

Printable Version of Topic

Click here to view this topic in its original format

---

BlackSDA _ 3ABN _ Statement - Alyssa Moore

---

Posted by: source Oct 3 2006, 10:03 PM

July 7, 2006

This is a formal statement which is long overdue. I did not disclose this information when the events occurred because I did not want to hurt my mother. I did not want to cause trouble with 3 ABN, and I was too embarrassed to talk about it. Now that some time has passed and circumstances have changed I feel the need to share this information. I want to spare others from being exposed to the same treatment that I have experienced.

1) The repeated inappropriate actions from my ex-stepfather, Danny Shelton, occurred in the summer of the year 2000.

2) I had been away at school for some years. I was happy to be returning home to attend a local University.

3) My mother always went to bed rather early. Her bedroom was upstairs and my bedroom was downstairs. Danny started coming into my room getting into my bed and rubbing my back. He seemed to "accidentally" get too low. I told him I did not want a back rub. He ignored me. This happened repeatedly.

4) I began locking my bedroom door every night. Sometimes he would come to the door and knock again and again. I did not answer. He then repeatedly unlocked my bedroom door and came into my room. He would then get into my bed. I was not comfortable with this but I was so tired I still fell asleep. I awoke sometimes with his hands in inappropriate places. He would say "Oh, I'm sorry. I thought it was your Mom." He told me not to tell my Mom. I told him to stay out of my room. He still came. I started sleep on the living room couch so that he could not lie beside me.

5) I felt threatened and very uncomfortable with these things, so I made arrangements to move out.

Signed,

---

Alyssa Moore (daughter of Linda Shelton )

---

Posted by: simplysaved Oct 3 2006, 10:13 PM

Honey, there are no words to say but "I am sorry that this happened to you"....and am praying for you....

I do not know whether or not you are Linda Shelton's daughter...but it appears as though you have been hurt and traumatized by someone who allowed Satan to take over their lives for a moment.

QUOTE(source @ Oct 3 2006, 10:03 PM)

July 7, 2006

This is a formal statement which is long overdue. I did not disclose this information when the events occurred because I did not want to hurt my mother. I did not want to cause trouble with 3 ABN, and I was too embarrassed to talk about it. Now that some time has passed and circumstances have changed I feel the need to share this information. I want to spare others from being exposed to the same treatment that I have experienced.

1) The repeated inappropriate actions from my ex-stepfather, Danny Shelton, occurred in the summer of the year 2000.

2) I had been away at school for some years. I was happy to be returning home to attend a local University.

3) My mother always went to bed rather early. Her bedroom was upstairs and my bedroom was downstairs. Danny started coming into my room getting into my bed and rubbing my back. He seemed to "accidentally" get too low. I told him I did not want a back rub. He ignored me. This happened repeatedly.

4) I began locking my bedroom door every night. Sometimes he would come to the door and knock again and again. I did not answer. He then repeatedly unlocked my bedroom door and came into my room. He would then get into my bed. I was not comfortable with this but I was so tired I still fell asleep. I awoke sometimes with his hands in inappropriate places. He would say "Oh, I'm sorry. I thought it was your Mom." He told me not to tell my Mom. I told him to stay out of my room. He still came. I started sleep on the living room couch so that he could not lie beside me.

5) I felt threatened and very uncomfortable with these things, so I made arrangements to move out.

Signed,

_____
Alyssa Moore (daughter of Linda Shelton )

May God help you find healing and inner peace to move on and live the life that He created for you. ☐

---

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Oct 3 2006, 10:18 PM

QUOTE(source @ Oct 3 2006, 09:03 PM) ☐

July 7, 2006

This is a formal statement which is long overdue. I did not disclose this information when the events occurred because I did not want to hurt my mother. I did not want to cause trouble with 3 ABN, and I was too embarrassed to talk about it. Now that some time has passed and circumstances have changed I feel the need to share this information. I want to spare others from being exposed to the same treatment that I have experienced.

Signed,

_____
Alyssa Moore (daughter of Linda Shelton )

Source, did you have permission from Linda's daughter to post this letter here? Just curious.

---

Posted by: Panama_Pete Oct 3 2006, 10:29 PM

---

QUOTE(PeacefullyBewildered @ Oct 3 2006, 10:18 PM)

Source, did you have permission from Linda's daughter to post this letter here? Just curious.

She says, "I feel the need to share this information. I want to spare others...."

So, apparently -- on the face of it -- it is meant to be shared.

---

Posted by: calvin Oct 3 2006, 10:36 PM

---

QUOTE(PeacefullyBewildered @ Oct 3 2006, 10:18 PM)

Source, did you have permission from Linda's daughter to post this letter here? Just curious.

Source had my permission to post the letter. This letter is in the public domain and has been distributed broadly throughout Adventist circles. Many of you insiders where aware of it

---

Posted by: watchbird Oct 3 2006, 10:45 PM

---

QUOTE(Panama_Pete @ Oct 3 2006, 10:29 PM)

She says, "I feel the need to share this information. I want to spare others...."

So, apparently -- on the face of it -- it is meant to be shared.

This is simply not true.... that it was "meant to be shared" on any forum..... and it is a real violation of express instructions that were sent out with each copy of this letter where the permission to share was very specifically limited to "ministers and church leaders", and where it was expressly directed to NOT post it on any public forum. I would hope that Calvin would make an exception of not pulling any posts and would pull this one. It was also requested that her name not be used in any discussions on a public forum, but only to identify her as Linda's daughter. That may seem like a minute distinction to some, but one's name is a very important and precious thing, and I am extremely saddened that someone would brazenly go against her express wishes in this regard.

---

QUOTE(calvin @ Oct 3 2006, 10:36 PM)

Source had my permission to post the letter. This letter is in the public domain and has been distributed broadly throughout Adventist circles. Many of you insiders where aware of it.

Yes we were, and we shared with you assuming you would honor her and our request to respect her wishes as to distribution. I am exceedingly disappointed in your actions regarding this.

---

Posted by: Panama_Pete Oct 3 2006, 11:46 PM

QUOTE(watchbird @ Oct 3 2006, 10:45 PM)

This is simply not true.... that it was "meant to be shared" on any forum..... and it is a real violation of express instructions that were sent out with each copy of this letter where the permission to share was very specifically limited to "ministers and church leaders", and where it was expressly directed to NOT post it on any public forum.

Well, I accept Watchbird's comment as true.

This is the first time I, for one, have seen such a letter.

---

Posted by: beartrap Oct 4 2006, 12:01 AM

Nonetheless, it is out. There is way to unring the proverbial bell.

---

Posted by: watchbird Oct 4 2006, 07:16 AM

QUOTE(Panama_Pete @ Oct 3 2006, 11:46 PM)

Well, I accept Watchbird's comment as true.

This is the first time I, for one, have seen such a letter.

Since I am assuming that you are neither a pastor nor a church leader.... which we loosely translated as either Conference administrators or lay leaders, especially if they were in abuse counseling professions.... then you should not have received one. And it is quite possible that all who are in that category have not yet received a copy.... it is a very large task to send them out.

QUOTE(beartrap @ Oct 4 2006, 12:01 AM)

Nonetheless, it is out. There is way to unring the proverbial bell.

You are so correct. That being the case, it would seem to me that the best route to take from here.... "go with the flow" as Calvin says.... will be to give a certain and clear "ring" to the bell.

For starters, let's look at some of the history of the sending of this statement. It was, as I have noted, to be distributed only by email, and it was to always be accompanied by the cover letter with which it was originally sent. It was channeled through Johann, with him sending out the first waves, and others who received it sending it on to others who fit the criteria specified. That first wave included several of the top leaders of our church as well as some of the primary persons involved in the 3abn saga for the last two plus years.

It was first distributed shortly before the ASI Conference this summer, and came to Danny's attention at that time. His reaction was to first of all claim that Alyssa didn't really do it of her own initiative, that he had talked to her since the statement came out, and that it meant nothing.... in reality he and Alyssa were very "close friends". Some who heard his reaction at ASI checked with Alyssa and found that there was no truth in what Danny was saying, and in fact Danny did not even have Alyssa's current phone numbers.

At about the same time, or shortly thereafter, Alyssa made notarized copies of her statement and mailed them in hard copy to selected top church officers. This, I am told, created such a great stir in the GC waters that it sent 3abn into a "circle the wagons" mode, which was made obvious in their "3ABN Today LIVE" two hour special which was shown multiple times the weekend of August 11-13.

Note that we have previously discussed this on BSDA under the thread entitled, "3abn Presents "the Battle ..." Don't Miss It, Special program rerun times...." where we noted that Shelly Quinn's sermon in particular was best understood by those of us who knew of the statement made by Alyssa. See <http://www.blacksda.com/forums/index.php?showtopic=10422>

At present, I am told that 3abn is demanding a "hearing" with Alyssa.... something that some of us feel is a rather inhumane way for her to go, and are hoping that she will refuse. Something as difficult for her to handle as this has to be, certainly should be handled in a counseling atmosphere rather than an adversarial one. But this is one of those things which are currently residing under the "we have to wait and see" rubric .... trusting that God has supplied her with wise and kind counselors.... both legal and psychological.... so that she is having all the help necessary to move through whatever lies ahead in this area.

Others are, I am sure, much more acquainted with the details of what it must have been like growing up as a step-daughter in the Danny Shelton household, with Melody and Danny's relationship as the closest "model" on which to build her concepts of what a father/daughter relationship should "look like". I hope that they will give us some insights into that.

Others who are reading here are trained counselors.... I hope they will now speak up and discuss in a general and professional way the hurdles and phases of healing that someone who has undergone experiences like this have to face and go through.

We have already heard from Barbara Kerr, who seemingly was the first to learn what had happened and pass it on to Linda.... who until that time had not known of it. She shared something of the way she learned about it with us in the thread pinned at the top of the menu, entitled, <http://www.blacksda.com/forums/index.php?showtopic=10489>. You'll find her comments on this near the end of her original letter. While I am sure there is still much that she knows that she will not share with us because of the delicate and personal nature of the information, I do hope Barb will come back and help us in our understanding of what has and is going on in this area.

May we be especially kind and loving in our discussion of this topic is my prayer today.

---

Posted by: Clay Oct 4 2006, 07:41 AM

she does not need to meet with 3ABN.... she alleges inappropriate behavior, file criminal charges and let the chips fall where they may.....

---

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Oct 4 2006, 07:54 AM

QUOTE(watchbird @ Oct 4 2006, 05:16 AM)

At present, I am told that 3abn is demanding a "hearing" with Alyssa.... something that some of us feel is a rather inhumane way for her to go, and are hoping that she will refuse. Something as difficult for her to handle as this has to be, certainly should be handled in a counseling atmosphere rather than an adversarial one. But this is one of those things which are currently residing under the "we have to wait and see" rubric .... trusting that God has supplied her with wise and kind counselors.... both legal and psychological.... so that she is having all the help necessary to move through whatever lies ahead in this area.

May we be especially kind and loving in our discussion of this topic is my prayer today.

I am not a counselor but, in my opinion, Alyssa has already taken one of the most stressful steps by sharing her experience with conference leaders. I'm fairly certain she would have carefully thought about all of the ramifications coming forward could lead to, including "hearings" on the issue.

I'm concerned that if she refuses it could be viewed and exploited as an admission that her claims are unfounded. Of course, the venue of any such hearings should certainly be neutral and non-adversarial before consenting to their demands.

This young woman has proven that she has endurance just by the fact that she has survived the rigors of becoming a doctor - no light task! I'm not saying that a hearing would be a walk in the park for her, just that she appears to have the moxie to withstand it.

---

Posted by: Clay Oct 4 2006, 07:58 AM

QUOTE(PeacefullyBewildered @ Oct 4 2006, 08:54 AM)

I'm concerned that if she refuses it could be viewed and exploited as an admission that her claims are unfounded. Of course, the venue of any such hearings should certainly be neutral and non-adversarial before consenting to their demands.

This young woman has proven that she has endurance just by the fact that she has survived the rigors of becoming a doctor - no light task! I'm not saying that a hearing would be a walk in the park for her, just that she appears to have the moxie to withstand it.

there is no rule written anywhere that says she is obligated to meet with people from 3abn who is owned and operated by the alleged perp.... and they are stupid for even requesting it..... she needs to file charges, hire a lawyer and let whomever talk to the lawyer....

---

Posted by: simplysaved Oct 4 2006, 08:02 AM

I agree 100%....no "alleged sexual abuse victim" should ever have to face an alleged perpetrator in this context....that would do nothing but re-traumatize the victim....

QUOTE(Clay @ Oct 4 2006, 07:58 AM)

there is no rule written anywhere that says she is obligated to meet with people from 3abn who is owned and operated by the alleged perp.... and they are stupid for even requesting it..... she needs to file charges, hire a lawyer and let whomever talk to the lawyer....

---

Posted by: Clay Oct 4 2006, 08:07 AM

QUOTE(simplysaved @ Oct 4 2006, 09:02 AM)

I agree 100%....no "alleged sexual abuse victim" should ever have to face an alleged perpetrator in this context....that would do nothing but re-traumatize the victim....

yanno.... your comment is definitely on point... I think folks have lost their mind.... she is not obligated to meet with them ever....

---

Posted by: lurker Oct 4 2006, 08:09 AM

If Alyssa meets with the 3ABN people, she would be "put on trial" as to her truthfulness. She would be in the same position as they attempted to put Linda in when they tried to censure her. Alyssa's words will be twisted if she meets with them. Her words will likely be twisted and/or lied about if she even communicates privately with any of them especially with Danny.

She has spoken.

---

Posted by: calvin Oct 4 2006, 08:17 AM

QUOTE(watchbird @ Oct 3 2006, 11:45 PM) □

This is simply not true.... that it was "meant to be shared" on any forum..... and it is a real violation of express instructions that were sent out with each copy of this letter where the permission to share was very specifically limited to "ministers and church leaders", and where it was expressly directed to NOT post it on any public forum. I would hope that Calvin would make an exception of not pulling any posts and would pull this one. It was also requested that her name not be used in any discussions on a public forum, but only to identify her as Linda's daughter. That may seem like a minute distinction to some, but one's name is a very important and precious thing, and I am extremely saddened that someone would brazenly go against her express wishes in this regard.

Yes we were, and we shared with you assuming you would honor her and our request to respect her wishes as to distribution. I am exceedingly disappointed in your actions regarding this.

Then Watchbird you are going to have to be disappointed. You did request that this letter not be published here, some request are honored some are not. That's the way it works. We are way too far into this saga to start protecting people. I find it ironic that you would make such a request since you have been very vocal in your opinion of others associated with this ministry. I suspect some of those individuals would rather not be discussed on BSDA either.

Alyssa put this letter out there, that put it in play for discussion here or anywhere else. Maybe those of you who know Alyssa should let her know that she can't be so naïve to think that she can have any control over the media to which a communication is distributed or where it may end up...and Watchbird you are not that naïve either.

---

Posted by: simplysaved Oct 4 2006, 08:30 AM

That is not the clinical or spiritual concern...bottom line is Matthew 18 does not refer to IMHO and professional opinion, to abuse or power-based (control) situations; in those instances you do need to have a second person--and physical advocate for emotional support...I stand corrected: The moment that an "alleged victim" tells you "NO" or "STOP" they have come to you one on one...the next step is getting help (i.e. getting another brother/sister involved).

In this situation, an alleged victim would be intimidated by a corporation trying to determine what did or did not happen---their concerns are secondary and totally out of line.

QUOTE(lurker @ Oct 4 2006, 08:09 AM) □

If Alyssa meets with the 3ABN people, she would be "put on trial" as to her truthfulness. She would be in the same position as they attempted to put Linda in when they tried to censure her. Alyssa's words will be twisted if she meets with them. Her words will likely be twisted and/or lied about if she even communicates privately with any of them especially with Danny.

She has spoken.

Thank you for saying that....while I am very sensitive to this kind of situation clinically and otherwise, we have to be very careful what we put out in the public---because when we do, you can't cry foul and demand that certain issues/allegations be off limits...

Perhaps that is why God gave EGW the counsel that we should try to resolve most issues privately and not in public...or as the Bible says more specifically, sometimes we have to allow God to decide what needs to be public...even allowing ourselves to be "defrauded" in something, because the end damage is often unexpected and far more reaching....

QUOTE(calvin @ Oct 4 2006, 08:17 AM)

Then Watchbird you are going to have to be disappointed. You did request that this letter not be published here, some request are honored some are not. That's the way it works. We are way too far into this saga to start protecting people. I find it ironic that you would make such a request since you have been very vocal in your opinion of others associated with this ministry. I suspect some of those individuals would rather not be discussed on BSDA either.

Alyssa put this letter out there, that put it in play for discussion here or anywhere else. Maybe those of you who know Alyssa should let her know that she can't be so naïve to think that she can have any control over the media to which a communication is distributed or where it may end up...and Watchbird you are not that naïve either.

---

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Oct 4 2006, 08:47 AM

QUOTE(Clay @ Oct 4 2006, 05:58 AM)

there is no rule written anywhere that says she is obligated to meet with people from 3abn who is owned and operated by the alleged perp.... and they are stupid for even requesting it.... she needs to file charges, hire a lawyer and let whomever talk to the lawyer....

Which is exactly why I submitted that the venue should be neutral and non-adversarial. I believe that as an alleged victim of this sexual abuse she has a responsibility to herself to file charges and take her power back. But that is my own opinion and I speak from experience. The perve who assaulted me died before I could face him in court and watch him be brought to justice.

---

Posted by: simplysaved Oct 4 2006, 09:10 AM

Agreed...What we sometimes consider the pursuit of "justice" may often lead (unintentionally) to exploitation in another area...one in which we cannot protect those who need it the most...

QUOTE(PeacefullyBewildered @ Oct 4 2006, 08:47 AM)

Which is exactly why I submitted that the venue should be neutral and non-adversarial. I believe that as an alleged victim of this sexual abuse she has a responsibility to herself to file charges and take her power back. But that is my own opinion and I speak from experience. The perve who assaulted me died before I could face him in court and watch him be brought to justice.

pray that you now feel free and safe from harm...

---

Posted by: västergötland Oct 4 2006, 09:23 AM

I wonder if we sometimes deprive people of justice in the name of "protecting" them? Maybe the only person who is really protected by this "protectionism" is the potential "criminal"? An organisation that is presumably built on a foundation of truth has everything to win and nothing to lose from transparency and everything to lose and nothing to win from hiding embarrassing things.

This is all embarrassing to the church that this has happened and for every step that is taken to push it under the radarscreen of the general public or hide it under the rug, it will be ten times as embarrassing when the truth is finally light up on the hilltop where all truth will eventually end.

It is also my opinion that those people who will be hurt by this revelation today will be twice as hurt tomorrow if the delay is intentionally caused by probably wellmeaning people. The proverbial paved road to hell...

On the whole, I don't see what anyone with honest intentions could possibly gain by pushing things into the future...

---

Posted by: caribbean sda Oct 4 2006, 09:27 AM

QUOTE(calvin @ Oct 4 2006, 11:17 AM)

Alyssa put this letter out there, that put it in play for discussion here or anywhere else. Maybe those of you who know Alyssa should let her know that she can't be so naïve to think that she can have any control over the media to which a communication is distributed or where it may end up...and Watchbird you are not that naïve either.

You're right Calvin...before anything is committed to writing and distributed anywhere...the writer should realize that his or her communication has the potential to reach a wider audience than is intended...and if that is unacceptable to him or her, then the choice should be made whether or not to write and send. Anytime something is written down, the chance of it ending up in places other than where it was intended to go is great...(just ask a former congressman from Florida)... Now I'm not saying that we shouldn't be sensitive to the matter currently in discussion, we should...but that's the reality of it

---

Posted by: Nuggie Oct 4 2006, 09:33 AM

QUOTE(calvin @ Oct 4 2006, 09:17 AM)

Then Watchbird you are going to have to be disappointed. You did request that this letter not be published here, some requests are honored some are not. That's the way it works. We are way too far into this saga to start protecting people. I find it ironic that you would make such a request since you have been very vocal in your opinion of others associated with this ministry. I suspect some of those individuals would rather not be discussed on BSDA either.

Alyssa put this letter out there, that put it in play for discussion here or anywhere else. Maybe those of you who know Alyssa should let her know that she can't be so naïve to think that she can have any control over the media to which a communication is distributed or where it may end up...and Watchbird you are not that naïve either.

You're on point as always, Calvin...once this letter was put in circulation it became fair game for discussion anywhere. Whoever's counseling this young lady should have told her that. But now is not the time to pick and choose what should be discussed...folks haven't exactly been circumspect in what they put out there--either directly or through insinuation.

I'm kinda tired of the whole saga, really...think I'll just go back to lurk mode  ...carry on...

---

Posted by: simplysaved Oct 4 2006, 09:40 AM

But the concern is that according to watchbird, Allyssa did not want this to become public but to be handled by the church leaders...if that is the case, she has been re-victimized by having this letter posted. And that IMHO is sin and wrong.

As an alleged victim she has the right to her dignity and part of re-gaining control and empowerment is to be able to choose how, when, and where you share your experience. This would then further take away her power....bottom line it is about the VICTIM and not what outsiders feel is right.

---

QUOTE(västergötland @ Oct 4 2006, 09:23 AM)

I wonder if we sometimes deprive people of justice in the name of "protecting" them? Maybe the only person who is really protected by this "protectionism" is the potential "criminal"? An organisation that is presumably built on a foundation of truth has everything to win and nothing to lose from transparency and everything to lose and nothing to win from hiding embarrassing things. This is all embarrassing to the church that this has happened and for every step that is taken to push it under the radarscreen of the general public or hide it under the rug, it will be ten times as embarrassing when the truth is finally light up on the hilltop where all truth will eventually end. It is also my opinion that those people who will be hurt by this revelation today will be twice as hurt tomorrow if the delay is intentionally caused by probably wellmeaning people. The proverbial paved road to hell...

On the whole, I don't see what anyone with honest intentions could possibly gain by pushing things into the future...

---

Posted by: Denny Oct 4 2006, 09:47 AM

---

QUOTE(simplysaved @ Oct 4 2006, 04:40 PM)

But the concern is that according to watchbird, Allyssa did not want this to become public but to be handled by the church leaders...if that is the case, she has been re-victimized by having this letter posted. And that is sin and wrong.

As an alleged victim she has the right to her dignity and part of re-gaining control and empowerment is to be able to choose how, when, and where you share your experience. This would then further take away her power....bottom line it is about the VICTIM and not what outsiders feel is right.

If this is true I am sorry Ms Moore does not go to the police and report this. It is not the time to go into 'let the church handle it' mode unfortunately we all know what happens when that line is used it tends to mean cover it up time and blame the victim'.

---

Posted by: simplysaved Oct 4 2006, 09:50 AM

This is one of the main reasons victims do not go forward with allegations....I do not presume to know what is true or false here, but if the allegation is true and the alleged victim asked for it to be forwarded only to church leaders and GC...

I would still want the church to be a part of it even if I went to the police....I don't see why it has to be an either or....

But she needed to press charges as a private citizen...

---

QUOTE(Denny @ Oct 4 2006, 09:47 AM)

If this is true I am sorry Ms Moore does not go to the police and report this . It is not the time to go into 'let the church handle it' mode unfortunately we all know what happens when that line is used it tends to mean 'cover it up time and blame the victim'.

---

Posted by: Clay Oct 4 2006, 09:52 AM

---

QUOTE(simplysaved @ Oct 4 2006, 10:50 AM)

This is one of the main reasons victims do not go forward with allegations....I do not presume to know what is true or false here, but if the allegation is true and the alleged victim asked for it to be forwarded only to church leaders and GC...

I would still want the church to be a part of it even if I went to the police....I don't see why it has to be an either or....

But she needed to press charges as a private citizen...

asking the church to handle it is sort of like the fox guarding the hen house... something may or may not be done.... go to the police...

---

Posted by: watchbird Oct 4 2006, 09:55 AM

---

QUOTE(calvin @ Oct 4 2006, 08:17 AM)

Then Watchbird you are going to have to be disappointed. You did request that this letter not be published here, some request are honored some are not. That's the way it works. We are way too far into this saga to start protecting people. I find it ironic that you would make such a request since you have been very vocal in your opinion of others associated with this ministry. I suspect some of those individuals would rather not be discussed on BSDA either.

Alyssa put this letter out there, that put it in play for discussion here or anywhere else. Maybe those of you who know Alyssa should let her know that she can't be so naïve to think that she can have any control over the media to which a communication is distributed or where it may end up...and Watchbird you are not that naïve either.

You are correct. I am not. And on second thoughts today, I am grateful for the time lag that has occurred, and am satisfied that this is the appropriate time to have brought it out. I think the time lag has worked to everyone's advantage, including Alyssa.... as well as those of us who now are freed to explore the topic. The delay has given time to see what others would do with the information.... so we all have better perspectives from which to comment than we did a couple months ago when it first came out.

So thank you for the delay.... and let's move along from here.

---

Posted by: simplysaved Oct 4 2006, 09:56 AM

Says a man (with all do respect) that works out on a regular basis....being a victim is a different ballgame...especially a female one....You need that support from your church support system....

Better yet ask God what to do...and do whatever He says...if He says go straight to the police, go to the police....

QUOTE(Clay @ Oct 4 2006, 10:52 AM)

asking the church to handle it is sort of like the fox guarding the hen house... something may or may not be done.... go to the police...

---

Posted by: Clay Oct 4 2006, 10:01 AM

QUOTE(simplysaved @ Oct 4 2006, 09:56 AM)

Says a man (with all do respect) that works out on a regular basis....being a victim is a different ballgame...especially a female one....You need that support from your church support system....

Better yet ask God what to do...and do whatever He says...if He says go straight to the police, go to the police....

victims male or female want justice.... the church has a history of NOT being supportive, of telling victims NOT to press charges.... as one who is in law enforcement as well as a an advocate for patient rights, I say go to the po po....

Tyler Perry's
DIARY OF A MAD BLACK WOMAN
THE MOVIE

"I AIN'T SCARED OF THE PO-PO"
IN THEATRES FEBRUARY 25th

---

Posted by: Denny Oct 4 2006, 10:01 AM

---

QUOTE(simplysaved @ Oct 4 2006, 04:56 PM)

Says a man (with all do respect) that works out on a regular basis....being a victim is a different ballgame...especially a female one....You need that support from your church support system....

Better yet ask God what to do...and do whatever He says...if He says go straight to the police, go to the police....

Does one really expect to get support from the perpretors employer that is what the church is in this case - a indirect employer so from the start church is not neutral. Using this as an example being a victim does not mean common sense goes out the window. But like you said Go to God first.

---

Posted by: watchbird Oct 4 2006, 10:05 AM

---

QUOTE(simplysaved @ Oct 4 2006, 09:40 AM)

But the concern is that according to watchbird, Allyssa did not want this to become public but to be handled by the church leaders...if that is the case, she has been re-victimized by having this letter posted. And that IMHO is sin and wrong.

As an alleged victim she has the right to her dignity and part of re-gaining control and empowerment is to be able to choose how, when, and where you share your experience. This would then further take away her power....bottom line it is about the VICTIM and not what outsiders feel is right.

I think this last is why we tried to honor her requests to limit distribution as long as possible. I do not personally know if she has come to terms with the recognition that it could not stay in limited circulation for very long or not. I do know that she was amply warned at the time that this would be the case.... sooner or later, with as wide a circulation as she was allowing, someone would ignore the requests and throw it wide open.

I don't think that she has been "re-victimized" by the opening of this to the public now. She has had some time to know just how much the church leaders will do and what they will not do. They have been given their chance..... and they did not choose to act, at least not in a way that was visible and that plainly suspended the abuser.

Hopefully she will see this ... or come to see it shortly ... as freeing her to proceed with legal action against him.... something that is very hard for some segments of Adventism to accept as being right and proper.

QUOTE(simplysaved @ Oct 4 2006, 09:50 AM)

This is one of the main reasons victims do not go forward with allegations....I do not presume to know what is true or false here, but if the allegation is true and the alleged victim asked for it to be forwarded only to church leaders and GC...

I would still want the church to be a part of it even if I went to the police....I don't see why it has to be an either or....

But she needed to press charges as a private citizen...

---

Posted by: watchbird Oct 4 2006, 10:17 AM

QUOTE(simplysaved @ Oct 4 2006, 09:56 AM)

Says a man (with all do respect) that works out on a regular basis....being a victim is a different ballgame...especially a female one....You need that support from your church support system....

Better yet ask God what to do...and do whatever He says...if He says go straight to the police, go to the police....

QUOTE(Clay @ Oct 4 2006, 10:01 AM)

victims male or female want justice.... the church has a history of NOT being supportive, of telling victims NOT to press charges.... as one who is in law enforcement as well as a an advocate for patient rights, I say go to the po....

Agreed... but SS has a point also.... that there is support a victim needs that is personal and up-close and has little or nothing to do with the "support" that seeks for and administers justice.

I think the delay periods ... and there were two quite different ones ... the one from the time that she first told Barbara Kerr about it until the time she had gathered a private support system sufficiently strong to enable her to make the public statement.... and the second one from the time that went out to the present. I'm very sure that she added to her support system after the release of the statement. And while I'm not a professional in this area, I think that would be very important in strengthening her for the public and legal steps that she will need to face next.

One additional note to this is that the GC has, in the last few years.... not sure just when.... taken formal positions about what steps to take in cases like this.... and they DO include notifying the law enforcement agencies immediately upon the allegations....

Why haven't the Family Ministries personell been involved in any of the 3abn allegations? I wish I knew. Does anyone have any direct lines to any of them?

---

Posted by: Ralph Oct 4 2006, 10:19 AM

QUOTE(Panama_Pete @ Oct 3 2006, 09:29 PM)

She says, "I feel the need to share this information. I want to spare others...."

So, apparently -- on the face of it -- it is meant to be shared.

You are correct in saying, "on the face of it -- it is meant to be shared."
"Source" did not send the full text of the cover letter that "Watchbird" alluded to.

QUOTE(watchbird @ Oct 3 2006, 09:45 PM)

... and it is a real violation of express instructions that were sent out with each copy of this letter where the permission to share was very specifically limited to "ministers and church leaders", and where it was expressly directed to NOT post it on any public forum.

With such a violation of trust, I can plainly see why others are reticent on speaking out.

---

Posted by: vonessa Oct 4 2006, 10:28 AM

I read this last night, and woke up inspired (little "i") to say that if Source meant to be private, she wouldn't have given it to anybody and kept it secret. Like you said, she wouldn't have told nobody if she wanted to keep it off line. She has counted the cost of telling this so that the curse of the flesh that Danny Shelton has brought forward might be revealed before us. If information exists, it is speech freedom, and the Holy Spirit has been in this discussion all the way along as it has revealed all hidden secrets as people have been inspired to share.

We have been shown that Danny had other problems, such as admitting to being responsible for the death of his first wife, and others that have been demonstrated here before us. Now we must pray that the details will not remain in the shadows for long but that all might be made plain so that when the Lord withdraws his blessing from 3ABN, it will be clear as to why it was done. Those with information or ideas about what may have happened must come forward because we cannot expect the Lord's blessing without doing our part.

Calvin, may you be blessed for encouraging this necessary discussion to continue. And thank you Source for posting this. Without the Lord, this discussion would have ended months ago, but through His Spirit of discernment it will hold fast.

---

Posted by: awesumtenor Oct 4 2006, 10:28 AM

QUOTE(watchbird @ Oct 4 2006, 11:17 AM)

Why haven't the Family Ministries personell been involved in any of the 3abn allegations? I wish I knew.

Does anyone have any direct lines to any of them?

Wouldn't Kay Kuzma be a part of the church Family Ministries department or does she just play one for her column in the Review?

If she is, I can see why there would be reluctance to put any confidence in them...

In His service,
Mr. J

---

Posted by: watchbird Oct 4 2006, 10:32 AM

QUOTE(awesumtenor @ Oct 4 2006, 10:28 AM)

Wouldn't Kay Kuzma be a part of the church Family Ministries department or does she just play one for her column in the Review?

If she is, I can see why there would be reluctance to put any confidence in them...

In His service,
Mr. J

don't think so. I think she has her own "independent ministry" .... or business.... not sure what she calls it. And must be under some contract with Sabn.... and she writes a column for Adventist Review. Have no idea, really as to what the GCFM folk think of her.

---

Posted by: simplysaved Oct 4 2006, 10:48 AM

The recent case at Camp Wagner in Lake Region is an good example of support on all levels....the church was as progressive as the parents and supportive of what the families did as private citizens without excuse or cover-ups....

QUOTE(Denny @ Oct 4 2006, 10:01 AM)

Does one really expect to get support from the perpetrator's employer that is what the church is in this case - an indirect employer so from the start church is not neutral. Using this as an example being a victim does not mean common sense goes out the window. But like you said Go to God first.

---

Posted by: TLC Oct 4 2006, 11:02 AM

QUOTE(vonessa @ Oct 4 2006, 10:28 AM)

I read this last night, and woke up inspired (little "i") to say that if Source meant to be private, she wouldn't have given it to anybody and kept it secret. Like you said, she wouldn't have told nobody if she wanted to keep it off line. She has counted the cost of telling this so that the curse of the flesh that Danny Shelton has brought forward might be revealed before us. If information exists, it is speech freedom, and the Holy Spirit has been in this discussion all the way along as it has revealed all hidden secrets as people have been inspired to share.

We have been shown that Danny had other problems, such as admitting to being responsible for the death of his first wife, and others that have been demonstrated here before us. Now we must pray that the details will not remain in the shadows for long but that all might be made plain so that when the Lord withdraws his blessing from 3ABN, it will be clear as to why it was done. Those with information or ideas about what may have happened must come forward because we cannot expect the Lord's blessing without doing our part.

Calvin, may you be blessed for encouraging this necessary discussion to continue. And thank you Source for posting this. Without the Lord, this discussion would have ended months ago, but through His Spirit of discernment it will hold fast.

---

Posted by: simplysaved Oct 4 2006, 11:16 AM

I respectfully disagree with the "by any means necessary" perspective when it comes to people who are "alleged victims".

What God allows and God's Divine Will ARE NOT the same...

---

Posted by: watchbird Oct 4 2006, 11:37 AM

Vonessa, your posts would be much more appreciated if you were a little more careful in your recital of information. It is difficult sometimes to know if you are exaggerating for effect, or are careless in your reading, or are deliberately making unwarranted claims and conclusions that will give new readers a wrong impression as to what has been said here.

Examples from your recent post ....

---

QUOTE(vonessa @ Oct 4 2006, 10:28 AM)

I read this last night, and woke up inspired (little "i") to say that if Source meant to be private, she wouldn't have given it to anybody and kept it secret. Like you said, she wouldn't have told nobody if she wanted to keep it off line. She has counted the cost of telling this so that the curse of the flesh that Danny Shelton has brought forward might be revealed before us. If information exists, it is speech freedom, and the Holy Spirit has been in this discussion all the way along as it has revealed all hidden secrets as people have been inspired to share.

There is no indication that Source is the author of the statement he posted.

---

QUOTE

We have been shown that Danny had other problems, such as admitting to being responsible for the death of his first wife, and others that have been demonstrated here before us.

So... we have NOT "been shown" any such thing. There have been some questions asked that indicated that some have had suspicions of that ... but there has been nothing "shown" ... and there was certainly never any speculation that Danny had admitted to any such responsibility.

---

QUOTE

Now we must pray that the details will not remain in the shadows for long but that all might be made plain so that when the Lord withdraws his blessing from 3ABN, it will be clear as to why it was done. Those with information or ideas about what may have happened must come forward because we cannot expect the Lord's blessing without doing our part.

We would, I am sure, appreciate this paragraph much more had you not embedded it in untrue allegations as to what has been said here as you have done.

---

Posted by: paleface Oct 4 2006, 11:47 AM

Isn't "Source" a "m" meaning male?

---

Posted by: watchbird Oct 4 2006, 12:30 PM

QUOTE(paleface @ Oct 4 2006, 11:47 AM) □

Isn't "Source" a "m" meaning male?

☒ .... Blush.... ☒ sorry. .... And in a post where I wuz complaining about someone not reading carefully! shall go edit it real quick!

Thank you much .... if'n I gotta "eat crow" I'd shur druther it'd be fresh!

☒ sn:

---

Posted by: calvin Oct 4 2006, 12:36 PM

QUOTE(vonessa @ Oct 4 2006, 10:28 AM) □

We have been shown that Danny had other problems, such as admitting to being responsible for the death of his first wife, and others that have been demonstrated here before us.

/vonessa you are finish here. I have said on a number of occasions that we are limiting our discussion of Danny Shelton to as it relates to 3ABN. We are NOT going to speculate on his prior life. Vonessa you have been here long enough to know better....and I will continue putting people out if you can't follow this one simple guideline. ☒ ☒

---

Posted by: calvin Oct 4 2006, 02:18 PM

☒ Wha I do, scare eveybody off? I anit mad at jus ☒

---

Posted by: västergötland Oct 4 2006, 02:42 PM

Simply, read this and ponder together with my last post in the thread.

1Pe 2:13 Be subject to every ordinance of man for the Lord's sake: whether to the king, as supreme;
1Pe 2:14 or unto governors, as sent by him for vengeance on evil-doers and for praise to them that do well.

1Pe 2:15 For so is the will of God, that by well-doing ye should put to silence the ignorance of foolish men:

1Pe 2:16 as free, and not using your freedom for a cloak of wickedness, but as bondservants of God.

1Pe 2:17 Honor all men. Love the brotherhood. Fear God. Honor the king.

1Pe 2:18 Servants, be in subjection to your masters with all fear; not only to the good and gentle, but also to the froward.

1Pe 2:19 For this is acceptable, if for conscience toward God a man endureth griefs, suffering wrongfully.

1Pe 2:20 For what glory is it, if, when ye sin, and are buffeted for it, ye shall take it patiently? but if, when ye do well, and suffer for it, ye shall take it patiently, this is acceptable with God.

---

Posted by: princessdi Oct 4 2006, 02:42 PM

You know how it is when one child gets a whoopin' the rest get quiet! LOL!!!

---

QUOTE(calvin @ Oct 4 2006, 01:18 PM)

Wha I do, scare eveybody off? I anit mad at jus

---

Posted by: Chez Oct 4 2006, 03:11 PM

---

QUOTE(princessdi @ Oct 4 2006, 03:42 PM)

You know how it is when one child gets a whoopin' the rest get quiet! LOL!!!

I know that's real. We are making sure that we're behaving.

---

Posted by: Nuggie Oct 4 2006, 03:19 PM

---

QUOTE(princessdi @ Oct 4 2006, 02:42 PM)

You know how it is when one child gets a whoopin' the rest get quiet! LOL!!!

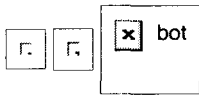

Girl, that's for real...we stay out of sight for the rest of the night just in case there's some residual whoopin' or whoopin' by association!

---

Posted by: simplysaved Oct 4 2006, 03:26 PM

---

QUOTE(Nuggie @ Oct 4 2006, 04:19 PM)

Girl, that's for real...we stay out of sight for the rest of the night just in case there's some residual whooppin' or whooppin' by association!

---

Posted by: seeshell Oct 4 2006, 03:30 PM

Oh yeah, remember that feeling when a sibling got whapped...

---

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Oct 4 2006, 03:33 PM

---

QUOTE(Clay @ Oct 4 2006, 09:01 AM)

victims male or female want justice.... the church has a history of NOT being supportive, of telling victims NOT to press charges.... as one who is in law enforcement as well as a an advocate for patient rights, I say go to the po....

Tyler Perry's
DIARY OF A MAD BLACK WOMAN
THE MOVIE

'I AIN'T SCARED OF THE PO-PO'
IN THEATRES FEBRUARY 25th

Many churches have counseled victims not to press charges. That has allowed the perps to find more victims. Not a good idea.

---

Posted by: Clay Oct 4 2006, 03:39 PM

---

QUOTE(PeacefullyBewildered @ Oct 4 2006, 03:33 PM)

Many churches have counseled victims not to press charges. That has allowed the perps to find more victims. Not a good idea.

---

thank you PB.... thats where I am coming from... churches want to keep it inhouse and the perp goes on.... in some cases continuing for years, harming who knows how many...

---

Posted by: västergötland Oct 4 2006, 03:41 PM

There is an old fable. It tells of a man with a tame bear. The man went to sleep and a while later a fly sat down on mans nose. Now this was a nice bear who loved his master and would not want him to be disturbed by a fly in his sleep. So the bear lifted his paw and smacked the fly, and unfortunately the mans head aswell. The man was never again disturbed by any flies, in fact, he was never disturbed at all after that.

From this fable we get a saying that would roughly translate to "bears service". Something which has all good intentions but with clearly opposite and probably catastrophic results. I do not know if this same or a similar saying exists in english or not.

Now to link this to the thread. How can we be certain that this fable doesnt have anything to teach in this situation that is presently discussed in this thread?

---

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Oct 4 2006, 03:48 PM

---

QUOTE(seeshell @ Oct 4 2006, 02:30 PM)

Oh yeah, remember that feeling when a sibling got whapped...

---

In my family I, as the oldest, was the Whoopee. My younger siblings learned from my mistakes. They mostly turned out better than me as well...hmmmm.

---

Posted by: Jewel50 Oct 4 2006, 03:53 PM

---

QUOTE(Denny @ Oct 4 2006, 07:47 AM)

If this is true I am sorry Ms Moore does not go to the police and report this . It is not the time to go into 'let the church handle it' mode unfortunately we all know what happens when that line is used it tends to mean 'cover it up time and blame the victim'.

---

A thousand AMENS to the part about how the church tends to cover it all up and blame the victum. I can testify to that. She needs turn him in, but not to the church sorry to say. They just do nothing to help victims.

---

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Oct 4 2006, 03:58 PM

---

QUOTE(västergötland @ Oct 4 2006, 02:41 PM)

There is an old fable. It tells of a man with a tame bear. The man went to sleep and a while later a fly sat down on mans nose. Now this was a nice bear who loved his master and would not want him to be disturbed by a fly in his sleap. So the bear lifted his paw and smacked the fly, and unfortunately the mans head aswell. The man was never again disturbed by any flies, in fact, he was never disturbed at all after that.

From this fable we get a saying that would roughly translate to "bears service". Something which has all good intentions but with clearly opposite and probably catastrophic results. I do not know if this same or a similar saying exists in english or not.

Now to link this to the thread. How can we be certain that this fable doesnt have anything to teach in this situation that is presently discussed in this thread?

Personally I can't think of of any U.S. sayings except for possibly "his intentions were good". It is my opinion that the "bears service" could apply here.

I would love to see the Swedish word or words that translates "bears service", and a phonetic pronunciation would be nice as well. It sounds like a term I would like to incorporate into my vocabulary.

---

Posted by: sister Oct 4 2006, 04:28 PM

---

QUOTE(västergötland @ Oct 4 2006, 04:41 PM)

There is an old fable. It tells of a man with a tame bear. The man went to sleep and a while later a fly sat down on mans nose. Now this was a nice bear who loved his master and would not want him to be disturbed by a fly in his sleap. So the bear lifted his paw and smacked the fly, and unfortunately the mans head aswell. The man was never again disturbed by any flies, in fact, he was never disturbed at all after that.

From this fable we get a saying that would roughly translate to "bears service". Something which has all good intentions but with clearly opposite and probably catastrophic results. I do not know if this same or a similar saying exists in english or not.

Now to link this to the thread. How can we be certain that this fable doesnt have anything to teach in this situation that is presently discussed in this thread?

I think the english expression that would best fit this situation is: "The road to hell is paved with good intentions."

---

Posted by: watchbird Oct 4 2006, 04:48 PM

---

QUOTE(calvin @ Oct 4 2006, 02:18 PM)

 Wha I do, scare eveybody off? I anit mad at jus ish .... for two hours nobody posted in this thread ... and you think you scared us all off? Hey ... don't we get NO time for a life off of your screen. Give us a break .... slave driver!!!!

  b

We'll be back soon.....  tableta .....  band.gif .....

---

Posted by: princessdi Oct 4 2006, 04:53 PM

---

QUOTE(watchbird @ Oct 4 2006, 03:48 PM)

Jish .... for two hours nobody posted in this thread ... and you think you scared us all off? Hey ... don't we get NO time for a life off of your screen. Give us a break .... slave driver!!!!

  b

We'll be back soon.....  tableta .....  band.gif .....

---

Posted by: watchbird Oct 4 2006, 04:59 PM

---

QUOTE(västergötland @ Oct 4 2006, 03:41 PM)

There is an old fable. It tells of a man with a tame bear. The man went to sleep and a while later a fly sat down on mans nose. Now this was a nice bear who loved his master and would not want him to be disturbed by a fly in his sleep. So the bear lifted his paw and smacked the fly, and unfortunately the mans head aswell. The man was never again disturbed by any flies, in fact, he was never disturbed at all after that.

From this fable we get a saying that would roughly translate to "bears service". Something which has all good intentions but with clearly opposite and probably catastrophic results. I do not know if this same or a similar saying exists in english or not.

Now to link this to the thread. How can we be certain that this fable doesnt have anything to teach in this situation that is presently discussed in this thread?

DK..... color me dense. I'm not getting the connection...maybe because I'm not sure what "situation that is presently discussed" means in this context.

---

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Oct 4 2006, 05:28 PM

QUOTE(watchbird @ Oct 4 2006, 03:59 PM)

OK..... color me dense. I'm not getting the connection...maybe because I'm not sure what "situation that is presently discussed" means in this context.

Perhaps that by trying to protect Alyssa from the trauma of confronting her attacker they are actually causing her damage in the long run. That's what I got anyway.

---

Posted by: AmeliaLD Oct 4 2006, 06:27 PM

QUOTE(calvin @ Oct 4 2006, 11:36 AM)

I have said on a number of occasions that we are limiting our discussion of Danny Shelton as it relates to 3ABN. We are NOT going to speculate on his prior life.

How far in the past does a matter have to occur for it to be "prior life"? Just curious 'cause 6 years is a fair bit of time Or do you mean Dannys life before Linda?

---

Posted by: Daryl Fawcett Oct 4 2006, 07:01 PM

I was wondering the same thing.

If the prior life is connected to the present life, then isn't it relevant?

As far as this topic goes, at MSDAOL, I as the Administrator there agreed not to post it there, and, even though it has now been posted here, unless I am relieved from this agreement, I do not plan on posting it there.

---

Posted by: sister Oct 4 2006, 07:16 PM

QUOTE(Daryl Fawcett @ Oct 4 2006, 08:01 PM)

I was wondering the same thing.

If the prior life is connected to the present life, then isn't it relevant?

The official rule at BSDA is that everything that took place before the founding of 3ABN is off limits, relevant or not...

---

Posted by: Uncle Sam Oct 4 2006, 07:27 PM

Not to defend the GC but...Don't you think it is a little suspicious to them that it is Linda's daughter making the accusations? If, they believe Linda had an affair than couldn't this be "revenge" ? So there may not be any credibility...

---

Posted by: husbandoftheyear Oct 4 2006, 07:45 PM

QUOTE(princessdi @ Oct 4 2006, 03:42 PM)

You know how it is when one child gets a whoopin' the rest get quiet! LOL!!!

There were a whole bunch in my family and a whole lotta silence!

 rofl

---

Posted by: husbandoftheyear Oct 4 2006, 08:04 PM

I'm going to apologize now for making everyone thoroughly upset but it's my opinion...

For months this issue has been discussed and I can't count how any times people on the inside said something to the effect of how critical it was to get people on BSDA so that people would know what was happening at 3ABN. (Without specifics of course) Now, after this incredible statement is published (inevitably), "source" is smacked on the hands.

I would normally be the first to say that it would have been appropriate to follow instructions given by the victim. HOWEVER, this is too great and public of a matter to be dealt with quietly and within the confines of the church.

Time and time again history has proven that most organizations choose to keep their secrets secret. So, I'm really unsure as to why this being published is a bad thing. With this statement in the open, the public has something solid to stand on.

3ABN chose years ago to keep Scott Grady's secrets secret and he went on to unknowing victims. IF GIVEN THE CHANCE 3ABN WILL DO IT AGAIN! DOESN'T ANYONE SEE? By allowing the information out it FORCES the issue to be looked at differently, and I dare say, more seriously since the church and the "business" have much more to worry about.

HAVE WE ALL FORGOTTEN THAT IT IS US THAT FUNDS THESE ENTITIES?

---

Posted by: calvin Oct 4 2006, 08:23 PM

QUOTE(AmeliaLD @ Oct 4 2006, 06:27 PM)

How far in the past does a matter have to occur for it to be "prior life"? Just curious 'cause 6 years is a fair bit of time Or do you mean Dannys life before Linda?

Somebody help me here, but I believe 3abn started in the mid-80's? That gives us 20+ years of stuff to talk about. Danny started 3abn with Linda as his wife. Whatever happen with his frist wife is out of scope.

---

Posted by: sister Oct 4 2006, 08:38 PM

QUOTE(Uncle Sam @ Oct 4 2006, 08:27 PM)

Not to defend the GC but...Don't you think it is a little suspicious to them that it is Linda's daughter making the accusations? If, they believe Linda had an affair than couldn't this be "revenge" ? So there may not be any credibility...

Uncle Sam, it sounds like to must have watched the "behind the scenes" program where Shelly Quinn preached on this very subject. In her sermon she accused the mother of using her daughter to make accusations against God's annointed prophet. She said they did not blame the daughter, that is was a scheme of the mother and the daughter was only a pawn in the game. It was clearly intended to give the spin you are now suggesting. Perhaps that is where you got this notion?

This is exactly what Danny Shelton and Walt Thompson want you to believe: everyone is a pathological liar who testifies of the heinous acts that Danny has done against them. The premise they have built their house of cards upon is that we are gullible enough to believe everyone is wrong who opposes Danny and that Danny's word is unquestionable truth. I would say LOL at this point, because it is such a ridiculous concept, but to the victims it really isn't very funny...

---

Posted by: Uncle Sam Oct 4 2006, 08:43 PM

QUOTE(sister @ Oct 4 2006, 07:38 PM)

Uncle Sam, it sounds like to must have watched the "behind the scenes" program where Shelly Quinn preached on this very subject. In her sermon she accused the mother of using her daughter to make accusations against God's annointed prophet. She said they did not blame the daughter, that is was a scheme of the mother and the daughter was only a pawn in the game. It was clearly intended to give the spin you are now suggesting. Perhaps that is where you got this notion?

This is exactly what Danny Shelton and Walt Thompson want you to believe: everyone is a pathological liar who testifies of the heinous acts that Danny has done against them. The premise they have built their house of cards upon is that we are gullible enough to believe everyone is wrong who opposes Danny and that Danny's word is unquestionable truth. I would say LOL at this point, because it is such a ridiculous concept, but to the victims it really isn't very funny...

I did not see that particular show. I am not saying it didn't happen but it would be nice if someone would come forward with something that doesn't seem to have a grudge against Danny...is that something in the works?

---

Posted by: husbandoftheyear Oct 4 2006, 09:24 PM

QUOTE(Uncle Sam @ Oct 4 2006, 09:43 PM)

it would be nice if someone would come forward with something that doesn't seem to have a grudge against Danny...is that something in the works?

I'm sorry, Uncle Sam, but that just doesn't make any sense.

Would anyone be able to make any accusation without it looking like a grudge? If so, it would be a compliment and not an accusation...

---

Posted by: Lee Oct 4 2006, 09:30 PM

How old was this girl when these things happened to her? It sounded like she was "college" age? Would that be 18 or older? I don't know how old she was in 2000 when she said these things happened.

But would she be considered an adult at the time these things happened? Would this make a difference in a court of law?

---

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Oct 4 2006, 10:42 PM

QUOTE(husbandoftheyear @ Oct 4 2006, 07:04 PM)

I'm going to apologize now for making everyone thoroughly upset but it's my opinion...

For months this issue has been discussed and I can't count how many times people on the inside said something to the effect of how critical it was to get people on BSDA so that people would know what was happening at 3ABN. (Without specifics of course) Now, after this incredible statement is published (inevitably), "source" is smacked on the hands.

I would normally be the first to say that it would have been appropriate to follow instructions given by the victim. HOWEVER, this is too great and public of a matter to be dealt with quietly and within the confines of the church.

Time and time again history has proven that most organizations choose to keep their secrets secret. So, I'm really unsure as to why this being published is a bad thing. With this statement in the open, the public has something solid to stand on.

3ABN chose years ago to keep Scott Grady's secrets secret and he went on to unknowing victims. IF GIVEN THE CHANCE 3ABN WILL DO IT AGAIN! DOESN'T ANYONE SEE? By allowing the information out it FORCES the issue to be looked at differently, and I dare say, more seriously since the church and the "business" have much more to worry about.

HAVE WE ALL FORGOTTEN THAT IT IS US THAT FUNDS THESE ENTITIES?

When I read Source's post I noticed that he didn't make an introduction to the information he was posting as I have seen when others have posted letters not their own - such as Barbara Kerr's and chapters of The televangelist.

Being fairly new I thought perhaps it was protocol to introduce and state whether permission had been given. I didn't feel I was slapping his hand. I was glad to finally read the much spoken of letter.

Now, who is Scott Grady and what did he do and who kept it secret and WHY?

---

Posted by: husbandoftheyear Oct 4 2006, 11:01 PM

QUOTE(PeacefullyBewildered @ Oct 4 2006, 11:42 PM)

Now, who is Scott Grady and what did he do and who kept it secret and WHY?

Boy are you in for a treat ... it's like hot fudge on top of this hot mess...

Scott Grady was a director who worked for 3ABN for quite a few years. Several women went to administration when Scott started sexually harassing them. Years later melody went to mollie saying that she was receiving calls from scott that were sexual in nature and had them recorded. (I should note that is speculated by many that it was actually an affair.) And to clear one thing - I was a first-hand witness to the harassment of 2 of the women and was willing to testify as were other men at the station - not counting the women. So whether scott and melody had an affair is secondary.

Once Dan heard what was happening, scott was suspended from the production truck and soon after even more women came out of the woodwork. Scott was NOT fired and there were no legal actions taken. With a dozen women's testimonies of the harassment, 3ABN felt that there were "no legal options."

He was allowed to resign and continues to work in ministries around the world. Nothing was done nor was there even a "kiss my rear end" for the women who were abused. Not a meeting, not a letter, nothing.

Scott's reputation is in tact as far as I know...that's 3ABN justice!

---

Posted by: västergötland Oct 4 2006, 11:48 PM

QUOTE(watchbird @ Oct 4 2006, 11:59 PM)

OK.... color me dense. I'm not getting the connection...maybe because I'm not sure what "situation that is presently discussed" means in this context.

Who is the man getting smacked by his bear pal? Who is the bear doing the smacking? Come on, the context is in my other posts in this thread.

---

Posted by: watchbird Oct 5 2006, 03:55 AM

QUOTE(västergötland @ Oct 4 2006, 11:48 PM)

Who is the man getting smacked by his bear pal? Who is the bear doing the smacking? Come on, the context is in my other posts in this thread.

Those were my questions exactly. And I've examined your other posts.... and I still don't know. Maybe you could PM me on it.

---

Posted by: västergötland Oct 5 2006, 05:05 AM

What if Alyssa is the bearowner? Who around is trying to help? What do I think about the actions so far presented?

If a crime has been done, it should be brought before a judge (and since in US, also a Jury). If a crime has not been done, alot of people in this forum have some explaining to do.

If a crime has been done and you bring it before the church rather than the court of law, watch out for those bear paws flying around.

---

Posted by: summertime Oct 5 2006, 08:25 AM

QUOTE(Daryl Fawcett @ Oct 4 2006, 07:01 PM)

I was wondering the same thing.

If the prior life is connected to the present life, then isn't it relevant?

As far as this topic goes, at MSDAOL, I as the Administrator there agreed not to post it there, and, even though it has now been posted here, unless I am relieved from this agreement, I do not plan on posting it there.

Daryl, in all sincerity I wish that you would give us the reason that you have decided not to post Alyssia's letter on MSDOL. Is it that you do not believe the authenticity of the letter, or that you are protecting 3ABN from it being posted, or since you have already read it on BSDA you feel that you are relieved of the responsibility of it being posted so that all can read it, or that the SDA conference should be left to cover up the wrongs of its leaders so that it can remain strong in the eyes of the beholder?. Would it have been better if Alyssia would have taken her story to the courts way back in the year 2000? I feel that she will take the beating so that the perp can remain strong.

---

Posted by: justme Oct 5 2006, 08:31 AM

QUOTE(västergötland @ Oct 5 2006, 07:05 AM)

What if Alyssa is the bearowner? Who around is trying to help? What do I think about the actions so far presented?

If a crime has been done, it should be brought before a judge (and since in US, also a Jury). If a crime has not been done, alot of people in this forum have some explaining to do.

If a crime has been done and you bring it before the church rather than the court of law, watch out for those bear paws flying around.

Some 20 years or so ago when the actions allegedly took place that raise questions about Tommy, there was not nearly the "outcry" that there is today. So there are more chances of justice for earlier victims now than there was then. For one thing there is more outrage in general than there used to be. And there are more and better investigative techniques available now. Convictions are more prevalent. Sentences are longer and more appropriate. National sex-offender registration and reporting is taking place and tracking is improving.

It occurs to me that the way a law is written will determine whether a crime has been committed or not. In most states it seems that a person must be under "the age of consent" for a crime to have been committed. If the victim is OF the "age of consent" ("AOC" for now) then it depends on if there was or was not consent. If the victim has not been reached AOC then it mat called "a statutory crime", or "crimes against children".

I wonder what age Alyssa was at the time the allegations took place. When I say "allegations" I do NOT mean to MINIMIZE anything! It's a term I HAVE TO USE at this time.

When all is said and done with this fiasco, I do hope we all learn to become more aware of questions we should be asking before we "start plopping down our hard-earned dollars" or "put people up on pedestals" just because they might happen to have a "silver tongue", or because they have cute grandchildren. Who said, "an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure"? (so far it's taking a lot of pounding to try to cure)

Can we also explore / discuss some ways to become "Wise as serpents but harmless as doves"?

---

Posted by: Observer Oct 5 2006, 08:39 AM

Alyssia was 18, or over, and therefore had reached the age of consent.

The alleged offense was therefore not a crime against a minor. It might fall into the category of a crime of sexual assault.

---

Posted by: Observer Oct 5 2006, 08:50 AM

QUOTE(summertime @ Oct 5 2006, 08:25 AM)

Daryl, in all sincerity I wish that you would give us the reason that you have decided not to post Alyssia's letter on MSDOL. Is it that you do not believe the authenticity of the letter, or that you are protecting 3ABN from it being posted, or since you have already read it on BSDA you feel that you are relieved of the responsibility of it being posted so that all can read it, or that the SDA conference should be left to cover up the wrongs of its leaders so that it can remain strong in the eyes of the beholder?. Would it have been better if Alyssia would have taken her story to the courts way back in the year 2000? I feel that she will take the beating so that the perp can remain strong.

In the area where I live, the media has generally agreed not to publish the names of claimed victims of sexual assault, unless that person either releases the media, or goes public.

That is the rationale behind Daryl not publishing Alyssia's statement.

Alyssia clearly stated that she was providing her statement to denominational officials, did not want it published on the Internet, and did not want her name disclosed on the Internet. She also stated that everyperson who recieved her statemet must also be given her limitations on disclosure.

Someone, I do not know who, provided Alyssia's statement to another person without the limitations on disclosure. That person promptly posted both the statement, and the name, in MSDAOL.

When the person was taken to task for violating Alyssia's limitations, he promptly requested that the statement be removed. Due to the fact that Alyssia has never given permission for the wide-spread circulation that her statement has recieved, Daryl has not allowed it to be posted.

That position is an honorable one.

Yes, Alyssia should have known that someone would eventually leak it. But, it did stay secret for a period of time.

Yes, that statement has been circulated so widely that there may no longer be any reason to keep it secret. Perhaps it is now ethical to publish it due to its wide circulation.

But, people differ on ethical issues. Daryl has taken an ethical stand. That does not mean that BSDA is unethical for doing differently. People differ as to how they apply ethics to life.

---

Posted by: watchbird Oct 5 2006, 08:58 AM

QUOTE(summertime @ Oct 5 2006, 08:25 AM) □

Daryl, in all sincerity I wish that you would give us the reason that you have decided not to post Alyssia's letter on MSDOL. Is it that you do not believe the authenticity of the letter, or that you are protecting 3ABN from it being posted, or since you have already read it on BSDA you feel that you are relieved of the responsibility of it being posted so that all can read it, or that the SDA conference should be left to cover up the wrongs of its leaders so that it can remain strong in the eyes of the beholder?. Would it have been better if Alyssia would have taken her story to the courts way back in the year 2000? I feel that she will take the beating so that the perp can remain strong.

He already gave it, Summertime. Daryl committed to keeping her name off of his forum in accordance with her written instructions. And whatever other faults Daryl has, he is a man of his word. If he receives different written instructions, I am sure he will bring it to his forum. (And don't think this is a backhanded slap at Calvin, either. Calvin made no such commitment, so he was free to adhere to the request as long as he thought best, and to make a different judgement call when he thought best.)

IMO, it does no one any good to make hindsight comments on what Alyssa should have done back in the year 2000. It is quite obvious that she was not strong enough at that point to even confide fully in enough people to form a support base from which she *might* have been able to press charges. And with her limited financial resources, what would have been the chances of her winning such a case had she done so? With the battalion of lawyers that Danny's supporters could have mustered? Absolutely worse than zero! Certainly had she done so there, she would have merely "taken a beating" and the "perp" would have remained strong.

The Lord's timing is best. Let us concentrate on becoming part of Alyssa's support group rather than adding our criticism to the burden she already has to carry.

And beyond becoming "just" a "support group", I think it would be helpful for us to do some analysis of the factors which cause the sense of powerlessness to resist which all those who grow up in a home where a family member .... especially a father or father figure.... moves beyond appropriate bounds in showing physical "affection". Where are our counselors who are dealing with this almost every day in their work? Can we hear from some of them in this area?

QUOTE(Observer @ Oct 5 2006, 08:39 AM) □

Alyssia was 18, or over, and therefore had reached the age of consent.

The alleged offense was therefore not a crime against a minor. It might fall into the category of a crime of sexual assault.

It is hardly conceivable that the allegations that cover the 2000 time period were the first that could have been made. Alyssa is still growing in her capacity to handle the past.... and perhaps even now she does not fully recognize or understand the steps that were taken before that fateful summer that she identifies. Let's keep in mind that we are not judges. Nor are we her counselors. But given those caveates, it is still important for us to learn the dynamics that lead up to situations like this ... not merely to help Alyssa recognize them..... doubtless her counselors are doing that. But for the benefit of mothers who need help in recognizing the signs that their girls are at risk.... and for other women who are still struggling with memories and shame.... discussing the dynamics of these homes can, I think, be of real benefit.

---

Posted by: Observer Oct 5 2006, 09:12 AM

QUOTE(watchbird @ Oct 5 2006, 07:58 AM)

He already gave it, Summertime. Daryl committed to keeping her name off of his forum in accordance with her written instructions. And whatever other faults Daryl has, he is a man of his word. If he receives different written instructions, I am sure he will bring it to his forum. (And don't think this is a backhanded slap at Calvin, either. Calvin made no such commitment, so he was free to adhere to the request as long as he thought best, and to make a different judgement call when he thought best.)

IMO, it does no one any good to make hindsight comments on what Alyssa should have done back in the year 2000. It is quite obvious that she was not strong enough at that point to even confide fully in enough people to form a support base from which she *might* have been able to press charges. And with her limited financial resources, what would have been the chances of her winning such a case had she done so? With the battalion of lawyers that Danny's supporters could have mustered? Absolutely worse than zero! Certainly had she done so there, she would have merely "taken a beating" and the "perp" would have remained strong.

The Lord's timing is best. Let us concentrate on becoming part of Alyssa's support group rather than adding our criticism to the burden she already has to carry.

And beyond becoming "just" a "support group", I think it would be helpful for us to do some analysis of the factors which cause the sense of powerlessness to resist which all those who grow up in a home where a family member .... especially a father or father figure.... moves beyond appropriate bounds in showing physical "affection". Where are our counselors who are dealing with this almost every day in their work? Can we hear from some of them in this area?

It is hardly conceivable that the allegations that cover the 2000 time period were the first that could have been made. Alyssa is still growing in her capacity to handle the past.... and perhaps even now she does not fully recognize or understand the steps that were taken before that fateful summer that she identifies. Let's keep in mind that we are not judges. Nor are we her counselors. But given those caveates, it is still important for us to learn the dynamics that lead up to situations like this ... not merely to help Alyssa recognize them..... doubtless her counselors are doing that. But for the benefit of mothers who need help in recognizing the signs that their girls are at risk.... and for other women who are still struggling with memories and shame.... discussing the dynamics of these homes can, I think, be of real benefit.

I understand. My comment regarding her age, was specific to the events she described in her statement.

Yes, there may be more.

---

Posted by: Chez Oct 5 2006, 10:04 AM

QUOTE(watchbird @ Oct 5 2006, 08:58 AM)

He already gave it, Summertime. Daryl committed to keeping her name off of his forum in accordance with her written instructions. And whatever other faults Daryl has, he is a man of his word. If he receives different written instructions, I am sure he will bring it to his forum. (And don't think this is a backhanded slap at Calvin, either. Calvin made no such commitment, so he was free to adhere to the request as long as he thought best, and to make a different judgement call when he thought best.)

IMO, it does no one any good to make hindsight comments on what Alyssa should have done back in the year 2000. It is quite obvious that she was not strong enough at that point to even confide fully in enough people to form a support base from which she *might* have been able to press charges. And with her limited financial resources, what would have been the chances of her winning such a case had she done so? With the battalion of lawyers that Danny's supporters could have mustered? Absolutely worse than zero! Certainly had she done so there, she would have merely "taken a beating" and the "perp" would have remained strong.

The Lord's timing is best. Let us concentrate on becoming part of Alyssa's support group rather than adding our criticism to the burden she already has to carry.

And beyond becoming "just" a "support group", I think it would be helpful for us to do some analysis of the factors which cause the sense of powerlessness to resist which all those who grow up in a home where a family member .... especially a father or father figure.... moves beyond appropriate bounds in showing physical "affection". Where are our counselors who are dealing with this almost every day in their work? Can we hear from some of them in this area?

It is hardly conceivable that the allegations that cover the 2000 time period were the first that could have been made. Alyssa is still growing in her capacity to handle the past.... and perhaps even now she does not fully recognize or understand the steps that were taken before that fateful summer that she identifies. Let's keep in mind that we are not judges. Nor are we her counselors. But given those caveates, it is still important for us to learn the dynamics that lead up to situations like this ... not merely to help Alyssa recognize them..... doubtless her counselors are doing that. But for the benefit of mothers who need help in recognizing the signs that their girls are at risk.... and for other women who are still struggling with memories and shame.... discussing the dynamics of these homes can, I think, be of real benefit.

had often wondered about Alyssa. How was it for her living in the house with Danny? Now, we know. The place where she should have felt safe was far from safe. She couldn't tell anybody about what Danny was doing to her, not even her mother. I applaud her bravery in sharing this information (even if it should have been restricted to a small group of people). We must pray for her continued healing and for Linda and Nathan.

---

Posted by: inga Oct 5 2006, 10:36 AM

QUOTE(Clay @ Oct 4 2006, 08:41 AM)

she does not need to meet with 3ABN.... she alleges inappropriate behavior, file criminal charges and let the chips fall where they may.....

'es!!!!!!

If Alyssa were the only one to have experienced inappropriate advances by Danny, it would be more difficult. But if she can secure the cooperation of others, there is some reason to expect success in a lawsuit.

It is true that "brethren" are not to go to law against each other. However, the biblical precedent is clear that, if all the allegations are true, Danny should long ago have been disfellowshipped for his sexual misconduct and would therefore no longer be a "brother in the church."

QUOTE(simplysaved @ Oct 4 2006, 09:02 AM)

I agree 100%....no "alleged sexual abuse victim" should ever have to face an alleged perpetrator in this context....that would do nothing but re-traumatize the victim....

Indeed!!!

For 3ABN to even request such a "hearing" is to attempt to intimidate her and thus re-abuse her.

---

Posted by: Ralph Oct 5 2006, 11:08 AM

QUOTE(sister @ Oct 4 2006, 08:38 PM)

Uncle Sam, it sounds like to must have watched the "behind the scenes" program where Shelly Quinn preached on this very subject. In her sermon she accused the mother of using her daughter to make accusations against God's annointed prophet. She said they did not blame the daughter, that is was a scheme of the mother and the daughter was only a pawn in the game. It was clearly intended to give the spin you are now suggesting. Perhaps that is where you got this notion?

This is exactly what Danny Shelton and Walt Thompson want you to believe: everyone is a pathological liar who testifies of the heinous acts that Danny has done against them. The premise they have built their house of cards upon is that we are gullible enough to believe everyone is wrong who opposes Danny and that Danny's word is unquestionable truth. I would say LOL at this point, because it is such a ridiculous concept, but to the victims it really isn't very funny...

Right on, Sister. Now that we have seen the post regarding Linda's daughter, new comers may wish to review the transcript of the sermons by John Lomacang and Shelley Quinn that I mentioned in a <http://www.blacksda.com/forums/index.php?s=&showtopic=10717&view=findpost&p=150828>. I talked to some people who had watched the program who did not know the background. Even they knew that there was something wrong, but I have a hunch that most of them did not catch on to Shelley's introductory story about John the Baptist.

---

Posted by: Uncle Sam Oct 5 2006, 11:44 AM

QUOTE(Ralph @ Oct 5 2006, 10:08 AM)

Right on, Sister. Now that we have seen the post regarding Linda's daughter, new comers may wish to review the transcript of the sermons by John Lomacang and Shelley Quinn that I mentioned in a <http://www.blacksda.com/forums/index.php?s=&showtopic=10717&view=findpost&p=150828>. I talked to some people who had watched the program who did not know the background. Even they knew that there was something wrong, but I have a hunch that most of them did not catch on to Shelley's introductory story about John the Baptist.

I have read what Shelly and John said on that particular show. I think it was disgusting, but once again we have she said he said. I am sure Danny will deny this...are there others that will come forward?

---

Posted by: watchbird Oct 6 2006, 09:38 AM

QUOTE(västergötland @ Oct 5 2006, 05:05 AM)

What if Alyssa is the bearowner? Who around is trying to help? What do I think about the actions so far presented?

If a crime has been done, it should be brought before a judge (and since in US, also a Jury). If a crime has not been done, alot of people in this forum have some explaining to do.

If a crime has been done and you bring it before the church rather than the court of law, watch out for those bear paws flying around.

Thanks.... I think I've "got it" this time around.... and I think I am in total agreement.

There is, no doubt, situations in which "bear paws" are the instrument/tool of choice .... but NOT, I think, for either doing facial surgery or healing wounds to the psyche.

So yes, I agree..... we need to be very careful to "watch out" for anything that looks like "bear claws" and not allow ourselves to be unthinkingly drawn into support of that type of "help".

---

Posted by: icedragon Oct 8 2006, 02:55 PM

QUOTE(source @ Oct 3 2006, 11:03 PM)

July 7, 2006

This is a formal statement which is long overdue. I did not disclose this information when the events occurred because I did not want to hurt my mother. I did not want to cause trouble with 3 ABN, and I was too embarrassed to talk about it. Now that some time has passed and circumstances have changed I feel the need to share this information. I want to spare others from being exposed to the same treatment that I have experienced.

- 1) The repeated inappropriate actions from my ex-stepfather, Danny Shelton, occurred in the summer of the year 2000.
- 2) I had been away at school for some years. I was happy to be returning home to attend a local University.
- 3) My mother always went to bed rather early. Her bedroom was upstairs and my bedroom was downstairs. Danny started coming into my room getting into my bed and rubbing my back. He seemed to "accidentally" get too low. I told him I did not want a back rub. He ignored me. This happened repeatedly.
- 4) I began locking my bedroom door every night. Sometimes he would come to the door and knock again and again. I did not answer. He then repeatedly unlocked my bedroom door and came into my room. He would then get into my bed. I was not comfortable with this but I was so tired I still fell asleep. I awoke sometimes with his hands in inappropriate places. He would say "Oh, I'm sorry. I thought it was your Mom." He told me not to tell my Mom. I told him to stay out of my room. He still came. I started sleep on the living room couch so that he could not lie beside me.
- 5) I felt threatened and very uncomfortable with these things, so I made arrangements to move out.

Signed,

---

Alyssa Moore (daughter of Linda Shelton )

s this real??

---

Posted by: Daryl Fawcett Oct 8 2006, 03:02 PM

Yes, it is real, as I have a signed copy, however, I received it on condition that I wouldn't post it on any forum, which I honoured and never did, and until given permission to do so, will not post it over at MSDAOL, or allow it to be posted there by anybody else.

I am still disappointed it has been posted here.

---

Posted by: Clay Oct 8 2006, 03:02 PM

---

QUOTE(icedragon @ Oct 8 2006, 03:55 PM)

Is this real??

yes.... I have seen the emailed copy with her signature..... while that doesn't prove anything, she has not come forward to say its not real.....

---

Posted by: sonshineonme Oct 8 2006, 03:27 PM

---

QUOTE(icedragon @ Oct 8 2006, 01:55 PM)

Is this real??

Yes, it is real, I also have a signed copy. It was not for public distribution. It was difficult enough to put it in writing as that means you are not keeping it a secret anymore - there are many emotions that go with stating it on paper - it moves from your mind (the experience itself which you have keep to yourself for obvious reasons) to actually being told, although on paper. When one makes that step, they hope to keep it still somewhat out of the public forum because of just what can happen by just anyones eyes - "it must be to get back at someone" or any of the other reasons people will determine other then accepting it for the plain truth that it is. Unless you have been through it yourself, I suppose you can not understand what it takes to actually "tell" on someone.

---

Posted by: Clay Oct 8 2006, 03:31 PM

---

QUOTE(Daryl Fawcett @ Oct 8 2006, 03:02 PM)

Yes, it is real, as I have a signed copy, however, I received it on condition that I wouldn't post it on any forum, which I honoured and never did, and until given permission to do so, will not post it over at MSDAOL, or allow it to be posted there by anybody else.

I am still disappointed it has been posted here.

whateva Daryl... I don't know why... people want evidence and then refuse to provide it, choosing instead to hint at it, never directly stating what it is.... that gets old....

How do you know permission wasnt given? Additionally as I said before if something is gonna be done, those who can do will either have to tinkle or get off the potty.....

---

Posted by: sonshineonme Oct 8 2006, 03:42 PM

QUOTE(Clay @ Oct 8 2006, 02:31 PM)

whateva Daryl... I don't know why... people want evidence and then refuse to provide it, choosing instead to hint at it, never directly stating what it is.... that gets old....

How do you know permission wasnt given? Additionally as I said before if something is gonna be done, those who can do will either have to tinkle or get off the potty.....

I'm not Daryl, but I do know that permission WAS NOT given.

It is not good to "hint" at things if it comes across as "nanny nanny boo-boo", and if that happened, that is too bad. The sad fact is that those given the letter/statement, and that's all the way to the top, knew that it was not for public distribution, and apparently did it anyway.

---

Posted by: watchbird Oct 8 2006, 04:25 PM

QUOTE(icedragon @ Oct 8 2006, 02:55 PM)

Is this real??

Yes, it is real. After it went out to the first wave of highly placed GC administrators and other key figures.... some of them became very proactive in sending it on to others in the permitted classifications of recipients and distribution methods.... so it has indeed had a wide distribution. However, whether or not that fact makes it technically in "the public domain", it is still a fact of equal or greater importance that it was a breach of Christian courtesy and committment to a hurting woman for someone to expose her to a wider audience than what she had stipulated as being the extent of her willingness to be so exposed.

But.... is this not the inevitable result, as Clay indicated, of the clammoring of those who will not accept a narrative account of anything but insist instead on "documented proof" from the abused person's own lips.... and then when even that is given, will not be satisfied with the word of others that they have seen the document, but insist on reading every bloodstained word themselves?

Doesn't scripture specify that the statement of a witness.... when confirmed by two or three others.... is sufficient evidence? Why is that not sufficient for readers of these forums? I have no idea who the person is who posted the document here.... but I am quite sure that had there not been the continual hue and cry for "Documentation.... documentation.... and more documentation!" that the person who posted this would not have so unthinkingly .... and unkindly..... exposed this dear bleeding sister in ways that she had expressly requested that she not be exposed.

---

Posted by: PeacefullyBewildered Oct 8 2006, 06:49 PM

QUOTE(watchbird @ Oct 8 2006, 03:25 PM)

Doesn't scripture specify that the statement of a witness.... when confirmed by two or three others.... is sufficient evidence? Why is that not sufficient for readers of these forums? I have no idea who the person is who posted the document here.... but I am quite sure that had there not been the continual hue and cry for "Documentation.... documentation.... and more documentation!" that the person who posted this would not have so unthinkingly .... and unkindly..... exposed this dear bleeding sister in ways that she had expressly requested that she not be exposed.

'd appreciate knowing what scripture you are referring to here so I can study it.

---

Posted by: calvin Oct 8 2006, 07:46 PM

Daryl, Sonshineonme, Watchbird and anyone dissappointed that this letter is posted here, you will get over it.

---

Posted by: September Oct 8 2006, 08:19 PM

---

QUOTE(calvin @ Oct 8 2006, 08:46 PM)

Daryl, Sonshineonme, Watchbird and anyone dissappointed that this letter is posted here, you will get over it.

Now...

---

Posted by: sonshineonme Oct 8 2006, 08:30 PM

---

QUOTE(calvin @ Oct 8 2006, 06:46 PM)

Daryl, Sonshineonme, Watchbird and anyone dissappointed that this letter is posted here, you will get over it.

To me it's not a matter of getting over it. I have accepted it being here. I am dissappointed that permission was not given for it to be here and it was posted here anyway. That is the part that dissapoints me. It really has nothing to do with whether it is here or not. I am specifically referring to someones request (Alyssa), naive though it could be called, it was still what she asked. Why was that not respected? Does it matter what the "rest" of the people do? That is my only issue. The argument that others have been discussed does not fly with me because these are different circumstances. Someone was violated, they put it in writing to a select group for specific reasons, and specifically asked it not be put in other places (such as a forum or on the internet). I felt from the beginning that it would not remain that way, that someone would go against her wishes and "share" it with someone. I was just hoping we would follow her request here. If we could have released her about it now, given some time has passed since she released it, maybe she would (or maybe not) have agreed. But, I have not been told she was asked. So Calvin, while I appreciate all you do here, I would have liked to see it handled differently - it may be good thinking in theory that it is out there, but to me, it wasn't my call to make even though I have had the letter myself since she first wrote it.

---

Posted by: watchbird Oct 8 2006, 09:05 PM

---

QUOTE(calvin @ Oct 8 2006, 07:46 PM)

Daryl, Sonshineonme, Watchbird and anyone dissappointed that this letter is posted here, you will get over it.

Calvin, I already said I was "over it" and was moving on to whatever discussion was best now. My current response was not a further comment on what you had done, but as response to a question that was asked, and on what I believe is the thing that must have driven the person who asked you for permission to put it on. And my "pet peeve" in this is, as I said, the never satisfied cries for "documentation" (which, IMO, btw, are not nearly so prevelant and stonewalling here on BSDA as they are on Maritime) who call every bit of information "gossip" and even if documentation is provided it is only called "he says.... she says".

But again, I repeat.... I have accepted that you gave permission, that the thread is here to stay, and now that it is here that it will be discussed. What I am looking for is what to say in that discussion which will be the best for all concerned.

---

Posted by: Panama_Pete Oct 8 2006, 09:31 PM

QUOTE(watchbird @ Oct 8 2006, 09:05 PM)

Calvin, I already said I was "over it" and was moving on to whatever discussion was best now. My current response was not a further comment on what you had done, but as response to a question that was asked, and on what I believe is the thing that must have driven the person who asked you for permission to put it on. And my "pet peeve" in this is, as I said, the never satisfied cries for "documentation" (which, IMO, btw, are not nearly so prevelant and stonewalling here on BSDA as they are on Maritime) who call every bit of information "gossip" and even if documentation is provided it is only called "he says.... she says".

But again, I repeat.... I have accepted that you gave permission, that the thread is here to stay, and now that it is here that it will be discussed. What I am looking for is what to say in that discussion which will be the best for all concerned.

Since the letter is out I'll just comment on the way things are at the moment.

Let me put the "cynic hat" on for just a moment.

Being increasingly cynical, I believe that giving the letter to General Conference personnel was the equivalent of putting the letter in a paper shredder.

I really don't see the GC making the any momentous decisions in October if they've already been sitting on the letter for two months. They're completely done with the letter and they'll soon be out buying their Christmas presents.

The option of approved distribution routes may have been a good decision at the time, but it may have failed allowing a certain "3ABN sponsor's" visit to the General Conference. We're told such a person was at the GC, and I doubt he left the building without getting his way.

As a result of the sponsor running interference, this is the only place any decision makers (constituents and donors) are ever going to see the letter. And, maybe, that's the best we can do for now. I have to believe that there is some reason for it being here since I believe a Higher Power is ultimately in control.

Cynic hat is now back off.

---

Posted by: Fran Oct 9 2006, 12:07 AM

I have been thinking about what has transpired and believe there is so much more that we can't see that this letter was meant to be posted. It has started the ball rolling, so to speak.

Much of the garbage is coming out for the public to see. This letter has further affected the donations to 3ABN. This seriously needs to be done. If this goes to court, all evidence has to be brought up in discovery anyway.

Many knew of this years ago and could do nothing about it. Before this was all said and done, the story was going to get out. There are other involved, but have not had their letters published. In time they will be. We will have confirmation of the Shelton family's characteristics. They are not Christ like.

Since some accusations go way back, I assume the power of God was not grasped by them to allow God to deliver them from these habits of sin. It was their choice. Even at this late date, they still deny the facts presented.

But, think about it realistically and holistically. What is still under the rug? Much good is coming out of this investigation. There will be things come out that will put me/us to shame. Things that have nothing to do with this letter.

There are so many facets to the mess at 3ABN. Each one must be treated individually and not all as one. Problems of one kind must be addresses with problems of the same kind. Linda's daughter does not stand alone by any means.

Allysa, Hold your head high, honey. These actions you mention are wrong. Now that it is said, you are free from him. He can no longer have a hold on you again. Sometimes it helps to call this Danny person by a different name. Maybe Daniel. That really helps, believe it or not. When you speak of him, say the new name. It helps forgiveness to flow easier and you can experience a true release. Nothing will ever change these facts, they do fade, but the memories of your feelings and maybe even rage will be right there every time you hear of, or see abuse in any form.

Now, think about this "case". It does not begin or end with sexual abuse.

There are "serious" financial problems. These must be handled alone.

Employee problems are another mess.

Then we see they are breaking the very constitution of our country. The Declaration of Independence gives each person the right to the pursuit of happiness. 3ABN has not done this. They have interfered with many individuals right to pursue their happiness.

Many of the abused have no idea they have been abused. This is one I cry about. Many individuals will find they have had their right to the pursuit of happiness circumvented. When we hear, I/we will be hurt again, and so will they.

Then there are the outside problems. Who allowed this mess to happen? Who would be considered a shareholders of 3ABN? Who closed their eyes to the wrong doing and turned their backs to allow it to continue? This takes this case away from 3ABN and into the laps of others, and maybe even certain individuals, and other independent ministries.

The Thompsonville church is about to feel some REAL pain. So will the IL Conference, Union. NAD and GC.

From this letter, the line branches out and up like a genealogical tree. We may have to change the name of these threads to, "Ready, or not, here I come!"

Think about it. This is no longer just a Danny problem. The house of God needs to be cleaned up before Jesus comes. Something must be done to STOP this from happening again. May God help us as we watch this explode.

---

Posted by: Clay Oct 9 2006, 12:26 AM

---

QUOTE(Panama_Pete @ Oct 8 2006, 09:31 PM) □

Since the letter is out I'll just comment on the way things are at the moment.

Let me put the "cynic hat" on for just a moment.

Being increasingly cynical, I believe that giving the letter to General Conference personnel was the equivalent to putting the letter in a paper shredder.

I really don't see the GC making the any momentous decisions in October if they've already been sitting on the letter for two months. They're completely done with the letter and they'll soon be out buying their Christmas presents.

The option of approved distribution routes may have been a good decision at the time, but it may have failed following a certain "3ABN sponsor's" visit to the General Conference. We're told such a person was at the GC, and I doubt he left the building without getting his way.

As a result of the sponsor running interference, this is the only place any decision makers (constituents and donors) are ever going to see the letter. And, maybe, that's the best we can do for now. I have to believe that there is some reason for it being here since I believe a Higher Power is ultimately in control.

Cynic hat is now back off.

good points Pete.... as I stated before, rarely do churches want to deal with issues like this, and usually counsel victims not to press charges.... it was naive to think that by making a statement and sending it only to church leaders that something would be done..... if its true, she should press charges and let the chips fall where they may...

---

Posted by: watchbird Oct 9 2006, 05:02 AM

QUOTE(watchbird @ Oct 8 2006, 04:25 PM) □

But.... is this not the inevitable result, as Clay indicated, of the clamoring of those who will not accept a narrative account of anything but insist instead on "documented proof" from the abused person's own lips.... and then when even that is given, will not be satisfied with the word of others that they have seen the document, but insist on reading every bloodstained word themselves?

Doesn't scripture specify that the statement of a witness.... when confirmed by two or three others.... is sufficient evidence? Why is that not sufficient for readers of these forums? I have no idea who the person is who posted the document here.... but I am quite sure that had there not been the continual hue and cry for "Documentation.... documentation.... and more documentation!" that the person who posted this would not have so unthinkingly .... and unkindly..... exposed this dear bleeding sister in ways that she had expressly requested that she not be exposed.

QUOTE(PeacefullyBewildered @ Oct 8 2006, 06:49 PM) □

I'd appreciate knowing what scripture you are refering to here so I can study it.

Deuteronomy 17:6
Deuteronomy 19:15
Matthew 18:15-17

---

Posted by: watchbird Oct 9 2006, 05:54 AM

Amen to all that Fran has said.

With one caveat.... I'd like to modify one part of one point.... see below....

QUOTE(Fran @ Oct 9 2006, 12:07 AM)

I have been thinking about what has transpired and believe there is so much more that we can't see that this letter was meant to be posted. It has started the ball rolling, so to speak.

Much of the garbage is coming out for the public to see. This letter has further affected the donations to 3ABN. This seriously needs to be done. If this goes to court, all evidence has to be brought up in discovery anyway.

Many knew of this years ago and could do nothing about it. Before this was all said and done, the story was going to get out. There are other involved, but have not had their letters published. In time they will be. We will have confirmation of the Shelton family's characteristics. They are not Christ like.

Since some accusations go way back, I assume the power of God was not grasped by them to allow God to deliver them from these habits of sin. It was their choice. Even at this late date, they still deny the facts presented.

But, think about it realistically and holistically. What is still under the rug? Much good is coming out of this investigation. There will be things come out that will put me/us to shame. Things that have nothing to do with this letter.

There are so many facets to the mess at 3ABN. Each one must be treated individually and not all as one. Problems of one kind must be addresses with problems of the same kind. Linda's daughter does not stand alone by any means.

Allysa, Hold your head high, honey. These actions you mention are wrong. Now that it is said, you are free from him. He can no longer have a hold on you again. Sometimes it helps to call this Danny person by a different name. Maybe Daniel. That really helps, believe it or not. When you speak of him, say the new name. It helps forgiveness to flow easier and you can experience a true release. Nothing will ever change these facts, they do fade, but the memories of your feelings and maybe even rage will be right there every time you hear of, or see abuse in any form.

Amen to this also.... except for the choice of name.... not Daniel.... that name is an honorable one in scripture and one that magnifies the name of God (EL).... Daniel = God is my Judge.

Instead I suggest merely Dan..... Dan = judge. Some interesting things about Dan in scripture....

Genesis 49: 16-18 (Jacob's blessing/prophecy for each of his sons just before his death)

Dan shall judge his people,
As one of the tribes of Israel.

Dan shall be a serpent in the way,
A horned snake in the path,
That bites the horse's heels,
So that his rider falls backward.

For Your salvation I wait, O LORD.

Comparing Joshua 19 with Judges 18, one finds that the tribe of Dan were not content with the land that had been portioned out to them, but (according to at least one Bible Dictionary entry) found this too limited so they spied out another territory and took that by force and changed the name of the city to Dan.

And finally, compare Revelation 7.... where Dan is conspicuous by its absence.

-----
But turning from scripture to the present.... Danny is, of course, an affectionate, diminutive form of either Dan or Daniel.... and here is something I have wondered about..... While all over the world people call him Danny..... in no communication with Linda have I ever heard her call him anything but Dan. So a question for those that knew her well before her ouster from 3abn.... Was this always the case? Did she always call him Dan?..... Or has she (consciously or unconsciously) done what Fran has suggested here and made a difference in the name by which she identifies him?

(Just a question.... I return you now to Fran's excellent analysis of what is and what must come to pass.)

QUOTE

]Now, think about this "case". It does not begin or end with sexual abuse.

There are "serious" financial problems. These must be handled alone.

Employee problems are another mess.

Then we see they are breaking the very constitution of our country. The Declaration of Independence gives each person the right to the pursuit of happiness. 3ABN has not done this. They have interfered with many individuals right to pursue their happiness.

Many of the abused have no idea they have been abused. This is one I cry about. Many individuals will find they have had their right to the pursuit of happiness circumvented. When we hear, I/we will be hurt again, and so will they.

Then there are the outside problems. Who allowed this mess to happen? Who would be considered a shareholders of 3ABN? Who closed their eyes to the wrong doing and turned their backs to allow it to continue? This takes this case away from 3ABN and into the laps of others, and maybe even certain individuals, and other independent ministries.

The Thompsonville church is about to feel some REAL pain. So will the IL Conference, Union, NAD and GC.

From this letter, the line branches out and up like a genealogical tree. We may have to change the name of these threads to, "Ready, or not, here I come!"

Think about it. This is no longer just a Danny problem. The house of God needs to be cleaned up before Jesus comes. Something must be done to STOP this from happening again. May God help us as we watch this explode.

---

Posted by: summertime Oct 9 2006, 07:49 AM

[

(Just a question.... I return you now to Fran's excellent analysis of what is and what must come to pass.)
[/quote]

A few years ago a son of one of our church members molested more than one child in the church school-- particularly a girl of grade school age. When this came to light, the chaplain of the school knew that according to the law, this crime HAD TO BE REPORTED. The young man is in jail today and will be there for a while. Why was the GC not compelled to report this crime (and certainly it was a crime) to the civil authorities? Is it because the abused was of an older age than a grade school student? They have written proof of it in their hands---I have asked around and I hear that it is against the law for them NOT to report. Any more info along this line?

---

Posted by: Observer Oct 9 2006, 09:22 AM

Re: " . . . this crime HAD TO BE REPORTED."

Local law governs when such crimes have to be reported, and who it is that has to report such crimes. Clergy often fall into an exempt category and may or may not be required to report such. On that basis, I cannot say whether or not it had to be reported.

---

Posted by: summertime Oct 9 2006, 09:29 AM

QUOTE(Observer @ Oct 9 2006, 09:22 AM)

Re: " . . . this crime HAD TO BE REPORTED."

Local law governs when such crimes have to be reported, and who it is that has to report such crimes. Clergy often fall into an exempt category and may or may not be required to report such. On that basis, I cannot say whether or not it had to be reported.

In this particular case, the Chaplain at the Academy was also a teacher there and was also the father of the last girl who was molested. Would that have made a difference as to whether he had to report it to the authorities?

---

Posted by: fallible humanbeing Oct 9 2006, 11:29 AM

QUOTE(summertime @ Oct 9 2006, 10:29 AM)

In this particular case, the Chaplain at the Academy was also a teacher there and was also the father of the last girl who was molested. Would that have made a difference as to whether he had to report it to the authorities?

In many (possibly all) states teachers, by law, are required to report any suspected abuse.

---

Posted by: simplysaved Oct 9 2006, 12:14 PM

All states are required to...

QUOTE(fallible humanbeing @ Oct 9 2006, 12:29 PM)

In many (possibly all) states teachers, by law, are required to report any suspected abuse.

---

Posted by: Observer Oct 9 2006, 12:48 PM

QUOTE(summertime @ Oct 9 2006, 08:29 AM)

In this particular case, the Chaplain at the Academy was also a teacher there and was also the father of the last girl who was molested. Would that have made a difference as to whether he had to report it to the authorities?

There may have been a clergy exception?

Posted by: justme Oct 9 2006, 02:47 PM

QUOTE(Observer @ Oct 9 2006, 01:48 PM)

There may have been a clergy exception?

According to what we have understood she had reached the "age of consent" for the state of Illinois. IF she was under the age of consent it would be a "statutory" crime against a female or against a male "under age". Having reached the age of consent a victim apparently has the "option" of reporting it or not.

Option 1. Report it?

1. Tell mom and try to make her believe it.
2. Tell "someone", Tell whom?
3. Tell the sheriff? A Sheriff in Danny's pocket!
4. Tell the conference office? The one's on Dan's board?
5. Tell the GC? They already have enough of these stories to bury.
6. Threaten Dan that "someone is gonna get told". Her word against his?
7. Victims are scrutinized more than the "perps".
8. Mom will be faced with enormous embarrassment. He'll deny it anyway.
(you add options, too)

Option 2 Don't Report it?

1. Will it continue?
2. Will someone else be next?
3. Maybe the marriage will survive if I'm quiet.
4. I "may" avoid placing my pain in public.
5. I KNOW I am not the first. No one else is reporting either. Why talk?

(Right now I just can't imagine any more either way).

Posted by: icedragon Oct 11 2006, 05:07 PM

QUOTE(Daryl Fawcett @ Oct 8 2006, 04:02 PM)

Yes, it is real, as I have a signed copy, however, I received it on condition that I wouldn't post it on any forum, which I honoured and never did, and until given permission to do so, will not post it over at MSDAOL, or allow it to be posted there by anybody else.

I am still disappointed it has been posted here.

So let me see according to the information that BSdA, CA, MSDOL have found that Danny abused his stepson, Divorced his wife because she was getting help for her son and Danny would have had to face the problems that he caused and now is guilty of sexual assault of his ex-wives daughter.? How could God have used a man like that. these problems probably didn't start yesterday they would have been on going during the whole development of 3ABN. that just does not sound possible. Any one else see this???

---

Posted by: husbandoftheyear Oct 11 2006, 05:37 PM

QUOTE(icedragon @ Oct 11 2006, 06:07 PM) □

How could God have used a man like that. these problems probably didn't start yesterday they would have been on going during the whole development of 3ABN. that just does not sound possible. Any one else see this???

Exactly why is it so hard to understand that things like this happen? People have a side they want you to see and a side they don't. Look at history and tell me if you don't see people like this. Take John W. Gacy & Jeff Dahmer. Family and neighbors said they were simply wonderful people - that was of course, before bodies were pulled out of their homes.

Not implying that anyone at 3ABN murdered anyone, just an analogy.)

---

Posted by: Uncle Sam Oct 11 2006, 07:28 PM

[quote name='husbandoftheyear' date='Oct 11 2006, 04:37 PM' post='156409']

Exactly why is it so hard to understand that things like this happen? People have a side they want you to see and a side they don't. Look at history and tell me if you don't see people like this.

Take John W. Gacy & Jeff Dahmer. Family and neighbors said they were simply wonderful people - that was of course, before bodies were pulled out of their homes.

We may not know a persons heart but God does. I have a hard time understanding too, if Danny has been "evil" all along why would God have chosen him? I believe he could have become corrupt overtime but I find it hard to believe he started out this way. I also understand many don't believe Danny was chosen and the miracle stories are made up. If that is true, why do people not speak out while they are enjoying the perks of being with Danny? Why wait until you have a falling out with him? That is where the credibility comes in....if someone had the courage, (because it is the right thing to do) to tell what Danny is doing while they are in his good graces than I believe the GC would have to listen....

---

Posted by: Tori Oct 11 2006, 08:38 PM

To those of us who are removed from 3 ABN it appears very much like a cult where you have a charismatic leader who is followed by a large group of well meaning, good people. Those who continue to think for themselves are demonized. The rest truly believe they are following God's spokesperson. And they follow, sometimes sacrificing their very lives in the process. I know from reading your posts that many of you believe that Danny has done God's work. I certainly can't judge that. There is good mixed in with so many torn lives. No one but God can untangle that. But we need to teach ourselves to continue thinking for ourselves. We need to teach our children that Christianity doesn't have to be fearful. It is fearful people who are willing to follow one person blindly. No one person has a monopoly on God. Hebrews 4:16.....Let us then approach the throne of grace with confidence, so that we may receive mercy and find grace to help us in our time of need.

---

Posted by: sonshineonme Oct 11 2006, 08:53 PM

QUOTE(Tori @ Oct 11 2006, 07:38 PM)

To those of us who are removed from 3 ABN it appears very much like a cult where you have a charismatic leader who is followed by a large group of well meaning, good people. Those who continue to think for themselves are demonized. The rest truly believe they are following God's spokesperson. And they follow, sometimes sacrificing their very lives in the process. I know from reading your posts that many of you believe that Danny has done God's work. I certainly can't judge that. There is good mixed in with so many torn lives. No one but God can untangle that. But we need to teach ourselves to continue thinking for ourselves. We need to teach our children that Christianity doesn't have to be fearful. It is fearful people who are willing to follow one person blindly. No one person has a monopoly on God. Hebrews 4:16.....Let us then approach the throne of grace with confidence, so that we may receive mercy and find grace to help us in our time of need.

Welcome Tori!

I appreciated your reply very much. You really said it quite well. This fear that you mentioned is truly key - and there are many aspects of "fear". It is VITAL that each person think for themselves, and ACT as well, having faith and trust in their Awesome Father in heaven that He will always be with them, and where there is this faith, there is no fear.

---

Posted by: justme Oct 11 2006, 08:55 PM

I wish I could agree that good things don't come from bad people. But it just hasn't been that way. Many a person who has become famous for doing good, has a side that could be infamous if found out.

The very satellites that carry Christian broadcasting may have been made by companies that abhor Christianity.

The companies that make the broadcast equipment, studio cameras, recorders, processors, antennae, etc. may be run by some of the most heathen persons.

Sky Angel had been a friend of SDA's for many years. Why did 3ABN vanish from that satellite? Of all the rumors that have circulated about the family that now runs Sky Angel not liking Danny's handling of the "mess", the actual bottom line is that, of all the channels that went off the air for a few days, only the top-watched, top-rated program providers were reinstated in the 7 restored channels. Of the three not reinstated in the lineup, 3ABN was the least watched of all the channels on Sky Angel. Even before the "mess" began. 3ABN was already losing market share before the "black out". So after they recovered 7 of the 10 "broken" channels, 3ABN didn't make the "cut".

All who work at 3ABN are there for personal reasons. Some are there to get experience in broadcasting technology and production.

Some want to be working "for the Lord" by making these programs available.

Some are there to feed their egos, and be "internationally recognized".

And the list goes on. Only those who can AFFORD to leave financially, reputation-wise, or for personal reasons, can and will leave. BUT will they "TATTLE" on the one who signed the paycheck? remember those who have been blacklisted and blackmailed for leaving or being fired. Who knows what lurks in the personnel files in Danny's office?

All hidden weaknesses, inherited and cultivated, must be brought into submission to God, or they will grow and eventually become overt as we have seen.

Another factor in personality and character display is physiology. Behavior medication and pain relievers often cause unpleasant personality changes. Sometimes a change that is criminal. Many crimes take place under the influence of drugs. Let's assume for example that he has a chronic neck/shoulder/back pain. If he takes certain meds he could lose control of otherwise controllable urges. OR he may NEED medication to control them. BUT there is NO excuse for these behaviors no matter what the underlying cause! Those around him should have counselled him to "knock-it-off"!

The GC has no clout with Danny, otherwise they would have owned 3ABN by now. It's too embarrassing now for the GC even to speak of. Are there other "Danny's" in the GC closets? And what is Danny holding over some heads at the GC?

---

Posted by: Skyhook Oct 11 2006, 10:10 PM

What justme said about the medication angle is something that is very often overlooked in situations where someone has personality changes, esp with criminal and other innapropriate behaviors. Pain medications, muscle relaxants, all of the benzodiazapine anti-anxiety medications as well as many of the sleeping meds (not to mention the stimulants that are being prescribed these days for adult attention deficit disorder which has become a kind of fad diagnosis) all can cause personality changes such as irritability, impaired judgment, poor impulse control, diminished inhibitions, grandiosity, poor judgement and episodes of paranoia and rage. The abuse of stimulants can cause episodes of obsessive erotic/sexual behavior that can even be foriegn to the person's usual leanings. I don't know anything about Danny's drug or medical history, but it is an interesting angle.

Drugs were a major factor with Jim Jones. He was on uppers and downers for years, which could help explain a lot of his crazyness.

---

Posted by: Fran Oct 11 2006, 11:32 PM

QUOTE(justme @ Oct 11 2006, 08:55 PM) □

...

All hidden weaknesses, inherited and cultivated, must be brought into submission to God, or they will grow and eventually become overt as we have seen.

Another factor in personality and character display is physiology. Behavior medication and pain relievers often cause unpleasant personality changes. Sometimes a change that is criminal. Many crimes take place under the influence of drugs. Let's assume for example that he has a chronic neck/shoulder/back pain. If he takes certain meds he could lose control of otherwise controllable urges. OR he may NEED medication to control them. BUT there is NO excuse for these behaviors no matter what the underlying cause! Those around him should have counselled him to "knock-it-off"!

The GC has no clout with Danny, otherwise they would have owned 3ABN by now. It's too embarrassing now for the GC even to speak of. Are there other "Danny's" in the GC closets? And what is Danny holding over some heads at the GC?

Very Good!

I am studying Face Profiling. It was written by an FBI Face Profiler, Mac Fulfer. He travels all over the world to help select jury's and does profiling for the FBI. He teaches profiling to Agencies that have a need. He also teaches in Universities. I have been looking at as many pics as I can of Danny and Linda, Myself and others and am really surprised at the accuracy of this science.

This has brought up to me a thought or two. John Q public has heard so long about Danny was God's Chosen! Was he? In my opinion, God used Linda. Every time she was on, she pointed everyone to Jesus.

Danny promotes Danny and Danny's miracles. Things starting getting bad when Linda left. Could it be that God's presence left with her?

Linda has placed herself at God's mercy and after all that has been done to her, she still says, "Though they slay me, Lord, I will follow thee!"

I believe God shielded her from the truths about Danny. The Lord knew what would have to happen. The Lord knew she needed to be out of harms way, safe in the arms of God.

God put information out to a chosen few. Knowing they would cry out loud until it was heard far and wide. Now others are joining in so we can see and hear "The Rest of the Story".

Even as this mess unfolds, you can visit Linda's website filled with courage and Godliness. Inspiration to the broken hearted. What a contrast!

Compare Linda's ministry with Danny's mess. Where do we find spiritual food?

There is wonderful programming on the air waves of 3ABN, by they are not produced by 3ABN. God has used the Word of these programs to save souls! Steve Wohlberg, Doug Batchelor, John Carter, ....

I used to watch Shelly Quinn every time she appeared. I don't watch her any longer. There is too much information out there for her not to know. After the story of how Herod gave his wife's daughter the head of John the Baptist, I became convinced she knew. She knew what she was doing. Shame on her.

I will not listen to John Lomacang any longer; no Hal or Mollie; I DO watch 3ABN Today to watch Danny kick himself in the face and marvel the fact that he is totally not with it! His vision of himself is not realistic, He is living a fantasy.

I believe Linda was the one teaching us how to have a relationship with God, the Father, Jesus the son, and the Holy Spirit. Just my opinion. Something to think about.

---

Posted by: sister Oct 12 2006, 06:57 AM

QUOTE(Fran @ Oct 12 2006, 12:32 AM)

Very Good!

John Q public has heard so long about Danny was God's Chosen! Was he? In my opinion, God used Linda. Every time she was on, she pointed everyone to Jesus.

I believe Linda was the one teaching us how to have a relationship with God, the Father, Jesus the son, and the Holy Spirit. Just my opinion. Something to think about.

Fran, I am in agreement with you. Could God have blessed Danny, an Achan in the camp of Isreal? No... But could the blessing upon 3ABN have been the result of Linda's faithfulness? Something very interesting to think about...

---

Posted by: SandyColorado Oct 12 2006, 11:52 AM

QUOTE(sister @ Oct 12 2006, 07:57 AM)

Fran, I am in agreement with you. Could God have blessed Danny, an Achan in the camp of Isreal? No... But could the blessing upon 3ABN have been the result of Linda's faithfulness? Something very interesting to think about...

totally agree too. I have been reading Fran's take on this for quite a while (both here and CA) and she seems to have hit the nail on the head. I know that she has been saying for quite a while to "follow the money" but this is more personal. This is what some of us have been thinking for a long time. God left the house when Linda left. All that is left is for Danny to poorly pick up the pieces and try to hold on to his sinking ship until it totally goes down. We need to continue to pray that only Danny sinks - not 3ABN.

---

Posted by: Aunt B Oct 12 2006, 03:41 PM

I agree with Fran that God's Spirit is with Linda. That is not to suggest that she is perfect, but that the fruit in her life shows that she is following Him and is willing to be used by Him. The testimony on her web site and that which she used to share on 3ABN show she has a relationship with Jesus. I also agree that God allowed her to be removed from 3ABN for a reason, as hard as it has been for her and for others to understand. As for Danny, what is the fruit of his life? Is it consistent with what he professes?

I appreciate Fran's comments, along with all the rest of you who have kept shedding light on this troubling story. So many of us have no way of knowing how to "research" to find the truth. Please keep your comments coming. I also appreciate BSDA and the willingness to allow access to the story as it plays out.

---

Posted by: paleface Oct 12 2006, 03:55 PM

I agree with you Aunt B and also Welcome to BSDA.

---

Posted by: summertime Oct 12 2006, 06:01 PM

---

QUOTE(Fran @ Oct 11 2006, 11:32 PM)

I am studying Face Profiling.

There is wonderful programming on the air waves of 3ABN, but they are not produced by 3ABN. God has used the Word of these programs to save souls! Steve Wohlberg, Doug Batchelor, John Carter, ....

Fran, I believe in everything you have stated in this post except for one thing. Why are all three of these men whom you have mentioned, Steve Wohlberg, Doug Batchelor and John Carter so quick to sing the praises of 3abn and Danny and expound of Danny's faithfulness whenever they can? I, too, have thought these men to be soulsavers, yet they hold hands with the very person who has done harm to so many people. It actually makes me feel like turning the channel whenever they come along. Matter of fact, they are on my 'doubting' list. I can understand them simply not saying anything against Danny but to speak for him when they have heard the truth never ceases to bewilder me.

---

Posted by: husbandoftheyear Oct 12 2006, 06:31 PM

---

QUOTE(summertime @ Oct 12 2006, 07:01 PM)

Why are all three of these men whom you have mentioned, Steve Wohlberg, Doug Batchelor and John Carter so quick to sing the praises of 3abn and Danny and expound of Danny's faithfulness whenever they can? I, too, have thought these men to be soulsavers, yet they hold hands with the very person who has done harm to so many people.

How many pastors would dare to get involved in the downfall of another?

(I know, I know - Dan isn't a pastor - but plays the role.)

Posted by: justme Oct 12 2006, 09:29 PM

QUOTE(husbandoftheyear @ Oct 12 2006, 07:31 PM) □

How many pastors would dare to get involved in the downfall of another?

(I know, I know - Dan isn't a pastor - but plays the role.)

It occurs to me that we would do well to remember that there is a "SHAKING" coming, ...soon. The children of God are going to be moved to take a stand for God, through Jesus.

Ever since the "Adventist Movement" began in the mid 19th century there have been "leaders" who are willing to let Achan's remain in the camp". God requires a purified church to become His Bride. We are told that here will be shaking, not only in the SDA church but in Christendom at large.

I have a sneaking suspicion that the third and fourth generation Adventists will see the end of "compromises" with God. We need to stop playing "Let's Make A Deal" with God, and get down to scripture and prayer.

Alone with God! We are not saved as a 'body' nor as a denomination. We are saved individually. Those who have a working relationship with Jesus as the One to Whom we are "Engaged to Marry", are the ones He is coming back for.

That's why the call, "Come out of her, my people"! His people are coming out of her, now, but will soon come in the thousands. When the Holy Spirit has a people ready to accept these "baby Christians" without making fun of them, without sneering at their jewelry, and other things that one can grow and mature into, as the Holy Spirit leads their hearts, THEN and only then will reform come, and the sophistication and headiness will give unto themselves. But God will have a Bride that will proclaim a "primitive gospel" to all the world. "Just the acts, man"!

The shaking will come as a result of the NEW converts who are on fire for God. The rockin'-chair adventists will be truly taxed to understand this new enthusiasm. Some 'old-timers' will leave our church, others will shout "It's about time! But the Laodiceans will be replaced by the "remnant". A truly thrilling vision to behold!

Those who have been covering their own sins and making excuses for their problems will fall away. Some have always blamed others for their problems, and who act the role of a victim, will fall away first. They have or so long failed to accept the need for repentance and confession that they have actually driven away the Holy Spirit from their lives.

Without the Holy Spirit in the life we don't know right from wrong and certainly don't have The Comforter here to tell us how to overcome the sin. When sin in one's life no longer appears to be sin, we have lost our comforter", the Holy Spirit.

When we sin against the Holy Spirit there is no turning back. Only God know when that happens in one's life. That soul spends it's time looking for people to take advantage of, someone to dominate, someone to abuse, someone to call his "The Anointed One".

It happened to Pharaoh when he refused to yield to the God of Moses. God hardened Pharaoh's heart. Pharaoh was told the he was a God. (Christian Science went THAT far back?) Clay hardens when it no longer has any water coming to it. Pharaoh refused to soften his heart, God (as in the Holy Spirit) was told, by Pharaoh, to stop trying to reach Pharaoh's heart. God withdrew and Pharaoh's son died, Israel walked out of Egypt. When 'the defiant one', Pharaoh, tried to over power God's deliverance of His children, Pharaoh and all his forces drowned.

It is an awesome thing to go against God and His written word, but the ultimate sin is to harden one's heart against The Holy Spirit. And refuse to admit the sin in one's life.

Pray that all God's children will "Stand up, stand up for Jesus, you soldiers of the cross.."

Everybody sing it, ... ever wonder why they don't sing this one anymore?

---

Posted by: meadbd Oct 12 2006, 11:04 PM

[quote name='justme' date='Oct 12 2006, 10:29 PM' post='156641']

It occurs to me that we would do well to remember that there is a "SHAKING" coming, ...soon. The children of God are going to be moved to take a stand for God, through Jesus.

=====

Actually, the "SHAKING" is not coming...It IS HERE!...and has been here for some time. We are clearly in the 'time of the end'.

Let Jesus be the joy of our heart today and reveal His love to others.

Bill

---

Posted by: Ralph Oct 12 2006, 11:17 PM

QUOTE(Uncle Sam @ Oct 11 2006, 07:28 PM)

I also understand many don't believe Danny was chosen and the miracle stories are made up. If that is true, why do people not speak out while they are enjoying the perks of being with Danny? Why wait until you have a falling out with him? That is where the credibility comes in....if someone had the courage, (because it is the right thing to do) to tell what Danny is doing while they are in his good graces than I believe the GC would have to listen....

I don't think it was just a case of enjoying the perks of being with Danny that prevented anyone from speaking out. It was just a case of no one checking things out. In any large company it is normal for rumors to be floating around. Employees trust that their boss knows what he is doing and are usually more concerned about their own problems than they are with some rumor. But when something major goes wrong, then people start asking questions. It is easy afterwards to look back and see that things were wrong for a long time. Foresight is not so clear.

Look at the tough time that Barbara Kerr had. Even if she was working closely with both Danny and Linda, she was confused. Things weren't as clear then as they seem now. Thank you so much for speaking out. I am so proud of you.

I wish I could chat with Linda's daughter and tell her how proud I am of her for writing that statement. Probably that was the most difficult thing that she ever did, and took real courage. A person who is being treated the way Linda's daughter was treated usually has questions. "What's wrong with me ? What did I do wrong? Did I act inappropriately for him to do what he did? Is it my fault? I am sure I am the only one...." (An abused person looks inward and often is not able to see the true dynamics of the situation.)

I hope each of us can be here to give support for the people who are having a rough time right now. When we are in the middle of a mess like some of the readers have been, it is difficult to believe that there are good people -- people who really care. Right now so many people need a transfusion of hope.

---

Posted by: Johann Oct 13 2006, 06:03 AM

QUOTE(Ralph @ Oct 13 2006, 07:17 AM)

I don't think it was just a case of enjoying the perks of being with Danny that prevented anyone from speaking out. It was just a case of no one checking things out. In any large company it is normal for rumors to be floating around. Employees trust that their boss knows what he is doing and are usually more concerned about their own problems than they are with some rumor. But when something major goes wrong, then people start asking questions. It is easy afterwards to look back and see that things were wrong for a long time. Foresight is not so clear.

Look at the tough time that Barbara Kerr had. Even if she was working closely with both Danny and Linda, she was confused. Things weren't as clear then as they seem now. Thank you so much for speaking out. I am so proud of you.

I wish I could chat with Linda's daughter and tell her how proud I am of her for writing that statement. Probably that was the most difficult thing that she ever did, and took real courage. A person who is being treated the way Linda's daughter was treated usually has questions. "What's wrong with me ? What did I do wrong? Did I act inappropriately for him to do what he did? Is it my fault? I am sure I am the only one...." (An abused person looks inward and often is not able to see the true dynamics of the situation.)

I hope each of us can be here to give support for the people who are having a rough time right now. When we are in the middle of a mess like some of the readers have been, it is difficult to believe that there are good people -- people who really care. Right now so many people need a transfusion of hope.

Ralph, I sure appreciate what you are saying here, and I can assure you that at least Linda appreciates it too. Linda does not normally read anything on the net herself, but I made sure she could read what you had written. . .

---

Posted by: lurker Oct 13 2006, 06:51 AM

QUOTE(Johann @ Oct 13 2006, 07:03 AM)

Ralph, I sure appreciate what you are saying here, and I can assure you that at least Linda appreciates it too. Linda does not normally read anything on the net herself, but I made sure she could read what you had written. . .

This makes me feel bad that others have expressed how much admiration they feel for Linda's daughter also yet I have not said anything. Probably for each person that speaks up and says they appreciate her boldness, there are many who feel great that she has taken back the power in this situation. I would say to her, "You go girl! You rock!"

---

Posted by: Aunt B Oct 13 2006, 07:39 AM

QUOTE(Ralph @ Oct 13 2006, 12:17 AM)

Look at the tough time that Barbara Kerr had. Even if she was working closely with both Danny and Linda, she was confused. Things weren't as clear then as they seem now. Thank you so much for speaking out. I am so proud of you.

I wish I could chat with Linda's daughter and tell her how proud I am of her for writing that statement. Probably that was the most difficult thing that she ever did, and took real courage. A person who is being treated the way Linda's daughter was treated usually has questions. "What's wrong with me ? What did I do wrong? Did I act inappropriately for him to do what he did? Is it my fault? I am sure I am the only one...." (An abused person looks inward and often is not able to see the true dynamics of the situation.)

I hope each of us can be here to give support for the people who are having a rough time right now. When we are in the middle of a mess like some of the readers have been, it is difficult to believe that there are good people -- people who really care. Right now so many people need a transfusion of hope.

This is all so true, and more of us need to communicate our support. Johann, please tell Linda and Alyssa here is a lot of love out here for them.

---

Posted by: Shannon Oct 13 2006, 11:44 PM

Someone I feel has been left out of this equation and needs to be considered is Dan's current wife's daughter (or children?). I know she has at least one young school-aged daughter. We can only hope and pray that she will escape the horror of a grown man who is supposed to play the role of father, protector, comforter and, most importantly, an image of God for her, coming into her bedroom in the middle of the night. I think of her often, as I happened to glimpse her at the spring 3ABN campmeeting (and before I knew ALL of the details I now know). A very pretty young girl. I hope Brandy's eyes will not be so filled with stars and wool that she will not see the signs. Please, please join me in praying for them.

Lord God, we know you are a Friend foremost of children and we know that this child is Yours. You love and value her infinitely. Lord, we pray that You will place a hedge of protection about her, so that no attempt to hurt her may prevail. Surround her always with warrior angels whose fiery swords will stay the enemy, yea wound him for trying. We pray that his every attempt will be met with personal suffering for himself, not just inconvenience or frustration. Father, be with this mother, who cannot have truly known what kind of man she was bringing into her daughter's life and her own. Help her be ever vigilant and watchful, taking special care to warn her daughter against men who would take advantage of her. Help her to be a praying mother. Remind her of her responsibility to her child(ren) first and foremost. Finally, Father, if the unspeakable has already happened, grant wisdom and courage to these hearts, determination, too. Help them stand up, get out, speak out. Thank you for granting us a portion of Your power. Help us to use it wisely. Thank you for hearing and answering our prayers. In Jesus' name we pray, Amen.

---

Posted by: Daryl Fawcett Oct 14 2006, 04:51 AM

Remember how they trumped up false accusations against Christ in hopes of sending Him to the cross?

The innocent Son of God allowed this to happen to Him for a reason.

God is obviously allowing this to happen to Linda and to others for a reason, however, Christ rose victoriously from the dead, and He will return victoriously to the sinful planet to redeem His saints.

I also believe that good will come out of this as it did with Joseph. After he was falsely accused and sent to prison for several years, Joseph was later released from prison and was second to the Pharaoh himself.

So hang in there everybody, just as Joseph hung in there.

---

Posted by: JustTana Oct 14 2006, 09:10 PM

QUOTE(Shannon @ Oct 14 2006, 01:44 AM) □

Someone I feel has been left out of this equation and needs to be considered is Dan's current wife's daughter (or children?). I know she has at least one young school-aged daughter. We can only hope and pray that she will escape the horror of a grown man who is supposed to play the role of father, protector, comforter and, most importantly, an image of God for her, coming into her bedroom in the middle of the night. I think of her often, as I happened to glimpse her at the spring 3ABN campmeeting (and before I knew ALL of the details I now know). A very pretty young girl. I hope Brandy's eyes will not be so filled with stars and wool that she will not see the signs. Please, please join me in praying for them.

Lord God, we know you are a Friend foremost of children and we know that this child is Yours. You love and value her infinitely. Lord, we pray that You will place a hedge of protection about her, so that no attempt to hurt her may prevail. Surround her always with warrior angels whose fiery swords will stay the enemy, yea wound him for trying. We pray that his every attempt will be met with personal suffering for himself, not just inconvenience or frustration. Father, be with this mother, who cannot have truly known what kind of man she was bringing into her daughter's life and her own. Help her be ever vigilant and watchful, taking special care to warn her daughter against men who would take advantage of her. Help her to be a praying mother. Remind her of her responsibility to her child(ren) first and foremost. Finally, Father, if the unspeakable has already happened, grant wisdom and courage to these hearts, determination, too. Help them stand up, get out, speak out. Thank you for granting us a portion of Your power. Help us to use it wisely. Thank you for hearing and answering our prayers. In Jesus' name we pray, Amen.

Thank you, Shannon, for such a specific prayer for these little girls. It is also my prayer and I could not have put it more beautifully than you did.

JT

---

Posted by: tall73 Oct 19 2006, 01:06 PM

QUOTE(inga @ Oct 5 2006, 10:36 AM) □

It is true that "brethren" are not to go to law against each other. However, the biblical precedent is clear that, if all the allegations are true, Danny should long ago have been disfellowshipped for his sexual misconduct and would therefore no longer be a "brother in the church."
Indeed!!!

For 3ABN to even request such a "hearing" is to attempt to intimidate her and thus re-abuse her.

Is there a direct correlation between going to law in a dispute and going to the authorities in a criminal case? The case in Corinth appears to be more of a civil law suit. They were taking matters to judges to decide when the church had authority to rule in such trivial cases.

God established the authorities to punish the wrongdoer, according to Romans 13, and the text already cited in Peter's epistle. We are not to take vengeance and are to leave it to God's justice. But the role of the government is to "bear the sword."

If someone is criminally abusing people (which can be established in court if so), then they need to be prosecuted in my view.

Once the criminal courts have found them guilty it is pretty easy for the local church to make a case for disfellowshipping.

At the same time the pastor and church do play a role. They play a pastoral role to all involved. And they may try to avoid a protracted case by seeing whether the person really is guilty and asking them to come forward if they are.

But to me God establishes the governing authorities for a reason, and there is no conflict in taking criminal matters to the government.

We leave final judgment to God. We forgive for the hurts caused to us. But we also recognize the penalties for sin in this life, and that people need protection from those who do harm. Therefore the government has a legitimate role in punishing the wrong doer.

The original purpose of Paul's letter was to encourage submission to the government. However, it clearly outlines its role as structured by God.

---

Posted by: tall73 Oct 19 2006, 01:17 PM

[color=#3366FF]1Co 6:1 When one of you has a grievance against another, does he dare go to law before the unrighteous instead of the saints?

1Co 6:2 Or do you not know that the saints will judge the world? And if the world is to be judged by you, are you incompetent to try trivial cases?

1Co 6:3 Do you not know that we are to judge angels? How much more, then, matters pertaining to this life!

1Co 6:4 So if you have such cases, why do you lay them before those who have no standing in the church?

1Co 6:5 I say this to your shame. Can it be that there is no one among you wise enough to settle a dispute between the brothers, 1Co 6:6 but brother goes to law against brother, and that before unbelievers?

1Co 6:7 To have lawsuits at all with one another is already a defeat for you. Why not rather suffer wrong? Why not rather be defrauded?

1Co 6:8 But you yourselves wrong and defraud--even your own brothers!

It appears that the issues in Corinth were primarily financial "defraudment" or disputes over money. That is a little different than sexual crimes, etc.

The church could settle a dispute and have restitution made. But they did not have authority to put to death, which was the work of the government.

---

Posted by: jodi Oct 21 2006, 06:32 PM

Look at the tough time that Barbara Kerr had. Even if she was working closely with both Danny and Linda, she was confused. Things weren't as clear then as they seem now. Thank you so much for speaking out. I am so proud of you

Yes, Barbara did have a very hard time trying to figure out what Danny was all about initially - but soon his 'real colors' became apparant. I had personal experience with this man also and finally, wrote him a letter asking him if anything he ever said was, in fact, the truth, because I knew personally, everything he said about Barbara was nothing but lies. He never responded to my email to him.

I am glad that with the investigation nearing its completion, the truth will come out and it can't come too soon for this person. Danny has done alot of damage and hurt alot of people and it is time that he be held accountable to all. THAT is Biblical. Restitution is Biblical, and oh, how he needs to make restitution....I am counting the days, hours and minutes!!

---

Posted by: sonshineonme Oct 21 2006, 06:49 PM

QUOTE(jodi @ Oct 21 2006, 05:32 PM) □

Look at the tough time that Barbara Kerr had. Even if she was working closely with both Danny and Linda, she was confused. Things weren't as clear then as they seem now. Thank you so much for speaking out. I am so proud of you

Yes, Barbara did have a very hard time trying to figure out what Danny was all about initially - but soon his 'real colors' became apparant. I had personal experience with this man also and finally, wrote him a letter asking him if anything he ever said was, in fact, the truth, because I knew personally, everything he said about Barbara was nothing but lies. He never responded to my email to him.

I am glad that with the investigation nearing its completion, the truth will come out and it can't come too soon for this person. Danny has done alot of damage and hurt alot of people and it is time that he be held accountable to all. THAT is Biblical. Restitution is Biblical, and oh, how he needs to make restitution....I am counting the days, hours and minutes!!

Remember to pray for those that may stand in place to hear the "truths", that they will do the right thing. I personally (and honestly) do not have faith in them, that is my issue (pray for me too □), but the most important thing to me is that God knows the truth, and that man will fail us time and time again, in the most dispicable ways even, so please pray that God's will be done and that justice can happen now too, not just when Jesus returns.

---

Posted by: seraph|m Feb 4 2007, 08:16 PM

QUOTE(tall73 @ Oct 19 2006, 02:06 PM) □

Is there a direct correlation between going to law in a dispute and going to the authorities in a criminal case? The case in Corinth appears to be more of a civil law suit. They were taking matters to judges to decide when the church had authority to rule in such trivial cases.

God established the authorities to punish the wrongdoer, according to Romans 13, and the text already cited in Peter's epistle. We are not to take vengeance and are to leave it to God's justice. But the role of the government is to "bear the sword."

If someone is criminally abusing people (which can be established in court if so), then they need to be prosecuted in my view.

Once the criminal courts have found them guilty it is pretty easy for the local church to make a case for disfellowshipping.

At the same time the pastor and church do play a role. They play a pastoral role to all involved. And they may try to avoid a protracted case by seeing whether the person really is guilty and asking them to come forward if they are.

But to me God establishes the governing authorities for a reason, and there is no conflict in taking criminal matters to the government.

We leave final judgment to God. We forgive for the hurts caused to us. But we also recognize the penalties for sin in this life, and that people need protection from those who do harm. Therefore the government has a legitimate role in punishing the wrong doer.

The original purpose of Paul's letter was to encourage submission to the government. However, it clearly outlines its role as structured by God.

Well said...

---

Posted by: Rosyroi Feb 4 2007, 09:20 PM

---

QUOTE(calvin @ Oct 4 2006, 06:23 PM)

Somebody help me here, but I believe 3abn started in the mid-80's? That gives us 20+ years of stuff to talk about. Danny started 3abn with Linda as his wife. Whatever happen with his frist wife is out of scope.

Wow! my memory isen't as bad as I thought it was. I thought that was what one of the Admin stated in another post. I just don't remember where I saw it.

---

Posted by: SoulEspresso May 6 2007, 06:25 PM

I can't believe I hadn't read this thread before, though I'd seen allusions to the information.

I'm ashamed to be an employee of this denomination. I can understand them not making this stuff public, for their own sake and Alyssa's -- but in God's name why hasn't the denomination publicly disassociated itself from 3ABN? Even if this were the only issue it would be enough.

---

Posted by: mozart May 6 2007, 06:32 PM

i recommend that he be sentenced to life doing ALL the "clean up" after Barbara and Linda's new cooking show.   rofl

---

QUOTE(jodi @ Oct 21 2006, 05:32 PM)

Look at the tough time that Barbara Kerr had. Even if she was working closely with both Danny and Linda, she was confused. Things weren't as clear then as they seem now. Thank you so much for speaking out. I am so proud of you

Yes, Barbara did have a very hard time trying to figure out what Danny was all about initially - but soon his 'real colors' became apparant. I had personal experience with this man also and finally, wrote him a letter asking him if anything he ever said was, in fact, the truth, because I knew personally, everything he said about Barbara was nothing but lies. He never responded to my email to him.

I am glad that with the investigation nearing its completion, the truth will come out and it can't come too soon for this person. Danny has done alot of damage and hurt alot of people and it is time that he be held accountable to all. THAT is Biblical. Restitution is Biblical, and oh, how he needs to make restitution....I am counting the days, hours and minutes!!

---

Posted by: watchbird May 6 2007, 06:59 PM

---

QUOTE(SoulEspresso @ May 6 2007, 08:25 PM)

I can't believe I hadn't read this thread before, though I'd seen allusions to the information.

I'm ashamed to be an employee of this denomination. I can understand them not making this stuff public, for their own sake and Alyssa's -- but in God's name why hasn't the denomination publicly disassociated itself from 3ABN? Even if this were the only issue it would be enough.

This is what a lot of us have been saying for nearly three years now. The answer is extremely complex. Keep roaming the forum... you will doubtless find other threads that may surprise you and that you can bump to the top. You may even find a few that are locked so that you can't bump them to the top. In that case all you can do is to give the url of either the thread or some particular post in the thread to which you wish to draw our attention.

I'm not sure if this thread drew attention to the "through locked doors" vignette that was posted... I believe in one of the "history" threads. But if you can find it... that throws some interesting light on this particular topic.

Thank you for bringing this one to the top. And please know that it did indeed have some effect on many in high places" even though not the complete effect that we would like to have seen. Still, as with other things in this saga, we have learned that each delay brings new revelations... thus in retrospect we can see God's hand holding back the final acts of the drama until all has been sufficiently revealed.

If you noticed the dates... the Statement which began this thread was dated July 7, 2006, yet the thread was not begun until October 4, 2006. The reason for this time lag is partially explained in post #9, where I gave a bit of the history of this document before it ever reached the BSDA forum.

In this post I referenced another thread that I had begun on August 13, 2006, <http://www.blacksda.com/forums/index.php?s=&showtopic=10422&view=findpost&p=144786> which was the two hour special, "The Battle Is The Lord's", starring Danny Shelton, John Lomacang, Mollie Steinson, Moses Arimo, Shelley Quin, and Walter Thompson. This was the program in which they attempted to do "damage control" in regard to the Statement by Alyssa.

You may wish to bump that one to the top also.

---

Posted by: Treniece May 7 2007, 03:09 PM

Maybe DS has somewhat of a split personality, meaning he is able to cloak on a garb of spirituality that seems so genuine irrespective of the fact that he has major personality faults.