. Prior to that (whether true or not), I had never considered the possibility that J.H.Kellogg's own adopted boy may have been the pyromaniac.

And what was the name of that book about EGW, written by a non-SDA? I think he became a convert from just doing the research.

[quote name='LaurenceD' date='Mar 15 2007, 10:35 PM' post='185622']
Listening to "Behind the Scenes" on live 3abn tonight (Thurs), I was reminded of something you mentioned here earlier about taking the message to every "nation" (ethne = ethnic group), kindred, tongue, and people group. As DS held up a new contract (for new satellites around the world including India and China) one member of the panel (John L, Shelly Q, Moses ?, Danny, Brandy) mentioned that the braodcast does not reach these people in their own language. I hadn't thought of that when I mentioned what an expense satellite TV was, how few may actually be listening, and even fewer understanding. I think there may really be something to the method Christ endorsed--sending out his disciples in pairs.

For many years the Adventist church praised it's world wide work from the context of being in almost all of the geographical countries on earth. The implication was that countries equaled the "nations" of the Bible and the work was almost finished. This is an erroneous assumption based on an imperfect translation. Likewise Matthew 28:19 says in the KJV "Go, teach..." Another unfortunately imperfect translation which should instead read, "Teach with the purpose of making disciples" or just, "Make disciples." When Christ said, "Go, make disciples of all people groups" I don't think he had television in mind. This is obviously a very personal, hands on, imperative. The disciples of the first century partially fulfilled this great co-mission. They didn't need satellite technology or even modern means of transportation to do so. Ellen White says that the world-wide advent movement of the 19th century was a partial fulfillment of the first angels message. Correct me if I'm wrong, but I don't think they had TV in 1844. They did have some people who were willing to "Go" like Joseph Wolfe etc. By the way, did you know that Joseph Wolfe was afflicted with a nervous condition that prevented him from riding animals, or being able to cook his own food; yet he traveled more than probably any man alive in his day? John Wesley was originally a bookworm who shunned the outdoors, yet when the Holy Spirit got ahold of him he traveled more on horseback than any man in British history. Did I forget to mention the partially blind, truely self-supporting apostle Paul and his missionary endeavors?

We know that God could use angels to finish this work, instead He has chosen to use people. Why? Just ask Frontier missionaries. They benefit as much in the salvation process as did those they were trying to disciple. It is an essential part of sanctification. You cannot experience this by watching TV all day and signing checks once in awhile. The right arm of the gospel is the health work, not just the health message. Missionaries must be out in the world applying the principles in a hands-on fashion to the afflicted. Otherwise it's not really the "Right Arm." In St. Francis words, "Preach the gospel, always preach the gospel. If necessary, use words."

Is it possible to disciple someone by television ministry alone? In rare instances. Oh, in case someone thinks I am dead against television ministry my wife was actually brought into the faith solely by the influence of "It is Written." Of course she had a Bible in her own language, and received much literature from IIW in her own language too. She walked into the Adventist church ready to be baptized, only to be told she had to take a series of Bible studies on subjects she had already fully integrated into her life! She and I are both convinced though, that one of the reasons God used this ministry was because Adventists in her community probably weren't doing their job. She actually had a visit from a colporteur who wrote her off as a hopeless case because she wouldn't buy books on Sunday and never spoke to her about the 4th commandment.

Ever since the first international congress on world evangelism at Lausanne Switzerland in 1974, evangelical Christians of all types have concluded that the final fulfillment of the great commission involves reaching the unreached people groups of the world. Missiologists of all types agree that the only conceivable way of making this happen presently is to raise up indigenous churches in the midst of these people groups. Churches that become strong enough to begin multiplying through missionary activities of their own. The way this ordinarily happens is for cross-cultural missionaries to "go" to these peoples and "incarnate" into their culture bringing them the gospel in the flesh, not via satellite dish. Native missionaries from neighboring cultures are far more cost effective than sending American missionaries from across the world - though some peoples respond better to this approach.

The bottom line is this - "World-wide" television satellite ministry is a very expensive and often ineffective "shotgun" endeavor that appears to be drawing millions of dollars away from where our emphasis should really be in these last days. The major monetary appeals and goals espoused by 3ABN of "reaching the world" represent a grandiose at best - or even a false foundation to their entire ministry.

This is along the lines of what skyhook's post brought to my mind. Readers who desire truth will launch into research for themselves, those just interested in a juicy scandal will find their food as well.

One further thought from this week's teacher's lesson:
"So it is through personal contact and association that men are reached by the saving power of the gospel... Personal influence is a power." - PK p.232

No, no visitors here. Any visitors there?

Posted by: Pickle Mar 24 2007, 07:13 PM

Had a visitor at church today, and plenty of geese flying overhead, but that's it.

How about you, wwjd?

Posted by: Pickle Mar 25 2007, 08:35 AM

I have a hunch that wwjd was referring to Federal Marshals coming by my home to serve me papers. If they stop by around lunchtime tomorrow I'll see if they can stay for a bite to eat.

Paul was emphatic: "By the law is the knowledge of sin," and "Shall we continue in sin ... ? God forbid." That right there should tell us that Paul kept the Sabbath and taught others so.

Those that do the works of the flesh ain't going anywhere. The fruit of the Spirit, "against such there is no law." Therefore, what keeps those who do the works of the flesh out of glory is clearly the law.

"Let no man judge you." He never said God wouldn't judge us. He didn't say, "Let not God judge you." And in vs. 14 of Col. 2, he said, "Blotting out the handwriting ... nailing it." The 10 aren't handwriting. They're finger writing. You can't blot them out with a wet sponge or erase them with an eraser.

And even if you use a railroad spike and a sledgehammer, you ain't goin' nail them. The best you can do is break them if you dare try to nail them to the cross.

Makes a great sermon illustration when giving the 3 angels' messages. Start with a small hammer and small nails, and as your volunteer bends one nail after another, hand them larger nails and larger hammers.

The only problem might be, if you take it "on the road," is that the U.S. Border official may ask you why you're carrying a sledgehammer in your van on your return home from Canada. But just explain it all, and then later you can tell folks how you gave a Bible study on Col. 2:14-16 to the Border guard.

"I have a hunch that wwjd was referring to Federal Marshals coming by my home to serve me papers. If they stop by around lunchtime tomorrow I'll see if they can stay for a bite to eat."

Polycarp invited the soldiers who came to take him away to execution to stay and have a meal and rest awhile before they left with him. While they were eating he prayed for every Christian he knew in the empire - so the story goes.
Sorry to hear you may be served Bob. Keep us posted (no pun intended). We'll be praying for you all.

We see those "threats" are still floating around hmmm. We have heard, the proof is in the pudding.

Have you seen the quotes from the Apostolic Consitutions given on http://www.pickle-publishing.com/papers/sunday-fraud.htm? Check under the Didache quotes.

I'm not sure when the word "papacy" was coined or when the bishop of Rome started being called "pope."

I think it a mistake if we concentrate on temporal power when stating what happened in 1798. The supremacy has to do with power over the conscience and over all pastors rather than temporal power. I am unaware of any kingly power that the papacy exercised in spiritual matters after the pope's capture in 1798.

Dan. 7:25 predicted that the little horn would think it had changed the times and laws. Just worshiping on Sunday instead of Saturday would not qualify as the specified change. There has to be a belief in a change in the 4th commandment itself to qualify.

> QUOTE
>
> Senate considers sex abuse bill
>
> By Melissa Paulik
>
> A bill was introduced in the Illinois State Senate recently that if passed would allow any adult survivor of childhood sexual abuse to sue their abuser within a set period of time. If the bill is passed, Illinois would be the second state in the country to create such a law.
>
> Senate Bill 1733, which was introduced Feb. 9, would amend the Code of Civil Procedure in Illinois and would create a two-year "window for litigation" that would exceed the current civil statute of limitations for the crime.
>
> At this time, the statute of limitations for adult survivors of childhood sexual abuse to sue their abuser is within five years of discovering the abuse or by the age of 28, whichever is later.
>
> A similar bill was passed in the California Assembly in 2002. In 2003, regardless of when the abuse occurred, adult victims could sue their abusers despite the statute of limitations having already passed, said Barbara Blaine, president of the Survivors Network of those Abused by Priests.
>
> SNAP is a nation-wide, volunteer, self-help organization whose goals are to end the cycle of clergy abuse and to support victims and their families.
>
> SNAP and a non-profit corporation, Illinois Coalition against Sexual Assaults, helped draft the bill. ICASA is a group that receives funding from the state government with centers throughout the state. ICASA's goals are to assist survivors of sexual assaults and end sexual violence.
>
> When California passed the bill in 2002, the main opponent was the Catholic Church, said Blaine. Polly Poskin, the Executive Director of ICASA, said the same will most likely be true in Illinois. The Chicago Catholic Archdiocese and the Catholic Conference of Illinois declined to comment on the bill.
>
> Sen. Terry Link (D-30th) from Lake Bluff, who is the sponsor of the bill, also said the Archdiocese may have a problem with the legislation but he "hopes they will see the wisdom of the bill." The main purpose of the bill is to give the victims the justice they deserve and to "get back to finding out where the truth lies," said Link.
>
> When the legislation was proposed in California, the Catholic Conference of California "spent large amounts of money and engaged in unbelievable tactics," said Blaine.
>
> Certain arguments are expected from the Catholic Church in Illinois after her experience in California, said Blaine. Some of their rationales were the bill is unconstitutional, it would bankrupt the church, the group of victims is too small and trial lawyers will exploit victims trying to make more money, said Blaine.
> "What's sad is that you think that a church organization would want to protect children and instead > they put their energy into protecting child molesters and those who enable them," said Blaine. ?The bill was sent to the Senate Rules Committee, which is chaired by Sen. Debbie Halvorson (D-40th) from Chicago Heights. Blaine expects the bill will soon be sent to the Judiciary Committee for further discussion. Link has not had the opportunity to speak with other senators concerning the bill but said there is a good chance of passage.

>
> Similar legislation is pending in other states such as Minnesota, Maine and Wisconsin and the Colorado General Assembly is expected to introduce a similar bill next year, said Blaine.

I totally agree. I know it's not easy to bring things out, but in light of the pain it causes to keep things hidden, wouldn't you think that they would want healing to start for those that have been cast aside as less important then a leader or an organization that violated them?? What kind of a "religion" is that?

I would like to see this pass. It needs to pass.

BlackSDA _ 3ABN _ This Should Not Be News - Continuation

Posted by: calvin Jul 15 2004, 09:07 PM

Hi, my name is Danny Shelton and I work for 3ABN. It's not a credit your Black SDA that it appears to be nothing more than a tabloid gossip page.
Not one of the people that I could see commenting have even attempted to contact me, that I know of, about all the things they are judging me of.
You do have some people in the "know" that you could find out some info from if it means that much to you. Pastor John Lomacang has spent many hours counseling with Linda and me and even made some recommendations to the board about our situation which the 3ABN board took very seriously.
As of late Pastor Mark Finley has counseled with both Linda and Me. He agrees with the decision the board has taken on this issue and so does Pastor John. Several others have also counseled us and all agree with the board's action.
Paula and Curtis have indeed been back to do more programming without me or Linda. Their program stands on it's own.
No one has been hurt like Linda and me have been through this whole situation. We still love each other and spend considerable time together.
This situation at 3ABN cannot be judged by onlookers as though you have the truth. Much of this is so personal you will probably never know what has really happened.
We encourage people not to take sides, except to support the work of God on this earth.
If 3ABN is of God it will continue to bring about good fruit.
If it is of Satan it will bring about bad fruit. You be the judge.
Please continue to pray for both Linda and me as we both want 3ABN to succeed in taking the gospel to the world.
Thanks for listening

Thanks Calvin for sharing the letter. I would submit to Mr. Shelton that in the absence of information, people of all colors will fill in the blanks.... Go check out VOAF and see what was said there....If he didn't want to share their personal business, then they should have handled it maturely on 3ABN when the rift occurred, not mysteriously have Linda disappear and not mention anything....

As for his opinion of what BSDA is, how would he know since he has not fellowshipped with us?

Ok, so did we, can we answer Danny? We got what information from another site, I personally knew nothing about it.

Probably, because I don't know all of the facts, and should not, I still believe there was a better way to handle things, but that is just me.

Just curious. How did he find out about us, and did he write the other SDA sites who had something to say? Did he completely miss the part about us agreeing that they both needed our prayers? Just asking.

Posted by: calvin Jul 16 2004, 01:49 AM

I sent a personal reply to him. But you can reply by stating your opinion here like we do with any other subject. Danny has been lurking here and probably will continue to do so or some other lurkers will get the message to him.

This ordeal is obviously very painful for him. As he said it is personal and we will never know all the facts. The fact of the matter are not important to me. Let's just keep them and the 3ABN ministry in our prayers.

I have no way of knowing why he chose to vent to me, or if he has done so on other boards and mailing lists.

Posted by: HUGGINS130 Jul 16 2004, 05:01 AM

They aired it, but let me just say this, we all sin and fall short of the glory of God!
Jesus told the jews to cast the first stone, and 3abn did, and that is all I have to say.

You know Calvin this is another unfortunate situation where we have been attacked and if I am not mistaking we have the freedom of speech in this country. Something was put out there for discussion we did that, and we are looked upon as being gossipers. Now that is just not right. Just like Priness Di said, you had some of us here "SAYING PRAY FOR LINDA AND DANNY!" I do admit that there are things here that may seem like we think all of this was/is a joke but contrary to popular belief in some way I think all people here are saddened about this unfortunate situation.

A lot of times we as humans take circumstances and try to make the best out of them, and the returning back to TBN jokes if that offened anyone I apologize, but it was out of pure fun. Nothing to be taken personal.

I offer a sincere apology to anyone at 3abn that might have taken any of this too personal, but all we are doing here is discussing things pertinent to the SDA Worldwide church, from a point of view from people of color!

As your statement says Calvin, this isn't an official Church website, and you are not liable to answer to any of these charges about gossip or slander!

God bless you, for all you do I know you mean very very well, and I am sorry if I caused you any hardships due to my post!

Paradise, no offense taken or apology needed on behalf of me. You summarized much of my email response to him. BSDA is a public open discussion board. We don't have any sacred cow subjects that are untouchable related to the Seventh-day Adventist church. Danny and Linda Shelton are public figures in the church and their ministry in 3ABN is well known. That puts them in play for discussion.

I did not address his charge of BSDA be a tabloid gossip column. I will address it now. There is often a thin line between gossip and information sharing in our discussions, and no doubt we cross that line at times. But BSDA is much more than tabloid gossip as he described us. This board is a mere reflection of your local church and the church at large. We have sinners here of all kind, all trying to make it to the kingdom.

What Danny may have failed to realize is that much of the discussion here and I suspect on other Adventist message boards, as well around the dinner table on Sabbath afternoons is in genuine interest for his ministry, some of whom have a financial interest (black people contribute to 3ABN too) and for them. As Di mentioned, many committed to pray for them and requested others to pray. But I can understand that when someone is hurting, they tend to see what they want to see.

Even beyond this, when things do go beyond the bounds of propriety, this board, more than any other I've been a part of, can and does police itself without regard for who it is that needs to be rebuked...and if Danny Shelton lurks here alot, then he should have noticed that by now.

As I've said before, those who view this list negatively need to see the other unmoderated/quasi-moderated Adventist lists to get some perspective. Other lists have been far more speculative about the nature of the issues which the Sheltons are dealing with and far more vitriolic towards him, her or both of them... Most of the speculation here has centered around the action of the 3ABN organization and the possible motives behind said action, not around the personal issues of Danny and Linda Shelton. It appears to me Bro. Shelton is trying to spin this so he comes out blameless, by any means necessary... and having achieved a degree of influence through the 3ABN ministry he has lost sight of the fact that neither this list nor the opinions of those who frequent it are subject to his whim...also lost on him is the fact that he has been given a substantially fairer shake here than most other places.

I continue to pray for the Sheltons and the 3ABN ministry... and I continue to pray for you, Calvin, and for the ministry you have here.

DB, I think you missed the point of this one. Steve was saying with 3ABN putting out only a bare minimum of information, most people, of all colors, will fill in the blanks or at least speculate about the rest of the facts.

I totally understand, Calvin. Last night I read those other site, plus Linda letter. Those other sight said things far worse than we did. Our main focus was the handling of the situation. My jaw dropped at some of the stuff I read on the other sites. I had no idea it was that bad.

Posted by: investigator Jul 16 2004, 09:52 AM

I have to agree with Calvin's post of today. I also believe that both Shelton's have been hurting, but it is information that has been put out there. Why can't it be discussed? Some of the things that are on ClubAdventist.com are about church matters and names are used and the issues are discussed more explicitly than here. I believe instead of attacking the website responses, Danny Shelton should continue to work on his situation. I sense that he is angry and lashing out and it is understandable because he is hurting.

Oh boy! I just read these sites and it seems to be so much anger and hatred there. And Shelton formed his mouth to say that BSDA is a tabloid/gossip site? He's got to be kidding!! The prayers that leave BSDA on their behalf just may be the prayers that keep 3ABN afloat! The other sites are indeed ripping them apart and definitely are not discreet in calling names. Ok, something is very wrong with this man's letter. First of all, he says this is a tabloid site, whatever that means. Nobody gossips on here...well, at least that's not the main focus of this site. If he'd paid attention to the threads, he'd have known that. Secondly, he seems upset over the fact that no one attempted to get the story from the horse's mouth, yet he offered no explanation or details of the situation in his letter. And finally, as I mentioned in another thread, 3ABN isn't spreading the gospel to "all the world." I'd like to see a network of some sort where everyone can have access, not just a few Adventists who subscribe to it.

Shelton's missive was nothing more than a rallying call for all of his supporters. They have a problem with us when we call them out! (by their right name). But, I'll keep my membership (and take my chances) in the conferences of us gossipers 'til Jesus comes.

If he spent as much time with Linda as he did while with BSDA, maybe she wouldn't have gotten her veggie-stella on.

Oh Dannyeee Boi ! Come to think about it, maybe a separate gossip channel wouldn't be all bad. Since all will know up front that it's all lies, nobody feelings ought to be hurt.

Posted by: pmorris68 Jul 18 2004, 10:19 PM

I have been resisiting posting anything about this. Now let me say this. I appauld the fact that the Chairman of 3ABN even went through the trouble to creating a committee to find the facts in this situation and unbiasley got other peoples opinion before doing what they did. But Danny and Linda Shelton have become public figures in our church. And he just needs to accept that fact and move on. Regardless of what has transpired between them, it needed to stay between them. But because she put it out there, well there you go. So now they have got to deal with the talking and conversations about it.

That is life!! NO matter what color you are pain is pain. And for their pain I pray God will comfort. But let's not forget this was self inflicted pain. Now MR. Shelton may not have intended this all to go down the way it has. But it has. So now the best thing for him to do is to pray and let it go and move on. While I understand no one's life is perfect if it were we would all be in heaven by now. We totally understand that in this world divorce is a ugly reality. But he needs to focus on healing and not lashing out at folks who are commenting on his life. He is only making it worse. That's my 2 cents.

Hi Family--Ted and I took a trip to Orlando this past weekend, and decided to visit the Patmos church. 3ABN was also at Patmos taping Sabbath services for their "On the Road" tour. Patmos' choir and the fellowship was awesome and we look forward to returning.

Now--Danny Shelton was the speaker of the hour, of course. His comments throughout the course of his presentation were interesting, to say the very least. After the choir sang, his comment was "y'all are serious about singing here"... Then after some rambling, he compared his coming to Patmos with his going to New York. He mentioned that a friend told him that whenever he saw a lot of Black people, don't be intimidated, just look them in the eye and say "what choo lookin' at?"...When in the program it was time for the offering, he made another comment saying, "in the Black churches, you say "lift the tithes"...

Many "Black" comments were made. IMHO, all were unnecessary. Were these supposed to be terms of endearment? When we visit "their" churches, should we make lots of "white" comments? Maybe this was his way of breaking the ice.

Many waited with baited breath for the sermon. Mr. Shelton based his sermon on Nehemiah's building of the wall--and not coming off that wall to defend his actions. Mr. Shelton equated Nehemiah with himself--and how he will not come off the wall to defend his actions re:3ABN and accusations made against him. Mr. Shelton pretty much ranted about silly women being led astray, lust, how tv and internet has entered the home, infidelity among women, how innocent conversation leads to destruction, Adventist chat rooms and rumors abounding and how folks are writing about him. That was the sermon.

I'm sure everyone in the room felt what he was alluding to and ranting about. I'm sure some of you may have seen the taping. I took notes, as I sometimes do in order to recall what the sermon was about.

Anyway, after services, I felt an obligation to talk with Mr. Shelton. I offered up a prayer so that my words would not cross my lips, but that the Holy Spirit would guide my tongue. I shook his hand, told him that I'm a member of BlackSDA, and let him know that the members of BlackSDA are strong Christians. I also told him that BlackSDA is in no way a gossip/tabloid column and his letter saying that we were was highly offensive. I also told him that the members of BlackSDA are continuing to lift him AND Linda and 3ABN up in prayer, and that if anyone is keeping 3ABN afloat, it is the prayers of BlackSDA. I didn't let his hand go or stop looking him in his eyes until he heard. He did say many times "I appreciate that".

If Mr. Shelton is lurking this site, I'm sure he will confirm all that I've said here.

Posted by: TedOdell Jul 27 2004, 08:11 PM

yep...that's what happened alright TED WUZ THERE!

Posted by: princessdi Jul 27 2004, 08:32 PM

You know, I had never even heard of Danny Shelton or Lida until this unfortunate situation. My first impression remains the same. They should have handled this a lot better, and he should preach when asked and refrain from causing more confusion. What MizRobby just relayed does not sound at al like the man who posted here with such righteous indignation. If people are talking about him, then it is this type of behavior exhibited by him and the board of 3ABN who fuel the fire.

Posted by: tarduke Jul 28 2004, 06:56 AM

Mzrobby I saw the braodcast of the Patmos service and can confirm some of what you report. The "black" comments were just plain stupid, I think. As soon as Danny started his talk on Nehemiah and I realized he was trying to use the Word I got turnned off.

Posted by: mizrobby Jul 28 2004, 07:43 AM

The comments were indeed uncalled for and ignorant, to say the very least. It showed the great divide--our church and your church. This is what you do and this is what we do. I think what bothered me the most is that persons laughed at the comments in order to placate him or make him feel more comfortable. God's love, grace and compassion was not brought out or emphasized. Only frustration and anger.

Has anyone had a speaking engagement at a "white" church? Do you feel compelled to make Black/White comments to break the ice?

But as I let Mr. Shelton know, BlackSDA members are praying for them--it's obvious that prayer is needed.

Welcome, Tarduke!

In the early nineties I preached at a white church in Tallahasse, FL. My topic was "Are You Black Enough?" That was my only reference to color.

Posted by: mizrobby Jul 28 2004, 08:46 AM

Darius--How were you received? What was your message behind the title? Sounds powerfully intriguing...

Posted by: statrei Jul 28 2004, 09:26 AM

When I announced the subject there was some visible shifting in the seats. But they stayed long enough to get the message. My text was from Jeremiah concerning the brand plucked from the burning. My thesis was that it was not enough to be singed by the heat from the Holy Spirit; we need to be burned by the Spirit. We need to be black enough. It was a good sermon, even if I say so myself.

Posted by: investigator Jul 28 2004, 01:49 PM

I saw the broadcast on Sabbath as I was getting ready to go to sabbath school.
I kept waiting for him to get into his sermon and waited quite a while before realizing that the sermon was all about him. The looks on the members faces told me some were bored, some had a wondering look and some were intently listening to what he was saying. I thought some of the comments were inappropriate for divine worship, but I believed he used the platform he was given to get some things off his chest. He said with the Lord's help he will not talk about this anymore. Let's hope that he sticks to his word. I just think he does not know a lot (any) of black people and he just does not know what to say. Perhaps someone in his area can become his friend and help him. It might just be me, but 3ABN is now kinda boring.

I'm still praying for him because he comes across as a awfully hurting person.

This is why there will always be a separation as far as black and white conferences are concerned. And some people wonder why we still need them!

In most cases, when a person has been employed with an organization for 19 years or more, and a highly visible part of the organization, they are not sent off with a tersely worded "Statement Regarding Jane Doe."

Corporate America does not operate that way. Not ever.

Official, Corporate Statements usually look something like this.

(The following is a press release I wrote, myself. One like this should have gone out, instead of their Web-based, unsophisticated and unrefined statement.)

Three Angels Broadcasting Network, Inc.

For Immediate Release,

May 19, 2004

After nearly 20 years with Three Angels Broadcasting Network, Linda Shelton will be leaving to pursue other, important interests as a well-deserved break from her daily routine.

Those of us here at the network will greatly miss the energy, drive, commitment, and dedication that Linda put into every project or assignment on which she worked. She will be greatly missed by both the staff and network viewers around the world who have grown to know her.

We wish her the very best as she seeks new interests away from the network. Until her return, if ever, 3ABN will be in the capable hands of Danny Shelton, Mollie Steenson, Dee Hilderbrand, Robert Russell, Moses Primo, and the 3ABN team.

---30---

Therefore, my point is that I really don't need to know the ins and outs of the Linda Shelton story to know that properly worded press releases are not tersely written "Statements." And they're not called "Statements." Unless you're under oath and testifying to Congress.

Even a casual reader will see that this was not an appropriate way to terminate a long-term employee. It was embarrassing, humiliating, and degrading to the human spirit. It lacked basic compassion for the person involved and was not Christian in any sense of the word.

I agree with Billy Graham on this point: You don't have to kill someone to commit murder. All you have to do is ruin their reputation and make them unusable for the task God has prepared them to do.

Welcome Panama Pete, to BlackSDA!!! My name is Diane I am from Northern California(which is why I am still up). Continue to enjoy the site!

now to the topic. You would send out a press release such as you have written, if you really felt that way. If you didn't want to hurt or embarrass or just out right destroy the person, but when is is your intention to hurt, embarrass ans destroy......then you have the situation we now see.

But as I said, I need to do some research.

I do not understand what you mean by "grouping everyone."

Three Angels Broadcasting Network, Inc., is a corporate entity. It exists completely and separately, by itself, as an Illinois corporation.

There is no "everyone."

I'm also curious to know what kind of "research" you mean.

In most corporations the Prez is not married to the VP. Also, 3ABN is not a corporation. It is a non profit, self supporting christian organization and ministry. Big difference.

When you step inside the front door of 3ABN, you'll see a plaque on the wall from the local Chamber of Commerce with the name "Three Angels Broadcasting Network, Inc." engraved on it.

It's a corporation. That's what the "inc" means. Non-profit status simply refers to its 501 C (3) identity with the Internal Revenue Service.

Secondly, it's a media corporation, as is the Washington Post, which also owns Newsweek and Cable One.

Katherine Meyer Graham took over the presidency of the Washington Post empire when her husband, Phil Graham, died.

So, husbands and wives have been involved in the media in the past, and they will continue to be involved in the media in the future.

Other examples of husbands and wives are:

Paul and Jan Crouch, Trinity Broadcasting Network
Marcus and Joni Lamb, Daystar Television Network
Garth and Tina Coonce, TCT Christian

And syndicated media:

Jack and Rexella Van Impe: "Jack Van Impe Presents"
James and Betty Robison: "Life Outreach International"
Dave and Joyce Meyer: "Joyce Meyer Ministries"
Creflo and Taffy Dollar: "World Changers Ministry"
James and Shirley Dobson: "Focus on the Family"

And of course - last, but certainly not least:

Curtis and Paula Eakins: "Health Seminars, Unlimited, Inc."

And their recipes include stuff Black folk can actually eat! I always wondered if they were related to our boss on BlackSDA.

Panama Pete, I agree with you immensely. Because case in point happened recently with a telecom company here. The CEO was removed (private word is for questionable reasons) but the press release made out that he was getting a promotion.

Are the non-christian corporate entities more compassionate in their relation to others than us SDAs? And although I have seen correspondence from Linda Shelton to the effect that she and Danny are divorced, he continues on 3ABN as if nothing has happened. What example are we setting to others? Are we SDAs for real? Did these 3ABN actions really represent the creator? And if not, isn't a public apology in order?

Thank you Panama Pete for showing that there is a better way.

posted July 29, 2004 09:33 Message What happened at 3ABN?

THE STORY OF LINDA SHELTON

By Johann Thorvaldsson

Former 3ABN liaison for Europe It is a fact that Linda Shelton has been fired - and Danny Shelton has told his version of events to the World audience. He warned us not to listen to rumors, so what are the facts of this heart-breaking experience? Unfortunately Linda Shelton has been judged and dismissed from the establishment she loved and helped build up - on the basis of rumors. Facts that have been twisted, embroidered and presented as real. This is quite a complicated matter. A few weeks ago I was in Southern Illinois, wanting to attend the camp meeting at 3ABN, together with a Norwegian medical doctor - the one Linda has been accused of committing spiritual adultery with. We went there in an attempt to clear up misunderstandings, all caused because my wife and I introduced this doctor to Danny and Linda Shelton. This doctor is also the head elder of the most flourishing conservative SDA church in Norway - and has for several years been a financial supporter of 3ABN. Some of the problems were caused because the 3ABN archives had misspelled the name of this supporter, so Danny was convinced he was an impostor. Later Danny has named him a devil, a demon, or evil spirit, or bad counselor - like he did during the transmission to the whole world on Thursday evening at Camp Meeting. Also during that meeting we were requested to leave the premises of 3ABN, and if we ever showed up again at the meetings the police would be requested to remove us as trespassing private property - and this at meetings where all are invited.

What is our crime? While my wife, Irmgard, and I were staying at 3ABN in December 2003, this doctor came to visit us, both to check Irmgard's illness and to see the studios of the ministry he was supporting and was a great fan of. Linda came to see us, and later she brought her son along, who had problems with drugs and related things. Nathan had been reluctant to see any other doctor, but a lasting friendship between the doctor and this young man was kindled. Many of his patients are young athletes, so he is used todealing with young people. The doctor invited Nathan to come and stay in Norway and receive treatments at his clinic for a month. Nathan brought his girlfriend along, and later Linda and Brenda Walsh spent 3 days there to check on things - and I had a visit with them too while they were there. At that time Nathan had merely been there for 10 days, and I did not recognize him when I saw him. He was a completely transformed person.

So after Linda returned to the States she'd call to find out how it was going with her son. Danny told me himself that he considered that if a married woman talks for more than 10 or 12 minutes with another man on the phone she'd be committing spiritual adultery - so these phone calls first branded Linda as an adulteress. And from there the ball has kept rolling with more and more accusations. Mark Finlay was willing to assist in coming to an understanding, but his offer was unacceptable to the 3ABN lawyer. Both the lawyer and the pastor urged me to stay out of this case and not support Linda. They claimed I'd soon be left out in the cold with no friends at all if I'd continue supporting Linda in her plight.

Can you imagine our Lord Jesus Christ telling me not to come to the aid of this frail woman because I'd be left out in the cold without friends? I have never heard such a statement before coming from people who are supposed to be the spiritual leaders of this great ministry. Is it any wonder that the support of 3ABN is dwindling?

With such men at the helm who make it their business and main concern to condemn Linda, is it any wonder that Linda seeks the support of her close friends - and also calls the doctor who was so kind to her son? Of course it might have avoided some misunderstandings and confusions if that doctor had been a woman. But what does the Apostle tell us? "There is neither Jew nor Greek, there is neither bond nor free, there is neither male nor female: for ye are all one in Christ Jesus." Those two people have been branded before the whole world as adulterers, and you name it. I never dreamt such atrocities could take place at my favorite ministry, 3ABN

Now the woes of Linda Shelton are not hers alone any more. I was fired too, because I supported Linda. Officially it was because I refused to obey orders from my superiors at 3ABN. But I am fortunate that I get my sustentation from the church where I started my ministry more than 50 years ago. Even though I love the ministry of 3ABN, I serve the God of heaven and the God of Truth. Derrell Mundall, the father of Danny Shelton's grandchildren, who has served 3ABN faithfully for many years, has also been fired. What is his crime? He was too close and he knows the truth, and shared his knowledge with others. He supports Linda. He had no other employment when he was dismissed from 3ABN, so pray that he may soon find another fruitful ministry where he can use his talents. He chose truth instead of a steady employment, as so many other believers have done in the past. Before Derrell was fired he was told that he must remember it was Danny who received the vision from God to build this TV station. Therefore, he was told, he must regard the words of Danny Shelton as being the words of God. Long before Linda's dismissal, Dr. Kay Kuzma was assigned to help Linda manage after being fired. She was also supposed to interview staff members to find a good reason to fire her, so one wonders what really is behind this upheaval?

Danny mentioned a number of counselors who had helped the board come to the conclusion that she should be dismissed. You can ask Linda, but I don't think she ever talked to most of those counselors. In fact even before her dismissal she felt treated like a criminal when she approached the premises of 3ABN and was not permitted to enter without close supervision. The present general staff at 3ABN is probably not permitted to ask Linda any question. If anyone wants a contact to keep up their close friendship with Linda they have to write their note on a postcard, submit it to the leaders who will forward it to Linda. Such are the present premises of this woman whose ministry has meant so much to thousands of viewers, and who will not see her any more on the screen - as long as the present leadership has it their way.

Pray for 3ABN. Pray for justice. Pray for justice also for Linda.
Miracles still take place.
Christian regards

Steve Claborn (Clay)

What happened to "mending broken people?" What does publicly humiliating someone through the media, websites and letters have to do with mending broken people? 3ABN should be ashamed of themselves. If Linda was 100% guilty of all that is being insinuated about her, the reponse should be quite different. When Joseph found out Mary was pregnant he decided to "put her away quietly." There's something wrong with this picture...especially as Linda herself proclaims her innocence on her website. I think the 3ABN Board should take another look at how their leaders have responded to this situation.

I really liked that song. I don't hear it anymore on 3ABN.

I have to agree with you that this thing has not been handled properly by 3abn. My greatest concern is that any opportunity for Danny and Linda to even thinking of being reconciled was seriously frittered away by the dribbling of details about alleged infidelities and trying to make Linda out to be some kind of knucklehead.

The answer is simple. As Adventists we are more interested in saving face than in saving people. The results are often horrific (witness Waco and now 3ABN).

God forbid that 3ABN implodes (as some think it still might) and the media get involved (as is likely if the God forbidden happens), I can see the script already being written. "This was never an officially sanctioned ministry." Plausible deniability will rule the day.

Posted by: Jvat Aug 27 2004, 08:24 AM

If the conservative SDAs are true to form, the GC will pretend no real involvement in 3ABN but if the support for 3ABN shown at the ASI Convention is to be believed, they may just continue to give them support, even though the fat hits the fan. Because at this Convention, the president of the NAD, Don Scheider, was there endorsing 3ABN publicly for their tremendous work in winning souls. Danny was so moved that he was visibly in tears. That was played over last night on 3ABN today.

Just read the entire thread....is the verdict here then that the 3ABN administration wanted to separate Linda from 3ABN because she talked to another man outside of her husband for 10-15 minutes on the phone?

Does the SDA church acknowledge spiritual adultery as being grounds for divorce--and is it even defined? Outside of this "context" I am not aware of it being used.

Since they are "public figures", did they even have grounds to be married to each other in the first place (as it was a second marriage for both)?

Secondly, he seems upset over the fact that no one attempted to get the story from the horse's mouth, yet he offered no explanation or details of the situation in his letter. And finally, as I mentioned in another thread, 3ABN isn't spreading the gospel to "all the world." I'd like to see a network of some sort where everyone can have access, not just a few Adventists who subscribe to it.

Spiritual Adultery. Hmm. I thought that was only possible against God. Now, adultery in different forms in which love is lost and other symptoms are exhibited, I've heard of as a cause for divorce in Adventism....but not "spiritual' adultery.

Posted by: PrincessDrRe Mar 18 2006, 11:45 AM

Counselors would say that when a man "pushes" that his wife or girlfriend is "cheating" w/o actual "proof" - normally; he himself has issues with being unfaithful....

Now I am begining to wonder....

Posted by: princessdi Mar 18 2006, 12:55 PM

Actually, the term "spiritual adultery" was only used in my experience by preachers to described the behavior of the COI when they would waunder after to gods of the other nations. Then, of course, they would be overrun, taken into captivity, cry out to God, know the drill.

It is very disturbing(not to mention extremely arrogant) that Danny would employ this term. For one, it says that he had no real proof, Secondly, I don't know much about Linda, but she could be of Jewish birth, but I know that Danny is not God or even a god.

But then, again, I know pastors who have accused their wives of much worse to "save" their own careers. One woman I know is still fighting the false accusations. Church folks wouls rather believe the lie.

Now, you are getting the pernt!

She maybe thinking more about the ministry that he is. Sometimes things like this are a form of emotional abuse. If she perceives everyone, who really matters, is going to side with him, and he can prove it(which really is in the case), then she may not feel it is worth telling her side.

She didn't even immediately retain counsel for herself, or fight the legitimacy of this quickie divorce. I think it was because of the actions of the 3ABN board and the continued support of GC, without question or investigation into the situation. That can be pretty disheartening and discouraging. He is the one who needed the quickie divorce, that is more suspect to me than anything she maybe hiding. In fact, the reason she is saying nothing is because of the gag order forced upon her by him. I am sure she would have a whole lot more to say.

f she does understand the concept - then SHE ALREADY KNOWS that her new "husband" is the only nan in her life. PERIOD. SHE ALREADY KNOWS she cannot accept calls from any man (brother in he church, doctor, boss, Father, cousin) without her husband present. SHE ALREADY KNOWS she lefinately cannot travel anywhere over 10 miles without said husband.

Iow will this affect her spirituality? If she is not "grounded" in her faith/belief/love of GOD/CHRIST she vill leave the church at the first inkling of "mess" like Linda - or other women (that we do/don't know ıbout) have suffered....

Even if Danny wakes up in the middle of the night and decides that he was wrong and wants Linda back, he can't go back according to our interpretation of the Scriptures. Is that still binding? You can't go back....you just have to follow David, marry Bathsheba and continue forward with repentence and humility.

Whoooooooo....

and THAT would be another whole heap o' mess.....

What if he did wake up and realize - "I was sooo wrong...."

Then he done messed with another woman's life, the life of her children, and .....um.....whooo....

I can't even wrap me head around dis one heyah!

Will she be allowed to work anywhere but in his presence? How about the first wife, did she work with her husband? Ride into work with him, ride home with him. Eat out only if he is with you, and you better not try to tip the waiter. My observation is this sounds more and more like a jailer.

Only if the widow/widower had a hand in their spouse's demise... no, not much honor in that at all...

But if the spouse dies from illness or gets hit by a train, struck by lightning, eaten by crocodiles or whatever... their time was just up...not a matter of honorable or dishonorable per se; dead is dead.

I think Kevin was close to what I was thinking. The experience of being a widow for all those years taught me a lot about people's reactions and philosophy. Oh, Priscilla you're FREEEE to remarry, they would coo. You're a widow. No one ever asked me if I dun 'im in. No one ever asked me if I was a such a wonderful wife, that the poor man didn't mind dying and wouldn't make a good wife for anyone ever. Are the living spouses dripping in gold? I was baptized in perfection. If my present hubby steps out of line or our marriage has problems, they KNOW it ain't my fault...cause I was a widow! I noticed that when it was mentioned that Danny was a widower, I was wondering exactly what does that prove?

It proves nothing because it's not relevant to the mess he currently finds himself in... a mess of his own devising, BTW. He gets no sympathy for being a widower because he is now 2 marriages removed from that experience and the woman he married after his first wife died, he has divorced for what are spurious reasons at best.

I cant speak to how your marriage was to your first husband; I do know that we are rarely either as good or as bad as our publicity or the perceptions and presumptions of others make us out to be... as for the widow/widower being draped in "perfection"... the circumstances under which you became a widow would play a great part in how one is viewed... for example, I know a man whose wife was non compos mentis, bipolar and acutely psychotic... on medication and poorly controlled. She developed breast cancer and in spite of her clear mental defect, she was allowed to decline treatment, waiting instead for "divine healing."

He made no attempt to have her mental competence assessed even though it was clear that her lucidity was lacking and her mental state was at best questionable... nor did anyone in her family but as her husband... as the one tasked before God with loving her as Christ loved the church, IMO his negligence bordered on the criminal...and there is neither 'perfection' nor nobility in his becoming a widower... IMO... the fact that he, like Danny Shelton, had a replacement already lined up and remarried within a few months of his getting out of his marriage (Danny by divorce and this man by the death of his wife) says to me that both of them had another agenda all along, an agenda that did not include their respective then current spouses... and that agenda is how one rationalized letting his wife die from his indifference and the other to get rid of his wife by killing her character. 6

That's how I feel, Kevin. It proves nothing, but to the aaaah....faithful. It does. I feel I must be in another world as I listen to the faithful reasoning. After having such a wonderful first marriage, he was unprepared for the terror that awaited him in the second. As for the gentleman you mentioned, I could find an entire jury that would find him 'not guilty' because of so many factors, one of which is that she was out of control and therefore the decision made for her was just.

Who says his first marriage was wonderful? Or that his second was a terror? If His marriage to Linda was so horrible, he would not have had to trump up these lame charges of "spiritual adultery" as a basis for divorcing her or work so diligently to make sure that her side of things never saw the light of day.

Nope... remember the vow one takes when he marries... "for better or for worse, for richer or poorer, in sickness and in health..." ... not to mention both the priest and the levite were guilty before God for passing by on the other side...

If I knew my wife had a condition that would be terminal if untreated and I let her go untreated, that is depraved indifference. Parents who have done that with their children have been prosecuted for manslaughter; it should be no different if one is talking about an adult who is not competent to make the decision of whether to be treated rationally. Her mental illness was a known quantity when he asked her to marry him and he married her anyway...

hear so many things in this post. One of which is that marriage vows should be taken seriously. owever, in this case I can also see a lot of loopholes since I don't know the people. He just may have hought that God had given him a 'way of escape' . The mind can tell us all sorts of comforting things hat cause us to act in a certain way. I know of two ladies who declined treatment and died, while heir husbands reluctantly respected their wishes. I know of several who took the treatment and died nyway. He may have really wrestled with the decision he made. Her family didn't come to the rescue ike the Schiavo case?

word about the couple in question. I remember when they first showed up on the 'tube' holding ands and thanking God profusely for each other. It was so thick that I would actually avoid that egment at times. He told her she couldn't sing, because she couldn't harmonize. He constantly eminds us that he is uneducated...right up front with his feelings, words, and emotions. She was the polished' one of the two. He would tell how she led him to a spiritual awakening on a particular oint..or dimension of his character. He liked to make jokes while she would just look quietly.

a'll are bad. This is interesting stuff. I didn't have all this in mind when I started, but Kevin got me to hinking. There was a lesbian nurse where I worked at a hospital once. We were very surprised when he married. Several weeks later she was back. The story...the gentleman had a heart condition and luring the honeymoon had another heart attack. We never could determine why she drove slowly past everal hospitals until he died in the car. Some said she could only think of coming to the hospital vhere she worked, but others said, but...she was a nurse, she should have known that time rather han hospital loyalty was important. God is judge.

As far as Danny's first marriage goes, she was ten years older than him. It is common knowledge with his extended family, and they are not afraid to say it, that he was cheatin on her more than once. She had a daughter from another marriage. She, her daughter and their daughter Melody all had some meat on their bones, so her refered to them as "The Three Little Pigs". Does that sound like a man who was respectin' his wife?

> Hi Family--Ted and I took a trip to Orlando this past weekend, and decided to visit the Patmos church. 3ABN was also at Patmos taping Sabbath services for their "On the Road" tour. Patmos' choir and the fellowship was awesome and we look forward to returning.
> Now--Danny Shelton was the speaker of the hour, of course. His comments throughout the course of his presentation were interesting, to say the very least. After the choir sang, his comment was "y'all are serious about singing here"... Then after some rambling, he compared his coming to Patmos with his going to New York. He mentioned that a friend told him that whenever he saw a lot of Black people, don't be intimidated, just look them in the eye and say "what choo lookin' at?"...When in the program it was time for the offering, he made another comment saying, "in the Black churches, you say "lift the tithes"...
>
> Many "Black" comments were made. IMHO, all were unnecessary. Were these supposed to be terms of endearment? When we visit "their" churches, should we make lots of "white" comments? Maybe this was his way of breaking the ice.
> Many waited with baited breath for the sermon. Mr. Shelton based his sermon on Nehemiah's building of the wall--and not coming off that wall to defend his actions. Mr. Shelton equated

> Nehemiah with himself--and how he will not come off the wall to defend his actions re:3ABN and accusations made against him. Mr. Shelton pretty much ranted about silly women being led astray, lust, how tv and internet has entered the home, infidelity among women, how innocent conversation leads to destruction, Adventist chat rooms and rumors abounding and how folks are writing about him. That was the sermon.
>
> I'm sure everyone in the room felt what he was alluding to and ranting about. I'm sure some of you may have seen the taping. I took notes, as I sometimes do in order to recall what the sermon was about.
>
> Anyway, after services, I felt an obligation to talk with Mr. Shelton. I offered up a prayer so that my words would not cross my lips, but that the Holy Spirit would guide my tongue. I shook his hand, told him that I'm a member of BlackSDA, and let him know that the members of BlackSDA are strong Christians. I also told him that BlackSDA is in no way a gossip/tabloid column and his letter saying that we were was highly offensive. I also told him that the members of BlackSDA are continuing to lift him AND Linda and 3ABN up in prayer, and that if anyone is keeping 3ABN afloat, it is the prayers of BlackSDA. I didn't let his hand go or stop looking him in his eyes until he heard. He did say many times "I appreciate that".
>
> If Mr. Shelton is lurking this site, I'm sure he will confirm all that I've said here.

nteresting reading. Does anyone know if he has undergone any diversity training since this happened?

nfidelity only in regards to women? Did he really say that in a sermon? As for the comparison with Nehemiah.....

Posted by: princessdi Yesterday, 01:15 PM

We keep saying that, and this thread proves it! He should have bought a sports car instead!

ot to my knowledge and I suspect he still uses that infamous line, " some of my best friends are lack people...."

his line doesn't make him look any better....

This is really sad. My heart just dropped when I read all of these posts from the past.
My friend just got another e-mail from Danny this morning and I have almost convinced her to pass it on to others. The man has serious issues!

It's sad to say, many of our fellow Adventist believe that there is a "black" heaven and a "white" heaven. I was told by a member of a SDA church I was visiting that "she" was going to come on over to my side of heaven to hear us sing. I couldn't sing another note after that was said for the tears in my eyes.

Posted by: princessdi Yesterday, 02:34 PM

Praise God for you Jnana! You are better than I. There would have been tears, but not mine, after that comment. I have suspected, and I am just going to say this and be through that there is also a slight underlying racial kind of thing going on here also. I tis not a part of the main issues by any means, but it is there. I know all the arguments, and that I am now going to get a list of eithnic groups represented on 3ABN, etc. However, those of us who know, know it when we see it, no matter how pretty they fix it up.

Don't forget the "red" heaven. Just maybe that's where all the sons of "Adam" will be, since "Adam" (and "Edom") are supposed to mean "red."

That makes my stomach hurt. Someone actually said that? I hope to be surrounded by black people in heaven...and white people...and red people...and yellow people...just like the song says - "red and yellow, black and white, all are precious in His sight"!!! The only "color" I expect in heaven will be that which radiates off each one of us, EQUALLY, from the glory of the presence of Jesus, our Saviour... I'd like to sing with everyone, too...!!!

Posted by: Pickle Yesterday, 03:26 PM

What I was trying to say was that the only heaven there is may be the one for the sons of Adam, the "red" heaven.

nan15,
here is a "white" heaven. I hear they have a chapter near Thompsonville.

ut seriously, do you think there will be different skin colors in heaven? If so, I'll just bet it won't be n issue with anyone who is there.

love Jesus with all of my heart and I truly believe that He sees no color as we do. Look at this world

He has created, eventhough marred with sin. Lots of different shades of all colors and they are all beautiful.

I just pray that Danny will tell self to go and sit down somewhere and let God take over 3ABN.

Posted by: princessdi Yesterday, 04:33 PM

Now, that is exactly what he needs to do!

Act 17:26-28 And hath made of one blood all nations of men for to dwell on all the face of the earth, and hath determined the times before appointed, and the bounds of their habitation; (27) That they should seek the Lord, if haply they might feel after him, and find him, though he be not far from every one of us: (28) For in him we live, and move, and have our being; as certain also of your own poets have said, For we are also his offspring.

Red and Yellow, Black and White, They are precious in HIS sight, Jesus loves the little children of the world

It is common knowledge with his extended family, and they are not afraid to say it, that he was cheatin on her more than once. She had a daughter from another marriage. She, her daughter and their daughter Melody all had some meat on their bones, so her refered to them as "The Three Little Pigs". Does that sound like a man who was respectin' his wife?

Sister, I give up. You really have to get some more credible sources. How can you consistently have facts wrong? His first wife had 2 girls. Don't make allegations on any "cheatin" unless you can back it up with eyewitness testimony. Everyone else here might ignore your allegations without proof but I won't. Because someone said that someone said doesn't get it.

Uh Actually Sister, Don't answer this. If I remember correctly this was stated before it was established that first marriages, etc. were off limits. We will defintiely not rehash this one. BS look at the date on this post, It is almost a year ago. I think this is a good reminder*****
